Ask Us

Q. — How much money is being spent to administer the TECAT test?

A. — According to officials with the Texas Education Agency, the state will spend some $5 million to develop, administer and score the test.

In Brief

Oil prices fall

NEW YORK (AP) — The price of the major grade of U.S. crude oil dropped toward $12 a barrel during early trading today in speculative commodities markets, a retreat that has yet to show signs of stalling.

Closer to the consumers' pocketbook, contract prices set by the nation's oil companies have dropped as low as $14 a barrel, with the official price falling below $20 industrywide for the first time since 1979.

Some analysts said the slide is not over yet, and that crude could plunge as low as $8 a barrel, a level below the average cost of operating a well.

Local

Holiday set

Snyder students will have a school holiday next Monday — the day designated by the state for teachers and administrators to take the TECAT test.

Students will return to classes Tuesday, March 11.

To convene

Members of the Scurry County Appraisal District Board will consider a request for oil ownership labels Tuesday.

The request was made by SCOOP (Scurry County Options and Opportunities for People) staffers. SCOOP members want the labels in order to mail material to royalty and working interest oil owners.

Chief Appraiser Ray Peveler noted that in the past such labels have been produced for Scurry County United Way.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the appraisal district office at 2612 College.

Farm meet

County producers are invited to an ASCS-sponsored meeting Tuesday night to feature highlights of the 1986 Farm Program.

It will begin at 7 p.m. at the Fine Arts Theatre on the campus of Western Texas College.

Joe Hefner, county executive director for the local ASCS office, will be on hand to discuss the programs and to answer questions.

Monday marked the first day producers could place either wheat, oats, milo or cotton into the loan program. The deadline to file is April 11.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Monday, 69 degrees; low, 38 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Tuesday, 45 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1986 to date, .54 of an inch.

30 seeking WTC post

Trustees for Western Texas College said Monday they have received "28 to 30 solid applications" for the president's position at WTC.

The deadline to apply was last Friday, Feb. 28.

WTC Board President Bill Jones indicated Monday the board feels "no immediate pressure" to reach a final decision regarding the post.

As for an outside date, he predicted someone would be under contract before the end of the spring semester, however.

While noting that the applicants range from many states and from all sizes of universities and colleges, he estimated three-fourths of the number received are from Texas schools.

Jones acknowledged also that applications had been received from current college staffers.

The college has sought applications through the Texas network of college and university systems.

In line with this, the president of every college and university was notified and asked to post the notice as well as make recommendations if they felt it justified.

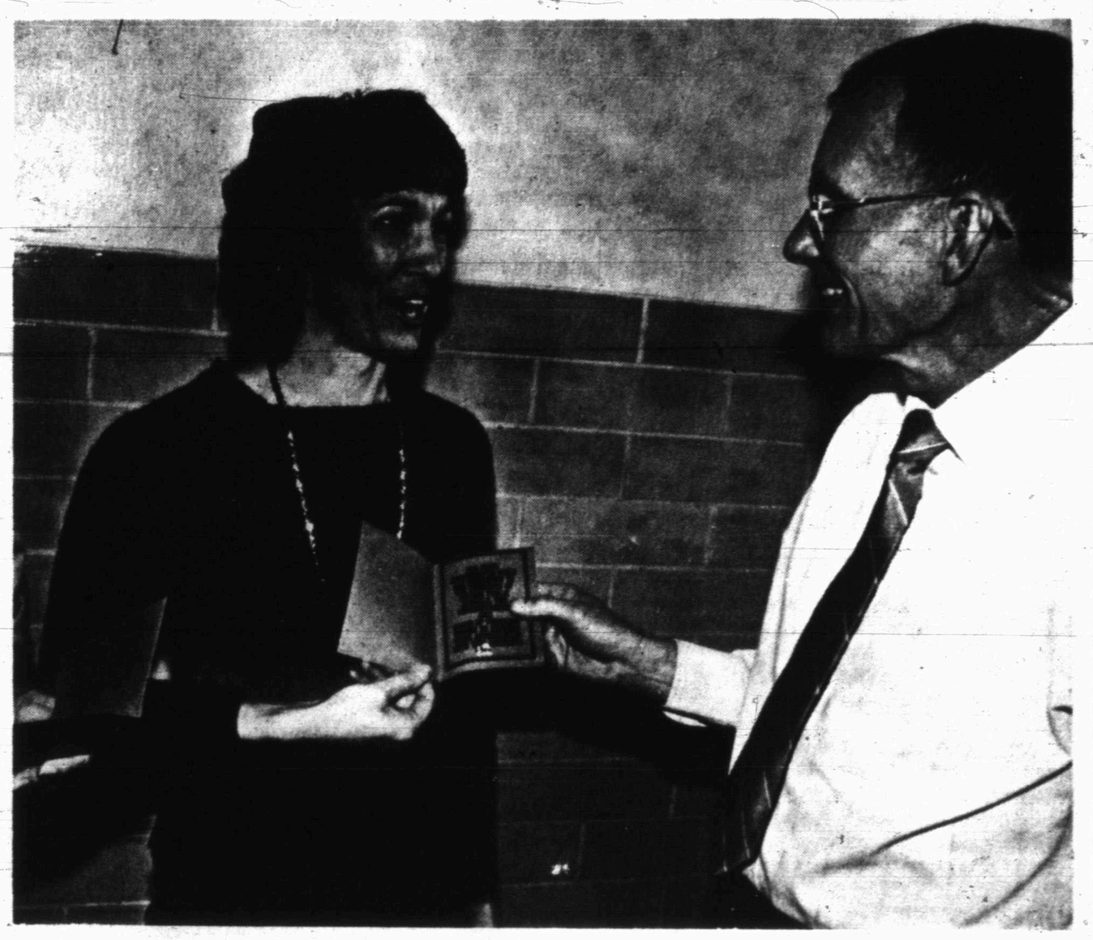

Jones said he expects a brief executive session regarding the president's post at the March meeting of the WTC board next Monday.

"After that, we'll probably schedule more meetings as the full board has had time to read all of the applications."

He said job interviews would be scheduled later, although he noted there had been no discussion regarding how many of these might be required.

The search was prompted by the resignation by Dr. Don Newbury last Dec. 17. Newbury accepted a similar position with Howard Payne University in Brownwood after serving as the WTC head since April of 1981.

The current acting chief executive officer of the college is Dr. Harry Krenek.

School week is observed

The local observance of Texas Public Schools Week will continue in the Snyder system Wednesday.

Parents of second and sixth graders are encouraged to visit with their children this day during lunch visits at each elementary campus.

During the week, these are recommended based upon specific grade levels on specific days. Lunch times vary and parents should call the campus or ask their child for these.

The lunch prices are $1.75 per adult and 90 cents per student.

The day will include also a special "Donuts for Dads" at Stanfield Elementary. Fathers of students there are invited from 7:45 until 8:30 a.m.

Three campuses have also scheduled their spelling bees Wednesday. Both East and West Elementary will have their bees at 8:45 a.m. in the auditorium at their respective campuses.

In addition, the Northeast spelling bee will be at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the auditorium there.

Wednesday last day to enter race

Wednesday is the final day to file for two places with expiring positions on the Western Texas College board of trustees.

Place three held by Howard Sterling and place four held by Bob Hargrove are expiring.

Both incumbents have indicated they will seek a new six-year term. In addition, Thomas Aishman has signed up for the place three seat.

Absentee voting for the board posts will begin March 12. The election will be held April 5.

For water customers...

City okays drive-in window

Snyder city council members Monday approved a bid estimate to construct a new drive-in window station for water customers [illegible] at Snyder city hall.

In addition, the council opted to pledge a $2,500 match toward construction of a $100,000 railroad crossing signal to be located where the Atcheson, Topeka and Santa Fe rail line crosses Huffman Ave. at the northern city limits of Snyder.

Another $2,500 — part of a total $5,000 local match — will be provided by Scurry County officials.

The remaining $95,000 will come from funds available to the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Regarding the drive-in facility for water customers, the council accepted two low bids totaling almost $37,000 for its installation.

The low bid of $29,469 from Wadleigh Construction of Snyder was accepted to install the drive-in unit using an underground design for its connecting lines to city hall.

In addition, a $7,322 bid was accepted for a pneumatic tube system which will service the unit. That bid was submitted by Diebold Inc. of Fort Worth.

The station will use a vacuum system similar to those used for outside banking facilities. It will be added at the north side of the building.

All council members were present Monday to include Mayor Rod Waller and Councilmen Troy Williamson, Tommy Davis, Truett Bryan, Mickey Nunley, Don Osborn and David Hines.

In other city business Monday, the council voted to:

—Approve placing yield signs at Aves. W and X on either side of 31st and 32nd Sts. This change will leave 31st and 32nd Sts. as through streets. The sign's additions were requested by Mike Stanley.

—Approve on first reading a replat of the Chisum Addition located at 3200 College Ave. The change in boundary lines will take some 136 ft. off of the back portion of one of two lots located there. The lot to the south currently is leased to the Anthony's store here.

—Approve setting April 5 as Dog Vaccination and Registration Day in Snyder.

—Approve on first reading a zone change request from M-2 (manufacturing) to R-3 (general residential) affecting a block located at 1109 Ave. R and requested by N.Y. Benitez.

—Authorized city officials to seek bids on 137 tons of liquid alum; 20 tons of chlorine and three 150 lb. cylinders; 2,700 tons of grade No. 4 sealcoat gravel; 61 tons of AC-5 asphalt; 22,500 gallons of MS-1 emulsion; motor vehicles supplies; and 30 tons of hydrated lime.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Personality consists of acting natural and impressing folks at the same time."

Scurry County's observance of Texas Independence Day got the local Sesquicentennial celebration off to a great start.

A lively program, combined with perfect weather, saw almost 500 persons turn out Sunday afternoon on the courthouse square.

The highlight was dedication of a bandstand, located on the south side of the courthouse. The bandstand is a gift to the community from the staff and faculty of Western Texas College.

College staffers donated the funds for materials, and the bandstand was built by the Construction Technology Department at WTC.

There was a lot of reminiscing about the early days of Scurry County when a previous bandstand was a focal point on the square.

Local historian and insurance man Brud Boren recalled the community band playing on Sunday afternoons, the only outlet in those days to hear live music.

Jay Huckabee and Roy Baze remembered the old bandstand had a trap door, and finally some inquisitive boys decided to explore the area underneath the bandstand.

What they found puzzled them even more—bottles of vanilla extract. It was a long time before they learned the mystery of why someone would hide "cake ingredient" in such an ususual place.

Precinct 2 Commissioner Hassie Sneed also has memories of the early bandstand. He recalls it was a favorite of street preachers who had a ready sermon when two or more would gather together.

Sneed recalls one preacher from Hermleigh who didn't require two folks. Said Sneed, "He'd preach if he just had one listener."

Central Elementary Principal Charles Anderson was emcee for the event. His background as a principal came across clear during his opening remarks:

"The Sesquicentennial Committee has refreshments available...when you finish be sure and put your cups in the trash cans."

Insurance overcharge alleged, others sought

Scurry County sheriff's office personnel are now seeking further information about possible overcharges occurring here with the sale of Medicare supplemental insurance policies.

Deputies say they have verified at least one instance where some $500 above the actual premium cost was charged a local resident.

If additional cases are identified, they say they might be able to prosecute these at the felony level. The cutoff for misdemeanor or felony prosecution is $700.

The instance now identified occurred here during the summer of 1984 by a Dallas-based salesman apparently traveling through and representing the Banker's Life Insurance Company.

Deputies note that the policy sold and the insurance company are both bonafide. The premium payment received for the policy by the individual salesman, however, was a $500 overcharge.

While a 12-month premium should cost $1,200, the salesman charged $1,700, they say.

Any other individuals who were contacted during the summer of 1984 for a Medicare supplemental policy under this insurance company are now asked to contact the local sheriff's office.

Scurry County grand jury returns 15 indictments

Scurry County grand jurors Monday returned 15 indictments against 13 defendants—including a re-indictment of a homicide suspect and seven persons for burglary.

Domingo Miramontez Trejo of Snyder — indicted for voluntary manslaughter in February for the Jan. 17 shooting death of Alberto Rodriquez of Snyder — was re-indicted for that offense Monday.

According to District Attorney Ernie Armstrong, the re-indictment was sought due to the omission of a date from an indictment obtained in February.

Indicted for two counts of burglary of a business was 19-year-old Pamela Yvette James of 3205 Ave. K.

James is alleged to have burglarized The Shack Restaurant and The Cubby here on Jan. 17.

Bonds for her were set at $5,000 on each charge and she remains in jail in lieu of bond.

James was originally arrested and charged with the burglaries after a Colorado City liquor store operator noted three women — including James — attempting to pass a check drawn on Charles R. Perkins of Snyder.

An alleged accomplice was also indicted Monday on a charge of forgery by passing.

Now free under a $2,500 bond on that charge is 36-year-old Paula Carpenter Owens of 2800 36th St.

She is alleged to have passed a check on Perkins — taken in the burglary of The Shack — at a Colorado City gas station.

Indicted on separate counts of attempted burglary of a business were 38-year-old Shelby Chester Shannon and 36-year-old Jimmy Wayne Shannon of Dallas.

The Shannons were captured by city police on the night Feb. 9 after allegedly attempting to burglarized the restaurant and club at the Great Western Motel.

Both remain in the Scurry County Jail in lieu of bonds set at $5,000 for Shelby and $2,500 for Jimmy on the attempted burglary charges.

Shelby Shannon was also indicted on a felony charge of driving while intoxicated-subsequent offense.

He was charged with that offense following their arrest by police on Feb. 9. Bond on the second charge has been set at

Legislative budget trimmed

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers trimmed their own budgets and the state treasurer predicted Texas would soon have to write hot checks as the Legislature began dealing with a projected $1.3 billion budget shortfall.

"Right now, money is going out faster than it is coming in," Treasurer Ann Richards told a rare caucus of Senate members Monday, called to discuss the oil price dilemma that has brought on the budget-cutting.

In a long day of budget actions, the House Administration Committee slashed $6.89 million from the House budget and laid off several employees. The Senate administration cut spending by some $2.8 million and imposed a hiring freeze.

But the gloomiest forecast came from State Treasurer Ann Richards, who said the state might be forced to write up to $600 million in overdrawn checks by year's end.

"By mid-December, we will have paid out almost $2 billion more than the state's General Revenue Fund has in the Treasury. This puts the state into a serious financial crunch," she told senators.

If oil prices — and oil tax revenues — remain at lower than anticipated levels, state government may find itself asking banks to honor checks for which funds won't be immediately available, Ms. Richards said.

While up to $1.4 billion could be transferred from other state funds to help cover the checks, she said, up to $600 million might remain outstanding.

"We are working on short-term, temporary solutions designed to get us through critical periods of a few days' duration. Should these measures fail to cover the state's obligations, the Treasury would have to enter into some variation on an old-style arrangement used in the past which calls for the state banks to honor hot warrants," she said.

Elsewhere, House Administration Chairman Mike Millsap, D-Fort Worth, said House budget cuts were designed to both help make up the shortfall and set an example for state agencies.

"Failure to undertake similar measures across state government may only presage a cut in more basic services," Millsap said.

The cuts totaled 19 percent of the House administrative budget. Gov. Mark White has asked all state agencies to reduce spending by 13 percent through Aug. 31, 1987.

"All of the (cuts) involved difficult choices, and none of them were arrived at without serious thought and careful planning," Millsap said.

Some key cuts include:

— Laying off 8 percent of the 166-member permanent House staff.

— Freezing House hiring and limiting replacement of employees lost through attrition to one out of four.

— Eliminating funding for legislative caucuses and the House Study Group, the independent research organization that has provided analysis of legislation and other issues before lawmakers. Several study group employees also would be let go.

— Postponing the 3 percent employee pay raise scheduled for Sept. 1.

— Restricting travel by lawmakers and staffs.

Millsap indicated that Monday's spending cuts might not be the last. "This is not the last time we're going to meet to take action," he said.

In the Senate, that chamber's administration committee approved a 13 percent spending cut — but no layoffs in its permanent staff.

Pilots had clues on storm intensity

DALLAS (AP) — New reports by federal investigators say the crew of the Delta Air Lines jumbo jet that crashed last August had clues the storm in its path was severe but did not try to abort the landing until there was no hope for recovery.

The Dallas Times Herald, in a copyright story today, reported that the internal reports were completed in the last two weeks by leaders of the National Transportation Safety Board teams assigned to assess factors in the crash.

The reports stated that the crew could have taken action to save the plane even 20 seconds before impact.

But Delta officials told the newspaper that the pilots could not have foreseen, or later escaped, the powerful thunderstorm microburst that confronted them at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

"Nobody could have flown through it," said Doug Twinam, Delta's chief investigator for the accident.

The newspaper said the reports, which have not been published, present the first investigative assessment of the Flight 191 crash, which killed 137 people.

But the agency's final conclusions about the probable cause will be detailed in the safety board's final report, expected to be released in April or May, a board spokesman said.

Sources told the newspaper that the internal reports are not critical of air traffic controllers' actions in the mishap, but do cite the fact that two of three weather observers were away from their posts when the storm was forming.

Flight recorders aboard the L-1011 jumbo jet indicated the co-pilot saw lightning ahead at 6:04 p.m. on Aug. 2. One minute later, the plane encountered wind shifts and heavy rains as it entered a microburst, a column of wind currents that descends from a storm cloud.

T. Theodore Fujita, a University of Chicago weather scientist who studied the crash with assistance from Delta officials, said the type of storm cloud the Delta crew saw is "often innocuous," and can be "entirely misleading to pilots."

"The Delta 191 microburst was accompanied by the most complicated winds analyzed by the author since ... the Eastern 66 accident at JFK (airport in New York) on June 24, 1975," said Fujita's study.

The microburst developed at least three "vortex rings," or tornado-like eddies of wind that began as the jet of air de[illegible] to the ground and bega[illegible] spread out, the study showed.

Officials said the Delta crew, after entering the microburst shaft at 6:05 p.m., the crew could have taken action up to about 20 seconds before impact to abort the landing and veer out of the storm.

But the captain did not give the order to "go around" until about seven seconds before impact, after the airplane entered a severe vortex ring on the microburst's edge, the newspaper said.

One federal investigator said the vortex sent the aircraft into "one hellacious descent rate." Officials said escaping a crash at that point would have been virtually impossible.

Weather information received by the crew of the plane, en route from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., did not mention the thunderstorm, instead giving wind speeds of five knots with gusts to 15 knots.

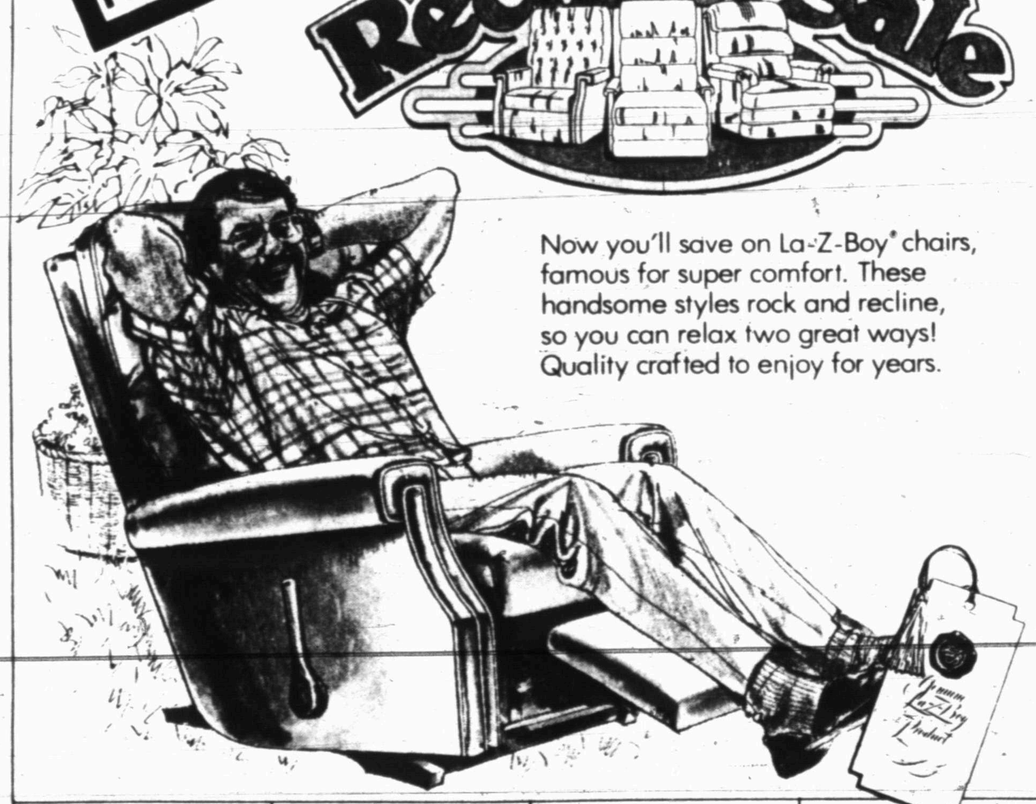

"At the present time, a pilot has no equipment available to him to ascertain the exact nature of the winds until he flies into a microburst," Fujita said in his study.

Male Rape Is Difficult For Victims and Public to Face

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please publish some information about adult male rape. My 18-year-old son (I'll call him Randy) was beaten and gang-raped. Going to the police was awful for him. They were not prepared to cope with a male rape victim.

The criminals who raped Randy are in custody, but they were not charged with rape—only assault and battery, even though the officers know they raped my son.

Randy is a fine young man who never associated with people of questionable character. He had never seen these men before; they just forced him off the street and did this terrible thing to him. He was so upset he wasn't able to tell me about it; the chaplain at the hospital where he was treated told me.

Almost every city has a rape crisis facility where female rape victims can go for counseling, but there's no help in our town for male rape victims.

Please print this. The public needs to know.

CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Because rape is as much a violation for a male as a female, male victims should be as entitled to care, treatment and counseling as female victims.

Unfortunately, because male rape victims are more reluctant to report the crime, the general public is not aware of their numbers.

Some, but not nearly enough, rape crisis centers are equipped to handle male victims. This is a plea to male rape victims: Report the crime. It is also a plea to rape crisis centers to provide services for males as well as females.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the letter from the man who had gotten bald: It's not always vanity or the desire to look younger that makes a man wear a hairpiece. My husband is a minister who became bald. He's out in the cold without a hat, at funerals, visiting, etc. After preaching, his head is wet from perspiration. He'd get colds, sinus headaches and earaches, all because his bald head was exposed to the cold. He bought a hairpiece to keep his head warm, and he hasn't had a cold, a sinus headache or earache since.

The hairpiece is the same color as his own hair used to be and it looks nice. People compliment him on his new look, and he loves it. He's not trying to fool anybody. Once when it was hot outside, he took it off.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Now that's a hair-raising story.

DEAR ABBY: The reason many older women are no longer interested in marrying is as follows: When eligible men in their early 60s and 70s are out there playing the field, having a great time, they rarely think of marrying and sharing those good years with a wife.

As soon as the doctor gives them the news that they have a serious health problem, such as an enlarged prostate or a heart condition, they start shopping for a wife.

They aren't even subtle. I've had men suddenly ask me what my blood pressure is, if I have any health problems and what my approximate income is. Once they are assured of my health and finances, they ask if I have ever thought of getting married.

Some actually admit that they need someone to take care of them. I tell them to check into a retirement home, as that is what I plan to do when I need care.

When they could travel, dance and enjoy life, they weren't willing to share those years with a wife. Now they're looking for an unpaid nurse.

NO WAY, JOSE

Sorority feeds computer with little known facts

Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma met Feb. 17 at Martha Ann Woman's Club for its regular monthly meeting.

"Endownment of Gifts of Friendship Through Delta Kappa Gamma" was the program topic. The group was divided into smaller groups for a lively sharing of little known facts. In the larger group the facts were fed into a computer. The computer sorted the information into the categories of understanding, love, forgiveness, loyality and integrity. The program committee presented skits for each of the categories.

Gift boxes containing quotes on friendship were opened. Members shared their quotes with the other members. The program concluded with the song, "Shower With Love."

A business meeting followed the program with one liner committee reports given by the research, professional affairs, personal growth and services committees.

Committee assignments were made for the Zeta Lambda birthday celebration to be held in April.

Reads book about Texas

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Association met Feb. 25 for their regular monthly meeting at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Members voted to select a special book from "The Wish List" for the Scurry County Library sesquicentennial collection of books about Texas.

Hostess for the dinner meeting was Eula Williams. The decorations were the St. Patrick's theme of March, with green shamrock doilies. Green, beribboned nutcups were plate favors.

Program coordinator Buela Richardson, led the devotional and presented the hostess appreciation token to the speaker, Ruby Butts. The gift was machine monogramed linens that she had made.

Vice-president Ruby Butts, reviewed J. Frank Dobie's book, "Coronado's Children." A result of the University of Texas professor that studied Texas legends and folklore.

Butts related that a javelina hunt enabled a Mr. Larrimore, near Llano, to discover a lost silver and lead mine. The javelina ran into a pit nearby. He made bullets and gave silver to his friends from the mine. When the Indians gave him trouble, legend has it, that he turned over a mountain to hide that mine.

Her favorite story is about rock pens near Pearsall and the historic happening during the Spanish mission era. Subjects of Spain had seven wagons of gold and silver. Suddently dust, far on the horizon, indicated hundreds of horses and trouble. Two pens were rapidly constructed. In one the mules were led around and around the center where the seven loads of gold was buried. The men sought protection in the other pen.

After the robbers and travelers fought all day, only one man lived to tell the story. Many have hunted for the rock pens on the vast land of two ranches. No one can return to the spot after finding them, or so the story goes according to some residents near Peasall.

Other locations with legends of buried treasure are in a haunted house in Galveston, a ranch near San Saba and a crossing by the Nueces River.

The speaker observed that Dobie's style is informal and chatty. She recommends it as an interesting book about Texas.

Lee Weaver, president, appointed Clemey Andress, Frances Brown and Fay McCollum to the nominating committee for the election of 1987 officers. Other business included plans for a pre-Easter bake sale to give a larger scholorship to Western Texas College.

Inflammation and sitting

DEAR DR. GOTT — Could you please give me some information on arthritis called "tailor's seat"? It is in both cheeks of the buttocks. What can be done about it?

DEAR READER — Tailor's seat (or "weaver's bottom") is a form of irritation involving the bursae (joint coverings) of the hips. It is found in people who tend to sit for long periods in one position. Treatment consists of anti-inflammatory drugs and, obviously, avoidance of prolonged sitting.

DEAR DR. GOTT — How long after one's periods stop can one get pregnant? How long do hot flashes last?

DEAR READER — Most experts believe that a woman can no longer become pregnant after she has missed 12 consecutive menstrual periods. Unfortunately, hot flashes can last longer than a year and may require treatment long after the menses have stopped.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report on MENOPAUSE. Other readers who would like a copy should send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a woman who is 66. My blood pressure has been 200/100. I went to a doctor for it and he gave me samples of Maxide and Capoten. I've taken them for two months and am so dizzy that one would think I'm intoxicated. Who needs all these free samples? I feel the doctor doesn't care. Who can I go for help?

DEAR READER — I think the doctor was trying to be thoughtful and save you money by giving you free samples. However, he certainly should have insisted on frequent followup visits to make sure that your blood pressure was controlled and you were not having adverse reactions to the drugs. Your dizziness may mean that the medicine was too strong for you; your blood pressure may have fallen to an unacceptably low level. Look for a doctor who is both thoughtful about your needs and willing to check your blood pressure until it stabilizes.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My son (32) was told he has polycythemia and was advised to give blood. How does one get this and what is the treatment?

DEAR READER — Polycythemia means "too many red blood cells," the exact opposite of anemia. It can be a primary disorder or it can be secondary to other conditions, like lung or heart disease. Polycythemia is a normal result of living at high altitudes, where there is less oxygen and the body must compensate by producing more red corpuscles.

Polycythemia may cause the blood to become overly thick. Phlebotomy (blood-letting) is one way of temporarily treating the disorder, because blood cells are withdrawn and discarded; the remaining blood is less viscous. There are more effective ways of treating primary polycythemia, using drugs that inhibit red blood-cell production.

Secondary polycythemia is usually treated by attempting to correct the underlying disorder — that is, improving heart and lung function. High-altitude polycythemia needs no treatment; it is a normal physiological adaptive mechanism.

Soviet plans are still vague

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leaders have vowed during the Communist Party Congress to make their economy the world's most productive by the end of the century, but have provided few details about how they plan to make the leap from the abacus to the computer age.

Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov outlined Monday what he called a "grandiose" plan to vastly increase the grain harvest by 1990, and the goal of doubling factory output by the year 2000.

But some of the specific goals the Soviets are setting are identical to targets set in 1981 that have gone unmet. At the same time, the congress officially abandoned promises made 25 years ago under the leadership of Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The 1961 program said that in 10 years the Soviets would surpass the United States in per capita production. By 1981, the program promised a doubling of grain production and a five-fold increase in industrial output. It said automation would eliminate most manual labor and that computers would be in wide use.

However, at the party congress currently under way in Moscow, ranking members of the Soviet Communist Party beginning with General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev, have focused on the mistakes of the past. They repeatedly have criticized the "inertia" of the 1964-1982 era of Leonid I. Brezhnev.

They have denounced inefficiency in government ministries and party organizations, as well as reluctance by industry and agriculture officials to incorporate new techniques that could result in better performance.

AP analysis

But no one has spelled out precisely how the Soviet Union will make the swing from the abacus that still is widely used in Soviet stores to the computer era.

Ryzhkov gave no figures for computer output, in which the Soviets have been plagued by difficulties such as producing floppy disks, but said computer production would double by 1990 and the output of industrial robots would triple.

More than 20 million workers will be freed from monotonous manual labor in the next 15 years, he said.

Ryzhkov said greater efficiency, mechanization, increased investment and better application of scientific discoveries would boost factory and farm production.

He produced a battery of isolated statistics that did not give a full picture of present production or its future expansion, and did not detail how or when Gorbachev's promised "radical reforms" would be implemented.

In keeping with the practice of the past five years, he did not reveal the size of the 1985 grain harvest, estimated in the West to have been about 190 million tons.

Ryzhkov called for an increase in grain production to at least 250 million tons a year by 1990. That is the same figure set for 1985 by the 1981 party gathering, the final one under Brezhnev.

In a speech to the congress Saturday, Oil Minister Vasily A. Dinkov said oil output should reach 625 to 640 million tons a year by 1990, mostly through technological improvements.

That, too, is the same goal set five years ago. However, output fell to 595 million tons last year.

If you are determined to lose weight, Diet Center is a nutritionally sound alternative to fad dieting, crash diets, appetite curbing drugs and starvation diets.

In 1982, Mary Woodall joined Diet Center to lose weight and learn how to keep it off. She lost 19½ pounds at Diet Center. Now, as owner and counselor of Snyder's Diet Center, Mary is in the business profession of helping others lose unwanted weight and keep it off. You can lose weight by joining Diet Center and by following its nutritional weight reduction program. Call Mary at 573-8583 or stop by Diet Center's convenient Varsity Square location. Regular morning hours are from 7:30 to 12:30. Appointments after hours are available also.

Mary attended intensive counselor training at Diet Center's international headquarters in Rexburg, Idaho in order to become a certified Diet Center counselor. She receives updated information from Diet Center, Inc. through Diet Center's monthly magazines and newsletters. With more than 2000 Diet Center locations throughout the United States and Canada, Diet Center is today's largest franchise weight-loss program. During Diet Center's 14 years of being in the weight-loss profession, more than four million men, women and children have successfully lost weight and learned the way to keep it off. Diet Centers. Diet Center offers a professional diet counseling service.

Diet Center attributes its success to the effectiveness of its total weight control program. It is a weight reduction program that works. Dieters on the program eat nutritional foods which are purchased from local grocers and are prepared for consumption by the dieter. The unique supplement Diet Center offers helps dieters control uncomfortable hunger by keeping blood sugar levels stable in the body. The protein found in the supplement aids in the dieter's digestion process. The supplement also contains vitamin B to help dieters feel well while dieting. Daily weigh-ins and caring professional counseling helps dieters stay committed. They refrain from nibbling on foods not allowed knowing they will face the scales each day. No drugs or shots are involved on the Diet Center program--just a sensible nutritional weight-loss program with foods having staying power.

The program starts with a two-day conditioning diet which builds the dieter's strength and replaces sugars in the body with natural sugars found in fruit. The dieter then follows the reducing program until losing her unwanted weight. She weighs in daily on the reducing program. Next, the stabilization diet locks in the weight loss and firms up body tissue. The maintenance program then follows giving dieters one year of free maintenance and weekly weigh-ins. The maintenance program teaches dieters how to eat for a lifetime to avoid gaining weight. Nutritional education classes are available also.

Women can lose up to 25 pounds in six weeks at Diet Center. Children lose a few pounds less in six weeks. Men can average up to a pound a day off in six weeks. You can lose weight at Diet Center and learn how to keep it off.

Mary enjoys helping anyone with a weight problem, whether needing to lose five pounds or over 100 pounds. If you need help, call Mary at 573-8583 or go by 3020 Varsity Square, mornings 7:30-12:30.

Baby food being put back on store shelves

DALLAS (AP) — Grocery store employees returned thousands of jars of Gerber baby food to Texas store shelves this week following inspections of 8,200 unopened jars by federal investigators.

U.S. Food and Drug Administration officials, who inspected unopened jars from stores of the Kroger Co. and warehouses in three states, found no glass inside the containers.

But three other Texas stores kept Gerber products off their shelves as FDA investigators continued looking into three complaints that Dallas area women found glass in Gerber baby food last week.

The FDA has found glass in four unopened jars and 19 opened jars in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico since a Dallas woman reported finding glass in Gerber strained peas from a Grand Prairie store on Feb. 24.

FDA officials said allegations of tainted food decreased over the weekend. But investigators were checking on Monday a new complaint that a woman found glass in a can of Miller Lite beer.

'Crude, vulgar' speech rights are slated for high court test

WASHINGTON (AP) — A student's "crude and vulgar" remarks to a high school assembly is providing the basis for a Supreme Court test case over free-speech rights and the authority of school officials.

The justices heard lively arguments Monday over the place of sexual innuendo in a Washington state school auditorium.

The remarks were defended by a lawyer who said students have heard and read worse in studying Shakespeare, and attacked by an attorney who said administrators and teachers have a responsibility to ban offensive speech from schools.

The justices are expected to decide the case by July, possibly setting important new guidelines for students' free-speech rights and the power of school officials to regulate pupil activities.

In 1983, while a 17-year-old senior in Spanaway, Wash., Matthew N. Fraser made a nominating speech for a friend running for class vice president.

Fraser, in an attempt at humor, said his friend was "a man who is firm — he's firm in his pants, he's firm in his shirt, his character is firm." He also described the candidate as "a man who will go to the very end — even the climax, for each and every one of you."

The remarks prompted a boisterous response from some 600 students gathered for the student-run assembly. There were catcalls and vulgar gestures, but the incident apparently did no harm to the candidacy of Fraser's friend, who won the election easily.

On Monday outside the Supreme Court, Fraser said, "If this type of speech can be limited, then what speech on the part of students cannot be limited. And then the question becomes do we want students to have any free-speech rights at all."

Fraser's Seattle lawyer, Jeffrey T. Haley, argued before the court that crude sexual references are common in Shakespeare as well as in teenagers' conversation.

"Sexuality is a topic of great interest to students. Sex is not a forbidden topic," Haley said.

Some justices expressed skepticism.

"Is the test of good taste whether it works" in getting the student candidate elected, asked Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

When Haley said there are cruder sexual references in Shakespeare, Burger asked, "Are you suggesting this is part of a teaching process?"

Haley noted that Fraser showed the remarks to some teachers in advance of the speech, possibly because "he wanted to show them how clever he was."

"You view this as clever?" Justice Harry A. Blackmun asked.

Bill would make Nixon's birthplace an historic site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration and California congressmen are trying to make Richard M. Nixon's birthplace a national historic site, saying they want to "preserve history, not judge it."

The National Park Service and 30 of California's 45 House members are urging enactment of a bill requiring the government to acquire and preserve — at unknown cost — the 1½-story frame house in Yorba Linda, Calif., where the former president, who resigned 12 years ago, was born in 1913.

"These national historic sites are not monuments to presidential careers.

Tom's Marine carries latest in lawn care equipment, etc.

The new generation Lawn-Boy mowers combine 68 years of two-cycle technology with advanced engineering to give you up to 30 percent more usable power than with previous engines.

Whether your needs are for a push model or a self-propelled, manual or electric start, side or rear bagging, or even a mulching attachment, Lawn-Boy gives you the edge in yard care.

Toro also offers a state-of-the-art two-cycle lawn mower that has at it's heart a Toro designed two-cycle engine. For longer engine life and quick starts, a bigger more efficient air filter and a precision crafted aluminum carburetor is used.

Because Toro builds a better mower, they back it better with a two-year limited warranty, instead of one year.

Snapper and Tom's Marine can also handle all of your riding mower needs, with models up to 11 horsepower and 33 inch cutting widths.

Tom's Marine now carries the Simplicity 6200 garden tractor and the 4200 lawn tractor. The garden tractor features 42 and 48 inch mowers, 20 different attachments and three speed ranges. The lawn tractor has reliable solid state starting, 36 inch mowers and a choice of either the automatic Hydrostatic transmission or the 5-speed manual transmission.

Don't let summer yard work catch you unprepared. Go by Tom's Marine and let Tom show you how having the right lawn mower can make lawn care a real breeze.

Although they never spoke to each other until last Christmas, they will finally meet in May in Glasgow, Scotland, 10 miles from Mrs. Burrell's home in Erskine.

Judges mulling lawsuit

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Federal judges today were considering cases brought by Louisiana and Texas on what monies they are entitled to from offshore oil and gas production when state and federal boundaries overlap.

On Monday laywers for the two states and the federal government presented arguments before the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal.

Assistant Texas Attorney General Mary Keller told the three-judge panel that the state and federal governments should split all revenues from such lands 50-50, as a U.S. District Judge in Texas recently held.

The U.S. Department of the Interior is challenging that ruling, however, claiming that offshore statutes provide revenue sharing only to protect states from drainage.

The judges did not indicate when they would rule.

Drainage is the siphoning off of oil or gas from an entire pool, although production may only be occurring on the federal portion.

Louisiana argued over that offshore revenues Louisiana can claim a share of. Assistant Louisiana Attorney General Gary Keyser claimed the state is entitled to a share of all revenues collected, including income and other related taxes.

Robert Klarquist, arguing for the Interior Department in both cases, told the justices there was no indication that Congress, in enacting offshore statutes, ever gave states a claim to federal revenues.

"'Other revenues' must mean shorthand for leasing payments," Klarquist said.

At issue in both cases was what many have called vague language in the laws governing how states and the federal government divide up the various taxes, bonuses and fees private companies pay for tapping public lands.

Tech has Karlene's number

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Texas Tech University has got her number. Number 2, that is.

Snyder's Karlene Thompson inked a volleyball scholarship with the Red Raiders Monday and had only one major stipulation - that she be allowed to wear the same jersey number she's had all through high school.

"She said she had it in the closet and waiting for me," Thompson said, speaking of Tech coach Donna Martin. "It's just been my number ever since I've been playing. It's my number."

Two may be Thompson's number, but she wasn't clear on which college to attend - or even which sport to play - until this week.

"I chose Texas Tech because I like the school, I like Lubbock, the girls on the volleyball team were real nice and the coach is sweet," said Thompson, who had been courted by a number of schools, including the University of Houston, Abilene Christian, Sam Houston State University and others.

Thompson could have gone to college on a track scholarship. She's been to the state track meet twice in the triple jump. Last year she went to region in five events.

In fact, there was a time when the all-around athlete thought she would concentrate on track and not volleyball.

"Last year, after we finished third (in district) in volleyball I thought I might just concentrate on track, yes," she said.

But that all changed this past season. Snyder won the Class 4A state volleyball championship and Thompson copped all-District 2-4A honors for the third straight season. She was also named All-State, All-State Tournament and selected to play in the TGHSCA All-Star Game.

"It's really been a great year. I love volleyball. I love sports, period," she said.

That's obvious. In addition to her success in volleyball and track, she has also been a two-more sports

time all-loop choice in basketball. She averaged 26 points and 12 rebounds this past season, despite her 5-6 size.

But working towards a basketball scholarship really wasn't in the picture.

"I'd like it except for one thing. At my size I'd have to dribble the ball and I hate to dribble. I like everything else about it, but I hate to dribble," she laughed.

In the meantime, there's the current track season to be dealt with, but Thompson said that signing a scholarship for volleyball won't hamper her enthusiasm.

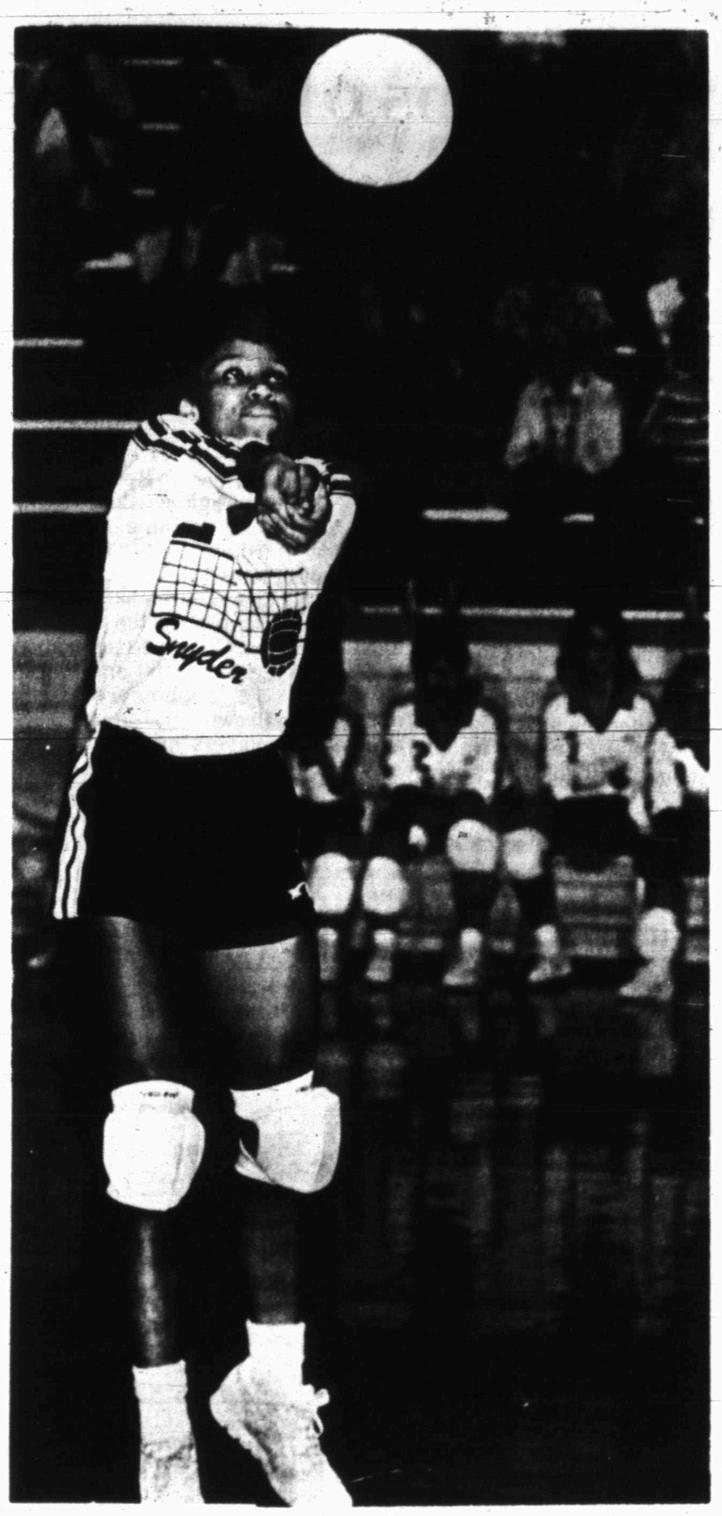

"If anything I think it will make me think twice about not running track in college. It's incentive because this may be the last time I'll run track, at least for a year or so," she said.

It's not out of the realm of possibility that Thompson could compete in volleyball and track at Tech, but she wants to take the first year to concentrate on her studies.

After that, only time will tell, but if her start this season is any indication, she'll eventually get back on the oval.

"I was real pleased with how I started this year," she said of last week's track meet. "I'm looking forward to the rest of the season."

She won the 200 meters, the long jump and the triple jump at Monahans. Her triple jump of 37-2½ was her best start ever, though her all-time best is 38-3.

Officials working to expand eligibility of 'pro' athletes

ROME (AP) - Federations governing 23 sports are working on standards that could expand the eligibility of professionals in the Olympics and also could affect the number of athletes from one country who can participate in some sports.

"To avoid confusion, it is essential that the rule be the same for all," said Primo Nebiolo, who heads the Association of Summer Olympic International Federations. "All I can say is that a great majority of our federations is in favor of opening it up to as many possible top stars in each sport."

Nebiolo, who also is president of the International Amateur Athletics Federation, governing body for world track and field, said Monday that the 23 federations will meet here Wednesday and Thursday and hope to have guidelines ready next year.

Nebiolo acknowledged that some federations have different goals - tennis, for example, wants top players in the Olympics regardless of country; other sports want to limit competitors to three from each country.

"Soccer has its own rule, to exclude from the Olympics the players who take part in the World Cup qualification round and in the Cup itself," Nebiolo continued. "They want it to protect the impact of the World Cup, which they feel would be hampered by the Olympics with all the top soccer stars.

"Tennis wanted a tournament with the top 132 players in the world, also unacceptable to most because then we would say that in every sport the top 100 should take place, no matter where they come from," Nebiolo said.

"Could you imagine in track and field a 100-meters men's final with all Americans and a hammer final with all Russians?"

The International Olympic Committee voted last month to liberalize the rules governing professionals participating in the Olympics. But it said the standards would be up to the federations of each of the sports.

Some federations, such as tennis and soccer, already allow professionals to participate in the Olympics. Nebiolo and the IAAF also set the stage for pro participation in track and field when they lifted bans against Renaldo Nehemiah and Willie Gault, world-class hurdlers who play in the National Football League.

"We will try to put together a wording, a format which can be accepted by all federations and by the International Olympic Committee," Nebiolo said.

Nebiolo said socialist countries are not too happy about opening the Olympics to professionals.

"We are working on this and we hope to come up with a solution acceptable to all," he said.

"I don't think we can expect the new format this year, but I do feel that we will make some consistent progress in our meetings here in Rome and in Seoul in September, and that the new formula will be out before the 1988 Games," he said.

Tigers bus to San Angelo; at Big Spring this weekend

SAN ANGELO -- Snyder's Tigers look for their third win on the baseball diamond here today as they take on San Angelo Central at 4 p.m.

It will be the second meeting between the two teams. Central won the first game 5-4.

Snyder will open its lineup with Steve Parker batting first and playing first base. Third baseman Chris Fryar will hit next, followed by pitcher Justin Webb and center fielder Jimmy Velasquez. Designated hitter Kenneth Pickering will bat next, for second baseman Joey Felan. The rest of the order includes Brad Holcomb at short stop, Mike McWilliams at left field, Michael Long at right and Ricky Hunter behind the plate.

Coach Albert Lewis said he would probably pitch Webb only "two or three innings" then go with Velasquez, Pickering or Hunter.

"We've got some sore arms right now so we probably won't leave any body in there very long," he said.

Snyder is 2-2 on the season and will bus to Big Spring this Saturday for a double header beginning at 1 p.m.

Hernandez planning to 'battle' Ueberroth

by The Associated Press

Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets is the only major-leaguer who has said he plans to appeal a decision that imposed penalties against 11 players in lieu of suspension for drug use.

Dave Parker of the Cincinnati Reds said Monday he would pay 10 percent of his salary to drug rehabilitation programs, accept periodic drug testing and perform 100 hours of public service work. The penalty, in lieu of a one-year suspension, was handed down Friday by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth.

Hernandez announced last weekend that he would fight Ueberroth's decision.

"A grievance will be filed through the players association,"

Spinks will defend title

NEW YORK (AP) - Michael Spinks will defend the International Boxing Federation heavyweight title against ex-champion Larry Holmes on April 19 at the Las Vegas Hilton.

Spinks outpointed Holmes last September in Las Vegas to become the first light-heavyweight champion to win the heavyweight title. This will be his first defense of the crown.

Dusters, Coyotes vie in evening session

The tip-off game of the Women's Region V Basketball Tournament was to get underway at 1 p.m. today with South Plains College facing McLennan Community College in Scurry County Coliseum.

The contest was one of four slated on opening day - the first of five days of college basketball in the city.

Tickets for the tournament are $25 for a 14-game pass or $5 per session.

Today's schedule was to continue with Northern Conference champion Cisco meeting Clarendon at 3. The evening's schedule begins at 7 with Western Texas College's Dusters taking on Weatherford College. The nightcap, at 9, features No. 1 ranked and undefeated Odessa College playing Grayson County.

Weatherford is keyed by its guard tandem of Rolisha Goins and Tia Thomas. Goins, a 5-3 sophomore, averages 11 assists a game.

Betty Jo Graber coaches the Lady Coyotes and they are one of the most consistent entries into the Women's Region V Tournament.

The Coyotes will go up against another coach who is well-accustomed to playing in the regional tournament - Western Texas' Kelly Chadwick.

Chadwick is in his first year at Western Texas, making the transition from Amarillo after that college closed out its basketball program last season.

Chadwick has been coaching in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference for eight years and has qualified for the tournament each year. He won has won it three times.

Western, 23-8, is led by three players - 5-10 freshman Brenda Welch and 5-8 sophomores Pam Cox and Angela Jeans.

Welch averages 21.3 points and 8.8 rebounds; Cox 17.9 points, 4.1 boards and 5.8 assists and Jeans 10.6 points, 5.2 rebounds and 7.7 assists.

For the first time in a number of years, Western Texas and Weatherford did not play during the regular season.

"I really don't know much about them except they have those two good guards," said Chadwick. "Really, unless I can see a team several times, I'd rather not know that much about them anyway. I don't usually rely much on scouting reports from other people because they don't always look for the same things I do."

The Odessa-Grayson encounter almost appears as a mismatch and even Lady Vikings' Coach George Speer agrees that the challenge will be a tough one.

"It's an opportunity for us to excel," said the coach, who has been at the Grayson County helm for four years. "It's been an unusual year for me. It's the first losing season I've ever coached and I don't like it. I think we have a pretty good group of kids, though. We're glad to be here for the tournament."

Grayson is 12-14 but has lost eight games in the final minute and a half of play.

Grayson is led by 5-10 wing player Kasi Higgs, who averages 18.1 points and 11.1 free throws.

Another standout player for the Vikings is 5-7 sophomore point-guard Darla George, who averages 11 assists a game.

Coach Ken Hefner's Odessa Lady Wranglers come into the tournament with a 28-0 season record. About the only thing the Wranglers could do this season that they didn't do a year ago is win a national championship. The Wranglers were turned back by two points in the NJCAA championship.

Hefner's bunch is led by all-American prospect Doreatha Conwell, a 6-3 sophomore who averages 27.3 points and 16.6 rebounds a game. She has over 110 blocked shots and steals for the season.

Other top players for the Lady Wranglers include 5-4 guard Donna Wilson, 8.8 assists a game, and Renay Daughtery, 13.8 points and 6 rebounds.

Today's earlier games featured Ronnie Hearne's 22-4 Cisco team against 12-12 Clarendon and McLennan against Lyndon Hardin's Lady Texans of South Plains.

The Cisco-Clarendon matchup included two of the top players in the region, Cisco's 6-1 sophomore post Valerie Barnett and Clarendon's 5-6 sophomore guard Aretha Brown.

Both players average near 20 points a game.

Texas transfer unanimous All-SWC basketball choice

DALLAS (AP) - Texas center John Brownlee, who transferred to the Longhorns after an unsuccessful stint at North Carolina, rebounded to win a unanimous spot on The Associated Press 1985-1986 All-Southwest Conference basketball team and earn Offensive Player of the Year honors.

Brownlee, a 6-10 senior from Fort Worth, shot 55 per cent from the field and averaged 16 points and almost nine rebounds per game for the Longhorns.

Other players on the mythical first team, selected by SWC coaches, included seniors Alvin Franklin of Houston, Don Marbury of Texas A&M, Kevin Lewis of Southern Methodist and junior Carl Lott of Texas Christian.

Marbury was the leading scorer with an average of 22.5 points per game with Franklin just behind at 21.1.

The second team includes Greg Anderson of Houston, Greg Hines of Rice, Jimmie Gilbert of Texas A&M, Tony Benford of Texas Tech, and a tie for the fifth spot between Karl Willock of Texas Tech and Carven Holcombe of TCU.

Anderson headed the second team with a 19.6 scoring average.

Willock was named the Defensive Player of the Year.

Lott headed up the All-Newcomer team which included Texas Tech's Sean Gay, TCU's Larry Richard, Texas' Patrick Fairs and John Sykes.

TCU's Jim Killinsgworth was named the Coach of the Year by his peers. Killingsworth's team confounded the experts because of the play of two excellent junior college transfers, Lott and Richard, and the off-the-bench scoring of Jamie Dixon.

Bradley's streak continues; play in Valley finals today

TULSA, Okla. (AP) - Bradley Coach Dick Versace celebrated being named Missouri Valley Conference coach of the year by recording his 30th victory of the season, but the No. 9 Braves will put it on the line against Illinois State in the league tournament semifinals tonight.

Drake plays Tulsa in the other semifinal game. The championship of the post-season tournament is Wednesday night, with the winner earning the Valley's automatic berth in the NCAA tournament.

"We got to 30 wins because we don't celebrate much," Versace said after the Braves ousted West Texas State, 61-55, in the opening round of the tournament Monday night.

Bradley's season record of 30-1, including a 21-game winning streak, is tops in NCAA Division I. The team's only loss was to Clemson in December. Twelve of the victories have been by four or fewer points.

"I tell myself, as I tell my players, that I give 24 hours to celebrate or be down. That's all," Versace said. "And they listen. That's why they're so successful.

"It's true about what they say about beating a team three times in one year," said Versace, whose team won the regular season conference championship. "For us, we've got to beat three teams for the third time within three days."

Bradley struggled early against the Buffs' patient offense, falling behind 4-0 before scoring eight straight points.

The score was tied five times and the lead switched hands another five times in the first half, but Bradley scored 11 of the last 13 points before intermission to go up 28-21').Bradley center Mike Williams had 18 points to lead the Braves.

Bradley twice built nine-point leads early in the second half. But West Texas State guard Jerry Singletary kept bombing from the perimeter to keep the Buffalos in it until the final moments.

Singletary, who averaged 11 points coming into the game, had 20 to lead the Buffs. West Texas State fell to 11-17 in their last MVC game. The Buffaloes move to the NCAA Division II Lone Star Conference next season.

HERNANDEZ

Hernandez said. "When a decision is made by the arbitrator, I will make my decision on what I do."

Parker, Jeff Leonard of the San Francisco Giants, Dale Berra of the New York Yankees and Enos Cabell of the Los Angeles Dodgers, have opted for compliance with Ueberroth's ruling.

Joaquin Andujar of the Oakland A's and Lonnie Smith of the Kansas City Royals have not said what they will do.

At the Reds' spring training camp in Tampa, Fla., Parker, wearing a handband that said, "Ueberroth," said he plans to play this year and would leave any challenges to the commissioner's decision to the Major League Players' Association.

Parker, who hit .312 last year with 34 homers and 125 runs batted in, testified in a federal drug trial in Pittsburgh last year that he used cocaine while with the Pirates. He said he stopped using the drug before signing with the Reds in December 1983.

At the New York Yankees' training camp in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., pitcher Al Holland said he would accept Ueberroth's penalties as an alternative to a 60-day suspension.

Holland was one of four players who faced a two-month suspension under the commissioner's action on drug involvement. Lee Lacy of Baltimore also agreed to donate five percent of his 1986 salary to a drug prevention facility or program, be tested at random for drugs for the remainder of his career and perform 50 hours of drug-related community service this year.

"I wanted to wait until I had all the ins and outs of it," Holland said. "Now, I have a grasp of everything that happened. I feel part of it isn't fair, but you can't have your cake and eat it, too. The most important thing is we want to put it behind us. We were wrong."

Atlanta's Claudell Washington and Larry Sorensen of the Chicago Cubs, also facing possible two-month suspensions, have not announced their intentions.

Mavericks use 1-2 punch to subdue Suns in overtime

by The Associated Press

The Dallas Mavericks had a great 1-2 punch to beat Phoenix in double overtime.

Mark Aguirre scored 42 points, giving him 82 in his last two games, and Rolando Blackman added six of his 32 points in the second overtime Monday night as the Mavericks edged the Suns 139-138. Blackman provided the winning points when he got behind the Phoenix defense for a dunk with eight seconds left.

"Rolando did more than we asked him to do," Mavericks Coach Dick Motta said. "We had a great two-man going with Ro and Mark."

Motta said Blackman made the decisive basket despite being fouled on the play.

"Ro was hit in the eye on the winning drive," Motta said. "We thought he should have gotten a foul shot. He didn't, but we hung on to win it anyway."

In other NBA games, it was Seattle 118, Houston 105; Los Angeles Lakers 127, Golden State 117; and Milwaukee 115, New York 108.

The Suns, fighting to get into the playoffs in the last six weeks of the season, appeared to be in control for most of the game. They led 65-54 at halftime and 94-85 after three periods before losing for the sixth time in eight games.

"I thought we had it," said Walter Davis, who led the Suns with 31 points.

Sonics 118, Rockets 105

Gerald Henderson and Tom Chambers scored 23 points each and rookie Michael Phelps added a career-high 17 for Seattle against Houston.

Rockets center Ralph Sampson, averaging 25 points per game since Akeem Olajuwon suffered a strained knee nine games ago, scored only four points before he was ejected midway through the third quarter after he was whistled for two technicals. Houston Coach Bill Fitch also was ejected.

Thirty seconds after Fitch was kicked out, Seattle took an 81-52 lead, which was large enough to withstand a 20-4 Houston streak.

John Lucas led all scorers with 25 points for the Rockets.

Lakers 127, Warriors 117

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, despite a sore shoulder. scored 34 points, 25 of them in the second half, as Los Angeles beat Golden State.

The Warriors, who have beaten the Lakers twice this season despite having the NBA's worst record, fought back from a 99-87 deficit entering the fourth quarter to tie the score 112-112 with five minutes remaining. But Abdul-Jabbar scored the next five points to spark a 9-0 spurt that put Los Angeles in control again.

Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 21 points and 16 assists for the Lakers, while Purvis Short led Golden State with 31 points.

Bucks 115, Knicks 108

Launch escape system thought impractical

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Four astronauts who hope to fly again on space shuttles would like to have a launch escape system to avoid a Challenger-like accident, but they believe such a system is not yet possible.

Henry Hartsfield, Joe Engle, Vance Brand and Gordon Fullerton, former shuttle commanders who on Monday broke a month-long silence, said launch escape systems have been studied on shuttles, but none were developed.

Early space flights had ejection seats that accommodated only two crewmembers.

"I think it would be desirable to have that capability," said Engle. "It's theoretically possible, but whether or not it would be practical is another thing."

"It would be great," added Fullerton. "But I'm enough of a realist to say that if I held out for that nobody would ever fly again with this present shuttle system."

Challenger exploded Jan. 28, 73 seconds after launch. The shuttle carried no launch escape system that could have permitted the crew to escape.

Brand said there are systems where crewmembers would be pulled from the cabin by small rockets and then parachuted to Earth.

"That level of a thing we might be able to implement in a reasonable time," he said. "If you go to something very exotic, like an escape capsule as we've had on some airplanes, I think you'd absolutely have to go to a new program and a new vehicle. It would take too long."

In any case, he said, "we're not going to get 100 percent safety."

Hartsfield said studies have been done on a launch escape system that would involve blowing out the top of the solid rockets to reduce the thrust to zero and slow the craft.

"We had some other studies that showed even if you did that, the orbiter would probably tear up," he said.

None of the four astronauts said they knew before Challenger blew up that engineers were concerned about the safety of the solid rocket boosters used on the shuttle, but that they felt they should have been informed.

"I was angry about it," said Hartsfield. "Still am."

"Normally we are informed about such safety issues," Brand said. "It was an oversight that none of us know about this."

All four said morale in the astronaut corps was high now, recovering from a period in which as Engle put it: "We went to far too many memorial services."

They said everyone wanted to fly, but not until the problem that destroyed Challenger is found and corrected. They said they would insist upon repair of a a seal design that is suspected of causing failure of a solid rocket booster.

"Before I get on that sucker again," said Hartsfield, "I'd like to get the seal problem fixed."

Justices resigning positions

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Justices of the Philippines' second-highest court announced their resignations today in response to President Corazon Aquino's request that all appointees of Ferdinand E. Marcos step down, the justice minister said.

Court of Appeals Justice Ramon Gaviola met with Mrs. Aquino to submit 18 resignations from the appellate court, and assured her that all 38 of the justices would relinquish their posts, according to Justice Minister Neptali Gonzales.

Some resistance to Mrs. Aquino's request has been reported among Philippines Supreme Court justices, but Gonzales told The Associated Press some retired judges had been sent to convince the 12 high court justices to step down.

Gonzales said it was necessary to clean out the judiciary because it was stacked with Marcos supporters. Marcos fled the country Feb. 26 after a fraud-riddled election sparked a military-backed rebellion that toppled him from power.

"One of the demands of the people in this 'people-power' revolution is to change or clean out the government," he said.

Gonzales also said that as a last resort, the new government would consider simply declaring a revolutionary stance and ordering all posts vacated.

"That is the ultimate option, which we would exercise only when are backs are to the wall," he said.

He said, however, the government deemed itself limited by the Philippine constitution's Bill of Rights, which is similar to the U.S. Bill of Rights, and by international human rights agreements.

Meanwhile, hundreds of supporters of Vice Mayor Johnny Wilson of the Manila financial district of Makati demonstrated today against the Aquino government's appointment of Jejomar Binay as "officer in charge" following the death of Makati Mayor Nemesio Yabut.

The protest was one of several against Mrs. Aquino's moves to oust Marcos supporters from both local and national government across the islands. The efforts have also caused rifts among her own supporters, primarily because of disagreements over who should get the posts.

Manila-area demonstrations on Monday included 500 people in Quezon City demanding retention of Mayor Adelina Rodriguez and 1,000 in Caloocan in support of Mayor Macario Asiastio.

Hunt continuing

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Police hunting for the killer of Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme reported they had been told of a second claim that he was shot by a West German terror group, and said the killer could have slipped through border controls.

Police reported little progress in their search for the killer. The national news agency TT on Monday quoted Police Inspector Jan Winner as saying: "We stand about where we were at the beginning."

Alerts at border points and the Stockholm airport continued, but security officials said someone who planned carefully might have gotten through because the controls were not airtight.

Police have said that the killer apparently had stalked Palme for some time, and that the attack was meticulously planned.

Palme, the 59-year-old head of Sweden's powerful Social Democratic party, was shot in the back with a .357 magnum revolver as he walked home from a movie with his wife, Lisbet, in central Stockholm. Mrs. Palme, 55, was slightly wounded.

Thousands of Swedish workers stood silently for five minutes Monday in honor of Palme. At Volvo automobile plants alone, 15,000 workers laid down their tools.

The disclosure of another claim of responsibility Monday from the Holger Meins Commando terror group brought to three the number of reported claims of responsibility.

Two of them came from someone claiming to speak for the Holger Meins group, the third by a person claiming to be from a related West German group, the Red Army Faction.

Swedish police said Monday they had been told of a call to a news agency in London by someone claiming the Holger Meins Commando group had killed Palme, and later said they had learned of another call, also to a London news agency by someone purporting to be with the Holger Meins group.

Police would not comment further on either report.

Ingvar Carlsson, who had been deputy premier and now is acting prime minister, was chosen unanimously on Monday as the Social Democrats' new leader.

$1,500.

Also indicted for burglary in connection with a Feburary incident were 22-year-old Steven Michael Moore, 18-year-old Tracey Dean Frare, and 17-year-old William Curtis Elarton — all of Montana.

The trio was originally arrested in Daingerfield, Texas on Feb. 10 and charged with the burglary of Richard's Grocery in Hermleigh the night of Feb. 9.

All three remain in Scurry County Jail in lieu of bonds set at $5,000.

He is currently free on a $1,500 bond posted at the time of his arrest. Bond in the case was raised to $10,000 after Monday's "enhanced" indictment reflecting a 1979 conviction here of rape by force. The enhanced indictment carries a sentence of from five years to life imprisonment.

TOM LOEFFLER

Loeffler states position

Believing that the state's financial woes can be solved primarily through budget cuts, gubernatorial candidate Tom Loeffler emphatically stated, "As long as I am governor, there will never be a state income tax, either individual or corporate."

Loeffler's remarks came during a teleconference with eight area journalists Monday.

The Republican believes that state government needs to discard some programs currently being funded. A committee composed of individuals from the private sector should make recommendations in program cuts, he added.

"It's time to make an indepth review of all programs," he said. "In the last 10 years, we have seen a 175 percent net increase in spending, but our population has only grown by 33 percent. I believe we can live within our financial base."

Once spending cuts have been made, the 23rd District Representative noted, he will concentrate on increasing revenue. "But we will only use those proven ways we've raised revenue in the past," he added.

Although he sidestepped naming specific proposals, Loeffler noted that as governor he will take measures to establish new foreign markets for Texas' products, particularly agricultural exports. "Rhode Island currently has two offices overseas. We might consider doing the same thing."

A supporter of the oil import fee, Loeffler believes that his experience as a congressman will give him leverage on energy issues in Washington. "Texas needs a governor who can go to Washington and be heard, one who can go and work both sides of the aisles with Democrats and Republicans and with the administration," he said.

The Republican's chief deputy whip, Loeffler serves on the appropriations and budget committees.

He faces former governor Bill Clements and former Congressman Kent Hance in the Republican primary in May.

Anderson selected as summer missionary

DALLAS--Margaret Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Anderson of Snyder, will serve this summer as a Baptist Student Union summer missionary in Houston Mission Center.

Anderson, who attends North Texas State University, is one of 116 from Texas universities and colleges who will serve as summer missionaries in 21 states and three foreign countries through the special program.

The students will be supported on the mission field through funds raised by other students from 120 BSUs at Texas universities and colleges, said Jack Greever, director of Division of Student Work of the 2.3 million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas.

MARGARET ANDERSON

The statewide BSU program is supported through the cooperative program gifts of nearly 5,000 Southern Baptist churches in Texas.

"As the students serve in home and foreign mission areas, and with churches, institutions and Baptist mission centers here in Texas, they can make a crucial difference in sharing God's love with thousands of people," Greever said.

Violence erupts in north Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Protestant protesters launched sniper and gasoline-bomb attacks at police and virtually paralyzed Northern Ireland in a violent 24-hour protest of an agreement that gives the Irish Republic a role in the province.

Police said at least 11 people were hurt, six of them policemen, during Monday's day-long strike. Approximately 40 people were arrested.

Protestants, who outnumber Catholics 3-2 in Northern Ireland, had called for a peaceful strike to protest the Nov. 15 British-Irish agreement that gives the predominantly Roman Catholic Irish Republic a formal consultative role in the running of Northern Ireland.

Violence broke out shortly after the strike began at midnight Sunday.

Masked gunmen at two separate locations in Belfast fired at least 32 shots at police in the strike's final hours, and officers responded with two rounds of plastic bullets. No one was reported injured.

Police said youths hurled gasoline bombs at a police patrol in Belfast's Tynedale Park district.

Sir John Hermon, Chief Constable of the Royal Ulster Constabulary, the province's police force, said leaders of the demonstration were "grievously at fault" for not preventing intimidation and violence.

James Molyneaux, leader of the Protestant Official Unionist Party and a strike organizer, said widespread intimidation and unnecessary violence had seriously set back the Unionist cause. He suggested the violent attacks may have been deliberately planned.

But fellow strike organizer, the Rev. Ian Paisley, leader of the Democratic Unionist Party, called the strike a great success.

"We called for this 'Day of Action' to show the people of the mainland that the Anglo-Irish agreement does not stand for stability, does not stand for reconciliation, and does not stand for peace," he said.

Police said the province was quiet after the strike ended. "We are keeping our fingers crossed," said one officer.

Four policemen and two women were injured by stones thrown at them during an evacuation of the Saracen clothing factory in Lurgan, 15 miles southwest of Belfast. The factory was seriously damaged by a fire that broke out after the 200 workers left under police escort to protect them from a mob of about 500 Protestant pickets.

Nearly all business and industry was shut down, and electricity cuts averaging four hours hit almost every area of Ulster. Most schools were closed, a dozen towns were blockaded, roadblocks were thrown up and transportation was disrupted.

Militants also blocked roads with tractors, trees, oil and nails.

At a mock funeral for democracy outside Belfast City Hall, attended by a crowd of 5,000, Protestant leaders accused British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of killing democracy in the province.

Reagan campaigns for aid to Contras

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, battling long odds in his fight to resume military aid to anti-communist rebels in Nicaragua, is warning that failure to provide the financing could create a terrorist haven "two days' driving time" from the U.S. border.

One senior administration official, speaking on condition he not be identified, said White House strategists calculate they need to turn around about 40 votes in the House before the Easter recess if Reagan is to succeed in getting $100 million in arms and other assistance for the anti-Sandinista fighters known as Contras.

The administration picked up one new Senate supporter Monday but lost a key House moderate in the debate as Reagan kept the focus on Nicaragua by inviting Contra leaders and some of their private American backers to the White House.

Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., announced he had changed his position and now supports military aid to the U.S.-backed guerrillas, but he suggested the money should not be spent for six months to allow time for the two sides to begin peace talks.

Sasser said Reagan probably has about a 50-50 chance of winning congressional approval of his aid plan.

However, Rep. Dave McCurdy, D-Okla., a moderate on the House Intelligence Committee who supported non-lethal aid for the Contras last year, said he will oppose the administration's new request.

McCurdy said nearly all the swing votes in the House are prepared to vote against the proposal but predicted a compromise package probably will emerge from Congress after the current request is defeated.

Reagan, seeking to dramatize the threat he sees from the Sandinistas, said Monday if his request for $70 million in direct military assistance and $30 million in non-lethal aid dies in Congress, it could mean "consolidation of a privileged sanctuary for terrorists and subversives just two days' driving time from Harlingen, Texas."

"Those who would invite this strategic disaster by abandoning yet another fighting ally of this country in the field will be held fully accountable by history," he said.

The president read his statement in the Cabinet Room as he was flanked by the leadership of the resistance forces, who call themselves the United Nicaraguan Opposition (UNO).
