"ENEMY IS OURS" WIRES GEN. WOLTERS TO GOVERNOR

SHEARER DENIES HE TRIED TO BREAK UP NAVAL PARLEY

HIGH SALARIED OBSERVER SAYS CHARGE FALSE

Claims Only One of Americans Was Opposed

"USED BRAINS" TO GET FACTS

Tales of Witness and Schwab Do Not Agree

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (AP)—William B. Shearer, the $25,000 observer for American shipbuilders at the 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference, testified today before a senate committee that no member of the American delegation had wished to see the parley end in failure and that he did not claim he had broken up the gathering.

"Do you know of any one of our representatives who worked against arriving at any agreement?" asked Chairman Shortridge.

"Only one," Shearer answered. "He introduced the political clause which was for another naval building holiday."

He did not give this person's name.

Shearer said he himself was for the American program for parity with the British navy; that if he had not been, he would have been with the British, who wanted 750,000 tons of cruisers.

Agreeing with Senator Shortridge that he used his brains and ability to get out the facts, Shearer said he also used one other thing.

"That was the naval intelligence data giving the proposed plan of Great Britain and Japan; what they would attempt to do at the conference and did do," Shearer said.

Denies Charge

"Then, it isn't a fact that you sought to break up the conference?" pursued Shortridge.

"That is ridiculous to anyone who read Ambassador Gibson's speech," the witness replied.

"You didn't claim you broke up the conference?"

"No."

Shearer referred to statements by two committee members, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, and Allen of Kansas, and remarked:

"You say this committee is fair?"

Denying he had used the word "treason in senate debate on the subject," Robinson said: "I don't know what your move was in making that statement, but its literally untrue." Allen said the record showed he had made no statement about Shearer to newspapermen.

Shearer testified that after he had made a speech at a "marine dinner" in November, 1926, he was "approached by all of the shipping industry."

On November 30, he continued, he received a letter from a Mr. Horner, whom he described as a "handy man of Wakeman, vice-president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation."

Shearer said Charles M. Schwab had referred him to Horner. When he was before the committee Mr. Schwab said he did not recall the meeting which Shearer said took place in the Ritz Carlton and that he did not even know Mr. Horner.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP)— Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge have entered an airplane for the first time. The plane sat on the ground all the time and the Coolidges sat in the plane. The former president did not choose to fly himself or to have Mrs. Coolidge do so. The father of his new daughter-in-law is a flying governor.

NEW WHEAT NOW HALF SOWN IN GRAY

About half of Gray county's 1930 wheat crop has been sown, according to reports of farmers from various parts of the county.

Most farmers have finished sowing in the southeast and south part of the county and many will finish the first of this week in the southeast portion but heavy rains in the northwest part have retarded planting to the extent that farmers are just now beginning.

R. A. Smith, who has just finished sowing his 700-acre wheat farm two miles southeast of Pampa, says that this fall is the first time since he has been living here that the wheat came up in one moisture. Next year may not bring another bumper crop, but it already has a good start, he said.

Farmers report that since harvest weather has been ideal for preparing wheat land. Rains came just in time to bring up all the volunteer wheat. A subsequent dry spell gave farmers time to plow their land, destroying the volunteer grain. Then another rain came preparing the land for planting.

The drouth in the lower Panhandle, West and Central Texas has made Gray and other Panhandle counties the feed source for the next year. Harvest of a fine crop of maize, sorghum feed, and kaffir in Gray and surrounding counties will begin in the next two weeks. Gray county not only raised a bumper wheat crop, but is raising a bumper feed crop, which will undoubtedly bring high prices in the drouth-stricken areas.

Storm Damage Not as Great as at First Believed

By the Associated Press

The West Indian hurricane, with estimates of its intensity lowered by revised reports of damage to the Bahamas, whirled northwestward across the Gulf of Mexico today and caused moderate gale winds to be felt as far inland as Tallahassee, Florida's capital city.

The Washington weather bureau placed the storm at 8 a. m. about 75 miles southeast of Pensacola and warned that indications were the disturbance would cross the coast line near that city this afternoon attended by winds of hurricane force. Storm warnings were changed to hurricane warnings along the Alabama and Mississippi coasts.

A wind which attained a miximum velocity of 53 miles an hour was reported at Pensacola at 8 a. m. today, but absence of telephone or telegraph communications prevented the transmission of news regarding conditions at Apalachicola, fixed as the eastern terminus of the hurricane warned area in the weather bureau's advisory of yesterday. Gales, however, were reported at Apalachicola as early as midnight.

The Miami Daily News announced receipt of a wireless dispatch from Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, saying property damage wrought by the high winds of last week which were experienced over a 48-hour period, was not as severe as was first thought and that there were only six known deaths in Nassau instead of 20 as previous messages had said. Nassau utilities were again functioning normally, it was said.

BOY'S CONDITION GRAVE

The condition of Cleave Swafford, who was taken to Amarillo Friday after he fell from a truck carrying school boys to the Tri-State fair, today was reported to be still serious.

OIL MEN HERE FOR MEETING ON PRODUCTION

Curtailment Need Will Be Discussed by Officials

DRILLING NOW BEING HALTED

Many Wells Are on Top of Pay in County

Officials of major oil companies operating in Gray county are arriving in Pampa today to attend an all-day conference tomorrow, when it will be decided if curtailment of production will be continued, or if drilling will be resumed in about 40 wells which were shut down six weeks ago by mutual agreement of all the companies.

Local officials and representatives of all companies say that storage facilities have improved in the last month and that the pipe lines are no longer working over-time. But as a rigid curtailment has been re-inaugurated in heavily producing fields as Gray county, company heads may decide that continuance of the curtailment or operation of a proration program in Gray county may be best for the oil industry.

The session will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and continue through-out the day. About 50 officials attended the meeting a month ago when it was decided to shut down drilling in 27 wells, and it is expected fully as many will attend tomorrow's meeting. The curtailment program has been more effective than the designers planned since drilling was stopped not only in the 27 wells but in many more on top of the pay.

Officials of several companies arrived today and are conferring with their local representatives regarding the success of the program.

Gray county's daily production in the past month has declined 23,000 barrels, almost 6,000 barrels a week.

Farm Editor of Oklahoma Tells of Cotton Plight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. (AP)—Carl Williams of Oklahoma, who represents cotton on the federal farm board, said before the senate agriculture committee his experience in editing a farm journal at Oklahoma City has thrown him intimately in contact with the problems of southern farmers.

He asserted he had been impressed the farmers of the south were as a whole up against greater problems than those of any other section.

Most cotton, he testified, was raised under the tenant system under which the growers borrow at the beginning of the season. This he said kept the growers almost continually in debt and gave them little to say about the marketing of the crops.

In his effort to remedy the situation, Williams said, he first met with little success. He added he had supported the federal farm oan act and the intermediate credit system because he felt that would help the "production credit proposition."

The Oklahoman said he gave his attention to the organization of 100 or more local cooperatives, but he was soon convinced the locals could do little by themselves.

Troops Take Over Public Offices and Disarm Officials—Policeman Is Held Pending Investigation

GUARDSMEN AND RANGERS ARE IN COMPLETE CHARGE TODAY

Judicial System of County Is Left Intact, However—Sale of Firearms Without Permission Forbidden

BORGER, Sept. 30—(AP)—"The enemy are ours" was the way Brigadier General Jacob Wolters described the advent of martial law in Hutchinson county today in a telegram to Governor Dan Moody.

The terse message was sent the chief executive after the general had arrived in Borger early today with three rifle detachments and a machine gun detachment of the Texas National guard to make effective the governor's proclamation of martial law for Hutchinson county.

Immediately upon arriving, the guardsmen detrained, were given orders and started out to rid the county of lawlessness, climaxed September 13 by the assassination of District Attorney John A. Holmes.

While one detachment of troopers went to the Borger city hall and took charge of affairs there, another detachment of 10 followed Col. L. S. Davidson of Dallas to Stinnet, the county seat of Hunchinson county 12 miles away, and relieved civil officers there of their duties.

Ranger J. W. Aldrich was appointed acting chief of police of Borger, while Ranger Sergeant C. B. Wheatley was named sheriff pro tem at Stinnet.

BORGER, Sept. 30. (AP)—Brigadier General Jacob F. Wolters, commanding a detachment of National Guard troops brought here from Fort Worth on a special train, officially declared Borger under martial law at 9 a. m. today.

The proclamations named General Wolters, executive general: Capt. John W. Naylor, executive officer; Capt. Fred W. Edmiston, adjutant; Col. Louis Davidson, provost marshal; Maj. Clarence E. Tarker, assistant provost marshal; Maj. Harry H. Johnson, assistant to the provost marshal; Lieut. Col. Taylor Nichols, quartermaster and finance officer.

The official proclamations ordered the captains of all state Ranger contingents in the Borger territory to report to the commanding officer immediately.

Firearm Sales Prohibited

In a general order issued by Captain Naylor, possession, selling or exchanging of firearms and ammunition are prohibited within the affected area except by permission of the military authorities.

Another order prevents state Rangers and the district attorney from interferring with the calling of persons before the military provost court. Any persons arrested for vagrancy will be turned over to the civil courts or the military provost court for trial.

The orders said business property would not be disturbed, but any place found selling intoxicating liquor or where gambling or any other law violations are allowed will be closed and the name of the proprietor turned over to civil authorities.

Another order warned citizens against using language, either written or spoken, that would be damaging to the affected area because of the declaration of martial law.

No debts were to be contracted by officers, soldiers, state Rangers or any other persons connected with the enforcement of the law except Lieut. Col. Nichols.

Peace Officers Removed

A separate proclamation issued by Governor Moody removed all county peace officers and delegated their duties to the military. Under the law the mayor and city commissioners and other county peace officers will continue to administer the fiscal affairs, their divestment of authority referring only to their duties as officers charged with enforcement of the peace.

General Jacob F. Wolters of Houston, commanding the 5th cavalry brigade, and Colonel Roberts of Taylor, 141st infantry, are in command of the troops under orders from Governor Moody. Assistant Attorney General Paul D. Page is the law officer.

The governor announced he had appointed Clem Calhoun district attorney to succeed John A. Holmes, who was assassinated. Calhoun, who was ordered to Borger from his home in Hamlin, resigned as prosecutor of the 104th district to accept his new assignment. Governor Moody advised him of his appointment today.

Policeman Is Held

The first duty of the troops was to go to the city hall and disarm all civil authorities. The first man arrested was Clint Metholland, policeman, who was held for investigation.

General Wolters established headquarters at the city hall building, which also housed the city jail and a fire station.

Shortly after the troops took over the seat of the city government, Constable Sam Jones arrived and a pair of brass knucks was taken from him. Ranger M. B. Gault then accompanied the constable from the city jail to get his guns.

Ranger J. W. Aldrich was appointed acting chief of police of Borger. Six guardsmen were detailed to police duty and placed on main street.

Mayor Glenn A. Pace of Borger, arrested yesterday by state Rangers on a charge in which it is alleged he caused a state witness in the Charles Hale murder case to leave Borger, waived preliminary hearing before County Judge H. M. Hood here today and was continued at liberty under $3,000 bond.

"THE HANSFORD NEWS—A COUNTRY NEWSPAPER WITH AN EDITORIAL PAGE". That is not a bad slogan for a country paper, or any other.

For editorial pages that show more than passing attention are rather few in these days of canned thought, canned music, and canned amusements. The Panhandle press ranks far above the general average over the country, probably because the publishers are helping their communities to grow and this help must include education and exhortation.

* * *

The right of fair comment whether commendatory or critical, is one of the broadest privileges guaranteed an individual or institution. Without the right to discuss public issues, democracy could not exist. Some people seem to believe, however, that it is the right and duty of the editorial writer to be a sort of unlicensed and untettered watchdog, to be forever snapping and yapping at the heels of those who do not hue to the line set down by that large class of self-appointed critics.

* * *

It is well that editors do not operate on this theory. It is fortunate for the critics themselves. There is nothing unusual in the fact that a critic is often himself much criticised. For every time that someone asks a newspaper to excoriate somebody, there is usually a rebound in which the critic himself is made the subject of a similar demand. In other words, criticism is not a one-sided proposition. Moreover, the editorial writer, in his desire to measure all things and strike a well-balanced judgment, may see in the critic things equally deplorable. Rather than seek to air the shortcomings of both sides in an issue, he may wish to use personal persuasion. He may learn facts which soften the criticism, or remove it altogether. Not always are these reasons fit for publication.

* * *

The editorial page is an educational force to the extent that it is read, and in proportion to the influence of these readers. To reach a powerful minority by convincing logic is tion to the influence of the often more effective than horse play calculated to attract the attention of an ineffective majority. An editorial page is vital to a newspaper, large or small, because it constantly calls attention to the public service phase of journalism. Journalism is both a business—to be operated as any other commercial organization—and a public function. The two divisions are component parts of the whole, but the activities of the departments are along radically different lines. To operate a newspaper on either one of them alone is detrimental in the extreme.

* * *

To "stop and think", about things to put in an editorial is to preserve a better balanced attitude on the part of the publisher-journalist. It matters little as to the elegance or even logic of the editorials. The worst personal effort of a home town man is better than the best "canned" editorial fixed up by the syndicates with a blank provided so that the name of the city or town may be inserted.

AS THIS IS WRITTEN, THE A. P. WIRE IS CARRYING REPORTS OF MOVEMENTS OF "HEAVILY LOADED TROOP TRAINS, APPARENTLY DESTINED FOR BORGER".

Maybe the next organization of service men will be one of Veterans of Borger Wars. Troop movements to the Texas Panhandle seem strangely foreign. Not even old Fort Elliott back in 1874 had a more serious task than apparently the governor believes his investigators have at Borger.

* * *

The National Guardsmen themselves are doubtless not needed in any sense of suppressing riots. The Rangers can attend to all obvious trouble. It is the subtle, the underlying threats that need to be investigated. Evidently the purpose of martial law is to remove the existing order and permit thorough and unhampered probing. The presence of troops may have an exemplary effect, though this is very doubtful. To keep Guardsmen on duty long enough to clear the town of its worst offenders, then to remove them and let the old order restore its suspended activities, would be worse than folly. Martial law is not needed for its present service, but if it makes possible the solution of the Holmes slaying and roots out the evils that are claimed to exist it will have been worthwhile. Borger needs a cure, not a pain-killer.

Studying the Dairy Business

Floyd County people are studying the dairy business as they have never studied its possibilities and the practical value of it in a good farming program before. And the demonstrated worth of dairying to the country is equalled by the value of such lines as sheep raising, poultry and swine.

The year-round income idea, which is typified by dairying because it is the easiest to visualize and the market the easiest to be gotten to, is becoming a fixed part of the farming program on the better farms in Floyd county.

One thing that does not look so good in connection with the movement for more dairy cows, is that there is too much carelessness in selection of cattle for their breeding. Blood lines tell in the production of butterfat, we admit, in fact we assert, but we believe that the gradual introduction of good blood lines or the introduction of new blood into a herd through responsible breeders is the only good way to do the job. Right now, while there are none in the country and we can't possibly be "throwing" this at anybody, we want to lend a hand in discouraging the idea of buying Jerseys from the promiscuous herd that is shipped in from the stockyards or elsewhere. Buying from such a source can't possibly be intelligent selection of additions for the dairy herd. —Floyd da Hesperian

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—It may not be a matter of news, but it certainly is a thought not to be overlooked — Herbert Hoover threatens to become one of the most popular of American presidents.

There is nothing about his personality, as thus far revealed, that would be likely to endear him to the populace. But he has shown plenty of skill in not doing the unpopular things and in doing and saying the things which have struck responsive chords with large masses of people.

Even the Democrats have had to praise him so frequently as to give considerable pain. Your correspondent knows a dozen persons who know Hoover well and dislike him personally, yet are willing to admit that as President he has been doing a really fine job.

Something Like Teddy

And although it is too early to make any safe prediction, it can be said with some assurance that if Hoover continues to show up as well as he has in the first seven months he will rank in general esteem with Roosevelt as one of the two outstanding Republican presidents since Lincoln. Of course, there is plenty of likelihood that Hoover will have plenty of trouble before he leaves the White House.

But the assertions made herewith are based on what seems to be the opinion of correspondents and public men in Washington and of editorial writers everywhere.

Lately Hoover has been in the midst of what appears to be enormous strides toward an assured world peace. Amid loud cheers on all sides, he has been conducting negotiations with England which ought to result in a permanent understanding with our main naval rival. Thanks to Hoover and Premier Ramsay MacDonald, the whole international atmosphere has been changed. The Kellogg peace treaty was negotiated in the Coolidge administration, but Hoover is the man who intends to make it stick and who actually seeks to cut military and naval expenses.

Nothing, apparently, could have been more popular than Hoover's peace policy coupled with his strong open attack on the big navy propagandists who were trying to interfere with his naval reduction efforts. Everybody has joined him in landing with both feet on Mr. William B. Shearer and the shipbuilding companies which employed him. The proposal for a Senate investigation of the scandal was the most popular one of its kind that anyone here remembers.

Farm relief raged as an issue for some eight years. Hoover saw to it that something was done about it. If the agricultural problem is solved or partially solved as a result of the work of the new Farm Board, Hoover will get most of the credit.

Appointment of the law enforcement commission was another popular move; hardly anyone saw anything in it to complain about. At the outset of his administration he abolished the famous "White House Spokesman" and one recalls no objection to that, but many commendations.

The progressives, who generally attack on specific principles, and the Democrats, who attack on general principles, were pleasantly astonished when Hoover abolished the Mellon policy of secrecy on income tax refunds. They applauded again when Hoover promised to purge his party of the nasty conditions which it had tolerated in the South.

Early Morning Wedding Centers Interest Today

Miss Marguerite Noel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Noel, and Mr. Harley G. Smith were married at the home of the bride's parents at 9 o'clock this morning, with the Rev Tom W. Brabham, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating in the ring ceremony. The service was marked by the utmost simplicity and was attended by only the immediate relatives.

The bride wore a becoming frock of brown satin-faced crepe. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left on a motor trip to St. Louis, points in Illinois, Ohio, and West Virginia. They will visit Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Smith, at Bremen, Ohio. Returning to Pampa on Oct. 15, they will be at home to their friends at their new residence, 924 Fisher street

Miss Noel was graduated from Central high school last spring. She was prominent in class and school activities, particularly in athletics. A member of one of Pampa's pioneer families, she has spent her girlhood here, and has a wide circle of friends. She was honored last Thursday afternoon with a party given by her mother, Mrs. R. C. Sowder, and Mrs. Earl Noel at which more than thirty friends "showered" her with gifts for her new home.

Mr. Smith has lived in Pampa almost four years, associated throughout that time with the Grayco Gasoline company. After finishing high school at New Martinsville, W. Va., he attended a business college.

Secretary Stimson in announcing this today said the vice-president had graciously waived his sister's precedence in favor of Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British ambassador, who will be the ranking British lady at the dinner.

Simultaneously Stimson disclosed prime minister MacDonald had asked that his daughter Ishbel, who is accompanying him on the trip of visit President Hoover, not be regarded officially at ceremonious functions held while he is in the United States.

Stimson said he assumed the arrangement, which he described as not permanent, would place Mrs. Gann in the next position to Lady Isabella.

NOTED FRENCH AVIATORS ARE MISSING IN SIBERIA

PARIS, Sept. 30.. (AP)—Anxiety was felt in some quarters today for Dieudonne Coste, French aviation ace, and his mechanic, Jacques Bellonte, missing more than three days after leaving Le Bourget in an attempt to reach Vladivostok, Siberia.

The two aviators took off from Le Bourget in their plane, the Question Mark, soon after dawn Friday, and were last reported from Cologne, Germany, where a French plane accompanying them turned back to Paris. They were heading for Siberia.

Oven Magic Will Be Subject of One Lecture by Mrs. Ihrig at The News Cooking School—Temperature Vital

"There is more magic in the oven than in any other kitchen article," declares Mrs. Leona Rusk Ihrig, nationally famous home economist, who will conduct the Pampa Daily News cooking school at the Pla-Mor auditorium which opens Oct. 14 and continues for five consecutive lectures.

"In baking, the element of time must be double checked. A matter of minutes may mean the difference between a culinary masterpiece and rank undisguised indigestion. Fortunate the woman whose baking hours can be arranged free from interruption. Many a 'phone call has heralded the cremation into cinders, of what might otherwise have been beautiful cakes or biscuits.

In the larger bakeries of today, the bread on moving trays, travels through an oven in which constant temperature is maintained at a regulated speed. If the mechanics of a speedometer can insure success to a baker whose output runs into hundreds of thousand of loaves a day, surely the watchful eye of the housewife on her kitchen clock home baking. Too, many times a recipe should insure baking success for her has been condemned or ingredient products labeled unworthy, simply because the presiding mistress of the kitchen trusted to her own estimate of time rather than to the minute hand.

"Another factor in baking, which is essential, is the item of temperature. The early Aztec woman, with her crushed maize tortillas baking in the sun warped threshold of her humble hut, tested the product of her labors from time to time, to insure their being done. Today, modern stoves mark a rare advancement from that first humble sunwarmed hearth. The woman who has not equipped her kitchen with a cook stove embodying the latest findings in temperature maintenance for her oven, faces a handicap as great as though she still carried water from the spring and lighted her home with tallow dipped candles. The saving in unspoiled bakings alone, not to mention the ruffled temper of the cook presiding, within a short time more than offsets additional cost involved.

"One of the oldest among professions and one that is known to nearly every nation, regardless of stage of development or racial background, is baking. The earliest Biblical reference to cooking is to the art of baking. Archaeologists have not yet plumbed the unfathomable depths of the past, to such a degree that the crumpling dust have not revealed baking utensils. In old New England, one of the social requisites of the housewife of the day was her baking standards. Today, baking has reached its zenith in the hands of the Germans. From pumpernickel pretzels, the German baker reigns supreme."

Mrs. Ihrig, whose baking prestige is recognized rrom coast to coast, will give practical demonstrations of her recipes in a lecture devoted exclusively to this most intricate, and at the same time most fascinating branch of the household cuisine. Every housewife should make it a point that regardless of whether or not she is able to attend each of the five lectures, she will be present personally at Mrs. Ihrig's discourse on baking. Biscuits, cakes, pastry pies, tarts, cookies—all come in for a tion. Pampa housewives are warned to share of the discussion and demonstrabear in mind that these lectures start promptly at 2:30 in the Pla-Mor auditorium, and the first arrivals are the first seated. A complete program of Mrs. Ihrig's lecture schedule will be published in The News in order that all prospective visitors to this fascinating series of lectures may be forewarned as to the topics under discussion each day.

Admission to the cooking school is absolutely without charge, being offered as a courtesy to the women of Pampa and territory, the women's department of The News, and co-operating advertisers. New attendance records are anticipated and it is desired that as many as possible get there early, in order that seating arrangements may be completed with the minimum amount of disturbance.

Four Men Held in Arkansas Killing

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 30. (AP)—An elevator boy's story today had caused the arrests of four men whom authorities questioned in connection with the murder of P. R. Austin of Victoria, Tex., wealthy cattleman, in a hotel room here.

Three of the men, Earl Well, Clarence Walz and John Reger, who said they lived in Dayton, Ohio, were held at Booneville, and the fourth, Joe D. Hawkins, 26, of Fort Worth, Tex., was in custody here.

Police asserted all of them answered descriptions given by the elevator boy of three men who he said left the floor where Austin's room was situated on Thursday night.

J. R. McCate, a deputy sheriff and filling station operator near here, took Hawkins in custody, he said, when the latter returned to claim an automobile he had pawned Friday for $5.

FOOTBALL TO GAIN INTEREST ON SATURDAY

By the Associated Press

Although the first meeting of Southwest conference teams is not scheduled until a week from Saturday, when Texas university invades Fayetteville to meet Arkansas, the coming weekend will be enlivened by a trio of intersection skirmishes calculated to send football interest mounting.

Southern Methodist's clash with Coach Dana Bible's Nebraska Cornhuskers at Lincoln will top the week's bill, with the Texas Aggies-Tulane clash at New Orleans another choice engagement. Texas university will have as its guests the Centenary college Gentlemen from Shreveport.

Four other conference teams will continue to take their football less seriously, engaging secondary state schools. The powerful Baylor Bears are booked against Trinity university at Waco, Rice meets the Sam Houston Teachers at Houston, Arkansas plays Henderson-Brown at Fayetteville and Texas Christian moves over to Breckenridge to meet Simmons university on a neutral field. They, the Frogs, will find the Cowboys tough foeman, fresh from a 3 to 0 victory over the Longhorn's second team.

With a 54 to 7 victory over Southwestern university under their belts, the Aggies apparently were set to give Tulane all the competition the law allows. Coach Bell's team displayed unlimited power in crushing the Pirates, four complete teams participating.

The Mustangs gave no indication they can prove a match for Nebraska in being held to a 13-13 tie by Howard Payne. It was the second close brush for Coach Morrison's revamped machine. Until the closing quarter, when they opened up an aerial attack that scored two touchdowns, the Ponies were fought to a standstill.

Having gained no better than a 13 to 0 victory over St. Edward's university in their initial brush, the Longhorns figured to have their hands full with Cenenary Saturday, even to overflowing. The Gentlemen, led by brilliant Jake Hanna, ran up to 63 to 0 score on the Commerce Teachers Saturday. The Longhorn offense looked weak against the Saints and its defense spotty.

Coach Francis Schmidt's Horned Frogs served ample warning on six conference rivals by rolling up a 61 to 0 count on the Daniel Baker Hill Billies. Cy Leland crossed the Billies' goal line twice, and the entire coterie of Frog backs whipped the Daniel Baker line to ribbons. Simmons was expected to give the Frogs a harder test.

Baylor was scheduled to calk up another top-heavy score at the expense of Trinity university. The Bruins again demonstrated their power in whipping the Denton Teachers, 32 to 0.

The Razorbacks, victorious over College of the Ozarks, 37 to 0, in their opener, were figured to have equally easy going against Henderson-Brown.

The Rice Owls, trounced by the Loyola Wolves, 33 to 6, Friday night, promised to have it easier with Sam Houston.

Donie Bush Will Pilot White Sox

CHICAGO, Sept. 30. (AP) — Donie Bush, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will pilot the Chicago American league baseball club next year, the White Sox management announced today.

Bush succeeds Russell "Lena" Blackburne, and has signed a two year contract beginning next year. Blackburne will finish this season. Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the club, did not reveal terms of the contract with Bush.

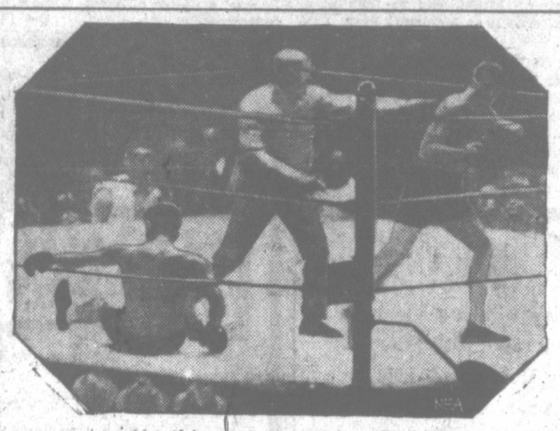

Lighted Sign to Be Placed Here to Guide Aviators

"Pampa" in letters each sixteen feet wide and eight feet long will be painted on the roof of some building in the city to direct aviators to the landing field, according to plans announced by the American Legion. A huge arrow pointing toward the landing field will be painted after the name. The marker will be illuminated for the benefit of airmen who fly in the night. The sign will be 80 feet long, exclusive of the arrow.

A building on which to paint the marker has not yet been offered the Legion but C. E. Cary, justice of the peace, who yesterday inspected suitable roofs from a height of 2,000 feet with Bill Ponder says that the roof of the Hobbs building back of the Schneider hotel, the roof of the Methodist church or that of the new courthouse would be suitable.

A similar sign was placed on the Central gymnasium several weeks ago by the board of city development.

JACK SHARKEY PAYS OFF

CANYON EAGLES BOASTING THAT THEY WILL DOWN HARVESTERS AT RANDALL COUNTY SEAT FRIDAY

Pampa's Harvesters today will buckle down to serious preparataion for their invasion of Canyon next Friday.

Lately victorious over the strong Hereford eleven, the Canyon Eagles are reported to be boastfully telling what they expect to do to the local team Oct. 4.

Canyon high lost some of her stars last year, but has some young recruits who have seen Teachers college football all their lives and have a good idea as to what to do with the ball and the opposition.

The game at Canyon is welcomed by Coaches Mitchell and Foxx of Central The boys need "foreign" games to accustom themselves to playing away from home.

The games of Oct. 11, 18, and 25, with Borger, Claude, and Miami, respectively, will be played here.

Texas U Cheered by New Students for Grid Future

AUSTIN, Sept. 30. (Special)—Texas' hope for a winning football team in 1930 went skyhigh this week as 172 freshman football prospects began limbering up for the brunts of training season. Among the 172 were many of the great high school players of last season. There was variety enough to pick any thing desired.

Ed Price, all-state and from Corsicana, will be trying for football, basketball and baseball teams next year. Big Ox Blanton of Cisco who tips the scales at 220 and who was one of the greatest high school linesmen was among the group. Cooledge of Schreiner, Willow of the North Texas Aggies, 200 pound Leaman of Anson, Lawrence Wilson, a 194-pounder from Lawton, Okla., are among the freshies.

Howard Clewis of Austin, who was a great plunging fullback; and Jimmie Burr fo Austin who burned them up at Schreiner last year, also reported and looked like great prospective backs. Cay of Brenham, who starred with Blinn college last year, also make coaches smile. Goodman of Marfin is considered a great tackle.

Ad Richardson was the price bulk of the team. The boy weighs a mere 262. Euclid Payne is the prize runt. He weighs 117.

PUBLIC FORUM

EDITOR DAILY NEWS,

Greater Pampa.

The growth of Pampa and Gray county is a marvel, even in this marvelous country, accustomed to the unusual. In 1900 Gray county had 480 inhabitants; In 1910, 3,405; In 1920, 4,663, the figures taken from the United States census. The estimated population for 1928 is 15,000. Pampa in the census of 1920 enumerated 987 persons. Its estimated population for 1928 was 10,000. Surrounding the city are fertile lands, well adapted to good roads. Beneath is pure water, seemingly inexhaustible, and gas, apparently affording sufficient cheap fuel for 25 years. Factories can be built here. Industries can be established with huge pay rolls to compensate for the collapse that will follow the boom.

Pampa is a giant, not yet exerting his power. Agriculturally, the county could support a population more than five times the present number of inhabitants. For farming purposes it is reliably stated that the area is only thirty per cent developed; That only 5 per cent of poultry and dairying possibilities have been realized. Carbon black and oil furnish basic material for manufacture. The city manager and the board of city development are working to promote projects that will help our community to "cash in" on its potential unrealized wealth. It behooves all good citizens to bestir themselves to grasp the opportunities that are so alluring and so rich. It is time to tell the truth to the world about Gray county and the Panhandle in general. For twenty-five years this county has been held up to the execration of the outside world as being high, dry and windy, where it never rains and where crops are a failure; a poverty stricken country fraught with desperados and infested with rattle snakes, tarantulas and Indians. It is time to let this nation know that even in the midst of an oil boom Gray county and Pampa are prosperous from the products of farming and stock farms, and human life and property are safer than they are in the larger populated and well settled parts of our common wealth.

NEWTON P. WILLIS.

EDITOR, DAILY NEWS.

I know all who saw Pampa win a decisive victory over Electra Saturday, believe in that football team and believe they can give a good account of themselves against any high school eleven. But they lack one important factor—the suppprt of the business men and Chamber of Commerce of Pampa.

It appears quite a sum of money is being spent on advertising Pampa and its possibilities. Why not spend some of this money in backing the football team and utilize the best and most up-to-date method of advertising. The nation is becoming football-minded and a winning club is the talk of the surrounding territory.

I do not think we are donig our part by that football team when we let neighboring towns draw fans from our city to attend a game because the home town game is not advertised and talked enough to gain their interest.

We have a good team and a good coach; why not back them to the limit? Those boys have been giving their all to bring glory and prestige to Pampa, and if you and I will give our all and fight with that team when they are on the field, then we will be proud of Pampa when the season ends with no regrets to remember. Yours for showing Coach Mitchell and that fighting squad we are backing them 100 per cent. Remember the saying that we get out of anything we put into it.

A BOOSTER.

PERFORMANCE STARS NOW OF BIG INTEREST

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The final day of the season will hold interest chiefly for individual exploits and for the battle between Brooklyn and Philadelphia for the top of the National league's second division.

After winning seven straight games which carried them into fifth place ahead of the Robins, the Phillies fell back into a tie for the position by losing to the Giants 4 to 2 yesterday as the flatbush flock shaded Boston 3 to 2.

The Giant victory made it seven straight for Bill Walker, young southpaw who came to the club two years ago from Denver. Ott and Klein took their home run race into the New York Polo Grounds for the last time this season, both failed to scale the right field wall. They are tied with 42 apiece. By getting two hits in four times at Bat, Frank O'Doul strengthened his claim to the National league batting title.

Roger Hornsby's thirty-ninth home run not only placed him in a tie with his team-mate, Hack Wilson, for third place in the National league derby, but also enabled the champions Cubs to shade Ben Frey, Cincinnati recruit, by 1 to 0.

The Pirates divided two in St. Louis, winning the opener 5 to 1 and dropping the nightcap 10 to 2. The Pirates could lose second place only by dropping all their games.

In the American league, the tail-end Red Sox slammed the champion Mackmen for a 10 to 0 victory, the Messrs. Grove, Yerkes and Rommel officiating.

George Pipgras and Wesley Ferrell selected the same day ta share honors with two-hit games. Pipgras pitched the Yankees to a 3 to 0 victory over Washington, winning his eighteenth, and Ferrell turned back the Browns 4 to 0 in Cleveland. The victory practically clinched third place for the Indians.

Detroit outslugged the White Sox to win a wild game 9 to 8 in eleven innings. Gehringer and Stone aided the Bengals with homers.

Kansas Aggies and Texas Aggies Will Clash at Fair

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 30. (Special)—Featuring the opening-day program of the State fair of Texas at Dallas Oct. 12 will be the intersectional grid tilt at Fair Park stadium between Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggie warriors and the Kansas Aggies of Coach Bo McMillan.

The Kansas game is one of the two big intersectional tilts on the Aggie schedule this year and replaces the Sewanee-Aggie game which was an opening-day feature fo the State fair during the past six years. The other major intersectional contest of the Aggies is with the Tulane Greenies at New Orleans a week prior to the Kansas game.

A feature which is expected to attract a large number of Texans, especially North Texas, fans to the game at Dallas is the fact that the coaches of both teams grew up in North Texas. They played football together in high school at Fort Worth and later finished with colorfull careers at Centre College.

Ashton Golf Exhibition Shows How and Why "Dubs" Hook, Slice and Cut

Art Ashton, Pacific Coast golfing trickster, kept a large group of followers of the game laughing for more than an hour yesterday with his exhibitions at the Pampa country club.

He hooked, sliced, topped the ball, and went through other antics to show some errors of beginners. He bounced the balls many times on hammer heads and heads of golf clubs. He hit in many positions, including sitting in a chair. His ability to hit the ball with any degree of "cut" was uncanny.

Ashton also proved himself a golfer of ability in going around the tough local course in one above par. Pat O'Brien, Amarillo pro, went around in par, getting birdies on the second, fifth, and ninth holes. Dr. R. A. Webb got a 43, and H. Otto Studer and Dr. H. H. Hicks scores of 48 each. Studer had a birdie on the eighth hole. Par is 36 for the 3,390-yard course. Masterful drives characterized the exhibition golf participated in by the five players, who were followed by a gallery of nearly a score.

STEERS WIN BY THREE FEET IN SUNDAY GAME

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Sept. 30. (AP)—Outside of the financial aspect of the situation, the Dallas Steers and Birmingham Barons had accomplished nothing today toward settling claims for the base ball championship of Dixie.

Starting last Wednesday, they have battled across two states and worn out several dozen baseballs, but they still were horse-and-horse as they squared off for the fifth contest here today, each with two decisions. So far, neither has been able to do any good in the other's bailiwick.

With 14,000 yowling fans urging them on, the Steers pulled up on even terms with the Alabamans by taking yesterday's game, 6 to 5. The rookie star, Vic Frasier, gained revenge for a lacing given him at Birmingham three days prevously, although he barely escaped with his hide when the Barons chased over four runs in the ninth chapter.

Ludolph, veteran who limited the Texas league champs to two hits in the Dixie opener, went out under a shower of base hits in the fourth. His successor, Hearn, did better, but the principal damage had been done. A pair of homers by Si Rosenthal and Country Davis, both over the right field barrier in the third, contributed to Ludolph's downfall.

With the exception of their rousing finish, when they punched Frasier for four hits and came within approximately three feet of tying the score, the Barons could not concentrate their attack on the Steers' juvenile mound ace. Three feet represents the distance by which Sturdy was thrown out as he tore for home in the ninth with what would have been the Barons' sixth run.

Sturdy's bold attempt to score from second on Black's infield hit through Flaskamper provided a thrilling climax to the Barons courageous rally. He would have scored on anything less than a perfect peg, but Flaskamper's whip from the edge of the grass cut the plate, and Bischeff dived on top of Sturdy as he slid in. They crossed the plate together in a cloud of dust, and the Dallas backstop clung to the ball. It pulled Frasier out of a bad spot.

A pair of former big-leaguers were picked to match curves today. Milt Stock, diminutive Dallas pilot, planned to send Seargeant George Connally back at the Barons, while the ancient Ray Caldwell was almost certain to be Johnny Dobbs' selection.

After today's tilt the clubs go back to Alabama for a sixth meeting. If a seventh is necessary, it will be played here, President McJunkin of the Steers having guessed right on a spinning coin.

I. C. C. Hearing at San Antonio Opens

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 30. (AP)— The Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on an application for a permit of convenience and necessity to construct the Gulf and West Texas railroad at a cost of $5,552,665 was opened today in the Panamerican room of the Gunter hotel.

H. C. Davis of Washington, examiner for the commission, will hear the statements of 200 witnesses called by the railroad company to show the necessity of such a road and the benefits that would be derived.

R. W. Morrison, president of the road, was the first witness.

Delegates, all of whom will testify, were present from San Angelo, Brady, Mason, Fredericksburg, Menard, and Corpus Christi.

The application seeks for a permit to construct tracks between Fredericksburg and Brady and between San Angelo and Eden. Other trackage necessary to make the line continuous between San Antonio and San Angelo, thereby linking the country northwest of San Antonio with an outlet to the Gulf of Mexico through Corpus Christi, would be leased or bought.

The original plan of the railroad company had been to build new trackage between San Antonio and Fredericksburg, but this plan was abandoned, according to announcement made by Morrison last week.

MacDonald Enjoying Trip to America

By HARRY H. ROMER
Associated Press Staff Writer

STEAMSHIP BERENGARIA, Sept. 30. (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, en route to the United States for his naval disarmament discussion with President Hoover, is being favored with excellent weather on his "peace" voyage to America.

The prime minister has been taking advantage of the clear conditions, arising early and taking a prolonged deck constitutional before having in his suite.

The way in which the premier has taken part in the ordinary life of the ship ever since starting has been one of the most notable features of the voyage thus far. He has been seen constantly at various parts of the big boat, and it is seldom he rests in his cabin during the daytime.

Yesterday the prime minister did take refuge in his suite after vigorous morning exercise and was a surprised man to find the morning well advanced when he reappeared after his siesta. This, however, was a rare relapse into daytime inactivity for the exceedingly active prime minister.

A new steel safe weighing several tons and equipped with seventeen double action bolts has been installed by the Diamond shop for additional protection of the stock of diamonds, jewelry and other valuables, against burglary and fire.

Built specially for the jewelry establishment, the vault has a round-door bank safe. The combination controlling the seventeen bolts on the huge double doors are subject to 100,000,000 changes.

Sam Fenberg, owner of the shop, said that growth of business and the need to increase the stock to meet the demands of the holiday season necessitated the installation of the larger safe The added protection, he said, will enable him to increase his already large displays of gems. The safe was made by the New York Safe and Lock company.

New street cars, faster, and with greater capacity, have been introduced in Berlin.

Harvey McKinney Is Buried Today

Funeral services for Harvey Buckey McKinney, 50, were held at 10 o'clock this morning at the Stephenson Funeral home, with the Rev. A. A. Hyde, Presbyterian pastor, in charge of the last rites. Burial was to take place this afternoon at Memorial Park, Amarillo.

Mr. McKinney died Saturday morning at McKean and Connor hospital, where a week before he had undergone an operation. He suffered severe internal injuries in an accident which occurred last December. An operation was performed immediately afterward. The same injuries necessitated the second operation, it was said.

Mr. McKinney was a sign painter in the employ of the Cabot Carbon company. He had been with the company four years, working at various places where the company has plants. He was a member of Painters local, No. 434 of Pampa.

Surviving him are his wife and son, Terry. A daughter preceded him in death three years ago. Mr. McKinney was a native of West Virginia.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30. (AP)—Sentence of Mrs. Lois Pantages, convicted of manslaughter, was postponed until October 5 by Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy today after the theatrical magnate's wife was brought to court to hear her fate. A delay was obtained through a mass of arguments presented by her attorneys in a motion for a new trial.

Mrs. Pantages was present in a wheel chair. Her face was very pale and she trembled constantly.

The Innocent Cheat

©1929 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

Ruth Dewey Groves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL", ETC.

SHALLMAR laughed. "You don't mind his being with a knockout like that woman we saw and yet you're so crazy about him that you have to tingle with delight over obeying his slightest wish. Something's wrong with the picture, Helen. But tell me, has he forbidden you to speak to him in public?" She ended tauntingly but Helen was invulnerable to the jibe. Delicate sarcasms, and broad, were favorite weapons of the girls at verbal grips with each other.

"That's what I want to tell you about, Shallie dear," she said quietly and Shallimar was instantly disarmed. She opened her eyes a little wider and then narrowed them in anticipation. Was Helen actually going to open up?

"There's a reason, but I don't know what it is, why Leno wants me to grow up to be what he calls a lady. Please don't laugh. You know there is a difference between girls who take refinement and good form seriously and those who don't."

"What if there is?" Shallimar interjected impatiently. "Is that any reason why you have to give up even a dab of rouge along with cigarets?"

* * *

A TENDER smile wreathed Helen's lips before she answered. "Maybe Leno does carry it a bit far," she agreed, "but what I wanted to tell you was that he has never arranged for me to meet any of his friends or acquaintances and I know he wouldn't want it to happen by accident."

Shallimar scoffed. "Afraid they will contaminate you probably. But that's going to be pleasant for you when you leave school, isn't it? Who are you going to know? What are you going to do? He won't be able to create a set of Priscillas and Prudences just for you to associate with."

"He says we're going to travel," Helen explained.

"And show the world one American girl who is natural and unspoiled. I see. So that is what you are being groomed for."

"I don't know, Shallie. Maybe it's just that Leno believes girls ought to be natural and unspoiled."

Shallimar laughed again. "After the lady we saw him with you can't pretend that he prefers unspoiled girls for himself."

Helen flushed darkly red. Shallimar had found the chink in her armor, either by accident or design. This woman they spoke of was not the first sophisticated, modish female that Helen had seen in Leonard Brent's company.

Once on paying him an unexpected visit she had found him entertaining a charming friend whom he had hurriedly sent away—afterward scolding Helen for her surprise.

And Helen had not been blind to the fact that his choice of friends among the gentler sex was quite decidedly for the women of today. Why then: did he want her to be so

Helen's heart sank anew at every repetition of the question. For the answer was always the same. Leonard—Leno—did not regard her as she regarded him. He might not be, in her mind, too aged for her fancy to weave a love dream about him, but it was her great fear that he regarded her as a child.

She got up and moved away to hide her face from Shallimar's close scrutiny.

"Don't be a goose," Shallimar exclaimed sharply. "Be yourself, Helen. Cut out the ingenue. You're 18, you know. I don't approve at all of your falling for Mr. Brent, but if you want to get anywhere with him you won't allow yourself to be a football for his notions. Not while you have proof that his personal taste is contrary to all he is making of you."

Helen answered with a half-sob. "Sometimes I think I'm just naturally uninspired," she said, fishing a fresh handkerchief out of a box.

* * *

SHALLIMAR rushed over and put an arm about her. "No, you're not, honey. Don't you see? No one but a person with a lot of character could do what you're doing. And that's why I think it's a shame that you should try to be anything but yourself. It just happens that Mr. Brent wants you to be a throwback. If you thought he liked modern youth as it's sometimes pictured to make a story or a sermon you'd flame to high heaven to please him."

Helen wiped her eyes and blinked back the rest of her tears. It was pretty hard being the ward of a man you were in love with—a man who had loads of fascinating women friends—and to know that you were just a . . . a sort of experiment with him; but hard or not Helen hated tears. They were too much in keeping with the character being thrust upon her.

"Well, anyway," Shallimar said cheerfully, "he doesn't dress you in hoops and bustles. I can't quite get his idea. An old-fashioned girl in the latest word in clothes."

"I don't get it either," Helen confessed. "But I'm grateful for the lovely things he sends me. I'd hate to look funny."

"As you would if he wanted you to," Shallimar sniffed. "I hope I never fall in love if this is what it does to a girl. But honestly, Helen, I don't think you're in love with him, really. He's got you hypnotized, that's all."

Helen was pinning her thick yellow hair up on her head preparatory to taking a shower bath. She smiled at her reflection in the mirror. How little Shallimar knew about the grand passion her great brown eyes said to those in the glass. She pitied Shallimar. For no matter how much it hurt to be in love it was an experience not to be missed.

And it made having a new dress ever so much more exciting. "Shall I wear silver slippers or the blue moire?" she asked, facing about and forgetting that her dearly beloved Leno would very likely remain unstirred by any choice she made among the things in her plentiful wardrobe.

"Wear the blue—silver's overdone," Shallimar advised. "And here's a bar of that soap Aunt Cecilia sent from Hungary. You'll love the odor. It's lasting but that won't matter since your arbiter won't permit you to use perfume."

* * *

"HE doesn't object to a delicate scent," Helen corrected as she took the cake of clear green soap and disappeared into the hall. She ran down to the bathroom but, early as it was, she found all the tubs and showers in use and had to wait 10 minutes for her turn. The girls were forever upsetting the bathing order established for them by the house rules committee. It did no good to grumble even if you had to hurry back to your room and content yourself with a sponge bath aided by a rubdown with cologne. The facilities for luxurious living at Miss Spann's were limited. Still, the school had a reputation for worthiness that kept its enrollment full and things went on as they were.

When Helen returned to don her crepe de chine dancing set and the periwinkle dress she was aglow with well being and happy anticipation.

Shallimar stood by and offered well meant suggestions that were entirely ignored. No, not even a hint of lipstick, and certainly no eye shadow. Helen was firm.

"Not that you need it," Shallimar cajoled, "but there isn't a woman born who can't be made more beautiful. And you want to look beautiful, don't you?"

Helen consented to having her slightly water-shined nose powdered and she allowed Shallimar to arrange her heavy hair in a way that permitted one adorable little ear to invite a caress, but that was as far in modern allurement as she would go.

Finally Shallimar announced herself satisfied. Helen gave her a swift hug. "It's funny about you," she said impulsively. "You hate to see me going out with Leno, I know you do, and yet you do all you can to make me devastating to him Why is it, I wonder?"

Shallimar shrugged. "I suppose it's because when two women aren't after the same man they are allies against all men."

"I hope I can do as much for you some day," Helen acknowledged. "Which wrap shall I wear? I want to be downstairs when Leno comes."

"You don't want to lose a minute before asking him about last Saturday, do you?" Shallimar teased.

"No, I wouldn't dare do that," Helen told her; "but there's something he has promised to do for me. I'm anxious to remind him of it."

She was in the closet now, running her finely modeled hands over the row of wraps that hung there behind a cretonne curtain. She seemed uncertain of her choice. Her mind was not on the wraps. She came out with a black and white one. Shallimar gasped. "Helen, not that! With blue slippers?"

Helen regarded it. "It would be a bad combination, wouldn't it?" She threw it on the bed and turned back to the closet. This time she selected a gray velvet.

* * *

Helen's hands trembled as Brent took them in his own and kissed their fingertips. It was not a serious gesture, but it delighted the girl whose love of romance, and love of love itself, had settled upon this handsome, worldly man.

As he bent his head and looked at her from dark eyes that turned up slightly at the outer corners, following the line of his satanic eyebrows, her heart pounded alarmingly.

She could not fathom that look, part-mocking, part-triumphant, part-amused. But Leonard Brent could not be wholly laughing at her. Oh yes, she was aware that he knew of her feeling for him. There was something in his glance that made it possible to endure his knowing; something not altogether of mockery and amusement.

"You're looking lovelier than ever," Brent said to her and the words were uttered warmly.

Helen longed to say that he too was looking very well had she not felt it would be too artless to compliment him. He might want her to be simple, but not a simpleton.

But she allowed her eyes to feast upon him and Brent understood her as though she had spoken. He permitted no hint of his understanding to show in his manner. A long and varied experience with women had accustomed him to their admiration.

Helen's feet seemed scarcely to touch the flagstone walk as they made their way out to Brent's car, a long, narrow, convertible. Tonight it was open and Helen had an instant of regret that she was not to sit in the delicious intimacy it afforded when closed. But the feel of a soft breeze, warm with the promise of summer, brought a surge of pleasure that held no place for regret.

It was a short drive to the inn—a drive in May-scented twilight. Helen's thoughts were tuned to the sheer delight of the wind in her face, the lift of her hair about her face, the racing hope that sped with her.

At the inn, before they left the car, she turned to her companion, her lips apart and her eyes seeking his. "Leno," she said softly, wistfully, "tonight you will do what you promised?"

"Tonight?" Brent repeated.

"I can't wait any longer," Helen urged. "You must tell me. You promised, when I finished school. That will be soon. I've tried to be patient, but you've no idea what it means not to know anything about yourself except your name. And I'm not even sure of that."

Brent's lips took on a cross determination. He spoke sharply. "Don't be a nuisance and spoil our evening, Helen. I'll tell you everything as I promised, when you graduate."

Helen sat very still, facing her disappointment. Brent put an arm about her. "There is one thing I want to know, I'm said, "before I tell you who you are."

Undesirables Are Told to Move

Just long enough to eat, was the length of residence in Pampa given by Police Sergeant W. J. Turpin to four suspicious-looking characters from Borger who drifted here yesterday. If part of Borger's criminal and "vag" population attempts to move to Pampa, it will be given a reception similar to that given the four—who begged Turpin to give them time to get something to eat.

Local officers expected to meet and receive a portion of Borger's population after today—after the National Guard took charge of Borger.

BORGER AND STINNETT ARE AFFECTED BY PROCLAMATION OF DAN MOODY EARLY TODAY

Pace was represented by E. A. Simpson of the Amarillo law firm of Underwood, Johnson, Dooley, and Simpson. Seven business men of Borger and Stinnett, including John R. Miller, first mayor of Borger after the town was incorporated in March, 1926, and Peter Borger, brother of A. C. Borger, the founder, signed the new bond.

AUSTIN, Sept. 30. (AP)—Governor Moody today named W. J. Cunningham of Abilene to succeed Clem Calhoun as district attorney of the 104th judicial district.

Calhoun was named district attorney of the 84th district to replace J. A. Holmes, slain prosecutor.

BORGER, Sept. 30. (AP) —Clem Calhoun, special investigator, qualified as district attorney before District Judge E. J. Pickens at Stinnett, Hutchinson county seat, as Rangers and guardsmen disarmed officers today.

It was learned here an attempt was made to rob the Panhandle Milk company safe last night. Robbers failed to open the door and tried unsuccessfully to pull the safe out of the cement floor in which it was imbedded.

Pace Arrest Sensation

Mayor Glenn A. Pace faced a preliminary hearing on a charge, filed by Rangers, that he caused a state murder case witness to leave town. The mayor's arrest yesterday created a stir in view of previous charges of the Rangers and special state investigators sent here to hunt the assassin of District Attorney John A. Holmes that they had evidence implicating city and county officers in a criminal conspiracy.

The troops, most of them youths, were picked largely from among Fort Worth and Dallas militiamen temporarily out of regular work. The train left Fort Worth, point of concentration, at 2 p. m., yesterday and early last night it pulled into Wichita Falls. There Brig. General Jacob F. Wolters, one of those said to have reported to Governor Moody that martial law was necessary, was characteristically terse in answering questions. Replying to a request he officially announced Borger as his destination, he said: "You ought to know where we are going!" The train stayed but 15 minutes.

Wolters Experienced

General Wolters, a veteran officer, in the past has ridden into two other Texas cities—Galveston and Mexia—at the head of soldiers. In Galveston, his work largely was in supplying police officers to the city force and in aiding to prevent looting after a storm. In Mexia, he met a Borger of an earlier day. His men cleaned it out in short order.

Borger, which for days has seen the near shadow of rule by the military, was expectant, perhaps fearful in some quarters, but not demonstrative.

During the three years of the town's existence, martial law has been threatened several times. Its nearly two score unpunished murders and other evidences of crime also has caused periodic raids by Texas Rangers but the slaying of Holmes, who fell at the garage door of his home on Sept. 13, was the first spectacular outbreak in months, and the state had begun to believe the situation there well in hand.

Stinnett Affected

STINNETT, Sept. 30. (AP)—Stinnett, county seat of Hutchinson, was officially placed under marshal law at 10:05 a. m., today. Stinnett is 12 miles from Borger.

Five Rangers and Col. Davidson arrived at that hour and requested county officials to surrender their weapons. They had none on their persons and were ordered to get them and turn them over to the state and military authorities.

The Rangers accompanying Col. Davidson were Captains Tom Hickman and Frank Hamer, Sergeant C. B. Wheatley and Rangers C. O. Moore and Dott Smith.

The immediately took over the court house and the jail, which are housed under the same roof.

Judge Engledow on Bench Here

Relieving Judge W. R. Ewing, who left yesterday for Marlin to take treatment for rheumatism, C. G. Engledow of Shamrock was elected substitute judge of the 31st district court which began its second week of a 10-week term this morning. The bar unanimously elected Judge Engledow, who will serve until Judge Ewing's return, which will be in about a month.

The first jury case of the new term, F. F. Todd vs. the city of Pampa, was called for trial this morning and selection of the jury was begun this afternoon. In this suit, Mr. Todd is suing the city for $5,000 for damages which he claims his daughter suffered in a car wreck.

The suit will last about three days, Judge Engledow said. Baldwin and Alexander are attorneys for the plaintiff, and Cook, Smith and Teed are representing the defendant.

Fire Early Today Ruins Small Houses

A fire about 4 o'clock this morning destroyed a garage and servants' quarters at the A. Groening place in the Wynnelea addition.

About $900 worth of furniture stored in the buildings was burned, but was partly covered by insurance. The Groening family, living in the small house, was awakened by smoke. Mr. Groening, having no telephone in his brick veneer house under construction, had to come downtown to turn in the alarm.

The cause of the blaze was undetermined.

To Curtail Production

WICHITA, Kas., Sept. 30. (AP)—Operators of the Wright oil pool north of here, largest in Kansas, today resolved to cut the area's porduction fifty per cent, as a conservancy measure, for thirty days beginning October 5. The pool produces about 40,000 barrels daily from 99 wells.

Welfare Society to Meet Tomorrow

A meeting of the executive board of the Pampa Welfare society has been called for 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the B. C. D. auditorium. The meeting, originally scheduled for last week, but postponed because of the absence of board members from the city, was called for the transaction of important current business.

Mrs. M. P. Downs, welfare nurse and worker, urged the necessity of every member's presence.

Have Your Tires Overhauled

FOR FALL DRIVING

WHY not let us give your tires an overhaul? Perhaps your best tires are on the front instead of the rear. Probably there are some cuts or cracks—or hidden breaks—that can be easily fixed now to save you the cost of new tires a little later.

Let us take off all your tires—inspect the casings and tubes—straighten, clean and graphite the rims—and put them back on the proper wheels.

We'll be glad to do this for a nominal charge, and to give you an estimate on putting your rubber in ship-shape condition.

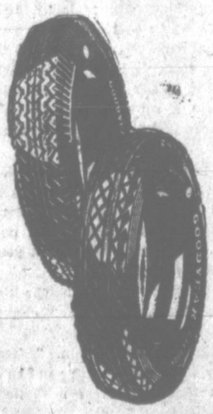

Little things which are neglected cause many a tire to give out long before it should. You can't tell what may be wrong inside merely by looking at tires on the outside. The safest plan is to have them all taken off and examined.

Drive over and let us do this job for you before you ruin a tire you might have saved.

Be Prepared

HAVE ALL YOUR GAS STOVES ADJUSTED AND THOROUGHLY INSPECTED NOW—BE PREPARED FOR THE COLDER WEATHER!

Right now is the time to prevent any possible trouble with your gas stove this winter. During the summer months gas stoves naturally get out of adjustment, yet they will burn well enough to "get by". During the winter months the quantity of gas consumed is greatly increased. If your stove is properly adjusted you can reduce your gas bill to an appreciable extent.

A stove that is not properly adjusted wastes some of the heating element and will consume more gas than is necessary for heating and cooking purposes.

Prevent Fires

A FEW CENTS AND A FEW MINUTES TIME SPENT NOW MIGHT SAVE MANY DOLLARS

It is always the aim of this company to render the best service possible at all times. With your cooperation we are in a position to give you 100 per cent Service.
