IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY AND CONTEMPLATED

Contractor Ray of Dallas was a business visitor in the city the latter part of last week.

Plans for the construction of the Hankins Drug Store have been received and work will be started at an early date on this building.

Snip's Barber Shop is adding an electric sign post to his shop. This will add much to the appearance of his place of business.

Mr. J. E. (Deb) Ivy is opening up a store and filling station at Fairview and will soon be ready to attend the needs of his friends of that community.

E. G. Lockley announces that he will start construction on the new Leroy Theatre just as soon as he can make his final arrangements for plans.

Mr. John Braley, who has been in Rocksprings doing construction work for the past few months, is in town figuring on some of the new jobs pending.

Mr. Christian Simon has purchased the merchandise at the Fisher store at the Fairview school house and planning to carry a complete line of supplies for the people of that community.

The Junction Hotel is enjoying a nice trade, having most of its rooms full each night, despite the fact that it is not the time of the year when we have our most visitors. The management of the hotel has printed the hotel and liquor laws of the State pertaining to hotels together with their rates and have posted the same in a conspicuous place, in each room.

The Junction State Bank is in receipt of its plans for its new bank building and just as soon as the details can be worked out construction will start. Junction can now boast of the strongest bank west of Kerrville to El Paso for any city of even double its size. Deposits in the new consolidated bank are running near the seven hundred thousand dollar mark and the total assets of the Junction State Bank together with its subsidiary corporations is over one million dollars. Big enough to take care of any demand.

SCHOOL HOUSE BURNED ON W. W. ALLEN RANCH

We are in receipt of information that the Allen school house burned on Saturday night of last week. The exact cause of the fire is unknown, but it is believed that the fire was caused by the ignition of some lined oil rags which had been used by some of the boys in polishing antique furniture. The building was a frame structure of 12x24 feet and was a complete loss. The only thing that averted the ignition of the beautiful ranch home of Mrs. W. W. Allen was a favorable wind, and some 30 minutes it looked as though it would ignite even under favorable conditions.

W. R. Fletcher of Bandera was here on business this week.

Another "Edison"

Henry W. Lavigne, of Worcester, Mass., hailed by electrical authorities as another "Edison," has perfected a direct-current transformer and a self-generating motor which, it is said, will revolutionize the automobile and airplane industries.

INTERESTING PROGRAM FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice day will be celebrated in Junction beginning with a band concert on the court house lawn at 8:30 a. m., after which the colors will be displayed.

The program will be continued at 10:00 o'clock by a foot ball game between the Junction high school team and the team of all-stars from the city. The game will be played on the campus of the local high school.

In the afternoon a typical Western Texas program will be rendered on the local polo field, in which every opportunity will be given to display good horsemanship and good horses. There will be cigar races, tournament races, goat roping and a polo game between the Junction and Murr teams, and while there is no definite assurance that pony races and relay races will be entered into, it is now being planned to have these added attractions.

One of the features of the afternoon entertainment will be a chucker of polo played between two teams who have never had any experience in polo. One squad will be led by Mr. Ches Goodwin and another by Judge Howell Wright. It is rumored that these men are now preparing some special stunts for the occasion.

The program committee will start the program promptly at 3 o'clock and here is going to be some kind of entertainment going on all the time, and all entrants in all activities will be expected to be prompt and ready when the time comes for their event.

Mr. Roland Martin is in charge of the cigar races, Mr. Slater Fleming is in charge of the tournament races and Tuffy Taylor is in charge of the goat roping. There will be no premiums or prizes of any kind or championship given that will in any way violate the law. It is the intention of the committee to conduct the affair purely for the entertainment of the public without any law being infringed upon.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE MEETS SATURDAY A. M.

The Teachers' Institute for Kimble County will convene in regular session at the Court House in Junction on the morning of November 11. It would be a good plan for the County Board of Trustees together with all local trustees to be in attendance. The law requires school trustees to meet annually. This is a good opportunity to see what your school is doing and costing in comparison to other schools. There will be no program and anything of interest to the schools of Kimble County can be discussed at your pleasure. In the afternoon ample entertainment will be provided at the Skaggs polo field. There is going to be a good polo game, cigar races, tournament races and goat roping. Come into town and inform yourself as to your school and help celebrate Armistice Day.

NEW CHEVROLET AGENCY SELLING MANY CARS

The McDonald Chevrolet Company, recently organized and are now constructing a sales room and garage in connection with their filling station, report the following sales for the month of October.

P. Joseph, touring; Ollie Fleming, truck; Gully Cowser, touring; Rubie D. Williams, roadster; Captain Rieck, coupe; Chas. Bishop, coach; W. C. Oliver, coupe; M. V. Kirkpatrick, touring; E. V. Huffman, roadster; R. C. Tatum, roadster; Ollie Fleming, cabriolet; B. B. Ragland, coupe.

NOTICE OF REMOVAL

Will the parents of the children in the Baptist Primary Sunday School please take notice that we have removed from the Wilson building to the home of Mrs. J. A. Heyman.

Mrs. Frank Wilson, Supt. Miss Maud Davis and her father, Mr. W. M. Davis, of Cuero spent the first of the week with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Harrison.

SERVICES WERE HELD AT NEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Last Sunday was a day of much pleasure and rejoicing among the members of the Christian Church due to the fact that for the first time services were held in the new building, which was completed a short time ago, and the furnishing which was delayed in transit was finally installed one day last week, and the seats were placed Saturday evening. The church piano has not arrived as yet, but it is expected within the next week or so.

There was no program for the opening; merely a sermon by Rev. J. J. Ray of Mason Christian Church, whose regular day it was to preach to this church.

Rev. Ray organized this church here in August of 1924, and the membership, about ten in number, all told, have used the home of C. W. Atchison in which to hold services, and during that time the membership has enjoyed a slight increase, when it now numbers about twenty.

No attempt will be made here to describe the structure of the building or the inside finish and furnishings. It beggars description. It must be seen to be appreciated. A hearty invitation is extended to the public generally to visit the church any Sunday, as Sunday School and Communion services will be held there each Lord's Day.

The church was profusely decorated with cut flowers, artistically arranged by the ladies. Rev. Ray delivered a splendid gospel sermon to a crowded and attentive audience at the morning service, and also another real gospel sermon at the evening hour. He announced at each service that the dedication services will be held in the church on the first Lord's Day in December, that being his day in Junction, and he stated that a number of noted men of the brotherhood would be here to assist in the dedication services.

A cordial invitation is extended to and a hearty welcome awaits all who care to attend.

T. M. HODGES

On Wednesday at about 11:30 o'clock occurred the death of one of Kimble County's pioneer citizens, Mr. T. M. Hodges, Sr. "Uncle Tommie," as he was familiarly known, has lived in Junction and Kimble County since the early eighties and was 78 years of age last August.

The remains are being held awaiting the arrival of a son, T. M. Jr., who is in California, and is expected to arrive tomorrow, and the funeral will take place probably Friday afternoon or Saturday.

The Parent-Teachers' Association is busily engaged in compiling a very elaborate Cook Book, the copy for which will be turned in to the Eagle the latter part of next week, and it is intended to have it completed for sale for the holiday trade.

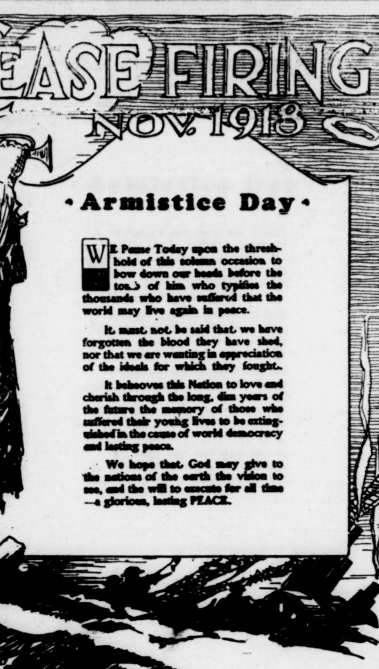

The soliciting committee will call upon the business men and others during the coming week, and this committee should receive the hearty support of every man approached. It is a worthy undertaking, and the ladies are furnishing their own recipes for the cook book, and spending their time in soliciting the publication thereof, the net proceeds of which will go into the P. T. A. fund for the improvement of the school grounds or some necessary equipment in the building.

"BRINGING UP FATHER" SHOWS HERE ON 18th

George McManus' big, all new cartoon comedy show, "Bringing Up Father," Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore, with a company of wing dancers and real comedians. This show has always played in the cities, in the theatres, but owing to special arrangements by Mr. Wilkes with Mr. McManus, he has arranged to play in a tent theatre with special scenery and lights. This is the assigned and only company that is allowed to present this big laughing cartoon comedy show. A four-act play with Jiggs and his gang. Date is Friday, November 18—one day only. Prices for this date only, is children 25c; Adults 35c.

The data for a Kimble County magazine for the coming year is being compiled by the Junction Publishing Company and the management would appreciate any suggestion that would help to make our 1928 edition of this magazine a success. The reception that has been given the 1927 magazine has been very encouraging.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Patterson spent the week-end with relatives in Rocksprings.

P. T. A. WILL ISSUE COOK BOOK FOR XMAS SALE

The Parent-Teachers' Association is busily engaged in compiling a very elaborate Cook Book, the copy for which will be turned in to the Eagle the latter part of next week, and it is intended to have it completed for sale for the holiday trade.

Mrs. George Pepper is general chairman of the Cook Book committee and Mrs. H. O. Denman is chairman of the Advertising Soliciting committee. When the solicitors call on you, buy as liberally of the space as your funds for advertising purposes will allow.

It will be well to place your order at once for one of the books, which will insure you getting one of the first off the press. They will be ready for delivery about the 20th of December, probably earlier.

JUNCTION LOSES TWO YOUNG MEN TO BRADY

On the first of November, Barney Williams and Lewis D. Jetton, two of Junctions ablest and most progressive young men, moved over to Brady and purchased the Knox Cafe.

Barney Williams was formerly in the cafe business here and made a gratifying success financially and otherwise. He took over the old City Cafe a few years ago when it was on a standstill and transformed it into one of the busiest eating houses in the country. Barney not only knows how to get the business, but he knows how to furnish that wholesome food and high class service which will keep business after it is once obtained. He stays continually on the job.

Lewis D. Jetton is a young man born and reared in Junction, and has held a number of responsible positions. He was bookkeeper for the First National Bank up to the time its business was consolidated with the Junction State Bank and continued as such with the State Bank until the very day he left for Brady. Bank officials regard him as an excellent bookkeeper, a young man worthy of trust, attentive to business, thrifty in his habits and destined to success in whatever he undertakes.

Both of these young men have been very active in the commercial and social life of this town and will be sorely missed from Junction. Both are of that sterling moral worth which he can ill afford to lose. Our loss, however, is Brady's gain and we commend Messrs. Williams and Jetton to the best business circles of Brady and do not hesitate to say that Brady will find her citizenship enriched by the addition of these young gentlemen.

SEGOVIA STORE AGAIN CHANGES PROPRIETORS

Mr. J. C. Mangold has recently sold his Segovia store to W. N. Hatch of Hunt, Texas, who took charge of the business on November 1st. Mr. Hatch plans the construction of a modern tourist camp at Segovia and will rebuild his store of rock and concrete material. He is planning an attractive front for his place of business. We predict a good business for this place after this improvement is made, more especially after the new road to Fredericksburg is opened up.

TELEPHONE COMPANY INSTALLS NEW EQUIPMENT

The Junction Telephone Company has recently purchased an up to date switch board which will shortly be installed for the use of its patrons. In addition to this new equipment new posts will soon arrive for use in the city limits and in and near roads where it is necessary to have the wires high off the ground. Every service will be installed by the new company to give each patron good and prompt service. There will be a line for each user in the city and for all those that desire it in the country. This will be an acceptable improvement.

AMBITION!!

James Moore, 19, of New England, went to New York to get rich. He worked days in a factory at night for meals—sleeping in the subway to save room rent. He was arrested and his story in court caused Wall Street brokers to get him out of jail for a fresh start.

POULTRY HINTS
AND SUGGESTIONS(By F. W. Kammeyer, Bryan, Texas)
Selection of Eggs for the Egg Show

At the Washington International Egg Show, the following description of a perfect shaped egg was considered in the show:

"The perfect shaped egg is 1 1/2 times as long as it is thick and weighs from 2 to 2 1/2 ounces. The eggs should be curved evenly, and not varying from the dimensions given."

Weight for dozens 24 to 26 ounces. If white, the shell must be chalk white, free from creamy color. There should be no tinted eggs. If brown, they may be any shade so long as all are same color and appear fresh. The shell should be free from such blemishes as roughness, lime spots, wrinkles or ridges. The shell should be strong. Eggs must be clean and unwashed. The texture of shell is important, it should be of uniform thickness (not mottled) smooth and no cracks or blind checks. The air space should be no larger than a dime, and must be stationary and located in large end of egg. The white should appear free from spots, blood ring or dark color. It should be thick, causing yolk to move slowly when egg is turned before candler. The yolk should be visible, but not too pronounced; it should not be fastened to the side of egg; it also should move slowly when egg is turned before candler, and be free from blood clots or anything of a similar nature.

How many eggs do you sell like the above? Do you really give the question of grading eggs any consideration? Do you consider 12 eggs, as 12 things with shells that look like eggs? Remember in order to get a good price for eggs you should sell 12 good eggs for a dozen.

You Cannot Raise Chickens
On Horse Back

The other day the question was asked a court house group, why do not more farmers raise chickens; the answer promptly came back from another of the same group, because you cannot raise chickens on horse back. I am wondering just how true that is. The ideal place for chickens is on the farm. Four or five hundred bred-to-lay hens on a farm, properly managed, can represent a profitable side-line. There is no better place for a flock of hens than on the farm. Probably not every farmer has the proper state of mind that is necessary to make a success with poultry. For that reason we are not placing ourselves on record as recommending that every farmer keep a flock of chickens. For fear that they may be misunderstood in regard to the loose phrase "proper state of mind," we are going to explain it a little more in detail. At a meeting, somewhere, sometime, a complaint was made that there was no money in chickens, because feed was too high and eggs too cheap. A man got up in the audience and told that the feed question did not worry him any. He stated that he had 900 acres of cut over land and 1000 hens. For each hen he provided two roosters to scratch for her, and at any time when two roosters could not scratch fast enough to feed one hen he would kill off the roosters and provide her with two new ones.

The above no doubt explains why on some Texas and Oklahoma farms there appears to be an out of proportionate number of roosters with the farm flocks. No wonder our campaigns to put over an "infertile egg" project in the spring and summer after hatching season comes to sure failure.

With this explanation made, as to what we meant by state of mind, maybe we can go on with our story.

Feed Well

Filling up the crops of chickens with maize, milo or corn once a day may keep them from starvation, but surely won't make many eggs. It may be unfortunate, but it is true, that an egg is made from other food constituents than that which is found in grains or even mixture of several grains. In that case, where can the hen get the other constituents that are necessary. The answer is, that unless you are feeding a balanced ration, she does not get them, and her answer to you is no eggs. The problem of feeding poultry profitably is not an easy one; it is not a simple one. Unless you are willing to mix brains with the feed, and that feed a balanced ration, the results will be unsatisfactory. The saying "the eyes of the feeder fattened the calf" means a great deal.

Take for instance the question of succulent green food. In Texas and most parts of Oklahoma, and one and every body can have a green pasture for their farm flocks, if they just use a little of the energy both brain and physical with which all are endowed. What do we find? Barren yards, probably covered with weeds going to seed. Two weeks ago the barren yard could have been plowed, harrowed and sown to oats, barley, rye or wheat or a mixture of both, and today the chickens would be enjoying much succulent green food. Yes, two weeks ago we had plenty of moisture to sprout the seed. Also it would not have taken more than 3 or 4 hours to do the job.

More About Mash

Last week we brought out the importance of feeding mash to make hens lay. Grain alone just simply won't do the trick. A good dry mash, with proper animal food, vitamins and minerals, will make eggs. The more of a good mash mixture you can get them to consume the more eggs they will lay. Better look into this question and give it some real thought on your part. Eggs are going up in price; in another month they will again be a nickel apiece. At that price a well bred hen can easily produce $1.00 worth of eggs in a month. She cannot possibly eat more than 25 cents worth of feed. Five hundred hens, on this basis would come in handy to pay taxes, interest on money borrowed to make cotton crop, buy Christmas presents, etc.

The total number of cattle in herds fully accredited as free from tuberculosis exceeds 1,885,000. The work of tuberculosis eradication is going forward systematically in all States. During the last month of the fiscal year the inspectors engaged in tuberculin testing applied the test to more than 800,000 cattle, of which approximately 24,000 were found to be affected with the disease. The removal of such reactors from contact with healthy cattle, followed by the slaughter of diseased animals under Federal inspection, is gradually reducing the extent of bovine tuberculosis throughout the country and benefiting both the livestock industry and public health.

MOON FARMING

Moon farming, according to the Weather Bureau, is "moonshine." It has absolutely no support from any scientific point of view. By "moon farming" is sowing or reaping, breeding or butchering, shingling or shearing, or any other farm activities supposed to be affected by the "dark" or the "light" or some other phase of the moon. The things affecting the growth of crops at any stage are: Temperature and moisture conditions of soil and air; composition of adjacent atmosphere; kind and intensity of light; presence, or absence, and severity, of plant disease; mechanical condition of soil, loose or compact; fertility of the soil, and quantity of other vegetation, or weeds, present. Meteorologists can show that the moon has nothing to do with any of these conditions affecting crops. It has no influence on weather or soil.

Hosea Preaches God's Love

Hosea 6: 11; and 14

Golden Text—1 desire goodness, and not sacrifice; and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings.—Hosea 6:6.

Lesson Setting.—Hosea 6:6.

Lesson.—Hosea 6:6.

Hosea, son of Beeri, was probably a native of Ephraim, strongest of the ten tribes. If the first three chapters of this book are not allegorical, his home life was wretched, but it was his mission to proclaim the love of God to a faithless people. His ministry probably closed a short time before the fall of Samaria, in 721 B. C. His book falls into two parts: three chapters of symbolical history, in which the prophet's family life, with its dark unfaithfulness and its dreadful misery, was but the picture of the relation Israel sustained to Jehovah; and eleven chapters containing fragments of his later ministry, with its denunciation of sin, the threat and vision of swift-penitence, the urgent plea for the deep national penitence, and the tender promise of restoration.

Lesson Text and Outline

Hosea 11: 1-4, 8, 9; 14: 4-8

I. The Providence of Love (Hosea 11).

When Israel was a child, then I loved him, and called my son out of Egypt. 2 The more the prophets called them, the more they went from them: they sacrificed unto the Baalim, and burned incense to graven images. 3 Yet I taught Ephraim to walk: I took them by my arms; but they knew not that I healed them. 4 I drew them with the cords of a man, with bands of love; and I was to them as they that lift up the yoke on their jaws; and I laid food before them.

II. The Patience of Love (Hosea 11).

How shall I give them up, Ephraim? how shall I cast thee off, Israel? how shall I make thee as Admah? how shall I set thee as Zeboim? my heart is turned within me, my compassions are kindled together. 9 I will not execute the fierceness of mine anger, I will not return to destroy Ephraim: for I am God, and not man; the Holy One in the midst of thee; and I will not come in wrath.

III. The Promise of Love (Hosea 14).

4 I will heal their backslidings, I will love them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him. 5 I will be as the dew unto Israel: he shall blossom as the lily, and cast forth his roots as Lebanon. 6 His branches shall spread, and his beauty shall be as the olive tree, and his smell as Lebanon. 7 They that dwell under his shadow shall return; they shall revive as the grain, and blossom as the vine: the scent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon. 8 Ephraim shall say, What have I to do any more with idols? I have answered, and will regard him: I am like a green fir-tree; from me is thy fruit found.

Notes Analytical and Expository

1. Care for the Care-Free.—There is the providence of God's love. From this point of view ten things are told us of the national childhood of Israel. (1) There was the helplessness of childhood, for Israel was a child in its early days. (2) There was the love of childhood, for God regarded the infant nation with tender compassion. (3) There was the call to childhood, for God called Israel out of Egypt at the exodus—a historical event typifying the flight into Egypt with the infant Saviour, and in due time their return to Galilee. (4) There was the folly of childhood, for Israel ran away unheeding from its prophets and to their sorrow sacrificed unto the Baalim, burning incense also before graven images in wanton idolatry. (5) There was the instruction of childhood, for God taught Ephraim, strongest of the ten tribes and representative of all Israel to walk in self-reliance and safety. (6) There was the support of childhood, for time and again it was necessary for Jehovah to take the Israelites on his arms omnipotent. (7) There was the healing of childhood, for it was God alone who could relieve them of their bruises and wounds, though often they failed to recognize his presence. (8) There was the guidance of childhood, for God drew them as a child is guided by leading strings which proved to be bands of love. (9) There was the alleviation of childhood, for God shared their burdens even as the humane teamster lifts the yoke from the jaws of his fatigued oxen. (10) There was the sustenance of childhood, for God laid food before them even as he provided quails and manna and streams of living water in the wilderness.

2. Compassion for the Careless.—There is the patience of God's love. (1) There was a triple and cumulative strain on love yearnings: How could Jehovah give up Ephraim, the pride and glory of the northern kingdom? How could he cast off Israel, the chosen people despite their teeming iniquities? How could he destroy the cities of the chosen people in the chosen land even as he had utterly consumed the towns of Admah and Zeboim with the neighboring cities of Sodom and Gomorrah? (2) There was a triple and cumulative accomplishment of love refraining: God would not execute the fierceness of his anger though it were rightly deserved; he would not return to destroy Ephraim though that obstinate tribe had invited the blow; and he would not come in wrath which implies that he would come back to them in love. (3) There was a triple reason why the divine heart recoiled from deserved destruction and the divine compassion was kindled in mercy: he is God and not man, so that he will be governed by a higher rule of conduct; he is the Holy One, and hence mercy must be linked with justice; and he is in the midst of his people so that he can hear their cry and guard their welfare.

3. Comfort for the Caring.—There is the promise of God's love. Observe what is said by the Lord, the prophet and the nation. (1) The Lord's promise, conditioned on the nation's penitence, involves pardon for past sin and love for future protection. He then expresses his tenderness toward his people in a series of beautiful figures. He will be to them what the copious dews are to vegetation in the dry season. He will make them beautiful as the royal lily, permanent as the deep-rooted cedars of Lebanon, fruitful as the verdant olive, and fragrant as the odoriferous shrubs and flowers of the Lebanon mountains. (2) The prophet's assurance is to the effect that they that dwell under his shadow shall return. They shall not always remain alienated from God and maimed by successive calamities. As the buried grain breaks the clods and emerges above the surface in living strength, so will Israel recover finally from its desolation. It shall also blossom as the vine with the promise of glorious fruitage. It shall further enjoy a glad fruition comparable to the aromatic restorative wine of the famous vineyards of Lebanon. (3) The nation's profession involves abandonment of its idolatries. It renounces false gods, in the decisive interrogatory, "What have I to do any more with idols?"

(4) The Lord's response to genuine repentance is ever and absolutely gracious: "I have answered and will regard him. Divine favor is naturally followed by (5) The nation's prosperity. It is like the green fir tree retaining its foliage alike in the heat of summer and the cold of winter. It attains royal stateliness despite handicaps and hindrances. But lest the nation should become proud and forgetful, it is reminded of (6) The Lord's claim: "From me is thy fruit found. Certainly the giver of life is the source of fruitfulness."

The Lesson of the Lessons

God is Love

(1) Love Divine. "I loved him." There is no human love like that. It is unmerited. It is infinite. It is everlasting.

(2) Love Calling. "I called—prophets called them." The voice of God is sweet and tender to the listening ear and the understanding heart. Why should we ever turn a deaf ear when he speaks? Who can have the heart to sit still when he calls?

(3) Love Teaching. "I taught Ephraim to walk." Love is the best teacher on earth. Who can impart genuine instruction without it? Christ was the greatest teacher because he loved more deeply than any other. It is love that sets our feet in the right path.

(4) Love Holding. "I took them in my arms." Were they about to fall? Were they fatigued and fretful? Were they lonely and hungry to feel the heartbeat of love? Then God took them in his arms of sympathy and strength. He always does.

A NOBLE ANNIVERSARY

Armistice Day, November 11, is rightly cherished as one of the finest of our anniversary occasions. The American people are specially fond of it, because it commemorates something they did themselves. It does not stand for a mere aspiration or a hope, or something that our ancestors did for us many years ago. It recognizes a result that the present generation accomplished by its own unaided effort, by its toil, devotion and courage. Naturally they rejoice in it and never will forget it.

Now if we can carry the spirit that produced that grand result into our civic and national life, that willingness to give of our best to the community and country and give up our own selfish aims to some extent, we shall not have many political or civic problems here in Texas.

NINE YEARS AGO

Nine years ago on November 11, the greatest war in history terminated. After nineteen months of the most intense effort ever put forth by the American people, they saw the triumph of their cause. They had strained and sacrificed, they had put up with meatless and sugarless days and gasless Sundays, they had contributed heavily of human life and money, to secure the principles on which their government was founded.

That war clearly proved the superb courage and efficiency of our country, its power to do grand things when thoroughly roused. It also manifested the intensity of the attachment of the people to their country.

In ordinary times the patriotic impulse seems a good deal asleep. But in a crisis it is demonstrated that the sentiment is still very much alive, and when the people realize that a danger exists to the nation, they will fight their utmost energies to confront and defeat it.

THE COUNTRY TOWN'S WINTER

People living in the cities of Texas often wonder what people do out in the country towns during the winter, and remark on how awfully dull it must be in those places. They could be told that the winter activities of many country towns are so lively that people need to go into the cities for a quiet life and rest up.

There are many country towns where there is so much going on, that you can't find a free evening on which to hold a public entertainment. There will be church nights, and lodge nights, and club nights, and nights for the card clubs, and all kinds of organizations. People find it impossible to attend to all these activities.

And then there are country towns, many of them of considerable size, where there is scarcely a thing going on thru the long winter evenings, save perhaps the church prayer meetings, and the meetings of one or two lodges. Young people who crave active life find conditions almost insufferable there. Their dissatisfaction results in many of them leaving those places, and going into larger centers where there is "something doing."

It is a very vital thing for the country towns to have interesting things going on. People will not live in those places unless they have agreeable activities.

All that it takes in such a place is a little initiative. If people claim there is nothing doing, they must be pretty slow if they can't get up a card club or a literary or musical society or a dancing school. Or they can give plays and obtain valuable dramatic training and incidentally raise money for some good cause.

If the country towns are dull, it is the fault of their own people. In most country towns of Texas this is thoroughly realized now, and they have plenty of pleasant activities that make the long evenings pass quickly.

SOUTH LLANO NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Less Fleming of near Willow City were here last week for their goats on the J. Schurhardt ranch. He also purchased 400 nannies from Mr. M. Huffman, Everett and M. A. Smith left Sunday with the goats.

Mrs. E. Smith and children accompanied Mrs. L. Fleming home.

Mrs. J. H. Hubbell and daughter, Margaret, and son, James, were guests at the F. Hodges home Sunday afternoon.

Blix and Raymond Smith were week-end guests at their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hodges.

Mrs. J. Schurhardt has been quite ill for several days but glad to report her better at present.

Mrs. F. Dupuy and F. Blardone left Tuesday for Port Lavaca to spend the winter at Mrs. Blardone's home.

Sam Freeman and Jimmie Hodges left Saturday with 300 kids for Ross Beasley's ranch which he had purchased from Geo. Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sprague are stopping at the Everett Smith home to look after the interest of the place during their absence to Willow City.

Elmer Huffman was shopping in Junction Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Stevenson were visitors to Junction Saturday.

Mr. M. Davis and family spent Saturday and Sunday night in Junction.

Miss Gussie Burris spent the week-end with her friend, Mrs. Emsley, at the Dixon ranch.

IVY ECHOES

The Ivy community was blessed with a good rain last Sunday.

Mr. Oran Stewart, the principal of the Ivy school, was absent last Monday on account of the river being up.

The Ivy school received their new stoves last Thursday afternoon.

Frank Stewart was absent from school last week on account of illness.

Mrs. Earl Hight was the guest of Mrs. T. Pearl Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Pearl and daughter, Loma, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Stewart Sunday.

Misses Kane and Elsie Gephart of San Antonio are visitors of the Ivy community this week.

Mr. Lee Dodd and family were the visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gephart Sunday.

The Ivy school always welcomes visitors.

Our school is preparing a Thanksgiving program, to be rendered Friday night, November 18th, in connection with the box supper which will be given that night also. You and your friends are invited to come.

Jewel Shearer, the fifteen year old son of Mr. Shearer who has moved to the Gephart place, entered school lately. He is a studious pupil and will also be a valuable addition to the boys' basketball team.

School motto for this week: "Be ashamed to catch yourself idle."

The new home of T. B. Pearl is being rushed to completion.

Monthly exams are just over. We draw a deep breath of relief and begin to fortify for next month.

LONDON LOCALS

(Too late for last week)

The rain Sunday was bountiful. Some say 5, some 7 inches. Anyway it was a plenty.

Up to date we have ginned 847 bales and cotton is still bringing $100.00. That means considerable money for London people.

Sheep shearing is in progress with wool and mohair selling for good prices.

J. F. Gentry made a trip to Brady yesterday.

Our ball team matched with Kerrville last Saturday. I think our boys got beat a little. I haven't heard them tell how the score stood.

It is fine to see our boys and girls striving for more knowledge. Some of our neighbors are at Alpine, at San Marcos, at Baylor and at Brownwood. This is commendable.

Mr. Roe passed through London the 2nd on an inspection tour of the road. He will find it bad from reports. The good road work done by our townsman, Mr. Clyde Deck, has been badly impaired by the rain and will have to be done over.

Bro. Newman filled his appointment with the Christian Church Saturday night but the rain prevented attendance on Sunday. We would suggest that Mr. Newman renew his appointment and finish the discussion of the subject as outlined.

School is progressing nicely, and that is the greatest item of news we can have.

Parents, remember we have Sunday School each Sunday morning at the Baptist church by the Baptist brethren, and at the Community Hall by the Christian brethren. Parents could do no better than teach their children to attend these places of instruction and the better way to encourage them to attend is to attend themselves. Teachers could set no better example than to be in regular attendance each Sunday morning at Sunday School.

Mrs. Clarence Young of San Angelo is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Brewer, and family. Fannie and Monk look fine.

Mr. Editor, you may tell the world that this is a beautiful afternoon and I am going out in the sunshine.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

People have to give out as well as take in. If you give out little in the way of effort or financial support to your home town, you will not take in so much from that source.

If you can't talk so that people can hear what you say, you do not convince them. So if a business concern fails to make itself heard through advertising, it has difficulty in convincing the people of the merits of its goods.

The same article looks a lot better to some people, when they pay more for it in some distant city store.

and bruise. He knows what to apply to effect a cure. Often he applies the medicine without the patient's knowledge. But healing comes from no other source.

(6) Love Guiding. "I drew them with bands of love." It is a beautiful picture of training a little child in the use of hands and feet. How else can we be led in the right path? Who else is so interested in our proper development?

(7) Love Lifting. I was to them as they that lifted up the yoke." Is the load heavy to pull? Has the very yoke become a burden? Are you in need of pause and rest? There is One by you who will lighten the load and lift the yoke and give you rest.

(8) Love Nourishing. "I laid food before them." Think of the quails that flocked into the wilderness. Think of the manna that was fresh every morning. Think of the crystal waters that gushed from the desert rock. Think of the ravens feeding Elijah. Think of the Bread of Life offered in mercy to men.

(9) Love Yearning. "My heart is turned—my compassions are kindled." God is not unconcerned. He sees our need. He knows our frailty. He remembers that we are dust. He sees our utter dependence upon him! May he see in us a thirst and hunger for him! How he compassionates and sympathizes!

(10) Love Refraining. "I will not execute—I will not return to destroy." Wickedness merits woe. Sins deserve sorrow. Transgression calls for punishment. But God is forbearing. He is patient. But his spirit will not always strive with man.

(11) Love Refreshing. "I will be as the dew to Israel." There is the garden in the drought; but the showers come and awaken it into life. There is the shrub in the desert; but the copious dews enable it to live.

(12) Love Ennobling. "He shall blossom as the lily." There is nothing which so beautifies character as love. It has about it a developing quality possessed by no other virtue.

(13) Love Outreaching. "His branches shall spread." The loveless life is empty and vain. But the loving life stretches out to everybody in reach. God's love is boundless as space.

(14) Love Transforming. "What have I to do any more with idols?" The look of love did more for Ephraim than the lash of justice. He turned from idols to God because idols could not love.

(15) Love Fructifying. "From me is thy fruit found." The branches bear fruit only as they are connected with the vine. So our fruitfulness is due directly to God. And we can glorify him by bearing much fruit.

be and do. Strangely and sinfully we misunderstand him. We still think we can make respectable and acceptable sacrifices, but what does it profit when we are unwilling for them to typify our complete surrender to God? Wanted: Goodness and the knowledge of God!

Surpassing Its Own World Record

In developing the Pontiac Six, Oakland set out to produce the finest six-cylinder car ever offered in the low-priced field. To that end were employed all the resources available to Oakland as a division of General Motors, and almost three years were spent in development work.

When presented, the car won nationwide public acceptance, sales during 1926 exceeding the highest previous mark ever attained by a new make of car during its first year.

Yet, so pronounced has been the satisfaction of Pontiac Six owners—so emphatic have they been in their praise of Pontiac Six performance, long life and economy, that Pontiac Six sales have already passed the 120,000 mark for 1927.

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

(By Will H. Mayes.)

Fairs Tell Texas Story

The fall fairs in Texas have never before been so attractive in the display of Texas products and have never drawn such crowds. The Texas State Fair at Dallas had an attendance during its 16 days of 1,028,317 and, so far as known, not one person of the more than a million registered a complaint. The fair was all that could have been expected, or kicks in plenty would have been forthcoming. Perhaps three times as many more as were at Dallas attended the smaller fairs in the State, and, whether they admitted it or not, all of them got the worth of their money in entertainment and useful information. These prosperous Texas fairs, from the smallest community effort to the big State Fair have told eloquently of the prosperity of Texas.

Texas Building Progress

The September building survey shows that Texas ranked ninth among the states in the volume of building for the month and that the increase was about 50 per cent over that of September 1936. Amarillo and Dallas ranked, respectively seventeenth and eighteenth among all the cities of the country in September building volume. San Angelo, which most of us think of as a big town rather than as a city, stood seventh among the cities of Texas in building permits issued. If you have any doubts left about the growth of Texas, you have only to look at the statistics. It is a great State, constantly growing greater.

Newspapers Are Helping

There is no one factor contributing more to this Texas development than the Texas papers. Most of them are suggesting the way to their people by showing what is going on elsewhere. They are urging the building of highways, the construction of school and church buildings, the erection of factories, the improvement of agricultural conditions, better stock farming, diversification of products, more comfortable homes, the many undertakings—that make for better living in Texas. If you are a reader of these articles appearing in this paper from week to week you have seen the many ways this paper is using to point the way to improved conditions. It is seldom that a community goes ahead of its newspaper leadership.

Rockdale Street Paving

Editor Cooke of the Rockdale Reporter is right in the middle of a campaign for street paving in his town. Rockdale had just as well begin on the streets. "Eventually, why not now?" When Editor Cooke starts after a thing he never stops until he gets it. About thirty years ago, when he lived at Brady, he began a street campaign there, and now Brady's streets are either paved or being paved, and Cooke is able to "point with pride" to his work for that town. He isn't going to be so patient with Rockdale. He is showing what is being done at Cameron, at Georgetown, at Taylor and other places. If Rockdale doesn't want to appear in a worse light than Milano or Thrall, it had better heed Cooke's advice and get busy at street paving. That is the only way to stop Editor Cooke's lamentations.

Good Roads Caused It

A farmer living near Johnson City has sold $4,000 worth of tomatoes this year, trucking them to market at Austin over the highway. Regardless of the distance, good roads put the enterprising farmer close to market's. For that reason farmers nearly all now favor good roads.

Odessa's Water Supply

A friend from there writes me that Odessa is another West Texas town with plenty of water for every purpose coming from newly completed wells of pure soft water and pumped into two large storage tanks of 1,000,000 gallon capacity. He says there is enough water now available for a town of 25,000 people with "plenty more where that comes from." Odessa's recent growth has been remarkable, and in the words of this friend, "it will now be hard to catch."

Nacogdoches Wants Hospital
Nacogdoches has decided that a place of that size and importance should have a modern hospital and has started to raise $50,000 for that purpose. With Eugene Blount, statesman and philanthropist, heading the movement, the fund will no doubt soon be raised. Most towns are learning that it does not pay to send its sick to a distant city hospital for treatment.

Sweetwater Gypsum Center

Gypsum, which is the ingredient from which much wall board, sheathing, and plastering is made, is produced in large quantities at Sweetwater, that place having become one of the largest shipping centers for gypsum in the world. The United States Gypsum Company began its shipments there in 1923 and the business has expanded most rapidly, much of its products finding markets in Texas.

Titus County Lignite

Lignite mining is done extensively in Titus county, near Winfield, the present output being nearly 400 tons daily, most of it being used in the territory close by. Miners say that the deposits there have scarcely been touched and geologists state that from there through the State to the Rio Grande near Laredo and Eagle Pass are vast beds of lignite that are beyond estimating. The Texas fuel supply in both gas and lignite seems unlimited.

Brick Plant Prospers

The property of a local brick plant is a sure indication that the town and surrounding country are growing. A plant at San Benito in operation only a short time finds it necessary to increase its plant to meet the demand, and is preparing to manufacture brick on an extensive scale.

Feed-Making Plants

The increased interest in dairying in Texas has stimulated increased attention to the manufacture of specially prepared food for cattle. The oil mill at Whitesboro is among those that have lately added facilities for the extensive manufacture of such foods, and it will buy fifty thoroughbred Jersey cows with which to demonstrate the value of its products, as well as to assist in supplying milk for a Sherman milk manufacturing plant.

Kingsville Gets Gas
Kingsville is among the latest Texas towns to secure natural gas from wells in its immediate neighborhood. The gas fields are being extended in Texas every week and soon every place of consequence will have a supply of fuel gas piped to it.

Matamoros Paying
Matamoros, the slow old town in Mexico across the river from Brownsville, has caught the improvement spirit from its Texas neighbors and is putting down modern paving around its plaza and the adjoining blocks. No place can always resist the good examples set by its spirited neighbors.

IF ANY MAN SIN

"If any man sin we have an advocate, Jesus Christ the righteous."—1 John 2:1.

Before the Justice Bar of Life, I stand each day,
And debts are charged to my account
I cannot pay.

An advocate have I employed
Who never fails;
One, upon whose feet and hands
Are prints of nails.

Soon will come my summons
To the Higher Court,
Wherein the Judge of all the earth
Will pass report.

I'll need a Friend at Court that day,
And by God's grace
Jesus Christ of Calvary
Will plead my case.

Given for all eternity,
The Verdict will be—
"Not Guilty!" Jesus paid the debt.
And I am free.

cago, general manager of the League, every town and county in the West soon will have a Walton League chapter.

"It must be done, if the west is to hold its position as the great playground of America, not only in respect to the ducks, but to every other form of wild life," declared Mr. Doellner, "The League must enroll tremendous strength to carry through its plans to save the duck situation. We must have chapters of this League throughout the West, as we have in other sections, to insure the success of our objectives for the benefit of sportsmen and outdoor lovers west of the Mississippi."

NOTICE OF EXECUTION SALE

In the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Texas.
By virtue of an execution issued out of the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas, Austin Division, on a judgment rendered in said court on the 15th day of June, 1937, in favor of Union State Bank of Kansas City, Missouri, and against J. L. Wright, J. G. Wright, Omar C. Wright, J. N. Hodges, Jack Turner, W. A. Quisenberry, Joe Turner, G. R. Randall, A. F. Hodges, John A. Cowart, Roy Williams, F. E. Doster and Roy Blackburn, No. 1096 Law, in such court I did on the 5th day of October, 1937, at 11 o'clock a. m., levy upon following described property of J. N. Hodges situated in the County of Kimble, State of Texas, to-wit:
All of the undivided interest of the said J. N. Hodges in the partnership of Hodges and Livingston, a partnership composed of J. N. Hodges and Homer Livingston and consisting of:
28 head of cattle, more or less, 1,000 head of sheep, more or less, 300 head of goats, more or less, and being all of the cattle, sheep and goats owned by the said partnership; and on the 6th day of December, 1937, being the first Tuesday of said month between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. on said day at the court house, door of said Kimble County, Texas, I will offer for sale, and sell at public auction for each all the right, title and interest of the said J. N. Hodges in and to said property.
Dated at San Antonio, Texas this 26th day of October, A. D. 1937.

LAW WHICH WE SHOULD OBEY

(By E. V. A. London Special Correspondent)
There are three distinct types of laws which necessarily ought to be obeyed by all mankind. These laws are as follows: First, the laws of God; second, the laws of nature; and third, the laws of our country.

Failure on the part of man to observe any one of these laws is sure to result in having to suffer a penalty because of disobedience. A penalty is a necessary quality of a law. If a law be enacted which does not prescribe some form of penalty for the transgressor, then that law at once becomes ineffective, for the person who would break a law is often restrained from doing so because of the knowledge that he will be punished if he does violate it.

Laws of God are universal. All of mankind are duty bound to observe these laws, and when we ignore or violate them, we are sure to be rewarded with a lasting punishment. God's laws are all reasonable, just and considerate, and all are very possible of being complied with. The person who violates God's laws does so because he desires to do so, and not because it is a superhuman task to comply with them. He simply reflects upon the nature of God's laws briefly, then violates them at his own will, possibly failing to give proper consideration to the penalty, which he knows is sure to follow.

Laws of nature also carry a corresponding penalty. Creatures of nature are from their earliest existence associated with nature and her laws. After all, nature's laws are the products of God. Many are the things we learn from nature. We pass a lifetime in the study of nature and then only become slightly acquainted with her laws. The human organism learns from the natural laws of experience that if it subjects a portion, or all of its body to extreme heat or cold that pain will result. That if we deprive the body of food, sleep, rest, proper exercise and various other things, that the body will accordingly suffer from a lack of nourishment, growth, and will fail to function as it would if these things were properly administered.

A third law which we should obey, is the law of our country. Obedience to parental authority is necessary on the part of children in order that they may be obedient to the country's laws when they become mature in years and in mind. One famous man has truly said that "He who would command, must first learn to obey." This statement is sound. Some people form an idea that it is an act of cowardice to be submissive or obedient to authority. This is the wrong idea to form. In armies, soldiers must be obedient to the officers under whose training they are in order that the army may act with unity, force and strength. In homes, children should obey in order that the home be properly established. In school, the student must submit to proper school discipline, otherwise the personality of the school will be destroyed. From these conditions we see that it is also necessary that the citizen be obedient to the laws of his country, even though the law does not seem to him to be what it ought to be.

Learning how to properly comply with the laws of God, laws of nature and laws of our country, are the three great anchor posts upon which all civilization is hinged.

The Rocksprings high school foot ball team came down to London Saturday and played the London high school boys one of the peppiest games of the season. The game resulted in a scoreless finish, but both teams fought heroically. Rocksprings boys proved themselves to be good sports and fair, and jolly good fellows. We shall be glad to have you come again, Rocksprings.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION

Don't leave the lettuce on your salad plate. Eat it for the sake of the vitamins it contains.

A flat narrow collar or no collar at all and a V-shaped or U-shaped neck line is most becoming to a short, stout figure. Square neck line should be avoided.

Little kerosene in clear water helps in window washing. Wash with even overlapping strokes and rub dry with soft paper of clean cloth. A rubber wiper can be used on large windows.

Carrots are a good source of vitamins. In winter, when they are older and have been stored a long time, they may lose some of vitamin C, but they are still valuable for their minerals and for vitamins A and B.

Don't have the same menu every time you entertain. Plan several good "company" menus, according to the season of the year. If the same people come often to your home, it's a good plan to have some record of what is served to guests each time, or you may duplicate your menus.

Much dust and dirt can be kept out of the house by taking precautions. If the roads near your home are not oiled, stop some of the dust at doors and windows. Dust window sills, porches, steps and walks daily. Cover the pantry and store-room window screens with cheese cloth to keep dust out but let air in. If the walks about the house are muddy get the family to use shoe scrapers and leave muddy rubbers and boots outside.

To store farm butter for winter use the best method is to wrap the rolls or prints in parchment paper and pack them in a stone crock, covering them with a strong brine and store in a cool place. The butter intended for winter use should be made from sweet pasteurized cream churned at a fairly low temperature, washed thoroughly and worked merely enough to dissolve the salt.

WHEN TO BUY FEEDERS

Just what grade of cattle to select for the feed lot is a problem that must be considered by every feeder. There are a number of seasonal factors to be kept in mind in this connection. Common cattle are generally lowest in price in October and November during the time of large runs of cattle from the range. Choice finishing cattle are usually higher in price than at any other time of the year because they are ordinarily very few grain-fed steers marketed at this time. Because most of the corn-fed cattle are fattened during the winter and sold in the spring, the price of choice steers is lowest in April and May. Common steers, on the other hand, bring the highest price of the year during May.

American cuckoos, with a generally undesirable reputation derived from observations upon the European species, are most highly regarded by scientists of the Biological Survey who have studied their foods and habits. Cuckoos feed largely on caterpillars. The stomach of one cuckoo examined by a biologist showed remains of 250 tent, caterpillars and another had eaten 217 fall web-worms. Cuckoos are also fond of such pests as grasshoppers, sawfly larvae, and other injurious insects.

Forests reduce erosion. Any vegetable cover tends to reduce erosion, but forests usually perform this function more effectively and permanently than any other type of vegetation. This is because of the thick mulch of leaf litter and branches which they drop upon the ground. Furthermore, they are constantly feeding humus into the soil itself, increasing its prosity and binding its mineral constituents.

Adolph Topperwein SHOOTING EXHIBITION HERE NOVEMBER 30

Adolph Topperwein, of San Antonio, who has earned for himself the title of the "wizard of the rifle," and who incidentally is also a wizard with shotgun and revolver as well, is scheduled to give one of his great shooting exhibitions here in Junction.

Topperwein has been giving his marvelous program of shooting before hundreds of thousands of people during the past third of a century and his coming to Junction offers an opportunity for anyone who enjoys watching a past master make firearms perform for him to see something worth going a long way to see.

Shooting is play to Ad Topperwein. He is as happy as a baby with a new toy when he is shooting his rifle or shotgun and making them do feats that will make those who are watching gasp with astonishment and admiration.

While the Topperwein exhibition program is not a set one the shooter draws on his almost limitless bag of stunts for a series of amazing acts which never fail to thrill and delight his audience. He shoots at pieces of coal, at stones, at clay targets and at blocks in many cases throwing the object into the air, then picking up his gun and hitting them as they fall.

Topperwein uses a Winchester .22 repeater, a .22 Winchester automatic, a lever action, the .351 high power self loading and a Winchester shotgun, carrying out his program. With each of his series of arms he performs remarkable feats, each seemingly more marvelous than the one before.

With some of the rifles and guns Topperwein shoots at balls, bricks, potatoes and apples with remarkable precision and results. With the small caliber rifles he shoots at marbles, single, double and triple; small washers and sometimes bits of money when some one wishes a souvenir of the exhibition. He also tosses several objects into the air at once and breaks each as it falls with a different gun.

One bit of shooting which can not be done everywhere but which is a very effective feature of his program when shooting arrangements permit, is that of placing two targets on chairs, one 20 yards in front of him and the other 20 yards behind. Sitting on a chair in the center of the space between the two targets Topp sights at one target and gets the range of the other with a mirror attached to his shoulder and when he has secured the exact range he shoots two pistols simultaneously and shatters the two targets at once.

Everyone is invited to look on and ask questions regarding the shooting and Topperwein will be glad to answer all questions at the conclusion of his exhibition.

One very interesting stunt to watch is the shooting of a cartoon of Uncle Sam's head, an Indian head or one of the famous Mutt with rifle bullets. The Indian's head requires 180 shots and takes about 3 minutes to draw while Uncle Sam requires about 300 bullets and is done in about four or five minutes. The bullets are shot at a blank piece of tin and in a few minutes it turns into a perfect outline of the Indian, Uncle Sam or Mutt. As the outline rapidly develops like a sketch being done by a rapid sketch artist the interest of the onlookers grows and grows. Topperwein, incidentally, is quite an artist himself which aids him in getting his results in this ticklish kind of artistry.

Sometimes Topperwein includes in his program shooting done while standing on his head, a difficult and thrilling bit of work that always proves a genuine hit. These feats give some idea of the variety from which to draw his program and whatever the individual acts he selects for the particular program there is always many a thrill and real instruction in watching him perform.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM HERE AND THERE

The profitable pig is one that grows continuously from farrowing to market.

One half of the oranges, lemons and grapefruit grown in the United States are packed and marketed by co-operative associations.

In 1926 co-operative livestock shipping associations and other local associations, about 5,000 in number, handled approximately $400,000,000 worth of livestock for members.

The successes of co-operative marketing associations are as wide as the intelligence and integrity of managers and members who work together.—B. B. Derrick, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Rats are on the decrease in the United States. However, this decrease is only just becoming apparent and the farmers and others who are troubled with the pest should not let up on preventive measures.

The best way of feeding salt to dairy cows is to mix 1 to 2 pounds of salt per 100 pounds of grain, or from 20 to 40 pounds of salt per ton of grain. In addition, have salt available so that the cows can get more if they desire.

Experiments to determine the proper time of applying nitrogenous fertilizers to fall-sown oats indicate that in northern Georgia best results will be obtained when the application is made around March 1. In the Coastal Plain application should be about February 1.

The nighthawk, formerly wantonly shot for sport, is really one of the most useful of birds, and an insect catcher of great value. These birds scoop their prey out of the air on the wing. Biological Survey experts have examined stomachs of nighthawks and have found more than 50 different kinds of insects, representing thousands of individuals, in a single stomach.

Farm tenants for the most part, are young men. Tenant farming in 1926 averaged 39 years of age with 11 years experience as tenants. Of farmers over 25 years of age, over three-fourths were tenants, but of farmers of 65 years and over only a sixth were tenants.

You want your land abstracted; then you had better see E. Holekamp; he has complete index of all County lands. (adv)

The feeding of heavy cattle is more hazardous than the feeding of calves and yearlings. This is due to the fact that cuts of beef from heavy cattle are more limited in demand than beef from handy-weight steers, with the result that the price of heavy cattle is much more sensitive to changes in the market supply.
