

'Lone Eagle' Lindbergh Buried On Hawaiian Island

KIPAHULU, Hawaii (UPI) — Charles A. Lindbergh, who became the idol of millions when he made the first solo flight across the Atlantic 47 years ago, died Monday and was buried in a tiny churchyard on the island of Maui far from the crowds he avoided most of his life.

At his bedside were his wife, Anne, and a son, Land. Although the "Lone Eagle" was an idol to the generation that cheered his daring 33-hour and 29-minute flight from New York to Paris in the "Spirit of St. Louis" in 1927, he shunned publicity and public appearances after the kidnaping of his son in 1932.

He was buried in work clothes, in a simple coffin hand made by the Hawaiian cowboys who were his neighbors in the village of Kipahulu on the slopes of the Haleakala volcano that in recent years had become his home.

Lindbergh had undergone treatment for several weeks at the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York, but at his request was flown on a stretcher to spend his last days on Maui. Howell said Lindbergh had planned the details of his funeral and burial himself.

Howell said Lindbergh would like for his actions in coming to Hana and having a simple funeral to be—in itself—a constructive act. In Washington, President Ford said he would be remembered as "one of America's alltime heroes and a great pioneer of the air-age that changed the world."

Family friends and relatives, were present for the simple funeral services held at a century-old missionary church nine hours after Lindbergh's death.

The Rev. John Pincher, summoned from a neighboring church, read from the Apostle Paul at the grave and said a prayer, then the Hawaiian burial hymn was sung.

Citizens in Hana, of which Kipahulu is a part, lowered their flags to half mast in honor of the aviator who came here eight days before he died in peace.

Lindbergh was laid to rest in a 30-foot deep grave lined with lava rock and black beach pebbles in which his son, Land, placed a huge flower lei for his mother and a hibiscus flower for himself.

The mind must not only possess a knowledge of truth, but the soul must revere it, cherish it, love it as a priceless gem; and this human life must be guided and shaped by it in order to fulfill its destiny.

WRONG HOUSE — Texas Department of Public Safety officers searching for three escaped convicts look around the home of Leo Purvis in the Stephenville area. Officers had received a report that the convicts might be hiding out in the house, but it proved incorrect. Instead, the three were cornered in the side yard of a rural home Monday night north of Stephenville with one being killed, ending a three-state spree of revenge, murder and rape.

Greek Cypriots Begin Guerrilla Army Force

United Press International Greek Cypriots have begun organizing a guerrilla army on Cyprus to fight the Turkish invasion force, political sources in the capital city of Nicosia said today.

The sources said Greeks have begun recruiting for a "Cyprus Liberation Army" among refugees along the southern coast of Cyprus and in the island's western mountains.

Cyprus President Glafkos Clerides meanwhile, appeared to be taking a more flexible stand on a peace settlement.

Clerides, leader of the Greek Cypriot majority on the island, told a crowded news conference today he remains adamantly opposed to partitioning the island between Greece and Turkey or even dividing it into independent Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot states.

In Washington, career diplomat William R. Crawford Jr. took the oath of office Monday as the new U.S. ambassador to Cyprus.

MURDER SPREE ENDED Officers Kill 1 Convict, Companions Surrender

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Police officers alerted by the loud barking of frightened dogs cornered three desperate convicts in the spotlighted side yard of a rural home Monday night, killing one. The other two meekly surrendered, ending a three-state spree of revenge, murder and rape.

When the dogs started barking, we jumped out of the patrol car," patrolman Larry Trail said. "We hit them with the spotlight and commanded them to stop. We commanded them to halt."

The officers fired 15 shots in the space of five seconds, ending the four-day, three-state revengeful spree. The men were charged with killing a widowed rancher and a farmer's wife whose trial testimony helped send them to prison.

President Planning Tour To Romania

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford today accepted an invitation from Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu to visit the Communist country.

White House prayer group breakfast with Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, officiating, and then met with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to be brought up to date on foreign policy developments.

He planned a late morning meeting with his top economic advisers to find ways to deal with inflation. The planning is under way for the President's economic summit conference, now scheduled for Sept. 27-28. Ford was to meet with his economic advisers in late morning to get the plans started.

AT PUBLIC HEARING Development Board Gets Criticism

By ALETHA DAVIS Pampa's mayor, R.D. Wilkerson, today expressed gratitude to the nearly 30 persons who attended a public hearing on the fiscal 1974-75 city budget for the municipality early today.

The mayor pointed out the apparent lack of public interest in operation of city government, attributing his basis of two or more commission meetings each month when no interested taxpayers attend. He ended his welcome by inviting any interested person to attend any session.

Today's increase in public interest centered on the proposed budget item which would reactivate a Board of City Development, a body which was discontinued by city government in 1962. A BCD would cost three cents on each $100 assessed valuation.

Former mayor (1961-63) E.C. Sidwell, voiced his views on the proposition, disapproving, in his opinion, its usefulness to the public. Sidwell expressed his views also on increases in operation costs of city services, laying the tax burden on widows and retired citizens.

Local law enforcement personnel said this morning they are continuing their investigation into a shooting incident Friday which resulted in hospitalization of two Pampa men.

Sikes Admitted To Psychiatric Facility Monday

Gary Sikes, 28, of Pampa, indicted by a recent Gray County Grand Jury on a charge of sexual abuse threats, was admitted yesterday to the Psychiatric Pavilion of Northwest Texas Hospital at Amarillo.

Originally held in Gray County jail in lieu of $100,000 bond, his release Monday was effected under an additional bond of $10,000 set by District Judge Grainger McIlhenny, who had set the first or basic bond.

Sikes' release under the additional surety bond was at the request of members of his family and his attorney, David E. Holt, according to Judge McIlhenny.

This, the judge said, allowed Sikes to be committed for psychiatric examination.

When released from the Amarillo facility, Sikes is to be returned here to the custody of the sheriff's office under the original bond.

Teachers Strikes May Cause More

United Press-International — Teachers in Freeport, Ill., and Gallia County, Ohio, went on strike today amidst predictions that this fall may bring a flurry of teachers strikes across the country.

Freeport teachers voted overwhelmingly Monday night to strike the district's schools on today's opening day of classes.

The strike vote came after negotiations failed to produce a contract agreement.

Class size and cost of living raises were among the issues in the strike, which affects more than 350 teachers and some 7,200 students.

The Gallia County Teachers Association went on strike against the county's schools after negotiations which began in April failed to bring agreement on a contract.

A spokesman for the 160-member association said salaries, hospitalization and personal leaves were among the issues in the dispute.

Some 3,000 students were affected by that strike.

One of the longest teachers strikes of the 1973-74 school year resumed at Hortonville, Wis., Monday as about two dozen teachers took to the picket lines while teachers hired to replace them attended training sessions in preparation for the Sept. 3 school opening.

The longest running teachers strike in the nation, at Timberlane, N.H., was expected to fall flat soon after the beginning of school, since most of the teachers who went on strike there last February have found new jobs.

School Board Holds Meeting This Afternoon

Today's special board meeting of Pampa Independent School District was to feature discussion of five agenda items.

The 3 p.m. session held at Carver Education Center, was to be devoted partly to new adult education courses offered for the current school year by Clarendon College, Amarillo College, and Frank Phillips College at Borger.

Also due for consideration is a Bible course to be offered at Pampa High School this year for the first time.

Other agenda items are:

- Final amendment and adoption of the 1973-74 budget, to be submitted to the Texas Education Agency.
- Professional fee for auditor employed for the purpose of auditing and taking inventory of various Vocational Education materials, equipment, and purchases.
- And consideration of employment, re-assignment, evaluation and duties of professional personnel.

The latter item may be handled in executive session, as allowed by state law, which provides that any final decision must be announced in open public meeting.

County Sends Request For Disaster Aid

County Judge Don Cain on Monday forwarded to Gov. Dolph Briscoe statements and other legal documentation regarding Gray County's request that the county be designated a "disaster area."

In a letter to the governor, Judge Cain asks that the information be forwarded to the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, who has final authority to grant such requests.

The Gray County Commissioners Court at their May 14 meeting passed a resolution to the effect that county farmers and ranchers, having suffered severe losses due to natural causes, should be made eligible for the emergency, low-interest loans which are made available if and when the area is legally classified as a "disaster area."

Hickel Seeking New Term In Governorship

United Press International — Former Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel, fired by former President Richard Nixon after he criticized administration policies, tries today to regain the governorship in a GOP nomination which includes his successor, Keith Miller.

Also on the gubernatorial primary ballot is Jay Hammond, mayor of Bristol Bay Borough. The winner will face Gov. William A. Egan, a Democrat, whom Hickel defeated in 1966 and is expected to easily win re-election.

In the other state holding a primary today, Gov. David Hall, a 43-year-old Democrat, seeks to become Oklahoma's first two-term governor. He has been under local and federal investigation for three years in connection with alleged kickbacks on state building projects, but never charged.

Polls show Hall running behind Rep. Clem Rogers McSpadden, D-Okla., 48, grandnephew of humorist Will Rogers and a popular rodeo announcer.

Democratic attorney Larry DeRyberry had charged that Hall received $150,000 in kickbacks, but a state legislative committee ruled last spring there was insufficient evidence for impeachment proceedings against the governor.

A federal grand jury reconvenes Sept. 4 for further investigation in the case.

The Alaska race is considered close between Hickel and Hammond, with Miller running behind in the polls.

In another Alaska race, Democratic Sen. Mike Gravel is seeking renomination in a primary race with Gene Guess, former speaker of the state House of Representatives.

The Alaska Republican Senate primary pits Terry Miller, former president of the state Senate, against C. R. Lewis, a state senator and John Birch Society member.

ON THE ROAD

Economic Summit Series Scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's economic summit conference is going on the road, perhaps in the hope somebody outside of Washington has a better idea of how to lick inflation.

The White House announced Monday it will hold a series of regional meetings next month highlighting such economic trouble spots as food, housing and the slumping stock market.

These 10 "mini-summits" will be climaxed by the two-day domestic summit, now scheduled for Sept. 27-28 in Washington.

The President himself will chair two of the panels — a conference of leading economists Sept. 5 and one of union officials Sept. 11.

The cities where regional sessions will be held have not yet been made public. But 600-700 business, labor and agriculture and farming spokesmen, plus consumer representatives, will be asked to participate in at least one of the earlier discussions plus the summit wrap-up.

The public at large will also be asked for their anti-inflation suggestions in writing.

The purpose of the exercise, according to L. William Seidman, the summit's executive director, is "to explore with the best brains in the country what should be done with our No. 1 problem."

That, of course, is inflation and its effects were starkly visible in at least two areas Monday.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said he expects grocery levels to keep rising in 1975 — but at a lower pace than the 15 per cent

C-C Directors Plan Meeting

A directors meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held Wednesday, Aug. 28, at 10:30 a.m. in the Chamber office according to Rex McAnelly, president.

Reports on several Chamber activities during the summer will be included on the agenda.

A nominating committee of five past presidents will be appointed to select names to go on a ballot from which seven people will be elected for three year terms by the membership.

Dollar Shows Mixed Shape

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The dollar opened mixed today in world money markets. The price of gold was unchanged.

Gold opened in Zurich and London at $153.75 an ounce. It was identical to the closing Swiss price Monday and the same as the closing price in London last Friday. British financial markets were closed Monday for a summer bank holiday.

The dollar opened fractionally higher in Frankfurt, at 2.634 marks. The closing quote Monday was 2.631 marks.

In Zurich, the dollar opened at 2.9935 Swiss francs, up from Monday's close of 2.991 francs.

Texas Treasury Facing Prospect Of A Surplus

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — There are predictions the Texas treasury will have a $1.5 billion surplus and state legislators are already thinking of ways to spend — or save — the money.

"What would be wrong with thinking about reducing some of these taxes," Sen. Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells, said Monday. He said he would introduce legislation to reduce the state sales tax from five to four cents.

"If we use up all this balance that we have, then should a depression come along we would have a bankrupt state," Rep. W. S. Healy, D-Paducah, said.

The staff of the Legislative Budget Board forecast $1.5 billion will be available to the 1975 Legislature for new or expanded state programs for the 1976-77 biennium.

This would be without a tax increase and would still cover recommended pay increases for state employees, school teachers and a $393.8 million emergency expenditure recommended by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

The extra funds were expected to roll in from oil

Portugal Begins Troops Airlift

United Press International — Portugal began a massive airlift of troops from Portuguese Guinea today to end five centuries of colonial rule in the African territory and begin the breakup of the Western world's last major empire.

Army officials in Lisbon reported a dozen plane loads of troops already on the way home from the West African colony and said about 10,000 soldiers would be flown back to Portugal by the end of the week.

Portuguese Foreign Minister Mario Soares and guerrilla Defense Minister Pedro Pires signed an historic agreement in Algiers Monday to grant independence to the 14,000-square-mile territory on Sept. 10.

The dapper diplomat and the hardened warrior ended the solemn ceremony with broad grins, shook hands and then colonial ruler and freedom fighter traded emotional hugs as equals.

The pact ended 13 years of guerrilla war between Portugal and the African Party for the Independence of Guinea and the Cape Verde Islands.

The agreement provided for the Republic of Guinea-Bissau, the name of the new nation, to rule the 480,000 residents of Portugal's smallest, poorest and least hospitable colony.

Diplomats in Lisbon predicted Portugal's other two embattled African territories — Mozambique and Angola — would become independent by 1976.

The ceremony in Algiers climaxed three months of off- and on-secret negotiations that began in London and ended in the Algerian capital.

Soares told newsmen the accord "closes a sad page in the history of Guinea."

The agreement called for an immediate formal ceasefire, total evacuation of Portuguese troops by Oct. 31 and the establishment of close diplomatic and economic ties.

27 Villagers Killed By Rebel Soldiers

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Communist troops crept under cover of darkness into a village 28 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, stabbed 10 government soldiers to death and executed 27 villagers, local officials reported today.

The officials told field reporters the invading troops hit Tum Kraing village late Monday night, abducted 27 villagers and burnt down 29 homes. They said the villagers were later executed.

The reports said two of the 10 dead defenders at the small government outpost were militia women. Six other government soldiers were wounded in the attack, the reports said.

It was one of the worst attacks on a civilian population in recent months. Communist losses in the bitter hand-to-hand fighting that followed were not known.

Tum Kraing village is located just west of Highway 4.

Broadway

NEW YORK (UPI) — The British influence on the Broadway theater again will be strong this new season, at least in the first half.

This reminder causes one to think back and wonder why there is no such American strength as in the past when there were plays and more plays every season by such as Maxwell Anderson, Robert Sherwood, Elmer Rice, Sidney Howard, S.N. Behrman and a few slightly lesser lights capable of healthy productivity.

More Charged With Kidnaping In Escape Try

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — Potter County authorities say they have connected three more prisoners in the county jail — making a total of eight — with an uprising last week in the county jail and have charged them with aggravated kidnaping.

The three additional prisoners were Robert Dale Hayes, Billy Dewain Hayes and Jimmy Jack Gonzales. Each was held in lieu of $25,000 bond after being charged Monday.

Our investigation showed each of these inmates came out of their cells in the original plan to escape but after it was apparent the escape had not worked, they each returned to their cells and asked the other prisoners to lock them up. Chief sheriff's deputy, Bob McCarty said.

A report on the attempted mass escape was expected to be released Monday but McCarty said the report will not be released until after it is presented to the grand jury, scheduled to meet Sept. 4.

Five prisoners were started the escape plan stuck with it to the end. Their leader, Darwin Ray Meharg, 39, a renegade former policeman from Wichita Falls, was killed when officers stormed the jail last Wednesday and rescued a hostage Meharg and the others were holding.

The four prisoners who stuck with Meharg were charged with kidnaping last week.

At the outset of the jail takeover, the prisoners seized two sheriff's deputies. They let one go because of injuries but held the other until the jail was stormed after 36 hours.

A trusty was badly wounded and two officers suffered minor leg wounds when the jail was stormed.

McCarty said that in addition to an investigation by the sheriff, a panel of lawyers is looking into the matter and has not completed its investigation.

arguments about the changing economic situation affecting the theater that discourages playwrights from prolific output because of the difficulty in financing serious plays.

But somehow I feel that this is a crutch that the newer American playwrights use to disguise laziness, lack of inspiration and so on. Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams, Edward Albee and the like take too much time between plays. They, and their potential producers, are afraid of failure. They plead artistic contemplation. Bunk!

The playwrights mentioned in the second paragraph did not always turn out hits, not by a long shot. But they worked, and producers produced their output.

And the new, new playwrights, mostly spawn of off Broadway, while prolific enough on paper, are not writing full-length dramas. Mostly, they write sketches, limp one acts. They are afraid, or incapable, for the most part in coming to grips with full-length dramas that some of them, as indicated by their fragmentary efforts, would seem capable of writing. They are so intent on being contemporarily meaningful that they wind up being messily meaningless.

In Britain, there seem to be numerous playwrights who keep turning out plays at a steady rate and getting them produced. A lot of them are flops, even at home; you'd never want to see them brought over here; too provincial in many cases.

The point is that the British playwrights work steadily; they don't wait two, three, five years between plays, good, bad or indifferent, flop or success.

The sole American exception is Neil Simon. He's in there every season with a new play. Usually, he has a winner. Even if he misses once in a while, he's to be blessed for keeping at it.

Among the early British imports for the new Broadway season are "In Praise of Love," a drama by the veteran and prolific Terence Rattigan that will star Rex Harrison and Julie Harris; the all-male Shakespearean "As You Like It," Alan Ayckbourn's "Absurd Person Singular," with U.S. natives Richard Kiley, Sandy Dennis, Geraldine Page, Larry Blyden and Tony Roberts, and the Royal Shakespeare Company's revival of Dion Boucicault's 19th century comedy, "London Assurance."

The official hurricane season runs from June 1 to November 30 in the Atlantic and Caribbean areas.

DISLIKED CROWDS

Nephew Recalls Lindbergh As Good-Humored, Distant

LIMA (UPI) — To me and my sisters, the man the world knew as "the Lone Eagle" was "Uncle Charles" — a goodhumored, somewhat distant figure who never talked down to his nephews and nieces.

As children, we often traveled to Darien, Conn., to visit the large, ugly, comfortable Tudor house, where Charles A. Lindbergh lived for 25 years and his five children grew up.

Our father, Dwight W. Morrow Jr., was the brother of Uncle Charles' wife, the former Anne Morrow.

The house's grounds, isolated by thick woods from the growing suburbs of New York City, had a fine view of Long Island Sound and a magnificent swing designed by Uncle Charles himself.

The swing, a thick knotted rope, hung from a tall tree at the bottom of a short steep slope. It would sweep a child 40 feet into the air after he jumped off the top of the hill.

Uncle Charles was a strict parent. He believed in obedience and spanking and insisted on independent, responsible behavior at an early age.

One son sailed his own small boat all over the sound before he was into his teens. Another boy was only 14 years old when he supervised 18-year-olds one summer at a Wyoming dude ranch.

Uncle Charles tended to withdraw when there were a lot of relatives in the house. Once, he asked a group of children to tell him ghost stories, but he walked out of the room when we couldn't come up with good enough tales.

When we were older, however, there were wide-ranging discussions of history and philosophy. His study was lined with books, including the complete works of his favorite author, British historian Arnold Toynbee.

Ten years before he took an active role in the ecology movement, he expressed grave forebodings about the world's ability to support a

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rosenkrantz, Ehrenkrantz, Lyon & Ross says investors should be anticipating what will be in the news months from now, such as possible developments as a sudden short-term interest rate drop, an easing in oil prices, or a short-term diminution in the rate of inflation. But the analyst adds that "by the time any of these potential developments do occur, it will probably be too late to buy."

Issues of selected retail stores will outperform the market over the next several years and seem like a good buy at present, according to an analysis by Goldman, Sachs & Co. The company points out that retail stocks did much better than other issues during the six-month market mixed performance during July.

State To Advance Funds To Schools For Payrolls

AUSTIN (UPI) — The state will advance Texas' strapped public schools next month a total of $73 million they normally would get over the next 10 months to meet their September payrolls.

This early payment by the state will allow the school districts to proceed in an orderly manner without having to resort so heavily to short-term borrowing in anticipation of the later receipt of state and local revenues. Gov. Dolph Briscoe said Monday in announcing the advance.

This, of course, will save the schools the interests costs they would otherwise be forced to pay and will alleviate some of the borrowing problems caused by the present tight money situation.

The $73 million normally would have been paid to public school districts in 10 payments for maintenance and operation. The 10 months' payments along with each district's allotment for salaries and transportation will be paid in a lump sum.

The advance payment plan will in effect allow districts to borrow from next year's operating funds to meet current expenses. The legislature, meeting in January, is expected to provide emergency funds so the districts will not be in the hole again because of the advance.

Briscoe refused to call a special session of the legislature this year to provide emergency school financing despite pleas from school officials and legislators. The governor has indicated, however, that he will ask the regular session in January for an emergency appropriation.

Briscoe said the advance will increase state aid to public schools in September from $81 million to $154 million.

The Legislative Budget Board grudgingly endorsed the advance plan and Speaker Price Daniel Jr. refused to go along with pro forma endorsement.

The budget board announced plans to allow such financing in the future.

"This kind of decision ought to be made by the legislature in special session," Rep. Neil Caldwell, D-Alvin, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

"They're gambling on the future," Caldwell said. "Really what we're doing is anticipating that the legislature is going to recognize the increased costs next spring."

Court Refuses To Order Demos To Change Meet

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — To reschedule a Texas State Democratic Convention because it conflicts with a religious holiday would endanger the orderly process of government, the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday.

The court refused to delay the convention, set by Texas law for the third Tuesday in September. For the only time this century the dates coincide with the Jewish High Holy Days of Rosh Hashana.

The court denied a preliminary injunction to 11 Jewish delegates seeking a two-day delay in the convention, upholding a decision by the Texas State Democratic Executive Committee and a district court.

Countless state functions are scheduled throughout the year — accounting, bar and medical examinations; legislative and court sessions; highway lettings, in short, the entire panoply of public affairs, the appeals court ruled.

be participant in any of these to require its rescheduling on constitutional grounds to remove a conflict with his religious occasions, where it was scheduled without reference to or intent to impinge upon them, would render orderly government impossible.

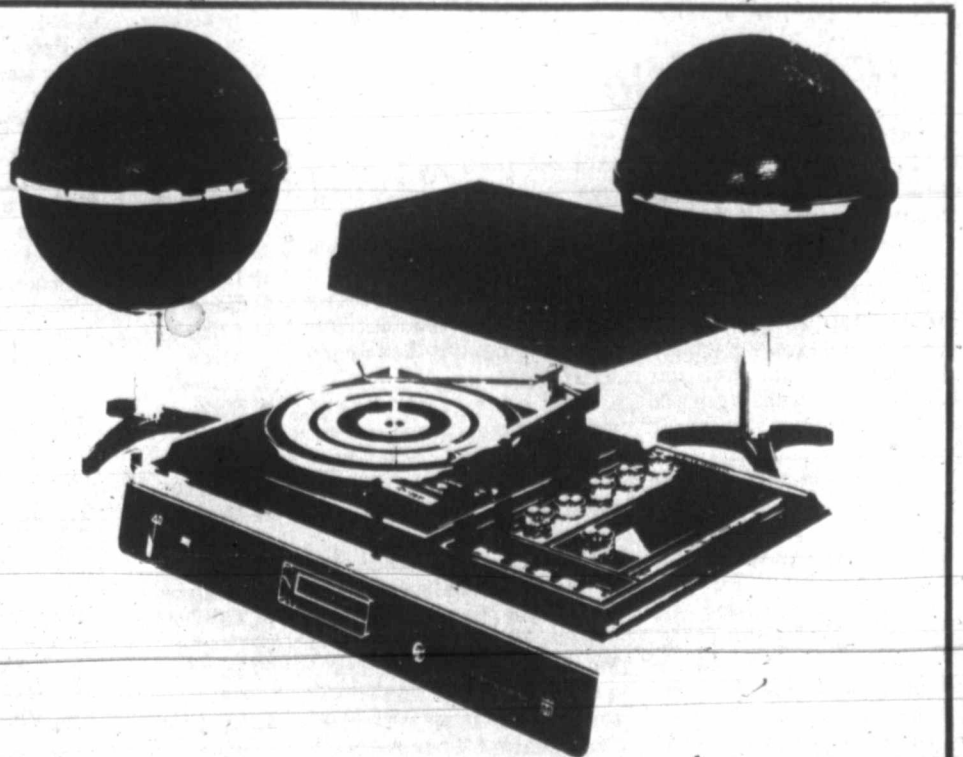

"Through various faiths may suffer such unpleasant choices as confront plaintiffs here, the even chances of a selection by lot should equalize the burdens over the long haul. To rule otherwise would not only transgress the neutrality envisioned by the First Amendment, but would condemn the state to endless uncertainties and frustrations."

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Government Vs. Bureaucracy

Few persons would have any difficulty distinguishing the difference between a case of beer and a case at law. An exception might be some person who is not familiar with the English language. In both instances, the word "case" is spelled the same, but has different origins and different meanings.

The dictionary says the case of - beer type "case" comes from the Latin word "capsa" that means chest whereas the law - case type "case" comes from the Latin "casus" which means fall, event, chance or special set of circumstances. In the judicial sense, "case" means a special set of circumstances that constitute a legal problem.

Verbal distinctions are not always that clear. Some words have a common origin, a related meaning, and yet refer to separate items. How many ministers, for example, have labored in the belief they were building a church when in fact they were constructing a church building. One denomination - the Quakers - makes a very strong point of the difference between the church and the church building. Traditionally the latter was referred to as the "meeting place." The term "church" was thus reserved to refer to Christians generally or the local congregation.

Some words have no relation to one another as to origin, or as to spelling, or even as to meaning, yet are often confused because they are used interchangeably or in association with another. Examples here are "schooling" and "education," the latter being the hoped-for but not inevitable product of the former. Another set of examples just a little harder to divide are "government" and "bureaucracy." Most individuals, in our experience, tend to blend the two meanings. Because they accept the first, they also accept the second.

Thus government is seen as a means of obtaining order in a society. Specifically, it is a means of suppressing disorder so that the orderly instincts of mankind have a chance to express themselves. Bureaucracy, on the other hand, is the enforcement apparatus, the tool that is required to make government effective. Historically, the two are so interwoven through association that unwinding them is like trying to unscrew a twining rose from a trellis.

We find it helpful to think of government as the plan, outline or scheme of action. We distinguish "government" in the valid sense of the term which is a corruption of government. In this frame, bureaucracy becomes the visible system. Bureaucracy is what you see when you go down to city hall. The system, the plan - the government, so to speak - is there, but it's in the books, in the brains, in the laws; you don't see it.

The difference between bureaucracy and government can be illustrated by a metaphor. Imagine two bridges crossing the same river. Suppose, for the purpose of discussion, that both have the same carrying capacity and both arrive at the same destination. However, one of the bridges contains 100 times more stone and steel than the other. Further it required reinforcement of additional bulk year after year. That bridge symbolizes the bureaucracy. Comparing one bridge with the other, would not a reasonable person conclude that the bulkier, more expensive bridge was defective in the engineering?

Both government and bureaucracy purport to be a means for providing a defense against the community enemies, foreign and domestic. Both claim the same purpose. But the two are not the same. Like government, the "bureaucratic bridge" started out from a clean, but not faultless design. The enlarged size of the bureaucracy arises from two causes. A minor cause is the defects in the original plan. A major cause is that the original design was modified by latter-day engineers.

If that is a fair representation, the remedial problem is to identify the specific reasons that started the enlargement process. As we read history, the core of the matter is that individuals in government and out of government have tried to use this defensive instrument to achieve non-defensive goals. We started out with a government in the true sense of the word, but we wound up with a limitless bureaucracy. The two are related, have long been associated, are often thought of interchangeably, but are not the same.

OUTRIDER

Watch Out For The 'Theys'

By GARRY WILLS
WASHINGTON - Martha Mitchell's heart-to-heart talk with Cornelia Wallace proclaimed the magazine cover. Okay, what could I lose? Might as well read it. Serves me right, anyway, for going to a "hair stylist" instead of a barber.

But wait. There could be more to this than meets Martha's eye. Cornelia is discussing political sabotage, and - here, let me quote Alabama's First Lady directly, just the way Martha took it down:

"People don't want to believe there is such a thing as political sabotage," said Mrs. Wallace. "But I have seen it happen in my family."

Could she, I asked myself, be alluding to the assassination attempt on her husband? Possibly. Cornelia had already told Martha that she "never thought it was a one-man deal." And more significantly: "Neither was George."

Naturally Martha agreed, allowing that she, too, has always believed there were "more people involved in the assassination attempt than just Arthur Bremer." No surprise there. Martha Mitchell, along with former New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison and that other magazine writer, Norman Mailer, is an ardent purveyor of the "they" theory of how things happen in this world.

Even before Watergate and its "dirty tricks" revelations, the past decade and a half has been a mother lode era for "they" historians. That is, observers who pursue devil theories regarding all political events.

Then there's Mailer, in hot pursuit of the CIA-FBI-Pentagon conspiracy against everybody. Even Alger Hiss is trying to make a comeback, riding the "they" train. He claims to have been the victim of Nixon before Watergate.

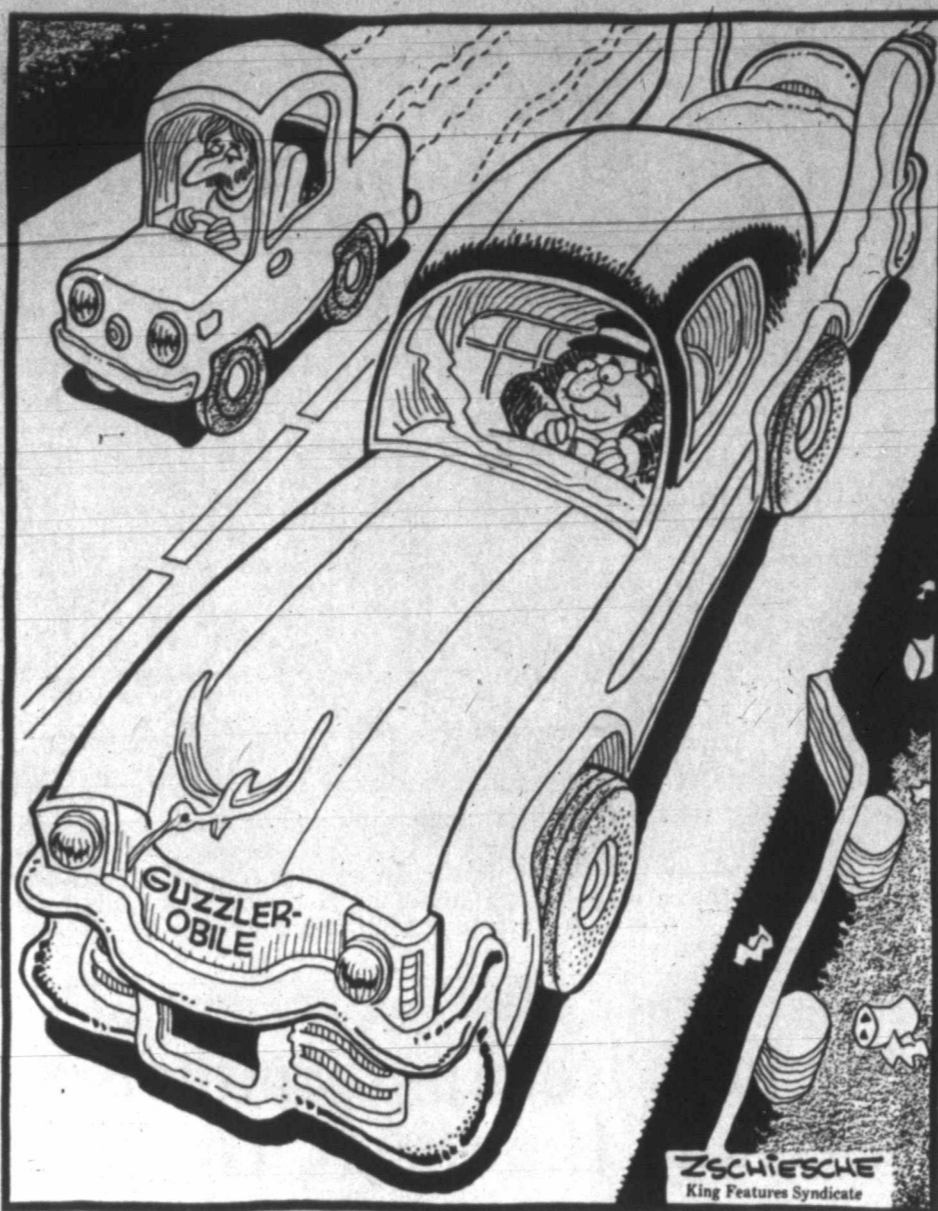

But back to Mrs. Wallace and her tale of political sabotage. It seems that it isn't her husband's tragic case she's telling Martha about. Rather it's what happened to her uncle, "Big Jim" Folsom, when he ran for reelection as Alabama governor 12 years ago.

The night before the primary vote for the 1962 election, Cornelia says, "They gave him a shot." They had my uncle on live television, so confused he couldn't remember his own children's names. He could hardly talk. My uncle spent ten years trying to find out why he had been sold out.

Well, that happens to be one "conspiracy" this observer knows about, from eyewitness testimony. And let me tell you, Cornelia - you were just a kid at the time - your uncle actually did have a shot that election eve. Several, in fact - liquid variety, followed by what "they" call "chasers."

Oh, it was a case of political sabotage, all right. Self-sabotage, to be exact. "They" - your uncle's friends - tried to persuade him to let the station run a prepared film clip that night. But when a candidate stands 6-foot-8, weighs 275 pounds, and says he's damn well going on live TV, he goes on. "Shots" and all.

I can understand the feelings of Alabama's First Lady about her husband's shooting (though not enough to go along with the theory that the misanthrope Bremer was part of a larger conspiracy). But if she means to equate that with what "they" allegedly did to "Big Jim" Folsom the night he blew the '62 governor's race, that's something else again.

INSIDE LABOR

10,000 Communist Millionaires

By VICTOR RIESEL
BUDAPEST - There I was at midnight in a fast car braking to a screeching stop at Lenin Plaza and November 7th Street (Russian Revolution anniversary date). We paid a hackie to lead us to our rendezvous. Across the Danube by way of the Chain Bridge, up and up into the Buda hills. We cut through the darkness to the little Hotel Olympia. And we were there - in an American-type discotheque, rolling and rocking to ear-splitting recordings by American black singers.

The "joint" was jammed with young Hungarians. The ancient city, now ultramodern, once the frontier of Attila the Hun and a battle site since the time of Genghis Khan, is as much part of our Western world as it can be under the "circumstances."

So are the yearnings and the economy in this Communist state. No amount of Socialist fraternity has been able to deaden the individual drive for private property, for one's own home, for one's own tiny "summer" place and even a tublike swimming pool, system or no system.

There are Hungarian "Communist" millionaires "in the tens of thousands." I was told by one highly placed government official. A million forints (currency) isn't a million dollars. But it's good money on which the Hungarian can get over 5 per cent in a topless savings account.

Aside from the political system and controls, there's lots of capitalism in the operation. And they wish there were more to stage off inflation which is seeping into the economy just as it is back home. There's a central bank and a national banking system which gets 8 per cent on its money lent to the "enterprises." And the banks get collateral. There are bankruptcies. And the bank repossesses the remaining liquid cash and/or the machinery if an extended loan doesn't help.

Of course it's all state run. But the "hand" of the state under absolute party chief Janos Kadar is much lighter these days. So much so that the steady crowd in the Hotel Duna - Intercontinental lobby and terrace is made up of Hungarian-Americans who left during the brief and bloody civil war of 1956.

There are many critical lessons to learn here. But his isn't the moment to discuss them - with one exception. And that is: regardless of the nation and its economy, the centralized powerful labor leader soon becomes not only a strong one-man industrial force, but soon enough a giant in his party and the government itself.

Look around you at home and you'll see it as true there as here. I dropped in on the offices of labor strong man Sandor Gaspar, head of SZOT, the AFL-CIO of Hungary. He is head of the labor federation, a member of the Hungarian Socialist Workers Party and vice president of this nation. This 57-year-old former metal worker knows the West. And he intensely dislikes George Meany, our own national labor chief. In fact, Meany is the most hated American in Eastern Europe. He is the only powerful world figure who is publicly contemptuous of detente, of conciliation with the Soviets and the Chinese Communists. Meany is inflexible.

Communist leaders here and elsewhere this side of the line see Meany as Scoop Jackson's sponsor for the American presidency. And they see Jackson as the 1964 liberal intellectual viewed Sen. Barry Goldwater. Further, they hate Jackson because of his trip to Peking where he and his party were wined, dined and "warned" against the Soviets. And reports here indicate Jackson was taken by Mao's men like Lenin took the Czar's Winter Palace.

Gaspar and his colleague, Jozsef Timar, Secretary of the Central Council of Hungarian Trade Unions (SZOT), with whom I had a long talk, want open dialogue with Meany. They want him to recognize them as legitimate trade unions. Meany has sent word they can jump in Lake Balaton. He sees the unions as an arm of the Socialist-Communist government.

They argue that a united front is vital to fight the multi-national corporations. Which gets a bit confusing. The Socialist nations seek the expertise of America's big corporations.

In fact, the Communists need them desperately. And say so openly. Yet the propaganda persists against our U.S. firms. It's an old-fashioned "imperialistic" syndrome from which the old-line Socialists can't seem to drag themselves.

And they boast that they have close ties with unions in Western Europe. Indeed, they have. Those unions are Socialist and Communist led. And they are on the move against America's industries. Such powerful Communist-led confederations as the Italian Confederation of Labor (CGIL) have now joined with the British, the French, the Austrian and other non-Communist labor organizations in the comparatively new European federation of labor.

Meany constantly has warned Western labor against accepting the Communist-led unions. But he's been ignored. This has angered him and further intensified his distaste for detente.

But while the older giants war with each other, the young folk wiggle with each other on the Americanized rock-and-roll dance floors of the Socialist world.

Will We Go Hungry?

Will Americans go hungry? The very question sounds insane.

American farm productivity was never greater. We have enough to eat and more for export.

Who will pay any attention to a suggestion that our appetite is increasing while our farm land is shrinking? Nobody.

Nobody paid any attention 10 years ago either when the oil industry was warning that we were exhausting our supplies.

Russia is increasing her agricultural production. Total Soviet farm production is now up to 80 per cent of ours.

Russians are less efficient farmers than we are, but Russia has half again more land under cultivation than we do: double the grain acreage.

Whatever happens to the price of gold or the relative value of world currencies, Russia intends to have more than enough of the commodities everybody needs and for which hungry people will pay any price.

Russia lacks mechanization. Russia has half as many tractors and trucks as we, but people power is cheap there.

In the United States 4 per cent of our workers work on farms; in Russia 33 per cent.

In the United States one farmer produces enough food for 60 people; in Russia, seven people.

Coming from behind and hurling more manpower into the farm front, Russia now outproduces us in milk, wool and mutton.

The United States is right now riding the crest of a most extraordinary productive period, but this year's crops are threatened by drought.

Our needs and our commitments are such that one disastrous crop year could result in acute shortages and skyrocketing prices.

There's going to be a World Food Conference next November. Our Secretary of State Kissinger, in his March speech to the U.N., urged international co-operation at that conference: "To restore the world's capacity to meet famine."

For a hundred years we have reassured ourselves that America's more efficient farmers would keep us and our friends fed.

But the next generation may see the vast Asian nations controlling world food supply as the Arabs have monopolized the world oil supply - and they might not be so generous with us as we have been with them.

BATTIN' AROUND

Legal Plunder: Taking Wealth Without Consent

By C.R. BATTEN

"When a portion of wealth is transferred from the person who owns it - without his consent and without compensation, and whether by force or by fraud - to anyone who does not own it, then I say that property is violated; that an act of plunder is committed," wrote the French statesman, Frederic Bastiat in 1850.

In his pamphlet THE LAW, Bastiat pointed out that "THE LAW HAS COME TO BE AN INSTRUMENT OF INJUSTICE." It has become an instrument of plunder.

"But how is this legal plunder to be identified?" asked Bastiat. "Quite simply. See if the law takes from some persons what belongs to them, and gives it to other persons to who it does not belong. See if the law benefits one citizen at the expense of another by doing what the citizen himself cannot do without committing a crime."

If Frederic Bastiat thought the socialists of his day had perfected legal plunder, he would be horrified if he looked in on California today. There the law was recently used by a group of environmentalists to extort property in the form of money and land from a businessman.

Gerson Bakar is the developer of the $12 million Lake Merced Hills housing project in San Francisco. In the spring of 1973, a lawsuit initiated by a group called Save Lake Merced (SLAM) resulted in a ruling that Bakar must have a permit from the California Coastal Zone Conservation Commission in order to develop his property.

The Coastal Zone Conservation Commission is a state regulatory agency established in 1972. Virtually any action within 1,000 yards of the Pacific Ocean shore that might influence the environment requires a permit from the Commission.

In July of 1973, the Coastal Commission issued a permit for construction of the project. But a month later, according to the San Francisco Chronicle, SLAM again filed suit, "claiming the permit was invalid because the Commission failed to allow opponents to challenge a favorable staff recommendation."

The Superior Court judge refused to grant an injunction to halt work on the project, but he did refer the matter back to the Coastal Commission for further hearings. At that point, Bakar gave up, and decided to seek an out of court settlement in order to avoid a further delay of six months or more. He had already gone through 30 hearings or "permit approvals" before local and state agencies.

Bakar told the Chronicle that "many Lake Merced Hill home-buyers already have sold their previous homes or made other financial commitments. Any additional delays now would place them in a state of severe financial hardship." He said that the actions of those who used legal maneuvers to tie up the 200-unit development for a year and a half were "not responsible opposition, just plain harassment."

To avoid further harassment, Bakar agreed to give SLAM $100,000 and one acre of land. A newly created Lake Merced Park Foundation will hold the land, and the $100,000 will be "eventually used to finance the operation of local conservation groups."

This is a case of extortion, pure and simple - just the same as the extortion of a $2 million food giveaway from Randolph Hearst, who hoped it would gain the release of his daughter.

S L A M used environmental law to extort funds and property from a businessman seeking to provide and improved environment for consumers who are in the market for his homes.

"The law perverted," wrote Bastiat. "And the police powers of the state perverted along with it! The law, I say, not only turned from its proper purpose but made to follow an entirely contrary purpose! The law became the weapon of every kind of greed! Instead of checking crime, the law itself guilty of the evils it is supposed to punish!"

Potomac Fever

By JACK POSNER

Ford's curb on inflation is getting results. St. Clair, Buzhardt and the impeachment staff have already left the White House payroll.

The Senate rejected the Navy's plan to loan $100 million to Grumman Aerospace. It's goodbye to pie-in-the-sky.

Since there's a Ford in the GOP's future, Reagan doesn't think they'll trade it in for his spruced-up covered wagon.

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE

"DON'T WORRY, COMRADE BREZHNEV, IN THE INTEREST OF DETENTE, FORD WOULD NEVER RECALL YOUR CHEVY."

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 28
 Your birthday today: Arrives in the midst of normal progress, combinations of existing and planned ventures, productive, constructive, occasionally dramatic departures from routine. Relationships thrive if deep-seated, become even more superficial if casual or convenient. Today's natives are methodical, persistent students all their lives.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Routine schedules fail; personal enterprises advance as openings develop. For needed information be willing to search in unfamiliar places. Don't expect instant success.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: You are to pursue happiness, but have no guarantee of achieving it. Sudden or radical changes are not favored. Be patient with loved ones!

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Be consistent and serene. Attract support for ventures by working yourself, not demanding. External conditions almost certainly disrupt daily routine.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Bright ideas of friends aren't really in your best interests. Stick with methods that are already organized, proven productive. Review progress this evening.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Business demands temporarily conflict with personal enterprises. Postpone change where possible; new factors soon surface. Seek guidance through meditation.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Perform your serious work today, especially on confidential matters, shielded by the general confusion, clamor. Formal or legal action is not favored.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Take any chance to rest. Relax and share whatever fun and diversion you find. Be cautious about spending, but do it yourself rather than allow others to do it for you.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: You are offered excellent chances for getting past an old limitation. Small encouragement from associates gives your plans a boost. Keep peace at home this evening!

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Pay attention to details. Correct discrepancies in your work immediately. Opportunities abound to promote new ventures. Speak up about the backing you need.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Be practical with finances; small savings come in extraordinarily handy. Be sure that purchases are true to order. Family agrees now on budget revisions.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Haste complicates beyond waste. Associates involved in your projects do not know where to channel considerable energy. Explain simply.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Conditions left unsettled in your work challenge your sense of humor and dedication. Resist strong urge for drastic changes.

By ERMA BOMBECK

I was cleaning the house the other day and got a little light-headed.

"What's wrong with you?" asked Mayva.

I steadied myself on the bathroom door. "It's nothing. Just an overdose of herbal."

"What's herbal?"

"Are you serious? It's that green, refreshing, woody scent that the kids wash their hair in, deodorize their room, brush their teeth and take a bath in. Herbal is the scent of the month. Haven't you heard?" I laughed uncontrollably. "Lemon is out! Herbal is in!"

"Get hold of yourself," she admonished. "It can't be that bad."

"All I know is that every morning I wake up, take a deep breath and have the feeling our Christmas tree just died."

Mayva sniffed. "I'd say it smelled more like Euell Gibbons' breath. So why don't you buy another scent?"

"Are you suggesting I send three teen-agers out into this world with split ends? What kind of an animal are you? We've searched too long and come too far to give up now. Why, I've devoted my entire life to finding just the right shampoo. First they saw this TV commercial of a beautiful girl skinny-dipping and a homely girl sitting on a rock being ignored. You have to be a fool not to know that the girl on the rock had dandruff, so I bought No Crud shampoo.

"No Crud cured their dandruff, but their hair didn't squeak like it should so I bought another brand called Gentle Tornado. Then a virile looking man with balloon-filled muscles appeared on the tube one night and said 'Guess what I use? A baby shampoo.' So I bought 'Boo Hoo Shampoo' for a couple of months until a sexy babe convinced them that if they weren't using her brand they were using detergent, so we switched again. We've used 'Sex Head,' 'Scalp Lustre,' 'Frizzie Behave,' 'Reflection' for people who wash their hair every three hours and are going bald."

"You have to admit your kids have healthy hair!" said Mayva.

"Healthy! It's lousy with protein, massages and stimulates itself, is conditioned for extra body and sheen, is tangle free and super manageable. A doctor told me their hair would go on living for three years after the body died."

"So who promised you a rose garden?" shrugged Mayva.

"So who promised me a forest?" I sneezed.

Dr. David S. Fries, assistant professor at the school of pharmacy, said the goals of the research are to develop a compound that will block the effects of heroin and to develop a drug with the pain-killing benefits of morphine without the addiction liability of morphine.

Dear Abby

Daughter is retarded and pregnant

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are just about to lose our minds over this problem and are hoping you can at least tell us where to go to get some help.

Our 14-year-old daughter has always been very developed for her age, but she's slightly retarded mentally. We just found out that she is pregnant. The boy responsible for it is only 15. (He doesn't even shave yet.) The kids say they went all the way only once, but that is awfully hard for us to believe.

Anyway, the boy's father has been very nice about it. (He's divorced and has custody of the boy.) He has agreed to do anything we want, but we don't know what we want yet.

We really don't want to punish the boy because he's not a bad kid. He's never been in any trouble before, and sending him to a penal institution wouldn't help our daughter any.

A forced marriage, if it's possible for kids of their ages, doesn't seem right either.

We've considered an abortion, also letting her carry the child to term and adopting it out, or even keeping it ourselves to raise. We are so confused. Everyone we talk to has a different solution.

Can you help us decide what is right for all concerned?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Consider all the options and discuss them with a professional who has had experience in such matters. Your clergyman, Family Service, or a counselor from your local Planned Parenthood Association can help you. You are wise to ask for guidance. God bless you, and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: This problem has been bothering me for a long time, and I hope you can help me.

My son, who is a priest and clinical psychologist, sends mimeographed letters to all his relatives and friends every year at Christmastime. It's the only time he writes.

His brothers and sisters have told me that they do not like this idea. They say they realize that he is very busy, but in those Christmas letters all he does is brag about what he has accomplished and the "honors" he has received.

Should I pass their criticism on to my son in the hope that he won't send them this type of letter in the future? I have already told him that I do not like receiving an impersonal, mimeographed letter.

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You've told your son how you feel. Let the others who share your feelings tell him themselves.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old woman who might have a problem.

You see, about six weeks ago there was a 14-year-old boy living in my neighborhood who had a pretty wild crush on me. His folks were fairly bad off, he didn't seem to have any friends and he seemed so blue and downhearted, one day I invited him in for milk and freshly-baked cookies. He was painfully shy at first, but by the end of the visit he was talking up a storm, and when he left, he looked happier than I've ever seen him.

Two days later I received a letter from him. It said all the usual stuff a 14-year-old might say in a "love" letter. I received one nearly every day after that. Also, he would walk by my house fairly often.

A few weeks ago, his family suddenly moved out of town for some unknown reason and his letters stopped coming.

Now, finally, we come to my problem. I miss him dreadfully. It's awfully lonely without him popping up from out of nowhere. Is it abnormal for me to feel this way? I mean, does it seem right for me to be affected this way by a teen-age boy?

LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: If you actually are entertaining romantic ideas about this lad, yes, it is a bit unusual. But apparently he filled a need in your life, so don't feel guilty about an honest emotion. It's not all that "abnormal."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

Today's deal features a recurring type of situation that is often mishandled by the inept player. The deal came up in an inept rubber-bridge game.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

Both sides vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass
 4♣ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

After winning West's diamond opening with his ace, declarer cashed the king and ace of trumps. Staking his existence of the 50-50 possibility that West had been dealt the club ten, declarer next led a low club and inserted dummy's nine. It turned out to be a sad day for him, for the defenders ended up with three club tricks and one diamond.

As will be observed, declarer had a guaranteed contract, regardless of the location of the ten of clubs. His victory could have been secured by forcing the club defenders to lead clubs to him.

After capturing the opening diamond lead, trumps are drawn. The three top hearts are cashed next, eliminating hearts from both the North and South hands. South's remaining diamond is then led, thrusting one of the opponents into the lead as, simultaneously, diamonds are eliminated from both the North and South hands.

If whichever of the opponents elects to win the diamond lead plays back either a heart or a diamond, South ruffs the trick in dummy and discards the club deuce from his own hand. From here in, his only losers are two clubs.

If West chooses to win South's diamond lead and returns a low club, dummy follows suit with the six. East captures the trick with his ace — and declarer, with the queen and jack still remaining, simply loses one of them to West's king, and thus creates a club winner for himself.

As was stated earlier, the club combination contained in this deal is of a recurring type. If declarer attacks the club suit by himself (as he did in the actual play), he will develop one club winner the 50 per cent of the time that West possesses the club ten.

But if declarer can get either of the defenders to lead a club to him, he will ALWAYS be able to win one trick in clubs. And without being mathematicians, all of us know that 100 per cent is better than 50 per cent.

The World's Her Oyster

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Virginia Baker has the type of job almost everyone envies but very few hold. The world is her oyster with all expenses paid.

Miss Baker, a native of Kansas, travels the globe by jet and also at times when sightseeing on "anything with wheels or four legs" (once a camel) in her role as director of housekeeping for an international hotel group.

Her work keeps her traveling 70 per cent of her time and she hasn't had time to calculate the thousands of air miles she's logged. But the fact that "I try to take off one day a week" gives her a chance to sightsee, also, which means she covers a lot of territory in her work of checking out resident housekeepers in 67 hotels and in 47 lands where Inter-Continental Hotels Corp. has establishments. The job involves overseeing 24,000 guest rooms.

"The cliché that when you get right down to it, all of us are very much alike applies almost everywhere," said Miss Baker. "Of course customs differ in every country."

One custom, that women should not travel alone, almost kept her off assignment in Saudi Arabia, where her corporation is building a hotel in Riyadh. She waited six months for a visa and received it only on condition that she would be accompanied by a man in all public places throughout her stay.

The visa also insisted that she must at all times wear garments covering collarbone, ankles and wrists. As Miss Baker said later, "I never thought I had a collarbone that would drive men wild."

"The Saudis," she explained in an interview, "are very conservative. They're strict Moslems. The women are still veiled."

In her eight years as director of housekeeping she has covered most of the world except Eastern Europe, where the hotels are franchised.

She finds there still is a large segment of the globe where strictures are on women in jobs and professions, where women find it difficult to be on their own.

In Iran, for instance, a talented woman employee was suggested for promotion to higher executive status, but it would mean moving to another country. The girl's father said no. And that was that.

"Ladies' place is in the home in many countries," she said. "Particularly is this true in Africa, the Mideast and Far East."

Often she finds herself explaining her role as a woman traveling alone.

"The first question they ask is 'How many children do you have?'" she said. "The second is 'Where is your husband?' I've quit trying to explain. It's quite impossible."

Miss Baker, a fair-skinned, blue-eyed woman, was born in a Kansas village "not even on the map." Her widowed mother now lives in Fresno, Calif.

She grew up in Wellington, Kan., moved east to study, and was graduated from the Cornell University School of Hotel Administration. Before she joined Inter-Continental, she'd pioneered another career area for women.

Business Today

By LEONARD CURRY
UPI Business Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The small investor who dares the stock market must run the risk of loss along with the chance for gain, but soon he may find it a safer place in at least one respect: his portfolio should be fully insured against brokerage failure.

This is the goal of Hugh F. Owens, the amiable Oklahoma Democrat who has been running the Securities Investor Protection Corp. for the past 10 months, and he sees it virtually assured.

Owens doesn't expect any major brokerage failures. He thinks the weak sisters already have been shaken out. Still, he and other members of the SIPC board will take up Aug. 28, a task force proposal to expand coverage of SIPC and speed payment of securities when a brokerage firm collapses.

The task force recommendations are based on SIPC experience in liquidating 105 brokers since the quasi-federal agency was hurriedly created four years ago at a time when brokerage failures were shaking Wall Street.

Legislation was put together in six months and cleared Capitol Hill in the waning hours of the congressional session. President Nixon enacted it early in 1970.

SIPC collects dues from brokers to be used to pay any investor whose broker fails. Under existing law the payments are handled individually in the bankruptcy court. The limits of protection are $20,000 in cash and $50,000 in securities.

The task force proposes to speed processing by transferring accounts in bulk to another broker so that investors can become active again quickly. The task force also recommends raising coverage to $50,000 for cash and $125,000 for securities, and expanding SIPC authority to include mutual funds and members of the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD), over-the-counter houses.

Owens and SIPC General Counsel Theodore H. Focht told UPI this would provide full protection for 97 per cent of individual securities investors.

With the resignation of President Nixon easing the congressional calendar, Owens said he expects some type of legislation to be introduced this fall, probably by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., and Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif.

Owens believes this schedule would put the SIPC legislation in the umbrella of a broad movement expected to arise in the new Congress, to be seated in January, for work on economic problems.

The expanded coverage is expected to generate opposition from the Investment Company Institute, the mutual fund industry association, and the NASD whose members now are exempt from dues. The only other controversy might come on proposals to allow SIPC to enter the stock market to buy securities for individuals whose brokers are being liquidated.

Focht and Owens see this as necessary, however. "It is apparent investors want their securities back, not the cash value," Owens said.

Although Owens is preparing SIPC for the worst, he does not expect it. He looks for no major brokerage failures in the near future.

"I think this long dry spell for the market has shaken out the weak ones and sent others into merger with strong firms," the SIPC chairman said.

Trash Trucks Start Rolling In Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Regular garbage pickups in Little Rock resumed Monday for the first time since Aug. 12 when collections were suspended because of a strike by about 300 nonuniformed city employees.

Negotiators for the city and Local 994 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees reached agreement to return to work while negotiations continue on a new working agreement to replace the current one, which expires Dec. 1.

The employees went on strike in an effort to obtain written recognition of their agreement with the city and to obtain "strict enforcement" of the agreement by the city.

A union official estimated it would take two or three days to catch up on the backlog of garbage that piled up during the two-week strike.

FOR CARGO BODIES Toyota Announces New Truck Factory

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A., Inc. announced recently that it has established a wholly owned subsidiary here to produce truck components.

The new subsidiary, Long Beach Fabricators, Inc., will initially manufacture approximately 3,000 complete cargo bodies per month for Toyota half-ton trucks. Monthly production is expected to increase to 4,000 units by the end of this year.

Toyota is the first automobile importer to set up a component manufacturing and assembly operation in the U.S., company officials said.

The company acquired a 20-acre manufacturing complex formerly owned by Atlas Fabricators, Inc., which had been producing truck cargo bodies under contract to Toyota since late 1971.

Toyota officials said aquisition and improvement costs totaled approximately $6 million.

"This is an example of Toyota's continuing effort to equip its vehicles with U.S.-made parts and accessories whenever it is economically feasible," said Iwao Kodaira, president of Toyota Motor Sales, U.S.A.

"We hope our action will prompt other importers to make similar investments in the American economy," Long Beach Fabricators has 125 employees and an annual payroll exceeding $1 million. The plant's production employees are represented by Teamsters Local 692.

Funds have been earmarked to construct a new paint facility, which will embody the latest techniques in metal treatment.

The plant's metal stamping equipment, used to produce major cargo body components, includes presses with capacities up to 2,000 tons.

To insure quick delivery, 43 special flatcars of the Union Pacific Railroad have been assigned to transport the completed cargo bodies to eight Toyota ports of entry, where they are installed on truck chassis shipped from Japan.

Toyota and its distributors operate port facilities in Portland, Ore.; Benicia, Calif.; Houston, New Orleans, Jacksonville, Baltimore, Newark, Boston and Long Beach. Units bound for the Long Beach port facility are shipped by truck.

"We are proud of our well equipped, up-to-date Long Beach plant," Kodaira said. "It is a valuable asset to the manufacturing and marketing of our light-duty trucks in this country."

Robert F. Gray, project manager of the team responsible for establishing the new subsidiary, has been named general manager of Long Beach Fabricators.

Gray joined Toyota in 1968 after 14 years' service with a major domestic automobile manufacturer. He was corporate parts manager until 1973, when he was named corporate market development manager. He holds bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration from the University of Michigan.

Watergate Isn't Only Shady Tape Business

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Hold it! That Elvis Presley tape cartridge you're playing on your stereo outfit may well be bootlegged.

If you paid only $2.50-$3.50 for that Presley or Bette Midler 8-track tape then it almost certainly is a pirated product.

The United States Attorney's Office says one out of every three tape cartridges is as hot as the Watergate recordings although considerably less earth-shaking.

Chet Brown, an assistant U.S. attorney in Los Angeles, recently won conviction against a man named Richard Taxe in a multimillion dollar tape bootlegging operation trial.

Taxe was sentenced this month to four years in prison and fined $26,000.

"The case is important," said Brown, "because it may help us get convictions from other tape pirates. It's a nationwide problem."

"Every top recording star and group in the country is pirated. You name the stars — Jim Croce, Three Dog Night, the Carpenters, Joe Cocker, Cheech and Chong, Merle Haggard, Johnny Mathis. All of them."

The process is rather simple. The bootlegger buys an album or a tape, records it over and over again on other tapes, slips a different label on inferior cartridges and sells them for the genuine article.

Brown said the bogus recordings are sold at swap meets, filling stations, discount houses and in legitimate record stores.

"It's a $250 million business," he said. "And one out of three tapes is pirated. Los Angeles, New York and Nashville are hotbeds of piracy, but small operators are bootlegging tapes all over the country."

"Some guys even operate out of vans and sell the tapes right on the streets at swap meets. A legitimate tape costs $6.98 in most places. The bootlegger's product sells for about a third of that."

"A lot of people think there's nothing wrong with pirating. But it cheats artists, record companies and retail outlets of millions of dollars."

"For the most part the quality of the bootlegged music is poor because the equipment is faulty, the cartridges cheaply made and the duplicating devices badly constructed.

Others, he admitted, are of high quality. The quality depends on the size of the bootlegging operation.

The best means for detecting the pirate tapes is the label. There are tough laws against counterfeiting labels. To escape this felony the bootlegger applies his own label.

An average 102 tornadoes hit Texas each year.

JOHNSTON'S NO-ROACH

No-Roach Kills Roaches

Does she or doesn't she? Chances are she does have roaches, ants and other crawling pests in her home.

But like everyone, she hates to admit it. Don't be embarrassed. "Mrs. Homemaker," these pests have been with us since prehistoric times and all we can do is rely on science to provide ways to prevent and destroy them.

There are many products which offer temporary solutions but only one which offers protection 24 hours a day for months and months — Johnston's No-Roach.

Johnston's No-Roach, which comes in an amber bottle with a free brush attached, is different and it's different for many reasons.

No-Roach eliminates the need for frequent applications of messy, unsafe sprays and powders and it's clean and easy to use.

Simply brush this odorless, colorless liquid around baseboards, sinks, tablelegs, behind cabinets and appliances, on shelves and inside cabinet doors. Use Johnston's No-Roach in bathrooms and everywhere else cockroaches may breed.

No-Roach dries fast to form an invisible path of death that kills roaches, ants, spiders, silverfish, all crawling insects. Best of all it continues to kill effectively for months.

To keep ants out of the house, brush No-Roach across window frames and floor sills. Ants will not cross the coating. Use No-Roach with confidence.

Johnston's No-Roach is available in Pampa at Ideal. Furr's and Piggly Wiggly. It is distributed by Affiliated and Kimbell.

Duenkel Named Favorite For 37th Top O' Texas

By PAUL SIMS
Eddie Duenkel, who has been firing torrid rounds lately in preparation for the Top O' Texas Invitational, is picked to win this weekend's 37th annual tournament, this year labeled among the top 10 amateur golf affairs in the state.

A big reason Duenkel, who shot a 64 and 68 last weekend in practice, has the door wide open is that Jodie Richardson of Borger, last year's winner, and Lloyd Moody of Bethany, Okla., a two-time winner, will not play this year since both have turned professional.

Duenkel's strongest challenge will probably be from John Farquhar of Amarillo, who won the tournament in 1963, 1965 and 1968 and finished second a year ago.

Richardson had rounds of 71, 65, 69 and 67 for a nine-under 272 while the runnerup was two shots back with rounds of 69, 69, 70, 66. Moody placed third with 279, scoring rounds of 71, 66, 71, 69.

The field is closed this year, except for the championship flight. So far there are 210 players and a 40-man waiting list. Flights two through 11 will consist of 16 men and championship and first will have more players, depending on how many more enter the championship flight this week.

Flights two through 11 are scheduled to play match play Saturday and Sunday and 18 holes of stroke play in Monday's final round. First flight will play 54 holes of medal play with a cut after 36. The flight will play 36 holes Monday, 18 in the morning and 18 after 1 p.m.

Besides Duenkel and Farquhar, championship flight entrants include David Parker of Pampa, always a threat, and Bunky Preston, Monte Johnson and Dick Weston, all of Amarillo and all strong contenders. Weston won the Men's West Texas, which was played at Pampa Country Club, which is to Weston's advantage in the Top O' Texas.

PAST YANKS Batting Leader Lifts Minnesota

United Press International
No news is good news for Rod Carew.

"I haven't read a newspaper in about two weeks—my wife tells me my average," said the Minnesota Twins' second baseman Monday night after raising his major league-leading batting average to .362 with a pair of singles in a 7-6 victory over the New York Yankees.

Despite going 2-for-4, Carew upped his average only a point and has given up any thoughts about hitting .400 this season.

"I've just about given up that idea," said Carew whose fast start this season had fans talking about the possibility of his becoming the major leagues' first .400 hitter since Ted Williams in 1941. "I've got too many at-bats and can't raise my average enough even when I have good games at this stage."

"Now, I'm just aiming for another batting title," Carew added, "and also to finish with the highest average in the majors."

The Twins rapped Yankee pitchers for 11 hits, all singles, with Carew's bases-loaded, two-run shot in the sixth proving the key hit. Steve Brye also contributed a two-run single to the Twins' attack, enabling reliever Vic Albury to post his fifth win against eight losses.

The defeat snapped New York's five-game winning streak and dropped the second place Yankees 5 1/2 games behind Boston in the Eastern Division.

In the only other AL games, Milwaukee shaded Oakland 2-1, Cleveland beat Kansas City 4-1 and Detroit defeated California 6-2.

In the only NL games, Philadelphia edged Cincinnati 7-6, Atlanta nipped Montreal 3-2 and New York downed Houston 5-4.

Bengals Rally To Stay Undefeated

United Press International
Paul Brown has had his veterans in camp longer than any coach in the National Football League but he's still not happy with their progress.

Brown's Cincinnati Bengals rallied in the second half to defeat Detroit Lions 27-14 in a nationally televised game Monday night and run their pre-season record to 4-0. But the 65-year-old taskmaster is not pleased.

"We came back but it was by no means a margin of consequence," Brown said.

"I don't know what it is about us, but one of these times we're not going to be able to get out of it. We were offside six or seven times. Try that sometime and see what it does for you."

"I had some guys who are not in shape out there."

Cincinnati trailed 14-13 in the final quarter when Ken Anderson threw a two-yard touchdown pass to Doug Dressler. Bernard Jackson then picked up Charlie Sanders' fumble and returned it 52 yards for an insurance score that handed the Lions their third loss in four pre-season games.

In the only other pre-season action Monday night, the Atlanta Falcons edged the Houston Oilers 10-6 and the Chicago Bears downed the Baltimore Colts 20-16.

Falcons 10, Oilers 6
Bob Lee threw a 17-yard TD pass to Louis Neal early in the second half and Atlanta's defense held Houston to two Skip Butler field goals. Lee threw 31 yards to Eddie Ray to spark the drive.

SMU Penalty Becomes 2-Year Sanction Monday

DALLAS (UPI) — It was raining on the Southern Methodist campus, so workout conditions were not the best.

But Coach Dave Smith, his staff and his football players were out there going through a practice session anyway.

"In this business," said Smith, "you just have to go ahead and try to make the best of it."

That has what Smith has been trying to do for the past nine months—make the best of it. And Smith feels that despite the furor, which arose again this week with a two-year bowl game and television ban imposed against SMU by the NCAA, that he has succeeded.

"I feel stronger than I have ever been," Smith said.

Smith was speaking only a few hours before the NCAA officially handed down its two-year sanction against SMU's football program and a one-year probation against the Mustangs' basketball team.

Smith, of course, knew

SPORTS

The Pampa Daily News

what action would be taken by the NCAA. And he was in the same philosophical mood that he has been since a payoff scandal was revealed at SMU last December. For one thing he is resigned to being asked more about his team's probation than its football ability.

"Knowing what I've seen and what I feel I don't know if it is ever possible for people to stop talking about it," Smith said. "That is based on what I've seen for the past nine months. But the future is what is important."

A plan by which members of SMU's specialty teams received $5,000 payments for big plays was revealed at the close of last season by Dr. Paul Hardin, then the school's president.

Hardin took Smith's athletic director's duties away from him, reduced Smith's multiyear contract to one year and placed the coach on probation. Then Hardin told the Southwest Conference what he had learned and what he had done.

The conference fathers, feeling SMU had done a good job in taking care of its own problem, handed out only a one-year probation without sanctions. The NCAA, however, took the more severe measures announced Monday.

Smith puts great stress on a togetherness-type of relationship with his players and he points to the team's ability to put aside the controversy and practice properly as a great comfort.

"This has had a positive affect on our team," Smith said. "I admire and I gain a lot of strength from our players. I would say that we have some exceptionally fine young men who have qualities that make me proud to associate with them."

Smith has seen no reason to discuss last year's incident with this year's team.

"There was nothing for me to say," Smith said. "Everything that has needed to have been said has been said the past nine months. The future is more of our concern than the past."

Borg Gets Top Money In Net Meet

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Teen idol Bjorn Borg flirted with disaster throughout the U.S. Professional Tennis Championships but he didn't mind.

In fact, the 18-year-old tennis prodigy from Sweden thinks his game improves when he's on the ropes.

And with $16,000 first-prize money in his pocket after surviving one last showdown with second-seeded Tom Okker to capture the U.S. Pro Championship, 7-6, 6-1, 6-1, Monday night, it was hard to challenge Borg's logic.

"When I'm down, I play much, much better than when I'm ahead," said the fourth-seeded Borg after winning his first pro tournament in America.

Borg's performance on the clay courts of the Longwood Cricket Club seems to bear him out. In the quarterfinals, Borg lost the first set to Floridian Marty Riessen and trailed 3-5 in the second before rallying to force—and win—a tiebreaker game and then take the deciding set at love.

In the semifinals Sunday night against ninth-seeded Jan Kodes, Borg trailed 1-5 in the fifth set before putting on a desperate rush to break the Czech's serve twice to tie the set, winning the match in another dramatic tiebreaker game.

Against the second-seeded Okker Monday night, Borg, who, by his own admission, is known in his own country as a "very cool man," did it again. In the opening set, Borg lost his first and third serves and immediately found himself 2-5, which was all the high school dropout from Stockholm needed.

Falcons Limit Houston To 2 FG's, Win By 10-6

HOUSTON (UPI) — Quarterback Bob Lee threw 17 yards to Louis Neal for a touchdown early in the second half and a tough Atlanta Falcons' defense held the Houston Oilers to two field goals Monday night for a 10-6 victory.

Taking the opening kickoff after halftime, the Falcons moved 75 yards on seven plays for the winning score. Lee's 31-yard swing pass to running back Eddie Ray fueled the drive and on first down from Houston's 17, Lee scrambled right and threw to Neal kneeling among several defenders in the end zone.

The pass allowed Atlanta to take the lead for the first time. Houston's Skip Butler kicked the first of his two field goals early in the game, but Atlanta tied it in the second quarter on a 38-yard Nick Mike-Mayer field goal.

Lee completed 17 of 29 passes for 246 yards to move Atlanta easily, and only a stiff Houston defense near their own goal line kept the Falcons from scoring more often.

Rookie running back Ronnie Coleman fueled Houston's 65-yard drive in the first quarter, leading to Butler's 42-yard field goal.

Maurice Spencer's 22-yard punt return to open the second quarter set Atlanta up on Houston's 33-yard line, from where Lee directed the Falcons into position for Mike-Mayer's 38-yard field goal.

It was the first veteran-dominated game of the season for both teams.

Husband Has Blackout Spells

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: About 18 or 20 years ago my husband had a concussion of the brain, but that is all I know about that.

I have known him two years and been married for a year and he has been having blackout spells all this time, off and on. He also has a shaking of his face and head. This seems to happen when he is overtired and nervous and upset.

Please tell me if you think something is seriously wrong. Can this cause him to forget? Or turn against someone without meaning to?

He won't go to a doctor. That's why I'm writing to you. — Mrs. A.M.A.
You're really asking too much of me — but yes, I think it could be serious. Blackouts are not something to pass over lightly.

Whether the concussion had anything to do with it, I couldn't say, or whether his memory or attitude toward others will change — but conditions such as his are likely to worsen as time passes.

The time to do something about it is now. If your regular doctor isn't able to make a thorough examination, he can refer your husband to a neurologist. A certain amount of testing will be necessary: X-ray, electroencephalogram ("brain wave" test), perhaps a brain scan.

The time to find out exactly what his condition is, and to start treating it, is now. Not after something catastrophic develops. The concussion 20 years ago may or may not be a factor in this. Some brain injuries may not manifest themselves for years after the accident.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send your booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." Enclosed is 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Also please comment on young children (1 to 4 years old) with constantly running noses but no other symptoms of a cold. — S.A.D.

A constantly running nose but with no other symptoms of a cold usually means that it isn't a cold. The two principal directions in which to look are these: First, allergy; second, some physical defect inside the nose.

Allergy, in varying degrees, is after all a very common problem, and a drippy nose is one way allergy can manifest itself. Identifying the allergy isn't so simple, and I would suggest having a series of tests by an allergist.

A physical defect inside the nose, deviated septum, adenoids, or some such condition, also can reverse the natural drainage direction, so the nose runs. Examination of the nose should indicate whether that possibility is worth exploring further.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is a laxative good for a two-month-old baby? She stays constipated nearly all of the time. She is on a canned milk formula. — Mrs. A.R.

I would not recommend a medicinal laxative for a child that young. Better to change the formula, particularly increasing the sugar or syrup content of it. Or you might want to add a bit of solid food, which usually relieves constipation. Often giving more fluid helps, also.

For a child that age, it is advisable not to use laxatives until there is some unusual problem that only your pediatrician can detect.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes "second sight"? My husband is 64 and until about three years ago he wore glasses. Now he reads even very fine print without glasses. — Mrs. C.H.B.

It's not terribly unusual — it happens from time to time. The explanation is that the curvature of his eyeballs has changed and that changes the distance at which he can focus his eyes.

An added warning, however: a cataract may be involved in such changes, so a periodic eye check is important.

Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy write to him in care of Dr. George C. Thosteson at Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120 enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Andy Williams Had No Caddy

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Andy Williams claims he was in Indianapolis and they opened a golf course for him. But he had no caddy except a 10-year-old waif who handed him the wrong clubs. Andy nevertheless gave him $10.

"Mr. Williams," the kid stammered, "can I tell you something?"
Andy tried to be gracious about the oncoming flattery. "This is such a thrill!"

"Mr. Williams," the boy told him, "you know you don't look so good up close?"

Andy told this after they'd handed him the All-American Collegiate Golf Foundation Man of the Year award at the Americana. It was a unique sports dinner in that Andy sang about 10 songs including "The Quest," better known as "Impossible Dream." He told of his hopes of returning regularly to TV or a live variety show with little singing.

"If I can't do a live show, I won't do any," Andy told me, hurrying back to take a plane back to Hyannis Port where there was to be an antique auction.

"I'm doing a pilot for an NBC series here Sept. 7 — at the CBS Ed Sullivan Theater," he said.

"But aren't you too big a star to be doing a pilot?" I asked.

"I guess it does sound funny but they want to see it around the country and I want it to be right — and be live!"

Arnold Palmer, one of the Champions who got a standing ovation, complimented 1974 U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin. "I was right behind him, hoping he'd trip and fall," Palmer said. "AND HE'S A FOOTBALL PLAYER!"

"Flash! Flash! Flash! Liz Taylor and Henry Wyberg are going to go all the way."

The outlook in Hollywood was that they're getting married very soon. Outside parties are trying to prevent it.

What do you mean, I'm no prophet? On Jan. 7, when Richard Nixon was still President, I printed a forecast that Nelson Rockefeller would soon be Vice President. "Nixon will step down," I wrote. "Ford will become President. Rocky will be named Vice President."

I incorrectly said, however, it would all happen by Feb. 22. My Washington source was right — just half a year ahead of everybody.

The 21 Club isn't for sale. Jerry Berns, one of the owners, scoffing at occasional rumors, says, "People are always saying they want to buy it and we always tell them. 'You haven't got enough money.'"

When Richard Kiley starred in a CBS Special "The 34th Star" in Kansas, they found no open bars or saloons — "but private clubs of which you became a member instantaneously."

Producer Bob Markowitz said "That's how we were able to do a 30-day film in only 40 days."

Pat Collins, who'd be the first woman critic on TV if she replaces Leonard Harris on Channel 2 in N.Y., was once barred by a Boston movie theater owner for blasting his films.

She came to N.Y. saw the pictures ahead, and panned them in advance. He objected to her saying he "was previously a junk dealer who is apparently still in the same business."

Good News on B'way: All theaters have occupants booked for the 1974-75 season (better's last year).

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... Secret Stuff: A famed comic's contract to play a state fair has a clause specifying he'll keep the act clean or forfeit his salary.

George Burns, recovering from heart surgery, joked before the operation that if anything went wrong, "I'm leaving my vocal cords to Frank Sinatra."

Producer Joe Levine will tour a dozen cities to ballyhoo his sexpot film "Night Porter."

Show Biz Quiz: Who starred in the "Helen Morgan Story" film, and who did the TV version? Ans. to yesterday's: Clark Gable starred in three Oscar winners in six years: "It Happened One Night," "Mutiny on the Bounty," and "Gone With the Wind."

Avery Schreiber of Burns & will go into David

Merrick's "Dreyfus in Rehearsal"... Actor James Stacy, Connie Stevens' ex-husband, who lost an arm and a leg in a motorcycle crash, will return to the screen in "Posse"...

There'll be a huge cake for cast and audience on the closing night of "Irene" next month.

Lore Noto, producer of "The Fantasticks," jokes that he's been very important to Barbra Streisand's career. He claims that when she wanted to audition for his show 14 years ago, he rejected her — but advised her not to have a nose job.

WHY LIST WITH US?
We are not in the "listing race" - we only seek a workable number of listings that can be serviced efficiently.

By controlling the number of our listings we are able to advertise your home on an almost daily basis.

We have an experienced and hard working staff that has over 70 years of combined real estate experience in selling Pampa properties.

We always have and always will put emphasis on PERSONALIZED SERVICE.

We are members of the Multiple Listing Service.

Let us relieve you of the many problems and legal difficulties that can arise in selling a home. There will be no cost to you if we do not make a sale to which you agree.
