YOU CAN EXPECT a little less free-wheeling among teenage students, especially at Colorado High.

School board members have had their eyes and aims toward stronger curriculum the last couple of years. And they believe school policy has been pointing in that direction.

Numerous parents recognized the trend during the last school year at Junior High.

There will be more of it this fall definitely... and it will be noticeable, too, at High School.

Supt. Frank Wilson and school board members discussed the policy at the last school board meeting. And they were in complete agreement for the trend to continue, but stronger.

The superintendent already has been conferring with the new High School and Junior High principals concerning the efforts to put more study into the schools, less leisure during school hours.

Board members intend to stand firmly behind the policy, believing the majority of parents are for it.

THE INTENTION is not a clamp down, not a closed lid on student activity. Neither is it planned to cram and inflexible study course down the throats of students.

But the aim is to work for a stronger, balanced curriculum for all students—from Junior High through High School—unbending from certain required subjects in math, language, science and others.

There will be more supervision to see that students don't mark off a minimum of required subjects in a year or two, then skim leisurely through their senior year with only a few subjects and time on their hands during regular classroom hours.

FM 2183 Construction In Progress

A new highway construction project is in progress 24 miles southwest of Colorado City that will serve as a tie in from State Highway 163 across to FM 821 near Chalk in Howard County.

The project, FM 2183, will extend a distance of approximately 8.8 miles, according to Ben Wilkinson, supervising resident engineer of the Texas Highway Department in this area.

Construction will consist of grading, structure, base and surfacing. The construction is scheduled to be completed around Dec. 5, 1959 with the exception of the final course of asphalt treatment, which will be deferred until next spring.

Wilkinson explained that traffic will be routed through the construction area and adequate barricades and warning signals will be prominently displayed.

"But motorists should be extremely cautious in passing through the area as it will be heavily traveled by large highway construction equipment."

"Co-operation of the public is requested in obeying all traffic signals, warning signs and speed zones," Wilkinson said.

County Cotton Production May Reach 27,000 Bales

Mitchell County farmers probably will produce more than 25,000 bales of cotton this year, possibly as many as 27,000.

The estimated figure is about 4,000 bales more than were harvested last fall, according to Jack Burkhalter, county agent.

Burkhalter Saturday estimated that the average yield per acre of dry land cotton will be slightly less than that of last year.

However, irrigated land should have a larger yield per acre than last season's crop, he said.

According to last year's figures 21,000 bales of cotton were produced by county farmers from 46,000 planted acres. County gin managers' estimates for the 1959 crop averaged more than 27,000 bales from 61,000 planted acres.

Ginners and their estimates of how many Mitchell County bales their individual gins will process this fall are as follows:

E. W. Haggerton, manager of China Grove Co-op Gin, estimated he will gin 1,500 bales from this county in addition to those from other counties.

Bob Golden, manager of Colorado City's Guitler Gin, estimated he will gin 2,500 bales.

Del Yoakum, manager of Farmers Gin, estimated 1,500 bales.

Ross Hargrove, manager of Producers Co-op Gin, estimated 1,500 bales.

Marcus Vest, manager of Swift and Company Gin, estimated 1,500 bales.

A. L. Young, manager of Planters Gin in Westbrook, estimated 2,500 bales.

Harry G. (Skinny) Hallmark, manager of Guitler Gin in Lorraine, estimated 3,000 bales from Mitchell County in addition to those from other counties.

E. J. Schroeder, manager of Co-Op Gin in Lorraine, estimated 2,500 bales from this county in addition to those from other counties.

Initial bale of cotton for Colorado City was ginned August 21 at Guitler Gin. The bale,

COUNCIL PROJECT

Local Women Plan Fall Migrant Center

Plans are underway for a migrant rest center in Colorado City this fall.

Sponsoring the project is the Colorado City Council of Church Women.

Miss Betty Whitaker of Austin, director of migrant ministry for Texas Council of Church Women, was here recently to assist in planning the project with the local council's social relations committee, headed by Mrs. Don McCoy, and executive officers of the church women's council.

The women discussed possibilities of obtaining a downtown building which would be open Saturday afternoons — providing migrant workers and braceros with entertainment, a place to rest and write letters.

Miss Whitaker reported to the local group material for children's entertainment and educational films concerning health, nutrition, etc., could be sent from the state council office.

Purpose of the migrant ministry project, according to Mrs. McCoy, is to serve men, women and children who are following the crops.

"This program is centered in the Christian faith and seeks to share that faith with the migrant," she said, "and to develop in him a sense of providing migrant workers

ANNELLE HOLMAN'S

Personally Yours

School bells will begin ringing bright and early Monday morning for kiddos in Colorado City ... and in the next couple of weeks the college age group will be leaving home to complete the last lap of the journey of education. I'm sure that mothers and dads stop to think—especially at the beginning of school each fall—about how times have changed since their school days.

Monday's youngsters won't be skipping down a path to the old country three-room schoolhouse where two or three grades meet in the same spacious room ... Nor will they be eating their lunches of sausage, biscuits, and brine pickles, or the like—under a shade tree on the playground.

Even going back only a few years—announcements from the principal's office were carried from room to room—now, public address systems have taken care of that—and televisions were not available for educational programs.

Today's kiddos will be attending classes in air conditioned, modern, newly equipped buildings—with various devices for the convenience of both teachers and students—and such necessities as lunchrooms, water fountains, and a factory made paddle in place of the old hickory limb. Yes, education has advanced with the times—to give today's students modern learning.

Of course, college education is not the struggle that it was years ago either ... with scholarships and today's educational progress, it isn't the select few that attend college, but the majority.

Kids get up to the high school age and then leave home for college where they make new friends ... and certainly find the world's problems bigger than they had ever imagined ...

It is then that they think about the wonderful days back when—the first day of school, struggling with the multiplication table, tiring play at recess, organizing a football team, pep squad, and the like; the big junior high days, and all the other pains and joys of childhood school days ...

Let's Consider Money

...a very fascinating subject

Money is beautiful stuff to look at... not so much, perhaps, because of its artistic design as because the sight of it reminds us of the many pleasing and necessary things it can do for us.

Yet... if we're not careful about how we handle it we

Trade in Colorado City

... where your trade improves your own economy

may thoughtlessly cheat ourselves out of some of the finer things our money can bring us.

Because only a part of each dollar we spend puts actual goods and services into our hands. Whether we like it or not... part of each dollar also goes toward the upbuilding and support of the community in which it is spent... to pay for the schools and churches, the roads and streets, the police and fire protection and other social facilities that make up modern living... and to strengthen that community's economy.

If the area that benefits from our trade is that in which we live, then we get for ourselves all that our hard-earned money pays for... and often many times over... in better business, better jobs, better living among more good and useful neighbors.

The Rodriguez car was traveling west and the Hill car was traveling north when the accident occurred.

Hill and his 14 year old son, David Hill, were taken to Rhode-Cowan Clinic where they were treated for abrasions and lacerations and released.

There was approximately $200 dollars damage to each automobile.

G. R. Brasuel of 2118 Locust Street was admitted to the Root Hospital Wednesday for an injury he received while working for Sun Oil Company.
