Repeal Submission Favored By Senate

Appropriation To Schools Is Voted

Texas Tech To Receive $29,500 As Senate Moves To Assist State Summer Schools

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 12.—The Texas senate today passed a bill to appropriate $379,629 for 1935 summer schools at state colleges, but not by a majority sufficient to make it effective before the start of the summer sessions.

The vote was 15 to 7 with one pair. Senator John S. Redditt of Lufkin, hoping to obtain the needed 21 favorable votes later, had a motion to reconsider spread on the journal.

Senator Wilbourne B. Collie of Eastland, T. J. Holbrook of Galveston and E. M. Davis of Brownwood spoke in opposition to the bill because it would appropriate approximately $120,000 more than was allotted for summer schools last year. Redditt answered that summer school appropriations were cut much deeper by the last legislature than any other appropriation.

The bill would make allotments as follows: University of Texas, $70,095; A. and M. $17,115; John Tarleton, Stephenville, $10,520; North Texas Junior Agricultural college, Arlington, $4,300; Prairie View normal for negroes, $5,000; C. I. A. Denton, $16,065; College of Arts and Industries, Kingsville, $13,650; College of Mines and Metallurgy, El Paso, $9,340; Texas Tech, Lubbock, $29,500; East Texas Teachers, Commerce, $37,650; North Texas Teachers, Denton, $49,095; Sam Houston Teachers, Huntsville, $25,217; Southwest Texas Teachers, San Marcos, $34,110; Stephen F. Austin, Teachers, Nacogdoches, $22,682; Sul Ross Teachers, Alpine, $14,700, and West Texas Teachers, Canyon, $21,140.

Would Hike Summer Salaries

Faculty members would be given monthly salaries for summer school work equal to their monthly salaries for the regular term. During the last biennium, they received 25 per cent less for summer school teaching.

Other emergency appropriations passed by the house included: To continue an investigation by the department of education into alleged padding of the scholastic census, $8,500.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological college, is in Austin, where he has been advocating passage of his school's application for funds for the summer terms.

Wood Announces $2 Apportionment

AUSTIN, March 12. (AP)—State Superintendent L. A. Woods announced today a $2 apportionment was being paid on 1,560,680 scholastics, making a total of $9 paid on the $16.50 per capita appropriated for 1934-35.

In addition to the $9 per capita,

Relief Insurgents Again Are Active

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP) — Senate administration leaders herded the $4,880,000,000 relief bill through two test votes today, only to meet later with a determined insurgent effort to clip the proposed appropriation to half its size.

The majority chiefs succeeded in downing with a 75 to 5 vote an amendment by Senator Long (D-La) to set aside a billion dollars of the fund to provide college educations for needy youths.

Then they mustered a 56-to-32 vote to beat an amendment by Costigan (D-Colo) which would have broadened the terms of the bill to include "useful public works," especially state, municipal and other non-federal projects.

The big measure then ran into a siege of debate led by Democrats both from the agricultural sections and big city states.

Machine Gun Barrage, Fear Rake Capital City Of Cuba

HAVANA, March 12 (AP) — Bomb explosions injuring 21 persons brought immediate drastic enforcement of the military governor's nine o'clock curfew law tonight in a hailstorm of bullets from sub-machine guns, rifles and pistols in the hands of police and soldiers.

The paralyzing general strike showed signs of breaking up, but never in all its hectic revolutionary days was Havana in such a state of desolation and fear. Not 100 civilians of its 600,000 population were on the street.

You May Be Sure She Got Divorce

LOS ANGELES, March 12. (AP) As a penurious man, Ernest Vogt rated at the top, his wife, the former Margaret Leahy, London beauty contest winner and film actress, testified today in winning a divorce in superior court.

Among her charges against the riding academy proprietor were:

On St. Valentine's day, he cut a picture out of a newspaper for her.

He told her to cook things her guests wouldn't like so they would not eat so much.

He made her put on shabby clothes when she went to a doctor so the bill would be small.

She was permitted to butter only one side of a sandwich.

And all this time, she said, he was earning $100 a day.

FDR Aims At Propagandists

Holding Companies Other Than Those "Necessary" Must Go, Executive Stresses As He Submits New Plan

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 12.—With the flat distum that "to avoid governmental socialism" congress must ban all except "necessary" public utility holding companies, President Roosevelt today sent to the capitol a 12-point plan for dealing with the subject.

Slashing sharply in the same special message at what he called organized "propaganda" against the projected legislation, the president was met with a renewed salvo of opposition. In a matter of hours after delivery of his message, two utility groups hit back, asserting he had "prejudged" the case and expressing "astonishment" at his word.

Enactment Pushed

Mr. Roosevelt left little doubt, however, that the weight of the administration would be thrown behind the effort to push through utility holding company legislation at this session. After hitting at what he called "propaganda to exploit the most far-fetched and fallacious fears," which, he said, left him "unimpressed," Mr. Roosevelt added:

"Except where it is absolutely necessary to the continued functioning of a geographically integrated operating utility system the utility holding company with its present powers must go."

But the words flung back by opponents of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill generally to ban public utility holding companies in five years were both heated and strong. One of the warmest fights of the session appeared in prospect.

Drs. Kitchen And Hartman Are Under Subpoena To Appear Before Dallas Grand Jury; Attorney With Them

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, March 12. — Another "nervous" witness created an uproar today as a federal grand jury continued investigation of the slaying of Spencer Stafford, federal narcotic agent, at Post, Feb. 7.

Just before the grand jury began its afternoon session Clyde Martin, 30, a public road worker at Post, began laughing and making unintelligible sounds. He sat in the lap of a bailiff and addressed the officer as "grandpa." Later he pounded on the door of the grand jury room, shouting, "Frameup — its' a frameup."

Martin Suffers Nervousness

After he became quiet friends said Martin was suffering from a nervous trouble.

Yesterday John Putnam, 38, Post cotton mill employe, ran through the hall near the grand jury room shouting, "They have scared me to death. They're going to put me in jail."

George M. Williams, foreman of the grand jury, said neither man had been threatened.

Jury Report Today

The grand jury was expected to report tomorrow. A number of indictments already have been returned, including four for the slaying of Stafford and several others on liquor and narcotics charges.

N. C. Outlaw of Post, attorney for Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county who killed the federal agent with a machine gun and claimed self-defense, was convicted yesterday with C. M. Loe, drayman, on a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice. It was alleged the attorney offered Loe $500 to testify he was an eye witness to the shooting. Two other indictments against Outlaw in connection with the

Kitchen, Hartman Subpoenaed

Dr. L. W. Kitchen, Post veterinary in front of whose office the federal agent was shot, and Dr. V. A. Hartman, Post physician, both accused with the sheriff in the killing, were under subpoena to appear before the grand jury. Dr. Hartman had not been called by the grand jury before. They were accompanied here by Tom L. Price, Post attorney, who said he had advised them they need not testify.

The fourth man accused of the slaying of Stafford was Tom Morgan, Garza county farmer whom the sheriff deputized shortly before the shooting.

Youth Confesses Doping Long Beach Man, But He Evidently Makes Escape

Californian, Stripped Of Possessions And Suffering From Shock, Found At Odessa

(Special To The Avalanche)

BROWNFIELD, March 12. (AP) — A 19-year-old youth, who told a Terry county farmer he had robbed J. G. A. Martin, Long Beach, Calif., of $340, an expensive watch, and a pistol, was sought in this section.

Martin's automobile was abandoned about 10 miles southwest of here Sunday night. Reporting he had been doped, robbed, and left on a highway about 40 miles from Odessa, Martin appeared at the office of Sheriff Reeder Webb at Odessa late this morning.

The 51-year-old Californian was suffering of shock.

The suspect went to the Kelly Sears home about 6 miles southwest of here for breakfast Monday morning, then went to the Rainwater residence 2 miles southwest of Brownfield that afternoon.

Rainwater this afternoon told Sheriff J. S. Smith that the young man gave him $20, a watch, and a .32 calibre pitsol "to keep quiet." All, the farmer said he was told, had been taken from a man, who evidently was Martin. The youth also exhibited more than $300.

The sheriff said Rainwater carried the man to Brownfield about 4 p. m. Monday. Investigation led the officer to believe the suspect had hitch-hiked to Lubbock.

The officer said the youth left his clothing, except his trousers, at Rainwater's home and left in an old overcoat, patched on the back, and a greasy cap. He was wearing blue trousers. He had placed the money he was carrying in the waist of the trousers.

Sheriff Reeder told Sheriff Smith that Martin and the youth had left California together, the younger man to drive. They registered at an Odessa hotel Sunday night and that, said Martin, was the last he remembered until he found himself on the highway.

Mrs. Martin, queried in Long Beach, said her husband left there on a vacation March 2 and that she had not heard from him. He was a clerk in the superior court there, the Associated Press reported.

Planning Board Compromise Likely To Be Accepted Soon

AUSTIN, March 12. (AP)—A conference committee adjusting differences on the planning board bill submitted its report today, and committeemen expressed confidence the compromise would be approved by the legislature this week.

The planning board would be composed of nine members, six appointed by the governor and the others the secretary of state, the state highway engineer and the chairman of the water board. Its function would be to formulate a comprehensive public works program to the end that the greatest possible benefit would result from expenditure of federal recovery funds in Texas.

'Hoodoo-ed,' Not Sure 'Hoos Hoo'

UVALDE, March 12. (AP) — John Trapper, negro, testified today that he could not remember the gun fight Feb. 28 in which Deputy Sheriff J. W. Haygood was slain.

He said his estranged wife cast a "hoodoo" over him, causing him to visit her the night of Feb. 27, when she was slashed to death with a razor.

Haygood was seeking the negro for the woman's slaying when felled with a load of buckshot.

"I remember a car passing me," Trapper said concerning the shooting of Haygood. "I remember wondering who it was but I can not remember anything else that happened until I was lying on the ground shot."

Flood, Snow Menace Areas

Hundreds In South And Middle West Driven From Lowlands As Freakish Weather Rides Over Several Regions

(By The Associated Press)

Hundreds of persons in the South and Middle West fled their homes yesterday to seek safety from floodwaters. Freak rain and snowstorms increased the menace in some regions.

Half of Saline county, Ill., was under water and authorities described conditions worse than since the big flood in 1913.

Hundreds Leave Homes

Across the Mississippi river in southern Missouri, where the Black and St. Francis rivers swirled over rich farmlands, 500 persons were forced from their homes as the waters rose steadily.

At Kennett, Mo., near the Arkansas border, levees were reinforced after the St. Francis tore through them under the peak. The Mississippi rose slowly, but no serious threat was felt from the river.

Ice Rides Storm

In Mississippi the flood center was near Jackson. The state also was the victim of a freak, ice-laden storm that roared through on tornadic winds, causing serious property damage. Three persons were injured at Pontotoc, Miss., where a score of business houses and homes were destroyed or damaged. A fringe of the storm hit Macon, Ga., demolishing small houses.

Relief agencies were caring for the homeless in the storm areas, aided by national guardsmen in some districts.

The Pearl river at Jackson, Miss., was climbing for a new all-time high level and in Arkansas the White, Black and St. Francis rivers were swollen to high stages as workmen sandbagged banks.

A freak snowstorm hit northern Louisiana, a white mantle covered the Tennessee valley in Alabama and in some regions as much as three inches of rain fell to add to the flood menace.

Reconstruction In Greece Is Started

ATHENS, March 12 (AP) — Fiery Eleutherios Venizelos, his 12-day insurrection against Premier Panayoti Isaldaris' government at an end, fled his native Crete today to gain haven on the little Italian island of Cassos.

The cruiser Averoff, "flagship" of the rebel fleet, conveyed Venizelos, his wife and several other revolt chieftains to the 25-mile-square islet, and afterward radioed the government is was continuing to Greece.

With Venizelos' flight, and the smashing of the rebels' land forces in Macedonia, the government's victory apparently was complete.

The strife-racked Hellenic republic, its business and economic life at a virtual standstill since the insurrection flared, began moving slowly back toward normal.

Boy Confesses Burglary Of Lubbock Store; Is Jailed

A 14-year-old Lubbock boy, arrested by police Monday and transferred to county jail yesterday, confessed he burglarized Austin's Food store, 613 Broadway, and took $65 March 5, the sheriff's department reported.

Officers who questioned the tearful youth believed he had confederates. Spending of more than $40 had been traced to the suspect, it was said. Fingerprints found in the store were a factor in the case.

Glass in the front of the store building was broken out. The money was taken from two cash registers.

Cotton Loans Renewal May Quiet Market

Wild Fluctuation Of Cotton Over Past Two Days May Be Settled Somewhat Through 12-Cent Advance Talk

Senator Spokesman

South Carolinan Makes Clear Prediction But Silence On Loan Falls As Far As Other Officials Concerned

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 12—A flat assertion today by Senator Smith (D-SC) that the government's 12-cent cotton loans would be renewed on this year's crop appeared today as a possible stabilizer for a market that has fluctuated wildly during the past two days.

But Secretary Wallace, Chester C. Davis, farm administrator, and other officials involved met Smith's brief statement to newspapermen with the same silence that characterized their attitude throughout the day, despite rumored statements.

No Elaboration

Davis declined to discuss Smith's prediction. His only statement concerning the cotton situation was: "There is no immediate change contemplated in the government's cotton policy."

Other officials would say only that the commodity credit corporation, which makes the loans, had not discussed their continuation. They pointed out that last year's loan announcement was not made until August.

Capital On Tip-Toe

Those quarters of the capital most interested in cotton were on tip-toe much of the day in the expectation of some official statement as to future plans. Senator Smith had reported yesterday that a statement would be forthcoming from the White House.

Doctor Hutchinson, president of the board, has been a trustee since 1913. Doctor Stewart is completing his first term.

Five Hamlin Jurors Taken

Trial Of Amarillo Man Who Faces Murder Charge Moves Slowly; Self-Defense Views Asked In Examination

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, March 12.—Five jurors had been accepted when court recessed today in the murder case of George S. Hamlin, on trial for the hammer slaying of his 33-year-old bride here January 4.

Thirty-two veniremen had been questioned. The state had exercised four challenges, the defense three.

Close Examination

E. T. Miller, defense attorney, questioned prospective jurors intently about their views on insanity, self-defense, and "protection of the sanctity of the home."

Frequent wrangling by opposing counsel delayed proceedings and led Judge E. C. Nelson to order the attorneys to cease their "repartee and sallies at each other, and conduct this trial on a high plane."

HOLC Measure Is Passed; Only Two Dissenting Votes

WASHINGTON, March 12. (AP)—With only two votes against it, the house passed today the measure which provides an additional $1,750,000,000 for the Home Owners' Loan corporation to help mortgage-burdened home owners.

The bill was sent to the senate after repeated attempts to raise the $1,750,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 were beaten. Members of the banking committee gave assurance again and again that the bill provided sufficient funds.

(Special To The Avalanche)

DICKENS, March 12. — Mrs. Georgia Caldwell, 73, who lived alone in a one-room house about 15 miles north of Dickens, was found dead in a pasture about 400 yards from her home at 11 o'clock this morning.

PRAYER MEETING TONIGHT

Psalmody Incoherently Attempted By Negro Strung Up For Death Of White

(By The Associated Press)

SLAYDEN, Miss., March 12—Alternately singing and praying even as the rope was tightened about his throat, Ab Young, negro tenant farmer suspected of slaying a highway employe, was lynched today in a school yard three miles east of here.

A mob of approximately 50 men hanged the negro from a tall oak tree a couple of hours after he was seized at Rossville, Tenn., just across the Mississippi line. Young was wanted in the killing of Hardy Mackie, 45-year-old highway worker.

"You'd better sing a hymn," one told the negro as a rope was placed about his neck. He endeavored to sing.

"You'd better pray," he was told. The negro prayed.

The rope was fastened about his neck. The other end tied to the tree. He was pushed atop a small coach automobile. One of his captors drove the car away, leaving the negro's body dangling.

The hanging occurred about 4:10 p. m.. As the members of the mob passed through Mount Pleasant with their captive an hour or so before, they told people sitting around a garage that the negro would be "lynched at sundown." The mob was

Reversal Of Evolutionary Process Is Denied As Artist Nears Stage Of Ape

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—George Bocklet, who says his strange affliction is making him look "more and more like an ape," began a desperate fight for life in a sanatorium here today.

Dr. Frank G. Nolan, physician and surgeon, said unless doctors can determine what is wrong with the 49-year-old Azusa, Calif., commercial artist, he is faced with possible death within two years.

Bocklet's body is shrinking mysteriously, while his head is growing larger.

Beginning an exhaustive examination, doctors started tests today which Dr. Nolan feared for a while might be halted by death as Bocklet suffered by severe hemorrhage — probably caused by his street car ride from Azusa.

"He lost about a pint of blood and for a while I feared he was going to die," Dr. Nolan said, "but later the loss of blood tended to relieve the pressure and his condition is encouraging."

Although Bocklet continued shrinking and again said he felt like an "ape man", Dr. Nolan said the shrinking may make him feel as if he were becoming more simian, but there is nothing in his disease that could be

ANIMAL AND MAN

THE vagaries of nature are manifest in the jack rabbit hunts that are being staged in western Kansas in spite of horrified protests from women's clubs who set up cries of "brutality." They are killing the rabbits because the rabbits are destroying young wheat crops and pastures. Coyotes and wolves will suffer because already the farmers have brought death to 1,000,000 bunnies, cutting off a food supply.

Here is an example where the survival of the fittest is the survival of the animal that can think. If man is being warred on he plans a counter attack. The lower animals have no alternative. Of course the maurauders have to be done away with or else man would suffer. But in taking the rabbits away man is causing wolves and coyotes to lose their lives as hunger makes them bold enough to enter cattle yards for their prey.

NEW BATHING SUITS

THRICE woe to the women whose figures are of the ample type. Either they won't be able to swim next summer or else they will have to resign themselves to being out of style. The Tahitian influence has become a command and it is safe to prophesy that the pool edges will be dotted with gay "sarongs" as soon as the ice clears away.

Rubber suits will continue to be popular. A new trend toward the turtle neck effect in the front of the suit, while the back is backless provides a disquieting paradox.

FOR THE BLIND

A FEW years ago several different denominations worked out a plan for cooperation in publishing the John Milton magazine which is an interdenominational religious monthly published in Braille. It carries religious articles and a treatment of the regular Sunday school lessons. It is the only such publication in this country.

The General Board of Christian Education is making a contribution to the publication of this magazine and the only cost to any blind person is twenty-five cents registration fee. ONE WHO KNOWS

HELEN KELLER has written an open letter to boys and girls of America urging them to "guard their eyes." Keenly interested in the present nation-wide eyesight conservation movement, Miss Keller, world-famous blind woman, makes the following appeal:

"I want to say something to you that beats in my heart day and night. I have dwelt in darkness since I was a little girl, and know what it means to be blind. That is why I am so deeply interested in keeping the light in your eyes. Sight is very important.

"When a child loses his sight, he loses many beautiful things. He cannot run freely or go wherever he pleases. There will be no more bright colors in the world for him, no flash of bird wings. His movements, once so quick and eager, will become slow and timid, and his hand will often miss what they seek. He will be lonely because other children will not know how to play with him.

"It is possible with great patience and perseverance to overcome to a degree the handicap of blindness, but it is far better for you to keep your sight. My message to you is this: Be careful of your eyes, guard them as you would your most loved possessions. When you read or study make certain that you have plenty of glareless light.

"Look after your eyes for everybody's sake train them so you may be able to see all the beauty in the world, and be able to help those who do not live in the light you love."

Houston Convention Of Cattlemen Hears Proposed AAA Amendment Attack

No Processing Tax Is Wanted

Intended Legislation Would Result In Relief To Mid-West Corn - Hog Grower And Damage To Cattleman

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON March 12.—A blistering attack on the proposed amendment to the AAA which, according to the speaker, would affix a processing tax on cattle for relief of middle west corn and hog growers, was launched here today by F. E. Mollin, of Denver, secretary of the American National Livestock association. He spoke at the opening session of the convention here of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association.

"The farm leaders who propose this program are on the spot," declared Mollin, who has but recently returned from a series of hearings in Washington on the amendment. "They got their people into this processing tax business and now they are trying to get out from under at the expense of the cattlemen.

Processing Tax Not Wanted

"We don't want any processing tax. I'm perfectly sure that the cattle raisers will be entirely willing to do anything necessary to dispose of our own surplus. But we haven't got any surplus.

"The hog raisers are the ones who, over a period of years, have habitually over-produced.

"These farm leaders never worried much about us cattlemen before. Now let's examine closely this program they propose and see whether they are trying to do something for us or something to us.

Independence Asserted

"Let us work out our own program, apply our own processing tax if we find it necessary and use the funds derived from it for the benefit of the cattle industry."

In welcoming the delegates, Mayor Oscar Holcombe mentioned that it was the fourth time that he has performed that pleasant task.

"Last year in San Antonio we listened to a lot of windy speeches about Houston," began Jay Taylor of Amarillo, president of the Panhandle Livestock association, responding to the welcoming addresses. "We wondered then how on earth you folks could ever make good on the many things you promised us. But I want to tell you that you have more than made good. . . .

Business Picking Up

"The cattle business is picking up. Most of us usually 'thumb' our way to these conventions but this year we were able to travel in pretty good style."

Association President W. T. Coble of Amarillo also mentioned the improved condition of the cattle industry. Despite drouth and low prices at the beginning of the last year the industry has had a good year, he said.

"The government cattle buying program has been largely responsible for these improved conditions," he said. "It not only provided a food supply for the needy but also a market for the cattle raisers and helped to reduce the beef surplus. I want to take this opportunity of commending the speed with which the government acted in this emergency."

Bond Suit To Get Attention

New Deal Seeks To Forestall Action In Claims Court Of Taft, Who Disputes Method Of Calling In Bonds

WASHINGTON, March 12. (AP) — The New Deal sought today to ward off a blow aimed at its policy of calling in millions of dollars of high interest gold clause bonds and replacing them with securities paying lower interest rates.

The legality of such debt refunding, an important part of President Roosevelt's efforts to reduce interest charges on both public and private obligations, was challenged yesterday by Robert A. Taft, son of the former president.

Court Of Claims Suit

In a suit filed in the court of claims, he contended the government had no right to call its gold clause bonds in advance of maturity without redeeming them in gold.

The capital wondered if one answer to Taft's challenge might be an act of congress closing the courts of claims to suits such as his. President Roosevelt conferred with monetary and legal advisors late yesterday. It was intimated afterward that their discussion concerned legislation to prevent the court from entertaining suits to collect the old gold value of government bonds.

May Be Blocked Or Defeated

Some government attorneys expressed confidence that, even if Taft's action is not blocked by a congressional ban against such litigation, it could be defeated in the courts.

They acknowledged the supreme court ruled recently that congress had no right to nullify the gold payment promises contained in government bonds prior to June, 1930. They counted heavily, however, on this language in one of the court's decisions:

"The payment to the plaintiff of the amount which he demands would appear to constitute not a recoupment of loss in any proper sense, but an unjust enrichment."

Felons Linked With Holdups

Machine Gun Identified And St. Paul Attorney Traces Its Connection With Gang Of Karpis-Barker

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

SOUTH ST. PAUL, March 12. — Harold E. Stassen, Dakota county attorney, today received information from Washington that linked the Barker-Karpis gang with two sensational holdups—one in South St. Paul August 30, 1933, when Policeman Leo Pavlak was killed and the other in Chicago when Policeman Miles Cunningham was slain by machine gun bullets.

Stassen announced that the machine gun found in the Chicago apartment of Arthur (Doc) Barker, held in connection with the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul Banker, has been identified, following laboratory tests in Chicago, as the weapon which was stolen from the car of Officer John Yeaman, who was shot and seriously wounded when Pavlak was dropped by bullets in the $30,000 payroll holdup here.

The Chicago holdup took place Sept. 22, 1933, when four employes of the federal reserve bank were taking a consignment of registered mail from the main postoffice to the bank. Five men carrying three machine guns shot down Cunningham when he unwittingly stepped over to one of two get-away cars that overturned.

The cups will be given to winners in the livestock judging, poultry judging and plant production contests. They must be won three times by a team to be kept permanently. A cup for winners in the dairy judging division was given several years ago by the Standard Milling company, one in the farm shop division by the Myrick Hardware company.

A total of $50 in cash has been offered by the Horse and Mule Association of America to winners in the horse judging division. First winner will be given $20; second, $15; third, $10; fourth $5. This is the first time the association has offered prizes in contests at the college.

College livestock will be judged in contests.

Mellon Trial Hearing Drags

Government Attorneys Fight On Technicality Front As They Seek To Get Testimony Into Court Records

PITTSBURGH, March 12. (AP)—Government attorneys fought today to get testimony into the records of Andrew W. Mellon's $3,000,000 tax hearing supporting their argument that the merging of McClintic-Marshall corporation with Bethlehem Steel in 1931 constituted a sale.

Earl J. Patterson, grey-haired former secretary-treasurer of McClintic-Marshall, was called as a witness before the tax appeals board but he was unable to recall some of the details of the deal while under cross-examination by F. R. Shearer, attorney for the internal revenue bureau.

Mellon and his brother, the late R. B. Mellon, owned 60 per cent of McClintic-Marshall stock. The government claims that in attempting to liquidate part of their holdings the Mellons transferred $21,833,000 of the concern's assets to Bethlehem for stocks and bonds and retained other assets in the Union Construction company.

Pirate Batting Order Is Set; Pessimism Reigns In San Antonio Ball Yard

Traynor Short On Southpaws, But Unworried

Pirate Pitching Staff Seems Powerful, And Left-Handed Batters Due To Work Well; Outfield Reserves Weak

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 12. (AP) — Pittsburgh's Pirates are long on lefthanded hitters and short on lefthanded pitchers but Manager Pie Traynor seems unworried. The big third baseman and leader believes a good lefthanded batsman can hit any pitching, right or left. As for left-handed pitchers, he says one is enough—if a good one.

Unless the scenery changes smartly before the opening of the National League season the Buccaneers will go to bat with at least five batsmen swinging from the port side against three lining up on the more orthodox starboard.

All three of the first line outfielders, the poisonous Waners, Paul and Lloyd, and the irrepressible Babe Herman, are left-handed hitters, as are two infielders, Gus Suhr and Floyd (Arky) Vaughan. This leaves Manager Traynor, Second Baseman Harry Lavagetto and Catcher Tommy Padden.

Ralph Birkofer, the only southpaw flinger, is big and fast and did very well indeed last year as a freshman. He figures to be much more effective his second season.

The Pirates believe their pitching will stack up with that of any of their rivals, except the champion Cardinals who, of course, have the Deans from Oklahoma or Arkansas. And, if a geographical complex means anything, Pittsburgh has Vaughan, hard-hitting shortstop, resident of California but native of Arkansas, from whence came many of Alabama's best football players.

Bush And Weaver To Help

Guy Bush, ex-Cub, and big Jim Weaver, the same, are newcomers certain to win some games. Jack Salveson, late of the Giants, has looked good in the spring and one recruit from the rookie ranks will get a chance. This may be Mace Brown, a strikeout king formerly of Tulsa. Waite Hoyt, Bill Swift, Red Lucas and Darrell (Cy) Blanton are not worrying and can spend all their spare time getting in shape.

Well in advance of actual hostilities the Pirates are practically set, even to the batting order. Lloyd Waner will play center field and lead off with Paul Waner, in right, batting second. Herman will patrol left and occupy the No. 3 slot with Vaughan at short and in the clean-up position. Traynor will play third and bat fifth with Suhr at first and sixth. Lavagetto will play second base and bat seventh.

Padden Behind Plate

Tommy Padden will get the first catching call with Earl Grace to back him up. Aubrey (Yo Yo) Epps, a former outfielder turned catcher, probably will stick, too.

At first glance the club seems to lack only a bit more outfield reserve strength. There are plenty of good extra infielders around such as Tommy Thevenow, Floyd Young and Wilbur Brubaker, with major league experience, and a couple of likely youngsters from the Southern association, George Trapp and James Browne.

Summing up, the Pirates have potential battery strength and hard hitting, a perfect combination if both develop at the same time.

Matadors Plan Big 'Fun Nite'

Double-T Club Goes On Parade Monday Night; Fighting And Dancing Included On Card At Tech Gymnasium

A "fun nite" program including everything from aesthetic dancing by comely coeds to a battle royal by five dusky mitt-slingers is scheduled next Monday night at the Texas Tech gymnasium when the Double T club, association of Matador letter men, stages its annual show.

"Double T on parade," is the name of the fete, and when the Double T goes on parade, it's a 14-ring circus. That many events are scheduled, and they range from acrobatic acts to take-offs on professional wrestling.

Braxton Gilmore, star end on the 1934 Matador grid team, is in charge of preparations for the big show, which replaces former minstrels and sports reviews. A sports review, however will head the program Monday night.

Boxers And Rasslers

Harry Guthrie, Tech boxing coach, and Jakie May, wrestling coach, will present their outstanding athletes. Miss Zella Riegel and Mrs. George Langford are preparing their tap-dancing classes for special costume numbers—and Malcolm "Moon" Martin and Leonard "Bear" Curfman are polishing their "professional" wrestling stunt.

Featuring the boxing program will be a bout between Otis Cannon and Morris Alford, both of Slaton, and another between Odie Ludlow, former Oklahoma boxing coach, and a well-known middleweight. Demp Cannon is booked to meet Jimmy Ortiz of West Texas Teachers college in another.

Three wrestling matches and two negro boxing affairs are included on the program.

The grand opening is at 8 o'clock. Admission is 40 cents general, 25 cents for students.

Texarkana Bulldogs Crowned Texas Junior College Cage Champs; Beat Schreiner Five

TEXARKANA, March 12. (AP) — The Texarkana college Bulldogs nosed out the Schreiner institute Mountaineers, 34 to 33, here tonight to grab the Texas junior college basketball championship.

Schreiner was the defending champion and did not give up the title until 30 seconds before the game ended.

The Mountaineers, led by Gernand, who scored 19 points, at one time held a seven-point lead, but the count stood 16-all at the rest period.

Texarkana went into a three-point lead 30 seconds before the final gun, but Glover of the Mountaineers shot a field goal to come within one point of a tie as the game ended.

He Had Newman's Play, But No Newman To Execute Them

AMES, Ia. March 12 (AP) — Ever hear of a football coach who had all the winning plays, but couldn't use them?

George Veenker, mentor of the Iowa State college eleven, knows how it feels. He has just revealed that Harry Newman, former all-America quarterback at Michigan and now one of the mainstays for the New York Giants' professional team, gave him all the winning pass plays used in the league in 1933.

But Veenker says they were useless to him last fall—he had no passer who could fling the ball with the accuracy of a Newman.

Padres Boast New Park But Few Sluggers

Unless Help Comes From Big Boss At St. Louis, Padre Club To Be Short On Power For Texas League Race

BY JACK O'BRIEN
Sports Editor San Antonio News
(Written Exclusively for The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, March 12.—About the best thing that can be said about the San Antonio Missions now, is that there will be a new ballyard for them this season, through the grace of a PWA loan and the courage of a "businesslike school board administration."

A perusal of the roster, glutted with rookies, picked up by scouts who hope they'll earn their stipend, does not give rise to any inclination to skip to the roof with huzzahs.

Plenty Of Ivory

It's the same old pre-season story for Manager Hank Severeid. He'll have to worry along with a bountiful supply of ivory, fresh from the sticks, until the farm boss E. Carle McEvoy, of the St. Louis Browns system, gives the mighty nod which takes ball players off one payroll and puts them on another. But McEvoy and all the Ball estate executor, might as well make up their collective minds that Hank Severeid is not going to fool around with a gang of punks and hope to stay up in the Texas League chase.

Plenty help will be needed in the outfield, since Larry Bettencourt has gone to the Browns and Pid Purdy was sold to Oklahoma City. Mel Mazzera, a rookie with a good arm but not much disposition to hustle, is billed for right field. However, when the bell rings there will be some slugging help rushed to the Padres by the Browns.

Regular Infield Back

Buck Stanton is the likely choice for first base, Art Scharein at second, Cholly Engle at shortstop, and Sam Hasrshany on the hot corner. All were regulars last year.

Bus Peyton is about the best prospect for the catching chore, but he'll need plenty of help. He can't expect much from Skipper Severeid, because Hank has not fully recovered from last season's broken ankle.

Currently, the Missions have three anaergic holdouts in Hal Wiltse, Abe Miller and Earl Caldwell. A little matter of dollars and cents has handcuffed them and they are unable to write their names at present. Incidentally, those three are the backbone of the pitching staff. They know it and probably that is what gave them writer's cramp.

Where will the Missions finish this season? In the sub-basement, if the Browns and Missions, combined, don't let the moths out of the old family purse and spend some dough for some real pitching and outfield talent.

Perry's Pa Says 'Twas Sacrifice To Help Britain

LONDON, March 12 (AP)—Insinuations that Fred Perry, England's tennis champion, has been living a life of ease at the expense of the general public and is, therefore, in effect a professional, have drawn fire from S. F. Perry, the player's proud father.

"I do not think I am called upon to discuss my private affairs," says Perry senior, "but I can assure the Marquess that I could tell a story of sacrifice which I willingly made in order to assist in some small way to regain the prestige of British tennis."

He was referring to the Marquess of Cholmondeley (pronounced Chumley), who charged in a French publication that the younger Perry made his living from tennis. It was extremely galling to him, the Marquess said, that nobody could refute this charge against England's "amateur" champion.

"The Marquess will forgive me if I feel that his reference to our 'amateur' champion makes me wonder whether the sacrifice I made has been worth while," says the elder Perry.

"His cynical reference will also make many middle and working class parents hesitate before trying my experience."

Mangin And Bell Set Pace In National Doubles Play

NEW YORK, March 12. (AP)—The boys did double duty today as 20 tandem teams waded through a pair of preliminary rounds in the National indoor doubles tennis championship at the seventh regiment armory.

At the end of the long travail eight teams were left to play in the quarter-final round tomorrow in connection with the third round of the singles championship.

The top-seeded team of Gregory S. Mangin and Berkeley Bell overpowered a pair of physicians, T. W. Webster and Robert Millen, both of Forest Hills, 6-2, 6-3, and then put to an end the championship aspirations of a couple of youngsters, Frankie Rericha and Joey Abrams, 6-4, 6-0.

Notre Dame Grid Captain To Undergo Serious Operation

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 12. (AP)—Word was received today that the condition of Joe Sullivan, Notre Dame football captain-elect, had taken a sudden change for the worse and that an immediate operation would be performed.

Sullivan was removed to New York last week when, apparently recovering from pneumonia, he developed an abcess between his skull and the lining of his brain.

ALLISON GIRLS WIN

PAMPA, March 12. (AP)—The Allison girls' team of Wheeler county won the district basketball title here last night by defeating the Perryton girls team, 23 to 20, in the third game of the play-off series. Allison next will meet Stratford in bi-district competition.

Fenton And Pogi Matched For Main Go Tonight; Van Bebber And Moore Due To Steal Show

Wrestling Program Offers Big Variety Tonight; Semi-Final To See Clean Fighters But Roughsters In Main

THE MAIN EVENT

Roderick Fenton, Edmonton, Ontario, vs. Gorilla Pogi, Buenos Aires. Two falls out of three to a finish.

THE SEMI-FINAL

Tiger Jean Moore, Kentucky, vs. Jack Van Bebber, Pampa. Thirty minutes time limit, or one fall.

THE PRELIMINARY

Rex O'Sullivan, Elk City, Okla., vs. Pat Dowdy, Lubbock. Twenty minutes time limit, or one fall.

A variety of wrestling entertainment, ranging from the clean and scientific to the ultra-rough and unruly, from amateurish efforts to veteran professional antics, is booked for the Auditorium tonight where Promoter Sled Allen presents his weekly mat show.

The show will start, at 8 o'clock, with Pat Dowdy, the Auditorium's referee, mixing with chesty Rex O'Sullivan, the youngster from Oklahoma who is trying vainly to build a reputation upon his would-be villainous mannerisms. There will be a lot of slam-banging, face-making and howling in the first bout tonight.

Tiger Moore Returns

The program gathers speed, and probably reaches its climax, when Tiger Jean Moore, the pleasing newcomer from Kentucky, takes on Jack Van Bebber, former local idol, in the 30-minute special event. It is for this bout that most patrons will be attracted tonight.

In sharp contrast with the special event will be the main go, in which two tried and true ruffians, playing more to each other than to the crowd, come to grips, and blows.

There will not be as much gripping and wrestling as there will be slugging and hair-pulling and kicking in the main go. It promises another one of those rough and ready bouts, with neither a strong favorite, each a wild man. One of them comes from the wilds of Canada, the other from the hills of Argentina.

Two Of A Kind

Lightning Rod Fenton and Gorilla Pogi are well known here, and they need little introduction. They are two of a kind, and if they're not scared of one another tonight, they should turn loose with all their illegal artillery.

Since Van Bebber made a surprise appearance two weeks ago and all but licked Pogi in a special event, the fans have been clamoring for his return. Jack used to be a big favorite here, soon after he entered the professional game after winning all the amateur and Olympic prizes in sight, but he began to fade last fall, and the various promoters of the circuit all but gave him up as lost. But the way he snapped out of it the other night caused his followers to renew their faith in him.

Almost Heavyweights

After his match with Pogi Van Bebber said that the Gorilla was "just as tough as the boys say he is," and "the boys" know Pogi for a dangerous rival. Fenton is due to have a tough time.

Tiger Moore is the handsome, brunet giant from Kentucky who made his debut in a main event with Fenton two weeks ago tonight, and licked the Canadian with room to spare. His clean way of fighting, his new trick or two and his general attitude gave him a good send-off with local folks. Slightly heavier than the ordinary middleweight, Moore will meet his match, in poundage, tonight. Van Bebber will weigh in at around 170, and Moore will not be more than two pounds heavier. Moore checked in at 168 two weeks ago, but easily could make the light heavyweight division.

In the GRAPEFRUIT LEAGUE

LOOK OUT, DIZZY!

BRADENTON, Fla., March 12.(AP) The 1935 debut of Jerome Herman Dean, ace flinger of the St. Louis Cardinals, was none too auspicious today but the world champions came through with a victory in their first game, defeating the Phillies 9 to 6.

Dean hurled the first three innings and was touched for three runs, all in the third when he walked two men.

REDS' SKIPPER HURT

TAMPA, Fla., March 12. (AP)—Manager Chuck Dressen of the Cincinnati Reds became a training camp casualty today.

A bat, slipping from the hands of Harlan Pool in batting practice, whacked Dressen across the head. Doctors said he apparently suffered no fracture, but planned an x-ray to make sure.

WASHINGTON LOOKS BETTER

GIANTS 1; BROWNS 0

MIAMI, Fla., March 12. (AP) — Bunching four of their nine hits in the fifth inning for the only run of the game, the New York Giants defeated the St. Louis Browns 1 to 0 today to square the series at one-all.

Clyde Castleman, Frank Gabler and Larry Benton combined to limit Manager Hornsby's team to six hits, none longer than a single.

LIFE IN THE A'S

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 12. (AP)—Taking it by and large, Connie Mack's 1935 Philadelphia Athletics team—if it clicks—has at least five good years to go.

An off-day permitted a resume of the roster statistics today, which shows the members who will probably be carried through the season, average 26 years in age—five below the 31 at which ball-players usually slow up.

BUFFS SEEK HELP

HOUSTON, March 12. (AP)—Shortly before he boarded a train for the Florida training camp of the St. Louis Cardinals where he expects to line up some players for his team, Manager Ira Smith sent the Buffs through a prolonged hitting and fielding practice.

Hitting of Tom Angley, first string catcher, and fielding of "Hicky" Mackey, local sandlotter, featured the second day's drill.

Fifty seven players are in camp with Outfielders Lewis Whitehead and Lynn King the only absentees. An intra-squad game likely will be played Thursday.

SEMI-PROS PLEASE

FORT WORTH, March 12. (AP) — Don Sanders and Chester Goebel, a pair of young righthanders who heretofore have done their hurling in semi-pro circles, have impressed Manager Johnny Heving in the Fort Worth Cats' three days of spring training.

128 MEN, 80 SUITS

DALLAS, March 12. (AP)—Plenty of ball players—128 of them—bore down on Steer stadium today for trials with the Dallas Texas League club or its farms, the Longview and Rayne, La., teams of the Evangeline loop.

The squad was quickly thinned to 80 men, however, when the supply of uniforms was exhausted.

Manager Byrne James of the Steers grouped his proven players together with a few rookies. They were sent scampering about the outfield for the first drill of the year.

The remainder of the aspirants, with the Longview Cannibals, were turned over to Tex Jeanes, Longview pilot.

TULSA OILERS DRILL

HENDERSON, March 12. (AP) — Ernie Holman, former Dallas and New Orleans infielder, checked into the Tulsa Oilers' training camp today in time for the club's initial workout.

Holman, who enjoyed a successful season while wearing the New Orleans uniform in 1934, showed fine form in batting.

Hughie Holliway, young outfielder who came to the Oilers from Beaumont, also was handy with the bat. He managed to get four balls over the left field wall.

Pitchers Dick Whitworth and Art McDougall, outfielders Hal Patchett, and J. W. McKee and Infielder Charles Sheerin were the only players missing today.

Freeland Named Kangaroo Coach

E. Y. FREELAND

SHERMAN, March 12. (AP)—E. Y. (Pap) Freeland, Palestine High school athletic director, today was named head of the physical education department and baseball coach at Austin college.

Bill Pierce, line coach, was elevated to head football and basketball mentor. Pierce succeeded J. B. Head, who resigned.

Panny Farmer Sets Pace In Tech Tourney

Knox City Youth Qualifies In 69, One Under Par, And Is Winner In First Round With Cooper Of Ralls

Panny Farmer, Knox City youth, medalist with a 69, and Al Ray Cooper of Ralls advanced to the quarter-finals in the annual Texas Tech golf tournament at Meadowbrook yesterday with victories over Claude Paulger of Lubbock and Paul Coneway of Hereford respectively.

Farmer, a power in Tech golf for two seasons, and Cooper jumped the tournament gun and played first round games yesterday. Farmer won, 6 and 5, and Cooper defeated Coneway, 4 and 2. Match play was scheduled to start today for the eighteen entries.

Three matches were played in the second flight yesterday. Lonnie Langston, Tech professor in charge of the golf department, arranged two flights, the championship bracket containing eight players, the first flight containing ten. Qualifying scores ranged from Farmer's 69 to a 126 for the 18 holes.

A consolation tournament will be staged in conjunction with championship play, and first round losers will continue to play.

John Bell Entered

In the championship flight, the two remaining first round matches lie between L. G. Raney of Childress and Fred Jackson of Lubbock, in the upper bracket, and John Bell of Lubbock and H. Bailey in the lower bracket. Raney qualified with an 81, Jackson, 83, Bell, 81 and Bailey 85. Paulger came in with an 81 and Cooper took runner up place in medal play with a 76. Coneway qualified with an 89.

Winner of the Raney-Jackson match plays Farmer, and Cooper meets the winner of the Bell-Bailey contest, probably Thursday.

In the first flight yesterday, Robert Koger, of Lamesa defeated Juntus Carter of Childress, 5 and 4; Bill McMurry of Colorado won over E. C. Aston of Sweetwater, 4 and 3, and Clyde Smith of Sweetwater beat K. Austin, 3 and 2.

In other first round matches today, Henry Roberts of Lubbock plays Travis Westmoreland of Paducah and H. C. Bowlin of Lubbock meets Welch. Koger will play the winner of the Roberts-Westmoreland match, and McMurry plays Smith in quarter-final games.

Only four women participated in a special "ladies day" golf program at Meadowbrook yesterday. Mrs. Frank Clow shot a 43 over nine holes to win one prize, and required the least number of putts to win another trophy. Mrs. J. E. George won the "blind hole" prize. Mrs. A. Yaggy and Mrs. H. P. Moore were others who competed.

The West Point gymnastic team has won 22 consecutive matches in intercollegiate competition.

Notes On Soil Erosion

TO we, who live in West Texas, a sandstorm is a sandstorm and there is nothing that can be done about it.

However, we're wrong in taking that attitude. Perhaps there is something that can be done about sandstorms and Uncle Sam is looking into the situation.

As proof of the fact, The New Orleans Times-Picayune sets forth:

"Reappearance of 'dust storms' in the semiarid regions which suffered such heavy damage from them last year is adding to the worries of their inhabitants. Last year's storms followed in the wake of a prolonged drouth and it was expected that one visitation would end with the other. The dust storms last month aroused fear that they may recur annually and inflict damage both uncontrollable and irreparable. To ally the new apprehension, Director H. H. Bennett of the interior department's soil erosion service has issued a statement declaring that the ravages of wind erosion not only can be curbed but are being curbed, by 'man-devised weapons.'

"About six months ago the service established a wind-erosion project in the Texas Panhandle near Dalhart. Last month it was swept by an intense dust storm that lasted three days. Following the storm, the project's director made thorough inspection of the tract under his charge. 'None of our field work was damaged where it had been completed,' he reported to his Washington chief, 'and very little damage is apparent even on incomplete jobs.' This proof of the effectiveness of the erosion-control measures, under drastic test by recent storms, convinces Mr. Bennett that it is 'entirely possible and practicable to curb the menace of wind erosion.'

"The service has similar projects, he adds, in Eastern Colorado and Central South Dakota and plans the establishment of others. In those already set up, he explains, agronomists, agricultural engineers, soil experts and other specialists are employing and testing 'every known method of wind control in a completely balanced program of correct land treatment.' Among the methods listed are conservation of rainfall, the planting and protection of vegetation to 'anchor' the soil, stoppage of the annual 'burnovers,' prevention of overgrazing, terracing and 'contour tillage.' What they are doing, it appears, is to correct the 'man-made' mistakes whose repetition year after year opened the way for erosion and bred the 'dust storms.' Mr. Bennett notes in passing that the planting of trees as windbreaks, where there is sufficient rainfall to support them, 'contributes materially to erosion control'."

All of which sounds mighty well, but we're ready to gamble that the sandstorms will be with us, as Shakespeare said, "late and soon"!

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"But sandstorms are not all Littlefield and Lamb county can boast of," the Cowhand says in the County-Wide News. "Tuesday morning the sun came out as bright as any spring day and as this part of the paper (the second section) goes to press, most everybody has almost forgotten the discomforts of the sandstorms."

"Mrs. Irvin St. Clair is telling it around town that she actually saw rain and sleet while in Dallas last week," Elder Jess Mitchell reports in the Muleshoe Journal. "Some of the younger generation didn't know what she meant by the words 'sleet' and 'rain,' while some of the adults are still wondering if this good lady was drinking something she shouldn't while away from home."

"Some folks don't know when they are well off," W. R. Scott points out in the Olton Enterprise." Just think of the poor cattle tick that Uncle Sam has deprived of grazing facilities."

"And you think the world is a cold sort of place, do your share to warm it up by showing friendliness to your town's people," H. H. Weimbold suggests in the Sudan News.

"It is better to appreciate things one cannot have, than to have the things one can not appreciate," H. G. Richards says in the Anton News.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

ALL of the thorns in President Roosevelt's crown fail to protrude directly from the hatband. So far the White House confers the Thistle Rampant on Huey Long and his Senatorial colleagues for temporarily refrigerating the New Deal program, but barbs are beginning to fester elsewhere into potential troubles with a tall T.

Personal and personnel jealousies in the assorted government agencies aren't helping FDR onward a bit. The last AAA shake-up, which saw Secretary of Agriculture Wallace sorrowfully toss out half a dozen Young Liberals who thought they were safe under the wing of Undersecretary Rex Tugwell, was only a tip-off to the dissension in the ranks of the official family.

Operating efficiency has gone by the board in several of the important departments and emergency agencies largely because so-called Brain Trusters and old line employes are more interested in finding out who's boss than they are in working out the President's problems.

GUESSERS: NRA, now under Senate scrutiny, is a fine example. It stagnated from the time General Hugh Johnson got the axe but since S. Clay Williams' resignation as Board chairman was announced the Blue Eagle has gone into a virtual coma.

Until Williams went back to private life seven men jointly were trying to fill the shoes of the outspoken Johnson—including Walton Hamilton, Sidney Hillman, Arthur Whiteside, L. C. Marshall, Leon Henderson and Blackwell Smith.

If NRA workers could be persuaded to talk for publication they would tell you there have been seven different streams of personnel allegiance running down through the agency. Minor officials, clerks, stenos and even office boys have been wondering who would come out on top and most of them have made a frantic guess, figuring a joo's a job these days.

FRICTION: Sources close to the White House predict NRA will return to one-man rule. It never would have been placed in the hands of a board had not that been the least embarrassing way to ease Johnson out. General warning was given at the time that divided authority wouldn't work.

Similar conditions to a somewhat lesser degree exist elsewhere. In tomorrow's column underground friction in the Department of Commerce will be discussed.

CCC: Looking well into the future, Robert Fechner, Director of Emergency Conservation Work, is about to ask Congress for legislation that will prevent the CCC army from becoming a constant public liability some years hence.

Members of the House Appropriations committee first took the matter up with Fechner when the director appeared before an executive session considering the new CCC appropriation.

Some of the Congressmen had visions of a CCC Legion five or six years from now which would be pressing for compensation just as the war veterans have lobbied for continuing government payments. Fechner agreed this was a very serious phase of the whole forest army movement, and revealed to the committee that the War department was much concerned about what might develop.

PRECAUTIONS: The forest general since has taken the question up with officials of the War, Interior, Agriculture and Labor departments, they being the ones concerned with CCC.

What Washington visualizes as a possibility is a flood of claims at some future date that illness or incapacity was traceable indirectly to forest camp work. At present, the 300,000 CCC boys are under the U. S. Employes' Compensation law, plus an amendment specifically restrictnig compensation to cases of injury and illness that could be directly proven to have resulted from their CCC service.

But Fechner and veteran members of Congress want it tightened up still more. They want to make it impossible for a man who contracts tuberculosis, for instance, five years after his discharge to claim it came from the Battle of 1935.

NOTES: The Senate is away behind on appropriation bills. . . . There's talk now of restricting NRA codes to purely interstate businesses. . . . Commissioner Collier hopes to get a slice of work-relief funds with which to build Indian schools. . . . Congressmen worried over threatened strikes are reassured by Detroit automobile magnates—they say they are safe. . . . Ther inflation bloc is holding mysterious meetings.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

ON the surface the official allocation of a mere $100,000,000 for rural electrification in the work-relief program looks like a lovely break for the utilities. It seems to indicate that the government is tapering off its plan to compete with private companies in a hurry. But the power boys aren't doing any premature celebrating.

Their eyes are glued to a large-sized joker in the deck—the provision that $800,000,000 of work-relief funds can be switched from one category to another at the President's discretion. It looks to them as if they are being granted a reprieve during good behavior. One leader says: "I regard the small electric appropriation as a premium for docility."

But that doesn't mean the industry is going to be docile. Power interests are enormously elated at their success in mobilizing security holders against the holding company bill. They feel that the tide has swung in their favor at last — and intend to ride it to a finish regardless of concealed clubs.

TOOTHLESS: Utility men can't quiet figure whether Robert E. Healy of the Securities and Exchange commission is friend or foe. His proposal to amend the holding company bill to allow "sound" groups continued existence looks like an important concession in their favor—but they're leery of New Deal agents bearing gifts. It's noted that the life or death decision would be in the hands of the commission—and that prospect doesn't appeal at all.

There will certainly be no rush on the part of utility interests to call off their hounds and let the amended bill slide through unchallenged. They figure they have the administration backing water and intend to press their advantage. Many leaders feel the bill can be killed outright—and that's the primary objective now. Failing that, the hope is to compel Congress to perform an act of dentistry which will leave a high-sounding piece of legislation as toothless as a month-old babe.

Don't lay any bets that they won't get away with it. Now that they've gotten into the furnace room they'll give a sweet demonstration of how to turn on the heat.

RAILS: New York experts have done a lot of figuring on what will happen if the Interstate Commerce commission approves the railroads' application for higher freight rates. They dope it that the average increase in gross revenue would amount to about 5 per cent.

But the carriers specialising in coal would gain to the tune of about 8 per cent. That's ironic.

AIM: The motor industry is watching for a strike in the body plants in the near future.

This would be in line with the Federation of Labor strategy recently mentioned here which aims to tie up the whole industry by calling out a comparatively few workers. The body men are better organized than most of the others—and it's obvious that there isn't much point to building chassis if no bodies are forthcoming.

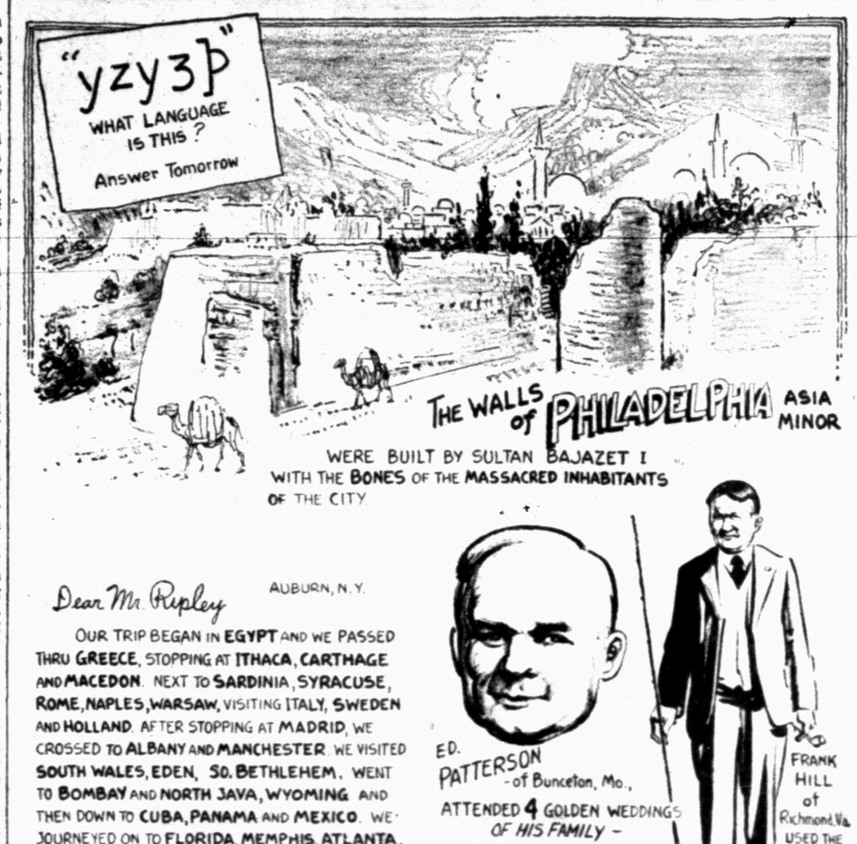

Insiders understand that the chief union objective is the "check-off"—whereby employers deduct union dues in advance from their workers' pay and hand them over to union treasuries.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Trench has proof, now, that he was not the murderer of John Osborne—and he needed it, because although he had been acquitted of the deed, many believed he was guilty. And Molly O'Brien, whom Nick loves, has found the valuable formula Osborne had stolen from her. But they have a fresh problem—how to escape from Peter Orloff, Bolshevist spy who will stop at nothing to get the formula. Molly, Jerry Mordaunt, their friend, and Nick are boarding Jerry's yacht.

Chapter 45

It was only a short pull-forty yards at the utmost—but with the spray splashing over us at every stroke we were all four drenched to the skin by the time we got on board.

George, who was waiting for us on deck, heralded our approach by a chorus of staccato barks, his enthusiasm culminating in a frantic attempt to lick each of our faces in turn as we climbed up over the side.

"What about a hot drink and a mouthful of biscuit straight away?" suggested Jerry, "I could do with it for one, and Heaven knows when we shall get another chance."

"I'll put the Primus on," Jimmy wriggled out of his dripping mackintosh. "You'd better 'ave this back now, sir. You'll be wanting it if we're going out amongst that lot."

He disappeared briskly through the cabin door, and after a meditative glance seaward Jerry turned to us.

"Of course," he observed, "miracles do happen occasionally, but somehow or other I don't altogether like the look of this one. Seems just a little too good to be true."

"I've the same pleasant feeling myself," I admitted.

"We're in for something—that's certain—and, what's more, it won't be long in coming. Now they know we've got the formula . . ." He broke off. "How's the shoulder, Nick?"

"None too gay," I replied. "Still my left arm's sound enough."

He nodded. "That's something. I can manage all right for the present, but if we have to clear out in a bit of a hurry, I shall want you to stand by for the tiller."

"What are you going to do?" I inquired.

"Just get things ready. It will be another forty minutes at least before the bar's really safe, but there's no harm in making a few preparations. You two stay here, and for the love of Mike, keep your eyes open."

He left us abruptly, and, moving forward into the bows, started to haul in the slack of the anchor chain. Down below, through the open door of the cabin, I could hear Jimmy pumping up the Primus.

"I'd give a lot to know what's happened to our dear friend Orloff," I said. "Where do you suppose he was making for when he slipped off from the factory?"

"I've been trying to work it out," Molly sat down beside me on the wet cabin top. "I believe he meant to go back to the boat. He'd finished with us—at least, so he thought—but that was no use unless he could get rid of the others too.

"I don't know how he was going to do it I expect he had some cunning and horrible plan to make it look as if we'd all been killed in the explosion. Anyhow, he certainly wouldn't waste time. He'd already sent one of his men to watch the farm, and . . ."

"But when he found we'd escaped," I broke in, "why didn't he finish us off then? What chance should we have had against a crowd of armed toughs?"

She shook her head. "It's got to look like an accident, Nick. After all this isn't Russia. You can't shoot down four people and just leave their bodies lying about on the marsh. Why, even now, when he knows . . ."

"Listen!"

I gripped hold of her wrist, and for a tense second we both sat there in breathless silence. Through the moaning of the wind, from somewhere far away up the creek, came a faint, unmistakable sound. It was the purring spit of a marine engine.

"Hear that?" With the swiftness of a cat Jerry was back again beside us. "A ten-hourse Kelvin from the sound of it. Chuck off those ropes, man, and get hold of the tiller. If we're not out of this quick, it's all up with us."

He was gone again in a flash, and for two minutes of feverish activity the world seemed to consist of soaked canvas and recalcitrant knots.

I was dimly conscious of the crash of the anchor, and the wild fluttering of a rebellious jib; then, tiller in hand, I found myself crouching forward on the wet counter, while foot by foot Jerry hauled up the struggling mainsail.

"That's all right. Let her come."

Round we swung, heeling over to our lee gunwale, and taking in a rush of water that surged furiously up the deck.

With only one arm at my disposal, it was as much as I could do to battle against the force of the gale. Something like a red-hot gimlet seemed to be boring vigorously into my damaged shoulder, and every wave that slapped against our bows sent a shower of stinging spray into my eyes.

Through it all the menacing throb behind us grew clearer and clearer.

"I can see them now, Nick. They're just coming round the bend."

Molly's voice was as steady as

One Fatally Hurt In Clovis Crash

CLOVIS, N. M., March 12. (Spcl.) One woman was fatally injured and her husband and two-month-old daughter seriously hurt in a traffic crash on a down town street corner here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Lloyd Francis were driving east on Grand avenue, with their two children, Charlene, two months old and Jeanne, five, when a taxi cab owned by Malcolm Hall and driven by Harvey (Pete) Danklefs, crashed at the corner of Grand and Fencher streets. There were two women in the taxi. Mrs. Francis was holding the infant in her lap. Mrs. Francis died Monday, 36 hours after the crash. She was thrown through a car window.

Conflicting stories were told about the speed of the taxi as it entered the street.

Chief of Police Virgil Dunn announced a drive on speeders, saying hereafter all violators would be picked up.

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION, No. 69

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

"At last!" cried the High Priest. "This time, O Tarzan of the Apes, you know the fury, not of the Flaming God, but of Cadj, the man. And that, immediately." He raised the sacrificial knife above his head. Beyond the point of the knife Tarzan saw the summit of the courtyard wall. Just surmounting it was the head and shoulders of a mighty, black-maned lion. "Jad-bal-ja," shouted Tarzan, "KILL! KILL!"

Cadj hesitated, his knife poised on high. He noted the direction of the ape-man's glance and followed it. In that instant the golden lion leaped to the pavement and, with two mighty bounds, was upon the High Priest of Opar. The knife clattered to the floor and the great jaws closed upon the horrid face. The lesser priests who had seized Tarzan and had remained to witness his death, fled screaming from the scene.

Now remained only Tarzan and Jad-bal-ja and the body of Cadj within the sacrificial chamber. "Come, Jad-bal-ja," commanded the ape-man, "let no once harm Tarzan." . . . An hour later the victorious forces of La were over-running the ancient palace and temple of Opar. The priests and warriors who had survived eagerly surrendered. Now at La's command, the city was searched for Tarzan and Cadj.

Thus La, herself, leading a searching party, entered the sacrificial courtyard. The sight that met her eyes brought her to a sudden stop. For there, bound upon the altar, lay Tarzan of the Apes. Standing above him, his snarling face and gleaming eyes glaring directly at her, was Jad-bal-ja, the golden lion. "TARZAN!" shrieked La, running toward the altar. "Cadj has had his way at last. Tarzan is dead!"

Many In South Are On Relief

Section Requires Less Than New York State Alone, Late Figures Show; 1,162,502 In Dixie Receive Help

ATLANTA, March 12. (AP)—Federal relief funds are feeding 1,162,502 families in the 14 southern states, figures just released in Washington by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins revealed today.

The figures, detailing expenditures for January, showed further that the cost of relief in the South was perhaps the lowest of any section of the nation.

Costs Relatively Low

Total cost of maintaining the southern indigents was $29,883,330, smaller by more than $2,000,000 than the relief costs in New York state alone.

The number of families cared for in the South and the amounts expended were made public as follows:

	Families	Amount
Arkansas	77,548	$1,749,052
Louisiana	42,556	2,371,709
Oklahoma	139,640	2,782,157
Texas	252,844	6,010,544

traveling in about five automobiles at the time.

Mackie, a native of Marshall county, had returned from Holly Springs, Miss., Saturday night when he stopped his automobile in front of a store at Slayden.

The officers said Young had been drinking and was shooting across the road.

"Stop that shooting, or you will kill somebody," they said Mackie warned. The officers reported the negro fired in the direction of the highway employe. Mackie fell, mortally wounded. The negro escaped under the fire of a group of men.

He had not been apprehended by officers when located by the mob at Rosseville today.

Dr. Nolan said he was inclined to the belief a "malfunction of the parathyroid or pituitary glands causes this strange reversal of calcium deposits. But to say that Bocklet is growing a tail, while it might make good reading, is hardly the case."

Stocks

BY FRANK MacMILLEN

WALL STREET REPORT
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 12. (AP) — Security markets still appeared shaken today. Further wide swings in cotton before it steadied, and a resumption of weakness in the pound sterling were unsettling.

Stocks were able to hold a fairly even keel throughout most of the day, but late pressure found takers scarce and leading issues declined fractions to around 3 points or so, with a few metals and specialties losing 4 to 5.

Volume was moderately accelerated, passing the million share mark at 1,046,280, for the first time in a week. The substantial offerings in late dealings pushed the Associated Press average for 60 stocks off .5 of a point to a new low for 1935 off 39.2. The average is now only .3 of a point above the 1934 low point of 34.9.

Bonds gave ground along with equities. Secondary loans lost fractions to around a point or so for the most part, and even the best grade issues were mildly easier.

Cotton finally ended the session down 35 cents a bale to a cents higher, after declining as much as $3 at one time. Wheat and corn, however, appeared to have regained a modicum of stability, finishing virtually unchanged.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 12. (AP)—Cotton futures closed from 3 to 6 points lower today after a session of uncertain price movements that had active positions down $2.50 a bale at one time.

Today's trading, while active, provided a quiet aftermath to the wild gyrations of the previous session when cotton lost $5 a bale on the average.

Old crop positions gave the poorest performance, May closing at 10.48, and July at 11.03, while in the new Dec. at 10.80 and Oct. at 10.81 were net unchanged to 6 points lower.

In a very quiet market with sales totaling 140 bales, spots closed 10 points lower at 11.18 for middling.

Liverpool is due to open 2 to 8 penny points lower tomorrow

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 12. (AP)—Yesterday's sensational break was followed by nervous and irregular fluctuations in cotton today, with futures ending the session 7 points lower to 1 higher.

May contracts after selling off from 11.06@11.23 broke to 10.76, then rallied to 11.10 and closed at 11.03.

Active months showed net gains of 13 to 20 points during the morning on the covering and trade buying promoted by the extent of yesterday's break and reassuring reports from Washington indicating no change in the administration's cotton program, but this advance met a renewal of liquidation and prices broke 30 to 40 points from yesterday's closing quotations, after which the market became less active and recovered partially.

Cotton Loan

ever, it was said that any such statement would come from Secretary Wallace or one of his aides. But at the AAA, officials said nothing of the kind was contemplated.

Officials instead asserted that any announcement at present regarding a loan policy would be premature.

Smith, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, said he would ask a senate investigation into the precipitate break in cotton prices.

Allred Asks Further Broadening Of Relief

AUSTIN, March 12 (AP)—Terming the situation acute, Governor James V. Allred today asked federal relief authorities to permit $500,000 sent to Texas for seed loans to be used also for feed loans. Allred said many farmers would have to borrow money for feed before they would be able to make crops.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 12. (AP)—Fluctuating erratically with each shift in nervous sentiment, grain prices backed and filled over a narrow range today while traders watched numerous signposts for a hint as to which direction to take.

Wide movements of cotton prices unsettled the grain trade. There was much concern as to the action of cotton and securities. Bearish sentiment, which seemed to rule most of the session, was supported by reports of heavy rains in the Ohio valley and moderate precipitation as far west as the Panhandle.

Trading ended with wheat 1-2 cent lower to 3-8 higher than the previous close, May 93 1-4@93 1-2, while corn was 1 1-4 down to 1-2 up, May 79 1-8@79 1-4. Oats lost 1-8 to 3-8, rye 5-8 to 1 1-4, and barley was unchanged to 2 cents off.

At the low, May wheat, July and September corn and oats, all rye deliveries and May barley were only fractions above season's bottom prices established yesterday. May wheat and corn closed about four cents below week ago figures.

Corn and oats for the most part followed the action of wheat. Provisions had an easier undertone.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, March 12. (AP) — Moderate demand was reported here for grain Tuesday. Receipts were only: Wheat 3 cars, corn 10, oats 1, barley 1, and cane seed 1. Prices quoted:

Calm Follows Coughlin Talk

Quietness Almost Vocal With Threat, However, As Word-Hurlers Expected To Erupt In New Flareup

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 12. — A widening cleavage between Father Coughlin and Senator Long was seen today in the latest renewal of the spectacular battle of epithets between them, on one side, and General Hugh S. Johnson on the other.

For the most part, priest and senator preach the same economic doctrines, but on one point, taking their words at face value, they were widely apart today. That point was the question of supporting President Roosevelt.

Long Uses Chances

Long has lost no opportunity to lambast the administration with accusations of broken promises to redistribute the nation's wealth. Coughlin last night renewed and reaffirmed his 1932 slogan of "Roosevelt or ruin."

This followed a long period in which the supposition by many here was that the priest was rapidly nearing a position of outright opposition to the administration.

There was speculation without verification as to whether the White House had been in touch with Coughlin since Johnson's first speech attacking him and Long, and it was pointed out that the refinancing move announced at the treasury over the weekend was in conformity with Coughlin's views.

Johnson To Lead Campaign

Meanwhile, Johnson preparing to return to the attack in the immediate future "with plenty to say", went into seclusion awaiting, he said, a popular call to lead a nation-wide campaign" to exterminate" the influence of senator and cleric.

He denounced them jointly last night as:

"Political termites" — "economic shysters" — "public enemies number one and two"—after Coughlin had assailed him as a "political corpse" —"braggart"—"Chocolate soldier"—"distorter of history"—"perverter of logic."

Long had his say in a radio speech following the first by the general, in which he described the former NRA head as the "late, lamented, pampered ex-crown prince."

He was up and down all day in the senate, talking about the pending work-relief bill, but said nothing about the Johnson assault.

NEXT STOP—DO, RE, ME

CLEVELAND, O. (AP) — Crooning conductors may be in demand here if the street car company takes to heart some of the suggestions its patrons are making. Vexed by the rasping tones of the local street-callers, some of the citizens are complaining; and the traction company has asked clients to say whether they like their stops called sweet and low, or loud and clear.

Texas Masons Plan Big Celebration On 100th Anniversary Of First Meeting

(By The Associated Press)

GALVESTON, March 12. — The 100th anniversary of the first Masonic lodge meeting in Texas will be celebrated Saturday, March 16, at Brazoria, Tex. The event will be in the nature of a basket picnic. Most worshipful grand master of the grand lodge of Texas, John H. Crooker, will deliver the principal address. Talks also will be made by T. J. Holbrook on "Early Masonry and Its History" and by William McCraw, attorney general of Texas.

Six members, including Anson Jones, first Masonic head, comprised the first Texas Masonic lodge. They met beneath a live oak tree which still stands in the town of Brazoria and has been named the "Masonic Charter Oak." The tree was so named because under its limbs on a day in March, 1835, the Masons, headed by Anson Jones, passed proper resolutions and signed proper application forms for a charter for a Masonic lodge.

Members Listed

The members of that first lodge were Anson Jones, John H. Wharton, Asa Brigham, A. E. Phelps, Alexander Russell and J. B. Caldwell. The petition was sent to New Orleans, where, after some delay, a charter was granted by John H. Holland, most worshipful grand master of Louisiana, for Holland lodge No. 36, indicating there were only 35 other Masonic lodges in Louisiana.

Four of the six members named officers were: Anson Jones, worshipful master; Asa Brigham, senior warden; J. P. Caldwell, junior warden and A. E. Phelps, treasurer. After receiving its charter the lodge met in the second story of the old Brazoria courthouse. It began active work in December, 1835, and the officers named served until the close of its activities. The lodge and Brazoria were abandoned when the Mexican war started.

Records Destroyed

Urrea's army took possession of the place and confiscated and destroyed the records and jewels of the lodge. The members were scattered, Wharton, Phelps and Jones joining the Texas troops on the Colorado.

Holland Lodge never was reopened at Brazoria. In October, 1836, however, Anson Jones and some other Masons reopened it in Houston.

Lodges soon were organized at Nacogdoches and San Augustine. In 1837-38 the grand lodge of the Republic of Texas was formed and these lodges then withdrew their allegiance to the Grand Lodge of Louisiana and affiliated with the Grand Lodge of the Republic. With the organization of the Grand Lodge of the Lone Star republic, Holland lodge became Holland lodge No. 1, Milam Lodge of Nacogdoches No. 2, and the lodge of San Augustine became known as Redland lodge No. 3. Gen. Sam Houston presided over the Masonic convention from which the grand lodge resulted and Anson Jones was chosen as the first grand master.

Today close to 1,000 Masonic lodges exist in Texas.

CURE FOR SWELL HEAD

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — If you have any conceited turkeys in your barnyard, feed 'em alfalfa, say experts at University of California agricultural school here. Discovery has been made that a disease called "swell head" frequently affects turkeys who do not have enough of that plant for food. An eight per cent level of high quality alfalfa is required, findings show.

Senate Favors Vote On Booze

Legislature Would Be Given Right To Exercise Monopoly And Status Of Counties Up To 1919 Recognized

other than the premises where sold. The legislature would be authorized to exercise a state monopoly in liquor, a feature a dry bloc unsuccessfully demanded be made mandatory in event of repeal.

Counties dry by local option when prohibition became effective in 1919 would remain dry until voters approved a change. The amendment also would preserve the local status of 3.2 beer, legalized in Texas two years ago. It would permit future local option elections on both the type and alcoholic content of liquor to be legalized.

Content Not Specified

Traffic in beer and wines would be regulated by legislative act, as at present. The proposal did not differentiate, however, between alcoholic content of those types now limited to 3.2 per cent.

Likewise, the legislature would have authority to invoke additional restrictions on traffic in spiritous liquors, medicated compounds capable of producing intoxication, or intoxicants manufactured in whole or in part by distillation.

Ballot Fight Fails

The ballot proposed would state "for" or "against" and amendment "repealing statewide prohibition and providing for local option" and to delay the vote until the November, 1936, general election were killed.

While both houses decisively rejected proposals to make a state monopoly mandatory, the pending issue before the house was a socalled compromise to require a monopoly only for hard liquors. It was rejected by the senate, 16 to 8 with one pair.

Small Sounds Warning

Small counselled anti-prohibitionists that defeat of his compromise would endanger repeal, predicing Texans would not vote outright repeal for "they want some restrictions written in the constitution."

The original submission resolution, introduced by Moore, would have left determination of control to the legislature. Senators Blackert, Hopkins, Shivers, and Stone signed the original.

Many In South Are On Relief

Section Requires Less Than New York State Alone, Late Figures Show; 1,162,502 In Dixie Receive Help

ATLANTA, March 12. (AP)—Federal relief funds are feeding 1,162,502 families in the 14 southern states, figures just released in Washington by Administrator Harry L. Hopkins revealed today.

The figures, detailing expenditures for January, showed further that the cost of relief in the South was perhaps the lowest of any section of the nation.

Costs Relatively Low

Total cost of maintaining the southern indigents was $29,883,330, smaller by more than $2,000,000 than the relief costs in New York state alone.

The number of families cared for in the South and the amounts expended were made public as follows:

	Families	Amount
Arkansas	77,548	$1,749,052
Louisiana	42,556	2,371,709
Oklahoma	139,640	2,782,157
Texas	252,844	6,010,544

Negro Lynched

traveling in about five automobiles at the time.

Mackie, a native of Marshall county, had returned from Holly Springs, Miss., Saturday night when he stopped his automobile in front of a store at Slayden.

The officers said Young had been drinking and was shooting across the road.

"Stop that shooting, or you will kill somebody," they said Mackie warned. The officers reported the negro fired in the direction of the highway employe. Mackie fell, mortally wounded. The negro escaped under the fire of a group of men.

He had not been apprehended by officers when located by the mob at Rossville today.

said to be definitely reversing the evolutionary process.

Dr. Nolan said he was inclined to the belief a "malfunction of the parathyroid or pituitary glands causes this strange reversal of calcium deposits. But to say that Bocklet is growing a tail, while it might make good reading, is hardly the case."

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, March 12. (AP)—The cattle run at 11 markets totaled around 26,000 against 41,357 the corresponding day last year. Generally strong to extremes 25 higher prices prevailed in slaughter steers and yearlings compared with Monday's levels. The maximum gain was noted on short fed kinds at river points. Other killing classes of cattle ruled firm to slightly higher except cows at Chicago which sold barely steady. Cattle returning to the country are finding an outlet at unchanged figures. At Chicago 14.00 was scored on 1353 lb. steers while prime 1147 lb. weights made 13.75 at Kansas City. Replacement stock at the latter market ranged largely from 6.00@8.00.

A downtown of around 10 to 20 featured the hog trade although supplies are sharply under last year's figures. Better grade butchers at St. Louis cashed from $9.60@9.75, the latter figure being the day's best price.

At Chicago and Omaha fat lambs sold 10 to 25 lower while most other principal markets reported the trade unestablished at a late hour with indications lower. Sheep went unchanged with only a fair clearance made. Feeding classes went at steady to 25 lower rates with the full loss at Omaha. Choice fed westerns topped the Chicago market at 8.85.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, March 12. (AP)—Hogs 1,000; truck hogs steady; top 9.50, paid by packers; bulk choice 180-270-lb. truck hogs 9.40@9.50; packing sows steady, mostly 8.00.

Cattle 1,300; calves 600; market mostly steady on all classes cattle and calves; several loads plain killing steers in 7.00@7.85 forced; few sales slaughter yearlings 7.75@9.50; one load good fat cows 6.00; stocker market practically nominal; fat calves 7.50@8.35; plain weight averages around and under 6.50, choice vealers 8.00@9.00.

Sheep 900; good shorn fed lambs 7.50; shorn fat yearlings 6.00; wooled lambs, yearlings and 2-year-old wethers 6.75; feeder lambs 5.00@6.00.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, March 12. (AP)—Fluctuating erratically with each shift in nervous sentiment, grain prices backed and filled over a narrow range today while traders watched numerous signposts for a hint as to which direction to take.

Wide movements of cotton prices unsettled the grain trade. There was much concern as to the action of cotton and securities. Bearish sentiment, which seemed to rule most of the session, was supported by reports of heavy rains in the Ohio valley and moderate precipitation as far west as the Panhandle.

Trading ended with wheat 1-2 cent lower to 3-8 higher than the previous close, May 93 1-4@93 1-2, while corn was 1 1-4 down to 1-2 up, May 79 1-8@79 1-4. Oats lost 1-8 to 3-8, rye 5-8 to 1 1-4, and barley was unchanged to 2 cents off.

At the low, May wheat, July and September corn and oats, all rye deliveries and May barley were only fractions above season's bottom prices established yesterday. May wheat and corn closed about four cents below week ago figures.

Corn and oats for the most part followed the action of wheat. Provisions had an easier undertone.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, March 12. (AP) — Moderate demand was reported here for grain Tuesday. Receipts were only: Wheat 3 cars, corn 10, oats 1, barley 1, and cane seed 1. Prices quoted:

Calm Follows Coughlin Talk

Quietness Almost Vocal With Threat, However, As Word-Hurlers Expected To Erupt In New Flareup

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 12. — A widening cleavage between Father Coughlin and Senator Long was seen today in the latest renewal of the spectacular battle of epithets between them, on one side, and General Hugh S. Johnson on the other.

For the most part, priest and senator preach the same economic doctrines, but on one point, taxing their words at face value, they were widely apart today. That point was the question of supporting President Roosevelt.

Long Uses Chances

Long has lost no opportunity to lambast the administration with accusations of broken promises to redistribute the nation's wealth. Coughlin last night renewed and reaffirmed his 1932 slogan of "Roosevelt or ruin."

This followed a long period in which the supposition by many here was that the priest was rapidly nearing a position of outright opposition to the administration.

There was speculation without verification as to whether the White House had been in touch with Coughlin since Johnson's first speech attacking him and Long, and it was pointed out that the refinancing move announced at the treasury over the weekend was in conformity with Coughlin's views.

Johnson To Lead Campaign

Meanwhile, Johnson preparing to return to the attack in the immediate future "with plenty to say", went into seclusion awaiting, he said, a popular call to lead a nation-wide campaign" to exterminate" the influence of senator and cleric.

He denounced them jointly last night as:

"Political termites" — "economic shysters" — "public enemies number one and two"—after Coughlin had assailed him as a "political corpse" —"braggart"—"Chocolate soldier"— "distorter of history"—"perverter of logic."

Long had his say in a radio speech following the first by the general, in which he described the former NRA head as the "late, lamented, pampered ex-crown prince."

He was up and down all day in the senate, talking about the pending work-relief bill, but said nothing about the Johnson assault.

Stocks

BY FRANK MacMILLEN

WALL STREET REPORT
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 12. (AP) — Security markets still appeared shaken today. Further wide swings in cotton before it steadied, and a resumption of weakness in the pound sterling were unsettling.

Stocks were able to hold a fairly even keel throughout most of the day, but late pressure found takers scarce and leading issues declined fractions to around 2 points or so, with a few metals and specialties losing 4 to 5.

Volume was moderately accelerated, passing the million share mark at 1,046,380 for the first time in a week. The substantial offerings in late dealings pushed the Associated Press average for 60 stocks off .5 of a point to a new low for 1935 of 36.2. The average is now only .3 of a point above the 1934 low point of 34.9.

Bonds gave ground along with equities. Secondary loans lost fractions to around a point or so for the most part, and even the best grade issues were mildly easier.

Cotton finally ended the session down 35 cents a bale to 5 cents higher, after declining as much as $3 at one time.

Wheat and corn, however, appeared to have regained a modicum of stability, finishing virtually unchanged.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, March 12. (AP)—Cotton futures closed from 3 to 8 points lower today after a session of uncertain price movements that had active positions down $2.50 a bale at one time.

Today's trading, while active, provided a quiet aftermath to the wild gyrations of the previous session when cotton lost $6 a bale on the average.

Old crop positions gave the poorest performance, May closing at 10.68, and July at 11.03, while in the new Dec. at 10.80 and Oct. at 10.81 were not unchanged to 6 points lower.

In a very quiet market with sales totalling 140 bales, spots closed 10 points lower at 11.18 for middling.

Liverpool is due to open 3 to 6 penny points lower tomorrow.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 12. (AP)—Yesterday's sensational break was followed by nervous and irregular fluctuations in cotton today, with futures ending the session 2 points lower to 1 higher.

May contracts after selling off from 11.06@11.23 broke to 10.98, then rallied to 11.10 and closed at 11.03.

Active months showed net gains of 13 to 20 points during the morning on the covering and trade buying promoted by the extent of yesterday's break and reassuring reports from Washington, indicating no change in the administration's cotton program, but this advance met a rush of liquidation and prices broke 20 to 40 points from yesterday's closing quotations, after which the market became less active and recovered partially.

Cotton Loan

ever, it was said that any such statement would come from Secretary Wallace or one of his aides. But at the AAA, officials said nothing of the kind was contemplated.

Officials instead asserted that any announcement at present regarding a loan policy would be premature.

Smith, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, said he would ask a senate investigation into the precipitate break in cotton prices.

Allred Asks Further Broadening Of Relief

AUSTIN, March 12 (AP)—Terming the situation acute, Governor James V. Allred today asked federal relief authorities to permit $500,000 sent to Texas for seed loans to be used also for feed loans. Allred said many farmers would have to borrow money for feed before they would be able to make crops.

Texas Masons Plan Big Celebration On 100th Anniversary Of First Meeting

(By The Associated Press)

GALVESTON, March 12. — The 100th anniversary of the first Masonic lodge meeting in Texas will be celebrated Saturday, March 16, at Brazoria, Tex. The event will be in the nature of a basket picnic. Most worshipful grand master of the grand lodge of Texas, John H. Crooker, will deliver the principal address. Talks also will be made by T. J. Holbrook on "Early Masonry and Its History" and by William McCraw, attorney general of Texas.

Six members, including Anson Jones, first Masonic head, comprised the first Texas Masonic lodge. They met beneath a live oak tree which still stands in the town of Brazoria and has been named the "Masonic Charter Oak." The tree was so named because under its limbs on a day in March, 1835, the Masons, headed by Anson Jones, passed proper resolutions and signed proper application forms for a charter for a Masonic lodge.

Members Listed

The members of that first lodge were Anson Jones, John H. Wharton, Asa Brigham, A. E. Phelps, Alexander Russell and J. B. Caldwell. The petition was sent to New Orleans, where, after some delay, a charter was granted by John H. Holland, most worshipful grand master of Louisiana, for Holland lodge No. 36, indicating there were only 35 other Masonic lodges in Louisiana.

Four of the six members named officers were: Anson Jones, worshipful master; Asa Brigham, senior warden; J. P. Caldwell, junior warden and A. E. Phelps, treasurer. After receiving its charter the lodge met in the second story of the old Brazoria courthouse. It began active work in December, 1835, and the officers named served until the close of its activities. The lodge and Brazoria were abandoned when the Mexican war started.

Records Destroyed

Urrea's army took possession of the place and confiscated and destroyed the records and jewels of the lodge. The members were scattered. Wharton, Phelps and Jones joining the Texas troops on the Colorado.

Holland Lodge never was reopened at Brazoria. In October, 1836, however, Anson Jones and some other Masons reopened it in Houston.

Lodges soon were organized at Nacogdoches and San Augustine. In 1837-38 the grand lodge of the Republic of Texas was formed and these lodges then withdrew their allegiance to the Grand Lodge of Louisiana and affiliated with the Grand Lodge of the Republic. With the organization of the Grand Lodge of the Lone Star republic, Holland lodge became Holland lodge No. 1, Milam Lodge of Nacogdoches No. 2, and the lodge of San Augustine became known as Redland lodge No. 3. Gen. Sam Houston presided over the Masonic convention from which the grand lodge resulted and Anson Jones was chosen as the first grand master.

Today close to 1,000 Masonic lodges exist in Texas.

CURE FOR SWELL HEAD

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — If you have any conceited turkeys in your barnyard, feed 'em alfalfa, say experts at University of California agricultural school here. Discovery has been made that a disease called "swell head" frequently affects turkeys who do not have enough of that plant for food. An eight per cent level of high quality alfalfa is required, findings show.

Senate Favors Vote On Booze

other than the premises where sold. The legislature would be authorized to exercise a state monopoly in liquor, a feature a dry bloc unsuccessfully demanded be made mandatory in event of repeal.

Counties dry by local option when prohibition became effective in 1919 would remain dry until voters approved a change. The amendment also would preserve the local status of 3.2 beer, legalized in Texas two years ago. It would permit future local option elections on both the type and alcoholic content of liquor to be legalized.

Content Not Specified

Traffic in beer and wines would be regulated by legislative act, as at present. The proposal did not differentiate, however, between alcoholic content of those types now limited to 3.2 per cent.

Likewise, the legislature would have authority to invoke additional restrictions on traffic in spiritous liquors, medicated compounds capable of producing intoxication, or intoxicants manufactured in whole or in part by distillation.

Ballot Fight Fails

The ballot proposed would state "for" or "against" and amendment "repealing statewide prohibition and providing for local option" and to delay the vote until the November, 1936, general election were killed.

While both houses decisively rejected proposals to make a state monopoly mandatory, the pending issue before the house was a socalled compromise to require a monopoly only for hard liquors. It was rejected by the senate, 16 to 8 with one pair.

Small Sounds Warning

Small counselled anti-prohibitionists that defeat of his compromise would endanger repeal, predicing Texans would not vote outright repeal for "they want some restrictions written in the constitution."

The original submission resolution, introduced by Moore, would have left determination of control to the legislature. Senators Blackert, Hopkins, Shivers, and Stone signed the original.

AAA Payments To Texas Big

One-Seventh Of Total Paid To Nation In Form Of Rentals And Benefit Payments Given Lone Star State

WASHINGTON, March 12. (AP) — More than $85,000,000—one seventh of the nation's total—has been poured into Texas by the agricultural adjustment administration in the form of rental and benefit payments.

An AAA tabulation revealed that $74,368,336.81 had gone to cotton growers, $8,211,192.51 to wheat farmers and $2,645,977.77 to corn-hog producers. The cotton payments were more than three times as much as the next largest cotton-producing state, Mississippi.

Texas Gets Lion's Share

On the other hand, administrative AAA expenses of $2,942,077.17 in Texas represented less than one-thirteenth of the national total.

The county tabulation of payments through Jan. 31 included:

Lubbock Gets Big Amount

Lubbock county had received total payment of $1,494,722.77, the Associated Press reported.

Of that sum $1,427,548.39 had been for cotton, $26,960.16 for wheat, and $40,214.22 for corn-hogs.

Hale county's total was $975,191.29, distributed as follows: $503,038.02 for cotton, $437,675.61 for wheat, and $34,477.66 for corn-hogs.

Lions Get Chili, Spanish Dances

With Mexican dishes on the menu and Spanish dances as the entertainment feature, members of the Lubbock Lions club yesterday were given a taste of what they may expect at the International convention in Mexico City in July. The program was staged by the "On to Mexico" committee, of which H. C. Pender is chairman.

Mrs. Harry N. Roberts, who spent several months in Mexico, D. F., spoke in Spanish on customs of that nation. Her talk was interpreted by Mrs. William Helwig, who lived in the Mexico capital. The two agreed to assist Lions in gathering information about custom and usages in the southern republic.

W. D. (Windy) Watkins was program chairman. Pupils of Sophie Sproule Rogers and Mrs. Allen Ferrell, of Slaton, were presented. Mrs. Ferrell played piano accompaniment.

Corrine Cates and Barbara Hale, of Slaton, pupils of Mrs. Ferrell, in costume, danced a Spanish number. Misses Doris Peavy, Katrina Brewer and Maxine Odom, of Slaton, pupils of Mrs. Rogers, also danced.

V. H. Moore, second vice president, presided in the absence of President John D. Mitchell. District Governor E. L. Pitts gave "keys" to Robert H. Bean and H. C. Pender for having secured two new members each for the club.

Vice President Moore named a committee, headed by R. P. Reeds, to arrange for the program next Tuesday.

Two new members were received into the club, as was a transfer from Colorado.

Trophies Given Tech Judgers; Teams Leave This Week For Ft. Worth Show

Small keys, on one side of which are college seals, on the other, "presented to ..... member of International champion livestock judging team, 1934," were given members of the senior livestock judging team of Texas Technological college Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Aggie club in the college pavilion. A key, with "coach," substituted for "member" was given Ray Mowery, coach of the team. Roscoe Wilson, college director, made the awards.

Junior livestock judging team members and dairy cattle judges were introduced. They will leave the latter part of this week for Fort Worth to compete in contests of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show.

Members of the senior team are Homer Brumley, Cassey Fine, Herbert Davis, Lawrence Shipman, J. P. Smith and Henry Elder. Junior team members are Arvie Elliott, J. T. Henry, Lee McElroy, Howard Preston and W. B. Rogers. Dairy team members are Winburn McAlister, Arvie Elliott and Leldon Hudson.

The junior team will leave Thursday evening with Mowery and will judge Shropshire sheep on the farm of C. E. Hart near Decatur Friday morning in preparation for show contests. They will compete at the show Saturday, which is Lubbock day.

George Mahon, congressman from the 19th district, wrote to Mowery to wish him and the team "best luck in the contest." He congratulated the senior team on its successes and said he hoped the juniors would come out with honors.

The dairy cattle judging contest comes Monday. Two years ago at the show, the Tech team, the first the college sent there, won three cups, all that were given. It placed fourth last year. Dr. F. C. Harbaugh, coach of the team, who will leave with it Friday for Fort Worth, expects the team to win again.

The college team won first place in dairy cattle judging, a member of the team won first individual place, and members of the team won first in each contest in 1933.

The following students, who will accompany the teams to Fort Worth: Douglas Marshall, Ray Dunlap, Cleveland Littlepage, John Manning and Fred Elliott.

I did not kill Osborne

usual, and glancing back up the wind-swept creek, I had a momentary glimpse of our pursuing enemy. She was a powerful looking cutter, half as large again as ourselves, and in addition to her engine, she was forging along under every strip of canvas that she was capable of carrying.

"Thanks, old man. I'll take her on now. You get down into the well, Molly."

Jerry, who had already possessed himself of the tiller, slipped deftly into my place, and edging out of his way, I peered through the flying spume at the white-crested turmoil ahead of us.

"Looks ugly," he remarked, "but it's our only chance. Now they know we've got the paper those devils won't care a curse what happens. They'll shoot us down like rabbits, and then make for that ship of theirs."

I fished out the revolver which I had stuffed away into my side pocket. "They'll have to hurry," I muttered. "If they don't catch us before we reach the bar . . ."

"That's what I'm counting on," Jerry laughed grimly. "They must draw at least a couple of feet more than we do, and with any luck there's an almighty smash coming for somebody."

He eased off the mainsheet, and with the wind dead behind us, the Seagull heaved and smashed her way joyously through the on-rushing tide. "Better lie down, Nick," he added, "it would spoil all the fun if you got a bullet through your head."

His advice struck me as sound, and stretching myself out flat I looked back over the foaming wake which spread out in a broad fan astern. With the help of her engine the pursuing cutter was overhauling us rapidly.

In the bright light of the moon which now shone down through a gap in the cloud bank, I could see her crew of four as plainly as though it were daytime. One of them, a huge bareheaded fellow, who was steering, I recognized at once. It was my old acquaintance, the big Russian sailor.

With his bestial features and enormous breadth of shoulder he looked for all the world like some monstrous ape, but it was on the man who was crouching motionless beside him that my eyes instinctively riveted themselves.

A cold blast of hatred went through my heart as I stared at that still sinister figure. He sat there, bent slightly forward, his face a white mash in the moonlight. Except for the slight swaying of his body as the ship rose and fell, he never stirred or varied his position.

Not more than a hundred yards now separated us, and every moment the roar of the sea as it pounded against the bar became louder and more strident.

Twisting myself around, I took a glance forward over the plunging bobstay. Directly ahead of us the line of breakers that stretched from shore to shore was broken by a narrow strip of dark, swirling water.

On each side of this, over the crest of the ridge a white maelstrom boiled and bubbled, while here and there patches of black sand still showed amongst the frothing turmoil.

Cardui Brought Improvement

Because she was subject to pains, nervousness, irregularity, and began to feel so weak, Mrs. Retta McDonald, of Stearns, Ky., began to take Cardui. She writes: "Cardui is fine. I could see an improvement right off. I took about eight bottles. I am lots better. I am over the weakness and my head and back do not bother me now."

Who Favors This Process?

As applied to milk for direct consumption, pasteurization should mean a process of heating every particle of milk to a temperature not lower than 142° F for not less than 30 minutes. The process is then followed by rapid cooling. Bell Milk is pasteurized, as the germs are then killed . . making this product absolutely safe for you.

Pasteurization is at present favorably regarded by most medical men, sanitariums, dairymen and consumers, but the use of the process has not been developed over night. Objections to pasteurized milk have been based upon pure theory, or upon experiments in which milk was heated at extremely high temperatures. Modern methods are accepted by millions more each year. —Adv.
