

NICHOLS' WORTH

By: Nanalee Nichols

Okay, so I'm crazy. I've known it for years. But you folks could be a little more tactful about telling me how nuts I am.

I really think I've shown my weird tendencies a lot more in the past than I did by walking in the rain...but it sure hasn't attracted as much attention.

I've started walking a couple of miles each day. It sure can't hurt the layer of fat that covers my body...and it is very, very relaxing. Since I stay wired up like an overwound clock most of the time...relaxation was the main reason for starting to walk.

I like to walk alone. I like to walk on the farm to market road in front of the house.

As long as it is dry folks honk or wave and figure I simply am walking for fun.

The other afternoon it was pelting rain...so I put on an old straw hat (to keep the rain off my glasses) a jacket and some old shoes and set out.

It was just a little chilly, but it felt good. The rain lent a misty look to the world...the leaves rustled and rattled by...the birds looked mildly at me from their tree perches.

But then the cars started to come by.

They would stop and ask if I needed a lift. I'd smile gratefully and say "No, I'm just walking".

They would put the car in gear a little doubtfully giving me a look usually reserved for someone on the wrong side of a mental institution door and say "But it's RAINING".

I knew that. I didn't care.

Don't get me wrong...I appreciate very, very much that these friendly passers-by wanted to help out. I didn't mind them stopping at all. It was just that last look that made me realize that they were convinced I'm nuttier than they thought.

I would walk a little further and go through the same tableau again as some other helpful soul would stop.

Thomas was downtown. As I neared home it was really pounding down. When I got to the house he informed me that he had seen me down the road and his first thought was "Who is THAT idiot." His second thought was that he probably should go offer them a ride. He didn't because he decided they had to be crazy.

Halfway down the driveway he realized that the figure back on the road was very familiar. Then he says he thought "Please let her be at the house...she's not that crazy".

Well, I argued, I don't melt, if I shrink it could only be a good thing, and I absolutely positively ENJOYED walking in the rain.

The next afternoon I took another watery walk.

I'll continue to do so. I like the rain...I like the walk...I don't care if I am nuts.

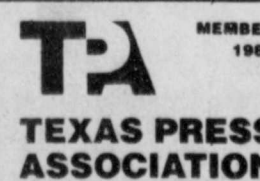

Red River Off Site List

Red River County apparently has lost its latest bid to bring a maximum-security state prison to the area.

On Wednesday, October 21, the Texas prison system released a list of 10 possible sites for new prison, but the county, one of 33 entities to submit proposals, did not make it.

The county had offered a 300 acre site about three miles south of Clarksville for the new prison. County officials had hoped it would create 700 new jobs and a $15 million payroll.

Cities that made the new list include Amarillo, Childress and Mesquite, Falls, Johnson, Liberty, Scurry and Tyler counties were also on the list.

Some Tips To Make Halloween Safe

Halloween evokes images of goblins, witches and other cleverly-disguised children who go trick-or-treating each year. But it also can bring images of danger if parents, motorists and homeowners do not take certain safety precautions, according to the Texas Medical Association.

Costumes, especially dark-colored ones, are difficult for motorists to see at night. Parents should include reflective tape or reflective liquid paint available in hardware stores on costumes and bags to improve a child's visibility.

Make certain the costume is not so long that a child can trip on it, or so loose that it may catch on bushes and other obstacles.

Cloth masks and entire head masks can block a child's vision or breathing. Instead, consider painting a mask on the child's face with cosmetics or grease paint.

Parents should review safety rules with their children, including walking on sidewalks or staying on the side of the road, and not eating any candy or fruit they receive until it has been checked at home.

Motorists must be especially attentive on Halloween. Slow down and drive with extra caution through residential areas.

Homeowners can help out by having outside lights on as a sign of welcome and so trick-or-treaters do not trip over stairs or other obstacles.

The Texas Medical Association suggests follow these easy guidelines and help make Halloween safe and fun.

Fainting, A Roach Family Trait!

By Mollie Williams

Medical doctors tell us that fainting is a temporary loss of consciousness caused by a rapid and great fall in blood pressure which results in a too small supply of blood to the brain. Usually the rapid fall in blood pressure is caused by a mental or physical shock. I'm not sure if it's true, but I've also heard that fainting is sometimes used as an escape for people who do not want to face unpleasant situations. I have learned from experience that fainting comes at the most inopportune times.

Although I have never completely lost consciousness by fainting, I have come close many times and that's understandable because I come from a long line of "fainters".

Just ask our family doctor about the Roach family fainting!

The fainting characteristic can be traced back to my grandfather Roach and is dominant in his children and several of his grandchildren. There are several hilarious incidents involving fainting that have happened in our clan, but some of them won't do to tell! One incident is so ridiculous it's hard to believe, but according to all those who were involved, it is true.

Many years ago before my grandparents had indoor plumbing, my Grandfather Roach got up from bed during the night to take a necessary trip outside. As he was making his way back to the bedroom he struck his ankle against a chair, letting out a loud cry of pain just before passing out and falling to the floor.

At that precise moment, my uncle, returning from a date, drove into the yard. My parents lived in the house across the road, and it being a warm night, the windows of both houses were open. The sounds of Papa's cry and the tires on the car skidding to a stop reached the ever-alert ears of my mother.

She immediately informed my dad that Muri had run over Pampa with the car and they made a mad dash across the road. During the time they were making their way to my grandparents house, Muri had gone in and was trying to pick Pampa from the floor. My aunt got up to see what all the commotion was about and as she walked into the room, she automatically surmised that Pampa had suffered a heart attack.

Unable to handle the shock, she fainted.

About this time, my parents came on the scene.

My dad promptly ran to his sister, who was ying prostrate on the floor; picked her up, laid her on the bed and then slumped to the floor in a faint. They were all shaken from their stupor by the wild and frantic screams of my mother. Needless to say, the household was in a complete uproar.

On many occasions members of my family have run frantically for help thinking our dad was dying, only to find out that he had fainted.

It takes my brother to tell properly about the night mother sent him to our aunt's for help during one of Dad's fainting spells and having to brave the few feet from the road to the door within the reach of a vicious dog chained in the yard.

My sister Bobbie inherited this fainting characteristic in a big way.

She faints at the "drop of a hat". As a very young girl she was singing in the "Booster Band" one Sunday morning when a friend of hers volunteered to sing a solo. The friend's singing was so out of tune and off key that Bobbie became embarrassed for her. Bobbie recalls that the longer she looking at her friend in the bright yellow dress and listened to her pitiful singing, the weaker she became. Finally, to the surprise of the entire congregation, Bobbie fell flat to the floor, unconscious.

Another time, and not too many years ago, she slammed a door on her finger and fainted in an auditorium packed full of people, right in front of a famous singing group. Someone in the crowd came running with smel-

Suit Filed On Dimple Reservoir Issue

Three Red River County residents have filed a lawsuit in district court alleging that last month's Dimple Reservoir bond election was improper ly held.

The suit, filed by George H. Marshall of Bogata, Leonard D. Spears of Detroit and Magle H. Jones asks that the election be voided or that the court suspend implementation of the three propositions until the Red River County Water District complies with state law.

All three propositions on the ballot approving the construction of the lake passed by fewer than 300 votes. A recount requested by opposition forces brought no changes.

Attorney David L. James of Texarkana, who is representing the three men, stated that the special house bill (creating the water district) did not comply with Texas Water Code Provisions requiring four consecutive weeks notice of the election. Instead he says, the house bill allows for a two week publication and that they felt this was in conflict with the water code, and thus with the Texas Constitution that says a special law must comply with the general law.

The suit also alleges that the notices published did not include all information required by the Texas Water Code and that there has been no confirmation election for permanent water district directors. Mr. James said that should have been complied with or at least has to be complied with before the bonds can be issued.

The $7.2 million in bonds approved last month would be used to construct an 1,800 acre lake in northern Red River County. Water district officials have said the lake would insure the county's water supply well into the next century, but opponents question it as the best way to get water for the county.

Pete Patterson Opposes Prop 1

State Representative L.P. (Pete) Patterson announces his opposition to Referendum Proposition 1 on the November 3rd ballot. The referendum proposition will appear on the ballot as follows: "The State Board of Education shall be composed of members who are appointed from districts instead of elected, with equal representation from throughout the State of Texas."

Representative Patterson said, "I have always believed that a person who is elected, rather than an appointed bureaucrat, is more responsive to public needs. I encourage the voters in my district to oppose an appointed State Board of Education by voting NO to Referendum Proposition 1 on November 3rd.

School Trustees Against Proposition 1

The Talco-Bogata Board of Trustees reminds people to vote NO for Referendum Proposition 1 on the November 3rd ballot...the proposition would have an appointed board of education for the state instead of one made up of elected officials...The school board does not think this is best for the state, and has joined a number of people and organizations in prompting people to vote no to it.

ing salts and she was revived.

We've learned a lot by having these "fainters" in the family. One lesson we've learned is to keep a bottle of ammonia handy and another lesson is that if we sing, be sure we're singing on key. Otherwise, well, someone's going to faint!

Senior Citizens Luncheon Held At Calvary Baptist Church

On October 20, the Friendship Class of the Calvary Baptist Church of Talco hosted a luncheon for the older citizens of Talco. The luncheon was free and was enjoyed by 21 people.

To start off the entertainment Bro. Ted White, past of the church, recognized four people having birthdays in the month of October. They were Ovie Lee Patterson, Paul Miller, Rae Miller and Ethyl Crooks who was visiting from Avery. A cake was presented to them and "Happy Birthday" was sung.

Bro. Dennis Parnell from the First Baptist Church of Mt. Vernon presented the next part of the program. He performed several comedy skits and songs. Bro. Parnell ended his part with a sing-along.

The guests were divided into two teams and a "Guess The Name of the Song" game was played to see who was served lunch first. Lunch consisted of chicken stew, chili and desserts.

After the meal a drawing was held for the door prize which was donated by Sandra Ingram. Ida Hall won the drawing.

And taken up some evil ways
That soon became routine.
But some day we will feel the need
To learn the lessons of our

Rebs Ground Eagles 27-3

By Stan Anderson
The Rivercrest Rebels upped their District record to 2-1 by grounding the hapless Como-Picton Eagles 27-3 at Rebel Stadium last week.

The Eagles entered the game winless and never really threatened during the contest. The Rebels got started just a little shaky, with their first two possessions resulting in a punt and a fumble.

The fumble gave the Eagles the ball on the 34. The Eagles could only muster 24 yards on 9 attempts, and had to settle for a field goal from the 10 yard line. The kick gave the visitors a short lived 3-0 lead, 11 minutes into the first quarter.

Rivercrest began their first good drive of the contest, pushing the ball to the Como-Picton 38 yard line on a good running effort by Reb backs Geary Savage and Lafayette Brown. But an errant pass by Bradley Woods fell into the hands of Eagle Kyle Benson on the Eagle 23.

The Reb defense went to work shutting down the Eagles. The Eagles found themselves being pushed towards their own endzone. A quick-kick from their own 17 gave the Rebels the ball on the Eagle 44 yard line.

Fullback Geary Savage carried the offense, blasting through the heart of the Eagle Defense, for 38 yards and the TD Giving the Rebs a 6-3 lead early in the second quarter.

The Eagles found themselves still retreating from a pressuring Rebel defense. A fourth down punt netted the Eagles a roughing-the-kicker call against Rivercrest. The penalty yardage was not enough for a first down, but did give the Eagles a fourth and 1 from the Reb 48.

The Rebel defense, led by freshman Shane Beers, threw the Como-Picton runner for a loss and took the ball on downs.

Rivercrest wasted little time taking advantage of their good field position. Bradley Woods and Lafayette Brown combined for 46 yards enroute to the second Reb score of the contest. Rivercrest led 14-3 with 2 minutes left in the half.

Como-Picton fumbled the ensuing kick off and the Rebs found themselves in scoring range again on the Eagle 35. A rushing attempt by Marcus Savage netted only one yard, and a delay of game penalty backed the RTBs up to the 39 yards line. The next play sent receiver Marvin Anderson racing down the sideline as QB Bradley Woods lofted a perfect pass towards the endzone. Anderson hauled in the ball over his shoulder on the 2 yard line. A QB keeper by Woods gave the Rebs a 20-3 lead at the half.

Rivercrest took the second half kick off and began a steady march towards the endzone only to come up short on a fourth down pass attempt after gaining 42 yards.

Como-Picton was stopped again for a loss as the Reb defense pressured the Eagle quarterback. Rebel lineman Chad Parish and linebacker Sammy Sparger led the charge that forced a punt, giving the offense the ball near mid field on their own 46.

Both teams traded punts, until late in the third quarter. Again the Rebel offense found themselves with excellent field position on their own 44. The offense seemed headed for another score until the Eagle defense jarred Rebel back Marcus Savage loose from the ball on the 12 yard line.

The Rebel defense tightened the screws on the Eagle offense. The Eagles decided to go to the air this time. But cornerback Jimmy Lewis stifled any hopes of an Eagle comeback as he picked off the pass on the Eagle 12. Four plays later the Rebels struck paydirt again as Geary Savage bullied into the endzone from the 3, giving the Rebels a 27-3. The Eagle offense found the going too tough. The Reb defense backed the Eagles up 4 yards before Rebel Defensive back Clint Tidwell picked off another pass from Eagle QB Kyle Benson and returned it to the Eagle 10 yard line.

Rebel coach Terry Giddens called off the troops and sent in his reserves. The new offense pushed the ball to the five before giving up the ball on downs. The Rebel defense quickly stifled the Eagle's final possession of the contest and went on to win 27-3.

This game could determine the Rebels playoff hopes, as a Rebel win could possibly send them into the playoffs as the second place team. The Rebs should have their hands full with a powerful Bulldog running attack led by Bam Morris of Cooper this next week.

A good turnout of Rebel supporters would be a welcome sight for the Rebel team. Kick off is set for 7:30 p.m. at Cooper.

Horn's Visit In Arizona

Faye and Elbert Horn of Bogata recently returned from a visit with their daughter, Bonnie Lou at the Salter Ranch in the San Tan mountains in the Arizona desert just outside Phoenix. Although they had previously visited the many sights the southwest state has to offer, such as Grand Canyon, Ancient Pima Indian dwellings, the famous Boot Hill and Old Tucson Movieiland, this trip was devoted to a more leisurely visit.

It was highlighted by tours of nearby villages and orange groves, a trip to the well-known Greyhound Park Fela Market and a night of steaks and relaxation at the beautiful oasis in the desert "Rancho Del Rey" Country Club.

Nestled in the shadows of the majestic San Tan Mountains, the Salter Ranch afforded the Horns with a peaceful, relaxing visit with their daughter.

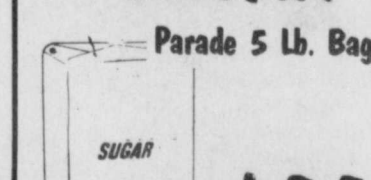

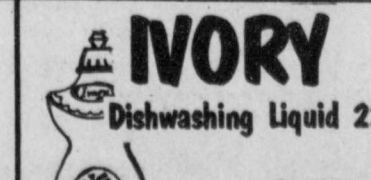

While the trip was enjoyable, the Horns were also glad to be back at home enjoying the fall weather here.
