Rigid Economy Policy Causes Second Tax Cut

For Tax Payment
Extended To March 31

Issue Reasons

Made Possible Through Salary Cuts And Lower
Operating Expenses

Rigid economy practiced by the city administration during the past year bore fruit when the City Council announced a 10 per cent reduction in valuations for the coming year. This reduction coming on top of the 20 per cent reduction in valuations of last year and a 5 cent reduction in the rate will make a saving to the tax payers of approximately 33 per cent. The reduction in taxes has been made possible by reduction of all salaries, the elimination of certain positions, and the curtailment of operating expenses such as lights, fire department maintenance, street maintenance, etc.

The City Council has issued the following statement: "Since taking every step possible to reduce taxes without impairing the effectiveness of the public work too greatly, we have noted with appreciation the marked intention of the citizens to try to pay their city taxes in so far as they are able. We respectfully request all taxpayers who can to pay their taxes promptly, as a prompt payment of the bulk of the taxes is the only method by which the pres-

No Information On Farm Loans

Nothing definite has been received here as yet concerning crop production loans in Collingsworth county, according to Miss Katherine Boverie, C. of C. secretary, Wednesday.

President Hoover did sign the bill, however, appropriating $90,000 to this source for 1933.

In 1931, farmers of this county borrowed $20,000 and in 1932, they borrowed $22,000.

Application has been made for the Dallas office for this year in 1933, but no definite answer has been received.

Boys Enjoy False Alarm

For once in their lives, members of the local fire department were glad to answer a false alarm.

Tuesday morning, which was undoubtedly the coldest morning seen here in two years, the fire department answered a call.

"Of course, it is more than irritating to answer a call and find that there is no fire at all," Bura Handley, chief, said, "But you should have seen the smiles break out on the faces of the boys when they found out that they were not having to hook-up the hose Tuesday."

Senior Play To Be Presented Here Thursday

Exceptional Cast Listed For Annual Senior Presentation

The senior play for 1933, "Tea Toper Tavern," will be presented in the high school auditorium Thursday evening, February 9, at 7:30 o'clock, according to the announcement of Mrs. W. F. Decker, director, Wednesday.

The senior play, which is presented by the students annually, will have an unusually strong cast this year with every student in the play having had much previous experience in plays and dramatic presentation during the past four years that they have attended school here. The cast will include: Floy Mae Willis, Mary Frances Templeton, Ione Lucas, Vivian Porter, Grace Moore, Jennie Saied, Curtis Savage, Cliff Campbell, Richard Carter, Barney Glenn, Ray Peeples, James Sullivan.

Two Basketball Matches Friday

Coach Jim Smith announced Wednesday that two basketball games were slated for the high school gymnasium Friday night.

The Skyrocks will meet the Estelline quintet and the bout is expected to be one of the most interesting games slated for Wellington this season.

As an added attraction Aberdeen will play Rola. These two teams are also evenly matched and both made a good showing in the trial tournament held here three weeks ago.

Old Timers Recall Days Of Long Ago As 100 See "The Conquerors" As Guests Of Leader

Exactly 100 Old Timers lived again in the days of the distant past when they whipped a pair of mules and drove a covered wagon into the fertile plains of Texas years ago, as they saw "The Conquerors" here Monday afternoon as special guests of Deskins Wells.

The group included several men and women who had not seen a picture from five to fifteen years—and a few of the number said they had never before seen a talking picture. The show, which was selected because of its unusual presentation of old time scenes, proved highly entertaining to the group, and John Bonner, manager, pepped up the whole affair by playing several old time pieces during the interval between shows.

As the old timers, all over 60 years of age, signed up for their tickets at The Leader office, many of them proved to be more than 80 years of age—they told numerous tales of crossing the plains in the early days and outlined picturesque tales of the frontier hardships.

Those who attended the show were: A. S. J. Lockhart, S. R. Bevers, J. W. Freenz, L. H. Stall,

With schools all over the county preparing exhibits and practicing for various events to be included in the Interscholastic League to be held in Wellington March 31 and April 1, more interest than usual is being advanced in the various contests, according to J. D. Wilson, director.

For the benefit of those who expect to enter the Tiny-Tot Story Telling Contest, Mr. Wilson has written the following sketch, since this contest is a new addition to the league for this county:

Tiny-Tot Story Contest

"The Tiny-Tot Story Telling Contest is for pupils regularly enrolled in school and under eight years of age September 1, 1932. All the contestants will gather in one room. Then in an adjoining room the children will go or be arranged in groups with not more than eight to each group, and a story will be told to them one time or more, as may be decided later. Each child of the group will draw for places and go into the auditorium one at a time and tell his story. It is hoped that this will result in natural story telling, which is the aim of the contest, and not in a memorized declamation. Teachers should drill their classes in retelling stories after one hearing or one reading, and then at the time of the contest the pupil who can do this the best to represent the school.

"Each school is entitled to one boy and one girl in this contest and the same division will be observed as for rural and high school declamation. Materials should be similar to the stories found in primers and first readers. The judges are also placed in the room to hear the story read to the group before the contest. Get a story that the children are not familiar with and one that is easy to remember. This will give the child training in natural story telling.

"Mrs. Charles Starkey, Wellington, Texas, is the director of this contest.

"I wish to urge the schools to (Continued on Page Ten)

Report Is Given

Action Resulted From
Meeting Of Committee
With Local Banker

A satisfactory agreement has been reached between the Citizens Advisory Council and J. C. Doneghy in regard to farm mortgages and foreclosures as a result of a conference held between a committee selected by the Advisory Council and Mr. Doneghy. The conference was held at the invitation of Mr. Doneghy and resulted in a statement from Mr. Doneghy to the effect that he would not prosecute any contemplated foreclosure proceedings this season.

A resolution was adopted at the last general meeting of the Advisory Council thanking Mr. Doneghy for his sportsmanlike attitude, and the generous action that he had taken. The committee also read a report on the conference, which showed among other things that a very large number of the loans were past due for two or three years in interest payment and in many instances in taxes.

Jack Kemper, inmate of the county jail, died at noon Wednesday.

Kemper lived in the northwest part of the county and was in the county jail awaiting transportation to the penitentiary on a three year sentence for cattle theft. According to his attorney, Judge R. H. Cocke, he had been in the local jail since September or October.

The autopsy read, "Starvation, ulcer and stricture of pyloric end of stomach anterior surface."

Dr. E. W. Jones, county physician, said Kemper had eaten at irregular intervals since December 1, and Monday ate two eggs, the last portion of food he ate prior to his death.

Kemper is one of the few white men to ever die in the local jail and although he has faced several charges, he was an ex-soldier and has for some time been drawing a pension from the government, according to acquaintances.

Radio Trio Are In City Sunday

Frank Miller, son of Mrs. L. B. Miller, visited in Wellington Sunday.

Mr. Miller is now on the staff of KGRS, Amarillo broadcast station, and was accompanied by Cookie Collier and Herschel Findley, also staff members of the station. One of Miller's features over the station is with the Amarillo Sereaders each Tuesday afternoon.

He attended school here in Wellington and was recognized as having unusual talent before joining the staff of the Amarillo station in 1930.

Auto License Bill Is Explained By County Collector

Following the passage of a bill by the legislature providing for the extension of time for registering motor vehicles to April 1, 1933, Clark B. Anderson, county tax collector, issued the following explanation of the act:

"The law operates in this way: Any motor vehicle that has been driven during January, February or March, 1933, can be licensed not later than April 1, 1933 without penalty, but will be required to pay the full years fee, if it was driven January 1933.

"Motorists should be warned that if they fail to register by April 1, 1933, if they have driven the car during January, they will have to pay the full license and 20 per cent penalty even though they set the car up on April 1, 1933, should they attempt to register during some later month in 1933. A motor vehicle not driven before February could be licensed on April 1, 1933 for only eleven-

Red-Head Quail Imported Here

An entirely new breed of Quail was introduced into Collingsworth County this week, according to Austin O'Neil, game warden.

Sixty Gamil Quail, usually found only in the Rio Grande Valley, were shipped here and placed on the Cottonwood Ranch Saturday. These birds have a red head, from which emerges a black top-knot, slightly larger around and about the length of a match. Their backs are solid blue and their breasts are white with a variation of brown. The hens are a blue-black color, with the exception of the top-knot.

Fifteen Teams Expected To Enter Interscholastic League Meeting

The official Interscholastic League Basketball tournament for Collingsworth County will be held on the courts in the Wellington High School gymnasium Friday and Saturday, February 17 and 18, according to the announcement of Logan O. Cummings, director, today.

"The regular Interscholastic rules and regulations will be followed throughout the tournament," Mr. Cummings said. "It will be absolutely essential that all coaches either send or bring to the tournament, a list of their players certifying their eligibility. Teams which are not registered in the regular manner will not be allowed to enter the tournament.

The other, Fox Bryant, was held for car theft and had been in jail six months.

No trace of the trio was reported by authorities Wednesday.

Roosevelt Plans Tennessee Work

Associated Press dispatches this week gave elementary plans of Roosevelt's visions of the new job plan which is expected to employ 200,000 men.

The dream for a vast undertaking on the high lands and valleys of the ranging Tennessee watershed that will bring about a new balance of population and whip-out employment was unfolded recently by Mr. Roosevelt to newspapermen.

The afternoon mail, and messenger boys brought in an astonishing response and the smiling President-Elect began listing his plans immediately to encompass all sections of the nation.

Seven Points

The experimental Tennessee project involves:

1. Reforestation in the highlands.
2. Creation of flood control basins, beginning at Cove Creek in the Clinch River.
3. A huge waterpower development to spread cheap electricity throughout the farms and cities.
4. Reclamation of the flooded bottom lands for agriculture.
5. Elimination of the non-profitable marginal lands from farm population.
6. Improved navigation.

Much Gratified

Listening to the outbursts of enthusiasm that greeted his announcement, Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen: "I am very much gratified if national planning works in these states, I am confident it can be made to work on the other watersheds of this country."

Immediate employment for 50,000 to 70,000 men in the reforestation and eventual new work for 200,000 persons is contemplated by the Tennessee water shed project, which the President-Elect will put up to Congress at the earliest moment.

But the Roosevelt dream goes beyond this. It is his hope for wiping out the block of ever lasting unemployment which he sees resulting from the present crowded city situation. In it he sees the prospect for decentralization of industry and the opportunity for the government to guide a new rural race into happier days.

Surplus Danger

One point of difficulty was raised recently in some of the comment upon the project—that it might increase the already existing agricultural surplus.

"Of course, we can't prove that it won't until we try," conceded Mr. Roosevelt, "but the best thought is that this movement actually will not increase agricultural surplus."

"You see, we will be removing some agricultural lands from operation—the non-profitable marginal lands. Then, I have found that the people who go back to the country eat much more than when they in the city."

The President-elect explained he selected the Tennessee watershed reaching over the states of Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, Alabama, and Mississippi because it afforded every range of physical and climatic conditions.

Looking over the United States map for next points of development, he pointed to the Ohio Valley, the Arkansas Valley and the Columbia River Basin in the Northwest. He emphasized these and other possible projects must await the big Tennessee experiment.

Bill To Prevent Teachers Acting As Book Agents

AUSTIN, Tex.—Passage of a bill by Representative J. S. Sarge prohibiting school officials or teachers from acting as agents for dealers in school books or supplies was recommended Monday by the House Committee on Education. The measure defines the offense as a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or jail sentence or both.

The Committee on Municipal and Private Corporations reported favorably a bill by Representative Rolland Bradley and others giving cities of more than 10,000 population the optional right to create a pension system for city employees.

Repeal of the farm census law enacted by the Forty-Second Legislature was favored by the House Committee on Agriculture. The bill, by Representative Lon E. Alsup, would abolish the requirement of County Tax Assessors making reports for the farm census.

SHINNERY

By Mrs. E. H. Yarbrough

By Sixth Grade Students
The school children in Miss Carmack's room were preparing to spread lunch on the grass, but the sand began to blow and they were disappointed. They had to spread in the house. The boys ate together on one table and the girls on another. They both had a fine time and expect to spread again some time soon.

The young people of the community are going to put on a three act play, "The Old Fashioned Mother." They are going to meet Tuesday night and practice. They practice about three times each week and think the play will be presented in about three weeks.

The pupils of Shinnery School are preparing a program for Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays. It will include some songs, poems and dialogues. The public is cordially invited.

The junior girls and boys have matched a game of basket ball with Madge for either Tuesday or Wednesday. It will be announced Monday, which day they will play.

The captain of the boys team is J. T. Aikman, J. K. Porter is the running guard, E. T. Blandford and Asa Reeves are the forwards, and R. L. Porter is the standing guard. The substitutes are Lowell Hively and Elbert Bettis. The captain of the girl's team is Tommie Keesee.

The school children are now having their first six weeks examination. They began Monday and will continue through Tuesday or Wednesday.

About two weeks ago, Rae Aikman was cranking his father's truck, and broke his arm. He was taken to town immediately to have it set and now it is much better.

Sunday night, there was singing at the Baptist Church. Lola White played the piano while Hollis Porter, Everett Battles, and Miss Auda Mae Aikman lead the singing in the absence of the regular leader, Mr. Hively.

NATURAL GAS

This is the season of treacherous weather. Within a few hours the delightful warmth of a spring day may be transformed into a blustering norther or the clinging dampness of a London fog.

Safeguard your health against the ill effects of these uncertain weather changes by using Natural Gas heat. The warm cheery glow of a gas heater quickly drives away the early morning chillness and dispels the damp discomfort of a rainy day or evening. It is also an ever-ready protection from the biting cold of a sudden norther.

Natural Gas heat is so convenient and so economical, that to do without it is taking a needless risk with your health. Our representatives are always ready to advise with you on how to receive the most efficient and convenient heating service from Natural Gas. Call at our nearest office or ask our service man.

Tumbleweeds Prove Menace To Traffic As Drifts Block Highways

Motorists in the Texas Panhandle have encountered a new traffic menace—Russian thistles that drift into the highways and pile up to a depth of several feet—has appeared at intervals on Panhandle-Plains roads this winter.

The thistles, commonly known as tumbleweeds, grow extensively in wheat fields and along fence rows, then drift before the Panhandle wind during the fall and winter months, coming to rest against any sort of obstruction.

Higher Than Grain
Continued rainfall throughout the small grain area delayed the es were 10 feet high.

Gets Lj Grifts

J. W. McFolk of Amarillo drove into such a drift between Silverton and Floydada, and spent 35 minutes backing his car out of the entanglement. He said it was necessary to make a detour of several miles to avoid the weeds.

"Sometimes the thistles were piled up around me as high as the car," McFolk said. "I had the worst scare of my life. If those weeds had caught on fire from the exhaust I would have been roasted alive."

Because of the unusual amount of heat which the thistles give off when burning, scientists have experimented with the possibility of compressing the weeds into fuel.

Many miles of wire fences are torn down each winter and spring by the tumbling weeds which pile up in huge drifts against the fences. The drifts act as an agent for the wind and in many instances the posts have pulled out of the ground and the fences flattened.

Editor Of Denver Post Is Now Dead

Frederick Bonfils, one of the most colorful survivors of the old West, died this week at his home in Denver, from complications resulting from a minor ear operation.

As publisher of the Denver Post Bonfils had long been famed as a striking exponent of personal journalism, original and daring in his policies.

He was 72 years old. For several days he had suffered from an abscess in his ear. He had undergone a minor operation Monday. Influenza developed and his heart began to weaken.

The newspaper career that was to make him such an outstanding figure began on the Troy (Mo.) News, 48 years ago, when he became a reporter on that paper.

NO INCREASE IN PRICE !

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

If you think your gas rate of 75c a thousand cubic feet is high, just consider the plight of the farmers who happen to be using gas. They are faced with a raise instead of a reduction in their rates, and the increase during the summer months is something to think about. They are going to meet in the court house next Saturday to see what can be done about it. These farmers have invested from $50 to $500 in order to have gas in their homes, and one told me that he had spent $600 piping the gas to his house and buying stoves, etc. Now they are faced with an increase in rates instead of a reduction, which the people in town are hoping for.

If the farmers are no more successful in warding off the raise than the people of Wellington have been in securing a reduction, there isn't much hope in sight for reasonable priced gas for rural users. This thing of getting lower gas rates is a difficult thing. The City Council is still trying to get a hearing before the Railroad Commission, but the Commission is tied up with oil hearings and other gas hearings. Furthermore, I have my doubts about the effectiveness of the outcome when the hearing is had. If the Railroad Commission does rule that Wellington is entitled to a lower rate, what kind of shape is the City going to be in if the case is appealed to higher courts. In the first place a city of this size does not have the money to carry the fight beyond the Railroad Commission. In the second place the state courts and especially the federal courts have made it practically impossible to regulate such rates. The rule of law laid down by the courts of the United States, that a public utility is entitled to charge a rate that is sufficient to earn a reasonable return on value of property owned by the utility is very satisfactory to the utilities, for their inflated valuations are generally accepted with very little discount. I still believe that the only permanent and satisfactory solution of the gas rate question for Wellington is a municipal plant. That means waiting also, for the bonds for a municipal plant cannot be sold at a fair value at this time, but when conditions change so that bonds for a municipal plant can be sold, you will see the gas situation in Wellington change and change rapidly. In the meantime the people of this town continue to pay gas bills that they think are unfair, and the rural users are faced with a raise over these same rates. What a situation!

If you think I am exaggerating about the ruling of the federal courts, you ought to study the rate case of Kansas City. There was a city which had plenty of money to fight the case, but they lost when the federal judges began to decide. I could cite numerous other cases, but in each of them the court has held the same way. Isn't there anything the people can do to obtain relief. There is: It is the establishment of municipal plants.

Well, well, sometimes I think that life is just a bowl of dishwater. Do you know what some extra generous and fair minded people are saying about my free show for the old timers. Why they are saying that people over sixty get in to the show free at any time, and that I was just making a gesture to try to get a little credit for doing something, when I really wasn't doing anything at all. As a matter of fact that is not a rule of the Theatre, and John Bonner will tell you so. Furthermore, I paid what was considered a fair value for those tickets that I gave away. There are certain types of criticism that I accept cheerfully, for if anybody makes mistakes and needs criticism, I do, but the type I have mentioned affects me a different way. When I consider it I can readily understand how a man who believes in doing his bit to make life easier and more pleasant for others is led to change his attitude to one of taking care of himself and letting the devil take the hindmost. I haven't adopted such a philosophy yet, but it isn't a fair transition from the frame of mind that I am in right at the present time.

Oh shucks, let them talk. I enjoyed the party immensely. I am glad to know every single one of the hundred people who came to get tickets, and I am grateful for the opportunity of having them again. There was J.

W. Stall, who I used to watch plowing across the fence at the back end of our field. There was Mrs. Mattie Carr who I had not seen in a long time. Seeing the smile on her face was worth the trouble of the whole thing. There was G. A. Wilkerson, who drove oxen to a wagon on skids—it had no wheels. There was W. G. Price who has traveled a greater distance on a wagon than he ever did on a train. There was M. L. Boss, who is 83 and has never spent but $15 on medicine in his life. There was Mrs. Warren E. Johnson, former correspondent of The Leader, who has been a correspondent for every paper except one printed in Collingsworth County since she first wrote for the "Collingsworth Rustler." There was L. H. Stall, L. W. Gribble, and P. W. Myers looking up their boyhood chums. And there were the rest, about whom whole stories could be written, for their lives are packed with interesting living.

What I want to know is the name of the man who first said that the croup is a minor ailment of children. I want to know my list of smart people. Croup may be a minor ailment for children, but it is a major ailment for young parents whose first child is having its first attack. Our baby has had the croup for the past few days, and my wife has suffered more than if she had been desperately sick herself. Averaging four or five hours of sleep a night, she never left the child's side for four days. And I stood around and looked helpless, and when the time came to work I would come to town and meander around feeling helpless. I have had the flu, the mumps, the measles, and the smallpox, but all of them are more pleasant than your baby's first attack of the croup. —The baby is much better now, thank you.

C. C. Bell has the following quotation from McKinley, pasted on one of his counters:

"I do not prize the word cheap. It is not a word of hope, nor a word of cheer. It is not a word of inspiration. It is the badge of poverty, the signal of distress. Cheap merchandise means cheap men, and cheap men a cheap country." William McKinley.

In times of prosperity the famous statements of President McKinley do not sound so important, but, remembered in the midst of a depression, they glisten with a fundamental truth.

J. S. Dorn came to a Council meeting Monday night wrapped in a fur coat that would have been the pride of any college boy. If I had owned a coat like that, I could have worked my way through Harvard or Yale, and think of the money it would have saved my mother.

Instead of running the weekly joke on the lawyers, I want to repeat one that Bill House is telling on Dr. Moss.

You've seen these big advertisements in all the papers about "Pay Your Doctor." Well, it seems that Mrs. House had been ill and Dr. Moss had been out to see her. The first of the month Mrs. Moss took a bill down to Bill and he paid her. But in the meantime Mrs. House had gone up and paid Jimmie. So when Dr. Moss came back to the office he found out that the bill had been paid twice so he went down to the gin and gave Bill back his money. While Mrs. House had discovered that the bill had been paid twice so she got her money back from Jimmie.

Seek Clemency For Pair Giving Fugitive Alarm

Sheriff W. E. Cox this week started a move to obtain executive clemency for two prisoners partly responsible for the arrest Sunday afternoon of Mrs. Ida Hunsaker and Miss Faye Pennington, charged in connection with the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Joe Brown at Rhome.

The prisoners, Mack Lemons, 25, and R. B. Croslin, 22, are in jail here awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary at Huntsville to begin two-year sentences for forgery.

They were reading a newspaper account of the Brown slaying Sunday afternoon when one of them chanced to look out of the window and saw, in a filling station across the street, a car resembling that in which the killer escaped.

By shouting and pounding upon the bars of their cell the prisoners managed to arouse Deputy Sheriff M. E. Mote, ill with influenza in his quarters in another section of the jail building. With him were his son, A. J. Mote, and a neighbor, Tom Kelly, ranchman.

Mote got out of bed and directed the chase for the two women which ended about two miles from Childress.

The deputy sheriff suffered a relapse after bringing the women back to Childress. He is now suffering with pneumonia but his condition was reported considerably improved last week.

On last Wednesday Mote was acquitted of slaying Noble Jordan, suspect in a bank robbery who was shot to death August 1. Immediately after the trial the officer was stricken with influenza.

RITZ ANNOUNCES SENSATIONAL FILM SPECTACLE

Many Fine Pictures Through February

Heading the list of attractions announced for the Ritz Theatre during the next week, is what is said to be one of the most sensational pictures since the advent of talking pictures. It is "Life Begins," featuring Loretta Young and Eric Linden. The picture is one dealing with a delicate, intimate subject, and one which doubtless holds more interest for women than any production yet offered on the screen. It is, however, a picture for adult minds, and the Ritz management have announced that no one under eighteen years of age will be admitted except when accompanied by parents or guardian. This unusual dramatic sensation is scheduled for Thursday and Friday of this week.

Tom Keene Western Thriller Tom Keene furnishes the thrills for the hundreds of Saturday patrons. He will be seen as the daredevil star of "Renegades of the West." It is one of those fighting, wild riding, hard shooting thrillers of the unconquered West, with an exceptional blend of pleasing romance. The picture will be shown Saturday only.

Amendment Provides Intoxicating Liquors

SATERWHITE

V. Tex., Feb. 8.—Representative J. M. Mathis, of Houston, introduced in the House a bill for the repeal of Article 15, of the constitution prohibiting the sale and sale of intoxicating liquors.

The amendment provides for the sale of intoxicating liquors in any county, precinct, town or city, or division of a county as designated by the commission of said county, when by a majority of the voters in such prescribed district.

The establishment and maintenance or operation of saloons is prohibited. The saloon is defined as a place where intoxicating liquors are sold and consumed in whole or in part. But the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquors in hotels and places where food is sold and consumed is permitted, provided such hotels and eating places are within the prescribed limits of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors.

One of the most romantic portions of the history of the Old West is fittingly preserved in the famous ranch brands which have been figured in stone and placed in the archway over the main entrance to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society building now nearing completion on the campus of the West Texas State Teachers College, at Canyon.

The doorway, beautifully executed and rich with the symbolism which will provide a permanent record of the colorful, alphabetic numeral titles under which the great cattle concerns of Texas operated, is but one of the unusual features of the building. The symmetrical lines of the structure represents a modified form of modern architecture and are a perfect example of the beauty that lies in simplicity and balance.

The museum building, long and narrow, is being built of stone, and its white walls are touched with their maximum of color by the arrangement of the girders.

take the place of the homestead exemption. And, too, there is a strong and growing demand for some kind of a workable and fair system or raising revenues for Governmental expenses to take the place of the ad valorem tax on property. There are now in Austin and elsewhere throughout the State organized groups studying the matter of bringing about some radical changes in the present system of revenue raising, but there are so many conflicting ideas, both among the membership of the Legislature and out of it, as to the best method of placing the burden of tax upon the people, that at this time it is only a guess as to what will finally be done about it by the present Legislature. We'll just have to wait and see.

Saved By Dog

Miss Mary Lee King, 21, of El Paso, might have come to serious harm at the hands of a negro if her dog had not come to her rescue. The negro attempted to attack her while she was alone in her home. Her screams attracted the dog, which lunged at the negro's throat so fiercely that he released the girl and escaped. Miss King and her dog are pictured above.

Mrs. Pruitt Is Buried Friday

Interment Made In Granite Cemetery For Aberdeen Resident

Funeral services for Mrs. Ella Mae Pruitt, 50, were held from the Lake Creek Baptist Church with Rev. R. H. Cagle, Garland Howard and L. M. King officiating.

Mrs. Pruitt was born August 24, 1882, at Killean, Texas. October 12, 1902, she married C. R. Pruitt and to this union nine girls were born, six of which survive her. At an early age she was converted and united with the Methodist Church. In later years she united with the Baptist church at Lake Creek. In 1931, she joined the New Hope Baptist Church near Aberdeen. She moved with her husband to Granite in 1922, where she lived until four years ago.

Mrs. Pruitt is survived by her husband, C. R. Pruitt, six daughters, Mrs. Annie Mae Robertson, of Aberdeen, Mrs. Kitty Belle Gulley of Wellington; Miss Gladys Pruitt of Houston, Claude, Dorothy and Estelle Pruitt of Aberdeen; her father, J. T. Collins of Killean, Texas, and two sisters, Mrs. J. E. Tipton of Bartlett and Mrs. John Cockrell of Killean; two brothers, H. G. Collier of Wichita Falls and Duncan Collier of Nogales, Ariz.

Mrs. Pruitt was carried from Wellington to Lake Creek, where the ceremony was held and interment was made in the Granite Cemetery by Goodson Funeral Home Friday.

Pall bearers were: Linard Kennedy, Judge Holton, L. K. Barker, H. E. Curtis, W. F. Moore, Officer Sweat, Flower bearers: Iris Gulley, Opal Brown, Nina Harper, Maude Savage.

State Pays High Cigarette Stamps

AUSTIN, Tex.—Changing their original intention of considering budgets for eleemosynary institutions, members of the House Appropriations Committee Thursday discussed departmental expenses. The committee was in session two hours, devoting that period to the State Treasurer's office. State Treasurer Charley Lockhart was present.

The expense account for Lockhart's budget was reviewed, including the employees of the various divisions of each department. Lockhart said that for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1932, revenues from the cigarette tax aggregated $3,370,000, and that the total revenue from that source since the law became effective was almost $5,000,000. The State is losing at present, he estimated, about $1,500,000 annually in re-used cigarette stamps.

Lockhart is asking an allowance of $223,000 for his department for the next biennium. The Board of Control has scaled this to $163,000 and the Governor's budget makes it $143,578.

It cuts in salaries to be made in his department, Lockhart suggests that the committee begin at the top.

Mrs. Johnson Is Buried Here On February 2

Family Moved Near Wellington Fourteen Years Ago

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Jane Johnson, 69, were held Thursday, February 2, at 3 o'clock from the Church of Christ with Rev. H. V. Hendry and Rev. T. M. Johnston officiating.

The Johnson family came to Wellington 14 years ago and moved on farm three miles south of town. Since that time Mrs. Johnson has lived in and around Wellington and was well known and respected among the people of this community.

She was born in Clay County, Tennessee, October 27, 1863, and died here in the home of her son, Mat Johnson, Wednesday morning, February 1, at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Johnson was a member of the Church of Christ, having joined that organization in 1898.

Pall bearers: Jack Watson, Esdell Bartlett, A. R. Pepper, Doc Lenoir, Gibbs Glenn, Jeff Harrison, Flower bearers: Miss Effie Lee Richards, Miss Lena Ball, Miss Margaret Shields, Mrs. Marguerite Bartlett.

Interment was made in the Wellington cemetery by Ellis Funeral Home.

Methodist Church To Sponsor "Home Making" Services

Rev. T. M. Johnston, pastor, First Methodist Church, announces a series of special sermons on "Home Making." The first of these sermons will be delivered next Sunday evening at 7:15. The pastor's subject will be "Ten Commandments for Wives." In connection with this service a wedding ceremony will be performed. Real people. We extend an invitation to all, "Come."

In preparing these sermons it is our purpose to make them helpful to home makers. The second of these series will be delivered on Sunday evening, February 19. The subject will be "Ten Commandments for Husbands." The third will be delivered on Sunday evening, February 26. The subject, "Ten Commandments for Youth." Further announcements will be made in next week's paper.

Jailer Says Prisoners Not Honest

OKANOGAN, Wash.—The sheriff of Okanogan complained to the prosecutor recently that "those prisoners in the county jail are not honest. They stole my liquor."

"How could they? They are in cells," answered the prosecutor.

"They broke out of the cells and broke into the liquor storage room, and drank all the evidence," said the sheriff.

"That's burglary," said the prosecutor.

So today three prisoners with hangovers sat in their cells while the sheriff read a warrant charging they "did unlawfully and feloniously break into and enter in the night," and so forth.

Miss Florence Swafford, Member Of Pioneer Family, Buried On Saturday

Father Was Second Sheriff Of County And President Of Bank

Miss Florence Olive Swafford, 52, of this city, died Thursday afternoon, February 2, at 5:50 o'clock at the home of her sister, Mrs. P. J. Swafford, in Amarillo following a brief illness.

She has lived in Wellington since childhood and was a member of the Methodist church here. She had been visiting her sister for three weeks previous to her death.

Surviving her are her mother, Mrs. Emma Swafford of Wellington, eight brothers and five sisters.

The brothers are J. B. Swafford, of Channing; J. O. and R. D. Swafford of Amarillo; Tank Swafford of Dalhart; D. C., V. A. and A. L. Swafford of Estes Park, Colo. The sisters are Mrs. Swafford of Amarillo; Mrs. A. P. Watkins of Walters, Okla.; Mrs. J. D. Morgan, of Shamrock; Miss Evelyn Swafford of Pampa; and Mrs. H. A. Covey, of Wellton, Ariz.

Miss Swafford's father, A. F. Swafford, served as second sheriff of Collingsworth county. He took the office following the resignation of E. W. Bromley and held the post from 1892 to 1898, when he was succeeded by L. H. Stall. After leaving the office of sheriff, Mr. Swafford served for a number of years as president of the First National Bank here. The family is known as one of the first pioneer families in this section.

Funeral services were held in Amarillo, Friday, February 3, and interment was made by Goodson Funeral Home in the old Wellington cemetery Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Rev. T. M. Johnston officiating.

Legislature Not Ignoring Rules Says Satterwhite

Bill Introduced To Abolish Agriculture Department Of State

By LEE SATTERWHITE

AUSTIN, Tex. Feb. 8.—News-paper reports out of Austin have led many people to believe that the Legislature is flagrantly and willfully ignoring the Constitutional Amendment adopted by a vote of the people November 4, 1930, which amendment provides that the first thirty days of a Regular Session shall be devoted to the introduction of bills and resolutions, acting upon emergency appropriations, passing upon the Governor's recess appointees, and such emergency legislation as the Governor may submit in special messages; and that the second thirty days the various committees of each house shall hold hearings to consider all bills and resolutions and act upon such emergency legislation as the governor may submit; and then the following sixty days shall be devoted to taking action upon bills and resolutions as may be then pending, and such emergency matters as the Governor may submit in special messages to the Legislature.

If the Amendment should have ended there the Legislature, operating under rules of procedure adopted by the 42nd Legislature, and the 43rd Legislature having adopted the same rules, with a slight change in the time limit of introduction of bills—the 42nd providing that after the first sixty days of a Regular Session no bill shall be introduced except by consent of two-thirds vote, whereas the 43rd provides that after the first forty-five days the consent of a four-fifth vote is necessary for the introduction of a bill—would be guilty of ignoring the Constitution in its present order of procedure. But instead of following that portion of the amendment above quoted, the Legislature, both the 42nd and 43rd, have elected to follow the latter clause of the Amendment, which provides "that either house may otherwise determine its order of business by an affirmative vote of four-fifths of its membership." So there is no violation or ignoring of the Constitutional Amendment, but just a matter in which the membership of the Legislature is exercising what it believes is its best judgment as to the order of rules and procedure.

Should the Legislature elect to follow that part of the Constitutional Amendment directing that the first thirty days of a Regular Session shall be devoted to the introduction of bills, and the second thirty days to committee hearings, and that during the following sixty days the Legislature shall act upon bills and resolutions and so on, it would have the effect of yielding legislative independence to the State's Chief Executive, even though the Governor might not choose to take advantage of the powers so delegated. Read the provisions of the Amendment and you will find that the members of the Legislature are very definitely limited in exercising their own freedom of action and independence, in that in each specified division of the one hundred and twenty days session it is provided that only the Governor may submit matters of legislation which fall outside the "dead line."

For that reason the members of the 42nd and 43rd Legislature have elected to exercise their own judgment as to subjects of legislation to be introduced throughout the session, and have adopted rules of their own making as to when and how legislative subjects may be introduced and given consideration, without having to go to the Governor for permission to take action upon pending legislation or to introduce some measure that might be considered by some member as an emergency and yet not so considered by the Governor. In other words, it appears that the members of the 42nd and 43rd Legislatures have elected to exercise the powers delegated to them in Section I, Article II, of the State Constitution, which provides that, "The powers of the Government of the State of Texas shall be divided into three distinct departments, each of which shall be confided to a separate body of magistracy, to-wit: Those which are Legislative to one, those which are Executive to another, and those which are Judicial to another."

However, be it said to the credit of those responsible for the submission of the Amendment, they have the per diem of members of the Legislature and writing into the Amendment the order of procedure dividing the Regular Sessions into three periods, first the introduction of bills; second, committee hearings, and third, acting upon pending legislation, believed that it would result in a more deliberate and effective consideration of Legislative matters would be to reduce the present thirty-eight House committees and the thirty-six Senate committees to twelve and four respectively.

With six major and six minor committees in the House, each committee to be composed of twenty-five members and no member to be assigned to but one major committee and one minor committee, would result in each member being on one of the heavy committees and enable six committee hearings to be conducted at the same time with a full membership in attendance. The same plan can be put into effect in the Senate and in our judgment would be a decided improvement over the present plan of placing a part of the membership on the heavy committees, with such a mixup in hearings as to often result in only six or eight members of the committee being present during important hearings, when interested citizens from distant parts of the State have put themselves to considerable expense and trouble to appear before the committees.

Wants To Abolish Department. Representative T. H. McGregor, of Travis County, has introduced a bill in the House abolishing the State Agricultural Department. Mr. McGregor is one of Austin's most prominent attorneys-at-law, and also owns and operates a stock farm in Travis County. In this effort to abolish the Agricultural Department he is joined by two dirt farmers of the House of Representatives, James Pavlica, of Fayette County, and F. A. Rogers, of Hunt County.

The Department spent in salaries for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1932, $201,954.16 and for traveling expenses $35,965.85. All other expenses totaled $35,312.51, making a grand total for the year's expenditures amounting to $293,232.22.

The introduction of the bill abolishing the Department puts the matter squarely up to the farmers of the State to let their members of the Legislature know as to whether or not they want a State Department of Agriculture. The present Commissioner is Hon. J. E. McDonald, a dirt farmer of Ellis County.

Cutting Expenses. There is no doubt about the present Legislature cutting deep into State expenses. Indications are that all salaries above twelve hundred dollars will be cut from five to twenty-five per cent, with corresponding reductions in every item of maintenance of State Departments and Institutions as well as cutting out entirely many items of expense that have heretofore been supported out of the general revenue funds of the State. Auto License Payment Postponed. Auto license payment postponed who failed to obtain State licenses for their vehicles prior to February 1, have been granted until April 1 to take out licenses. Because of the bad financial situation many thousands of owners failed to obtain licenses prior to February 1, and in order to help out the situation the Legislature generously provided by a special Act this sixty-day extension.

SIDELIGHTS

by MARVIN JONES
Congressman from Texas

I feel that the people of our section would be interested in the program on which a number of us have been working during this session of Congress.

We have been doing everything possible to get the members of the House and the Senate to realize just how serious conditions are. Ordinary remedies will not be sufficient, for these are not ordinary times. We are faced with grim facts which call for emergency action.

In the first place, there should be a stay of foreclosures until such time as the necessary legislative program can be worked out. The House has already passed a measure of this kind. I hope the officials of the various states will take such action as is necessary to supplement the work of the Congress.

In my judgment, it is absolutely essential that a program of refinancing and, if possible, a scalding down of principal and interest rates and a refinancing of farm mortgages on a long-time basis be accomplished. A number of us have been working in every possible way toward this end.

This republic is anchored in the farm homes of America. Wholesale foreclosures on the part of mortgage companies would be detrimental to the companies as well as to the farmers and others who are interested. I hope they are beginning to realize the truth of this proposition.

Another matter that needs immediate attention is a complete re-vamping of our entire currency system. The price of the American dollar is too high when measured in the terms of commodity prices. There should be a readjustment in such a way as to make our unit of money a true measure of values. This would automatically increase commodity prices and enable people to pay debts.

Every thinking person realizes that taxes bear too heavily on the farm and ranch. While this is largely a local matter, depending upon action of state and local authorities, nevertheless, the expenses of the federal government should be reduced in every possible way. Many bureaus should be abolished and the activities of others curtailed. I have repeatedly urged this before the economy committee and have offered numerous amendments to accomplish this end.

Our freight rate schedules are too great a burden on the products of the farm and ranch. Freight rates at the present time are all out of proportion to the value of commodities.

I am also glad to know that the President-elect has declared that something must be done in reference to the excessive short selling and gambling in the stock market. He has declared for a correction of these evils, and I shall be more than happy to join him in supporting such a program.

The individual members of Congress are sometimes criticised for not taking action more quickly. Some of this criticism is just. However, I think it is but fair to detail some of the difficulties under which we who represent farming districts are working.

There are 435 members of the House, each representing a different district. A majority of these members represent consuming rather than producing districts. Again, a clear majority, to-wit, 228 of the 435 members of the House of Representatives, live north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi river. It takes a majority of the members of the House to pass any kind of legislation. I mention this fact to show the complications which any program must face.

Practically all of the members of Congress who represent farming and livestock districts have been earnestly working toward a solution of the grave problems which confront the country, and I feel it is but fair that the public should know this fact.

Again, not all of the difficulties will yield to legislative remedies, but certainly there are some conditions that can be helped. Most

The Fresno ball team played the Houselog boys Friday. Scores were 17-6 in favor of Houselog.

Misses Ruby Lee and Mayme Roberts entertained a number of their friends with a forty-two party Friday night. High scorers were Miss Mayme Roberts and Robert Simpson. Low scorers were Miss Kathleen Towns and Leo Smith.

The P. T. A. presented a very interesting program Saturday night, which was very well attended.

The next P. T. A. meeting will be March 4. Leo Smith spent Saturday night certainly our financial system can be revamped in the interest of the people, and the long-time discrimination in our tariff barriers and freight rates which have had the effect of paralyzing the agricultural sections can be removed, and thus an unhindered opportunity for equality in the operation of the laws of our country.

Deciding that they could no longer live as man and wife in happiness, they agreed to secure a divorce, but to remain in their $40,000 home, she as manager of the household and he as merely a boarder.
At the end of 30 days they felt the urge to make up and have the divorce set aside. Seeking the judge who had made the decree, they informed him of their desire. They were pleasantly surprised to be informed that the judge had never signed the record, having suspected how matters would turn out, consequently they had not been legally divorced at all.

There are probably many other couples who might save their matrimonial bark from shipwreck by a temporary severance of relations by mutual consent, instead of rushing to the divorce court on slight provocation.

HENRY GRADY'S ADVICE

Henry W. Grady, the great Southern editor and orator, died 43 years ago, but the advice he gave to the farmers of his native Georgia and the South many years ago is as sound today as it was when it was uttered.

One particular gem of his which has been often republished is of particular significance just now. It applies equally to North and South, provided the principal money crop of any particular section be substituted for "cotton," where it occurs in the original. Grady said:

"When every farmer in the South shall eat bread from his own fields and meat from his own pastures, and disturbed by no creditor and enslaved by no debt, shall sit among his teaming gardens and orchards and vineyards and dairies and barnyards, pitching his crops in his own wisdom and growing them in independence, making cotton his clean surplus and selling it in his own time and in his chosen market and not at a master's bidding—getting his pay in cash and not in a receipted mortgage that discharges his debt but does not restore his freedom—then shall be breaking the fullness of our day."

HYNOTIZING BOOZERS

Another solution of the liquor problem has been advanced by Professor Rechteriev, a Russian physiocrat, who claims that he has cured many drunkards through the employment of hypnotism.

His method, as reported in the Paris Times, is to take his patients in groups, lecture them on the evils of strong drink, then hypnotize them while continuing his admonitions. When they awake he gives them certain auto-suggestive phrases to be repeated by them several times daily for a month, at the end of which time he says they are cured of the desire for liquor.

That would seem to be a fine system if it would really work. But in this country it might have a tendency to aggravate the unemployment situation. Both bootleggers and reformers would find themselves without jobs.

In many communities schools are being closed for lack of funds. And aren't the kids sore?

OUR PAST

By C. C. Bishop

Our first postage stamps were issued during President Polk's administration.

April 22, 1889, Oklahoma was opened for settlement, the Government allowed people to start a run for their claims at the sound of a gun, at twelve o'clock; over 40,000 people participated in this event.

Roosevelt left New York City, March 23, 1909 for the Jungles of Africa on a hunting expedition.

There were three divisions of pupils in our early schools: the big boys, the little boys, and the girls. The big boys brought their axes to school as regularly as their books; they felled trees and cut them into firewood for the school, while the little boys carried the wood and made fires; the girls kept the house clean.

George Washington was a poor speller and made many mistakes in grammar.

At the close of the Civil War, Robert E. Lee was 58 years of age.

The first building in the United States designed primarily as a theatre was erected in 1716, at Williamsburg, Virginia.

The first mule that the Indians of Tennessee saw they thought it a strange wild animal, which they killed.

De Soto was the first white man to enter Alabama, and also brought the first horse into the state.

William (Buffalo) Bill Cody had a contract with a construction company, building one of our western railroads, to furnish them twelve buffalo beeves daily, for which he was to receive $500.00 a month.

There were as many as five Indian tribes that owned negro slaves.

One of the stage coach drivers, leaving Monterey, New Mexico, with but few passengers, loaded the coach with oranges at one cent each and on arriving at San Antonio, Texas, sold them readily for $1.20 per dozen.

In the heyday of Tomestone, Arizona, it had a saloon named Rattlesnake.

The first Union flag was unfurled on January 1, 1776, over the camp at Cambridge, Mass., it had 13 stripes of white and red and retained the British Cross in one corner.

A man writing in 1855 stated any one who would invent a fan for keeping mosquitoes off at night, and allow us to dispense with mosquito nets, might realize a fortune in New Orleans alone in one summer.

One newspaper of 1892 carried an advertisement stating how fat folks could reduce.

The States of Texas, Oklahoma, Oregon and Idaho in order named, sent the greatest number of cavalry horses to the World War.

President Lincoln's wife wanted to keep negro slaves at the White House as servants.

Mrs. Porter and Mr. Whitley, old Famous Store employees, report that they can remember when the customer had to have a personal friend in a store to get waited on, because of the large crowds that infested the stores each day.

Frank Downs, former Dodsonville merchant, evidently believes the depression is over because he was overheard to tell Frank Royal, "It has been pretty bad, alright, but maybe this good old Democratic administration will pull us out."

A New Idea On Melon Seeds

Ray Goodson says it is a real treat to watch the natives of Colorado thresh watermelon and cantaloupe seeds. Instead of picking the seed out by hand, Ray says they put the melons in a contraption about 250 feet long and the machinery does the work. Besides, that is where the seed for a great part of the melons in this section comes from—that is the bought seed. Ray also knows about the best industry in the state—and a little bit about the fishing possibilities it offers.

An Old Friend Visits Here

A lot of people here in Wellington were mighty glad to see Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Barker back in for a few days. They visited a number of friends before their home in after en-streets a local man said that he could remember when Mr. Barker used to be janitor in the schools here—and he also said that he would bet Mr. Barker and Bill Boston, former principal, were the two most popular men on the school grounds in 1925 and 1926.

Hayden Williams was walking down the north side of the square last week and was looking mighty glum about something. In fact, he looked like one of his horses was sick—or like Morris Wells does after he comes from going quail hunting.

Big News For Cake Eaters

The Dodsonville P. T. A. pulled some promotion stunts Friday night and according to all reports had more cakes than a soap factory. They had a big fine cake with 36 candles to represent age of the national P. T. A. Then they had a little cake with three candles to represent the age of the Dodsonville unit. On top of all this they had some other cakes—and the whole crowd, which was fairly large, had all of the cake they could eat. Everything was performed with pomp and ceremony as representatives blew out candles and sliced the cake. The most unusual thing about the whole incident was that nobody was reported to have eaten so much that they got sick.

Unusual Progress Shown By Marella Students In Development And Work

By VAUDINE BELL

The Marella School has shown unusual development since the term started this year. Several projects have been undertaken and much interest has resulted from the activities.

The Marella Girl Scouts meet each Thursday afternoon after school and at present the organization includes two patrols: Bob Whites and Blue Bell patrols.

The English Club in the intermediate room gave an interesting program Thursday, January 26. The purpose of this club is to learn correct speech correct and study nature. The club meets once each week.

The high school students conducted the chapel program last week with a dummy debate, and jokes were read by Alice Morris, Davis Weaver, Elmer Lee Breeding also told an interesting story.

The Marella junior boys and girls defeated the Ring junior boys and girls in a basket ball game last Friday.

Irene, Emogene and Robert Gray withdrew from school. They are moving to Pleasant Hill.

The primary room had three to start to school Monday, Ina May, Solon and Paul Winegeart.

Edith Daves and Nina Melton are out of school because of illness.

It's dangerous to enter one's own home through a window at night, as former King Amanullah of Afghanistan has found out. Having forgotten the keys to his Swiss villa, he jimmied up a window and crawled in. Observing neighbors, thinking him a burglar, called the police, who withdrew only after his recent majesty offered profuse explanations and proofs of his identity.

The area of the Sahara desert in Northern Africa is said to be more than 3,500,000 square miles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lowe and daughter, Huetta, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Caldwell, Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell are the proud parents of a baby girl born Sunday, January 22, named Helen Jewell.

Little Harold Caldwell is spending this week with his grandmother, Mrs. Della Caldwell.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Newberry and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Newberry of Shamrock visited with Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Simpson and family last Sunday.

Report Radical Change In League Spelling Contest

A radical change has been made in the rules of the spelling contest in the University Interscholastic League this year, according to reports issued by the department this week.

"Formerly the contestants in the event were classified on an age basis. It is believed that this new classification will better enable the teacher to correlate the contest with the regular spelling instruction. The price of the new spelling bulletin has been reduced by one-half, copies now being available at twenty-five cents per dozen, or $1 per hundred copies. This means that the sixteen-page bulletin is made available in hundred lots at one cent per copy.

"Teachers are cautioned that the contest involves plain writing as well as spelling. Often a good speller is a poor writer, and it is necessary to coach such contestants in plain writing. Every letter in a spelling paper must be clearly legible.

"No more valuable training, in can be given to our pupils than that involved in adequate preparation for this contest. The words prescribed are all words in common use and words therefore for which the student has constant use. Moreover, the ability to write a clear, legible hand is an accomplishment which many graduates of our schools fail to acquire yet in business and the professions and even in the trades such an ability is of the utmost importance.

"The 1932 supplement to the Constitution and Rules of the League is now available, and teachers in member-schools may secure a copy by addressing the League Bureau University Station, Austin, Texas."

Police in San Pedro, Calif., were amused when Nick Chapelle reported that some one had stolen his concrete sidewalk.

Farmers Put Stop To Sale Of Farm

More than 1,000 farmers, shouting "There'll be no mortgage foreclosures in Alfalfa County," Wednesday halted auctioning of a widow's farm, at Cherokee, Okla., this week, escorted the representative of a mortgage holding concern out of town.

The representative, Ancel Greer of Kingfisher, attorney for the Equitable Life Assurance Society, offered to bid in the quarter section farm for the full amount of an $8,400 judgment against Mrs. Julia Jobes.

However, the farmers, shouting, "No compromise," forced Greer's departure. He offered no resistance.

Steadily growing sentiment against foreclosures in Western Oklahoma flared up for the first time last Saturday, when 1,000 Alfalfa County farmers gathered at Cherokee to protest a Sheriff's sale of some city

However, the matter after more representatives were bid the full amount principal and costs, $2,400.

Six Widows Former Presidents Of U. S. Are Still Living

Further proving the great strain that is undergone by presidents of the United States, press reports this week issued the following article establishing Mrs. Calvin Coolidge as one of six president's widows living and showing that the group figured little in the news of the nation.

The widows of former Presidents include Mrs. Benjamin Harrison and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, both now living in New York; Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, Jr. (formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland), of Princeton, N. J.; Mrs. William H. Taft and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson of Washington and Mrs. Coolidge.

As is considered befitting the dignity of their position, these women have dropped back into civil life with a determination to avoid publicity. They have accomplished their purpose so well that it comes as somewhat of a surprise to many to learn for instance, that Mrs. Harrison still survives her husband. She was his second wife, a niece of his first wife.

Mrs. Mary Scott Dimmick Harrison, as she calls herself to distinguish from the first Mrs. Harrison, never occupied the White House as first lady, but she lived there two years attending her aunt.

She married Mr. Harrison in 1896, three years after his term expired. After his death in 1901 she traveled extensively. Mrs. Harrison is now 74 and lives with her daughter, Mrs. James Blaine Harrison, in New York.

The first marriage of a President to take place in the White House was that of Grover Cleveland and Miss Frances Polson, a girl of 22.

About five years after the death of Mr. Cleveland, Mrs. Cleveland married Thomas J. Preston Jr., professor of archeology at Wells college, from which she was graduated. Since then she has made her home at Princeton University and has identified herself with university activities.

The activities of her family have served to keep Mrs. Roosevelt, now 71, more constantly in the news.

Her own interesting politics drew her from seclusion in the campaign just past when she introduced President Hoover for his New York address.

She has remained a sort of dowager-queen in American life. Among the visiting celebrities who have sought her out have been the Prince of Wales, who saw her in 1924, and the crown prince and princess of Sweden, who visited her in 1926.

Helen Harron Taft, now 71, who returned to Washington with her husband when he was named chief justice, established a permanent home there. It is filled with art treasures gathered on her wide travels.

Mrs. Wilson, the war president's second wife, is now 60. She often is seen at functions of artistic interest, still the handsome, gracious woman she was when her every activity was recorded in the day's news. Her interest in world politics remains keen, and she continues active contact with the democratic party.

Mrs. Coolidge, the youngest of the group, only 53, will always be remembered here for her marked graciousness. Her very striving to remain in the background, simply as her husband's partner in the home, served to thrust her forward as what many persons regarded an example of the best in American womanhood.

"We New England women cling to the old ways," she said once when comment was made on the blue-berry pies for which she was famous. Her interest in knitting was so great that she submitted samples in several national competitions.

Those who know Mrs. Coolidge best here express little doubt that when the first shock of sorrow is past the quiet, smiling woman will emerge again, an example of the friendly neighborliness that has made her beloved by the townspeople of Northampton.

Auction

Attracts Interest But Number Items Listed Are Limited

Despite the fact that the number of items listed in the free auction sale Monday, were limited, a large crowd attended the affair and much interest was shown in the sale. All articles sold readily and owners evidenced themselves as being satisfied with the prices that their items brought.

One hog, two horses, a cow, a cultivator, a four wheel trailer and cottonseed were among the items which were sold.

Deskins Wells, editor of The Leader, and John W. Jackson, auctioneer, who sponsored the free sale, were undecided, due to the fact that a limited number of items were listed, as to whether they would again sponsor another free sale Monday, March 6, but stated that they would be glad to do so if the farmers of the county showed enough interest in the affair to come in and list a reasonable amount of items.

"It is our purpose to serve the farmers," they said, "if they cannot use this free sale to their advantage, we do not wish to go to the expense and trouble of sponsoring it."

Advisory Council

mittee follows:

Your committee was appointed two weeks ago in pursuance to a request from Mr. Doneghy in order that a clearer picture might be obtained concerning the credit relation between Mr. Doneghy and his borrowers, which had been the occasion for a resolution at a previous meeting.

Your committee has endeavored in these two weeks, to go over the situation as thoroughly as time and circumstances would permit.

Your committee found, in its conference with Mr. Doneghy and in going over his loan records, that a very large number of loans are past-due for two and for three years in interest payments, and in many instances in taxes. He found that these past-due obligations would run up a high sum total and that they were therefore in themselves naturally an occasion for considerable apprehension on the part of Mr. Doneghy.

In our efforts to obtain as broad and as fair a picture of the credit situation above referred to, your committee, made it a point to discuss with numerous citizens of Collingsworth County the history of Mr. Doneghy's lending policy during the twenty years that he has been doing business in this county. We found that commonly the sentiment prevails among farmers and stockmen and among the citizenship of Wellington itself, that Mr. Doneghy pursued the policy of being generous in loaning and lenient in collecting. In fact, we were repeatedly placed under the impression, in our conversations with people, that he had been, possibly, unduly lenient in not a few cases, in the past when times were better than they are now.

We concluded that that attitude explained, possibly, in not a few instances, the accumulation of past due obligations, and that it also explained also the apprehension that Mr. Doneghy seems to have been entertaining with regard to the safety of a number of his loans.

We felt that Mr. Doneghy was not without justification in being apprehensive as these loans. While we, your committee, appreciated fully Mr. Doneghy's state of mind, we found also, on the other hand, an even greater distress of mind on the part of those borrowers who were facing the prospect of losing their farms and, in a sense, of having their hopes for the security of their families blasted.

We found that the borrowers in question felt keenly that foreclosure at this stage of the general world depression would amount to an unusual and unnecessary hardship on them and that, if at all possible, they should be granted another season's extension of time.

We found further that this sentiment was not only entertained by the borrowers in question but was shared rather wholeheartedly by the citizenship of Collingsworth County generally. It seemed to be the uniform belief and conviction of this citizenship that the peace and quiet and the welfare of the county could and would be safeguarded effectively if all extreme measures commonly approved in normal times, were kept in abeyance as much as possible during this distressful period of our history.

We, your committee, accordingly conferred with Mr. Doneghy again and presented to him this picture of the state of mind of the citizens in the county. Mr. Doneghy responded promptly by stating that he would not prosecute any contemplated foreclosure proceedings this season.

Your committee had found, in conversation among farmers, that it was the common opinion among them that a fair arrangement between the men facing foreclosure and Mr. Doneghy would be the agreement on the part of the borrower that certain per cent of the crops of the coming season be mortgaged to Mr. Doneghy, to be applied to interest and principal of the debt in question.

We found that Mr. Doneghy was agreeable to this proposal.

We, your committee, so far as we see, feel that the crisis that seemed to be impending for a number of citizens of our county has thus been averted and that this fortunate solution was made possible thru the sportsmanlike cooperation of all parties concerned.

Negroes Are Held Following Crash

Charges were filed against Joe Lawrence and Lee Washington, two negroes, this week after the car which they were driving collided with a wagon one mile south of town and Tom Harwell, Jr., fourteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harwell, was injured by the collision.

The negroes were arrested by Ed Pryor, constable, and Lawrence made bond. Washington is still being held in the county jail.

Indian Creek To Hold Pie Supper On February 10

Announcement was made today that a pie supper and musical program will be held at the Indian Creek School house eight miles north of Wellington, Friday, February 10. Everyone is invited and the ladies are urged to bring pies. Proceeds will go to finance a singing school to be taught by D. W. Moon. The music will include sacred number and several musical instrumental numbers.

Arrested for disorderly conduct, 16-year-old James Shanley of St. Louis, was sentenced to stay home every evening for six months.

Mr. and Mrs. Buford Bell of Estelline were the guests Sunday of Mr. Bell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Bell, and family and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilson and family.

ent reduction in valuation and rate can be maintained. The bonded indebtedness of the city requires that a certain amount be raised by taxation regardless of how much the city expenses may be cut. Due to this fact, prompt payment of taxes will enable the council to continue its policy of lower taxes whereas the non-payment of any appreciable part of the taxes will force the Council to raise the taxes in order to take care of the interest and principal on the bonded indebtedness. We, as your representatives, have tried to do our part in reducing the burden of taxation, and we will sincerely appreciate your cooperation in this effort."
