It's an old saying that "anything can happen in politics" and while those who live and talk politics generally expect a clearing of the political atmosphere with the coming of spring weather, many believe it will be a toss up so far as presidential candidates are concerned, up to the last minute.

Tech Week-end Games To Give First Taste of Baseball

Hooks and Slides

Frankness Of Rockne
One of the most attractive of the engaging traits of Knute Rockne is his frankness. Through the many recent attacks against football the Notre Dame coach maintained that the game was not in need of defense and he has consistently exploded many of the romantic bunk arguments presented for the game.

"The football coach is supposed to teach boys how to play football. Their moral education is for the Sunday schools," he said recently. "When I tell boys they shouldn't smoke I am not trying to improve their morals. I want them to have good wind on the field."

Since several prominent eastern coaches have said that they felt it was a high obligation of their profession to make good citizens and good men out of the football players, Rockne's remarks might be interpreted as a slap at those moralists. But anyone who knows Rockne knows that he was merely stating a private opinion when he said that.

Rockne's teams always have been well behaved on and off the field, and if they weren't given actual lessons in proper moral conduct by their coach they knew without being told what would happen to them if they didn't behave.

"It's fine to listen to sermons about sportsmanship and that victory is of secondary importance, but every football player knows that he is being retained for the purpose of developing winning teams. There are enough actual rules in the football code to cover the moral angle," Rockne once said.

The emphasis he placed upon the code of morals and sportsmanship was one of the chief arguments made against a coach of a big western conference university this winter.

Some of the old grads, who were emphatic in demanding his resignation, said they missed the better reasons behind the code of one of the most important games of the season. The team was a touchdown behind and had played such sloppy football in the first half that they expected to hear the coach give the boys a good old-fashioned talking down.

"But what did he do?" they roared. "Why he went to the blackboard, called the attention of the squad and wrote on it—'Fight. Fight. Fight. But be gentleman.' And the boys went out and were as gentle as any crowd you ever saw."

Boyer Voted Opinion
Bill Boyer, the Princeton coach whose team was put on the pan last year by some Harvard boys for the way they played, is like Rockne. He doesn't turn his collar around when he is talking about football. He was game enough to advise a lot of rising seniors that he would not let his football players report to the boxing coach.

The boxing coach at Princeton is Monte Mann, former All-America tackle, a Nebraska legislator and a heavy-weight fighter. He is a case in point from West Point where he has been teaching the cadet football players the manly art of fist swinging. It was reported that his position was abolished at the military academy when the annual football game with the Navy was called off.

Talk Of Big Dough
The trade mark of the astute Jack Kearns has not been erased from the heavyweight boxing racket. After he had lost a decision to George Jeffery in a fight recently, Paulino the Basque wood chopper, announced that Gaston Bastanchur, a millionaire citrus man and a fellow countryman, would give Jack Dempsey $500,000 to fight him. Kearns used up a big citrus man when he was handling Dempsey's affairs, but Paulino went him one better. Paulino has his angel in the flesh for exhibition. Kearns never produced any of his Cuban sugar, millionaire or his Argentine coffee kings.

MOUNTAIN MOVES; MANY FLEE
Fear that Nantymyndd Mountain will move upon it is causing a mass exodus of the hillside terraces of Rhondda Valley in Wales to prepare for an exodus in case of necessity. Recent torrential rains are believed to be responsible for the alarming movement of the mountain in the vicinity of Llynvylfa. Extensive landslides have been reported and the foot of the mountain has slipped forward bursting a stout retaining wall protecting a long terrace of houses. Some of the families had to be hurriedly evacuated. Threatening figures have since appeared along the side, and further collapse of the treacherous mass is feared.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 17.—Wilmer Allison and Berkeley Bell, University of Texas, today defeated Frank Shields, New York, and W. F. Coen, Jr., Kansas City, 4-6, 6-6, 6-4, 5-7, 8-6, to win the Southeastern tennis doubles championship.

In the second division the second round elimination will be played off between Ross Edwards and Hal Arnett, Jack Green and Carl Patton. The winners of these matches will play for the semi-final laurels and then meet Carl Roberts in the final.

Plenty of Activity Here
The third division play will be a scene of much activity as most of the first flight matches are yet to be played. The schedule of matches in the final division is: Ed King vs. Sam Lightfoot; France Baker vs. Jed Rex; Walter Myrick vs. Char. Reed; R. J. Murray vs. R. Carpenter; and R. C. Smith vs. Campbell Anderson.

A considerable interest is expected to be shown in the finals of the first division, in which E. T. Daniels and L. H. McLarty are playing, as both of these players are veterans of the local course and shoot somewhat of a similar game. Both are about on a par in approach shots and putt trials. McLarty has an advantage on tee shots as his drives have longer ranges.

O. Smith, official scorer of the tournament, is of the opinion that these galleries will follow the tournament matches throughout the afternoon.

After the Governor had advised against instruction against any candidate, wet or dry, Dr. Selemman said, "Nobody is going to lead me into the wet camps." In his statement Friday night he said that he was merely stating his own position, and did not expect either the governor or the press to understand him to be doing anything more than expressing his personal opinion.

"For the most part I agreed with Governor Moody's speech, but I just went a little further; that's all I appreciate Governor Moody very highly."

MEMORIAL DEADLOCK LIFTED

The deadlock in Germany as to where the "Ehrenmal" or Memorial of Honor for the fallen German soldiers in the World War shall be placed, has been tentatively settled by a compromise. Three projects held the field and none would give in. One was to build the monument near Berka, another on the Rhine near Ehrenbreitstein, and a third favored Berlin. The Reichs Cabinet was unable to decide, and while postponing the Rhine project until there shall be no troops of occupation there, decided to build the Ehrenmal at Berka and to convert Schinkel's Watch chamber in Berlin into a Hall of Honor. Leaders of the various political parties are to be consulted before the final decision.

World Mark For Track Equalled

Eight Carnival Records Smashed by Athletes In Eleventh Annual Illinois Relays.

(By The Associated Press)
ARMORY, CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 17.—A world record was equalled, eight carnival records were smashed and two were established as 850 athletes from 81 universities, colleges and high schools gathered here today for the eleventh annual University of Illinois Relay Carnival tonight.

Jack Elder, the fleet Notre Dame football halfback, tied the world record for the 75 yard dash established by Hank Kelly of Cornell in 1926, breaking the tape a scant foot ahead of Grady of Kansas State college, in the outstanding race of the carnival.

The University of Illinois' marvelous relay team clipped 17 1-10 seconds off the four mile carnival record after a thrilling race with the plucky Michigan State college team. The Illinois quartet, composed of Stine, McEwee, Novak and Abbott, covered the distance in 17:56 5-10, equaling the former record long held by the Ligois team of 1927.

William Drogoszewski of North-western equalled the 13 foot 2 1-2 inches in the Western conference meet a week ago for a new American record vaulting off a dirt foot that smashed the carnival record tonight with a leap of 13 feet 3-4 inch. Standing Given In Country Club Golf Tournament

E. T. Daniels Paces Field In Play So Far; Many Of Club's Members Take To Links For Pleasure.

The standing tournament of the Lubbock Country Club, which is limited to members and associate members, is under way and the standings of the players have been announced. The respective scores made by the club members in the spring tournament qualifying rounds determined the rank of the players. A ladder with the name and position of the players has been placed in the Hotel Drug and will remain there throughout this season.

The plan of the standing tournament is that a player whose position is below another member has the privilege of challenging the player above him at any time during the season and should he defeat the player on the upper rung his position is moved up the ladder. For instance, E. T. Daniels, who was last ranked 18, the spring tournament, may be challenged by John Jarrett, who was next low medalist, and in the event that Jarrett emerges victorious in the challenge match then Daniels' position would be lowered and Jarrett's position would be raised to the top of the ladder.

PRECIOUS STONES FAVE ROAD

What is declared to be the most costly blunder in the world has been revealed in the Russian town of Sverdlovsk. Nearly $2,500,000 worth of precious stones has been used in road making there. The lot was bought for an equivalent of $400. Huge blocks of Jasper were buried in the ground, while beautiful green malachite, topaz and such like were crushed to use in the paving. The mistake is said to be similar to one at Kankakee, South Africa, when the streets of the city were first paved. The blue clay used there contained diamonds and when the mistake was discovered it was carefully scraped up for recycling. More than $5,000,000 worth of gems, some as big as hazel nuts, were recovered. The timely discovery made this blunder less costly than that in Russia.

MUSEUM NEARS COMPLETION

With the expected early opening of the electrical section of the Deutsches Museum in Munich, Germany, one of the most unique in the world will be complete. The institution has been under improvement for years, but has never been opened in its entirety. The display of aeronautics, radio, photography, telephones and telegraph instruments has been finished, and is declared to be among the most comprehensive ever gathered. Plans for replicating the planetarium with a larger one are being considered. Among the unique displays are a "life-size" coal mine, a transportation section including the fatty carriage with the gold crown and lanterns in which mad King Louis of Bavaria used to take his weird moonlight gallops, and a music exhibit where organ recitals are given.

"Everybody in Lubbock, or at least a good portion of the business men are hot for baseball and certainly want to see Lubbock get in the harness," Mr. Hunter added. The committee has had but very few business men to turn them down as the fully realized the benefits that will be derived from the club in an advertising medium alone.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, March 17. (AP)—The cotton market continued to advance today on the buying movement begun yesterday when the market recovered from the slump it had fallen into for the past two weeks. Unfavorable weather and a better spot demand as well as higher Liverpool cables were responsible for a gain of approximately 31 a bale which carried May contracts up to 18.88, but week end realizing caused a recession and the option closed at 18.85, 16 points up for the day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 12 to 21 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Mar. 17. (AP)—The cotton market was higher today on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement, stimulated by relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports of rains in the eastern belt. Prices made new high ground for the movement. May selling up to 19.28 and closing at 19.23 compared with 18.97 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 13 to 17 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 16 to 19 points in response to higher cables and the unfavorable view of the weather. Initial prices attracted much week end realizing and there may have been a little southern selling. Offering were absorbed on reactions of 8 to 10 points from the best, and the market steadied up in late trading on continued trade buying combined with covering and a moderate commission house demand. Closing prices were within a few points of the best.

Amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 121,340 bales, against 184,550 last year.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, March 17. (AP)—The spectacular advance in stock prices which has been under way, with few interruptions for ten days, was checked today by profit taking. Final quotations were decidedly irregular, a long list of gains ranging from 1 to 7 points being offset by almost as many losses of similar extent. So great was the volume of realizing in the last hour that the ticker was 40 minutes late in recording the final transaction. Total sales crossed 2,000,000 shares but fell about 30,000 shares short of the Saturday record established a week ago.

There was nothing in the week end news to influence the price movements, but all sorts of rumors involving special stocks were again in circulation. The weekly mercantile reviews emphasized that the spring expansion in trade had failed to come up to earlier expectations, but a more cheerful view of the situation was taken by some of the bank reviews.

Railroad shares were again a bulwark of strength in the early part of today's market, but yielded with the industrials in the late selling movement.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, March 17. (AP)—The cottoseed oil market was moderately active and firmer, closing with net gains of 8 to 16 points on week end covering, combined with cotton house buying and support from spot oil interests. Prime summer spot 9.70; March closed 9.70; May 9.75; July 10.15; August 10.34; September 10.40.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 17. (AP)—Unexpected scantiness of wheat supplies in country mills and elevators brought crowds of brokers back to the wheat pit today and swung the market upward. Meanwhile, corn rose to fresh top price records for the season but fell off under heavy profit taking. Rye finished at the highest level for the present crop.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1-4 to 1c net higher with corn 3-8 to 7-8c down, oats unchanged to 1-2c lower and provisions at 5c to 20c advance.

The outstanding feature of today's trade in feed grain was that export business was done both in corn and oats, with prices also on about a working export basis for barley, an unusual condition.

Provisions owed their strength to buying of July lard for Europe.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, March 17. (AP)—A limited amount of trading in Arizona French combing and clothing 64s and finer wools comprise the bulk of business in domestic lines of wool. South American wool grades corresponding with domestic medium and low grade wools are moderately active. The opening of the second series of the London sales gave further confirmation of the strength of the position of raw wools.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, March 17. (AP)—The live stock market here today was mostly a nominal affair, receipts being too light to test the trade.

A few hogs brought steady prices, but the cattle and sheep markets were nominal. The top for hogs was $8.20.

WOOL PRODUCTION

Total Output Last Year $328,137,000 Pounds

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17. (AP)—The total amount of wool produced in the United States last year was estimated today by the department of agriculture at 328,137,000 pounds, including 50,100 pounds of pulled wool. This figure is an increase of approximately six per cent over the 1926 estimates.

No Further Trace Of Sinclair Bonds Found at Chicago

Senate Subcommittee Quizzes Seven More Witnesses and Adjourns for Phase of Investigation.

(By the Associated Press) CHICAGO, Mar. 17.—After questioning seven more witnesses, the Senate Teapot Dome subcommittee closed its hearings here today without finding further trace of the Continental Trading company, Liberty bonds which Harry F. Sinclair turned over to Will H. Hays in 1923 to help extinguish the deficit of the republican party.

Seeking to trace the item of $25,000 appearing on the records of the late Fred W. Upham, once treasurer of the republican national committee, and credited as a contribution from the Cook county republican committee, the Senate investigators interrogated Alexander Frye, "harmony chairman" in Cook county in the 1924 campaign, but he knew of no such gift from the county organization to the national body.

Homer Galpin, chairman and Charles V. Barrett, treasurer of the regular Cook county committee, have testified they had no knowledge of such a contribution and the senator are proceeding now on the theory that $25,000 of the $60,000 of Harry F. Sinclair Liberty bonds which Hays sent to Upham were sold for use in wiping out the deficit and the Cook county committee credited with the donation. Several other discrepancies in the Upham records have been found by the sub-committee which during its sitting here found that $2,000 of the Sinclair bonds were turned over by Upham to B. A. Eckhart for a like contribution in cash. Eckhart sold them. Several witnesses who testified here said they made no political contributions at the time they were credited on the Upham records with having done so and the investigators assume that some of the Liberty bonds were sold them in small blocks and the transactions concealed through "dummy" entries on the records.

First Deposit On Senator Borah's "Shame Fund" Made Saturday With $1600 As Nest Egg; Plan Gets Favor

One $5 Check Returned To Donor, Borah Explaining It Seemed to Have Been "Reluctantly Given."

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—The first deposit of the Sinclair re-education fund was made today by Senator Borah, of Idaho, in a bank here. It totalled $1,490 and the days receipts ran the amount of collections so far to $1,600.

Senator Borah said he would receive the full $160,000 from Republicans throughout the country in answer to his appeal to repudiate the contribution of this amount to the Republican campaign deficit of 1926 by Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve. Mr. Borah declared tonight that "we will raise it and we must raise it before the next campaign."

The contribution of Senator Cutting, Republican of New Mexico, is the largest single contribution so far—$1,000. It is included in the amount deposited. William M. Calder, of Brooklyn, former Republican senator from New York and one of the lieutenants in the campaign of Secretary Hoover for president in 1920 today.

Other contributions ranged from $1 up. In addition, the senator said he had received a promise of $1,000 from a person in Chicago. The senator's mail was largely from nearby territory and the Idahoan is confident of greater returns as soon as he permits answer to his appeal.

Mr. Borah only smiled when asked what steps he would take if the contributions failed to materialize as rapidly as expected, but some believed he would go personally before the Republicans of the country in a campaign for funds if necessary.

One check for $5 was returned by the senator. It was from Representative Boylan, Democrat, New York, who contributed this amount with a suggestion that Mr. Borah amplify his prohibition questionnaire to Republican presidential candidates by asking them if they favored "ridging the party of the odor of oil."

$275,000 ROAD AID Six Counties To Benefit Under Allotments

AUSTIN, March 17 (AP)—Six additional counties will figure in road contracts to be let by the Highway Commission April 2. Secretary Claude Teer announced Friday. Mr. Teer reiterated a previous statement that the commission during March will hear no delegations seeking aid.

The projects estimated cost $275,000. Randall county, grading and drainage structures from Canyon to six mile corner, 5.5 miles, on highway No. 31. Mason county, same type construction of 12 miles of No. 34 from Newburg to Newburg county line; Guadalupe, same type on eight miles of No. 1234 from Seguin to near Geronimo; Wise, crushed run limestone base course on 7.7 miles of No. 39; Young, graded stone base and bituminous

DOG AT FUNERAL OF ACTRESS

Chief mourner at the funeral recently of Miss Gladys Follott, a prominent actress in England, was "Delphie," a Scotch collie, who was the favorite pet of the star. Miss Follott was exceptionally fond of dogs.

DOG AT FUNERAL OF ACTRESS (Continued) Miss Follott was exceptionally fond of dogs. She named because her mistress was playing in the original production of "Outward Bound," found her one wet night outside the stage door. After the funeral the dog was taken to spend the rest of her days with a friend of Miss Follott who has a farm near Norwich. "Start," another of the actress' pets, accompanied "Delphie" to the country.

James Beck Back On House Floor

One of Election Committees Files Report Upholding Contentions of Former Solicitor General.

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—The fight of James M. Beck, former solicitor general of the United States, to retain his seat as a Republican representative from Pennsylvania led him back to the floor of the house today when one of its election committees filed a report upholding his contentions.

The struggle of a group of Democrats to unseat him did not end in the committee. Along with the majority report came one from the minority reiterating the charge that he was not an inhabitant of Pennsylvania—in the constitutional sense at the time of his election.

Democratic dissenters from the majority report declared, however, that their fight would not be conducted along party lines in the house. They indicated that considerable support was expected from among Republicans and that their battle lines would be drawn around the constitutional question which they contend is involved.

The majority report was signed by four of the Republican members of the committee and one Democrat, Representative Douglass of Massachusetts.

Tires Are Lower In Price Today Than Ever Known Before In The Industry

Due to the recent breaking up of the English rubber monopoly and the release of great stocks caused thereby the rubber market is completely demoralized and prices for tires have again been reduced in price!

The fortunate position we were in when the market broke made it possible for us to buy quickly—today on the present demoralized market and secure lower prices than possible should we have been under contract by some of the larger manufacturers.

Here's the Low Price List that We offer today

Politics

of the New York governor; others, emphasizing that the winner in a democratic convention must muster two-thirds of the delegates say he will be "slipped" by an opposition based largely on his prohibition views and his religion.
Matched against Smith in the pre-convention talk are Reed of Missouri, Walsh of Montana, both voted candidates, and a big field of "dark horses," Ritchie of Maryland, Donahay of Ohio, George of Georgia, Hull of Tennessee, Hitchcock of Nebraska, Woolen of Indiana, Harrison of Mississippi, Robinson of Arkansas, and others.
Hoover still
Among the republicans the discussion revolves mainly around Hoover, whose organization is more formidable than that of any other aspirant for the Kansas City nomination. Whether he can muster the necessary majority in convention remains a debatable question, which probably will be cleared up to an extent by the primaries in Ohio where he is pitted against Willis, and in Indiana, where his foe is "Jim" Watson.
Besides Hoover, Willis and Watson, others out in the open for the republican nomination include Lowden, whose supporters appear encouraged by the line up of delegates thus far selected, and Curtis of Kansas, who already is assured the support of his home state. In the background, among others, are Dawes, who insists he is not a candidate and is for Lowden's nomination; Durah, who has been endorsed by Idaho republicans and has taken a lead in demanding that the Sinclair $100,000 gift to the republican national committee in 1923 be wiped off the books and Goodidge.

Despite the president's announcement that he doesn't want another term, talk of "drafting" him has not died down, and booming stock market during the last few days has been attributed by some to a renewal of reports that he will be commanded for another four year hitch in the White House.

Wedding

sory to make the ceremony uniting the American girl and the noted Indian ruler attractive to the sympathy of the native population.
And natives of high and low degree flocked in by thousands to participate as spectators or guests in the unique event. They seemed to gather fresh enthusiasm and interest although the ceremonies began early in the day and continued far into the night.
All this, that Nancy Ann Miller might become "her highness, the Maharano Sharmista Holkar." To the natives this was an awe-inspiring transformation.
She was taken as daughter by Princess Tarabai and then given in adoption to Colonel Lambhate while Hindu priests chanted hymns and showered blessings upon her. Colonel Lambhate and his two wives presented several costly costumes to their new daughter. The bridegroom his two present step-mothers, and Mrs. Miller's grandmother witnessed this ceremonial.

"A True Love Match"

Fond Mother Says
SEATTLE, March 17. (AP)—A message of congratulations to her daughter Nancy Ann, who today became the bride of Tukoji Rao, former Maharajah of Indore, a Barwah, India, was cabled by Mrs. Jennie Miller of Seattle, as soon as she was informed the marriage had taken place.
"I wish them all the happiness in the world," Mrs. Miller said. "I know they were very much in love with each other and I believe they will be happy."
Mrs. Miller was expecting a cable from India telling her of the marriage. The last she has heard from her daughter was on the day after her conversion.
"It was a true love match," Mrs. Miller said of the romance of her daughter and the Prince of India, "and it was a case of love at first sight. From the first, Nancy said she would never give the Maharajah up and he also said the same to her."
Nancy and the Maharajah met on the shores of Lake Lucerne in Switzerland in the summer of 1926 while Mrs. Miller and the girl were traveling. The Prince and his retinue accompanied the Mrs. Miller to the places they visited that summer and before the Millers left Paris for their home here, the Prince gave a magnificent party on Nancy's birthday, September 9.

company. He was elected as mayor after three years residence here, taking office in early April, of 1926.
While not a member of the bar, Mr. Parrish in addition to his service on the bench in Crosby county has studied law for many years. He authorized the Avalanche-Journal to make the following statement in regard to his candidacy.
To the entire citizenship, and especially the voters of the 31st senatorial district:
I take this method of announcing my candidacy for the office of state senator, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.
"I feel that it is a worthy ambition of any man to be state senator of this district, and in asking to be honored with the office I am not unmindful of its responsibilities."
"If elected, I would, of course feel a personal honor, for it would be an honor to represent the progressive citizenship, and to be senator of this the fastest developing portion of our great state. I desire to render to my district and the state a service, without which, to me, there would be no honor."
"I promise if elected to give all the ability that I might possess in the discharge of the duties of the office."
"I shall support our educational institutions from the rural school to our highest institutions of learning, giving special attention and support to our Texas Technological college.

"I shall labor to secure for our portion of Texas, from the state government, financial support in just proportion to the amount we pay into the government. We do not ask for more and shall never be satisfied with less."
"I shall always support legislation that will be of assistance in the better enforcement of our laws."
"I shall labor for real, but not false economy in the administration of our state affairs, believing that if we could get the value of a dollar for every dollar invested there would be a reduction in expenses and thereby reduce taxes."
"I shall favor payment to farmers of West Texas, for all damages received by them, by reason of the necessary action taken by the state and federal government to eradicate the pink boll worm."
"I shall later see as many of the people of my district, as will be possible, and make known more fully my views."
(Signed) PINK L. PARRISH.

Oil Wrangle

authorizing mineral prospecting permits for ten cents an acre, and deriving the constitutionality of the 1925 act providing lease sales to the highest bidder.
Arguments of special counsel for the University board of regents, both law were unconstitutional, and of Land Commissioner Robison that they are valid, already had been heard.
Former Attorney General W. A. Scelton of Austin, one of the 30 odd lawyers representing the state, the University, oil companies and others, argued in the Frank case that the 1925 act can be reconciled with that of 1917 and both can stand. As a friend of the court, in behalf of the Big Lake Oil company C. L. Black of Austin, upheld the 1917 act, as did G. B. Smedley, former assistant attorney general. R. L. Batts, members of the University regents board, urged the claims of Thibault of El Paso to the Crane county acreage also claimed but differently described, by Rosa Frank.
Answering the other contestants, Commissioner Robison told the court that the constitutional limitations upon disposition of the University lands urged by the regents, do not apply to 1,000,000 acres, including the disputed Crane county tract, granted by the legislature in 1853 to the University. The regents claim that University land, under the oil development under the present royalty system, and that the regents, and not the land office, have sole control of the lands under an act of 1901.
C. R. Wharton of Houston, counsel for the Texas and Big Lake Oil companies, said Saturday that $100,000,000 worth of West Texas oil development would be disrupted if the present University land leasing system is "knocked out."

Submarine

For raising, the final operation lasted about four hours. At 11:05 a. m. the water was blown from the control room of the submarine, and the six other compartments were rendered buoyant. Then came the six great pontoons which had been lowered and arranged in pairs along the hull. Commander Saunders, watching the air valve, had hoped to time the raising of the S-4 would come up at the same minute of the day she had gone down.
As the submarine emerged he exclaimed: "We made it fifteen minutes before she was sunk just three months ago today."
All of the 24 navy divers who had worked on the S-4 were on the deck of the Falcon as the submarine rose up. In the 21 days since the collision these men had had 44 1-2 days suitable for diving and had made 506 dives to the ocean 100 to 102 feet down. Although no serious accident occurred, there were 10 cases of "bends" or caisson disease.
"We're all all right."
With favorable weather in sight the salvage crew had worked nearly all night last night lowering and making fast the last pair of pontoons. In addition to the Falcon the submarine tender Bushnell, the mine sweeper Mallard, the tug Wainwright, Sagamore and Tuka, the submarine S-6, sister ship of the S-4, and the destroyers Maury and Mahan were gathered at the scene.
The second compartment to be blown was the motor room which was cleared of water at 11:57 a. m. Then came the engine room, the torpedo room and the battery compartment. The main ballast tanks, the fuel and safety tanks were blown at 2:15 p. m. At that time Commander Saunders decided that the submarine had enough air and the air was turned on the stern pontoons.

REED SENTENCED

Appeal Ignored; Gets One To 20 Years
OTTAWA, Ill., Mar. 17 (AP)—Hiram Reed, received another setback today in his fight to evade the penitentiary where Judge Frank Hayes denied his motion for a new trial, and sentenced him to one to twenty years in prison.
Ninety days was granted to defense attorneys for preparation for an appeal to the state supreme court, and pending that action, the young farmer's bonds were increased from $5,000 to $7,500.
Reed was found guilty by a jury a month ago of placing dynamite in the stock of the Pleasant Valley school house.

Flood Cost

the cost of which, Mayor George E. Crover of Los Angeles announced yesterday, would be borne by that city which had owned the destroyed dam.
Unconfirmed reports of epidemics in the affected section were current today but health officials of Los Angeles and Ventura counties denied this, declaring that every possible measure is being taken to prevent an outbreak of disease.
Guard Against
Great care is being taken with drinking water. Surface pools are being covered and the population of the region has been warned against drinking any from sources that have not been tested. In some centers the Red Cross is furnishing the drinking water.
Survey of the flooded area today brought the total area of orchard and farm acreage inundated and badly damaged to 29,000 acres. No estimate has been made yet of the cost of rehabilitating this land.
Mayor Crover of Los Angeles said that this work would be undertaken by Los Angeles city by raising of a bond issue.
Temporary Road: Built
Temporary roads connecting Searles and Castaic and also connecting Castaic and Piru are expected to be open noon Sunday.
The special investigation committee, instructed by Asa Keyes, district attorney of Los Angeles county, to inspect the rupture dam and report to him what, in his belief, caused the structure to give way, finished its inquiry today.
Keyes announced that the committee's report would not be made public at present, but that if it formed any basis for criminal prosecutions involving county officials or others connected with the building of the dam, the evidence would be submitted to the county grand jury for indictment purposes.

authorizing mineral prospecting permits for ten cents an acre, and deriving the constitutionality of the 1925 act providing lease sales to the highest bidder.
Arguments of special counsel for the University board of regents, both law were unconstitutional, and of Land Commissioner Robison that they are valid, already had been heard.
Former Attorney General W. A. Scelton of Austin, one of the 30 odd lawyers representing the state, the University, oil companies and others, argued in the Frank case that the 1925 act can be reconciled with that of 1917 and both can stand. As a friend of the court, in behalf of the Big Lake Oil company C. L. Black of Austin, upheld the 1917 act, as did G. B. Smedley, former assistant attorney general. R. L. Batts, members of the University regents board, urged the claims of Thibault of El Paso to the Crane county acreage also claimed but differently described, by Rosa Frank.
Answering the other contestants, Commissioner Robison told the court that the constitutional limitations upon disposition of the University lands urged by the regents, do not apply to 1,000,000 acres, including the disputed Crane county tract, granted by the legislature in 1853 to the University. The regents claim that University land, under the oil development under the present royalty system, and that the regents, and not the land office, have sole control of the lands under an act of 1901.
C. R. Wharton of Houston, counsel for the Texas and Big Lake Oil companies, said Saturday that $100,000,000 worth of West Texas oil development would be disrupted if the present University land leasing system is "knocked out."

Submarine

For raising, the final operation lasted about four hours. At 11:05 a. m. the water was blown from the control room of the submarine, and the six other compartments were rendered buoyant. Then came the six great pontoons which had been lowered and arranged in pairs along the hull. Commander Saunders, watching the air valve, had hoped to time the raising of the S-4 would come up at the same minute of the day she had gone down.
As the submarine emerged he exclaimed: "We made it fifteen minutes before she was sunk just three months ago today."

Paving Mixture Is To Be Discussed

Annual Highway Engineering Conference At A. and M. Is To Take Up Matters; Materials Talked.

COLLEGE STATION, Mar. 17.—Several discussions will center on the question of betterment in paving mixture proportioning and methods of construction at the fourth annual conference in highway engineering to be held at the A. and M. college of Texas March 21, 22 and 23. The conference will be held under the supervision of the department of civil engineering. This annual highway engineering conference at the college has the distinction of being the only strictly technical conference at which engineers, contractors officials and others interested may gather in this state to discuss problems of highway design and construction. No fees are charged. J. T. L. McNeil, professor of highway engineering at the college, is in charge of arrangements. "Asphalt pavements in Texas are made exclusively of Texas materials," Prof. McNeil said. "With untold quantities of sand, gravel and scoria abundant in Texas and the world's largest asphalt refineries at Port Neches, engineers in Texas may manufacture any synthetic pavement known. In addition, Texas boasts of the largest and best deposit of limestone rock asphalt in America, one large enough to furnish sufficient material to pave every road in all Texas for a width of twenty feet. This natural Texas paving material has furnished a very fertile field for research an experiment for the last ten years. "For the last two years the industry at San Antonio has been on the market with limestone rock asphalt have maintained a graduate fellowship in highway engineering at A. and M. college of Texas to encourage research with the material. Papers presented before the forthcoming conference will be based on the investigation completed and in progress at the college.

Stocks Maintain Their Fast Pace

Tumultuous Speculation On Wall Street Makes Second Straight Saturday For Two Million In Sales.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Continuing the season of tumultuous speculation, the stock market today witnessed the second 2,000,000 share Saturday in succession and the third in history. Total sales were 2,162,200 about 30,000 short of the record established last week. A late selling wave turned prices downward, but nevertheless the average of 20 leading industrials at the close was at the highest level in all time, while the average of 20 leading rails was at a new high for the year. In the forefront of the general advance, which began with the opening, were General Motors and New York Central, the former reaching another new high record of $172 and the latter touching $174.25, the highest price since 1901. Gains in both, however, changed to losses when profit taking developed, motors closing 50 cents and New York Central $2 net lower. While most issues were declining in the last hour, a few stocks were bid up with determination. International Telephone stemmed the tide for a $7.25 gain, and U. S. steel climbed $2.50, later relinquishing about half the gain. Elsewhere in the list marked irregularity was present at the end of the session. Advances of $1 to $7 a share were Fifty-one Rotary clubs from practically every town of any size West of the Katy railroad from Denison to Temple will be represented in the convention.

Preparations Being Laid Preparations for one of the most formidable entertainments ever accorded a visiting delegation are being prepared by members of the local club. Rev. Walter P. Jennings, president, said yesterday when approached regarding the plans for the convention. Committees with every member of the club designated for some task have been appointed and are already starting their work, although the date is yet a month off.

Present indications are that the attendance will be around 600, while there are chances that the number will be exceeded. Rev. Jennings said. Included in the visitors will be two special trains, one from Amarillo and one from Fort Worth. Abilene is likely to send a special with clubs in that section joining it, according to reports here. Plainview, Spar, Raika, Post, Slaton, Brownfield, Levelland, Amarillo, and Sweetwater clubs are expected to attend en masse.

Ellis H. Boyd, of Fort Worth, district governor, will arrive in Lubbock two or three days ahead of the convention to make preparations for various features of the program. Appearing on the programs during the two days will be Raymond J. Knoepfel, attorney of New York a director of Rotary International. He will give two or three lectures during the convention. It is understood other prominent men who will appear on the programs will be Harry Rogers, now of Tulsa and formerly of San Antonio, former president of Rotary International and Walter Cline, of Wichita Falls, present vice-president of Rotary International.

Banquet To Be Feature Included in the convention here will be regular program sessions and luncheons with a gigantic banquet in the Tech gymnasium, Thursday night, as a climax to the meetings. The program sessions of the convention will be held in the First Methodist church while three or four noon luncheons will be held each day in various places over the city for the visitors, no place available to accommodate the entire convention. The banquet, Thursday night, is expected to be attended by approximately 700 people. The Lubbock hotel will be the convention headquarters and sessions and various meetings will be announced from there.

Featuring the entertainment of the city will be the running of a special train from here, leaving Friday night and arriving early Saturday to the Carlsbad Cavern members of the entertainment committee have announced. A majority of the visitors are expected to make the trip to see the famed nature wonder. Transportation to the Cavern from Carlsbad will be furnished by the Carlsbad Rotary club. Other entertainment offered to the group will be a tour of Lubbock and the campus and buildings of Texas Technological college.

Arthur H. Sepp, of Huntington, Indiana, president of Rotary International, sends his regrets, stating that he will be unable to attend because of preparations for the international convention which will be held in Minneapolis, June 18-22.

The debaters will represent Slaton in the county interscholastic meet, March 30 and 31, at Lubbock.

A Lonesome Dog Paces Jail Floor, Awaiting Master

Have you ever seen a lonesome dog? There was one at the police station yesterday morning. He paced the floor in the station, crawled under Sergeant J. T. Inmon's desk, crawled out again and paced some more, peered longingly at the door to the cells were opened and finally centered his position to a place near the door, pricking up his ears, everytime he heard a noise from the cell room. His master, a boy in the teens, was in the lock-up, caught in a game of "craps."

Urges Need Of Education In Solution Of Problems Of State Institutions And Delegates Named

SLATON, Mar. 17.—Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Texas Tech. Lubbock, and member of the Lubbock Rotary club, was the speaker at Friday's luncheon of the Slaton Rotary club, addressing the members on the subject, "Problems suggested by our eleemosynary institutions."

Dr. Horn said the state's population is approximately five million and that the state spends $5,000,000 annually in support of defectives, such as the insane, the epileptics, the blind, the tubercular, the deaf and dumb, the incorrigible youths,

2,000,000 Tails of Rodents Snipped from Rats In 13 Counties In Past Two and Half Months.

COLLEGE STATION, March 17.—Nearly 2,000,000 rat tails snipped from ravaging rodents killed in thirteen Texas counties in the last two and a half months, testify to the effectiveness of a modern Pied Piper drive being conducted against the rat population of this state.

What the legendary piper of old did with music, however, is being carried on in this instance with traps and poison in the cooperative rodent control work of the Experiment Station and Extension Service of the A. and M. College of Texas and the Biological Survey of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Tremendous saving is expected.

NO MERGER EFFECTED Executives of Four Trunk Lines Meet

NEW YORK, Mar. 17.—Executives of the four eastern trunk line railroads, in the seventh of a series of meetings here failed to reach a definite settlement of the eastern merger controversy. As in previous sessions, the strictest secrecy was maintained, and the sole announcement was to the effect that "no announcement will be made."

Definite revelation of the present status of Mr. Loree in the controversy failed to materialize. It had been reported that he would announce a decision to accept the chairmanship of the Nickel Plate in exchange for his surrender of the fifth trunk line program. If Loree has reached a decision, he did not indicate the fact, and there were rumors in some quarters that he was likely to continue his fight for his ambitious plan.

Diet And Exercise For The 'Barrel' Figure Are The Best Things To Reduce Large Abdomens, Marjorie Dork Believes

Three of the exercises for reducing over-large abdomens, which Marjorie Dork describes in the accompanying article.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Over-large abdomens are a common cause of bodily disfigurement. How they may be reduced to normal proportions, by proper diet and exercise is told by Marjorie Dork, health and beauty expert, in third article of a series appearing exclusively in The Journal.

By MARJORIE DORK Health and Beauty Expert For NEA Service

One of the most common and least attractive type of figure is the barrel type in which the abdomen has become entirely out of proportion to the arms and legs.

A woman with such a figure can reduce only by stretching muscles on this particular part of the body. You can walk or dance for hours without improving the figure.

Here is one of the best exercises for it: Lie flat upon the floor and bring up the legs at right angles with the body, with the knees stiff. Then let them down slowly, keeping the knees stiff, to the count of six. It is the slow pull that does the work, so do not hurry. Do this five times at first and increase to 10 or 20 times as you grow more accustomed to it.

This one also is excellent: Lie flat on the floor with the arms stretched above the head. Then rise forward touching the toes with the finger tips. At first your fingers and toes may not meet, but bring them as close to each other as you can. Start with five times and increase to 20 or even more.

You will find this one a bit less strenuous: Not as Strenuous Lie down flat and bring both knees up to your chest then lower to the first position. Do this ten times, with each leg alternately.

These three are all done on the floor. Here are three more to be done standing. Take the standing ones last as they are easier.

Stand with the feet wide apart, shoulders up, arms above the head. Bend at the waistline and bring the hands back between the legs. This is excellent for your back and your arms as well as your abdomen. Ten times is a mere start. Increase later to 30.

Then in the same position, with finger tips above the head, reach over and touch first the right foot and then, after straightening up with again above the head, the left foot. Ten times at first and then more, regularly, will certainly have a slenderizing effect.

Next, put your knees together and extend your arms outward as far as they will go on either side of the body. Swing the body as far to the right and then as far to the left as you can, moving only at the waist line.

There are many other exercises which I will give in later articles that will be typed, woman, but I don't wish to overwhelm her at the start. Rather at this time I wish to stress the matter of diet, for the large abdomen proclaims that the food habits are wrong.

First of all eat only when you are hungry. Eat slowly, masticate every morsel. Then you won't want so much food. Begin each meal with an appetizer or fruit juice to excite the salivary glands.

Sip Tea Slowly Fruit juices, milk and nuttermilk should be sipped slowly. They are foods in themselves, with advantage over solid foods that they are much more easily digested. There is no diet more helpful to reducing as a liquid diet. You could even go on one for three days a week without injury to your health, but usually one day a week is sufficient.

For one day's liquid diet, I suggest the following: At eight in the morning, two glasses of hot water. This flushes out the stomach. For breakfast, one cup of tea or coffee without cream or sugar, and one glass of unsugared fruit juice; or orange juice is excellent. At 10 o'clock, two glasses of water. At 11 o'clock, one glass of water.

For luncheon you can have a glass of any fruit juice or two glasses of buttermilk or sweet milk. At 2 o'clock a glass of water and another at 3, and at 5 a cup of tea with no cream or sugar.

For dinner you may have the juice of six tomatoes, and before you go to bed you can have a glass of water or any desired fruit juice.

One Liquid Day a Week If you will prescribe for yourself one day each week living entirely on a liquid diet, you will be surprised at what you will lose in weight, and how easily it is accomplished.

Milk is almost a perfect food, and if you want to live only on milk for a day, you will find that it is very helpful to reducing.

In her next article Miss Dork gives specific reducing advice to the woman whose hips bulge.

Small Items Of Real Interest

Texas Tech is to have its own May Queen—only this sovereign will represent only the junior class. Announcement was made yesterday that the queen for the Junior Prom, brilliant social event scheduled for April 5, will be chosen by election this week.

There are seven candidates and Lubbock just walks away with the pulchritudinous honors six of them being from this city. They are: Afton Gilkerson, Mrs. Evelyn Jennings, Jane Mast, D'Aun Sammons, Nelle Hollar, and Virginia Grigg. Lubbock; and Eula Pearl Simmons, Miami.

The Prom is to be one of the most brilliant social events of the season, it has been announced.

Dean Walter Williams of the Missouri University School of Journalism, who is about the most famous man in America in his line, will speak at Tech on April 5. Just now the dean—whose "Journalist's Creed" is a classic to the catechism for every school-made journalist—will fare as a counter journaling card to the Junior Prom is of course problematical. Really, though, the dean is an eminent man. He has one speech on "The Seven Lamps of Journalism" that is an oratorical classic. It makes even a hard working newspaper man think that maybe, after all, there is something grander and finer than mere drudgery to this business of printing the day's happenings. Hearing him is worth anyone's time.

Announcement was made locally yesterday that J. Ross Bell of Paduch, Cottle county, is a candidate for representative from the 18th congressional district. Being totally unfamiliar with Mr. Bell—we blush to explain that we are a newcomer here—this is about as far as the present announcement can go.

Truett B. Smith, a Tech student, is one of those who believe in looking into the future. Announcement of his candidacy for the posts of county and district clerk for Lynn county was made in a Tahoka paper this week. Mr. Smith, who attended Wayland before coming to Tech, will finish school in plenty of time to take over his duties—that is, if the duties are calling him, as he hopes they will be.

F. S. and E. M. Walker formerly of Amarillo have opened a real estate, rentals, and public accounting office in Lubbock both of them deciding opportunities best on the South Plains.

Those who thought the winter was over just because Lubbock enjoyed a week or two of real spring weather had another thought coming. This was proved to them yesterday morning when the mercury dropped to a low mark of 49 degrees.

MOST POLITE CHILDREN FOUND
Barnack, a village of 538 people claims that its children are the most polite in all England. The annual contest to decide who are the best manners has just been held. It was conducted by Robert E. Clarke, son of a former village blacksmith there and who became an "old boy" of Barnack School. He presented a newly-minted sixpence to each of six girls and six boys who were selected by their schoolfellows as being worthy of the title "Nature's ladies and gentlemen." To help the children in making a wise choice the headmaster annually addresses them on the true characteristics of a lady and a gentleman. The candidates' general behavior and manners throughout the year are taken into consideration. The honor of being a successful candidate is considered as attractive as the sixpence.

J. K. Wester Out For Legislature

Pioneer Plains School Man To Make Race Again; Gives Platform of Issues He Will Advocate.

J. K. Wester, pioneer Plains school man and representative of this district in the 39th legislature, is a candidate for the office for the coming legislature, he said yesterday when approached regarding the coming election.

Mr. Wester has been a resident of the Plains for 19 years, living in Lubbock for 18. He served a term as mayor of Lubbock in 1916 and has been active in affairs of the majority of his residence here.

His campaign will be carried to the voters of the district, he said. Mr. Wester is basing his campaign upon several major projects and is pointing to three terms of service in legislatures of the past, as a representative from the 85th district in the 23rd and 24th sessions and from this district, the 119th in the 39th session of the body. He was a candidate for re-election in the past session but was defeated.

Fight For Education
He entered politics as a school man and carried the fight for better education in his terms. He served as superintendent of the Ralls schools for six years. He was author of the bill re-organizing the University of Texas and giving it a separate board of directors and president.

His campaign is based on:
First—Recognition of the South Plains and the entire Plains country commensurate with her resources, population and taxes paid.
Second—Adequate support of all state educational institutions, especially West Texas schools including the Tech college, also rural schools to the end that all children both city and rural shall receive a liberal education.

Third—Re-organization of the State highway department in a way to prevent graft and give each county, so far as possible, good roads.

Fourth—Judicial reform based on that outlined by the State Bar association.

Fifth—Reduce the license tax on automobiles, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent.

Sixth—Repeat all unnecessary and conflicting laws and enact fewer and better ones and then enforce them.

Seventh—Favoring of strict economy in all departments of the State government, so far as is conducive to good government.

TO SAVE HISTORIC BELLS
Derry Cathedral's historic bells are to be re-hung and re-cast if a plan just launched for financing their repair is successful. Those interested in restoring these, the oldest bells in Ireland, believe that the work will be completed by 1933, when the three-hundredth anniversary of the cathedral will be held. The "youngest" of the bells was given by the citizens of Derry in 1671, and the oldest was re-cast for the cathedral in 1614. Five were given by King Charles in 1638. All are out of tune, and the bell ringers continue their tasks in vain. One bell, weighing 1200 pounds, fell just before Christmas, breaking the wheels of its neighbor and itself. Another is in such condition that it requires three men to ring it, and the mountings of still others are cracked.

If a bullet from a modern high power rifle did not lose its speed, it could travel around the world in a little over 15 hours; while the impulse from radio sending stations would cover the distance in less than one-seventh of a second.

Uniform Cotton Popular In Mexia

Paul Haines, County Agent, Is Credited With Establishing One-Variety Area In Limestone County

MEXIA, Tex., March 17 (AP)—Paul Haines, county agent, is credited in this region with a movement which has resulted in planting more than 40,000 acres in Limestone county to pure bred cotton. Uniform inch or better cotton is his goal.

The story of how Mr. Haines accomplished his better cotton movement shows that he began it in 1923 when he came from Dewitt to Limestone county as county agent. Realizing that the spirit of competition was an instrument in his plans, he persuaded the Mexia chamber of commerce to offer $1,500 in prizes for cotton of an inch minimum in staple length. He followed it by personal visits to communities he had selected in which to introduce his program. After he had created sufficient interest, he called mass meetings with qualified speakers to discuss problems of certified seed standardization. Cooperation of growers was solicited and after each farm group had promised it would plant the type or particular strain that community had voted on, seed purchasing committees were elected and the program definitely put into practice.

Meanwhile, to practically demonstrate his idea, he induced Bob Stroud, an influential farmer, to plant 7,000 acres of his land to one-variety cotton. Mr. Stroud, it appears, kept an accurate check on his operations and was able to furnish information which was regarded as convincing. Since he marketed his entire staple crop at a premium of from 100 to 150 points above the average prices, other cotton growers were quick to follow.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overweight, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat. If you are overcast do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

British Navy Is Rent Asunder In Jazz Party Fuss

Admiral And Underlings In Mediterranean Fleet Are At Loggerheads Over The Social Question

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, March 17.—For the first time in the history of the British navy, jazz is reported to have caused sufficient discord to bring an echo in the House of Commons and send the First Lord of the Admiralty, W. S. Bridges, man scurrying over to Buckingham Palace from Whitehall to tell the king his troubles.

Rear Admiral Bernard St. G. Collier, in command of the battleship squadron at Malta; Captain Kenneth G. B. Dewar, in command of the battleship Royal Oak, and Commander H. M. Daniel of the same ship, have been suspended for an incident aboard the Royal Oak involving them in a serious controversy which at first gave rise to hints of "mutiny."

A court-martial is the next step in the program to place responsibility.

All Over a Party
The affair was first brought up in the House of Commons last night when Commander Carlvon Bellairs questioned the government on a report that several officers of the Mediterranean fleet including the admiral had been in a serious disagreement and that a court-martial had been held. An official communication confirmed the report.

The story told in navy circles is that when the Royal Oak, Rear Admiral Collier's flagship of the first battle squadron, arrived at Malta, the admiral arranged to give a party aboard, to which all the clubs of Malta were invited. The admiral's jazz band would furnish the music, said Captain Dewar. It would not, said Captain Dewar. Commander Daniel backed up his captain. Captain Dewar informed the admiral that his boys had too much work to do in the day, and he did not intend to permit them to stay up most of the night for the amusement of the ship's guests at a dance given by the admiral.

Captain Dewar and Commander Daniel arrived in London last night after having been suspended from duty by the Malta court of inquiry. Charges and counter-charges have already been made on both sides.

of the entire West Texas region. George (Scotty) Samson of Post Garza county, an outstanding West Texas exhibitor at the Dallas Fair, rendered special service in arrangement of the All-West Texas display. West Capitol.

The 1928 Fat Stock show exhibits put on by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce followed cut precedents set by the organization in its initial exhibition of 1922 which won the capital prize of $1,500. One 1923 display majored in quality products from counties of the Panhandle-Plains territory of the West Texas commercial body, while the second featured products of all West Texas. These materials gleaned from barns of West Texas farmers and offices of differing chambers of commerce were lined-up, selected, and arranged in accordance with demands of an official score-card and in accordance with artistic judgment of Exhibit-Manager Whiteker.

WE HAIL

The Progressive Spirit of Texas And The South Plains

"If we are to judge by the evidences all around us, it is apparent that Texas is entering into a Golden Age of Industrial and Agricultural Supremacy."

Upon her industries and agriculture depends the wealth—and future of Texas. There is a tremendous concentration of industrial and commercial enterprise flourishing in this great state. Throughout the world, Texas-made products are used.

Texas' Triumphs Are The South Plains'

TO a proportionate degree, the triumphs of Texas industry and agriculture belong to the South Plains—a representative American community. This great territory's industrial and agriculture enterprises are the most basic factor in its prosperity. They have brought wealth to the community, increased the per capita buying power, raised the standard of living.

AND now during this period of unprecedented growth and progress in those communities we are privileged to serve, our resources are pledged to merit a continuance of that pleasant relationship we have enjoyed—that at all times may those communities have at their beck and call that most powerful and necessary of commodities—ELECTRICITY.

With pride in our city's and the record of success, with a resolve to achieve, so far as is within our power, a new goal of prosperity for those communities we serve, we gratefully dedicate our efforts.

Finest Way To Repay Lindy

NEA

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has done a lot for us. Flying alone across the Atlantic, he gave us a magnificent thrill. By his kindly dash through the air he heartened and encouraged us; he gave us a new hero, let us have a glimpse of the fineness and nobility of which American youth can attain.

And as if that were not enough, he made friends for us abroad. He put France and America back on a cordial basis such as they had not known since 1918. He showed Mexico that not all gringos are scheming and grabbers. He made Central America think a lot more of us.

All in all, the young man served us very, very well. It is about time we repaid him. What is the best thing we can do for him? We might buy him a mansion, but he probably wouldn't stay in it. We could raise a big purse for him, but he doesn't care for money. He has so many medals now that any more would bore him.

There is only one thing he wants—and it happens to be something we can give him: a king, quiet rest. Look at the picture above. Lindy, worn out by crowds and reporters and photographers and handshakers, turns his back on a cameraman as he alights from his plane at Washington. His nerves are frayed. He wants to be alone—and who can blame him? He is dead tired of being photographed, interviewed, greeted, cheered. Ever since he streaked across the Atlantic a year ago it has been a continual round of honors. He'd like to take a rest all by himself. The best thing we could do for him would be to forget all about him.

All right; let's do it. Already he has become immortal. He has passed into the gallery of great Americans, to remain there forever. We can afford to let him alone for a while. Let Lindbergh retire. Let him drop out of the news. Let him have a rest from banquets, receptions and cheering crowds. He's tired. He's only a kid, for all his greatness, and he needs a rest more than we can imagine. Let's give it to him. It would be the kindest thing we could do; it would be the very finest gift we could make, and he would appreciate it deeply.

It is reported some better now. Helms, Okla., and other points on business.

Farmer Forced To Pay Freight Rate

Manufacturer Passes Cost of Shipment to Consumer But Farmer Has No Such System, Hearing Shows.

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, March 17.—The farmer pays all the freight on his commodities while the cost of transporting manufactured commodities is borne by the consumer, Rex E. Willard, farm economist of the North Dakota Agricultural college at Fargo, contended before the Interstate Commerce Commission Friday.

He held to that, and to a claim that the farmers of his state are little better off today than during the most pronounced period of depression 1920 to 1925, despite a prolonged cross-examination by railroad attorneys. His interrogators were R. J. Hagman, assistant general solicitor of the Great Northern, and A. B. Enoch, general counsel for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad.

The farm problem will be solved by economic influences when enough farmers desert the country for urban life to reduce the amount of food raised to the amount consumed, Willard said. The surpluses now fix the prices and force what he termed "marginal farmers" to leave the soil, the economist added. Willard appeared as a witness in the export rate hearing in rebuttal to testimony of an economist for the western railroads offered at a Minneapolis hearing on domestic rates. The railroad statistics asserted the farmer of the Northwest was materially improved.

Willard said, Lands in Jail
Walking down one of the principal streets of Glasgow, Scotland, on a chilly winter day, wearing nothing but a bathing suit and shouting loudly, Michael Casey was arrested. He explained to the judge that he had wagered that he could do the feat despite the weather. Casey was sentenced to 42 days in jail for disturbing the quiet of Glasgow.

Foard Towns Use Own Natural Gas

Convenience Piped Into Crowell and Thalia On Friday From Well In East Part of County.

CROWELL, March 17.—Crowell and Thalia, Foard county towns, cooked their first breakfasts with natural gas Friday after this convenient fuel had been turned into the mains of these two places on Thursday. The securing of natural gas marks one of the most outstanding pieces of development in the history of Foard county.

The supply is coming from a well eleven miles northeast of Crowell in which two million feet of gas was reached at a depth of 355 feet on Wednesday.

Culbertson brothers of Fort Worth have the Crowell and Thalia franchises and completed the laying of mains in these two places over a month ago, however due to drilling mistakes in the Ross and Fain-McCaha Matthews No. 1, it was impossible to use that well as a source of supply. The Matthews No. 2, which is located in section 3, G. C. and S. F. survey, Foard county, was then drilled for Culbertson brothers 300 feet east of Matthews No. 1. About ten miles of four inch mains were laid in Crowell and practically every part of the city is served with the system as are a number of farms along the line from Crowell to the gas well. Thalia, the other Foard county town to receive gas, is located ten miles east of Crowell and is within a mile of the well.

Invasion Of Artists Is Expected In State This Spring As Contestants In Texas Flower Contest Seek Locations

E. B. Davis, Luling Oil Man Offers $31,500 In Prizes For Best Pictures of Texas Scenes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 17.—The greatest influx of artists Texas has ever known is expected to invade the state this Spring when Texas wildflower contestants following the announcement that Edgar B. Davis, Luling oil man, will give $31,500 in prizes in his annual art contest here next winter.

Valuable Prizes Given
Davis has announced through the San Antonio Art League, that the following prizes will be given in four different groups of oil paintings.

For oils of Texas wildflowers, cash prizes of $3,000 $2,500 $2,000 $1,750 $1,500 $1,250 and $1,000.

Scenes of ranch life will compete for cash prizes of $2,000 $1,750 $1,500 $1,250 and $1,000.

In the third group, oils based upon the theme of cotton fields will be eligible for prizes of $2,000 $1,750 $1,500 $1,250 and $1,000 cash, respectively.

The fourth group is limited to artists resident in Texas for at least six months preceding the competition and provides a first prize of $1,000 cash for landscapes or still life oils based upon the theme of Texas wild flowers. Second prize in this group is $750, third $500 and fourth is $250 cash.

In addition ten honorable mentions, drawing cash prizes of $100 each, will be awarded.

Favorable Settings Offered.
A late spring and unusually good rains over most of the state are creating a particularly favorable setting for artists who enter the competition, according to the director of the Witte Memorial museum, home of the San Antonio Art League.

In the vicinity of San Antonio the heavy-scented purple laurel is now in bloom. The famous Texas bluebonnet displays of art and their unceasing goal will soon spread their blue gaze for miles over the valleys and hills of the section, with the delicate wine-cups primroses, buttercups and strange sturdy Indian paintbrush rapidly following.

Announcement of the prizes, all House Votes For Naval Amendment

Requests President to Urge "Necessity" For Another Limitations Conference Immediately.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Without debate the house today adopted an amendment to the $274,000,000 new warship construction program to request the president to urge the "necessity" for another international conference for the limitation of naval armaments.

The proposal, sponsored by Representative Sproul, republican, Kansas, was accepted without a vote. Shortly after its adoption an effort to reach a final vote before adjournment was blocked by Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, and the measure was carried over for disposition tomorrow.

The house also accepted by a vote of 115 to 102 an amendment by Representative Dallinger, republican, Massachusetts, to provide that eight of the proposed sixteen ships should be constructed in government navy yards.

Dallinger contended that it was fair that at least half of the proposed 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier should be built in the navy yards, and several members supporting his stand said that the statement had been made that the program had been offered to congress for the relief of the private shipbuilding industry.

Blanton opposed the Dallinger amendment and after an unsuccessful effort to obtain a record vote on the proposal threw a parliamentary monkey wrench into the plans of house leaders for an immediate final vote. He demanded the reading of the engrossed measure, which would have necessitated sending the bill to the government printing office for printing as amended. House leaders thereupon postponed the final vote until tomorrow.

BLESSING OF NETS REVIVED
After a lapse of a century, "blessing the nets," an ancient custom, was revived at the opening of the present salmon fishing season on the River Lee, Ireland. The ceremony was held at Blackrock, where many of the fisherfolk reside. A fleet of 34 boats, each manned with a crew of four, assembled at the pierhead, where a crowd had gathered. The service included a reading from the Gospel of St. John, which tells of the blessing of the nets in the Sea of Galilee. Priests, preceded by cross-bearers and acolytes, imparted the blessing, while the fishermen, with bared heads stood in their boats.

Calcutta Youth a Problem

Its juvenile court, reform school and three probation officers are said to be unable to cope with the growing number of youthful offenders, and observers say that the system of probation will have to be revised.

TEACHERS MEET

600 Gather For Session At Coleman

COLEMAN, March 17 (AP)—With Ballinger intent on obtaining the next convention, more than 600 members of the mid-Texas teachers association attended the annual meeting here Friday and a luncheon at noon. The visitors were welcomed by Secretary Sim O'Neal of the Coleman Chamber of Commerce and J. B. Pace of Ballinger made the response.

Election of officers will be held at the Saturday session of the convention. Committees were appointed Friday morning.

Outstanding exhibits on display are from the San Angelo, Coleman, and Valera schools, especially the manual training and domestic science exhibits.

Jannings Given Stellar Support

Evelyn Brent And William Potter Great Aid To Big Star In Picture Coming To Lindsey

Emil Jannings' latest American-made picture, "The Last Command," comes to the Lindsey theater Monday with the great European actor surrounded by the most imposing supporting cast assembled for any picture of this season's pictures.

Evelyn Brent, the heroine of "Underworld," Paramount melodrama sensation, is cast as Jannings' leading woman, while William Powell, arch villain of the screen is seen as a scheming and sinister revolutionist in a role that gives him unusual scope for his admitted ability.

The picture is said to be distinguished by not only the remarkable performance of Jannings, as a Russian general who is caught in the vortex of revolution and swept to oblivion, but by the outstanding story and directorial treatment of Josef von Sternberg, the young director whose dramatic touches and camera effects in "Underworld" established him as one of the screen's elect.

Playing the role of Jannings' adjutant is Nicholas Soussanin, the Russian actor who leaped into front rank popularity by his performance as "the waiter who wept" in the Adolphe Menjou picture "Service for Ladies." The cast also includes Michael Powell another ex-actor of the imperial theaters of Russia, who plays Jannings' valet, and Fritz Feld, one time director for

Max Reinhardt in Berlin, who came to America in the cast of "The Miracle."

UNIQUE CEMETERY USED

Burial of Capt. John Stansfield of Dunnwald, in the ancient burying ground of St. Skeoch, has attracted attention to one of the smallest and most unique cemeteries in Scotland. It holds the remains of the few lairds and their families from neighboring estates, and is on "The Elephant Rock", one of the natural curiosities of the country. The rock, 100 feet high, stands upright from the sea and bears a striking resemblance to an elephant, having trunk, head, legs, sides and back. The burial ground forms part of the back. The cemetery dates back 250 years, and the last burial previous to that of Captain Stansfield was in 1917.

Has This Store Served You Faithfully?

LOOKING back over our first twelve months of merchandising in Lubbock we would ask—"have we really been of service to this community" and are we deserving of continued growth?

One must analyze one's self to correct mistakes—and we are human enough to make them.

We do feel that the people of Lubbock and the South Plains have given us a chance to prove our worth. We know that we did a tremendous business in 1927—to now—our First year in Lubbock. We know that people have thronged our store from all sections of the South Plains.

In many lines of merchandise our store has caused prices to be materially reduced.

We know, because hundreds of women have told us so, that we have stocked many departments of our store with greater variety of good styles than has been accustomed in Lubbock heretofore!

We know that our selling policy, cash to everyone, makes it possible and entirely practical for us to sell on a smaller margin profit than credit stores, of that there can be no denial. We know that selling for cash certainly makes our prices fair to everyone because everyone pays the same price under the same condition.

We know our buyers' acquaintance of styles and materials as well as sources of supply is unexcelled in Texas.

Unhindered and uncontrolled our CASH goes into the competitive buying field in search of greater value.

We know that we have insisted that our merchandise be as represented, that it give to the purchaser the kind of service in use as they have a right to expect.

And last, but most important, we know that in our first year we established a precedent in VOLUME SELLING—a figure staggering in its total—that proves beyond doubt that for the price you pay—people are sure that you get more VALUE at our store.

Now we have a new season: Spring clothes and fabrics as well as accessories are here. Many thousands of dollars' worth of the Great Market's best values have been assembled.

We want the opportunity to make YOU know the things about our store that has caused thousands to believe in and patronize us.

Race For Lieutenant-Governor Looms As Hectic One

Barry Miller, Yet Unannounced, Is Expected To Re-Enter Lists As An Opponent Of Tom Love, State Power

Governorship In 1931 Seen As Likely Plum; Miller's Announcement Expected In Near Future

BY C. D. WAIDE (Special Correspondent)

AUSTIN, March 17—At least two hot races in Texas politics are virtually assured now, and for the first time in many years the race for Lieutenant-Governor probably will attract more attention than that for Governor.

Barry Miller, of Dallas, the present Lieutenant-Governor, is almost certain to announce his candidacy for re-election within the next two weeks. Then the fur will begin to fly between him and Tom Love.

For weeks Miller's friends over the state have been urging him to get in the race. At the outset he announced that he did not want the office again, was out of politics and could not be induced to make the race again. Then he began to weaken, as some of his closest friends urged on him the necessity of running or seeing the office go to Tom Love, who would be in a good position two years hence to claim the governorship.

Here's How the Lead Lies: Miller has been growing weaker and weaker in his refusals to run, and while he is not yet a candidate, there is all likelihood that within the next two or three weeks he will announce for the office. If he is elected this year it is a foregone conclusion that he will be a candidate for Governor two years hence. Had Moody not run for re-election he would have sought the higher office this year.

It will be recalled that Miller went into the office of Lieutenant-Governor four years ago when the Klan was swept from power in the state. He ran as an avowed opponent to the Klan, and his opponent in the runoff was Will C. Edwards of Denton, former member of the legislature and editor of a newspaper. Edwards was popular over the state, and especially with the editors, and he was not a member of the Klan. But he took the position that the Klan was not an issue and remained silent about it while Miller denounced the order and went into office with the rest of the ticket.

Love Strong Aspirant: Tom Love admittedly has a long lead over any of the candidates now in the race. He has assumed the leadership of the anti-Al Smith forces in the state, and expects to get the votes of those people in his own race after making himself prominent at the state convention and possibly at Houston as an undying enemy of the New York Governor. And his plan probably will work out about as he has mapped it, for he is a shrewd politician.

There is little likelihood that Miller will base his campaign on a sink-or-swim-with-Smith attitude, but it is probable that he will come out flatly in support of the nominee of the party at the Houston convention, whoever it may be. Love has indicated that if it is Smith he will adopt the same attitude he did two years ago when he told the people of his district that if Mrs. Ferguson was the party nominee he would not support her.

Convention Is Important: In a shaping up of that kind both men would be depending a lot on the Houston convention. Love even more than Miller. Should the convention nominate Smith then Love would find himself out on a limb with Miller wielding a hefty axe behind him.

But in any event we are in for a hot race for Lieutenant-Governor, one that will be more interesting than any of late years, and one that will be a close second to the senatorial race in interest.

A split in the ranks of the anti-Smith element in the state is not impossible, in the light of developments of the past week. It will be recalled that in these columns a

New Invention, Applied To Auto Testing, Makes Speeding Motors 'Stand Still'

By ISRAEL KLEIN Science Editor, NEA Service

A simple, flashing device called a "stroboscope," has enabled automotive engineers to study the action of fast-moving parts as though they were standing still.

But the weak light and limited extent of its field handicapped the observers in the study of several moving parts in relation to one another—all the valves of an engine, the entire camshaft, motion of pistons in all the cylinders, and so on.

Now, however, a modern adaptation of the stroboscope comes into play, and all previous disadvantages are eliminated. The engineers may now view an entire engine, even an entire automobile, jacked up on its rear wheels and moving at a rapid speed, as though it were standing still.

The new device, called the "stroborama," is an importation from France and is being exhibited in this country by the firm of Musz-Hartzell-Ducasse of New York City.

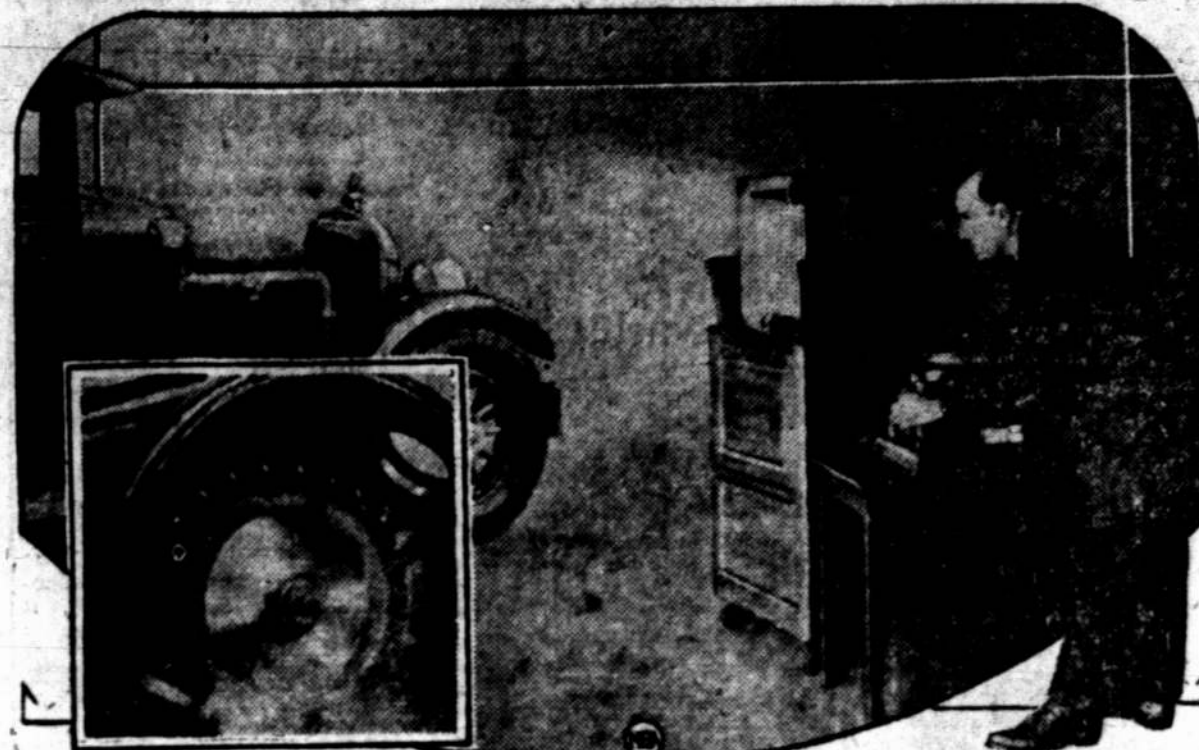

Pfundamentally the stroborama is nothing more than a stroboscope. It is based on a method adapted to the observation of moving mechanisms, making them appear stationary or moving at very slow speed in order to study them while in motion.

The Eye Is Deceived

This phenomenon is obtained by means of a flashing neon light, synchronized with the moving part so as to give a very short glimpse of it every time the part comes to the same position in its cycle. These glimpses are so fast and frequent that they deceive the eye into retaining a persistent vision of the apparatus in a single position.

Therefore, these observations had to be made in dark rooms and over small areas. With the aid of the stroborama, however, an entire panoramic view can be obtained at once due to the powerful light thrown by the new instrument. Since this carries its own synchronizing apparatus, it can be applied quickly to the study of any mechanism without the trouble of hooking it up with the parts under observation.

The stroborama produces an illumination of 1000 candle power, produced by a current of 15,000 volts, and controlled as perfectly as the stroboscope by means of a mechanical contact breaker.

The "stroborama" applied to an automobile engine. In set shows its effect on a "Pellon wheel," a water wheel made to revolve by a strong jet of water. Although the wheel was actually revolving 3000 times a minute, it appeared motionless enough to take a three-minute exposure for this photograph!

Many Uses Possible

The application of this instrument is believed to be limitless. In the automotive field, it covers every study of moving parts, and is expected to result in more certain knowledge and consequent improvement of the entire automobile.

"The stroborama is a marvelous instrument of research for the slow-motion study of all sorts of engines while operating under actual working conditions," explained D. W. Hartzell when he showed the apparatus recently to members of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

"Faulty operation of a moving part may be easily seen," he adds, and includes "bouncing of valves, fluttering of valve lifters, jumping of valve lifters away from the cam profile, vibrations and surging of valve springs. The 16 valve springs of an L head straight eight engine can be illuminated at once, and their actions compared."

Flexion of the connecting rod and of crankshaft, end motion of the bearings, flow of lubricating oil and even the projection of the oil can be observed.

Can Compare Springs

"For the manufacture of wire springs and especially of valve springs," says Hartzell, "the stroborama is invaluable, because it permits comparative observations of as many as 20 springs of slightly different specifications, mounted side by side and all actuated in perfect phase by a master mechanism.

"In a test of shimmy, the stroborama can illuminate the whole car at once and allow simultaneous observation of all parts from any angle. In one of his demonstrations before the S. A. E. at Detroit, Hartzell pasted a newspaper clipping on

Major Hoople Says Disappointment Helps Rather Than Hinders Us And There Is More Happiness Than Woe

Things Are Never Quite As Bad As They Seem, Claim Of Philosopher, Who Can See Silver Lining.

By MAJOR HOOPLE MCCORKLE

Avalanche-Journal Philosopher

Most of us are about normal—that is to say we are really nothing out of the ordinary, and if we are we are doomed to disappointment. There are times when we are in the highest heavens, but just one little mishap will sink us into the lowest dale of despondency. In plain English we find life just one thing after another, and all is not joy.

Newspaper writers, and others who work long and receive little, have an idea that riches would bring complete happiness, but this is not true. Some of the most miserable people are the richest. We learned this a long time ago, and since then have made no effort to accumulate wealth. Of course we like to eat every day, and so far we have missed very few meals. A few have been postponed, but we are none the worse off from the experience.

Can't Have Everything

We can't hope to have everything just as we would have it, for there are other people who have different ideas, and tastes, and they have a propeller blade. While the blade was revolving at 2000 revolutions a minute, and the stroborama applied, it appeared to be standing so still that the clipping could be read with ease.

right to expect a little consideration as well as we. A few knocks and bumps are needed to make us appreciate smooth sailing. A disappointment now and then only makes us appreciate the better things of life.

If you want to come right down to brass tacks we can prove that we have more joys than sorrows—more to be thankful for than we have to regret. Of course we get "our feelings" ruffled every now and then, but if we can stay sweet and smile it will only be a matter of time when we will know that our "feelings" didn't amount to very much after all.

You May Be Glad

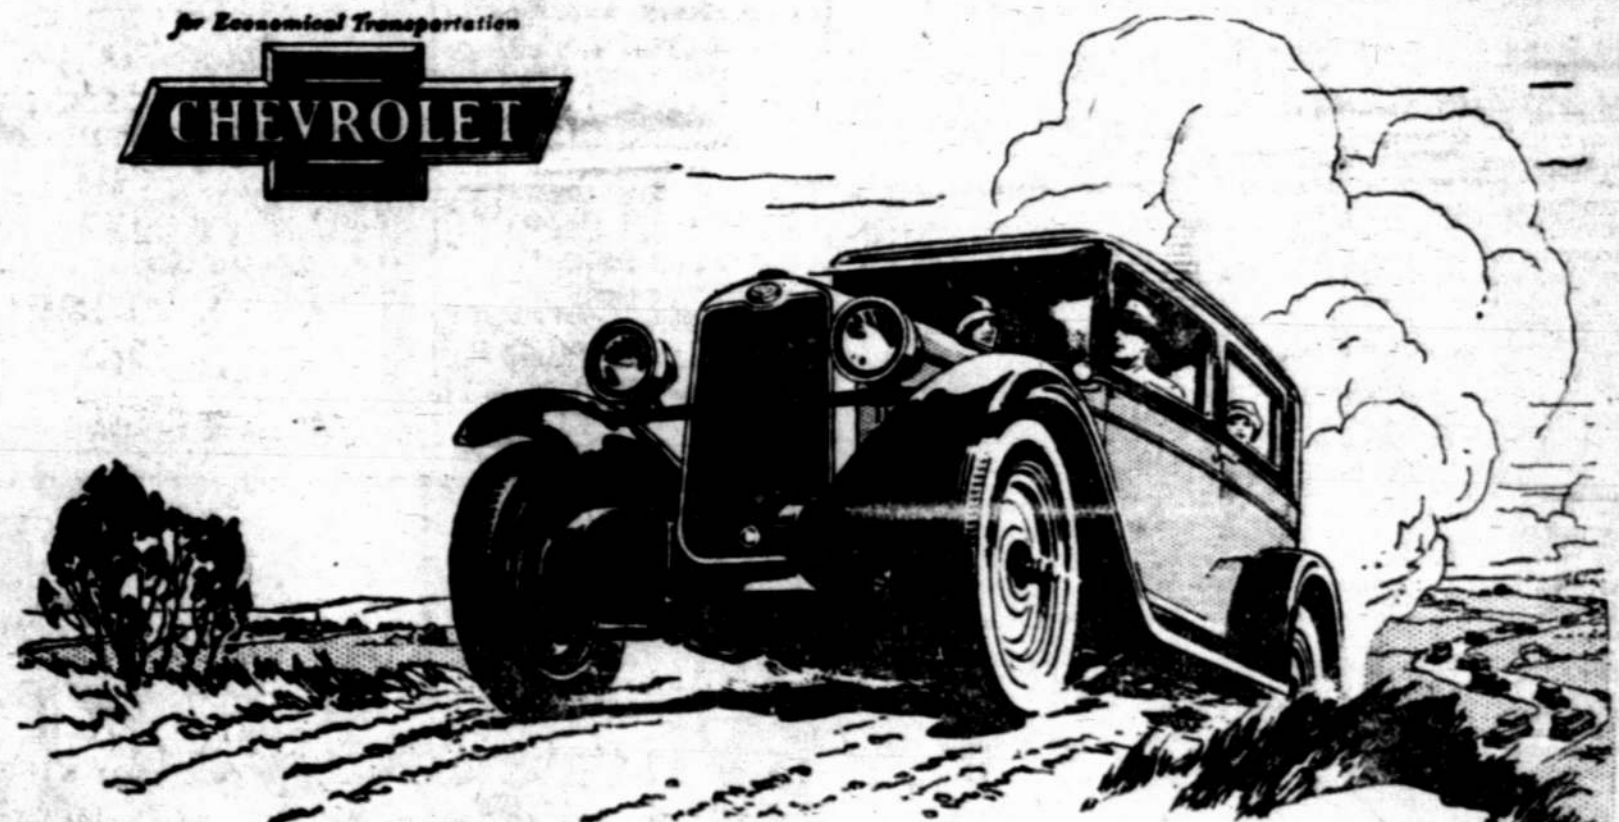

If you get into politics—tear your shirt for some candidate, and then learn on election day that he was defeated world-wide, you feel something like an Indian squaw who is suffering from mull-grubs after over-feeding on baked dog. But at that you will probably live to see the day when you are glad said candidate was defeated.

When you walk into a store and call for a wool suit and the salesman sells you one that is half cotton, you will eventually be disappointed. But if the half and half suit wears pretty well, you will forgive him and go to him for your next suit.

We know of a man who went into a barber shop and asked for a shave. The barber, without comment, began work, and a good job, and was about to release the customer when

Texas Motorists Are Losing Million Dollars Yearly As Gasoline Dealers Give Short Measures, Survey Reveals

State Department Inspectors Discover Many Crooks Selling Gasoline In Lone Star State

AUSTIN, March 17.—Weights and measures inspectors from the state department of agriculture during the month of January proved that all sleight-of-hand artists better known as magicians are not confined to the theatrical world—quite a number were found operating gasoline pumps.

It was not known to what extent the magic art had invaded the sale of gasoline until the novel plan of equipping a car with a blind tank and making purchases was devised.

85 Out of 112 Short Without introducing themselves, the inspectors quietly visited 112 filling stations, made a purchase of five gallons of gasoline at each station, secured a receipt from the salesman on each purchase to the effect that five gallons were bought and paid for, and out of the 112 purchases eighty-five were found to be short measure. In some instances the shortage amounted to as much as a gallon and a half to the purchaser.

The gasoline purchasers in this state, no doubt, would like to know how the sleight-of-hand artists perform the trick of giving a gallon and a half short measure on a five gallon sale. Like all sleight-of-hand tricks, it is simple after once being revealed. The trick is performed by diverting the flow of the gasoline to the under ground storage tank at the same time the automobile is being served. This can be done on nine different types of gasoline pumps now in use in Texas.

Loss Runs Into Millions. It is not definitely known, the amount lost each year in the sale of gasoline due to short measure but a fair estimate may be had by taking the results of the purchase tests on 112 pumps. The total shortage in the purchase of 560 gallons from the 112 pumps was 3500 cubic inches, or 2.71 per cent.

This percentage might be considered exceedingly small by some people, but, viewed in connection with the total annual sale of a few of the largest companies engaged in selling gasoline, it is not small.

For example, the records of the State Comptroller's department show that six of the largest oil companies in Texas during the year 1927 sold 487,600,975 gallons of gasoline. 2.71 per cent of this amount is 1,324,729 gallons. Taking an average price of 15 cents per gallon, the annual loss amounts to $1,987,093.85. Think of it, if this amount is lost on sales made by six companies, no doubt the loss will exceed two million dollars when the total sale of gasoline for all companies doing business in the state is considered.

Developing the fact that the people of Texas are losing millions each year in the purchase of gasoline because of short measure is valuable information, but the inquiry is made and properly so: What is being done to prevent it? Answering this inquiry reference is made to the court action taken against the "short measure artists" immediately following the purchase of gasoline from the 112 pumps. In the first city worked 15 complaints were filed, 14 of which pleaded guilty and paid fines, in the second city seven cases were tried.

and a fine from $50.00 to $100 was assessed in each case.

week ago attention was called to the move to pussyfoot on instructions against Smith to avoid antagonizing the New York, New Jersey and other big delegations.

Two Senators, Leam Crenshaw, on opposite sides of most questions, gave out very similar statements in Austin. Senator Wirtz of Seaboard and Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman, the latter a boner, each urged that nothing be done at the state convention to affront the supporters of Smith, and thus drive them away from any candidate whom Texas might propose.

This attitude may bring about a division among those opposing Smith, and it may force into the light some of the reasons for the opposition. The public reason of virtually all is his liquor stand, but the secret reason of many is his attitude.

This new development may put the latter class in a hole where they will have to come out and admit their real opposition to Smith.

lot of things. We were completely happy and for four days we scrubbed and polished. We even broke our garden and had it planted. Bought some new things we needed, and were beginning to feel like Jonah after he planted the gourd seed—we were going to sit down and enjoy the fruits of our labor. We did sit down, but only to be aroused by a knock at the door. It proved to be the owner, and we were notified that the house had been sold, and we would be expected to move after 15 days. A real disappointment, but we are going to live over it. The chances are the roof of the house leaks, anyway, and if we had remained there our car or table might have carried water-marks.

Might Have Been Worse When you go to the station to catch a train and learn upon your arrival that it is three hours late you are disappointed. But just think how much worse it would have been had you missed the train by just two minutes.

After you have been on your good behavior for a long time and you know the "boss" appreciates your work, you begin considering a raise. For a few weeks you will remain satisfied, but all the time you are framing a nice little speech you wish to make when you ask for said salary increase. Then one day the "big squeeze" comes down and after storming for fifteen minutes salaries are going down. It takes all the "air" out of your sails, and you will feel lucky for another year if you can manage to hold your own disappointment.

Oakland Motor Completes New Assembly Plant

Less Than Four Months Is Required To Complete Large $3,000,000 Building In Pontiac

PONTIAC, Mich., Mar. 17.—Last week, less than four months after the first rattle of pneumatic hammers, signalled the commencement of the latest expansion project of the Oakland Motor Car company, the new $3,000,000 car assembly and shipping buildings for the Oakland All-American Six, were completed and pronounced ready for the installation of conveyors, processing equipment and machinery.

The speed with which the buildings were erected is believed to constitute a record for this type of steel, brick and concrete construction.

Has 500,191 Square Feet. The new structures provide the company with 500,191 square feet of additional floor space besides five more railroad shipping spurs, four of them entirely within the walls of the shipping building. The company now has ten tracks in its private "railroad yard".

Nearly all of the machinery to be used in the Oakland assembly will be entirely new. The old assembly plant will cease operating on March 24 in order that a portion of the equipment now in use may be transferred to the new assembly.

President A. R. Glancy expects that production in the new plant will start April 2. The old assembly building will be used for material storage.

Two assembly lines will be installed and space has been provided for a third assembly line such as was added recently in the Pontiac Six assembly plant which parallels that of the Oakland Six. Minimum production capacity of each line in the new Oakland plant is 40 cars per hour.

Contains New Features. The Oakland assembly building is of two-story masonry type construction, 546 by 640 feet. Besides the assembly lines it contains an entire new assembling unit for the treatment of Oakland fenders and sheet metal, exactly as in the Pontiac Six plant, the converging lines of Oakland assembly parts and materials will be so synchronized that the component parts of the car will be delivered at exactly the proper moment as the automobile progresses down the assembly line.

The adjoining car shipping building is one story high, 108 feet wide and 700 feet long. The recent plant expansion gives the Oakland All-American Six factories a total floor space of 2,011,600 square feet, while the floor area of the Pontiac Six factories is 1,460,000 square feet. The combined floor area of the two plants is 3,471,600 square feet or nearly 80 acres.

Hupp Production At Record Level

Output Proceeding At Highest Rate In History, Says Young; Dealers Report Heavy Sales

DETROIT, March 17.—Operations at the highest rate ever attained are now being carried out in every department of the Hupp mobile plants, DuBois Young, president and general manager, states in reply to requests for information on the Hupp mobile outlook. Sales by our distributors and dealers throughout America are the largest they have ever been at this time of year, Mr. Young said. "More unfilled orders for retail delivery are on their books than at any previous time in their history. This is the time of year when motor car dealers ordinarily are carrying a large stock of cars against the heavy Spring demand. Hupp mobile dealers, however, are virtually without cars. They have been delivering them to owners as rapidly as they have been received from the factory. Only a few of our

Old to Some, New to Others

That 'Model T' Ford in the lower picture, looks quite old to us, but it's still new to Frank Hooper, first rural fire delivery carrier in Kansas. Then he switched to the Ford, has driven it 125,000 miles and is still delivering mail with the same "new" mode of transportation.

dealers have more than a week's supply of cars on hand. "Century Well Received. The splendid reception accorded the first of our three new Century cars is a matter of history. It was the greatest ever given any Hupp mobile. That again the two new Century models has been equally imposing."

Mr. Young said that on March 2 the Hupp mobile factory already had orders for more than 7,000 cars for March shipment, with more coming in, daily. This compares with shipments of 3218 in February—the largest single month the company has yet enjoyed. Shipments of 15,670 cars during November, December, January and February exceed those of 10,194 cars for the corresponding four months of 1927-28 and 73 per cent. Practically every one of those most than 14,600 cars has been sold and delivered to owners.

"Our dealers everywhere are using prospective Hupp mobile buyers to place their orders now if they wish to insure themselves of delivery," continued Mr. Young. "Otherwise many thousands must be disappointed."

February Exports Record For Dodge

European and British Orders Are Large; Victory Model Is Favorite In Foreign Field Also.

DETROIT, March 17.—Export of 3,801 units of Dodge Brothers cars and Graham Brothers trucks and commercial cars during February set a record for all time for that month for the company, according to official figures just compiled by the company.

The total of 3,801 units sold compares to 3,013 for February 1927 and 3,472 for February 1926. The factory output for February this year represents a gain of more than 26 per cent over February a year ago. Dodge Brothers, Inc., views the increased sales volume as a reflection of improved business conditions and increased buying power in the foreign field. Dealers of Europe and the British Isles placed large orders during the month for trucks and the Victory six models.

In anticipation of a record breaking business this spring, production of cars and trucks in all plants of Dodge Brothers has been adjusted to keep pace with domestic and foreign orders.

SEND MEN

We are of the opinion that an uninstructed delegation to the National Convention would be the best idea. It is very hard to know just what man to endorse before the convention. Many things arise that would sometimes change things very materially, and leave the delegation handicapped if it is definitely instructed. They should be men however, who are absolutely men of high principles and who will be dependable to do the real thing when the proper time comes.

As Mr. Woodward forcefully points out, prohibition is now an integral part of the United States Constitution, and there is no probability that it will ever be removed therefrom. As a part of the Constitution, it is entitled to respect and enforcement, regardless of the individual's opinion of prohibition. It can not be said that the man who objects to prohibition, or the man who endorses prohibition, is a Democrat; for no such test of a man's Democracy can be made.

A deadlock that would be fatal to the party, so far as November success is concerned, is certain to result from a Smith and anti-Smith battle in the Houston convention. The convention will be composed of two groups of about equal strength, and any attempt of either group to read the other out of the party will be futile, but fatal to the party.

FARM RELIEF A POLITICAL ISSUE

Agricultural leaders in congress will endeavor to make farm relief an issue in the coming presidential campaign in the assertion of a political writer in the Christian Science Monitor, who states that a coalition of leaders is working on the proposition of again presenting the McNary-Haugen bill, with its equalization fee feature, to President Coolidge with the expectation that he will veto it.

"Such a presidential veto is conceived by these political and sectional elements as of the utmost importance to their respective interests," the writer says. "These interests include various political ambitions of republicans, democrats and pro-pressives, and also certain legislative matters, particularly flood control authorization."

According to the Monitor those backing other legislative projects have indicated their willingness to trade their support of the equalization fee bill for backing for their enterprises. This was done at the last session, particularly on the McFadden branch banking bill, when those interested in that measure, among them Mr. Dawes and Mr. Carew, participated in a swap with the farm group. The bank bill was passed and signed by the president, while the farm bill, though going through both houses, was halted by the president.

This session the flood control and Boulder Dam issues are seeking votes, and their proponents are reported willing to trade with the farm bloc on the equalization fee. The southern leaders of flood control legislation want backing for their contention that the federal government should bear the burden of cost and the Boulder Dam adherents want action on their measure. The farm bloc and political leaders supporting the equalization fee are willing to trade on these issues. They conceive a presidential veto of the farm measure as having a many-sided political value to them. The republicans are of the opinion it will make impossible a last minute "draft" of President Coolidge.

The Tammany democrats are reliably reported as viewing support of the equalization fee as of political importance to Governor Smith throughout the west in the event he should receive the democratic nomination, and southern democrats are expected to support it as a political measure.

Conferences of the various groups have been held recently and others are projected, according to reports from Washington. Floor leaders have not definitely decided whether to consider the farm bill before the flood control measure, but as soon as a program has been arranged, farm leaders expect to whip their forces into shape and press their measure to a prompt vote in both houses.

President Coolidge has indicated clearly he will again veto the farm relief measure if it contains the equalization fee, and the proponents of the bill are fully cognizant of the fact that in view of the president's attitude enactment of the bill is utterly impossible. However, they see in it an opportunity to "mix medicine" and it will probably be used for that purpose to good effect, so far as the personal fortunes of a few politicians are concerned.

FOR SELF-PROTECTION

Taylor county farmers met the other day and pledged a reduction of cotton acreage "insofar as may be practicable," with a continuance of the policy of diversification. The attention of Taylor county farmers and others in that part of the state has been forcefully called to the necessity for reducing the acreage by the appearance to the pink boll worm in some sections of Texas, as well as by the experience of last season when Texas produced too much cotton and a number of West Texas farmers lost money on their crops. It is expected that farmers in many other West Texas counties may do as the Taylor county producers have done, and that the total production of the western half of the state will be materially less this year than during the last season. As they turn from cotton, the farmers of Texas must seek something else, and undertake to raise a greater variety of crops. Mr. Orms spoke very forcefully here a few days ago of the value of diversification, giving a number of examples of farmers who had lost money raising cotton but had made money by turning to feedstuffs and dairy cows. Lubbock county, fortunately, has been diversifying a number of years, and is not now rated as a cotton county although its lands produce abundant crops of cotton and the county could take rank with any other county in cotton production if it so desired. Hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of poultry and poultry products go to the markets every year from this county. The dairy industry is becoming firmly established and with the completion of plans that are now maturing for improving the local market conditions, there will be a great increase in dairying. Livestock raising has again become profitable here, and wool growing is increasing every year with the promise that within a short while it may become one of the major industries of the county. Hundreds of farm families are practically living at home because they are preserving all manner of field and garden products and storing them away for use as required throughout the year. Scores of farm families have marketable products every day in the year, and are carrying satisfactory balances in the banks of their home communities. Diversification was forced on the county by a few bad cotton seasons, and it has been an unalloyed blessing. It is not a philanthropic move that is being made by the Taylor county farmers, therefore, but a move for self-preservation. The day of the all-cotton farmer is fast passing, and the sooner it passes the better for everybody concerned.

There are 600 varieties of sea weed in Japan, most of which are used for food or in the manufacture of commercial articles, such as glass, isinglass and iodine.

Grapefruit is the principal product of the Isle of Pines, having become an important industry since the American colonization shortly after the Spanish-American war.

SO THINK WE

We think that confessing to a murder this day and time does not mean anything as long as you can prove you weren't present when you did the killing.

We think that a compromise is just a way of delaying the ultimate outcome.

We think that some salesman who said that the fur on the coat that he was trying to sell to a station lady was so warm that the fox that it came off of died of suffocation.

We think that a man, or a woman either, who are wrapped up in themselves makes an unsightly bundle.

We think that there was one thing that can be said of the stand storm Thursday afternoon in its favor. It knocked out old baseballs. He could not stay on the sidewalks and when he was there he could not spit on the sidewalks.

We think if advances on bathing suits is any indication of what they are going to be there is very little to them, and not much of that.

We think that Lubbock should have more street lights. We would certainly like to see Broadway and several other prominent streets a real white way.

We think some of the wives of this country will find out after a while that they cannot run around with other men and live over it, and a few cheap funerals among the men who are wayward, and untrue to their wives would help most communities some also.

We think that old chain letter that has been going the rounds of the country for the past 25 years, is a pretty good proof that there are several superstitious people in the land yet. It reads that it must be copied and sent to several friends, and they in turn must copy it and send it on or there will be some bad luck befall them. The fact that millions of people have received this letter during the past few years shows that all of the superstition is not out of the world yet.

We think the Texas Tech has shown wonderful progress along all lines since it was opened. The building program has made great strides, and the grounds are taking on the appearance of a real campus. The classes in stock judging and agriculture are making fine winnings and every other department is recognized as doing fine work. This part of the state should be, and is, proud of this institution.

BORED YOUTH AND ITS INSTRUCTORS

Chicago Daily News: Presidents of old popular universities have been expressing their opinions on the troubles of the youth of today. It is generally agreed by them that boys and girls in college are not wickered or startlingly radical. Too many of these students, however, are indifferent to study and avoid hard work and intellectual strain. Are they entirely to blame for this? Naturally the answers to the question vary.

President Lowell of Harvard thinks that high schools are inefficient and wasteful, and that colleges therefore are obliged to do much work that should have been done by the so-called preparatory schools. Students who are not ready for higher education naturally find the college or university dull and hard. Dr. Lowell demands drastic recognition of elementary and high school cur-

It is reported that Lubbock will have another railroad by the first of April. That seems too sudden, but the way these railroads string out the rails these days it is not impossible by any means, and we are liable to see the smoke of the Denver locomotives at any time.

It is reported that there are now sixteen hundred cows under contract for the cooperative creamery of the South Plains. That sure does look like the farmers of the South Plains mean business, and it will mean a lot of wealth to this section of the country, when they get things like that going.

It is reported that the potash prospects for this section and to the southwest of us is looked upon with much favor, and this will probably be equal to the oil industry in many of the counties of the South Plains and toward the Rio Grande river.

Our Sunday Morning Sermon

By REV. R. F. DUNN

Man, No. 1. The Kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal until the whole was leavened.

In the two preceding sermons we have shown that leaven, as a symbol, or type, was always used to represent an evil, or something morally or spiritually unclean; that, in no case was it ever used to represent a single virtue, in our religious life.

It was also shown that it was a maxim, or self-evident truth that "a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump." St. Paul appeals to this fact twice, to warn the Christian at Corinth and Gallatia, of the danger of the leaven of sin corrupting the whole church, if allowed to remain in the church.

The Apostle admonishes them to purge out the old leaven that they might keep the feast with unleavened bread of sincerity and truth; and declares to them that they "are unleavened."

We also called attention to the Christ identified as the anti-type of ever it operates; that it contains the active principle of fermentation and "sour" or ferments all substances it affects; so that if not arrested by powerful heat or other destructive agency, it will destroy or ruin the thing that it leavens.

We showed further that no leaven could be used in the "sacrifice of blood" in their meat offerings, because they were most holy; and in their feast of the Passover, that no leaven must be allowed to remain in their houses for the seven days; and that if any one should eat leaven bread during this feast of the Passover, that person should be cut off from the congregation of the Lord.

We further reminded you that Christ identified as the anti-type of the Passover lamb that was slain at the feast and whose blood was sprinkled upon the doors, posts, and lintels of their houses. (See I Cor. 5: 7, 8).

With the above facts before us we come to study this parable: What does leaven signify? What does the three measures of meal represent? Who is represented by the woman who hides this leaven in three measures of meal? What are we to understand by "the whole was leavened?"

The popular interpretation of the parable is (with some variations) that the leaven is the Gospel of the kingdom of heaven; that the three measures of meal is the whole world to be saved; and that the church or her preachers are represented by the woman hiding the leaven. According to this analysis of the parable, the lesson taught by the parable is that finally, the whole world will be saved, because "the whole is leavened."

Again this theory or interpretation of the parable, I offer some additional objections, to those already offered in our last sermon.

In I Cor. 5: 7, Saint Paul declares, as above stated, that the Corinthians, in their normal state as Christians, were "unleavened." They had been "washed, sanctified and justified" by the spirit of our God (Chapt. 6: 11). If the Christian, who is sanctified, washed, and justified, be the spirit of our God "unleavened," as St. Paul declares, how can the leaven of the parable be made to mean the saving efficacy of the gospel of the kingdom when the saved ones are "unleavened," as the Apostle declares to be? Can you not see the conflict of the popular interpretation with the teaching of St. Paul? How can Christians be saved by leaven, and at the same time, be "unleavened?" This would be a logical absurdity.

Another objection to the popular theory is that it contradicts an acknowledged axiom among the Jews, that "a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump," and this, in connection with the fact that the leaven of "false doctrine, of fornication, and self-glorying" was already in the church, and if not "purged out" would "leaven the whole lump." "Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?"

If it be a fact (and it is) that Christ and Paul uniformly use leaven as a symbol of something bad or corrupting, (see our last sermon) and "a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump," it follows as a logical necessity that the corrupting influence of the leaven of sin will corrupt the kingdom of God if it is not arrested by the power of God, and purged out from the communion of saints, and the fellowship of the children of God's kingdom.

It is an incontrovertible fact that since the day that Christ, and his Apostles preached that "the kingdom of heaven is at hand" and the twelve Apostles were chosen, there have been found unworthy members in every group of organized Christianity, of which we know anything.

There was a Judas Iscariot in the 12 Apostles of our Saviour. There were Ananias and Sapphira that

City Zoning—And What It Means

By DR. W. A. JACKSON

Head Of The Department of Government at Texas Tech

ZONING ORDINANCES AND THE COURTS

Having examined the principles upon which zoning is based, and the purposes it aims to serve, let us turn our attention now to the legal basis of zoning.

For a long time, many people supposed that zoning could not be undertaken in American cities, believing that it would be contrary to the Federal and State constitutions; but that was probably largely due to the belief that it involved a taking of property without compensation which could not legally be done; or, if taken under the right of eminent domain, the cost would be prohibitive.

Zoning, however, is accomplished under the police power of the state, and not under the right of eminent domain. When property is taken under the right of eminent domain, compensation must be paid the owner if damages can be shown, while no compensation is paid for property taken or for limitations imposed upon the use of property under the police power.

But you may ask if a man is not allowed to do as he pleases with his own property should he not receive damages from the public treasury? Inasmuch as the community life gives value to property, every one may be required to use his own property in such a manner as not to injure his neighbor. The power of the community is the best way in which to accomplish this end, for no man can make the best use of his own property unless his neighbors are required to make use of their own as not to injure others.

Mr. Justice Holmes expressed this idea very well in his dissenting opinion in the case of Lachtman vs. Houghton when he said:

If one claims he "has a vested right guaranteed him by the Constitution to damage his neighbors' home by devoting his lot to a use incongruous with the use of property in the vicinity, and that no power can stop him, for to stop this damage would be to take his prop-

THE JAZZ SINGER

Novelized by Arline De Haas
Taken from the scenario 'The Jazz Singer' starring Al Jolson
Copyright, 1927, By Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Jackie, son of Cantor Robinson, who is a very popular singer, leaves home. Ten years later, through Mary Dale, a dancer, Jackie, now Jack Hobin, becomes a musical comedy singer. The Cantor, discovering his son's profession, disowns him. Jackie then goes to the Eve of Yom Kippur, Billings, the backer of the show, jealous of Mary's love for Jack, withdraws his money, leaving Lee, the producer, dependent on Jack for success. The Cantor is ill and Mrs. Robinson comes to a dress rehearsal to beg her son to sing in the synagogue that night. Unable to withstand her pleadings Jack throws away his opportunity and returns home.

Jack looked around the room as though it were a new and strange place to him. Somehow the entire atmosphere seemed changed. He might as well get used to it, he reflected bitterly. Here he would live—and probably die. Singing the songs of his fathers in the synagogue next door. Wearing a skull cap and a prayer shawl. Depending on the rest of his life, his father had before him, on the East Side. How many times would the call of the theatre come to him! When he passed the little motion picture halls and heard the cheap piano playing the rag tunes of the hour. When he listened to the children of the streets shouting the rag time lyrics of the day. When he sang on the Sabbath in the synagogue with that same cry in his voice—that same wail. Then—then he would look back and see, in retrospect, the blackface comedian behind the footlights, singing to a theatre-full of people, his name outside in electric lights. He tried to shake off these sensations, but they persisted.

He could hear his mother moving about the kitchen, humming as she rattled her pots and pans. Out of the distance, he seemed to hear Tudeleson's voice. "You should worry, Jackie," it was saying—"you can always have a job in my store." He turned, scarcely hearing the man's words. He was anxious to have done with all this thing—impatient now, to go to the synagogue and sing. If he could sing, it might clear his mind. Everything had happened that possibly could happen. His mind was dulled. He didn't care. Anything, so that he might have action.

"Why doesn't Levy show up with that praying shawl?" he faced Tudeleson nervously, irritably. "Why does everybody take so long?" "I'll get him, Jackie," Tudeleson moved hurriedly towards the door, anxious to placate Jack.

"Is the choir ready for a quick rehearsal?"

"Everything is ready. I want to go over at least 'Kol Nidre' once."

They're standing already now waiting. I'll bring your praying shawl and skull cap. Everything will be all right. Tudeleson hurried out. Jack sat down again, his head in his hands. He began to hum the first plaintive cadences of "Kol Nidre." His voice welled a little louder as he reached the solemn, majestic passages. He might have been his own great grandfather in some far-off Russian ghetto praying to God of vengeance a prayer thousands of years old. He did not hear the repeated knocks at the door. He did not see the man who opened the door and came slowly towards him. He sang on and on the wailing minor of the death-tune.

"Jack!" The singer jumped to his feet at the sound of his name. There stood Lee.

"Mr. Lee! How—why—" Jack rubbed his hand across his eyes. Then he stiffened and drew back as though to protect himself from some unseen force.

"I got your message," Lee began sternly. "Gene told me what you said. He gave me this address. Do you realize what you're doing?" Jack nodded miserably. "I'd rather cut off my right arm than do this to you, Mr. Lee. Please believe me," he said simply.

"Forget all about me," Lee swept the idea aside with a gesture of his hand. "Think of yourself. Look here, boy, you're a young fellow. Tonight is the chance of a lifetime for you; don't you know that?" "I know it," Jack admitted sorrowfully.

"I don't know what you're thinking. You may feel in your heart that you're going to succeed anyway. I know better!" Lee was purposely antagonizing Jack in the hopes that he might rouse his fighting spirit by defying him to make good in the theatre. "If you don't come through for me tonight," he continued, mercilessly predding the boy. "I'll never take you back again. I couldn't engage you after an affair like this. Neither will anyone else. Rumors as to why you left will be all over Broadway tomorrow—and they won't all be true—if I know Broadway. Your name's going to be mud. I can tell you that right now. Stage people have very little sympathy with the sort of thing you're trying to do now."

Jack winced. "I know it, Mr. Lee," he answered dully. "I'm not asking for any sympathy." He sank down again on the couch and stared at the table. Lee decided that he had better try another method. The boy was stubborn, but there must be some way of getting around him. "Where is your father?" he asked at last. Jack merely nodded towards the bedroom door. "How sick is he? Is he too sick to be talked to?" Jack nodded again. "It would kill him. He can't be disturbed."

"Well, I should think he'd be proud of you when you tell him what a great opportunity you have," Lee urged. "Why not try to explain matters to him?" "Even, if I could talk to him he wouldn't be able to understand any more what I meant than you can understand why I came down here tonight," Jack insisted. "Well, why did you come down here tonight?" "Oh, I don't know," Jack turned away wearily, feeling that no explanation would help him now. "If Lee might be able to appreciate the kind of reason, I can't tell you. I'm here. That's enough, isn't it?" "Maybe for you it is," Lee began to wax sarcastic. "For me it isn't. I can tell you who you came—if you want to know." He didn't wait for an answer, but hurried on, heckling the boy. "You came because you haven't any guts. You're—you're you're weak."

"Don't give me any more analysis," Jack broke in bitterly. "It gives me no headache." "Well, you're going to have a hell of a lot bigger headache when my lawyers get after you," Lee had decided on a new plan of attack. "Lawyers?" Jack looked up puzzled. "Yes, lawyers! You know, my boy you signed a pay-or-play contract. I signed it with me as an individual. You signed it with a corporation of which I am the president. That corporation has stockholders. I've got to protect the interests of those stockholders whether it goes against my personal wishes or not. I can't get up a syndicate involving the amount of money this one does and expect those people who hand out their money in to stand by and face a loss that I can prevent. Besides they have a voting power, you know."

"Did you have to ask the stockholders to vote on it when you hired me?" Jack argued with a slight show of interest. "No, certainly not. I produce the show myself."

"Well, then, fire me without asking them," Jack rose and didn't sign it with me as an individual. You signed it with a corporation of which I am the president. That corporation has stockholders. I've got to protect the interests of those stockholders whether it goes against my personal wishes or not. I can't get up a syndicate involving the amount of money this one does and expect those people who hand out their money in to stand by and face a loss that I can prevent. Besides they have a voting power, you know."

Millions Are To Spend Billions Touring In 1928

Motorists Will Be Big Aid To Business When Annual Touring Season Is Under Way This Year

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Motorists this year will bring out 44,000,000 tourists who will spend a total of $3,630,000,000 in the United States and Canada!

This surprising tourist business is the prediction made by Frank E. Brimmer, camping authority, in the February issue of the American Motorist.

Out of this vast total, Brimmer estimates, hotels and tourists homes will reap approximately $2,420,000,000, the remainder being left by campers.

Due to the improved conditions for motoring and sight seeing, Brimmer believes, campers will spend about a month each on sight-seeing excursions. This prolonged vacation will bring to the coffers of cities and businesses an average of $3.30 a day for each individual—or a total of $1,210,000,000 for the touring season.

Hotel vacationists—motorists only—will average about ten days for their average, and will spend an average of $7.50 a day for each person.

Brimmer estimates these totals on the basis of a 10 per cent increase over last year's figures. He puts the hotel tourist total for 1927 at $2,000,000, coming in 7,250,000 automobiles, an increase of 12 per cent over the previous season.

Campers in both tents and cottages numbered 11,000,000 last year and took to the road in 2,750,000 automobiles, an increase of 10 per cent over 1926, says Brimmer. Of these only three-fourths tented along the trails, and the balance in cars and camping trailers.

The carried almost no camping outfits at all, but put up at cottages. Of the 11,000,000 campers, Brimmer figures, 2,000,000 each were attracted to the national parks of the west, the Great Lakes region and the southwest.

The northwestern took about 750,000 campers; the Mississippi valley and Gulf Coast, 250,000; the southeast, 500,000; the middle Atlantic and inland almost to the Mississippi, 1,000,000; New England and eastern Canada, 250,000; the vicinity of Washington, D. C. and the remainder of the Atlantic coast, 500,000; and the remaining 750,000 took shorter trips within their own states.

The hotel tourist distribution, Brimmer believes, follows the same proportions as the tent and house camps. North Carolina, are particularly hotel tourist districts where a greater ratio of such visitors would stay.

While the east leans more to the hotel type of tourist, however, the far west has a heavier percentage of campers, Brimmer adds. "Yet, all things considered, it is to state that the check of campers in the ten classifications given is a rather fair index of the popularity accorded these various places by hotel tourists," he concludes.

U. S. Automobile Industry Offers Little Monopoly

Desire of Americans To Get Something New Keeps Monopoly Away, Marmon Motor President Says

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 17.—There is no room for monopoly in the automobile industry, said G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car Company. "An analysis of industrial conditions will bear me out in this statement."

"Look back a generation ago and see what apparent monopolies were being built up in oil, steel and other industries. According to the pessimists of those days all this independence were to be put out of business. Note how many independent companies are functioning and making money today."

"Distastefulness Supreme: "There can be no monopoly in the automotive industry, because it is built on distinctiveness. There are millions of Americans who like to get something a bit different. We have not yet merged our people into any mass unit. They have different ways and habits of speech in various sections of the country. So the independent automotive company will live and prosper as long as it gives value and individuality such as Marmon does, plus. This is a good time to kill the bugaboo."

"Never in all motor history did motor companies enter a year with such wonderful sales possibilities. At New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and other cities where shows have been held our reports show that buying has been on a greater scale than ever. When international economists agree that 1928 is going to be a good year generally for business, and particularly for the motor car industry, that means more prosperity."

1927 Is Off Year: "General production was off in 1927 because makers realized that as fast as people were not buying motor cars. They slowed down the plants. It gave opportunity to work out the wonderful values incorporated in the shows this year. It left no obsolete models in the hands of salesmen."

"I have talked with men I know and made my own organization, and they told me that sales so far this year have surprised them by their volume. Having looked over the new buyers, buyers are selecting their cars."

Five Luxurious Chrysler Limousines Are Purchased For Brilliant Coronation Of Mikado

DETROIT, Mich., March 17.—When Japan's new emperor proceeds from his Tokyo palace next fall to ascend his "High August Seat" in Nippon's ancient flower capital, his procession will faithfully represent in all respects but one the time-established ceremonial observed by the long list of his forbears who have preceded him along the triumphal way to Kyoto. This one respect will be that the members of the imperial household and Diplomatic Corps will ride in automobiles.

Prepare for Ceremonies: Already, although the sacred rite which the Emperor will offer to the spirit of his ancestors is barely planned, preparations for the brilliant coronation ceremonies are well under way and representatives of the Japanese government have bought five Chrysler limousines for use on the memorable occasion and thereafter by members of the imperial household.

Cars All Imperial: The cars for the imperial use are appropriated of the Imperial "80" model and embody all the sumptuous luxury associated with royal delivery. They are contracted for delivery in May and are being fitted up in accordance with rigid specifications laid down by Japanese officials. Their color will be the exact shade of red which is reserved in Japan for the exclusive use of the Imperial household, but alien hands are not entrusted with the delicate task of painting on them the royal crests which distinguish the members of the Mikado's family.

That function is to be performed by skilled artisans in Tokio, who know by long practice the precise outline of the symbol and who alone can portray them with the precision demanded by tradition.

The five Chrysler limousines were purchased in Detroit by James D. Nason, managing director of the Yashima Automobile Company, Chrysler representative at Tokio, who was accompanied on the mission from Japan by Katsuro Wakita, also a director of the company.

to the suppression of what is offensive, disorderly or unsanitary, but extends to what is for the greater welfare of the State. If the police power extended only to the public health, morals and safety, it might often be difficult to show conclusively that every detail of a zoning ordinance came within a competent exercise of the police power.

The State courts have repeatedly sustained zoning ordinances and the United States Supreme Court has upheld the right of a city to enact zoning ordinances under the police power of the states in cases in which the ordinances were retroactive in effect.

It may help to gain a clearer notion of the attitude of the courts by reviewing a few of the more important cases involving the validity of zoning ordinances.

In Wilmington, Delaware, a zoning ordinance provided that no public garage could be built in a residential neighborhood, and the adjoining property owners filed their consent with the building inspector the validity of the ordinance was attacked on two grounds, first, that it was an attempted delegation of legislative powers, and second, because it was unreasonable, arbitrary and oppressive. The circuit court of the state held that inasmuch as the law was complete in itself, the fact that it provided for the removal or modification of its prohibition by the act of these most affected parties did not make it a delegation of legislative powers. The second objection, the court held, that a public garage was noisy and odorous in character, and that under the police power of the charter, the ordinance was not reasonable, arbitrary, or oppressive.

(For The Associated Press) HOUSTON, Tex., March 17.—Mrs. Agnes Paschal McNeil, 89, full blood Indian and great-grandmother of Major Ridge, last hereditary chief of the Cherokees, died at her home here today.

Her father was George Paschal, pioneer judge of the supreme court of Arkansas, and author of Paschal's Digest, of the Laws of Texas. Her mother was Sarah Ridge, full blood Cherokee Indian princess.

Her sister was formerly the wife of T. P. O'Connor, Irish leader, widely known as "Tay Pay" and now a visitor in the United States.

Mrs. McNeil was known in Texas as a poetess and an author. Born in Van Buren, Ark., she was brought to Texas as an infant at about the time it was admitted to the Union.

Sunday Sermon

vere hypocrites, and lied unto the Holy Spirit in the Pentecostal church at Jerusalem. Simon the Sorcerer got into the infant church at Samaria, and the church at Corinth, had already been leavened with many sins.

The churches in Gallatia had been leavened with false doctrine that "Christ had become of no effect unto them," and some had fallen from grace (Gal. 5:4-9) and thus had forfeited the mention of all wicked members that had gotten into the church in one generation, and that while some of the Apostles were still preaching "with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven," "If ye see what will they do in the dry?" There never has been any regeneration of the kingdom of God on earth which we know any-where did these things in a green time, that has not suffered corruption in some degree or form, from the invasion of the leaven of false teaching or the presence of unworthy members. At this present time, there is a menace or danger of false teaching that is greater than we have known for more than 60 years. Men, bearing the seal of the church's authority to preach the Word of God are disseminating their doubts, and deny the infallibility of the Bible, and the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Some of the universities and colleges of the churches of Protestant denominations are poisoning the minds of some of our fine young people with skepticism and the leaven of false doctrine, that is threatening to invade every group of people organized into a church, bearing the name of Christ.

Many of the official organs or periodicals of the churches are editorially silent, while this fatal leaven is about to "leaven the whole lump" of orthodox Christianity. Many of our pulpits and much of our Christian literature is "shot through and through" with the delusion that the whole world will ultimately be saved by the leaven which a "woman hid in three measures of meal."

Why do good and scholarly men take such liberty with these "mystery parables" of the kingdom of heaven?

The disciples of Jesus did not know the meaning of these parables; Jesus gave them privately His own interpretation of three of them, as strange and inconsistent as it is, many devout students interpret the parable of leaven so that it fastly contradicts the interpretations of the three of them and by implication all three of them.

You will please note the fact that our Lord did not interpret the parables of the "mustard seed," "The Parable of Leaven," the parable of the hidden treasure, and the Parable of the Pearl of Great Price."

The disciples wondered why their Master spoke in parables that concealed mysteries, instead of speaking plainly. But Jesus told why he did this, as we can see for ourselves in Matt. 13:10-17.

If we undertake to unfold the meaning of either of the four, which He did not explain, it certainly behooves us to do so reverently and with great caution. We ought to tread softly when we try to uncover the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, that our Lord hid concealed in these four parables.

But it is said that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread," and it seems easy for some of us to indulge in this sort of folly. Other objections to the popular interpretation of the parable of leaven I have in mind to present, but for the lack of space, will not present here, for they are all implied in the two sermons given before this, as well as in the first part of this.

I will humbly suggest the following, as the probable meanings of the parables.

The leaven represents sin introduced into the organized kingdom of heaven in this present age, by unfaithful rulers, or officials of the church, who secretly hide their sin in the church until the outward manifestation of public corruption of the kingdom or church will be corrupted, "like unto leaven hid in three measures of meal, until the whole was leavened."

Why is "three measures" used in this parable? The first mention of three measures of meal was when the angels came to Abraham's tent, and he urged them to remain until he might prepare a hearty meal for them. His instruction to Sarah was "make ready quickly three measures of fine flour, and make cakes upon the hearth." Please note the fact that this was to be a repast for angels.

No leaven could be used in this hearty preparation, as it takes considerable time for leavened dough to "rise," and this was done quickly.

These same angels (except one) went on from Abraham's tent to Sodom, and Lot recognized them as God's messengers, and urged them to come into his house and be his guests for the night; and he made them a feast and baked "unleavened bread," especially for them. No mention of the three measures of meal here, but it was a feast for angels, and unleavened bread was used.

In the meat offering, in which no leaven must be used, Leviticus 6:17. We learn that "three tenth deals" of fine flour was the specific quantity required for this offering (Leviticus 14:16), and to have put leaven into such three measures of meal would have violated the express command of God, Leviticus 2:11 and profaned an offering that was most holy.

Going back to the parable: Why did Jesus say that "The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal until the whole was leavened?" Did he not probably refer to the unlawful mixing of leaven in the three measures of fine flour of the meat offering, and which no leaven could be lawfully placed? So the woman "hides" the leaven in "three measures of meal," like Satan, who sowed the children of the wicked one" while men slept, as this mystery woman of the parable hides the leaven (sin) that she had taken of the devil, the whole lump. Eight times in the Old Testament the "three measures of meal" or flour is spoken of in connection with the meat offering with which no leaven could be used; and it is very suggestive at least that our Saviour had this in mind when He refers to "three measures of meal" which was pure, but with the hiding of leaven was corrupted, because the meat was most holy."

If we turn to Rev. 2:18-24, we find

How the High Liner Care
 BY ISRAEL KLEIN
 Science Editor, NEA Service
 The kind of gasoline you buy should depend on the type of motor you have under the hood. This idea is brought out, in a rather indirect way, by Dr. George Granger Brown, professor of chemical engineering at the University of Michigan and director of research for the National Gasoline Association of America. His address, which was given before the Society of Automotive Engineers, is printed in two recent issues of the National Petroleum News.

Dr. Brown reviews the relationship of the gasoline and automotive industries, and divides this into three periods.

Up to 1916, says Dr. Brown, gasoline was merely a by-product of the petroleum industry, and represented that part of the crude oil that was too volatile for kerosene, which was more sought after. But it was fine for automotive engines.

During the war, the next period, gasoline came into so great a demand for the fighting forces that it became the major petroleum product and its volatility declined. The result was that automotive engineers had to design lower compression motors to accommodate the low volatility fuel.

Since 1922, however, anti-knock fuel has come along and motors have been redesigned for its use. Here comes the difficulty, however. Before this better fuel came in, motors had been designed to make the best of the poor war time gasoline. The main tendency was to pre-heat the mixture with the exhaust gases.

And it's still being done. Therefore, it is important that motors with heated intake manifolds be fed the inferior kind of gasoline, rather than the anti-knock or highly volatile variety.

Dr. Brown explains it this way: "After the motor has become warmed up it is possible to apply sufficient exhaust heat to the intake manifold so that satisfactory motor performance may be obtained when using fuels that are considerably less volatile than the minimum specified by the U. S. motor fuel specifications."

From this viewpoint, at least, poor fuel is good fuel for the heated type of motor.

But gasoline refiners now are providing a much better fuel, even outside the realm of the anti-knock and "premium" gasolines. These are fuels of "partial volatility."

Used in connection with heated-manifold motors, this fuel would be found too volatile and would even become gaseous before leaving the carburetor. The result would be no lean mixture that it would not burn in the cylinders and would cause the engine to miss explosions.

Heating the manifold increases the tendency of the engine to knock if a fuel of partial volatility is used. At the same time super-heating a mixture as it passes through a manifold, says Brown, causes a loss in power and an increase in fuel consumption, especially at part open throttle.

With the better grade of fuel on the market, therefore, auto manufacturers will not be obliged to provide for pre-heating the manifold even for cold weather starting.
