FERGUSON AND STERLING ENTER RUN-OFF RACE

McFarlane Crowds Sartin For Place In Run-Off Of Congressional Contest

GRAHAM MAN GAINS GROUND ON OPPONENTS

Young County Returns Swell Vote for State Senator

WILLIAMS CLIMBS

Outcome of Race Depends Upon Final Count In Five Counties

Practically complete returns from Young county, giving a landslide of votes for W. D. McFarlane, Sunday placed the Graham state senator close on the heels of B. D. Sartin of Wichita Falls for a place in the run-off primary against Guinn Williams for the nomination for congress from the 13th district.

With Wichita county incomplete in only two boxes and with three other counties complete, Senator McFarlane had 10,524 votes and Mr. Sartin 10,790 when tabulation was suspended at midnight. Guinn Williams, who has held a healthy lead over all candidates for the first place, increased his lead during the day, gaining nearly a thousand votes in Wise county, his home. Congressman Williams had a total of 14,656 votes at midnight Sunday, a lead of 3,865 votes over Sartin, his nearest opponent.

Outcome Uncertain

While the trend of the congressional race was difficult to predict, it appeared that McFarlane had an opportunity to overtake the lead of Sartin in the counties which have not yet filed complete reports. Early returns in Archer, Baylor, Clay, Montague and Throckmorton counties showed McFarlane polling a heavier vote than Sartin, while the Wichita man held the advantage over his rival for a run-off place in Wise and Cooke, while unreported returns in Wichita county will also give him the edge over McFarlane.

The totals follow:

Williams	14,655
Sartin	10,790
McFarlane	10,524
Smith	3,641

The vote by counties follows:

Gets Majority

The typical West Texas cowboy good-nature of Perry Browning, above, who staged a campaign with little of the usual political high-sounding talk, proved an upset in Wichita county politics sufficient to give him, on the face of practically complete returns from all boxes, a majority over two candidates, both of whom had enviable records as peace officers.

ONEAL LEADS FOR SENATE

Loftin Holds Second Place On Late Returns

Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls regained the lead in the race for the state senate in late returns compiled Sunday afternoon by the Record News. Shortly before 6 o'clock Oneal had 7,279 votes to 6,955 for Rube Loftin of Henrietta.

Practically complete returns were received from Archer, Wichita, Clay, Young and Foard counties, and complete returns from Wilbarger county. Only a small vote in Knox was reported. The vote by counties follows:

BROWNING HAS 54 MAJORITY FOR SHERIFF

With Only 140 Votes Out, Bralley Has Little Chance to Gain

THREE RUN-OFF RACES

Second Vote Necessary For Tax Collector, Constable And Superintendent

Complete returns on Box No. 17 shortly after 1 o'clock Monday morning virtually assured Perry Browning the nomination for sheriff without a run-off primary. In precinct 17 Browning polled 294 votes, Bralley 138 and Hodgins 61. Precinct 24, the only box unreported, has less than 140 votes to be counted.

The totals at 1 a. m., Monday were: Hodgins 955, Bralley 3712 and Browning 4721, a majority of 54 for Browning.

Two "favorite sons" of Wichita county and one of West Texas polled heavy votes over their opponents in complete returns from 43 of the 45 boxes in Wichita county compiled Sunday night by The Record News. Only partial reports were received from precincts 17 and 24, all others being complete.

Clint Small received 3,749 ballots to 1,618 for Mrs. Ferguson in Wichita, while Jimmie Allred polled twice as many votes as his three opponents combined. J. D. Parnell carried the county with a total almost three times that of his six opponents.

Perry Browning was practically assured of a victory without a run-off in the race for sheriff, his majority over Bralley and Hodgins having grown to 50 in the late returns Sunday. With only a few hundred votes remaining uncounted in the two incomplete boxes, there remained little likelihood that Bralley will overcome his lead and bring about a runoff.

Two comparatively youthful county candidates defeated veterans at the political game, Joe P. Hatchitt having taken the race for representative, 111th district, place 2, from the long-standing J. D. Avis by the more than 1,000 votes and Allan D. Montgomery in his first venture at office seeking having decisively defeated J. W. Akin, holder of many public offices.

Runoffs will be necessary in the races for county superintendent, tax collector and constable of precinct 1, although M. A. Bundy, easily won over his two opponents for commissioner for precinct 1. L. V. Abernathy and Irvin J. Vogel took their races for county attorney and

For Attorney General

Allred	230,999
Bobbitt	196,693

DALLAS, July 27.—The prospect that Clint Small of Collingsworth county would displace Ross Sterling of Harris for second place in the August runoff with Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson for the gubernatorial nomination dimmed considerably at the close of Sunday's tabulation by the Texas Election bureau. At the close of Saturday night's tabulation Sterling's lead was around 9,000. Sunday this lead grew to 20,000, then to more than 30,000 as belated returns built up a total of more than 600,000.

WOODRUFF LEADS

WEATHERFORD, Texas, July 27. (AP)—Incomplete returns from six counties in this senatorial district tonight gave Grady Woodruff of Decatur a lead of approximately 800 votes over Eugene Miller and True Strong, candidates for state senator.

Miller scored heavily in Parker and Denton counties while Woodruff was showing particular strength in Wise, Montague and Denton counties.

In the attorney general's race, James V. Allred of Wichita Falls Sunday night had a lead of more than 25,000 over R. L. Bobbitt. Cecil Storey of Vernon was running third.

Nip and Tuck Race

The nip and tuck race between A. H. King of Throckmorton and Robert A. Freeman of Hill county for second place in the August runoff with J. E. McDonald of Ellis county for commissioner of agriculture cleared somewhat during the day. King's lead over Freeman grew from about 500 Saturday night to more than 4,000 during Sunday's tabulation.

Mrs. Ferguson's vote grew slightly heavier during the day but at no time promised a majority over the field.

In the congressional races Sunday's returns brought only one upset. Martin Dies has an unofficial lead of about 4,000 over Representative Box in the second district, with one county, Sabine, unreported. Estimates from Sabine give that county to Dies. Only three of the 13 counties reported are complete.

Williams Leads

Incomplete returns give Sam Rayburn a slender majority over C. B. Randell and B. L. Sherley in the fourth district.

In the 13th district it appears that Guinn Williams will be in the August runoff with either W. D. McFarlane or B. D. Sartin. Other incumbents seem safe.

R. E. Thomason has a comfortable lead over both his opponents in the 16th district. With 26 counties reported in Republican primary returns H. E. Exum of Potter has a two to one lead over George C. Butte for governor and a clear majority over all opponents. A heavy Republican vote in Potter county, home of Mr. Exum, gave him his lead. The Republican vote was light.

Matthew Lockhart Dies After Accident

Matthew Lockhart, 24, of 1604 Burnett street, died about 2:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon as a result of injuries sustained late Saturday evening when the car in which he was riding overturned at the Tenth street bridge over the Wichita river. The body was removed from the hospital by the Merkle Undertaking company and was forwarded Sunday night to Allen, Texas, for interment there Monday afternoon.

Mr. Lockhart is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lockhart of Lois, Texas; three brothers, Si Lockhart of Denton, Mark Lockhart of Lois and Paul Lockhart of Silverton, Texas, and two sisters, Mrs. Ruby Lee Willis of Lois and Mrs. Mabel Fletcher of Denton.

He had been a barber at the Kemp hotel barber shop for about three months. The accident in which he was injured occurred when the automobile struck a culvert near the bridge and overturned. He was rushed to the hospital, where an examination revealed he had sustained a fractured skull. There were several other occupants of the machine at the time, but only one, Miss Ollie Webb, 2500 Broad street, was injured. She was reported at the hospital to have suffered injuries to her back which were not of serious nature.

FOUR HURT IN SUNDAY AUTO CRASH

Four persons were injured late Sunday afternoon in an accident at the intersection of Ninth and Grant streets when an automobile driven by G. M. Blaylock, who lives on route No. 3, and another driven by J. Y. Littleton crashed.

Mrs. Blaylock, wife of the driver of one of the machines, suffered the most serious injuries, having sustained a deep gash on the right leg, which cut to the bone over a space of several inches. Her 3-year-old daughter, Margaret, suffered minor cuts and bruises and Mr. Blaylock also was given first aid treatment for cuts and bruises.

The injured were rushed to the Wichita General hospital in an emergency ambulance from the Albert's Funeral home. Mr. Littleton, driver of the other machine, sustained cuts and bruises of a minor nature and was allowed to leave the hospital after emergency treatment. Mrs. Blaylock was the only one of the injured to have been kept at the hospital for further treatment Monday. Physicians said the gash on her leg was of serious nature.

Shamrock Negro Faces Trial Today in White Woman's Death

Hearing Removed to Miami to Avoid Renewal of Mob Violence Which Drove Blacks From Section

MIAMI, Texas, July 27. (AP)—Jesse Lee Washington, negro, will face trial in district court here tomorrow on charges of murder in the slaying of Mrs. Henry Vaughan, who was beaten to death several weeks ago at her farm home in Collingsworth county near Shamrock.

The negro, who was said by officers to have the reputation of being feeble minded, was hurriedly taken by the sheriff to the Oklahoma state reformatory at Granite, for safe keeping.

Later, Texas rangers and the sheriff brought the negro back to Texas and placed him in jail at Pampa. He was taken to Wheeler for arraignment but was quickly returned to the Gray county jail.

Mob violence was threatened to negroes living in Shamrock, after the killing, and many of them fled. Mob demonstrations also occurred at Erick, Okla., Mrs. Vaughan's former home and many negroes left their homes there. Susbequently, numerous suits were filed in Oklahoma against alleged members of the mob.

LAMESA NEGRO SOUGHT IN SHOOTING

LAMESA, Texas, July 27. (AP)—Thirty or more Lamesa citizens tonight were assisting officers in searching for three negroes, one of whom shot and wounded R. J. Barrett, Lamesa night police officer, as he was attempting to stop a fight between two negroes, among a group of 11 gathered here on a downtown street.

Half a dozen shots were fired, one of them wounding Barrett in the arm. The officer returned the fire as the negroes fled and he said he believed he wounded one of them. Barrett did not learn the cause of the argument which resulted in the fight.

MOB SUSPECT TO GET HEARING

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 27. (AP)—A preliminary hearing for M. Y. Baker, Beckham county undersheriff, facing charges in connection with the recent riot at Erick, will be held Wednesday before Fred Green, acting United States commissioner, federal officers said today.

The undersheriff was arrested along with 20 other residents of the county after Roy St. Lewis, United States district attorney, filed charges alleging conspiracy to deprive persons of their constitutional rights. The men were alleged to have been in a group which drove approximately 200 negroes from their homes.

None of the other defendants has requested a preliminary hearing.

DERBY REACHES LOS ANGELES

Lee Gehlbach Maintains Lead in Flight

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, Los Angeles, July 27. (AP)—Lee Gehlbach, Little Rock, Ark., flier, maintained his lead in the Detroit-Los Angeles all-American air derby today when he arrived here from Douglas, Ariz.

Gehlbach arrived at 12:18 p. m. making his total time 4:16.47. He was followed 10 minutes later by J. R. Wedell of New Orleans.

Stanley Stanton, Blackwell, Okla., ran into hard luck in taking off at Douglas, but made fairly good time with a total of little more than seven hours. His plane developed engine trouble, necessitating a return to Douglas five minutes after he left the ground, and he started with an hour and eight minutes' handicap.

The arrival at Los Angeles completed the first half of a 7,000 mile reliability test for ships with 100 horsepower engines. A crowd of about 10,000 was on hand to greet the derbyists as they brought their planes to earth.

The fliers will remain here until Wednesday, then will start the return trip via Omaha, Neb., Lincoln, Neb., Chicago and Detroit. Prizes will total almost $50,000.

MERCURY HITS CENTURY AGAIN

Sunday 11th Day of 'Above 100' Weather

The current heat wave, playing a record run throughout the nation, Sunday brought Wichita Falls its 11th consecutive day of temperature higher than 100 degrees. The peak reading here was 104 degrees.

Floating white clouds during the day were never grouped enough to cut off the sun's rays even momentarily. The Wichita Falls territory, with its freedom from humidity, has not recorded a serious casualty as a result of the unusually long period of broiling weather.

A light southeast breeze blew here most of Sunday.

ENTIRE STATE FEELS HEAT

DALLAS, July 27. (AP)—Drouth and excessive heat remained unabated in Texas today as temperatures hovered near the 100 mark over most of the northern and central sections of the state. Dallas reported a maximum of 100, Waco 100, Fort Worth 102, San Antonio 97, Houston 95.7 and Galveston 88.

MIDWEST HOPES FOR SHOWERS

CHICAGO, July 27. (AP)—Middle westerners scanned the skies today for signs of the thunderstorms that are destined to break the heat wave.

The weather bureau predicted rain tonight or Monday in most of the parched prairie states extending from Kansas to Michigan and with the showers a welcome return to moderate temperatures.

Thermometers hovered in the upper eighties and nineties today, off several points from the record readings of yesterday and due in part to the sporadic rains which fell through the night in the Great lakes region.

OKLAHOMA HAS HOTTEST SUNDAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 27. (AP)—Oklahoma today experienced its hottest Sunday of the year and there was no relief in sight.

In the state capital a maximum of 100.2 degrees was reported by the United States weather bureau, which yesterday announced a season's high of 101. From Medford, in northern Oklahoma, came an unofficial high of 116 degrees yesterday. Thermometers in the sun there burst.

Missing Air Derby Entrant Found In Home of Former Partner's Widow

OAK PARK, Ill., July 27. (AP)—Edgar Todd, missing Pueblo, Colo., flier, was located today at the residence of Mrs. Grace Findlesen, widow of his former flying partner. Todd explained that frequent delays had made him lose so much time in the all-American air derby, in which he was an entrant, that he gave it up and started home.

Todd said he was forced down at Norwich, Conn., and lost much time there. Going on, he said, he ran into a storm over Pennsylvania, and had to land near McKeesport. By this time Todd said, he concluded that there was no use continuing, especially in view of clogging of the plane's gas line and structural weaknesses in the ship which threatened further trouble, so he determined to fly back to Colorado to be there for another air race next month.

Todd decided to stop off at Chicago because of facilities here for repairing the ship. It was not until he reached here, he asserted, that he realized a search for him had been under way.

Mrs. Findlesen's husband, Ray, was killed near Pueblo last March and she returned here to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Mott.

Todd landed at Municipal airport yesterday and said he would leave for Colorado at the end of the week.

Legal Clouds Cast Shadow Over Christening of 'Mix-Up' Baby

CHICAGO, July 27. (AP)—The Bamberger-Watkins baby mixup settled today into what would seem a protracted squabble.

One of the infant principals, and possibly the Watkins heir, was christened George Edward Bamberger at the Church of Our Lady of Solace.

Original plans were for an afternoon ceremony at one church, but threats from Barratt O'Hara, attorney for the Watkins family, to halt the Catholic baptism by court injunction caused the Bambergers to hold the christening in the morning at another church.

With the name of the child officially entered in the church records, Charles Bamberger stated the celebrated baby tangle was settled once and for all. Simultaneously William Watkins announced the affair was "just starting." He promised a suit against the Bambergers and another suit against the hospital, where the babies were born on the same day five weeks ago, and supposedly delivered into the hands of the wrong parents. Watkins reiterated his belief that the baby freshly baptized George Edward Bamberger is in reality the Watkins' son. Bamberger claims him for a true Bamberger.

Meanwhile there was joy and sorrow in the respective homes. The Bambergers went forward with a christening celebration. Watkins chafed and his wife was reported in a hysterical condition.

Jimmy Allred Leads Field For Attorney General

In many counties no primaries were held.

Sixty-three counties reported complete indicated an increased vote of six and two-tenths per cent compared with the July primary vote in 1928. Should this increase be maintained throughout the state the total vote will approximate 781,000. The 1928 vote was 735,390. At the close of tabulation on the second night of the primary in 1928, 581,452 votes had been accounted for. At 8 o'clock tonight 663,284 votes had been accounted for leaving around 100,000 votes unreported. An earlier estimate based on 30 complete counties disclosed an average increase of 14 per cent, which, if maintained would have given a final total in excess of 800,000.

MAJESTIC: William Powell in "For the Defense." Comedy, dancing novelty and sound news.
STATE: "Born Reckless" with Edmund Lowe. Comedy and sound news.
STRAND: Richard Arlen, Fay Wray and Jack Holt in "The Border Legion." Comedy, Eddie Cantor act and Paramount sound news.
GEM: "Roadhouse Nights" with Charles Ruggles, Helen Morgan, Fred Kohler and Jimmy Durante. Comedy and screen song.

Nobody but William Powell could have so intensified the murder trial in which a bottle of nitroglycerin constituted the most important circumstantial evidence, and no story but "For the Defense" could have so amply pictured the life of a criminal lawyer whose career is one of saving gangsters' necks.

William Powell's suave manner and subdued attitude—as if something suppressed were on the point of coming to the surface—has made him one of the real personalities of the screen. In no other person, with the possible exception of Emil Jannings, is there found the same ability to submerge himself into his part. Powell must have lived in the atmosphere of a gangster's savior for weeks. His every inflection and tiniest gesture were those of the New York attorney whose true life was used to make the story in "For the Defense."

◇ ◇ ◇

No less suited to her part is Kay Francis, ideal foil for Powell and rather an expert at characterization herself. While Ruth Chatterton is the essence of charm and Claudette Colbert typifies vibrant and delightful youthfulness, Kay Francis is the screen's best sophisticate. With a fairly decent plot, the appearance of any one of the three insures a good picture.

◇ ◇ ◇

Speaking of plots, the story used in "For the Defense" is everything to be wanted—different, exciting, new and logical. It was hard to tell how long a term the lawyer got, since five or six babies started howling at regular intervals when something important was said.

◇ ◇ ◇

People Who Bring Babies to Movies belong in the same cell with People Who Brag About Sun-Tan and Those Whose Best Friends Never Tell Them. Many a fond parent, who stays home from church because Junior howls, will drag the baby to the picture show and act nonchalant while his offspring raises a terrible racket.

◇ ◇ ◇

And most of us would rather miss one of the preacher's epigrams than what the villain hisses at the heroine just before the hero gallops into the picture.

Salesmen Beware

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 27. (UP)—George W. Hosses Run to Dead Heat Twice in Day

PARIS, July 27. (AP)—Two modest handicap horses accomplished on the Maison Laffitte race track today the exploit hitherto unheard of in France, of running to a dead heat twice in the same day. Mullingar and Portland, three-year-olds that never have established any claim to fame, started in a nine furlong handicap with 11 other horses. Both ran waiting races, coming fast at the finish and passing the post in the same stride. The owners decided to run the race over again. Portland was the favorite in the runover because Mullingar was given him 19 pounds, but the horses came up the stretch together this time and for the second time the judges were unable to separate them and declared a second dead heat.

Mrs. Lee Honors California Guest With Pretty Bridge

Mrs. Homer Lee's home on Hays was more attractive than usual Saturday afternoon when she entertained in the midst of a luxuriant abundance of summer flowers with a pretty bridge party, honoring her house guest, Mrs. Walter Neilon of Long Beach, Calif.

The pastel shades of the zinnias, shading from purple to pink and mauve were also noted in the tallies and score cards used on the bridge tables. In the games, Mrs. Bert Bean was winner of the first prize and Mesdames J. B. Nail, J. H. S. Bonner, C. H. Lewis and Q. B. Lee were winners of the pretty cut prizes one of which was awarded at each table. The honoree was presented with a lovely gift.

A delicious refreshment plate was served to Mrs. Neilon, the honoree, and to Mesdames J. B. Nail, W. L. Parker, C. H. Reid, J. S. Riggs, Bert Bean, J. C. Humphrey, C. N. Alexander, W. M. Priddy, E. T. Duff, J. H. S. Bonner, C. Y. Tully, John Thomas, C. H. Lewis, Q. B. Lee, John Prewett, M. T. Chamberlin and Miss Margaret Lewis and the charming hostess.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Notwithstanding the number of love affairs that have culminated in July weddings, the very middle of midsummer does not seem the right moment to try to interest one in love and happiness.

◆ ◆ ◆

But a rather pleasant piece of fiction we are reading has emphasized an unusual phase of the romantic gesture. A pair of honeymooners were in France and the bride was bemuddled by the constant "I hope you will make him happy," when in America, she had been used to hearing "I do wish you all happiness."

◆ ◆ ◆

It came to her final knowledge that only by giving happiness can one be happy. And no matter how one may sneer at an old bromide, that remains the truth.

◆ ◆ ◆

Not only to the romance of love does this apply, but to everyday life. There's no happiness possible for the critical egoist who thinks only his own deeds worth a puff and makes little of the accomplishments of others. He is walled in with selfishness.

◆ ◆ ◆

So few people do things alone. We remember Henry Van Dyke, after telling of the happy days when he fished from his father's shoulders, his little rubber boots sticking out from under his father's arms writing "How many of our best catches in life are made from some one else's shoulders."

◆ ◆ ◆

But we do not always remember the shoulders that helped us up. There's many a man who has reached prominence in the eyes of his countrymen who prides himself on his own ability and aggressiveness and considers that he knows the world better than his stoop shouldered father and old-fashioned mother who sacrificed to send him to college.

◆ ◆ ◆

Such is not always the case. We know personally people who have reached the heights in spite of their families.

◆ ◆ ◆

We know one woman who struggled upward out of debt and shiftlessness in her family, winning scholarship after scholarship and finally going to Oxford to come back and become the head of a prominent woman's college.

◆ ◆ ◆

With a large family still depending on her for aid; with debts to pay and heartaches to solace, she is today like one of those sure to enter the kingdom of heaven, for her heart is as innocent as a child's.

◆ ◆ ◆

Somehow it seems that those who grow into greatness are those who have loved and lifted and looked up—which is another bromide. But if we just look round, we see so many faults and no one is happy looking down.

Marriage Won't Change Nature Of Men, Says Dorothy

Can Marriage Change a Man's Nature?—Unthinking Cruelty of Sons Who Don't Write to Their Mothers—Wisdom of Disciplining Infants

Dear Miss Dix—I am a young man who has lived a very gay life. About eight months ago I met a beautiful and wonderful girl, not of the dancing-hall, wild-woman crowd that I had been running with, but a noble, splendid woman. We fell in love with each other, and she straightened me out. I had been conceited, vain, lazy and didn't care how I made money, but this girl made me see what a worthless fellow I was, and I want to work and we were very happy.

Last week a fellow invited me to a party and I went back to the old crowd. They made a great fuss over me. I got drunk and had a wonderful time. Well, since this party I have had no peace of mind. I love dancing and flattery and the company of wild girls, but I love my fine, pure girl, too.

What shall I do? If I marry her, do you think I will settle down and be content with a quiet life?
—JULIO.

Answer: No, I don't, and I think under the circumstances you would be doing the girl a great injustice to marry her. The trouble with men is that they make the mistake of thinking that matrimony is a sort of cure-all for whatever weakness ails them.

They labor under the delusion that having a priest or a preacher mumble a few words over them will work some sort of a miracle that will change their whole natures; that it will make a lazy man industrious; that it will quench a drunkard's thirst and make a man with dancing feet want to put them in slippers and sit by his own fireside every evening.

Nothing of the kind happens. A man's tastes and habits and desires are not altered by a march up to the altar. The things you enjoy doing before marriage you will enjoy doing after marriage. The places you like to go before marriage will still attract you after marriage. The crowd that allured you to them before marriage will draw you to them after marriage.

And that is where the trouble begins, because after marriage you are not free to indulge yourself and follow your inclinations as you were before marriage. You have a wife to consider and you will make her very miserable if you do the things of which she does not approve.

No man has a right to get married until he is ready to settle down, until he is done with dance halls and dance-hall girls, until the very sight of a wild oat fills him with loathing, until a home and a good woman look better to him than anything else on earth.

You can't run with the hare and the hounds at the same time, Julio. You can't have the love and honor and respect of a good woman and the blandishments of bad ones.

You have to choose between them. Don't marry until you make up your mind which one you really want.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Will you please tell me why my son almost never writes to me. I often do not hear from him for months at a time and then he writes just little notes. I worry so when I don't hear from him, for fear he is sick or something is the matter with him.
—ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Answer: I think, Anxious Mother, that when many a man goes up to the judgment bar the blackest score the recording angel will have charged against him will be, "He didn't write to his mother."

For there are thousands upon thousands of sons like yours. Men who have got so absorbed in their own affairs, who are so self-centered and selfish, that they have forgotten their old mothers.

It isn't that they have ceased to love their mothers. Oh, dear no. Mother has a shrine in their heart where they worship in secret. But they are busy and tired and rushed with work and burdened with anxieties and so they put off from day to day writing to mother.

They forget how lonely she is back in the old home from which all the children have gone; how long are the days in which nothing happens; how dull is the life that has no longer in it any hopes or plans or aspirations for itself. They forget that to mother they are still children, unable to take care of themselves, and that she is always worrying about their health and whether they remember to change their shoes when they get their feet wet, and if they have the right things to eat and enough covers on their beds these cold nights.

They forget that mother's life is merged in theirs, and that there is no detail of their lives in which she is not vitally interested and which she would not love to hear about.

They forget how she watches for the postman's step of a morning, how hope springs eternally in her breast that this day will be a red-letter day in which she will get a letter from her boy and the despair and the leaden heart with which she turns away when the postman passes her by and leaves her still looking for the letter that never comes.

It is only after mother is gone where no letter can reach her, and no remorse or repentance can avail, that many a man remembers with bitter tears the letters that he forgot to write to his mother.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My wife and I are a young couple who have twin boys about 5 months old. Every time they howl my wife runs and picks them up, thereby encouraging them in their temper. I tell her that she is ruining them, but she says that they are sick. If they were sick every time she thinks they are, they would be dead, but they are the healthiest-looking kids you ever saw. Am I right or is she right?
—FATHER OF SPOILED TWINS

Answer: Your wife is making a lot of trouble for herself and doing the children an injury by taking them up every time they cry. Get her a baby book and let her read what the authorities say on the subject.

You can't begin disciplining children too early. The foundations of character are laid in the cradle, and you can never undo the training a child gets in its babyhood. It is marvelous how early you can teach a child self-control and obedience.

Women give in to their babies and spoil them because it is easier to spoil them than it is to discipline them, but a man should have more firmness of character.

I am glad to see that you are going to be a father who recognizes his duty to help rear his children, instead of turning over the job entirely to their mother.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Health and Diet Advice

Catarrhal Diseases

Catarrh, while often considered a local disease, is really of constitutional origin, and is caused by an acid formed from the waste products of fatty and carbohydrate foods. This acid is partly discharged through the mucous membranes and causes irritation of them so that they excrete a large amount of mucus.

Mucus is a normal lubricating discharge of the mucous membranes, and it is only the unusual quantity that is pathological, as any opening from within the body to the outside is lined with mucus membranes, and they are all liable to this mucus inflammation.

When the body suffers a condition of acidosis, the membranes become chronically engorged, and it only requires some acute irritation like an invasion of bacteria, dust, or cold air to bring on an attack.

It is not of very much importance where the catarrh is located, since the treatment is to alkalinize the blood. If the trouble is located in the colon, bladder, nose, sinuses, or inner ear, the cure occurs just as soon as one has rid himself of surplus waste and supplied the needed alkaline food elements.

There are a number of diseases having a catarrhal foundation, such as hay fever, asthma, tuberculosis, mucous colitis, and sinusitis. In any of these it is important to avoid those food combinations which are most apt to result in a fermentation of food in the digestive tract, as this fermentation will produce some of the irritating acids that inflame the mucuous membranes.

I have prepared special articles on these disease, and I will be glad to mail them to any who send their request with a large self-addressed stamped envelope for a reply.

The best way to rid the system of toxic material is to use a fruit fast for a few days. There is a method of alkalinizing the blood that has come into vogue recently which uses large quantities of bicarbonate of soda. As this is an alkaline, it makes the blood temporarily alkaline and will usually abort a cold. I never prescribe this method unless the patient has some important engagement, as on the shortest and most permanently valuable route to health is via the "diet special."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Temperature at Night

Question—Mrs. J. H. writes: "Kindly tell me the cause of a boy 7 years old running a temperature every night. He is underweight, and of a very nervous temperament."

Answer—You should have your boy examined by a competent diagnostician. He may be suffering from tuberculosis in some part of the body, or from pyelitis or some other disease where there is a degeneration of tissues going on.

Starch in Melba Toast

Question—M. H. writes: "I have heard that you claim that Melba toast contains no starch—that toasting white bread removes the starch."

Answer—My claim is that starch becomes dextrinized by the heat so that it is not as liable to cause fermentation in the intestines.

Reducing Medicines

Question—M. M. asks: "Will you if possible, tell me what you think of this new product called ——— that has recently been put on the market? Do you consider it harmless, and does it really reduce? Don't you think it a good deal to lose four pounds in a few minutes, as it claims? I do not understand its action."

Answer—I never recommend remedies for reducing. It is only necessary for you to diet and exercise properly and you can surely bring your weight to the normal. The principle of all reducing remedies is wrong. Stop the cause, too much food and insufficient exercise, and you have the only sensible cure for obesity.

Chest Measurement

Question—M. H. L. asks: "What is the chest measurement for a person 29 years old, five feet eight inches tall?"

Answer—Your chest measurement would depend upon your type of build, and would vary all the way from 36 to 42 inches.

The 1929 production of natural gas and refinery gas is estimated at 2,320 billion cubic feet. The total length of gas pipe lines in the United States carrying this gas is over 55,000 miles.

"Just a few words of praise of your medicine. Nothing gave me relief and health as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. I am a practical nurse and was so rundown that I was unable to work. I used to suffer agonies at times and would have to lie down the biggest part of the day. After two bottles of Vegetable Compound I felt better. Now I have used ten bottles and feel fine. I recommend it to many of my patients."—Mrs. Florence Johnson, R. R. #3, Chetopa, Kansas.

Counterfeit Ring Believed Broken By Three Arrests

KANSAS CITY, July 27. (AP)—E. E. Buchanan and Frank Snyder, city detectives, tonight revealed three persons had been arrested in connection with what was believed to be a well organized gang of counterfeiters which had disposed of ¼ million dollars in fake travelers' checks, purported to have been issued by the Mellon National bank of Pittsburgh.

Most of the checks, the detectives said, had shown up in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, indicating the gang's headquarters might be here or in this vicinity.

Frank O. Benson, arrested recently charged with passing one of the bogus checks in Newton, Kan., was free on bond pending a hearing Aug. 6.

Grabbing the Mace.
It Shocks England.
Mark Twain Would Smile.
Calling Things "Red."

By EMILE GAUVREAU

Since Cromwell's time no one has dared flout the authority of the English parliament, as represented by the symbol of the golden mace. But there are some bold men left, so John Beckett, laborite, walks out with the "damned thing" slung over his shoulder. There is an uproar. Members with weak hearts tremble. Premier MacDonald is described as white and shaking. Cromwell's heretical successor is suspended, 320 to 4, which may indicate the extent of the outrage suffered.

Men are like children. They must have a bauble. Millenniums ago they worshiped graven images. Today they invest a piece of varnished wood or colored glass with the symbol of authority, and revere it as fanatically—deny it as they would! The golden mace has become a sacred emblem to the members of the house of commons. Having set it on the speaker's table in some bygone day, they have a superstition that it should not be removed, or even touched.

John Beckett's deed reminds one of Mark Twain's tale of the American tourists who entered a monastry where a perpetual and sacred light had been burning for some hundred years. A tourist looked at it, blew on it and said: "Well, it's out, now." Nothing happened to him, nor did the monastery topple. Neither will the house of commons cave in. But it might if so-called labor leaders should forget their mission and give in to conservatism.

India's refusal to permit Professor Nicholas Roerich, famous Russian painter of New York, to visit India on the ground that he is pro-Soviet, will arouse some to protest. We are guilty of graver exclusion acts when we set up silly barriers against all things Russian because we call them "red." Provincialism is a boomerang. People without vision die in time. American common sense, co-operating with the groping Russians, would make them come to their senses and save the world a lot of trouble.

George Bernard Shaw, growing ripe on the bough, approaching his 74th birthday, lapses into some denunciatory rhetoric. He comes to the conclusion that Caesar, Napoleon and Shakespeare had only ordinary dimensions. Caesar changed civilization. Napoleon changed the map of the world. Shaw's pin pricks have changed nothing. He is beginning to find that old age is a troublesome guest.

England sees no chance of going dry so long as barmaids continue to serve out drinks. Councillor Joseph Wilson, of Sunderland, declares "the English barmaid forms the real barrier in our country against prohibition. The Englishman is a decent drinker and traditionally respects woman."

That may be. But, bad off as America is with prohibition, it would be worse off wet with barmaids. The woman's place is not necessarily in the home; but certainly, it is not behind a gin counter. If, after going wet, we ever go dry again, the country would be overrun with female bootleggers. And that would mean a crop of new criminals; gunwomen, thugettes, racketeeresses, and other non-vocabularic monstrosities! Let the barmaids remain in England.

Can a City Be Too Big?

AMBITIOUS cities like Chicago, Detroit and Los Angeles, which at times have fondly dipped into the future and pictured themselves, respectively, as the metropolis of America, must have got a distinct shock out of the census figures for New York.

New York, it develops, has been going ahead just as fast as these other towns. Its population now is just under 7,000,000. Its "metropolitan district" contains no less than 11,000,000 people—more than there are in the next seven largest cities in America put together.

So, while Chicago continues to grow, and Detroit comes forward to step on the heels of Philadelphia, and Los Angeles shoots past half a dozen cities to land in fifth place, New York retains its pre-eminence. It is still our metropolis, and it probably will hold that distinction for a long time.

For those of us who do not live in any of the cities, all of this is merely a matter of academic interest. Nevertheless, it is about time that we put our biggest cities under the microscope to see just what they signify. Does their bigness, in itself, make for a better life for their inhabitants? Does the New Yorker, who has 6,000,000 near neighbors, have a better time than the man from Akron, who has 250,000? Is it possible for a city to become too big?

It would take a great deal of study and a great many volumes of facts to answer these questions properly. Meanwhile, however, there are surface indications that are significant.

Traffic congestion in New York is, today, almost unendurable. In Chicago the situation is only slightly less bad. In cities like Detroit, Los Angeles and Cleveland it is more than bad enough.

Living conditions, for enormous members of the inhabitants of these big cities, are unspeakable. If anything is certain it is that the lawless gangs of our great cities are bred by the congested, unhealthful circumstances under which thousands of children grow to manhood.

Politically, these super-cities are grotesquely unwieldy. The average New Yorker is completely at the mercy of Tammany Hall. The average Chicagoan is at the mercy of an even less admirable machine. In each case the sheer size of the city gives the machine ample opportunity to maintain its grip on government.

Those are only a few instances of what big population figures mean. It is almost time for the American people to look into the matter thoroughly and find out if the city whose population is almost stationary is not, perhaps, better off than the one whose population is doubling every two decades.

There can be such a thing as a city that is not too large for any earthly use. Now and then one can wonder if New York and Chicago, at least, have not reached that point.

There Were So Many Babies

ELEMENTS in the regrettable Watkins-Bamberger baby case in Chicago suggests other more common sacrifices to the hysteria for speed which seems strangely to have gripped the age even beyond all reasonable necessity.

It has been observed both accurately and wisely that 99 per cent of those who race their cars madly through municipal traffic with excessive danger to human life and property could show no defensible reason for such haste. Only when the crash occurs do we stop to evaluate the toll taken by the mania for unnecessary speed.

Perhaps the nurses in Englewood hospital had a goodly number of babies to handle on the day which brought baby boys to the Watkins and Bamberger families. Subsequent developments indicate clearly that insufficient care was taken to protect the actual rights and proper sentiment of the parents. Considering the anguish and nerve-cracking strain to which those parents have been subjected, it would seem that an unfailing lesson in proper care, even at the cost of additional nurses and five minutes of time, should have been administered by this case.

A Trifle Too Clever

THE men who didn't care what kind of methods they used to beat Senator George W. Norris in the Nebraska senatorial primary seem to have put their foot right squarely in it.

You remember, of course, how they dug up an obscure grocer named George W. Norris as an opponent for the famous senator? It looked like a smart trick. If it had gone through Norris undoubtedly would have been beaten. Unfortunately for the connivers, the courts finally ruled that since Grocer Norris' entry was filed too late he could not run.

And now it is beginning to look as if this unspeakable bit of trickery were simply going to gain more votes for Senator Norris. The American people recognie foul play when they see it. Its usual effect is to arouse a new sympathy for the intended victim. That evidently is the way it is going to work out in this case.

Why All the Delay?

IT develops from Washington that reorganization of the tariff commission will be delayed until fall. The White House, it is said, felt that the senate should not be burdened by having to consider the nomination of new commissioners at this time.

This may be excellent reasoning; yet we seem to recall that the one great, outstanding virtue of the new tariff law was that it contained a flexible scale by which a tariff commission would be able to revise duties scientifically and remove any inequalities that might, in the haste of congress, have crept in.

That being the case, it might be the part of wisdom to reorganize the tariff commission without delay, so that we could get the benefit of this redeeming feature. Otherwise, people may be mean enough to suspect that this new commission isn't going to work any better than the old one did.

The Winnipeg manager's wife who also heads the local Gerry society and prosecutes parents who have children in their act.

Irene Martin, who was Gus Edwards' best looker in 1910. George Jessel, then 11, awakened her every morn and ran her errands. She married Skeets Gallagher a few years later, and Jessel fainted at the news. Divorced last year. She was grand!

The photo of Marilyn Miller at the age of 4, which hangs in the green room in the cellar at the Bijou, Lansing, Mich.

The waffles at Coffee Dan's in Frisco, where the mob meet after theater time. "STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Kay Smith, because of an accident, can recall nothing of her past life. Having met Jim Whalen, who believes her to be a notorious confidence woman, Kitty Banning, Kay investigates that clew without success. Hoping to learn about her past, she goes to a fortune teller, who discovers that Kay has musical ability. Kay again meets Jim Whalen and he threatens to disclose her identity to the police.

CHAPTER XVI

Tomorrow came, as tomorrows will. Kay dreaded it, the morning, the terrible afternoon which made evening still nearer.

The night before, she had had no heart for the piano. Dane and Doctor Raleigh had come, but she told Edith to tell them she was tired, and couldn't see them. She couldn't face Dane now—after what had happened, couldn't bear to have him know.

Edith had had a long talk with the doctor in the hall. Raleigh had advised her to ask Kay no questions, but watch her carefully. He was positive she had seen someone who had depressed her.

That night there had been horrible dreams for the girl, and she had awakened the next morning more tried, more worried than when she had gone to bed. She was tempted more than once at breakfast to tell Edith about Whalen, and what he had said. But each time, when she had made up her mind, she decided she could not confide in anyone yet. It was her own trouble to solve as she could—herself.

She Wouldn't Go

At six, Whalen said she was to meet him. At five she left the office, not knowing what she was going to do. All day she had been undecided. Now, she vowed she wouldn't go, couldn't. Now she said she must. Too much danger if she didn't.

Dane had spoken to her several times during the day, anxiously, she thought, but she had not welcomed the chance to confide.

The elevator down was crowded with homegoing office workers. She heard their chatter, as in a dream, her mind pounding on Jim Whalen.

Should she go? Should she stay away?

Flora bade her goodbye, and hustled off to her bus. Outside on the street, Kay lingered. That way the subway, the hotel, where in a short time Whalen would be waiting. Perhaps he was waiting now, so that he would not miss her. Waiting for her.

Her feet automatically started in that direction.

A breezy voice hailed her, and she spun around, to see Gordon Drew tipping his hat.

"Why not come out to dinner with me tonight," he suggested. His cheeks were scarlet from the wind, and his eyes shining. Gordon always looked so young, so fresh, so collegiate.

"I can't—" thinking of Jim Whalen.

"Listen, you've refused me half a dozen times." Which was true, she had. "A date tonight?"

"N—o—," slowly.

A Grand Time

"Then come on. We'll have a grand time, dancing, anything you want."

"You mean, start out now?"

"Sure, I'll borrow Dane's car and we'll drive out to Westchester, maybe out the Boston Post road. Swell night for a ride, crispy, and moonlight, you know—later." He was half pleading now.

It would mean she would miss Jim Whalen, dance, perhaps forget everything for a while.

"I'll go!" Then after she had said she would, she was afraid and wanted to withdraw her words, but Gordon was too quick for her. "We will go back to the office, while I tackle Dane—only take a minute."

So up they went in an elevator back to the twelfth floor. Dane was still there, and Gordon burst into his office, while Kay waited at her desk. Presently the two men came out together. She called Edith and told her she would be late.

"Hear you're going to dinner with Gordon?" Dane remarked kindly. She nodded. He seemed glad. He was glad she was going out with Gordon. Well, he didn't care. He loved Julie. Funny, Dane not caring, and she caring so much. Now if it were Dane she were going with, she would be excited wildly happy. The fact that she was going with Gordon was not even mildly interesting. Love was very strange. She wondered how Dane felt when he went with Julie, when he saw her, spoke to her. Whether the same trembling feeling came over him that she had when she saw him, talked to him.

Chinchilla Overcoat

"Your coat isn't warm enough for a roadster, even if the top is up now," Dane admonished, and went back to his office. He came carrying a heavy chinchilla overcoat, which Kay knew was his. "Here, you take this." And when she protested, "You can return it in the morning, and besides I have another coat here."

Handing Gordon the keys to his car, he bade them have a grand time. Kay thought bitterly he seemed very brotherly, both to her and to Gordon.

Finally they were in the roadster, that she knew so well by now, and she warmly wrapped in the heavy overcoat, with a fur robe over her knees as well.

"Good guy, Dane. Best there is. He likes you too, awfully well."

Had he told Gordon this? Kay was interested.

"Julie's jealous, but you mustn't mind that," Gordon went on, affably. "Sometimes her disposition isn't the best. I know that better than anybody. Dane's been mighty decent to me—gave me my job, when I was fresh from college this summer, a chance I never would have had any place else. On account of Julie, I suppose, but then, I'm making good, and that's something."

The cool night wind had taken her headache away. She was feeling more like herself. If she could only forget Whalen completely tonight—forget he existed and those terrible minutes she had spent with him last evening.

The roadhouse where they dined was cozy, and Kay enjoyed her dances with Gordon. She found he did not dance as well as Dane, but she was having a good time. She realized when their dinner came that she was almost starved. Her fright that day had completely taken away her appetite.

"Yes, Julie's jealous of you," Gordon said again when they were starting home and the full moon was flooding the road with a pale silver glow. It was the second time that evening, Kay decided, that Gordon had mentioned that Julie was jealous of her.

Gordon was wound up, so talked on. "She thinks Dane sees too much of you. That he takes too much interest in you. Of course, she wants Dane and wants him badly. Did from the time she first met him at his aunt's. And when Julie wants a thing she gets it. Like she got Dane. No stalling around. Nothing."

"Loves Him Very Much"

"I suppose she loves him very much," Kay remarked in a small voice.

"Oh, I guess so. Julie's kind of funny, though. She's not an affectionate nature. Cold. She's older than I am you know. I'm the baby. She's 26, and I'm 22. Treats me like a son. Orders me about, and all that, but I take it in good grace. You have to from Julie. She's used to ordering."

Then Gordon didn't know whether Julie loved Dane or not. His careless "I guess so" shocked Kay more than she would admit. If you were going to marry a man, you loved him. Didn't you?

"It's a nice marriage for Julie,

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Stop a minute and think about this fact. You can ask our information bureau any question of fact and get the answer back in a personal letter. It is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Get the habit of asking questions. Address your letter to the Record News Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What is the weight of the heaviest jew fish caught?—S. H. H.

A.—The bureau of fisheries says that the largest jew fish on record was 8 feet long, 6 feet 4 inches in girth, and weighed 693 pounds.

Q.—How large is Antares and how far away is it?—E. F.

A.—Antares (Alpha Scorpii) is the largest star of which we have reasonably accurate measurements, its diameter being about 400,000,000 miles; in volume it is 100,000,000 times as large as the sun, and 125,000,000,000,000 times as large as the earth. The distance is probably 350 light years; this distance is 30,000,000 times as great as that of the sun from the earth, or about 1,860,000,000,000,000 miles.

Q.—How many doctors are there in New York City?—O. C.

Q.—How many automobiles are there in Italy?—J. M.

A.—The total number of motor vehicles registered in Italy during 1929 was 230,500.

Q.—Under British law, does an oldest son inherit the entire estate of his father?—C. B. G.

In the case of money, a man may leave his money where he wishes with the exception that he can not divert from the estate any money proceeding from that source. In the event of a man's dying without will leaving money alone, it would be divided among the children, subject to the dower right of the wife.

Q.—How long have we had free public libraries in the United States?—M. E. V.

The earliest tax-supported library is said to have been the town library of Salisbury, Conn., established in 1803. The oldest existing library of this kind is the one at Peterborough, N. The Record News Offers a Booklet on Garden Insects

Injurious insects may be divided into two classes. First, those which ordinarily attack only one crop or crops of one kind, a well known example of which is the large tomato worm which confines its feeding to plants of the tomato and potato family. The second class eats nearly every kind of plant that grows in the garden. Cut-worms, several other caterpillars, several kinds of leaf-beetles, flea-beetles, plant-lice, thrips and blister beetles are examples of this class.

Government experts have devoted a 48-page illustrated booklet to a discussion of this subject which is of such vital importance to every gardener. Send 10 cents in coin or stamps for a copy, using this coupon.

you know," Gordon went on, as if he were talking about an entire stranger. "She's as extravagant as the devil, and we haven't a lot of money. Julie just has to marry well; that is, if she wants to play the great lady, and she does. Julie loves the hostess stuff. Dotes on it. Of course, I love her and all that, but sometimes she's rather exasperating. She's starting working on me now, to get me married off—creditably—." Gordon was scornful. "Introducing me to a lot of girls with money. I told her to mind her business that I was going to marry whom I pleased and when I pleased. We had quite a row last night. I'm going to marry somebody I love, somebody I adore—and that's that!"

Nothing!

Kay suddenly felt very close to Gordon. She hadn't especially liked him before. But now, she did. Liked and admired him.

His eyes left the road, as he turned to her. "You know, I think I'm falling in love with you!"

Kay laughed. "But Gordon, I haven't any money, not even a name. Nothing, and you know it!"

But the next moment she knew he was serious, for there was a quick tenseness in his voice as he answered. "No, I mean it. Really I do, I think about you all the time—can't get you out of my mind. That's love, isn't it? I've never felt like that before—"

Yes, Kay decided, that was love. She said nothing however. That was the way she felt toward Dane. And that was love.

"You're so pretty, and gorgeous, and such a darling, Kay. So beautiful—I guess I've got it bad." He laughed shakily, and his fingers gripped the wheel more firmly.

"Well, it's just as good you know it. Any chance?"

'For what?"

"For me."

"I don't know, Gordon—" she knew there wasn't, but couldn't bear to hurt him.

The ride the remainder of the way was made in silence. Kay had no desire to talk, and Gordon was busy with his own thoughts.

At the apartment, Kay jumped out. "You needn't come up with me. I'll be fine—and thanks."

"Sure?"

"Sure."

She watched the car as it sped away, then went slowly to the outside door, which had to be opened with a key after midnight. Her key was somewhere. Oh, yes.

"Miss Smith?" A man came out of the shadow in the entry and confronted her.

"Yes?" she answered, but a cold chill of fear shocked her.

Tomorrow—Great danger ahead for Kay.

Here's Synopsis Of Past Events In Tommy's Life

Tommy Tomkins, a modern American youth who lives in Littleville has the ambition to be a flyer. He talks and dreams of flying until the village begins to call him "Tail-spin" Tommy. His mother is a widow and Tommy supports her by working in the local garage.

One night the airmail plane, which goes over the town every evening, comes down in a heavy storm. Tommy helps Milt Howe, the aviator, repair the ship. The next morning, in taking off, Milt offers to give Tommy a ride to Denver, and Tommy goes for his first airplane journey. This strengthens more than ever Tommy's ambition to fly, and he returns to Littleville determined to work hard and save money for a course in aviation.

Through Milt Howe, Tommy gets a job as grease monkey at the Three Point Air Lines field in Texas. He leaves his mother and Littleville, bound for the Three Point Landing with his hope running high.

At Three-Point Landing, Tommy soon makes good as a mechanic and wins the friendship of Herb Slack, former war ace, and Paul Smith, the manager of the Three-Point Lines. Tommy also meets Betty Lou Barnes who slings hash at the restaurant. Paul Smith sees that Tommy has the makings of a flyer and takes him up one day on a test flight. A new pilot comes to the Landing. He and Herb Slack are old enemies and when the new pilot, Speed Walton, picks on Tommy, Herb steps in and there is a real battle, stopped by Paul Smith. Tommy gets promoted to head mechanic. The Three-Point lines have secured a big contract to run an airmail route over the Guadalupe mountains.

In the Guadalupe mountains, Soapy Camel's gang of bandits decides that old-fashioned methods of robbery will have to be changed. They locate at Death Canyon over which the air route passes and wait for news of a valuable shipment. Meanwhile a valuable shipment of diamonds comes through and it is the duty of Speed Walton to take it over the route. He does not arrive at the airport in San Ado and Tommy and Herb start out over his route to hunt for him. At Death Canyon they see the remains of a wrecked plane. On going lower their ship is winged by the bandits and they are forced to land. Held prisoner by the bandits they wonder what has happened to Speed Walton and the diamonds.

Tommy and Herb work themselves free and make a dash for the plane which is waiting near by. The bandits follow them and wound Herb, but Tommy, carrying him, reaches the ship. Never having flown a ship before he is forced to try it now. With Herb in a dead faint from his wound Tommy takes the ship up through the narrow canyon and heads for the Three-Point Landing. There he is paced down by another flyer and lands safely.

Meanwhile Speed Walton has escaped from his wrecked ship and found his way to the cabin of a ranger who hurries to get help.

Paul Smith musters a squadron of planes to fly to the rescue and Tommy goes with him. After breaking up the bandit gang, Tommy and his friends return to Three-Point for a life of comparative ease and little excitement. They are listening in on the Three-Point radio as the story reopens.

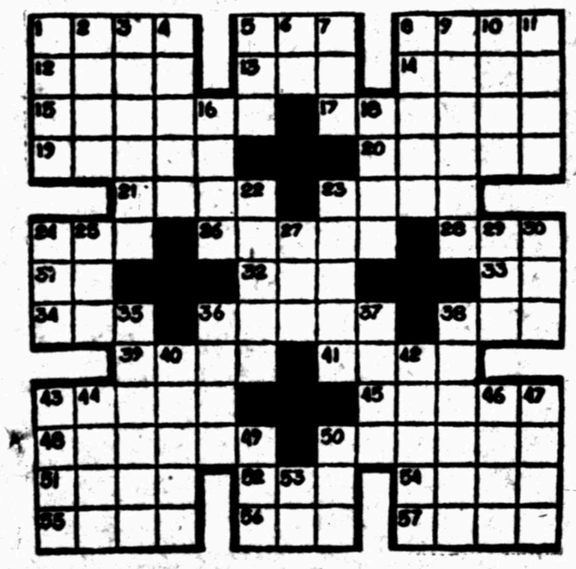

Continue Search For Missing Detroit Flier

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., July 27. (AP)—The hunt for Edward Doty, missing Detroit flier, continued by air and ground searching parties today. Three days have elapsed since Doty disappeared while en route from Matamoras, near here, to Harrisburg.

A check-up today revealed he had been sighted about 15 miles from Matamoras with the plane wandering in wide circles, as though the pilot sought his bearings and later was seen as far east as the New Jersey line and again well down the Delaware valley.

Local pilots say the plane was not equipped with a compass and had but three hours gas supply to travel over a rugged, heavily wooded sections, sparsely inhabited.

SPUDDERS WHIP SHIPPERS TWICE TO AGAIN REGAIN PINNACLE

FLORRID GETS FIRST SHUTOUT

Vincent Hurls First; Larry Gets Two Homers

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 27. (AP)—Wichita Falls crawled back into first place in the Texas league today when they bowled over Beaumont 8 to 7 and 5 to 0. Two big innings, each climaxed by a home run by Bettencourt, gave the Spudders their first victory, the home run king's first blow coming with one aboard in the third and his next in the seventh with two on base. Both Vincent and Denny Burns were hit hard in the opener.

Dick Florrid pitched brilliantly in the second game to win his first shout-out of the season. Florrid allowed the Shippers only seven hits.

The pair of victories, coupled with Waco's loss to Fort Worth, put the Spudders a full game ahead of the Cubs, who now are tied with Fort Worth for second place.

Youth 'Serves in American This Year

By LOREN DISNEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 27. (AP)—It is an often reiterated cry that the present "machine age" belongs to young men. That old men can't stand up to the pace of swiftly moving wheels.

There doubtless are many players in the major leagues on whose arms tiny blue veins are beginning to appear, who wonder why this tendency should manifest itself in baseball.

But statistics show that youth is seeping in faster and faster. In fact, there are four pitchers in the American league not yet eligible to cast a vote.

Nor are they obscure "bull pen" workers, held on the hope that some day they might develop something.

The first cries of Melvin Leroy Harder were not made until Oct. 15, 1909. They sounded in Beemer, Neb. And Harder, in 1930, won six straight games for the Cleveland Indians.

He placed the Indians in the pennant race, and justified the club in taking his youthful scrawl on a contract in 1928. That year he spent doing relief hurling, and the next season with the New Orleans Pelicans on option he won seven games and lost two, allowing only 65 hits in 72 innings.

Then there are Vernon Gomez of the New York Yankees and Glenn Liebhardt Jr., of the Philadelphia Athletics, neither of whom was born until 1910.

Gomez, picked up at his home in Rodeo, Calif., was signed by the San Francisco Seals when only 16. He gained his experience in the fast play of the Pacific Coast league. With Salt Lake City in 1928, he struck out 172 batters in 205 innings; with the Seals the next year he won 18 games while losing 11.

Gomez started off fast in the big time, but later games indicated he needs slightly more experience. Perhaps by the time he is 20, Nov. 26, he will be "ripe."

Liebhardt has seen less work in the big leagues than any of the other 20-year-olds. But they have not had Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg or George Earnshaw to keep them in the shadows.

Liebhardt's first season in professional baseball was last year. He won 11 games and lost eight for Des Moines in the Western league, a last place club. He went there with semi-pro experience, and the training of his father, who one time pitched for Cleveland. He was born July 31, 1910.

Though Whitlow Wyatt's bulk of 185 pounds and his 6:01 frame makes him appear older than his three contemporaries, he was not born until Sept. 27, 1909, in Chickamauga, Ga.

Numerous times this year he has gone in and saved the Tigers from route. During the early part of the season he pitched and won two games, while losing three.

The four young pitchers in height range from the 6:01½ inches of Gomez to the 5:11 inches of Liebhardt. Gomez also is the lightest, weighing 168 pounds. Wyatt carries the most weight.

Cleveland Rallies to Win Last Of Series From Philadelphia, 7-4

CLEVELAND, July 27. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians won the final game of the series from the league leading Philadelphia Athletics here today, 7 to 4. The Athletics had won the first three.

A four-run rally in the fifth inning clinched the victory, which was the 16th of the season for Wes Ferrell, Indian pitcher. Score:

CHICAGO, July 27. (AP)—Fred Marberry permitted the White Sox only three hits today to pitch Washington to a 10 to 1 victory, its only triumph of the four-game set. Armour Stages Comeback In Canadian Open

ANCASTER, Ont., July 27. (AP)—One of the greatest comebacks in the history of the game has been written into golf's record books by Tommy Armour, veteran Detroit professional.

Apparently out of the running after 54 holes of the 72-hole Canadian open championship here Saturday, Armour turned in an almost incredible 64 for his last round to tie Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente pro, for the lead at 277 and force a playoff for the title. The playoff will be staged Wednesday.

Diegel's fine 67 on the fourth round was lost sight of in the face of Armour's amazing card—32 out and 32 in for one of the lowest scores ever turned in on any course and probably the lowest in any national championship.

FRENCH RETAIN TENNIS CROWN

Cochet Clinches Victory by Beating Tilden

By SMITH REAVIS,
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUTEUIL, France, July 27.—America's third attempt in as many years to regain the Davis cup from the tennis musketeers of France foundered today upon the granite-like defenses of those veteran French aces, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra.

Capturing both of the final day's singles matches, France retained the cup she first won in 1927 by the decisive margin of four victories to one.

Cochet Finishes Job

Leading, two to one, after the first two days of play in the challenge round, France clinched the cup when Borotra conquered George Lott, youthful star from Chicago, 5-7, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, 8-6. Cochet put the finishing touches on France's third successful defense of the cup by whipping his old rival, Big Bill Tilden, in easy fashion, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

Tilden recorded America's only victory of the challenge round Friday when he defeated Borotra in four sets. Lott fell before Cochet in straight sets on the opening day and the crack American doubles team of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn were beaten by Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in four sets yesterday.

An intensely partisan and intensely sporting crowd of 10,000, generous to the losers but wild with delight over the winners saw the 1930 series come to a close.

Two Masters Depart

Today's play, while it marked retention of the cup by France for another year at least, also signalled the passing from this international competition of the two masters, Tilden and Borotra. Both told Associated Press they never would play for the Davis cup again.

Next year, then, it will be a year for the youngsters. One of them today showed his metal. Lott fought Borotra to the very last stroke of their five-set match and lost, it seemed, only because of the greater tournament experience of the veteran Basque. There wasn't a time until the last stroke was played that Lott wasn't dangerously threatening.

It took Cochet 10 games and cost him a set to figure Tilden's game but from then on he was like a schoolmaster with a child. Tilden today attacked from the first like a tiger. He was the old master once more in the first set, although at times coming events cast their shadow before in the way Cochet kept Big Bill running back and forth across the baseline to capture well-placed shots. Tilden won just nine of the 28 games in the three sets that followed.

CO-OP SOUGHT FOR PADUCAH

Plains Cotton Growers Join Organization

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 27.—With eight cities on the Plains already well on their way toward filling requirements of the district office here to establish branch offices of the Texas Cotton Co-operative association, R. J. Murray of Lubbock, district organization chairman, and other officials went to Paducah, for a preliminary meeting, looking toward the location of a branch office here.

"We are confident that we are going over the top in district No. 2," Murray said before leaving.

F. R. Friend, Lubbock banker; A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Herman Deiterich, in charge of organization work in the district, accompanied Mr. Murray.

Over the Plains of Texas, farmers and business men are engaged at this time in making plans for the membership drive for the association. At Levelland, actual work is being done and some 350 members have already been signed up.

Already contracts for the establishment of branch offices have been signed and mailed to the district office here at Lubbock from Littlefield, Plainview, Wellington and Lubbock. The guarantee for these district offices were signed by the chamber of commerce at Lubbock, Littlefield and Plainview and the guarantee at Wellington was signed by Judge Templeton.

Organization work at Levelland, Tahoka, Brownfield and Lamesa is progressing satisfactorily and citizens of these four towns are confident that they will have their contracts signed and ready to be mailed in within a short time.

Officials of the district organization are confident that Paducah will fall in line.

MARTIN SPEAKS AT ELECTRA

Modern Age One of Propaganda, He Says

Describing our time as an age of propaganda, Julge P. A. Martin addressed the congregation of the Methodist church at Electra Sunday morning on the subject, "Our Latest Problem." He spoke before the Electra gathering at the invitation of the pastor, leaving his Bible class at the Floral Heights Methodist church here in charge of Judge John C. Kay.

Judge Martin's address and the Scriptural quotation which he took as the basis of his talk follows:

"Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind and said, Who is this that darkeneth counsel by words without knowledge?"—Job 38:1-2.

"We are living in an age of what we call propaganda. Modern business, modern politics and politicians, modern governmental agencies, modern vice, modern crime and criminals; in fact, all sorts and all conditions of men have discovered the truth of the old proverb that 'as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.' So, on every hand and everywhere we have the so-called campaigns of education going on.

Modern Education

"In no former age of the world have the facilities for carrying on a campaign of universal education been half so great. The daily and weekly press, the magazines and periodicals, the picture shows and the radio offer hitherto unexampled facilities for the education of the public. Hardly a life is so secluded as to be free from the influence of one or more of these means of awakening thought and the human mind is constituted that each thought entertained has its effect upon the intellect and makes an indelible imprint upon human character, whether we will it or not. Like the constant dripping of water wears away the hardest stone, the constant reading or hearing of what we call propaganda finally breaks down the strongest will and we find ourselves at last unable to resist the impulse to join the majority perhaps in the adoption of a popular but very erroneous belief.

"A shining example of the effect of propaganda is to be found in the very general idea that the 18th amendment and the Volstead law are a total failure. Within the last few years I have traveled from here to the Carolinas on the east and from here to the Pacific ocean on the west; I have seen thousands and thousands of men and have seen only three in a state of drunkenness. And yet there are hundreds of our people who profess to believe that prohibition does no reduce drunkenness.

"When we reflect that not 50 per cent of our people are even nominal Christians and that we have the means of disseminating thought that we have now, it is not wonderful that the mind and thought of people are turned to things that are not good for humanity.

Seeking Sensations

"We are seeking the sensational. We read the crime news with avidity and for that reason we have more of it than any other sort of news. The people demand the sensational, the strange, the new; witness this tree-sitting craze we have now, becoming so popular that some of our cities have found it necessary to pass ordinances to prevent boys and girls from spending their time in the tree tops; consider the Texas man who last year pushed a peanut up Pike's peak with his nose, for the sake of publicity, and got it.

"So the greatest problem of the day is to furnish our people with healthy things to think about, to read about, to see in the picture shows and to hear over the radio; things that are good and pure and wholesome, for there is much truth in the proverb, 'Whatsoever a man thinketh in his heart, so is he.'

"It is the Divine call of the Church of Christ thus to meet the demand of the times and furnish the world a healthy line of thought; to hold up to the world the most beautiful life that was ever lived, the life of the sinless Man of Galilee."

Nocona Gets New Factory

McChesney Co. Moves Its Plant to Texas

Special to The Record News

NOCONA, Texas, July 27.—Nocona landed another factory last week, which makes six manufacturing concerns for the city. The last one being the McChesney Bit and Spur factory. The others are the Nocona Leather Goods company, the Justin Leather Goods company, the Nocona Boot company, the Maxine Baynham Manufacturing company, manufacturers of ladies and misses dresses and the Nocona Belt and Novelty company.

The McChesney Bit and Spur factory is of Pauls Valley, Okla., and was recently purchased by the Nocona Boot company. The machinery and equipment was moved here Wednesday of last week, and will be located in a large brick building on Front street. Several families moved from Pauls Valley to work in the new factory, which is to be in operation in 10 days.

The J. R. McChesney company has been in the bit and spur manufacturing business for 40 years, having been located first at Gainesville, Texas, but moved to Pauls Valley, Okla., several years ago.

Oklahoma to Try New Vote System

FREDERICK, Okla., July 27.—Oklahoma will try out a new method in the primary election Tuesday, July 29, permitting a legal voter to cast his ballot wherever he may be on that date, providing he can not be at home to vote. Upon presentation of his registration certificate and an affidavit he has not voted at any other place he will be given a ballot by the election officials.

The state ballot may be voted as usual for all but the district officers. On the district offices the voter should scratch out the name appearing on the ballot and write in the name of the candidate in his home district. The same should be done with county offices. The election board has four days in which to receive these ballots by mail and tabulate them.

Rev. R. B. Moreland, pastor of the First Methodist church, is the first person here who has announced he expects to take advantage of this new arrangement. He will leave Monday for Turner Falls to be gone several days.

Testimony to Be Resumed In Goat Gland Case Monday

TOPEKA, Kan., July 27. (UP)—Testimony will be resumed Monday in the license revocation hearing of Dr. J. R. Brinkley, Milford, Kan., "goat gland specialist," but with little possibility that the case will be ended within the week.

Brinkley's attorneys have said they are "not nearly through" with their testimony. They expect to "pile up" evidence to refute every charge made by the state medical association, they state.

Two weeks have been devoted to the taking of testimony of both prosecution and defense.

Barron Pays Tribute to Women In Address to Kay Bible Class

"Woman creates and directs the powerful motives in the life of man. She is the dynamo that gives the world its man-power. Surely woman has been the power behind the throne."

In these words, John Daniel Barron characterized woman in an address before the Kay Bible class at the First Methodist church Sunday morning, basing his talk on the Biblical story of Deborah, who inspired and rallied the forces of Israel to defeat the Canaanites.

"I belive woman would be more powerful and useful if she would confine herself to being the power behind the throne rather than mounting the throne itself," Mr. Barron said.

"I fear the tendency is for woman to abdicate her imperial authority behind the throne and become a mere bread-winner. I do not mean to imply that all women are noble; that they devote themselves exclusively to searching out poor men and giving them inspiration and encouragement for some task that needs to be done. Contrary to what I was reared to believe, all women are not angels. I sometimes fear that they can sink deeper into filth and mire than can men. If she can soar above man in the realm of goodness, I am almost persuaded that she can sink below him in the realm of badness, and her power in this latter realm is just as powerful as in the former.

Power of Women

"Deborah presents a case of a woman who turns all her influence to good. How impossible it would be to count up all the good in the world today which is the direct result of the work of women like Deborah. How impoverished the world would be without them!

"Take the war on the liquor traffic for example. Woman has been the power behind the throne in bringing about the 18th amendment. Her influence brought about the 'noble experiment' whereby we are attempting to control a national curse and affliction. No wonder she led in the campaign against the liquor traffic! She suffered its results most. For centuries she stood helplessly and watched this demon ruin her sons and husbands. Now she has succeeded in getting it written into the constitution that it is unlawful. She has won the initial battle. She has the law and a majority of the citizenship on her side. What is left to be done? Much.

Prohibition Question

"An active sentiment in favor of prohibition must be built up. I believe that if the question were put to a vote, America would go dry overwhelmingly. Yet, curious to say, for some reason there is no popular sentiment in favor of prohibition enforcement. It has been laughed at by the anti-prohibitionists until the prohibitinists have joined in. Our attempts to be funny have convinced the unthinking that this prohibition question is a huge joke. The young grow up with this impression, that the producer and consumer of liquor are first-class citizens. The result has been that no active sentiment against the evils of the traffic has been fostered. We have grown apathetic toward the whole question.

"Here is a field for the modern Deborahs. Let them inspire the timid, indifferent, apathetic men leaders on this question. If the power behind the throne does not continue active in opposition to this evil, we shall retreat from our advanced position and become enslaved."

SUNDAY CLASS TOTALS DROP

Summer Slump Blamed for Decrease

Concerted effort against a summer slump notwithstanding, Sunday school attendance registered a decided drop Sunday with a decline of 312 from the mark set on July 20. A total number present of 6,035 in comparison with 6,347 on the preceding Sunday might indicate that 312 political candidates and election officials in the city were too completely exhausted at the end of Saturday's primary activities to make a Sunday morning appearance.
