Navy Day To Be Observed Oct. 27

ORPUS CHRISTI, Texas—Upon the people of Texas properly observe Navy Day on the 27th of this month, and stress the significance of the Navy's growth as "the protector and preserver of our democratic way of life."

Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, State Chairman of the League of the United States, issued an appeal to the people of Texas. Since Navy Day, ever 27th, falls on Sunday this year, Mr. Miller urges its observance "by all churches of whatever creed or denomination."

His next follows: "The Navy Day, October 27, on Sunday this year, I think inappropriate to suggest observance by all churches of whatever creed or denomination."

He said that the American Navy has always been our first line of defense, with its rapidly expanding strength, it may yet not only the protector but the preserver of our democracy.

Right thinking American, less of his or her sympathies want war, but no thoughtful person can fail to discern the real menace to our liberties clouds the horizon of our world.

The words of Washington, more than a century and ago, "to be prepared for one of the most effective of preserving peace," apt to our common sense with using force today. Theodore Roosevelt, the father of the modern American Navy, whose birthday Day celebrates, gave to the same axiom when he said: "The United States Navy is the greatest guarantee of peace this country possesses."

URGES FIRMER STAND BY U. S. IN FAR EAST

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO.—Japan is blitzkriegering the United States out of the Pacific unless the latter acts quickly, according to Julian Arnold, former United States commercial attaché at Shanghai.

"The most serious aspect of the Sino-Japanese conflict," he said, "arises from Japan's determination to close all of China's communications with the outside world. While China's resistance and morale have held up astonishingly well against the vastly better equipped Japanese armies, they may be unable to continue their organized military defense with Indo-China and Burma routes of supplies closed."

Arnold warned if the United States is to continue to have respect, authority or prestige in the Far East she must discontinue the policy of publicly reiterating she will not fight there or enter a Far Eastern conflict.

He declared if this is the fixed policy of the United States, it is not only losing all respect for itself by publicly announcing it, but is losing all the advantage and moral force it could otherwise wield by keeping the other nations guessing. It gives them a definite advantage over the United States in fixing their own positive policies and lines of action, he added.

Arnold told Pacific Coast groups a nine-point program must be adopted if the United States is to check the progress of this movement by Japan. The program follows:

1—Cease to advertise that regardless of what happens in China, America will not go to war.

2—Cease to temporize our relations with the Japanese government.

3—Spotlight the Far Eastern situation by means of a non-partisan information board which "will be on a par with the Supreme Court in character," and act as liaison between the United States government and the people.

4—Draft measures to meet the Japanese acts of aggression.

5—Strengthen the embargo on the sale of war materials to Japan and prevent extension of loans and credits.

6—Organize business interested in the Far East for collective security in bargaining with Japan, which "is playing one against the other" at the present time.

7—Extend credit and financial accommodations to China.

8—Help China to keep open its communications with the outside world to guarantee continued assistance against Japan.

9—Aid the rehabilitation of Chinese currency.

"The cost of giving the Chinese their needed support will be but a drop in the bucket compared to the cost of later coping with a Japan become the military master of China and the Far East," Arnold said.

"Our fate as a nation depends on how we handle our responsibilities as a Pacific power. We must assume leadership now in enforcing two-way traffic in the relationships of the principal nations bordering on the Pacific," he told Pacific coast groups.

Mexican Bid For Big Tourist Trade

By United Press
EL PASO, Texas.—A strong bid for American tourist trade and particularly visitors from nearby Texas was made when the Mexican tourist association announced an initial appropriation of three million pesos for the conversion of many Mexican castle-like headquarters into modern tourist headquarters.

The tourist headquarters would be used by tourists who wish to go on hikes or riding trips into the mountain beauty spots nearby.

Seven Suggestions About Colds Given By Health Officer

AUSTIN, Tex.—With open season for colds at hand, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, suggests ways by which they can be avoided or reduced to a minimum. Here they are:

No. 1: Keep yourself as fit as possible. Substitute the simpler and more nourishing foods for rich mixtures. Eggs, milk, and other dairy products, fruits and green vegetables are rich in the vitamins that are a protection against colds. Add them to your diet. Drink several glasses of water daily.

No. 2: Dress according to the weather. Keep comfortably warm. Have a sweater handy or a warm coat to slip on when the days turn cold suddenly. Light a fire or turn on the heat if your house is damp and chilly. If you are a housekeeper, get your warm bedclothes out—and use them.

No. 3: Avoid sudden chilling. Change as quickly as possible to dry shoes and dry clothing if you are caught unprepared in a drenching rain.

No. 4: Get some exercise in the open air every day—a brisk walk, if you can't do more than that. Hold your head up and breathe deeply as you walk. Keep your sleeping quarters and your working rooms well ventilated, and get plenty of sleep.

No. 5: Colds are catching. Don't go where people are coughing or sneezing. Wash your hands before eating.

No. 6: If your powers of resistance have been lowered and a cold "catches" you, don't fight it. You will save time and strength and get well more quickly if you go to bed, eat lightly, drink plenty of water and stay in bed until your physician says you may get up. Don't wait, either, until you are seriously ill to send for your doctor. Send for him promptly, and follow his advice.

No. 7: Don't give your cold to others. Have your own towel and drinking glass. Don't broadcast your germs. Don't sneeze or cough in your neighbor's face. Keep yourself well supplied with paper handkerchiefs and destroy them after using. Postpone visits to friends until your cold is non-communicable.

SCITERN FARM F.S.A. PROGRAM IS A SUCCESS

The Field Day program sponsored by the Eastland County Farm Security Administration, October 15, at the Henry L. Scitern farm near Desdemona, was very successful. It was not, however, as well attended as had been expected due to the fact that so many farmers were busy gathering peanuts.

Mr. Scitern, the host, spoke on the subject, "How We Make a Living on Our Farm." The speaker exhibited the plans by which he worked to accomplish the expected results. Records kept on the farm showed that the plans and methods used had been very successful.

Hostess, Mrs. H. L. Scitern, talked on the subject, "Preparing and Serving the Foods We Can and Store." This talk was also interesting and instructive.

County agent Elmo Cook made an interesting talk on the subject, "Fertilizer Benefits and Effects," that was well received by those in attendance.

W. B. Starr, an expert on growing and handling sweet potatoes, delivered a very interesting talk on "Sweet Potatoes—Production."

Other subjects discussed in a very interesting and instructive manner were "Inexpensive Toys," "Orchards," "Turkey Raising," and "Vocational Agriculture."

Mrs. Willie N. Stephens, who has raised this season a flock of 153 baby beef turkeys, told of the plans and methods she used in accomplishing this. Morris Vannoy, a new addition to the capacity of S. A. force, in the capacity of an assistant rural supervisor, explained the relation of vocational agriculture to F. S. A.

Rev. J. B. Blunk, pastor of the local church, stated this morning that all plans were complete for the banquet. Only 200 can be seated. Rev. Blunk stated, and requisitions for the larger portions of this number had already been made this morning.

Members of the church that have joined between October, 1939 and October, 1940, will be honored at the meeting tonight.

Agricultural And Livestock Judges Are Named for Fair

Judges for the agricultural and livestock divisions of the Eastland County Fair, October 24-26 have been selected, according to Elmo V. Cook, County Agent. The agricultural and community exhibits will be judged on Friday, beginning at 9 a. m. by C. W. Lehmberg, Brown county agent and N. E. Scudder, Comanche county agent.

Dairy cattle will be judged, beginning at 1:30 p. m., Friday by Hugh F. Barnhart, Throckmorton county agent.

Beef cattle, swine, horses and mules will be judged on Saturday by Leon C. Ranson, Coleman County Farm Security Supervisor. Also on Saturday Dr. R. H. (Bob) Hodges of Ranger will judge sheep and J. F. Donley of Ranger will judge Angora goats.

Specialists Give Suggestions On Producing Cream

Since cream that is sold by dairymen under the new Federal food law must meet a much higher standard of quality than was formerly required, the Eastland county agent is passing on to dairymen the following suggestions which were given him by W. V. Maddox, dairy manufacturing specialist of the A. and M. Extension Service:

1. Clean the cow's flanks and udder and milk with clean, dry hands.

2. Use a partially covered milk pail and guard against the entry of dust and other foreign material into the milk pail.

3. Strain milk before separating and cool cream immediately after separating.

4. Avoid mixing warm cream with cool cream.

5. Keep cream covered in a clean, cool place, free from flies, dust, odors and other contamination.

6. Clean the separator thoroughly after each use.

7. Clean and sterilize milk pails, strainers, cream cans and other utensils daily.

8. Deliver cream at least twice per week—preferably three times per week in warm weather.

Appeal Agents; Doctors Named For the County

Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, Wednesday, announced presidential approval of appeal agents and examining physicians to supplement the work of draft boards in the selective service process.

Physicians will examine registrants placed in Class 1 as immediately available for service.

Appeal agents, one to every draft board, are to look after the interest of both the government and the registrant in any matter of difference. They are not to be confused with appeal boards, which will hear registrants' appeals from draft board rulings. Appeal board personnel will be named later.

The governor said persons called to serve as appeal agents and examining physicians responded enthusiastically "in a manner befitting the State's traditions."

Eastland County Appeal Agent—Judge V. T. Seaberry, Eastland.

Eastland County Examining Physicians—Dr. Thomas E. Payne and L. C. Brown, Eastland.

The Germans declared that two British tankers and two merchant ships were sunk and a British warship had been damaged.

The British also reported that their bombers and naval units had broken up another attempt to mass men and materials on the European coast for the invasion of Britain, and said that one force actually embarked on Sept. 16, but had been driven back by the Royal Air Force. Willkie, touring Missouri, declared that the New Deal has violated most of the sound democratic principles with "sneaky silence and creation of imaginary emergencies."

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—President Roosevelt's decision to make five political speeches undoubtedly means he is "jittery" about the election, Rep. Joseph Martin, republican campaign manager, said today.

Justice Takes a Holiday

Hitler discovered early in his regime that the courts could be turned into an effective instrument of totalitarianism. World opinion cast an aura of sanctity around the courtroom. There was a general feeling that justice was an absolute and that anything that happened in a court of law necessarily had the blessing of the blind goddess with the scales in her hand.

Hitler took advantage of this popular feeling. A dictator could, if he wished, plunder, persecute and murder without any higher authority than his own decree. But even dictators must acknowledge the weight of world opinion.

In enlisting the formality of courtroom procedure, the Nazi leader started something.

The Reichstag fire trial was probably the first instance in which Der Fuehrer used his new weapon.

All the trappings were there—the judges, the lawyers, the uniformed attendants, the routine procedure. Only the public was locked out. The public and the goddess of justice. Yet, when it was all over and the victims had been beheaded or put safely out of the way, it didn't look quite so much like outright persecution and murder. Instead there were "convictions" and "executions" and "sentences," and that didn't sound nearly so bad.

So Hitler just kept on, and Russia got the idea. Several thousand people who didn't see eye to eye with Stalinist policy were "sentenced" to death. Not murdered, mind you. There were "trials" and that took the sting off the official massacre.

When France's share of the war was over, the Vichy government decided something had to be done to cleanse the soul of France. So the former leaders of what was once a great republic were brought to trial and charged with "war guilt."

Next in the chain of trials may be that of Mme. Magda Lupescu, the unpopular friend of former King Carol of Rumania. There is some talk among the Nazi Iron Guards of asking Spain and Portugal to extradite Mme. Lupescu and Ernest Udreaanu, former Rumanian minister without portfolio.

To the dwindling democratic world, where justice still means something more than a dress rehearsal for murder, governmental trials in continental Europe no longer mean anything. Americas have long since ceased to be deluded.

Germany sends troops to guard Rumanian oil wells. While they're at it, they send a motorized division but they're not fueling anybody but themselves.

Drug store value of the constituent chemicals in the human body is now $1.05. On days when he felt below par, a smart shopper could buy himself for 98c.

"Pardon Me, Dear"

Mrs. Martha Payne Rawls, Ranger, Mother of Mrs. George L. Davenport Celebrates Her 90th Birthday Today

Editor's Note: Mrs. Martha Payne Rawls, who is 90 years of age Friday, has probably lived in Eastland County longer than any living citizen of the County. Friday she celebrates the 90th birthday anniversary in a long and useful life with an open house during the afternoon and evening, to which her multitude of friends is invited. The following account of her life was written for this paper by Mrs. Hagaman.

By Emma Whittington Hagaman
Mrs. Martha Payne Rawls is keeping open house this afternoon and evening at her home on Cypress Street in Ranger, celebrating her ninetieth birthday.

The life of this remarkable woman reads like a Pollyanna romance. Born in Tyler, Texas, October 18, 1850, the span of her life stretches from the days of the ox-cart and covered wagon to the train; from the train to the automobile, and from the automobile to the airplane. In her lifetime she has known four "registrations." First as a girl of 11, she saw the boys of Texas march away to the tune of Dixie to fight under the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy. Often have I heard her tell of how the home-folks would wait eagerly for news of the war "at the front" and that often she was the messenger to carry the news to the neighbors and friends. Early in life, Martha Payne learned to share the sadness and suffering of her friends as the message she carried was most often of the sickness or death of their soldier boys.

Then as a woman still under 50, Martha Rawls saw the Texas boys answer the call of the Spanish-American War. Again in 1917, she saw her grandsons and the sons of her many friends register for service in defense of their country. Many who answered the "last roll call" then were lads whom she had known. Again just Wednesday of this week she saw the last "Registration Day."

It is given to only a few to live from the ox-cart to the automobile; from the "tallow dip" to the electric light; from the log school to the modern public schools and universities; from the pony express to the radio. Such has been the interesting life of this remarkable woman as she has watched Texas expand and develop from the Sabine to the Great Plains.

After the close of the Civil War, the Payne family moved from Tyler to San Augustine. There she met and married Thomas O. Rawls, on August 14, 1870. Of the 13 children born to this couple, seven are now living: Mrs. Lula Riddle, Mrs. John M. Gholson and Thomas O. Rawls of Ranger; Mrs. George L. Davenport of Eastland; R. B. Rawls and Mrs. W. R. Bowden of Fort Worth, and Mrs. J. E. T. Peters of Dallas. Mrs. Rawls also has 15 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren living in Texas, Oklahoma, Mississippi, California, New York and Indiana.

Ranger, Mrs. Rawls has seen Payne Rawls grow from a frontier village of a few hundred persons to a city of some thirty thousand in the days of the oil boom and then settle into a delightful home city of some five thousand. During her active years, Mrs. Rawls always took part in all activities to the welfare and progress of Ranger. Until the last few years she has taken an active part in the Baptist Church, of which she has been a member most of the years of her long life.

Mrs. Rawls keeps abreast with present day affairs and eagerly reads the daily papers for the latest "war news." She has read many of the late books and especially enjoyed "Gone With the Wind" and "Tell of Time." These books deal with the lives and times of people she has known.

Dear Mother Rawls, we your friends who love you devotedly, wish that you may live to complete your Century of Progress.

"Eyes and Ears" Of Antiaircraft Gun Better Than Human

By United Press
EL PASO, Tex.—Huge "eyes and ears" that are in some ways better than the human organs are integral parts of the anti-aircraft guns being used by the 202nd Coast Artillery regiment of the Illinois National Guard stationed at Fort Bliss.

Searchlights are the eyes, and big sound indicators are the ears. Without these an anti-aircraft gun would waste most of its ammunition firing at an enemy plane in the vastness of the sky, and be especially futile at night. The "ears" look something like an enlarged phonograph horn and can detect the faint hum of an airplane motor many miles away. When the listening devices pick up the sound of an airplane at night the big searchlights are swung into action.

Anti-aircraft searchlights look like over-sized kittle drums and cost $15,000. They get their electricity from portable generating plants and are capable of piercing the night sky to a height of 30,000 feet.

The lights are 60 inches in diameter and have a candlepower of 800 millions.

Once the ears have warned that an airplane is near, the men manning the anti-aircraft units try to pick out the plane with the big beam.

Another instrument, known as a height-finder, calculates the height of the plane. From these calculations the gunners set their shells to explode at the proper height.

One of the most effective anti-aircraft shells used is the exploding shrapnel shell, which does not have to score a direct hit on a plane to down it. Any plane within 100 feet horizontally and 25 feet vertically of the explosion point will be downed.

Gunners say it is impractical to fire an anti-aircraft gun straight

Know him? ... He's the fellow who gushes wisdom after the game is played. He's the man who tells you what the team did wrong during that exciting second period.

It requires no special training to be a Monday morning expert. In fact, it's about the easiest profession in the world. It isn't very hard to know the answers ... afterward.

But a truly wise person is one who knows the answers beforehand!

Fool-proof foreknowledge is well-nigh impossible in a game like football. But it's not impossible in the much more important business of your every-day purchases. Your dollars are guarded by the advertising pages of this newspaper.

Here you are able to compare prices, compare values, compare the superior features of rival merchandise. You learn where to go ... to get what you want ... at the price you are willing to pay.

And you know your dollars are protected, because an inferior product cannot bear the merciless publicity of advertising!

United Press Vice President Gives Outstanding Impressions Gained On A Trip To "Down Under" Countries

Editor's Note: The following letter, written by Clem J. Randau to the editor of this paper, gives his views and impressions, the ones gained on a trip to Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia, the Dutch East Indies, Hongkong and Manila. It should prove of interest to the readers, as it gives first hand information about these far-away places.

"I have just returned from a weeks aerial tour of Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia, the Dutch East Indies, Hongkong and Manila. Since our party was the first of Pan American Airways, we had opportunities to see and talk with a good many of the leading personalities in the Pacific area.

"In this letter I would like to give my outstanding impressions based on what I saw and heard.

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON NEW FACTIONAL RIFT IN RANKS OF C. I. O. TAKES SPOTLIGHT FROM OLD SPLIT WITH A. F. OF L.

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON--The long-standing split between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations is beginning to be overshadowed by the developing rift within the C. I. O. itself.

Catton

This split has left-wing leaders like Harry Bridges, Joe Curran and Michael Quill arrayed against more conservative leaders who have lined up behind Sidney Hillman. So far, John L. Lewis has played ball with the Bridges-Curran-Quill group. The thing to watch is whether it all comes to a showdown at the C. I. O. convention in November.

The two factions put on a terrific scrap at the recent C. I. O. convention in New York. Lewis intervened to settle that scrap in favor of the leftists; the right wingers plan to bring the matter up when the C. I. O. convenes, and there may be some extensive fireworks.

If an open break is averted it will probably be because insiders fear its effect at this time on organized labor as a whole. In his post on the defense commission Hillman has been working hard to avoid labor ructions, and a showdown in the convention would hardly take place without his okay.

For the long pull, though, there is at least a chance that the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. will get together and that the left-wing groups will break off and go it alone.

BEEF chuck is way down the price scale but high in versatility and flavor. Good for roasts, steaks, pot roasts, boiled dishes and stews, chuck consists of about two-thirds lean meat; is rather low in fat content and contains an average amount of bone. If cut from good quality beef it is often tender enough to broil. Chuck steaks cooked in moist heat for a little over an hour will equal many a meat you would have to make more for. Chuck rib roasts make a surprisingly good main course for very little money.

POT ROAST (Serves 6 to 8)

Four pounds chuck roast, 3 tablespoons meat drippings, 2 tablespoons onion, chopped; 1 tablespoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 bay leaf, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoons flour, carrots.

Wipe meat with damp cloth, rub with salt and pepper, and dredge in flour. Place meat in kettle with hot drippings, and brown on all sides. Brown chopped onion slightly and add water and remaining seasonings. Let mixture simmer for required length of time, or until tender.

Turn meat occasionally. The carrots may be prepared and added to meat a half hour before meat is done. When meat and vegetables are done, remove from pan. Skim off excess fat from stock and measure remainder. For each cup of gravy desired, measure 2 tablespoons fat and return to kettle, add 1 1/2 tablespoons of flour for each 2 tablespoons of fat and stir

SUNDAY'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Pineapple and grapefruit juice, fried ham, creamed potatoes, muffins, coffee, milk.

DINNER: Pot roast of beef chuck, surprise baked potatoes, spinach with egg, sliced tomato with chopped pepper, apple fluff, fudge cake, coffee, milk.

SUPPER: Cold meat, hot rolls, jam, relishes, vegetable salad, cake, stewed fruit, tea, milk.

until smooth and slightly brown. Then add one cup of meat stock and stir, season and serve with meat.

CHUCK STEAK, SPANISH STYLE

One and one-half to 2 pounds chuck steak, 2 tablespoons melted meat drippings, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 onion, chopped; 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon minced celery leaves, 2 small green peppers, chopped; 2 cups tomato soup or tomato sauce.

After wiping steak, score on both sides. Cover with a marinade dressing made of fat, vinegar, onion and other seasonings. Soak for an hour or longer. Sear meat, using extra meat drippings or bacon fat if needed, then place in shallow baking dish or casserole. Add what is left of marinade dressing, the tomato soup or sauce, and bake in moderate oven (325° F.) for 2 hours or until the meat is tender.

Hongkong and China

"In Hongkong it was apparent that the British are preparing at least perfunctorily for an attack. Machine gun and artillery emplacements are seen everywhere. Bomb proof shelters have been built and even the beautiful beaches have been strung with barbed wire and fortified with machine gun nests.

"There are several million Chinese refugees in Hongkong, being fed primarily on rice, through an arrangement between the British and Japanese governments which permits the British to import a limited food supply. Even so, the plight of the Chinese refugees is bad, as thousands of the Chinese are sleeping in the streets regularly. We were told of an epidemic of cholera there.

"The general impression I had of Hongkong is that it could not be defended for long against a major attack. It's chief importance to the British is as a commercial center; hence, it compares in no way with Singapore as an impregnable fortress and naval base.

The Philippines

"A considerable majority of the Filipino leaders, I found, appear to regret the independence agreement scheduled to take effect in 1946. I believe it quite likely that President Quezon, the vice president and other leaders will get together on a program within the next couple of years with a view to rescinding the agreement and remaining under the American flag. This desire, I sensed, was due mostly to economic needs and trade relations, although in the background was a fear of invasion which might follow if the Philippines were entirely on their own.

CHEANEY NEWS

The people are real busy around Cheaney harvesting their peanuts. The majority have finished threshing and all have their hay in good shape except just a few crops that were rained on after being dug and before they were threshed.

Hatley Dean had had luck with his peanuts Monday. He was stacking them and had about three quarters of his crop stacked when fire broke out and burned all he had stacked.

J. F. Scott of Anson is at Cheaney, his old home, looking after his interests here.

Walter Underwood and J. F. Scott are visiting Ranger, Gorman and other towns today in the interest of a peanut market.

A gathering at the school house last night was entertained by County Superintendent Williams and County Agent E. V. Cook, of Eastland and Game Warden Woods of Breckenridge.

School is doing just fine on its 3rd week and the new building is nearing completion.

A good many are hauling peanut hay from around Cheaney. Some goes east as far as Fort Worth and west as far as San Angelo.

C. A. Strong and wife of Ranger were visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. owing of late.

The trip was not altogether work but that is another story.

SERIAL STORY

NEW YORK JUNGLE

BY VERA WADE SEVERN

YESTERDAY: Continuing his questioning, Plozman interviews Nela and Mrs. Langdon. When the officer's questions seem to be trapping Gundrum, Pat reveals that Marta had written Adam, saying she would marry him. Pat opened the letter by mistake. Plozman demands the letter.

BARKES SEES A SHADOW

CHAPTER XI

UNDER Plozman's continued questioning, Pat admitted that Adam had not been himself during the day. He had refused to drive to the Country Club with the family and had locked himself in the Jungle. Not until Nela had gone downstairs to plead with him had he changed his mind.

"Miss Nela Langdon is a neurotic," Plozman said, after Pat had left the drawing room. "She looks a lot like her uncle."

"There is a neurotic strain somewhere on the grandmother's side," Sidney admitted. "Nella's father and Adam Langdon were brothers, so she comes in for it, too. Hugh had a different grandmother and escapes."

Hugh Langdon was called. He corroborated Nela's account of Adam's unusual behavior but was unable to account for it.

"I've had no more than a five-minute talk with my cousin since his return," he said gravely. "But I felt that there had been a serious change in him."

"What did you discuss during that five minutes?" Plozman asked.

"My cousin's marriage had come as a surprise to the family; we discussed it," Hugh replied briefly. "What reason did he give for surprising you?"

"He disliked using wireless for intimate revelations and, since he had married just before sailing, there had been no time for letters."

THE arrival of a sheriff, a medical examiner, and a photographer delayed the examinations so that neither Marta nor Craig Gundrum were questioned until long after the other guests had made statements.

Guarded by a state trooper, Craig and Marta had waited in the library and whether or not Craig had persuaded Marta to slant her testimony toward his theory of the murder, Sidney could not know. He doubted it.

Finally Gundrum was called. "Let's get this over with as quickly as possible," he snapped. "I have an 11 o'clock class in the morning, and must make an early train. It's 2 o'clock now."

"Sorry, Professor. I will have to hold you all here for at least 24 hours, unless something def-nite turns up to release you from possible implication."

"Can he do that, Braitwood?" Craig demanded angrily.

"I'm sorry to say that he has the authority. We shall all have to make the best of it, Gundrum."

"Fire away, Mr. Policeman," Gundrum directed, grimly.

He made a good witness. He admitted his former engagement to Pat, but denied that he had returned to the Jungle instead of searching the storeroom.

"You will," he explained, "find my fingerprints in the storeroom if you care to look. I moved several pieces of large furniture to look behind them."

Before leaving, he managed to give his theory of the crime to Plozman. As it stood, allowing that the murderer had been after a mythical map or one of the rare old weapons, it was not impossible that Adam Langdon had been shot by someone either already hidden in the Jungle, who had left after the door was opened, or by a person who had entered under cover of darkness. Apparently Plozman was impressed.

WHEN Marta's turn came, it flashed into Sidney's mind that this was the strangest "entrance" she was ever to make.

"How did you find your way to the lioness in pitch darkness, Miss Hempfield?" Plozman asked gently.

"I have played Lady Macbeth, Captain Plozman," Marta told him, simply.

"In my sleepwalking scene I had to reach a given place with my eyes closed. At first I counted my steps, but after a while I found I could judge distance without counting. This evening Mr. Langdon had pointed out to me that he had placed his new lioness directly in front of the door, a place of honor. I knew that if I turned at a right angle when I touched her I would be in direct line for the door, so I started with one hand held out."

Both men knew what that outstretched hand had encountered. They listened, fascinated by the sheer drama of the recital.

"I couldn't see. I groped." She paused and continued, "I touched Adam's coat. I thought at first it was a thief, and terror gripped me. But I did not scream then. I reasoned that if the man thought I believed I'd touched one of the specimens he would remain immobile as he was. I lifted my hand slightly and then I felt--"

Again she paused and swallowed. "I felt the scar in the little cleft on Adam's chin. His face was lifeless--cold. He did not and--somehow I knew--the last I remember, his ramble me I screamed and

THERE was silence. Plozman brought Marta a glass from a decanter on the table. He waited while she drank, then asked: "Did anyone removing the door, Miss Hempfield?"

"Remove the key?" Plozman asked. "I never did. The door was locked from the inside."

Plozman did not mark, "As an old friend, I rain: "Eve that Mr. Langdon had a kindly nature. His Placed ins him."

"Did you ever hear that he had some part than hunting in the African jungle?"

"No, I never did. I have always hunted in the woods. Miss

Ever hear of "rock wool"? This rambler never had until a few days ago when E. H. Whitehead, alert and capable manager of the Temple Chamber of Commerce, mentioned the material while he was at the big plant was located right there in Temple. As the name indicates, the product is a wool-like substance and is manufactured from lime rock. It is an insulating material. S. R. Edwards, president of the Edwards Insulation Company, related not marked, paraphrasing Mark Twain, "Everybody talks about weather—but we do something about it."

Placed inside the walls of homes and other buildings, rock wool makes them cooler in summer and easier to heat in winter. The thickness of less than four inches is equal to 117 inches of concrete or 56 inches of brick. It is as far as insulation is concerned. The fluffy, fine-spun material also is fireproof as Ed-wards demonstrated by holding a match to it.

Many sections of the United States, almost all new homes are being insulated and existing houses, when remodeled, also are thus improved. The Temple plant—owned by Edwards, though young, is a leader of the industry and supplies the construction of the machinery—employs 22 workmen besides the office personnel. The sales force; and this Texas, when industry is growing steadily.

Here's a real antique for the "joke" contest: A little boy who was having a party at a neighbor's house was asked, "Will you have some more?" He replied, "How kin I have mo' lasses when I ain't had no lasses yet?"

And my Cousin Frank's favorite (and only) joke is, was and (I fear) will be: I have a goat without a nose. How does he smell? He smells awful. (So does that joke).

This-and-that: Who says that poetry is dead? Lark-in-May is the name of a Dallas grocery store. . . And the name of the school page of the Frost Enterprise is "the Frost Site". . . Juke-box addicts are giving a big play to "New San Antonio Rose". . . A soft-drink flavor has been given to a new kind of beer, the idea being that it won't leave the tell-tale aroma on the imbiber's breath. . . And now they've brought out tooth-picks in flavors—and in pretty colors, too.

University Key Man Isn't Its President

AUSTIN, Texas—Key man of the University of Texas isn't President Homer P. Rainey—it's Chief Janitor Sam Kieschnick.

For 14 years head of the University's 35-man janitorial staff, Kieschnick has charge of more than 200 keys, including grand master keys that will unlock practically every door in the school's 46 buildings.

Absent-minded professors are Kieschnick's main "extra-curricular" duties. "Few professors," he said, "lost their keys, but I get frequent calls to open offices when they forget them."

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NOT AT THE COFFEE TABLE... BUT BACK AT THE SINK!

Earn . . . and Hold—Their Admiration. AVOID Coffee Gossip—Serve Admiration Coffee!

"At the sink—that's where Helen ended. For days she had looked forward to her club dinner—had pictured herself skillfully preparing coffee for the gay party. But instead, she was washing cups at the sink! And that, the committee decided, was right where she belonged! Everyone knew her as a poor coffee maker." And if Helen had only known before, what she now knows . . . she would have spared herself this cruel humiliation—if only she had served Admiration Coffee. Coffee Gossip—or Coffee Compliments . . . depends on you!

So don't you risk it—not once. Don't be known as a poor coffee maker . . . don't expect just any coffee to satisfy any more than you would expect just any size shoe to fit. Avoid embarrassment—avoid coffee gossip—serve Admiration Coffee! It's fool-proof. Remember . . . more Southwestern housewives use Admiration than any other coffee. Admiration is so dependable!

THRIFTY—The use of the world's most costly and full-bodied coffees in Admiration makes it economical to use. Many housewives report that they get more cups per pound with Admiration than with just ordinary coffees. Remember that . . . be a wise shopper.

DEPENDABLE—Exact blending and scientific therm-roasting insures uniform flavor at every serving. No fear of embarrassment because of poor coffee. Remember that . . . be a smart hostess.

SATISFYING—Admiration's tempting, robust flavor is a bit with men. And women, too, enjoy its full richness and coaxing goodness. Remember that . . . be a good housewife.

What About a Job For Them

A group of students of Junior High School, who are in need of money for school supplies, and clothes, have organized themselves into an employment agency. It is their belief that there are many odd jobs around town waiting for them to do after school and on Saturdays if they could only find them. The boys are willing to do any kind of work that the employer is willing to trust them with—yard work, garden work, wood cutting, weed cutting, or any other odd job that a boy can do.

Persons having jobs are asked to call E. C. Johnston, telephone No. 142 or to write a card to Junior High School.

This is not intended to be a charity. The boys really want to work. Anyone employing one of the boys and finding him inefficient is asked to report to the agency. They must earn their money.

Persons are asked not to employ the boys for any job for which they would otherwise hire a man, as it is not the intention of the agency to deprive any adult of possible work.

Industry Is Urged To Put A Billion Dollars In Research

By United Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Do you think the United States could use $1,000,000,000 for creating jobs?

Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has devised a plan to raise the fund. He says all that is necessary is for all American companies to spend 2 percent of their gross income for research.

Dr. Compton, chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers' advisory committee on scientific research, based his statement on a survey of 188 of the nation's manufacturing concerns.

He said that many were handling research competently, particularly in the aviation industry, where 10 companies spent more than 10 percent of their gross income in this work.

But he emphasized that research still is one of the nation's least developed resources and that the 2 percent program must be followed if new jobs, industries, goods and services were to be established.
