Extra $100 Million To Help Aged Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today to provide an extra $100 million next year to bolster efforts to improve nutrition for those over 65.

Reviewing current and proposed programs to help the elderly, Nixon included the proposal in a 12,000-word special message. It focused on a new appeal for early enactment of the now-pending welfare reform bill which embraces liberalization of the Social Security program.

"Clearly the passage of this bill is a matter of very highest priority," he said. "... further delay is absolutely inexcusable. To delay these reforms by even one more year would mean a loss for older Americans alone of more than $5 billion."

The President originally asked for $157 million in spending under the Older Americans Act in the 1973 fiscal year that starts July 1. He announced he is seeking an additional $100 million "for nutrition and related services."

Nixon also disclosed he will soon ask Congress to increase pensions for retired federal employes, military personnel and veterans. He wants their retirement pay recomputed on the basis of pay scales in effect Jan. 1, 1971.

Increases in military and Civil Service retirement pay are normally tied to increases in the cost of living index. Older retired people in these classes say they have fallen behind in relation to people retiring now.

Veterans pensions and service-connected disability payment were increased last year by Congress but many complain this still did not match the cost of living increases since.

At the outset, Nixon acknowledged he has not yet acted on all recommendations growing out of a White House conference on aging held here in December. But he said conference suggestions will be kept "at the top of our agenda, under continuing review."

Nixon said it is the administration's goal to develop a "comprehensive strategy ... for bridging the new generation gap," which he defined as a gulf between those over and under 65.

He said his strategy has five major elements, many of them embodied in legislation pending for a year or longer:

1. Protect the incomes of the elderly.
2. Upgrade the quality of nursing home care.
3. Help older persons "live dignified, independent lives in their own homes or residences—by expanding and reforming service programs."
4. Expand opportunities "for older people to continue their involvement in the life of the country," through participation in volunteer service programs and the like.
5. Reorganize and coordinate federal efforts to deal with the problems of older citizens.

AS PRICES RISE — Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, discusses the rise in the cost of living at a news conference today in Washington. The biggest jump in grocery prices in 14 years last month triggered the sharpest rise in over-all living costs since President Nixon imposed economic controls.

Red Gunners Shell Camp, Kill Women

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces slashed into a district town in the Mekong Delta on Wednesday firing automatic weapons and rocket grenades and killed 19 of the local militiamen and police and nine of their wives and children.

Another 29 of the defenders were wounded in the attack on Truc Giang, 50 miles southwest of Saigon. The assault force destroyed the police headquarters and a housing complex for the families of the defenders and heavily damaged the district headquarters, the Saigon command said.

Spokesmen said the enemy left nine dead behind, and one man was captured, along with a B40 rocket grenade launcher and four AK47 assault rifles.

Communist forces also attacked the command post of a South Vietnamese armored cavalry regiment in southern Cambodia early today, shelled the main South Vietnamese base for the current operations in eastern Cambodia and fired 261 rockets and mortar rounds at five government positions along the demilitarized zone and farther south near Hue.

Twenty-nine rockets hit the big Tay Ninh West base camp 60 miles northwest of Saigon in two barrages late Wednesday, killing seven persons, wounding seven and destroying more than 100,000 gallons of fuel. The dead included four children who were hit when some of the 100-pound missiles overshot the base and landed in a residential area.

Natural Gas Gives Uncle Sam 'Pain'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is trying to figure out who's got gas and who hasn't and the problem is causing a serious case of bureaucratic heartburn.

The gas involved is natural. In recent years it's been emerging from the ground at a steadily decreasing rate, resulting in shortages that have triggered rationing in wide areas of the country.

New gas is lying around under the ground waiting for producers to come for it, but the producers aren't looking much. They claim that erratic Federal Power Commission regulation of rates they can charge or gas doesn't provide enough profit margin to finance exploration.

The FPC is considering changing its regulatory system, but first the commission says it must find out what companies have how much gas and where.

Therein lies the rub.

The FPC has never gone into the gas fields itself to inventory supplies. It has, instead, always relied on figures supplied by the American Gas Association, an industry organization which collects data on gas supplies from the producers.

HUSBAND INJURED

Car Accident Kills Woman

An elderly Brownfield woman died at 9:10 p.m. Wednesday in Lubbock of injuries she received as the result of a one-car accident near Sterling City Wednesday afternoon. The woman's 75-year-old husband is in fair condition at Lubbock Methodist Hospital.

The body of Mrs. Mary Frances Perry, 78, Brownfield, has been taken to a Brownfield funeral home where services are pending. Mrs. Perry was injured when the car in which she was a passenger went out of control on U.S. 87 approximately 25 miles south of Big Spring. The accident occurred at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The car went off the left side of the road, narrowly missing a concrete culvert and striking the dirt embankment of the ditch. The car came back onto the roadway and came to rest in the middle of the highway approximately 200 yards north of where it had left the thoroughfare.

Rufus Burney Perry, 75, in fair condition at Methodist Hospital, told investigating officers that he thought he had fallen asleep while driving north on U.S. 87.

No other vehicles were involved in the accident.

Perry is believed to have received lacerations and a hip injury as a result of the accident, and Mrs. Perry was believed to have sustained severe lacerations and back injuries.

Texas Highway Patrolman Ken Maxwell, Howard County, investigated the accident until the Sterling County officer, Highway Patrolman Bob Brown could return from San Angelo and reach the accident scene.

Alert Ambulance brought the elderly couple to Medical Center Memorial at 2:40 p.m. Wednesday, and transferred them to Lubbock Methodist Hospital at 6 p.m.

Bank Capital Is Increased

The United States Comptroller of Currency has given approval of a proposal by State National Bank stockholders to increase the capital structure by 50 per cent.

A letter of authority from the comptroller, sanctioning action of stockholders at their annual meeting March 14, makes the effective date Friday.

The increase of the capital from $200,000 to $300,000 is being accompished by a one-for-two stock split. Thus, each holder of two shares of capital stock now will have three.

At the annual meeting of shareholders, directors were re-elected, who in turn re-elected the principal officers.

Meteorite Did Not Set Austin Fire

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The flight of a meteorite across Texas skies and the outbreak of a serious fire in northeast Austin Wednesday night were just a coincidence, the Austin fire department said today.

"It was no meteorite that caused the fire," Deputy Fire Chief Hollis Harold said today.

Cause of the fire was still listed as unknown.

A spokesman for the traffic control tower at the Austin airport said the meteorite flashed across the sky about 10:50 p.m. and "it was the brightest I've ever seen." State police reported a caller told of seeing "a big green ball" streak across the sky.

Some observers expressed a belief the fireball disintegrated in the air.

Two Austin residents—policeman Elbert Franks and Dale Owen—said, however, it appeared that the meteorite descended in the area where the warehouse fires were discovered about 11:50 p.m.

Firemen used 12 pieces of equipment in battling the blaze.

Peace Talks Canceled

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam today canceled next week's session of the Vietnam peace talks and said the Communist side must show a desire for serious discussion before the conference can be resumed.

North Vietnam and the Viet Cong rejected these conditions.

The conference appeared on the verge of a total breakup unless the opposing sides altered their stands.

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter told the Communists at today's session: "As for meetings in the weeks that follow, we believe it would be preferable to await some sign from you that you are disposed to engage in meaningful exchanges on the various points raised in your and our proposals."

The North Vietnamese spokesman called Porter's statements an ultimatum to sabotage the conference and said Porter's move was "a hysterical and dangerous act without precedent."

He said North Vietnam firmly rejects Porter's conditions. The Viet Cong spokesman said, "We can never accept them."

Porter told the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese envoys: "As you know, President Nixon ... has declared next week as a week of national concern for our men held prisoner by you and your associates. It would be a mockery of our concern for them to sit in this room with you and listen to more of your blackmail and distortion to the effect that the prisoner of war issue is an "imaginary problem." Therefore our side does not agree to a meeting next week."

Healthy Respect Shown Snakes By Pilots Here

What makes an assembly of grown men cringe with fear and jump at a slightest move? A rattlesnake could cause such a reaction.

That is what has been happening the past few days at Webb AFB, where members of the Jaycees have been conducting handling demonstrations for the student pilot groups each day this week in preview of this weekend's Rattlesnake Roundup activities.

Don Worthan, roundup chairman, has been conducting the demonstrations with the student pilots, while holding a bull snake around his neck and a rattlesnake at the end of a handler's rod.

Prior to a session Wednesday afternoon one student obviously from an area without many snakes, commented on the life-like replica of a snake knotted up around Worthan's neck.

"That thing really looks real," said the student pilot, as he stood next to Worthan and the reptile.

Without any warning the snake poked its head out at the young lieutenant, and showed the young man his black shiny tongue. Moments later everyone was asking the whereabouts of the inquiring young lieutenant. He had retreated rapidly.

Other reactions from the students were equally interesting, as each peered into the wooden box which housed the poisonous reptile.

Taking the rattlesnake out on a table during the display was the highlight of the session, however, as the snake, in a bad humor from riding in a pickup, seemed to be furious over the interest the humans were showing in him.

Each time Worthan made a move toward the snake the lengthy asp would lunge toward the handler in an effort to strike his human enemy. Each time the snake struck at Worthan, the students, (not one of them were closer than 30 feet), would jump just as far back as the snake jumped forward.

"The students scared me more than the snake," Worthan said later.

Nevertheless, interest among the group about the snake and the event this weekend seemed to mount as the students fired a succession of questions about the reptile.

SWITCHES PARTIES — Rep. Ogden Reid, a Republican congressman from New York for 10 years, announces at a news conference Wednesday in New York that he is switching to the Democratic party. His wife, Mary Louise, is in background. Reid, a 46-year-old liberal representative from suburban Westchester County, said, "I believe that I cannot, in good conscience, remain with the party." He said he planned to seek re-election in the 24th District in November.

British Sell Peace Ideas

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's Cabinet pronounced itself entirely united today behind Prime Minister Brian Faulkner in his stand toward peace proposals set forth by Britain.

The announcement did not say what Faulkner's stand was in 9½ hours of talks with Prime Minister Edward Heath in London on Wednesday. But the indications were that Faulkner feels the proposals go too far against Northern Ireland's Protestant majority.

A cabinet session in London broke up with no statement as to what went on.

'RADICAL'

The length of Wednesday's meeting indicated Faulkner put up stiff resistance to the degree of concessions made to the Roman Catholic minority.

Officials at Stormont Castle, seat of the provincial government, said the British plan was more "radical" than "mild." One London newspaper reported the situation was "moving into a state of deep crisis" and the gap between London and Belfast was enormous.

Details of the plan were a closely guarded secret. Heath has already promised the province's one million Protestants that their six counties will remain British as long as they want them to. But he also must try to persuade the 500,000 Catholics that they will receive equal treatment and a genuine share in promised prosperity.

There was no indication when the proposals would be published or how much longer Protestant objections might delay them. A communique issued in London Wednesday night said Heath and Faulkner 'will be in touch again following meetings of their cabinets."

OBSTACLES

The would-be peacemakers face two major obstacles: Ulster's Protestants say they'll fight any dilution of their power, and the guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army say they will not accept anything short of union with the Catholic Irish Republic.

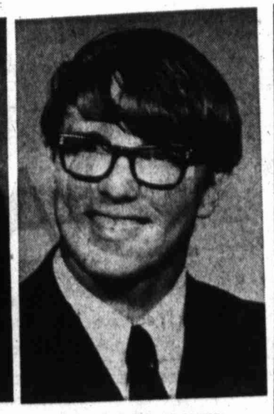

While the political leaders met Wednesday, Belfast's sixth major bombing in three days ripped apart a main railroad station, damaged the capital's biggest hotel and sent 70 people to the hospital with cuts.

In Londonderry early today army bomb disposal experts dismantled a time bomb packed with 70 pounds of gelignite planted outside a supermarket.

Four British soldiers were wounded — none seriously — by snipers during the night.

AIR PIRACY—I

Threatens To Paralyze Air Transportation

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Skinny little Antulio Ramirez seemed an unlikely sort of pirate that sunny May Day in 1961 when he burst into the cockpit with knife and gun in his trembling hands.

"Let's go to Havana," he stammered to Capt. Francis Xavier Riley. And away they went, six passengers and a crew of three and 120-pound Antulio.

To Cuba, of all places, from which refugees by the hundreds of thousands were fleeing Fidel Castro's regime.

It was a one-day sensation. No one did much of anything about it.

GUNS, RAZORS, ACID

For no one foresaw that during the next eleven years little Antulio would be followed through the cockpit doors of American planes by 176 hijackers threatening the lives of 16,500 passengers and crew members.

With pistols, shotguns, knives, razors, broken bottles, hatchets, acid, ice picks, tear gas, BB guns and—ultimately—bombs, desperate people would create a crisis that threatens to paralyze air transportation.

Each step in the evolution of airline terrorism has caught industry and government unprepared.

It was nine years after the first American hijacking that President Nixon formed the sky marshal force, spurred by the hijacking and bombing of three airliners on the ground in foreign countries by Arab guerrillas.

BULLET PROOF

It was a year and a half after an Eastern Airlines pilot was killed and his co-pilot seriously wounded by a hijacker on a flight to Boston before the government proposed that cockpit doors be made bullet proof.

It was after extortionists had bombed a jetliner in Las Vegas two weeks ago that the President made mandatory such ground security measures as metal detectors and baggage checks which the Federal Aviation Administration had been urging for years.

As a result of the President's tough new program, security officers say the airports and the skies have never been safer.

BOMB HOAX

How safe the government can make air travel is yet to be proved.

Hijackings of American planes have caused seven deaths and a score of heart attacks.

The dollar loss is unacountable, but must run into billions. For example, one 10-cent telephoned bomb hoax costs Pan-American World Airways $58,000.

Each incident has spawned imitators. Many unsuccessful hijackers were found to possess newspaper clippings detailing how successful air piracies were accomplished.

The feat of "D. B. Cooper," who demanded and got $200,000 and escaped by parachuting out of a jetliner, got banner headlines and a few comparisons to Robin Hood. In the next two months he was copied by five others, all of whom failed.

Yet for all that the actions of some sky pirates may have seemed glamorous, the truth is that life has been harsh for hijackers.

FUGITIVES IN EXILE

One hundred live as fugitives in exile, risking sentences of death or life in prison if they ever return to the United States. Five were killed in hijack attempts; three others committed suicide. A dozen are in mental institutions and 35 have been sentenced to cells for terms ranging up to life for air piracy or related crimes.

A few early hijackers were greeted as revolutionary heroes by the Cubans, but now they are treated with coolness.

"The Cubans are now worried just like we are that a hijacking could result in a catastrophic accident," said Albert Butler, chief of the FAA's Security Division.

"The first thing the Cubans do is put these people through a comprehensive psychiatric examination. Castro doesn't want criminals down there anymore than we want them up here.

"Those they don't send back are not allowed to work because that would take a job from a Cuban. They are very suspicious of the hijackers because they think they might be CIA agents.

'IT'S GRIM'

"The Cubans give them room and board in a hotel and $10 a month. It's grim. One committed suicide. Jumped out a hotel window."

While the rewards are bitter, the chances for successfully hijacking planes are getting slimmer.

From a one-time high of 83 per cent, the success average of hijacking attempts diminished to 44 per cent last year and now is down to 25 per cent.

U.S. marshals and Customs Bureau security officers arrested more than 2,250 persons and seized 700 firearms in screening passengers as part of the anti-hijacking program last year.

As for the legendary D.B. Cooper, FAA officials believe he did not make good his parachute escape.

"We'll find him—when the snow thaws in Washington," said a federal security officer. "In a couple of weeks we'll be up there in teams scouring all that ground.

"We'll just follow the buzzards."

Some Vets Could Lose Benefits

Millions of veterans could lose part or all of their GI educational benefits if they don't act promptly, the Veterans Administration warned today.

Jack Coker, director, explained that those whose benefits are in danger were discharged between Jan: 31, 1955 and June 1, 1966. For these veterans, eligibility for VA educational assistance payments for GI Bill schooling expires on May 31, 1974, whether they are enrolled at that time or not.

Each veteran has eight years in which to use his benefits. Normally, the eight years are computed from the date of his release from military service. But because the benefits were not available until June 1, 1966, when the law became effective, the eight years start from the date the benefits became available for those discharged before that date.

Calling Everyone Would Require Over 250 Years

How would it be to call all the telephones in the world?

"Impossible," said Harry Sawyer, manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. "The task of reaching all 272.7 million phones would take more than 250 years, even for an American, who places more calls a year on the average than anyone else on the globe."

He said statistics show that each man, woman and child in America during 1972 averaged about 2.1 conversations per day, or 779 for the year — more than the combined average of their counter-parts in Argentina, Greece, China and Austrialia.

However, Sawyer pointed out that even if this average were increased to 21 conversations per minute it would still take more than 250 years to reach all the world's telephones.

Sawyer based his calculations on the latest edition of "The World's Telephones," a booklet published annually by AT&T's Long Lines Department, the Bell System until for interstate and international services. He said the telephone census reflects developments to Jan. 2, 1972, because a full year is needed to compile the data.

Big Spring played a role in helping Americans set another record — that of having more telephones in service than any other country.

"The record showed the U.S. ahead with 120.2 million phones, five times as many as second place Japan which reported 26.2 million," Sawyer said. "There are 21,158 phones in Big Spring which is more than all the telephones in the country of Mongolia," he noted.

Even though the U. S. topped the list in total telephones, its growth rate is less than half that of a number of countries led by Greece, Yougoslavia, Japan and Korea.

"However, it probably will be a long time before these countries equal telephone concentration in the U.S. which is one phone for every two people," he said.

To make his point, Sawyer compared Texas with its more than five million telephones to Sweden which has more than 4.5 million telephones.

With the other four states of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri served by Southwestern Bell, the total company phones at the end of 1970 surpassed the number in Canada. Southwestern Bell had 10,488,540 phones compared to Canada's 9,752,537.

Drug Conclave Set April 20

Big Spring State Hospital will be the site for one of a series of conferences on psychotrophic drugs in the aftercare treatment for the mentally ill.

Dr. David Wade, commissioner for the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said the conference for this area would be held April 20.

Purpose of the conferences, he said, is to keep the family physician abreast of the latest in psychotropic drugs. They are most often called upon to treat patients after release from state hospitals and to work with community-based mental health centers and clinics.

Some of the state's leading auhorities on the use of these drugs will take part in the discussions. These include psychiatrists working in state hospitals and community centers, those in private practice and researchers.

Clinicians for the Big Spring visit include Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent of the Big Spring hospital; Dr. Richard R. Cameron, clinical director of the San Antonio State Hospital; Dr. Cleto A. Eloquin, Pecos, psychiatrist; Dr. James D. Hinkle, Galveston unit director at the Austin State Hospital; Dr. James D. Huddleston, director of the MHMR center in El Paso; Dr. Len Dan Kerr Jr., assistant deputy commissioner mental health services TDMHMR; and Dr. John R Stafford, Harris unit director at the Austin State Hospital. Also on the program will be a film on anti-Parkinson drugs.

CHAPLAIN TRIAL

Sexual Relations On 17 Occasions

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A young nurse has testified that she had sexual relations with a Navy chaplain on 17 occasions after her officer-husband hired him as a marriage counsellor.

Mary Ann Curran, a 24-year-old blonde, was the second Navy wife to testify to having intimate relations with Cmdr. Andrew F. Jensen, 43-year-old senior chaplain at Cecil Field Naval Air Station.

Jensen is on trial charged with conduct unbecoming an officer for having illicit sex with two women.

In August 1970, Mrs. Curran testified, she left her husband to have the affair with the chaplain but three months later returned home and tried to break up with Jensen.

When she told Jensen the love affair was over, she said he replied: "Well, anything to make you happy, but can't we have a little sex?"

Mrs. Curran testified her husband Lt. Joseph L. Curran Jr., hired Jensen as a marriage counsellor to help her overcome a guilt complex about a love affair in Texas, where her husband was previously stationed.

Lora Gudbranson, the wife of a Navy commander, testified Monday that she had been intimate with the chaplain on four occasions last year.

Jensen's case drew national attention when the American Baptist Convention, his denomination, refused to send any more ministers to the Navy in protest of the court-martial.

Jensen, in a pretrial interview, maintained he is innocent. He said he offered to take a lie-detector test after learning of the charges but was refused.

Not Guilty, Says 'Firebug'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Louis Taylor, 17, will be sentenced Monday to life in the Arizona State Prison on conviction of setting a fire in a hotel which killed 28 persons.

Taylor was convicted of 28 counts of first-degree murder Tuesday by a Maricopa County Superior Court jury of eight men and four women. Pima County Public Defender Howard Kashman said he would appeal the verdict.

"I'm not guilty . . . I'm not guilty," sobbed Taylor as the verdict was read to complete a six-week trial, moved from Tucson on a change of venue.

Judge Charles Hardy ordered Taylor's $5,000 bond revoked and the youth was taken to the Maricopa County jail.

During the trial Robert Jackson, 17, testified that Taylor told him he set the Dec. 20, 1970 fire at the Pioneer International Hotel in Tucson by squirting lighter fluid on walls and igniting it.

THREE SMILES AND A FROWN — After the Senate voted passage of a constitutional amendment giving women equal rights, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., met with two supporters and one opponent Wednesday in the Capitol. Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., second from right, was one of eight senators who voted against the amendment. Others are Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., and Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky.

Senate Votes Equal Rights For Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ending four decades of reluctance and indecision, Congress has approved a proposed constitutional amendment designed to provide equal rights for women.

The 84-8 Senate vote Wednesday that completed congressional action on the proposal brought shouts of joy and a spirited champagne party by supporters.

FORGIVE THEM

But Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., who lost 10 attempts to modify the amendment, said: "You are crucifying women on a cross of equality . . . Forgive them, Father, they know not what they do."

To take effect, the amendment must be ratified by legislatures of 38 states within seven years. It would become effective two years after ratification.

Hawaii, acting an hour after the Senate vote, became the first state to ratify.

"It finally happened," said Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y.

"I don't believe this amendment will have the effect of creating identical human beings. I do believe it will create identical legal rights," said Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., floor manager of the amendment.

COMBAT DUTY

Ervin, who doggedly led a small band of senators against the amendment in four days of debate, argued that laws discriminating against women should be changed at the state level, not by constitutional amendment.

Proponents of the amendment said that would be too slow.

Ervin sought to have the amendment modified to preserve laws requiring fathers to support their children, to keep women out of the draft, and out of combat, but he lost each test.

The military issue carried much of the debate, with Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, floating images of women in combat boots, toting M16s "and being made prisoners in the jungles."

However, Bayh predicted that only a small number of women would ever be assigned to combat units

He also predicted the measure would have little affect on support payments because "most fathers have the primary responsibility of supporting their children, not because they are men, but because they are the primary source of income for their families."

Wage Board Future Dims

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board remained in business today, determined to continue in one form or another despite the walkout of three labor members.

SKIN A CAT

"I think it very likely that the Pay Board will go on, but how and in what manner remains to be seen," Chairman George H. Boldt said. "There's more than one way to skin a cat."

The board planned tentatively to continue work today on proposals to drop wage controls from small firms and to give some further relief to low-wage-earners.

The absence of three labor votes decreased the likelihood that any such proposals would be adopted. In any event they would require approval of the Cost of Living Council.

Meanwhile, the White House faced a decision on whether to allow the board to continue in its suddenly lopsided condition or to reshape it in some way.

A number of options appear open. Balance could be restored by adding three more union or nonunion representatives of labor or by paring away three public and three business members.

VOTERS GONE

Also, the board could be reconstituted entirely of public members, as is the Price Commission. Before Wednesday's resignations, the board comprised five members, each from labor, business and the public.

Another alternative would be to do nothing. With three labor votes gone, the board's decisions could become more conservative and the administration could point to the absent union chiefs as the reason.

"If I were the President," one nonunion board member said, "I'd wait until the dust settles before doing anything."

After today's meeting, the board plans a two-week Easter recess. Although it was scheduled long before AFL-CIO President George Meany and two AFL-CIO colleagues resigned Wednesday, the break will serve to give the administration some breathing space.

DISBANDED

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the board will not be disbanded, but also didn't comment on what its future form might be.

Meanwhile the board should have little trouble functioning. All its rules and guidelines remain in place. Although its ranks have been reduced to 12, its own rules require only 10 members for a quorum and eight votes to pass a motion.

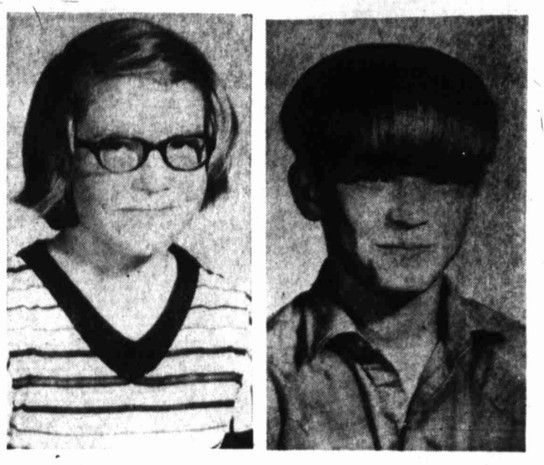

The five public members of the board denied Meany's charges that the board has been unfair to labor.

They said 28 of the board's 54 formal votes had been unanimous. The union members had been in the majority of 36 votes, they said, and had voted in the majority on five of eight major wage cases decided by the full board.

Holidays Begin Next Friday

Big Spring students received report cards Wednesday, and will have until Friday of next week to get back into the good graces of teachers and parents before the Spring holidays begin.

Spring holidays begin after class Thursday, March 30, and begin the first full day Good Friday. The students will return to classes April 10.

ELBOW REPRESENTATIVES — Lana Ford (left), a fifth grader whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ford, will represent Elbow Elementary School in next Wednesday's Howard County Spelling Bee at Howard County JC. First alternate of the Elbow school is Ronald McCartney (right), a fifth grader. Ronald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McCartney.

AMERICANS GOUGED AT MARKET

Three Quit Wage Board

(AP WIREPHOTO)

GEORGE MEANY
Calls It Quits

WASHINGTON (AP) — An exchange of bitter charges between the White House and three resigning AFL-CIO members of President Nixon's Pay Board appears to have thrust the administration's wage-price controls into the political arena as a major election issue.

"It is the President's view that a few labor leaders representing a small percentage of the 80 million wage-earners in this country will not be allowed to sabotage the fight against inflation and the fight against higher prices," said White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

WHERE IT HURTS

"In the guise of an anti-inflation policy, the American people are being gouged at the supermarket and squeezed in the paycheck," said AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Meany, President I. W. Abel of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers and President Floyd Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists started the fight by quitting the Pay Board in a body with the accusation that Nixon's controls are loaded in favor of big business and against workers and unions.

Meany said politics played no part in the decision by the executive council of the 13.6-million-member labor federation to pull its representatives off the Pay Board.

GEARING UP

But the AFL-CIO's political strategists have been gearing up for months for an expected all-out effort to defeat Nixon in his re-election bid next November.

The AFL-CIO resignations left only two labor representatives on the 15-member board. Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons who said he will continue serving on the board and United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock who withheld announcing any decision. Woodcock is believed reluctant to quit the board on the theory that he can better protect his union's contracts by remaining.

Backed by a unanimous vote of the 28 members of his executive council who attended Wednesday's meeting, Meany denounced Nixon's controls. Seven council members were absent.

MANY UNEMPLOYED

He noted that a wide range of consumer prices, including raw fruits and vegetables, interest rates, life-insurance premiums, used cars and homes, are exempt from price controls.

"The administration's so-called new economic policy is heavily loaded against the worker and consumer in favor of the profits of big business and the banks and is dominated by the view that economic progress begins and ends in the stock market and the corporation financial report.

"Millions of American workers remain unemployed, their wages frozen at zero, with no real prospect of relief," Meany said.

"We're not going to cooperating in controlling labor," he said. "We will not be a part of the window-dressing for this system of unfair and equitable government control of wages, for the benefit of business profits."

Pay Board Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are four major decisions by the Pay Board, with pay increases percentages submitted to the board in labor contracts and the board's decision:

DOCK WORKERS—20.6 per cent submitted, 14.9 granted in wages and benefits

SOFT COAL—15 per cent submitted, 15 granted.

AEROSPACE—12.3 per cent submitted, 8.3 granted plus 4 per cent deferred to second year.

UNITED TRANSPORTATION UNION—10 per cent submitted, 10 granted, provided 1972 work rules changes are in effect.

Vote Machines Trial Date Set

HOUSTON (AP) — A June 5 trial date has been set for former Harris County commissioner V.V. Ramsey, charged with bribery and conspiracy in connection with the county's purchase of used voting machines.

U.S. District Court Judge Woodrow Seals set the trial date Wednesday after Ramsey pleaded innocent at his arraignment.

Ramsey's lawyers sought a change of venue from Philadelphia to Houston because they said a substantial number of witnesses and documents in the case are in the Houston area.

The case involves an alleged scheme in which a firm allegedly purchased 180 used voting machines for $30 each from Tampa, Fla., and resold 100 of the machines to Harris County for $1,500 each.

REMOVAL OF PENALTIES FOR PRIVATE USE

Reaction To Marijuana Report Mixed

By The Associated Press

The recommendation by a national commission to abolish criminal penalties for private use of marijuana has drawn mixed reaction among both the nation's youth and law enforcement officials.

Some officials gave qualified support to the idea, but others branded recommendations by the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse as impractical and even dangerous.

'TERRIFYING'

Harry J. Anslinger, U.S. Commissioner of Narcotics from 1930 to 1962, said the commission's recommendations could have "very serious national repercussions" and he called the findings "terrifying."

But Walter Richter, director of the Texas Program on Drug Abuse, said the group's report was "a very sane and humane and reasonable approach" that would free law enforcers to deal with the problem of hard drugs.

"I would be the last one to recommend anyone get involved with pot, but I think this helps put it in perspective," he said.

PREGNANT LINE

The 13-member commission, at the end of a year's study, urged Wednesday that the government end prosecution of marijuana users but continue jail terms and fines for growing or selling pot.

President Nixon, who appointed nine members of the commission, received the report without comment.

San Francisco Undersheriff Reuben Greenberg said he "agrees completely" with that recommendation, "We think the use of marijuana should be restricted, but not made illegal, the same way alcohol is."

But the proposal not to prosecute marijuana users and not to legalize it either was, in the opinion of Alabama Public Safety Director W. L. Allen, like "trying to follow the line of being just a little pregnant." He said he opposed the report.

Anslinger, who spearheaded passage of the federal Marijuana Tax Act in 1937, said liberalization of the law would cause the number of heroin users in the country to "mushroom."

SMOKING IN SECRET

"If these recommendations go through, allowing smoking in secret without any penalty, then I think in a couple of years we'll have about a million lunatics filling up the mental hospitals and a couple of hundred thousand more deaths on the highways—just plain slaughter on the highways," he said.

Opinions also were divided on college campuses and among others of the nation's youth.

Robin Arron, 18, of Sulphur, Okla., said she was opposed to all drugs and said of the repor , "I think it's terrible ... To put it bluntly, we're going to have a lot of freak kids running around if they do this."

But Mike Taylor, managing editor of the student newspaper at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, disagreed.

"I definitely think they're on the right track. I don't think they're going to have any progress on drug abuse laws until marijuana is at least legalized," he said. "From what I've read and seen, the only thing wrong with it (marijuana) is that it's illegal."

Jeremy Bluhm, on the editorial staff of the Harvard Crimson, the student newspaper, said it was his personal view that "it is absolutely necessary to remove criminal penalties for private use" of marijuana.

While not completely endorsing the commission's report, many officials acknowledged the need for change in existing marijuana laws.

"Most of our laws about alcohol are too weak. Most of our laws about marijuana are too strong," said Dr. Walter Otto, assistant health officer in Chatham County (Savannah), Ga. "This committee has taken a step in the direction of relaxing the extreme fear people have about marijuana."

Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch Jr. said he opposed complete elimination of criminal penalties for marijuana use but would like to see revision of current laws.

BAD TO SELL

"I favor minimal misdemeanor penalties on the possession of small amounts of marijuana and minimal enforcement attention to such possession," he said.

Police Chief Derold Husby of Lansing, Mich., said enforcement of existing marijuana laws was hampered by lack of prosecution and "ridiculous sentences," but "I can't condone any report saying it (marijuana) should be used, and society should accept it."

Michigan State Police Director Col. John R. Plants called the recommendations "incongruous," saying of marijuana: "If it's bad to sell, it's bad to use."

Drug Abuse Problem Is Discussed By Officer

Downtown Lions saw samples of drugs confiscated locally by law enforcement officers and heard a talk on the drug abuse problem as viewed by Ed Kissinger, member of the police department.

There is a sometimes fine line between drug use and abuse, he noted, because what parents may have prescribed for them might be filched and used as a popping party by children.

Kissinger burned a small sample of marijuana so Lions could recognize the smell. He also showed samples of "reefers" or "joints," marijuana cigarettes, and a sample of hashish (a fine grind or mixture) of the weed. He also showed devices which enable smokers to utilize every particle.

He termed marijuana the stepping stone to hard drugs, but he was challenged with contrary conclusions from the Presidents Commission or Drugs. Kissinger said he based his information on talking at the state hospital with teenagers who had a history of drug abuse or addiction.

One of the complicating factors is that some sick-minded individuals, he said, dope companions' drinks, etc. with LSD to see what reaction the hallucigen produces. In one case he cited, a single dose reduced a teenage girl to a "vegetable" status with little hope of recovery; in other cases there was immediate recovery, but in others a delayed "flashback" effect remained as a possibility, he said.

The officer warned that parents should not assume that the drug problem belongs to the "other side of the tracks" or to low income groups.

"You'd be surprised," he declared, "whose families young people come from when we pick them up for drug abuse."

By his estimate, 90 per cent of high schoolers have at least experimented one time with marijuana, but again some of his listeners challenged the validity of this figure.

Roy Hughes, president, announced a past president's meeting for Tuesday, March 28 for nomination of officers. A zone meeting is set for Thursday, 7:30 p.m., at Cokers Restaurant. John F. Smith was named queen contest chairman.

Vacancies Exist For Lions' Camp

Since 1953, the Texas Lions Camp for Crippled Children at Kerrville has provided two weeks of summer fun — entirely free — to more than 13,000 blind, deaf, mute and crippled youngsters. Last summer, the Lions enlarged their scope of service by sponsoring a three-week summer camp for diabetic children, using leased facilities at Friendswood.

Right now, there are summer vacancies at the Kerrville facility and at the diabetic camp. If you have, or know of, a handicapped youngster between the ages of seven and 16, you are invited to contact your neighboring Lions Club. Or, you can write the camp directly for more information.

A film is to be shown on the Kerrville camp Thursday, April 6, 7:30 p.m, at Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center. Parents of those interested in attending are invited to bring their youngsters and see the film. This is sponsored by the Downtown Lions Club, Roy Hughes, president.

Reports Often Are In Error

Many taxpayers get smaller refunds — or have additional taxes to pay — because of errors in reporting medical expenses, Ellis Campbell Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for North Texas, said today.

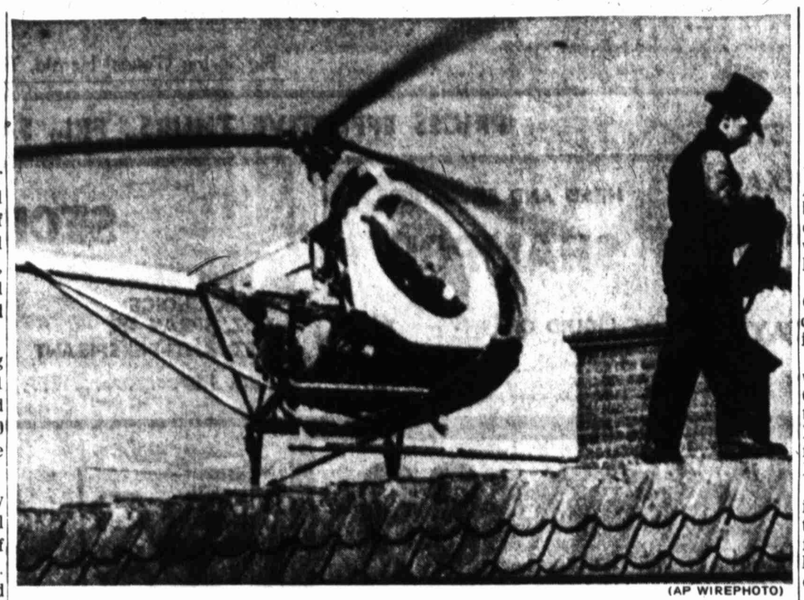

To avoid errors in deducting medical expenses on 1971 returns, Mr. Campbell advised taxpayers to read the Form 1040 instructions carefully before filing.

A common error made by taxpayers reporting medical expenses is in the deduction of medicine and drug expenss. These expenses should be added to the taxpayer's other medical expenses only to the extent they exceed one per cent of adjusted gross income.

''Some taxpayers,'' Mr Campbell said, ''try to deduct in full their drug costs in excess of one percent of their adjusted gross income instead of adding this excess to their other medical expenses, which are subject to a three percent limitation.

Another common error made last year by taxpayers involved the medical insurance premium deduction. One-half the cost of the premium paid for medical insurance, up to $150, can be listed without regard to the three percent of income limitation.

The Form 1040 istructions explain what is and what is not deductible and also how the expenses should be reported

CHIMNEY SWEEPING LATEST STYLE — Denmark is also called the land with the Thousand Isles. Especially the area south of Funen is famous for its many small islands, and up to lately this was quite a problem for chimney sweep Bent Malling Mikkelson who was spending more time in boats than on rooftops. By helicopter he is now doing what was earlier a week's work in one day.

Cult Death Guilt Denied

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A man whose body was pierced by knives and a hatchet in a cult ritual was alive three weeks after the ceremony, the leader of the cult has testified.

Robert Strong, also known as Omar Ali Shariff, gave that account in a preliminary hearing in City Court.

Police have charged Strong with first-degree murder in the death of the alleged ritual victim, Kenneth Goings, 25, of Rochester. Goings' body was found in a stream near Buffalo Feb. 25.

Denying responsibility for Goings' death, Strong described the ritual he said was performed Jan. 28 before his followers, a Rochester group called the Sudan Muslims.

He said Goings, known in the cult as "I Love," had requested him to perform the rite, described as a cleansing ceremony.

While Goings was in a state of "suspension," Strong said, "I put one knife in over the heart, one knife in the stomach, one knife in the breastbone. Then I took a hatchet and placed it in right here," pointing to his stomach.

"That man didn't bleed until an hour and a half later," Strong told the court. "Then he thought he could bleed and deal with it."

Rehab Center's Drive For Funds Looking Up

First contacts in behalf of raising funds for purchase of new equipment for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center expansion have been gratifying, it is announced by Jack Powell, president of the center's board of directors.

The addition to the building at Fourth and Lancaster is due to be completed in June. The center had funds for the construction, but is making public solicitation for help in providing needed equipment to expand the various areas of therapy. Some $20,000 is needed.

A solicitation for firms and individuals to join a supporting "Century Club" through a $100 gift is being conducted, principally by mail. "We have had a most generous initial response," said Powell.

"The center welcomes any gift, and those who will help are invited to send checks to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, Box 981. A special 'Century Club' card will go to those who can give $100, but of course gifts of any size are more than welcome."

Meanwhile, a committee composed of R. W. Whipkey, Rev. Leo Gee, Jeff Brown and Mrs. R. T. Torp, has been contacting various clubs and organizations, many of which are making commitments. Available if desired, is a booklet indicating what various pieces of needed equipment cost, and those who wish to purchase a specific item may do so, with proper acknowledgment given.

The equipment fund now stands at approximately $7,000 with a substantial portion of this coming in a special grant to be announced later.

"This is a wonderful start," said Powell, "and we are grateful for the concern expressed by so many people and organizations in the continued ongoing of the center's work. We just ask others to help us help more people."

Tami Watkins, Boydstun Delegate Third Time

Another round of school spell-offs produced two more champions and two alternates Wednesday.

Tami Watkins, a repeat school champ, captured the title at Boydstun. In fact, this is Tami's third consecutive year to be the Boydstun representative.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Watkins, 606 Drake Road. Shawna Henry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Henry, 1306 Stadium, got stuck on "molasses," and Tami spelled it and went on to win. Both are sixth graders.

Mark Key, 11, sixth grader and son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Key, 1001 Stadium, spelled "fundamental," a word missed by alternate Sharon Stephens, and then spelled "garbage," to take the title at Washington school.

Sharon, a fifth grader, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Stephens, 804 Birdwell.

Voice Sounds Loud, Clear In Capitol

By The Associated Press

Gov. Preston Smith says the voice of the jury that convicted House Speaker Gus Mutscher on bribery charges in Abilene last week sounded loud and clear in the Capitol.

At a news conference in Dallas, Smith said Wednesday that Mutscher's conviction was in reality "an indictment of most all of those serving in Austin."

The governor noted that those seeking re-election still have time to tell the voters how they feel on various issues.

Mutscher, aide Rush McGinty and Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth were convicted of conspiracy to accept a bribe. They drew five-year probated sentences.

The governor lashed out at Dist. Atty. Bob Smith of Travis County, the prosecutor in the Mutscher trial, saying that it was "amazing" that the district attorney had called him a "co-conspirator" in the case.

PRIVATE POLL

His private polls show him the front runner in his bid for re-election with 40 per cent of the vote, followed by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, the governor said.

In third place, Smith said, is Uvalde rancher Dolph Briscoe and Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi is fourth "but coming up fast."

Mrs. Farenthold is drawing support away from Barnes and Briscoe, he said.

There was heavy activity in the lieutenant governor's race.

Sen. Ralph Hall said in Denton one of his Democratic primary opponents, Sen. Wayne Connally of Floresville, caused the defeat of Hall's code of ethics bill in the 1971 legislature

Hall said Connally crippled the bill by adding an amendment which would have extended financial disclosure requirements to all elected officials down to local levels, including school board members.

Bill Jones, also a Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, took a hard swing at another of his rivals, Bill Hobby, whom he accused of taking a "two-faced stand" on marijuana.

Jones asserted that Hobby first said there should be no penalty for private use and possession of marijuana and later said that the first offense should be reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor.

Dave Reagan, a Republican candiate for the gubernatorial nomination, told the Preston West Republican Women's Club in Dallas, "We are politically adrift in Texas under the confused guidance of a federal mentality."

Reagan said state officials have done nothing to stem the tide of continued centralization of power in Washington.

Mrs. Farenthold criticized Barnes before students at the University of Texas at Arlington.

FARM WORKERS

"We have seen him (Barnes) stop the farm workers on a march to their own capital. He has proposed a tax on groceries, he has pushed through a gasoline tax that neither the highway department nor their lobbying arm asked for, and he engineered a redistricting bill which took a district away from the blacks in Houston," she said.

The Harris County campaign manager for Atty. Gen Crawford Martin, George Pletcher, resigned Wednesday and announced his support for Martin's opponent, Houston lawyer John Hill.

Pletcher, also a Houston lawyer, said he feels Hill is "a better lawyer and could and would more adequately represent the public's interest as the chief lawyer of the state."

In Abilene the two teenaged daughters of Barefoot Sanders, Janet and Martha, campaigned at Abilene Christian College, telling students why Sanders should get the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator. Former Sen. Ralph Yarborough is one of his primary opponents.

Individuals Speak Out Against Sale Of Land

Many of the local real estate and development people are reported to be unhappy about the city planning to sell Section 17 in the Silver Heels addition for funds to finance capital improvements in the city.

The murmurs apprarently had some impact, in that it encouraged the city's Section 17 committee to retrace some steps already taken toward preparation of plans for the sale.

Committee members, in a meeting at city hall Wednesday night directed Harry Nagel, city manager, to give the committe's recommendation to the city council in the next regular session.

The recommendation was to advertise for bids on the land to be sold in one tract, without sub-division or development. The recommendation was a concensus of the committee members, as a first step toward selling the land to finance future capital improvements in Big Spring.

According to Roy Crim, consulting engineer for the city, 43 acres of sub-divided land is owned by the city directly to the west and adjoining Section 17.

Crim indicated that later the city might sell the land already sub-divided in small acreage tracts. However, according to Bill Sheppard, committe member, the committee also recommended that the 43 acres adjacent to Section 17 be sold in a package deal.

According to Sheppard, the committee gave these reasons for the recommendation.

● This would be the simplest thing to sell the land in one package and do away with the possibility of 40 or 50 bids on smaller tracts of land. Also development and handling of the land will cost the city a great deal.

● "It is our belief that a number of local people desire buying the land as a whole package and developing it themselves," said Sheppard.

● Possibly the most important reason — it was the consensus of the committee—the city has no right to be in the developing business, competing with private enterprise in the city.

City commissioners will meet March 28 in regular session to discuss the matter.

Originally members of the city council anticipated the city developing the land and selling it in small tracts. According to Nagle, this would require both the efforts of the city and the county on sub-dividing the land for preparation of sale.

Sale Of Trash Bags Is Good

The Chamber of Commerce Pride People's sale of plastic trash bags is doing well according to Bob Butler, chairman.

"We have sold quite a few bags, and we still have plenty available at the chamber for $2.50 per roll of 40.

"The Pride People would like to see everyone in Big Spring experiment with the use of these bags," said Butler.

If the experiment proves successful the chamber will search for an alternate method of distributing the bags, said Butler.

The bags are available at the chamber office from 9-12 a.m. and 1-5 p.m. The office is located at 215 W. 3rd.

Check Of Seed Tags Proposed

With the recent emphasis on environmental quality, many seed dealers are caught in the middle because of the need to treat planting seed for control of soil insects.

The seed companies often sell seed in several states and .find that each state has different requirements and restrictions, says Dr. Bill Clymer, area entomoloyist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"For this reason, many companies no longer use chlorinated hydrocarbon insecticides for seed treatment," he adds, "instead, some have substituted short residual compounds such as methyoxychlor and malathion."

But the problem is that these alternate chemicals are not as effective against soil insects such as wireworms. Grain sorghum is a good example of a crop that needs maximum protection against soil insects; although commercially treated seed may not be available.

Clymer urges producers to check the seed tag to find out what seed treatment has been made. If the seed has not been treated, the producer has several alternatives. He may treat the seed before planting or use a planter box treatment.

"If either of these methods is used, care should be taken to assure even treatment of all seed," Clymer emphasizes.

Aldrin, chlordane, dieldrin, heptachlor and lindane are legal in Texas at a rate of two ounces per bushel of grain sorghum seed to be planted. These chemicals are currently under review by the Environmental Protection Agency, however.

Speed Meter That Signals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A radar-activated speed meter that signals an approaching motorist the speed at which he is traveling is to be tested on speed-prone city thoroughfares.

The device, radar tracking instruments and an oversize screen mockup of a car speedometer, was demonstrated Wednesday to city officials and newsmen near City Hall.

When aligned, the meter flashed a car's speed at the moment when the screen came into the driver's view.

The Department of Traffic intends to install the device, developed by traffic engineer S. S. Taylor, at four high-speed areas in the city.

BOND HONOR — Robert N. McDaniel, publisher of the Big Spring Herald, receives a citation from the U.S. Treasury Department from Larson Lloyd, chairman of District 4 for U.S. Savings Bonds sales. The citation was for exceptional service in publicizing through news stories and free advertising the savings bond program. Here also for the presentation was Leonard Cowden, Amarillo, Area I representative.

Could Lead Some People To Become 'Pro Voters'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The U. S. Supreme Court's ruling against voter residency requirements could lead some people to become "professional voters" moving from state to state, a Mississippi offficial says.

Atty. Gen. A. F. Summer of Mississippi made the observation here Wednesday during a session of the Southern Attorney General Conference.

The Supreme Court upheld Tuesday a decision of a lower court that last year struck down a Tennessee law requiring voter residency of one year in the state and three months in the county.

As a result of the decision, Summer said, it might be fair to expect "itinerants" coming into a state and registering to vote, to also begin paying state taxes.

He speculated that political movements might begin traveling from state to state to participate in elections, creating a class of "itinerant professional voters."

Discussing the ruling was Tennessee Atty. Gen. David Pack, who said his state has been operating for nearly a year under the court-imposed guidelines that were upheld by the Supreme Court.

Pack told the conference that Tennessee so far has not faced any "upheaval" as a result.

Since the lower court guidelines were issued, Pack said, Tennessee registrars have allowed people to register to vote without reference to any residency requirement.

He said he had informed the registrars, however, that they could legally close their books 30 days before an election.

The Supreme Court's opinion said the one-year requirement served no "compelling" interest of the state and interfered with citizens' rights to travel and take up homes in new states.

The court suggested a 30-day residency period but did not set a specific length of time.

Attorneys general attending Wednesday's meet'ng tended to agree that the high court's decision would lead to a system allowing voters to register at any time up to 30 days before elections, although the actual number of days need not necessarily be 30.

Biggest Jump In Food Prices In 14 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest jump in grocery prices in 14 years last month triggered the sharpest rise in overall living costs since before President Nixon imposed economic controls, the government reported today.

The Consumer Price Index, measuring typical family living costs, rose five-tenths of one per cent in February, the largest increase in nine months, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

Grocery prices, which include a number of items that are not subject to federal price controls, soared 1.9 per cent for the greatest one-month increase since March of 1958, the report said.

PRICES CLIMB

The report followed the resignation of three AFL-CIO members of Nixon's Pay Board, who charged the government was rigidly holding down wages while letting prices continue to climb.

The bureau also reported that average weekly earnings of some 45 million rank-and-file workers rose 35 cents a week to $130.27, but that purchasing power declined 24 cents because of the rise in consumer prices.

The February boost pushed the price index up to 123.8 per cent of its 1967 average. This means it cost $12.38 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases five years ago.

SOME FREEZE

The February increase was the greatest since a six-tenths of one per cent rise last June, two months before Nixon imposed a 90-day wage-price freeze which was then followed by Phase 2 controls.

The bureau said that, so far in the four months of Phase 2, living costs have risen at an annual rate of 4.9 per cent, greater than the 4.1 per cent rate in the six months before Nixon's August economic freeze.

Prices had been held to an annual rate of 1.7 per cent during the rigid three-month freeze that preceded the looser Phase 2 controls.

Prices hikes in February included two-tenths of one per cent for housing, four-tenths each for clothing and medical care and one-tenth of one per cent for recreation.

Transportation costs declined six-tenths of one per cent, the report said.

PHONE RATES

A steep rise in meat prices, it said, accounted for about 70 per cent of the big rise in food prices.

Fresh fruits and vegetables also rose considerably. Dairy products rose instead of declining as usual in February, and cereal and bakery products went up for the first time in four months, the report said.

Raw agricultural products, such as fruits and vegetables and eggs, are exempt from federal price controls.

Other increases included local transit fares, property taxes and natural gas rates, although the increases were smaller, it said.

Residential telephone and electrical service rates continued to rise sharply.

Mortgage interest rates declined, and so did automobile and gasoline prices, the report said.

State and local taxes and interest rates are also exempt from federal price controls.

The bureau said about one-fifth of the over-all rise in February living costs was due to items exempt from price controls.

Housing For 'Truly Poor'

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity will attempt to design housing that the "truly poor" can afford, Director Philip V. Sanchez says.

OEO is beginning work on a $4 million experimental design program "to find out if it's possible to construct a low-income home on a massive scale," Sanchez told newsmen Wednesday. Later contractors will bid on constructing sample units.

The antipoverty agency hopes to lower the cost of some aspects of home-building "through introduction of new materials that still meet code standards," Sanchez said.

The OEO chief, here for a meeting with his 10 regional directors, charged that current low income housing is too expensive to "reach the truly poor person."

Culinary Queen's Story In Future Texas Star

Good eating gets full treatment in Sunday's Texas Star.

Mary Faulk Koock, an associate editor, starts it off with "A Galaxy of Food for Spring," which deals with such delicacies as ham asparagus rolls au gratin and rolled flank steak polenta.

In an interview by Francis Rafetto, Helen Corbitt, the "Culinary Queen," talks about her long career as a kitchen-master who has seen Texans' taste improve over the years.

Julie Benell, Food Editor of the Dallas News and Southwest Scene magazine, reveals her secrets for saving money at the grocery store. She says her hat is off to Texas women, who shop wisely and serve their families nutritious meals at minimal cost.

Yet another expert contributing to the Star's food issue is Mary Kaltman, a former housekeeper at the White House, who tells how to give a bright, cheerful party and do it within your budget.

The food theme extends to the Comment column, where guest writer Dr. Roger J. Williams tells how proper nutrition is a weapon against disease. Much work has been done in this field and much remains to be done — the goal being better health for everyone.

ALBERT FAY

Fay To Visit Here Friday

Albert Fay of Houston, Republican candidate for governor of the state of Texas, will stage a press conference in the Patio Room of the Holiday Inn from 5:30 p.m. until 6 p.m. Friday.

Fay's plane will land at the Howard County airport, where he will be met by Winston Wrinkle and Bill Sheppard, members of the State Republican Executive Committee.

Following the press conference, Fay will be honored at a cocktail party from 6 until 7 p.m. in the Dr. Floyd Mays' home.

The party will be open to anyone desiring to attend.

San Antonio Milk Trial

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A court hearing was tentatively scheduled today on a request for a delay of legal action in an antitrust suit filed against one of the nation's largest milk cooperatives.

The Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI) filed the request in federal court here Wednesday, asking that a pretrial conference be held either next Monday or Tuesday.

The Justice Department filed a civil suit last month against AMPI, which has about 40,000 dairy farmer members in the Midwest, accusing it of monopolizing the sale of milk in 14 states.

The San Antonio based group asked that the litigation be declared a "complex case" under federal guidelines covering "complex and multidistrict litigation."

It also asked the court to stay all pre-trial disclosure proceedings until the pre-trial conference is held and the court approves a schedule for further legal action.

Badge Saves Houston Cop Shot Chasing Bank Bandits

HOUSTON (AP) — Five men were in custody today following a bank robbery shootout which left a bank vice president dead and a police officer and another man wounded.

One of the men in custody was wounded by a police officer after the man allegedly abandoned a stolen police car about a mile from the bank.

The Wednesday shootout occurred when two bandits, both of them armed, came into the South Park National Bank and quickly cleaned out four or five cash drawers of $18,974 and then ran from the bank.

James S. Garbs, a vice president and chief executive officer of the bank, grabbed a shotgun from a closet and chased the bandits outside to a parking lot. He was shot twice and fell dead in the driveway next to the bank.

Patrolman T.G. Morris was shot in the chest by one of the bandits and hospital officials said the officer's badge saved his life by deflecting the bullet upward. The bullet emerged from the patrolman's left armpit.

One man was arrested after being shot three times, including leg wounds that were believed to have been caused by a blast from Garbs' shotgun. The man was identified as Joseph Payne, 27.

Morris and officer David C. Wells were alone in their patrol cars near the bank. They arrived at the bank within seconds of each other.

Wells said he and Morris saw three armed men in a street near the bank and the men fired on the officers. The two patrolmen chased two of the men and one of the men fired a .45-caliber pistol. One of the bullets struck Morris.

Police said the man who shot Morris circled the area back to the bank and fled in Wells' patrol car. He fled on foot after the car blew a tire. He was then chased by Patrolman C. E. Love who was said to have wounded the man twice after a pistol shot had been fired at the officer.

Officers arrested two men at a house shortly after the robbery and arrested two more at another house several hours later.

No charges in connection with the bank robbery were filed at once.

Police said about $18,200 of the stolen money was recovered from various yards where it was dropped by the bandits.

They said a shotgun believed to have been used in the robbery also was found in a yard.

Youth Horsemen To Stay Busy

Youth horsemen will participate in various activities during the next two weeks, including riding in the Jaycees Rattlesnake Rondup Parade.

Organization officials said Wednesday that any Youth Horseman wanting to ride in the parade, scheduled Friday at 4 p.m. in the downtown area, must meet at the Church of Christ at Fourteenth and Main streets shortly before the parade begins.

Other activities club members will be participating in include a Rodeo Parade in Sweetwater. That parade will be held April 1 at 10 a.m.

Also this Saturday night the club members will have a box supper at Comanche Trail Park at 7:30. Members are reminded to bring a box lunch to the big pavilion.

Blood Lead Poisoning Testimony

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — An El Paso pediatrician has testified that tests on five children hospitalized with blood lead poisoning showed that the intoxication came from soil and ambient air sources.

Dr. Laurance Nickey of the Nickey-Huchton Pediatric Clinic in El Paso appeared in court Wednesday. Trial of the suit by the city and the Texas Air Control Board against American Smelting and Refining Co. (ASARCO) is in its fourth week.

The city is asking $1 million in damages from the ASARCO smelter for alleged violations of anti-pollution laws. It also seeks a court order to shut down the plant for cleanup operations.

Thirty-five children from the area around the smelter have been hospitalized for treatment of blood lead poisoning which the city claims was caused by toxic emissions from the smelter.

The company is paying for medical treatment of the hospitalized children but spokesmen deny that the illness was caused by emissions from the ASARCO plant.

Poor Pay More And Get Less

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Poor people usually pay more for housing and get less in return than more affluent people, according to a Sam Houston State University government professor who has researched the subject.

Dr. Clifford Landers made his study in Portland, Ore., in 1970 while a faculty member at Lewis and Clark College. The work was done in conjunction with another faculty member, Dr. James Cicarelli, now of State University of New York.

Landers and Cicarelli chose Portland because it was easily accessible but also because segregation by income and race is very pronounced there.

They surveyed 1,795 non-furnished apartments in seven different districts of the city with respect to gross monthly rent, apartment size and monthly rent per square foot.

"The results of these tests prove that the poor, or the nonwhite and elderly, have less purchasing power with their money than the nonpoor," says Landers.

THEFTS

Bill Davidson, 4103 Connally, reported a theft in which two electrical utility boxes, valued at $30, and 60 feet of chain link fence, valued at $60, were stolen from a trailer park.

Officers discovered, while on patrol Wednesday night, that Emmitt's Lounge, 508 NW 3rd, had been broken into. The juke box had been forced open, but officers were unable to determine the amount taken in the burglary.

Primaries A Tough Grind

State presidential primaries are a tough grind for candidates. They require tremendous physical and fiscal resources. Some mean more than others. They can create instant contenders or quick-fading losers.

Despite all the expense and exhaustion, candidates come out every fourth spring and drive for the nomination. They hope they can get a bandwagon rolling by winning. Often they are disappointed, win or lose.

In 1952, for instance, Sen. Estes Kefauver won primary after primary, only to see the Democratic nomination go to Adlai Stevenson, a "drafted" candidate who didn't enter a single primary. The same year, Sen. Robert A. Taft won the primaries, but Dwight D. Eisenhower won the nomination.

This is not the idea behind primaries, brought about by reformers after the turn of the century. The idea is to give the ordinary party member a way to speak his mind, select convention delegates and, in many cases, instruct them how to vote at the national convention.

This is not the idea behind primaries, brought about by reformers after the turn of the century. The idea is to give the ordinary party member a way to speak his mind, select convention delegates and, in many cases, instruct them how to vote at the national convention.

This was aimed at cutting the power of the bosses and the convention fixers.

But the primary ideal suffered a setback in 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt trounced incumbent President William Howard Taft in the 12 primaries. Roosevelt won 278 delegates to Taft's 48 in the primaries, but Taft easily won renomination.

Now the primary is resurging again. Six states have added primaries since 1968, for a total of 23. These states represent 2,007 votes at the Democratic National Convention this year and 802 votes at the Republican National Convention.

This is enough to nominate in each case, but only 13 of the primaries are binding on delegates. That isn't enough to nominate. But with the move toward reform in the major parties, the day may come when a nominee will be chosen by primaries.

State primaries may appear as a waste of time and energy to their critics, but it is better to let the public in on the nominating process than leave it exclusively in the hands of party professionals.

Missing Mail Car

If it weren't so serious, the case of the missing boxcar of mail might be funny.

Between them, the U.S. Postal Service and Penn Central Railroad managed to lose a boxcar loaded with 319 mail sacks. The car was lost in 1970 and has just been discovered, sitting on an obscure siding in Maryland.

The Postal Service blames Penn Central and Penn Central blames the Postal Service. Both claim to have found the missing boxcar.

Penn Central is the railroad giant which fell on hard times in recent years due to bad management. The lost boxcar is a sample of the management which led the line into bankruptcy. The Postal Service still is trying to overcome deteriorating mail service.

The spectacle of these two huge and troubled organizations exchanging charges is a bit pathetic. Instead of trying to establish what happened and why it happened, they are more interested in fixing the blame. The real effort should be made in preventing such careless handling of the mail.

They Shoot Horses

Around The Rim

Linda Cross

Pavlova has nothing to fear from me. The great Russian ballerina would wonder why I was given two legs when obviously I have no talent for so much as standing on them.

WHILE RUSHING from the Howard County Courthouse to head back to The Herald, I took a header into the concrete walk outside the courthouse.

I came down on a painfully twisted foot and wound up with a sprained and bruised ankle. Everyone falls once in a while, but I had to pick one of the most public spots in town, and now I have a rather conspicuous bandage on my ankle.

HELP CAME FROM all quarters as I stood up wondering how I was going to make it to my car. I hadn't realized that my ankle was hurt. I realized it soon enough when I tried to put weight on it, though.

County Commissioner Bill Bennett and Marvin (Mutt) Hanson, acting road and bridge administrator, came running from around one side of the courthouse while Mrs. Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, came running out of the courthouse.

I STOOD THERE feeling foolish and wondering how I, born of normal parents, had come to have two left feet, both of which always get in my way.

Mrs. Bednar went for her car, and the two men assisted me into it for a ride to the hospital. By now, I was wishing that somewhere along the way I had learned to watch where I was going.

I REACHED THE hospital to learn that my husband's office had been alerted that I was being taken to the hospital, and that they had sent for my husband without giving him much of an idea of how minor my "injury" was.

His comment on reaching the scene to find me in a hobbly condition was, "They shoot horses, don't they?"

HIS BOSS, thank goodness, was partially on my side. She told him he only gets shooting rights if I break something. He's waiting. This is the second time in a little over a month that I've gracefully done in my own ankles, and each time, I've done a better job of it.

President On Busing

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — President Nixon sent Congress last Friday a message of more than 8,000 words which really should be studied by city and state officials and leaders of civic groups who have been concerned with not only the problem of school busing but the whole field of education.

SOME NEWS dispatches on the subject have given the impression that the President wants the courts to be overruled. What he actually set forth, however, is a plan that would deal legislatively with the entire problem and clarify it for the judges who are confronted with all kinds of cases growing out of school desegregation. Mr. Nixon said:

"The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution — under which the school-desegregation cases have arisen — provides that 'the Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.'

"UNTIL NOW, enforcement has been left largely to the courts — which have operated within a limited range of available remedies, and in the limited context of case law rather than of statutory law. I propose that the Congress now accept the responsibility and use the authority given to it under the Fourteenth Amendment to clear up the confusion which contradictory court orders have created, and to establish reasonable national standards."

THE PRESIDENT recommended that there be an immediate stop to further new busing orders by the federal courts while uniform national criteria are being established so that courts in all sections and all states would have "a common set of standards to guide them." He explained that the lower courts have been rendering a variety of opinions and, since it takes a long time for them to reach the Supreme Court on appeals, there is in the meantime uncertainty as to what can or cannot be done by the local school authorities. Mr. Nixon said that the measures he proposes "would not roll back the constitution, or undo the great advances that have been made in ending school segregation, or undermine the continuing drive for equal rights."

'SIR – WE'VE BOUGHT THE PANTS TOO BIG'

Bill's Formula

William F. Buckley Jr

Sen. Goldwater, addressing the Young Republican leadership conference (which received him enthusiastically) said that he foresaw in the next period in American politics "a division not of liberal Republicans but conservative Republicans. And I say to my conservative friends you are wrong, wrong, wrong." Never mind for a moment whether his conservative friends are wrong, wrong, wrong, or even whether they are simply wrong. It is important to try to understand them, and to drive from one's head the notion that they are merely Birchite neurotics. Incidentally, Richard Nixon knows that they are not, and this may prove to be one of the most important political data of the months ahead.

I HAVE A LETTER which speaks the thoughts of a middle-aged American conservative towards the present leadership of the Republican Party. His thoughts are not an epitaph on a bygone age. The writer is determined to transform his disillusion with Richard Nixon not merely into a dirge, but into fuel for a comeback . . .

"The central problem we are wrestling with at the moment is Richard Nixon. You and many others concluded in 1965 that he was our best bet for 1968. Moreover, Nixon's performance in 1969 and 1970 certainly seemed to validate your judgment. In short, if you find the subsequent wild leftward lunge of the Nixon policies astonishing as well as deeply disappointing, you have plenty of equally discomfited company.

"I AM CERTAINLY not going to waste your time or mine on such a cheap shot as I 'told you so,' if only because I yelled myself hoarse for Eisenhower at the Chicago convention in 1952. Nobody who later 'told me so' has ever left me feeling so utterly empty as I felt when I first faced, in privacy, the realization that my support of Eisenhower had been a ghastly mistake. I knew then that a whole young lifetime of uncomplicated devotion to the Republican Party was bleeding away. I suddenly realized — and I would never wish such a realization on anybody — that my central premises had all been wrong.

"TO BE IN POWER is obviously desirable, but for a set of principles it is not essential. What is essential is that the principles must be in a position to be proclaimed and worked for, and that their violation must be opposed. The logical dilemma that a Nixon places conservatives in rests, of course, on the famous proposition (most recently reiterated by Aram Bakshian in the "Times") that any Democratic president would be bound to be worse. Or, as Barry Goldwater puts it, 'Consider the alternatives and say your beads.'

"FRANKLY, WHAT has always bothered me most about that argument is its sheer banality. It puts me in mind of Oscar Wilde's remark that he had never liked 'brute logic'; it always struck him as 'hitting below the intellect.' Surely mankind was endowed by his Creator with intellectual weapons capable of extricating him from such an ugly little cage.

"And sure enough, even a little thought reveals that the analysis is overly simple. It is indisputably true, of course, that the net effect of some Democratic presidencies (a Lindsay's, for example) would quite likely be worse — for conservatism and for America — than anything one can reasonably anticipate under Nixon. But you and I have seen conservatism grow and prosper while in outright opposition to first Eisenhower and then Kennedy, and the ability to oppose a liberal President is certainly entitled to get assigned some value: let us call it X.

JUST AS incontestably, it would be far better if a conservative were in the White House, let's assign that a value called Y. If it is four times as desirable as being in vocal opposition, then 4X equal Y.

Shredders And Dita

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — Among the many startling revelations that have come out of the International Telephone and Telegraph hearings is that ITT sent a team of security men down from New York to shred all of the memorandums in the company's Washington office.

ITT SAID THIS was absolutely necessary because Jack Anderson printed a confidential memo of lobbyist Dita Beard's (she has since denied writing it). The ITT people assured the Senate Judiciary Committee that they only destroyed "old memos" and "useless papers" and did not cut up anything that had to do with the hearings. They also said Dita Beard not only participated in the paper shredding but got so involved in it that she wanted to throw everything away.

I can just imagine the scene as the security people bring in the paper shredder, which looks exactly like a wastepaper basket with blades on it.

"WELL, DITA, we've come down from New York to destroy all your old memos and papers, but, of course, we have to be careful we do not destroy anything that could help the Senate investigation regarding our contribution to the Republican convention."

"Of course. Where shall we begin?"

"How about this program from the Kentucky Derby?"

"OH BOY, WAS that a Kentucky Derby! Did I ever tell you guys what I said to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell at Gov. Louis Nunn's house before I passed out?"

"We'd rather not hear about that, Dita."

"Well, I told him if his Justice Department didn't . . ."

"Dita, please. Can we get on with the shredding? Now, what about these folders on the San Diego Sheraton hotels?"

"I THOUGHT you wanted me to give them to the Republican National Committee to show them what they were getting for our noble $400,000 commitment."

"Dita, there is no $400,000 commitment."

"Oh? Why didn't someone tell me, so I wouldn't have put it in my memo which Jack Anderson printed?"

"You didn't write a memo about the $400,000."

"WELL, IF I didn't write it, why are you shredding it?"

"We're just trying to clean out our files, Dita. It's company policy to do this every two years. Now what about this autographed photo of Peter Flanigan from the White House?"

"You're not going to shred that, are you?"

"We have a saying at ITT headquarters, Dita — 'Better shred than dead.' "

"Why are you shredding my Hartford Fire Insurance policy?"

"It's been canceled. We don't want anyone to think that one of our lobbyists had any connection with Hartford Fire Insurance. But since we own the Grinnell Fire Sprinkler Co., too, we'll install new sprinklers in your house."

"BLESS YOU. I knew ITT had a heart. What are you doing with that book?"

"We don't believe you need 'Six Crises' by Richard Nixon any more, Dita. Someone might think the President was involved in our antitrust settlement."

"Well, can I keep 'The Richard Kleindienst Cookbook'?"

"Dita, you know better than that.

"Oh, there's one more thing. Where did you park your Avis car?"

"You're not going to shred my Avis car, are you?"

"Headquarters thinks it's best that we do. There is no telling what Jack Anderson could find in the glove compartment."

Exaggerated Quivers

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market is becoming increasingly excitable as it gradually departs its base in good, sound common stocks. Any iota of good or bad news is enough to send an exaggerated quiver through prices.

On Tuesday, for example, the Dow Jones industrial average fell 11 points in early trading even though a quick survey of analysts suggested that there was little consensus as to the reason why.

The likelihood of labor problems, especially involving the West Coast dock workers, the absence of institutional enthusiasm, the unsettled monetary situation, the threat of higher interest rates all were mentioned.

But couldn5t these same factors have been mentioned earlier? Of course. But the market was rising, and so the bag of negatives couldn't be called upon. The supply of positive reasons was used then.

Among the positive explanations now in vogue are: the likelihood of improved management-labor relations this year, expectations of renewed institutional interest, the "improving" monetary situation, the chance of a continuation of low interest rates.

In summary, the market has reached a stage where it is looking for excuses to move. The analysts are being employed to fit rather than explain the situation.

Mutual fund sales are down. Redemptions are up. And while for several months the industry was convinced the situation was temporary, it now is a bit uncertain. It fears the days of easy money may be over.

In February, Americans cashed in nearly $514 million of fund certificates. And while they purchased $404 million worth, it still left the industry with $110 million less to work with.

Bee, Beer Champ

Hal Boyle

By BILLIE BROWN
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Eighteenth century London had its White Hart pub, where Dr. Samuel Johnson, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Alexander Pope and other neoclassics gathered for learned discourse and a draught of ale.

Modern-day Atlanta has the Stein Club—the only bar in the world, as far as its habitues can determine, that holds an annual spelling bee.

On a Friday night, it packs in more academic degrees per square inch than you could measure with a slide rule.

Hence the spelling bee, forcing Stein Club regulars who dispute and debate year round over draft beer to put up or sit down each January.

The Second Annual Stein Club Orthographic Open was held in the back room of the bar. This reporter went to kibitz and stayed to conquer—beating an economic geographer, an engineer with a masters degree in Middle English literature, an architect, last year's winner—the state Public Service Commission reporter—and 15 other contestants—by correctly spelling "phthisic," "gyve," "pyrrhic" and "jodhpur."

This display of orthographic pre-eminence earned me the No. 2 engraving on the Annual Orthographic Open plaque that hangs over the Stein Club bar, a case of beer, a hand-struck silver medal and a certificate.

Wearing my seventh-grade spelling medal from Bad Breuznach, Germany, for confidence, I made my way through the obscure hubbub in the main room to the back and took my place among the 200 spelling enthusiasts.

As the zero hour of 8:15 approached, someone passed out sheets of yellow foolscap. Sergeant at arms Wilson Paige called for order.

Twenty beer glasses hit the table, twenty ballpoint pens poised over yellow foolscap, and the race was on.

The end of Round 1 spelled heartache and intellectual humiliation for 12 contenders. Round 2 eliminated four and Round 3, two more.

I was still in.

My tablemates, hors de combat, rallied round, bending to peer as I wrote "thysic," and again as I scratched it out and substituted "phthisic."

"Gnathion"—which, pronouncer Paul Niblock explained, denotes "the lower midportion of the human mandible"—stumped me. But it stumped my last remaining opponent, Martha van Dusenberg, too.

The final score was 48 to 45 of a possibe 50 words. I bungled "balalaika" in Round 2.

"The winner is—Billie Brown!" Cheers. The sound of beer pouring. Applause.

"It's another blow for women's lib," cried the '71 champion, male chauvinist Dick Price.

'Too bad for Price," commented timekeeper Robert Hatcher as he congratulated me. "He wanted us just to go ahead and have ditto marks engraved on the plaque this year."

My Answer

Billy Graham

I am writing you because I know I need help. Most of my life I have suffered from feelings of intense jealousy, and nervous depression. Sometimes I withdraw and don't speak to anyone for several days. At family reunions I have the feeling nobody wants me. I have three little girls, and I know I am hurting them. I know I will have to do the changing myself.

M.H.W.

If you will read the last nine verses in the fifth chapter of Galations, I believe you will see what your basic problem is. Here you will see the works of the "flesh" listed: wrath, strife, envyings . . . some of the very things you mention. Then the Scriptures lists the fruits of the "Spirit," among which are love, joy and peace.

You are no exception. Every one outside of Christ has similar feelings, although they may cover them up better than you. I recall my feelings before I made a full commitment to Christ. I was touchy, over-sensitive, envious of others and irritable. But I have found that Christ can transform our personalities. He made me out-going, gave me a love for people, and changed me completely. Thousands can say with me: "Old things are passed away, and behold all things have become new." II Corinthians 5:17.

Yes, your life needs to be changed, and you cannot change yourself. But Christ can. If you will confess the things to Him you have confessed to me, He will forgive you, cleanse you, and change you. You have His word and He never fails.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"If they do not hear Moses and the prophets, neither will they be convinced if some one should rise from the dead." — Luke 16:31 (RSV)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, grant us faith to believe and accept Thy Son as Lord and Christ. We ask in the name of the Master, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Louisville May Be Lurking In The Wooden Horse

(AP WIREPHOTO)

STUDENT — Denny Crum, University of Louisville coach, watches his team work out in the Sports Arena in Los Angeles. The former student of John Wooden tonight will watch his team pour out of the Wooden Horse that he has designed after studying under Coach Wooden at UCLA.

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pupils challenge teachers everyday yet tonight comes a classic in confrontations as John Wooden, and his defending basketball champion UCLA Bruins face Denny Crum and the Louisville Cardinals.

Teacher Wooden must be favored as the undefeated Bruins continue their bid for a sixth straight national collegiate crown and their eighth in nine years.

North Carolina and Florida State meet in the other semifinal, slated to start at 9:10 p.m. EST.

Wooden and his crew face a club coached by a 34-year-old who played at UCLA and assisted the head man for three years when the Bruins won the NCAA crown each season.

Having won so many titles, Wooden was asked what another championship might mean to him, and answered:

"Pride. You want to do the best you can with the group you have. You start living in the past and you're done. You live in the future and you're done. What you do in the present will affect the future."

In Los Angeles, the North Carolina-Florida State meeting naturally takes second billing to UCLA and Louisville. However, the winner will be in the final, scheduled at the Los Angeles Sports Arena on Saturday at 5:10 p.m., EST, Saturday.

Florida State boasts height with sophomore Lawrence McCray at 6-foot 11 and Reggie Royals just an inch shorter.

North Carolina is shorter with Bob McAdoo at 6-9 handling the post position. However, the club has experience and Coach Dean Smith rates it favorably with the 1968 team that went to the NCAA final before losing to UCLA.

McAdoo averaged nearly 20 points per game during the regular season and was followed in the scoring category by senior forward Dennis Wuycik.

North Carolina takes a 25-4 record into the tournament with Florida State at 26-5. UCLA, the leader of The Associated Press poll throughout the season, has a 28-0 mark with Louisville at 26-3.

All four coaches were in agreement that no radical changes will be made either on offense or defense.

"It would be ridiculous to make major changes at this point," said Wooden.

'DAMNED EXASPERATING'

Murphy Is Favorite In Orleans Tourney

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "This is getting pretty damned exasperating," red-haired Bob Murphy said.

"Maybe this week. Why not? It's about time. Or past time. I'm overdue."

And that he is.

"I've been in position to win six times already this year and I just can't bring it off. It's enough to drive you around the bend," the chunky, 29-year-old Murphy said today before starting out in his first round in the $125,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf Tournament.

He's one of the favorites—South African Gary Player and defending title-holder Frank Beard—for the $25,000 first prize in this 72 hole chase on the 7,080 yard, par 72 Lakewood Country Club course.

And if his putter holds up, Murphy very well could be THE favorite.

"It's all putting," said Murphy, a stocky, cigar-chomping guy now in his fifth year on the tour.

Murphy hasn't won this year, but has probably the most solid record on the tour. In 10 starts he's finished ninth or better seven times, six times sixth or better.

He lost a playoff for the Hawaiian Open title when he bogeyed the first extra hole, missing a two-foot putt. But he ranks third on the money list this year with $57,421.

Murphy, who didn't take up golf until the age of 19 after going to the University of Florida on a baseball scholarship, has three tour victories to his credit, the last time in 1970.

Other major contenders include Masters champion Charles Coody, Billy Casper, Tony Jacklin of England and Australian Bruce Crampton.

Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino are taking time off.

Baseball Players May Try Strike

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The stage was set today for a showdown between baseball's club owners and players over a possible strike before the season gets underway.

The owners, reacting to a series of near-unanimous strike votes by the players over their pension plan negotiations, came back with a show of force of their own Wednesday, voting not to add any money to their previous offer.

Gussie Busch, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, articulated the tough position taken by the brass, saying: "We voted unanimously to take a stand. We're not going to give another cent. And if they want to strike," said Busch, "let them strike."

That sent John Gaherin, the owners' representative in these negotiations, back to the bargaining table with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, carrying no better offer than the one that has precipitated the series of strike votes in major league training camps this spring.

The two negotiators were scheduled to meet in Arizona Friday.

The key issue is the pension agreement which expires March 31. The players are seeking increases to match the 17 per cent cost of living increase during the past three years. The owners, who have already agreed to pay increased medical and dental costs, have balked over any pension increase.

Bellard Makes Aggie Changes

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — New Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard didn't wait long making position changes Tuesday as the Aggies opened spring football drills.

Bellard, designer of the Wishbone-T offense, said, "I thought the players showed a lot of enthusiasm and they were very willing, but we have a lot to learn.

Bill Allen Leads Orleans' Granatelli Bowling Classic

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bill Allen, 37-year-old southpaw from Orlando, Fla., held a 70-pin lead today in the $70,000 Andy Granatelli Bowling Classic after the first two rounds.

Allen, who returned to the tour after a layoff of more than one year, Wednesday rolled an initial six-game block of 1406 and a second block of 1358 for a total of 2764.

Rich Bennett of Owego, N.Y. was second with 2694, followed by Don Russell of Miami, Fla., at 2676, Butch Gearhart of Houston, Tex., 2656 and Tim Harahan of Canoga Park, Calif., at 2652.

Gearhart, who has four Professional Bowlers Association titles, rolled a perfect 300 in his first six-game series.

The 160-man field will shoot its final six game qualifying round this afternoon and the top 24 then will start match play.

Starr Walks Away From Plane Crash

SCOTTSBORO, Ala. (AP) — Green Bay Packer quarterback Bart Starr was among three men who escaped injury Wednesday afternoon when a Piper-Twin Commanche airplane crashed and broke apart while landing at the Scottsboro Airport.

Authorities said Starr, Rod Peevy of Huntsville, the pilot, and James Lain, a Huntsville industrialist, walked away from the smashed aircraft with no apparent injuries.

Longhorns Near Baseball Record

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Longhorns are within one victory of tying a school baseball record established in 1946.

The 'horns went after their 16th consecutive victory today in a non-conference game against Minnesota. Texas defeated the Gophers 3-2 and 14-4 in a doubleheader Wednesday.

The defending Southwest Conference champion 'Horns boast a 22-1 record for the year.

Don Dodd Wins But Is Loser

POTTSBORO, Tex. (AP) — Don Dodd, who stands only 5 feet-2, coached his Pottsboro team to the state Class A basketball championship last month. Now he's out of a job.

School board members called Dodd into their meeting Wednesday, told him Pottsboro plans to field a football team next fall and told him the high school wants a combination football and basketball coach.

Dodd, who never played football and says he doesn't know the sport, said he in effect was fired.

"They want football coaches and I didn't fill the bill," he said.

Pottsboro High is only eight years old and has won a district basketball crown every year.

Dodd is finishing his second year here. His team advanced to the title game of the state Class A basketball tournament last year.

Byron Nelson Is Open To Duffers

DALLAS (AP) — Near scratch amateur golfers have a chance to play with the big boys in the Byron Nelson Golf Classic if they qualify April 4 at the Dallas Athletic Club Country Club Course.

The qualifying round is open to any amateur with a certified handicap of two or less under PGA rules.

"Every good amateur golfer would like to play in a PGA tour event and this provides the opportunity," said Frank Anglin Jr., chairman of qualifying.

"We feel that a qualifying round purely for amateurs increases the golf interest of amateurs throughout Texas and other parts of the country as well."

The Nelson Classic will be held at Preston Trail Golf Club April 24-30.

Permian Basin Belle Relay Attracts About 350 Girls

The second annual Jaycee Permian Basin Belle Relays will attract about 350 girls' track stars into Memorial Stadium April 8.

Theresa Beal, perhaps one of the finest young girl athletes in the area, will enter the meet. Beal, a sophomore from Coahoma, placed fifth in the high jump at the state tournament last year as a freshman. This year she is expected to win that event; but if she doesn't, she has two more years in which to improve her strength and skill.

Coach Latrice West of Coahoma said, "I've never coached one like her before. She is an outstanding athlete."

Garden City finished second in the tournament last year, and it is expected to field a strong team again this year. Coahoma placed fifth, and it will also be a strong contender for the crown.

Cal-Irvine Reign As Champ Ends

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — The three-year reign of California-Irvine as NCAA College Division swimming champion has been ended by Eastern Michigan, making its first bid for the title.

Three places among the first five in the three-meter diving and a victory in the 440-yard freestyle relay gave the Hurons enough cushion Saturday night to win with 222 points to 164 each for Cal-Irvine and San Fernando Valley, which tied for second.

'LIKE HELL ON EARTH'

Purple Eagles Need Top Scorer To Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time St. John's met Niagara, the Redmen rallied from a 16-point deficit for a 93-90 victory—but that was when they had a healthy Mel Davis.

Tonight, though, Davis lies in a hospital room, depriving his teammates of their top scorer and rebounder as they seek a shot at their fifth National Invitation Tournament basketball championship.

St. John's Coach Frank Mulzoff was succinct as he considered playing the Purple Eagles in tonight's semifinal without his 6-foot-7 center. "It'll be like hell on earth for us."

The opener of the doubleheader at Madison Square Garden will have an abundance of big men—Jacksonville's 7-foot center Dave Brent and Maryland's 6-9 pivotman Len Elmore and 6-11 forward Tom McMillen.

Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell believes the championship will be decided by defense "and we are playing very well on defense now. This is our strong suit. McMillen and Elmore have played very well here."

But Jacksonville Coach Tom Wasdin sees things just a bit differently. "The key to this game," he says, "is whether our rebounding holds up and how well our quickness goes against their inside speed."

The Dolphins have an injury problem of their own—scoring leader Ernie Fleming's sprained ankle.

There's no way that Davis can play for St. John's—but if Greg Cluess fills in for him the way he did against Oral Roberts, Davis' absence won't be felt quite so severely.

Davis was brilliant during his 14 minutes, scoring 12 points and grabbing 12 rebounds. But as he drove in for what ended up being his final basket of the game—and probably his final one in the tourney—his knee buckled.

He crashed to the floor writhing in pain so bad he cried. What a few minutes earlier had been just a cramp in his right knee was now a torn tendon. They took him off on a stretcher.

But on came Cluess, a 6-11 reserve who poured in 27 points and hauled in 21 rebounds as the Redmen fought off an Oral Roberts rally to win 94-78.

Steers Knotted With Midland

The Big Spring Steerettes girls' volleybal. team is arousing a lot of local interest. It is tied for first place in the rugged 5-4A District. Both Big Spring and Midland high schools have a 6-1 record.

The Steerettes dumped Midland Lee Tuesday, 15-10, 15-10. The victory pushed the girls within one game of clinching at least a tie. They play Abilene Cooper here tomorrow in their last district game of the season. If they win that one, they are assured of at least part of the crown. Midland plays its last game Tuesday; and if it wins, it will meet Big Spring in a playoff round.

Kay Lou Caffey with 17 points sparked the Steerettes in Tuesday's win. Lottie Ellison, Raylene Oliver, and Leslie Jones played exceptionally well in that game.

Cynthia Dennis with 11 points paced the junior variety team to its 17th win with only two losses. The JV's came from behind to tip the Midland team, 9-15, 15-7, 15-12. Carla Sundy and Ruth Knight were outstanding at the net.

IN WINNER'S CIRCLE

'The Machine' Is Player Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Just as easily as he pops in his jump shots Travis Grant of Kentucky State won the honor today of being named the college division basketball Player of The Year by The Associated Press.

The Machine, as the 6-foot-8 senior is nicknamed, won in a landslide in the voting by sportswriters and broadcasters. Such players as Frank Schade of EAU Claire, Jim Tedesco of Union, N.Y., Willie Stoudamire of Portland State, Hal Johnston of Roanoke and Dick Authier of South Dakota were far behind.

Being named player of the year followed Grant's selection to the 1972 Little All-American team which was announced Wednesday.

Grant led the Kentucky State Thorobreds to their third straight NAIA championship at Kansas City last week and was named the tourney's most valuable player for the second straight year.

He scored a record 213 points during the tourney and became the first player to cross the 4,000-point plateau in a four-year career. He finished with a career 4,045 points. The previous four-year career high was 3,759 points by Bob Hopkins of Grambling, 1953 through 1956.

Grant's achievements include 75 points in one game as a sophomore and a 68-point production this season against Eastern Michigan during which he made 18 straight shots from the field.

Hal Johnston, who sparked unheralded Roanoke to the NCAA championship at Evansville last week, was picked for the Little All-American along with Mike Ratliff, of EAU Claire, Len Paul of Akron and Lloyd Neal of Tennessee State.

Nick Mileti Buys Cleveland Team

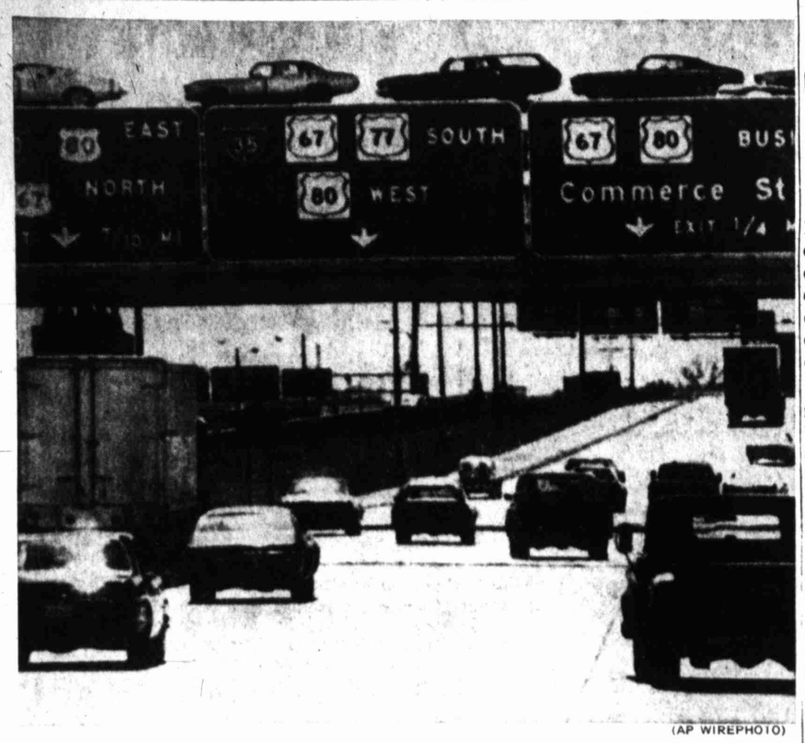

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) — Nick Mileti has added baseball's Cleveland Indians to his fast-growing fistful of sports franchises in the Ohio city.

American League owners approved Wednesday the sale of the Indians to a nine-man group headed by Mileti, who already operates the Cleveland Cavliers of the National Basketball Association and Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League.

Mileti purchased the club for almost $10 million.

Fired After He Refused To Quit Race

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Hondo public welfare worker is off the state payroll today because he allegedly refused to quit his race for the city council or to take an unpaid leave of absence to campaign for the office.

The personnel committee fired Antonio Garcia III Wednesday, effective at the end of the work day, after Atty Gen. Crawford Martin said he could not keep his state job and salary and run for political office.

A department spokesman said Garcia had refused to take a leave of absence without pay.

The spokesman said Garcia was represented by a lawyer at an earlier hearing of the personnel committee, and the welfare department's attorney decided to ask Martin for a legal opinion, which is binding unless overturned by a court

Martin said "an employe of the State Department of Public Welfare may not legally continue to work for the department and receive his state salary while at the same time he is actively campaigning for the elected position of city councilman."

The "obvious purpose" of laws prohibiting such situations, Martin said, "is to prevent any possibility of conflict between the personal interest of a public employe and his interest as an employe of the public."

Hondo is 39 miles west of San Antonio.

BUOYS HOPES OF MAYORS

Federal Fiscal Lifeline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hopes of governors and mayors that the federal government would throw them a fiscal lifeline have been buoyed by the House Ways and Means Committee's tentative approval of a $5.3-billion state-city aid bill.

The measure acted on Wednesday is a modified version of one Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., offered as a substitute for President Nixon's plan to share federal revenues with state and local governments.

Initially limited to five years, beginning this year, it would distribute $1.8 billion annually to states and $3.5 billion to cities and other local units.

The legislation holds out the possibility of merging the collection of federal and state income taxes, saving the states administrative costs and taxpayers most of the trouble of preparing two returns.

The committee will take another look at the measure in legislative form April 11. Final committee approval then would make a House vote likely late next month.

Mills, who at one stage said he would hold the hearings on Nixon's proposal only to kill it, contends his substitute is substantially different.

It is weighted in favor of the cities, low-income areas and states that make extensive use of their own income taxes.

The administration indicated it will embrace the measure as a vindication of its revenue-sharing initiative.

Complex formulas would govern the division of funds.

States would share be on the basis of their revenue-raising efforts, with heavy emphasis on income tax. But all states would be guaranteed some money.

The distribution to cities and other local units would be based on population, urban concentration, per-capita income and—to a minor degree—revenue raising.

The "piggyback" tax-collection system would be optional for states and would not go into effect unless at least five states accounting for at least five per cent of federal income taxpayers joined up.

Participating states would have to conform their income tax systems generally to the federal pattern, although some variations would be allowed.

The taxpayer then would fill out a simple supplement to his federal return. The federal government would handle withholding and remit to the states their share.

Fire Engulfs Mobile Home

Three units of the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department fought a blaze in the Silver Heels Addition for 2½ hours Wednesday night, before bringing the inferno under control.

A mobile home, a shop building and a pickup truck, all owned by Bryant Copeland Jr., were completely destroyed in the fire.

The volunteer unit at the new Silver Heels fire station received the call at approximately 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, and two other units from the Jonesboro and the Sand Springs stations were called in to help battle the fire.

Tom Ivey, Silver Heels station superintendent, said it is not known how the fire started, but it began in the shop building.

The fire spread to the mobile home. There was sufficient heat to ignite the pickup also, according to Ivey.

McGovern's 'Game Plan' Has Not Changed In Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two years ago, Denver lawyer, Gary Hart and Sen. George McGovern laid out the basic strategy for the senator's presidential bid: Build from the grass roots up, and aim for the New Hampshire and Wisconsin primaries.

The prospects and plans of his presidential rivals have changed considerably since then. McGovern's battle plan remains exactly the same.

And the second big test is coming 12 days from now in the April 4 Wisconsin primary.

The South Dakota Democrat's organization passed the first test, in New Hampshire with a 37.1-per-cent showing that exceeded the fondest hopes of his backers, and the five victorious McGovern delegates were five more than the organization had expected.

Many backers of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie considered the McGovern organization superior to their own. In Wisconsin, too, McGovern is said to have the best organization.

Hart, a 35-year-old Yale Law School graduate who has spent two years working to elect McGovern president, appreciates the plaudits for his labors but says he hasn't done anything special.

In the spring of 1970, Hart said, McGovern's strategy began to develop with these basic tenets:

—The nomination would be decided in the primaries.

—Other candidates would get the high-level endorsement from party leaders and elected officials.

—Financing would be limited, precluding the establishment of a large, highly paid campaign bureaucracy in Washington.

—The way to make up for this was with a strong, grass-roots organization.

Thus, while other candidates sent outsiders into various states and regions to set up campaigns, McGovern people picked local managers and built around them—down to the precinct level. Except for New Hampshire and Wisconsin, the state units had to be financially self-supporting.

PATIO PARTIES

Join the parade to the patio as people across the country start uncovering their barbecue grills that have been neglected during the cool winter months. Pleasant spring evenings make outdoor entertaining appealing, and family meals more fun. It's hard to beat the taste of a charcoal broiled steak, but don't limit your grill to steaks and hamburgers. There's a wealth of meat cooking ahead for all types of foods, including desserts and snacks, as well as many new dishes.

Green-tipped bananas
Pineapple chunks
Maraschino cherries

Cut spareribs into serving pieces; place them, meaty side up, on shallow foil-lined baking pan. Sprinkle with salt. Top with lemon slices. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 1 hour. Remove from oven; pour off fat. Refrigerate. When ready to grill, combine remaining ingredients. Place spareribs on grill 6 to 8 inches from heat; brush with sauce after 15 minutes. Cook 15 minutes longer, brushing with sauce. Alternate chunks of bananas, pineapple, and cherries on skewers. Brush with barbecue sauce and grill last 10 minutes of cooking time, until fruit is heated. Serves 4 to 6.

VERSATILE PIES — Chocolate fried pies are one of the favorite desserts for Mrs. David Elrod's family, but the pastry can be filled with anyone's favorite filling. Mrs. Elrod's dessert recipe file is bulging with ideas, because her husband doesn't think a meal is complete until it is topped with something sweet.

Plain Foods At Home, Anything In Restaurants

By BARBARA LORD

"I'll try about anything when I'm eating in a restaurant," said Mrs. David Elrod, "but there are a lot of things I don't want to cook. We've eaten snails and all sorts of strange foods, when dining out, but my family would rebel if I gave them snails for dinner at home."

Mrs. Elrod said she enjoys cooking, but has to follow a recipe for everything and gets frustrated if the directions say "beat until just the right consistency," or "add until just so."

"I want to know exactly what they mean," she said. "If I haven't tried it before, I don't know what 'just the right consistency' is." Most of Mrs. Elrod's recipes are clipped from newspapers or magazines. Her family doesn't like fried foods, and Mexican and Italian are the only foreign meals she prepares. Over-all, the Elrods agree that nothing can beat a "good old broiled steak."

Elrod is owner of Elrod Furniture. The couple has three children, Mrs. Rick Lee of Irving, Stanley Dee, a student at Texas Tech, and Jon David, 14. The Elrods also have one granddaughter, Jennifer Kathryn, born Christmas Day, 1971.

Mrs. Elrod received a fondue pot recently, but is skeptical of its use. "I'm not sure that is meant for our generation," she said. "Everyone kept telling me how much fun fondueing is, but I thought it was just messy. I guess I just haven't used it enough to do it smoothly yet."

In the past year Mrs. Elrod has taken up several hobbies that she had never tried before. She is crocheting an afghan, has done some antiquing and decoupaging, and "dabs in a lot of things."

"I've never been much of a hobbyist," Mrs. Elrod said, "but all of a sudden I found myself involved in a lot of things that I'm enjoying, because I can do them when I want to." She sews quite a bit, but never because she has to. She said if she had to make everything she wears, it would take the fun out of sewing, so she only does it when the urge hits.

The Elrod family likes to do things together, and their favorite pastime is music. They form a singing group that performs for various activities in town, primarily at their church, 14th and Main Church of Christ.

"Actually, I'm no more than a church alto," said Mrs. Elrod, "but the rest of the family are good." The children all play at least one musical instrument, and Mrs. Lee was once an elementary music teacher and now teaches private flute lessons.

Mrs. Elrod is an affable and gracious person. She can usually be found "puttering around" at her home on South Birdwell Lane, and she welcomes friends when they stop by for a cup of coffee.

"'I'm basically an old fashioned homemaker," said Mrs. Elrod, "and I like it that way. I'm content at home, and I have found the more involved a woman gets with her family, the more good memories she will have." She limits her club acivities to those that she thinks are worthwhile in homemaking or that provide thought-provoking topics of discussion. She presently belongs to Child Study Club and 1955 Hyperion Club, and said this is the first time she has ever belonged to more than one club at a time.

Most of Mrs. Elrod's spare time is spent in church activities. She and her husband both teach Sunday school classes and are members of the church's a cappella choir.

One of Mrs. Elrod's weaknesses is furniture, and she is often trading furniture for something new. She said she doesn't know if that is typical of all furniture dealer's wives, but that her husband has threatened to not let her in the store anymore. Her taste is refined, and the family home shows a cultivation of liveability.

"We want our home to be comfortable because we live in it," said Mrs. Elrod. "Our furniture usually takes a pretty good beating, because it is used so much."

The Elrods have been married for 25 yers, and have lived in Big Spring all of that time. They are both originally from Sweetwater. He is owner of the store that was originally opened by his father, the late J. W. Elrod, in 1936. His mother now resides at 1800 Main.

The tender pieces of breast meat fry to a delicate golden brown in less than 5 minutes. Why not try your own hand at developing a new chicken recipe with a chance to win $10,000? PANTRY PICK-UPS

A bit of imagination can transform leftover vegetables into new and interesting dishes. Try cold leftover vegetables in egg, meat, gelatin or tossed salads. Add them to soups or casseroles. Or combine yesterday's corn or snap beans with today's lima beans.

* * *

A tray of assorted cheeses and a bowl of fresh fruits make a dessert pretty enough for a party. Or, if you like, serve crackers and small, thin slices of pumpernickel and rye bread with the cheeses.

* * *

The term "spices," as generally used, includes the herbs as well as true spices. Herbs are leaves of aromatic plants grown in the Temperate Zone. Spices come from aromatic plants grown in the Tropics.

* * *

Use a thin white sauce with starchy vegetables such as peas or beans. A medium white sauce usually is best with other vegetables.

* * *

Give boiled vegetables an added touch. Sprinkle lemon juice or herb vinegar on them for a pleasantly tart taste.

ALTERNATE BAY LEAVES, MEAT
. . . Adds delightful aroma

Bay Leaves Change Bland To Delicious

Every good cook has learned the art of seasoning to taste. She knows almost by instinct whether a dish needs the nip of pepper, a whiff of garlic or the teasing aroma of a bay leaf. There are, however, certain preparations which cannot be spiced correctly by this ordinarily excellent method. Marinades, for example.

A "raw" marinade might, by itself, taste quite good, but prove to be a too-bland seasoner of meat, fish or fowl. The total effect of spices, oil, vinegar and — or lemon juice cannot be determined until the meat has been marinated for some hours, then cooked. Then we taste the spices of the marinade mingled with the brothy fragrance of the meat.

While a whole spice such as bay leaf may be used in either a cooked or uncooked marinade, certain other whole spices must be cooked briefly in the marinade to release flavor, then cooled before being poured over the meat, fish or fowl. Marinades heated with whole spices are likely to be more highly seasoned so that smaller amounts of spices are needed to give the desired effect.

Bay leaves, like so many other natural products, can vary in size from 1 to 3 inches. Whenever a recipe calls for "a bay leaf" choose a medium-size one, a leaf about 2 inches long, or use 1½ small leaves or half a large one. This amount of bay leaf should be used for approximately 6 servings of food.

Bay leaves came originally from the Mediterranean area and have been used for hundreds and hundreds of years. They are not only a favorite seasoning but were once used to make wreaths such as you've seen on reproductions of the statues of distinguished Greeks and Roman.

BAY LEAF KEBOBS

2¼ lbs. London broil or sirloin tip
2 tbsps. water
⅓ cup salad or olive oil
½ cup cider vinegar
2 tbsps. instant minced onion
¼ tsp. instant minced garlic
1½ tsps. salt
½ tsp. ground black pepper
Bay leaves

Cut meat into 1½ inch cubes, trimming off excess fat. Combine next 7 ingredients. Crumble 2 of the bay leaves and add. Heat, cool, and pour over meat. Marinate 4 to 5 hours or overnight. String meat on skewers, alternating with whole bay leaves. Cook on the grill over low heat until of desired doneness. Serves 6.

Flavor Fun Comes In Barbecue

Have fun with a family dinner by presenting one of the favorite flavor additions for meat . . . a barbecue sauce.

The meat choice is beef cubed steaks, so popular with homemakers for their ease of preparation. You may call them "minute" steaks. The meat has been cubed by a cutting machine to make it tender.

You could speedily cook cubed steaks by panfrying or panbroiling. This time, to make it special, the meat is braised in the barbecue sauce.

The nippy sauce flavor will then blend with the beef, states Reba Staggs, home economics expert in the field of meat cookery.

Barbecued Cubed Steaks are destined to please all, even the children, and they're ready in less than one hour.

BARBECUED CUBED BEEF STEAKS

8 cubed beef steaks
¼ cup flour
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
6 tbsps. lard or drippings
1 medium onion, chopped
2 tbsps. brown sugar
¼ cup lemon juice or vinegar
1 cup catchup
2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
1 cup water
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Combine flour, 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Dredge steaks with seasoned flour. Brown in lard or drippings. Add chopped onion and brown lightly.

Mix remaining ingredients and pour over steaks. Cover tightly and cook slowly until meat is tender and sauce thickens, about 45 minutes. 8 servings.

Spanish Onions Good For Storing

Those giant sweet Spanish onions from Oregon and Idaho are excellent keepers, but they should be stored correctly. Keep them in a cool, dry, well-ventilated spot, but do not refrigerate. Once the onion is cut, it will keep two to three weeks if placed in a covered container or plastic bag and stored in the refrigerator.

"Those Patio people must be crazy giving 10¢ off on their 5-Course Dinners. Heck, they could get 10¢ more." LEE TREVINO

"Patio gives you five full courses...everything from an appetizer to dessert. But the main feature is their enchilada.

Look, I know my enchiladas...I was raised in Dallas...and raised on enchiladas. I put enough of them away in my time. When it comes to enchiladas, the name of the game is beef. And take it from SuperMex, Patio comes through with the taste of beef like nobody else.

I figure with the cost of beef these days, Patio is entitled to get a little higher price. But when they start knocking ten cents off...that's like giving money away. Loading up on Patio at those prices is enough to make you feel dishonest."

Candidates Air Views On Political Issues At AAUW Meeting

All local candidates for state, county or city government officers were presented at an open forum Monday evening in the Big Spring High School cafeteria. The forum was sponsored by American Association of University Women, which has been studying government-related topics during this club year.

Rich Anderson, a Republican candidate for state legislature, was the first speaker. His interest in government dates back many years, and he is largely responsible for establishment of the Republican party in the 19th Congressional District.

Anderson said one of his primary interests is to see a stable two-party system in Texas. He is also concerned with rural development of this area, since agriculture is vital for West Texas economy.

"When our country began, individuals gave power to the government," Anderson said. "now the government gives the power it wants to individuals." Anderson believes the powers should be returned to the states.

Judge Bill Eyssen, unopposed in the race for county attorney, said the major duty of that office is to be a one-man grand jury, and to decide which cases have enough evidence to warrant a trial.

Bill Crooker and George Zachariah, both candidates for county commissioner, said the main responsibility of the county commission is to assess and spend tax money.

Zachariah said his primary concern is the welfare and benefit of the community.

Crooker, a Republican, believes it is important to firmly establish a two-party system in county government in order to provide a competitive atmosphere.

Walter Grice and L. A. Hiltbrunner are seeking the office of Justice of the Peace in the Democratic primary.

"The duties of the office are a sort of melting pot for problem solving," Grice said. His primary concern in serving is to "help the people and not to hurt anyone."

Hiltbrunner, owner and operator of a local ambulance service, said he feels he can "fulfill the job and handle it in the way it should be handled."

Three of four candidates for the Howard County Junior College board were present. Dr. Charles Warren, a present member of the board, enumerated changes and improvements which he has seen at HCJC since he has served on the board and since he attended the college.

"HCJC is a fully accredited college and is one of the best," said Dr. Warren. "The major responsibility of the college is to be a 'feeder' to the four-year colleges which surround this area." He said the immediate needs of the college include finding a new president and building a physical education facility such as a field house, gymnasium or coliseum.

Don McKinney, also running for the college board, said his primary interest is to assure HCJC courses are compatible with surrounding senior colleges so that courses taken here will transfer to four-year educational institutions.

Lawrence Davis said his interest in the college board is the betterment of the over-all college, and he believes it is already a "wonderful school."

Dan Wilkins and Gus Ochotorena, both seeking election to the school board of Big Spring Independent School District, were present.

Wilkins sees the responsibility of a school board member to be that of making policies with the cooperation and assistance of school administrative officials. He said a board member must also help evaluate old policies to determine their function and need, and to terminate such policies that no longer have a purpose.

Ochotorena said his major interest in being a board member is to give strong support to technical and vocational education and to Head Start. He wants to see the most efficient operation possible for the citizen's tax dollar.

In seeking the office of city commissioner, Carlisle (Frosty) Robison said his prime concern is the development in growth of Big Spring. He wants to work with various groups to develop Big Spring, and in this regard, said a major characteristic of a city commissioner should be the ability to listen.

Eddie Acri, seeking a second term as city commissioner, said he wants to seek out and support programs to build a more progressive government. He expressed opposition to raising ad valorem taxes to clear the deficit, but said the present deficit should be cleared. He said he would like to improve playgrounds and youth activity facilities, and is in favor of bringing the water and sewage plant up to state requirements.

Harold Hall, a Big Spring resident for 40 years, said he is running as an independent candidate for city commissioner and will continue to be independent if elected.

Mayor Arnold Marshall said his campaigning platform is that he "cares about the community." He sees his job as a city commissioner as that of giving council, guidance and direction to the city manager based on what is fed to the city commission from the public.

"No one can please everyone," said Wade Choate, another candidate for city commissioner, "but everyone must consider what is best for the most people." Although he said he sees no present need for raising ad valorem taxes, he said he could make no predictions for the future. He believes that all accomplishments of the city commission in the past are the result of team efforts.

A discussion between candidates and members of the audience followed the talks. Sam Chappel, president of Big Spring High School student body, asked Robison to state his interests in youth activities in the city. Robison replied that he has worked with most of the youth organizations in Big Spring, and that he would like to make the city attractive enough that young people will want to settle here.

Zachariah and Crooker both said they would support a child welfare unit which has been proposed by the AAUW and Child Study Club, and both agreed there is a need in this area for a planned parenthood clinic.

When asked how he proposed to raise standards of the Big Spring school system, Ochotorena said the city should compete with neighboring towns in teachers' salaries, and he believes funds for raising salaries could come from "cutting down wastes." He gave no specific areas of wastes to which he referred.

In answers to the same question, Wilkins said he would like to see more emphasis placed on education at the three to seven-year age group, but that all areas of consideration would require a lot of careful study that is not possible until one begins serving on the school board and becomes familiar with all areas.

When asked by a high school student what he thought about the school board feeling "like a rubber stamp," Ochotorena replied that he could see how the board might feel this way because they are just given the names of teachers to approve for hiring. His questioner then said that the administrative personnel who screen and select teachers are trained in the field of education and "is it possible that those not trained in this field could do a better job in selection of teachers?"

Ochotorena replied that he felt that the school board should review all applications in view of hiring teachers. He further stated that due to the background of some teachers they are possibly placed incorrectly. He feels that the school board should have some authority in placing teachers where they are best qualified to be. Also, he said that other people could be hired at a lower salary to do some of the jobs teachers are being paid to do.

New Building Near For Westside Center

Good news concerning the new building for Westside Community Center was heard by members of the board during Tuesday evening's meeting, presided over by Peter Stone, president.

According to Roy Anderson, assistant city manager, bids for moving the building from Webb AFB were to be opened Wednesday. Once a bid is accepted, the builder will have 10 days to start the moving, and it must be completed by June 20. The Rev. Caleb Hildebrand and his committee are making plans to provide the foundation for the building, which must be ready when it is delivered to the site. Ben Bancroft, a local attorney who is a member of the board, will handle the contract.

Also, it was reported that the Base-Community Council of the chamber of commerce has expressed a willingness to assist in the completing and remodeling of the building.

A donation of a sewing machine has been made to the center by Mrs. J. E. Hogan, and Mrs. J. L. Fleckenstein has made and donated 51 book markers for the future library. The center is now able to accept cash memorials, if there are those who would like to assist in this manner.

The board extends an invitation to all interested area residents to attend the Family Forums in progress at the center. The next forum will be at 7 p.m., Tuesday when Bob Greene will discuss automobiles, detailing repairs which can be made at home.

Swann In Hereford Association Hall

Sam Swann, Merkel, has been inducted into the exclusive membership of the American Polled Hereford Association's Hall of Fame according to Executive Secretary Orville K. Sweet.

The award, the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a breed by the APHA was set up in 1966 to recognize meritorious individual Polled Hereford breeders.

Swann, the oldest living Polled Hereford breeder, started breeding Polled Herefords in 1905.

He was influential in the early advancement of Polled Herefords in his area and was responsible for much of the wide spread acceptance of the breed.

Recognition was for his lifelong contribution to the advancement of Polled Herefords through selective breeding and his pioneer efforts in the initial promotion of the breed.

Swann's name will hang along with those of fourteen other breeders in the APAH Hall of Fame in Kansas City.

Opening lead: King of ♠

In today's column we are concluding a deal begun yesterday in which the reader was presented with the opportunity to determine how South, the declarer at five diamonds, succeeded in winning 11 tricks. Altho it is offered in the form of a double dummy problem inasmuch as all four hands are exposed to view, the deal was played in an International event and the actual declarer did make his contract.

The problem revolves around the lack of entries to dummy required to establish North's club suit for needed heart discards. If South plays the ace of spades at trick one when West leads the king, to take an immediate club finesse, West will ruff in. Declarer can draw the remaining trumps with the ace and now safely cash the ace of clubs. The six of diamonds is overtaken by the king to lead the jack of clubs and ruff out East's king. The carefully preserved four of diamonds puts North in with the five and a heart is discarded on the ten of clubs. South leads a heart to the king, but West cashes two tricks to defeat the contract.

If declarer wins the first trick and draws two rounds of trump ending up in dummy—to lead the queen of clubs, East can prevent the establishment of that suit by merely refusing to cover. South's ace blocks the suit and there is only one entry left to the North hand—the five of diamonds. Declarer is unable to prevent the loss of three heart tricks on the deal.

South anticipated all the potential problems in advance including the possibility of West's being void in clubs by a simple—yet completely effective maneuver. He merely ducked the first trick, permitting West to hold the king of spades. The latter continued with the queen, the eight was played from dummy and declarer ruffed in his hand with the six of diamonds.

The ace of diamonds was cashed and when both opponents followed, the seven of diamonds was led over to the king pulling the remaining trump. Now the queen of clubs was put thru and altho East did not cover, South was ready to take full command of the proceedings.

When the queen of clubs held the trick, declarer played the ace of spades next and discarded the ace of clubs from his hand to clear up the block in that suit. He could now continue with the jack and when East covered, South ruffed with the nine of diamonds.

The four of diamonds put North in with the five and two hearts were discarded on the ten and nine of clubs—which had been so effectively established. A heart was led to the king and altho West won the ace, South ruffed the continuation and claimed the balance, having lost only one spade and one heart on the deal.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

HUNGRY (Q.) My mother hardly ever fixes a good dinner any more. Cigarettes and coffee are all she is interested in.

For my sister and two brothers and me she fixes bacon and tomato sandwiches. That's all. Or fried luncheon meat with cheese. Sometimes she fixes bacon and eggs for dinner. Or pancakes. That's all.

Maybe once a week, or twice, she has regular meat and vegetables for dinner. The house is a mess too.

I am 16 and have a boy friend and I'm thinking about leaving if she doesn't quit starving me. — Nothing To Come Home To in Florida.

(A.) Is your mother working? Is she divorced, or a widow? Is money a problem?

If she is working and trying to make ends meet and take care of four children, she needs help — your help.

You are 16 and mature enough to plan and prepare meals, and also to shop with economy and a balanced diet in mind. You can also help keep the house clean. Your sister and brothers are also probably old enough to help in some way.

Helping is one of the finest and most rewarding things anyone can do. Offer to help your mother. Ask her to let you help her.

BUMPS: (Q.) I have these red bumps all over my legs. In gym people say, "What's wrong with your legs?"

I just say, "I don't know." But I get so embarrassed. What causes these bumps? What will cure them? — Broken Out in Kansas.

(A.) Your trouble could be anything from stocking dye to shaving irritation to food allergy to incorrect diet. Or something else entirely. Go to a dermatologist and let him diagnose and treat your rash.

NO TROUBLE WITH WHISKEY

McALISTER, Okla. (AP) — An inmate at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary has been recommended for clemency after telling the state parole board he doesn't have a whiskey problem because he drinks "scotch."

The board recommended commutation of the sentence of Edward Dawson, 69, serving life for the 1952 murder of Malzina Garrett, his common-law wife.

"Did you ever have any trouble with whiskey?" board Chairman Charles Chestnut of Miami asked.

"No, I drink scotch," Dawson replied.

The board recommended to the governor that he be freed.

Tricycles Money Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has proposed a $23,000 study to find out why tots fall off tricycles, Rep. William J. Scherle, R-Iowa, said here.

The title of the proposed study, Scherle said, is "The Evaluation and Parameterization of Stability and Safety Performance Characteristics of Two-and Three-Wheeled Vehicular Toys for Riding."

Sex Discrimination By Insurance Firm?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Edith Green says she has stumbled upon what may be a hitherto unknown variety of sex discrimination—insurance companies which balk at giving professional women the same protection they give men.

The case began last month when a woman surgeon in Oregon told Mrs. Green about being turned down by the Commercial Insurance Co. of San Francisco for any more than $100-a-week in commercial "income insurance."

She said the company told her the limit on all female applications is $100 weekly regardless of their income.

Rep. Green says she knows of no such arbitrary limit on men.

Normally, such policies are based on income. A person might make $40,000 to $60,000 a year and thus take out disability income insurance up to $1,000 a week.

Rep. Green says she wrote to Oregon Insurance Commissioner Cornelius Bateson that she sees the validity in charging higher insurance rates for young men drivers than young female drivers, for instance, "but there is sound actuarial basis for this."

She said the Commercial Insurance Co. may have statistical reasons for denying women a higher weekly indemnity coverage but they don't say so.

In his reply, Bateson said he was investigating and so far had fiund files showing that Commercial Insurance Co. had told the state it was granting women $250 weekly indemnity policies, with no mention of a $100 weekly limit.

Bateson added:

"I get the impression that Commercial may tend to think of females as only occupying low-paying positions and not being capable of becoming doctors or members of Congress. An archaic view but unfortunately not one which has been completely eradicated."

Rep. Green commented that state insurance commissioners have the clout to force equitable practices of firms operating within its boundaries. She said she will introduce legislation to prevent such disparities in coverage.

PRIESTLY FIRE EATER — Father Nick Weber, 32, may be the only Catholic priest anywhere who steps into white tights in the morning instead of the traditional black vestments. He says he brings religion to people by eating fire at shopping centers rather than preaching from the pulpit. He travels the western states in a station wagon and lives with friends in various towns. He works all day, seven days, and supports himself from coins people toss into a weatherbeaten top hat.

SCHOOL WALKOUT

Protest Cry Of 'Viva La Raza'

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — Boycotting high school and junior high pupils faced the possibility of legal action today for walking out of school over a list of grievances and demands.

Claiming nearly 400 pupils had joined the protest, the boycotters voted Wednesday to ignore a school board ultimatum to return to class today.

With the Mexican-American protest cry of "Viva La Raza," the boycotters' vote came after the school board decided in a special session to take both criminal misdemeanor action and civil action against those involved in the protest.

The boycott began Tuesday with organizers claiming 375 pupils were taking part and school oficials estimated 250.

Gilbert Saenz, president of the local Mexican-American Youth Organization and a leader of the boycott, said the protesters totaled nearly 400 Wednesday. School officials said they knew of only about 170 pupils who had joined the protest.

The boycotters have issued a list of grievances calling for such action as abolishing the dress code and establishing a grievance committee composed of pupils representing Mexican-American, black and anglo ethnic groups.

They also have called for a special parent council to advise the school board of the community's wishes, and for courses on Mexican-American and black culture and history.

Last May, Mexican-American community leaders called for and staged a one-day school boycott, listing essentially the same grievances currently at issue.

The school board voted 4 to 1 Wednesday to file suit seeking to enjoin any person from encouraging the pupils to boycott, if the protestors refused to return to school today.

PUPILS HELP THE BLIND

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Blind people have easy access to the days headlines through radio but there is a large portion of the news that they may miss — the news and features backgrounded in newspapers.

Speech students at Utah State University have started a project to bring local news events into the homes of some 50 sightless person in the Cache Valley area.

The students use a local newspaper as a source and then record the news event on tapes which are sent by mail to the blind persons in the area.

The students call their weekly project the "Cache Valley Digest" and report on events such as marriages, city and county council meetings, entertainment and letters to the editor.

HEATLY BEHIND HALE'S CAMPAIGN?

'An Unholy Alliance' Charged

AUSTIN (AP)—Rep. DeWitt Hale of Corpus Christi has denied in strong terms that powerful Rep. W. S. Heatly of Paducah is behind his campaign for interim House speaker.

Hale commented on accusations by two supporters of Rep. Rayford Price of Palestine that the Hale movement is an effort to preserve Heatly's power.

Heatly is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and has angered many representatives through his use of budget items for leverage for or against various bills.

"I am emphatically denying that Mr. Heatly is behind my campaign for interim speaker," Hale told a reporter.

STRONG-ARM

Reps. Frank Calhoun of Abilene and Fred Agnich of Dallas issued statements Wednesday opposing the Hale campaign.

Hale is favored by liberal speaker candidate Rep. Price Daniel Jr. and a number of conservative House members to preside over the House during this year's two—or more—special legislative sessions. Price, also a 1973 speaker candidate, wants to win the post this year. Such a victory presumably would help him win re-election to the House and then election as speaker.

Calhoun, chairman of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, said Heatly, Daniel and Hale had formed "an unholy alliance" to preserve Heatly's grip on state appropriations.

He called Hale a "lackey for the Mutscher-Heatly regime that has served the present leadership in past strong-arm activities."

Speaker Gus Mutscher, convicted of conspiracy to accept a bribe from Houston promoter Frank Sharp, said Tuesday he will step aside.

'DIRTY 30'

Agnich, Republican national committeeman and a member of the anti-Mutscher "Dirty 30" House coalition, said Heatly "has been running the Texas House through his role as the appropriations chairman for too long."

"We must stop his attempt to preserve his power through the artifice of an interim speaker," Agnich said. "...The election of an interim speaker in the special session will serve only to give Heatly time to regroup his forces."

Agnich claimed Heatly has been calling state college administrators, "trying to force them to put pressure on House members in their area. I can understand why Bill Heatly is trying to strong-arm our state. He is a very desperate man. If effective reforms are carried out by a new speaker, it must include the elimination of Heatly and his power-abuse system."

PETTY POLITICS

Hale said he believed Price's forces were trying to link him to Heatly "because many members don't like Mr. Heatly, and they feel if they can tie Mr. Heatly and me together they will get votes."

Both Hale and Heatly denied that Heatly was even active in the Hale campaign.

Keep Away From Spill Called Best

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal safety official says the traditional "advance and extinguish" philosophy of firemen may be re-examined because of a train derailment and explosion last October.

Rear Adm. Louis M. Thayer, a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, said the Houston accident indicates that "maybe we don't know the best way to fight these fires.

"Maybe the best thing to do is to keep everybody away from a spill of this kind and just let it burn itself out," he said.

Thayer, a retired Coast Guard officer, commented in an interview Wednesday following a speech at a national conference on controlling spills of hazardous materials.

He declined to discuss probably causes of the Houston accident, which killed one fireman and injured about 50 persons. The board's final report is expected to be issued in about six to eight weeks.

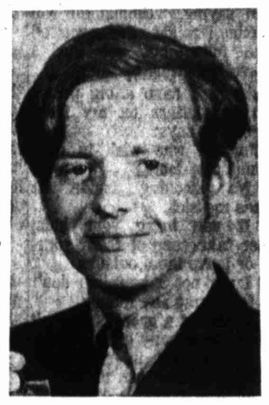

VICA Winners Prepare For State Competition

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) held a West Texas contest in Big Spring last week in which almost 600 students in 60 chapters from 30 schools competed in 40 skill contest areas and six leadership contests.

The first place winners from Big Spring were Luther Weatherby, chapter 15, motorcycle mechanic; Curtis Bushnell, chapter 338, electrical appliance repair; Barbara Corralez, chapter 15, x-ray technician; Mary Lanspery, best VICA girl of district one and an AFL-CIO scholarship award; and Cary Karns was awarded best VICA boy of district one, chapter 572. Those who placed in the top three spots will go to the state meet.

Mike McDaniels, chapter 15, was elected sergeant-at-arms for district one for the next school year, and Barbara Corralez was elected as a delegate. Both will attend a youth leadership training conference in San Antonio June 26-30.

Supt. S. M. Anderson was awarded a plaque expressing VICA's appreciation for his interest and leadership in the Vocational Industrial Clubs in West Texas. VICA also thanked Big Spring business and industry for their support of the spring VICA meeting.

Monsieur Jo, Drug Expert, Dies In Cell

MARSEILLE (AP) — Monsieur Jo, the legendary heroin chemist whose arrest last week reportedly saved him from an underworld death, was found dead in his cell Wednesday night.

Authorities said Joseph Cesari, 54, hanged himself.

Cesari was caught last Thursday in his secret laboratory with $25 million worth of drugs.

Reports circulating then said he was marked for death by gangsters who thought he turned in two local drug dealers he considered annoying competitors.

Admits Bail Jump Guilt

DALLAS (AP) — Ernie McMillan, 27, a former field secretary of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (NCCC) has pleaded guilty in federal court to charges of bail jumping.

McMillan first pleaded innocent during a 30-minute hearing before U.S. Dist. Court Judge Robert M. Hill, but later changed his plea.

He is accused of jumping bail before his scheduled July 7, 1969, trial on draft evasion charges. He was subsequently arrested in Cincinnati and returned to Dallas, where he still faces the draft charges.

McMillan told the court that the charges were "transparent and flimsy and reflected . . . the systematic attempt to remove me by any means necessary from the political action, we, the SNCC, were organizationally pursuing at that time."

Asst. U.S. Atty. Cecil Emerson filed notice after the hearing, however, of the government's intent to dismiss the draft case, which had been set for trial April 22.

Judge Hill interrupted, saying he would not listen to a "dissertation on McMillan's reasons not to appear at his draft evasion trial."

Gets Privacy

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: That letter in your column about the woman who had a sign in her living room saying, "Thanks for Not Smoking," might have surprised some folks, but not me. I believe in putting up signs.

In fact, I have a big poster with red letters on my front door which says:

"For all who wish to pass through this door:

1. No smoking inside. It makes me sick.

2. If you bring your kids, either take care of them yourself or leave them outside.

3. I am not a bank, so don't ask to borrow any money.

4. I am not a grocer, so don't ask to borrow any groceries.

5. I am not in the hotel business so don't ask me to put you up over night.

6. Don't bring me your problems. I've got my own.

(Signed) THE ESTABLISHMENT

Abby, I am 28 and have a husband and four kids and they come first. Since I have had this poster on my front door, lots of folks have said I was nuts, but I don't care. This is the first time in my life I have had any privacy. Sign me "That nutty lady with the sign on her door" . . . or

SHIRLEY IN HOT SPRINGS

, ARK.

DEAR SHIRLEY: I'll wager that your poster nets you more privacy than a 200-pound dog. (And you don't have to feed the poster!)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I invited another couple over for Sunday dinner. (Chicken and homemade noodles.) We told them we'd eat between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m., but to come early. They said they would.

At 1:15 p.m. they telephoned to say they had started to watch the ball game on TV, and they'd come when it was over. We knew this would take several hours, so we helped ourselves to the chicken and noodles and went to the corner tavern and drank beer.

Three hours later our friends came into the tavern looking for us. They said, "How about dinner?"

What would you have done?

THE TWO OF US

DEAR TWO: I'd have told them that "dinner" was between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m., but if they wanted some leftover chicken and soggy noodles, they were welcome to it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "Stalemate," the intelligent young couple who wanted help in deciding who would raise their three young children if they were both to die together:

As a professional who deals with this situation every day I have seen the heartbreak and confusion suffered because people have not been realistic about this possible eventuality.

By all means, keep all the children together. And provide as much financial aid as you can for the family you select in order to enable them to take on the added burden of raising your children.

Have a nonfamily member or the trust department of a bank act as an administrator. The small cost is a bargain in preventing family conflict.

Most of all, keep abreast of the times. The family you chose 10 years ago may not be the best for your children today. I know. We have three adventurous mountain-bred teenagers who would find the overprotectiveness of my favorite sister entirely too confining.

I realize that the chances of both parents dying together are very slim. But it happens every day. EXPERIENCED

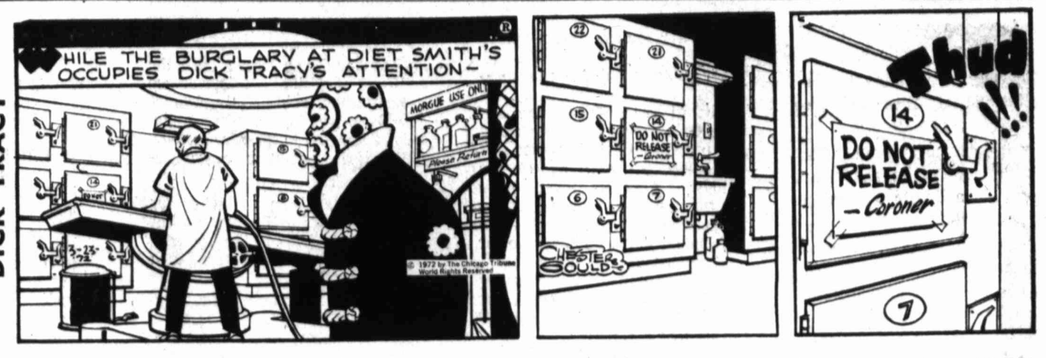

DEAR EXPERIENCED: Yours is a thought-provoking letter. Thanks for writing.

'Arthritis Cures'

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am health and safety leader for our Woman's Club, and would like to ask some questions about arthritis which right now is getting a lot of attention, as so many people have it, both young and old.

1. Do vitamins help? Are C and B-12 better?

2. Is exercise good for arthritis?

3. Arthritis is always more painful in the winter. Would a heat lamp help?

4. Is being overweight harmful for one with arthritis?

5. Does poor circulation go with arthritis? Almost everyone I know (including myself) who has arthritis also has a circulation problem.

6. Is the nervous system involved? — Mrs. R.S.

1. Vitamins, while necessary for good general health, have no effect on arthritis. Overdosing with vitamins is wasteful.

2. Remaining active but NOT overburdening arthritic joints, is important in keeping joints from "freezing" or becoming too stiff. MOVE them, but don't wear them out by excessive exercise. In rheumatoid types of arthritis, the answer is somewhat different. Even movement of them often should be avoided until the inflammatory period is over. You need a physician's guidance on this.

3. Heat eases the discomfort of arthritis, whether it's the heat of the sun or from any other source. Wet heat, dry heat, radiant heat, it's all heat and it is very useful in arthritis.

4. Being overweight is distinctly harmful for an arthritis patient if the joints are weight-bearing ones — knees, hips, spine, ankles, feet. If the damaged joints don't have to support so much weight, they benefit.

5. There is no proved relationship between arthritis and poor circulation — except that by the age when circulation is likely to be impaired, arthritis is more prevalent and more severe. That doesn't mean, however, that young people can't get arthritis, especially that vicious type, rheumatoid, which can attack even young children.

6. The nervous system is not involved in arthritis — except that painful joints are wearing on anyone's nerves.

I have a feeling you would find my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," pretty helpful. It covers many kinds of arthritis (you might be surprised how many varieties there are) as well as treatment. Send 35 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope if your local chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, which has specialized brochures on many different types.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it harmful to combine the juice of half a lemon and a teaspoon of baking soda in a glass of water before breakfast? It seems to take the pains and aches out of my system, but I hear that it affects the kidneys? Is this true? — G.W.

Your fizzy concoction doesn't appeal to my sense of taste, and it could be harmful for some people. The sodium (in the bicarbonate) would be bad for folks with high blood pressure, some types of heart disease, cirrhosis of the liver or advanced kidney disease. It would not cause any of these diseases, however.

Oil, Natural Gas Discovery Made By Dowdle Oil

MIDLAND — Dowdle Oil Corporation, Midland, Texas-based oil and gas producer, has completed a natural gas discovery well and a new natural gas development well in West Virginia, it was announced today by Nash J. Dowdle, president.

The natural gas discovery well, the No. 1 Keith in Ritchie County approximately 26 miles east of Parkersburg, flowed gas at the estimated rate of 1,100,000 cubic feet of gas plus 48 barrels of 42 gravity oil per day from the Keener pay at a depth of 1978' to 1990' and the Big Injun pay (Mississippian Age) at a depth of 2006' to 2032'. Dowdle Oil owns a 25 per cent working interest in the new discovery well and leases. Plans to drill an additional three wells in the area are under way.

Dowdle Oil also completed a new natural gas development well in Doddridge County, W. Va., 25 miles west of the city of Clarksburg. The new well, the No. 1 Fisher, flowed gas at the rate of 850,000 cubic feet of gas per day at a depth of 1838' to 1882' from the Big Injun pay. Dowdle Oil owns a 25 per cent working interest in this new gas well.

The company has acquired an option to purchase an additional 10,000 acres of oil and gas rights in Barbour County, W.Va., for future drilling and development of potential natural gas reserves.

Mr. Dowdle added the new wells and the additional drilling plans could add important increases to the company's oil and gas reserves and production income. Gas will be sold under long term contracts to Equitable Gas Co. and Consolidated Gas Supply Co. The oil will be sold to Pennzoil.

'What's Up, Doc' Filming Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Producer-director Peter Bogdanovich has completed filming "What's Up, Doc?" the Warner Bros. motion picture comedy starring Barbra Streisand and Ryan O'Neal.

Bogdanovich's first film since his highly-acclaimed "The Last Picture Show," was filmed in Burbank, Calif., and San Francisco.

Will Count Bald Eagles

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Inventories usually involve commodities such as socks and cans of tomatoes, but the inventory John Smith plans will be a great deal more difficult.

Smith is the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's rongame biologist and he plans to count the bald eagles and ospreys left in Texas.

He will have some help. He has mailed 900 letters and questionaires to department field personnel and 6,000 to conservation organizations such as the National Audubon Society asking assistance.

Smith wants to determine the status of these endangered birds, and he is asking for reports of both bird sightings and sightings of nests.

Data needed consists of (1) exact location of observed birds, (2) exact location of active in inactive nests and (3) a brief description of the nesting site (species of tree, alive or dead, whether the area is forested or open, etc.).

Smith said nest sites will be subsequently visited to determine more specific information.

Lubbock Legislator Seeks Speakership

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —Rep. R. B. McAlister, 60-year-old Lubbock representative, said Wednesday he is a candidate for speaker of the 1973 Texas House.

"My purpose in making this move is to employ my homogenized knowledge of state government and news media to bring about a spirit of understanding, trust and respect that will transcend our moments of prejudice and personality clashes," McAlister told a news conference.

"When this is done I am sure without a doubt that the love we have for Texas and Texans will cause a deep down tingling of pride every time we are drawn to this beautiful edifice which houses the seat of our government."

McAlister said he had not asked his "very dear friend" Speaker Gus Mutscher for support, nor had he discussed his candidacy with any other House members.

Other 1973 speaker candidates already in the race include Reps. Rayford Price, Palestine; Jim Nugent, Kerrville; Price Daniel Jr., Liberty; Dave Finney, Fort Worth; and Fred Head, Henderson.

Four BS Officers Earn Diplomas

Four Big Spring police officers will graduate from a police training school in ceremonies at 3 p.m. Friday in Midland.

The school is being sponsored by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Council, and was scheduled from March 20 through 24.

Sgt. James W. Baker, Sgt. Sam Cooley, Sgt. Peter Stone and Patrolman A. N. Henry will all receive intermediate and advanced certification as police officers, the result of having attended the training sessions.

Top training personnel from the Department of Public Safety in Austin conducted the program of police administration and supervision.

Emory W. Muehlbrad, manager of personnel training in Austin was one of the instructors. Others included James C. Shaw, training officer, and Billie R. McElroy, training specialist.

Police supervision was the first class the local officers were involved in. E. R. Browning, the regional commander of the DPS in Midland, instructed that course.

Other courses included motivation behavior, principals of administration and supervision, internal communications, exercise and problem solving classes.

Big Spring policemen attended the training sessions at no cost to the local police department or city government. All expenses were handled by the Permian Basin COG.

The training course was held at the Armed Forces Reserve Center at the Midland-Odessa Regional Air Port and graduation exercises will be held there also.

Two distinguished members of the state law enforcement system will be at the graduation ceremonies. Floyd Hacker, training director of the DPS, and Bill Shewmake, special consort from the Texas Commission of Law Enforcement Education and Standards, will each speak to the graduates in the Friday ceremonies.

Other police officers attended the training session from around the West Texas area. The class included two men from the Midland County Sheriff's Office, three from the Midland Police Department, nine from the Odessa Police Department. In addition, the Chief of Police of Seagraves took the courses.

Sgt. James Baker has been with the local department since Sept. 2, 1955, and was promoted to the sergeant position last year. He is a regular patrol supervisor.

Sgt. Sam Cooley has been with the department for two years, and was also promoted to his present position last year. Sgt. Pete Stone is the identification supervisor in the BSPD. He has been with the department for approximately eight years. Patrolman Henry came to the department from the Howard County Department of Public Safety last year.

$21 Million Lien Socks Billie Sol

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has moved to keep alive more than $21 million in old tax liens against Billie Sol Estes, the onetime West Texas fertilizer king.

Estes, now a hog rancher near Abilene, owes the taxes on earnings the IRS says he made from mortgages on non-existent fertilizer tanks in the 1960s.

Estes is on parole from a federal prison after serving part of a 15-year sentence for fraud.

The liens were refiled at the Taylor County Courthouse last week and the move was necessary to keep the claims alive, the IRS said.

In addition to the $21 million the IRS says Estes owes, there is another lien for $332,535 against trustees for his children.

The IRS, for example, states that Estes still owes $1,430,642.44 income tax for 1962.

Other records show that on Jan. 13, 1969 the IRS refiled tax liens for $9,133,473.43 back income taxes for the years 1959 and 1960, and $10,530,842.46 "additional income tax" for the period ended 1961.

Estes is listed solely as the taxpayer and his Abilene address is used on the $9 million assessment, originally filed in November 1963.

The $10 million assessment names "Billie Sol and Patsy D. Estes" and lists their address as "Box 1052, Pecos, Tex." It was originally filed Aug. 15, 1963, the records show.

The three liens against Estes total $21,094,958.33.

A $332,535 lien names as taxpayers "John L. Estes Jr., Patsy D. Estes and Diehlman Word Estes Sr., trustees for children of Billie Sol and Patsy D. Estes, as set out in trust agreements dated Feb. 19, 1963, of assets of Billie Sol and Patsy D. Estes."

The taxes are for the period ended 1961, the instrument states.

While Estes has the right to his household, the federal government has the power to garnish or attach any wages he receives or property he might acquire and apply the money toward the unpaid balance of tax assessments, an official said.

When everything was wrapped up in receivership, the Estes assets were listed as $1,799,659 for the 400 creditors who claimed the promoter owed them $34 million.
