Damages Totalling Million Asked By Former Residents

Fred Spikes and Relatives to Sue Evetts Haley and Others
For Libel.

Suits charging libel and asking damages totalling $1,200,000 in six cases to be filed in Lubbock and Crosby County, are being filed by Fred Spikes, former Floydada resident and now of Lubbock, and the immediate members of his family, according to reports in the state papers. The first of the suits was filed last week in the 99th district court at Lubbock, amounting to $200,000, and naming as defendants J. Evetts Haley, Travis County and former official of the Panhandle Historical Society, the Capitol Reservation lands, and Francis C. Farwell. Four other cases are to be filed in Lubbock County and one in Crosby County, it was announced.

The petition, a lengthy one, recites that the Capitol Reservation Lands, is owner of a large ranch on the Plains and Panhandle of Texas, known as the Capitol Reservation Lands, and on these lands the ranch known as "XIT" was located and that J. Evetts Haley was employed to write a history of the ranch.

Haley, then secretary of the Panhandle Historical Society at Canyon, wrote the book and it was published a year ago. The petition quotes at length from the book containing an alleged attempt on the part of New Mexico authorities many years ago to curb cattle rustling activities. In the book is recited alleged events of the shooting of two of the Spikes brothers and the wounding of a third, the plaintiff in the suit filed. The book was published in the summer of 1929.

Fred Spikes is the son of the late John Spikes and is himself one of those characterized in the book as an alleged member of a "gang of cattle rustlers." His mother, Mrs. Julia Ann Spikes, resides at the age of 88 with her grand daughter, Mrs. Temple Ellis, in Lubbock. Mrs. Spikes is also one of the plaintiffs. Sam Spikes and Ernest Spikes, now of California, and brothers of Fred, will also file suits in Lubbock County in a few days, it was stated.

Jeff Spikes, living in Crosby County, near Cone, is to file action in that county against the same defendants, the reports state. John Veltan Spikes, Robert H. Spikes and Freda Spikes Hunt and her husband, L. E. Hunt, also are plaintiffs in another suit in Lubbock County. They are children of Fred Spikes, and also formerly resided near Floydada with their father.

Clyde Jester, Of Mt. Blanco, Buried Here Late Monday Evening

The body of Clyde Jester, 36, of Mt. Blanco Community, southeast of Floydada, whose death occurred in a Lubbock hospital Sunday morning, July 6, was brought to Floydada for interment, and funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Wall Street Church of Christ conducted by Elder E. B. Mullins, with F. C. Harmon in charge of funeral arrangements.

Mr. Jester's death followed an operation performed in Lubbock, when it was found he suffered from a perforated gastric valve. The body lay in state Sunday night and Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cox on West California Street. A number of friends of the family living in the southeast part of the county, as well as relatives residing at a distance were present for the funeral.

Deceased had lived on a farm belonging to Mrs. Geo. Dickey for the past four years. He was reared in Jack County.

Surviving him are his wife and three children, including two boys and one girl; his father, who resides in the Rio Grande Valley; also by five brothers and a sister. Three of the brothers are Ben Jester of Vernon, Leo Lester of Hedley and Malt Jester. The sister is Mrs. Grover Moore of Hadley.

Glad Snodgrass Sinks Tee Shot To Gather Fame

Glad Snodgrass has joined that exclusive group, the Hole-in-One Club of the golf world. While playing with his brother, Roy Snodgrass, at the Floydada Country Club grounds July 4, Glad sank his tee shot in the cup on the second green, a distance of 118 yards. Par on the hole is three. The hole has a water hazard on three sides and is considered one of the hardest to make on the entire course. Glad won the tilt, incidentally, 8 up.

As witnesses Glad said that he was glad to announce that in addition to his brother he had Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brown who were pioneering near No. 2 and saw the ball roll in the cup. "Boy, I wouldn't take a million dollars for those witnesses," he declared.

The following day after his accomplishment Mr. Snodgrass left for California either to celebrate or to challenge golfers of the west for a game.

Panhandle Refining Co. Refused Permit By City For Station

Company Wanted To Build Wholesale and Retail Station At Main and Crockett.

The request of the Panhandle Refining Company of Wichita Falls, Texas, for a permit to construct a wholesale and retail distribution station for their products on Lot 7, Block 138, a fifty-foot lot located at the intersection of South Main and Crockett Streets, was refused by the city last week, the council voting against granting the permit after the company's representatives and owners of nearby property had been heard.

The permit asked for was for construction of a "plant for the distribution of gasoline, kerosene, naphtha, distillates, lubricating oils and greases." Specifications of construction as desired by the company recited, "Service station upon front end of lot to be constructed of sheet steel, upon concrete foundations, concrete flooring, service station proper to be twenty feet by forty feet with concrete driveways—driveways to be covered by steel canopy; upon rear of lot to construct three welded steel tanks of 11,500 gallons capacity each, of structural steel upon concrete foundations or piers also a twenty feet by forty feet sheet steel or iron building upon concrete foundations. All tankage to be equipped with latest type safety, poppet and vapor valves and appliances. Also the right to construct a two-inch pipe line from railroad right-of-way up and through the alley from said property through Blocks No. 138, 139, 140, 141, 142 and 143, and across the streets lying between said blocks, same to be buried below drainage and sewerage levels."

The petition was presented by J. G. Kilgore, service station manager of the company.

The company acquired the lot on which it asked to build, from Mrs. Elmer Morris several weeks ago. At that time it was said the plan was to construct a filling station on the corner. Among those who attended the hearing to protest the construction proposed were W. Ed Brown and W. E. Meador, both owners and occupants of residence property on corners opposite the location.

Whether or not the city has the right by ordinance now in effect to refuse to permit the construction of buildings considered undesirable in any given section of the city, outside the published fire zone has been the question at the city hall since the refusal of the permit, and study has been made of a new ordinance since passed that it is believed will meet the situation.

Legion Carnival Plans Saturday Party For Kids Of Floyd County

Boys and girls of Floyd County have a treat in store for them on Saturday afternoon of this week when the T. J. Tidwell Shows, American Legion sponsored carnival, playing Floydada, will have in effect prices of only five cents for the kids. Admission to any show or any ride on the grounds will cost only five cents to the boys and girls who visit the grounds during the hours from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. The age limit on the 5-cent offer is 15 years. Sixteen year olds do not get in on the Circus Day bargains, and the prices are good for one afternoon only, Saturday.

The Tidwell Shows, appearing here under the auspices of McDermott Post, American Legion, are drawing good crowds daily. It is the largest carnival to appear in Floydada in recent years. Eight riding devices, a minstrel show and numerous other midway attractions are combined to make it unusually attractive to pleasure seekers.

Honora Childers Will Appear In Feature Of Special Dance-Revue

35 Local People To Take Part In Show at Palace Theatre Next Week.

Featuring dances by Miss Honora Childers who has just returned from New York City where she has been appearing in adagio productions on Broadway, the dance-revue vaudeville, "Half Way to Hollywood," to be presented at the Palace Theatre Wednesday and Thursday nights of next week, July 16-17, gives promise of being the snappiest, most unique, form of entertainment given here this year, declares Jack Deakins, manager of the Floydada theatres.

Includes Five Acts
Miss Childers will be assisted in one of her numbers by Kenneth Henry of this city. Five big acts are included in the revue which includes 35 people, and the entire bill will be produced by local talent.

A style show displaying the latest wearing apparel will be modeled by beautiful girls, and a special chorus trained under the direction of Miss Childers will appear in novelty ensemble numbers. Buck dances by Bill Canady are expected to meet with popular approval. Comedy specialties by Roy Haynes, and song numbers are also included on the program.

Little Randolph Rutledge will sing a special number, it was announced. In addition to the dance-revue the regular picture program will be shown, featuring Bebe Daniels in "Love Comes Along," and also a good two-reel talking comedy.

Manager Deakins, who is enthusiastic over the novel program, is making plans to accommodate a capacity crowd. He has arranged for special music accompaniment for the dance-revue and has had photos made of some of the players in the leading acts for display in the Palace Theatre lobby.

Special Chorus Trains
Dancers who have been training diligently for the past week for the chorus include the following: Thelma Snodgrass, Blanche Hilton, Bernice Bishop, Arth Mitchell, Helene Hay, Ruth Rutledge, Mildred Strickland, and Maurine Hay.

Models for the style show will be Golden Louise Steen, Bonnera Stephens, Audrey Farris, Vivian Evans, Katie Lee Thurmon, Doris Smith, and Ruth Jenkins.

Miss Oma Johnson is pianist for the chorus.

Tickets are on sale at all the drug stores, Manager Deakins announced. There will be no reserved seats, he said.

"This show next week is going to be something different and will be the treat of the season for Floyd County folks, and no one should miss seeing the performances and the movie in connection," he declared.

Girls' 4-H Encampment Tomorrow, Saturday, Planned By H. D. Agent

Harry Graves Speaks
For Jim Young Here
Tuesday Next Week

Harry Graves, representative in the legislature from Williamson County, politically prominent in Texas for many years, will speak in Floydada Tuesday night of next week, July 15, according to announcement received this week from Jim Young headquarters, favoring the candidacy of the Kaufman County candidate for governor.

Graves is one of the state's best known orators. He has a six-day itinerary outlined for next week, beginning at Crowell July 14, 2 p. m., Paducah the same night, Matador July 15 in the afternoon, and on the day after speaking in Floydada goes to Plainview and Tulla, thence to Canyon and Amarillo, Clarendon and Memphis, and on the last day of his panhandle trip to Childress and Quanah on July 19.

Clint Small Rally In Amarillo Friday Night

Amarillo, July 9.—An all-Panhandle rally for Senator Clint Small will be held in Amarillo Friday night of this week.

According to plans of the general campaign committee, assisted by the "Small-for Governor" clubs in cities throughout the Panhandle territory, the rally will draw a crowd of thousands and will be the greatest political gathering in the history of this section.

Reports coming to Grover Hill, chairman of the Amarillo committee are to the effect that large delegations of Clint Small supporters will be on hand from every city and community throughout the Plains. The rally will be held on the courthouse lawn, a special speaker's platform having been erected this week for the occasion.

Freak Hen Egg With Long Tail Found Saturday

'Tis an ancient saying that "thereby hangs a tale," but this time there's an egg attached. Jim McPeak brought the Hesperian office Saturday morning a hen's egg with a tail. The specimen was small, measuring two and one half inches in circumference around the large end and one and two-eighths inches in circumference at the "tail." The egg was exactly two inches in length and had a very thin shell.

The unusual poultry product was found by Miss Jack Thurmon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thurmon in West Floydada, when she gathered the eggs from the hens' nests Saturday, Mr. McPeak said.

Railway Commission Conducts Hearing On Truck Freight Rates

Floydada Operators Attend Meeting Conducted By Pat Neff At Lubbock.

Testimony on the desirability of continuing the flat rate instead of establishing a classified hauling rate on freight handled by trucking lines in West Texas was heard by Pat M. Neff, chairman, and representatives of the State Railroad Commission in a hearing conducted Wednesday at Lubbock and attended by operators of approximately thirty lines in this division of the state. Mark Marshall, director of the motor division of the railway commission, assisted in conducting the hearing. The meeting was held at the Hotel Lubbock.

R. A. Burrows, operator of the Floydada to Lubbock truck line, A. N. Ward, who operates the Floydada to Plainview line, and S. W. Ross, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, and D. E. Grisham of the Floydada Grocery attended the meeting but did not testify before the commission. Mr. Ross and Mr. Grisham went over to act as witnesses favoring the present rates in effect but the testimony presented was so emphatically in favor of a flat rate in operation to the classified rate on first, second, and third class freight that Mr. Neff stated that he would just admit that all of the testimony would be of a similar nature and conclude the hearing.

The testimony and facts taken will be presented before the railroad commission in session at Austin and the decision announced later, it was stated.

An application had been filed with the commission for the continuance of the flat rate but other interests had objected and demanded the classified rate, necessitating a hearing on the matter.

'Good Will' Banquet Given by H. D. Club at Sand Hill School Tonight

LOCAL BALL PLAYERS LOSE GAMES TO PLAINVIEW AND SOUTH PLAINS IN WEEK

The Floydada Baseball team, an aggregation of players assembled by J. R. Yearwood to meet a similar team at Plainview on July 4 and in Floydada on Sunday afternoon, lost both their games. The score of the 4th of July was 6 and 7 and the South Plains game 11 and 16.

At Plainview Dixie White was the starting pitcher, with McAtee as relief man. Wells caught the game. The rest of the line-up put Smith on first base, Curry on second, Daily on third, Johnston at short stop, Mickey in right field, Holt in center and Womack in left. This game was a part of the program for the American Legion Fourth of July celebration in Plainview.

For the game with South Plains here Sunday, Yearwood, McAtee and Bean were batteries for Floydada. Bean and Thornton went the route for South Plains. The defensive work of the teams was not up to par, the locals in particular booting the ball about.

Only a fair crowd saw the game here.

Sporadic Fever Cases Prompt Warning From City Health Officer

Appearance of sporadic cases of typhoid fever over Floydada and Floyd County during the past two weeks has prompted local physicians to issue warnings to those among whom they practice to take all reasonable precaution against the appearance of this wasteful disease in their families.

City Health Officer Lon V. Smith, asked this week about the spread of the disease, said it had not taken on the stages of an epidemic as yet, but that there are several cases, reported. "All sanitary measures are valuable, of course," the health officer said, "and cannot be too strongly recommended for the benefit of the general health of the community. However, the one sure typhoid preventive which every head of a household should see that his family has, is the typhoid inoculation, which, at very small cost, gives protection against the tremendous expense, illness and hazard of death which goes with the disease."

Any reputable druggist can furnish the serum and the practitioner whom you use regularly in your family will be glad to give the immunizing treatment, Dr. Smith pointed out. "The hazard of contracting typhoid is too great and the measures that can be taken are too simple for anyone to take the chance that goes with failure to immunize against typhoid," he said.

Son Of J. H. Fondy Died Late Monday In Office Of Tulla Dr.

Horace S. Fondy, 42, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fondy of one mile south of Floydada, died at the office of Dr. C. U. McFarling of Tulla Monday evening at 6 o'clock, some two hours after entering the office complaining of an acute indigestive disorder. Leakage of the heart was a contributory cause of death, the doctor certified.

The body was brought to Floydada in a Harmon motor hearse Monday night for interment in Floydada Cemetery, J. H. Fondy, father of the deceased man, also making the trip to Tulla.

Funeral services were held at the J. H. Fondy home one mile south of Floydada Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by Elder J. J. Day, and interment was made in Floydada Cemetery.

Deceased with his family were residents of Amarillo but were in Silverton on a visit with a daughter when his death occurred.

Surviving members of his family are his wife, two sons, H. S. Jr., and Artie, and five daughters. The daughters are Mrs. Gladys Sexton of Silverton, and Lillian, Thelma, Marie and Kathalyn. All of these were here for the funeral. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Fondy of this city, one sister, Mrs. W. T. Murphy, of Snyder, Texas; and eight brothers, D. V. of Los Angeles; Joe B. City; John M. of Slaton; Clarence of Tacos; Floyd O. and Homer L. of Casper, Wyoming; Henry of Amarillo; and Dan and Fred of Floydada.

Deceased was a native of Tarrant County, Texas. He had resided in Amarillo for the past several years.

REV. PALMER RECUPERATING

Rev. G. T. Palmer, pastor of the First Methodist Church, is able to be up this mid-week after being confined to his bed for almost two weeks. Although his condition has not been serious, his recovery has been slow. It is expected that by Sunday, he will be able to fill his pulpit again.

FALSE FIRE ALARM MAKES BUSINESS PICK UP ON 4TH

Somebody turned in a false alarm Friday afternoon at 4:55, possibly with the idea of making a livelier Fourth of July in Floydada. The fire department, answering the call, found no fire to extinguish when they reached the scene.

Preparations Made For 200 Guests At Affair

Proceeds Will Be Added To Fund To Send Kitchen Band To A. & M.

Preparations are being made to entertain 200 guests this Thursday night at the general "Good Will Banquet" given at the Sand Hill auditorium by the Home Demonstration Club of that community. Proceeds of the banquet will be added to the fund for defraying the expenses of the Sand Hill Kitchen Band to the A. & M. Short Course this month. Twelve members of the band will make the trip and will appear on the program at the annual meeting of the club women, demonstration agents, agricultural authorities at College Station July 26.

Members Sell Tickets
Tickets to the affair have been on sale by members of the Sand Hill club during the past week and invitations have been made to Floydada residents and those residing in other communities to attend.

The banquet will begin at 8 o'clock and a special program has been arranged. Music will be furnished by the band. Mrs. J. V. Greer, president of the club, will preside as toastmistress.

The program will carry out the "good will" idea with representatives from Floydada and Lockney clubs taking part. Following is the program as was announced this morning:

Toastmistress—Mrs. J. V. Greer.
Devotional—Bro. Chas. Smith.
Welcome Address—Mrs. A. R. Hanna, Sand Hill.
Response—Miss Ruth Stegall, Floydada.

Rotary Club, Lockney, Address Lions Club, Floydada, Representative's Address—J. C. Wester.

Rotary Club, Floydada, Representative's Address Homer Steen.

1922-1929 Study Clubs, Floydada—Song by Mrs. E. L. Angus, and two readings by other representatives.
Lockney Women's Club—Reading by Mrs. Stevenson.

Menu Given
Following is the menu that will be served tonight: Fried chicken and gravy, snap beans, parsley potatoes, spiced beets, combination salad, coffee, ice cream and cake.

The twelve members of the kitchen band who will play tonight and who will form the group for the A. & M. trip are as follows: Mesdames J. V. Greer, W. M. Knight, A. R. Hanna, H. D. Shurbet, Jim Holmes, H. N. Ellis, Elmer Mickey, W. M. Jeter, W. E. Miller, Edd Holmes, Harding Jackson, and Maggie Tinnin.

"Come out and enjoy the evening with us," Mrs. W. E. Miller said in issuing the invitation. "Tickets for those who have not purchased them will be on sale at the door."

City Delinquent Tax Collections Will Be Pushed, Council Plan

Decision by the City Council reached recently to push the collection of delinquent city taxes, has resulted in the perfecting of arrangements to give statutory notices to persons whose property is listed as delinquent for 1929 and previous years, according to City Secretary Burl Bedford, who said the council had instructed him to prepare and mail the notices at as early a date as practicable. Steps will be taken according to the plan to file suits where necessary after the required time has been given the delinquent before instituting suits.

Approximately $10,000 is on the city's delinquent rolls, and of this amount about $5,000 is on the roll of the year 1929.

WEATHER AND CROPS

"The weather of the week has been practically unchanged from an average high temperature of 90 to 94 to a low of around 60 degrees, except for Tuesday afternoon when showers fell over portions of the north half of the county.

Crop reports indicate that the row crop fields are clean, the stands good and in some sections the crops are making good growth where the June rains were plentiful. In other sections, rain is needed, but if it falls within the next ten days the county generally will likely see one of the most satisfactory row crops in recent years.

Local Men To Hear Legge And Hyde Make Speeches In Amarillo

Federal Farm Board Chairman And Secretary of Agriculture Speak Tomorrow.

A large delegation of Floydada and Floyd County farmers and business men are making plans today to gather in Amarillo tomorrow to hear Alexander Legge, chairman, of the Federal Farm Board and Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture who are scheduled to speak in that city on the wheat situation.

Legge and Hyde are making an extended tour of the wheat belt, speaking during this week in Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, with the Amarillo engagement the only appearance in Texas. Reason for their tour of the wheat belt is the present low ebb of the wheat market. It is anticipated that they will discuss the world wheat situation, and will undoubtedly have much to say regarding cooperative marketing and the Farm Board's policies now and in the future. Their visit to Texas is being sponsored by Texas A. & M. College.

Among the local farmers and business men who are making plans and will possibly attend the speaking in Amarillo tomorrow from the Floydada section, are W. N. Jones, J. D. Christian, W. C. Cates, Jas. K. Green, W. Ed Brown, R. Fred Brown, S. W. Ross, J. W. Lanier, Tom Gill, and possibly other interested farmers and business men from this section.

Dr. Morgan Henry Of Lockney Dies July 4; Funeral Held Tuesday

Dr. Squire Morgan Henry, 67, prominent physician in Lockney where he has made his home since 1918, died Friday, July 4, in Los Angeles, Calif., where he had gone about five months ago for treatment, and the remains were returned to Lockney and interment made in the Lockney cemetery Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Henry, his wife, and their daughter, Mrs. Emma Peck of Wasco, California, accompanied the body home from California.

Funeral services were conducted at the Lockney auditorium Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock with the Rev. Woodridge, pastor of the Church of Christ at Plainview, in charge. Complying with a request made by Dr. Henry before his death, Dr. C. Lowe of Lockney, life-long friend, made an address at the services. Mr. Lowe eulogized Dr. Henry, praising the qualities of a life that had been an inspiration and comfort to fellowmen.

Services at the grave-side were in charge of the Masonic order with which Dr. Henry had been affiliated since he was 21 years old. He was a member of the Church of Christ. Dr. Henry was born near Cinthanna, Ky., January 1, 1863. He was married to Sarah Alice Davenport in Fannin County, Texas, in 1886.

He was actively engaged in the practice of medicine for 39 years, having made his home in Lockney since 1918. He had been in ill health for several years and went to California several months ago for treatment of cancer of the stomach. He was a patient at the White Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles.

Three Children Survive
Deceased is survived by his wife, two sons, one daughter, four sisters, and one brother. Dr. Colvern D. Henry, prominent physician of Plainview is a son of the deceased; Charles Morgan Henry, the other son has been residing with his parents; Mrs. Lou Emma Peck, the daughter, is making her home at Wasco, California; the surviving sisters are as follows: Mrs. C. H. Taul, Albuquerque, N. M.; Lou Foster, Wenatche, Wash.; Martha Griffith, Bonham; and Rebecca Goodrich of Amarillo.

Judge and Mrs. Wm. McGehee, Dr. Lon Smith, P. G. Stegall, and others from Floydada attended the funeral.

Candidates Invited To Prairie Chapel Supper

All candidates for Floyd County Public offices are especially invited, together with all other residents of the county, to be present at Prairie Chapel on Friday night, July 18, when the Prairie Chapel Home Demonstration Club is sponsoring an ice cream supper.

The ice cream supper is being given for the purpose of raising funds to send a member of the Prairie Chapel club to the A. & M. Short Course in August. According to the announcement received by the Hesperian, the ladies state that there will be lots of cake and cream and "it will cost you only a few pennies you won't miss." The announcement reads: "Come on, boys, bring your best girl. We have a surprise for your girl."

The Mazaroff Mystery

by J.S. Fletcher

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I.—Mervyn Holt, bachelor World War veteran, is engaged in London, by a man calling himself Salim Mazaroff, as a traveling companion. After a short tour the two put up at the Woodcock Inn, on Marrasdale moor. They meet, casually, Mrs. Elphinstone and Miss Merchison, and later, Mazaroff informs Holt that they are his wife and daughter, who have long believed him dead. Mazaroff's right hand, he tells Holt, is Merchison. He had left his wife shortly after their marriage, before the birth of the girl, of whose existence he had been unaware. That night Mazaroff falls to return to the hotel, and there is no explanation of his disappearance.

CHAPTER II.—Holt meets Miss Merchison—Sheila—and with her goes to her cousin's (Vernor Court-hope) shooting box, hoping to learn of Mazaroff's whereabouts. At Court-hope's is a man named Armitrade and a London doctor, Eccleshare. They know nothing of Mazaroff. Police Sergeant Manners and a news-paper man, Bownas, question Holt. Mazaroff's body is found in "Reiver's den." He has been shot. The dead man's lawyer, Crole, with May-thorne, private investigator, arrives. Crole having heard of his client's disappearance. He tells Holt Mazaroff carried diamonds worth a large sum, and was in the habit of making a display of them incautiously. Neither the diamonds, nor anything of value, are found on Mazaroff's body.

CHAPTER III.—Mrs. Elphinstone scoffs at the idea that "Mazaroff" is Merchison, and produces apparent proofs of his death. Maythorne finds something at the scene of the murder, and pockets it. A gun found near the spot is identified as the property of Mazaroff, and is found in the Woodcock Inn. It had been stolen from him.

CHAPTER IV.—Evidence at the inquest proves "Mazaroff" was Merchison. His will, made a few days before his death, leaves all his money, an immense amount, to Holt. Mazaroff had the will in his possession, and it is missing. A shiftless character named Parslave is found to have left Marrasdale moor hurriedly. From Mazaroff's papers it is learned that Herman Kloof, then in London, has been a close friend of Mazaroff's in South Africa.

CHAPTER V.—Kloof tells Crole "Mazaroff" had two remarkable diamonds in his possession. It is learned that he had offered to sell these to Lord and Lady Loeke. Lord Loeke says "Mazaroff" had one of those stones and Armitrade the other. Maythorne brings the stones to Cottingley, into the affair as an investigator. Sheila comes, alone, to Holt's room in London. May-thorne is there.

CHAPTER VI.—The girl has Merchison's missing will, which she has "stolen" from her mother. Her explanation seems to link Mrs. Elphinstone with the murder. May-thorne produces a brooch, the object he had found at the scene of the murder. Sheila does not recognize it.

CHAPTER VII.—Parslave is seen on the street and followed to Eccleshare's house. A watch is kept on the place. Mr. and Mrs. Elphinstone come to London. The latter refuses to make any statement as to her possession of Mazaroff's will. Armitrade explains he bought two rare diamonds from "Mazaroff," at Marrasdale moor, and gives the purchase price to Holt, as "Mazaroff's" heir.

CHAPTER VIII.—Sergeant Manners and a Scotland Yard man, Corkerdale, visit Maythorne. Manners tells him he has a relative was the night of the murder, with Eccleshare, near where Merchison's body was found. Eccleshare's explanations completely exonerate himself and Parslave. Both men, however, declare they saw Mrs. Elphinstone at the scene of the murder, that night.

CHAPTER IX.—Mr. Elphinstone makes the announcement that his wife, Sheila, has been murdered. Mrs. Elphinstone's maid, have disappeared from their hotel. Short's Elphinstone identifies the brooch Maythorne had found at the scene of Merchison's death, as his wife's. He had bought two precisely alike, years before, and given them to Mrs. Elphinstone. Maythorne, believing Mrs. Elphinstone murdered Merchison, puts his clerk, Cottingley, on her track, and with Crole and Holt, goes to Short's hotel seeking information. They learn a man whom nobody can identify in connection with the case had been seen to follow the three women when they left the hotel.

CHAPTER X

We Know That Man!
I SNATCHED at the newspaper eagerly enough; there was that in Maythorne's manner which showed me that here was news of importance. I saw it at once—there it was, in big letters in the stop-press space:

"About half past four this afternoon Mr. Kiltwaite, grocer of 623x Harrow road, having occasion to visit a yard at the back of his premises, in search for some crates stored amongst a quantity of similar odds and ends, came across the dead body of a man which had evidently been dragged across the yard through the rear entrance and partly concealed by loose timber. He at once summoned the police, and on examination it was found that the man had been murdered by repeated blows on the head with some heavy instrument. He is a man of presumably thirty years of age, small of stature, of slight build, wearing spectacles, the lens on the right being shattered; he is respectfully dressed and a new Trilby hat was found lying beneath the body. He had evidently been robbed after being struck down, as there was nothing on him in the way of money or valuables, nor were there any papers that could lead to identification; everything, in fact, of this sort had been carefully removed, and the only articles found in the clothing were a fountain pen and two recently pointed lead pencils. New Scotland Yard was at once communicated with and detectives are making a careful investigation. Anyone recognizing the dead man from the foregoing description should at once communicate with the police authorities."

I laid the paper down and stared inquiringly at Maythorne. He slapped his hand heavily on the paragraph I had just read. "Holt!" he exclaimed. "That's the chap who followed those three women away from Short's hotel the other night! A million to one on it!"

"You think so?" I said, incredulously. "But—there are lots of men who'd correspond to that description."

"That's the man!—I'll lay anything!" he declared. "And this thing's getting more of a mystery than ever. Look at it!—Mrs. Elphinstone, her daughter, and her maid, without a word to Elphinstone, suddenly clear out of Short's late at night. They are seen to be followed by a man who had previously inquired if the Elphinstones were staying at Short's. They never return, the women; from that moment to this—all this time having elapsed—seventy-two hours!—nothing whatever has been heard of them. And then this discovery is made—the man who was seen to follow them is found murdered—head battered to pieces—and robbed! Now—why?"

"If he is the man!" I exclaimed. "It'll surprise me more than I've been surprised, so far," he retorted, "if he isn't the man. But we'll soon settle that. Come along—I've got a taxi outside. We'll go round by Short's, get hold of that under hall porter, and go up to the Harrow road."

"To see—him?" I asked. "What else?" he answered. "Come on!—you don't know what depends on it. Nor—where those women are. In danger, for anything we know."

I went willingly enough, then. Somehow, it had not struck me up to that time that Sheila might be in real danger; I had fancied, rather, that she was probably assisting her mother in flying from justice, or, at any rate, from distasteful inquiries.

We rode round to Short's, and after some slight delay, carried off the under hall porter. Once in the cab again, Maythorne showed him the newspaper description of the murdered man.

"Does that answer to the man you saw following Mrs. Elphinstone three nights ago?" he asked.

The under hall porter, a sharp-eyed fellow, nodded.

"I should say it did, sir, myself," he answered. "Yes, it's a good description of him, taking it altogether. It doesn't mention that he'd a slight brown mustache, though. If this dead man has—"

"We shall soon see that," said Maythorne grimly. "A few minutes—"

Mr. Kiltwaite's grocer's establishment was away up at the poorer end of the Harrow road—a very modest establishment, too, catering for a humble class of customers. But when we got out of our cab and walked towards it, we found that for once at any rate it was a center of vast interest, if not of trade. The pavement outside was thronged with people, and a posse of policemen was engaged in getting them to move away or move along, not over successfully; two policemen stood at the shop door, evidently with orders to admit none but bona fide customers. A word from Maythorne procured us instant admission, however, and we entered—to find Manners and Corkerdale standing inside, in conversation with the grocer, an excited and voluble person who was obviously retelling his story for the xth time, Corkerdale nodded significantly at Maythorne advanced on them. "Have you seen the man?" asked Maythorne.

"We haven't, yet," replied Corkerdale. "He's at the mortuary, of course. We'll go round there. Well," he continued, turning to the grocer, "We'll look in again when we've been to the mortuary, and perhaps you'll show us the premises where you found him?"

"Anything you please, Mr. Corkerdale," replied the grocer, rubbing his hands. "Always glad to assist the police, sir. These gentlemen, I suppose, are in your line, too?" "Bit that way," answered Corkerdale, with a smile at Maythorne. "Well," he went on, motioning us to follow, "we'll just step round—it's not far."

He led us along the dismal road to a still more dismal, if more spick-and-span building, the gloom and somberness of which was accentuated by its air of officialdom and formality. We trooped one after the other, under the guidance of a police constable, into a white-washed chamber. There, on a center table, or slab, was laid out, stiffly evident under a white covering, what we had come to see. The police constable began to turn back the sheet: Maythorne motioned the under hall porter to go nearer.

"Look well!—see if you can identify him," whispered Maythorne.

But the identification did not come from the under hall porter.

We had all crowded close to the still figure; we all looked steadily at the dead man's face. And in that instant Manners and I, after a single glance at it, turned sharply on each other; a look of mutual understanding flashed between us, and we let out the same simultaneous exclamation.

"We know that man!"

The others turned on us, then, questioning.

"You know him—both of you?" exclaimed Maythorne. "Then, who is he?"

"Newspaper reporter from up our way," answered Manners. "Name of Bownas. I don't suppose you ever saw him when you went up there—his work was more to the other side of Gilchester. But Mr. Holt here knew him. That's Bownas, right enough!"

"He came to see me, at the Woodcock, with Manners, after Mazaroff's disappearance," I said. "I saw him, just once, afterwards—in Gilchester. But that is Bownas, without doubt!"

"And murdered here in London!" muttered Manners. "Good Lord!—what's it mean! There's more in this—"

"A moment!" muttered Maythorne. He turned on the under hall porter. "Don't make any mistake!" he said. "Is that the man who came to Short's hotel, and whom you afterward saw following Mrs. Elphinstone and her daughter and the maid?" Look well at him, now!—be sure!"

But the hall porter shook his head as much as to imply that all the looking in the world wouldn't make him surer.

"Oh, that's the man!" he exclaimed. "I knew him at once. There's no doubt about it! Recognized him as soon as I set eyes on him. Of course, he's lost his color, but—"

We went out of the mortuary, and into an office where there were more officials. They evidently knew Corkerdale, and after a few minutes' whispered conversation with him they produced some clothing. Corkerdale immediately placed his finger on a label within the Trilby hat.

"That wasn't mentioned in the newspaper account," he said. "See—Border Clothing company, Carlisle. Now, too. Let me have a look at his other things." I stood by, watching curiously while Corkerdale and Manners and Maythorne went through the dead man's garments. They found but one thing of any note—a tailor's label sewn within the inside breast pocket of the coat, showing that the suit had been made in Newcastle. It had a date and a number on it, and Corkerdale remarked that there was a clew to identification, if necessary.

"It's not necessary," remarked Manners. "I know the man well enough. Bownas—reporter of the Times & Border Gazette at Gilchester. And I'd like to know what he was doing here!"

"What was he doing at Short's hotel?" suggested Maythorne. "That's more like it, Manners! But that's obvious—he was after Mrs. Elphinstone. He followed her, too, when she went out. Where? Now, then, did she, and her two companions, come to this quarter of town? If they did—why? And where are they?"

"Let's go back to the grocer's," said Corkerdale.

We went out again into the gloomy road. The under hall porter, having done what was required of him, was anxious to go back to the hotel. Maythorne sent him off in a taxi-cab; the rest of us returned to Kiltwaite's shop. Maythorne and I walked side by side—at first in silence.

"What do you make of this, Maythorne?" I asked at last.

"God knows!" he answered. "It seems evident that the poor fellow we've just seen followed the Elphinstones—Mrs. Elphinstone, of course!—to London, tracked them to the hotel, went after Mrs. Elphinstone when she went out that night, but—as to the rest—"

"Do you think he followed them—here?" I suggested. "If so, what could they want in this neighborhood?"

"Shabby and sordid enough for anything, hereabouts, isn't it?" he answered, with a shrug of his shoulders. "Again I say—who knows?—who knows anything? Let's have a look at the place where he was found, however—we may get some idea of something."

The grocer took us through his shop into his backyard. It was a dismal place, all the more dismal because that was an unusually fine spring evening. It seemed to be a sort of dumping ground for boxes, barrels, chests, old tins, crates, all the refuse of a chandlery shop; and it was of some extent, running from the back of the premises to a high wall in which there was a crazy door.

"Here's where I found him!" whispered Kiltwaite in a half-awestruck whisper: "I wanted some planking out of this pile of old wood: I pulled some aside, and there was a man's arm! And then —well, then I found the rest. I saw signs of a struggle. But," he added, "some of your people that have been here already, Mr. Corkerdale; they say that there are clear indications that he'd been dragged in here, across the yard, from the door there."

"What's outside that door and the wall?" asked Corkerdale.

We all went to look. There was a narrow, stone-paved lane there, running from a side street between the backs of the Harrow road houses and those of some street or terrace set further back. It was fenced in by high walls for all its length: there were only two feeble

"I Pulled Some Aside, and There Was a Man's Arm!"

gas lamps to light it; it was dark, silent.

"One of your men says there are bloodstains on the stones—just there!" whispered the grocer. "Of course, you know, I never heard anything—and I've not heard either, of anybody who did so far."

We went back to the shop and stood discussing the matter and its probabilities for some little time. Then the grocer's telephone bell rang. He went to answer it, and looked round at us.

"If one of you gentlemen's Mr. Maythorne," he said. "He's wanted." Maythorne crossed over and took up the receiver. A moment later, he, too, turned on us.

"From the under hall porter!" he exclaimed. "Mrs. Elphinstone and Miss Merchison are back!"

CARDUI

Helped Her

Mrs. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes: "I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 55 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can."

"I would advise any woman, who is weakly and in a run-down condition, to try Cardui, but not to expect one bottle to make her well. I take two or three bottles a year, now, and I feel fine."

Thrift and Saving

THRIFTY people are HAPPY and PROSPEROUS people. A THRIFTY COMMUNITY is a HAPPY and PROSPEROUS COMMUNITY. It should, therefore, be our aim as a community to cultivate the habit of THRIFT and SAVING.

Thrifty persons are those who know HOW TO SPEND as well as ACCUMULATE. Spending wisely is really saving. The real keynote of thrift is EMPLOYING EFFICIENTLY THE MONEY YOU SPEND; and knowing what you don't want. One of life's hardest tasks is to spend money judiciously after having earned it. Thrifty people apply sane economies to their daily expenditure.

There is the economy of cleanliness, by using the facilities of the local laundry, or equipping the home with modern devices. Economy in fuel by providing for Winter needs at Summer prices. There is economy in food, by purchasing in quantities from your local dealers and by providing proper refrigeration to insure the safe keeping of perishable foods. All of these are thrifty practices. The possibilities of ECONOMIES which are EFFICIENCIES are almost endless.

Practical economy results in the saving of money. And saving money is one of the fundamental needs for a well rounded life. Save a little, no matter HOW little; begin as young as possible and stick to it.

Guard your savings, invest them only where they will be safe and secure. Make no investment until you have consulted your banker. He will gladly help you and give you advice. Remember the PROPER INVESTMENT OF MONEY is fully as important as economy.

Save for eventual financial independence, PLAN your savings and then work your PLAN. The first step toward financial independence is a Savings Account. The Savings Bank was instituted for the small saver. It has stood the test of time; it is safe and it is convenient.

The investment next in line to savings should be a life insurance policy. For life insurance provides both investment and protection. Among the advantages of life insurance are these: It eliminates worry and increases initiative; it is absolutely safe; it encourages saving; it is a great assistance in business, investment and home buying.

There are many other forms of investment such as real estate, bonds, stocks, mortgages, etc. Before making such an investment, consult your banker. Your bank has facilities to assist and aid you toward financial independence.

Bear in mind that every time you deposit a dollar in the bank or invest it in some LEGITIMATE and USEFUL ENTERPRISE, you assist some one to GET and KEEP a USEFUL JOB. EVERY DOLLAR YOU BANK OR INVEST PROVIDES WORK FOR SOMEBODY.

Four Stages of Financial Accomplishment

1. All success begins with Savings. A growing savings account is essential to each succeeding step.
2. Investment—the ability to capitalize upon thrift that has gone before.
3. The establishment of a Home and a Business through the fruits of Savings and Investments.
4. Finally providing for Heirs through Bank or Trust Company to insure their profiting by the co-ordinated endeavor of a life time.

Plan for Prosperity

1. Have Thrift Ideals.
2. Aim to retire with an income at 60 or 65.
3. Aim to Own your Own Home.
4. Aim to Give your Children an Education.
5. Aim to Create an Estate.

Dougherty News

By Mrs. W. D. Newell

The wheat harvest is about over in this part of the county, only a few machines are still running, and they expect to be through by the middle of the week. About 90 cars of wheat have been shipped from this place this season. The grain companies however expect to make it near a hundred cars before the season closes.

General business forecast as published by "The Business and Investment Forecast" of Chicago, "Business is scraping bottom, having reacted from a slight spring rally, and is now feeling the normal seasonal lack. We expect increased business activity in the third quarter, July lack. August and September are the crop movement gets in to full swing. Now is not the time to turn pessimist, the worst is over. The next important move in general business conditions will be upward. The first sign of revival should appear in the next quarter."

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Newton and children made a business trip to Plainview Thursday. While there, Glen purchased for himself a Harley Davidson motorcycle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ellison have as their guests this week, her niece Miss Auden Theadford from Mineral Wells, Texas.

J. S. McNeill and family visited his brother, R. L. McNeill and family at Fairview Sunday.

Miss Grace Readhimer was a guest of the Crawford girls Sunday. John Mayo and wife made a business trip to Lubbock Monday, returning Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph McNees of McAdoo spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brownlow, other guests in the Brownlow home this week were: J. H. Cumble, father of Mrs. Brownlow, and his nephew Daniel West Cumble, John Tendel and Granddaughter, Mrs. Hood. They were all from Athens, Texas.

Mr. Bennett, bookkeeper for Dougherty Grain Company, spent the week-end at Lubbock.

Darwin Callihan who for the past year has been employed as salesman for L. L. Collins & Company, left Saturday for Big Spring, Texas.

Miss Dorothy Crawford was a guest of Miss Cozett Ferguson Sunday.

Mrs. J. R. Cardwell has been sick the past week.

Jess Patterson and family spent Saturday night in Floydada.

Miss Meuller, who has been here the past few weeks in the interest of her farm east of town, left Saturday for her home in Wichita, Kansas.

Haskell Stone visited his mother and sisters in Quanah the week-end. Miss Ferguson is visiting in Quanah this week.

We regret very much to learn of the death of Mrs. C. E. Bartlett's other at Mineral Wells, Texas.

All who are interested in having singing school in Dougherty are asked to talk with C. F. Lincoln, chairman of the committee to look over the time and finance. C. M. Es has consented to teach a 12 school at this place at a very price as compared to previous years.

We hope to have the date and ns completed within a few days.

Church News
The union Sunday School elected officers for the new quarter as follows: C. F. Lincoln re-elected superintendent with J. E. Newton, assistant, W. D. Newell re-elected teacher for class No. 1; Mrs. Jack McNeill re-elected teacher Class No. 2; Mrs. J. E. Newton teacher class No. 3, Miss Irene Kreis teacher class No. 4; and Mrs. C. F. Miss Grace McNeill re-elected as secretary.

Christian meeting in progress at Dougherty.

Quite a novel service was held here Friday night when a Baptist pastor started a Christian meeting in the Methodist church. Rev. Claude Wingo who was to have started a series of services was called away to conduct a funeral and Rev. P. D. O'Brien pastor of the Baptist church of Floydada, consented to conduct the services Friday and Saturday nights. In quoting Brother O'Brien he said, "All we lacked was a Presbyterian song leader and a Jewish Rabbi to take up the collection." The community at large thoroughly appreciated these two gospel messages, as well as the spirit in which the invitation was accepted.

Prayer—Clarence Foster.

Plano Solo: O Happy Day by Miss Lois Sifton.

Solo by Miss Ruth Stegall.

A play: The Ups and Downs of the Intermediate B. Y. P. U. directed by Mrs. Gresham.

Miss Erna Lee Crawford president of the local B. Y. P. U. spoke the sentiment of the majority of the people in saying "This was one of the best B. Y. P. U. programs we had ever attended."

We feel that we have all been benefitted by this program and the invitation is open at all times for another visit from this union.

The Fairview League will visit the Dougherty League next Sunday night with a program beginning at 8 o'clock.

The Woman's Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and rendered the following program:

Song: Take time to be holy.

Scripture Jonah 3:1-5; 4:1-11 by Mrs. J. E. Newton.

Prayer.

Lesson from the Study Book.

There were eight members and two visitors present.

J. E. Newton and Louis Bass were selected to act with Walter Newell, resident engineer, on a cemetery committee.

Two others are to be selected soon. This committee will stake the cemetery off in lots and make plans to care for it in a systematic way.

"The Influence of the Bible on History" is the program subject for the B. Y. P. U. for Sunday night, July 13th.

The following program was rendered by the League Sunday night.

Subject—What Sunday means to us—Exodus 20:8-11; Luke 23: 56—Our Aim by Lou Ella Lincoln.

The Jewish Sabbath by Mrs. H. D. Bloodworth.

Car Too Fast; Tourists Have

Mr. and Mrs. Wright Visit 15 European Countries

Speed Cut Down to 80 Miles

Imagine if you can two American citizens who possess an automobile that would make 100 miles and hour and would get over the ground so fast that they had to have the gearing reduced so the car would make only 80 miles an hour! In this modern age of speed the thought of those two citizens suggests interesting personal alties and such you will find in Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wright of Los Angeles, Calif., who drove their powerful Renault car into Floydada Tuesday afternoon to spend a short time here. The car was an object of interest while parked on the west side of the square.

Own Property In County
Mrs. Wright owns property near South Plains and was here looking after her business interests. She resided at Plainview before her marriage. She is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Pad-dock of Plainview and has been visiting friends and relatives there during the past month.

The Renault car of French design and make was purchased in Tunis, Africa, and cost $1,800. The machine has furnished transportation for Mr. and Mrs. Wright during most of their honest-to-goodness tour of Europe and Africa, their trip taking them to 15 foreign countries. The car was somewhat smaller than the American type of motor vehicle; weighed 2,280 pounds; the high compression motor was air-cooled, and the body of the car was noticeably lacking in the streamlines so popular in the U. S. It runs over 40 miles to the gallon of gas. Mr. Wright stated that Fords were selling for $1,250 in Northern Africa. His car carried an African license.

Incidentally Mr. Wright, who practices law in Los Angeles, has a most interesting hobby of collecting antique aeronautica—anything, in fact, pertaining to aeronautics of historical interest. He started out over a year ago with Mrs. Wright to make a tour of Europe and in that period he has spent some $3,000 for antiques and now he has one of the finest collections in the United States, including crockery, jewelry, clocks, and upholstery. He has many rare trinkets that are priceless.

"Back in 1783-84 when the balloon was invented the people went 'nuts' over the idea and stamped and carved balloons all over everything they had," Mr. Wright explained. "They even had balloon figures in their wall paper."

During their trip, they have visited France, England, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Greece, Asia Minor, Macedonia, Turkey, Odessa in Russia, and Tunis, Algiers, and Morocco in Northern Africa.

Make Close Study
"We did not make a snap-shot tourist trip but made extensive visiting and actually studied the economic, financial, physical, and social conditions in every country we visited. We stayed at the best hotels—not the most expensive, but comfortable and pleasant," Mr. Wright said. "We found the Turks the most friendly and really we have more admiration for them than for any other people. They treated us royally."

Unlike most people who have traveled extensively, both Mr. and Mrs. Wright are charming people in an interview, answering every question courteously and carefully.

Here are some interesting briefs that they gave that are worth noting: the famous Turkish cigarettes are manufactured in the U. S. as a rule and are very costly in Turkey; there are no harems in Turkey; a man in Carthage may have three or four wives; there are 75 to 100 harems in Carthage in Northern Africa.

M. W. Whitlow and Dr. and Mrs. M. Frost plan to leave Friday morning for Hot Springs, N. M., where they will take the hot mineral baths. They probably will be away some three weeks.

Ft. Worth Trippers Bring Goodwill To Floydada Tuesday

Seventeen Delegates are Luncheon Guests of Lions On Second Day of Trip.

Seventeen Fort Worth business institutions, represented by as many good-will delegates from the Cowtown, were shown concrete evidence of the spirit of mutual cooperation which exists in Floyd County, when they visited with the business men of this city last Tuesday at the noon hour. The large bus carrying the good-will boosters arrived in this city at 12:20 o'clock on the second day of a three-day trip through the Panhandle section of West Texas. They spent an hour in Floydada, leaving this city at about 1:30 o'clock.

Members of the Floydada Lions Club, together with other business men of the city, acted as the official welcoming committee to greet the visitors. The visitors were guests at a chicken dinner luncheon served at the Del-Rue Cafe, directly after their arrival in Floydada, and following the luncheon they scattered out to visit with local business houses.

J. C. Gilliam, past president of the Lions Club, extended the welcome address to the visitors, telling them that "Fort Worth has always held a warm spot in the hearts of Floyd county business men." H. J. Fowler, of the Wm. Cameron & Company, responded for the Fort Worth delegates, telling the local men how Fort Worth appreciates the co-operation of Floydada and all of West Texas.

E. C. Lowden, of the Stafford-Lowden Company, who is chairman of the motorcade, also spoke, expressing his appreciation of the welcome accorded by the Floydada business men to the Fort Worth trippers. Chas. C. Cotten, manager of the trade extension department of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, also spoke on Fort Worth's appreciation of the Western portion of Texas, and especially of the welcome extended by Floydada.

Lion Boss J. C. Wester presided at the luncheon and introduced each of the visiting Fort Worth trippers, as well as each member of the Lions Club and the local visitors.

Among the local visitors was Col. Thos. Montgomery, early time resident of Fort Worth and pioneer settler of Floyd County.

Mr. and Mrs. Arley Snow and Wy-lie Todd of Elida, New Mexico, spent last Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Jackson and other relatives. Mrs. A. J. Harris, mother of Mrs. Jackson, who has been visiting the past month with her daughter returned home with them. Mrs. Snow is Mrs. Harris' niece.

B. F. Manasco made a business trip to Amarillo Monday, returning Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Fowler, of Hamilton, Texas, were in Floydada last week-end visiting with relatives while enroute home from Amarillo and Canyon. At the last-named place they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Steen.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Stevens and family, of Tulsa, visited in Floydada Sunday, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Dorrell and family.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Rucker, of Dallas, were here over the week-end visiting with Mr. Rucker's sisters, Mmes. J. B. Jenkins and John N. Farris.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Rucker, of Dallas, in company with Mrs. Jno. N. Farris and son, John, of this city spent the first of the week at Carlsbad Cavern.

Homer McCoy, former Floydada boy, who is an employee of the Texas Utilities Company at its Plainview plant, was seriously hurt one day last week when he came in contact with a heavily charged wire. He was seriously burned, his brother, Garland, said in Floydada Monday.

Judge O. R. Tipps, of Silverton, was a business visitor in Floydada Monday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade McConnell, of Childress, were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hanna Saturday night and Sunday. Mrs. McConnell is a niece of Mrs. Hanna. Mr. McConnell is tax assessor of Childress County.

Mrs. O. H. Heard and two children, of Petersburg in company with Miss Nita Merle Hanna of this city, left last week from Berkeley, California, where they will be guests of their brother, Gordie Hanna and wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Pittman and daughter and Mrs. Eva Jackson of Lubbock spent Sunday with Mrs. Pittmans parents Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Jackson and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Suite and family returned Sunday from a vacation trip to Olney, in Young County, where they spent some five days at their former home.

White, Most Popular of Summer Colors Lends Itself to a Variety of Fashions

BY HARRIET

Delightful colors to the contrary, notwithstanding, when torrid days comes there is nothing like white to make a woman look and feel cool.

This summer white lends itself so gracefully to all the diversity of modes that any type of woman can find her own special choice of costume in white.

Let us consider two very different uses for white frocks, illustrating with frocks recently worn by society women. Suppose a woman, noted for her chic, is to attend an afternoon event, such as the races and then a garden tea. She wants white. But she wants a very dressy type of costume, one that makes her feel a bit "party-fied."

A white crepe georgette is just the thing, made not with lace or any touches of contrasting color, but with an accordion pleated effect which is often more flattering than lace.

An effective dress of this type has an accordion pleated skirt, the upper part of the dress having a wide accordion pleated bertha that takes the place of cape sleeves over the sleeveless arms and then ripples down the diagonal closing to fasten on the side under a stitched belt of the georgette.

There is a pleated ruffle, like a peplum at hipline which takes a little upward curve for grace right in front. And to top this very dressy little outfit, there is a white novelty Swiss braid hat, with the rather formal narrow crown pleated like the frock.

Proper accessories for such a costume might be pearls, a brooch, a bracelet or white jade, made into a necklace, bracelet, and pin.

Quite different is a tailored flat crepe white frock, made with two wide pleats running horizontally around the bodice part of the frock. In keeping with this modernistic cut is a fitted squarish bertha collar, square line and the shoulders fitted to give them the same original look.

This frock fastens down the back

with buttons and buttonholes, just like frocks of long ago. With it, a panama, than which there is no better style at present, is excellent. Short gloves, purse of white kid and white kid pumps and the young modern is well groomed for lunch with some kind of a social event afterwards.

A third type of white outfit that is even useful is the white cardigan suit, made of linen. The dress should be short sleeved, or sleeveless, with some kind of a feminine necklace, perhaps bow ties or frill, and the coat cut straight but incrustated with its own fabric to enrich its appearance. With this a stitched linen hat, a white panama, or a white felt is appropriate. Purse, shoes and any scarf you might wear should be of white linen to capitalize the season's preference for linen and cotton.

didates are invited, the women state, and will be given an opportunity to speak.

The general public is invited. Proceeds of the evening will be used by the club in carrying on its work.

PRAIRIE CHAPEL CLUB TO GIVE ICE CREAM SUPPER

Prairie Chapel Home Demonstration Club ladies are giving an Ice Cream Supper on Friday night, July 18, at the school house. It was decided at a meeting of the club on July 7. All candidates are invited to come and speak, it was stated.

"Recreation for the Home" was the subject discussed at the meeting, which was held at the Prairie Chapel school building. Mrs. C. T. Wright acted as hostess.

"Keep the play spirit alive in the home" was discussed by Mrs. Jno. Belt, and Mrs. C. P. McPherson discussed "Home Games". Mrs. Doug Watson talked on "Work as Play." Each member present was taught some game for the home.

The next meeting of the club will be held on July 21, with Mrs. Clayton Weathers as hostess. At that time, Miss Strange will give a demonstration on canning vegetables.

Miles of Conveyors in Ford Plant

This picture shows two types of conveyors in use in the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company.

AN ENDLESS chain conveyor, three and a half to four mils long, said to be the longest in the world, has just been completed at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Michigan. On it parts of Ford cars in the process of manufacture are transported from one building to another and completed parts are carried direct to railroad cars for shipment to branch assembly plants.

The conveyor, which carries its cargo on suspended hooks, has a daily capacity for 300,000 parts weighing over 2,000,000 pounds. It supplants freight cars and trucks which have been used for the transfer of many parts from one point to another in the Ford plant.

This longest conveyor of them all is a development of the Ford policy that nothing should be done by manual labor that could better be done by machine.

In the early days of his manufacturing career, Mr. Ford devised the assembly line—a moving track on which cars in the process of assembly went to the workmen instead of the workmen carrying parts to the car. The assembly line, perfected in many ways, is now used by automobile manufacturers generally.

The value of the conveyor in reducing physical labor, in saving time, in preserving system and in cutting costs soon became apparent and its use was extended to other purposes about the plant. Now there are literally miles of conveyors of various types in the Ford plant. Some of them carry parts from one building to another and are carefully synchronized so that the parts arrive at precisely the right moment and in the exact spot where they are needed. Others transport red hot ingots of steel weighing nearly a ton each. Still others move outgoing shipments.

If it were not for the conveyors, according to officials of the Ford Company, mass production would not be possible on its present scale.

Enjoy Sunrise Breakfast July 4.

Greeting Independence Day just as it was getting started good, several members of the younger social set enjoyed a sunrise breakfast on Blanco Canyon Friday morning. The girls in the group were guests of Miss Rosalie Smith at a slumber party Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Geo. Smith. A swimming party at Lockney Friday night concluded the round of fun and festivities.

Those going on the sunrise breakfast were as follows: Misses Mildred Teeple, Rosalie Smith, Mildred Russell, Robbye Archer, Mildred Strickland, Verla and Vela Blassegame, Helene and Maurine Hay, Dorothy Fay King of Abilene, Pauline Rogers, and Wanda Taw-water of Quanah; Messrs. Audice Norman, Leo Ophthran, Bowman Dor-sey, Hunter King, Russell King, Hearon Wright and Wayne Gung.

Woodmen Circle Met With Mrs. Annie E. Steen.

Members of the Woodmen Circle met Wednesday afternoon, July 2, with Mrs. Annie E. Steen as hostess at the home of her son, Homer Steen, 115 North First street.

Mrs. J. D. Starks, who attended the dedication of the Woodmen Circle home at Sherman, which was held recently, gave an interesting report of the dedication services.

After the business session an enjoyable social hour was spent, during which Miss Golden Louise Steen served refreshments for her grandmother.

Those present at the meeting were: Mrs. J. D. Starks, Mrs. R. M. McCauley, Mrs. Jennie Crum, Mrs. R. D. Smith, Mrs. Jas. K. Green, Mrs. W. J. Coppel, Mrs. Marie Turner, Mrs. Mary Mowrey, Miss Mamie Littlefield, Miss Worth Gwendolyn Shipley and little Charlene Mowrey.

Mrs. Coppel will be hostess to the circle Wednesday afternoon, July 16, at 4 o'clock.

EXPERIENCE, THE TEACHER

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 13. Learning from Experience. Gen. 25:29-34; 28:18-22; 29:18-20; 33:1-4, 18.

It is an old saying that experience is the best teacher. But, unfortunately, it is true that much of its teaching comes too late for one to profit by it.

There is, however, an experience

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught

"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children."

"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation."

"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache."

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

of individuals, an experience of the race, from which the thoughtful person of today may profit. If our eyes are sufficiently alert, we are not likely to fall into the pitfalls into which others already have fallen. We are not likely to stake our interest upon some project in which we have seen someone else fail.

A Study in Contrasts

The lives of Jacob and Esau are still somewhat instructive for those who can profit by the story of varied experiences; and we are apt to profit all the more today inasmuch as our freer reading of the Bible does not induce us longer to feel that we must defend its heroes where their characters and actions cannot be defended.

Jacob was certainly not altogether either a lovely or a lovable character. All that can be said concerning him is that he had some excellent qualities and that upon these qualities there could be built something worth while, even if there were in the man elements of over-reaching and trickery.

Esau, while a much more likable character, had in him, however, no element of stability. He was like a great many other men who are pleasant enough, and whose lives are not characterized by any particular list of immoralities that one could charge against them, but whose whole attitude and life are immoral because there is no sense of duty or obligation, no linking up of will and character with things that are worthy and good.

The contrast between these two men is very marked, and on the whole it is true to life. So often the man of energy and devotion is not free from objectionable qualities. His ambition often becomes too zealous in making him over-reaching and crafty in dealing with his fellows. When we see these objectionable qualities in the steady and successful, we are apt to prefer the Esaus to the Jacobs. But the biblical story after all chooses for the child of promise and success the stronger man.

The larger story of Jacob, as it is suggested in the whole text of our lesson, shows considerable of the progress that a man with grave faults and gave temptations made in conquering his besetting sins; but the final stage of the story in our lesson shows also, how even in spite of a man's improvement the trickeries and treacheries of his early life tend to coming back upon him, often to his undoing. In the days of his prosperity, with much dependent upon his security, Jacob is face to face with Esau once more under conditions where Esau might well have exacted vengeance and under which Jacob had much to fear.

The Experience of Esau

On the whole it is Esau that comes out most nobly in this part of the story, and one wonders whether Esau in his carelessness and drifting did not likewise come to a finer and more substantial character than he had at first. man is ever lost who has such pacity for affection. It was chastened Jacob who met Esau, it was it not, also, a repentant a better spirited Esau who look back upon the weakness of his career, not with the disposition blame Jacob but with the realization that the chief blame was upon himself?

Here's our Answer to your Question

"What Mileage will my Tire Dollars buy?"

16,000 MILES over all kinds of roads . . . and sidewalls are still amazingly smooth and free of cracks and age marks. Never were tires so age-free as Silvertowns, due to their special, long-lived, long-wear tread and sidewall rubber compound.

NO SIGNS HERE of cupping or uneven wear! Silvertowns have a dense, tough tread that wears down slowly and evenly. Water-curing makes the last bit of tread rubber wear as slowly as the first, makes the tire tough clear through.

SEE THAT EDGE? Sharp and clean, even after enough service to satisfy most any tire buyer. No question here of traction or protection against skidding. That's why the Silvertown tread is admitted to be the finest tread pattern in the field.

Publicly established Mileage Records show you what Silvertowns can do on your car

LOOK at the picture above . . . study the captions just below it. See the condition of this Silvertown after 16,000 grueling miles.

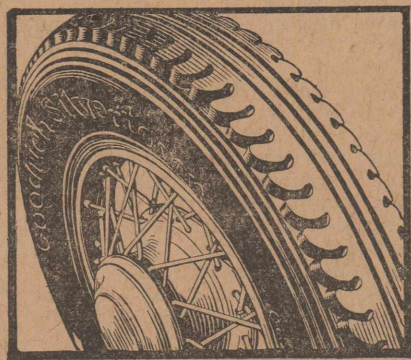

There's the answer to your question! There's the proof of what Silvertowns can do!

This Silvertown is one of the 62 that toured the country with the Silver Fleet last year. It was photographed after 16,238 punishing miles.

And look at it! Know any other tire that looks as good after that much service?

We have the blood brothers of this tire in stock right now. Casings identical to it in ability to stand up under terrific punishment. Come in . . . see them . . . price them.

They cost less than you think . . . and, mile for mile, are the lowest-priced tires you can buy. Yes, we have your size!

"Our big, new Power Plant runs everything . . . except Ma"

"A N' that's not findin' any fault with Delco-Light," says Jake. "I never was no hand at runnin' Ma myself."

Let me tell you Jake has some place out there now. Grinding machine, milkers, milk coolers and all kinds of power machinery all goin' strong when he presses a button. Water pumped all over the house, barnyard, and barns—bathroom, kitchen sink, washing machine, sweeper, and iron all hooked up and runnin' without hitches.

Yes sir, the big, new Delco-Light Power and Light Plant sure does run things and run 'em right. It handles the biggest jobs in a bigger way. If you are interested in a real up-to-date farm and extra profits, drop in and talk it over with us.

TORSION BALANCE SURVEY OF LONG STRIP UNDER WAY

A torsion balance survey of a strip of territory extending west- ward from Wilbarger County into eastern New Mexico has been in progress for several weeks by a crew of surveyors for the Gulf Pro- duction Company, under the direc- tion of C. S. Wolston. Mr. Wolston was in Floydada Saturday making arrangements for a temporary residence he plans to take up here the latter part of July, planning to reside here two months while his crew is working in this section. The crew has worked from Wilbarger County westward into the vicinity of Pad- uach and their course will carry them through Floyd County. The torsion machines are used to aid in determining the type of struc- ture of the earth under the surface.

Second Mail Delivery By Plane Made Friday

Floyd County had its second air mail delivery from the Floydada office July 4 when Lee Wilkinson, carrier on Silverton Star Route and aviation enthusiast, delivered the lock sacks by plane to South Plains and Silverton Friday which was a holiday and no distribution was made on the routes.

Mr. Wilkinson was accompanied by Elza Gullion, who is taking flying instructions. Mr. Gullion, at the close of the flight Friday, had a total of 4 hours, 45 minutes flying time credit.

They made the trip from South Plains to Silverton in ten minutes; including the take-off and landing they were 15 minutes making the flight. About five minutes is re- quired for the plane to gain the necessary altitude.

Albert Clubb, grain dealer of Pecosburg, was a business visitor in Floydada Friday last.

Mrs. J. J. Foster's Son Dies In Wichita Falls

L. O. Hodge of Tahoka Succumbs After Two Weeks' Illness; Buried Last Sunday.

L. O. Hodge, 47, of Tahoka, son of Mrs. J. J. Foster of this city died at 6 o'clock Saturday morning of last week in a sanitarium at Wichita Falls. Interment was made Sunday at Wichita Falls.

Mr. Hodge had been in failing health since January but became seriously ill two weeks before his death and was taken to the Wichita Falls sanitarium for treatment.

Surviving are his wife and seven children, five boys and two girls; his mother, Mrs. Foster; and three sisters; Mrs. A. G. Barnett of Wake, Mrs. J. H. Poore of Lakeview, and Mrs. C. E. Bartlett of Dougherty.

Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Poore and son Orval, left last Saturday to attend the funeral. Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Bartlett did not make the trip because of Mrs. Foster's ill health, and Mrs. Bartlett remained at home to care for and to comfort her mother.

Dr. Angie Stiles Now In Minneapolis, Minn.

Dr. Angie Stiles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stiles, who reside four miles southwest of Floydada, was a guest of her parents from Sunday to Thursday last week. Miss Stiles had just completed serving her year of internship required with the degree of doctor of medicine. She spent the past twelve months in Wichita, Kan., where she has been serving as an interne in a hospital there completing the work for her degree.

She left Sunday for Minneapolis, Minn., to become an obstetrician with the Ryley Memorial Hospital. Information reaching home in letters from Dr. Stiles indicate that she is exceptionally well pleased with her new work and is enthusiastic also over the climate and country of that section.

In eight years and now holds three Miss Stiles completed her doctrine degrees, including bachelor of arts, a master of arts and a doctor of medicine, from the University of Texas. She received her bachelor's and master's degrees at Austin and attended the Medicine School of the University at Galveston for her third and highest degree.

A. J. CLINE IMPROVING

A. J. Cline, who underwent an operation at the Baptist Sanitarium in Waco during June, continues to show improvement, according to word received by his brother, E. F. of the Cline Bros. Radiator Service.

A. J. should be released from the sanitarium in the course of the week and after a period of convalescence is expected home about the first of August, his brother said. He will spend sometime with relatives in Hill County while absent from Floydada.

NEW PIONEER SPIRIT DEVELOPING NEW FOREST

A new pioneering spirit is developing in the Lake States region, bent not upon "opening up" new country and "exploiting" resources regardless of consequences, but upon creating new resources and carefully husbanding them for permanent use, says Dr. Raphael Zion, director of the Lake States Forest Experiment Station, maintained by the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

This new pioneering spirit in giving protection to the cut-over lands, is encouraging planting and denuded areas, and is creating forestry values for the future. As a result, Doctor Zion declares, there is developing a new forest which in time will again produce real revenues from the idle lands. The area now in State, municipal, and county parks, resorts, clubs, shooting serves, and in State and private grounds, hunting and fishing pregame refuges is close to 5 1/2 million acres. Already there has been put back on the tax rolls thousands of acres that until recently were bankrupt and paid no taxes. Doctor Zion believes that the movement for protecting these areas and of creating wealth upon them by reforestation will gather momentum.

The new growth on these cut-over lands will never be like the virgin forest, Doctor Zion says. "At first it will be a forest of aspen or jack pine, suitable chiefly for pulp and wood, fence posts, railroad ties, and box lumber; but as time goes on, and the forest now being planted approaches maturity, industries using its products will develop throughout the forest region just as industries grew out of the old lumber industry. These industries, however, will be built to stay, because, taught by the bitter experience of the past, the new forest will not be destroyed as the old was, but will be handled on a permanent basis."

Doctor Zion believes the people are awakening to the fact that much of the land occupied by the old forests is not suitable to agriculture and that great areas will come back naturally into a second growth, which will furnish an intermediate revenue until the real forest develops. There has also come with the automobile, he says, the development of a new appreciation of the forest for recreational purposes, and this has led to a better understanding of the need for fire protection, for forest planting, and for the establishment of county, State, and national forests.

Fred Bell Buys Grain Elevator At Amherst

Purchase of the Amherst Elevator Company, of Amherst, by Fred Bell, local business man, was announced and Mr. Bell took charge of the grain company on July First, it was learned here this week. Mr. Bell completed the trade with a Clovis, New Mexico, party, and has charge of the grain and elevator establishment.

Plans announced by Mr. Bell are to operate the elevator company under the same name at Amherst, where he has moved to make his home. Mr. Bell has been a resident of this city for several years, having operated the Chevrolet automobile agency in this city a number of years ago, and more recently, the Floydada Bottling Works. He was appointed enumerator for the city of Floydada in the recent Federal Census Report.

The amount involved in the trade for the Amherst Grain Company was not learned.

Rotary Heads Return From Dist. Assembly

Dr. W. M. Houghton and Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Medlen, Jr., returned home Tuesday night from Abilene, where they attended the District Assembly of the Forty-First District of Rotary, presided over by R. H. Nichols, new District governor. Dr. Houghton is president of the local Rotary Club and Mr. Medlen its secretary. The latter made a brief report of the assembly conferences at the club's luncheon Wednesday noon.

Other features of the program for the day at the luncheon were talks by Robt. A. Sone, Robt. Harvey of Lubbock, and Lee Osburne, visiting Rotarian of Sentinel, Oklahoma.

Mr. Sone discussed the possible activities of the local club for the ensuing year, pointing out in particular that for practically every worthwhile project there is at present an existing agency through which Rotarians may work. Dr. Lon V. Smith, a member of the program committee, gave a brief outline of the plans of the program committee for the next few meetings.

Roy L. Snodgrass was in charge of the program for the day. R. E. Fry presided in the absence of the president and vice-president.

FAIRY TALES TRUE FOR STENOGRAPHER

For one longing stenographer of days gone by, who had visions of princes and kings and queens as she hammered out dull lists of unpronounced electrical apparatuses fairy tales have come true.

Zoe Beckley, the one-time typist, since those days has known practically every celebrity that has existed, talked to them, calls many of them by their first names and has been entertained in the palaces of not a few. All of which was because she spent her spare hours trying to become a newspaper reporter.

No longer awed, she classifies, in an article in the Woman's Home Companion, the great and the near great, from the standpoint of a woman interviewer.

"The greatest men and women are the simplest, most human," she says. "The pathetic ones are those who seek a little limelight and often embarrassedly offer remuneration. Nearly every one likes to be interviewed. One in fifty is so truly modest that he can only be started by patient questioning or by stumbling on a pet hobby. Then the difficulty is stopping him."

"The most surprising of my interviews," says Miss Beckley, "was with Jackie Coogan; the most difficult Calvin Coolidge—although he ended by inviting me for a ride and told me a funny story; the most capricious, Col. Roosevelt, Jr.; the most charming, Bernard Shaw, Mary Pickford, Grover Whalen and May-ror Jimmie Walker of New York; the most exhilarating, Fannie Hurst; the most dramatic, Queen Marie of Roumania; the most courtly, Lord Balfour; the breeziest Lady Astor."

"Margot Asquith stands unique in my memory as agreeable at one interview and savagely rude at another. Anne Morgan, at the outset of my struggles admonishes me to leave newspaper work and go into something where I did not have to ask such bold questions as why people had not married."

CACTUS STEW

Several hundred families of Papago Indians migrate into the giant cactus "forests" in Arizona each summer to harvest the cactus fruits. Most families make 3 to 10 gallons of sirup and smaller quantities of preserves from these fruits, using no sugar in the process. Some of the older Indians still harvest the flower buds of another species of cactus after seasons of heavy rainfall and use them in a sort of vegetable stew, meat broth, or relish. The United States Department of Agriculture and Department of Interior are seeking to help the Indians make even greater use of the giant cactus and other species of cacti.

T. C. U. Journalism Head Visits Floydada

J. W. Ridings, head of the journalism department of Texas Christian University of Fort Worth, spent yesterday in Floydada and this vicinity, interviewing prospective students of the institution relative to their plans for the school year. He visited with Claude Wingo, pastor of the Christian Church while in this city, and paid The Hesperian a fraternal call.

His work this summer includes some two months of travel in West Texas.

WORDS OF MELLON MAY BE HISTORIC

The scant two sentences of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon which swung the President nomination to Herbert Hoover in the hotly-fought Republican convention at Kansas City, are revealed for the first time by Will Irwin, close friend and biographer of the President.

Irwin, in an article in The American Magazine, points out that although a Hoover landslide seemed to be on, his nomination was by no means assured two days before the final vote, when Secretary Mellon arrived at the convention city.

High supporters of Calvin Coolidge, who had refused to amplify his "do not choose to run" statement, and of Charles E. Hughes, met Mellon at the station and hurried him to a conference in a hotel room. They were willing to make it a lottery. If Mellon would name any candidate except Hoover and would throw the Pennsylvania vote his way, they would unite to support him.

"But, gentlemen, I have already said I favored Hoover," Irwin says Mellon replied, mildly, "Wasn't my language plain?"

"From that time," Irwin adds, "only death could have stopped

Herbert Hoover from the

tion." In the last days of the election, the article continues, fact that Coolidge meant had said became plainer, who held the Pennsylvania nomination in the hollow of his hand opened his lips only to ren he thought Hoover the available. The politicians him. It seemed impossible one could speak in such a resolute and really mean it. Me sat tight while the political went frantic with speculation, til the exact moment of his tel blow.

'CREDIT TO TEXAS' SCOUT HEAD SAYS OF PLAINS BO

"The Central Plains Scout group, with its three Floydada representatives, are a credit to Texas," E. L. Roberts, Scout Executive of the Area, said in a note received this week by The Hesperian. The car addressed from Independence Rock, Wyoming, was dated July 4.

Some 600 scouts and several thousand other visitors were camped at the famed Oregon Trail camp site on the Fourth.

"Sunday we leave for Yellowstone and thence home," the note said adding that all are well and in fine spirits.

CUTTING PRODUCTION COST

Necessity is the mother of invention, so it is said. If this be true, it probably accounts for the fact that Floyd County farmers have greatly reduced their production costs in recent years, particularly in regard to the production of wheat. It is an open secret that had the present crop of wheat in Floyd County been produced on a cost basis that was prevalent here eight years ago, the crop would have bankrupted the country, whereas the crop has been produced, by and large, on a basis that would permit
the man who got reasonable production, to make some profit. This statement may meet with a certain degree of displeasure, but it is true nevertheless. Some crops made money in Floyd County, this season, and altogether because the cost was cut when plowing season started last fall.

If wheat must be produced at the low basis on which it is now being sold, the second patent fact is that the cost must be kept down. There are instances where this cannot be done, and although the price of wheat may go up, still there are plenty of economists who claim it cannot or will not for the present, average weather conditions the world over being conceded. It should pay to keep the matter of cost in mind. If the bill is going to be too high for the production of wheat at seventy cents or lower on any particular farm then the farm better be planted in sudan or something, they tell us.

THEY ARE FOR HIM

The tone of the editorials of newspapers down-state where bond issues for hard-surfaced roads are matters of history, indicate there is a more complaisant attitude toward R. S. Sterling's state-wide bond issue plan than there is in this section. Mr. Sterling's plan involves the matter of refunding
the money that has been paid out in counties and road districts for roads which have since been taken over as state or federal highways.

Another thing that makes his plan appeal is that it contemplates taking the tax for the bond issue off of general property and puts it on the sales of gasoline. The big objection raised to this plan is that, since the bonds do not represent an obligation of the property of the state but only an obligation to pay as sales are made of a certain commodity, the bond issue would have poor sale when it got on the market.

BANK STATEMENTS

NOT SO BAD

As proof of the fact that the wheat market, low as it is, has not teetotally ruined things, one has only to glance at the statements of the banks of Floyd County. Parenthetically, it is not the fault of the markets that the farmer is not ruined, for if there are any things
the market could do that it hasn't done they are not in the catalogue.
But as we started to say, Floyd

County banks reflect the fact that there has been a difference in the cost of producing the wheat crop this season and the price at which it sold. This is said not to be true in some sections of the wheat producing country, and is further argument in favor of Floyd as an advantageous agricultural section in which to locate.

Incidentally, the bankers of Floyd County should have a kindly word about here and now. Apparently the officials of these institutions,
each in his own way, have handled their affairs since October of last year, when the crash hit, in an admirable way to make themselves
the most useful possible to the community. The strength of their respective positions on the first upturn or bulge of the movement of crops is evidence of this.

GOOD PROTECTIVE LAW

Newspapers of the state are commenting on a law that is effective in Oklahoma to protect the poultry raisers of the country against theft.
According to one newspaper this Oklahoma law requires the purchaser of poultry to keep a record of whom he makes his purchases, a record of the marks or other forms of identification; the number of the car which delivered the fowls, date of the purchase and the address of the seller. These records are open for inspection at all times. The new law makes it more difficult for the thief to dispose of his ill-gotten fowls. It is just as easy to steal the birds as ever but much more dangerous to sell, therefore less temptation to steal.

Whether the law works as good as it sounds is the question, of course.
If it does work in Oklahoma it might be tried in Texas. However, Texas already has three times too many laws and if this is going to be just another law that is not observed because it is impracticable, then let's do not have it. Another point worth considering is the fact that the red tape might add so much to the overhead cost as to reduce the price of the fowls somewhat on the market.

Certainly the poultry industry is important enough to have protection, when the practical way is found to give it.

APPROVES OF STORED GRAIN

The Federal Farm Board—Everybody cuss now, that doesn't approve of the board—approves of farm stored wheat for two reasons which appear obvious.

The first of these reasons is that the cost of storing wheat on the farm is far less than it can be possibly in the elevator. The second is that storing wheat on the farm keeps it out of the "show window," where the buyers see it. Realizing that somebody is paying money to carry this wheat every day it is in the elevator, the buyer realizes he has the advantage of getting the wheat quickly when he wants it, and frequently, of course, at his own price. Storing on the farm has no great advantage over storing in the elevators, except on these two counts, it seems. It keeps down the bill and it keeps the wheat from getting in distress so quickly.

SELLING, THEN BUYING

So many people in the southwest thin of the Stock Market, the Wheat Pit and other exchanges as works of the devil, they really study
the operations of these exchanges less than they should. Some of them are coming to realize, however, that if the big men can use these exchanges to protect themselves against untoward conditions to any extent the little man can do so, too, if well enough informed.
This thought is suggested by the fact that several Floyd County wheat growers, dissatisfied with the wheat market, have sold their actual spot wheat and bought futures.
Some of these men are "holding,"
by this means, 10,000 bushels of wheat six months for a sum very much below what they could hold it for on their farms or in the elevators. This service is available to any living man.

THRIFT AND SAVINGS

Judging by the ever increasing number of saving bank depositors,
and stock and bond buyers, it would seem that the habit of saving has a very popular appeal. Yet saving can be popularized even more, to the great benefit of all of our people. Rightly planned saving grows to be fun. A young matron who before her marriage had been a spend-thrift, began a saving account, and confessed that she got just as much fun out of planning her expenditures in advance and putting money in the bank regularly, as she once did out of spending indiscriminately. It is hard to conceive of a successful thrift plan being dull. The men and women who follow a savings program find life interesting and worth while from day to day, and are ultimately rewarded with the greatest measure of success.

Thrift folk are free from the fear of a lapse in earning power due to sickness, accident, or temporary loss of employment from any cause. A bank account is a shield against one of man's most insidious enemies—worry. There are so many things worth saving for—home ownership, the creating of an estate, an educational fund for the children, a retirement fund that means independent freedom from work and worry in old age.
There are many ways to secure these benefits—life insurance, building and loan, stocks and bonds, thrift stamps and straight saving accounts—all are profitable, and in one or more of them you will find the plan that best suits your needs.
Here in Floydada you will find counselors who will help you make your choice, and make it easy and interesting for you to stick to your plan.

The study of budgets, insurance and investments are of great educational value, for the student thereby gains an insight into the economics of the nation, and learns the value of his own personal savings to the community and the nation as a whole, aside from the benefit to himself.

This week's Community Development Campaign in this paper discusses this phase of thrift and saving fully. Red it—think about it, and learn the joy of saving.
Give yourself and your family the protection of adequate insurance and a nest egg in the bank.

THEY GET AWAY

Escape of a prisoner from the second floor of the Floyd County jail last week, which he affected neatly, reminds us that the term
"escape proof" is only a relative term as regards jails. When the Floyd County bastille was constructed a few years since the builders told the Commissioners' Court what a sure-enough jug they would have.
The commissioners believed all or a part of it and their eyes opened with some wonderment when the first prisoner made his get-away.

Prisoners have been escaping from escape-proof prisons since the beginning of time. It is said there are jail cells in some of the larger centers, escaped in steel jackets that revolve without ceasing, but the claim has not been made that these have completely baffled the denizens of the underworld. The fight between the criminal and society is never ceasing, and as long as we put men inside of walls they will be finding ways to escape from their confines.

STICK TO THE POINT

Says the writer for a house organ:

Sam Umphredink and Ollie Gatelle, were arguing over a turkey. It sounded good, so we stopped to listen. Within three minutes they argued chewing tobacco, Ford tires, the candidate for mayor, the one-man street car, married life, and the decline of baseball.

Neither Sam nor Ollie can hold a job. They can't stick to a subject.

The average business man on the other hand, sticks too closely to one point that is not the main point.
The main point in business is,
"Conditions being thus and so,
what am I going to do about it?" But the average business man says, "Conditions being man" doesn't mean just a retailer deplorable, I can do nothing."
Of course, "average business behind the counter. If you are responsible for some business enterprise, such as a farm or a shop of some kind the question is as much up to you as to a banker or retailer,—can you stick to the point?

PLEASE BE PACHUNT

We sent a good friend a bill the other day, and our answer was received in due course as follows:
"Dear Sir: I got your bill what I owned you. I ain't forgot you, please wate. When some other fools pay me I pay you. If this wuz judgment day and you wuz no more prepared to meet your maker as I am this account you sure would go to hell. Hoping you will do this, I remain your very truly."

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

The Roundup

A Sidewalk Review Mostly About People And Personalities In Floyd County.

By The Cowhand Scribe

Howdy, folks.....hope you all enjoyed the Fourth, too.....
it was the occasion for many outings and goings and comings.....
a number of cars bloomed forth with a batch of American flags floatin' on the radiator caps and the little decorative idea seems to have come to stay for the Red, White and Blue still waves o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.....meaning, of course,
the radiator caps.....Mayo Burke, former Floydada boy, who is now in France has promised to send back a diary form of story of his adventures en route and in Franzese.....still living in hope that he will do just what he said he would.....Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Burke and their other son, Maurice, are still making their home in Dallas.....been a long time, it seems, since they have paid the old home town a visit.....
Hate to live in Chicago for if you left there and went to visit friends in some other town they would have to shoot you to make you feel at home.....wish Helene and Maurine Hay would tie a string of purple and golden ribbon, respectively, around their right
thumbs so they wouldn't be so difficult to distinguish between.....
and last week a name got all mixed up with the Cowhand's brain cell and came out rather vice versa but the lad's intentions were good anyway.....the little lady carrying the money to make a deposit for the Snodgrass Chevrolet Company was Jean Ayres.....

Big Business is putting the pressure to everybody these days, the working man not excepted, and of course the working woman.....
many unsung heroes daily go about their tasks keeping in motion the wheels of industry—telephone operators, railway men, public utilities woman, doctors, newspaper men and women, and hundreds of other groups—they seldom if ever get a holiday and go on and on serving and serving as long as they are fit.....didja ever stop and think of the other fellow who has always working that you may have the comforts, necessities, and pleasures of life.....didja ever get peeved at the telephone operator for some little inconvenience and "ball her out" and didja ever stop to think that perhaps about one hundred crabd customers had been just as ugly to her during the day.....'tis a wonder her poor nerves don't just snap right in your ear.....think of the other fellow's trials and troubles once in a while and this will be a happier old world.....

Mrs. W. D. Newell from out at Dougherty paid the Cowhand a compliment that made him swell right up like he had been plizened.....said she read and enjoyed the column he writes every week.....and Bill Gaither had the nerve to come along and accuse the old boy of being too young to know anything about rubber-tired bugles and things of the good old days gone by, but Bill said he read the column and liked it and that's what made the Scribe purple with pleasure.....

Noticed a car driving around town with monkeys in it.....
naw, they were not descendants of Darwin, they wuz just fuzzy little toy critters spending their days dangling on the end of a rubber band, or spring.....don't matter much which just so long as they wuz danglin'.....Mrs. W. E.
Miller of Sand Hill in town making arrangements for a big banquet out at Sand Hill this Thursday night
.....Floyd County has some of the finest communities in Texas and some of the most wide-awake club women in the nation.....
Verlon Harmon sitting out in front of Harmon's Furniture Store with a fishing pole in his hand and a far-away look in his eye.....

One merchant asked another the other day how many accounts he was carrying and his answer was about like this: "Carrying 50 and dragging 200." And last week a bill collector told a fellow: "I'm gonna keep coming' back until you pay this bill," and here was the answer
he got: "Well, well, I wish you many happy returns."

And here is a good one they are telling on the Cuero Record: the editors have been kidded considerably about the following headline that is alleged to have appeared—"Rumors Indicate Cuero's 1930 Census Will Not Reach 5000, Citizens Must Help".....that's a hot one.....but here's one better in the form of an ad that is said to have appeared in a college newspaper and it actually did appear in a college magazine: "WAN-TED—I will trade a B. A. degree for a plow and one mule. Mule must be small in order to pair with a jackass".....pity the poor mule that had to work with a collichit boy.....much less pair with one.....oye, oye Able, dot iss too much.....

If you are a reader of The Cowhand's Round-Up and have stayed in the saddle this far then you are going to get in on some inside dope.....throw the bride over th' hoss' head and stand by for here 'tis: Miss Honora Childers is directing one of the keenest little revues you have had the pleasure and opportunity of seeing in this section of the state and the remarkable part of it all is the fact that every member of the cast lives right here in Floydada—all local talent and you can tell all the folks that you know a secret and you might hint to them that you are "in the know" on the production.....this info comes from a pre-view of the show.....they left the door open and the Cowhand slipped in to get some dope to slip along to his 10,000 readers and believe me he was plumb flabbergasted at the goings on.....it wuz the real stuff just the behind-the-scenes stuff that you see in the movies.....the directress wuz there and saying "one, two, three,
kick; one, two, touch, up and over,"
etc., just like real big-time stuff and the Cowhand just stood there with his mouth and his eyes open wondering where all the purty gals come from, it's purty certain from the looks o' things that Floydada folks have a dandy entertainment in store for them—something that's different—something that's classy, and the show is gonna be at the Palace Theatre along with the regular movie.....a real stage production that you can begin now to get ready to enjoy.....now tell the folks for you're "in the know" Hooray, hooray, hooray, hooray, hooray and other expressions of ecstasy and exhilaration—exhilaration—aw, you spell it—and other expressions of ecstasy and ex-no—of joy, that's it—joy.....somebody had the street crossings on the Lockney-Floydada highway in the northwest part of town all smoothed up.....hooray.....

and now, folks, who will subscribe first to a fund to buy a national hero medal for the fellow who did this humanitarian act right here in the middle of summer when folks' nerves are about ready to snap anyway.....and he ups and saves everything and everybody's temper
by making the riding free and easy
.....who'll be the first to send in a dime?

Dan Jenkins had many a neck on the bend July 4 when he zoomed over the city a time or so with his powerful Army plane.....Dan is not an aviator—he's a super-aviator
—one of the best there is and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jenkins have a right to be proud of their son.....
he's getting the job done and Dan,
is a fine fellow in addition to having ability.....more than glad to list Dan as a friend.....
just saw a most precious little baby girl toddling down the street beside her mother.....she had on sun rompers.....wait a minute, wait a minute.....the baby had on the rompers, of course.....had curly hair and could just barely walk.....nothing in the world brings more joy to a human heart

than a little tot in the home
'tis a pleasure untold to watch tiny eyes open with amaze
every day as new wonders o'
world unfold before them.....
wonder if a milk and ice fund needed here in Floydada to refresh to some little tots wuz parents may be in need.....
you know of any cases like that .....perhaps a few cents cotributed this summer would save life.....think it over and pe-haps you or some one else will se-
the need for such a fund.....
Carnival in town and 'tis time to go down and ride the hosses on the merry-go-round.....didja ever do that.....huh didja.....

Most of these ailments, he declares, are directly traceable to the fast pace of modern business and modern living. Thousands of human beings are ruining their health in the battle for the dollar, or, as some call it, "the battle for recognition." People work and rush to the verge of exhaustion; then alcohol, coffee, tea or other stimulant are resorted to, resulting in neurosis, an ailment of the nervous system. Some advice in this connection is quoted:

"In such cases medicine is of little avail. What is needed is to give one's nerves a vacation, through periods of rest and relaxation, even during business hours. Artificial stimulations should be avoided or reduced to a minimum. Coffee from which the caffeine has been removed by scientific means is recommended. More time spent in the garden, on the golf links, or in boating and fishing, will yield returns in health and vigor."

"While these suggestions apply with particular force to those men and women whose business and social duties are extremely exacting, they hold much sound advice for all who find themselves inclined to disregard the fundamental laws of health by overtaxing their physical and mental powers."

A WORD TO CHICAGO
Lubbock Avalanche: It is announced in Chicago that all the newspapers of the city are "united in a war to the death" on gunmen and gangsters. This is because the assassination of a reporter who was killed by the order of racket-teers of whom he knew too much.
It might be observed for the benefit of Chicago and its various journals that a good beginning might be made in the contemplated war with a quick and sweeping change in what is known as the Chicago style of writing.

It has become the fashion of a large cult of Chicago writers working in and out of newspapers to romanticize the gangsters even while denouncing them. There is nothing genuinely romantic about gangsters. Their murders and their violence seem thrilling only to a childish mind. There is more of the spiritual stuff of romantic drama in any police court session than can possibly be found in the crimes of dope victims and the mentally defective thugs who kill for money. No one of normal intelligence supposes that Chicago is really a city given over to violence.
What that community needs to make itself better known is a better sense of news and drama in its noisier writers.

HAPPINESS
by Lawrence Hawthorne

Live, love and be happy—
There's joy in the swing of it!
Live, love and be happy—
There's cheer in the ring of it!

Live with a will and a purpose to do
All that you can that is noble and true;
Love with a heart that is eager to find Ways to be friendly and helpful and kind.

Live, love and be happy,
And skies will be clear for you;
Live, love and be happy—
Each day holds good-cheer for you!

Hot Days — scorching roads — tire trouble — they all go together. Phone 83 — we'll get HOT, and Scorch the roads coming to you. Steam Vulcanizing stays put in hot weather!

IMAGINE A TIRE WITH 12% LARGER air cushion, a tire that wears thousands of miles longer, that steers easier, starts and stops faster. Then you have the wonderful new type Federal.

The new Federal does not carry an ounce of excess weight. It's not a bulky tire but a buoyant tire. The 12% larger cushion of air gives it life other tires lack.

If you think this is just talk, read the "Money-Back" Guaranty authorized by the maker. It goes for me, too.

"Money-Back" Guaranty

"If after 30 days' use you are not fully convinced that these new-type Federal Tires give you more luxurious, air-cushioned riding comfort, better acceleration, easier steering, firmer braking and the assurance of maximum mileage, return them and your money will be refunded."

Sunday School 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m.; B. Y. P. U. 8:30 p. m. Preaching following B. Y. P. U. hour.

Preaching Friday night, July 11, by the pastor.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

We are having a great time thus far at the City Park Tabernacle. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 8:15 p. m. Bro. Nicholson of Hamlin is doing the preaching and we have been listening to some great messages. He has been preaching many years with success in soul saving and up-building of God's Kingdom.

Our meeting closes Sunday, July 13, as far as we know now but if the Lord wants it to go on we can run longer.

But you come. You are going to miss a blessing if you stay away. God is calling you; heed his voice. O. T. Busby and wife.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

P. D. O'Brien, pastor

It was encouraging to see an increase in the attendance at the Sunday school last Sunday over the Sunday before. With 428 present in time to be counted and a full auditorium for the preaching service we feel greatly encouraged. The pastor was not present Sunday night at which time the pulpit was filled by brother Clay Muncy. Brother Muncy has had two years of training in the Southwestern Seminary at Ft. Worth, and is highly esteemed by the membership of our church. There was one addition for baptism at the morning service.

We are in a revival meeting at Ralls this week and will continue through next week, hoping to be at home for the evening service on Sunday the 20th. Every indication points to a successful revival at Ralls, and we are enjoying the fellowship of the folks there very much. Mr. A. G. Pritchett, of Ft. Worth, is doing the singing in the meeting and pastor J. Matt Hale is a very fine yokefellow.

Rev. C. Ross Payne, who is a long time friend of the pastor, has been asked to preach at both hours next Sunday. Brother Payne is a graduate of the Southern Seminary at Louisville, Ky., and is considered one of the best preachers in the

KONJOLA ENDED TWO YEARS OF STOMACH MISERY

Again This New And Different Medicine Shows Why It Has Become Famous.

MRS. BERTIE COWAN

Strange, but absolutely true—Konjola, the new and different medicine seems at the very peak of its powers when pitted against the stubborn cases that have held on with bulldog-like tenacity. Take for example, the experience of Mrs. Bertie Cowan, 614 West Second St., Ft. Worth, Texas, who says:

"For two years the lightest of foods caused misery. At times I had to gasp for breath, and I belched up bits of undigested food. I took soda constantly. My kidneys gave me trouble too. I had backache and had to rise many times at night. But Konjola ended all this, and today my back is free from pain, my nerves are steady, I am healthy and wake up every morning rested and refreshed."

Konjola works, swiftly yet gently, and is strongly recommended for complete treatment of all stomach troubles. Night bottles to be obtained at any drug store.

American's Air Conquerors Meet

One of the first to greet Admiral Richard Byrd on his return to New York from his Antarctic explorations was Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, left. Because Lindy had just become the father of a son, Byrd had occasion at their meeting to reciprocate congratulations.

OUR PRESENT NEED

PAMPA TIMES: According to the president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, taxes have become so high in many sections of the state that they eat up the entire valuation of the property. It is getting harder and harder for a county to get anyone to buy property at tax sales because the taxes they will have to pay on it afterward will amount to more than they can get in return from it.

We firmly believe that what is true in Illinois is true in every state in the union. There was a time, and most of us around Pampa can remember it, when property taxes were equitable, when land was owned by those who operated it and nearly everybody owned their own homes. Today government figures show that less than 45 per cent of the farm acreage of this country is operated by its owners, and less than 37 per cent of those who live in our cities own their own homes.

It seems that what this country needs more than anything else at this time is a system of taxation which will, as it did in the old days, encourage the natural ambition of every man to own his own home, his bit of land. Here, and here alone, rests the true foundation of this government and on it the future happiness and prosperity of the people as a whole depends. There seems to be no good reason for spending millions of dollars a year to protect our property from outside invasion if taxes are going to be so high that our people cannot afford to own the property they are called upon to protect.

THESE LITTLE DOLLARS

Textline Globe: Jones owed Smith $2. Smith owed Brown $2 and Brown owed Jones, $2. The three men met. Jones was the only of the three that had any money with him, and as it happened, he had only one dollar. He said, "Smith I owe you $2, here's $1 on account." Smith accepted the dollar and turning to Brown said, "Here Brown, is a dollar of the two I owe you." Brown in turn paid Jones a dollar on account.

Jones now had his dollar back which he paid to Smith, saying, "Now Smith, we're square." Smith said "Yes, and here, Brown, take this dollar and that squares us." Brown then paid Jones the last dollar of the $2 debt and Jones went on his way with the dollar still in his pocket.

All done with one silver dollar. Somebody says, "There's a catch in it." But there isn't it only goes to show how money circulates and we tell this story to illustrate what it means to you to spend your money at home. The dollar that Jones paid to Smith went the regular rounds that every dollar goes when you spend it with your local merchant. If Jones had sent that dollar away to a mail-order concern all three of the men might still be in debt.

Moral: Don't send your money away to save a few cents—spend it in Textline and get it all back.

TAKES DRASTIC STEPS

O'Donnell Index: A negro Baptist preacher of Tampa, Fla., has taken drastic steps to reform conditions in his church, as indicated by the following published notice: "To whom it may concern: I, Rev. G. W. Code, pastor, have turned out all the members of the Fellowship church for not attending as they ought to. I am going to start a revival meeting and get a new congregation."

GETTING CLOSE TO HOME

Memphis Democrat: The robbery of the Donkey County State Bank by a trio of thieves on Monday of last week reminds us that this is the first time we have heard of a bank robbery this close to home. In fact, it was a little too close to be pleasant. The account of the robbery will probably be read by others who can use a little "easy" money and there is no telling what it will start. We are not inclined to be an alarmist, but it appears it is time to "pick up our ears" and look around.

We do not know what safety deface in the films. She speaks from personal experience and from a knowledge of the experience of other screen folk.

Here is a situation not limited alone to movie stars. Doctors and lawyers frequently justify their fees by the years they spent in study and in building up a paying practice. It is not only in fiction and the movies that young artist starve in attics.

Henry Ford struggled along for years before Dame Fortune favored him. And his experience has been that of the founders of most of the country's great industries.

Successful merchants often attribute their business achievements to early years of struggle just one jump ahead of the Sheriff. Their business rest on solid foundations laid by years of hard work and extensive advertising. Stories and other business enterprises do not win public confidence and widespread patronage by lottery.

The larger rewards of screen stars, professional men and successful business men are vindicated by the years of self-sacrificing toil expressed in winning them. Part of their income is back-pay.

Success in raising beef calves for market depends largely on the start they get. Up to weaning time, calves need only a small amount of feed, other than milk, but they should learn to eat some grain and hay so they will not lose flesh during weaning. Calves intended for baby beef should be started on a little grain when from 4 to 6 weeks old. A mixture of equal parts, by weight, of shelled corn, whole oats, and wheat bran is good. The corn and oats may be ground until the calves are used to eating them. Increase the grain allowance gradually up to weaning time.

The principal objective in feeding chicks is to obtain maximum growth and to cause as little mortality as possible. Young chicks should be fed frequently, but only a small quantity each time. After the chicks are 48 hours old they should be fed four times daily for the first two or three weeks, and three times daily thereafter. Regularity in feeding is of very great importance, especially during this early period. The use of all-mash feed for baby chicks is advised although the average poultry raisers are still feeding the scratch grains in addition.

Vary the tartness of your French dressing occasionally by using in place of plain vinegar lemon or grapefruit juice, or tarragon vinegar, or spiced vinegar from pickles.

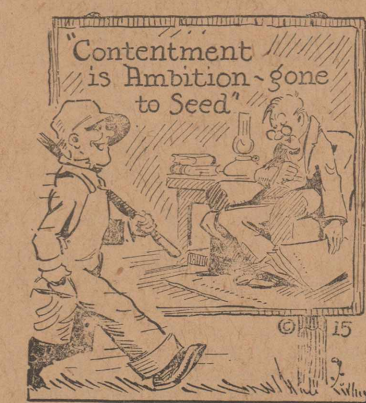

Designs for small boys' suits originated by the home economics specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture combine self-help features with smart style. A free leaflet pictures and describes these suits and suggests fabrics for summer and winter wear.

SELECT THE BEST GILTS

Every hog raiser should look over his pig crop each year and pick out a few gilts to improve the breeding herd. Sometimes there is an outstanding animal that may be chosen soon after weaning, but it is usually better to wait until the pigs are 5 or 6 months old, as by that time their faults are evident. Gilts selected for breeding should be put in a good pasture by themselves and should have a liberal ration. Corn should be fed only in limited quantities—from one-fourth to one-third the total feed. Shorts or middlings, to which is added a little tankage or fish meal, fed either dry or in a thick slop, together with pasture, makes a very good ration. Mineral mixture, salt and water should of course be supplied. If a gilt does not develop well she should be discarded from the breeding herd and fattened for market.

Prepare spring onions this way: trim off the green tops and cook the onions in lightly salted boiling water in an uncovered vessel until tender. This will take about 20 minutes for fresh young onions. Drain, add more salt if necessary, and pepper, arrange on toast like asparagus, add melted butter, and serve at once.

Trends in farm taxation show that from 1914 through 1917 the rise in taxes was gradual, from 1918 to 1923 there was a drastic increase, and since 1923 there has been a small increase each year. Farm taxes in 1927 were estimated to be over $900,000,000. Most of this amount was paid through the general property tax and taxes on automobiles.

Theory Of Doctor Upheld By Sargon

"I was immediately impressed with the merit of this modern medicine, Sargon, because it upheld

MRS. SUSAN SMITH the opinion of my father who is a retired physician.

"I'd go to bed for days at a time with awful bilious attacks and I became so weak and nervous I could hardly stay up at all. I was in misery with indigestion and was habitually constipated. Sargon relieved me of every ailment and I can't remember when I've enjoyed better health. I've gained back 12 pounds of lost weight, my appetite is wonderful and I'm enjoying, sound refreshing sleep for the first time in years. Sargon Pills regulated me perfectly without the least nausea or upsetting effects."—Mrs. Susan Smith, 2406½ S. Robinson Street, Oklahoma City.

West Styles Eliminate Task Of Laundering Lingerie Effects

BY HARRIET

Any of the season's smartest styles are made quite without benefit of lingerie touches. For all, white effects do have come off for washing oftener even a delicate pastel shaded effect. And the fact that most of lingerie touches do have to be off for laundering makes it a luxury from the point of view of the business girl and busy woman pressed for time. There is none of the softness lost in laundering lingerie touches in the new styles. All of the dresses rely on their own material to show collars, cuffs, ruffles, bows and decorative what-nots of all kinds. The feminine flattering effect is there. The trouble of laundering for lingerie is gone. What more can women ask? One of the new neck treatments is a shirt collar for the back of the neck, and then when it gets to the front, it notches itself rather untily and spreads out into a circular plastron. A ruffled jabot of a tinted front bib-collared. A little egg-colored wash silk uses a tricky collar to give itself smartness as well as utility. It is rich, heavy wash silk like a man's silk shirting, and so it falls nicely, with considerable dignity. The skirt joins the waist at a normal line, has a stiff inside belt to hold it in place and a stitched, tailored outside belt with a novel buckle. It buttons clear down the front, with big egg-shell colored buttons below the waistline and much smaller ones above.

For afternoon, floral chiffons are using the same self-trim idea. A simple but absolutely charming little blue and white print, a light blue and white big flower on a darker blue background, has scarf sleeves and a little turn-down collar and bow tie for its ornamental touches.

The dress is a fitted one, with the circular skirt joining the body of the dress with pointed bands piped in the bright blue. The little collar, typical shirt collar, the kind a sports blouse might take, has a rather low V where the bow tie ties. It's a novel idea for an afternoon dress.

The long sleeves have a little scarf swinging from each wrist, quite as a handkerchief of wispy chiffon might swing. This is an admirable pattern for sheer voile frocks or chiffons that one might make for herself. It has a natural grace and a dressmaker softness that hand-sewing is quite apt to catch.

Entertain Jointly At Six O'Clock Dinner.

Ruth Key Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. K. Green, and Emma Louise Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lon V. Smith, were joint hostesses at a 6 o'clock dinner Monday evening at Miss Green's home, 203 West Crockett street.

Covers were laid for the following guests: Mary Anna Ross, Bert Ione Smith, Coleta Moore, Margaret Smith, Ruby Belle Harris, Mildred Houston, Virginia Stovall, Gladys Ruth Brown; Frances Smith, of Post; and the hostesses, Ruth Key Green and Emma Louise Smith.

Hostess At Slumber Party Saturday Night.

Miss Bama Gene Smalley, who is a student at West Texas State Teachers' College of Canyon, spent the week end at home with her mother, Mrs. Anna Smalley, and entertained while here with a slumber party for several friends Saturday night.

The guests were: Misses Frankie Doris Smith, Golden Louise Steen, Ruth Jenkins, Audrey Farris, Katie Lee Thurmon, and Vivian Evans, of Waco.

Mrs. Dorrell Hostess At Council Meeting.

Mrs. L. H. Dorrell was hostess at the meeting of the Woman's Council held Monday afternoon. There were fourteen members and three visitors present. After a short business session the hostess served refreshments of ice cream and cake.

Mrs. Zell Probasco will be hostess to the Council Monday, July 14, at an all day meeting. Each lady will bring a dish for the lunch which will be served at noon. The forenoon will be spent in a social way. A program from the "World Call" will be given in the afternoon with Mrs. Lon M. Davis as leader.

M. E. Society Held Meeting Monday.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Methodist Church met Monday afternoon at the church in regular business session. Mrs. C. R. Houston presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Wilson Kimble.

The Society will meet Monday afternoon, July 14, at 4 o'clock at the church for Bible study.

Porterfield Society Held Meeting Monday.

The Porterfield Missionary Society met Monday afternoon at the church and had the regular Bible lesson from the Book of Exodus.

Mrs. T. W. Whigham was appointed as the member from the Porterfield Society to serve on the interracia committee. The committee is composed of a member from each missionary society of the city and is to investigate the negro problems of Floydada.

The society will meet again Monday afternoon, July 14, at 4 o'clock.

Celebrate July Fourth At Roaring Springs.

Among those from Floydada who spent July 4 at the springs at Roaring Springs were: Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Welborn, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McBrien, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Jones and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Whigham.

The party drove down in the afternoon and enjoyed a swim and a picnic supper afterwards.

Picnic Given For Guests On The Fourth of July

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Swinson had several out of town guests on July 4 and entertained them with a picnic at the Canyon at the Ralls crossing.

Among their guests were Mrs. Swinson's sister, Mrs. D. R. Gaston, and Mr. Gaston, of Celeste, who will be here for several days. Mr. Gaston was a delegate to the Postal Workers' Convention held at Lubbock Thursday, Friday and Saturday and attended the convention while here.

Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hagler, and son, Bobby Gene and daughter, Colleen, of Clovis, New Mexico; Mrs. R. M. Hagler, of Clovis, New Mexico, and her son, Woodrow, of Tulsa; and Mr. and Mrs. Swinson and daughters, Robyn Vevea, Nell and Midget.

Baptist W. M. S. Held Meeting Monday.

Twenty-seven members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. George A. Lidar.

A very interesting program was given consisting of a talk on Wayland College by Ruth Stegall; a talk on helping the sick by Mrs. Edwin Heald; "The Margaret Fund" by Mrs. W. F. Weatherbee and a personal service talk by Mrs. P. D. O'Brien. Mrs. E. L. Angus sang, "It Pays to Serve Jesus" as a vocal solo.

Mrs. A. M. Dougherty, of Merkel, was a visitor.

The Society will meet in Circles Monday afternoon, July 14.

Campbell W. M. S. Met Monday Afternoon.

The Campbell Missionary Society met at the school building on Monday afternoon, July 7, with eight members present and eight visitors. After prayer and song the devotional service, from Luke 10: 1-20, was led by Mrs. W. H. Bethel. The society is studying "The church and the World Parish." We had Chapter V, "The Redemption of the Congo."

Mrs. Ansil Lynn taught the lesson, telling us many interesting things. She and Rev. Lynn were missionaries to the Belgin Congo a number of years. If you will hear Mrs. Lynn lecture you will learn from her how to love all nations. She is truly wonderful.

After the program refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. The members then drove to Mrs. E. Meek's home and presented her, as a surprise gift, with a friendship quilt top to re-place one she had let the society have sometime ago.

We meet each Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and are always glad to have visitors.

Rhe Cloud Honoree at Surprise Party.

Friends of Rhe Cloud surprised her last Monday, July 7, with a birthday party. They were chaperoned to Lockney by Mr. Cloud, Rhe's grandfather, and Mrs. Mask, where they first enjoyed a swim afterwards a picnic lunch. They concluded their part by returning home about 9 o'clock and attending the carnival. The following enjoyed the party: Wanda Teeples, Louise Conner, Virginia Welch, Margaret Cooper, Rhe Cloud the honoree, Mrs. Mask and Mr. Cloud the chaperons.

Lakeview Woman's Missionary Society.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Lakeview Methodist Church met Wednesday, July 2, with six members and two visitors present.

ORDINANCE NUMBER 145

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING AND CONTROLLING THE GRANTING OF PERMITS FOR THE ERECTION OF CERTAIN BUSINESS BUILDINGS OR THE CONDUCT OF CERTAIN BUSINESS WITHIN THE RESIDENCE DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF FLOYDADA; DEFINING A RESIDENCE DISTRICT, PRESCRIBING A PENALTY AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, it is deemed advisable by the Board of Aldermen for the purpose of promoting the public health, safety, order, convenience, prosperity and general welfare of the people of the City of Floydada, to regulate the construction of business buildings proposed to be built or erected within the residence portion of the City, as well as to regulate and control and prohibit portions of certain business therein which are deemed hazardous, as well as hurtful to the safety, health and good order and welfare of the people of such district;

BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Floydada:

SECTION 1. That the term "Residence District", as used herein, shall mean a district lying outside of the fire limits of the City of Floydada, in which a majority of the buildings are residences or dwelling houses, occupied by families as residences or places of abode, within a radius of three hundred feet from the center of any proposed business house or proposed place of business.

SECTION 2. That the term "Business Building" as used herein shall mean any building or other structure, proposed to be used for the sale of goods, wares or merchandise, or that may be used as the chief place for trading or bartering or that may be used for manufacturing purposes, or that may be used for storage or warehouse purposes, or that may be used for advertising purposes, such as bill boards.

SECTION 3. When any person shall be desirous of erecting any business in a residence district in the City of Floydada, as the same is hereinabove defined, or shall be desirous of operating or conducting any kind of business for the sale or purchase or barter of goods, wares, or merchandise, other than the businesses herein after specially set forth in section five of this Ordinance, such person or authorized agent shall make application therefor to the Board of Aldermen of the City of Floydada, upon the application blank to be furnished by the City Clerk, containing a written statement showing the exact location of the said proposed building or business to be operated or engaged in, and the general character of buildings surrounding the same, the exact plans and specifications of the building proposed to be erected, and the kind of business proposed to be operated and conducted at said location or in said proposed building, and said application shall give full information as to all of the surrounding circumstances and location of the proposed building or business to be engaged in.

That it shall be the duty of the applicant or the person making such application, after the same has been properly filled out, to file such application with the City Clerk, and it shall be the duty of the City Clerk to forthwith transmit the same to the Board of Aldermen for consideration. That should it appear to the Board of Aldermen, after making the necessary examination of any application so filed, that the Ordinances of the City of Floydada are contemplated to be complied with, as shown from the terms of said application, the said Board of Aldermen shall grant such permit to the said applicant, provided, however, if it should appear to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen that the said building when constructed, in view of the purpose for which the proposed building is to be used, or the proposed business to be operated or engaged in, the same is likely to and will become hazardous, in the light of its nearness or proximity to existing dwelling houses, and is likely to readily communicate fire or render more hazardous the fire risk of any such district, or should it appear, in view of the purposes for which the proposed building is to be used, that the health of the adjacent inhabitants or occupants of the said buildings will become greatly menaced and endangered, or should it appear to the Board of Aldermen that the said building, in view of the purposes for which it is proposed to be used, would seriously offend the morals, good order, convenience, comfort, prosperity and general welfare of the inhabitants adjacent to and residing in the same district or persons owning property therein, it shall be the duty of the Board of Aldermen, under such circumstances, or any or all the same, to order a public hearing to be had for the purpose of inquiring into any and all such conditions and circumstances.

That it shall be the duty of the City Clerk to notify all persons living within the said residence district, as well as other persons affected, to appear at said hearing before the said Board of Aldermen, for the purpose of giving testimony touching the matter of granting such application; that in lieu of the said notice to be given by the said City Clerk, the Board may order that a public notice thereof shall be published in the official newspaper of the City of Floydada, being a newspaper of general circulation, notifying all persons affected to appear and be heard in person or by attorney or agent; that all such persons, including the applicant, shall be given a full and fair hearing before the Board on all matters touching the granting of said permit. That the City Clerk shall issue process to all persons to appear and give testimony at said hearing, upon the request of the applicant, his agent or attorney, as well as upon the request of any person whose property may be affected by the granting of the said permit. That the said Board of Aldermen may continue the said hearing from day to day until all of the facts have been, to their satisfaction, fully developed.

SECTION 4. That it shall be the duty of the Board of Aldermen, within a reasonable time after the conclusion of said hearing, to make an order upon any such application so heard. That the Board of Aldermen, may, after hearing the evidence, deny any application so made for a permit where they deem that the granting of the same will injure the property or be hurtful to the residents of the said district, as herein above stated, provided that all orders made upon any application shall be made in writing and the cause fully stated by the Board of Aldermen for the denying of the same, and provided, further, however, that the Board of Aldermen shall never deny any permits where it is shown by the said applicant that by making certain changes or alterations in his proposed building, or plans and specifications, the said applicant may thereby avoid injuring any adjacent property or persons residing in said district in their rights, as herein contemplated, provided, further, however, that the granting of any permit to erect a building, as provided by this Section, shall never be construed to authorize the conduct or establishment of any business described in Section Five hereof; that as to any such business described in Section Five hereof; a separate application shall be made therefor, as provided by said Section.

SECTION 5. That no person shall establish, maintain, or conduct, in a residence district of the City of Floydada, as herein above defined, any of the hereinabove described businesses without first making application to the Board of Aldermen and obtaining a permit for, which application shall state the location of the said business and the particular nature of the same, and a general description of the dwellings or residences surrounding the same; that all such applications shall be made to the City Clerk and addressed to the Mayor and Board of Aldermen, and upon the filing of any such application the Board of Aldermen shall order a public hearing to be held, and on the said application it shall be the duty of the City Clerk to notify all persons owning property or residing within said district to appear before the said Board at said hearing; that in lieu of giving personal notice of the said hearing to the property owners or persons residing in said district, the City Clerk may, upon the order of the Board of Aldermen cause to be published in the official newspaper of the City of Floydada, a newspaper of general circulation, a notice of the said hearing, at which all persons affected by the said application shall have a full and fair opportunity to appear and give testimony touching the said application. That after the conclusion of the said hearing, the said Board, within a reasonable time, shall make a final order concerning such application as may be warranted by the facts, that the businesses herein referred to are as follows, to wit:

Hospitals, insane asylums, livery stables, steam laundries, brick yards, lumber yards, public garages, repair shops for motor vehicles, gasoline or oil filling stations, junk yards, coal yards, wood yards, stables or wagon yards for more than four mules or horses, ice manufacturing plants, cotton gins, blacksmith shops, horseshoeing shops, wagon shops, steam saw mills, or planing mill, cement products plant, cleaning and dyeing establishments, furniture factory, dance hall, oil yards for the storage of oil or gasoline, glue factory, slaughter houses, soap factory, pickle yard, boiler feed

Roberts At Old Grads' Reunion

Reviving acquaintances he made at college more than 40 years ago, Owen J. Roberts, newly appointed justice of the United States supreme court, attended recently the reunion of his class, that of '95, at the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia. Roberts, left, is shown congratulating a classmate, Kenjiro Matsumoto, Japanese steel magnate, for coming the longest distance to attend the reunion.

or other combustible substances, places for the manufacture of gas, dairying, of any factory for the manufacture of gas, or any factory or manufacturing establishment the conduct of which business, in the opinion of the Board of Aldermen, may prove injurious to the health, safety, morals, comfort, or welfare of the inhabitants of the particular residence district, in the enjoyment of their homes and the use of their property.

SECTION 6. That in all hearings had before the Board of Aldermen, the said body shall have full power and authority to summon witnesses and require their attendance and punish for contempt and disobedience of their process as such power is otherwise conferred upon the Board of Aldermen. That all process shall be served by the Chief of Police or any police officer of the City of Floydada; that whenever it may be impracticable upon any hearing before the Board of Aldermen, in any matter wherein a hearing is required by the terms of this Ordinance, to require the personal presence of all persons affected or that in case of non-resident property owners, a notice shall be published in the official newspaper of the City of Floydada, being a newspaper of general circulation, notifying all persons affected, including non residents or absent property owners of the date of such hearing and giving a general description of the matter pending before the said Board; such notice shall be published three times in the official newspaper of the said City, the first of which publication shall be at least twenty days prior to the date of the hearing.

SECTION 7. That whenever the term "Person" is used in this Ordinance, the same shall mean any person or persons, association of persons, or corporation or their agents, or any servant or employee of any such person or corporation.

SECTION 8. That any person violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall, upon conviction, be fined in any sum not exceeding $200.00; and each and every day that the provisions of this Ordinance are violated shall constitute a separate and distinct offense. That in addition to the said penalty herein provided for the right is hereby conferred and extended unto any property owner owning property in any district, where such property owner's right may be affected or invaded, by a violation of the terms of the Ordinance, to bring suit in such court or courts having jurisdiction thereof and obtain such remedies as may be available at law or equity in the protection of the rights of such property owners.

SECTION 9. That whenever any application may be refused any permit under the terms of this Ordinance, nothing herein contained shall prevent any such applicant from resorting to the courts and obtaining, by proper remedy in a court of competent jurisdiction, such orders by way of mandamus or otherwise, and bringing in review the action of the said Board of Aldermen complained against by the said applicant.

SECTION 10. That for the purpose of preserving a record of hearing given on all applications filed with the Board of Aldermen, a substantial statement of all evidence heard upon any such hearing shall be reduced to writing and a record kept of the same; that the City Clerk shall safely keep all papers filed and other records made upon the hearing concerning the transactions of the said Board of Aldermen and the same shall be made a part of the archives of his office.

SECTION 11. That this Ordinance shall be deemed to be cumulative of, and in addition to all other Ordinances on the same or similar subjects and shall supersede pro tanto only such Ordinances directly in conflict herewith; that if for any reason, should any section, sentence or classification or any part of this Ordinance be declared invalid the same shall not

Devout Bible Student, This Kansan Also Makes Hobby Of Horse Racing

William Jewell College, a Baptist institution at Liberty, Mo., was given the alternative recently of accepting a $100,000 gift on a single condition, or of refusing it.

The condition was that the college adhere to the fundamentalist version in its instruction of Biblical history. That is to say, no scientific theory should be allowed to replace the Biblical stories of the creation and of the miracles.

If the faculty were surprised at this proposal they had a greater one in store for them. It was that the donor, J. B. Reynolds of Kansas City, a faithful church member and devout student of the Bible, is not only a leader in the horse racing world but a sportsman famed for his wagers on the race track.

His Business Side

It is interesting, therefore, to study this man whose incongruous interests have made him a unique personality in his community. Perhaps it is because he has finely balanced the conservatism of the Bible student with the liberalism of the sportsman that he has become a business leader in Kansas City.

And certainly, in a commercial way, he has climbed. The small concern he took over 20 years ago he has built up to 100 times its original size. He has made it pay annual dividends of 24 per cent for years. He has raised the market price of the stock to 13 times its par value and has made a fortune not only for himself in this activity but also for his associates.

But as for his proclivities on the race track, let this episode suffice: At a recent racing meet at the Kansas State Fair at Topeka, one of Reynolds' horses was defeated by one owned by a close friend.

"I'll beat you next summer," Reynolds told his friend, "if it costs me $10,000."

That winter Reynolds by chance saw a horse win a race on the ice near Milwaukee. He inquired of its owner for how much he would sell it. When the price was named at

J. B. Reynolds, above, with his mother's Bible . . . a sportsman and a scholar.

Loses but Got Money's Worth

The following summer Reynolds ran his $10,000 beauty against the entry of his friend at the Topeka races. The horse won, but here's the rub: the purse was for only $1000.

After the race Reynolds was introduced to the crowd of race fans as the man who had spent $10,000 to win but $1000.

Replied Reynolds: "I got my money's worth when I defeated my friend."

It was after this victory that he made the $100,000 gift to Jewell College. And the condition he laid down with the donation found its origin in the large Bible he keeps in a drawer of his office desk.

"This," he said of the book, "was my mother's. It is the Bible from which she read to me when I was a boy. Here is the story of Genesis as she believed it and as I believe it."

And as if to explain his widely varied hobbies, Reynolds declared: "I believe a man can love fast horses and believe in and follow the teaching of the Bible."

Jewell College accepted the gift.

Harmony News

(By Mrs. Zant Scott)

Harmony, July 7.—A large crowd was present at Sunday School Sunday. A program, observing Sunday School Day, was given. After the program most of the crowd went to Mather Carr's home for dinner. This was a surprise to Mr. Mather and his twin sister, Mrs. W. M. Heard, celebrating their birthday. Each family brought some eats which were spread on tables in the house and served cafeteria style.

Harry Miller spent last week-end in Abilene.

There is to be an ice cream supper at the school house Friday night, July 18, sponsored by the Woman's Missionary Society. The women announced they would have plenty of ice cream to sell.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Snodgrass, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Miller, Harry Miller and Carrie Snodgrass went to the breaks plum hunting Monday afternoon and came back Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Zant Scott went to Plainview Tuesday on business.

On the Fourth of July Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Smith and children, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Gary and children, W. C. Clubb and daughter, Mrs. Chas. Trowbridge, Mrs. Floyd Trowbridge and little son, of Amarillo, Miss Hazel Parker of Floydada, Miss Christine Trowbridge and Roy Conway of Floydada, went to Blanco Canyon and took their supper. A very pleasant outing was enjoyed.

J. E. Swinson and D. R. Gaston, of Celeste, returned home Monday from a week-end trip to New Mexico. They visited Roswell, Artesia, and Carlsbad.

Mrs. A. A. Collins returned home last week from Norman, Oklahoma, where she spent the month of June with her daughter, Miss Ollie Belle, a student in the University of Oklahoma.

Rev. A. A. Collins, pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, left Saturday for Jacksonville, where he will hold a revival meeting.

Sam Thurmon who is doing contracting work in Hobbs, New Mexico, came home Saturday to spend a week here with his family.

Miss Gladys Collins returned home Thursday from a visit in Lubbock with friends and relatives. Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Collins, her parents, drove over after her.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Ross spent Sunday at Lubbock with Mrs. Ross' sister, Mrs. W. S. Posey. Their daughter, Mary Anna, who spent the latter part of the week with her aunt returned home with her parents.

Miss Edna Earl Sullivan, of Big Spring, who has visited here a number of times with her sister, Mrs. C. M. Thacker, sailed last month for a three months tour of Europe.

W. H. Hilton and W. M. Massie left Sunday to be gone for several days on a business trip to New Mexico.

Misses Bama Gene Smalley, Eulalia Burrus and Maxine Norris, students of West Texas State Teachers' College, Canyon, spent the week-end with home folk.

Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Thacker and daughter, Mary Lee, and Miss Jean Ayres and Miss Marie Strange spent July 4 with Mrs. Thacker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sullivan, of Big Spring.

Miss Blanche Enoch, who is a student of the National Business College of Abilene, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Enoch from Wednesday of last week until Sunday.

When Spending Is Economy

If someone told you that for a few cents each day your household work could be cut in two, that even the most irksome of household tasks—dishwashing—could be made pleasant, you would be inclined to pinch yourself to make sure you were awake.

And yet—it is no dream.

The back-breaking broom and washtub can be banished; a machine will wash your dishes. At the end of the day you will not be too fagged out to entertain, to go to the theatre; your eyes will not close over your book.

One can spend energy and health as well as money.

TEXACO COMPANY MAKES NEW TYPE OF PRODUCT

Texaco New and Better Gasoline, of the same high quality which has distinguished this product, is being blended at The Texas Company refineries with Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound, a product of the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation. Texaco New and Better Gasoline without the Ethyl compound will still be manufactured, making two grades of Texaco gasoline available to the motoring public.

About eighteen years ago, officials of the General Motors Research Corporation began a series of experiments to determine the cause of "knocking," a phenomenon which had become more and more troublesome with the development of speedier and more powerful automobile engines. As the compression ratio of the internal combustion engine was increased, or as carbon deposition increased, this "knocking" became worse.

For many years the fault was thought to be in some mechanical feature of the engine itself and it was not until experiments were well under way that it was found that in the case of higher compression that had been known as "engine knock" is in reality a fuel "knock." That is, as the compression ratio of the engine increases, the normal type of combustion within the cylinder suddenly changes, metallic "ping" that can be heard. When this detonating type of fuel combustion occurs, there is a considerable increase in the amount of heat energy lost to the water jacket by radiation. Therefore, there is less heat left to do the mechanical work of the engine.

It was shown in the laboratory that the knocking could be controlled by adding iodine to the gasoline, but the use of this substance was seen to be commercially impracticable due to the cost and the relatively large quantity required to eliminate the knocking. The experiments continued and after testing more than 33,000 chemical substances, the chemists developed Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound, a mixture of tetraethyl lead, ethylene bromide, halowax oil (known chemically as monochloronaphthalene) and red anti-line dye.

Of these substances, the only important ingredient, from the "anti-knock" standpoint, is tetraethyl lead. This compound is twice as heavy as gasoline, yet dissolves in gasoline in any proportions and vaporizes easily and completely.

If tetraethyl lead alone were used, it would deposit lead oxide on the spark plug electrodes and valve stems. Accordingly there is added the ethylene bromide, a colorless bromide compound which prevents the formation of lead oxide.

The halowax oil in the compound acts as a lubricant, keeping the exhaust valve stems from becoming dry. This prevents the sticking and burning of valves.

The dye is added in minute quantities simply to identify Ethyl Gasoline and to prevent its being used for any purpose other than for motor fuel. Its presence does not have anything to do with the performance of Ethyl gasoline. Ethyl gasoline should not be used for cleaning, illumination or for heating portable stoves.

Ethyl fluid, so-called, is added to gasoline in varying amounts, the maximum not exceeding a teaspoonful to every gallon of gasoline. In no case is there more than one part of tetraethyl lead to 1300 parts of gasoline.

By the addition of Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound, the outstanding advantages of Texaco New and Better Gasoline (Texaco "400") will be retained and in addition the fuel will have anti-knock properties of the highest nature.

"Farming is not only a business but a mode of living," says a recent U. S. Department of Agricultural publication, "Rural Buildings for Business and Social Uses," "and in recognition of this idea modern farm business organizations are erecting rural buildings to relate the economic and social factors of agriculture." This publication, which can be obtained by sending to the Department of Agriculture for Farmers' Bulletin 1622-F, contains descriptions, plans, and photographs of rural community buildings in different parts of the country.

For stockmen in the Southwest, silage made from grain sorghum is good insurance against drought in summer. These crops make good silage which will keep for several years without deteriorating. When cut at the proper time—when the seeds are in the stiff-dough stage—grain-sorghum silage has a feed value about equal to that of corn silage. Usually some supplementary feed rich in protein is desirable, especially for breeding cattle. For growing and fattening cattle and sheep, and for high-producing cows, it should be fed with a liberal ration of concentrates.

Few insects have such records for destructiveness as the Hessian fly whose activities have cost the country as much as $100,000,000 in a single year, the United States Department of Agriculture's records show. At least eight serious outbreaks have occurred over the northeastern one-third of the United States within the last 45 years. Local activities is evident almost every year somewhere in that large territory or in limited areas on the Pacific coast. Farmers' Bulletin 1627-F, The Hessian Fly and How Losses from It Can Be Avoided, is free to anyone requesting it.

A farmer near Payette, Idaho, makes money in his spare time because about 40 years ago his father planted black locusts on odd corners of his farm. With a small homemade sawmill this farmer makes doubletrees which find a ready market. He made 130 salable doubletrees from one black locust and had fence posts and firewood, too. He makes it a practice to remove side limbs from the young locusts, either pinching them off or using a knife.

The self-feeder in the hog lot may become clogged during damp weather. It requires only an occasional visit to each feeder to see that the grain is feeding down freely so that the pigs can get their feed when they want it. If the feeder can be placed under an open shed or covered with a roof to keep out the rain there will be less danger of wetting the feed in rainy weather.

On Program

College Station, Texas, July 7.—F. W. Schilling, of Minnesota, Federal Farm Board member for the dairy and poultry interests, will appear as one of the outstanding speakers on the general program of the twenty-first annual Farmers Short Course at the A. & M. College of Texas July 28-Aug. 1. Mr. Schilling will discuss the workings of the Farm Board program particularly as related to the marketing of dairy and poultry products.

Diplomat

With her appointment as consul from Nicaragua, Senora Berta de Selva, above, is said to have the distinction of being the first woman to invade the ranks of the diplomatic corps. She is shown here as she arrived at Los Angeles.

In cooking bread pudding, corn and other dishes containing a large proportion of egg and milk, set the dish in a pan of surrounding hot water and bake in a very moderate oven until a knife blade will come out uncoated when used to test with.

Have your retail meat man bone a shoulder of lamb for you. Fill the center with hot savory stuffing, sew the edges together to form a plump, square cushion. This piece of meat will be easy to carve, tender, and juicy. It is one of the less expensive cuts of lamb.

Strong soap or soap powder should not be used on dishes decorated with gilt, because these cleaning materials may contain substance which are injurious to gilt.

READ these features!

1. READ—wider, thicker, tougher, deeper-cut, Pathfinder design—finer looking and better-gripping than treads on many high-priced tires.

2. ON THE SIDE-WALLS—the thick, wide, tapered bars and three heavy circle ribs which add beauty and real "class," also provide increased wet traction and more curb protection.

3. SIX-PLY HEAVY DUTY BODY of sturdy SUPERTWIST—the shock-absorbing cord patented by Goodyear and obtainable ONLY in Goodyear Tires. (Come in for a demonstration of Supertwist's superiority.)

4. BIG AND HANDSOME—a high quality, full oversize tire of rugged strength—carrying the standard Lifetime Guarantee and proudly bearing the Goodyear name and house flag. A value only the world's largest maker of tires can offer!

Carefully mounted. Save on tubes, too! Remember: These Goodyears are backed by our year round, on the ground service—real service!
