Billy Probe Resumes

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department asked Congress today for stronger powers to enforce the law that Billy Carter flouted for 18 months before he registered as an agent for the Libyan government.

Robert L. Keugh, associate-deputy attorney general, testified before a special Senate subcommittee that resumed hearings on the affairs of President Carter's younger brother.

Although the younger Carter was asked by the department to register under the Foreign Agents Registration Act in January 1979, he did not do so until last July 14.

Denies Cash Squeeze

DALLAS (AP) - A Braniff International spokesman today refused to confirm reports the airline has been forced to offer another 10 to 15 jets for sale.

"We're always buying and selling airplanes," said spokesman Jere Cox. "We're not in any cash squeeze."

The Wall Street Journal reported today that Braniff has offered the Boeing 727-200 jets to several airlines, including Trans World Airlines.

Cox also denied Journal reports that Braniff borrowed $100 million May 30 from a group led by Bankers Trust of New York.

Debating Pet Laws

NEW YORK (AP) - The Iowa Legislature was debating a bill imposing penalties of up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine for motorists who don't stop after running over a dog or cat.

Sen. James Gallagher, a Jessup, Iowa, farmer, rose in opposition.

"I can see stopping a car for a dog," he said. "But a cat? You squish a cat and go on."

Gallagher later said he only meant some drivers might not be aware of hitting a cat on a dark highway, but the explanation mattered little to hundreds of feline lovers who sent him angry letters after the bill was defeated.

Warning From New Yorkers

PLAINVIEW (AP) - New York City officials have warned farmers that their tractors will be impounded if they blockade the Democratic National Convention in New York next week, the president of the American Agriculture Movement says.

Marvin Meek of Plainview, head of the farmers' group, said his organization will decide today or Thursday whether to proceed with their planned blockade.

Initially, the New York Police had indicated they would cooperate with the blockade, Meek said.

"Now they have abandoned us. We feel the Carter administration probably put an excessive amount of pressure on them," Meek said.

Gulf Rigs Evacuated

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Amoco Production Co. has begun evacuating workers from drilling rigs and production platforms in the Gulf of Mexico as a precaution against Hurricane Allen.

The hurricane, one of the most powerful this century, approached Jamaica today with sustained winds up to 170 miles an hour.

Dave Tayrien, an Amoco spokesman, said 665 employees should be evacuated from 10 drilling rigs and six production platforms by dusk Thursday.

The Amoco rigs and platforms are off the coasts of Louisiana and Texas.

The English language is made-to-order for politicians. Perhaps that is one reason that we often think we understand what candidates are saying but learn later that their statements were misunderstood, or taken out of context.

You'll probably encounter some of these situations during the upcoming presidential campaign. Here's a sample to give you an idea:

I'm firm; you are obstinate; he's pigheaded.
I'm neat; you are fussy; he's compulsive about germs.

I'm scholarly; you're pedantic; he's dry as dust.
I'm flexible; you're flabby; he's wishy washy.

I'm bold; you're pushy; he's got his nerve - and on and on and on.

Iranians Freed After Finally Giving Names

NEW YORK (AP) - Nearly 200 Iranian demonstrators, whose detention brought threats of reprisals against the U.S. hostages in Tehran, paid respects to a portrait of the Ayatollah Khomeini after they were released by officials who determined they were in the country legally.

After finally giving their names to officials, 171 Iranian men were taken Tuesday night from a federal prison in Otisville to an Islamic Center in the New York City borough of Queens. They were joined there by 20 Iranian women who had been detained in a Manhattan federal corrections facility.

Some youths in a crowd of about 50 Queens residents shouted "Let our people go" as the Iranians passed. One youth was arrested after an egg was thrown at an attorney for the demonstrators.

At the center, the Iranians paid respects to a portrait of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and alleged that they had been "beaten, tortured and kidnapped" during their detention, which began July 27 with a demonstration in Washington. Several displayed black and blue marks they said came from shackles and one showed stitches in his head. U.S. officials have denied charges of mistreatment.

Those released included three who had been hospitalized because of a hunger strike. The Iranians stayed at the center for several hours after a 30-minute prayer service and then began to leave in small groups, apparently for the homes of area Iranians. Some stayed in the center overnight.

Earlier, one demonstrator was transferred to Washington where he pleaded innocent to charges of simple assault and possession of an unlawful weapon. Assistant U.S. Attorney Noel Kramer said Mahmoud Safiri was returned to the District of Columbia jail after his arraignment in Superior Court.

Khomeini had denounced the treatment of the demonstrators. The speaker (See Iranian, Page 9)

Reports Made By County Appraiser

Routine business was conducted at a meeting Tuesday night of the Scurry County Appraisal District.

Board members approved bills totaling $18,917, and heard several reports by chief appraiser Ray Pevler.

Pevler told board members he is planning to purchase some aerial photographs of Scurry County for the tax office. Although no photographs have been purchased yet, Pevler told board members, he has bought a $35 index map.

Pevler also told board members he let a printing contract with the Lubbock firm of Gage Van Horn. The contract comes to about $2,500.

Board members also approved the retention of the Amarillo law firm of Perdue, Brandon, and Blair. Board members also eyed a proposed 1981 Budget, but took no action on the matter. The proposed budget lists expenses totalling $229,740.

Board members attending the meeting last night were Pete Hester, Ross Blanchard, and Kenneth Wilson.

Hurricane Allen Leaves 21 Dead

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) - Hurricane Allen unleashed 100 mph winds and torrential rains against Jamaica's eastern and northern coasts today and left much of Kingston powerless. Hours earlier, it gave Haiti's southwest peninsula a devastating sideswipe that officials feared would raise the death toll sharply from the 21 known victims in its sweep through the eastern Caribbean.

Allen passed within 10 to 20 miles of the Haitian coast Tuesday night. Officials feared widespread destruction and possibly heavy loss of life on Haiti's isolated Jacmel peninsula.

Miami, Fla., the closest major mainland point, is some 575 miles north of Kingston. If the hurricane reaches the mainland, it is not expected to do so before early next week, according to forecasters.

Still packing 135-mph winds at the center, down from the 170-mph winds of the day before, Allen's center this morning passed within a few miles of Jamaica's north coast, an area lined with tourist hotels from Port Antonio in the east to Montego Bay in the west.

The U.S. National Weather Service said the center of Allen was located about 50 miles east of Montego Bay at 6 a.m. EDT. It said the storm should pass within 25 miles of Montego Bay by late morning, then head out to sea again on a path that would take it 50 miles north of Grand Cayman Island and south of the Isle of Pines off Cuba's south coast, and then into the Gulf of Mexico.

At that time, the weather service said, Allen's eye was just off Jamaica's north-central coast near latitude 18.6 north, 77.3 west, and was expected to continue moving west-northwest toward the Caymans at 20 mph.

It said hurricane-force winds extended 55 miles north and 35 miles south, and that gale force winds extended 175 miles north and 100 miles south. Dr. Jose A. Colon, Director of the U.S. National Weather Service in San Juan, Puerto Rico, said the eye of the storm was staying mostly over water, meaning the storm was more likely to maintain its strength and to intensify again when it moved away from land.

Correspondents for government-owned Radio Jamaica said there were as yet no known casualties in the northeast, but noted much of the area was cut off from telephone communications.

Jamaica's electric power authority announced in Kingston that it had shut off its generators before the height of the storm struck after midnight to protect its equipment, and power would probably remain off most of today, the radio reported.

AJRA QUEEN CANDIDATE - One of the highlights of the American Junior Rodeo Association's National Finals Rodeo here next week will be the crowning of Miss AJRA 1980 during the Aug. 15 performance. Boy's Club Selling Tickets To Rodeo

Members of the Scurry County Boys' Club are selling tickets to the American Junior Rodeo Association's National Finals Rodeo, which is scheduled next week in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Persons who wish to buy tickets may contact the Boys' Club office at 573-3344.

Box seats are being reserved and must be purchased through the chamber of commerce. They cost $5 each.

All other tickets are general admission and they may be used any night during the rodeo. The prices for general admission are $3.50 each for adults and $2.50 each for children.

The AJRA National Finals will begin Tuesday night, Aug. 12, in the coliseum. However, team roping finals have been set for 1 p.m. Monday, Aug. 11, which will be free of charge.

From Tuesday through

Saturday, night performances will begin at 8 p.m.

Miss AJRA 1980 will be crowned on Friday night, and seven candidates are in the race for this honor. The winner will be selected by a vote of the AJRA members. There will be no national final Queen named this year.

AJRA Seeks Horse Stalls

A plea is being made by American Junior Rodeo Association officials for the use of horse stalls during the AJRA National Finals Rodeo here next week.

Anyone who has stalls which might be used by AJRA contestants is asked to call the Snyder Chamber of Commerce office at 573-3558. Several hundred youngsters will be here to compete in the rodeo, and extra facilities for horses will be needed during the week-long event.

Attacks Reagan Tax Plan

NEW YORK (AP) - President Carter, amid signs that he and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy are attempting to keep their battle for the Democratic presidential nomination from fracturing the party, deftly handled some communist hecklers today and then attacked Republican Ronald Reagan's tax plan as "sugar-coated poison."

During a speech to the annual convention in New York City of the National Urban League, Carter called the tax-cut proposal championed by the GOP presidential candidate "the most inflationary piece of legislation" that may ever have been seriously considered by Congress.

He said the plan to cut federal tax rates 10 percent a year for three years would "soak the poor" while benefitting the wealthy.

Carter was interrupted four times by individuals who shouted "Carter is a liar ... the Communist Workers Party indicts you ... the people of South Bronx indict you."

Each time, the protestor was hustled from the room.

After the fourth interruption, he said, "You know, we have a lot of people trying to escape out of communist countries to come to our country. You don't see any boats trying to escape Key West to go to Cuba."

expensive trappings

A lot of criticism has been leveled at the federal government in recent years about the cost of its construction projects, those sometimes elaborate and ornate testimonials to the taxpayer's generosity.

One flap has been going on for several years, about the new senate office building in Washington, which some have dubbed the Potomac Palace because of its 16-foot high ceilings, elaborate offices and country-club type facilities.

Some of these trappings simply are not needed and indeed are a waste of tax dollars.

For instance, the government now has gotten into the art business, commissioning huge, elaborate and expensive works which are used to decorate various government structures around the nation.

A recent issue of U.S. News and World Report gave us a look at some of these works of art - along with their cost.

One which has attracted a lot of attention is a 101-foot high structure in Chicago called the "Batcolumn." It looks like a wire mesh cage shaped like a baseball bat. It cost taxpayers $100,000.

In a federal office building in Atlanta, a creation adorning a wall looks a bit like a king-sized bed sheet which has been spattered with paint. That cost us $50,000.

In Baltimore is an aluminum sculpture which has been painted in bright colors. It is difficult to determine just what it is supposed to be. But whatever it is, it cost us $98,000.

In New Bedford, Mass., is a sculpture of wood and steel in front of an office building. It is named "Seaflower" and looks a bit like a piece of over-grown coral.

Then there is one up in Huron, S.D. which has a price tag of $25,600. It is called "Hoe-Down."

One person described that structure as four large steel plates propped up by telephone poles. Huron has 14,000 people, and 5,000 of them signed a petition demanding the removal of the structure and called for an end to such government waste.

But it's still there.

In all, there are 173 such sculptures, murals and other works of art commissioned for communities across the nation. And the total cost has run to about $6 million. That averages out to about $35,000 per unit.

Granted, $6 million is not much in terms of government expenditures, but we can't wonder just how many more millions have been spent in such a manner.

"We should spend more time with the children," I told my husband the other day. "In a few years they'll be gone and we'll rattle around in this empty house wishing we had taken the time to sit down and find out how they felt about things... their hopes... their ambitions... what are you smiling about?"

"I'm still back at the part on rattling around in the house. Do you know I shaved the other morning without steam on the mirror and nearly scared myself to death?"

"Children need the companionship of an adult," I continued. "That very special relationship in the formative years where you listen to one another, advise, assess, mold values, exchange ideas and points of view. We don't even know how they feel about life."

"Get on with it. What are you suggesting?" "You should take your son fishing and I'll have the weekend here alone with our daughter. That way it's a one-on-one situation where we really get into the meaningful stuff."

Last week, as I watched father and son load up all the gear into the four-wheel drive, a lump came into my throat. When they left the driveway, I called to my daughter: "Whatya want? I'm on the phone."

She was on the phone for more than five hours. As she was showering, I felt to my knees and yelled under the door, "Do you want to talk about anything?"

"Yes," she yelled back. "Do you have a clean pair of pantyhose?"

Later, as she tore out the front door, I tugged at her sleeve and asked, "You wanta tell my how you feel about life?"

"I'm for it," she said simply, pecking me on the cheek.

The next morning, she slept until noon and at lunch she wore a pair of headphones and a blank expression to the table. I was relieved when my husband and son pulled into the driveway. "How did you make out?"

He smiled triumphantly. "If I do say so myself, it was one of my better performances. I talked about values in this life and how sometimes it was hard not to become tainted by what is going on in the world around us, but we are a family and if we stick together, there isn't anything we can't do. I talked about aims and goals in life and how you had to be patient and sometimes compromise and you know... all the brilliant things a kid will remember his father saying for the rest of his life."

"What did he say?" I asked excitedly.

"Nothing. He slept all the way up and back."

Measured in miles, the distance between Palo Alto, Calif., and Boise, Idaho, is considerable.

But in terms of constitutional guarantees, as interpreted by the United States Supreme Court, there is none at all.

That has just been amply demonstrated in Boise where, in the wake of the Idaho State Penitentiary riot, law officers invaded television station KBCI-TV and seized videotapes of the uprising.

The tapes, shot by station personnel admitted into the prison by the inmates, were wanted by police for identification of the riot leaders. The station was willing to make available upon subpoena portions actually broadcast but not material never aired on grounds such as was equivalent to a reporter's private notes. The police, however, wanted and acted otherwise.

The incident is an ominous follow-up of the 1978 Supreme Court decision in Zurcher vs. Stanford Daily sanctioning police searches of news organization premises in cases where there is "reasonable belief" that material relevant to a criminal investigation is present. That case involved police search of the student newspaper for photos taken during campus disorders in which an officer was injured.

The five-to-three court decision upholding police action in Palo Alto was widely and sharply criticized as a violation of the First (protecting press freedom) and Fourth (restricting searches and seizures) Amendments to the Constitution. It was seen as a dangerous precedent, encouraging further encroachment on press freedoms and compromising the confidential relationship between journalists and their sources.

The Boise incident would appear to be a fulfillment of those prophecies and more. As John Hughes, former editor of the Christian Science Monitor and then president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, observed at the time, Zurcher vs. Stanford Daily opened the way to the granting of warrants "by a magistrate at midnight with no opportunity for a countering point of view until the police search has taken place."

That was exactly the experience of station KBCI-TV, which learned of the impending search too late to present to a court its case for a restraining order.

Further, journalists' fears of becoming unwilling tools of law-enforcement authorities have been specifically affirmed by the Idaho lawman behind the seizure.

In the view of the county prosecuting attorney, the station personnel upon entering the prison "were not acting as news reporters, they were newsmakers. They were acting as agents for the inmates who requested their presence to communicate with the administration and at the same time probably acting as an agent for the administration."

A Boise-type incident has been anticipated by the press and in one respect may even be seen as welcome. The Stanford decision triggered a rush of legislation designed to strengthen press guarantees and the Carter administration is backing similar moves in Congress. Bills restricting police search authority are pending in both houses.

Boise could speed action. Some press quarters, however, are wary of a legislative cure, which they see in itself as a possible threat to the First Amendment by setting a precedent for laws specifying the rights of the press.

It would be preferable in this view to achieve redress through the courts. And that is not at all unlikely.

This Supreme Court has been having second thoughts about decisions that have brought it and the press into an adversary relationship. It recently, for all practical purposes, reversed itself on a much criticized decision that had the effect of sanctioning closed trials.

It is quite possible that it would be interested in putting some distance between it and the Stanford decision, providing an appropriate case for second-thinking turns up.

Your Birthday

August 7, 1980

There will be a major shift in situations this coming year, which will enable you to control things that were formerly out of your reach. You'll know exactly what to do in order to make them successful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your material prospects are encouraging today, but it's due more to the efforts of others than to your own. Step aside and let good things happen. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Although you're basically a practical person, it behooves you today to be a bit of a dreamer. Wishes and hopes will inspire you to aim for lofty targets.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't retreat from challenges or competition today. The odds are in your favor, rather than against you. Do your best. Luck will do the rest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Be optimistic where major hopes are concerned. Something you've been wishing for may soon become a reality. Don't let your faith waver for a second.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Greater benefits are likely today from joint ventures instead of from things you do on your own. Be a contributor, not a soloist.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Conditions are favorable today where contracts or agreements are concerned. Bargain fairly and your terms will be met.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Take special pride in your work today. A job well done could have additional hidden benefits not now apparent to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are two areas today where you are likely to be very lucky. Dealings with partners is one. Romance is the other. Try both.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things may develop in a manner today to give you an opportunity to complete something, the outcome of which was in doubt. It should work out OK.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Dealings today with influential contacts could prove exceptionally lucky for you. Favors will be granted if you make your needs known.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Give top priority to situations today that can enhance your security or increase your income. Your probabilities for success are very promising.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your enthusiasm is contagious today and you can easily interest others in things that interest you. Once your bandwagon is rolling, everybody will want to get on board.

We are always scouting around for new sure-to-work diets, new foods, new exercises - any kind of trick to look a few pounds thinner, or even lose a few pounds.

Personally, I think we have all been advised adequately through numerous advertisements, news articles, magazine features and TV programs of diets proven to suit our desired weight loss by people in all walks of life from doctors to laymen.

Even with plans geared to personal specific needs there is one little factor that seems to be bigger than all of us, that most important reality that must come first and foremost - the desire, the want-to bad enough to withstand the temptations of satisfying the pain of hunger.

Before admitting defeat, there is one more finding, relatively new, that is deservingly a fry.

Strange as it sounds, it has been said you can stop hunger sensations by pressing on a certain region of your ear. Acupressure is a proven technique that has been used by thousands of people to relieve hunger.

One of these two methods will work for you, according to the conclusions made by experts in the field. The first is to insert your index fingers gently into your ear orifices (openings) with your palms turned toward your face. Place your thumbs on the tragus, the little bump of cartilage at the front of the external ear (not the large lobes at the bottom of your ear). Firmly massage the tragus between your thumbs and index fingers for at least one minute.

The second method is to place your index fingers in the small depressions immediately in front of your ears, just slightly higher than the tragus. Rub in a circular motion for at least one minute.

If you chance upon someone appearing to have a severe headache, they may only be trying to combat hunger pains, but do be sympathetic with them. The anguish suffered is somewhat to the same degree as a migraine.

We may get too old to do a lot of things, but we can remain patriotic till the end. Some Americans cherish their right to vote. One voter we recently read about was 121-year-old Christina Martinez, probably the country's oldest and most determined woman to exercise her voting privilege. Mrs. Martinez, the article said, had to be carried downstairs from her apartment and driven by car to the voting poll in Hartford, Conn., during her state's presidential primary.

"All Americans should vote," she told her friends. The woman was born in Feb. of 1859, when James

Buchanan was president and the Civil War was still two years off - a while before women had the right to vote.

Home Sewing Gets The Alphabet

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) — ROSES ARE RED VIOLETS ARE BLUE I MADE THIS TOTE BAG JUST FOR YOU

Come the end of September, you'll be able to write like that on anything you sew, without doing the writing yourself.

For $1,200, the new computerized Viking 6690 sewing machine will do it for you.

All you'll have to do is insert the alphabet cassette (one of five; the other four contain nine utility and/or decorative stitches each), press a few buttons to tell the machine what you want to write, and voila.

Even if you come back two days later, and press the "repeat" button, the machine will still write-sew "HAPPY BIRTHDAY MICHEL" without reprogramming.

Which means if the merchandise is intended for Michael, not Michel, you'd better get the spelling right to begin with. Says Baird Pittman, president of the Viking Sewing Machine Company of Minneapolis, "As they say, garbage in, garbage out. If you tell the machine to do the wrong thing, it will; but if what you program is correct, it will do the correct thing all the time."

It will also allow you to program it for "up to seven different stitches to create decorative designs, so you don't have to set each stitch sepaately and go back and forth between them," he says. It will do zigs and zags, scallop stitches, double overlocks, flatlocks and topstitches, feather stitches and serpentine; and it will do them on leather, terry cloth, suede, denim, canvas, sailcloth and cloth you can see through.

But outside of asterisks and dashes, it can't punctuate its own writing, and it only writes in upper case letters but, says Pittman, "I'm sure punctuation is on its way."

Why anyone needs a sewing machine that writes at all, he says is "to enable home sewers to customize and personally tailor their efforts. A lot of sewers are fascinated with monograms on ties, the linings of jackets, pocketbooks, etc., and they like to do labels saying, 'made by grandma' or 'whomever'."

"Also," he says, "there's a decided trend in this country towards sewing do-it-yourself items like down parkas and vests, and also towards home decoration — drapes, upholstery, wall hangings, those areas where the sewer can express herself creatively with decorative stitches." And what one creates, one usually signs.

Should the machine refuse to express itself at all, though, the owner can take it and its warranty of perhaps 10 years to her local Viking dealer — there are more than 1,000 nationally — and the dealer will play doctor.

"We have an electronic

Sew Away Ironing Chore

By Joanne Schreiber

If you are making a summer dress of Qiana or a similar synthetic knit, you'll be glad to know that you'll never need to press the garment — if you take care to press it correctly during construction. These fabrics are designed to resist wrinkling, so they need a higher pressing temperature. Set iron at a low wool setting with steam. Test-press a swatch. If fabric glazes, lower temperature. If crease isn't sharp, raise temperature.

First, steam-press a closed seam to blend stitches into the fabric. Then use steady pressure to press the seam open. Use press cloth when pressing on the right side. Let pressed garment cool on the ironing board before handling.

Tailored areas of garments made of knits will need to be stabilized. Use a sheer, lightweight press-on interfacing along cuffs, plackets and collars. This will make it much easier to work buttonholes and to do precision stitching.

If side seams tend to pucker, add weight with a button stitched to the hemline.

For snarl-free hand-stitching, thread your hand needle as you do your machine needle — straight from the spool. This insures that the thread will go into the needle as it comes from the spool, with the natural twist of the thread. When the needle is threaded in this way, there will be no tangling or knotting of the thread as you sew. Plackets and similar detail areas will be easier to handle if the knit is stabilized with a sheer, lightweight, iron-on interfacing. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

More than half of the people in the United States live around the edges of the country. Nine of the 10 largest metropolitan areas are coastal. By 1990 an estimated 75 percent of the population will live in the coastal regions — in counties that lie within 50 miles of the shore.

Peacock Gets Foul Taste Of Outside

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — One fowl taste of the outside world apparently was enough to persuade a resident of the Indianapolis Zoo that freedom wasn't everything.

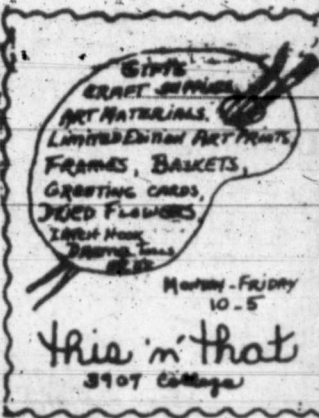

According to general curator Daniel Baffa, Jan, a 5-year-old pure white, Southeast Asian peacock, decided to take a closer look at the other side of the fence.

Soon after it landed next door in a park, a passerby saw a man get out of a car, throw a net, or blanket over the 8-pound bird, pitch it into the trunk and drive away.

Baffa received a call from a man who wanted to know how much he'd pay to have his bird back. The peacock is worth about $150, but Baffa refused to pay a ransom. The man gave in and released the bird at an agreed spot.

The bird was back in its pen two hours after the crime was reported.

Measured in miles, the distance between Palo Alto, Calif., and Boise, Idaho, is considerable.

But in terms of constitutional guarantees, as interpreted by the United States Supreme Court, there is none at all.

That has just been amply demonstrated in Boise where, in the wake of the Idaho State Penitentiary riot, law officers invaded television station KBCI-TV and seized videotapes of the uprising.

The tapes, shot by station personnel admitted into the prison by the inmates, were wanted by police for identification of the riot leaders. The station was willing to make available upon subpoena portions actually broadcast but not material never aired on grounds such as was equivalent to a reporter's private notes. The police, however, wanted and acted otherwise.

The incident is an ominous follow-up of the 1978 Supreme Court decision in Zurcher vs. Stanford Daily sanctioning police searches of news organization premises in cases where there is "reasonable belief" that material relevant to a criminal investigation is present. That case involved police search of the student newspaper for photos taken during campus disorders in which an officer was injured.

The five-to-three court decision upholding police action in Palo Alto was widely and sharply criticized as a violation of the First (protecting press freedom) and Fourth (restricting searches and seizures) Amendments to the Constitution. It was seen as a dangerous precedent, encouraging further encroachment on press freedoms and compromising the confidential relationship between journalists and their sources.

The Boise incident would appear to be a fulfillment of those prophecies and more. As John Hughes, former editor of the Christian Science Monitor and then president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, observed at the time, Zurcher vs. Stanford Daily opened the way to the granting of warrants "by a magistrate at midnight with no opportunity for a newspaper to present a countering point of view until the police search has taken place."

That was exactly the experience of station KBCI-TV, which learned of the impending search too late to present to a court its case for a restraining order. Further, journalists' fears of becoming unwilling tools of law-enforcement authorities have been specifically affirmed by the Idaho lawman behind the seizure.

In the view of the county prosecuting attorney, the station personnel upon entering the prison, "were not acting as news reporters, they were newsmakers. They were acting as agents for the inmates who requested their presence to communicate with the administration and at the same time probably acting as an agent for the administration."

A Boise-type incident has been anticipated by the press and in one respect may even be seen as welcome. The Stanford decision triggered a rush of legislation designed to strengthen press guarantees. Several states have enacted protective measures and the Carter administration is backing similar moves in Congress. Bills restricting police search authority are pending in both houses.

Boise could speed action. Some press quarters, however, are wary of a legislative cure, which they see in itself as a possible threat to the First Amendment by setting a precedent for laws specifying the rights of the press.

It would be preferable in this view to achieve redress through the courts. And that is not at all unlikely.

This Supreme Court has been having second thoughts about decisions that have brought it and the press into an adversary relationship. It recently, for all practical purposes, reversed itself on a much-criticized decision that had the effect of sanctioning closed trials.

It is quite possible that it would be interested in putting some distance between it and the Stanford decision, providing an appropriate case for second-thinking turns up.

Your Birthday

August 7, 1980

There will be a major shift in situations this coming year, which will enable you to control things that were formerly out of your reach. You'll know exactly what to do in order to make them successful.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your material prospects are encouraging today, but it's due more to the efforts of others than to your own. Step aside and let good things happen. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Although you're basically a practical person, it behooves you today to be a bit of a dreamer. Wishes and hope will inspire you to aim for lofty targets.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't retreat from challenge or competition today. The odds are in your favor, rather than against you. Do your best. Luck will do the rest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be optimistic where major hopes are concerned. Something you've been wishing for may soon become a reality. Don't let your faith waver for a second.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Greater benefits are likely today from joint ventures instead of from things you do on your own. Be a contributor, not a soloist.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Conditions are favorable today where contracts or agreements are concerned. Bargain fairly and your terms will be met.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Take special pride in your work today. A job well done could have additional hidden benefits not now apparent to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are two areas today where you are likely to be very lucky. Dealings with partners is one. Romance is the other. Try both.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things may develop in a manner today to give you an opportunity to complete something, the outcome of which was in doubt. It should work out OK.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Dealings today with influential contacts could prove exceptionally lucky for you. Favor will be granted if you make your needs known.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Give top priority to situations today that can enhance your security or increase your income. Your probabilities for success are very promising.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your enthusiasm is contagious today and you can easily interest others in things that interest you. Once your bandwagon is rolling, everybody will want to get on board.

expensive trappings

A lot of criticism has been leveled at the federal government in recent years about the cost of its construction projects, those sometimes elaborate and ornate testimonials to the taxpayer's generosity.

One flap has been going on for several years, about the new senate office building in Washington, which some have dubbed the Potomac Palace because of its 16-foot high ceilings, elaborate offices and country-club type facilities.

Some of these trappings simply are not needed and indeed are a waste of tax dollars.

For instance, the government now has gotten into the art business, commissioning huge, elaborate and expensive works which are used to decorate various government structures around the nation.

A recent issue of U.S. News and World Report gave us a look at some of these works of art - along with their cost.

One which has attracted a lot of attention is a 101-foot high structure in Chicago called the "Batcolumn." It looks like a wire mesh cage shaped like a baseball bat. It cost taxpayers $100,000.

In a federal office building in Atlanta, a creation adorning a wall looks a bit like a king-sized bed sheet which has been spattered with paint. That cost us $50,000.

In Baltimore is an aluminum sculpture which has been painted in bright colors. It is difficult to determine just what it is supposed to be. But whatever it is, it cost us $98,000.

In New Bedford, Mass., is a sculpture of wood and steel in front of an office building. It is named "Seaflower" and looks a bit like a piece of over-grown coral.

Then there is one up in Huron, S.D. which has a price tag of $25,600. It is called "Hoe-Down."

One person described that structure as four large steel plates propped up by telephone poles. Huron has 14,000 people, and 5,000 of them signed a petition demanding the removal of the structure and called for an end to such government waste.

But it's still there.

In all, there are 173 such sculptures, murals and other works of art commissioned for communities across the nation. And the total cost has run to about $6 million. That averages out to about $35,000 per unit. Granted, $6 million is not much in terms of government expenditures, but we can't wonder just how many more millions have been spent in such a manner.

"We should spend more time with the children," I told my husband the other day. "In a few years they'll be gone and we'll rattle around in this empty house, wishing we had taken the time to sit down and find out how they felt about things... their hopes... their ambitions... what are you smiling about?"

"I'm still back at the part on rattling around in the house. Do you know I shaved the other morning without steam on the mirror and nearly scared myself to death?"

"Children need the companionship of an adult," I continued. "That very special relationship in the formative years where you listen to one another, advise, assess, mold values, exchange ideas and points of view. We don't even know how they feel about life."

"Get on with it. What are you suggesting?" "You should take your son fishing and I'll have the weekend here alone with our daughter. That way it's a one-on-one situation where we really get into the meaningful stuff."

Last week, as I watched father and son load up all the gear into the four-wheel drive, a lump came into my throat. When they left the driveway, I called to my daughter, "Whatya want? I'm on the phone."

She was on the phone for more than five hours.

As she was showering, I felt to my knees and yelled under the door, "Do you want to talk about anything?"

"Yes," she yelled back. "Do you have a clean pair of pantyhose?" Later, as she tore out the front door, I tugged at her sleeve and asked, "You wanta tell my how you feel about life?"

"I'm for it," she said simply, pecking me on the cheek.

The next morning, she slept until noon and at lunch she wore a pair of headphones and a blank expression to the table. I was relieved when my husband and son pulled into the driveway. "How did you make out?" I asked. He smiled triumphantly. "If I do say so myself, it was one of my better performances. I talked about values in this life and how sometimes it was hard not to become tainted by what is going on in the world around us, but we are a family and if we stick together, there isn't anything we can't do. I talked about aims and goals in life and how you had to be patient and sometimes compromise and you know... all the brilliant things a kid will remember his father saying for the rest of his life."

"What did he say?" I asked excitedly.

"Nothing. He slept all the way up and back."

We are always scouting around for new sure-to-work diets, new foods, new exercises - any kind of trick to look a few pounds thinner, or even lose a few pounds.

Personally, I think we have all been advised adequately through numerous advertisements, news articles, magazine features and TV programs of diets proven to suit our desired weight loss by people in all walks of life from doctors to laymen.

Even with plans geared to personal specific needs there is one little factor that seems to be bigger than all of us, that most important reality that must come first and foremost - the desire, the want-to bad enough to withstand the temptations of satisfying the pain of hunger.

Before admitting defeat, there is one more finding, relatively new, that is deserving of a try.

Strange as it sounds, it has been said you can stop hunger sensations by pressing on a certain region of your ear. Acupressure is a proven technique that has been used by thousands of people to relieve hunger.

One of these two methods will work for you, according to the conclusions made by experts in the field. The first is to insert your index fingers gently into your ear orifices (openings) with your palms turned toward your face. Place your thumbs on the tragus, the little bump of cartilage at the front of the external ear (not the large lobes at the bottom of your ear.) Firmly massage the tragus between your thumbs and index fingers for at least one minute.

The second method is to place your index fingers in the small depressions immediately in front of your ears, just slightly higher than the tragus. Rub in a circular motion for at least one minute.

If you chance upon someone appearing to have a severe headache, they may only be trying to combat hunger pains, but do be sympathetic with them. The anguish suffered is somewhat to the same degree as a migraine.

We may get too old to do a lot of things, but we can remain patriotic till the end. Some Americans cherish their right to vote. One voter we recently read about was 121-year-old Christina Martinez, probably the country's oldest and most determined woman to exercise her voting privilege. Mrs. Martinez, the article said, had to be carried downstairs from her apartment and driven by car to the voting poll in Hartford, Conn., during her state's presidential primary.

"All Americans should vote," she told her friends. The woman was born in Feb. of 1859, when James

Buchanan was president and the Civil War was still two years off - a while before women had the right to vote.

Home Sewing Gets The Alphabet

By Ellie Grossman

NEW YORK (NEA) — "ROSES ARE RED VIOLETS ARE BLUE I MADE THIS TOTE BAG JUST FOR YOU"

Come the end of September, you'll be able to write like that on anything you sew, without doing the writing yourself.

For $1,200, the new computerized Viking 6690 sewing machine will do it for you.

All you'll have to do is insert the alphabet cassette (one of five: the other four contain nine utility and/or decorative stitches each), press a few buttons to tell the machine what you want to write, and voila.

Even if you come back two days later, and press the "repeat" button, the machine will still write-sew "HAPPY BIRTHDAY MICHEL" without reprogramming.

Which means if the merchandise is intended for Michael, not Michel, you'd better get the spelling right to begin with. Says Baird Pittman, president of the Viking Sewing Machine Company of Minneapolis, "As they say, garbage in, garbage out. If you tell the machine to do the wrong thing, it will; but if what you program is correct, it will do the correct thing all the time."

It will also allow you to program it for "up to seven different stitches to create decorative designs, so you don't have to set each stitch separately and go back and forth between them," he says. It will do zigs and zags, scallop stitches, double overlocks, flatlocks and topstitches, feather stitches and serpentine; and it will do them on leather, terry cloth, suede, denim, canvas, sailcloth and cloth you can see through.

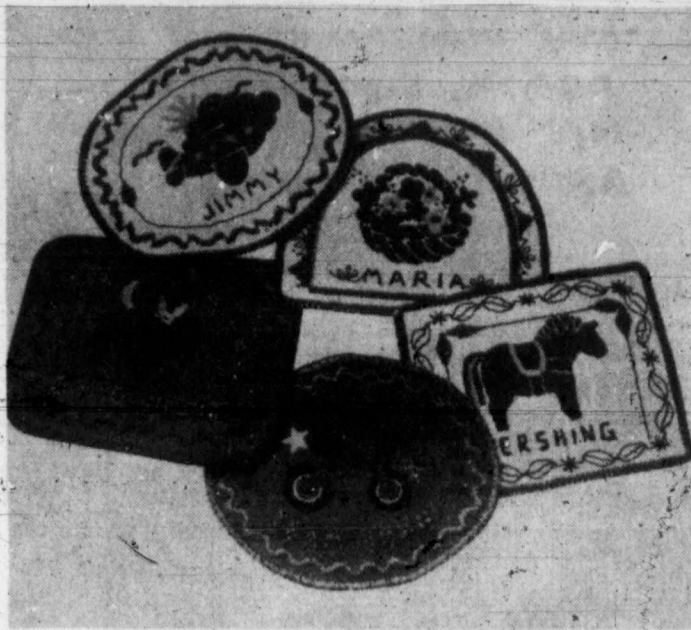

But outside of asterisks and dashes, it can't punctuate its own writing, and it only writes in upper case letters but, says Pittman, "I'm sure punctuation is on its way."

Why anyone needs a sewing machine that writes at all, he says is "to enable home sewers to customize and personally tailor their efforts. A lot of sewers are fascinated with monograms on ties, the linings of jackets, pocketbooks, etc., and they like to do labels saying, 'made by grandma' or 'whomever'."

"Also," he says, "there's a decided trend in this country towards sewing do-it-yourself items like down parkas and vests, and also towards home decoration — drapes, upholstery, wall hangings, those areas where the sewer can express herself creatively with decorative stitches." And what one creates, one usually signs.

Should the machine refuse to express itself at all, though, the owner can take it and its warranty of perhaps 10 years to her local Viking dealer — there are more than 1,000 nationally — and the dealer will play doctor.

"We have an electronic

THE HOME sewer can give projects the personal touch with the Viking 6690. With a special letter stitch, the machine is computer programmed to write words and/or personal stitch patterns. Peacock Gets Foul Taste Of Outside

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - One fowl taste of the outside world apparently was enough to persuade a resident of the Indianapolis Zoo that freedom wasn't everything.

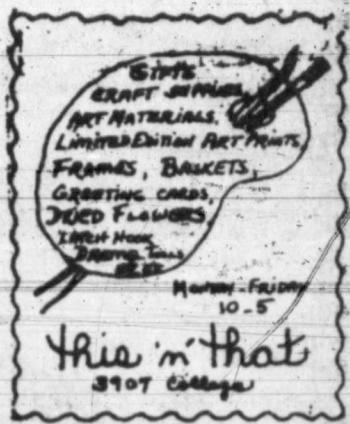

According to general curator Daniel Baffa, Jan, a 5-year-old pure white, Southeast Asian peacock, decided to take a closer look at the other side of the fence.

Soon after it landed next door in a park, a passerby saw a man get out of a car, throw a net or blanket over the 8-pound bird, pitch it into the trunk and drive away.

Baffa received a call from a man who wanted to know how much he'd pay to have his bird back. The peacock is worth about $150, but Baffa refused to pay a ransom. The man gave in and released the bird at an agreed spot.

The bird was back in its pen two hours after the crime was reported.

BLONDIE

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My wife is 58 years old and has some arthritis in her fingers. Lately I have noticed a slight hunch starting in her back. My question is, are there any corrective measures, like exercise, that can be used to control this? Three years ago she was burned and had to have skin grafting over her back from the shoulders to the waist.

DEAR READER — Considering your wife's age group, you're probably describing the beginning of a dowager's hump, also called a buffalo hump. This is caused by loss of bone tissue in the spine and it is technically called osteoporosis. It's a fairly common disorder, particularly in women after the menopause and especially so if they have a relatively small skeletal size to begin with.

I believe you should make certain that she is examined for osteoporosis by a physician. Discuss with him what the best approach would be for her.

There are medicines which can be used to help arrest this process. It's important to stop it if you can because the bone degeneration can continue to the point that it causes a major deformity of the chest. That can, in turn, decrease a person's ability for maximum breathing function.

The bone loss affects much more than just the spine. It also affects the bone around the roots of the teeth. The teeth get loose and this sets the stage for infections around the teeth and major dental problems.

Also the bone loss from the legs and elsewhere makes it easy for the bones to fracture. They are "brittle bones." This is the real reason for the enor-

SEATTLE (AP) - Gene Masanori Fujita played hooky from work 35 years ago today, escaping his job stacking rice by hiding in a makeshift bomb shelter in Hiroshima. It was an incredible stroke of luck. That day, Aug. 6, 1945, a U.S. B-29 dropped an atomic bomb on Hiroshima. The bomb exploded above the Japanese city with a force equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT, pulverizing everything within a 2-mile radius. About 100,000 people died that day, and the deaths doubled within a year from radioactivity.

"There is no way in the world to really explain that sight to anyone who did not experience it," said Fujita, an American whose family had returned to Japan on business six months before World War II began.

"All I can hope is that on Aug. 6, people will remember that man can make hell on this earth quite readily."

Fujita, then 17, was attending high school in Hiroshima and had been mobilized to stack rice in a warehouse when he decided to play hooky.

The teen-ager was uninjured in the blast but emerged from the shelter into a nightmare he still hesitates to talk about. For days afterward, he worked as a medic and searched the incinerated remains of the city for his father, who had been at "ground zero," he said.

Two days after the blast, he discovered his father's motorcycle in the center of the city.

"There were charred bones nearby. We just picked them up and buried them assuming some of them could have been his. There was no way to tell."

ABC Walks Away With First Place

LOS ANGELES (AP) - ABC placed just three shows in the top 10 television programs for the week ending Aug. 3, but still walked away with first place in the A.C. Nielsen ratings.

Some reruns helped the network score strongly in the mid-range of the rankings to finish with an average rating of 14.1.

The network that has dominated the summer ratings, CBS, had 13.4 and NBC had 12.2 after a first-place finish a week earlier. The Nielsen rating measures the number of TV-equipped households in the country tuned into at least part of a particular show.

CBS captured the first two places in the listings with "The Jeffersons" and "Trapper John, M.D." while ABC's top-ranked show, "Three's Company," was in fifth place. CBS, "60 Minutes," which has been a regular fixture in the top 10, sank to 12th place and was topped by such ABC shows, in addition to "Three's Company," as "Taxi," "Fantasy Island" and "Hart to Hart."

Almost half of the shows in the top half of the ratings were ABC reruns.

It was not a good week for original programming. ABC's "20-20" newsmagazine nipped at the heels of the "60 Minutes" rerun with a 13th place ranking, but the next highest new show was ABC's "Nobody's Perfect," in 33rd place. Other new shows fell in the bottom half of the list, including four of the last five.

Here are last week's top 10 shows and their ratings:

More Readable Policies Approved

AUSTIN (AP) - It should be easier to read and understand your automobile insurance policy, the State

Insurance Board decided Tuesday.

By a 3-0 vote, the regulatory agency decreed that beginning June 1, 1981, a new insurance policy form will be used by all companies selling auto insurance in Texas.

"This will give Texas automobile owners a better organized and easier to read auto insurance policy," said William P. Daves, board chairman. The new policy form replaces one that has been used since 1957. The document has been trimmed from 9,590 words to 6,251 words. The new form must be printed in at least nine-point type, which is larger than most of the type used in a newspaper story or a news magazine. Many insurance policies now are in six-point type, about the size of want ads. "The proposed policy is shorter, simpler, uses non-technical language, has sections more logically arranged and simplifies some coverages," said a board spokesman.

The new policy will stop calling accidents "occurrences" and just call them "accidents." It will say "you" when it means the policyholder and "we" when it means the insurance company.

A committee consisting of insurance men and board staffers recommended the new policy and started work in 1977, but its project "has been sitting on the shelf" for almost two years, in the words of one agent.

The new policy is modeled after one that is used in more than 30 other states.

Some changes in coverage are included, but actuarial for both the companies and the insurance board say they will not affect the overall price of coverage.

The new form is expected to result in greater use of "combined single limits" liability coverage because this is offered in the body of the policy along with the "split limits" coverage commonly purchased now.

Policyholders will have a choice but would have to pay a little more for combined limits.

Virtually all drivers now buy split limits liability, customarily $5,000 for property damage and $10,000 per person for injuries or deaths, up to $20,000 per accident.

Combined limits liability would provide the same $35,000 total coverage but without restriction as to how the money is divided. If one person were injured and his car totaled, for example, the policy might pay $25,000 worth of hospital bills and replace his $10,000 car.

The new policy will guarantee Texans their liability insurance would meet the requirements of any state where they have an accident, even if the limits are higher than those of Texas.

One thing the new policy will not cover - even for an extra premium - is so-called "fuzz-busters" that detect police radar units.

"We think it is against public policy to insure these devices whose only use is to avoid apprehension for speeding," said Richard Geiger of the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office.

Tom Baker of Houston, president of the Independent Insurance Agents of Texas, praised the new policy.

Ford Reaches Out-Of-Court Settlement

MISHAWAKA, Ind. (AP) - The families of three teen-agers whose deaths in a fiery Pinto car crash prompted an unprecedented criminal trial will receive $22,500 in an out-of-court settlement with Ford Motor Co., a spokesman for the automaker says.

Earlier this year, Ford was acquitted of charges of reckless homicide stemming from the 1978 accident. It was the first criminal prosecution of a manufacturer for alleged product defects.

No civil suit had been filed against the No. 2 automaker, according to the families' lawyer, Robert Beutter. Indiana's wrongful death law stipulates that families of victims can collect only damages to cover hospital, funeral and attorney's costs.

Ford spokesman Charles Gumushian said Tuesday the settlement was reached with the families Monday and amounted to $22,500, or $7,500 for each young woman.

"Terrible Secret" Best Left Untold

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister, who lives 1500 miles away, blurted out in a telephone conversation that after I had left home (some 20 years ago) our father had raped her! Abby, she knew I worshipped our father, and he adored me. I was his favorite. He has been dead for six years.

At first I felt sorry for my sister who has had to live with this terrible secret all these years. (Our mother still doesn't know.) Then I began to feel anger and resentment toward her for having told me. She made asides of all my loving memories of my father. Now I'm asking myself, why did she suddenly decide to tell me? What good purpose did her telling serve?

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Assuming that what your sister told you is true, the only possible good achieved by telling you was the relief she felt in getting it off her chest. She surely must have known that it would destroy all your loving memories of your father, so don't discount the possibility that she may still be suffering from sibling rivalry, and this is her way of getting even with you and your father. However, since your father is unable to defend himself, don't rule out the possibility that perhaps it never happened.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday my daughter asked me a question she's asked often: "Where's my daddy?" That's not easy to answer. I felt like saying, "He's probably in jail. Or dead from an overdose."

My daughter is 2½ years old, and she's seen her father a total of five times - three of which have been support hearings.

What do you tell a child when her father makes no move to see her or accept any responsibility for her?

How do you tell a child that her father uses drugs? And has been under the care of a psychiatrist, who told her mother if she stayed around much longer she'd probably end up dead from one of his beatings?

I realize that a 2½-year-old child is much too young to understand these things, but in the meantime, what do I say?

NORTH BEND, OHIO

DEAR NORTH BEND: You say, "Daddy is sick, and with God's help, I hope he gets well enough to be a good daddy to you." Period.

DEAR ABBY: Can you take one more letter about being "the other woman" in a married man's life?

We worked for a large company. I was 20, he was 29 when we became involved. It was to last 10 years. I told myself all the usual things - "He never promised me anything, we weren't hurting anyone, he really doesn't love his wife, he can't divorce her, blah, blah..."

He was smart, highly respected and went up the ladder in the company. He kept telling me I gave him incentive and peace of mind to make it possible. Then he got a big promotion that meant moving 2,000 miles away. Did he turn it down? Of course not!

A big testimonial farewell dinner was given in his honor. Naturally his wife was there. After hearing all the compliments and congratulations, he gave his speech. He told us all how much he owed to his wonderful wife. He took her hand and asked her to rise and share the honors. They looked adoringly at each other, then he took her in his arms and gave her a long and obviously affectionate kiss. Their children applauded.

Later on he said something to me about grabbing a plane every now and then to meet him somewhere. But it was all over. You see, I had never seen him with his wife, and it was my fantasy that they hardly spoke, let alone touched. He used to tell me that what we had was beautiful. It wasn't. All that sneaking around was cheap, tawdry and dishonest. Please print this. I want to carry it in my wallet.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

HEARING TESTS SET FOR SNYDER

Electronic hearing tests will be given on Thursday and Friday, August 7th and 8th from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Pal-o-Mar Motel. Plan now to take advantage of this event!

A Hearing Aid Specialist from the factory will be here for this special only. The Hearing Aid Specialist from JU-EAR Electronics has many years experience helping those who hear but don't always understand.

He has personally helped thousands of hearing impaired patients who suffer with nerve deafness, through the use of Prosthetic Hearing Instrumentation. Come in early and discuss your hearing problem with the hearing aid specialist.

If you have a friend or loved one who is especially difficult for you to hear and understand, please bring them along if you can.

Be sure to ask about NU-EAR "Gen" All-in-the-Ear Hearing Aid with ANS.

This tiny modern day miracle has a built-in analog circuit which automatically reduced background noises which helps you hear and understand conversation better in a crowd. Don't miss this opportunity to find out if the NU-EAR Gen is the answer you have been looking for.

The NU-EAR Gen hearing instrument is a medical device custom built to conform with the quality standards of the Federal Food and Drug Administration. FREE TUN-UP ON YOUR PRESENT HEARING AID...

You will receive the following services on your present hearing aid (regardless of make):
● Clean volume control ● Check all contacts
● Replace tubing, if needed ● Adjust aid, if needed ● Clean earmold

In Semi-Finals At 5 p.m. Today....

Oilers Battle Port Lavaca

SWEETWATER - Snyder's Oilers, District II champions, take on District V title-holder Port Lavaca in a battle of the unbeaten as Junior Teenage League State Tournament baseball action resumes at 5 p.m. here today.

Snyder cranked up wins of 12-2 over Cameron (Monday) and 7-0 over Hillsboro (Tuesday) to advance to today's semi-final round. Port Lavaca stopped Kermit, 9-2, then edged host Sweetwater last evening, 7-4, to make its entry.

Palestine, Brady, Cameron and Kermit were all eliminated yesterday. Results saw Cameron defeat Palestipe, 6-4; Kermit knock out Brady, 20-16; Sweetwater stop Cameron, 7-5; and Hillsboro defeat Kermit 8-7 in a contest which lasted until almost 3 o'clock this morning.

Those results leave today's set schedule at Snyder versus Port Lavaca at 5, and Sweetwater against Hillsboro at 7.

At 9 o'clock - actually expected to get underway at 9:45 or later - the Snyder-Port Lavaca loser will meet the Sweetwater-Hillsboro victor.

Winner of the Snyder-Port Lavaca tilt will advance to the finals of this double-elimination tournament at 7 p.m. Thursday. Should that team lose at 7, a second game will follow at 9.

Snyder has built its 6-0 playoff record (district and state tournaments combined) by superior pitching, steady defense and the ability to take advantage of its opponent's mistakes.

The Oilers, under the direction of manager Charly Freeman and coaches Gerald Hicks and Mitch Mackey, have made few errors throughout tournament play - and even more important, have kept the opposition from capitalizing on what mistakes have been made.

Today's 5 and 7 p.m. games are expected to be two of the best played at the tournament.

Volleyball Workouts Scheduled To Begin

Snyder High School varsity and junior varsity volleyball workouts will begin 8 a.m. Aug. 11, reports Coach Joyce Elrod.

Both groups are to report in the morning with the junior varsity returning at 2 p.m. and the varsity at 4 p.m. Freshman workouts will begin Aug. 25 from 7-9 p.m., the coach added. Freshmen will probably workout in the mornings after the 25th.

All girls who plan to participate in volleyball - or any other school sponsored sport at any time during the 1980-81 school year - are requested to take physicals Thursday evening at the high school Field House.

Senior girls are to take physicals at 7:30, followed by juniors at 8, sophomores at 8:30 p.m. and freshmen at 9. No girl will be allowed to participate in sports or workouts without having had a physical.

Reeves Tries Turn As 'Poke Play Caller

THOUSAND OAKS, Ca. (AP) - There will be an abundance of new faces when the Dallas Cowboys take the field Saturday in their first pre-season game of 1980 - including a new play-caller.

Coach Tom Landry called the team's offensive plays throughout the 1970s but this season, while he fine-tunes his defensive platoon, he has temporarily turned that chore over to offensive coordinator Dan Reeves.

The assistant coach is no newcomer to play-calling and quarterbacking duties. A halfback when he played with the Cowboys, Reeves was a quarterback in college at South Carolina.

He recalls one play his college coach sent in that may have put Reeves in the football history books. The Gamecocks were backed up to their own 1-yard line, and Reeves was instructed to call a sprint-out pass.

The receiver made the catch, but was still in the end zone and was dropped in his tracks for a safety. "I never heard of another one like that," Reeves said with a wry grin. "I mean, anybody can give the other team seven points with an interception. It requires delicate skill, timing and other intangibles to complete a pass and hold the other side to two points."

Rivers Leads Rangers Over NY Yankees, 8-1

NEW YORK (AP) - Mickey Rivers hit the second pitch thrown by New York Yankee left-hander Tommy John for a home run to right field. The second time up he sliced an RBI-double to left.

It was that kind of night for John, 15-5, as the Texas Rangers slammed out 16 hits and whipped the Yankees, 8-1.

"We didn't want to embarrass John," said Yankee pitching Coach Stan Williams. "He has done a super job for us this year. But we felt we needed his work so that we can pitch against Baltimore this weekend. His sinker was six inches higher than usual."

Rivers, the former Yankee leadoff man who was traded to Texas on July 30, 1979, observed, "John was trying to mix up his pitches, especially his sinker. But he curved me on the double and I hit it to left field. The home run was a fastball up."

The beneficiary of the Texas outpouring of hits and runs was 36-year-old right-hander Ferguson Jenkins, 10-9, who went 8-2-3 innings before giving way to Danny Darwin.

"His elbow tightened up," said Pat Corrales, the Rangers manager. "And he was getting his pitches up, so I took him out."

Jenkins, who now has 257 major league wins, said, "Since the All-Star game, I have had the problem of feeling great in the bullpen while warming up, then sometimes - only getting one guy out while they got eight runs off me."

The loss, coupled with a Baltimore win over the Chicago White Sox, cut the New York lead in the American League East to six games over the Orioles. Texas, in third place, is 14½ games behind first-place Kansas City.

Boy's Club News

BOYS' CLUB NEWS
Basketball has been the dominating factor at the club this week. You can see from the scores that defense was not stressed much. There was a twenty point spread in the first game of the week and as the week progressed the defense digresses. - Bill Boles

Basketball
July 30 - Sammy Barrera and team defeated the Ray McDonald team 54-34. Lucio Ramirez scored 20 points for the winners and Clay Davis scored 10 in a losing effort.

July 31 - The Roy Silva team defeated the Jerry Garza team 119-101. Eddie Ramos led the Silva team with 34 points followed by 40 points scored by Lucio Ramirez for the losers.

Aug. 2 - David R. Rios and his team scored 88 points in defeating Jerry Garza and his bunch, who could only muster 42. Lucio Ramirez scored 23 points for the winners and Eddie Ramos scored 18 for the losers. Defense will be stressed more in the future.

Athletes Take First Physicals

Some 132 young men went through the procedure of taking physicals last evening as Snyder High School begins preparations for the 1980-81 athletic season.

Tiger trainer Rick Howard expects the final count to tally nearer 150 by the first of school.

Of the 132, 95 have signed up for football tryouts. Many, of course, expect to play one or more sport during the school year.

According to Howard, approximately 20 freshmen, 35 junior varsity and 40 varsity athletes have chosen to play football, which he said was "about par."

Football workouts begin Aug. 11 for varsity and junior varsity athletes. Golf, tennis, track, baseball and basketball workouts all begin later in the school year.

High school girls are scheduled to take physicals Thursday at the Field House, at 7:30 p.m.

LAFF - A - DAY

"Oh, no, you didn't catch me at a bad time. I was just sitting around taking some letters."

The Roman epicure Apicius is said to have sprayed his garden lettuce with mead - a honey wine - the evening before he intended to pick and eat it.

Case Of Disappearing Judge Still Unsolved

NEW YORK (AP)—Joseph Force Crater was declared dead in 1939. Police File 13595 was closed last year. But for five decades the question has remained—where did the state Supreme Court justice go?

Fifty years ago today, Crater left dinner with a lovely chorus girl and a friend, stepped into a cab and vanished to become one of the most famous missing persons cases in the nation's history.

During their 49-year investigation, police got 16,000 tips on the judge's whereabouts. Calls led them to all 50 states, Canada, Mexico, South America and Europe. He was "spotted" as a prospector in California, a steamship passenger in the Adriatic sea, a bingo game operator in Africa and a member of the French Foreign Legion.

A grand jury, after hearing 95 witnesses, concluded in 1930:

"The evidence is insufficient to warrant any expression of opinion as to whether Crater is alive or dead, as to whether he has absented himself voluntarily, or is a sufferer from disease in the nature of amnesia, or is the victim of a crime."

Emil K. Ellis, an attorney for the judge's wife, Stella, vainly sought to obtain $50,000 double indemnity for her on Crater's life insurance policies by seeking to have him declared a murder victim.

Mrs. Crater, whom the judge married after obtaining for her a divorce from her first husband in 1917, charged in 1937 that her husband could have been the victim of a political murder that police wouldn't touch.

Three days before his disappearance, Crater was vacationing with his wife in Belgrade Lakes, Maine. He got a telephone call from New York City and told his wife: "I've got to straighten these fellows out."

seat at the Broadway show "Dancing Partners." Witnesses said he never showed up, but the ticket was used.

Mrs. Crater waited 10 days before reporting the disappearance, and the famous search for her husband began.

The theories multiplied among a dearth of clues. Crater owed his judgeship to corrupt Tammany Hall politicians and his disappearance came shortly before the launching of a district attorney's inquiry into the reported sale of judgeships by Tammany.

Another unconfirmed theory came in 1956 from a former inmate of Sing Sing who said Crater was paid $5,000 through a "politically connected middleman" to guarantee an innocent verdict for an accused forger. The forger was convicted and his friends supposedly hustled Crater off to Philadelphia, shot him, soaked him in acid, and dumped the body in the Passaic River, according to that account.

When a box buried in 1902 was uncovered at the White House, it was found to contain newspapers, seven Indian Head pennies, and a label from a bottle of Maryland rye whiskey.

DISCUSSING MDE PROGRAM - Kathy Hunter, Snyder High School senior, discusses the marketing and distributive education program with Jim Rosson, MDE coordinator. Ms. Hunter is employed at Bennett's Office Supply this summer and will continue as student-trainee afternoons during the school year. Students interested in this class or in Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) are encouraged to call 573-6301 and talk with Rosson or Wallace Combest, ICT instructor before school begins. Acceptance in the program is based on attitudes, grades and attendance. Several training positions are available for junior and senior students, according to Rosson.

MDE Coordinator Attends Workshop

Jim Rosson, Snyder High School marketing and distributive education coordinator, was among 700 MDE coordinators attending a four-day in-service summer workshop at the North Park Convention Center in Dallas.

They were introduced to a new Curriculum Guide for Marketing and Distributive Education to replace the existing one. Another highlight was a "confession session" in which leading business executives discussed their employment needs in the fields of finance, credit, good marketing, mass merchandising, apparel and accessories and industrial selling.
