

Cooking Demonstration Drew Large Attendance

The cooking demonstration held by The News, The Loraine Furniture Store, and the J. E. Mahon Grocery last Friday and Saturday was quite an attraction to more than 100 men and women who visited it.

The occasion for the demonstration was to show the new model Florence Oil Range, the quality of Youkon's Best Flour, K. C. Baking Powder, Saltine Crackers and other food.

Mrs. Loneta Hutchins did the cooking for the demonstration, and did the job in a very pleasing manner for those who visited the demonstration will testify to her ability as a cook.

The News and others interested wish to express thanks to those who assisted in any way to make the demonstration the success it was.

PRESIDENT SUMS UP NIRA LABOR SECTION

In the opening paragraph of the provisions for the automobile settlement, President Roosevelt summed up the meaning of section 7a of NIRA, containing the labor provisions, in what he called "plain language," as follows:

(a) Employees have the right to organize into a group or groups.

(b) When such group or groups are organized they can choose representatives by free choice, and such representatives must be received collectively, and thereby seek to straighten out disputes and improve conditions of employment.

(c) Discrimination against employees because of their labor affiliations, or for any other unfair or unjust reasons, is barred.

AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

The two hundred and forty-eight that attended the Methodist Sunday School on Easter Sunday will be just as welcome at each and every Sunday during the year. We are very happy that the attendance increases as the spring days are here.

The community Easter Service under the leadership of Mrs. Dorris Martin, was so well attended that the house was crowded to its utmost and many were unable to get in the church and were turned away sorely disappointed, but not more so than were the Methodist people. We were all made to realize how much Loraine needs some new and commodious church auditoriums in which to house those that want to hear the word.

Loraine has never had a more beautiful and impressive service than this one portraying the life of Christ in song, appropriate Bible readings, and living pictures. Every minute of the program interested the entire congregation, from the first note played by the orchestra to the closing sentence of the benediction. The plan of the director was so perfectly carried out that not a noise of any kind was heard that in any wise disturbed. The decorations typed the purity and beauty of the Christ. To every person who contributed in any way to the success of the service we extend hearty thanks.

The night services were dismissed and the Methodist congregation worshiped with the Baptist Church.

W. O. Kinnison left Sunday for Afton to attend the funeral of Mrs. Kinnison's niece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Ford, who died Saturday night with pneumonia following measles. Mrs. Kinnison was at the bedside when death came. Mr. and Mrs. Ford have another daughter sick with measles, she being the only remaining child.

Current Comment From Washington

Within two days, the House and the Senate, reversing the veto of the President, made positive law out of the bill providing added benefits for the veterans, and an increase in the salaries of government employees. The ex-soldiers will receive 75% of the pension formerly granted them, and the salary raise will amount to 5%. The budget total will be increased by about 228 million dollars. Once more, legislation for the welfare of veterans has turned out to be hard to down.

The old saying "The better the day, the better the deed" has come true once more. It was on a Sunday evening that the President and his advisers settled a matter that had kept official Washington, and indeed the whole country, on the anxious seat for days. The strike in the automobile industry has been averted, to the satisfaction of all, though there are many who wish that the settlement might have been brought about on slightly different terms. The bone of contention was whether or not company unions should be recognized. That point was disposed of definitely by a sentence in the President's statement: "The Government makes it clear that it favors no particular union or particular form of employee organization or representation."

Organized labor, as that term is commonly understood, would have had it otherwise, but the disappointment will pass. The really important thing is to be found in another portion of the Administration's paper relating to the controversy: "In all the hectic experience of N. R. A., I have not seen more earnest and patriotic devotion than has been shown by both employers and employees in the automotive industry." The hopeful sign of major importance is not that the Administration and the N. R. A. have sustained their position. It does not arise out of the fact that this particular strike has been turned aside. It is rather, to be found in the circumstance that in days which indeed are hectic, and at a time when personal interests come into sharp conflict, both sides can rise to a plane which an impartial judge can characterize as that of "patriotic devotion."

In a recently published and somewhat bulky book, the A. A. A. has stated its plan for farm relief. About forty million acres will be taken out of cultivation. The object that looms largest is, of course, to relieve immediate agricultural distress, but the plan looks to the welfare of a distant future, as well. The problems arising out of shifting land from crop production to pasturage, the disposition to be made of farm populations, the question as to where farming is to be encouraged and where it is to be discouraged: all these are recognized as not being easy of solution, but are faced frankly and courageously. The future alone can determine the wisdom of a general control and direction for agriculture, but the A. A. A. at least has stated its case thoroughly and well.

The President has enjoyed the rest of a fishing trip in southern waters. Mr. Cleveland was accustomed to get his recreation in the same way. A gentleman who was greatly concerned as to what Daniel Webster was to say in reply to Mr. Hayne, found the Massachusetts statesman seated in a flat boat, fishing quietly, shortly before the oratorical effort by which he is chiefly kept in the popular mind. At this season of the year, fishing is good for anyone. Presidents not excluded. If most of us had their burdens to carry, it is likely that we would be willing to shift over to fishing as a permanent business.

Cleanup Started Here This Week

A cleanup campaign is in progress in Loraine this week. If you have not yet cleaned up your premises of all trash and rubbish do not fail to do it before the week is out. Trucks and wagons will be provided by the city to haul away your rubbish that cannot be burned, so we should have a clean city at the end of the week.

All should cooperate with the city officials in helping to make a cleaner and more healthful city.

BUILDING PERMITS IN TEXAS OFF IN FEBRUARY

Austin, Texas, April 2.—Permits to build granted during February in 36 Texas cities totaled $892,548, against $1,002,519 in January and $1,119,958 in February, 1933, declines of 11 and 20 per cent respectively, according to reports made to the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. Houston, San Antonio, Sherman and Harlingen were the only cities to show substantial gains in permits over February, 1933.

The City Health Officer stated Wednesday that there is no general contamination of the water. However, there is one main that shows contamination. It has been thoroughly flushed out and he thinks that it is alright. Dr. Martin is doing everything he can to clear the water up thoroughly.

APPRECIATION

The Easter service "The Life of Christ" presented by the high school choral club, under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Martin, was exceedingly beautiful and effective. The choral club formed a choir whose music was well presented. Supporting them in a special octet "Come Unto Me" were Messrs. Lester Jarratt, K. L. Taylor, Bud Richburg, D. Fagan Brians, Tommy and Gene Roberts, Glen Coon, and Bob George. This number was beautifully rendered. Mrs. K. L. Taylor played all accompaniments. "Supplication," "Have Thine Own Way" and "Rock of Ages" were orchestral numbers played by Messrs. Harold Martin, Walter Leggett, Otis Muns, and W. R. Martin. The octet assisted with "Rock of Ages."

Outstanding was the beautiful living pictures following each scripture prologue read so effectively by Mrs. W. W. Rowland. The characters were excellently portrayed by Mrs. A. O. Fain, Mrs. Glen Coon, Mrs. Harold Martin, A. J. McCarley, William Martin, Loulane Lawrence, Quita Richards, Doris Glass, William Crutcher, Louise Hallmark, Gloria Martin, Sentinels were Ruth Ann Hall and Billie Marie Rowland. These effective pictures and costumes were worked out by Miss Willie Fae Hall, and her assistants Mrs. John Johnson and Mrs. Hall Hooker.

The church was artistically decorated in white and green ferns and real Easter lilies, burning candles and trelis work transformed the interior. Windows were darkened making the special lighting effects very colorful. These decorations were the thoughtful planning of Mrs. Ed Williams, Mrs. A. O. Fain, Miss Gladys Spikes, Mrs. Bill Honea, Mrs. Wade Preston and Miss Irene Brown.

A complimentary souvenir program was prepared by the Rev. Bruce Meador for which the program director expresses appreciation. Stage building and much property work was done by Mr. Ed Williams and his efficient committee.

The splendid cooperation of all committees made this beautiful and effective program the best ever given for our community. Our town folk have been profuse in their praise and we are very happy to have served them in this manner.

Easter Program Very Colorful

One of the most beautiful Easter programs ever witnessed in Loraine was held at the Methodist Church Sunday morning before a crowd that literally packed the house. Many were unable to get in the house.

The program depicted the life of Christ from His birth to the resurrection and the scenes laid among beautiful decorations were beautiful and inspiring.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Martin.

Farm Record Book To Be Supplied to Contract Signers

New farm record books furnished by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to farmers who have signed acreage reduction contracts will soon be available on application to county agents, according to the Texas A and M College Extension Service.

The first object of supplying these account books is to enable farmers to keep production records needed in contracts signed with the Government, but the books have many other uses. By keeping records farmers are enabled to know better the strong and weak points in their business, and to make changes which will make them more money.

Production records will also prove valuable in making applications for production credit through the new production credit associations.

Extension Service workers declare the book will be a great aid in the regular farm demonstrations so many farmers are conducting in connection with agricultural readjustment.

Miss Estha Edwards, who is teaching at Anton, spent the week end here with home folks. Miss Edwards has been re-elected to her position in the school there.

VIRGIL BROOKS HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

The Virgil Brooks home was slightly damaged by fire Saturday night about nine o'clock. The damage consisted principally of burned wall paper and a rug and smoke.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks were not at home when the fire started. Mrs. Brooks rode home with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Spikes intending to visit with them until Virgil came home from the barber shop but noticed her home was afire and they quickly extinguished the blaze before the firemen arrived.

The fire is supposed to have started from a radio connection which had been left on while the lights were out for about an hour. It is supposed that when the power came back on it caused the wire connected with the radio to catch fire.

FRIENDS ENTER W. H. GARRETT FOR ATTORNEY

Petitioned To Let Name Go On Ticket For Office

Friends of Judge W. H. Garrett, former county attorney, have entered his name as a candidate for County Attorney, after having secured approximately 200 names on a petition asking him to enter the race, and have authorized announcement of his candidacy subject to the Democratic primary in July.

Judge Garrett served four years as county attorney, prior to January, 1933, and has practiced law in Colorado for a number of years. He is well known to most citizens of the county and his qualifications are not questioned. He had no intention of entering the political campaign he says, until the friends insisted on placing his name on the ticket and petitioned him to consent to the action.

Judge Garrett has followed his profession as an attorney in Colorado during the past fourteen years and is among the popular members of the bar associations. He has filled the office of county attorney during the past, discharging the duties involved without fear or favor to any individual or interest.

The record of Judge Garrett as a private citizen his friends would remind, is as commendable as that of a public official. Since establishing his home in Colorado, the attorney has taken an active interest in affairs of the church and programs for which the church stands.

Supporters of the candidate cordially invite that voters make due investigation of his qualifications for this important office. They are offering his candidacy solely upon his own merits and as such solicit your influence and your support.

TEXAS GIVEN RELIEF FUND

Austin, April 4.—Texas' request for an immediate advance of $1,000,000 federal unemployment relief money with which to match state dollars has been granted.

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson was advised Tuesday by Aubrey Williams, assistant national director of relief, that the money asked for would be forthcoming. The state relief commission at a recent meeting suggested to the governor that the requisition be made.

Four million dollars worth of Texas state bonds, proceeds to be used in giving aid to the destitute, were marketed a few days ago. The federal government is working with Texas on a dollar-for-dollar matching basis.

Did you ever stop to think... EDSON R. WAITE

Some people should use their "Think Caps" more often. If they did, they could save more money. A lot of people are always thinking they will start saving tomorrow, but that tomorrow never comes.

In the prosperity of a country, foreign trade is a vital factor. In nearly every city there are a few men who seem to think that their city needs no Chamber of Commerce and could get along without a newspaper.

All the natural advantages imaginable cannot make a city great unless that city has men big enough to use them. If your city has such men, no lack of natural advantages can long retard its growth.

The necessities of life seem to be tempting targets for the revenue hunters. The people must have them and, therefore, they are the most readily productive source of revenue.

Jim the Conqueror By Peter B. Kyne

SYNOPSIS

Roberta Antrim, after she had been made to believe that her Uncle Bill had lost his fortune, borrowed money from her lover, Glenn Hackett, and made preparations to leave for Texas to see after her interests there since she is the sole heir of her Uncle Tom, who was killed.

After arriving at the ranch of Don Jaime Higuenes Roberta was somewhat astonished and embarrassed when she discovered that Don Jaime and Jim Higgins were the same persons. Don Jaime had written her that Jim Higgins had killed her uncle Tom. Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER 8

Mr. William B. Latham smiled fatuously and rubbed his old hands together in pleased anticipation, as he noticed the telegram beside his plate at breakfast.

The man who first called you Crooked Bill knew his onions stop I have your Texas record stop You permitted me to walk into a situation that is perfectly and monstrously unusual and I am horribly embarrassed to say Jim's father shot you in the foot with a forty-five caliber revolver and the impulse to be careless with deadly weapons still runs in the family only the present representative uses a bow and arrow and shoots for the heart stop. Nor is the Connemara half blood bred out of the tribe stop Believe it or not he has erected a headstone over Uncle Tom stop It is an angel weeping and on the base of the monument he has worked in a bas-relief of a shepherd and a sheep presumably the one that was lost stop Spanish art and Irish devilry stop When I compare him with Glenn I am torn between a desire to weep and to laugh stop Glenn is so respectable so proper so mindful of all the things we have been raised to admire and respect while this fellow stops at nothing and consults only his own desires stop My plan is to secure the court's permission to get rid of the sheep promptly and return to Hillcrest so I can bite you on the ear.

"BOBBY."

Harms, the butler, in the act of dropping the customary two lumps of sugar into Crooked Bill's coffee cup, froze in the act and regarded his master with amazement and concern. It appeared to Harms that the old gentleman was about to have some sort of seizure, for he had closed his eyes, thrown back his head, opened his mouth and gasped.

"Anything wrong, sir?" Harms demanded.

"Har!" yelled Crooked Bill. "Har!" Two bursts of maniac laughter.

"Good news, sir?" Harms suggested politely.

"Harms," said Crooked Bill, "did you ever hear of Pandora?"

"Oh, yes, sir! You are referring to the lady of mythology who unlocked the box of troubles?"

"Exactly. Well, Miss Roberta has unlocked a similar box. Harms, get Mr. Hackett on the telephone."

He read Hackett Roberta's message and waited for a hearty laugh. It did not come. "Dog your cats, Glenn," he protested, "where's your sense of humor?"

"I see no humor in the situation, Mr. Latham. I can only sympathize with Roberta. There she is, the guest of the man who killed her uncle, and who has had the hardihood to make a jest at the expense of his victim. Not satisfied with that exhibition of bad taste he has, apparently, commenced to pay his court to Roberta immediately, which is most embarrassing and distressing to her. She will be forced to leave his house, of course, and decline to permit him to continue to serve her in the matter of conserving those ramnable sheep."

"You tarnation monkey, you. Isn't that exactly what I planned should happen? Roberta practically admits it already. She's anxious to clean up on those sheep and return—and when she does, boy, you'll certainly look good to her."

"I wish I could be as confident as you, Mr. Latham. Roberta has one weakness, and that is her sense of humor. Like yours, it's a bit—er—diabolical. I wish I had never joined in this conspiracy with you."

"Faint heart never won fair lady. My boy, don't you realize you have a chance to be a hero?"

"I do not."

"You're singularly dull. My stock is still climbing and you need more money to protect me. So you've decided that those sheep should be sold to get ready cash. Consequently you've had two important cases continued which will enable you to go to Texas and arrange the sale of the sheep."

"Who will I sell them to?"

"To me, fool, to me. I'll give you more money for them than anybody else, and the more money you realize on them the stronger you'll be with Roberta! Also, you'll arrive on the job in time to put a crimp in the sentimental aspirations of Don Jaime Miguel Higuenes. You'd better jump to Texas my pronto."

"Well, in order to make good on your deceit you've rented Hillcrest, so why not go to Texas with me? Shave your whiskers and dress like a rancher and play the part of the sheep buyer?"

"By golly, I'll do it, Glenn. It's a good idea. When can you start?"

"In one week."

"Fine. Meanwhile I'll keep you advised if anything new turns up—Hey, don't hang up yet. Harms has just handed me another telegram... it may be from Bobby... No, it's from Higuenes. Oh, Lord, or, Lord, oh, Lord! Glenn, will you listen to this?" And he read over the telephone:

"When you see your ward again I should be a proud man to hear you address her as Mrs. Higuenes or Higgins whichever suits you best stop To that end I request your permission to pay my court stop I know the going will be hard but I have never been accustomed to getting anywhere without a battle so I will take a chance stop You know my people so I do not have to furnish social references stop Can furnish financial credentials to please any save most exacting."

"He's a direct-actionist" Glenn Hackett growled.

"He's his father's son. Just imagine the nice courtesy that induced him to seek the permission of Bobby's responsible relative before commencing work."

"What are you going to say on reply, Mr. Latham?"

"I'm going to encourage the boy, of course."

"Why do that?"

"To make him work. Remember, Glenn, there is one thing Roberta will never forgive, and that's bad taste. You can't kill a girl's uncle and then expect to rush her off her feet, even though you killed in self-defense and in so doing performed a public service. I tell you this man Higuenes doesn't know any better than to walk into straight lefts and rights."

Crooked Bill hung up and immediately dispatched the following telegram to Don Jaime Miguel Higuenes:

"You have the nerve of a lion-tamer stop Thanks for the compliment implied in your telegram but I have nothing to say about it stop However you have my best wishes and I will even give you some good advice stop Pile on the high romance and sound the old castilian note your good old father knew so well stop If there is anything in Mendel's law you should be dark-haired and dark-eyed like Mike and with these assets a fair singing voice and a guitar some moonlight and a pachyderm hide I should say that you stand slightly more chance than a celluloid dog chasing an asbestos cat through the infernal regions."

"LATHAM."

"And now," he murmured,

"having done my full Christian duty by all concerned, I think I should return to my breakfast." Well had he been nicknamed Crooked Bill!

Mignon awakened Roberta at seven o'clock next morning. "It's Sunday," she reminded her discreetly. "What will you wear, miss?"

Roberta had given considerable thought to that very subject the night previous. "That sports suit I bought just before leaving New York," she answered promptly.

Breakfast was ready on the gallery when Roberta came out looking for her host. The table was set for two and Don Jaime was waiting for her. His lazy dark eyes swept her in one glance—from her white kid pumps to her Titian head.

"You are as beautiful as an army with banners, Miss Antrim," he announced in the matter-of-fact tone in which one proclaims that two and two make four or that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points. "Not so much a compliment or the natural desire of a man to flatter a woman, as a definite statement of fact."

Roberta flushed—and hated herself for it, because it was not her habit to exhibit such apparent pleasure at compliments from men. Had the words come from any other man she would have had a careless retort; in all probability she would have told another man that he wasn't looking so very beautiful himself. But again that strange sense of bafflement, of stupidity, almost, held her speechless.

"I suppose he'll ask me if I slept well," she decided. "The usual banal query."

He did not. He tucked her into her seat, sat down opposite, looked at her casually and said: "I see you had a good night's rest in the gigantic bed of my ancestors. You appear much refreshed and I am very glad of it. And you arrive for breakfast promptly at eight. Punctuality is a paramount virtue, particularly in women, so just for that you win a rose." And he leaned back and plucked one from the vine that clambered around a pillar of the gallery. "You're too red for red roses," he rambled on, handing it to her, "so this lovely mauve rose is just the right shade."

"I'm not red. I'm auburn. Thanks for the rose, however. It's lovely."

"Well, whatever it is, it suits me fine. You and I are going to be the best of friends, Roberta."

"Well, I like them fast on their feet—and you're a whiz-bang, Jimmy. I've been trying very hard to dislike you but I must confide it's an up-hill job."

"Of course, it's very unethical to like me," he admitted demurely.

"Let us say it is unusual and let it go at that."

His eyes devoured her. "Roberta, you're mighty sweet. I think, if I may, I'll call you Bobby."

"My friends all do, Shamus. Fire away, old-timer."

She saw him swallow something—and it was not food. The fire died out of his eyes, and the sudden, wistful, little-boy look faded and was replaced by gravity, sternness, masculinity. "He's nice," the girl thought. "He wouldn't take advantage of the fact that I'm his guest to appear to rush me."

Oh yes, Roberta knew men. She could read their faces and, conversely, their minds. For had not Don Jaime Miguel Higuenes just assured her she was as beautiful as an army with banners!

"You're a lery happy man, aren't you, Jimmy. It seems to me that with you, life must be one glad sweet song."

"Oh, it is," he assured her. "The singing started last night." Again his eyes burned into hers for a split second, and again she felt her face flushing hotly. To cover her confusion she said inanely: "I do wish you knew my Uncle Bill."

"Not interested in the old repertoire, although if he should take a notion to show up at Valle Verde I wouldn't sick the dogs on him. Have some bacon and eggs. I cured that bacon myself and am personally acquainted with the hens that laid the eggs."

Had he noticed her confusion, and was this gay, frivolous banter merely his kind way of helping her cover it? Roberta had an idea it was. His two setters slouched apologetically to the table and he appeared to forget Roberta, to become absorbed in the dogs, feeding them strips of bacon and little pieces of bread steeped in bacon grease, talking affectionately to them the while as if they were human. Roberta reminded herself that Don Jaime was the first young man who had ever neglected her to curry favor with a pair of English setters, and was interested to discover that she did not resent his action.

"What are you going to do about Robbie?" she inquired presently.

"Oh, Robbie. Nothing very much wrong with him. I suspected the fix he was in and, in order to verify my suspicions, I had Mrs. Ganby bring him here. He's been kept in the house because his mother, despite the fact that she is a trained nurse, motherlike considered him too delicate to be allowed out very much. She had to make a living for the two of them, so necessarily she has been forced to neglect the boy."

"He requires sunlight and lots of it. Every day he lies out in the sunlight mother-naked. I gave it to him in small doses, so he wouldn't sunburn. Now he's tanned. One arm and one leg are affected but not very badly. With increased general health he will gain strength and the desire to be more active. Nobody ever exercised without wasting energy, and those who have no energy to waste do not care to exercise."

"He adores you, Jimmy."

"Well, if children and dogs do not like a man that's a sign he had better begin to take stock of himself. I like Robbie. I like all children. I'm godfather to one hundred and eighty-seven and after mass this morning I'll take one the one hundred and eighty-eighth."

"Why are you so popular, Jimmy?"

"For two reasons. If I'm godfather to the child of one of my people then, while an Higuenes lives at Valle Verde, that child will always dwell under the mantle of the Higuenes philanthropy. He can't be fired off the ranch, if he's a male, and he'll get something in the way of a hope chest if he's a female."

"You strange man! Of course as a godfather you have to promise that if the parents neglect to give their child a religious upbringing you will attend to the matter."

"Haven't I built a little church and haven't I a padre on my payroll? Imported him from Mexico. The archbishop of this diocese doesn't know he exists, so the old boy's as free as air. I'm strong for freedom myself."

"Is that why you have never married? Or have you?"

"I haven't. When an Higuenes marries it takes. And I haven't married because you've been such a long time showing up at my ranch."

"Why, Jimmy!"

"I thought for a while I'd surely have to go to Hillcrest, Dobbs Ferry, Westchester county, New York, and point out to you the error of your way, but thanks to your Uncle Tom I was spared that expensive journey. Then, too, I probably wouldn't have showed to such good advantage in your country, because of the competition. I loathe competition. It makes me just a little bit jealous."

For the life of her Roberta couldn't help laughing. She had a habit of laughing at men when they were proposing to her or on the brink of it. She was at ease now, no longer inhibited by some quality in this man which she had never met in any other. If he was in love with her she had him foul—wherefore she laughed.

To her chagrin he laughed with her, and instantly a horrible suspicion crossed her mind. Was this Texas longhorn merely indulging in a mild flirtation with her? A hot rage swelled in Roberta's heart and her laughter ceased abruptly.

"This is very sudden, Jimmy." Her voice was cool.

"That habit of being sudden is a trait that runs in the Higuenes blood. My father was a very sudden man. When he made up his mind to marry my mother, he appeared at her father's house and said to the old man: 'I've come to marry your daughter. What have you got to say about it? Why, nothing at all! Here's the license and the priest's outside. Where's the bride?'"

"Well, if I had been the bride your respectable parent would have received the jolt of his career."

"Fiddlesticks!" Don Jaime retorted sharply. "A woman worth having is a woman worth stealing. My father always declared women seldom know what they want. They think they want a lot of romance, when what they're looking for is a husband who'll organize the show and run it with a firm hand."

"What do you know about women?"

"Something less than nothing. But I know a heap about men! I'd most certainly be the head of my house."

"So would I!"

"Not in my house, Bobby." "Is this argument in the nature of a left-handed proposal?" "Certainly not. The time isn't ripe for that, nor do I know that it will ever be ripe. I'm merely arguing a relative proposition—a sort of hypothetical question. By the way, may I photograph my ranch?" (Continued on next page)

"I never give my photograph to gentlemen on such short acquaintance."

"That isn't answering my question."

"No."

"Then I'll have to get along with the one I have. It isn't so good but it will do."

"Where did you possess yourself of my photograph?"

"It's a rotogravure and I got it out of a magazine."

"I'll give you the photograph, Jimmy. I had some taken just before I left and I'll send for one."

"Thank you, but I want you just as you are this morning. I want you standing in that doorway. Then after you go away, I can look at it and think how fine it would have been if you had stayed—there in your own doorway looking out at me. Perhaps I may be able to fool myself into fancying you standing there watching for me to come home."

"Not that, Jimmy. Think of me standing there awaiting the arrival of one of your men with the information that the rest of the boys will be here with the body directly."

GROCERY STORES TO CLOSE AT 6:30 EACH DAY

We, the undersigned, agree to close our grocery stores at 6:30 p. m. every day except Saturday, beginning next Monday, the 9th day of April.

Mrs. J. W. Fairbairn, Hubert Thomas, George & Narrell, Fain Bros., J. B. Mahon, City Grocery.

HOW MUCH TO "LIVE AT HOME"?

Permitted by cotton and wheat acreage reduction contraction contracts to use Government rented acres to produce food and feed for family and workstock, if other land is not available or is not enough for this purpose, scores of thousands of Texas farmers are puzzled about how much land this will be.

As outlined in the Texas A and M College Extension Service living-at-home demonstration, an average of 25 acres would be required for this purpose if the family has five members and the workstock consists of two animals. From the following lists of animal feed requirements, however, every farmer can figure out the problem for himself.

For each horse or mule allow 50 bushels of corn or similar grain 2 tons of hay and 1 acre of improved pasture, such as sudan grass. For each dairy cow allow 25 bushels of corn or similar grain, 2 tons of hay and 1 acre of improved pasture. For each head of beef cattle provide 10 bushels of corn or similar grain, 1 ton of hay and 1 acre improved pasture. For each hog raised provide 14 bushels of corn or similar grain and 1/2 acre of improved pasture. For each sheep provide 2 bushels of corn or similar grain, 120 pounds of hay and 1/4 acre of improved pasture. For each hen allow 1 bushel of corn or similar grain, and for each turkey raised 1 1/2 bushels of corn or similar grain.

If a farmer is providing for four horses, two dairy cows, 50 pigs, and is fattening a beef steer, two hogs and two sheep, he would need 342 bushels of corn or grain sorghums or similar grain, about 13 tons of hay, and about 8 acres of improved pasture, if he is to have plenty of feed. At the rate of 20 bushels of corn per acre and two tons of hay per acre this would require 17 acres of corn or grain, 7 acres of hay and 8 acres of pasture, a total of 32 acres. In addition, for home food supply, an extra 3 acres would be required for garden, orchard and peas, melons, potatoes and cane for syrup.

If the farmer in this case has provided none of these requirements in the past he will be permitted by cotton or wheat contracts to take 35 rented acres for this purpose. If he has previously had only 20 acres available for this living at home he will be permitted to take 15 rented acres to complete the 35 acres needed. If he has previously had 35 acres for living at home, and needs no additional land for the purpose, the contracts do not permit him to take any rented acres at all for home use. In this latter case the farmer might plant rented acres to permanent pasture or to soil erosion prevention crops, or to cover crops to turn under for soil enrichment, or to trees.

why TAKE THIS CHANCE?

Car owners who seek to economize by using poor oils are inviting trouble. Poor motor oil is never economical. It stiffens in cold weather and must be thinned out by the friction it should prevent. Under high temperatures these same poor oils break down. For little or no additional cost, we give you Texaco "crack-proof" Motor Oil. Texaco retains its rich lubricating body under all operating temperatures and conditions.

Drive around and let us drain and refill with the right grade of "crack-proof" Texaco. You will note the marked improvement in the performance of your car.

when you buy an automatic refrigerator

WHAT IS ITS OPERATING COST?

IS IT PERMANENTLY SILENT?

WHAT ABOUT REPAIRS?

HAS IT ALL THE MODERN CONVENIENCES?

NEW Air-Cooled
ELECTROLUX
THE SERVEL Gas REFRIGERATOR

It is our sincere belief that the New Air-Cooled GAS Refrigerator has more to offer you than any other refrigerator. It costs less to run, because a tiny gas flame circulates a simple refrigerant. Ordinary air from your kitchen cools it. It is perfectly silent because it has no machinery, motors or other parts to wear. Only the GAS Refrigerator can offer you all these advantages.

Electrolux offers you many other conveniences in addition to those big advantages... ice trays that release at the trip of a trigger... split shelves to accommodate large bottles and roasts... temperature regulator that speeds freezing and defrosts without stopping... and many other modern features that the busy housewife wants.

Inspect the New Air-Cooled Electrolux. You will want to see for yourself how far it is in advance of other automatic refrigerators.

The Gas Refrigerator operates in the country also, with STARGAS. Ask about it for farms and camps.

Seventeen Wharton county 4-H club boys have marketed 11,074 pounds of beef calves for an average net profit of $8.50 per calf. The calves got off to a good start in feeding because of being creep fed five or six weeks by F. E. Mick, cattle feeder of Lago, before being placed with the boys. "We had the cow, and the nursery man wanted her; I wanted shrubs and did not feel that I could buy them, so we traded. I got abelia, nandina, Italian cypress and wax leaf ligustrum for foundation plantings near the house. I intend to get native shrubs from the woods to complete my yard beautification." So says Mrs. Walter Williams, a home demonstration club member at Chapel Hill in San Augustine county.

Many of the contracted acres in both cotton and corn are to be terraced this year in Llano county. Four-H club boys of Llano High School have a farm level and plan to help farmers run lines.

Terraces 35 feet wide and 24 inches high have been built recently on 800 acres of McCulloch county land as a result of Federal Land Bank requirements. Several thousand acres more will be terraced soon under county agent supervision because of these requirements.

From 28 cucumber vines Mrs. J. B. Patterson of Holt Home Demonstration Club in Hutchinson county has put up 65 gallons of cured pickles, supplied cucumbers for sandwich spread, pickled all the fresh ones the family could eat, and furnished some to neighbors.

There were 4000 head of cattle on feed in Hale county last winter, according to a county agent report.
