Sheriff Fred White Arrests Man After His Actions In Rooming House Aroused Suspicions Saturday

(By The Associated Press)

TUCUMCARI, N. M., March 29. — Alex Street of the department of justice questioned tonight a man whom Sheriff Fred White of Quay county said answered the description of the Mattson kidnap suspect "to the dimple on his chin."

The man, who gave his name as Vern Charlton and his address as Seattle, Wash., was arrested by Sheriff White Saturday night.

Declines To Comment

Street declined to comment on the case, although it was known he conferred with the department of justice in Washington by telephone this morning.

The car, which excited Sheriff White's suspicion, was identified by authorities as a blue Chevrolet coach which had been purchased at Dallas, Texas, a year ago. It carried a 1937 Washington license plate issued January 11.

Sheriff White said Charlton told him he left Tacoma, Wash., January 7.

Investigation showed, White said, that Charlton arrived here eight days ago and took a room in a rooming house.

"During that time," said White, "Charlton left his room only to get his meals. The blinds were constantly drawn.

"When I saw that a flat tire on the machine had been fixed, I went up to investigate. Charlton was all packed and ready to pull out."

Sheriff White said the man fit

Snow Falls On Plains Monday

Warmer Weather Is Forecast For Today; Fall Ranges In Depth From Inch To Five Inches Over Area

Indications late last night bore out predictions of warmer but unsettled weather on the Plains and in the Panhandle today. Although the sky remained cloudy, temperature had risen at midnight to several degrees above the minimum of 28 earlier in the day.

Slight precipitation was recorded at the state experiment substation four miles east of Lubbock when snow fell for several hours Monday afternoon.

"Best Kind Of Snow"

Snow was reported yesterday from Altus, Okla., to Sweetwater and at least from Clovis to east of Crosbyton. "A wet snow, such as this one, is the best kind of a snow," said Don L. Jones of the experiment station in commenting on the moisture welcomed by this section of the agricultural belt.

Ranging in depth from one inch to five inches, the snow will prove a benefit to the entire area, Jones said. The moisture will be comparable to 1-4 to 1-2 inches of rainfall.

Reports Given

Snow as reported by the Santa Fe railroad at its different points was:

Canyon to Tulia, 2 inches; Plainview, 1 1-2; Hale Center, 2; Abernathy, 1 1-4; Lockney, 2; Floydada, 1; Texico, 2; Muleshoe, 1 1-2; Sudan, 1-2; Amherst to Anton, 1; Shallowater, 2 1-2; Levelland, 1-2; Lehman to Bledsoe, 2; Lorenzo, 1-2; Ralls, 2; Crosbyton, 1 1-2; Wilson and O'Donnell, 1-4; Tahoka, 1; Lamesa, light sleet; Slaton, Post and Snyder, 1; and Sweetwater, 1-4.

Ax Handles Brandished In Sooner Senate

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 29. (AP)—Ax handles of a barber shop economy brigade were brandished in the Oklahoma senate today as it debated a $37,000,000 highway building bill before setting it for final vote at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

The Ax Handle Brigade, opposing the bill, distributed to senators and representatives ax handles labeled "Pay as you go! No road bonds," and L. B. Sneed, president, was denounced on the senate floor by Senator Allen G. Nichols, author of the highway anticipation warrant bill.

A number of legislators braved snow to burn the ax handles on the capital lawn.

Franchise Tax Bill Advanced By House Vote

Measure Is Passed To Third Reading Monday After Tie Vote Is Broken By Calvert; Consider Gas Tax Boost

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 29.—The house of representatives passed to third reading today a bill to increase taxes on corporations and then began consideration of one to boost the levy on natural gas.

While thre lower legislative chamber thus was attempting to raise more revenue, the senate approved another tax remission bill, which would turn back to Bexar county for flood control purposes one-half of ad valorem taxes going to the state general fund.

The corporation tax bill would yield, sponsors estimated, $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 additional annually.

Calvert Breaks Tie Vote

The roll call on engrossment was 67 to 67, and Speaker Robert W. Calvert promptly broke the tie with an "aye" vote. The bill may come up for final action later this week.

The new rate would be two per cent of net income or one-twentieth of one per cent of gross assets, whichever was larger. The present levy is six-hundredths of one per cent of gross assets up to $1,000,000 and three-hundredths thereafter.

Proposal Amended Drastically

During the many hours of consideration, the proposal was amended drastically. It originally called for an increase to five per cent of net income or one-tenth of one per cent of gross assets.

An effort to exempt from the levy producers of oil, sulphur and other natural resources paying a production tax was unavailing.

The gas tax bill originally provided for a rate of one-fourth cent per 1,000 cubic feet on each sale, but was amended in committee to one-fourth cent on the first sale.

New Proposals In Strike Presented

LANSING, Mich., March 29. (AP)—Representatives of the Chrysler corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America considered new proposals today for an agreement that would reopen the strike closed Chrysler plants and send approximately 80,000 idle workers back to their benches.

They were proposals which Governor Frank Murphy asserted might provide a formula for settling not only the Chrysler dispute "but the whole labor situation in Michigan," and "most of the difficulties in the motor industry."

At least half a dozen different forms of agreement already are understood to have been presented to the opposing sides, but all have failed of acceptance.

Governor Murphy, in whose offices the conferences have been held, has said that a "very few words" separate the two sides. These words have to do with the degree of recognition.

Poet Cop

Deals Out Odes And Parking Evils End

WATERBURY, Conn., March 29. (AP)—A rhyme instead of a tag is Traffic Officer John Donahue's method.

It has won praise from his superiors and the nickname "Jingles" from his friends.

One driver found this on a piece of note paper tucked under the windshield wiper of his car:

"Next to a hydrant,
Too far from the curb.
Next time a tag
Instead of a blurb."

It was signed "Donahue, cop."

JOHN 'JINGLE' DONAHUE

Other samples of the patrolman's versatility include:

"My dear fellow
Didn't you see yellow
Painted on curb?
Next time a ticket."

"You own the building but not the street.
Park here no more.
A ticket awaits and that's no treat."

Superintendent William J. Roach is pleased with Officer Donahue's work in the month "Jingles has been on the parking assignment. He pointed out that the police were anxious to make friends, not money.

The only thing worrying "Jingles" is how long he'll have to buy his note paper. He uses two pads a day.

Downtown Waterbury streets have shown a marked improvement from the parker's point of view since the blurb-writer took hold.

THE case of Burns Kittrell will be presented to a federal grand jury of the northern district of Texas this morning at Wichita Falls, according to information to the Morning Avalanche over Associated Press leased wire from there and quoting District Attorney Clyde O. Eastus.

"The Dream Of A Clown" Proves To Be "A Scream"

THAT Lubbock bankers, doctors, lawyers and other men of serious endeavors can dance and sing and act was proved Monday night in the presence of an appreciative audience of eight or nine hundred persons who saw "The Dream of a Clown" at Senior high school auditorium.

The performance, a well-received musical revue staged by a cast of 80 men colorfully clad in male and female regalia, was climaxed with a gigantic wedding of Miss Mehitable McCarty and Mr. O. U. Zzeemark.

Identity of the bridegroom was kept a secret, even from the remainder of the cast, until the time of his entrance on the stage. He was Dr. J. T. Hutchinson.

The review consisted of three acts, the first consisting of the entrance of the clown, Joe Bowman, who won the audience admirably with acrobatic contortions and, finally, said his prayers and went to sleep to dream the other two acts.

Act II, in eight comic scenes, included a song, wisecracks and dance by Dr. M. H. Benson as "a lady," Charles Chapin; a ballet of "six dainty girls (Dr. C. C. Craig, Judge

Court's Position Reversed Monday On Labor Ruling

Right Of States To Prescribe Women Wages Upheld

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 29—The Supreme court changed its position on a fundamental issue today and, by a five to four decision, upheld the right of the states to prescribe minimum wages for women.

Its verdict, long awaited, injected a new element into the turbulent debate over the president's plan to increase the size of the tribunal unless the older justices retire, the potentialities of which could not be measured tonight.

Enhances Tension

Coming at a time when the senate was engaged in a heated debate over that very issue, the court's decision served only to enhance the tension and apparently stiffen the determination of both sides of the controversy.

Fourteen years ago the Supreme court invalidated a District of Columbia minimum wage law for women. Less than a year ago, the court, by a five to four decision, declared New York's law unconstitutional. Today, it sustained a similar statute from the state of Washington.

Justice Roberts Changes

Associate Justice Roberts, long recognized as a balance of power on the court, voted against the New York law last year and for the Washington statute today.

In his latter action, he left the court's "conservative" bloc of McReynolds, Sutherland, Van Devanter and Butler. For them Associate Justice Sutherland read an indignant dissent, obviously aimed directly at the proponents of the president's bill.

"If the Constitution, intelligently and reasonably construed . . . stands in the way of desirable legislation, the blame must rest upon that instrument, and not upon the court for enforcing it according to its terms," said Sutherland. "The remedy in that situation—and the only true remedy—is to amend the Constitution."

In addition to the minimum wage decision, the court upheld, unanimously, the new Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act—reenacted to accord with a prior decision declaring its forerunner unconstitutional—and, also unanimously, sustained the Railroad Labor act, intended to bulwark collective bargaining on the railroads.

Redistricting Act Favorably Voted

AUSTIN, March 29. (AP)—A bill redistricting the house of representatives on the basis of the 1930 census received a favorable report today from the house legislative districts committee.

The bill was drafted by a subcommittee. If enacted, it would be the first legislative redistricting in 14 years.

According to the proposed change, Lubbock county alone would compose the 112th district. At present Lubbock, Crosby, Hockley, Cochran, Lynn, Terry, Yoakum, Dawson and Gaines counties make up district 119.

DISAPPROVE PLAN

AUSTIN, March 29, (AP)—The senate committee today disapproved a proposal to substitute a one-house legislature for the present bicameral form. Senator G. H. Nelson of Lubbock, who said the unicameral legislature would provide a less expensive form of government and simplify procedure in formulating laws, gave notice of minority report.

Other proposed changes affecting South Plains counties are: district 110—Dickens, Motley, Crosby, Kent, Garza and King; district 111—Terry, Lynn, Gaines, Dawson, Martin, Andrews and Borden; 113—Bailey, Lamb, Cochran, Hockley and Yoakum; and 114—Hale, Floyd and Swisher.

According to the present setup Bailey, Parmer, Castro, Lamb, Hale, Briscoe, Floyd and Swisher compose the 120th district. Dickens, Stonewall, Kent, Scurry, Borden and Garza counties are in district 118; and Motley, Cottle, Hall and Childress make up the 121st district.

MORE DEATHS REPORTED

CHICAGO, March 29. (AP) — The National Safety council reported today an increase in traffic deaths accompanied mild wint er weather during the first two months of 1937.

It was estimated 5,500 persons had died as a result of motor vehicle accidents in January and February —a gain of 1,050 over the same 1936 period.

Government "Pleading With Mobocracy Instead Of Mastering It," He Declares In Citing Period Of Peril

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 29. — Senator Glass (D-Va) declared tonight that President Roosevelt's court legislation is an "abominable" attempt to replace representative government with an autocracy.

In his first major radio address since he urged Mr. Roosevelt's election in 1932, Glass said:

"No threat to representative democracy since the foundation of the republic has exceeded in its evil portents this attempt to pack the Supreme court of the United States and thus destroy the purity and independence of this tribunal of last resort."

No Loyality Question

The 79-year-old Democrat, who was secretary of the treasury under Woodrow Wilson, contended no question of party loyality is involved.

"The talk about 'party loyality' being involved in the opposition to this extraordinary scheme is a familiar species of coercion," he continued. "It is sheer poppy-cock. No political party since the establishment of the government ever dared make an issue of packing the Supreme court."

The proposal to reorganize the high tribunal was not mentioned by the administration in the campaign last fall, Glass declared, adding:

No Mandate From People

"We know there has been no mandate from the people to rape the Supreme court or to tamper with the Constitution."

He said the proposed reorganization is exactly what Woodrow Wilson once called "an outrage upon constitutional morality."

Mr. Roosevelt himself, Glass asserted, warned in a speech made in 1930 that centralization of all authority and control in the national government was an essential to bringing about "government by oligarchy masquerading as democracy."

"When before, may I venture to ask, in the history of the country has this nation more nearly approached the situation thus deplored?" Glass demanded.

"With federal regulatory bodies

Proposal To Abolish Appeals Courts Voted Out Favorably

AUSTIN, March 29. (AP)—A proposal to abolish the state's 11 courts of civil appeals tonight received favorable recommendation, 8 to 4, of the house committee on constitutional amendments.

Rep. Penrose B. Metcalfe of San Angelo, author of the amendment which also provided for increasing the Supreme court to nine members from its present three, said the plan would save the state approximately $300,000 a year in judges' salaries and speed up decisions.

THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW

THE snow, which is sure to be a benefit to wheat farmers, has more in its favor than against its late appearance. You see it: gave one-year-old kiddies an opportunity to see their first snow; held off until Monday to give participants in the Easter parade an opportunity to show off their spring finery; came following a freeze so one can't blame it for freezing the fruit blossoms; in all probability will wind up the winter weather.

ONE of the most generous gestures made during the Easter season was the gift of the local branch of the Junior Red Cross of 79 dozen Easter eggs to aid in the local Boy Scouts drive, to the orphanage at Corsicana and to Mrs. Milam's Opportunity Home. Mrs. Guy L. Trow, principal of Dupre school, directs the Junior Red Cross here. Pupils from Dupre, George Hunt and Sanders school donated the eggs, dyed and ready to be hid for the youngsters.

ON DICTATING IDEAS

THE late Arthur Brisbane was probably the fastest editorial writer in the newspaper business. He didn't really write—he dictated into a machine. He said he composed his daily column, called "Today," in twenty minutes or half an hour.

He was so accustomed to routine dictating that it was difficult for him to make an ordinary speech. Once he was addressing a group of professors, in Chicago, and he noticed that they were looking at him queerly. Absent-mindedly, he had forgotten his audience and had relapsed into dictation, even to punctuation.

The essence of success, he said, was the ability to translate thought into action. Ideas are of no value unless you do something about them.

CLEVER YOUNG BRIDE

JULIAN STREET, the writer tells about a young American artist and his wife who spent the first year of their marriage in Paris. This was many years ago and, for that day, both held advanced ideas about the rights of husbands and wives. They agreed that neither was to interfere or question the private goings and comings of the other.

Shortly after they were settled in an apartment, the wife announced that she intended to attend a concert. The husband left for the gay cafes of Montmarie, whence he returned as dawn was breaking. On two succeeding nights the husband continued to explore Parisian night-life while the wife remained alone at home.

On the fourth night she was also home alone, where she waited patiently until midnight. Then she put on her best frock and her evening cape and sat in a dark room where she could watch the front door. When the belated husband appeared at the entrance, she darted into the hallway and climbed the stairs to another floor where she waited until he was adequately provoked by her absence. Then she breezed into her own apartment, greeted him pleasantly but confessing nothing.

Although raging with jealousy and suspicion, he held his tongue. That was the last time he did any prowling on his own. The wife kept the secret for 27 years. In fact, not until Mr. Street wrote for permission to use the story did she confess to her husband that she had made him the victim of a practical joke.

CONSTIPATION IS A MISERABLE THING!

It takes the pep right out of you — makes you feel tired and irritable — ready to worry over the slightest thing.

Yet it can be corrected in most cases so easily. Common constipation is usually caused by lack of "bulk" in the foods you eat.

Millions of people have learned that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN ends constipation by putting "bulk" back in the diet. Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass and gently sponging out the system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B to tone the intestines and iron for the blood.

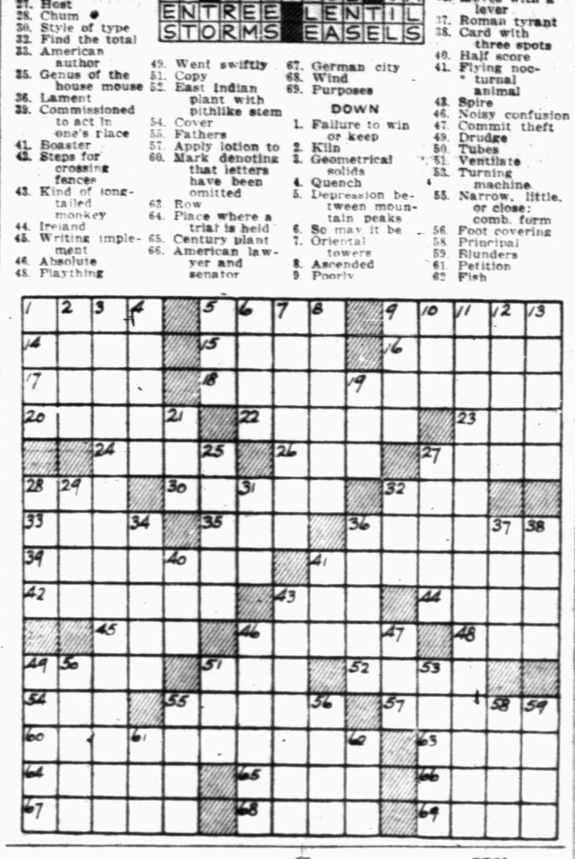

Two tablespoonfuls daily as a cereal with milk or cream, or in recipes, are sufficient. Three times daily in severe cases.

Sold at all grocers — and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Adv.

Government Wins In Norris Case

WASHINGTON, March 29. (AP)—The government won today in the Supreme court in its effort to punish George W. Norris, Broken Bow, Neb., grocer for perjury growing out of his 1930 primary campaign against the veteran Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska.

In a unanimous decision delivered by Justice Roberts the tribunal reversed a ruling by the eighth circuit court of appeals ordering a new trial to determine whether the grocer had purged himself of false testimony.

The Nebraska federal district court had sentenced him to jail for three months and fined him $100.

Testimony by the grocer before a senate investigating committee headed by Senator Nye (R-ND) produced the litigation. The government contended the grocer first said he had received no money from opponents of Senator Norris and later changed his testimony after other witnesses had given contrary statements. Counsel for the grocer argued that this purged him of any offense.

She is the divorced wife of William Randolph Hearst, jr.

Cann, who surrendered Saturday, told officers he was her house guest when the robbery took place.

County Funds In Bad Shape

Senate Hears Statement On Road And Bridge Funds In Debate On Registration Of Motor Vehicles

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 29.—The senate heard statements today that the road and bridge funds of many Texas counties were in a desperate condition.

The statements were made during debate on whether a bill authorizing corporations to register motor vehicles in any county in which they operate, instead of in the county of their home office, should be introduced.

For the first time at this session, the senate declined to suspend its rules to permit the introduction, for which a four-fifths vote was necessary. The vote was 20 to 7.

"The road and bridge funds of many counties are in desperate straits," said Senator Grady Woodruff of Decatur.

Olan Van Zandt of Tioga, author of the bill, made similar declarations, saying all counties, except possibly the larger ones, were in great need of money to apply on lateral roads.

The issue was quickened after the highway department recently warned companies they must register vehicles in the counties where the home offices were located.

Rush On For License Tags

Just Three Days Remain For Obtaining 1937 Licenses And More Than 2,500 To Go; Office Prepared

Personnel of the county assessor-collector's office looked forward to the arrival of April 2 with all the eagerness of a youngster waiting his first circus as they labored into dusk last night to handle the final rush of automobile license payments.

Just three days remain during which license fees may be paid to escape the 20 per cent penalty which goes into effect at midnight on April 1. Then the workers can coast a bit.

Overtime Hours In Effect

Overtime hours for the issuance of the plates were put into effect yesterday by Hurley Carpenter, assessor-collector, and his staff completed an exhausting day with the doleful knowledge that the worst is yet to come. Today and Wednesday, the office is to remain open until about 6 or 6:30 p. m.—as long as anyone remains wanting a license plate. Then, on Thursday night April 1—the workers will be engaged in issuing license plates until midnight. The intervening hours from that time until along toward dawn will be devoted to the preliminary checking work which cannot be delayed.

The rush was heavy yesterday, a total of approximately 750 passenger automobile licenses having been issued during the day, according to preliminary tabulations by Chief Deputy Collector H. B. Bryan last night. In addition, plates were issued for 187 commercial vehicles and 67 farm commercials.

Approximately 5,000 Purchased

Reports on yesterday's receipts at the temporary branch offices in Idalou and Slaton were not made last night, but excluding those comparatively small numbers, the totals of licenses issued in the county at closing time last night accounted for approximately 5000 passenger car licenses, 1000 commercials and 250 farm commercials.

That means that approximately 2500 more passenger car plates, 500 more commercials and perhaps 100 farm commercials will be called for during the remaining three days. The 7500 passenger licenses, representing the anticipated total this year, compares with a final total of 7300 last year, Bryan said.

While employes of the assessor-collector's department expect the last day to be biggest of all, they suggested yesterday that the automobile owner will serve his own convenience by obtaining the auto tags with as little delay as possible.

Irvin Funeral Set For Today

Son Of Former Lamb Sheriff Is Killed In Accident On Highway Near Carlsbad, N. M., Late Sunday

(Special To The Avalanche)

LITTLEFIELD, March 29.—The endeavor to serve a friend was blamed by the father tonight for the automobile accident near Carlsbad, N. M., late yesterday in which Driskill Reins Irvin, 26, widely known west Texas and New Mexico former peace officer, was fatally injured.

R. E. "Bobby" Walling, 30, fellow worker of Irvin with a potash company at Carlsbad, was the friend young Irvin was attempting to serve, according to reports of the accident made last night by Len Irvin, for many years sheriff but more recently a farmer of near Olton.

Companion Injured

Walling also was injured in the crash which reduced the automobile, driven and owned by Irvin, to splintered fragments. Walling was taken to a sanitarium at Carlsbad, and the last information was that his condition was not thought to be serious.

Funeral services for young Irvin have been set for 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Baptist church at Olton, and it is the desire of the father that Rev. G. O. Dean, formerly of Olton and a long-time friend of the family, officiate at the services.

"I have been trying to locate Mr. Dean, but thus far have been unsuccessful," Irivn said. "Please say in the Morning Avalanche that I shall appreciate him contacting me if I have fail to reach him."

According to informants quoted by the former sheriff, who investigated the accident at Carlsbad, young Irvin had driven to Hobbs, N. M., with Walling, who was anxious to make the trip on an urgent personal mission. They were returning and were about six miles east of Carlsbad when a tire blew out. The automobile overturned not fewer than five times, demolishing it almost completely. Irvin received terrifying head and internal injuries. In spite of the fact that a physician chanced to be trailing the Irvin car closely, and thus the injured man received immediate professional treatment, he died soon after.

Young Irvin entered upon law enforcement work soon after leaving Littlefield High school, where he played football and other athletics. His service included a year as a Texas ranger, about the same length of time as night jailer at Longview, and about a year as night chief of police as Hobbs, N. M. He entered private employment about seven months ago.

Surviving, additional to his father and monther, and his widow; one sister, Miss Maurine Irvin of Olton; and a brother, Billy Irvin, who makes his home with his parents.

Tech Classes To Be Resumed Today

Greeted by slush and mud left after a two-inch blanket of snow, Texas Technological college students and faculty members from all sections of the country return to the campus for 8 o'clock classes this morning after spending Easter holidays away from Lubbock.

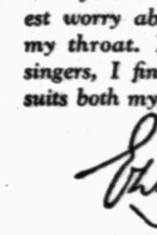

Having been released from classes from Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock until this morning, students and faculty members took advantage of the long holiday session to visit relatives and friends. The 4-day period, longer than usual, enabled those living at distant points to visit their parents.

Buses, trains and private automobiles coming into Lubbock yesterday were loaded to capacity. "Hitch-hiking" students dotted the highways but were not so numerous because of the unforeseen visit of snow.

Lubbock public school students resumed classwork Monday morning, having been allowed Good Friday as a holiday.

It was a red letter day for Jim "Doc" Woodard, known throughout the state of Texas as a maker of cowboy boots, when he ordered his first bottle of WILLIAMS S. L. K. FORMULA. He had a real surprise at the quick results from using it. He says:

"I was bothered with my sluggish stomach, kidneys and liver for years, finally getting so bad that I was unable to work. After being laid up for two months I heard of WILLIAMS S. L. K. and sent for a bottle. In only three days time it helped me so much that I was able to go back to work. My rest is no longer broken into at night because of my kidneys and eat almost anything I want without causing bloating and pains. I was certainly surprised at the quick results I got from S. L. K. JIM WOODARD, 914 Main St., Lubbock, Texas.

Fully Guaranteed

If you are troubled as Mr. Woodard was, get WILLIAMS S. L. K. FORMULA at once at John Halsey Drug company. If you are not entirely satisfied with your first bottle of WILLIAMS S. L. K. FORMULA, your money will be refunded. It must help you or it will cost you nothing. (Adv.)

"Luckies suit both my taste and my throat"

"For eleven years now I have been enjoying Luckies in this country. As I write this, I am in my dressing room at the Metropolitan Opera. I have just completed a performance of 'Le Coq d'Or'. The Lucky I am smoking is one of the rewards of victory! And I don't feel the slightest worry about smoking affecting my throat. For, like other opera singers, I find that a light smoke suits both my taste and my throat."

FAMOUS BASSO OF METROPOLITAN OPERA CO.

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Pinza verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

Laffoon Equals Course Record As Golf Stars Warm Up For Masters' Tourney

Ky Shoots 65 To Tie Jones' Augusta Mark

Lawson Little Close Behind In Practice Round With 67 As Cream Of Golfing Crop Gets Ready For Joust

(By The Associated Press)

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 29.—Ky Laffoon, veteran Chicago shot maker, equalled Bobby Jones' course record today by firing a seven-under-par 65 as outstanding links stars played their second warmup rounds preparatory to the fourth annual $5,000 Augusta national "masters" tournament.

Opening his phenomenal exhibition with an average of three for the first eight holes, Laffoon took a disastrous two-over-par six on the ninth for a 30, one over the record 29 scored last year by Bobby Cruickshank of Richmond, Va.

The Windy City professional, coming in with a one-under 35, beat by two strokes the 67 scored by Lawson Little of San Francisco, who turned in the best performance he has ever posted for the National course.

Laffoon's sensational warm-up drew attention in a field that includes most of the county's top-notch golfers—among them Bobby Jones. The tournament gets under way Thursday.

Light Heavies To Clash Here

Tug Wilson Meets Roy Welch In Special Event; Ladies Coming Back For A Repeat Act; Yaqui Meets Fenton

For the first time since professional wrestling took a foothold here, Promoter Sled Allen is going out of the usual middleweight class and offering a special match between light heavies this week.

There is also a "lightweight" match, a return appearance of the feminine grapplers who attracted nearly 2,300 cash customers to the hall last week. They are Mildred Burke, women's lightweight champion of the world, and Betty Lee, perhaps the champion's most capable challenger.

The light heavyweights are Roy Welch of Nashville and Tug Wilson of Chattanooga. Both fought here last week, Welch meeting George Bennett, popular middleweight, and Wilson, then billed as Young Sampson of Borger, taking on Yaqui Joe in another over-the-weight bout.

Wilson, an accomplished grappler of nation-wide popularity, earned the "Young Sampson" sobriquet while doing "strong man" acts for a circus that operated in West Texas some years ago. He stuck to the name in later appearances as a grappler in the Panhandle section, but admitted last Wednesday night under questioning that he is the Tug Wilson of wrestling fame. A former middleweight, Wilson now tips the beam at about 180, which makes a light heavyweight out of him. Welch also used to wrestle around here as a middleweight, but has added too much weight to stay in the division.

Mildred Burke, the woman champion, and Betty Lee, from Tampa, Fla., meet in another two-out-of-three-falls match, with a time limit. They fought to a draw last week, each winning a fall, the third one using up the time limit. Because their performance was missed by a lot of fans who wanted to see them last week, and because numerous fans present suggested a return, Promoter Allen is bringing them back.

The gals go on just before the main event in which Rod Fenton, the villain from Canada, meets Yaqui Joe in the main event.

The curtain raiser pits George Bennett against Nick Bozinis.

BROWNS GO INDOORS

SAN ANTONIO, March 29. (AP)—The St. Louis Browns' regulars were forced indoors today by rain and cold weather.

A squad that lost two games to Minneapolis here while under Jim Bottomley's direction, will probably be absorbed, at least in part, by the first stringers when they take the road again tomorrow for Seguin to meet the Tulsa Oilers.

A squad game has been ordered for tomorrow, and Sunday the Bucs will start a stretch of four straight exhibition games.

Tech Faculty In Qualifying Round

Golf playing members of the Texas Tech faculty, their annual tournament interrupted by a break in the weather, are urged to continue their qualifying rounds and be prepared for match play as soon as weather permits.

W. F. Helwig, faculty member in charge of tournament plans, said last night that five or six already had qualified, and that the balance of this week would be allowed for completion of medal rounds.

The tournament is being held at Meadowbrook Golf club.

Heretofore, the tournament has been conducted in the fall of the year, but due to growing interest it was decided to hold it earlier this year, Helwig said.

All faculty members are eligible to compete, and a large turnout is anticipated.

Walter Went Away Too Far And Stayed Too Long; Mrs. Hagen Is Granted Divorce

TRENTON, N. J., March 29. (AP)—Mrs. Edna C. Hagen of Deal was granted a divorce today from Walter Hagen, noted golf professional, on grounds of desertion.

The degree, due to become absolute within three months, was issued March 22 on the recommendation of Advisory Master Francis Child. Conclusions filed today by the advisory master upheld Mrs. Hagen's contention that the Detroit links star deserted her in March, 1926, while they were wintering in Florida.

They were married in New York April 30, 1923.

Boyishness, Background And Build-Up Bring Fame To Feller . . . British Fight Solons Not Anxious For Visit By Joe

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, March 29. (AP)—If Cleveland's fabulous Bob Feller burns up American League with his fireball this season, as he seems quite likely to do, you can write your own ticket on what he will be worth in box-office cash . . . combination of ability, plus "three b's"—boyishness, background and build-up—is answer to Feller's fame . . . Yankee Colonel, Jacob Ruppert, said last winter Feller figured to be worth $200,000 and that may not be all . . .

Pennsylvania's Rutsy Callow tells his old U. of Washington pals that Columbia and Harvard are crews to watch in East this year. . . Only thing easy trying to pick college basketball all-stars this year would be to start with Stanford's Hank Luisetti, rated an all-time great, on any man's court . . . Stanford coach, John Bunn, now on preferred list for post of athletic director at U. of Kansas, vacted by Phog Allen.

Medwick, The Golfer

Besides indications now that Louis-Braddock fight slated for Chicago will be outlawed, it develops British solons frown on summer visit by Brown Bomber, ostensibly to bomb Max Baer again . . . Mike Jacobs has staked Braddock to more advance money then Garden, which specifies champion's cuff account exceeds $15,000. . . .

Ducky Medwick, Cards' cleanup clouter, shoots in low 70's at golf . . . Paul Dean's failure to show much evidence of 1935 pitching form has Cardinal's board of "strategy worried more than team's failure to hit thus far in grapefruit circuit . . . Jimmy Wilson, Phillies' pilot, says Giants' followers can quit worrying about Lou Chiozza's ability to play third base . . . that, says Jimmy, is Memphis Italian's natural spot . . . Wilson thinks it's one of reasons New York will repeat this year in N. L. race.

Tech Intramural Golf Tourney To Begin Saturday

Tech's intramural golf championship play officially gets under way on Meadowbrook course Saturday when approximately 64 students tee off for the qualifying round. Qualifying continues through Sunday and Monday.

Championship flight winner receives a loving cup. Panny Farmer of Knox City annexed the trophy last year. He defeated James Elder in the finals. Neither's name appears on the list this year.

Medalist receives a prize. An award for winners of each flight and consolation flight as well as runners-up in the same has been posted.

The first round begins Tuesday, continuing through Wednesday, pairings will be made and announced Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The second round will be held Thursday and Friday culminating in semi-final and final matches Saturday and Sunday respectively.

Those who have no membership can play all week on the $1 entrance fee. Club members who enter the meet, will be assessed the fee also. Qualifiers are urged to post their score by 5 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The names of Manson Allen, Red Doherty, Donald Doherty, and Rufus Ryan appear on the list this year with those of many more hopefuls. Ryan took medalist honors last year.

G. H. Tosh, course manager, says all Tech students are eligible to enter and urges them to post qualifying scores early. Last year, four flights of 16 each entered and hopes are held for at least that many this year, he says.

Giants To Bid High If Tom Henrich Becomes Free Agent

GULFPORT, Miss., March 2. (AP)—Despite the presence of such accomplished gardepers as Mel Ott, Hank Leiber, and Jo-Jo Moore on his team, Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants is prepared to bid $20,000 for the signature of Tom Henrich, Milwaukee outfielder, who has asked Judge Landis to release him from his Cleveland contract.

Landis will confer with Cleveland officials in New Orleans tomorrow and if Henrich is made a free agent there is sure to be spirited bidding for his services.

The Giants after a week-end trip to Jackson and Vicksburg, Miss., were given the day off today by Terry.

Grant Breezes Through First Tourney Play

Mighty Mite, With Riggs And Other Favorites, Continue In Atlanta Invitation Today; Beats College Star

ATLANTA, March 29. (AP)—Bryan Grant, Bobby Riggs and the other favorites in the Atlanta invitation tennis tournament breezed through the first round with little difficulty today.

There wasn't an upset in the 16 matches played.

The mighty little Grant blasted Burtz Boulware, Georgia Tech student from Florida, 6-0, 6-2, and will square off tomorrow against Vernon Marcum, Lakeland, Fla., who tripped up Glenn McConnel, Atlanta, 6-1, 6-2.

Riggs Beats Dudley

Riggs, a co-favorite with Grant, toppled Dr. Glenn Dudley, Atlanta, 6-0, 6-3. The little Californian, National clay courts champion, is matched tomorrow with Malon Courts, Atlantic City, who beat George Silva of Georgia Tech, 6-3, 6-3 today.

Joe Hunt, Los Angeles, seeded third in the tournament behind Grant and Riggs, eliminated Reg Fleet, Atlanta 6-0, 6-2. His opponent tomorrow is Robert Decker, Miami, conqueror today of Alison Adams, Atlanta, 6-2, 9-7.

Walter Senior, San Francisco, another of the higher rated players in the tournament, took Bill More, Georgia Tech, 6-4, 8-6 and will come up against Hank Crawford, an Atlantan who beat Aaron Cohn of the University of Georgia, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Bitsy Too Busy To Play Against Japs

ATLANTA, Ga., March 29. (AP)—Down the sports trail and into the land of peaches for a candid interview with Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, Atlanta's mighty atom of tennis:

Q. "Bitsy, you are a puzzle to everyone. After yelling your head off for a chance on the Davis Cup team, you turn right around and reject an offer to play against the Japanese team in the zone play at San Francisco."

A. "Gosh, man, I've got to work for a living. Sell insurance, you know, and can't get away as much as I want to. But the real reason I didn't accept was because they don't need me against the Japanese. Don Budge and the rest of the fellows out in California can tie one hand behind their backs and lick those guys."

Q. "Who do you guess will play on the Davis Cup this year?"

A. "Budge, Gene Mako, Bobby Riggs, Frank Parker—and myself, I hope."

Q. "Have we got a chance this year?"

A. "Australia is sure to be the big stumbling block, but I think we should win the Cup back."

Mike Cvengros Due To Start On Mound Against New York

HOUSTON, March 29. (AP)—Old Mike Cvengros, who pitched in the American league before any of the present-day New York Yankees had experienced any major league action, is slated to start on mound for the Buffs against Joe McCarthy's world champions here Sunday afternoon.

The little lefthander flipped 'em for the Chicago White Sox in the early 20's before such veteran Yankee players as Tony Lazzeri, Charley Ruffing, Lou Gehrig and Pat Malone had even 'gone up'.

The Houston club, reduced to 33 players Monday by outright releases handed Ed Dancisak, outfielder, and Clarence Hans, southpaw pitcher, again were kept indoors by rain and cold.

Reds And Dodgers Brewing Up A Feud

By CHARLES GRUMICH
AP Feature Service Writer

TAMPA, March 29.—The Cincinnati Reds are setting themselves up as the bad boys of the National league with malice aforethought—and on the pattern mapped out by the St. Louis Cardinals.

It may be merely a transplantation of the "Cardinal idea" in the Cincinnati club that has been supplied with talent from St. Louis. But the Reds fear not the Brooklyns or the Giants or the Cards or any ball club wearing the same kind of razor-edged spikes the Reds are throwing along the basepaths with dangerous abandon.

The Reds have been accused of being a "little St. Louis Cardinal outfit," what with the new General Manager Warren Giles coming rom the Cards' Rochester farm club and Catcher Virgil Davis, Pitcher Bill Hallahan and Infielder Charley Gelbert coming to the Reds from the St. Louis varsity.

The Well-Behaved Cards

NOW, these gentlemen always were regarded as being among the more docile members of the Gas-House gang, the modest young men who left the rowdy stuff to such guys as Pepper Martin, Durocher, Dean and Ducky Wucky Medwick.

So you can't be blaming them for the new life that promises to attach a lot of gate-appeal to Manager Chuck Dressen's Rhinelanders. Dressen and the youngsters battling for jobs are responsible.

Already the Reds have brewed a feud with Brooklyns and harsh words about bean balls and spiking have been uttered by surly Burleigh Grimes to Dressen . . . his feud promises to surpass in gate-appeal the notorious one waged by the Dodgers and the Giants.

The New York-Brooklyn thing appears to be passe, because Grimes and Giant Skipper Bill Terry, both great admirers and one-time proteges of John McGraw, have a wholesome respect for each other. The interborough battling won't cease, but it'll be all baseball with no extra-curricular punching and suspensions.

What Might Have Been

THE Cincinnati manager, on the serious side, regrets that he didn't have this year's set of Redlegs in the pennant race last year when the Giants took advantage of collapses on the part of the Cubs, Cards and Pirates and "lost their way" into the N. L. championship. He points out that when the Giants were in fifth place in midseason, the Reds were fourth—and only a whoop and a couple of hollers out of first. . . . .

Accusing the CINCINNATI SKIPPER of ordering roughing in exhibitions.

Braddock Goes To New Jersey Court Monday

Champ Accepts Service Of N. J. Court Order And Will Reply To Garden's Charge, Which Says Contract Repudiated

NEWARK, N. J., March 29. (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Jimmy Braddock today agreed to explain in federal court here next Monday why he should fight Joe Louis in Chicago June 22 instead of first meeting Max Schmeling in New York, June 3.

The champion had been dodging Madison Square Garden's process servers.

The order was served by United States Marshal William P. McDermitt.

Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, insisted today's action was just a re-run of last Saturday's when service was reported made.

Restraint Is Asked

The Garden asked that the champion "be restrained and enjoined by injunction from entering into any major fight or into any contest with Joe Louis June 22 or any other time unless and until the defendant shall have fulfilled his contract to meet Schmeling."

The Garden attorneys said in the court order that Braddock had been advanced $15,276.07. They charged the champion and his handlers with stating they were repudiating the Schmeling contract because they could get more money for fighting Louis.

The Garden pointed out it cannot sell tickets when it does not have the assurance that Braddock will appear, and claimed that the failure of the champion to keep his contract would "cause damage and injury which cannot be estimated by law."

Grey Count Becomes Popular After Taking Louisiana Race

NEW ORLEANS, March 29. (AP)—Grey Count, winner of the $10,000 added Louisiana derby, was praised today as one of the country's better three year olds.

Brought here from California by Trainer Tony Pelleteri of the Millsdale stable the colt tied the Fair Grounds track record of 1:50 4-5 in the mile and an eighth Louisiana classic which ended the 113-day racing season yesterday.

Glenna Collett Vare Wins Medal In North-South Tilt

PINEHURST, N. C., March 29. (AP)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, of Philadelphia, si times the National champion, won the qualifying medal in the annual North and South golf tourney for women today with a par-cracking 72.

Her score equalled the record for the 6,119-yard No. 3 course, which was set recently by Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Chapel Hill, N. C. Mrs. Page turned in a 74 today to share third place with Deborah Verry, of Worcester, Mass., the defending title-holder, and Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C.

Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., was runner-up with a par 73.

The 16 low scorers will enter match play with an 18-hole round tomorrow.

Meat Show Sidelights

GOOD CROWD PRESENT

The livestock pavilion at the fair grounds was the center of a record crowd of 4-H club and vocational agriculture boys Monday. In spite of the cold weather the boys were on hand for the show, visiting with groups from other communities and exchanging shop talk about livestock feeding. Several fires were kept going during the day and the crowd around the blazes changed frequently.

CURED MEAT IN JARS

Fred Kveton, Abernathy farmer, whose cured meat work has been outstanding in recent years, has a quart jar of cured ham which he is displaying. Fred has kept his cured bacon in jars and on several occasions has kept his ham that way. He likes the method better than the other, for personal use.

FRED ELLIOTT HERE

A Lubbock county boy, Texas Tech graduate, former county agent secretary here, is back for the show. He hasn't missed one since the first one back in 1927. He is Fred Elliott, now assistant agent at Seguin, and formerly of Muleshoe. Fred said a week ago Saturday at Luling he judged a calf show, in his shirt sleeves. He likes the south part of the state.

YOUNG POUNDS ATTENDS

Another Lubbock county boy who is making good is Davis Pounds, son of Douglas Pounds of Acuff. Davis is assistant county agent at Amherst and was formerly at Levelland. Also a Tech graduate, he taught school before going into the service. Davis is a chip off the old block, his father being one of the best hog men in Northwest Texas and Davis is equally as good as his dad. Davis has competed as exhibitor in South Plains fairs since he was a kid and his father has been swine superintendent so long that the records are worn out.

TO QUIT TEACHING

C. B. Middleton, Spur vocational teacher, who has decided to quit the teaching game for something better, came up Monday with a bunch of boys from Spur. He plans to go to a stock raising section, probably Missouri, he said yesterday.

TAYLOR IS VISITOR

W. C. Taylor, Muleshoe, former Garza county agent, came down for the show. He likes Bailey county he says and reports conditions in the county are good this year.

CROSBY CHECKS ARRIVE

Crosby county has had over 1,100 soil conservation checks from the 1936 work and they amount to $196,000, Ralph Howe, county agent, reports. A new batch came in Saturday. The county will receive between $50,000 and $60,000 more, he added. The snow of Monday morning was a good thing for the wheat in the county, Mr. Howe added.

JIM POTTS ON HAND

Jim Potts, who was one of Lubbock county's star 4-H club boys, later a club leader, later a Tech student and then a county agent, is up from Post, where he is Garza county agent. Jim went into the service after graduation from Tech, down in Stonewall county. He got a chance at a scholarship in Washington, with the department of agriculture, took it and then returend as assistant in Deaf Smith county. Recently he was promoted to county agent at Post. "I've got George Samson as range supervisor, Jay Slaughter on the county committee and Giles Connell as the banker," he commented.

COUNTY LOOKING GOOD

V. F. Jones, Tahoka, says Lynn county is looking good. He has been a regular attendant at fairs and shows here since he came to Lynn county some four years ago. Club work in the county is making good progress. Farm conditions are good and prospects indicate a good crop year.

More Than 1,000 Boys Hunt Eggs

More than 1,000 Boy Scouts of the South Plains council participated in Easter egg hunts in each of the eight districts Sunday, Earl M. McClure, scout executive, said Monday. Reports indicated the largest participation on record, likely resulting from district hunts rather than one for the entire area as in former years.

The largest of the hunts was at City park, Lubbock, for the southwest, southeast and southern districts. McClure said that more than the expected 300 boys were on hand. Other hunts were at Littlefield for the northwest district; Silverton for the northern district; Matador for the northeastern district; and Crosbyton for the eastern.

Approximately 3,000 eggs were used in the hunt, McClure said.

Mullins Funeral Held Here Sunday

Body of George B. (Shorty) Mullins, who for 20 years had been associated with Griffith Amusement company interests in South Plains towns, was buried in Lubbock cemetery following services Sunday afternoon at the Lubbock First Baptist church.

The 37-year-old man died at his Plainview residence Saturday from complications following an extended illness.

He had worked in Lubbock, Pamps, and O'Donnell theaters.

Survivors were the widow and a two-and-a-half-year-old daughter; a sister, Mrs. J. T. Alley; a brother, J. O. Mullins of Lubbock; another sister, Mrs. E. M. Elliott of Vivian, La., and an aunt, Mrs. A. G. Mullins of Lubbock.

Pallbearers were Jerry Burson, Clarence Wisdom, Chester McSwain, all of Plainview, and Robert Gregory of Midland and R. C. Matheny and Hal B. Grady, both of Lubbock.

Father Suspicious

Police Are Asked To Hold His Son

DENVER, March 29. (AP) — A father's suspicions caused police to hold two youths in jail today for questioning in connection with the molesting of seven women and girls in various sections of the city the night of March 19.

Captain of Detectives James E. Childers said the father of one of the suspects became suspicious when his son and another youth returned yesterday from Trinidad, where they had gone a week ago.

The father notified police, saying: "I hate to do it, but I am going to have to ask you to send some officers to my home and arrest my own son. If he is guilty, I want him punished. If he is innocent, it will give me peace of mind."

The Third Term Bugaboo

IF you've been around any at all lately, or if you've read the Washington gossip columns and some of the magazines, you know there is considerable speculation about whether President Roosevelt intends to run for a third term.

Something like a month ago a Lubbock man, after attending to business in the East, came back with the report that the rumor was out up there to the effect that President Roosevelt planned to "pull a Jim Ferguson" and ride into a third term on the petticoats of his wife as the Democratic candidate. In almost unbelievable time, the rumor had spread from New York to the West Coast and from Canada to New Orleans, where a reporter cornered the as-usual-traveling Mrs. Roosevelt and got from her a denial of the whole possibility.

The President, himself, has been playfully toying with inuendoes concerning a third term. The Morning Avalanche believes he is doing it for fun and to bait his enemies, yet the fact remains that the President has never said a word to refute third term rumors which he, as everyone else, knows are being circulated.

LET'S take a look at this third term business. Let's see how things are shaping up in the minds of the citizeship.

If the editors of Fortune magazine have taken the public pulse correctly, the good people of the United States are rapidly losing their traditional opposition to a third term for American presidents.

Fortune's quarterly survey, whch last fall achieved the distinction (rare among surveys) of telling which way the election was going to go, undertook recently to find out how people felt about the following question:

"If there should be agitation for President Roosevelt to run for a third term, what would be your attitude?"

Seven per cent of the people questioned said they would oppose the plan because they just don't like Mr. Roosevelt. Twenty-six per cent would oppose it on principle, although they like Mr. Roosevelt. Slightly more than 10 per cent would oppose it for a combination of both reasons.

On the other hand, 22 per cent would be in favor of a third term. Twenty-six per cent would be for it if Mr. Roosevelt's second term turned out successfully. And 8 per cent didn't know just where they'd stand.

WHEN you examine these findings, you may learn some interesting things about the public's regard for Mr. Roosevelt; but the really interesting thing is that for the overwhelming majority the question of a third term is a matter of personality rather than of principle.

If Fortune's survey represents the nation as a whole, only a small segment of the populace—something like one-third of the total number—is opposed to the idea of a third term as such. The remainder would be for it or against it, depending on who was seeking it.

So it looks as if the unwritten law laid down by Washington, indorsed by Jefferson, subscribed to by a long succession of great presidents, and enforced by the general public on the misguided Grant, had lost most of its appeal. The people seem to be ready to throw it overboard if they are asked in the right way.

Now it is worth remembering that this unwritten law has become a very important part of our scheme of government.

We give our President greater powers than are given to an elective officer by any other democracy on earth; and one of the chief reasons why we can do it without undermining our democracy is the fact that we know in advance that he isn't in there for keeps. He gets eight years, at the most. No matter what his popularity, no matter how effective his political machine, tradition calls on him to step down at the end of his second term.

Suppose, now, that this tradition has become ineffective. Overnight one of our democracy's chief safeguards is lost. We have tacitly invited the first able and popular leader who comes along to give us his services for life.

WE could do a great deal worse, during the next year or so, than to examine this third term tradition thoughtfully and to be ready, with a resounding "no" if and when some administration stalwart—probably under orders from 'higher up'—broaches the matter in trial balloon form.

Unless The Morning Avalanche misses its guess, such a suggestion is certain to come.

Osteopaths report that three out of five have one leg longer than the other. But the rest, of course, pay taxes, too, in [illegible] ways.

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

A UNIQUE RAILROAD MAN

For the past 25 years, Charles A. Morrison, of DeQuincy, Louisiana, has been working on the Missouri Pacific Railroad as locomotive enginneer, pulling solid sleeper trains over his division from time to time. And during his vacations he has travelled in 47 states of the Union, always on the railroads, yet in all his long career on railroads he has never set foot inside a Pullman sleeping car. While on duty as engineer, Mr. Morrison says there is utterly no occasion for his entry into a Pullman car, and when traveling on his own time, he prefers to use the coaches.

'Her Name In Lights'

By Marie Blizard, (Copyright 1937, NEA Service, Inc.)

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAPHNE BRETT loved LARRY SMITH, architect. But Daphne had refused to marry Larry until she had accumulated sufficient money to launch JENNIFER, her younger sister, on a career.

Jennifer had proved the selfish sister from the start, defying Daphne at every turn. Finally Jennifer meets GORDON HERZBERG, theater producer, and apparently finds her work.

Then Daphne is sent on a two-months' tour. Before she leaves she again refuses Larry's offer of marriage, but without telling him why. So Larry says goodby, assuming that Daphne has chosen a career in preference to his love. The final blow comes when Daphne, returning from her trip, finds Jennifer dating Larry!

So Daphne decides to play the game herself. She arranges a gorgeous dinner party for several friends, including Herzberg and Larry. Larry is very happy to see Daphne again, but she holds him aloof, playing up to Herzberg. The following Sunday Daphne is given a lead in Herzberg's new play—the lead Jennifer had sought. Jennifer, learning this, tells Daphne, "I hate you!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

Daphne was very calm about it. "I'm sorry that you do," she said, "but I'm a little surprised. And while I dislike quotations, you might remember that one about sauce for the goose."

"This is no time to be gay," Jennifer said, "we're going to have a showdown."

"Don't be vulger, Jennifer. What on earth do you mean by a showdown? It's all on the table. There's nothing you don't know—or have guessed—about it. Mr. Herzberg offered me the part and I've accepted. You've always known that I was interested in the theater and you've always said a girl should take her chance when it was offered to her."

"Sisters don't do that to each other," Jennifer retorted. "At least not a sister who has always protested her great love and desire to do what is best for her dear little sister. Oh, it's despicable of you!"

"Jennifer, you've cut yourself a slice of your own cake and it doesn't taste very good, does it?"

Jennifer stared back at her wordlessly.

"For the first time you're learning what it is to see another person take what she wants. And isn't it fair?"

"Fair!"

"Yes, that's the word," Daphne said calmly. "Don't I get anything?"

"You've got everything."

"Thanks for the compliment. I was going to point out to you that it's about time I had a bit of glamour in my life. It's not too late I'm beginning to discover. I lived in a furnished room and earned my keep so that you could stay in an expensive school. When you got out, I did everything I could to give you a good start. You didn't show up too well so I'm the worm that's turned." [illegible] never asked for any favors, [illegible]?"

"Only a few," Daphne said politely. "On the other hand, you gave none. Suppose you look at it this way: Granting that I've used your tactics and it is poor sportsmanship—I know it is—it's the one way of showing you that the girl who uses poor sportsmanship doesn't always win. Granting that, isn't it fair exchange?"

"I don't know what you mean."

"I'm going to tell you what I mean. You knew that I loved Larry. You knew that he loved me. You knew that we had quarreled but you should have known that a lover's quarrel can be mended. Yet, deliberately, when I was away, you took him from me."

Jennifer started to speak but Daphne went on:

"All right, it's fair exchange you'll have Larry and I'll have the theater. And if this is the lesson I mean it to be, you'll be a better wife to Larry. You'll try to see his point of view when ethics arise. Perhaps you'll remember that you lost one thing because you didn't know how to play squarely. Maybe it'll make you the kind of a girl I tried to make of you. That's all."

Daphne whirled out of the room. Jennifer followed her. "Daphne . . . are you doing this just to teach me a lesson. Because if you are . . ."

Daphne was very cool, keeping a firm hold on herself. She answered, "Not at all."

After that, for the remainder of the week, the two girls avoided each other. If Jennifer pretended to be asleep when Daphne rose in the morning, it was no different from Daphne's pretense of the same thing at night.

But Daphne had little need to pretend many of those nights. Rehearsing at the tense speed and concentration that was necessary if the play was to open on the date Gordon Herzberg intended, proved a soul-fatiguing task. Daphne left the house before 10 in the morning and often did not return until 2 or 3 in the next morning.

The week-end was just another series of rehearsing days for her. What she was thinking was something that even Anne, her confidante, didn't know.

Jennifer spoke to her only when it was necessary and then in monosyllables. But Jennifer took to giving her strange glances and more than once she came into the room they shared and stood silently staring for a moment as though there was something she wanted to say.

Daphne had to keep her mind from thoughts of Jennifer. A new quiet, a strained haunting in Jennifer's eyes smote her and more than once she was tempted to ask Jennifer to talk to her.

Then, thinking of Jennifer and Larry, she was firm again and put her pity out of her heart.

Five days before the play was to open, she found Jennifer in tears.

Jennifer hadn't cried even when she was a baby.

"What is it, Jennifer?" she asked gently.

Jennifer wiped her tears away on her sleeve; an incredibly childish gesture.

"Nothing," she said proudly and walked into the bath.

Daphne got up and followed her. "I suppose you think this is easy for me?"

"I'm sure I don't konw, but if it makes you any more satisfied, you'll be glad to know that you're breaking my heart."

"Have you really got one?" Daphne said.

"Yes, it seems that I have. It was all in the theater until . . ." She put her hands over her face and her shoulders shook.

"All of it couldn't have been, there's Larry," Daphne reminded her.

"There isn't Larry . . . and there . . . there never was. He wasn't in love with me. He's eating his heart out over you."

Daphne listened with her heart standing still.

"Jennifer, tell me this minute what you mean. Stop acting like a child." The blood pounded in Daphne's ears.

Jennifer dried her eyes and sat on the side of the tub. Her tone was sulky and her eyes were fixed on the floor as she began to talk:

"You ought to have known Larry was in love with you all the time. I did." She gulped and went away and I called Tuck and he said he wouldn't come over because you told him he couldn't, that was the last straw. You and your high-handed methods! I was jealous.

"Jealous of me?" Daphne demanded incredulously.

"Certainly. You were always the prettiest. You were the successful one. You were a big wage earner. All the men were crazy about you. All the men I met here who were attractive always talked about you. And I was crazy about Tuck. I liked him better than anyone else until I got in the theater. Oh, Daphne, I wanted to be an actress! I'd have worked myself to death for the rest of my life!" The tears started to flow again.

Daphne handed her a handkerchief. "You'll be back. I want to hear about Larry."

"Well, I lied to him. I told him I wanted to have him help me make a decision about something and he came to see me. I told him you were completely through but I thought when you came back I could plead for him. He used to hang around me to hear me talk about you. Then . . . then I pretended he was my beau to get back at you for what you had done to Tuck. The night of the party I guess he knew that you didn't care about him anymore. He was wretched."

Daphne poured cold water on a t wel. "Here, put that on your head and lie down for a few minutes. I'll give you an hour to rest and then we've got work to do."

"Aren't you . . . aren't you mad?"

"Just as mad as anyone would be at a 6-year-old child. Now take off that dress. I'll call you in an hour a . . we're going to start rehearsing."

"We?"

"Yes," Daphne said as she went into the other room. "I might need an understudy. I don't think the one we have really knows all the business I do. I can teach it to you. Just in case."

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

EUROPE'S war bugles may menace American peace some day, but for the moment they are keeping our factory chimneys whistling. They may even drown out discordant cries which now threaten industrial peace in our key industries.

Rush orders for a rearming Europe are the secret reason for the more tolerant attitude the nation's hitherto hard-boiled employers have assumed toward the unions, as an unpublished incident reveals. When a distinguished foreign statesman landed in New York early in February, he visited downtown bankers before paying respects to President Roosevelt. He informed the financiers, who control several vast corporations, that Great Britain would place billions of orders for heavy goods in this country in order to complete its $7,500,000,000 national defense program.

There was, he explained, only one hitch, Britain must be assured of "continuity of delivery," and would make no commitments without a guarantee that labor wars would be sidetracked. New York's top-notch bankers gave this guarantee, and then issued orders to steel subordinates to settle with John L. Lewis. They did. Insiders here believe the same factors will oprate to stave off a serious strike in all industries producing war materials.

SEQUENCE: Washington officialdom got wind of these private conversations and capitalized on them immediately. Most major moves on the industrial and legislative fronts during February and March can be understood more clearly in the light of Britain's dire need for American supplies.

It was in mid-February that the talks between the foreign visitor and New York bankers occurred. The steel magnates were then refusing to bid on navy orders because of the Walsh-Healey Act, and showed no signs of surrendering. On February 23, as previously reported in Whirligig, Assistant Secretary McGrady threatened to brand the steel manufactures as "unpatriotic." But what frightened them most was his warning that the government would watch steel shipments to foreign countries at a time when the American navy was vainly begging for bids. That struck directly at the prospect of rich British trade.

Next came consideration of the neutrality bill on Capitol Hill, with administration insistence on inclusion of a "cash-and-carry" provision favoring Great Britain and France. That got through safely, insuring that England could buy here without governmental interference. As a perfect sequel, John L. Lewis grew even bolder, moving in on coal and motors with private assurance that they wouldn't kill the British goose all set to lay a golden egg of profits. And across the water London and Paris, with these assurances of indirect American backing, are beginning to tell Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini to go jump in the Mediterranean.

PROSPECT: When Marriner S. Eccles attributed the present inflationary movement to "non-monetary factors," thereby relieving the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury of responsibility, he opened a Pandora's box of troubles for the man in the White House.

Brash and belligerent New Dealers fully agree with Mr. Eccles' diagnosis that higher interest rates and new reserve requirements will not check rising prices. Monetary moves, they insist, will not remedy evils due to non-monetary causes. What they demand is presidential use of weapons which have rusted for years in the economic scabbard. They want Mr. Roosevelt to lower tariffs on key products leading the upward price movement, notably steel, and to enforce the anti-trust laws against industries operating under agreements designed to keep prices at an unnatural level.

The prospect is not so remote—or utopian—as professional and political economists think. Secretaries Ickes and Perkins have frequently toyed with the idea of reducing foreign duties as a retaliatory measure. And Assistant Attorney General Jackson, the young-man-in-a-hurry-to-go-places, is a much more aggressive anti-truster than his basso profundo predecessor, John Dickinson.

STYMIE: It is no accident that fiercest opposition to F.D.R.'s court packing process comes from liberal Democrats and Republicans of the West and Northwest. In cloakroom conversations they emphasize that their resentment centers on Attorney General Cummings rather than on the President or his proposal.

The D. of J. touches these westerners more sensitively than it does eastern or southern members, strange as that may seem. The department's handling of land, oil, power, mineral and railroad cases affects thousands of humble and prosperous constituents, who are not slow to rush to their Senators with their complaints. Rightly or wrongly, the liberal leaders hostile to court reform—Senator Wheeler in particular—feel that the A. G. has shown distinct favoritism towards large financial interests usually represented by J. Bruce Kremer, Montana lobbyist.

Several western Senators have complained bitterly to the White House over the situation, and Mr. Kremer has quietly retired from the Washington scene in recent months. Roosevelt liberals like Messrs. Norris, Johnson, Wheeler have never been able to reconcile Roosevelt idealism with pro-corporation disposition of western land cases, and so they suspect the Roosevelt-Cummings move for court changes. It's the dominant factor in the fight, for if the President had these liberals on his side, he could win tomorrow.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK insiders get a chuckle out of the news-behind-the-news of the radio address by John H. Clarke—only living ex-Justice of the Supreme court—endorsing the constitutionality of the President's proposal.

Before Mr. Clarke's appointment to the Supreme court bench by Woodrow Wilson in 1916, he was general counsel for the Nickel Plate and other important corporations and was regarded as a very able lawyer. But his economic views were suspect among his associates as "radical" or "queer." Since 1933 he has been an ardent supporter of President Roosevelt's policies

UNTIL the Supreme Court controversy arose. Privately he voiced strong objections to F.D.R.'s plan, and even wrote several letters to the publisher of an Ohio newspaper in which he owns a substantial interest, urging more vigorous editorial opposition to it.

Then along came Mr. Roosevelt and personally asked Mr. Clarke to take up the cudgels publicly for his Court reform cause. That put the ex-Justice in a most painful spot. The honor of such a request from the White House pulled him one way—personal convictions the other. He compromised by upholding the legality of the proposal—which no one has seriously challenged—and omittin gall discussion of other aspects.

CONCESSION: High financial circles are buzzing with discussion of the plan suggested by the National Association of Manufacturers to promote mediation of labor disputes and to minimize strikes and lockouts. Keen observers agree that the N.A.M. program has little chance of enactment into law as it stands. It ties labor's hands more than management's, so organized labor chiefs would be sure to oppose it. But there is real hope that the administration will accept the principles suggested by the association and shape them into an effective instrument for industrial peace.

The most noteworthy angle of the association's proposal appears to have escaped general attention. This very conservative group of manufacturers, which has always fought bitterly any form of governmental interference, now urges that the President be specifically authorized to intervene in labor disputes of national importance.

This amounts to direct admission that labor questions are in some cases a proper concern of the federal government. Such a concession, even though implied rather than stated, is nothing short of revolutionary coming from such a source.

YOUTHFUL: An executive of a well-known railroad equipment concern is having C.I.O. trouble. On a recent trip to his plant in New England, which employs about 350 men, he discovered that there were no fewer than 16 C.I.O. organizers attempting to bring his employes into the John Lewis fold.

The manufacturer, who is perfectly willing to deal with the C.I.O., relates that none of the 16 (who were stopping at the city's swankiest hotel) was over 25 years of age.

INCREASED COSTS

Editor, The Avalanche: I noticed in Saturday's Avalanche a news item from Washington, dated March 19th, relative to the increased cost of living, compiled by Dr. Isador Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics, in which he states that the cost of living has increased about six per cent during the last three years. In other words he says that the worker must have $1.06 now to buy what he then bonught for $1.

Now, everybody knows that this is erroneous and why anyone would make such a statement, is beyond me.

Three years ago I bought 48 pounds of first grade flour for $ .95; today, the same flour costs me $2.10. Nationally advertised shoes that I paid $4 for three years ago cost me $6 today. I paid $ .69 for a good union-made overall three years ago; today that same overall costs me $1.39. I could go on and quote hundreds of such items.

Now I would like to know of Dr. Lubin where he gets his figures and how he can figure only a six per cent increase in living costs today over that of three years ago.

I am not complaining about the increased cost of living but I would like to see the workers' wages increased in proportion to the increased living costs.

Yours truly,
D. J. Brown,
Slaton.

(Dear Mr. Brown: Thanks for your good and thoughtful letter. While I do not know the source of Dr. Lubin's figures, we must bear in mind that his statistics cover all items and strike an average for the entire nation. Perhaps that's the cause of what appears to be a discrepancy in this part of the country. Very truly yours, The Editor.)

Suggestions For Safe Driving

CURVES AND TURNS

No matter how perfect the condition of the car, the DRIVER is the most important factor in safe driving.

Be careful when passing cars, especially if another car is approaching.

Passing cars on turns and corners involves additional as passing a string of cars 300 feet long.

Don't "wonder" if you can make it—take no chances.

Passing cars on turns and corners involve additional dangers.

Turning curves on highways that are not "banked" increases the hazards.

You can't take liberties with natures laws of momentum and centrifugal force. Study them.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS, No. 62

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

A shiver shook the body of the usually daring Paco as Raglan suggested that he remain behind to kill Tarzan when the devil's noose had clutched him. Even a trap was not sufficient security against this extraordinary creature who had overcome so many obstacles.

"Please, Senor Raglan!" "Do as I say," Raglan scowled; "you will bring me Tarzan's loincloth to show that you have killed him. You know what happens to those who disobey me and run away. Sometimes they live as much as a year; never longer. My arm is long, Paco!"

The villainous half-breed knew well the reputation of Raglan's vengeance. So, when his master and the others disappeared down the trail he squatted in the underbrush, awaiting his victim. And now and then he tested with his thumb the razor edge of his machete . . .

. . . Meanwhile Tarzan had reorganized his party and embarked again on the river, minus two porters who had fallen victim to the alligators. Soon his jungle-wise eyes discovered the spot where Raglan had landed, thus innocently fulfilling the wishes of his foe!

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, March 29 (AP)—Wall street watched the supreme court today, but failed to find much stock market stimulation for either buying or selling in the largest batch of decisions handed down in some time.

Many issues pointed moderately higher during most of the session but others suffered more from neglect than offering pressure and declines of fractions to a point or so were in the majority at the close.

Favorable rulings for the New Deal on the railway labor and Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage acts brought hardly a ripple of excitement in boardrooms. Declaration by the court that the Washington minimum wage law was constitutional also failed to stir speculative sentiment.

The Associated Press average for 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 71.3.

Wreckage Of Plane Is Found; Both Fliers Are Dead

HIGHLANDS, Calif., March 29. (AP)—Army fliers today located the wreckage of a plane that crashed in a storm near here last Saturday night, carrying Lieut. Robert C. Love of Los Angeles and Private Emory J. Parsons of Mineola, Tex., to their deaths. The plane crashed into a tree on the snow line of the San Bernardino mountains, near the City Creek CCC camp.

Lieut. Edward H. Alexander of the 73rd squadron, 17th attack group, March field, made the discovery and reported to the field by radio. Lieut. Love was a member of the 17th attack group. He left Grand Central airport, Glendale, at 10:09 o'clock Saturday night, enroute to March field, and is believed to have lost the Fontana beam by which he was flying.

His companion fliers at March field searched all day Sunday for his plane. The plane fell in a rainstorm near the crest of Mt. McKinley. Lieut. Love was 15 miles off his course on the 64-mile trip from Glendale to March field. Instead of heading right in the vicinity of Fontana, toward March Field, which is situated near Riverside, the pilot continued eastward and veered slightly north, bringing him into the mountain range.

The plane was crumpled in a tree about 200 yards from a highway.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 29. (AP)—Quiet trading prevailed on the cotton market today and while options made a small advance of 6 to 11 points it was a dispirited upturn.

For most of the day prices held within a point or two of the previous close. Then in the last hour an increased demand originating mostly with spot houses and other trade interests lifted prices around 50 cents a bale.

May closed at 14.11c bid; July at 14.01c; et., at 13.52c bid; Dec., at 13.57c and Jan. at 13.57c. Middling spot cotton was 10 points higher at New Orleans at 14.52c a pound.

The holiday at Liverpool and other foreign markets deprived the market of some of its usual quota of buying and selling orders.

There was little news over the weekend with the exception of the weather on which any price change could be based. Weather was mostly bullish with reports of sharply colder weather in nearly all sections. Snow in Oklahoma was thought to be favorable as this would add moisture to a region that reportedly is in sad need of it.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, March 29. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 14.43c a pound; average for the past 30 days, 13.83c a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 29. (AP)—Cotton moved irregularly today in quiet trading but the undertone held steady. July recovered from 13.93c to 14.06c and closed at 14.05c, with final prices 3 to 9 points higher.

The market opened 5 points up to 1 point lower. Near months were steady on trade buying and a little foreign demand while liquidation and hedge selling supplied contracts.

When offerings increased moderately prices reacted some 5 or 9 points from the best to net losses of 1 to 5 points but these were fully recovered toward the close on renewed trade covering in near months and further buying from abroad.

The trade found little or no fresh feature in the news over the week to influence sentiment. Export today 11,444 making a total of 4,568,369 for the season thus far. Port receipts 17,110, U. S. port stocks, 1,868,745.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 29. (AP)—Wheat available for immediate use excelled in Chicago today $1.50 a bushel, the first time since 1928, but bit profit-taking afterward cancelled the gains.

Jumps of almost two cents took place both in wheat and corn prices, with corn outdoing peaks unequaled since 1927 differing from wheat, the corn market held most of the day's advance.

Sensational bulges of 6¼ cents a bushel in Argentine wheat values and 3⅝ cents in corn, compared with pre-holiday quotations, gave chief impetus for today's price bulges here. On the other hand, the late reactionary trend of the Chicago wheat market was promoted by beneficial snowfalls in the dust-bowl region and other important sections of domestic crop territory.

At the close, Chicago's wheat futures were ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher than Saturday's finish, May $1.43⅛@1.43⅛, June $1.28½@1.28⅝, Sept. $1.25⅛@1.25⅝; corn, ⅝-1½ advance, May $1.18⅝@1.19, July $1.13⅜@1.13⅛, Sept. $1.07⅞@1.08; oats, ⅛ off to ⅜ up, May 49⅛@49⅛c, and rye varying from ⅛ lower to 1½ higher, May $1.14⅛. Provisions closed unchanged to 10 cents dearer.

Veteran River Pilot Facing Trial For Murdering Youth

BATON ROUGE, La., March 29. (AP)—A veteran river pilot, who was once called to Hollywood to play the part of a picturesque captain in a movie, faced a trial for murder here today.

He is Captain Carter S. Smith, a river figure for a score or more years. He is charged with shooting and killing Dwight Lymen Rester, 19, last February 18.

Officers said Smith resented attention Rester paid to one of his daughters. The captain asserted the youth was advancing on him threateningly when he fired.

Fellow river boatment raised $400 to help pay attorneys for his defense.

"The captain said he acted in the motion picture, "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

"You oighta seen how they had me decorated up with whiskers and a coat like they used just before the Civil war," he said.

Man Held In Mexico To Fight Extradition To United States

MEXICO CITY, March 29. (AP)—Alexander Pompez, under arrest by capital police, announced from his cell today he would fight extradition to New York, where he is wanted for questioning in connection with a "number" racket which allegedly grossed as much as $34,000 in one day.

Asked about police reports he had been in Tacoma, Wash., at the time of the Charles Mattson kidnaping last December, Pompez denied it.

"Where is Tacoma?" he asked. "I never been there in my life."

Meanwhile, authorities investigated a report Pompez' associates had a mysterious plane hidden in Mexico.

Range Land Trouble Blamed For New Mexico Shooting

LORDSBURG, N. M., March 29. (AP)—Range land trouble, Sheriff John Cavin of Hidalgo county said today, resulted in the shooting of Feliciano Tlacencia, 50, 25 miles south of here yesterday.

The stockman was found dead, sitting in his chair in his ranch house and Sheriff Cavin said he had arrested Lawrence "Six-Shooter" Johnson, 37, a goat herder at a nearby ranch.

The sheriff said Johnson told him he shot Tlacencia, "because I was afraid of him." He said Johnson told him they had been quareling over rights to an open range for several weeks.

Clown's Dream

E. L. Pitts, Neil H. Wright, Sam J. McFarland, Dr. R. B. Hutchinson and Dude Buster) which caused a laughter riot in the audience; "A Fifty Dollar Bill" in which Dr. Arthur Jenkins, as "the lady," jerked the laughter strings again with boisterous weeping and one good wisecrack and danced a sophisticated dance with W. H. Evans; "At Home" with Dr. W. J. Howard, as the wife, and Newton Walton as the husband; a bowery song and dance scene capably executed by Bill Dean and Ralph Trolinger; "Tea for Three" by Hal Grady, as the erring wife, John Toles as the husband, John D. Mitchell as the boy friend and E. J. Parsons as the maid, and an enthusiastically received "Dark Town Strutter's Ball" number sung and danced, intricately, by Ed Hambright, as the chocolate colored man, and M. T. Hill as his lady.

The clown dreamed of his own wedding in Act III. A wedding party of 51 persons entered the stage, one or two at a time, by way of the front entrance of the auditorium, burlesquing their individual ways down the aisle to the chagrin or embarrassment, in many instances, of spectators in aisle seats.

The party included the parents, K. N. Clapp and Dr. Allen T. Stewart; the grandparents, Wallace Rix and Dr. A. W. Evans; four children, Marion Sanford, A. V. Weaver, jr., Lorenz Ellis and Sherrill Boyd; flappers, James Milam and T. B. Duggan, jr.; Abraham Goldberg, comically portrayed by Dr. Marshall Harvey; "Aunt Mabel Henderson," Jess C. Levens; Paul Whiteman, H. R. Gholson; President Franklin D. and Mrs. Roosevelt, L. E. Davis and Lonnie Langston; "Miss 1840," Glenn Hunt; "Miss 1937," Milton Brittain; Pola Negri, J. Mansell; a Girl, impressively sung and danced by Edgar Shelton; "Col. and Mrs. James Dinwiddie," J. A. Stinson and Cecil Horne; ushers, Owen McWhorter, Wesley Read, B. C. Dickinson, Harry Morris and D. K. Bondurant; best man, Darwin Prince; bishop, interestingly portrayed by E. L. Morgan and Charles Read; ring bearer, Don Mitchell; and train bearer, Dr. O. W. English.

Piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. Don Mitchell and Mrs. E. Waldo Trotter.

Members of the Lubbock Junior Welfare league, sponsors of the revue, assisted with the performance. Ushers were Mesdames Richard Douglas, Arno Dalby, Kirk Dean, W. H. Evans, Lawrence Bacon, Frank Jones, Robert Crawford, W. R. Vivrett and Owen McWhorter and Misses Catherine Jameson, Coleta Baker, Frances Snyder and Anna Burt Gibson. Serving as flower girls were Misses Mary Ross Edwards, Ernesteen Lockhart, Nancy Ruth Leaverton, Leona Allen and Ruth Bradley who brought gifts of flowers to talented performers, making presentations on the stage. One of the performers received a rabbit with his flowers.

Included in the eight-page printed programs were names of 64 patrons and patronesses who sat in a reserved section.

The revue will be staged again tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the same place. Tickets may be bought from members of the league or at Bowen's Drug store, No. 1. All proceeds will go to charity.

Kittrell Case

arrest in the Arkansas town, authorities were informed Saturday.

Indictment would be necessary to return Kittrell to Texas, Eastus quoted Kittrell as saying.

C. E. Maedgen was reported in Wichita Falls to testify before the grand jury.

Mitchell said he probably would not go to Wichita Falls today unless Maedgen did not go there to testify.

Sheriff Power said he had deposited the money recovered at Post and today would transfer the $2,000 to Wichita Falls.

Kittrell To Be Arraigned At Pine Bluff Today

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 29. (AP)—Chapmon Fletcher, agent in charge of the federal bureau of investigation office here, said tonight Deputy U. S. Marshals had been sent to McGehee to take custody of Burns Kittrell, Lubbock, Texas, bank employe on a charge of embezzlement.

Police at McGehee said they were informed by federal authorities that Kittrell would be arraigned before the U. S. Commissioner at Pine Bluff tomorrow morning.

Admitted Taking Money

City Marshal Varnell Lee arrested Kittrell Saturday and said the man told him he took a large sum of money from the Lubbock National bank of Lubbock where he was employed as a bookkeeper. McGehee officers found $4,720 on Kittrell at the time of his arrest.

Lee said Kittrell told him he took the money about three weeks ago and came to McGehee "because he didn't know where to go."

Federal authorities took charge of the case, Fletcher said, because the bank is a member of the federal syste[m] a record crowd of both boys and men. The two buildings were well filled all day long, scores of farmers coming with their sons to see that the boys got their animals in shape.

Entries were scheduled to close at 10 o'clock, but was somewhat delayed by late arrivals, who had to wait a little in order to get into the building.

Demonstration Staged

At the women's building, where exhibits of types of demonstrations were set up, as well as cured meats were entered, a fair crowd witnessed three demonstrations during the afternoon. Two were held at the livestock pavilion.

E. M. Regenbrecht, specialist of the extension service, discussed meat judging; D. W. Sherrill, Hockley county agent, and Roy Hickman, Cochran county agent, discussed selection of good type pork and Mr Regenbrecht and R. N. McClain, Terry county agent, discussed feeding for good pork.

In the livestock building, D. F. Bredthauer, Floyd county agent, and Jason O. Gordon, Parmer county agent, killed and dressed a pig. Several hundred boys and men witnessed the affair, held in the sales arena. Following that, Ray C. Mowery gave a demonstration on preparing sheep for market or show.

Judging Begins Today

Judging begins this morning; Casey Fine of Texas Tech will start swine judging at 9 a. m.; Ray C. Mowery will judge the lambs at 10:30 and this afternoon W. L. Stangel will judge the calves.

This afternoon there will be two demonstration events, pork cutting by Mr. Gordon, Mr. Bredthauer and C. B. Martin, in the woman's building. It is to start at 4 p. m. Preparing beef for market or show is to be demonstrated by G. W. Barnes in the sales arena.

The educational booths in the women's building drew considerable attention. This exhibit replaces the canned meats division of other shows.

Arizona Newspapers Are To Carry Fight To High Court

PHOENIX, March 29. (AP)—Arizona newspapers have given notice they will carry their fight against the one per cent sales tax on their gross income to the United States supreme court, having lost recently before the state's highest tribunal.

Counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers association will join the Arizona publishers in an effort to place the case on the October supreme court calendar.

The newspapers contend their case parallels that appealed from Louisiana during the late Huey P. Long's regime in which the supreme court held the Louisiana tax was invalid because it constituted a restraint on publication and an abridgement of the freedom of the press.

Pictures Of Battlefields Of Europe Are Shown At Legion

More than 100 members of the Allen Bros. post of the American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary and other guests attended the observance here last night of the anniversary of the founding of the American Legion in Paris in 1919.

Cal Farley of Amarillo, ex-service man, showed pictures of the European battlefields taken when he attended the Olympic games in Germany in 1936.

W. O. Daniels, commander, called on Hubert L. Allen, past commander, to speak who gave the highlights of the organization in its 18 years of existence.

W. E. Lavender performed sleight-of-hand tricks. Twenty members of the Dunbar colored school glee club sang at the opening of the program.

Mrs. Fred Higbee, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, presented the legion with a wooden plaque in appreciation of a resolution passed at the national convention of the auxiliary last year.

SAN ANTONIO, March 29. (AP)—V. A. Taylor, 27, died in the Medical and Surgical hospital early this morning of injuries he suffered last Thursday night in a motorcycle accident on the Austin highway.

Taylor was injured when the motorcycle he was riding struck a soft shoulder alongside the highway and overturned.

Miss Margaret McCall was injured in the same accident and is in the station hospital at Fort Sam Houston with a broken left ankle and other injuries.

State Legislature

Other amendments were offered on the floor.

Face Senate Hearings

Already finally passed by the house and facing hearings before senate committees were bills to boost taxes on oil and sulphur production.

The senate acted on the Bexar county bill, which would remit the taxes for 10 years, despite criticism of individual county remissions by Gov. James V. Allred last week. The governor said the state's need for more money could not be met by remissions.

The house sent back to committee a proposed constitutional amendment which would exempt from ad valorem taxes for 10 years new plants for the manufacture of Texas products.

Senate Engrosses Bill

Aside from tax matters, the senate engrossed a bill appropriating $376,000 for tick eradication, refused to permit introduction of a bill making it possible for corporations to register motor vehicles in any county in which they operate (a step authorized in the house), and received a committee report recommending passage of a bill to repeal the horse race betting law. The house suspended its rules to allow introduction of the motor vehicle bill.

The senate committee on criminal jurisprudence last week voted, 8 to 6, to report favorably the race wagering repeal bill which had been passed overwhelmingly by the house. None could say when it might reach the senate floor, although sponsors planned to have it set for special consideration, if possible, which would require a four-fifth vote.

The senate briefly debated, but took no action on a bill reappropriating one cent of the four-cent gasoline tax to retire county bonds, proceeds from which were used to build roads now a part of the state highway system. The appropriation must be made each biennum, although the bond assumption is a state policy.

Glass Attacks Court Reform

Veteran Virginia Senator Is Bitter In Radio Address Monday Night Against Plan To Change High Court

in every community of the states and federal bureaus in Washington bursting the bounds of marble palaces and overflowing into business houses and private homes, and with the states required supinely to submit their legislative statutes to the approval of bureaucratic boards here before they can get back a pittance of the prodigious sums picked from the pockets of their people in the form of taxes, state rights, as well as the security and independence of private enterprise, are fast disappearing."

Pleads With Mobocracy

With private property "seized at will" and governments "pleading with mobocracy instead of mastering it," he said, "we seem to have reached that period of peril which Governor Roosevelt visioned seven years ago."

"This, with other dangerous evils, contrived or connived at, by governments, is the real crisis which faces the nation and cannot be cured by degrading the Supreme court of the United States."

Attacks "Visionary Incendiaries"

Declaring one of the "visionary incendiaries" on the federal payroll had "abused" eminent members of the Supreme court in a recent address in the South, Glass said he wondered whether the audience knew that the same man recently reproached the South for providing separate public schools for the races. He added that this government spokesman, whose name he did not mention, also has urged repeal of "every statute and ordinance of segregation."

"Should men of his mind have part in picking the six proposed judicial sycophants," Glass said "very likely they would be glad to see reversed those decisions of the court that saved the civilization of the South. . . .

"It was the Supreme court of the United States that validated the suffrage laws of the South which saved the section from anarchy and ruin in a period the unspeakable outrages of which nearly all the nation recalls with shame."

Calls Upon Nation

Glass called upon the nation to petition congress against "this hateful attempt to drive eminent jurists from the bench in order to crowd into the court a lot of judicial marionettes to speak the vetriloquisms of the White House."

Scoffing at charges of "organized propaganda" against the president's bill, he said propaganda for it had proceeded "with unabated fury from the White House fireside to nearly every rostrum in the country."

"For myself," he added, "I think we should right now have 'organized propaganda'—in the sense that the men and women of America who value the liberties they have enjoyed for 150 years should, with unexampled spontaneity, exercise their constitutional right of petition and, with all the earnestness of their souls, protest to congress against this attempt to replace representative government with an autocracy."

Reports Telegrams

Reporting that thousands of telegrams received by him had said, "God bless the Supreme court," Glass asked:

"But who wants God to bless a packed Supreme court? Who wants to invoke divine blessings on a court not constituted to put a check upon unauthorized freedom and restraint upon dangerous liberty?"

Referring to some of the statutes outlawed by the present Supreme court, he said the National Recovery act and its administration "created a reign of terror in the country; and everybody except the large industries which profited by the enforced failure of the smaller hailed the decision of the court with satisfaction."

Glass said the president's proposal is without precedence in American history and that it is necessary to go back to "the British star chamber" to find "a corresponding scheme."

The British king dismissed a chief justice who failed to bend to his will, he said, "just as the offending members of the Supreme court have been rudely told to 'begone' if they do not relish the mortification of being supplied with six judicial wet-nurses."

Palestine Woman Accidentally Shot To Death By Husband

PALESTINE, March 29. (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Killgo, 24, mother of two children, was shot to death accidentally today. Her husband, A. C. Killgo, started to unload a pistol in the home when the gun was discharged. The bullet pierced the woman's body as she was taking ashes from the heater.

The two children slept on a bed in the room. Killgo had removed the gun from under the pillow and was unloading it for fear the children would get possession of the weapon, relatives said.

HOUSTON, March 29. (AP)—C. O. Wilson, 26, workman at the Texas Company refinery at Galena Park, was burned fatally today when escaping acetylene gas ignited. Frank Guerrant and Gay Hubert, who were working with Wilson, escaped injury by climbing a rope out of the 40-foot high steel tower.

McGuire Rites Are On Sunday

Friends From Over Territory Attend Funeral Services For Judge Of 106th Court At Lamesa Sunday

LAMESA, March 29. (Special) — Tribute was paid to Judge Gordon B. McGuire, about 59, of the 106th judicial district, by friends from every part of the South Plains when services were held at the Lamesa Methodist church Sunday afternoon.

Judge McGuire was found dead about 6:30 o'clock Saturday night. Death resulted from a cardiac ailment.

The pioneer jurist was the only judge to have presided, except through exchange of benches, over the 106th judicial district.

County judges and other officials were among the large crowd which attended services. Burial was in Lamesa cemetery.

Had Been Seriously Ill

Judge McGuire had been seriously ill since Thursday. He was alone at time of his death. Mrs. McGuire, who also was ill, found the body. For more than a year the official had suffered heart attacks and had collapsed two or three times, said J. E. Garland of Lamesa, with whom McGuire was associated until his appointment to the judgeship.

Survivors were the wife; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Preedy of six miles northeast of Lamesa; one son, Gordon B. McGuire, jr., of Lamesa; and a brother; "Jack" McGuire of Texarkana, Ark.

McGuire was appointed judge of the 106th district by Gov. Miriam Ferguson when the 72nd judicial district was broken up so that four counties remained with the 72nd and six with the newly formed 106th. He was then district attorney for the 72nd court.

Annual April Fool Prevue Is Planned At Palace Theater

A second annual April Fool prevue that will introduce a particular brand of goofiness will be presented at the Palace theater at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday night, said Hal B Grady, manager.

A large crowd was kept in an uproar of laughter at surprisingly humorous incidents at last year's party. Some patrons were paid to attend the show; projectionists ran the first part of the feature last and the last part first; the ushers requested patrons to find the ushers seats; comic slides were shown, and screwiness was indulged in generally.

"We have a crazy-quilt program planned, but are keeping details secret—even the title of the feature production," said Grady.

H. S. Davis, Ralls Is Buried Sunday

Body of H. S. Davis, 61, farmer who lived eight miles northwest of Ralls, was buried in Lubbock cemetery following services at Rix Funeral chapel Sunday afternoon. Davis was killed almost instantly Saturday in an unusual automobile collision six miles northeast of Lubbock.

Rev. Ernest M. Jennings of the Cumberland Presbyterian church officiated at services.

Routine investigations Monday apparently had added nothing to versions of the accident immediately following the occurrence. The Davis machine crashed upon its side seemingly after it had little more than brushed another car which had gotten momentarily out of control, according to reports to the state highway department and county officers.

AL MINGALONE (above) never knows where the next assignment will take him. Wherever news is breaking, he's there grinding out film, heedless of danger.

"Sure I get in many a tight spot," says Al. "But I count on my healthy nerves and good digestion to see me through. I smoke a lot—Camels every time! They don't jangle my nerves, and that saying 'for digestion's sake—smoke Camels' is made-to-order for me. Camels give me a grand feeling of well-being." Yes, with fine-tasting Camels digestion gets off to a smooth start. The flow of digestive fluids speeds up—alkalinity increases—you feel at ease. As steady smokers say: "Camels set you right!"
