GERMANS HAVE SAVED ARMY

WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS IS BITTERLY ARRAIGNED

SIR LIONEL CARDEN ATTACKS PRESIDENT

FORMER BRITISH MINISTER TO MEXICO SAYS ABSOLUTE
ANARCHY PREVAILS

AT MERCY OF THE LAWLESS

Those Who Fled To Vera Cruz For Protection, Are Now Left Without Hope

By Associated Press.
New York, Sept. 16.—Sir Lionel Carden, one time British minister to Mexico before sailing for Liverpool this morning is reported by the New York City News Association as having made the following statement concerning the withdrawal of American troops from Vera Cruz:

"It is a desperate game that the United States has seen fit to abandon the defenseless people of Mexico when they most need help. I do not know the reason for this but it would seem that President Wilson has been misinformed and that if another side of the situation has been brought to his attention he has not seen fit to recognize it having already made up his mind, and had ignored the actual situation.

At Mercies of Lawless.

"The people who did not get protection in Mexico City and elsewhere went to Vera Cruz for protection. What can they do now? They have no means of getting away and will be left to the mercies of the lawless element that will immediately overrun the town and country.

"When it is said that a state of absolute anarchy prevails throughout Mexico the situation is not overstated. Neither life, liberty nor property is safe and whenever an officer or soldier may turn a family out of its house and commander everything. There is no reason for there are no courts, no congress, no laws, nothing but anarchy and military despotism with not even a supreme chief to oversee them.

No Semblance of Government.

"Huarta had some sort of a government. Carranza has none, whatever. The only claim he has to greatness is his physique and that is not so terrifying either. There is no martial law, for there is no semblance of a government to enforce it."

EVACUATION WAS ORDERED YESTERDAY

Washington, Sept. 16.—Evacuation of Vera Cruz was ordered Tuesday by President Wilson.

American soldiers and marines under General Funston, who have held Mexico's principal seaport since it was seized by the army April 21 last, will be ordered to leave as soon as the transports can go after them, and shortly afterward all of the war fleet except a few light draft vessels will be withdrawn.

The evacuation order was announced at the White House, after a long cabinet meeting. It is the concluding chapter of the second armed conflict between the United States and Mexico, in which a score of Americans lost their lives, nearly a hundred were wounded and upwards of 300 Mexicans were killed or wounded.

The reasons for the step were set forth in the following statement late today from the White House:

"The troops have been ordered withdrawn from Vera Cruz. This action is taken in view of the entire removal of the circumstances which were thought to justify the occupation. The further presence of the troops is deemed unnecessary."

ALL BUT THREE WRECK VICTIMS IDENTIFIED

Missouri Public Service Commission
Begins Investigation of Yesterday's Wreck

By Associated Press.
Springfield, Mo., Sept. 16.—All but three of the twenty-seven victims of yesterday's wreck of the Texas Limited on the Frisco railroad had been identified today. Thirteen of the victims were men, five were women, and one was a child. The victims were identified as follows: "E. F. W." a woman, aged 25 or 30 with a ring engraved "E. V. to T. K. April 8, 1912," and a small baby. The Missouri public service commission today began an investigation of the wreck. A statement given out by W. C. Nixon, receiver of the road today said that never before after heavy rains had the company experienced any trouble at the gully where the wreck occurred.

GERMANS STILL CLAIM FAVORED IN BATTLE

General Staff at Berlin Says It Will Be Several Days Before Result Is Known

By Associated Press.
Berlin, via Copenhagen and London, Sept. 16.—The German prospects in the battle in the Marne region are still characterized in Berlin as favorable. The general staff has authorized the announcement that no where along the battle line has the British or French won a victory. No details of the fighting in France are given and it is said no decisive turn of events seems probable for several days.

TUCKERTON WIRELESS OUT OF COMMISSION

Generator Burned Out and One of
Two Wireless Plants in U. S. Is Silenced

By Associated Press.
New York, Sept. 16.—The Tuckerton, New Jersey, wireless station, one of the two plants in the United States in direct touch with Germany, was closed today. The United States Naval lieutenant in charge of the station said that one of the generators of the plant had burned out last midnight. He said there was no evidence of any tampering with the machinery. The station is out of operation for an indefinite period unless parts for its repair, which are made in Germany, can be secured in the United States. There was a large amount of private and government business on hand to be flashed across the Atlantic when the break happened.

DELINQUENT TAX COLLECTORS MAY BE STIRRED UP

By Associated Press.
Austin, Texas, Sept. 16.—Several tax collectors who have failed to file their annual settlement papers, are liable to have official complaints filed against their records. These statements now are nearly four months overdue. The comptroller now compiling his annual report up to August 31 cannot complete the document until these reports are filed. There is no legal penalty for delinquency in filing.

SPECIAL AND STAMP TAX

FRAMED TO ELIMINATE
FREIGHT TAX

SIMILAR TO 1868

Banks, Picture Shows, Theatres,
Brokers and Many Others Will Pay Special Tax

By Associated Press.
Washington, Sept. 16.—As agreed upon by the Democratic caucus the war revenue bill was reframed today to eliminate the freight tax and provide special levies.

Special Taxes.
It will tax banks with a capital and surplus not exceeding $25,000, $50 a year, and $2 for each additional thousand; stock brokers, $50; pawn brokers, $20; commercial brokers, $20; custom house brokers, $10; proprietors of theatres, museums and concert halls, $100; circuses, $100; public exhibitions, $10; bowling alleys and billiard halls, $5 per alley or table; dealers in leaf tobacco, $6 to $24, according to the volume of business; dealers in tobacco, $15, and manufacturers of tobacco, $5 to $24.

Stamp Taxes Proposed.
The stamp taxes proposed subject to probable revision by the committee in detail follows: Bank checks, 2 cents; drafts or bill of exchange in hand, 2 cents for each $100; certificates of deposit, 3 cents; promissory notes, 2 cents for each $100; express receipts 1 cent; freight receipts or domestic bills of lading, 1 cent; telephone messages costing 15 cents or more, 1 cent; bonds $50 cents; certificates of the deposit, 2 cents per $100; certificates of damage, 25 cents; certificates not otherwise specified, 10 cents; charters, $3 to $10; brokers contract, 10 cents; conveyances, 50 cents for each $500; telegraph messages, 1 cent; life insurance policies, 8 cents on each $100; marine, inland, fire, casualty, fidelity and guarantee insurance, one-half of one per cent, leases 25 cents in trust, 25 cents for each $1500; power of attorney to vote, 10 cents; power of attorney to sell, 25 cents; promissory notes, 25 cents; warehouse receipts, 25 cents.

NOTED BOER GENERAL KILLED BY ACCIDENT

Shot By Police Through Mistake
While Watching For Marauders
Near Johannesburg

By Associated Press.
Cape Town, South Africa, Sept. 16.—General Jacobus Delarey, the well known Boer general, has been accidentally shot dead near Johannesburg. General Delarey accompanied by General Bries, who has just resigned his position as commander in chief of the defense forces of the Union of South Africa, was returning to his farm near Johannesburg in an automobile when the police, who were watching for a gang of desperadoes known to be using a car similar of that of Gen. Delarey, challenged the general. It is evident that none in the car heard the challenge, for they proceeded without stopping. The police fired at the car and General Delarey was killed.

The shooting of the general has caused a sensation throughout Africa, as he won a high reputation as a military leader in the Boer war and took an important part in the peace negotiations.

STATE BANK SUBMITTED

GOVERNOR ASKS LAW CREATING
"THE BANK OF TEXAS"
FROM LEGISLATURE

CAPITAL $20,000,000

School Funds Would Be Invested and State School Board Would Organize Bank

By Associated Press.
Austin, Sept. 16.—In a special message to both branches of the legislature Gov. Colquitt presented for consideration his recommendation for the passage of a law providing for the establishment of "The Bank of Texas." The reading of the message elicited much applause.

Capital of $20,000,000.
The proposed bank is to be capitalized at $20,000,000, $17,500,000 to be taken by the state board of education for the school fund with the bonds now owned by it. The state banks are required to become subscribers of the capital stock in the sum of $2,500,000.

Provision is also made for National banks to become stockholders. The proposed bank is to be capitalized at $20,000,000, $17,500,000 to be taken by the state board of education for the school fund with the bonds now owned by it. The state banks are required to become subscribers of the capital stock in the sum of $2,500,000.

Says Will Boost Cotton.
The governor says he believes the act is entirely constitutional. He declares that the bill which the legislature has just passed guarantees warehouse receipts and has inspired confidence, and the price of cotton has materially advanced, and adds: "If the subject herewith submitted is promptly enacted into law there will be, even under distressed conditions, a still further very substantial advance in the price of cotton."

Many Favor Move.
Representative Calvin is to introduce the state bank bill in the House. He is getting a number of members to join with him in the measure. He has obtained about 25 signatures of members who declare they favor the general policy of the measure, but would not commit themselves to the passage of the act at the present session.

The bill provides that the organization of the banks is to be perfected by the state board of education which is made an organization committee.

Senate Refuses to Adjourn.
The Senate today refused to fix the date of sine die adjournment for next Saturday. The Senate killed Senator Johnson's resolution to that effect by a vote of 15 to 8. The Clarke bill prohibiting interlocking directorates of cotton gins and the McGregor amendments were considered but action was deferred.

The Senate then took up the Wythe cooperative marketing bureau bill and adopted an amendment placing bond. Complaints of cattle thefts near this morning as a result.

Two Bills Finally Passed.
The House passed today final the Coke bill providing for the divorce of cotton gins and oil mills after adopting an amendment providing that the act shall not become effective for nine months. The permanent warehouse bill was passed finally by a vote of 95 to 18 thereby making the act effective at once.

FLEEING TROOPS REFORMED IN BATTLE LINE--ANOTHER FIGHT IN PROGRESS

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Sept. 16.—The German general staff announces that the west front is still most favorable to the Germans. It declares that the French and English have at no place on the whole battle front won a victory and that the Germans can look with confidence on the outcome. Other than this no news is obtainable regarding the battle.

GERMAN PLAN IS NOT CLEAR

NOT KNOWN WHETHER PRES-ENT FIGHT IS MERELY TO COVER THEIR RETREAT.

CONSUMMATE SKILL

Retreat of Germans Was Carried
With Surprising General-ship.

By Associated Press.
London, Sept. 16.—The second great battle in northern France since the outbreak of the war has now met its check now is in progress.

The opposing lines are arrayed from the Argonne Hills through Reul Heights, Chateau Porcien and near the Soissons where the program of the French summer maneuvers contemplated cavalry training on a large scale for this very day. Whether the Germans plan to fight to a finish at this point or plan merely to cover their retreat to the river Meuse is not clear, but the German commanders are displaying the same consummate skill in their retreat displayed by the allies a fortnight ago.

The allies have retrieved their perilous position and have turned the tables on the invaders, but the next move is with the Germans, whose armies are still in great force on a ground more or less selected by themselves.

The disaster, for it seems nothing less, to the Austrian armies, means that Germany will have to rely mainly on herself, hence there will be a greater interdependence between the eastern and western armies. What new forces Germany can put into the campaign in the western theatre must depend in a great measure upon how far she can neglect the Russian movement on Breslau, the capital of the province of Silesia, 190 miles southeast of Berlin.

According to reports today Emperor William himself has made the German armies opposing the Russian advance.

There is the usual diversity of story today regarding the Austro-Serbian operations. The Austrian general staff claims to have driven the Serbians out of the province of Banap and from the district of Slavonia. The Serbians, however, heretofore have shown a marked capacity for reappearing in the same territory from which they have been driven after these defeats. They claim they are now bombarding the Hungarian town of Orofova.

The war indemnity demanded by the German troops in towns traversed in Belgium and northern France reached a total of $144,300,000. Only a very small part of this sum, however, has been paid.

GERMANS PLAN ANOTHER BIG BATTLE

GERMANS MAKING DESPERATE

SUING ALLIES

GERMANS FAVORED

Defensive Line On Higher Ground
But Fields are Soft for Heavy Guns

By Associated Press.
Paris, Sept. 16.—According to an official announcement made this afternoon the German army is fighting a defensive battle along its front from Noyon to a point north of Verdun. The official communication of Monday said that the enemy showed a disposition to resist north of Aisne River. It would thus seem that there must be another big battle in progress since Sunday, as a simple rear guard stand of the Germans against the allies would scarcely last 48 hours.

The forces that constituted the center in the battle of Marne seem also to be seeking a position on the advance line, while the crown prince's army in Argonne continues to retreat in that direction. The Germans have on their line the advantage of high ground with the right protected by the rivers Oise and Aisne.

If the center and left are able to complete a retirement in such shape as to make a stand on the same line they may be able to sustain a general engagement under more favorable conditions than on the Marne.

The battle line at this time is nearly straight from the west to the east. In case the German force should retire again they would have two lines of retreat by Longwy and Sedan. It adverse conditions the Germans have been able to get their artillery in position through the mud. The situation would be desperate in case of defeat for the heavy rains continue and under the circumstances the Germans could hardly get their artillery off the field.

It was rumored last night that the Indian cavalry had arrived and was being sent to the front.

GREAT BATTLE ON

Germans Are Making Stand On Line
From Noyon To North of Verdun

By Associated Press.
Paris, Sept. 16.—The following official communication was given out this afternoon:

"During the days of the 14th and 15th of September the rear guard of the enemy, with which our pursuing forces were in contact were re-inforced from the main body of the German army. The enemy is now engaging in a defensive battle along their entire line. Their positions show strong organization.

THE LINE OF BATTLE

"This front is bounded by the region of Noyon, the plains to the north of Vic-Fur-Aisne and Soissons, Laon, the heights to the north and to the west of Rheims and a line which runs thence to the north of Ville-Fur-Pourbe to the west of the Argonne region and which is continued thence beyond the Argonne by another line which passes north of Varrenes a point that has been evacuated by the enemy, and reaches the river Meuse in the neighborhood of the forest of Farges which is north of Verdun.

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN

"During the pursuit of the enemy many prisoners were surrendered to our troops after the battle of the Marne. To these men there has been added a large multitude of stragglers, who were hidden in the forest. No exact accounting of these prisoners nor of the war material captured by us so far has been possible. It is for this reason that the minister of war does not want to give out figures which might seem fantastic and has refrained from making a statement.

RUSSIAN ARMY OF VILNA RETREATING TO VISTULA

By Associated Press.
Berlin, Sept. 16.—According to documents found on Russian prisoners the remainder of the Russian army of Vilna whose defeat was announced in Berlin yesterday, moved southward to the Vistula river. An official report says that, in fighting that took place August 28 the French destroyed a German field hospital, killing the physician in charge, several nurses and patients. Fifty pieces of artillery captured from the British have arrived at Hamburg.

EUROPEAN WAR INTERFERES WITH SILVER SERVICE FUND

By Associated Press.
Austin, Texas, Sept. 16.—Raising of money for purchase of a $7,500 silver service for the battleship Texas has been interfered with by the European war. Governor Colquitt however, has ordered the service made as $5,000 has been raised. The governor announced this week that he is hurrying the collection campaign in the hope of making full payment when the service is delivered.

Toul—A northeastern French town, 15 miles west of Nancy, and 23 miles from the Lorraine border. Its population is about 11,000. It is bordered on the south by the Moselle River and on the north by the Marne-Rhine Canal. Immediately after the Franco-German war the whole system of frontier defense was revised in France and Toul was made the most formidable of all the new fortresses of the Meuse and Moselle. The perimeter of the Toul defenses proper is nearly 30 miles, and their mean distance from the town about six miles. The city is connected with the fortress of Verdun by the Meuse line of barrier forts. The town's industries include the manufacture of porcelain; its trade is in wine and brandy. It is one of the oldest towns in France. After being sacked successively by Goths, Burgundians, Vandals, and Huns, Toul was conquered by the Franks in 450. The town capitulated in 1870 after bombardment of 12 days.

Meaux—In northern France, on the right bank of the Marne, the chief town of the agricultural region of Brie, 28 miles east of northeast of Paris by rail, with a population of about 13,000. It was here in 1567 that the Protestants tried to seize the French king Charles IX and his mother Catherine de' Medici. The plot failed, the king and queen escaping to their courtiers to Paris. It was the first town which opened its gates to Henry IV in 1594. On the highway to Paris, its environs were ravaged by the army of Louis XIV in 1652 and it was laid under heavy requisitions in 1814, 1815 and 1870. The town has a large trade in cereals, wool, cheeses and other farm produce, and manufactures flour, lumber, mustard, hosiery, and machinery.

Paris to Chalons Sur Marne—The country over which the contending armies fought to the east of Paris, is full of interest. Eight miles out is the town of La Raincy built in the park of the chateau which belonged to the Orleans family and was pillaged in 1848. At this point an electric tramway runs to Montfermeil, two and a half miles away. Eleven miles out of Paris at Chelles was the villa of the Merovingian kings, in which Fredegunda caused Chilperic to be murdered. This town was celebrated for its abbey, destroyed after 1799. A few miles further on is the town of Noisiel, where one of the largest chocolate factories in the world is located. Seventeen miles out of Paris is the town of Lagny, with a population of about 5,000, situated on the River Marne. Here is found the early Gothic church of St. Pierre which is really the choir of an immense abbey church which was begun but never finished. Beyond this place the river makes a detour of ten miles, which vessels avoid by a short canal cut through a tunnel running parallel to the railroad tunnel. Six miles further on is the town of Ebbly, on the Grand Morin, a picturesque river which frequently floods the environs of Paris. Twenty-eight miles from Paris is Meaux, with a population of 15,000, which carries on an active trade in grain and Brie cheese. The Cathedral of St. Etienne is a Gothic edifice begun in the 12th century, whose south tower is still unfinished. Thirteen miles further up the Marne is Fete Sous Jouarre, a small town famous for its mill stone quarries. It was the "divine fortress" of the Gauls. Eighteen miles further east is Chateau Thierry, famous for its manufacture of mathematical and wind instruments. The castle here is said to have been built by Charles Martel. At this point begins the beautiful vineyards of Champagne. Fifty-eight miles out of Paris is the town of Epernay, the center of the champagne trade of France. There are vast cellars used by the champagne makers, consisting of long galleries hewn in the chalk rock. It is estimated that annually 5,000,000 bottles of champagne are laid down here. Beyond Epernay, 9 miles out of Paris, is a very ancient hermitage occupied annually by herons from February to August. Fifteen miles further up the valley of the Marne is the city of Chalons.

Galicia—The largest province of Austria, bounded on the north and east by Russia, and separated from Hungary on the south by the Carpathian Mountains; on the west it is bounded by the province of Moravia and on the southeast by the province of Bukovina. Long winters, with an abundant snowfall, short and wet springs, hot summers and long and steady autumns give it the severest climate in Austria. Its principal agricultural products are barley, oats, rye, wheat, maize, and leguminous plants and its minerals are salt, coal, petroleum, zinc and sulphur. Galicia makes nearly forty per cent of the total production of spirits in Austria. It also manufactures lumber, paper, sugar, and cloth. In 1910 the province had a population of 5,022,126. On the first partition of Poland in 1772, Galicia came to Austria; in 1795 West Galicia was added to the district and the further addition of Cracow was made in 1846.

Bukovina—A small Austrian province in the extreme eastern part of Austria-Hungary lying next to that part of Russia which was formerly owned by Turkey. Its area is 4,055 square miles and its population in 1910 was 800,099. Its industries are brewing, distilling and milling, its agricultural products, wheat, maize, rye, oats, barley, potatoes, flax and hemp. The official language is German. The province belonged originally to that part of Turkey which is now in the possession of Russia. It was occupied by the Russians in 1769 and by the Austrians in 1774. In 1777 Turkey ceded the province to Austria. It was incorporated with Galicia in 1786, but was separated from it in 1849.

Breslau—The capital of Prussian Silesia, on the Oder, 350 miles from its mouth and 202 miles from Berlin on the railway to Vienna. The city is 50 miles from Russian Poland. Its population in 1910 was 511,891. Breslau is exceedingly rich in fine monuments and handsome fountains. The industries comprise machinery and tools, railway and tramway carriages, furniture, gold and silver work, carpets, fur, paper, musical instruments, glass and china. Coal, sugar, cereals, spirits, petroleum and timber are traded in extensively. Breslau is the headquarters of the Sixth German Army Corps and contains a large garrison of troops. In peace times, the city came into the possession of Frederick the Great in 1741. It was recovered by the Austrians in 1757, but was regained by Frederick in the same year, and has since belonged to Prussia, although the French held it for a few days in 1807 and again in 1813.

Conductor Smith Buys a Bale At 11 Cents a Pound
T. B. Smith, conductor on the Wichita Valley, went the "buy a bale" committee one better when he called on him this morning. The committee asked him to buy a bale at ten cents per pound. "I'll make it eleven cents," said Mr. Smith, "and authorize you to buy it from the farmer who needs the money most."

This price is believed to be a top figure, not only for Wichita Falls, but for the entire State, there being no other instances of more than ten cents being given. The committee met with many favorable responses this morning, several agreeing to buy more than one bale, and nearly everyone approached, who could afford to do so, agreeing to buy at least one.

AUTO TRIP IS PLANNED

Eighty Cars Needed and Not Near Enough Have Been Pledged By Owners

Between 300 and 350 business men from Fort Worth will be guests of the Wichita Falls Boosters tomorrow afternoon, coming to this city on a "boosters" excursion. The Pantherites are coming on a special train which will leave Fort Worth early tomorrow morning, visit all the points between Fort Worth and this city during the day and reach Wichita Falls sometime in the afternoon. The train is due to arrive at 3 o'clock, but may not be on time.

Upon arrival here the visitors will be taken for an automobile ride through the residence section and out to Lake Wichita, being given an opportunity to visit all the points of interest. They begin their return trip at 7 o'clock, and their stay in Wichita Falls will be brief.

About eighty automobiles will be needed for the trip over the city and out to Lake Wichita and every local auto owner who can permit the use of his car tomorrow afternoon is urged to join in this expression of hospitality. A number of cars have been promised for the occasion, but many more are needed.

FEW BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED IN AUGUST

Total For Nine Largest Cities of the State Was Only $1,292,304

Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 15.—Figures compiled by the Texas Business Men's Association, show that building activities in the nine principal cities of the State were held in abeyance, to a certain extent, during August, compared with preceding months. August is generally conceded to be one of the dull months in the year in the building line, and this coupled with the shortage of labor in some sections, caused by large crops which are demanding attention at present, are attributed for the slackness in construction activities during last month.

During August construction licenses aggregating $1,292,304 were authorized in these places, compared with $1,372,077 for the same period of 1913. This is the smallest amount issued in any one month of the year. Fort Worth took the lead during August, having sanctioned the issuance of permits totaling $301,100. This is the highest mark reached by that city since July, 1913 and is the first time it has held that position in a number of months. Second place is held by Dallas, there being $220,370 in construction licenses granted that place during the month. El Paso also made a fair showing, and as a result takes third rank. Permits in the sum of $217,410 were awarded in the "Gate City." The other cities which are included in this report and the amounts issued during August are: San Antonio, $175,905; Houston, $153,971; Galveston, $73,517; Austin, $65,885; Beaumont, $39,550; and Waco, $26,295.

CONFERENCE IN OKLAHOMA OVER COTTON SITUATION

Oklahoma City, Sept. 15.—Bankers, cotton growers, merchants and business men of Oklahoma generally met here today at the call of Governor Cruce to consider the cotton situation. It was expected that action would be taken not merely with reference to present conditions in the cotton market, but also looking to the future, in an effort to prevent ruinously low prices next year.

The meeting today was one of the first statewide meetings held in the South to consider this question. Gov. Cruce announced that a plan to reduce next year's acreage and hence prevent a glut of the market had been proposed to him. It contemplated a federal tax on next year's crop of $15 a bale.

Whatever remedy is devised must be agreed upon after mature thought and must involve the entire cotton belt, according to Gov. Cruce's call for meeting which pointed out the danger of a duplication in 1915 of the bumper crop of this year since the European war upset the market situation.

NAVY DON'T WANT DESERTERS BACK

THE YOUTH WHO RUNS AWAY WILL BE GIVEN DISHONORABLE DISCHARGE

REPORT IS NOT CONFIRMED

F. M. Kraus, Recruiting Agent Here. However, Would Not Be Surprised at Order

F. M. Kraus, local recruiting officer for the navy department was unable today to confirm a report published in an Austin paper that hereafter the navy department would make no effort to apprehend deserters. The theory for this reported change is that navy deserters are being reduced to a minimum and that the youth who attempts to desert isn't worth having anyhow. Mr. Kraus believes that such an innovation would be a good one. Going still further, Mr. Kraus stated that he had served four years aboard ship and knew the difference between a Chinese wind jammer with a Scandinavian cook and a modern man of war and there was no excuse at all for any one deserting from the navy. Any one, he said, who expected to do a reasonable amount of work would find it to do on board ship, and it was no wonder that some, thinking the navy was a life of ease, would want to desert when they found that it was like all other pursuits.

Nowadays, Mr. Kraus asserted, it required a stiff examination to get into Uncle Sam's fleet for the reason that the ranks are already well filled. The more severe the test, the less likely are those enlisted to be quitters. Some men would quit the president's chair within two months after election if they were to ever get elected, he explained. Among the sailors, you find the best satisfied men in the world and there is no excuse for any one deserting.

Kraus is a chief mechanic by trade. He said that the navy paid just as much, all things considered, as any private corporation in the United States. There is a fascination, too, in traveling about the world from the sweltering South Sea Islands to frigid Greenland as you work, he said. There is a chance to go ashore at every harbor and make a collection of interesting relics, pictures, etcetera.

"The navy is not all work as you would infer from what I have told you," he said, "for there is amusement on board ship as there are in every place I have ever been. If one has the ability to find it. There is practice as swordsmanship, boxing, swimming and a whole catalogue of other things. There is nearly always a fresh recruit to break in, too."

There is nothing to a deserter, for a man who would desert from such a life isn't going to be steady anywhere, and Mr. Kraus thinks that the recent amendment to the law which states that can be done under the circumstances. "Besides a dishonorable discharge is going to punish them more through life than to capture them and stick 'em in prison," he finished.

THE UNDISCOVERED

By GLADYS HALL.

"Every man," stated Blake convincingly, "every normal, human man has had some romance in his life, at some time or other, of some kind."

A mild grunt from the three men met this statement, and each gazed into the grate with curiously softened expressions.

"Some of us," vouchsafed Fosse a bit grimly, "have something more than mere romance, which always seems somewhat intangible to me—moonlight and summer nights, and the frivolity of things."

"Yes, but we men forget easily," interrupted Davis, checking what promised to be a voluble discourse on the philosophy of romance as interpreted by Fosse—"It's the women who feel the iron in their souls, and who live on and love on, and die with the wonder of it undiscovered."

"Quite true," remarked Deming, who had hitherto been silent and abstracted; "and I will tell you of just such a case."

Somehow all present felt that something was forthcoming.

"Boys," he continued quietly and with an odd depth to his voice, "we've been good pals, all of us, and I alone have been reticent and secretive—now I'm going to show my hand."

"When I was twenty-five I was rather unlike most men at the same age. My life had been, and was, composed of out-door sports, and getting ahead in my father's business—making good the name he had left me."

"Women to me simply did not exist. Just about then came my one serious illness—typhoid—and I was beastly low, nurses and specialists, and vile treatment, and all that, and finally a tedious convalescence, brightened only by the unobtrusive but untiring attentions of my housekeeper."

"One day when I was learning the use of my limbs again, I was sauntering about the house, and in the library I chanced upon a book left there. Presumably the housekeeper had been reading it."

"The book contained some closely written sheets of paper, and how I came to read something not for my eyes I shall never know, but read them I did. It is that letter that makes the love of a woman forever impossible for me. I carry it with me always," his hand rose tentatively to his breast pocket. "That letter," he resumed, "laid bare a woman-soul—the very quintessence of womanhood—all the fierce tenderness, the sublime unselfishness, the glorious self-sacrifice of the love of a woman for the underserving man. As I read I knew that the writer of that letter was the one woman in the world for me."

"And I felt, for the first time in my egotistical, self-sufficient career, a strange doubt, a curious abasement. The following week I was to depart south further to recuperate, and you may believe my departure was a reluctant one."

"In the interval my housekeeper was slightly indisposed with what eventually developed into typhoid, and she must have felt some slight amazement at my assiduous attentions and delightful affability. I was positively amorous with my floral donations."

"Well, as I say, I went south, and had been gone nearly a month when I was called home by a telegram, saying that my housekeeper had contracted typhoid and had died. As she seemed to have no one to make the necessary arrangements, would I come at once and attend to things myself?"

Deming paused, and selected a fresh cigar with punctilious care. "I arrived home," he resumed, "and found that the old doctor had done everything, and that the funeral was that night. I disliked death as being morbid, and therefore an undesirable factor in my thoroughly well-balanced make-up."

"However, I decided to go in and pay my last respects to one who had served me well. She looked quiet and quite at peace. Around her throat was a slender gold chain with a medallion attached. Careless hands had laid it wrong side up, and I bent over her and turned it over."

The cigar glowed fiercely and for an instant, then Deming said very low:

"My picture was in it, and underneath the name and the date in her handwriting."

"That's all, boys. All night I sat gazing at her, this woman who had lived in my house for seven years, on whom I had bestowed some brief snatches of conversation or an occasional appreciative gift; this woman I loved too late, whom I might never touch—who would never know—trying to make reparation to the dead for the blind stupidity I had shown the living."

"In her dear, still face I read the pitiful story—her hopeless love—her loneliness—I vowed then that as she had lived and loved and suffered, so by God's mercy I should too. Next morning—they took her away."

A long, vibrant silence followed. Then the boys departed quietly.

The Little Homes.
O little homes of all the land!
O little twinkling, hidden homes
Of simple gladness, joys unplanned!
I grieve to think that one heart
Roams
Beyond the light of little homes.

O little homes, your arms reach far
In tenderness and service sweet,
To where the very lonely are,
Your lights still keep the warlike feet
From wandering to some noisome street.

All little homes about our land—
Dear, staunch and faithful little homes—
Your bear our hopes, you understand,
And help each restless heart that roams

God's outposts are the little homes!

The society is composed of the girls of fourteen years of age in the Chapel in the factory district, all of whom are very much interested in their work and who make a success of any undertaking.

AZTECS AND FRIENDS ENJOY DANCE AT LAKE TUESDAY
The Aztec dance at Lake Wichita Tuesday evening was a very enjoyable occasion for the hundreds of members of the order and their friends who were so fortunate as to attend. A special car conveyed the party to the lake, where the succeeding several hours were spent where the cooling breezes blow. Excellent music was furnished and the floor was all that could be desired by the most critical devotee of the Terpsichorean art. A late hour found them homeward bound and awaiting the next one with pleasant anticipation. Among those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Ira Brown, O. P. Oliphant, Will Tucker, Lee B. A. Moore, Mesdames Isenmenger, McAbor, Pedigo, McLain and Lyon. Misses McElroy, Walsh, Adams, Ferguson, Mason, Fehmer, Jacobs, Tucker, Harmer, Eckert, Hays, Messrs. Nitsbaum, Durham, Hall, Buecar, King, Moore, Billings, McClure, Cassell, Shipley, Ray, Milton, Hagan, Meade, Moon, Walsh, York, Walkup, White, Davis, Bachman, Chancellor, Zorn and Talbert.

SOLDIERLIKE APPEARANCE IS THE FAVORITE MODE
By a strange coincidence the styles that prevailed in the days of the French revolution are once more repeating themselves in the modes of today. The new suits are fashioned with jackets of different lengths, for one must not forget that their wearers vary greatly in stature. There is, however, a decided preference for those that possess a soldierlike appearance. The long, enveloping coat that recalls the pictured warriors of that distant day is particularly favored. Its ample folds and severe grace, so far removed from the delicate feminine draperies of a less strenuous period, are exceedingly picturesque.

The illustration above shows one model that has received the approval of fashionable women. The original model is made of blue gaberdine, a fabric and color that are still in the ascendant. Barrel shaped buttons distinguish the front, while swathed around the hips are soft folds of the material which are loosely knotted in the rear.

Hands of fitch fur are used to outline the upper ends of the cuffs, while new features. Of course it is much vider, as the newest models extend from three to three and a half yards at the hem, and it is plaited—not, however, in the old time manner of accordion or knife plaiting. The plaits are tubular, a style that is rather unusual, but thoroughly practical.

On some models the Napoleon collar is shown and on it a gay rose of vivid crimson is pinned, for the position of the corsage bouquet is as variable as the little breezes in a summer day.

Another very attractive model fashioned from fine broadcloth tete le negre shade, a color that is exceedingly fashionable this season, was designed with a satin skirt in the same pleasing shade.

Fur trimming will be quite extensively used this fall. On some of the new skirts a pleasing effect is obtained by the border of fur which is placed just above the hem. In his way the fullness of the skirt is cleverly restrained and an attractive silhouette is maintained.

Narrow edgings of fur are also seen on some of the prettiest bonnet-gowns, which are made of delicate chiffons and crepes that are lavishly ornamented with metallic threads.—Kansas City Star.

Today's dispatches tell us the Germans have ceased to retreat. Tomorrow we may expect to hear that the allies followed them too far.

Dallas cotton buyers are receiving orders daily to buy cotton for English concerns, and things are looking a great deal better than they were a week ago for the cotton farmer. Now, if the war is ended within the next month or so, as now seems probable, the chances are that the fellow who holds his cotton will receive at least 10 cents for it before January 1st. The buy-a-bale movement has done much to raise the price. It is a good thing and should be pushed along.

It now looks like Wilson for a second term. The President is saying little, but is staying on the job constantly. The American people generally speaking, seem to approve of that kind of a President. To be sure, he is constantly breaking precedents, but every time this has been done he has given himself a boost for a second term. Usually, when our Presidents get a notion that a second term would not be objectionable, they take a swing around the circle. But there is none of that for President Wilson. He prefers to do his full duty and let the people be the judge as to what that is.

The Governor has sent his message to the Legislature recommending the creation of a central bank at Austin with a capital stock of $20,000,000. The proposition has the endorsement of the attorney general's department. If action is taken on the matter, it may call for a second special session. Summed up, it is proposed that $17,500,000 of the stock shall be subscribed by the permanent school fund, and $2,500,000 by Texas State banks. The bank is to have nine directors, three of whom are to be members of the State Board of Education, three to be named by them, and the other three by State banks. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, when advised of the plan for the organization of a central State bank, wired that he was of the opinion that under the existing law it would be impossible for the bank to issue emergency currency unless it was organized under the National Banking Act and make application under the terms of the Freedland-Aldrich Act as amended. This, however, does not discourage the Governor and Attorney General. Both are of the opinion that, with the securities such a bank will have to offer, it can get all the money that is necessary to conduct the institution.

VICTOR HUGO'S PROPHECY.

"A day will come when the only battlefield will be the market open to commerce and the mind opening to new ideas. A day will come when bullets and bombshells will be replaced by votes by the universal suffrage of nations, by the venerable arbitration of a great sovereign senate, which will be to Europe what the parliament is to England, what the diet is to Germany, what the legislative assembly is to France. A day will come when a cannon will be exhibited in public museums, just as an instrument of torture is, now, and people will be astonished how such a thing could have been." A day will come when these two groups, the United States of America and the united stars of Europe, shall be seen placed in the presence of each other, extending the hand of fellowship across the ocean.

Victor Hugo was a most distinguished French writer, author of the drama "Marian Delorme". His most famous composition was that of "Les Misérables," written in 1862. He died May 22, 1885, and the above prophecy was made just a few months before his death.

THE JEW IN BATTLE.

(New York Paper.)
That there is neither "border nor blood nor birth," so far as gallantry in war goes, was demonstrated by a Jew in the late Balkan conflict.

ceived the Order of the Cross of St. George. He was invalided and sent to a hospital, having been severely wounded in saving the colors of his regiment in the last exertion of his terrible fighting in East Prussia.

From London is reported evidence along the same line from a corporal and two privates of the famous Black Watch who were brought back wounded.

While the corporal was relating incidents of their last battle some one in the crowd asked: "What were the Jews doing?"

The Highlander replied: "Their duty. We had three with us, and bonnier and braver lads I don't wish to see. They fought just splendidly."

A private in the Berkshire regiment added: "We had ten in our company. They were all good fighters, but six won't be seen again."

While the fighting quality of the Jew is undeniable there is a widespread belief in some quarters it does not exist. These incidents and the case of the race who fought with our sailors at Vera Cruz, less than six months ago, should tend to remove such an impression.

THE INCOME TAX DODGERS.

It is incredible that there are not in the United States more than 300,000 persons with an annual income large enough to bring them within the scope of the income tax law—that is, bachelors receiving over $3,000, and married men receiving over $4,000 a year combined. Yet only 300,000, one in about every 350 of the population, made returns, whereas the Treasury officials expected there would be at least 500,000 individual returns. Now, there is a suspicion that nearly half of those who should be paying an income tax are cheating, not having made proper returns, in spite of the severe penalties the law prescribes.

If it be true that anything like this proportion are successfully eluding the collector, it surely behooves the Treasury officials to run them down while law remains on the statute books. Collectors, it is reported, have advised the department that it would be easy to identify in many of the districts men who were liable for an income tax, but who have failed to make returns. Then why not proceed to do so?

It is admitted that a large percentage of the revenue derived from the income tax is spent in the process of collecting it, but if in bringing the dodgers to court it is necessary to spend all the money collected and more besides, it ought to be done, if only in justice to those honest citizens who come cheerfully forward and paid their share.

With the administration preparing to impose an additional tax of $100,000,000 on the country, it is no time for immunity to those who are sneaking out of paying their share under existing laws.

Possibly, in view of the prosperity which the Democrats recently were boasting they have brought to the country, the income tax returns next year will rise far above $300,000. Possibly even Kansas, with her $120,000,000 wheat crop, to say nothing of corn, will contribute more than the $48,000 drop in the bucket which was her share this year.—Washington Herald.

The esteemed Wichita Daily Times, commenting upon a paragraph in this paper with respect to the refusal of the senate to listen to Mr. Ferguson's objection to the confirmation of Governor Colquhoun's appointees as penitentiary commissioners, gives expression to the same sentiment expressed by other papers that inasmuch as Mr. Ferguson's administration would have to stand or fall by the record made in the management of this system, he therefore should have the power and privilege of appointing men who would be in sympathy with his policies. We cannot agree to the statement that his administration will be chargeable with whatever record the management may make, for the reason that the people of Texas by amendment duly adopted provided these positions should be filled for a term of six years, leaving only one member to be appointed by each succeeding governor for the purpose of taking the system out of politics and preventing the very thing Mr. Ferguson is contending for. Since that was the case, we can't see where the nominee can be coming. He will have the appointment of one member of the board when he goes into office and that should be sufficient. For one, should the management under the new system prove a failure, we will not charge the Governor with it. The board will have to shoulder the responsibility.—Denison Herald.

GERMAN MOVEMENT.

It has been quite common for American newspapers since the outbreak of the war in Europe, to speak of the imperial government in Germany as autocratic and to ascribe despotic powers to the Emperor Wilhelm. This is by no means accurate. The German Empire has a constitution and a Parliament, one branch of which is elected by manhood suffrage. The Federal Council is composed of representatives of the upper house or the Diet of Prussia, and represents the individual states of Germany. It is composed of sixty-one members appointed by the governments of these states. Of this number Prussia has seventeen, Bavaria six, Saxony four, Württemberg four, Baden three and Hesse three. No other state has more than two, and the great majority one.

The Reichstag has 397 members, proportioned according to population, and they are elected by manhood suffrage for the term of five years. Of the membership of the Reichstag Prussia has 256, considerably more than a majority.

The Emperor has no vote on the acts of these two bodies. He represents the empire internationally and may declare war, if defensive, and also make peace and enter into treaties and appoint and receive ambassadors. But when treaties relate to matters of imperial legislation, and when war is not merely defensive, the Kaiser must have the consent of the Bundestag.

The Emperor also has the right to the dissolution must be followed by a new election in sixty days.

All laws must receive an absolute majority of both the Bundesrat and Reichstag.

The Bundesrat is presided over by the chancellor of the empire, who also exercises the functions of a prime minister. He is appointed by the Emperor, from 1871 to 1890 Prince Bismarck was chancellor. Wilhelm dismissed Bismarck that year and has had four chancellors since that time.

The Emperor promulgates the laws passed by the Parliament and they must be countersigned by the chancellor. The heads of the various governmental departments do not constitute a cabinet, but act separately, under the direction of the chancellor.

The Bundesrat, besides its legislative function, is under the direction of the chancellor, a supreme administrative and consultative board.

Unlike other constitutional monarchies the ministry is not subservient to the popular will as expressed at the polls or in Parliament, but is appointed and dismissed by the chancellor at his pleasure.

And then the Emperor is also King of Prussia, the largest state and controlling factor in the German Empire, and this lends great weight to the strength of his imperial position. As King of Prussia he controls the appointment of one-fourth of the Bundesrat.

The old Emperor Wilhelm left governmental affairs very largely to his chancellor, Prince Bismarck, but when the present Emperor came to the throne he dismissed Bismarck and has exercised very strong personal influence once in the government. As commander-in-chief of the immense standing army he has great power.

His agency in what was done at the beginning of the present war was unmistakable and he has been the embodiment of the military spirit that has pervaded the empire through all his reign.

The Kaiser is not absolute in so far as the constitution of the empire fixes his prerogatives, but he is a strong-willed man, and he probably really exercises a greater influence in the German government than Nicholas does in Russia, though Russia has no written constitution and the Czar is officially styled and autocrat.—Nashville Banner.

England Needlework Mad—Soldiers Will Be Well Clothed

London, Aug. 25.—(By mail.)—"England is needlework mad," declared Sir George Pragnell at a meeting of the London committee dealing with the prevention of distress. He was speaking in opposition to a plan to create more work rooms out of the Prince of Wales fund and he managed to defeat that scheme. Instead the committee decided to buy goods for the troops in the regular course of business, thus helping to keep trade in its usual channels.

A trip throughout the shops, cafes and public houses in London shows that Sir George Pragnell was correct about the needlework craze. Barmaids, cashiers, waitresses and women clerks are knitting and sewing every leisure moment. The papers abound in notices of guilds which were soliciting the help of the disengaged women in making night shirts and other garments for the soldiers.

"Impossible truck made out of impossible materials" was the way one man described much of the output of the hit or miss sewing circles which are not working under government direction.

Autumn Showing

Being the Annual Exposition Celebrating the Opening of the 1914-1915 Season and disclosing the new Styles in Millinery, Cloaks and Wraps, Dinner and Theatre Gowns, Afternoon Costumes and the Complete ensemble of Madam la Mode for Autumn.

Commencing Thursday Evening at 7:30

The great Style Event of the Season—First in Importance—First in Fashion Authority—and of very particular interest to every Woman within the Territorial radius of this store. The originals of many of the Models in the departments are the products of once peaceful, fashionable Paris—when Paul Pairet was in his designing Salons instead of at the front with his regiment, and all other leading Paris designers were pursuing their vocation of "Creating The World's Fashions." This is the unfolding of the true styles of a new season.

Living Models

Thursday Evening, From 7:30 to 9:30

Will display this wonderful collection of new fall creations. "Seeing the Styles" is an entertaining and interesting lesson in the fashion situation for autumn and winter, 1914-15.

BRITISH AUSTRALIAN FLEET HAS BEEN ACTIVE

Report of Admiral Kady Shows That It Has Done Excellent Work

By Associated Press.
London, Sept. 16.—A dispatch to the Express from Sydney dated Tuesday says that Admiral Kady, commander of the Australian fleet, reports that the German losses in the Bismark Archipelago were 20 to 30 killed and 17 German officers captured.

Considering the dense bush, the trenches and the marked ranges, our casualties were light," the Admiral is quoted.

The Australian fleet left Sydney immediately after the outbreak of the war and co-operated with the China squadron. It searched for the enemy's cruisers, put out of action a German cruiser, protected the New Zealand expeditionary force to Samoa and the Australian expedition to the Bismark Archipelago and patrolled the trade routes.

WHY TEENIE UNDERSTOOD

By JANET REESE.

A long, low white came from a corner of the Charltons' comfortable living room, and ceased abruptly at a sharp exclamation of impatience from young Mrs. Charleston. A little brown body quivered perceptibly at the rebuke, and then sank its sleek head hopelessly on its front paws and gazed mournfully into space.

For three long, agonizing days Teenie's one beloved puppy, the last of the litter, had been missing. Patiently Teenie had searched the large house from garret to cellar, but no baby was to be found. Then she had searched the lawn and the outhouses, all without avail. Spurred by anxiety, she had surreptitiously made several tours along the broad, white road which ran past the house, a place on which she was forbidden to venture alone, lest she be crushed by the insolent chugging cars which sped past the house. But up hill and down dale no puppy was to be found.

At last Teenie gave vent to her grief by off-repeated sobbing little cries, but these had grated upon the nerves of the pretty mistress, and she had slapped Teenie smartly. It was after the slapping that Teenie had crept to the living-room corner, and only in a moment of forgetfulness did she now wall forth her suffering—moments that usually came when she waked from a troubled doze to the harsh reality of her little life and its emptiness.

If the mistress could have made Teenie understand, she might have told her that the puppy had gone to live two miles further up the white road, with people who would be very kind to him, and where there were little children who would love him dearly. But Teenie, unusually intelligent as she was, could not have understood so much, and probably would not have been reconciled had she known the facts; and the young mistress, not always as thoughtful as she might be, perhaps would not have taken the trouble to enlighten the little dog had it been able to understand. And so the mistress went on reading her entertaining little book, and Teenie lay in her dark corner nursing the dull ache of her heart.

A half hour went by, and no sound came from either. Suddenly hurried footsteps sounded along the uncarpeted hall. A timid knock came upon the closed door, and a disheveled, red-eyed nursemaid appeared. At sight of the mistress the maid's face went white, and for a moment she could not speak.

"What is the trouble?" asked the mistress sharply.

"Oh, ma'am, Master Jack's not in the house or the garden. Thomas and me's been searchin' for him for the last hour. Ain't we, Thomas?"

"Yes, ma'am," sputtered Thomas, gazing pop-eyed over the maid's shoulder at the mistress.

From then on pandemonium reigned. Already it was growing dusk, and dry-eyed and terror-clutched, the young mother alternately paced the floor and watched from the windows. There was nothing to do but wait, wait, while her hastily summoned husband and the servants searched the surrounding country for her five-year-old boy. At last the fear and agony within grew to such proportions that for sheer relief the mistress gave vent to a trembling cry, and, sinking upon the floor, buried her face in her hands. And then, from a dark corner of the living room, came an answering cry, and the next moment a hot, feverish little muzzle tried to force itself gently between Mrs. Charleston's tense, white fingers. For a brief moment the fingers did not relax, and then the hands fell slowly from the face of the mistress. As they reached her lap, they clutched, and a hunted look crept into her eyes as a new thought took shape in her mind and grew rapidly. Suddenly she cried out:

"Teenie, Teenie, you know, you know! And it was I who took away your little one, I who made you suffer as I suffer now! And then, oh, Teenie, Teenie, I punished you for crying! And now you try to comfort me. May the Blessed Mother forgive me!"

It was then that the telephone bell rang, and Mrs. Charleston sprang with nervous haste to her feet, almost upsetting the little dog. In response to her trembling "Well!" there must have been exciting news.

"Oh!" sobbed the mistress, joyfully. "At your house? We thought he was lost, Mrs. Doon. I'm so glad, so glad! Came after the puppy because Teenie cried for it? Oh, Mrs. Doon! Well, if you don't mind returning it—Teenie's been so unhappy. You'll bring them both in the car? Thank you, thank you, Mrs. Doon!"

"Teenie, darling!" cried the mistress, "they're coming home, Jackie and the puppy, and they'll be here—here—!" but just then the mistress fainted from happiness, and Teenie barked excitedly for help.

"That actress is doing wretched work in the laundress' role."

"She's playing it true to life."

"How can you say that?"

"Isn't she mangling her part?"

"Women," she simpered, "are the flowers of creation, don't you think?"

"Sure thing," answered the hotheaded man, "and some of them are century plants."

8 CENTS OFFERED FOR COTTON HERE

BUY A BALE MOVEMENT, HOWEVER, HAS KEPT COTTON OFF MARKET

WHEAT STILL NINETY CENTS

Higher Quotations in Liverpool Causes Sharp Advance in Chicago Market

There was some improvement in the cotton situation locally today, eight cents being the spot quotation. Buyers report some improvement in domestic inquiry, which is considered a hopeful sign. No cotton is being offered for sale by farmers here and the market is absolutely nominal. Farmers who are forced to sell are apparently able to find some "buy a bale" citizen who can come to their relief.

Little change is reported in the local wheat market. Ninety cents per bushel is still being paid for wagon wheat here, with very little grain coming in.

Chicago Grain Futures.

By Associated Press.
Chicago, Sept. 16.—Wheat advanced sharply principally on account of higher quotations in Liverpool. Reports that representatives of foreign governments were bidding for 100,000 barrels of flour was also a factor. After opening 7-8 to 2 5-8 above last night prices continued to advance. Corn ascended with wheat. Trade was not large. Seaboard demand for oats seemed to have no limit. Values accordingly went higher. Wheat closed nervous. Corn closed firm. WELSH MINERS PROVE LOYALTY TO EMPIRE

Cardiff, August 24.—Wales, the source of the British navy's coal supply, has shown its loyalty to the king in a manner highly gratifying to the Admiralty. In the face of attempts on the part of labor leaders to take advantage of the present war for the enforcement of demands upon the Admiralty, the Welsh miners have gladly waived all holidays and are working Sundays whenever it is necessary to keep the naval supply of coal up to the required standard. Union officials took the position that it was not necessary for the union men to surrender their holidays, but the miners overruled the ruling of officials, with unanimity.

REPUBLIC OF PANAMA BEGINS RETRENCHMENT

Panama, Sept. 16.—The Republic of Panama has entered upon a policy of retrenchment and economy. The National Assembly will have a materially reduced budget before it for consideration.

It is understood that salaries of all public officials and employees will be considerably reduced.

One of the main reasons is the large decrease in the import revenues due to the war in Europe.

He is traveling by wheel from his home to Chillicothe, where he intends to enter some kind of a riding contest soon. He has been making about sixty miles a day on an average since he left. The chain on his wheel had broken when just a little this side of Jolly and it behooved him to push it the rest of the way. Mr. Ryan stopped over night, had his chain repaired this morning and set out to reach his destination by next Saturday.

KELL MADE HEAD OF WAREHOUSE CO.

APPLICATION FOR CHARTER WILL BE FORWARDED TO AUSTIN AT ONCE.

UNDER OLD WAREHOUSE LAW

Initial Charge Will Be $1.50 Per Bale Including Storage and Insurance

A cotton warehouse for this city was made certain Tuesday afternoon when the Wichita Falls Cotton Warehouse Association was organized at a meeting of the committee appointed by the mass meeting last Saturday. The incorporation papers will go forward to Austin immediately and this morning plans and specifications for the structure are being considered. The officers of the company are:

Frank Kell, president; J. W. Bradley, first vice president; W. H. Myers, second vice president; H. B. Hines, secretary and manager.

The company is organized under the old warehouse bill and will not avail itself of the benefits, if any exist, of the new emergency warehouse measure. A charge of $1.50 per bale will be assessed when the cotton is first stored, this amount paying the initial fees and storage, and insurance for two months; after the second month storage will be at the rate of twenty-five cents per month.

Those who subscribed to the company's stock were requested to make notes for fifty per cent of the amount they subscribed. These notes are to run for six months at eight per cent.

Work will be started on the structure as soon as plans can be adopted and other preliminary details given attention.

"SOFT SOAP" FOR JEWS DON'T DECEIVE THEM

Hypocrisy of Phase "Beloved Jew" Would Make Czars Horse Laugh Says Kennan

(From the Outlook.) George Kennan, who has an intimate and sympathetic knowledge of the struggle for popular institutions in Russia, writes us from Nova Scotia regarding our recent interview with an American Russian Jew.

"The article by the Jew was interesting," writes Mr. Kennan. "It is absolutely true that the anti-Jewish propaganda in Russia is almost wholly the work of the czar, the bureaucracy, and their hangers on in the Black Hundreds. The Russian people do not take part in it except when they are shamefully deceived and misled by the government or its agents. When the peasants participate in pogroms, they do so only because they have been made to believe without a shadow of doubt that the Jews trample and spit on the holy 'ikons' (images of Christ and the Virgin Mary) or murder Christian children to get blood for their ritual service."

"Don't Spit into a Well." "It is amusing to see how the Russian government officials are now trying to placate the Jews because they know that they will need the latter's brains and business ability in the war."

Even Gen. Rennenkampf—that bitter reactionist and Jew-hater—attended services in the Jewish synagogue August 8 in Vilna. The council of ministers, too, has hastily suspended the recent order forbidding Jews to take any active part in corporations or joint stock companies. The Russian bureaucrats should have remembered before the old Oriental proverb: 'Don't spit into a well—you may have to drink out of it.'

"My forecast of the attitude of the Russian people toward the Jews seems to have been accurate. At the closing session of the Duma all hatchets were buried, and the czar described the temper of his people as a 'hurricane of enthusiasm.' In this war, with its 'hurricane of enthusiasm,' could only result in the overthrow of the military autocrat of Europe and the transfer of power to the people? It might be worth all that it will cost."

Manifesto Printed in Yiddish. The American Russian Jew to whose article Mr. Kennan refers sent us the following translation of a news paragraph in the New York Jewish Daily News of August 17:

"A cable from Copenhagen to the Reuter Press Agency announces that among the few German newspapers received her (London) today there is the Frankfurter Zeitung, containing an appeal from the czar to his Jewish subjects, whom he addresses as 'Beloved Ones.' The manifesto is printed in both Russian and Yiddish. It reminds them of the mercies bestowed upon them by the Romanoff dynasty, whose interests they are required to further in common with the Christian subjects, and faithfully serve under the Russian flag. They are promised to return to be loved and granted the right of living all over the empire."

Upon this manifesto our Jewish correspondent makes the following pertinent comment: "It is noteworthy that the Russian government issued this appeal in Yiddish, an act which is unprecedented in the history of the Russian empire. The Jewish language is so repugnant to the Russian bureaucracy that any uncensored printing of it, even on a show card for a shop window, is strictly forbidden. As to the phrase 'Beloved Ones,' its sincerity, to my mind, is of such a character as to make the czar's horse burst from laughter."

At The Theaters

The Lamar Airdome. Tonight is the last night of the engagement of the Gridley Musical entertainers. This act has won much favorable comment during the engagement and is one that is genuinely interesting. Tonight's picture are a two reel comedy, "Why Preachers Leave Home," and a Sterling Juvenile comedy, "A Race For Life." Billy's mother has made some very nice pies and Billy and his chum conspire to steal them. Of course one of the fair sex is mixed up with the theft. Billy calls too much pie and is put to bed for his naughtiness. He dreams about the girl and has all sorts of terrible experiences before he awakens.

The Gem. A Lubin two reeler, "The Debt" is the feature picture here today, also two Lubin split reel comedies, "All For Love" and "She Wanted To Know." "The Sealed Package," a Selig, with Thomas Santchi as producer and also one of the leads, is an unusually strong drama to be only in one reel.

Brian Godfrey and Arnold Lambert are clerks in the diamond broker's office, both interested in Mildred St. Pierre, the daughter of an old employee. For a while she is impartial, but Arnold is too impetuous in his address and she repulses him. Gilbert Howell, a traveling salesman, man of the firm, puts into the vault a sealed package containing valuable private papers. On the same day is placed in the vault a number of fine uncut stones in a similar package. That same evening, old St. Pierre, recalling the fact of leaving some very important papers on his desk is worried and decides to make sure by going back to the office alone to place them in the vault. Arnold Lambert, who is passing that way, observes this move, and his scheming curiosity is aroused. The following morning the loss of the uncut diamonds is discovered; and Arnold Lambert recalls his opportunity of the night before in the presence of the old man at the office and remarks it to Brian. The latter resents the imputation upon the integrity of his hoped to be father-in-law, recalling that Mildred said that any sudden shock would be fatal to her father. Meantime Arnold has been spreading the virus of the story through the office and Brian, thinking to save Mildred's father, accuses himself of the theft. This is believed for and Arnold, now believing she will repudiate the man of her choice in favor of him, phones her. Howell, opening his package in a distant city, finds the diamonds, and realizing his mistake, wires the office that he will forward the diamonds at once. Arnold discomfited and crestfallen, is discharged for his disgraceful action. In the matter, while Brian rises higher than ever in

The Empress. "The Perils of Pauline" are continued today. The twelfth episode will be shown.

Pauline is very angry with Harry because he has prevented her from attending the McCallum wedding, and blames him for causing her recent automobile accident. Harry, however, shows her an account of what happened at the wedding where the lion tamer, true to his promise to Owen, let the lions escape, endangering the guests. Pauline realizes that Harry has acted for the best and becomes reconciled. Owen, not being satisfied with the activities of his friend, Hicks, and who has discovered in the person of the leader of a band of gypsies a man who is as daring as he is unscrupulous, decides to use this man to carry out his plans. He goes to the gypsy camp and makes arrangements with the leader to carry Pauline off and do away with her. The chief uses one of the old women to lure Pauline away from the protection of the house. This old woman under the guise of selling Pauline some of the famous beauty cure or of telling her fortune, gets her to a position where some of the band are hiding. The band capture Pauline and take her to the camp. There the kypsy leader refuses to do away with her as he is much taken by her charms and wants her for himself. This arouses the jealousy of one of the young women of the band to whom the leader had paid a great deal of attention. She decides to get Pauline away from the camp and to achieve her purpose, goes to the house and tells Harry where Pauline is. Harry sets out to get her. When he arrives at the camp he is set upon by the whole band, including the young woman who has exercised her feminine prerogative of changing her mind. He has the fight of his life in getting away.

The Majestic. J. Warren Kerrigan and Vera-Sison are features in a two-part special, "Man and His Brother," "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" is a question often asked and in this Kerrigan as "The Man" answers it to his own satisfaction and at the cost of his own happiness. "A Deal in Statuary" an Edison comedy, featuring Augustus Phillips and Gladys Hulette is the comical story of a young sculptor who would much rather do most any thing except sculpt. "The Substitute Heir," a Selig comedy, borders far on the burlesque, taking for its main plot the old story of the old uncle married to a scheming adventuress. A substitution of babies and such like mixups are in order and hilarious laughter will be the result of seeing this film.

The Victoria. "An Eleventh Hour Reformation," a drama, "Told in the Future" a one part American of more than usual interest and "All on Account of a Jug" an American comedy are today's pictures. A brief synopsis of the latter picture follows:

Nagged by his huge wife until life becomes a burden, Heine leaves for the creek, determined to end it all. He leaves a note to the village announcing his demise. McGlock, the village drunk meets Heine and shares his jug of whiskey with him. Meanwhile the village constable finds the note and notifies Kathrina, who becomes conscience stricken. The villagers drag the lake when McGlock and Heine came floating in a drifting boat in their midst. Then the real fun begins.

The Wichita Theatre. "A Bachelor's Honeymoon" is the offering for tonight at the Wichita Theatre. Last night "The World and a Woman" or "The Deep Purple," by which name it is better known pleased a large audience. The Gilson-Bradfield Stock Company is certainly making a hit here and have so far surpassed all expectations.

Trusted Long Enough. Tom Pence of the Democratic National committee tells of a good sister in one of the Southern States who was late for the service and explained it by saying that the horse she was driving had run away. "You shouldn't let such little things detain you," reproved the pastor. "You should trust in the Lord." "I did," she replied, "till the belly band broke and then I jumped."—National Monthly.

FIRST FALL OPENING OF P. B. M. COMPANY

Department Store Introduced Public To Its Fall Stock of Goods Tuesday Night

The P. B. M. Company formally introduced the public to its stock of fall goods Tuesday night, the fall opening being held at that time. Thousands of customers and friends visited the store during the evening, saw the extensive display of clothing and goods, enjoyed the music and partook of the refreshments. The store had been put in apple pie order for the occasion and presented a most attractive appearance.

This was the first fall opening for this company, which was not in existence a year ago and the crowd which was present attested the tremendous popularity which the P. B. M. Company has gained in such a short time. Music was provided by the Katz orchestra and a male quartette rendered several selections that found much favor with the crowd. At the soda fountain fragrant punch was dispensed to all comers, while those who passed through the men's clothing department were provided with cigars.

On the second floor, which is more particularly for woman kind, there was a display of hats and suits that made that section the center of feminine interest. No goods were sold, but many were tried on and the visitors admired the display to an extent that presages heavy patronage. New and attractive displays of new goods were to be seen on every side throughout the big store. The crowd that thronged the store during the two hours that the opening lasted was one of the largest ever noted at a similar affair in this city.

Look Pleasant

Christmas is fast approaching—the time of the year when you must give a present. The most appropriate offering is a nice, new photograph made by the new photo studio of Beatty and Havis.

Father, mother, baby—did you ever stop and think how soon they may be taken away?

Have you a good photograph of them? If not, do not neglect it, but call and see us before it is too late. We are new people in your city, but have been in the photographic business for 25 years.

Every picture we send out must be so good that it will draw in your friends. Our advertising manager, Mr. Martin, will call on you, so be ready to book an engagement with him.

Buy A Farm

where you can raise your own living and get on the selling end instead of buying end. The population of the United States doubles every 20 years. 1,000,000 foreigners have come to the United States this year up to May 1st. Some one has to feed these people and there is a good demand for all you can raise. The general European war is going to create an unprecedented boom in farming lands. While other nations destroy this country will produce. High priced living is driving the people from the cities and towns. You ought to buy a farm where you can apply your energy in the accumulation of wealth.

If you haven't the money to purchase let us trade you a farm for your city property.

CONSTABLE'S SALE.

The State of Texas, County of Wichita. By virtue of an order of sale issued out of the honorable district court of Wichita county, on 12th day of September A. D. 1914 by the clerk thereof, in the case of N. B. Chenault and John Lynn vs. B. L. Collins and C. W. Brooks. No. 4866, and to me as constable, directed and delivered, I will proceed to sell for cash, within the hours prescribed by law for constable's sales, on the first Tuesday in November A. D. 1914, it being the 3rd day of said month, before the court house door of said Wichita county in the city of Wichita Falls the following described property to-wit: All that certain and undivided one-half interest in 15-16 undivided interest in eighty acres of land being out of section 14 H. & G. N. Ry. Co., abstract No. 397 being off the west side of the east half of section 14; and further described as follows: Beginning on the north line of section 14, said beginning corner being the northeast corner of a certain eighty acre tract heretofore conveyed to G. D. Tarlton and W. W. Buck et al, by deed duly recorded in the deed records of Wichita County, Texas, to which deed reference is here made; thence south with the east line of said tract conveyed to Tarlton and Buck et al 1900.8 varas to a point in the south line of said section 14; thence east with the south line of section 14, 237.6 varas to stake; thence north parallel with the east line of said Tarlton et al tract 1900.8 varas to a point in the north line of section 14; thence west along the north line of section 14, 237.6 to the place of beginning, levied on the 14th day of September, 1914 as the property of B. L. Collins in an attachment herein foreclosed to satisfy a judgment amounting to $2122 in favor of N. B. Chenault and John Lynn, and costs of suit.

Given under my hand, this 16th day of September A. D. 1914.

The White Folks Candidate.

An old darkey was standing on the street corner of 28 Arkansas town talking politics during the presidential campaign of 1912. A white man passing by remarked to him:

"Erastus, why do you waste so much time talking politics; you know nothing about it."

The old negro replied: "Yes I know, too; I know more than you think I do."

The man replied: "You can't even tell who is running for president. Tell me the names of the candidates of the various parties."

The old negro thought for a moment and then said: "Well, de 'Publicans they is runnin' Mr. Taft, and de Aggressives is runnin' Kurnel Roosevelt, and—under—under—(scratching his head in a puzzled way) I done fogits now who de 'white folks is a runnin'."—National Monthly.

COTTE COUNTY ACTIVE WITH COTTON PLANS

Paducah, Texas, Sept. 16.—The farmers of this county met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of sending a delegate to Austin at the request of the governor, to see what can be done in regard to the present cotton situation. Judge W. E. Prescott was elected as the delegate from this county.

Several recommendations were made by the meeting and the delegate instructed to use his influence for such measures, among which was the warehouse question—being the most important of all. Quite a lot of enthusiasm was aroused when the "stay bill" was mentioned. It seemed that a number who had been favoring the stay bill had done some previous work and almost had the

THE WILL OF GOD.

It seems to us quite a protentious sacrifice for the rulers of Europe to make public the statement that it is the will of an all-wise, just God to be in harmony with such devastating carnage as the present conflict abrogates. Our belief in the wisdom and justice of God causes us to believe that the doings of such leaders is prompted by greed and avarice only, and the direct workings of his Satanic Majesty.

This great nation of ours is an example of peace, harmony and prosperity, and, in spite of the pessimist, we are going to receive our share of the blessings that these virtues always bring. We are always ready to contribute our share by bringing gladness to the hearts of those who have been made sad.

Remember, we are always at your service.

CELERY AND IRON.

Celery and Iron belong to the class of remedial agents known as re-constructives. The therapeutic efficiency of these drugs have long been recognized by medical men all over the world. DIKE'S CELERY AND IRON is an ideal combination of the two great tonics to which is added the Hypophosphites, malt extract, beef peptone nux vomica and cinchona. It has no equal when given to weakly, nervous women. It brings color to the face of the pale child. It restores appetite and makes restful sleep. This is not a patent medicine. It is made by one of the largest manufacturers of prescription medicines in the world and the formula is on the bottle.

MEASURING THE HUMAN FORM

Measuring is a fine art that has been mastered by few. The measurement must be figured to a mathematical certainty. The skilled mechanic who measures the parts of an intricate machine may seem to do wonders, but his work is not complicated at all, when compared with the work of the man who measures human bodies correctly. Machines are all the same, but the tailor who has laid the tape on thousands of men has never found two alike. Measuring a man is not merely a matter of the figures on the tape, but the contour and lines peculiar to individuals must be considered. To make a measurement that guarantees a fit requires the eye of an artist and a hand experienced. Tailoring is our business and we know no other. We do one thing and do it well. We can make your fall suit a satisfaction and a pleasure to you.

WE SPECIALIZE

You don't buy your bread in New York, Boston or Chicago. You should not have your coffee roasted there. We roast coffee every day. We specialize in fresh roasted coffee, teas, spices, extracts, sugar creamery butter and Mineral Waters. Will be at old stand 608-10 Ohio Avenue, the balance of the year. Your orders will be taken good care of and appreciated. These lines will be charged until the first of each month to responsible parties as heretofore. We want to give Wichita Falls an establishment that will be a credit to the whole state. We need your co-operation. We feel we are entitled to it. Keep Wichita money in Wichita, and help build up the city. Our big closing out sale going on. Thousands of bargains. COME DOWN AND LOOK US OVER.
