Candidate Asks For Remembrance of Faith In The Fundamental Principles of Nation's Founding

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Governor Alfred E. Smith told the country over the radio tonight that the principles of the Democratic party were as great in defeat as they would be in victory and that it was the party's duty "to carry on and vindicate" the principles for which it had fought.

Standing before a microphone in a national broadcast studio, the defeated Democratic presidential candidate delivered what many had called his political valedictory.

Urges Support of Hoover

His speech, broadcast over a nation-wide hookup of stations, urged united support of Herbert Hoover, whom he did not mention by name—asserting that the man selected by the people last Tuesday to lead the country was "not the president of the Republican party, but president of the United States."

It would not do, said Governor Smith, to let bitterness, rancor or indignation over the result "blind us to the outstanding fact that we are Americans."

He turned to some of the many personal matters pressing him here during the course of the day visited San Francisco to do some shopping.

Sicily Loses 18 Million in Flow

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 13.—Scientists and non-expert observers agreed today that the demon of Mount Etna probably had wrought his worst from the present 12-day eruption of the volcano. They found, moreover, that the loss probably would aggregate about $18,000,000.

The work of reconstruction has already been planned chiefly in the way of mapping out new transportation routes around the fresh lava deposits.

The lava reached the road over which passengers had been ferried in automobiles to trains on the other side of the main lava stream. This shut off that route of communication between Messina and Catania and engineers started construction of a new road 150 feet below the demolished one. The route is essential for maintenance of the economic life of Sicily's four million population.

Madman Disrupts Train Service In Yards At Houston

Pseudo Towerman Clammers To Tower, Overpowers Signalman and Has Fun In Changing Signals

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Nov. 13.—Trains were running on schedule over the mass of Houston tracks tonight after railway service had been disrupted for a time today by a mad Pseudo-towerman.

Scores of lives and thousands of dollars worth of railway property probably were saved because the lunatic took fateful glee in changing the signals so fast that the trainmen knew something was wrong and brought all traffic to a halt.

Climbing a steel ladder leading to a signal tower at the intersection of two trunk line tracks the maniac flourished a pistol in the face of I. R. Cotton, towerman, and made Cotton turn over the switch controlling the signals to him.

From that moment the signals changed so rapidly that the crews of the heavy switch engines and the bustling passenger trains crew dazed watching them and locomotives pulled up behind each other on the tracks.

Cotton, escaped the madman's clutches and rushed to the nearest police station, returning to the tower with two policemen.

Revenge Futile; Captain Suicides

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Poiled in an attempt to kill Jose De Leon Toral, in revenge for the assassination of his uncle, Captain Jesus Obregon, tonight returned to his home here and committed suicide. He has been disarmed when he drew a pistol at the door of the cell in which the convicted slayer of General Alvaro Obregon, president-elect of Mexico, is confined.

A guard was talking with a visitor at the penitentiary when they observed Obregon apparently disguised, approach the cell of Toral. He suddenly drew a pistol but they grappled with him and succeeded in wresting it from him before he could fire.

Directors Again Go On Record For Bond Issue

Re-approving the action of the Good Roads committee in outlining the county-wide road bond issue of $2,000,000, which is to be voted on Saturday, December 1, the board of directors of the Lubbock chamber of commerce went on record Tuesday night that the campaign will be carried out as outlined and agreed on, in an effort to give the people of the county all the information and truth about every detail of the entire project.

All the chamber of commerce directors want to do is to tell the truth about this project, it was stated, "and give the people the facts. If, after they have been given the truth, they vote it down, then everybody will be satisfied." It was further declared that the organization through the efforts of the good roads committee, had pledged its faith with the people in every section of the county, at the direction and with the approval of the organization.

Pay Out of C. of C. Fund

The directors also decided that any money to be spent for the bond issue election campaign be paid out of the chamber of commerce funds and not out of the tax or board of city development funds.

Motions re-approving the committee's actions and the county expenditure of the campaign funds, with wholehearted support from the directors, were passed. The approval motion passed with only the members of the committee and C. E. Maedgen not voting. The other motion passed with the vote of every member of the board of directors, excepting Mr. Maedgen voting for it.

Mr. Maedgen, who is one of the leaders of the organization formed Monday to fight the bond issue, told the body that the opposition was

Appearance Of John Philip Sousa, World's Most Famed Band Master, Here Thursday, Is Big Event

The world's most famous bandmaster, John Philip Sousa, and the world's most famous band, Sousa's Band, which will appear in Lubbock Thursday afternoon and night at the Tech College Gym, prove more than any other two institutions that the United States leads the nations of the world in music supremacy.

It was as director of the United States Marine band that he first received national renown, having also composed some stirring marches, as well as having written an opera or two of the lighter kind. One of his famous marches, El Capitan, is from one of his operas. So great had become his reputation that, after leaving the service of the army, he organized a concert band.

On Golden Jubilee Tour

This season is called the Golden Jubilee Tour, commemorating Sousa's fifty-fifth anniversary as a conductor. It is also the thirty-sixth annual tour of his band, and probably his last.

He Delivers His Final Message

Violent Storm Sweeps Section, Claiming A Large Death Toll; Many Are Buried In Debris

(By Associated Press)

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 13.—Forty-one persons are reported killed and about 150 injured in a violent cyclone which raged in the vicinity of Villa Maria, in the province of Cordoba; destruction of means of communication made it difficult to obtain details although reports trickled through of houses unroofed or laid flat.

The fragmentary dispatches received here say that most of the houses and buildings in the stricken area have been damaged. Many inhabitants were said to have been buried in the debris.

Beside the loss of human life and damage to habitations, a considerable portion of the crops in the region were said to be ruined.

Lies Rich Territory

Villa Maria is an important railway center and had a population of 20,000 in 1923. It is 343 miles from Buenos Aires. It lies in a little south of the center of the province of Cordoba which is one of the richest agricultural provinces of the Argentine republic. Cereals, dairy products and timber are produced in large quantities in the vicinity of Villa Maria.

Eighteen Bodies Are Removed From Debris

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Eighteen bodies had been found late tonight in the ruins of Villa Maria which was wrecked by a cyclone this evening. Forty seriously injured persons have been extricated from the debris.

The casualties are expected to reach a much higher total with further search of the wreckage of the town and with the restoration of communications with the countryside. A train carrying many physicians and nurses is on its way to Villa Maria.

Lasts About An Hour

The cyclone lasted little more than an hour but in that time damaged nearly all of the buildings of the town, destroying many of them. A church was leveled and one of the several railway lines which meet there was destroyed, for a distance of 85 kilometers.

The provincial government of Cordoba has decreed a loan of 10,000 pesos (about $9,800) for relief.

Clerk Was Unable to Identify Lone Bandit Saturday; Thought To Have Been Accomplish

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Nov. 13.—Mealing E. Pruett, United States railway clerk, was arrested today and charged with mail theft in connection with the $50,300 mail robbery of a Texas and Pacific railway train here Friday. Pruett was held in jail in default of bond of $10,000, the same amount previously set for Travis H. Wilson, alleged to have been the lone bandit, and Miss Otti Bridges, alleged accomplice of the bandit.

Pruett pleaded not guilty when arraigned today before United States Commissioner J. W. Flynn. The others had previously denied guilt.

$2,700 Is Still Missing

None of the $2,700 still missing in the robbery has been recovered. Police found $50,300 in a hand bag jumped off the train and had stuffed the bag beneath a viaduct. Miss Bridges was arrested by guards at the viaduct that night and a short time later Wilson, alleged to have sent a service car to pick Miss Bridges up at her home, two days after the robbery, was arrested by city detectives.

When Wilson was lined up with several other men for identification purposes Saturday, Pruett was unable to identify him. The other mail clerk, Paul E. Carney, identified Wilson as the bandit.

Pruett was arrested today in the headquarters office of the United States railway mail service. He said he had come to turn in his keys and said he had learned postal inspectors wanted him.

Prior to the routine election matter, the court attended to several other matters, it being the quarterly term and checking of the county treasurer's reports being necessary.

Liberals Attempt To Declare Naval Pact Unfriendly

Lloyd George Leads Debate In House of Commons On British Foreign Policy; Wants U. S. Friendship

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 12.—A Liberal attempt to have the House of Commons declare that the Anglo-French naval accord endangered the peace of Europe, and good relations with the United States was defeated by a vote of 326 to 163 tonight.

The amendment to the reply to the address from the throne was moved by David Lloyd George, who engaged in a sharp debate on the British policy with Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin.

Consider England Bound

Lloyd George declared that there was no doubt that French public opinion considers England bound by the principle of the pact, portions of which he said were contrary to the spirit of the Versailles and Locarno treaties and implied a serious departure from the terms of the Washington conference.

The Anglo-French agreement was spoken of in a speech by Mr. Baldwin in his defense of the government course. He said that it had been an "honest straight forward attempt to escape from the deadlock which developed at Geneva and which was threatening the cause of disarmament."

The Prime Minister took Lloyd George to task for his articles in the foreign press which he said could only make the government's task more difficult.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

JERRY RAY thinks that there is a delusion and decides to marry for money. Her plans for a vacation at Atlantic City are spoiled by the loss of the money she had denied herself to save.

Their camp is wrecked when an airplane owned by ALESTER CARSTAIRS crashes into it. The others escape injury, but Jerry is picked up unconscious by DAN HARVEY, the pilot. Alester drives her to the doctor, who finds that her injury is not serious.

On the way back, Alester stops at an inn for dinner and seems amused when Jerry refuses to drink. He introduces her to LEONINE LEBAUDY, who invites them to a big party. Alester shows Jerry a gay time during her two weeks' vacation and tells her that he loves her madly but does not ask her to marry him.

Myrtle warns her against him, but a letter from her mother revealing poverty and illness decides her to continue her efforts to win Alester. But how will she be able to purchase a suitable frock for the party he has invited her to?

Unable to borrow enough from Myrtle to buy the new gown Jerry gave way to the temptation to take a last tunic from the store where she worked for the evening—intending to slip it back in stock the next morning before it could be missed.

Alester gave her orchids to wear, so that her appearance satisfied her but Leonine and her friends taunted her into drinking. Jerry drained a second glass to show them she was not a "dud" but became dizzy at once and a jarring voice told her dance partner to bring her to the pool.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XV

Jerry opened her mouth to call for help but someone smothered the cry by placing a hand over her lips. She heard the laughter of several persons. A small crowd had followed her abductors.

When they reached the edge of the pool laughing, shouting, Jerry felt herself lifted high and given an upward toss. Then the sickening descent.

splash. When she struck the water she was stunned but not before she had heard a cry of dismay and several grunts of pain issue from her tormentors.

The cold water revived Jerry in a few seconds. She began to choke and founder helplessly around in the shallow pool. An arm suddenly reached forth and pulled her out.

Someone slapped her heartily on the back. She coughed harder, and found relief. Then it seemed to her that a pair of hands seized her by the shoulders and shook her. She could have sworn that she heard this person mutter:

"You little fool, in a hoarse whisper. The sound of splashing attracted her attention to the pool. She saw the young satyr, with his foolish cap, crawling out upon the grass. The hands on her shoulders were removed and the man on the ground scrambled quickly away on his hands and knees, with a ludicrous expression of fear on his backward turned countenance.

Jerry lifted her face to her rescuer.

It was Dan.

She had known it even without the necessity of verifying it. He was removing his coat. Jerry made no protest when he wrapped it around her shoulders. She could guess that his opinion of her was not flattering, but she was too to spoil a little fun we were having with your girl . . .

"Where?"

The other tore herself away without answering. He'd had enough of chaps with no sense of humor. Someone laughed. "Perky got a bath himself."

"Yes, and a sweet kiss on the chin besides."

Alester ran out to the garden. He needed to know no more to guess what that "little fun" had been.

Jerry—it was a bedraggled and tearful Jerry—told him what had happened. When she explained that Dan was inside looking for her coat Alester interrupted grimly.

"I'll talk you home," he said. "Harvey didn't bring you here. He needn't be so officious. Where did you leave your wrap?"

"Upstairs, in Miss Lebaudy's room." Jerry answered diffidently. She was too upset, too confused, to know what to do.

"Come with me, then," Alester replied, "around to the side entrance I'll get your wrap."

They were gone when Dan returned to the garden to report to Jerry that he had been unable to get her coat from the attendant in the dressing room, and to ask if she had a check. He found his own coat on the bench and thought Jerry might have walked off down the path and collapsed.

The sound of a motor—a motor that he instantly recognized—purring among the parked cars not far away drew his eyes in that direction. There was a light there. He could see Alester's black roadster pull out and start for the highway.

And in the seat beside the driver he could see a huddled figure that he knew must be Jerry.

"I'd better take you some place and get you a drink," Alester said to Jerry before they had gone far.

"No, no. I never want another drink as long as I live. Please take me straight home."

"Oh, come now, Jerry. Don't be a bump sport. As long as you aren't hurt there's nothing to get sore about. Things like that happen at the best regulated parties. I'm sorry I left you but I . . . er . . . Leontine had a few people upstairs and I didn't think you would care to join us . . ."

His voice trailed off in his sheer inability to drag the lie any further. But Jerry was too distraught to weigh his words. She did not suspect that he had been alone with Leontine.

Alester was making excuses now only because he thought her refusal to accompany him to another roadhouse was prompted by pique over being abandoned to the mercy of his hilarious friends.

"I'm cold in these wet clothes," Jerry said, her teeth beginning to chatter. "Take me home."

She spoke pleadingly because she hadn't either the strength or the will power to be assertive.

"I know a cure for that," Alester answered. "We'll stop at Carmoor and I'll get a dress for you from my sister's room."

"But I want to go home," Jerry wailed. "I've had enough . . . fun." Alester drove on in silence. Jerry didn't know what he was going to do, and her helplessness to combat him started her to sobbing again. He glanced down at her, frowning.

"All right," he gave in; "it isn't necessary to cry."

But Jerry's sobs continued, low and painful, while the black roadster tore along at a furious pace on the country roads. She was glad Alester didn't want to talk to her. His silence, if indicative of anger, failed to add anything to her troubles. She felt crushed as it was. Falling in love with a man she would not marry—and faced with a situation that might land her in prison.

Alester's sullenness passed, unobserved. At her door he said good night to her very stiffly. Poor Jerry was aware of his coldness, but she had no heart to make an effort to placate him. The shadow of her impending ordeal at Fane's obscured everything else.

His own guilty conscience had not a little to do with Alester's ill humor. The fact that through his neglect of Jerry, Dan Harvey had been given an opportunity to appear as a hero didn't help his temper either.

"Damn that fellow! Why couldn't he keep out of it?"

"Good night," Jerry returned and put out a hand. Alester appeared not to see it. She turned quickly without another word, and ran through the dimly lighted hall to the darker stairs.

It rather dashed Alester, being left so.

Jerry flung open the door of her room with a suddenness that brought Myrtle out of a deep sleep. She sat up in alarm.

"Who is it?" she cried loudly. The answer came in a broken voice.

Myrtle jumped out of bed and snatched on the light. Jerry stood in the middle of the room, removing her coat.

"What's happened to you?" Myrtle asked fearfully. Then "Oh, my God, Jerry, where did you get that dress? Don't you know there's a special detective watching the ladies this week?"

French Village Aroused by Peculiar Poison Epidemic Which Came Near To Stilling Populace; Law Suit Likely

Drugs in Wine Causes Palsy Of Tongues; Investigation Lays Blame On Vineyard Owners

(By Associated Press) ORABOUR-SUR-VAYRES France Nov. 13.—This little "City of Silence" is finding its voice, and nearly every one of its four hundred and seventy-eight inhabitants is likely to appear in court in a gigantic lawsuit. Palsied tongues are wagging again, voicing indignation at the strange poison epidemic that it once was feared would still the populace forever.

The epidemic first appeared in August, when a malady which could not be diagnosed affected tongues, first of a few, then of many, until a deathly hush settled on the town. Doctors had patients in nearly every house in some of the streets.

Solved Part of Mystery Scientific Investigators with test tubes and retorts solved part of the mystery when they made an analysis of the bread, water and wine. They found that the wine contained arsenic. It had been purchased from a merchant in the town, and the poison had paralyzed the tongues of the villagers and caused severe fevers, which the doctors had not been able to abate.

How the drug got into the wine barrels still is unrevealed, although an examining magistrate traced the supply to a carcassone wholesaler and to four vineyards where the wine had been made. The wine merchant in Oradour appears to have been exonerated, but suits against the responsible person are being prepared on the assumption that sooner or later the authorities, who are starting the investigation all over again, will solve the mystery of how it happened.

New West Texas Rail Line Under New Management

P. A. Neelan, and Houston Associates, Purchase The Rights of Capt. Ed Kennedy for Snyder Line

(Special To Avalanche) SNYDER, Nov. 13.—That the completion of the Snyder, Roswell and Gulf railroad is an assured fact was further brought out today with the announcement from Houston that P. A. Neelan of Houston, well known railroad executive, would be in Snyder within the next week and that Mr. Neelan and associates have purchased the entire rights to the work already completed by Captain Ed Kennedy.

More than $1,500,000 has already been subscribed for financing the proposed system, as every town between Snyder and Roswell have pledged their support through a special railroad committee of each Chamber of Commerce. Promotion work for the completion of the road to a deep water terminal has also been completed.

Serve Growing Section
The road, which is to be known as the Snyder, Roswell & Gulf railroad, is designed to serve a rapidly developing agricultural territory in the northwestern part of Texas and eastern New Mexico, giving this immense territory a direct connection with a gulf port. Townsite companies have already been organized and values will increase rapidly, or quickly as definite arrangements have been completed for the building of the road. When construction does start, hundreds of thousands of acres will be opened for cultivation that have never been touched with a plow.

At the present time contracts for 120 miles of grading between Roswell and Snyder are being held in abeyance. The new owner of the proposed rights also has 25 miles of grading completed several years ago in the vicinity of Chavez, New Mexico.

Bonus Offered
Snyder has already made a proposition to the new rail line that would insure a bonus of $75,000 to the new owners together with deposit and rail sites in exchange for a $75,000 per month payroll and the location of 200 new families here. Tonnage data for Snyder alone has shown that more than 100,000,000 of incoming and outgoing freight were handled here in 1927 by rail lines. These figures did not include 24-

A Shimmering Ensemble For Afternoon Wear

Tie the style now to gleam and shimmer before sundown. A new afternoon costume of black velvet features a crystal and silver lace fichu collar, with somewhat low neckline, and deep cuffs of the same gleaming combination. Topping it is a lovely new little hat, a silver lace creation with black felt upturned in folds at one side, and turning down at the other, lace lined for softness. The front pattern of lace is outlined in crystal to increase the soft shimmer of the lace. Earrings of square crystals and pearls and a necklace of square cut crystals complete the gleam and shimmer of the ensemble.

Experiments With Cotton Varieties, Sorghums, Beans

Scurry County Farmer, Proves Terracing, As Well As Diversifying Pays Farmer

SNYDER, Nov. 13.—The Snyder high school vocational agriculture class of 38 members under the leadership of C. C. Redman are making their headquarters this fall at the experiment farm of Henry Richter, prominent Bison community farmer who experimented with ten acres of different varieties of cotton and grain sorghums and beans this year, with remarkable success.

Mr. Richter planted two rows each of Kaech, Qualla-Mebane, Blue Wagon and Mammoth Big Boll cotton and made a small terrace between the rows. This terrace held the water from the rains, and the cotton will produce about one-half bushel per acre in some cases more, whereas a field lying close to the Richter farm will not produce five bushels in forty acres of cotton planted.

Produce More Terraced
The grain sorghums that were planted one day as the cotton will produce much more grain per acre than the other fields in the neighborhood which were not terraced.

"Last Spring when I planted two rows and skipped one and put a small terrace in the place of it," said Mr. Richter, "I really had my doubts as to whether it would pay, but by studying it I have decided to put my whole farm in this way. Soil erosion and loss of the greater part of the moisture is the greatest cause of so many farms not producing as they should."

Studied Needs
"I have made a constructive study of seeds and I know from experience that cotton will run out, causing the turnout per acre to be very much smaller. I never plant any seed unless I am sure that they are pedigreed or nearly so. "I believe that every farm should be terraced with the standard terrace, as it will prevent soil erosion, wind from whipping the young plants in many instances, and always hold the moisture. The small terraces that I tried this year will help—even between the standard terraces, as they will help hold the moisture to these particular rows. I also believe that a row skipped will pay with standard terraces."

School Helped
Mr. Richter, who is president of the Bison school board is not only a man who believes in proving his ideas of diversification to his farmer friends but is looking into the future on school affairs of his district. This year he instituted the idea of planting ten acres to help defray the expenses of the Bison school to run an extra month.

The Bison school several years ago was a typical two teacher school. They taught the simple rules of the three "R's" and the girls and boys and girls would drop out. Mr. Richter sought the advice of County Superintendent A. A. Bullock and to help solve the problem the boys were at once given a shop to do manual training and the girls another room for home economics.

Lions Entertained
The principal of the Bison school, Frank Farmer, being a practical carpenter himself made it possible for the boys to start their manual training at once, while Miss Billie Stark was added as home economics head. The class entertained the local Lions club this past spring with a banquet that was declared to have been one of the greatest feasts ever put on in Scurry county.

But the addition of the manual training and home economics met all state requirements to the point that the Bison school won in the state grading contest for the best school in the county, and were pitted against some of the best rural school plants in West Texas. Concluding, Mr. Richter said: "When I began to try to get the school improvements started, some of my friends did not think it would work. I kept on trying, and they are all satisfied now. It pays, I believe

Mrs. W. R. Porter Says Women Need to Take More Part In Education; Has Changes Planned

DENTON, Nov. 12.—In her annual report to the executive board here Monday in advance of the convention session, Friday, Mrs. W. R. Porter of Bowie, state president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, recommended that Texas clubwomen more actively urge representation by women on school boards and cooperate toward establishment of a recreational and educational center in the Davis mountains. A further recommendation was the complete reorganization of the management of "Texas Federation News," now published at Plainview, with Mrs. Meade S. Griffin as editor. The proposed changes call for a revolving board of trustees to be named by the executive committee, with power to name the editor, who shall have charge of the magazine's finances. Mrs. Potter also advocated an annual educational conference to be conducted by the federation, preferably at Austin.

Air Important In Developing Ports

HOUSTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—Transportation by air has become an established fact, and harbor development of the future must be carried out with that idea in mind, the American association of port authorities was told at its convention here today.

The suggestion was advanced in the annual president's report, read by Perry Young of New Orleans in the absence of President George R. Hagar of San Francisco, whose ill health prevented attendance. It was endorsed by the association.

Aviation has now become a terminal facility of a harbor and as such inevitably must receive the attention of Port Authorities in the plans of harbor development," the report said. On the Pacific Coast the development and operation of municipal airports has been assumed by the port authorities of Portland, Oakland, Los Angeles and San Diego, the president wrote.

In completion of arrangements for use of the Tech College gymnasium for holding the big Father and Son Jamboree on next Tuesday evening, beginning at 6:30 o'clock, members of the location, etc., and program committees went to the gym Tuesday afternoon as part of their work of planning for the celebration.

The eats for the gala event will be plenty, Alex McDonald, chairman of the eats committee, announces, and a program of fun and frolic is being prepared to permit of every father and son in Lubbock and Lubbock county, who can be present, to have one of the most hilarious times of their lives. More than 1,000 are expected to attend the gathering and, from evidence of interest in it, the event will witness around 2,000 present. It will be the biggest thing of its kind ever to occur in West Texas.

Tickets Go On Sale

Tickets for the Jamboree may now be secured at a number of downtown stores, including the City Drug store, Hemphill-Wells company, Harrier Brothers, Bowen Drug store, Hoel's Lubbock Drug store, The Boy Scout headquarters and the Furniture store, or from any member of the various committees. Any father and son will be eligible to attend. If the father has no son, the acquaintance committee will endeavor to introduce him to some boy who has no father.

Rep. L. O. H. Williams, general chairman of the organization, announces that every committee on the job is on its job. Announcements were made at the churches and Sunday schools Sunday, at the American Legion meeting Monday night, and will be made at the schools and Rotary and Kiwanis clubs during the week, with further announcements at churches next Sunday.

Committee Meets Thursday

Thursday afternoon the general committee will meet at 5 o'clock in the office of Bladen, Crenshaw & Supree, over the First National Bank. The rural committee, of which Charles Whitacre is chairman, made a trip to County Line and Shallowater Tuesday afternoon in the interest of announcing the Jamboree at those places and to secure as many fathers and sons as possible from portions of Lubbock county outside of this city to attend.

Exhibit Idea of Lubbock County At Texas State Fair Continues to Draw Favorable Comment Through State

Score Card Idea Gets Criticism from Agricultural Authorities; May Start Exhibit Revolution

Lubbock county and the South Plains is continually cashing-in on the wealth of favorably publicity resulting from their exhibits at the Texas State Fair at Dallas.

In the past several issues of the Progressive Farmer considerable space has been given to the South Plains in articles, pictures and even editorial comment. Last week's issue of this magazine reproduced a picture of Lubbock county's exhibit at Dallas, making the comment that "more than a million people saw this unique exhibit."

What It Had To Say Writing of the county exhibit, the publication said:

"Twenty-two counties scored above 900 points out of a possible 1,000. In the first 10, West Texas had five—Boswell, Garza, Eastland, Hemphill and Hartley, Hale, Floyd, and Lubbock counties had agricultural displays of high educational value, but did not enter county competition. Hale county, with her many farm crops exhibited, brought her message of soil possibilities and diversification, based on dairying. Floyd county displayed in miniature the towns, railroads, and highways in the county, and had an attractive exhibit of the chief crops. Lubbock featured a foreground miniature of the buildings and campus of Texas Technological college, with a giant revolving wheel and platform showing the main crops and products of the county between the spokes, which were railroads leading into Lubbock. 'The Hub of the South Plains.'"

So outstanding an impression was made by Lubbock county's and other South Plains counties that departed from the regular standardized county exhibit that The Progressive Farmer commented editorially, as partly quoted following:

Score Card Is Outlawed "The county exhibit most frequently seen at Texas fairs is made according to the demands of a score card, which requires so many ears of corn or so many heads of grain sorghum, and so on down the line. This results in all the exhibits having a certain uniformity of appearance. It is this standardization of the county exhibit that has robbed it of much of its individuality and originality. This year-after-year sameness of our county exhibits makes them uninteresting to one who attends the state fair each year.

"What then should be the object of a county exhibit? The Progressive Farmer believes that one purpose of the county exhibit should be to give the fair visitor a true picture of the agriculture of the county it represents. At the Texas State Fair this year, Lubbock, Hale and Floyd counties, disregarding the score card made this the outstanding purpose of their exhibits. It is not possible to learn much about the agriculture of a county by studying an exhibit that is made to meet the requirements of a score card.

Card Is Too Definite

"The score card does not take into consideration the differences that exist between the agriculture of Lubbock county in West Texas and Harrison county in East Texas. In order that the county exhibit may truly picture the agriculture of its county, the score card must be discarded, and the county exhibitor permitted to use his own initiative in presenting the outstanding features of his county. It is argued that there is a need for the judging of crops that we may continue to teach crop type, the answer is that this can be accomplished through the individual exhibits. A large number of farmers should be encouraged to make individual exhibits in order that they may learn what constitutes good cotton, corn, grain, sorghum, etc. The county exhibits do not teach any large number of farmers crop type, for one reason, because with the more successful exhibit some-one person in the county is responsible for it, and he is about the only one who derives any great benefit from the work of collecting the crop exhibit material and arranging it.

"Picturing the agriculture of its county in a true light should be the one purpose of the county exhibit. The other is to emphasize and drive home some outstanding farm fact."

COOKING SCHOOL NEWS

Mrs. Milholland points a way to better cooking flavors

MRS. Jennie L. Milholland is one of the hundreds of women who have written us, after following our suggestion to test Crisco by tasting it—just as a careful cook tastes her butter and milk. You'll be interested in what she discovered.

"I have been doing my own family cooking for more than forty years. Many years ago I discovered the good qualities of Crisco by tasting it in comparison with other cooking fats. I taste everything I cook, and I am guided solely by tasting until I have the right ingredients compounded to my taste. I use Crisco because I have for many years considered it the sweetest and most wholesome of all cooking fats."

Now, everything we cook is judged by its taste. But how can we expect our foods to taste good unless the things we made them of taste good, too? Compare the taste of Crisco with that of other cooking fats. Had you imagined there could be such a difference? Think what an improvement Crisco's sweet, wholesome flavor will make in the taste of your own pies, cakes, muffins, biscuits and fried foods!

Smarting under the stinging defeat handed them by the lowly A. C. C. Wildcats, the crimson warriors were putting new life into their drill for what promises to be the toughest encounter of the season for the home arena.

A wholesale revision of tactics and change in lineup is due to occur this week. A number of faces who have been on the sidelines during the majority of games are likely to be in the starting lineup Saturday. These changes will include the line as well as backfield positions.

With the departure of Vaughn Corley, center for Chicago to take part in the stock judging exhibition, it appears almost certain that Jack Durham will hold down the pivotal position in the remaining two games. Durham is a reliable passer and has proven his mettle as a defensive player in previous games. Bill MacWilliams is the other center who may see action in the game Saturday or in the Turkey Day encounter at Canyon.

Get New Plays Continued drill on the old plays and hand addition of new plays came in for a large share of the gridsters' attention yesterday. The Bull Fighters were putting a zip into their signal drills which lead one to think that an entirely different Matador eleven will take the field against the Ranchers this week. Having lost to the weakest team on their home schedule, the Matadors are out to make an improved showing against the Bridges crew this week. By displaying a complete reversal of form, the Scarlet and Black aggregation should be able to keep their state clean with Simmons.

Coaches Higginbotham and Ingerton began serious training yesterday for the game this week-end between their freshmen gridsters and the New Mexico Military Institute at Now.

Going through a lengthy scrimmaged session, the Frosh appeared in splendid physical condition and should be in fine fettle for their clash with the Cadets Saturday. The Picadors have been handicapped heretofore with the variety of signals they have been forced to use. Running the plays of the team facing the Matadors each week, the Freshmen have been unable to give sufficient time to their own formations.

Stage Set For Frog-Steer Tilt FORT WORTH, Nov. 12.—The stage is all set for one of the biggest grid battles of the year at Fort Worth Saturday when the Texas University Longhorns will come to engage Matty Bell's Horned Frogs. With the conference race muddled because of the Texas Aggies' tie with the Methodist Mustangs, it appears that anything is liable to happen in the flag chase.

Three teams, Texas, T. C. U. and M. U.—are the bidders for the title, with Baylor and Rice definitely out and Arkansas in a doubtful, though rather high position. After the game Saturday either the Frogs or the Longhorns will be out of the race, as a defeat to either will give that team two losses. Dope has it that the Mustangs will skin the Bears at Waco, but Frog followers who have seen the Bruins play are not so sure. Arkansas has finished her schedule with three victories and one loss. The Hogs however, can be beaten on percentage since all of the other teams play five games.

Should the Frogs come through their game with the Longhorns it is almost certain that the Turkey-day battle in Dallas will decide the championship. Coach Bell, coming through the tough Rice game without an injury, was driving his men hard the first part of the week, drilling them on new plays and perfecting their offense.

Hornsby Signs To Play For Chicago CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Rogers Hornsby, erstwhile St. Louis Cardinal, New York Giant and Boston Brave, today became a member of the Chicago Cubs.

The "Rajah" signed a contract, said to be similar to the one he had with the Boston club. It has two years to run. President William L. Veeck of the Cubs declined to make public the salary figure but it is understood to be approximately $40,000 a year, with a bonus for signing.

Hornsby said he was pleased with the shift that brought him to the Cubs in a deal involving five players and money estimated at more than $150,000.

Have New Revenue O'Possum Hunting Is Profitable

TROUP, Nov. 13 (AP)—The advent of cold weather has furnished a new source of revenue to east Texans living in or near the wooded section. O'possum hunting is that source.

O'possums are selling at 20 cents a pound. The average is about eight pounds and it is not uncommon for a hunter to catch two or three o'possums in one night. The hides bring from $1 to $3 each.

This lucrative sport may be indulged in at night and thus does not interfere with one's daylight means of gaining a livelihood.

Rickard Confers With Dempsey On Possible Return

Manassa Mauler Appears Anxious for Outlet For The Nervous Energy That Keeps Him Restless

BY EDWARD J. NEIL Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Two wealthy business men sat down today to discuss through the smoke of mild Havanas everything pertaining to the fight game except the chances of one of them, Jack Dempsey, returning to active competition. That was saved for this evening, when the host, Tex Rickard, took the former heavyweight king to dinner.

The boss of Madison Square Garden, came back today after a six week vacation in Florida. His return was the signal for the prompt appearance of Dempsey and revival of all the rumors of a comeback attempt to be staged by the old manassa mauler next summer.

For more than two hours, Dempsey, in a most congenial and receptive mood, talked of fights and fighters, with Rickard and a host of newspapermen. He discussed the advantages of Florida as a winter training ground, analyzed the fighting qualities of Paulino Uscudun, and agreed the Spaniard would be an ideal opponent in the event of a comeback.

The former champion was careful to avoid mention of his oft-repeated statement that he was "through with the ring forever." He appeared restless, anxious to find an outlet for the nervous energy that keeps him continually "on the go." When he had left the room, Rickard smiled a benign smile, and said:

"A few more months and the big fellow will be begging for a fight. He just can't stay inactive."

While the business of today, on the surface at least, was to cement again the friendly relations that have had much to do with the millions both promoter and boxer have made together, Rickard said business of a comeback would be discussed.

Westerners Will Leave Friday for Wichita Contest

High School Gridders Due For Heavy Session Today And Will Round Off Training Tomorrow

Lubbock's high school Westerners resumed strenuous training Tuesday afternoon at Merrill Park after a rest period Monday when Armistice Day games away from Lubbock held the spotlight. With only two more days left in which to round into playing form for the clash with the Wichita Falls Coyotes Saturday, the high school gridgers are scheduled for a heavy session today and will let up tomorrow afternoon with a light final drill.

Leaving here early Friday morning, the Westerners will go by bus to Wichita Falls and will likely arrive in the Coyote city late that afternoon, in time for a short workout on the Wichita gridiron.

Facing the Westerners on the Saturday game is one of the most aggressive football machines the locals will meet during the entire season. With the brilliant Kenneth Mills and a host of other backfield stars to carry the attack, the Coyotes promise to give the local gridsters a bitter fight for runner-up position in the district race or keep the Golden Horde from catching the flying Sandies.

Comparative scores give the Wichita eleven a decided advantage over the Westerners. In their game last Saturday, the McCallum crew romped away with a 43 to 12 verdict over the Quannah Indians, while Lubbock was hard put to whip the Redskins 25-0 in the first conference game of the season here November 5.

Few changes are likely to occur in the high school lineup this week. Although the coaches were far from pleased with the performance of the gridgers against the Plainview Bulldogs last week, practically the same combination time is being given to work on a defense for the Wichita attack. In their season yesterday, the Westerners were put through a session with Wichita plays holding the center of interest.

Sale of Tickets Indicate Record Crowd at T.C.U.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 13 (AP)—Briak advance sale of tickets indicates another big crowd at the Texas Christian University Stadium Saturday when the Texas University Longhorns and the T. C. U. Horned Frogs meet in a game that will send one of the two on a sidetrack in the race to overtake Southern Methodist University.

In fact, the advance sale indicates that the stadium might be entirely filled for the first time this season. The importance of the game, the fact that the two seem pretty evenly matched in the light of recent scores made by both against Baylor and Rice Institute, will draw the fans. It will be the major collegiate tilt in this section that day, too the S. M. U. Mustangs going to Waco to meet the Bruins of Morley Jennings.

Tech Students To Hold Meet Tonight

Preparing to attempt to rekindle or instill a fighting spirit into the members of the Matador squad for the Simmons game on Saturday, men of the college will hold a meeting at the administration building tonight at 7:30. It was announced yesterday by Scott Poase, head yell leader. One purpose of the meeting is to prepare for a gigantic bonfire to be held on Friday night at the final pep rally for a game on the home field this year.

Scientists Present Plan of Making Fodder For Cattle Out of Wood And Extending The Edible Range of Wood

Chemical Process to Make Edible Products Out of Wood; Might Aid In Forest Conservation

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor) NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Success in making fodder for cattle out of wood, and a future possibility of extending the edible range of wood, were announced at the coal luncheon of the American Institute here Saturday. The announcements were made by Dr. Friedrich Bergius, of Heidelberg, German chemist who produced gasoline from coal.

Wood, said Bergius, contains vegetable substances, known as carbohydrates, a class of chemicals which includes some of the most useful of the nutritious elements in mankind's diet. There are two kinds of carbohydrates, one edible and the other not, although the difference between them are extremely slight. In wood Bergius found the non-edible kind, and went to work to recover and convert it into the food type.

Change Is Expensive Bergius said it long had been known that when a wood pulp molecule was changed very slightly it became a sugar or starch, and that one molecule of water added to a molecule of wood pulp made an edible carbohydrate. The change could be made in laboratories, but not on a commercial scale on account of expense. In his experiments he found that addition of hydrochloric acid to wood solutions made soluble carbohydrates, which could be converted into glucose. He was able to obtain from wood 60 percent of pure carbohydrates, which he described as being as suitable as any light, starchy fodder for animals.

Bergius predicted that the research would continue and that its outcome might aid in the conservation of forests throughout the world. A. C. Fieldner, chief engineer, experiment stations divisions, U. S. bureau of mines, describing the great use of coal in this country, said that if all the oil now obtained from American wells were made from coal by the Bergius process, our present bituminous coal production would be increased about 60 percent.

President of Springfield Midgets Declares Western League Officials Have No Right to "Tamp"

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 13 (AP)—Declaring that attempts are being made by the Western League, particularly by the Amarillo club, to "tamp" with Western Association territory at Joplin, Al G. Eckert, president of the Springfield Midgets declared today that any move of the Class A circuit to grab the Miner franchise would be vigorously opposed by the Midgets, as well as by at least two or three other clubs in the league.

This statement was made by Eckert following an announcement from Joplin, that W. R. Doane, owner of the Amarillo club, will be in Joplin soon to confer with owner William Fleischer, and business manager George Cochran concerning the proposed transfer of the Amarillo franchise to the Miner city for 1929.

"Amarillo has no more right to interfere with Joplin than the Texas league had in the Oklahoma City-Tulsa case," Eckert declared. "If the Western League wants Joplin let them go through the proper channels to get that city by purchasing the territory from the Western association. The Amarillo club has no right to make Joplin an offer and it is only stirring up trouble."

Four Contenders Close Drives On Dec. 8 This Year

Spectacular Conflicts To Decide National Wide Tussle; Traditional Games Will Hold Interest

By ALAN J. GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—It will take the final salvo of the football campaign in a series of engagements to be played as late as December 8 to determine the final rating in this year's race for national honors.

It happens that four of the teams now conspicuously involved in the nation wide tussle do not close their drives until that date. Many an anxious ear will be tuned to the reports of Notre Dame's invasion of Southern California's stronghold Georgia Tech's traditional clash with the University of Georgia, Alabama and Florida's battle with Tennessee at Nashville on Dec. 8. Southern California is unbeaten, in fact the only major Pacific Coast team that has suffered no worse than a tie and that with California. Georgia Tech, Florida and Tennessee are bowing along at the top of the southern conference heap, all with spotless slates and all helping to beat the gridiron tom toms for Dixie as they seldom have been beaten before.

New Tech's Time Last year the situation was reversed when the Georgia rivals came down to the climax conflict. Georgia's Bulldogs were riding the crest. They had beaten a great Yale team, with Bruce Caldwell, and now pine in a row only to have their national title hopes snuffed in the mud of Prant Field by Tech's mighty array. Now it is Tech's turn to be trawled.

Dr. Aiken reported: Dr. Aiken has been working for some time on the improvement of the above-mentioned problems in Lubbock and city officials expressed a belief yesterday that his efforts would bear fruit in the near future.

Armour and Company Formally Opens New Branch Plant Here Today; Tour Of The Plant To Be Reception for City

Reception Is Held From 10 Until 9:30 Tonight; To Get Insight On Entire Plant System

When the citizens of Lubbock attend the formal opening of Armour and company's new branch house, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 9:30 today, they will see, in addition to well-appointed offices, shipping docks and their visible facilities for handling the company's distribution of its products, the inner workings that go to make this concern's service possible. They will get an insight into the all room first, where are to be seen great stacks of dry salt and sugar cured meats. Next, they will see the mechanical refrigerated cooler, in which are kept the carcasses, cattle, calves and hogs, fresh pork cuts and sausage items, cheese, butter and eggs and all other food stuffs needing adequate refrigeration. To keep these foods fresh is an automatic York, latest type, ammonia cooling plant system with a thermostat control, which guarantees an even temperature at all times.

Supplies Are Numerous Outside of the cooling plant are to be seen stacks upon stacks of all kinds of meats in boxes. Two sections of shelving are lined with canned fruits, jellies, jams and preserves, grape juice, soda fountain supplies, coffee, canned meats, tomato ketchup, chili sauce, evaporated milk, peanut butter.

On other shelves are lined displays of oleomargarine, sliced bacon, with the window-top cartons, hams and so forth. On others are displays of soap department goods, featuring Dona Castle, Lighthouse Cleaner and washing powders, as well as a full line of toilet and laundry soaps and barrel soaps for laundries and cleaners.

The refinery products show lard and shortening, headed by the Simon Pure lard, one of the few genuine lards it is claimed, that is on the market consisting of 100 per cent pure hog leaf fat. Refreshments will be served every visitor, and souvenirs will be given to all, with each signer at the registration booth, participating in the opportunity to get some gifts of choice food products.

W. E. Schmid, branch manager for Armour and company's newest branch house in Texas, has been in Lubbock for the past four months, having been transferred from the Amarillo branch for the specific purpose of placing the local sub-branch in readiness to step into the bigger field which begins formally with the opening of the new plant here today. Mr. Schmid is well known to many dealers of Armour's goods throughout the Panhandle and South Plains, having been with the company for nine years as salesman.

"I am particularly proud of the Lubbock branch," Schmid declared Tuesday, "because it is the youngest of the company's branches and because of the field in this territory of the South Plains, which it serves. I know the company has faith in this section, or they would not have installed this plant, and I also know this section has the trade big enough to keep these foods fresh to challenge us to meet its demands."

As a reflection of the South Plains growth, during particularly the past few years, Mr. Schmid mentioned the fact that when Armour and company installed a sub-branch at Lubbock, in 1925, only three employees were on the payroll, while today there are three salesmen travelling out of Lubbock and nine employees on the payroll, in addition to a livestock buyer, who makes his home here, and travels the South Plains and part of New Mexico. This buyer is Mr. R. C. Harvey.

J. F. Furlong, Jr., district manager, with headquarters at Fort Worth, has supervision of all the selling branches of the Armour organization in the entire state of Texas, from Texline to Brownville, and from Texasians for as far west as Pecos. He makes monthly trips to Lubbock, as well as the other branch houses of the concern at Amarillo, Abilene, Brownwood and San Angelo, in West Texas. C. B. Blair, assistant district manager, also visits here once a month.

"We feel that Lubbock, even though it is our youngest branch," said Mr. Furlong, "that it will compare in volume favorably with any of our other houses, and believe that the fast-growing South Plains will make some of the other branches hustle to exceed its volume within the next few months."

Tables Are Turned More Pickers Here Than Jobs

The tables have been turned. There now exists more labor in Lubbock than there are calls for farm hands, according to W. R. Roach, U. S. Farm Bureau representative who is here to assist R. F. Nelson in securing cotton pickers for farmers of the South Plains.

"We have had about 15 farm hands call at our office in the past two days, for which we have no jobs," Mr. Roach stated. "Several single hands who are experienced maize headers, as well as cotton pickers, are wanting work and we have had two families looking for jobs."

Mr. Roach said that any farmer needing any of this class of workers can get in touch with either him or Mr. Nelson at the chamber of commerce offices in the city hall.

FUN IS EXPENSIVE Intoxication Costs $25 To Two Young Men

Two celebrants of Armistice Day discovered they owed the county of Lubbock a considerable fee for their fun Tuesday, when arraigned before County Judge Charles Nordyke. One of the boys, arrested by Deputy Sheriff Cap Moore, was fined $1 and costs or $21.40, the other, arrested at Shallowater by Deputy Bob Crump, was fined $1 and costs, or $25.20, the difference in court costs being made by the distance from the courthouse at which the young men were discovered in the state of intoxication.

CHICAGO GRAIN CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (P)—Argentine reports of probable crop damage by rust did a good deal to boost the wheat market today. Best for the first time in weeks, the United States wheat visible supply showed a decrease. There was also wheat buying to anticipate possibility that the Canadian government crop report this evening would prove bullish. DR. J. B. MCCOERLE DENTIST (X-Ray) Phone 374 308 Ellis Bldg. SCRIPTURE: Behold your house is left unto you desolate. For I say unto you, Ye shall not see me henceforth, till ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.—St. Matthew, XXIII, 38, 39.

IN THE FUTURE

The more things change the more they are the same, so goes the old French saying, and it seems to be essentially true. For instance when the movies came upon us with the music and pantomime the thought a new art had arrived. But the typical movie is to day very evidently only a step-tomorrow it will, with the new development of the speaking attachment return to something like the standards of the speaking stage. The more successful synchronization is, the more we shall demand the perfection of dramatic art. It will seem, then, that the movie as we know it today was only an interlude.

Another speculation: The radio is at present only a part of a possible whole. At present we talk of the difference the radio has made in campaign matters. Candidates can take very little advantage of whatever historic abilities they have, because they can only be heard. Thus the radio audience, which now composes the great masses, have often wondered what was causing the gasp at the other end of the line in a political speech, when as a matter of fact it was some gesture that the speaker was using that the fellow listening over the radio did not get, and hence they lost the kick, that the audience from which the speech was coming. We are promised that soon we are to even get advantage of this through the use of the television, and then we shall be able to hear and see the speaker as he goes into his speech, and acts the important parts of it. Then we shall be right back where we started except that only a handful of people were able to be present and see and hear the speaker there will be millions. By the time the next presidential election comes along, no doubt the improved methods of giving the voters the campaign news will be much improved. Those who remember back ten or twelve years ago realize now that there has been a wonderful change in that length of time.

ALL GUMMED UP

The old saying "gaining a foothold" was very forcibly illustrated recently when one of the very best specimens of society was stepping haughtily down the sidewalk of one of the fashionable streets of a neighboring city a few days ago, and as we with others watched her trip lightly along, she suddenly came to a stop, and behold her tiny heel had come in contact with a product of Wrigley, which had been well chewed and discarded in this very public place. The tiny slipper had a firm hold upon the gum that it did upon the little foot, and so, well there was a separation of foot and shoe, and traced to the cause of the accident was a thoughtful person had carelessly thrown a chew of gum on the sidewalk. This only leads us to say that many people have no respect for the sidewalks, and they never think of the inconvenience they may cause some person, who passes that way. The dirty habit of spitting is also a nuisance, and one that should have a punishment attached that will cause those who are in the habit of doing it think twice before they spit on the sidewalk or on the steps of a public building. And then there is the other bad habit of throwing banana peels and other things of the kind on a stop, and behold her tiny heel had come in contact with a product of Wrigley, which had been well chewed and discarded in this very public place. It is not intended that a garbage can or a compeller, and for that reason people should learn that they should respect the sidewalks.

BIG MINDS MAKE MISTAKES

There are some big minds in this old state. They are not all on either side of this political situation either, but some of them seem to be prone to make some of the worst mistakes of anybody. For example, Mr. Wolfe of Dallas, former chairman of the state democratic executive committee, wants to call a great get-together meeting of democrats of all shades and beliefs and ideas, and have a real honest to goodness harmony meeting. We will agree that harmony may be the ideal, but in this case there is no time to even expect harmony. However, we are of the opinion that harmony will come, but it will be the result of several months' relaxation, and a cooling process has brought the radicals with each branch to a deliberation of the conditions, and the chips have all been tossed off their shoulders, and a forgiving spirit has been cultivated and brought to bear fruit.

In our opinion a meeting of democrats at this time would more than likely result in a knock-down-and-drag-out fight, rather than a love-feast. Better lay off of the whole thing until the wounds of the recent conflict have healed.

Lubbock is to have a better church, in the congregation of the Nineteenth Street Methodist church which congregation broke the dirt for the building of a new and better building Monday. The churches are doing all they can to look after the needs of many people who are coming to Lubbock, and it is a mighty good sign of a mighty well founded city to recognize the churches as a part of the material with which to build a real city.

About the greatest farm relief that farmers of the South Plains need now is 60 days of sunshine, in which to gather the crops they worked all year in produce, and this is something that Coolidge or Herbert Hoover or Al Smith cannot control. So we must remember that there is a higher power than the presidency of the United States.

The girls will be mighty glad to hear that Arthur Tribuna who is deep authority on all subjects has written that sugar does not make one fat, and therefore the plump little girls can go ahead and eat all of the candy they want to with no fear of becoming fat.

A Washington Bystander

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Unwavering devotion of a group of new aged veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic in Washington to the service of less fortunate comrades in arms who might find themselves homeless in the nation's capital has kept alive for years a curious temporary home for these old soldiers almost in the shadow of the capitol dome. It is a sort of veteran's hotel, where through the years since it was founded by comrades of Washington G. A. R. posts, in 1870, thousands of aging fighting men of the past, many of them destitute, have found lodging and food without cost for periods of 10 days or even a month. At a time while they struggled with details of pension claims.

Originally the home was maintained in rented quarters and with government aid of $2,000 or so a year. As the numbers of the civil war veterans dwindled with the passing of time, the government board opened the home to men of Spanish war service in army, navy or marine corps, and now its shelter has been extended also to world war veterans. Also, under the more active urge of the men of 1892 and the American Legion, the old naval hospital building, the site of which was acquired more than 100 years ago, has been turned over under a 15-year lease to the temporary home corporation at one dollar a year. Congress denied the navy's application to sell the ground, now worth perhaps $150,000 as compared to an original cost of $3,000, on plea of the veterans of three wars who are joined in rendering this service to destitute comrades. But while two generations of younger veterans continue the active management of the home and it operates a sort of civic center for odds and ends of societies and lodges that form a fringe about ideas of patriotic war service, a dozen fine old men of the 80's still are the honored heads of the institution. Its president for years has been Byron W. Bonney, now 87.

Labor of Love. In illustration of the feeling these G. A. R. men have for their work, Paul McCallahan, spokesman for the American Legion before congressional committees in the successful effort to continue the lease of the naval hospital, related suggestions that the maintenance of the home be completely taken over by the government. "We would hesitate to commit ourselves to a point where they would pass out of the picture," he said, speaking for both Spanish war and world war veterans. "With these old gentlemen it has been a labor of love. There is no question of money involved. None of the officers of the home is on salary allowance or wage. And more than that: As long as there remains a single man of the 60's physically able and willing to serve, he will be president of the board of managers. Up to now far have the old soldiers of the Civil war marched into the past that of some 3,000 veterans housed and fed at the home this year, not two score were Grand Army men.

POISONING BY CANNED FOOD EASY TO AVOID BY DR. MORRIS FISHER Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, The Health Magazine

Commercial canning is now so standardized that but little danger is associated with eating commercially canned products. Food poisoning is becoming more infrequent and education of the public as to its dangers is making less likely cases of such poisoning on a large scale. If people only would learn never to taste spoiled canned food but to destroy without tasting the contents of suspicious jars or cans of food or of those which possess a disagreeable odor or show gas pressure, cases of food poisoning would be even more greatly minimized. Destroy Contents. Indeed, it is advisable to mix the contents of such jars with water and then bury the jar and the contents. Otherwise, if the contents are merely placed in the garbage, they may be eaten by chickens or by household pets which will die, or by mice or other predatory animals which will spread the infection. The majority of cases of food poisoning which have occurred in recent years have resulted from employing home canned food. Home canning is highly desirable economically and because it makes use of large quantities of fruits and vegetables which otherwise go to waste. The principal aim of canning is to prevent spoiling. Spoiling is itself not directly due to the action of air or of heat, but to the action of living germs. Therefore canning involves sterilization by heating with proper observation of the method used in order to insure actual heating of all parts of the product to the required temperature. In places with high altitude this pressure may be less than in places of low altitude. In the western states sterilization in steam under pressure is necessary. For non-acid vegetables, such as asparagus, peas, corn, string beans, spinach and the root vegetables, sterilization simply to the boiling point of water is unsafe. Acid vegetables do not require such action. Fruit Juices may be ruined as to taste by heating for too long a period to the boiling point, hence they are heated for longer periods at less than the boiling point. The University of California College of Agriculture has recently issued Circular No. 276 which presents the latest detailed data concerning safe home-canning methods. A study of the circular will mean increased safety and a lower incidence of food poisoning in future years.

SO THINK WE

We think another great relief brought by the elections being over is that the fellows that write public opinion will not have to read editorials that they do not agree with, and on the other hand, the editors will be able to cut out the extra type that they were forced to employ to copy some of the letters that came in that the type operators would not undertake to read or decipher.

The Way Of The World

BY GROVE PATTERSON MAYO ON CANCER You cannot pick up newspapers from five different cities without finding many new items concerning health. Shrewd editors want news of this type. If one of the Mayos says that progress against cancer is being made, thanks to surgery and radium, the news is given general circulation. Normal people devour health news. It concerns themselves, the chief subject in which they are interested.

PROOF

Testimony on how the average person reads health items is given by Dr. George H. Bigelow, Massachusetts health commissioner. Dr. Bigelow says three-fourths of the people who went to Massachusetts cancer clinics did so because of newspaper articles.

MOVIES

This column is printed in black ink on white paper. Do you realize this is a happy combination of color for eye health? If you don't think so make a practical test. Read colored printed matter, such as a board or circular advertisement, for an hour. Then read your newspaper for an hour. You will discover that the black newspaper-print is much less tiring to your eyes than the loud-colored circular.

GOODBYE DIPPERS

Health is dictating a change in the ice cream industry. More and more, ice cream is being sold in individually wrapped packages and less by the dipper. The public has learned the lesson some soda fountain clerks are not careful to keep the dippers clean.

GROUCHES

Other things disturb our health. Politics, fashion and the nervous excitement under which we live contribute to grouchiness and headaches. Politics often prevent our health commissioners from functioning efficiently. Fashion rests on the birth rate, and irregular, noisy living hastens death.

Wise is the man who gives attention to his health. It is his choicest possession.

possible. Let's have a great Union Thanksgiving program in Lubbock this year. We think the radio is one of the greatest discoveries of the age, and especially is it proving to be very valuable to ship operators. The big ship that went down Monday, carrying three hundred and fifty living beings, would have been fast-tiredly towed without anyone knowing where it went if it had not been for the radio. The SOG call silenced every broadcasting program within reach of it, and all began to receive a message of distress from the sinking vessel, and immediately fast vessels headed in the direction of the distress call, and within a few hours was on the very spot from which the call came. However, all of the people in the small boats had been rescued before they arrived evidently by a nearby ship whose radio failed to announce their nearness to the sinking vessel, and those that answered the call and announced their going to the relief that expected to arrive there first were unable to locate anything. However, the radio was responsible for the fast rescue and saved the lives of hundreds of men, women and children.

Who's Who and Timely Views

WORLD IMMIGRATION PROBLEM REVIEWED BY SIR JOHN AIRD President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce of Toronto

Sir John Aird was born at Longueville, Quebec, Nov. 15, 1855. He was educated at Toronto Model school and engaged in railway work for six years. Entered the Canadian Bank of Commerce in 1878 and has served as its president since 1924. He is married and has two sons and two daughters. The world is gradually lifting its eyes to a higher plane, and now frankly discusses in international conferences many of its problems, but continues to deal with the old-fashioned manner. Most of the economic troubles that exist today are those that might be expected if there was a more equitable distribution of population so that less people would become productive in countries where undeveloped natural wealth is so abundant that many times the present numbers of workers could be employed, to the benefit of the world as a whole. No one can doubt that the welfare of all nations would be greatly enhanced if, for instance, twice the quantity of Canadian wheat, the best grown, could be produced, or if the output of Canadian minerals could be increased, especially of gold, which fears are held of a shortage in the world's supply. The time has come, it is not long overdue, to deal with the question of population as one of international concern, and unless it can be treated as such the standard of living in Europe, which in recent years has not been as high as in North America, will be lowered, with even greater distress than exists at present. Great Britain, for example, is said to have a million more people employed than in pre-war days, yet it is now apparent that unemployment in that country is at a record high. Sympathetic and charitable relief schemes, and such systems as unemployment insurance, entail a heavy and unproductive expenditure. The question arises, whether the large amounts expended by the state for the maintenance of struggling industries would not be more wisely and humanely spent in establishing the surplus population in one of the five great settlement belts that remain available, Canada, Australia, Africa, South America and Siberia.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—A wave of profit-taking on the stock market today only served to depress prices to a point where stocks attracted further feverish buying, which carried total sales up to 5,387,400, almost to the new record of 5,670,000 shares established yesterday.

Although a wide assortment of recent favorites were depressed 4 to 20 points during the forenoon, the recent persistent advice of a number of brokerage houses to buy on reactions at once took effect, and prices were abruptly turned upward, carrying nearly a score of issues to new high prices, and wiping out or reducing most of the earlier losses. The news of the day was largely favorable. Additional takings of $2,500,000 dollars in gold from London were announced, the largest single days takings since the return of the gold movement a few months ago. An extra dividend of 50 cents was announced by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad. Call money was in ample supply at 6 percent all day.

The Associated Press average price of 20 industrial was again raised to a new high record at 240.71, up about half a point. The average of 20 railroads, however, slipped back about the same amount. The ticker was again heavily overworked, and ran for 51 minutes after the close.
U. S. Steel, the traditional bell whether of the list was brought forward by pool operators around midday to stem the tide of selling and lifted more than 4 points to a new high at 168 3-4. Radio, which had tumbled 12 points, more than regained its loss and touched 290 3-4 a new top, only to fall back to 279, a net loss of 9 points. National Tea, which had fallen 20 points, regained 5. Montgomery Ward rose about 5 points, reacted 10, then rallied and closed practically unchanged.

Motors were generally heavy. Packard and Chrysler sold down about 4 points each, but recouped. General Motors, National Tea, which had fallen 20 points, regained 5. Montgomery Ward rose about 5 points, reacted 10, then rallied and closed practically unchanged.

Oils closed generally higher. Richfield and Sun stepping up 1 and 3 points to new peaks. Barradall A. however, was depressed about 4 points at one time. Consolidated gas was a feature of the utilities, mounting more than 4 points to a new top in heavy buying.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 13. (U. S. D. A.)—Firm prices were maintained around the 11-market circuit on the better grades of fed steers and yearlings, but short fed kinds ruled weak to 25c lower with the outlet especially narrow on medium grade steers with weight; at Chicago highly finished fed steers showed a moderate advance, other killing classes of cattle were little changed, stocker and feeder steers were in fairly broad demand with stockers predominating in the supply. Chicago had a top of 17.35 on yearlings and realized 17.30 on heavy steers. The supply approximated 49,400 as compared with 40,007 last Tuesday and 51,847 the same day last year.

Hogs received another price set back of 15 to 25 trade however, was marked by considerable activity which is an indication that further declines this week are unlikely unless receipts prove larger than anticipated, the days extreme top of $9.15 was paid at St. Louis total offerings 121,450 an increase of 34,000 over a week ago and 15,500 more than a year ago.

LECTURES AT CANYON

Dr. John C. Granbery is going to Canyon today where he will lecture before the Sociological society at W. T. S. T. C. this evening. Dr. Granbery has chosen as his subject "What is a Liberal?" and will approach the subject from the standpoint of a Sociologist. He has addressed the organization on several previous occasions and two years ago the Tech society was the guest of Canyon students.

Mr. J. L. Duffel, head of the Sociology department at Canyon, is studying in Chicago University this year doing work towards his degree of Doctor of Philosophy and experiencing actual research work in the city. When the Tech students went to Canyon they heard Dr. Duffel lecture on a case study he had made of Hassell.

EXCITEMENT OVER SOUSA

Streamers, banners, and posters placed on walls, windows, doors, and bulletin boards bear testimony to the fact that Sousa and his mighty band are to be at the college tomorrow. One sign even goes so far as to indicate that Sousa is expecting all of the students to be in attendance at his concert.

Governor Smith Calls On Democrats To Forget Dissension and "Carry On And Vindicate" Principles of Party

"not to lose interest" in the Democratic party.

He said he did not regard the defeat of his party as interfering with the soundness of the principles for which it stood, and that with all the vigor he could command he would continue not only to stand for those principles, but to "battle for them." He added a pledge of increasing interest in and devotion to them.

"The Democratic party is the oldest political organization in the United States, so well defined are the doctrines and the principles upon which it is founded that it was survived defeat after defeat, in the sixty-five years that have passed since the Civil War. Only two presidents were elected on the Democratic ticket."

Maintains An Appeal
No political organization otherwise founded could have been able during all these years to maintain an appeal to the people that brought to the polls on last election day.

Fourteen and a half millions of voters, subscribing once more to its platform and renewing their pledges to the principles which it has upheld throughout its long history. The verdict of the American people last Tuesday was not a crushing defeat of the Democratic party, but some of the headlines in the public press would have us believe.

Parties Aid Country
"When the majority party believes that it has everything its own way, it loses its fear of reprisals at the polls for mismanagement or misconduct of the government. A political party is organized to help the country and not merely to achieve victory. It survives not on the basis of lower but on the strength and the soundness of the principles for the reward it secures for its fulfillment. It stands a political party can only justify its existence insofar as it operates for the purpose of promoting the welfare, the well-being and the best interests of the people."

"The principles for which the Democratic party stands are as great in victory, and it is our duty to carry on and vindicate the principles for which we fought. The Democratic party today is the great liberal party of the nation. It leads the progressive thought in all the countries. It holds out the only hope of return of the fundamental principles on which this country was built and as a result of which it has grown and thrived."

Builds Constructive Program
"To the young men and women of the country, the Democratic party with its fine traditions, and its breadth of vision, offers the only inspiration. The Democratic party would not be in a position four years from now to solicit the confidence and the support of the American people, if during that period it neglected to build up a constructive program and relied entirely upon the failure of the opposition party. That cannot be done by the minority party permitting itself to become a party of destruction and opposition for political purposes only. We have seen too much of that in this country and in many of its civil divisions."

"What this country demands is a constructive and no destructive criticism, a constructive program embodying the declarations of the Democratic platform should be promptly developed, above all things the function of a minority party is educational in character. It will not do for the rank and file of the American people to be intensely interested in the issue and party program for a couple of months before election and then permit that interest to die out when the result is announced, political platforms and promises are not self-creating."

"The political history of the United States clearly indicates that every progressive step, every government reform, has been won only after a period of persistent effort and by the slow process of educating the electorate."

Should Support President
"The first and indispensable element of education is information. A full and complete presentation of the facts is easier to do today than it was years ago because of the use of the radio and the increasing interests of our young people in public affairs. It must be remembered that while the political party may seriously divide public thought and public opinion throughout the country during the progress of the campaign, after the American people have made their decision, the man selected is not the president of the Republican party but the president of the United States. He is the president of all the people and as such he is entitled to all the cooperation of every citizen in the development of a program calculated to promote the welfare and the best interests of this country."

"He is entitled to a fair opportunity to develop such a program. Only when he fails to accomplish it does his administration become the subject of proper criticism by the opposition party. Premature criticism not only fails of its purpose but often results in the disadvantage of the critic himself."

Don't Let Bitterness Bitter Us
"Party responsibility is not confined to its handling of governmental affairs. A political party must also be accountable to the people of the United States for the management of its internal affairs, and no political party can afford to neglect the support of force for which it refuses to accept responsibility. It will not do to let bitterness, rancor or indignation over the result blind us to the one outstanding fact, that above everything else we are Americans. No matter with which party we aligned ourselves on election day, our concern should be for the future welfare, happiness, contentment and prosperity of the American people."

"At this point I desire to express my gratitude from the bottom of my heart to the millions who worked for me, to the party leaders throughout the United States who rendered loyal service to the Democratic party and to our country. I want this to include the men and women throughout the country not members of the party who have been inspired by the progressive platform, adopted at the Democratic convention, and supported my declaration of purpose with respect to those purposes."

Thousands of letters and telegrams have come to me asking that I not lose interest in the Democratic party.

Should Be Thankful
"America cannot be unmindful of the blessings that have been showered upon her by an Almighty and a Divine Providence. The history of our country indicates that his sustaining hand has guided us since the very hour of our discovery. No body can read our history and be unmindful of the proclamation of the president of the United States, asking that on Thanksgiving Day, in grateful appreciation, we offer prayer by graves. Amen at the same time pray for a continuance of that benediction."

"Nor shall we ever fall upon each recurring anniversary of Thanksgiving, to invoke the aid of the Ruler of the universe—that we may never lose our faith in the fundamental principles upon which this country was founded, and that must have been borne of Divine Inspiration."

to the lateral, or county roads, in the eastern part of the county. He said members of the opposing organization had said, they would favor a bond issue for state and federal highways. O. L. Slaton, another member of this organization, was present at the meeting, both stating they would oppose the election and strive to defeat it.

Arguments Are Voiced
Arguments against the project were voiced in statements that the kind of roads proposed for county highways would not be of substantial nature, that taxes would be too high, that too much chance for engineering contractors not using the full amount of the $200,000

RODEO CONTEST FATAL Round Rock Performer Dies From Injuries of Fall

SAN MARCOS, Nov. 13. (AP)—Winn Suttles, Round Rock, rodeo performer, died at a hospital here today of injuries sustained at Kuykendall ranch late Sunday when his horse fell on him after he had roped a calf in a rodeo contest.

000 for these county roads would obtain.

It was brought out in the course of the meeting, when a history of the project was told, that the people of Lubbock county had for years been clamoring for good roads. The newspapers had editorialized for them, various clubs and other organizations had urged them, many committees have been appointed in the past few years to work out plans for such a project. In the summer of 1927 a committee was appointed to work out a definite plan and not until this year, when the demand from the citizenship of the county had become so great, generally, had a committee worked out a workable plan, which had been approved and placed in the form of an election, seeking a referendum for the people to decide.

System Serves County
It was said the good roads committee, before evolving its plan, had interviewed many citizens in Lubbock and in every section of the county to get a consensus of opinion as to what was needed. From this the committee mapped out a system that will serve the most highly developed and most thickly populated sections of the county, believing they were the people to be served first.

The matter of taxes was mentioned, a rate of 53 cents being claimed as ample to take care of the entire bond issue, over a 40 year period, and that this was a maximum tax and would not likely ever be so high, because the project is a five-year project, not to be sold until contracts are let on the county roads, or until the state and federal aid, which would be about double the $2,000,000 or approximately $4,000,000 in all, would be available for road construction.

After General Approval
With the attorney general's approval of the petition, which was presented to him at Austin before being presented to signers here before placing them before the county commissioners, a statement was made that the 40 year term of the bonds and all other details of the project were in keeping with every legal question involved.

Upon mention of the proposal to wait until the state legislature voted on a constitutional amendment calling for a $250,000,000 state road bond issue, it was claimed that if the county waited for this, it would be 10 years before the county would get any good roads, whereas, if the present bond issue is voted, then when the state voted its big bond issue the county's system would be bought by the state at what they cost and the county would get its money back and have its good roads.

The kind of roads proposed for the lateral, or county roads, was explained as being exactly the kind the state and federal governments are building in Tom Green and other counties as their main highway. It being noted that specifications for Lubbock county roads were made by the State District Engineer George Field.

Cost of maintenance of these county roads was said to be much less than the cost of maintaining the present dirt roads.

"A lot of people in Lubbock were not in favor of getting the Tech college, or the Lubbock Hotel, or the Denver road," it was said. "There will always be opposition to any progressive move."

There are four things as many of the petitioners asked that a similar amount of money, $250,000, be donated to the use of the opposition fight, as had been proposed for use by that board, to meet with the chamber directors in an effort at giving the details of the bond issue in their true light, so that harmony of all local interests would prevail.

Directors present were, B. Sherrod, president; S. A. Arnett, Claude Burrus, W. W. Royalty, J. B. Mazy, A. N. Neudorfer, C. C. Maedgen, T. B. Duggan, S. A. Wells, G. P. Kuykendall, Neil H. Whight, and R. J. Murray.

Coast Guard Reports Recovery of Five Bodies
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—The recovery of five bodies of victims of the sinking of the steamer Vestris by two coast guard vessels was reported by radio tonight to the navy department by Vice-Admiral Taylor on board the battleship Wyoming, one of the rescuers.

Coast Guard Destroyers Continue Search for Raft
NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—Four coast guard destroyers in a joint message to the New York coast guard division tonight, reported they were remaining in the vicinity of the last position given by the ill-fated steamer Vestris to continue a search for one of the them at the matinee is to be 50 cents for reserved seats. To others the matinee price is 75 cents and $1.50. Night prices are $1 and $2.

Following the matinee Thursday afternoon Sousa will judge a contest between several high school bands of this section, the winner to receive a silver loving cup from Tech college. The Lubbock high school band will compete and it is expected a large number of other high school bands will compete. Sousa will direct one tune to be played by a massed band, composed of members of all high school bands competing.

Under the direction of Bandmaster Harry LeMaire, the Tech College band played a curb concert in the downtown section of Lubbock, to advertise the appearance of Sousa's band. Prof. LeMaire is very enthusiastic over the appearance here of Sousa's band, stating that every citizen who can possibly hear him to be present, as it may be the very last opportunity they will ever have.

"Mr. Sousa is 75 years old," LeMaire stated, "and is without a doubt the king of all bandmasters in the world. He is a member of the York Rite Masonic body at Washington, D. C. and holds his Shrine membership there. Besides being well known as an author of several books of memoirs and fiction."

LaFon and Richard L. Douglas. Arrive Here in Afternoon. The specials are due to arrive in Lubbock about 3:30 on the afternoon of the 21st. Citizens will meet them at the train upon arrival here, with bands and automobiles. They will be taken for a short car ride over the town and turned loose to do as they please later.

The transportation committee is in charge of G. W. Scott, who will pick a special committee to assist him in securing the necessary number of cars. At 6 p. m. the visitors will be given a feed at the Tech gym, this to be in charge of W. E. LaFon, the serving committee to be headed by L. C. Ellis. Mr. Maedgen and W. W. Rix are in charge of arranging the program for the night, which will be announced later.

Want Warm Reception.
The general committee is very anxious that every Lubbock citizen extend the glad hand of welcome and a smile of greeting, as there will be a thousand or more on the five specials. Telegrams received from Fort Worth, Wichita Falls and Dallas Tuesday afternoon, stated there would be 140 from Fort Worth, 125 from Wichita Falls and 125 from Dallas. These will be the heads of big firms from these cities, who are anxious to get acquainted with the South Plains section, its people and business institutions, in order to cooperate further with them in every possible way.

Ship Survivors

which had picked up some of the survivors, reported through a wireless tug that all the lifeboats that were launched by the Vestris had been accounted for, and a message from four destroyers that also were continuing the search, announced that one life raft still was afloat.

Rescue hope that the additional survivors of the vessel already had been picked up was expressed at the Lamport and Holt line office last night when the owners received information that four ships, not equipped with wireless, were on the scene of the wreck. The owners said it was believed likely that these boats may have picked up some of the passengers and crew who had not been accounted for. One of the four ships was said to be under American registry, and the three others were from South American ports.

Tanker Rescues 64
Among the rescue ships steaming toward port was the French tanker Myriam, which sent a message that it had on board 64 survivors of the Vestris, eleven more than previously had been reported.

Indications that the number of those still unaccounted for might be tragically reduced came from reports of the recovery of the bodies. Radio reports to the navy department from the battleship Wyoming said that coast guard destroyers had picked up ten bodies.

As radio station along the coast were listening for additional news of rescue operations last night, an SOS call was picked up from the steamer K. R. Kingsbury reporting the schooner Anna M. Heidritter flying distress signals and asking for food and provisions. The schooner had lost her boats and provisions in a storm off the Atlantic coast, but was "holding under easy canvas," the message said.

Captain Honored In Resolution of Board
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—The shipping board adopted a resolution today expressing appreciation and pride in the courage and skill displayed by Captain Schuyler F. Cummings and the officers and crew of the American shipper, in the rescue of 122 persons from the wrecked steamer Vestris off the Virginia capes.

The life saving feat of Cummings whose vessel was the first to reach the stricken Vestris, however, was not his first rescue at sea for which he has received commendation. In 1925 he performed a rescue for which he was cited last year in a congressional report by the house committee on commerce.
