Ask Us

Q—In a baseball game, who is considered the losing pitcher, the beginning pitcher or the ending pitcher?

A—Simply put, the losing pitcher is the pitcher who was responsible for putting the winning run on base. Whether or not the pitcher began the game or ended the game is of no consequence.

In Brief

Countdown

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The countdown began today for the weekend launch of space shuttle Discovery on a satellite-delivery and spacewalking mission.

NASA's countdown clocks began ticking at 9:30 a.m. toward a Saturday morning liftoff.

The Discovery mission — the year's fifth shuttle flight — is NASA's last chance to practice spacewalking before the colossal Hubble Space Telescope repair mission in December.

Two Discovery crewmen will try out tools needed to correct Hubble's vision and replace faulty parts.

The spacewalk by Carl Walz and James Newman is planned midway through Discovery's nine-day flight, after the five-man crew releases an experimental communications satellite and an ultraviolet telescope.

Local

Boys Club

Scurry County Boys Club board of directors will meet at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the chamber board room.

Cop killer sentenced to death

AUSTIN (AP) — A jury today recommended a death sentence for a Houston man convicted of gunning down a state trooper, despite the man's claims that hardcore rap music swayed him to pull the trigger.

The eight-man, four-woman jury had deliberated since Friday before recommending that Ronald Ray Howard, 19, die by lethal injection.

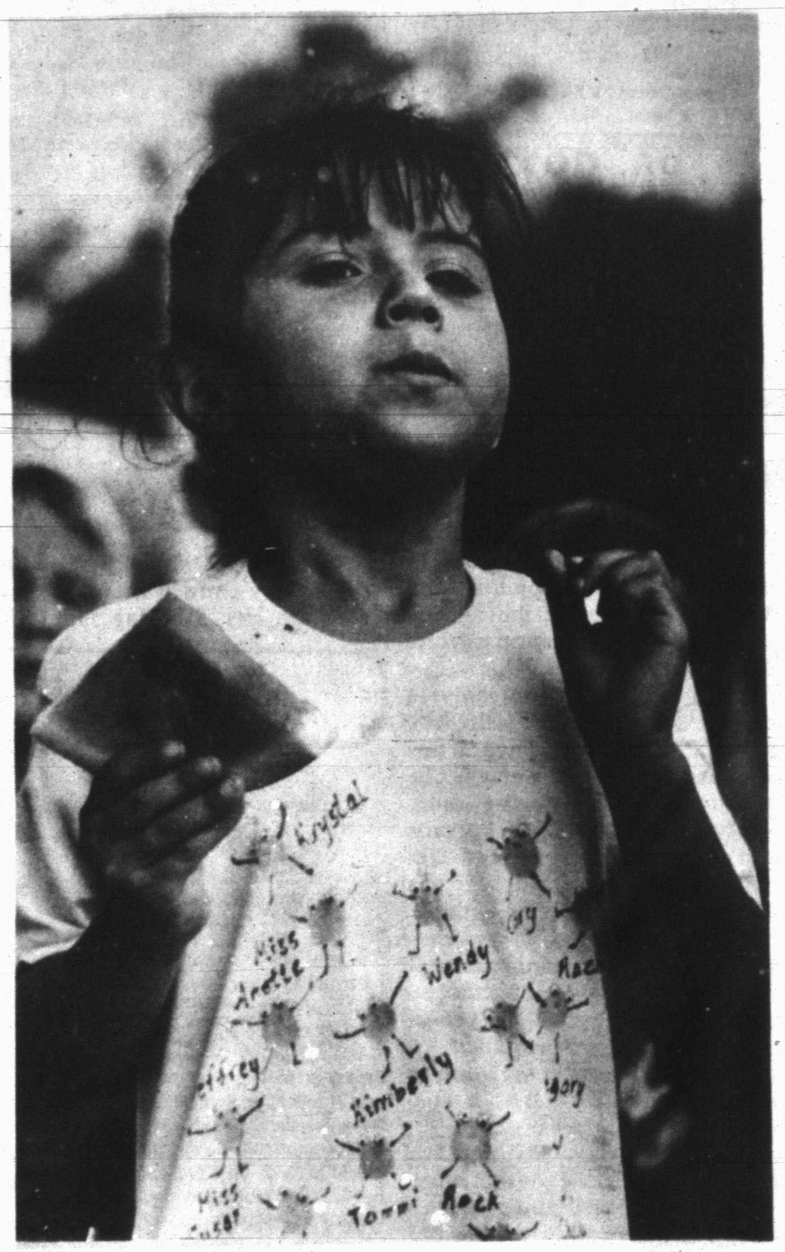

The same jury took only 40 minutes on June 8 to convict Howard in the April 1992 slaying of Department of Public Safety Trooper Bill Davidson.

The trooper had stopped Howard, who was driving a stolen vehicle, near Victoria because of a missing headlight.

Howard, an admitted car thief and crack cocaine dealer, confessed on numerous occasions to shooting Davidson in the neck at close range with a 9-mm handgun.

But defense attorney Allen Tanner contended that Howard's fascination with anti-cop "gangsta rap" music and his childhood in the oppressive inner-city were factors in the killing.

Jurors had been divided until today on how to punish Howard. They wrote two notes to State District Judge Whayland Kilgore, saying they were "hopelessly deadlocked" 10-2 in favor of the death penalty.

Furr's selling

Supermarket to leave Snyder after 43 years

Furr's Supermarket, a fixture in the Snyder business community for the past 43 years, announced that it will sell the local store to Don Newsom of Big Spring.

Buz Doyle, executive vice president for Furr's, said from the Albuquerque headquarters that the Snyder store and the Furr's store in Big Spring are being sold because they did not fit the company's geographic market strategy.

Furr's also announced that two stores in Odessa were being sold because their physical plants were below Furr's standards and required too great a capital investment to bring them up to standards.

Doyle said the transaction with Newsom, who operates two stores in Big Spring — Don's IGA and Fiesta — should be completed within the next two weeks. Local store employees were told the changeover would be effective Aug. 1.

Jan Friederich, Furr's chief operating officer, said in a news release that sale of the four stores are part of a five-year business plan which began in March, 1991 when Furr's completed a management-led buyout. At that time, corporate headquarters were moved from Lubbock to Albuquerque.

The Furr's chief executive said the past six months' earnings were the best in the company's history. Furr's has 73 stores remaining in New Mexico and West Texas.

Snyder and Big Spring were stores located the farthest east. Furr's purchased the Safeway store in Varsity Square and continues to hold the lease on that building, although it ceased operations of Furr's Plus several years

Bosnia...

U.N. struggles to save accord

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — U.N. officials struggled today to save a fragile accord that would restore power and water to Sarajevo. New outbreaks of fighting and ethnic cleansing were reported elsewhere in Bosnia.

About 20 percent of Sarajevo's 380,000 residents received running water today for the first time since June 21, when the entire city's power and water supplies were cut off. Water also started running in the Serb-held suburb of Ilidza.

But Maj. Nicolas Studer, chief engineer of the U.N. peacekeeping force, said the Serb forces besieging Sarajevo broke their promise to restore natural gas, jeopardizing the entire accord to restore all utilities to the city.

With the city reduced to only 2 percent of its regular supply of water, fears of spreading disease had mounted as people resorted to using unclean water.

U.N. officials also warned of a potential food crisis. Land convoys have been interrupted for weeks because of fighting and blockades, and relief flights provide only about 60 percent of the capital's needs.

The U.N. High Commssioner for Refugees, Sadako Ogata, flew to Sarajevo today to assess the crisis.

Elsewhere in Bosnia, new intense fighting errupted, and U.N. officials condemned a new wave of "ethnic cleansing" in the southwestern city of Mostar.

The forced expulsion of rival ethnic groups by occupying forces has been a particularly heinous feature of this war, which has left more than 138,000 people dead or missing and displaced more than 2 million.

Cmdr. Barry Frewer, a spokesman for peacekeepers in Sarajevo, said there was new fighting in Mostar between Bosnian Croats and the mostly Muslim Bosnian army.

Frewer also said Croat reinforcements were coming to Mostar from the direction of the Croatian port of Split. He said they "very likely" included regular army troops from neighboring Croatia.

Croatia has denied that its army is aiding Bosnian Croat forces.

Begins Thursday...

Top TCRA talent enters rodeo

A host of TCRA earnings leaders will be among almost 300 cowboys and cowgirls competing at this weekend's 58th Annual Scurry County Rodeo.

Seven of the Texas Cowboys Rodeo Association's top bareback riders, seven leading barrel racers and nine of the top breakaway ropers, as well as the current all-around leader, will make a stop at the three-day event, which gets underway Thursday at 8 p.m.

The rodeo, sanctioned by the TCRA, will include 8 p.m. performances through Saturday at the Scurry County Rodeo Arena on Gary Brewer Road.

TCRA all-around leader Karen Smith of Lubbock has entered barrel racing and breakaway roping. Smith is the association's top money winner in each of those two events.

Other Top 15 barrel racers signed up include Amarillo's Racquel Davis, who is currently second to Smith in the event, No. 4 Mary Beth Durfey of Guymon, Okla., Mary Beth Simpson from Archer City, and Midland's Claudia Ogden.

Locally familiar names also dot the event's sign-up sheets. Lorna Thompson of Snyder will also be competing in barrels, along with former Western Texas College standout Melanie Graf and Kelli Sultemeier of Melrose, N.M., who rode for several seasons in area AJRA rodeos.

Shawn Thompson, the earnings leader in bareback riding for the Texas association, will appear here, as well, as will No. 2 Jo Ed Eckert of Morris, Snyder's Jerry Thompson, currently third in the event, and Canadian cowboy Cole Tindol, ranked fourth this season.

Also registered to ride bareback are Troy Thomson, a member of the 1992-93 NIRA Southwest Regional champion WTC rodeo team, and Snyder's own Sid Franklin.

Others expected at the rodeo are team roping leader Guy Bryant of Amarillo; the top two calf ropers, Brook Burnett and Snyder's Troy Brown; local roper Leddy Lewis; Snyder bull riders Ross Hataway and Benji Fontenot; and national collegiate breakaway roping champ Lari Dee Guy of Abilene.

The annual parade opens rodeo activities at 5 p.m. Thursday. The parade route begins on 26th and Avenue Z and runs around the square on 26th, south on College Avenue, ending on 30th Street.

Rafter D Rodeo Company will provide stock for bareback, saddle bronc and bull riding, calf roping, team roping, barrel racing and breakaway roping.

Special events include a 12-and-under calf scramble, mutton bustin' for riders seven and under, and merchants' steer saddling.

Following each evening's rodeo, a dance, featuring Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys, will be held adjacent to the arena.

Rodeo tickets are $4 in advance, and are available at Bar-H-Bar Family Outfitters. Admission is $5 at the gate.

For information concerning box seats, call 573-6634.

HISD board accepts bids

Hermleigh public school trustees approved a bid for heater replacement and a bank depository, but tabled a personnel recommendation Tuesday.

Trustees accepted a bid of $3,682 from Cooper Appliance in Snyder to replace a heater in the high school. The board also selected Snyder National Bank as its depository bank.

Trustees tabled a discussion of personnel upon the recommendation of Supt. Jerry Church, who said he wanted to interview another applicant.

The board also paid bills and approved the career ladder.

In a non-action item, trustees discussed pay increases for ISD employees. Church said the board is considering various methods and pay amounts in relation to the proposed increases. He said the board will delve further into the 1993-94 budget before any decisions can be made.

Prison system head offered demotion to keep retirement

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The embattled head of the state's prison system has been offered a job demotion that would keep him on the payroll long enough to be vested in his retirement plan, a newspaper reports.

Jim Lynaugh, chief of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, has been asked to remain with the agency even if the board votes later this week to fire him from the top spot, the Houston Chronicle reported today.

"I have been explaining to him the possibility — should he be asked not to be the executive director — of his (willingness) to stay on because of his importance in any transition phase," said Carol Vance, chairman of the Texas Board of Criminal Justice. "He's amenable to that."

Others, however, said Lynaugh is hoping to retain his current job until he reaches retirement and has not agreed to step down.

Lynaugh, whose departure has been rumored for weeks, did not return the Houston Chronicle's calls Tuesday.

Lynaugh was in a meeting Wednesday and did not immediately return a call to The Associated Press.

The criminal justice board will discuss Friday Lynaugh's future as head of the agency that oversees the state's prison, parole and adult probation programs.

The board reportedly has six votes, one more than necessary, to fire Lynaugh, but key legislators have been attempting to convince at least two board members to reconsider.

Vance met earlier this week with state Sen. John Whitmire, D-Houston; Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont; and John Fainter, Gov. Ann Richards' chief of staff, to discuss the prison board's lack of confidence in Lynaugh.

The SDN Column — By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A wedding is where two people agree to become one. Marriage is the on-going process of deciding which one."

It probably has to do with our West Texas roots, but we've never before thought of the former Soviet Union as being one of the world's romantic spots.

In our day, a romantic spot was a drive-in theatre. Later in life we learned there were people who considered other places more romantic — spots like Paris, the Bahamas, Niagara Falls and Lubbock.

As the song goes, some may have been looking for love in all the wrong places. Moscow is said to be the current spot for match-making.

We read a story about a Swiss computer whiz who traveled to Moscow to find a bride. He reasoned that Swiss women were too assertive, therefore Russian women would make better wives.

The computer expert has been successful in business, but a failure in personal relationships. Nearing the over-the-hill age of 49, the computer whiz resolved to be efficient about looking for a wife. Therefore, he set aside an entire week for his bride search.

It's not an isolated case. The export of brides is one of Russia's few growth industries. Thousands of foreign men are said to be flocking to the former Soviet Union to find willing wives through scores of Moscow match-making agencies.

Commenting on the situation, a daily newspaper in Russia has observed, "There is a general sense in the West that Russian women like to cook, sew, clean house and have lots of babies."

The average price paid to an agency, using data banks to match logical couples, is said to be $60.

There was no indication if the fee included a money-back guarantee.

Cortisone relieves fluid buildup

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have water on my elbow that has been drained three times in the last 30 days. Why does it keep coming back?

DEAR READER: Joints, like other body tissues, respond to injury or infection only by producing certain limited reactions — pain and swelling being the most common. Joint trauma usually causes the appearance of excess fluid, which protects the joint from further injury.

If the trauma is ongoing, such as the continued use of an affected joint, the fluid will repeatedly accumulate as fast as it is withdrawn. This is merely one of Nature's protective mechanisms.

Bursitis of the elbow often causes fluid buildup, which can be reduced by injecting cortisone into the joint at the same time the fluid is removed. If this doesn't do the trick, try immobilizing the elbow (with a splint or elastic bandage) for several days. The enforced rest should allow the joint to heal.

Incidentally, a joint effusion (fluid) is not harmful; it won't lead to arthritis or permanent disability. Therefore, some people choose to ignore it until it disappears, usually in a matter of months.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with an overactive vagus nerve. It actually causes me to faint at times. My doctor tells me to eat small meals and to avoid foods with seeds or nuts. Is he on the right track?

DEAR READER: I don't believe so.

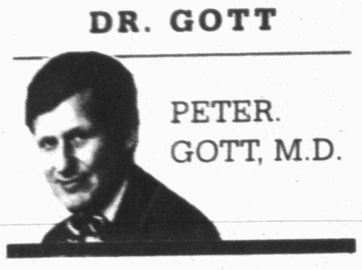

The vagus nerves carry impulses from the brain to the heart and other organs. When stimulated, the nerves slow the heartbeat and lower blood pressure, sometimes leading to lightheadedness and faintness. In rare instances, the pulse can be slowed to such a degree that patients lose consciousness — so-called vaso-vagal syncope.

The vagus nerves are not affected by diet — either quantity, constituents or timing. If your vagus nerves are especially sensitive, I suggest that you see a cardiologist. Certain forms of vaso-vagal syncope are aggravated by anemia, drugs (notably beta-blockers), mineral imbalance and dehydration. Thus, you will need further medical investigation, including blood tests and special cardiograms.

Patients who actually faint from slow pulse due to stimulation by the vagus may require pacemaker implantation.

Officers refuse to divulge location of Meza

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas officials have refused to disclose the whereabouts of Raul Meza, citing an exemption to the state law that requires the disclosure of public records.

Dan Guerra, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice's pardons and paroles division, said Tuesday the agency does not have to say where Meza is because the Open Records Act exempts certain investigation records maintained by law enforcement agencies.

He said the agency will request an opinion by Texas Attorney General Dan Morales on whether they can keep Meza's location confidential.

"It's time for us to continue working on his case without all the attention that it's getting. That's why we are going to be seeking an opinion," Guerra said.

Meza, 32, remains under state supervision but has been released from prison after serving 11 years for the rape and strangulation death of 8-year-old Kendra Page of Austin.

Previous attempts to place him in Uvalde, El Paso County, Wichita Falls, San Antonio and a Mineral Wells halfway house, where he left Saturday morning, each were met with local outrage.

Guerra said the agency has 10 days to request an opinion from Morales on whether the agency can keep Meza's location a secret under state law.

"We're obligated not only to protect society but to help him (Meza). As long as we have all this attention around him we won't be able to do that," Guerra said.

The part of the Open Records Act cited by Guerra excludes "records of law enforcement agencies and prosecutors that deal with the detection, investigation, and prosecution of crime and the internal records and notations of such law enforcement agencies and prosecutors which are maintained for internal use in matters relating to law enforcement and prosecution."

Earlier Tuesday, Gov. Ann Richards said she believed that Meza was in "a facility where you don't have a neighborhood that has objection." Richards said she believed criminal justice officials would "have an opportunity to determine whether he can stay there or needs to leave the state."

Astro-Graph By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Thursday, July 15, 1993

The year ahead could be an exceptionally pleasant one for you, because some of your heart's innermost desires might be fulfilled. Dare to be a dreamer.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Although a new channel might not be very obvious to you at this time, it could be an avenue for fortuitous developments in material ways. What occurs today could get things rolling. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you could be in for a pleasant surprise when you receive an impressive amount of attention from a member of the opposite gender you thought never noticed you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone who is extremely fond of you might set something up today that could add to your resources in a substantial way. His/her gesture won't have any strings attached.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You could have ample reasons to be smiling today when you see your long range plans starting to unfold in the positive way in which you originally envisioned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An agreement into which you might enter today should work out mutually beneficial, as long as both parties involved are loyal to one another.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A member of the opposite gender to whom you're attracted is equally as interested in you. However, you better make a move because he/she might be too shy to do so.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Forego the strictly business attitude today and show a friendly warmth to persons with whom you deal in your business world. The effect could be very beneficial.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're going to get any unique type of lucky break today, it's a safe bet to say it could come through one of your favorite social contacts. Be friendly towards all.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A venture you thought was unprofitable and outmoded still has lots of life left in it. Reexamine it again to see how it can be revitalized.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're apt to be luckier today if you coordinate your efforts with someone else instead of trying to do everything on your own. The person you need is someone with whom you worked previously.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Chances are before the day is over you could garner some type of material rewards either as a gift, bonus or for a service you performed for another.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You could be more fortunate than usual if you freely express yourself and let others know your true feelings, especially in the romance department.

Fired deputy files lawsuit

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — A former deputy has filed a lawsuit alleging he was fired because he told the county prosecutor and a federal grand jury about problems in the Cameron County Sheriff's Department.

The wrongful-termination lawsuit, filed Tuesday in state district court, alleges that Lt. S.R. Garcia's June 19 firing violated the Texas Constitution.

Cameron County Sheriff Alex Perez was unavailable for comment. Senior Chief Sheriff's Deputy R.C. Williams said there will be no response to the allegations in the lawsuit.

The lawsuit contends that Garcia was fired because of a sworn statement he made to District Attorney Luis Saenz concerning the Sheriff's Department's failure to press charges against some people caught in a drug bust.

Garcia has said that a fellow officer told him that Perez ordered that no charges be filed against certain individuals in the drug case. Federal charges later were filed against drug defendants who went uncharged by the sheriff's department.

Before Garcia testified to a federal grand jury in Corpus Christi about his statement to Saenz, Perez "constantly and persistently demanded to know" what he was going to tell the secret panel, the lawsuit states.

Roberts finishes 3-year residency

TEMPLE — Dr. Stockton E. Roberts of Snyder recently completed a three-year residency in internal medicine at Texas A&M University Health Science Center College of Medicine and Scott and White Memorial Hospital and Clinic in Temple.

A graduate of Snyder High School, Dr. Roberts was graduated cum laude with a bachelor of arts degree in mathematics from Texas Tech University at Lubbock in 1986. He earned his Doctor of Osteopathic degree from the Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine at Fort Worth in 1990, where he was an honors graduate.

He will join a group practice at the Fort Worth Clinic in Fort Worth.

Dr. Roberts is the son of Gary and Kathryn Roberts of Snyder and the son-in-law of Irene Lynch of McKinney.

More unwed mothers bearing children

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Census Bureau study of motherhood documents what women's groups have been saying for some time — that many American women of all social classes are having children outside marriage.

The survey found more than a doubling of the proportion of mothers among never-married women who graduated from college, obtained graduate degrees or held managerial or professional jobs.

The increase in out-of-wedlock births cut across racial, economic and social lines. The rate of white and Hispanic women giving birth out of wedlock nearly doubled in the last decade, according to the study.

Demographers said the results released Tuesday suggest that unwed mothers don't face the social stigmas long associated with out-of-wedlock births.

"Society is not frowning on them any more," said Amara Bachu, the report's author, said in a telephone interview Tuesday. "Families have changed their attitudes toward pregnant daughters," she said.

The study also bolstered an argument made by women's groups last year after Vice President Dan Quayle criticized TV's Murphy Brown when the show's main character had a child out of wedlock.

The character, a television anchorwoman played by actress Candice Bergen, opted to give birth rather than have an abortion.

Quayle created a political furor when he said, among other things, that "Hollywood thinks it's cute to glamorize illegitimacy. Hollywood doesn't get it."

Feminist leaders charged that Quayle's remarks showed blindness and insensitivity to a social reality: that a growing number of women are choosing to have children outside of marriage.

The government findings are "consistent with what I would have expected," said Charles Westoff. a demographer at Princeton University. "One began to get the impression a dozen years ago or so that some of the increase in out-of-wedlock births among whites was voluntary."

The Census Bureau study found that unwed mothers often don't fit the longstanding stereotype: an uneducated woman living in poverty.

To be sure, the proportion of mothers among unmarried women who had not completed high school increased from 35.2 percent in 1982 to 48.2 percent last year.

But the survey also found that many women who had attended college or graduate school and established themselves in careers were bearing children out of wedlock.

Bridge in the air

By Phillip Alder

Richard J. Ferris, the former president of United Airlines, said, "It is now possible for a flight attendant to get a pilot pregnant." And why not?

Many years ago, all in-flight magazines contained several puzzle pages, which included a bridge column. Nowadays, though, a crossword is usually the only challenge to a passenger's analytical mind.

Therefore, I was pleasantly surprised to find that the Turkish Airlines in-flight magazine contained an interesting chess problem and today's bridge deal. The reader was shown all 52 cards and asked — I think — to analyze the play in three no-trump. Well, how do you think it should go?

North's bid of three no-trump is aggressive, but he has a good five-card suit and excellent controls. Aces are worth more than the four points we normally assign to them.

You start with six top tricks. The other three tricks can come from the heart suit. But while establishing that suit, you must lose the lead twice. If the opponents can establish and cash three diamond tricks to go with their two heart winners, you will fall to defeat.

The danger is a 5-2 diamond split. If that is the situation, you must try to cut the defenders' communication in the suit. The key play is to duck the first trick completely.

Win trick two in the dummy and lead a heart toward your 10. West may win and establish his diamonds, but he has no entry remaining. And if East wins this trick, he has no diamond to play.

If the opponents are trying to establish a suit, always consider a ducking play.

LL game stopped, to continue today

Showers here forced the suspension of the Snyder-Abilene Key City Little League All-Stars baseball game Tuesday.

The two teams will resume the District V semifinal contest at 7:30 p.m. today at Logan Field in Towle Park.

The contest will continue with Snyder leading 5-1 in the top of the second inning.

Snyder erupted for five runs on three hits in the bottom of the opening frame, including an Eric Gard grand slam. Gard drove in Eric Lang, who led off with a double, Johnny Pena, who walked, and Clay Berryman, who was hit by a Shane Evans pitch to load the bases.

Following Gard's blast, Snyder got one more run when Cory Mandrell reached on an error and moved to second on a Sonny Cumbie base hit, before scoring when Josh Ward hit into a double play.

Key City, Area I champion, took a 1-0 first-inning lead Tuesday when Nick Williams doubled and came in on a Marcus Eckert single.

The rain lasted less than 20 minutes, but soaked uncovered portions of the infield, causing officials to suspend the game until tonight.

The winner of the Snyder-Key City tilt will face the winner of the other semifinal, either Sweetwater East or Clyde, for the District V crown.

All-Star game...

AL powers past Nationals, 9-3

BALTIMORE (AP) — First the ball didn't bounce, then it bounced too much. Camden Yards' odd quirks made the difference in the American League's 9-3 victory Tuesday night in the All-Star game.

"It's a great park," Atlanta's Steve Avery said after giving up three unearned runs. "It's a little touch of the old field."

Except the old field never had walls that made baseballs stick like velcro. A hit getting caught under your neighbor's porch is one thing. A ball getting stuck in the middle of the fence during the All-Star game is like finding weeds on Centre Court at Wimbledon.

"I've never seen a ball like that," said Los Angeles manager Tommy Lasorda, a part of the Dodgers' organization for 44 years.

The score was tied 2-all in the fifth inning before things started to get goofy. Ivan Rodriguez of Texas lined a pitch from San Francisco's John Burkett over the head of Barry Bonds in left. The Giants outfielder and his three-time Gold Glove waited for the carom, hoping to keep Rodriguez on first. But the ball got stuck in a seam of the padding.

"This is the first time I've seen that," said Detroit's Sparky Anderson, one of seven managers to win 2,000 games.

No one has suggested that fences be made of non-stick Teflon, but perhaps Tuesday's Stupid Baseball Trick will start a trend.

Bonds, used to the wild winds in San Francisco's Candlestick Park, said he wasn't surprised by the daffy drive. He just thought about making the play.

"Go get it," he recalled thinking.

Rodriguez, the youngest all-star at age 21, didn't even see his hilarious hit until a television replay. He kept his head down as he ran up the line until he heard first-base coach Johnny Oates, the Baltimore Orioles' manager.

"Just keep going! Just keep going! It's a double!" Oates screamed.

Rodriguez wound up on second by the time Bonds got the fence to retrieve its prize. Toronto's Roberto Alomar bounced out to second, and pinch-hitter Albert Belle of Cleveland lined a single to right that started a sequence in which David Justice seemed to confuse the NL all-stars with the Bad News Bears.

Rodriguez scored the go-ahead run on the play, and Justice missed the rolling ball for an error that allowed Belle to take second.

"It just took a bad bounce at the last moment," the Atlanta outfielder said.

Seattle's Ken Griffey Jr. hit another single to right. If you can't catch it the first time, you may as well throw it away the second time.

Justice's heave sailed past Philadelphia first baseman John Kruk and rolled to catcher Darren Daulton as Belle scored and Griffey took second on the throw.

"I wasn't trying to throw home," Justice said. "I was trying to hit the cutoff man."

He wasn't even close. After Toronto's Joe Carter struck out and Detroit's Cecil Fielder was hit by a pitch, Kirby Puckett doubled up the gap in left, and suddenly it was 5-2.

A wall that behaved like glue led to an inning in which the NL became unglued. That's part of the reason why Camden Yards is baseball's best new stadium in seven decades. On a night of stars, the ballpark shined brightest.

NFL roundup...

Falcons suffer key injuries

by The Associated Press

The Atlanta Falcons haven't even started contact drills and already two starters have been lost to injuries.

Doctors on Tuesday disclosed that defensive end Mike Gann has torn cartilage in his left knee. He joins right cornerback Melvin Jenkins, who suffered a stress fracture of the fifth metatarsal bone of his right foot on Monday.

Both players are scheduled to have surgery today and could miss at least six weeks.

"It just makes us sick," said team president Taylor Smith.

Jenkins, a sixth-year player, was the projected starter while Deion Sanders completes the baseball season with the Atlanta Braves.

Coach Jerry Glanville said it was unlikely Jenkins, scheduled for surgery on Wednesday, would return before October, although the player said he hoped to be back for the team's opener on Sept. 5.

Los Angeles Raiders

The Los Angeles Raiders have officially said farewell to 14-year defensive tackle Bob Golic, who announced his retirement.

Golic, who played the last four seasons with the Raiders, came to training camp to announce his retirement at the age of 35. Golic was originally drafted in the second round by the New England Patriots in 1979. He later played for the Cleveland Browns before moving to the Raiders as a Plan B free agent in 1989.

"It was obviously a situation where they were trying to get the younger guys more playing time," said Golic, who played in only one game in the second half of last season. "But I'd been fooling myself trying to convince myself it wasn't time to move on."

Golic said he has a role in a television situation comedy and hopes for work as a football broadcaster in the future.

The Raiders signed defensive back James Trapp, a third-round pick; linebacker Greg Biekert, a seventh-round pick; and running back Greg Robinson, an eighth-round pick. All but two of the Raiders' six draft choices have signed.

Green Bay Packers

Many football publications have projected the rejuvenated Green Bay Packers as contenders, and coach Mike Holmgren has no problem with such lofty expectations.

"I like it. I like the fact people look at us with more respect now," Holmgren said Tuesday.

The Packers spent big in the offseason, signing seven free agents for roughly $30 million. More than half of that will go to prize addition Reggie White, whose $17 million four-year deal will pay him about $9 million this season. In addition, the Packers will have all their draft choices in camp today when free agents, rookies and selected veterans report.

San Francisco 49ers

The 49ers signed a quarterback, but it wasn't Steve Young.

Elvis Grbac, the team's eighth-round draft pick out of Michigan, signed a two-year contract. Terms were not disclosed.

Young, last season's leading passer and MVP, has never missed a day of training camp because of contract problems and has said he doesn't want to start now.

League rules prohibit unsigned players from participating in camp, and Young's agent, Leigh Steinberg, has said that the two sides still must resolve significant differences. Young earned $2.5 million last season and Steinberg is seeking a package that would more than double Young's salary.

He is scheduled to report to training camp in Rocklin by tonight, along with rookies and some veterans and free agents. The team will hold its first workout on Thursday.

Seattle Seahawks

The Seahawks signed fourth-round pick linebacker Dean Wells, fifth-round selection wide receiver Terrence Warren and seventh-round defensive end Micheal McCrary.

New York Jets

Veteran safety Lonnie Young was released by the New York Jets after failing a physical on his injured right knee. Young started at free safety the last two years after coming to the Jets in a trade with Phoenix, for whom he played six seasons. He injured his knee against Buffalo last November and underwent surgery.

The Jets also signed four draft picks — defensive lineman Coleman Rudolph (No. 2); tight end Fred Baxter and wide receiver Kenny Shedd, both taken in the fifth round, and tackle Alec Millen, a seventh-round pick.

Swoopes, Kieschnick honored

DALLAS (AP) — A media panel on Tuesday selected Texas pitcher Brooks Kieschnick and Texas Tech basketball star Sheryl Swoopes as the 1993 Southwest Conference Athletes of the Year.

Swoopes, who scored an NCAA-record 47 points in the NCAA tournament final, was also named the SWC Player of the Year for the second time in two seasons.

During the tournament, she set seven other records and tied two more to lead the Lady Raiders (31-3) to their first-ever national championship.

Swoopes of Brownfield, scored in double digits in each of the Lady Raiders' 34 games and set a conference record by scoring 53 points in the SWC tournament final.

She was the MVP in five tournaments, including the NCAA final four, and scored 30 or more points nine times this season. She topped the 40-point mark three times.

In addition to the SWC award, Swoopes was named player of the year by USA Today, Sports Illustrated, Women's Basketball Service, Newspaper Enterprise Association, U.S. Basketball Writers Association and others.

Kieschnick, Collegiate Baseball and Baseball America's pick as Player of the Year, was picked as the best male athlete in the conference after he led the Longhorns to a 51-16 record.

He posted 16 victories and hit 19 home runs and 81 RBIs.

Kieschnick's 16-4 mark helped Texas to the College World Series where they were eliminated after a one-run loss to Oklahoma State. Kieschnick also won his third-straight SWC Player of the Year award.

The Chicago Cubs picked Kieschnick, who also plays first base and outfield, with the 10th overall pick in the first round of major league draft.

Sparky Anderson, the current skipper of the Detroit Tigers, and Dick Williams share a distinction as managers in baseball's All-Star Game. In 1973, Anderson piloted the National League to a 7-1 victory over the American Leaguers managed by Williams. Twelve years later, in 1985, the two, who had swapped leagues, faced each other again. This time, Anderson's AL team topped Williams' National Leaguers, 6-1.

Area 'pokes shine at IYFR

SHAWNEE, Okla. — A group of wranglers with Snyder-area ties are showing their stuff at the International Youth Finals Rodeo here.

Snyder's Bronc Collier turned in a third-session 66 for fourth place in bareback riding and Tina Sherrod of Big Spring is tied for first place in goat tying following a 9.7 clocking in her third-session attempt.

Trevor Brazile of Decatur and J.W. Hampton of Stephenville are third in team roping after a 12.3 on Tuesday. Both Brazile and Hampton are active in the American Junior Rodeo Association, and competed in the AJRA National Finals Rodeo in Snyder for several years.

The IYFR will continue through Sunday.

Clinton arrives in Des Moines today

Efforts continue to save water works plant

by The Associated Press

Efforts to restore drinking water to 250,000 Iowans survived another round of heavy rain but another levee failed in Illinois and a flash flood in Kansas swept cars into a heap, trapping members of one family.

Volunteers worked under floodlights during the night to pile sandbags around the flood-damaged Des Moines Water Works. The lack of water service hindered efforts to fight a fire today.

The bloated Raccoon and Des Moines rivers had stabilized this morning after a downpour Tuesday morning and missed the brunt of heavy rain overnight. New rain began falling in Des Moines at daybreak but was not serious enough to threaten new floods, forecasters said.

President Clinton arrived in Des Moines today after cutting short a visit to Hawaii to tour the flood-stricken region a second time.

The river ripped a 2,000-foot gap through a levee north of Quincy, Ill., during the night and quickly began covering about 9,000 acres of farmland, said Adams County emergency services director Leonard Schnellbecker. About 25 homes, 100 volunteers and 400 National Guard members were evacuated, but many residents already had left their homes in anticipation of the break, he said.

Downpours swelled the raging Mississippi River and its tributaries across the flood-ravaged Midwest on Tuesday and this morning.

Only one levee remains unbreached in Adams County in west-central Illinois, Schnellbecker said.

Italy calling for halt on U.N. attacks

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — The violent reaction to attempts to corral a Somali warlord has prompted Italy, an integral part of the U.N. peacekeeping force here, to question its role.

Italy asked the United Nations on Tuesday for permission to withdraw its troops from Mogadishu unless agreement can be reached on the mission of the 29-member, 17,000-troop U.N. force in Somalia.

Italian commanders in Somalia have differed with American officers in the U.N. force over the need for aggressive military strikes in densely populated areas. The Italians say humanitarian concerns should receive greater priority.

Italian opposition parties have called on the government to withdraw Italy's 2,400 troops from Somalia as protests mounted over an attack Monday by U.N. forces on the warlord's compound.

Casualty reports varied: the Red Cross said 54 Somalis died, supporters of warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid claimed 73 Somali deaths, and U.N. forces said 15 Somalis died. An Associated Press photographer and three Reuters employees were slain and two other journalists wounded by a mob angered by the attack.

Aidid, the targeted leader, has accused the United States and the 21,000-member U.N. force of abandoning their humanitarian mission in Somalia.

Aidid, whose fighters are blamed for killing 24 Pakistani peacekeepers on June 5, also scoffed at the idea that he's in danger, according to the Italian Catholic weekly magazine, Famiglia Cristiana.

The United Nations has offered a $25,000 bounty for information leading to his arrest.

Aidid's gunmen have been blamed for attacks that killed 35 U.N. soldiers and wounded 137 the last five weeks.

Lynaugh offered demotion

Whitmire said no agreements were reached in that meeting, but that Vance discussed offering Lynaugh an assistant director's position to handle "special projects."

Whitmire added that he was particularly concerned that "in these lean and mean times we not be perceived as giving someone a golden parachute."

"I was assured that was not the case," Whitmire said.

"I would like to see Jim Lynaugh stay on with the agency and give us the benefit of his expertise," Vance said. Vance also said he does not think a position would have to be created for Lynaugh; he could fill a vacant directorship.

Lynaugh, 53, has headed the prison system since his appointment in 1987 by a prison board dominated by appointees of former Republican Gov. Bill Clements. Many expected to vote against his continuance in the position are appointees of Richards.

Lynaugh has been criticized, sources said, for his reluctance to embrace further privatization of the state prison system. And he has suffered from disclosures late last year that former department internal affairs chief Jim Gant had ordered investigations of Richards and two board members.

Vance denied that the board has any "hit list" of other high-ranking officials it wants removed.

Ron Ramsaier, current manager in Snyder, said he expects to continue with Furr's, a company he has worked for the past 17 years. He said he had spoken with the new owner as well.

This morning, Don Newsom said from Big Spring that the announcement is premature, and that the deal had not yet been closed. He indicated that a statement might be forthcoming later in the day.

Furr's first opened in Snyder in December, 1949, approximately a year after oil was discovered near Snyder, and Furr's enjoyed the oil boom of the early 1950s.

The Snyder store was destroyed by fire in July, 1959, but was rebuilt and was reopened in December of the same year. The store on 26th Street was severely damaged by a flood in June of 1967.

On Aug. 28, 1985, Furr's opened in its new location at 30th and College Avenue. The store, containing 34,000 square feet, was remodeled last year.

WTC to offer sculpture class

A new art class offering, Figurative Sculpture, will be offered this fall at Western Texas College.

The three-hour college credit art class is open to both beginning and advanced students. It will meet on Tuesday nights.

Instructor will ! e Oliver McRae of Lubbock who began his formal art training at age 13. He served a five-year sculpture apprenticeship with international architectural sculptor Herbert Goldman.

McRae has earned a bachelor's and master's degree in art education and currently is working on his Ph.D in Interdisciplinary Fine Art at Texas Tech University.

McRae has had numerous exhibitions and commissions in America, Europe and Asia. He has taught art at universities in the U.S. and Germany.

The Figurative Sculpture class is primarily a studio production course that will introduce students to and offer opportunities with the medium of clay, the technique of sculpturing, direct observation of a live model, as well as historical examples of figurative sculpture.

Trust fund set up for 2-year-old

A trust fund for two-year-old bone cancer patient Jamie Glover has been established in Dallas.

Jamie is the grandson of Jack and RaVona Glover of Snyder and the son of Loby and Chandra Glover of Irving.

Jamie was diagnosed with neuroblastoma on June 17. The disease has now spread to his bone marrow. He began chemotherapy June 22 and will be in Children's Medical Center in Dallas on and off for the next several months.

After his cancer is in remission, he will require a bone marrow transplant. His insurance will not cover the cost of the procedure because they consider it to be an experimental treatment.

Anyone interested in helping Jamie may send a donation to: Jamie Cass Glover Trust Fund, Attention Cindy Cooper, First Interstate Bank, 3535 Forest Lane, Dallas, TX 75234.

Blood donations on Jamie's behalf are also being accepted at Meeks Blood Bank in Abilene, Carter Blood Bank in Fort Worth and Parkland Blood Bank in Dallas.

Scurry County Country

Scurry County residents attend electricity camp

Five Scurry County residents recently participated in an electricity camp sponsored by Southwestern Public Service Company. More than 95 4-H'ers from throughout the Texas South Plains attended the camp June 21-July 2 at Camp Scott Able, near Cloudcroft, N.M.

The Scurry County participants were Charlie Busby, John Busby, Shelly Englert, Shawn Purcell and Kathryn Roberts.

Students had opportunities to build their own "hands-on" projects. They also participated in demonstrations and lectures on basic electricity, safety, wiring and electrical terminology.

County agents and SPS employees served as advisers and instructors.

Southwestern Public Service Company is a regional electric utility that primarily provides electric service to a population of about one million people in a 52,000-square-mile area comprising Eastern and Southeastern New Mexico, the South Plains and Panhandle of Texas, the Oklahoma Panhandle and Southwestern Kansas. Corporate headquarters is in Amarillo.

SELECTING THE BEST NUTRITION WHEN EATING OUT

It is estimated that Americans will spend $236.5 billion while eating out this year, but how will they know which meals are more nutritious?

The average American eats out 3.8 meals per week or 198 meals per year, according to 1993 National Restaurant Association Food Service Industry Forecast figures. Also, Americans are purchasing more take-out foods to eat off premises of the restaurant.

So, knowledge of factors such as ingredients and preparation methods are still essential in making heathier choices. Also, if you are a special diet such as a diabetes diet or just want to eat healthfully, knowledge about serving size from each of the six food groups — breads, vegetables, fruits, meat, milk and fats — is essential.

Many of the restaurants are offering heart-healthy choices designated by a heart on the menu. These foods are low in fat, saturated fatty acids, cholesterol, sugar and sodium. Some of the fast-food restaurants are offering information about the nutritive values, including carbohydrate, protein, fat, calories, sodium and cholesterol content of the food items on the menus.

Many restaurants are even providing nutrition education bulletins on topics such as the dietary guidelines, healthy eating tips as well as selection of healthier food choices just to attract customers.

Skills and strategies for teaching clients to eat away from home are listed below:

—Develop healthful mind set and a can-do attitude.

—Determine frequency of eating out — how often, where, when and what's ordered.

—Balance higher-calorie restaurant food with lower-calorie choices the rest of day and exercise.

—Pre-plan for what you will eat before eating out.

—Ask the server about preparation methods, ingredients used and added fat.

—Ask about portion size.

—Make special requests such as a luncheon portion for a dinner meal. Or, ask for a doggie bag to take extra food not eaten home.

—Enjoy the non-food pleasantries of restaurant dining.

—Remember, alcohol provides extra calories, plus increases your appetite. So, if you are trying to control your caloric intake, then select either tea, coffee, water, skim milk or juice.

SCS Notes

By Michael Squires
Range Conservationist

If the fish population in your pond is hopelessly out-of-balance, September is a good month to remove these fish with rotenone. During October and November after water temperatures decline, your pond can then be safely restocked.

Rotenone kills fish by constricting blood vessels in the fishes' gills, suffocating them. The warmer the water, the more effective rotenone; thus, August and September are usually the best months to apply it.

Some fish are more difficult to kill than others. Bullheads (mudcats, polywogs) require more rotenone than sunfish (bream, sun perch), and crappie. Bullheads inhabit the pond bottom and when maximum water depth exceeds five feet, rotenone must be applied with special care to kill all the bullheads.

Soil Conservation Service personnel at the Snyder Field Office can provide technical assistance in obtaining and applying rotenone. SCS personnel, who give assistance to land owners and operators through the local Soil and Water Conservation District, can also help pond owners compute the cost of rotenoning and restocking as well as ways to improve the balance of your fish population.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1993 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I want to say something about a letter you recently had in your column. It concerned a woman whose husband refused to tell her anything about their finances. He seemed to feel that as long as she was well provided for and had everything she could possibly want, there was no need for her to worry her head about his investments and how they stood financially.

I have a brother in Denver who is a CPA. He retired some years ago — very comfortably, I might add. He told us recently about two women who had become very rich widows in this last year. In both cases, he was bewailing the fact that neither woman had the slightest idea of her husband's finances — his assets, what he owed, etc. Of course, neither woman knew how to manage money. Like many husbands, they told their wives that they would always be there to look after them.

I'll admit, there are a lot of men who deliberately withhold this information from their wives. Some men have the mistaken idea that their wives need to be "protected," but who is going to protect them if their husbands die before they do?

DOROTHY L.

DEAR DOROTHY: Good question. Especially since most women outlive their husbands. My advice to married women: Insist on knowing all there is to know about where you stand financially. The same goes for married men concerning their financial status.

DEAR ABBY: I think parents who encourage their teen-aged daughters (and some sons, too) to get a nose job are doing their children a terrible disservice.

The message they are sending their children is wrong. They are clearly saying that the way God made them is not good enough — a plastic surgeon should be called in to improve on God's work.

Parents should put more emphasis on character. A beautiful, honest character is what makes a person beautiful — not the size and shape of a person's nose.

MANHATTAN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: My mail is overwhelmingly in favor of nose jobs. For a typical response, read on:

DEAR ABBY: I worked for a plastic surgeon for over 20 years (appointment secretary), and the one comment I heard more than any other following rhinoplasty (the technical name for "nose job") was: "I'm sorry I didn't do this years ago!"

MARION G., RETIRED IN MALIBU, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the mother who is not sure her 15-year-old daughter should have a nose job: Our beautiful 15-year-old became terribly self-conscious about her "longish" nose, so we promised if she still felt that way at 17, we would take her to a plastic surgeon.

Well, she had her nose done the summer before her senior year in high school and it made all the difference in her self-esteem and confidence.

Today she is a straight-A university student and a new bride. She says her new nose was the best gift her parents ever gave her.

NO REGRETS IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR MARION G. AND NO REGRETS: The Santa Monica, Calif., mother who inquired about plastic surgery for her 15-year-old daughter was concerned not about whether she should have it done — but only if the girl was physically mature enough to achieve the best result right now. The plastic surgeon's decision should prevail.

Ford's reflections

DENVER (AP) — Former President Ford, who turns 80 today, says he wants to be remembered for healing the wounds left by Vietnam and Watergate.

During his 21/2 years in office, Ford pardoned Richard Nixon and gave amnesty to draft evaders.

"I strongly believe that in the major areas of domestic and foreign policy, I did the right things for the country," he said in an interview Tuesday from his home in Beaver Creek.

"There is no doubt in my mind I restored the faith of our allies," he said.

Hazardous leaks handled with buckets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Workers at a nuclear weapons plant shut down for a multibillion-dollar cleanup dealt with a hazardous leak by catching drips in buckets and then pouring the chemicals back into the tank.

The practice was spotted — and stopped — last year.

But government investigators say the leaking tanks and some other equipment at the idled plant in Fernald, Ohio, 18 miles northwest of Cincinnati, has deteriorated so much it poses "an extreme safety hazard."

And the example, critics say, does not bode well as the government moves to clean up other plants that once produced America's nuclear arsenal.

"We've had one gaffe after another through the years," Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, a longtime critic of the way the government has managed its weapons plants, said Tuesday.

"We've been through too many situations like this. I can't believe that we can't do better."

At Fernald, a June 1992 memo by the staff of the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board revealed the unsafe way a worker at the plant had handled a leak from a holding tank.

"The leakage is collected by buckets and manually returned to the top of the tank," the memo said.

The leaking chemical contained some uranium, but not in sufficient concentrations to cause a radiation hazard to the workers. But the liquid — uranyl nitrate hexahydrate — is acidic and corrosive, and considered one of the most dangerous substances at the plant.

The buckets were gone by the time the Fernald cleanup project changed hands last December, said John Rasile, executive vice president of FERMCO, the company now in charge.

But the new contractor, which replaced Westinghouse, has had problems, too — a small spill in April of the same dangerous chemical, UNH.

There were no injuries or damage to equipment, but a subsequent inquiry by the Energy Department found that the leaky tanks and other UNH equipment has "deteriorated to such an extent that continued operation poses an extreme safety hazard."
