SENATE PAVES WAY FOR DENVER EXTENSION

W. F. Wins State Labor Convention

HOUSTON MEET ASKS CHANGE IN VOLSTEAD LAW

Delegates Oppose Broadening of Garnishment Rule

WANT COOKS EXAMINED

Various Pieces of Proposed Legislation Is Voted On

The Texas State Federation of Labor, meeting in Houston, Thursday voted five to one to meet in Wichita Falls in 1927, according to a telegram to the Record News from Charles P. Stephenson, delegate to the convention from this city.

HOUSTON, April 22.—(AP)—Organized labor in Texas today began to blaze the trail for legislation in its behalf at the next session of the legislature.

When the day had ended, it had gone on record in favor of no modification of the homestead law, had registered its opposition to broadening the law relating to garnishment of wages and had in the face of an adverse recommendation of the legislative committee, favored creation of state boiler and machinery inspector.

Meanwhile the committee on resolutions had favorably reported a resolution favoring modification of the Volstead law, upon which the convention is to act tomorrow together with more than a score of others on subjects ranging from law prohibiting the use of spraying machines to making it compulsory for cooks in public places to pass an examination to show they are good cooks.

The afternoon was given over to addresses by the delegates.

Humor, Pathos, Facts Keep Dry Hearing In State of Uproar

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP) A mayor, a temperance leader, a former bar tender and a couple of United States senators were the principal characters in a swift moving drama today before the senate prohibition committee.

The lines ran the scale of denunciation, humor, pathos, opinion and facts and kept at high pitch for more than two hours the crowd which packed the hearing room and overflowed into the reserve space in front of the committee table.

The central figure again was Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, who clashed with his colleagues time and again, vigorously cross examined witnesses and characterized as "fanatics and fools" those who laughed at his declaration that he was not on either side in the wet and dry controversy.

TOO MUCH WAIST.

State Boiler Inspector Quits Because of Size.

HELENA, Mont., April 22.—(AP)—Futile attempts to make his forty-six inch waist fit into a "perfect 36" Boiler, together with the cramped quarters of a small automobile, the state furnished him, caused C. N. Burgess, state boiler inspector to resign.

Burgess, who tips the scales at 230 pounds, avers the statute requiring inspectors to crawl into small boilers as part of their routine, is not sufficiently considerate of men of his girth.

Police Probe Alleged Fight Fixing by Munn

"Big Wayne" Whipped; Conqueror Is Shot To Death

CHICAGO, April 22.—(AP)—The police of Chicago and Cicero, West Side suburb were asked today to reopen investigation of the death of Fred Boeseniers, who used the name of Andre Anderson in the boxing and wrestling rings. A coroner's jury on April 2, last, found that Boeseniers had been killed by a bullet fired by Leo Mongovern.

The verdict of the coroner was that Mongovern had first fired without excuse, although several of the 10 witnesses testified that Boeseneiers fired first from a small, circular compass-like device held in the palm of his hand.

The Chicago and Cicero police were informed that the slaying had to do with Boeseneiler's refusal to "throw" a boxing match to Wayne (Big) Munn, wrestler and boxer in Kansas City, December 23, last.

Mongovern was pitcured in the report to the police as the "fixer" who never let Boeseneilers out of sight and who finally killed him through anger at the boxer's refusal to "lose." He knocked out Munn in the first round of their contest.

BEER IS HELD MEDICINAL BY LEGAL RULING

Texas May Get New Tonic But on Prescription Only From Doctors

LIMITS PURCHASES

Alcoholic Drink Is Non-Beverage Opinions State

AUSTIN, April 22.—(AP)—Considered intoxicating liquor by the attorney general's department medicinal beer today was ruled under the permit law, and in two classes of intoxicants. If sold in Texas, prescriptions and permits must be issued, Comptroller S. H. Terrell was informed in an opinion written by L. C. Sutton, assistant attorney general.

Recently a bottle of malt extract, manufactured in Milwaukee, was submitted to the comptroller to determine whether it could be sold as medicine in Texas, or whether sale of such liquid would come under the laws prohibiting sale of intoxicating liquor.

The tonic, as it is called, is brewed of malt and hops, contains 3.70 per cent alcohol and, according to the opinion, is similar to ordinary lager beer except that it contains 25 per cent of malt solids as against 5.79 per cent in ordinary beer. Federal permit for sale of this medicinal beer is cited, but the opinion says that "it is the theory of the manufacturer, that the large amount of solids renders it unsuitable for beverage purposes, but in order for us to determine this a test would be required which we do not consider it is necessary to institute."

Permits Necessary.

There is doubt that it is a malt liquor, and the alcohol contained in the liquid "is not present for the purpose to extract the medicinal properties of any drug contained in the preparation nor is such alcohol employed to hold the medicinal agencies in solution or to preserve the same," the opinion states.

The comptroller is advised that the preparations "must be classed as intoxicating liquor and the provisions of the law in reference to permits of manufacturers, wholesale and retail druggists apply. In other words permits are necessary to the same extent in reference to this preparation as they are in respect to other intoxicating liquors and you are, of course, familiar with the laws in reference to such permits."

The opinion states that having been advised on one preparation, the comptroller can deal with others of similar nature in the same manner.

Aged Man 'Sneaks' Off for Air Ride

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 22.—(AP)—The mystery of why Dr. David C. Dome, 92, came home late for supper the other night has been solved. The spry old physician, who had fled out the back door during an unguarded moment had been airplane riding.

Dr. Dome took his flight with a local aviator. One thousand feet up the aviator asked his nonagenerian passenger if he had enough.

"Let's go up a little higher," was the reply and up they went to 3,500 feet, the best the plane could do.

"I suppose it's all right," Mrs. Byron Dome, his daughter-in-law, said yesterday. "But what a waste of energy it was to spend days figuring a low altitude route when he went back to Indiana a few years ago."

Dr. Dome's longevity is "take your time; don't worry." He is an inveterate smoker.

OKLAHOMA RUSH IS RE-ENACTED

Memories Brought Back As Riders Dash For Acreage

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 22.—(AP)—Memories of the dash of 1889 when 5,000 square miles of land were opened by the federal government for settlement came flooding back today to those who were in the race when they watched it re-enacted here as nearly as possible.

Nearly fifty persons some on horseback, some in covered wagons and others on foot rushed across the "line" when the watch used in the original run and held in the hands of Ransom Payne, who timed the release hour in 1889, marked the noon hour and the crack of a rifle released them.

Horseback riders surged ahead the wagons followed and the foot racers brought up the rear.

Over a barren expanse of state owned land near the state capitol they raced until they had reached their "lots" 'about 300 yards from the starting point. Cash prizes were awarded the winners.

A horseback rider who led the race tumbled from the horse while it was still in motion and was slightly injured.

A number of 89'ers stood on the sidelines as the race took place. One or two participated.

The race was a part of the annual celebration held in commemoration of the opening of Oklahoma territory and the founding of Oklahoma City.

Mighty Tremor Reawakens Hawaiian Mauno Loa Just As Volcano Goes To Sleep

HILO, T. H., April 22.—(AP)—The sharpest earthquake in years shook Hilo today as an accompaniment of the latest outburst of the volcano Mauna Loa. One building was shaken eight inches from its foundation.

The lava flow slackened somewhat, but menaced the seaside village of Mililii. The fiery stream has still some distance to go and if unreplenished at its source may not reach the village. Refugees from the destroyed village of Hoopuloa have been cared for by the seventy inhabitants of Mililii.

Already the lava flood has moved upon the B. McAllen estate, destroying four ranch houses and other property, doing damage of $10,000. Several hundred cattle, stampeded when the building took fire, may be cut off in the mountains. Cowboys searched for them.

The Hawaiian volcano observatory received a report that a lava lake was forming in the Puukeokeo crater, a source of the new flow. The flaming river was within a half mile of the 1916 flow before noon. If it followed this course its progress would be faster as fewer depressions would be filled. The molten rock has been shoving its front forward only eight feet an hour.

Crowds again flocked from all parts of the island to witness the latest expressions of the Goddess Pele's wrath.

Heavy earthquakes felt on all the southern side of the island early today were attributed to renewed activity on Mauna Loa.

A verdict of guilty and five years in the penitentiary was returned by the jury of the 30th district court Thursday in the case of R. G. Cade, charged with robbery with firearms in connection with the City Bakery holdup more than a month ago. Cade was charged as an accomplice in the robbery, for which W. E. Carter has already been convicted and sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary and for which Henry Helms will face trial next week. Verdict by the jury was returned at seven o'clock after about thirty minutes deliberation.

Evidence against Cade was largely circumstantial, the state proving that the car in which Helms and Carter, both identified in connection with the case, were traveling, belonged to him, and that he had in his possession property stolen in the affair, and that he was in company under suspicious circumstances with Helms and Carter when all were arrested later in Fort Worth.

The defense relied upon but one witness, Mrs. R. C. "HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR is married to RANDALL PHELPS, the type of man who is in love with any woman but the one who is his wife.

He has an affair with Sylvia's best friend, FAY SHIRLEY, just before her marriage to EDDIE CARTER, a fat and prosperous broker. This affair ends when Sylvia tells Ranny that she is going to have a baby, and for a time he settles down and behaves himself.

But shortly after the birth of RANNY, JR., he returns to his old habits of poker playing and promiscuous love making, just as Sylvia's AUNT AGONY had predicted. And Sylvia has to give piano lessons to help make both ends meet. She goes on with her singing lessons, too, but Ranny won't let her sing in public because he is jealous of her voice, as so many husbands are jealous of their wives' accomplishments. Sylvia writes a popular song, "When Everything's Said," and saves the money to make a down payment on a house. The tiny flat where they live is no place to raise a baby, as she realizes.

Ranny goes joy-riding one night with a strange girl. Sylvia, returning from the home of MISS SARAH WILK with her brother, PETER WILK, sees the pair together in the car, and later Ranny admits that he "picked up" the girl. A week later they meet her at a party given by his sister, LOLLY BOYLE, and Sylvia learns that she is ELSIE LEOPOLD, a bachelor girl who owns a little gift shop. That night Ranny becomes angry when one of the men, WOODY KING, makes love to Sylvia and takes her home.

Ranny, quarrelsome and angered by Sylvia's silence, leaves the house and fails to return that night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLII.

"What did Lolly tell you? That Ranny is over at his mother's house?" asked Fay, who had turned around from the mirror to listen.

"She hung up before I had time to ask her," Sylvia answered. She was running rapidly through the pages of the phone book, looking for the number of a taxicab company. "Father Phelps is very ill, and I'm going right over."

"Don't bother to call a cab," Fay stopped her, as she took down the receiver once more, "I'll run you over to the Phelps' in a minute. Just wait until I get this eyebrow on straight." She went on drawing a fine arch over her eye, with a soft brown pencil.

Fay's brows and lashes were colorless. It took her half an hour every morning to darken them.

Sylvia watched her now, as she picked up a little box of sticky white cream and began to rub it over her freckles. Then she powdered over the cream, and when her complexion was dead white, she covered her mouth with orange red lip paste. The effect was bizarre, not to say startling.

"One of my worst nightmares is a dream that I'm on a desert island with a good looking man and no make up!" she said suddenly to Sylvia, with a giggle. "Can you feature anything worse?"

Then her face sobered. "The one reason why I stick to Eddie," she went on, "is because he likes me no matter how I look. He's seen me without a scrap of rouge on my face, and still he's strong for me. I'd never dare let any other man on the face of the earth see me as I really am! If I did, he'd probably start running, and never stop."

She began to whistle cheerfully, as she packed all her makeup into a silver box on the top of her dresser. Then she picked up a gold-topped atomizer from her dressing table, and sprayed herself generously with perfume. "There, now, I guess I'm ready to go out and face my fellow-woman!" she announced cheerily, and picked up a green sports hat and sweater from the window seat.

"Now, just look at you!" she exclaimed, when she and Sylvia were tucked into the flying roadster, with the baby between them on the seat. "You paint not, neither do you rouge, yet the sun in all its glory, can not glow, can not show up a single flaw on your face! How Ranny can run around with a cheap thing like this Elsie Leopold, when he has you, is a Chinese puzzle to me!"

Sylvia flushed. "Nonsense!" she said, as women do when they are flattered. "Of course I use rouge and powder.

But she knew that what Fay said about her being pretty was true enough. She knew that she was prettier now than she ever had been prettier than any of the girls that Ranny had lost his heart to, since his marriage.

Ranny! Her thoughts were never away from him very long. They flew to him now, as she wondered if he was at his father's house or not.

He was.

He was standing between the tall white pillars of the porch, as Fay's car swung into the graveled driveway that divided the lawn from Mother Phelps' sunken garden.

He still wore his wrinkled evening clothes, and no collar.

"For crying out of turn!" Fay laughed, "look at your Friend Husband! He looks as if he'd slept in his boiled shirt and his breekies!"

It turned out that that was exactly what he had done.

Lolly told Sylvia all about it, when Ranny had vanished up to the second floor with his son on his arm.

"Your wandering boy was out all last night, wasn't he?" Lolly began. "He came back to our house after he took you home. And he and Elsie Leopold went out for a ride, somewhere. Then, about three o'clock, he came back and said he was going to stay at our house all night. I can't imagine why he wouldn't go home to you——"

"I'll tell you why," Sylvia surprised her by saying. "He was peeved at me because he saw Woody King trying to get fresh with me last night! He said it was my fault—and you know it wasn't, Lolly, don't you? You know I never look at a man!"

Lolly brushed her wavy hair back from her forehead with an exquisite little hand. She did all her own work in the tiny bungalow, but no one would have guessed it, to look at her.

Twice a week she had her hair marcelled and her nails "done" by a woman who did Sally King's, too. She still took as much care of her small, perfumed self as she ever had done in the days before her amazing marriage to Thomas Boyle.

She looked thoughtfully at Sylvia, now, from under lashes that were heavy with black oil.

"The trouble with you is that you're buried alive, Sylvia," she said, with the air of a wise old owl. "You think that just because somebody slipped a wedding ring over your finger, you must never look at another man again, as long as you live! And you're a simp to think it! If I were you, I'd show Mr. Randall Phelps that I was just as attractive to men as he is to women! He needs a lesson."

She turned sharply, as Ranny came running down the stairs.

"Yes, you do need a lesson!" she said, facing him, 'and if I were Sylvia, I'd give you one or two that you'd remember! The way you acted last night with that Elsie Leopold! And she isn't pretty, even!—"

She would have said much more, but Ranny interrupted her. "Dad's still conscious, and Mother thinks he's asking for you," he said, and Lolly jumped down from the hall table, and ran up to the second floor.

"The darned kid! What's she been saying to you?" he asked Sylvia, when his sister was not only out of sight, but out of hearing, too.

Sylvia laughed a little uncomfortably. "She's been giving me a little advice," she answered, looking away from him, "but don't worry. I'm not going to take it."

After all, she reflected, Lollys advice might do for Lolly. It might do for Fay, or for almost any other woman.

But, she knew that their system of keeping their husbands eternally jealous would never do for her. It would never work with Ranny!

The only way to hold him was to let him know every minute that she loved him, and nobody but him! To make him understand that no matter what he did, she would forgive him! To let him feel that no matter where he went, she was always waiting to take him back!

She knew that she never could do anything else, anyway. She loved him too much!

She looked up at him now, with no word of reproach for last night.

The hours of worry, when she hadn't known where he was, slipped out of her mind.

All she saw was his tired face, with puffs under the handsome eyes.

"I thought, from Lolly's telephone message, that your father was dying," she said, laying her hand on his arm, "but if he isn't shan't we go home now? You must be awfully tired."

He nodded. "We thought at first that dad had had a stroke," he explained, "but when Dr. Buzzard got here, he said it had been just a spasm of some kind. Run up and get the kid, and we'll go home now. I could sleep for a week, I'm that all in."

Sylvia found Mother Phelps sitting alone in her room, crying. Her beautiful silver pompadour that always stood up like a bird's proud crest, was damp and flat this morning. And her eyelids were creased and swollen by her crying. She was frightened, and she broke into fresh sobs when she saw Sylvia.

"Dr. Buzzard says that all Jamie needs is a rest," she said, in a muffled tone, "but how can he go away and rest, with no one but Ranny to take hold of the business? He doesn't know anything about it—"

"But Tomas does!" Lolly's shrill hard little voice came from the open doorway. "He knows all about it! He'd do just as well with it as father himself would."

But Mother Phelps shook her head, and sniffed. "No, I'm not going to let a stranger take over the job that belongs to Ranny!" she declared. "It put Ranny in his place, and trust to Jamie goes away, we'll just have to luck! I won't have Thomas Boyle put over my own son!"

In vain Lolly, who had a sharp little brain and knew how to look out after herself, argued that Thomas Boyle should be put in charge of the business.

Mother Phelps won her point. At the end of a week, when she took Father Phelps to Virginia Hot Springs for a long rest, Ranny became the temporary head of "Jamison Phelps and Son." And Thomas remained what he was—a rattling good salesman for the company.

Ranny enjoyed his new position of power, to the utmost.

He bought himself two new tailor-made suits, and some dark ties in place of the gayly striped ones that he usually wore.

He never got up in the morning, now, until nine o'clock.

This arrangement put Sylvia's work back a whole hour. She had to stop now, between music lessons to get Ranny his breakfast, or help him hunt for a collar button that had rolled under the dresser. But it was lovely to have him around the house for an extra hour in the morning, anyway.

It filled her with a sense of comfort just to pass the door of his bedroom, and look in to see him filling his pipe, or looking over the morning paper.

He rarely came home to dinner at night, now. He said that he was very, very busy. But once or twice when Sylvia called his office after six o'clock he was not there.

One night, shortly before seven o'clock, he telephoned her.

"How would you like to come down town for dinner?" he asked her.

She couldn't keep her pleasure out of her voice when she answered him. "Oh, I'd love to!" she cried. "Where shall I meet you—and how soon?"

"Can you make it in half an hour, at the Tangerine Garden?" he asked. She said she would.

She did more things in the next fifteen minutes than she would have believed possible. She started the water in the tub, and bundled up Junior, and ran down to ask Mrs. Pigeon, the janitress, if she could stay with him for a couple of hours.

While she dressed and brushed her hair, she danced in and out of Junior's tiny cubby hole of a room, to see that Mrs. Pigeon was putting him to bed properly.

He seemed so small and so pale, that the very sight of him pulled at her heart strings.

"Oh, I've got to buy a house, or rent one, or something!" she thought, despairingly, as the taxicab jolted its way downtown with her. "That baby's just got to have a backyard where he can play!"

Dr. Buzzard had told her so that very morning. Some babies, he said, were so husky that they got along despite a lack of fresh air and sunshine. But Junior wasn't that kind of a baby. He had never been very strong.

"If we only had even a front porch—" Sylvia thought, as the cab drew up at the brilliantly-lighted entrance of the Tangerine Garden.

It wasn't a garden at all, of course, but a great restaurant. It derived its name from the dark green foliage that hung from its ceiling. Among the leaves twinkled little orange lights that looked like tangerines, and cast a warm glow over the room.

Sylvia looked all around the crowded room for Ranny, but couldn't see him.

Then she felt a hand laid over so lightly on her arm, and turned to look up into Peter Wilk's ugly, kindly face.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

After a long wait at the Tangerine Garden Ranny meets Sylvia. He has a girl with him. Why did Ranny ask Sylvia to come down town. You'll learn the solution in the next chapter.

R. B. Creager Warns Of G. O. P. Enemies

SAN ANTONIO, April 22.—(AP) Warning against persons from outside the state and their allies within, who he alleged are endeavoring to split the republican party in Texas, and nullify the progress toward a real party status which it has achieved is contained in a statement issued here by Honorable R. B. Creager, republican national committeeman of Texas, and approved by other state leaders.

"Persons are circulating cleverly worded petitions," the statement charges, "with the idea of deceiving loyal republicans into thinking that their signatures will help the building of the party in Texas, when, in fact, these petitions are intended for use in destroying the party and throwing its machinery and the handling of Texas affairs, into the hands of persons and interests outside of the state of Texas."

FLY-FLU

Think of it—In the extract of the rare and attractive Pyrethrum flower a famous Southern Physician has discovered a poison that instantly kills flies, mosquitoes, roaches, water-bugs, moths (and their eggs), ants, fleas, and all other forms of insect life, and yet a preparation that is as harmless to humans, animals and fabrics as a rose.

But, better still, in this marvelous new insecticide, which he calls Fly-Flu, this distinguished Physician has discovered a way of converting this extract into a fine, delightful, aromatic spray that can be used anywhere without the slightest danger to anything you value.

All of the things you've wished for in an insecticide are combined in Fly-Flu. To every insect breed it brings swift, sure death. It is an excellent deodorant and cannot stain. It reaches down into cracks and corners, penetrates every nook and cranny.

ALTUS DECLINES TO SELL BONDS

Difficulty of Acquiring Right-of-Way Holds Up Project

ALTUS, April 22.—Upon report of the City Attorney E. E. Gore, that but a small portion of the right-of-way necessary for the Lugert water reservoir has been secured and the difficulty the city was encountering in purchasing this right-of-way at reasonable figures, caused the city to refuse to sell the Lugert water bonds Monday night.

One of the most attractive offers to buy the bonds yet made was proposed to the city council Monday night, but the council is determined that nothing will be done on the Lugert project until right-of-way has been secured. There is a probability that the entire project will be abandoned, councilmen say.

The prices asked the city for land needed in the reservoir area is so far beyond the estimate that if the owners price is paid, there will not be enough money left to build the project. In the decision Monday night, the council went on record that it would never sell the bonds or proceed further with the work at Lugert until the right-of-way has been secured at a figure that will permit the city to build the reservoir within the $600,000 voted for that purpose.

NOW TO CONTROL THE AIR

WICHITA FALLS recently has been getting more and more acquainted with the airship, what it can do and what it does do when properly handled.

Now then Mayor Shepherd proposes some laws to regulate the conduct of the airship over the city, and in so doing, he is following in the steps of other executives in other cities, who have found that the airplane is here to stay, that it can be made an agency for good, but that like everything else, depending on the human animal for control and direction, it has to have some supervision.

Even with the advances made in recent years in aerial transportation most folks still look with undisguised misgiving at the airplane. A lady—or a man either, for that matter, who thinks nothing of stepping into a car and running 40 miles an hour, or in a fast express train and running 60 miles an hour, backs away in terror at the prospect of climbing in an airship and going 90 miles an hour.

It isn't the speed of course, that scares them.

"Suppose it falls," they say.

Well, suppose it does. But why should it? Suppose the automobile turns over or the trains jumps the track. If they do, it's too bad, but why should they? They don't when they are operated normally. Neither does an airship fall when a capable pilot takes up a plane and uses it for that thing it was designed to do—fly.

You can climb in a powerful automobile, open it up to 70 miles an hour, take the corners on two wheels and do a lot of things with it that the ordinary motor car isn't supposed to do. By the same token you can make nose dives. Immelman turns, loop-the-loop, and other aerial doo-dads in an airship. Most of the time these end up successfully but sometimes they don't, and those 'sometimes" comprise 99 percent of the times in which the airplane comes to grief with its resultant toll of death.

Experienced airmen who are in the flying business and who depend on it for their livlihood realize that the public's fear of the air is the biggest thing they must overcome. Accordingly the majority of them are welcoming the regulations of communities that forbid stunting and other acrobatics that tend to increase the liklihood of accident. There is in America today an organization of accredited pilots who are bound up by ironclad contracts that no stunts shall be performed by them in any plane which passengers are carried. Their efforts in this line are stabilizing the airplane business and are beginning to increase confidence in the airship as a safe and sensible method of transportation.

Thus they find that straight flying in the air, plus modern equipment that is kept in constant repair, is bringing big returns in the way of successful flights and the almost entire elimination of tragic crashes.

Mayor Shepherd's air proposals, sensible and needed as they are, will have the hearty support not only of the public but also of most of the legitimate aviators who know their business.

A SEVERE SETBACK

IN THE change of masters in Peking recently the soviet drive into China has suffered a severe setback. Chang-Tso-Lin has been the East Asian buffer against the reds, and with his allies in North China has forced the Chinese communists out of the seats of power. The red Chinese army is departing from its old haunts and retreating possibly toward Kalgan, on the desert borders. Now the word comes from Peking's new masters that all the soviet men must go and that red influences must be exterminated. It is now the turn of the two military chieftains, Chang-Tso-Lin and Wu-Pei-Fu, to quarrel over Peking and Chinese control. For years no one has known what would happen to China. No one knows now; but for the moment, at least, the soviet commissars in Moscow have ceased to dream of the hammer-and-sickle flag flying over Tientsin, and even over the old German port Tsing-Tao, on the celebrated penisula of Shantung. These hopes have been high at times within the last year.

DO SOLDIERS READ?

DO sailors read? The Merchant Marine Library association reports a circulation of 250,000 books in 1925. But it is wrong to assume that sailors care only to read of the seafaring life. Of course, Conrad, McFee, Melville and other romances of the deep are in lively demand. But the mariner of a reading habit is not likely simply killing time with fiction; he wants literature that helps him to a knowledge of a trade, and the vocational literature is in growing demand. As the personnel of our merchant marine improves, there is a rising tide of intelligent perception in the choice of books.

MILLER ON THE BOND ISSUE

LIEUT. HARRY MILLER is insistent that asession of the state legislative should be called at once "to save the credit of Texas." There is a supreme court decision that has caused all this agitation and discussion. This newspaper believes that the plan proposed or decisive action by the chambers of commerce of the states, should be pushed forward without delay. There should be advertising of the right kind in the financial newspapers of the financial cities of America. There should be a statement attached to this advertising matter by the governor of the state containing a square-toed declaration that the people of Texas are behind the credit of the state, that every dollar involved in road bond issues, which are effected, shall be paid, interest and principal, and that the fourth state in the union is not a repudiator of honest obligations. Hon. Harry Miller is a square shooter. This is what he said annent a special session of the legislature.

"The situation that confronts this state now is far above politics. The credit of the state is imperiled througout the nation because $80,000,000 of the outstanding bonds of its road districts have been declared invalid and it is effecting every security in the state. There is only one thing standing in the way of a call session of the legislature, and that is politics. But aren't we big enough here in Texas in an emergency such as now confronts the state, to lay aside politics and save the state form disgrace. The credit of the state has not only been ruined, but the state stands to lose untold millions, unless the legislature meets and does all within its power to remedy the situation."

It appears that the lieutenant-governor is a bit agitated, but he should be told that $80,000,000 of road district bonds declared invalid did not shake the validity of the vast volume of bonds of all kinds, which have been issued by counties and municipalities, as they have not been declared invalid. A gilt edge security is a gilt edge security in any market in the world and the state is not going to be disgraced in the future by the action of the 600,000,000 people who are proud of their commonwealth and its credit.

It is imperative that action should be taken without delay, and the business or commercial organizations of Texas should lead off without delay. All the people are concerned and all the people should be willing to back up a legitimate program of legalized endeavor to bring about a validation of the $80,000,000 in bonds declared invalid "in order that the investors, who are innocent victims, may not suffer losses and the state may not be placed in the position of acting in bad faith with those who have invested their money in road bonds for public improvement purposes or any other purposes.

Our lieutenant governor does not know how the lawmakers are to go about it, but he believes that a way can be found to revitalize or legalize the bonds which have been declared void and the investor guaranteed from financial loss. This is what he said:

"I believe the legislature can cure the defect the supreme court points out in our road bond issues, but regardless of whether it can legally do it, I assert the honor to remedy the situation. If the legislature will only meet and go as far as it can, it will do a lot to redeem the state in the eyes of the investors of the nation."

It is a business proposition and business methods must be employed to remedy the evil that has been wrought by the decree of the court of last resort in the Archer county bond case. These bonds have been declared worthless, according to the decree they were issued in violation of the letter and the spirit of the 14th amendment. Repudiation would be criminal. Texas is the fourth state in the sisterhood in point of population and wealth. Texas has a record for honest dealing, according to law, that is without a spot or blemish. This record should be handed on to posterity. It should not be sullied in the morning dawn of the 20th century for the first time since the articles of agreement were ratified and the southwestern empire became an imperial commonwealth in the sisterhood of state.

Questions From the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

There is no subject under the sun of which men take such a distorted view as they do of a mother's influence. Romances have glorified it, poets have idealized it, musicians have sung it until men have honestly come to think that mothers have a practical monopoly of their children and the sole duty and privilege of shaping their lives.

Even fathers seem to think that fathers count for nothing, and that all they are good for is paying the bills. In the family circle they take a back seat and let mother run the show. It is Mother's Day that is celebrated with pomp and flowers and beating upon the cymbals. Nobody notices Father's Day. Perhaps because the first of the month is always Father's Day and comes round so often.

No one would belittle mother's influence. For good or evil, it is all powerful. But it is all too lazy, or too careless, or too careless, or too much absorbed in his busines to do his duty to his children by helping to mold their characters.

He dodges his responsibility. He passes the buck to mother and salves his conscience with a platitude about a mother's sacred influence, which in his innermost self he recognizes for the hokum it is. For mother's influence does not always work for righteousness.

Motherhood works no miracle. Bearing a baby does not put brains and wisdom in a hen-minded woman's head. It does not give a shallow woman depth. It does not make a narrow, prejudiced woman broad and tolerant. It does not make a fool woman wise.

Yet all around us we see men who would not trust their wives' judment about anything else on earth, turning over to them their children's immortal souls. They know their wives to be silly and ignorant; without vision, without the ability to see or understand anything beyond their own little circle, yet they let these morons shape their children's lives. They let them form their children's ideals and set their standards. They let them decide on the schools their children shall attend, the churches they shall join, the people with whom they associate.

Yet the very men who trust their children to weak and incompetent and unintelligent wives to rear would not dream of permitting a weak, incompetent, unintelligent partner to run their business. They are too well aware of the value of their personal advice and supervision and of the need of their strong and expert hands on the wheel.

Men blindly subscribe to the faith that a mother's influence is bound to be good, especially upon her daughters, yet a moment's thought would show them how fallacious such a belief is.

Doctor Resorts To Old Remedy; Child Is Saved As Result

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP) Albert Mack, Jr., 10 months old, is alive today only because Dr. Joseph Larkin of Casulty hospital, abandoned surgical instruments for more natural means in a desperate effort late yesterday to get an open safety pin out of his throat.

The baby was close to death when his mother rushed into the hospital with him, attendants related, and Dr. Larkin immediately attempted to dislodge the pin with his probing instruments. This failed, and the young life was ebbing rapidly.

Dropping his instruments the surgeon inserted a finger into the baby's throat until he could feel the pin. Pressing with his other hand from the outside he worked its point into his own flesh and drew it out just as the baby ceased breathing. Quick respiration treatment restored him and he was able to go home with his mother.

Execution Chances For Murder in U. S. But 1 in Each 110

CHICAGO, April 22.—(AP)—The chances of being executed in America for a deliberate murder are only one in 110 in favor of the slayer, figures compiled by Judge Marcus Kavanaugh, Chicago, reveal.

A survey just completed by the judge shows marked contrast in the crime records of America and England, where a murderer has almost no chances of escaping the death penalty. Less than 100 murders were committed in England and Wales in 1921, while there were 10,000 in America.

Petters Are Blamed For Forest Flames

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 22.—(AP)—Petting parties in country lanes are blamed for forest fires. William A. L. Blazeley, state commissioner of conservation says that lighted cigarette butts left behind by automobile parkers have caused many of the 100 forest fires in the last three days.

DINNER STORIES

Prompted by curiosity, a farmer had grown a crop of flax and had a table-cloth made of linen. Sometime later he remarked to a visitor at dinner. "I grew this table-cloth myself."

"Did you really?" she exclaimed. "How did you manage it?"

It was obvious the guest had no idea of how table-cloths came into being, so the farmer lowered his voice and in a whisper replied. "If you promise not to give the secret away I'll tell you." (Pauses) "I planted a table napkin!"

An old lady, brought up as witness before a bench of magistrates in England, when asked to take off her bonnett, refused to do so, saying:

"There's no law compelling a woman to take off her bonnet."

"O," said the judge, "you know the law, do you? Perhaps you would like to come up here and teach us."

"No, thank you, sir," replied the lady, "there are old women enough there already!"

The local pawnbroker's shop was on fire, and among the crowd of spectators was an old woman who attracted much attention by her sobs and cries of despair.

"What is the matter with you?" a fireman asked. "You don't own the shop, do you?"

"No," she wailed, "but my old man's suit is pawned there, and he don't know it."

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE
TAURUS

Today's planetary aspects are adverse until noon. They then become faborable, and remain so until dusk when they again become adverse. If anything of importance has to be attended to today, or if any change of a radical character has to be effected, it should receive your attention between noon and sunset, as the influences that then prevail will conduce to success. The balance of the day should be spent as far as is practical, quietly, and in ordinary duties. It will be found essential to exercise more than usual vigilance over your actions as these, if left to impulse, may bring in their train consequences of a far-reaching nature.

Children born today will pass through infancy with flying colors and promise to enjoy exuberant health and possess abnormal strength. The signs denote that later on in life they may be subject to the risk of accident, largely as the result of overtaxing their physical capacity. In character, they will be "happy-go-lucky," content to live in and enjoy the present, not giving as much thought as they should to "tomorrow." They will be nomadic in their tastes, and possess all the attributes of the proverbial "rolling stone" which, we are told, "gathers very little moss." They will never worry either themselves or others and, while contented, will not achieve any solid measure of material success.

If today is your birthday, you are large-hearted, magnanimous, and always ready and willing to help those whose circumstances are not so fortunate as your own. You are a good judge of character and as a result, are not often imposed upon. You would, however, rather help one that is unworthy than refuse aid to all.

You possess sterling attributes and are well equipped intellecutally. You read consistently and constantly and easily assimilate all that is worth while remembering. In many instances your magnanimity is mistaken for weakness. When, however, the occasion arises, you are always prepared to take a determined and courageous stand, and assert yourself. You are solicitous of your friends' approval and, before taking any step, invariably consider how it will be judged by those who are in intimate association with you.

Successful people born on this date are:

James Buchanan, 15th president of the United States.

John M. Ordway, chemist.

James B. Hammond, typewriter inventor.

Edwin Markham, educator and poet.

Arthur T. Handley, ex-president of Yale.

Chauncey Depew, chairman of board of directors New York Central railroad.

FLIERS IN SIAM

BANGKOK, Siam, April 22.—(AP) The Spanish fliers, Captains Loriga and Gonzalez-Gallarza, who are on a flight from Madrid to Manila, arrived here at noon today. They left Rangoon, Burma, early this morning for the flight of about 670 miles.

AN INVESTMENT

If I had money to invest,
A little cash I could advance,
I know how I would spend it best
And wisest: I would take a chance
In men, young men, in dreaming men,
In men with visions and desires,
I'd search the attics out, and then
Would bring new fuel to their fires
New hopes to hearts! I would not prize
Dead genius till new genius dies.

If I had wealth that I could give
I would not purchase dead men's art,
But I would help the living live—
Ah, I would cheer the drooping heart
Of men, fine men, of splendid men,
Who have the gift and not the gold.
Before the poet dropped his pen,
Before the sculptor's hand grew cold,
I would seek out the fertile mind
And, helping those, would help mankind.

If I had wealth I would not care
To hang my walls with dead men's things,
While there is genius everywhere,
Imprisoned genius wanting wings.
In men, young men, in dreaming men,
In weary men, I would invest,
And masters would be born again,
And art be served, and earth be blessed.
Though some may cast a skeptic glance
At youth—well, I would take a chance.

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX

1. Can fire burn without air?
2. Can oil fires be extinguished by water?
3. What is "Greek Fire"?
4. How can fire be made without matches?
5. Will merely rubbing sticks together make fire?
6. What chemical is chiefly used to extinguish fires?

Answers to these questions in tomorrow's Record News.

Fire Extinguishers on Fire

The great Chicago fire of October 8 and 9, 1871, destroyed $190,000,000 worth of property and one-third of the city and was the greatest fire of modern times, except perhaps the combined destruction of fire and earthquake of San Francisco and Tokio. Chicago, in fact, has had a number of famous fires; one of the strangest was the conflagration of the Chicago river, when oil on the surface took fire and the whole river in the downtown section was ablaze, burning many boats. But stranger still was the destruction of a factory there which manufactured fire extinguishing chemicals. These were contained in little bottles which you were supposed to throw into the flames. The glass would break and the chemicals were supposed to put out the fire. These extinguishers were widely sold. People who bought them were saddened to learn however, that the factory containing ten thousand little extinguishers had burned up.

Now what no you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. There are 87 chemical elements.
2. Animals and plants are chiefly composed of carbon.
3. Calcium, barium and strontium, are used to give colors to fireworks.
4. Calcium, potassium, sodium and barium, are among the chief basic chemical elements.
5. Nitric, hydrochloric and sulfuric are among the most powerful acids.
6. Formic acid is found in many animals, especially insects; citric acid is found in many fruits, especially of the orange family.

Jail Is Tiresome So Writer Changes Her Mind; Is Free

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—(AP) Mme. Edith Majda Lessing, who refused probation when sentenced in federal court several months ago to two years imprisonment for sending her book "Syllabus" through the mails, has undergone a change of heart and as a result has been granted her liberty. She was released yesterday from the county jail where she was imprisoned last November pending removal to Canon City, Colo.

The writer, in "Syllabus," advocated radical changes in marriage. In a letter to Federal Judge McCormick last Monday promising not to send the book through the mails any more, Mme. Lessing wrote that she had come to the realization that her teachings had gone out to the world and that her mission had been accomplished.

In declining probation at the time she was sentenced she told the court that she had "no alternative but to enlighten the world."

Negro Declines To Be Rescued, Fearing Arrest by Officers

AUSTIN, April 22.—(AP)—A negro who gave his name as L. E. Gray of Austin late Wednesday night was perched in a tree in the middle of the San Marcos river near Luling, refusing to come to shore because of fear of "the law." He clamered into the tree when caught in the river bottom by a sudden rise.

Austin police officials called by Luling officials after they had failed to entice the negro from his precarious roost, said the negro is not wanted there.

One man swam to the tree and after promising the negro he would not talk to an officer was told the name and home town of the marooned one.

Late Wednesday night reports to police headquarters said Gray was still in the tree.

Boy Is Killed In Dallas Auto Crash

DALLAS, April 22.—(AP)—Newman Elliott, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Elliott, Josephine, Texas, was killed today when an automobile in which the family was entering Dallas crashed with another machine.

The child was caught beneath the overturned car and died a few minutes later. The mother and father escaped with a few slight cuts and bruises, but the mother was suffering from a severe shock. They were bringing the boy to Dallas for treatment for pneumonia. Police are holding the driver of the other car on a charge of negligent driving.

SOCIETY

Miss Helen Davis Is Thursday Bride Of Brownwood Oil Man

Amid a setting of colorful and fragrant spring blossoms, intermingled among ferns, palms and southern smilax, which decorated the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Davis, 1009 Eleventh street, their daughter, Helen, was quietly married Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to James Lair Nelson, formerly of Washington D. C., who now maintains headquarters at Fort Worth.

The ceremony was read by Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church and was witnessed only by neighbors and a few intimate friends of the family, because of the serious illness of Mrs. Davis' sister, Mrs. F. McQueen in Dallas.

Mrs. Davis Matron

Mrs. William Henry Davis Jr., was matron of honor and preceded the entrance of the wedding party. She wore a lovely afternoon gown of black messaline with trimmings of purple georgette. Miss Sue King of Dallas, cousin of the bride, was her bridesmaid and wore a two-piece afternoon costume of crepe Romaine in tan color, with trimmings of gold lace. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, W. H. Davis, was charming in her going-away gown, a tailored effect in midnight blue, with all accessories to harmonize. She carried a shower bouquet of Marechal Niel roses tied with tulle. Both the matron of honor and bridesmaid carried shower bouquets of red rosebuds and ferns. All the bridal flowers were forwarded to the ill aunt in Dallas following the ceremony.

Dr. S. Joe McKinsey of Dallas was Mr. Nelson's best man, while William Henry Davis, Jr., brother of the bride was his groomsman.

A Bit of Sentiment

A unique feature of the ceremony and one which carried out a bit of sentiment, was the fact that it was read on the 68th wedding anniversary of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Bettye M. Garrett of Dallas, who is living and is 90 years of age. Mrs. Garrett is a frequent visitor to her daughter here in this city, and is well known here.

The bride is a popular member of the younger set here and is prominent in First Baptist church work, she is also pianist, having been one of Ernest Katz' pupils.

Mr. Nelson is vice president of the Douglas Oil corporation with headquarters in Fort Worth. The company is operating at Brownwood at present where the young people will make their home.

Highways in Texas Damaged by Rains, Engineer Reports

AUSTIN, April 22.—(AP)—Rain damage to state highways and bridges in 11 counties of Division 13 in Southwest Texas will exceed $100,000, Donk Rainey, assistant state highway engineer, said today.

Meagre reports from other sections indicate the damage was widespread. The highway department will have to bear the cost of reconstruction, Mr. Rainey said.

Counties in division 13 are: Fayette, Lavaca, Austin, Colorado, Gonzales, Dewitt, Victoria, Calhoun, Jackson, Wharton and Montgomery. A detailed report from the engineer of this decision was telephoned to Mr. Rainey.

On highway 71, 12 miles from La Grange, a 60-foot steel bridge was jarried out; on highway 53 in Colorado county, two 40-foot steel bridges were washed away, and in Fayette county a mile and a half of waterbound macadam pavement was badly damaged

A number of other small bridges were washed away or badly damaged. Mr. Rainey expressed belief a number of the bridges could be salvaged.

SPLIT PAYMENT

for some time between that company and County Superintendent Burl Bryant and in pursuance of that a draft for $2,431.22 was drawn on the company Thursday by the county tax collector. Accompanying the draft was a "temporary" receipt from the tax collector's office, and a letter in which it was stated that although the district school trustees had signified their willingness to accept the tax money this late in the year without payment of the penalty for delinquency that the tax collector's office itself did not concede any of its claims for final collection of the penalty through either amicable settlement or court decision.

The school trustees at Clara and at Weeth both, it is stated by Mr. Bryant, have voted to accept the taxes without payment of the penalty, and a similar action will be taken by the trustees of other districts within the next few days.

Archer Case Is Case.

The entire situation is the direct outgrowth of the decision of the United States supreme court denying the legality of Texas district road bond issues shortly after the first of the year. On the basis of that decision the Texas company, the Humble Oil and Refining company, and the Gulf Prdouction company tendered payment for their 1925 taxes minus the amount due in support of the Electra road bond issue, an amount aggregating $57,177.24. This "split" payment was refused by Mr. Raley who held that he had no authority to accept any except the whole. This stand was later upheld by Attorney General Dan Moody who ruled that only in Archer county was the "split" payment allowable. In refusing the "split" Mr. Raley notified the three companies that unless the taxes were paid in full the penalty for delinquency would be added to the principal, and that an attempt would be made to collect the entire amount later in the year by appropriate court action.

Would Close Schools.

In certain o the rural school districts however, Clara particularly, and Weeth, the support of the schools rested almost entirely upon tax money received from Gulf, Texas company, or Humble, the largest property owners in the district. Recognizing the fact that unless money was received in some manner the schools would be actually forced to shut down for practically two months, negotiations were begun between Mr. Bryant and the companies involved for a partial payment to permit the continuance of the school term. As a result of these negotiations all three companies signified their willingness to make such partial payment, minus of course, the penalty. Acceptance was voted by the school trustees, the county tax collector, however, refusing to accept the payment in any other light except "temporary," every effort to be made in the future, he states, to collect the entire amount alleged due. This arrangement, it is understood, is satisfactory to the oil companies.

The partial payments to be accepted amount to $2,431.22 from the Humble; $1,055.43 from the Texas company, and $1,905.42 from the Gulf.

Curley Seale, A Girl Of Ability On the Ranch, To Be Here For Rodeo

Rodeo fans of northwest Texas and southwest Oklahoma will have an opportunity to see for the first time at the seventh annual rodeo April 30, May 1 and 2, Miss Curley Seale, a girl rancher from Baird, Texas, who has entered the cowgirl steer riding contest. She is known as a rodeo performer in other parts of Texas and Oklahoma, but never before has she visited this section of the country.

She and her sister, Bill, live an unusual life on their 3,000 acre ranch in Callahan county. Included in the estate of their father, C. C. Seale, of Bair, who died in 1918, was the ranch and thousands of head of livestock. Instead of leasing the ranch to a man, the two girls made their home there and are now comfortably situated, with an elder sister who keeps house.

Instead of indulging in the frivolities of the modern girl of that age, Curley and her sister operate the ranch, herding cattle, branding calves and other western chores which they will not entrust to any male being. Occasionally a man is hired to build a fence or something of that sort, but except for that "hands" are generally on the taboo with them.

Curley is a musician, and finished at Kid Key college at Sherman several years ago, after graduating from the Baird high school. Her attire is the outfit of the cowpuncher. She works all week long, and on Saturday afternoon she goes to town for the necessary shopping just like the other ranchers in that vicinity. Instead of the beauty parlor and shops, Curley makes for the trading posts and there "swaps" horses and cattle with the rare ability that comes with long experience and a keen business mind.

The appearance of Miss Curley, in Wichita Falls, on April 30, May 1 and 2, is expected to cause something of a sensation as she will enter in the most gruelling of riding events.

(This picture is of Curley Seale on her wild Brahma steer.)

DAMAGES OF $3,000 ASKED

Electra Gas Company Is Sued by Hardware Firm

Damages in the sum of $3,000 are asked of the Electra Gas company, and A. T. and C. E. McDanald, doing business as the Electra Hardware company in a suit filed in the 78th district court Thursday by R. F. Scott of Electra.

The plaintiff in his petition alleges that on March 3, he took possession of a residence at 905 Wharton street, Electra, occupied previously up until February 26 by one Schleymeyer. The gas company had disconnected the pipes supplying the house with gas, but upon his moving in reconnected them. The petition alleges that the gas company in reconnecting the pipes failed to use proper diligence and care in the reconnecting with the result that gas leaking from bad joints accumulated in the house and exploded burning it to the ground and destroying all furnishings. Three thousand dollars is set as the value of the furnishings and damages asked, in that amount.

McDannald, et al, are made co-defendants in the suit by reason of their having installed the stove from which the exploding gas was ignited.

SLAYER MOBBED IN MISSISSIPPI

Crowd Removes Him From Jail And Quietly Hangs Him

POPLARVILLE, Miss., April 22. (AP)—Harold "Doc" Jackson was removed from the Pearl River county jail here today, taken to Picayune in an automobile and hanged. The jail was entered so quietly that the sleeping town was not aroused. The body was found suspended from a bridge inside the city limits of Picayune.

Judge J. Q. Langston and District Attorney Toxey Hall, in Poplarville attending court, left for Picayune when notified by Sheriff Arthur J. Smith of the lynching. They were to conduct an investigation following an inquest scheduled for today.

Jackson, held in the Harrison county jail at Gulfport since February 20 in connection with the slaying of J. A. McLemore and W. M. Hingee, federal entomologists, was delivered to the Pearl River county authorities Tuesday when the Hancock county grand jury failed to indict him. He was under indictment in Pearl River for the slaying of Mrs. Eunatice Pearson in 1924. Jesse Favre was convicted of the murder of McLemore at Bay St. Louis and sentenced to life imprisonment. On the witness stand in his defense he admitted that he was present when the federal agents were slain, but said that Jackson killed them.

Officers in Army Cannot Establish Homes for Divorces

SAN ANTONIO, April 22.—(AP) A warning to all officers of the United States stationed at military posts in Texas that they cannot establish residence in this state for the purpose of obtaining divorces, is being prepared by Colonel Herbert A. White, judge advocate of the Eighth Corps Area.

The warning will be issued in memorandum form and distributed among officers stationed in Texas.

"It is my opinion," Colonel White said today, "that an officer of the United States army cannot gain legal residence in Texas living on a military reservation which has been turned over to the federal government by the state without the state retaining control over it."

Issuance of the warning at this time comes as the result of a general court martial case that is soon to be tried at corps area headquarters, in which the question of the legality of a divorce secured in Texas will be involved. Colonel White sometime ago made virtually the same ruling.

Find Woman's Body In Alley in Kansas

KANSAS CITY, April 22.—(AP)—Following discovery of the body of a woman in an alley here early today the authorities were attempting to link a series of attacks on women that had taken place in the last two weeks. The woman was identified as Mary Herriet Dowser, 42, of this city, and evidences pointed to an attack and death by choking.

Circumstances in each of the recent attacks in the same neighborhood pointed to a negro or a white man with a blackened face as the attacker, police said. In each instance the method was the same.

The police were investigating the theory that the woman may have been slain in a vacant apartment, given as her residence address, and the body taken to the alley. Detectives reported that blood stains were found in the apartment.

An employe of the city street cleaning department was arrested for questioning. The man, according to police, acknowledged he knew the woman and said he had written a note signed "Frank" found in her effects. He denied any knowledge of her death.

Martin gave "The Pan-American Exposition," Mrs. W. W. Morrison, "The Louisiana Purchase Exposition," while Mrs. A. D. Cummings closed the program with "The Lewis and Clarke Exposition." Each topic was splendidly prepared and interesting side lights were given. A musical treat was afforded, the program opening with a piano solo by the hostess which was much enjoyed and an orchestra composed of Joseph Martin, violinist, Donald Morrison, clarinet, and Mrs. W. W. Morrison, piano, furnished two numbers that were especially enjoyed. The first, "Miserere," from "Il Trovatore by Verdi was so well received that they responded to an insistent encore with an old favorite with audiences, "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

The meeting closed after a brief business session conducted by the president, Mrs. J. M. Dyer, at which time plans were made for work to be begun in the city park which is sponsored by the Delphian club.

Prejudices Voted First, Judgment Second, is Claim Made in Support Of Double Primary Fight in Texas

Losing Party in First Primary Usually Able to Dictate Ultimate Party Victory Under Present System, Is View Being Taken Now.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 22.—A new fight on the Texas double primary system may grow out of this year's governor's race, in which it may be possible for the forces of the losing candidate in the first primary to name the nominee in the second. This is a possibility, regardless of the standing of the three main candidates in the first primary.

The underlying ground for attack on the two-primary system has been that it failed to select the candidate who most nearly represented the middle ground for all the voters, but on the other hand was the choice between one or the other of the most violent extremes, when there were several candidates of comparable strength in the race.

A Good Illustration

The 1924 nomination was a perfect illustration. All the middle-ground men were dealt out in the first primary. Only the extremes of klan and anti-klan remained, out of which the party was forced to make its selection.

The "balance of power" element may arise in a three-cornered race this year or any other campaign year, whereby the low man and his following dictate the party nomination. This assumes the third following will "stay hitched" after the primary, or will stand together for one or the other of the remaining candidates.

So, the prediction is already being heard that "the losing one of the three will nominate the winner." As to which direction any of the three candidates might attempt to swing his or her following in the second primary, no attempt is being here to predict this. Every adherent of every candidate has it as firmly fixed in his mind as he has the success of his choice; and if there are more different opinions on this, it is only because there is a wider range of possible combinations.

Prejudices first

Advocates of a single-primary system make this assertion:

"People vote their prejudice first, their judgment second."

They claim by this if a first and second choice ballot were presented, the second choices would balance toward a middle-ground person, a person more nearly acceptable to the entire range of partisan thought than perhaps the high first-choice candidate. It would be of course, possible for the person third highest in first choices to be nominated by the second choice.

Elks' Army-Navy Commander Dead

DALLAS, April 22.—(AP)—Attired in full regalia, General William H. (Billy) Patterson, 74, commander-in-chief of the Elks army and navy, the lodge's fun-making organization, was found shot to death, presumably by his own hand, in a bath tub at his residence here today.

Mrs. Patterson, bride of a few months, was away at the time of the shooting.

At one time, the "Army and Navy", whose companies have only one non-commissioned man, a "high private," had a membership of 3,000, including prominent men throughout the nation. General Patterson, who commissioned the numerous high-ranking officers, organized the order in 1903 and recently initiated plans for a complete re-organization.

IRISH CARDINAL DEMANDS CHAPERONES FOR DANCERS

BELFAST.—In a pastoral issued by Cardinal O'Donnell he takes up the matter of modern dancing in the following words: "When a mother allows her daughter to go to a dance, let her have as much Christian respect for herself and for them as to provide the close attendance of a capable female companion, and not leave them altogether upshepherded in the lonely ways where the wolf may prowl in seeming innocence. So serious a view do the bishops of Ireland take of the dangers attendant on dancing that they have ordered the reading of special instructions on the subject four times a year in the churches of the whole country.

GYPSIES, AGED 4 TO 70, FILL SCHOOL ALL DAY

GUILDFORD, Eng.—The school established for gypsies on Hurtwood Down has become a national rallying point for these roving people. As a result, the school opens at 7 o'clock in the morning and seldom closes before 11 o'clock at night. The pupils range in age from 4 to 70 years. The oldest pupils insist on smoking clay pipes at their work, so the teachers are glad that summer is coming as it will then be possible to keep the door and windows open all the time.

SECRET WIFE LOSES FIGHT FOR ESTATE OF $500,000.

GREENOCK, Scotland — Mrs. Helen Millar, who secretly married William Millar, Jr., several years before his death, has lost her contest for his $500,000 estate. A will in her favor was set aside and the estate will be divided as if her husband had died intestate. The fact that she permitted the marriage to be kept secret counted against her when the court considered the case. It was brought out that for some years Miller had drank a bottle of whiskey every night, in addition to considerable liquor taken during the day.

Ho Hum! Our Spuds Have To Lose One Or Two Now And Then

Tarleton's Sports Prove Selves Acute Bother As Run Rough Over Us

Gentle Joust at Beginning Turns Into Regular Smashing Attack on Brainard At Baseball Orchard

BY BLONDY CROSS

Bob Tarelton's surprising Shreveporters more than likely will prove an acute annoyance to the arrogant leaders this summer. In fact, Friend Robert's outfit, excepting our proud Spudder clique, looms better at the moment than the rest of the league together—almost.

Brainard's bouncing boys pushed out front mid-way in a hectic affray yesterday on the home lists, but the lead was fragile and unenduring. The Shreveporters displayed a flippant resistance which before the joust was finished turned into a smashing attack that splintered the domestic spears and unhorsed the knights of the Spudder vale with result a 11-5 casualty was marked up against Wichita Falls forces.

Suds Sutherland, starting hoaver for Texas, boasted a rare assortment of warper flings but was wilder than Dutch Mantell, our boisterous little playmate of the canvas mat. With the count 4-2 against the Louisianans in the sixth sally, Jay Kirke bumped Suds for an unnecessary two-bagger. The blow, abetted by two bases on balls, a jungle heave at the plate with Suds on the throwing end, and a single by Bonowitz balanced the score.

Suds passed a couple more in the seventh. A sacrifice put 'em a notch nearer home. Morgan assumed the task of thwarting further advance but failed. Two base biffs, an error and a walk gave Dick the curtain call. Wheeler rushed head-long into the melee. An infield poke and sacrifice fly got rid of Dick's tormenters by the simple process of chasing them across the home plate. Next man bounded out to Rip. An invoice carefully taken at the close of the orgy showed that six Sports had tabulated on three safe hits, three bases on balls, one error and a brace of sacrificial punches. The score stood 10-4, Shreveport.

Bonowitz Cuts Up

Murder in the outfield by Bonowitz after Fitz and Washburn had singled in the Wichita Falls share of the seventh stemmed a Spudder rally. The rabbit Sport outer gardner sprinted back to the center boards and with one hand stabbed a herculean drive off Bodie's bat. He had enacted a similar play in the fifth on Mr. Pissola.

Singles by Hoffman and Brown in the ninth followed by a long fly to center off Bonowitz's stick gave Shreveport another tally.

Turgeon hoisted one of Cantrell's slants over the port barricade in the Spud half of the final frame to make the score check up as chronicled in the second paragraph of this account.

Both clubs fielded snappily. The error column apparently belies this statement. However, that's the truth. Just too much baseball crammed into one nine-inning span. There were a multitude of flossy plays, one of the flashiest of which was a startling one-hand grab enacted in the eighth by Fitzgerald on low drive to left center by Taylor.

Phelps, Benton and Taylor grounded out in a row as a starter. Brainard went back of third to scoop up the lead-off man's roller and followed through with a great throw to first. Benton lined out to Lamb, and Suds took care of bobble by Taylor. With one gone, Fitz walked and Skip Fred sent him to third with a rip between first and second. The menace was mild, however. Mule stumbled into tough break and bumped a double play ball to Hoffman, retiring the side.

Kirke opened the second round with a bust past short, but Suds whiff—two and the other putout was handled by Ping in right. Blankenship set the domestics down in order.

Double Play Saves.

Suds gave up a pair of counters in the third. He walked Wilder, Blankenship laid one down. Suds fielded and would have had Wilder at second but his throw pulled Distel off the bag. Phelps forced Wilder at third, Sutherland to Brainard. Benton and Taylor followed with singles, scoring Blankenship and Phelps. Kirke bounded to Distel who heaved to Turge at the keystone, cutting Taylor away. Pete launched a fast but wierd heave to first. Wash stretched out and corralled the tumultous sphere to complete a twin erasure while Benton was speeding homeward.

Brainard bludgeoners spliced the lead in the domestic portion of the third. Lapan rifted a sizzler at short and drew a life when Phelps got his feet in the way. Sutherland biffed a one-baser through the same sector, sending Pete to second. Distel advanced the runners a notch with a sacrifice bunt. Fitz grounded to Kirke who threw home to catch Lapan on the slide. The midget maskman displayed his Irish temperament by disputing the decision vociferously. Suds drew up at third and walked home on a bombastic blast to right by Brainard. Wash forced Fred at second for the third out.

Rout Blankenship.

The Sports were helpless in the fourth before the exotic shoots of the veteran Suds although Hoffman led away with a scratch safety between first and second that Turge came very near to converting into a putout. On the other mitt, our proud Spudders arose in aristocratic wrath and pelted Blankenship from the hill with a calm display of cold brutality. Bodie opened with a whistling wham to port that was too swift for the pudgy one to realize more than a single on it. Then Turgeon coyly clouted an arch to the right center boards for two cushions. Pissola lumbered to third. The Spudders needed two runs to squeeze ahead. Brainard and Lamb held a short palaver at the dugout corner. The boisterous little one, a sublime expression in which there lurked just a hint of apparent evil intentions on his bland countenance, strode to the platter and with perfect sangfroid, larruped the onion to left center for two sacks, scoring, of course, the requisite brace of markers. The hospital corps took charge of Blankenship and Slim Cantrell, another right hander, advanced into our midst again. Slim, you remember, relieved Buzzer bill Tuesday when the latter was routed by Spud bludgeons. Lamb got no further than third. Slim, apparently, was right for the Sport infield mowed down the next three batsmen. Lamb's bust put the score at 3-2, Wichita Falls.

Cantrell floozed a single back of first in the fifth but was cut down a few second later at the keystone on a hit and run play that failed to function.

Lapan hopped the ball to Distel, who slashed Slim out of the running. Pete muffed one, but the double play mechanism on bounder to short by Benton, George to Pete to Royce, turned 'em back.

A perfect performance at the plate by Fitz, Brainard and Washburn netted the home nine a counter in the fifth. Fitz started with a meteoric maul to left for a single. The boys laid down a sacrifice tap, advancing the runner to second. Washburn pinked a single to center, scoring the southpaw.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 22.—(AP)—Mark Arie, Olympic trap shooter champion, has filed suit in circuit court for idvorce from Eula Arie. In charging cruelty he claims that his wife threatened him with a revolver and a butcher knife. She is living in Chicago with their two children.

Demetral Seeks Match With Champion

HARRY DEMETRAL

The Greek middleweight, meets Bob Lester of New Orleans in a one-fall match preliminary to the Mantell-Mahmouth match Monday night at the Majestic theatre. If Demetral makes as good showing as he is expected to, he will be given a match with Johnny Meyers, the world's champion at Demetral's weight.

It will be recalled that Demetral is one of the few men who defeated the famous Pet Brown when the Texas wrestling sensation was at his best. And Demetral was the only athlete who pinned Pet in straight falls.

SENATORS MAKE IT EVEN-STEVEN WITH MACKMEN

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—(AP)—Washington evened the series with the Athletics today by winning the second game, 3 to 2. The local infield made many errors of omission that were almost entirely responsible for the Senators' five runs in the first four innings. The Athletics found Ruether a puzzle and the former National League hurler worked easily. The score:

Ewing Billed With Hull In Ten Rounds Tuesday Night At Legion Arena

Wildcat Ewing of Houston and Clyde Hull, St. Paul welterweight, are matched for a ten-rounder Tuesday night at the Twelfth and Ohio arena under auspices of the American legion, Matchmaker Don Wofford announced last night.

Ewing and Hull are very much the same style fighters, hence should make a fast mill, the promoter expressed as his opinion. Both boys are fast, long range battlers. Ewing, it is believed, packs perhaps the stiffest punch but is not quite as clever as Hull.

Spike Flanagan, the elongated Wichita Falls welter, meets Johnny Sherrod of Fort Worth in an eight-rounder, said Wofford. Both boys are rugged, willing mixers.

Battling Cousey, the hard-hitting Wichita Falls bantam will be matched with some suitable opponent in either a four or six-rounder, said the promoter.

Special attention of fight fans is called to the fact the fight night has been changed from Thursday to Tuesday.

American Eagles Smother McMann

The American Refinery Eagles defeated the McMann refinery of Burkburnett on the McMann diamond Thursday afternoon by a score of 6 to 1. The Eagles won easily behind the great pitching of Snipe Connelly. McCall pitched good ball for McMann, but hits were gathered at timely times off him.

Skipper Medford used the same infield that he had last year in the Wichita Falls Twilight league and they were working true to form in the game. Medford, at first; Francis, at second; Windham, at short, and Christian, at third, make an infield that will be hard to match.

Texhoma Twilighters Nose Out Security National Bankers, 4 to 2

PARKER HURLS ONE-HIT GAME FOR OIL CREW

Dixon Supplies Cashiers' Lone Wallop To Score Pair

BY MACK TURNER

Jimmy Parker, youthful Texhoma right-hander, held Hugh Cotner's Security National Bank team to a lone bingle through seven innings of Twilight league play yesterday, pitching his team to a 4-2 victory.

Dixon, Security third sacker, poled the safety off Jimmy's delivery. A base on balls and an error put two runners on in the first round. Dixon's clout sent them home.

After the opener, Parker settled to his knitting and hurled almost flawless baseball. In the second stanza, Vernie Ross walked and was thrown out in an attempted pilfering foray. He was the only man who reached first on Parker the remainder of the route.

Gabe Harris heaved a sharp game for the Bankers. Only four hits were garnered by the Oilers. Of this quartet two were the scratch variety.

It was a pitcher's battle all the way. Harris scattered his safeties, but four errors and a wild pitch chased home the winning tallies.

The fielding features of the game were catches turned in the outfield on long flies. Thurman, of Security bank, made a nice one-handed stab of Cannon's drive to right in the fifth inning. Rabbit Gordon made a great running catch of Thurman's line drive to center in the fifth inning.

Allen Flashes.

Doc Allen, Texhoma shortstop, made a sweet running snare of Flatt's pop foul in the third inning. Montgomery, Security shortstop, made a nice stop of Andy Taylor's bad hopping grounder in the second inning, but was too late to get Taylor at first.

Andy Taylor captured the hitting honors with two clouts out of the three times at bat. Both blows were singles.

The Security team took the lead in the first inning after Gabe Harris had forced three men to hit weakly to the hill. Kizziar walked. Parker then worked Flatt into swinging at the third strike. Montgomery hit to Atkins who fumbled the ball and both runners were safe. Brown flied out to Cannon with no advance. Dixon then took advantage of a fat one and lined a single to left center that scored both Kizziar and Montgomery. Dixon took second on the throw to the plate. Taylor and Kellogg retired Jack Hale.

After that inning Parker was never in danger. He whiffed seven men over the rest of the route and walked one. In the fifth and sixth innings he fanned Harris, Kizziar, Flatt, and Montgomery in succession. Harris fanned for the last out in the fifth inning.

Texhoma One in Fourth.

Harris was never in danger until the fourth inning when one run was worked over by the Texhoma crew. Kellogg pulled Harris for a base on balls to start the inning. Ross attempted to catch Kellogg off first and ancorked a jungle heave. The runner went to second. Dub Davis followed with another walk. Doc Allen slammed one past third for a single and Kellogg scored. Davis continued on to third and Allen took second on the throw in. Andy Taylor hit weakly to Harris and Davis was trapped between third and home. Dixon taggad Davis out, and then hemmed Allen in between second and third. He was run down with Dixon getting the second putout. Riley flied to Flatt.

In the sixth inning Harris weakened for a moment and three runs were shoved over by Texhoma before Gabe could put on the brakes. Gordon led off with a walk. Kellogg hit to Harris who threw wild to second. Both men were safe. Davis bunted in front of the plate and Harris threw late to third to force Gordon, and the bases were filled. Harris then uncorked a jungle heave and Gordon scored. The other runners advanced a base. Allen attempted the squeeze play and fouled the bunt on the third strike and was called out. Taylor dropped a single in right, Kellogg and Davis scoring. Montgomery handled the relay and almost had Taylor trapped off the base, but Brown let Monty's throw get away from him. Taylor went to second and continued on to third. Brown recovered the ball and threw Taylor out at third base. Montgomery and Brown retired Riley.

A double smashed by Parker was the only thing that happened in the seventh inning.

Darkness Ends Long Battle in Chicago

CHICAGO, April 22.—(AP)—Darkness today ended an eleven inning battle between Cincinnati and Chicago with the score tied at 5-all after a rush of pinch hitters in the ninth had enabled the Cubs to knot the count. The Reds took an early lead by bunching hits to help along the erratic support of the Cubs. Chicago played an uphill game but evened the score through Luque's wildness and an error by Picinich. Donohue replaced the Cuban but was in turn retired in the tenth when the Cubs threatened. May then went to the mound for the Reds and Shannon who drove in the tying run in the ninth ended the play by hitting into a fast double play. Each club used a trio of pitchers. The score:

RUBBER GAME TODAY

The deciding tilt of the Shreveport-Wichita Falls series is carded at Spudder Park this afternoon. Starting the season in Louisiana by splitting with the Tarleton wallopers in four games, then after a recess at Fort Worth Brainard and bunch came home the other day to continue in a deadlock. Score of games stands at 3-3.

FOR THE LADIES

It's difficult to run down a correct guess as to Wichita Falls' probable starting flinger this afternoon. But any way you look at it, Brainard, if he's as smart as we think he is, will send his handsomest flinger to the knob. Today, gents, is "Ladies' Day!"

* * *

This scribe isn't much of a judge of masculine comeliness (but in passing on feminine pulchritude??? Oh, gosh!!). Anyhow, Jim Roberts, classic featured brunet, is our selection.

Tex Rickard blew into Henrietta last night to look over his old grazing grounds. The colorful fight promoter said something about coming to Wichita Falls for a short visit if he could possibly make it.

FIRPO, WHO'S HE?

We asked Tex the other day what he thought of Firpo's chances to stage a comeback.

"They're zero in my estimation!" he said or words of similar thought.

"Firpo CAN stage a comeback if he would. But he's too lazy and fat to train."

HAD JACK FOOLED

Musing over that memorable Dempsey-Firpo mill of two years ago this summer, Rickard gave the writer an interesting little sidelight on aftermath feeling registered on Dempsey. It appears that Dempsey underestimated the prowess of the erstwhile Pampas Bull.

The champion remarked to Rickard following the battle in which he had mingled with the resin and even been slapped completely out of the ring before he won his fight, "You lied to me about that big fellow, Tex. You said he couldn't hit." The champ was rubbing his jaw and grumbling ruefully.

Rickard replied, "No, I didn't. I told you he was a big, awkward fellow, but a hard hitter. And I said 'if he hits you, Jack, he'll hurt you'."

Jack smiled grudgingly. "Well, he hit me, and it hurt, all right!"

Jimmy Moore, manager of the Texas hotel at Fort Worth, declares that old speckled Bob Fitzsimmons called the turn on Dempsey before the Manassa mauler ever captured the crown.

Says Moore, "I was working behind the desk in a hotel (the writer doesn't recall just what city the incident occurred in) one day when in lumbered old Bob, with a little fox terrier under his arm. He trudged over to the counter, placed the pup on top and with a growl and heavy scowl muttered, 'Don't you start anything with me. I'll sic my dog on you'."

Dempsey was standing over at one end of the room talking to a friend, says Moore. The hotel man took a squint at Jack and then came back at Bob with, "Yeah, and you fool with me and I'll sic Jack Dempsey on you."

Old Bob pulled up closer, according to Moore, and mumbled, "Say, Bud, I wouldn't want you to sic him on me when I was in my prime. Yuh understand? When I was at my BEST! That young man will beat anything put in front of him. There won't any man stop him for many years to come!"

It was but a short time later that the youthful Dempsey stepped out and smashed the giant Willard to a pulp at Toledo when nearly everybody, including Tex Rickard himself, thought Willard would win in a walk.

Schroeder Drops Out But Clara Still Hopes to Make Strong Bid For Texas High Track Honors

On the eve of the first date set for the county meet Orien "Curley" Walkup and Joe Jones, Clara track men were counted out, but with the postponing of the county meet to one week later Walkup was able to make the grade for the district meet to be held in Iowa Park next Saturday.

Now almost on the eve of the district meet another man goes down. Leonard "Dutch" Schroeder drops out with tonsilitis. This young man has been cutting a wide swath in the field events and was counted upon to do the same as he did last year, and that was to go to the state meet at Austin.

Schroeder was heaving the discus around 100 feet and the javelin about 150 feet and claims that if it becomes necessary he can add 10 or 12 feet to this in order to win. It was the javelin throw that sent Schroeder to Austin last year.

J. O. Sehon, another of the there state men from Clara last year, is putting the shot farther every day and is expected to capture the district meet with ease in the department. He is also threatening to make somebody hustle in the broad jump and the 440 yard dash.

Loy Nichols, the third state man, surely must have wings on his feet for he is broad jumping around 20 and 21 feet with regularity. If he can get this distance in the district meet he will be hard to stop from one more trip to Austin. He is also working on the javelin and low hurdles.

Leroy Nichols is pole vaulting around 10 feet and is expected to be hard to stop in the meet. He is also working hard on the high jump and the half mile run.

Curly Walkup is back and working hard to get in shape by Saturday. If he can get into condition by then he will strut his stuff in the 100 yard dash, low and high hurdles, 220 yard dash, pole vault or high jump. Curly is a little weak now from his illness but expects to be in fairly good condition by Saturday. He is determined to place Saturday and then show his heels to the boys at the state meet.

With all the hard luck that has heaped up on the Clara team they the hopeful of capturing the district meet as easily as they did the Class B meet of the county.

Heavy Attendance At Drake Relays

DES MOINES, Ia., April 22—(AP) Several of the university, college and high school teams that will participate in the annual Drake relays tomorrow practiced today in the new Drake university bowl. With teams arriving on nearly every train the entry list of almost 2,500 athletes from all parts of the country was expected to be filled by tomorrow morning.

Hotels were crowded tonight by the influx of track and field stars from the 20 big ten and Missouri valley institutions and scores of others demanded accommodation. Three western schools, the Utah Aggies, Oregon Aggies and Utah university joined in workouts at the field this morning.

Charley Hoff, Norwegian pole vault king, who has broken the world record in this country several times, worked out today and assisted with the sport page of a local paper.

The stadium in which the relays have been held for 16 years has been re-built and with the bunting and pennants hung over it today presents a colorful arena for the athletes and the 18,000 persons who are expected to witness the games.

DALLAS CANS CHET AND SENDS HIM TO DENVER

DALLAS, April 22.—(AP)—Chet Chadbourne, veteran outfielder, has been unconditionally released by the Dallas baseball club. He exhibited some good work during the spring games, but was unable to break into the iron-clad Steer outfield.

Club officials also said that Swede Lind, the recruit sensation recently sent to Corsicana, had balked at his disposition, and will be sent to the Denver Bears instead. He still belongs to Dalls.

Texas Hardware Beats Texhoma

After rain had halted the Monday and Tuesday games of the Electra Twilight league the Texas Hardware and the Texhoma clubs opened the season Thursday afternoon, the Hardware nine winning 5 to 1 in a four-inning game.

Lefty Mullens started wild for the Texas Hardware club, and was pulled. Cummins pitched the rest of the way and held the Texhoma club hitless. Brown, of Texas Hardware, hit a home run over the center field fence in the third inning with none on.

Sniper's Herd 'Pours It On 'Em' Despite Lineup Changes

DALLAS, April 22.—(AP)—The Fort Worth infield cracked again and the Dallas Steers defeated the champions by a score of 11 to 7. At critical moments the Panther defense went to pieces, as it has in every other Steer-Cat encounter of the season and a total of five costly sins of commission was chalked up against Jakie Atz's nine.

The Cats got the jump, scoring two in the first. Dallas evened it up with two in the second. The Cats apparently sewed u pthe game in the third by scoring four runs but the Steers fought it out, finally running up the count to 11 tallies.

Foss of Fort Worth and Shuman for Dallas hit home runs. Eddie Palmer of the Cats had two two-baggers to his credit. Fort Worth used four pitchers, Walkup, Head, Betts and Howard, to stave off the disaster. Dallas yanked Victor in the fourth inning and Dickie Shuman pitched good relief ball, striking out six of the Panthers.

Homer Helps 'Jeems' Defeat San Antonio

BEAUMONT, April 22.—(AP)—Deviveros' pinch homer in the eighth with two on base after Galloway had been given an intentional pass broke up another slugging match between San Antonio and Beaumont today, the Exporters reversing the Wednesday score for a 11-9 victory. Seven home runs were slugged in the attack on three pitchers. Eberhard, relieving Drake after the third pitched well. There was much umpire baiting and three players were chased from the park, two from the San Antonio bench and Robertson who was catching for the locals. The score:

ALTUS, April 22.—Glen English was declared tennis champion of the Altus senior high school today, when the contests for the singles proved him winner, and he, with Dodson Johnson, won the senior doubles of the tournament.

Darrell Ewing won the junior singles, and the junior doubles will be played within a few days.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

BY NORMAN E. BROWN

The injury to Harry Riconda, young third baseman of the Boston Braves, may well spell the death knell of the Boston team's hopes.

There seems to be some sort of curse attending that position on the Brave team. The first big blow that Davey Bancroft suffered as manager of the team was the untimely death of Normal Boeckel in an auto accident three years ago.

HARRY R. RICONDA

Since that time Bancroft has labored diligently to find someone to play the far corner in capable style.

Last year Andy High and the young Bill Marriott labored there. Marriott was allowed to depart to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

In 1924 Cotton Tierney, Bob Smith and Ernie Padgett were used to fill the gap. Tierney was traded, Bob Smith was turned into a pitcher, and Padgett kept until this year as utility infielder. He is with Cleveland now.

Riconda, once tried out by the Athletics, was counted on to round out the Brave infield, along with the diminutive Walter Gautreau. Working alongside the veteran and crafty manager at short Riconda was showing vast improvement. Hesitancy to go into Bancroft's territory for ground or fly balls was his only weakness. Bancroft was correcting this by encouraging the young man on each occasion to 'take it.'

Bancroft felt that Riconda and Gautreau, also let go by Connie Mack, would make the long leader regret his haste in disposing of them and would give the Braves a better first defense—something they needed.

Riconda will be lost to the team for several weeks. Meanwhile Bancroft will have to use a makeshift lineup.

It will take clever leadership on Bancroft's part to hold his team morale up to a high pitch during this period.

SAND LOT SLANTS

ELECTRICS SIGN HURLER

The Wichita Falls Electrics have signed up another slab artist and hope that with the addition of this man they will have a team that will back up their start of one game lead over the less lucky teams of the league.

The Electrics won their first game and are now ready to get off with the next one. The new pitcher is M. L. Whitten from California. It is reported that Whitten won nine games out of 12 on the California sandlots. He is a right-hander.

The Electrics started their daily practice Thursday for their game with the Texhoma club next Tuesday. Everette Blue is slated to pitch in this game.

It doesnt pay to beat the Water Department, according to Skipper Goodwin, of the Wichita Fallas Electires. "Goodie" started to wash his hands Thursday afternoon and found the water cut off. This happening right after beating the Water Department team Sunday by a 4-2 score brought forth the comment from the skipper. Wonder if Texhoma will cut them out of gas should the Electrics win next Tuesday from them.

WOOF! WOOF!

A few days ago both the Wichita Falls Electrics and the Water Department teams came up claiming they had Polly Woods, outfielder. The Electrics chased out Sunday with Woods in an Electric company uniform.

Now Hugh Cotner, our banking friend, demands to know how the Water Department lays claim to Red Belcher. Hugh comes through with his list of names on the contract and on the list is Red Belcher.

Othel Hogue, Burkburnett second baseman, has been trying out with the Security Bank nine and according to all the talk about town of those who have watched the little fellow in action he is one of the best prospects of the year.

Cotner is greatly elated. Coach Mosley is also watching him closely. Hogue has been a star with the Burkburnett high school nine for some time.

Triple in First Gives Buffs Game

HOUSTON, April 22.—(AP)—Ray Powell's triple in the first with two on base was the punch which was responsible for three Buff scores and allowed the Houston club to win from Waco today, 4 to 1. Big Claud Davenport was touched rather frequently during the battle, but he kept Waco hits well scattered. Roy Crumpler, after an uncertain start, pitched.

More Truth Than Poetry

A SOFT JOB

A king must find it rather tough
His kingdom to surrender;
But why is not there joy enough
In being a pretender?
Pretenders have no thrones, it's true—
But they're not bended double
A worrysome existence through
With all known forms of trouble.

Suppose the populace some day
Comes 'round with pikes and axes,
And says there'll be the deuce to pay
About those higher taxes—
The man who fancies he is king
Can say "What ho! my hearties!
You know I cannot do a thing;
Go see the proper parties!"

Suppose hard times should come along
And filled with rage and malice,
A hundred thousand men should throng
To rob and sack the palace.
The bogus monarch need not get
To safety in a hurry,
It's only up to him to let
Some other fellow worry,

He is not bowed with cares of state
No fears at midnight thrill him
When thinking of the horrid hate
Of folks who want to kill him.
No sceptre does he have to swing;
His life's a free and gay one;
And though he THINKS that he's a king—
He does not have to BE one!

Forest Fires Rage In Southern Jersey

NEWARK, N.J., April 22.—(AP)—Forest fires tonight continued to ravage the pine belt of southeastern New Jersey. The loss is estimated at $1,000,000.

General John C. Visser, a boar war fighter, dropped dead from excitement when the fire was raging in the vicinity of his home at Pleasantville.

Other towns in threatened areas were Adawnston, Cedar Bridge, West Mantolokin and Laurelton, in the southern belt and wayside, six miles west of Asbury Park. Sixty United States marines assigned to the fire area by Captain George W. Steele, Jr., commandant at the Lake Hurst naval air station, saved many homes in the small villages menaced.

INVENTOR DIES.
Sir Henry Mance, Heliograph Patentee, Passes On.

OXFORD, England, April 22.—(AP)—Sir Henry Mance, who invented the heliograph when he was 20 years old, died here today, aged 80.

Sir Henry entered the service of the Indian government in the Persian telegraph department in 1863. He became an engineer and electrician of the line. The heliograph, by which messages could be sent a long distance by reflecting the rays of the sun according to a pre-arranged code, was invented by him chiefly for the use of the English military forces in India. Sir Henry retired from the service in 1883.

TOO MANY LAWS
Tri-State Barrister's Convention Discuss Legislation

TEXARKANA, Ark., April 22.—(AP)—That too many laws have been passed, hampering the courts in their procedure, and that many of these laws should be repealed and the courts left free to make their own rules procedure were opinions expressed by Chester I. Long of Wichita, Kas., president of the American Bar Association, and formerly United States senator from Kansas, at a meeting of the Tri-State Bar association here today.

End of Bob Hair Seen by Merchant

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—(AP)—Bobbed haired women will be almost unknown in the United States within five years, Archibold G. Smith of New York, predicted here today in a speech before the delegates to the convention of the southern wholesale dry goods association.

"All fashions go in cycles of about seven years, although some last longer," asserted Mr. Smith. "Five years ago bobbed hair was a rarity. Only in the past two or three years has it become almost universal. We manufacturers of hair pins, though the fashion has undeniably struck a blow to our business, are confident from authentic fashion information that five years from today, a bobbed haired woman will be almost unknown in the United States."

Doheny Joins GOP, Quitting Democrats

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—(AP)—Edward L. Doheny, the oil magnate, for years a wheel horse of the democratic party, has switched his political affiliations to republican ranks.

"I have registered as a republican for the first time," he said today, because I decided to affiliate with and support the party which more than any other embodies the forces and policies which have produced our unprecedented area of prosperity."

The oil producer also explained that in becoming a republican he was joining other members of his family, including Mrs. Doheny, their son, E. L. Doheny, Jr., and his wife, who have been members of that party for years.

Liquor Charges Follow Arrests

Charges of possession for purposes of sale of intoxicating liquors were filed Thursday by the district attorney naming J. L. Pipes, arrested with seven others in a raid on a residence at 908 Travis by city police Wednesday night. Six others arrested in the raid were put under bond as witnesses in the case of $500 each.

Burglary Thwarted

An attempted burglary of the Fritz Brothers Motor company building at the corner of Ninth and Austin was thwarted Thursday night when police, answering the call of residents of the neighborhood arrived at the place and found the back door open but everybody gone. A check-up of the premises with D. L. Fritz by Officers Saye and McClelland revealed that the visitors had been scared away before they had been able to take anything.

The alarm was turned in by a woman living in the house back of the motor company who reported that she saw two men breaking into the place.

BEBE REVEALED AS GIRL-THIEF

"Splendid Crime" Throbs With Fast Action And Rare Comedy

The Strand theatre will have an exceptionally fine film attraction beginning today, when William de Mille's latest production, "The Splendid Crime" starring Bebe Daniels makes its local debut. For those who enjoy a sparkling crook comedy-drama, laid against a contrasting slum and society background, tinctured with romance and rich in humor and pathos, this photoplay will fill the bill from soup to nuts.

The story, written by Mr. deMille himself, centers about a droll little girl crook, effectively portrayed by Miss Daniels, whose foster father, an amusing old rascal, is responsible for her burglarious tendencies. It finally occurs to her that "housebreakin' ain't no work for a lady," but she is forced to postpone her reformation because her father and his crook companion need her help in pulling off just one more job.

As ill luck would have it, Bebe is caught by the owner whose home she enters without an invitation, but he turns out to be a youthful, happy-go-lucky millionaire, who turns her loose when she promises to go straight. How she becomes a dressmaker's apprentice, her romance with the society chap and the sensational developments that follow which lead her to commit "the splendid crime" form the largest and most exciting part of the picture.

Neil Hamilton is happily cast as the millionaire who loses his money and is tempted to turn crooked. Dividing principal honors with him are Anne Cornwall, as his flapper-sister and Anthony Jowitt as her boy friend.

ASK SPECIAL SESSION
Endorsement of a resolution of the Texas Highway association recommending that a special session of the Texas district road bonds be called by Governor Ferguson remedying the situation now existing was made by the highway committee of the chamber of commerce at a meeting Wednesday afternoon. Judicious action of the legislature to make valid district road bonds in Texas is to be presented by the state highway association to the governor urging this special session.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—(AP)—The cotton market was again fairly active today but prices were reactionary from the start and as a net result of the day's trading, a little more than half of yesterday's gain was lost. The early influence was the weakness of Liverpool due to the breaking up of the coal strike conference without result. This more than off set the bad weather in the belt shown by the map and led to opening losses of three to five points which by noon had extended to declines of 13 to 18 points. The market eased off further in the afternoon on reports of clearing weather in the west and at the lowest prices showed losses compared with the previous close of 20 to 26 points. The close was near the bottom, showing net losses for the day of 18 to 23 points.

At the start Liverpool was two to eight penny points worse than due and as a result first trades here showed losses of three points. A slight rally right after the start of a few points advanced May to 18.07, July to 17.63 and October to 16.81, which proved to be the high points of the day.

The market soon started downward, however, and reports that a number of southern mills were curtailing production fully 25 per cent increased the selling which by noon forced May down to 17.90, July to 17.50 and October to 16.63, or 13 to 18 points down from the highs. The decline continued during the afternoon due to clearing weather in the west and at lowest May traded at 17.82, July at 17.45 and October at 16.59, or 20 to 26 points under the previous close. Prices remained near the lows to the end.

Exports for the day totaled 10,417 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—The cotton market lost part of its recent advance during today's trading. An opening decline was followed by rallies on reports of further rains in the western and central belts, but demand tapered off and selling at 18.30, July broke to 18.10, closing at that figure. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 16 to 19 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of two to five points and soon showed net losses of six to eight points under realizing with some southern and local selling apparently inspired by easy late cables from Liverpool, reports of a deadlock in negotiations for a settlement of the British coal mining dispute and rather more positive talk of southern mill curtailment.

The decline was checked by renewed covering and trade or commission buying which became more active on publication of the detailed weather report, showing very heavy precipitation at some points in Texas and the Mississippi valley. A feeling prevailed that these rains were working eastward, but the outlook was for better weather in the southwest and some traders thought the rains might prove a forerunner of more spring like conditions. Offerings increased and after selling up to 18.80 May broke to 18.60, while October declined from 17.54 to 17.31, with net losses of about 18 to 21 points. Last prices were within a point or two of the lowest.

Selling of July was attributed to hedging against purchases of spot cotton from co-operative marketing associations in the south. A little May liquidation was reported during the morning, but after narrowing to about 48 points, the May premium over July widened out to 52 points at the close.

Exports today 10,417 bales, making 6,895,227 so far this season. Port receipts 10,098. U. S. port stocks 1,045,817 bales.

CUT DISCOUNT RATE

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—The New York federal reserve bank today reduced its rediscount rate from 4 to 3 1-2 percent.

The 4 percent rate has been in effect since January 9, last. The reduction reflects the recent decrease in rediscounts by member banks and the drastic reduction in brokers' loans as a result of the sharp decline in prices since March 1.

"DANDY" SENTENCED

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—Phillip "Dandy Phil" Kastel, formerly a familiar figure along Broadway, was today sentenced to serve three years in Atlanta penitentiary for mail frauds in connection with sale of the stock of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Daniel Dillion & Company.

He was convicted last aSturday by the third jury to hear the charges against him.

NEW YORK, April 22.—(AP)—Responding to a series of favorable news developments stock prices made further recovery in today's market. Buying orders were spread over a broad list, indicating a gradual return of public participation with final quotations disclosing a long list of net gains ranging from one to five points. Some profit taking was apparent toward the close of the session by professional traders who had bought stocks "for a turn" earlier in the week.

While rumors of a change in the New York federal reserve bank re-discount rate have been in circulation for several days, the announcement of a decrease from four to 3½ per cent which was announced after the market closed, was somewhat of a surprise. However, it merely brings the bank rate in line with open market rates which have been steadily decreasing since the first of the month.

Time money rates softened again today, being quoted at 4 to 4¼ instead of 4¼ to ½ the rate prevailing yesterday. The senate's approval of the Italian debt settlement and the announcement that the department of justice had sanctioned the Tidewater-Associated Oil merger were two of the most constructive influences on today's stock market operations. Other favorable factors included the renewal of railroad merger negotiations which had been temporarily suspended when the interstate commerce commission announced its rejection of the original Nickel Plate consolidation plan; reports that the warmer weather had stimulated several lines of spring business and the publication of additional favorable earning statements.

The quarterly report of the Bethlehem Steel corporation made public late in the day came up to general expectations, net earnings being equivalent to $2.56 on the common stock as compared with $1.77 in the preceding quarter, and $1.56 in the first quarter of 1925. United States Steel common and Gulf States Steel each closed about a point higher, and the others i nthat group improved fractionally.

Buoyancy again developed in a number of industrial specialties. Remington Typewriter soared six points to 96 on reports of large current earnings, closing a point below the top.

So-called "merger issues" were again the favorites in the railroad group. Nickel Plate common was running up 4½ points to 158, Pittsburgh and West Virginia closed more than four points higher, at 102¼ after selling as high as 104⅝ and Rock Island, Kansas City Southern, Delaware and Hudson and Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred all showed net gains of two points or more.

The advance in the oil shares was held in check by reports of a harp increase in Mexican production last week and by the discovery ofa new pool in the Salt Creek field. Substantial gains were recorded, however, by Marland, Sinclair, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Atlantic Refining and General Asphalt.

Call money opened at 3¼ per cent, his lowest renewal rate since last September and held at that figure all day. Lower rates were obtainable, however, in the "outside market." Prime commercial paper held steady at 4¼ per cent.

Belgian francs touched another new record low at 3.56 cents, but the other foreign exchanges held relatively steady. Demand sterling was quoted around $4.85 and French francs were slightly firmer around 3.34 cents. Japanese yen touched another new high at 47⅜ cents. Changes in most of the continental rates were small and unimportant.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, April 22.—Sheep traders set the pace for the Fort Worth livestock market. They were out early and with fully steady prices offered for all kinds, the day's arrivals, amounting to 800 head, crossed the scales at an unusually seasonable hour. CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, April 22.—(AP)—Wheat underwent sharp breaks in price today, especially in the last part of the board of trade session. Expected relief from drougth over the spring wheat region together with reported good rains in Kansas and other winter crop states had much to do with bringing about selling on a big scale. Wheat closed unsettled, 1c to 3¼c net lower, May (new) $1.65¼ to $1.65¼ and July $1.42⅛ to $1.52¾. Corn finished ⅝c to ⅝c off, oats ⅛@⅝c to ⅝c down and provisions at 15 to 40c advance.

Corn and oats responded somewhat to wheat weakness but wet weather in the corn belt proved to be more or less of an offset, as tending to delay field work.

Higher quotations on hogs gave strength to the provisions market and so likewise did packers' buying of lard.

STOCK-A-DAY

The Mother Lode Coalition company is one of the lowest cost copper producers north of the Rio Grande. Its properties adjoin those of the Kennecott Copper company in Alaska and the latter concern controls 46 per cent of the Mother Lode Coalition stock.

The company owns 13 patented claims aggregating 345 acres near Kennecott, Alaska, and holds other additional acreage under location. The company's name is connected with the Bonanza mine of the Kennecott company and the Mother Lode ore is carried through the Bonanza shaft and over its tramway to the Kennecott mill for treatment. The Kennecott company has contracted to treat 12,000 tons a month at cost until the end of 1928. High grade ore is shipped to Cordova and thence by steamer to the Tacoma smelter. The company's property is well and modernly equipped.

Capital stock consists of 2,500,000 shares of no par value. There is no funded debt. For the first 6 months of 1925, net income was equivalent to 38 cents a share as compared with 37 cents in 1924 for the corresponding period. In 1924 the cost of producing copper was 6.87 cents a pound.

As of Jan. 1, 1925, current assets were $1,877,142 and current liabilities $1,086,234 with $500,000 in bank loans. Dividends of $1 a share a year were paid in 1922 and 1923. In 1924 and 1925, 75 cents per annum was paid. In the first 6 months of 1925, 15,225,780 pounds of copper were produced at a cost of 7.27 cents a pound after charging in depreciation and taxes and crediting silver content.

Hope To Complete Forum Campaign Drive In Less Time Than Allotted

MANY PLEDGING FULL SUPPORT

Funds to Be Used In Putting up Finest Club In South

Plans are going forward for the campaign which opens Monday by the Woman's Forum and which is to continue for four days, for the purpose of raising a $50,000 fund with which to erect a magnificient club building. Committees are being formed and other details necessary to a successful campaigning is being worked out each day in such a way that the members of the organization may enter into the campaign in earnest on Monday morning. It is hoped to raise the fund even before the campaign time expires.

Many pledges of support have been received by the members of the forum and they are enthusiastic over the plans and promises of support. At today's meeting of the Business Council of the chamber of commerce plans for the campaign will be discussed by members of the forum. All members of the council are urged to attend as they will get a better idea of what the proposed club home means to the women of Wichita Falls and to the city itself.

To Be Finest in Southwest

The building proposed in Wichita Falls will be the finest of the kind in the southwest. Two other club homes are being maintained in cities of the state, one in El Paso and the other in Fort Worth. These, however, do not compare in modernness to the one planned in Wichita Falls.

In El Paso a site valued at $3500 was given several years ago. A small building, in the nature of an apartment house was erected and for several years this brought in a revenue. This revenue was then increased when the business men of the city gave to a fund for the erection of a magnificient club home. Today all indebtedness has been paid and the club owns property valued at $46,000.

Get Old Residence

In Fort Worth two years ago an old residence was donated to the club women of the city. $25,000 was raised by popular subscriptions and about $11,000 from dues and entertainments of various kinds. This fund was expended in repairs and improvement on the property. Today the Fort Worth club women own property valued at $60,000, but there is some outstanding indebtedness.

Thus it will be seen when the proposed building in Wichita Falls is erected the Woman's Forum will be the owners of the finest club property of the kind in the southwest.

The building is to be used for various activities of the 22 affiliated clubs of the city. It will provide an excellent place for receptions and programs and will fill a long needed want in the life of Wichita Falls.

A delegation of lawyers from this city, who are attending the meeting have exteuded an invitation to the association and an extensive campaign to secure it will be made among the attorneys there. The session opened the morning of April 22 for a three-day meeting, lawyers from Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas bar associations attending.

Youthful Pianist to Give Concert at 8 p. m. Tonight

One of the most talented and promising young pianists of Wichita Falls, Floyd Ard, Jr., will be presented in a recital Friday evening at 8:15 at the Junior college, a benefit concert which, it is hoped, will enable him to study a course in piano abroad.

Young Ard for the past three years has been recognized as a prodigy and possesses a talent which demands European instruction for development. He has attracted considerable attention at his recitals since he was 15 and has been praised highly by musical critics for his remarkable skill and technique. Harold von Mickwitz and Rueben Davies, musical artists of no little repute, declare that Ard has evident possibilities of becoming a noted musician. Floyd was requested to appear before the State Federation of Women's clubs of Fort Worth last year and has appeared before the civic luncheon clubs, the churches and schools and other organizations of this city. He has broadcasted from WFAA and played at various out of town entertainments. During the past week he has given piano selections at the luncheon clubs where his ability has been glowingly received and interest aroused in the boy's ambition to go abroad.

For the past five years, Ernest Kats has had him under his instruction and at his suggestion, Ard is planning a study in Vienna at the Academy of Music.

Thursday Warmer As Sun Appears

A maximum temperature of 77 degrees was recorded here Thursday when the sun, after a losing battle with the clouds for most of the week, broke forth in a deep blue sky and took the trail back to summer time again.

The day was one of typical spring climate. A light west breeze prevailed most of the time and the sky, while flecked with an occasional patch of fleecy clouds, was for the most part clear as a crystal and with a turquoise hue that bespoke of fairer days to come.

A minimum temperature of 55 degrees was recorded and predictions for Friday were continued fair and warm.
