—F. H. SWEET

DESSERTS THAT NOURISH
AS WELL AS PLEASE

Now that cooler weather is here our menus must contain a greater number of calories, as it is the calories which furnish the heat that keeps our bodies at an even temperature the year round. Good, nourishing food is the only real basis for good health.

One way—and a good way—to add to the number of calories your meals contain without adding another dish or course, is to use shredded cocoanut freely in desserts and other dishes. Cocoanut is one of the most nourishing of all foods: It contains more than three thousand calories to the pound, or as much food value as two pounds of eggs (about 20 eggs), four pounds of fish or milk, four and a half pounds of potatoes, five pounds of bananas or six pounds of apples.

The right way to regard cocoanut, therefore, is as a food and not merely as a sweet. Remember that if you have a dish made with cocoanut you are adding substantially to the food value of your meal. Below are given directions for making desserts that are at once delicious and nourishing. But in order to get the full value of the cocoanut and its rich flavor, be sure to get the shredded, fresh-keeping kind, packed in "eversealed" containers which preserve the good cocoanut taste indefinitely.

Cocoanut and Date Pudding

1 cup corn meal
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups sour milk
1 cup fresh-keeping cocoanut
1/2 cup dates, stoned and halved.
Mix meal, flour salt and soda; add sugar, butter, milk cocoanut and dates. Pour into a greased mould, cover with a greased paper and steam steadily for 4 hours. Turn out and serve at once with hot milk or any sweet sauce.

Cocoanut Ambrosia

2 rounds chopped canned pineapple
2 cups fresh-keeping cocoanut
1 cup chopped mixed nut meats
4 oranges
2 bananas
1 cup candied cherries
whipped cream
Skin and dice the bananas and oranges. Put the ingredients in layers in a pretty glass dish. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

Cocoanut Birthday Cake

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
1/2 cup fresh-keeping cocoanut
red currant or raspberry jam
Beat butter and sugar until creamy, add yolks of eggs, well beaten milk, cocoanut, whites of eggs beaten to a stiff froth, flour sifted with baking powder, and then add extract. Mix and bake in two layers. Cool and put together with sugarless cocoanut frosting made as follows: Beat one egg white until stiff, and add two tablespoons honey or syrup and as much cocoanut as it will hold (about one-third of a cup). Spread the top of the cake with red jam and sprinkle over with cocoanut.

Cocoanut Blanc Manger
with Lemon Sauce

4 cups milk
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup sugar
3 egg-whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup fresh-keeping cocoanut
1 teaspoonful vanilla extract
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon butter
2 cups hot water
1 egg-yolk
1 lemon
Scald milk, add cornstarch mixed with sugar, cook ten minutes, then add cocoanut, vanilla and whites of eggs beaten with salt. Pour into a wet mold and set aside to chill. Turn out, decorate with cocoanut and serve with lemon sauce made as follows: Mix cornstarch with sugar, add water gradually and cook eight minutes, stirring constantly. Add grated rind and strained juice of lemon, butter and yolk of egg. Cool before serving

Cocoanut Prune Pie

1 lb. prunes
1/2 cup sugar
tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup fresh-keeping cocoanut
pie crust
Wash and cook until soft; stone and rub them through a sieve; add cocoanut, sugar and lemon juice. Mix and turn into a pastryline pie plate, cover with pastry and bake in hot oven. Sprinkle with cocoanut and serve hot or cold.

FARMERS NEED INTERNATIONAL CO-OPERATION

Cooperative marketing, one of the two principal recipes recommended by Eugene Meyer, Jr., and Frank W. Mondell, members of the War Finance Board, for the amelioration of agricultural conditions in the west, has been in vogue for a long time and was organized by the farmers themselves. In the current season, it is estimated, some 75,000,000 or 80,000,000 bushels of wheat—between 10 and 12 per cent of the crop—was sold by the producers through these cooperatives.

What is true of wheat is true also of other products. The Department of Agriculture, in a statement issued on November 5, declared that "approximately 10,000 farmer cooperative organizations with a membership of more than 1,000,000 farmers are now actively operating in the United States." In the next year or two—if the agricultural situation shall have improved and the farmer makes a success as the vender of his own products—Republican politicians will be claiming that the cooperative plan of marketing wheat and other crops is a Republican invention.

While these "cooperatives" are fairly successful, it is realized even by their members and well-wishers that they can only take advantage of a market which exists, and can not create demand. It is the lack of a steady, profitable market abroad to which the present condition of wheat growers of the country is attributable. Most of Europe is in bankruptcy and practically all of it in disorder that runs the gamut from peaceful revolution to bloody civil war. Production has been curtailed, exchanges are unstable, hundreds of thousands in Central Europe are either reduced to partial rations or actually starving.

Only cooperation of the leading nations of the world, including the United States, can restore peace and prosperity in Europe, just as they alone could have prevented the present chaos if they had acted in concert. Until Europe shall have undergone economic reconstruction her buying power must remain impaired and precarious. It would be a good investment in behalf of the American people—to put it only on that basis—for the United States to take a share in the rehabilitation of Europe, if only with the object of participating in the resultant benefits.

Cooperation among the farmers of the West is a sound and salutary program which ought to be encouraged. Cooperation between the United States and the European nations is equally advantageous. American agriculture would profit in both cases. It is for that reason that the farmers of the country, while cooperating among themselves, also want their Government to cooperate with the peoples of Europe.

TEMPLE, TEXAS, TO STAGE LIFE-SAVING CONTESTThree-Day School of Instruction to Precede Championship Meet.

Two important life-saving events are scheduled for mid-winter in Temple, Texas, as a result of the life-saving campaign conducted by the Southwestern Division, American Red Cross, in Texas during the summer just ended. This will be a school of instruction for physical directors of high schools, Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations, and state normal schools. Between 75 and 100 will be in attendance from all parts of the state and the school will last three days, December 27, 28 and 29.

The second event is the state Red Cross Life Saving Championship meet in February or March. A trophy, to be known as the Campbell trophy, will be presented to the Red Cross chapter in the state meet to which the winning team belongs.

The Life Saving Instruction course will be conducted by Captain Joseph S. Law, Assistant Director of Life Saving in the Southwestern Division, American Red Cross. Law also is busy organizing life saving teams and working in conjunction with the physical departments of the various colleges and universities in the division. He reports enthusiastic co-operation on the part of all the universities which he has had an opportunity to approach on the subject thus far.

TEXAS PHYSICIANS ENDORSE
RED CROSS HEALTH DRIVE

The Medical Societies of Eastland and Comanche Counties, Texas, in a joint session at Cl- Co, Texas, passed a resolution pledging the moral and professional support of the members of these two organizations to the health service covered by the American Red Cross among the youths and school children of Eastland County. Twenty-eight physicians were present and voted unanimously for the resolution, which is here given:

"Be it resolved by Eastland and Comanche Counties Medical Societies, held in joint session, that we, the members of the above named organizations, do hereby endorse and promise our moral and professional support to the Health Service Campaign now being planned by the Executive Officers of the American Red Cross of Eastland County among the youths and school children of the county as described by Mrs. J. B. Nunn of Eastland City, Texas, and Mrs. Philip Pettit of Cisco, Texas, and that we pledge the above named officers of the American Red Cross and the Nutritional Expert Nurse to soon come into the county our very best efforts and service gratis in the furtherance of the work of meeting health problems among the school children of the county.

(Signed) W. H. Guy, M. D., Carbon, President.

Joseph W. Gregory, M. D., Cisco, Secretary."

SEVENTY YEARS "YOUNG"

The oldest "Junior" Red Crosser in the United States is Dr. Elliott Smith of Kansas City, Missouri, who is 70 years young. Dr. Smith is port scout master of the Kansas City, Missouri, Boy Scouts and has been active in Sea Scout work for several years. He took the original Red Cross Life Saving test in 1919 at the Kansas City Y. M. C. A., and is an expert swimmer, canoeist and life saver. He is Chairman of the First Aid Committee of the Kansas City, Missouri, Red Cross Chapter.

RED CROSS NURSE GETS QUILT FROM INDIANS

A red, white and blue quilt was the unique present which has been given to Miss Mary D. Beyer, Public Health Nurse for the Okfuskee County Chapter of the Red Cross with headquarters at Okemah, Oklahoma, by several full-blooded Creek Indians. Miss Beyer comes constantly in touch with the members of this tribe in her work throughout the county.

It is not easy to establish friendly relations with the Indians for they are suspicious. On one of her visits to a rural school, the nurse discovered a small boy of 11 who was not doing well in school. His parents came to the school to interview the nurse. The father thought the boy had stomach trouble because he would not eat regularly. A diet of oatmeal, eggs and milk was outlined. The father, not quite sure of the plan, said, "When Lee, he not want to eat breakfast, make him." And the nurse replied that that was the proper thing to do. "Hm-hm, I see," said the father. Now Lee is eating regularly and making vast improvement in his scholarship.

Miss Beyer has under observation an Indian squaw who is worth $3,000,000, but the squaw seems to have no idea how important her fortune might make her.

BROADENS SCOPE
OF SCHOOL WORKSchool Children of America Establish Correspondence With Schools in Other Countries.

An opportunity to greatly broaden and enlarge the scope of work of the school children of America which was opened by the action of the last annual convention of the National Educational Association in San Francisco, is being developed by the Junior Red Cross of America. A resolution endorsing in very positive terms the international school correspondence of the Junior American Red Cross and urging schools in this country to develop this correspondence as far as and as thoroughly as possible, was passed by the Association, and educators of America now are co-operating in the work.

A number of schools in America on their own initiative already have organized chapters of the Junior Red Cross and established correspondence with schools in Albania, Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, France, Holland, Hungary, Italy, Jugoslavia, Poland, Rumania, Scotland, Switzerland, South Africa and New Zealand. In some cases, they are getting most interesting replies. In a few instances such as Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, all of which are American dependencies, there is an exchange of correspondence material which is very helpful in working up the letters going to the foreign children.

This work, so far, has been carried on chiefly in the primary and intermediate grades of the public, parochial and private schools where Junior Red Cross chapters have been organized, but all grades may participate in the preparation of the material, according to the instructions sent out by the Junior Red Cross Service in Washington, and they include class letters, illustrated or not, snapshots and postcards; maps, drawings, photographs, descriptions of interiors of homes and schools, types of dress, games, industries and industrial processes, cutouts, hand work—in fact, almost anything that one set of children is interested in, because it is regarded as a certainty that if children of one nation find something interesting, children of another nation, because they are children, will be interested in that same thing.

Portfolios are a good part of the correspondence and such portfolios give motive for study and description of America and American life on the part of the senders while they stimulate the recipients to a like interest in the affairs and happenings in their own country. The benefit thereof is manifold. Children who hate geography find their interest in this dry study awakened by wanting to know just where their letters are going. History, also distasteful to many, is made a pleasant pastime for the same reason, and languages become absorbingly interesting because the American children want to know something about the difference in the words which they use and those which their correspondents across the sea use to mean the same thing.

Educationally, all this is of high value, in the opinion of American educators. Internationally, it is of still greater value, in the opinion of those who are promoting the undertaking, because it definitely promotes international understanding and friendship and leads, therefore, into international peace. To the school, the teacher and the community, it presents a new line of endeavor and a new opportunity for broadening the viewpoint. On the whole, educators all over the country believe that it is the longest step forward for international understanding which has been taken in many years.

BABIES GET $2.00 PRIZE
WHILE PIGS BRING $40

Babies amount to little in some parts of the United States according to the following report of a Red Cross public health nurse which has been presented to the Director of Nursing Service of the Southwestern Division:
"I was invited to be a judge at a baby show held at one of the county fairs. My chairman went with me and I think we both got the surprise of our lives, something I shall never forget. We arrived at noon. After dinner we were taken to the fair grounds, and eventually introduced to an elderly gentleman (probation officer) who directed us to what was called Floral Hall. Then we discovered that our booth was in an annex. We were invited into a room, which was dusty and full of cobwebs. I had a broken window, one long bench with its legs directed east and west, an old scale with the glass broken off, a shopping basket about a foot and a half long which caught every baby in the nape of the neck, and one tiny teddy bear blanket. That was the equipment for the baby show. I sent in a hurry call to a doctor's office for some sheets, which helped a little. We weighed 38 children and awarded ribbons, and after looking through the catalogue, discovered that $2.00 was to be the first prize for the babies, while $40.00 was the first prize for the pigs."

OLD-TIMER CALLS AT WHITE HOUSE

A car of 1903 arrived at the White House the other day, after making the trip from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, the driver, A. Scherff, carrying a message from the mayor of Philadelphia to the President. Scherff has covered 16 states and hopes to make all the states before the first of the year, carrying messages from the different mayors and governors.

PUTTING CHAINS ON IS EASY JOB

Unless Method of Attaching Is Practiced a Bit, It Is Usually Awkward Process.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

Very often it is only that the automobile owner is not sufficiently acquainted with the method of attaching chains that causes him to take a chance when the street or pavement is wet, and not put them on. Unless the method of attaching chains is practiced a bit, it is an awkward process, and as such an automobilist rather than spend a number of minutes fumbling with what he considers to be badly fitting attachments, will run along and may meet with a serious accident.

Practice Is Helpful.
The first couple of times that chains are put on it may take a considerable while to do it, and the motorist may even believe, although he has the indicated size for his tires, that the things are not the right dimension. A little practice, however, will make attaching chains a matter of only a moment or so, and this is time that any one can well afford to spend. In putting on chains it used to be thought necessary to jack up the wheels, but now, of course, it is realized that this is not needed.

The best way is to lay the chains over the wheel with the hook part toward the rear and tuck in the other end snugly underneath the wheel in front.

When both chains are in position thus, the car is started and run ahead only a foot or so. This pulls the part of the chain that was tucked in under the front wheel taut and leaves some extending beyond the point where the wheel touches the ground. It also tightens up the hook end.

Then it is only a simple matter of joining up the ends. Of course, it is suggested that the end on the inside of the wheel be hooked up first. This can be done by hand and the chains will fit as a rule tightly enough.

Learn to Put on Chains.
By way of conclusion it is earnestly recommended that a little time be given to learning how to put on chains. It was the experience of the writer that what at first was a laborious and bungling process became after a couple of trials a matter of seconds only, with the result that "at first drop of rain" the chains go on, as they should.

DRY BATTERY FAILS RAPIDLY

In Many Instances Real Reason Is That They Are Not Protected From Moisture.

Car owners who use dry batteries often have occasion to lament the brief existence of these devices. In many cases the real reason why the dry batteries fail so rapidly is simply because they are not protected from moisture, dirt and excessive vibration. It is easy to make a stout wooden box, fitted with a cover and permanent terminal connections. The sides, bottom, ends and cover are made of hardwood three-eighths of an inch thick. The box may be made to accommodate as many cells as desired, either in single or double rows. The various parts of the box are screwed together and the inside is given an even coat of melted paraffin wax to render it moisture proof. The cover should be made to fit flush with the box sides.

AUTOMOBILE HINTS

Overheating burns up the oil, causing friction, loss of power and scored cylinders.

From 1900 to 1918 the number of automobiles in use in the United States increased 1,700 per cent.

When timing the ignition of an engine it is necessary to know when the piston reaches the top of the stroke.

GASOLINE TO BE PREFERRED

Better Than Kerosene for Washing Bearings, Cleaning Brakes and Running Board.

For all cleaning purposes, including washing of bearings, cleaning brakes and running boards, gasoline is always to be preferred to kerosene for the reason that it evaporates directly after completing the job. Gasoline, however, should not be used for external cleaning of the engine; and kerosene that is used for this purpose should only be applied when the power plant is cold.

Any opening in the valve tappet compartment when warm air can blow in is likely to result in drying the valve stems and making them stick. Such an opening, when found, can be plugged with felt.

A little scheme that makes it easier to back out of a driveway is to make a little notch in the under side of the steering wheel nearest the driver when the front wheels are in a straight-ahead position. If the driver starts backing straight and keeps the notch in the original position the car ought not to run off its course.

BURGLAR ALARM GUARDS CAR

Audible Signal Connected With Engine When Operated by Any Unauthorized Person.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing a burglar alarm for an automobile, the invention of C. H. Summerhill of Penns Grove, N. J., says:

An object of the invention is the provision of an audible signal connected with the automobile engine

Automobile Burglar Alarm.

Means are included for maintaining the connection between the engine and the signal until the authorized operator unlocks the same.

PLAN TO ADJUST GENERATOR

Good Way to Increase Flow of Current to Battery Is to Tighten the Fan Belt.

A good way to adjust a generator to increase the flow of the current to the battery is to tighten the adjustment of the fan belt which drives the generator. This will speed up the generator and thus increase the output. Another method is by adjusting the tension of the spring on the regulator armature. Increasing the pressure raises the charging rates and decreasing the pressure lowers it.—Automobile Digest.

LOUD CREAK GIVES WARNING

If Noise Is Noticed When Clutch Is Engaged It May Be Due to a Loose Wheel.

If a creak is noticed in a rear wheel when the clutch is engaged it may be due to a loose wheel, provided that the rear axle is of the semi-floating or three-fourths floating type, in which the wheel is not rigidly attached to the axle. In this type the wheels fit on the end of a tapered shaft and is locked tight by a large cottered nut. If the nut is not drawn up fully and the wheel is a trifle loose the axle will turn slightly when power is applied and give rise to an annoying creak. Though the wheel may seem tight upon inspection, an attempt to further tighten the nut may prove the contrary.—Automobile Digest.

Success Is Always On Top Of The Hill

AND CLIMBING IS NEVER EASY

Here, Mr. and Mrs. Public, is the unsweetened reason why some of your families succeed, while others of them fail. Any person, any old bus can travel down hill. It's when they hit the upgrade that the real ones stand out conspicuously.

It is utter folly Mr. Public, to permit yourself or any member of your family to spend all that is earned. You and they can either earn more or spend less, and the probabilities are you will do both when you determine to get away from the multitude and join the chosen few.

And don't be afraid of a small beginning. That account, no matter how small, is welcome and you will receive the same careful and courteous attention that is accorded every patron of this bank.

We always find the better air and the better view from the hill-top to have been worth the climb.

DOUBLE CHRISTENING IN FORD CAR FAMILY

There's been a double christening in the Ford car family.

When the newest member, a smart Sedan with two doors, arrived on the scene, announcement of which is just made, there came with it the question of a name.

For several days the folks just couldn't decide what to call the baby of the family, until, from quite an unexpected source there came the happy suggestion:

"Let's call it Tudor."

And Tudor it was christened, a name quite in keeping with the aristocratic appearance of the new car.

"How about re-naming the other Sedan?" someone asked, and then came the reply:

"We might call it the four-door or
—ah, that's it! Ford—or, Fordor.
Simple and expressive, isn't it?"

So we have two Ford cars with brand new names, the Tudor and the Fordor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Lamaster and children were guests Sunday evening at the H. C. Coffee home, where they were entertained by radio. During the evening Mr. Coffee received over his radio the sermon preached at the First Baptist Church of Schenectady, New York, and the services of the Christian Science Church in Minnesota, and also a sermon delivered at the Lutheran Church in Los Angeles, California.

In the old days of the open range in this country it was no uncommon occurrence for a motorist to hook a steer on his radiator but how things do change. The Canadian Record reports where a car fording the Canadian rammed a steer, who was floating down mid-stream, and as a result came out of the collision with a badly damaged radiator. The steers in that locality must be extremely fond of aquatic sports.

During the last two years, 23,000-000 acres public lands have been taken up by homesteaders. But are they real "homesteaders," or just technically complying with certain forms of law to grab public lands?
In Lincoln's day a "homesteader" meant a family going to make a home on land.

THE BUZZY WAGON

By CLARISSA MACKIE

(© 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"THIS flivvering across country is not as joyful as it sounds," growled Mr. Bellamy, as he munched a dried beef sandwich.

"Don't call my Rolway a 'flivver,'" objected Jack Bellamy. "What is that behind us?" Jack asked.

"A very disreputable car—probably bandits."

It was an ambitious little closed car, much the worse for wear. Suddenly there was a loud report and the Rolway listed a little. Jack stopped the car at the side of the road.

"Tire, front—flat," explained Jack as he got out and removed his coat.

Mr. Bellamy growled inarticulately as he, too, scrambled out. But he paused, petrified, as the shabby little flivver came up and stopped in front of them. A girl's charming face looked out at them. She sat at the wheel.
She was wearing knickers and soft white blouse, with a round hat on her misty dark hair. Beside her sat another girl, fair and blue-eyed, in the same attire.

Mr. Bellamy, at heart a kindly man, beamed upon them and asked huskily:
"Haven't any water on board, have you?"

"I am sorry—we have drinking water, not enough for—"

"Don't want it for the car—dying of thirst," explained Mr. Bellamy.

"The poor thing!" exclaimed the other girl. "I will get it Dorothy."

At the sound of Dorothy's name the head of Jack Bellamy emerged turtle-wise from beneath the car, besmeared with grease and sand, his expectant eyes seeking the dark-haired girl. She saw him at the same moment and paled. His head vanished instantly to reappear at its proper height beside his father.

"Oh, see the pretty man," breathed Helen as she passed Dorothy with a thermos bottle in her hand.

"Idiot," growled Dorothy, wondering what adverse fate had brought her to the same trail with Jack Bellamy, whose erratic father had refused to allow his son to marry a poor, unknown girl. The girl herself, an ambitious art student, was too proud to enter a hostile family, so she had sent Jack away. They had lost sight of each other, and now she and Nina Gray, jogging along in their beloved "buzzy wagon," journeyed from town to town and sketching by the way, had found themselves trailing a gorgeous car that blocked the narrowing road. And it had proved to be the car of Jack's objectionable and objecting parent.

Mr. Bellamy drank deeply from the silver cup again and again. It was a shining cup—Dorothy's christening cup—and bore her name. The horn-rimmed spectacles of Mr. Bellamy peered closely at the inscription.

"Dorothy Meares—Meares—that your name?" he asked sharply.

"Yes," admitted Dorothy, regaining her lost color.

"I knew a Meares. Old friend of mine. We used to hunt in Canada together, long ago. What was your father's name?"

"Nathaniel," she said reluctantly.

Bellamy looked disturbed, and his face softened. "He was my friend, and he has passed away, my dear?"

"Two years ago, at Seattle," she answered sadly.

He nodded. "I heard that. A brave man and a thoroughly honest friend.
I am very glad to meet his daughter.
My name is Bellamy, Angus Bellamy."

"Thank you, Mr. Bellamy. My father always kept your picture in his study, the one in which you were landing a monster trout."

"Right! Jack, come here and meet the daughter of an old friend of mine.
Miss Meares, this is—"

Dorothy's slim form stiffened. "I have met your son, Mr. Bellamy."

"Jack, you never told me, sir." He frowned on Jack.

"Miss Meares is the young lady I wish to marry, dad," he said at last.

"What?" bristled Mr. Bellamy, trying to collect all the astounding facts before him and fit them into the puzzle of the undesirable girl Jack had wanted to marry. "What? What?"

"One of Dorothy's pies," irrelevantly broke in Helen Gray, as she came toward them with a huge flaky apple pie in her hands. "I am starved, and it is twenty miles to the next town—who will have a slice of pie?" She put her things on the running board of the Rolway. She flashed a silver knife and passed pieces of delicious pie around on paper plates.

Mr. Bellamy ate, and mutely passed his plate for more. "Anyone who can make a pie like this . . . the daughter of my best friend . . .
Dorothy, my dear, go and make it up with Jack!"

Dorothy led Jack to the shabby, happy little car that she and Helen owned together. She bent, and swept a kiss at the open door.

"The dear old buzzy-wagon . . .
it brought us right to you!"

"I want to kiss it myself," grinned
Jack, "only it's a pity to waste 'em!"

Modern Requirement.

"Nowadays a man can hardly marry unless he can show the girl two licenses."

"Two licenses?"

"Yes, marriage and motor car."

The New Clerk.

Young Squibb—I want to try on that suit in the window.

Clerk—Sorry, sir; but you'll have to

CROWE SCHOOL NEWS

The Hallowe'en program and pie supper was put over with much success. The program, which was short, occupied only one hour and fifteen minutes time, but each number was snappy and well worth while. To imagine the time of the program as October 31 instead of one week after (as it had to be postponed on account of rainy weather), one could have been in no better place for halloween time. A ghost adorned with buffalo horns met and greeted all the guests and invited all to enter the house, which was richly decorated with orange and black drapes, which held suspending black bats, witchies, owls and black cats. The walls were almost covered with branches of willows, grape vines, apple branches, box elders, cottonwood, elm and tamarack, which the children had gathered from the creek at recesses and noon. The stage was decorated with large pumpkins and jack-o-lanterns. The lights were furnished by jack-o-lanterns and candles. After the program the pies were sold, which consisted of seventeen in number and brought a sum of $37.75. This money will be used for the benefit of the school for such as a dictionary, dictionary stand, floor sweep, crayon, an axe and such small articles as are needed but easily overlooked by those who do not have use of them.

Last week was mostly spent taking examinations. Good grades were made by all the pupils, which shows they are taking much interest in their work and are trying to make the best of the school term. We hope they will continue to keep this up.

Several of the pupils have been absent most of the past week, but have started in with the new week with lots of pep and renewed energy. Edna and Lois Wilkinson report an exceedingly good time at the program and box supper given at the Alfalfa school last Saturday evening. The Alfalfa school has some wide-awake pupils and a teacher who is capable of keeping them awake.

EDITORIAL

A good road begins to wear out from the first instant it is used. It needs constant attention and repair. Little breaks in the road, if repaired now, mean a great saving, whereas if they are left they become large breaks, which mean an enormous expense in the future.

Most road officials are competent, and want to repair the road. A few are indifferent, once the road is built. But no official is either neglectful or of indifferent to the great force of public opinion.

Boys and girls who travel over the new good road, can help. Watch the road. Look out for the bad places. Keep your eyes open for the spot where the surface has "raveled" or worn off, showing the basic rock beneath. Look out for the uneven ridge the "waving" which sometimes occurs in oiled roads. As soon as you see any such spot, note carefully exactly where it is, so that you can describe the location accurately on paper. Then write a letter to the road official who has charge of that stretch of road, and tell him about it.

You may think that a State road official will not pay any attention to your letter. If he is the right kind of a road official—and most of them are such—he will not only pay attention to it, but write and thank you for your good citizenship. Our road officials are normally hard working, intelligent men, who want to repair the road and keep it in condition. If he is glad to get your letter, he will repair the road at once. If he happens not to be the right kind of a man, if he isn't competent, write to him again.

Get John and George and Jack and Alice and Gertrude and Mary to write to him. If he still doesn't pay any attention to it, come to this newspaper, ask for the Editor and tell him about the raveled place. Tell him that you have written the road official—tell him how many times, and the names of all your companions who also wrote. A good newspaper editor has use for such news. He will write the road official himself, and if that individual still doesn't do his duty this newspaper will publish the facts of the raveled place and that the road official was repeatedly told of it. The way that road official will then make speed on repairing that raveled place will be funny!

CIVILIZATION OWES DEBT TO GOOD ROADS

That civilization owes a great debt to the highway builders can be understood by reference to history. The first European highways were those which went out from Rome, that the Roman soldier might have easy and quick access to the remotest bounds of his great empire. With him went law and order. Later, over the highways, went the school master and the college, the education, the institution and its teachers. The missionary of the Cross used the highway, the church spread its doctrine over the highway, and so this day, the great churches, schools, colleges, hospitals, and institutions for the amelioration of the condition of mankind, are found always on, never away from, great highways.

It is the highway which made the city, not the city the highway. It is the highway which made the demand for the railroad, which is but a steel highway for cars of steel. It is the highway over which all freight must move sometime, the highway over which must travel all that is good, noble, desirable in life.

Where good highways are, there is a good civilization. Where are poor highways, are usually ignorance, poverty, disease, lawlessness, lack of culture, poor standards of living, misery.

Investments in highways means investments in civilization.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Greever attended Sunday school at Spearman last Sunday.

Quite a bit of damage is being done to feed stuff in Black community by the ducks. There are so many ducks that it is no trouble at all to kill ten at one shot. This, however, hardly equals the story that came from Perryton that someone had killed a hundred and twenty seven at one shot.

T. T. Keim left for California last Saturday, and it is understood that Mrs. Keim will leave in a few days.

Several duck hunters were out from Spearman and Perryton last Sunday.

No one minds the hunters but iters and other travelers also will, while the road is impassible by Mr. Dekle's place, make a short detour will be appreciated if all duck hunt-instead of taking the fence down. Most of the fences that have been taken down belong to Mrs. Wm. Pearson. BOILED FISH THAT'S GOOD

For a change in preparing fish for supper or in warm weather having cold boiled fish. As this is served with a salad dressing it is really rather like a fish salad, but seems very much more, and, well arranged, is an ornamental dish. The enameled ware kettle which comes with the cooking ham has a tray in it on which the fish may be placed and cooked without danger of being broken or in any way disfigured in being taken out. Striped bass is an ideal fish to cook in this way, but there are plenty of others that are good.

When the fish is cooked remove from the enameled ware kettle and place on the ice, or in some cool place just before serving. A mayonaisse is always good, of course, but for fish served in this way, the dressing cream dressing is even better.

In an enameled ware double boiler mix one teaspoonful of dry mustard, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of flour, one and one-half teaspoonful of powdered sugar. Add to these one teaspoonful of melted butter, the yolk of one egg, one-third of a cup of hot water. Add these slowly, stirring all the time, having the water in the boiler boiling briskly. When the mixture thickens, add one-half cup of cream beaten stiff. This makes a beautiful, thick, smooth dressing.

Lay the fish on a bed of lettuce leaves. Cover evenly with the dressing, which should first be chilled on ice, and garnish with small lettuce leaves and hardboiled eggs in thin slices.

PERRYTON GETS SWEET REVENGE ON CANADIAN

On Friday afternoon of last week, our high school team took the Canadian team into camp by the score of 58 to 0. This game was one of the freaks of football for the Canadian boys defeated the Perryton team a few weeks ago by a decisive score. It hardly seems possible that such could have the case but facts are facts. The visitors did not have a chance in Friday's game, our team scoring at will. Perryton relied principally on straight football, gaining at will through the line and on end runs. Forward passes were attempted only a few times by both teams and most of them were unsuccessful. The Canadian boys played a hard fought game, and although hopelessly beaten they were game till the last whistle blew. Athletic relations between these two schools are ideal, just as they should be, and we hope that they will always be the same.

TYRONE TO PLAY PERRY-TON HERE TODAY

The all-victorious Tyrone football team comes here for a game this afternoon, Friday, November 23rd. Tyrone has played all the teams in their vicinity and come here with a clean slate. They have defeated Liberal, Guymon, Hooker, Elkhart, Forgan, and a number of other teams, so it is up to Perryton to take their measure, thus avenging themselves for the defeat which Tyrone handed us on Armistice day last year. The Perryton team is now going at top speed and the Tyrone bunch will realize that they have met a real football team when they meet our bunch. This looks like it will be a tight game. Be there and root for the home boys.

Still one thing remains to furnish the House Beautiful without which guests and books and flowers only emphasize the fact that the house is not a home. I mean the warm light in the rooms that comes from kind eyes, from quick, unconscious smiles, from gentleness in tones, from unpremeditated caresses of manner, from habits of forgetfulness for one another—all that happy illumination which, in the inside of a house, corresponds to morning sunlight outside falling on quiet dewy fields.—William Channing Gannett.

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

A good dish which is sufficiently nourishing to serve for luncheon is:

Baked Eggs.—To two cupsful of hot rice add two tablespoonsful of butter, one-third of a cupful of milk and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Beat vigorously three minutes; add one and one-half canned plimetoos, forced through a sieve, and continue beating until the mixture is thoroughly blended. Pile evenly on a buttered baking dish or platter and make six cavities. Into each cavity drop an uncooked egg and bake until the eggs are set.

A delicious sauce to serve with boiled fish is:

Shrimp Sauce.—Melt three tablespoonsful of butter and add three tablespoonsful of flour; mix well, then pour in gradually, while stirring constantly, one and one-half cupsful of boiling water. Bring to the boiling point and cook five minutes. Add three-quarters of a cupful of shrimps, cleaned and cut into small pieces, an egg, slightly beaten, salt and pepper to season. Pour around the well-drained fish. Garnish with lemon quarters.

Drop Cookies.—Cream one-quarter of a cupful each of butter and lard with one cupful of sugar; add one well-beaten egg, five tablespoonsful of milk, one and three-quarter cupsful of rolled oats that have been lightly browned in the oven and then put through the meat chopper, one and one-half cupsful of flour sifted with one-half teaspoonful each of salt and soda, cloves and allspice and three-quarters of a teaspoonful of cinnamon; mix all together and add at the last one-half cupful each of nut meats and raisins. Drop from a teaspoon on a buttered sheet and bake.

Fall or Winter Best Time to Fight Borer

Canes Infested Should Be Cut Before Bugs Emerge.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Fall or winter is the best time to apply control measures to raspberry, blackberry or dewberry crops infested by the red-necked raspberry cane-borer, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1286, by F. H. Chittenden, entomologist. The damage to these crops is caused by a flat-headed, milk-white borer, which is the larva of a small, slender, velvet-black beetle with copper red or golden thorax ("neck"). The larvae form irregular swellings or galls, which gradually enlarge the canes and split the bark. Canes thus infested die, or become weakened and fall to develop a crop. The beetle also does some injury by feeding on the leaves of the plants.

To control the insect the infested canes should be cut out in the fall or winter, or in the early spring before the beetles have emerged from them. All cuttings should be promptly burned. To insure thoroughness, all wild blackberry, raspberry or dewberry plants nearby should receive the same attention. Co-operation among neighboring fruit growers in the observance of these measures for successive years is highly desirable.

Farmers' Bulletin 1286 may be obtained by applying to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington.

Scab Seriously Reduces Yield of Wheat Crop

Scab seriously reduces the yield of wheat in infested fields throughout the central states and eastward. And it not only affects wheat, but other grains and grasses as well. The cause of this disease is a tiny fungus parasite, which grows in the wheat plant a little like the wheat plant itself grows in the soil, and this parasite destroys the parts of the wheat plant in which it grows.

The same parasite also grows on corn, and naturally wheat following corn may be seriously affected by scab. In order to control the disease the United States Department of Agriculture recommends that the farmer—

- (1) Avoid sowing wheat after corn unless the cornstalks are removed and the stubble completely plowed under.
- (2) Plow under all crop refuse and clean up the old straw and grasses along the fence rows and in nearby waste places.
- (3) Use clean seed of adapted varieties. Seed should be thoroughly cleaned, graded and treated.
- (4) Sow wheat when the ground is cool, winter wheat on the latest date in the fall, and spring wheat on the earliest safe date in the spring.

If you are interested in making a more thorough study of the scab problem write to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and ask for Farmers' Bulletin 1224, Wheat Scab and Its Control.

Many Injurious Insects
Pests May Be Destroyed

Since many troublesome insects hibernates in dead plants and trash and in grass and weeds along the borders of cultivated land, H. A. Gossard, entomologist of the Ohio experiment station, states that large numbers of them may be destroyed in late fall or very early spring by burning the collected trash and dead grass.

Tarnished plant bugs, squash bugs, and slugs are cited as examples. These pests pass the winter in weedy borders, among refuse, under stones and other objects. They could be almost entirely eliminated if entire communities would co-operate in removing all means for their protection during winter.

Potato stalks, squash vines, onion tops, asparagus plants, bean and pea vines, and the like furnish shelter during the winter for many insects that feed upon these plants.

Fall plowing, where soil conditions permit the practice, will result in the destruction of many cutworms, white grubs, corn ear worms, army worms, and eggs of the grasshopper, where these pests are numerous.—Weekly Press Bulletin, Ohio experiment station.

Too Much Moisture Will Cause Potatoes to Decay

An excess of moisture will cause the growth of decay in the potato storage. Some growers make a practice of "curing" their potatoes before storing. This is done by piling them in piles of 30 bushels or more, and covering them with the potato vines. After the potatoes are well dried so there is no excess moisture, and are free from dirt, they may be placed in storage. Sometimes the ventilators of the storage are left open for several days after storage to facilitate drying. Care should be used, however, that potatoes in storage do not become too dry, as they may wilt or shrivel.

Right Place to Select Seed Corn Is in Field

It is a well-known fact that the best place to select seed corn is in the field. The best time to pick it is when the earliest ears are ripe. Don't wait till every ear is fully matured, as that may mean injury from frost. Besides, it is always desirable to pick from the ears that ripen first, so as to encourage early maturity.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL INJURED AT PLAY

Miss Annie Lizzie Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Holland of this city, and a senior in the Perryton High school, was injured while playing basket ball at the school gymnasium on Monday of this week. Her condition was considered serious for several days but at this time she apparently is on the road to recovery. She suffered a severe nervous shock. Mr. and Mrs. Holland are very grateful for the consideration and many favors shown by the members of her class and others.

A recent addition to the ranks of Panhandle newspaperdom is the White Deer Review, published at White Deer, Texas, by W. A. Clark and Clyde Hazelwood, both formerly of Spearman. They have started out with a good, newsy sheet, jammed full of advertising from the merchants of White Deer. There is no reason why a newspaper can not be made to pay at this place. It is up to the merchants. If they patronize the paper by giving it all their printing and advertising, the boys will be able to make a go of it. Here's wishing Messrs. BACKWARD CHILDREN COSTLY TO STATE

Recent Survey Shows One State Paid $25,000 in Year for "Repeaters."

Retarded school children in one mid-western state last year cost that state $25,000, according to figures given out at the headquarters of the Southwestern Division, American Red Cross, in St. Louis, after an investigation of the health of the school children in that state. These children were what are known as "repeaters," that is, children who failed to pass their examinations and had to be sent back to do over again the work that had not been successfully done.

Only 3 per cent of these children were backward because of mental defects. The rest had physical defects, easily corrected, but which acted on their mental capacity and their bodily strength to do the school work. Of those who underwent some treatment for the correction of their physical difficulties every one without an exception caught up in his or her class and kept up with the rest of the children from that time.

The defects consisted of tonsils and adenoids sufficiently diseased to cause irregular attendance at school; defective teeth which were responsible for a considerable amount of malnutrition, and physical weakness; a few cases of defective hearing, and still fewer cases of defective vision, the latter of which was easily correctable by properly adjusted glasses.

This survey was made in an effort to determine the value of a public health nursing service in the schools. The conclusion was that with a public health nurse installed in connection with county school systems, a considerable saving in expense to the state would result.

According to the Director of Nursing Service in the Southwestern Division, one public health nurse should be supplied for every 1,000 children. For reasons of economy, however, the nurses frequently have many more than this number and they also have to look after the health and welfare of the adult community.

"Supposing in a given community," said this director, "200 children should have to repeat their school work because their physical condition made them slow in their studies and frequently absent. This would cost the state $12,500 a year. A public health nurse for the same period, whose duty it would be to see that the children were kept well and therefore would not have to repeat, would cost $3,000. The public health nurse in the school inspects the children at regular intervals. If they are found to be subnormal, they are examined by a physician. If the subnormality is due to any physical trouble the physician or the nurse, if working alone, recommends to the parents that the child be sent at once to its family physician for treatment so that, although the ailment is slight, it may be corrected in time and thus prevent serious trouble later on as well as to put the child into better physical condition for its school work. That is one phase of the public health nurse's work."

"The next phase is a step beyond, that of educating parents to the point of requiring physical examinations of their children before they reach school age so that they are ready for their school work. Some difficulties of childhood might be eliminated by care of the mother during pregnancy and expert attention during the time of confinement. Infants, apparently well, will benefit by careful inspection at regular intervals. Experiments where these inspections are made with the advice of skilled physicians and nurses, has been eminently successful."

"A third feature of the public health nursing work which should be considered in the question of educating these backward children is that of the delay caused by ill health in bringing these children to the point of economic independence, that is, fitness for life and its responsibilities. Thinking people, educators and welfare workers are being greatly attracted by the usefulness of school instruction in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick for mothers of families, for high school girls and even for younger students. In my opinion there is no better way to teach prevention of illness, good health habits through sanitation in the home, and personal cleanliness than by giving thorough intelligent knowledge of care at the time of illness for the protection of others as well as for the comfort of the patient."

This work is being constantly emphasized in the Southwestern Division and is growing greatly in public interest throughout the division.

VETERANS' HOSPITAL TO HAVE NEWSPAPER

Fort Lyon, Colorado, Veterans' Hospital has acquired a print shop. The newspaper has not been started yet but the first issue will appear shortly. A small hand press has been donated to the hospital by friends and the print shop has been opened in the Red Cross Headquarters. Patients in the hospital who are printers by trade have volunteered to set the type and make up and print the paper and other patients who have been newspaper writers and advertising copy writers will edit it. It is believed this is the first print shop to be run by the patients in any of the veterans' hospitals, and much enthusiasm already is manifested in the forthcoming initial issue of the paper.

CITIZENS AID IN CHILD WELFARE AND FLOOD RELIEF

Red Cross Rendered Much Volunteer Assistance in Southwestern Division.

Volunteer work in the Southwestern Division, American Red Cross, has been unusually active during the last year, according to reports which have come into the division office in St. Louis recently. The volunteer committee of the Port Arthur, Texas, chapter is regarded as one of the mainstays of the service which the chapter at Port Arthur renders the community. Through this committee garments are collected, sorted and kept in order to be used whenever needed.

In Independence, Kansas, the volunteer committee of the Red Cross chapter has conducted better baby contests and children's clinics with marked success.

Volunteers in the six towns of Texas County, Oklahoma, also have been holding child welfare clinics and conferences and have been able to accomplish much good towards the better health of the community by calling the parents' attention to slight physical defects of their children, which corrected now amount to nothing but which if permitted to run on might become serious for the child.

In Little Rock, Arkansas, dancers have been able to play an important part in reconstructing the impaired brains and nerves of the patients in the U. S. Veterans' Hospital No. 78 in that city, by teaching men to dance and thus assisting the other occupational therapy work in stimulating the dormant mental faculties of the veterans.

Volunteer members of three chapters in the Southwestern Division also have had ample opportunity to demonstrate their enthusiasm in the administering of flood relief during the last summer and fall. Thirty-four hundred dollars was raised by the Winfield, Kansas, chapter to take care of the recent victims of the floods of the Walnut and Arkansas rivers. At Ft. Smith, Arkansas, the Sebastian County chapter handled the acute needs of the refugees of the floods of last June in the district between the Arkansas and Poteau rivers, and at Tulsa, Oklahoma, volunteer Red Cross workers conducted relief headquarters where 148 persons were fed, clothed and furnished with sleeping quarters for six days until the water subsided sufficiently for them to return to their homes.

RED CROSS SERVES AT INTERNATIONAL AIR MEET

Ambulances, Nurses and Physicians on Duty for First-Aid Work.

That the Red Cross never overlooks an opportunity for service was evidenced in the recent International Air Meet in St. Louis when aviators from all over the world, representing both military and civil organizations, competed for world famous trophies. With a daily attendance of close to 100,000 in the way of spectators, and a literal army of flyers, mechanics, attendants, laborers and the necessary personnel of such a gigantic undertaking, there was real work to be done by the Red Cross.

A first-aid station was established on the field under the direction of one of the Field Directors of the Southwestern Division of the Red Cross, and ambulances with nurses and physicians were on duty all day. A territory of 173 acres had to be covered and ambulances had to be ready on instant call in case of an accident to the flyers, so that a real field service was maintained, with first-aid dressing station and similar activities.

The canteen was under the direction of the Women's Overseas League of St. Louis, and while the service of the first-aid station and its personnel was given free to the public, the canteen charged for its service and the money thus raised was used for the disabled members of the league.

The St. Louis Chapter of the American Red Cross also furnished motor cars and other transportation to bring the World War veterans from local hospitals to the field to witness the flying.

Although the percentage of accidents and other casualties was remarkably small there were enough of them to keep the Red Cross workers constantly busy for the entire week of the meet, and to gain the thanks not only of the individuals who were given attention but of the officials of the meet and the representatives of the United States and other governments taking part in the contest.

ARKANSANS ESTABLISH CORRECT WEIGHT RECORD

More than 1,500 men, women and children had been weighed and measured for health at the Red Cross booth at the Washington County fair held at Fayetteville, Arkansas. Best records for proper weight for age and height were found between the ages of 20 and 30, and astonishingly few were found to be over or under weight.

Washington County people made a remarkable showing in the matter of health as indicated by weight and measurement, according to experts who have looked over the records. Children between the ages of 8 and 9 were especially satisfactory in their weight and measurement. All persons showing defects in weight were given information as how to correct them.

UNION SCHOOL NEWS

The entertainment and pie supper succeeded beyond all expectations, Friday evening, the 16th. In spite of the scarlet fever scare a goodly number were out and the sum of $46.30 was realized from the auction. Mr. Walters ably filled the place of Col. Littleton as auctioneer. The children surely did credit to their trainers. Though some of the parts were quite heavy for those filling them, they acquitted themselves like little men and women.

It was hinted that Mr. Keith and Miss Powell, two new members of our faculty, are wearing new feathers in their caps.

Strange how people in good standing in a community will sometimes take things that can in no way do them the least bit of good. This kind of conduct has resulted in keeping the A. E. Pitman family out of school for two weeks, taking turns having scarlet fever. Bud Garner's children tried the same stunt, but so far only one child, too small to attend school, has succeeded in getting sick. We are sincerely hoping that others may see the folly of such conduct and not try to repeat it.

We were glad to welcome the Jamison children back after a two weeks' absence, even though some of them did look like the scarlet fever had used them badly.

We are glad the weather man has been able to arrange for such fine weather, even though some of the big boys have been absent from school, welding a fork.

The literary program given by the high school literary society was the best ever given in the society. That was because each person decided he owed it to the society to do his best. The community is missing something good by not being present at the society meetings.

When Robin Nelson was three-quarters of a mile south of Union school on Sunday morning, driving some horses from his farm near Perryton, a passing car struck one of the horses legs and broke it.

The Black community for the last Mrs. T. H. Blair is the proud owner of a new steamer cooker. Wonder why all farmers do not think it necessary to provide indoor conveniences as well as outdoor.

We are glad to report the Garner children all in school again.

The cow did not go "over the moon" but from reports she sent Elmer in that direction.

Bill Jewell journeyed to Hollis to pick cotton.

Mrs. Dave Geortez and her two children, who have been visiting in the community a short time, have returned to their Nebraska home.

Earl, Hazel and Juanita Brown attended league at Fairview Saturday night.

The Padgett children visited in the Neufeld home Sunday.

The Fairview children have the right spirit when they make efforts to care for the moral and spiritual welfare of the younger ones, by forming organizations that will develop this side of life. We wish them great success. Only communities that have their schools a community center for all activities will ever build up-to-date citizens. Those who refuse to join in such projects are back numbers.

Nellie and Dessie Eids have entered school. They came to take the place of the Raymond children. We have missed the Raymond children this year and are glad to welcome Eids among us.

Later reports say that Robin Nelson narrowly escaped serious injury Sunday when the horse he was riding was knocked down and he narrowly escaped being struck by the car.

LONE TREE NEWS

Supt. L. L. Price and George Holland were welcome guests at school Tuesday afternoon.

Del Taliaferro was attending district court last week.

The Lone Tree girls organized their basket ball team last Friday. Gordy Taliaferro was elected captain, and we expect to have an excellent team.

The Lone Tree pupils are very busy practicing a play, which is to be given at a pie supper soon. The exact date has not yet been set but will be given in next week's issue.

Some of the young people of this community attended the box supper at Alfalfa last Saturday night and they report an excellent time.

We have been having beautiful weather for the past week and hope it will continue until we get our crops taken care of.

Citizens St. Bk., Liberal, vs. A. H. Morris, judgment against defendant for cost only.

The Grand Jury was in session the greater part of the week and a number of true bills were found. The following report was made by them and handed to this paper for publication.

Perryton, Texas Nov. 17, 1923. To the Hon. W. R. Ewing, District Judge:

We your grand jury for the November Term 1923 of the District Court of Ochiltree County, Texas, having finished our labors beg to submit this our final report.

We have diligently inquired into all alleged violations of the law that have been brought to our attention and have returned indictments in all cases, wherein the evidence in our opinion warranted such action, having returned 15 indictments.

We call attention to the fact that liquor violations are frequent in this county and the time has come when all good citizens should stand together and stamp out this crime and punish those who violate the liquor laws. We call attention also to the officers that they should be on the alert and use their best efforts to catch the bootleggers who are plying their vocation in this county.

We find that there are some criminal cases pending on the docket in which there have never been any arrests, and we call attention to the officers that they should use their best efforts to make arrests in these cases and bring the offenders to trial.

We want to thank the court and other officers for assistance rendered and courtesies shown and having no further business to come before us, we respectfully ask to be discharged.

(Signed) R. A. FULLER,
Foreman of the Grand Jury.

UNDERSTUDIES

By JANE GORDON

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

GARRETT DENBY looked at the woman he had loved and moved uneasily in the pretty fireside chair. Janet, there in her always attractive frock, her clear eyes shining, her cheeks flushed in the happy excitement of his presence; he opposite, admiring, content.

What had happened to banish the charm of years? How could he await coldly, now, her reception of his abrupt confession. Garrett had told her, his face immovable in apparent indifference, that he no longer cared.

It was the little girl from Barker's who had wrought the change in his feelings.

Garrett was waiting the last promotion in his business. He knew now that he would await no such opportunity in pressing his suit with Dolly. She must take him as he was. His visions of the pretty, disturbingly modern Miss Gilmore stirred his emotions as he sat watching Janet, with her disillusion.

"If there is nothing to be said between us but 'good-by,'" Janet said, "let us say that 'good-by' quickly."

"Good-by," he echoed hurriedly, and left her.

Janet drew out the little tea table methodically, and began laying the things for her evening meal. Garrett had so often partaken of that meal with her that it seemed odd not to place a plate for him.

A knock at the door happily disturbed her reverie. It was only Peter, Peter, who had come so patiently when she might have a little time left from Garrett's visits, to spare to him. Peter, so kindly advising, so unselfish in devotion. Peter had asked her to marry him.

Garrett dismissed uncomfortable scruples as he and Dolly settled together in the new home. Dolly had excellent taste in furnishings—Dolly was charmingly ingenious in her demands. It was disappointing to return at evening, weary from increasing labor necessary to his growing expense, to a house empty in its luxury—with no wife to greet him, and the solitary meal set before him by a tired and sulky maid.

"Mrs. Denby said I was to have this day off," was the maid's usual grievance, "and she forgot again and went off herself." Dolly usually forgot. Dolly was still the admired butterfly of his former admiration.

He was heartsick and weary with things as they were. The great empty rooms mocked him, the telephone summoned as though urging his haste—"Dolly: I'm at the Rensaler. Dinner party. Couldn't call you earlier, for we were at the matinee. Leave the door unlatched. Good-night, Garrett." He stood before the instrument; the receiver had clicked before he might reply.

How the image of Janet rose fresh in its old place in his heart Garrett could not know. He only knew that he was driving feverishly, eagerly toward the comfort of Janet's cozy home. Janet would be there. And this incomparable gift he had thrown away for a brighter face—a flaunt of gaiety. Janet opened the door to Garrett, and in her honesty cried out softly her surprise. "I came to you," he blundered, "to try to find a touch of home. Janet. I have had no home—brought yours." She was not shocked by his confidences; she listened, the old dear frown of concern wrinkling her smooth brow. Nor was she aware of triumph in his return. She looked into the face which had, for years, filled her dreams, and was saddened to see lines of trouble there. She played for him, as he begged her to, then sent him home with a promise to call upon his wife.

Janet calling upon Dolly! He could see no benefit to either in the acquaintance. Janet talked her plan over with Peter. She had a habit of confiding in Peter, and knew that Garrett's perplexities were safe in his keeping. Then, too, she wanted the man's perspective in her plan. "Garrett's wife may be a restless, thoughtless young thing," she told Peter, "and he may not realize her need of the pleasures of youth. If I can coax her to like me, Peter, I shall teach her home-making as Garrett likes and needs it." To her own mirror, Janet said wistfully, "Those qualities which Garrett loved in me will be doubly dear in those added qualities he loved in his wife—which I failed in giving."

So Janet labored and—won. It was strangely sweet revenge—this kindling of home interest in the estranged wife's heart. Then, self-effaced, Janet returned to her silent home.

"Garrett is happy in finding Dolly in that beautiful cheery home to welcome him," she told Peter. "She really enjoys banking the flowers, playing for him, wearing the dresses he likes. And he does not forget her youth—so also, they go out together."

"I suppose," said Peter, in his slow way, "that Garrett enjoys the society of Dolly because you have made her an understudy of the girl you used to be. And I've been wondering, if I were to understudy Garrett, in a way, would you transfer that old dear interest to me?"

There was no wistfulness in Janet's smile; its radiance caressed him.

"Why, Peter," said Janet, "I would have you as you are, dear—no change at all."

"Oh, would you?" asked Peter confusedly—"then will you?"

And Janet did.

LEGION TO FATHER ORPHANS

Problem, One of Biggest Facing Organization, Regarded as Continued Service to Nation.

Caring for orphaned children of World war veterans is regarded as one of the principal problems in the American Legion's plan of continued service to the nation. Estimates show that within eleven years after the close of the war, there will be at least 35,000 of such children, and the number is expected to increase so rapidly that it will entail as much expenditure as does the relief of disabled soldiers.

George A. Withers of Clay Center, Kansas, is chairman of the Legion's national committee on children's homes. Mr. Withers has given unsparingly of his time during the past year in research and study of the conditions and methods used in the upbringing of veterans' dependents. The committee is composed of Mark T. McKee of Michigan, Charles French of New Hampshire, William B. Henley of Pennsylvania, G. A. Warlick of North Carolina, E. E. Hallenbeck of Pennsylvania, Ralph K. Robertson of New York, and A. H. McKnew of California. They have prepared an outline for the Legion's part in such a program, to be submitted to the fifth annual convention of the organization at San Francisco.

George A. Withers.

Exact procedure of the Legion is uncertain, and may not be determined until after the convention takes action. No approval has been given to any plans outlined because of the variance of opinions of child welfare workers on the feasibility of certain methods. Suggestions of placement of dependent children with near relatives, with financial aid in education; location with foster parents; grouping of the wards in small colonies under direction of matrons; and institutional care in orphanages will be included in the report of the committee. Further plans for education and vocational training will be outlined in the report.

Work of preparation has been assisted by responses to a questionnaire sent to heads of all Legion departments. It has been determined from these that at least six states already have provided specific care for those bereft of parents by the World war, and in other states plans looking to Legion co-operation as partial solution have been prepared. A project in Washington calls for establishment of an institution on public lands of the state, to be financed through efforts of the Legion. Michigan now has an orphanage, known as the American Legion Children's billet, under direction of the organization. Kansas is at work on a plan for acceptance of a gift from Daniel Dabney, who offered the Legion a large tract of land, and an endowment of $25,000 if the Legion would raise $100,000 for a home for dependent children of former service men.

Members of the committee believe that the care of such children is a responsibility for the Legion. In a recent letter, Chairman Withers has summed up the duty of the Legion men in these words:

"These youngsters belong to the buddies who stood with us in the trenches, and who were called upon to make the supreme sacrifice. Can we, who were spared, do less than to see to it that those nearest and dearest to those wonderful boys who gave their all, shall have the chance that we would desire for ours, had we been called on as were they?"

Color Blind?

"You will have trouble with a dark lady," predicted the fortune teller.

"Think hard, sister, and be sure you are right," replied the wise wisdom seeker.

"I'm married to a blonde."—American Legion Weekly.

Even So.

"Then you have met my wife before?"

"Yes, indeed. I knew her quite well before you married her."

"The deuce you say. You certainly had the advantage over me."—American Legion Weekly.

METHODIST PASTOR ARRIVES

Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Hitchcock and eight of their nine children arrived Tuesday night. Their other daughter is attending the Clarendon College.

The membership of the church had anticipated their coming and had carried many useful articles to the Church that afternoon.

The community extends a hearty welcome to Reverend Hitchcock and his family to our little city. —Panhandle Herald.

J. N. Harris of the Gray neighborhood was a Perryton visitor on Monday of this week.

Paul Johnson of Range, Oklahoma, was trading here the first of the week.
