'PLAINSMAN' IN INITIAL TRIP ON EXTENSION

Rich Farming and Ranch Country Invaded by New Train

MARKS NEW EPOCH

Floydada Celebration Tops Series of Spirited Demonstrations

By FRANK O. HALL
Staff Correspondent

FLOYDADA, Oct. 1.—The great South Plains territory of Texas, a region in which agricultural and ranching possibilities are almost unlimited, was invaded today by The Plainsman, new Quanah, Acme and Pacific train, the first to ever make a through run from Oklahoma City, Okla., to Floydada.

When the Q. A. and P. passenger train entered Floydada today noon, another chapter and very important one was written in the progress of this South Plains country. For the first time in history people of this section may have through passenger service to Oklahoma City making excellent connections for points eastward.

Crowds Greet Train

Puffing its way through four counties of West Texas, Hardeman, Cottle, Motley, and Floyd, some times passing farms and at other times going through miles and miles of ranching country covered with grass mesquite and sage, the Plainsman was greeted by large and enthusiastic crowds at every station.

Culminating the series of welcomes extended was the one in Floydada. Practically the entire populace of the city including 1,000 school children gathered at the tracks and cheer after cheer went up from the crowd as the two brightly painted engines and the 10 coaches came to a stop. The Floydada Municipal band under the direction of A. L. Lundgren and the local high school pep squad contributed materially to the noisy welcome. Presiding over the reception committees was E. C. Nelson, president of the First National bank of Floydada and chairman of the committee which handled the right of way matters for the Q. A and P. extension from Roaring Springs to this city.

Responses to Mr. Nelson's address of welcome were made by G. E. Hamilton, general attorney for the railroad company, R. A. Singletary, Oklahoma City, Judge C. Y. Welch, Quanah, R. N. Huckaby, Paducah, G. F. Stephens, Roaring Springs, C. L. Glenn, Matador, R. A. Underwood, Plainview, and J. E. Biggs, Amarillo.

SENIOR TEXAS SENATOR TALKS AT AUDITORIUM

Veteran Solon Stresses the Need of United Front In Campaign

'AL NEXT PRESIDENT'

Smith Victory Predicted Before Large Crowd of North Texans

Attacking the Republican administration of the past eight years as a "portrait done in oil," Morris Sheppard, senior U. S. senator from Texas, opened an extensive speaking tour at Memorial auditorium here Monday night by declaring that a return of the government to the common people, and not prohibition, is the issue of the presidential campaign.

A crowd of approximately 2000 people, many from out of town, frequently broke into uproarious applause as Senator Sheppard divided his time between an attack on the Republican administration and in urging and predicting the election of Alfred E. Smith of New York as the next president of the United States.

As one who throughout his public life had sponsored and supported prohibition legislature, he declared, he sees no inconsistency in his active campaigning in behalf of the Smith-Robinson candidacy.

He met the prohibition issue with the declaration that "a vote for Governor Smith is a vote for prohibition enforcement." As proof, he cited instructions given by Governor Smith to the New York state police that they were to assist federal prohibition officers in every way possible in the enforcement of the Volstead act.

"Smith's attitude resulted from a desire to center all the prosecutions in the one federal court," Senator Sheppard continued, in reference to the repeal by New York of its state prohibition measures.

Huge Liquor Seizure

The speaker added that Major Warner, son-in-law of Governor Smith, recently led the state police to perhaps the biggest liquor seizure in the history of New York state. The value of the contraband was reported to exceed $1,000,000, he said.

While the speaker's remarks were were greeted repeatedly by applause, the acclaim reached its greatest volume when Senator Sheppard deviated from his scheduled address to refer to a printed circular which listed seven questions. The circular, bearing the heading in type of large size, "Senator Shep-

LEE ROBERTS SHOT FATALLY, WIFE WOUNDED

Mrs. Allye E. Roberts Is in Hospital After She Is Shot Twice

AFFAIR AT HOME HERE

Man Turns Gun on Self After Woman Is Felled By Shots

Lee Roberts, 45, 2161 Avenue G, is dead and his wife, Mrs. Allie E. Roberts, is in the Hargrave-Walker hospital suffering from four bullet wounds as a result of a double shooting on the lawn of the Roberts home Monday afternoon. Mr. Roberts was a poultry and produce man whose place of business is at 502 Indiana avenue.

Mr. Roberts had been in Oklahoma on business and had returned home a short time before the shooting.

According to neighbors, there was an argument, and Mr. Roberts followed his wife out of the house to the front lawn where she was shot four times, once in the breast, once in each arm and once in the thigh. She may recover, hospital attaches say.

Roberts then turned the gun on himself and fired twice. Each bullet penetrated his heart. He fired with his right hand and used his left to guide the gun so that his left hand was powder burned on the inside.

R. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, returned a verdict of death by self inflicted gunsnot wounds.

Ellis Summers and Ralph Rohatch, officers investigating the affair, closed the house pending the inspection by the coroner.

Six Shots Fired

Officer Summers who recovered the revolver with which the shooting was done, said that all six chambers of the gun had been fired.

At the Merkle undertaking parlors, where Roberts was taken, it was said to be the only case within memory of the investigating officers where a man had the strength to fire a second shot after he had already been shot once through his heart.

Mrs. Roberts inquired from Officer Summers, as she lay wounded on the grass in front of her home awaiting the ambulance, if her husband was dead. On being informed that he was, she said:

"He was so sweet to me, but at times he was so foolish."

She also said, according to Officer Summers, that gossip without foundation had caused the fatal quarrel.

Two Children Survive

The Roberts' have two grown children who live at Davidson, Okla., D. Roberts and Ira Roberts. Mrs. Roberts also has a brother, John McClure, who works in a Davidson bank.

Local police notified the relatives in Oklahoma Monday night.

The Roberts came to Wichita Falls from Grandfield, Okla., where they had lived for many years. Both were well known to many people here and in Oklahoma.

They moved into the house on Avenue G this spring, and finally decided to purchase it a little more than a month ago.

A. W. Kimbrew, a student in Draughon Business college, witnessed the shooting from a window of a Southland street car on which he was riding.

Kimbrew related that Mrs. Roberts told bystanders after the shooting that her husband threatened to kill her.

Kimbrew said that he heard the shots and looked from the window of the car in time to see Roberts and his wife run from the house. Mrs. Roberts fell into a half sitting position beside a tree near the curb and her husband was lying on the lawn about 10 feet away.

She was conscious until the arrival of the ambulance and kept saying over and over, according to Kimbrew, that she did not know why her husband had shot her but that a negro had told lies on her.

She asked bystanders if her husband was dead and being told that he was she remarked: "Well, I guess I will be dead, too, soon but I wish that I could see my children again." and asked members of the crowd to telephone them, Kimbrew said.

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 1.—Predicting that Dallas county would give Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential candidate, a majority of 10,000 votes over the Democratic nominee, and appealing to the voters in this section to "save the Democratic party," Dwight Llewellyn, former district attorney of Dallas county, opened a series of anti-Smith talks in West Texas here tonight.

The regents decided that the first of three buildings contemplated will be a combination auditorium-gymnasium. A woman's building and student activities building are to be built later.

The auditorium-gymnasium is one of the structures in the proposed "student union" group, for which the ex-students' association is raising $550,000 by subscription, to be matched with funds by the regents.

Loafers Trek To Cotton Fields As Constable Opens Drive Here

Six arrests Monday afternoon closed the first day's skirmish between the constable's department and street loafers of Wichita Falls, according to Constable Frank Morgan, who opened warfare on vagrants Monday morning. All were negroes.

One of the men taken by Mr. Morgan and his deputies was released early Monday night but the other five were committed to the county jail to face vagrancy charges Tuesday morning.

Following Constable Morgan's announcement of warfare few loafers made their appearance on the city streets Monday morning, he said.

The constable advised all able bodied men out of employment to seek jobs in the cotton fields, to leave town or stay off the streets. The effectiveness of the advice, he said, was displayed when about 25 men, including white, negro and Mexican, were counted along the Seymour road Monday. He was informed that many of the hikers carried cotton sacks and all evidently were taking his hint.

Fraternity Pledge's Death Results In Regents' Call for Investigation

AUSTIN, Oct. 1. (AP)—The Texas university board of regents late tonight ordered an investigation of all fraternities and sororities at the school with a view to determining whether they shall be abolished or more strictly regulated.

AUSTIN, Oct. 1. (AP)—The Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity at the University of Texas decided unanimously today to invite a thorough investigation by the school faculty of the death of Nolte McElroy, 19-year-old pledge, by electric shock during fraternity initiation Sunday night.

The faculty had not acted on the request through the board of regents in regular meeting here today were considering the promulgation of new regulations concerning fraternity initiations.

District Judge Hamilton charged a grand jury today to investigate the case. District Attorney Moore, called to the scene by the fraternity last night, said the grand jury investigation would be in the nature of a formality. He and Dean V. L. Moore concurred in an expression that McElroy's death was purely unforeseen and accidental.

McElroy died at a hospital last night soon after fainting at the fraternity house when he started to wriggle between two sets of bed springs charged from a house electric light wire connected through a rheostat by which the 110 volt current could be reduced.

CRUSADER TO LEAD CLEAN-UP

'Judge' Monaghan, District Attorney, in Fight

Editor's note: Following is the first of three dispatches dealing with the chief personalities in Philadelphia's amazing crime situation. The dispatch will be followed by articles on Mayor Harry A. Mackey and Max (Boo Boo) Hoff, alleged "alcohol king."

By HILLIER KRIEGHBAUM

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1 (UP)—Known all his life as a crusader, District Attorney John Monaghan, has become the leading figure in the grand jury's investigation of Philadelphia's police corruption, bootlegging, and gang murders.

Because of the secrecy of the grand jury investigation, Monaghan has become the mouthpiece through which all evidence of police corruption or bootlegging has been given out.

Monaghan is an unmarried man in his sixties, short and stocky. His hair is thinning and turning grey. A healthy tan betrays his week-ends spent at Atlantic City with his unmarried sister, who keeps house for him. His dress is dark and always immaculate.

Successful Attorney

As a young man, Monaghan was a successful and prosperous attorney. Then he became a judge of common pleas court. He was appointed in June, 1916, by Governor Brumbaugh and was elected the following year for a full term. After serving in that position, he was elected district attorney.

To his friends and associates, the district attorney still is known as "Judge Monaghan." His manner is more like the popular conception of an august justice than the crusading district attorney who has the entire police force of a city of two million, trembling.

To Monaghan, the dope peddler is one of the worst curses of humanity. When any seller appeared in his court or now is prosecuted by Monaghan's office, he may expect no favors. He will use all his powers to see that the fellow is punished to the fullest extent possible.

Secured Convictions

It was in 1922 that Judge Monaghan began to hammer the illegal narcotic trade. Convictions came by the dozens. And again, two years later, it became known that prisoners in the state penitentiary were receiving narcotics. The judge demanded conditions be changed. A grand jury investigated and the traffic was stopped.

Now the "Judge" is carrying that same energy into his grand jury investigation of bootlegging and police corruption. All his time and energy is devoted to cleaning up conditions in Philadelphia.

In an address before his election as district attorney, he said: "No man or woman ever controlled me. No group will ever make me do a thing I do not consider right. If elected district attorney, I shall conduct the office in the same honest manner as I did as judge. I have enough money so that I cannot be influenced by any group. I have never broken a promise and I shall never break this one."

Fight to Finish

As for the present situation, Monaghan has announced he will carry his investigation through to a finish if it takes from now until his term expires. His "Irish" is up and his friends say he will not quit until he has reached the "real powers" behind the crime and bootlegging activities in Philadelphia.

Associated with Monaghan is Patrick McKewen, his chief county detective. The two work together to such an extent that McKewen is known as Monaghan's "Man Friday." McKewen is large and rough in appearance almost an exact opposite of the district attorney. But the two worked well together.

The district attorney is a devout Catholic but he works in close harmony with laymen and clergymen of all religious beliefs provided they demonstrate their sympathy with his program to "clean up Philadelphia."

Cupid to Do Comeback?

Helen Henderson, New York chorus beauty, and Aaron Benesch, millionaire Baltimore banker, have patched up their fractured romance, 'tis said. They eloped last year, were divorced this year, and now may re-marry. Here they are on the beach at Atlantic City.

Roosevelt Medal Winners Named

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Charles Evans Hughes and Dr. Frank M. Chapman have been designated as the recipients of the three Roosevelt medals for 1928.

The Roosevelt Memorial association which will present the medals on October 27, announced Lindbergh had been honored "for his qualities of mind and character rather than his achievements in aviation."

Hughes' work as chairman of the United States delegation at the Pan-American conference at Havana was cited.

Chapman, curator of ornithology at the Natural History meseum, was called "a man who had more influence than any other in America in making ornithology a popular subject."

60,000 Men Affected In German Strikes

BERLIN, Oct. 1. (UP)—Strikes which already have affected 60,000 workers and threaten serious troubles shortly, began in Germany today.

Trade unions throughout Germany are preparing new wage demands, contending that the increase in living costs during the past nine months has not been met by wage increases.

North Sea shipyards were at a virtual standstill when a strike called for today became complete. Textile workers at Muenchen-Gladback also are scheduled to strike. This walkout would affect another 45,000 workers.

Hoover May Yet Talk At Oklahoma Capital

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 1. (UP)—A chance of Herbert Hoover's coming to Oklahoma City for a speaking engagement still remains, Frank Parkinson, state Republican chairman, said today. If Hoover should include Texas in his itinerary, he is virtually certain to stop here, Parkinson said.

Second Operation Made On Italia Explorer

CITY'S GOOD HEALTH

The health of the city continued good the past week and only four new cases of communicable diseases were reported to Dr. H. D. Fillmore, manager of the city health department.

Two of these cases were whooping cough and two were diphtheria. Nine deaths were reported for the week.

BANKERS FACE TAX PROBLEMS

American Ass'n Opens Philadelphia Meet

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1. (AP)—An equitable tax system for banks must be worked out, else they may be forced to cease operations, Charles H. Mylander, secretary of the Ohio Bankers association, told the convention of the American Bankers association today. He predicted the task would be difficult and involve changes in laws, constitutions, methods and means of assessment of various kinds.

Mr. Mylander compared the taxation of banks with quasi-banks, the latter being competing financial institutions which, in many states, he said, enjoy most of the privileges of banks, but which are taxed on a much lower scale. The present condition, he believes, holds "a distinct menace for the future prosperity of the independent banking system in the United States."

The federal reserve system faces a grave responsibility in dealing with the inflation in the stock market and real estate transactions, Congressman Louis T. McFadden, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, told the clearing house section of the association.

Risk of producing a business slump without intending to do so, Mr. McFadden said, could have been obviated six months ago if the federal reserve management had been more drastic in dealing with the speculative tendency in the stock market. Brokers' loans at present are greater than the credit extended to the agricultural industry, our foreign trade and our automobile industry, he told the bankers.

YOUNG FARMER ADMITS CRIME

Alabama Youth Names Ally In Teacher's Slaying

SLOCOMB, Ala., Oct. 1. (AP)—Jim Dunlap, 21-year-old Geneva county farmer, has confessed to the killing of Claude F. Avant, local high school principal, and implicated Gillis Bracewell, another farmer L. E. Gibbons, Henry county sheriff said today.

Avant's mutilated body was found in a swamp just over the Alabama state line near Bonifay, Fla., last Friday following a five-day search.

According to Sheriff Gibbons, Dunlap admitted he and Bracewell encountered Avant on a highway south of Slocomb and asked for a ride. As the trio neared the Alabama-Florida state line Dunlap and Bracewell attacked the school teacher with a knife, according to the sheriff's story, removing him from the car later and placing him near a small stream where Dunlap is supposed to have struck him over the head with a tree limb. Then they set fire to Avant's car.

Dunlap, who is in jail at Dothan, would establish no motive for the crime, Sheriff Gibbons said. Bracewell was arrested in Hartford, Ala., yesterday.

POLICE DANCE CENSORS

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. (UP)—Chicago has a new division of the police force—the "dancing squad." The squad danced at a public hall and two patrolmen objected to the dancing of Miss Elsie Abrahamsson and Miss Billie La Frambois. The girls were booked on disorderly conduct charges.

Chicago Girl Typical Colleen on Irish Banknotes

All good citizens of the Irish Free state are carrying the picture of a Chicago girl in their pockets these days. The picture is that of Lady Lavery, wife of the noted British painter, Sir John Lavery, who designed the new currency, and represents the typical Irish colleen. A portrait of Lady Lavery, the former Hazel Martin of Chicago, is shown at the right.

Six Oklahoma Youths Accused Of Carrying Out Plot to Attack Girl

HOBART, Okla., Oct. 1. (UP)—Alleged to have assaulted Fay Pitkin, 15, after intimidating her escort and capturing the girl by a previously laid out plan, charges of first degree rape were filed against six Kiowa county youths today.

Each of the six assaulted Miss Pitkin criminally, according to the information filed here, after taking her from Mountain View, east of here, to a secluded spot near the town.

Monroe Jester, escort of Miss Pitkin, abandoned the girl at a Mountain View church, after being threatened by a beating.

Carrying out the plans of the ruse, Cecil Tidmore, son of Pete Tidmore, constable of Mountain View, is alleged to have started home with the girl, feigning friendship, when his car became stalled, allowing the five others to overtake them.

What is said to be a "sham fight" ensued, Tidman pretending to defend the girl.

The six against whom charges were filed are Tidman, Chester Brumley, Allan Ward, Charley Ward, Opal McManell, and a youth named Pitts. Their ages ranged from 17 to 28.

LOVE DECIDES G. O. P. TICKET

Electoral Board to Be Made Up of Republicans

DALLAS, Oct. 1. (INS)—The likelihood that there will be Hoover Democrats on the Republican electoral ticket in Texas this year practically disappeared here today when State Senator Thomas B. Love, leader in the anti-Smith ranks, declared that he sees no necessity for putting Hoover Democrats on the ticket.

Senator Love, Cato Sells of Fort Worth and Dr. J. D. Sandefer of Abilene make up a committee which had the offer of splitting the electoral slate between Republicans and "Hoover Democrats" made recently by Rene B. Creager, G. O. P. national committeeman, under consideration.

Alvin S. Moody of Houston, head of the "Hoover Democrats," announced a few days ago that the final decision in the matter awaited Senator Love's return from the East.

"Of course I am not speaking for the committee," Love said today, "but we discussed the proposal several days ago and decided no such action would be necessary."

Love, who has been in New York and Washington, as well as in Illinois and other middle western sections, predicted that Hoover's majority would be approximately 10,000,000 votes this year. Texas, he added, would give 400,000 votes to Hoover and 350,000 to Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic standard bearer, this year. He emphasized, however, that Hoover's victory would be Democratic rather than Republican, in that all Democratic candidates, even those who are supporting Smith, will receive majorities of 500,000 and more this year.

G. O. P. DENIES IGNORING BOLTERS

DALLAS, Oct. 1.—Characterizing published statements that Republicans have "ignored" bolting Democrats in filling two vacancies on their electoral ticket with Republicans as "a deliberate effort to create friction between various elements among the Hoover supporters of the state, Leonard Withington, secretary of the Republican state executive committee, explained here today that Hoover Democrats were left off the ticket only because of legal reasons.

"Responsible leaders of the anti-Al Smith Democratic forces advised us to abandon the plan to put 10 Hoover Democrats on the electoral ticket because of possible legal complications," Withington explained. "We are entirely willing, as our national committeeman, R. B. Creager, has repeatedly said, to put 10 Hoover Democrats on the ticket, and only abandoned the idea when the anti-Al Smith leaders advised against it.

"Stories that we have 'ignored' the Hoover Democrats are a deliberate effort to create friction between various elements among the Hoover forces, and will fail as it deserves to," he declared.

GIBSON'S TRIAL OPENS

M'ALESTER, Okla., Oct. 1. (UP)—Lee Gibson, Indian, charged with slaying four members of the Ebb Jackson family in the Jackfork mountains, this county, went to trial in district court here today.

Gibson is charged with killing Jackson, 50; Jackson's 16-year-old wife, Myrtle, and Jackson's two children, Abbie, 10, and Orville, 15. District Judge H. L. Melton is hearing the case.

Tarver Says Dispatch Misquotes Statement

CORSICANA, Texas, Oct. 1. (AP)—Press dispatches from Austin Saturday night misquoted him when they said he had declared that Thomas B. Love, anti-Smith bolter, once appeared before the state legislature demanding an investigation into alleged short selling by saloons, W. A. Tarver, chairman of the last state Democratic convention, said here today.

The statements attributed to him were made by C. A. Wheeler of Austin, Tarver said.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

TWO FORMS OF SERVING MEALS

Cooking Expert Describes Accepted Service Modes

By IDA M. CHITWOOD
Culinary Expert

The house with a maid! What delectable pictures of faultless service it conjures up to the young house-keeper not yet saddened by experience. But the old home-maker is deceived by no such illusions. Rare indeed is the perfect maid; if she exists, our friends are the lucky possessors, and such as fall to our lot need training and endless encouragement.

But one can transform an untidy, inexperienced girl into a well groomed, professional servant, if one is patient and kind and fair. She will never be able to accomplish the work of three people—nor even as much as one—if that one happens to be her mistress, all of whose love and interest are naturally enough centered upon the household.

Any maid worth having wants to look her best in the dining room and to wait on table properly. She should be supplied with well fitting uniforms of washable cotton for the morning and of black or gray material for the evening, with plenty of white aprons and collars and cuffs.

There are two distinct forms of serving a meal. That which has gradually gained favor in this country is the Russian style by which everything is brought from the kitchen and presented to each person who serves himself. The dish is then carried to the serving table or pantry until wanted again. Except in homes where there is more than one servant, or where the family is very small, a compromise is usually effected between this and the second form of serving, where the roast, bread, celery, and any other small dishes are placed upon the table. Vegetable dishes are presented at the left, and all plates are set down and removed from the right. The maid holds a dish on the palm of her left hand, with a folded napkin beneath it.

Where there is but one maid, several small dishes such as olives, celery and sauces, may be passed at one time on a tray.

A meal must be served without long pauses, and it is better to compromise with the formal code of serving than to go through the agony of seeing the last relative or guest supplied just as the first one finishes.

If Average Woman Marries for Money She's Poor Financier

The Fact That So Many Girls Wed Poor Men Disproves the Theory That They Marry for Money. The Matrimonial Prospects of the Divorcee.

Dear Miss Dix: I don't believe that any girl or woman ever loves a man for himself alone. A woman marries a man to get somebody to support her, and as soon as she is married and feels that she has to obey her husband she resents the fact and ceases to love him. But when a man marries he marries a woman for love alone and nothing else matters.

I believe that men and women would live more peaceably together if they were not married at all, because each would know that he or she was free to go when he or she pleased. This would make them very careful not to hurt each other's feelings. But when they are bound together they can treat each other as they please, because it is not so easy to break apart. What do you think? —A DISGUSTED MAN.

Answer: Of course, there is an occasional woman who marries for money or position or a meal ticket, but the proof that the majority of women marry for love is found in the fact that they choose as husbands poor men who have nothing to give them.

In these days, when the majority of girls are self-supporting, the average girl does not better her condition by getting married. She gives up a position in an office or store for a job that has twice as much work to it and no pay envelope attached. Very few young husbands are able to dress their wives as well as the girls dressed before marriage when they were earning their own money. Nor can the average young wife indulge in the amusements and the diversions to which she treated herself when she was single.

If, therefore, the average woman marries for money, she must be a rotten financier and a poor hand at picking out investments.

Just look around you at the men that women marry, Mr. Man, and you will have to withdraw your statement that they marry for gain. There is nothing but love, blind, adoring love that doesn't count the consequences, that makes them do it.

Doubtless in the old days, when women did have to obey their husbands, wives secretly hated their lords because it takes a humbler spirit than most of us possess to make us love our masters.

But in these times of female emancipation no woman takes seriously her promise to obey her husband—even when she makes it, which isn't often. Nor is she weighted down by a sense of her husband's authority over her. She feels so little a slave that it really doesn't influence her mental attitude toward her husband at all.

Of course, when a husband does attempt to assert his marital supremacy and issues commands to his wife, there is a cat-and-dog fight that generally leaves Minnie in possession of the field.

Undoubtedly, most men do marry women for love alone and this brings us face to face with the most insoluble of all problems, and that is why, when they marry for love, do they so soon fall out of love? For in the great majority of cases, the ardent lover is soon metamorphosed into the indifferent husband and the man who broke his neck to get a woman in only a short time is breaking his neck trying to get away from her.

I do not agree with you that it would add to the happiness of men and women if they lived together in an illicit relationship, because if they cared for each other at all they would be beset continually by the specters of fear and jealousy. Each would know that he or she had no hold upon the other except the fancy of the moment, and he or she would live in dread of some one else coming along who held more allure.

The thing that makes most for happiness in marriage is the settled and final feeling. The permanent home that one builds up knowing it is going to endure, the husband and wife who are bound together so that they have the same name, the same interests, the same obligations and responsibilities and share in the same rewards.

Liaisons are nearly always short. You very rarely hear of a man who has been faithful to a mistress through many years and who still cherishes her when she gets old and ugly, but many marriages endure for 50 or 60 years and many old husbands and wives are still lovers. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix: What is man's attitude matrimonially to the divorced woman? Does he condemn her merely because she happened to draw a blank in the matrimonial lottery? If she has youth, beauty and brains would she be on a par with a maiden of similar qualities? Is the divorcee without money, no matter how charming, doomed matrimonially speaking?

—TWENTY-FIVE.

Answer: Men have no settled policy as regards a divorced woman. It all depends on the individual man. Some men have religious and conscientious scruples against marrying a grass widow. It would be repugnant to the taste of other men to know that their wives had husbands alive whom they were likely to meet at any moment, while to many other men it would be a matter of complete indifference whether a woman had had previous matrimonial entanglements or not.

Also, it would depend a good deal on what the grounds for the divorce were. Not many men would care to marry a woman who had been faithless to her husband or who had left him just because she got tired of him or because she was fickle and wanted to change or because she couldn't get along with the man to whom she was married. For the man would argue that the woman who was untrue to one man would be untrue to another, that she who didn't know her mind at one time might not know it at another time, and that the woman who is hard to get along with and who doesn't know how to manage men, might make a trying life companion.

But that the divorcees who have youth and beauty and brains and charm are not considered taboo by men is amply proved by the fact that we see them marrying all around us every day.

CHIC CHERI

(Copyright, King Features Syn., Inc.)

Latest Fashions

Cherie wires her family "Coming home at once" and feels that she has done her duty by them. Or almost. She'll have done it completely when she has finished her present shopping expedition. Cherie is wearing a tweed coat-dress with a flaring skirt and with revers that make her look even slimmer than she is.

Cherie is sure that nothing could dissipate the slight chill that will wait her (they'll never believe she simply forgot to send them an address the first three days) better than an ensemble of purse and shoes tactfully presented to Emily and Dina. This set is of black shark—shiny and covered with a tiny pebbled grain.

Both the purses are moderanistic in their shape and trimming. The one to the left is of antelope and the shoes that go with it are plainly-cut oxfords. The purse to the right is of navy blue shoe calf, and the shoes, also navy blue of course, have a new strap. She is puzzling the head under her new hat of felt trimmed with hatter's plush to decide which of the two sets Dina would prefer. The accessory ensemble is much more important than it was last spring when it first appeared and nobody knows that better than Cherie. Dina's present must be right! Perhaps that's why Tommy Tucker—or is it Tommy Tompkins?—was called in to advise.

BALDNESS

Texan Declares Hatless Fad Will Insure Hair on Head

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. (UP)—If the masculine portion of the nation wishes to retain its hair, it will have to return to the poke bonnets of grandmother's time, according to E. A. Fretz, of Dallas, Texas. Fretz so informed the convention of the National Beauty and Barbers' Supply Dealers association, opening here today.

Fretz told the delegates that the "hatless rah rah boys aren't as dumb as they may look." Hats, he said, tend to make men bald.

"Did you ever see a bald-headed Indian," Fretz asked.

His speech will not be political in character.

New Postal Schedule of Prices Goes Into Effect

Box rent in the Wichita Falls post office Monday was raised 50 cents on boxes that have formerly rented for $1 and $1.50 and $1 on boxes that were $2 and $3, according to O. P. Maricle, postmaster.

The price of postoffice boxes is governed by the amount of postal receipts of the postoffice and the rise in rent here is due to the increase of postal receipts in the last few months, Mr. Maricle said.

Dry Democrats and Wet Republicans for Smith

Editor's Note: Raymond Clapper, of the United Press Washington staff, is now on a tour of the country to analyze and report the presidential campaign as he sees it. He will present an entirely unprejudiced account of his findings during his trip, which will take him into all of the important battle zones of the country.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 1. (UP)—Missouri, a mixture of the old south, the immigrant east and the agricultural west, the home of Senator James A. Reed and one of the greatest centers in the country before prohibition, is fighting in this campaign.

The state is topsy-turvy. If Governor Smith wins Missouri's 18 electoral votes, it will be by the combined grace of those bone dry Democrats who remain with him out of party loyalty and the wringing wet Republicans who so completely dominate St. Louis that they hold every elective office in the city, including all of the 28 aldermen. Smith apparently will have to look for less than the usual Democratic vote in Jackson county, home of Jim Reed.

Hay in Control

Although the Democratic party in Missouri has for several years been dominated by the outspokenly wet Jim Reed, it has just been kidnaped by the darling of the Anti-Saloon league, its attorney, Charles M. Hay, who was made the Democratic senatorial nominee in spite of the worst things Jim Reed could say about him. Reed announced over the week-end he would be compelled by press of business to limit his campaign speaking to three or four addresses. He expressed strong support for Smith but was silent on Hay, and Republicans say Reed is remaining silent because he cannot speak a kind word for the man his party chose to succeed him when he voluntarily retires from the senate next March. All agree it takes a strong urge to make Jim Reed keep still.

Hay, though vehemently dry, happens to be intensely loyal to his party. He fought for the election of Senator Hawes, attorney for Anheuser-Busch, two years ago and now he is fighting as hard for Smith as for himself. He tells his audience he and his fellow drys will see that prohibition is protected in congress, and begs them to support Smith because of his ability as a public administrator. Rural sections of Missouri are, as everywhere else, dry and protestant and, if Smith get any Democratic votes in these outstate counties, it will be entirely due to the work of his dry senatorial running-mate.

Republicans Wet

In St. Louis, Smith must look almost entirely to the Republicans. They are almost all wet. Many are Catholic. Republicans privately are doubtful of carrying St. Louis and Democrats are absolutely confident as are some unaffiliated observers in the state.

The state went 76,000 for Coolidge in 1924 and 158,000 for Harding in 1920. Senator Reed, who for years has fought Hoover, in congress and here, probably has undermined the Republican candidate to some degree. Many feel that if Smith gets a real majority in St. Louis, he will have a fair chance of carrying the state.

Senator Hawes, in charge of Democratic regional headquarters here, said a reaction was setting in in favor of Smith.

"Several weeks ago when they began to attack Governor Smith because of his religion, our people got scared and were afraid to fight back," Hawes told the United Press correspondent. "But they have got over that now and we are gaining strength. Governor Smith's Oklahoma City speech has been a big help to us in this territory."

A Lonely Voice

Churches and the W. C. T. U. are extremely active in the state. Bishop W. F. McMurray, of the Southwest Missouri Methodist conference South, a few days ago publicly declared a Methodist minister's function is not to direct his congregation in political campaigns. But his voice is rather a lonely one. The Southern Methodist Illinois Methodist conference has just voted overwhelmingly to urge their congregations to vote against Smith. The Southern Presbyterian church in this section is refraining from injecting politics into the pulpit but this denomination is not as powerful as the Methodist church. Hay, the senatorial candidate, being a leading Methodist of the state, is opposing the activity of his church against Smith but with little effect.

"Most people feel Hay is conscientious and while they do not doubt his sincerity in supporting Smith, they are not influenced by him in that respect," one leader at Republican headquarters said. Dr. E. R. Clements, Republican national committeeman, has a wholesome respect for Hay's popularity, but is hopeful the Republican candidate, Patterson, will win through a Hoover majority.

Increase in Voters

Both St. Louis and Kansas City have had a heavy increase in registration but as the registration is not segregated by parties, the meaning of it is not clear.

Governor Smith will speak in Sedalia, Mo., about the middle of October and thousands of farmers will drive in to hear him. He also will ride in a parade here but Democratic leaders feel a speech is not needed here as badly as outstate.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

Friends Painted on Wall in Oil Man's Mansion

Nurse Discovers Man In Ward Is Husband

ANTIGO, Wis., Oct. 1. (UP)—Two motorists, injured in a railroad crossing accident, were brought to a local hospital and put under the care of Mrs. Ray Thompson, a nurse.

"My God, that's my husband," Mrs. Thompson exclaimed as she began sponging the blood from the face of one of the men.

Hero Worshippers Enrage Lindbergh Until Girl Wins Flashing Smile

HAZELTON, Pa., Oct. 1. (UP)—Hazelton is recovering today from a wave of hero worship over the week-end in which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was its idol. However, the hero was not appreciative of the mob's adoration and turned a harried, bristling front to the tribute.

Forced down Saturday en route from the Middle West to New York by fog, Lindy was greeted by crowds at the airport near here.

In boarding a waiting automobile a man in the crowd rushed forward and grasped the "Lone Eagle's" shoulder. Lindbergh whirled about enraged.

"Keep your hands to yourself," he shouted. The man cowered back expecting a blow to follow the outburst. Later a girl cheerily hailed him and Lindy flashed a smile in response to this welcome.

Man Hurt in Crash With Coolidge Better

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 1.(UP)—Wilfred Veno, former professional hockey player, who was injured seriously when his automobile was struck by a car driven by John Coolidge, was reported definitely out of danger today.

According to Policeman Henry H. Miller, who witnessed the crash Thursday, John, driving a big sedan belonging to Governor John H. Trumbull, struck Veno's light touring car in the rear and spun it around at an intersection.

The meeting of the budget, endorsement and campaign committee of the Wichita Falls Community chest has been tentatively set for Friday, it was learned Monday from Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary.

Miss Neely said although she has not received all the tentative budget reports of member organizations of the chest, she is making as much progress as possible on the preparation of her report.

The budget of the entire chest will be considered at the Friday meeting, she said.

Safety Problems Taken Up at Annual Meet

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (UP)—The problem of making the United States a safer country, and of reducing the $5,000,000,000 economic loss which results each year from accidents, was tackled today by 8,000 safety workers at the 17th annual National Safety congress.

As an example of the problem before them, leaders of the safety movement pointed out that 95,000 persons were killed and nearly 10,000,000 injured last year in accidents, most of which could have been prevented.

Oklahoma Telephone Rate Hike Denied

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 1. (UP)—The corporation commission today denied the application of the Oklahoma-Arkansas Telephone company for an increase in its portion of the long distance toll rates handled out of Poteau by the Southwestern Bel. Telephone company.

The commission ordered the Oklahoma-Arkansas company to pay to the Southwestern company within 25 days $2,982.91 in disputed tolls.

The purpose of the visit is to afford the Britons the best possible opportunity to see different parts of the United States and to observe for themselves the more significant aspects of present day American social, economic, intellectual and political life.

New Clue Unearthed In Slaying of Woman

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., Oct. 1. (UP) A new clue, said to strengthen the murder theory in the shooting of Mrs. Cora Meas, estranged wife of a millionaire bicycle manufacturer, was kept secret today by Sheriff N. P. Sinnott, and other investigators of her death.

It was admitted by the sheriff, however, that the latest development of the death, which occurred last Thursday night, tended to dispel the theory the woman shot herself because she no longer held the love of L. A. Thornewill, former Canadian mounted policeman, with whom she had lived for seven years.

City Changes Hours For Trash Collection

Day trash hauling will be discontinued in the Wichita Falls business district after Oct. 15, according to a ruling made Monday by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, and given to Dr. J. M. Farrell, chief sanitary inspector.

All collections will be made from now on from 10 o'clock at night to 7 o'clock in the morning as is done in the majority of other progressive cities.

Births Exceed Deaths Here by 2-1 Count

Births exceeded deaths here in September more than two to one, according to the monthly report of Miss Bernice Apple, registrar of vital statistics.

There were 89 births reported, and only 41 deaths.

GIRLS! YOU CAN START THIS VERY DAY TO CLEAR UP UGLY "BROKEN OUT" SKIN

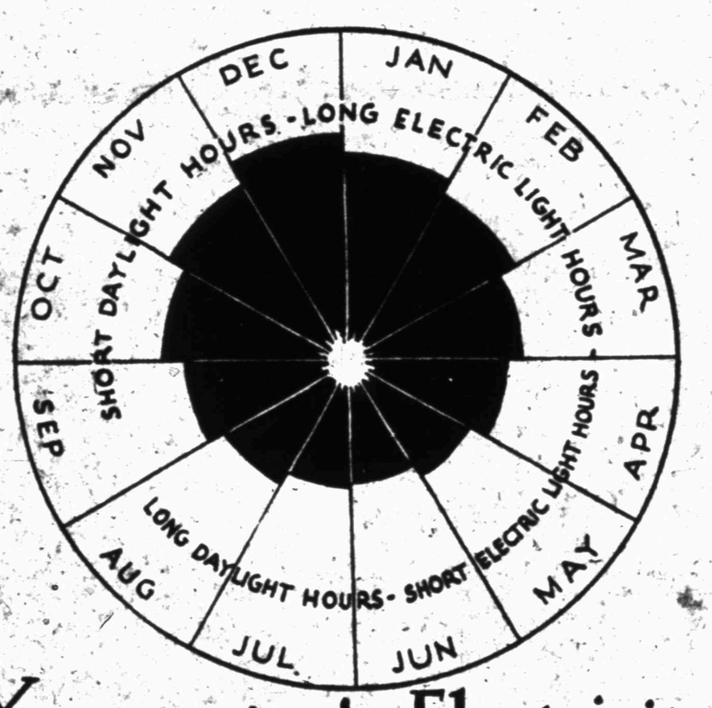

Girls! This is especially addressed to you because in this day and age when almost everyone has a clear, beautiful complexion, any girl whose skin is all broken out with ugly pimples, eczema, etc., is under a terrible handicap.

It's a shame your skin is like that—but don't be discouraged and don't fret—while most things you've tried have most likely failed, here's something that will start right away to help you heal your skin swiftly.

It's called Heiskell's Ointment and for years it has been helping thousands of other girls, and men, too, many of them far worse off than you, to completely get rid of all disfiguring skin eruptions.

Any druggist can supply you with Heiskell's Ointment but, girls!—when you ask for the Ointment, get a cake of Heiskell's Medicated Soap, too. Ordinary soaps only too often contain something that irritates the skin and keep it inflamed and so retard results you get from the Ointment. If you use Heiskell's Soap, though, especially medicated to prepare the skin for the Ointment, you'll speed up results wonderfully and that's what you want. This combination treatment of Heiskell's Ointment and Heiskell's Soap will certainly amaze you at the quick results it gives and what a glorious feeling it will be to look in the mirror and see a skin such as you have always longed for—delicate, smooth, flawless—really yours! Don't forget—get both the Ointment and the Soap and for less than a dollar you get a new complexion that can't be priced in terms of money.—Advt.

When Winter Comes

You use more Electricity!

DAYLIGHT HOURS are longer from April to September. These are the outdoor months. Picnicking, driving, swimming—all kinds of outdoor sports claim your time during these longer days.

From September to March daylight hours are shorter and therefore electric light hours are longer. Less outdoor playtime and more indoor amusement. Electricity makes the indoor hours joyous. It furnishes light and heat, cooks the meals, operates the radio, the victrola, and performs dozens of jobs that would otherwise be a hardship.

Electricity is the boon companion of shorter days and longer nights. You use more of it in the winter and it gives you countless pleasures, conveniences and comforts.

This chart shows the average number of hours in which electric lights are used in the average home for each month in the year.

January	6 Hours, 32 Minutes
February	5 Hours, 38 Minutes
March	4 Hours, 10 Minutes
April	3 Hours, 48 Minutes
May	2 Hours, 57 Minutes
June	2 Hours, 33 Minutes
July	2 Hours, 36 Minutes
August	3 Hours, 9 Minutes
September	4 Hours, 00 Minutes
October	4 Hours, 54 Minutes
November	6 Hours, 11 Minutes
December	6 Hours, 51 Minutes

This chart shows why your light bill is higher for the winter months than it is for the summer months. It is higher simply because there are more hours of darkness in winter than there are in summer.

TAXPAYERS GET EARLY START

City Collections Exceed Figures in 1927

The payment of 1928 city taxes was the best in many years for the first day on which taxes for a current year might be paid, it was learned at the office of W. R. Hyer, city tax assessor and collector, Monday.

A total of $388.92 was collected for 1928 city taxes Monday as against $110.74 for the first day last year. "The first day is usually rather quiet," Mr. Hyer said.

"Last year only three paid their taxes the first day. They are W. S. Ellis, Jay Lewis and H. H. Farrell.

"This year the Colvert Ice Cream company was first. That company had a man here early so it would be sure to be first."

The total amount collected at the tax office for the day also was higher than usual. Current school taxes totaled $297.30 and delinquent school taxes totaled $263.91. Delinquent city taxes amounted to $314.12, and occupational taxes totaled $5. The total collections for the day were $1,269.25.

FALL WEATHER?

Calendar Says So But Mercury Doesn't Agree

The highest temperature in the month of October for five years was reached here Monday at 1 p. m., when a reading at the Texas Electric Service company bureau showed the mercury registered 100 degrees.

This record beat by five degrees that set on Oct. 4, 1924, when the temperature reached 95 degrees; Oct. 1 and 2, 1926, 93 degrees; Oct. 4, 1925, 93 degrees; and Oct. 1, 1925, 89 degrees.

DROUTH HITS MILK RECEIPTS

September Rainfall Lightest In Five Years

Milk receipts at the Kraft cheese factory and dairies here have been considerably decreased during the last month on account of the lack of rain, which has a negative bearing on milk production in the surrounding territory, officials of the company said Monday.

The past month, records at the Texas Electric Service company bureau revealed Monday, was the driest September experienced in this area in five years. Only .30 inches of rain fell last month, compared with a rainfall of 3.63 inches during the corresponding period last year.

In spite of this, however, the report shows that more rain fell in 1928 through Oct. 1 than in the same period last year, total precipitation through that date this year being 23.99 inches, compared with 23.79 in 1927.

The lowest temperature of the month was 52 degrees on Sept. 24. The highest was 99 degrees.

COMEDY ROLE FOR 'MARIETTA'

Aimee Torriani One of Production's Stars

Miss Aimee Torriani who has the principal comedy role of "Lizette" in Victor Herbert's famous light opera "Naughty Marietta," which will be presented at the Memorial auditorium Monday evening under the auspices of the Woman's Forum is a finished comedienne.

Young in Years

Without seeing her and glancing over the long list of Miss Torriani's achievements, one would infer that she must be well along in years. As a matter of fact, she is a very young and beautiful woman.

In addition she is a versatile girl, with exceptional talent for mimicry, and comes from a most interesting family. Her mother was a grand opera singer and her father was one of the pioneers of the moving pictures with the Edison company. Her paternal grandfather, Angelo Torriani, was a director in the Metropolitan Opera company in New York in the days of Patti and the DeReszkes.

When a little girl, Aimee's absorbing ambition was to become a great singer. She lived in an atmosphere of music. Her mother, Jenny Torriani, gave up her operatic career to care for Aimee and, incidentally, to become a vocal teacher. Thus Miss Torriani received her first instruction in singing, and she became her mother's best pupil.

However, as time went on little Aimee developed so many talents and such amazing versatility that she did not confine her efforts to grand opera. Even as a little girl she loved Shakespeare. She never missed a performance at the Saturday morning matinee for children given at the Irving Place theater. Shakespeare absorbed her faculties. Her eyes would grow big as she sat in a state of ecstasy as the dramatic scenes of a Sheakespearian drama would unfold.

"Sometime I shall sing Desdemona," she said, and then again, "sometime I will be a grand opera singer."

With the influence of distinguished members of her family and artistic friends, Miss Torriani at a very early age found herself on the stage.

Her first stage appearance was with Sir Herbert Tree in "Henry VIII."

Next with Edith Wynne Matheson and, following that, in more important roles with Walter Hampden.

Being versatile, it was not long before she took a little adventure in another line of work and she was engaged by George M. Cohan to play in "The Royal Vagabond."

Following this, in the process of the rigorous training she had adopted for herself, she went to California and played for a season in stock.

Reservations

Seats for "Naughty Marietta," the Victor Herbert light opera production, went on sale at the McConnell Furniture company, Monday, and will be sold at that place until the evening of presentation, Monday, October 8.

Among the out-of-town mail order reservations made were the following: Mrs. J. E. Langford and party of Seymour; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Kane and party of Walters, Okla., Judge R. D. L. Killough and party from Vernon, Mrs. S. J. Marcel land party of Olney and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stout and party of Grandfield, Okla.

The Zale and Wichita Music companies are playing Victor Herbert music from the opera all this week, it was announced.

Gasoline Market More Laggard in Midcontinent

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 1.—The Mid-Continent gasoline market is featureless, sales managers say. All refiners are quoting U. S. motor grade at 9¾ cents a gallon. Sales are reported fair. It is understood that there has been some recession in gasoline prices outside of group 3, but so far of no serious consequence as shipments of the cheaper material have been small. The volume was also limited. The 60-62, 400 endpoint grade is quoted at 10¼ cents, and 64-66, 375 endpoint, at 11 cents.

Kerosene is so so, the 51-43 grade being held at 6¼ to 6½ cents a gallon.

20-Year Tradition Continued as Huff Gets First Voting Papers

In continuation of a practice 20 years old, Judge R. E. Huff of Wichita Falls was issued the first voting certificate Monday morning when tax books were opened for payment in the office of Guy C. Raley, county tax collector. By virtue of his age Judge Huff received an exemption certificate.

Mr. Raley took certificate No. 2 in the poll tax books, but was the first to pay his poll tax. He took first place in payment of county taxes.

"Two types of poll tax certificates are being issued:

One is an exemption certificate issued without cost to persons over 60 years of age, to those just reaching their age of majority and to others suffering certain disabilities. The other voting certificate is issued on payment of a fee of $1.75 to qualified citizens not entitled to exemptions.

At the close of the first day of the tax paying period, Mr. Raley expressed gratification to those who have complied with his request of last week to pay their taxes early.

"We are more than satisfied with the results of the first day," he said.

"If taxpayers continue at the rate of the first day the period will close without the usual last day's rush."

He said the first day's business was the greatest opening in the history of his office.

Mr. Raley also is urging all qualified citizens to pay their poll tax and he declared his willingness to appear before all civic organizations to talk on the citizen's duty regarding payment of poll tax. He pointed out there are at least 30,000 persons of voting age in Wichita county eligible to pay poll tax while there are only 18,000 qualified voters registered. Of this number 75 per cent reside in Wichita Falls.

"Every person of voting age should pay poll tax and exercise the full privileges of citizenship. While payment of poll taxes now will not permit the voter to participate in the presidential election this year there doubtless will be a number of propositions to be submitted to voters next year. It is a duty of every man and woman who is 21 years of age to vote."

TWO HURT IN TRAIN CRASH

Rail Officials Doubt 'Vandals' to Blame

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Oct. 1.—Pat Eaton, fireman, and W. L. Bryan, express messenger, of the northbound Wichita Falls and Southern train, which figured in a collision here this morning, left the Hamilton sanitarium here this afternoon after being treated for injuries sustained in the accident. Both live in Wichita Falls.

The train ran an open switch near the station here, and collided with a string of tank cars which had been placed on the siding. The slow rate at which the train was traveling is regarded as all that averted a tragedy. As it was, the entire train remained on the track, only two of the tank cars being derailed.

Eaton, the most seriously injured, sustained a broken arm when he was thrown to the floor of the engine as it hurled into the sidetrack. Bryan received only minor injuries.

Railroad officials here denied that they suspicioned "vandals" of opening the switch for the purpose of causing a catastrophe.

L. N. Bassett, superintendent of the Wichita Falls and Southern railway, had left the city Monday evening for Ranger, and an official report of the probable cause of the Olney wreck was not available.

41 Divorce Cases Dismissed by Judge

For want of prosecution 41 divorce cases all filed more than a year ago were dismissed Monday morning by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court. While the cases were dismissed they will remain on the docket until the end of the term to permit renewal, Judge Martin said.

JURY CHARGED ON HOME BREW

Convictions Measure of Success, Says Judge

Following instructions by Judge E. G. Thornton of the 30th district court and an address by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court, the October grand jury began its work Monday morning. No indictments had been returned Monday night.

Home Brew Lecture

Judge Thornton discussed laws concerning the manufacture of home brew, pointing out that the law makes it a felony for its manufacture. He said his experience has been that juries will not convict in such cases, probably because the fact the law provides a year's imprisonment the minimum punishment. He did not recommend a course for the jury to follow.

"It often happens that a grand jury or a district attorney measures success by the number of indictments," Judge Martin said when he was asked by Judge Thornton to address the grand jury.

"The real measure of successful effort is not in the number of indictments but the number of convictions from among the indictments.

"I recall one grand jury which returned something like 100 indictments but not more than 25 of these cases could ever be called to trial, and of that number not more than five or ten convictions were secured."

Judge Martin urged the investigators to look into both sides of every case before rendering an indictment.

"Try to place yourself in the position of a trial juror and ask yourself whether you would be able to convict a man on the evidence submitted," he said.

Bradley Foreman

It is uncertain when the first report of the grand jury may be expected. Judge Thornton left Monday morning after empaneling the jury for Graham to complete a case he opened Saturday and he is not expected to return before Friday. In his absence Judge Martin will sit on the bench.

John Bradley of Wichita Falls was appointed foreman of the jury whose other members are Ed Moreland, Electra; J. D. Overby and S. A. Baxter of Iowa Park; Jim Fisher, Oral Jones, H. P. Hodge, B. A. Stayton, W. P. Ferguson, E. W. Marriott, Mack Thomas and N. M. Clifford, all of Wichita Falls.

Wichita Men Recovering After Fall From 35-Foot Oil Tower

Two employes of the Continental Refining company were in the Wichita Falls General hospital Monday night recovering from injuries sustained early in the afternoon when they fell from a fractionating tower in the construction of which they were employed.

Their conditions were reported by attendants at the hospital to be "as good as could be expected."

W. E. North of 2306 Ninth street, welder foreman, who sustained a broken arm, and B. N. Patterson of 200 Scott avenue, his assistant, who received a broken leg, are the injured. Patterson, it was at first thought, sustained a fractured skull, but an examination disproved the injury, hospital officials said.

The men fell a distance of approximately 35 feet when a cable on which they were being lowered into the tower broke, according to D. H. Hyler, superintendent of the refinery.

The men were quickly rescued through the prompt action of F. I. Russell of Kansas City, Mo., was operating the boom by which the men were being lowered. He lowered the cable to the bottom, where other employes fastened cables to the two men, and in a few minutes both were hoisted clear of the tower and lowered to the ground. They were placed in Hines and Merkle ambulances and rushed to the hospital.

The accident parallels one which occurred in one of the other towers only about a week ago when Fred Miller, also an employe of the construction department, fell the entire 52 feet to the bottom of the structure. He received only minor cuts and bruises.

SMITH BACK IN HOME STATE

Nominee Is Kept Busy By His Colleagues

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 1.(AP)—Back in his home state after a campaign invasion of the West, Governor Smith stepped from his special train here today into the atmosphere of a political convention, looking to him for guidance.

Half an hour after his arrival in this upstate city, which gave him a rousing welcome, the Democratic presidential nominee was in conference with party leaders, anxious to get his views as to who should be nominated for governor and given other places on the Democratic state ticket.

The state convention was just getting under way, but none of the nearly 1000 delegates nor any of the party wheelhorses directing affairs were inclined to do anything toward shaping up a slate until they had canvassed the situation with Smith. All hands agreed that what he said would go.

Busy Man

The presidential nominee, as he held one powwow after another with old time friends and political allies who have been calling him "Al" for years, was kept so busy that he had no time for advance preparation of his speech to the convention tonight. He kept to himself what he would say and passed the word that he would speak extemporaneously.

On his arrival here about the time he usually has breakfast, the presidential nominee, wearing at a jaunty angle a gray fedora instead of a brown derby, found several bands and thousands of cheering admirers waiting to greet him. With "East Side West Side" ringing out, a reception committee swelled to hundreds as many undesignated welcomers slipped through police lines and swarmed about the train.

Through the throng Smith and members of his party were piloted to the Hotel Seneca and through the lobby, jammed with leaders, delegates and onlookers. For a while the governor talked with various lieutenants, men affiliated with Tammany Hall as well as party leaders from other parts of the state.

Remains in Hotel

The convention met and organized but Smith remained in his hotel, planning to postpone his appearance at the hall until just before he was to start speaking at 10 o'clock tonight.

The governor intends to remain in Rochester until after nominations are made tomorrow and the convention was adjourned. Then he will head for Albany for a few days layoff before resuming his speech-making campaign for the presidency.

Wow! Tennessee Senator Invites Herb to Break Silence in Next Talk

PARIS, Tenn., Oct. 1. (AP)—United States Senator Kenneth D. McKellar of Tennessee, in a speech at a Democratic meeting here today, addressed 13 questions at Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, with a request that they be answered by Mr. Hoover in his Elizabeth address Saturday. The questions follow:

"If elected, will you appoint or continue Andrew W. Mellon, commonly held to be more interested in the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors than any other man in the country, as your secretary of treasury, and by virtue of his office, chief prohibition enforcement officer?

Treasury Selection

"Should you not appoint Mr. Mellon, would you appoint any one else, directly or indirectly interested in the liquor business, or in any way directly or indirectly connected with those in the liquor business, as your secretary of treasury?

"Do you believe in the intermingling of the white and colored races on terms of equality?

"Did you issue an order providing for such equality in the department of commerce, over which you then presided, last winter or spring?

"Will you appoint colored postmasters, collectors, marshals, district attorneys, or prohibition enforcement officers in the South?

"Did you give out a number of interviews while in the Mississippi valley in the spring of 1927, declaring that federal government should take over and entirely at its own expense the problem of flood control?

Ancnt Oil Leases

"After you got back to Washington, did you change your mind and urge that a bill be passed providing for 20 per cent local contributions on flood control?

"Do you approve of the leases made by your two associates in President Harding's cabinet, A. B. Fall and Edwin Denby, of the government oil reserves to Doheny and Sinclair or to their corporations?

"Have you ever expressed your disapproval of their acts in making these leases?

"Do you approve of the conduct of Will H. Hays and John W. Weeks, two more of your associates in the Harding cabinet, in using bonds obtained from Harry F. Sinclair in paying the debts of the Republican party to which you now belong?

Muscle Shoals Query

"Would you submit to the senate and recommend its approval of the treaty recently entered into between Secretary Kellogg and representatives of certain great nations to outlaw war, in view of the more recent action of France and England in entering into a naval compact against the interests of the United States?

"Would you recommend to congress that Muscle Shoals be retained by the government always ready for the use for explosives in time of war and to manufacture fertilizers for the farmers in time of peace, and the surplus power to be sold on terms which will guarantee the use of cheaper light and power rates?

"Would you, under any circumstances, recommend to the congress that this vast plant be turned over under lease to a private company or companies?"

Al Roasted in Electra Rally

his stand on prohibition, and his viewpoint on the immigration laws. He reviewed his two year record in the legislature and his two years as district attorney of Dallas county, which he left recently for the ministry, adding that he had not "left" the Democratic party, but was making an effort to "save the party and bring it back to its former high standards and ideals."

"I have been a Democrat ever since I was able to discuss politics," he said, "and I remember the time when I used to think that any person who would vote the Republican ticket ought to be locked up in jail or in the lunatic asylum. I don't think that now; however, I am not a Republican. I am not deserting the Democratic party, but only striving, with the aid of millions of men and women of high ideals, to bring it back to higher standards."

Faces Great Crisis

The country, according to Mr. Llewllyn, is facing the third great crisis in its development, the first and second having been, he said, the declaration of independence from England, and the Civil war.

Through his talk, the former prosecutor stressed the need of crushing what he termed "an alliance between Al Smith and the Pope at Rome," which he charged would result if the former were given the presidential office. He further charged that the Catholic faith was against the public school system, and that should Smith be elected he would not favor laws beneficial to that aspect of the national life.

Llewylln was introduced by W. M. Calvert, Republican committeeman for the Electra district, and chairman of the Electra Hoover for President club, under the auspices of which the Dallas speaker appeared.

Plainsman In Initial Trip

wound its way through the streets of the city breaking up at the courthouse where the visitors were allowed to view the products exhibited at the annual Floyd county fair which closed here last Saturday.

The visitors were then taken for an automobile drive over the city and to points of interest in the surrounding countryside.

Starts Return Trip

At 6 o'clock this evening the Plainsman started its return trip to Oklahoma City carrying the tired but happy delegation back to their respective towns. In addition to the delegations who came to Floydada today on the new Q. A. and P train there were business men here from Lubbock, Quitaque, Lockney, Hale Center, Amarillo and Plainview. Heading the delegation of 200 from Plainview was L. S. Kinder, chairman of the trip committee, Mayor Tom Shelton and Maury Hopkins, secretary of the chamber of commerce. The Plainview delegation made the trip here by automobile.

Everywhere the Plainsman stopped this morning there were large crowds at the depots. Quanah was represented on the train by more than 300 persons, including the municipal band, under the direction of E. S. Hamilton. Heading the Quanah delegation was Mayor J. E. Magee, B. E. Howell, president, and Carl Guin, secretary, of the Chamber of Commerce.

The train made brief stops at Acme, Lazare and Swearington before arriving at Paducah, where a street parade was staged and a concert was played by the Quanah band. Paducah's delegation numbered about 140 and was headed by Mayor John W. Carroll and W. H. Abernathy, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The Paducah school band, under the direction of Joe King, also boarded the train after playing a concert at the station platform.

125 At Roaring Springs

One hundred and 25 persons climbed aboard the Plainsman at Roaring Springs. The party was headed by G. F. Stephens, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Forty persons from Matador also joined the train at Roaring Springs. The Matador citizens were headed by Mayor C. L. Glenn.

There was a real reception accorded the train at Dougherty, the newest town on the road for it has been built during the past year. Two lumber yards, two grain elevators, one cotton gin and two brick business buildings have been erected in the town besides a number of homes. Climbing aboard the train at Dougherty was a special reception committee from Floydada composed of Lon M. Davis, E. P. Nelson, T. K. Wheelen, Homer Steen and G. A. Lider. These men passed out small cans which read "Q. A. and P. First Train, Floydada, Oct. 1, 1928."

Completion of the Q. A. and P. extension this year from Roaring Springs to Floydada marks the realization of a dream and vision that has been in the minds of many for a number of years. It was Sam Lazarus, noted capitalist and developer of West Texas, who first conceived and promoted the idea of the extension. He is now dead. The Q. A. and P. railroad was finished from Quanah to Paducah a distance of 43 miles in 1910. In 1913 the road was extended to Roaring Springs, a distance of 38 miles. Last year the Q. A. and P. acquired the spur running from Matador to Roaring Springs from the Motley County Railroad Co. The 30-mile extension from Roaring Springs to Floydada was completed only recently. There has been freight service on the road since last July but today was the first time a passenger train has passed over the new extension. The distance from Floydada to Oklahoma City is 293 miles.

Railroad officials aboard the Plainsman on its initial run from Oklahoma City to Floydada were A. F. Sommer of Quanah, vice president and general manager of the Q. A. and P. road; T. K. Hawkins, general passenger agent; W. L. Richardson, general agent; M. G. Buffington of Oklahoma City, Frisco commercial agent, and J. L. Douglas, traveling passenger agent for the Frisco lines.

NORRIS ACTIVE IN DEMO BATTLE

Nebraska Senator Pushes Al's Candidacy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (US)—Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, embattled leader of the insurgent forces in congress, will definitely and actively support Gov. Alfred E. Smith for president in the campaign tour of the west which he will begin this week.

The decision of the veteran leader, who for nearly 25 years has been one of the outstanding independent figures in the national public life, was learned authoritatively today.

Smith's attitude upon three of the major issues of the campaign have won the powerful support of the Nebraska independent. They may be named in this order of importance to Norris: Governor Smith's acceptance of the McNary-Haugen farm relief principle and his definite promise to find the "mechanics" for making it operative; his denunciation of the power-trust lobby, coupled with his declaration for public ownership of the vast water-power sites; this general promise to bring to the national government, if elected, a progressive viewpoint, displacing what Norris regards as the "reactionary" forces now in power.

On the prohibition issue alone, Norris disagrees with Governor Smith but he accepts the governor's basic declaration that any change in either the Volstead act or the amendment itself ought to be decided by the people on a referendum.

Norris will leave Washington this week on a campaign tour through the northwest, from Minnesota to Washington, for the direct purpose of supporting the six senators of the progressive bloc, both Democrats and Republicans, who are candidates for re-election.

Master's degrees were conferred at a gathering of 300 Masons from Wichita Falls and surrounding towns by the 33rd Scottish Rite degree team of Dallas Saturday night at Faith lodge rooms.

The degree team included W. C. Temple, J. L. Stephens, Walter Lang, Alec Frasier, W. A. Browning and J. C. Jones. Members of the team were guests of the Wichita Valley Scottish Rite club at a banquet at the Masonic temple Saturday night.

The banquet which is a rite known as the "Feast of the Tabernacle," was held through the courtesy of V. E. Stampfil and the Wichita Falls chapter 237, O. E. S.

Guy Rogers, president of the Scottish Rite club, acted as toastmaster. Masonic talks were made after the banquet by Rabbi S. J. Schwab and the members of the degree team.

Firemen Will Assist in In Grass Burning, Says George

"Burn your weeds and let the city help you."

This appeal was made to the citizenship of Wichita Falls Monday by George D. Fairtrace, city manager.

"The weeds should be burned, but they should be burned in a way that will frighten no one and that will endanger no lives or property," he said.

Anyone wishing to burn weeds should telephone to the fire chief of the police chief and city firemen will come out to be on duty in case of any emergency.

Loud Pajamas Bad For Sleep, Is Claim

LONDON, Oct. 1. (UP)—British makers of women's pajamas have launched a campaign to boost the sale of their products in colors which are conducive to repose.

"Lurid pajamas cause restless sleep," is the motto of the makers, and the new pajamas are of colors designed especially to enable the owners to get more and better sleep.

Pale Mauves, shell pinks, and delicate blues are now shown and the theory is that such colors will not cause restlessness such as is supposed to be the result of violent purples, reds and greens.

Another interesting discovery in connection with the analysis of pajama sales is that stripes add slimness and trimness to the figure and slim figures are more alluring than plump ones. But despite their puzzling they have been unable to answer the puzzle.

Council Votes New Ordinances, Adjourns

Two ordinances of the air were considered and passed on second reading at the meeting of the city council Monday night. One would regulate the operation of Kell field, the Wichita Falls municipal airport, in conformity with a contract to operate the field now existing between the city and L. P. Hammond.

A protest was received from the Wichita Falls Baseball association against an increase in tax values on the ball park this year for temporary stands. The tax value was set at the same figure it was last year.

The council adjourned after a 20 minute session in order that those who wished might hear Senator Morris Sheppard speak.

Two Northwest Texas Firms Get Charters

Announcements of the secretary of state at Austin included charters to the Mount Carmel Gin company of Electra, with a capital stock of $30,000. Incorporators were given as H. C. Obenhaus, W. E. Palmer and N. F. Strickland.

The Sunflower Oil company of Bulcher was chartered with a capital stock of $8,000. Incorporators were given as A. P. Thornton, V. J. Pembroke and D. L. Monroe.

Tax Collections for Month at High Mark

Collections of delinquent city taxes were almost three times as much for September, 1928, as for the same month of 1927, it was revealed by the records of the office of W. R. Hyer, city tax assessor and collector, Monday.

September, 1928, totaled $6,858.34 September last year totaled only $2,350.61.

Occupational taxes of $135 for last month brought the total city collections of the tax office to $6,723.34.

18 Hoover Supporters Hear Stinging Attacks on Al Smith and Robinson

Denouncing Al Smith and the members of the Wichita county Democratic committee and singing the praises of Herbert Hoover for president, J. W. Nicholson, former Democratic precinct chairman, Early Van Deventer, a candidate for nomination as representative of district 112 in the July primary, and Rev. W. H. Roper, retired Methodist Minister, headed a Hoover rally of 18 persons at the Baptist tabernacle at 2206 Holliday street Monday night.

Van Deventer opened the meeting for the night as soon as Nicholson took the floor by asking him if the right to restore him to his place in the county Democratic executive committee could be appealed over the ruling against him in the court of appeals at Fort Worth last week.

Nicholson answered, "Yes, it could be carried farther if we were a mind to do so but if the people do not care enough about it to fight for their rights I haven't the money and cannot carry it farther. It is of no special benefit to me other than that I would like to know that I had triumphed over those who have violated a right which is not theirs."

Against Liquor

He went on in his talk to say that he had never declared that he would support Al Smith because he had been opposed to liquor and had voted against it since his first ballot.

"The trickery and keenery of the Al Smith crowd got us unseated in the Beaumont convention. They have insulted the voters of this precinct and I class them Romanized, Tammanized, Al Smith supporters. If I can do or say anything to defeat Smith I will do so," Mr. Nicholson declared.

He concluded his speech with a history of his presidential votes in the past and saying, "If the methods of Scurry and his crowd is Democracy I am not a Democrat. But I am a Democrat and I'll fight for my people. Let us bury them so deep with their faces down that the more they scratch and claw to get out the closer they will come to the place where they belong."

Rev. Roper then took the floor and declared that if Smith and Robinson thought that the anti-Smithites were launching a whispering campaign against them they were badly mistaken

He asserted that the howl of religious intolerance was nothing but "campaign bunk" and a screen spread by Smith and Robinson to ward off the "booze question," and the "real issue of the campaign."

"Evening Headache"

During the course of his address Rev. Roper referred to the evening paper as the "Evening Headache" and declared that it was not fair in giving its praises and accusations. He concluded his talk by saying:

"They speak of us as traitors and bolters. We are not bolters of the party but of Al Smith because he has bolted both the party and the platform."

Van Deventer was the last speaker to take the floor. He declared that he thought Nicholson had been paid a great honor in being ousted from the party and likened him to Biblical characters.

Nicholson declared that the scheduled organization of precinct 17 against Smith could not be carried out at that time because many of the Hoover supporters had not shown up for the meeting.

Other than the signing of cards to support Hoover, the organization was not furthered.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—New York harbor, with its constant armada of ships flaunting the flags of countries bordering the seven seas, presents a constant shifting panorama as the majestic passenger liners steam proudly to their berths and the port's lesser craft scuttle about like a fiddler's crab in a nautical game of hide-and-seek.

Throughout the year the harbor is constantly reflecting interesting scenes. Ships from the old world mingle with the more modern liners of the western hemisphere and there is ever a picture to stir the imagination as these ambassadors of trade steam into harbor from quarantine or slip majestically down to sea.

Each day the port releases a consignment of her patrons for the far-off lands of foreign climes or receives some emissary from a remote and distant port of call. Along the water front there is constant shifting color and romance. Each of the floating hotels tied up at dock, idling up the harbor while awaiting a favorable tide to warp in, or steaming out to sea represents a miniature world within itself and reflects from its decks the customs of the country whose flag it bears.

In the passenger liners, the nation the ship presents is revealed by the crew, the cuisine, the decorative scheme, furnishings and staterooms, salons and dining rooms. These barks that go down to sea bear a strange resemblance to the architecture and craftmanship of the country that christened them through the very design of their hulls, the superstructure and their bows. Their huge funnels fortell often their nationality while still a mere vague silhouette on the distant horizon of the ocean.

Day and night there is constant shifting in the picturesque panorama of this cosmopolitan harbor. From the west side uptown piers of the Hudson, to the mammoth freight and passenger docks of Brooklyn, Hoboken and lower Manhattan, there is an ever changing scene to bestir the imagination of the most indolent, engendering the longing to embark aboard a member of this wandering tribe of sea Gypsies and migrate to some distant shore where pleasure reigns supreme and romance ever lingers.

Steamship companies have speeded up the sailing schedules of their huge floating investments in their eagerness to handle the lion's share of the lucrative exodus of tourists. In the warping in, the casting off of the ships at the piers and docks, one senses the high rivalry that has developed along the waterfront since the opening of the tourist season. There is reflected all along the line, the alertness of a business functioning under forced draft of an organization operating with the throttle open, the accelerator jammed down.

In a month it is estimated that more than 100 000 tourists, or those on business bent have embarked for a brief respite or longer sojourn across the Atlantic, and, according to steamship officials the migration abroad this year will break all records.

During the sailing hours of the large liners, the transatlantic fliers present scenes reminiscent of a holiday jam at Coney Island, or a port of embarkation, during the world war. Thousands of friends and relatives augment the other thousands constituting the passenger lists, and the congestion requires the assignment of extra police and traffic cops along the transportation arteries leading to the docks. The long line of cabs jockeying for a place of vantage along the waterfront the vortex of humanity milling through the exits or portals of the wharves give but a faint inkling of the magnitude of this annual migration to allen shores.

London Cabinet Talks Over American Note

LONDON, Oct. 1. (INS)—The American note is believed to have been discussed at a cabinet meeting today over which Premier Baldwin presided. It is understood that the cabinet canvassed the advisability of replying to the American communication, but no announcement was made and it was not known if any formal decision was reached.

WIGWAM CLUB BANQUET

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 1 (UP)—Jazz music and modern attire replaced medicine, dances and paint and feathers when 1000 Indians representing many tribes, gathered here Sunday for the first picnic of the Wigwam club of America. Political buttons were the only adornments worn by several chiefs.

The Danger Point

THE principle of speed on the highway, as fostered today by many automotive manufacturers, would be quite sound and safe were it not for one serious public fault. That, as one automotive magazine calls it, is "overdriving."

Overdriving is going faster than the speed at which it is possible to make a turn, or crossing, or other highway kink safely. Overdriving, not too much speed, is what causes the accidents.

For instance, there is no earthly reason why a person should be kept down to 35 miles an hour when he has a long, straight stretch of wide concrete road before him. He can make greater speed with perfect ease and safety here. When there are no crossroads, no turns, no railroad crosssings, few other cars and hardly a pedestrian in his way, why not?

The danger lies in hitting a turn at too great a speed, or flashing by a crossing without slowing down. It is at such points that most, if not practically all, highway accidents occur.

At night, a motorist should drive only so fast as to be able to stop within the length of the illuminated part of the road. If his lights show him the way up to 200 feet ahead, he must regulate his speed to stop that distance at the first emergency. For who can tell what obstruction might turn up in the 10 feet to come?

The solution to the speed problem lies, therefore, in the education of the motorist and the cultivation of his sane impulses toward proper use of the road. This is a natural law of safe driving and it requires teaching just as do those of learning to drive.

Ousley Defends His Plan

COL. CLARENCE OUSLEY, one of the high officials of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, has made another defense of highway policy of building and maintaining state highways by charges upon the traffic which has the indorsement of his organization.

In the first place he said it is only just that those who use the roads should pay for them. In the next place he says we must do something to relieve our agricultural land of the burden of taxation or we deliberately invite greater disaster than we have yet suffered. In Collin county last week he said he was informed that the taxable values had declined about $8,000,000 and that the road tax in that county is $1.12 on the $100.

Collin county, he remarked, is not an exception in the black land region, nor in any other region of Texas where permanent highways have been built by local taxation.

As the economist and lecturer of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce sees it, "believes that the plan of furnishing free road beds by the present process of taxation is inequitable, unjust and depressing."

Hence the declaration of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce that "those who use the roads should pay for them."

Highway building and the growing of cotton are subjects close to the heart of the colonel. For instance:

"We face a crisis in the South as well as in the nation from an agricultural standpoint. Agricultural investments have declined for the last seven years from about $76,000,000,000 to about $57,000,000,000 and taxes on agricultural investment have increased in that period from $344,000,000 to more than $800,000,000. In the South we have produced in the last three years about 45,000,000 bales of cotton and the world has used in that period about 46,800,000 bales of cotton. Thus in the three years we have produced nearly 2,000,000 bales less than the world's actual need and yet we have sold the two preceding crops at less than cost and the present prospects are that we are to receive no more than cost for the crop now coming to market. There are those who insist that agricultural production must be governed by the law of supply and demand, and they object to any act of government to any aid of agriculture."

Colonel Ousley demands the same legislative aid for agriculture that the makers of things have been getting for 50 years from their government. He believes that lands of the tillers of the soil should be relieved from burdensome highway taxation. He demands a net profit for the products of the growers of things. This is his argument:

"I submit that a consumption of 46,800,000 bales of cotton with a production of 45,000,000 bales of cotton, under the law of supply and demand, should have furnished a handsome profit instead of a loss to producers. Plainly the law of supply and demand is not working in respect to agricultural production. And I insist that agriculture is entitled to the same consideration at the hands of government that railways, banks, labor and manufacturing have received, and I call upon the business men of the South to give their minds and their efforts to the solution of this problem. In Texas we cannot solve the national agricultural problem, though we can contribute mightily to it if we will take the pains to understand it and will exercise our political powers in wisdom and courage, but certainly in Texas we can relieve our land of burdensome highway taxes that are now oppressing them."

There is a lot of work cut out for the forty-first lawmakers. There is a West Texas Chamber of Commerce with its demands and suggestions. There is an East Texas Chamber of Commerce with its demands and suggestions. There is a Southwest Texas Chamber of Commerce with its demands and suggestions to throw into the legislative hopper and representatives to appeal to the petitioners to hearken to the voice of their section. It goes without saying that the third house of the forty-first legislature will be crowded to the overflowing.

PARTY AND MATRIMONY TANGLE

Mrs. J. C. Griswold, Republican national committeewoman for Texas, reports that many men in that state have told her their wives would divorce them if they voted for Smith, and says: "There's great hope for Texas to go for Hoover, thanks to the fine Democratic women who value the welfare of their state and nation above party." But what about the "value" the neighbors of these "fine women" put upon the poor fish they drag at the end of their matrimonial hook-and-line?

COUNTY NEEDS PAVED ROADS

As the heavy hauling season approaches, the need of paved roads in Collingsworth county becomes more apparent. Two-thirds aid can be secured on a large part of the highway that needs paving and it is possible that two-thirds aid could be secured on all that would be paved. To say the least one-third aid can be secured on an east and west route while two-thirds can be secured on the north and south route. It seems a shame for the people of Collingsworth county to be denied the advantages of the good roads when they have already paid or are paying for so much of them without having the privilege of using them.

The Room Under the Stairs

The Baffling Story of a Man Who Read of His Own Murder

By HERMAN LANDON

Copyright by G. Howard Watt — Serialized by Ledger Syndicate

Synopsis of Preceding Installment

Thomas Dean, well-known writer of mystery novels, has buried his past in his present success. No one knows that he is Paul Forrester who as a youngster had been mixed up in a chorus girl's breach of promise suit, and had also figured in a self-defense killing out West. As a result of the latter he bears a scar on the right side of his neck. Dean, therefore, is dumfounded to read in the morning paper the death-bed confession of Paul Forrester's murder made by Martin Lamont, western business man on a visit to New York, in which the dying man repents his five-year-old crime. Matters are further complicated by a visit from a strange lady, mysterious little Viola Gray, who tries to connect one of Dean's stories with Forrester's secret.

Resolving to clear up the mystery, Dean visits his family home, where the murder was committed, and runs into his friend, Lieutenant Shane, of the police force, who believes the novelist is merely seeking fiction material.

Together they visit "the Room Under the Stairs," and find the remains of Paul Forrester. Identification of the body is completed by a watch bearing the initials "P. F."

Theories

The novelist nodded dully. He restrained a wild impulse to shout to Shane that a mistake had been made, that the watch was his property, that he was Paul Forrester, but he realized in time how useless it would be. Shane would either think that he was indulging in a poor jest, or that he had suddenly gone insane. And then it suddenly occurred to Dean that he might find several obstacles in his way if he should ever wish to prove that he was Paul Forrester. People would either laugh at him or look at him pityingly, just as Shane would have done a moment ago if he had blurted out the statement that had been on the tip of his tongue. Lamont's deathbed confession seemed to have cut every link connecting him with his past.

"Of course," said Shane, as if trying to humor him, "if you insist we'll ask Lamont if he's positive the man he killed was Paul Forrester. The joke may keep him alive another day."

For a time they rode in silence. Dean's mind conceiving and discarding all sorts of fanciful theories. Now and then there flashed through his mind the suspicion that some form of dual identity was responsible for the amazing situation. The supposition seemed absurd, but nothing that was within the range of reason fitted the circumstances. He wondered if it were possible that Lamont had killed a man whose name was Paul Forrester, whose description tallied with that of Paul Forrester, who had been in the Forrester house on the night of the murder, and who had carried Paul Forrester's watch in his pocket, yet was not the same Paul Forrester who was now known as Thomas Dean. His reason promptly quashed the idea. Such a combination of circumstances had never existed and never would. Yet, unless he resorted to a supernatural explanation, it seemed to be the only theory that covered the facts in the case.

With a slight start he looked up from his profitless musings, uncomfortably aware that the oldish man in the seat opposite the one occupied by himself and his companion was regarding him with a rather sustained glance. More embarrassing still, his gaze seemed fixed on the point where Dean's collar obscured the blemish on his neck. Perhaps he was only imagining; he was often seized with an absurd feeling that the scar was exposed to the view of any one who cared to look. The man in the opposite seat might be in the habit of looking at people like that. And his gaze, though fixed, was not at all curious. Dean resolved he had been mistaken again, but in the next moment a grimly fantastic idea struck him. He wondered whether the other Paul Forrester, if such a person existed, had also been afflicted with a blemish of that kind. Since the resemblance covered so many other points, why not also this one?

It was a preposterous reflection, but well suited to his mood, just the kind of vagary that was apt to steal into a mind incapacitated for sane and sober thought.

A moment later the train stopped at Kew Gardens.

Beside the Deathbed

The residence of Dennis Littleby, the lawyer, was a substantial structure of uniquely architecture and a somewhat forbidding aspect. It had a dreary and ancient look that set it off from its more modern neighbors in the suburban community and evidently it had been built many years ago, in anticipation of the rapid expansion of the city that drove the cows away from what not so long ago had been rolling prairie.

A servant admitted them, and Shane announced that they wished to speak with the master of the house. They were shown into a gloomy drawing room, the servant admonishing them to be quiet, as Mr. Lamont was very low, but the warning scarcely seemed necessary, for in that dispiriting atmosphere it came natural to walk softly and speak in whispers.

Soon Littleby appeared, a long, thin and saturnine man with hard gray eyes whose beetling brows seemed to accentuate their sharp luster. He was possibly in his late fifties. His nose was long and narrow and seemed to be constantly on the alert for stray scents. Together with the thin and tightly compressed lips it gave him an appearance of owlish intentness.

"My friend Lamont is a very sick man," he announced gravely in reply to Shane's inquiry. "It is doubtful whether he will live through the night. I left my office early, though I have pressing business on hand, wishing to be within call if he should need me. What's your pleasure, gentlemen?"

The lieutenant explained that they wished to see the sick man.

Littleby frowned and fingered the gold-rimmed pince-nez that hung from a ribbon around his neck.

"Doctor Ballinger has just left," he explained, "leaving orders that he was to be called immediately in the event of a change in Lamont's condition. He gave no directions in regard to visitors. I suppose you may see him but I doubt whether he will be able to tell you anything. What do you wish to discuss with him?"

Shane introduced the novelist, and instantly the latter felt the scrutiny of the lawyer's eyes, penetrating and yet unobtrusive, giving him the impression of being in the presence of a subtle and forceful personality.

"As you know, Mr. Littleby," said the lieutenant, somewhat apologetically, "it is my job to look into every angle of this case. I don't want to slip up on anything. My friend Dean here, who has a lively imagination, has an idea that the man Lamont killed might have been somebody else than Paul Forrester."

Dean was aware of an odd flicker in the eyes that regarded him so fixedly and yet without the slightest hint of a stare.

"I thought my client's confession was quite conclusive on that point," said the lawyer dryly. "I don't see what basis you can have for such an assumption, Mr. Dean."

The novelist felt an impulse to retort that his "assumption" was founded on the soundest possible basis, but he checked it in time. Without waiting for an answer, Littleby turned and motioned the two callers to follow him up a stairway.

Dean felt a little awed as he meditated on the weird features of the forthcoming interview with the dying man. As yet Shane had said nothing to Littleby in regard to his real object in visiting the sick chamber, but Dean knew what that object was. The lieutenant wished to verify his hunch, as he had expressed it, that the guilt of murder was not the only thing that was troubling Lamont.

They entered a large heavily furnished room, illuminated by a single electric light. There was a reek of medicaments in the air, and also, as Dean instantly perceived, that vague and nameless essence which is often present in a room where death stands at the threshold. The dying man lay on his back in a huge four-poster bed, his gray-fringed head propped up with pillows, his shriveled and ashen face staring rigidly at the ceiling. His breath came hard and rasping, but for the present he seemed to suffer no pain.

At a whispered word from the lawyer, the nurse in attendance withdrew. The lieutenant sat down on a chair beside the bed, with Dean and Littleby watching behind his back. As yet the sick man seemed unaware that others were present.

"Mr. Lamont," said the lieutenant gently, and a paroxysm shook the man on the bed. He turned his head, and his eyes, with their shattered luster, stared into the faces of the three watchers.

"These are friends of mine," Littleby explained. "They wish to ask you a few questions."

With a weary nod of comprehension the sick man resumed his original position.

"I want to ask you a question, Mr. Lamont," said Shane. "Have you any proof, aside from what you have already given us, that the man you killed five and a half years ago was Paul Forrester?"

The rise and fall of the coverlet over the sick man's chest stopped for a few moments. Lamont fixed a dazed look on the speaker.

"Proof?" His voice was scarcely aboue a whisper. "Haven't you enough already? What more do you want? Of course I killed him."

"You saw him clearly? There was a light in the room? Are you sure you didn't mistake some one else for Paul Forrester?"

A ghastly smile twisted the dying man's lips. "I'm sure," he said rasplingly. "There was a light in the room. I saw him face to face. There was no mistake. Why do you ask me?"

His voice grew feebler and feebler with each sentence, and there were little pauses between the words.

"Think hard, Mr. Lamont. Can't you think of something else that will convince us that the man you killed was Paul Forrester? Wasn't something said by Forrester that would have identified him even if the room had been dark and you hadn't been able to see his face? Or did you notice anything else—"

Shane paused and leaned over the bed, the better to hear what the sick man was about to say. Even from where he stood behind the lieutenant, Dean could see that a change had come over Lamont's face. The lawyer stood tense and expectant beside him, waiting for the dying man's answer. Shane was looking directly into the bloodless face, and Dean knew that he was less interested in the forthcoming answer than in ferreting out the secret which he believed the dying man was still keeping.

Then Lamont turned his head until his eyes fixed on the small table beside the bed. A few bottles were standing there, also an extension telephone. Dean, watching him with tremulous interest, saw his eyes grow wild as they fell on the nickel-trimmed instrument. He could not understand, but Lamon was staring at the telephone as if it were an object of extreme horror.

Shane, too, appeared to notice the sick man's strange behavior, but he merely repeated his question.

"Didn't you notice anything else, Mr. Lamont?"

The Scar

For a moment longer the sick man's eyes were fixed with shuddering intentness on the telephone, then he wrenched his gaze from it.

"Anything else? Yes, there was —something else," he said brokenly. "Forrester ducked to escape the blow when I struck at him. He twisted his neck a little, and then—then I saw the scar."

"The scar?" echoed Shane in perplexed tones, while a chill quiver ran down Dean's back.

"Yes, the scar," mumbled Lamont. "I saw it plainly when he ducked and craned his neck to dodge the blow. A big livid scar that looked like an old knife wound. I can see it yet."

The sick man closed his eyes. Dean, with a whirling tumult in his head, moved toward the bed. He felt he must see at closer range the face of the man who had just made that astounding statement.

"You are sure of that?" he asked sharply, heedless of what the others might think of his conduct. "You're positive you saw a scar on Forrester's neck?"

Lamont turned his head a little; his eyes, with their fluctuating sparkle, widened slightly. While Littleby remained in the background, Dean leaned over the dying man to catch the answer that trembled on his blue-tinged lips.

"Yes, I'm posi—" Lamont's words choked on a queer gurgling sound. A great tremor shook his shrunken figure, propped up against the pillows. His face grew rigid, with lips agape and eyes staring. His chest heaved, and a deeper pallor settled over his shrunken features.

Dean, still leaning forward, heard a perplexed mutter at his back. It came from Shane, who understood nothing, but sat engrossed with the spectacle that was being enacted before his eyes. The sudden transformation in the sick man was startling enough to absorb him. In the rear stood Littleby, tall and somber, his fingers restlessly picking at the ribbon of his glasses.

Then Iamon reached down and, summoning all his paltry strength, raised himself a little higher on the pillows. Dean felt a clammy hand running along the edge of his collar. The physical contact gave him a chill, but his mental revulsion was still greater. In a twinkling he knew the reason for the sick man's feverish excitement. Lamont had seen the scar!

Their eyes met, staring into each other, and Dean writhed for a moment beneath the dreadful spell of the other's flaming orbs. Then Lamont's head rose higher. It seemed as if all the force that was left in him was being spent in that slow, upward movement. His eyes grew wider and more terrifyingly bright, shattering the film that had dimmed them a few minutes ago. For a little he sat thus, rigid in every muscle, and then another violent spasm shook him. The mouth sagged, the eyes lost a portion of their feverish luster, a shadow spread over the gaunt face, a long, trembling cry broke from his lips and his head fell back against the pillows.

Littleby threw the door open and called loudly to the nurse. She entered quickly, gave the man on the bed a swift, calm inspection and reached for a hypodermic needle.

"Not—dead?" asked Littleby.

"No, but he has had a severe shock. Please telephone Dr. Ballinger. And you gentlemen must leave him at once."

The lawyer hurried out. Lieutenant Shane jerked up his broad shoulders, drew a long breath and whispered to Dean.

"Let's go," he said.

THE OLD HOME

I close my eyes and see sometimes that boyhood home I knew,
And, in my mind, explore again, and roam the old place through;
The furnishings in our old home
were not all made to sell;
Though very plain, it sheltered me;
I'll love it long and well.

There is the fireplace that it had,
designed for six-foot wood,
And in the corner was dad's bed;
why, ceiling high it stood!
An easy chair beside the lamp—its legs were scarred and worn;
The "almost" leather seat of it was cracked, and rough, and torn.
And there's the bureau, tall and big
—the middle drawer was mine—
Our "study table" standing there was made of varnished pine.

I see the kitchen with a stove as big as three stoves now,
Where mama cooked our "three a day," and, oh, but she know how
To cook those roasts and pies and cakes—those culinary joys
That cured the wolfish appetites of hungry girls and boys.

But all those things are visions
now, and yet that vision brings
A near contempt for things I have —these modern, shiny things
Of high veneer, and polished brass,
and spick and span and new;
The times have changed, and modern life has brought another view
Of how a home should be equipped with modern things that shine;
I'd gladly trade this modern place for that old home of mine!

sard, please answer tonight," were distributed outside the door of the auditorium as the crowd streamed through the doors. The circulars carried nothing to indicate their source of authorship.

One of the questions asked Senator Sheppard whether he, as a member of the senate, would support recommended changes in the 18th amendment if Governor Smith should be elected president.

Statement Cheered

"Governor Smith's suggestions would not be a party program, and I would in no wise be bound to follow them," Senator Sheppard declared. His statement was greeted by prolonged cheering.

Feeble efforts at heckling were made twice during the meeting. During the introduction he proclaimed his loyalty to the Democratic party, and the crowd began to applaud. Someone in the rear of the hall shouted something, but the sound apparently was not noticed by the speaker. Later on, when he mentioned the name of Herbert Hoover for the first time, some one began a clapping of hands, but ceased immediately when no others joined in the attempted interruption.

Throughout his talk, Senator Sheppard insisted that the major issue of the campaign is a restoration of the government to the people rather than a question of "wet or dry." Prohibition already is the law, he insisted, and Governor Al Smith, he declared, has proved by his own public record and is pledged to the enforcement of law.

He charged that during the Republican administration, there has been a constant flowing of power and of property rights from the hands of the many to the few. The "privileged few" have been absorbing the greater part of the national wealth, and never before as during the last few years, he said. Even the retail establishments of localities, he said, are being taken into monopolies. The time seems to approach, he added, when the many must, in order to sustain life, devote their time and energies to produce luxuries for the few.

Unless conditions change, he warned, the death of liberty for the masses will be sounded.

"An empire is crystallizing on every side," he continued, as he charged that Republicans are of the party which produced the doctrine of Alexander Hamilton that the government should be dominated by an aristocracy of wealth.

Rising to speak as a band played the "Sidewalks of New York," Senator Sheppard sounded his keynote with his first sentence.

"The supreme need of the nation today," he said, "is for the return of the Democratic party to power through the election of Smith and Robinson."

The statement was greeted by cheers.

The senator predicted Governor Smith's election next November and there were more cheers.

Governor Smith was pictured by Senator Sheppard as being a man who had been fitted by early environment, ability and training in the science of government for elevation to the presidency. Born in comparative poverty, the speaker related, Governor Smith was forced by circumstances as a boy to assume the responsibility of a widowed mother's support. As a boy, Governor Smith was the beneficiary of a Christian mother's influence. As a husband, father and grandfather, Senator Sheppard said, Governor Smith has shown a constant desire to be surrounded by his family. The trait, the speaker declared, is one which should appeal to the ideals of the nation.

"America needs more than anything else a representative of the plain, common people," he declared. "Hoover has spent most of his active business career in foreign lands. Smith has spent his time at home among his own people. For my part, I prefer a man who has followed the all-American path."

Talks on Tammany

The Tammany Hall attack upon Smith was next treated by Senator Sheppard. It was a natural thing, he said, that Smith, as an ambitious young man, would seek membership in the Democratic organization of a district in which Democrats held control. The speaker declared that Thomas Jefferson sought the help of Tammany, and owed one election to the presidency to its support. He recited that during the days of the reconstruction, Tammany Hall was the first in the north to "take the South to its bosom and help bind the wounds of the strife."

"I hold no brief for Tammany Hall," he said, "but I do know that among its members are men as loyal, upright and honest as will be found anywhere. I know that Governor Smith will permit no influence to swerve him from the path he believes to be right.

"And, while we are discussing Tammany, let us not forget that the tide was turned for Hoover at Kansas City by Vare, of Pennsylvania; Vare—the head of the wet Philadelphia machine whose methods have made Tammany lift its hands in horror; Vare—who is about to be removed from the senate because of excessive campaign expenditures."

Smith's record in public life, the speaker continued, has proved his fitness for the presidency. As four times governor of New York, Senator Sheppard said, Smith has developed the "most effective instrument of human service ever known."

"What a prophecy for Hoover," the speaker remarked as he recited the majorities by which Governor Smith had been elected chief executive of his state.

Senator Sheppard then gave his attention to the circular which had been distributed at the entrance. Five of the seven questions referred to prohibition. In answer to them, Senator Sheppard said that Governor Smith's order to his state police had assisted in prohibition enforcement; that he believed that Tammany Hall had supported appropriations to enforce prohibition although it had originally opposed the law; and that he does not regard the Smith-Hoover contest as being a "solemn referendum" on prohibition.

Denies Statement Made

The speaker read only one sentence of the next question, to the effect that "Mr. Smith has declared he was opposed to the immigration quota being based on the 1920 census."

"Governor Smith made no such statement, so I can't answer that," remarked Senator Sheppard, as he returned to his outlined address.

The speaker charged that although the Republican party has been in power during 60 of the past 68 years, it has wholly failed to enact legislation of benefit to business or agriculture. By way of contrast, he declared, the Democrats during six years of power between 1913 and 1919, enacted measures which have been beneficial to, and in some cases, the salvation of agriculture and business.

Under Republican rule, he said, there has been an ever increasing tendency toward centralization of power and resources.

Referring to the prosperity issue, he cited that fewer than one-fourth of the families of the nation live in homes owned by themselves; that 17 per cent of the children leave school before completing the fifth grade; and that 2 per cent of the people own 40 per cent of the wealth.

"Those are samples of Republican prosperity under the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover chief adviser-Teapot Dome regime," he declared.

Referring to agriculture, he said that every cost the farmer has to pay has increased enormously. During the same period, he said, the prices of products of the farm have remained almost stationary. Only the fact that farmers have adopted modern methods to production has enabled them to survive, he declared.

The meeting was called to order by Judge Edgar Scurry, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee, who introduced Charles L. Francis. Mr. Francis, a member of the Texas campaign committee, introduced Senator Sheppard.

Mr. Francis stressed the religious issue after declaring that the only doubt concerning Texas in the approaching election is whether the Smith majority "will be 200,000 or 350,000."

He charged that prohibition and religion are being used by the "Republicans as a smoke screen to obscure the real issues of the campaign."

"As for this religious issue, I am not concerned," he continued. "Nor is any other good American citizen who believes in the principles on which the American government was founded by the patriarchs of old. But if it comes to a choice, I will choose that of Governor Smith in preference to that practiced by Elder Will H. Hayes."

Hoover's Helpers Named

Referring to the Tammany hall question, Mr. Francis directed attention "to some of those who made Hoover's nomination possible at Kansas City." The speaker charged that Senator Fess, one Hoover leader, defended Harry Daugherty on the floor of the United States senate and opposed the oil investigations. Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant United States attorney general, he said, made a trip to New York to testify for Daugherty. Senator Smoot, another leader, Francis said, assisted Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, in the preparation of his defense. Senator Lenroot, Hoover campaign manager, admitted the acceptance of $20,000 for lobbying before the water power trust, Francis charged.

Senator Sheppard's address was purposely delayed until 8:30 p. m. so as to permit its being broadcast over KGKO, Wichita Falls. The band which played the instant before he began to speak was directed by Leo Underwood.

Senator Sheppard's address in full follows:

The supreme need of our country is a return of the Democratic party to national control this year through the election of Smith and Robinson. Naturally, our first inquiry should be as to the qualifications of the Democratic nominee for president,—the present Democratic governor of the state of New York, the next president of the United States—Alfred E. Smith. The experiences of his own life have given him a profound and sympathetic acquaintance with the needs and troubles of humanity. Born and reared amid humble surroundings in the state of New York, compelled to leave school at an early age to aid in the support of his widowed mother and the younger children, he never obtained a college education, but, like many other leaders, he obtained actual contact with the world, a knowledge of the masses and their problems and conceived among them a sense of justice and overwhelming passion for their welfare. The time has come when our country needs more than anything else, the leadership of such a representative of the plain, common sense American people. Hoover spent his entire active business life in foreign lands, while Governor Smith, throughout his entire experience, remained in constant touch with American conditions and American people. As for me, I prefer the man who has taken the "all-American" path.

God-Fearing Neighborhood

The immediate neighborhood in which Governor Smith was brought up was composed of hard-working, God-fearing, home-loving, Christian men and women. The influences of localities of unsavory reputation, such as exist in all great cities, never caused him to go astray. Throughout his childhood, his youth and his early manhood, he was under the continuous and personal influence of his mother. And when he was crowned in due course, with a good wife, with children and with his children's children, his dominating desire and his characteristic occupation have been to keep them with him and by him at every opportunity.

Developing, while still young, an aptitude for public speaking and public affairs, he became a member of Tammany hall, the usual procedure for a young Democrat to arise to official distinction in that solid Democratic community. Tammany hall once aided Thomas Jefferson in connection with his candidacy for president, without which aid and support Jefferson could never have been elected Democratic president of the United States; Tammany hall, whose cooperation was of material aid to Andrew Jackson in his candidacy for president; Tammany hall which shortly after the Civil war took the whipped and defenseless south unto its bosom and permitted the Democratic party to hold its national convention in its own headquarters when, on account of the southern delegates, it could not have been permitted to meet in any other northern city. Thus it helped to bind up the wounds of the South and to make it again a factor in national affairs. Tammany hall, whose faults and sins, grievous as they may have been at times, has helped largely in common with those who at times have adopted every expedient, good or bad, to destroy it. I hold no brief for Tammany hall, but I do know that among its members are men as true, as loyal, as patriotic and as upright as exist in any state in the American union.

Let it be said here, that Governor Smith has never permitted any influence to swerve him from the course which he thought to be right. His personal integrity stands today, and has always stood unquestioned and unstained. If it be said as a matter derogatory to Governor Smith, that he had the assistance of Tammany hall in connection with his aspirations for the presidency, let it be remembered that the thing that turned the tide for Hoover at Kansas City, was the announcement in his behalf by Vare of Pennsylvania, head and front of the Philadelphia wet machine. Vare, whose reputation and whose record for questionable and sinister methods, has been such as to make even Tammany hold up its hands in holy horror. Vare who is about to be expelled from the United States senate on account of his huge expenditures in his campaign for a seat in that body.

As a Legislator

As a member of the New York convention or legislature, Governor Smith for 12 years devoted his entire time to the study of legislative measures and the relation of the government to the people's welfare. He became one of the leading and most forceful members of the assembly. As a member of the constitutional convention of the state of New York he won by his discussions and prosecutions recognition by the entire commonwealth as a master of the science of government and legislative details. Elihu Root, Republican, president of the convention, said that Smith knew more of the business of the state than any one else and that his attractive personality had impressed itself on every member of the convention. Wickersham, another member of the convention, a former Republican attorney general, said Smith was the most useful member of the body. While the constitution framed by that convention was rejected by the people when submitted, in its entirety, a course against which Governor Smith had warned and which caused him to oppose it in that form on account of the opposition to practical measures, still all measures advised by them have since been embodied separately into the laws of the state. As a member of the commission appointed to devise a plan for the management of land and sea traffic enforcement by every known form of transportation from every part of the earth, a problem involving hundreds of millions in value and an intimate knowledge of the vital phases of business, Governor Smith functioned with such success as to win general commendation.

In 1918, although his party was in the minority in the state, he was first elected governor of New York by a plurality of more than 50,000 votes. He was defeated in 1920, although he ran more than a million ahead of his national ticket. He was elected the second time in 1922 by an unprecedented majority of nearly 400,000 votes. He was elected the third time in 1924, although his opponent was the young and popular Col. Theodore Roosevelt and although Coolidge carried the state for president by a plurality of nearly 900,000 votes. He was elected for the fourth time in 1926 by a plurality of 250,000 votes. And now in 1928, what a warning and what a prophesy is this record to Herbert Hoover. Now what other leader may pass this amazing record of Governor Smith in connection with his successive and successful candicies for governor of New York?

Efficient Leader

It was a fact that under his lead as governor, the government of the state was placed upon the most efficient business basis it had ever experienced and it was a further fact that under his leadership the government of the state was made the most efficient instrument of human service ever known. Among the measures which he advocated and which as governor he took the lead in securing, may we mention the reorganization of the state government, including the reduction of 189 state agencies to 20, the conservation of the natural resources including the protection of the state's water power; improvement of the public education including increased pay for teachers; improved administration of the public health of labor conditions, better provisions for the unfortunates in the care of the state and better legislation in reference to the welfare of mothers and children; adequate recreation facilities for the public prison reform, and a law encouraging better housing facilities for the masses, his vision in this regard being as has been aptly said, "a world without crowded and unsanitary homes to poison the bodies and the character of the poor."

Now, my friends, the man who has thus helped to adapt the great state of New York, perhaps the foremost commonwealth of this world, to modern needs and to modern conditions and to place it on a proper balance between business and humanity, is offered by the Democratic party as the man who can do the same thing for the United States. Oh, my friends, to say that such a man, fitted as he is for leadership in this crisis, is to be refused support because he has personal views to prohibition, after prohibition has been permanently written in the constitution and the law, and after he promises to enforce prohibition as long as it is the law, is to take a position, in my judgment, absolutely subversive to this country's welfare. To say that such a man, qualified as he is for the direction of national affairs in this emergency, is to be refused support on account of his religion, is to follow a course absolutely foreign to the spirit of America.

Let us say this as to prohibition: I have helped to achieve a number of victories for prohibition as a member of the United States senate, as a Democrat and a Democrat I promise to remain. I can accomplish more for prohibition and all other beneficial measures by remaining in the ranks of the party than I can by going elsewhere. I yield to no one in my devotion to prohibition. I do not agree with Governor Smith in his views on the repeal of prohibition but I want to do him justice. He is a believer in law enforcement.

When he signed this act repealing the state prohibition enforcement law in New York state, he did not leave the state without prohibition enforcement. The state enforcement act, the Volstead act continued in operation and remains in operation today. Governor Smith said at the time he signed the repeal bill that every state official, all state police officers, and peace officers would be expected to continue with the federal officers in the enforcement of prohibition. The method of cooperation was for the state officers to continue to make seizures, to make arrests and deliver the persons arrested and the things seized to the federal authorities for disposition under the Volstead act. It was Governor Smith's position, as he stated at the time, that before enforcement could be secured under the conditions prevailing in New York, there must be a centralized responsibility for trials and prosecutions in a certain jurisdiction, the federal jurisdiction under the Volstead act.

Liquor Seizures

As an example of the cooperation between the state officials and the federal officials, let me say for such, that Major Warren, son-in-law of Governor Smith, seized a million dollars' worth of bootleg liquor perhaps the largest seizure of liquor ever effected in the state, and delivered the liquor to the federal officers who promptly confiscated it under the Volstead act.

Now, my friends, briefly, because I do not like to take up radio time unnecessarily, I read rapidly the questions asked me in this bulletin; and my answers to same:

(1) If Alfred E. Smith is elected president on Nov. 6, and if in his message to congress he recommends the changes in the 18th amendment and the Volstead act which he is now advocating, will you as a Democrat, follow his leadership and assist him in putting over his program, or will you become an insurgent in your party by joining with western Republicans in defeating the party program?

The answer is: That Governor Smith's suggestions would not be party program because they are not in the Democratic platform. Therefore, to oppose them would not mean insurgency.

(2) Can you point to any act of Gov. Alfred E. Smith which might be construed as assisting the cause of enforcement of the 18th amendment?

Answer: Yes, his recommendation that the state officers continue to co-operate with the federal officers for enforcing the Volstead act, the Volstead act having been enacted to carry out the 18th amendment.

(3) Did you receive any support from Tammany Democrats in securing the passage of the 18th amendment and has it been your observation that Tammany Democrats, in or out of congress, have supported the enforcement since its passage?"

My answer is, that it is well known that they did not favor the 18th amendment but it is my impression that they have always voted for the appropriations for the enforcement of the Volstead act.

(4) Mr. Raskob called prohibition a "damnable affliction"; and Mr. Smith said at Milwaukee that this election was a solemn referendum on the prohibition question. In view of these statements of responsible leaders, is it not a fact that this election will constitute a solemn referendum on the prohibition question?

In my judgment, it will not.

(5) If this election is a referendum on prohibition, is it your desire to see Texas cast its vote on the wet side of the issue?

The answer is that the wet and dry issue is not involved. A Texas vote for Smith will be a vote for prohibition enforcement.

(6) Mr. Smith has declared that he was opposed to the immigration quota being based on the 1920 census. You know that by basing the quota on a later census it would admit a greater number of south Europeans. Should Mr. Smith recommend to congress such changes in this law as would admit a greater number of south Europeans, will you support the responsible leader of your party or will you become an isurgent and join Republicans in defeating the program of your party's president?

Mr. Smith makes no such statement, therefore, I am not in a position to answer the question.

(7) If your answer to the above questions is that you do not intend to support the program as announced by Mr. Smith, do you think it is consistent to advocate the candidacy of Mr. Smith before election, knowing that you do not intend to follow his leadership after election?

No answer necessary to this.

Now, as to our candidate for vice president, it is unnecessary for me to speak at any length. Let it be sufficient to say that no more able or powerful statesman ever graced or glorified the halls of the senate that Joe Robinson.

G. O. P. Prosperity

We find that the Republicans claim credit for what they call the general prosperity, for the wonderful development of the nation's wealth during their regime of the last several decades. When I read the Republican national platform, when I read Mr. Hoover's farewell, or rather acceptance address, it is all the same, when I see all this, then I cannot doubt but that the next step of the Republican party will be an effort to amend the first verse of the First Chapter of Genesis by making it read, "In the beginning the Republican party created the Heavens and the Earth."

Now, it cannot be denied that our financial and commercial advancement since the Civil war has been astounding. It is also true that the Republican party for six years of the last 68 has been in entire control of the nation, or in such partial control as to be able to bluff legislation by others. The national wealth increased from 16 billions in 1860 to 320 billions in 1922.

Representing less than seven per cent of the earth's population, our people by virtue of their superior intellect and force, plus machine power and natural resources are doing virtually half the work of this world and are producing the most tremendous amount of wealth ever known in history. This has come during the Republican era, an era dominated by Harding, Coolidge, and Chief Advisor Hoover—but what becomes of the tremendous wealth which our people have been and are now producing? We are told by an eminent authority that two per cent of the American people own 40 per cent of the nation's wealth, that 33 per cent of the people own 45 per cent of the wealth, while 65 per cent of the American people own but 15 per cent of the wealth of this nation.

This is an example of Republican prosperity.

The average income of the great majority of the families of the United States, especially those families on farms, is so small as to be decidedly below the minimum standard of modern health and comfort; a situation full of tragedy when illness requiring hospital treatment or operations, or some such emergency occurs in the family; everybody here knows, perhaps many from actual experience, that what I say is true.

Home Conditions

The census figures tell us that more than half of the families in the United States are in rented homes; that one-sixth of the families are in mortgaged homes; while but little more than one-fourth of the families in the United States are in unincumbered homes of their own. Such is the pressure of economic conditions in this present age of wealth and luxury and power for the few, that it constitutes one of the main reasons for the fact that 15 per cent of our boys and girls leave their studies and begin struggling for a livelihood before they get beyond the 5th grade in public schools; 29 per cent before they go beyond the 7th grade; 27 per cent before they go beyond the 8th grade; but this don't compare with the Republican picture, a picture done in oil.

Not only do the privileged few absorb the greater part of the nation's wealth, but through combinations trusts, monopolies, and associations and other forces of concerted union, they are acquiring control of nearly every form of American industry and business. The channels of opportunity for the ownership and direction of some enterprises by the average individual, or average corporation are in danger of rapidly closing in this country; unless conditions are changed the average man and woman in this country of ours will soon face a situation of complete dependence on the master classes for the employment that means life.

The American people are being divided into a small owning and controlling class on one side, a mass of tenants and employes on the other.

Even the retail trade, composing the very basis of town-life of America is being swept into the control of vast corporations; with all due respect to any one who would be misled or deceived by this Republican party cry of general prosperity, may well be described by the young preacher who conducted the funeral services of a man and it was his first experience of the kind, but he did the very best he could; the day after the funeral he called upon the widow and intended to offer consolation; he said to her, "don't grieve so bitterly, the body we laid to rest was not your husband, that was only a mere husk, empty shell, the nut has gone to heaven."

Did you know that taxes on farm property increased between 1924 and 1928 146 per cent; mortgage indebtedness on farms increased at the rate of two hundred millions almost every year. Transportation costs increased immoderately, and yet the farmers' relief measures have remained almost stationary since that time; it is a fact that they can not continue to exist under such conditions without being driven to a lower standard of living than any American ought to be expected to tolerate.

The injustice of the situation becomes all the more apparent when we are called upon to compare the handicaps the farm has had to overcome—the farmer has increased his efficiency, to an amazing degree; in fact, it must be said that he has not failed in any way to do his part; no wonder, the farmer who had become disgusted with farming, when asked by his friend if he ever intended to go back to it—replied, "no, sir, I would not say, 'get up' again to a mule if it was sitting in my lap."

The Republican party through its non-enforcement of laws against monopolies, and restraint of trade has failed to suppress the combinations that dominate industry and trade, that destroy or cripple competition, and through its absorption of lesser concerns divert the channels of opportunity which should be left open for all.

Sinister Example

It cannot escape the accusation that by virtual alliance with lawless organizations it has established a sinister example for its own officials—in its trafficking in the nation's oil supply, in federal patronage, in the waste and misuse of funds intended for diseased and mutilated world war veterans—all under Harding, Coolidge, and Chief Adviser Hoover."

The conditions that the Republican party has helped to establish, unless they are stopped, and conditions changed, will destroy the spirit underlying the American republic in its very meaning.

The Human Element

The Republican party has allowed our economic system to fall almost fatally out of balance. It has neglected the human element, the effect of the economic structure on the people; it has not regarded government as an instrument for the service of the masses—it cannot—because its inspiration came from Alexander Hamilton who believed in an aristocracy of wealth—who believe that the government should be made a thing of profit to the powerful.

The Republican party has had its day, and has failed—it has had its day for 60 years—it has failed, and it ought to stand aside, and let the party that places the human being first, the Democratic party, take charge.

Now, let us pass on to the record of the Democratic party—which is such as justifies us this year in assuming that it will sustain the same progressive and constructive leadership. The Democratic party has been in entire control of national affairs but for two brief periods during the last 68 years—for two years from 1893 to 1895—for six years from 1913 to 1919; the two-year period was entirely too short even for a beginning and it may be dismissed with the statement that the oft repeated criticism that the Democratic tariff law of 1894 caused the panic of 1893 was to absurd for further notice.

When the Democratic party came in control in 1913 the Republican party had been in control, in fact in almost indisputed power, for 50 years; it had overlooked in so far as its official acts were concerned such subjects as an adequate banking system, agricultural credit, unfair industrial competition, vocational education, regulation of monopolies, scientific marketing of farm products, federal aid for highways.

Democratic Legislation

The Democratic party from 1913 to 1918 was responsible for the enactment of the federal reserve act, the federal farm loan act, the Smith-Lever act for better distribution of agricultural information to farmers, the vocational training act, and it is true that the Republican party, when they returned to power in 1921, endeavored to continue along these lines but it has failed to meet the situation in connection with the too over-shadowing problems of the present hour as we have seen; the problem of farm relief, and the restraint of monopolies and agressive wealth.

It is true that the Federal Trade commission and anti trust act, have by the court's decisions, been largely interfered with in their intended scope, and by the removal of the Democratic party from the helm, and the Republican party has prevented the Democratic party from amending and enacting further laws to meet with the decisions affecting the act.

Platform Promises

The Republican platform contains bare promises and nothing along this line, and its tenure in office for the past 60 years, less those two brief lapses, justify the American people in refusing to give their rights and liberties into its keeping any longer.

My friends, there is nothing more inspiring, and there is nothing like it in the tenure of the Republican party for 50 years, than the achievements of the Democratic party in the six years from 1913 to 1919, crowned by the supervision of our successful part in the world war, all under the leadership of that evangel of human rights, that apostle of human liberty, Woodrow Wilson.

Enough has been said to prove that the Democratic party under Smith and Robinson can bring back the nation to its old faith in humanity.

Enough has been said to show the nature of the choice you must make in November.

The Democratic party under Smith and Robinson will call the nation back to its faith in humanity and bring peace to its men and women.

The Democratic platform promises immediate consideration and action along the lines of the McNary-Haugen bill, which nearly all the great farm organizations have approved. The Republican platform and the Republican nominee are absolutely silent upon their position.

No further reliance can be placed to the Republican party's promise in reference to agriculture; as Hoover's statement on the subject is about as clear as a Chinese puzzle or a London fog, due no doubt to his residence in China and England. The Republican platform of 1924 contained a distinct pledge for relief, and the relief has never come and they have had control of the government ever since. The failure of the Republican party's agreement in the respect is but a part of its larger failures; the Republican party's promises have not been kept. They remind me of what Mandy said to Rastus. Mandy said to Rastus, "You sure do remind me of a flying machine." Rastus says, "How is that?" feeling very much complimented. "Because you are no good on earth," Mandy answered.

The Democratic party passed the federal trade act in 1916, intended to be of very large value in the legislation of industrial compensation.

Anti-Trust Act

The Democratic party passed the anti-trust act in 1914, pointing out that labor was not to be regarded as a commodity, or article of trade. It means that labor cannot be separated from the heart and mind directing that labor, that it is a living thing and not to be regarded as so much cotton, or oil and will emancipate them from the rule of those who would absorb their earnings. It is the only party in American history that originated with the American. It was born when the republic was dedicated—and will not die until liberty dies, the last aspirant for freedom shall have faded from human eye.

BUFFS DEFEAT BARONS AND TAKE 3 TO 2 LEAD IN SERIES

BILL HALLAHAN RESCUES GAME

Will Retires Side in Ninth With 1 On to Cop, 5-4

HOUSTON, Oct. 1. (AP)—Bill Hallahan, pitching hero of yesterday, came to the rescue in time today to save a baseball game for Houston, 5 to 4, and give the Buffs the upper hand over Birmingham for the first time during the Dixie series.

After Penner had wobbled badly in the eighth stanza and Shirley greeted him with a single to start the ninth, Manager "Pancho" Snyder sent the lefthander to the slab and he donned the catching regalia. With the entrance of that combination, hopes of the Southern association for a single victory at Houston were blasted. "Sweet William" whizzed three past Ballenger, pinch hitter, and then whiffed Cooper, sub catcher. Stewart connected with one of Hallahan's offerings but it went right to Selph who tossed Shirley out at second.

Back to Birmingham

The decision gave the Texas league winners three victories out of five contests and left them needing only one more game to gain the Dixie title. The teams are scheduled to resume their dispute at Birmingham Wednesday. A toss of a coin before today's tilt also fixed the Alabama city as the site for the seventh game if it is necessary.

Birmingham fought a brilliant uphill battle only to fail before the masterful Hallahan when the goal was in sight.

The Buffs scored four runs in the first inning off Ralph Judd, who halted them Thursday at Birmingham. Another run was counted in the third and after that they were helpless before three Birmingham slab artists.

When Barons Scored

The Barons counted once in the fifth, again in the sixth and twice in the eighth.

One-base blows by Selph, Worthington, Watkins and Peel, followed by a two-ply swat by Schuble and a sacrifice fly by Jonnard, gave the Buffs a fat four-run margin in the initial frame.

Worthington and Peel co-ordinated their doubles in the third for what proved the winning tally. Score:

Card Eligibles Are Announced

Littlejohn May Share In World Series Coin

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Cardinal eligibles for the world series, announced tonight pending final approval by Commissioner Landis, numbered 25.

There also was a possibility that Carlisle C. Littlejohn, right handed pitcher, might be ruled eligible since one of the outfielders on the list, Walter Roettger, is only nominally eligible, having suffered a broken leg in mid-season. Littlejohn was sent to Houston of the Texas league briefly in August and September, but rejoined the club in New York last week. The twenty-five are:

Grover C. Alexander, William H. Sherdel, Jess J. Haines, Clarence B. Mitchell, Charles F. Rhem, Sylvester Johnson, Arthur C. Reinhart, Frederick M. Frankhouse and Harold A. Haid, pitchers; James Wilson and Earl S. Smith, catchers.

James L. Bottomley, Frank T. Frisch, Walter J. V. Maranville, Andrew A. High, Roscoe A. Holm, and Thomas J. Thevenow, infielders, and Charles J. Hafey, Taylor L. Douthit, Ernest Orsatti, George W. Harper, F. Raymond Blades, Walter Roettger, John L. Martin, and N. Howard Williamson, outfielders.

Non-combatant eligibles are William B. McKechnie, manager, and John Onslow, coach.

Austin College Defeats Oklahoma Eleven, 2-0

SHERMAN, Oct. 1. (AP)—The Austin college Kangaroos of the Texas conference managed to eke out a 2 to 0 victory over the Southeastern Teachers' eleven from Oklahoma in a hard fought game here today.

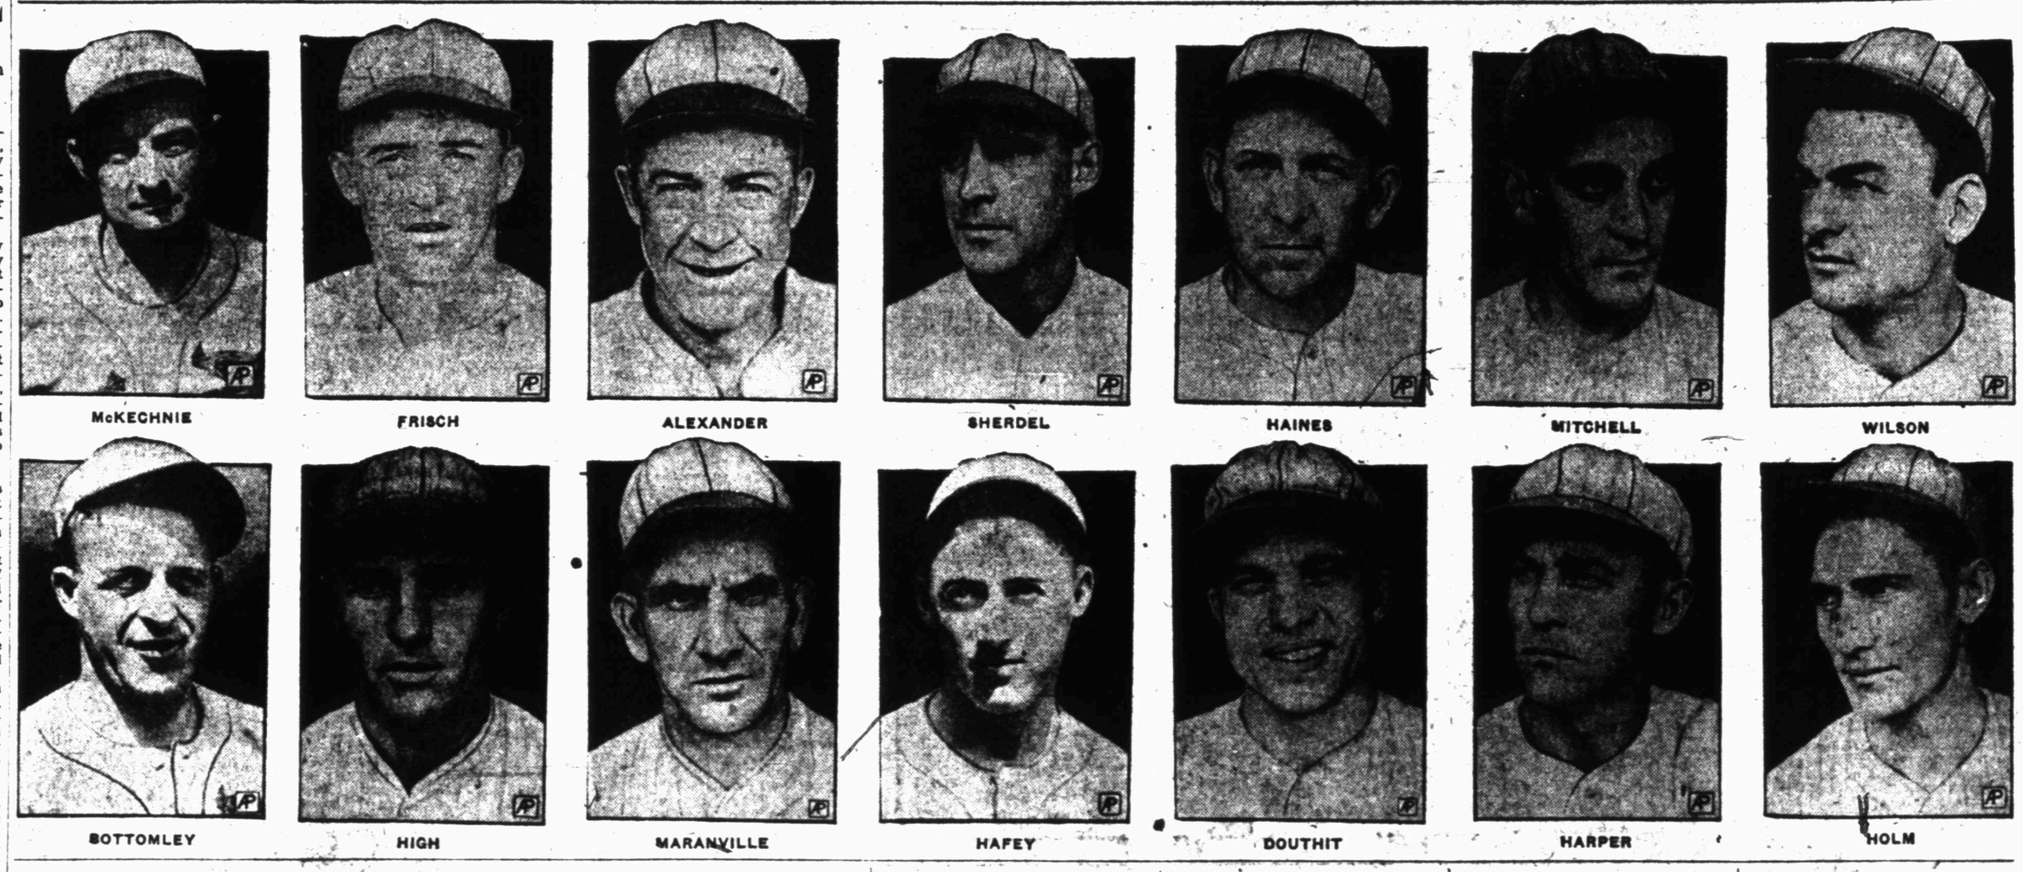

The Kangaroos' only tally resulted from a safety in the first quarter.

40,000 Seats on Sale Daily at Yank Stadium

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (UP)—Although all reserved seats and boxes for the world series games to be played at Yankee stadium have been sold, Secretary Ed Barrow of the American league championship club announced that 40,000 seats will be placed on sale at the stadium at 10 o'clock on the morning of each game. Half this number will be grandstand seats at $3, and the remainder $1 bleacher seats.

New attendance records will be set if the seats are all sold, as 25,000 reserved seats already have been paid for.

They're Out To Repeat Cardinal Triumph Over Yankees

YANKS, CARDS HAVE WORKOUT

Birds Set but Champions Have Cripples

By BRIAN BELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Pitchers worked out all over the field, and batsmen rattled drives against the bleachers and even in the empty seats at Yankee stadium today.

The Yanks and Cardinals were tuning up for the world series opening Thursday.

The National leaguers are set. There is no worry in the St. Louis camp over condition. "Not a bruise in the bunch," was the proud boast of the trainer, and the actions of the Red Birds backed him up.

Doubt Over Combs

The reverse is true of the Yankees, in spite of optimistic reports. As to Earl Combs, the player himself and Manager Miller Huggins, while hopeful, were by no means certain he can take his place in center field for the first test.

If Combs cannot play, Ben Paschal will take care of center field and lead off against left-handed pitchers with Cedric Durst performing the same functions against orthodox right-handers.

Yank Cripples Improve

The rest of the Yankee team as a whole is in better shape than during the final drive of the season. Koenig and Ruth have shown improvement, and Lazzeri's bad arm is no worse.

The Cards will go into the series with the veteran High at third base against all kinds of pitching, and the even more ancient Rabbitt Maranville playing short throughout, if he escapes injury.

Manager Bill McKechnie said he planned to make only one shift, depending on the style of pitching offered by the opposition. He will have Harper, Holm and Orsatti for right field duty.

Matsuda Title At Stake Here

About the Bouts

Matty Matsuda vs. Joe Manning, wrestling, finish match.

Nick Kavaros vs. Leo Fox, wrestling, finish match.

Two headline caliber wrestling matches, that's the athletic card at Spudder park for Tuesday night, according to the program announced by Promoter Alex B. Ross.

Manning has a chance to capture this belt tonight as he defeated Matsuda several months ago in a non-title match at Los Angeles.

The semi-final of the program is a finish match between Leo Fox of Dallas and Nick Kavaros, who last week appeared in a 30-minute exhibition match with Matsuda here.

The curtain raiser will be a four-round boxing match between two fast youngsters.

TUNNEY TO FIGHT

Champion Quoted From Naples as Willing to Fight Again

LONDON, Oct. 1. (INS)—A Central News Dispatch from Naples this afternoon quoted Gene Tunney in an alleged interview with the Gazzetta Della Sport as saying he has not retired from the prize ring for good.

Tunney was quoted as saying he is willing to meet any logical contender for the heavyweight title but that he would "not fight Dempsey again for less than a million dollars."

Crippled Yanks May Prove Best In Short Series and Beat Cards

Superior Pitching and Presence of Regulars in Lineup, However, Gives National Leaguers Margin

By FRANK GETTY

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (UP)—"The Yanks are hard to beat."

They say it in the East and they tell you the same story in the West, and behind this simple, trite phrase may lie the answer to the problem perplexing baseball fans far and wide—who is going to win the world series?

Crippled they may be, with Earl Combs, the game's greatest centerfielder out of the series, Babe Ruth and Tony Lazzeri lame of leg and arm, and most of the other regulars more ready for the hospital than the playing field. But when it comes to a pinch, with the pressure on hardest, then is when baseball's axiom is most applicable. At such time, the Yanks are indeed hard to beat.

Only two Yankee regulars, reliable old Bob Meusel, the aging left fielder, and Chunky Bengough, first string catcher, are in first class shape for the series, while of the pitchers only Waite Hoyt and George Pipgras rank as reasonably dependable.

Cards Lack Fight

The St. Louis Cardinals have not given the impression of being a great ball club for a short series. Some of their players lack the fighting spirit which drives Tony Lazzeri into the fray with a shoulder which should be in a plaster cast. Moreover, the Cardinals have been playing poor defensive ball during the past fortnight, with a sprinkling of errors of commission and omission.

World series games usually are won by better pitching, however, and in this department, the National league champions seem to have a decided edge. Willie Sherdel, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Jess Haines, Flit Rhem and Sylvester Johnson all have won more than one-half their games and are in shape for the series. With Herb Pennock in shape, the Yankees would be equally strong in the box, but Pennock is destined to the sidelines.

High and Maranville are about as effective defensively on the left side of the infield as Dugan and Koenig, although both shortstops are erratic. The Yankee third baseman and shortstop are likely to hit harder than their Red Bird rivals.

Frisch, Bottomley Excel

On the other side of the infield, Frisch and Bottomley are a stronger pair defensively than Lazzeri and Gehrig, and with Tony a semi-invalid there will be little to choose at bat.

In the outfield, Hafey and Douthit can outthrow Meusel and Durst, while Harper is nearly as effective as a crippled Ruth. Durst, taking Combs' place, is an unknown quantity in the New York outfield. If Babe Ruth can set him an example, he may prove unexpectedly valuable.

Behind the bat, where so many world series have been won, the Cardinals are stronger, with Jimmy Wilson and Early Smith, than the Yanks with Bengough.

On form, then, odds of 7 to 5 on St. Louis are justified but form is not always fulfilled in a short post-season championship series.

Hornsby's .387 Cops Seventh Stick Title

BOSTON, Oct. 1. (UP)—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Boston Braves, won the National league batting championship this year for the seventh time, with an average of .387.

Paul Waner, last year's champion, was second, with .370, and Freddie Lindstrom, third baseman of the New York Giants, who is rated one of the league's most valuable players, was third with .358.

Routis, New Feather King, Boxes Finnegan

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (UP)—Andrew Routis of France, featherweight champion of the world, has been matched by his manager, Joe Jacobs, for a 10-round fight at catchweights with Honeyboy Finnegan of Boston at the Hub's new Madison Square garden.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE elevens this week resumed their bid for national recognition, launched so effectively last fall. Two teams of this section engage in intersectional battles Saturday, one of national import and the other of widespread interest in their respective localities. The Southern Methodist university Mustangs invade the east to battle with Biff Jones' mighty Army juggernaut at "the Point" as they call it. Over at Dallas, Dana X. Bible's Texas Aggies clash with Sewanee from the south.

Other conference elevens stay within their own boundaries to engage foes of more or less strength. Two Texas conference members test their mettle with Southwest elevens, affording a comparison of the football as played in the two organizations. Simmons university, with ambitious plans for the future and an eye to attaining those plans through success in the present, clashes with Texas Christians at Breckenridge, Texas Tech, also a leader in its conference, meets Texas at Austin.

BAYLOR TAKES ON Trinity in what may be a hard game; Rice meets St. Edwards at Houston and Arkansas has a date with the College of the Ozarks at Fayettville in other contests involving conference members.

OTHER IMPORTANT intersectional affairs and contests which will have bearing on district titles are billed this week. Alabama's once powerful Crimson Tide faces an apparently strong Mississippi eleven, conqueror the previous week of Arkansas. Chicago, beaten twice last week, takes on Wyoming. Oklahoma journeys to Bloomington for a melee with Indiana, Iowa State meets Nebraska, Kansas plays Grinnell, Two Loyolas, of Chicago and New Orleans, meet in the middle western burg.

Northwestern's opens its season with Butler, as does Ohio State with Wittenberg; Oregon and Stanford play an important far western game. Purdue jousts with DePauw. Southern California tangles with Oregon Aggies. Tulane plays Mississippi Aggies. Navy meets Boston university. Vanderbilt and Colgate have an intersectional meeting of intense interests, to be waged at Nashville. Haskell's roaming Indians meet West Virginia. Wisconsin plays Middlebury.

WISCONSIN PLAYS its first game of the season, with a sturdy adversary—Notre Dame. The Irish didn't show to great advantage last week with New Orleans Loyola and the Badgers may score one for the Big Ten. The somewhat reduced "Big Three" have their openers Saturday. Harvard meets Springfield, which isn't greatly exciting. Vermont may extend Princeton and Yale may have something of a test from Maine.

MANUSH TAKES BATTING TITLE

Heinie Noses Out Goslin by Two Points

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1. (UP)—Heinie Manush, obtained by the St. Louis Browns in one of the big baseball trades of the past year, nosed out "Goose" Goslin of the Washington Senators in their neck and neck race for the American league batting championship.

Goslin had a chance to overtake Manush when the Browns and Senators met in the final game. It was a free-hitting affair as far as Washington was concerned, but "Goose," although he hit his seventeenth homer of the season, made but two hits in five times at bat. Manush hit safely twice in four times at bat, maintaining his slam lead.

The final standing in the race for the championship won last year by Harry Heilman was:

Manush, St. Louis, .382.
Goslin, Washington, .379.

City Grid Teams Drill For Games

Indians Meet Grandfield Here; Pack to Ardmore

Wichita Falls' grid teams started practice yesterday for important games this week-end. The Junior college Indians clash with Grandfield, Okla., high school at Spudder park Friday, and the prep Coyotes play the scholastics of Ardmore of the Oklahomans' field Saturday.

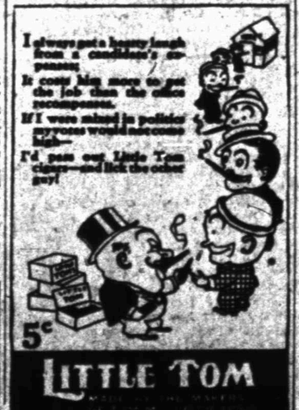

The Indians fought a scoreless tie with Vernon last week on the Lions' gridiron and manifested such improvement over their previous play that high hopes for a successful season are held by the collegians.

The preps were routed by the Decatur Baptists last week but played hard and good football against more experienced opposition and are ready to chalk up a win this week.

Official Scorers Named By Landis for Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (INS)—Official scorers for the world series between the Yankees and Cardinals, starting on Thursday were announced today by Judge Landis as follows: Burt Whitman, Boston Herald, the president of the Baseball Writers' association; Sid Keener, St. Louis Times, and Richards Vidmer, New York Times.

Oilers Beat Oklahoma City To Take Playoff

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 1. (UP)—Tulsa won the Western league championship for 1928 by defeating Oklahoma City, 5 to 0, in the final game of the play-off series here today.

Naylor went the route for the Oilers while the Indians used five hurlers in an attempt to stave off defeat. Naylor held the Indians to four hits while the Oilers nicked Oklahoma City moundsmen for 11 safe blows.

Tulsa did its scoring in the first five innings, sending one man across home plate in the second, fourth and fifth innings and tallying twice in the third frame.

The Tulsans have won officially four of the six games played.

CHRIST POWER THEME OF TALK

Dr. Goodell Continues Series at Methodist Church

"The Eternal Power on Earth" was the subject of an address given Monday night by Dr. Charles L. Goodell of New York in the First Methodist church here. It was one of a series Dr. Goodell is giving. The series will end with the Sunday night sermon.

"I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth." This text, Romans 1:16, the words written by the apostle Paul from Corinth to the church at Rome, was used by Dr. Goodell as the basis for his sermon.

Dr. Goodell explained what salvation meant and then said: "You must be saved, I have told you what it is to be saved. There is one condition. It is the power of God unto salvation, unto everyone who believeth. It is not an intellectual belief. With the heart, man believeth unto salvation, and there is behind us all the record of the ages. In the dungeons dark, from palaces to hovels, the glorious testimony of His power is springing up to God.

Line Is Augmented

"I like to think of His coronation as King of Kings. On his head are many crowns, and I see the long line coming 2,000 years. The Revelator said there was a company which no man could number and for 2,000 years it has been augmented.

"Yonder says one are Herschel, and Kepler, and Copernicus, and Galileo at the head of the astronomic host. They draw near to crown Him and they cry: 'The heavens are the work of Thy hands, the moon and the stars which Thou has ordained.'

"And there are the geologists Miller and Dana and their followers who cry: 'Of old hast Thou laid the foundation of the earth.' And here are the old masters, Michael Angelo and Da Vinci in His Beauty. Here comes the singers of the ages, led by Handel and Haydn, and they have their singing robes about them.

"But there is another company for which I shall look with greater expectancy. They are those who come out of much tribulation, the outcast and the forsaken, as well as those who walked the high places of opportunity and power. 'I want to see them bring their crowns and lay them at His feet and sing: 'Blessings and honor and glory and power be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb forever'."

Two Talks Wednesday

Dr. Goodell will talk on "What About the Holy Spirit" at the 10 o'clock Wednesday morning sermon, and on "Robbing God" at the evening service.

A special invitation to laboring men for Thursday night was issued by Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the church, to attend the Thursday night meeting which will be on "Corner Lots in Sodom."

Friday night is young people's night and the sermon will be on "What Are You Worth."

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLK

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By JOSEPH SCHENCK

The motion-picture industry owes a large portion of its being to Joe Schenck, for it was Schenck who, with Lasky and De Mille, came to Hollywood and made the first motion picture in a barn—even before Hollywood had seen such a thing as a bathing girl. Mr. Schenck told me that he believed the most amusing incident he had ever run across actually happened one day in the office of his Hollywood studio.

Joseph Schenck

"'We were hiring actors for a new picture,' he said, 'and a certain player who once was a star but who had begun skidding down the ladder, was called for an interview regarding a character role in the story which had as yet not been filled.

"I talked with him personally and finally we reached the question of salary. The actor demanded $2,000 a week for his services, which was the amount of his salary in his better days.

"'But your name isn't worth that any more,' I explained, 'and I won't pay you over $500.'

"'You'll pay me $2,000 or else—' snapped the snippy actor.

"That answer rather aroused my ire. 'Or else what?' I roared.

"The actor calmed immediately. 'Or else I'll accept $500,' he meekly replied."

Health and Diet Advice

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in Regard to Health and Diet Will Be Answered by Dr. McCoy, Who Can Be Addressed in Care of This Paper

Margarine

Many correspondents write to me asking about the food value of different kinds of butter substitutes. There are really only two types of margarines in the market, although made by many different companies. The oldest kind was originally called oleomargarine and is composed of animal fats, vegetable fats, salt and milk. The other, commonly called nut-margarine, is made of vegetable fats, salt and milk. Each company making either the animal fat or the vegetable fat margarine uses its own formulas or recipes, but of course all this is done under the supervision of the pure food laws.

Napoleon III offered a prize for some palatable form of fat food, which could be used like butter, of which there was a scarcity at that time. His prize was won in 1870 by a Frenchman named Mege-Mouries, who called his product oleomargarine. His method or other similar methods have been used since that time, and today there are 61 margarine factories in the United States alone, with an entire annual business of over $100,000,000.

Many people prefer the flavor of margarine to that of cow's butter and others use it because it is considerably cheaper in price. As far as the food value of margarine is concerned, it is very similar to that of butter, although it has been claimed that the vitamin A of cow's butter is absent or a negligible quantity in margarine.

The fact is that all vitamins are found mostly in the green leaves of plants, and it is not essential that we secure any of these from any one kind of food. If one desires to use margarine because of its lower price or because he enjoys the taste, there is no reason why he cannot substitute this nourishing fat for cow's butter.

Many of the nut-margarines contain a large percentage of raw starch and therefore cannot be a good substitute for either cow's butter or the margarine made from animal fats. Although these nut-margarines are undoubtedly wholesome foods, they must be used carefully, as raw starch is always more difficult of digestion.

The lower price of margarine is a consideration in some families where the income is small. At the present time cow's butter sells at about 55 cents a pound, while the different kinds of margarine sell for from 23 to 25 cents per pound.

One cannot question the wholesomeness of animal fats, vegetable fats, salt, milk or butter. Margarine is a scientific combination of these articles of food and is, of course, as wholesome a product as these foods are themselves. On the basis of cleanliness, soundness, freedom from contamination, convenience in handling, and suitability for cooking purposes, there is little difference between the different kinds of margarines and cow's butter. It is, after all, largely a question of the individual's selection of the most palatable margarine or butter which he can afford to buy.

Questions and Answers

Question: C. J. writes: "I had pneumonia several months ago. An abcess formed on my right lung, which was removed by an operation, cutting in behind my right shoulder blade. There is now just a small hole like a pinhead there, and pus comes out of it every morning. What can be done to stop that discharge, or will it stop itself in time? I still feel weak, and breathing is still bad. I am 63 years old."

Answer: Try a fruit fast for a few days, and the discharge will stop if nature is ready for the opening to close.

Question: Mrs. S. writes: "I am greatly interested in your theories and we are following your menus published every week. When Sunday dinner is served at noon, are your luncheon menus suitable for Sunday supper?"

Answer: It is perfectly all right for you to change your Sunday meals about, using the dinner at noon and the luncheon in the evening, although I think it is the better plan to use a generous morning and evening meal, and a lighter luncheon. This separates the two large meals of the day, keeping them proximately 12 hours apart.

Question: Martha D. writes: "I would like to know if there is a permanent cure for goitre. Is it safe to marry with this trouble, or would it affect a child?"

Answer: If the goitre has not been operated on it can be cured simply through living on the correct diet. If you have a goitre when you marry, there is danger of its becoming larger if proper care is not taken when any child is born to you. One of my patients, cured of goitre over 14 years ago when she was then 18 years of age, has since had three children, and through proper care has never had a return of her thyroid trouble.

Bible Most Divine Book, Says Baptist Pastor

The Bible was declared "the most divine production of literature," and its worth as a document stressing the human side of life was praised in a sermon by Dr. Fred F. Brown of Knoxville, Tenn., at the First Baptist church revival Monday night. A large audience attended.

The pastor's subject was "Personal Responsibility." In the course of his sermon he pleaded for parental example to children, and for Christian living and thinking in the home.

A special musical program was given by the choir under the direction of William E. Young.

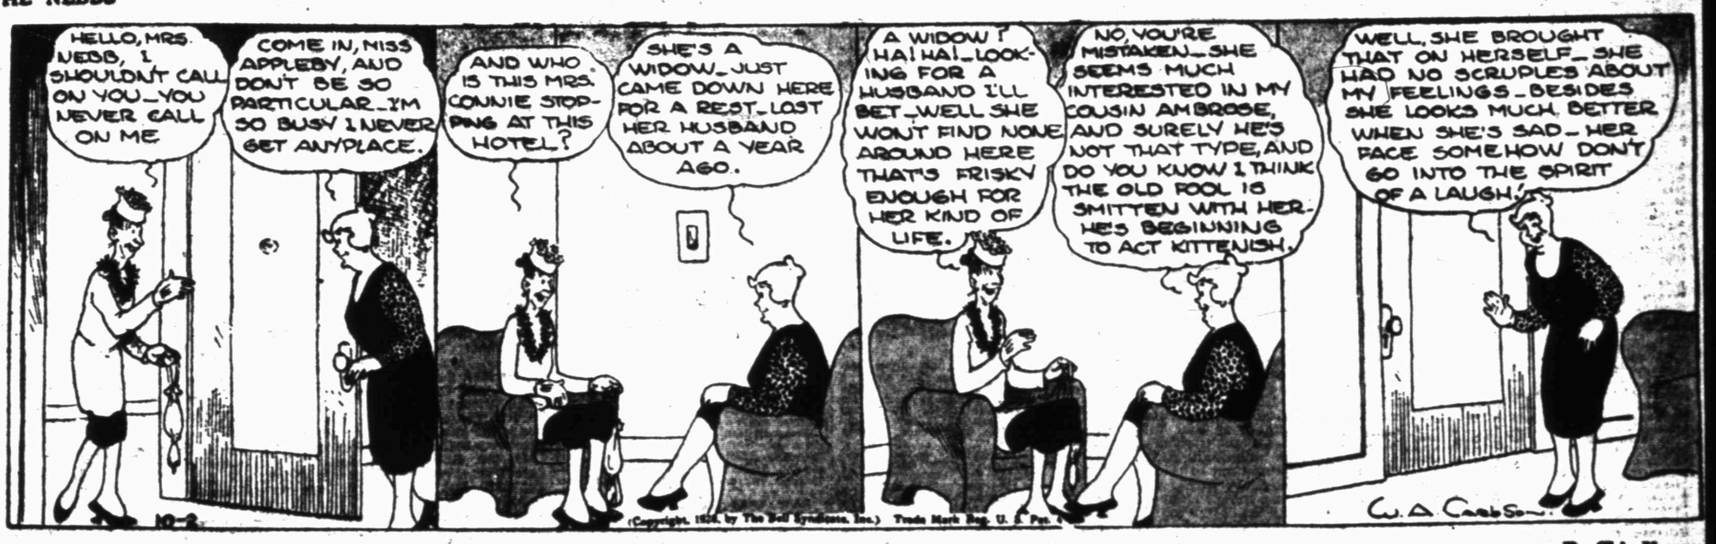

Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock the visiting pastor will speak on "When Jesus Passed By." The public is invited to attend.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—A renewal of the recent buying movement on talk of reduced crop estimates and more encouraging reports from the dry goods trade, sent the price of December contracts up to 19.42 in the cotton market here today, or 38 points net higher and into new high ground for the movement. December closed at 19.17 or about 25 points off from the best. The general market closed easy at net advances of 13 to 18 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 17 to 23 points in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports that sales of cotton goods in the market here during the last week had probably exceeded production. There was quite a good deal of profit-taking and some southern selling, but it was very readily absorbed on moderate reactions, and the market worked on upward during the middle of the day, with October advancing to 19.43 and March to 19.20 when the general list showed net gains of about 37 to 46 points. Closing prices showed reactions of 18 to 30 points from the best. A private crop report was published placing the condition at 55.5 and the crop indication at 14,506,000 bales which compared with an end-August indication of about 15,000,000 bales. Weather indications reported over the week-end were considered fairly favorable, but the outlook for showers brought in some buying during the morning. Exports today 90,858, making 1,007,340 so far this season. Port receipts, 85,186. U. S. port stocks, 1,054,831.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 1. (AP)—An advance in cotton today of approximately $1.75 a bale, met realizing attracted by the higher prices and some selling said to be induced by the weakness in stocks. December contracts after trading up to 18.80, 35 points net up, eased off and closed at 18.60, or 15 points advance for the day. The general market closed steady, 15 to 20 points net higher.

The opening was firm at an advance of 10 to 13 points. Demand became more aggressive as the morning progressed, due to buying on the firmer Liverpool cables which came in 10 to 13 points higher than expected and, on a statement by a prominent southern spot house that they had cabled their representative that the crop would not exceed 14,000,000 bales.

Unfavorable weather in the belt and a forecast for showers and colder weather in the western portion also added to the firmness and before noon December traded up to 18.80, January 18.78 and March 18.67, or 33 to 35 points above Saturday's close. Around mid-session the higher prices brought out realizing by early buyers and the market receded 12 to 13 points from the top.

In early afternoon trading however, the offerings were readily absorbed and prices started on the upgrade again. March and May made new highs at 18.79 and 18.69 respectively, or 34 to 35 points net up. A renewal of realizing in final trading and some selling on the weakness in stocks carried the price level off 15 to 20 points from the highs and January closed at 18.60, and March at 18.54.

Receipts 84,894; for week 176,623; for year 1,760,507; last year 2,022,654. Exports 90,766; for week 127,940; for year 968,273; last year 1,128,766. Stocks 1,736,627; last year 1,058,587. Stock on shipboard 177,525; last year 133,227. Spot sales 67,201; last year 36,924.

Irregularity Caused by Hike in Call Rate Fails to Stop Bulls

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (US)—Advance of 3 per cent in the call money rate to 10 from a renewal of 7 per cent influenced irregularity in stocks today but failed to stop entirely bullish operators in selected stocks.

The main effect of the tighter money was to reduce the volume of trading to the 3,500,000-share level for the session. Chrysler scored one of the best gains of the day closing 4¾ points higher in record price territory.

Steel and Can were in quite heavy supply at times but met constant support, as did most of the other standard industrials, so that they held to fractional price range.

Montgomery Ward met profit taking on announcement of record sales and receded 3 points.

Rails continued to lag behind the rest of the market and dropped further on the average. Oils and coppers were quiet but fairly steady.

Highest Level

Return of the call money rate to the highest level of the year should have proved no surprise. The banks are being called on now to meet some $400,000,000 interest and dividend payments. This kind of a period does not worry market operators as much as that ahead for the middle of the month when the government carries on further financing. When funds are paid out on interest, it adds to the amount of money looking for work and with the stock market "advertised" as at present, a good deal finds its way into speculation particularly with the bond market in the doldrums.

So the bull leaders continued their optimistic statements and talked of a lower money rate for the end of the week. There were some traders who rememberd what happened when money eased last week, however, and were glad to seize quick profits whenever available. They had no desire to wait and compete with the selling of the important trading clique should the "good news" of easier money be ahead for late this week.

Chrysler is Favorite

Chrysler again was the favorite of those supporting the market coincident with reports that benefits from the Dodge acquisition promised to be received sooner than expected as business of that division has increased since the Chrysler management was inaugurated.

Murray Body stood out in the automobile and accessory group with the rumor that an independent automobile company was after control. Fleischmann accumulation, first noted a week ago, was in evidence again with buying reputedly based on belief that Melon will be cut before many months pass.

Although the oils were quiet, there was steady accumulation noted in several of the independent company shares with Mexican Seaboard strong in expectation of announcement tomorrow of the placing of new contracts for its gas output.

Merger Rumored

Eisenlohr's climb of 4 points was the result of buying told of here last week. It is learned that Eisenlohr will own or control all of the companies which will furnish cigars to the Schulte-United stores and thereby become the third largest distributor of cigars in the country. Although nothing official is said, it is understood that the combination of the two store organizations is near consummation.

Paramount-Famous added fractionally to its gain on continued operations by the Cutten group coincident with issuance of special analysis by a well known stock exchange firm, outlining its possibilities.

Chickasha Cotton Oil assumed more prominence, being characterized as a "sleeper." It has been rather overlooked since introduced to the street a few months ago although it has established earning power and is in strong financial condition.

Paying $3 regular, it earned over double that amount for the year ended June 30 despite the poor conditions of the cotton trade. Earnings now, it is learned, are running at a rate that means net of $8 a share or more for the current year. Current assets irrespective of inventories approximate $3,800,000 while current liabilities are but $487,000, or about 20 per cent of actual cash and short term loans which the company has made with idle funds through local bankers.

Sterling Is Low

Offsetting the advancing call rate to some extent was the further decline in sterling to a new low of the year which naturally strengthened expectation of big gold shipments from abroad before long.

Continued professional pressure put grain lower with offerings of wheat increased as late reports showed that last week's advices of storm and weather damage were exaggerated. Cotton recovered further on covering.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (U.S.)—Grains closed lower today except corn, which stubbornly held its own after losing its gain on an early bulge. Althought the close of wheat and rye looked weak, those grains may get support today that will change the prospect.

At the end wheat was down 1 to 1¼; corn was unchanged to ⅛ higher; oats were off ⅛ to ¾; rye was ¾ to 1¼ lower.

Led by corn, all the markets showed some strength early in the session. December corn got up to 79⅜, but there was heavy selling against offers and by one big trader who liquidated a long line because he is going away.

The selling was sufficient to extinguish the little bull fever there was and corn took the down grade. It never got back to the low it made at the opening, however, and at the end did not look weak to me.

It was the weakening of wheat that probably influenced corn. The latter was slow to get under way, but went up determinedly when it started. It held at the offer level for considerable time before the selling became too much for the new buying to absorb.

If corn shows any reaction at the start this morning it may meet with considerable support. The general attitude of the trade is bearish, a fact which probably means that there are few professional longs in the market.

Wheat started off lower on the weak Liverpool cable, but it firmed up on support for the December future at around $1.17. December wheat got up to a high of $1.17⅞, but that was the best it could do.

From there the market dragged slowly lower during the rest of the session and broke down finally into new low ground for the present setback.

It was notable today that the wheat market at Winnipeg was not susceptible to the influences that forced lower prices here. There wheat closed ¼ lower for the May to ¼ higher for the other futures. Prices came back easily after a decline of nearly a cent.

It is still my opinion that the public generally is confident that bull grain markets are coming before election day and that outsiders are only waiting for what they regard as the right time to buy both corn and wheat.

Any considerable expanding of the buying power would undoubtedly catch a good many professional shorts and might bring a good advance. Meanwhile the markets may be nervous within small ranges and make it difficult for bulls to hang on.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged to 1 off; corn was 3 off to 3 up; oats were unchanged to ⅛ off; rye was steady to ½ lower; barley was firm.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 1 (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Dull trading on cattle prevailed around the 11-market circuit with moderate to sharp declines enforced. Aggregate receipts estimated at 145,600 were about the same as last Monday, but 6,000 more than a year ago. Packers were extremely bearish on the inbetween grades of steers. Price declines of 25@50c were affected on most killing classes, while losses on beef steers and yearlings at Chicago were as much as $1.00. Choice white faced stock steer calves at $13.50@13.75 in Kansas City were regarded as very steady, but the bulk of stocker and feeder cattle ruled 15@25c lower. Choice yearling steers in Chicago topped at $17.60. The first Monday in several weeks when the day's best price at this point was under the $18.00 mark.

Light receipts stimulated shipping demand for hogs, and prices ruled strong to 25c higher. The day's top of $11.25 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings approximated 76,100, a decrease of 25,500 from a week ago but 14,500 more than the same day last year.

MENARD WELL CLEARS CAVING

Liner to Be Run to Find Salt Water's Source

Special to The Record News

SAN ANGELO, Oct. 1.—Extension of the deep lime production on the line of Howard and Glasscock counties one-half mile southeast by Coyle-Concord No. 1-A Dora Roberts, and the addition of five wells in the Hendrick pool, increasing Winkler county's producers to 377, were principal oil developments over the week-end in the Permian Basin of West Texas. V. T. Bolin's No. 1 Brown & Allman, about five miles northeast of the Hendrick pool, which made small production in mid-summer, was shot without results.

Panhandle Oil and Refining Co.'s No. 1 Eckhardt, first well in Menard county to make oil in appreciable quantities though not yet definitely established as a producer, began cleaning out 20 feet of cavings to run a liner in an effort to determine the source of salt water. On Thursday, after standing 32 hours, the well swabbed 20 barrels of oil and 25 barrels of salt water. It is 3,000 feet deep, eight feet in a third oil bearing sand.

Deepening of Mid-Kansas and Transcontinental's No. 5-H Yates in Pecos county from 1573 to 1610 feet increased its flow from 470 to 690 barrels an hour. California Co. No. 2 Smith, lease 1, in section 23, block 194, topped the lime at 1495 feet, and California Co. No. 1 Tippett, lease 1, in section 2, D. F. Robertson survey, topped the lime at 1280 feet.

Lea County Gasser

Gas, variously reported from a quarter million to one million cubic feet daily, blew tools up and stuck them in the hole in Gypsy Oil Co.'s No. 1 State, in section 34-21-36, in Lea county, southeastern New Mexico. The gas was struck at 3217 feet. The test only recently resumed, after a several months' shutdown, at 3071 feet, where it topped the lime. After having 150 feet of oil and slush in the hole at 3515 feet, Midwest No. 1 Farnsworth, in section 12-26-37, Lea county, did not yield enough oil for a sample when the bailer was run at 3527 feet. All the oil was believed to have come from a good show at 3450-60 feet.

Wildcats Started

Wildcats spudded included Mid-Kansas' No. 1 W. E. Lackey in Coke county, 330 feet out of the southwest corner of section 372, block 1-A, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, and Henshaw Oil corporation's No. 1 Louise Anson in western Coleman county, 2490 feet from the south line and 300 feet from the west line of section 16, a mile south of Valera.

Howard county's new deep lime producer, Coyle-Concord's No. 1-A Roberts, was estimated early to be good for 2000 barrels a day. It topped the pay at 2960 feet and drilled to 3010. The well is in the northeast corner of the east half of the northwest quarter of section 156, block 29, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey. John G. Winant of Concord, a former governor of New Hampshire, and Capt. Arthur J. Coyle of San Antonio are the principal owners of the company, which already has five shallower producers in the Roberts-Settles area. Schermerhorn No. 2-A Roberts, in section 137, block 29, began drilling out a plug at 2320 feet. Evans Oil Co.'s new producer in section 157 was placed on the pump, rating 3000 barrels a day.

Most interesting of Winkler county's new producers was Southern Crude's No. T-88-P-1, 1320 feet from the north and west lines of section 28, block 26, and marking a north extension to the field of approximately 3000 feet. It flowed 20 barrels an hour by heads without water in drilling from 2895 feet, top of the pay, to 2945. Later, Southern Crude No. T-88-J-2 Hendrick, in section 30, block B-5, topped the pay at 2906 feet and four feet deeper made initial production of 209 barrels daily, without water. Southern Crude No. T-88-U-4 Hendrick, in section 41, block 26, began flowing 103 barrels of oil hourly from 2955 feet, six feet in the pay.

Winkler Has 377 Wells

These last two wells increased Winkler county's producers to 377 and during 24 hours ending Friday morning they produced 175,394 barrels under proration. Gulf No. 27-C Hendrick, in section 40, block B-5, topped the pay at 2983 feet and at 2904 feet tested 145 barrels hourly, 20 per cent water. Texon No. 5-B Hendrick, in section 45, block 26, made initial production of 360 barrels of fluid daily, 10 per cent water, from 2950 feet. Pay was topped at 2935 feet.

Gulf No. 16-C Hendrick, in section 40, block B-5, tested 1524 barrels hourly, seven per cent water, from 2702 feet, 15 feet in the big pay. Gulf No. 26-A Hendrick, in section 34, block B-5, prepared to deepen after testing 605 barrels of fluid, 19 per cent water hourly from 3005 feet. Gulf No. 24-A Hendrick tested 480 barrels per day, 8-10 of one per cent water, in drilling to 3070 feet, and was pinched. Humble No. 16-A Hendrick, in section 34, block B-5, drilled to 2704 feet in lime and flowed 10,000 barrels of fluid daily, 90 per cent sulphur water.

Southern Crude No. T-88-M-10 Hendrick, in section 33, block 26, flowed 10,000 barrels of sulphur water daily from 2923 feet. Roxana No. 1-G Hendrick, completed at 3160 feet, to which level it was plugged back from 3244 feet, initially produced only 107 barrels daily, 85 per cent sulphur water, and later made 120 barrels of oil and 360 barrels of water in 24 hours. Republic No. 8 Hendrick in section 45, block 26, flowed 400 barrels daily, 20 per cent water, from 2800 feet, five feet in the pay, and likely will deepen. Late lime tops included: Southern Crude No. T-68-3-A-4 Hendrick, in section 35, block B-5, at 2347 feet; Southern Crude No. T-88-T-4 Hendrick, section 34, block 26, at 2439 feet, and Southern Crude No. T-88-J-4 Hendrick, section 30, block B-5, at 2670 feet. Lime top of Southern Crude No. T-68-3-B-2 Hendrick, section 45, block 26, was corrected finally to 2265 feet.

V. T. Bolin's No. 1 Brown & Allman, in the center of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 4, block 5, public school land, was shot without results with 465 quarts from 2818 to 2878 feet. On its last test, on Aug. 31, it pumped 40 barrels of oil in 24 hours while erecting two 500-barrel storage tanks. Ten days earlier the well bailed approximately 145 barrels of oil in 12 hours, lowering the oil from 450 to 183 feet. Early in July, the well was shot with 200 quarts from 2700 to 2900 feet, after which it cleaned itself and filled up 1100 feet in 15 minutes.

President of Michigan U. Proposes to 'Dry Up' Frat Houses

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 1. (UP)—Federal prohibition agents, visiting fraternity houses, smelling breaths and tapping hip pockets to determine whether students are drinkers are possibilities pictured today by opponents of President Clarence Cook Little's plan to "dry up the University of Michigan campus."

University authorities meanwhile, sided with President Little's proposal to invite federal prohibition agents to investigate alleged drinking on the campus.

The action is aimed directly at parties which are held at fraternity houses.

HEAVY FINANCIAL DEAL

HOLDEN, Mo., Oct. 1. (UP)—A heavy financial transaction took place here recently when Brad Harmon brought 195 pounds of pennies to town. The pennies, the accumulation of three years, amounted to $300.

LAWTON COTTON YIELD HIGH

1,404 Bales Ginned Up to Sept. 30

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 1.—A total of 1404 bales of cotton had been ginned in Lawton up until Sept. 30, according to individual reports of five gins. Warm, dry weather has permitted the farmers to work in the cotton fields without interruption and they are "making hay while the sun shines."

The county schools, which convened early this fall in order to permit the country boys and girls to have three weeks' in the cotton fields, are now closed for the period and cotton can be expected to come to the gins in quantities.

Estimate on cotton in this section on the part of ginners is from 50 to 60 per cent of last year's crop. 27,884 bales were ginned in this county last year, 1700 bales is about the highest estimate for this year.

George Washington never took lessons on a saxophone and never was known to say he wished to learn to play one. Some people will say that that is decidedly in George's favor. Others who like saxophones, may decide to buy one through the "musical instruments" column in The Times.

After the reading of the minutes by Secretary Thelma Bridges, Sara Kreath, president of the club, took charge of the meeting. A complete discussion of feature articles, newspaper work and interviews were made, which was followed by the reading of articles written by the members of the club.

Several of the largest newspapers will be examined and discussed at the next regular meeting, noting particularly the style and average length of each story.

A meeting of the Wai-Kun staff was held in room 141 during the 30 minute period Monday morning for the discussion of prospective staff members. As only a few of the staff leaders are appointed each year, the business of completing the staff is left in the hand of these few leaders.

First Trial in Houston Lynching Postponed; 39 Veniremen Fined

118 Members of Panel Are Disqualified; Hospital Aide Re-Indicted—Dallas Witnesses Draw Fines

HOUSTON, Oct. 1. (AP)—Trial of the first seven men charged with murder in the lynching of Robert Powell, negro, here June 20, scheduled to begin today, was reset for Thursday by Judge Whit Boyd of criminal district court.

Only 118 of 300 veniremen called were qualified and half of this number will be disqualified on account of having formed an opinion on the case, the judge and attorneys agreed.

Thirty-nine veniremen who did not answer summons were fined $25 each for contempt of court and two witnesses were assessed fines of $50 each for not answering present when court opened.

While the court was in session the grand jury sent down an indictment for burglary against Jesse McCarty, negro hospital orderly and one of the principal witnesses for the state in the lynching trial. McCarty identified several of the defendants at a preliminary hearing, charging they participated in the alleged lynching.

A prgvious indictment against McCarty on the same charge was dismissed. Court attaches could not explain why a second indictment was brought down.

Judge Boyd announced an affidavit had been received from W. B. Cochran, one of the bondsmen of Wheeler, Minton and Reese, stating he wanted to surrrender the defendants and go off their bond. The defendants mentioned remained under bail since Cochran was unable to appear in court but attorneys announced that they would prepare new bails for the men.

SLAYING TRIAL WITNESS FINED

DALLAS, Oct. 1 (AP).—Postponing the trial of V. Ray Adams, Bartlett farmer charged with having slain Orville Mathews at a busy down-town street intersection here, Judge Charles A. Pippen today assessed heavy fines against witnesses whose absence made postponement necessary.

One of the missing witnesses, W. T. Ramsey of Belton, who is said to be ill in a hospital there, was fined $500. The others, J. L. Madison, R. S. Calloway, A. J. Anderson and W. H. Adkins, were fined $100 each.

New 'Wool Cotton' Success Is Here

Wichita Farmer Exhibits Strange Plant

A new species of cotton, known as "wool cotton," and thought to have originally been grown in Siberia, was brought to the offices of the local chamber of commerce Tuesday by E. J. Haynie, 414 Austin street. The staple was grown on the latter's farm four miles north of Byers.

The staple is strikingly dissimilar from the ordinary cotton boll, both in appearance and texture. Its boll is somewhat conical in shape, and the fiber is double the strength and coarseness of cotton, resembling wool.

The plant is a rarity, and each boll, according to Mr. Haynie, sells when available for $1 each.

Mr. Haynie said his father obtained a boll from a Memphis, Texas, farmer in 1925, and only planted it this season. The yield, he said, was about 30 pounds of staple, all from the seed in the one boll.

So far the uses of the new cotton fiber have not been definitely determined, but it probably can be used in production of more lasting clothes than those manufactured from cotton, Mr. Haynie said. He added that local cotton men had denied ever having seen such a staple before, and were unaware of its uses. A boll of the cotton has already been sent to A. and M. college for an examination, Mr. Haynie said.

The stalk of the new cotton reaches about four feet in height, and the branches spread out in the manner of huge weeds, in no way resembling the ordinary cotton plant, Mr. Haynie said.

Ministers to Inform Voters How to Vote Intelligently in Big Election

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (UP)—Sunday, Oct. 28, has been designated as "good citizenship Sunday" when ministers throughout the country will be asked to tell voters how to cast their ballots intelligently, the Anti-Saloon league announced today.

"In the primary election in Chicago this spring candidates representing the better element were nominated, although the opposing candidates received their usual number of votes," F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league, said. "The explanation is that a higher percentage of the church voters went to the polls.

"The citizens' second duty is to vote intelligently. He should be well informed upon the great issues and principles at stake in the election. Give the voters the facts and if he is honest he will do his part to insure good government."

The league will supply information on the prohibition issue and the attitudes of candidates of both parties "relative to this great moral reform," McBride said.

Guard Cutter Rescues Disabled School Ship

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. (INS)—The New York state school ship Newport was picked up halfway between the Azores and Bermuda by the coast guard cutter Chelan, according to a radio sent to headquarters today.

All aboard the ship were safe, the radio said. The ship lost its propeller en route to the Canary Islands, September 14, and since has been drifting. Provisions were short it was said.

WELL—IT'S HAPPENED

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 1. (UP)—To be mistaken for a squirrel while picking nuts in a tree and shot by four boys is the experience of Fred Henn, 32, of Kansas City. He is in general hospital today with bullet wounds in his left arm and shoulder and a bruised head received when he fell 25 feet from the tree. He is expected to recover.

QUESTION OF PARTY BARRED

Attorney Can't Ask Jurors Their Affiliations

AUSTIN, Oct. 1. (AP)—An attorney cannot ask a prospective juror in federal court whether he is a Democrat, a Republican or member of any other political party, but he can ask any venireman whether he has a prejudice against any other man because he does not participate in a primary election or does not affiliate with an existing recognized party, Federal Judge Robert T. Ervin of Mobile, Ala., ruled today in the federal district court.

Judge Ervin, occupying the bench in place of Judge Duval West of San Antonio, who recently disqualified himself, opened the hearing Monday morning in two cases in which Henry Young of Waco has questioned the validity of the Texas election laws in suits against Senator S. L. Staples, former secretary of state, and his successors, including Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum.

Young, candidate for United States senator in 1922, on what he termed the states' rights Democratic ticket, alleged that Staples as secretary of state, refused to place his name on the ticket. In his answer, Staples said the refusal was on the ground that Young had not completed with the election statutes. One of the cases involves Young's candidacy for senator and the other his candidacy for congress.

During the morning attorneys were occupied in selecting a jury. Young, representing himself, questioned the entire jury panel simultaneously as to whether they had any prejudice against a man who does not affiliate with an organized political party, and who stays out of a primary but exercises his rights as a citizen with respect to voting.

H. Grady Chandler, assistant attorney general, is representing the state and George Shelley and M. H. Goldsmith, representing Staples, are co-counsel.
