COMMISSIONERS CONSIDER BIDS ON SWIM POOL

Hayden Sales contracting company of Junction submitted the only bids for construction of the new Schleicher county swimming pool, when county commissioners met Monday of this week. The bids were in the amounts of $21,287, including excavating, and $19,111, not including excavating. In addition to the pool itself the bids take in the filtering system, fencing, and lights.

Commissioners have not yet decided whether to accept the lower bid and use county equipment to do the excavating. They point out possible difficulties where rock is encountered. A separate bid will be taken on the bath houses, and cost of the sewer line is yet to be determined.

The commissioners had previously engaged A. E. Stein Co. of New Braunfels to draw up the plans for the pool, which will be located in western Eldorado.

Mr. Hahns of the Stein Co. and Mr. Nichols of Hayden Sales met with the court Monday and discussed the project. Mr. Hahns pointed out that one improvement in the new pool will be the enclosed pump room in which the filter pumps will be housed. Pools built elsewhere have had the pumps placed in an open pit, but the enclosed room is in consideration of Schleicher's dust. The pool will be modern in all other respects, conforming to specifications and requirements of the State Health department.

Meeting last week with a committee composed of representatives of various organizations of the town and county, the court approved purchase of all of Block 6 of the West addition for the pool location and park area. The block was owned by Ed Willoughby and others. The pool location will be on lot 6 of the block.

Regarding neighboring towns and swimming pools: Junction's pool similar to ours cost $26,000, and Brady had no bids at all on a proposed pool.

At the same meeting Monday S. L. Parham of Midland submitted the only bids for oil, gas, and mineral leases on Schleicher county school land in Gaines county. His bids, for a five-year period, totaled $15,687, and were accepted by the court.

Second Rain In Two Weeks Gives Another Boost to Crops

Just a little over two weeks after the heavy precipitation of early May, the county was again visited Monday night by general rains, which will be of great benefit to the county.

With heaviest rains falling south and east of the city, some areas were visited by heavier rains this time than before.

The rains fell so gently that the soil will receive maximum benefit from the precipitation. Reports from farmers and ranchers living over the county are all optimistic.

Pastures are greening up and the county looks better than it has in some time.

LIONS CLUB MEETS

Plans for starting of the house numbering and street marking project of the Lions club were given a send-off at yesterday's meeting, with W. T. Whitten in charge. It is planned to sell numbers at $1 a set, for each house, which will help defray the cost of the street signs. This has been a long standing project of the club.

Jimmie Whitten, Billy Williams and Bobby Williams were introduced by FFA instructor Oliver Burk as the team that recently won second high in the state contests in judging. Their trophy was displayed on the bulletin board and each of the three gave brief talks.

Guests were E. B. Smith of Lancaster, Tom Davis of Sonora, and Mr. McKinney of San Angelo.

OLD RESIDENT DIES

Word has been received here of the death Monday of T. L. White, a cousin of the Tisdales, at Durango, Colo. The funeral will be held Friday in Abilene.

He had owned a farm there and was in the process of selling it when his death occurred. He lived in this county about two years, many years ago.

Martha Ann Hutchison of Eden is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ray Boyer while her mother is in the hospital.

Post Script

Some are still feeling the effects of the rains of over two weeks ago. Out at Josh Ewing's, where the hail seemed to have centered, there isn't a leaf left on any live oak on the entire ranch (half of the live oaks had died previously because of the drought). The Ewings had stocked lightly for several years and had been counting on old grass to help carry them through—but that was all hacked to pieces by the hail which fell steadily for an hour!

Furthermore, the Ewings, in a checkup over the ranch Sunday, two weeks after the hail and rain, found beds of frozen hail, protected from melting by the debris of the washing rains and many truckloads of leaves.

A wide overhanging roof protected the windows of the house from breakage, but the graveled roof had pebbles loosened by the driving hail.

The Ewings are cheerful though about the washing rains and the destructive hail—their grass is greening up and they have quit feeding.

And now comes that nice gentle rain Monday night, soaking the ranch with two inches of moisture—things are definitely looking up.

The Gus Loves rented three living units early this week, all to men who were building a tower at the gasoline plant at Huldale. The men are Leonard L. Jones, who rented a house, and John M. Hicks and Ray Navarre, apartments. The Love bunk house was also rented to four men, who are setting pumps at the gasoline plant.

Work is coming right along on the new Derrick residence in Sunset Acres, Eldorado's newest housing development. The house will have three bedrooms, two baths, kitchen and breakfast room combination, living room and dining room combination, and den. It will be of brick construction.

The rains have put new life into the county—people are feeling more optimistic now that things are greening up.

This week's rain did no damage at all that we have heard of. The Derrick draw put two feet of water on the Menard highway, as did another creek in that locality, but there was no real damage.

Proud grandparents this week are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Watson, who received word yesterday that their grandson Lannie, a third grade student at Silver, had been awarded sixth place in the state

Lions Coming With House Numbers

Friday afternoon has been set aside as the time for sale of house numbers to residents of the City of Eldorado.

Lions, who are sponsoring the project, will call at every house in Eldorado, and sell the street number for $1.00—then put up the number as a free service.

The money collected will go toward paying for the numbers and will also, it is hoped, help pay for the street signs, which are on order.

The Eldorado Lions Club adopted this project several months ago, and hope on Friday afternoon to get most of the numbers in place on Eldorado residences.

PASTOR RECEIVES WORD OF DEATH OF BROTHER

Rev. James Spencer received word late Tuesday night of the death of a brother, Albert C. Spencer, who lived at Banks, Ala., and commuted to his work at Troy.

Rev. Spencer will be unable to attend the funeral which is being held this afternoon. The Spencers visited the brother only five weeks ago.

with his fire poster, and had received a prize of $4 cash. Lannie, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Spurgers, has attracted quite a little attention for a number of years with his drawings. He is nine years old. The posters were graded on neatness and originality.

Edwin M. Jackson, Jr. IV-A
Earl D. Clark IV-A

Jimmie Woodward IV-A
Noble G. Hicks IV-A

Orville T. Conner IV-A
Sam A. Whitten IV-A
Jerry Lee Thompson IV-A
Harold D. Rutland IV-A

Austin—State draft boards are receiving many telephone calls these days from men who want to know what "IV-A" means.

Because of a recent amendment in Selective Service regulations, more than 100,000 Texans are eligible for a change in classification. Nearly all of them are exempt from further military service unless Congress and the President change the law in the future.

"That is what the classification IV-A means," Colonel Morris Schwartz, state draft director, says. "It means that, under present law, individuals receiving it have completed service and are exempt from further service."

The individuals receiving the IV-A classification were formerly classified in Class 1-C (Discharge) and Class 1-C (Reserve), two draft classifications now abolished, and V-A (overage).

Moisture Penetration Tests Show Value of Range Pitting

How much rainfall did you get during our rains of April 29th and 30th? Did three or four inches of rain wet your soil to a depth of at least 15 inches? The amount of moisture held in the soil will largely determine your crop of grass for this year. After all, you can only count what you keep.

The most important part of a rain is what you still have in the ground. The part that ran off or is rapidly evaporating will never grow a pound of grass for you.

Many moisture penetration tests have been made on rangeland since this rain. The contrast between the amount of moisture held by soil with a good cover on it and that which is bare or nearly so is very striking.

Rangeland with good grass was invariably wet at least 18 inches deep. That with little or no cover had only 3 to 5 inches of moisture. Checks were made on these same areas a week later, and where the soil had no cover they had already lost the top inch or better of moisture to evaporation.

Any soil that is nearly devoid of grass has a hard time taking in moisture. This soil is very ashy and crusts over with the first bit of moisture. It loses what moisture it can absorb to evaporation. High temperatures and its lack of means to hold moisture will make it rough for anything but weeds to grow on it for years to come.

It is soil such as this that pitting will help most.

Robert and Jimmy Martin pitted and reseeded an old field early this spring. Previous attempts to establish grass on it were unsuccessful. What rainfall they received was lost to runoff and evaporation. It shed water like pavement. It simply wouldn't absorb enough rainfall to support seedlings until they were established.

Martins received a very heavy hail before it started raining. This really packed the soil tight. Bob says, "I was afraid to go look at the field for fear of what might have happened to it. The hail really beat up the grass and trees."

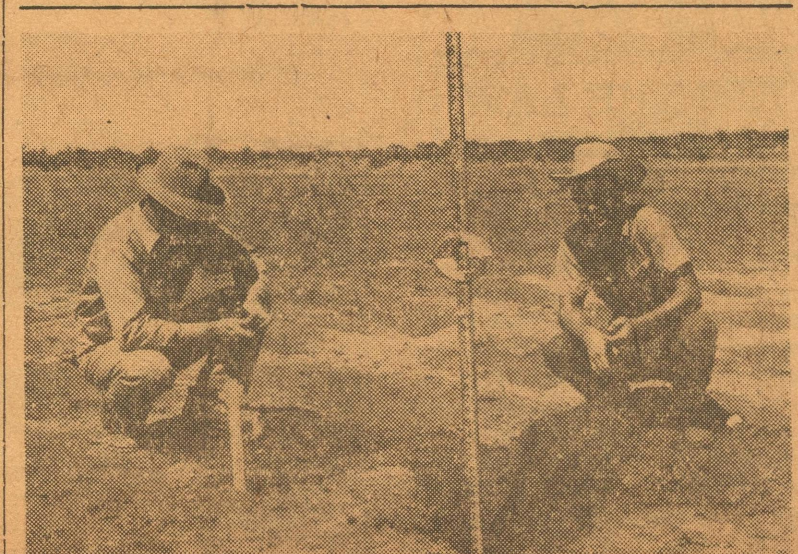

Even following such a hail storm and very rapid downpour the pits held 3 to 4 times the moisture of other unpitted areas. It is this reserve supply of moisture the Martin Bros. are depending on to bring their grass along.

The same thing occurred in areas that Chan Whitten pitted last spring. Here, also, the moisture penetration was 3 to 4 times as deep under pits.

Something was needed on these bare areas to hold the rainfall until it could soak into the soil.

Pitting is no cure-all. If the same stocking practices that removed all of this grass in the first place are continued—it will do little or no good. Pitting is a temporary measure to get water into bare crusted rangeland soils. This extra water will in turn help get grass back on the soil. For best results these areas should be reseeded when pitted. Then they are followed with deferment and light stocking.

It does the job of grass until you get the grass back.

MAX SCHRADER and Robert Martin check moisture penetration on a pitted field on the Martin & Martin place in east Schleicher. Penetration was about 18 inches in the pit and about 5 inches beside it.

Plentiful Foods For June Listed By USDA

College Station.—Milk and other dairy products top the U. S. Department of Agriculture's plentiful foods list for June. Beef is the only red meat on the list in contrast to recent months when meats dominated the plentiful listings.

High protein-content foods in heavy supply for June include canned tuna in oil, peanuts, peanut butter, and dry beans.

With stocks more than double a year ago, canned red cherries are still in heavy supply. Also, frozen cherry stocks are large. Fresh grapefruit of excellent quality remains plentiful, since movement in recent months was less than expected. Latest survey shows that 10.6 million boxes are still to be sold—about 2 million boxes in excess of last year.

Onion supplies will be exceptionally heavy in June, since marketing of the early spring crop overlaps that of the late spring crop. More rice is available than expected because exports ran lower than estimated.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas Partnership or Corporation Thinking of going into business for yourself? Perhaps you and Bill Smith have decided to operate a business together. Should this be done as partners or as a corporation? The answer to this problem involves many legal questions.

Perhaps the most important factor is that the business or personal acts of either you or Bill may be binding upon the partnership. The corporation, however, can act only through its officers and agents, and then only within the limitations granted by the articles of incorporation.

As members of a partnership

"now she wants one of those new

EXTENSION TELEPHONES IN COLOR!"

GENERAL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF THE SOUTHWEST

both you and Bill will be liable for all of the debts of the business. In the case you have business losses, the creditors of the partnership could take all of the assets of the partnership, and all of the personal assets of either you or Bill, or both (except a few exempt by law), in order to satisfy the partnership debts.

On the other hand, if you form a corporation the creditors may go only against the assets of the corporation so that the most that either of you can lose is the amount you have invested in the business. The creditors could not touch the property which either of you own personally and individually, outside of your corporate stock.

In event of the death of you or Bill, it would be necessary to liquidate the partnership, but in the case of a corporation the operation of the business is not affected by the death of an owner (stockholder). The firm continues as the same business with the heirs of the one who dies as the owner of the stock.

Of primary interest to you and Bill would be the amount of income taxes you have to pay. In a partnership, each of the owners of the business includes on his individual income tax return his proportionate share of the total income shown on the partnership return. This is because the partnership is not recognized as a taxable entity.

The corporation is recognized as a taxable entity, so it pays a tax on the amount of its net income, after deducting the salaries of you and Bill and other expenses. Then you of course pay individual income taxes on your salaries.

If over a period of years the earnings of the corporation exceed reasonable salaries for the two owners, these earnings will be distributed to you and Bill in the form of dividends. The funds with which the dividends are paid have already been subject to tax in the hands of the corporation, but are again taxed on your individual returns when distributed.

The income tax advantage or disadvantage of a partnership as compared with a corporation depends on the net income from the business, the salaries the owners receive, the amount of their other income, and the requirements of the business for liquid funds.

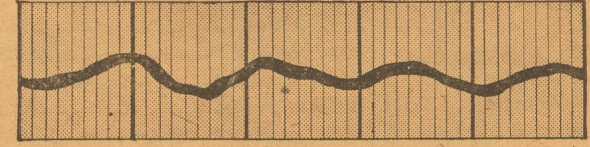

In the event either of the owners is interested in planning his estate to reduce taxes at the time of his death, he can probably do it more easily through a corporation than a partnership.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Doc Nurses a Daydream

It's a treat when I get together with Doc Sherman. The Clarion keeps me much too busy—and Doc, well I think he puts in sixteen hours a day at the hospital.

But Tuesday—a beautiful day—he and I slipped away for a ride around Turtle Lake. Doc's driving a 1956 humdinger—it's like riding on a cloud.

Anyway, at one point Doc slowed almost to a halt. "Used to fish there as a boy, Joe," he said. "Used to sit and imagine myself up on the highway driving a high-powered car. Nowadays, I just sit here and wish I were down there again."

From where I sit, few of us are ever content with the way things are at any given moment. It's human nature. On the other hand, I've been rooting for years that someday everybody will show enough good American tolerance to respect his neighbor's right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer. When that day comes I assure you that I'll never want to change back.

COUNTY AGENT'S COLUMN

by Tiny Godwin

Schleicher County Agricultural Agent

The most serious pecan insect pest in Texas is the pecan nut casebearer. More growers are spraying than ever before to control the casebearer.

The three essentials in obtaining good control of pecan nut casebearer are as follows:

1. Correct timing of spray application.
2. Use of correct insecticides.
3. Proper application of spray material.

The only way to be highly accurate in timing the spray application is to check at regular intervals for the appearance of the case bearer eggs. The eggs are usually deposited singly on the tip or blossom end of the small nuts. The eggs are small but can be found rather easily against the brown background of the pollinated pecan blossom. The eggs are pearly white and hatch in four to five days. After hatching the small worm moves down below the cluster of pecans and feeds on the buds in the axil of the leaf stems immediately under the cluster. After feeding four or five days the worm is increasing in size and appetite—moves back to the cluster of pecans and bores a hole at the base of the pecan and enters to feed. One casebearer will commonly hollow out two or three pecans in a cluster and sometimes more.

DDT or any other insecticide with a long residual should be applied when eggs are found. Be sure and coat the small pecans with the spray. The nut casebearer feeds only on the buds of the cluster and on the small pecans.

It is important if you have pecans as yard trees to check now for the nut casebearer.

Cattle grubs cost the livestock industry $100 million a year in losses of meat, milk and damaged hides. Now for the first time, the USDA research worker have experimentally prevented the development of grubs within cattle. They did it with a new systemic known as Dow ET-57. Tests will continue.

A mineral mixture composed of two parts bonemeal and one part salt by weight usually will correct a mineral deficiency in cattle. The feeding of bonemeal will increase profits by increasing gains, improving the condition of the cows, increases the calf crop and makes for larger calves at weaning time. In case good alfalfa hay is fed, cattle seldom need a mineral or protein supplement.

All cattle need salt. Loose salt is preferable to block salt—it can be fed without waste. Cattle will consume about 25 pounds of salt per head per year.

Salt away from water to obtain proper use on the entire pasture and better utilization on under-used sites. Livestock do not require salt and water at the same time. As much as eight hours may elapse between eating salt and taking water.

Salt should be placed one half to one mile from water. Salt boxes should be located on knolls, benches, opening in timber or brush and gentle slopes or under used sites. Minerals and salt should be fed free choice.

...when you're cruising at everyday speeds!

"88" HOLIDAY SEDAN

THE ROCKET'S EXTRA MARGIN OF POWER MEANS AN EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY!

HIGH HORSEPOWER . . . high torque . . . high compression. It takes all three to describe Oldsmobile's Rocket! But there's still another important side to the picture.

It's reserve power—in abundance! In fact, at normal cruising speeds the Rocket still has more than 175 horsepower left . . . beyond what it takes to propel the car! It's this reserve that whips you through a passing situation so quickly, so effortlessly.

That means economy, too! The Rocket just eases along, when lesser engines are straining. You can see the result in Oldsmobile's double victory in the Mobilgas Economy Run!

The modern "big bore—short stroke" design cuts friction and power loss. The Rocket's design made high compression practical . . . and today's Rocket hits a high 9.25 to 1 compression!

Come take the wheel of a Rocket Oldsmobile. You will feel a distinct difference in performance, in riding and handling qualities . . . just as you see a glamorous difference in Oldsmobile's beauty. We'll be looking for you soon!

Careful Management Needed On Late Crops

College Station.—Recent rains over much of the state have greatly improved the prospects for a cotton crop. The lack of moisture had forced a delay of planting and in some areas crops will be as much as three weeks late, says C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist.

Growers generally realize, points out Bates, that greater risks are involved with late cotton. Experience last year showed that late planted fields produced below average yields and returned little or no profit. But, he adds, the use of the best known production practices can help close the gap.

Of prime importance are early weed and insect control. The use of the rotary hoe on cotton will eliminate grass and weed seedlings. This type of cultivation is cheaper than slower row-type cultivation and gets the young cotton off to a fast start, says the specialist. If a rotary hoe isn't available on the farm, Bates suggests renting one from a neighbor or consider a purchase. Spot-oiling for controlling of Johnsongrass is also recommended. Insects must be controlled on late cotton in order to get a set of the first bolls. Early season controls are suggested for the entire acreage if early and frequent checks for insects show that control measures are needed.

Local county agents can supply copies of the 1956 Texas Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects and the information can be most helpful in determining rates, methods of applications and the kinds of materials to use in the insect fight.

Wage the insect battle carefully and effectively on all cotton planted and if credit is needed, Bates believes it can be obtained without difficulty for loaning agencies are interested in seeing a profitable crop produced.

TEXAS GETS USDA PORK AND LARD

College Station. — Nearly four million pounds of pork and more than two million pounds of lard have been allocated to Texas by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. John J. Slaughter, chief, of southwest food distribution division, Agricultural Marketing Service, made the announcement.

These pork products are being distributed by the Texas State Department of Public Welfare to school lunch programs, state institutions and needy people.

To assist hog producers, USDA started a special pork buying program in mid-November. Since then it has bought 197,572,000 pounds of canned and frozen pork and lard. The buying was stopped last week when hog prices reached 16¢.

It would take about two million head of hogs to produce the amount of pork USDA has bought, Slaughter said. And it would take a million hogs to produce the lard USDA has bought.

Ground Observers Get New Instructions

New instructions for reporting aircraft to the Air Defense filter center in San Antonio have been received by the Ground Observer Corps post in Eldorado, it was announced this week by James Williams, post supervisor.

Under the new instructions GOC observers will normally report only the following types of aircraft: all jets; all formations, two or more aircraft flying a fixed pattern; all multi-engine aircraft, aircraft with three or more engines; all unknowns, and any unusual activity.

Exceptions to the foregoing instructions provide for the reporting of all air traffic within 40 nautical miles of the Mexican border.

This area, it was stated, has been designated as the perimeter area of the Mexican Air Defense Identification zone, and close surveillance in all perimeter areas is urgent. Additional classes of air traffic may be reported during air defense exercises, depending upon instructions from the filter center.

"These new instructions will materially limit the number of aircraft flash calls to the filter center," Mr. Williams said. "Since the Eldorado post was organized we have been reporting virtually all air traffic, a practice followed in order to give operational training both to our volunteers here and also to those in the filter center. Now that the Air Force feels that we are prepared to do our job under any circumstances the volume of calls can be reduced."

Provision is made, however, it was pointed out, for reporting additional types of aircraft by those posts where the air traffic is so light as to affect the morale and efficiency of volunteer observers. In such cases the post supervisor is authorized to request reporting of other traffic.

The local unit has 31 observers, one for each day of the month.

Plans Completed For '56 Texas Broiler Festival

College Station. — During the week of May 14-17 the agricultural spotlight will be focused on the Texas broiler industry. Governor Shivers has designated the period as Broiler Week in Texas and the climax will come with the selection of the 1956 Texas Broiler Queen and the winners in the Broiler Festival program.

This year's festival program will be held in Corsicana. Chairman F. Z. Beanblossom of the festival's general committee reports that 180 entries are being groomed for the big state finals and that the quality of the 18,000 birds involved should be the best ever. The finals are limited to junior participants and they'll be competing for trophies, cash and the privilege of selling their top five pens in the annual auction sale. An entry consists of 15 live birds.

All entries must arrive at the plant of the Corsicana Poultry and Egg Company on Monday, May 14. Judging of live birds will be done on Tuesday and the next day the top 20 pens will be processed and final judging will commence. The winners will be named on Thursday during the program scheduled for the Corsicana Fair Grounds. The auction of the five top pens will follow.

Demonstrators Are Recognized

The word "demonstration" and its variations is a popular one with the 120 members of Schleicher County Home Demonstration clubs. The Home Demonstration agent or a subject matter leader gives a "method demonstration" at a club showing how to do a specific thing which is always related to the basic educational programs of the Extension Service, dealing with food, clothing, shelter and family life. In addition to this "method demonstration" there is the "result demonstration." The result demonstration describes itself; a project or program of work is carried on by a club member in order to show to friends and neighbors the results of doing things in a certain way. The results of living room improvement demonstration might be better lighted rooms, furniture rearranged to take care of the hobbies and recreation of the family, a note of cheer added through a new color scheme, new draperies, slip-covered furniture, recovered floors or refinished furniture. Foods and nutrition demonstrators might show results by making the kitchen a more convenient and a prettier place to work, by planning to meet the families' food needs, by adding new dishes to the weekly menus or by concentrating on meals from the food freezer.

The living room improvement demonstrators who will work during 1956 on improving their living rooms are: Mrs. Weldon Davis of the Good Neighbor Club; Mrs. Sam Henderson of the Cooper Gas Club; Mrs. Bernard Carr of the Earn and Learn Club; Mrs. J. Forrest Runge of Rudd; Mrs. Jess Walston, Town and Country; Mrs. Victor Sauer of Reynolds-Alexander Club; and Mrs. Ray Alexander of the Glendale Eldorado Club.

Foods and nutrition demonstrators are: Mrs. Aaron Stewart, Good Neighbor Club; Mrs. Reginald Atkinson, Reynolds-Alexander Club; Mrs. Gene McCalla, Town and Country Club; Mrs. Voy Butts of Rudd Club; Mrs. A. A. (Tucker) Clark, Cooper Gas Club; Mrs. M. H. Woodward of Earn and Learn Club and Mrs. Edward Meador of the Glendale Club. These women represent all club women who are making a contribution toward better family and community living; women who believe that example is a power in the ways of teaching.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Joiner of San Saba spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Joiner, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Mittel and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Joiner.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Burk and children of Snyder spent the weekend with Mrs. Burk's mother Mrs. Way King and Mr. Burk's brother Lum Burk and his wife.

A group of 20 people composed of farmers, ranchers, ministers and businessmen of the town, and Oliver Burk and his FFA class went to the field Thursday afternoon to observe conservation practices and range problems, during Soil Stewardship and Soil Conservation District week.

The first stop was at Clyde Keeney's where a test plot had been set up to test the most effective method of controlling mesquite. W. G. Godwin, the county agent, explained the different methods and mixtures used. Godwin compared the amount of water required to produce a pound of mesquite forage with a pound of grass. In some grass it is about a 4 to 1 ratio, he said. Godwin also pointed out the increasing infestation of mesquite in the district.

The next stop was at a terraced field at the Ross McAngus farm west of Eldorado. Lloyd B. Johnson, conservation aid, assisting the Eldorado-Divide Soil Conservation district, explained that Ross had built the terraces with his own equipment and that the terraces had caught and held practically all the recent rain that fell. He also brought out the importance of contour farming, crop residue utilization, crop rotation, legumes, perennial grasses in conjunction with a terrace system to make it most effective.

The third and last stop was a deferred pasture on the Bettie Pfluger farm west of Eldorado. Max K. Schrader, Soil Conservationist, and Wm. M. Rountree, Work Unit Conservationist, assisting the district, were in charge at this stop. Schrader brought out by the use of charts the value of cover on rangeland. These were entitled "What Happens to Your 20 Inches of Rain?" and "What Happens to Grass When Stock Take a Bite?" Rountree discussed the effectiveness of pitting bare rangeland, management following pitting, moisture infiltration on bare ground, showed a chart on the amount of water in pounds different species of grasses require to produce one pound of forage as compared to mesquite, and quite some time was spent looking at and discussing rainfall chart.

During this stop moisture temperature was taken and the temperature was 108 degrees on bare ground as compared to 93 degrees under a good cover of grass.

Sponsorship of the tour was by the Eldorado Divide Soil Conservation district.

Weekend guests in the T. H. Alexander home were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Alexander and Dannie Clark of Austin. The annual Mothers Day dinner was served at the home of Mrs. Ray Alexander. Attending in addition to those mentioned above were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bruton, Mrs. Alexander's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bruton and two children.

All of the Jeff Enochs' children were at home for Mothers Day except two girls. Present were Bus and family of Austin, Mrs. Ethel Etheredge and boys, Pat and family, and Oran and family of Eldorado, Tom and his wife of Midland and Holvey of Denver, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McGinnes visited their son Floyd and his wife at Crosbyton and Mr. McGinnes' sister and her husband at Dickens. They left Eldorado on Wednesday and returned Saturday.

Mrs. Carl McWhorter, Miss Kitty Buchanan and Tom Buchanan have returned from a several weeks' visit with their brother at College Station.

Mrs. Robert Milligan is planning to have a china exhibit at her home some time later in the month. Those who have articles to exhibit will be invited to participate.

Mrs. Joe H. Moore of San Antonio stopped to visit Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Moore, and her son Sonny accompanied her to Ballinger where they visited relatives.

Thad Thomson III has returned from Houston where he attended a wedding.

Relatives here report that Mrs. Ben Meckel, who had a heart attack three weeks ago, is improving at Hudspeth Memorial Hospital in Sonora, and may return to her home in a week or two.

Bob Ratliff, one of the 1956 Seniors, is making plans to enroll at SMU for summer work.

Guests of Mrs. W. H. McClatchy on Mother's Day were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Younger of Odessa and Jack McClatchy of Corpus Christi.

Mr. and Mrs. Don McCormick spent the weekend at Austin with their daughter Donna Beth. They report that she will attend the first summer session at the University.

Mrs. H. C. Allsup and family of Segovia spent the weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Neff.

The Nick Jurecek family spent the day Sunday with Mrs. Jurecek's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Manley at Melvin.

Austin.—There is very little suspense left in connection with the State Democratic convention to be held in Dallas next week. That U. S. Sen. Lyndon Johnson is the new party head was conclusively evidenced after county conventions. Named were at least 1,149 delegates favorable to Johnson and only 66 definitely committed to his rival, Gov. Allan Shivers.

Only remaining question is how far the Johnsonites will go in sweeping out Shivers' backers. Almost all members of the State Executive committee are staunch Shivers supporters.

Ordinarily, new committee members would not be elected until the September conventions. But two factors reflect on the stability of their positions.

First, state law merely says the committee member shall hold office "until his successor is elected." Second, in a 1944 contest between party factions the Supreme Court held one convention could set aside the action of a previous convention.

At stake is Ben Ramsey's job as National Committeeman. And perhaps that of Mrs. Hilda Weinert of Seguin, Democratic National Committeewoman. Also in doubt about how they will be treated on May 22 are members of the Dallas County delegation, one of the groups to go for Shivers. In this case, a rump convention named delegates favorable to Johnson.

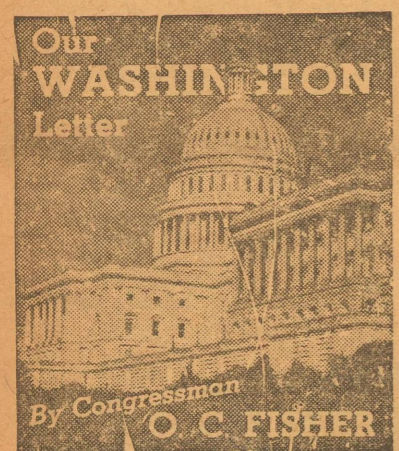

Shivers' Dallas supporters expect the like-minded credentials committee to seat them. But they won't be surprised if other delegates vote to give them the heave-ho.

Election Law Viewed. A movement to insure reporters the right to cover precinct conventions may be spearheaded by the Texas Press Association.

Under the Texas Election Code only a qualified voter in the precinct may "vote, be present at, or participate in, the business of such a convention."

TPA President Russell W. Bryant has suggested deletion of the words "be present at" from the law. He indicated the matter would probably be considered at the TPA convention in Amarillo next month.

Three precinct chairmen in Travis County refused reporters admission to conventions this year.

Recent floods in our area, which have left in their wake tragedy and destruction, serve to focus further attention on the need for more dams to control unruly flood waters.

Watershed flood prevention was accentuated by the House the other day when a bill, authorized by Cong. Poage of Waco, was approved. This method of preventing—rather than controlling—floods, has proven very popular and successful. Still in a pioneering stage, it is gaining in public favor every day.

The Poage bill implements existing law by allowing all construction cost to be borne by the Federal government—just as is now the case with the bigger dams built by the Corps of Engineers. Local interests will continue to be required to provide rights-of-way, easements, etc.

The bill also permits larger projects (above the 5,000 acre-foot limitation now in the law) if the added capacity is for purposes other than flood prevention and the construction cost of such excess capacity is borne entirely by local interests.

Provision is also made for Government long-term loans to local organized interests to help finance, to a limited extent, the costs incurred in setting up irrigation, industrial, municipal, and other uses where the capacity is above 5,000 acre feet.

These upstream projects must first be found to be economically feasible by the Soil Conservation engineers. The benefits must equal or exceed the construction costs. In our district, where pioneering in this field has been done, a half dozen watershed projects have been cleared, one has been completed, and others are being constructed. Others await engineering studies and surveys.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ringle visited Saturday and Sunday at Ballinger with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Reece.

Tractors Can Be Killers Farmers Are Warned

College Station.—Farm tractor accidents now take more than 1,000 lives annually. A great majority of these lives could have been saved, says W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer, if the tractor had been operated with care and foresight.

From now until "lay-by time" the farm tractor will be the workhorse on most farms. Operators will spend long hours planting, plowing, applying insecticides and performing the many other jobs now done with a tractor. Use the tractor safely. Be sure operators are properly instructed and supervised and always remember, points out Ulich, that fatigue is often a factor in farm accidents.

Excessive speed is the number one cause of tractor accidents. The improper use of wheel brakes, rough roads or a quick turn can bring tragedy if the speed is too high.

Far too many teen-age tractor operators are involved in accidents. Work with these youngsters, urges Ulich, and give them instructions and supervision until they are fully qualified. A tractor cannot carry extra passengers safely and ranking high as a cause of accidents is the extra rider. Children, in particular, often meet with serious injury or death as extra riders.

About a third of tractor fatalities occur on public roads while many more happen on private lanes and drives. Mile for mile, it is safer, points out the specialist, to operate a car on public roads than a tractor. The heavier the traffic, the greater the hazard. Plan farm work so as to reduce the exposure of slow-moving tractors and farm machinery to traffic hazards. If machinery must be on the road after dark, be sure it is properly lighted. White lights on the front and red lights on the rear. Reflective material applied to tractors and machinery is an added safeguard. A red flag helps to warn motorists of slow-moving equipment during daylight hours.

But above all, cautions Ulich, think before doing any job with the tractor. It can be a killer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Johnson, who bought the Willoughby place on which Sam McGinnes was foreman, have moved to the ranch from San Angelo. The couple, who attend the Church of Christ, have a son who is a Freshman at SAC. They have a leased place in northeast Irion County which they will continue to work along with the Schleicher County ranch.

AN OPPORTUNITY YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS—

A COMMON-SENSE APPROACH TO AMERICA'S PROSPERITY

LAST YEAR was a record one for our country. More Americans were working — earning more and owning more than ever before. It all added up to the greatest prosperity we've ever known, a prosperity that will last if each of us takes advantage of an opportunity that is knocking.

Now is your best opportunity to save. Right now, while your earning power is at its peak, is the best chance you'll ever have to put something aside for your future. If you haven't been able to save up to now, it's probably because you don't have a simple, systematic savings plan — one that works automatically. Your Government has provided just such a plan. And millions of Americans are already cashing in on it.

Why don't you join them? Sign up for U. S. Series E Savings Bonds on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or buy Bonds regularly where you bank. Either way assures you that you and your family will be protected in the future. Your principal invested in Bonds is safe — not subject to market fluctuations. Your returns are sure — Bonds pay an average of 3% per year, when held to maturity. Your Bonds are liquid savings — you can always cash them after 2 months, should any emergency arise.

It's easy and human to get carried away when plenty is coming in. To spend more than you can afford, buy more than you can pay for in a reasonable length of time. But is it wise? The smart citizen today, for his own sake and that of his country, will spend wisely and save regularly. For as Treasury Secretary Humphrey recently said, "The continued success of our economy depends not so much upon Government, but upon the efforts of all our people."

So let's do our part and put this advice into action — to preserve our American prosperity for ourselves and our children.

For the big things in your life, be ready with U. S. Savings Bonds

'Thought For The Week
Ministerial Alliance

This is graduation month, a time when more than the graduates rejoice over their accomplishments. To some it means the end of their formal education but to others it is merely the first landing and with the beginning of another school year they will begin their college work. No matter what the plans we never graduate from church worship and Sunday School. No matter how much we learn about the Bible and God, there is always more to learn and the more we learn the more we want to know the truth that makes us free. Those who do not feel the necessity of learning all they can about God and his way of life are to be pitied. Life can be had only as a gift of God and not to know him is death in the real sense. Go to the Church and the Church School of your choice and learn for yourself as that is the only way. Rev. James L. Spencer.
