Jury convicts McCright of embezzlement

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

A federal jury in Midland Friday convicted ex-banker William "Hoyle" McCright Jr. of embezzlement and misapplication of funds, fraudulently participating in a $1.925-million bank loan, and making false bank reports and entries in the fifth major bank trial here in slightly over a year.

U.S. District Judge Lucius D. Bunton is to sentence McCright, who faces up to 20 years in prison and a $25,000 fine, on Oct. 20.

"It's another sign that the jurors out in the Permian Basin are not going to tolerate fraud in their banks," Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Blankinship said of the conviction.

Blankinship, who prosecuted the case, said, "Those bankers who are of a mind to engage in fraud and line their pockets with depositors' money ought to have received the message from Permian Basin jurors by now that their conduct won't be tolerated."

McCright, the 61-year-old retired executive vice president of the failed First National Bank of Midland and president of the Midland College Board of Trustees, refused to comment on the jury's decision.

Defense attorney Ted Kerr said he was "disappointed" by the verdict.

"We were hoping it would not be that way," he said.

Kerr said he assumes McCright will appeal the conviction.

The jury deliberated about three hours before returning its verdict in the four-day trial.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation here has intensified its investigation into banking practices in West Texas.

Since late April 1985, five Midland-Odessa ex-bankers, including three former bank presidents, have been convicted by federal juries in Midland of embezzlement and bank fraud and were sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge Lucius D. Bunton to prison terms from 10 years to 24 years. All together, they were ordered to pay more than $1.72-million in restitution.

Besides McCright, those convicted included Eddie Thomas, 43, ex-president of the failed MetroBank at Midland Regional Airport; Max Malone, 53, former president of the defunct Permian Bank & Trust in Odessa; Bill Tapp, 42, former president of Bank of the West in Odessa; and Roger Harris Clark, 43, an engineer who was a former director of Permian Bank & Trust and was owner of manufacturing companies in Odessa and Tulsa.

Thomas, who currently is serving a 20-year prison sentence, was ordered by Bunton to pay $550,000 in restitution. Malone was sentenced to 24 years in prison and was ordered to pay $317,410.71 in restitution. Tapp was sentenced to 20 years in prison and was ordered to pay $481,565.02 in restitution. Clark was sentenced to 10 years in prison and was ordered to pay $378,317.65 in restitution. Thomas did not appeal his conviction. The others are appealing their convictions and are free.

McCright was employed by the First National Bank from 1948 until 1982, when he retired. In 1983, he was elected to Security National Bank's board of directors but resigned that post last year.

In his closing arguments to the jury, Blankinship said McCright "sold them (FNB directors) out everyday he worked at the bank."

The prosecutor accused McCright of loaning money to a company, Midland West Corp., which McCright allegedly partly owned.

McCright admitted owning an interest in the business during a June 25th interview with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, special agent Ed Stroz testified.

"He cared nothing about the depositors, he cared about Hoyle McCright," Blankinship said.

"He used his job and he used the trust of the people. He used you and he used me for the interest of Hoyle McCright."

Co-defense attorney William Monroe Kerr had maintained that McCright was not guilty of any wrongdoing but rather was a victim of some "severe misunderstandings and severe misconceptions."

In addition, he maintained that McCright was not required by law to report his affiliated and related interests in Midland West Corp., Atkins Prospect oil field investments, oil field properties managed by Wood and Locker Inc. of Midland and the H.G. Bedford Ranch.

"If he wasn't required to report these things, he can't be guilty," Kerr told the six-man, six-woman jury at the outset of the trial.

Reagan vetoes sanctions bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan vetoed legislation Friday imposing new economic sanctions against the white-minority government of South Africa, saying they amounted to a declaration of "economic warfare against the people" of that divided country

At the same time, however, Reagan said he would be willing to go along with steps similar to the sanctions approved recently by the European community. "I believe we should support their measures with similar executive actions of our own, and I will work with the Congress toward that goal."

The administration did not immediately spell out what action Reagan would take, but the offer was seen as a bid to win support for Reagan in one of the toughest foreign policy showdowns of his presidency.

Deserted by many of his usual allies, Reagan does not have enough votes now to prevent the House and Senate from overriding his veto, according to the White House and Republican vote-counters in Congress.

In his veto message, Reagan said the sanctions approved by Congress — banning all new American investment and bank loans in South Africa — would hurt not only South Africans but also the neighboring black states that are dependent on Pretoria for transportation, energy, food, and markets.

"Do we truly wish to be directly responsible for increased suffering and perhaps starvation in southern Africa?" Reagan asked.

He said Americans are united in seeking an end to apartheid. "But while we vigorously support the purpose of this legislation, declaring economic warfare against the people of South Africa would be destructive not only of their efforts to peacefully end apartheid, but also of the opportunity to replace it with a free society."

Reagan warned that "punitive economic sanctions would contribute directly and measurably to the misery of people who have already suffered enough. Using America's power to deepen the economic crisis in this tortured country is not the way to reconciliation and peace."

Justices take oath of office

Antonin Scalia and William Rehnquist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Praised by President Reagan for their embrace of the doctrine of "judicial restraint," William H. Rehnquist and Antonin Scalia, the Supreme Court's 16th chief justice and its 103rd member, took their oaths of office Friday.

The new Supreme Court era began with two swearing-in ceremonies, one at the White House and one in the Supreme Court building's stately courtroom.

Rehnquist, for nearly 15 years the high court's most conservative member, told Reagan, "I pray that God will grant me the patience, the wisdom and the fortitude to worthily follow in the footsteps of my predecessors."

Scalia, another staunch conservative, said he had "enormous personal regard" for the Supreme Court's eight other members, adding: "I look forward to working with them in our common enterprise for years to come."

The actual transfer of power to Rehnquist from retiring Chief Justice Warren E. Burger came in the courtroom ceremony. Burger's 17 years in that job marked the longest tenure of the 20th century.

After Burger swore in Rehnquist, the new chief justice swore in Scalia.

Both men pledged to "do equal right to the poor and the rich" as part of their oaths.

After the ceremony, Rehnquist and Scalia were joined by their families in posing for photographers and television cameras outside the court building. Both men smiled broadly in the stifling heat.

Interstate banking faces challenge

By DAVID PLESA
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A group representing about 100 banks is trying to halt interstate banking in Texas by challenging the new legislation's constitutionality.

If Attorney General Jim Mattox rules the new banking law is constitutional, Independent Bankers for Texas will take their fight to court, spokesman Gary Tongate said Friday.

The coalition, which formed recently to fight the then-proposed banking legislation, also opposes branch banking and says it will spend up to $100,000 on a grass-roots campaign to defeat a constitutional amendment authorizing it.

"We don't think a New York bank is going to make a $100 loan," Tongate said, referring to the group's concern that large, impersonal holding companies from out of state will acquire Texas banks and drain local communities of their deposits.

"We believe (the legislation) was passed under stress and under pressure put on by various agencies," he said. Tongate is president and chief executive officer of City National Bank in Whitehouse, near Tyler.

On Tuesday, Gov. Mark White signed the bill authorizing interstate banking, which takes effect Jan. 1. He also signed a measure that will allow limited branch banking if voters approve a constitutional amendment Nov. 4.

The three major banking groups in Texas, including one that represents holding companies and the other independent bankers, supported the legislation, saying it will inject new capital into Texas banks suffering from declining oil and agricultural markets.

But Tongate's group says holding companies from California and New York don't have the best interests of Texans in mind. It also says branch banking will prove more costly for consumers in the long run than the current system of unit banking.

Legislature revs up for action on speed-limit cap

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature is ready to follow possible congressional action raising the speed limit to 65 mph on rural highways, Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, said Friday.

When lawmakers conclude action on the $2.8 billion state deficit and "if time permits," Shaw said, Gov. Mark White might add the issue to the special session agenda. White supports the faster speed limit and Shaw said the governor's staff has helped him draft the appropriate legislation.

The U.S. Senate amended a highway spending bill Tuesday, allowing states to boost the speed limit by 10 mph on rural interstate highways. The measure awaits approval from a House-Senate conference committee.

In Austin, the House Transportation Committee approved Shaw's bill Friday. It would allow the state Highway and Public Transportation Commission to take action following congressional approval.

"If the feds change the law to allow the 65 mph on rural interstates, then we would be set...to allow that to take immediate effect," Shaw said. He said the highways were designed to safely permit speeds of up to 70 mph and the state's new mandatory seat-belt law would offset some of the additional injuries caused by high-speed accidents.

"States, particularly those with extensive intercity expanses and long cumulative driving distances, should have greater flexibility to set speed limits appropriate to major thoroughfares outside urban areas," Shaw wrote in a resolution asking the Texas congressional delegation to support the change.

House members vow to 'be there' for Lewis' $862 million tax hike

By JIM WARREN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — About 70 of the necessary 76 House members have told Speaker Gib Lewis they will vote for an $862 million tax increase today, and at least 10 said they "will be there if you need me."

Despite conservative House members' pledge to fight the bill, Lewis said he will cast the first "aye" vote. Supporters of the tax increase need a majority of the 150 members to pass the measure.

"No one likes a tax bill. I don't like a tax bill," Lewis said Friday. "We have to face up to reality and reality is if we don't have some kind of tax bill at this point that the state will run out of money in the next few months. And if they do that, we'll have to be writing hot checks or will not be able to pay our bills."

The tax bill would increase the state sales tax 1.125 cents on the the dollar, bring the rate to 5.25 cents. It also would raise the gasoline tax a nickel to 15 cents per gallon.

The speaker met with about 140 representatives Friday afternoon and his aides said they were still short of a majority but have "a lot of maybes."

"No doubt about it, it's going to be close," said Doc Arnold, a top aide to the speaker.

Lewis' support, however, did little to slow efforts by Republicans and conservative Democrats — who contend the state can wait until next year for a tax increase or cut spending to bridge the $2.8 billion shortfall — to stall or kill the tax bill.

Rep. Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason, said the top Democrat leaders — Gov. Mark White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and now Lewis — "have convinced legislators to support a tax increase by warning of "a collapse of governmental functions."

Geistweidt said he doesn't believe deeper budget cuts would dismantle state government. "But then I don't have the advantage of living in the fantasy land where 'White' knights ride 'Hobby' horses up the big rock candy mountain."

White, who proposed the temporary increase in the sales tax, met privately with at least 20 House members Friday and contacted another dozen by phone to lobby for the tax plan.

Bob Slagle, state Democratic Party chairman, met with Lewis and other Democratic House members Friday afternoon to help the lobbying effort.

Blind librarian smells, touches, hears her world

By GARY SHULTZ

DALLAS (AP) — She's never been where she works. The rows and rows of bookshelves, the polished reading tables, the bewildered patrons who wander up to her, looking for help.

But through her senses of smell, touch and hearing she knows the Dallas Public Library downtown as intimately as she would an old friend.

"Libraries have always intrigued me," says Cynthia Dickinson, who had been blind since birth in El Paso. "I like to read.

"Once I developed a vocabulary sufficient to read somthing more interesting than 'See Spot run,' it became a fascinating place for me. 'See Spot run' tends to lose a little bit without the pictures," she says.

Ms. Dickinson sits at the information desk on the ground floor, hands folded, eyes closed, listening.

"I sit there and look asleep," she says with a light laugh, "but I'm not. I must confess I do daydream some, but creative daydreaming is what got me through school. When the other students were supposed to be reading or doing their homework, and I didn't have the book in Braille, there was not a lot else for me to do."

There isn't much she doesn't know about the library. She knows the convoluted trail to the telephone books and which part of the mammoth library collection is housed on each floor.

She can help visitors find works of fiction or non-fiction and will gladly and accurately use the computer to track down the information they seek, if the patrons will just read the information off the computer terminal.

Her favorite piece of equipment is the Kursweiler Computer Reading Machine, a sophisticated visual scanner and voice synthesizer about the size of a two-drawer file cabinet. It can read aloud almost any book or magazine printed in common typeface.

Although she says it "sounds like a Scandinavian with a cold," it is as easy to understand as C3PO was in the movie "Star Wars."

Ms. Dickinson is admired by coworkers not only because she works at the library, but does so in a highly visible position. Jean Hudon, who works in the Texas history section and occasionally rides the bus with Ms. Dickinson, says: "She has a lot of what I think you would call chutzpah. She isn't afraid to go out and do things."

Ms. Dickinson uses the bus to commute from her home in Pleasant Grove, where she lives with two cats. "I'm primarily a homebody," she says.

"I like to read and putter around the yard. I don't have a (seeing eye) dog because I do not do a lot of outdoor traveling or travel to unfamiliar places. A cane does not have to be walked and fed and cared for," she says.

Her parents were determined to raise her in as normal an environment as possible. That included playing with the children in a Houston neighborhood where she grew up.

"I remember once," she says in good humor, "that one of them gave me a leaf to eat. I guess he thought that since I was blind, I wouldn't know the difference between that and something edible."

Ms. Dickinson can differentiate light from dark but had some trouble with colors.

"I can remember my father working on his thesis paper and discarding bunches and bunches of paper," she says. "I would pick them up and look at them. I could not distinguish the letters, but I could see uneven-looking lines on them, so that is what I was expecting to learn to read when I went to school.

"Of course, I was wrong."

Her parents transferred her from regular classes in the sixth grade, because they felt she was not being challenged. When the textbooks in Braille could not be found, her parents read to her. Her father taught her to use a typewriter, which she used in taking tests.

Plant's ammonia leak injures at least 10 people

STATE

FORT WORTH (AP) — An ammonia leak that spread toxic fumes through an oil processing plant in the Fort Worth Stockyards area Friday injured at least 10 people, five critically, authorities said.

A valve broke and leaked liquid ammonia, which immediately became gas and spread to a nearby area where several workers were on break, Fire Department spokesman Charlie McCafferty said.

The injured were taken to John Peter Smith and Harris hospitals in Fort Worth and St. Joseph Hospital in Dallas. Authorities said five patients were in critical condition, while two others were in good condition. No reports were available on the victims taken to Harris.

Authorities said the victims received respiratory burns during the leak shortly after 11 a.m. at the Bunge Edible Oil Corp. The spill occurred on the third floor of the five-story building.

Fire Capt. W.E. Dunkin said a large cloud of ammonia spewed out, trapping five employees in the break room a few feet from the valve.

"I work in the office on the third floor," said 32-year-old Debra Waldrop. "There were some construction workers from outside the company working. They hit and broke a valve...and ammonia came out and we got the heck out of there."

McCafferty said the situation was under control shortly before noon and rescue crews wearing protective gear were sent into the evacuated building to make sure no victims remained inside.

An employee was working on a 1-inch ammonia line with a pipe wrench when an attached half-inch line suddenly snapped, said District Fire Chief David Carr.

He said most employees who were overcome "were trapped in there before they knew it."

Carr said small amounts of ammonia were still coming out of the pipe at 12:10 p.m., and pockets of the gas remained throughout the plant. He said it took firefighters 15 minutes to turn off the ammonia line.

Authorities said more than a dozen pieces of fire equipment and at least 35 firefighters were dispatched to the leak.

Officials said an ammonia odor was strong blocks away from the leak and winds blew fumes over a large portion of the Stockyards area.

About 160 people work at the plant, which produces baking shortening, frying fats and margarine. Authorities said the plant was evacuated.

Ammonia in high enough concentrations can cause burns on the throat and lungs and even death, said Lena Day, director of the North Central Texas Poison Control Center.

The stockyards, which once handled livestock transactions, are now largely a tourist and entertainment area north of downtown.

Texas American loss linked to real estate loans

FORT WORTH (AP) — An $84 million loss by Texas American Bancshares Inc. in the third quarter this year, the largest such loss ever, will result in part from real estate lending problems, company officials said.

Officials of the bank holding company said on Thursday that the quarterly loss, coupled with a $21.9 million loss in the first quarter and a $565,000 profit in the second, will bring losses for the first nine months of this year to $105.3 million.

The latest loss resulted from a loan-loss provision of $91 million. Such a provision is subtracted from earnings and added to bank capital to provide a cushion against future loan losses.

Joseph M. Grant, Texas American chairman, said about 40 percent of the third-quarter loan-loss provision relates to real estate loans and 25 percent to energy loans.

"We see no end to the problems with real estate lending," said Grant.

He said the troubled real estate loans are in Houston, Fort Worth-Dallas and Austin, with apartment and condominium loans the most troublesome.

State fair has something for everyone

DALLAS (AP) — Dee DeLaigle didn't ride his bicycle three miles to the State Fair of Texas on opening day Friday for mere pleasure.

"I'm here because I'm going to buy a new car, and I can talk to somebody (at the car show)," he said. "I'm getting here before everything gets trampled.

"I come here every year (since 1967)," said DeLaigle, 33. This year is supposed to be the best...in my lifetime probably. I might see the exhibits. The other things make me sick."

The other things — a part of the "Texas 150" theme commemorating the state Sesquicentennial and the fair's 100th anniversary — include the 212-foot Texas Star, the tallest Ferris wheel in the Western hemisphere; a high-tech display from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration; a 32-member "Incredible Acrobats of China;" and another 40-person contingent from the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade.

Moreover, a collection of historical documents, including the original of the Texas Declaration of Independence and a copy of the Magna Charta, are on display this year.

Visitors also may view 17,000 square feet of pottery, furniture, jewelry, carpet and photo displays in the Fair Park's Centennial building at the China Pavilion. A replica of the Great Wall of China will mark the entrance to the exhibit.

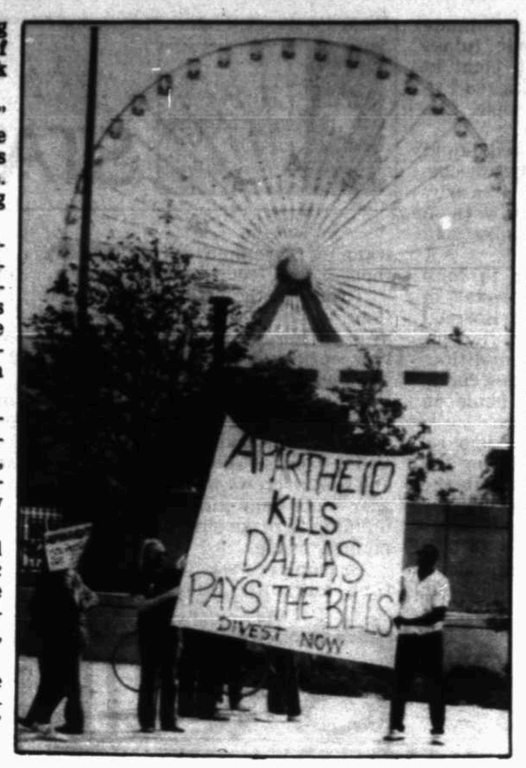
"I'm not one going for the rides," said William Lacke Jr., who came from Fort Madison, Iowa with his wife, Dorothy, to visit relatives. "We're looking forward to the seeing exhibits and shows."

At several entrances to the fairgrounds, the Lackes and an estimated 20,000 people attending the opening day of the fair also saw activists protest a variety of issues, mostly the City Council's refusal to support economic sanctions against South Africa.

"We're just here to raise the consciousness in a peaceful, demonstrative way," said Marvin Crenshaw, who has spoken out against apartheid during several heated City Council meetings.

About 3,000 to 4,000 people will participate in pickets and traffic jams in protests directed by the Rainbow Coalition Against Apartheid until the fair closes Oct. 26, Crenshaw said.

"We're here to educate the people that the city of Dallas refuses to impose sanctions against South Africa," he said.



Opponents of South African apartheid take their protest to the streets of Dallas Friday outside the State Fair of Texas . The group is protesting the Dallas City Council's refusal to enact economic sanctions against South Africa.

Will Bobby's return give viewers sweet dreams?

NEW YORK(AP) — Bobby Ewing didn't die, Pam just had a bad dream, and "Dallas" quickly moved on to other things as it started its ninth season on CBS Friday.

It took less than three minutes to exhume Bobby (Patrick Duffy) from the grave dug at the start of last season after Duffy tired of the show.

"It seemed so real," Pam said as Bobby emerged from the shower where he appeared at the end of last season.

"It's over. None of that happened," said Bobby.

Bobby's return on a two-hour special was the most successful if least believable video tease since the global mania about the "Who Shot J.R.?" cliffhanger on "Dallas" in 1980, and the most publicized of several "to be continued" stunts in the new television season.

Already this season, viewers have learned that Sam (Ted Danson) did propose to Diane (Shelley Long) on "Cheers," but she turned him down, then accepted and was turned down by him.

Next Friday comes CBS' "Falcon Crest," which ended last season with an earthquake shaking the winery, raising the possibility of one or more deaths.

NBC's "Saturday Night Live," which ended the season with the whole cast in a fire, has promised an announcement Sunday on its cast for this season.

Sometime in the future there will be an explanation of the season-ending wedding of Laura Holt (Stephanie Zimbalist) and Remington Steele (Pierce Brosnan), whenever NBC brings back the once-canceled series "Remington Steele."

In an ad promoting Bobby's return in this week's TV Guide, CBS said: "One of these is the right answer. He's a twin, he was revived at the last minute, it was all a dream, and he's an impostor. You've been guessing long enough! Tonight get a group of friends together and find out the truth!"

VETO

Reagan said the sanctions would hurt the very people they are intended to help. "Black workers — the first victims of apartheid — would become the first victims of American sanctions." He said that steps such as a ban on sugar imports would throw people out of work "and leave them and their families jobless and hungry in those segregated townships."

The 12 nations of the European Common Market earlier this month agreed to ban new investments in South Africa and to halt imports of South African iron, steel and gold coins. A ban on coal was considered but dropped at West Germany's insistence on the grounds that black miners would lose their jobs.

In addition to banning U.S. investment and bank loans, the vetoed legislation would terminate landing rights in this country for South African aircraft and prohibit U.S. imports of South African uranium, coal, steel, textiles, military vehicles, agricultural products and food.

"It is sad that the president persists in locking himself into a failed and lonely policy that has put America on the side of racism in South Africa," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. "Now it is up to Congress to override the veto and convince the world that America stands where it belongs — against apartheid and in the forefront of the struggle for a free South Africa."

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who broke with Reagan on the issue, called the bill "comprehensive and reasonable" and said he had hoped it would meet Reagan's objectives.

"I tried to persuade him to sign it," Lugar said.

TAX

Meanwhile, Rep. Tom Waldrop, D-Corsicana, and chairman of the Texas Conservative Coalition, said his group has pledges from more than 60 House members to vote against the tax bill if a requirement for a constitutional ban against state income taxes is not tacked onto the bill.

"We have seen attempts by the House to seriously address state spending and to control taxes fall victim to Senate action and we feel very strongly that if there is to be a tax bill," Waldrop said, "there should be some reciprocal action from the Senate on this important constitutional amendment which has passed the House twice."

But Lewis said he will oppose any effort to make the tax increase contingent upon the Senate sending the voters a constitutional amendment banning income taxes. "I don't think that's the way you're supposed to do your business and I'm opposed to it," the speaker said.

Also today, the House will vote to accept or to refuse the budget-reduction package ironed out by a House-Senate conference committee. The joint committee agreed to cut $511.7 from the state budget, considerably less than the House wanted.

Rep. Bill Blanton, R-Farmers Branch, said he will lead a movement to send the budget-cutting bill back to the conference committee for more reductions. But even fellow Republicans expect that move to fail.

"The Senate really has no reason to accept more (cuts) because basically we rolled over and played dead every time they wanted something," said Rep. John Willy, R-Angleton.

Also, the House Calenders Committee placed the so-called "Super Tuesday" presidential primary bill on today's agenda. The bill would move Texas' presidential primary to March, a move backers say will give Texas more clout in selecting the president.

A similar bill failed last year, mostly because of Republican opposition. But Vice President George Bush has endorsed the concept and that helped woo many Republicans to support the bill.

The Senate passed the "Super Tuesday" bill earlier in the session.

Female literacy linked to lower birth rate

NEW YORK (AP) — As female literacy rates go up, birth rates decline.

Studies by the World Fertility Survey show that in underdeveloped countries, women with secondary schooling tend to have two to three fewer children than uneducated women.

The study found that literacy has a greater influence on the number of children a woman has than any other factor, including income level.

Chernobyl warns against nuclear war, doctors say

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — The experience of Chernobyl proves that it would be nearly impossible to treat the victims of a nuclear war, three visiting Soviet doctors warned Friday.

But the doctors said closing down nuclear power stations was not the way to avoid repeats of the April 26 accident. The disaster killed at least 31 people, officials have said, and another 203 people are acutely ill from severe radiation exposure, according to the doctors.

The physicians are on a national tour to share the lessons of Chernobyl with American physicians and speak against the dangers of nuclear war.

Dr. Alexander Baranov, deputy director of the Moscow hospital that treated most of the Chernobyl victims, said Friday that bone marrow transplants were not as successful as many had expected.

Soviet emigre makes it to U.S. — at a price

AUSTIN (AP) — After years of harassment by Soviet authorities, Pavel Timonin has made it to the United States, but he was forced to leave his daughters behind.

Interviewed at his sister's home in Austin during a family reunion this week, Timonin recounted his difficulties in the Soviet Union.

He was forced from one job to another, harassed by the KGB, denounced as a "false Christian" in the Moscow press, represented to his children as a traitor, threatened with arrest and separated from his sister and mother.

But he said he never gave up hopes of emigrating, and the fight ended suddenly.

He and his wife were given three days to leave the Soviet Union. No passports, no citizenship, no money. The KGB showed up in strength at Sheremetyevo Airport to keep them separated from anyone who came to see them off.

In Austin, Timonin was reunited with his mother and sister, but his two teen-age daughters remain in Moscow with his former wife.

"We left the Soviet Union on Israeli invitations," he said, referring to a common practice in which the Soviets do not have to acknowledge their country is being rejected in favor of the United States.

"OVIR (the Soviet emigration agency) said if we went to a country other than Israel, I would not receive any letters from my children. They said, 'You'll never be able to write them, and you will never be able to come to the Soviet Union as tourists.' They try to brainwash the kids, to represent their dad as a traitor," he said.

"The kids said they would write letters, but it is doubtful I will get them."

Timonin and his wife, members of Pentecostal congregations that refuse to comply with the Soviet government's requirement to register, left Moscow in May. They arrived in the United States in July, settling near Boston.

Timonin believes he was permitted to emigrate because his many activities, including vocal membership in Moscow's unauthorized peace group, attracted attention in the West.

Timonin's mother, sister, her husband and their three children left Moscow a year ago, after a 5½-year wait for permission.

Under sponsorship of several local residents, they settled in Austin last November.

STATE IN BRIEF

Beryllium mine in works

AUSTIN (AP) — A Pennsylvania company and the General Land Office are working to finalize agreement for mining the rare metal beryllium in West Texas.

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro says the company would be mining the metal on state-owned land in Hudspeth County.

An agreement was reached last week which will mean about $400,000 in royalties annually to the Permanent School Fund, which helps finance Texas public schools, Mauro said.

Mike Connolly, spokesman for Mauro, said the state and the company have "a general agreement but not a contract yet."

Until a contract is signed, he said, details would not be released.

The state owns surface and mineral rights to hundreds of thousands of acres of land

Game canceled after deaths

EL PASO (AP) — Two students remained hospitalized Friday after an accident that left two people dead and forced the cancellation of a high school football game, authorities said.

Joe Feliz, 16, was in serious condition in the critical care unit at Sierra Medical Center, hospital assistant administrator Craig Keffeler said.

The boy's 15-year-old brother, Raymondo Feliz, was in guarded condition in the intensive care unit at Thomason General Hospital, said hospital spokeswoman Jeryl Marcus.

The Feliz brothers are halfbacks with the Tornillo High School football team. A game scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday between Tornillo, a small town 42 miles east of El Paso, and Marathon High School had to be canceled, said principal Harry Eskew.

Alberto Hernandez, 17, a sophomore at Tornillo, and Ignacio Rivera, 27, the driver of the vehicle, died at the accident scene, said Trooper Jose Flores.

Pension funds taken over

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government moved Friday to take over one unfunded LTV Corp. pension plan and was told by the second largest steelmaker to be prepared to take over another underfunded plan in January.

The federal Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. filed a petition in U.S. District Court in New York to terminate and take over as trustee an LTV plan covering 8,800 salaried workers and pensioners who worked for Republic Steel Corp. before it was merged into LTV in 1984.

Meanwile, LTV's board of directors on Tuesday notified the PBGC that it intends to terminate another pension plan covering 13,000 salaried workers in January.

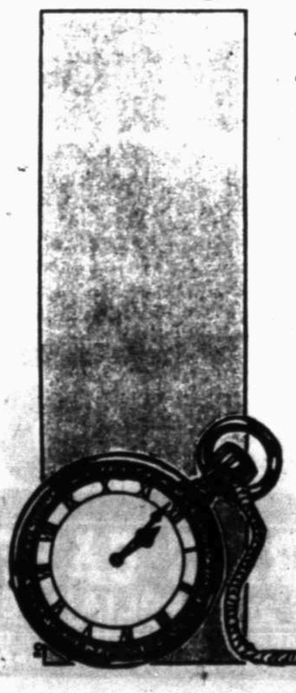
WATCHES



Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

'Designer wedding' comes off smoothly at Rome's city hall

ROME (AP) — Nothing came between the bride and her Calvin when fashion designer Calvin Klein and his design assistant Kelly Rector kissed for photographers after their wedding Friday at Rome's city hall.

Rector, Klein

The bride, wearing a cream-colored formal suit, tossed her bouquet of white roses and orchids to a female friend, then stopped to answer questions from reporters after the couple emerged from a side door into the broad 17th-century square designed by Michelangelo.

Asked who designed her wedding outfit, Miss Rector responded, "Calvin, of course."

Klein, in a gray wool suit, said they planned to visit friends in Italy before returning to New York.

The marriage, performed by a city civil servant, was the second for Klein, 43, and the first for Rector, in her 30s.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Former Sen. J. William Fulbright said the international educational exchange program he started 40 years ago is "possibly our only hope for the survival and further progress of humanity."

Fulbright

The 81-year-old statesman spoke Thursday on the future of the Fulbright Exchange Program during Brown University's two-day celebration of the opening of its Institute for International Studies.

Fulbright was a freshman Democratic senator from Arkansas when he introduced legislation authorizing the exchange of students and teachers between nations in 1945. Since then, the program has grown to encompass 28 countries and more than 156,000 men and women have become "Fulbrighters."

The university awarded Fulbright an honorary law degree for his contribution to the development of international research and teaching.

BOSTON (AP) — Prime Minister Robert Mugabe of Zimbabwe will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree during a special convocation next Wednesday, a spokeswoman for the University of Massachusetts said Friday.

Mugabe

Mugabe, who led the former white-ruled British African colony to independence in 1980, will be honored one day after he speaks before the United Nations as the newly elected chairman of the 101-member non-aligned nation movement.

University Chancellor Joseph Duffey said Mugabe is being recognized because of his success in rebuilding an economy ravaged by years of guerrilla warfare and economic sanctions and "has laid the foundations for racial harmony."

Mugabe became embroiled in controversy in July following remarks made by one of his Cabinet ministers.

On July 4, former President Carter walked out of a reception at the U.S. Embassy in Harare, Zimbabwe, after Cabinet minister David Kariamazira attacked the Reagan administration's refusal to impose far tougher sanctions on South Africa.

Mugabe later made a personal apology to Carter, but refused to apologize to the U.S. government. His refusal led to a cutoff of $13.5 million in new bilaterial aid to Zimbabwe.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor has been hospitalized for pain and infection following a tooth extraction, her physician said Friday.

Miss Taylor, 54, was admitted Thursday to Hospital of the Good Samaritan near downtown, Dr. Robert Thompson said.

Miss Taylor's increasing discomfort from the Sunday extraction on her upper left jaw "could not be managed on an out-patient basis," Thompson said in a statement released by Miss Taylor's publicist, Chen Sam.

"I anticipate the hospitalization to be of a short duration," the statement said.

Miss Taylor had been scheduled to undergo the extraction Saturday, but put it off for one day so she could attend a fund-raising show in which she received an award for her activities in raising research funds to fight the disease AIDS.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Burt Reynolds' personal manager, David Gershenson, said Friday "someone is going out of his way to hurt Burt" by spreading rumors that he is ill with AIDS.

The latest rumors have Reynolds confined to the National Institute of Health Hospital in Washington, Gershenson said. The rumor has even reached the floor of Congress.

Gershenson said he believes the rumors are being maliciously spread by a person who is out to hurt the actor.

"This is not a casual thing," he said. "Someone is spreading it at a high level. I'm told the calls are anonymous, which should tell you something about their reliability."

"Burt Reynolds is working six days a week making a movie in Vancouver, Canada," said Gershenson. "He just finished another movie and is going to start a third movie in November. He has been on television in Canada, he has given interviews. A lot of people have seen him in Vancouver."

Rumors that Reynolds has AIDS have been circulating for more than a year. Prior to the current rumors that he is in a Washington hospital, the reports were that he was in a Houston hospital, a New York hospital and the UCLA Medical Center in Los Angeles.

"The rumors are not just that he's sick," said Gershenson. "They're that he is sick with AIDS, which is a double whammy. That's a disease that's associated with homosexuals and intravenous drug users. The implication is that he's homosexual or a drug user. Both are absolutely untrue."

Reynolds is currently working in a movie called "Malone," starring for Orion Pictures with Lauren Hutton and Cliff Robertson. He previously starred in "Heat," written by William Goldman from his novel.

"If we find the person who is spreading these rumors we will take whatever legal remedies are possible," said Gershenson. "But I don't know how we can find out this kind of thing."

Trainer: 95 percent of American dogs are bored stiff, have no purpose in life

By CATHERINE DRESSLER

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — Don't let sleeping dogs lie. Teach them new tricks, says a trainer who believes American pooches are bored stiff.

"Ninety-five percent of the dogs in America don't have enough purpose in life," said Barbara Bocci, owner of Trainers Obedience Center Inc. "They're bored and frustrated.

"All of the dogs who live in America have had their work taken away. They no longer herd. They don't pull sleds. They're unemployed.

"They have nothing to do for 24 hours a day. The biggies are when the owners come home, when they get fed and maybe if they're lucky, they get to go for a walk."

A bored dog is likely to take out its frustration by barking, chewing, digging or making a mess on the floor, she said.

Bocci, who has a staff of 25 that sees about 400 dogs a week in suburban Detroit clinics, specializes in working with dogs with severe behavior problems.

She isn't advising that owners evict a jobless pup. Instead, teach it to sit, lay and fetch, among other things.

"Obedience gives dogs purpose," she said. "It puts them back to work."

"When the family sits down for dinner, you have him sit for a half hour," she said. "That's his job.

"When he is through doing his job, he's going to get a treat. He's going to be cuddled. He'll be told he's loved."

When a dog is trained, he's able to go more places, she said.

"I take my dog to the carwash with me, to baseball games" she said of her Airedale terrier. "It gets him out. My dog isn't bored because he's going through life with me."

Newspaper articles that shaped life pasted into notebooks for posterity

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — It's sometimes said that news is history in the making, and 93-year-old Mary Lindner is doing her part to make history of the news.

Ms. Lindner's hobby is clipping daily newspaper articles and sorting them into history books that she intends to pass on to her grandchildren.

She uses 12-by-14-inch notebooks filled with news accounts, some dating to her childhood, to jog her memory of events that shaped her life.

"I think it's so great to be in the world," she said. "I think it's good to put away things that have been done, but it's got to be somewhere where I can see it so I won't forget about it. It's worth a lot — what we had when we were young."

She said her fascination with saving articles began when she was a child studying history in school. Now, however, it is tough for Lindner to continue her hobby because she has cataracts, making it difficult to read.

But that is only one of the obstacles disrupting her project, she said. She often finds it difficult, she said, to know which articles to keep and when she has enough to keep the continuity in her notebooks flowing. She said she makes her decisions by guessing which subjects are of interest to her friends and relatives.

As a result, she said it takes her "years" to complete each notebook while the articles collect dust in category piles stacked on her bookshelf.

She said she only has completed five books. "I have never counted the pages," she said, explaining the books "look like accordians tied with ribbon."

The topics of her collection include U.S. presidents, the Iranian hostage crisis and the Space Shuttle explosion.

Some also hit closer to home — Fredericksburg, where she was born.

In North Texas, partly cloudy and breezy through Sunday with widely scattered to scattered thunderstorms. Otherwise warm and humid. Highs 92 to 95. Lows 73 to 77.

In West Texas, widely scattered to isolated late afternoon and evening thunderstorms mainly southeast through Saturday night; otherwise mostly fair but some late night and early morning cloudiness.

In South Texas, mostly cloudy mornings west and central; otherwise partly cloudy and warm through Sunday. Widely scattered daytime thundershowers, mainly southeast and along the coast. Lows in the 70s except near 80 at the coast.

Skies will be fair for Basin over weekend

From Staff and Wire Reports

Fair skies are expected through the weekend as summer-like temperatures continue across the Permian Basin.

A forecaster with the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal said today will be fair, with some early morning low clouds expected. The high will be near 90 and winds will be from the southwest at 10 to 20 mph and gusty.

Tonight and Sunday will be fair, with a low in the mid-60s and a high in the upper 80s.

Friday's high of 87 was 18 degrees cooler than the record of 105, set in 1977. The low of 64 was 22 degrees warmer than the record of 42, set in 1942.

STATE

Scattered thunderstorms and isolated showers dotted most of East Texas Friday after heavy downpours across the Hill Country washed away cars and flooded highways.

A very heavy thunderstorms developed in Southeast Texas, while other storms were scattered over the Gulf of Mexico along the coast. In West Texas, a few scattered showers developed in the low rolling plains.

Earlier Friday, thunderstorms dumped around 9 inches of rain on parts of Kerr County in the Hill Country. No serious injuries or damage was reported, but floodwaters washed away cars from a parking lot just west of Hunt, authorities said.

Department of Public Safety dispatcher R.D. Wallace said a 9.1-inch downpour was reported at a ranch house west of Hunt and other areas in the Hill Country reported up to 4 inches.

Portions of Texas Highway 39, Texas Highway 41 and Farm to Market Road 1340 were closed early Friday after low-lying areas were flooded, the DPS said.

NATION

Thunderstorms whipped the Great Lakes region with winds up to 50 mph Friday, while workers sandbagged the Milk River in northern Montana where up to 8 inches of rain in 18 hours caused widespread flooding.

Showers and thunderstorms were over much of the upper Ohio Valley and from northern Illinois to central Oklahoma, and were widely scattered over the Southeast.

Rain and snow showers were scattered across the Western states, with locally heavy snow at higher elevations.

The storms carried hail, high winds and torrents of rain as they swept across Wisconsin.

Lee stampedes Midland in district opener

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

It was billed as a big game between two unbeaten teams looking for a good start on the District 4-5A season.

There was a sellout crowd of approximately 10,500 on hand for what was expected to be a good game, a close game. It was anything but "as expected."

Midland Lee so thoroughly dominated Midland High at Memorial Stadium Friday night the game was over by halftime when the Rebels held a 31-0 lead. Lee ended up with a 38-6 victory.

However, the game wasn't as close as the final score may indicate. The 32-point rout could have been a lot worse had the Rebel attack not slowed down in the second half.

"You've got to give Lee a tremendous amount of credit," said Bulldog head coach Doug McCutchen. "They controlled the line of scrimmage. They came out and took it to us. They whipped us on the offensive line and whipped us on the defensive line."

And, the Rebels whipped the Bulldogs in big plays, mostly from a seldomly seem broken wishbone formation that produced two touchdowns from their first nine plays of the game for a 14-0 lead.

"I always said we were going to open it up more and we used a lot of formations with the broken bone," said Lee boss Earl Miller. "We want to be a type of team that you can't line up nine men on us at the line of scrimmage. We've got the type of backs that we can do a lot of things with.

"I've never been so proud of a bunch of kids," continued Miller. "They played super. They were ready to play."

AND, PLAY the Rebels did, scoring the first four times they touched the ball and five of the first six.

The Bulldogs got the ball first when return man Anthony Adkison threatened to put six up early, breaking the opening kickoff from two-yards deep in the end zone to the Rebel 33-yard line. Instead of a touchdown lead, the Bulldogs ended up turning the ball over on four downs, giving Lee the ball on its own 27.

Two plays later, Johnson busted around left on the keeper and sprinted untouched 53 yards into the end zone. Kicker Jeff Connally booted the first of his five extra points of the game for a 7-0 lead with 8:42 left in the first quarter.

Four minutes later, after the Rebel defense held Midland High on fourth-and-inches on the Bulldog 29, Johnson scooted across the goal line from one yard out for a 14-0 lead.

The third time Lee got the football, Johnson failed to score a TD. Instead, the 160-pound senior quarterback found tight end Jack Chase wide open for a 48-yard touchdown pass. It was the third score of the first quarter and two more would be notched before the halftime buzzer.

The final first half TD was a 25-yard run by Rebel halfback Durian Jenkins and the final points came on a 35-yard field goal by Connally.

The only time Midland High's defense managed to stop Lee in the first 24 minutes was when Bulldog cornerback Jaime Madrid intercepted Jenkins' halfback pass on Lee's fifth possession.

After playing shutout ball in the third quarter, the Rebels once again broke across the goal line when Jenkins scored on a 19-yard run with 11:31 remaining in the game. Connally made it 38-0, where it remained until the final seconds of play.

In a desperation attempt to avoid the shutout, Midland High mounted a drive in the final minutes and, had it not been for a pass interference penalty on fourth down, the Bulldog drive would have stalled at the MHS 43.

Instead, it was first down on the Lee 42 and, after a five-yard sack on Madrid, the Bulldog quarterback let fly with a Hail Mary pass to split end Michael Ball, who went up against a pair of Rebel defenders and came down on his feet with the ball.

The Rebel defenders went to the ground and Ball strolled into the end zone with 19 seconds left on the clock. The ensuing point after attempt was blocked.

THE VICTORY gives the Rebels a 4-0 record on the season and, more importantly, a 1-0 start in 4-5A play. The Bulldogs fell to 3-1 on the year, 0-1.

There can be no doubt in anyone's mind who was better prepared for the game. Lee came out smoking from the first tick of the clock and never let up.

"We've been talking about this all week," said Johnson. "It was a total team effort. It wasn't just me or anyone else. It was a team win."

"The coaches got us prepared," said Jenkins. "We knew we would do this against the No. 1 defense in the league."

On the other side of the ball, Rebel defensive lineman Greg Bick had a few thoughts on the Bulldogs previously No. 1 defense.

Thompson, Loboes spoil Crane party

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

CRANE — Charles Thompson is one person you wouldn't want to invite to a Homecoming party.

The Golden Cranes found that out Friday night as Thompson racked up 211 yards and five touchdowns to lead Monahans to a 49-12 rout of Crane. The Cranes are now off to a 1-3 start with unbeaten Stanton on the slate next week.

Thompson, a junior, reeled off scoring runs of 53, 5, 33 and 1 yards — and that was just in the first half. The 5-7, 160 speedster then added a 47-yarder in the second half to reach his goal of 200 yards.

"I really wanted to reach 200 yards tonight, and I did it for the first time," Thompson said. "The offensive line did a real good job, they were coming off their blocks well. We were ready to go."

Thompson's feat was all the more amazing when you consider that he carried the ball just 10 times. That's a whopping 21.1 average gain. Throw in 72 yards on three pass receptions and 50 yards on punt and kickoff returns, Thompson's total yardage figure reaches 333 yards and 20.8 yards each time he touched the ball.

Crane coach Rickey White could do little but watch and marvel at Thompson's speed, moves and cutback ability.

"He's the best back I've ever seen and I'm so happy, I get to see him again next year because we've got a two-year contract with these guys," White said.

"We just couldn't catch their back. I felt like we played a good ballgame and never quit. Then you look up at the score and..."

MONAHANS COACH Bren Holland is making a splash in his first season as the Loboes field boss with a 3-0 record and backs like Thompson and running mate Dana Amos.

Amos, a senior, was nearly as brilliant as Thompson, but was eclipsed by his junior backfield partner. Amos carried for 110 yards and one touchdown in 15 carries.

"With the types of backs like Amos and Thompson, we expect to see them break a long run now and again," Holland said. "But a lot of that credit has to go to the offensive line.

Rebel Express spoils sellout for Bulldogs

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

That first half blurrrr at Memorial Stadium Friday night was the Midland Lee Rebels looking like a runaway Orient Express with no intentions of putting on the breaks. And, talking to Lee's happy passengers gives the impression that this train had no room for Bulldogs walking across the tracks.

It was an awesome display of Rebel offensive and defensive strategy before the first sellout crowd in the 26-year history of the Midland High-Lee series, and the Rebs weren't about to apologize for the 38-6 rout in a game that drew major media attention this week.

"I really expected that it would be this type of game," noted Lee coach Earl Miller. "I don't know, maybe we shouldn't have pulled back late in the game. Maybe we should have scored some more.

"I think our kids got tired of seeing all those signs all week and reading about how bad they were. You get tired of that after a while. People were talking about how bad the Rebels were, but we got the kids ready to play and they did a super job of meeting the challenge."

The Lee onslaught was convincing. The Rebels churned out 328 first half yards while scoring 31 points. They very seldom ran from the straight wishbone. They ran with two-back sets, one-back sets and no-back sets. The result was scores five of the first six times they touched the ball.

Defensively, the Rebels played with more emotion than has been seen in three previous games. The Lee defenders were devastating to the speedy after burners owned by MHS.

Rebel defensive lineman Greg Bick said, "I've never felt better than this. I can't describe it. We knew Midland High had a lot of speed, but we felt they were small and couldn't run inside. It was just up to us to stop the outside running game and I think we did that."

Linebacker John Kendrick added, "We respected the Bulldogs a whole lot, but I guess they didn't respect us enough. We play pretty good defense, too."

Lee quarterback Rodney Johnson felt like this game was a reprieve for him after playing what he considered his worst game ever last week against El Paso Eastwood. He was a dominant force against MHS.

"I was really upset with the way I played last week and I didn't want something like that to happen again against Midland High at home. I got my mind on the game early this week and got ready to play. I feel like a new person," Johnson said.

Defensive lineman Dejuan Norris wore a towel that said "Dog Catcher." "Me and the rest of the pound got after it. I said all week that we would do this."

For Lee halfback Joe Woodard, this was only a step toward a bigger goal.

"It's district play now and we executed like we know we can. I'm ready for some more. This is exciting."

Bick added, "We played to our potential and if we keep this intensity, we will be a contender for the playoffs. But we have to maintain this level of play."

For the Bulldogs, it was a massive setback. Midland High expected to throw up a major challenge to the Rebels while playing before one of the largest crowds to see an MHS game in many years.

Now the Bulldogs face the task of picking up the pieces and traveling to Odessa Permian next weekend to face the state's No. 2 ranked team. Can they meet that challenge.

"We sure hope so. It's definitely going to be tough. We thought this would be a close game but it didn't turn out so," said MHS coach Doug McCutchen. "We've just got to bounce back and get ready for Permian.

"I think we were ready to play Lee but we just weren't able to execute like we hoped we would."

The Bulldogs are almost now in a "must win" situation with Permian and San Angelo the next two weeks on the schedule. This schedule even takes on a darker look with the confidence level down after the thrashing by Lee.

Lee, on the other hand, has given its junior-ladened squad a major morale boost, and right now, they want the world to know it. They didn't wait for a press agent to tone down any words after this victory, which was the Rebels' 10th in the last 11 meetings with the Bulldogs.

No. 1....winner or loser?

It's seems a little early in the season to be crowning the 1986 national champion, but that's the billing today's Oklahoma-Miami game in Miami is receiving.

The question is whether the winner or loser will reign over the college realm at the season's end. You'll remember that last year Miami won the meeting and Oklahoma was invited to the coronation.

As for the likely winner, the home field will play a big role in determining the outcome. Last year the game was at Norman and this year it is at Miami. I'll leave to the reader to figure out the significance. The way I analyze it, this year's game is at Miami and there are some empty seats as kickoff approaches. If it were at Norman, the scalpers would be rolling in dough.

And how excited can the Sooners get over a trip to Miami? Isn't that where they wind up every New Year's Day, or at least the New Year's Days Nebraska doesn't make it?

As for No. 1, don't write off Washington too early, at least not before the USC game. Wasn't it Washington that kept Oklahoma from a national championship two years ago?...

In the SWC...

Texas Tech plus 9 over Baylor- Wounded Bears can be dangerous, but this is in Lubbock.

Southern Mississippi plus 15 1/2 over Texas A&M- This originally looked like another off date like last week's, but OPEN is not spelled SMU and that's a lot of points to give the team that beat Mississippi State, the team that beat Tennessee.

Texas Christian plus 11 over Southern Methodist- Living wreckiessly.

Houston minus 4 over Tulsa- provided Mark Davis starts.

The Blockbusters...

Oklahoma minus 4 1/2 over Miami- Sooners No. 1 until proven otherwise or they play Washington.

USC plus 5 over Washington- The way Huskies have been playing, why is it when I look down I get the feeling it's a long way to the ground?

Rutgers plus 2 over Syracuse- I've got my blockbusters and you've got your blockbusters, and when will people start taking the Scarlet Knights seriously?

Princeton plus 17 1/2 over Northwestern- The Ivy League vs. one of those Big 10 football factories.

Tennessee plus nine over Auburn- Surely Vols are better than they showed on TV a couple of weeks ago.

The others...

Purdue plus 16 over Notre Dame- In a rivalry like this, anybody'd be loco to give that many points.

Clemson minus 2 1/2 over Georgia Tech- Clemson beat Georgia and Georgia Tech tied Furman.

Wyoming plus 8 over Wisconsin— This is for Wyoming fan Bob Brundage. I really don't think Cowboys will do it, but Bob gave up smoking last winter and I'd like to make feel good.

Like to play with lots of points...

East Carolina plus 28 1/2 over Penn State- Joe Paterno is compassionate.

Nebraska minus 36 1/2 over Oregon- Isolated Huskers need to win big for ratings race.

The pros...

Dolphins minus 3 1/2 over 49ers- Miami will score a bunch and give up a bunch, but without Joe Montana it's questionable whether 49ers can score a big enough bunch.

Cowboys minus 6 over Cardinals- St. Louis sans Stump Mitchell.

New England plus three over Denver- Patriots bounce back.

Tampa Bay plus six over Atlanta- Buccaneers catch Falcons in post-Dallas victory celebration.

Buffalo minus 2 over Kansas City- Amazing how much more exciting Jim Kelly makes Bills.

ABILENE — Odessa Permian must have remembered the lone smudge on its lone District 4-5A record in 1985 because Abilene High paid for it Friday night as the Panthers pounded out a 41-7 victory in the district opener for both teams.

A year ago the Eagles pulled off a 7-7 upset tie against the Panthers, the only non-win the Panthers suffered until the 5A state championship game in December.

Shawn Crow led the Panthers with a 120-yard effort on 17 carries for two touchdowns, his first giving Permian a 7-0 lead in the first quarter. Permian jumped out to a 14-0, margin on Albert Jordan's one-yard TD run.

The Eagles cut the margin to 14-7 on Jon Davis' 10-yard run and Trey Forkerway's kick, but it was as close as they would come as the Panthers followed with four unanswered TDs.

The Panthers are now 4-0 on the year and 1-0 in 4-5A play while Abilene falls to 1-3, 0-1.

ODESSA — Abilene Cooper scored a stunning 14-10 upset of Odessa High, pouncing on Broncho mistakes for both scores at W.T. Barrett Stadium Friday night in a District 2-5A opener.

The outcomes gives both teams 2-2 records for the season.

Odessa missed an opportunity to pull it out in the final 33 seconds when a punt hit a Cooper defender and Rusty Smith recovered at the Cougar 29, but OHS couldn't capitalize.

A 48-yard pass set up Quarterback Albert Spencer's one-yard TD two seconds into the second period as OHS went in front 7-0, but with 2:01 left in the half Bob Brown passed to Scotty Pugh for a six-yard TD and Jeff Ireland converted to tie it. A fumble recovery at the OHS 41 set up the TD.

Odessa's Toby Burts kicked a 30-yard field goal with 8:53 left in the third period as the Hosses went in front 10-7.

Odessa took a punt, but fumbled in the end zone and guard Mark McBride fell on it for a Cooper touchdown with 2:36 left in the third period.

The Bronchos travel to the Tall City next week to take on Midland Lee, while Cooper has Wichita Falls Hirschi in an open 4-5A date.

SAN ANGELO — The high powered San Angelo Bobcats did little to hurt that image Friday night, rolling to a 38-0 victory over Hobb, N.M., here.

The Bobcats rolled to 325 rushing yards and 29 passing while holding Hobbs to a mere 54 total yards. They forced the Eagles to punt the ball nine times and took it away with two fumble recoveries.

The victory gives San Angelo a 4-0 record on the year and keeps their mark perfect as they head into their first District 4-5A game next week, hosting Abilene High at San Angelo Stadium.

LOBOES

"Nate Petty, Abel Garcia, Lonny Cox, Britt Grigry and Kevin Linsman, they're all fighters. The kind of guys you need to have in the trenches. They're not afraid to come right at you and finish the game with their uniforms all dirty."

The Cranes, who had country singer Larry Gatlin joining in pre-game Homecoming activities, had hoped to make a respectable showing against the Loboes, a Class 4A school after a disappointing, injury-plagued 1-2 start.

But the undermanned Cranes were in the game for less than a full quarter, despite scoring first taking advantage of a Lobo fumble deep in Crane territory.

Cliff Wilson put together runs of 9, 20 and 47 yards to set up the first Crane score, a two-yard plunge by sophomore Sharod Vaden. It was the first time Monahans had trailed all season.

AND THOUGH Crane would end with some fairly impressive offensive stats — 245 yards rushing, 11 first downs — the Loboes quickly put an end to any hopes of a Crane uprising.

On their next possession, the Loboes needed only three plays to take the lead for good. Thompson broke wide right and cut back to midfield on a 47-yard scamper and Jimmy Kight booted the first of seven extra points for a 7-6 Monahans lead.

Crane's Gerald Mitchell, despite a broken thumb and a stress fracture in his foot, ran for 105 yards on 17 carries. Wilson also had a big night, rushing for 116 yards on just 14 carries.

"I really feel like the game was much tougher than the score indicated," Holland said. "They were a good physical team... It was hard to put any long drives together on them. I feel like if they can overcome the injury bug, they're going to win a lot of games this year."

LEE

"Midland High had the No. 1 defense going into this game and we wanted to prove that we can play defense, too. The coaches got us prepared and we knew this was going to happen."

In all, the Lee defense held Midland High to only 81 yards in the first half and to 214 for the game. The Bulldogs managed 120 yards passing in the final two quarters to make the numbers more respectable, but managed only 34 total rushing yards.

NM commission stalls Silver City bid

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The State Racing Commission on Friday deferred action on a proposal to approve a new horse racing facility at Silver City, saying it wants to see the results of a study on the horse racing industry in New Mexico.

The commission also postponed approval of racing dates for the spring meet at The Downs at Albuquerque pending completion of the economic study being done by the national accounting firm of Price Waterhouse.

There are currently six horse racing facilities in operation in New Mexico. While proponents of the Silver City track have said it will give the southwest corner of the state an economic boost, opponents contend the state is saturated now with horse racing.

In other action during its meeting Friday, the commission ruled it had found no evidence of wrongdoing in the case of a 2-year-old colt that tested positive for an illegal drug following the running of the $2.5 million All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

Veteran trainer Jack Brooks and veterinarian Jack Salas of Ruidoso testified during a hearing conducted by Commissioner Gary Mitchell.

Brooks was the trainer of Some Power Play, one of the finalists in the rich futurity that was run Sept. 1 at Ruidoso Downs. The horse became ill following the race and died three days later.

Salas said he administered four types of drugs to Some Power Play after being called to treat the animal following the race. He said the dosages and drugs included 10 ccs. of phenylbutzone, or bute, 10 ccs. of Banamine, 4 ccs. of turbegesic, and 1 cc. of Rompun. The first three drugs are pain killers and Rompun is a tranquilizer.

Salas also submitted an affidavit stating none of the drugs were administered prior to the All-American Futurity.

Connors gains net semifinals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jimmy Connors, seeking his first title since 1984, moved into the semifinals of the $289,000 Transamerica Open tennis tournament Friday with a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Peter Lundgren of Sweden.

The 34-year-old Connors, seeded No. 2, will play third-seeded Anders Jarryd, on Saturday. Jarryd broke open his quarterfinal match against David Pate of Las Vegas, Nev., with a sharp serve-and-volley game, winning 7-5, 6-2.

Forsan surprises Rangers, 24-14

LANCE STEWART
MRT Correspondent

GREENWOOD — Despite the efforts of a staunch Greenwood team and a pack of raging mosquitoes, the Forsan Buffaloes dominated the Rangers to up their record to 4-0 with a 24-14 win Friday night.

The tool the Buffs used to go home with this victory came in the form of Wayne Wright. This kid can do it all. He was the leading rusher of the game, caught several leaping passes, and even threw a 20-yard pass on a flea-flicker.

And as if that weren't enough, he went on to kick three successful extra-points and a field goal.

It's not that Wright is surpassingly graceful, nor is he overwhelmingly fast. In fact, on the field he is almost slow — bullish in his running style.

But if this was a bull on the field, Wright was a bull in a china shop. He just seems to make things happen.

EARLY IN the first quarter it seemed to be stacking up as an evenly matched game, as both defenses held their respective offenses to little or no yardage. The only score of the early-goings came on a 17-yard Wright field goal.

It appeared that the story would remain the same, when Greenwood stopped the Buffs short of a touchdown and out of field goal range. However, a faked Forsan punt led to a touchdown pass, making the score 10-0.

As it turned out, this Brant Nichols to Lee Morris connection spelled defeat for the Greenwood Rangers, as both of Forsan's two remaining touchdowns came during the second quarter, for a 24-0 halftime lead.

Whatever it was that Greenwood coach Maurice Hodges said to his boys at the half, brought them out from the locker room a different ball club.

The Rangers sustained their first drive of the night to march down field with just over nine minutes remaining in the third quarter for a score, and quaterback Glen Teal ran in the two-point conversion to inch the Rangers a little closer at 24-8.

Later in the third, still with a big lead, Forsan attempted a fourth down conversion, but failed to convert, giving Greenwood the ball early in the fourth quarter with a chance to pull itself back in the game.

But then the Ranger game began to fall apart, coming up with every bad break imaginable.

The prowess of Teal's almost magic arm was useless as a potential touchdown fell dead on the ground, having slipped through receiver Robert Donnel's hands. This was then followed by another incomplete Teal-Donnel pass, forcing a punt that rolled to the Greenwood 45-yard line.

But it was a Donnel interception that gave Greenwood its only break of the night, but left the Rangers on their own one-yard line.

A series of breaks — including a Garry Popham 18-yard run and a fouth down pass interference call — enabled the Rangers to march 99 yards for a score on a leaping Donnell catch in the end zone. Although there remained only 30 seconds in the game, the Greenwood Rangers walked away from their Homecoming with at least a little respect.

The Rangers begin district action next week with an 0-4 record, one which leaves Coach Hodges with crossed fingers.

McCamey 35, Ozona 3

From Staff Reports

MCCAMEY— Ozona led 3-0 with 7:56 left in the first period, but then McCamey's Badgers got going, rolling to their fourth straight win, 35-3, here Friday night.

Oscar Payne's 15-yard field goal put the Lions in front but Rob Adams and Luis Lopez connected on a 69-yard pass play 52 seconds later and Lopez' conversion made it 7-3. McCamey was ahead for good.

The Badgers cashed in twice in the second period, first on a one-yard plunge by Rodney Terry and then on a 146-yard pass from Roland Zarate to Kirk Eddleman.

In the third period, it was an 80-yard run by Terry with Bobby Melendez converting, the only PAT Lopez did not kick.

With 5:05 left in the game, Adams passed to Melendez for nine yards and the final touchdown.

The Bobcats will open District 4-5A play next week when they host Abilene High.

PLAINS — Stanton's Buffaloes kept their record unblemished with a 14-12 win over Plains here Friday night.

In winning its fourth in a row, Stanton struck for 14 second period points. Quarterback Skip Hopkins fired a 24-yard pass to split end Carlos Ortiz with 11:07 left in the period. Salvador Reyna's kick failed.

Plains struck back with 6:54 in the half when Hopkins was hit on the Stanton nine and the ball rolled into the end zone where Donald Booth fell on it for a touchdown. Brian Baldwin's kick failed, however.

Stanton's second TD came on a one-yard run by tailback Eddie Jordan and then Jordan ran in the all-important two-pointer with 3:28 left in the half.

Plains kept the heat on when fullback Bill Stears rambled 47 yards with 11:02 left in the game, but Mitchell Diaz pass to Joe Riveria for two failed.

Tailback Greg Barnhill gained 88 yards in 17 carries and Jordan showed 56 yards in 11 attempts for Stanton.

Defensively, Stanton held Plains to three completions in 19 attempts with Reyna and Carlos Ortiz coming up with interceptions.

The loss leaves Plains with a 1-3 record.

Shelby triumphs

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Southpaw heavyweight Jesse Shelby of Fort Worth, Texas, relied on speed and finesse to win a unanimous decision against Lorenzo Canady of Detroit as professional boxing returned to the Marriott Hotel Friday after an 18-month absence.

The 195-pound Shelby boosted his record to 14-3-1 with the victory but the event was marred by the resignation of a member of the Portland Boxing and Wrestling Commission.

Commissioner Peter Fritsch handed in his resignation to Mayor Bud Clark Friday morning after he complained that the win-loss records for five of the eight fighters on the four-bout card were not consistent with records filed with various state boxing commissions.

Astros in Series could mean $100 million

By DONNA GEHRKE

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros, champions of the National League West, could field as much as $100 million for their home city if they make it to baseball's World Series, officials say.

While some Houston officials are predicting huge cash outpours if the Astros beat the New York Mets in the playoffs and advance to the Series, a St. Louis official said the non-cash benefit may help the recession-hit city more in the long run.

"The real value is the media attention focused on the city," said John M. Stephens, vice president of the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association. A positive image can attract new businesses and investments, he said.

Officials are preparing to put forward Houston's best side, said Sheila Rushlo, a spokeswoman for the Houston Proud campaign. The city has an energetic workforce and overall optimism despite the oil-related recession, she said.

Volunteers will try to show that to the media, she said.

Ms. Rushlo said she was disappointed that some journalists wrote disparagingly of Houston during past national sports events.

"We hope for the best but we don't always get it," she said.

The hundreds of reporters and other media people flocking to the city to cover the event will generate millions of dollars in revenue, says Barton Smith, director of the University of Houston Center for Public Policy.

"It's literally an international event," he said.

He predicts Houston would receive up to $100 million directly and indirectly if the team eliminates the Mets in the National League playoffs and advances to the World Series.

So does Molly Glentzer with the Houston Sports Association, which owns the Astros and manages the team's stadium, the Astrodome. The dollars would come from visitors spending money for hotels, restaurants, rental cars and shopping.

But a Houston tourist official is more conservative, estimating the games would generate about $30 million to $40 million.

"We're not economists," Greg Ortale, executive vice president of the Greater Houston Convention and Visitor Council.

For Oklahoma-Miami, it's time to put up or shut up

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

College Football

The mind games are over and its time for the showdown between No. 1 Oklahoma and No. 2 Miami.

The war of words that has been going on since Miami upset Oklahoma last year may carry over to the football field in Saturday's heralded rematch, but running, passing, and ackling qi%l ak lej than words.

As Miami defensive tackle Dan Sileo said, "Time to stop lippin' and start hittin'."

Jaws started flapping last year when Miami stunned the Sooners 27-14. The Hurricanes also put quarterback Troy Aikman out of action with a broken leg, although that forced Oklahoma to go back to the pure Wishbone offense and quarterback Jamelle Holieway has run it superbly. But it was Miami's loose lips rather than the outcome that riled the Sooners.

"It's upsetting when people come to your place talking a bunch of junk and trying to take you out of the game," tight end Keith Jackson said.

"They shocked us with the way they were talking," defensive back Sonny Brown said. "No team had ever tried to intimidate us."

IT ESCALATED when All-American linebacker Brian Bosworth accused Miami of rolling up the score against Notre Dame last year, saying it showed a lack of class.

Sileo then called Bosworth "the most overrated player in the country ... on the most overrated defense. I don't like the stuff he said about this program and about Coach (Jimmy) Johnson. The way I look at it, he's a reflection of the team. I can't wait to get on the field against them."

Besides this 14th regular-season pairing of the No. 1 and No. 2 teams since The AP poll began in 1936, two other Saturday games match members of the Top Twenty — No. 20 Florida State at fifth-ranked Michigan and No. 6 Washington at No. 12 Southern California.

Fourth-ranked Nebraska entertains Oregon, No. 7 Penn State is home against East Carolina, eighth-ranked Auburn is at home to Tennessee, No. 9 Arkansas meets New Mexico State in a night game at Little Rock, and 10th-ranked Arizona visits Colorado.

IN THE Second Ten, Washington State is at No. 11 Arizona State at night, North Carolina State at No. 13 Maryland, Southern Mississippi at No. 14 Texas A&M at night, Texas-El Paso at No. 15 Iowa, Long Beach State at No. 16 UCLA under the lights, No. 17 Baylor at Texas Tech and Western Michigan at No. 19 Michigan State. Third-ranked Alabama and No. 18 LSU are not scheduled.

Bosworth has said the Miami rematch "has taken on more importance to us than the Texas game. I kind of hate everything to do with the University of Texas but I just hate Miami's football team."

Jackson said: "What they don't understand is that we've got a bunch of lunatics, too. If I were them, I'd be nice to Boz because he just might rip their quarterback's head off."

That would be Vinny Testaverde, one of the nation's top passers.

"There's been a lot of talk about how Brian Bosworth is going to hurt this team," Testaverde said. "This team doesn't get intimidated by anyone. It's going to take all 11 people on their defense to hurt this team, not just one individual."

Bosworth said: "If Miami wants to hammer it out against us ... I'd like to extend an invitation. Please try and do that."

AT LEAST one Miami player understands where Bosworth is coming from.

"My type of player," defensive tackle Jerome Brown said. "We are just as crazy as he is. We have 11 like him out there every game. But the way we have our defense, I don't think he would make our first team. You just can't have one man doing it all."

Even Miami's coach innocently got into the act when Johnson told a caller on his Thursday night radio show that "the player we are more concerned with (than Bosworth) is their defensive end, Darrell Reed. We feel like he's their best pass-rusher."

And while Oklahoma fullback Lydell Carr said that "if hell is ever going to break loose, it will be in this game," Coach Barry Switzer insisted, "I don't consider this a revenge game. This is why we play the game, to see who's best."

Lamesa 7, Lake View 0

From Staff Reports

LAMESA — Gary Woodberry got loose for a 35-yard run in the third period and that's all it took, along with gritty defensive play, for Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes to post a 7-0 District 2-4A win over Lake View here Friday night.

Woodberry's TD, his seventh of the season, came with 7:29 left in the third period as Lamesa drove 75 dprds on nine plays with the second half kickoff.

Wes Shook kicked the extra point as the Tors bounced back from a heart-breaking loss last week to Andrews to even its record at 2-2 for the season and post its first league win in three starts.

Lake View, meanwhile, is 2-2 and 0-2.

Quarterback Tim Berry completed 10 of 17 passes for 165 yards and was really hot in the second half with five completions in six attempts.

The Tors have the unenviable task of traveling to Sweetwater next week, while Lake View hosts Fort Stockton.

Don't mess with Herschel Walker's ball-carrying

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboys running back Herschel Walker is usually soft-spoken, a football player who utters more "yes sirs" and "no sirs" these days than a private in boot camp.

But when it comes to averaging only seven carries per game, Walker speaks out.

"It is disappointing because I am a competitor and because I love to play football," he said. "I'm not here so much for the money. I want to play football.

"It's disappointing in a sense because I can't see them changing the offense if things are still going well," he said.

In the first three Cowboys games, Walker gained 64, 51 and 55 yards for an average of 7.7 yards per carry.

Even if Walkers starts Monday night against St. Louis because of Tony Dorsett's knee injury, he knows his status as a part-time player will resume when Dorsett returns.

That's what disappoints him.

"I am a player who needs to play the game," Walker said. "I'm not a very good spectator. I don't even like to watch football on TV. Even when the defense is out on the field, I'm always wondering what I could do to help.

"About the only time I was on the sideline at Georgia was when I had my broken thumb in the cast. And I really didn't like that either."

Dallas coach Tom Landry has spent the last month trying to soothe the anger within Dorsett, who was unhappy with management over Walker's $5 million contract.

Lately, Landry said publicly that Walker's carries will increase throughout the season. He said he is now willing to adjust the tailback-oriented offense with hopes that Walker and Dorsett can spend more time on the field together.

"I think that Tony is running about as well as I've seen him run," Landry said. "He's been running through some pretty tight spots. That's why I wouldn't completely rule him out of the game. He still can really surprise you."

Walker said he hasn't complained to Landry because "I am not a front-office person. I'll just let God take care of it."

Shriver, Rehe post victories

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Top-seeded Pam Shriver and fourth-seeded Stephanie Rehe won in straight sets Friday to complete a sweep by seeded players in the opening round of the $100,000 Audi Challenge women's tennis tournament.

Shriver needed less than 30 minutes to beat Kathy Horvath, 6-0, 6-1, while Rehe defeated Wendy Turnbull 6-1, 6-2 in the eight-player event at the Rancho Bernardo Inn.

In the semifinals scheduled Saturday, Shriver will meet third-seed Zina Garrison and Rehe will play second-seed Bonnie Gadusek. The top seeds were grouped in opposite brackets for the semifinals and tournament officials selected their opponents randomly.

Shriver, ranked fifth in the world, won the first 11 points in the first set and lost only four points en route to the 6-0 victory. After capitalizing on Horvath's mistakes in the first set, Shriver dominated with effective placement shots to take the second set from Horvath, who is ranked 58th in the world.

"Kathy just flew in from the East Coast and just couldn't adjust," Shriver said. "I put so much pressure on that if a player doesn't have her timing, I just won't give her a chance."

Rehe, ranked 13th in the world, broke seven of Turnbull's eight serves in the two sets. Turnbull is ranked 15th in the world.

"I didn't serve as well as I would like," Turnbull said.

Criswell's 65-yard helps Andrews win

Rosario KO's Bramble

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Edwin Rosario knocked out Livingstone Bramble with a barrage of head punches in the second round and won the World Boxing Association lightweight championship Friday night at Abel Holtz Stadium.

A crashing right just past the two-minute mark put Bramble down, and he was counted out in a crouching position. However, the knockout was the result of a series of punches and not just that final right hand.

The time of the knockout was 2:28, and it made Rosario, of Puerto Rico, a champion for the second time. He formerly held the World Boxing Council lightweight title.

Rosario shook Bramble with a left uppercut and then almost floored him with a right-left to the head at about 1:27 of the second round.

Rosario then unleashed a furious barrage that Bramble simply could not defend against.

"I won't be running from the right hand, but he won't hit me or hit me solid with it," Bramble said before the fight.

But Rosario, who weighed 135 pounds, the same as Bramble, hit the defending champion from the Virgin Islands solid with almost every punch he threw in the second round. Bramble was cut over the right eye.

The fight was on the same card as Hector "Macho" Camacho's WBC lightweight title defense against Cornelius Boza-Edwards.

The stunning victory could earn Rosario a rematch with Camacho. Camacho kept the WBC title on a split 12-round decision against Rosario last June 13 in New York.

Camacho, a native of Puerto Rico who lives in New York, led Rosario into the ring for Friday night's fight.

The 23-year-old Rosario now has a 24-2 record, with 20 knockouts. He won the WBC title in 1983 on an unanimous decision over Jose Luis Ramirez and lost it in 1984 when he was stopped by Ramirez in the fourth round.

The 26-year-old Bramble, who lives in Hampton Township, N.J., was making his third defense of the title he won when he stopped Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini in 1984. Bramble, who had won his 17 previous fights, 10 by knockout, now has a 24-2-1 record with 15 knockouts.

Oilers get easy one against weak Steelers

HOUSTON (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers haven't started the season with three straight losses since 1970 and they will go into Sunday's NFL game against Houston having scored only 17 points and given up 82 points.

They are far from the dominating teams that won four Super Bowls.

But Donnie Shell remains as a link with the past. He's the same terrifying tackler now as he was then.

"I have not changed, I play the same way whether we're 3-0 or 0-3," the 13-year veteran said. "I stay on even keel. I stay in shape and I'm always ready to play whether it's Ethiopia or Houston."

Shell has 47 career interceptions and is two away from tying the all-time record of 49 by former Houston and Washington safety Ken Houston.

Shell picked off four passes last season but has none in three games this season.

With the Steelers struggling, Shell has tried to help the team with leadership.

"We're as low as we can go right now," Shell said. "We've got to come out scrapping and fighting.

"Everybody has got to pick up the pieces individually and I think that we are doing that and there is nothing that we can't correct from here on in."

The Steelers have beaten the Oilers six of their last seven games and Shell would like to at least keep that success intact.

"They are always ready for us and we know that we have to come in there and be prepared for a tough game," Shell said. "I remember one year down there, we had seven or eight guys knocked out of the game."

The Oilers, 1-2, are trying to regroup after losing back to back games to Cleveland and Kansas City.

After a flawless preseason, Houston quarterback Warren Moon has thrown six interceptions and been sacked seven times in the regular season.

TCU-SMU take scrap to Cotton Bowl to open State Fair

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The State Fair of Texas opens its gates for the 100th year on Saturday and the old, historic Cotton Bowl hosts perhaps the strangest football meeting in history between rivals Texas Christian and Southern Methodist.

The game, moved from Texas Stadium to celebrate Texas' 150th birthday, the Fair's 100th birthday and SMU's 75th birthday, won't mean a thing except to the two schools involved.

Both are in what amounts to the NCAA's jail — their probation sanctions allow for no championships and no post-season activity.

In other words, they'll be playing the Southwest Conference game just for pride and braggin' rights among the alumni.

SWC Football

Call it the "Probation Bowl."

TCU Coach Jim Wacker does.

"Sure it's our bowl game," Wacker said. "It's in the Cotton Bowl isn't it?"

SMU was an 11-point favorite to defeat the Horned Frogs for the 15th consecutive year.

"Most of our kids were in kindergarten learning their ABCs the last time TCU won," Wacker said.

In a series filled with the exploits as such legends as TCU's Slingin' Sammy Baugh and SMU's Doak Walker, SMU holds a 33-28-7 all-time edge and 32-24-6 in SWC games.

TCU is 2-0 and leading the SWC in offense. The Horned Frogs are also at the bottom on defense. SMU, 1-1, was whipped 30-0 by Arizona State last week.

In an SWC game that does count on Saturday, Baylor tries to bounce back from a 17-14 upset by Southern California in a noon CDT kickoff (Raycom TV) against the Texas Tech Red Raiders, 2-1. Baylor was a 10-point favorite.

Bears' Coach Grant Teaff can pass Morley Jennings as the winningest coach in school history with a victory. It's Tech coach David McWilliams first game against an SWC foe.

The 17th ranked Bears lead the all-time series 26-17-1 against the Raiders. But the teams have won 13 games each since Tech joined the SWC in 1960.

In other games, 14th ranked Texas A&M was a 15-point favorite over dangerous Southern Mississippi (2-1) which upset Mississippi State and almost beat Alabama; ninth-ranked Arkansas (2-0) was a three-touchdown choice over New Mexico State (1-3) in Little Rock; Houston (1-1) was a field goal favorite over Tulsa (2-2) in the Astrodome; and Rice (1-1) was a two-touchdown favorite over Southwest Texas State (0-3) in Rice Stadium.

Texas is idle this week.

Sister never lost faith

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — Sister Anita Maria has been following the Boston Red Sox since they last won the World Series in 1918 and the 80-year-old Roman Cathloic nun has never lost faith in her team.

"Baseball is in my blood, I guess," said the sister of former Holy Cross outfielder Arnold Statz, who played in the majors in the 1920s. "I've loved it as long as I can remember."

Sister Anita follows the Red Sox games mainly by radio and she hasn't missed a broadcast in nearly a decade, even those night games on the West Coast, which is no casual loyalty when the bell for prayers rings at 5:30 a.m.

"The Red Sox played so many exciting games, I was too nervous to fall asleep," she said. "Even if the games sometimes did end around 2 a.m."

Her passion extends to statistics. "Sister is the only sister I know of who gets the report," said Chuck Waleski, who publishes a monthly Red Sox statistical report.

She remembers riding in a car in Chicago with Hall of Fame pitcher Grover Cleveland Alexander. And she was in Ebbetts Field in Brooklyn when a man with a megaphone announced to the crowd that Charles Lindbergh had arrived safely from his trans-Atlantic flight.

But the Red Sox have been her perennial pennant pick since she was a little girl growing up in Worcester, even if reality and the Yankees usually set in by June.

"But this year they were in first place on May 15, then June 15, then July 15," she said. "By then I really started to beleive they could do it."

"They've really earned it, too. I hope people remember they had to overcome all those injuries," she said. "It wasn't easy."

"I'm also very impressed at how they handled Oil Can Boyd's problems. They handled his problem with a great deal of Christian charity and care," she said. "They really seem like a team of good Christian men, especially John McNamara, the manager. He is so calm, so reassuring.

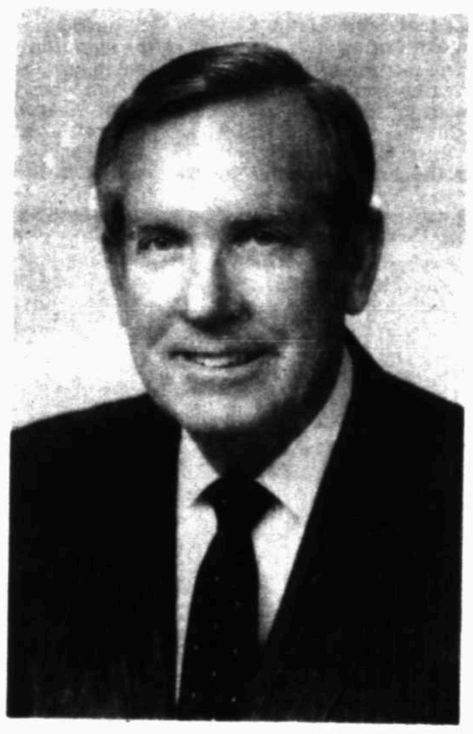
DISTRICT 21 CONGRESSIONAL CANDIDATE DEBATE/LUNCHEON



Pete Snelson

Pete Snelson has been in business in Midland for the past 31 years as the founder and president of Snelson Advertising Agency.

His public service began when he was elected to the Texas House of Representatives in 1960 and to the Texas Senate in 1964. He chose to retire from the Senate to make a race for Texas Land Commissioner in 1982, which he lost in a run-off after leading the ticket in the first primary.

At the time he completed his service in the Senate he was the dean of that body; chairman of its education committee; a member of the Finance Committee and one of its five conferees in the Senate-House joint conference committee which prepared the final version of the state budget. Also, he was a long-time member of the powerful Legislative Budget Board. He is a former Chairman of the Oil and Gas Committee and the Intergovernmental Relations Committee.

Also, Snelson represented Texas on the Southern Regional Education Board which administers a 14-state compact on higher education for 12 years.

Lamar Smith

Lamar Smith is the Republican nominee for Congress in the 21st District. He led a field of six candidates in the primary election and then won the runoff election in June. Both primary and runoff elections set GOP records for turnout.

He has served as Republican County Chairman, State Representative, and County Commissioner. While on Commissioners Court, the San Antonio Express-News gave Lamar the title, "Watchdog of the Treasury." San Antonio Monthly Magazine said Lamar has earned a reputation as a "man of integrity" and as someone who "puts good government ahead of good politics."

Lamar was Tom Loeffler's Alternate Delegate at the 1984 Republican National Convention, Phil Gramm's County Chairman in 1984, and Treasurer of the Reagan-Bush Bexar County Victory Committee in 1980.

The Republican nominee has worked in Washington for the small Business Administration, been a business and financial writer for a daily newspaper, practiced law, and now owns and operates a ranch in South Texas.

Lamar is 38 years old, married, and he and Jane have two children.

Right-to-die advocates enter political arena

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of the "right-to-die" principle took their cause into the political arena Friday, unveiling a campaign to get on the California ballot in 1988 with a proposal to make it legal to help a terminally ill person commit suicide.

"The right to die in a manner of your own choosing is the ultimate human right," said Derek Humphrey, executive director of the Hemlock Society.

Humphrey told the society's national conference, in suburban Virginia, that a new political group has been spun off to campaign for a spot on the California ballot.

"The purpose of Americans Against Human Suffering will be purely political, to get on the books the right to die," Humphrey said.

He said the 6-year-old Hemlock Society has donated $50,000 in seed money to the new organization, to be headed by Los Angeles lawyer Robert Risley, author of a proposed Humane and Dignified Death Act.

The initial aim is to amend the California constitution to add a provision guaranteeing the right for terminally ill persons to choose death, Humphrey said. The target is the California ballot in 1988, with the campaign to spread to other states thereafter.

Humphrey said that doctors and family members who assist a dying person in ending their lives face the possibility of legal prosecution.

"We want law reform, not lawbreaking," he declared.

"There has been an appalling rise in violent mercy killing, of double suicides," in families with someone terminally ill, Humphrey said, "there must be a better way."

He said in an interview that assisting someone to die would include whatever action is appropriate, whether unplugging life-support systems, injecting a drug or providing drugs for the dying person to take. The timing and method of death would be left up to the physician and the patient, he explained.

Under the proposed law, a physician would have the right to refuse such help, but would then have to discharge the patient from his care so that the individual could seek out a doctor who would help end his life.

"We do not encourage suicide for any other reason than to end hopeless suffering. We do not subscribe to the right of suicide for unhappy or mentally ill persons," Humphrey added.

Founded in 1980, the Hemlock Society advocates changing laws to allow terminally ill people to seek help from their doctors in committing suicide.

The group drew considerable attention and criticism a few years ago for its book "Let Me Die Before I Wake," which discussed the topic of suicide and ways to do it.

"There are people dying today who can't wait for legislation...who cry out to us for help," said Humphrey of the book.

Chief justice says goodbye to job he loves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Warren E. Burger, with President Reagan's thanks on behalf of "a grateful nation," left the job he loved Friday.

After administering the oath of office to William H. Rehnquist, Burger turned to the overflowing crowd in the Supreme Court's stately courtroom and announced, "I give you the chief justice."

With that the man whose wavy white hair and rich baritone voice gives him the look and sound of judicial authority concluded his 17-year tenure as the nation's top judge, the longest period of service in that job in the 20th century.

At a White House ceremony hours before the courtroom transfer of the chief justice's title to Rehnquist, Reagan praised the retiring Burger for his "years of distinguished service."

The president called Burger's years on the high court "a monument of integrity and dedication to principle," and thanked him for leading the effort to coordinate a national celebration in 1987 for the Constitution's 200th birthday.

In announcing his retirement last June, Burger said he had decided to quit his judicial duties so he could devote full time to serving as chairman of the Constitutional Bicentennial Commission.

First at the White House and again at the Supreme Court, Burger, 79, appeared to be relaxed and relishing his last day on the job.

Usually a stickler for courtroom decorum, Burger's introduction of Rehnquist gave relatives and prominent guests their cue for thunderous applause — something longtime court employees could not recall ever happening before.

Before swearing in Rehnquist, who then in turn swore in Scalia, Burger assumed his familiar role as educator — telling those gathered about the history of the court and its Capitol Hill home.

"Changes in the court will not alter the spirit of continuity," he said. "The court has dealt with changing conditions and a growing, complex society."

Senate committee approves catchall spending package

WASHINGTON (AP) — With renewed veto threats flowing from the White House, a Senate committee approved Friday a catchall spending package needed to keep the government running beyond Tuesday.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, by voice vote, sent to the full Senate a $556 billion bill that Chairman Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said would put Congress "on the road" to something acceptable to President Reagan.

Like the $562 billion House bill, which squeaked through on a 201-200 vote Thursday night, the Senate measure covers virtually every government department and agency activity for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

However, the Senate committee's proposal, scheduled for floor debate early next week, contained more spending for the military and less for domestic programs, more in keeping with administration priorities.

White House budget director James C. Miller III, in a letter to the committee Friday, called it "a marked improvement of the resolution that passed the House last evening."

"By contrast to your resolution, the House version, which reduces defense spending, increases domestic spending and restricts the president's authority to conduct essential national security programs, is totally unacceptable," Miller wrote.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said arms-control language in the House bill would tie Reagan's hands "at a very critical juncture in U.S.-Soviet relations."

The House would restrict the president's options a five major defense issues: the SALT II treaty, nuclear testing, the Strategic Defense Initiative, anti-satellite tests and chemical weapons.

The Senate bill did not contain those same restrictions as reported out of committee.

Wendell Chino, president of the Mescalero Apache Tribe, speaks during a ceremony at the Apache cemetery in Fort Sill, Okla., Friday commemorating the centennial of Geronimo's final surrender to U.S. army troops

Apache tribe gathers to honor Geronimo

FORT SILL, Okla. (AP) — The rolling hills of this Army post echoed with the sounds of taps and hymns as Apache tribe members gathered Friday at Geronimo's grave to mark the 100th anniversary of the surrender of the Chiricahua Apaches.

In the distance, cannons could be heard as artillery units trained on one of the firing ranges at Fort Sill.

The ceremony, attended by more than 300 members of the Apache tribes of Oklahoma and Arizona as well as Army personnel and other people, marked the surrender of the medicine man-warrior Geronimo, Chief Naiche and their band of about 40 to U.S. soldiers on Sept. 4, 1886.

Beneath the threat of rain-laden clouds, Wendell Chino, president of the Mescalero Apaches, reminded the crowd that Geronimo was not an Apache chief but became a war chief after his mother, wife and children were killed by soldiers.

History scorned Geronimo and others who fought the soldiers, but Chino said Apaches should be proud that such men wanted to protect their land and heritage.

Only recently have historians begun to vindicate Geronimo and the Apaches, he said.

"Our history has been tragic and full of injustices that were forced upon our people. But they were strong and their strength of character and that attitude is what saw them through," Chino said.

Narcissus Gayton of the Mescaleros cried as she told the crowd about members of her family who died in captivity from 1886 to 1913. It was in that period that the Apaches who surrendered were taken from Arizona to Florida to Alabama and, finally, to Fort Sill.

The Mescalero tribe left Fort Sill when the Apaches were given their freedom in 1913.

Geronimo's grave dominates the 10-acre cemetery on an eastern section of the giant Army training facility in southwestern Oklahoma. The four great chiefs also are buried there.

Geronimo's gravesite is marked by a pyramid of stones from the Wichita Mountains, visible on the southern horizon. Atop the pyramid is a cement eagle with wings spread.

U.S. flags were placed at the graves of Geronimo and the chiefs Nana, Chihuahua, Loco and Mangus. Flower wreaths were laid at the tombstones and at the grave of George Wratten, an interpreter and blood-brother who traveled with the captive Apaches after the surrender.

Chino recounted Geronimo's history.

"They said he engaged in guerrilla warfare. A guerrilla acts alone. You don't act alone when you have the blessing of your leadership," Chino said.

Geronimo, captured in March 1886 only to escape, fought the U.S. soldiers until the final surrender on Sept. 4, 1886. He died in 1909.

The singing of the Apache religious songs, by descendants of the tribe led by Geronimo and Nana, came after Chino reminded the crowd that 100 years of history had painted the Apaches as warlike.

INS detains foreign journalist for 'subversive' literature

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Immigration officials ordered a correspondent for a Belgian newspaper held overnight after they found leftist literature in his luggage as he entered the United States, authorities said Friday.

Tom Ronse, 38, a reporter for the Socialist newspaper De Morgen, was allowed to remain in the United States Friday pending a review of the pamphlets, typed documents and handwritten notes, said an Immigration and Naturalization Service official.

INS officials Thursday ordered People Express, the airline on which Ronse traveled, to detain him overnight after he landed at Newark International Airport on a flight from Brussels, Belgium.

Police: Jackson wounded

WRIGHT CITY, Mo. (AP) — Murder suspect Michael Wayne Jackson was almost certainly wounded during a shootout with police, authorities said Friday as they concentrated their four-day manhunt on the area where he was last seen.

There were no plans to cut back on the search despite the cost and the frustration, said Hal Helterhoff, special agent in charge of the St. Louis FBI office.

"We're after a man who is a menace to society, so cost is no factor," Helterhoff said.

Teams of officers Friday went house-by-house, building-by-building through the area south and west of the wooded area where the suspect was last seen Monday night, Helterhoff said.

Jackson fled into the woods after crashing a stolen car into a highway median just west of here, authorities said. The car had been hit by police gunfire, and ballistics tests indicate he was hit at least in the arm and possibly in the midsection, said Missouri Highway Patrol Capt. John Ford.

Ford also said investigators are now "99 percent certain" that blood found smeared on the steering wheel of the stolen Cadillac was Jackson's. Ford said he was awaiting the results of final laboratory tests.

Airline workers indicted

MIAMI (AP) — Twenty-two current and former Eastern Airlines employees and one Mexicana Airlines worker were indicted Friday on charges they helped smuggle nearly $1 billion worth of cocaine through Miami International Airport.

The 45-count federal indictment said the defendants used their jobs as cargo and baggage handlers to prevent detection of shipments of cocaine coming into the airport.

Meanwhile, Eastern announced the firings of 50 other ramp and airport service workers here because of drug-related infractions of company work rules.

A company spokesman, who asked not to be identified because of "personal security concerns," said those indicted also will be terminated, but did not know when those firings would take place.

Compressor linked to fire

CASTLE DALE, Utah (AP) — The 1984 fire that killed 27 workers in the Wilberg Mine was caused when an air compressor was inadvertently turned on with its heat sensor disconnected, officials said Friday.

Herschel Potter, chief investigator for the federal Mine Safety and Health Administration, said a heat-sensor switch which would have automatically shut off the compressor had been "rendered inoperable" before the fire.

"We don't know how the compressor caught fire," Potter said in announcing preliminary conclusions of a 21-month investigation.

His Tomorrow... ...Our Today

"I'm on my way!" Such is the confidence his eyes as well as his lips express. If all youngsters could be certain an exciting destiny is theirs. . .

Many aspects of our children's tomorrow depend on our today. Are we instilling a right sense of values? Cultivating spiritual and moral awareness? Setting an example of responsible living? Encouraging the development of strong character, firm faith?

Conscientious parents rely upon the religious institutions of our community for support. Family worship, Bible study, wholesome service activities have a vital influence in shaping a youngster's future.

Praying that God will guide our children's tomorrow—naturally we turn to Him for guidance today.

Church goes through rebirth with help of dedicated Methodist minister

DENTON (AP) — Cooper Creek United Methodist Church is making a comeback, again.

Eighteen years ago, the congregation brought the church back to life from a pile of ashes. Today, the church is going through another rebirth, this time with the help of an 80-year-old "retired" Methodist minister who has thrown heart and soul into the revitalization of the modest white church on an oak-shaded hill.

In August, Bishop John W. Russell came from Dallas to bless the church that sits at the corner of Cooper Creek and Mingo roads. The tiny church has tripled its attendance in the past year under the direction of the Rev. Ray McCleskey.

The bishop spoke to 100 people who crowded onto the 15 pews. The sanctuary may be small, but it boasts new colonial white chancel furnishings through a $10,000 gift from a woman whose family has been connected with the church since its beginning.

The church's history begins at the turn of the century, when three families donated a plot of land for the purpose of worship. Dora Lee May Reese of Palestine, whose parents gave part of the five-acre church site, donated the money for the new platform, carpeting, pulpit, choir seats, baptismal font and other chancel furniture, as well as pew cushions.

But the recent history of the church has included few such acts of generosity or incidents of good fortune. In 1968, the church was gutted in a fire ruled arson. A series of vandalism incidents further damaged the hull of the building and what remained of its contents.

The spirit that led the church to rebuild remained in a small congregation that made it through the next few years with a series of circuit preachers.

The part-time preachers typically gave an 8:30 a.m. sermon so they could move on to a larger church for the more popular 11 a.m. time slot. By last summer, the regulars had dwindled to about 23 at Sunday morning services. Then, they found out they were going to lose their part-time preacher. Methodist ministers are assigned to churches during an annual conference. Irene Wilson said each year brought the dread of having the church close.

"We were about to give up," said Mrs. Wilson, who has belonged to the church since 1953. "For years, we've been thinking, 'They're going to close us up this time.' But we kept hanging on, hoping for a full-time minister at the 11 a.m. service."

Their prayers were answered when the Rev. William Crouch of First United Methodist Church suggested McCleskey take on the struggling congregation.

Church members committing prayer to lives of officers

RELIGION

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A Tulsa pastor has embarked on a mission to enlist at least two parishioners from congregations nationwide to pray daily for the safety and the stressful lives of officers on patrol.

The program by Danny Lynchard, a former prison chaplain, originated in Tulsa. He says church members there now number nearly 1,400 who are committed to nearly 700 officers in the city and neighboring areas.

In five years, the ministry has expanded to more than 100 U.S. cities. Lynchard's goal is to recruit 30,000 prayer partners nationwide for 15,000 policemen.

Lynchard said there now are 22 other assisting chaplains who volunteer to serve the Tulsa police force.

There now are chapters in Ardmore and Sapulpa.

Lynchard said his congregation in Jenks supports his work. He says his $16,000 a year pay suffices with some help from donors.

In return for prayer partners, the police visit churches regularly and give their experiences on patrol as well as their testimony of faith.

Lynchard has lived with officers, traveled with them in their squad cars and ministered to them and their families.

"I see too many of these public servants subjected to a view of society that few of us in our ivory towers and immaculate cathedrals ever knew existed," Lynchard told The Daily Oklahoman.

He said many officers are suspicious of citizens they believe are uncaring and too often quick to label policemen as brutes that intimidate and injure the innocent.

Lutrick fund established

Rev. Dr. Lutrick

James Kirby, dean of Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist Univeristy, was in Midland recently to officially announce the establishment of the Charles E. Lutrick Endowed Internship Fund. Lutrick was presented a plaque in recognition of the Internship Endowment established in his name.

Lutrick was actively involved in the initial development of the Intern Program, and, under his supervision, seminary students have served as interns at First United Methodist Church of Midland on four occasions from September of 1977 through May of 1985. The program provides none months of supervision in service training to four-year ministerial students.

In 1982-84, the First United Methodist Church Review Committee recommended the designation of earnings from First United Methodist Church funding for the Intern Endowment. A pledge of $50,000 was approved for a two-year period, 1985 and 1986.

Perkins School of Theology in 1985 proposed special designation of funds from First United Methodist Church of Midland and other donations from church members in the name of Lutrick. Upon the recommendation of the Review Committee, the proposal was approved in March.

Peres keeping promise to hand over power

JERUSALEM (AP) — Confounding predictions it wouldn't happen, Prime Minister Shimon Peres is keeping a promise to hands over the keys of his wood-paneled office to his rival, Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

Israelis dubbed the experiment in joint-rule government "rotatazia," the Hebrew word for rotation. It culminates Oct. 14 when Peres swaps jobs with Shamir in keeping with a 2-year-old coalition pact.

The power-sharing accord was the outcome of an electoral stalemate in July 1984 in which neither of Israel's two large parties could form a government without the other.

Caught in an uncomfortable alliance of clashing ideologies, the two rivals and five smaller parties agreed to form a government.

With a long history of mutual distrust, Peres' Labor Party and Shamir's Likud bloc designed a system of checks on each other. They gave ultimate authority to a 10-member committee within the Cabinet in which each party had veto power.

Critics said this committee, the so-called "inner Cabinet" became a mechanism for inertia.

Two years ago, many predicted the unwieldy partnership would never reach rotation, scheduled for halfway through the coalition's 50-month term.

A dozen times the coalition wobbled and almost toppled as the nation's leaders, putting aside matters of state, wrangled over petty issues and traded personal insults.

The glue that kept the coalition together was the grim prospect of a costly new election ending in another deadlock, according to Yitzhak Galnoor, a political science professor at Hebrew University.

Galnoor also credited the government's survival to Peres.

"Peres decided that in terms of his credibility it was imperative not to appear to be betraying the agreement. I think he decided early on that this is what he would do, no matter what," Galnoor said in an interview.

Despite the limitations imposed on it by power-sharing, the Peres government scored achievements.

Hotel blast injures three; Military prisoner freed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — In separate, violent incidents Friday, an explosion in a hotel injured three people and a band of white men firing machine guns broke into a prison and freed the former military chief of the Ciskei black homeland.

The 2:10 p.m. explosion on the ground floor of the Devonshire Hotel sent businessmen rushing from the lobby bar into the street of the Braamfontein area of high-rise offices and apartments. Two white men and one black man were slightly injured and hospitalized.

Police could not immediately confirm the cause of the blast, which was in a restroom, but the bomb squad was investigating.

Michael Sher, owner of a clothing store near the hotel, said after the blast, "I rushed outside and office workers were running screaming into the street from the pub. Glass was everywhere."

There have been 21 bombings in South Africa since the government declared a state of emergency June 12. The blasts killed nine people and injured more than 160. The government blames the outlawed African National Congress for the blasts, but the guerrilla group, which seeks to end South Africa's apartheid system, has refused to comment on the charge.

By law and custom, apartheid establishes a racially segregated society in which the 24 million blacks have no vote in national affairs. The 5-million-member white minority controls the economy and maintains separate districts, schools and health services.

In the Xhosa tribal homeland of Ciskei near the Indian Ocean, officials said four or five white men used rope ladders to scale the walls of Middledrift Prison.

Government spokesman Headman Sonthunzi said the whites fired machine guns, wounding one black guard, while freeing Lt. Gen. Charles Sebe, jailed in July 1983 by President Lennox Sebe, his half-brother.

The 52-year-old Sebe, serving a 12-year sentence for terrorism, clambered over the wall with the band of men and they sped away in three cars. A half-hour later, a son of President Sebe, Maj. Gen. Kwane Sebe, and another officer were kidnapped by whites outside a casino in Bisho, the homeland's capital.

Ciskei is one of 10 black homelands formed by the Pretoria government.

WORLD in brief

Refugees may be deported

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The West German government may change its practice of not deporting Eastern European refugees, a top aide to Chancellor Helmut Kohl said Friday.

For the last 20 years, the government has allowed Soviet bloc residents to stay in West Germany even if they are not granted political asylum.

At the same time, refugees from other regions were subject to deportation once they were denied political asylum.

Wolfgang Schaeuble, Kohl's chief of staff, told a news conference that the government is considering whether to begin treating Eastern Europeans like all other refugees.

West Germany has been flooded with refugees, many from the Third World, over the past year. Conservative political leaders have called on the Bonn government to reduce the number of refugees to avoid overtaxing social services.

Terrorism won't stop trial

PARIS (AP) — The justice minister said Friday that Georges Ibrahim Abdallah will go on trial early next year on charges of complicity in the murders of two diplomats, despite a bombing campaign in Paris to win his release from jail.

Justice Minister Albin Chalandon said the government "repeats its position of firmness and its refusal of any negotiations with the terrorists" who are demanding the release of Abdallah and two other Middle East prisoners.

Abdallah's trial probably will be held in February, Chalandon said.

Nine people were killed and 163 wounded in five bombings in Paris between Sept. 8-17.

Radioactive lake closed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A small lake in central Sweden has been closed to fishing after tests showed severe radioactive contamination from the Chernobyl nuclear plant disaster, local officials said Thursday.

Radiation levels in four rainbow trout taken from Lake Opptjarn were 16 to 60 times greater than what is considered safe in Sweden, fishery official Bengt Andersson was quoted as telling the Stockholm daily Dagens Nyheter.

"There is no other way out of this but to close the lake to fishing" and kill the contaminated fish, he said. "Then we can begin putting new fish in the lake next summer."

An April 26 explosion and fire at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant in the Soviet Union released radioactivity that traveled around the world. Soviet officials say 31 people have died from the accident.

Asian Games protested

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Students hurled stones and gasoline bombs and clashed with police Friday in the fifth consecutive day of protests against the Asian Games and the government of President Chun Doo-hwan.

There were no reports of injuries or arrests.

At the Seoul Municipal College, police used tear gas to disperse a demonstration by a small group of students, and witnesses at Ewha Women's University said demonstrators hurled gasoline bombs while shouting criticism of the games and the 1988 Seoul Olympics.

Over a period of several weeks, militant students have criticized the Asian Games, which opened last Saturday and will continue through Oct. 5. They have said the games are intended to boost the image of the government at the expense of the poor.

Nakasone apologizes to Americans for racial remarks

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone on Friday formally apologized to all Americans for remarks many considered racist slurs against U.S. blacks, Hispanics and other minorities.

"I realize that my recent remarks have offended many Americans," he said. "I would like to express my heartfelt apology."

U.S. and Japanese politicians attacked Nakasone after he was quoted saying Japan has a higher intelligence level than the United States because Japan is a one-race society, while "the level in the United States is lower because of a considerable number of blacks, Puerto Ricans and Mexicans."

A party official later said the prime minister meant literacy rate.

Some American congressmen demanded a boycott of Japanese goods to protest the remarks. U.S.-Japan trade ties have been strained by Japan's nearly $50 billion surplus.

Japanese lawmakers at a heated session of the Diet on Thursday urged Nakasone to express regret.

Japanese Ambassador Nobuo Matsunaga in Washington conveyed Nakasone's apology Friday. The message was released first in Tokyo.

"Let me make one thing very clear," the message said. "I have always firmly believed that America's greatness derives from the dynamism and achievements of her many ethnic communities. It was not my intention whatsoever to imply any racial discrimination nor to criticize any aspect of the American society.

"It is my strong political commitment to strengthen the friendship between our two peoples, and I am determined to work for this cause."

Nakasone had found himself in a similar position last weekend, when he expressed regret in Seoul, South Korea, for comments by his former education minister.

Masayuki Fujio, the minister, was fired after he offended Asian neighbors by telling a Japanese magazine that Japan's 1910-1945 colonialization of the Korean peninsula was in part Korea's idea.

Fujio also said Japanese massacres of 200,000 Chinese civilians during World War II were accepted parts of warfare.

A Foreign Ministry official said Nakasone wrote the apology to Americans in a meeting with Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari.

Kuranari, who had been in New York for the 41st session of the U.N. General Assembly, told Nakasone the "American situation was very severe, and the prime minister accepted it very sincerely," said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Nakasone's message came one day after 12 House members in Washington blasted his comments.

Guard reinforces dikes on rising river

MALTA, Mont. (AP) — National Guard troops and residents sandbagged the rising Milk River on Friday after torrential rains in north-central Montana left one person drowned, many animals dead and major highways closed.

Hundreds of Amtrak passengers had to be bused 90 miles around washed out sections of railroad track.

Gov. Ted Schwinden mobilized the Guard to help reinforce dikes at Malta when heavy rains Thursday caused what the National Weather Service called the worst flooding in 30 years along the Canadian border. As much as 8 inches of rain fell in 18 hours.

About 45 miles to the west, in Harlem, one woman died Thursday when she and her husband were trapped by water and tried to swim to safety, authorities said.

Officials said there were reports of large numbers of livestock drowned. The major highway across northern Montana, U.S. 2, was was closed Thursday but reopened Friday morning.

National Guardsman Jim Sintler carries sandbags to the banks of the Milk River in Malta, Mont., to keep the river from overflowing its banks.

The high water moved east Friday after about 100 people were evacuated from their homes in Harlem on Thursday. About 20 people stayed overnight in Harlem High School, and up to 4 feet of water covered the north portions of town Friday.

Workers shored up a railroad bed that acted as a dike to keep waters from engulfing the southern part of Malta, a community of 1,100 people.

While the water receded in Harlem, problems grew in Malta.

A police dispatcher said water broke through a dike on the Milk River's north bank at mid-morning, and about a dozen homes were threatened. She said no immediate evacuations were planned.

"We're expecting a crest sometime early Sunday at Malta," said Homer Young of the state disaster office at Helena. He said 32 guardsmen were helping to sandbag the river around the town.

"There's a dike on the north edge of town, right along the river, and high water is causing it to erode. They're trying to shore it up."

"Everybody that could come out was out there," said Nancy Peigneux, assistant city clerk in Malta.

More than 70 volunteers had been working on the sandbagging since 1 a.m. Friday, police said.

About 400 Amtrak passengers had to be bused between Havre and Malta on Thursday because of washed-out tracks along the Burlington Northern Railroad's northern line, said Merlin Blevins, ticket agent at Havre. Eastbound and westbound passengers would be bused again Friday.

Howard Kallio, BN spokesman in Seattle, said about 600 feet of tracks were washed out in at least three sites east of Harlem, and were under up to 5 feet of water.

Some railroad bridges between Harlem and Malta also were threatened and BN was bringing in personnel, equipment and ballast, Kallio said.

The governor said he had no plans to fly over the flooded areas.

"At Malta it's come up about 17 feet from yesterday morning and it's above flood stage this morning," John Fassler of the weather service in Great Falls said Friday.

Almost half of 'Hands' funds will aid homeless

Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

LOS ANGELES — Almost half of the $31,857,877 in contributions that the USA for Africa foundation collected on its ambitious Hands Across America project will go to help the homeless and hungry.

A second disclosure statement filed this week with the Los Angeles Department of Social Service showed that, as of July 31, the charity had "approximately $15 million for distribution" to America's poor.

When USA for Africa President Ken Kragen first unveiled the plan for a national hand-holding show of compassion for the poor 11 months ago at a New York press conference, he set a fund-raising goal of $50 million to $100 million. He said at that time he estimated expenses for the event to be $18.8 million. Expenses actually came in lower than predicted.

None of the money raised by Hands Across America has been distributed to date and remains invested in short-term interest-earning money market certificates until the first charity grants are announced in early November, said Hands press spokesman Dave Fulton.

At least $8.3 million in "fund-raising and public information-education" expenses have been paid out or committed, according to the disclosure statement. Though the expense breakdown reported is general and based on estimates, some of the larger specified costs included $1.6 million for the purchase of merchandise (T-shirts, pins, sun visors and other Hands Across America commemorative items), $3.5 million for insurance and $700,000 for telephones.

The statement says that the organization spent $100,000 on staff salaries and consultants. However, in a financial statement filed with the city of Los Angeles last May 20, the foundation reported that $917,924 had been spent as of March 31, 1986, on staff salaries.

Eight million dollars in corporate contributions are not broken down on the disclosure statement filed this week with the city. Those contributions from such companies as Coca Cola, Citibank, J.C. Penney, American Express and Home Box Office, were "to produce the event which was used to educate the public around the issues of hunger and homelessness."

Several requests by the Los Angeles Times — both by telephone and in writing — for a more specific breakdown of the Hands Across America production, travel, salary and promotional expenses have been unsuccessful. Joyce Deep, director of communications for Hands Across America, said that audit results of the project will not be available until after the first of next year.

In a disagreement with the city, foundation officials did not want to record or itemize the $8 million in corporate contributions in the disclosure statement. The statement was originally filed two weeks ago, but city officials refused to accept it, in part because the $8 million was not included under the "fund-raising expenses" section of the disclosure statement.

Brake service worth the price at Friendly Chrysler Pontiac

By NANCY CLISE
Advertising Feature Writer

Prepare for slushy, slippery roads with preventative maintenance that can not only save you money and prolong the life of your car, it can actually save your life or the life of your family.

Friendly Chrysler Pontiac, 3705 W. Wall, has the answer to your brake problems with their Front Reman Disc Brake Service. Have your disc brake pads replaced and the front rotors turned. Friendly will inspect the master cylinder/calipers (repairs extra), repack wheel bearings and replace front grease seals if applicable. All this for the low price of $73.95 for cars and $95.00 for trucks.

"You can't put a price tag on safety for you and your family," said Jack Dillard, service manager at Friendly. "Our technicians are all factory trained with a combined experience of more than 100 years."

Dillard also advises all car owners to have their antifreeze checked, belts and hoses inspected and thermostats tested.

"A proper maintenance schedule is provided in every car's owner's manual," Dillard pointed out. "These should be followed closely. All those stories you here about somebody driving their car 50,000 miles without spending a penny except for oil and gas. That is the rarity, not the norm."

Dillard also noted that proper documentation of maintenance can increase the price of your car when you get ready to trade it in on a new one or sell it.

"It's just proper business sense to keep good records," he pointed out.

The Friendly Chrysler Pontiac service department is open Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Call 684-7101 today to have your car made ready for the winter months.

Jack Dillard, service manager at Friendly Chrysler Pontiac, says, "You can't put a price tag on safety for you and your family." Have your brakes checked at Friendly Chrysler Pontiac.

Computer anti-lock system reduces risk of car skidding

By MONICA PEREZ
Copley News Service

First came the invention of the wheel. It's a safe bet that moments thereafter came the invention of the brake.

The two have been together ever since. Brakes have come a long way since the crude, early versions. The latest is the computer anti-lock brake.

Say you're driving along on a rain-slick street when a dog suddenly darts out from behind a parked car. You slam on the brakes. Normally, your brakes would lock and send you into a skid. But, it's less likely if you're driving an automobile equipped with the latest in computer anti-lock brakes, according to the Automotive Information Council.

These systems will not prevent all skidding. You can still drive into a curve at too high a rate of speed and no anti-lock system will prevent you from skidding. But these systems mean the brakes cannot lock the wheels. In most cases, skids occur in braking operation when the wheels lock up.

Anti-lock brakes use computer sensors — one for each wheel and hydraulic circuits. Signals are sent to a central microprocessor, which compares how fast each wheel is rotating in relation to the others. When a sensor located in each of the wheel hubs senses a wheel beginning to lock up, it sends a signal to the hydraulic circuits. They, in turn, reduce the amount of brake pressure on the wheel that is about to lock. The sensors activate an automatic brake pumping action, up to 12 times per second.

The result is better handling and steering control and reduced stopping distances. The system also helps the driver retain the ability to steer the car around an obstacle while still being able to brake.

Ford Motor Co. was the first of the domestic automakers to offer anti-lock brakes on the 1985 Lincoln Mark VII. General Motors, Mercedes-Benz of North America and BMW of North America also offer anti-lock brakes.

If you're not in the market for a new car with anti-lock brakes, a brake overhaul might be in order.

Because friction stops your car, it's normal for brake linings to wear. Dave Bowman, technical communications manager of Allied Aftermarket Division, marketers of Fram, Bendix and Autolite automotive products, says brake linings last an average of 35,000 miles, though lining life depends on driving habits. The best way to tell if your brake linings need replacement is to look at them. However, some brake systems include audible warning devices that can alert you to worn brakes by making a scraping noise.

Brake linings should always be replaced in pairs (both front brakes or both rear brakes). Otherwise, unequal friction could cause the car to pull sideways when the brakes are applied.

Drums or rotors often need to be resurfaced when brakes are relined. Resurfacing is most often done by "turning" the drum or rotor on a lathe while a cutting tool removes any unevenness in its working surface.

Bowman says brake drums or rotors should always be turned if they need it, but that procedure should be skipped if not necessary.

When is resurfacing necessary? Bowman says anytime a drum or rotor surface is grooved or uneven. And if you're fitting semi-metallic brakes, some resurfacing is almost always needed.

Bowman stresses that when replacing brake linings, you should closely inspect the wheel cylinders for signs of leakage. Also, flexible brake hoses can deteriorate, and should be inspected as part of an annual safety check.

Rust inside the brake system can eventually clog brake fluid passages, cause fluid valves to stick or cause seal failure. Rust-induced pitting inside master cylinders and wheel cylinders is a major cause of leaks.

Rust can also eat away metal brake lines from the inside, leading to a rupture. Such a rupture can cause instant loss of more than half of a car's braking effectiveness or cause uneven skid-induced braking.

Car owners can prevent many hydraulic system problems.

"If people would flush and replace their brake fluid annually as part of their regular preventive maintenance, they'd avoid a lot of headaches. Hardly anyone does this, but it should be common practice," Bowman says.

Regular inspections — at least annually — can spot potential brake problems before they put you in danger. That way, you can stop those rollin' wheels anytime you want.

Old sports cars hit the roads, again

By JUNE CUTLER
Copley News Service

If you often find yourself coveting sporty vintage roadsters like the one Kelly McGillis drove in the movie "Top Gun," know that you're not alone. For some auto enthusiasts, a broken-down retro sports car with fix-up potential is better than two spanking brand-new ones.

The most noticeable trend in collector cars during the past two years is the burgeoning interest and activity in older sports cars by new and seasoned collectors and restorers throughout the country.

Among the most popular and affordable are the British sports models of the 1950s and 1960s, with various models of MG, Triumph, Austin-Healey and Jaguar leading the way, just as they did in sales of sports cars when these top-down, wind-in-the-hair fun machines were showroom new.

That showroom-new appearance is the way they're looking again after devoted months and even years of restoration by their proud owners. Parts for these cars, except the most expensive and exotic like Aston Martins, aren't much of a problem to find as long as the budding sports car restorers know where to look.

"There are literally tons of original, factory-new parts for sports cars available in the U.S.," says Dave Brownell, editor of Hemmings Motor News, the largest vintage auto marketplace in the world.

"Many of these cars, from the most costly Jaguar to the humblest little Austin, share ignition and carburetion components, and the original suppliers have been very cooperative about making extensive runs of these older specification parts as well. You see page after page of ads for them in our magazines and in specialty publications from clubs devoted to older sports cars."

The vintage sports car owner has one outlet for fun with his car that isn't available to most vintage car collectors, according to Brownell.

"Vintage sports car racing has to be the fastest-growing aspect of the car collecting hobby," he says. "It appeals to the Walter Mitty in all of us and is becoming a nationwide — and international — means of enjoying these cars.

"There are vintage sports car races held from coast to coast, as well as in Europe and the Bahamas. And, you're likely to see a marvelous collection of cars running: everything from grand prix Bugattis from the 1920s to GT-40 Fords like the ones which won at LeMans in the 1960s."

Finding a vintage sports car to restore and enjoy is easy. Finding a good one might prove more difficult.

"Don't forget," Brownell says, "that an old MG or Morgan or Alfa from someplace like our home base in Bennington, Vt., is more likely to have suffered from rust, rot and the ravages of bad weather than a similar car from the sunnier parts of the U.S. And while body panels for many older sports cars are available, the bodywork doesn't come cheap.

"Given the choice between a sports car with a good body and a bad engine or one with a great engine and a rusty body, I'll take the car with the bum engine to restore. It'll be cheaper in the end."

After all the work and fun of restoration, though, will an old sports car turn out to be a wise investment? Brownell thinks so.

Race drivers promote use of seatbelts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Race drivers, an auto safety group and an insurance firm teamed up Friday to promote the use of safety belts to reduce deaths from traffic accidents that kill an American every 10 seconds.

The Automotive Safety Foundation of the Highway Users Federation and the Government Employees Insurance Co. displayed a highway safety videotape that will be made available free to the public.

The 22-minute film, titled "The Ride of Your Life," examines highway safety issues from the perspective of professional race car drivers. Drivers featured in the film are Rick Mears, Danny Sullivan, Al Unser Sr. and Lyn St James as well as racing team owner Roger Penske.

About 44,000 Americans are killed each year in auto accidents, which experts say could be reduced with the widespread use of seat belts.

Sullivan, who appeared at the premiere of the film with St James, told the audience he started out as a cab driver in New York. He recently was injured in an accident when sitting in the back seat of a New York cab.

"Sometimes I feel that the everyday driving is more dangerous (than racing)," Sullivan said.

Clean, wax, repair to help a car age gracefully

By KAREN CALDWELL
Copley News Service

If you've ever-so-slightly scratched the new paint job on your neighbor's beloved Mustang or unknowingly backed into your father-in-law's Mercedes, you know all about the strong bond existing between car and owner.

There's a love affair of sorts going on, and is this the sort of attraction that dims age? Probably not, given all the options car owners have to keep their cars at least looking youthful.

A good wax job will help protect that spanking clean surface. Today's car waxes are a combination of cleaner and wax, serving to clean the car's surface, enhance its appearance and protect the finish.

A good car wax should uniformly clean away the soils and stains on the surface and smooth and flatten rough spots. The polishing agents help to smooth out the surface and remove oxidized paint, dissolve and polish away road film, stains and chalked surface material. The result is an appearance that is more uniform, with a higher gloss and brighter color.

The wax also provides a thin film over the surface, which makes it water-repellant. Not only aesthetically pleasing, it provides protective value to paint surfaces, according to experts at Borden, makers of Rain Dance car products.

Those who despise the effects of the sun, rain and wind on their cars' exteriors face a puzzling paradox — how do you adequately protect something from the elements that basically belongs outside? Some curtail weather damage and paw prints left by wandering felines by wrapping their parked cars in fitted covers while they're at work or shopping; others tuck fan-shaped or cardboard shields on their dashboards to shelter them from the sun's afternoon rays.

The garage, of course, is a car's best friend. If you still open your garage door by hand, you might consider garage door openers mere luxuries. Those who own them know better. At the touch of the button on your hand-held transmitter, you can raise the door and turn on a light and reverse the process with equal ease.

It used to be that garage doors operated on only a few select codes; therefore, your neighbors might very well be able to open yours. This is not a problem anymore; consumers usually can choose their own codes from hundreds of combinations.

Basic models are priced at $100 to $150; deluxe models run up to about $225.

What about the inside? Auto supply stores have cleaners for cloth, vinyl and leather upholsteries, and those products are preferable to soap and water. Stains should be cleaned immediately before they get a chance to set.

Upholstery and carpeting should be cleaned with a vacuum to keep dirt from being ground into the fibers. This is done at full-service car washes or at home with a vacuum hose attachment.

Floor mats should be used to protect the carpeting from tracked-in mud and salty snow stains, and the mats should be washed frequently.

Car owners know the honeymoon is over when theirs has a few bumps and scratches, maybe even a few major dents from an accident or two. The color might not agree with you three or four years down the road. All these ailments are easily fixed with the help of a body shop professional.

You can take care of the smaller nicks yourself. Just remember before using any type of touch-up paint, the surface around the nick or scratch must be cleaned of dirt and rust, according to the Automotive Information Council. Paint won't adhere to a dirty surface or stop rust; it will only hide the problem for a while. For a large rust repair, sand down to the bare metal using a fine grade of sandpaper. For a small scratch with some rust present, try to chip off the rust with the edge of a razor blade.

On a larger rust repair, the first coat of paint should always be a primer. This protects against further rust and gives a smooth surface for the final coat of paint.

To check the color match of any touch-up paint, spray or brush a small amount inside a door jam. For a spray-type paint, use several thin coats rather than one heavy coat.

Prepare your car for winter

Proper servicing and maintenance can prolong the life of your car. B. J. Williams, service manager of Neatherlin Motors, has five tips for keeping your car at peak performance level.

• Test collant, before cold weather sets in.

"If your antifreeze is old or weak, it needs to be replaced," Williams said. "For example, if it has been more than two years since you have had your antifreeze changed, or if you have a two year old car, you probably need to check and have it taken care of."

• Check radiator for sign of wear or corrosion.

"Midland water is infamous for corroding up radiators," Williams commented. "Additionally, in this part of the country, bugs, dirt and dust can get into the front of the radiator. That needs to be cleaned out or it will cause clogging or poor air circulation."

• Replace all hoses and belts that are showing signs of wearing, or are soft and weak.

"This is just common sense," Williams stated. "Getting stuck out on the road somewhere for a belt that costs $1.50 is not only time consuming, but frustrating. This is something that should never be allowed to happen, and with proper maintenance, it won't."

• Test thermostat, and run heater long enough to determine it is actually working.

"I guarantee you," he said, "that the first day it snows we'll have 20 customers in here whose heater valves are stuck on cold air. And we'll have 10 more who tested their heaters for afew minutes, thought it got hot enough, and come to find out, it's only getting lukewarm.

"It's not enough to just check your heater valve," he determined. "If your heater hasn't been used all summer, it can literally be a lifesaver to have it tested professionally."

Preparing your car for winter is made easy at Neatherlin Mazda-Jeep, 2600 W. Wall, with a cooling system special now being offered.

Neatherlin's factory trained mechanics will inspect and pressure test both the cooling system and rediator cap for leaks. Drain and flush cooling system. Replace coolant. Check cooling and heating system hoses and water pump for leaks and inspect all drive belts for wear and cracks. All for only $37.15, regular price of $55.45. All the above work can be done in one day.

Call B.J. Williams at 683-4919 and make an appointment to have your car winterized today. Service department hours are Monday through Friday 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Beat hot, cold weather with antifreeze/coolant

By DEAN CARROLL
Copley News Service

Whether it's the falling leaves of autumn or the first flowers of spring, a change of seasons signals the need for a change in the care of your automobile.

"People figure they'll keep driving until there's a problem," says Linda Clark of Dartmouth, Mass., an authority on classic cars. "They especially neglect their car's cooling system, and it's too bad because boil-overs can be prevented. An antifreeze-coolant loses its effectiveness over time, and sludge builds up in the bottom of a radiator."

Clark, whose articles have appeared in more than 100 automotive publications, recommends flushing a car's cooling system at least once a year. The level of coolant should be checked every time the oil is checked, she says.

The newer, smaller cars, which have smaller cooling systems, have to work harder to pull heavy loads, she says. Because of this, they generate 20 percent more heat than their bigger counterparts and overheating is a constant threat. A 50/50 mix of antifreeze/coolant and water will protect a car against heat damage up to 265 degrees and prevent freezing down to minus 34.

Overheating can distort valves, warp cylinder heads and crack sections of the radiator or the block, Clark says. She recommends drivers carry a gallon bottle filled with the 50/50 mixture of water and antifreeze coolant in the trunk of their cars just in case the cooling system gets somewhat depleted. She also suggests car owners purchase an antifreeze gauge, which detects an improper mixture of water and antifreeze in the radiator.

Older cars have "tender" parts and their older radiators are prone to corrosion. Clark uses antifreeze containing the corrosion inhibitor Alugard in her '67 Chevy and '73 Camaro. Owners of newer cars might consider using one of the 80 brands of antifreeze that contain the formula since it protects aluminum as well as other metals.

Clark also says it's important for motorists to keep their gas tanks three-quarters full (especially in winter) to prevent condensation. Water in the gas line will cause a car to have problems starting and backfire.

A change of weather tends to hamper an engine's performance, making a tune-up, lubrication and oil change especially important, she says. A car that has difficulty starting may have dirty spark plugs or filters, which cause it to burn more fuel than necessary.

In the final analysis, maintenance depends on mileage, Clark says, but she recommends frequent oil changes to help the engine keep humming. The fan belts, hoses and thermostats in newer, smaller cars need to be replaced more often than those in cars with bigger engines. Clark's rule of thumb: belts should be replaced every 30,000 miles, so should most hoses, which deteriorate from the inside out and get brittle, cracked, soft or bulgy.

Because tires lose air pressure in cold weather, Clark recommends checking pressure regularly, using the car's owner manual as a guideline. It's also a good idea to rotate the tires every six months so they'll wear evenly.

Ace continues tradition of quality

By TOM COOPER
Classified Account Executive

They do make 'em like they used to. The quality we remember from the past is a reality at Ace Rebuilders.

Evidence of the kind of quality put into each rebuilt starter and alternator is the fact that mechanics that have used their products continue to come back for more. And they wouldn't keep coming back unless they and their customers were pleased with the products.

The reason for this level of quality? The owner and general manager, Ronnie Maddox. Ronnie has many years of experience in heavy automotive repair and rebuilding of automotive products. He knows what it takes to keep a vehicle running day in and day out and he knows the quality of products that mechanics like to install.

The process that Ronnie goes through with his rebuilt products is very impressive. The starters and alternators are first completely disassembled and put through a thorough two stage cleaning process. Then the products are reassembled and all faulty parts are replaced.

Perhaps the most unusual part of the process is the fact that all key electrical parts are replaced even if they do not appear to be worn out. Some rebuilders don't replace these parts which could lead to additional repair charges down the road.

These remanufactured products are then thoroughly tested to make sure they are ready for your vehicle.

You can request these products when your mechanic repairs your car, or you can go by the plant at 2215 Rhode Island to purchase the product yourself. And you will not only get quality but you will save money, both now in the initial cost, and later in possible additional repair bills.

Ace Rebuilders stores their used products in these bins until the starter and alternator rebuilding process begins.

Don't leave home without an oil test

By KAREN CALDWELL
Copley News Service

Gas prices are good this year and you've just bought a new car. So, you've decided to drive on this year's family vacation.

You'll see Disneyland, the Grand Canyon and then drive to Yellowstone National Park, covering hundreds of miles in the process. You're all packed and ready to go, but is your car ready for the long trek?

There is some essential preventive maintenance you should do before embarking on your journey. Make sure your fan belt and alternator belts are in good working order. Be sure your tires have plenty of tread and the pressure is set correctly on all four tires. Check your coolants and the Freon for your air conditioner.

And don't forget the motor oil engine lubrication, one of the most important, yet easily overlooked, functions of your vehicle.

Improperly maintained oil could mean engine trouble, which can translate into an unpleasant vacation. Don't leave your trip's excitement in a trail of smoke behind the family vehicle. It's better to know your motor oil.

"There are eight basic functions that all motor oil must perform," says Norm Hudecki, associate director of Automotive Productions Applications Laboratory, the Ashland, Ky.-based facility where Valvoline motor oil is produced.

A motor oil must:

— Permit an engine to start easily;

— Lubricate all internal engine parts to prevent damaging wear;

— Reduce friction between moving engine parts;

— Protect against rust and corrosion;

— Keep an engine clean by preventing buildup of sludge;

— Help cool an engine to protect bearings and other vital parts from heat damage;

— Form a barrier to seal in compression and combustion;

— Resist foaming caused by rapidly moving engine parts.

There are certain kinds of oils that are best for certain vehicles. The best rule of thumb is to consult your owner's manual for the correct viscosity grades and API classifications.

"The two most widely accepted year-round oils today are the 10W-30 and the 5W-30," Hudecki says. "These oils satisfy the requirements of all car manufacturers in the U.S."

Motor oil information is usually listed on the motor oil container. To clarify what the numbers and letters in the different grades mean, each figure represents a property of the oil.

First, the "W" designation — like in 5W-30 — stands for winter and means the oil has met U.S. wintertime automotive requirements. The "5" measures the starting capability in the winter.

To contrast the two most popular motor oils, 10W means the oil is suitable for use in external temperatures down to minus 20 degrees while 5W means the oil is good down to minus 35 degrees. The "30" represents the necessary viscosity when the engine reaches higher temperatures. Viscosity is the rate of flow of the oil or the film thickness of oil between moving parts.

An example of an oil that doesn't meet winter standards is the one graded SAE30 or "straight 30."

Drive to the beat with radios, compact discs

By GABRIEL BRADFORD
Copley News Service

Some of the most impressive sound systems in America can be found in the dashboards of automobiles.

Car audio systems have come a long way since the small sounds of the 1960s and early 1970s. Now the discriminating listener can put together a state-of-the-art system costing anywhere from a few hundred to a few thousand dollars.

A good place to start is with a system that incorporates an AM/FM stereo, cassette player and power amplification.

Many of today's new cars come with this type of system, but car stereo experts like audio equipment salesman Rich Stow of San Diego, recommend replacing stock radio speakers.

"You can get a much better sound quality with a custom system," he said.

If the beat is not loud enough for you, a separate amplifier is the key. Mount it under the dash, in the glove box or even in the trunk.

Tailoring the sound to your car is the equalizer's job. An equalizer lets the listener manipulate various tone levels, making them stronger or weaker.

The range of control is usually broken down into five to 10 groups, each having its own knob or slider.

"The more the ranges are broken down, the more control you have," Stow said.

The big news in sound equipment is, of course, the compact disc.

"Compact disc players are the biggest breakthrough in car audio systems of the 1980s," he said. "Nothing can beat the sound."

What set the compact disc player apart from the masses is that the music is recorded on a grooveless disc and tracked with a laser. The sound is crystal-clear because dust, scratches and other pitfalls linked to cassettes do not affect it. The discs also have a long life.

Speakers should be the final addition to your ultimate sound system. Speakers come in all shapes and sizes to fit the needs of your car. Make sure they can handle your stereo's power.

How to choose a good service department

By MONICA PEREZ
Copley News Service

Sean Richards is standing in line at a San Diego car dealership's service department for the third time in a month. His car's engine is still stalling, even though Richards has taken the time to explain and demonstrate the problem to the mechanics.

The scenario is not uncommon. Dealers play matchmaker when pairing customers with new cars. But after the purchase is made, the honeymoon is fast over for many consumers who find themselves on the short end for follow-up servicing.

A good servicing department will possibly make or break a lasting relationship between car and owner. As today's automobiles incorporate more complex technology and new car dealerships offer their customers attractive warranty packages, customers are once again having routine maintenance and emergency repairs done at the service departments of the dealerships where they urchased their cars. Smart shop, ars not only look for lower car prices, but also for dealerships that provide quality servicing.

Finding good service isn't always easy. Some 30 percent of cars repaired are brought back at least once for the same repairs, according to the National Automobile Dealers Association. The very process of trying to get a car scheduled for a repair or standard maintenance can be frustrating.

"A dealership that takes pride in itself will also take pride in providing proper maintenance for its customers' cars and will emphasize the quality of its servicing department during the sales cycle," according to Michael Denning, vice president of marketing for Tricom Automotive Dealer Systems Inc., a California-based international supplier of information systems for automotive dealerships.

If at all possible, the customer should ask the salesperson to arrange a tour of the service center. Much can be learned by taking stock of what you will see, he says.

Appearance: A clean, well-kept service department and the general appearance of the personnel in that department can reflect the attitude of the management and employees. This extends to the customer waiting room — to what extent has the dealership gone to ensure the comfort and convenience of its customers?

Good service departments take pride in the quality of the technicians they employ and display their qualification levels. A service department that does the little things, like providing paper floor mats and seat covers to its technicians, is probably concerned with protecting your investment.

Automation: Most new automobiles require sophisticated computer diagonistic and test equipment. Computers are also used to track the daily status of repair work, parts inventory and service records. Take it as a good sign if your service department has invested in this type of automated equipment.

Convenience: If you are in the dealership near the end of the working day, check to see if there is a line of people, sometimes impatient and disgruntled, at the cashier's window waiting to pick up their serviced cars. This scenario often indicates the dealership is scheduling its customers at its own convenience. Look for a progressive dealership that offers appointments at its customers' convenience.

Unlike the sales side of the dealership, most service departments are not open on the weekends and close early. A good service department will open early and have provisions for late pick ups. Most quality service departments will tune their hours to accommodate the work habits of their customers.

Also, ask if the dealership provides a "courtesy car" while your car is being repaired.

Records: Your car's service file can be compared to the records your doctor maintains. Trends can be spotted, routine maintenance schedules maintained, and when you decide to sell your car, a complete printout of regular care may provide just the leverage needed to sell your car.

Work load: Does the department attempt to limit the number of carry-overs (cars not completed) at the end of the day? Some service departments have been known to schedule repair work in the same fashion an airline will schedule a flight ... with some cars on the "bump" list.

Customer satisfaction: Dealerships are ranked on service satisfaction by the Customer Satisfaction Index, a monthly survey carried out by the manufacturer. This information should be made available to customers on request.

Consultation: A service writer or adviser is your contact at the service department. The adviser writes up your order and keeps you updated on repair problems. The service adviser should take the time to understand your car's problem — this helps prevent comebacks and fosters customer relations.

Phone test: A sure way to judge the dealership is by making a simple phone call. Try calling between 4 and 4:30 p.m., "rush hour" for most service departments. Are you treated courteously and able to speak with a service adviser without being put on hold for extended periods of time or ignored altogether?

Hourly rate: Dealerships vary widely in this regard. A cheaper hourly rate doesn't always ensure value, nor does a higher price always mean quality. Weigh the rate with the other factors.

Customers give Jack Sherman Chevrolet a superior service rating

By NANCY CLISE
Advertising Feature Writer

"Our goal is to provide quality service at an affordable price," said Bob Smith, service manager at Jack Sherman Chevrolet. "We feel we have achieved that goal to a large extent and our Customer Service Index (CSI) Rating reflects that achievement."

Each Chevrolet's CSI is determined through questionnaires mailed to all customers asking about quality of sales and maintenance personnel. Jack Sherman Chevrolet has a CSI of 89, the highest in the whole zone, which includes dealers in Arizona, New Mexico and West Texas.

"We are very proud of this high rating," Smith explained. "And we have every intention of keeping it as high as possible, by satisfying our customers." In addition to training and testing through Chevrolet, Jack Sherman mechanics are also Automotive Service Excellence (ASE) certified. This certification is recognized nationwide as a sign of superior service and training.

While many auto repair shops may seem haphazard in their diagnosis of your car problems, Sherman Chevrolet has a proven method of finding the problem and solving it.

On arrival at the service department a service advisor will listen to what you, the customer, think is not right. If you are unsure of what the problem may be, or if the service advisor is not sure what might be wrong, the shop foreman will take the car for a test drive.

Following this preliminary diagnosis another check will be made by a mechanic who has specalized in the suspected disorder before the service advisor calls the customer back with an estimate of service needed. No work is done without direct approval from the customer.

Once the repair work has been completed the shop foreman takes the car for another test drive to assure quality control.

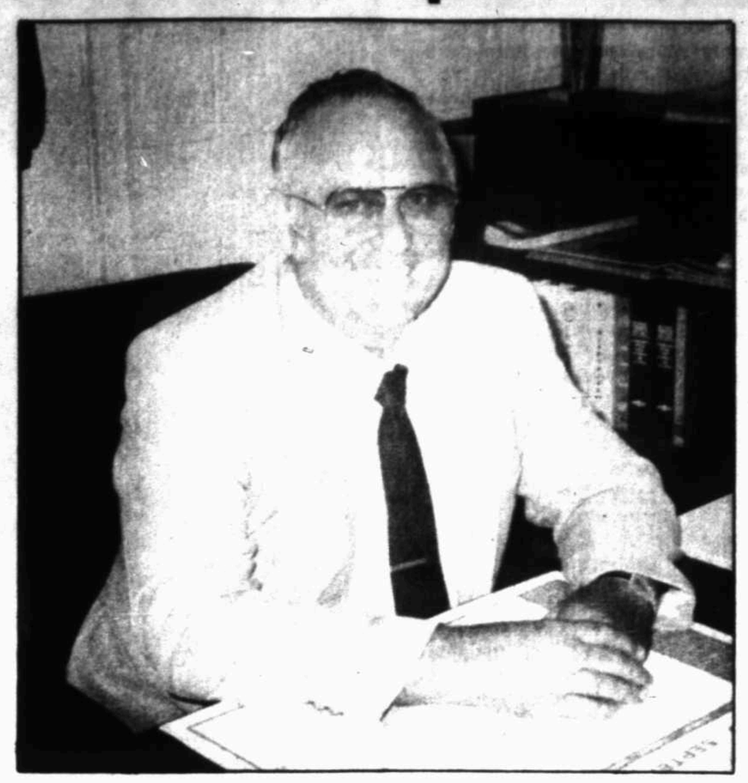
"We spend thousands of dollars each year just to train our people to repair cars the correct way," Smith commented. "And we use only GM parts. GM guarantees those parts and the labor to replace them should they be found defective in a specified amount of time."

Each of the mechanics receives in-depth training in their field of work.

"For example, each dealership must have one man trained in the repair and servicing of electrical equipment," Smith said. "More and more electrical or electronically controlled systems are being put into the cars every year. Among other training, these men have to attend and eight day specalized electronics course, which they are then tested on. They must pass that test before they can preform the work."

Jack Sherman Chevrolet's service department, located at 4100 W. Wall, is open from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"Most minor repairs can be made in one day," Smith said. "We also provide a free on-demand pick-up and delivery service for the convenience of our customers."



Bob Smith is the service manager at Jack Sherman Chevrolet, 4100 W. Wall.

Seat belts, child seats, tail lights promote safety

By KAREN CLALWELL
Copley News Service

Statistics usually elicit a raised eyebrow at best, a yawn at worst, from the average reader. But the numbers have managed to spur action in the car safety industry.

They've caused such a ruckus that many safety features have or will soon become standard in new automobiles, and many states are passing laws requiring the use of seat belts and child safety seats.

This is good news for an industry plagued with heartbreaking statistics. Every 12 seconds, someone is disabled in a car wreck, and every 12 minutes, someone loses their life in an auto accident, according to statistics from the Veterans Administration and the National Safety Council. Traffic accidents are the leading cause of death for adults under age 44 and children in the United States.

The seat belt first demonstrated the importance of car safety devices. Statistics drifted in, but messages lauding the value of seat belts were subtle, limited to an occasional public service message on TV or in a newspaper.

The mid-1980s saw several states pass mandatory seat belt laws. Dr. Sean Mooney, senior vice president and economist of the Insurance Information Institute, said that U.S. Department of Transportation statistics show traffic fatalities decreased from 44,200 in 1984 to 43,600 in 1985, probably as a result of the publicity surrounding the passage of the mandatory seat belt laws.

An Insurance Information Institute survey showed there was a definite benefit connected to bringing more attention to seat belt use. The main reason cited for not buckling up was, "I just don't think about it."

More babies and small children are being buckled into child safety seats, especially since many states have passed laws requiring the safety precaution. But even with all the attention, Judy Coleman, president of the National Passenger Safety Association, says many parents still don't use safety seats and safety belts for their children, and more than 60 percent of all safety seats are misused. The NPSA advises parents traveling with children to:

— Have small children secured in child safety seats and be sure all passengers have buckled up.

— Read the manufacturer's instructions when attaching the vehicle safety belt around your safety seat.

— Have infants facing rearward in a semi-reclining safety seat.

— Make sure children wear safety belts low over the hips.

More attention is being devoted to the importance of a car's visibility, especially at night. More than 60 percent of all automobile accidents occur at night, even though most travel takes place during the day. According to "The Injury Fact Book," nearly 40 percent occur between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m. Further, one-third of all highway deaths happen between 6 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Saturday.

In 1986, a new glimmer hit the highways — the brake light, a brilliant red luminescence mounted in rear windows.

In California, rear-window brake lights became compulsory in 1986, except for light-duty trucks. They are also being installed by many drivers in older vehicles as a safety feature for about $30.

A motorist can put more light on the road by using the latest headlight technology — halogen headlamps. The lamp, a tungsten filament placed inside a quartz tube filled with halogen gas, is twice as bright as conventional headlamps and delivers a distinctively whiter light, according to General Electric spokesmen.

Halogen headlamps come in assorted sizes and may be substituted for conventional headlamps. If you have burned out a headlamp, or if your headlights are more than 3 years old, consider replacing the entire set with halogen lamps and check to see that they are properly aligned.

With a little luck, air bags could begin appearing in up to 10 percent of all new cars starting in September 1986.

That's when the 1987 models go on sale and the Insurance Information Institute says U.S. and foreign automakers could be required to equip about 1 million cars with air bags or automatic seat belts, based on current production or sales levels.

The III says the combination of mandatory state seat belt laws and air bags/automatic seat belts may produce the most dramatic reduction in traffic fatalities since the 55 mph speed limit was established in 1974.

If all cars were equipped with air bags, the insurance industry estimates almost 9,000 lives could be saved each year and 150,000 moderate to critical injuries would be avoided.

Some experts say even the bright lemon-colored "Baby on Board" or "Child on Board" signs have increased the level of safe driving in communicating to tailgaters and other reckless drivers that a child's life could be lost in an accident.

"Not only have the 'Baby on Board' signs helped to increase the level of safe driving among motorists, but they are equally useful in enhancing parents' awareness for their own child's safety," says Lawrence Rosenberg, M.D., child psychiatrist at Faulkner Hosptial, Jamaica Plain, Mass.

If you post a sign in your car, it's best to treat it like a parking sticker and place it at the bottom corner of the rear window to avoid creating a blind spot.

Consistent bike care pays off

By STEVE HURTADO
Copley News Service

Motorcycles may seem simpler than cars, but they still need frequent maintenance checkups, especially if they've been in storage for a while.

There's more to it than just washing off the dust and making sure the battery is charged, according to Dave Bowman, technical communications manager for Allied Aftermarket Division, marketers of Fram and Autolite motorcycle oil filters and spark plugs. Remember, the motorcycle's performance — and your health — depend on the condition of the bike.

It's always important to run through frequent safety checks, inspecting lights and tires, making sure the spokes are tight and wheels are true if you have wire wheels. But a more in-depth checkup is in order if you haven't used the motorcycle for a few months.

Bowman suggests beginning with the engine. Although it may have been running perfectly when you parked your bike, it may have since deteriorated; moisture in the atmosphere can speed oxidation on ignition parts, even when a bike isn't used.

Check the points if your ignition system uses them, and don't forget a fresh set of spark plugs.

The best insurance against internal engine problems is to change the oil and the filter. But some bikes use a centrifuge, which collect the heaviest contaminants, oil strainers or screens. They also should be serviced at this time.

Newer bikes have automatic cam chain tensioners; if your cam chain is the adjustable type, it may need to be set when you tune the engine.

Some newer models have hydraulic valve tappets (lifters), which need no periodic adjusting, but most use mechanical tappets, which should be adjusted as part of the tune-up.

Next comes the transmission overhaul. Most modern motorcycles have transmissions integral with the engine, so changing the engine oil also changes the transmission oil. Otherwise, transmission and engine oil must be checked separately.

As for gasoline, Bowman says you should start off with a fresh tankful, unless you used a stabilizing chemical to protect your fuel over the winter. Clean the fuel strainer and fill the tank with new gasoline. If your bike uses a replaceable fuel filter, now is the time to change it.

Modern chain oils allow you to spray lubrication right onto it, unless your drive chain is extremely dirty. If that's the case, you'll have to use the old method: remove the chain from the bike, soak it in solvent and reoil. If your motorcycle still has its original equipment chain, you may need to cut the chain to get it off since many don't have master links.

Chain adjustments should also be checked; a general rule is if the lower half of the chain has more than 1 inch of total play at the center of its span, it should be adjusted.

Be sure the oil level is adequate with oil-bath enclosed-chain drives. Belt-drive systems need no lubrication, but adjustments still should be checked.

Disc brake pads might be the easiest to check since they can be seen. But brake shoes used on drum brake systems are invisible unless you dismantle an entire axle. This is why many motorcycles with drum brakes have wear indicators: If a mark on the brake actuating lever can't be made to line up with a mark on the drum, the shoes are worn and should be replaced.

Lube any mechanical linkages, especially if you have cable-operated brakes.

For hydraulic brakes, clean the top of the master cylinder, then remove it and look inside to check the fluid level.

Speak 'Automobilese'?

Since most people rarely use words like "alternator" or "master cylinder" in everyday conversation, this car language, or "automobilese," can be intimidating for many consumers when it comes time to take the car in for repairs. To make communicating with your mechanic easier, Automotive Information Council (AIC) has compiled a list of a few automotive parts and their function in the automobile.

Alternator — A belt-driven generator on the engine which produces AC current which is converted to DC current to charge the car's battery.

Distributor — A mechanical device containing the breaker points that distribute high-voltage electricity to the proper spark plug at the proper time.

Drum brake — A brake design in which a component much like and open end drum is attached to the wheel. Brake shoes are forced against the inner surface of the drum to provide braking action.

Brake shoe — A semi-circular metal plate located within a drum brake. It is lined with a high-friction material called a brake lining.

Disc brake — A braking system used mainly on the front wheels of cars. Braking force is applied by two friction pads that are squeezed against a rotating disc by a caliper.

Master cylinder — A piston and cylinder assembly of the brake system that is filled with brake fluid. As the car's brake pedal is depressed, hydraulic pressure is develope din the master cylinder and this force is transmitted to the individual wheel cylinders and/or calipers.

Choke — A plate near the top of the carburetor that enriches the air-fuel mixture by restricting air flow to the engine.

Clutch — A mechanism that connects and disconnects the engine from the transmission.

By closing the car language communications gap. says AIC, there are fewer opportunities for misunderstandings and resulting auto repair complaints.

Old atlas could help you to get lost

NEW YORK (UPI) — Don't blame your road atlas if you turned onto the wrong street and got lost on your last car trip, say the editors at Rand McNally and Company.

If a road atlas is out of date, even by just a year, the information it contains is likely to be out of date. That's why Rand McNally, the world's largest publisher of road maps and atlases, revises its road atlas every year.

According to the Rand McNally editors, "Every year, thousands and thousands of changes occur to the nation's highways, roads, towns, cities and sightseeing attractions.

"For instance, many highways, roads and streets are renamed from one year to the next," they point out. "And a town may incorporate with another nearby town or city and, quite literally, disappear from the face of the earth.

In fact, the editors report, the Rand McNally 1987 Road Atlas contains 20,173 revisions since the previous year's edition.

Future cars could 'listen' and obey

RADNOR, Pa. (UPI) — If you talk to yourself when driving, you may have to watch what you say in the future: by the year 2000, your car may be listening, according to projections by auto experts.

Based on a review of changes in automotive structure since 1932, Automotive Industries magazine recently made educated predictions about changes in car construction and design over the next 14 years.

Editor John McElroy reports that turn-of-the-century motorists will probably tool around in "friendlier" cars — vehicles with more space, less emphasis on traditional materials like carpeting and more emphasis on molded forms and unusual textures.

Many experts foresee the replacement of traditional wire harness with fiber optics, along with a greater number of controls — many electronic and some voice-controlled — located in the steering wheel hub.

In fact, some experts think that more people will use their cars as an extension of their offices in the future and that on-board digital communications links and printers will be available.

Checking for early signs of catalytic converter failure can save possible engine damage and expensive repairs.

Add catalytic converter to car check

Your car has survived another summer; but as it drives into fall, its exhaust parts should be checked for possible failure — especially the car's catalytic converter, which may have suffered during those busy vacation months.

Catalytic converters are designed to oxidize and reduce harmful pollutants in engine exhaust through the use of ceramic beads or a ceramic honeycomb coated with rare metals. A properly functioning converter will have little, if any, effect on performance, but one that is clogged can cause hard-to-diagnose driveability problems.

According to experts at Walker Manufacturing Company, you could save yourself significant repair bills if you take precautions and are careful to detect the early signs of catalytic converter and exhaust system failure.

Most converter failures are caused by engine malfunctions. An improperly tuned engine, bad ignition timing or fouled spark plugs can cause the converter to be fed with an over-rich fuel-air mixture. Rich mixtures (too much fuel) promote excessively high temperatures that can cause substrate meltdown and plugging. Plugging can lead to a loss of engine power, overheating and possible engine damage.

Your converter may be clogged if you notice any of the following symptoms. In some cases, the power will be good at first, then taper off.

Have your service dealer check out these trouble spots before they become major problems, say the engineers at Walker. If parts of your exhaust system need replacement, your dealer can recommend the best system for your car's engine efficiency and fuel economy.

You can reduce car insurance cost

By ERIC JUDE
Copley News Service

Like cars, auto insurance policies are necessities, not luxuries, in the 1980s.

Most states have financial responsibility laws under which a person involved in an automobile accident may be required to furnish proof of financial responsibility, usually in the form of auto liability insurance, up to a certain minimum dollar limit.

The price for protection usually runs high. Premiums are influenced heavily by the costs of the materials and services for which the insurance company must pay in order to settle a claim. These costs have risen steadily.

The key to reducing auto insurance costs is to concentrate on the basics, according to the Automotive Information Council. Select your auto insurance coverage to provide the maximum protection in case of catastrophic losses, while reducing coverage for losses you can afford yourself.

The first area to consider is increasing your collision coverage deductible. The higher the deductible, the lower the premium. Deductibles of $250 may make more sense than the $100 deductible common 10 years ago.

Consider dropping collision coverage entirely on an older car worth only a few hundred dollars. If you need extensive collision repairs and carry collision coverage, the insurance company will only pay up to the car's "book value."

If you have teenagers, don't buy them a car of their own if your goal is to reduce your family's auto insurance costs. If they drive the family car, rates for covering them will be lower than if they own a car and you pay for the insurance.

While shopping for lower insurance costs, take into account value as well as price. Talk to friends about their insurance claim experiences. A company noted for slow handling of insurance claims is no bargain. When getting estimates, make sure all quotes are for the same coverage, the AIC says.

Consumers shopping for a new car should consider models that have lower insurance rates. Insurance companies set auto insurance rates based on the size of the average collision loss claim and the car's safety record. In general, they decrease premiums on large, safe cars and raise premiums on smaller cars that fare worse in accidents.

This creates a paradox for consumers looking at smaller cars to fulfill their driving needs.

To maximize your personal safety when on the road, Liberty Mutual Insurance suggests you downsize your driving habits when you downsize your car. (For a free brochure on small car driving, send a stamped, self-addressed business envelope to Small Car, Liberty Mutual, Box 77-SC, Boston, MA 02116.) Here are a few tips for safe driving in small cars:

— If you purchase a small car, buy a bright-colored one. In most situations, it can be seen more easily than a dark car during those dangerous nighttime hours.

— Drive with the headlights on; this will make the small car more visible to other drivers.

— Try high-quality radial tires to provide better road traction and driving stability.

— Be alert for wind on the highway, including the rush of air from a passing truck or bus. That blast of air can disrupt steering control, creating a potentially dangerous situation.

You can cut insurance costs and still keep adequate coverage. Assess your needs and shop around for the coverage that best suits your driving habits.

LET'S TALK REAL ESTATE...

Joanne Langston

Recently I've written on Langston Monarch's commitment to growth and expansion, a reflection, we hope, of the future for all of us in Midland as well as the city itself.
These commitments included:
A 50% increase in sales associates
An expanded Corporate/Relocation Service Department
A new listing/sales processor
A new training director
A new corporate caller
An expanded market share
And now we are happy to add two more:
Our own in-ofice mortgage program for transferees. It is backed by the strength of the prestigious Prudential Insurance Company, applications are simple and quick, and can be made even on weekends, approvals are usually obtained in only 24 days, rates are competative! Another "first" for Langston Monarch.
An effective, comprehensive warranty program that covers the property not only for the buyer during the crucial first year, but also covers the property for the seller during the marketing period. And, unbelievably the reasonable cost of the warranty policy is not charged until a sale of the property is sold!
Do call us for more details on these exciting new programs.
