Although he's left the city that made him Broadway Joe to join the Los Angeles Rams, the questions about quarterback Joe Namath remain the same: How are his ailing knees, is he past his prime?

In this week's Family Weekly you'll find the answers from the best person to ask — Namath himself. Joe also shares his thoughts on how football has affected his life, what actions he's regretted and what he thinks of fans.

Hundreds pay homage to Elvis

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A white cross of flowers from his former wife and his daughter stood by the crypt of Elvis Presley today, as outside the mausoleum hundreds of people paid a final homage.

They came in a steady stream from the time the cemetery gates opened to weep and to kneel and to take pictures of the building where the rock 'n' roll superstar was laid to final rest Thursday.

Florists stood behind ropes to give the mourners flowers from the 3,116 displays that lay like a colorful quilt across the lawn of the mausoleum. None of the visitors was allowed inside the building, but they seemed content just to be outside.

Presley's coffin was sealed behind a slab of concrete and marble in a small chamber near the front of the building. Near a window was a three-foot-high cross of white carnations, decorated with red roses. A silken streamer said it was from Lisa Marie and Priscilla.

Lisa Marie is 9 years old and Presley's only child. Priscilla, her mother, and Presley were divorced.

On the floor of the chamber was the blanket of roses that covered the coffin when it was carried in Thursday.

At the head of the rose display was a crown of velvet with red and white roses along the bottom and red carnations at the top. Above it all was a small golden "X" with a simulated diamond.

There was nothing to indicate the donor or what the "X" meant.

The mausoleum was kept locked because the family was expected sometime during the day and the crowd clearly was too large.

Some persons waited all night outside the cemetery gates, sleeping on the sidewaks, and when they were admitted, shortly after 8 a.m., some ran the entire half-mile distance to the mausoleum to be the first.

Mourners had waited patiently for hours in the broiling sun Thursday — outside the Presley mansion, along the four-mile funeral route on Elvis Presley Boulevard and in front of the cemetery.

The white funeral that Presley had wanted was carried out: a white hearse bore Presley's copper coffin, covered by 500 red rosebuds, and 16 shining white Cadillacs led a creeping procession of about 50 cars.

But a commercial atmosphere also crept into the sad occasion. Hawkers sold Elvis T-shirts for $10. Forty-cent picture postcards of Graceland went quickly for $1.50.

The casket for Elvis Presley is carried to a Memphis (Tenn.) mausoleum Thursday past thousands of flowers that covered the area.

Carter boosts Lance

By MICHAEL DOAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and banking officials are convinced that Budget Director Bert Lance broke no laws as a Georgia banker, but members of Congress want to question Lance further about his finances.

Comptroller of the Currency John Heimann, who had been conducting the investigation into Lance's business affairs, concluded Thursday that no information developed to date "warrants the prosecution of any individuals."

Afterward, Carter interrupted his week-long vacation at Camp David, Md., to fly to Washington and tell reporters that "my faith in the character and competence of Bert Lance has been reconfirmed."

"Bert, I'm proud of you," he said, shaking the hand of his close friend.

Lance said in a statement he would remain in his Office of Management and Budget post. "I feel my ability to carry out my job has not been damaged. In this regard I deeply appreciate the confidence which the President has expressed in me.

"I feel strongly that if allegations such as those raised in recent days can cripple a person's ability to carry out his or her job, then we are in bad shape in our country," Lance said.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, chairman of the Senate committee which held hearings on Lance's nomination as budget director, said the major allegations against the official "were definitely disproved by the comptroller's report."

But the Connecticut Democrat asked Heimann to finish his inquiry and testify at a Government Operations Committee hearing on Sept. 7, after Congress returns from its summer recess. Lance was asked to appear the next day.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said that if the hearings last more than a few weeks, Lance probably will have trouble doing his job.

He said the report "raises a number of questions" and he would like to know more about the bank aircraft Lance used and the dropping of several investigations of Lance's activities shortly before he was appointed.

A House banking subcommittee also plans to look into possible changes in banking laws as a result of the inquiry.

Federal fund path cleared for Midland

WASHINGTON — The way has been cleared for Midland schools to receive up to $337,524 in federal funds to aid in its desegregation plan, a spokesman for U. S. Rep. George Mahon said this morning.

David Langston said Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Joseph Califano Thursday signed a waiver which will allow the school district to receive the funds under the Emergency School Aid Act.

The exact amount the school district will receive will be determined through negotiations with the regional office of HEW in Dallas, Langston said.

The Midland school system originally applied for $570,030 to finance projects related to implementation of its elementary school desegregation plan. After that application was rejected, a new application for $366,779 was submitted.

Although $337,524 was approved by the Office of Education, the Office of Civil Rights, another HEW division objected, claiming the school system was not in desegregation compliance, said Bryant Saxon, director of program development and research for Midland schools.

Price rise smallest in 7 months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose in July by the smallest amount in seven months as lower grocery prices began showing up at supermarket shelves, the government said today.

The July increase of four-tenths of 1 per cent in the Consumer Price Index was the lowest since a similar rise in December 1976, the Labor Department said.

Food prices last month were listed as up one-tenth of 1 per cent last month, on a seasonally adjusted basis. Increases of seven-tenths were recorded in May and eight-tenths in June.

In a second government report out today, the Commerce Department is issuing a revised estimate of the nation's Gross National Product. An earlier report said the GNP grew during the quarter at an annual rate of 6.4 per cent.

Despite the improvement in the inflation outlook of the Consumer Price Index, workers' spendable earnings were reported down slightly in July. The average worker's purchasing power declined one-tenth of 1 per cent, mainly because of the decline in the average number of hours worked, the Labor Department said.

The consumer price report showed that other commodities, such as household goods and autos also rose one-tenth of one per cent in July, but these had not contributed to the recent inflationary spiral as much as food.

The administration is counting on slower increases in food prices to reduce the inflation rate from 10 per cent at the beginning of the year to 6 per cent at the year's end.

If averaged out over the entire year, the July increase would mean a 4.8 per cent rate of inflation, a considerable improvement over the first half.

Woman reads handwriting on wall

ROUSTIN' ABOUT with Ed Todd

It goes like this: "Lord, help me find my way through the changes in my life."

Dora Castillo would appreciate it. And how it would thrill her to read it.

She can . . . read.

Mrs. Aldridge is pleased about it herself.

With the right help, Mrs. Castillo found a way to make some changes in her life. It wasn't easy. She'll tell you that.

At age 39, Mrs. Castillo is learning to read and write. She never went to school.

"At that time (in her childhood), they didn't care whether you went (to school) or not. And at that time, I didn't care about it."

So, she didn't get to class to pick up some learning.

"I was one of those unfortunate ones," she said. There was not an iota of self-pity in her voice. Just determination.

Mrs. Aldridge would vouch for that. She's the coordinator for the Adult Basic Education (ABE) program for Crane, Midland and Upton counties.

"She speaks two languages," Mrs. Aldridge said of the new reader. "She's very intelligent. She just never learned to read."

She's not alone. But how many other adults could be tabbed with the unsavory "illiterate" label is hard to say.

"People are reluctant to admit that," Mrs. Aldridge said.

Mrs. Castillo isn't . . . or wasn't. She's no longer a nonreader. Today, she's reading somewhere between the first- and second-grade levels.

Her desire to read became intense about four years ago. The motivation was basic: She wanted to read the Bible.

Mrs. Castillo said she wasn't convinced she could believe all the words that flowed from the mouths of preachers. Sometimes, she found contradictions.

The preaching, she said, "sometimes mixes me up." And she couldn't "tell whether the preacher was telling the truth or nor."

She wanted clarification and understanding. She wanted it firsthand and from authority. The Bible, she said, would fulfill her need, her quest.

So, Mrs. Castillo, the housewife and mother, went to night school for two years. It did little, if any, good, she said.

She was in a class with other adults, most of whom could already read and write. The program for "disadvantaged" adults is funded through the Texas Education Agency.

The teacher, apparently not knowing how to teach a beginner in a class with advanced students, gave Mrs. Castillo copying assignments. She copied words and "did not learn."

"I came to learn how to read. I didn't come to learn how to copy," she said of her frustration.

Initially, she was going to classes at the old Carver High School, which has been converted to the Carver Cultural Exchange Center. Later, she went to classes at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church. Altogether, there

Life for Humphrey could be months, years

By GERRY NELSON

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Hubert Humphrey, a political battler for 30 years, is facing the biggest battle of his life — terminal cancer.

Humphrey has an inoperable tumor in the pelvis, doctors said Thursday after the Minnesota Democrat underwent surgery to relieve a blocked large intestine.

Dr. John Najarian, chief of surgery at University of Minnesota Hospitals, said Humphrey would be up and walking today and could be out of the hospital in a week and back in the Senate by early September, barring complications.

He declined to speculate on Humphrey's life expectancy, saying: "It could be months, it could be years. Predictions are impossible."

The 66-year-old Humphrey in an article for this month's Reader's Digest wrote, "You have to gear yourself to the continuity of the struggle, knowing that there will be days when you don't feel so good.

"Deep down I believe in miracles. They have happened to a lot of people who were given up to die and then were restored to health."

Najarian said the tumor is "definitely malignant" and cannot be removed because of its location.

"The tumor in the pelvis is right on the bone, and it is part and parcel of the pelvis. It is physically impossible for it to be removed surgically," he said.

Najarian said the cancer could be called terminal — certain to cause death — in the sense that it cannot be removed. He said the cancer may be held in check, but not cured, by chemical treatment.

The Elvis Presley influence is apparent in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Paul MacLeod, Holly Springs, Miss. Pair of devoted fans crashes Elvis' funeral

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis is Mecca to thousands of Elvis Presley fans who left their homes at word of his death without so much as a toothbrush or a change of clothing — they wanted to be close to their idol.

Two of those fans, enterprising young women from Bridgeton, N.J., got closer to their goal than any others. They crashed the rock star's private funeral, first hiding in a florist's van and then by posing as reporters.

On Wednesday, the day after Presley died, Pat Christian and Dana Miletta walked off their jobs and drove to the airport.

"I was parking the car and Dana ran in and told them to hold the airplane," Ms. Christian said. "After we got here, we called Dana's husband and told him where we were."

They wandered for more than 24 hours.

"We went around the back of Graceland Mansion and tried to get over the wall," Ms. Christian said. "Then we sat up on the wall and watched everything that went on. When that got dull, we went to the hospital and to the funeral home to take pictures of all the hearses and things."

Those meanderings lasted through Wednesday night and into Thursday morning. Then they tried to crack cemetery security.

"The guards wouldn't let us in, so we went around back and climbed over this muddy old bank behind the mausoleum," said Ms. Christian.

"There were a whole bunch of trucks parked around with flowers, so we snuck up and started telling them where to put the arrangements. And everyone thought we worked there."

For hours they worked. Then, midway through the morning, Mrs. Miletta remembered they had left precious souvenirs, collected in their wanderings, with new-found friends sitting outside Graceland. They decided to slip out and retrieve them.

"We got in the back of a florist's truck, hid under a board and went out with it," Ms. Christian said. "Then when it came back in, we came in with it hiding under some canvas."

Taxpayers meet to choose officers

A group of Midland residents concerned about property taxes held an organizational meeting Thursday night to elect officers and establish goals of the group.

According to Tom Nipp, newly elected president of Taxpayers Association of Midland, the group was formed because taxpayers in Midland and Midland County are concerned about re-evaluations of taxes and the way re-evaluations affect taxpayers.

The purpose of the group, according to Nipp, is to represent Midland taxpayers by sitting in on city council, commissioners' court, school board and college board meetings. "The members will express a viewpoint from the taxpayers' angle, whether it be good or bad for Midland," Nipp said.

Nipp emphasized the group is not connected with tax protestors — a group fighting the federal income tax.

Also at the meeting, Nipp said, the group formed committees to investigate future tax issues, including the city budget and the proposed hospital district.

In addition to Nipp, other officers elected at the meeting were John Luccous as first vice president, Amos Palma as second vice president, Eddi Anderson as secretary, Mrs. Pat Conway as assistant secretary and Ada Spivey as treasurer.

Newly elected to the group's board of directors were E. V. Mitchell, Luccous, Laurence Lee, W. W. Wallace, Fred Johnson, V. A. Cain, Joe C. Davis, Mrs. Conway, Nipp, Henry Orson, Spivey, Sam Logan, Burt Castle and Palma.

French minister cuts tour short

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — French pride got the better of foreign policy today as Foreign Minister Louis de Guiringaud, angered by Tanzania's refusal to apologize for a hostile demonstration, cut short the last stop of a four-nation tour to promote French influence in Africa.

De Guiringaud was on a diplomatic mission engineered by President Valery Giscard d'Estaing to spread the message that French interests in Africa extends beyond its former colonies.

The initiative was seen as an attempt to outrun American influence in Africa. It ended prematurely when the Tanzanian government refused the foreign minister's demand that it apologize for the anti-French demonstration that greeted his arrival Thursday for a four-day visit.

Ornithology subject of Rotary Club program

A lecture-slide presentation, "They Are All Around Us," was the program feature Thursday noon at the meeting of the Downtown Rotary Club in the Midland Hilton.

The speaker was Dr. Ted Jones, veteran Midland geologist. Birds were cited as the creatures which "are all around us" in Midland County.

Jones, who, 14 years ago became interested in ornithology as a hobby, said more than 280 different kinds of birds frequent Midland County at various seasons of the year. Some varieties often are found in the city, while others frequent rural areas only.

"There is no reason to be afraid of birds," the speaker said, "although certain varieties are a nuisance."

He discussed the habits and showed slides of 28 of the most common varieties of birds found in Midland County. He pointed out that crows usually are not found in the county, but ravens are common here.

"Ornithology is an interesting hobby and I enjoy it," Jones concluded.

Heat streak to continue

Though the heat streak is not setting records day after day, it is forecast to keep on bearing down on West Texas until those northerly winds bring a refreshing coolness this fall.

Thursday's high reading was 100 degrees, which came between 6 and 7 p.m. The record high for the date is 102 degrees set in 1970.

Throughout the Midland area, it was rainless, and no moisture was in the forecast.

This morning, most area towns reported building hot weather again and some high clouds.

16-year-old hospitalized

A 16-year-old Midland youth was listed in undetermined condition at Midland Memorial Hospital early today after he received burns to his legs, hands and face in a fire at his home Thursday morning. According to fire reports, Arthur Partile of 408 E. Elm St. was burned when a can of gasoline was ignited by a nearby stove about 11:30 a.m. in the bathroom of his home. One unit of the fire department was called to the scene. Damage to the house was light, according to reports. The fire was extinguished with 10 gallons of water.

GLASS DOOR TAKEN

A sliding glass door valued at $100 was taken from a house under construction at 4621 Pleasant Dr. between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 7:30 a.m. Thursday, according to police reports.

New settlements opposed by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, repeating its opposition to Israeli settlements on the West Bank of the Jordan River, says three new camps were established by "illegal acts" and are "obstacles to "constructive negotiations" toward a Mideast peace.

Israel disputed the American charge.

The country's ambassador in Washington, Avi Pazner, denied that the new settlements are an obstacle to the renewed peace talks the United States has been promoting and said his country still seeks negotiations with the Arabs.

In New York, Israeli U.N. Ambassador Chaim Herzog accused the world organization of "double standards and discrimination" in condemning the Israeli action while ignoring what he said are recent terrorist acts by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The United States made its feelings known in a note delivered to Israeli officials here and in Jerusalem.

The United States also complained Thursday that the extension of administrative regulations to more than one million Arabs living in the West Bank area "creates an impression of permanence of Israel's occupation ... which is not helpful."

The three towns were authorized Wednesday by Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin. Sources in Jerusalem said Begin acted to placate his most conservative supporters.

There now are 79 Israeli settlements with a population of about 5,000 Israelis in the land occupied during the 1967 ArabIsraeli war.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter III, expressing American displeasure with Israel, told a news conference that the United States regrets the statement Sunday by a top Israeli official that the West Bank belongs to his country.

PTA, group to give out school facts

Special school information centers will be distributing free brochures and maps from three locations this Saturday and again on August 27.

The booths will be manned by the City Council Parent Teacher Association (PTA) in cooperation with the Midland Alliance and will be open between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on both Saturdays.

They will be located inside Gibsons, 3111 Cuthbert Ave., Skaggs Albertsons, 1002 Andrews Highway, and Sears, Cuthbert Avenue and Midkiff Drive.

The booths will hold materials for people to write out questions on school matters relating to school attendance areas, busing or general school subjects of concern. Someone from the Midland Independent School District will call those persons who write out their questions, Mrs. Joan Baskin of the Midland Alliance said.

During the weekdays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., information on the schools is available by calling the Midland Alliance at 682-0024.

Attorney files suit

Ladd asked for $500,000 in damages, claiming that Pearl stole an idea from him.

Ladd said he tried to sell to Pearl the idea of marketing beer in orange and white cans in the Austin area in 1975 in order to counter sales of Coors Beer. Pearl never paid him for the idea, but did sell beer in orange and white cans, Ladd said.

Orange and white are the school colors of The University of Texas at Austin.

Krueger visits Midland today

U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger will be in Midland today for a private reception.

The reception will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Midland Hilton.

Canine patrol Lions' topic

Midland Police officers Oscar Strain and Paul Jones, members of the department's canine patrol, will present the program at the Greenwood Lions Club meeting at 7:15 a.m. Saturday in the Greenwood Lions building, according to a club spokesman.

Breakfast will be served at the meeting, the spokesman said.

bladder removed last October at New York's Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research. Najarian said the tumor was almost certainly a leftover from that malignancy, but said it might have been even worse if Humphrey had not undergone chemotherapy periodically for the last 10 months.

Najarian said Humphrey awoke from surgery ready to continue the treatments, which at times have made him ill and have caused his hair to fall out.

Humphrey was re-elected to the Senate last November for a fifth term, three days after his release from the hospital. He had served as vice president in the administration of Lyndon B. Johnson and was a presidential candidate against Richard M. Nixon in 1968.

A hospital spokeswoman said Humphrey slept most of the day Thursday. His wife, Muriel, and other members of his immediate family were at the hospital.

First Lady Rosalynn Carter and Joan Mondale, wife of Vice President Walter Mondale, who is regarded as a political protege of Humphrey's, were among those who called Mrs. Humphrey at the hospital to express concern, the spokeswoman said. She said the hospital has been "inundated" with telegrams, calls, cards and flowers, including a bouquet from former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

are six adult learning centers in Midland and one each at McCamey, Rankin and Crane.

Those classes netted her zilch, she claimed.

"She had dropped out of her class, because there was no individual attention," Mrs. Aldridge said.

Finally, to Mrs. Castillo's apparent good fortune, she ran into a one-on-one reading specialist, Michael Glen of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Glen, who came here "to sell" Midland College on his program, ended up tutoring Mrs. Castillo. He'll also be teaching his techniques at the college beginning this September.

Unlike her previous teacher, Glen knew how to teach basic reading and writing, Mrs. Castillo said. Besides, he was teaching only one pupil at a time. The other teacher had a houseful to teach and had no time for rudimentary reading and writing.

"You have to know how to teach somebody," Mrs. Castillo said.

She is learning, and now she is confident in her ability to master tasks.

But when it comes to interviewing for jobs, her school-less background really comes to the fore.

"They ask you how long have you been going to school," Mrs. Castillo said. "Well, that's that," she said. "That's a big problem." (At one time, she and her husband Joe operated a drive-in cafe here. Today, he's a maintenance man for a church.)

"As far as a job, work, I'm all right there," Mrs. Castillo said. "I can do any work I want to. But as far as reading, I was blank."

Not any more.

By DAN FISHER
The Los Angeles Times

MOSCOW — The U.S. government has been trying unsuccessfully for three years to arrange for a scientific delegation to inspect the Soviet atomic icebreaker "Arktika" or one of its two sister ships, according to sources here.

Arktika is the 75,000-horsepower vessel that the Soviet Union announced Wednesday night had become the first surface ship to crash through the ice cap all the way to the North Pole.

Icebreakers are covered under one of 11 detente-era bilateral agreements on scientific and technical cooperation between the United States and the Soviet Union. The specific agreement involved covers the field of transportation, and it was signed in 1974.

While there have been a number of other exchanges within the framework of the transportation agreement, there has been none regarding icebreakers. One reason for the lack of progress in arranging such an exchange may be that the Soviets see little benefit to themselves.

The Soviet Union is the acknowledged leader in development of atomic ice breakers, which are more powerful and have enormous advantages in range over conventionally powered vessels. Its first was the "Lenin" followed by the Arktika in 1974. A third, even larger ship called the "Siberia" will be put into operation soon, according to Soviet sources.

The United States has no atomic icebreakers.

It is understood that the American side has asked specifically to inspect one of the atomic ships under the 1974 technical exchange agreement. The Soviets have offered a nonnuclear icebreaker for inspection, but the Americans apparently have no interest in looking at a conventional vessel.

It may also be that the Soviets have security reasons for not wanting Americans to inspect one of the atomic icebreakers. The Arctic is a sensitive area to them, militarily and in every other way, noted a Western diplomatic source here.

Over 25 per cent of the entire land mass of the Soviet Union is located north of the 60th Parallel — as far north as the state of Alaska. And Russian explorers have been captivated for decades with the so-called "northern sea route" along their country's 4,000 mile Arctic Coast.

The energy crisis has turned that fascination into a major economic concern. The Soviet Union has enormous oil and gas fields in hard-to-get-at regions of western Siberia. The ability to extend the navigation season along the Arctic Coast is important in speeding the delivery of essential equipment and facilities needed to develop those fields.

Tongsun Park exits London for South Korea

By CHARLES BABCOCK and MAXINE CHESHIRE
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Tongsun Park, the South Korean businessman who is a central figure in current congressional influence-buying investigations, has returned unexpectedly to Seoul. Sources here said he went back reportedly to visit his seriously ill mother.

There were other indications though, that Park also may have returned to Korea because his business ventures there were in difficulty.

Park's departure from London, where he had been living since leaving Washington last fall when the Justice Department intensified its investigation of his affairs, raised the possibility of renewed efforts by U.S. authorities to have him returned here for questioning. Both Justice and congressional investigators are anxious to ask Park about the lavish parties, cash and gifts he bestowed on members of Congress.

Attorney General Griffin B. Bell said last month that the White House was aiding the Justice Department in its effort to obtain Park's testimony. But officials at the White House, the State Department and the Justice Department all declined comment Thursday on what new steps, if any, they will take to persuade the South Korean government to help get Park back to the United States.

South Korean government officials consistently have denied that Park had any connection with the regime of President Park Chung Hee, thus they said they had no control over his whereabouts.

Park's trip to Seoul thus could be viewed as a good sign for U.S. authorities because the South Korean government would be able to put direct pressure on him to cooperate.

On the other hand, the United States has no formal extradition treaty with South Korea, so if Park were detained or chose to remain there, the Justice Department would have no way to force his return.

Wire service reports from Seoul first reported that Tongsun Park had arrived back in his native land. Associates in Washington confirmed later Thursday that he left London hurriedly after receiving a call that his mother had had a stroke and was in a coma.

One person in frequent contact with Tongsun Park said he was concerned the flamoyant South Korean might be in some personal danger in Seoul and wondered about the validity of the report of his mother's illness.

Another longtime business associate said that Tongsun Park had attempted to return to South Korea some months ago because of business problems.

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Back in 1963, in those optimistic days when things such as systems analysis and computers seemed to offer a glimpse of an orderly and rational way of making decisions in the future, then-Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara had a study and an idea.

The study had discovered that the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force each maintained its own bureaucratic kingdom for the purpose of doing the tedious administrative work on mundane military contracts. McNamara's idea was that time and money would be saved by the creation of a single, streamlined agency to manage contracts for all three services.

In 1964, as part of the reorganization that transformed the Defense Department's business operation from a fragmented collection of offices into the nation's largest industrial management, McNamara turned his idea into an agency, the Defense Contract Administration Service.

Last month, upon the completion of another study, a group of congressional investigators concluded that McNamara's idea — which will cost $328 million this year — did not work. His system, it seemed, had failed to take into account a basic human instinct: survival.

"DCAS has made little if any progress in carrying out its assigned mission," reads the new report. "A question arises as to the need for the DCAS organization as presently organized and functioning."

What happened to DCAS, according to the report by the investigation staff of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, was an ambush that took place before the agency got to the pass.

Instead of making DCAS the focal point of the military's contract management effort, said one investigator, "it turned out that the services just didn't give them much to do."

What DCAS' creators had overlooked, said the study, was the tenacity with which the service contract management bureaucracies would fight for their continued existence.

'Justice' motive key to hijacking

The Los Angeles Times

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. — Sheriff's deputies said Thursday that it apparently was the belief that another man had killed a child and should be brought to justice that motivated a Bakersfield man to hijack a city transit bus Wednesday.

The driver subsequently was forced to take the hijacker to a remote religious retreat where the gunman held 63 adults and children hostage before peacefully surrending six hours later.

The gunman, Thomas Benton Wilson, 26, was taken to the county psychiatric ward for evaluation and then jailed on four counts of simple kidnaping and one count of grand theft auto. Bail was set at $500,000.

During the siege, Wilson demanded that two men be brought to him, Chief Sheriff's Dep. Marvin Gangloff said.

Later Wilson also demanded to talk to reporters, some of whom Gangloff angrily complained had complicated the police work by telephong the Baha'i School where Wilson held his hostages.

Kappler escape causes dilemma

The Washington Post

BONN — The escape of 70-year-old Nazi war criminal Herbert Kappler from an Italian prison hospital to West Germany has engulfed the Bonn government in an international dilemma.

The bizarre episode has put West Germany, whose post-war constitution prevents extradition of German nationals, in the ironic position of protecting the former Gestapo chief of Rome, who was convicted of the reprisal killing in 1944 of 335 Italian civilians.

"A sick old man continues in the role for which he was condemned — creating enmity between Germany and Italy," the Frankfurter Allgemeine newspaper lamented.

But the enmity directed at Bonn since Kapper's wife lugged him out of a hospital in a wardrobe trunk in the predawn hours Monday is coming from places other than Italy.

Some of the criticism is from Bonn's traditional antagonists and is to be expected. Nevertheless, it is, along with questions being raised elsewhere, stinging the government here and helping to open old wounds of World War II.

Curb the 'giveaway'

President Carter says he is "very pleased" with the new agreement giving up United States control of the Panama Canal by the year 2000.

But there are a whole lot of Americans — maybe even a vast majority — who are not at all pleased with the big giveaway.

And to make matters even worse, the proposed agreement not only gives away property owned by the United States, but it also pays Panamanians huge sums of money to accept it.

It is no wonder that Panama observed a holiday to celebrate conclusion of the treaty negotiations. They came out so far ahead of even their fondest hopes that it is almost unbelievable.

Fortunately, however, the treaty as proposed must be ratified by the U.S. Senate, and therein lies the only hope of those opposed to the giveaway.

And, in this connection, it is encouraging to note that U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said earlier this week that he will vote against ratification of the new treaty. He predicted, however, that President Carter will not submit the proposal to the Senate this year because chances of passage are not at all good.

Tower said that the treaty, which "involves the ultimate surrender of operational controls and inhibits U.S. ability to defend the canal," would fall short of the 67 votes needed for ratification. He said estimates indicate there are only 40 to 45 votes in favor at this time. He added, in speaking to the Oak Cliff (Dallas) Chamber of Commerce, that the administration has a long way to go to ratification.

Carter has said, however, that he accepts the responsibility of convincing the American people that "we have reached an agreement that is advantageous to our own country, to our national security and to the free and open guarantee that the Panama Canal will continue to be used by everyone."

He most certainly has his work cut out for him, particularly since polls for a number of years have shown that the percentage of Americans opposed to any compromise of U.S. sovereignty in the Canal Zone consistently has held around the 75 per cent mark.

But the President most certainly may be depended upon to bring all the pressure he possibly can on members of the Senate to gain passage of his pet treaty. And from what U.S. Rep. Jim Collins of Dallas said here Tuesday in telling of the pressure brought by Carter in getting House members to vote for his energy bill, that pressure can be most effective. But a different situation exists in this case, considering nationwide opposition to the canal treaty. It is reported that two years ago 38 senators — four more than needed to defeat a new treaty — signed a resolution opposing any dilution of U.S. control over the Panama Canal Zone and the canal itself.

Many of the senators perhaps will be interested in learning why all the rush to achieve this giveaway. This is a mighty good question.

The Dallas Morning News also asked a good question in a recent edition, as follows:

"How advantageous can a treaty be that ousts us — even after a delay of 22 years — from a canal that is lawfully ours?" It continues with this observation:

"Whatever the terms of the agreement, its thrust remains the same. The U.S. is to give up in the year 1999 a canal that it dug, paid for and has defended for 63 years — and is, in addition, to throw in financial aid to Panama!"

That pay business, incidentally, amounts to $50 million a year to Panama for use of lands and water in the Canal Zone, during the treaty, up from $2.3 million a year now. (The canal now is a money-making national asset, having returned $40 million to the U.S. Treasury over its operating needs during the last 25 years.)

Provisions of the tentative agreement also call for the withdrawing of all U.S. troops and the closing of U.S. bases before the treaty ends in 1999. When and if the treaty is ratified, the U.S. will yield 70 per cent of the 500-square mile Zone to Panama, retaining temporary control until expiration of the treaty of the other 30 per cent considered vital to the canal's operation.

There are numerous other provisions equally as distressing.

The Panama Canal belongs to the United States. It should not be given away.

ECOLOGISTS SMELL BLOOD:

U.S. Forest Service may be 'bleeding'

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Copley News Service

John Pinkerman

There is far more than meets the eye in House Resolution 39, introduced by ecologist-environmentalist-liberal-Democrat Morris K. Udall of Arizona.

The resolution is the handiwork and Udall is the willing tool of the most militant of the ecology militants. What it does is practically exclude national forests in the parceling of nearly 100 million acres of scenic, resource and wild areas of Alaska.

A decision on what to do with these vast areas of Alaskan land must be made sometime next year.

The fight has been between commercial interests who would wrongly exploit the areas of mountains, forests, wild rivers and wilderness and those who would lock these lands from the public forever.

The U.S. Forest Service has been somewhere in between — supporting preservation of some lands and applying others to proper management under its multiple-use mission as demonstrated in its long-used national forest description, "the land of many uses."

There is lots of politics involved in the parceling of the Alaskan land. With President Carter in the White House and with his support of all kinds of ecology freaks — and their support of him — the most radical of the ecologists see the Alaska situation as the specific peg on which to hang a much deeper conspiracy.

This is the eventual elimination of the entire Forest Service, now a part of the Agriculture Department, and the transfer of forest rangers and responsibilities to the more "preservation" oriented National Park Service within the Interior Department.

There is plenty of proof that the conspiracy against the Forest Service is having its brightest moments under the favorable umbrella held aloft by Mr. Carter, Congressman Udall and, most recently, Interior Secretary Cecil B. Andrus.

The Alaskan land distribution had been pretty much agreed upon by all sides until Udall's Resolution 39 was dropped into the House hopper. On Dec. 18, 1973, then Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton proposed what was called the Alaska Conservation Act.

The act provided for designation of 83.5 million acres of land, with control divided between the Park Service, National Wildlife Refuge System, National Wild and Scenic River System and the Forest Service. New national forests, with characteristics that are best managed by the Forest Service, would total 18.3 million acres, with half a million acres added to the Chugach National Forest.

However, with legislation moving at its normal snail's pace, this matter was not settled finally. And, with Mr. Carter in the saddle and Andrus as a yes-man, the ecologists saw a new opportunity to vent their hatred of the Forest Service. The result was Resolution 39, legislation which reduces the national forest allocation from the agreed total of 18.8 million acres to 1.6 million acres.

Worse, the ecologists' (Udall's) plan would even put the Park Service in charge of lands already and for many years within national forests. The ecologists often have charged, and occasionally with some accuracy, that the Forest Service has been too lenient in letting loggers, mining interests and other commercial exploiters despoil valuable natural resources of beauty. Their alternative is to forever lock these lands from any kind of public use — as wilderness.

Locking up such lands will discriminate against Eskimos and other Alaskan natives who are presumed to have been guaranteed use of such areas. It also reverses over 50 years of national policy — that the Forest Service is best fitted to manage such lands.

And, it has the men of the Forest Service scared to death, particularly when their own bosses in the Agriculture Department are reluctant to speak out against such a plan. They see the ecologists perhaps achieving their long and ugly mission — the total elimination of the U.S. Forest Service as it exists today.

Army food gets 'ray' treatment

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Army, never renowned for the excellence of the cuisine it serves to enlisted men, has now spent more than $50 million bombarding food with gamma and beta rays.

This "Star Wars" treatment, known as food irradiation, was supposed to sterilize and prolong the life of the chow. Instead, it merely made the food tasteless. One report goes so far as to call it "inedible."

A confidential House report, prepared for Rep. Thomas Downey, D.-N.Y., charges that the costly sterlization process has failed to produce a single edible morsel.

He has called the scandal to the attention of the General Accounting Office. According to Downey, the Army has spent more than $50.7 million on irradiation research over a 25-year period.

The bombardment of potatoes with gamma and beta rays, he alleges, has succeeded only in ruining them. "Most people prefer their potatoes," he adds wryly, "with butter or sour cream."

He claims the project has been "a colossal assault on the federal treasury, with nothing to show for it but mutilated potatoes." The confidential House report also concludes that the irradiation experiments have been "duplicative, wasteful, unnecessary and unproductive."

Footnote: An Army spokesman said Downey's charges were irresponsible. The experiments, he insisted, have made a valuable contribution to science.

BOOTLEG LAETRILE: The illegal drug Laetrile, labeled "hazardous" last week by Surgeon General Julius Richmond, is being bootlegged in the shadow of the Capitol dome.

It is available, along with a smorgasbord of political propaganda, from the Liberty Lobby. This is a right-wing pressure group, which packages extremist literature under patriotic titles. It offers Laetrile, likewise, under the name "Amygdalin."

A Food and Drug official identified Amygdalin and Laetrile as essentially the same apricot-pit concoction. A Liberty Lobby spokesman, when pressed, also conceded that Amygdalin was really Laetrile under another name.

The Liberty Lobby features Amygdalin ads in its weekly newspaper, The Spotlight, which directs customers to an address three blocks from the Capitol Building. Responding to the ad, our reporter, Peggy Davidson, found herself at Liberty Lobby headquarters.

She laid out money for the advertised Amygdalin. But first, she was asked to sign a form declaring: "I state that none of the (drugs) are intended for use in diagnosis, cure, mitigation, alleviation, treatment or prevention of any disease and that none of the (drugs) have been represented to me as having any value for said uses by the vendor."

Such a disclaimer, a Food and Drug spokesman informed us, does not make the sale legal. Yet the Liberty Lobby, having thus acknowledged the drug may be useless, offers 50 Amygdalin tablets for $14 or, for those wishing a high-powered dosage, 100 triple-strength tablets for $90. For customers who might want to produce their own homemade Laetrile, a pound package of unprocessed apricot kernels is offered for $4.75.

But the sale, befitting a bootleg transaction, cannot be completed over the counter. The customer merely hands over the money; the illegal tablets are delivered by mail.

The Liberty Lobby spokesman insisted his group does not sell the drug but acts merely as a "drop and ship" agent for the advertiser. The latter is identified by the urgent letters SOS. The spokesman would reveal only that the advertiser is based in California.

The relationship between the Liberty Lobby and its mysterious advertiser, however, appears to be close. For the Amygdalin tablets eventually reached our reporter in a package also containing a Liberty Lobby membership application and a brochure touting Liberty Lobby books.

A review of Liberty Lobby literature indicates the group, meanwhile, is pushing Amygdalin and Armageddon with the same enthusiasm.

YARMOLINSKY'S BACK: One of the whiz kids from the John F. Kennedy era, who was hounded out of Washington by the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover, will soon be returning to government as a top disarmament executive.

He is Adam Yarmolinsky, the gnarled young firebrand who used to belong to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's inner circle. Yarmolinsky, now mellow after his 11-year absence from the Washington turmoil, will be an assistant secretary at the Arms Control and Disarmanent Agency.

He used to be outspoken, even irritating, and he rubbed Hoover the wrong way. But it was a rumor that he might replace Hoover as the next FBI director that was the last straw.

The story can now be told for the first time how a fuming Hoover ordered an "exhaustive review of the files" on Yarmolinsky. Several FBI agents dropped everything to comb through every available scrap of information for dirt on Yarnolinsky.

They found a few liberal speeches and discovered his poetess-mother had been accused of being a left-winger. But there was no real evidence against him. This didn't stop Hoover from leaking reports that Yarmolinsky was a "radical."

The whispering campaign was potent enough that Yarmolinsky, his career wrongly blemished, left Washington in disgust to teach.

Footnote: Yarmolinsky declined to talk about the arms control job but confirmed that the whispering campaign had been a factor in his departure from government in 1966.

INSIDE REPORT:

Muzzling America's Voice infuriates news staff

By ROWLAND EVANS And ROBERT NOVAK

Evans

Novak

WASHINGTON — A letter by the American ambassador passionately defending President Carter's human rights policy, published on July 30 in Poland's most prestigious newspaper, was barred from the Voice of America's (VOA) Polish-language broadcast by intervention of the ambassador himself.

In an Aug. 3 cable to Washington from Warsaw, Ambassador Richard Davies argued that since the newspaper, Polityka, had "courageously" published the letter, broadcasting the text by VOA would serve no purpose. The VOA's unseasoned director immediately capitulated to the detente-conscious State Department, which instinctively prefers good bilateral relations to the Carter human rights crusade.

No decision for many years has so infuriated the professional news staff at VOA. It violated strong guidelines giving total news autonomy to VOA, rather than the parent U.S. Information Agency (USIA) — guidelines issued by USIA director John E. Reinhardt May 4.

The result is an erosion of both VOA's credibility and the President's world crusade for human rights. The Davies letter, responding to Polityka's earlier criticism of Mr. Carter's human rights policy, was an emotional but highly effective defense of that policy. The newspaper, obviously waiting for clearance from Communist boss Edward Gierek, held the letter three weeks before publishing it.

The news value of an American diplomat's letter published in a Soviet satellite state is beyond question. Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty, subsidized by but independent of the U.S. government, both carried much of the letter. The British Reuters news service published the entire text.

The reason for this extensive coverage is obvious: publication of the letter in a Communist newspaper was a major political event, signifying either deliberate Polish defiance of Moscow or an important prelude to this fall's Belgrade conference which will draw a balance sheet on human rights. No U.S. official here or in Warsaw knows the true reason, but the mere fact of publication was on its face a triumph of the President's policy which deserves maximum exploitation.

Instead, the Voice of America ran merely a 69-word commentary in its Polish-language broadcasts on Aug. 1, containing no verbatim quotations. The appeal from Davies, perhaps understandable under a narrow interpretation of his own duties as ambassador, carried the field; the pledge in Reinhardt's guidelines that "VOA will be solely responsible for the content of news broadcasts" was ignored.

USIA officials insist the decision not to run the text of the letter was made by VOA itself. Technically, in the absence of a specific directive issued to VOA, the decision-maker was VOA's new and inexperienced director, Manhattan radio station owner Peter Straus. After Davies' intervention, Straus suggested that broadcasting the text of Davies' letter could wait until VOA received a true copy in Polish.

But VOA editors believe that on the strength of the cable from Davies' embassy, there was inescapable high-level bureaucratic reluctance at USIA to broadcast the text of the letter. When the Polish-language copy finally arrived here last week, neither Straus nor anybody else made a move to change the decision.

Davies, a diplomat widely experienced in both the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, used his influence on an earlier occasion to muzzle the Voice of America's Polish-language broadcast. That was in June 1976, when he fought the VOA's carrying word to Poland about food riots in Polish cities.

But that was during the Ford administration era when VOA was run by a tough-minded station owner from Mobile, Ala., named Kenneth R. Giddens and his deputy, a career USIA officer named Serban Vallimarescu. Davies' advice was not followed, a decision that angered Henry Kissinger's State Department and that may have explained Vallimarescu's demotion to a lesser job soon thereafter. (Five years earlier, however, Giddens had demoralized VOA by killing a broadcast to Greece for diplomatic reasons.)

The permitted intrusion of Davies in the latest effort to silence the Voice will provide new congressional support to give VOA complete autonomy. Sen. Charles Percy's amendment to do just that was adopted by a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee early this year but died in the full committee. Percy's renewed effort next year will be helped by the case of the missing letter.

New FBI director wins praise from attorney

By BILL FARR
The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — The new FBI director should be able to quickly restore public confidence in that agency because "most of the skeletons are already out of the closet," Los Angeles County District Attorney John Van de Kamp says.

Van de Kamp, one of the finalists in the competition for the director's post, said there were "no lost tears" about not getting picked for the job and praised the selection of U.S. Dist. Court Judge Frank Johnson.

He described Johnson as a "man of courage and high integrity."

"I'm pleased that they have a good man for the job," Van de Kamp said. "Everything I've heard about Judge Johnson is excellent, although I don't know very much about him as an administrator or how he will cope with the FBI's bureaucracy."

Pointing out that the FBI will soon have a charter under which to operate for the first time in its history, he said this should be a great aid in re-establishing the public's respect for the agency.

Van de Kamp said that it will be equally important for Johnson to develop "internal confidence" within the huge federal law enforcement bureau.

"I think it is important for the new director to identify with the particular problems the agents labor under and to identify himself as being on their side," he added.

Van de Kamp said he was officially informed of the President's choice in a 6:30 a.m. phone call from Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell.

"He said the President was very impressed with me and I said I would help in any way that I could during the transition period," the district attorney said.

Regarding his own feelings about the selection process, Van de Kamp said:

"I was honored, first of all, just to be in the running and honored to be part of the process. I ended up in the top three or four...And when you think they had 230 people, that's a long way to come for something I never originally sought."

He said the long, drawn-out selection process, which ended with an appointee not even recommended by the President's commission, had great value because "It allowed the attorney general and president to really focus on the problems of the FBI."

Van de Kamp said he had "mixed feelings" about being considered for the FBI post stating he felt the appointment is one of the most important this Administration will make, he said.

Mrs. Miller's skull had been crushed with a large rock, and police said Thursday they are investigating the possiblility she may have been sexually assaulted.

Henry Deutcher, 36, a resident of Las Vegas for about 10 months, has been arrrested in connection with the killing, police said.

They said Mrs. Miller was seen leaving a local bar with a man shortly before she was found Tuesday, clothed only in a blouse, next to her Cadillac.

Pentagon reports German defense cost $30 billion

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The cost of equipping U.S. forces in Europe to repel a surprise Warsaw Pact attack without giving up any of West Germany would be about $30 billion in increased defense spending over the next few years, the Pentagon estimates.

The Pentagon estimate is a response to a report prepared in March by Rep. Les Aspin (D-Wis.) Aspin concluded the cost of beefing up U.S. forces to meet a surprise attack without initially surrendering large chunks of West Germany would be $46.4 billion.

The Defense Department's response did not say Aspin had overcalculated the level of effort needed but said about 35 per cent of the expenditures he included in his analysis are already programmed for future defense budgets.

Calling the idea of refusing to concede any West German territory the product of a "Maginot Line mentality," Aspin said. "To spend $30 billion or more to defend every blade of grass against a remote threat is a nonsense strategy and a gross misalplication of the taxpayers' dollars."

Aspin's salvo is the latest indication that within the corridors of the Pentagon there is renewed hot debate, characterized by the adroit use of leaks to the press, over the best response to what is perceived as a growing threat to NATO from the Warsaw Pact.

In November, two members of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Senators Sam Nunn (D-Ga.) and Dewey Bartlett (R-Okla.) returned from a two-week trip to Europe with warnings that NATO needed a major shift in strategy, including the positioning of more troops and ammunition closer to the Soviet border.

More recently, the New York Times, quoting a "senior White House official," reported that U.S. attacks on Soviet positions outside Europe would force the Soviets to retreat from any territory they gained in Germany during an invasion.

Still later, columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak reported then-secret details of a presidential strategy paper which they alleged concede up to one-third of West Germany's territory during the initial phases of an attack.

Prosecution works on credibility

By MIKE COCHRAN

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Prosecutors in the Cullen Davis murder trial continued their fight today to protect the credibility of key state witnesses, most notably Davis' estranged wife Priscilla.

The ice-blonde jet-setter's name surfaced repeatedly Thursday as the state filed a series of pretrial motions designed to prevent "inflammatory and prejudicial" remarks by the defense.

"I just don't want them throwing skunks in the jury box," said Asst. Dist. Atty. Joe Shannon.

It is no secret that lawyers for the Fort Worth millionaire plan a vigorous attempt to impeach Mrs. Davis as the star witness for the prosecution.

Mrs. Davis, 36, was seriously wounded in an August 1976 shooting spree at the $6 million Davis mansion in which her lover, Stan Farr, and her daughter, Andrea, were slain.

A fourth person also was critically wounded.

Davis, 43, a wealthy industrialist, is accused of capital murder in the death of his 12-year-old stepdaughter and Farr, 30, a former Texas Christian University basketball player.

The state is expected to launch its case Saturday. It is seeking the death penalty.

Although reports surfaced Thursday night about a possible mistrial, principals in the case dismissed this as "no big deal" and said the report dated back to the July issue when the sheriff's office permitted families to visit the sequestered jurors.

Since that time attorneys have questioned the jurors and the family members involved and said they had found no improprieties.

Judge Dowlen said earlier in the week the defense attorneys had "talked around" a mistrial but that there had been no formal request for a mistrial.

Prosecutors sought through one motion to shut off defense inquiry into the "relationship between Priscilla Davis and W. T. Ruffner" without first establishing relevancy outside the presence of the jury.

Ruffner was convicted on a narcotics charge in 1974 and was assessed a 10-year probated sentence. He once was a frequent companion of Mrs. Davis, who was separated and seeking a divorce from Davis at the time.

State District Court Judge George Dowlen denied the motion, but granted another precluding, without proper predicate, reference to anyone as a "dope fiend, drug addict, pillhead, whore, prostitute, lady of the night, hooker, a trafficker in narcotics (or) a dealer in drugs."

The judge withheld a ruling on one state motion designed to block the defense from offering evidence before the jury "regarding any threats against any person by anyone other than the defendant..."

Judge Dowlen denied a motion aimed at restricting questions about "any party or social event attended by Priscilla Davis."

Drivers given reprieve

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Insurance Board Chairman Joe Christie has given Texans at least a temporary reprieve from another auto rate increase, one that he says could spark a policyholders' revolt.

At the close of Thursday's auto rate hearing, Christie said "glowing" reports of insurance company profits don't jibe with the industry's request for a 17.4 per cent average statewide increase in private passenger car rates.

He also mentioned plans by State Farm, the state's largest auto insurer, for a 7.8 per cent dividend to Texas policyholders.

Board statisticians say a 10.1 per cent increase is in order, but consulting actuary Charles Edwards pared the formula for company expenses and came up with a 1.8 per cent rate hike proposal.

Christie said company earnings reports indicate "that the rate increases we granted in the last two years have done the job and more."

Rates were increased 15.5 per cent on Jan. 1, 1976, and another 7.1 per cent 10 months later.

"And, it would be foolhardy to ignore the fact that we in Texas and this nation are on the verge of an insurance buyers' revolt. Texans are at the point where they just might not put up with any rate increase of any size," Christie said.

"Therefore, I will not vote for any rate increase unless and until we resolve the credibility gap between the insurance company actuaries who appeared before this board and the insurance company presidents who are bragging to their stockholders about record profits," he said.

Christie said hearings would be resumed only when the staff has the most current available information to "resolve these discrepancies."

"We stand recessed until that time," he said, rising and walking from the room.

Board actuary Gaylon Daniel said by late September, he should have "fast track" data on accident and claim trends for January through June.

Christie said there was "a good chance I may not be here" when the fast track data comes in because of his plans to resign and, presumably, run for U. S. senator.

The board had planned to put new rates into effect with policies written or renewed on Nov. 1. But Christie sets the board agenda, and his action probably means a delay of several months in new rates.

There is a necessary lag of six weeks to two months between approval of new rates and their effective date because of the time needed to print new rate manuals for distribution to agents.

David Irons, attorney for the Texas Automobile Insurance Service Office, ended his testimony with a blast at Edwards' rate recommendations.

"His proposals have been shown to be characterized by missed deadlines, hasty and superficial research, undetected mathematical errors, obviously incorrect statistics, distorted samplings and exhibits that serve no purpose even in his own recommendations," Irons said.

Edwards said actual company expenses are lower than estimates contained in board formulas and concluded that a small increase would cover any rise in auto accident claims and payments.

Man says Bell forced suicide

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The top Texas executive of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was driven to suicide by an internal investigation launched by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. in New York, a fired Bell official has charged.

James H. Ashley, who was suspended and then fired from his $55,000-a-year post with Southwestern Bell in San Antonio, testified Thursday that the internal probe killed T. Q. Gravitt.

TV said to stereotype

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to the TV critics over at the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, television's typical situation comedy is built around this formula: "Any problem can be solved, by luck or by someone else."

But that's make believe. In the real world of government, it takes a study, a report and — if the commission has its way — a new set of rules to solve a problem.

That is the formula evident in the Civil Rights Commission's 181-page report on women and minorities in television. It cost $321,419 and it concludes that the government should do something about television.

"...Despite advances made in portrayal as well as in employment opportunity, minorities and women — particularly minority women — continue to be underrepresented in dramatic programs and on the news and their portrayals continue to be stereotyped," the commission held. It's solution:

"Television should accurately reflect the ethnic and gender diversity of the nation.

"Minorities and women should participate fully in bringing this about.

French government deports ex-CIA agent

By EDWARD CODY

PARIS (AP) — The French government has deported Philip Agee, the former CIA agent who revealed U.S. spy secrets in a controversial book, the Interior Ministry announced Thursday.

Agee, expelled from Britain in June, was arrested in the English Channel port of Boulogne and "immediately taken to the Belgian frontier," 50 miles away, a communique said.

"His presence on French soil is undesirable because of his past activities and the consequences that some of his current activities could have on relations that France maintains with certain friendly countries," the statement said.

In Brussels, the Belgian ministries of justice, interior and foreign affairs and the U.S. embassy all said they knew nothing of Agee's whereabouts.

Agee, 41, has been living openly in Paris and last week told an interviewer he was writing a book about CIA interventions in Western Europe, among other regions. This, presumably, will include CIA activities in France.

He also said in the interview that he was working on an index of "all the organizations and people" known to have CIA connections.

Agee's British lawyer, Larry Grant, said in London that the agent-turned-author went to Boulogne to meet his wife, Angela, who had traveled from the couple's home at Cambridge, 50 miles north of London.

She had planned to go with him to Paris. Agee moved to the French capital from The Netherlands, where he went after obeying a British government deportation order June 3.

Grant said both Agee and his wife were arrested but she was released.

Anti-apartheid meeting to include Israel, N.Z.

PETER ROBBS
Agence France Presse

LAGOS, Nigeria — Israel and New Zealand, both frequent targets for black African anger over their links with white-ruled South Africa, plan to send delegations to the United Nations-organized World Conference for Action against Apartheid here next week.

The two countries have indicated their intention to the U.N., co-organizer of the conference with the Organization of African Unity (OAU), as have 67 other nations and a host of liberation movements, U.N. specialized agencies, and national and international anti-apartheid bodies, U.N. officials announced here.

The conference is to run from Aug. 22 to 26. If the Israeli delegation led by that country's U.N. Ambassador Chaim Herzog does come, it will find itself in the same conference room as the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) and southern African liberation movements including the African National Congress of South Africa and SWAPO (South West Africa People's Organization) of Namibia. The ANC and SWAPO have denoucned Israel for its ties with Pretoria.

Nigerian newspapers have been carrying denunciations of the Zionist state's alleged ties with racist minority regimes, but Nigeria reportedly feels it is not in a position, as host to a U.N. conference, to stop the Israelis from coming.

Nigeria's U.N. representative, Leslie Harriman, who is also chairman of the U.N. special committee against apartheid, charged recently that while some of South Africa's trading partners were curtailing collaboration with "the racist," Israel was increasing hers.

Nursing course slated

Midland Memorial Hospital will conduct a six-week coronary care nursing course beginning Sept. 6, according to Mrs. Ellen Kennedy, nursing inservice director.

"This will be an intensive course designed for registered and vocational nurses who are interested in coronary care nursing," Mrs. Kennedy said.

Under the direction of Mrs. Jo Ann Fee, a registered nurse, the course will be held from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday beginning Sept. 6 for six weeks. Classes will held in the third floor west conference room of the hospital. Deadline to register is Aug. 31, Mrs. Kennedy said.

"We will use the ROCOM system of instruction," Mrs. Fee explained, adding that this system will cover cardiac arrhythmias, cardiac pacing, techniques of nursing and recognizing myocardial infractions plus various problems of intensive coronary heart disease.

The course will concentrate on classroom presentations with a number of Midland physicians lecturing on various coronary nursing problems and methods.

Newsday

NEW YORK — The Port Authority of New York will seek a court order to prevent the Concorde from landing at Kennedy Airport next month while it appeals Wednesday's decision by a federal judge to allow the craft's British and French operators to land the supersonic jet in New York.

While the state-owned British Airways and Air France said they hoped to start test flights as early as next month, the airlines have conceded that Concorde flights at Kennedy would have to await the outcome of the Port Authority's appeal. Both sides expect the 17-month-old court case to go to the U.S. Supreme Court in the fall before the issue is finally settled.

Despite vows by opponents to fight Concorde flights at Kennedy with further demonstrations and lawsuits, one state official who has been looking into Port Authority affairs said he believed Wednesday's decision by U.S. District Judge Milton Pollack would be difficult to overturn.

"I'm afraid the Pollack decision brings the concorde closer to landing at Kennedy," said state Assemblyman Irwin Landes, chairman of the Assembly authorities committee that oversees the bistate agency. Landes called the Port Authority's handling of the case "inept" and "incompetent" and said "the Pollack decision seems to be based on a factual determination on a pattern of dilatory and indecisive action by the Port Authority, and a factual decision is in order to overturn on appeal than a determination of the law."

In his 40-pge decision Wednesday, Pollack ruled that the Port Authority's 17-month-old temporary ban on the Concorde is illegal. "The delay has been excessive and unjustified," Pollack declared, and "the ban is discriminatory, arbitrary and unreasonable."

Port Authority chairman Alan Sagner issued a brief statement Wednesday stating that the agency will ask the U.S. Second Circuit Court of Appeals in New York City to stay Pollack's order and delay the airlins form implementing his decision. Sagner noted that the authority is working with the U.S. Transportation Department, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the General Accounting Office and the Environmental Protection Agency to develop new noise-vibration standards for supersonic aircraft. "It is therefore disappointing that Judge Pollack overruled the Port Authority action continuing the Concorde ban until these important further studies are completed," Sagner said.

Carol Berman of Lawrence, head of the Emergency Coalition to Stop the SST, said her group would meet Monday night to determine "when we'll take action at the airport."

Midlander attends Dutch wedding

Editor's Note: Marita Mercurio is an exchange student from Midland. She is spending her summer in Holland. At the request of The Reporter-Telegram, she has sent a report of her activities.

Greetings from Holland.

I've been in this beautiful country now for about seven weeks. In this short time, I've seen more beautiful and interesting things than I ever thought possible.

I consider myself extremely lucky. Two days after my arrival, my eldest Dutch brother, Eddie, got married. The actual ceremony was much like a traditional American wedding. However, the events preceding and following the ceremony differ considerably. Before the ceremony, the close family (parents, brothers, sisters, aunts and uncles) of both the bride and groom have a small lunch at the bride's parents' home. Following the lunch, the wedding party is taken by limousines to the church where the actual ceremony takes place. (It was beautiful.) After the ceremony, the wedding party is again taken by limos to the hotel where the reception dinner takes place. Here the wedding cake is shared only by those who are considered close family. (I was included in this group.) Friends of the bride and groom and other members of the family are only allowed to attend the reception where gifts are presented and congratulations offered.

Following the reception, after all other guests have left, the close family is served a fabulous dinner. After the feast, the newlyweds prepare for their departure on their honeymoon.

In addition to attending the wedding, I've seen quite a lot of the country. In fact, I have spent most of my stay here either traveling or relaxing in my family's summer home in Zeeland.

Two days after the wedding, Marja, my Dutch sister, and I purchased a Tienertour ticket which allowed us eight days of travel on the train system to any part of the country. During this eight days, we went to Amsterdam several times; to The Hague (Deu - Haag) to see Madurodam, the miniature city; to Arnheim, where we visited the Open Air Museum, a fantastic exhibit of old Dutch culture and history, and to Leeuwarden where we attended the Skutseseilen, a famous sailing race. I also visited, later on in my stay, the city of Delft, where the famous Delft blue is made, and Marken and Volendam, two famous old seaports.

In an earlier letter, I mentioned the family's summer home in Zeeland. They have a beautiful four-bedroom home in a village named Renesse, which now, because of the improved dike and highway systems built after the great flood of 1953, is quite full of tourists. A four-bedroom summer home may seem quite large, but you see my family has five children and one dog that truly deserves equal billing. There are four boys (27, 25, 22 and 13) in addition to my sister, who is 18.

The house itself lies only a five-minute walk from the beach where we spent days, the sunny which were few and far between. I came totally unprepared for this rainy and unseasonably cold Dutch summer, in which the average temperature has been between 19 and 20 degrees Celsius, or around 70 degrees Fahrenheit. But this has not kept me from enjoying myself in the least.

A little less than a week ago, Marja and I took a ferry boat from Vlissingen (one hour drive from Rennese) to Dunkirk, in France. We spent the whole day in Dunkirk sightseeing and struggling to speak to people with our little knowledge of French. It was great though.

Right now I am back in Hilversum trying to get my sister prepared for her trip to the U.S., where she will spend one year with Youth for Understanding in Bay City, Mich. She leaves on the 16th. Six days later, I, too, will make my trip home to the U.S. I will miss my family and the country very much, but it will be good to get home.

Well, I have only one more thing to say. If you ever get a chance to come to the Netherlands, by all means do. You will never regret it.

Tot Ziens, Marita Mercurio.

Juvenile apprehended

BIG SPRING — Howard County sheriff's deputies this morning took up a high-speed chase which began in Sweetwater and apprehended a juvenile accused of stealing a car in Abilene.

The Howard County deputies were notified At 2:25 a.m. that the youth had been chased by Sweetwater and Colorado City authorities, a sheriff's office spokesman said. Deputy Buster McCartney and Sgt. Deputy Robert Fuentes took up the chase on Texas 350 and pursued the juvenile seven miles before apprehending him, the spokesman said.

According to reports, the youth is in custody in Big Spring this morning, awaiting return to Abilene, where he is wanted for revocation of probation.

Informant's tip leads to arrests

Charges of possession of a controlled substance were expected to be filed today against two Midland men after they were arrested by Midland police narcotics officers about 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

According to reports, the officers, acting on an informant's tip, obtained a warrant and searched a house. They reportedly found several bottles containing what they believed to be Robittussin, a cough syrup.

One man was arrested at the house, and another turned himself in to police later in the day, according to reports.

State savings and loan group hears testimony for merger

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—The Savings and Loan Department heard testimony Thursday on the proposed merger of five savings and loan associations, including Midland Savings.

The five associations—Midland Savings, Equitable Savings Association of Fort Worth, First Savings Association of Corpus Christi, Imperial Savings Association of Amarillo and Gibraltar Savings Association of Houston—are all wholly-owned by Imperial Corp., a multistate, California based holding company.

Gibralter Savings will remain as the surviving association.

Lallinger said that under the current arrangement, the five separate S & I entities can apply to establish up to 10 new branch offices. After the proposed merger, the remaining association would be able to apply for only two branch offices at a time.

Lallinger said that merger approval by Imperial's board of directors would constitute approval by the stockholders of all five corporations, since all five are wholly-owned by Imperial.

Spencer Blocker represented Midland Savings at the hearing.

The commissioner's decision must be made within 60 days.

Aussies outlaw strikes; union showdown coming

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The Australian Parliament outlawed strikes by government employes today, setting the stage for a showdown between the conservative government and the unions.

The government labor legislation and the introduction of a tax-cutting national budget two days ago increased expectations that Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser would seek an early national election to be fought on the issue of "who runs Australia."

The new labor law authorizes the government to fire public employes who strike and to lay off public employes who cannot work because of strikes against either the government or private companies.

Industrial Relations Minister Tony Street said the law would not be enforced "unless circumstances dictate." But it was clearly aimed at the week-long strike by 2,800 postal workers at the nation's central mail exchange in Sydney.

The postal strikers are fighting new shift scheduling which they claim cuts their overtime pay. Their walkout has piled up a backlog of 11 million undelivered letters and parcels.

Bob Hawke, president of the Australian Council of Trade Unions, warned the government that "no big industrial dispute has ever been settled through the use of threats or legal sanctions."

Other union leaders charged that Fraser, who heads a conservative coalition of the Liberal and National Country parties, was seeking an issue on which to fight an election campaign.

Public opinion polls show the government's popularity at a low level, partly due to unemployment, which is at an alltime high of 5.3 per cent with 332,793 persons out of work. Industrial production is down; foreign investment has fallen off, and the inflation rate is about 11 per cent.

With a 55-vote majority in the lower house, Fraser does not have to call a general election to name a new House of Representatives until November 1978. But half the Senate is due for election by next March, and political observers predict he will seek a December poll for both houses in an effort to prevent loss of his eight-vote majority in the Senate.

If the Labor party gained control of the Senate, it could block government legislation and precipitate a political crisis.

Quake registers as major

HONOLULU (AP) — A major earthquake occurred Friday in the vicinity of Sumba Island in Indonesia, according to the International Tsunami Information Center's Observatory here.

The earthquake registered 7.7 on the Richter scale here, an observatory spokesman said.

There was no evidence that a Pacific-wide tsunami, or tidal wave, was generated, although there may have been a local wave, the spokesman said.

The U.S. Geological Survey said the earthquake struck at 12:09 p.m. local time, 1:09 a.m. CDT, near the Sumbawa and Sumba islands in the south eastern part of Indonesia.

It said preliminary readings placed the center of the quake at 10.35 degrees south latitude and 118.54 degrees east longitude.

A survey spokesman said the center of the quake was "not far from the center of a magnitude 6.5 earthquake on July 14, 1976, near the island of Bali that claimed 563 lives and injured 2,300 people."

The Richter Scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude.

An earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage; 8 is a "great" quake, capable of tremendous damage.

Bureau checking what is portable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever get the feeling that the guy who stamped "portable" on your television must have been built like King Kong?

You're not alone. Prompted by what it calls a "common consumer headache," the government is systematically trying to figure out what's portable and what isn't.

In a project conducted by the National Bureau of Standards, several agency workers have volunteered to spend time lugging boxes of lead shot around the office.

The study grew out of the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act of 1975, which gives the Federal Trade Commission the power to say when a product can be guaranteed as portable.

The definition can be important, since purchasers of goods guaranteed as "portable" can be required to haul them in for repairs before the guarantee does any good.

The FTC turned to the standards bureau and researchers Joel J. Kramer and Patrick J. Meguire, who gathered 69 men and women volunteers of varied age and size for their project.

So what's portable? To the researchers, a television, air conditioner, microwave oven or other product is portable if it can be carried by most consumers at least one city block "without excessive strain or exhaustion" and without using such aids as dollies or carts.

The researchers filled wooden cubes with different weights of lead shot. The volunteers then carried the boxes — some about 11 inches on a side and others about 16 inches — the length of a city block, through a door they had to open and up a flight of stairs.

The researchers said they figured their test requirement equaled the worst route a consumer could be expected to follow in returning a product for repairs.

They concluded that a person's sex and the way he handled a box, rather than age or the size of the container, are the biggest determinants of what can be carried comfortably.

The researchers said the average maximum weight, considered reasonable by the men taking part in the tests was 44.8 pounds, while for women it was 31.2 pounds.

Roughly 90 per cent of the participants said they could carry 23.5 pounds with little difficulty.

By HENRY MITCHELL
Washington Post

MEMPHIS — Elvis Presley was buried in the mausoleum of Forest Hill Cemetery here Thursday afternoon amid public grief and hoopla — vendors sold food, drink, T-shirts, pennants and newspapers packed with stories about the singer.

Sammy Davis Jr., John Wayne, Ann-Margret, Chet Atkins, Burt Reynolds and Tennessee Gov. Ray Blanton were among the 200 mourners, including 50 members of Prseley's family, inside the singer's house for nearly two hours for private services that had been scheduled to last 30 minutes.

The press and public were not admitted and one newscaster said disarmingly that most of his information seemed to be coming from the police and the chamber of commerce.

There were criers of "He's gone, he's gone" and "We love you, Elvis," from spectators in the crowd of about 6,000 across the street when a white hearse carrying Presley's body and a motorcade of white Cadillacs pulled out of the driveway and headed for the cemetery. Police motorcycles with flashing lights led the procession and patrolmen on duty saluted as it passed.

Behind the motorcycles came a Cadillac bearing Presley's father, Vernon, then the hearse and then a car with Presley's divorced wife, Priscilla, and their 9-year-old daughter, Lisa Marie.

Crowds lining the route surged forward, slowing the hearse's progress at times. Thousands more waited at the cemetery and swarmed over a gate at one point.

When the mourners arrived, 14 pallbearers carried the singer's seamless copper coffin into the mausoleum, not far from the grave of Presley's mother, Gladys Smith Presley, who died in 1958.

The mausoleum was decked out with more than 2,000 floral arrangements including one in the shape of a hound dog.

C.W. Bradley, pastor at Memphis' Wooddale Church of Christ, officiated at the service at Graceland, the singer's home. The Rev. Rex Humbard, head of the Cathedral of Tomorrow at Akron, Ohio, also was present.

Speculation on the singer's eccentric behavior, as reported in a book by some of his longtime guards, had spread through the crowds who viewed the body Wednesday and watched his hearse enter the cemetery Thursday.

The common reaction was that muckrakers might have waited until after the funeral, and maybe it wasn't true anyway — all that stuff about pills, shooting guns at TV sets and so on.

But the thousands had clearly sensed that Presley, who died Tuesday at 42, was unhappy the past few years — his canceled appearances, his frequent hospital visits, and his increasing isolation behind the walls protecting his house.

Two hundred women fainted the first day and dozens more the second. Many who did not faint required support to walk, making no effort to hide the tears running down their faces.

Shortly before dawn Thursday, two 19-year-old girls from Monroe, La., were killed and a 17-year-old girl from Missouri was severely injured when a Memphis teenager's car ran into the crowd keeping vigil. The driver was booked on numerous charges, including second-degree murder.

The crowds had come chiefly from Memphis but one also ran into Texans, Georgians, New Yorkers, along with journalists from England, Sweden and Australia.

The entire cemetery, one of the city's largest, was closed to the public all day. At the last minute, the press was allowed inside behind ropes but not in the Mausoleum.

One local columnist wrote that it was a pity Elvis never grew up, but contented himself with nominal gifts to charity and somewhat absured gifts of Cadillacs to his friends.

It was not possible, however, to find Presley fans who agreed with this. It was not able that instead of simply saying they liked his music, virtually everyone insisted on Elvis' personal sweetness and generosity.

Some people, perhaps noticing the flags at half-mast throughout the city, compared the singer's death with that of Martin Luther King Jr. In short, the emotions and tributes of many were unstinting.

In recent years, shielded from the press and surrounded by a small coterie dependent on him, Elvis lived a private life in spite of his show business fame. Hardly anybody knew what he was really like or how he felt or why life seemed to be less than joyful for him.

He had, after all, risen from rural poverty in Mississippi and the back streets of Memphis — he once said he thought he'd never get through Hume's High School here — to sell records measured by the 100 million. He must have had the satisfaction of seeing he stamped pop culture in a way few individuals ever did.

Col. Thomas Parker, Elvis' manager for almost all the singer's career, was secreted at the Hilton, deeply affected by the sadness of the day and unwilling to talk.

Sam Phillips, who founded Sun Records and who was Presley's first important sponsor, was "all right" but virtually knocked out with sorrow, and turned things over for the day to his 30-year-old son, Knox, a vice president of the company.

His family did not know if the elder Phillips would feel able to attend the services or not, though it is often said that Phillips was as close to Presley as anyone ever was except the singer's mother.

The massive public identity with Evlis is no mystery to Knox Phillips, nor the roots of the singer's evident unhappiness lately.

"First, as to the drugs, I do not know the truth if there is any, but I suspect the drug thing was up and down. And I think it is irrelevant.

"He was human. Whatever negative things there may have been are irrelevant to this fact: no other man in our time did so much to unite people, or had such an affection on music. Not many people seem to know the first (American rock) record played behind the Iron Curtain was an Elvis record.

"Black and white — Elvis was sensitive to blacks, and he grew up with their music. In the South, never mind all the other factors, there was an unsaid camaraderie between poor whites and poor blacks. They had the same problems and at least they could understand each other. And of course Elvis grew up hearing them both."

Knox Phillips thought a minute and continued: "Elvis had the same kind of background as Sam so, when he walked into Sun Records, Sam understood him. Hell, Elvis had a great frustrated rough talent. The music business was then controlled by the big companies, and Elvis flat never would have even had a chance to get heard by them.

"But the truth is that Sam had been recording blacks and was hunting all over for a white singer who sang black music — Elvis was that synthesis.

"And Sam sent him down to Lansky's and told him what kind of wild clothes to get. Sam told him to wear his belt buckle at the side, not in front.

"Memphis was a magnetic place. Where else did the three great developments of music in our century come from (blues, rock 'n' roll and soul)? Believe me, Memphis is a strange place where all these things come together.

"But then Col. Parker took over and managed Elvis. He succeeded in pacing him for public consumption, packaging him as a myth.

"But whether it was good for Elvis' happiness — whether the colonel took enough concern for that — I can't say.

"Elvis was a good old country boy. They took him away from what he was.

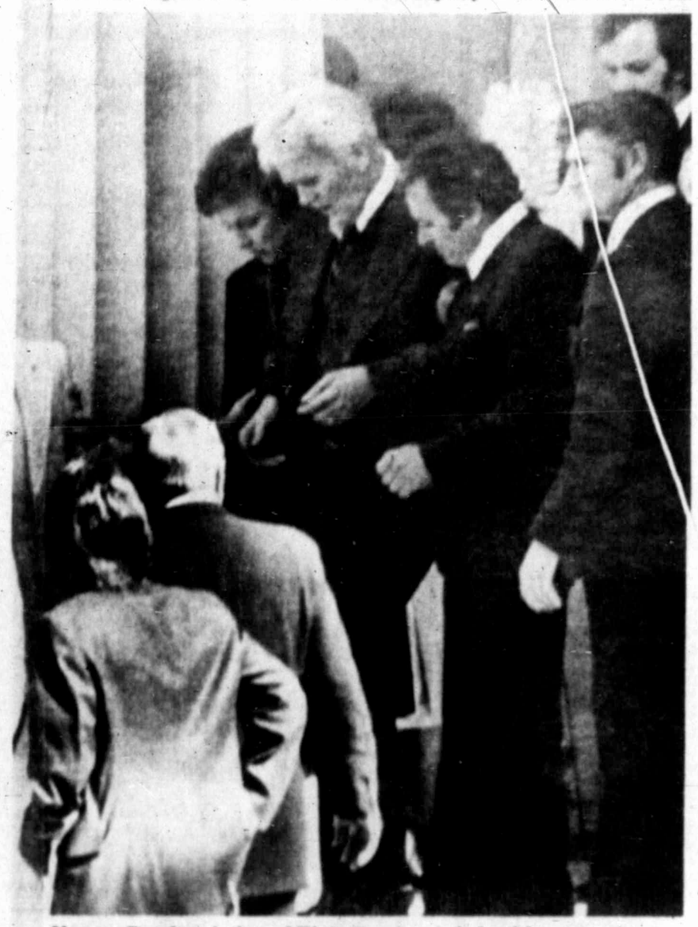

"When people start believing their own publicity, they are on the way down. In these later years Elvis was a very unhappy person."

(Critics sometimes complain Presley did not develop and grow musicially but sang a lot of other singers' songs.)

"Furry Lewis (a venerable blues singer) once said to me if you're doing nothing different, you're doing nothing.

"I don't mean any criticism, but Elvis always had people around him who were yes-men, not too deep. Elvis has been so reclusive and so cocooned so long that very few people knew what he was like.

"Parker made him into a mythical person.

Nonstop service sought

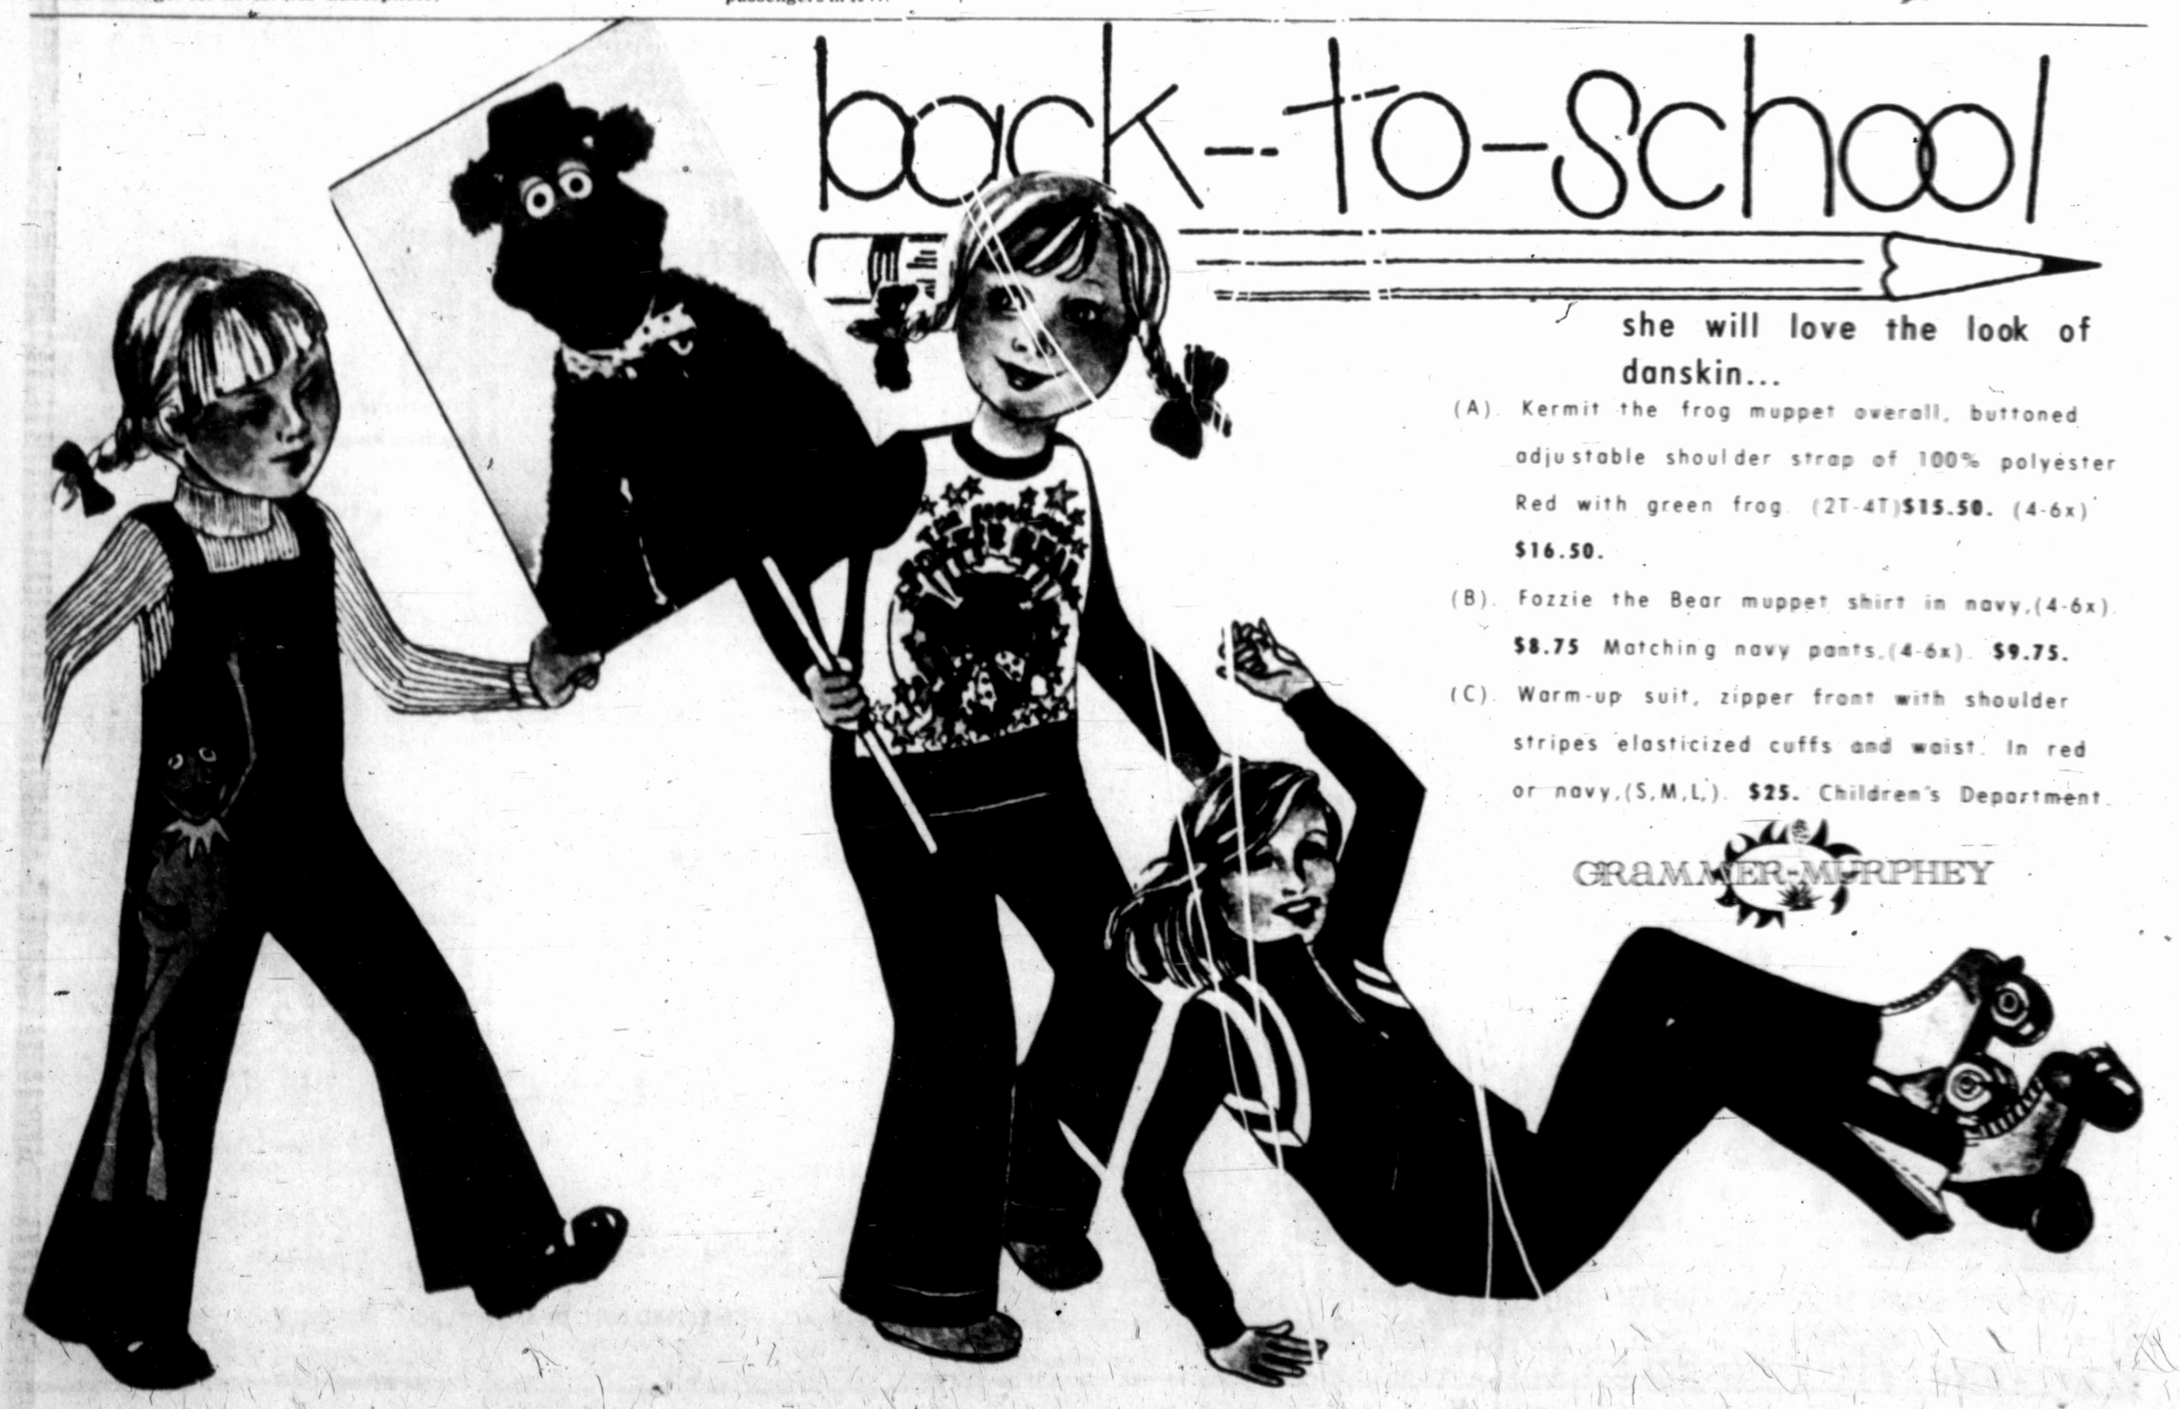

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas International Airlines has filed for authority to provide nonstop air service between Minneapolis-St. Paul and Dallas-Ft. Worth and Houston, Tex.

The request, filed with the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board, claims that air service is currently inadequate between the Twin Cities and Texas.

Gerald Gitner, vice president in planning for the airline, said the potential for profitable traffic between Minnesota and Texas is "most attractive."

Texas International operates in nine sunbelt states and Mexico. The company expects to carry near three million passengers in 1977.

Fans remain, waiting for flowers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Fans of Elvis Presley slept on the sidewalks through the night, hoping to be among the first of the expected thousands who would be given flowers from their idol's funeral bouquets today.

Presley was buried at Forest Hill Cemetery Thursday. His family decided afterwards that the blossoms from 3,116 floral displays surrounding the singer's white marble crypt would be given to the thousands of fans who had flocked to Memphis but were unable to view Presley's body.

Two dozen fans bedded down on the sidewalk outside the cemetery, while about 50 maintained an overnight vigil about four miles away at Presley's Graceland Mansion.

Mourners had waited patiently for hours in the broiling sun Thursday — outside the Presley mansion, along the four-mile funeral route on Elvis Presley Boulevard and in front of the cemetery.

The white funeral that Presley had wanted was carried out: a white hearse bore Presley's copper coffin, covered by 500 red rosebuds, and 16 shining white Cadillacs led a creeping procession of about 50 cars from the mansion to the cemetery.

But a commercial atmosphere also crept into the sad occasion. Hawkers sold Elvis Tshirts for $10. Forty-cent picture postcards of Graceland went quickly for $1.50. A small bottle of cola, also $1.50.

Radio stations blared "Love Me Tender" and other Presley ballads over portable radios held by many fans along the processional route.

Sometimes the crowd surged toward the motorcade and slowed its progress. At least once a policeman had to wrestle a grieving girl away from the moving hearse.

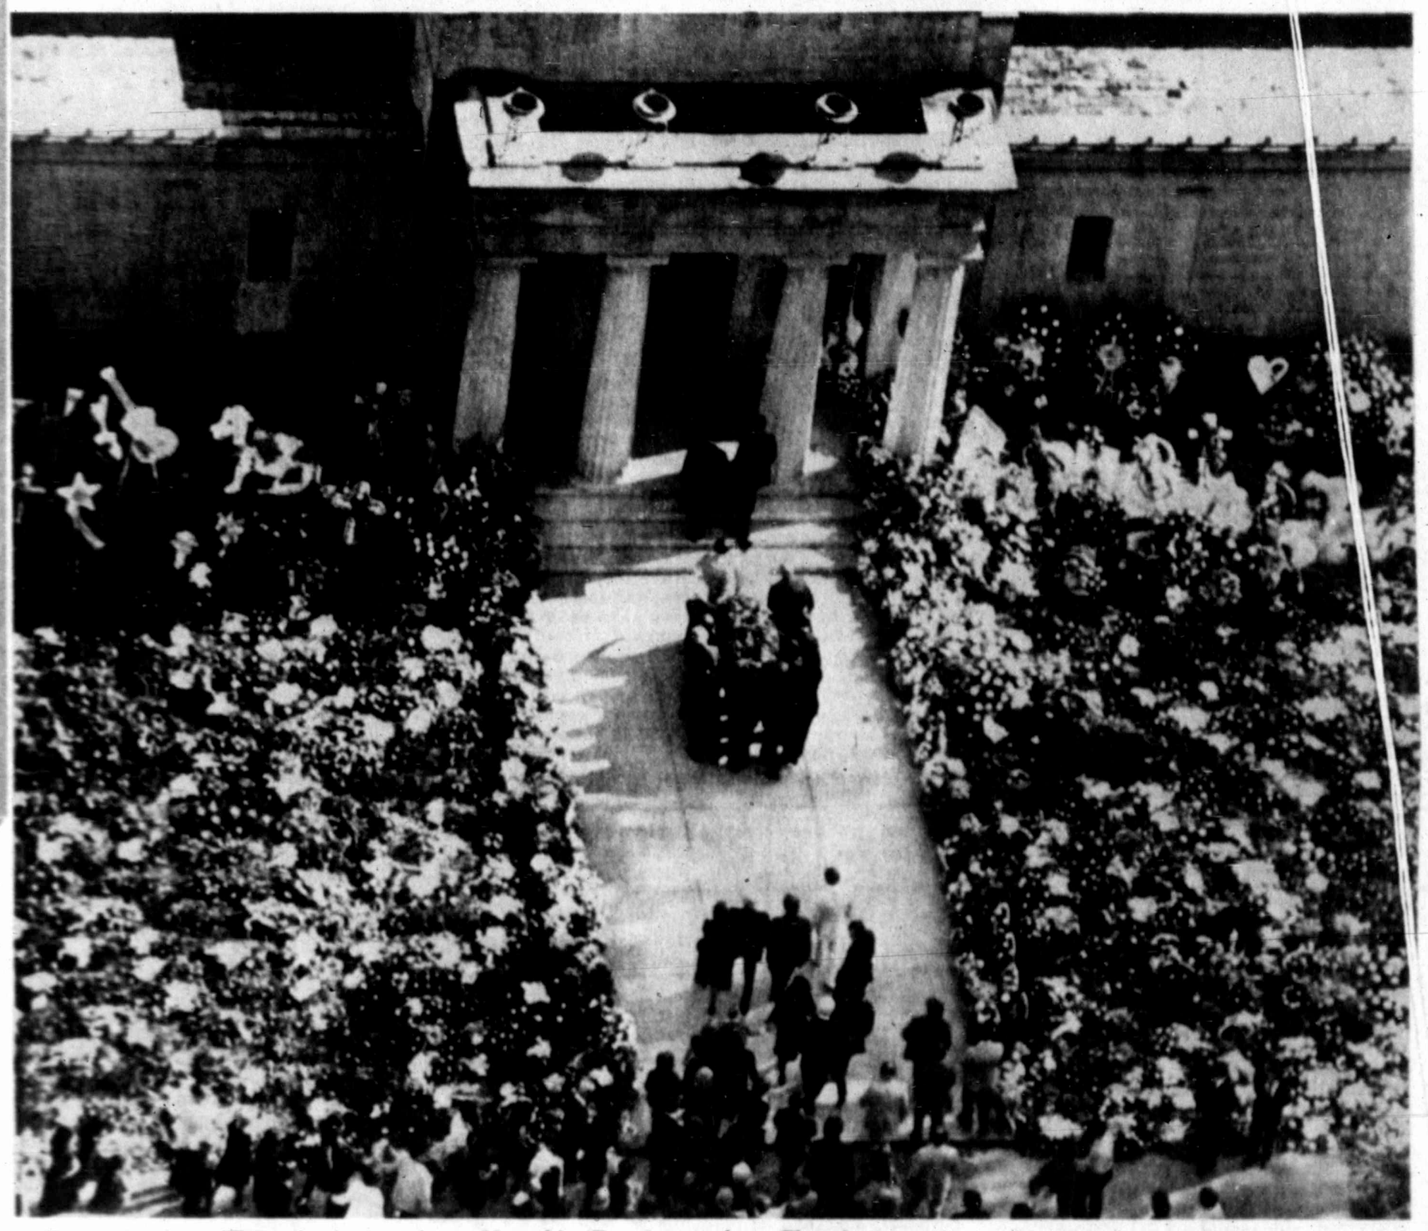

But at the mausoleum, deep inside the cemetery and out of the view of the curious crowd, all was serene.

Vernon Presley, the singer's father, stayed behind for a few private moments with Elvis, watching as workers began to seal the crypt.

The mourners had first attended an hour-long private service in the piano room at Graceland. There they had the opportunity for a last, personal farewell in front of the open coffin.

The casket for Elvis Presley is carried to a Memphis (Tenn.) mausoleum Thursday past thousands of flowers that covered the area.

Carter boosts Lance

By MICHAEL DOAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter and banking officials are convinced that Budget Director Bert Lance broke no laws as a Georgia banker, but members of Congress want to question Lance further about his finances.

Comptroller of the Currency John Heimann, who had been conducting the investigation into Lance's business affairs, concluded Thursday that no information developed to date "warrants the prosecution of any individuals."

Afterward, Carter interrupted his week-long vacation at Camp David, Md., to fly to Washington and tell reporters that "my faith in the character and competence of Bert Lance has been reconfirmed."

"Bert, I'm proud of you," he said, shaking the hand of his close friend.

Lance said in a statement he would remain in his Office of Management and Budget post. "I feel my ability to carry out my job has not been damaged. In this regard I deeply appreciate the confidence which the President has expressed in me.

"I feel strongly that if allegations such as those raised in recent days can cripple a person's ability to carry out his or her job, then we are in bad shape in our country," Lance said.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, chairman of the Senate committee which held hearings on Lance's nomination as budget director, said the major allegations against the official "were definitely disproved by the comptroller's report."

But the Connecticut Democrat asked Heimann to finish his inquiry and testify at a Government Operations Committee hearing on Sept. 7, after Congress returns from its summer recess. Lance was asked to appear the next day.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said that if the hearings last more than a few weeks, Lance probably will have trouble doing his job.

He said the report "raises a number of questions" and he would like to know more about the bank aircraft Lance used and the dropping of several investigations of Lance's activities shortly before he was appointed.

A House banking subcommittee also plans to look into possible changes in banking laws as a result of the inquiry.

Federal fund path cleared for Midland

WASHINGTON — The way has been cleared for Midland schools to receive up to $337,524 in federal funds to aid in its desegregation plan, a spokesman for U. S. Rep. George Mahon said this morning.

David Langston said Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) Joseph Califano Thursday signed a waiver which will allow the school district to receive the funds under the Emergency School Aid Act.

The exact amount the school district will receive will be determined through negotiations with the regional office of HEW in Dallas, Langston said.

The Midland school system originally applied for $570,030 to finance projects related to implementation of its elementary school desegregation plan. After that application was rejected, a new application for $366,779 was submitted.

Although $337,524 was approved by the Office of Education, the Office of Civil Rights, another HEW division objected, claiming the school system was not in desegregation compliance, said Bryant Saxon, director of program development and research for Midland schools.

Price rise smallest in 7 months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose in July by the smallest amount in seven months as lower costs for producing food began showing up at supermarket shelves, the government said today.

The July increase of fourtenths of 1 per cent in the Consumer Price Index was the lowest since a similar rise in December 1976, the Labor Department said.

Food prices last month were listed as up one-10th of 1 per cent last month, on a seasonally adjusted basis. Increases of seven-10ths were recorded in May and eight-10ths in June.

In a second government report out today, the Commerce Department is issuing a revised estimate of the nation's Gross National Product. An earlier report said the GNP grew during the quarter at an annual rate of 6.4 per cent.

Despite the improvement in the inflation outlook of the Consumer Price Index, workers' spendable earnings were reported down slightly in July. The average worker's purchasing power declined one-tenth of 1 per cent, mainly because of the decline in the average number of hours worked, the Labor Department said.

The consumer price report showed that other commodities, such as household goods and autos also rose one-10th of one per cent in July, but these had not contributed to the recent inflationary spiral as much as food.

The administration is counting on slower increases in food prices to reduce the inflation rate from 10 per cent at the beginning of the year to 6 per cent at the year's end.

If averaged out over the entire year, the July increase would mean a 4.8 per cent rate of inflation, a considerable improvement over the first half.

ROUSTIN' ABOUT with Ed Todd

It goes like this: "Lord, help me find my way through the changes in my life."

Dora Castillo would appreciate it. And how it would thrill her to read it.

She can . . . read.

Mrs. Aldridge is pleased about it herself.

With the right help, Mrs. Castillo found a way to make some changes in her life. It wasn't easy. She'll tell you that.

At age 39, Mrs. Castillo is learning to read and write. She never went to school.

"At that time (in her childhood), they didn't care whether you went (to school) or not. And at that time, I didn't care about it."

So, she didn't get to class to pick up some learning.

"I was one of those unfortunate ones," she said. There was not an iota of self-pity in her voice. Just determination.

Mrs. Aldridge would vouch for that. She's the coordinator for the Adult Basic Education (ABE) program for Crane, Midland and Upton counties.

"She speaks two languages," Mrs. Aldridge said of the new reader. "She's very intelligent. She just never learned to read."

She's not alone. But how many other adults could be tabbed with the unsavory "illiterate" label is hard to say.

"People are reluctant to admit that," Mrs. Aldridge said.

Mrs. Castillo isn't . . . or wasn't. She's no longer a nonreader. Today, she's reading somewhere between the first- and second-grade levels.

Her desire to read became intense about four years ago. The motivation was basic: She wanted to read the Bible.

Mrs. Castillo said she wasn't convinced she could believe all the words that flowed from the mouths of preachers. Sometimes, she found contradictions.

The preaching, she said, "sometimes mixes me up." And she couldn't "tell whether the preacher was telling the truth or nor."

She wanted clarification and understanding. She wanted it firsthand and from authority. The Bible, she said, would fulfill her need, her quest.

So, Mrs. Castillo, the housewife and mother, went to night school for two years. It did little, if any, good.

She was in a class with other adults, most of whom, could already read and write. The program for "disadvantaged" adults is funded through the Texas Education Agency.

The teacher, apparently not knowing how to teach a beginner in a class with advanced students, gave Mrs. Castillo copying assignments. She copied words and "did not learn."

"I came to learn how to read. I didn't come to learn how to copy," she said of her frustration.

Initially, she was going to classes at the old Carver High School, which has been converted to the Carver Cultural Exchange Center. Later, she went to classes ot Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church. Altogether, there

Life for Humphrey could be months, years

By GERRY NELSON

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Hubert Humphrey, a political battler for 30 years, is facing the biggest battle of his life — terminal cancer.

Humphrey has an inoperable tumor in the pelvis, doctors said Thursday after the Minnesota Democrat underwent surgery to relieve a blocked large intestine.

Dr. John Najarian, chief of surgery at University of Minnesota Hospitals, said Humphrey would be up and walking today and could be out of the hospital in a week and back in the Senate by early September, barring complications.

He declined to speculate on Humphrey's life expectancy, saying: "It could be months, it could be years. Predictions are impossible."

The 66-year-old Humphrey in an article for this month's Reader's Digest wrote, "You have to gear yourself to the continuity of the struggle, knowing that there will be days when you don't feel so good.

"Deep down I believe in miracles. They have happened to a lot of people who were given up to die and then were restored to health."

Najarian said the tumor is "definitely malignant" and cannot be removed because of its location.

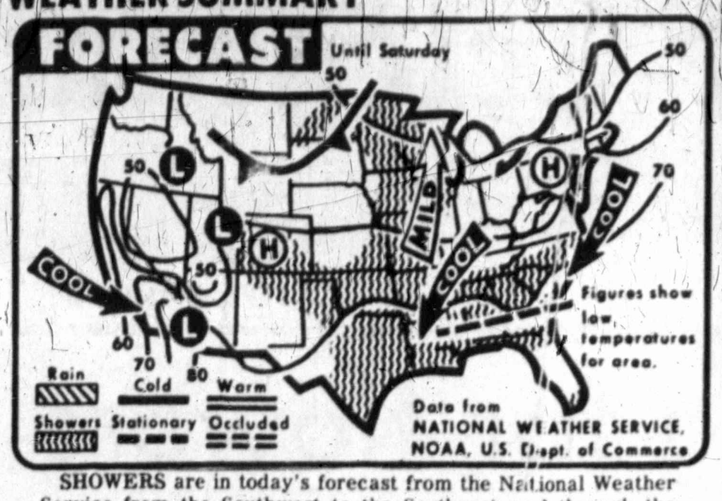

"The tumor in the pelvis is right on the bone, and it is part and parcel of the pelvis. It is physically impossible for it to be removed surgically," he said.

Najarian said the cancer could be called terminal — certain to cause death — in the sense that it cannot be removed. He said the cancer may be held in check, but not cured, by chemical treatment.

Humphrey had a cancerous

New settlements opposed by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, repeating its opposition to Israeli settlements on the West Bank of the Jordan River, says three new camps were established by "illegal acts" and are "obstacles to "constructive negotiations" toward a Mideast peace.

Israel disputed the American charge.

The country's ambassador in Washington, Avi Pazner, denied that the new settlements are an obstacle to the renewed peace talks the United States has been promoting and said his country still seeks negotiations with the Arabs.

In New York, Israeli U.N. Ambassador Chaim Herzog accused the world organization of "double standards and discrimination" in condemning the Israeli action while ignoring what he said are recent terrorist acts by the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The United States made its feelings known in a note delivered to Israeli officials here and in Jerusalem.

The United States also complained Thursday that the extension of administrative regulations to more than one million Arabs living in the West Bank area "creates an impression of permanence of Israel's occupation" which is not helpful."

The three towns were authorized Wednesday by Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin. Sources in Jerusalem said Begin acted to placate his most conservative supporters.

There now are 79 Israeli settlements with a population of about 5,000 Israelis in the land occupied during the 1967 ArabIsraeli war.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter III, expressing American displeasure with Israel, told a news conference that the United States regrets the statement Sunday by a top Israeli official that the West Bank belongs to his country.

The United States maintains that the West Bank is not a permanent Israeli acquisition, but is only under temporary military occupation.

Spokesman Carter said the administration's "position on the issue of settlements is clear. We reaffirm what we have said many times before. These unilateral, illegal acts in territories under Israeli occupation create obstacles to constructive negotiations."

The President asked Begin in talks here last month to halt for the time being approvals of new West Bank settlments. The Israeli government has refused to offer such a guarantee.

Pair of devoted fans crashes Elvis' funeral

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Memphis is Mecca to thousands of Elvis Presley fans who left their homes at word of his death without so much as a toothbrush or a change of clothing — they wanted to be close to their idol.

Two of those fans, enterprising young women from Bridgeton, N.J., got closer to their goal than any others. They crashed the rock star's private funeral, first hiding in a florist's van and then by posing as reporters.

On Wednesday, the day after Presley died, Pat Christian and Dana Miletta walked off their jobs and drove to the airport.

"I was parking the car and Dana ran in and told them to hold the airplane," Ms. Christian said. "After we got here, we called Dana's husband and told him where we were."

They wandered for more than 24 hours.

"We went around the back of Graceland Mansion and tried to get over the wall," Ms. Christian said. "Then we sat up on the wall and watched everything that went on. When that got dull, we went to the hospital and to the funeral home to take pictures of all the hearses and things."

Those meanderings lasted through Wednesday night and into Thursday morning. Then they tried to crack cemetery security.

"The guards wouldn't let us in, so we went around back and climbed over this muddy old bank behind the mausoleum," said Ms. Christian.

"There were a whole bunch of trucks parked around with flowers, so we snuck up and started telling them where to put the arrangements. And everyone thought we worked there."

For hours they worked. Then, midway through the morning, Mrs. Miletta remembered they had left precious souvenirs, collected in their wanderings, with new-found friends sitting outside Graceland. They decided to slip out and retrieve them.

"We got in the back of a florist's truck, hid under a board and went out with it," Ms. Christian said. "Then when it came back in, we came in with it hiding under some canvas."

PTA, group to give out school facts

Special school information centers will be distributing free brochures and maps from three locations this Saturday and again on August 27.

The booths will be manned by the City Council Parent Teacher Association (PTA) in cooperation with the Midland Alliance and will be open between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on both Saturdays.

They will be located inside Gibsons, 3111 Cuthbert Ave., Skaggs Albertsons, 1002 Andrews Highway, and Sears, Cuthbert Avenue and Midkiff Drive.

The booths will hold materials for people to write out questions on school matters relating to school attendance areas, busing or general school subjects of concern. Someone from the Midland Independent School District will call those persons who write out their questions, Mrs. Joan Baskin of the Midland Alliance said.

During the weekdays, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., information on the schools is available by calling the Midland Alliance at 682-0024.

Krueger visits Midland today

U.S. Rep. Bob Krueger will be in Midland today for a private reception.

The reception will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Midland Hilton.

Krueger has announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate seat now held by George Mahon, who has said he will not seek re-election.

Canine patrol Lions' topic

Midland Police officers Oscar Strain and Paul Jones, members of the department's canine patrol, will present the program at the Greenwood Lions Club meeting at 7:15 a.m. Saturday in the Greenwood Lions building, according to a club spokesman.

Breakfast will be served at the meeting, the spokesman said.

Taxpayers meet to choose officers

A group of Midland residents concerned about property taxes held an organizational meeting Thursday night to elect officers and establish goals of the group.

According to Tom Nipp, newly elected president of Taxpayers Association of Midland, the group was formed because taxpayers in Midland and Midland County are concerned about re-evaluations of taxes and the way re-evaluations affect taxpayers.

The purpose of the group, according to Nipp, is to represent Midland taxpayers by sitting in on city council, commissioners' court, school board and college board meetings. "The members will express a viewpoint from the taxpayers' angle, whether it be good or bad for Midland," Nipp said.

Nipp emphasized the group is not connected with tax protestors — a group fighting the federal income tax.

Also at the meeting, Nipp said, the group formed committees to investigate future tax issues, including the city budget and the proposed hospital district.

In addition to Nipp, other officers elected at the meeting were John Luccous as first vice president, Amos Palma as second vice president, Eddi Anderson as secretary. Mrs. Pat Conway as assistant secretary and Ada Spivey as treasurer.

Newly elected to the group's board of directors were E. V. Mitchell, Luccous, Laurence Lee, W. W. Wallace, Fred Johnson, V. A. Cain, Joe C. Davis, Mrs. Conway, Nipp, Henry Orson, Spivey, Sam Logan, Burt Castle and Palma.

French minister cuts tour short

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — French pride got the better of foreign policy today as Foreign Minister Louis de Guiringaud, angered by Tanzania's refusal to apologize for a hostile demonstration, cut short the last stop of a four-nation tour to promote French influence in Africa.

De Guiringaud was on a diplomatic mission engineered by President Valery Giscard d'Estaing to spread the message that French interest in Africa extends beyond its former colonies.

The initiative was seen as an attempt to outrun American influence in Africa. It ended prematurely when the Tanzanian government refused the foreign minister's demand that it apologize for the anti-French demonstration that greeted his arrival Thursday for a four-day visit.

Ornithology subject of Rotary Club program

A lecture-slide presentation, "They Are All Around Us," was the program feature Thursday noon at the meeting of the Downtown Rotary Club in the Midland Hilton.

The speaker was Dr. Ted Jones, veteran Midland geologist. Birds were cited as the creatures which "are all around us" in Midland County.

Jones, who, 14 years ago became interested in ornithology as a hobby, said more than 280 different kinds of birds frequent Midland County at various seasons of the year. Some varieties often are found in the city, while others frequent rural areas only.

"There is no reason to be afraid of birds," the speaker said, "although certain varieties are a nuisance."

He described, discussed the habits and showed slides of 28 of the most common varieties of birds found in Midland County. He pointed out that crows usually are not found in the county, but ravens are common here.

"Ornithology is an interesting hobby and I enjoy it," Jones concluded.

Heat streak to continue

Though the heat streak is not setting records day after day, it is forecast to keep on bearing down on West Texas until those northerly winds bring a refreshing coolness this fall.

Thursday's high reading was 100 degrees, which came between 6 and 7 p.m. The record high for the date is 102 degrees set in 1970.

Throughout the Midland area, it was rainless, and no moisture was in the forecast.

This morning, most area towns reported building hot weather again and some high clouds.

16-year-old hospitalized

A 16-year-old Midland youth was listed in undetermined condition at Midland Memorial Hospital early today after he received burns to his legs, hands and face in a fire at his home Thursday morning. According to fire reports, Arthur Partile of 408 E. Elm St. was burned when a can of gasoline was ignited by a nearby stove about 11:30 a.m. in the bathroom of his home. One unit of the fire department was called to the scene. Damage to the house was light, according to reports. The fire was extinguished with 10 gallons of water.

GLASS DOOR TAKEN

A sliding glass door valued at $100 was taken from a house under construction at 4621 Pleasant Dr. between 4 p.m. Wednesday and 7:30 a.m. Thursday, according to police reports.

bladder removed last October at New York's Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research. Najarian said the tumor was almost certainly a leftover from that malignancy, but said it might have been even worse if Humphrey had not undergone chemotherapy periodically for the last 10 months.

Najarian said Humphrey awoke from surgery ready to continue the treatments, which at times have made him ill and have caused his hair to fall out.

Humphrey was re-elected to the Senate last November for a fifth term, three days after his release from the hospital. He had served as vice president in the administration of Lyndon B. Johnson and was a presidential candidate against Richard M. Nixon in 1968.

A hospital spokeswoman said Humphrey slept most of the day Thursday. His wife, Muriel, and other members of his immediate family were at the hospital.

First Lady Rosalynn Carter and Joan Mondale, wife of Vice President Walter Mondale, who is regarded as a political protege of Humphrey's, were among those who called Mrs. Humphrey at the hospital to express concern, the spokeswoman said. She said the hospital has been "inundated" with telegrams, calls, cards and flowers, including a bouquet from former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Woman learns to read handwriting on wall

are six adult learning centers in Midland and one each at McCamey, Rankin and Crane.

Those classes netted her zilch, she claimed.

"She had dropped out of her class, because there was no individual attention," Mrs. Aldridge said.

Finally, to Mrs. Castillo's apparent good fortune, she ran into a one-on-one reading specialist. Michael Glen of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Glen, who came here "to sell" Midland College on his program, ended up tutoring Mrs. Castillo. He'll also be teaching his techniques at the college beginning this September.

Unlike her previous teacher, Glen knew how to teach basic reading and writing, Mrs. Castillo said. Besides, he was teaching only one pupil at a time. The other teacher had a houseful to teach and had no time for rudimentary reading and writing.

"You have to know how to teach somebody," Mrs. Castillo said.

She is learning, and now she is confident in her ability to master tasks.

But when it comes to interviewing for jobs, her school-less background really comes to the fore.

"They ask you how long have you been going to school," Mrs. Castillo said. "Well, that's that," she said. "That's a big problem." (At one time, she and her husband Joe operated a drive-in cafe here. Today, he's a maintenance man for a church.)

"As far as a job, work, I'm all right there'" Mrs. Castillo said. "I can do any work I want to. But as far as reading, I was blank."

Not any more.

TV said to stereotype

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — According to the TV critics over at the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, television's typical situation comedy is built around this formula: "Any problem can be solved, by luck or by someone else."

But that's make believe. In the real world of government, it takes a study, a report and — if the commission has its way — a new set of rules to solve a problem.

That is the formula evident in the Civil Rights Commission's 181-page report on women and minorities in television. It cost $321,419 and it concludes that the government should do something about television.

"...Despite advances made in portrayal as well as in employment opportunity, minorities and women — particularly minority women — continue to be underrepresented in dramatic programs and on the news and their portrayals continue to be stereotyped," the commission held. It's solution:

"Television should accurately reflect the ethnic and gender diversity of the nation.

"Minorities and women should participate fully in bringing this about.

"The federal government should ensure that this is done."

Whatever the sins and shortcomings of the evening's fare of TV shows these days, the government probably could make matters worse.

The Civil Rights Commission solemnly complains that the population of the TV shows doesn't accurately reflect that of the nation — too many men, too many young women, not enough elderly people. It reports that the women in situation comedies tend to be subordinate to the men.

In the police and private eye shows, the commission says, women are far more likely than men to be the victims, rather than the perpetrators, of violence. This observation is followed by a footnote:

"While this commission does not advocate that women should be portrayed as the perpetrators of violence, nevertheless it should be noted that woman are portrayed as more vulnerable than men since they are more frequently victimized."

And that's not all.

"A comparison of the population of the television world with that of the real world reveals that there were many more males on the screen than there are in reality," the report notes. "Male characters constituted 73.9 per cent of the television population, while males actually constitute 48.6 per cent of the U.S. population."

The complaints about TV programming are one phase of a civil rights commission report that also advocates new standards and quotas for the employment of minorities and women in the broadcasting industry.

The commission wants the Federal Communications Commission to come up with rules on the portrayal of women and minorities in TV programs.

The FCC says that would create a regulatory nightmare, and it is indeed hard to see how the government could enforce such program rules without a corps of censors to examine TV scripts and reject those that present stereotyped characters.

Philip Agee

French government deports ex-CIA agent

By EDWARD CODY

PARIS (AP) — The French government has deported Philip Agee, the former CIA agent who revealed U.S. spy secrets in a controversial book, the Interior Ministry announced Thursday.

Agee, expelled from Britain in June, was arrested in the English Channel port of Boulogne and "immediately taken to the Belgian frontier," 50 miles away, a communique said.

"His presence on French soil is undesirable because of his past activities and the consequences that some of his current activities could have on relations that France maintains with certain friendly countries," the statement said.

In Brussels, the Belgian ministries of justice, interior and foreign affairs and the U.S. embassy all said they knew nothing of Agee's whereabouts.

Agee, 41, has been living openly in Paris and last week told an interviewer he was writing a book about CIA interventions in Western Europe, among other regions. This, presumably, will include CIA activities in France.

He also said in the interview that he was working on an index of "all the organizations and people" known to have CIA connections.

Agee's British lawyer, Larry Grant, said in London that the agent-turned-author went to Boulogne to meet his wife, Angela, who had traveled from the couple's home at Cambridge, 50 miles north of London.

She had planned to go with him to Paris. Agee moved to the French capital from The Netherlands, where he went after obeying a British government deportation order June 3.

Grant said both Agee and his wife were arrested but she was released.

Anti-apartheid meeting to include Israel, N.Z.

PETER ROBBS
Agence France Presse

LAGOS, Nigeria — Israel and New Zealand, both frequent targets for black African anger over their links with white-ruled South Africa, plan to send delegations to the United Nations-organized World Conference for Action against Apartheid here next week.

The two countries have indicated their intention to the U.N., co-organizer of the conference with the Organization of African Unity (OAU), as have 67 other nations and a host of liberation movements, U.N. specialized agencies, and national and international anti-apartheid bodies, U.N. officials announced here.

The conference is to run from Aug. 22 to 26. If the Israeli delegation led by that country's U.N. Ambassador Chaim Herzog does come, it will find itself in the same conference room as the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) and southern African liberation movements including the African National Congress of South Africa and SWAPO (South West Africa People's Organization) of Namibia. The ANC and SWAPO have denoucned Israel for its ties with Pretoria.

Nigerian newspapers have been carrying denunciations of the Zionist state's alleged ties with racist minority regimes, but Nigeria reportedly feels it is not in a position, as host to a U.N. conference, to stop the Israelis from coming.

Nigeria's U.N. representative, Leslie Harriman, who is also chairman of the U.N. special committee against apartheid, charged recently that while some of South Africa's trading partners were curtailing collaboration with "the racist," Israel was increasing hers.

Nursing course slated

Midland Memorial Hospital will conduct a six-week coronary care nursing course beginning Sept. 6, according to Mrs. Ellen Kennedy, nursing inservice director.

"This will be an intensive course designed for registered and vocational nurses who are interested in coronary care nursing," Mrs. Kennedy said.

Under the direction of Mrs. Jo Ann Fee, a registered nurse, the course will be held from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday beginning Sept. 6 for six weeks. Classes will held in the third floor west conference room of the hospital. Deadline to register is Aug. 31, Mrs. Kennedy said.

"We will use the ROCOM system of instruction," Mrs. Fee explained, adding that this system will cover cardiac arrhythmias, cardiac pacing, techniques of nursing and recognizing myocardial infractions plus various problems of intensive coronary heart disease.

The course will concentrate on classroom presentations with a number of Midland physicians lecturing on various coronary nursing problems and methods.

State savings and loan group hears testimony for merger

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—The Savings and Loan Department heard testimony Thursday on the proposed merger of five savings and loan associations, including Midland Savings.

The five associations—Midland Savings, Equitable Savings Association of Fort Worth, First Savings Association of Corpus Christi, Imperial Savings Association of Amarillo and Gibraltar Savings Association of Houston—are all wholly-owned by Imperial Corp., a multistate, California based holding company.

Gibralter Savings, will remain as the surviving association.

Lallinger said that under the current arrangement, the five separate S & L entities can apply to establish up to 10 new branch offices. After the proposed merger, the remaining association would be able to apply for only two branch offices at a time.

Lallinger said that merger approval by Imperial's board of directors would constitute approval by the stockholders of all five corporations, since all five are wholly-owned by Imperial.

Spencer Blocker represented Midland Savings at the hearing.

The commissioner's decision must be made within 60 days.

Aussies outlaw strikes; union showdown coming

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The Australian Parliament outlawed strikes by government employes today, setting the stage for a showdown between the conservative government and the unions.

The government labor legislation and the introduction of a tax-cutting national budget two days ago increased expectations that Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser would seek an early national election to be fought on the issue of "who runs Australia."

The new labor law authorizes the government to fire public employes who strike and to lay off public employes who cannot work because of strikes against either the government or private companies.

Industrial Relations Minister Tony Street said the law would not be enforced "unless circumstances dictate." But it was clearly aimed at the week-long strike by 2,800 postal workers at the nation's central mail exchange in Sydney.

The postal strikers are fighting new shift scheduling which they claim cuts their overtime pay. Their walkout has piled up a backlog of 11 million undelivered letters and parcels.

Bob Hawke, president of the Australian Council of Trade Unions, warned the government that "no big industrial dispute has ever been settled through the use of threats or legal sanctions."

Other union leaders charged that Fraser, who heads a conservative coalition of the Liberal and National Country parties, was seeking an issue on which to fight an election campaign.

Public opinion polls show the government's popularity at a low level, partly due to unemployment, which is at an alltime high of 5.3 per cent with 332,793 persons out of work. Industrial production is down; foreign investment has fallen off, and the inflation rate is about 11 per cent.

With a 55-vote majority in the lower house, Fraser does not have to call a general election to name a new House of Representatives until November 1978. But half the Senate is due for election by next March, and political observers predict he will seek a December poll for both houses in an effort to prevent loss of his eight-vote majority in the Senate.

If the Labor party gained control of the Senate, it could block government legislation and precipitate a political crisis.

Quake registers as major

HONOLULU (AP) — A major earthquake occurred Friday in the vicinity of Sumba Island in Indonesia, according to the International Tsunami Information Center's Observatory here.

The earthquake registered 7.7 on the Richter scale here, an observatory spokesman said.

There was no evidence that a Pacific-wide tsunami, or tidal wave, was generated, although there may have been a local wave, the spokesman said.

The U.S. Geological Survey said the earthquake struck at 12:09 p.m. local time, 1:09 a.m. CDT, near the Sumbawa and Sumba islands in the southeastern part of Indonesia.

It said preliminary readings placed the center of the quake at 10.35 degrees south latitude and 118.54 degrees east longitude.

A survey spokesman said the center of the quake was "not far from the center of a magnitude 6.5 earthquake on July 14, 1976, near the island of Bali that claimed 563 lives and injured 2,300 people."

The Richter Scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude.

An earthquake of 3.5 on the Richter scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 moderate damage, 5 considerable damage, 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage; 8 is a "great" quake, capable of tremendous damage.

Bureau checking what is portable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever get the feeling that the guy who stamped "portable" on your television must have been built like King Kong?

You're not alone. Prompted by what it calls a "common consumer headache," the government is systematically trying to figure out what's portable and what isn't.

In a project conducted by the National Bureau of Standards, several agency workers have volunteered to spend time lugging boxes of lead shot around the office.

The study grew out of the Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act of 1975, which gives the Federal Trade Commission the power to say when a product can be guaranteed as portable.

The definition can be important, since purchasers of goods guaranteed as "portable" can be required to haul them in for repairs before the guarantee does any good.

The FTC turned to the standards bureau and researchers Joel J. Kramer and Patrick J. Meguire, who gathered 69 men and women volunteers of varied age and size for their project.

So what's portable? To the researchers, a television, air conditioner microwave oven or other product is portable if it can be carried by most consumers at least one city block "without excessive strain or exhaustion" and without using such aids as dollies or carts.

The researchers filled wooden cubes with different weights of lead shot. The volunteers then carried the boxes — some about 11 inches on a side and others about 16 inches — the length of a city block, through a door they had to open and up a flight of stairs.

The researchers said they figured their test requirement equaled the worst route a consumer could be expected to follow in returning a product for repairs.

They concluded that a person's sex and the way he handled a box, rather than age or the size of the container, are the biggest determinants of what can be carried comfortably.

The researchers said the average maximum weight considered reasonable by the men taking part in the tests was 44.8 pounds, while for women it was 31.2 pounds.

Roughly 90 per cent of the participants said they could carry 23.5 pounds with little difficulty.

By HENRY MITCHELL
Washington Post

MEMPHIS — Elvis Presley was buried in the mausoleum of Forest Hill Cemetery here Thursday afternoon amid public grief and hoopla — vendors sold food, drink, T-shirts, pennants and newspapers packed with stories about the singer.

Sammy Davis Jr., John Wayne, Ann-Margret, Chet Atkins, Burt Reynolds and Tennessee Gov. Ray Blanton were among the 200 mourners, including 50 members of Prseley's family, inside the singer's house for nearly two hours for private services that had been scheduled to last 30 minutes.

The press and public were not admitted and one newscaster said disarmingly that most of his information seemed to be coming from the police and the chamber of commerce.

There were criers of "He's gone, he's gone" and "We love you, Elvis," from spectators in the crowd of about 6,000 across the street when a white hearse carrying Presley's body and a motorcade of white Cadillacs pulled out of the driveway and headed for the cemetery. Police motorcycles with flashing lights led the procession and patrolmen on duty saluted as it passed.

Behind the motorcycles came a Cadillac bearing Presley's father, Vernon, then the hearse and then a car with Presley's divorced wife, Priscilla, and their 9-year-old daughter, Lisa Marie.

Crowds lining the route surged forward, slowing the hearse's progress at times. Thousands more waited at the cemetery and swarmed over a gate at one point.

When the mourners arrived, 14 pallbearers carried the singer's seamless copper coffin into the mausoleum, not far from the grave of Presley's mother, Gladys Smith Presley, who died in 1958.

The mausoleum was decked out with more than 2,000 floral arrangements including one in the shape of a hound dog.

C.W. Bradley, pastor at Memphis' Wooddale Church of Christ, officiated at the service at Graceland, the singer's home. The Rev. Rex Humbard, head of the Cathedral of Tomorrow at Akron, Ohio, also was present.

Speculation on the singer's eccentric behavior, as reported in a book by some of his longtime guards, had spread through the crowds who viewed the body Wednesday and watched his hearse enter the cemetery Thursday.

The common reaction was that muckrakers might have waited until after the funeral, and maybe it wasn't true anyway — all that stuff about pills, shooting guns at TV sets and so on.

But the thousands had clearly sensed that Presley, who died Tuesday at 42, was unhappy the past few years — his canceled appearances, his frequent hospital visits, and his increasing isolation behind the walls protecting his house.

Two hundred women fainted the first day and dozens more the second. Many who did not faint required support to walk, making no effort to hide the tears running down their faces.

Shortly before dawn Thursday, two 19-year-old girls from Monroe, La., were killed and a 17-year-old girl from Missouri was severely injured when a Memphis teenager's car ran into the crowd keeping vigil. The driver was booked on numerous charges, including second-degree murder.

The crowds had come chiefly from Memphis but one also ran into Texans, Georgians, New Yorkers, along with journalists from England, Sweden and Australia.

The entire cemetery, one of the city's largest, was closed to the public all day. At the last minute, the press was allowed inside behind ropes but not in the Mausoleum.

One local columnist wrote that it was a pity Elvis never grew up, but contented himself with nominal gifts to charity and somewhat absured gifts of Cadillacs to his friends.

It was not possible, however, to find Presley fans who agreed with this. It was notable that instead of simply saying they liked his music, virtually everyone insisted on Elvis' personal sweetness and generosity.

Some people, perhaps noticing the flags at half-mast throughout the city, compared the singer's death with that of Martin Luther King Jr. In short, the emotions and tributes of many were unstinting.

In recent years, shielded from the press and surrounded by a small coterie dependent on him, Elvis lived a private life in spite of his show business fame. Hardly anybody knew what he was really like or how he felt or why life seemed to be less than joyful for him.

He had, after all, risen from rural poverty in Mississippi and the back streets of Memphis — he once said he thought he'd never get through Hume's High School here — to sell records measured by the 100 million. He must have had the satisfaction of seeing he stamped pop culture in a way few individuals ever did.

Col. Thomas Parker, Elvis' manager for almost all the singer's career, was secreted at the Hilton, deeply affected by the sadness of the day and unwilling to talk.

Sam Phillips, who founded Sun Records and who was Presley's first important sponsor, was "all right" but virtually knocked out with sorrow, and turned things over for the day to his 30-year-old son, Knox, a vice president of the company.

His family did not know if the elder Phillips would feel able to attend the services or not, though it is often said that Phillips was as close to Presley as anyone ever was except the singer's mother.

The massive public identity with Evlis is no mystery to Knox Phillips, nor the roots of the singer's evident unhappiness lately.

"First, as to the drugs, I do not know the truth if there is any, but I suspect the drug thing was up and down. And I think it is irrelevant.

"He was human. Whatever negative things there may have been are irrelevant to this fact: no other man in our time did so much to unite people, or had such an affection on music. Not many people seem to know the first (American rock) record played behind the Iron Curtain was an Elvis record.

"Black and white — Elvis was sensitive to blacks, and he grew up with their music. In the South, never mind all the other factors, there was an unsaid camaraderie between poor whites and poor blacks. They had the same problems and at least they could understand each other. And of course Elvis grew up hearing them both."

Knox Phillips thought a minute and continued: "Elvis had the same kind of background as Sam so, when he walked into Sun Records, Sam understood him. Hell, Elvis had a great frustrated rough talent. The music business was then controlled by the big companies, and Elvis flat never would have even had a chance to get heard by them.

"But the truth is that Sam had been recording blacks and was hunting all over for a white singer who sang black music — Elvis was that synthesis.

"And Sam sent him down to Lansky's and told him what kind of wild clothes to get. Sam told him to wear his belt buckle at the side, not in front.

"Memphis was a magnetic place. Where else did the three great developments of music in our century come from (blues, rock 'n' roll and soul)? Believe me, Memphis is a strange place where all these things come together.

"But then Col. Parker took over and managed Elvis. He succeeded in pacing him for public consumption, packaging him as a myth.

"Elvis was a good old country boy. They took him away from what he was.

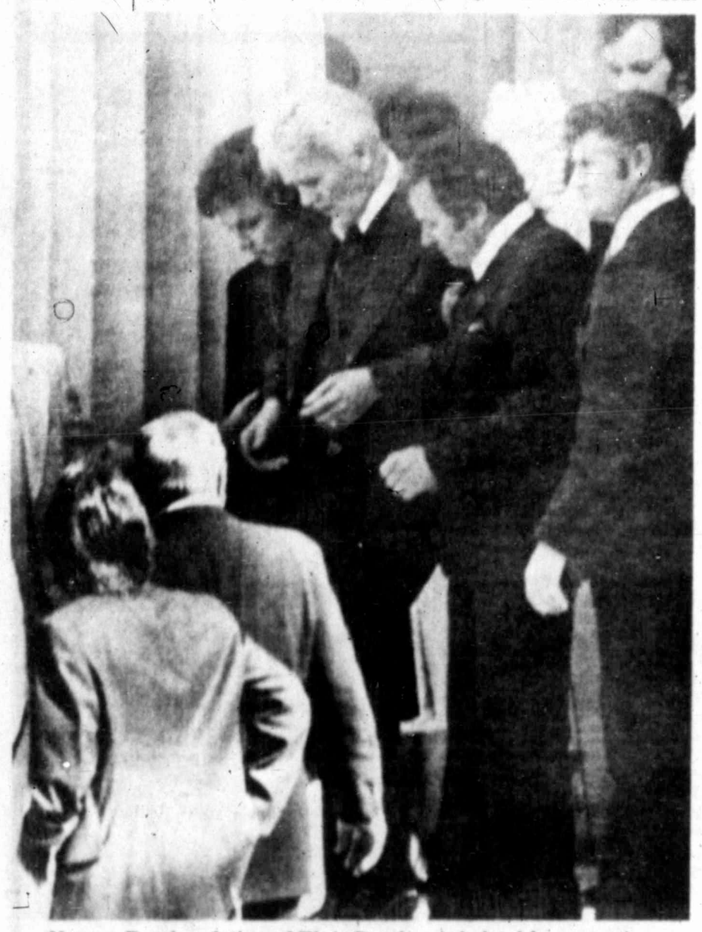

"When people start believing their own publicity, they are on the way down. In these later years Elvis was a very unhappy person."

(Critics sometimes complain Presley did not develop and grow musicially but sang a lot of other singers' songs.)

"Furry Lewis (a venerable blues singer) once said to me if you're doing nothing different, you're doing nothing.

"I don't mean any criticism, but Elvis always had people around him who were yes-men, not too deep. Elvis has been so reclusive and so cocooned so long that very few people knew what he was like.

"Parker made him into a mythical person.

Nonstop service sought

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Texas International Airlines has filed for authority to provide nonstop air service between Minneapolis-St. Paul and Dallas-Ft. Worth and Houston, Tex.

The request, filed with the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board, claims that air service is currently inadequate between the Twin Cities and Texas.

Gerald Gitner, vice president in planning for the airline, said the potential for profitable traffic between Minnesota and Texas is "most attractive."

Texas International operates in nine sunbelt states and Mexico. The company expects to carry near three million passengers in 1977.

Explorers scheduled

CONCHO TRY

Fisher-Webb, Inc., Abilene, No. 1 Sims, is slated as a 3,608-foot prospector in Concho, 1¼ mile southeast of the Paint Rock, West (Strawn) field.

MENARD PROSPECTORS

Petrotex Oil & Gas, Inc., Cross Plains, accounted for two shallow tests in Menard.

The ventures are slated for a bottom depth of 2,100 feet, and are to be drilled about six miles northeast of Menard.

No. 1 Joe Anne Potts, 467 feet from north and east lines of Louis J. Deckes survey 18, abstract 922.

No. 1-A Elizabeth Murchison, 467 feet from north and east lines of Ludwig Schmidt survey 25, abstract 726.

TERRELL OFFSET

Napeco, Inc., Houston, has scheduled as a 13,200-foot wildcat its No. 1-A Allison, northwest offset to its No. 1 Rashap, North Terrell County recent Pennsylvanian gas strike.

No. 1-A Spots 1,140 feet from south and 800 feet from east lines of section 21, block A-4, J. M. Anderson survey, abstract 2164, 36 miles northeast of Dryden.

The discovery finaled last week for 600,000 cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 10,488-10,507 feet.

DESPITE THE futuristic-looking outfit, he's no spaceman. Framed in his own lifeline, he is testing protective clothing at the Tenneco Oil Co. refinery in Chalmette, La. The outfit would enable him to cope safely with any plant emergency involving acid.

Cities testify Lo-Vaca paid huge 'plus' sums

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Natural gas customers in Austin, San Antonio and the Lower Colorado River Authority system had to pay $600 million more the past four years than their original contracts with Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. called far.

That was the testimony Thursday in the first phase of a hearing before the Railroad Commission to determine a permanent natural gas rate for Lo-Vaca. The hearing began July 28.

The second phase of the hearing begins Aug. 29.

Under a September 1973 interim order by the commission Lo-Vaca was authorized to pass on 100 per cent of its cost of gas regardless of the original contracts signed with its customers. It also can add a 5 cents per thousand cubic feet (mcf) transportation fee.

Lo-Vaca wants to continue the 100 per cent pass-through plus 16.7 cents per mcf.

Howard Freeman, assistant general manager for finance and administration for San Antonio's City Public Service Board, testified Thursday that the board claimed refunds from Lo-Vaca and its parent company, Coastal States Gas Producing Co., of $354,718,555. He said that was the difference between the price paid for gas after the September 1973 order and the price specified in San Antonio's contract.

Doughty Miller, LCRA director of finance, said the difference paid by the LCRA was $123,112,038.

R.L. Hancock, Austin's director of electricity utilities, said the difference between billings to the city and the cost under terms of Austin's contract was $126,338,115.

The customers generally contended that Lo-Vaca and Coastal States are not due any rate increase because of past mismanagement and past concern with profits to the detriment of adequately serving long term customers.

The company contends the increase is necessary for it to be able to bid competitively for gas supplies, continue exploration for gas and to fund storage and pipeline construction projects.

Lo-Vaca President William E. Greehey testified earlier that if it had not been for the commission's 1973 order, the Lo-Vaca system could not have continued in business.

Conference dates told

SAN ANTONIO — A two-day National Energy Conference on coal and solar energy will be included in activities marking the dedication of San Antonio's coal-fired electrical generating plant and Trinity University's solar energy installation.

The five-day event, which is being co-sponsored by Trinity University, City Public Service Board and San Antonio Economic Development Foundation, will be Aug. 30-Sept. 3.

Dean Bruce Thomas, acting Trinity University president, said the National Enegy Conference, Sept. 1-3, will feature an array of nationally-known authorities on solar and coal energy, including officials from the Energy Research and Development Administration.

Subject matter will range from how to design structures to accomodate solar technology to what to expect in the future from coal gasification developments.

The conference will be held on the Trinity University Campus.

The new coal plant will supply 60-per cent of future energy needs for the nation's 10th largest city, reducing to minimal extent San Antonio's dependency on natural gas for electrical power.

Congressional adviser says best bet ignored

By TIM SHEPPARD
Copley News Service

A science adviser to Congress and the White House accuses the agency charged with developing new energy sources with ignoring the solution to U.S. energy problems.

"It's obvious that methanol (wood alcohol) is the solution," said Dr. William A. Nierenberg, director of Scripps Institution of Oceanography. "It is abundant, nonpolluting and renewable, but it is being ignored."

Nierenberg, a member of the National Science Board and a former assistant to President Ford's science adviser, said that key members of Congress have been unable to get the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration to develop the use of methanol as the alternative to petroleum.

"ERDA turns down everything if it is useful," said Nierenberg in an interview.

Nierenberg has long been an advocate of developing methanol as the alternative to the world's fast-declining sources of oil and gas. As the senior adviser to the Office of Science and Technology of the White House he testified to various congressional committees on the importance of getting away from oil and into a methanol economy.

"Congress is for it," said Nierenberg. "It just can't get ERDA to do anything."

Nierenberg said the technology is available and that the economics are favorable for developing methanol as a major source of energy.

Although methanol is known as wood alcohol, it can be made from any agricultural waste products, coal and natural gas.

"It is about as clean as any fuel you can get," said Nierenberg. "When you make it from coal or natural gas it has far less hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions than oil."

The science adviser said that methanol also offers a great opportunity of getting rid of some of the world's increasing carbon dioxide which threatens to cause a "greenhouse effect."

A team of scientists recently warned that unless the world turns away from the burning of coal and petroleum products that carbon dioxide will cause the weather to warm drastically.

"If you use trees and agricultural products to make methanol this will help solve the CO2 (carbon dioxide) problem," said Nierenberg. "The forests and plants feed on CO2. They help soak it up."

Nierenberg said he was encouraged by some recent developments in the use of methanol.

"The California Energy Commission, particularly Commissioner Alan Pasternak, should be praised for trying to get California utilities to use methanol in place of oil in their power plants," said Nierenberg.

Nierenberg said that several utilities in California have expressed interest in methanol as an alternate source of energy because it is as clean as natural gas.

"There have been some studies to indicate that it can be produced and delivered as cheaply as low-sulfur oil," said Nierenburg. "But, there has always been this nagging problem of supply. These utilities say they can't be assured of a dependable source of methanol."

Reentry announced

A reentry has been scheduled for Irion County and an outpost location has been filed in Schleicher County.

Texas Oil & Gas Corp., Midland, has made plans to reenter and attempt dual completion as a Canyon "B" gas producer and as a second Canyon gas producer at No. 1-A Winterbotham, a 7,000-foot test in Irion County.

It is 1⅜ mile southeast of production in the Dove Spring, West (Canyon gas and Canyon "B" oil) fields and 14 miles south of Mertzon.

Filed as a reentry, it spots 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 30, block 21, H&TC survey.

Employment hinged on three-year plan

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Labor Department this week announced plans to require federal contractors to hire women in carpentry, bricklaying, cement masonry and other construction jobs traditionally held by men.

The department proposed a three-year timetable that would require contractors doing federal or federally assisted construction work — an estimated 25 per cent of the industry's business — to hire women for a minimum of 3.1 per cent of their workforce in the first year, after the proposal became effective and 6.9 per cent in the third year.

Women now hold 1.2 per cent of the jobs in the nation's construction industry, which employs 3.9 million people.

The department will receive comment on the proposed regulations for 45 days. After that, the regulations would be implemented, possibly with revisions.

Labor Department officials said the proposed requirements would help standardize regulations and eliminate confusion about the government's standards for hiring women in construction.

Construction union officials were not immediately available for comment on the proposed regulations.

"American women, like all other Americans, are entitled to equal employment opportunities regardless of race, color, creed or national origin. AGCA will continue its efforts to make construction opportunities available to all Americans and will continue to work cooperatively with the U.S. Department of Labor and all others towards the realization of that objective."

Government service offers data

By JOANNE OMANG
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Some scientist somewhere has probably worked sometime on a problem you've got. If you only knew where to locate his report you'd be all set. The place to look is in a government agency most Americans have never heard of: the National Technical Information Service.

Nearly everything learned by thousands of scientists whose work was supported by public funds is stored there, catalogued and cross-indexed and available for a fee to anybody. Some NTIS users, however, complain that what they need is hard to find, expensive or tells them more about the subject than they care to know.

"You can ask them a question and come out of there with a stack of paper six feet high," said Robert Havelick, senior vice president of Public Technology Inc., another scientific information service. "There's very little selectivity."

NTIS stores nearly every scientific advance, analysis, invention or discovery made with federal money and reduced to print or film since 1950s. The reports make up nearly 1 million titles, half again more than the United States published industry has ever produced.

Last year $45 billion was spent on research in this country. Twenty-six billion dollars or 58 per cent of it was funded by the federal government, either directly or indirectly through grants. The stack of reports grows at the rate of a new document every two minutes of the working day.

"Nobody has any idea how much of a resource we are," said director William Knox. "We have it all, organized and available on computer printouts to anybody who wants it. Nothing is ever out of print, and we take American Express."

A $15-million-a-year branch of the Commerce Department, NTIS is the only government agency that is self supporting. It runs advertising campaigns to promote its services, talks of "products" and "best sellers" and employs traveling salesmen worldwide in 19 agencies on contract agreements. The product they're peddling is information.

"We get publications on coal combustion and nuclear power," while "various other fields" are covered in NTIS subscriptions sent directly to the Tokyo office, said Kazuo Suzuki, first secretary at the Japanese embassy.

If Klaus Wiendieck, the West German scientific attache, had difficulty placing NTIS — "That's with the Smithsonian, isn't it? — his government is still one of NTIS' biggest buyers, according to Knox.

So many foreign firms and goverments use NTIS that Knox sought legislation last year to permit the copyrighting of NTIS catalogues, abstracts and recent publication bulletins "to give us greater control over foreign use and possible abuse of American technical information."

The move was defeated in controversy over the implications for press and information freedoms of allowing the government to copyright any documents. However, the bill is expected to be resubmitted this year.

"We just don't handle stuff like the Pentagon Papers," Knox said, referring to the 1971 publication of secret Vietnam material. "We're talking just about technical data."

National security technology or scientific secrets are withheld by the 350 government agencies that contribute to the NTIS computers, Knox explained. But what they do contribute is often used abroad to help foreign businesses compete with American ones. Although U.S. aid programs regularly try to develop industries in poorer countries, suing NTIS services, foreign competition in U.S. markets is under increasing attack in Congress.

Still, the majority of NTIS' 150,000 regular customers are U.S. businesses, local and state governments, universities and research organizations. NTIS ships 19,000 items of information to them every day on microfilm and paper.

To help customers find what they want and keep up with developments in their fields, there are weekly newsletters in 26 fields summarizing the newest reports in each in administration, chemistry, computers, library sciences and transportation, for example.

There are "tech notes" in 11 subjects that spotlight new inventions, while subscribers may place standing orders for microfilmed full texts of reports in their fields. For $100, anyone can order a search by computer for nearly anything ever learned in a particular area, "on a subject as specific as they want to make it," Knox said.

The problem with those who complain they can't find what they want or they get loads of junk with the useful data, he added, "is that a lot of people don't define their questions very precisely."

Oddly, individual scientists themselves are not among the major users of NTIS.

Liquefied natural gas cargoes produce debate

By JOANNE OMANG
The Washington Post

EVERETT, Mass. — The Coast Guard cutter's loudspeaker boomed angrily over Boston Harbor: "Move clear of that ship! Get back! Get back!"

A 32-foot launch had chugged to within one-quarter of a mile of the tanker Descartes and its cargo of liquefied natural gas. That was too close for the Coast Guard's liking.

Liquefied natural gas (LNG) makes people nervous, although the industry says such fear is ridiculous.

The debate centers on whether the tankers are floating bombs capable of nuclear-style devastation or a crucial part of the nation's energy supply picture that careful handling renders as safe as any other fuel.

The controversy is being made real here at the Distrigas Corp. LNG import terminal, the nation's only one so far, and is sure to intensify as imports increase and more terminals are built.

A $350 million terminal at Cove Point, Md., scheduled to become operational early next year, will be considerably larger than the Distrigas terminal, which cost about $28 million and receives a tanker from Algerian gas wells about once a month. Cove Point will unload a ship every 2 1-2 days.

Cove Point will be the nation's first "base-load" LNG terminal, importing 1 per cent of the country's entire natural gas need. The Distrigas Corp. terminal here is a "peakload" terminal, pumping gas into the mains only when demand is high.

Both plants use the newest technology in handling supercooled material, called cryogenics. LNG is ordinary cooking and heating gas chilled to minus-260 degrees Fahrenheit so it becomes a liquid. At that temperature, LNG takes up 1-600th of the space it does as a gas and shipping it becomes economical, if not necessarily easy.

Gas coming here first is cooled in Algerian plants that cost as much as $850 million each and then sent over in sophisticated, highly insulated ships that, with the exception of aircraft carriers, are the most expensive vessels on earth. With their network of pipes and pumps and tanks, the ships can cost $180 million each.

The Descartes, a 722-foot, French-built ship and one of 32 such tankers in existence, was carrying 50,000 cubic meters of LNG when it appeared out of the fog to enter Boston Harbor. That amount is enough to supply a town of 30,000 persons for a full year.

The Descartes' arrival was several days later than originally scheduled, and the fog fouled the schedule further. With one ship a month, such a delays are small problems, but Cove Point scheduling will have to be much tighter to keep traffic flowing, according to Lt. Steve Poole, Coast Guard port safety-watch officer.

Longhorns' success hinges on sophs

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — They've got gold medal speed at flanker, bruising power at fullback and a powerful punting leg but Texas Longhorn success this year may depend on 13 sophomores.

Fred Akers has replaced Darrell Royal at the Longhorn helm and he inherits rumbling Earl Campbell, a 220-pound fullback, Johnny "Lam" Jones at flanker, and Russell Erxleben, who led the nation in punting in 1976 with a 46.6 yard average.

Soph quarterback Mark McBath, who ran and passed for 401 yards as a starter in Texas' final four games last year, will lead Akers' veer offense — which replaces Royal's Wishbone-T. McBath is rated ahead of seven other prospects, including three freshmen.

"We've probably got as many problems as anyone at quarterback," Akers said. "We don't have that experienced winner there."

The Longhorns' inexperience has relegated Texas to the also-rans in pre-season SWC polls.

But Akers sees a possible benefit from the low rankings.

"I'll tell you where that helps — it doesn't put undue pressure on young kids. They don't know how to handle pressure," the coach said.

The successor to the winningest coach in SWC history thinks the youngsters may be able to get some game experience in the Horns first three contests.

The kiddie corps hosts the Eagles of Boston College on Sept. 10. Virginia comes to Austin on Sept. 17, followed by the Rice Owls on Oct. 1.

Akers is hoping his young charges will mature in those three contests — enough to meet the challenge of the Oklahoma Sooners on Oct. 8 at the annual Cotton Bowl bloodbath.

But before the season gets underway the new coach is keeping a close eye on his two senior offensive tackles — both working to recover from knee injuries. George James, 6-4, 234, is working up to seven hours a day to rehabilitate a knee on which he had surgery. On the other side David Studdard, 6-4, 250, is on the mend from knee and ankle injuries suffered in spring training.

On defense tackle Brad Shearer, 248, may bid for All-American honors. Two of the sophomore starters — safety Johnnie Johnson, 182, and Lance Taylor, 213, — have shown they can bolster the defensive squad.

Two more Cougars quit football squad

HOUSTON (AP) — Two more members of the Houston Cougar varsity football team, split end Ed Briles and tight end Anthony Meyers, apparently have joined linebacker David Hodge in withdrawing from the team.

The Cougars started conditioning drills Thursday in preparation for their nationally televised season opener Sept. 12 against UCLA in the Astrodome without Briles, who started three games last season, and Meyers, a 6-5 junior squadman from Oklahoma City.

Oh sweet pea! Another Peyton

By The Associated Press

Now, the very last thing National Football League defenses needed was another running back named Payton.

Chicago's Walter Payton, who rushed for 1,390 yards last year, was quite enough for them, thank you. But now they're faced with his older brother, Eddie, who has been a pleasant free agent surprise for the Cleveland Browns.

Eddie, called "Sweet Pea," gets his next chance tonight when the Browns host the St. Louis Cardinals in a pre-season game. Minnesota playes at Baltimore in tonight's other game.

On Sunday, Los Angeles is at San Francisco and Cincinnati goes against Detroit. New England plays at Philadelphia Monday night.

The long weekend got underway Thursday night when Washington defeated Kansas City 13-7 and Seattle surprised Oakland 12-10.

Cleveland's Payton led the Browns' ground game with 73 yards in 16 carries against Minnesota last week and was the family's leading rusher in the second week of the exhibition season. Little brother Walter gained 58 yards in 12 carries as the Bears defeated Oakland.

Eddie also returned three punts for 41 yards against the Vikings. He shrugs off the shadow of his kid brother.

"Actually, when people ask me if I'm Walter's brother, I tell them, 'No, Walter is my brother,'" says Eddie, who's older but not bigger than his kid brother. Walter, 24, is 5-foot-10½ and 204 pounds compared to 5-8 and 175 for "Sweet Pea," who's 25.

The older Payton has been teaching junior high school for the last two years in Memphis after trying out for Ottawa in the Canadian League.

Eddie's running helped the Browns to their near-win over Minnesota last week. The Vikings won their second straight heart-stopper, 33-31. First Steve Craig blocked a punt and Windlan Hall recovered it for a touchdown that narrowed their deficit to 33-31. Then rookie Rick Danmeier missed a 35-yard field goal but got a missed a 35-yard field goal but got a penalty, and connected on a 30-yarder with no time left on the clock.

The victory was reminiscent of the preseason opener when Nate Allen blocked a Los Angeles punt and recovered it for the winning touchdown in the final two minutes.

The Vikings take their magic act to Baltimore tonight against the Colts, who have split their first two preseason tests. Baltimore whipped Houston 14-7 a week ago with Freddie Scott catching four passes for 94 yards including a 21-yarder from Mike Kirkland in the winning drive.

On Thursday, Joe Theismann set up two second-half field goals by Mark Moseley with long passes to Larry Jones as the Redskins topped Kansas City. Bill Kilmer hit John Riggins on a six-yard scoring play in the first half for Washington, Tony Reed dashed 29 yards for the Chiefs' score.

Seattle remained unbeaten as Ralph Nelson scored from two yards out in the thid quarter after an interception by Steve Preece set up the Seahawks in Oakland territory.

Three U.S. records fall at AAUs

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (AP) — Three American records were set in women's events of the National AAU Senior Swimming Championships at the Misson Viejo International Swim Complex Thursday night.

Linda Jezek, 17, of Santa Clara, Calif., set a U.S. record in the 200-meter backstroke; Wendy Boglioli, 22, of Ocean, N.J. established an American standard in the 100-meter butterfly and Tracy Caulkins, 14, of Nashville, Tenn., set a U.S. mark despite finishing second in the 100-meter breaststroke.

Miss Jezek broke the American mark of 2:17.33 set by Melissa Belote of Springfield, Va., at the Montreal Olympics last summer.

Cheryl Gibson of Etobicoke, Ontario, Canada finished second to Miss Jezek in 2:17.47. Joan Pennington of Nashville, Tenn., was third in 2:18.35. Miss Belote, 20, failed to make the finals in the event but won the consolation race in 2:18.48.

The world record is 2:12.47 set by Birgit Treiber of East Germany. Miss Jezek's clocking Thursday night is the fourth fastest ever.

"I'm very pleased," said Miss Jezek. "I worked very hard and my goal was to swim a 2:15 plus."

Miss Caulkins was second in a time of 1:13.05 to Canada's Robin Corsiglia, who was clocked in 1:12.35, a new Canadian record.

The old American mark was 1:13.55 set by Marcia Morey of Decatur, Ill., in 1975.

Miss Boglioli was timed in 1:01.16, breaking the record she set last year by .001. Nancy Hogshead of Jacksonville, Fla., was second in 1:01.78 followed by Karinne Miller of Nashville, Tenn., in 1:02.05.

Thursday night included Peter Rocca, 20 of Concord, Calif., who won the men's 200-meter backstroke with a time of 2:03.21; Richard Hofstetter, 20, of Bloomington, Ind., who captured the men's 100-meter breaststroke in 1:05.2; and Greg Jagenburg, 21, of Newtown Square, Pa., who took the men's 100-meter butterfly in 55.46.

U.S. cagers rip Belgium

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — "We didn't try to run up the score," United States basketball Coach Denny Crum insisted after the Americans routed Belgium 136-57 at the World University Games Thursday night.

But Crum likely was to have even more trouble holding down the winning margin when his collection of college all-stars played Kuwait today in the second round.

Poland overwhelmed the Arab team 136-20 in the opening round earlier Thursday, and the taller and better-shooting Americans could hardly fail to match Poland's performance.

"I just hope we're awake (the game was at 9 a.m.)," the 40-year-old University of Louisville coach said with a smile, when asked for a prediction.

Guard Darrell Griffith of Louisville scored 20 points and Freeman Williams of Portland State had 18 as the Americans overwhelmed the Belgians with their fast break, board control and a dazzling display of shooting that earned roars of approval from the 1,000 fans at Sofia University Hall.

Four other Americans were in double figures. Starting forwards Phil Hubbard of Michigan scored 17 and Larry Byrd of Indiana State had 15. Guard Sid Moncrief of Arkansas added 16 and forward Walter Jordan of Purdue had 11.

"For the first time, we played really well together," Crum said. "There must have been 60 assists as players unselfishly passed the ball to the man in the open."

The Americans will face their first tough game Sunday when they play Poland. Thirty-one teams are competing in the qualifying rounds, and the top 16 advance to the semifinals next week.

The Soviets, with three national team players, are expected to battle the Americans for the gold medal. But Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Italy also are considered strong contenders for medals.

"We seem to have adjusted to the differences of international basketball. Our tournament games in Sicily and exhibition games in Yugoslavia helped us toughen up," Crum said.

Light furniture gives garden quality to room

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We are retiring and moving to smaller quarters — a condominium which I think we will enjoy very much. Our old home had a living room which was very light and airy and it is the only thing I miss because our apartment living room is fairly small and has few windows.

We are going to buy new furniture and can paint or paper as we wish so I thought perhaps I could compensate for some of the darkness in the decorating.

Where should I start?

I would like to combine some of our old things but most of the upholstered pieces need replacing because they are too large in scale and are badly worn. — T.G.F.

A. Certainly you should be able to compensate for the lack of as much natural light as you had before. I believe an excellent place to start is with the feeling you wish to create. I wonder if you might like to create a lighthearted feeling in the room — perhaps a garden kind of feeling that could be enhanced through fabric and pattern and furniture design.

For example, instead of a heavy overstuffed sofa, consider a settee with gracefully curved back and arms literally engulfed in squashy pillows in a variety of correlated colors and patterns. The frame might be in white as might be the end tables.

For the cocktail table choose a metal frame and top it with the gleam of crystal.

Choose a color scheme that is brought in from nature — lots of white with brilliant clear colors, whatever you may choose. If you want to carry the garden look further, consider a wallpaper in a treillage pattern or use the treillage on fabric at the windows or on the upholstered pieces.

If you'd prefer painted walls, choose one of the colors from your upholstery palette for a dramatic statement and do the other three in something quieter.

Instead of traditional draperies, you might consider Roman shades in an interesting fabric to coordinate with your upholstery.

Q. My daughter is completing the decorating of her room and she needs a window treatment for a 6x6-foot window. Her room is modern with a graphic covering the whole wall behind her bed.

The graphic colors are orange, yellow, dark green and lime. She's added a bentwood rocker, a bright orange table for her television and lamp and greenish yellow carpeting.

Underneath the window she has a slat bench painted yellow with plants. My husband made a box frame for her mattress. It and her chest are stained a natural wood color.

But what about the window? — A.B.

A. It sounds to me like a very slim-lined venetian would be great in her room. You can get the blinds in any color of the rainbow or a mixture.

School simplifies French cuisine

By SUZI PATTERSON

PARIS (AP) — Daube de boeuf becomes "beef stew" at La Varenne, a relaxed French cooking school that features simultaneous English translation, and students paying $1,400 for a six-week course say they get their money's worth.

"French cooking needed teaching with as few barriers as possible, especially language" founder Ann Willan, an English-born American, said of her approach at La Varenne, where many courses are booked solid through next fall with 50 full-time pupils a week.

"We've had some terrible growing pains but things are running pretty smoothly now," she said of the school she set up in a transformed Paris bistro 18 months ago and which many say rivals the prestigious Cordon Bleu.

A six-week course at Cordon Bleu costs less but it doesn't include as many hours as at La Varenne, which takes its name from Francois Pierre de la Varenne, 17th-century father of French cookbook writing.

Mrs. Willan holds the Cordon Bleu Grand Diplome and an M.A. in economics from Cambridge. She cooked for a while for the curator at Versailles, was food editor at Gourmet magazine and the Washington Star, and wrote "Entertaining Cooking." She also got help setting up her school from Julia Child, Simone Beck and James Beard.

Early problems included insufficient equipment and differences of opinion between younger and older students, but Mrs. Willan said, "People will always be the stimulus and the problem. We can buy new pots but dealing with people takes diplomacy."

Mrs. Willan, 39-year-old mother of two, said since her school is in Paris the students soak up the atmosphere essential to cooking, "not only the great basic sauces and techniques, but the markets, the open criticism of food, the on-the-spot taste.

We're also trying to demystify French cooking...convince people not to be frightened because it's called 'daube de boeuf' instead of beef stew."

Students come from as far away as California, Japan and Australia, and Mrs. Willan said, "Our student profile is evolving from the nice ladies just interested in cooking to people of all ages with passionate interest and ambition.

"Many La Varenne students go on in the profession, not just as chefs, but as teachers, restaurant managers, caterers and food writers. And we're getting more and more men, who are excellent students.

"Competition is beneficial," she added. "The Cordon Bleu is pulling up its pants. Now they use butter instead of margarine, they have better demonstration facilities, and you can actually taste the food! Paris can always use more cooking schools."

In the beginner, intermediate or advanced courses at La Varenne, students have personal guidance from experienced professional French chefs, using the best available raw materials and equipment. The chefs speak only French, but young interpreters translate the chefs' comments, and recipes are given out in English.

Asked what's so great about French cooking, one former student said, "Everything. When you're lucky, that buttery pastry just disintegrates. The meat tastes like meat and the sauce is a poem."

Another, Jeanne Sanders of Houston, Tex., who got her 12-week advanced level diploma from La Varenne last December, wrote that her own school, "Jeanne's Cuisine Francaise," was taking off nicely.

Lou Cease of Kentucky, who couldn't make an omelet when he started, spent over a year getting the first Grand Diplome the school awarded and plans to go into his family's restaurant business.

Jerry Royster, an airline purser from Baltimore who spent his vacation learning the secrets of French cooking, said, "I just wanted to be a cuisinier. Is that how you pronounce it?"

Ky Thu Phan, a Vietnamese woman who now lives in New Jersey, said she took the La Varenne course to make extra money as a baker or caterer.

By MICHAEL GRANT
Copley News Service

Dr. Mildred Jefferson, president of the anti-abortionist Right to Life Committee, defends the rights of the unborn fetus as vigorously as any prelate.

But Jefferson, a Boston physician and daughter of a Methodist minister, predicates her stance on her professional responsibility, as described by the Hippocratic Oath, which states in part:

"I will give no deadly drug to any, though it be asked of me, nor will I counsel such, and especially I will not aid a woman to procure abortion..."

"In 1970," Jefferson said, "the American Medical Association passed a resolution that bent its founding position on abortion. It didn't advocate it, but it said that doctors would not be unethical in performing abortions.

"I saw that reason was not going to prevail if the one institution that should forever condemn abortion was going to waver like that. Those of us who subscribed to the Hippocratic Oath would have to make our voices heard."

So she helped organize the Massachusetts Value of Life Committee, an educational group and forerunner of the Right to Life group.

"The Supreme Court decision of Jan. 22, 1973 (which legalized abortion nationwide), was the galvanizing action in the formation of the National Right to Life Committee," she said.

As president, she devotes about one-third of her time to its work.

Jefferson, an only child, was reared in Pittsburg, Tex. "My father was a Methodist minister," she said, "and my grandfather was a Baptist minister."

She was graduated from Texas College in Tyler, then left for Massachusetts. She became the first black woman to graduate from Harvard Medical School. She is a surgeon, on the staff of University Hospital, Boston University Medical Center. Her time is divided "60-40" between her practice and research.

While many passages in the abortion debate have become litany, Jefferson's power to organize and articulate thoughts in rapid, precise fashion remains apparent. Her presence is commanding.

Yet she fears being made a "personality" by the media, because she contends it would detract from the movement.

"Most other movements were created by the media," she said, "and they collapsed eventually. The Right to Life movement has grown through the interest of the people. We try to keep the focus on the principle, so that if anyone drops the torch, someone else can pick it up and continue."

Accordingly, she prefers not to discuss her personal life, even to refusing to tell her husband's name.

Leaves reflect health of house plants

By PATRICIA DIBSIE
Copley News Service

Shopping for healthy houseplants doesn't have to be an impossible proposition for the amateur green-thumber.

With a few simple guidelines, a trip to a plant shop can be pleasure instead of indecision.

First, look at the leaves of the plant. They shouldn't have browning of the edges, a symptom of too much fertilizer or too much heat, and lower leaves shouldn't be pale or yellow, a sign of improper watering.

Those are just a few tips from plant shop owners.

Most are willing to help the novice pick out the right plants for specific places or corners in the home or apartment.

"Many people take into consideration the amount of light the plant will be getting before they purchase a plant and that's about it," said a nurseryman.

"There's a lot more to it than that. The person has to get to know the needs of each plant — not all creeping Charlie's need the same amount of water or fertilizer. Plants, like people, differ in their needs if they are to stay healthy."

He thinks that the biggest problem facing people who claim they just can't get any plant to live, is water.

"People simply put their plants on a watering schedule that is handy for them — not necessarily the plants.

"Some plants can't survive being watered every Saturday at noon whether they need it or not."

He said the amount of water needed depends on the root structure of a plant.

"If a plant is root-bound then it needs more water than the same type of plant with lots of soil in the container," he said. "Soil holds water and the plant doesn't require as much water as the same plant which consists mainly of roots in the pot."

Most plant shops employ workers who are fairly knowledgeable about their products and encourage customers to ask questions about plants before purchasing them.

It is also a good practice to quarantine a new plant, setting it away from your plants for a couple of weeks to make sure it doesn't have any insects that you missed spotting on the initial inspection at the store.

Most plants will go into a small amount of shock after moving them from the store to your house. The adjustment period takes approximately two to three weeks.

Plant shop owners tell customers not to worry if the plant loses a few leaves during this initial period. They suggest that you not pull the dead leaves from the plant but let them drop off naturally. This allows the plant to seal the point where it was attached to the stem and no wound is left for infections to attack.

Talents combined spell success

By LINDA KAY
Copley News Service

Fayazi and Drexler. Designer, salesman. Partners in business, partners in life.

In 19 months, they've done $2 million in sales. They expect to up that to $5 million shortly and hope to bring out a line of shoes, jewelry, makeup, men's clothing and children's wear in about three seasons.

The 38-year-old Drexler was merchandise manager for a chain store in New England when he met Fayazi, 29, daughter of a wealthy Iranian builder, in a showroom where she worked in New York's garment district nine years ago.

Scion of an aristocratic Iranian family dotted with poets, painters and scholars (her uncle is Iran's minister of finance), Fayazi was the black sheep.

She'd been groomed to be a doctor like her older sister, but she wanted to design.

"My father said, 'You want to be a tailor?'" Fayazi recalls.

She persuaded him to send her to New York, where her sister attended school. She stayed, went to a fashion institute, got a job in the garment district and met Drexler.

For him, it was love at first sight.

She was more reserved.

"I was a garment center hitter from the Bronx," says Drexler. Mimi changed him. "She molded me like she does with fabric. Until I met her, my life was mundane."

The Moslem from Iran and the Jew from the Bronx became friends, lovers, marriage partners. They have a daughter, Nicole, 7, who, they boast, speaks four languages.

Mimi began designing in New York shortly after their marriage.

"The buyers looked, loved it and knocked it off jn cheaper versions," Drexler says. Frustrated, the pair left New York for Europe, then Africa. When they returned to this country after months of travel, they moved to Los Angeles. Mimi started designing again.

She began with skirts, reviving the tuck and the pleat.

"Everybody made fun of me," she says.

"People said we were crazy," Richard adds. "We said, 'You're crazy.'

"The stuff we did two years ago people are doing now. We've got a collection in the warehouse they (the buyers) won't be ready for for another two years."

Fayazi gazes at her current line, hanging on two racks. "I've been doing exactly this for two years now but none of the buyers would buy it."

Designer Mimi Fayazi, right, with husband-business partner Richard Drexler have built a business that made $2 million in sales in the last 19 months.

"I wanted to do Persian lamb last year but my problem is always the buyer. I had to train them."

Pants are not part of her collection.

"I haven't put on a pair of pants in four years. Women are becoming feminine again. They are coming out of pants."

Good diet stressed for pregnant women

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

The months of pregnancy may be the most important period of life for producing long-lasting effects on the human body.

The mother's prenatal nutrition is vital to both the mother and baby, and fetal growth and development can be measured in direct correlation.

Recent research showed that mothers who began their pregnancy when underweight and kept a very low prenatal gain delivered babies with disproportionately low weights for some vital organs, and smaller cells in the liver and adrenal glands.

There is little doubt that the undernutritional state of the mother produces placental and fetal growth failure and retarded cell growth in many organs, especially the brain.

Pregnant adolescent girls may be especially vulnerable to undernutrition since their own energy and growth requirements must be added to that of the fetus.

The need for supplementation and a correct diet is vital. Not only are the teen-age mother's physical nutritional needs increased, but emotional factors can add stress that can impair nutrient metabolism. The adolescent years are full of emotional turmoil and hormone changes, and when pregnancy is added, undernutrition can easily occur.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband had polio as a child. He's been confined to a wheelchair for nearly 30 years, but can do everything an able-bodied man can do—except walk. Now for my pet peeve:

When we are in a restaurant, a well-meaning but thoughtless waitress invariably turns to me and asks, "And what will HE have?"

This has happened to me so often that I now have a standard reply: "He is perfectly capable of telling you. Why don't you ask him?"

Abby, it is amazing the number of people who assume that because someone is in a wheelchair, he is completely helpless and unable to communicate.

Please print my letter. It might wake up some folks who think a physically handicapped person can neither think nor speak for himself. Thank you!—FED UP

DEAR FED UP: Your message is an important one. And while we're on the subject of showing consideration for the physically handicapped, when you are speaking to someone in a wheelchair for more than a minute, please draw up a chair and sit down so that you will both be on the same eye level. Forcing him to look up at you gives him a pain in the neck. Literally!

DEAR ABBY: I'm an orchestra director who frequently gets requests to play a number in honor of a wedding anniversary. I always get a laugh when on the occasion of the first wedding anniversary I play, "Night and Day."

For the fifth anniversary, I play, "Saturday Night."

For the 10th anniversary, I play, "Once in a While."

For the 25th anniversary, I play, "Now and Then."

What do you suggest for anniversaries over 50?—OPEN TO SUGGESTIONS

DEAR OPEN: How about, "We Did It Before and We Can Do It Again"?

DEAR ABBY: The letter from HAD, who ordered and paid $5 for "grass" and in return received lawn clippings, was hilarious.

It reminded me of another ad, years ago, to "Send $1 for the secret of success." Those responding received a fishhook with the advice, "Catch suckers like we do."—CONVULSED

CONFIDENTIAL TO ALICE: Don't marry a drinking man. A man who won't stay sober for his sweetheart would never stay sober for his wife.

Thrifty player keeps wolf away

Opening lead — ♣ 4

A stingy player wins the first trick with the queen of clubs and cashes the king and queen of spades. When the spades break badly, our frugal fellow feels forlorn. Where does he go from here to make nine tricks.

EXTRA CHANGE

Ogust cashed the king of spades and overtook the queen with dummy's ace. If both opponents followed, he would lead a third spade to set up the rest of dummy's suit. The ace of clubs would be an entry, and he would win five spades, two clubs and the two red aces.

When spades broke badly, Ogust was in position to try the diamonds as his extra chance. He led the ten of diamonds from dummy for a finesse. It didn't matter whether or not East covered the ten. South could get back to dummy with the ace of clubs for another diamond finesse if necessary, and could thus be sure of four diamonds, two spades, two clubs and the ace of hearts.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: S-J1084; H-9; D-K62; C-K10643. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. The suit is weak, but most experts believe in responding with one of a suit with a weak holding provided that the hand as a whole is strong enough for a response.

Population remains problem in nation

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A well known reproductive biologist says Americans and their lawmakers have been lulled into a false sense of security about the population explosion.

"The essential problem facing us is the reality of a world of four billion people which will double in 35 years and, if unchecked, within a century will be at least seven times greater than today," said Dr. Roy O. Greep, Harvard University, at the annual meeting of the Society for the Study of Reproduction, meeting at the University of Texas.

Greep said many apparently feel the population explosion, if not over, is at least a problem belonging to other areas of the world, not the U.S.

Explorers scheduled

CONCHO TRY

Fisher-Webb, Inc., Abilene, No. 1 Sims, is slated as a 3,608-foot prospector in Concho, 1¼ mile southeast of the Paint Rock, West (Strawn) field.

MENARD PROSPECTORS

Petrotex Oil & Gas, Inc., Cross Plains, accounted for two shallow tests in Menard.

The ventures are slated for a bottom depth of 2,100 feet, and are to be drilled about six miles northeast of Menard.

No. 1 Joe Anne Potts, 467 feet from north and east lines of Louis J. Deckes survey 18, abstract 922.

TERRELL OFFSET

Napeco, Inc., Houston, has scheduled as a 13,200-foot wildcat its No. 1-A Allison, northwest offset to its No. 1 Rashap, North Terrell County recent Pennsylvanian gas strike.

No. 1-A Spots 1,140 feet from south and 800 feet from east lines of section 21, block A-4, J. M. Anderson survey, abstract 2164, 36 miles northeast of Dryden.

The discovery finaled last week for 600,000 cubic feet of gas daily, through perforations at 10,488-10,507 feet.

DESPITE THE futuristic-looking outfit, he's no spaceman. Framed in his own lifeline, he is testing protective clothing at the Tenneco Oil Co. refinery in Chalmette, La. The outfit would enable him to cope safely with any plant emergency involving acid.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Natural gas customers in Austin, San Antonio and the Lower Colorado River Authority system had to pay $600 million more the past four years than their original contracts with Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. called far.

That was the testimony Thursday in the first phase of a hearing before the Railroad Commission to determine a permanent natural gas rate for Lo-Vaca. The hearing began July 28.

The second phase of the hearing begins Aug. 29.

Under a September 1973 interim order by the commission Lo-Vaca was authorized to pass on 100 per cent of its cost of gas regardless of the original contracts signed with its customers. It also can add a 5 cents per thousand cubic feet (mcf) transportation fee.

Lo-Vaca wants to continue the 100 per cent pass-through plus 16.7 cents per mcf.

Howard Freeman, assistant general manager for finance and administration for San Antonio's City Public Service Board, testified Thursday that the board claimed refunds from Lo-Vaca and its parent company, Coastal States Gas Producing Co., of $354,718,555. He said that was the difference between the price paid for gas after the September 1973 order and the price specified in San Antonio's contract.

Doughty Miller, LCRA director of finance, said the difference paid by the LCRA was $123,112,038.

R.L. Hancock, Austin's director of electricity utilities, said the difference between billings to the city and the cost under terms of Austin's contract was $126,338,115.

The customers generally contended that Lo-Vaca and Coastal States are not due any rate increase because of past mismanagement and past concern with profits to the detriment of adequately serving long term customers.

The company contends the increase is necessary for it to be able to bid competitively for gas supplies, continue exploration for gas and to fund storage and pipeline construction projects.

Lo-Vaca President William E. Greehey testified earlier that if it had not been for the commission's 1973 order, the Lo-Vaca system could not have continued in business.

Conference dates told

SAN ANTONIO — A two-day National Energy Conference on coal and solar energy will be included in activities marking the dedication of San Antonio's coal-fired electrical generating plant and Trinity University's solar energy installation.

The five-day event, which is being co-sponsored by Trinity University, City Public Service Board and San Antonio Economic Development Foundation, will be Aug. 30-Sept. 3.

Dean Bruce Thomas, acting Trinity University president, said the National Enegy Conference, Sept. 1-3, will feature an array of nationally-known authorities on solar and coal energy, including officials from the Energy Research and Development Administration.

Subject matter will range from how to design structures to accomodate solar technology to what to expect in the future from coal gasification developments.

The conference will be held on the Trinity University Campus.

The new coal plant will supply 60 per cent of future energy needs for the nation's 10th largest city, reducing to minimal extent San Antonio's dependency on natural gas for electrical power.

Alaska oil shipments prove real challenge for Coast Guard system

By L. Edgar Prina
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — When the 120,000-ton tanker Arco Juneau, loaded with the first batch of Alaskan North Slope oil, steamed out of Valdez Harbor, one could almost hear the pressure shifting from the pipeline builders to the U.S. Coast Guard.

This was so because once the giant ship and its 840,000-barrel cargo got under way, it triggered the first real test of a new multimillion-dollar Coast Guard maritime safety system that was nearly five years in the planning.

Coast Guard officers in the field and at headquarters here are confident they have the overall system that will greatly reduce the dangers of collisions or other accidents at sea which would result in loss of life and property or in high-polluting oil spills.

They are relying on the combination of a new vessel traffic system (VTS) at Valdez and an expanded Loran-C radio-navigation network covering the U.S. West Coast and Gulf of Alaska areas.

Of course, the professionalism and skills of the ships' masters and crews and the pilots who help guide them into and out of the Valdez Arm and Narrows are of ultimate importance.

Here, too, the Coast Guard lived up to its semper paratus (always ready) motto with a training program for pilots and ships' masters who took the Arco Juneau and other tankers on repeated runs through Prince William Sound into and out of Valdez Harbor.

During these trials, an extensive review of navigational systems and communications, including a check of visual aids, ship- and shore-based radar and Loran-C, was conducted. To do this, the Coast Guard put navigation teams aboard the tankers and installed temporary radar and communications facilities at Potato Point and in Valdez.

As of today, the trans-Alaska pipeline fleet will consist of 57 tankers, running from 50,000 to 265,000 deadweight tons (DWT).

Forty will be in the 50,000 to 80,000 DWT category; eight will run 115,000 and nine over 165,000.

According to the Coast Guard, a 165,000-ton tanker will take approximately two days to load at Valdez. If its destination is Long Beach, Calif., the voyage will take five days. With two more days for discharge, the round-trip mission will take two weeks.

The Coast Guard will be "with" the ships every mile of the way with VTS and Loran-C.

The Ports and Waterways Act of 1972, the need for which was dramatized by the collision of two tankers and the spillage of 800,000 gallons of oil in San Francisco Bay in 1971, authorized the Coast Guard to establish vessel traffic services for ports, harbors and other congested waters.

It was a long overdue step and not every major American port and harbor are yet covered. According to government statistics, the number of collisions and groundings in American waters rose from 1,185 in fiscal 1965 to 1,918 10 years later.

Rear Adm. Anthony F. Fugaro, chief of the Office of Marine Environment and Systems at Coast Guard headquarters, says reported losses to ships, cargo and property from these casualties rose from $33 million to $103 million.

The actual losses, however, were probably several times as large because of unreported casualties and underestimates of the losses for those that were reported, he said.

"During the calendar years 1971 through 1975, there was an annual average of 170 polluting incidents caused by collisions and groundings which spilled an annual average of 5.3 million gallons of pollutants into U.S. waters," he said.

Congress, accordingly, amended the Ports and Waterways Safety Act to require the Coast Guard to establish a vessel traffic service for Prince William Sound and Valdez.

The area of the sound, which runs into what is known as Valdez Arm, Valdez Narrows and, finally, the Port of Valdez, is comprised of deep, open waterways surrounded by mountainous terrain.

The only constrictions to navigation are at Cape Hinchinbrook, the primary entrance to the sound, and at the narrows. The area is subjected to restricted visibility of less than two miles about half the time, due to rain, fog and snow.

Congressional adviser says best bet ignored

By TIM SHEPPARD
Copley News Service

A science adviser to Congress and the White House accuses the agency charged with developing new energy sources with ignoring the solution to U.S. energy problems.

"It's obvious that methanol (wood alcohol) is the solution," said Dr. William A. Nierenberg, director of Scripps Institution of Oceanography. "It is abundant, nonpolluting and renewable, but it is being ignored."

Nierenberg, a member of the National Science Board and a former assistant to President Ford's science adviser, said that key members of Congress have been unable to get the U.S. Energy Research and Development Administration to develop the use of methanol as the alternative to petroleum.

"ERDA turns down everything if it is useful," said Nierenberg in an interview.

Nierenberg has long been an advocate of developing methanol as the alternative to the world's fast-declining sources of oil and gas. As the senior adviser to the Office of Science and Technology of the White House he testified to various congressional committees on the importance of getting away from oil and into a methanol economy.

"Congress is for it," said Nierenberg. "It just can't get ERDA to do anything."

Nierenberg said the technology is available and that the economics are favorable for developing methanol as a major source of energy.

Although methanol is known as wood alcohol, it can be made from any agricultural waste products, coal and natural gas.

"It is about as clean as any fuel you can get," said Nierenberg. "When you make it from coal or natural gas it has far less hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions than oil."

The science adviser said that methanol also offers a great opportunity of getting rid of some of the world's increasing carbon dioxide which threatens to cause a "greenhouse effect."

A team of scientists recently warned that unless the world turns away from the burning of coal and petroleum products that carbon dioxide will cause the weather to warm drastically.

"If you use trees and agricultural products to make methanol this will help solve the CO2 (carbon dioxide) problem," said Nierenberg. "The forests and plants feed on CO2. They help soak it up."

Nierenberg said he was encouraged by some recent developments in the use of methanol.

"The California Energy Commission, particularly Commissioner Alan Pasternak, should be praised for trying to get California utilities to use methanol in place of oil in their power plants," said Nierenberg.

Discovery completes

American Quasar Petroleum Co., operating from Midland, has announced completion of a Delaware sand gas discovery in Culberson County, 18 miles southwest of Orla.

The well, No. 1-32-D State, was completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 53,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 2,586 to 2,668 feet.

The pay zone was treated with 2,000 gallons of acid and 8,000 gallons of fracture solution.

The Lamar lime was topped at 2,586 feet and the Delaware sand was entered at 2,656 feet. Kelly bushing elevation is 3,297 feet.

Canyon well potentials

Fortune Drilling Co., Inc., of San Angelo No. 3-7 Murphey has been completed in the Mertzon (Canyon) field of Irion County.

The fifth well in the field, it potentialed for a daily flowing potential of 51.7 barrels of 44.6-gravity oil, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 6,908 to 7,003 feet.

The well is one location southeast of other production and 2,173 feet from north and 2,055 feet from east lines of section 7, San Antonio Ditch Co. survey. It is nine miles southwest of Mertzon.

Employment hinged on three-year plan

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Labor Department this week announced plans to require federal contractors to hire more women in carpentry, bricklaying, cement masonry and other construction jobs traditionally held by men.

The department proposed a three-year timetable that would require contractors doing federally assisted construction work — an estimated 25 per cent of the industry's business — to hire women for a minimum of 3.1 per cent of their workforce in the first year after the proposal became effective and 6.9 per cent in the third year.

Women now hold 1.2 per cent of the jobs in the nation's construction industry, which employs 3.9 million people.

The department will receive comment on the proposed regulations for 45 days. After that, the regulations would be implemented, possibly with revisions.

Labor Department officials said the proposed requirements would help standardize regulations and eliminate confusion about the government's standards for hiring women in construction.

Construction union officials were not immediately available for comment on the proposed regulations.

"American women, like all other Americans, are entitled to equal employment opportunities regardless of race, color, creed or national origin. AGCA will continue its efforts to make construction opportunities available to all Americans and will continue to work cooperatively with the U.S. Department of Labor and all others towards the realization of that objective."

Government service offers data

By JOANNE OMANG
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Some scientist somewhere has probably worked sometime on a problem you've got. If you only knew where to locate his report you'd be all set. The place to look is in a government agency most Americans have never heard of: the National Technical Information Service.

Nearly everything learned by thousands of scientists whose work was supported by public funds is stored there, catalogued and cross-indexed and available for a fee to anybody. Some NTIS users, however, complain that what they need is hard to find, expensive or tells them more about the subject than they care to know.

"You can ask them a question and come out of there with a stack of paper six feet high," said Robert Havelick, senior vice president of Public Technology Inc., another scientific information service. "There's very little selectivity."

NTIS stores nearly every scientific advance, analysis, invention or discovery made with federal money and reduced to print or film since 1950s. The reports make up nearly 1 million titles, half again more than the United States published industry has ever produced.

Last year $45 billion was spent on research in this country. Twenty-six billion dollars or 58 per cent of it was funded by the federal government, either directly or indirectly through grants. The stack of reports grows at the rate of a new document every two minutes of the working day.

"Nobody has any idea how much of a resource we are," said director William Knox. "We have it all, organized and available on computer printouts to anybody who wants it. Nothing is ever out of print, and we take American Express."

A $15-million-a-year branch of the Commerce Department, NTIS is the only government agency that is self supporting. It runs advertising campaigns to promote its services, talks of "products" and "best sellers" and employs traveling salesmen worldwide in 19 agencies on contract agreements. The product they're peddling is information.

"We get publications on coal combustion and nuclear power," while "various other fields" are covered in NTIS subscriptions sent directly to the Tokyo office, said Kazuo Suzuki, first secretary at the Japanese embassy.

If Klaus Wiendieck, the West German scientific attache, had difficulty placing NTIS — "That's with the Smithsonian, isn't it? — his government is still one of NTIS' biggest buyers, according to Knox.

So many foreign firms and goverments use NTIS that Knox sought legislation last year to permit the copyrighting of NTIS catalogues, abstracts and recent publication bulletins "to give us greater control over foreign use and possible abuse of American technical information."

The move was defeated in controversy over the implications for press and information freedoms of allowing the government to copyright any documents. However, the bill is expected to be resubmitted this year.

"We just don't handle stuff like the Pentagon Papers," Knox said, referring to the 1971 publication of secret Vietnam material. "We're talking just about technical data."

National security technology or scientific secrets are withheld by the 350 government agencies that contribute to the NTIS computers, Knox explained. But what they do contribute is often used abroad to help foreign businesses compete with American ones. Although U.S. aid programs regularly try to develop industries in poorer countries, suing NTIS services, foreign competition in U.S. markets is under increasing attack in Congress.

Still, the majority of NTIS' 150,000 regular customers are U.S. businesses, local and state governments, universities and research organizations. NTIS ships 19,000 items of information to them every day on microfilm and paper.

To help customers find what they want and keep up with developments in their fields, there are weekly newsletters in 26 fields summarizing the newest reports in each in administration, chemistry, computers, library sciences and transportation, for example.

There are "tech notes" in 11 subjects that spotlight new inventions, while subscribers may place standing orders for microfilmed full texts of reports in their fields. For $100, anyone can order a search by computer for nearly anything ever learned in a particular area, "on a subject as specific as they want to make it," Knox said.

The problem with those who complain they can't find what they want or they get loads of junk with the useful data, he added, "is that a lot of people don't define their questions very precisely."

Oddly, individual scientists themselves are not among the major users of NTIS.

Liquefied natural gas cargoes produce debate

By JOANNE OMANG
The Washington Post

EVERETT, Mass. — The Coast Guard cutter's loudspeaker boomed angrily over Boston Harbor: "Move clear of that ship! Get back! Get back!"

A 32-foot launch had chugged to within one-quarter of a mile of the tanker Descartes and its cargo of liquefied natural gas. That was too close for the Coast Guard's liking.

Liquefied natural gas (LNG) makes people nervous, although the industry says such fear is ridiculous.

The debate centers on whether the tankers are floating bombs capable of nuclear-style devastation or a crucial part of the nation's energy supply picture that careful handling renders as safe as any other fuel.

The controversy is being made real here at the Distrigas Corp. LNG import terminal, the nation's only one so far, and is sure to intensify as imports increase and more terminals are built.

A $350 million terminal at Cove Point, Md., scheduled to become operational early next year, will be considerably larger than the Distrigas terminal, which cost about $28 million and receives a tanker from Algerian gas wells about once a month. Cove Point will unload a ship every 2 1-2 days.

Cove Point will be the nation's first "base-load" LNG terminal, importing 1 per cent of the country's entire natural gas need. The Distrigas Corp. terminal here is a "peakload" terminal, pumping gas into the mains only when demand is high.

Both plants use the newest technology in handling supercooled material, called cryogenics. LNG is ordinary cooking and heating gas chilled to minus-260 degrees Fahrenheit so it becomes a liquid. At that temperature, LNG takes up 1-600th of the space it does as a gas and shipping it becomes economical, if not necessarily easy.

Gas coming here first is cooled in Algerian plants that cost as much as $850 million each and then sent over in sophisticated, highly insulated ships that, with the exception of aircraft carriers, are the most expensive vessels on earth. With their network of pipes and pumps and tanks, the ships can cost $180 million each.

The Descartes, a 722-foot, French-built ship and one of 32 such tankers in existence, was carrying 50,000 cubic meters of LNG when it appeared out of the fog to enter Boston Harbor. That amount is enough to supply a town of 30,000 persons for a full year.

The Descartes' arrival was several days later than originally scheduled, and the fog fouled the schedule further. With one ship a month, such a delays are small problems, but Cove Point scheduling will have to be much tighter to keep traffic flowing, according to Lt. Steve Poole, Coast Guard port safety-watch officer.

Council may aid city arts funds

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Big cities, which spent as much as $145 million of their own scarce money on the arts last year, may be getting considerably more help from the federal government soon.

The National Council on the Arts took a first step in that direction last week after being told by the staff of the National Endowment for the Arts that the rapid proliferation of local arts agencies has created such a need.

The council, which includes many famous names in the arts and philantrophy, is an advisory board to the endowment.

If the subsidy proposal goes into effect, it would be the first time the endowment has contributed to communities' art operating costs and given the cities discretion over how to spend the money. The endowment has given money on a similar basis to the states for 10 years.

Figures in this area are elusive, but local arts expenditures are already estimated by the endowment staff virtually to equal state and federal contributions combined.

In some cases the municipal burden far exceeds the state's. In Pennsylvania, for instance, Philadelphia last year budgeted $18 million for the arts while the state appropriated only $1.6 million, and the state had federal help.

Henry Putsch, who runs the endowment's Office of Federal-State Partnership, said Friday that the cities' councils now operate on an ad-hoc basis. He appealed to the council to "recognize what is happening at the local level and get a handle on it while we still can."

Pressures for help have been growing from the municipalities because many of them are in severe financial straits. Their spokesman, John Blaine, director of the Seattle Arts Commission, declard that local government arts financing "has rached the point where we must decide if we are going to work with the federal government or whether we leave them alone."

After about four hours of testimony and discussion, the council instructed the endowment staff to prepare a detailed proposal on which the council could vote by its November meeting. Included would be such issues as eligibility, the extent of the federal contribution and control, and the range of programs that might be included.

This financial relationship with communities would supplement the existing arts spending partnership between the endowment and state arts councils. Since its inception in 1967 the endowment has poured about $100 million into state programs. State appropriations also have risen from $4.8 million in fiscal 1967 to a projected $70 million in fiscal 1978.

Meanwhile, it may well be that local expenditures have been growing at an even faster pace, without federal aid. The endowment says that governmental financing of the arts is now in the range of 1300 million yearly — with $85 million from the endowment, $70 million from the states, and the rest from localities. Their figure is somewhat complicated, however, by the fact that municipalities have received federal grants for special programs in the past, and also by the exclusion from this figure of money from the Labor Department, the General Services Administration, the Commerce Department and The Department of Health, Education and Welfare that might be construed as arts financing.

The need for financial relief is probably greatest in the financially beleaguered cultural centers of the East. But the intensive municipal investment in the arts seems to be happening all over the nation.

Rural photos compose UT museum exhibit

AUSTIN — More than 300 photographs depicting daily activities of residents of the largely rural area of Grimes County in southeast Texas make up a new exhibit in The University of Texas Art Museum here. The show will remain on view through Sept. 25.

The photographic studies are by the professional team of Frederick Baldwin and Wendy Watriss who currently are involved in an in-depth study of the social history of four Texas counties representing different geographic and cultural frontiers in the development of the state. In addition to Grimes County, the photographers plan similar studies of Gillespie County in Central Texas, Hildalgo County in south Texas and Presidio County in far West Texas.

Grimes County, in the heart of what is sometimes called the "Old South" of Texas, is peopled by the descendants of Anglo-American plantation owners, slaves, German and Polish farm immigrants and a growing number of Mexican Americans. Captured in the Baldwin-Watriss studies are photographs pertaining to specific events or places — tenant farmers gathering cotton, an outdoor baptism, a blacksmith at work, high school proms and sports events, political rallies, rodeos and more.

Baldwin and Watriss have been working in Texas for the last several years with the support of grants trom state and national foundations. The two formerly were guest lecturers in the American Studies program at UT and also have been associated with the university's Winedale Museum in Fayette County.

The new photographic display is open to the public at no charge between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. each Monday through Saturday, and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays.

Musician takes image in stride

HONOLULU (AP) — Gabby Pahinui, at 58, is making something of a national name for himself. But after 45 years performing, the Hawaiian singer and slack-key artist is taking it all in stride.

"If this album goes well, maybe we'll do another," he said of his first nationally marketed record. "If not — well, nobody got hurt."

"The Gabby Pahinui Hawaiian Band," a big seller in Hawaii under the Panini label, was released by Warner Bros. in April.

Pahinui said he had no idea how the album would sell on the mainland or if there will be a second. "We'll let Warner Bros. and the public decide," he said.

The album is the result of a nine-day recording session at an isolated house on Hawaii Island in August 1974. Panini released it about a year later, and came out with a second about the same time Warners picked up the firsta

Pahinui, for the session, had assembled seven other musicians, including two of his sons and country-folk artist Ry Cooder, whom he met during a concert appearance in Honolulu.

The Pahinui band features a unique sound of harmonizing slack-key guitars blending with the soulful voice of its leader in an offering of old Hawaiian songs.

Pahinui is unsure why mainlanders would be attracted to his music, but he said it may be a renewed interest in heritage music. And he said he isn't worried about Hawaiian music being classified as country-western and losing its identity. "They aren't going to take the Hawaiian flavor away," he said.

Six Flags concerts planned

ARLINGTON — Two well-known musical groups will present concerts this weekend at Six Flags Over Texas.

K.C. and The Sunshine Band will perform tonight, and Seals & Crofts will play two concerts Saturday. All events will be in the Music Mill Theater at Six Flags Over Texas.

The nine-member K. C. and The Sunshine Band played to an estimated 18,000 people when the ensemble gave a pair of concerts early this month at Six Flags. The ensemble's performances today will be at 7 and 10 p.m.

Seals & Crofts will perform at 7 and 10 p.m. Saturday.

Cubbies crush Diablos, 7-2

EL PASO — With baseball commissioner, Bowie Kuhn among the 8,515 fans in at Dudley Field Thursday night, the Midland Cubs ended their three-game losing streak by thrashing the El Paso Diablos here, 7-2.

The victory was almost a must for the Cubs, who had come to this border city in first place in the Texas League Western Division on Monday, only to drop two games back after El Paso used them for a whipping boy three nights in a row.

But the win here Thursday night moved the Tall City team to within one game of the top spot, and put them even in the loss column with the Diablos.

Randy Martz, the Chicago Cubs' number one draft pick two months ago out of the University of South Carolina, picked up the needed mound victory, his third in five professional decisions. The big righthander scattered 10 hits, while going the distance. He struck out eight.

Ralph Botting, 5-6, was tagged with the loss, leaving the game after 5 ⅔ innings.

The Cubs went out quick again, jumping on Botting for two runs in the second inning. Shortstop Steve Davis walked to lead off the inning, and Aaron Randall and Carlos Lezcano followed with singles. Davis tried to score on Lezcano's safety to center, but was thrown out at the plate. The Midland infielder was also injured in the collision and was forced to leave the game. No report was available on his condition.

Second baseman Kurt Seibert then came through with a run scoring single to right to score Randall, and after Joe Hernandez got on with a bunt single to load the bases, Mike Umfleet walked to force in the Cubs second run.

El Paso tied it with single runs in the third and fourth, but Midland pulled away for good in the sixth with two more. Randall reached on an error and was sacrificed to second by Lezcano. Seibert also got on via an El Paso fielding miscue, and Umfleet followed with a sacrifice fly to center which scored Randall. The throw in from the outfield went wide of third base, and Seibert scored to make it 4-2.

One more run in the eighth, and two more in the ninth gave Martz all the insurance the youngster needed to coast to the victory.

The two clubs close out the five-game set tonight at Dudley Field, and a victory would move the Cubs into a tie for first place.

In other Texas League action Thursday, Shreveport whipped Tulsa, 4-0, and San Antonio edged Amarillo, 3-2. A scheduled double header between Arkansas and Jackson was rained out and the Travelers slid into first place in the Eastern Division by two thousandths of a percentage point over Tulsa.

The victory upped Honeycutt's record to 10-6 while losing pitcher Mike Soroco fell to 4-5.

Marv Webb stroked an RBI double with two outs in the sixth inning to drive in what proved to be the winning run for San Antonio.

Amarillo racked up 13 hits against winning pitcher Dan Smith, 8-2, and reliever Mike Seberger. Losing pitcher Greg Wilkes, 6-8, gave up only seven hits to the Dodgers.

Midland opens big homestand

The Midland Cubs, who took over first place in the Texas League's Western Division, and then forfeited it to El Paso earlier this week, return home Saturday to open an important 10-game homestand with Amarillo and the Diablos.

It's been a difficult week for the Tall City club. They entered their current five-game set with El Paso a full game in first after sweeping nine of their last 10 games.

But in the first three games of the series played before packed houses at El Paso's Dudley Field, the Diablos unleashed some heavy artillery, scoring 25 runs and winning all three contests to replace the Cubs atop the standings. But Midland battled back to take Thursday's fourth meeting between the teams, and now trails by just one game, and is even with El Paso in the loss column.

The Cubs have had their ups and downs with Amarillo, who open the nearly two week homestand Saturday night in Cubs Stadium. It was the Gold Sox who were most responsible for Midland's demise in the first half race, as the Panhandle City club was one of the few TL teams to have continuous success against the Cubs.

But the second half has been an entirely different story, and Midland has been using them as a whipping boy of late, taking five in a row from their northern neighbors before moving on to El Paso.

The Gold Sox have been having their problems, but they are still capable of playing the spoiler in the waning weeks of the season. They are led by former major leaguer Ivan Murrell, who is hitting .340 with 18 home runs and 79 RBIs, and Broderick Perkins, who is also hitting near the .340 mark.

The Gold Sox' downfall has been their inability in the pitching department. With the exception of ace reliever Mark Lee, the Sox hurlers have been belted around by every club in the league.

The Cubs' pitching on the other hand, has been one of their many bright spots in the past few weeks. Starters Darrell Turner (12-6), Jack Ledbetter (11-7), Andy Muhlstock (10-4), Randy Martz (2-2) and Jeff Albert (6-11) lead the league in complete games (34).

There are several promo nights planned for the 10-game homestand by the Cub organization. Saturday will be "Two-bit Hot Dog Night" at Cubs Stadium, while all senior citizens will be admitted to Sunday, Monday and Tuesday night's games for only 75 cents.

No kick in Dolphins

DALLAS (AP)—The Miami Dolphins may have no kick coming, literally, when they meet the Dallas Cowboys Saturday night in a National Football League preseason game in Texas Stadium.

Both placekickers, veteran Garo Yepremian and fifth round draft pick Mike Michel have pulled leg muscles and will not be available.

So where does Coach Don Shula go for help?

Rookie A.J. Duhe plans to kickoff although he says he has a sore leg.

Strock will start at quarterback in place of Bob Griese and go most of the way in the game which is expected to draw some 50,000 to 55,000.

Shula also plans to start veteran Dick Anderson at strong safety for the second straight week. Anderson missed all of the 1975 season and most of last year because of knee surgery.

"I'll give him plenty of work so he can prove he can play," says Shula.

The Cowboys, who were upset last week by Seattle, will be led by No.1 quarterback Roger Staubach who will play the first half and backup Danny White, who will go all the way in the second half.

One of the big question marks is whether million dollar rookie Tony Dorsett will play. He missed last week with a sore knee.

Clinic slated Saturday

BIG SPRING—Big Spring High School will host the Texas Volleyball Officials Clinic Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Vocational Agriculture classroom.

Linda Fletcher of Austin will conduct the clinic.

The clinic will go over volleyball rules and instruction will be given to those interested in becoming volleyball officials. Official certification will also be made at the meeting.

Ice star arrested

Ailing North, Barber leading Westchester

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Andy North has a bad back. It hurts. Badly, at times.

And he loves it.

"I hope it keeps on hurting," North said after tying for the first-round lead Thursday in the $300,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

"Hopefully, it won't get any better at all.

"It's funny, but for the last three weeks it didn't hurt at all. And I played horrible. Missed the cut in all three tournaments.

"This week it's hurting again. Kind of like a bruise. And everything on the golf course just went right. I really think it helped. With the back hurting, I didn't try to hit the ball hard, just bunt it around and keep it in play."

He didn't make a bogey and finished his trip over the hilly, 6,603-yard Westchester Country Club course with an eagle three. That gave him a five-under-par 66 and a share of the lead with 46-year-old Miller Barber.

They had a one-stroke edge over former Masters champion Charles Coody, Howard Twitty and Grier Jones, tied at 67. The group at 68 included Rod Curl, Bill Mallon, Eddie Pearce, Tom Jenkins, Jim Wiechers and Bobby Wadkins, the younger brother of new PGA winner Lanny Wadkins.

While the gangling, 6-foot-4 North happily reported that "everything worked out," very little seemed to work for the game's more glamorous names.

Jack Nicklaus, complaining of being tired and admitting to a letdown in the wake of the PGA, had to birdie three of his last four holes for a par 71 and said he "was probably fortunate to do that."

Tom Weiskopf, with a triple bogey seven on the eighth hole, and Tom Watson, winner of the Masters and British Opens, also were at 71, five shots back and trailing more than two dozen players.

Defending champion David Graham had a 72, Johnny Miller 73, Ben Crenshaw and Hale Irwin 74, PGA champion Wadkins 75 and Gene Littler, a playoff loser in the PGA, a 77.

Barber, winner of more than $1 million and nine tour titles, said "it's easy to play good when you drive it in the fairway. I drove it out of the fairway only once. It was a good, solid round for me, the kind I like to play."

He missed only one green and made bogey there, but said, "I made a lot of those sixto-eight footers."

He also holed a 20-footer on his 17th and chipped to one foot on 18 for a birdie-birdie finish that lifted him into a share of the top spot.

Leonard's slider massacres Tribe

By The Associated Press

Now that Dennis Leonard's slider is finally sliding, the Kansas City Royals aren't.

Instead, the Royals have come alive after a so-so first half and are part of a torrid four-team race as they attempt to defend their title in the American League West.

Leonard hurled a four-hitter for his seventh victory in his last eight decisions Thursday night and boosted his record to 13-10 as the Royals blanked the Cleveland Indians 4-0. The hard-throwing right-hander walked one, struck out six and allowed only three runners to reach second base.

Leonard was struggling along at 3-8 and the Royals were struggling with him when Manager Whitey Herzog told him to make the slider a large part of his repertoire following a 10-1 battering in Boston on May 27.

"As soon as he started throwing the slider it gave him better command of his curve ball," Herzog said. "When he started throwing the slider it was the turning point in the season for him."

Red Sox 8, Brewers 4

George Scott drilled four hits, including a pair of two-run singles, and scored twice to lead Boston to its 17th victory in 19 games. Ferguson Jenkins was tagged for six hits and four runs in the first two innings and then allowed just three hits the rest of the way, retiring 16 batters in a row during one stretch.

The Red Sox overcame a 4-3 deficit in the third inning on singles by Steve Dillard and Jim Rice, a fielder's choice and Scott's second two-run single. A double by Scott, a single by Butch Hobson and a walk set up three insurance runs in the eighth.

Yankees 5, Tigers 4

Mickey Rivers put New York ahead with a two-run single in the seventh inning and then scored what proved to be the winning run on Lou Piniella's single. Jason Thompson's tremendous two-run blast, only the 14th homer ever hit over the Tiger Stadium roof and the first in eight years, had given Detroit a 3-2 lead in the sixth against winner Catfish Hunter.

Graig Nettles and Willie Randolph, who started a two-run fifth inning with singles, again singled off loser Jim Crawford in the three-run seventh and a strong relief job by Sparky Lyle nailed down the Yankees' fifth consecutive triumph and 10th in the last 11 games.

Rangers 8, Blue Jays 0

Dock Ellis shackled Toronto on three hits and Toby Harrah and Bump Wills slammed home runs to keep the Rangers in first place in the AL West by one-half game over Minnesota and Chicago. Ellis retired 18 batters in a row over one stretch as the Rangers rolled to their 30th victory in the last 39 games. They are 34-15 under Manager Billy Hunter.

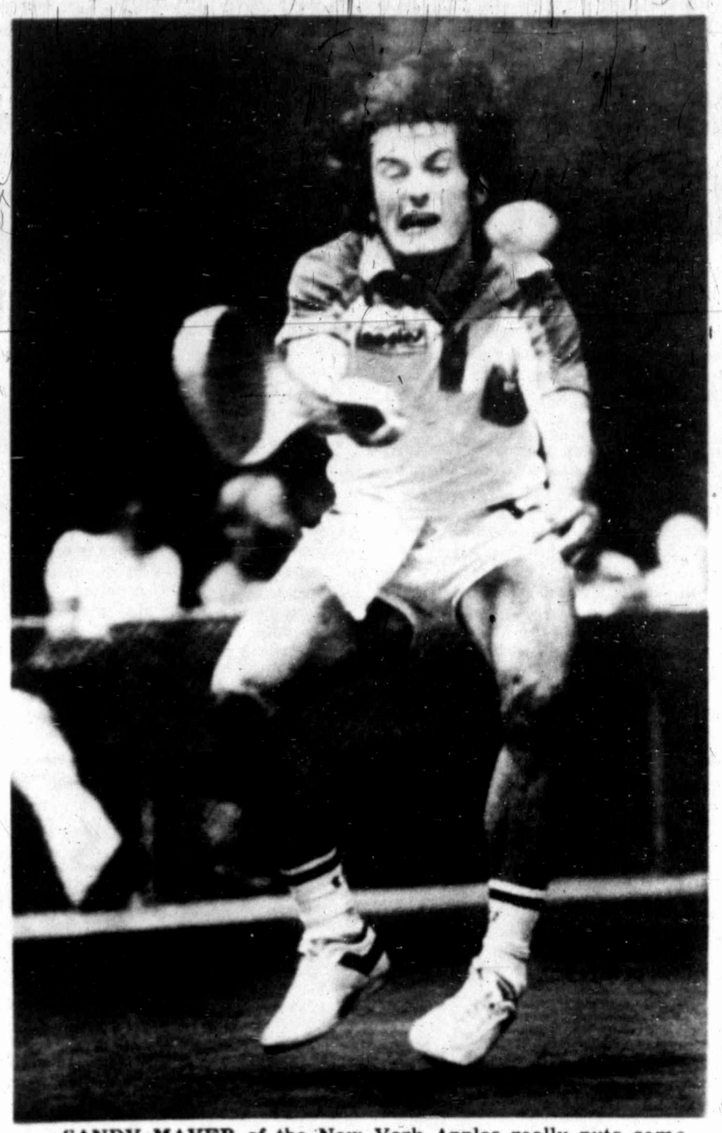

Twins 8, Mariners 2

Topping murdered

MIAMI (AP) — Robert Reed Topping, the son of former New York Yankees owner Dan Topping Sr., was stabbed to death and his body thrown from an auto shortly after he arrived here to buy drugs, say police.

Barry Adler, 18, was charged with first-degree murder, robbery and kidnaping in connection with the case.

SANDY MAYER of the New York Apples really puts some feeling into his shot as he smashes a return to Vitas Gerulaitis in the men's singles of the World Team Tennis playoffs in New York Thursday. Mayer upset Gerulaitis, 6-4, to help the Apples to a 31-15 victory over Indiana. (AP Laserphoto)

Sutton one-hits San Fran, 7-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Sutton doesn't have the reputation of a Don Drysdale or a Sandy Koufax but the numbers show that the 32-year-old Los Angeles right-hander is one of the finest pitchers in Dodger history.

One thing Sutton hasn't done during his outstanding career is pitch a no-hitter. He just missed accomplishing that feat Thursday afternoon but even so his name entered the record book.

Sutton, 11-7, allowed only one hit — Marc Hill's clean single with two out in the eighth inning — as the Dodgers whipped the San Francisco Giants 7-0 and raised their lead in the National League West to 12 games over idle Cincinnati.

The one-hitter, in which he walked four and fanned five, was the fifth of Sutton's career, tying the NL record. The triumph raised Sutton's career mark to 187-143 and tied him with Drysdale for the Los Angeles team record for victories.

In addition, it was the 46th shutout of Sutton's career, tops among active major league pitchers.

Dave Lopes staked the Dodgers to a 3-0 lead in the second inning with a three-run homer off Jim Barr and Reggie Smith hit his 22nd homer in the third.

Phillies 8, Expos 3

Richie Hebner socked his first major league grand slam homer in the fifth inning to erase a 3-2 Montreal lead. Hebner, who grounded out and fouled out with runners in scoring position earlier, smashed ex-Phillie Wayne Twitchell's first pitch into the right field stands for his 14th home run of the season.

Bake Mcbride also homered for the Phils while Jim Lonborg limited Montreal to five hits and also drilled a run-scoring single. Andre Dawson hit a three-run homer for Montreal.

Pirates 7, Cubs 6

Al Oliver, Dave Parker, Phil Garner and Bill Robinson all smashed home runs into a 17- mile-an-hour wind. Three of the homers came off loser Ray Burris while Robinson's was hit off Pete Broberg.

The Cubs jumped to a 2-0 lead against winner Jerry Reuss in the first inning but Oliver homered in the second, Parker tied the game by leading off the fourth with his homer and the Pirates went ahead to stay with three runs in the fifth.

Omar Moreno singled, stole second and went to third on an infield out. Frank Taveras struck out, but the pitch got away from catcher George Mitterwald for a passed ball and Moreno scored as Taveras reached first. Garner followed with his homer.

Defeat no surprise to rusty Rosie

TORONTO (AP) — The Canadian Open tennis championships are a little like a dose of castor oil for Rosie Casals of the United States.

She didn't want to come to Toronto but she knew she had to get some match play outdoors on clay before the U.S. Open at Forest Hills, N.Y., begins later this month. After spending the summer playing indoors on a fast carpet with Los Angeles Strings of World Team Tennis, her game was rusty.

So it wasn't exactly a surprise to the San Francisco native when she lost 6-4, 7-5 in wind in the women's quarter-finals Thursday to 19-year-old Marise Kruger of South Africa.

Ms. Casals, seeded No. 1, double faulted at match point.

"It was a drastic adjustment coming onto slow courts after that fast carpet," Ms. Casals said. "I had trouble with my serve and Marise was making good ground strokes."

Although she played her last WTT match Sunday, Ms. Casals had two relatively easy victories this week. She eliminated Australian Helen Cawley 6-2, 6-3 on Wednesday and Thursday morning, the American beat Ilana Kloss, another South African, 6-2, 7-5.

The Casals' defeat stripped the $160,000 tournament of its last female seed. Earlier in the day, the only other surviving seed, No. 8 Yvonne Vermaak of South Africa lost 6-4, 1-6, 6-2 to Cynthia Doerner of Australia.

In other women's quarter-finals, Katja Ebbinghaus, the tall, strong West German who ousted No. 4 seed Evonne Goolagong of Australia on Wednesday, lost in three sets to Czech Regina Marsikova 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Today's semifinals will match Jeanne Evert, Chris's younger sister who defeated Uraguay's Fiorella Bonicelli, 6-4, 6-2, against Miss Kruger and Miss Doerner against Miss Marsikova.

Meanwhile, top-seeded Raul Ramirez of Mexico advanced another step with a second-round 3-6, 7-5, 6-4 triumph over Jim Delaney of the United States.

It was the second time this week the 24-year-old Ramirez has been in unexpected difficulty. On Tuesday, in a first-round match that was interrupted four times for heavy rain squalls, he eked out a 2-6, 6-4, 6-1 win over qualifier Alvaro Betancur of Colombia.

Second-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain beat Bolivian Ramiro Benavides 6-1, 6-1 in another second-round match, while third-seeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland topped India's Sashi Menon 6-1, 6-3.

However, Britain's John Lloyd lost 6-3, 6-3 to Colin Dibley of Australia.

The men lost three seeds in second-round play Thursday. No. 5 Corrado Barazzutti of Italy lost 5-7, 6-0, 6-3 to Victor Pecci of Paraguay; No. 10 Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia was beaten 6-7, 6-4, 6-2 by Bob Hewitt of South Africa and No. 16 Bill Scanlon of the United States lost 6-1, 7-6 to Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia.

In second-round men's doubles, the third-seeded team of Fibak and Kodes beat Harry Fritz, a former California resident now living in Toronto, and Dale Power of Toronto 6-2, 7-5.

Bartender withdraws complaint against TD

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas disco bartender has agreed to drop a complaint he had filed against Dallas Cowboy running back Tony Dorsett for slugging him in the eye.

"I was just tired of it. I have better things to do," said bartender Sammy Emerick, who did not know who Dorsett was during the June 20 incident at the No. 3 Lift.

Emerick signed papers in the city prosecutor's office dropping the complaint. Dorsett had been scheduled to stand trial in municipal court later in the day on the city charges.

A waitress who claimed she was hit by a glass Doresett threw, also agreed to drop the complaint.

Emerick said there was no payoff involved.

According to Emerick the incident started when he had reason to believe Dorsett was being slipped free drinks by his girlfriend. It was Ladies' Night and unescorted ladies were being served free drinks.

Dorsett said the bartender grabbed the lady's drink and was going to take it away when he stopped him. He said Emerick grabbed his drink and told him to move away from the bar. He added he "just retaliated" when Emerick came at him and some other person grabbed him from behind. Emerick went to a hospital for treatment of a cut over his right eye.

Longhorns' success hinges on sophs

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — They've got gold medal speed at flanker, bruising power at fullback and a powerful punting leg but Texas Longhorn success this year may depend on 13 sophomores.

Fred Akers has replaced Darrell Royal at the Longhorn helm and he inherits rumbling Earl Campbell, a 220-pound fullback, Johnny "Lam" Jones at flanker, and Russell Erxleben, who led the nation in punting in 1976 with a 46.6 yard average.

Soph quarterback Mark McBath, who ran and passed for 401 yards as a starter in Texas' final four games last year, will lead Akers' veer offense — which replaces Royal's Wishbone-T. McBath is rated ahead of seven other prospects, including three freshmen.

"We've probably got as many problems as anyone at quarterback," Akers said. "We don't have that experienced winner there."

The Longhorns' inexperience has relegated Texas to the also-rans in pre-season SWC polls.

But Akers sees a possible benefit from the low rankings.

"I'll tell you where that helps — it doesn't put undue pressure on young kids. They don't know how to handle pressure," the coach said.

The successor to the winningest coach in SWC history thinks the youngsters may be able to get some game experience in the Horns first three contests.

The kiddie corps hosts the Eagles of Boston College on Sept. 10. Virginia comes to Austin on Sept. 17, followed by the Rice Owls on Oct. 1.

Akers is hoping his young charges will mature in those three contests — enough to meet the challenge of the Oklahoma Sooners on Oct. 8 at the annual Cotton Bowl bloodbath.

But before the season gets underway the new coach is keeping a close eye on his two senior offensive tackles — both working to recover from knee injuries. George James, 6-4, 234, is working up to seven hours a day to rehabilitate a knee on which he had surgery. On the other side David Studdard, 6-4, 250, is on the mend from knee and ankle injuries suffered in spring training.

On defense tackle Brad Shearer, 248, may bid for All-American honors. Two of the sophomore starters safety Johnnie Johnson, 182, and Lance Taylor, 213, — have shown they can bolster the defensive squad.

Two more Cougars quit football squad

The Cougars started conditioning drills Thursday in preparation for their nationally televised season opener Sept. 12 against UCLA in the Astrodome without Briles, who started three games last season, and Meyers, a 6-5 junior squadman from Oklahoma City.

Oh sweet pea! Another Payton

By The Associated Press

Now, the very last thing National Football League defenses needed was another running back named Payton.

Chicago's Walter Payton, who rushed for 1,390 yards last year, was quite enough for them, thank you. But now they're faced with his older brother, Eddie, who has been a pleasant free agent surprise for the Cleveland Browns.

Eddie, called "Sweet Pea," gets his next chance tonight when the Browns host the St. Louis Cardinals in a pre-season game. Minnesota playes at Baltimore in tonight's other game.

On Sunday, Los Angeles is at San Francisco and Cincinnati goes against Detroit. New England plays at Philadelphia Monday night.

The long weekend got underway Thursday night when Washington defeated Kansas City 13-7 and Seattle surprised Oakland 12-10.

Cleveland's Payton led the Browns' ground game with 73 yards in 16 carries against Minnesota last week and was the family's leading rusher in the second week of the exhibition season. Little brother Walter gained 58 yards in 12 carries as the Bears defeated Oakland.

Eddie also returned three punts for 41 yards against the Vikings. He shrugs off the shadow of his kid brother.

"Actually, when people ask me if I'm Walter's brother, I tell them, 'No, Walter is my brother,'" says Eddie, who's older but not bigger than his kid brother. Walter, 24 is 5-foot-10½ and 204 pounds compared to 5-8 and 175 for "Sweet Pea," who's 25.

The older Payton has been teaching junior high school for the last two years in Memphis after trying out for Ottawa in the Canadian League.

Eddie's running helped the Browns to their near-win over Minnesota last week. The Vikings won their second straight heart-stopper, 33-31. First Steve Craig blocked a punt and Windlan Hall recovered it for a touchdown that narrowed their deficit to 33-31. Then rookie Rick Danmeier missed a 35yard field goal but got a missed a 35-yard field goal but got a penalty, and connected on a 30-yarder with no time left on the clock.

The victory was reminiscent of the preseason opener when Nate Allen blocked a Los Angeles punt and recovered it for the winning touchdown in the final two minutes.

The Vikings take their magic act to Baltimore tonight against the Colts, who have split their first two preseason tests. Baltimore whipped Houston 14-7 a week ago with Freddie Scott catching four passes for 94 yards including a 21-yarder from Mike Kirkland in the winning drive.

On Thursday, Joe Theismann set up two second-half field goals by Mark Moseley with long passes to Larry Jones as the Redskins topped Kansas City. Bill Kilmer hit John Riggins on a six-yard scoring play in the first half for Washington. Tony Reed dashed 29 yards for the Chiefs' score.

Seattle remained unbeaten as Ralph Nelson scored from two yards out in the thid quarter after an interception by Steve Preece set up the Seahawks in Oakland territory.

Three U.S. records fall at AAUs

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (AP) — Three American records were set in women's events of the National AAU Senior Swimming Championships at the Misson Viejo International Swim Complex Thursday night.

Linda Jezek, 17, of Santa Clara, Calif., set a U.S. record in the 200-meter backstroke; Wendy Boglioli, 22, of Ocean, N.J. established an American standard in the 100-meter butterfly and Tracy Caulkins, 14, of Nashville, Tenn., set a U.S. mark despite finishing second in the 100-meter breaststroke.

Cheryl Gibson of Etobicoke, Ontario, Canada finished second to Miss Jezek in 2:17.47. Joan Pennington of Nashville, Tenn., was third in 2:18.35. Miss Belote, 20, failed to make the finals in the event but won the consolation race in 2:18.48.

The world record is 2:12.47 set by Birgit Treiber of East Germany. Miss Jezek's clocking Thursday night is the fourth fastest ever.

"I'm very pleased," said Miss Jezek. "I worked very hard and my goal was to swim a 2:15 plus."

Miss Caulkins was second in a time of 1:13.05 to Canada's Robin Corsiglia, who was clocked in 1:12.35, a new Canadian record.

The old American mark was 1:13.55 set by Marcia Morey of Decatur, Ill., in 1975.

Miss Boglioli was timed in 1:01.16, breaking the record she set last year by .001. Nancy Hogshead of Jacksonville, Fla., was second in 1:01.78 followed by Karinne Miller of Nashville, Tenn., in 1:02.05.

Other winners included Peter Rocca, 20 of Concord, Calif., who won the men's 200-meter backstroke with a time of 2:03.21; Richard Hofstetter, 20, of Bloomington, Ind., who captured the men's 100-meter breaststroke in 1:05.2; and Greg Jagenburg, 21, of Newtown Square, Pa., who took the men's 100-meter butterfly in 55.46.

U.S. cagers rip Belgium

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — "We didn't try to run up the score," United States basketball Coach Denny Crum insisted after the Americans routed Belgium 136-57 at the World University Games Thursday night.

But Crum likely was to have even more trouble holding down the winning margin when his collection of college all-stars played Kuwait today in the second round.

Poland overwhelmed the Arab team 136-20 in the opening round earlier Thursday, and the taller and better-shooting Americans could hardly fail to match Poland's performance.

"I just hope we're awake (the game was at 9 a.m.)," the 40-year-old University of Louisville coach said with a smile, when asked for a prediction.

Guard Darrell Griffith of Louisville scored 20 points and Freeman Williams of Portland State had 18 as the Americans overwhelmed the Belgians with their fast break, board control and a dazzling display of shooting that earned roars of approval from the 1,000 fans at Sofia University Hall.

Four other Americans were in double figures. Starting forwards Phil Hubbard of Michigan scored 17 and Larry Byrd of Indiana State had 15. Guard Sid Moncrief of Arkansas added 16 and forward Walter Jordan of Purdue had 11.

"For the first time, we played really well together," Crum said. "There must have been 60 assists as players unselfishly passed the ball to the man in the open."

The Americans will face their first tough game Sunday when they play Poland. Thirty-one teams are competing in the qualifying rounds, and the top 16 advance to the semifinals next week.

The Soviets, with three national team players, are expected to battle the Americans for the gold medal. But Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Italy also are considered strong contenders for medals.

"We seem to have adjusted to the differences of international basketball. Our tournament games in Sicily and exhibition games in Yugoslavia helped us toughen up," Crum said.
