One of the feature attractions in the Bicentennial rock garden to be constructed on the Scurry County Coliseum grounds will be a Bicentennial emblem in living flowers. Delbert Downing, the Bicentennial-Centennial general chairman here, says he has been assured by local garden enthusiasts that it can be done, and this is confirmed by some of the seed and nursery companies, who now are sending out their catalogs and other literature for fall and winter gardens. There are various red, white and blue flowers available, including varieties that bloom from winter on through the summer months. The first ones, we suspect, would be hyacinths, which are being pushed now by some seed companies who are alert to the Bicentennial tie-in.

According to figures from the Census Bureau, which were publicized the past weekend, Snyder accomplished about 40 per cent of its major population objective of the seventies during the first three years of the decade.

During the decade from 1960 to 1970, the population here decreased from an official 13,850 to an official 11,171. This was attributed to increased automation of oilfield operations, a general recession which resulted in population losses for virtually all areas except the metropolitan centers, and other factors.

By the end of 1974, basing calculations on the generally-accepted yardsticks, local officials cautiously suggested that the head count here had edged past the 12,000 mark. The Census Bureau confirmed that this had happened, pegging the population at 12,221 at the end of 1973. So, it appears that in three years, Snyder had gained back more than 1,000 of the 2,680 it had lost in the sixties.

It is generally agreed that we could do even better immediately if there were sufficient housing available now.

Just in is word that a new book titled "Rio Grande" is off the press. As the title suggests, it deals with the river which forms the border between Texas and Mexico, although it covers much more of the river than that. The publisher, Charles H. Belding of Portland, Ore., says the Rio Grande is the second largest river in the nation—that is, if you agree that the Mississippi-Missouri system is the first. Robert Reynolds, who did the photography for the books reportedly got some unusual pictures when his canoe was caught in a whirlpool in Santa Elena Canyon near the western edge of Big Bend National Park in Texas. The canoe flipped and Reynolds was held under it by the force of the water, which bent the canoe around a boulder. When he finally broke away, he automatically began taking pictures with a waterproof camera he had harnessed to his chest. He had to float and swim for over five hours through 1,500-foot cliffs before he found a low shore where he could crawl out. Tony Hillerman did the text for the book, which covers the 1,800-mile river at all seasons of the year.—WACIL McNAIR.

Working On Fine Points

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived back in Alexandria today, carrying a partially agreed-upon draft of an interim Sinai accord between Egypt and Israel that diplomatic sources may be wrapped up as early as Friday.

"We have made remarkable progress," said Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon as Kissinger left Israel for Alexandria.

Kissinger told newsmen the "subtle and fine points" of the agreement were being worked out. He said he had the text of a pact, part of which was already agreed upon by the sides.

Israeli officials anticipated an initialing ceremony possibly before the end of the week, but Kissinger declined to give a date.

Diplomatic sources said the main issue in the agreement — the withdrawal lines — was settled, and agreement was close on the half-dozen front line electronic surveillance posts to be set up and partly manned by American technicians.

Kissinger flew to Alexandria Monday for a meeting with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, returned to Jerusalem for a 3½-hour meeting Monday night with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and his negotiating team, and after more talks with the Israelis today was returning to Alexandria this afternoon.

"So far we have not run into any unexpected difficulties or into any one difficulty that presents a deadlock, so matters are still progressing," Kissinger told newsmen.

He reported that drafts of the proposed agreement are now being exchanged.

Back in the United States, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said he would oppose a key provision of the proposed accord: the use of American civilians to help man at least four electronic surveillance posts around the two mountain passes.

The Montana Democrat recalled the stationing of American advisers in South Vietnam that began the American involvement in that war and commented: "One Vietnam is one Vietnam too many."

President Ford, speaking earlier Monday in Milwaukee, Wis., said he had not decided yet whether U.S. civilians should be sent to Sinai. But he said they would not be sent unless Congress approved.

The Israelis said agreement had been reached on the distance Egyptian forces will advance after Israel withdraws. Diplomatic sources said they would advance about two miles along the Gulf of Suez, in the south, while in the rest of the territory they would move forward five to 10 miles to take over the present United Nations buffer zone.

The sources said the new U.N. buffer zone to be set up between the two armies would be as much as 30 miles wide in some places and would include the Gidi and Mitla passes.

Originally, Israel opposed any Egyptian advance.

ON LONGSHOREMEN'S BOYCOTT

Ford, Meany Are Meeting

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, back in the White House after a two-week Colorado vacation, is meeting with AFL-CIO President George Meany in an attempt to resolve the longshoremen's boycott of grain shipments to Russia.

Secretary of Labor John T. Dunlop also was scheduled to attend today's meeting that was announced as Ford flew back to Washington Monday night from Milwaukee where he spoke at a conference on domestic affairs and met with news media representatives.

At issue is the maritime unions' refusal to load U.S. grain on ships headed for the Soviet Union until the Ford admininstration takes steps to provide more work for American seamen and guarantees that consumers are protected from higher prices.

However, grain loading at gulf ports has continued with only brief interruption after a U.S. district judge in Texas issued a restraining order requiring longshoremen to load Soviet-bound grain. Hearings in that case were continuing today before U.S. District Judge Owen Cox in Corpus Christi, Tex.

Ford asked for the meeting with Meany while at his vacation retreat in Vail, Colo., last week. At about the same time, the President told a group of wheat growers that the dispute can be resolved if all sides "just cool it" and that he favors the sale of as much grain as possible overseas because it helps America's balance of payments.

Ford said one of the factors in the dispute is that the maritime unions are unhappy that American shipping is not getting more of the transit business generated by the grain sales.

Negotiations now are underway between the Commerce Department and Russian officials on a new freight rate agreement that could lead to more business by U.S. ships in carrying the grain to Soviet ports. The U.S. officials are seeking higher freight rates to make it economically attractive for U.S. companies to bid for the shipping contracts.

The American Farm Federation charged on Monday that the International Longshoremen's Association was engaged in an illegal secondary boycott by refusing to load grain-bound for Russia. The accusation was made before the National Labor Relations Board.

Meanwhile, Ford is expected to announce before the weekend that he is vetoing legislation extending oil price controls for another six months. The controls expire Sunday.

The President also is planning a one-day political trip Saturday to Maine and Rhode Island.

US Trade Surplus Reduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 52 per cent jump in oil imports eroded the nation's balance of foreign trade in July, but still left a surplus of nearly $1 billion, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said impors of all goods increased by 13.7 per cent in July, but exports still managed to gain 2.2 per cent. The result was a trade surplus of $977.1 million, compared to June's $1,737 billion record.

July was the sixth consecutive month in which the figures showed a surplus. Exports were $6.4 billion ahead of imports for the year to date, a sharp reversal of 1974's $2.3-billion deficit.

Analysts have been expecting all year an eventual deterioration in the nation's trade accounts as the U.S. economy returns to health. The recovery increases demand for the imported oil which industry needs and for the consumer goods which Americans stopped buying when the recession set in.

The Commerce Department's latest figures, however, showed that the nation's foreign trade still is providing strong support to the domestic economy.

It was unclear whether the surge in oil imports was the start of the expected trend toward steadily increasing imports.

Sugar imports declined $89 million. Iron, steel and other metal imports were also down.

The export goods showing the sharpest increases were soybeans, $181 million; motor vehicles and parts, $7.4 million; wheat, $49.1 million; and grain sorghums, $41.5 million.

Exports of corn, coal, price, iron and steel all declined.

Hoffa Probers Subpoena Bane

DETROIT (AP) — Investigators, unable to solve Jimmy Hoffa's baffling disappearance, have subpoenaed witnesses to go before a grand jury probing the Hoffa case and illegal uses of Teamsters Union funds.

Joe Bane, president of Teamsters Local 614 in Pontiac, said today he was subpoenaed to appear before the federal grand jury Wednesday and again Sept. 3 and 4.

Bane told The Associated Press he believed each of the subpoenas were for the Hoffa probe. He said he does not now why he was asked to testify.

U.S. Atty. Ralph Guy, declined to confirm that subpoenas were issued but said the first could relate to the ongoing jury investigation into alleged misuses of union funds.

It was reported that five others also were subpoenaed to testify before the jury in the Hoffa case next week, including Louis Lintesu and Cynthia Green, long-time Hoffa friends who operate Airport Limousine Services in Pontiac.

The investigation into the use of Teamsters funds has been going on for months, involving several Detroit area union locals.

AFTER RATIFYING AGREEMENT

Postal Worker Push For Strike Authority

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's postal workers, having ratified a labor agreement obtained under threat of an illegal strike, now are pushing for legislation to make legal a nationwide mail strike.

The largest of four postal unions, the American Postal Workers Union, announced Monday that its members had ratified a new three-year contract with the U.S. Postal Service.

This action, together with the earlier ratification by the National Association of Letter Carriers, virtually rules out the possibility of a strike by the nation's 600,000 postal workers now.

"Now, we are going to turn our attentions to trying to get the legal authority to strike," said President James H. Rademacher of the lettercarriers' union.

Rademacher said the recent negotiations with the Postal Service were "demeaning and insulting" because the unions had no right to strike. "That is something that postal management could and did flaunt across the bargaining table at us," he said.

Rademacher and other union leaders threatened to strike anyway if an agreement could not be reached. But an agreement was reached July 21 with the help of federal mediators in what the Ford administration called the most important labor negotiations of the year.

The postal workers won scheduled raises totaling $1,500 over three years plus continued cost-of-living increases. They also retained a clause prohibiting layoffs.

The bill to allow strikes by the 600,000 postal workers is expected to come before the House Post Office Committee next month. The legislation was approved by a subcommittee headed by Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., who sponsored the bill.

"In my opinion we don't yet have a majority on the full committee. We have some work to do," Rademacher said.

The bill would allow the unions to serve notice of their intention to strike after a 90-day waiting period during which mediation over differences could take place. Certain essential mail, including Social Security checks, would have to be handled even if there was a strike.

Under present law, a dispute that the unions and the Postal Service cannot resolve goes to binding arbitration.

Glass Rites At Hermleigh

Mrs. Omega Glass, 90, of Hermleigh died at 10:50 a.m. Monday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Funeral service has been set for 4 p.m. Wednesday at the First Baptist Church in Hermleigh. The Rev. Bob Creswell and the Rev. Rex Reynolds will officiate. Burial will be in the Pyron Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. Glass was a native of Farmersville, where she was married on July 8, 1901, to Marcus Glass. They moved to Scurry County in 1906. Mr. Glass preceded her in death in 1963.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. Geneva Smith of Lockney, Mrs. Daisy Borland of Midland, Merle Glass and Mabel Glass, both of Hermleigh; four sons, W.F. Glass of Roscoe, E.E. Glass of Sweetwater, E. B. Glass of Snyder and Joe Glass of Slaton; 21 grandchildren, 32 great-grandchildren and five great-great-grandchildren.

School Enrollment Shows Gain Here

Total enrollment on the first day of classses of the Snyder Public Schols shows an increase of 52 students over the same day last year, 3483 compared with 3431.

Grades 7-12 remained exactly the same with 1603 pupils enrolling. Snyder High School had 1026 for grades 9-12 and Snyder Junior High had 577 in grades 7 and 8.

Elementary schools had 1825 this year compared with 1766 for the 1974-75 school year while the Special Education Department currently has 55 compared with last year's 62.

North Elementary shows an increase of 16 students, 284 against 268; Central increased by 19, 384 and 365; East decreased by 4, from 287 to 283; West is short 6, 323 from 329; Stanfield is down 2, from 273 to 271; Northeast shows a large increase of 36—280 compared to 244, but 30 if this increase is because of the kindergarten class started this year at that school. Northeast previously had sent its kindergarten pupils to Central.

School officials expect enrollment to continue to gain throughout this week and until after Labor Day. Last year's figures showed an increase of 94 pupils from the first day of classes until Tuesday after Labor Day.

Briscoe Going To Washington

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe said today he will attend a White House meeting Thursday morning on energy.

About 15 governors were invited by President Ford for the discussion which will place special emphasis on natural gas, Briscoe said.

Briscoe made the announcement from the Governor's Mansion where he is confined because of an eye infection. Briscoe's office said he is being treated by his ophthalmologist, Dr. Mitchel Wong, for karatitis, an inflammation of the cornea.

Funds Asked For Museum

No official action was taken by county commissioners Monday on two requests presented at their regular meeting.

Ernest Sears, chairman of the Scurry County Museum Association, and Mickey Schmidt, museum director, appeared at the session to request $16,000 in county funds for operating expenses of the museum for 1975-76.

John Thomas, chairman, and Tommy Mills of the county airport board presented proposals for increases in hangar fees at Winston Field, the county airport, and also proposed construction of some additional hangars at the airport.

The commissioners court accepted the bid of Mal Donelson Chevrolet for the purchase of a pickup truck for Precinct No. 1. The Donelson bid of $3,503.57 was the lowest of four proposals received. Other proposals were received from Snyder Motor Co., Wilson Motors and Thomas-Stanfield, Inc.

Rangers Guard Texas Oilman

DALLAS (AP) — An executive of an oil and gas investment firm who reportedly has cooperated in a state investigation of "Schedule D" companies, has been placed under guard by Texas Rangers after reporting threats on his life.

W. Guy Wynn Jr., vice president of Landmark Petroleum Inc., said he nevertheless plans to be present Wednesday when testimony begins in 95th District Court here in a $3 million damage suit brought against state investigators by Landmark and other Schedule D companies.

Schedule D is a federal securities exemption that enables oil and gas firms to operate with minimum of government regulation. The firms are said to be able to operate from within Texas without registering their oil leases with the State Securities Commission.

Wynn said members of his family had received a number of phone calls from a person who said nothing. His son, however, was told "your daddy's had it" when he answered the home phone over the weekend, Wynn said.

State Securities Commissioner Roy W. Mouer testified Monday in a jurisdiction hearing that Landmark and two of the other firms here have been under investigation by his agency.

The suit by the six firms alleges harassment and claims state agents released confidential information to news media. The suit originally named as defendants the State Securities Commission and the Texas attorney general's Office, but the latter was dismissed as a defendant Monday.

Mouer testified Monday that any information obtained by news media was not confidential because it was not obtained by subpoena.

Reader Confused By Difference in Doctors

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N Y News Synd., Inc

DEAR ABBY: What's the difference between a psychiatrist and a psychologist? They are both called "doctor." Can you tell me without using a lot of big words?
F.A.

DEAR F. A.: I'll try. A psychiatrist is also a PHYSICIAN and, as such, has a degree in medicine. A psychologist does not.

They both treat people with emotional and mental problems, however.

A psychiatrist (because of his medical credentials) is licensed to prescribe drugs to his patients. A psychologist is not.

DEAR ABBY: Five years ago, our daughter-in-law (Nell) divorced our son, saying she was going to marry a very rich man. Our son was all broken up because he and Nell had two little girls, ages 7 and 9.

After the divorce, the girls went to live with their mother, and our son took them for weekends and holidays, and maintained a wonderful relationship with them.

Now our son is marrying a fine young woman. She loves our grandaughters, and they love her. The girls (now 11 and 13) have been invited to the wedding, but Nell is raising a big fuss, saying they may not go because it is "improper."

Where was Nell's sense of propriety when she left our son for a married man (also with a family) who hasn't married her yet—and no doubt never will?

Please reply soon.

GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY: Her sense of propriety was apparently out to lunch. She is mistaken. There is nothing improper about the girls attending their father's wedding.

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is an unusual one. My husband's parents have recently adopted a boy of 10, and they have decided (with the boy's permission) to change the boy's name.

Michael Joseph is my father-in-law's name. My husband, now in his early 20s, was named "Michael Joseph" after his father.

Now listen to this: My father-in-law wants to name his newly adopted son "Michael Joseph" after himself. The excuse my father-in-law has for naming two sons after him is that my husband is called "Mike" (a natural nickname for Michael), but this new son, his father insists, will be called "Michael" or "Junior."

Are we being childish in objecting to another son in the family having the same name as my husband?

It will be terribly confusing because we all live in the same city.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: It would appear that your father-in-law is on an ego trip. You are not childish; your father-in-law is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S. IN ATLANTA: Some people who come for the inheritance wind up paying for the funeral.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Lockheed Bribes Halted By Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government board overseeing federal loan guarantees to Lockheed Aircraft Corp. says it will require the firm to stop making secret payments to foreign government officials and political organizations.

The announcement Monday came shortly after Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, who heads the board, criticized the payments during a hearing of the Senate Banking Committee. Lockheed has acknowledged that it paid $22 million over 5½ years to foreign officials and organizations to promote its aircraft sales.

"Practices such as bribes made to secure foreign business can only increase the distrust and suspicion that is straining our national institutions," Simon said.

"As a government official who has spoken out about the importance of maintaining a free-enterprise system, I find Lockheed's actions deplorable," he told the committee.

Lockheed asserts that business reasons prevent it from disclosing the names of foreign persons and groups receiving the payments.

Lockheed chairman D.J. Haughton told the comittee the firm's payments were necessary to help sell the company's planes.

Haughton refused repeatedly to tell the committee to whom the payments were made, saying "I prefer not to answer that at this time."

Both Simon and committee chairman Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., continually referred to the payments as "bribes," which led Haughton to say at one point, "I don't necessarily call these bribes."

Proxmire responded: "You mean that when money is paid to public officials who have a voice in determining whether a plane is bought, that that is not a bribe?"

After a conference with his lawyer, Haughton replied: "My counsel says he prefers to call it a kickback."

Portugal Crisis Still Unsettled

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portugal's military politburo met in emergency session until early today but failed to resolve the crisis over pro-Communist Premier Vasco Goncalves.

Amid the general uneasiness, a power failure cut electricity supplies for most of the country for 1½ hours in the afternoon. Officials said a main line from Spain was overloaded.

In continuing anti-Communist violence in the north of the country, at least one man was killed and three were wounded when a mob attacked the Communist party headquarters in the town of Leiria.

The emergency meeting of the 28-man Revolutionary Council followed reports that President Francisco da Costa Gomes had decided to go along with demands that he replace Goncalves and his government with a group of pro-Western leaders.

The meeting was attended by nine moderate officers, led by former foreign minister Ernesto Melo Antunes, who were suspended from the council two weeks ago after they launched a campaign against Goncalves and demanded the premier's removal by the middle of this week.

Rhodesia Talks Recessed

By LARRY HEINZERLING
Associated Press Writer

VICTORIA FALLS, Rhodesia (AP) — The Rhodesian constitutional talks recessed today while black nationalist leaders argued whether to agree to Prime Minister Ian Smith's demand that further talks be held inside Rhodesia.

The luxury railway car in which the talks opened Monday was pulled off the Victoria Falls Bridge and Smith left for Salisbury with his five-man team.

President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia and South African Foreign Minister Hilgard Muller were reported making a last-ditch plea to the leaders of the African National Council to save the talks from collapse. They were meeting across the frontier in Livingstone, Zambia.

Smith said he would return to Victoria Falls to sign a preliminary agreement if the ANC agreed to his demand.

The prime minister said he did not feel that the talks have broken down, adding, "no, not while there is still a chance."

Earlier Smith had told newsmen that if he did not get "the right answer ... it will be a different game."

By a different game Smith apparently meant his often-made threat to seek a political deal with moderate black Rhodesians who might settle for a promise of black majority rule in the future. Militant leaders of the ANC, which neutral political observers generally consider the group most representative of Rhodesia's black majority, are demanding black rule now.

Smith said factional differences within the ANC delegation were preventing agreement. But the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, a leader of the militant wing of the ANC, said Smith was being "stubborn." He said the conference might break down.

The conference to prevent an escalation of the black nationalists' guerrilla war in Rhodesia opened Monday on a South African railway car in the middle of the Victoria Falls Bridge across the Zambezi river, which is the border between Zambia and Rhodesia.

Smith, South African Prime Minister John Vorster and a representative of President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia agreed at a meeting in Pretoria two weeks ago that the opening meeting would be followed by joint committee meetings to draft provisions of a new Rhodesian constitution. But the ANC said it would not meet inside Rhodesia because Smith has threatened to arrest Sithole and other militant leaders.

Vorster and Kaunda, who are anxious for an agreement between the whites and blacks in Rhodesia to prevent racial warfare spreading across southern Africa, attended the opening meeting Monday.

Unconfirmed reports said they demanded that Smith and the ANC agree to get the committees to work within a week and to make their goal an agreement within 60 days.

State Rests Its Case In Perez Trial

The state rested its case this morning in the trial of Raymondo V. Perez, who has been charged with aggravated assault in connection with the shooting of Israel Torres.

Torres was shot at the Tiger Drive-In Theater on the night of Aug. 4, 1974.

Perez has pleaded innocent to the charge, and he is being represented by attorney Dan Barber of Colorado City.

A jury of 11 men and one woman was selected yesterday. Barber asked for a mis-trial yesterday on the grounds that the state's witnesses had given contradictory testimony. District Judge Wayland Holt, the presiding judge in 132nd District Court where the trial is being held, overruled the motion of a mis-trial.

This morning, Judge Holt also overruled a motion for an instructed verdict of not guilty.

The case is being prosecuted by District Attorney Pete Greene, who called four witnesses yesterday—Israel Torres, Juan Torres, Ray Martinez and Police Officer Mike Elkins.

This morning, Sheriff Keith Collier was called to the stand by the state, and he testified that he obtained a statement from the defendant on the day following the alleged shooting.

The sheriff also testified the defendant's wife gave him a .38 caliber special pistol, which the state alleges was used in the shooting. The statement and the pistol both were introduced in evidence.

The court recessed after the state rested its case, and the defense was to begin presenting its case later in the day.

Education Costs Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The estimated 58.9 million students trooping back to classrooms this fall is the smallest number in recent years, but the cost of educating them has gone up more than 10 per cent from last year.

U.S. Commissioner of Education Terrel H. Bell, in his annual "back-to-school" forecast today, said public and private education costs about $108 billion in the 1974-75 school year.

Total enrollment, from kindergarten through graduate school, will be one-fourth of one per cent lower than the 59.1 million last year.

The biggest decline will be felt in elementary grades as a result of the falling birth rate, Bell said, while the 1976 high school graduating class will be the largest in history and colleges will be awarding more graduate and professional degrees than ever before.

The all-time enrollment at all levels was 59.7 million recorded in the fall of 1971.

Three out of every 10 Americans will be involved in education this fall, Bell said, counting students, 3.1 million classroom teachers and an additional 300,000 superintendents, principals, supervisors and other instructional employes.

Bell said colleges are expected to award about 975,000 bachelor's degrees next spring, the same as 1974-75, but more than last year's 54,000 first-professional degrees, 280,000 master's degrees and 35,000 doctorates.

To finance this massive education machine last school year, state governments provided 33.4 per cent, local governments 30.3 per cent, federal government 10.8 per cent and all other sources 25.5 per cent.

Elementary and secondary schools got $68 billion of the pie, and colleges and universities the other $40 billion.

Opening lead — K ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Five diamonds is a better contract than three notrump, but expert South was in three notrump. He ducked one spade. Sometimes defenders shift suits, but a second spade was led.

He needed a successful club finesse to collect 10 tricks, but South saw there was a slight extra chance. East just might hold the singleton king of diamonds.

Anyway, South wasn't vulnerable and decided it was worthwhile to play the diamond ace to see what would happen.

He did and East dropped the king. Now South relaxed. He led a second diamond to dummy's 10. East discarded a spade!

West asked, "No diamonds partner?" After a repeated question East produced the jack. It won the trick and since East had exposed a spade he had to lead it. South went one down and to make matters really bad the club finesse was on all the time.

Ask the Jacobys

A Toronto reader asks, "What do you think of the Canadian Acol bidding system?"

We haven't space to describe it in full, but it is a sound, freewheeling system that is slightly inferior to standard American. Although our Canadian friends who use it will be likely to disagree.

One interesting feature is the suit two-bid. Two clubs is a forcing catch-all; other two-bids are one-round forces and show strong distributional hands without an inordinate number of high cards. Thus: ♠ A K Q J 5 4 3 ♥ A Q 3 2 ♦ 2 ♣ 2 would be opened two spades in Canadian Acol. So would many slightly weaker hands.

Feminine Touch In Repair Work

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Women have a hangup about doing home repairs and are spending money unnecessarily to have them done, says a 34-year-old housewife whose handywoman classes are putting a grip in the feminine touch.

"If a mother can pin diapers, or put together a good meal, or lift a load of laundry, she can wield a hammer or a crosscut saw," says Lois Burdeinei, who has 15 women in her courses at the Women's Liberation School. "And if she is good at crossword puzzles she may be a natural at taking things apart and putting them back together. I try to break their mental block by letting them learn how easy most mechanical and manual tasks are."

Mrs. Burdeinei said she became interested in such handywork in junior high school when she joined boys in a drafting and carpentry class.

"I had a brother nine years younger and my father was always waiting for him to get bigger so he could help around the house," she recalled. "Well, I got so good I helped my dad put in copper plumbing and rewire our house. My 4-year-old Kevin knows how to handle a screwdriver and knows different tools to bring to me."

As part of her courses, the groups go from the home of one woman student to another, fixing whatever is broken.

"One woman couldn't change a light bulb because she didn't realize there was a set screw holding a shade that had to be removed before the bulb could be taken out," she said. "When she learned how, she said she felt liberated now that she could do it herself."

Other things her students are learning to do instead of calling for help are how to change a fuse, fix a leaky faucet, unstick a window that's been painted over, unclog a drain, replace a shower head, replace an electric cord plug and take apart a broken toaster.

Like ERA, Suffrage Argued 50 Years Ago

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty-five years ago today, in the last months of President Woodrow Wilson's second term, Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby declared that 36 states had ratified the 19th Amendment giving American women the constitutional right to vote.

Some of the debate that led up to the ratification of the 19th Amendment resembles the arguments that now surround the proposed Equal Rights Amendment, which would ban sex discrimination.

If it is to become the 27th Amendment to the Constitution, the ERA must be ratified by 38 state legislatures by 1979. So far, 34 states have endorsed it, although two — Tennessee and Nebraska — have rescinded their approval, a step with unclear legal ramifications.

During the suffrage debate in 1915, Alice Stone Blackwell wrote a pamphlet "Objections Answered," that sought to rebut the arguments against giving women their right to vote.

She noted that one of the objections was that a woman would lose her influence if she could vote. But Miss Blackwell argued that "a woman after enfranchisement would have all the personal influence she has now, and political influence in addition."

Another argument then and now concerned military service. Back then, it was argued that if women vote, they ought to fight and do police duty. Miss Blackwell also addressed that issue in her pamphlet.

"If no men were allowed to vote except those who were able and willing to do military and police duty, women might consistently be debarred for that reason.

"But so long as the old, the infirm, the halt, the lame and the blind are freely admitted to the ballot box, some better reason must be found for excluding women than the fact that they do not fight."

She noted that all men over 45 were exempt from military service, yet they voted, and she quoted statistics showing that the majority of journalists, physicians, preachers and lawyers were found unfit for fighting in the Civil War.

The argument in the 1970s is that the ERA would "put women on warships and make them subject to combat duty on an equal basis with men regardless of whether we have a draft or not" — as put by the group called Adam's Rib, formed to defeat the ERA in Missouri.

Another argument then and now was whether women's suffrage — or, now the ERA — would increase family quarrels and lead to divorce.

Miss Blackwell noted that women in Wyoming were given full suffrage in 1869, but the divorce rate in Wyoming didn't increase as fast as it did in the rest of the country in the next 20 years.

COLLEGE STATION— Sweater lovers—wearers or lookers—are sure to be happy this fall, Marlene Odle, clothing specialist, predicts.

"All styles of sweaters from sleeveless vests to turtlenecks—to v-neck pullovers and cardigans to match—will be fashionable," she said.

Fabrics will be softly designed acrylics, orlons and wools in rich colors of burgandy, greens, and rusts, the Texas Agricultural Extnesion Service, The Texas A&M University System, specialist added.

"Detailed styling will include v-neckline, mitered stripes, and solids with contrasting white banding around the waistline and cuffs.

"As tops, sweaters will team with colorful tailored shirts and pants or below-the-knee length skirts in bias cuts, A-lines, pleats or flares," she said.

DIAMOND-PATTERNED AFGHAN-Knitters can make afghan with the look of crochet. This diamond-patterned afghan adds warm touch to any room.

This Knit Afghan Brightens Decor

By JUDY LOVE

Afghans are a natural for today's easy living. They add a warm touch to any room and can pack up and go anywhere to ward off the evening chill. Afghans also tell your friends what a talented needleworker you are.

Although most afghans are done in crochet, we've found one for knitters that gives the light, airy look that crochet is famous for.

It's at home in a child's room, tossed across the sofa in a den, or as a bedspread in the most elegant master bedroom. Using a natural or earth-toned yarn, it's an accent piece for a contemporary wood and brick environment. Choose a muted blue, rose or green shade to go with more traditional surroundings.

You'll need a soft, durable yarn like Bernat's Berella 4 for an afghan that will give you many years of service and beauty. We used 9 balls of 4-ounce yarn, 1 pair of No. 8 straight knitting needles, and a size E (3.50mm) crochet hook. Finished size is about 42 x 62 inches, not including fringe. The gauge is 9 stitches to 2 inches.

Any knitter who has mastered the basic stitches can create this heirloom-to-be in record time.

Complete knitting instructions are available through your local newspaper. Just send 50 cents to Stitchin' Time, Radio City Station, Box 508, New York, NY 10019. Ask for leaflet No. 429 and be sure to enclose your name, address and zip code.

Dear Judy Love: I've just finished knitting a sweater in the stockinette stitch and would like to monogram it. Can you tell me the best way of doing this?— J.D.; Dallas, Tex.

Dear J.D.: Monogramming is easy and fun to do on the stitch you knited your sweater in. It is called a duplicate stitch and it is really a simple embroidery stitch. It is also good to use as a mending stitch as it actually mimics the natural outline of a knit stitch. The following method makes a very nice monogram. Using a tapestry needle with contrasting color yarn, bring the needle up from the wrong side through the center of the stitch. Starting at the lower edge or bottom of design, bring needle through, wrapping around the base of the V. Following V formed in knit base, make duplicate stitch by going from right to left behind the two strands of the same stitch and drawing yarn through. Do not pull too taut as you don't want to make a pucker. Return needle and yarn down through center point of same stitch (or where you started) and draw yarn through to wrong side, thus completing duplicate stitch. Repeat this procedure for desired monogram or design.

Lime-Avocado Ambrosia Pie

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Ambrosia was the food of the gods and for pie fans no other word is suitable to describe a lime avocado combination. This is a creamy-rich treat that includes cream cheese, heavy cream, flaked coconut plus the main ingredients. All this, and a graham cracker crust, too. This is best when well chilled. In many parts of the country it will be served with a glass of iced tea. Add a sprig of fresh mint.

LIME AVOCADO AMBROSIA PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 (8¼ ounce) can crushed pineapple
3 tablespoons lime juice
Green food color
1 medium size ripe avocado
1 (3 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup flaked coconut
9-inch graham cracker crumb crust

In small saucepan, sprinkle gelatin over cold water to soften. Place over low heat and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in sugar and salt. Drain pineapple liquid and lime juice into gelatin. Add few drops green food color. Chill until thickened, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile, cut and peel avocado. In large bowl, mash avocado and mix with cream cheese. Whip cream and use same beater to thoroughly blend avocado, cream cheese, pineapple and coconut. Then beat in thickened gelatin just enough to mix thoroughly. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into crumb crust.

Chill at least 4 hours or until firm. When ready to serve, garnish with coconut and lime slices, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Crusades To Be Cutback

DALLAS (AP) — An official of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association said today there will be a cutback in the number of massive crusades because of a shift in emphasis toward the local churches and home Bible study.

Leighton Ford, vice president of the organization, said in an interview the crusade efforts served their purposes "by billboarding the Christian message to millions of people around the world.

"However, the individual Christian grows through the local church and in the home. The Christian life cannot be lived in a big meeting. The big crusades will not be abandoned, but there will be fewer of them," Ford said.

The association has reversed its usual practice of asking local churches to support the evangelist's work in various areas and now are sending out teams to offer help in citywide religious efforts.

Ford said, "We are currently assessing the best ways we can spread the Gospel to as many people as quickly as possible."

NEW OFFICERS- The Western Texas College Booster Club elected new officers at an organizational meeting this morning at a breakfast meeting held at the "66" Smorgasbord Restaurant. They are, from left to right, R. C. Lunsford, president; Mrs. Corky Kruse, chairwoman of women's athletics; Mrs. Franklin Pruitt, secretary; and, Milton Ham, vice-president. A progress report will be given at the next breakfast meeting to be held at 6:45 a.m. Friday. Anyone interested in joining the WTC Booster Club is welcome to attend that meeting.

WTC Boosters Elect Officers, Launch Drive

About 35 persons were present this morning as the Western Texas College Booster Club elected new officers for the year and officially launched its membership drive for 1975-76 at a meeting held at the Smorgasbord Restaurant.

Guy Sullivan, president of the WTC Booster Club for the past two years, presided over the meeting until a new president was elected. The new officers are R. C. Lunsford, president; Milton Ham, vice-president; Mrs. Franklin Pruitt, secretary; and, Mrs. Corky Kruse, chairwoman of women's athletics.

Each of the coaches at WTC gave a report on last year's teams and discussed prospects for this season. Coach Bob O'Day said there are two returning all-conference players and four lettermen returning to the golf team. In addition, O'Day has recruited six excellent golfers.

Coach Mike Mitchell of the men's basketball team said the Westerners will be "bigger than last year." Winning the national crown opened a lot of doors to boys who wouldn't consider WTC before, he stated.

Dr. Sid Simpson, athletic director at WTC and coach of the women's basketball team, pointed out three of his girls competed in the Texas All-Star game this past summer, and one played in the Oklahoma All-Star game. The Dusters have two returning all-conference players- Marilyn Payton and Theresa Beal- and a third starter- Dale Mitchel- returning. Dr. Simpson recruited well, and all of the girls on the Dusters come from an area within 150 miles of the college.

There are several special memberships available in the WTC Booster Club. Those who contribute $250 or more to the college become members of the Executive Club. For their contribution, they will receive 10 season tickets to basketball games and a family pass to the gym as well as a half-page ad in the program or a full-page ad without the gym pass plus a window sticker for their business.

Century Club members (Those who contribute $100) will receive four season tickets to basketball games, one pass to the gym, a window sticker and mention in the program.

Those who contribute $50 receive two season tickets to basketball games, a window sticker, and mention in the program.

Those who wish may substitute for advertising rather than membership. Those who give $100 for advertising each will receive a half-page ad and two season tickets or a full-page ad without tickets. Those who purchase $50 ads will receive a fourth-page ad and one season ticket or a half-page ad without any tickets. A $30 purchase of advertising brings a one-sixth page ad.

Dr. Simpson discussed the need for public support so that the athletic program can continue on a sound basis. The college needs in excess of $10,000 for athletics this year, he pointed out. Some $5,000 of the total is needed by the 12th class day.

Dr. Simpson pointed out that no tax money can be used for scholarships. Thus, the only source of income for the athletic program is from gate receipts and public contributions. Historically, gate receipts have barely covered the cost of coliseum rental and game officials. Therefore, most of the money for the athletic program has to come from public support.

Dr. Simpson expressed appreciation to those who have supported the college in the past, and he said any future support also will be appreciated.

"It is the administratration of the school and people of Snyder who make the program go," he said. "As long as the people want a winner and are willing to support it, then the program will continue to be good."

"Contributions of any amount would be appreciated, and they are all tax deductible," college officials said.

At the conclusion of the meeting, those present took pledge cards and were to distribute them throughout the community.

Anyone who would like to ask any question about the athletic program or make a pledge, may contact the college athletic office by dialing 573-8511 (Extension 284). There also is a time-payment plan for those who wish to make a contribution gradually throughout the year.

Another breakfast meeting was set for 6:45 a.m. Friday at the "66" Smorgasbord Restaurant for the purpose of checking on progress of the membership drive. Anyone who would like to become a member is welcome to attend this breakfast, it was emphasized.

The WTC men's basketball team won the conference, regional and national championship last season. The women's basketball team won the conference crown. The golf and tennis teams both were highly competitive. At the present, WTC has 12 men's basketball players, 12 women's basketball players and six golfers on scholarship.

Oklahoma To Contend For National Grid Title

One of a Series

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
Associated Press Writer

Oklahoma.

The Sooners stood alone at the top when the 1974 season was over and there's every reason to believe Barry Switzer's team can extend its 29-game unbeaten streak through the 1975 season and challenge again for the national title.

Oklahoma is the Midwest's best bet for the national crown, but the usual gangs from Columbus, Ann Arbor, Lincoln and South Bend are around preening for top honors, bowl bids and supremacy of Midwestern football.

Michigan figures to be the Big Ten leader with Ohio State and Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin close on the Wolves' heels and Michigan State ready for a crack at the Michigan-Ohio State domination of the Big Ten.

Nebraska is Oklahoma's strongest challenger to the Big Eight title which figures to be decided in their season-ending match at Norman, Okla. Colorado boasts a splendid offense and could generate enough power to scare the Sooners when they meet in the conference opener.

The section's perennial top independent, Notre Dame, lost all but one starter from the offensive unit that nipped Alabama in the Orange Bowl and Dan Devine, replacing Ara Parseghian at South Bend, faces one of the tougher Irish schedules in recent years.

Wisconsin also figures to cause some trouble in the Big Ten and Purdue, returning several starters from each unit, could be the conference darkhorse.

Miami of Ohio, which finished with a No. 10 rating nationally in 1974, again looks to be the strength of the Mid-American Conference but non-conference battles with Purdue, Cincinnati and Michigan State could spell an end to the Redskins' 23-game unbeaten string.

In the Missouri Valley Conference, Tulsa, 8-3 a year ago, is expected to match that mark and haul off another league title.

Of the superpowers, only the Sooners, who racked up an average 43 points a game in 11 straight wins last year, have few holes to fill.

Switzer appears set to turn the show over to Steve Davis, the quarterback who ran and passed for more than 1,500 yards last year, and Joe Washington, a dazzling runner who scurried for 1,350 yards along the ground. Back again is receiver Tinker Owens and most of the strong defense, anchored again by the Selmon brothers, Dewey and Leroy.

Michigan's Bo Schembechler says his defense will be strong but the Wolves need to replace quarterback Dennis Franklin, gone after three years as a starter. Mark Elzinga probably will get the nod. Gordon Bell is the Michigan game-breaker.

Ohio State's Woody Hayes always has a supply of talented, big lineman and he'll need a host of them to rebuild his graduated lines on both units. The Buckeyes also have to replace Neal Colzie, who patroled the secondary for three years; and Hayes confronts a tough season start, facing Michigan State and Penn State in the first two games.

A similar line rebuilding problem faces Devine at Notre Dame. He also has to find a new backfield, including a quarterback to replace three-year starter Tom Clements. On defense, Steve Niehaus is back at either end or tackle for his fourth varsity starting assignment and the return of five players suspended last year could help Devine meet the challenge of a schedule which includes Michigan State, Boston College, Purdue, Southern California and Pitt.

Nebraska's biggest loss to graduation was quarterback David Humm, the southpaw slinger who set a bunch of Husker passing marks. Transfer Vince Ferragamo, who came from California, and Terry Luck, could be the answers. Center Rik Bonness leads a veteran offensive line which could enable the Huskers to have something to say about Oklahoma's plans for an Orange Bowl visit New Year's night.

Charley Baggett, one of the most versatile quarterbacks around, is the chief hope for Michigan State's bid to unseat rival Michigan and the Buckeyes from their rule of the Big Ten. Along with Baggett, the Spartans have explosive Levi Jackson at fullback and a veteran set of lines. Coach Denny Stoltz has 33 players returned from last year's team.

Wisconsin will feature a solid running attack led by Billy Marek and a strong set of blockers featuring Dennis Lick. The Badgers should be right in the thick of the Big Ten race but will have to find a solid replacement for departed quarterback Greg Bohlig to get by the big games with Michigan and Ohio State.

Purdue, traditionally a spoiler, could do it again. The Boilermakers have three-quarters of their backfield back and depth on both offense and defense. Ken Long and offense and Ken Novak on defense are two of the best linemen in the Midwest.

Players Will Discuss Stand On Rozelle Rule

CHICAGO (AP) — A special bargaining session between members of the National Football League Management Council and Players Association officials continued today amid a suggested major change in position on the part of the players.

NFLPA Executive Director Ed Garvey said the players' group is willing to discuss modifying the controversial Rozelle Rule, which has been the principal stumbling block to reaching an agreement in the negotiations that have dragged out for more than a year.

A court verdict on the Rozelle Rule is possible later this year. The rule stipulates that a player's original team must be adequately compensated if a man plays out his option and signs with another team, and gives to Commissioner Pete Rozelle the job of determining compensation.

Until now, the players' union has refused to negotiate the Rozelle Rule before their suit challenging the rule is decided in a Minneapolis federal court. Management, meanwhile, has insisted that the rule must be negotiated before any contract agreement.

Earlier Monday, NFLPA President Kermit Alexander said a move to oust Garvey from within the union was made "without full knowledge of the situation at hand."

Alexander said the move, initiated by the Minnesota Vikings, was "based on the ignorance of players who are not informed of what progress is being made at the collective bargaining table. There is no way that every player is going to be aware of everything the (NFLPA) executive committee is accomplishing at the bargaining table," he said after a meeting of player representatives.

On Friday, Minnesota player representative Ed White said the Vikings had called for Garvey's immediate resignation. He said Garvey's objectives were in "direct conflict" with those of Viking players.

Alexander said the Viking players may have acted prematurely and Minnesota management may have influenced their decision.

"The purpose of today's meeting was to provide the player representatives with information on where we stand with negotiations so that they can take it back to the players," Alexander said.

Neither White nor Alan Page, the Viking member of the executive committee, attended Monday's session.

Asked whether the Vikings' absence represented a boycott, Alexander said, "I don't know. There are several representatives who have not arrived. However, Minnesota is the only team which has indicated it would not attend."

Garvey declined comment on the request for his dismissal and said the issue was not discussed during the players' meeting.

Borg, Vilas Meet In Net Showdown

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

Sweden's Bjorn Borg and Argentina's Guillermo Vilas are close buddies, but they'll try to beat each other's brains out tonight in a showdown for the 48th U.S. Pro Tennis Championship in Brookline, Mass.

"We're good friends, but have to try to hate on the court," said Borg, the 19-year-old defending champion who has won 11 matches in a row at Longwood.

Vilas and Borg are expected to try to whip each other with top-spin shots. That's what they specialize in as two of the world's foremost players.

"We practice together often," Borg said. "I know his game and he knows mine. I think I'll have to play very well to win."

The showdown for the championship and $16,000 first prize in the $100,000 tournament is a rematch of the French Open final. Borg won that confrontation, but found himself seeded second, behind Vilas, in defense of the U.S. Pro title.

Vilas lost his first set in five matches here Monday, but charged into the finals with a 4-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-4 victory over Wimbledon champion Arthur Ashe.

A few hours later, Borg easily passed his semifinal test by defeating John Alexander of Australia 6-3, 6-7, 6-3, 6-0 under the lights.

The loser tonight will collect $8,000. Ashe and Alexander settled for $4,000 each.

Elsewhere, Chris Evert lived up to her No. 1 seeding for the U.S. Open, which begins Wednesday, by overwhelming British veteran Virginia Wade 6-0, 6-1 in the finals of a $75,000 tournament at Westchester Country Club in Harrison, N.Y.

Miss Evert collected $14,000 for the victory, boosting her career earnings past the $250,000 mark. The 20-year-old star then teamed with Czech teenager Martina Navratilova to beat Miss Wade and Margaret Court 7-5, 6-7, 6-4 in the doubles final.

At South Orange, N.J., the final of the Tennis Week Open was rained out for the second straight day Monday. Romania's Ilie Nastase and Bob Hewitt of South Africa will try again today to determine who gets the $9,500 first prize.

Romanians Virginia Ruzici and Mariana Simionescieu will vie for the women's crown.

Decontrol Will Hike Defense Fuel Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department's fuel bill will increase by $150 million to $160 million a year with decontrol of domestic petroleum prices, according to calculations of Pentagon experts.

This amount of money would pay for more than 360 new tanks, about 10 advanced F15 fighter planes or a modern destroyer.

Fuel costs have been a matter of deep concern to Pentagon budget managers since Arab oil producers sent prices spiraling after the 1973 Mideast war.

Although they avoid any criticism of President Ford's decision to block an extension of domestic petroleum price controls, Pentagon officials are anything but happy about the prospect of having to meet the added costs within a defense budget under attack in Congress.

The Defense Department is one of the nation's biggest fuel users. It requires more than 500,000 barrels of petroleum products daily to run thousands of planes, ships, trucks, tanks and other vehicles, and bases and buildings in the United States and abroad.

Even with a variety of conservation measures such as limitations on flying and ship steaming hours, the Pentagon's annual fuel bill has climbed since late 1973 from $1.4 billion to more than $3.4 billion in the budget now before Congress.

The higher charges anticipated after decontrol will pile on more costs.

In response to questions, Pentagon experts said between 60 per cent and 70 per cent of the Defense Department's petroleum requirements are obtained from domestic sources and thus will be affected by decontrol.

The administration estimates that domestic supplies eventually will rise an average of 3 cents a gallon if decontrol is accompanied by eliminating the $2-per-barrel tax on imported oil.

Ford plans to veto a bill this week extending price controls on most domestic oil. If Congress fails to override the veto, he will remove the $2-a-barrel import tax.

Commercial aviation industry sources contended the 3-cents-a-gallon estimate is too low. One source forecast the increase will be closer to 10 cents a gallon.

At that rate, the Pentagon would have to pay about an additional $500 million a year for its fuel.

In a reflection of the expected higher cost of aviation fuel, United Airlines asked Monday for federal authorization of a 4.2 per cent jet fuel surcharge on all passenger fares in the United States.

New Baby Boom Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new baby boom may be coming.

"In sum, our evidence suggests that the American birth rate may have bottomed out and that the country is likely to see a rise in reproduction," a pair of population experts say.

If it occurs, the boom will come from women who decided in the 1960s to postpone having their children, a decision which pushed the U.S. birth rate to its lowest level.

The two California demographers, social statisticians, say the women who are now in their 20s and 30s still intend to have children and will start making up for lost time.

The two are June Sklar, a research demographer at the University of California at Berkeley, and Beth Berkov, a demographic analyst for the California Department of Health. They wrote about their findings in the current issue of "Scientific" magazine.

They said their study is based on 1974 California birth statistics which are more recent than those available around the rest of the country. The conclusions were checked against data from other states, and they say they believe trends in California will be found elsewhere.

The birth rate declined to 1.9 children per woman in 1974 compared to the most recent boom was in the 1950s when the rate was 3.7.

"The proportion of childless young women is now very high and there is evidence that they do not desire to remain childless permanently," the demographers said.

Business Is Concerned Over Changing Attitudes

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The behavior of consumers is changing in the face of rising prices and declining purchasing power, and a large segment of the business world is concerned that the change might be permanent.

If it is, American industry must prove its resiliency. It must scrap some of its favorite assumptions of what needs and motives move the marketplace, and then it must learn to respond to the new cues.

After exploring the situation, Morgan Guaranty Trust commented that "the sales stakes for the supermarket, the auto showroom, the appliance store, and myriad service industries are high; personal consumptions expenditures now reach close a trillion dollars a year."

One change, that to smaller cars, already has cost Detroit hundreds of millions of dollars, has resulted in layoffs of American workers and has had an adverse impact on the country's foreign trade balance.

Tailfins, chrome, eight cylinders and plenty of power are now being replaced by fuel economy. In 1965 people often bought cars for show. Now they say "it's only transportation."

The changing attitudes are obvious, and for good reason: While family income rose 7 per cent in 1974 to $12,840 — that's the median, with half above, half below that figure — inflation turned it into a 4 per cent decline.

When economics of that sort are forced upon the consumer he reacts realistically. Unlike cities, states and federal government, he doesn't dare to go into deficit financing for long. Eventually he cuts back.

The attitude toward college has changed. Those who found their family income elevated suddenly during the 1960s insisted that their children go to big name schools. "Nothing's more important than education," they said.

Now they extol the advantages of community colleges. They rationalize: "If you really want an education you can get it anywhere."

Unsure of the future, Americans have cut back on a vast number of discretionary items. Europe at any cost was once the motto of some young American couples. Now they seek to discover their own backyards.

The 1960s were years of consumption. Gobble up everything you could buy, from lean red meat to the biggest house you could, or maybe could not, afford. Get yours; a new era of affluence has been reached. A lot of people believed that.

Slowly, Americans are learning to conserve as well as consume. The messages that come from the advertising media are still overwhelmingly for consumption. But conservation gets a mention.

Yes, the marketplace is changing, and that means American industry must change also. In some instances industries must be prepared to settle for smaller markets, and for American business, that's a new challenge.

21 Arraigned In Drug Smuggling

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Twenty-one men charged with attempting to smuggle 18 tons of marijuana into the United States about 50 miles south of here have been arraigned before a federal magistrate.

Seven of the accused men posted bonds between $50,000 and $100,000, authorities said Monday. The others remain in the Chatham County jail.

One of the men who posted bond was William L. Destler Jr., who federal agents allege was captain of the shrimp boat that brought the marijuana to a spot on the Sapelo River where it was unloaded.

Federal agents also said they discovered that a fictitious name — "Hazel B" — had been tacked onto the vessel's stern. They said the boat's real name was "Gemini," registered in Savannah to William Destler. But they said they did not know if the registered owner was the accused man.

The marijuana — valued at $10 million — was the latest and largest in a series of foiled drug smuggling attempts in Georgia.

Federal authorities said Monday that 69 per cent of the marijuana confiscated in the Southeast last year was seized in the 10-county Miami area. They said tough police work in the area had made smugglers move north.

"Affluence also figures in this," a spokesman said. "They are using bigger planes and bigger boats. This is the reason we're seeing all those planes."

Most of the marijuana has come from Colombia, where anybody who is caught growing or possessing marijuana can get two to five years in prison. The U.S. State Department says there are now 119 Americans in Colombian prisons on narcotics charges.

Customs agents still were searching Monday in the marshy area near Sapelo Sound for any alleged smugglers who may have gotten away.

Trio Will Fight Cutbacks

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., (AP) — Three Texas congressmen vowed Monday to fight defense cutbacks which could cost hundreds of civilian jobs in San Antonio.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, Abraham Kazen and Bob Krueger made the pledge at a groundbreaking for an $8 million logistical materials storage facility at Kelly Air Force Base.

Gonzales said he hopes the nation does not forget the lesson it learned on being almost totally unprepared at the start of World War II. He said the proposed cuts constitute bad legislation and bad defense.

Kazen, a member of the House Armed Services Committee said he has become acquainted with what Kelly AFB really means to defense.

"I have come to the conclusion that the defense of our country is the No. 1 priority," he told the crowd.

Kazen termed the cutbacks foolishness.

The job facing the three congressmen is to make the rest of the nation realize defense is the No.1 priority, Kazen said.

Krueger noted the first responsibility of any government is to protect the safety of its citizens.

The new facility will contain nearly half a million square feet of warehouse and office support space. The fully automated supply warehouse will house the latest in stock picker devices, making it the most modern such facility in the Air Force.

The scheduled completion date is Nov. 1, 1976.

On March 8, 1962, a two-year agreement signed in Washington provided for widened cultural exchanges between the Soviet Union and the U.S.

SAY AUTO ANALYSTS

Sales Indicate A Solid Period

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Auto sales for mid-August slid 6.2 per cent from the same period in 1974, but industry analysts say the deliveries represent "a good, solid period."

The mid-month sales, despite the decline from last year's comparable period, were more than 30 per cent above figures for the month's opening 10-day period.

Although more cars were sold in the latest period than in the 1974 span — 201,177 compared with 190,653 — the decline is based on the daily selling rate. In addition, there were nine selling days in the latest period, and only eight in mid-August 1974.

Analysts, noting a continued sales slide at Chrysler Corp. and a slight decline at General Motors Corp., said the upcoming end of the model year and forthcoming price increases in September — in the $250 average range — apparently have not sparked an August buying surge.

Only Ford Motor Co. reported an increase in deliveries, a one per cent climb which was credited to a dealer incentive program.

Nonetheless, analysts saw the mid-August sales figures as an indication that the long industry decline continues to approach an end, and GM Vice President Mack Worden predicted the introduction of 1976 models would add further momentum to car sales.

Chrysler sales in the Aug. 11-20 span fell 27 per cent compared with the same 1974 period, giving the No. 3 auto maker just 13.2 per cent of the domestic market, far below its 17 per cent share in the last mid-August span. GM slipped 2 per cent, while American Motors Corp. dropped a 21 per cent.

It was the worst sales performance for the period since 1971, but most periods this year have seen sales hit 12-and 14-year lows.

Year-to-date auto sales as of Aug. 20 were 4.16 million, down about 17 per cent from 1974, a slack year by recent standards.

On Feb. 8, 1962, rioting in Paris of thousands of left-wing demonstrators against the Right Wing Secret Army Organization claimed eight lives and injured hundreds.

Lung cancer hits more smokers

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D

DEAR DR. LAMB—I would like to ask about lung cancer. Are there other causes of lung cancer besides smoking? I recently had surgery for it, and I don't smoke, but in some areas where I have worked there have been some caustic fumes, and also, when I was a child I had a bad case of virus pneumonia. Could that have caused this? Would appreciate your opinion.

DEAR READER—About 90 per cent of cancers of the lung in men occur in smokers.

As a woman you will be interested to know that women are far less prone to lung cancer, particularly during the childbearing years, but a higher per cent of lung cancers in women occur in the absence of smoking.

Also, the type of lung cancer that occurs in the non-smoker is often different from the type that occurs in the smoker.

The virus pneumonia you had as a child would have nothing to do with your problem, and I doubt that any of the caustic fumes you may have been exposed to are related to it either.

Tobacco is associated with a lot of health problems, but you can have health problems and never smoke. For more information on tobacco and health write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019, send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents and ask for The Health Letter number 2-6 on Tobacco: Cigarettes, Cigars, Pipes.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read your column stating that breasts were not muscles and that muscles will increase in size when exercised. Does this mean that breasts will not increase in size and shape when using certain exercising methods since the breasts are not muscles?

I had the opinion that exercising would increase the bust size. I know exercising helps firm and prevent sagging, but will it cause a lasting increase in size rather than just temporary as in the case of weight gain and fluid gain?

DEAR READER—No, exercise does not increase the size of the breast. The breast is all fat, glandular tissue, blood vessels, and fiberous connective tissue and ligaments.

Exercise will improve the appearance of the breastline, but not by enlarging the breast. Most of those exercises you read about or see demonstrated are designed to work the muscles behind the breast, called the pectoral muscles. A good example is one of pressing the palms of the hands together. When you strengthen and enlarge the muscles behind the breast even a small breast is pushed forward, like putting the breast on a pillow.

Also, certain exercises improve posture which throws the front chest out and enhances the breastline without increasing the size of the breast at all. Any exercise that improves holding the shoulders back and corrects or prevents round shoulders has this effect.

Some of the programs for breast enlargement also include a high calorie diet. The accumulation of fat will enlarge the breast in some women, but the other effects may outweigh, if I may use that term, the advantages obtained.

Anything that stretches the breast might enlarge it,, but it also produces more "natural sag" than most women want. Overstretching of ligaments can occur from going without a bra, particularly in a moderate or heavy-breasted woman.

So, you can get some improvement in your appearance with those exercises, but strictly speaking, they won't increase the size of the breasts.

Hank Williams, Jr. Leaves Hospital

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Country music singer Hank Williams Jr., seriously injured early this month in a fall from a mountain, is out of the hospital.

A family spokesman said Williams, released Monday, would remain in Montana for an indefinite time.

Williams, 26, was injured Aug. 9. He slipped on a snow field at the crest of the Continental Divide near Ajax Lake, about 50 miles southwest of Butte. Physicians said he suffered serious head injuries.

Here's how electric bills in Snyder compare with those in other places.

As the chart shows, our customers in Snyder pay less for electricity than a lot of other people.

But rising costs of fuel, construction, financing and operation are all pushing up the price of electricity.

New supplies of natural gas, our main boiler fuel, are hard to get and much more costly. So we're building plants that use lignite coal and nuclear fuels.

Even though these plants cost much more to build than gas-fired plants, coal and nuclear fuels are cheaper. And this will help slow the rising cost of electricity.

At Texas Electric we're working to make sure you'll continue having the electricity you need. And at the lowest possible price.

Middlemen Costs Rise Last Month

By BRIAN B. KING

WASHINGTON (AP) — Middlemen's charges for a selected marketbasket of U.S. farm-produced foods rose more last month than they had declined in the three previous months together, an Agriculture Department report shows.

The Agriculture Department's Economic Research Service said Monday that the farm value of the products in its marketbasket of 65 foods rose 4.1 per cent from June to July, to a level 13 per cent over April and 15 per cent over the previous year.

The spread between farm value and the retail price rose 2.9 per cent from June to July to a level 1.8 per cent above what it was in April and 9.8 per cent above a year ago.

The spreads include costs and profits and their calculation and are hotly disputed by supermarket chains.

The retail cost of the marketbasket in the second quarter was up 0.7 per cent from the first three months of the year. The Agriculture Department expects figures for the current quarter and the last three months of the year to show a sizable boost and then a slight leveling at retail, with widening margins.

Over-all, food prices this year are now expected to average 9 per cent above the 1974 average.

That is slightly higher than the department predicted in the spring before demand for U.S. grain from other nations, especially the Soviet Union, sparked that market and hot, dry weather in the Great Plains forced small reductions in the 1975-76 supply estimates.

The June-to-July changes in the marketbasket picture meant that farmers took home an additional 0.3 of a cent of the consumer food dollar, for a total of 43.1 cents compared to April's 40.5 cents.

Arizona, the "Grand Canyon State," was first settled by aboriginal tribes of advanced culture. Ruins of buildings, pueblos and irrigation canals provide evidence.
