Newton To Speak For Lions Club

L. E. Newton will be guest speaker for next Tuesday's Lions luncheon meeting. Mr. Newton, manager of Rotan Cotton Oil Mill has been with the business for 46 years, has been active in civic and church affairs during this time. He is well abreast with the improvement of this area and will bring a message well worth hearing.

This week Dick Berger of College of Business Administration University of Texas was guest speaker, and proved very interesting.

All Lions and visitors are urged to meet at noon Tuesday at Clark's Corral and hear Mr. Newton's talk.

Cotton Poison Meetings Held

Cotton producers from the Roscoe, Lorraine, Roby and Rotan areas interested in spraying for boll weevils, fleahoppers and boll worms met with Terry Julian, executive vice president of the Rolling Plains Cotton Growers Inc., Saturday and formed an organization to spray infested cotton fields at the cost of $1. per acre.

The insecticide to be used is malathion, "one of the safest chemicals known today," Julian said. "This insecticide controls so effective the boll weevil, yet cost per acre is very nominal."

Foy Mitchell, manager of Fisher County Co-op Gin in Roby will be coordinator of the Fisher County Spraying program.

Entomologist and area insect specialists are urging farmers to check their fields closely after each application to watch for any boll worm outbreak that may occur, resulting from killing the beneficial insects in the field.

Local meetings were held Tuesday night at Roby and in Rotan Wednesday night.

"If weevils are left unchecked now," Julian said, "an entire cotton crop may be seriously reduced because of punctures, larvae, and adults that emerge to lay more eggs of destruction."

Twister Does Damage At O. R. Clark Farm

Violent thunder showers brought light rain to the immediate Rotan area late Tuesday afternoon. The fall was much heavier to the south and southeast. Hard straight winds during the squall did no reported damage in Rotan.

REA lost several poles in the Hobbs area and West Texas Utilities Co. had some line damage in Rotan.

The O. R. Clark farm in North Roby area suffered considerable damage from a twister during the storm. The large hay barn was demolished, which contained about 2,000 bales of hay. The house and outbuildings also suffered considerable damage. A windmill tower was blown over and a large piece of timber was driven into a tank dam some four or five feet. The twister also did considerable damage to farm and ranch property west of Roby.

Rainfall in Rotan ranged from .25 to .16 inch.

DPS To Hold Motorcade Over Holidays

"Operation Motorcade will be conducted as a special emphasis program to combat carelessness and willful traffic law violations during the Labor Day Weekend from 12:01 A. M., September 4th, through 11:59 P. M., September 6th. The DPS will use every means at its disposal to reduce traffic accidents," said Major E. Gossett, Commander of the 49 county Midland Region of the Department of Public Safety.

"The traffic violations that will contribute to the majority of the 35 traffic deaths over the Labor Day weekend will be what our patrolmen will be watchful for. All uniformed enforcement personnel will be assigned traffic duties during this 3 day holiday in an effort to keep this estimate from becoming a reality. Many public service organizations will participate in an effort to reduce death and injury during this period," Gossett stated.

If you are planning a holiday trip, may we remind you the most common violations that contribute to traffic accidents are; failure to yield right of way, exceeding a safe speed, failure to stop or turn in time, driving while intoxicated, and driving on the wrong side of the road. May we urge you to be careful, alert defensive driver and not become involved in an accident. A defensive driver does not commit these violations, neither does he become involved in an accident when other drivers commit them," Gossett reminded.

Car Inspection For 1966 Opened Sept. 1

Austin -- "There is a touch of Texas tourism in the 1966 Texas vehicle inspection sticker," said Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, as he announced the new vehicle inspection period to begin on September 1, 1965.

"On that date, all official inspection stations will begin issuing the colorful new sticker, a part of which is a replica of the flag of the Lone Star State," he continued.

In making this announcement, Garrison urged motorists to secure new stickers as soon as possible even though they are not required by law until April 16, 1966.

Garrison noted that this new inspection period marks the beginning of the 16th year of compulsory vehicle inspection in Texas and that during that time, vehicle defects as factors in motor vehicle traffic accidents have decreased continually.

During 1965, the reduction brought this rate to an all-time low, which compares most favorably with the lowest rates in the nation.

Rotan Motor To Sponsor PP&K Again

The National Football League and the Ford dealers of America today announced the fifth annual Punt, Pass and Kick competition for the nation's 8-through-13-year-old football fans.

Ray Brown, owner of Rotan Motor Co., announces his firm will again participate in the PP&K program.

"PP&K" puts the youths punting, passing and place-kicking skills against those of other participants of the same age. Since its inception in 1961, the program has attracted more than 1,700,000 entries, including a record 601,000 last year.

Registration for this year's competition will be held at Ford dealerships, or at locations designated by them, September 1 through October 8.

Competition in the Dallas area will be prefaced, in late September, by a football clinic conducted for PP&K entrants by members of the Dallas Cowboys football team. Actual PP&K local and district competition in Dallas County will take place at City parks. Elsewhere in the Southwestern region, competition will be held at school athletic fields, parks or other areas designated by Ford dealers.

Winners of these preliminary PP&K contests will advance to area competition to occur during half-time ceremonies at NFL games. Winners from the Dallas, Houston, New Orleans and Oklahoma City districts will compete during half-time at Dallas Cowboys games and Memphis-district winners will perform at St. Louis Cardinal football games.

Area winners will vie for Eastern Division honors December 11 at Dallas' Cotton Bowl during half-time of the Dallas Cowboys - St. Louis Cardinals game. Similarly, Western NFL-area Champions will compete in Los Angeles December 18 to decide the six Western Division NFL champions.

The 12 finalists -- one each in the 8-13 age groups from both the Eastern and Western Division team areas -- will go to Miami for the final PP&K competition at half-time of the NFL Playoff Bowl Game in the Orange Bowl on January 9, 1966. The all-expense "Tour of Champions" for the youths and their parents will begin with a visit to Washington, D. C., on January 7. The Washington visit will be highlighted by a special tour of the White House.

Following the half-time showdown in Miami, the six national age-group winners will be crowned by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. One of the national PP&K champions last year was 9-year-old Mark B. Woodward of Huntsville, Tex.

Levels of Competition

The five levels of competition begin with local programs during the October 9-17 period. Local winners will be determined in local, dealer-sponsored competitions. The top six scorers in each Ford sales zone will be invited to represent their zones in a Ford district competition.

After competitions in the 37 Ford districts, the top six youths in each age group (a total of 222 boys) will qualify for the area competitions in each NFL-area city. From there, area winners will enter divisional and national championships.

The six National champions will be determined in competition between champions of Eastern & Western Divisions at half-time of the Playoff Bowl Game in the Orange Bowl at Miami January 9, 1966.

Awards:

Awards to winners at the various levels of competition will be:

Local (for 8, 9 and 10 year olds): 1st, NFL warmup jacket; 2nd football helmet; 3rd, PP&K football.

(Boys 11, 12 and 13 will receive plaques).

District (in each age group): Plaques.

Area (in each age group): Trophies.

Division (in each age group): Division (in each age group):

Fisher Co Now Under Regulatory Program Of Wildlife Commission

Hunters, fishermen, landowners and other citizens of the Fisher County have been assured an opportunity to participate in a modern, scientific program of fish and wildlife management by recent Acts of the 59th Legislature.

The 59th Legislature included Fisher County in the Regulatory Responsibility Program of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, the laws becoming effective on August 30, 1965. This legislation has received Governor Connally's approval.

The new laws specifically charge the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission with the responsibility of conducting scientific research on game and fish problems, setting of open seasons, bag limits, and methods of taking wildlife resources in the county or counties involved.

A principal objective of the regulatory responsibility program incorporates adaptability and flexibility to meet emergencies such as drought, flood, fire or other causes which may endanger one or more species of wildlife by waste or depletion. The Commission can act in the interest of ranchmen, landowners and hunting and fishing public to conserve the threatened wildlife species without waiting for normal legislative procedure.

The Commission can act also to provide a more lenient cropping of the wildlife resources when research findings indicate an increased harvest is justified and in the interest of proper management.

Residents of Fisher County will be informed of the findings from research conducted by game and fish technicians, game wardens and other resource specialists of the Commission. Before the Parks and Wildlife Commission issues the required proclamations containing open seasons, bag limits, and other rules and regulations for harvesting the county's wildlife resources, announced public hearings will be held. These hearings will be advertised at least ten days prior to the hearing date.

At the public hearing, the proposed regulations will be read and explained to those present by Parks and Wildlife Department personnel. Pertinent questions the public may have will be answered. The full proceedings will be recorded and presented to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission when that body meets to prepare regulations for taking game and fish in the affected county.

Although the statutes grant the Commission and Department at least 90 days after the acts become effective in which to "... conclude its investigations, hold its hearings, and promulgate its proclamations, rules, regulations and orders," Fisher County citizens can be assured that Department technicians are already at work on the program for their area. It is planned that investigations and public local hearings will be completed and proclamations issued within sufficient time to have them in effect for the 1965 hunting season.

The benefits of participation in the regulatory responsibility program, in addition to the assurance that scientific research is set as the basis for management, are many. Under the program, the numbers of the various species can be adjusted to the carrying capacity of the range, thereby contributing to the health and well-being of the individual animals and insuring against range damage or destruction.

Mrs. Minnie Nolan is spending the week in Houston with her son-in-law and family. He is in a hospital there.

"Tour of Champions" with parents to Washington, D. C., and to Miami, Fla., for national competition.

National (in each age group): PP&K Champion or runner-up trophies.

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D.
Commissioner of Health

Here's another disease you can add to your knowledge. It's tularemia, sometimes called "rabbit fever."

Tularemia is one disease people contract from animals. Rarely, if ever, is tularemia carried from one person to another. It is most commonly acquired by handling the carcass or eating the undercooked flesh of infected animals. Bites of sick animals or of insects which have bitten animals also spread the disease.

People have been infected by drinking water from streams inhabited by diseased animals such as beavers and muskrats.

The most common animal victims of the disease are rabbits. However, a variety of other animals - including dogs, cats and squirrels - sometimes become infected. Insects and birds are also known to contract the infection.

Tularemia is caused by the germ Pasteurella tularensis. It needs no wound for entry into the body but is able to go through apparently healthy skin. Infection can result from rubbing the eyes with contaminated fingers.

The disease does occur in Texas, where wildlife is plentiful. About 16 cases were recorded during 1964.

Every year or so, the record shows a death due to tularemia.

You can reduce your chances of contracting tularemia by following a few simple precautions.

When you are out of doors - hunting, working or hiking - wear clothing with long sleeves and trousers and tight fitting cuffs to avoid as many tick and insect bites as possible.

If an animal, especially a rabbit, appears sluggish and is easily caught by dogs, it is probably sick. Handle it cautiously and destroy it by burning or burying.

When dressing wild game, yellowish spots on the liver or spleen are a sign of danger. Bury or burn the animal immediately if these are present, and wash your hands thoroughly with soap and water and an antiseptic.

Wear rubber gloves when cleaning and dressing any game. Avoid rubbing your eyes and soiled fingers. Cook wild game thoroughly.

Every few years someone dies from tularemia. Take care not to let that someone be you.

'As It Looks From Here'

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

Washington, D. C. -- When certain political, educational and religious leaders say to people that the conditions in which they live will cause riots, they are encouraged to do exactly that. When these people in the forefront of public life tell people they can disobey any law they do not like, and are coached to believe that lawbreaking is right and moral, then civilized society breaks down and jungle law takes over as it did in Los Angeles.

America can no longer be the "land of the free" until law and order is respected and the crime gap closed.

This nation was made great by a dedication to the majesty of law, a regard for the canisity of the individual, a respect for the rights of property and fear of God. These principles brought orderliness and self discipline into our society and a spirit of honesty, rugged individualism and self-improvement to our people. They engendered hard work, frugality and patriotism. In short, they created a land in which responsibility was co-equal with rights.

Moves are under way to meet conditions alleged to be the cause of the breakdown of law and order, but it will take more than the appointment of a commission and the handout of money. It will take more than the clean-up of slums, although, true enough they are the breeding ground of crime. There have always been slums and poverty, but nothing comparable to the crime rampant in our Country. Records show that the well-to-do and the middle-well-to-do are contributing to these conditions also. The overturning of an automobile on a public street, with a man and his family inside, was not done by slum rioters, but a group of black-jacketed $1600-motorcycle riders.

At this time I am introducing a Constitutional Amendment as follows:

"Section 1. The right of society in general and of each individual person in particular, to be protected from crimes against person and property, shall be paramount to other rights.

"Section 2. This article shall not be construed to limit the action and authority of any duly constituted law enforcement authority, including any person carrying out a citizen arrest.

"Section 3. The Congress and the Legislature of the several States shall have the power to enforce this Article by appropriate legislation."

This proposal will not stop crime, but it will bolster the power of law enforcement officials and the Courts to deal with criminals.

It is time to move on a broad, determined front to clean up this Country, restore law and order and make it a safe place to live. It is high time to cease forever subordinating the rights of the law abiding citizen to the unlawful element.

This amendment is intended to strike at the insidious contempt for law, order, property rights, and even life, that is eating away at the very foundations of our national power. Unless the right to be free from criminal acts is made paramount, other rights have little meaning.

The vast majority of Americans are law-abiding, God-fearing people. This majority has an absolute right to have it Nation restored to order, to be free and safe, to walk about without danger of violence committed upon them -- to be safe in the home, to have one's property safe from theft, roiting and wanton destruction.

October Draft Call To Be Heavy

Austin, Texas, Aug. 27 -- The state draft quota for October calls for 1,504 men, compared to 1,453 in September, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Friday.

In early August, state Selective headquarters was advised by the national headquarters to estimate its October quota at 1,780. The call for 1,504 is an adjustment of this earlier estimate.

Both quotas came after the President's announcement in late July that he was doubling the draft calls. Monthly calls in the months immediately prior to the Presidential announcement ranged from 700 to 900.

More than 9,000 men will be sent for pre-induction mental and physical examinations in September, Colonel Schwartz said, and he estimated that about 7,500 would be sent in October.

Local board quotas for the September examinations and inductions already have been sent to the boards. The October examination and induction quotas for boards are scheduled to be mailed to them on or about September 10.

Both the September and October quotas will be filled with volunteers under 26 years old and nonvolunteers ages 19 through 25. Most of them will be 20 to 21 years old.

President Johnson signed an executive order Thursday which will permit the drafting of childless married men who marry after midnight Thursday, according to published news reports. For nearly two years an executive order by the late President Kennedy forbade calling of these men.

Colonel Schwartz said he expects the state call for November to be "slightly higher" than the September and October quotas.

Nursing Home Patients Have Ice Cream Supper

Patients in the Fisher County home were hosted to an old-fashioned ice cream supper with home made cake Tuesday night, the get-together being instigated, primarily, by Mrs. A. Branscum of Hamlin, and Roy Kingsfield of Rotan.

Roy's mother and Mrs. Branscum's father are patients in the nursing home.

Children of patients in the home aided in hosting the social get-together. Also present were all employees of the nursing home.

Mrs. Garvis N. Hinson, R. N.,

operator of the nursing home, said that more than seventy patients and members of their families were present. The ice cream supper was precluded by singing around the piano, and just plan visiting, here, and there, throughout the nursing home.

Proper management following brush control is more important than the particular method used.

The objective of brush control is to get the longest control for the least cost, with the largest increase of forage and livestock production. It's always important to maintain a good grass cover, too.

Since brush control is only one important phase of the overall ranch management program, it should be combined with proper stocking and deferred rotation grazing to be most beneficial.

Deferred grazing following any brush control operation is a must. If a livestock man plans to kill trees without a followup of other good range management practices, he would be better off spending the money for supplemental feed.

It's a good plan to use brush control practices on an entire pasture rather than parts of a pasture. The reasoning behind this is that livestock will concentrate their grazing in the areas where brush has been controlled, since this grass will be more nutritious and palatable. Soon the controlled areas will become badly overgrazed. If the entire pasture cannot be treated it should be deferred following control measures.

Returns from brush control amount to much more than just increased grass production. Added benefits are: (1) Ease of working and caring for livestock, (2) Increased offspring numbers, (3) Less screwworm and other parasite damage, (4) Livestock is more tame, (5) Increased food and cover for deer and quail and (6) Less breeding males are required.

If a good seed source is not available on the area to be controlled, defer for one growing season to determine the kind of grasses present and to determine whether additional native grass seed should be planted.

For methods of brush control stop by the county extension office, there are several Extension bulletins available on this subject.

Farmers who fail to service air cleaners on tractor engines are buying a quick ticket to the repair shop. More tractor troubles result from lack of air cleaner service than any other single cause.

An average tractor engine takes in about 8,000 gallons of air for every gallon of fuel it burns. Therefore, an engine burning four gallons of fuel per hour will use almost one-third of a million gallons of air in every ten-hour period.

Under normal field conditions this amount of air will contain close to one-half pound of dust and dirt. Without an air cleaner, this dust would destroy a tractor engine in about half a day.

Oil bath air cleaners should be serviced after every ten hours of engine operation. Old oil should be removed, the cup scraped clean of dirt, washed with kerosene and refilled to the oil mark with clean oil.

Dry type cleaners should be serviced according to manufacturer's directions in the operator's manual.

Cattle Producers Can Earn Big Share of Consumer's Beef Dollar - A recent USDA study conducted to determine distribution of consumer beef dollars among ranchers, feeders, packer-wholesalers, and retailers revealed that steers fed to slaughter weight on the farm netted 54.6 percent of every dollar consumers spend on beef. Cattle sold at weaning weight earned only 25.6 percent of the consumer's beef dollar.

The Doll Society

Unlike most of their mothers, little girls don't need television to create the world of soap opera.

Their tool is the doll and with it, little girls create a society that is as complex as the one their parents live in.

In its research with youngsters, Ideal Toy Corporation has found that this doll society is peopled with many characters who lead active lives, have definite rules of social conduct, fashion and pleasure, and even grow older just as ordinary humans do.

"Girls use the world of dolls as a means of achieving closer contact with the adult world and expanding play situations for their fertile imaginations," indicates Dr. Myron Helfgott, noted market research psychologist.

Experts call this phenomenon the doll complex and cite examples of its evolution. To begin with, a youngster will start with just one female doll. Soon she has a boy friend to date her, a friend to confide in and a family to which she reacts.

The story becomes more complicated. The dolls go to parties, movies and sporting events, and this means a variety of clothes for each occasion. Fashion accessories are introduced, followed by a car, an actual playing juke box, and a telephone.

But all is not fun and games in this Lilliputian world. The plot thickens and problems arise. For example, the dolls start thinking about their education and a job, choose among rival boy friends, and eventually settle down to the idea of raising a family.

There is an insistence at this point that dolls appear and act more grownup. A classic example of this situation is the story of the Tammy doll. Conceived as a pre-teenager, Tammy has considerably matured lately. She looks and acts older; her dress is more glamorous and she has a more varied way of life from learning how to use cosmetics to coping with romantic involvement.

Children have pushed dolls such as Tammy into this state of near adulthood as an expression of their own desire to get closer to this stage of life. It is a new world offering them all sorts of exciting experiences to conjure up. It is a way of identifying with their parents and a training ground for the future—a future alas where most little girls become big girls and spend their afternoons tuning into the networks for the story involvement. They will hardly remember that they once upon a time did not need this kind of video assistance, until they catch sight of their daughters at play.

On Top

The Bible, "God's holy word," is still the best seller, and most quoted book. From the original Greek and Hebrew this book has been translated into many languages.

Through the centuries men have devotedly studied and sought out the truth in the Bible. When one reads the Bible with an open mind, God's word is "as sharp as a two edged sword."

Attend Church Sunday and study God's word.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
