Optimist Pledge—
Good For Fathers—
Build For Future—
Welcome Home—

SIXTY-ONE members of the Optimist club sign pledges to devote at least one hour a week to the welfare and interests of one or more boys.

This is quite a worthy undertaking, and should be extended beyond the confines of the Optimist club. Here is part of the Optimist pledge:

"I cheerfully pledge myself to devote not less than one hour a week to one or more boys during the following year after signing this pledge. I furthermore promise to associate myself with some particular boy over which I will exercise my influence in a personal way to promote the advancement of the boy's welfare. I shall be at all times a friend of this boy, his pal and adviser and big brother or uncle."

* * *

That pledge is quite a good one for fathers. Of course fathers devote more than an hour a week to son's welfare.

Do they?

Perhaps in furnishing funds for his food, clothing, school books or other necessities.

The Optimist pledge goes beyond that: "I cheerfully pledge," it says, and furthermore, "I will exercise my influence in a personal way," and at last "I shall be at ALL TIMES a friend of this boy, his pal and adviser." What father would not like to measure up to this standard?

MAYOR R. E. SHEPHERD sets $60,000 a tentative figure for bonds for improvement of the water system here, if the public shows any desire for the election.

Just what will be the public attitude to water bonds seems doubtful in view of the recent defeat of road bonds, but whatever the attitude, the figure decided upon should be ample not only for immediate and pressing needs, but should provide for some expansion and growth of the city. There is no economy in building only for today, when we know that such facilities will be outgrown tomorrow.

WALTER CLINE returns home from the International Rotary convention in Belgium to receive the hearty welcome of his home town.

Wichita Falls may well be proud of Mr. Cline and the work that he has done and is doing for his club and city. The reception given him by Rotarians comes from his everyday friends, from folks in the "old home town."

It was not so spectacular as decorations of a royal monarch, but will perhaps be as dear to Mr. Cline—this knowledge that no where is he held in higher regard than in Wichita Falls.

ARMY FAVORS CAROL

BERLIN, July 22.(AP)—A dispatch to the Nacht Ausgabe from its special correspondent in Bucharest says that a demonstration in favor of Prince Carol occurred at Fagaras. The demonstrators are said to have been dispersed by cavalry, several of the crowd being killed.

By Universal Service.

BUCHAREST, July 22.—Reports of sporadic clashes in Fagaras between the supporters of the exiled Prince Carol and government forces indicated tonight that Carol's avowed intention of assuming his rights as king of Rumania is more than an idle threat.

Statesmen here know that Mme. Lupescu, Carol's paramour, wields a tremendous influence over the former crown prince, and they realize that there are no limits to what Carol might do to regain his rights if the woman continues to urge him on.

Mme. Lupescu already has intimated that she would not be averse to seeing the crown placed on Carol's head. Those who profess to know her, make no secret that her one ambition now is to bring about that end.

Carol Is Calm

The former crown prince apparently is taking it all calmly, but in one impassioned moment yesterday, he declared that he would demand the throne as his birthright.

The abdication of Carol caused grave political rifts in Rumania and Premier Ion Bratiani, the power behind the throne, would like to continue the present government. Bratiani is negotiating with all parties to this end, but it is felt by some of the leaders that a dissolution of parliament and a new election is the one solution for the present political problems which assail the country.

Kink Michael the first, Carol's little son, doesn't mind being king if it will not interfere with his playing.

Today, the tiny ruler was addressed for the first time by "your majesty."

"Why have they changed my name?" he asked.

"Because you have been made king, your majesty," replied a governess.

Tiny Mike was greatly concerned.

He Wants to Play

"Will I be allowed to play still?" he asked.

The governess reassured Michael on this score and the child-monarch seemed to be satisfied.

A valet found a note in King Ferdinand's handwriting, saying:

"If I die, please bury me in the uniform of a general of the cavalry." This was done.

Thousands of loyal subjects continue to pass in endless file before the bier. Bare-footed peasant women had walked many miles, ladies of fashion drove in their luxurious equipages, decorated military men stood elbow to elbow for hours.

The casket is covered with red and white lilies.

CROWN PRINCE CUT OFF FROM LAND ESTATE

BUCHAREST, July 22. (AP)—Under the will of King Ferdinand, former Crown Prince Carol is cut off from inheriting any real estate, but falls heir to about $400,000 in cash and stocks. The rest of the king's estate, totalling about $1,500,000 and including palaces, city dwellings and country houses, is apportioned equally among the other children. Queen Marie receives the use of the palaces and a part of the revenue from the king's property holdings which are not extensive.

The will was executed two years ago and modified after Carol renounced his throne rights.

King Michael, Carol's 6-year-old son, who was installed as monarch with a regency soon after Ferdinand's death, begins his reign with an inheritance from his grandfather of about $250,000.

SUIT SEEKS TO VOID LEASE IN HUGE BLOCK

50,000 Acres Involved In Court Action Filed Here Friday

UNDEVELOPED AREA

Standard and Other Oil Companies Named In Petition

A suit for cancellation of oil and gas leases on 50,000 acres of land in Dickens and King counties in which some of the largest oil companies in the world are defendants was filed Friday by the Pitchfork Land and Cattle company in the federal district clerk's office in the courthouse.

Filed In Court

The petition, which was filed with Miss Jessie Cowan, deputy United States district clerk, names as defendants the Standard Oil company of California, Texas Company, California Oil company and the following individuals: H. D. Conley, S. H. Garrett, Mike Mickels and M. J. Farmon, all set out in the petition as being residents of Texas.

The plaintiff, which is a Missouri corporation, sets out in the petition that property, consisting 50,000 acres in Dickens and King counties, was leased by it to H. D. Conley for oil and gas exploitation, with the provision that Mr. Conley carry out certain provisions relative to the drilling of wells on the property.

One provision set out, according to the petition, that Mr. Conley should drill a second well within four months after he had completed the first.

No Second Well, Claim

The plaintiff claims that Mr. Conley failed to drill the second well within four months after the first, which was a dry hole at 3200 feet.

The plaintiffs cite the oil companies and individuals as defendants alleging that Mr. Conley had assigned leases covering part of the property in question to the defendants named.

DETROIT, July 22. (AP)—Edward F. Schlee, president of Wayco Air Service, Inc., who with William Brock as pilot, is planning a round the world airplane flight, announced today that he hoped to take off on the 20,000 mile journey between August 5 and 11. A preliminary flight to New York for the installation of navigating instruments is planned for early next week.

The flight is designed as an effort to reduce the present record for round-the-world transportation. The record is held by Edward S. Evans, Detroit manufacturer and Linton Wells, newspaper man, who circled the globe in airplanes, steamships and railroads in 28 days, 14 hours and 36 minutes. Schlee and Brock hope to cover virtually the same route in 15 days.

The route planned is as follows: Selfridge field to Harbor Grace, N. F., across the Atlantic to London, to Berlin, Moscow, Krasno, Ufinsk, Kurgan, Omsk, Irkutsk, Chita, Harbin, Vladivostok, Tokyo, Midway Islands, Hawaii, San Francisco and Detroit.

Work On Silver Mine To Be Opened At Elephant Rock On Rio Grande

Tip of Many Years Ago Leads Prospector to Texas Site That Promises Riches

ALPINE, Texas, July 22. (AP)—Preparations to sink a shaft in the Big Bend country in Presidio county in what will be known as the Mace Silver mines are under way. The new mine will be opened near the Elephant rock, between Maria and Presidio and near the main westward highway. The claim is about seven miles north of Shafter where the largest silver producing mine in the United States is located and is owned by Stanley and Mace of Presidio.

Ore that has been picked up on the surface runs about 34 ounces to the ton. If the mine proves valuable, it will be somewhat of a romance in mining circles.

J. T. Mace of Presidio, miner in Arizona and New Mexico some years ago, located the ore many years after being told of the site. Fifteen years ago in New Mexico, a prospector who had spent the night in Mace's camp, told his host of finding ore on the surface in Presidio county, Texas, near a large rock and four peaks. Mace, so the story runs, thought no more of the prospector's yarn, being accustomed to such, but last week went to Elephant rock to paint some signs and began to examine the rock, which he found rich with silver and with traces of gold.

Finding the peaks near the Big Elephant rock, Mace remembered the old prospector's story. He gathered specimens of ore which were assayed in El aso. Reports from the assayer's office show the ore runs 34 ounces to the ton.

Immediately the claim was staked and the owners are pushing preparations to sink a shaft.

DEMPESY OUT TO WIN TITLE FROM TUNNEY

But Former Ring Ruler Wants to Be Good And Ready

Jack Will Not Battle Gene Before Date In September

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Possibility of a shake up in heavyweight fight plans lomed unexpectedly late Friday in an intimation from Jack Dempsey's friends tha the would balk at fighting Gene Tunney in September, preferring to meet the champion next July after two or three more preliminary tests.

This suggestion came after Dempsey had conferred with Tex Rickard and then jumped into an automobile for a dash to Grand Central station where he was expected to board a train for Los Angeles at 5 o'clock. It was based on the theory that Dempsey felt despite his victory over Jack Sharkey that he had not come back far enough to be at his best for a return title battle.

Dempsey Vs. Tunney

Later Rickard declared there was no doubt Dempsey would fight Tunney for the title in September.

"The only thing Dempsey asked me to do was to make the fight as late as possible, but he is agreeable to a date around the middle of September," the promoter said.

"I won't know about the site for a few days yet. It may be Chicago, but the boys are just guessing on that. I haven't decided."

At the same time Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, said he had been advised by Rickard that Sharkey would be submitted for either Tunney or Dempsey in the September fight should anything happen to prevent either of the latter from boxing.

MEETING OF CONGRESS DUE

Senator Smoot Predicts Special Session

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 22.—A confident prediction that President Coolidge will call a special session of Congress this fall to consider the Mississippi flood, tax reduction and other major problems of legislation was made here today by Senator Reed Smoot of Utah following two days of conference with the president.

Smoot, it will be recalled, made a similar prediction after a conference with resident Coolidge last spring in Washington. His prediction then was followed by a White House statement that President Coolidge reserved to himself the right to decide whether a special session would be convened.

Leaders Confer

President Coolidge and the chairman of the Senate Finance committee conferred several hours before Smoot left this afternoon for Washington.

"I still think there will be a special session of Congress," said Smoot before leaving. "It will come probably between October 15 and November 1. There are certain things we ought to get out of the way before politics begins."

The "things" which Senator Smoot enumerated were the deficiency appropriation bill, the revenue legislation including the $300,000,000 tax slash and flood control legislation. He approved Secretary Hoover's plan for spending $380,000,000 over a ten-year period for protection of the Mississippi from future floods as well as developing transportation on the major stream and its tributaries.

Race in Doubt

Smoot was asked if he thought the president would run again. "I don't know," he replied. "But if he wants the nomination, he will get it. If he is nominated, I have no more doubt that he will be reelected than that the sun will rise again."

Smoot said that the extent of the farm relief legislation in the next session of Congress will be "a bill to promote orderly, scientific marketing." He held to the belief that passage of the McNary-Haugen bill will result in another veto by the president.

The Utah senator came out positively against President Coolidge's plan to strip the insular possessions of the United States from he rule of the army and the navy and to place their future administration in a new civil bureau in the department of interior.

"I very much doube the wisdom of any such transfer," he said. "Creation of a new organization would cost a great deal of money. Administration of our insular possessions by the army and navy has been too satisfactory to justify discontinuance of it."

Smoot Loses Hope

Smoot admitted that he has "almost given up all hope" for the legislation backed by the president and himself for re-organization of government departments.

"Everybody whose toes are stepped on immediately draws a gun," he said. "The army and navy opposition is the biggest obstacle to the passage of a genuine reorganization plan."

COAST GUARD CUTTER SENDS CALL FOR AID

U. S. S. Comanche Rendered Helpless by Fire In Her Hold

Ships Search Gulf In Hunt For Disabled Vessel After S. O. S.

GALVESTON, July 22. (AP)—Disabled as the result of a blaze in her fire room and out of radio communication with land, the United States coast guard cutter Comanche is adrift in the gulf of Mexico about 170 miles to the southeast of Galveston.

Fire in the firing room shortly after midnight Friday crippled the ship and left her without steam power. At 2 o'clock Friday morning the Comanche got in touch with the local radio station and reported the fire, declaring that no one was injured and requesting a tug boat to come to her assistance. The radio set soon after was rendered useless due to lack of steam after reserve batteries were exhaustd.

The Bay Towing company tugboat Miraflores was sent to sea to search for the Comanche about 2:30 o'clock this morning.

The coast guard cutter is presumed to be drifting eastward from her original position in the one-mile an hour ocean current. A crew of about 60 sailors and men are aboard the vessel.

The Comanche left Galveston Wednesday in an endeavor to locate a large derelict reported in the gulf. The vessels was in temporary charge of Lieut. R. W. Dierlam, commanding while Commander W. A. Benham is on leave of absence. If the Comanche is located tonight by the tug boat it is expected to arrive here some time Sunday morning. The tug boat is not equipped with radio.

MEMPHIS CROP NEAR NORMAL

Hall Co. Condition Set At 70 Per Cent

Special to The Record News.

MEMPHIS, Texas, July 22.—Crop conditions in Hall county are to take it on an average about 70 per cent of normal.

The east and south portions of the county have excellent crops; cotton is loaded with forms and blooming, and is in a fine state of cultivation, almost every farmer having his crop perfectly clean. The feed crop, a large part at least, is either being headed out or about so, and promises a normal yield. The grass in this portion of the county is fine and cattle in a thriving condition.

The north and northwest part of Hall county is about 26 per cent normal with all kinds of crops. Many o fthe farmers have not had enough rain to plan, while others planted and got a very poor stand. Many of the farmers have not had enough rain to plant while others ficient rain in a few days the feed has a chance to make a fair yield, but it is too late for the cotton with ever so much rain. The grass in this section is all dead and the cattle are suffering for both grass and water.

A greater number of farmers in Hall county are turning their attention to the cow, sow and hen than ever before, and are learning to raise what they eat instead of buying it in paper sacks, and this fact is attested to by the grocery merchants of Memphis, who say say that many of the farmers buy very little out of the store, but instead are bringing produce and other products to town and selling. The poultry business has increased greatly over last year's which is also true of the cream business.

Some portions of the county are badly in need of rain for the crops that is very young, while other parts are not suffering and the crops are growing.

U. S. Army Allows Girls To Smoke

Use of Fags Permitted By Women Clerks

WASHINGTON, July 22.(AP)—The right to smoke cigarettes while sitting at their desks has been extended to women employes of the marine corps but not a single one was observed exercising the new privilege.

For some time it has been an open secret that some of Uncle Sam's women employes occasionally slip away from their desks to enjoy a puff and Brig. Gen. Rufus H. Lane, adjutant inspector of the marine corps, after declaring he would rather have employes smoke in the open rather than in secret, posted an order: "Women in this office may smoke at their desks if they want to."

General Lane said he did not seek to encourage the practice, but believed women should be accorded the same rights as men. The news spread like wild fire among the marinettes, the capitol's name for women employes of the corps.

Recovery of Fishing Tackle From Lake Ends Court Case With All Satisfied

Delivery of a lost fishing rod and line to Billie Gilbert by Chester Beckwith after what the latter described as an afternoon's hunt in the deep waters of Lake Wichita for the missing equipment halted proceedings Friday in the court of Judge R. V. Gwinn, jurtice of the peace, who was hearing a charge of malicious mischief brought by Mr. Gilbert against Mr. Beckwith.

Gilbert had alleged that he was fishing from the pier at the lake with a fine steel rod and guaranteed 40-pound line, valued at $35, when Beckwith ran too close with his motorboat. The propeller of the boat, it was alleged, caught the fish line and jerked the rod from the angler's hands.

The jury had been selected and Judge Gwinn was ready to proceed with the case when Mr. Gilbert was asked if he would be satisfied if he recovered the lost property. His reply was affirmative. The rod was then produced with the explanation that Mr. Beckwith, with assistance, had spent all of Thursday afternoon diving for the rod and had finally located it on the bottom of Lake Wichita.

JERUSALEM, July 22.(AP)—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—For the first time in many centuries the prayers of pious Jews at the western wall of the temple, commonly known as the wailing wall, have been interrupted. The recent earthquake that shook Palestine and the Trans-Jordania is responsible, the authorities preventing pilgrimages of the Jews to the wall because they say the houses in the narrow streets adjacent to it have been rendered unsafe by the quake.

CITY TO FIX NEW TAX RATE

Increase Expected Despite Increased Values

Following a statement issued Friday by Ralph Hyer, city tax assessor and collector, that the total assessment value of Wichita Falls property would probably increase about $4,500,000 in 1927 over 1926, Mayor R. E. Shepherd said that in view of the estimate made by Mr. Hyer that it was probable the city council would set the 1927 tax rate at its Monday night meeting and that it would range between $1.40 and $1.45.

Bonds Raise Total

A few weeks ago members of the city council estimated that an increase of from 12 cents to 15 cents in the 1927 rate over the 1926 rate, which was $1.30, would be necessary for the payment of principal and interest on bonds and for the maintenance of the city government.

The estimate made by the city council members was based on a probable increase of the total assessment value in 1927 over 1926.

Mr. Hyer's figures are based on the renditions of property in the city, however the exact amount of the increase will not be determined until Mr. Hyer has completed the compilation of the city tax rolls, which will be during the latter part of August.

$4,500,000 Increase

The assessment value of rendered property in 1927 in Wichita Falls is $44,938,090 and unrendered $4,855,170. However, these figures are subject to change when the totals are brought down in August for the completed tax roll. With the present estimate the total of 1927 rendered and unrendered assessment values is $49,793,260. In 1926 the total was $45,167,510.

Assessment value is based on two-thirds of the actual value of the property.

Don't Marry Woman You Do Not Love—It's Not a Fair Contract

Should a Man Marry the Woman Who Loves Him, Who Would Make an Excellent Wife, but With Whom He Is Not in Love?—The Young Man Whose Perfect Fiancee Needs More Backbone. The Abnormal Father and His Adopted Son.

Dear Miss Dix—There is a certain very fine woman which whom I have been great friends for a number of years. She possesses all the good qualities that a man would want in a wife and I respect her and am very fond of her, but I cannot love her in the way a man should love the woman he marries. Unfortunately, this lady is in love with me and the question is: Shall I marry her and make her happy and trust to luck that I will fall in love with her after marriage? Undoubtedly she would make me a good wife. Miss Dix, what would you advise me to do? Marry her or wait until I find the one whom I can truly love, the one I feel is my heaven-sent mate?

H. H.

Answer:

Wait. Don't marry a woman just because you are sorry for her. It is the cruelest thing you can possibly do to her. Don't delude yourself into thinking that you will make her happy by sacrificing yourself to her. You will precipitate lifelong misery upon her.

It is a sad thing for a woman to give her heart to a man who doesn't want it and it hurts her pride when he rejects it. But that is nothing to the humiliation of the wife who knows that she has thrust herself upon her husband and that he merely tolerates her through a sense of generosity and chivalry.

Nor is there any woman more unhappy than the unloved wife. Her days are filled with jealousy, because she is always on the lookout for the woman to come along to whom her husband will give the love he cannot give to her.

Furthermore, a man has to be more than mortal if he does not in time find an unwanted wife a burden and does not regret the quixotic impulse that made him marry her. It takes a lot of love to enable anybody to stand matrimony and put up gracefully with the self-abnegation it entails.

A girl will get over an unrequited love affair and turn her affections upon some other man and marry him and be happy ever after. But if she marries a man she loves who doesn't love her, it makes a tragedy that wrecks her whole life.

Don't dulude yourself by thinking that you will fall in love after marriage with a girl you have not been able to love before marriage. Love isn't a matter of logic and reason. We don't love people because it is our duty to love them or because they have certain qualities for which we should love them. Love is a question of impulse, of instinct, of secret attractions that we cannot analyze.

We do not know ourselves what it is about some one particular individual that draws us irresistibly toward him or her and makes his or her very faults dearer than any one else's virtues. We do not know why those who fire our fancy often do not come up to our ideals nor why our ideals so seldom fire our fancies.

The woman who marries a good man and the man who marries a splendid woman without love may come to have a very warm friendship for their mates, but this is not love, any more than bread is cake.

I doubt very much if any man or woman ever falls romantically in love after marriage—really, palpitatingly, I-can't-live-without-you love—with the woman or man to whom he or she is married, for the tendency of marriage is to break down illusions not to foster them, to stifle thrills not to inspire them. And because marirage is the real test of love and the great slayer of love, no one should go into it except with a full head of steam on.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am engaged to a girl who is simply ideal. She doesn't net, drink, smoke or go to dances. She is highly cultured, a real musician, a good cook, can sew and take care of a house. But she has one fault. She has no independence of character at all. She is just a clinging vine. That's all right when she is with me, but I am afraid it might get her into trouble some day. A man cannot love a girl who has no independence, nor can he love a girl who is too independent. What shall I do about it?

L. H.

Answer:

You voice one of the imposible demands that your sex always makes upon women, because you want your girl to be one thing to you and something else to the rest of the world.

As I understand it, you think this girl is too soft, and yielding, that she is too easily influenced and that she lacks the backbone to stand up and fight her own battles. Yet, at the same time, you do not want her to be one of the self-sufficient young women who know their own minds and are determined to do their own way and who are just as immovable as a slab of granite when they take their stand.

Naturally a happy medium between a jellyfish and the Rock of Ages is desirable in the feminine character, and the ideal wife is undoubtedly the woman who has opinions but who is not opinionated, who has firmness without being set, who possesses a spinal column but who can bend it gracefully.

Alas, however, we seldom realize our ideals, and betwen the woman who is too independent and the one who isn't independent enough, I should prefer as a daily companion the more plastic of the two.

Much is to be said in favor of the clinger as a wife. She flatters a man's vanity. She does not antagonize his views. She adapts herself to his ways. She never argues nor fights and is a soothing person with whom to live.

Anyway, if I had found a pretty, well-educated, intelligent, modest girl who was a god cook and could sew and take care of a house, I'd take a chance on supplying the backbone for the family myself.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a man 38 years old. Have an adopted son 22 years old. We go in the same crowd, wear the same clothes, do everything together and my whole life is wrapped up in him. I love him better than I do my wife. I have started this boy in business and he is doing well but he has falen in love with a girl and wants to get married. I don't know anything about the girl. I must forbid him to marry her? I feel it will kill me if I have to give him up and cannot have him with me all the time. Please tell me the easy way out.

A HEARTBROKEN FATHER.

Answer:

The only way out is the commonsense route, and that is for you to realize that your adopted son is a grown man and has a right to live his own life and to marry any decent girl he chooses.

Your position is utterly unjust to the boy and your attitude an abnormal one. You seem to have a morbid affection for the lad which would be most unnatural for him to return. Apparently you have centered your whole life upon him and he is all-in-all to you. You desire no other companionship. You renew your youth in his.

Many parents feel thi sway about their children and are violently opposed to their children marrying because it will bring about a seperation between them.

They forget that the children never feel that way about them. The parents never fill their children's lives as the children do the parents. The parents' love never satisfies the children as the children's love satisfies the parents. The young have need of new ties, of fresh interests, of other affections.

So accept the inevitable and bind your adopted son still closer to you by the ties of gratitude by recognizing his right to love and marry, even as you did.

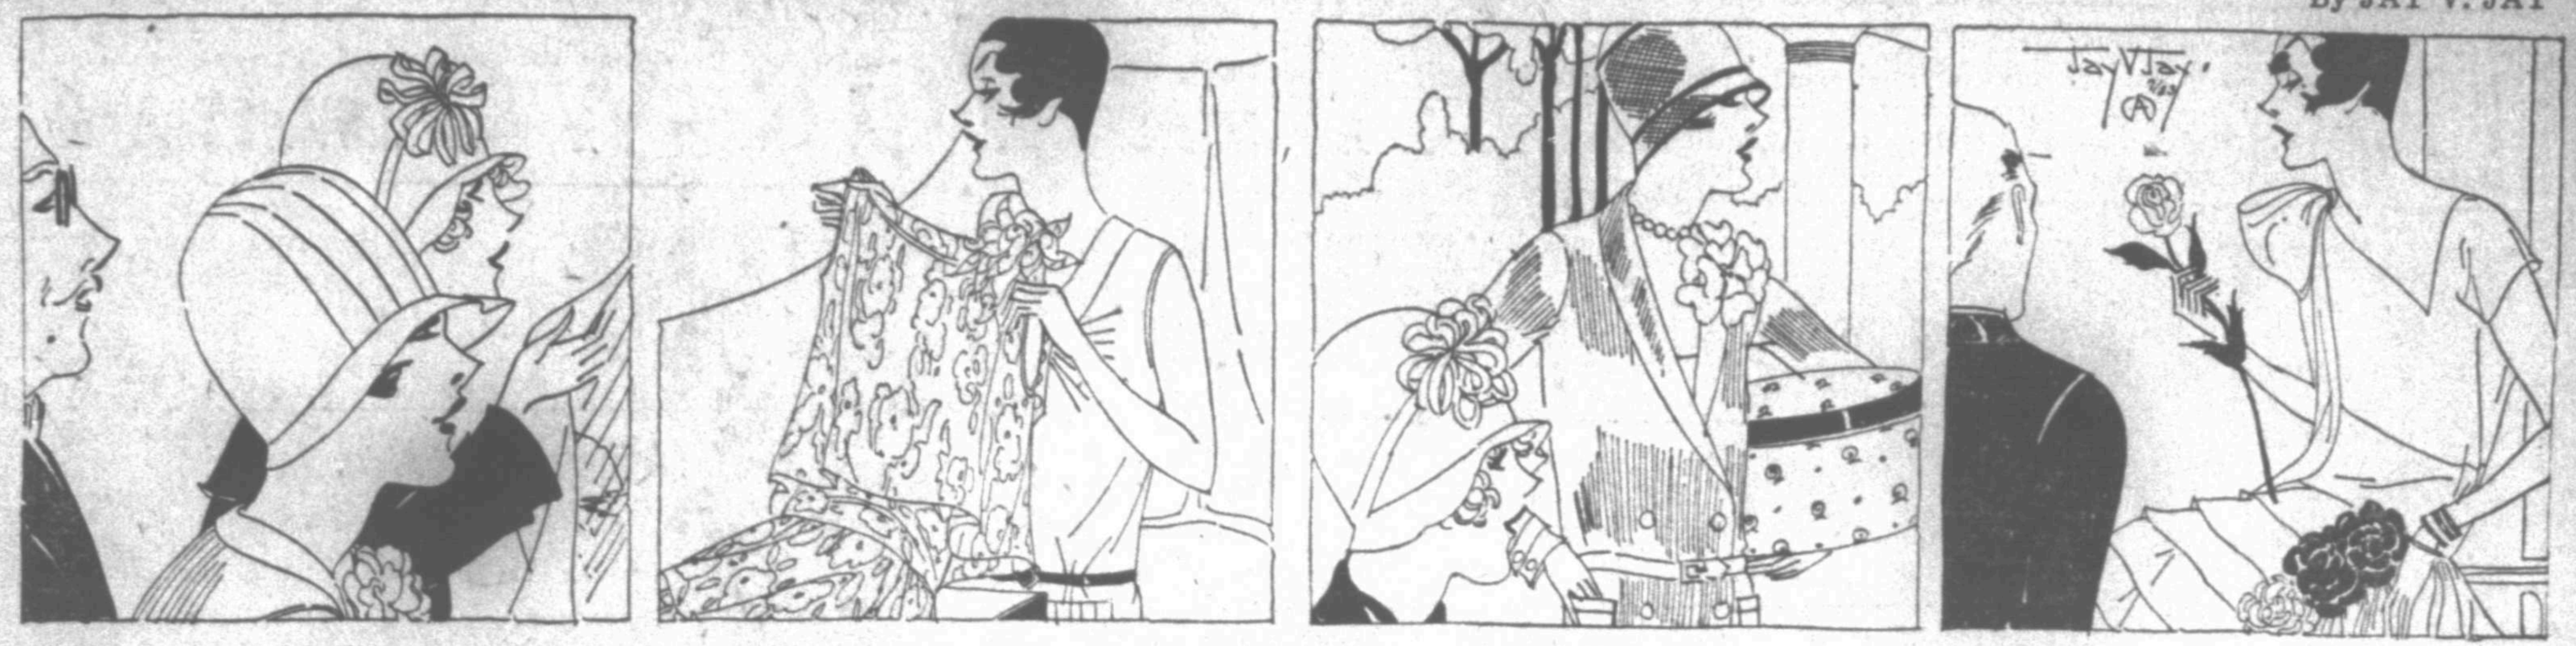
MODISH MITZI

By JAY V. JAY



Mitzi and Polly are just leaving the wild woods flat. Dad is polite about urging them to stay, but thinking of his fishing, he carefully remarks that the mosquitoes will be worse here next week. You have an excellent view of a tucked white felt hat and a ribbon trimmed one, too.

Mitzi found she had so many dresses with her that just were not at home around the camp fire. This one for instance, of printed georgette with a bolero blouse and flounced skift. And even the crepe de chine sleeveless dress she is wearing—collarless and with a pleated skirt.

They are saying goodbye to the simple life. Mitzi is glad of a chance to wear this hat of white pique with the jacket to match and a black satin skirt that contrasts nicely. Down with the simple life—although why it is simpler not to have bathtubs neither of them can see.

The young man who was a friend of the Goofer is really delightful and shows quite the proper appreciation of Mitzi's evening dress of blue chiffon with its roses in three different shades of blue. "Poor Dad," thinks Mitzi, and Dad at his lonely campfire simply grins with joy.

NO TRACE OF DYNAMITE SHIP

Vessel Sinks With Cargo Of Explosives

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22. (AP)—No trace of dynamite laden schooner, Northland, which sank early today in San Francisco bay had been found at 9 a. m. though several tugs and coast guard cutters felt about the Golden Gate in a dense fog, not knowing whether they were to strike the submerged hulk of the menacing vessel themselves.

The Northfield was rammed last night by the British freighter Pacific Trader. Her crew of 30 men were taken aboard the freighter because it was feared the collision which caused a hole to be stove in her bow, would set off the 40 tons of dynamite and 2 1-2 tons of fulminating caps.

All vessels were warned of the Northland as she was abandoned. A heavy fog prevailed all night.

WHAT IS A FLAPPER?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is She the Wlid Young Thing She's Painted?

By Beatrice Fairfax.
An Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage.

JUST what is a flapper?

Could you tell offhand—quickly?

The word is too young in its new meaning for dictionary definition, although we all talk about flappers every day of our lives, and have done so for several years now.

It is not enough to say that a flapper is a young girl. The word includes a suggestion of unfavorable criticism.

"A flapper is a modern young girl of whom you disapprove," suggests a wise friend of mine.

The flapper as we picture her at her worst is certainly repellant. Her cropped head, painted lips, vulgarities of speech, stilted heels, cigarettes, hip flask, her distorted view of life gained from cheap sex books and novels, her showy unmorality, her intolerant scorn for her parents and for all who differ from her materialistic views, her determination to enjoy the hectic pleasure of the moment regardless of where it leads—her lack of self-discipline, self-control, modesty and grace of youth—are a complete picture of what a human being should not do and be.

Diane is the type of girl sometimes called a typical flapper. She is now twenty-two, but she has been flapping vigorously since early schooldays and will doubtless continue to flap indefinitely.

Diane is in love with a married man. She is absorbed in the game of getting him away from his "narrow-minded" wife. She has been in love with Don several weeks now—ever since the two went joy riding in Diane's sport car, which broke down in a thunderstorm on a lonely road and kept the two out together most of the night.

Between innumerable cigarettes and with considerable profanity, Diane proposed to Don. She also suggested that he bribe his wife to get a divorce. If she refused, in her old-fashioned foolishness, why, Diane would flaunt her affair until self-respect forced the neglected wife to free her husband.

She finds it fairly easy to persuade men they are misunderstood at home. Cocktails and rides in her roadster, racing past less speedy drivers at imminent risk to their lives, add to the thrill of playing about with Diane.

"I tell you frankly I want your husband. You may take refuge in fake respectability, but you don't know how disagreeable I can be! I will hound the life out of you until you release him."

Fortunately, it is not always—in fact, not usually—necessary to view the modern girl with pity and disapproval. We may point to her also with pride and affection and dream dreams and see visions of her happy, useful, successful future.

The average girl of today is the natural evolution of the girl of former generations. She is the eternal feminine with many modern improvements. She is a product of universal education, economic independence of women, prevalence of healthful, athletic sports. She has faults along with her many virtues, exactly like every other generation.

Certain friends of mine worried considerably over their daughter during her four years at the State University. Kay stood fairly well in her studies. She ranked high in sports and shone when it came to the social life of her sorority and "U."

She borrows the family car and drives it at perilous speed, but with undeniable skill. Kay was popular at college, without petting, though she had a good-night kiss for her best friend.

Her ambition for a career was divided between stage dancing and the law. Just as her parents were plunged into despair over her wild plans for the future, Kay calmly announced her engagement to Bob, who graduated last year from the and "U" this year from a navy flying-school.

There was never a happier bride-to-be than Kay, nor a prouder fiance than Bob. Deep in her heart the modern girl is 100 per cent sincere in her desire for happy romance, marriage and an ideal home of her own.

So it may be that when we forget our prejudice and realize there is nothing immoral in frankness, in short skirts, one-piece bathing suits and bobbed heads, we shall also forget the term "flapper" and find a better, more complimentary word to describe the splendid modern girl, healthy of mind, body and spirit, who is the inspiration, pal, sweetheart and wife of the modern man and mother of the coming generation.

When Cupid Errs -:- Then Gossamer Bonds Become Heavy Chains

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

LOVE finds delight in weaving bonds delicate and fragile as gossamer which will, nevertheless,, bind two lovers fast together. The victims who thus find themselves bound and helpless cherish their chains and wish only to make them more secure.

But if Cupid has erred, if he has chosen the wrong two, there comes a time when those gossamer bonds become heavy and wearisome as chains of iron. In sullen, helpless resentment, the two who were lovers gaze upon their hateful bonds and wonder how it ever happened.

Yet Cupid has magic tricks in his quiver and perhaps, even though he has erred, he may again transform those ugly chains into the delicate, tenuous threads of fascination, and the sight of those hideous, great links will fade from the mind and become as an ugly, unbelievable dream. Let us hope so, for Cupid's sake and theirs.

Open-Air Schools for Healthy Children

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOUR child will probably be healthier and learn more Winter and Summer, in an open air school than in a shut-in school.

CHARLES A.L. REED, M.D.

Of course just now in the Summer season, when "schools" are not in session, children learn what they do learn largely in the open.

Camps, the fields and the woods are the ideal "schools" for Summer, whether "teaching" is done in them or not.

In a recent trip around the world, I found the open air school the only ones employed by the native populations, especially the Hindoos and Mohammedans, in all the tropical and semitropical countries.

In the northern countries of Europe and America I have found open air schools are established chiefly for the ill and near-ill children. But if they are good for the near-ill why are they not best to keep well children from becoming ill? That is what is being done most successfully in some American cities as, for example, the celebrated Lotspeich schools in Cincinnati.

In Holland, I find, these open air schools are as yet used only for children who are not definitely ill, but are sickly, listless, weak and under weight; those who suffer from poor appetite, occasional slight fevers, anaemia, enlargement of bronchial glands and other symptoms of incipient tuberculosis.

One important function of the school is as an after-cure center for children who have had a successful course of sanitation treatment and require a stepping-stone back to ordinary life.

The children are selected by the medical officer of the anti-tuberculosis dispensary, and their homes are regularly visited by tuberculosis visitors. Unless conditions at home were bettered most of the value of the school would be thrown away.

The curriculum of work is identical with that of other national schools, but apart from their lessons the children get rest and exercise in the open air, light baths and douches. They attend for at least a year, and are followed up every year to investigate the results. The school is run by a voluntary society with liberal subsidies from the local and provincial health authorities, and parents pay a weekly charge according to income.

Although the Dutch climate is not nearly so stable as that of the United States, it is found that nearly 80 per cent of the lessons can be given in the open air.

The immediate results are very encouraging. The children rapidly gain in weight, their complexions and the quality of their blood improve, and they feel better in themselves. The improvement has been found to last for at least three years after they leave, and in most children it is probably permanent.

It is obvious that open-air schooling would also benefit children suffering from asthma, rickets, chronic bronchitis and undernourishment, quite apart from tuberculosis. It is quite probable that it might also benefit that great national problem in Holland, the rheumatic child.

But if, as I have said, it is good for cure, why not equally good for prevention.

The Dutch have answered this question by establishing the "health" school, an annex to any ordinary school, consisting of wooden shelters opening on one side to an open green space.

There is no reason why this scheme should not be adopted in nearly every school in the world, and it would make an incalculable difference to public health.

Bank Account for Children Teaches Responsibility

By Lucy Lowell

HAVE you a little thrift habit in your home?

Do you make a practise of putting something away—a few dollars, even a few cents—each week for the rainy day which misses very few lives, indeed?

LUCY LOWELL

Do you teach your children to do this?

No better foundation for a child's character can be established than the feeling of responsibility that comes with a bank account, however small. It brings a sense of independence and teaches the true value of money and respect for property.

It demonstrates the fact that there is no such thing as "easy money." And when the youngster who has acquired the saving habit grows up and enters the working world he has developed in him the understanding of fair exchange, the fact that he must give value for what he gets.

Recognizing the value to future generations of the thrift habit, New York schools have established school banks to teach pupils the value of saving their money and encourage responsibility among them.

There now are forty-three banks in New York City high schools and 390 banks among elementary schools, with nearly 400,000 active accounts in these banks.

That the pupils themselves see the value of saving is indicated in the records, which show an increase of 23 per cent in the accounts last year.

The man or woman who lives with the knowledge of something laid by is happier, more contented, self-reliant and peaceful of mind than the one who spends right up to his or her income.

This last sort of person even at best always must be a bit apprehensive of disaster and at worst continually haunted by worry.

The thrift habit is one that may safely be acquired early and kept forever. It is a good habit.

Household Hints

Picture Cleaning.

During the Spring-cleaning operations it is advisable to examine the backs of all pictures, for if they have become even slightly broken they will let in the dust, and pictures will never look clean and bright if the inside of the glass is dusty. If this has happened, strip off the back cover, remove the boards, take the glass out, dust the picture, clean the glass thoroughly on both sides, replace, nail up again, and gum on a fresh sheet of thick brown paper or cardboard. If you value your oil paintings have them revarnished by an expert in the art when they require it.

The Drawer That Sticks.

When a drawer sticks and refuses to be pulled out or pushed in, most people plane the top of the wood. This is wrong, for the reason for the drawer sticking is that the wood has expanded owing to dampness. A drawer that has been planed, when it is again dry will contract too much and lose its dust-proof qualities. The proper cure is to rub the top edges of the drawer with beeswax or paraffin. The drawer will never stick again.

Our Rhyming OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

THERE are so many selves in every man that none can say which facet shows most truth, the sober being of life's later span or that bright self aglow with golden youth. So many selves, and which is you or I, the self that loves, the self that hates and schemes, the self that flaunts hope's banners in the sky, the happy self that only drifts and dreams? There is that sullen self of darker mood who sometimes like a stranger enters in, the self that no man ever understood, the baser self that leads to strife and sin. There is the shining self that lifts the thought to all things noble, all things fine and high, the self by whom life's greatest deeds are wrought. So many selves, and which is you or I?

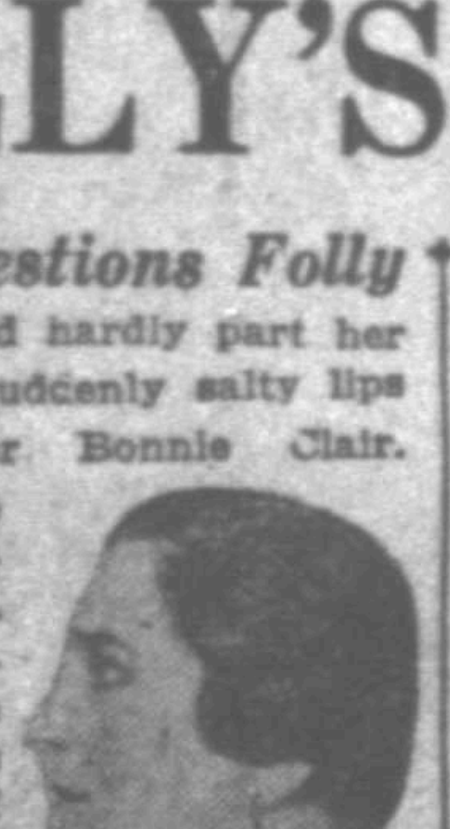
FOLLY'S DAUGHTER

A Thrilling Mystery of New York Night Life

By Ann Lisle

Bonnie Questions Folly

FOLLY could hardly part her dry and suddenly salty lips to answer Bonnie Clair. And while she fumbled for words the spiteful and disappointed Bonnie went on with as great an air of innocence as she could manage with a heart full of black mischief:



ANN LISLE

"You recall the girl, don't you, Roy? I tried hard to place her that night. She was so lovely and so conspicuous. And all the rest of the party were so struck by the resemblance. But I was trying to place her——"

"Did you remember her?" Folly asked, and her voice began to crisp. "She was only seven when you saw her last, almost ten years ago. And she was only two or three when you first saw her."

Sam smiled and whispered: "Sic 'em, Fritz! I can see there's a fight on. And you've scored first blood by giving away that Bonnie isn't quite as near flapperdom as she says she is."

He had taken Folly's arm and steered her away, marching down the Boardwalk and leaving Roy to pay for the candy and follow with Bonnie.

"I'm showing myself up as older than I say I am," Folly sighed. "I don't know why I did it; but she got me angry. She roused something in me I don't often let out to daylight."

"She isn't through with you yet," Sam told her. "Wait till we settle down at the Submarine Grill for our midnight feast."

"Let's not go," Folly begged.

"Afraid?" Sam asked, masking his own fears with an air of bravado. "Let's not get into a row with the folks we've got to drive back with tomorrow. I don't believe she'll start anything. You scored her off fine. Besides, why should you mind talking about the kid you're raising? I think you ought to boast. You being so good to the brat makes me feel twice as responsible for you, darling."

So the quartet met again at the Grill, and for a while Bonnie seemed so intent on enjoying her lobster cocktail that she didn't revert to the quarrel that had sputtered and died. And then Roy said suddenly, as if the words were dragged from him:

"Mrs. Duane, you say that the cigarette girl who used to be at Beppo's is your ward. That you adopted her. That you knew her—mother. Is it the tall, copper-haired girl with the long Egyptian eyes and the soft mouth and the long throat? Is that the one?"

"That is Jill," Folly said quietly.

"Funny your ward should be the living image of Roy's wife," Bonnie laughed. "We called her Mrs. Scarlett's flapper double. Didn't the girl tell you?"

"Oh, yes," Folly said easily. "Jill told me. And I went down to Beppo's to inquire. But he made a funny blunder, and never till tonight have I connected the lovely lady of whom Jill raved with the charming woman known as Mrs. Scarlett. You see good old Beppo said Scarlatti. Wasn't I stupid not to guess?"

Folly felt as if there were suddenly two of her. One was scared almost to death. One of her was resentful. Trapped. The other was amused, spiteful and sure that she could defeat Bonnie because she knew the truth and how to lie out of it. But both the odd, disembodied, eager Folly Duanes were passionately, desperately intent on one thing. And to accomplish that one thing much must be done.

"Have you ever met my wife?" Roy asked. His lips were dry now. He had forced the issue. But he felt like a rotter—a cad. He had a wild desire to stop the force he had set in motion. He felt that it would destroy himself, his happiness, his marriage—everything. This episode with Bonnie might end tonight, and nobody would be the wiser. But what Folly Duane was going to tell him about Viv might smash his dreams. He couldn't get these back.

Folly smiled into his fluttering, haunted eyes. She looked with a touch of scorn at his trembling gray lips. And she answered:

"No, I have never met Mrs. Scarlett. But from what Jill tells me she must be very beautiful. You are a lucky man."

Bonnie sent Folly a murderous glance. Folly saw it, and enjoyed it quietly. Probaby she was doomed anyhow, she thought. And she might as well have a nice dramatic finish.

"My little ward belongs to a wonderful family," she said. "They were people of position, wealth responsibility and power in their community. And when you think that they cast Jill's mother off and that she had nobody in all the world to appeal to—nobody to look out for the child but me, you can imagine that I—feel a deep responsibility."

"What is the child's real name?" Roy asked.

Roy leaned forward, his wavering glance trying to fix on Folly's mocking china blue eyes, his trembling lips trying to speak commandingly.

"Has your wife any long-lost relatives?" Folly asked lightly. "She might be a relative of Jill's you know."

"She might," Roy managed.

Folly smiled: "Was your wife a Hathaway? And is she of an old English family that dates back to Shakespeare's time?" she asked.

There was a note of excitement in Folly Duane's voice as she put that question to Roy Scarlett.

When Manners Are Correct

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Gray Letter Paper.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Noticing your recent advice on stationery I have become anxious as to my own.

(1) Is gray objectionable? I hope not, as gray is the only deviation from white I have permitted myself.

(2) And is the silver on this stationery too obvious?

(3) Is the small sheet and small envelope replacing the large in popularity?

JESSIC... L.

I AM glad that my urging words have turned your attention to your letter paper, for there is no detail that so indicates our taste. Don't you agree? Like all other items of our lives, writing paper need not be expensive to be good. So with letter paper, if we cannot afford to have expensive imported papers, we should choose papers of as good teture as we can afford.

Gray is always regarded as taste in letter paper, but the gray should be light. A shade lighter than yours would be even better, I think. Light gray paper is very good looking. (2) Yes, the silver wiggly lines on the edges of your paper spoil your paper. Such an edge stamps paper as "cheap," and could never be considered in good taste.

(3) I cannot vouch for its general popularity, but to my taste the single sheet has not at all the distinction of the regulation double sheet letter paper. The single sheet looks business-like, not social.

I believe that all your letter paper difficulties would solved if you bought some conservative, light gray, double sheet paper of a rather generous size, with no garish edges, and of the very best texture that you think that you can afford. Do you want to try it, and write me a letter on the new acquisition? Please do.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

GAS FRANCHISE PLEA REFUSED

Lone Star Company Loses San Angelo Fight

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, July 22.—The San Angelo city commission this week refused the Lone Star Gas company of a gas franchise to operate in this city. The franchise until recently has been held by Barney Carter of Ranger, but this week the Western Gas Supply company was organized by Mr. Carter and the franchise transferred to that organization.

The Lone Star offer did not specify when gas could be piped into San Angelo, while Carter and his associates have assured the city commission that natural gas would be piped into San Angelo by October 12. The city commission also felt that there is hardly enough business in San Angelo to justify the operation of two companies.

The Western Gas Supply company will have its headquarters in San Angelo. The concern has awarded its construction contracts and three crews will start work Tuesday, beginning a 45-day contract. The gas is to be piped to San Angelo from the Coleman county gas fields. One large ditch digging machine arrived in San Angelo this week and work from this end will be started soon.

Pirates Defy Police at Sea

Raid by British Naval Ships Ineffective

HONG KONG, July 22. (AP)—Pirates still operate at Bias bay despite the destructive British raid on that notorious pirate stronghold near Hong Kong last March.

The Norwegian steamer Solviken, which left here Tuesday for Saigon, was attacked by pirates. Two of its officers were wounded and the ship was steered to Bias bay where last night it was looted of $20,000 worth of gold bars and the belongings of the passengers. The raiders also carried off the Solviken's Chinese steward, six Chinese passengers and a boy.

"You can tell them to send their airplanes, but they won't find us," growled the pirate leader in fluent English to the chief officer of the plundered steamer as the pirates went over the side into the ship's boats which they also stole.

The pirates employed the customary method for looting ships in this region. They boarded the Solviken at Hong Kong disguised as passengers. Then when the ship had cleared port they fell upon the officers in a surprise attack. Captain Richard Gentoft was shot and seriously wounded.

Second Officer Johnson grappled with two pirates, but was shot in the arm and overpowered.

The pirates' leader threatened to kill all the white officers of the Solviken if his orders to steer the ship to Bias bay were not obeyed.

LEMMON WINS TOURNEY.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., July 22. (AP)—Harold Lemmon, 18-year-old Arkansas City youth, captured the Arkansas valley golf tournament championship Friday, defeating R. C. Starr of Wichita in the inter-flight match.

Lemmon, junior champion, had Starr, senior champion, 13 up on the 22nd hole of a scheduled 36-hole game. Starr then conceded the match.

Last Resources of Texas

A WRITER on economics volunteers the information that East Texas timber lands supply a large percentage of the pine poles used to carry the wires of telephone, telegraph and electric light and power companies. Now it is estimated the pine timber belt contains 17,000,000,000 board feet of pine. Here is another item of interest to Texans and the outside world. The trans-Pecos region of Texas is an area as large as the state of West Virginia and contains nine counties, each of seven of which is larger than the state of Delaware. The altitude of this region varies from 2000 feet in the Rio Grande valley in the southeastern part to 9500 feet at the top of Gaudalupe peak in Culberson county.

Texas leads the world in wool production. The latest figures show there are 2,983,959 sheep in Texas valued at $27,374,000 that last season produced 24,960,000 pounds of wool, which brought the growers more than $14,000,000 in revenue. Thousands of sheep and goat raisers held their annual convention at Kerrville. Governor Moody was one of the speakers. He recited figures to show the development of the sheep and goat industry. He pointed out that the industry had increased more than 800 per cent in economic values since 1900.

Statistics show that in 1900 there were 1,898,000 head of sheep in Texas, valued at $3,282,000, or an average of $2.00 per head as compared with 3,465,000 head valuel at $27,374,000 in 1926. In 1900, he said, there were 627,000 head of goats in Texas, valued at an average of less than $1.50 per head, while in 1926 there were 2,200,000 head valued at $11,100,000 or about $5.00 per head. Value of wool produced in 1900 was $2,291,000 as compared to $15,000,000 in 1926.

Price of wool reached its peak of 57.9 cents per pound in 1920, fell to its lowest level in 1922 and came back up to an average price of 38.5 cents per pound in 1925.

There is money in sheep. There is money in goats. There is money in wool. There is money in mohair. It is well for Texans to know their Texas.

Col. Price As a Prophet

COL. THEODORE H. PRICE is well versed in cotton economics. He has been in the cotton game many years. This is his latest, "Cotton is firm and looks as if it might go higher. The United States consumption for June was the largest on record for any month with one exception." But the Colonel discovered a fly in the ointment. He says the drygoods market has made a very reluctant response to the advance in futures and manufacturers will probably follow a hand to mouth policy in buying their supplies until they become convinced that the crop will really be a small one.

There is ever a fly in the ointment. Regardless of the prophets and the fly Texas is enjoying ideal cotton making weather. Consumption of cotton in foreign lands and here at home shows that the world, all the buying world, is coming back. Another crop as great as that of last year would play the devil with the producers of the fleecy staple—with the vast army of tenants who are compelled to sell at the very beginning of the picking season in order to pay their landlords and their bankers and their merchants.

There has been a big reduction in acreage this year. Growers have been doing their own work. A vast number will do their own picking. A vast number are living at home. That is, they are producing their own foodstuffs and own feedstuffs. This is as it should be.

La Follette and His Gospel

ROBERT M. LA FOLLETTE was for forty years the Moses of the people of Wisconsin. He was not a Republican; he was not a Democrat; he was a political evolutionist. He was a great governor for three terms, he was a member of the Lower House of congress for many terms; he was a United States senator when death called him. He led a forlorn hope for president of the United States and polled millions of votes.

Hope that the Wisconsin State Legislature would pass the Cashman bill to provide $3,000,000 to build a memorial library at the University of Wisconsin in honor of La Follette, died a few days ago when the Senate killed the bill, 11 to 10.

Robert M. La Follette stepped into the shoes of his father. He is a United States senator. He calls himself a Progressive Republican. He is opposed to Coolidge and the Coolidge policies of government. He is the leader of the La Follette Republicans of Wisconsin, and in the camp of the La Follettee Republicans are thousands of old school Democrats.

And it has come to pass that the lawmakers of Wisconsin refused to vote a $3,000,000 library memorial to perpetuate the fame and the virtues and the legislative achievements of their former idol.

Theodore Roosevelt was a political idol. He lives in history and history alone. Woodrow Wilson was a political idol. He lives in history and history alone. Where are the idols of today? Go ask the president of Columbia university.

Mellett and His Slayers

VENGEANCE is mine, sayeth the Lord. Don R. Mellett was a noted young Ohio editor. He published a fearless newspaper in the city of Canton. He declared war on vice rings and vice politicians. He was assassinated. His cowardly taking off has been avenged by the law and its agents. Five men are said to have been engaged in the plot. Three were powerful in politics; two were hired gunmen.

Seramus A. Lengel, former chief of the Canton police department, was the last of the conspirators sent to trial. He escaped the electric chair. He was given a life sentence behind the bars. Three of his alleged pals won life sentences and one was given five to twenty years after turning states evidence.

He squealed to save his own cowardly neck. In the long run no criminal escapes the vengeance of the law. In the long run the devil gets his own.

This Happened in Georgia

A GEORGIA flogger, masked and the leader of a band of maskers, was found guilty of blacksnaking a woman. These maskers tied her on a barrel. Their king held the head of the woman between his legs while his fellow maskers used their whips. He was the principal of the school of the town and a Sunday school superintendent. This did not save him. A verdict of guilty was returned and the judge gave him a year on the chain gang and a fine of $500. Well, hats off to Georgia. Hats off to law and order. Hats off to constitutional law and its reign.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, July 21.—A new cab has appeared upon the streets of New York that tops anything yet seen and certainly the run of cabs here are elaborate. It is called the Manhattan. The body is decorated lavishly with nickel work and is painted a dark brown. The chauffeur's seat is uncovered, although in rainy weather a collapsible top may be put over it. The passengers' cabin is of the landeau type, being in two parts, with the rear half capable of being let down, upholstered in luxurious cloth, and fitted with various toilet accessories and ash trays and the like. The thing is the most pretentious hack yet seen. At present there are only, according to my information, some 20 of them in operation.

Driving through Central park today, I saw an officer leaning against a railing, who bore the most preposterous face I have ever seen outside of a freak museum. It was so startling as to be noticed at once, including all the details, as I flashed by in an auto. His jaw was a massive affair, jutting out and downward, about two inches horizontally and one inch downward. His lower lip pronouncedly jutted out from the upper and the nose above it was the ugliest example of human architecture I have yet seen. It was very broad and heavy, and ended shortly from its starting point between the pair of pig-eyes beneath bushy brows. And from the peculiar way in which his hat rested on his head, I judged that this latter feature jutted back into something of a point—even as that of Mr. Hyde.

Now that Chamberlin and Levine have split, one may tell of an episode of the flight. After her husband, as the first transatlantic air flight passenger, had landed in Germany, Mrs. Levine went to a steamship company to book passage to Europe. She was offered a palatial suite free. And it is said that, when this got noised abroad and the ship was about to sail, no less than 85 Levines presented themselves at the steamship company's lines, all claiming close relationship to the flyer and requesting free transportation abroad.

After a few visits to beaches near the city, I wonder what kind of English the next generation in New York is going to speak. Almost all of the nurses are either frauleins or mademoiselles. The former have gutteral accents, and the latter cannot pronounce an "h" or a "w." The children, of course, unconsciously adopt the nurses' ways of speaking. There are few native American nurses. What with French and German nurses molding the language of the youngsters, the youngsters will probably have a hybrid speech and accent.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "HONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL," ETC.

"Ted Wants Me to Get Married," She Said.

READ THIS FIRST:

SALLY JEROME, 20, and pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has been separated from her mother for nine years.

The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, and Sally, herself. Mrs. Jerome is a semi-invalid, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for old MR. PEEVEY in the afternoons.

In the flat below the Jeromes' flat lives young TED SLOAN, who's in love with Sally. Sally, however, has small interest in him except as a dancing partner. She adores to dance.

The only man she is sentimentally interested in is young MR. JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's office. She doesn't know him, however, and doubts that he even knows what she looks like.

On a hot Monday in August, Millie comes into Sally's office with news that she has quit her job because her late employer tried to make love to her. Sally, however, knows that the real reason for Millie's quitting was because he did NOT try to make love to her. Beau's best girl, MABEL WILMOT, has told Sally that Millie will never stay in any office where she doesn't "get a thrill."

Millie happens to catch a glimpse of young Mr. John Nye across the hall and is immediately determined to get a job in his office if she can. Sally is dreadfully afraid that she will. Somehow she hates the idea of the vampish Millie working for Nye.

But Millie is forestalled when Nye leaves his office, evidently on his way to lunch. She starts home, disappointed, after borrowing $2 from Sally. Later on that afternoon Sally smashes a bottle of Mr. Peevey's milk in the corridor, and young Nye happens along and goes to buy another bottle while Sally clears up the broken pieces of the first one.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IV

It was 3 o'clock that afternoon before Sally finally set the lukewarm milk and the whole-wheat biscuits on Mr. Peevey's desk.

"Just three hours after my regular lunch time!" he snapped out at her, pushing his glasses back on his forehead and scowling up at her. "This'll never do, my girl. I've got to have my food on time or not at all."

Sally might have pointed out to him that it wasn't her fault that he had made a dentist's appointment at his regular lunch time.

She might have reminded him that he had not stepped into the office until 2 o'clock that afternoon. In fact, there were two or three sharp things that she might have said to him.

But she never even thought of them. Her mind was so filled with the thought of John Nye across the hall that she was too happy to let Mr. Peevey—or "Old Peevish," as Millie called him always—bother her.

All the long hot afternoon, while she typed Mr. Peevey's letters, while she took down his slow, fussy dictation, her thoughts were busy with John Nye.

How old was he? . . . Was he married? She was sure that he wasn't. He did not look like the type of man who would speak to a damsel in distress, and help her out of her trouble, if he were married. There was an honest, steadfast look in his eyes that spoke of an honest and decent character.

Words may lie, actions may lie, and faces may lie, but a person's eyes will give him away 99 times out of 100.

"I wish I knew him better," thought Sally Jerome, who never had wished that of any man before in her busy life. "But he'll probably never look at me again. So that's that, and I may as well forget him."

She tried to—but without any success at all.

At five o'clock Mr. Peevey put on his sun-browned Panama, and announced that was going to "knock off for the day."

"You'd better start home early tonight, Miss Jerome," he said. "It's pretty hot weather, and you look tired. Good night."

As he opened the door she caught a glimpse of the office across the hall. John Nye was standing in the middle of it, talking to a young woman in white.

He looked up and his eyes met Sally's, for just an instant. Then the door swung to.

It was 6 o'clock before Sally had finished Mr. Peevey's letters. He was always advising her to start home early, and then giving her so much work to do that she could not possibly finish it by 5:30—the time she was supposed to leave every day. In his fussy little way Mr. Peevey was as heartless as a Turk.

At three minutes after 6 Sally opened the door and stepped out into the shining marble whiteness of the hall.

The door of John Nye's office was closed, and she told herself that he had gone home—or perhaps the girl in white was a friend of his, and he was going to her house for dinner. Or perhaps he was taking her some place to have dinner with him.

"Oh, well, I can't help it. He's nothing to me, after all," Sally said to herself, sensibly.

And just at that moment his door opened and he came out and closed it behind him. His lean brown face flashed with a friendly grin, and he held up his hand in greeting.

"I was just going to knock on your door," he said, and to Sally the sound of his voice was a thrilling thing. "I had an idea that you might know of a secretary for me. Mine came in this afternoon after two weeks' vacation and broke the pleasant news to me that she got married on Saturday."

"Was the girl in white your secretary?" Sally wanted to ask, but instead of that she repeated: "A secretary. No, I don't believe I know a single girl who—" She broke off, and a troubled look came into the dark blue eyes.

She did know a girl who was out of a job! . . . Millie! Millie, with her soft little pussy-cat ways, her lisp and her drawling voice, her green-blue eyes that said all sorts of interesting things to any man who happened to take her fancy; her perfumed clothes and her gauze stockings and high heels.

At the thought of Millie sitting in John Nye's office, under his eyes, all day long, six days a week, that same odd little pain twisted again in Sally's breast.

She knew now what that odd little feeling was. It was jealousy, pure and simple.

"I know a girl who might do," she said with an effort. It seldom occurred to Sally to tell a lie. Her natural impulse was to tell the truth, no matter what it cost her. This time it was costing her a great deal.

"She's my sister," she went on, her voice very low and husky, not like the light and rippling voice that was part of her gay charm.

John Nye's level black brows went up a bit. "Your sister," he said. "I'm sure she'd do—that is, if she's half as nice as you are. To think of your getting old Hank Peevey his lunch every day—"

"I'll ask her to come to see you in the morning if you'd like me to," Sally interrupted him briskly. And when he said that he would, all the light and gayety faded out of her face.

But the man did not see it. For he and Sally were walking down the hall toward the elevator now, and the tiny down-turned brim of her hat hid her face from him as she went along beside him.

"My car's parked in the next block," he said when they reached the street, "and I'll be glad to take you any place you want to go—"

"No, thanks!" Sally cut him short again. "I've some shopping to do!" And she went on her way to the little delicatessen in Polk street to buy a certain kind of Bohemian rye bread that Mrs. Jerome was very fond of.

* * *

Millie was not at home when Sally got there at 7 o'clock.

"She went out about 4 o'clock, and said she might be here for supper, but that she probably wouldn't," Beau told Sally as she passed his open bedroom door on her way to her own room. "I've been sick all day. I guess it's the heat. Anyway, I had to come home early."

He was lying on his bed. His coat and shoes were off, and he was reading the sport section of the evening paper.

The door of Mrs. Jerome's room was closed. Sally softly opened it and looked in. The blinds were down and the electric fan was going. In the breezy dimness, Mrs. Jerome was sound asleep against the pillows of her bed. Edna Ferber's "Show Boat" was clasped against her breast, and rose and fell with her heavy breathing.

"I won't wake her up," thought Sally. "Poor thing!—I'll get her something to eat when she wakes up."

Mrs. Jerome's eyes opened, and she yawned.

"Oh, it's you, Sally," she murmured. "What's that you have? Rye bread? I'll have some for my supper, I think, and nothing else but a drop or two of milk. Warm it a bit." She raised her face to be kissed, and closed here eyes again.

"Would you like some supper, or do you feel too bum?" Sally asked Beau, when she had slipped into her thin bungalow apron a few minutes later.

"I've never been too sick to eat yet, and I never expect to be," Beau told her with cheerful bluntness, never glancing up from Jack Dempsey's "Own Story."

* * *

Out in the kitchen there was a large puddle of water on the floor, where the drip-pan under the icebox had run over.

"How the ice does melt this kind of weather!" said Sally aloud. While she was mopping it up, Ted Sloan opened the screen door and came into the neat little room where the sunset glow set the aluminum pans and the water faucets to gleaming like silver. Ted often came up the back steps to the Jerome's flat when he heard Sally walking about in the kitchen.

"Hello," he said, and seated himself on a corner of the table. "Gosh, this day sure has been a blazer, hasn't it? I never was so hot in my life."

"Fierce! awful!" answered Sally, wringing out the mop and emptying the drip-pan down the sink.

"I could have done that for you," Ted went on, "but you move around so fast that I never know what you're going to do until you've done it." He began to scrape out the bowl of his pipe with his pocket knife. His gray eyes were on Sally's white face.

It was damp with perspiration, and around the forehead her hair clung in little rings. The cheap pink bungalow apron was turned back at the neck, leaving her throat bare.

She got down on her knees to put the pan in place under the icebox, and when she arose Ted was standing close beside her. She glanced up at him in surprise, and then something that she saw in his face—in the sudden masterful glint in his gray eyes—made her turn sharply away from him and walk over to the other side of the kitchen.

She could feel her face growing warm and rosy under his steady concentrated gaze while she heated some milk for her mother, and cut thin, dainty slices from the loaf of Bohemian rye bread.

He cleared his throat. "Say, Sally," he began suddenly. "Ever think about doing that for me?"

She looked up, wide-eyed. "Doing what?"

"Getting supper for me—the rest of my life?"

"Supper for you?" Sally echoed. "Why, what do you mean?"

As they stood there, facing each other across the neat, comfortable kitchen, Mrs. Jerome's voice called shrilly from her bedroom:

"Sally! Sally! Have you forgotten me?"

"What's that boy talking to you about?" she asked suspiciously, when her daughter came to her bedside with a trayful of food.

The greatest fear in Mrs. Jerome's life was that someone would marry Sally and take her away. For besides being a daughter, Sally was so many other things—nurse, and cook and bread-winner. She was the most necessary item in Mrs. Jerome's life.

"Oh, you mean Ted?" asked Sally innocently frank. "Why, he wants me to get married to him. At least, I think that's what he's been trying to say to me out there in the kitchen."

Mrs. Jerome gazed at her for a long minute with wet stricken eyes.

"Sally! You'd never do it, would you?" she asked in a shaky voice, and Sally promised her solemnly that never, so long as she lived, would she marry Theodore Sloan!

NEGRO PLEADS FOR HIS SOUL

Black Then Hangs For Brutal Crime

JACKSON, Miss., July 22. (AP)—Walter Burley, negro, who killed two white women a month ago to hide the crime of assaulting one of them, died on the gallows today after asking the husband and brother of his victims to forgive him.

"Mr. Rees, won't you forgive me?" he said to O. S. Rees, whose wife and 19-year-old sister were Burley' svictims.

"How could I, Walter?" replied Rees, who had visited Burley in his cell and who stayed to see the hanging.

"I have made my peace with God and I am going to heaven," Burley said. "I am satisfied to die from the awful crime I have comitted." He spent a few minutes with a preacher and his last request was for time to say a prayer on the gallows. It was granted. He calmly waited while the trap was sprung, but was not pronounced dead for 27 minutes.

Burley went to Rees' home while Rees, a dairyman, was delivering milk early in the morning. The negro struck Mrs. Rees and killed her as she slept with her two little children. Then he attacked the younger woman and slew her to prevent her telling who he was.

Press the ground meat into a dry pan (cake tin) to a depth of about one inch, place in hot oven and turn fire down. Meat will cook through in about five minutes. A tasty addition may be made by grinding spinach or parsley with the meat.

Questions and Answers.

QUESTION: Mrs. H. H. H. writes: "Have been reading your articles for some time, and have received much benefit. I also have your book. Would like to ask if the sweetening of buttermilk kills certain germs which I am told are beneficial to one's system.

ANSWER: The addition of sugar to buttermilk increases the growth of the lactic-acid bacteria, and is often prescribed by physicians who recommend the Bulgarian Milk Diet. I suggest that you use figs or dates along with your buttermilk, and use this combination as a meal and not in addition to your regular food.

QUESTION: Mrs. K. L. B. writes: "I am in poor health. I love fruits of all kinds but cannot eat them. I always have a headache from eating strawberries, rheumatism from oranges, bowel and stomach trouble, nervousness and headache from apples. Why is this?

ANSWER: The cause of your trouble is hyperacidity of the stomach. If you will take a fruit fast for a few days you will get over all of the symptoms which now trouble you. Use only one fruit during any one day, and keep on with your fruit diet until you are feeling well and have no unpleasant symptoms of any kind.

YOUTH GIVES UP FORTUNE

Young Vanderbilt to Pay Off His Debts

By Universal Service.

DENVER, Colo. July 22.—Every cent, if necessary, of his inheritance from the vast Vanderbilt fortune will be turned over by Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., scion of the New York family, to liquidate claims of creditors and stockholders in the chain of tabloid newspapers which, under young Vanderbilt's management, went on the financial rocks more than a year ago.

This was the declaration here to Universal Service of young Vanderbilt, who is vacationing in Colorado for a few days from his cross country automobile tour to California.

Yield's Inheritance

"Before leaving New York City," Vanderbilt said, "I instructed my attorney, Max Steur, to notify the creditors and stockholders of the newspapers I exploited that they will be the first ones considered in the event I should inherit any of the Vanderbilt millions. The newspaper debts approximate $1,000,000, and I told Mr. Steur to issue certificates to stockholders and creditors which they will be able to cash when my inheritance becomes available."

Young Vanderbilt also declared that one-half of his present earnings from writing for magazines and newspapers was being devoted to paying off his obligations in connection with the tabloid newspaper failure.

Debts Worry Him

He said the debts resulting from the unsuccessful venture had weighed heavily upon him for months, but that he felt considerable mental relief and had done less brooding since he reached the decision to turn over his inheritance to those who lost money through faith and confidence in his ability to "put over" the chain of tabloids.

Young Vanderbilt was the guest here today of F. G. Bonfil, publisher of the Denver Post. He left by automobile early this evening for Estes park, and plans to go from there to the Grand Canyon and thence to California.

PICNIC LUNCH MUST BE MADE ATTRACTIVE, SAYS PRIZE WINNER

COLOR ADDS TO APPEAL

Parsley and Honeysuckle Decorate Dishes

BY MRS. LOUIS H. GOULD.
Winner $5 Prize.

Fried Chicken Fruit Salad
Nutbread Sandwiches
Burnt Sugar Cake Deviled Eggs.
Colvert's Individual Bricks of Cream
Olives, Iced Tea.

Receipt for Frying Chicken.

Choose two-pound chickens, and cut them properly for frying. Like everything else there is a right and wrong way. Lay each priece between folds of a clean cloth to have them dry before rolling in flour. Salt each piece before flouring. If pepper is used, sprinkle it on after it is cooked. Fry in fat that is just ready to smoke from heat. Cover the chicken as it cooks. Fry to a golden brown.

Nut Bread.

4 cups of flour, 4 teaspoons of baking powder, 1 cup of sugar, 1 desert-spoon salt, 1 cup of pecans.

Sift together the dry ingredients and add nuts. Add a little more than a cup of sweet milk and one well beaten egg the last thing. Grease and flour pan and let bread rise for 40 minutes. Bake in a medium oven for 45 minutes.

Burnt Sugar Cake.

Syrup part: 1 cup of white sugar melted over slow fire, add one-half cup of boiling water; stir until a thick syrup. Cool while making cake part.

Cake part: 1-2 cup butter, yolks of 2 eggs, 1 1-2 cup sugar, 2 1-4 cups of flour, 1 cup of cold water. Beat all this and then add: 4 tablespoonsful of the syrup, 3-4 cup of flour with 1 teaspoon baking powder, whites of 2 eggs.

Finish with boiled white icing, flavored with the remainder of the syrup.

I have chosen this menu because I have found each dish to be exceedingly popular with people in the open. I think it very necessary to fix dishes unusually attractive for a picnic.

For instance, roll each one-half deviled egg in parafin paper, put them into a vegetable dish and cover same with sprigs of blooming honeysuckle.

The chicken should be placed in a large bowl and sprinkled generously with parsley. The fruit salad is pretty enough of itself when juices are drained off properly in the fixing.

The cake can be nicely carried as a whole and the cutting of it is always interesting to those around. The bricks of ice cream come just right as a fitting close for this dinner in the woods.

SOFT GINGERBREAD

1-2 cup sugar
1-3 cup molasses
1-2 cup lard
2 eggs
3-4 cup milk
2 cups flour
2 level teaspoons baking powder
1 scant teaspoon salt
1-2 level teaspoon soda
1-2 level teaspoon each of ginger, cloves and allspice

Beat eggs, and add molasses. Mix sugar and lard, then combine. Sift together three times baking powder, flour, salt, soda and spices, and add milk. Put together and beat thoroughly. Bake in a moderate oven (350-400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

Acid Essential In Good Jelly Making

Acid is one of the essentials necessary in making good jelly. If the fruit juice to be used, tastes about as sour as a tart apple the acid is sufficient for jelly making, but should there not be enough acid present in the fruit there are several ways in which it may be added. Any citrous fruit juice, especially lemon juice, is very desirable. Other fruit juices such as rhubarb, pineapple, sour apple and crab apple may be added.

By having the proper proportion of pectin, sugar and acid very edible jelly can be made using any fruit juice to flavor.

PICNIC MENU SERVES SEVEN

Here's Real Food For Active Appetites

By MRS. GROVER C. JOHNSON
Winner $2.50 Prize.

I have tried to plan a picnic lunch that would appeal to seven hungry appetites (all having different likes). I believe this one comes near to "filling the bill" for the small cost of $2.10.

Fried Chicken Deviled Eggs
Sandwiches (egg and olive cheese)
Potato Chips (two pkgs.)
Spanish Slaw
Four Firm Tomatoes (to be sliced)
Peach Custard Ice Cream
White Cake
Punch.

Boil 10 eggs hard. Take two eggs and mash real fine; to this add salt and pepper. Grate 1-4-lb. cheese and add half of this 1-4-lb. to the mashed eggs. Now add half cup salad dressing and spread on squares of bread, cover and cut diagonally. This makes a delicious sandwich for the children and takes the place of the old bread and butter sandwich.

Now take the remaining grated cheese and slice half cup stuffed olives, add half cup salad dressing. Spread on buttered bread; add lettuce leaf if desired. You now have about 24 sandwiches (two kinds). Take the remaining eight eggs, cut in halves, mix the centers with salt, pepper and vinegar to taste. Add salad dressing (Thousand Island). Refill the white halves.

Spanish Slaw

Finely chop white, crisp cabbage (new), chill in ice water. There should be two cups. Drain and dry on towels. To cabbage add one cup each finely chopped onions, green pepper (discarding veins and seed) and cucumbers (pared, cut in quarters, soft part removed with large seeds). Mix all lightly together, cover with French dressing. Place in paper bucket or small mixing bowl.

A picnic isn't a picnic without some sliced tomatoes. Take along four firm ones.

Peach Cream.

1 1-2 cups milk
1 1-2 cups crushed peaches
2 cups sugar
1-2 teaspoon almond extract
1 1-2 cups cream
4 eggs
1 tablespoon flour
1-2 teaspoon salt.

Scald milk and stir slowly over beaten eggs, one cup sugar, salt and flour. Cook in double boiler until mixture thickens to a custard, stirring constantly. When cold whip cream and add. Flavor with almond extract. Partially freeze, then stir in thoroughly crushed peaches which have been sweetened with remaining cup of sugar. This mixture placed in a vacuum freezer, 9 o'clock in the morning, may be served from 12 o'clock on.

For those who do not care for the cream, a nice cold melon would fit in wonderfully with probably less cost and work.

Orange and Currant Granite.

6 cups water
1 cup sugar
1 glass currant jelly
1 orange.

Boil water and sugar 20 minutes, add currant jelly and strained orange juice. Strain and when cold pour over crushed ice and pour in thurmos jug. This is a delicious drink served with cake.

This lunch may be prepared in one hour's time and will serve seven people.

Twenty-five cents worth of paper dishes and napkins are needed to avoid dish washing and if a decorated oilette spread is used, laundry is saved.

Use plenty of wet paper in packing the lunch, as it preserves the food and keeps it all in place.

MOCK CLUB SANDWICH

Hard cooked eggs
Boiled ham
Sliced tomatoes
Shredded pimentoes
Lettuce
Buttered toast
Salad dressing

Prepare the toast, then place a leaf of lettuce dipped in salad dressing on the bottom piece; put a slice of ham in place, then the tomato, add a little more salad dressing, then the egg and pimento. Finish with more lettuce and a top piece of toast.

USE OF SILVER IS EXPLAINED

Plain Pattern Better For Daily Needs

Every housewife cherishes her silver with great pride and desires to display it on every available opportunity.

China and glass ware will break, lovely linens become worn, but good silver lasts indefinitely.

When first choosing silver, it is wise to select a plain design, because one is apt to tire of too elaborate a pattern.

The placing of silver on the table is a point which everyone must give special thought. Even though you own silver for every service imaginable never over load your table. It is very poor taste in table etiquette. There are certain definite rules for the use of all table silver and tools of various kinds.

The silver used depends upon the menu. It is never good form to place on the table at one time, silver for more than four courses. Additional silver is placed on the table when ready for use.

There are forks for fish, cocktail, salad, ice cream, etc., but in the average home we usually see only two sizes of forks.

The placing of silver on the table is chiefly for convenience. The knife and spoons on the right because they are used with the right hand, and forks on the left. Those being used first placed on the outside.

The bread and butter plate is placed on the left at the tip of the fork with the spreader on the upper right hand edge. These are never used for formal service.

If it is necessary to do carving proper knife and fork, and that at the table see that you have the the knife is sharpened.

The care of silver should be given special attention. Each piece kept in a separate cloth container for this particular purpose. In this way it will not become marred or scratched.

A PITCHER FULL OF CREAM

I may appear old-fashioned,
  And full of notions seem,
But no meal seems quite right without
  A pitcher full of cream.

It is a golden promise
  Of rich and ample fare.
No board is ever barren
  That has a cream-jug there.

A table with a pitcher
  Brim full of yellow cream
Is one with good things groaning,
  Where savory platters steam.

The cream-jug is a symbol
  That past the kitchen door
There stands the sort of cupboard
  Where there is always more!

CORRECT MEASURES

In order that there may be uniformity in measuring the different ingredients used in cooking, food experts are using level measurements when devising and testing recipes. It was quite essential that housewives get the habit of using level measurements if they have the best resuts with their products. Just try leveling off the cup, teaspoon, or tablespoon with a spatula or a knife. It requires so very little extra time, yet assures a better, more uniform product.

Bacon Valued Item In Diet of Child

At what age may children have meat? This is a question which has not been definitely settled, but according to Dr. Isaac A. Abt, meat carefully ground, or chopped can be digested by an infant as young as two and one-half months. At any rate as soon as the child has teeth with which to chew, meat may be introduced into his diet, and it will be good for the development of the teeth, according to Dr. E. B. Forbes, who says, "spare the meat grinder and teach the child to use his teeth."

Bacon is the first meat recommended for children and it can be given as early as the eighth month. Bacon is valued in the diet of the child because the fat is, next to butter fat, the most easily assimilated of the food fats and its protein is as easily digested as any other meat protein, which is regarded as almost completely digested. Through experiments, it has been shown that the average person utilizes 96.3 per cent of cooked bacon. For children, bacon must be crisply cooked and the excess of fat drained from it.

ICE BOX CAKES FOR SUMMER

Here Are Recipes For Delicious Dessert

Ice box cakes makes one of the most delicious and appetizing desserts we can serve. It can be an expensive dessert or inexpensive depending upon the ingredients used and how large a cake is made. Much of the expense lies in buying the lady fingers. However, this may be overcome by making them at home. They are very simple to make, it just takes a little time and patience.

We are so often asked "What is an ice box cake" and "How is it served?" An ice box cake is fashioned after a charlotte and Bavarian cream, or I should say a combination of the two. The recipes all call for whipped cream, and sometimes the foundation of the filling is butter. When this is the case you have a very rich dessert which should only be served in small quantities following a light luncheon or dinner. Nuts and candied fruits of all kinds are sometimes added. Cherries are especially added as a form of decoration.

A mold is lined with lady fingers, sponge or sunshine cake; often macaroons or vanilla wafers are used. The filling is prepared and then added in alternate layers with the cake. Place in the refrigerator for 24 hours. The filling soaks into the lady fingers and all is one solid mass. When it has been in the ice box the required length of time, remove from the mold, and serve in slices garnished with whipped cream, fruit or nuts.

Did You Know That—

By BLONDY CROSS

LUCKY.

Lefty Darrough didn't treat Rabbit Benton right in the second round. With Jenkins on first, Rabbit lined a murderous drive at Lefty's head. The wronghander threw up both hands and tried to dodge. Caught the ball in self defense and accidentally. It was a simple matter to double Tut off first. He didn't stand a Chink's chance of getting back to the bag.

NEW DISEASE.

Our side developed an attack of "juggleitis" in the third, LaFayette knocking down Dorman's bounder, shaking it up like a malted milk, then throwing to Cobb at first just in time to get the runner by a razor edge, while a moment after Rabbit toyed long enough with Capes' grounder to give everybody heart failure, but recovered in time to chunk out the runner.

Darrough, the Beaumont southpaw, is property of the Dallas team.

"This Cobb will burn up the league next year," confidentially imparts one J. A. Gardner, to which replies a sports writer on an afternoon paper, "It's a cinch he'll lead 'em in hitting."

WELL.

The Socking Swede solemnly and if with anything a touch of pathos, confesses, "I never have been near the State of Minnesota. I have lived all my life in Rockford, Ill.

* * *

GORGEOUS.

The nth degree of first-basing technique and finesse (along with a bunch of other aristocratic words like those) was displayed in the seventh by the consistent Mr. LaFayette when Herbie hurled a buzzer into the infield loam with so much smoke that had it caught the gallant LaFayette on a shank today there would be one baseball player doing half his walking on a peg leg. It was the meanest kind of a hop any first sacker could go after, but the eminent Frenchman cupped his palms, took the orthodox stride and covered the bounding sphere just as if nothing at all out of the way was happening. Darrough was retired on the play. There was a runner speeding down the path who would have traveled afar had the heave got through that first sack defense.

The resourcefully hitting Griffin pecked at that first base line nearly all afternoon fruitlessly until in the seventh his perseverence was paid for. At one stage he fouled three within a few inches of the right field chalk mark. The seventh saw him deposit a drive just inside for three bases, scoring a runner.

Cobb had a great day all around. Not only did he cop his first victory of the season, but that two-base clout to right center in the third was his initial safe hit of the year.

That was no soft smack Dunning dabbed to right in the ninth that Lamb took at a gallop down around the knee caps. Turgeon closed the game with an adriot stop and throw to first of Smith's near single between first and second.

DALLAS, July 22. (AP)—With two men on base and his team trailing by one run, Dutch Henry hit for the circuit in the ninth inning to give Houston a 9 to 8 victory over Dallas here today. Hack Miller hit his 30th homer of the season in the third.

COBB PITCHES FIRST VICTORY

Lamb, Griffin, Swenson Hit In 6-0 Win

By BLONDY CROSS

Herbie Cobb, diminutive Spudder righthander and as is the case with most little guys, one of the scrappiest bozos in the league, found himself Friday at expense of J. Galloway's Beaumonters, hurled a sharp brand all the way and closed out the series with a 6-0 blank for the Shippers.

Herbie, allowing five safe hits, two of which were scratchy, hung up his first victory of the season, Wichita Falls' tenth win over the Shippers and the Spudders' thirteenth triumph of the current home stand which with Friday's melee consists so far of 15 games.

The five Beaumont hits were singles. Watkins connected for two of them.

Lefty Glen Darrough tossed a fair game but suffered inconvenience in three couplets, the league leaders bunching blows for two runs each in these stanzas.

Aw, This Lamb

Lyman Lamb, Wichita Falls right gardener, made the most racket with three staccato singles. Francis Griffin, the midfielder, contributed a triple and single. The fiery Swenson outfooted a brace of infield blows.

There isn't much else to the story of that affair other than to comment the loop toppers steamrollered right along in regular championship form with the agile LaFayette flashing a great defensive game at first base.

The Spudders pushed their first pair of runs across in the fourth on a walk to Turgeon, an error by Darrough himself, fielder's choice, single by Lamb, a sacrifice by Jenkins and an infield safety by the inevitable Swenson.

One-base biffs by Griffin, this Lamb again and this Swenson again teamed with two infield outs for the next couple of Wichita Falls markers in the sixth. Tobin produced a line single to left in this frame, but the slam came too late to harm.

Machine-Like

Griffin's three-bagger sandwiched between singles by Turgeon and that fellow Lamb scored a pair in the seventh. There's talk of benching Lamb and giving the pitchers a chance.

Both defenses functioned farily well. Beaumont, incidentally, whammed a duet of double plays over on the Spudders. Darrough took a bullet drive from Benton in the second and threw Jenkins off at first base. Connolly, Smith and Hansen teamed on Lamb and Jenkins in the seventh for a twin erasure.

The Benton-to-Turgeon-to-LaFayette combine scored a two-ply murder on Dorman and Capes in the first frame.

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—The Cardinals gained in the National league race today by launching a home run attack to defeat the Giants by 7 to 4. In the seventh Douthit hit a home run after which Schulte walked and Schuble, the 19-year-old shortstop, followed with another four-bagger to put the game away.

Catcher Taylor of the Giants was injured in an odd accident in the second inning when a foul ball glanced off his bat striking him on the forehead. He was taken to a hospital. His condition was not considered serious. The score:

BROWNS TRIM SENATORS.

ST. LOUIS, July 22. (AP)—Although outhit, the St. Louis Browns won both games of a double-header from the Washington Senators today, 7 to 6, and 3 to 2. Washington got 13 hits and St. Louis eight in each game.

The Browns pounded the veteran Walter Johnson for seven hits in the first three innings of the first game and drove him from the mound. Ballou and Crowder, formerly with Washington, pitched for St. Louis. Bunched hitting also won the second game for the Browns while double plays cut off possible visitor runs. The score:

So That's How Matty and Alec Work It!

Blondy Cross,
Record News,
Wichita Falls, Texas.

Dear Mr. Cross:

I read your paragraph in the Record News of Sunday date and I wish to thank you for your attitude, you are the first one I have found in Texas, that wants to give a stranger a fair deal. I did get a raw deal in Wichita Falls, when I made the match, I asked the promoter what rules we would have to wrestle under, at first he tried to evade the question, by saying he would have to wait and talk it over with the Jap. I told him there and then that it would have to be Police Gazette rules, or nothing doing. He said: "All right," and I took it for granted that the match would be fought out under the Police Gazette rules. Much to my astonishment, when we got in the ring, the promoter announced New York commission rules. I objected, and he went over and talked quietly with the Jap, and then came back to me and said I will put it to a vote of the fans. He asked the people that were in favor of New York commission rules to put up their hands and never said anything about the people voting on Police Gazette rules. Then he came to me and said the fans all want New York commission rules, so I saw that it was useless to say any more. After the match, I had made up my mind to forget Wichita Falls, the promoter, the newspapers and every one connected with it, but after reading your little notice in Sunday's paper, I feel that there is at least one man that will give a stranger a square deal.

Some of the people may think I was a little hard on the gate, but they must remember that wrestling is the way I get a living and they have no right to expect to see me wrestle for nothing, than I would have to go in and order a suit of clothes, a steak or a pair of shoes without paying for it. I wrestled three men in Texas, before I met Matsuda and I got the worst end of it as far as the money was concerned in every one of them. It will say about Ross, that as far as the money end of it, he was on the level and I got every dime that was coming to me. I have heard in California that Ross will pay you all that is coming to you and very often take the short end of it himself, but that he will trick you on matches and will do almost anything to help the home man win, and that is what he did with me.

Thank you for your spirit of fair play.

Yours in sport,

MIKE REED.

COURAGE WON FOR DEMPSEY, JUST AN "ORDINARY" FIGHTER

By WARREN BROWN

Universal Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 22.—On to Chicago! While 90,000 persons who saw Jack Dempsey stop Jack Sharkey in the seventh round at the Yankee stadium last night, and 90,000,000 more or less, who "heard" the fight over the radio, are involved in an apparently unending dispute over the legality of certain Dempsey punches to the body, there is but one logical answer to all arguments.

Dempsey knocked out Sharkey. Dempsey, not Sharkey, will meet Gene Tunney, the world's champion, in Soldier's field, Chicago, on September 15 and at least 140,000 spectators will pay upwards of $2,000,000 to see the show.

Great Heart

Out of a confusing jumble of thought on last night's fight, there is one feature that will always stand out in bold relief. This was the gameness of Dempsey. No other heavyweight in all history displayed a stouter heart than this former champion who was struggling to beat his way back to recognition. And though the record book will show that it was a series of body punches, followed by a terrific left hook, flush on the chin, that ended Sharkey, I say these were merely incidental. Dempsey's heart won that battle, and Sharkey's lack of heart lost it.

Dempsey, as a ring tactician, and as an exponent of fire and dash, was no bargain. At times in every round, he seemed so weary that one had to wonder what was holding him up. Several times Sharkey cracked him full swings on the jaw. One, in particular, almost snapped the ex-champion's head from his shoulders. But he would not go down; he would not back up.

There were times when Dempsey, forcing himself to advance, actually seemed to be groping forward, as one in darkness. But, however, he advanced, he ADVANCED! No wonder that Sharkey, the cocky youngster, began wonder what manner of man this was, no wonder, that once he did hit the canvas, he stayed there.

I would call your attention, for the moment, to the fact that Sharkey is the first Dempsey opponent since Fred Fulton, who failed to get up at least once after being floored. Willard got up; Miske got up; Brennan got up; Carpentier got up; Firpo got up; but Sharkey, like Fulton, stayed where he had fallen. You may draw your own conclusions.

Sharkey Not So Game

For a time in the fight Dempsey's body attack did not seem to trouble Sharkey. Then it appeared to annoy him. Finally it was apparent that he was downright disgusted with that sort of thing. He could not understand why his own flashing punches, and he landed them a-plenty, were not causing the "hollow shell" to show cracks. He probably never will understand why the first crack that materialized was that one flush on the jaw, that wound up a fight that was not so spectacular, but which, for bulldog courage, on the part of the ultimate victor, has no parallel in modern heavyweight fighting.

The foul claim was bound to be snatched at by a considerable number of the experts, who had been almost unanimous in declaring Sharkey would win the fight. At this sudden conclusion, they were as much in ned of an alibi as was Sharkey himself.

There was the usual amount of comment that the bout looked like one of those things, but when the whole affair has been sifted down to the last sift, the fact will remain that Dempsey won because he would not give up, and Sharkey lost because he would.

Kearns Cheers Dempsey

Even Jack Kearns, avowed enemy of the ex-champion, was rooting at the finish for the stand the coming-back warrior was mak- that Dempsey would be stopped, ing. For two rounds Kearns would not watch the fight. He was sure but after that, he, like most of the 90,000 was carried away by the sheer grit of Dempsey, and was urging him to come on and win.

Leo P. Flynn, Dempsey's manager, said that his man was just getting under way when the knockout took place. At that, the seventh round was the first that saw Dempsey springing out of his corner like the warrior he used to to be. There was a little of caution about his work then. He no longer groped about the ring. He HIT his way round.

It would be nice to say that Dempsey was a great fighter last night. But it would not be true. He wa san ordinary fighter, with a great heart, and that won for him. What else he is, will be decided when Messrs. Igoe, Kelly, and Goetz turn over Soldier's field to Tex Rickard, September 15. In exchange for that $100,000 rental, that was paid here yesterday. Then only, will we know how much truth there was in Tunney's reply to an opinion on the winner of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight: "It doesn't matter."

Dugan and Gang On Deck Today

Estell Looks Like Spudder Mound Choice

Arthur Phelan and his Shreveporters close out the Spudder home stand starting with this afternoon and running through Monday in a five-game series.

Spudders and Sports clash in one game Saturday p. m. at 3, says Sec Guy Airey, come back Sunday at 3 o'clock with a double header and again Monday at 3 with a bargain bill.

The Spudder mound corps is in fair shape but is expected to be taxed to the limit with Skipper Carl Williams himself liable for duty.

It's Tom Estell's day to work, so you'll probably see the saliva expert on the knob Saturday afternoon unless the Skipper changes his mind and decides to twirl himself. That is not so likely. Williams is expected to hold in reserve as relief man should one be needed ere the series is out.

Cobb's maiden victory Friday over the subway outfit while Houston was toppling Dallas kept the Spudders 10 1-2 games out front.

Gassers Again Tie With Tires

Darkness Concludes Tilt At 6-6 Deadlock

After playing off one tie game on Thursday afternoon, the Muny Gassers and Jackson Tire team tied up once more in the Friday afternoon scheduled clash by the score of 6 to 6. The game was called at the end of the ninth inning on account of darkness.

Othel Hogue played a brilliant game at second while both of the shortstops played great ball in the field. Both Ross and Harvey were turning in fast and shining plays that kept the fans on their toes.

Errors behind Glidewell in the second and third innings were costly and for the last six innings they only made one safe hit off him. Roper had three hits bunched on him in the sixth and these mingled with costly errors gave them their six runs off him.

These two pitchers were members of the old American Refinery baseball team and their facing each other on the hill attracted much attention.

Harvey led the attack for the Gassers with three hits in five times at the bat. They were all singles.

DEMPSEY OUT TO WIN TITLE

He May Fight Champion In September

in the neighborhood of $45,000 on his share of the purse and that of Sharkey at $35,000.

These calculations are based on payment of $270,382 to the winner and $221,631 to the loser under the reported Rickard contract by which Dempsey was to receive 27 1-2 per cent and Sharkey 22 1-2 per cent of the receipts.

Internal revenue officials at New York reported the receipts of the fight were $985,027 and the paid attendance was 72,283. An admission tax of 10 per cent would bring in $98,502.70.

Tex Pays $61,315

Tex Rickard and the Rickard Sporting club, corporation, will escape with smaller inroads on their pocketbooks. Based on Rickard's estimate last night that his share would be $454,188 the corporation tax would be $61,315. However, from this share various items of expense for conducting the match are to be deducted.

A hithertofore neglected source of income will be the ticket scalpers and speculators on whom the government is keeping an eye. The district attorney and revenue officials at New York are engaged in an offensive to collect all taxes due the government on profits from sale of tickets to theaters and sporting events.

They have been watching closely the sale of Dempsey-Sharkey fight tickets.

DEBATE OVER KNOCKOUT BLOW WAXES FURIOUS.

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—The controversy over whether Jack Dempsey did or did not foul Jack Sharkey before knocking out the Boston sailor Thursday night raged with increasing rather than diminishing fury Friday.

Even the slow motion pictures of the finish in the seventh round failed to settle the dispute. Tex Rickard, the promoter, and a majority of observers present, the pictures revealed Dempsey's blows to the body to be close to the border line, but nevertheless not low enough for disqualification. To others and to Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, the pictures were accepted as proof that two low blows were struck to Sharkey's mid-section just before the left hook that sent the sailor to the floor.

"Sharkey was beaten by two foul punches," Buckley charged, after seeing the pictures. "The pictures prove it."

Sharkey Calls Foul.

Sharkey himself before leaving by automobile early Friday afternoon with his wife for his home in Boston supported his manager's statement and declared his groin was sore and swollen from Dempsey's low punches. The Boston boxer accused Dempsey of working an old ring trick—getting him (Sharkey) into a position where the referee was behind him—before crashing rights to the body.

Rickard declared the disputed blow as he saw it "was fair, landing in the pit of the stomach."

Officials as well as newspapermen were widely split on the issue. The majority of metropolitan sports writers apparently held the belief that Dempsey's blows were foul, but their views varied according to the positions they occupied at the ringside.

One of the judges, Charles F. Matheson, was quoted by the New York World as preparing to file a report declaring that Dempsey fouled Sharkey, but the referee, Jack O'Sullivan, was equally as positive that he was correct in ruling the former champion's punches fair, even though they were close to the border line.

Referee Saw Blow.

Here's how O'Sullivan described the disputed situation to the Sun:

"I was right on top of the boxers preceding the knockout. Dempsey brought up a sweeping right for the body. It was a low punch, but it was not a damaging blow. It landed on Sharkey's left thigh and swept on up. I took a step nearer to them and said 'watch your punches, Jack.' Then I realized they both were named Jack and added 'I mean you Dempsey.'

"Quick as a flash Dempsey sent his left to the pit of the stomach. Sharkey grunted as though in pain and bent his head forward. Then Dempsey sent another left to the jaw and Sharkey went down. I bent over Sharkey and said: 'You had better get up, I am counting on you.' He made no reply. He did not claim a foul.

"During the fight Dempsey landed three or four punches that were low, but they were not vital. They were light blows. Sharkey also landed a couple of low ones. I cautioned both of them."

No Action Expected.

In spite of the sharp differences of opinion no official action is expected to be taken by the state athletic commission. Chairman James A. Farley, while declining to express a personal view of the matter, said that Referee O'Sullivan called the decision "as he saw it," and pointed to the fact that the commission has never reversed the verdicts of any of its officials.

James A. Farley, chairman of the state athletic commission, issued this statement:

"I have nothing to say other than that the referee who was assigned to that bout rendered the decision as he saw it. This commission has never reversed a decision of its officials. Referee O'Sullivan has always been considered by the newspapermen who write boxing as being one of the most proficient and competent referees."

SHARKEY LAYS PLANS FOR QUICK COMEBACK

NEW YORK, July 22.(AP)—Undaunted by his knockout at the slugging hands of Jack Dempsey, but persistent in his belief that the telling blow was foul, Jack Sharkey will set out after a few weeks' rest to fight his way back to the fistic heights from which he has fallen for the present.

Paulino Uzcudun, the sturdy young Spanish conqueror of Harry Wills, will be his next foe in a bout to be held in New York in about two months if the plans of Sharkey and his manager, John Buckley, materialize.

Still certain he "can lick Jack Dempsey," Sharkey Friday was firm in the opinion he would have won but for the manner of Dempsey's attack.

Sharkey's face and body bore little evidence of the pile driving force of Dempsey's blows. He suffered no lasting ill effects from the disputed body punch which helped to send him down.

Sharkey himself firmly believed the blow was foul and said so frankly after the fight, although observing the formalities of a good loser.

Dempsey's attack was centered about his hips, Sharkey said, and on more than the one occasion, which was in the seventh round, the bombardment dropped below the waist line.

While believing his fighter "was fouled more than a dozen times," Buckley said he would not appeal the decision.

"The referee's word is final," he said, and turned to plans for the Paulino fight which he expects will be staged in Madison Square Garden late in September about the time Tunney and Dempsey are to meet for the title.

SPORT SCRIBES DEBATE ON FAIRNESS OF BLOW

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Although the referee, Jack O'Sullivan, declared the punch was fair, a majority of sports writers whose opinions were reflected in metropolitan newspapers Friday apparently considered that Jack Dempsey landed a low blow just before he knocked out Jack Sharkey with a left to the chin.

The New York Times says Dempsey's "accompaniment was disputed by many who saw the test" and "will hold the belief that Dempsey should have been disqualified on a foul."

The Herald-Tribune in one account refers to "two foul punches" by Dempsey, "to which Jack O'Sullivan, the referee, paid no attention, although they were delivered a good eight inches below the belt." The same paper adds in another story:

"It was a strange fight, as strange as the rumors that were flying through the stadium when it started, as strange as the shifting of the odds that made Dempsey a favorite before the two men entered the ring. All the circumstances were startling, not to say peculiar."

According to the World, the right to Sharkey's body "did seem to be close to the belt," but it points out that the referee refused to allow a claim of foul and that the official physician of the boxing commission found no evidence of injury.

JUDGE AT RINGSIDE CALLS BLOW LOW.

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Charles Mathison, one of the judges of the Sharkey-Dempsey fight, declared he would make the following report to the state athletic commission:

"Jack Sharkey was hit below the waist line immediately before the knockout punch and Dempsey should have been disqualified. Dempsey was also guilty of hitting low in several other rounds."

Referee Jack O'Sullivan said:

"The blow which preceded the knockout punch, a left to the jaw, was a fairly delivered one. It was a right uppercut that landed right on the waist line, but not below. It is true that Dempsey landed several times below the waist line in previous rounds, but in no case were the punches injurious or deliberate nor was there any protest made by Sharkey previous to the final round."

DEMPSEY AND SHARKEY SHARE LARGE PURSE.

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey split a purse of slightly more than $450,000 for their battle Thursday night, which drew a gate of $1,075,000 and attendance of 82,000. According to Tex Rickard's estimate, it was the fourth $1,000,000 fight in ring history, in all of which Dempsey has been a principal. The former champion now is assured a cut in his fifth big money fight when he meets Gene Tunney in a return title bout.

Rickard's contracts with the fighters called for Dempsey to get 27 1-2 per cent and Sharkey 22 1-2 per cent. Dempsey was understood to have been guaranteed $250,000 and on a percentage basis it figures to go slightly over that with Sharkey getting a little over $200,000. Here are the promoter's figures:

Total receipts $1,075,000.
Dempsey's share $252,759.
Sharkey's share $206,803.
Federal tax $53,750.
Rickard's share $454,188.

DEMPSEY SHOWS LITTLE ILL EFFECTS OF FIGHT.

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Showing no ill effects after his spectacular knockout victory over Jack Sharkey Thursday night other than a slight puffiness about the eyes, Jack Dempsey was up early Friday and played 18 holes of golf with his manager, Leo P. Flynn.

Jack went around in "about 100" strokes. Out of consideration for Dempsey's strenuous evening and the fact that Leo was right at the top of his own proficient game no accurate score was kept.

After the game, Dempsey went to his hotel to prepare for an immediate trip to Los Angeles. Jack plans a three-week vacation before entering training again for the championship fight with Gene Tunney in September. Both Dempsey and his manager believe the match will be staged in Chicago about Sept. 15.

Dempsey was just a bit indignant Friday at claims of Sharkey and numerous sport writers that the right hand smash to the Boston boy's body in the seventh round was foul.

"I never struck a fairer blow in my life," Dempsey said. "I could feel my right bury into Sharkey's body just under his ribs and I knew he was gone. He just slumped and a left hook to the jaw finished him."

Dempsey Is Happy.

Dempsey, buoyed to high spirits by his knockout of Jack Sharkey, prepared Friday for a trip to his wife and home in Hollywood, Cal., before settling down a few weeks hence to train for his return fight with Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship.

"I don't care where it is to be," said Dempsey. "Philadelphia or Chicago will suit me just as well as New York. This fight will do me a lot of good. I will keep in shape and be set for the big shot."

Dempsey was as tickled as a boy with a new toy. His old confidence in himself seemed restored. He slapped and mauled "Jerry, the Greek," his trainer as though little of his energy had been lost in the conflict. Jerry "took it" smiling.

The former champion declared he never felt himself badly hurt by any of Sharkey's punches, although he admitted he was jarred several times especially in the first round.

Dempsey came out of the battle in good condition, but his face was quite bruised and it was necessary to take several stitches in cuts over his eyes.

"It was a tough fight, one of the hardest I have ever had," Dempsey said. "Give Sharkey all the credit in the world for being a game fighter."

MATSUDA TAGS IT ON HASSEN

Jap Scores Kayo With His Deadly Flying Mare

Matty Matsuda, popularly termed the "Wonder Jap," had a few of the customers wondering Friday night at the Ross stadium when Ali Hassen, the Ottoman, tricked him into a series of whirling-dervish reverse head-locks and flopped him for the first fall of a boisterous mat encounter.

But the 143-pound Jap came back with a rush against the 153-pound Turk, avenged the fall and a previous drubbing handed him in El Paso little more than a year ago, by applying the deadly flying mare in so adroit a fashion that Hassen was sent spinning on his dome and out for more than the count. Hassen came back groggy for the deciding fall and was taken in a hurry.

The Turk spun the Nipponese for the opening fall after a grueling 40 minutes and 40 seconds. Matsuda rallied while in the midst of another reverse flying headlock sally launched by an over-anxious antagonist and slipped into one flying mare, the Jap's old favorite and the most spectacular hold in the wrestling game. That one flop was enough. Hassen flitted through the atmosphere over Nipponese shoulders and made an abrupt and quite solid landing on the base of his skull. The fall was tagged in 20 minutes flat. Hassen came back in sore plight after generously being allowed by the Jap an extra five minutes of rest. The Turk gave up in 40 seconds to a head-pulling hold which has no name. Not even the wily Matsuda on the spur of the moment could think of a label for the maneuver.

Handsome Jack Matlock, 169 pounds, earned a shade in a lively eight-round glove melee with Roy Edwards, the skating rink king and Hollywood ringster. Edwards gave away seven pounds. The bout came very near being a draw but Matlock scored more effectively in the late frames.

Dempsey Moore, the Wichita Falls amateur light heavy, didn't look as good as usual against Bobby Brown of Houston, state amateur champ, but had the best of a six-round leather-chunking affair. Brown finished in better shape than Moore, but was outscored although he did make Dempsey miss many.

Fighting Sam hung up a four-round knockout over Sundown Kid. They are black welterweights.

Quitaque High Pressure Water Supply System Is Completed

Special to The Record News.

QUITAQUE, July 22.—The citizens of Quitaque now have what they have been longing for, for many years, and that is a high water pressure with plenty of water.

Immediately after the West Texas Utilities company bought the Twin City Ice and Electric companies holdings at this place, they went to work to install the proper machinery in filling the 40,000 gallon capacity water standpipe, that has been built for several weeks awaiting certain steps to be made by the company.

Mr. Scale, the manager of the West Texas Utilities company of this place, states that the standpipe is now about half full, and he is of the opinion that plenty of water will be supplied from now on providing the water wells continue to produce as much water in the future as they have since he has been here.

The citizens are in hopes that the West Texas Utilities company will put forth every effort possible, to supply the city with an abundance of water at all times, as that has been the greatest problem that Quitaque has had to contend with for many months.

Oil Craze Hits New Mexico As Wildcat Finds Big Gas Flow

AMARILLO, July 22.—Southeastern New Mexico has gone oil crazy again.

While there has been no actual let-up since 1921, when the drilling of wildcats in Shaves, Eddy and adjacent counties began, the excitement has experienced many lulls. News from both Roswell and Artesia say that things are popping again as a result of the Texas Production company's No. 1 Robinson permit, in the northeast of the southwest of 25-16n-31e, Eddy county, which blew in a 11,700,000-foot gasser on Saturday, July 16, is now spraying better than 25 barrels a day of oil as it apparently is drilling itself into a pay at 3885 feet.

This wildcat is in the extreme northeast area of Eddy county and would stretch out the Artesia field, but most oil scouts place it within the Maljamar pool area that takes in part of Eddy and Lea counties.

W. C. Martin, editor of the Artesia Advocate, advises that the hole was at 3885 feet in a white lime when the gas pocket was penetrated. It blew in with a roar, forcing the drilling tools up the hole and lodging them. A gauge on the gas showed it making 11,700,000 feet. With the tools out it should make 20,000,000 feet a day.

Tuesday the well made five barrels in a spray and this has been increasing at the rate of five barrels a day until it is now making between 20 and 25 barrels.

The eight and a quarter inch pipe is being cemented, after which the tools will be gotton out and the six-inch pipe run. The gas flow is coming up between the eight and a quarter and six and five-eighths inch casings and outside the "eight."

All Areas Show Field Curtailment Except Seminole, Report Shows

TULSA, Okla., July 22.—Oil operations in the Oklahoma, Kansas, North Texas and New Mexico area of the Mid-Continent fields are still decreasing in number and during the week just ended the total number of oil field operations have dropped from 3181 last week to the new low level of 3121, a decrease of 60 operations, the Oil Weekly said Friday.

All districts represented suffered slight loss in total operations with Texas leading in the decrease; there being 48 less operations in this state this week than last. The state of Oklahoma is still holding its own with total operations numbering 1357, which is but two less than were reported last week. Seminole continues to lead the state in activity with 684 operations under way, of which number 545 are wells drilling. The number of new ventures about to start drilling remains around 68 in the Seminole area. Reports for the week just ended gives the active areas in Texas which are included in Mid-Continent reports a total of 1395 operations under way as compared with 1447 in the last report.

With the continued decrease of total oil field operations throughout the Mid-Continent fields is indicated that the general atmosphere of curtailment is actually having a positive effect upon the oil industry in this section. Operators feel that their efforts toward the ultimate reduction of the present flood of flush oil production will meet with success and that the lowering of such production will reflect itself favorable in the crude oil market.

Cotton--Stocks--Latest Market Quotations--Grain--Cattle

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—Prospects for further showers in the south evidently increased apprehensions of boll weevil damage to the coming crop and after some early selling orders had been absorbed, the cotton market advanced to new high ground for the season today. October sold up from 18.44 to 18.84 and closed at 18.78, the general market closing steady at net advances of 28 to 32 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of four points. A slight further advance met considerable week-end realizing and the early market seemed to be rather unsettled by the final evening-up of current July contracts, in which trading ended at midday.

After selling up to 18.15 at the start, July broke to 17.98 under some scattering liquidation, promoted by circulation of a few notices, but later rallied to 18.15 and went out quickly enough at 18.11. After the passing of July, the market developed increased strength on the forecast for showery weather over the south and buying became more urgent as prices worked higher. A few stop orders were uncovered, which contributed to the advance to 19.06 for December and 19.30 for March. The general list showed net advances of 32 to 38 points in late trading. Last prices were within 5 or 6 points of the best on most positions.

The Liverpool market was relatively easy early, but rallied later, private cables indicating that local and continental liquidation had been offset by covering and trade calling and reporting a good cloth inquiry from India, although the majority of offers were impracticable.

The week-end figures showed spinners' takings o f22,741 bales for the week against 188,734 last year.

Exports today 13,908, making 11,169,666 so far this season. Port receipts 8921; U. S. port stocks 992,891.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, July 22. (AP)—Prospects for showers in the belt and reports of increasing boll weevil activity sent the price of cotton upward on the local market today. October advanced to 18.70 and December to 18.94 and the close was nearly as high.

Although Liverpool was lower than due, the market here opened 7 to 9 points up and prices continued to gain in the early trading until October moved up to 18.45 and December to 18.66, or 9 to 10 points above yesterday's close.

This was followed by a reaction induced by fair weather in the west and realizing and prices dropped 9 to 11 points under the early highs.

After mid-session prices advanced sharply on weather prospects and boll weevil reports and jumped 37 to 39 points above the early lows.

Exports for the day totaled 8008 bales and for the week 99,615 bales.

Stock Market Forges To New High Grounds Despite Irregular Tone On Wall Street Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 22.—While irregularity developed at times today the good stocks forged into new high ground again on the exchange. Money remained easy at 3 3-4 per cent. Banking interests continue buyers of standard stocks with leading operators trailing behind. Impressive buying campaigns are slated in stocks representing the basic industries and leaders in their lines. Stocks sponsored by the First National interests were prominent on the advancing side, and pets of the Morgans scored substantial gains. Wheat and cotton were firm and foreign exchange quiet.

Youngstown reports of an impending merger of steel companies on a nation-wide basis and headed by the so-called Mellon interests attracted attention to the steel stocks. U. S. Steel did not do much but activity developed in Crucible. Some of the big Chicago traders are long of the stock. Wilkinson Crown were also buying the stock along with Pittsburgh and other interests participated in the buying. The company is said to have perfected a new process for high grade tool and other steels. These prices, it is estimated, should bring earnings next year in excess of $15 a share.

Motors came in for attention with advancing prices occurring in General Motors and Chrysler. Motors will probably split the stock up on a two-for-one with $7 on the new. The group operating in Chrysler predict a price of 60 on this move.

With earnings running near $25 for the first three quarters General Motors continue large distributions to stockholders this year. Motor equipments followed in the wake and Gabriel Snubbers hit a new high at 58 1-2. The stock is up 20 points from the price it sold at when first called to the attention of readers of this column.

American Brake Shoe reached a new peak at 43. Recumulation has been going on in this stock for weeks. First National was reported as the largest buyer of the shares in connection with negotiations under way for a working agreement and stock holding deal covering American Brake Shoe, Timken and General Railway Signal. Buying also came from points in Pittsburgh, Canton, O., and Detroit.

Tobaccos moved higher with a demand for United Cigar stores. A big inquiry has developed for stock of the new Union Tobacco company in the over-the-counter market. Numerous bids of 28 were made for the stock but none was offered. At one time, however, a small amount was offered at 31 and snapped up. Investors are turning their attention to tobacco stocks because of the stability of earnings year and year out.

Mallinson Silk preferred rose 4 points on top of its 10 point rise Thursday. Plans are under way for retirement of the preferred. Leading companies in the silk business are in much stronger position than last year. Mallinson's bank loans have been largely reduced and the company's plants and other holdings have greatly appreciated in value.

American Chicle spurted three points. The company under the new management has been very successful in increasing sales and rumors prevail that it may be absorbed by the Wrigley company.

Union Pacific was well taken. The company's investments in other companies show a tremendous appreciation in value and for a $10 stock is behind the list. Lackawana was strong on the talk that the New York Central would get the road instead of the Lehigh Valley. Weakness of Lehigh recently is regarded as a shake-out by bankers who do not like a big following in the stock.

A demand prevailed for National Surety "rights" and Warren Pipe. Directors of the latter are likely to place the stock on a $2.50 dividend basis soon. Case threshing soared 17 points on rumors that the company was earning at the rate of $50 a share. A price of 350 has been placed on it.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, July 22. (AP)—The stock market wavered today as selling attacks increased in volume and intensity, but strong buying support was forthcoming for most issues and prices made irregular recovery. Final quotations were mixed, with net declines predominating, but a number of issues reached new high ground and a few recorded rather substantial gains.

Lowering of the call money renewal rate to 3½ per cent, the lowest of the year, following publication of the weekly federal reserve statement showing an increase of 4.1 per cent to 86 per cent, in the local reserve ration, furnished fresh proof of the extreme ease of credit conditions, which has been the main bulwark of the recent advance. A distinctly easier undertone also was apparent in the time money and commercial paper markets.

Much of today's liquidation was believed to represent week-end profit-taking on the part of professional traders and small speculators. "Bear" traders succeeded in forcing another break of nearly 10 points in Houston Oil, 7 of which were later recovered, and in making inroads in some of the railroad, amusement an dspecialty shares, but the general list offered good resistance to pressure.

Motors were again prominent in the advance, with all sorts of merger and dividend rumors in circulation. General Motors attained a new peak at 216½ and then eased a point on realizing. Chrysler was the individual feature, moving up more than 3 points to 51¼, or within a fraction of the year's high.

Oil shares continued to move within rather narrow limits, the decision of the Oklahoma corporation commission to curtail production in the Seminole field being offset by the publication of a poor Marland quarterly report, showing another large deficit.

A jump of over 4 points in Gabriel Snubber, part of which was lost on realizing, was accompanied by unconfirmed reports that Ford interests were seeking manufacturing rights in connection with their new models.

Speculative interest in the rails was divided between a further sharp break in Lehigh Valley and a brisk upturn in Lackawanna. Most of the others showed unimportant changes.

Foreign exchanges held steady with demand sterling around $4.85⅛ and French francs just under 3.91½ cents.

BUYERS RULE WHEAT PRICE

Profit Taking Checks Hike In Trading

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.

Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Persistent buying prevailed in wheat today in response to bullish crop news from Europe and claims of spreading rust infection in parts of the Canadian northwest. The market was on the upgrade throughout with the close near best levels. Profit taking and selling against offers checked the upturn gradually.

Cooler weather over the corn belt helped this grain as well as the buoyancy in the leading cereal. Commission house buying was a little broader, and shorts were on the defensive.

July wheat opened at $1.42¼@1.42½, dipped to $1.42, rallied to $1.43½ and closedat $1.42¾. September opened at $1.38¾@1.39⅛, rallied to $1.40¼ and closed at $1.39⅝@1.39⅞. September corn opened at $1.03½@1.03⅝, sagged to $1.03⅛, rallied to $1.05 and closed at $1.04⅝@1.04⅞.

The seaboard confirmed export sales of 300,000 bushels and exporters bought 160,000 bushels from Chicago. Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅝ pence lower.

Locally wheat finished ⅝ to 1⅜c higher, corn 1½ to 1¾c lower, oats unchanged to ¼c higher and rye ⅜@⅝c higher.

The advance in corn seemed to be chiefly in line with wheat, but at the same time the tone of this grain is firm. Much will depend on weather conditions the next month or more to determine to what extent the crop may or may not make up lost ground.

Oats held within a narrow range but were firm in tone with other grains.

Rye was not so buoyant as wheat but finished in higher ground.

Lee Street Spuds Win Another, 12-11

The Lee Street Spudders won over the "Inside" team of the Producers Creamery Friday afternoon by the score of 12 to 11. This same team of youngsters, none of whom are over 16 years of age, won a slug-fest game from the "Outside" team of the Producers Wednesday afternoon.

In Friday's game, Jack Cossey, the Spudders' center fielder, was the star of the game in the field and Calcom Maudlin, left fielder, was the star in the hitting attack with four out of four, a tripple and three singles, while Satterwhite also slapped out a long tripple to left field, scoring two men ahead of him.

Edgar Satterwhite tossed for the Spudders and allowed only seven hits which were well scattered, but his teammates were very ragged at times and allowed their runs on errors. This team has issued a challenge to out-of-town teams under 16 years old. A fair sized crowd viewed the game Friday and the Spudders hope to see many of their friends back to see future games.

Deputies Stage Raid As Beer Bottles Pop

Deputies in Constable Frank Morgan's office began stepping around briskly late Friday when a number of bottles of home brew, evidently capped too early and overheated, began to explode with great violence. One deputy carried away a slight cut from flying glass.

The beer was brought into the office following a raid by Constable Morgan and three deputies on an establishment in east Wichita Falls around 5:30 Friday afternoon. The raid, according to the constable, disclosed a most elaborate provision for storing the ilicit supplies. The exploding beer was taken from an underground recess hollowed out in a corner of the garage. A large wash tup had been filled with bottled beer from this recess when operations were interrupted by bursting bottles there.

In an adjoining wash shed, one corner was found equipped with an underground ice box. This was reached through a slot having the appearance of a car window opening. From this was taken several dozen ice cold bottles of beer. A search of the house disclosed several quarts of wine.

CORN CROP IN GOOD SHAPE

Rains Boom Prospect For Heavy Yield

Conditions of the corn crop in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma is very promising owing to beneficial rains during the past month, says crop report No. 7 of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company, just released.

Cotton in Bloom

Estimate of the Texas corn crop is 98,810,000 bushels as compared to a five-year average of 60,444,000 bushels. Oklahoma's corn crop is estimated at 45,407,000 bushels, the average for the past five years being 49,125,000 bushels.

Although the rains resulted in rank growth in some sections, cotton generally looks good in North Texas and in the south central portion of Oklahoma the plant is already in bloom.

Threshing of wheat and oats from Amarillo east is progressing rapidly. Texas winter wheat crop is estimated at 18,400,000 bushels while that of Oklahoma is 42,000,000 bushels, as compared to 73,745,000 bushels last year.

Heavy Cotton Crop

Total area of cotton in Texas this year is 17,226,000 acres or 90 per cent of the 1926 acreage and the forecast production is 5,461,000 bales as compared to 5,609,000 bales last year.

Range conditions in all of Northwest Texas, Oklahoma, West Texas and New Mexico are described as excellent in the Rock Island report. In Oklahoma a good commercial potato crop was harvested and is now moving to market, the report says.

Auto Driver Faces Charge After Crash

J. L. Lickey, 1500 Monroe street, was released under $1000 bond by Sheriff W. G. Bralley Friday after having been arrested on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated and failing to render aid. The complaint was filed before Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn by E. K. Logan, 1202 Travis street, an uncle of Ernest Lilly of Throckmorton, whose injuries received in a collision Thursday night served as a basis for the action. Mr. Lilly was reported by the Wichita Falls General hospital as doing well Friday.

The collision occurred about four miles west of Wichita Falls on the Seymour road. A sedan driven by Mr. Lickey and a motorcycle operated by Mr. Lilly collided. Mr. Lilly was accompanied by Neil Foster of Seymour and Mr. Lickey was accompanied by his 7-year-old son. Mr. Lilly suffered two fractures of the left leg, cuts about the face, and lost several teeth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lilly of Throckmorton.

Can of Nitro Fails To Halt Bank Clerk

SHAWNEE, Okla., July 22.(AP)—Threatening to blow up the Tecumseh National bank with a can of what he said was nitroglycerin, an unidentified man today forced Tom Southgate, clerk in the bank, to hand over about $1500.

The man was captured as he left the building, however, by J. L. Rosebush, president, and Leroy Cooper, assistant county attorney. Rosebush put his arms around the intruder, who immediately made a motion as if to throw the can to the floor. Cooper grabbed the can and held it.

Today { At the Theaters

By Ruth Morrison

Majestic: "Tillie The Toller," with Marion Davies; also Fables, Topics of the Day and Pathe News.
Olympic: "Sunset Derby," with William Collier, comedy and Fox News.
Mission: Hoot Gibson in "The Flaming Frontier," and Gump comedy.
Garden: "The Fighting Cheat," with Wally Wales; No. 4 "Whispering Smith Rides," and Fable comedy.
Gem: "Frontier Trails," with Harry Carey, and comedy.
Monroe: Buffalo Bill Jr., in "Trumping Trouble," and Felix comedy.

George K. Arthur, Co-Starred With Marion Davies in "Tillie the Toiler," Starting at the Majestic Theater Today for Four Days.

Marion Davies should be given the laurel wreath, or whatever it is that goes to crown the brow of the fairest and cleverest of screen comediennes.

As Tillie, in "Tillie the Toiler," her latest Cosmopolitan starring vehicle, which opens today at the Majestic theater, Miss Davies gives the crowning performance of her entire film career up to date.

She even surpasses the wonderful heights of acting she achieved in "Little Old New York," "When Knighthood Was in Flower," "Zander the Great" and 'Beverly of Graustark."

For many months there has been a popular urge to see Miss Davies in farce. Her past performances have given every indication that she would run away with a straight comedy role. Those who have longed to see her in a vehicle that gives her free rein as a comedienne should not fail to see "Tillie the Toiler."

The play is based on Russ Westover's comic strip, which is run in many of the great American daily newspapers, and the screen play is said to be based on Agnes Christine Johnston and Edward T. Loew Jr.'s adaptation of this strip. Younger wrote the screen play and, like the star, has done something to enhance his reputation for having written such excellent screen material as "Brown of Harvard," "The Taxi Dancer," and other productions.

Hobart Henley some months ago demonstrated his ability as a director of situation comedy by his admirable handling of "His Secretary," but even that splendid vehicle did not give him a chance to show his directorial powers as does "Tillie the Toiler."

Miss Davies has an excellent supporting cast of screen comedians to assist her in this picture. They include at least half a dozen featured players, among them George K. Arthur, Bert Roach, George Fawcett, Gertrude Short, Estelle Clark, Arthur Hoyt and Claire McDowell.

Conflict In City And State Law In Filing Paving Appeal Revealed Here

A large variance in the city of Wichita Falls law governing the length of time in which an appeal from an order by the city council authorizing the paving of streets to the district court can be made and the state law regarding an appeal, was revealed Friday in the 30th district court, before Judge E. G. Thornton, in the case of M. G. Catter versus the city of Wichita Falls.

Asks Injunction

Mr. Catter filed suit for an injunction to restrain the city from levying an assessment for the paving of Fourth street in front of the plaintiff's property on Fourth, between Ohio and Scott, which Mr. Catter claims is a "business homestead."

The plaintiff operates a monument works on Fourth street and claims exemption from a paving assessment under the state law which prescribes that property on which the owner makes his livelihood, if not over the value of $5000 when acquired, can be claimed as a homestead and have the same exemption privileges from attachment for debt as that of a home.

When the hearing on the injunction petition came up Friday before Judge Thornton the city set up the claim that the state law prescribes that an appeal from a city council order for the paving of a street must be filed with the district court within 20 days.

Mr. Catter, according to the testimony in the hearing, did not file his appeal with the district court until about six months after the city council had ordered the paving of Fourth street.

Judge Considers Case

The plaintiff's attorney, W. H. Sanford, countered the city's contention with the claim that the city of Wichita Falls law governing the filing of an appeal to the district court does not prescribe any length of time in which an appeal can be filed and that, therefore, there was no statute of limitations and that Mr. Catter was within his legal rights in filing the appeal six months after the council's order.

At the conclusion of the hearing Judge Thornton announced that he would probably hand down a decision in the case Saturday.

Postmaster's Account Found $52,000 Short

LOS ANGELES, July 22.(AP)—Louis F. Randell, former postmaster at Hileah, Fla., suburb of Miami, was arrested today by post-office inspectors aided by a deputy sheriff. He is charged with embezzlement of $52,000 in money orders. The inspectors said he was arrested in the Florida town a month ago but jumped a $25,000 bond.

All of the permits were for the erection of residences and were issued to the following: F. C. Zihlman, Pembroke road, $9500; Lone Star Building company, $2750, and C. O. Smith, 1527 Blonde, $2750.

Four Men Have Sentences Reduced When Judge Makes Terms Concurrent

The mercy of the court resulted Friday in four men convicted by juries in two or more cases having their sentences run concurrently allowing them to serve all their sentences at one time.

The four were among six sentenced by Judge E. G. Thornton in the 30th district court.

Judge Thornton sentenced John Malchi, convicted in three cases of forgery with a jury penalty assessment of two years in each case, to serve two years, runninga the three sentences concurrently.

Other sentences run concurrently by Judge Thornton were those of R. C. Powell, convicted of forgery in two cases with two years for each case; E. J. Litchfield, two cases of theft, two years in each case; K. C. G. Steele, two cases of forgery, two years in each case.

Judge Thornton also pronounced sentence on Vernon Brubaker, alias W. W. Wells, convicted on a charge of theft in connection with the stealing of an automobile, and Frank Cooper, convicted of a statutory offense.

R. H. Taylor, recently convicted in five cases of forgery with a jury penalty of two years in each case, and John Roberts, convicted of theft with a penalty of two years, when arraigned Friday for sentence before Judge Thornton requested that he defer passing sentence for a few days as it was possible they would file appeals.

ALLRED NAMES NEW AIDES

Changes Made Necessary By Recent Law

Resignation of C. L. Bradford as special investigator for the district attorney's office, appointment of George S. Berry, of Graham, as assistant district attorney and the transfer of Sam Spence, assistant to district attorney to special investigator, was announced Friday by District Attorney Ben Allred in a letter received Friday by Judge E. G. Thornton of the 30th district court. Mr. Allred sent the letter from Graham.

The changes came as a result of a new state law which prescribes that special investigators for district attorneys must possess a certificate as an attorney at law. Mr. Bradford is not an attorney.

Mr. Allred made the statement that if it had not been for the requirements of the new law that Mr. Bradford would have continued as special investigator as long as he desired due to the fact that his work has been very satisfactory.

Mr. Berry has been county attorney of Young county. He has resigned that position to become assistant district attorney and will in the future assist in the prosecution of criminal cases in Archer and Young counties, which with Wichita comprise the 30th district court district.

E. F. Fruechte, first assistant district attorney, will continue to prosecute cases in the district courts of Wichita county.

Mr. Spence was formerly special investigator for the district attorney's office before becoming assistant district attorney.

NO CAMPING

Tents Barred Inside City Limits By New Rule Of City

"No camping" signs were posted Friday in Wichita Falls by the department of health, according to Dr. I. L. Lucey, director of the department.

The city council recently enacted an ordinance prohibiting camping within the Wichita Falls city limits.

Lady Godiva, et al. May Represent Art, But Not On Flivver's Door, Jury Rules

Lady Godiva, who wore nothing but her hair, as she rode through the streets, and the nudity of some of Gay Gotham's queens of beauty who prance before the footlights on Broadway, entered into the testimony Friday in a case brought to trial in the county court of law before Judge C. M. McFarland.

The case concerned that of a man who was arraigned for displaying alleged suggestive pictures on his automobile.

Whether the pictures were indecent or not, was the bone of contention between attorneys for the defendant and the state.

The defendant's attorneys cited the fact that pictures of Lady Godiva and the stage queens were considered as works of art and that it was the state of a viewer's mind as to the extent of the indecency, furthermore the attorneys asserted that the pictures on the automobile could be viewed by some without thoughts of indecency and by others as suggestive.

After a long argument, the jury decided that although pictures of Lady Godiva, et al, were works of art the pictures on the automobile were not and as a result the car owner was fined $1 and the costs of trial, making his automobile picture bill run up to $25.

Death Claims Dr. Robert L. McCoy While On Tour of New Mexico

Funeral services for Dr. Robert L. McCoy, well known practicing physician of Megargel, Texas, will be announced on the arrival of the remains at that place. The remains will pass through Wichita Falls at 11:45 o'clock Saturday. Dr. McCoy, who was 60 years of age, succumbed to an attack of acute indigestion July 21 while in Roswell, N. Mex. Dr. McCoy, accompanied by Mrs. McCoy, had but recently started on a two months' vacation tour which was to include Canada and the Florida coast.

He was a native of Eastland county where he practiced medicine for 18 years after his graduation from the medical college of Tulane University at New Orleans, La. He afterwards moved to Megargel where he had been practicing medicine for the past 17 years. In addition to having graduated from Tulane University, Dr. McCoy had taken several post graduate courses there.

He was widely known and respected both in the counties where his medical practice lay and in Wichita Falls. He was a Presbyterian, a Knight Templar, a Scottish Rite Mason, a Shriner and a member of Maskat Temple, Wichita Falls. He is survived by his widow, one son, and one daughter, the children being residents of Dallas.

Receipts Demanded In Transfer of Autos

Automobile registration receipts from other counties must be presented to the Wichita county automobile registration bureau before transfers from the other counties to Wichita county will be issued, Guy Raley, county tax collector, said Friday after receiving instructions from the state highway department relative to transfers.

Heretofore, transfers have been issued upon the presentation of bills of sale. However, due to the fact that it is possible for persons stealing automobiles to forge bills of sale, the state highway department now requires the presentation of registration receipts.

Pride That We're Ready to Share With You

We take considerable pride in the number of homes we've built, and in the sturdiness and attractiveness that our workmanship and materials have put into them.

We take still more pride in the number of home owners we've made, by selling those houses on sensible, meet-able terms.

And we know that the owners of those homes take pride in them, too.
