

Donations To Fund For Hurst Tool Now Over Goal

The Haskell Fire Department Hurst Tool Fund has reached the goal and the tool is completely paid for according to Fire Department officials.

The original goal of $8,300.00 was reached and additional funds were received allowing the department to purchase an additional piece of equipment with the tool.

The tool purchased by the department includes a power unit, jaws, cutter and a ram bar.

The tool has been used twice since it was received and department members continue to train on a regular basis.

Members of the department express their sincere thanks to everyone in the area for donating the funds for the tool.

Chief Tom Watson said, "We serve the finest people in the world and we sincerely appreciate their support in all our projects".

Donations received recently to the fund include:

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson in memory of Mrs. Mayre Tubbs, Everett Berryhill, and Maurice Gannaway 25.00
Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Ray Roberts in memory of Bill Letterman . . 25.00

FIRST TIME

Celebrating the first ever joint meeting of the Farm Bureau, Farmers Union and American Agriculture Movement, this cake was donated and sold at auction at the meeting. The cake brought almost $600.00 dollars.

Beautification Project Underway

Tom Watson, fire chief, announced the completion of the weed burning at the recent Beautify Haskell Council (BHC) meeting.

Several pieces of property still have tall weeds which were not consumed by the fire, and Melvin Hill said he would use his large equipment for a nominal fee to level the weeds and finish the clearing process. Interested citizens can call him at 864-3589.

"We'd like for all citizens to check their property to see that trees are not creating blind corners or obstructing the passage of vehicles on the street. Overhanging limbs should clear the street by 10 feet.

"If individuals are unable to cut the limbs themselves, they can call City Hall, and someone will be sent to cut the overhanging limbs," said Mrs. Franciene Johnson, mayor pro-tem.

"We are now looking for sponsors for the Cultivate Haskell bumper stickers. Individuals and businesses can help us defray the $255 needed to print the 500 bumper stickers," she said.

Watson issued a challenge saying he would match all donations until the money had been raised.

Mrs. Virginia Jones, membership chairman, discussed memorial donations with the council. Several memorial gifts have been received and acknowledgements sent.

Basketball Game To Benefit Heart Association

A benefit basketball game will be held next Tuesday night, March 16 at 8 p.m. in the High School Gym.

The game will benefit the American Heart Association and will feature the Haskell Exes against a team from Aldersgate Methodist Church in Abilene.

Donations to the Heart Association will be accepted at the gate and a concession stand will be available.

Members of the Haskell Exes include: Kay Graham, Sandi Clay, Maxine Hannsz, Gerre Larned, Pam Mathis, Linda Burris, Jana Hunt, Mary Rike, Cathy Bartley, Cathy Raughton, and Lowell Ann Geilhausen.

We hope the citizens will continue making memorials to the BHC. The beautification of our town is a lasting memorial to our loved ones, she said.

Memberships are still available and can be sent to BHC, Box 783, Haskell or given to Mrs. Jones at the Haskell National Bank.

Patron membership is $25; club, firm or organization membership, $5; and individual membership, $2.50. Membership money is used for BHC projects.

The next meeting is April 6 at City Hall, and interested people are welcome to attend.

300 Attend Joint Farm Planning Meeting

A unique meeting of Haskell County farm organizations was held last Friday night to discuss possible solutions to depressed agriculture prices.

The meeting was the first joint meeting ever held by the county membership of the Farm Bureau, Farmers Union and American Agriculture Movement.

Tim Burson, President of Haskell County Farm Bureau, set the stage for the meeting early in the program stating, "This is not a meeting of farm organizations, it is a meeting of farmers".

Steve Alsbrook, AAM, told the

USDA Cheese Distribution Set March 11

Members of the Rule and Haskell Lions Clubs will distribute free cheese to the needy today.

In Haskell the cheese will be at the HNB Community Building from 2 to 8 p.m.

In Rule the cheese will be at the Rule City Hall from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The cheese will be in five pound packages and one package will be given to each family. The person receiving the cheese must sign a receipt for the cheese.

No cheese will be given to minors. Over 3,000 pounds of cheese will be given away by the two clubs who are assisting the Aspermont Small Business Development Center in the distribution.

The cheese is distributed on a first come—first serve basis and persons are asked to come as early as possible to insure that all cheese has not been distributed.

300 persons attending. "We need this kind of coalition and we need to get together more often. We need to break the cliché that farmers can't get together".

Kenneth Sanders, Farmers Union, urged those present to get involved and "Work together to continue the tradition of the family farm".

Ted Godfrey from the Texas Panhandle, gave a brief outline of a proposed marketing system.

The system would include a clearing house which would function as a co-op. Each participating member would purchase at least one share in the co-op and would contract to sell each year's crop to the co-op at a price of 85% of parity. At harvest, the producer would deliver the crop to the regular point of sale and place the crop in the CCC Loan. The CCC Loan contract would then be delivered to the co-op and the balance between the loan and 85% parity would be received by the producer.

Godfrey told those present that 85% of parity currently is 92 cents for cotton; $6.00 for wheat; and $7.08 for milo.

Ralph Roming, of Bovina, representing the Martin Haley Co. said, "Our problem is a political problem and nothing else". He explained political action committees (PAC) and told those present that, "Every successful lobbying organization in Washington D.C. has a PAC".

He added that in the 1981 farm bill, the only group which got exactly what they wanted were the tobacco growers and that their success was due to an organized and effective PAC.

Steve Close, of Springfield, Colo., outlined a plan which will operate in conjunction with the PAC.

Portions of plan will include a 25% set aside becoming a strong factor in the 1982 elections.

According to Close, the entire purpose of the program will be to stop the exodus of people off of the farm. He said that in 1982 approximately 190,000 farmers quit and the 1982 totals would be more than three times that high if something is not done.

Close told those present that, "We've talked about the problems long enough, it's time we started to work on the solutions".

He explained that to get started, the PAC needed $1 million and that a program fund of about $750,000.00 was necessary. He asked that farmers contribute $1.00 per acre up to a maximum of $1,000.00 to the PAC and that individuals contribute as much as possible.

Sagerton Hee-Haw Set March 26-27

Tickets for the annual Sagerton Hee Haw are now on sale and, like the proverbial "hot cake," they are going fast.

The Hee Haw, filled with music and laughter, will be March 26 and 27 with 8 p.m. performances nightly. The lunch room will open at 5:30 p.m.

Ticket chairman is Karen Lehmann of Sagerton. The number to telephone for tickets is 817-997-2652. Tickets are $2.50 for reserve seats and $2 at the door.

In preparation for the Hee Haw, rehearsals have been scheduled beginning next week. The first rehearsal will be at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, March 15.

A second rehearsal is planned for Monday, March 22. The production's dress rehearsal will be March 25.

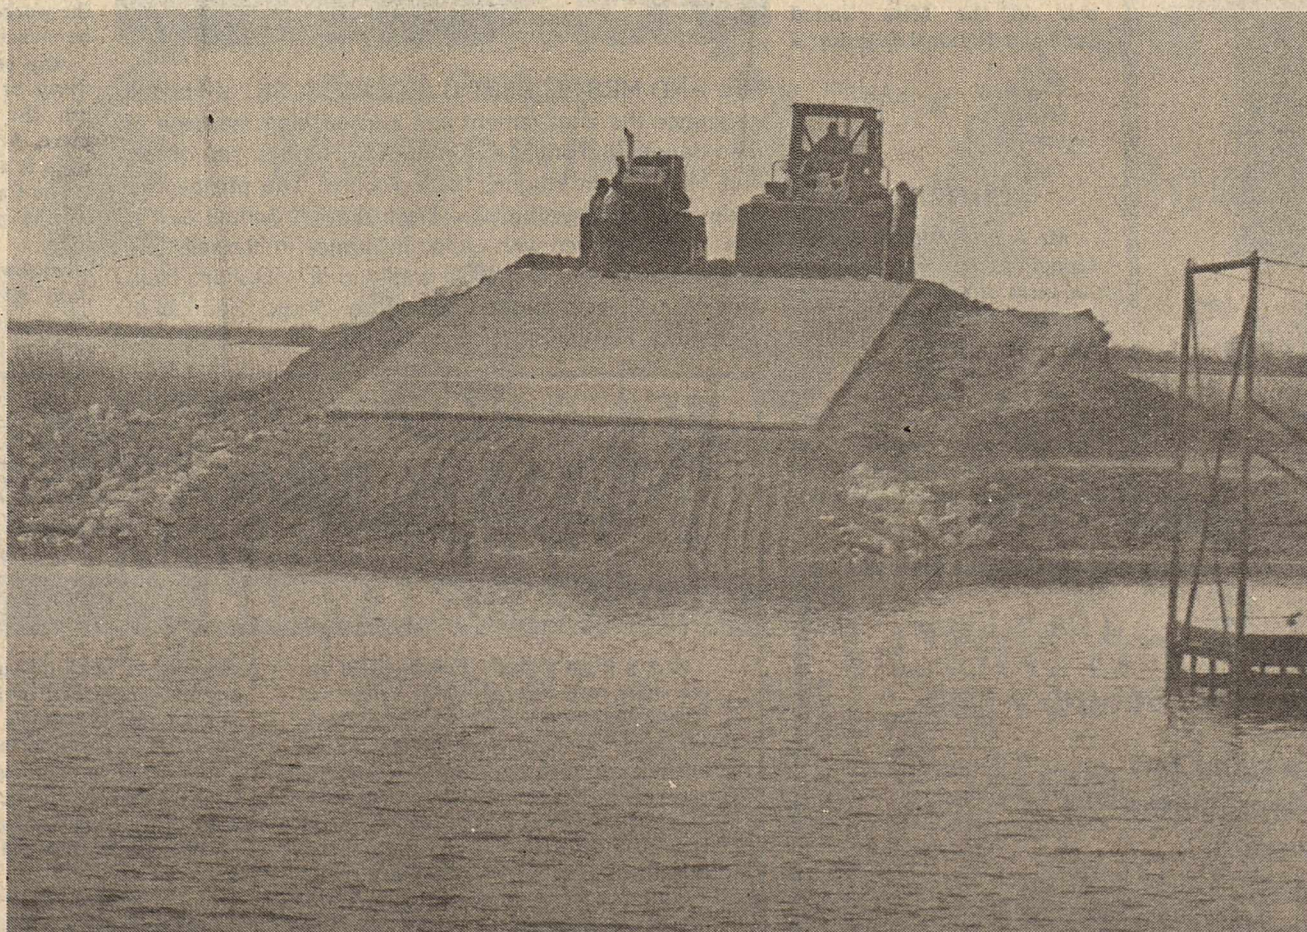

City Council To Build New Hangars

Members of the Haskell City Council met in regular session Tuesday night and agreed to build six new hangars at the airport.

The Council members agreed to purchase the materials for the hangars and local pilots have agreed to provide labor to construct the facilities. The pilots will be given credit for hangar rental for their labor.

Council members also agreed to purchase chairs for the new Council room.

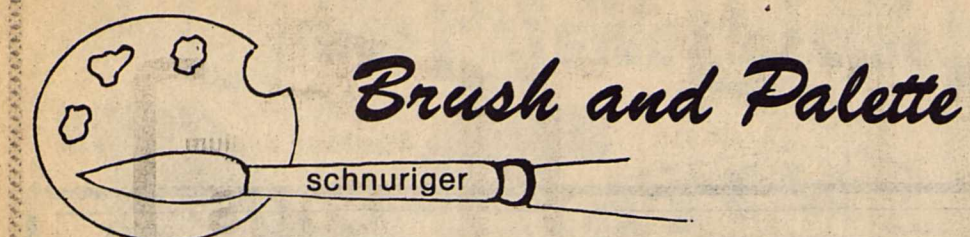

It was announced during the meeting that the filing deadline for City elections had passed and that four candidates had filed for four places on the ballot. Franciene Johnson has announced for Mayor; Bill Lane Jr. and Larry Gilliam for Council members and Archie Jones for a one year unexpired term.

PUSH

Pushing a giant concrete slab into Lake Stamford Monday proved to be a slightly bigger problem than expected. The 53 ton slab was more than two loaders could manage and a bull dozer was called in to complete the project. The slab was in place by 4 p.m. Monday and following some dirt work, an apron will be added to the top of the slab completing the new boat ramp at the Anchor.

My drives and walks through Big Country area are taken with sketch book and sometime a small watercolor set or colored pencils. Taking day-long trips with materials, food and water in a thermos, makes for a delightful day of sketching. I always take a paper bag for scraps and waste paper or if I take oils, the bag will take care of the oil rags and paper. In this way, the painting site is left undisturbed and unspoiled by waste and as someone said, "If you carry it in, carry it out." Often it is necessary to re-visit the location for details and to adjust shadows at the same time of day. After several trips and being satisfied with the sketch, then the painting is started. I hope more of the area artists will

Sienna, Cad Red Light and a breath of Thalo Blue. Highlight: Cad Red Light, Cad Yellow Light and lots of White.

Q. What colors do you use to paint Porcelain?

A. The mass tone should be Thalo Blue and White with a little Black. Highlight: White with a breath of Orange, which is Blue's complementary color. The highlights on any shiny object should be the complementary color to the mass tone color, in a lighter value, of course.

Q. Where can I get some information on joining the Pastel Society of America?

A. Simply write to Pastel Society of America, C/O National Arts Club, 15 Gramercy Park South, New York, N.Y. They will be happy to give you the information. Sorry, I do not have the Zip Code right now.

Q. How do I paint folds and creases in material?

A. Determine your light source first. Then you must understand that the folds are simply raised places or 'bumps' and the valleys are 'dents'. Where the light hits the bump, it is lighter and where there is less light in the dents, the color is darker. Here again, is where your value scale will help.

HINT: Self discipline is as important for an artist as is a good background in composition, color, drawing and value.

Write your questions and hints to me, Faye Schnuriger, P.O. Box 134, Haskell, Texas 79521. I will not use your name but do want you to sign your letters.

Stress—Use It To Your Advantage

FROM LOU GILLY
County Extension Agent

Life without stress -- is it possible?

No way. Without stress, life would be drab and unstimulating. Stress itself is not bad. It's how you respond to it that may create problems or motivate positive action.

Stress is not created by any one event. Your own way of viewing the event, its importance in your life or its anticipated outcome can cause stress. This, in turn, can depress behavior or stimulate behavior -- depending on you.

Stress is personal. Since you create it, you must find a way to live with it or remove the source. First of all, listen to your body. It will tell you when you're working too hard.

Learn your personal responses to stress -- headaches, stomach knots, neck cricks, nail biting, withdrawal, incessant talking or insomnia. Next, decide what you plan to do to relieve the stress. Set priorities by dividing tasks into essential, important and trivial.

In addition, be satisfied with a less than perfect job if the alternative is not getting the job done.

Focus on enjoying the activities themselves rather than worrying about your performance or what rewards will result.

Also, organizing your time will help remove some frustration if time is limited.

It may mean leaving office work undone to help reduce conflicts at home.

Some good principles for minimizing the effects of stress will help you adjust:

- * get enough sleep,
 - * take care of yourself physically,
 - * allow yourself regular vacations,
 - * try to deal with stress realistically,
 - * organize your life,
 - * allow yourself to relax,
 - * talk about problems and
 - * cultivate and utilize your personal strengths and faith.
- Learn to enjoy life -- savor it. But don't waste your time looking forward to happy endings to all your problems. Stress will always be around.

GRADE WORK

Looking from the top of the new boat ramp at the Anchor, workmen can be seen making final preparations. Following grade preparations, the giant slab was pushed into the lake by a bull dozer and two loaders. An apron will be added later this week completing the project.

GETTING READY

A loader operator is shown preparing the bottom before pushing a boat ramp into the lake. After the slope was smoothed to the right elevation, the 106,000 pound slab was pushed into the lake. The slab contains 25 yards of concrete and over one mile of reinforcement steel.

West Texas Utilities Granted Interim Rate Increase

West Texas Utilities Co. has been granted an interim rate increase for power sold to its wholesale customers.

The increase was approved by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, effective February 26, 1982, and will remain in effect until final resolution of a rate application filed last October by WTU.

The interim rates granted will result in an increase of $3.5 million, or 8.1 percent, annually from 14 rural electric cooperatives, one municipality, and one investor-owned distribution system.

In its application, WTU had asked for a $4.3 million increase to become effective Dec. 15, 1981. The FERC initially suspended this increase for five months, which would have delayed the effective date of the new rates until May 16, 1982. Granting the interim rates has the effect of shortening the suspension period and allowing lower rates to go into effect subject to refund.

The FERC decision follows closely the increase in retail rates granted by the Public Utility Commission of Texas effective February 12. Together, the increases are expected to provide an additional revenue of $15.3 million on an annual basis, with $11.8 coming from retail customers and $3.5 from wholesale customers. The original cases filed by WTU were designed to produce $32.2 million in additional revenues.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses issued during the month of February included:

Wenslado Espinoza, Jr. and Erlinda Sarabia, Knox City. Alejandro Casarez and Juanita Sanchez, Haskell. Malcom Davis and Judy Smith, Throckmorton. Robert Acosta and Donna Gilleland, Haskell. Charles Thomas, Hamlin and Lisa Huggins, Sagerton.

Senator
Lloyd Bentsen

Watching Washington

As Congress works on the budget for fiscal 1983, I want to make sure that we cut deeply into the federal deficit and that those cuts are fair and even-handed.

We have been making substantial cuts in spending on domestic programs and I'm pushing for the same thing when it comes to spending on foreign aid.

Last year, when we were cutting the 1982 budget by $35 billion, the Administration pushed through Congress an increase in foreign aid spending of almost 14 percent.

That makes no sense. The 1983 budget, recently sent to Congress, calls for some $30 billion in spending cuts. But it proposes another increase in foreign aid spending, of nearly 18 percent.

I opposed the increase in foreign aid spending last year and I will oppose it again this year.

No one can fault the United States for generosity. It is an inherent trait of our national character to help our neighbors in need.

After World War II, this country helped our allies regain economic stability. Not stopping there, we also pitched in to help those countries that had been our enemies.

Our aid has continued right up to the present day. But we are beset by troubles of our own right now, not the least of which is a budget deficit of more than $90 billion projected for 1983.

A deficit approaching $100 billion is totally unacceptable. I do not accept it. Congress will not accept it. The American people will not accept it.

I want to see a bipartisan coalition, Democrats and Republicans, working together in Congress to substantially reduce that deficit and to make sure it is done fairly and equitably.

We cannot afford a budget that treats one group of people in this country or one region of this country better than it treats other groups or regions.

We certainly cannot afford a budget that cuts into spending for vital programs directly affecting the American people while at the same time providing more spending for programs in other countries.

Congress made a mistake last year in boosting foreign aid while sharply cutting back spending at home. I said it was a mistake at the time and voted against it. I'll be urging my colleagues this year to not repeat the error.

As we go through the painful process of chopping the federal deficit down to size, one of the first places my axe will fall is on spending for foreign aid.

Nurses To Attend Convention

Several members of the Abilene Chapter of the Association of operating room nurses will be among 5,000 operating room nurses who attend the Association's 29th Annual Congress March 7-12 in Anaheim, Calif. They are Sue Baker, Winona Ricker, Pat Korzenewski, Helen Truscott, Debbie Schkade, Jodie Wall, Faye Hershiser, and Mary Lee Alexander.

Bigger Profits Begin In The Cascot Lab.

You already know that Cascot cottonseed can increase your yield by as much as 25%. What you may not know is why Cascot varieties are so much better. Well, it didn't happen overnight. The people at Custom Ag Service used the latest scientific methods in selecting and breeding until they came up with disease resistant, early maturing varieties. They selected quality seed perfect for farming in all conditions. Characteristics like premium mike and storm resistance were developed in all the Cascot varieties.

And finally they eliminated contamination by using a separate gin for new seed development.

If you're not planting Cascot this year, try 100 acres and compare its yield to your seed. We're betting next year you'll be knee deep in Cascot.

CAPITOL
UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

In 1978, when Congress last debated the subject of natural gas price decontrol, artificially low federally imposed prices on interstate gas had caused critical supply disruptions. Texans, whose gas came from the unregulated intrastate market, were paying several times more for their own supplies than out-of-state consumers.

The "compromise" solution adopted was the Natural Gas Policy Act, which provided for partial lifting of controls over a six-year period ending in 1985. Some of us warned then that this legislation contained serious defects, and could lead to further problems in future years. These prophecies have been fulfilled.

Let us for a moment look at some of the major problems we face, so that we can then see a logical solution to them.

The price levels set for the gradual decontrol of prices for some categories of gas were premised on the assumption that crude oil would cost approximately $15 a barrel in 1984. Of course oil is now selling at more than $30 a barrel. This means that when the controls expire in 1985, and the price rises to an actual but equivalent market price, we will see a drastic, traumatic rise in the cost of natural gas to business and individual consumers.

Secondly, we now are seeing distortions in supplies. The effect of partial deregulation already in place has been to give pipeline companies with large reserves of cheap, regulated gas an advantage in competing for expensive, uncontrolled "new" gas. They are able to bid at prices above the market value because they can average the cost of the new and old gas and sell at a competitive level. Companies without access to these artificially cheap supplies are not able to compete for these new reserves.

Since most intrastate pipelines do not control cheap, regulated gas, Texas and other producing states already are beginning to experience shortages. We cannot be expected to watch our resources being pumped to other states in vast quantities while we are unable to obtain sufficient amounts for our own needs.

Phased-in, complete decontrol of gas prices would solve these supply problems; allow the increased cost of gas to be absorbed by the economy and individual consumers gradually, and set us on a course of realistic, efficient use of our gas resources. Studies indicate that the longterm price to consumers will not be significantly greater with complete decontrol than with the currently scheduled partial decontrol. Further, with gradual decontrol, consumers will not face the burden of supply shortages ending in an abrupt price increase.

The President shares these views, but has concluded that this Congress is unlikely to act favorably on the issue. For that reason, he has decided not to press for action this year. I am extremely disappointed in this decision, though I understand the reasons for it. However, I will continue to urge the Administration to work to develop and prepare a feasible decontrol plan for submission to Congress as soon as is practical.

At General Telephone... We're Not Simply Talking About Service Improvements We're Making Them In Haskell

At General Telephone, better service isn't just a goal, it's a solid commitment. General Telephone spent over 354 million dollars in 1981 on capital expenditure projects (i.e. new electronic switches, expanded cable projects, modernization), and GTE will spend over 410 million dollars in 1982 to provide you the best telecommunications available.

For Haskell this investment in service improvement is working as shown below. General Telephone is working hard to continually provide you with the best of service.

The Texas Public Utilities Commission (PUC) has established certain standards in public hearings, and our service results are listed against those standards.

Superintendent's Views

BY JAMES LANIER
Superintendent, Haskell ISD

Nearly 700,000 third, fifth, and ninth grade students throughout the state of Texas have taken statewide reading, writing, and mathematics test during Feb. 15-26 as the public system moved into its third year of the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills.

This year, also, an estimated 129,000 sophomores and juniors who failed to meet the mastery criteria set for the exit level tests as ninth graders have re-taken the exam in an attempt to improve their original scores. The "exit level" tests taken by ninth graders each year are designed to make sure each student leaving the public school system has mastered the minimum skills necessary to function well in today's society. Ninth grade students who fail to master one or more of the reading, writing, and mathematics tests may continue to re-take the exams once a year as long as they are in high school.

Westinghouse Information Services of Iowa City, IA will administer the 1982 statewide tests under the direction of the Texas Education Agency. The $1.9 million contract approved by the State Board of Education will cover the cost of printing, distributing, scoring, and reporting test results to Texas school districts and to the Texas Education Agency. District and campus aggregate scores and individual student results will be reported to the schools by April 30. District and campus results will be reported to local school boards at their June meeting. Individual student scores, however, will be released only to the student, parents or guardian, and local educators directly involved.

About 50% of the test items will be brand new this year with the remaining questions retained from earlier test in order to maintain a continuing level of difficulty.

The tests were designed by the Texas Education Agency staff working with committees of teachers and curriculum specialist from the school districts, regional education service centers and several state universities.

The annual testing program was mandated by the Texas Legislature in 1979.

The scores in Haskell the past two years have been well above the state average and the regional average. However, we, as educators and parents, should not become complaisant with these good results, but should strive for even higher goals. We have good kids and good teachers so why not strive to be the best?

GI Bill Extended To Viet Vets

According to C.H. Herren, Veterans Service Officer for Haskell County, some Vietnam Era veterans may be entitled to an extension of time to use their GI Bill education benefits. Those veterans who are eligible may take advantage of a one-time, two-year extension of their GI Bill delimiting date.

Extended eligibility for certain training programs was included in the "Veterans' Health Care, Training and Small Business Act of 1981," Public Law 97-72, signed into law by the President on November 3, 1981. The extension period, which opened January 1, 1982, applies to educationally disadvantaged or unskilled Vietnam Era veterans who allowed their 10-year delimiting date to expire before using all of their entitlement for educational training. Eligible veterans may use their remaining entitlement to obtain a high school diploma or its equivalent, or to pursue a program of apprenticeship or other on-job training, or a program with a vocational objective. Enrollment in college degree, flight or corresponding courses is not included in this extension. Veterans who have already obtained college degrees are not eligible for the extension.

Veterans who may qualify under the provisions mentioned above are urged to contact the VA or their local Veterans Service Officer for additional information and appropriate application forms.

Those who may be eligible under this special provision must apply to the VA prior to December 31, 1982, the date on which the extension period expires.

Texas Oil & Gas . . . Gas Consumers Need Quick, Total Decontrol

By Avery Rush, Jr.
Chairman,
Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association

Texas is this country's leading producer of natural gas, with marketed production in the first eight months of 1981 of 4.7-trillion cubic feet. For years it was the leading natural gas producing state. After falling behind Louisiana in 1977-79, it has regained the top spot.

What may be less well known, even to Texas residents, is that our state is the largest consumer of the fuel. No other state's residents are as dependent on natural gas as a source of employment and for use as a heating fuel. Statewide consumption in 1979 of 4-trillion cubic feet meant that Texas used 212.6-billion cubic feet more—5.6-percent more—than the combined usage by the next two largest consuming states, Louisiana and California.

It is our use of natural gas that gives Texas and its residents such a big stake in the current effort to bring about decontrol. If changes are not made in those portions of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 dealing with pricing regulations, Texans could find themselves without natural gas while residents of nonproducing states have abundant supplies.

Texans suffer under two effects of existing price controls: (1) While drilling for uncontrolled crude oil is up dramatically, drilling for new natural gas supplies is declining or, at best, remaining level, and (2) existing supplies are being diverted from the producing states' intrastate markets into the interstate market.

This diversion of natural gas is occurring because the NGPA has placed producing states at a disadvantage in competing for their own gas with nonproducing states. Interstate pipelines presently are outbidding intrastate carriers because of the supply of cheap, price-controlled natural gas that the interstate pipelines acquired on long-term contracts before the NGPA became law on Dec. 1, 1978.

Intrastate pipelines do not have a supply of cheap gas since the intrastate market was unregulated until late 1978. Prior to that time, the cost of natural gas in the producing states had risen to reflect more realistically the costs of exploration and production.

This problem could become even more serious for Texans after 1984. On Jan. 1, 1985, under the NGPA, federal price controls will be lifted on the intrastate market. But, controls will be left in place on most interstate gas. Then the bidding war could intensify, with producing states continuing to lose supplies. What is needed to remedy this situation is the accelerated, total decontrol of all natural gas.

THE HARVESTERS

The Harvesters To Present Concert

The Harvesters of Southwestern Assemblies of God College, Waxahachie, will be ministering in the First Assembly of God on Sat. Mar. 13th & Sun., Mar. 14th, 1982, at 7:30 p.m. & 11:00 a.m.

The Harvester Choir is one of the most outstanding and versatile groups in the Southwest. Vocalists and instrumentalists from across the United States have gathered to blend their talent under the direction of Grady Weiszbrod, who is also an accomplished trombonist and instructor of music at Southwestern.

These young collegians feel that they are involved in a definite ministry of reaching people for the Lord Jesus Christ. They are chosen not only for their musical ability, which is a must, but more than that because of their Christian character and attitude and their academic ability. The Harvesters travel weekends and make two tours each school year—one at Thanksgiving and one as Spring Break.

This concert presented by the Harvesters is something that you do not want to miss. If you love good music, love to worship, and love to become acquainted with young people consumed with a vision and a purpose, you are invited to attend this event. There is no admission charge and you have the personal invitation of the pastor to attend.

Comptroller To Enforce New Bingo Law

State Comptroller Bob Bullock today announced that Texas' new Bingo Enabling Act will be enforced to the letter by the Comptroller's office.

"Today I wish to put on notice everyone who conducts or enjoys the game of bingo in Texas that they will have opportunities to vote on this issue April 3 and August 14," Bullock said.

"In areas where there has been a vote on this issue, we are not going to second-guess the voters. Where they have approved the game, it will be conducted according to provisions of the Bingo Enabling Act."

"Where the game has not been approved, we will also be following provisions of this law, which went into effect November 10, 1981," Bullock added.

The Comptroller enclosed copies of the law with his announcement.

The Bingo Enabling Act's Section 42(c) provides that if the act is knowingly violated, "the court shall order all proceeds from the illegal bingo game or games to be forfeited to the appropriate governing body as a civil penalty."

Further, Bullock pointed out, violations of the act also carry criminal penalties under the Texas Penal Code.

"A word to the wise should be sufficient," Bullock said. "We mean to enforce this law."

The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

AUSTIN—When a mobile home owner rents space on which to park a mobile home, the home owner should be well informed about making improvements. Most leases for space are for only a short period—six months or a year. If there is no lease, then the home owner may be required to move upon thirty-day notice. If the home owner wishes to landscape, or to build a driveway, carport, patio, porch or another room, the home owner should have a written and signed agreement with the park owner that improvements may be removed legally by the home owner, or that the park owner will reimburse the home owner for such improvements if the home owner is required to move.

Recently a mobile home owner from the Valley brought a problem to the attention of my office. She had lived in a mobile home park for several years and had made many improvements to the lot which she was renting. The park ownership changed. The home owner has received notice that she must move within 30 days. She has no lease or understanding in writing. Her addition to her mobile home probably will break up if moved. In fact, the lot owner could raise the question of whether she could legally remove the addition which is attached to the land. More than 200 other people live in this park. Moreover, the new land owner could have brought the land to use for another purpose and required everyone without a lease to move in 30 days. In this case, the Attorney General's office can do very little other than to alert mobile home owners that such a situation could occur.

The cost of buying and repairing mobile homes is becoming more expensive, as is almost everything else. Any number of problems may be created by moving a mobile home. Mobile home buyers and owners are protected by state and federal laws to some extent, but mobile home residents should protect themselves where possible. Before any document is signed, the mobile home buyer or owner should read, understand and agree thoroughly to what the document says that he or she is to sign, and if possible, have a lawyer prove any agreement the home owner plans to enter into before signing.

Chamber Of Commerce Praises Local Churches

by Wanda Dulaney, Manager
Chamber of Commerce
This is the second article in a series on the churches of Haskell, written from responses to questionnaires the Chamber of Commerce sent to all local ministers. The length of the articles and the sequence published have been dependent upon the amount of information each pastor submitted and the order in which they were received.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
301 N. Ave. E., Telephone

864-2581, Minister: Mike McKinney
There are 879 members of the First Baptist Church which was organized in Haskell in 1888.
"We warmly invite and encourage all people, all races and all ages to come and worship with us. We welcome any ministry we may perform to anyone for the glory of God", their minister said. Brother McKinney added: "We believe anyone who by faith accepts the gift of salvation and repents or turns from known sin to be saved. We believe baptism is an outward symbol of an inner experience of salvation. We believe salvation is eternal and that the saved ones are new creatures in Jesus Christ through the Holy Spirit. We believe that all scripture is the complete, unfallible word of God, without error. We believe the church is the mystical body of Christ in the world today. Its primary task is to know and love God and to know and love our neighbors as we love ourselves. We believe in the evangelization of the entire world for the gospel of Christ and are actively involved in the home, state, national and foreign endeavors to share the love of God in Jesus Christ to all people. We believe, according to the scriptures, that any person outside the experiences of new birth through faith and repentance toward Jesus Christ is most surely lost and separated from God and headed for eternal condemnation in a place God calls hell. We believe according to the scriptures that anyone may be saved and that God is willing that none perish. We believe in the free will of men and the sovereignty of God in all matters. We believe in a real place God calls heaven and in the bodily, visible return of Jesus Christ to this earth as Judge and Lord of Lords. We believe in the Absolute diety and full manhood of Jesus Christ. We believe in the miracle of the virgin birth and resurrection from the dead of Jesus Christ. Baptism is by immersion.

The previous baptism from another church of someone coming in as a new member is accepted if baptism is by immersion as a nonsacramental proclamation of faith. They must be baptized again only if their baptism was sacramental or by sprinkling. The church votes on its members. Communion is held four times a year and "all properly baptized believers who find themselves in proper standing and relationship to God may participate."

"Smokeless" Does Not Mean Harmless

"Snuff dippers" and "tobacco chewers"—the smokeless tobacco fad has become increasingly popular among children and young adults, says Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, a health education specialist.
But just because it's "smokeless" doesn't mean it's harmless, the specialist warns.
Shirer is with the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.
Tobacco and its by-products—used in snuff and chewing tobacco—are extremely irritating to the mouth's sensitive tissues, she says.

A dipper's or chewer's mouth may show signs of "leukoplakia," wrinkled, thickened and white leathery areas inside the mouth.
About six percent of persons with leukoplakia develop oral cancer, Shirer remarks.
TOOTH PROBLEMS
Not only does tobacco cause tissue irritation, but chewers and dippers tend to have greater tooth wear than non-users, the specialist notes.
The gums tend to recede in areas where tobacco is held, as between the lower lip and gum, she explains.

Consequently, bare roots caused from receded gums become more susceptible to decay and are more sensitive to heat, cold, air, certain food and chemicals, Shirer says.
Also, tobacco that has been sweetened may increase tooth decay, she adds.
Tobacco juices also contain hundreds of chemicals which may delay wound healing, especially when a tooth has been pulled or oral surgery has taken place, the specialist reports.

DPS Substituting OJT For Experience

Colonel Jim Adams, Department of Public Safety director, announced today that "effective with the June recruit class, DPS trooper candidates may substitute law enforcement-related experience for the current educational requirement of 60 college hours. Thus, applicants with two years of commissioned law enforcement experience or two years of honorable active military service would be eligible for a waiver of the two-year college requirement. Likewise, one year of such qualifying experience could be substituted for one year of college work."
"This temporary modification is intended to increase the reservoir of qualified applicants yet ensure a continuance of the high personal standards which have been the hallmark of the Department's success."
"An evaluation of the results of the temporary modification of educational requirements will be conducted to determine whether a continuation is justified."

Colonel Adams said the DPS hopes to recruit 268 troopers this year, including the 92 who presently are in training.
Recruits live in the DPS law enforcement academy in Austin during the 18-week training course. The starting monthly salary for recruits is $1,223. Upon graduation, the officers are paid $1,347 per month plus allowances for uniforms and equipment. These salaries will increase September 1, 1982.
"The Department continues to emphasize the recruitment of minorities consistent with our philosophy that a law enforcement organization must be representative of the community it serves," Adams pointed out.
Of the 92 recruits scheduled to graduate from the law enforcement academy on May 14, 1982, 35 are members of minority groups. There are six women in the class.

Tobacco juices as well as smoke contain a harmful substance—nicotine—which may be habit-forming, Shirer warns.
Nicotine is readily absorbed through the lining of the mouth and has a direct effect on the nervous system.
This habit-forming stimulant first causes its users to become stimulated and excited, but later they may feel depressed and let down.
To keep this "lifted" sensation, a person with the nicotine habit needs a "booster" every 20 to 30 minutes, the specialist explains.
Nicotine can also affect the heart and other parts of the circulatory system, she says.
As nicotine enters the bloodstream, the arteries constrict and become smaller, the blood platelets clot and the heartbeat rate increases.
Consequently, blood pressure may rise and this increases the risk of strokes and heart attacks, the specialist warns.

Plimpton To Speak At H-SU

George Plimpton, who has gained fame as a "professional amateur," will speak at Hardin-Simmons University March 15, at 8 p.m. in Woodward-Dellis Recital Hall. The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

His topic will be the value of amateurism to the individual and to society. Plimpton is fully qualified to dispel the illusions about the easy road to professionalism. He has let himself be outmatched in a series of extraordinary competitions, in which he fulfills the universal fantasy of challenging the champions. Partly for fun and partly for the purpose of being able to give his readers a feeling of what it's like for an amateur to compete with the pros, Plimpton has invaded the strongholds of professional sports and entertainment - and then chronicled his experiences in a way no real athlete or entertainer would dare let on and no armchair novelist would ever dream up.

Plimpton has had several best sellers. His first Paper Lion, is an account of his true experiences as a rookie on the Detroit Lions football team. In his next best seller, Out of My League, Plimpton recounted his exhausting experience pitching before a postseason exhibition game at Yankee Stadium between American and National League stars.

Plimpton has written and starred in several TV specials including stints as a stand up comic at Caesar's Palace, a last string quarterback for the Baltimore Colts, as a cowboy in a John Wayne movie, and an acrobat in the Clyde Beatty Cole Brothers Circus.

The New York native graduated from Harvard University and King's College, Cambridge University. In 1953, in Paris, he founded "The Paris Review" a literary quarterly which has celebrated over two decades of critical acclaim under Plimpton's editorship. He has recently edited the four volumes of interviews with famous literary figures entitled "Writers At Work" that first appeared in the magazine. He is also the director of the "American Literary Anthology," now in its fourth volume. He has taught at Barnard, been an associate editor of "Horizon Magazine," a special contributor to "Sports Illustrated" and an associate editor of "Harper's Magazine."

The Cullen Fund for Faculty Enrichment is providing the funds to bring Plimpton to Abilene.

Brazos Bermudagrass Boosts Grazing Gains

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

An experimental new grass, Brazos Bermudagrass, developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is only 3% more digestible than Coastal Bermudagrass yet produces a 20% greater rate of gain in grazing steers.

"It has been recognized for years that the major factor limiting animal productivity from forages in Texas is the low digestibility of the predominant warm-season perennial grasses of Texas pastures and ranges," says Dr. W. C. Ellis, Professor of Animal Science at Texas A&M University.

"The development of more digestible forages that maintained equal yields would not only increase animal productivity and profitability but also alleviate many current management problems in animal husbandry," according to Ellis.

For example, he says most of the problems of low animal fertility is attributable to low energy intake due to low digestibility.

Where animal productivity is so restricted, rather large increases can be achieved with only slight increases in digestibility. This is true because increases in digestibility not only increase digestive efficiency, but also result in increased forage intake.

Consequently, Ellis explains, the intake of digested nutrients per day, which are available above a fixed maintenance requirement and are used for animal production, is greatly increased.

This is the reason for the 20% greater rate of gain from Brazos Bermudagrass with only a 3% gain in digestibility.

Development of nutritionally superior forages, such as Brazos Bermudagrass, is the result of a cooperative research program involving plant breeders, forage agronomists and animal nutritionists.

This program was initiated in 1970 with the objective of developing new forage varieties with better nutritional qualities and equal, or superior, yields.

It was added to an existing breeding program of Dr. Ethan Holt, TAES agronomist and Dr. E. C. Bashaw, USDA geneticist. Dr. Billy Conrad conducted the grazing studies.

Principal emphasis has been devoted to Bermuda, Klein and Buffel grasses since these represent species well adapted to most areas of Texas.

Experiment Station breeding programs have developed a number of selections with markedly improved digestibilities over currently adapted varieties, some as much as 12% higher.

Unfortunately, Ellis says, many of these nutritionally desirable selections also have undesirable weaknesses, such as lack of cold or disease tolerance, poor seed production, or establishment problems.

A number of selections with desirable agronomic and/or nutritional qualities have been further increased and tested under grazing from 2 to 5 years. These grazing trials confirmed earlier nutritional evaluations in the laboratory and agronomic evaluations in small plots.

Some of the best selections had improved digestibility of 6% and increased rate of gain by 42%. But Ellis says these selections did not persist under grazing and especially under heavy grazing for a number of years.

Fortunately, a number of other selections having improved digestibility and/or economic attributes, such as Brazos Bermudagrass, did persist as well as currently adapted varieties. Like Brazos Bermudagrass, they are still being tested by Experiment Station scientists and are not yet available for release.

"We are encouraged by these and other results from the Forage Development Program," Ellis says.

"These results illustrate the progress that can be made in breeding and selecting for improved digestibility and emphasizes the need for evaluation in terms of agronomic, nutritional, and animal production practices that represent the practical aspects of commercial production.

"We believe that these initial successes from research herald even greater developments in forage improvement in the future. The need is very great and the economic payoff can be huge for our livestock industry and the State economy," Ellis concluded.

Dear Friends,

The grievance committee of the combined farm organizations (Farm Bureau, Farmers Union, and American Agriculture) met Monday night March 8, 1982 to reaffirm our goal. We hope that the meeting of March 5 illustrates that the majority of farmers and ranchers along with the business people of Haskell County are open-minded enough to sit down, talk and listen to ideas that will improve this community.

This is the first of many meetings of this committee and we wish to inform the people of Haskell County of the problems facing agriculture in marketing, finance, and with the Governments inadequate efforts to help.

During Friday night's meeting, we attempted to explain in detail what Political Action Committees (P.A.C.'s as they are referred to) were and how they operate.

You do not have to be a member of any certain farm organization or even engaged in farming to contribute to the P.A.C.

P.A.C.'s essentially function to influence our specific opinions in the halls of Congress, in the federal bureaucracy and the media.

The Martin Haley Co. has been involved in professional lobbying since 1952 and have a proven record of success. They will not be representing any single farm organization but all farmers who have contributed to the P.A.C.

This committee feels that the P.A.C. is an essential survival tool which the farmers & business people of this community should support.

The P.A.C. works—it is proven as such and we feel it is time agriculture used it to its advantage.

The choice is ours, we can use this instrument to our benefit or we can revert back to attitudes of "wait and see" or "let 'ol Joe do it." We see the choice as success or failure—it depends on YOU!
