Christian Revolt Rocks Lebanon

BINT JBEIL, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian militiamen in southern Lebanon openly rebelled against the central government today and warned they would fight any United Nations forces that tried to enter the border region.

A tour of the border indicated that rightist irregulars, backed by tanks and automatic weapons, were refusing to let U.N. forces past their checkpoints along the frontier.

At Bint Jbeil, Phalangist militiamen said the Christian army leaders who attempted to follow orders from Beirut to confine their men to barracks had themselves been placed under house arrest.

"They betrayed us by following the orders of the government," one militiaman said. "The state is in the hands of (Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser) Arafat and (Syrian President Hafez) Assad."

The militia commander in the town, Luis Hasrouny, declared that the local army chieftains were free to act as civilians, but "if they try to follow the orders of the U.N. and the interests of Hafez Assad, we'll break their necks!"

At another Phalangist checkpoint barely 100 yards from U.N. headquarters at southwest Naqoura, a militia tank commander said "one of them tried to escape and was fired on." He did not say which officer attempted the alleged escape.

In a communique distributed in the south by the "War Council of the Militias of South Lebanon," the militiamen declared:

"We are forced to resist UNIFIL (the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon), though we have nothing personal against the force commanders and members, but we consider Dr. Kurt Waldheim and his organization in Lebanon as servants of the PLO (Palestine Liberation Organization) and Yasser Arafat."

The communique referred to orders by the central government of Sunni Moslem Prime Minister Selim al Hoss that Lebanese army commanders Maj. Saad Haddad and Maj. Sami Chediak confine their men to their barracks and facilitate the task of the U.N. peacekeeping troops in the south.

"The military commanders of the south were and are the gallant officers of the Lebanese army, Maj. Saad Haddad and Maj. Sami Chediak," it said. "The militias are looking upon them as brave military leaders and will return to serve under their command when the evil declaration and orders of Dr. Selim al Hoss will be canceled."

Although reliable information from the south has been sketchy, a conflict apparently developed between rightist army commanders, who want to obey the orders of the central government, and the militias, who do not.

Some 600 regulars serve under Haddad and Chediak in the border area. The exact numbers of the militiamen were not known, but some estimates put the total at 800 to 900, the number having been boosted by reinforcements during and after Israel's March invasion of the south.

The militias indicated that UNIFIL commander Maj. Gen. Emmanuel Erskine had agreed the U.N. forces would not enter the immediate border strip controlled by the rightists.

"If UNIFIL will insist on entering our areas contrary to the agreement between Gen. Erskine and the two Lebanese Majors Haddad and Chediak, we shall fight them for every piece of land, every house and every village," the communique said.

The statement claimed to represent Christians, Druze and Moslems from the Phalangist Party, the national Liberal Party, the Guardians of the Cedars, the "heroes of the Arqoub" and the Young Shiites of the Cedar.

"We consider ourselves the masters of the area from the (southeast) Arqoub to the sea and we operate under the roof of the Lebanese Front (a right-wing Maronite Chgistian political alliance)," it said. "We warn the U.N. not to interfere with our internal Lebanese problems and we warn them that we shall fight until the last drop of blood."

On another sector, former President Suleiman Franjieh, committed to a "war to the death" against those who killed his son last week, gave the right-wing Phalangist party two weeks to get out of northern Lebanon.

City Funeral Homes Split Over Controls

By ROBERT M. COCKRUM
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Charging that funeral homes exploit bereaved customers for their own profit, a Federal Trade Commission study released today in Washington proposes that they be put under federal regulation.

The report's major recommendation urges requiring that consumers be given itemized price information in advance. The average funeral and burial costs more than $2,000, making it the most expensive purchase for many consumers, other than buying a house or car, according to the study.

If the commission adopts the staff recommendations, many of the nearly 2 million people who pay for funerals each year could save from several hundred to more than a thousand dollars, the staff estimated.

A Lubbock funeral director said today that recommendations from the Federal Trade Commission should not affect his business, other than causing more paperwork. Another said there are unethical persons who should be screened from the industry.

"I think any ethical funeral home can live with the recommendations," said Monta Wolfe of Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home. "Mostly, it will mean more paperwork."

Wolfe said that although Franklin-Bartley provides an itemized list of charges, "most people are concerned about the grand total." He said his company charges a standard $795 fee, which includes services rendered from the time the body is picked up to the time it is taken to the cemetery. Cost of the casket, cemetery lot and gravestone are additional.

The FTC staff came to some of the same conclusions as Jessica Mitford did in her 1963 book, "The American Way of Death," which rocked the funeral industry. The government study said that funeral directors often manipulate consumers into buying high-priced goods and services.

"Buying a casket is just like you and I buying a suit," said T.S. Jamison of Jamison & Son Funeral Home. "There are different styles."

He said he resented government interference, and "the way I look at it, people won't have freedom of choice."

But Jamison also acknowledged that some funeral directors and morticians are unqualified and are out to "get rich quick."

"We have thieves in every kind of business. The honest (funeral directors) keep their minds on the body (and service to the family) and their eyes off the casket," he said.

Wolfe, whose firm last month advertised a no-frills, pine box funeral for $333, said most persons choose caskets in the $500-$1,000 range, although prices vary from $144 to $4,000.

"All our caskets are in the same room," said Wolfe. "We don't have any low prices that we don't show. You have to have them in all price ranges."

Even though the circumstances make it seem particularly distasteful, Wolfe said, "There's a certain amount of merchandising to anything. When you sell, you have to merchandise to a certain extent, because you have a selection of caskets. There's not one business that doesn't use merchandising, be it the automobile industry or a funeral home."

He said the pine box advertisement — "If you really want a return to the pine box of the Old West..." — drew a few calls, "probably more out of curiosity than anything else." The price includes the wooden coffin, taking the body to the cemetery and handling the necessary legal papers.

The National Funeral Directors Association has lobbied against the advertising of service costs.

"I think advertising is fine," said Wolfe, "but people should understand there are so many things that go into the ultimate cost. If it's clear and not deceiving, I don't see anything wrong with it."

But Jamison disagrees, calling death "a scary thing and (it) breaks a lot of hearts. I don't think you want to sell funeral services in the same way you want to sell a truck or a car."

The FTC also said the industry was guilty of encouraging needless embalming, a procedure not required by law. "If they cut out embalming, it's back to the horse and buggy days," said Jamison. He said that for health reasons, all bodies should be embalmed.

Mahon Raps Dust Ruling

By KETH HENLEY
Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer

U. S. Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock today labeled U. S. Department of Labor cotton dust standards "highly inflationary" and "damaging to the cotton industry."

The standards, announced today by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) in Washington, limit cotton dust to no more than .2 milligrams per cubic meter in yarn production areas, .75 milligrams in weaving rooms and .5 milligrams in non-textile processing areas.

Cotton gins and merchandising operations are excluded from the exposure limits.

Mahon noted, however, that gin operators will be required to inform their employees of the health risks associated with exposure to cotton dust and also to provide an annual medical examination for each employee. He expressed his approval of "reasonable and practical" efforts to reduce health risks to industry workers.

The cotton dust standards have been the center of "heated debate" within the Carter administration in recent weeks, said the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

"I am disappointed that the president has apparently failed to follow the advice of his chief economic advisers, who warned that the standards as written by OSHA will be highly inflationary and will impose a heavy burden on the cotton industry," said Mahon.

"I had hoped some of the less expensive and more reasonable alternatives suggested by the Council on Wage and Price Stability would be adopted."

Mahon cited OSHA studies which indicate that large amounts of capital expenditures will be necessary to implement the engineering controls required by the standards.

"According to OSHA projections, the cottonseed oil mill sector alone will be required to make an initial investment of $45 million for the purchase of new machinery which, in some cases, is not now available and may not become available in the future," he pointed out.

"In addition to the capital costs, an annual expenditure of $15 million for operational costs and interest payments will be necessary," Mahon added.

Concerning the standards' effect on the industry, Mahon said:

"The impact on cotton gins will be relatively minor in comparison with the effect on cottonseed oil mills and textile manufacturers. The textile mills will

OPEC Bars Price Hike This Year

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries agreed today to freeze oil prices for another six months, the 13-nation cartel's secretary-general, Ali Jaidah, announced.

But Jaidah said the base price of crude oil would be increased next Jan. 1.

He said a special committee headed by Kuwait's oil minister, Ali Khalifa as-Sabah, would examine further how OPEC's members could protect themselves from the erosion of their purchasing power due to the decline of the dollar.

The committee will make recommendations to the organizations next price meeting, to be held in Abu Dhabi on Dec. 16, he said.

The decision to keep the base price at $12.70 for a 42-gallon barrel of crude oil was a victory for Saudi Arabia and Iran, OPEC's two biggest producers and the two closest friends of the United States in the 13-nation organization.

But the decision to maintain the base price at the level set a year ago came as no surprise. Libyan Oil Miniter Izz ad-Din al-Mabruk, whose government is one of the cartel's price hawks, told reporters at the start of the meeting Saturday he did not expect any change before the end of the year.

Iraq, Algeria and others urged an increase in the oil price because of inflation and the decline in value of the U.S. dollar, the currency used in the international oil trade.

Unions Ask Pay Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unions representing 554,000 postal workers asked for pay increases today of about 14 per cent in the first year of a new contract, at least double the annual rise that the Carter administration suggests.

The wage increase would average $1,100 in the first year of a proposed two-year contract and $865 in the second year, plus the current cost-of-living increases, a spokesman for the largest of the four unions said today.

The Postal Service says its wages now average $15,877 a year.

The administration says the settlement is important to Carter's inflation-fighting program. Consumer prices have been rising at an annual rate of about 10 percent since the start of the year.

World Faces Protein Shortage

By BARBARA FORD

In fact, they assert, many of us eat too much food. Particularly protein.

Americans eat 99 grams (about 3.5 ounces) of protein per day, almost twice the amount suggested for the adult male by the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization and the World Health Organization.

First In A Series

Some other countries also eat an overabundance of protein. These nations include most of Western Europe, Australia and New Zealand.

The food shortage is principally a problem in what are known today as "developing countries." Most of them are in Asia and Africa.

At frequent intervals, some of these nations experience severe shortages of both protein and calorie sources, and death rates mount. Even in good times, malnutrition is a chronic condition among a large segment of the population in developing countries.

Malnutrition is simply a state in which the body does not receive what it needs from the food ingested. One of the causes of malnutrition is too little food. But malnutrition can also be caused by an imbalance of one or more kinds of nutrients, such as protein.

Protein is of vital importance because it is the substance required by the body to build cells as well as to maintain and repair them. Contrary to popular opinion, babies and pregnant women need much more protein then athletes. A severe illness or operation also calls for extra protein.

In the United States, we prefer to get most of our protein from meat, milk, cheese and eggs. People in Western Europe and a few other areas of the world eat a diet much like ours. But the greater part of the world gets most of its protein and calories from plants.

Rice and wheat are the staple foods of more than two-thirds of the human population — rice in the tropics, wheat in temperate and dry regions. Corn, sorghum, oats, rye and millet are popular in various areas.

Cereal grains like these are not balanced sources of protein because they are low in lysine, one of the 11 essential amino acids that the body must obtain from foods. But grains provide a diet that is adequate in biologic value if supplemented with a high lysine plant, such as beans, or small amounts of

Patty Hearst Plans Wedding

NEW YORK (AP) — Patricia Hearst, serving a seven-year prison sentence for bank robbery, plans to marry a San Francisco policeman who at one time moonlighted as her private bodyguard, according to Newsweek magazine.

MISS HEARST

The magazine quotes an unidentified source as saying the 24-year-old newspaper heiress' wedding to Bernard Shaw, who is divorced, could occur before Miss Hearst leaves prison.

Shaw, who worked as Miss Hearst's bodyguard while she was free on bond for 18 months has declined comment on the report, according to Newsweek.

Miss Hearst returned to the minimum-security federal prison at Pleasanton, Calif., on May 15 after failing in court appeals to have her guilty verdict overturned. The U.S. Supreme Court had refused to review the conviction in March.

Miss Hearst gained national attention when she was kidnapped on Feb. 4, 1974, from her Berkeley, Calif., apartment. She later joined forces with her captors, the Symbionese Liberation Army and participated with SLA members in the April 1974 bank holdup for which she was convicted.

During her appeal, she was free on $1 million bail.

She will be eligible for parole in a year.

Musicians Will Honor Bing Crosby

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Remember the "Delta Rhythm Boys?"

When George Robert Crosby, brother of Bing, and Ray Hendricks get together this week, that group is bound to be on their minds.

The American Federation of Musicians is sponsoring their reunion at Spokane's Riverfront Park to honor Crosby and his big band sound.

Crosby, Hendricks and the late Bill Pollard sang together here as the Delta Rhythm Boys trio.

They were fired after three performances, but Crosby and Hendricks went on to make it big during the glory days of the big band sound.

Crosby, 10 years younger than Bing, worked with the Crosby Bob Cats.

Hendricks was the first male vocalist hired by the original Benny Goodman Band.

Since then, Hendricks has played with Sid Lippman, Hoagy Carmichael, Ray Noble and Meredith Wilson — just to name a few.

He married Laraine Day in 1941.

King Preaches In Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr. urged a Baptist congregation here to "bring back lost sheep to the fold."

The father of the late Martin Luther King Jr. preached Sunday as part of his visit behind the Iron Curtain at the invitation of the Ecumenical Council of Hungarian churches.

About 400 Baptists were asked by "Daddy" King to "seek lost sheep in the wilderness until they are found, and then bring them back."

On Friday, the Calvinist theological academy of Debrecen, Hungary, conferred an honorary degree on King, citing his preaching for "peace among men, justice among all races and creeds."

From Budapest, King is scheduled to go to Prague, Czechoslavakia, to attend the fifth conference of the world Council of Churches.

Ford Helps Out At Rodeo

The former president was escorted to the roping chute Sunday, climbed a five-foot fence and sat above the steer. He then released the spring-loaded gate, freeing the steer while his son, a member of the Los Angeles Roughriders, and a teammate chased it on horseback.

The younger Ford missed his first roping attempt on the steer but was successful on his second try. He was timed in 8.2 seconds.

"Mr. Ford did just fine," said Roughrider Coach Casey Tibbs. "What hampered Steve's first try was the news media that was crowding the chute."

The former president climbed off the chute and photographers asked him to try it again because many missed taking pictures of him. Ford obliged.

Judy Carne Injured

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Actress-comedienne Judy Carne was in improved but still in serious condition Sunday at Doylestown Hospital with a neck fracture suffered in an auto accident in suburban Philadelphia last week, a hospital official says.

Miss Carne, the "Sock it to me" girl of NBC's "Laugh In," is alert, and there is no indication of paralysis or neurological problems, said Joanne Hansel, a nursing supervisor at the hospital Sunday.

The accident occurred Thursday night on a rural road, police said. Miss Carne's former husband, Robert Bergman, 30, told police his 1965 station wagon had been forced off the road by another auto.

Moo-Chanics

ALDERGROVE, British Columbia (AP) — Gary Cunningham's "cow" saves him plenty on veterinary bills. Every once in a while, however, it may need to visit a mechanic.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Cunningham's cow is machine, and while it's weak on milk and fertilizer, it's great with the horses.

Specifically, the three-wheeled vehicle is used for training cutting horses which are used to herd cows toward a branding iron on Cunningham's 11-acre farm.

The problem with real cows, Cunningham says, is that they go sour after about three encounters with a horse.

Muhammad Ali Talks Of Peace With Soviet Union President

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev kissed Muhammad Ali on both cheeks today and the American boxer said after a 35-minute meeting he found the Soviet leader "a quiet and meek gentleman" dedicated to peace in the world.

Ali told reporters Brezhnev asked him to act as "an unofficial ambassador for peace to the United States."

"All he talked about was peace and love for humanity," said Ali, who looked like an ambassador in his well-tailored black pin-striped suit. "He is nothing like the pictures that have been painted to me about him."

"This is the biggest honor I've ever had in my life," said the former heavyweight champion of the world, almost speechless at his meeting with the 71-year-old Soviet leader.

Ali said he told Brezhnev he found the Soviet people "as human and as loving as any people on the planet."

Said Ali: "He received me for about 35 minutes, sitting there looking me in the eyes like I was the president. He made me feel real good to be a little black boy from Louisville, Kentucky, who couldn't meet the mayor of that city a few years ago."

Soviet officials said Ali was the first American athlete ever to meet in the Kremlin with Brezhnev, who rarely grants audiences to people outside the political or business world.

Ali said he himself has also met with President Carter and with former President Gerald R. Ford.

Ali introduced his wife, Veronica, to Brezhnev. Then the president bussed the American boxer on both cheeks, smiling all the while.

"Unfortunately the weather is lousy and we're sick and tired of the rain," Brezhnev said in Russian, referring to the gray, drizzly skies over Moscow for days.

"But according to Russian customs, our country is big and rains are a good sign," he added.

Brezhnev and his guests posed for photographers before the president invited Ali and his wife to sit down. Then the reporters and photographers were ushered out of the room and the three were left with an interpreter and Sergei Pavlov, chairman of the Soviet Physical Culture and Sports Committee.

Ali arrived in the Soviet capital last Monday and hoped to have a meeting with Brezhnev during his visit, he told reporters who met him at the airport. For the past few days, he has been traveling in Soviet Central Asia, praying in Moslem mosques and meeting local Moslems.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said Brezhnev "warmly" greeted "the outstanding American Negro sportsman" at today's meeting "and expressed the hope that his stay in the Soviet Union would serve the cause of deepening mutual understanding between the Soviet and American peoples."

The agency quoted Ali as expressing "gratitude for the warm welcome accorded him in the U.S.S.R. and for the opportunity to meet Leonid Brezhnev, the outstanding champion of peace and international friendship."

Miss Lillian's 'Restful Trip' No Vacation

NAPLES, Fla. (UPI) — It was supposed to be "a restful trip" — a few days of peace and quiet in southwest Florida. But the occasion has turned into a whirlwind of activity for "Miss Lillian" Carter, the 79-year-old mother of the president.

"Do you know I haven't even been in the water yet," she said during a weekend interview sandwiched between yacht outings, cocktail parties and dinner dates.

It's just been one thing after another, Miss Lillian said, interrupting the interview to take a call from her daughter, Ruth Carter Stapleton, who said she was coming for a visit.

Minutes later, local Welcome Wagon ladies arrived to drop off flowers, candy and a fresh Key Lime pie to make sure President Carter's mother felt at home.

"I like it (Naples) much better than any other place in Florida, especially that awful East Coast," Miss Lillian said.

On Saturday, Miss Lillian saw the mailman walking toward the front door of the home of her hosts, Don and Darlene Stoneburner, and stepped out to chat.

"Hey, there, Miss Lillian, it sure is nice to see you," a delighted and surprised Kenneth Wilson said as he delivered a letter from Plains, Ga. "My wife and I went to Plains last year, but we missed you. How are Jimmy and Billy?"

"They're fine, but you know, I sure don't see much of them these days," she replied.

By 1980, U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers predict, Americans will eat 14 billion pounds of hamburger annually.

Retiree Remembers Wild Horse Traps

By GERRY BURTON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

He tied a string across the gate to the water hole with one end looped over his thumb. Awakened by a wild horse tripping the string on the way to water, Morris Patrick dashed to the gate to shut in his prize.

After the horse was shooed into a temporary corral, Patrick went back to the bedroll until the yank on his thumb came again, and he trapped, or lost, the wild bronc snapping the string.

Patrick still works with string, though now it's colored yarn wound around pegs of the hot mat frames he makes for craft fans. He always has to show the beginner the route of the string for the new craft fad.

Retirement hours used to create wood crafts are a lifetime away from the days of open range in New Mexico and pre-railroad times in the Texas Panhandle.

Winter days too cold and summer days too hot for outdoor activity after his heart attack leave many hours available for twining up some catchy mats and recalling the past.

Wild horses were too thick for cattle raising on the Patrick homestead, so the gathers were on any way a cowboy could catch a wild horse. Blocking off water holes and bedding down in one to trap midnight visitors worked the best for Patrick.

At first the mustangers tied a foreleg to the neck, but a traveler showed them how to tie above the hock to allow only three legs for running, a gait easily outdistanced by a saddle horse on a drive to Clovis buyers.

The pick of the herds was held back to break for saddle mounts, a task that sent Patrick every way from the saddle in the process.

Necking a wild bronc to a burro turned out to be the quickest way to teach a horse to mind.

"After that burro kicked him for 30 minutes, he would lead pretty good," Patrick said.

"You take a burro and feed it at the house a few days, then take it out on the range and neck it to a bronc, it'll bring that bronc in. It might take him a week, but he'll bring it in cause he likes that feed."

Open range fell to fences when homesteads were taken up and divided among ranchers.

Patrick's first vivid memories of fences came earlier in the Texas Panhandle with the die-ups on drift fences when the blizzard of 1918 froze thousands of cattle.

He remembers most the three horses that leaned against each other in the corner of one fenced pasture and froze to death, staying there upright for a long time almost like a monument to the death-dealing blizzard.

Other memories of boyhood in "Old Ochiltree" are more pleasant — the country dances, the 4th of July picnics and the rest of the fun made up as the occasion arose.

"For a kid it was grand," Patrick said of the trips from Ochiltree to Liberal, Kan., and back on his father's freight wagons.

There was a halfway housse in the Oklahoma Strip for camping out coming and going, and the wagon yard in Liberal had a bunkhouse with a stove.

A real novelty on the trips was "eating out" at a hotel which served family style meals, the only way eating out was done then.

There was no running loose on the town for Patrick. He trailed along with his father, "always in sight," but having a ball.

Freighting was "the only way to get groceries" for Ochiltree, with Liberal the best spot.

Stockpiles of coal and kerosene were built up all summer for the hard Plains winters. Any shortage in wagon load was taken up in coal, kerosene or stock salt.

When the railroad missed Ochiltree, most of the town moved to the tracks and became Perryton.

Seattle Police Hunt For Sniper

SEATTLE (AP) — Police are searching for a sniper who shot and seriously wounded a woman as she was sitting on the lawn near the student union building at the University of Washington.

Emily Cannell, 24, was listed in serious condition Sunday night at Seattle's Harborview Medical Center. She had been listed in critical condition after surgery to remove a bullet from her chest.

Miss Cannell was attending the Northwest Women's Action Conference on campus over the weekend. University police Sgt. R.M. Kleiven said authorities did not know whether the shooting might be related to the conference or whether the sniper aimed specifically at Miss Cannell.

A number of witnesses told police they saw the gunman run away with what they thought was a .22-caliber rifle after Miss Cannell was hit, said Pepper Quigley, university police spokesman. Five or six shots were fired in the Saturday night attack.

Quigley said Miss Cannell and four other women were sitting on the lawn. As they stood up to leave, they heard "what sounded like firecrackers."

"One of the women said, 'I've been shot' and staggered," Quigley said.

"The other women believed she was kidding. Then they saw she was actually hurt," he said.

Gang Takes Truck By Using Hoist

LONDON (AP) — Between Friday night and Sunday morning, a gang commandeered a seven-ton tow truck and a trailer equipped with a hoist in an industrial area in north London.

They used the hoist to lift seven more one-ton cranes onto the trailer and then drove off with the lot.

Scotland Yard said the 14 tons of stolen equipment was worth $180,000.

Police Cite Doctors For Drug Problem

FORT WORTH (AP) — A few hundred Texas doctors are believed to be pumping millions of dollars of dangerous amphetamines into the state's illicit drug market each year. And police say there is virtually nothing they can do about it.

In a copyright story in Sunday editions of the Fort Worth Star Telegram, law enforcement officials said doctors write prescriptions for the drugs under the guise that they are being dispensed as part of a weight control program.

Fort Worth police said they have identified 10 area physicians who are believed to be supplying local drug users with one third of the dangerous narcotic pills on that city's streets.

Police said the doctors are supplying an estimated $1 million worth of amphetamines annually.

A report prepared after Fort Worth police officers infiltrated the offices of several of the doctors indicates the physicians are running assembly line operations, and are handing out prescriptions to just about anyone who can pay their $20 office visit fee, the story said.

In Houston, police estimate that about a dozen physicians supply half the amphetamines distributed in their city. Houston narcotics Captain Lelan Alsup said one local doctor singlehandedly reduced the price of an amphetamine pill from $25 to $15 almost overnight by flooding the local market with pills.

Dallas police Sgt. H.A. Amos said four doctors are supplying about one fourth of that city's illicit pills, and San Antonio police estimate doctors there are responsible for about a third of the amphetamine pills in the city's illicit drug trade.

The doctors continue to operate because of a 1976 Texas appeals court decision involving a Houston doctor, Fred Thomas Haney, which virtually put state and local law enforcement authorities out of the picture in trying to police the state's drug-pushing doctors.

Bill Pruitt, in charge of the Texas Department of Public Safety narcotics enforcement division, told the paper the court decision "put us out of business" as far as policing the physicians. "It's impossible."

Navarro County district attorney Pat Batchelor said the Haney decision forced him to drop charges against one of the 10 Fort Worth pysicians who was arrested in Corsicana for dispensing controlled substances to a sheriff's deputy.

"The case was never presented to a grand jury becuase of the state court of appeals ruling that doctors can be dope pushers," Batchelor said.

Law enforcement sources also said the state board of medical examiners is largely ineffective in policing the state's physicians because of a code of brotherhood amoung doctors that makes them reluctant to strip a colleague of his medical license. And, they said, the board is also overburdened because it has only eight investigators for the entire state.

Health Agency, HEW Set Conference On Services

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A conference has been set for July 10 to help decide whether health services and grant monies on the South Plains will be regulated by local public officials or federal-level bureaucrats.

South Plains Health Systems, Inc., a planning agency for the 15-county Lubbock area, wants the authority to rest with area citizens and officials, who make up the SPHS governing body.

But the regional agency complains that the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is trying to keep the power all to itself. That is bad, SPHS says, because the department doesn't understand the problems and needs of the South Plains.

On July 10, representatives of HEW and the Lubbock-based planning agency will sit down to hash out their differences face to face. The meeting, SPHS officials say, may well determine the future of health services for the region.

SPHS was created by the federal government two years ago to coordinate health services in the area. Until now, the agency has been acting under "conditional designation" — serving basically in an advisory capacity in such tasks as the collection of data and identification of health needs and priorities.

The job, HEW says in a report, has not been easy because Lubbock is an "extremely conservative area" wary of government control. Nevertheless, SPHS believes it has done its tasks well, gaining the support of both health providers and consumers.

For the coming year, the regional agency has asked for "full designation," a status that would give SPHS — instead of the federal government — additional authority, including the say-so over how federal grants should be used here.

SPHS says such authority should be vested locally, not concentrated at the federal level, because federal officials are ignorant of South Plains circumstances. One example: HEW recently proposed health planning guidelines which, if imposed here, would force most of this region's hospitals to close and deprive rural families of community medical care.

To go with "full designation," SPHS officials asked HEW to increase their annual budget from $175,000 to at least $197,153.

HEW has since turned down the regional agency's application for "full designation" and told the agency it will get no budget increase.

SPHS officials, with help from U.S. Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, arranged for the July 10 meeting with HEW to find out why those decisions were made.

Dr. John Selby, SPHS board chairman, suspects that HEW's actions may be a sort of political vendetta. In a letter to Mahon, Selby said rejection of the agency's application may be due to:

•"Our very vigorous campaign against the controversial National Health Planning Guidelines." Alarmed at what those guidelines would do, SPHS last fall waged an extensive letter-writing and public-information effort to defeat or modify the proposed rules.

•The regional agency's refusal to impose a blanket moratorium on construction of medical facilities. HEW wants such a moratorium put in effect, but SPHS insists that each proposed new project be considered on its own merits.

•The regional agency's refusal to let HEW tamper with the SPHS Health Systems Plan. The local plan, Selby notes, was developed "with very extensive participation of the (SPHS) volunteers and the public" throughout the South Plains.

The local plan is rather flexible. Selby says HEW wants to change the plan and impose its own specific ideas on the South Plains region.

Refusal to buckle under to HEW orders may not be the only reason the SPHS application is in trouble, Selby said.

"Full designation will, of course, shift some of the authority from HEW to the local level, particularly with regard to federal health grants," he told Mahon.

As evidenced by HEW publications, Selby said, there is a "definite reluctance on the part of HEW to turn loose of control of these funds to the local areas, and this may also be contributing to the ambivalence of HEW to offer full designation to health systems agencies such as SPHS."

Federal Studies Rapped

The federal government is squandering $600,000 to do research on a topic that already has been explored in "every facet" many times over, the chairman of South Plains Health Systems, Inc. says.

Dr. John Selby said the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is spending that money to investigate — once again — how to hold down the cost of health care.

"There already are literally hundreds of documents available on each and every facet of cost containment in this country," Selby complained in a letter to U.S. Rep. George Mahon.

"In our area, we do not have the staff to read and keep track of all these HEW studies, much less implement them should they be found locally acceptable," said the head of the Lubbock-based regional health planning agency.

"Ironically," Selby added, notification of the research project "came at a time when HEW was requesting that we cut our budget, forcing us to lay off a highly qualified staff person."

Selby said holding down costs is a "difficult, complex challenge in the health field, and it should involve both consumers and providers of health care, including governmental officials."

If further exploration of cost containment is to be done, he said, "the best solutions are likely to be found through local citizens... rather than federal contracts for academic consultant-type research which frequently fails to relate to the real world."

Selby said the research project points up the "imbalance and misdirection" of funding laws intended to decentralize health planning.

Regional Competition Set Here For Battle Of Bands

Lubbock will be the site of the first step in a state-wide search for the best Texas band currently without a recording contract. The Texxas Battle Of The Bands, sponsored by Lone Star beer, has scheduled the regional competition for the South Plains-Panhandle area at 7 p.m. today in the Municipal Coliseum.

The winner at the regional level will receive a trip to the final state-wide competition in Dallas, June 30. Twelve bands from across the state will meet in the Fair Park Coliseum in Dallas.

The state finals winner of first place receives $20,000 toward production of a new album and a Polydor recording contract.

Second and third prizes consist of $10,000 and $5,000 respectively toward album production. Lone Star's sponsorship is part of the Texxas World Music Festival which includes Willie Nelson's Annual Picnic Monday, July 3, in the Cotton Bowl. Featured performers are Willie, Waylon Jennings, Kris Kristofferson, Jessie Coulter, Rita Coolidge, The Charlie Daniels Band, Emmylou Harris, Ray Wylie Hubbard and Billie Swan.

Judges for The Texxas Battle Of The Bands will consist of music undustry personnel including radio and recording executives, retailers, distributors and promoters. All production will consist of high quality sound, lights and professional stage management. Lone Star is requesting that people attending the free Texxas Battle Of The Bands concerts throughout Texas make a contribution to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

From June 30-July 4 the Texxas Music Fair will be conducted in Dallas on the State Fair of Texas grounds consisting of rides, games, prizes, arts and crafts, rock & roll supermarket, flea market, fire works, laser show and free movies.

Radiation Effects Studied At HEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is now in charge of studying health effects of low-level radiation.

Until last month, the defense and energy departments were the prime agencies in looking at effects of radiation exposure on participants in nuclear weapons tests. The investigation also focuses on workers in atomic facilities and laboratories.

The scientific community has disagreed about the long-term effects of low radiation levels on the cancer rate.

MANY DRUG ADDICTS

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysia has a population of 12.2 million and between 150,000 and 200,000 drug addicts, Deputy Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamed told a forum on drug problems today.

OSHA, Can't You See?

SINCE ITS creation eight (long) years ago, the U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Administration has become one of private enterprise's most feared and least loved federal agencies.

And now OSHA is engaged in what appears to be its most ambitious undertaking yet: a proposed crash program to identify and control carcinogens, or cancer-causing agents.

As outlined in the Federal Register, the proposed OSHA policy would order the "lowest feasible" exposure level of any chemical shown to be a carcinogen by a confirmed animal study.

MOREOVER, IF the agency determined that adequate substitutes for the suspect chemical were available, it would automatically order a zero-exposure level at the workplace.

The proposed OSHA policy calls to mind the 1958 Delaney Amendment to the Food, Drug and Cosmetics Act. Under same, the FDA must ban any food additive shown to cause cancer in any animal test.

Critics complain that Delaney and the OSHA proposal "are simplistic in that they leave no room for the balancing of risks and benefits."

In a concerted effort to modify the proposed OSHA policy before it becomes final, 90 companies and 30 trade associations have banded together to form the American Industrial Health Council.

The group's avowed aim is to assist the agency "in developing a rational and practical standard for regulating carcinogens in the workplace."

OF PRIMARY concern is OSHA's plan to replace its substance-by-substance approach to carcinogen regulation with broader rule-making procedures.

Such procedures, it is feared, could lead to the banning or restricted use of thousands of substances at a cost of many billions of dollars to businesses and consumers.

"OSHA's plan ignores differences in metabolic pathways and detoxification mechanisms," the council argues, "and rejects the important concept of a dose-response relationship."

Standards as proposed, for example, would obligate OSHA to consider banning such substances as table salt, gold, several common sugars, selenium (a human nutrient) and even asphalt from the American workplace.

Maybe OSHA should start with itself.

AFTER A MONTH-LONG tour of Europe with his wife, Nita, Bob Norris has some impressions that might be of interest to others planning a trip to the Old Country.

Norris, vice president and general manager of the A-J, liked Italy—especially Florence—best.

"I'm glad we went to Venice," he says, "but if we were to go again, I'd spend that time some other place. But Florence, that is a beautiful city. The people are friendly, the service excellent..."

Other Norris impressions:

—The Germans are too regimented. Sleep late and you can't get breakfast; it's lunch or nothing.

—"I'd spend more time in southern France."

—In Paris, taxi drivers won't take more than two passengers in slow hours, refuse to take that few in peak hours. French traffic is too fast, the food too rich.

—There's so much to see and do in London that it takes five days to see it and do it.

—A couple of weeks would be long enough in Europe at one time. After 12 or 14 days, everything begins to sort of blend together.

Paul Scott:

Carter's Head In Cuban Sand

WASHINGTON—President Carter may soon be forced to face up to his biggest foreign security problem and then do something about it.

This is the Soviet's advance military operational base in Cuba and the way it is being expanded and used openly to support the Kremlin's strategic military-diplomatic objectives in Africa.

Since taking office in January, 1977, the President has treated the Russian base in Cuba as if it didn't exist. Aerial reconnaissance overflights of Cuba were ended a month after he took office.

This was taken by both the Russians and Cubans as a signal that they could use the base without interference from the U.S.

WHEN IT WAS belatedly discovered earlier this year that the Russians had sent upward of 2,300 airmen, pilots, and radar operators to Cuba in 1977 to take over that country's air defense command, the President refrained from even lodging a protest and decided to ignore the new Soviet activities.

In the current White House discussions on the growing Soviet-Cuban military involvement in Africa, the official position of the White House is to treat these Russian-Cuban activities as if they had no connection with the Kremlin's advance military operational base in Cuba.

This head-in-the-sand attitude has caused military-intelligence experts to privately warn the White House that as long as the Soviets are permitted to use their base in Cuba to support their African military ventures that these operations will continue and even be expanded.

The latest Central Intelligence Agency estimate, for example, forecasts that the Soviet directed Cuban military presence in Africa could grow from its present 50,000 level to 80,000 by the end of the year unless action is taken to neutralize the Russian's base in Cuba.

ACCORDING TO THE CIA estimate, the Russians have turned the entire Cuban military force of 189,000 into an "offensive force" and have made preparations to use more than 50 percent of it in Africa as long as these forces can be supported from their base in Cuba.

To handle these surrogate troops, the Russians now have at least 9,000 military-civilian experts in Havana alone, according to information gathered from foreign diplomats and pro-U.S. Cubans on that strategic island.

The total number of Russian and Soviet-bloc military-civilian experts in Cuba is 30,000—or more than during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis.

The organizing of a Pan-African military force to check the Soviet-Cuban military operations in Africa is no answer to the Kremlin's growing intervention on the continent, the President has been frankly told by his intelligence-military adviser.

What is now needed, they argue, is a new U.S. policy to force the Russians to close down their advance military operational base in Cuba, thus ending its use to support the Cuban expeditionary force now operating in more than a half dozen countries in Africa.

Several influential lawmakers, including Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., the Senate Minority Leader, have privately proposed to President Carter that he start putting pressure directly on Castro by shutting down the U.S. mission in Havana and ordering the Cuban mission here closed.

If that move doesn't cause Castro to begin pulling back some of his forces from Africa, Baker has proposed that the President call a meeting of the Organization of American States (OAS) and propose more drastic action.

Sylvia Porter:

Don't Be Hoodwinked By Optical Delusions

(Last Of Four Columns)

THE PRESCRIPTION lens biz has soared into the multi-billion-dollar range in recent years as the number of us wearing prescription lenses—both in eyeglasses and in contacts—has reached more than half of all Americans.

Technological breakthroughs have vastly broadened the contact lens field; and prices have been fluctuating widely, both up in eyeglasses and down in contacts.

This quiz will help guide you to buy the right type of help for you and to pay the least price for the most quality.

Q. What about bifocals and trifocals?

If you are getting bifocals or trifocals, you must be certain your prescription is placed precisely in the right spot within the lenses.

If it is not, you may have difficulty seeing and you will be adding to your risks of an accident while you are walking, using stairs or driving.

YOU CAN HELP avoid this problem by telling your doctor your tasks that involve seeing both on and off the job. Do this at the time he or she is giving you a thorough eye exam.

Be extremely wary of multifocal glasses advertised at appealingly "bargain" prices. Often, those prices cover only a standard bifocal lens, which may not meet your needs.

Some optical shops have been known to change the type of bifocal lens the doctor prescribes to a poorer quality and less expensive type without telling the consumer, warns the American Optometric Assn.

Q. Can you have your new glasses mailed to you?

You can—but don't. Pick up your new glasses yourself, for they must be adjusted to your head and face.

If you are not looking directly through the optical center of your lenses, you may experience distorted vision and a pulling sensation in your eyes. Multi-focal wearers may find it impossible to wear maladjusted glasses.

Q. WHAT ABOUT ready-to-wear glasses?

Ready-to-wear reading glasses sold without a prescription for $5 to $10 a pair in some department stores will be a waste of money for most of you. These mass-produced glasses are simple magnifying lenses mounted in frames.

The glasses just will not work in the overwhelming majority of cases, because both lenses are identical, although in fact 75 percent of all of us wearing glasses need different lenses for each eye.

They never correct astigmatism, which causes blurred vision in about 75 to 80 percent of all Americans who need eyeglasses. They come in only one size (people's heads do not). The size refers not to the frames but to the distance between the optical center of the two lenses.

Q. IS IT WISE to shop for glasses or not to shop?

By comparison shopping, you almost surely will find a far larger selection of frame styles than in your doctor's office. You probably also will save money.

But the big advantage, I repeat, in getting your glasses from your doctor is that the doctor stands between you and the optical lab which fills your prescription.

If your prescription is filled incorrectly—which happens more often than you might suspect—the doctor has the leverage to require the lab to redo your glasses. The doctor represents much more business to the lab than you do.

Q. WHAT ABOUT GROUP vision care plans?

Mounting awareness and concern about the need for eye care and the costs involved have spurred many consumers, labor union and companies to consider group vision care programs.

By eliminating or reducing the cost factor, these plans make it possible for you to receive the vision care you otherwise might neglect—care which easily can be translated into enormous dollar as well as health savings for the individual, the companies involved and the economy as a whole.

Group programs, though, will not wipe out the need for you to know how to find that "doctor who knows and cares" about you and your individual problems. It always will be up to you to judge the quality of the care you receive.

John D. Lofton:

Steers: For Batter Or Worse

WASHINGTON—An aide to Rep. Newton Steers, R-Md., had already iced the champagne, and the glasses were neatly arranged on a table in the lounge used by women members of the House.

The party being planned was to celebrate the certain passage of Steers' first major piece of legislation, the so-called "battered wives bill"—H. R. 12299.

It would have authorized $125 million "to establish a Federal Office on Domestic Violence and a Federal Council on Domestic Violence, to provide grants for the assistance of victims of domestic violence and for training programs, and for other purposes, as amended."

STEERS' BILL HAD the support of the majority and minority leaders of the full House and the committee and subcommittee where it had been the subject of extensive hearings.

But from the point of view of the proponents of this measure, a not-too-funny thing happened on its way to becoming law: it was defeated 205 to 201 on a vote to suspend the rules, a procedure that permits no amendments and limits debate to only 40 minutes.

The first person to blast the Steers bill was Rep. Bob Bauman, R-Md. He worried about the council's authority to engage in the "dissemination of information and advocacy of other related social services..." Bauman asked:

"DOES THIS MEAN we are going to be handing out federal funds to lobby for increased welfare, for abortions, and for other various programs that some local person who receives the grants may or may not feel are appropriate to help solve the problem of domestic violence?

"There is a statute on the books that prevents the use of federal funds for lobbying."

Next up was Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, a senior member of the House Education and Labor Committee, who labeled the Steers legislation "a candidate for the most unlikely bill of the year to succeed." He observed:

"We know how these hundred-million-dollar programs start off in the beginning and then become larger later on. How many times during the last decade or so have we heard of these programs that are modest in their infancy and then grow much larger?...

"LOOKING DOWN THE pike, there is not one area where we have talked in terms of triggering local activity where sometime later we did not come in and sustain it.

"All this talk about getting it started; usually the program collapses when the federal dollars end. We know that. We are starting a base for federal spending and support which will go on and on and on."

Responding to the point that the Steers bill would mandate only 25 percent federal funding to assist domestic violence victims, Ashbrook declared:

"Pretty soon, as a part of that contribution, (local governments) want a volunteer service. They want to squeeze it up to 60 percent, 70 percent, 80 percent, 90 percent.

"Instead of a local volunteer service, at the local level, they want to hand it onto the federal government forever."

REP. BARRY Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., agreed with Ashbrook. Questioning the ability of the federal government, specifically HEW, to effectively deal with the problem of domestic violence, he predicted:

"I believe this modest proposal will snowball into a monstrosity before too long."

"With all due respect to the importance of this issue, Congress, while in the mood to consider the creation of offices of this type, should carefully look at my proposal to create an Office of Taxpayer Abuse.

"The beating of taxpayers is a problem of epidemic proportions in the U.S. I receive countless complaints from my constituents about their battered pocketbooks.

"There are pleas for relief from the black and blue marks inflicted by 'Big Brother' reaching into everybody's back pocket."

COMMENTING ON THE unexpected defeat of the Steers' legislation, one of its supporters, Rep. Lindy Boggs, D-La., admitted: "We forgot one of the basic skills of politics. We didn't count our votes."

Explaining his vote against the Steers measure, Rep. Abner Mikva, a liberal Democrat from Illinois, said: "We've got to draw the line somewhere on new programs."

Well, Mikva is right. And H. R. 12299 was as good a place as any to start drawing the line on new federal spending programs. Let's keep our fingers crossed and hope it's a trend.

FBI Official Challenges Griffin Bell

TENAFLY, N.J. (AP) — FBI Assistant Director J. Wallace LaPrade is challenging Attorney General Griffin Bell either to pursue or to drop the disciplinary proceedings that have kept him hanging for two months.

"Punitive action has been taken against me, in effect, without due process," LaPrade said Sunday in an interview at his home. "Why should I be put on a temporary assignment without cause? If there's cause, prove it."

The 27-year veteran of the FBI was ousted as director of the New York office two months ago and temporarily serves as head of the identification division in Washington.

He also said Bell had declined to let him reveal classified information that might have prevented his transfer.

"Anybody has the right to a hearing," he said. "That's what I'm demanding, in effect. This is just an unfair tactic for them to say there are charges against you which are being considered. Let's get on with it."

The Justice Department has accused LaPrade of having withheld information from a grand jury that was looking into alleged illegal entries and other abuses by the FBI in its investigation of the Weatherman organization.

The grand jury indicted former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III and two other one-time ranking officials on civil rights charges.

LaPrade, however, has not been indicted for the alleged perjury.

"There have been public allegations that have been made, but they have never done anything about it," LaPrade said, adding that he had answered departmental charges 10 days after they were leveled.

LaPrade, 51, said he has heard nothing from the Justice Department since then.

Justice Department spokesman Terrence Adamson said possible disciplinary action was still "under review."

LaPrade declined to reveal specifics about the classified information, but said it would put into context the allegations stemming from the Weatherman investigation, which he oversaw in the early 1970s.

LaPrade further accused Bell of having sanctioned "improper searches" of LaPrade's desk and personal papers two years ago.

REFLECTING ON VERDICT — Paul and Joan Garland walk from the Westchester County courthouse in White Plains, N.Y., Sunday after hearing the jury's verdict in the trial of Yale graduate Richard Herrin. Herrin was convicted of first-degree manslaughter in the hammer slaying of the Garlands' daughter, Bonnie, instead of second-degree murder, with which he was originally charged. "A grave injustice has been done," said Garland. (AP Laserphoto)

Jury Convicts Grad In Hammer Slaying

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Yale graduate Richard Herrin has been convicted of manslaughter in the hammer slaying of Bonnie Garland, a girlfriend who threatened to jilt him after 2½ years of going together.

Paul and Joan Garland, the victim's parents, sobbed Sunday as they heard the verdict, saying that Herrin should have convicted of murder, not manslaughter.

"The forces of evil have triumphed," said Garland.

"If you have a $30,000 defense fund, a Yale connection and a clergy connection, you are entitled to one free hammer murder," added Mrs. Garland.

Herrin, 24, admitted that he had killed Miss Garland, 20, last July 7 but that his mental state was impaired because she had tried to break up the romance.

The jury of eight men and four women decided Herrin had suffered "extreme emotional disturbance" over the threatened breakup and convicted him of the lesser charge of first-degree manslaughter, for which he could receive a prison term of between eight and 25 years.

Herrin's courtroom friends included members of the Christian Brothers religious enclave near Albany who, along with members of the Yale University community, raised money for his $50,000 bail as well as funds for his defense.

The support from the Yale group led Bonnie's father to sever his ties as an active alumnus at the school.

The jury's decision, defense attorney Jack Litman said, showed "clearly ... there are mitigating circumstances in this tragedy."

He would not comment on whether he planned to appeal the verdict.

Sentencing is set for July 25 for Herrin, who mouthed a silent "I'll see you" to his mother, Linda Ugarte, as he was led away in handcuffs.

"Don't try to pull on my heartstrings," said Westchester County Judge Richard Daronco when Litman pleaded that Herrin be allowed to speak with his mother before leaving the courtroom after his bail was revoked Sunday.

Herrin had been charged with second-degree murder and had sought to avoid criminal responsibility for the killing.

$8,000 Reported Stolen From Parked Vehicle

A Lubbock man told police $8,000 was stolen from his car parked at his west side residence Sunday.

According to Deno Tzemos of 4516 43rd St., the cash was in two bank bags which were taken from the trunk of his vehicle sometime between 4:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Sketchy reports indicated only that there was no sign of forced entry into the car.

In other weekend incidents, a 40-year-old Wolfforth woman was in satisfactory condition today after another woman reportedly assaulted her in the restroom of a north Lubbock club late Sunday.

Rosa Soto told officers the other woman hit her in the back of the head and shot her in the leg shortly after 10 p.m. After the suspect reportedly left the scene in a white stationwagon, the victim was taken to Methodist Hospital.

According to a witness, the two women had been having trouble earlier in the evening.

Weekend break-ins caused several Lubbockites considerable financial grief, reports indicated.

Joe Condren said $2,450 worth of property was stolen from his 4310 Chicago Ave. home late Sunday or early today. Reportedly taken in the burglary were several firearms and an air compressor.

According to reports, it could not be determined how the burglar got inside the house because of to pry marks from earlier burglaries.

Earl Henry Jones of 2110 37th St. complained that whoever broke a glass in a door leading to his garage Sunday night stole a CB base station, stereo equipment and a television set. The haul, according to the complainant, was valued at $2,295.

Don Byers of 5428 30th St. told police someone stole $250 worth of tools from his pickup parked in the 2900 block of Chicago Avenue Saturday or Sunday.

Someone reportedly pried a back door at Christopher Opel's 1902 16th St. residence this weekend and made off with $340 worth of goods, including a television set.

Three television sets, valued at $350 each, were taken after burglars broke into three rooms at the Circus Inn Motel at 101 Slaton Highway Sunday morning.

As a 23-year-old jewelry appraiser spent some tense moments hiding in her apartment bathroom recently, as a woman, who reportedly had threatened the tenant, allegedly made off with $1,750 worth of jewelry.

The victim told police she responded to loud banging at her door about 8 p.m. Saturday, then admitted a woman and a companion.

The woman who gained entry reportedly then threatened the apartment dweller by saying she was going to shoot her.

The tenant, reports indicate, ran for the bathroom and stayed there until the intruders had left.

When she stepped from her hiding place, the victim said she discovered a vandalized apartment, with shelves ripped from the walls and plants overturned.

After further inspection, the victim said she found two rings and a necklace missing.

Besides the $1,750 in stolen jewelry, the woman said her apartment had sustained about $100 worth of damage.

Unwelcome "guests" also showed up at Ken Easley's 3612 40th St. residence early Sunday.

Two men, who allegedly identified themselves as police officers and displayed police "cards" but no badges, confronted Easley at 2:50 a.m. and offered to help him with a purported disturbance.

Easley, baffled by the intrusion and suspicious of the men, told police later he continued to ask the men for identification more substantial than a card.

After one of the men walked back to a waiting vehicle and joined a third man, the first man reportedly then fled to the car which sped away with its lights off.

Meanwhile, K.J. Bates, 58, of 2810-A Weber Drive, told police a young man had stuffed a seven-year-old and a three-year-old into a dryer at a nearby laundromat.

A 19-year-old assistant bookkeeper told a policeman early Sunday that a man had attempted to rape her about an hour earlier.

The woman said she had been dancing with a 24-year-old man until about 1:30 a.m. Sunday, then had asked him to take her to her car parked near Harvard Avenue and N. Avenue L.

After doing so, the man reportedly got out of his car and followed the woman to hers.

He reportedly told the young woman he wanted to make love to her, but was rebuffed. The woman said the man then pulled at her clothing before she struck him and knocked his glasses off.

Manager Maxine Goulby of the Circus Inn, 101 Slaton Highway, said someone broke into three rooms at the lodge Sunday morning and stole three televisions. The sets reportedly were valued at an aggregate $1,050.

Three persons reported stolen bikes Sunday. They were Jim Gilbert of 408 Bangor Ave., James Ratcliff of 510 55th St., and Brent Sanderson of 5410 15th St.

Charlie Brown of Route 1, Idalou, said someone stole $800 worth of his power tools recently from a site at 8404 Flint Ave.

Leon Smith of 315 N. Flint Ave. said during the past two months someone stole $300 worth of tools from him.

About $250 worth of tools were taken from a pickup truck belonging to Don Byers of 5428 30th St. Saturday or Sunday, while the vehicle was parked in the 2900-block of Chicago Avenue.

Someone broke into J.D. Adams' motor home in recent days, while it was parked at his 3307 Auburn Ave. address, and made off with an assortment of property valued together at $583.

Rare Meteorite Discovered

DALLAS (UPI) — An informal search team headed by a local astronomy professor has recovered a 9-inch wide, 16-pound iron and nickel meteorite from a remote ranch in Central Texas.

Richland College professor John O. Williams said only about five such finds are made in the world in any given year.

He estimated its age at about 4 billion years, roughly the age of the solar system, and said it could have fallen to earth more than 100,000 years ago.

"It's a once in a lifetime find," he said.

The search of the ranch near Wimberley was prompted by an astronomy student who told Williams he thought he found a meteorite on a hiking trip five years ago. Because of its weight, he didn't take it with him and he was never able to relocate the site.

U. S., Canada Fish Accord Talks Resume

OTTAWA (UPI) — U.S. and Canadian negotiators resumed talks on a long-term fishing agreement today with a call for immediate government approval of an interim pact and an end to the reciprocal commercial fishing ban.

"Our task has been made more urgent as a result of the suspension of the provisional implementation of the 1978 interim reciprocal fisheries agreement," chief Canadian negotiator Marcel Cadieux said.

U.S. negotiator Lloyd Cutler agreed the reciprocal fishing ban was affecting talks for a long-term agreement on fishing and mineral rights in areas claimed by both nations when they extended offshore limits to 200 miles.

"It can only compound our problems," Cutler said of the two-week-old closure of U.S. and Canadian waters to each other's commercial fishing boats.

"We have made considerable progress in the current round of negotiations since last August," Cutler said, but he added the reciprocal fishing ban "has probably made the task of reaching such an agreement even more difficult."

Cutler said the United States was proceeding with approval of last year's interim agreement and "we believe the approval process will be completed within a matter of a few days.

"We urge Canada to also approve the 1978 interim agreement," he said.

Canada and the United States closed their waters to each other's commercial fishermen June 4 in a dispute over implementation of the terms of the interim fishing agreement. Negotiations are now centred on a long term pact.

Lorne Clark, Canada's deputy chief negotiator, said Sunday there "were good reasons" to expect quick agreement on a number of key issues, with "resumption of some reciprocal fishing" coming as issues are ironed out.

Court To Hear Mandel Appeal

BALTIMORE (AP) — A federal appeals court said today it will hear arguments July 19 in suspended Gov. Marvin Mandel's appeal of his political corruption conviction and four-year prison sentence.

A spokesman for the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said the hearing would be held before a three-judge panel in Abingdon, Va., in the southwest corner of the state. The site was selected "to facilitate the judges during summer recess," the spokesman said.

The court usually sits in Richmond but summer hearings are generally held throughout the state, he added.

Mandel and five co-defendants were convicted of mail fraud and racketeering by a U.S. District Court jury in Baltimore last August. They were sentenced in October by Judge Robert L. Taylor.

The suspended governor's appeal argues, in part, that the indictment which led to his conviction was vague and amounted to a violation of the constitutional separation of state and federal governments.

The jury found that Mandel had accepted lavish gifts from his associates in return for his help on legislation benefiting a race track they secretly purchased in December 1971.

Fireworks Explosion Dazzles Motorists

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Fireworks being sold at a roadside stand erupted in a fiery, chain-reaction explosion. Nobody was injured, police said, but motorists — halted for 15 minutes along Michigan Highway 139 — were treated to a spectacular July 4th preview.

State police were not certain what ignited the fireworks Sunday. Firemen were called to the scene, but chose to let the flames burn out rather than get close enough to douse them, police said.

Braniff Airlines Asks Texas-Tehran Route

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International Corp. has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for authority to fly non-stop between Texas and the Middle East, the airline said today.

The airline said it requested an expedited hearing on the new route connecting Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston with Tehran, Iran.

Braniff said it would use long-range 747 superjets for the non-stop 7,000 mile route.

The airline said its fare proposals include an advance purchase excursion fare of $880 and a round trip and "R and R" fare of $800 aimed at people who work on oil rigs in the Middle East and return to the United States at least twice a year.

Cambodians Attack Thai Fishermen

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Two Cambodian gunboats attacked seven Thai trawlers off the Thai-Cambodian border, killing at least 10 Thai fishermen, and three of the fishing boats are missing, a military spokesman announced today.

He said two Thai navy boats rushed to the scene and exchanged fire with the Cambodians for about two hours.

DR. LAMB

Barium Test Helpful

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had diverticulitis off and on for 10 years. Nine months ago I started having diarrhea and last month I had barium tests. They showed nothing at all, no reason for the diarrhea. Now my doctor says I should have the GI series. What will this series show and how does diarrhea connect with anything in the GI series?

DEAR READER — A GI series refers to X-rays of the gastrointestinal tract which normally includes looking at the esophogus, stomach and the intestines. In some instances it may include a small bowel series which means looking at the small intestine as well as the large intestine and of course a barium enema is included to outline the colon.

Any time a person has a change in bowel habits as you described, a good look at the digestive tract is important. Sometimes this is a symptom of a tumor in the colon which may be malignant.

By watching the contraction of the digestive tract during the examinaton the doctor can get some idea about whether the bowel is overactive or not.

Diverticulosis, those little pockets of the colon, is commonly associated with spasms of the colon. In fact many authorities think this is the underlying cause in some cases. The spastic colon is a sign of an overactive colon and this can result in either diarrhea or constipation, or intermitent diarrhea and constripation. The areas of spasms may show up during the examination of the gastrointestinal tract.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-6, Diverticulosis, to give you more complete information on your basic problem. Others who want this information about the small pocket of the colon can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a widow in my late 50s and have been a widow for several years. I would like to remarry. However, before my husband died I was experiencing pain when we made love.

A friend of mine told me that she had read that sometimes as you grow older you get smaller in the birth canal. In that case I would hesitate to remarry. Is this a fact and is there anything one can do to correct it?

DEAR READER — It's partially true. Lack of activity can lead to some gradual decrease in size but that's rather quickly remedied when one becomes active again. The other problem is that as you get older and past the menopause some women do not have sufficient amounts of female hormones. This leads to thinning, drying and problems in the birth canal. The tissue irritation means that lovemaking is painful. This can be remedied by a local application of creams that include a small amount of female hormone.

If this is the only reason that you would avoid getting married again, I think you should see a good physician, have him examine you and let him correct any problem that you might have. Certainly you shouldn't deny yourself the happiness and companionship of a good marriage on the basis of your stated concern, because that can be taken care of for you.

New Information May Improve Understanding Of Sunspots

By WARREN E. LEARY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A scientist has discovered that layers of gases beneath the surface of the sun rotate at different speeds, an unexpected finding that could improve understanding of the sunspots that may influence the earth's climate.

The National Science Foundation said on Thursday that the internal rotation of the sun is believed a key component in producing sunspots, which are large, slightly cooler areas that appear darker than the rest of the surface.

Scientists say there is some evidence, although still controversial, that when there are fewer sunspots, it gets colder on earth and vice-versa.

Dr. Franz L. Deubner, a visiting scientist from the Fraunofer Institute in West Germany, made the discovery while working at the Sacramento Peak Observatory, a national solar research center in Sunspot, N.M.

The work marks the first time anyone has measured how fast the sun rotates at different levels beneath its surface, the foundation said.

The sun is a ball of hot gas — mostly hydrogen and helium — with a surface temperature of about 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The center of the sun is 430,000 miles beneath its surface, compared with 3,950 miles for the earth's center.

Deubner found that the gases within the first 6,000 miles below the sun's surface tend to rotate as a solid body at the surface speed of 1.2 miles per second.

However, the gas in the next 3,000 miles rotates about 100 yards per second faster than the surface, he found. Below this layer, rotational velocity decreases and eventually gets lower than the surface velocity.

Dr. Jack B. Zirker, director of the solar center, said in an interview that the different rotational speeds are unexpected and unexplained. Scientists had expected the velocity to either increase or decrease continuously with depth, he said.

Past observations showed that parts of the sun's surface oscillate up and down every five minutes or so. This movement is believed caused by soundwaves trapped in zones beneath the surface.

The sound wave frequency corresponds to the rotational speed of the layer in which the wave is trapped. Deubner indirectly measured the sound waves by looking at shifting light from atoms they moved, Zirker said, and therefore could deduce the speed of the lower gas layer in which the sound was trapped.

"The current thinking is that sunspots are related to the rotation of the sun," Zirker said. He added that the new subsurface velocity measurements will help scientists improve their models of how the sun works, which is important in many ways to the earth.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You and your mate can harmonize in major areas tomorrow as long as you hum your respective tunes in the "We" and not the "I."

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A tougher workload than you anticipated may be in store tomorrow, yet if you match the tasks, you'll feel quite proud of yourself for yor achievements.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be your own person tomorrow. Stand by your guns. Don't let an abrasive individual throw you off the track with her disruptive comments.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Overbearing individuals will be your nemesis tomorrow. Should you encounter one, back off or your day will be unpleasant.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Just because you appreciate stimulating debate doesn't mean others can be equally detached. Be careful with whom you match wits tomorrow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Tomorrow will be one of those days when your rewards might not be commensurate to the efforts you expend. You'll be sufficiently happy doing what's expected of you, however.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Partnership situations can be very testy tomorrow. Remaining calm and unruffled will enable you to maintain control.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) An abundance of energy and know-how may lead you to take on more responsibility than you should. Relax. It won't hurt others to do for themselves.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It won't be your fault when someone magnifies a remark or action of yours beyond its true proportions tomorrow, so don't take offense too easily.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will be capable of attaining your goals tomorrow as long as you are sensible. Don't let your ambitions exceed your reach.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The greater part of the day should be enjoyable, provided you don't try to impose your views on companions. Use discretion.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Tomorrow will not be a good day to be involved in complicated business negotiations or to try to iron out a messy budget. Postpone these pursuits.

Yale President Says Education Comes First

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale University's young president-to-be is making it clear that he will not discard his professorial robe just because sticky financial problems await him.

Many outsiders were surprised by the choice of literature professor A. Bartlett Giamatti from the university's own ranks after a nine-month nationwide search for its next president to cope with the spectre of 10 years of deficit spending.

The bearded Giamatti, at 40 the youngest Yale president since 1796, concedes that "the crisis of financing college education will not slacken." Yet he places top priority on the protection of the humanities — courses such as languages, literature, history and philosophy — from the financial squeeze.

"If humanists don't speak up for themselves, no one else can and no one else shall," he said Thursday night.

Inflation, a decline in college enrollments and a trend toward more vocational training will encourage government to cut back support of education, he said.

The selection of Giamatti last December to succeed Provost and acting-President Hanna Gray won overwhelming approval from the 5,000 undergraduates and graduate students and his faculty colleagues at Yale.

Cable TV Company Checks Viewers

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Operators of a local cable television company were uncertain whether anyone was watching the early morning movies.

So, at 2:30 one morning, they halted a film and ran the weather signal along with a sign to the effect that viewers should telephone if they wanted to see the film to its conclusion.

Immediately, the switchboard lit up with calls.

Communities In Texas Making Plans For Annual Festivities

By PAULA BUTTURINI
United Press International

This time of year they're issuing armadillo hunting licenses in San Angelo. People are looking for fast ones instead of tender ones for armadillo chili.

In Victoria, females likely are thinking about strange talents that will help them win the coveted Miss Vacant Lot of the World award. In Fink, officials can't wait to sing the town's anthem, "Fly the Fink Flag."

It is early summer and towns and cities across Texas are making up their annual excuses to throw a party.

In San Angelo, a contest being billed as the National Armadillo Championship is scheduled June 24. The race is part of the Fiesta Del Concho, June 17-25.

"Anyone can enter as long as you have an armadillo," advertisements say, but entrants must adhere to stiff rules:

"No drugging of the armadillos will be allowed" or face disqualification by the armadillo inspector, whose decision is final.

Victoria has scheduled its eighth annual International Armadillo Confab and Exposition, July 28-30.

Armadillo races are the big event, but the selection of Miss Vacant Lot of the World draws considerable interest. One year the winner played a tune on her nose. Another year the winner stuffed her mouth with pennies. Last year, the 200-pound winner dressed like an armadillo and sang an armadillo song.

Contests at the Confab include a world championship body painting competition, the beer can smash, the yell-off, a bohemian apple-eating cotest and a jalapeno gobble.

Officials in Fink are preparing for the National Fink Day celebration slated June 23 when the Fink of the Year will be chosen.

"National Fink Week was created to restore a little honor and dignity to the grand old name of Fink," Texas Fink Chief Robert L. Fink of Converse said.

Officials of this northeast Texas hamlet have been accepting nominations for the honor from across the country. A Bristow, Va., man wrote, "Fink of the Year? Billy Carter, who else? Nominations closed."

The Fifth Annual Tex Ritter Roundup and Reunion is scheduled in Carrollton, a Dallas suburb, July 8.

Ritter fan Jim Cooper initiated the Roundup in 1974 after the screen hero and star of the Grand Ole Opry died of a heart attack in Nashville, Tenn.

Events include the screening of "Trouble in Texas," Ritter's fourth film, which features 17-year-old Rita Hayworth in her first major film role.

In Dallas, July 1-3, is the Texxas World Music Festival, which will feature concerts by Willie Nelson, Rita Coolidge, Kris Kristofferson, Emmylou Harris, and numerous other popular singers. The event will conclude with the annual Willie Nelson Fourth of July Picnic on July 3.

AAP STAFF CHANGE

NEW YORK (AP) — The Association of American Publishers says Henry Kaufman, who has been AAP legal counsel, has been appointed vice president-general counsel. It says that, in addition to his current duties, Kaufman will provide legal support for the Copyright Committee and serve as deputy director of the New York office.

Cancer Group Cites Delays

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Treatment of cancer patients should not be delayed by a requirement for "second opinions" in an effort to curb rising medical costs, the American Cancer Society says.

The society's directors said in a resolution adopted Thursday as they closed a three-day meeting here that "cost-containment" programs requiring such second opinions by physicians should be handled carefully to protect the patient.

The directors' action apparently was prompted by fear that the federal government will require that a doctor's diagnosis of cancer and the treatment he prescribes be corroborated by a second doctor before the treatment is carried out.

The directors also endorsed a proposal under study by the federal government that would require packages of cigarettes to carry the warning: "Cigarette Smoking May Cause Your Death."

They also supported a proposal that would call for graduated tax levels on cigarettes, depending on the amount of tar and nicotine in them.

Foreign Loans Hurt U.S. Banks

By PHILIP GREER
And MYRON KANDEL

The country's big banks, many of them still waiting for the pick-up in corporate loan demand to work its way to the East Coast, have yet another problem. Many of them have been searching for profits in foreign lending markets until their domestic customers return, but profit margins on overseas loans are under strong pressure that could take some of the profit out of them.

The pinch is centered in New York City simply because that's where most of the big banks are (Bank of America in San Francisco is number one; the next six are in New York).

U.S. banks have nearly $95 billion outstanding in loans outside this country. While some, like Citibank, have always done a lot of foreign business, others stepped up their activity (or got into it for the first time) after the 1974 recession, when the demand for loans from U.S. corporations dropped off sharply. That demand has been on a rebound in most of the country for some months now, but the New York banks, apparently, will be the last to see it.

Many of the foreign loans, especially those to less-developed countries — LDC's — have cause problems. The banks are having a tough time getting their money repaid and they've had to stretch out repayment terms. Still, the banks continue making the loans and, in many cases, at lower rates and with longer payout terms than they did before. In some instances; in fact, loans are being made to risky foreign borrowers at rates close to those charged big U.S. corporations.

J. Richard Fredericks, bank analyst at Robertson, Colman, Siebel and Weisel in San Francisco, told us that although the banks are trying to hold rates up and keep mor profit in their loans — or hold on to the margins they have now — competitive pressures are more than they can handle.

Some months ago, he noted, Brazil negotiated a loan from a consortium of banks for which the banks got 2⅛ percent more than they had to pay for money themselves (a high rate that indicates Brazil is not a blue-chip borrower). A couple of months later, Brazil floated another loan, at 1⅞ percent over the cost of funds and, more recently, the Brazillians paid a spread of only 1½ percent. Even granting the argument that Brazil is becoming a better credit risk, Fredericks says, he's wondering "whether the price change from 2⅛ to 1½ isn't overdoing it."

Fredericks told us that a recent loan to the National Bank of Hungary carried a price tag of ⅝ percent over the bank's cost for the first three years and ¾ percent for the next four. About three months ago, the same bank paid 1 percent over cost for a $100 million loan with the same seven-year maturity.

The slippage in lending margins even carries over to loans that are considered riskier than most. The Bank of the Philipines, for instance, floated loans earlier this year at rates that were ⅜ of a percentage point lower — and maturities that were three years longer — than the same bank paid only three and a half months earlier.

The trimming of profits in foreign loans is likely to hurt bank earnings, although the degree of damage will depend on the bank and its stake in foreign lending. Those banks outside New York probably can make up for the decline with better profits from domestic lending. The New York banks could show some lower report for the second quarter of the year.

Frederick said the pressure on lending margins stems from the explosion in foreign lending that's taken place during this decade — "to much money chasing too few deals" — and from the flood of dollars in foreign hands (from spending for things like crude oil). "There is a lot of dollars in German and Japanese banks," he said, "and while the American banks might be trying to maintain their profit margins, they have to meet the competition."

One saving factor, Fredericks said, is that the pay-back record of most foreign borrowers is good. "Take a country like Peru," he explained. "They've had trouble with their economy, but about half the money Peru gets from foreign trade is turned around to pay off foreign debt. They have to do that if they want to be able to borrow again."

Fredericks said he doesn't think there is any serious damage to bank profits so far, but he expects the pressure on overseas interest rates to continue for a while. "You're going to see a lot of rescheduled debt (so that borrowers can take advantage of the slipping rates)," he said. "The overseas rush has been good for bank diversification," he added. But, the added, "how much is too far?"

In 1977, the median age at which people were first married was 24 for American men and 21.6 for women. The figure for women was about the same as it was in 1890, but men then married at an average age of 26 years.

Chaplain Serves At Jail

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — The Rev. Lanny Robbins never worries about low attendance at Sunday servives. He has a captive congregation.

Rev. Robbins is chaplain of the 75-year-old Polk County Jail — the first in the jail's history. Before he came, a group of area ministers served the jail, which holds more than 100 inmates and is one of the largest county facilities in the state.

Rev. Robbins said he was called to serve Christ while in the Army and felt drawn to prison ministry while in seminary.

"We have a dynamic program at the jail," he said. "My work is non-denominational and evangelical in content. And the attendance at the services is increasing. We are able to get more people involved in the program. And they all seem happy with the work."

Robbins' congregation includes men charged with anything from drunk driving and simple misdemeanors to felonies.

In his two years at the facility, he has scheduled Bible study classes, religious services and one-on-one counseling and has helped set up a high school equivalency program and other support programs for the men.

"The jail is a rough environment. The men are having to face the fact that there are problems and they have been separated from the rest of society. They realize that this occurred because of something they did. And this is difficult for some to grasp," Robbins said.

"I am not afraid. I go in their cells, eat with them, sleep with them and let them trust me. I only rarely get any twinges or qualms now."

But Robbins said he works closely with the jail's guard staff for his own security.

"They know where I am at all times and let me know if there is ever a man who is a little unstable in his behavior," Robbins said. "They make recommendations about who I should see and about who I shouldn't see — and I follow their recommendations."

The conditions at the aging jail also influence his work.

"It's a crowded facility. Many of the men spend the bulk of their time locked up, so it is not like a standard prison environment," he said. "Many of the men are frustrated and not happy being locked up. So, this takes a special kind of counseling and help."

UPI Selects Region Chief

NEW YORK (UPI) — The appointment of Richard S. Newcombe as regional executive for New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania was announced today by Donald J. Brydon, United Press International vice-president and eastern sales manager.

Newcombe succeeds John Allen, who has been named general manager of UPI's International Features Department in New York.

Newcombe has been Maryland-Delaware editor for UPI, based in Baltimore, since January, 1977. In his new position as regional executive, he will make his headquarters in Philadelphia.

He was born in Chicago and was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Georgetown University, where he edited the university newspaper. He was a postgraduate student at the University of Chicago before joining UPI in 1974. He worked in the Washington and Richmond bureaus prior to moving to Baltimore.

Throughout history, dogs have been the most obvious agents in transmitting rabies because of their close association with humans, but any warm-blooded mammal can become infected and transmit rabies.

She had been a Lubbock resident since moving from Atlanta Ga., in 1928. She was a member of the 25th Street Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, L.J.; three sons, James and Jack, both of Lubbock, and Roy of Abilene; two sisters, Vesta Howard of Jefferson and Effie Lee Randolph of Atlanta, Ga.; seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Helen K. Starr

Arrangements for cremation are pending with Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home.

Born in Lima, Ohio, Mrs. Starr moved to Lubbock seven years ago from Sarasota, Fla. She was graduated from Ohio State University.

Survivors include her husband, Walter; a daughter, Mrs. Sally Brehm of Lubbock; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Fernando Trevino

Rosary for Fernando Ray Trevino, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lupe Trevino of 1312-B 25th St., will be said at 8 p.m. today at Sanders Memorial Chapel.

Mass for the child will be celebrated at 3 p.m. Tuesday at St. Patrick's Catholic Church with the Rev. George Keogh officiating.

Burial will be in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Sanders Funeral Home.

The child was dead at 8:15 p.m. Friday on arrival at Methodist Hospital. He was the victim of a car-pedestrian accident in the 1300 block of 25th Street. Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled the death accidental.

The child was a Lubbock native.

Leftist Party Dominates Peru Assembly Balloting

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The moderate-leftist APRA party, led by 83-year-old Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, appeared today to have won the biggest bloc of seats in voting for a constitutional assembly to lead this military-ruled nation to civilian government by 1980.

The APRA — Popular American Revolutionary Alliance — won 35 percent of an estimated 3.7 million votes cast in Sunday's elections, according to nationwide vote projections based on reports gathered by a Lima newspaper and two national television stations.

The conservative Popular Christian Party (PPC), led by former Lima Mayor Luis Bedoya Reyes, was projected to have won 26 percent of the total.

Six leftist and ultra-leftist groupings showed suprising strength in Lima and in big mining and coastal cities and were projected to have 27 percent of the total. Several conservative groups accounted for the rest.

The leftist show of strength was attributed to discontent with recent increases in prices of basic staples, fuel and transportation. Protests against the rises turned into street riots in which 38 persons were killed, and the election was delayed two weeks.

Earlier today, unofficial figures had given the PPC an 8-percentage-point lead over the APRA, but that was based solely on voting in the capital.

There were no official results immediately available.

The moderate military government of Gen. Francisco Morales Bermudez says the 100 members of the assembly will take office July 28 and have a year to reform Peru's 1933 constitution, arranging for presidential and congressional elections in 1980 for this South American nation of 16.1 million people.

There were no individual totals available for any of the 1,150 candidates put up by 12 poltitical parties, although it was clear that Haya de la Torre, who founded the labor-based APRA 50 years ago but has never been elected president of the country, will have a strong say in assembly decisions.

Election board officials said it might be two weeks or more before results from remote parts of the country were known. But a leading Aprista, Luis Alberto Sanchez, predicted his party would win 36 to 38 of the 100 assembly seats and would become the leading force in organizing the transfer of power promised by the military regime.

About 25 percent of the ballots in Lima were blank or were disqualified, the national television service said.

A spokesman for the Morales Bermudez government said the vote was "massive and orderly."

Although there was no reported violence, retired Gen. Leonidas Rodriguez Figueroa, a leader of the Socialist Revolutionary Party sought by police on charges of inciting subversion, was arrested at a suburban polling place after he voted. Relatives said a military plane flew him to Argentina, the traditional refuge for Peruvian political exiles.

The voting Sunday was the first in Peru since the civilian government of President Fernando Belaunde Terry was overthrown in a leftist military coup in 1968. Morales Bermudez took power in August 1975.

Belaunde's Popular Action Party boycotted the election to protest continued military rule.

In the past decade, the military has revised the laws governing land-holding, labor, education, industry and banking. But conservative and center parties charge the government has mismanaged the economy, producing an $8 billion trade deficit and 60 percent inflation.

Two of the other seven military governments in South America, in Bolivia and in Ecuador, also have sent 1980 as the target date for return to civilian rule.

Survey Slated For Citibus

Citibus riders will be surveyed Thursday in an attempt to evaluate the bus system's effectiveness and to discover ways Citibus can better serve Lubbockites.

The city Transit Department, assisted by Army Reservists, will conduct the Citibus Onboard Survey.

Uniformed volunteers from the Army Reserve will ride each Citibus and distribute questionnaires to every rider.

Each rider will be asked age, race, sex, destination, purpose of trip, frequency of bus trips and type of fare paid.

Those participating in the survey will not be required to give their names or to sign the questionnaire.

John Wilson, city Transit Coordinator, said that if a respondent feels any question infringes upon his rights, he can leave the question blank.

Buses on the Texas Tech routes will be surveyed Tuesday and Wednesday.

TMA Reveals Jail Plans

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Medical Association today announced plans for a statewide effort to upgrade health care in jails.

The doctor group said beginning in mid-July TMA will contact Texas sheriffs to see if they are interested in making their jails meet voluntary standards for minimum care set by the American Medical Association.

Five jails will be selected to receive advica and technical assistance from TMA doctors for the following 12 months. r

"We hope that by working with local officials we can get rid of any instances of substandard conditions," said Dr. Mylie Durham Jr., TMA president.

Texas is one of eight states participating in a pilot program to improve jail health care. The project is funded by a grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

Lower Steel Price Hike May Not Be All Good

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's claim of victory in a major anti-inflation battle over steel prices raises legitimate questions of whether the war can ever be won.

If it cannot, a recession is looking more and more likely, along with increased unemployment, reduced production and all the other problems an economic slowdown brings.

What the administration claimed was good news on steel prices does not look like good news at all upon closer scrutiny. Here is what happened:

Major steel producers announced last week they are increasing prices by 3 percent on July 30, the third increase this year. Added to earlier increases of 5.5 percent in February and 1.1 percent in April, it raises the increases so far this year to 9.6 percent.

President Carter's voluntary anti-inflation program, by contrast, aims at keeping individual price and wage increases below the average increases of the past two years, with the goal of trimming one-half of one percentage point from the inflation rate each year.

The administration's own figures show that steel prices increased an average of 8.5 percent annually in 1976 and 1977. So for the program to be successful this year, it implies an increase in steel prices of below 8.5 percent, instead of the 9.6 percent already announced.

Why then did the administration's top anti-inflation fighter declare the latest increase, said to be the last this year, as "a first-rate example of good corporate citizenship" and the most significant breakthrough yet in the anti-inflation campaign.

First of all, Robert Strauss said, the administration has decided to overlook the 1.1 percent increase in April because that was necessary to offset the increased costs to steel producers from the new coal industry labor contract.

The coal settlement, providing for wage and benefit increases of 37 percent over a three-year period, was influenced by the administration, so it was not fair to stick the steel industry with that increase, he argued.

Secondly, Strauss said, the administration feared the July increase might be much worse, perhaps 6 percent or so. Strauss' praise of the steel industry's good citizenship were echoed by Barry Bosworth, the second in command in the anti-inflation campaign.

Less than three months ago, Bosworth and his Council on Wage and Price Stability were chastizing U.S. Steel Corp. for raising prices by about 2 percent and succeeded in winning a rollback to 1.1 percent after declaring it inflationary.

Upon being reminded of the statement, council spokesman Tom Joyce said the increase was criticized only because U.S. Steel tried to justify it on the basis of the coal settlement. Otherwise, he said, the council would not have opposed it.

Whatever the explanation, the fact remains that the price of cold rolled steel will be priced at $374.40 per ton on July 30, an increase of $36.40 a ton, or 10.7 percent since Jan. 1.

Cold rolled steel is the major material used in autos aear, it is logicalif steel prices are rising faster than last year, it is logical to conclude there will be pressure for bigger price increases on those items. And so it will go throughout the economy.

The only argument that makes sense for feeling good about the steel increases is that they could have been worse. There are serious inflationary pressures in the economy that are worsening and the administration's wage and price restraint program has so far been powerless to do anything about them.

About all it has gained so far are highly publicized, but hardly meaningful pledges by a few corporations, including General Motors and American Telephone and Telegraph to keep increases in executive salaries below 5.5 percent his year and to do their best on prices.

That has caused one important government economist to observe privately, "Strauss is whistling in the graveyard if he thinks ATT and General Motors are going to stop inflation for him. ... The cause of inflation is a million things combined."

The weakness of the administration's argument on steel prices is that if it can concede steelmakers an exception because of coal, it will find it difficult, if not impossible, to draw the line against exceptions claimed by anyone else.

Bosworth himself said in a speech last week that the steel industry seeks to justify higher prices both when business is bad — on grounds that sales and profits are down — and when business is good — on grounds it needs increased profits to build new steel plants to meet the greater demand.

"There is no situation where they don't need a price increase," he said in frustration.

The administration already has given up on meeting its goal for a lower inflation rate this year, because overall consumer prices are expected to rise at least 7 percent, if not more, up from 6.8 percent last year.

And there is growing concern among economists that inflationary pressures are not going to be checked by anything the government is now doing, and that the inevitable result will be a new recession, possibly as early as next year.

Bosworth last week joined those who think a recession is a threat, although he declined to predict when one might occur. "If we can't do something this year about inflation, we are going back into another recession," he said.

King Conversation Transcript Located

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A routine search of stored city records has uncovered thousands of documents from the civil rights days of the 1960s, including transcripts of conversations of leaders in the integration movement.

Librarians Bob Corley and Marvin Whiting say the material, which dates from 1940 to the end of the city commission form of government on May 26, 1963, fills 61 large file boxes.

They estimated that 40,000 of the 250,000 pages deal with civil rights.

In an undated transcript, Mrs. King tells her husband about a call from President John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. King: "Now, he (Kennedy) told me the FBI talked with you last night, is that right?"

King: "No, no."

Mrs. King: "They sent them in there and they must have talked with some of the others. They sent them in last night. I talked with Bobby (Attorney General Robert Kennedy) last night. He called twice and told me he would call today, and it was the president, himself, and he assured me of his concern. He asked if we had any complaints and said if we did to be sure and let them know."

A three-inch thick file contains letters written to Birmingham Police Commissioner Eugene "Bull" Connor after the city commission decided to close parks rather than comply with a desegregation order issued in 1961, along with Connor's form-letter replies.

"I believe, without a doubt, that the integration of the parks would only be the first step in total integration of our schools, churches, hotels, restaurants and everything else," reads the standard reply from Connor, who died March 10, 1973.

The files also reveal the extent of cooperation among law enforcement agencies during the 1960s.

A memo from a city police lieutenant to Police Chief Jamie Moore dated April 30, 1963, relays a tip from the FBI that leaflets had been distributed in several city high schools urging students to take part in a demonstration.

Among the records are daily police reports filed in 1963 on meetings of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights, whose demonstrations focused national attention on Birmingham and ultimately forced the desegregation of public facilities.

REA Reveals New Division

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Rural Electrification Administration next week sets up an environmental and energy requirements division.

In announcing the new division, REA Administrator David Hamil said Wednesday that it "was created to give special emphasis to REA's concerns for assuring that adequate energy supplies will continue to be made available to rural residents with minimum adverse effect upon the environment."

Texan To Film Story Of Gallant USS Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — It was shortly after midnight Feb. 29, 1942, when the heavy cruiser USS Houston, out of ammunition, her No. 2 turret wrecked, fires raging uncontrolled, her commanding officer dead, sank beneath the warm Java Seas in Sunda Strait.

A youngster that morning near the West Texas town of Fort Davis sat on a hillside and watched the military planes soaring overhead, making mental notes of the aircraft and thinking of the battles that had been fought—and were to be fought—in the South Pacific during World War II.

The USS Houston, along with the Australian cruiser Perth, sank after sailing into a large Japanese landing force. The two ships refused to retreat and stayed to fight, although outnumbered and outgunned. The enemy lost an estimated 17 ships.

Of the 1,084 crewmen on the USS Houston, only 368 survived and were captured by the Japanese. Of this group 76 died in prisoner-of-war camps.

Sam Redford, in the ranchlands near the Big Bend country, followed each report of the war. While other youngsters checked the daily baseball statistics, he read the news of events happening thousands of miles away, especially the naval conflicts.

Many have forgotten the USS Houston and its last, gallant stand in those days when the Allies seemed on the brink of defeat and destruction in the South Pacific.

Sam Redford, now a 42-year-old rancher near the Central Texas community of Hamilton, has remembered.

He knows where the USS Houston rests, and he believes this is the time for a documentary film showing the battered hulk of the ship and revealing the stories told by survivors of that fierce battle.

Redford has spent about $8,000 of his own money on research, and now is looking for additional funds to finance an exploration expedition and then a documentary effort.

His interest in naval warfare, sparked during his boyhood years, increased as time went by.

After graduation from Texas A&M University, and serving in several jobs as an instrumentation engineer, Redford went to the South Pacific island of Kwajalein with the RCA Service Co.

During that time, he used his hobby of scuba diving to explore for the many ships he had read about in those news accounts of major sea battles.

He said in a recent interview, "I once led an expedition of divers to the Truk Lagoon and found a record number of seven sunken and previously unlocated Japanese ships."

Redford said, "It was some Indonesian divers who located the wreckage of the Houston in 1973. Since then I have talked to some of the survivors, and it has been almost an obsession with me to record on film the wreckage and tell this proud history of a proud ship."

Redford said the USS Houston was known as the "Galloping Ghost" because the Japanese reported it sunk so many times before it finally went down.

"And President Franklin D. Roosevelt fell in love with the ship and took extended cruises aboard her in 1935, 1938, and 1939."

Redford, with the tan of a man who has spent months in the water and with the bow-legged walk of a man who has spent years in the saddle, said it wasn't so unusual for a landlocked "boy to have an interest in naval history. It was just something that stuck with me. Once I heard the story of the USS Houston and the battle those men waged, it was something I could never forget."

While working his land in the rolling hills and mesquite trees of Central Texas, Redord admitted he could only think of getting back "to the Java Sea and filming that gallant lady who went against impossible odds and fought until the end."

He hasn't had much luck coming up with the necessary $10,000 for an exploration, but hopes to make it this year or perhaps in 1979.

"I don't want a thing out of this except to record on film the story of this ship. The best time for diving in the Java Sea is July, August, September and October. So if I don't come up with the money now, I'll keep on trying for next year.

Redford likes to point to part of an article written by retired Cmdr. Walter G. Winslow, who was assigned to the USS Houston. He wrote:

"...By the glare of Japanese searchlights, I saw the Houston roll slowly over to the starboard, then, with her yardarms almost dipping into the sea, she paused. A sudden breeze picked up the Stars and Stripes still firmly blocked on the mainmast, and waved them in one last defiant gesture. Then with a tired shudder, Houston vanished beneath the Java Sea.

"The magnificent Houston and most of my shipmates were gone, but in the oily sea around me lay evidence the carnage wrought by the last battle. Hundreds of Japanese soldiers and sailors struggled admist the flotsam of their ships ... I smiled and repeated over and over, 'Well done, Houston.'"

PLO Rejects Israeli Plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said today Israel does not rule out future talks with the Arabs over sovereignty of the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip, but sees its own plan for limited Palestinian self-rule as a permanent arrangement for the territories.

The Palestine Liberation Organization rejected the Israeli declaration, saying the Palestinians would "continue the struggle ... to liberate our homeland and set up an independent state."

There was no immediate comment from Egypt. But President Anwar Sadat has never modified his demand that Israel agree to withdraw unconditionally from all Arab territories it occupied in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War.

Dayan, speaking to reporters, clarified an ambiguous policy statement released Sunday by the Israeli Cabinet. He said the limited autonomy plan first proposed by Prime Minister Menachem Begin last December "is our concept. We don't think there is a better way."

The Cabinet, after a month-long debate, refused again Sunday to promise to relinquish the West Bank and Gaza Strip, saying Israel would negotiate the status of the territories five years after a peace agreement.

Israel promised that after five years of self-rule for the 1.1 million Palestinians in the two territories, "the nature of relations" between Israel, Jordan and the two territories "will be considered and agreed upon at the suggestion of any of the parties."

"We base our attitude on the assumption that the autonomy is not a transitional way, it is not a temporary arrangement. But this is the solution for Arabs and Jews to live together in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip," Dayan said, only hours before he was to present the new policy to Parliament.

The Israeli cabinet's 14-5 vote for the policy statement was a victory for Prime Minister Menachem Begin, who threatened to resign rather than accept an outright commitment to give up the two territories taken from Jordan and Egypt.

The statement evaded an American proposal that Israel agree to discuss the "permanent status" of the territories after the five-year period. The Carter administration hoped this would signify enough give by Begin to get the Egyptians back to the negotiating table. But Israeli officials said this implied a commitment to decide the sovereignty of the two territories, and Begin contended such an advance commitment would undermine Israel's position in the future negotations.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said the U.S. government "will be consulting with each side about how to proceed on the basis of the Israeli response and the views developed in our exchanges with Egypt. At this stage we are not going to characterize either the Israeli response or the Egyptian views."

Foreign Minister Dayan said Washington would receive "verbal clarifications." He conceded that "the Israeli position is not identical to that of the United States." But he said Washington did not expect the Israelis to fall into line with U.S. policy when it asked for clarification of its West Bank policy.

Begin proposed in December that the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza elect a governing council and have limited autonomy for five years while Israeli military control of the areas continued. Sadat rejected the plan at the time, and the new cabinet statement attached two conditions to the proposal which presumably will also be unacceptable to the Arabs.

One specifies that autonomy will not be granted until "the establishment of peace," or apparently until Israel, Egypt and Jordan agree on a peace treaty.

The other is that more than 2 million Palestinians living in the Arab states will have no voice in the governing of the territories or the future negotiations. Only the elected representatives of the West Bank and Gaza Palestinians will be involved.

Meanwhile, Lebanon said today Israeli naval units seized a cargo ship sailing in from Cyprus after a one-hour sea battle in which one Lebanese patrol boat was knocked out of action.

A statement from the army command in Beirut said two Lebanese patrol boats were escorting the ship to Lebanon's naval base in Jounieh, 12 miles north of Beirut, when they were attacked by an Israeli naval flotilla Sunday.

The communique said the Lebanese patrol craft intercepted the ship because it was carrying a shipment of arms to the Palestinian guerrilla-controlled harbor of Sarfand, 35 miles south of Beirut.

Senate Plans New Vote To End Long Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate plans to take a record-tying sixth anti-filibuster vote this week as it continues struggling with controversial labor law revisions.

Meanwhile, the investigations into South Korean attempts at influence-purchasing are likely to produce new developments in both houses of Congress.

The Senate Ethics Committee plans to release late today a preliminary report on allegations that Tongsun Park made contributions to eight senators.

The House plans to spend its week on federal programs that spend billions of dollars.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said today he will call for a vote Tuesday on choking off the filibuster on labor law revisions.

He refused to predict the outcome of the vote but said once the filibuster is stopped, action on the bill could be completed in a week to 10 days.

Byrd indicated he has a plan to dispose quickly of the more than 1,000 amendments pending to the bill. "I just have no concern about the amendments," he said.

Five previous attempts by those wanting to end debate have fallen two votes short of the 60 needed.

The most anti-filibuster votes ever taken on one issue came in 1975, when the Senate failed six times to break a deadlock over a contested New Hampshire senatorial election.

Byrd has not said how long he intends to keep the Senate at work on the Carter administration-backed measure if the filibuster isn't broken on the next try.

The legislation calls for stiffer penalties against labor law violators. It also gives unions new leverage in their drives to organize workers, by establishing deadlines in representation elections and giving organizers permission to enter a company's premises under certain circumstances.

Today's report by the Senate Ethics Committee looks into Park's testimony that he gave either $5,000 or $10,000 to the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's 1972 presidential campaign and up to $1,800 to Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

The House Ethics Committee may decide Wednesday whether to begin proceedings against four congressmen to determine whether they violated House rules in connection with money from Park.

Special Counsel Leon Jaworski listed possible violations by former Democratic Whip John J. McFall of California; and Reps. Edward J. Patten, D-N.J., Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., and Edward R. Roybal, D-Calif., congressional sources say.

The full House is scheduled to vote on appropriations bills for the departments of interior and agriculture and also the foreign assistance program.

Another House vote is scheduled on a measure forbidding Transportation Secretary Brock Adams from going ahead with proposed cuts in Amtrak passanger train routes until a year from October.

Adams wants to to pare the current 27,000-mile Amtrak network to 18,900 miles to hold down rising deficits.

Rain Chances Fade Over South Plains

A-J News Services

Lubbock was spared the heavy Sunday night thunderstorms that drubbed part of the South Plains, but forecasters say there is a "slight chance" the city is not out of the rain yet.

The forecast for Lubbock and vicinity calls for partly cloudy skies and warm weather today and Tuesday, with a chance of thunderstorms tonight and Tuesday.

High temperatures for today were expected to reach the low 90s, dipping to near 70 tonight. Gusty southerly winds up to 20 miles per hour are expected late this afternoon and tonight.

Less than a quarter-inch of rainfall is expected from widely scattered thunderstorms in the central and northern portions of the South Plains.

Ominous clouds late Sunday began to surround the city, which had experienced a warm and relatively clear day. They fizzled before reaching the city.

However, thunderstorms with some hail hit western Cochran County, Yoakum County, Levelland and around the Muleshoe and Morton area.

No damage was reported in those areas.

Only five South Plains towns reported rainfall in the 24 hours ending at 8:45 this morning. They included: Plainview, .50; Lockettville, .32, Muleshoe Wildlife Refuge, .24; Levelland, .17; and Morton, .04.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms are expected to center in the Panhandle Wednesday through Friday, with other parts of West Texas experiencing partly cloudy skies and high temperatures.

Highs will be in the 90s except along the Rio Grande and Big Bend where temperatures will peak at 108.

At mid-morning, a line of thunderstorms developed in eastern New Mexico, from 45 miles north-northeast of Tucumcari to 60 miles southwest of Clovis. The line had weakened and started to dissipate at noon, however.

High winds Sunday in and around Evansville, Ind., downed trees, destroyed several mobile homes and trailers and caused power outages.

bear the brunt of the regulations, and I am afraid many mills, rather than spend huge sums required for plant modification and other improvements necessary to meet the standards, will shift from cotton toward increased use of synthetic fibers. This would have a serious economic impact on all cotton-producing areas."

The veteran representative, who will retire later this year, said he has appealed to President Carter regarding the standards, as well as other top government officials, including Dr. Eula Bingham, assistant secretary of labor for OSHA; Rotert Strauss, Carter's chief inflation fighter; and Charles Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

White House economic advisers apparently persuaded Carter to order sweeping revisions in the engineering portion of the original standards because of the potential effect on inflation.

However, after a week of stiff protest from congressmen, labor department officials, labor union leaders and others, the president reversed his position by ordering that the exposure levels be unchanged but extending the compliance date from six months to four years.

prices," said Jamison. "The cheapest lot in the City of Lubbock Cemetery last month was $130, now it's $175."

During the 20 years Wolfe has been with Franklin-Bartley he has noticed a change in the business.

"Consumerism has had its effect. People are more price-conscious, and they shop more, particularly those who are pre-arranging services," he said.

World To Face Food Shortage

meat and dairy foods.

Since meat and dairy foods are expensive to produce, nutritionists and economists now believe that plants will continue to be the source of both protein and calories for most of the people on this planet.

But will there be enough plant protein to go around in the future to provide the optimum mixture of amino acids? Will there be enough of even one fairly good source of plant protein like wheat or rice?

The world population explosion indicates the answer to both questions may be no. Food supplies, many agricultural experts fear, cannot keep up with the population.

With respect to the world food shortage, the U.S. is in a fortunate position. All predictions indicate our farmers have the climate, land, agricultural know-how and political support to raise enough food for our own population and many of the world's needy for the foreseeable future.

This doesn't mean, however, that a much larger world population, with its attendant food problems, will not affect us. Our present diet, with its emphasis on over-consumption of expensive, protein-rich foods like meat and dairy products, seems destined for a change.

What form will the change take? We will not switch to a vegetable-based diet similar to that of the developing countries. But we will eat fewer meat and dairy products and more nontraditional forms of proteins, such as soybeans and vegetables that are unknown here today.

Even our traditional forms of protein will undergo a change. Grain-fed beef may become a rarity in the year 2000. Most beef may be reared to market size on forage.

Grain will have more protein and lysine. And we will make much better use of nutritious food wastes which today end up in our sewage systems.

Some alternative forms of protein are already available in the supermarket or health food store. All of them are under investigation at research institutions here and abroad. Some will undoubtedly find a secure place on our dinner tables.

Supreme Court Agrees To Hear Major Job Discrimination Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to judge the validity of a court order forcing Los Angeles County's fire department to accelerate its hiring of blacks and Mexican-Americans.

In a case with great potential impact on the minority civil rights movement nationwide, the justices said they will consider what proof of bias is needed in many job-discrimination lawsuits.

A group of blacks and Mexican-Americans who had applied unsuccessfully for county fire department jobs sued the county in 1973.

Their lawsuit charged that written examinations given all applicants were discriminatory because they had a disproportionate adverse effect on minorities — a higher percentage of blacks and Mexican-Americans failed the tests.

U.S. District Judge William P. Gray ruled that because the tests were not job-related, their use was a form of discrimination.

He ordered that as a remedy, 20 percent of the fire department's new employees would have to be black and 20 percent would have to be Mexican-Americans.

The fire department has been abiding by that order, which was upheld by the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in late 1977.

In other actions today, the Supreme Court:

— Let stand a lower court's ruling that a group of anti-war activists known as the "Gainesville 8" may sue a federal prosecutor on charges he lied to a grand jury when he said under oath that there were no government informants in their group.

— Agreed to review Pennsylvania's laws granting parents and guardians the right to commit children to mental institutions at the same time it reviews similar laws in Georgia.

— Refused to order a federal judge in Illinois to rule on the validity of a state law that seals records in nearly all adoption cases.

— Declined to involve itself in an attempt by a white Georgia couple to adopt a black child they had raised for 2½ years.

Gray's original order noted that while blacks and Mexican-Americans comprised a substantial part of the Los Angeles County population, their presence on the fire department was about 3 percent.

Neither Gray nor the appeals court ruled that the fire department had intentionally discriminated against minority applicants.

In its Supreme Court appeal, the county asked the justices to apply the same stringent test for proving constitutional discrimination in cases involving violations of federal law.

In 1976, the Supreme Court ruled in a police-hiring case from Washington, D.C., that persons charging constitutional discrimination must prove that government "intentionally" or "deliberately" discriminated against them.

The federal law under which Los Angeles County was sued attaches no no such requirement. Persons have needed only to show that some official act of government has had an adverse impact on minorities in the workforce and that the act was not job-related.

Should the high court extend the "intentional" bias requirement to the federal law, it conceivably would make it much more difficult to file successful job-discrimination lawsuits.

Governor Of New Jersey Pays Tribute To Comic

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Brendan Byrne has proclaimed Tuesday as Joe Smith Day in New Jersey in honor of the ex-vaudevillian of the legendary Smith and Dale comedy team — the real Sunshine Boys.

Smith will come out of retirement Tuesday to perform at the B'nai B'rith South Mountain Lodge at Temple Beth El, in South Orange.

Byrne and Smith performed for reporters with one of the team's old routines, the "Tax Consultant".

Smith: Are you the tax insultant?

Byrne: I don't insult anybody. I'm the tax consultant. What can I do for you?

Smith: I got trouble with the eternal revenue department.

Byrne: You mean Internal Revenue.

Smith: With me it's eternal, I never stop paying.

"God forbid," Byrne responded.

Gaslight Replicas To Be Installed

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — An old-fashioned streetlight was turned on at Benefit and Church streets here recently.

It is the first of 143 such lights to be installed in the area as part of a College Hill improvement program financed by the federal government and the Providence Preservation Society.

The light, a replica of the gaslights that illuminated College Hill in the 1890s, is an "art form" that is "accurate almost down to the last screw," said Albert Veri, design consultant for the project.

Cook's Voyages Stir Columnist

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Writer

RAROTONGA, COOK ISLANDS, South Pacific (AP) — Bicentennial greetings to you, Captain Cook, from the skipper, retired, of a 19-foot sailing sloop that inadvertently discovered a drainage canal in New York's Cold Spring Harbor.

Mulligan's Stew

This was written weeks ago, while sojourning in the lovely islands you discovered, and put away in the old sail locker next to the tarnished brass sextant and my certificate from the Coast Guard boating safety course waiting for an auspicious occasion to salute your anniversary.

Now that Hawaii and Alaska have officially piped you aboard history's ship of all-time great seamen with suitable celebrations of your genius, the time has come to dust off the old manuscript and inflict it on an always, so far, tolerant column readership.

They say that when Captain Cook died in 1779 on a Hawaiian beach, King George III wept.

And why not? In his 60 years on the throne, which included losing both the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812, James Cook was the only good news George ever got.

While Captain William Bligh, who once served under Cook, was snorting and swaggering about the seven seas, creating great movie roles for Charles Laughton and Trevor Howard, Cook was quietly going about the business of becoming the greatest sailor who ever lived. Greater than Magellan, Columbus or Chichester.

No previous navigator had gone so far, stayed at sea for so long, discovered so many new lands and islands, charted with amazing scientific accuracy so many unknown coastlines and treated both his men and the natives he visited with such respect and fairness.

Cooktown in Australia, Mount Cook and Cook Straits in New Zealand, Bay de Cook near Cape Horn, Cook village on the island of Hawaii, Cook Inlet in Alaska and these islands in the South Pacific merely suggest the territory he covered in his three epic voyages on square riggers named the Endeavour, Discovery, Resolution and Adventure.

Cook, a Yorkshireman who joined the merchant navy as an ordinary seaman before volunteering for the royal navy in the war against France, was the first seamen ever to cross the Antarctic Circle. He discovered Hawaii, New Caledonia, the Cook Islands and the large island of South Georgia. He claimed Australia, the world's last unknown continent, for his king. He charted most of the North American Pacific Coast all the way to Alaska and the Bering Sea. He made the American Pacific Coast all the way to Alaska and the Bering Sea. He made the first accurate survey of the St. Lawrence River and Newfoundland. He proved, to his own and the King's disappointment, that there was no Northwest Passage connecting the Pacific and Hudson's Bay.

Cook was a brave man but never a swashbuckler. He made history with a sextant, not a sword. He knew that in the South Pacific islands where he roamed for a dozen years the natives were fond of English crews. For dinner. A Maori chief on New Zealand's South Island one evening served up the forearm of an English sailor who had deserted from a recent calling ship.

"The people of Queen Charlotte Sound," Cook wrote in his journal, "told us but a few days before we arrived that they had killed and eaten a whole boat crew." Yet at the future site of the city of Auckland, Cook in the presence of of the local Maori tribe had a dozen lashes each administered to three of his crewmen "for digging up potatous of ye natives."

Cook seldom lost his sense of humor or his ability to come up with a new name for a new place. "At 6 a.m.," he could write from New Zealand in his first circumnavigation of the globe, "we weighed and stood out of the bay which I have naymed Poverty Bay because it afforded us no one thing we wanted."

On those first Cook's Tours, which were not named for him, the food was always first cabin, which is why his crews remained loyal and healthy.

The captain's table in Australia was particular opulent. Wrote Cook: "The sea, bays and rivers abound with a great variety of excellent fish, the most of them unknown in England, besides the lobsters what were allowed by everybody on board to be the best they ever had."

As skipper of a 19-foot sloop, I tried to emulate the great Yorkshire navigator and truncherman so it could be said of me as his ship's surgeon Dr. Samwell said of him: "Cook had no repugnance to good living. He always kept a fine table, though he could bear the reverse without murmuring."

About the drainage canal. Seeking refuge from gale-force winds and following seas, we heaved to (a nautical term for mal de mer) into a promising inlet which our tattered charts showed to be Cold Spring Harbor.

"Where's the channel markers and how far upstream is the town dock?" I called from the bridge, the cockpit really, to a landlubber lounging by an abandoned factory shed.

Drought-Stricken Ethiopia Gets Aid

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The European Common Market on Friday granted more than $3.4 million to drought-stricken Ethiopia following a request for help by authorities in Addis Ababa.

A market spokesman said the funds would be used to purchase some 50 trucks used to transport food to hungry people made available through international aid.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM

The Newspaper Bible

Mark 3:32-35; 4:1-17, The Living Bible

"Your mother and brothers are outside and want to see You," He was told.

33 He replied, "Who is My mother? Who are My brothers?"

34 Looking at those around Him He said, "These are My mother and brothers!

35 Anyone who does God's will is My brother, and My sister, and My mother."

CHAPTER 4

1 Once again an immense crowd gathered around Him on the beach as He was teaching, so He got into a boat and sat down and talked from there.

2 His usual method of teaching was to tell the people stories. One of them went like this:

3 "Listen! A farmer decided to sow some grain. As he scattered it across his field

4 Some of it fell on a path, and the birds came and picked it off the hard ground and ate it.

5,6 Some fell on thin soil with underlying rock. It grew up quickly enough, but soon wilted beneath the hot sun and died because the roots had no nourishment in the shallow soil.

7 Other seeds fell among thorns that shot up and crowded the young plants so that they produced no grain.

8 But some of the seeds fell into good soil and yielded 30 times as much as he had planted some of it even 60 or 100 times as much!

9 If you have ears, listen!"

10 Afterwards, when He was alone with the Twelve and with His other disciples, they asked Him, "What does Your story mean?"

11,12 He replied, "You are permitted to know some truths about the Kingdom of God that are hidden to those outside the Kingdom. As Isaiah the prophet says: 'Though they see and hear, they will not understand or turn to God, or be forgiven for their sins.'

13 But if you can't understand this simple illustration, what will you do about all the others I am going to tell?

14 The farmer I talked about is anyone who brings God's message to others, trying to plant good seed within their lives.

15 The hard pathway, where some of the seed fell, represents the hard hearts of some of those who hear God's message; Satan comes at once to try to make them forget it.

16 The rocky soil represents the hearts of those who hear the message with joy,

17 But, like young plants in such soil, their roots don't go very deep, and though at first they get along fine, as soon as persecution begins, they wilt.

Theater Collection Suffers From Lack Of Space

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

NEW YORK (UPI) — As housekeeping headaches go, the curator of the largest collection of theater memorabilia in America has one of migraine magnitude.

"We've got literally millions of items in the Theater Collection of the Museum of the City of New York and almost no space," said Theodore H. Fetter, a former actor who has cared for the mind-boggling accumulation since 1974 with the aid of a staff of 10. "As for humidity and temperature control, we can't afford it, which is a crime when you consider that the collection is absolutely priceless."

Deterioration is a fact of life for the collection which has permanent display space in the upper Fifth Avenue museum and storage space "under the eaves, in the attic, in the basement and sub-basement, under the approach to the Queensborough Bridge, and in some recently rented space in a bulding across the street," according to Fetter.

Fetter explained that the Theater Collection is only housed by the museum and is entirely self-supporting, depending on donations and funds raised at galas and other benefits.

One such event is an exhibit Tuesday night of 35 art nouveau works by Adolphe Moucha underwritten by Moet & Chandon champagnes. Moucha designed theater posters, stage sets and theatrical costumes, as well as Moet & Chandon posters and menu cards, at the turn of the century in Paris. The Theater Collection owns Moucha posters of Sara Bernhardt and Mrs. Leslie Carter.

A cross section of the theater world — from Helen Hayes and Cornelia Otis Skinner to Joseph Papp, Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Lowe — have subscribed to the exhibit at the Sindin Gallery but that is not unusual when the Theater Collection throws a benefit. Its annual stage tribute to living theatrical greats, such as the Mary Martin-Ethel Merman show last year, are usually the hardest-to-come-by tickets in town. The show next December will honor Lerner and Lowe.

"We have a very faithful following but we could use more money," said Fetter. "For instance, we have the nation's largest collection of three sheet theatrical posters and they tear every time we unfold them. They and our window card collection should be properly mounted, but that would cost $100,000."

The collection's most valuable material — programs, pictures, music and press clippings on almost every play and musical ever staged in New York, about 15,000 — has been dry-mounted, laminated and stored in acid-free envelopes, as have 15,000 personality files. Over 1,500 costumes have recently been restored and re-hung in rented air-conditioned quarters. But huge numbers of theatrical scrapbooks have not been catalogued and many of the newsprint clippings are crumbling.

The collection was a hit with the theatrical community and the public from the day it was established at Gracie Mansion, now the mayor's official residence, in 1926 by the late May Davenport Seymour of the Davenport acting dynasty. In one year alone, some 400,000 items were accessioned. Eugene O'Neill gave manuscripts of 11 early plays, the Gershwins gave all their memorabilia, and Mary Martin donated her entire collection of costumes, scripts, plots and photographs. Most of Ethel Barrymore's mementos are in the collecion.

Only recently Fetter purchased out of his meager budget two costumes of stripper Gypsy Rose Lee that came up at auction. They have joined Miss Barrymore's pink feather fan, Joseph Jefferson's fishing pole, Zero Mostel's "Fiddler on the Roof" prayer shawl, Anita Loos' portrait, Alfred Lunt's toy theaters, Marcus Bicheman's dance photographs, a bust of Eubie Blake, and Edwin Booth's prompt book of "Hamlet" as highlights of the rich trove of entertainment treasures that includes vaudeville, opera and the circus.

GOP Panel Suggests Primary

Members of the GOP State Executive Committee met during the weekend recommended an amendment to state party rules which would provide for a Republican presidential primary in 1980.

In the May statewide primary, 74 percent of Republican voters approved a referendum proposal calling for a presidential primary.

State Republican Chairman Allan Hamm of Fort Worth expressed doubt about whether the 1979 legislature, controlled by Democrats would enact legislation authorizing a Republican presidential primary. The panel, therefore, recommended an alternate method of obtaining a Republican vote on presidential choices.

If the legislature fails to pass a Republican presidential primary measure, the Republicans will sponsor a 1980 presidential poll during the party's primary. The presidential primary-presidential poll proposition passed as part of the same package.

The committee passed a resolution that calls for voters in the 1980 general election to decide whether Congress should be limited in its tax collecting powers.

On the national level, the resolution calls for Texas delegates to the Republican National Committee to put before the full panel a proposal supporting a U.S. constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

The proposal would limit the power of Congress to assess taxes no greater than 15 percent of net income and would apply to both personal and corporate taxes.

Furthermore, the resolution stated, federal taxes "shall be reduced by the amount of any other tax paid to any local, state or federal governmental agency." The resolution which was passed would allow Congress to borrow money only in the event of a "formally declared war."

Trustees To Study Change In Policy

Lubbock school trustees Tuesday will consider a policy granting teachers and other employees up to three days of personal leave per year with full or partial pay.

Under the policy proposed by the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association, such personal absences could be charged to the employee's current annual sick leave or the employee could authorize a salary deduction equal to a substitute's pay.

Presently the Lubbock Independent School District administration has the discretion of deciding whether an employee's personal absence should be charged to sick leave. For example, teachers may be able to take off with pay for required court appearances.

With the existing policy, if the administration does not allow an absence to be charged to sick leave, the employee is docked a day's pay.

The proposed policy would give employees three days' personal absences with no questions asked. The leave could be chalked up to sick leave — so that the employee gets full pay — or the employee could choose to pay for a substitute to cover for the days missed.

The school board will meet Tuesday at 7:15 a.m. in the district's administration building, 1628 19th St.

At the meeting, parents from Lubbock High will present concerns about that school's small enrollment. The board also will consider officially naming the magnet complex at Dunbar High as the Dunbar-Struggs High School.

Teachers Affected By Transfer Rule

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

An estimated 125 teachers have been told to change schools to accommodate the Lubbock Independent School District's court-ordered integration plan, personnel director Robert Knight says.

Some were reluctant about their transfers, but they understand the school system's predicament, he said.

"All of them realized what we had to do. Successful implementation of the desegregation plan requires a team effort, and this is the contribution they've been asked to make," Knight said of the transferred teachers.

"Naturally most teachers would prefer to stay in their present assignment. Many of them live near the schools they teach at, and they know the students and parents of their school's particular area," he said.

Knight said the school district finished notifying the teachers involved in the upcoming transfers last week.

"We tried to contact most of them before school let out," Superintendent Ed Irons said. "We assigned as many as we could to the same schools that their previous students will be attending under the desegregation plan."

Under the plan, for example, Southeast Elementary will be closed and its students will be sent to Brown Elementary. As a result, most of the Southeast faculty also was assigned to Brown, Irons said.

Other campuses being closed are Sanders Elementary and Struggs Junior High. Like their students, Sanders teachers have been transferred to Guadalupe Elementary and to Stewart Elementary (Guadalupe's "sister school"); Struggs teachers have been assigned to Atkins, Hutchinson and O.L. Slaton junior highs.

Also, most Iles Elementary teachers have been transferred and the school is being re-staffed with teachers who specifically request assignment to the "exemplary" magnet program planned for that campus, Irons said.

Most of the other elementary schools involved in the desegregation plan will be transferring one to three teachers to the "sister schools" with which they are matched, Knight said.

Some teachers also are being assigned from Monterey and Coronado high schools to the Dunbar-Struggs Magnet Complex to facilitate the transfer of such courses as vocational cooperative programs.

In all, Knight estimated that 125 teachers are involved in integration-related transfers.

Irons said the district attempted to give teachers some say-so in the transfers. The final decision, however, was the district's, he said.

The district had to match teachers and their qualifications with the needs of individual schools, Irons said.

"It was impossible to give everybody a choice. The teachers have been most gracious in accepting the transfers," Irons said.

Wendell Huddleston, president of Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association, said each school is different. "Until a teacher gets settled, there is a bit of apprehension," he said.

But Huddleston believes the transferred teachers will "make the best of the situation."

The upcoming faculty transfers are the first on such a scale since 1971, when the district reassigned about 80 teachers in a "wholesale crossover" for racial balance.

The latest transfers were made not so much on the basis of race, but to accommodate changes in enrollment and class sizes resulting from the integration plan.

Under the plan, a combination of voluntary and mandatory measures, about 2,000 elementary children and several hundred secondary students will be changing schools this August.

PLAINVIEW WOMAN DRIVES 165 MILES EACH WEEK TO PAT WALKER'S

IVA KAYLER'S TRUE STORY:

I am a farmers wife and do plenty of hard work keeping my garden and my yard and all my canning besides helping my husband in the fields when he needs me.

But that still doesn't do for you what Pat Walker's does.

I had gotten to the point where I didn't care and didn't want to see anyone. I was so nervous and nagged my family all the time. Then my hairdresser told me about Pat Walker's.

I'm glad I decided to go for my health's sake, too. Now my family is so proud of me.

In a few months I lost from 151¾ lbs. to 131½ lbs. and most important I lost 39¾ inches. Before I was wearing a size 14 and now 6's and 8's. My health is so much better and I look on life in an altogether different light. I am 63 years old and now have so much energy for everything.

I drive 165 miles to take my treatments and it has been money well spent.

The Counselors are so nice and ready to help you. All you have to do is relax. When I'm so tired from my work at home and think I can't take another step I go down to Pat Walker's and take my treatment and walk out feeling like a new woman.

So give Pat Walker's a chance! Don't wait another day and you can start feeling as good as I do. You'll be glad you did it too!

'Dial-A-Puff' Helps People Stop Smoking

By JERRY GRAY

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — For Memphis residents trying to stop smoking, help is as close as the telephone. And would-be quitters across the state soon may be able to dial up to avoid lighting up.

Day or night, in the state's largest city, Dial-a-Puff answers at 276-8003. "Congratulations," a reassuring recorded message says. "You're a winner. You may not feel like a winner because you're going through the lonely and anxious steps of putting your cigarettes away.

"Remember, any discomfort you are experiencing, physically or emotionally, is natural during the period of cessation from smoking. They're all indications that you are successfully making the passage from smoking to not smoking. If you would like someone to go through the passage with you, or if you have any questions concerning the positive step of kicking the habit, please leave your name and number. One of our concerned ex-smokers from the Tennessee Lung Association will contact you."

TLA executive director William F. Busse of Nashville explained the idea in an interview. "A number of organizations and people have tried a variety of things, so we came up with the idea of having a 24-hour telephone service," he said. "We initiated it here in Memphis to test it out and see how it works, hoping that it will go statewide. We know of no other places that have tried it, so it's really an experimental program. But it looks like it's going to be a good one."

Dial-a-Puff began the second week in April at an initial cost of $5,000, Busse said. He'd been toying with the idea for years. In the first 90 minutes there were 54 calls.

There is even a number for backsliders, 276-8004. That recording suggests substituting something like exercise or eating fresh fruit or vegetables for smoking, and, if all else fails, going someplace where smoking is not allowed — a library or a hospital.

Dial-A-Puff supplements such TLA services as stop-smoking clinics.

"Smoking is a behavioral-pattern type of thing and sometimes people will want to quit smoking but just aren't ready to go to a clinic or a clinic is not available," Busse said. "Sometimes people who have stopped smoking get the urge in the middle of the night to have another cigarette, and they need to have help, to talk to somebody."

SPOTLIGHT ON... Family News

The Slim Gourmet

Traditionally, spring was the season for lamb. And the traditional spring offering of lamb was a giant leg roast or elegant rack of ribs. Today lamb is available any time of year, and in a variety of market forms better suited to today's smaller families and need for hurry-up meals. The lamb that's best suited for fat-fighting, health-conscious cooks is lamb cut from the leg.

Round-bone leg steaks are frequently featured in many supermarkets, especially on the East coast. If not available, you can have steaks sliced from a half-leg of lamb. That will give several quick meals plus a small roast.

MARINATED LAMB STEAKS HAWAIIAN-STYLE

¼ cup unsweetened canned pineapple juice
2 tbsps. soy sauce
1 tbsp. vinegar
4 juice-packed canned pineapple rings
4 sprigs parsley

Trim lamb of fringe fat; slice into four equal-size servings. Combine pineapple juice, soy sauce and vinegar and pour over lamb. Cover and refrigerate all day or overnight.

Remove the steaks from the marinade and broil or barbecue about 20 minutes, turning once. Place the pineapple rings on broiler rack during the last five minutes and turn once. Serve lamb garnished with pineapple ring and a sprig of parsley. Makes four servings, 230 calories each.

TURKISH LAMB EN BROCHETTE

2 lean round-bone leg lamb steaks (about 1 ¼ lbs.)
¼ cup lemon juice
2 tbsps. steak sauce
optional: 1 clove garlic, minced (or ⅛ tsp. garlic powder)
2 or 3 small bay leaves
2 small bell peppers, seeded, diced
4 small onions, peeled and halved
8 cherry tomatoes
1 tsp. olive oil or salad oil

Cut the lean part of the steaks into 1-inch cubes; discard fat and round bone. Combine meat in a glass bowl or plastic bag with the lemon juice, steak sauce, garlic and bay leaves. (Add a little cold water, if needed, so that lamb pieces are uniformly moistened.) Refrigerate all day or overnight.

Thread the meat on skewers, alternating with pepper, onion and tomato. Brush very lightly with oil. Broil or barbecue, turning frequently, about 10 to 12 minutes. Brush with reserved marinade while turning. Makes four servings, 245 calories each.

SLOW-SIMMERED LAMB STEAKS A LA GRECQUE

optional: 1 clove garlic, minced (or ⅛ tsp. instant)
1 large onion, halved, thinly sliced
8-ounce can plain tomato sauce
¼ tsp. marjoram or oregano
¼ tsp. dried mint
dash of nutmeg

Carefully trim and discard fringe fat from lamb. Slice each steak in half, to make four equal servings.

Spray a large non-stick skillet or electric fry pan with cooking spray for no-fat frying. Sear the steaks quickly on both sides over high heat. Drain and discard any fat.

Lower heat. Add remaining ingredients. Cover and simmer over very low heat until tender, 40 to 50 minutes. Serves four, 210 calories each.

For more calorie-saving recipes, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35 cents to SLIM GOURMET LAMB, VEAL AND PORK RECIPES, in care of this newspaper, Sparta, N.J. 07871.

Jordan-Hardin Set Wedding

By A-J Correspondent

SNYDER — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jordan of Fluvanna announce the engagement of a daughter, Lorinda, to Joey Hardin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hardin of Kermit.

The couple plans a July 22 wedding in the home of the bride-elect's parents.

The bride-elect was graduated from Snyder High School and attended Angelo State University. The future bridegroom was graduated from SHS and Western Texas College.

VEGETABLE DRESS—UP

Top canned pineapple slices with thin tomato slices and cheddar or Swiss cheese. Broil, then serve on a spring vegetable plate of fresh asparagus, dill-buttered carrots and minted new potatoes.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I am worrying needlessly, but I can't help it. Our daughter will be a freshman this fall at a coed university halfway across the continent. It's considered to be a fine school, but I understand there is practically no supervision. I mean, the students stay in dormitories, and there is a dean of women to talk to, but the hours are very liberal. Students can "sign out" for weekends, and with so many freshman girls, ours will get no special looking after.

We've never had any trouble with our daughter, but with all we hear about premarital sex in colleges, we are concerned.

Shouldn't the college try to discipline the freshman girls a little more strictly? After all, it is the first time many of them have ever been away from home.

CONCERNED IN KANSAS

Dear Concerned: By the time a girl goes to college, her moral code is well established, and what she didn't learn at home and in church, she will not learn from the dean of women. It's time parents realized that even more important to college students than "supervision" is a good, sound moral grounding during their impressionable years at home.

Educators cannot be expected to "police" the morals of college students beyond the general rules that apply to society as a whole.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a recently retired gent who's dating a nice gal in her mid 50's. Being retired, I have a limited income.

We go out for dinner every Saturday night, and once in a while during the week we go out for lunch. My lady very much wants to chip in to pay for the meals, drinks, etc.

I can't see it. I told her when it gets to the point where I can't afford to pick up a tab for both of us, we just won't go anywhere. She says she doesn't see anything wrong with her picking up the tab once in a while.

Am I right or is she?

CONFUSED

Dear Confused: She's right: Surrender, dear.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nearly a year to a man who had been divorced for three years before I met him. He does something that drives me up a wall, and I have trouble controlling my hurt and anger when he does it. He still refers to his ex-wife as "my wife." (They were married for a number of years, but that's no excuse.)

Abby, I am his wife. She is his FORMER wife, but for some strange reason he continues to refer to her as "my wife."

I love him very much. He is a fine man and I know he doesn't do this intentionally, but it bothers me. I should add, his former wife has remarried, so she is somebody else's wife now. Help me, please. Correcting him hasn't helped.

HIS WIFE

Dear Wife: If you "love" this fine man, and correcting him has not helped thus far, cool it. He'll eventually get the right wife in the right context when you've been his wife as long as she was.

The DIET CENTER Program Really Works!
Muriel Sizer SAYS:
"When my doctor recommended a weight loss program that didn't sacrifice nutrition, I 'shopped around' for a plan that would fit my budget. The Diet Center not only matched my pocketbook but also helped me lose 18 pounds in six weeks. As a retired teacher I know the importance of an alert outlook on life. After all, these are the years I worked for! I've never felt better or had more energy."
Carefully supervised by trained counselors who have been through the weight reduction program themselves, the "DIET CENTER way" is understanding the frustrations and problems of dieting. Counsel is provided individually and in privacy. Dieters weigh in daily and receive personalized support from counselors. Programs are adjusted to your needs and lifestyle.
After losing 60 pounds in thirteen weeks, Joyce Wagner, a homemaker told us that she now knows how Cinderella felt at the ball. "Diet Center has given me a whole new life."

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q5 ♡873 ◇J963 ♣AQ85
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's reverse shows a hand worth about 18 points, probably with five hearts and four spades. Your queen of spades now increases in value, and our own preference is for a jump to four hearts, though we don't greatly fault the more conservative action of three hearts. The one bid we won't endorse is three no trump, because you know that partner's hand is unbalanced and your stopper in one of the unbid suits is hardly secure.

Q.2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K1072 ♡83 ◇K982 ♣A83
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—If you were not a passed hand, we would suggest a bid of two diamonds. Now, however, that action would be risky—this is no longer a forcing response and partner might pass. Our choice would be a leap to three spades, to allow for the possibility that partner might have a shaded opening in third seat, but we don't quibble with a full-blooded four spades.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK76 ♡A92 ◇A1072 ♣84
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Even if partner has a super-maximum 10 points, game is highly unlikely beccuse you have no long suit to develop. A raise to two no trump would unnecessarily imperil a part score if partner is minimum.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ1052 ♡53 ◇982 ♣862
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. While partner's bid is strongly invitational, it is not forcing. You have a dead minimum for your response and no particular fit. Even three hearts could be too high.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q982 ♡A74 ◇105 ♣7643
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 NT	Dble.	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Simple arithmetic should tell you that West is in trouble. Partner's double shows the equivalent of a no trump opening bid, so West will be lucky if he finds as much as a queen in his partner's hand. Pass, and expect to collect at least 300 points in penalties.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠1087 ♡7 ◇AK865 ♣KQ72
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	2 ♡	Dble.	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You should be delighted with the turn of events. Partner has made a vulnerable overcall, so he should have a reasonable suit and a fair hand. Since you are presenting him with at least three probable tricks, you should expect him to make the contract even though the trumps are stacked against him.

Q.7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♡AKJ1075 ◇K92 ♣A874
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 ◇	1 ♠	?

What action do you take?

A.—It's tempting to jump to three hearts to show your excellent suit and slam aspirations. However, preemptive bidding by the opponents might make it inconvenient for you to show your spade void later, so we feel that should be the first order of business. Cue-bid two spades, then hope that you will have the opportunity to introduce your heart suit later.

Q.8—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠854 ♡KQ9 ◇742 ♣AJ93
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East

What action do you take?

A.—Bid one no trump. This is a constructive response, not one made out of weakness. It shows a balanced hand of 8-10 points and stoppers in the enemy suit. Remember, you are making this bid freely; with a weak hand you could pass and wait for partner's next action.

LEPRECHAUN, CADET MINI MOTOR HOMES STOCKED

Mini Motor Homes, Other Popular '78 RV Units Now At Pharr Trailer Sales

Silver Streak, Coachmen, Apollo, Pharr Trailer Sales . . . these are names to know and appreciate when it comes to vacation and travel enjoyment!

"Surely you have friends who can attest to this, first hand; we invite you to join the crowd!"

Pharr Trailer Sales, 1702 Clovis Road in Lubbock, likes to prove that travel and relaxation can take on a new enjoyment, new convenience and new thrill with the right recreational vehicle (RV) unit, accessories, equipment and service from Pharr, phone 765-6088, at the Amarillo Highway-Clovis Highway "Y" on Avenue Q in Lubbock.

New Models

Special attention is directed at this time to the new '78 Coachmen mini motor homes now on the neat and spacious lot.

See the Leprechaun and Cadet mini motor homes by Coachmen; they open the door to freedom!

And for '78, the Leprechaun has been completely restyled to feature a new radius-cornered aerodynamic profile along with outstanding new floorplans to offer the best lineup of value ever introduced by Coachmen.

Then, there's the Cadet; true economy combined with the quality one has come to expect from Coachmen, highlights the all-new Cadet line of mini motor homes. Added to the compact, efficient Cadet 17RD, which was an immediate success when introduced in 1977, is the roomy Cadet 20RG for '78.

See all these units at Pharr's and compare the floorplans, decors and special features that put them ahead of the crowd!

Silver Streak

For custom engineering at its finest, one is invited to inspect still another line at Pharr's . . . the prestigious Silver Streak, destined to become the standard of excellence in serviceability, comfort and unprecedented beauty.

It is an RV in a class of its own, very possibly "the very answer to your travel dreams".

Its aerodynamic futuristic design and styling guarantees that it is a sound investment now in future years. Its all-aluminum roof and sidewalls are riveted together, aircraft style. Luxurious furnishings and interior appointments are in perfect harmony with one's particular lifestyle.

There are still other great units and lines available from Pharr's, including the ever-popular Coachmen 5th Wheel units.

Whether the selection is from a 5th wheel, mini-motor home, travel trailers in all sizes, cab-over camper or even pop-ups, Pharr comes through with top quality and value.

And whether one is interested in one of the exciting new '78 units, or if readying a present RV unit for the season, Pharr has much to offer.

In citing advantages of Coachmen, Pharr calls attention to its dealership network of over 500 dealers in the nation. Also it has the best warranty imaginable. For example, it is said to be the only manufacturer that offers warranty on all appliances and components, not just on the unit construction itself. Now, isn't this worth full consideration when selecting an RV?

Service

Pharr also is a service center, together with sales; it is a "first stop must" in readying one's present RV unit for a trouble-free summer ahead.

Harold Pharr calls special attention to the selection of parts and accessories stocked within the attractive showrooms.

When planning a trip, or even when just completing one, a person could do well to check for needed accessories "while it is fresh on his or her mind", with Pharr most likely having the very item desired.

And the brand names need no introduction — such as Coleman air conditioning units. EZ Lift hitches, etc. A lot of little things are stocked, too, that can make a mighty big difference in comforts while on an outdoor vacation.

Pharr knows recreational units, and this modern Lubbock firm can help immeasureably in correct selection that will give pleasure for years to come. Ask the man who owns a Pharr unit.

El Paso Wholesale, Lubbock Division, Serves Wide Region

"El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division knows that it can make the entire year more profitable and certainly more convenient for retail firms throughout the region, ultimately saving for the consumer ... you and me."

There are a number of carefully planned factors that make this statement possible and true:

Selling wholesale only, the El Paso Wholesale Company in Lubbock is the city's complete wholesale firm.

Customers include grocery and hardware stores, auto supply houses, service stations, toy stores, sporting goods stores, etc.

Located at 206 23rd St., phone 747-1841, in Lubbock, the El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division carries and stocks a full selection of hard line merchandise.

From time to time partial lists of the products have been published on these pages of the Avalanche-Journal, and readers have noted that the products and brand names are ones that can be appreciated, together with the completeness of this wholesale firm.

Among the benefits area merchants find foremost at El Paso Wholesale Company Lubbock Division, aside from the selection, is the freight situation.

Doesn't it make sense that savings are enabled through the regions by virtue of the big-stock Lubbock warehouse that features faster, shorter delivery transport? Let this Lubbock wholesale firm prove it to your own benefit with products such as:

Guns by Remington, Marlin and H. and R.; ammunition from Federal and Remington; and gun accessories such as Outer & Hoppes solvents and gun cleaning kits.

C.B. radios by Midland and Cobra, and the Fuzzbuster radar detector; plus Mr. CB accessories and Antenna Specialist antennas.

Of course there are lots of quality housewares, including Corning Ware and Pyrex, Nordic Ware and Rubbermaid.

Electronics

In the electronics field, select from television sets by G.E., Midland, Hitachi and Sony; and stereos by Soundesign and Hitachi; plus miscellaneous items including eight-track and cassette recorders, walkie talkies and TV video games.

Quality cameras and supplies include Polaroid and Kodak cameras, projectors and film, and accessories such as camera cases, viewers and film reels.

Sporting Goods

Diversified sporting goods items include . . . for the fishing enthusiast there are the famous lines of Diawa, Garcia, Zebco, Mr. Twister, Fleck Lures and Mepps.

And there are Daisy and Crossman BB guns and Huffy bicycles.

Small appliances are stocked in abundance, including coffee makers by Norelco, Mr. Coffee and Protector-Silex; and pressure cookers from Presto and Mirro Aluminum; and Hamilton Beach, Waring, G.E. and Sunbeam appliances, together with such lines as Dazey, Munsey, West Bend, Oster and Rival.

Gift items include the quality Cross pens, Zippo lighters, watches by Timex and Texas Instruments, clocks and calculators.

In the personal care category, there are hair dryers by Gillette, Clairol, Conair and Sunbeam; and hairsetters and make-up mirrors by Clairol, Gillette, G.E. and Hamilton Beach; and Water-Pik, too.

Automotive items include Hollywood and Cal custom accessories, Fram Filters and Autolite tune-up accessories; and Rubbermaid, Lifeline and Roberk automobile accessories.

And more!

SPECIALS, MULTIPLE PRODUCTS, SERVICES TOLD — Bob Hendon and Kathy Miller of Lubbock Floor Covering are among those on the staff at the 'Mister Carpet' firm on hand to assure knowledgeable assistance in the several facits of the store's capabilities and products. Attention is directed to home decorating services, new products and a current sale.

Lubbock Floor Covering Firm Relates Pre-Market Specials, Many Services

"Pre-Market Specials" are now in effect at Lubbock Floor Covering, 19th Street at Avenue V.

This means that special prices are posted on quality carpeting including new shipments, new colors and patterns, remnants and all.

(There are remnants priced from $1.99 per yard!)

Not only are there carpet values, but there are multiple decorating needs handsomely met at Lubbock Floor Covering.

Custom drapes, as example, are a popular service.

Even entry tile, counter tops, and more!

Whatever the carpet or decorating need, Lubbock Floor Covering is worthy of prime consideration.

Financing up to 36 months is available, with no money down!

The ever-expanding services, together with continuation of tremendous stock at prices to appreciate, proves the firm's consideration of the customer.

"And did you realize that Lubbock Floor Covering even installs hardwood floors?"

Full Service

Some may not yet realize that a full service — for coordinating one's vinyls, counter tops, carpet and even window treatment — is the exciting situation at Lubbock Floor Covering.

Kathy Miller, specialist in interior design, is a valuable staffmember, as many have discovered, bringing outstanding qualifications and a capacity for service that results in greater customer help.

She is of special aid in color consultation, assisting in proper and pleasing coordination of drapes and carpet, for example.

Janice Hale, newest staffmember and with interior decorating experience, is on hand, also, to assist in selection and in finest customer service.

Bob Hendon at Lubbock Floor Covering points out some other items of special interest:

New shipments of carpet are evident in the showrooms, and more are on the way! Whatever one's carpet need and preference, there is no problem in price, selection or availability at Lubbock Floor covering.

(Also note the selection of original oil paintings stocked to aid in decor coordination and new life for any room)

And remember . . . Kathy Miller is glad to go into the home, even measuring for installations, glad to assist in problems where qualified advice is of prime value. She is glad to work with the home resident, answering design questions and assisting in planning of a decor to please — for the summer season ahead and for seasons to come.

"Come in, meet Kathy Miller and Janice Hale at Lubbock Floor Covering, and you will discover how they, Bob Hendon and the other staffmembers have established themselves as leaders in service — to your benefit.

Lubbock Kash And Karry Wholesale Grocery Explains New Saving Policy

Already widely acclaimed for its aid to the food budget, Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery, 901 N. Ave. Q, has a great announcement of further benefit:

Now, one may purchase individual items, as well as one-half case and case lots at special low prices!

Heretofore, the prices were rock-bottom, but purchases were enabled in quantity lots only. Now, one can shop for the quantity desired, from one item up!

And this other situation should not be overlooked either:

All items are pre-priced; one does not need to mark his or her own items; and . . . full carry-out service continues to be a policy of Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery.

"Many of you have profited — for months — by checking the ads of Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery on these pages, and purchasing accordingly. (Selecting at the same time from the hundreds of other items already marked at 'rock bottom' at this popular Lubbock grocery that recently celebrated its second anniversary).

"Others of you possibly have yet to learn the money-saving truth . . . that Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery can be a tremendous friend to the family budget.

Certainly, all will agree that it is advantageous to shop more carefully than ever before . . . for price and value. Then . . . be sure and check the Lubbock Kash & Karry ad.

(Not only this week but check each week on representative money-saving staple items provided by this distinctive firm at 901 N. Ave. Q.

Full Service

"Did you know that groceries still can be purchased in Lubbock at rock-bottom prices — and — with full carry-out and sacking service?

"If you are shopping elsewhere, you may be doing much of the work yourself, and still be paying too much; so — try Lubbock Kash & Karry Wholesale Grocery and pocket the savings!"

Located at 901 N. Ave. Q, phone 747-6033, this firm is Lubbock's only independently and wholly owned and operated wholesale grocery.

It takes pride in "selling for less," a policy made possible by its cash arrangement, low overhead, purchases directly from the manufacturer, its policy of "pick it up yourself and save the difference," and local warehousing.

Co-owners are Tommy Toombs and Noble Sides, with Toombs as manager. Sides, formerly with the Ben E. Keith Co., enjoys a wide acquaintance in the area, as does Tommy who also is a long-time Lubbock resident. Both are on the job to give their personal attention.

Not only is the stock of staple and canned items impressive, but there are packaged meats and a very good stock of other refrigerated products and produce.

The firm has enjoyed acceptance and appreciation of those even coming long distances to take advantags of the prices and selection. More than 1,600 items are included in the stock that veritably affords "anything for the grocery business," and housed in a big 6,000 sq.ft. building at the north Lubbock location.

'HOME OF ONE OF THE LARGEST STEEL INVENTORIES IN WEST TEXAS'

Lubbock Steel & Supply Tells Added Savings In Pre-Inventory Clearance

Lubbock Steel and Supply is preparing for inventory.

This means that Pre-Inventory Clearance values throughout the firm's tremendous stock present some exceptional buys.

For example, there is an excellent selection of new random angles, flats and rounds, at $13.95 cwt, with some random choices at still less in bulk order!

The Pre-Inventory prices are now in effect, so select early for extremely good buys.

"For all one's steel needs, doesn't it make sense to rely upon Lubbock Steel and Supply, home of one of the largest steel inventories in all West Texas?

Aside from the exceptional stock selection and prices and services to be appreciated, this Lubbock firm recognizes that a capable staff also contributes in no small manner to customer service.

In this light, it is announced that newest on the staff is Judy Ewerz, formerly with Ducommun Metals. Judy is well known and experienced in the field and is a valuable addition to the inside sales force.

Doug Williams, on the Lubbock steel scene for about 14 years, is manager of Lubbock Steel and Supply, and heading the parent firm are other familiar names in the business: Bobby Jarvis as president, and Jack Williamson as vice president.

Something else of interest, a situation one might not have recognized:

"Bring your scrap metal in to Lubbock American Iron & Metal (at 3202 Quirt Ave.) and then drive on over to secure your new steel needs at Lubbock Steel and Supply, 62nd Street at Quirt Avenue . . . at prices to earn your approval!"

"If you have never seen 27 acres of steel, then come out to our yard at Lubbock Steel and Supply."

"Furthermore . . . if we don't have it, we will order it for you. For one piece or a truck load, call today for a quote."

A good selection of tool bar material is in stock, including:

4 x 4 x 1/4" sq. tube;
5 x 7 x 3/8" rect. tube;
2 1/4" sq. solid bar;
1 x 3 x 20' shank material; and
9/32 x 4 x 20' stalk cutter steel.

Cash and carry building materials include rebar, remesh, roof decking, beams, pipe siding, barbed wire, bailer wire, bar grating and expanded metal.

Lubbock Steel and Supply is especially well known in its job of "serving the man on the land" for cotton trailer packages.

Pre-fabricated cotton trailer beds are stocked in size 8 ft. by 9 ft. by 24 ft., and pre-cut trailer packages are available in 8 x 8 x 24, and in 8 x 9 x 24.

Security Hardware, Tool For Home, Builder, Yard Provided

Whether one's immediate concerns and needs involve gardening and yard tools and supplies, security via quality mortise locks, or even the unusual hardware items, likely the first and only place necessary to check is at Childress Hardware, 902 Main St. in downtown Lubbock.

A glance into the show window properly hints of the assortment within. Note the water coolers, gasoline cans, sprinklers, spades, spreaders, spading forks, even a hibachi, scythe and pitchfork!

"Security" is very much in the minds of most people today. And properly so.

It would be foolish, and likely impossible, to seriously consider security for the home or business without attention to the locks . . . such as dead bolts, etc.

And this is where Childress Hardware comes in, for Childress for years has stocked the finest in security hardware. The knowledgeable personnel there will be glad to discuss one's door fastener needs, providing the right lock for the situation at hand.

Not only at this time when crime seems to dominate in so many news reports, but for the entire past half-century, Childress Hardware, at 902 Main, has stocked needs for every season, the practical hardware items appreciated throughout the region.

Outdoor Tool Needs

"It also is pointed out that just as soon as inclement weather abates, most of us are anxious to turn attention to the challenges for house, yard and garden improvements; a busy outdoor time of year has arrived!

The correct tools and equipment can be the big item in convenience and accomplishment, whether the task is lawn and garden work or even a remodeling job for the home."

This is a store that meets the season's needs.

For example, do these items have a function in your plans:

Pruning saws, garden hose, sprinklers (from the smallest to the most elaborate), reels for the garden hose, fertilizer spreaders, walking garden plows, rakes, hoes and spades, shears, trimmers, hose, etc.

For Home Improvement

Then for the home handyman or even the professional builder who appreciates good hand tools, there is a wide stock, including the respected name of Stanley, Crescent, Thorson, Nicholson, Bluegrass, Disston, Lufkin, Plumb and others long associated with quality and integrity in tool-making.

On and on the list could go in enumerating the lawn and the building needs provided at Childress Hardware, but suffice it to say that "if it is in the hardware line, you can get it there.

One can purchase an old-fashioned sprinkling can or a lawn watering device that negotiates your yard; a well pulley or a lamp chimney; actually more than 10,000 different items.

Childress Hardware continues as a popular place with carpenters and craftsmen, who make if headquarters for nails of all sizes, as well as a wide range of other fastenings including stove bolts, capscrews, carriage bolts, machine screws, metal screws, wood screws and brass screws, chain, rope — you name it, for home, industrial or farm use.

Cabinet Hardware

The Fred Childress Hardware also stocks one of the most extensive line of cabinet hardware in the city, with latest designs in hinges, pulls and latches attractively displayed. Here again brands such as Stylecraft, Christensen, Phylrick and Pfanstiel are indicative of top quality and design.

Rainbo Baking Co. Continues Policy Saluting Banner Staff

Take a good product, produce it with integrity and with a staff that exemplifies the highest concepts of customer consideration — and there you have a company worth knowing and patronizing!

Rainbo Baking Co. of Lubbock prides in being such an operation, with a staff that is "your kind of people" producing quality Rainbo products.

Harry Hoopes, manager of the Lubbock firm, is well aware of the several facits that contribute to a smooth running organization, and he is known for the pride that he takes in the people that make up the staff here.

In conjunction with this appreciation, Hoopes periodically introduces and salutes "employees of the month" on these pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Paul Lewis

"Tenure of over 28 years with the same firm speaks quite well for both the employee and the firm, wouldn't you think?"

Paul Lewis has been with the firm here since Christmas of 1951!

Actually, Lewis has been "in the bakery business all my life," citing himself as a second-generation baker. His father owned and operated bakeries throughout West Texas, and Lewis literally grew up in the business, learning every production procedure.

Lewis came from San Angelo to Lubbock, joining Meade's bakery, remaining with it for eight years before the present Rainbo ownership was effected. He has served in numerous capacities with the Lubbock firm, including shop foreman, and present duties as receiving clerk, shipping, and conducting tours.

Mrs. Lewis teaches at Dupree school, and the couple has two married daughters and four grandchildren.

Outdoor activities occupy Lewis' leisure time, and he is active in trail biking, trailering, golf and fishing.

"Rainbo is the only one," he volunteers. "I appreciate it as a good organization; I think it has great fringe benefits; Harry Hoopes is tops; and the product speaks for itself."

John Willis

John Willis, with Rainbo over three years, is saluted this week in conjunction with his capacity as head of the sanitation department.

Willis, reared at Brownfield, came to Lubbock 15 years ago, and he started with the baking company as a painter in the engineering department.

Mrs. Willis is the former Linda Renfro, also from Brownfield, and the couple has two children, Ricky, 15, attending Monterey High School next year; and Melinda, 11, going to Bayless Elementary School. Mrs. Willis is a teller at the First National Bank.

The Willis family attends the Northside Church of Christ.

John's hobby is music — appreciation and participation. He plays the guitar, and though not now playing for the public, he has been on television and at clubs here in the past. He now enjoys playing the guitar at home, and his wife is taking piano lessons.

"I think Rainbo is good people," Willis emphasizes; "it is a great company, the management and staff are to be commended, not only for the day-to-day operations but in the constant program of making a good product better."

"With such records, and with such testimonials, it is small wonder the Rainbo management enjoys saluting the employees. It all speaks might well of your friend, the Rainbo Baking Company of Lubbock, don't you think?"

NEWEST, LARGEST OF LUBBOCK MARTINIZING FACILITIES

Pillow Cleaning, Ozone Odor Removal Among Martinizing Cleaners Services

"There is a Martinizing Cleaners easily accessible to you, no matter your Lubbock location.

"For the finest in drycleaning and related services, choose from the all-new Martinizing Cleaners, at 3322 83rd St. (just one block east of Indiana Avenue) in south Lubbock, or the 49th & Knoxville facility, or the 30th Street & Slide Road location most conveniently serving far-west Lubbock."

Identical services are available at each of the three Martinizing Cleaners in Lubbock, each owned by long-time Lubbock drycleaner Gordon Mahon.

Capable staffs man each facility.

Among these are Scott Rickman, manager of the new plant; with Billy Griffin as drycleaner. Griffin has been in the business for 31 years, all in Lubbock, with this as only his third association, which speaks quite well for his ability and following. At the Slide Road location, Johnnie Bates is manager, with Noah Reeves as drycleaner; and at the Knoxville plant, Sam Caddell is manager and Raymond Crawford is drycleaner.

All are most qualified and thoroughly experienced.

With the change of seasons, several situations are presented that make dependence upon the Lubbock Martinizing facilities advisable:

Summer box storage for winter goods is available.

Wedding Gown Care

Cleaning of wedding gowns is a specialty, with the utmost care exercised. Then, boxing of these for preservation as cherished keepsakes, or even for later gift to daughters, sisters, etc., is a thoughtful and appreciated service.

Ozone Odor Removal

Then, there is the ozone smoke odor removal services available at One Hour Martinizing. Organic odors are oxidized, and treatment is enabled for clothing, even homes and autos (as the firm has a portable unit).

Hours are 7 a.m. until 6 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, closing one hour earlier at 5 p.m. on Saturdays.

Cleaning is accepted until 11 a.m. Saturdays for completion on the same day.

Pillow cleaning is a very important and specialized service afforded by the Martinizing Cleaners here, whether foam rubber or feather bed pillows.

In the pillow cleaning process, all feathers are removed from ticking and the contents are individually sanitized. Refluffed and clean, they are put into new ticking, returned soft and buoyant as new.

Ozone gas is utilized in deordorizing the feathers. New ticking plus added feathers as desired are part of the finished operation. (You get your own feathers back, with added ones as asked.) A choice of ticking in coloring and patterns is available, with all guaranteed fast color 100 per cent new cotton that is feather-proof and down-proof.

More about the care of your clothes from these knowledgeable cleaners;

Attention is given to tailoring, zippers, pockets, reweaving, box storage, shower proofing, moth proofing, re-sizing, dry cleaning of draperies, wash 'n' wear, blankets and bedspreads, for example.

"Most damage to garments in the drycleaning process comes from overheated temperatures in the process," said Mahon. And One Hour Martinizing in Lubbock has done something about it!

Now, safe and efficient clearing is provided for bonded fabrics, knits, most plastics even, fur-lined and trimmed garments, leather, suede and even jeweled garments and pile coats!

"The new system," according to Mahon, "provides the most up-to-date cleaning techniques available for today's wide variety of fabrics."

Manufactured by Du Pont, "Valclene" is the world's first flurocarbon to be used in drycleaning. It consists of a flurocarbon solvent and a special detergent, a combination that supplies unique drycleaning properties and high performance benefits.

"Many tumblers operate at 160 degrees," Mahon explains, "and many fibers and adhesives will not stand tumbling while wet with even 140 degrees as dangerously high. And imagine, our new process, solvent and equipment keeps the heat at less than 100 degrees!

Special Care

One Hour Martinizing prides in being clothes care specialists, knowing fabrics and the special care many of them require ... how to remove spots and stains ... finish garments to look their very best.

Professional finishing can't be matched just by hanging something on a hanger or home touch-up. That's why it "shows" when one's clothes receive the expert professional care that Martinizing gives them.

Johnston's No-Roach Counts Millions Satisfied Customers

"We know we must be doing something right!"

That's why one housewife will tell another, "The only way — the modern way — to keep your home free of cockroaches, and other crawling insects, is with brush-on Johnston's No-Roach."

Works Around the Clock

Imagine having an exterminator working for you 24 hours a day for weeks at a time, to keep your home free of cockroaches, ants, spiders, silverfish, etc . . . but that's just what happens with easy-to-use, long-lasting brush-on, Johnston's No-Roach . . . the modern scientific formula that's proven effective in over a hundred thousand homes.

Simply brush this odorless, colorless liquid around baseboards, sinks, tablelegs . . . behind cabinets and appliances . . . on shelves and inside cabinet doors. Use Johnston's No-Roach in bathrooms and anywhere cockroaches may be found breeding. It dries fast to form an invisible path of death that kills cockroaches, ants, silverfish, spiders and all crawling insects . . . and best of all, it continues to kill these pests for months.

Buy No-Roach today. It's clean and easy to use, and it is available at Furr's, Safeway, Piggly Wiggly, United, Bylow, Brook's and all grocery stores, distributed by Affiliated and Winn Dixie, Ft. Worth.

Puppet Selection, Soft Sculptures Among New Christmas Shoppe Items

"Attending the National Festival of the Puppeteers of America in Lubbock beginning June 26? Or attending the pre-festival performances for the general public June 23, 24, 25? Then, there is still more to see, some may not have realized."

The invitation is extended to see the puppet lines stocked at The Christmas Shoppe, No. 20 in unique Cactus Alley, 2610 Salem Ave.!

Because of the ever-present demand for quality in children's toys of the unusual variety, The Christmas Shoppe is happy to announce the arrival of several new lines including Possum Trot puppets and stuffed toys, Princess Puppets, Poppets and Furry Folk, all having unusual quality and variety.

"You will just have to come in to see. (For example, see Ollie the Ostrich or the Momma Sow with five suckling babies!)"

Year-Round Benefit

Not only does this type shop make Christmas planning extremely easy, but it proves of unique benefit to those appreciating quality and selection for birthdays and other situations. And what a benefit for the collector!

Kits In Stock

Bucilla Christmas kits for '78 are in. As always, Bucilla has the best available for Christmas. There are beautiful stockings, mail bags, advent calendars, ornaments, hooked rugs and wall hangings available in felt, needlepoint and yarn kits.

"Our customers appreciate having these kits available so that they can work with them at a leisurely pace," emphasizes store owner Jan Lynch, who adds that "many of our customers appreciate having The Christmas Shoppe for the pleasure of an unusual shopping center in which to bring out-of-town guests."

Collector Thimbles

The Christmas Shoppe has a very large selection of collector thimbles . . . from Austria, Thailand, German, Holland, Japan, Spain, Mexico, England, Portugal and Italy.

Some are in pewter, and in silver, bone china, porcelain, leather, some with pettipoint or animals, and engraved designs, and some are hand painted.

There is a large choice in all-year-round music boxes; many from Schmid Bros. Anri wood carvings, and favorites from Germany and Switzerland.

Of course, The Christmas Shoppe has a wide variety of stocking stuffers, unusual Christmas decorations and ornaments from throughout the world, with new arrivals for the '78 season now arriving. It is never too early to put your name on the list for those dated collector items so that you will be assured of getting the ones desired.

The Christmas Shoppe offers free gift wrapping on anything over $10 purchased at the shop, and it has a gift wrapping service for items purchased elsewhere, also.

"We are open from 10 til 5, Tuesdays through Saturdays, with extended hours until 6:30 p.m. on Thursdays for the convenience of working people; and we would love for you to come, browse, visit and have a cup of coffee with us at The Christmas Shoppe, just off the Brownfield Highway at 2610 Salem Avenue in Lubbock."

NSC Rent-A-Car, Warranty Plan, Joe Smith Motors Aid Public

For purchase of a pre-owned auto, for rental of a really fine auto, for a new concept in carefree motoring, protected by warranty, meet Joe L. Smith!

With vacation time and travel time probably at hand for most, understanding of Smith's services could be of special value.

"If you drive, then National Service Company (NSC) and Joe L. Smith Motors, 1301 19th St., can perform quite a service for you . . . in fact, several vital services are afforded."

(1) NSC provides "the newest idea in automotive history," the 12,000 mile or 12 month 100 per cent Lubricant Warranty Agreement for one's present vehicle (whether purchased at Joe L. Smith Motors or not).

(2) A rental fleet of family-size and luxury type autos, really better previously-owned cars, affords the type rentals one can really appreciate.

(3) Previously-owned autos, also of family size and luxury type, are sold by Joe L. Smith Motors, a firm proven by Smith's long record of service in Lubbock. In business since 1950, he has been on 19th Street for 12 years, and on the same prominent corner for five years.

Questions Answered

More about the NSC warranty:

The lubricant limited warranty covers 100 per cent of the cost of repairing or replacing water pump, engine assembly, transmission, drive line and differential . . . and protects against excessive oil consumption.

What does it mean to own a NSC Lubricant Limited Warranty Agreement?

It means that the vehicle you presently own can be protected with full coverage on the power train and parts described above. Joe L. Smith Motors and NSC put their honesty and integrity on the line so that you can drive thousands of carefree miles. It means you don't have to buy another auto in order to get "new car coverage"!

Requirements for qualificaion are simple and few:

The auto must be inspected and approved by one of the NSC inspectors; it must not have in excess of 68,000 miles; it must be 1972 model to current year model, not be of foreign manufacture or American made sub-compact, and pick-ups must be one-half ton only.

NSC will provide legal documents that give binding proof that your car carries the NSC power train service agreement for 12 months or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. Nothing is left to chance.

"Leave your worries with us, Call today for an appointment to get full details and have your car inspected."

It is at Joe L. Smith Motors, remember, at 1301 19th St., phone 762-0658.

BEDDING PLANTS AMONG A-1 NURSERY ITEMS ON SALE

'Compare And Save' Invitation Extended By A-1 During Sale

Proof:

What a buy this is: Geraniums in bloom, regular $1.99 but on sale at $1.69 each, or 10 for $15.

All one-gallon shrubs are 50 per cent off list!

All balled and burlaped shade trees are 40 per cent off, including sycamore, silver maple, honey locust, sweet gum, weeping willow, redbud, purple leaf plum, sunburst locust, marange locust and green ash.

Fancy leaf caladiums (6-in. pots, regular $2.99) are $1.98 or two for $3; and 3-in. pots at 59 cents each or $5.90 per dozen.

Japanese boxwood is 79 cents each, or 10 for $7.

Vegetables and bedding plants, regular 20 cents, are sale marked at 12 cents.

Plus much, much more as outlined in the A-1 Nursery ads (or better yet, come on out and see for yourself just how very much A-1 has to offer in quality and savings, to say nothing of a tremendous selection).

Long Hours

Remember, A-1 Nursery, at 7500 82nd St., is open weekdays 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., and on Sundays from 1:30 p.m. until 5 p.m.

A-1 has a tremendous selection in its every depoartment . . . well worth the drive to view and select . . . and save!

Area residents long have benefitted from the landscape design, installation and maintenance services of A-1, and these and other services still are available — plus the special benefits of the new shipments and the unheard-of sale here at beginning of the season.

For more than 20 years, area folks have been assisted by the services of Winfred Self, owner and operator of A-1 Nursery, since 1973 at its present expanded quarters.

The "know how" of Self and his experienced staff possibly is the biggest asset of A-1, as hundreds of customers can attest to the superior help there through the years.

"Come on out during the big sale this week and see for yourself how A-1 Nursery can meet your individual needs, at a price you'll appreciate. Just as your neighbor likely already is an enthusiastic A-1 customer, you, too, can benefit from the experience, the interest, the products and the prices of this firm that knows how to get the most into a South Plains landscape."

New Revolutionary Container Dumper Patented, Tested, Marketed By Fabit

Fabit Corporation's new "Container Dumper" is making news . . . and the folks at Fabit are most appreciative of the response to this newly-designed, patented and newly-built unit.

The container Dumper sells for use with both new and existing equipment, and it also is utilized in Fabit's own Refuse Service Division.

("Have you learned how the Refuse Division of the Lubbock company can work advantageously for you? It could be a revelation.")

Why is the Container Dumper excitingly new, different and efficient?

Consider the following:

It is manufactured in Lubbock by the highly capable Fabit Corp. and is being used commercially in the firm's own operation as outlined above, also available for purchase.

It is covered by U.S. patents.

This new model picks up and dumps refuse containers from the side of the truck by means of hydraulic cylinders, thus eliminating cables, chains and sprockets that have been a source of trouble on other side-loading equipment.

The Container Dumper handles heavier loads and is even faster than earlier models.

Since the Container Dumper out-performs other available equipment, Fabit Corp. expects the unit to sell readily for use with both new and existing equipment.

One must see this unit in operation to fully appreciate its utility and the engineering that has made it so simple and efficient . . . by Fabit.

Fabit solicits customers in its several departments, with special attention at this time called to the Refuse Service Division.

Providing side-loading container service, the Refuse Service Division is in full operation, servicing enthusiastic customers who appreciate the convenience and reliability.

"Fabit can work for you, too!"

Already established and known for its versatility in custom fabrication, manufacturing of complete machines or parts, the most recent expansion, as announced by Clyde A. Blakeley, president, has proven of special benefit to commercial and industrial accounts in Lubbock and neighboring communities.

The Refuse Service Division is geared to manufacture, sell, lease and service refuse containers.

The service is unique in that it uses new automatic side-loading container dumping equipment. Company officials state that the new equipment is better suited for use in narrow alleys or curb-side container installations and that it does not spill as much trash as front-loading container systems.

Lubbock Owned-Operated

Refuse Services Division is headquartered at the Fabit Corporation location at 1408 N. Quirt Ave.

The division is managed by O.T. "Ted" Ratcliff IV who is a 1971 graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in Industrial Engineering. Ratcliff has been chief engineer for Fabit Corp. for over two years.

Furthermore, there is provided one source for:

(1) Dependable refuse container service with the best equipment;

(2) Container purchasing, front or side loading containers;

Safety is another big factor, as the truck doesn't back, it just stops, dumps, then goes on, and the driver can see the container during the entire operation.

If noise is a factor, consider the advantages of a container firmly held and handled gently, without banging and clattering and with far less damage to the container.

Fabit knows its business; it holds process and apparatus patents in the refuse services field . . . and, it is locally owned.

"Establishment of the new division with its wide range of services, provides the first opportunity commercial users have had locally for a side-loading refuse services." For small business, apartments, etc., the advantages are evident.

Meets Other Needs

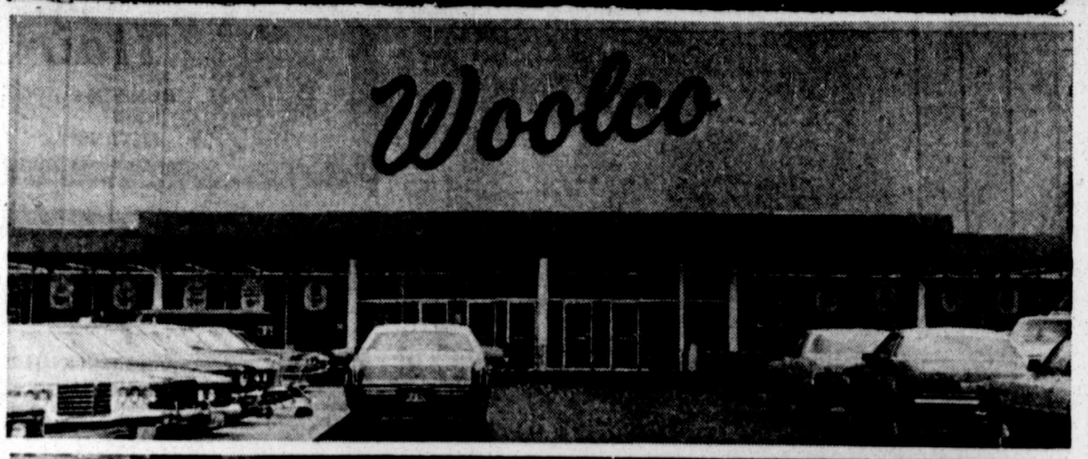
Business & Industrial Review



ART CRAFTS GALORE — Woolco's Art Craft Department makes available everything one needs for macrame, together with needlepoint, stitchery and crewel; yarns for knitting and crochet work; and a large assortment of Latch hook rug kits, pillow kits and cut yarns.

Finest Cosmetics, Hair Care Items Stocked For Women, Men

"Everything you ever need in the way of cosmetics" is the true situation at Woolco in Lubbock.

And for the men in the family, there is English Leather, British Sterling, Brut, etc.

The Woolco Cosmetic Department takes pride in its products and the represented labels, including Maybelline, Cover Girl, Revlon and Max Factor, as example.

In the hair care category, Woolco stocks Clairol, Nice and Easy, Loving Care and Clairesse.

And there are L'Oreal and Revlon hair colors.

"One may shop at Woolco for all your cosmetic and hair care items."

LILLISTON ROLLING CULTIVATOR
● cultivates at speeds up to 10 mph — pre-emerge to tool bar height.
● mulches tough crusts and aerates the soil — also helps to retain moisture.
● incorporates pre-emerge or post-emerge chemicals — well into the soil.

WRECKAGE OF WHIPPOORWILL — The tornado-stricken Whippoorwill showboat, listing in the waters of Lake Pomona, Kan., was attended to Sunday by officers of the Osage County Sheriff's Department. The boat, which was overturned by a tornado Saturday, was towed to shore and righted by trucks with cables. In the foreground are chairs and part of the upper deck railing that washed ashore during the night. At least 14 of the 60 passengers died and one child is still missing and feared dead in the wake of the accident. (AP Laserphoto)

Tornado Brings Death To 14 On Showboat

By JIM DRINKARD

POMONA, Kan. (AP) — It was to be a night out on Lake Pomona — for celebrating anniversaries and enjoying a revival of the 1930s musical "Dames at Sea." But death lay waiting for at least 14 of the 60 people aboard the sternwheeler showboat Whippoorwill as it glided into a collision course with a tornado.

A 15th person, 9-year-old Melissa Wright, was missing and presumed dead.

"I yelled and screamed and looked everywhere through the murky water, but there was nothing," said Willodean Schwartz, whose husband, Dr. Norman Schwartz, 48, was killed in the Saturday night accident.

Schwartz, a University of Missouri dentistry professor, and his wife were with a Central United Methodist Church group.

The Rev. Milton Vogel, the missing girl's grandfather, also lost his wife, Grace, and his daughter, Sandra Wright, 37, mother of the missing girl. The elder Vogels were celebrating their 40th anniversary when the boat went over.

Mike and Judy Patterson were celebrating their fifth wedding anniversary when the black death funnel killed Mrs. Patterson, 25, who was eight months pregnant.

"By the time we noticed it coming, we had less than two minutes," boat owner Bruce Rogers said. "I told the pilot to head for the south shore as quickly as possible. I went below and told the engineer to go full speed ahead."

The 65-foot-long flat-bottom Whippoorwill had pulled away from the dock under clear skies shortly before 7 p.m. Saturday. At almost the same time, weather forecasters in Kansas City, Mo., studying satellite photographs and radar, issued a severe thunderstorm watch, according to Warren Sunkel of the National Weather Service in Topeka.

The tornado formed on the Dragoon Creek branch of the lake, and entered the main channel where it met the Whippoorwill.

Lawrence Stadel, owner of the nearby Lighthouse Bay Marina, saw the Whippoorwill go over about 100 yards from shore and rushed to the scene where he pulled two people from beneath the craft.

"Panic around water is bad. Water is never forgiving," he said. Stadel found two young men, both with their heads barely above water in air pockets just large enough for them to breathe. He swam under the boat once for each of them and pulled them down and out from beneath the boat.

Royal Elder, who heads the boating division of the Kansas Forestry, Fish and Game Commission, said the boat, built by a Methodist minister and residents of the lake area in 1965, was seaworthy.

"After all this has been said and done, this boat is in fairly good shape," he said.

Only a canopy that covered the upper deck seemed to be damaged extensively after workers righted the vessel early Sunday.

Elder said the flat-bottomed design, which had a draft of only about five feet, was not at fault in the upset.

The boat had been inspected for fire extinguishers and life jackets only a week earlier, Elder said, but boats built in Kansas before 1970 do not have to conform to design specifications.

Rogers, through a spokesman, said he had studied meteorology for a year in the Air Force and had three years experience in navigation.

Rogers told Osage County Chief Deputy Jim Gardner that he surveyed the sky before he departed. "It didn't look that bad," he told the deputy.

Other known dead were: Tina Kramer, 17, Quenemo, Kan., a member of the summer stock theater company; Norris Weiss, 47, Caroline Hartwich, age unknown, Mildred Lilly, 79, and Charles Griffin, 33, all of Topeka; Pamela Nelson, 28, Madison, Wis.; Donald Hawthorne, 35, Merced, Calif.; Muriel Fuller, age unknown, Madison, Wis., and Sarah Reed, age unknown, both staff members at Emporia State University; and Zubaidah Isa, age unknown, address listed as the Indonesian Embassy in Washington, a teaching fellow at Emporia.

Labor Department Provides Guide For Finding Right Job

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Bored with your present job? Thinking of switching careers in midstream?

You will probably be happier if you do a little research first to try to match your profession to your personality.

If for example, you dislike doing the same thing over and over, you are not likely to be satisfied with a job as a bank clerk or an accountant. If you like to move around in your work, you probably are not suited to a job on an assembly line.

It is not always easy, however, to find out what job best suits your temperament and talents, but the Department of Labor is trying to help.

The department has prepared a guide, "Matching Personal and Job Characteristics," to 282 occupations. The guide costs 90 cents. It is available from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 096F, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

The guide lists 25 job characteristics including educational requirements and such things as how competitive the field is, whether overtime or shift work is usual and opportunities available for self-expression.

If you have your heart set on a given career, but dislike one or two aspects of work in the field, the department guide may be able to help you find a similar vocation.

Suppose you have always wanted to go into journalism. You like working with people and ideas. You want to be able to see the physical results of your effort and be able to express yourself. You like the competitive atmosphere of the business. The job of newspaper reporter would seem to be ideal, but you hate the idea of having to work overtime or at odd hours. By looking at the chart, you will see you can get many of the pluses of newspaper work — without the minus of overtime and shift work — from technical writing.

Some jobs require special training and a growing number of people are turning to vocational schools for the extra education. In New York state alone, about 125,000 people a year enroll in licensed business and technical schools. Costs can range up to $2,000 annually.

The most frequent complaint about the schools, according to New York officials, is that schools promise jobs they do not deliver. The second most common complaint is that the schools are not providing the training or education they promised.

You can help protect yourself and avoid problems by shopping carefully, says the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "It makes sense to be aware of common ripoffs, to understand the current job market, to recognize advertising gimmicks, to ask the right questions and to talk to the right people," writes William D. Green, of HEW's Office of Education.

Beware of schools that try to attract students by placing ads in the help-wanted section of the newspaper. An ad reading, "Trainees Wanted for Immediate Openings" may make you think that jobs are available. In fact, the "openings" are at the school — not in the workplace.

You should also be wary of ads promising job placement after training. Get the names and addresses of three former students who have been placed by the school and check them out.

Read contracts carefully for refund policies. State and local laws vary, but schools usually are not required to give refunds unless they promise to do so in writing. Study the fine print to see what conditions you must fulfill to get your money back. Verbal promises — of refunds or of jobs after graduation — are not binding.

Other things to check, according to HEW are:
- Qualifications of instructors.
- Grading policies.
- Accreditation and reputation.
- Total costs.
- Facilities and equipment.

If you have problems, you can take your case to small claims court, to the Better Business Bureau or local or state attorneys general and consumer representatives. Regional offices of the Federal Trade Commission also may be able to help. The FTC recently announced a consent agreement with the Ryder System Inc. under which the company, while not admitting any wrongdoing, will make refunds totaling up to $1.5 million to some students who completed certain truck-driving courses and then were not hired in the field.

Auto Audio Systems Called Major Threat

DENVER (UPI) — Automobile options such as audio systems which include FM radios, stereo tape decks and CB radios, soundproofing and air conditioning pose a major threat to the safety of ambulance crews during emergencies, a paramedic contends.

Lloyd Mackie, chief paramedic at Denver General Hospital, said new automobiles tend to be virtually soundproof and hamper attempts by ambulance drivers to get motorists out of their path.

He said the hospital's ambulances have been involved in 28 accidents in the past 11 months.

Mackie said most automobile drivers involved in collisions with ambulances reported they did not see or hear the emergency vehicle although the ambulances have some of the loudest sirens made and 102 lights.

"We feel the public is fully inattentive when driving," he said.

Salaried Physicians Help Cut Costs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Doctors who work for a salary instead of fees are helping some families to shave 20 to 30 percent off their yearly medical bills, Dr. Joseph L. Dorsey, head of the Harvard Community Health Plan, said in an interview at opening sessions of the group Health Institute's annual meeting in New York Sunday.

Nurse practitioners and physician assistants also are on the team that takes care of medical needs of the 7 million Americans enrolled in 175 health maintenance organizations (HMO) helping members to bargain-priced medical care.

What's going on could be the shape of medical care operations by the year 2000, some health care economists believe.

An HMO is a system for delivery of medical services that President Carter's Administration looks to as one means of controlling the nation's leaping health care bill.

Dorsey is chairman of the Executive Committee of the Medical Directors Division of the Group Health Association of America, sponsor of the meeting of HMO doctors and administrators — an event ending Wednesday.

He said the HMO savings differ from plan to plan, but that much of the savings comes from freedom from big doctor bills, emphasis on ambulatory care, keeping people from going to the hospital unnecessarily.

Studies show HMO members go to the hospital half as frequently as do patients of doctors who charge fees for services.

Also, according to Dorsey, the HMOs try to see that only necessary surgery is done. Health care critics maintain unnecessary operations boost the nation's health care bill — a tab that reached the $163 billion mark last year.

The HMO members pay a fixed premium and are promised basic and supplemental health services — shots, examinations, operations, psychiatric therapy, physical therapy and so forth, including hospital care.

Dorsey said the Harvard HMO, originally sponsored by leaders of the Harvard Medical School, is a separate corporation with a separate board of directors. Formed in 1969, it has 77,000 members and this year runs on $32 million.

The Harvard Plan's premium is $115 a month for a family. Employers contribute. A dollar is charged when a persons sees a doctor or a nurse practitioner or a physician's assistant.

Dorsey, also an associate professor of medicine at the Harvard University Medical School, was asked what kind of salary a doctor might make.

For a young pediatrician the pay offered ranges from $30,000 to $50,000. The fringe benefits add about 15 to 20 per cent. The doctors are relieved, for example, of such expenses as premiums for malpractice insurance.

Dorsey said in Boston — "the most attractive medical community in America" — as many as 15 qualified pediatricians, with three years of postgraduate work, will apply for an opening of that sort.

Salaries for doctors in HMOs nationwide differ from region to region and depending on the specialty. The biggest salaries go to the hard-to-get specialists: obstetricians, gynecologists, orthopedic surgeons.

Medical directors attending the New York meeting are conferring with architects about ways to keep in step with changes in medical practice around the corner — in 10 years, as their timetable goes.

"There will be an increase in the role of nurse practitioners and physician assistants throughout the health care system, not just in HMOs," Dorsey said.

"There is going to be more surgery on an ambulatory — walk in, walk out, same day — basis.

"We want to be sure the HMO patient doesn't feel he is in Grand Cental Station when he comes to our medical centers.

"The offices will be small, the waiting rooms cozy."

Jewish League To Send Group To Prevent Nazi Demonstration

NEW YORK (AP) — Saying that "violence stops violence," the Jewish Defense League plans to send a delegation to Skokie, Ill., to try to halt a march planned by American neo-Nazis next Sunday.

"Not one Jew is going to be killed in Skokie," the league's new national director, Bonnie Pechter, said Sunday. "But I can't make the same promise for the Nazis."

Although a coalition of Jewish groups plans a non-violent demonstration against the self-styled Nazis, the more militant Jewish Defense League contends that "physical confrontation" is required.

Several court decisions have cleared the way for the Nazi group to march in storm trooper uniforms behind leader Frank Collin.

Mrs. Pechter told 150 persons at a meeting in the Summit Hotel here that they should "be proud to be arrested in Skokie."

No weapons will be allowed, she said, but members were encouraged to attend a yet-to-be scheduled "workout" to learn how to "disarm a policeman's club" and "jump a barricade."

She did not indicate how many were likely to take the training course or travel to Skokie next weekend.

Last week, after the U.S. Supreme Court issued a ruling clearing the way for the Nazi march, a JDL spokesman predicted that 3,000 to 5,000 people would participate in the organization's counter-demonstration.

The Jewish community in Skokie, where some 7,000 residents are survivors of Adolph Hitler's death camps, has not been receptive to the defense league's attempts to locate temporary housing for its delegation, defense league officials say.

The outgoing head of the oldest fraternal Zionist group in the United States, Bnai Zion, also lashed out Sunday night at the American Jewish community for being timid when faced with the Nazi march and leaving the issue "only to militant groups or survivor associations."

Submarines' Costs Under Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new panel established by the secretary of the Navy will study the rising cost of submarines. The team features research executives from the tenure of Robert McNamara as defense secretary.

The panel includes John S. Foster Jr., former Pentagon research chief, and Daniel Fink, formerly Foster's deputy. Others on the panel who served under McNamara include Eugene Fubini and Fred Payne. Payne, who previously studied strategic weapons options, will work full time at the Pentagon directing the study.

Obscurity Ends For North

AN IMPORTANT ESCAPE — Andy North needed to get down in two strokes from the bunker next to the 18th green and the new U.S. Open golf champion knocked this explosion within four feet of the flag before sinking the final putt. The 28-year-old Madison, Wis., golfer won by one shot. (AP Laserphoto)

DENVER (AP) — Winning the U.S. Open put golf's most prestigious trophy on Andy North's mantle and $45,000 in his pocket. It may even get people to remember his name.

"I don't think I'm any egomaniac, but it's nice to have people call you by your right name," said North. "My first couple of years I was confused with Jerry Heard a lot, and the last couple with Andy Bean. At least they were comparing me with golfers who can play some."

North put an end to his identity problems this week in the U.S. Open championship over the rugged Cherry Hills Country Club layout.

The lanky 28-year-old from Madison, Wis., who has labored in relative obscurity during six years on the pro tour, withstood challenges from some of the game's more celebrated performers to fashion a 1-stroke victory Sunday over Dave Stockton and J.C. Snead.

"Thank goodness we ran out of holes," said North, who staggered home Sunday with closing round of 3-over-par-par 74 that barely edged both Stockton and Snead, who watched anxiously from the scoring tent just off the 18th green, anticipating a possible three-way playoff.

It was not to be.

After "getting too cute" with a pitch to the 18th green which landed in a bunker, North came out four feet from the hole. He backed off his putt twice to let gusty winds die down, then rapped the ball into the back of the cup for a bogey that left him with a 72-hole total of 1-over 285.

"If you ever had a putt to win the Open or the Masters, that was the one you'd want," North said. "It was uphill and

Sister Felt Confidence In Saturday Phone Call

"When I talked to him last (Saturday) night, he knew it was his tournament. "But, boy, he made me worry for a while. I'm still recovering."

Mrs. Jeff South was the one recovering Sunday afternoon, after her older brother, Andy North, won the U.S. Open championship at Denver. And the worrying came for Pam as her brother came down to the final holes and all she could do was watch on television.

"I still can't believe it," said Mrs. South, wife of Avalanche-Journal reporter Jeff South. "But, it's a quite nice Father's Day present for our dad. Our folks are in Wisconsin. Andy's wife is with him in Denver, though.

"No, I don't think he was surprised when I called him last night; he always calls me on my important moments. He was really pretty quiet (Saturday night), but when he shows an assuredness like he did—he said it was his tournament—I felt pretty good. Then he said, 'I'll call you after I win.' So I'm looking for a call."

"But, he really scared me a few too many times there at the last. The last nine doesn't give up too many birdies. But, just like the commentators said, every time he was in the rough, he would collect himself and get out of there."

Lopez Breaks Record

"I need to thank the Lord for what I've done," she said Sunday after handling the immense tension for a 4-under-par 69 and a 2-shot victory over Jane Blalock and Debbie Massey.

"The pressure this week will be the most I'll ever get," the game's 21-year-old superstar acknowledged. "I feel relieved more than anything. I wanted to win it very badly."

Her 54-hole total of 214, 5 under at the Locust Hill Country Club, achieved:

—The undisputed record for consecutive victories on the LPGA tour. She had shared the standard with Mickey Wright (twice), Kathy Whitworth and Shirley Englehorn.

—Her seventh triumph this year, the most since Whitworth won that many in 1973. No other women has won more

A Summer To Remember

NANCY LOPEZ, THE 21-year-old whiz of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, and I have something in common. We both learned to play golf on the Roswell Municipal course.

Nancy has come along a bit faster than I have, of course, and is setting all sorts of records and getting richer by the week. But I still have hopes of breaking 90, so the final chapter hasn't been written. I can make a double bogey on a par-4 just as easily as Jack Nicklaus can! Maybe easier, and it doesn't have to be in the U.S. Open!

I have no idea what the Roswell Muny layout looks like now, but about the time Nancy was born two decades ago, it was a mean beast and good basic training for any golfer. Good scoring required distance off the tee and a deft putting touch, plus the endurance for those long treks under the sizzling New Mexico sun. Those are the same weapons Nancy is using to demolish the pro golf circuit.

The course wasn't all tiger, of course. There were some holes with lush grass on the fairways and big trees for a bit of scenic beauty. A creek wandered through the layout, but it ranged from bone dry to a raging torrent, depending on whether it had rained during the last 24 hours.

There also were a couple of nightmarish holes. The worst was a monster list-

There were a few important matters on the minds of Rex Robertson and Mark Jarrett during the last nine holes oo the Pine Hills Partnership Golf Tournament.

For one thing, they watched with great concentration to see if Andy North would make that last putt to win the U.S. Open. For another, they tried to see if they could keep driving the greens on par-4 holes even though the Pine Hills tee boxes were movad back Sunday.

But winning the golf tournament? Naw, no big deal during the last few holes. The two blond-haired youths never were bothered by that detail after five or six holes, and they teamed for their second straight 10-under-par 62 and a 5-shot victory in the 36-hole event.

Robertson and Jarrett finished at 124, five strokes better than the second-place team of Kevin Heise and Chuck Noyes, who tied the winners for the day's low round with 62. Heise and Noyes had shot themselves out of the running with Saturday's opening 67, though.

Thus, as the final round began, only two teams seemed in reasonable striking distance— the Robert Riggs-Steve Locke duo at 64 and the Bucky Sheffield-Randy Hines team at 65.

Sheffield and Hines eliminated themselves from the chase at the start of Sunday's round by carding bogeys on three of the first four holes. Meanwhile, Riggs and Locke made things interesting for a few more holes.

Robertson and Jarrett played the first five holes in even par and learned from the adjacent fairway that Locke and Riggs stood 2-under-par at that point, leaving the two teams tied temporarily. The news must have ignited the winners as Robertson birdied the 420-yard sixth. Jarrett birdied the 333-yard eighth and Robertson birdied the 474-yard ninth.

The winners refused to settle down any at the turn, either. Jarrett birdied the tenth. Robertson birdied the 11th and 12th and Jarrett birdied the 13th. By then it was time to check on the U.S. Open in the clubhouse—the Pine Hills tournament had ended in a hurry.

And to match Saturday's score, Jarrett drove to the back edge of the 331-yard 17th and two-putted for a birdie before Robertson canned a 20-foot eagle putt on the 445-yard final hole. And that was one of the few long putts they made.

"We never really made any putts," Robertson said. "We just got it up and down. The course is quite a bit shorter than we're used to playing, and the greens were real good. They roll the same line that you read."

Robertson figured an 8-under-par 64 in the final round would have won the tournament for his team. And it would have. None of the challengers nudged close enough after the winners birdied seven of eight holes during the round.

Feemster Captures Racquetball Meet

In the B division, John Clements tripped Jim Tye 21-9, 21-11. In consolation, Mark Sorley tripped Larry Duyck 15-21, 21-3, 11-5.

Tim Trout won C division over Ray Helmcamp of Wichita Falls 21-19, 21-19, and Arnold Hall won over Mike Nave 21-18, 9-21, 11-10 in consolation.

Sheree Clements won the women's open division with a 21-18, 21-11 win over Mary Beth Pace. Yolanda Parra of Odessa won consolation over Marsha Tye 21-2, 21-5.

North Conquers Open, Handles Identity Crisis

North, whose only previous victory came in the 1977 Westchester Classic, held a seemingly comfortable five-stroke lead during portions of Sunday's final round, thanks to birdies at the fourth and fifth holes.

"Up through the seventh hole, I was hitting everything solid," he sais. "I had no worries."

But he badly hooked his iron off the eighth tee which started a string of three straight bogeys — and his lead melted to two shots. Birdies at the par-5 11th hole and the par-4 13th put him in a commanding position once again, but he was wild off the tee at No. 14 and took bogey. Then disaster struck at he par-3 15th, where North hit into a trap, left the ball in the trap on his second shot and wound up with a double bogey.

He then led Stockton by a single stroke and Snead by two, with three difficult holes left to play.

Playing conservatively — "I was just trying to make pars," he said — North maintained his lead into the treacherous 18th hole, a 480-yard, uphill par-4 that is guarded by a long lake on the left side and has been the most difficut hole throughout the tournament.

Stockton, playing just ahead of North, drove into the rough, was short with his second shot and took a bogey-5 on the hole. Snead skipped his drive off the water and back onto the fairway for a par.

North knew a bogey would win it for him. He hit a 3-iron off the tee into the right rough and then hit his ill-fated pitch shot into the bunker.

"I was just trying to put the ball on the green," he said. "But I got a little too cute with it. I didn't want to leave myself a 40-foot downhill putt."

"I thought he had blown it when he hit into the trap," said North's playing partner, Gary Player.

But North, who had withstood the pressures of being the second-and third-round leader, calmly came out of the bunker and sank the putt.

The putt dropped just as North had fantasized countless times before. "We've all done it 100,000 times — pretended to be putting for the Open title during a practice round," he said. "I still do it."

Fantasy indeed became reality for the 6-foot-4, 210-pounder who took up golf as a 12-year-old when a bone disease in his left knee forced him to give up other sports.

"It was not that big a deal," he recalls. "My doctor was a golfer; if he hadn't been, he might not have let me play golf." North was able to play basketball in high school, but golf had become his first love.

North was well on his way to his best season as a pro even before Sunday's triumph. He credits much of his improvement to the regular Tuesday games he and Tom Watson play.

"We get up on a hole and try to hit certain shots," he says. "We play for a $1,000,000 Nassaus in fake money — like kids. I know it's helped me be a better player the last two years."

Earl Scudday

ed at 600-plus yards on the scorecard. It seemed more like six miles to a fellow not famed for his distance off the tee. The ordeal started with a tee shot across a ravine, then as many fairway woods up the hill as necessary to get around a dogleg to the right, then another dogleg to the left. Finally, the green was at the top of the hill, exposed to the New Mexico gales and the scornful stares of people heading for the city airport.

It was some kind of hole.

I NEVER SHOT LESS than 10 on old "Double Dog," as we called it. Well, we actually called it something else, but it never would do to print in a family newspaper. I even took some 12s on that horrible hole, after improving my lie in the rough. Everything is fair in love and war and golf, especially when you are playing against your brother with a steak dinner riding on the outcome.

A lot of golfers had trouble on that long, long hole, though. Many of the officers and enlisted men at the Strategic Air Command base, which was located at Roswell at that time, played the Muny course regularly. They learned to love and hate it, too.

One young officer, who had a reputation as a hotshot amateur back home in Oklahoma, challenged old "Double Dog" one hot July afternoon and emerged with a triple bogey. He was as angry as he would have been if the Russians had shot down his B-52 on one of those combat-type missions he flew close to Siberia.

Golf, as someone once said, is a humbling game.

IN CONTRAST TO the 600-yarder, there was a very short par-3 that also presented some unique problems. It was the only green that I have ever seen that was entirely surrounded by trees—front, back and both sides!

The tee was elevated and the green was down in the creek bottom. So all one had to do was hit a nice, high 9-iron over the towering trees and onto the tiny green. Sounds easy, doesn't it?

Unfortunately, most duffers are not consistent with their shots. We hit some good shots and some bad ones, some high ones and some low ones. But we seldom hit the high shot when we need it, or vice versa.

That little par-3 caused me almost as much difficulty as the monster double dogleg. I just couldn't get the ball over those trees. I teed it up and swung my 9-iron mightily, but the sound of clubface meeting ball immediately was followed by thunk, thunk, thunk, as the ball collided with assorted tree trunks.

It was most discouraging.

AFTER THAT ONE summer, my brother was transferred to Midland and I shifted my golfing base to Meadowbrook. The ol' goat pasture wasn't much in those days, with more rocks and gravel on the fairways than grass, but there were no 600-yarders to taunt me, or greens entirely surrounded by trees.

Not only that, the fence around the course was down at a few places, and starving young newsmen were able to slip in for a few holes without paying the fee. That is only a rumor I heard, of course.

Just a few years later, Nancy Lopez toddled out on the Roswell Muny course and started her drive to fame and fortune. I shudder to think of that little lass facing the dangers that had defeated so many brave men, including the heroes of the Wild Blue Yonder, but she apparently thrived on it. En route, she learned to hit the ball a mile and putt like a demon.

But after all, that's what you had to do to score well on that layout!

Blalock and Massey, tied at 3-under 216, marveled over Lopez' deftness around the slick, fast greens.

"Twenty-footers are gimmes to her. She's the best putter I've seen in my life," said Blalock, who needed a birdie at 18 to force a playoff with Lopez. Instead, she took a bogey for a 74.

Massey continually beat Lopez when both were amateur stars. But not now. And she knows why after playing with the sensation in the final round of the $75,000 tour stop.

"She was always an aggressive player. Now she's refined her short game. It's gone haywire. It's unbelievably good," said Massey, whose 70 earned her a tie with Blalock.

Ironically, Lopez' putter was not that sharp Sunday. She required a so-so 33 strokes, but made the big one — a 20-footer for birdie that gave her sole command of the lead at 17.

Lopez then stood by near the scoring tent and watched Blalock drive into the rough, hit her approach shot right of the green and chip 12 feet from the hole.

Blalock would have needed to hole that shot for a tie and playoff. It was a bitter finish for the 32-year-old veteran, who went into the last round with a 3-shot lead on Lopez.

"I wasn't counting my chickens before they hatched," said a sighing Lopez. "Anything can happen in golf."

Lopez' father, Domingo, had watched her first major title, the LPGA Championship, a week earlier. He wasn't on hand for her record breaker.

"I called him. He already knew. He was so excited. He was crying a little. He made me cry," she said.

Now it's on to Hershey, Pa., in a bid to extend her record to six in a row in a $50,000 tour stop beginning Friday. And she does not believe it will be an anticlimatic trip.

"No, I don't think I'll have a letdown," she said. "I want to play the best I can."

Massey and Blalock earned $6,450 apiece while Alexandra Reinhardt picked up her biggest check of $4,000 in four tour seasons, finishing fourth with 74-218.

Jennings Duo Cops Father-Son Crown

The team of father Dick Jennings and son David turned in a 5-under-par 67 in winning the Lubbock Country Club Father-Son Golf Tournament Sunday. But the best shot of the day came from Brax Wright.

In addition to the overall title, the Jennings duo won the 14-and-over division; Cliff and David Breaud had a net 61 in that division.

Mark and Phillip Mathis posted an 85, tops in the 13-and-under division, and Randy and Mike Canale had the best net round, 68, in that age bracket.

Palmer Gives Orioles Typical 2-1 Triumph

By The Associated Press

"As a manager, you want to get as many runs as you can. That makes things a lot easier," said Baltimore's Earl Weaver. "But all you need is one run more than the other team. That's all."

Palmer extended his winning streak to seven games Sunday with eight innings of four-hit pitching as the Orioles trimmed Oakland 2-1.

"A typical 2-1 game," said Palmer, who has been given just 15 runs of support over the seven-game stretch. During the streak, five games have been decided by one run, including three 1-0 triumphs.

But with Palmer's typical stellar pitching, the two runs Sunday were enough to give Baltimore its 18th victory in the last 20 games. Since the right-hander began his streak on May 20, the Orioles are 24-6.

"We're striving for perfection," said Baltimore reliever Don Stanhouse, "but we haven't quite reached it."

The Orioles have reached second place, however, since their victory combined with New York's 3-2 loss to California Sunday to drop the Yankees to third in the American League's East Division.

The victory didn't do much for McKeon's A's, who now have lost 11 in a row and have scored just 21 runs in the process.

"We aren't even averaging two runs a game," said McKeon. "We get a couple of hits with two outs, but we haven't been able to get the big hit — the RBI double or the single with the bases loaded."

Palmer, a three-time Cy Young Award winner in the American League, has given up just three earned runs in his last 67 1-3 innings. He gave up his run for the game Sunday in the seventh inning, when rookie Dave Revering cracked his seventh homer of the season.

Baltimore "exploded" for its two on Rick Dempsey's fifth-inning home run and Eddie Murray's RBI sacrifice fly later in the frame.

Mariners 3, Red Sox 2

Seattle's Bob Robertson doubled home Bill Stein in the sixth to break a 1-1 tie and Stein made it 3-1 in the eighth, helping the Mariners snap a 10-game losing streak and hand the Red Sox their first home loss to a West Division team after 16 victories.

Angels 3, Yankees 2

Martin claimed he sent coach Art Fowler to the mound to tell pitcher Ed Figueroa to pitch around Fairly.

"He hit ball four," countered Figueroa. "Give him credit."

Chris Knapp, 7-5, struck out seven Yankees, including Reggie Jackson four times, before a Bat Day crowd of 55,090.

Twins 8, Tigers 4

Willie Norwood drove in the deciding run with a fifth-inning sacrifice fly, helping Minnesota win its sixth in a row while handing Detroit its seventh consecutive loss.

Norwood's RBI gave the Twins a 5-2 lead. Jason Thomson cracked his 16th homer of the year for Detroit.

Rangers 3, Blue Jays 2

Bobby Thompson's perfect two-out bunt single in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Bobby Bonds with the winning run as Texas handed Toronto its 11th loss in the last 13 games.

Indians 3-1, Brewers 0-4

Ben Oglivie's two-run homer, Paul Molitor's steal of home and the pitching of Jerry Augustine and Bill Castro carried Milwaukee past Cleveland after Rick Waits' six-hitter helped the Indians snap the Brewers' 10-game winning streak in the first game.

Royals 3-0, White Sox 2-11

Darrell Porter's 11th-inning single gave Kansas City its victory in the opener. Then Eric Soderholm hit two solo home runs and Claudell Washington and Chet Lemon hit two-run shots to give the White Sox the nightcap.

Sarmiento Spells Reds' Relief

By The Associated Press

When the Cincinnati Reds first called up Manny Sarmiento from the minors in 1976, they probably didn't know they were getting three players.

Sarmiento is a pitcher who can't be pigeon-holed, and he has played three completely different roles for the Cincinnati Reds — starter, short reliever and long reliever.

Sunday, it was the latter as the Reds beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2, enhancing an estimation by Manager Sparky Anderson that Sarmiento is the Reds' "most valuable player" this year.

"Manny is so important to this team," said Fred Norman, who owed Sunday's victory to Sarmiento's relief work. "He comes out and does what he has to do. He throws strikes and nothing bothers him."

In his latest outing, the slightly-built right-hander worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth inning behind Norman and permitted just one hit over the last four innings. That was his third save to go along with six victories and a nifty 2.06 earned run average.

"We're hot," said Sarmiento after nailing down Cincinnati's fifth straight victory, "and we're going to catch the (San Francisco) Giants. We may win 20 in a row."

The Reds have plenty of time to overtake the National League West front-runners, of course. The Giants were merely two games in front of the Reds after Sunday's double-header sweep of the New York Mets, 3-0 and 4-3 in 10 innings.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers blanked the Montreal Expos 5-0, the San Diego Padres tripped the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1, the Atlanta Braves edged the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7 and the Houston Astros turned back the Chicago Cubs 3-1.

With Sarmiento's help, Norman continued his astounding success at Riverfront Stadium. Norman's victory gave him an 8-3 record this season and a 45-18 lifetime mark at Cincinnati's home park.

Keith Hernandez' second homer in two days got the Cardinals off to a 1-0 lead in the first. Mike Tyson's run-scoring single made it 2-0 in the second.

But then the Reds scored twice in their half of the second on Cesar Geronimo's RBI single and Don Werner's sacrifice fly. They produced their winning run the next inning when Dan Driessen's sacrifice fly scored Ken Griffey, who had doubled and gone to third on a groundout.

Giants 3-4, Mets 0-3

Vida Blue fired a five-hitter in the opener and Rob Andrews belted a run-scoring single in 10th inning of the second game to lead San Francisco's double-header sweep of New York.

Blue registered his first National League shutout and struck out 10 in the first game. The Giants won the nightcap off reliever Dale Murray when Mike Sadek led off with a single, winning pitcher Randy Moffit sacrificed and Andrews grounded a single up the middle.

Dodgers 5, Expos 0

Don Sutton fired a six-hitter and Steve Garvey and Lee Lacy knocked in two runs each, leading Los Angeles over Montreal. The shutout was the first this year for the veteran right-hander and the 48th of his career, second among active National League pitchers.

Los Angeles scored three runs in the first inning off Montreal's Wayne Twitchell on an RBI single by Garvey, a wild pitch and Lacy's RBI double. Vic Davalillo tripled with one out in the Dodgers third and scored on Lacey's sacrifice fly. Los Angeles added a run in the sixth on Garvey's sacrifice fly.

Padres 4, Phillies 1

Gaylord Perry and Rollie Fingers combined on an eight-hitter, pitching San Diego over Philadelphia. Perry struck out five and walked one before needing relief help in the ninth from Fingers, who notched his 16th save.

The Padres scored two runs off Philadelphia starter Dick Ruthven in the first inning on a leadoff double by Gene Richards, a throwing error by Ruthven, and a sacrifice fly by Derrel Thomas. The runs turned out to be all the Padres needed.

Braves 8, Pirates 7

Rowland Office's three-run homer keyed a seven-run first inning outburst that triggered Atlanta past Pittsburgh. The Braves sent 12 batters to the plate in the rally that chased Pirates starter Jim Bibby.

Bob Beall singled in the first run and, following a walk to Gary Matthews, Office hit his third homer of the year. The Braves added runs on Darrel Chaney's infield out, Jerry Royster's infield single and a throwing error by Pirates third baseman Rennie Stennett.

Astros 3, Cubs 1

Tom Dixon and Joe Sambito combined on a four-hitter and Art Howe knocked in two runs as Houston beat Chicago. Dixon allowed all four Cubs hits over the first seven innings while registering his first victory since May 12. Sambito came in with runners on first and second in the eighth inning and retired all six Cubs batters he faced to gain his fifth save this season.

Pill Helps Newton Nab Buick Tourney

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Flu-ridden Jack Newton popped a strange pill and popped his golf game back in shape just in time to win the $100,000 Buick Open.

On the verge of quitting because of headaches and dizziness, Newton received a prescription capsule from a woman spectator midway through the final round Sunday.

The 28-year-old Australian came back with three birdies, then defeated Floridian Mike Sullivan with a birdie-4 on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff by sinking a 15-foot putt.

It gave Newton his first Professional Golfers' Association tour triumph, a $20,000 prize and a year's tour qualifying exemption. He competed on the European circuit from 1971 through 1976.

"It's not really the money — not having to qualify for every tournament is worth a lot more than money," said Newton, who is playing in this country with a special visa. He had $6,000 lopped off his prize winnings by Uncle Sam.

Sullivan, 23, pocketed $11,400 — $230 more than he made all last year, his first on the tour. He fired his third successive 69 and Newton had a 71 to give them an 8-under-par 72-hole score of 280 over the 7,001-yard, par-72 Warwick Hills Country Club course.

Rex Caldwell, Greg Powers and defending champion Bobby Cole of South Africa collected third-place money of $5,300 with 281 totals.

Powers shot a 40 on the front nine and 31 on the back, failing to get into the playoff by bogeying the last hole. He had seven birdies in a nine-hole stretch.

Two strokes off the lead were first-round leader Barney Thompson and Canadian Jim Nelford, while Craig Stadler was alone at 283. Stadler, Caldwell and Cole were all in a position to pull into the lead in the late stages, only to get bogeys.

Non-Smokers Fire Up For Clean Air Fight

By ANNE ZUSY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Smoking should be confined to consenting adults in private."

"I don't spit in your face, please don't blow smoke in mine."

As these slogans from a national anti-smokers' campaign suggest, life is becoming more difficult for smokers as their habit clashes with ever more outspoken non-smokers. The non-smokers are beyond the dirty-look stage and do not hesitate to speak sharply on planes, buses or restaurants. Sometimes arguments get fiery.

More and more, it also is becoming illegal for smokers to light up in public. Only eight states are without some kind of ban on smoking in public places, anti-smoking forces say. Some 100 cities, 25 counties and 15 universities have separate rules against it. And more bills against smoking are expected before legislatures this year.

On the federal level, the Civil Aeronautics Board is considering a ban on pipe and cigar smoking on airliners. The board is tied 2-2 and the fifth member has asked for more time to study the question. Should the ban pass, a rule against all smoking on airplanes would be proposed, opened to public comment and probably voted on next year.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano, an outspoken non-smoker after years of cigarettes, supports a total ban on airplane smoking and has pledged to help cure the country's "most preventable health problem."

And though he thinks "education and not regulation" is the answer, he said in an interview, the bans against smoking in public places "are a healthy trend."

They prevent those who object from becoming "involuntary smokers," he said. "Consenting adults can smoke in their own home ...."

Califano also said the smoking bans mesh with his proposed $30 million anti-smoking campaign for fiscal 1979 and the new HEW division on smoking and health. He said he does not object to the "freedom to smoke ... But I am saying we've got to put money into education to combat the tobacco industry's image of the Marlboro man and the glamorous woman."

Others are trying to do the same. There is ASH, the 10-year-old, Washington-based Action on Smoking and Health, which is fighting to increase existing bans. There are the American Cancer Society and state lung associations, which are preparing new anti-smoking commercials to be broadcast this summer.

On the other side there are the industry-backed Tobacco Institute in Washington and Smokers United, a new group in New York pledged to fight "obnoxious and tyrannical" smoking bans, HEW proposals and and other proposed anti-smoking regulations.

James Stewart, director of the new group, said in an interview that the anti-smoking laws are "simply unconstitutional." The "campaign against the anti-smoking campaign will be used as a focal point to say 'stop all this anti-everything legislation,'" he said.

Stewart, chairman of an insurance brokerage firm, said his group now has fewer than 200 members. "Two dozen or so are non-smokers," he said, adding that the group "has no connection whatsoever" with the Tobacco Institute.

Non-smokers, Stewart added, "can live their lives by avoiding places with smokers if they so choose. I'm going to continue refusing to give up anything, because this is an invasion of my individual rights."

ASH director John Bahnzaf disagreed. "There is an old legal maxim — my right to swing my fist ends where your nose begins," he said, adding that smokers are "not given a constituionally protected right, but a privilege."

One third of all American adults older than 21 are smokers, according to government statistics. Federal regulations now ban smoking on buses, planes and trains except within specified areas. The government also prohibits smoking in coal mines, oil and gas wells, and caves.

Caves became off-limits after a study showed that cave guides and other employees who smoke on the job faced an increased risk of cancer because of the combination of smoking and high radiation levels in the caves. The high levels of radiation were found to pose no danger to visitors.

State laws range from bans against smoking in "all but the back 20 percent of seats on buses" in the Tobacco State of Virginia, to the Clean Air Act of Minnesota, which prohibits smoking in all public meetings and public places except bars.

Bans in other states and cities cover everything in between. Some laws ban smoking in certain stores or in all stores, in elevators, in churches and in schools. Among oddities, it is illegal to smoke in bed in Independence, Mo., and Indianapolis. In Montgomery County, Md., the ban includes opera houses, of which there are none. In Sacramento, Calif., smoking is banned in shops except those selling tobacco.

State or local laws require mandatory non-smoking restaurant sections in Alaska, Arkansas, California, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and Utah. Such a law takes effect in New Jersey early next year, and 17 other states are considering similar legislation. Some restaurants and businesses have voluntarily created smoking and no-smoking areas.

Meanwhile, all sides on the public smoking issue agree that enforcement is next to impossible. But even their agreement prompts different reactions.

"The point of these laws is not to make criminals out of smokers," explained Jim Mulrooney, a director of Minnesota's Lung Association. "What we hope to do is consciousness-raising — to get people to realize that sometimes their smoking seriously bothers others."

The anti-smoking campaign "has prompted ... a consciousness raising for smokers," agreed Connie Drath of the Tobacco Institute. And smokers "must acknowledge the fact that there are those who object to it. We recognize that."

But, she added, the advocates of non-smoking are trying to enact laws "that turn smokers into criminals. And that we don't like. We'd rather that non-smoking be a matter of common courtesy."

Mayors Question Local Tax Attacks

By DON McLEOD

ATLANTA (AP) — The country's mayors are asking themselves why they are taking all the heat from the taxpayers' revolt.

"Local governments consistently have balanced budgets while states and the federal government often operate without tight management and fiscal reins," Chicago Mayor Michael Bilandic said Sunday.

As the U.S. Conference of Mayors annual convention here attacked a mounting tax crisis sparked by California's passage of Proposition 13, Bilandic complained that states are building up "irresponsible" surpluses and the federal government has been running a deficit for over a century.

"Yet the only governments being called upon to increase their fiscal responsibility are local governments, the only unit which is truly responsive to the people it serves," Bilandic said.

The problem, as dramatically illustrated by California's Proposition 13, is that local government relies heavily on the property tax.

The property tax hits the average citizen in a particularly sensitive spot of the American dream — home ownership — and it is set locally, the level most accessible to quick and tangible redress.

"People told us they were voting for Proposition 13 because it was the only way they had to strike at the state and federal governments," said Mayor Arnold Rue of Stockton, Calif.

Mayor David Vann of Birmingham, Ala., said the voters really were lashing out at inflation.

An Associated Press-NBC news poll showed inflation was the No. 1 concern of the 1,600 people interviewed by telephone last Monday and Tuesday. Thirty-seven percent cited it as the biggest problem and 47 percent said inflation has cut their standard of living.

But it is local government in California which is going to lose 57 percent of its property tax income, which averages 25 percent of its total revenues.

John Petersen, director of the Government Finance Research Center in Washington, said the budget cuts facing California mayors are "horrendous."

"Even the most ardent apostle of tax cuts would probably agree that barring massive infusions of state aid, or new revenue measures, some local governments will cut muscle and bone and not just fat out of their budgets," Petersen said.

Consequently, the city officials gathered here are casting about for ways to divert the voters' wrath falling on them.

Mayor Lionel Wilson of Oakland, Calif., said California's crisis is owed in large part to a legislature that "failed miserably to come to grips with tax reform."

Mayor Lee Alexander of Syracuse, N.Y., chairman of the conference, said unless the federal government begins paying for programs it imposes on cities "there is very little we can do to reduce property taxes."

But no sooner had Alexander finished calling for more help from Washington then Mayor Robert Quirk of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, rose and demanded: "We are always tightening our belts. I think it's about time the federal government started tightening its belt."

Tax Vote Causing 'Potomac Panic'

By PEGGY SIMPSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican leader John Rhodes says the California vote to reduce property taxes is being felt in Washington, causing "panicsville on the Potomac."

Rhodes said cuts in appropriations bills for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (5 percent) and reductions in a public works bill (2 percent) could be traced to the California vote June 6.

"If people think Proposition 13 was a terrible gale in Sacramento, they should have seen what a hurricane it was in Washington," Rhodes said.

Rhodes said in a recent interview that he expects California to seek financial help from Congress, but he predicts the request would be turned down.

"I think what the people in California are saying — and people in other states certainly agree — is that governments at all echelons will have to come up with new priorities, to take less of the gross national product in taxes and inflation than they are now," Rhodes said.

The California congressional delegation has named a special bipartisan task force, which begins meeting today to assess effects of the vote that will cut property taxes by $7 billion or more.

The study also will assess the impact on federal aid programs that require contributions of local and state governments.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press-NBC news poll has found that Americans generally are angry over taxes. They don't feel either President Carter or Congress has done much to hold the line.

The citizen anger is not reserved for property taxes, but includes state and federal levies.

Eight out of 10 of those interviewed said Carter deserved poor or fair ratings for efforts to keep taxes down. Eighty-seven percent of those polled gave the House and Senate poor or only fair marks for holding taxes down.

On a television interview show Sunday, the leader of California's tax revolt said the rebellion will spread across the nation.

Howard Jarvis, chief spokesman for Proposition 13, said he has been receiving inquiries from taxpayers here and abroad, adding: "We're going to do what we can to assist all these poeple. We're going to do all we can to carry this movement across the country."

Jarvis Targets Federal Taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Claims that Proposition 13 has undertones of racism are "asinine and inept," Howard Jarvis, the measure's co-author, said. And he believes the tax revolt will eventually peak into a protest against the federal income tax.

Appearing Sunday on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," Jarvis also told reporters that summer school classes, the first major casualty of the initiative in the Los Angeles area, are "way down on the list" of priorities.

Jarvis said Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and black leaders who believe Proposition 13 is racist and a rebellion of the middle-class against the poor are "totally unrealistic" in their thinking.

Instead, he called the measure "the best thing that's ever happened to them. It will help minorities more than anything else has." Support for the tax-cutting measure was heavy among minorities and poor people, he asserted.

Physician Suggests Cost Consciousness

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The answer to escalating health care costs lies in the marketplace, not government regulation, according to a study before the annual meeting of the American Medical Association.

"It's time for physicians and patients to become more cost-conscious," said Dr. Theodore Chilcoat, AMA assistant executive vice president, as organized medicine opened its 127th annual convention on Sunday.

A major theme that emerged in discussions with AMA spokesmen is their contention that the public must accept such concepts as deductibles and co-insurance as ways to contain health costs, rather than any form of government program to pay for them.

The Carter administration is expected to announce proposals for national health insurance within days.

The AMA's governing body, its 266-member House of Delegates, is considering the major study on health care costs, which concludes that "the greatest hope for cost containment lies in strengthening price consciousness in the health care marketplace."

Even this relatively mild statement, however, has evoked opposition among some delegates in the traditionally conservative organization.

Rogers is asking the delegates to reject the study outright, because, he says, it supports "the nationalization of medical and health care through federal control of hospitals, doctors and insurance companies."

The study, commissioned by the AMA in 1975 and produced by representatives of business, labor, industry and health care professionals, accepted such approaches to health care as health maintenance organizations, which are prepaid group practices.

Organized medicine traditionally has been loathe to accept variances from the individual fee-for-service practice. The Carter administration has enthusiastically endorsed such ideas as the health maintenance organizations.

The AMA delegates will debate this and other health care issues throughout the week, before voting on what the official position of the organization will be.

The AMA board of trustees said health care costs went up from $42 billion in 1966 to $137 billion in 1976, an average annual growth rate of 11 percent.

"The question is not whether 8 or 10 percent is too much; the question is one of benefits and priorities," the AMA study says. "As society perceives a need to support other social programs, it becomes increasingly clear that change is necessary."

Family Doctors Hit For Not Helping With Marital Woes

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Unqualified marriage counselors thrive because family doctors fail to help their patients solve marital problems, a psychiatrist has told the American Medical Association.

Dr. Peter A. Martin of Southfield, Mich., said Sunday couples frequently are slow to realize they need counseling. He said a trusting relationship with a family doctor can prevent delay in seeking help. "But, physicians have abdicated their centuries-old position as emotional as well as physical caretakers," Martin said. "As a result, America hus become a marriage counseling jungle.

"Fortified by the wisdom gained in three years of undergraduate sociology courses, individuals fearlessly counsel clients on marriage problems while physicians blanch at the idea of taking such a responsibility. Unqualified individuals and even unscrupulous individuals rush in gladly to fill the vacuum left by the abdicating physician."

Speaking at a symposium during the AMA's 127th annual convention, Martin said marital therapy is a field in which an opportunist has easy access to uninformed people.

Reporter Applauds News Awareness

MASON CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Midwesterners generally are better informed than residents of the larger cities on the coasts, CBS News correspondent Richard Threlkeld says.

Threlkeld, speaking on KIMT-TV's "Newsmaker" program, said one reason is the agricultural nature of the economy. He said people need to know about the latest developments in agriculture and energy, so they make a point to stay informed.

Threlkeld also said the national network newscasts have become a "sort of national newspaper" to the people in the rural areas.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Mart Drops 4.24 To 832.73

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market tumbled in active trading for the fourth consecutive session today in what analysts said reflected continued worries over rising interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 4.24 points to 832.73 by midday. There were more than twice as many losing issues as gainers by the noon tally of NYSE trading.

The NYSE composite index was off .28 to 54.52.

Big Board volume came to 10.99 million shares over the first two hours, down from heavy trading of 12.37 million in the same period on Friday.

On Friday many major banks bumped up their prime lending rates another quarter percent to 8¾, underscoring the market's concern that rising interest rates may slow economic growth.

Traders said the Federal Reserve Board is widely expected to signal another round of credit tightening after its policy meeting on Tuesday.

Oil issues were generally lower following a decision by oil producing countries over the weekend to freeze prices for six months.

Exxon fell ½ to 44⅛ in active trading. Other, less actively traded issues included: Atlantic Richfield, off ⅜ to 50⅝; Mobil, off ¼ to 65½; Standard Oil of Indiana, down ¼ to 48⅛; and Getty, down 2½ to 152½.

Ramada Inn, up ½ to 7½, topped the NYSE most active list. Browning-Ferris, off ⅛ at 13¾, was second most active. Trading involved a block of 145,000 shares at 13½.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell .70 to 149.46.

Budget Goal Delay Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's goal of a balanced budget by 1981 may be delayed a year or two, says Budget Director James McIntyre, Jr.

McIntyre told U.S. News World Report that reaching the goal will depend on the economy's performance and whether a second tax cut would be needed over the next two years.

The president's current tax cut proposal is before Congress. Carter has agreed under congressional pressure to reduce the cut from about $24.5 billion to $19 billion.

"The president remains firmly committed to balancing the budget and so do I," McIntyre said. "But if we have to defer it a year or two, that is something we may just have to do."

McIntyre, in the U.S. News interview released Sunday, said he doubts that federal spending can be decreased.

"But we can have a close look at federal expenditures and have a restrained budget — a budget that in real terms would contain very small growth, or perhaps no growth," he said.

He said the 1980 budget will be tight, "the leanest in years.

"I can't give you really hard or specific numbers, but my aim today is to come up with a deficit that certainly is under $40 billion. The 1980 spending total is likely to be under $540 billion."

Executive Group Honors Austinite

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Society of Association Executives said Monday that Gene N. Fondren, Austin, has been named the 1978 "Distinguished Executive of the Year."

Fondren, executive vice president of the Texas Automobile Dealers Association, was cited as the "number one spokesman for the professional and trade association interests."

ALL ABOARD — Diners enjoy meals where travelers once waited for trains. The former Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad terminal has been converted into The Grand Concourse restaurant in Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP Laserphoto)

Station Revived As Restaurant

By JIM McKAY

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The baggage room features oysters and the tinkling of cocktail glasses and piano keys. The waiting room is crowded with dining tables spread below a vaulted expanse of stained glass. The Pittsburgh Lake Erie Railroad terminal is no longer your standard train station.

Once filled with passengers who wore bowler hats and boas and waited for trains such as the Empire Limited and the Cleveland Flyer, the terminal is now the Grand Concourse, a lavish restaurant.

Other communities have converted old unused passenger train stations into restaurants and bars, but few can boast the Grand Concourse's marble-like columns, ornamental plaster, brass fixtures and mahogany woodwork, all restored to turn-of-the-century splendor.

The restaurant is the first completed segment of a $120 million commercial redevelopment project on the south bank of the Monongahela River that is expected to provide 3,000 jobs and increase retail and tourist business for the city.

The rail terminal was built in 1901 at the height of passenger service by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, which still thrives as a profitable freight carrier.

About 400 of the restaurant's 500 tables are set under the stained glass ceiling that covers the terminal's two-story main waiting room.

"Most people in Pittsburgh have never seen the windows," cigar-smoking owner Chuck Muer said. "At night the whole place is just a jewel box."

Muer is a third generation restauranteur whose corporation owns 14 restaurants, including a restored railroad station in Ann Arbor, Mich., and a onetime fire station in Columbus, Ohio.

The train shed vestibule has been converted into the kitchen. The old station dining room and the former ladies waiting room are also dining areas and the former baggage room is a saloon and oyster bar.

The stained glass, which was painted black during World War II, was restored and back-lighted and the dining areas were decorated with railroad memorabilia.

"What I tried to do there was present the lifestyle of the railroad industry," Dean Tyson, a clergyman and railroad buff who researched the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie for Muer, said.

"A lot of people think the P&LE was a struggling railroad," Tyson said. "It had been a rich little railroad. The passenger part of it simply faded out of existence."

The restaurant, which specializes in fresh seafood trucked from the Great Lakes and flown daily from Boston, has attracted as many as 1,100 diners on peak weekend nights. Reservations are sometimes booked two weeks in advance.

Abilene Group To Seek Recount Of 'Wet' Vote

ABILENE (AP) — Opponents of a measure to permit alcoholic beverage sales in Abilene will ask for a recount of Saturday's election that "wet" supporters won by a narrow margin.

"It's too close," said Neil Fry, of Citizens for a Better Community. "They counted the thing in a hurry. There could be some mistakes made. It's worth checking."

Unofficial returns showed the vote was 11,591 for and 11,460 against. The Taylor County Commissioners' Court is expected to meet Tuesday to canvass the returns.

In 1976, a similar election was held while Abilene Christian University, Hardin-Simmons and McMurry College were in regular session.

The outcome then was 53 percent to 47 percent against going wet.

"The colleges voted 6 to 1 dry in the last election," Fry said. "Saturday, there were probably 3,000 (student) votes out of town. They were our votes."

The precinct box that takes in Abilene Christian was about 85 percent against the "wet" proposal Saturday.

The Associated Press erroneously reported Saturday night that the precinct was 85 percent in favor of the proposal.

The Hardin-Simmons area voted down the proposal, with 65 percent of that precinct going against it, and the McMurry College precinct barely defeated it, as opponents garnished 51 percent of the vote.

A spokesman for the pro-wet group that brought the issue to the voters said servicemen at Dyess Air Force base helped tip the election.

Mickey Holmes of Update 78 said Dyess was on a base alert at the time of the last election. Saturday the Dyess precinct produced 725 votes for liquor sales and 226 against.

"That was a big factor," Holmes said.

Once official, the measure will allow alcoholic beverages to be sold by the drink and from package stores.

TOKYO (AP) — About 100 members of the Japan Airlines cabin crew union began a 24-hour strike today, causing cancellation of 35 domestic and international flights.

The union is seeking summer bonuses averaging $3,018 or $610 more than the company is offering, and improvements in working conditions.

'Carter Country' Cast Loses Contest

By JAY SHARBUTT

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ah, but there's bad news tonight. Guich Koock, a cop in "Carter Country," says the cast lost the Intergalactic Chicken Flying Contest recently at his hometown of Fredericksburg.

Cops of Plains, Ga., won, even though he says Vic French, star of ABC's series, got Texas A&M, Koock's alma mater, to breed a special entry by crossing a hummingbird with a banty rooster.

"He sure was fast," Guich sighed. "But he flew backwards."

The defeat occurred at the Fifth Sometimes Annual Luchenbach World's Fair, which Koock organized, having gotten into the world's fair business back in 1970.

This year's bash also featured an energy-saving "non-flyover" of the Navy's Blue Angels, a Buffalo Chip Toss and a snake race held in a sleeping bag.

In the last, Guich said, a pal, Smoky Moore, climbed in a bag filled with six rattlers. The idea was to see how fast a man can race from a sleeping bag filled with six rattlers.

A tall tale? Well, consider that Guich holds a master's degree in Texas folklore. He says when he was a kid, he was inspired by a famed Texas historian for whom he worked, the late J. Frank Dobie.

Koock also acted in college dramas, but didn't go right to Hollywood. He worked on a kid show in Houston. Also bought a town, the hamlet of Luchenbach, for $18,000, with a rancher, Hondo Crouch.

Guich, who said he'd always wanted to own a town but has since sold his, was asked how he became a practicing actor. The following yarn by him is verbatim, vintage Koock:

"It was the damndest thing. Mondays and Sundays, farmers brought in eggs and such to Luchenbach and traded it for feed. I'd take the eggs to San Antonio next day and peddle 'em door-to-door.

"One Wednesday, I was waiting for a friend in the bar there at the Holiday Inn. This pretty girl came up and asked if I wanted to be a movie star, and I said sure.

"She says, 'Come up to my room, we're casting.' And I go up there, and sure enough, damnit, they were casting."

The movie: "Sugarland Express." He was in it, three more, and, when interviewed, was working in "Seven," a shoot-em-up foaled by the noted director of major ABC sports shows, Andy Sidaris.

"I play 'Cowboy,' kind of a CIA hit man," Guich explained.

He was asked to explain why, other than ownership of Luchenbach, he named his Sometimes Annual World's Fair after the place. He said it was prompted by a science project of a teacher friend.

"He had a theory Luchenbach was in the center of the globe," Guich said. "So he got a globe, located Luchenbach, got a piece of string stretched around the globe, and sure enough, it got right back to Luchenbach again.

"So, with his theory proved, we figured that manifest destiny had prompted us to do something pretty spectacular.

"And since world's fairs weren't doing too good at the time, we figured we ought to have us a world's fair in Luchenbach and invite the world. And we did. And they came."

Crazy, these Texans, plumb crazy.

Problems Overcome Actors

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Alas for the jokes of yesteryear and "Once in a Lifetime."

The lampoon about old-time Hollywood began the famous writing partnership of Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman.

The show is up against two problems that a tremendous effort by a swarm of determined actors never quite licks.

Kidding the wheelers, dealers and frequent humbug of moviemaking has turned into a stale subject for satire since Hart and Kaufman drew up their yarn about a boob whose harebrained boners make him a celebrity. And as masters of dialogue, their repartee now sounds strained, primitive and even dumb.

Director Tom Moore, who did the play previously at Washington's Arena Stage, treats the script straight and without any camp — which probably would have made it worse — and whips his 29 performers along at whizbang momentum.

Deborah May and Treat Williams, the ex-vaudevillians who accompany George on his invasion of Lotusland just after the invention of talkies, do well among the mildew, too.

Jayne Meadows Allen, swathed in assorted green gowns, portrays a prototype gossip columnist, while Julia Duffy struggles as a raucous schoolgirl who turns mediocrity into stardom.

There is quite an assortment of cheerful bits, but some other parts of the loose text would never be missed. For atmosphere a lot of Al Jolson recordings are played at every possible moment.

The best aspect of the production is that the Circle in the Square's awkward performance space has been enclosed at one end, so that spectators now surround the action and the need for a lot of needless scenery has been obviated.

Karl Eigsti's mostly prop sets are OK and so are the period costumes of Carol Luiken.

But once was enough for "Once in a Lifetime."

PBS Special Questions Actions Of Judges In Rosenberg Trial

By DONALD SANDERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public television, using newly disclosed files to take another look at the Rosenberg atomic spying case, raises some questions about the actions of two judges in the case.

A repeat with new material of "The Unquiet Death of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg" questions specifically the conduct of Judge Irving R. Kaufman, who sentenced Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to death and is now senior judge of the Second U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York City.

Television producer Alvin H. Goldstein and others connected with the program told a news conference they have made repeated efforts to contact Kaufman for comment without success. A dozen members of the House have suggested an inquiry into the possibility of starting impeachment proceedings.

"Documents from the recently released FBI files give evidence of two telephone calls to the FBI initiated by Judge Kaufman that seem to contradict his claim of detachment," the script says.

"On Feb. 17, 1953, the Court of Appeals granted the Rosenbergs a stay of execution pending an appeal. Two days later ... an FBI agent recorded the following conversation with Judge Kaufman: 'I would like to see the Department of Justice take a firm stand on this matter and appeal directly to the Supreme Court for an immediate decision.'"

The Rosenbergs, convicted of passing the secret of the atomic bomb to Russia, were executed at Sing Sing Prison on June 19, 1953. The documentary will be shown Monday night by the Public Broadcasting Service. Demonstrations are planned in New York and other cities.

Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court had issued a stay of execution which would not normally have been acted on by the full court until the new term starting in October. But the late Chief Justice Fred Vinson called the court back into special session, and it overturned Douglas' stay by a vote of 6-3.

"According to an FBI memo, Supreme Court Justice Vinson and Attorney General (Herbert) Brownell had already decided on a strategy to block Justice Douglas' stay," the program says. "Clearly, according to the FBI memo, Justice Vinson had violated Canon 17 (of the judicial code of ethics) in his promise to help vacate the stay."

An appeal to President Dwight D. Eisenhower to stay the execution was denied.

Also convicted with the Rosenbergs on a charge of conspiracy was Morton Sobell. He was sentenced to 30 years and served 18½, 5½ of them in Alcatraz.

Program backers say there may be as many as a million documents related to the case, only a fraction of which have been turned over under the Freedom of Information Act. Sobell said there are more documents from after the trial than those preceding it, as part of what he calls a cover-up.

Fighting to clear their parents' names are the Rosenbergs' two sons, Michael, 35, and Robert, 31. Meeropol, who have adopted the last name of their foster parents. Michael was 10 and Robert 6 when their parents were executed.

Texan Leaves Funds For Institutions

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Several Oklahoma institutions have received checks totalling almost $3.3 million from the estate of a reclusive San Antonio woman.

"This should be like a bolt of lightning out of the blue," said Oklahoma City attorney Roy C. Lytle, executor of the trust of Nell A. Sutton, who died in 1976 at the age of 82.

The latest of the checks mailed to several communities, Lytle said, was $1.25 million for the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation in Oklahoma City. Casady School in Oklahoma City received $1 million.

Also receiving large checks were Presbyterian Hospital in Oklahoma City, $250,000; Oklahoma Christian College in Oklahoma City, $250,000; Holland Hall School in Tulsa, $125,000; St. Anthony Hospital in Oklahoma City, $100,000; and McCall's Chapel School in Ada, $100,000.

Lytle said Mrs. Sutton may have visited Oklahoma "once or twice in her lifetime" and knew virtually nothing of the institutions who would benefit from her charity.

He said said that before her death, she established a trust of about $7.7 million.

Several million went to two nephews with the rest going to charitable organizations in other states and those in Oklahoma "determined the most deserving" by Lytle.

'Smoking. Here's what I'm doing about it.'

"I like the taste of a good cigarette and I don't intend to settle for less. But I'm aware of what's being said. So I began searching for a cigarette that could give me the taste I like with less tar.

"What am I doing about smoking? I'm smoking Vantage."
