Allred honored for years

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Top executives of Phillips Petroleum Co. and local friends honored Jimmie Allred at a luncheon Thursday at the Hereford Country Club.

Allred was honored for 50 years as a Phillips jobber and distributor. He is one of only four Phillips distributors in the history of the company to receive a 50-year award.

Allred was presented with a 50-year service pin and an appreciation plaque by Bob Wallace, Phillips president.

"When you look back, 1938 was not a great year to go into business," Wallace said. "There are not that many jobbers or marketers who have been in business for 50 years. You are a true pioneer, and when you look at all of the changes and transitions over the past 50 years, this is an even bigger accomplishment."

"I hope your company and our company are both around for 100 years."

C.L. Bowerman, vice president of marketing for Phillips, presented Allred with pictures of Frank Phillips' 66th birthday celebration, which Allred attended in 1939. Allred's second year in business.

"I am delighted to be a part of this celebration in Hereford," Bowerman said. "You have done a lot of great things in Hereford, and I am very delighted with our association with Allred Oil Company over the years."

pany over the years." Mike Carr, executive vice president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, presented Allred with a plaque honoring Allred for his 50 years of service and affiliation with the chamber.

"The chamber was formed 75 years ago with the intention of making Hereford a better place to live," Carr said. "Hereford, Texas is one of the most progressive places in the world, and it's because of the strong support of you and your company that we are so progressive."

"It hasn't all been easy, and it hasn't all been hard, but it's all been fun," said Allred. "I deeply appreciate all of these honors. I can't express my appreciation in words, but I deeply appreciate all of this from the depth of my being."

Another part of the special day was a gasoline special at the company's Save-a-Dollar location at Park Avenue and Avenue A in Hereford. Hundreds of cars lined up to take advantage of a special "sale." Gasoline was sold for 66 cents a gallon to vehicles that had lined up between 3 and 3:50 p.m.

Woman found shot in home

Renee Manning, a 32-year-old Hereford woman, was found shot to death at her residence at 237 Northwest Drive Thursday evening.

Deaf Smith County Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine is waiting for autopsy results to rule on Manning's death.

The Hereford Police Department and an ambulance crew from Deaf Smith General Hospital found Manning lying in a bedroom closet with a gunshot wound below the left rib cage. A rifle with blood on it was laying next to her.

Darwin Manning, her estranged husband, said in police reports that Renee was to have been at her sister's house, but when he called the sister, she said Renee was not there.

Renee Manning was a nurse for Deaf Smith General Hospital. DSGH employees have established an educational fund for Manning's children, Ryan and Darci, at The First National Bank in Hereford.

Funeral services are expected to be held in Renee's hometown, Deming, N.M.

Queen winner searched roots

Delinda Hernandez, 16, talked her way into winning queen of the Fiestas Patrias Saturday with a slide show and speech explaining the past, present and future of the Mexican-American woman.

This was quite a change from past Fiestas Patrias queen contests in Hereford. In past contests, the amount of money collected by each contestant, rather than knowledge, presentation and beauty, was the deciding factor.

The queen contest always has been a highlight of Fiestas Patrias, a celebration commemorating Mexico's independence from Spain on Sept. 16, 1821, and Hernandez will be crowned Sept. 16 at the San Jose Catholic Church.

The Rev. Darryl Birkenfeld of San Jose Catholic Church, who organized the contest, said the former contests focused on money raised rather than the Mexican-Americans' heritage.

"The queen contest was always a way to raise money for the church sponsoring the contest during the '60s and '70s," Birkenfeld said. "But the Mexican-American story was not being told, so we decided that this year each contestant should pick a theme on Hispanic culture, research it, write a paper on it and present it before five judges."

Hernandez not only presented her paper, but slides and music accompanied the presentation, including a slide of her grandmother who was in the audience.

"I talked to about nine Mexican-American women and two of them

Crash victims: Losses were manifold

DALLAS (AP) — A young couple who had just adopted a young daughter, a newlywed about to celebrate his birthday and an elderly couple exalted for their community work were among the 13 victims remembered the day after the crash of Delta Flight 1141.

The Tarrant County medical examiner positively identified all the victims Thursday morning. All had died of smoke inhalation and some were burned beyond recognition.

While relatives and friends of the 95 people who survived were calling the crash a miracle, loved ones of the 13 victims made funeral arrangements.

The first funeral service for crash victims was scheduled for today for Thelma and Philip Vogel of Dallas. The couple dedicated their lives to philanthropic ventures.

Mrs. Vogel, 67, was the founder of the Dallas Jewish Coalition for the Homeless. The agency, which brought together more than 25 Jewish organizations in the city, raised about $200,000 to renovate a downtown building to provide a day-care center for children of the homeless.

Philip Vogel, 69, a certified public accountant, was a past president of the Jewish Community Center and a member of several Jewish organizations.

Dallas Mayor Annette Strauss, who worked to get the shelter open, said she was saddened to hear of the Vogels' deaths. "They were just real fine people and they both did a lot of good for the community," Strauss said.

A funeral for the couple was scheduled at 1 p.m. today at Shearith Israel in Dallas.

One of the victims, Jerry Scott Owen, had recently accepted a new job. The 29-year-old Sanger resident and his second wife Linda Corbett Owen, were to celebrate their first anniversary in November.

"There was tremendous opportunity for a man of his potential," said Richard Stevenson, a vice president of Chicago-based Waste Management, Owen's employer. "He seemed very sincere, very religious and soft-spoken."

Barbara and Patrick Morgan of Richardson were high school sweethearts in Eugene, Ore., and married in 1980.

The two were flying with their adopted daughter to visit friends in Missoula, Mont., when they died Wednesday. "He was just a number one citizen," said Morgan's stepfather, Pat Nelson of Eugene, Ore.

Funeral services for the family were scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday in Roseburg, Ore., 70 miles south of Eugene.

Frank and Jean Nix and Edmond Fadal had all gotten out of the plane before they realized that Marian Fadal was still trapped in the blazing fuselage, a Fadal relative said. Fadal, suffering serious burns, tried to re-enter the plane to save his wife, but was restrained by Nix because of the intense heat and smoke.

Mrs. Fadal, 65, died in the crash.

Fadal, 63, was listed in critical condition Thursday with burns over 55 percent of his body. Frank Nix, 66, and Jean Nix, 64, were both listed in fair condition.

Funeral services were scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday in Waco.

Also killed in the crash was Miller Browne, 55, of Dallas, who was on his way to a vacation in Montana. "He loved to fly, it didn't bother him at all," Evan Browne said of his father.

Glenn and Jennifer Campbell, of Joshua, were on the way to Montana to visit his sister. "Yesterday was so awful, not knowing," said Krista Howell, who worked with Mrs. Campbell. "Today, we've all just been wandering around. We are just... We just can't believe it."

The only members of the plane's crew killed were flight attendants Roslyn Deanne Marr, 43, and Dixie Dunn, 56. Ms. Marr had flown with Delta since 1965. Ms. Dunn was with the carrier 33 years.

Funeral service will be at 6 p.m. Friday at Restland Funeral Home for Ms. Marr.

Ms. Dunn's service was scheduled for Saturday at 2 p.m. at Northway Christian Church.

Local Roundup

Flood watch through tonight

A flash flood watch is in effect for all of the Texas Panhandle through tonight. We have a 40 percent chance of showers tonight with a low of 58. East-northeast winds will be 5-15 mph.

Saturday will be mostly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of showers and a high of 75. Northeast winds will be 10-20 mph.

The rest of the Labor Day weekend will be partly cloudy with highs near 80 and lows near 60.

This morning's low at KPAN was 61 after a high Thursday of 76. Hereford officially received .03 inch of rain in the past 24 hours.

Police report criminal mischief

The Hereford Police Department reported that two tires were slashed at a Hereford club on Thursday. Damages were estimated at $140.

A pickup was scratched at a car dealership in the 100 block of Miles Street, causing $250 in damages; a .38-caliber revolver worth $140 was stolen from a western wear store in the 200 block of Main Street; a woman filed assault charges on her husband in the 900 block of Schley Avenue; and $235 worth of cassette tapes were stolen from a vehicle in the 100 block of Pecan Street.

Ten citations were issued and one minor accident was reported.

County arrests six

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office arrested a 27-year-old man on a bench warrant; a woman, 40, on charges of theft by check; a 17-year-old boy was arrested on unauthorized use of a motor vehicle warrants from county court; a man, 36, was charged with criminal mischief; a 47-year-old man was jailed for driving while intoxicated and two 34-year-old men were arrested on bench warrants.

Western fires threaten holiday

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Meteorologist Milo Radulovich crawls out of his pup tent each morning at 4 to see if the weather will bring any relief to firefighters working in the scorched pines of Yellowstone.

But the prognosis, here and across much of the under-dry West, is bleak on the eve of Labor Day weekend after a drought-plagued summer that has produced the most devastating fires in the park's history.

"We're dead in the water through the 10th of September," Radulovich said Thursday.

He picked up a national weather chart and pointed toward the Pacific. No major storms were in sight to bring moisture to the parched forests of Wyoming and Montana, and temperatures were expected to be above normal, perhaps in the 90s, for at least the next five days.

The only bright spot: Calm winds were expected, which could limit the spread of flames.

The weather outlook means more long days for firefighters battling six major blazes in Yellowstone, which have charred more than a half-million acres of the 2.2 million-acre park this summer.

Yellowstone reopened its south gate Thursday for the first time in almost two weeks, meaning all five park gates were usable. All park roads also were open, though officials said worsening fire conditions could cause temporary closures.

Elsewhere in the West, fires continued to burn woodland and brush in Montana, Utah, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and California.

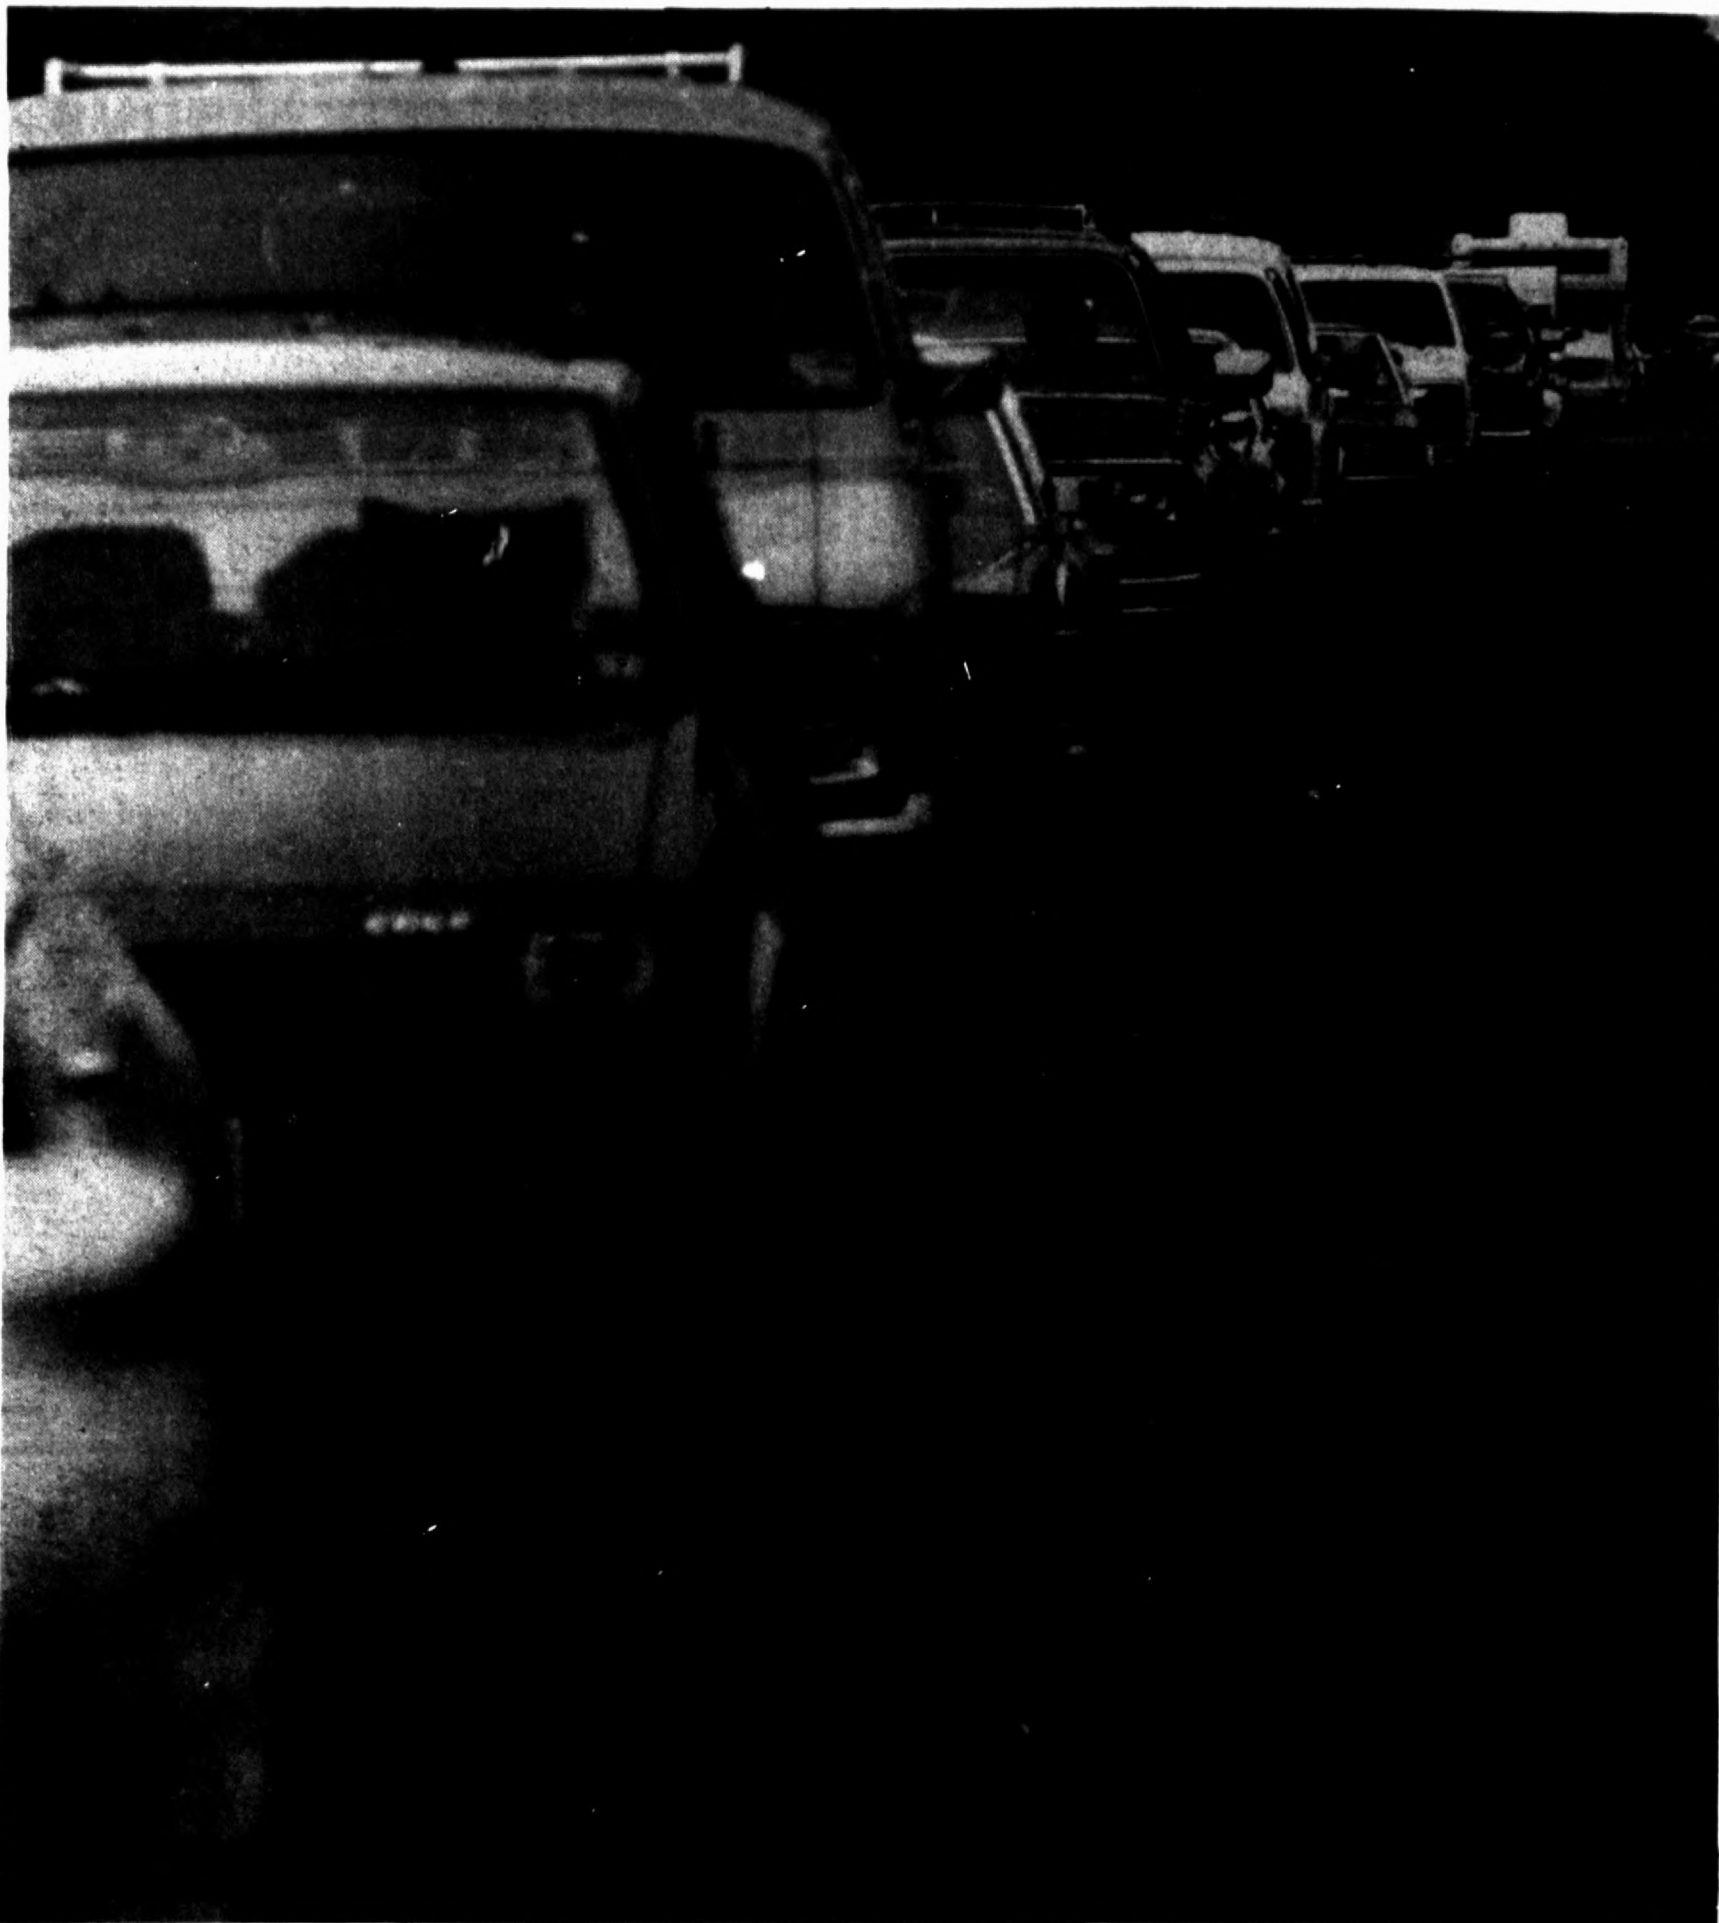

Weather determines if a fire will crackle quietly along the forest floor or rage explosively through the tree tops. Forecasters like Radulovich try to keep firefighters a few steps ahead of Mother Nature.

Gasoline line

No, it's not like the gas lines of the mid-1970's: 400 cars waited in line for a chance to buy gasoline at 66 cents a gallon during a special celebration by Allred Oil company in Hereford on Thursday. Cars on line between 3 and 3:50 p.m. were allowed to buy up to 30 gallons of gas at the special price in conjunction with the local company's 50 years of affiliation with Phillips Petroleum Company. The last vehicle to fill up waited until 6:30 p.m.

Environmentalists courted by Bush

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Democrat Michael Dukakis says George Bush flunked his entrance examination to become the "education president," while the vice president invoked the name of Teddy Roosevelt to court environmentalist voters and blamed Dukakis for befouling beaches.

Both presidential candidates took advantage of the timely concerns — the opening of school and a summer haunted by the specter of waste-strewn shorelines — to go after voters before the official Labor Day opening of the campaign season.

"While they've invested billions in Star Wars, we've developed a regional network of star schools," Dukakis said Thursday in California while contrasting his achievements as Massachusetts governor with the inaction of the Reagan administration.

"Where was the man who now says he wants to be the 'education president'?" Dukakis said in Oakland. "He was playing hooky. He was nowhere to be found."

He charged the Reagan administration has eliminated remedial math and reading programs for 500,000 poor children, cut teacher retraining, and "led an assault on college loans and grants."

He said that in Massachusetts he had quadrupled scholarship assistance to low- and middle-income students and invested in Professional Development Centers to help teachers update their skills.

The Reagan administration sought cuts in the remedial programs in 1981 but was unsuccessful. In an April 1988 report, the Education Department said the number of children in remedial programs had dropped from 5 million in 1979-80 to 4.5 million in the 1985-86 school year.

Dukakis was planning to continue that emphasis during appearances today in Portland, Ore., and Spokane, Wash.

Bush, after a rally Thursday into Dukakis' backyard, where he charged the governor failed to act swiftly against pollution in Boston Harbor, continued his campaign as a "lifelong environmentalist" on the Delaware and New Jersey shores. Dukakis called Bush's newfound commitment an "election-year conversion."

Along with winning the crown, Hernandez received a $500 scholarship from San Jose Catholic Church.

"We'll give this to the queen each year because this will build self-esteem in the girl. It puts the contest's purpose on education and not on fund raising," Birkenfeld said. "This is what the people have been moaning about, the fact that there was no emphasis on history and where the Mexican-American people came from. It's a powerful heritage."

QUEEN

Valle, still had to raise money. Each girl had to raise $1,500 to qualify.

Hernandez raised most of her money by selling tamales, sponsoring a dance and sponsoring concession stands at church bingo games.

Hernandez' mother, Dolores, said, "When they contacted us and asked Delinda if she would like to be a contestant, I said 'Definitely not,' because in the past they've had to raise so much money and that's just too much trouble. But when I found out the format changed, I told her to go ahead."

Furr's looking at becoming cafeteria king with buy

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — To Michael Levenson, the all-American standby of the cafeteria restaurant occupies a perfect niche in the often volatile restaurant industry.

"It's not a juicier hamburger, it's not a faster pizza. It's not a fad," said Levenson, chairman and chief executive officer of Furr's-Bishop's Cafeterias Inc. "And it's a reliable stream of cash flow."

The cash-rich, low-debt balance sheets of the cafeteria segment drew Levenson to acquire Furr's-Bishop's and has made Dallas-based Wyatt Cafeterias Inc. his acquisition target for the past two years.

Levenson said Thursday he won't give up trying to buy Wyatt, but refused to specify his plans if his latest overture is rejected. The closely held company has revenues of about $190 million and 120 restaurants nationwide.

After first offering to buy the company in May 1986, Levenson made several bids for Wyatt. On Wednesday he sweetened his offer for Wyatt to $188.1 million in cash and securities from an earlier $179.3 million bid.

The latest $91.25 per-share bid came after Wyatt rejected Levenson's $87 per-share cash offer in favor of one from a Wyatt management-based employee stock ownership plan that would pay $84 per share.

Shareholders are scheduled to vote on the ESOP offer Sept. 6, and Wyatt management hasn't yet responded to the latest Furr's-Bishop's offer, Levenson said.

"If we don't get the Wyatt's deal that doesn't mean we're out of the business of buying cafeterias," said Levenson, who owns a small stake in Wyatt. "We're going to grow this company."

The cafeteria business captured the 38-year-old Levenson's attention after he bid unsuccessfully on companies such as Midland-based Texas American Energy, Aloha Airlines of Hawaii and Tesoro Petroleum Corp. of San Antonio.

Wing flap, engine thrust possible reasons for crash

Black box to give clues

GRAPEVINE (AP) — Investigators are pointing to possible problems with Delta Flight 1141's engine thrust and wing flaps before it crashed on takeoff, and they hope to get answers from the crew and their recorded cockpit conversations.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators said Thursday a flap indicator handle in the wrecked cockpit was found in the wrong position for most takeoffs, raising questions whether the plane's wing flaps were set properly.

Incorrectly set flaps led to the fatal crash of a Northwest Airlines flight last summer. The Delta Air Lines flight's indicator handle, however, could have been accidentally jarred during or after the crash, investigators said.

The Boeing 727 got no more than 30 feet off the runway at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport before it crashed Wednesday, witnesses told the NTSB. Thirteen people were killed.

Pilots in planes waiting on adjacent taxiways told investigators "a white flame or vapor" came from the left engine, said NTSB member Lee Dickinson.

A cockpit tape recording recovered from the burned wreckage revealed that the pilots talked about engine trouble seconds before the crash, he said.

Further reviews of the tape and of the flight data recorder were planned today at the NTSB's Washington laboratory.

The Delta jetliner crashed as it tried to take off for Salt Lake City with 108 people aboard. Ninety-five people survived the crash and resulting flames, most by escaping through emergency exits or torn-open areas of the fuselage. Thirty-three remained hospitalized Thursday.

Medical examiners said the 13 died from smoke inhalation. Many were trapped when an emergency door wouldn't open.

The plane's flight engineer, Steven M. Judd, told investigators that right after the plane took off the crew "began experiencing problems keeping the plane stable and in the air." The New York Times reports in today's editions.

"Just before the crash, there was some talk of engine problems," Judd added, according to the Times, which attributed Judd's statement Wednesday to an anonymous source.

Judd and the two other members of the cockpit crew remained hospitalized today. Investigators said they had not recovered sufficiently to undergo full-scale debriefings, but that they hoped to interview

First Officer Wilson Kirkland today.

Control tower personnel said the jet may have taken longer than usual to become airborne and that it may have lifted off at a sharper angle than is considered normal, the investigators said.

The flap handle, on the console between the pilot and the first officer, indicates whether the flaps are in the proper position to provide the lift needed for takeoff. Dickinson said the handle was found in the up position, opposite where it should be for most takeoffs.

But he said the handle could have been pushed into the wrong position by the impact or during the evacuation of the crew.

"It could have been kicked. It could have been moved. It could have been any number of things," Dickinson said.

Flight crews of nearby planes told investigators they had "no clear indication of the flap or slat positions," he said.

Federal investigators determined that the flaps and slats of a Northwest Airlines MD-80 were not properly set for takeoff when that plane crashed Aug. 16, 1987, at Detroit Metropolitan airport, killing 156 people.

Earlier, Dickinson told reporters the crew was warned of trouble by the "stick shaker," which rattles the jet's steering mechanism when a problem develops.

"This indicates the plane may be approaching a point where it won't be able to fly," he said. "Shortly after that, there was some conversation about an engine problem."

But he stressed that the warning could have stemmed from something besides an engine problem.

Dickinson said none of the jet's three rear-mounted engines showed signs of external damage, including the right one, which wound up separated from the fuselage.

"It is possible for an engine ... to belch out the rear something that would look to people like fire and smoke and yet to have no visible damage," said Bernard Loeb, deputy director of the NTSB's bureau of accident investigation.

All three of the JT-8D engines eventually will be removed and examined by their manufacturer, Pratt & Whitney of Hartford, Conn.

The same flight Thursday from Dallas-Fort Worth to Salt Lake City was aborted when the pilot detected a problem with his plane, another Boeing 727. Most of the 102 passengers, including six survivors of the crash Wednesday, left about two hours later on another jet, Delta said.

Pilot ignored own safety to help others

DALLAS (AP) — Pinned beneath the tangled debris of the Delta Flight 1141 wreckage, Capt. Larry Lon Davis guided passengers to safety with his calm instructions, ignoring his own need for help.

Airport firefighters found Davis, a 22-year Delta veteran, strapped to his seat after the Boeing 727 crashed on takeoff from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

"He was conscious and he was hurting," said Cpl. Bill Taylor, a DFW firefighter. After all survivors had left the plane, rescuers slipped a backboard underneath Davis and pulled him from the wreckage.

Doctors said Davis, 48, would undergo surgery for back injuries sometime during the next week. He remained in fair condition at Parkland Hospital late Thursday.

Thirteen people, including two flight attendants, perished when the jet lost power suddenly and bounced three times before skidding to a stop at the end of the runway and catching fire. However 95 people survived, with most escaping near the cockpit, which broke off from the fuselage and rolled slightly.

David Carmichael, a 35-year-old restaurateur from Monticello, Ark., said Davis told about 20 passengers to remain calm as they scrambled to get out of the plane near him.

"The pilot's seat back was broken so that he was lying flat on his back with all this debris on top," Carmichael said.

Pumpkin bars are 'making the grade'

A favorite back-to-school pastime of many youths is getting together after school with friends.

Somehow, the excitement and anxiety of how they're ever going to complete all those math assignments for Miss Quigley, or how that new boy in homeroom class is "just the cutest," or how tough cheerleader try-outs or football practice is going to be, are all the more special when shared with classmates.

What better way to enjoy these after-school talks than with some enjoyable, wholesome snacks? To give students energy-packed treats that taste as good as they are good for them, try Lemon Glazed Pumpkin Bars. These tasty bar cookies feature pumpkin, dates and nuts. The tangy lemon glaze adds just the right amount of sweetness.

In addition, these bar cookies offer nutritional value since pumpkin is packed with vitamin A-vital to healthy skin, eyes and bones.

This recipe makes 30 bars. Store any remaining bars in an airtight container or freeze for use later. Serve Lemon Glazed Pumpkin Bars with milk for a nutrient-dense snack which will "make the grade" with any youth.

LEMON GLAZED PUMPKIN BARS

(Makes 30 2x2 inch bars)

1 cup solid pack pumpkin
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 egg
1 cup sugar
½ cup oil
8 ounces chopped dates
1¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
1 cup chopped nuts
Lemon Glaze

Mix pumpkin with soda and set aside. In a large bowl, lightly beat egg; stir in sugar, oil and dates.

Combine flour, salt and spices. Add to date mixture alternately with pumpkin. Mix until blended. Stir in nuts.

Spread evenly in greased and flour-dusted 15x10x1-inch jelly-roll pan. Bake in 350 degrees F. oven for 15 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned.

Cool completely. Drizzle with glaze. Cut into 2x2-inch bars.

Lemon glaze: In small bowl, combine 1¼ cups sifted powdered sugar and two tablespoons lemon juice.

After school snack

Lemon glazed pumpkin bars are a tasty, wholesome snack perfect for after-school get-togethers. Youngsters can enjoy good flavor while eating this dessert that is packed with vitamin A.

Around the turn of the century, one Johann Husinger walked on his hands from Vienna, Austria to Paris, France—a distance of 871 miles—in 55 days.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The title of the Reverend Bruce Kochsmeier's sermon for the regular 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship service is "Openings." The Scripture is Mark 7:31-37.

Mission Yearbook: "I want a Christian religious department at the Zambia Broadcasting Services." These were the words of President Dr. Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia, Central Africa, a devout Christian and Presbyterian minister's son. Since that time in 1964, relevant Christian broadcasting has grown strong in Zambia and throughout areas of Africa that President Kaunda has encouraged. We are asked to pray for people like The Rev. Gunter Kaiser, a Presbyterian minister who serves as a consultant to the religious departments of government owned and operated broadcast stations in many African countries. Please lend your support to this important ministry.

Scripture for lunch bunch: Each Wednesday at noon offers an opportunity to get to know God's work. Bring your lunch and join us. Next week: I Corinthians 3:5-23.

Youth Group will not meet Sunday but will kick off the new school church year Sept. 11, with a cookout at Bruce and Nancy's.

Prayer Seminars: Set Friday evening Sept. 9, and all day Saturday, Sept. 10. Rev. Hugh White will conduct a "Prayer-Life Seminar" on how to pray in daily life. There is no charge, though a love offering will be taken. Register at the church office.

WESLEY UNITED METHODIST CHURCH (410 Irving)

Holy Communion will be observed at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday. Sunday school for all ages begins at 10 a.m. and the Rev. Derrel Evans presents special children's sermons each Sunday.

Beginning Sept. 11, the evening worship service will be held at 7 p.m.

The WUM Women will have a business meeting at 7 p.m. Sept. 12 and the WUM Men will meet for breakfast at 9 a.m. Sept. 11.

Anyone having aluminum cans to donate may bring them to the church or to the church parsonage.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The Children's Choirs and Missions Kick-Off for 1988-89 is planned from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the church Family Life Center. The event is for children four years of age through the sixth grade.

A church-wide forum with the youth search committee is set for 7:15 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 11.

Members of the Saints Alive Adult Sunday School Class are invited to a seminar from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 13, at High Plains Baptist Assembly in Amarillo. "...we specialize in home town loans!"

"Different financial institutions specialize in different kinds of lending...and here at our bank we specialize in the home town kind.

"That's right! We make home town loans to home town neighbors...putting local savings dollars right back to work here in Hereford.

"We don't take your money and buy many participations in big loans in the big markets...we don't send your money off to back some other community's economy...we still believe in loyalty to our neighbors and our home community.

"We still specialize in home town lending and we invite you to try some right here at our bank."

Hereford-Tascosa: Search for answers

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

It's a 5A team as loaded as it has been in years going against a 4A team that has more questions than answers.

When Tascosa and Hereford meet Saturday at 2 p.m. in Amarillo, Tascosa will be the team with the answers, Hereford with the questions.

"We're looking at it as a great challenge for our football team," said Hereford coach Don Cumpton. "Tascosa is huge: They're bigger than anybody else we'll play this year. They have a great quarterback, and they have a lot of people back from a team that was pretty good (6-3-1) last year."

Tascosa's top gun is quarterback Timmy Johnson.

"He's got a great arm, quick feet, and is the key to their team," Cumpton said. "If we do a good job of containment on him we can win."

"They run the Wing-T and unlike a lot of Wing-T football teams they revolve around their quarterback. He'll sprint out and bootleg and

WHO, WHAT, WHERE: Hereford at Tascosa, 2 p.m., Dick Bivins Stadium, Amarillo.

KEYS TO THE GAME: Hereford must keep QB Johnson contained, not give up the big play, and control the ball when Hereford's on offense.

HISTORY: The teams have played each other six times. Hereford has won all six.

WEATHER: There's a very slight chance of rain, with temperatures around 80 degrees. Wet field hampers both teams a little.

things like that. He's dangerous."

There are no small people on Tascosa's offensive front. Tackles Cory Mooneyham (6-7, 250) and Mike Maguire (245) are joined by guards Chris Jones (189) and Eric Folkner (218), center Destin Leinen (200), and tight end Oscar Shorten (200) to block for Johnson.

"Their defense isn't as big, but they still have good size," Cumpton said. "They play a lot like Amarillo High (who Hereford scrimmaged last Friday) and run the same basic scheme."

"Tascosa has two real active linebackers, an excellent defensive end and an excellent noseguard.

"And then there's Johnson back there in the secondary, and he's just as good on defense as he is on offense."

Another factor that might work against the Whitefaces is the time of the game: It's the first time since 1986 that Hereford has played in the afternoon.

"I don't know what we'll do playing in the heat of the day. I do know that we'll play well in front of a big crowd. Shoot, there oughtta be a big crowd. There are no pro games, the best college games are that night, there are no other high school games in the area. We should have a great crowd."

JV defeats Rebels, 7-0

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Jim Hillwig scored on a two-yard run early in the third quarter and John Malouf added the extra point to give the Hereford JV a 7-0 win over Tascosa at Whiteface Stadium on Thursday night.

The Whitefaces had to turn back two Tascosa threats in the second half, with an interception at the Hereford 15 in the middle of the fourth quarter and an interception by Alfonso Ramirez and the Hereford three-yard-line with 10 seconds to play after Ramirez had made a touchdown-saving tackle at the Hereford 15 just moments earlier.

"We did a great job on defense," said a relieved Hereford coach Ron Young. "They really rose to the occasion in the second half."

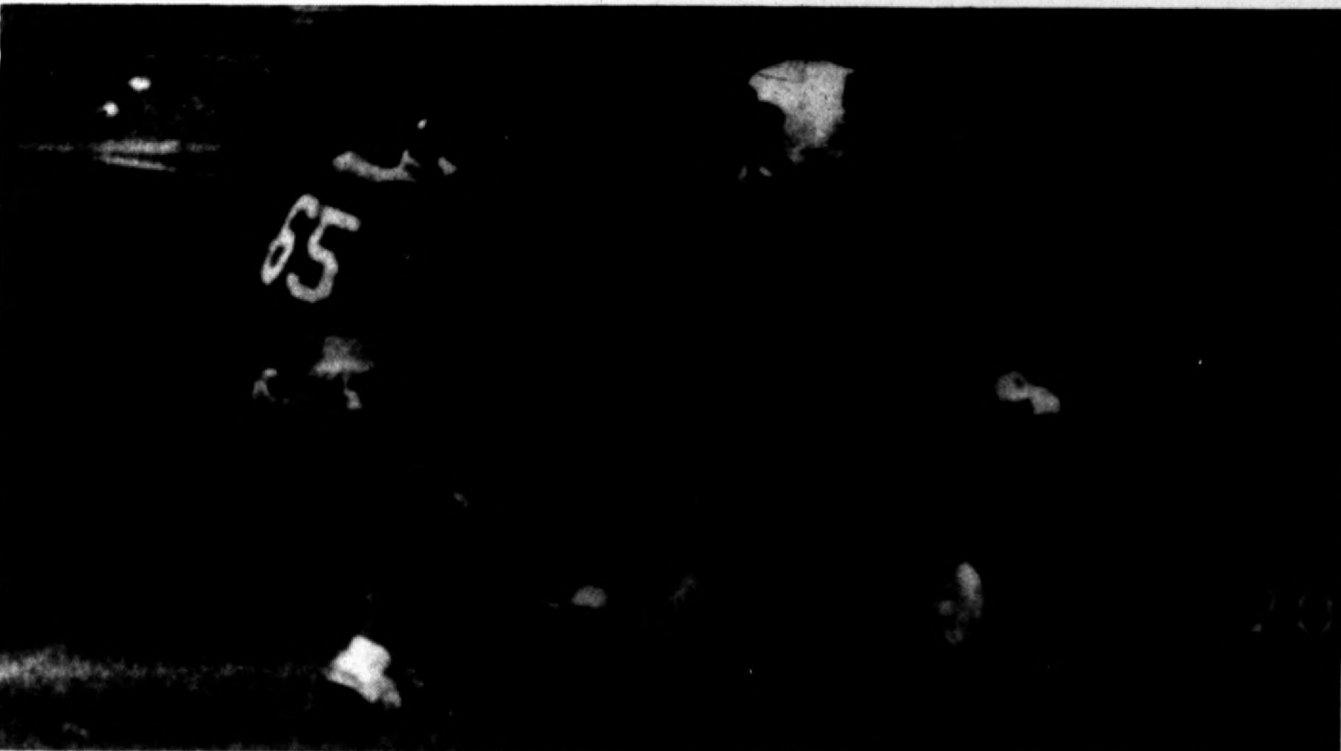

"We made some mistakes, but we were able to overcome those," said coach Stan Carter. "The defense was the star tonight."

Neither team threatened to score in the first half, but Larry Brown put Hereford in great shape by returning the second half's opening kickoff to the Tascosa 20. Hereford moved to the Tascosa 2 before having to settle for a field-goal attempt.

The snap sailed over the heads of holder Jason Walterschied and kicker Malouf, and Malouf fell on the ball at the Tascosa 25. But a personal foul call against a Tascosa player gave Hereford first-and-goal at the two, and Hillwig scored on the next play.

Hereford threatened again after recovering a fumble at the Tascosa 20 at the end of the third quarter, but a field goal try sailed just to the left of the goalposts.

Sack attack

As teammate Aaron Savage hovers over the pile, linebacker Cody Page rests atop the Tascosa quarterback after a sack at the Hereford 23 late in the Hereford-

Tascosa junior varsity game Thursday at Whiteface Stadium. Hereford won the game, 7-0.

Send-off rally planned Saturday

A send-off rally for the Hereford Whitefaces will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the parking lot of the fieldhouse at Whiteface Stadium. All fans are urged to attend.

Touchdown celebration

Hereford sophomores Shea Brannon (86) and Louis Mungia (9) rush to congratulate teammate Oscar Pesquada after Pesquada caught the winning touchdown from quarterback Chris Blair to give Hereford a 14-12 win over Palo Duro

Sophomores win, 14-12

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Down two touchdowns in the middle of the second quarter, the Hereford sophomore football team scored twice in the second half and added extra point kicks to pull out a 14-12 decision over Palo Duro in Hereford on Thursday.

In the third quarter, Stephan Banner scored on a 30-yard draw play up the middle and Amado Lopez kicked the extra point to bring Hereford within five points, 12-7.

With about two minutes left in the game, Oscar Pesquada out-fought a Palo Duro defender for a pass from quarterback Chris Blair in the end zone for the winning touchdown.

Member-Guest begins Saturday

Hereford Country Club's Member-Guest Golf Tournament gets underway Saturday morning with 31 teams entered in the annual Labor Day weekend event.

Steve Nieman and guest Ron Rogers of Lubbock won the team championship last year with a one-stroke victory over Ken Hagar and Tom Simons. A new championship team is assured since the winners will not be back to defend their title.

The teams play a low-ball format the first day and used a scramble score on Sunday and Monday. The fun tourney includes a number of prizes each day for players who get closest to the hole, longest drive, longest putt, and shortest drive on various selected holes. A Freeze-Out Derby is also held on Sunday when the best 10 scorers of the first day are teamed with the 10 worst scorers. Players hit alternating shots as the 10 teams tee off on the first hole and high scores are eliminated each hole until a winning team is determined.

Events at the country club include a breakfast for golfers Saturday, a cocktail party Saturday night, a buffet dinner Sunday, and a special breakfast Monday. Games for women are tentatively scheduled Sunday and Monday.

John Stagner is serving as tourney chairman this year.

King hopes for best

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals linebacker Emanuel King, under suspension by the NFL for violation of its substance abuse policy, says his main concern is the manner in which his teammates will accept what he has done.

"It hurts me in how my teammates are going to look at me, King said Thursday after he and cornerback Daryl Smith were suspended. "I hope they still look at me the same way as before."

The players were informed of the league action following practice Thursday. They will remain out of the Bengals' training facilities until Sept. 30 and will miss at least four games.

"It was a small amount. It was a really small amount," said King, a three-year veteran. "It really hurts a lot. I can't say too much about it."

Neither the league, the club or players involved would disclose the exact nature of the chemical abuse.

ADDRESS: 313 N. LEE

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	14	2.80
2 days per word	24	4.80
3 days per word	34	6.80
4 days per word	44	8.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALIS

Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:
Here are some facts on keeping those fresh-caught fish fresh and how to freeze them properly.

To retain freshness and flavor, fish must be properly cared for after they are caught. If you can keep the fish alive on a stringer or in a live box, then do so as long as possible. After gutting and cleaning your catch, rinse with fresh water and pat dry with a cloth or paper towel. Keep the fish fillets cool by packing them in ice.

Most sources recommend freezing fish for only three to six months. Fatty or oily fish, such as salmon, have a shorter freezer life because the oil in the fish can become rancid.

When freezing fish in a plastic bag, it's important to remove all the air. To do this, sink the closed end of the bag in water. The water pressure will force the air out the open end.

To thaw frozen fish, place the container (unopened) in the refrigerator and allow it to thaw for six to eight hours. Never thaw it in water or at room temperature. — Heloise

CREAM PIES
Dear Heloise: A neighbor and I have been discussing this issue for some time now and I thought I would write you for your input on the matter of cream pies. Should they or should they not be refrigerated?

I always refrigerate my cream pies until they are eaten (which usually takes only a couple of days). She, on the other hand, never refrigerates hers. I have told her that there is possibly a danger of food poisoning, but she says it has never happened. Please help shed some light on this!

— Mrs. K. Anderson, Cincinnati, Ohio
Prepared foods containing milk, eggs or milk products should be kept refrigerated to prevent food poisoning. It is OK for cream pies and pastries to be kept out while serving, but for storage it's a must to refrigerate them. It's not worth taking even the slightest chance. — Heloise

MIXING TIP
Dear Heloise: When a recipe says "fold" as in mixing cream cheese, sour cream or whipped topping (when both ingredients are white in color), add a drop or two of food coloring into one of the mixtures rather than trying to blend a white with another white.

This way you can easily tell when the two are properly folded together and you will prevent overmixing. — M.G., San Antonio, Texas

GREEN OLIVES
Dear Heloise: You no doubt know that often when you have opened a jar of olives, a scum will form on the top of the liquid if the jar's contents are not totally used shortly after opening. This can be prevented by placing a folded piece of plastic wrap directly on the liquid above the remaining olives. This will keep the air above the liquid from forming scum.

Being the sole enjoyer of a jar of olives in my home, this helps me preserve the contents until I have leisurely consumed the last of the delicious little "green guys." — Neva Grumbine, New Orleans, La.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a few months Elodie Armstrong will be 90 years old. Forty years ago she was diagnosed as having multiple sclerosis. Soon after, she wrote her personal commandments. Our local paper printed them on two occasions, and we are in the third printing for friends and acquaintances who would like a copy.

Elodie is a special lady, full of fun, spirituality and faith. She is an inspiration to all who know her. I would like to share her personal commandments with you in the hope that you will print them.—Marge Wisner (her daughter), Longview, Wash.

My Ten Commandments

Thou shalt not worry, for worry is the most unproductive of all human activities.

Thou shalt not be fearful, for most of the things we fear never come to pass.

Thou shalt not cross bridges before you get to them, for no one yet has succeeded in accomplishing this.

Thou shalt face each problem as it comes. You can handle only one at a time anyway.

Thou shalt not take problems to bed with you for they make very poor bedfellows.

Thou shalt not borrow other people's problems. They can take better care of them than you can.

Thou shalt not try to relive yesterday for good or ill—it is gone. Concentrate on what is happening in your life today.

Thou shalt count thy blessings, never overlooking the small ones, for a lot of small blessings add up to a big one.

Thou shalt be a good listener, for only when you listen do you hear ideas different from your own. It's very hard to learn something new when you're talking.

Thou shalt not become bogged down by frustration, for 90 percent of it is rooted in self-pity and it will only interfere with positive action.—Elodie Armstrong

DEAR ELODIE ARMSTRONG:

ASK DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 46 years old and in excellent health, but four months ago I started having seizures, always around 11 p.m. after I had been asleep awhile. The next morning I would wake up on the floor. They knocked me out of bed, but I thought I had had a great night's sleep. CAT scan, EEG and several blood tests were all OK. The doctor put me on Dilantin, and he mentioned it sometimes caused the gums to grow over the teeth and I would possibly lose my teeth.

I took the Dilantin for two months and had no seizures. Then the next month I stopped it because I didn't want to lose my teeth, and I had another seizure. This time I bit the tip of my tongue and didn't even know it. The doctor said I would need to take the Dilantin for a year or more. Is there any other medicine that won't harm my teeth? How can I sleep through a seizure and bite my tongue off and not know it? I hate to lose my teeth, but that would be no worse than biting my tongue off.

DEAR READER: There are many causes for epilepsy. It is really a symptom. Brain damage from any cause can result in subsequent seizures. One needs to look for such problems as a brain tumor, but in many cases, the actual cause is not found.

The seizure is really an electrical storm of the brain, activating many brain areas. The forceful muscular contractions that characterize the convulsion are caused by electrical activation of the brain cells that control those muscles.

During a grand mal seizure, the patient is anesthetized by the electrical storm, and the effects may persist for some time after the seizure is over. That is why you have the sensation of a deep sleep and why you would not be aware of biting the tip of your tongue or otherwise damaging yourself. It is important for people to know what to do for another person who is having a convulsion to minimize the danger of injury. I have discussed this in Special Report 55, The Many Faces of Epilepsy, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/55, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

You are excessively concerned about your gums growing from Dilantin. Proper dental care on a frequent basis can help prevent any problems that might arise from taking Dilantin. You don't need to lose your teeth because of the medicine at all. If your gums grow excessively, the dentist can even remove the excess growth. Dental hygiene is particularly important.

Yes, there are other medicines you could take, such as valproic acid. You should discuss this with your doctor. And many people who have seizures do not know that caffeine may increase seizures. I would suggest that anyone who has epilepsy should not drink any beverages that contain caffeine—coffee, tea, colas—and should avoid chocolate, which also contains caffeine.

Lastly, a recent report from London published in the April 14, 1988, issue of the New England Journal of Medicine showed that about two out of three patients who had been seizure-free for two years while taking medications were able to withdraw from the medication. But I hasten to add no one should stop their medicines except under the careful supervision of his or her doctor.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

What a splendid philosophy! Your positive approach has kept me young at 90. You are a terrific role model for the world's pessimists. They would do well to imitate your can-do spirit. Full speed ahead, dear lady!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please tell your readers what to do in case a tornado hits? Most people think they will never be caught in such a disaster, so they don't bother to get informed. Since weather patterns are changing all over the world, I believe it would be useful to have some guidelines, just in case. Thanks, in advance.—Kansas Ann Fan

DEAR KANSAS: Happy to oblige. Now listen carefully.

If it looks as if a tornado is coming your way, get in a safe place, which means away from windows, doors and walls that could collapse.

If you are at home, the basement is the safest place. If possible, make sure your head has a protective covering, such as a table or a sturdy shelf. A closet is also a good place to be or under a bed.

If you are caught outside, lie flat on the ground and cover your head with your arms. If you are in a car or mobile home, get out and lie flat on the ground.

If you are shopping, go to the lowest floor possible. Duck under a counter if you can find one.

Although most tornadoes occur in the spring, they can hit at any time.

Feeling pressured to go "all the way" because everyone else is doing it? You're not alone. For answers to your questions about sex, and to learn how your peers really feel about it, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager." Send $3 plus a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.
