Silent In Speech, Firm In Faith

All of these folks, deaf and dumb, are members of the First Methodist church, and only last Sunday were taken into membership. The little folks, shown in the picture were baptized. These silents form a separate class, The Ephatha, at the church with a teacher who instructs them in the Sunday school lesson in their own language. The class was organized two years ago by Mrs. W. W. Silk. All the adults occupy positions of trust and ability with Wichita Falls business firms.

Daughter, Mother Vie for Honors In C. I. A. Classes

DENTON, Texas, May 2.—(AP)—A daughter and her mother are vieing with each other for senior class honors at the College of Industrial Arts here. When Mrs. Will S. Fleming of Pittsburg, Texas, is handed her diploma in June she will be the first mother to graduate from the college in the same class with her daughter. Miss Mary K. Fleming, the daughter, is working for a Bachelor of Science degree while the mother is completing work for a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Mrs. Fleming's husband, Will S. Fleming, is superintendent of Pittsburgh schools, in which Mrs. Fleming taught English for several years. The daughter graduated from the class her mother taught. The mother obtained a leave of absence from her teaching position in Pittsburg to graduate with her daughter.

WORK VACCINATES HIMSELF

Cabinet Member Does Job As Precaution Against Smallpox

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Following the policy of President Coolidge, Secretary Work not only was vaccinated today as a precaution against smallpox but he went his superior on better. He vaccinated himself.

Arrangements had been made for the interior department medical officer to vaccinate the secretary but when he arrived the physician had stepped out.

"I'll vaccinate myself then," said the secretary who was a noted physician before he became a cabinet member and served at one time as president of the American Medical association.

MINERAL WELLS, May 2.—Mineral Wells was standing with open arms today ready to receive the largest influx of visitors in its history for the West Texas chamber of commerce convention opening here for three days Monday.

"We are ready for the seventh annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce opening May 4-5 said the statment. "Every arrangement possible has been made for the comfort, pleasu e and service of our frinds through ut West Texas. We have ample accommodations for any number that may come and will be disappointed if we don't have the largest attendance in the history of the organization. Our ambition is to make this an historic occasion for Mineral Wells, West Texas and Texas."

This statement was signed by Mayor Charlton Brown, Allen Guinn, chairman of the general arrangements committee and Ray Leeman, manager of the West Texas chamber of commerce.

Porter A. Whaley, manager of the organization, stated that the announcement had the cordial endorsement of the West Texas chamber of commerce, adding that the program is the strongest ever presented by the chamber. He urged all members and friends of the organization to participate in the great event.

LAST TOUCHES MADE TO C-C M. WELLS TRIP

Drawings for Reservations Will be Made at C-C Monday Morning

The Red River Valley special bound for Mineral Wells will leave this city Monday night at 10:30, according to Chairman Burton Stayton and not Monday morning, as has been reported.

Those going on the trip are requested to draw for reservations at the chamber of commerce offices Monday morning at 10:30, at which time they will receive their tickets for the trip. The trippers will not meet at the chamber of commerce before leaving Monday night but will go directly to the station, where the train will be boarded.

Over 120 to Go.

More than 120 have signed up for the trip which will be made Monday night, spending the day at Mineral Wells Tuesday and returning to this city Tuesday night. The band will accompany the trippers and Wichita Falls is planning to make a strong bid for the 1927 convention.

A large number of Wichita Falls photographs will be exhibited, it is stated, and 5,000 copies of a two-color publicity folder bearing pictures, information on the city and surrounding territory and a map of the new south plains railroad as it will connect up with this city will be given out.

Others Will Join.

A number of people from other cities in the trade territory will arrive in Wichita Falls Monday and accompany the local delegation to the convention, it is announced.

In addition to the special train a great many local people expect to go down to the convention in automobiles and will join the delegation in Mineral Wells.

Mrs. W. S. Abbot, who is to represent this city in the pageant and other social functions as "Madame Wichita Falls," Miss Vera Hale, who is to be "Miss Wichita Falls" and Mr. W. S. Abbot will go down this afternoon by automobile in order to be in the city at the opening of the convention.

34 CARS IN BIG RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 2.—Thirty-four cars, five of them of foreign design are entered in the annual 500-mile automobile race to be held May 30 at the Indianapolis motor speedway, it was announced today. Entries closed at midnight, May 1. The field is the largest since 1919.

Thirty-three machines are eligible to start. Elimination trials will be held before the contest.

4 FINE HOMES WILL GO UP IN MORNINGSIDE

Gwynn, Harrell, McCutcheon And Daniel Plan Residences

A residential building program that will within the next three months add four more palatial homes to the Morningside addition, already one of the show places of the city, is to be started within the next few days.

What promises to be one of the finest homes in Wichita Falls is to be built on Pemb.oke Lane, in the addition, by P. F. Gwynn, prominent local oil operator, who contemplates the erection of a residence costing in the neifghborhood of $60,000. Contracts for the structure have been let.

Another large home in prospect for the near future is to be one of J. T. Harrel, vice-president of the City National bank, who is landscaping a 14-acre tract preparatory to the erection of an imposing residence later in the summer. Final plans for this have not as yet been completed. This, too, will be on Pembroke Lane.

C. E. McCutcheon, vice-president of the First National bank, also plans construction of a fine home on the same street. Plans for this, also, are still in the embryonic stage.

The fourth home in prospect is to be up on Sturdivant Place, another Morningside road, by S. B. Daniel, oil man. It will be a pretentious structure when completed.

Plans for all the buildings are being prepared by Voelcker and Dixon, architects, while the realty deals were handled by Welch, Richardson and Kemp, real estate dealers here.

Park Department To Halt Bagworm Raids

Taps are sounding for bagworms in Wichita Falls. These pests which annually start a campaign among shrubbery over the city that is a certain losing battle for the trees, are due to find their advance checked this year if the plans of city park Superintendent C. C. Bunnenburg are carried out.

Mr. Bunnenburg asks that any property owners in the city who are troubled by these worms filed orders early each week with the park department at the city hall and sprayers will come out to the infested area and spray the shrubbery, free of charge.

STEAMER HELD FOR CLAIM

HALIFAX, N. S., May 2.—The wooden steamer Clackamas, was held here today after a claim of $30,000 damages was made by the owners of the three-masted schooner Cape D'Or, which was rammed by the steamer off Cape Lahare, Thursday afternoon and sunk with the loss of five lives.

The rainstorm and fog which caused the collision also resulted in the loss of two steamers the Azov and the Moldegaard, which went ashore. The crews of both vessels were rescued.

CLEARINGS OF WICHITA BANK AT HIGH POINT

First Quarter This Year 17 Million Higher Than Last

APRIL $14,395,022

Total For Last Week Is Also At Good Gain, Report Shows

In spite of the bad drouth which banking officials say has had a depressing effect on business over the entire territory, bank clearings for the first four months of 1925 showed an increase of $17,201,126.74 over clearings for the first four months in 1924. The two totals were $55,787,203.04 and $38,586,076.30.

Biggest in History.

The clearings for January, February, March and April of this year represent the biggest clearings in the history of Wichita Falls for the first third of any year, even oil boom days failing to bring the total much over half a hundred million dollars.

In April, clearings reached to $14,395,022.48, an increase of $4,104,677.41 over April, 1924, clearings, which came to but $10,290,345.07. Clearing house officials call to mind that this big increase which is one of the biggest April clearings ever recorded came at the height of the drouth, and consequently a depression in farmer trade.

Up Over Week

Though slightly below totals for other weeks in this year, bank clearings for last week came to $3,155,964.80, an increase of $166,301.40 over the preceding week.

Daily clearings for the past week follow:

Monday	$ 567,888.38
Tuesday	550,261.26
Wednesday	644,752.83
Thursday	497,604.41
Friday	449,035.94
Saturday	476,421.96
Total	$ 3,155,964.80
Last week	2,989,663.40
Increase	$ 166,301.40
Clearings month of April 1925	$14,395,022.48
April, 1924	10,290,345.07
Increase	$ 4,104,677.41
Jan. 1 to May, 1925	$55,787,203.04
Same period, 1924	38,586,076.30

Mrs. O. E. Nichols Named Treasurer of Music Clubs

BEAUMONT, May 2.—Miss Dorothy Drane of Corsicana was elected president of the Texas Federation of Music clubs which concluded a three-day session here this afternoon. In addition the following officers were chosen: Mrs. J. L. Price, Dallas, first vice-president; Mrs. Howard Gardner, Beaumont, second vice president; Mrs. Anna Clyde Plunkett, Houston, recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Hagar, Corsicana, corresponding secretary; Mrs. O. E. Nichols, Wichita Falls, treasurer; Mrs Clifford Hall, Port Arthur, auditor; Mrs. Mamie Folsom Wynne, Dallas, parliamentarian; Mesdames R. K. Siles of Fort Worth, F. L. Carlson of San Antonio and Henry Roberts of Waxahachie, directors at large.

WIFE CHARGES CRUELTY.

Scion of Eastern Aristocracy Named in Connecticut Bill.

Miss Ravin and Towne eloped and were married on March 3, 1919. Last year a divorce action filed by Towne against his wife in 1923 was discontinued. He charged her with misconduct.

Charred Body Is Still a Mystery To Gary Police

GARY, Ind., May 2.—The charred and mutilated body of a young woman in the Cheaterton, Ind., morgue is not that of Mrs. Josephine Desiderio, 21-year-old Gary mother, it was announced definitely today after Dr. G. F. Laue, prominent Gary dentist, announced his chart of Mrs. Desiderio's teeth did not correspond with that of the body found alongside the Funessville road last Sunday.

The dead woman's teeth were in good condition except for the extraction of a left molar and right bicuspid in the lower jaw and a lower right molar being filled with silver.

Dr. Laue referred to a chart of Mrs. Desiderio's teeth made August 8, 1920, and stated that it revealed four upper teeth and four lower teeth were badly in need of treatmeut.

TO STUDY WOOD USE

Nationwide Move to Conserve Wood Is Planned.

WASHINGTON, May 2—A nation-wide move to study the methods of industrial utilization of wood with a view to reducing waste and conserving timber, was planned and financed today at the first meeting of a national committee on wood utilization. Secretary Hoover told the gathering, made up of representatives of a half dozen arts and industries in which wood is consumed that a donation of $50,000 had been made for the work by an anonymous giver.

Ma In North Asks Favor Of Ma Here

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 2.—The first requisition directed by a woman governor to a woman governor was forwarded today by Governor Nellie Tayloe Ross of Wyoming to Miriam A. Ferguson of Texas.

The Wyoming governor requested that the Texas governor surrender to Wyoming L. R. Maxwell, a convict who escaped from the Wyoming penitentiary in April, 1923. He subsequently was convicted of a crime in Texas and sent to the Texas penitentiary. He is wanted here to complete the term which he was serving when he escaped.

AGRICULTURE IS "BETTER."

Review of Situation Shows Steadier Morale Over Country.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—In a review of the agricultural situation the department of agriculture today announced there is a "somewhat better morale in the country than last spring."

"The pressure of hard times, though still in force," the review states, "has relaxed at least slightly and temporarily. It is an early spring with general conditions more tolerable than farmers have seen since 1920."

2 INJURED AS SPEEDING CAR STRIKES THEM

Man and Woman Go to Hospital; Negro Runs Away

T. M. West, aged about 50, was seriously injured and Mrs. Lela Washburn, aged 35, was less dangerously hurt at 9 o'clock Saturday night when they were run down by an automobile driven by Eddie Williams, colored, as they were crossing the street at Seventh and Lee. Both are in the general hospital, where it was said West's injuries, at least, were critical. He is suffering from a broken leg, severe cuts about the head and body and bruises on all his limbs.

Mrs. Washburn's injuries consist of cuts and bruises about the head.

Williams Flees

Williams, who fled from his car immediately after the accident, was taken into custody by officers after a short chase. A negro companion who was with him at the time also disappeared down an alley and at a late hour last night had not been found. Williams refused to divulge his name. Officers said, however, they believed they knew who the black was and that his apprehension was merely a matter of time. Williams was in the employe of the Dixie Tire service.

Mr. West's address was given as Orbert, Tex., while Mrs. Washburn lived near the river in the northern part of the city.

Atlanta, Ga., Named For P.-T. Convention

AUSTIN, May 2.—(AP)—Atlanta, Ga., was awarded the 1926 session or the national congress of parents and teachers when the board of managers compromised to send the convention to the "old south" when claims from New England and the middle west threw the board into a deadlock.

TO MANDAMUS TERRELL.

Preparation of Suits Is Left in Hands of Land Committee.

AUSTIN, May 2.—(AP)—Preparation of the mandamus suits to force State Comptroller S. H. Terrell to issue a deposit warrant for approximately $96,000 University of Texas oil royalties to the university available fund as provided in a bill of the thirty-ninth legislature will be left to the land committee of the university board of regents, it was said today.

WALES NEAR CAPETOWN

CAPETOWN, South Africa, May 2.—(AP)—The naval station of Simonstown, some 20 miles from Capetown, together with adjoining villages, celebrated the visit of the Prince of Wales today. A naval boat crew which earned the honor by winning a mile race recently rowed the prince out to the training ship General Botha. He was piped aboard and inspected the boys, expressing his admiration for the manner in which the youth's training was carried out.

NOWATA SLIM LAYS ONE DOWN IN 9 SECONDS

NEARLY A RECORD

Fast Time Made by Other Contestants At Triangle Ranch

IOWA PARK, May 2.—Nowata Slim of Fairview, Okla., threw his steer in the bulldogging contests here this afternoon in 9.8 seconds, the fastest time seen yet at the arena, Tom Burnett's Triangle ranch, and within two seconds of the world's record. Jack Kerscher of Ringling, Mont., was second with a time of 17 seconds, while Mike Hastings of Iowa Park was third with a time of 17.3 seconds.

The contests were viewed by the largest crowd that has yet attended this year's rodeo—estimates placing the number at between 5,000 and 6,000, with most of the seats in the arena filled.

Big One Todya.

Preparations are being made for the largest crowd of the week Sunday to witness the final contests in all the events and get the final say on who are the best in the cowboy sports as decided by the 1925 contests.

A wire from J. Frank Norfleet, the Hale Center rancher who won international fame a few years ago when he ran down a notorious gang of confidence men and landed them in prison, late last night nindicated that Norfleet would be in attendance at the rodeo today at th special invitaion of Tom Burnett.

The wildest steers and the buckingest brones are promised for the contests and the best of the four days show is expected.

Winners in the calf-roping contest yesterday follow: Herbert Myers, Joplin, Mo., time 21.8 seconds; Lee Ribinson, Fort Worth, time 22.6 seconds; Bob Crosby, Kenne, N. M., time 24 seconds.

Throws Him Again

Nowata Slim took first place in the cowboy brone riding. Bob Haskins second, and Perry Ivory of Pineville, Ore., third riding Long Time.

An attempt to ride Bovolupus, the wild bull of the Texas ranges by Jazbo Fulkerson, failed. Bovolupus is scheduled for Fred Alvord of Baird, Texas, today.

A calf-roping contest between representatives of six states was won by Fred Beeson of Kansas, time 26 seconds.

Tipton Drug Store. Sold to E. T. Renfro

E. T. Renfrom of Fort Worth, well known Texas druggist, added another store to his long list when he purchased the Tipton Drug store, corner Eighth and Scott, last week. Mr. Renfro will arrive in Wichita Falls tomorrow to complete final arrangements for a complete overhauling of the inside in an effort to make it one of the most modern drug stores in Texas.

T. D. Moore the new manager arrived from Fort Worth yesterday and assumed charge of the new concern. It will be the agency here for Rexall goods.

CANDIDATE IS ARRESTED.

Defeated Office Seeker Believed Responsible for Election Trouble.

NOGALES, Ariz., May 2.—Carlos J. Tejerina, defeated candidate for president-emunicipal of Nogales, Sonora, has been arrested at Magdalena, Sonora and is charged with having caused the election day riots here last Sunday that resulted in the death of two men and the injuring of 54 others.

A count of the votes cast at the election has been completed and it gives the red ticket headed by Tejerina 142 votes and the red and green ticket headed by Dr. Fernando Priego, 1,054.

KILLED BY AIRPLANE.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., May 2.—Florence Elizabeth Feist, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Feist was fatally injured when an airplane in which she was riding fell 100 feet in the barnyard on the Feist farm two miles south of here today.

Metal Plane Sets a New Endurance Record In Test For Flight To Honolulu

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—Making a new world's record for non-stop flights for seaplanes, the all-metal hull PN-9 built to fly from California to Honolulu, dipped into the Delaware river today after being in the air 28 hours and 36 minutes. She came down only because she ran out of gasoline.

The flight to test her capacity for the cross-Pacific hop was pronounced a success in every way by naval officers. She took the air so easily at 10:22 a. m. Friday with 1,300 gallons of gasoline that observers said she could load more fuel and stay in the air longer. Her engines ran smoothly and the long flight was without special incident, the pilots said.

Those aboard were Lieutenants C. H. Schildhauer and J. R. Kyle Jr., who took turns in piloting the big plane, and Captain L. M. Woolson, a civilian aeronautical expert, and chief machinist's mate Charles Sutter, who also took their turns on watch.

The PN-9, observers say, flew at an average speed sufficient to carry her farther than from San Diego to the Hawaiian islands. At the end of the twenty-seventh hour, it was announced she had flown just far enough to equal the distance between San Diego and Honolulu. It was pointed out by experts that in a straightaway flight, flying conditions would be somewhat easier and that the plane probably could go much faster in the same number of hours than it did in the test.

Lynch Davidson and His Smile Pay a Visit to Wichita Falls

"Even though a government bears the label of democracy it is stable and secure only so long as the men and women under its flag are of that high type of citizen which perpetuates good government," was the declaration of Lynch Davidson of Houston, former gubernatorial candidate in an impromptu talk to a group of friends who entertained him at a banquet at the Wichita club Saturday night.

"I use the word citizenship for the want of a better expression," continued the Houstonian, "in an effort to bring home to you that there must be contained within the heart and the soul of the individual of that government or that democracy, the ideal and purpose to so live for his country's ideals that his government survives."

Lynch Davidson arrived in Wichita Falls shortly after noon Saturday, planning to go from here to Mineral Wells to the annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce. His visit here resulted from an invitation extended him by Mayor R. E. Shepherd and others to be a member of the Wichita Falls delegation to that convention.

Carrying the same smile that so

"West Texas holds a lure for me that can never be appeased."

typified the Davidson candidacy in every corner of Texas during the last state campaign, the former lieutenant governor greeted his friends here with the announcement that "I am as happy in defeat as I would have been in victory," and insisted the only worry he now had was an excess weight of thirty pounds, "which for a man like me is something to be concerned with."

Mr. Davidson would have nothing to say of politics other than to discuss state questions in a general way, nor would he make any statement with reference to the next gubernatorial campaign. Pressed for a promise by those who dined with him that, should he be a candidate for governor in 1926, that he would open his campaign in Wichita Falls, he answered that he would give it serious consideration. He has but recently returned from abroad where he spent several months following the 1924 campaign, and it was in connection with a discussion during his talk of European situations that his remarks on government were made.

Austria, sliced to an entity of but 32,000 square miles with its teeming millions of people, was selected by Mr. Davidson as an illustration of

BALLOONS STILL FLY

Pilot Bag Lands Safely in Mississippi Early Saturday Night

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 2.—(AP)—The national elimination balloon race that started from here late yesterday had been narrowed down to two contestants tonight and there was the possibility that one of these would be ruled out.

The two entries still aloft were the St. Joseph, piloted by the veteran, Captain H. E. Honeywell, and the Goodyear III, piloted by W. T. Van Orman.

Captain Honeywell and Herbert W. Thaden, who landed near Selma, Kan., early today, were disqualified tonight by Referee A. B. Lambert because of delay in starting yesterday. Mr. Lambert informed Carl H. Wolfley, manager of the race that there was no "excuse" for the action of these two pilots in refusing to take gas during the afternoon. He said they had been warned repeatedly that they would delay the race. A meeting of the local contest committee was immediately called by Wolfley to take action on the referee's decision. This committee, it was explained, has authority either to uphold or overrule the referee's decision.

The pilot balloon, with Major Maurice Smith in charge, landed safely near Crenshaw, Miss., early tonight having covered the greatest distance of any entry that has come to ground. This balloon, however, was not a contestant.

The St. Joseph and the Goodyear III probably were somewhere in lower Arkansas or in Mississippi tonight, it was indicated by reports from those sections. Two balloons were reported to have been seen over Cotton Plant, Ark., this afternoon, about 400 miles from here. An engineer of an Illinois Central railroad train reported at Memphis tonight that he had seen a balloon this afternoon at Courtland, Miss. This is about 20 miles southeast of Crenshaw, where the pilot balloon landed.

The Detroit, piloted by Thaden, had traveled about 125 miles when it was forced down near Selma, Kan., because of leaks in the bag at 2:20 a. m. today. Thaden explained the bag was three years old.

The S-14, an army entry, piloted by Lieut. William J. Flood, made a safe landing near Batesville, Ark., this afternoon. Less than 400 miles had been traveled by this bag.

Europe Spends Huge Sum in This Country

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Europe took a quarter of a billion dollars' worth of goods from the United States during March.

During the same period the United States purchased less than half that amount in Europe, although the total was considerably greater than that for the same month of 1924.

Both imports and exports were markedly increased during March, 1925, over March, 1924, but in spite of this country's imports from North America were shown to be smaller during the period than last year.

DENY PLOT ON BORIS.

Bulgaria Officials Say No Danger Exists for King.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 2.—(AP)—The government authorities today issued an official denial of the report that they had discovered a plot against King Boris involving the blowing up of the palace. It is asserted that quiet has been restored, but possibly this is the lull before the storm.

Investigations of the last few days have clearly demonstrated that the communist doctrines are deeply embedded in official and school circles and that the revolutionary movement was instigated by Moscow, the report says.

LOMAX QUITS T-U ASS'N.

Executive Secretary of Ex-Students' Successor to Be Named.

AUSTIN, May 2.—John A. Lomax, executive secretary of the Texas ex-Students association since March 19, has resigned, effective last Friday, it was announced in a dispatch to the American-Statesman Saturday from Rhodes S. Baker, Dallas, president of the ex-students' association.

The association will shortly announce the election of Lomax's successor, Baker said, but in the meantime Lomax will "give general direction to the business of the association insofar as his new duties will permit."

LOGAN IS RE-ELECTED.

Port Arthur Official Sent Back to Post by Big Majority.

PORT ARTHUR, May 2.—Mayor J. P. Logan was re-elected today, receiving 3,648 votes to 3,019 for his opponent, H. F. Banker. V. J. Wistner was re-elected city attorney over J. E. Rose 4,353 to 2,124. W. W. Covington was high man in the race for re-election to the office of chief of police bu will have J. F. Fox for his opponent in the run-off election next Saturday. There will be run-offs for the city commision.

5 Lives Are Toll Taken By Heavy Fog Blankets Off New England Coast

HALIFAX, N. S., May 2.—The north Atlantic, heavily mantled with fog and lashed by a driving easterly wind and rain, has taken toll of five lives, two steamers and one three-masted schooner since Thursday afternoon. The crew of one of the steamers, at last reports, was still in imminent danger.

The Nova Scotia schooner Cape D'Or went down Thursday night, three minutes after being rammed by the steamer Clackamas off Sambro lightship. Mrs. Margaret Leone Wilkie, wife of the captain, and four of the crew, including the captain's brother, were drowned. Captain Wilkie and two other men were rescued.

Two steamers, the Azov, ashore on the southern Cape Breton coast, and the Moldegaard, a Norwegian boat, ashore off Pennant Point, were expected to be total losses. According to late reports, both boats were being pounded to pieces by the high seas. The 25 men aboard the Azov managed to reach shore in their boats, but the crew of the Moldegard was unable to do this and seas were running too high to permit the Dominion government steamer, Stanley, standing by to approach. Hopes were held out that a rescue might be effected this morning.

Captain Ralph McKenzie of the fishing schooner Archie F. McKenzie reported last night that about eight miles south of the Liverpool automatic buoy he had sighted what he believed to be a schooner of about 500 tons, bottom up, and drifting shoreward. This, however, is believed to be the wreckage of the Cape D'Or as no other vessels have been reported in distress.

Music Federation Awards Loving Cup

BEAUMONT, May 2.—The fourth district of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, in which are located Galveston, Houston, Waco, Palestine, Port Arthur and Beaumont, was awarded a silver loving cup at the morning convention here today for having inaugurated the greatest number of new clubs the past year. The fourth district had 32 new clubs and the third district was second with 28.

A resolution censuring Governor Ferguson for failure to include in the state budget an appropriation for a college for music at the University of Texas was offered this afternoon.

CONTRACT FOR FIRE BOAT.

Port of Houston to Get New Ship at Cost of Over Quarter Million.

HOUSTON, May 2.—Contract for construction of Port Houston's new fire boat was awarded by the port commission at a special meeting this morning, to the Bethlehem Ship Building Incorporation, Ltd., of New York on that company's revised bid of $272,200.

"Consider yourself walking from the Adolphus hotel in Dallas to the Harris building, but three blocks away, which is the distance I walked from my hotel in Vienna to the American legation and passing at high noon only six people, my walk taking me by some of what once were the largest banks of Austria," he declared. "One can scarcely paint the picture of utter desolation and disintegration which has seized a country once one of the most powerful in the world, the culture of whose people had reached the highest of Europe."

Mr. Davidson traced briefly the periods of government through which Austria had passed since 1914, mentioning especially the occasion when the socialist class was in control.

"Under legislation of rents," he stated, "two floors of the American legatoin building, equal as a comparison to two floors of the Adolphus building in Dallas, could not be leased for more than thirty dollars a year."

He pictured the countries of continental Europe "leaping at each others' throats," and concluded by saying he could not be optimistic over the outlook for lasting peace.

"And words will not express my pleasure at visiting Wichita Falls," he added, "for West Texas holds a lure for me that can never be appeased. I trust I shall be invited to West Texas and to Wichita Falls many times more. I visited Wichita Falls when it was but a straggling village at the side of a railroad track and each time I return now I am amazed at its strides, its progress hand in hand with prosperity. It is built as one of Texas' greatest cities are builded under the guidance of a wonderful citizenship and the spirit of West Texas."

BANDITS CAPTURE TWO

American and Swedish Woman Are Caught Again in China.

HANKOW, May 3.—(AP) — Miss Elizabeth Berglund, an American and Miss Ingeborg Nystul, Swedish, of the Lutheran mission at Juchow, province of Honan, about 200 miles north of here, were captured again by bandits yesterday.

The two women were captured in a bandit raid on Juchow last November, but escaped and returned to their posts.

The American consul here has wired a strong protest to the Honan provincial officials demanding immediate steps for the rescue of the missionaries.

Paducah Contractor Kills Self With Gun

PADUCAH, Texas, May 2.—Claude Miller, abuilding contractor who moved here from Sweetwater a few months ago, committed suicide last night at his home by shooting himself in the mouth with a shotgun.

A note was found on the body but its contents have not been made public. The dead man has several large building contracts here in various stages of completion. He leaves a father, R. A. Miller, a brother, Lawrence and two sisters, Mrs. A. Baker, and Mrs. George Logsdon, all living at Abilene.

He will be buried here as soon as relatives arrive.

"DEMOCRACY IS RULER."

Chauncey Depew Tells Friends On His Birthday.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Democracy rules the world and will continue to rule it, through the middle class, Chauncey M. Depew told his hosts at one of his ninety-first birthday anniversary celebrations tonight.

The occasion was the thirty-fourth annual dinner given in the aged former senator's honor by the Montauk club, Brooklyn, an occasion which brought the assertion from the club president, William H. English, that "no other man in this or any other country has had his birthday celebrated in a manner such as this."

PLAN ANTI-AIR PROGRAM.

Government Plans to Increase Efficiency Against Aircraft.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—An intensive anti-aircraft program, designed within five months to lead to greatly increased efficiency of fire against "enemy air invaders" has been ordered for six regiments of army coast artillery troops.

One of the regiments will fire an average of 2,000 shots each month for the five-month period and the other five organizations have been allowed 800 rounds of ammunition each month for use in the tests.

MILLIONS FOR FORGERS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 2.—Business men and bankers annually are being victimized out of approximately $250,000,000 through forgeries, alterations and manipulations of checks, W. H. Goodwin, manager of the forgery bond department of St. Louis stated here today.

Despite the various mechanical devices that have been invented to prevent inroads upon the business man's profits by these means, check forging is increasing each year, Goodwin said.

GUARD PLANE CRASHES.

BOSTON, May 2.—A national guard plane taking off at the Boston air port shortly after 11 o'clock today crashed on the mud flats of the harbor from a height of 800 feet.

Both occupants of the plane were alive when help reached them and they were rushed to a relief station in East Boston. The pilot was Lieutenant Alexander Macauley and the passenger was Private McPhee. First reports indicated that McPhee was not seriously injured.

There is state room space available in the fifth Pullman.

COMPLAINT AGAINST KILLING

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Kellogg has forwarded to Governor Richardson of California a note from the Mexican embassy complaining that in February, 1924, a Mexican named Antonio Hernandez was killed by inmates of the penitentiary at San Quentin, Cal., and that no steps apparently have been taken to punish the guilty.

RECONCILE CATHOLICS

Hindenburg Wishes to Please Big Electorate With Administration.

HANOVER, Germany, May 2.—Political leaders who have been in consultation with President-Elect Von Hindenburg in the past few days believe that he is determined to reconcile the German Catholic electorate to the outcome of the election and that he will single out Dr. Marx of the people's bloc for some prominent appointment of political honor in an attempt to assuage the feeling of resentment provoked through the injection of heated religious bias into the recent campaign.

GRAND JURY AGAINST MA.

Bexar County Body Deplores Frequency of Clemency.

SAN ANTONIO, May 2.—Bexar county grand jury joined the W. C. T. U. and other organizations in deploring the frequency with which Governor Miriam A. Ferguson exercises the pardoning prerogative in its final report to Judge W. W. McCrory of the ninety-fourth district court Saturday. After commending Attorney C. W. Chamber for his efforts to enforce the law and expressing pleasure at the decrease in suspended sentences, the grand jurors declared that if fewer pardons were issued there would be a more wholesome respect for the law.

HOLD STAR FOR SMUGGLING.

Pola Negri Charged With Trying to Get Liquor and Jewelry By.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Pola Negri, motion picture actress, who arrived here last night on the Beregengaria, was detained shortly after disembarking by custom officials on a charge of failing to declare three pieces of jewelry valued at 300,000 francs, it was learned today. Miss Negri was also charged with attempting to smuggle 16 bottles of liquor into this country.

ELIHU ROOT RESIGNS

NEW YORK, May 2.—The resignation of Elihu Root, as president of the Carnegie endowment for international peace and the selection of President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university to succeed him, was announced tonight.

Kills Catarrh Germ In Three Minutes

New Orleans Makes Protest on Bridge Proposed for Riveer

NEW ORLEANS, May 2.—The New Orleans Times Picayune says today that steps are being taken by Mayor Andrew McShane to nullify propaganda against a proposed Mississippi river bridge at New Orleans, credited to the Standard Oil company and the American Steamship Owners' association, expressed in 400 telegrams recently sent to commercial organizations throughout the Mississippi valley.

Mayor McShane yesterday sent a telegram to the same organization which the Times Picayune says asked them to "help defeat opposition of Standard Oil and the American Steamship Owners' association inspired and stimulated by Standard Oil.

Telegrams also were sent by the New Orleans association of commerce asking valley organizations to disregard objections raised against the proposed bridge.

The Standard Oil company operates at Baton Rouge, La., and tank ships plying to and from Baton Rouge would pass under or through a bridge, erected at New Orleans.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 2.—W. J. Crosson, Philadelphia, chief engineer aboard the steamship Essex of the Merchants and Minters Transportation company, is in a hospital here suffering from a wound on the head caused when he was attacked yesterday aboard the ship while at sea. The name of his assailant is unknown as Mr. Crosson reported he was sitting in his state room when he was struck with a large piece of cast iron

The Jones Boys, Brothers, B'Gosh

ORAL JONES

LESTER JONES

WENT over to the Wichita State Bank and Trust company the other day and met a fellow by the name of Jones—Lester Jones, Cashier and director. Unusual sort of name—Jones. Come to find out, however, this here Jones had a pet peeve for the day. It was the day after election.

"Any kin to Oral Jones, finance commissioner?"

Up to now Lester's been beating Oral right along, but this time Oral got ahead of him.

Back in the 90's Lester beat Oral to it and bought the first coaster brake bike in town. Oral bought the second.

A few years passed by and Lester became petitioner No. 1, in Maskat Shrine Temple. Oral was petitioner No. 2.

But now Oral's got into politics before Lester did. And there was the rub.

"Hate to admit it," said Lester, "but that politician is my brother, and it's one of the few times I didn't go ahead first and let him follow."

And so the Record News this morning presents the only two Jones brothers in captivity who admit relationship. They both graduated from Wichita Falls high school. While Lester is cashering and directing for the Wichita State Bank and Trust company, Oral is doing the same thing for the City National. While Lester is secretarying and stewarding for the Floral Heights Methodist church, Oral is secretarying for the First Methodist. Both Lester and Oral are married.

Lester's got three boys and Oral's got one boy.

"We named them all Jones, too," said Lester-Oral chorus.

Eldest Daughter Of Italian King Offers Addition to Royalty

TURIN, Italy, May 2.—(AP)—Unrestrained joy pervaded the Villa Calvi today over the birth of a robust son to Princess Yolando, eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, and wife of Count Calvi Di Bergolo. The boy was immediately named Giorgio after his paternal grandfather, who died recently. It was announced that both mother and son were doing excellently.

Queen Helena was present for the event, having arrived several days ago, and she personally conveyed the news to the king and Crown Prince Humbert.

This is Yolando's second child, her first, a daughter, having been born January 27, 1924. She was married to Count Calvi April 9, 1923.

NO DOG, NO ALIMONY.

If Hubby Gets Companionship of Canine, Wife Gets Alimony.

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—If Art Acord's wife persists in denying him the companionship and aid of their family dog he need not pay her any alimony, it was ruled in superior court here where Mrs. Acord is seeking temporary alimony pending the outcome of her suit for divorce from the screen actor.

The court decided that since the holsehold pet is common property Acord has a right to utilize his screen acting ability by sending it to the studios and putting it to work earning part of the alimony.

Two base hits, Fitzgerald 2, Segrist, Jonnard. Three base hits, Harris. Stolen bases, Huhn. Sacrifice hits, Miller. Hits and runs off Zeigler 9 hits, 3 runs, 1-3 innings. North 6 hits, 4 runs, 3 1-3 innings. Love 2 hits 1 run 1 1-3 innings. Struck out by Osborne 5; Zeigler 2, North 1, Love 2. Base on balls off Osborne 2, Zeigler 4, North 1, Love 1. Left on bases Wichita Falls 18, Dallas 9. Passed balls Billings. Time of game 2:30. Umpires Estill and O'Brien.

DALLAS, May 2.—Slim Love, elongated Dallas southpaw, saved the day for the Steers when he relieved North with the bases full, two out and two balls on Fitzgerald, and then fanned the slugging Spudder outfielder on three pitched balls. The Gardner crew won a hectic affair from Wichita Falls, 11 to 8, here Saturday afternoon.

Bob Osborne, mainstay of the Wichita Falls pitching staff, got bumped in the first inning for five runs and in the sixth for the same number. However, errors a-field led to his downfall.

Error Helps.

In the first inning, O'Brien led off for Dallas with a single to center. An error at short put Harris on base. Osborn was late with his throw to third on sacrifice by Miller, and all hands were safe. The Spudder pitcher walked Williams, forcing over a run. Huhn followed with a single to center to score Harris and Miller. Williams went to third, Huhn stole second. Query threw low to the bag, and Williams scored. Huhn went to third. Single to right by Billings sent Huhn home.

Two bases on balls and single to center by White gave the Spudders a run in the third.

Dallas broke over for a score in the fourth on singles by O'Brien and Williams, and an infield out.

Spudders Come Back.

Wichita Falls came back hard in the fifth inning, scoring two runs. Tanner led off with a single to right. Turgeon flied out to left, but White singled back of third base, sending Tanner to second. Query singled through the box, scoring Tanner. White went to third. Osborne scored White with a single to center. North relieved Zeigler, and stopped the attack temporarily. Callaghan flied to left, and Distel popped out to center.

Dallas sewed the game up in the sixth. With two out the Steers jumped on Osborne for five runs. Harris tripled to right. Miller singled to the same sector, scoring Harris. Williams and Huhn drew passes, loading the bases. Segrist cleaned the sacks with a double to center. Gardner singled to center, and Segrist scored. Billings fanned out, retiring the side.

Back Again.

Apparently not flustered by the mammoth lead Dallas had stored up, the Wichita Falls club tore back at North in the seventh and scored four runs. Query led away with a single to right. Osborne flied out to Miller but Callaghan singled to left, Query went to second. Distil filled the sacks with a bingle to short right. Fitzgerald popped out to first base, and then Bodie came through with a stinging double to center, scoring all three runners. Tanner punched a fast one past third, and Bodie crossed the plate. Turgeon flied out to O'Brien in center.

The Spudders threatened dangerously in the eighth, loading the bases. White flied out to left, but Query followed with a hard one-base smack to center. Osborne hoisted to Miller in right, who muffed the catch. Callaghan flied out to Williams in left. Distel walked, again filling the bases. North pitched two high and wide ones to Fitzgerald. Love was sent in at this point and struck out the hard hitting left hander when a safe hit meant runs.

—PITCHER RELEASED

CHICAGO, May 2.—Kenneth Ash, young right hand pitcher, was released by the Chicago Americans under option today to the Little Rock club of the Southern association. Ash was obtained this spring from the Virginia league. Manager Collins saw much prospects in the young hurler that he wanted him back next year and therefore kept a string on him.

Faber Beats Beauty Dave In Heated Mound Duel

CHICAGO, May 2.—The Chicago White Sox celebrated Manager Collins' 38th birthday today by defeating St. Louis, 4 to 1, in a great pitching duel between Faber and Danforth, Sisler, who went hitless until the ninth inning, smashed out a single to center, running his string of consecutive games in which he has hit safely to 17. Up to the eighth inning only one scratch hit had been made off Faber. In the eighth he weakened and with the aid of an error by Falk the visitors saved themselves from a shutout. Danforth's wildness in the fifth and seventh innings helped the locals put across their runs. A catch by Falk of a line drive near the top of the screen which he speared with his hand was a feature. YANKEES LOSE AGAIN

BOSTON, May 2.—The Red Sox got a ninth inning decision over the faltering New York Yankees today, winning 5 to 4. With the score tied and two out in the home half of the ninth, Shawkey walked Vache, who stole second and scored a winning run when Ward missed Todt's grounder. MACS BEAT SENATORS

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The rejuvenated Athletics pushed Washington out of the league leadership today with a 6 to 2 victory, Cleveland jumping to the head of the pack by her defeat of Detroit. The champions were baffled by Harris, while neither Coveleskie nor Marberry could stop the visitors in the last two of the frames. The score:

What's Wrong With 'Em?

Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, may be asking himself that question as he studies his team at play. Apparently fortified in the infield and strengthened in the pitching staff the Tigers loomed as a formidable outfit a few weeks ago. But so far they have been kittens instead of Tigers.

Spudders Still Fighting Hard, Skipper Wires

Rip Wheeler Be Ready to Take Turn This Week

CARL PITCHES TODAY

Golvin's Ankle Is Better—Keefe Hasn't Joined Club Yet

By BLONDY CROSS.

Pitcher Dave Keefe, player obtained from Portland of the Pacific Coast league, hasn't arrived yet, but we're expecting him soon, wired kipper Tanner from Dallas last night.

Carl Williams, the hurler who has won four straight games for the Spudders already this season, is slated for the pitching role against the Steers this afternoon, said Manager Bud.

The gang's all in pretty good shape with exception of a sore arm epidemic among the pitchers, and they're still in there fighting, Skipper Tanner told The Record News.

Walter Golvin's sprained ankle is coming along nicely, and he'll be back in the lineup soon, opined the Skipper. Golvin, you remember, wrenched a tendon in the game here with Fort Worth last Friday.

And possibly the choicest piece of news for the Wichita Falls sporting public was given out when Tanner declared belief that Ripper Wheeler would be ready to take his turn on the hillock when the Spudders return to the home lot this week. They're coming back Tuesday, opening with Beaumont.

Ripper, because of a sore arm, has not started in the Texas league race to date this season. He participated in one exhibition tilt during the spring training grind.

Coyote Pups Step on Burk Team, 9 to 1

Montgomery's classy little Wichita Falls Junior high school nine ran over Burkburnett high Saturday, 9 to 1. Now the Coyote Pups are out for more blood. Players and coach say the Iowa Park team believes them afraid of it, but the Juniors declare they are ready to take on the Park lads almost any time now.

Jimmy Parker, pitching his second game in as many days, found the going easy against the Burkburnett boys, holding them down to three safeties and striking out nine. Burk scored in the first inning on an error.

The Pups tabulated one in the third when Lyle walked, advanced on an error and was scored by Horton's singe.

Wichita Falls made two more in the fifth on a double by Delaney, a sacrifice by Nichols, a walk, and a single by Goff.

They cut loose ni the sixth for a quartet of markers. Parker singled, and Delaney knocked out a home Mundy doubled. S. Herndon singled, run.

The final Coyote Pup scores came in the seventh and last inning. The contest only went seven couplets. Horton got on on an error. Parker singled, and Mundy came through with a triple, scoring both of them.

Hooper Wins Meet For Mustangs Over Baylor Track Team

DALLAS, May 2.—Winston Hooper, S. M. U. middle distance runner, won the dual track meet between Southern Methodist university and Baylor university for his school here today by nosing out a competitor in the relay race, which decided the meet. The score was S. M. U. 67 1-2; Baylor 59 1-2.

Baylor was two points ahead at the start of the relay. Hooper running the third lap, started 20 yards behind but overcome the lead giving Vaughn a four-yard advantage enabling him to win the race. The relay counts 10 points.

Hooper earlier in the afternoon had won the mile and the mile and a half races, making him high point man.

Taylor for Baylor shattered the conference record in the discus with a throw of 144 feet 9 1-2 inches.

The meet was evenly contested. Baylor's most severe setback came in the high jump, which she expected to win. Parks and Barnett took first and second for S. M. U. in this event.

Sunday School Loop Hitting Averages

Bill Andree, pitcher for Grace Methodist, leads the Sunday league in hitting with an average of .833. The league has been playing two weeks and Bill has been at bat six times, crashing the agate to safe territory on five occasions. McMahon of First Methodists, Coolidge of Grace Methodists, and Davis of First Baptists each have poled the pill for a .667 average.

But five games have been played to date, and one of these resulted in a 6-6 tie between First Methodists and First Baptists.

First Methodists ride atop the league with a thousand per cent, two games won and none lost.

	Played	Won	Lost	Pct.
First Methodists	2	2	0	1.000
Grace Methodists	2	1	1	.500
Floral Heights Methodists	2	1	1	.500
First Christians	1	0	1	.000
First Presbyterians	1	0	1	.000
First Baptists	0	0	0	.000

Games scheduled for this week are: Monday—Floral Heights Methodists versus First Methodists; Wednesday—First Presbuterians versus First Methodists; Friday—First Christian versus Grace Methodists.

First Christians and First Baptists were scheduled to play April 27 but were rained out. These two teams will hook up on some off date this week. First Methodists and the First Baptists are, also, billed for a play-off of their tie game this week. More than likely one of the games will have to be held over until next week for it will be difficult for the First Baptists to take care of two off games along with their scheduled contest of next Wednesday.

Sisler Tears Off On Batting Rampage, Poling Pill For .424 Mark

BROWN STAR WALLOPS IN EVERY GAME

HARTNETT 7 HOMERS

Wheat Tops National Circuit With Bottomly In Second

CHICAGO, May 2.—George Sisler, pilot of the St. Louis Browns, has started on a rampage of batting to fulfill his prediction that 1925 will be his greatest season in the American league.

The St. Louis star, completely recovered from impaired vision that dimmed his batting for two years, has collected one or more hits in every game since the spring season opened, giving him an average of .424. Sammy Hale of the Athletics is leading the hitters with an average of .462, but he has played in only ten games compared to 15 for Sisler, the runner-up.

The record for consecutive hitting in the American league is held by Sisler, who, in 1922, hit safely in 41 games. To date the figures are based on averages, including games of Wednesday.

Jamieson of Cleveland and Marty McManus of St. Louis are tied as run getters with 14 each. Glynn Myatt, Cleveland catcher, has made four home runs for the lead, and Johnny Mostil, fleet foot outfielder of the Chicago White Sox is making a runaway race for the base stealing honors. He is leading with ten, while Eddie Collins, White Sox manager, and last year's leading base stealer has pilfered only three.

Goslin Hits .409.

Other leading batters in ten or more games:

Bishop, Philadelphia .415; Goslin, Washington .409; Judge, Washington .400; Poole, Philadelphia .395; Combs, New York .378; McManus, St. Louis, .378; Myatt, Cleveland .380; Sheely, Chicago .368.

Veteran sluggers of the National league have deposed the newcomer who graced the spotlight during the first week of the season.

Zack Wheat, star outfielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, by cracking out 16 hits in six games, boosted his average of .333 to .462 and today is setting at the head of the procession. Jimmy Bottomley of the Cardinals threatening the Dodger veteran with .442. Rogers Hornsby, of the Cardinals, champion 1924 batter is gradually climbing to the top of the list. He is in third place with .432, a gain of 38 points over a week ago.

Gabby Hartnett, peppy catcher of the Chicago Cubs, is holding the honors in three departments. He has scored 15 times, is leading in total base hitting with 44 and is the class of the league in hitting homers, having smashed out seven.

There has not been much activity shown in base stealing since the start of the season, or else the wings of the catchers are in great shape for this early in the race. To date Clitt Heathcote of the Cubs has stolen four bases, for the lead.

Russell Leads AT.

Reb Russell, star fly chaser with the Columbus club, is traveling at a sizzling pace in the American association. The "Aebel" has perched himself at the top of the hitters with an average of .468, has crossed the plate 17 times, and has connected with four home runs, the high mark. In addition Russell is leading in total bases with 42.

Pick of Kansas City, who headed the procession the first week, is the runner up, with .450, while Guyon of Louisville is third with .439.

Other leading batters: Brief, Milwaukee .431; Brooks, Columbus .417; Maguire, Toledo .379; Murphy, Columbus .375; Mellilo, Milwaukee .368; Anderson, Louisville .366; Parenti, Minneapolis .361; Grueger, Indianapolis .361.

Teh race for batting honors in the Southern association is thrilled with D. Anderson of Chattanooga out in front with .459 and Barbare of Memphis trailing eight points in back with .451. Neihoff of Atlanta is third with .426. These averages include games of Tuesday.

There is a triple tie for the home run honors with Gully, Little Rock, Cullop, Atlanta and J. Moore of Memphis each with 4. Lewis of Nashville with eight stolen bases, is showing the way in base running. His speed has given him the edge as a runner getter as he has scored 1 9times.

WILSON DUE TO FIZZLE BUT LACKS GIANT HITTERS.

There were some pessimistic followers of the New York Giants who said that Hack Wilson sensation of the year last season, probably wouldn't hold his 1924 gait this season. They named numbers of sluggers who started out like whirlwinds and then fizzled.

Up to a few days ago Wilson was the sole Giant to find his name among the daily five leading hitters of the National league. In his first 18 trips to the plate he collected eight hits for the neat average of .444 and his daily average is still flirting with that mark.

He was also the first member of McGraw's crew to enter the home run list. He stepped up to the plate in a Sunday game in Brooklyn and knocked the ball over the fence.

Snyder Cracks Brace of Doubles and Two Singles

NEW YORK, May 2.—(Nat.)—New York hit Vance and Grimes hard today and defeated Brooklyn, 7 to 5, in the only games of the series which the weather permitted the teams to play. Nehf was driven from the box in the eighth but Scott checked the rally. Snyder, the Giant's catcher, got two doubles and a pair of singles in four times at bat. Score:

GIANTS AND DODGERS GIVE GATE TO THREE

NEW YORK, May 2.—Releases of three players were announced as the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers started their game at the Polo Grounds today. New York sent Tim McNamara, a pitcher obtained from the Braves recently in exchange for Bill (Rosy) Ryan, to Reading of the International league.

Howard Baldwin, another Giant pitcher, goes to Toledo to the American association. Brooklyn gave Johnny Lehman, young infielder, his outright release.

PAAVO RUNS AGAIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Paavo Nurmi, the modern mercury, ran a mile and a half in six minutes, 56 7-10 seconds at the Pacific association meet here this afternoon. The Finn made the distance in 6:39 2-5 at New York March 4. The track here, just completed, was rather slow.

Batting Averages Of Twilight League

Ronie Glidewell, 'American Refiners' pitcher, is the real Twilight league batting leader at present although six batters boast higher percentages. As the league prepares to swing into its third week of play, Glidewell carries a .625 aveage. He was at bat eight times, and hit safely on five occasions. Medford, manager of Glidewell's club, is second with a .455 mark. He has been to the plate 11 times technically speaking, and has poled out five safeties.

Five league contests have been played to date. One was rained out. Texhomas and Ludlam & Riggs being the hard-luck nines. This game will be played off this week.

Small Deputy In French Chamber a Match for Giants

PARIS, May 2.—Dave Salal, who has promoted most of the big boxing matches in France in most years and who is known as the Tex Rickard, was a guest of a number of friends in the press gallery of the chamber of deputies the other day.

The deputies were voting on the electio nof former Premier Herriot to the presidency of the chamber when Deputy Balanant, a small slender man belonging to the conservatice group, ascended the speakers' rostrum for the purpose of supervising the count of votes, being suspicious of repeating on the part of the socialists.

A number of burly socialists, including two former miners, made a rush to dislodge Balanant and a mix-up ensued in the course of which the frail Balanant laid out one of the socialist heavyweights and brought blood from the nose of another. Salal, looking on with the air of a connoisseur, was greatly impressed by the pugilistic prowess of M. Balanant.

"I have paid real money for so-called fighters who couldn't handle themselves like that little deputy," he said. "He can get a good contract for the next show at the Cirque de Paris."

Walker Wins His Last High School Tilt in Great Style

VERNON, May 2. — In the last game of his high school career, Ransom Walker pitched the Vernon high school to a 11-1 victory over the Wichita Falls Coyotes here this afternoon, making it two victories for Vernon out of three games with the Coyotes this season. The Coyotes hit the big right-hander only three times in the nine innings, and made their score on a two-bagger by Harvey after Leslie had been hit by a pitched ball.

The Coyotes threatened at only one other time during the game, in the third inning, with on man out. McMahon got a walk. Andree sacrificed. Walker wavered then, walked Leslie and hit Francis. But with three men on bases and two men out, he gained control again and struck out Harvey.

The Lions hit Andree easily, garnering an even dozen hits in eight innings. However, the greater part of the Lions' scoring came as a direct result of errors on the part of the Coyotes. Four scores were made in the third inning with only one hit. Russell Key, first man up, got a walk. Robinson followed safely to first when Miller failed to handle his liner. Scott sacrificed, and Bowman was hit. Then Andree walked Walker, sending Key home. Roy Key struck out. Williams followed him to the bat and pounded out a three-bagger with all bases full. Andrsee set the next one down. This ended the Lion's scoring until the sixth when they counted five runs off as many hits. The score:

DERBY WORK HALTED.

LOUISVILLE, April 29.—The daily constitutionals of entucky derby eligibles quartered here were curtailed today by weather and track conditions, few of the candidates being given fast trials through the slop and the mud.

Borderland and Needlegun, two colts from the stable of William Zeigler Jr., were breezed the derby route of a mile and a quarter in 2:17 1-5. This probably was the most pretentious work of the day.

Stanford Star Is Winner With New World's Discus Mark

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—(AP)—Glenn Hartranft of Stanford university bettered the world's record in the discus throw heaving it 157 feet, 1 5-8 inches at the Pacific association meet of the A. A. A. U. in the municipal stadium here today.

The official record is 156 feet 1 3-8 inches, made by James Duncan in 1912. Clarence Houser, University of Southern California, recently tossed the platter 156 feet 3 1-4 inches, though the national A. A. U. has not had time to pass on that record.

Abe Mitchell, a visitor to the U. S. last winter, turned in a 67 score for both eighteens.

OLD KING KELLEY CRAFTY OLD SOUL

The renown of Babe Ruth has stifled the talk of many a diamond star's greatness, but there are a few names that not even Ruth can consign to the limbo of the forgotten. One of them is Michael ("King") Kelly. Old time Chicago and Boston fans will still tell you that Kelly was the greatest of them all—even unto the lordly Babe Ruth.

There are as many stories told of "King" Kelly as of Ford's over-jibed flivvers. Babe Ruth is colorful, but not of the same rich hue which surrounded the character of "King" Kelly—idol of the ancient fans of the great national pastime.

Kelly, for the benefit of the uninitiated, was the first of baseball's high priced stars. The initial deal which smacked of high financiering and dazzled the diamond world concerned the diamond services of Mike "King" Kelly. Boston bought him from Cap Anson's old White Sox for the then unheard of sum of $10,000. That was in 1887 when $10,000 was considered something of a princely amount to possess.

And Kelly was worth it. As his record proclaims. There was no position on the field that the King could not handle efficiently. He could step behind the bat, fill in in the outfield, or hold down any job in the infield. Although not speedy afoot he was an excellent base runner because of the chances he took and the rapid functioning of his brain.

* * *

COLORFUL MUTT.

Kelly, as a matter of fact, is rated one of the quickest thinkers the diamond has ever produced. In 1887, for instance, he pilfered no less than 87 bases, largely through daring and trickiness.

Kelly was more colorful even than Ruth, although not such an adept at slamming the leather over the fence. He literally got away with "murder" and the fans idolized him for his brazen front. Kelly achieved his greatest fame with the Chicago and Boston clubs as the receiver for the curves of the mighty John Clarkson. The coming of Clarkson to Boston was the result of Kelly's advice to the owners of the Beantown club.

Kelly, although a care-free, rollstering type who liked his "tipple," had a tincture of business acumen in his make-up. He actually persuaded the Boston owners to unload another $10,000 to pry the famous pitcher from the Sox. Kelly and Clarkson promptly became celebrated as the "Twenty-Thousand and Dollar Battery" and magnificent were the profits of the magnates through following Kelly's counsel.

* * *

HE'D PUSH RUTH.

Were Kelly alive and in the game today he would make Babe Ruth step plenty to hog the limelight. The King could always be depended upon to furnish the most extraordinary thrills. He was ever "pulling" something, and some of the stuff he "got away" with would have paralyzed a Rube Waddell or a Bugs Raymond. The old single umpire system was made to order for the amazing pranks of Mike.

For instance, Kelly thought nothing of "stealing" third without bothering to notice second base. How did he do it? Simple enough, son. While his umps watched another play elsewhere on the field, Kelly would nimbly dart from first, cutting boldly across the infield and sliding into third.

And despite protests and howls from the opposition, Kelly would stare the ump clear out of countenance when asked if he had violated the rules. The king seldom failed to "get away" with this magnificent piece of audacity. Of course many of the fans, particularly the home rooters, scored him roundly for the business. On the other hand his own supporters lauded him to the skies for his cunning.

HE FOOLED 'EM ALL.

Secretly everybody loved him because of his showmanship, his passion for producing the unusual, the unexpected. He was the talk of the nation, sharing the hearts of the sport public with John L. Sullivan, a character which he resembled in many ways.

An old-timer discoursing on the old time idol of balldom remarks of him:

"Kelly could think quicker and act quicker than any of the players of the present day. I remember one game in particular that Kelly won by quickness of thought. He was with Chicago at the time and the game was in Boston.

"The game was tied in the ninth, and had been carried along into twilight. Darkness had almost enveloped the field. Frantic appeals had been made to the umpire to call the game. That is, by all the players except Kelly. The king would scorn to ask such a thing in a fight game.

"The contest had proceeded to the twelfth inning or thereabouts. Chicago had made one run, putting them in the lead. Three men were on base with two out. The next batter drove a terrific ball into right field. It looked as if it might be going a mile. The three runners made for the plate in high glee, while the crowd let out the applause of triumph.

"Kelly was playing right field, a position he favored when not catching. Appreciating that neither the umpire nor the crowd could see the ball he posed himself as if for a catch. Then when he figured the proper moment had arrived for the ball to land he leaped into the air and with a wild whoop flashed for the dressing rooms.

"The umpire was 'taken in' again by the swift-witted Kelly. He shouted 'out.' Chicago won by a run.

* * *

"The Boston players set up an awful squawk over the decision, while the papers came out the next day with fearful things about Kelly—things that no sheet today would dare to print. But the decision remained unchanged.

"That ball went completely over Kelly's head and it would not surprise me to learn that it hasn't stopped yet.

"Kelly came pretty near losing his popularity in Boston on account of that. But the fan is noted for his fickleness. The next winter Boston paid $10,000 for Kelly and everyone in the Hub was overjoyed at the thought of the master mind, the Ty Cobb of his day, coming to town.

* * *

TY COBB OF HIS DAY.

"That was only one of the countless stratagems that Kelly flashed. You could write a book about the others.

"Kelly was the Ty Cobb of his day in point of playing ability. He flourished for 16 years under the big tent. And his batting average for the long hitch of years was .312. The king wound up with the Giants in 1893 and in his farewell season managed to clout for .371.

"The king was an easy liver and John

AS CHAMP HE WAS ONE OF MOST POWERFUL AS WELL AS FASTEST IN THE RING GAME

His Entire Life Is Unique One, Aavers Edgren, and His Mitt Ability Was Likewise

Jim Jeffries was a champion who never dodged a fight and who didn't go into the moving pictures. That makes him a unique character among the holders. The only movies ever taken of Jim when he was champion were taken in the ring, while he was fighting, and he didn't paint his eyebrows or try to make himself beautiful. He didn't care how the pictures looked. He wasn't interested in posing.

The first time I saw Jim Jeffries he was as fine looking a boy as you'd find in a trip around the world. This was in 1897, at Jim Corbett's training camp at Carson, Nev., before the Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight. Billy Delaney brought Jeffries up to train with Corbett. Jim was six feet two, weighed 220 pounds was as brown as an Indian, had fine regular features unmarked as yet by fighting, long curly black hair and in spite of his bulk walked so lightly and moved so easily and swiftly that he was as elusive a a ghost.

Stripped, Jeffries showed a marvelous development. I thin he was the strongest man I've ever seen—not excepting Georges Hackenschmidt, Sandow, Nourroulah the Turk, or any of the circus strong men.

The first day at Corbett's quarters Corbett tried Jeffries out, privately, in a locked handball court, with only Billy Delaney and one or two others present. The doors were locked for an hour or more, and after the first sounds of scuffling about and thumping blows there was a long silence. Afterward nobody would tell what had occurred in the handball court, but a story was spread that Corbett had knocked Jeffries out.

A few months ago I asked Jeffries what really happened.

"It's a long time ago and I might as well tell you," said Jim. "It had to be hushed up at the time because it would have spoiled the fight, and we were all told to keep our mouths shut. The story that Corbett knocked me out was started to worry Fitz. The fact is, I knocked Corbett out."

His Family Life Unique.

To go back a bit, Jeffries was born in Ohio and his family moved to California when Jim was about five years old. The splendid country home Jeff's father built 45 years ago still stands at Cypress and Dayton avenues, Los Angeles. It was far out in the country then, but is now in the heart of the city. The Jeffries ranch covered 160 acres, now in a built up residence district. His father owned a 10-acre plot at Seventh and Broadway and thought he was getting a huge price when he sold it for $10,000. Today it is worth more than ten million. The Jeffries family has always been wealthy, owing to large land purchases in early days.

Jim was the biggest of a large family of big, husky boys. Jack and John were a little lighter, although both six footers. John was the business man of the family and still manages the big Jeffries estate. Jack did some boxing, but retired to become manager of a mine in Mexico, and is well known among mining men today. An older brother is mining in Alaska.

All the boys worked on the Jeffries ranch, where Jim developed his tremendous strength. At 18 Jim was the strongest man in Southern California, already famous for feats of strength. He was an iron worker, putting up tanks for oil wells. On one occasion a huge twelve inch square timber slipped and was falling on a man below when Jim leaped to catch it on his shoulders. He stopped the timber and held it until a dozen men rushed to relieve him, and it took the whole crowd to lift it. Jim suffered nothing but a strained back. Another time a fifty pound block and tackle fell on him, the block striking him on the neck and tearing away some ligaments. The blow didn't even knock him down. In noon hour rests Jim boxed with some of the other men and soon was recognized as the best man in the iron works. One night he was pushed up by the other men to fight Hank Griffin, a clever big negro pugilist who traveled around offering to meet all comers. Griffin pasted Jim for several rounds before the boy could hit him. Then one punch knocked Griffin out. That started Jeffries as a fighter. Billy Delaney heard of him and took him up to spar with Corbett. Jim learned a lot about boxing in that four weeks with Corbett, and won a lot of fights in the year following. Just two years and three months after seeing Fitzsimmons knock Corbett out Jeffries fought and knocked out Bo Fitzsimmons at Coney Island, becoming heavyweight champion of the world.

Jeffries Real Champion.

As champion Jeffries beat Tom Sharkey in 25 rounds, and knocked out Corbett twice, knocked out Fitzsimmons again, knocked out Gus Ruhlin, Joe Kennedy, and Jack Munroe, and ran out of opponents. He was then the greatest heavyweight the world had ever seen—a first class boxer with incomparable strength and great speed for a man of his bulk. He could run 100 yards well under 11 seconds.

Jeffries had a gruff manner and disliked being in crowds. His greatest pleasure was in taking long hunting trips in Mexico and the California mountains. His hobby was growing rare roses and rare flowers on his home estate. In spite of his forbidding appearance and gruff manner he was gentle and kindly. If Jeffries had possessed Dempseys ferocity in the ring he would have won his fights in a round or two, but he was always afraid of injuring his opponents, knowing his own great strength, and preferred to win on points and deliver a knockout only when he had to. The only time he ever went into a ring with any personal animosity toward his opponent was when he fought Munroe. He knocked Munroe out in two rounds.

When there were no more fight offers, because no other fighter was supposed to have a chance against him, Jeffries retired. He opened a cafe, lived a soft life and grew fat. He weighed 315 pounds, six years later, when public clamor forced him out again to fight Johnson. He trained off 90 pounds in ten months, but was only a shell of the old Jeffries. He lost in 15 rounds.

Today Jeffries is living on his ranch near Burbank, Calif. He works hard, carries no fat at all on his huge frame, and looks better than he did 15 years ago. He was 56 years of age April 15th. His Burbank home is in the middle of a flower garden. Roses are still his hobby.

Senators Will Hoist Championship Flag

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The first world's championship pennant ever won by a Washington major league baseball team, evidence of the Senators' victory over the New York Giants last October, will be hoisted at Griffith stadium tomorrow prior to the first home game with the Philadelphia Athletics.

President Coolidge is planning to witness the flag raising ceremonies which will be performed by the players themselves.

BALL IS "HORSEHIDE"

But Bats However Are Not Made of Willow Any More.

Sports writers daily refer to a base ball as the "horsehide," and this is right, commented Fred Mosebach in the San Antonio Express. When they speak of a bat as "the willow," that's wrong, for bats are no longer made of willow, but of ash, although back in the '80s the willow bat was extensively used. The willow bat is a back number the same as the pitcher's box, which is still erroneously used by modern experts in referring to the pitcher's slab.

A steer has good ground for injunction against calling a football the "pigskin," it has no pig about it, but is made from cowhide, as are basket balls.

When you see a horse go down the street you might say, "there goes 100 baseballs," as the skin of a horse, when properly cured and tanned, may be cut into that many baseball covers.

At the rate of 20 baseballs a game that are used at Bear field a horse is used up every five games, and the balls costing $15 a dozen or $1.23 apiece, wholesale, means $25 a game for baseballs alone at Bear field. Ten games at home for the Bears means $250 for baseballs alone, or the price of a pretty good horse.

BAN STILL "HELPS" GAME.

League Prexy Always Says "For Good of the Game."

With Ban Johnson it always was: "For the good of the game," writes Sid C. Keener in the St. Louis Times. He was the one who chased the beer peddlers out of the American league parks long before anybody ever thought of such a thing as the 18th amendment. He came in as the arbitrater in many squabbles and it always was: "For the good of the game." And now Ban Johnson has ironed out a wrinkle that promised to disturb baseball in St. Louis—at one of Ban's pet precincts.

A conference between Johnson and Bill Jacobson brought big Bill back into line with the Browns. Jacobson visited Johnson's office in Chicago and signed a contract.

This probably was the first time the American league executive invaded a magnate's own backyard to settle a feud. But somebody had to make a break.

They were locked—Owner Ball and Jacobson. But Ban, who throughout his career has followed the pulse of the fans, came to the rescue.

GROVES MUST SHOW 'EM.

Ex-Oriole Is Called $100,000 Lemon By Scribes.

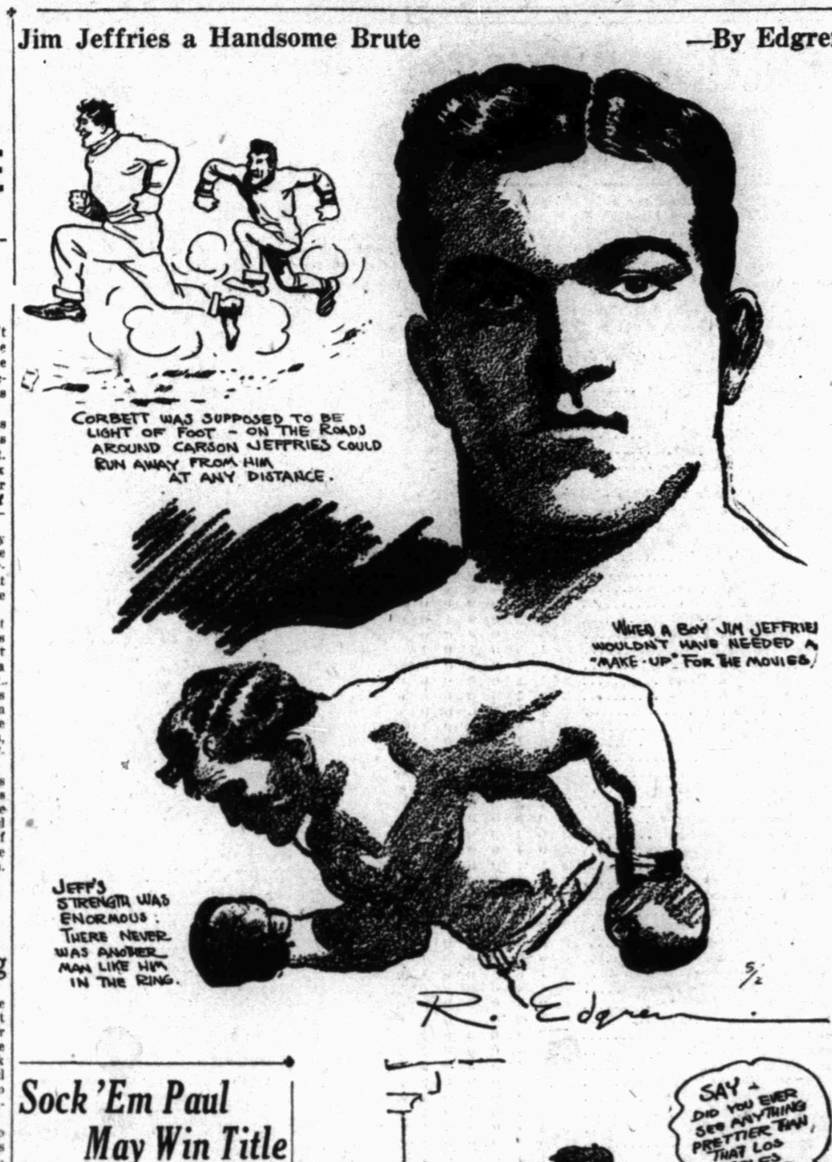

The time has come for Lefty Groves to show the material of which he is made, comments Roger Pippen in the Baltimore News. Jeers and not cheers are lurking for him around the American league trail. Already the former Oriole is being dubbed the "$100,000 lemon." Writers are saying Connie Mack has been stung again. Other ball players in the league are saying the strikeout king of theInts is a false alarm.

A few years ago Rube Marquard, bought at a fancy price, went through the same experience. He survived the test and came through a great pitcher.

Jack Dunn, who sold Lefty to Mack tagged O. K. hasn't lost faith in the southpaw from the hills of Western Maryland. He says, the hot weather will bring Groves around.

Barleycorn at last struck him out for keeps. He died before his fiftieth year. But his name still lives. Michael (King) Kelly is one of the diamond's immortals.

Jim Jeffries a Handsome Brute —By Edgren

Sock 'Em Paul May Win Title

The Berlenbach-McTigue battle May 29 is for the light heavyweight title. Rickard thinks Berlenbach likely to defeat McTigue. If he does he'll be an extremely popular champion, as he has been a real fighting man in all of his bouts since starting in the amateur class and moving up among the star professionals.

Winners of championships usually lay back for a year or more and take on a long list of "set-ups" to fatten the old bank account. Berlenbach may prove an exception to the rule. It is expected that in case of a victory over McTigue Berlenbach will play around with Stribling, Tunney, Delaney and the other classy boys, in which case New York is going to see some exciting ring work before winter comes again.

PADDOCK ALWAYS FIT

Famous Sprinter Careful of His Health at All Times.

Charlie Paddock and his side kick, Murchison have been breaking records at odd distances in Japan on the first leg of their world tour. Paddock always keeps in conditon. He is a big, heavily built fellow for a runner, but he retains his speed year after year. Paddock never smokes or drinks liquor. He eats very little meat or white bread, living almost entirely on fruit and vegetables. He usually eats two meals a day.

When he plays a game of golf or is going out for a couple of hours of training he is careful not to eat for at least two hours before beginning work, even when he isn't getting ready for any athletic competition. That's why Paddock can take on an important race with only a short period of training. He's always fit.

There are numerous arguments why a left handed batter has the advantage over a right handed batter. He is two steps nearer first and being left handed he has a natural advantage over the majority of pitchers, for the majority pitch right handed. These are the main points in the argument favoring the left side of the plate.

Hornsby, leading the majors, instead of Cobb, would have caused the youngsters to favor the right handed style. They did while Larry Lajoie and Honus Wagner were ruling the field.

But when Lajoie and Wagner slipped from the main line, Cobb took the lead and maintained batting rulership by doing his work from the left side. That was argument enough of the value of this style.

OLD PITCHER OF DODGERS WAS EBBETS BEST FIND.

One of the men hard hit by the recent death of Owner Charlie Ebbets of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was Nap Rucker, famous old lefthanded pitcher. Ebbets idolized old Nap and when that player's pitching days were ended Ebbets took the departure of Nap from the playing field as a personal sorrow. Rucker was made scout for the team and has continued in that role ever since. Rucker appreciated Ebbets' interest in him.

What Has Become Of Ring Tourney?

What happened to that "greatest show on earth" Tex Rickard was staging in umpsteen acts to decide who should become the lightweight champion of the world in event of Benny's departure for good and all.

The early rounds displayed some interesting, but not highly convincing battles. For instance, Charley O'Connell, considered a second-rater in Cleveland, got by in his first effort. Then the whole thing went blooey. New York scribes stopped talking about the tourney to pan Jack Dempsey some more.

Many weeks have gone by and the finals of the tourney aren't even being discussed.

Can it be that the "leading contenders" proved to be so punk that Rickard didn't have the heart to go through with it? Did the withdrawal of Sammy Mandel and two or three other real contenders from the tourney bring the whole thing down around Tex's ears? Or did the public intimate clearly by its absence its lack of interest in the whole program

No one knows just what happened to the durned thing but the tourney seems to have suffered an untimely end.

YOUNG BOB ON WAY UP.

Son of Famous Fitz Seems to Have Hit His Stride.

Bobby Fitzsimmons, son of one of the greatest fighters in history, seems at last to have struck his stride. Bobby has won four fights in a row with knockouts, his latest victim being Jack Hibbard, the Canadian heavyweight. Young Bob has plenty of boxing skill and plenty of speed and punch, but hitherto he has lacked old Bob's reckless spirit.

He has preferred dubbing along for a close decision to going in for a quick win. Old Bob always thought Young Bob would be a first class fighter, but always said he hoped the boy would develop late instead of starting out with a rush and getting up among the champions in a couple of years. Old Bob started late himself. That's why he was still fighting at 51 years of age.

SWEET, SWEET CHARITY

Talking about fighters and benefits—the Italian Hospital show is to pay Harry Wills sixty thousand, Weinert twenty-five, Greb fifty and Walker thirty. If there is anything left after the other expenses are taken out the hospital will get it. Fighting for "sweet charity" ought to be sweet, with so much "sugar."

Disch Signs Optional Contract With S.M.U.

DALLAS, April 29.—According to reports in local sporting circles, Billy Disch, veteran baseball coach of the University of Texas, has signed a five-year optional contract with Southern Methodist university of Dallas, the terms of which make it effective should he leave the state university. His resignation from the position he has held with the Longhorns for 13 years was announced yesterday at Austin. It is said Disch will receive the largest salary ever paid a baseball coach in the southwest conference if he comes to S. M. U., but the exact salary could not be learned.

TUNNEY-GIBBONS GO IS NATURAL MATCH

The Tunney-Gibbons fight is attracting a lot of attention. It is a natural match. Tunney is American light heavy-weight champion and Tom Gibbons has fought fifteen rounds with Dempsey to a decision.

They are well matched in weight, skill ,hitting power, and experience. Tunney has an advantage of several years in age, and Tommy Gibbons is one of the cleanest fellows that ever followed fighting as a profession, and much younger physically than fighters usually are at his age, which is in the neighborhood of thirty-six years.

BASEBALL STILL POPULAR

Quarter Million People at First Games Prove This

In days gone by we have been wont to talk of the decadence of baseball; of the hard knocks the sport has suffered and of the crowding in of other athletic competition, comments Harry B. Smith in the San Francisco Chronicle. We discourse learnedly upon all this and then awake to find our preconceived notions knocked completely on the head.

A quarter million people saw the eight games in the openings of the two major leages.

Any diagnostician will tell you a sport with such a tremendous following isn't in need of any tonic. It is a healthy sport, and as such, can get along without aid of counsel.

All the more power to baseball, that it can overcome the obstacles frequently found in its path; not alone survive, but grow and grow and grow.

Surely it is well named the national pastime.

Just as certainly it is a game with a conscience to suffer what has been suffered from a few of the crooks of the world and yet rear its head proudly and triumphantly.

Chicago Cubs' Shortstop Jinx Annually Wrecks Pennant Hopes Of the Windy City Nationals

For Past Two Years Killefer's Men Have Had Hands Full Nursing Various Ailments

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Unwittingly one of the famous Wright boys started a lot of trouble for the present day Chicago Cubs when he invented the shortstop position some 50 or 60 years ago.

But for their inability to keep a shortstop sound in wind and limb the Windy City team might have been basking in the limelight of the league championship for the last two years.

Trouble started a couple of years ago when Charley Hollocher, on his way to fame as a shortfielder and all-around star, was troubled with heart burn or specks in front of his eyes after meals or something.

He tried dinner mints, funny charcoal tablets and seventeen other recommendations of friends and hotel lobby physicians. No use. His stomach got worse.

In 1922 Hollocher showed his class as a shortstop by leading the league in fielding. He hit .339 and ranked second in sacrifice hitting with 87 bunts.

Then the Blow Fell.

Then his troubles—and Manager Bill Killefer's commenced. In 1923 he broke into less than half the games—66 to be exact. How valuable a cog in the machine he was while in the game was indicated again by the records which showed him ranking second in fielding and batting .342.

The best man Killefer had to fill his shoes was Earl Adams. This willing youngster was but a fair fielder, however, and hit but .289, more than 50 points below Charley.

Last year Hollocher hesitated about playing. There were conflicting reports as to his reasons. Everything from his health to his desire for a chance of scenery was mentioned as probable reasons.

He finally reported, however, and broke into some 70 games. He retained his fielding ability, ranking second for the year, but his hitting dropped to the ridiculously low average of .244. Adams, who tried again to fill his shoes, hit .279.

Then, at the close of the 1924 campaign Hollocher made it plain he probably would not play this year. Killefer took the bull by the horns and put over a wholesale swap with the Pittsburgh Pirates which brought the spry veteran, Rabbit Maranville, to the Club clubhouse.

"Looks as though I'm set at last," remarked Bill.

Spoke Too Soon.

Everything went lovely, or thereabouts, until Maranville cracked his ankle during a spring workout and the doctors broke the sad news to Killefer that Maranville would be on the bench until June.

Forced to act quickly Killefer decided to give Clarke Pittenger, former Red Sox rookie, a chance. Pittenger failed to make the grade and was sent to the coast. Bill had Bob Barrett, utility man, but Barrett had decided to cast his lot in the outfield and Killefer had agreed that he was better fitted for the outter defense than the inner line.

He had Ralph Michaels, obtained from Little Rock, but Michaels lacked experience. Then came the chance to get Jimmy McAuley, star shortstop of the Los Angeles "Angels" of the Pacific Coast league.

McAuley played 56 games at second and 91 at short for the Angels last season. He led the league in fielding at second and ranked second at short. He hit .276.

That Killefer has improved his batting in the short space of time the lad has been up is apparent in the batting averages. In one game against the Pirates Jimmy slapped out three hits in four times up. The three blows helped sink the Pirate crew.

So temporarily at least Killefer's shortfield problem seems solved. But he goes about his work with his fingers crossed. He'd run two miles on a cinder road to prevent a black cat crossing his path. And the small hours of the night find him listening at the door of McAuley's room to be sure the lad is breathing properly.

Bill's wondering just how long it will be before the five-legged jinx with a penchant for shortstops decided to go foraging again.

Finn Runner And Yank Marathon Champ May Meet

Endurance Would be Big Factor in Longest Race

Because Albin Stenroos, winner of the Olympic marathon last year ,is a Finn he is supposed to train on dried fish for his races.

He came to this country a couple of weeks ago to show the result of this diet to Americans.

That being the case here's hoping that he meets our latest marathon star, who by the same token, must train on nuts, bolts and other spare parts of general machinery.

That new star is Charlie "Chuck" Mellor, the Chicagoan, who won the Boston marathon, blue ribbon long distance event in the United States, the other day. Efforts are now on foot to have the two meet in one of the distance events in which Stenroos has promised to participate while in this country.

Beats "Pi" Man.

Mellor is a mechanic. His training for the events in which he has participated for years, is done in late afternoons, after regular shift at his work. His victory may or may not be an argument against the inclusion of "pi" in training. In winning the Boston event Mellor had to outrun Clarence De Mar, Boston typesetter and four times winner of the run. De Mar finished second.

Frank Zuna, who finished third, is a plumber. Which may or may not prove that marathon running isn't a lead pipe cinch event for plumbers.

Seriously, though, athletic experts are wondering what chance Mellor would have against Stenroos. Mellor's time in the Boston event was 2 hours and 33 minutes and three-fifths of a second. This time was more than two minutes slower than the record for the event. Stenroos' time in the Olympic run was 2:41:22 6-10. Stenroos ran his race under a sun that forced other contenders to drop along the roadside. His endurance, under the burning heat, was unbelievable. Mellor ran under more favorable conditions, generally, although a stiff wind bothered him some. So the difference in time probably does not give a fair indication as to the relative speed of the men. On one thing, however, critics are agreed, that is that Mellor did not face the stiff pace that Stenroos sets from the start. The 40-year-old Finn sets out on his long runs at a gait that the average middle distance runner sets—a pace calculated to burn up the average man's strength and stamina in a couple of miles.

In Superb Form.

That Mellor was in superb form when he ran his race is indicated by the fact that he cut some four minutes off his time last year, when he was forced to take De Mar's dust. The latter finished third in the Olympic games last year in Paris.

Mellor's victory came at the end of his fourth effort in a span of eight years. He entered the event the first time in 1917 and finished fifth in the big field. Four years later he tried again and finished second to Frankie Zuna. Last year he was forced to be content again with second place.

IS BASEBALL POLITE

New York Paper Propounds Serious Question.

Is baseball sufficiently polite? asks Will Wedge in the New York Sun. Could it be improved by teaching the players to be more gracious in their manners? Would the sport lose any of it 100 per cent he-manishnes if there were fewer waspish remarks directed at the umpires?

It's a question with much to be said pro and con. The older generation of fans probably thinks baseball has already become too polite—too tame and gentle. The hurly-burly that used to center around the field judge and the pyrotechnics of pop-bottles, eat cushions and fists are missed by certain patrons. They deem the fights and the wordy bickerings the best part of the show.

But the pacifist element has come to the fore in sport. The new idea is to let the runs and the base hits fight it out on a scientific basis of mathematical sparring. Let the players remember that they are primarily business men, catering to other business men, and that business men want no war unless they have contracts for the munitions. As the magnates control most of the munitions of baseball they have the exclusive war rights, but they never assert these rights until winter, when the turnstile trade is slack.

MICK NEEDS NO MANAGER

Mickey Walker is to get $30,000 for mingling with Harry Greb in the Italian Hospital benefit in New York, after which he will go west and accept another thirty thousand for meeting a local boy in San Francisco. There avidently is no foundation for the hint that Mickey needs a manag

DES MOINES GOOD ON PAPER

But Team Has Temperamental Players and Pitching Must Improve

On paper, and on the field of play, Des Moines carries all the earmarks of a first division ball club, providing the pitching comes through, writes John B. Old, in the Tulsa World. At least that is our impression after having seen them here. With but few exceptions, the squad is composed of veteran players. Ordinarily the fact that there are a number of veterans on a team would not be distressing, but in the case of Des Moines there are distressing possibilities.

Many of the men bear the reputation of being temperamental and even bolshevistic in some instances. Then, too, it is said by Texas League scribes, where many of the Demons are well known, that some are inclined to think lightly of any or all training rules.

Mathes, the scribes agree, is just the type of man who can handle them if anyone can, for Mathes bears the reputation of being able to plead patiently or get rough when the occasion demands.

MUNN MUST BE GOOD

If He Doesn't Mat Trust Won't Let Him Play

Big Munn will probably get a chance to win the wrestling championship again in a few months, if he promises ot be good. Otherwise he'll be on the outside for a long time—now that he's out. The wrestling trust likes wrestlers who follow the programmes.

Munn is big and strong enough to make a great wrestler with a little more experience, and already has a reputation that will help with the gate receipts. It will be hard to overlook him entirely.

JOE BUSH WINS OWN GAMES BY HITTING 'EM.

Joe Bush, traded to the Browns by the Yankees, has found the way to win his ball games. He has reverted to his old system of scoring the winning run himself. The system worked in the first game that Joe Bush won from the Indians this year

MARKETS

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 2.—The cotton market had rather a lame opening and ruled quiet during the first hour of the short Saturday session, but became more active in the second and final hour under pressure of selling and liquidation by recent buyers for over the week-end, induced also by prospects for warmer weather and probably rain the coming week. The market failed to respond at the start to the better cables than due, but gradually improved during the first hour owing to the continued cold weather and absence of rain in the belt.

July traded up to 24.37 and October to 23.61, or 4 to 7 points above the close of yesterday.

After the map had been posted, showing an area of low pressure over Arizona and northern Mexico the market commenced to react and on the publication of the official forecast promising fair but warmer weather for the entire belt, prices eased off more rapidly and trading picked up considerably. This decline carried July down to 24.07 and October to 23.35, or 26 to 30 points below the earlier highs and 22 to 23 points under the previous close. The close was a little above the lows, showing net losses for the day of 19 to 21 points.

Although crop accounts were generally favorable, there were reports from portions of the central and eastern belts complaining of the lack of moisture. Even Texas reported that some important counties in central Texas are still dry. It was these reports of lack of moisture that caused the small early gain. The later selling, although apparently due to the forecast for warmer weather, was mainly brought about by liquidation for over the week-end.

Exports today were 155 bales, the smallest total reported in a long time.

There Is Only ONE Duco
Dupont Duco!

WHY YOU SHOULD LET US PUT DUCO ON YOUR CAR
1. Duco is the longest wearing finish known.
2. Gasoline, oil, mud, tar, turpentine, battery acids, alkaline dust, salt air, etc., cannot harm it.
3. You need not lose the use of your car for more than a few days.
4. You can secure any of the season's most popular shades—in any degree of lustre, either dull, satin or polished.
5. A Duco finish is easier to keep clean.
6. The lustre of Duco actually improves with age if given ordinary care.
7. It will increase the resale value of your car.

Duco has been adopted as standard by twenty-five of the leading car manufacturers because of recognized merits.

Our shop is fully equipped, manned with trained men, experienced in applying genuine Duco finish. All the old finish is removed, the rough, bare metal brought to a smooth, even surface with undercoatings and several coats of Duco applied, sanded, rubbed and polished. There are fourteen separate operations.

The remarkable success of Duco has resulted in the production of a number of finishes for which similar claims are made. Do not accept a finish "like Duco" or of the "Duco type." We can guarantee you genuine du Pont Duco, applied by the du Pont system.

We believe we have the best two-story brick home in the city for $40,000.

And we have a very commodious two-story home in best part of city. This home sold a while back for $35,000 and now we can deliver it for $16,500. Terms if desired.

We have quite a bunch of homes from $10,000 to $15,000.

Have just completed five new bungalows and they are dandies. Can make price and terms to suit.

Just completed an eight-room duplex with two fireplaces at 2017 Collins and can sell it for $5,900 and make terms to suit. We own these new homes; they are clear of encumbrance and hence can make the terms to suit.

Five-room modern home, corner lot on Lucile pavement, $4,000 and we can make it on any old terms as low as $300 cash.

We have a nice five-room modern, east front home and pavement paid for $4,200.

Another dandy five-room—and they are large rooms—$3,500.

Drive by 2202 Ninth and see if it is worth $5,500 on good terms. The paving on this place cost $927.50 but it is paid.

We have acreage inside the city limits and under irrigation from $275 to $350 per acre. We are exclusive agents.

LEGAL NOTICE

SHERIFF'S SALE

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued by the clerk of the county court at law of Wichita county, on the 30th day of April, 1925, in a certain cause wherein Joseph T. Ryerson and Son, a corporation, is plaintiff, and H. D. Andrus is defendant, in which cause a judgment was rendered on the 7th day of April 1925, in favor of the said plaintiff Joseph T. Ryerson and Son, a corporation against H. D. Andrus for the sum of one hundred ninety-four and 26-100 dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per centum per annum from date of judgment, together with all costs of suit, I have levied upon, and will, on the 15th day of May, 1925 at Burkburnett, Texas, within legal hours, proceed to sell for cash to the highest bidder, all the right, title and interest of H. D. Andrus, in and to the following described personal property, levied upon as the property of H. D. Andrus, to-wit:

1 new step toe 24 inches, back geared chank shaper, cone drive. Fitted with table support, to be complete with vise countershaft and wrenches; Wt. about 3,800 Lbs. Stock No. 1077-C Serial No. 1074.

1 second hand Atkins No. 7 hack saw, capacity 8 inches by 8 inches.

The above sale to be made by me to satisfy the above described judgment for one hundred ninety-four and 26-100 dollars in favor of Joseph T. Ryerson and Son, a corporation together with the costs of said suit, and the proceeds applied to the satisfaction thereof.

STATE OF TEXAS,
County of Wichita, ss.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once a week for twenty (20) days exclusive of the day of publication before the return day hereof in some newspaper of general circulation published in said county, which has been continuously and regularly published in said county for a period of not less than one year, the following notice:

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To all persons interested in the estate of Mrs. A. H. Docker, deceased: Know ye that J. O. Bentley, administrator of the estate of Mrs. A. H. Docker, deceased, having on the 25th day of April, 1925, filed in the county court of Wichita county, Texas, his application to sell the following described land belonging to said estate:

All of lot 34, west 1-2 lot 2 in block No. 233 in the original townsite of Wichita Falls, Texas, situated at 1305 Eleventh street in said city.

Now therefore, these are to notify all persons interested in said estate to be and personally appear at the next regular term of the honorable county court to be holden at the court house in Wichita Falls, Texas, on the first Monday in June, A. D., 1925, same being the first day of said month, and then and there to show cause why such sale should not be made, should they choose to do so.

Given under my hand and seal of office this the 25th day of April, A. D., 1925.

(Seal) ALMA Y. MILLER, Clerk, of the County Court, Wichita County, Texas.
By M. F. YEAGER, Deputy.

I hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original citation now in my hands.

Many More Big Buys May Revolutionize North Texas Oil Business

Year Thus Far Sees Huge Array Of Deals Closed

Five Million Dollar Transactions Are Recorded

OTHERS, MAYBE

Refiners' Position Apt To Be Changed With Little Oil

Five huge purchases of production in Wichita, Wilbarger and Archer counties since the first of the year, coupled with any number of smaller deals that will force the total figure in the combined transactions to somewhere around $12,000,000, are leaving Wichita Falls oil men, producers and refiners, somewhat at sea as to just what the future really holds in store for the "small fellow" in north Texas.

Only a comparatively few large producing properties now remain in the district owned by individual operators and small independent companies. These include Murchison and Fain's interest with Marland in the Harmel pool, Murchison and Fain's Gambrell pool property, Sheerin and McCamey's South Vernon acreage Bridwell and Heydrick's South Vernon production, the Shappel property north of Holliday, and a few others.

Texas Gets Ragle.

The Texas company has the Ragle district, they paid Knight and Hines more than a million and a quarter for it; the Phillips people have the Macon's producing interests in north Archer, the price better than a million dollars; Humble bought the South Vernon property for $1,100,000, Prairie obtained the large Shamrock interests with a check for $2,300,000, and the Texas company bought into the Carey district last week in the Petroleum Producers purchase, a three-fourths interest for $900,000.

Those in the know say that still others of the large properties mentioned above are scheduled for sale in the next few weeks. Scheduled or not, though, they are being checked and a sale at any time of any one of the ones named would not be surprising and would be directly in line with the mammoth program of consolidation that has already been started and put well on its way.

A price approximately $1,000 a barrel has been the basis of sales in the past few weeks, royalty and overriding interests of course deducted. With the market in its present uncertain condition this price is about right to producers, and direct offers are in many cases meeting with acceptance, as betokened by the sales actually made, a large number of which total less than a million and are not mentioned in the deals listed above.

But just what effect these deals will have eventually on the refining industry in this section is still something of a puzzle, but it is significant that a fifteen cent premium is still in vogue for certain local independents and that there is not any too much oil in the district. Archer county is liable to continued decreases with only small gains to be expected from Young, and Wilbarger counties, with Wichita liable to stand still due to new production expected south of Iowa Park to offset declines in the older areas.

Refiners Position.

Of the three major refining companies in the district two have partially protected themselves with their own production—one of these has entered the market time after time during the year for settled stuff in several of the older fields. The others of the three companies has little local production. The smaller companies may find themselves out of it altogether if the tendency of the big companies to keep buying keeps on much longer and finds the response it has in the past few months.

Figuring the district's total production at 90,000 barrels a day from seven counties, three of which hardly count, sales to big companies since the first of the year have aggregated about one-seventh of the total output of the district. Five companies, including one local concern already hold a third of the district's output. The purchases bring the holdings of these five companies, including the Texas company, Magnalia, Humble, Gulf and Texhoma, and in addition the Phillips and Prairie to about 50,000 barrels a day, better than half of the total output of the district.

Cram-Clark Buy Carter Production

W. J. Cram and son and C. W. Clark have purchased the Carter Peroleum company's south Electra lease with two wells making about 35 barrels a day, settled production, for a consideration not made public.

WOODBINE SAND POOLS FALL DOWN.

All of the east central Texas oil pools fell off in daily output the past fiscal week.

Powell did 50,850 barrels a day from 762 wells, a decline of 770 barrels and five new wells. Richland did 5,456 barrels a day from 87 wells, a decline of 670 barrels a day; Currie did 1,420 barrels a day from 72 wells, a decline of 5 barrels. Wortham did 54,990 barrels a day from 316 wells a decline of 2,780 barrels a day, and Mexia did 18,850 barrels a day from 472 wells, a decrease of 70 barrels.

Hoffer ,Waggoner

BURK MAN MARRIES.

Oratimoth Marker Weds Ardmore Girl.

BURKBURNETT, May 2.—Oratimoth Marker and Miss Rosie Daniel of Ardmore, Okla., were married in this city Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Henry O. Moore, pastor of the local Presbyterian church. The young couple will make their home in the Burkburnett community.

Crowding Them Up Close At South Liberty

Lackadaisical Week Has Only Big Sales Against Dull Field

Two big sales and a number of smaller deals that will top the three and a half million mark in dollars and cents involved capped the climax of a dull week in the North Texas fields and a slack week in its refining districts.

The Shamrock Oil company sold its property, minus oil above the ground, a "55" storage tank near Olney and all accounts, to the Prairie Oil and Gas company for $2,300,000, the deal involving several thousand acres and about 2,730 barrels of production daily.

The Texas company purchased the holdings of the Petroleum Producers in the Carey district. Harmel area and South Wichita for a consideration approximating $900,000—virtually all cash, with 1,400 barrels a day output, part of which, however, was shadowed by outside interests which were not included in the sale.

Week in Field Shows Too Much Water Now.

The past week in the field shows no very important development, the situation has turned from not enough water to too much water; drilling sites are in some instances covered with two or three feet of water standing on the derrick floor, roads are impassable, and what tests aren't out of commission on account of the dearth of dryness are out for fuel. One day this last week but five rigs were reported running on the pasture, in Wilbarger county, the scene of the most wildcatting.

Wichita county's new pools remained in the status quo, the existence firmly established with the discovery well in both instances going on the pump and some small new activity reported in the surrounding areas.

"The Gambrell extension," the Muse-Cranfill et al well on the Lowe land between Swastika and the Gambrell pool is being standardized, and other locations are expected there.

White Brothers completed their offset to the old Harvey Taylor dry hole on the east end of the Carey district and have a well reported at about 25 barrels from sand at 1,146-57 feet. It is the furtherest east well of the Carey pool, but the showing obtained is not sufficiently encouraging to bring about drilling further to the east.

In the Litchfield pool Simms Oil company has a 500 barrel well at 1,012-35 feet in its No. 1-A, Carpenter, TE&LCO survey block 237 and has given that area a westward extension of about 400 feet. Location for No. 2 is to the west.

The week's dusters' include Verschoyle on the Bounds, east of the Carey pool and the railroad, BBB& CRRCO survey, abstract 54, section 11; Marland's Ward No. 2, NW of NE of TE&LCO survey, 1,378; Navarro Oil company's north Archer test, a water well.

An attempt to get the second well in Baylor county's single producing area, southwest of Megargel is seen in Cranfill Brothers, No. 3, Mills, TE &LCO survey, 2413, a derrick 600 feet west of the No. 2, only well in the pool, making about sixteen barrels of oil and some water each day from a sand below 1,300 feet. Three other wells drilled here have all been abandoned after getting good showings.

North of Waite Phillips Wolf well Waite Phillips and Maer and Staniforth are shut down at 1,000 feet waiting for water to recede on their No. 1, Keys. The other new Waite Phillips pool is to get an attempted extension in Roy I. Carter's No. 1, Parkey, in the southwest corner of section 1, SPRRCO survey, abstract 426, about half a mile east of the well. It is west of Humble's water well of last week.

In the Peter Kemp area Leash and Leshman may have uncovered another major pool with their No. 8, Kemp, drilled deeper and reported making about 150 barrels from a new sand at 1,082-87 feet.

Throckmorton Well Is Mostly Water.

The outlying counties showed little of interest during the week. The Panhandle-Larkin-White hole south of Throckmorton developed about twelve barrels of oil and 200 barrels of water on the vump; there was nothing new in Baylor county. Clay county was quiet, while Montague county has a gas showing in Daniels and Rutis No. 1, Salmon, Samuel Little survey, at 872 feet to report as its sole event of interest.

Texhoma's No. 4, Howard, Finis Robertson survey, is drilling at a last reported depth of about 1,600 feet, due to reach the lower and deepest Montague pay thus far discovered within the next week.

Wilbarger County Is Unusually Quiet.

Wilbarger county showed an unusual light week. The heavy rains affected this area even more than Archer county, and there were practically no completions reported. Castlebury Oil company's No. 7, Castlebury, section 84, is a 250 barrel flowing well from the 1,300-foot sand. Atlantic's 3, Zipperle is recokned as a 150 barrel producer or better from the same sand; Gulf is equipping their No. 1, Waggoner, offsetting the Levy well on the pasture to the west for the pump with a hole partially filled with oil from sand below 1,400 feet. Consolidated should have a guage on their wildcat well within a day or so, standardization being about completed there. Only one of the four wells drilling in the Noble area is below 1,000 feet, that being Dyson and others No. 1, Waggoner, in the southeast corner of section 46.

Winnipeg has a good well in the 2,300-foot sand on their ten acres, showing for about 500 barrels, flowing and swabbing.

The only deal reported during the week here is that of Ray and Massie to Gooch and Staley of their thirty acres in the northeast corner of the Bond-Hawkins-Williams fee, with a large overriding royalty for $160,000 cash, with about 600 barrels production on the lease.

Refiners Report Very Slack Week.

Refiners report a very slack week with the bad weather a great deterrent to selling in any quantities. A sunny day or so and a drying up of north Texas dirt roads will help considerably in the expected spring revival in the opinion of most of the plant heads.

Pine Island Gas Well Increasing

SHREVEPORT, May 2.— Fortuna Oil company is drilling deeper in No. 10, Robertshaw, Pine Island district, its third deep test in that locality, after testing five million feet of gas at 3,600 feet, the level where the first gas show was found in Dixie Oil company's No. 43, Robertshaw. The Dixie's B-1 Noel in 24-21-15, which came in with five to eight million feet of gas from 3,638 feet where it stopped drilling in the top of the sand last week, is increasing and today was reported making 15 million feet of gas and 1000 gallons of gasoline from the drip

368,000 Daily From Smackover Is World Record

Pool Contains Forty Square Miles of Proven Territory

200 Running Rigs Make Still Higher Peak Probable

By D. H. BANCROFT.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 2—With a daily gross production of 368,000 barrels in round figures reached during the week ending April 30, and 77,070 barrels added during that period Smackover has taken rank as the largest producing district ever uncovered in the United States, North Central Texas, the Coastal fields, California and Oklahoma and Kansas pools have run larger figures, but their production was from a group of small pools. Smackover, with an area of over 40 square miles of proven territory, is one producing district.

That 75 per cent of this enormous production is heavy oil available under present facilities only for fuel oil with a very small amount being cracked for gasoline, doesn't effect Smackover's rank. It remains the largest single producer of crude oil in the history of the industry so far as domestic production is concerned.

Of this vast flood of oil approximately 33,000 barrels is light oil from the Louann sector, 60,000 heavy oil from the 2,300 foot pay and the remainder 269,000 barrels from the new deep sand; from 2,850 feet to 2,490 feet. There have been some wells at 2,500 feet and a few below but these latter depths are due to higher surface elevation more than to sub-surface conditions.

Peak is Some Distance Away Yet.

Last week there was some talk about the peak having been reached; there was more of the same early during the current period, but with 200 or more rigs running for the deep pay a large number of which are due to finish their holes within the next two weeks it is rather risky, taking a great deal for granted, to say that the peak has been reached even with the huge figures given.

Later developments encourage the impression that storage and shipping facilities will be able to cope with the situation provided no more 15,000 to 50,000 barrel wells are completed. An authority states that there is little or no distress oil in the district, that two o rthree independent buyers are offering 10 cent and 20 cent premiums on a 60 cent posted price basis, and that the salt water situation, while not markedly improved is neither any worse than it was last week. Three crater wells in section 9-16-15 and other completions elsewhere in the deep sand area, completed early in its career have about quit flooding the lower sands by being cemented off.

Standard Gets Large Extension.

One of the most important completions in the Smackover district during the last few weeks was recorded Thursday when Standard Oil company of Louisiana completed No. 2, Powell, in the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 34,15-15. Flowing by heads at frequent intervals, the well was estimated good for 1,500 barrels of pipeline oil from 18 feet of sand, total depth of 2,382 feet.

While a small well by comparison with recent completions in the deep sand in sections 4, 9 and 10-16-15, and elsewhere in the new deep sand territory, it is significant because of its location, the farthest northeast well in the deep sand and from one to two miles northeast of previous deep pay completions

Waskom Gas Line Is Complete And Is Working Now

SHREVEPORT, May 2.—Another outlet for Waskon gas has been completed by the Shreveport Producing and Refining company, which has been using the gas for some time for fuel at its refinery on the west edge of town following completion of a four-inch line from the field. At present the company is buying gas from other producers in the district but will soon be producing its own fuel. Permit for its first well, No. 1, J. H. Bryson in the southwest of the northwest of 17-17-16 Caddo parish, was issued this week and drilling has begun.

Wichita Output Drops More Than 3,000 in 2 Weeks

Archer County Seems At Last to Have Taken Toboggan

North Texas production has decreased more than 3,000 barrels in daily average during the past two weeks a compilation of pipe line run figures shows.

The decrease last week over the week before was 1,070 barrels, and this week over last week it was 2,370 barrels with most of the decrease registered in Archer county which has fallen from its peak of 43,000 barrels a day a month or so ago to 37,000 barrels.

Detailed figures follow:

Pool—	Last week	Week before
Electra	17,325	17,300
Burkburnett	13,625	13,550
Iowa Park	4,020	4,200
Archer county	37,415	39,125
Young county	11,665	12,220
South Vernon	7,560	7,500
Clay county	510	600
Montague county	140	80
Jack county	20	25
Total	92,280	94,650

Decrease—2,370 barrels.

New High Gravity Pool Looms Near Cromwell Sector

A new high gravity oil area in Central Oklahoma looms on the horizon as a result of the wildcat efforts of Charles J. Wrightsman and James H. Gardner.

Their No. 1 B. O. Lack, 31-10-7, Seminole county, situated six miles due west of the Cromwell field, topped a sand that may correlate with the Cromwell pay at 3,743 feet, and barely in it, the well showed for 30 barrels natural and was accompanied by nearly two million feet of gas.

The find was made in an eight inch hole and inasmuch as the operators have 700 feet of open hole, the hole is now being reduced to set the 6 5-8 inch casing to the sand and the well drilled in. This will require several days' attention, and in the meanwhile the Mid-Continent is greatly excited over the find.

The Wrightsman-Gardner find makes a world of acreage thereabouts look good.

NEW WELLS FAIL TO HOLD BURBANK UP.

The Burbank field for the past fiscal week produced 58,094 barrels a day from 1,718 oil wells, a decrease of 2,014 barrels a day and an increase of three new oil wells. The Osage county area did 46,671 barrels a day from 1,523 wells, and the Kay county extension 11,423 barrels a day from 195 wells.

Ranger Booms Once More As Big Well Flows

Pool-Opener There Making Nearly 4,000 Barrels a Day

40 DEGREE OIL

Old Days of Desdamona May be Re-Enacted There

RANGER, Texas, May 2.—Pritchard No. 1 well, about eight miles northwest of Ranger, owned by Barkley and associates, was making 3,701 barrels of oil above 40 Baume gravity today after the tool that had been lost in the well had been recovered and the drill pushed four feet into the pay sand, making a total repth of 3,538 feet.

Veteran oil men say it is the largest oil well ever brought in near Ranger and almost equal the largest well brought in at Desdemona during the early days of oil production in Eastland county.

The exact production of the well was ascertained today after it had been put on the gauge. Owners of the well are now considering whether it may be drilled deeper.

Since this well came in ten days ago with initial production of about 2,000 barrels, the drill being just a few inches in the sand, many oil men have come to Ranger and leasing has been active. Eighteen locations have been made in the area adjacent to the well and several rigs already have been erected. Today feverish excitemen prevails, with talk of new deep tests to be made.

Hotels and rooming houses are filling up rapidly and, except that the streets are paved and Ranger has the appearance of a city, scenes here today are much like during the days of the oil boom.

DEEP TONKAWA OUTPUT SLOWLY FALLING OFF.

The Tonkawa field in Noble and Kay counties is doing 66,923 barrels a day from 760 oil wells, so the weekly review shows. This is a decrease of 6,176 barrels a day compared with the previous week.

The 97 deep sand wells are doing 47,960 barrels a day, and the 663 upper, or shallow pay wells, are doing 18,863 barrels a day.

Lone Wildcat On Balcones System May Carry Threat

FORT WORTH, May 2—The lone wildcat which contains a potetial threat at present is the far famed Balcones Fault area, where a Woodbine sand test at present occupies some attention.

It is the Atlantic Oil Porducing company and Skinner No. 1, Decker, Eaton survey, 10 miles west of Kaufman, Kaufman county, had the solid Austin chalk at 2,171 feet and was last reported drilling at 2,472 feet, still in that formation.

As the Atlantic Oil Producing company has thoroughly geologized that vicinity and formed a favorable opinion of it from core drilling and logs of Kaufman county dusters, the test must be recognized. However, with Bazette and the Mahank-Buffalo disappointments, the oil industry has been prone to ignore the latest exploration work there.

Only 213 New Wells Were Begun In North Texas During April

Inside Drilling Starts for Big Lake Oil Fields

Wildcatting Gives Way There to Routine Development

SAN ANGELO, May 2.—Line drilling in the Big Lake field, Reagan county, West Texas, 60 miles west of San Angelo, has been started, with the announcement of Frank T. Pickrell, vice-president and general manager, that the Texon Oil and Land company has made 16 new locations, all in section 6, block 9. Eight will be along the north line and eight along the west line.

The announcement was accompanied by an explanation that this is not a line fight. Wells heretofore have been drilled 660 feet from the lines, and the present tests will be 250 feet from the lines. The state law requires that wells be only 150 feet from lines.

Thus begins the routine development of the Big Lake field, which has heretofore been more or less of an adventurous nature with about half the wells drilled defining the field's limits in some way or another. It will, of course, automatically, mean that the Big Lake Oil company will drill a like number of wells to offset the Texon holes.

Big Confracts Make Drilling Necessary.

The move is necessary because of December 1, both Texon and Big Lake will be obligated to deliver 17,500 barrels daily to the Reagan county Purchasing company and the Humble Oil and Refining company, latter to get 7,500 barrels at Gulf Coast in tank cars and the former to get the remainder for pipe line shipments. Each company is now delivering 5,000 barrels daily to the purchasing company, while the tank car movement will be in full sway May 15.

During the week Texon Oil and Land company No. 7, southwest corner of the northwest of section 36, block 9, was completed for —— barrels sand at 2,960 to 2,995 feet. Big Lake Oil company No. 16, center of the southeast of section 1, block 2 is flowing 135 barrels an hour 20 feet in the sand topped at 2,901 feet.

Big Lake No. 23, center of the northeast of the southeast of section 1, block 9, Texon No. 6, center of the northwest of the northwest of section 36, and Texon No. 8, center of the northwest of the southwest of section 36, block 9, should be in within the next day or so. A report of other Big Lake Oil company operations follow: No. 19, drilling at 2,677 feet; No. 20, fishing at 2,500; No. 21, drilling in lime at 2,677; No. 22, skidding rig after losing tools at 2,280 feet; No. 17, fishing for tools at 2,435; No. 24, fishing out sand pump at 2,811; No. 25, pulling 8 1-4-inch at 2,570; No. 26, drilling 535; No. 27, drilling 530; Nos. 28 and 29, rigging up.

Sinclair Builds Pump Station At Nocona.

Sinclair Pipe Line company has started building a pump station in the Nocona oil and gas district in north Montague county and will lay gathering lines to take all the oil produced by the Humphreys Oil corporation there. About four miles of four-inch gathering lines will be necessary to connect with Humphreys' three producing leases. Humphreys, W. W. Jones shallow pumper doing 60 barrels will be switched from the Prairie's line to Sinclair when the latter's pump station is completed. Prairie extended its southern Oklahoma line south to take Nocona oil last summer.

On the gulf coast there were 13 completions, all producers, doing 7,100 barrels combined, in the new South Liberty field. Three of these wells did 1,200 barrels, others ranging from 380 to 800 barrels. It was that field's best week since it was opened January 1. It has produced 633,500 barrels to date, with a daily production of 16,000 barrels. More than 75 wells are drilling there.

A summary of coastal operations for April shows 124 completions, of which 97 were producers and 27 failures. Initial production amounted to 73,181 barrels, and the combined production of all fields during the month was 2,857,590 barrels. South Liberty led in field activity but Hull was first in production. Bulk of the acticity on the coast is concentrated in South Liberty, Hull, Orange, Goose Creek and Sour Lake.

Oklahoma Shows 1,547 Operations

During the past week there were 1,547 operations in the various fields of Oklahoma, according to a compilation of the Oil Weekly. Of this total, 199 were new rigs, 72 were new locations, 960 were drilling wells, 231 were wells shut down and 85 were completions.

The Tulsa-Okmulgee district led all others in reporting number of new rigs but in the total operations, the Cromwell-Wewoka district was the leader. The number of drilling wells in the Cromwell field brought the total up to first place.

Wichita Second While Young Tops Wilbarger For Third

Only 213 new operations were started in the north Texas counties during the month of April according to a compiliation of figures from the notification to drill reports of the Texas railroad commission, oil and gas section, for that month.

The figure is nearly a hundred, 90 to be exact, less than the figure for Morch, and is an increase of one over the February total, that month showing 212 tests. The softening of market conditions and the water shortage which prevailed until recently can be taken as the reason for the April slump in drilling, but at that it is roubtful if any month until summer is past at least will show the more than 300 tests started that March showed.

Archer county as usual leads, with less than 2-3 of its March figure however; Wichita county is second with 53 tests started, Young county with 32, and Wilbarger fourth with 24.

County—	Apr.	Mar.	Feb.	Jan.

Aged Mexican Is Tortured When He Hides His Jewels

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—(AP)—Geaneral Francisco Romero, retired, a veteran of the old federal army and member of one of the wealthiest families in Mexico, withstood torture when robbers last Wednesday night endeavored to force from him the combination of his safe, it is learned. The criminals, eight in number, entered the Romero home two blocks from the city hall, bound and gagged two servants and then confronted the general. When he smiled at their levelled guns and refused to give the combination of the safe they seized him and, igniting paper, applied the flames to his bare feet.

The old fighter still refused to yield. The robbers then brought in his sister to witness the torture and she, fearing they would kill him, gave the desired information. Meanwhile a policeman, noticing the open street door, entered, but was quickly overpowered and gagged.

The robbers then rifled the safe and escaped with the family jewels, estimated to be worth $13,000. The gang is believed to be the one responsible for a daring robbery in the heart of the commercial district last week.

BURK MA NIS ILL.

Druggist Suffers Stroke of Paralysis and Reported Law.

BURKBURNETT, May 2.—L. O. Heiber, one of Bpurkburnett's prominent druggists who suffered a stroke of paralysis Friday afternoon and was taken to Wichita Falls hospital, last night, is reported in a serious condition today. His mother and brother in Waterloo, and a sister in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, have been notified of his condition and the brother is expected in Wichita Falls soon.

Business Will Be Permitted to Run Own Course Now

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The administration intends to let business and the country generally benefit as much as possible during the next six months or so of the congressional recess from the relative freedom from the uncertainties which naturally attend the day to day possibility of legislative and other changes.

Believing the lull in governmental activities should be profitable to the country, President Coolidge has no intention of creating any uncertainties for business by initiating any moves during the summer that might have that effect. He desires that business men should feel secure in going ahead with their commitments for the future without fear of any disturbing changes in law or regulation.

With the public thus able to give undivided attention to the conduct of private business and relieved of the necessity of considering the factor of what may transpire in Washington from day to day Mr. Coolidge believes the country will be able more certainly to continue in its even way of prosperity.

BOMBING EVENTS POSTPONED

Leavenworth Demonstrations Awaits Texans' Arrival.

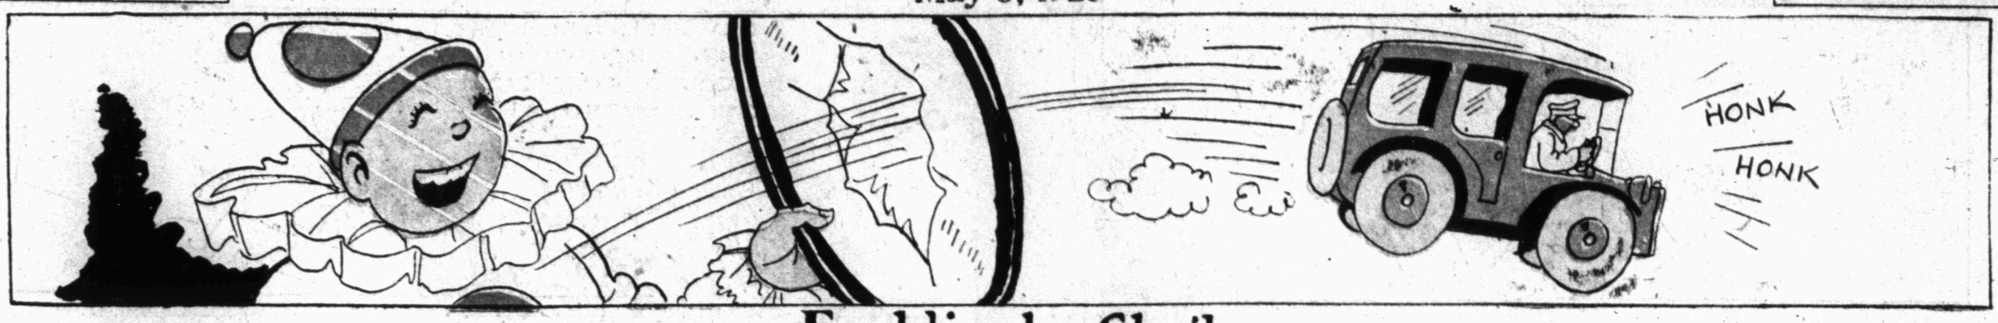

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. May 2.—The army bombing demonstrations scheduled to be held at Fort Leavenworth today were postponed when a squadron of Martin bombers from Kelly Field, San Antonio, failed to arrive. The demonstrations may be held Monday, Brig. Gen. Harry A. Smith, commandant at Fort Leavenworth, said

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

MUST PLAN FOR CITY OF TOMORROW

When the pioneers of the West left the East to lay out new cities they evidently profited by the mistakes made in the East. Western cities as a whole are much better planned than those of the East. And they should be because the builders had an opportunity to profit from the experience of the older municipalities.

There are today hundreds of small towns which think they have no traffic problem and consequently are making no plans for the future. It is a mistake. Most communities have ambitions to grow and every live community, no matter how small, should have a city planing commission.

City and county buildings should be congregated in what is usually described as a civic center. Streets should be wide. Sidewalks should be wide. Plenty of space should be allowed for trees, lawns, shrubbery and flower gardens.

These same towns in laying out new streets should see that they are plenty wide enough. They can't be too wide. Look at the number of communities which are planning highways 120, 200 and even 240 feet wide.

Houses should be set back from the sidewalks with plenty of lawn area if the ground is available.

Every community some day will have its traffic problem. Some small ones have it today because they have allowed state highways to connect with main streets. State highways should go around cities rather than through them. To be sure, there should be good roads leading to the center of the city but traffic should not be concentrated there.

Marmon Co. Announces Two Latest Models For Series 74 Spring Use

Two open models of smart appearance, the five-passenger club phaeton, and seven-passenger club touring have been added to the Marmon Series 74 line and will be Marmon's major offerings for spring, according to D. L. Fritz of Fritz Motor Co., local Marmon dealer. Essentially sport cars, the club phaeton and club touring car present their best appearance when the top is lowered gracefully and covered with a specially made and fitted khaki colored top boot, matching the khaki colored seat covers with which the cars also are equipped.

Insistent Demand.

Nordyke & Marmon company announce that the cars were brought out in response to an insistent demand by motorists and dealers for an open car suitable for warm weather touring, week end trips, quick trips to and from the country, etc. Contributing to the attractiveness of the cars are a number of nickel-plated fittings. The wide windshield wings are supported by nickel-plated brackets; a nickel-plated band extends around the cowl just back of the hood; nickel-plated brackets support the distinctive type cowl lamps. There are two nickel-plated read views on the front fenders and a rear view mirror also is placed on the windshield. In addition, there is a windshield wiper and the regular equipment of the new Marmon series such as a combined cigar lighter and handy lamp on the instrument board within easy reach of the driver's seat; a new type carburetor adjustment on the instrument board; three-way rear lamp including stop, tail and backing lights, etc. The body is mounted on the standard Marmon chassis of 136 inch wheelbase.

Three Option Colors.

Three color options of Duco will be offered with the new models. The cars are equipped with ballon tires.

"Combining as it does all of the newest features of open car design, we believe the Marmon club phaeton and club touring car to be two of the most attractive open sport cars on the market," said Mr. Fritz, in announcing the new models. "We are interested in a careful inspection of them by motorists interested in the new trends of motor car designs for those models are absolutely distinctive among the newer types of open cars. The lend themselvs admirably to speed if speed is desired. They will throttle down to two or three miles an hour; they have the perfect balance and roadability which have come to be associated with all Marmon cars in the minds of motorists. But, above all, they have the appearance of quality, of distinction which, I believe, is the one outstanding feature most desired by motor car buyers today.

"The inherent goodness of the Marmon engine and the Marmon chassis has never been questioned and when to this is added the beauty of body design found in these new open cars the result is a car of more than ordinary attraction."

Closed Car Orders For Hupmobile Co. Show Big Increase

"Seventy-six per cent of the March shipments from the Hupp Motor Car corporation's factory in Detroit, Mich., including those for export, were in closed cars. The first 110 days of 1924 only 50 per cent of the automobiles shipped were of the inclosed type."

Such was the statement of Mr. Wages of the Motor Sales company, local Hupmobile distributors, following the receipt of a report received last week from O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car corporation. He also declared that manufacturing conditions at the factory are now being carried out at the highest rate in its history.

"Since late March night work has been in effect in several departments. Then on April 11 it was found necessary to conduct full-time operations on Saturdays both in the eight and four-cylinder divisions, thus dispensing with the standard half-holiday," Mr. Wages said.

"Hupp's operations in January, February and March were somewhat below those of a corresponding period a year ago on account of the disinclination of distributors and dealers generally to stock cars against the spring demand, as is generally done. However, it is expected that those for April, May and June are expected nearly to double the same months of a year ago."

Big Inventor Buys New Rickenbacker

Mr. Allen A. ("Pop") Bowser, president, Bowser Tank company, and inventor of the first gasoline measuring and dispensing device ever used, has just purchased a Rickenbacker vertical-8 coupe.

Probably no man in America has been closer to the industry — or knows motor cars more intimately than Mr. Bowser.

"I am an enthusiastic convert to the vertical-8 type of motor," says Mr. Bowser. "I have driven all types beginning with the one lunger and progressing with engineering developments through the two, four, six and during the past few years have owned several cars with V-type motors.

"This Rickenbacker is my twenty-seventh car.

"I am one of those who believe that in the vertical-8, engineers have reached the pinnacle of gas engine possibilities and I feel certain this will prove to be the ultimate car for the man who desires the utmost in smoothness and performance and to whom price is a secondary consideration."

New Goodrich Co. Manager Has Had Years of Training

The recently appointed district manager for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company in Los Angeles, Mr. F. L. Hockensmith, comes to a new field after long and varied experience in all lines of the rubber industry.

Under his jurisdiction as head of the organization all the activities of the big rubber company will be covered in a territory embracing Southern California and the entire state of Arizona.

Mr. Hockensmith's connection with the Goodrich company dates back to 1911, when he was in the mechanical rubber goods division.

Following some special sales work in Indiana and Illinois, he was transferred to the sales department of the Kansas City branch, and later recalled to Akron as one of the assistants in the mechanical division, assigned to handle the larger jobbing trade. The next step in his career was an appointment as assistant district manager at Detroit, and shortly thereafter he was promoted to district manager at Dallas, Texas, where he remained four years.

Just prior to his recent appointment as district manager at Los Angeles, he was engaged for some months as special factory representative covering all the company's branches in the middle west.

Chevrolet Puts Out 2,000 Cars Per Day

DETROIT, Mich., May 2.—The Chevrolet Motor company produced last month an April record of 52,299 motor cars and trucks, or more than 2,000 for each working day.

This monthly schedule, planned also for May and June, has been exceeded only twice in the company's history.

At the present rate Chevrolet will produce its two millionth car early this fall. It will be the first three-speed gear-hift type of car to reach that total.

Of the cars being made this month, 43,565 are destined for domestic sale, 5,234 are to be exported, and 3,500 are to be built at the Chevrolet plant in Canada.

The capacity program requires approximately 17,545 workers at the twelve Chevrolet factory and assembly plants throughout the country.

The popularity of the new Chevrolet models has developed a unique situation in which sales and production figures practically are identical. Unfilled orders on hand indicate that production for the next three months, even at the high pace set, will be absorbed at once, it is claime

The World's Greatest Value in the World's Greatest Buy

Every One Says It—Sales Prove It

Hudson is not called "the World's Greatest Buy" for today alone That is acknowledgement of ten years' constant refinement of a great car around the famous patented Super-Six principle. The reasons for that position affect all motor car buying. They cannot be ignored.

A supreme and exclusive motor principle, adding power, smoothness, performance, without added weight, cylinder or cost.

The largest production of six-cylinder closed cars in the world—and the value advantages of that position. Actual proof of greatest value—which is SALES.

And now the greatest price advantage with the finest Hudson ever offered. At today's prices need you own a lesser car? Can a costlier car satisfy you more?

Hudsons are noted for high resale value. They remain sound mechanically for years. Old models are not made obsolete by sweeping chassis or body changes. After ten years no advancement has been found to displace Super-Six leadership on its patented, exclusive principle.

THE ESSEX

You Cannot Get Equal Style, Performance and Reliability Within Hundreds of Dollars of Its Price

Essex is a totally different type. Its advantages are exclusive because patented. It gives results never before attained in any car. Low price without disappointment in looks or reliability—Economy without sacrifice of performance—Stability and highest roadability without unnecessry weight—The riding ease of large, costly cars—The handling ease of a bicycle—Utter simplicity in design—The lowest maintenance cost, we believe, of any car in the world.

It is the finest Essex ever built—It is the smoothest, most reliable Essex ever built—It is the best looking, most comfortably riding Essex ever built—And the price, because of volume, is the lowest at which Essex ever sold. Surely you cannot be satisfied with less than Essex offers when its cost is but little more than cars of the lowest price.

Chrysler Goes 5,000 Miles On Original Water

Unusual Feat is Reported For New Machine In New Zealand

A most extraordinary feat for a motor car, in which a Chrysler demonstrated its camel-like qualities by going around the world on a single supply of water, was recently reported to. J. W. Nikard. Chrysler dealer in South Bend, Indiana.

Last September, a Chrysler roadster was sold to Norman A. Parker of South Bend. After driving it 5,000 miles throughout the United States and Canada, he took it to New Zealand. In a letter just received from Mr. Parker, the following sensational news was revealed. "I brought it out to New Zealand with me and it has excited admiration wherever I have been. The water you put in the raidator is still there, and I have not as far found it necessary to add one drop."

Mr. Parker's experience reveals a quality in the Chrysler that has excited the comment of many other Chrysler owners as well. That quality is the efficient cooling system.

Extra large water passages completely surround each cylider and valve of the Chrysler motor. They give a minimum of one-half inch clear water circulation space between each cylinder. Moreover, the casting of the block is so designed as to insure no possibility of obstruction or constricted water passages.

Consequently, overheating is a negative factor in the Chrysler motor, and a single water supply will go for a long period of time with a minimum of evaporation.

Ever since the Chrysler was introduced a year ago, owners have reported this camel-like feature.

Star Has Windows Disappear in Car

Flexible door windows that may be lowered or raised like Pullman car curtains and that disappear within the top of the body when raised are a striking feature of the new Star coupster.

In reality the coupster is a convertible car, affording all the comforts of closed car transportation, yet convertible into an open car by the simple experient of raising the disappearing windows—a five-second operation. For all practical purposes it is two cars in one.

The Star coupster is additional evidence of a policy dedicated to the production of low-cost quality automotive transportation that at all times meets and frequently anticipates, business and recreational requirements.

At $625 f. o. b. factory, the coupster is the outstanding value in the quality low-priced field.

Stage Driver Hitches A Studebaker To Bus And Hauls It for Four Trips

Rene Brossard runs a bus line from LaPrairie to Montreal, Canada, a distance of ten miles. He uses a 3-ton, 30 passenger bus and has, in addition, a Studebaker Big Six sedan for taxi work.

The other night the big bus broke down. He had, at the time, 38 passengers. He immediately hitched his big six sedan to the bus and toward it to Montreal without delay to his thirty-eight customers.

More: He made four more trips the same night, carrying an average of 27 person on each trip, every one made on time, in spite of having to tow the big bus, the big six ran in high gear all of the trips, though there are several rather steep hills on the route.

All Studebaker cars have this surplus power, always ready for emergencies. Large quantity production enables the firm to include it without stint, even in the lower priced models. The Standard Six, indeed, has the largest rated horsepower per pound of weight, of any motor car in the world.

Local Chevrolet Man Attends Auto School

Mr. B. L. Curry, service manager of the Fox Brown Chevrolet company has attended all this week a factory school that the Chevrolet company has moved temporarily from Flint, Michigan, to Dallas, Texas, in order to give the service managers and mechanics of the Texas district an opportunity to avail themselves of the latest efficiency ideas in Chevrolet repair work. Mr. Curry states that the school advances the most modern ideas in equipment and methods and that the entire force of the Fox Brown Chevrolet company will be given a course in order to provide the Wichita Falls public with a more competent Chevrolet repair department.

Franchise Helps to Create Interest in Newest Models

Unusual interest in the Willys-Overland motor car franchise is being manifested by prominent automobile dealers throughout the country as the result of the announcement of the new models earlier in the year. As a result a number of important dealer connections have been completed in larger retail centers.

New Dealers Obtained.

Earlier in the year new large dealers were closed at Philadelphia, Cleveland, Washington, and a prominent distributor for the Argentine Republic with headquarters at Buenos Aires. More recently new dealers were obtained at Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Los Angeles, Denver and Wilwaukee, in each instance the new additions to the Killys-Overland ranks being business men prominent for years in the automobile circles in their respective communities.

The Moore - Overland company, headed by William F. Moore, for years a well known dealer of motor cars, has taken over the Overland franchise at Milwaukee as a city dealer.

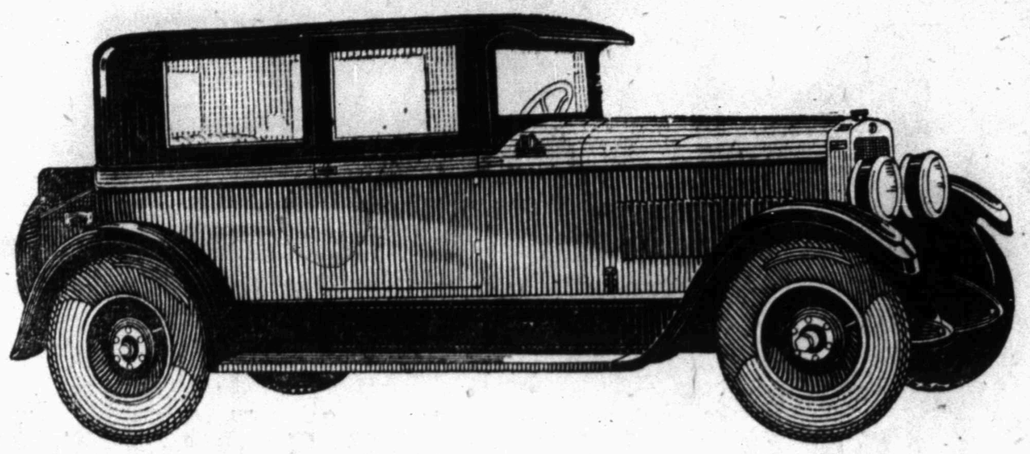

Largest Addition.

At Pittsburgh the latest addition to the ranks of the city dealers in that fertile retail terriory, is the Ren-Seagert company. Both Guy Ren and G. H. Seagert have been associated with Willys-Overland for a number of years.

Lynn C. Buxton, pioneer automobile man in Southern California, has taken over a city retail contract at Los Angeles. Buxton has been identified with the automobile industry since 1910 and is ranged as one of the leading experts on Knight-motored automobiles on the Pacific coast.

At Denver two changes have been made, the Overland-Knight Sales company taking over the Charles N. Smith Motors company contract and personnel, with Norman Brink as president, and E. D. Paige as vice-president and general manager of the new organization. The South Denver Motor company, with Byron S. Griffith as president, is another new connection at this point.

The New Gardner Eight-in-Line

The new Gardner Eight-in-line is a new addition to the Auto row of Wichita Falls, and has met with a cordial reception since its arrival. Birch & Gates, distributor for the new Gardner will feature this model in their exhibit at the Auto Show.

Fritz Says That Reo Is Hardest Car For Thief to Camouflage

If you own a Reo, and some day you come out of your office or home and find that someone else has appropriated it, don't worry too much for the Reo is the easiest car to find in the world, is the statement of C. O. Fritz of Fritz Motor Co. Mr. Fritz says that thieves are rapidly learning that it is more difficult to camaflage a stolen Reo than any other make of car they could select, and the result is that the wise automobile thief gives the Reo a wide berth.

The reason for this is the elaborate cross-filing system kept in the Reo factory, which enables identification of any car, or the part of any car, by serial numbers on various parts.

"With this system," says Mr. Fritz, "it is possible to tell almost immediately from the number of any major part just what car the part originally belonged to."

Average Cost of Autos Shows Decrease As The Industry Goes To Front

NEW YORK, May 2.—Automobiles on the average cost 29 per cent less today than in 1913, while the average cost of living has increased 67 per cent during the same period, figures compiled by the national automobile chamber of commerce reveal. The average retail price of a motor car is now set at $825. The analysis of car prices is part of the annual study of the automobile industry made by the chamber. The year 1924 is covered in the report.

The automobile industry now ranks first among the manufacturers of the United States, the rating being on the basis of wholesale values. The steel industry is second and meat packing third, according to the report.

Export of motor vehicles in 1924 were larger than ever before in the history of the industry. The 386,560 automobiles sold abroad established a record of 17½ per cent larger than the figures for 1923.

The federal taxes paid on motor vehicles from 1917 to 1925 was $799,385,399 or more than twice as much as was expended in federal money toward highways. Motor vehicles paid $461,406,000 in special taxes during 1924.

The total freight receipts of railroads on motor transportation products was $400,982,000.

About 65 per cent of automobiles in the United States are owned in communities having less than 25,000 population while 48 per cent of the cars are owned in communities having less than 5,000 population.

Branch Manager Of Olds Co. Will Come For Big Auto Show

Frank Williams, branch manager Olds Motor Works, Dallas; R. A. Ebner, district sales manager for the Dallas branch; and E. E. Enders, western zone service manager will be here for the automobile show, according to M. T. Birch, of Birch & Gates. They will accompany a special Oldsmobile chassis. R. A. Ebner was formerly manager of the Overland Motors company here.

MOTORS AS TIME-SAVERS

Delco-Light electric power plants, built by a subsidiary of General Motors, have been installed on a quarter of a million farms. Conservatively estimated, based on testimonials, these plants are saving at least an hour a day, or over 91,000,000 work hours yearly — equivalent to the time of 50,000 men working 10 hours a day for 182 days.

CHEVROLET

CHEVROLET

Value means what you get for the price you pay! With the Chevrolet you get chassis design typical of the highest priced cars; an improved dry disc clutch providing astonishing ease of gear shifting; a rear axle construction of the finest type with one-piece pressed steel housing; durable Duco finish in beautiful colors; long semi-elliptic springs providing wonderful roadability and comfort in riding.

This combination of quality, comfort, utility and economy provides the greatest automobile value in the low-price field.

MOTOR

1. Powerful valve-in-head motor.
2. Oil pump for efficient lubrication.
3. Oil level indicator.
4. Fully enclosed valves and rocker arms.
5. Step-cut piston rings.
6. Compensating carburetor.
7. Hot air stove in connection with carburetor intake.
8. Valve adjustment at top of push rods.
9. Fully enclosed dry-plate disc clutch and flywheel.

Prospects For Moon in Canada 'Are Prosperous

Canadian Representative Believes Outlook is Of Very Best

"The prospects for motor car business in Canada this spring and summer are very bright, particularly when the wonderful, far-reaching road building program of the Canadian government now so well under way is taken into consideration," says J. H. DeLong, Canadian representative of the Moon Motor Car company, upon a visit to the Moon plant the past week.

DeJong further said, 'Canada has made unheard of progress in building model roads in the past decade and this activity for better highways has had a stimulating effect upon both owners and prospective owners of motor cars, in fact, all indications point to a record breaking business this spring and summer. Canadian distributors of Moon cars are considering expansion programs for their sales organizations in anticipation of this business."

In the past few months DeJong has appointed a number of progressive automobile distributors for Moon cars in Canada. These distributors are now busy perfecting their dealer organizations. Sales and service for the Moon car are now well established facts in Canada.

A train load of Moon cars is being shipped to Canada this week, representing recent rush orders received from Canadian distributors.

Oldsmobiles Able To Do Anything Other Cars Can Do? Is Claim of Owners

"We can do anything any automobile can do, and we show you how we do it," is the slogan for the fleet of Oldsmobile demonstration chassis that are being operated throughout the country. The demonstrators are working out of the larger cities, being routed so that cirtually all sections of the country will be visited.

The chassis are fitted with two comfortable seats so that anyone can accompany the drivers and closely watch the performance. The absence of bodies and floor boards permits a good view of the power transmission units while in action.

At the rear of each chassis, over the axle, is a box containing a complete assortment of parts, including crankshaft, cam shaft, clutch faces, etc. Theses permit closeup views of the vital parts of the car and assist in the drivers' explanation of the functions of each and every part of the Oldsmobile.

These parts boards enables a novice in this automotive to quickly grasp the function of each part of the engine. This same applies ot the clutch and other power transmission units. In fact the demonstration chassis provide a "first reader" course in automobile engineering, give a fundamental knowledge of "what makes the wheels go around" that is valuable to all motor car owners or prospective owners.

Besides giving this instruction to those not fully informed and unfamiliar with automotive mechanics, the demonstrators also are showing the capabilities of the Oldsmobile in every possible way. This includes hill climbing, idling, making runs in high gear and other tests calculated to prove the power and stamina of an automobile.

Flat Tread Tire Is Said to Be Better

Why a flat tread tire? "This question comes up every day when discussing with customers their tire requirements," says Walter Kent of Kent Bros. & Co.

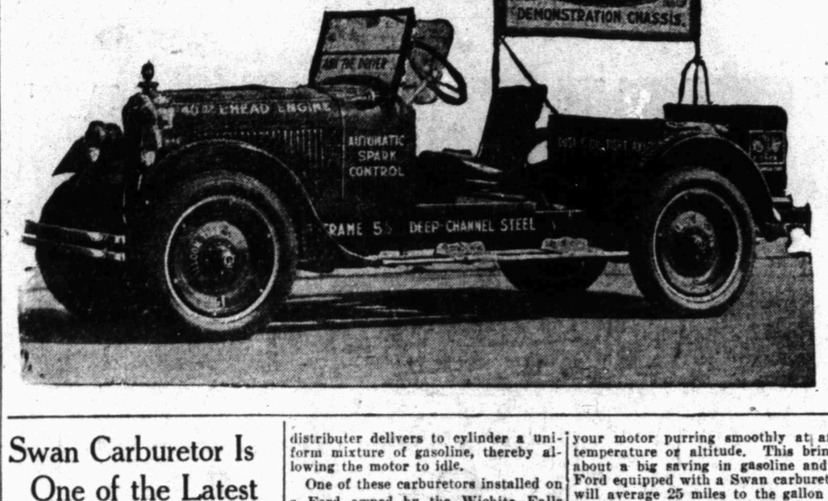

"So many people think that tires with flat treads are made that way because they look better. But a good flat tread tire is very far from being a dolled-up piece of merchandise.

"To begin with, it's pretty evident that a tire tread in full contact with the road is less liable to skid. A flat tread tire has full road contact from the beginning while a round tread tire must go through approximately 2,000 miles of road wear before it is worn down flat. But when it has reached that stage it is liable to cup and wear irregularly.

"A well constructed cord tire, like the Lee DeLuxe, will outwear a round tread tire by several thousand miles and will retain its appearance until it wears out as the road wear is even at all times."

Swan Carburetor Is One of the Latest Auto Developments

One of the latest developments in automobile carburetion is the new Swan Carburetor with a new patent distributing manifold. According to Kindel Paulk of the Witchita Falls Battery company, the new Swan fuel distributer delivers to cylinder a uniform mixture of gasoline, thereby allowing the motor to idle.

One of these carburetors installed on a Ford owned by the Wichita Falls Battery company gave astonishing results. The car could be slowed down in high gear to almost a standstill without killing the motor. Each cylinder gets an equal amount of fuel and the motor delivers a steady power.

The carburetor is adjustable from the seat. This enables you to keep the mixture sufficiently lean and you have at your finger tips the means to keep your motor purring smoothly at any temperature or altitude. This brings about a big saving in gasoline and a Ford equipped with a Swan carburetor will average 25 miles to the gallon of gasoline, according to Mr. Paulk.

The Auto Has Grown Into Economic Need

The national automotive chamber of commerce is responsible for the statement that 60 per cent of all passenger car mileage is for business purposes.

Hundreds of thousands of salesmen enlarge their working radius, widen distribution, increase their earnings, reduce selling costs and consequently living costs through the use of automotive transportation.

Motor transportation has assumed a leading role in the nation's growth and has earned the right to be considered an economic factor of major importance.

The automobile manufacturer in the low-priced field, who combines in his product maximum utility with low stlling and operating costs is a public benefactor; for every dollar cut from selling and opetating costs of his product, everything that adds to its utility as a transportation medium broadens its commercial use and to that extent assists in the development of the country's resources.

The settled policy of the manufacturers of the Star automobile is to lead in the production of low-cost transportation of the widest utility. The new Star coupster is a definite expression of this determination.

Adapted for business or pleasure, winter or summer, selling for the unprecedented price of $625 f. o. b. factory, its usefulness is further augmented by exceptionally low operating costs.

Gardner Receives Order for 48 New Cars for Germany

Big Order Comes in From Dealer in Dresden, Germany

T. F. Fowler, manager, the export division of the Gardner Motor company, Inc., St. Louis, reports the receipt of an order for 48 Gardner eight-in-line cars from Walter Schade, Gardner distributor at Dresden, Germany. Owing to restrictions imposed by the German government, which permit a maximum of not more than four cars monthly to be imported by any single concern, these forty-eight Gardner cars will be shipped abroad at the rate of four each month for a period of one year.

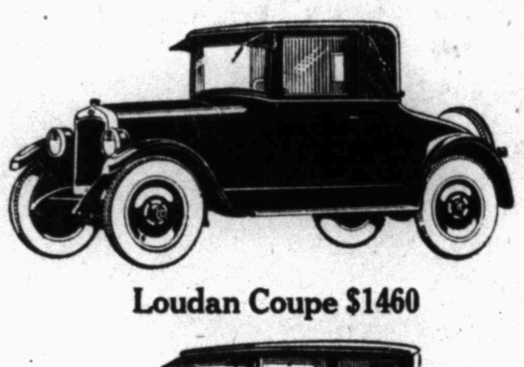

Gardner export business has shown a steady increase for several years. Recently a single order for 60 Gardner cars was received from Jacobo Mauthe of Buenos Aires, who, at the time, had represented Gardner in the Argentine only nine months. This one order comprised about 35 per cent of the total number of American-made-cars in Gardner's price class which Argentine imports each month.

GENERAL MOTORS IN CHINA

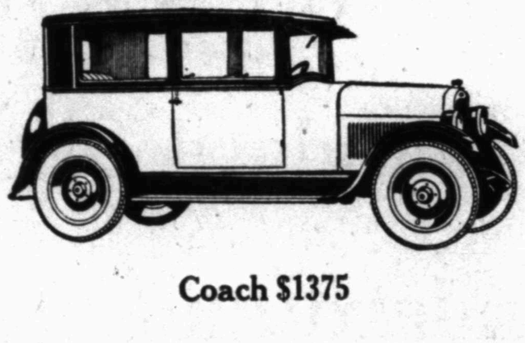

While motor cars are by no means numerous in China as yet, the missionaries who teach by picture slides the story of the gospel of Christ in remote districts of the Orient are introducing the electric light to the natives through the use of Delco-Light electric power plants, products of a General Motors subsidiary.

Marmon Official Believes People Growing Cheerful

Business Optimism is Showing More And More, He Says

A spirit of business optimism is taking hold of the cities of the far west and there is general feeling among business and industrial men of good cheer for the days which lie ahead, said Col. E. S. Gorrell, vice-president in charge of sales and service of the Nordyke & Marmon company, who returned recently from a trip through the west. Coll Gorrell visited Marmon dealers and distributors in a number of larger cities of the west and talked with bankers, industrial leaders, merchants, business men and others, all of whom, he said, radiated optimism for the future of American business. During the trip, Col. Gorrell visited Seattle, Wash., Portland, Ore., San Francisco, Cal., Los Angeles, Cal., Vancouver, B. C., Denver, Colo., Salt Lake City, Utah, Spokane, Wash., Omaha, Neb., Des Moines, Iowa; Minneapolis, Minn.; St. Paul, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Kansas City, Mo.; and Chicago.

Optimism Apparent

Particularly as it applies to the automobile business is the optimism apparent, Col. Gorrell says Although not yet in the spring selling season, the demand for the new Marmons has been greater than ever before and sales since the first of the year have broken all records Not only is this true in the far west but also in the middle west, the south and east.

"There is every incentive for optimism and I believe it will increase day after day until the wave of it will completely engulf the bugaboo of depression which haunted American business during the latter part of 1924. Businessmen and particularly automobile men are basing their actions on sound economic laws; there is a general "loosening up" of the faimly purse; people generally are spending money.

Marmon Has Profited

"Marmon has profited as it has, I believe, because it adopted the simple principle of giving the people what they want at the price they are able to pay and has based all of its policies on this one principle. By radically changing our manufacturing processes so as to greatly increase theefficiency of our plant, we were able to produce better cars at a cheaper price, and to bring out closed cars at practically the price of the open cars".

With his return to Indianapolis, Col. Gorrell terminated what has been in fact a general tour of the United States during which he has visited the larger distributor and dealer establishments. He has made a close stoudy of business conditions and as a result of his travels has first hand knowledge of conditons in all sections of the country and the trade possibilities of various territories.

Bert Dingley, former automobile race driver and now service manager of the Nordyke & Marmon company has also returned from a tour of dealers' service establishemtns in the west He reports that Marmon serivice stations are admirably equipped to give instant and efficient service.

Longest Motorist Gives Some Simple Precautions About Hydraulic Brakes

By RAY McNAMARA

Who Has Motored Farther Than Any Man in the World

In my last article I discussed three of the four conditions that are liable to cause free play in the pedal. In this article I shall treat upon the fourth condition, namely air in lines, and also upon the bleeding operation on hydraulic system.

When air gets into the lines, (which, unlike liquid, is compressible) through piston leaks or in case the brake lines are disconnected for other purposes, this will also result in a free movement of the pedal and a further loss of effective pedal travel before the master cylinder piston starts to work, due to the air compressing. When this looseness becomes appreciable or sufficient to cause pedal to strike floor board before brakes take hold, an operation called bleeding if the lines will be necessary.

The bleeding operation on the hydraulic system is very simple and can be executed by either owner or mechanic. However, certain particular precautions are necessary to insure clean brake lines and to avoid again the necessity of doing it all over again if you happen to slip up on any of the operations.

Remove Air

Bleeding operation means the passing of liquid through the lines in order to remove air, moisture or any other foreign matter which might get in through carelessness or oversight.

The system is so well designed that it is practically impossible for air to get into the lines except in the case of a damaged or defective piston. The only other way for air to enter the lines is when the system runs out of liquid, or when brake lines are disconnected for repairs to other units. However, the designers have installed the system so that motor, axles, transmission and other units can be removed from car without disconnecting the brake lines.

Air in the lines is, of course, detrimental to good brake performance in that it can be compressed, and will result in a great loss of effective pedal travel. This can be detected by the action of the pedal when applied. If a good, solid resistance is not felt when the master sylinder is picked up by the pedal, and a further travel is necessary beforet he bands wrap, together with a slight free play in pedal, this indicates air in the lines and that bleeding operation is necessary.

Same As Pistons

The effect of air in the hydaulic brake lines is very much the same as operation of pistons in motor. The cylinder is filled with air and gas. The suction stroke ordinarily can travel three to five inches, compressing same. Now in the case of a column of liquid, such as you have in the break lines(this cannot be compressed. If the engine cylinder were filled with liquid at the bottom of its stroke, its pistons could not be moved a small fraction of an inch and if sufficient pressure could be applied the cylinder would break before the piston could move. So in the case of a column of liquid in the brake lines—it is just like a shaft of steel. There is no loss of pedal travel with all air removed from lines.

Bleeding Operation

Each wheel cylinder has a bleeder valve, into which a bleeder connection is screwed. The valve is then opened and while the end of hose extension is held down in liquid, additional liquid is passed through the lines by operating the pump at supply tank valve until no more bubbles appear at the end of hose.

This operation is executed in various fashions, depending upon facilities. Ordinarily one bleeder connection is supplied with the tool kit, so that if the car owner wishes to go through the operation he bleeds one cylinder at a time. However, in some service stations two or all four cylinders can be bled at one time in a very few minutes.

The best method of catching liquid is clean blass containers, preferably pint glass bottles. With the end of hose under liquid in bottom of bottle, you can readily see how free liquid passing through lines is from air.

Caution: When you start your bleeding operation have your liquid supply tank full and remember that it only holds little more than a pint. Then be very careful to stop bleeding before the tank is drained. otherwise you would have to start all over again. If you happened to drain the tank when bleeding the fourth wheel, you would have to go back over the others; therefore it is very necessary to pour the liquid back in tank after bleeding each sylinder.

Continue bleeding operation on each wheel until liquid will flow at least a half minute kithout showing a single air bubble. Then cose the bleeder valve tightly to insure against leaks and be very careful that the liquid you are pouring back into the supply tank is absolutely free from dirt, moisture or other foreign matter.

Set Brake In Neutral

The brake pedal should set in neutral position when bleeding and should not be moved until all of the operations are completed and all valves are closed tightly.

Whenever brake tube lines are disconnected for any reason, or when replacing a wheel sylinder or master cylinder, the lines should be bled again.

Whe nrelining brakes always use same make of lining and reline both front and rear brakes at the same time.

Do not for any reason take brake cylinders apart. These should be serviced as recommended by car manufacturer.

In addition to the above, owners should see that the brake anchors receive a few drops of lubrication at proper intervals to insure free operation or sliding of the brake band anchor bracket over the brake band anchor stud. This is vital in either hydraulic or mechanical brakes.

New Franklin Orders Will Take Output Of Factory Until May

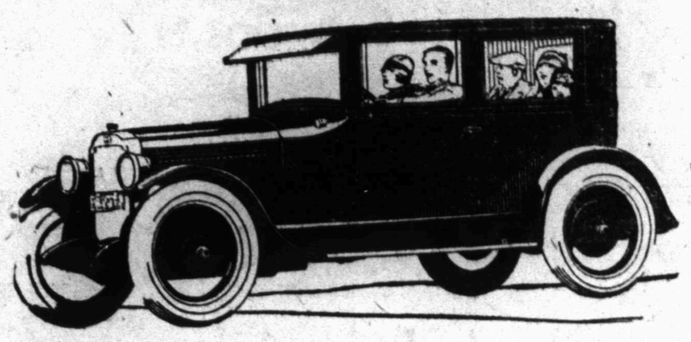

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 30.—Indication of nationwide demand for the new model Franklin styled by de Causse, and publicly introduced on March 1, appear in dealers' orders placed with the factory since the announcement.

Orders on hand are more than enough to absorb the plant's production of March, April, and half of May.

To a considerable extent these orders represent new Series 11 style cars that are already sold at retail and the balance represent dealers' anticipated requirements for spring delivery.

Penn. Industries Are Backing New Road

Decision of the Pennsylvania state legislature to build an industrial highway between the cities of Chester and Philadelphia is interpreted by "the Highway magazine" as the first step toward a nationwide system of industrial highways which will solve for business the short inter-city haul and definitely establish the improved highway as a necessary adjunct of industry and commerce.

While the new highway is to be designated as an industrial highway and will be built ruggedly to withstand heavy commercial traffic, there will be no attempt to exclude other vehicles from it. Instead the road is planned with the idea that it will automatically attract both local and through truck and commercial traffic and that passenger cars will accordingly favor the older routes, such as the Chester pike which parallels the proposed road.

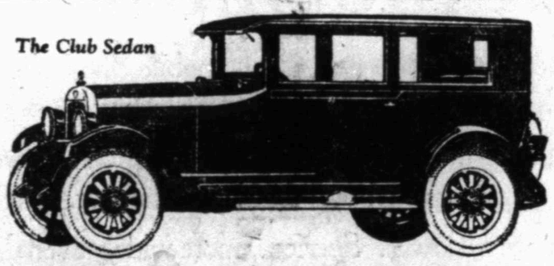

The eastern terminal of the new highway, which will be located as close to the Delaware river as possible, was originally intended as Philadelphia, but the recent completion of the cable work for the great suspension bridge between Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., by the American Cable company in record time means that when the new highway is ready, uninterrupted motor communication will be possible between the Pennsylvania cities and important industrial centers across the river in New Jersey.

Industry's opinion of the importance of trunk highways to accommodate its needs is indicated in the fact that officials of such well known companies as the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, Lester Piano Company, Sun Shipbuilding company and other concerns in the district affected cooperated with automobile clubs and municipal officials in securing the necessary appropriations to start the work.

The Philadelphia experiment has the wholehearted support of all industries and property owners along the rotute of the new road. Road builders and traffic experts are watching the development of the project with interest in anticipation of an era of parallel trunk lines between cities which will separate industrial and passenger traffic and expedite the movement of both.

The Club Sedan

This Built-in Quality Means Lower Costs of Operation

The fast-increasing number of new good Maxwell cars on the streets is causing widespread comment. It is a perfectly logical happening, for no other four delivers the Maxwell combination of 58 miles an hour, 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, and 25 miles to a gallon of gasoline.

But there are still greater satisfactions for the Maxwell owner. The car is completely manufactured within its own great plants. This is an advantage of genuine importance to the buyer. In no other way could you be assured of the quality that distinguishes the new good Maxwell from all other fours.

It is this high quality that accounts very largely for the dependable nature of Maxwell performance, the car's durability and, above all, costs of operation and maintenance so low as to create a new standard of economy.

We are always eager to demonstrate the new good Maxwell, for a ride in the car proves at once that it offers more fine motoring than was ever before available at the price.

Touring Car, Roadster, Club Coupe, Club Sedan, Standard Four-Door Sedan —attractively priced from $885 to $1095. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, tax extra.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Maxwell's attractive plan. Maxwell dealers and superior Maxwell service everywhere.

Pierce-Arrow Caravan Ends Death Valley Trip

GO OVER 800 MILES

Only Three Punctures Are Made Over Entire Trip In Sand

Death Valley—the sun-scorched awe-inspiring strip of desert which sprawls for 90 miles across the eastern edge of Southern California—a land without shade or water and said to be responsible for more deaths from heat than any similar spot of its size in the world—this is not the region that the average tourist would choose for a six-day jaunt by motor car. Yet a caravan of four Pierce-Arrows, carrying a party of twelve Los Angeles men, have just returned after a memorable 800 miles exploration tour of this arid country, without experiencing any mechanical difficulties and having only to change three tires during their adventurous journey.

Two Cars Were New.

Two of the cars were present models, one was five years old and the other has seen six years of service.

The caravan rolled out of Los Angeles on March 22 stopping at Mohave for lunch and bidding goodbye to the pavements. Then on to Randsburg, one of the few real mining towns left in that part of the country. The next stop was at Trona, where potash and borax are made and salt harvested from the surface of a dry lake.

From Trona the trail led to Ballart, formerly a prosperous mining village but now dwindled to a few huts. The second night was spent at Wild Rose Springs, the party sleeping in little shacks perched on the side of a gorge.

The next morning, bright and early, the caravan shoved off, being almost on the edge of Death Valley. After traveling around Sheep mountain and reaching Skidoo, they found themselves in sight of what are probably the highest and lowest spots in North America, Mt. Whitney and Death Valley. There is a gold mine at Skidoo that at one time produced $1,000,000 for its owners. Work is going on again at Skidoo in the mines.

First Sand Dunes.

After a few miles of travel the first big sand dunes were encountered and the party was in Death Valley. These shifting dunes made life miserable for travelers, continually wiping away all traces of the roads. Funeral range, which skirts the eastern side of Death Valley, loomed up grim and bleak. As resolute as it all is, the travelers found the coloring gorgeous.

After ploughing through Death Valley the party headed for Rhyolite, Nevada, the old deserted mining town, evacuated over night and now known as the Ghost City. From Rhyolite the caravan proceeded to the ranch of Walter Scott, better known as Death Valley Scotty. This famous character proved himself a wonderful host, cooking their evening meal and entertaining them with stories of his adventurous career. Among them he told them the story of his ride on a special train from Los Angeles to Chicago in 45 hours, and from Chicago to New York in 15 hours, which still stands as a record, exploits which attracted the attention of the whole United States.

Scotty is now building several "mystery" buildings on his ranch, which are causing considerable speculation in that part of the country. No one knows where Scott gets the money that he spends on his trips to the outside world, but he is known as a millionaire spender whenever he leaves his Death Valley haunts. At present he hasn't seen a street car for seven years and doesn't want to.

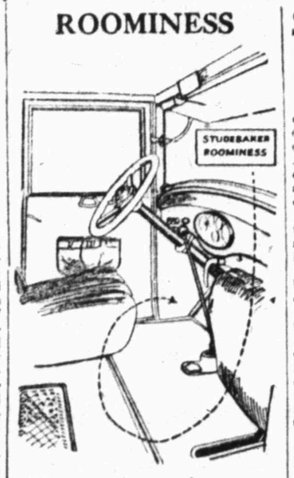

Back Into Valley.

From Death Valley Scotty's ranch the party went back into the valley and wound up that night at Furnace Creek ranch, the lowest ranch in the world. At this ranch the thermometer registers 142 degrees in the summer time. It reached 100 during the party's visit. After spending the night there, the caravan headed straight down the valley. Here pinnacles, which seemingly rise out of the earth and look as if they were made of salt, attracted the attention of the entire party.

The caravan passed the old Eagle borax works, Ashfort mill and then came back into Randsburg by the Owl Hillss and Pilot Knob. This was the fifth day and the sixth was spent in visiting the famous Yellow Astor mine at Randsburg and in returning to Los Angeles.

In the opinion of those who made the journey, the trip although not easy, is not as treacherous as is generally considered and with lucky breaks in the weather during the spring and fall of the year, motor cars can get through with proper preparations. However, even now many who go fall by the wayside and Death Valley still clings to its grim reputation.

ROOMINESS

There must be room for everyone in a better motor car. Cramped or crowded passengers or drivers get no enjoyment out of driving. The beauties of the landscape; the fresh, sweet airs of the out of doors; the pleasure of smooth gliding over long roads; even the beauty of lines of a car are all swept away unless there is roominess for those who ride, to bring with it comfort and ease and restfulness, instead of fatigue. Since comfort is one of the primary requirements made by car owners, they should insist, before purchase, on comparing the car they are considering with others to see whether they will have the roominess which brings comfort.

Studebaker Elects New Vice President

The directors of the Studebaker corporation, at their meeting today, elected Paul G. Hoffman as vice-president in charge of sales to succeed H. A. Biggs, resigned. He was also elected a director of the corporation and a member of its executive and finance committees.

Mr. Hoffman entered the employ of the Studebaker corporation in 1911 as a salesman in Los Angeles. In 1915 he was made sales manager of the Los Angeles retail branch, and in 1917, branch manager of the Los Angeles district.

He served in the artillery division of the army in 1917-18, and upon leaving it in March, 1919, purchased from the corporation its retail business at Los Angeles and became a Studebaker dealer on his own account. The Paul G. Hoffman company, starting business with $60,000, now has $1,500,000 assets.

Mr. Hoffman has been quite active in the civic affairs of his city. For the past two years he has been president of the traffic commission, a voluntary organization of business men formed for the purpose of studying measures of relief from traffic congestion, including re-routing of streets and city planning. He is a director of the chamber of commerce and chairman of its roads committee, also a director of the California bank of Los Angeles.

Mr. Hoffman's headquarters will be at the general offices at South Bend. H. S. Vance, sales manager, George W. Sweet, assistant sales manager, W. E. Betts, advertising manager, George S. Willis, export sales manager, and Howard S. Welch, assistant export sales manager, remain with the corporation in their respective positions.

H. A. Biggs, who is being succeeded by Mr. Hoffman, is retiring from active business. His services to the corporation and administration of the affairs of the sales department for six years were highly satisfactory and successful. His numerous friends in the automobile industry as well as in the Studebaker organization will miss him. He is compelled to establish his residence in a milder climate, and expects shortly to move from South Bend to southern California.

The Phaeton

This Popularity Points to Value of Chrysler Results

The continued popularity of the Chrysler Six is a very definite suggestion to the buyer. It is evident that a car so eagerly desired delivers valuable results that belong to the Chrysler alone. This fact suggests the wisdom of studying the Chrysler Six at first hand.

A ride, for example, shows at once why Chrysler Six owners are so enthusiastic. After trying the acceleration and testing the tremendous power of its motor, with its high-gear range of from 2 to over 70 miles an hour, come to a quick, smooth stop with the self-equalizing Chrysler-Lockheed hydraulic four-wheel brakes. You'll find it possesses a flashing pick-up that no words can describe. It must be experienced to be comprehended. This is a desirable result that Chrysler alone gives you because its engineers have developed a new perfection of gas distribution, special combustion chambers and a scientific heat distribution through the applied science of thermo-dynamics.

Chrysler facts are worth knowing because there is no other car on the market that offers a similar performance or an equal enjoyment. Once you ride in the car you will never be content until that enjoyment is yours. We are eager to demonstrate Chrysler's superior and different results.

LINCOLN Ford

The Two Best Automobile Buys In the World

LINCOLN

The World's Best Built Car

The avowed purpose behind the building of the Lincoln is to make this car without question the finest that can be built.

SERVICE

Lincoln service gives you the greatest pleasure in traveling, because every Ford agent is a service station; therefore you don't have to wait for parts from some large city or factory in order for you to advance on your vacation. An idea of service is to know when you get repairs and what you pay for them. For instance, Complete Rear System $55; Motor Blocks $25; Crank Shaft $15; Cam Shaft $10; at any authorized Ford dealer.

Every Lincoln is "broken in" before leaving the factory. You can drive it without injury, at top speed immediately, without the usual period of slow running.

The exhibit of Ford Closed and Open Cars at this year's Automobile Show should interest you, because it represents the greatest values in motor car history.

More car owners every year come to the ultimate realization that a Ford delivers more dependable, carefree mileage per dollar invested than any other car.

First cost, upkeep and depreciation are all lower. Service is more widely available. Be sure to visit the Ford Display. It will convince you that you cannot make a more sensible or profitable purchase of a car than a Ford.

All types will be on display during the Wichita Falls Automobile Show, May 7, 8 and 9th and on our show room at 600 Indiana Ave.

Will Visit Northeastern States on Big Ad Tour

A caravan of twenty new Marmon automobiles left the factory of Nordyke & Marmon company in Indianapolis early Monday morning, April 13 en route to New York and eastern points. The caravan was met at dealer and distributor points on the national highway en-route and was welcomed by representatives of other automobile concerns in practically every town on the itinerary.

The Marmon cars will arrive in New York about Friday. The procession will be met at Newark by representatives of the Marmon Automobile company of New York, including E. A. Travis, president and M. A. Pollock, sales manager and an impromptu parade will be held before the caravan leaves on the coast road northward to visit other eastern cities.

Lined up In Autos.

Before leaving the factory at Indianapolis, the party lined up in front of the new automobiles and were "shot" by newspaper photographers and movie men. An escort of motorcycle police followed by cars containing W. M. Williams, president of the Nordyke & Marmon company; Hal L. Purdy, A. R. Heiskell, E. S. Gorrell and Howard Marmon, vice presidents and H. H. Brooks, sales manager, led the procession to the outskirts of Indianapolis. The cars attracted much attention and considerable praise from onlookers as they passed through the downtown district of Indianapolis and reports received en route show that that interest has been duplicated in the other cities through which the procession passed.

The itinerary for the trip includes Richmond, Ind.; Dayton, O.; Columbus, O.; Springfield, O.; Cambridge, O.; Wheeling, W. Va.; Washington, Pa.; Pittsburgh, Po.; Uniontown, Pa.; Cumberland, Mr.; Hagerstown, Md.; Frederick, Mr.; Baltomore, Md.; Wilmington, Del.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Trenton, N. J.; Newark, N. J. and New York. The party followed the national highway eastward to Baltimore and then followed the capitol highway northward ot New York.

Is "Field General."

H. L. Fisher of the Marmon factory is "field general" in charge of the caravan and is leading the procession. Included among the men driving the cars are a number of men prominent in the automobile industry. Also accompanying the caravan are H. H. Price and Porter Smith, Marmon district managers.

Practically every type of Marmon car is included in the procession, including the three models of the Marmon standard line—the five and seven-passenger sedans and the five-passenger brougham coupe—which the company is featuring at practically open car price. In addition there are limousines of the deluxe type, roadsters, touring cars, coupes and the five-passenger club phaeton, an open car of smart appearance and distinctive lines, which is the newest Marmon model. A corps of relief drivers accompanied the caravan.

Testifying as it does the prosperity of the Nordyke & Marmon company, one of America's oldest and largest industrial institutions, the caravan is of more than usual interest. Reports from the factory of the Nordyke & Marmon company and from Marmon dealers throughout the United States during the last few weeks, show that sales of the new Marmon are greater so far this year than for any similar period of time in the history of the company.

One of the feature attractions at the Automobile Show to be held May 7, 8 and 9, under the auspices of the Wichita Falls Automotive Association. Lloyd Weaver Company is distributor for the Packard in this district. Mr. Weaver is also president of the association.

A New Experience To Franklin Men

"We have always commanded probably more than our share of public attention and interest because of our individual principles of car constructions," said S. E. Ackerman, Franklin factory salesmanager at Syracuse, "but never in our 23 year history have we encountered such a reception as in the past few weeks. Typifying the intense interest in the new custom-featured Franklins, styled by de Causse, is this recent incident: an automobile show was being held in one large middle western city, the Franklin exhibit was in the rear of the large building, yet one-half of the visitors made straightway for the Franklin booth which was so congested all evening that it was practically impossible to obtain elbow room."

Kurt then committed suicide.

Spring Is Time for Car Owners To Go Over Parts Carefully and Check Up

With the coming of spring weather, the careful motorist will see to it that certain routine inspections and adjustments are made on his car to insure its operation at the highest point of efficiency.

It is well to remember that the average motor car has been operated during the winter under conditions diametrically opposed to the warm weather which spring ushers in. Adjustments and repairs made at this time will add materially to the uninterrupted joy of motoring through spring, summer and fall — the period when the greatest mileage is run up on the car.

The following six items should have special attention: cooling system, electrical system, lubrication, engine, brakes and tires.

To make sure that the cooling system will function properly, flush out the radiator with a hose and refill with clean water. This not only takes away the accumulated particles of dust sediment and rust, but also removes the alcohol which would make the radiator boil in warm weather. The hose connections should be examined, and changed if they show signs of rotting.

It is also well to blow out the radiator core with compressed air if possible, as all dust collected here militates against the proper cooling of the engine. The fan belt should be inspected and replaced if found badly worn or too loose.

The electrical system should also be checked over carefully. See that all connections are tightened in the ignition system, and the breaker points and spark plug gaps adjusted.

The carburetor should likewise be adjusted for warm weather, as it is obvious that you do not need as rich a mixture as in winter. If considerable driving is done in hot weather, proper adjustment of the manifold heater should be made.

The oil in the transmission should be changed regularly after each succeeding 3,000 miles of driving. If owner lubricates the car himself, he should use heavier oil in the gun. The light oil that was placed in the rear axle for winter driving should be changed and a heavier oil, such as 600 W, substituted.

Soak Brakes Well.

All the operating parts of the brakes should be soaked with penetrating oil or some anti-rust solution to remove the effects of the slush, mud and water of winter driving.

The whole engine as well as the exposed bearings and other parts of the chassis should be washed and cleaned with kerosene to prevent dust from finding its way into the moving parts. Compression should be checked. Valves should be re-seated and new rings installed wherever needed.

The air in the tires should be kept up to the specified inflation for the car more regularly in summer than in winter, because the heat of the pavement combined with the heat generated in an under-inflated tire softens up the layers of fabrics as they rub against each other.

The nuts, bolts and screws on the entire car should be tightened. During the winter the material used an cushioning between the various parts of the car gathers moisture and swells up. In dry weather it shrinks. Just as soon as this shrinking takes place the car should be tightened up to prevent the formation of a hard glazed surface. If these glazed surfaces are allowed to form, it is very difficult to eliminate the squeaks from the car.

Pierce-Arrow Shows Great Power Under Bad Road Conditions

The capacity of the modern bus for fast overland travel was again demonstrated the other day when "Miss Michigan," a 29 passenger Pierce-Arrow motor bus with a de luxe sedan body, rolled into Palm Beach, Fla., after completing her 1,900 mile trip from Detroit in five days. She averaged 380 miles per day.

The time made by the bus is remarkable, when the difficulties encountered en route are considered. The route led over the Cumberland mountains from Wheling, W. Va., into Washington, D. C., a stiff test of hill climbing ability. However, the mountains were taken on high gear with the exception of twice, when the owner, Anthony J. Rush, who was driving had to slip into second.

From Washington the route led to Richmond and the bus made the trip in one day over roads hub deep with clay and mud. Another day's run took the bus to Columbia, S. C., over stretches of highway where the mud came up to the running boards.

At Augusta, Ga., Mr. Rush found that the roads were flooded after long and heavy rains. Even train schedules were held up. Automobile club authorities advised him to wait three days until the highways could be put in shape. He disregarded their warnings and pushed ahead.

"The manager of the automobile club was right," Mr. Rush writes in a letter to a friend in Detroit. "Roads were impassable for an ordinary tourist with an ordinary automobile. I was very thankful after getting through that I had a powerful 100 horsepower Pierce-Arrow motor, otherwise I would have made my bed in a mud lake."

After getting through the section of flooded roads, the remainder of the trip was made into Palm Beach without incident.

"Miss Michigan," as the bus is called is mounted on a 220-inch Pierce-Arrow bus chassis. It was purchased for long distance sightseeing work. At present the bus is being used for real estate work between Palm Beach and Miami.

Pierce-Arrow Truck Business Is Gaining

An indication of better business conditions all over the country and especially in the east, is reflected in the orders for Pierce-Arrow trucks and busses received at the factory in Buffalo. At the present time Pierce-Arrow has orders on hand to take care of its entire production of trucks and busses until June 1, according to L. E. Corcoran, general sales manager.

"Our production and sales of trucks are 50 per cent greater at this time than during the same period for 1924," says Mr. Corcoran. "Several large orders for fleets of Pierce-Arrow heavy duty trucks have been received from New York, Boston and other big cities. These orders, will keep our factory working to full capacity until June 1."

Production and sales of Pierce-Arrow motor busses are double this year what they were in the same period for 1924. Pierce-Arrow officials ascribe the increase in sales of commercial vehicles to better business conditions and a more complete knowledge of the value of Pierce-Arrow equipment in both the truck and bus field. Another factor in the growth of the commercial vehicle business is the increase in hard-surfaced highways.

The demand for motor trucks and busses this year has been larger than anticipated, according to an official of the motor truck committee of the national automobile chamber of commerce. He states that it is to be expected that production of motor busses will reach the 16,000 mark this year as compared with 12,000 manufactured in 1924.

Fight Is Begun On the Internal Wear in a Car

Auto Engineer's Society Cooperates With Manufacturers

With the co-operation of a number of progressive manufacturers and the Bureau of Standards, the research committee and research department of the Society of Automotive Engineers have begun a concerted attack on the problems of internal wear in automobile and truck engines, with the object of increasing the period of usefulness of motor vehicles. Lubrication problems that are common to all machines are considered of enough importance by several of the manufacturers to warrant a careful analytical study. Among the companies that are taking part in this movement are the Autocar, Chevrolet, Chrysler, Dodge, Mack, Maxwell, Packard and Rickenbacker.

The method that is being followed is for the companies to send to the Bureau of Standards samples of used lubricating oil taken from the crankcases of cars and trucks operating in regular service indifferent cities. The 170 samples collected will be analyzed completely at the bureau to obtain an index of the wear of cylinder walls, piston rings and crankshaft and connecting-rod bearings that results from the presence of various materials that contaminate the oil in the engine, such as dust, water and the heavy ends of hydrocarbon fuels.

Results of the analyses will be furnished to the co-operating manufacturers. Positive knowledge of the materials that impair the lubricating quality of oils and cause most wear will enable the manufacturers of cars and trucks to devise means for increasing the life of motor vehicles.

This new undertaking is a continuance of the study of the lubrication problem which the Society of Automotive Engineers has been carrying on for several years. The problem has been complicated by the use of certain types of fuels, including those of low volatility that do not burn completely in the cylinders, as the unburned fuel makes its way into the crankcase and dilutes the lubricating oil.

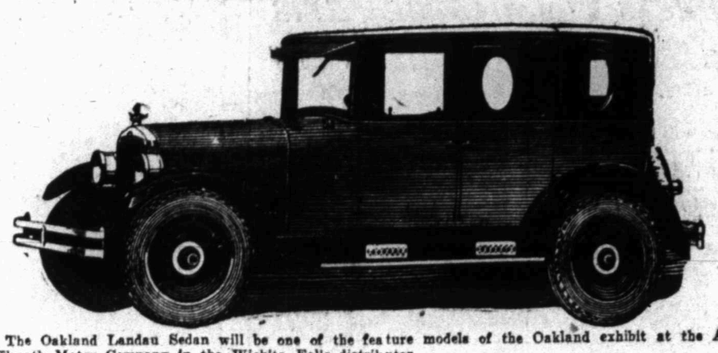

It is for the purpose of advancing more rapidly the efforts of automobile manufacturers to improve their products that the present research work has been undertaken.

Bosch Develops New Ignition System For Ford Cars Is Claim

The Bosch ignition system for Fords, known as "Type 600," has been entirely redesigned, and many improvements incorpuorated. The system, as now offered to the trade, has so many changes that it virtually constitutes an entirely new system.

The spark advance in the new Bosch-Ford ignition system is fully automatic, being controlled by an ingenious new governor, designed and built especially to suit the Ford engine characteristics. When the new type 600 is installed on a Ford engine, the Ford spark lever is disconnected altogether, because it is not used at any time—even when starting.

The new system provides for timing at the head—an improvement which greatly simplifies and expedites the installation, and makes it possible to time the system quickly while the engine is running.

The housing, which encloses the interrupter mechanism and governor weights, is built separately from the bracket housing, and is provided with a timing clamp and screw. It has a long bearing which fits tightly over the neck of the bracket housing, but which may be rotated on it when the timing clamp is loosened.

To Time the System.

To time the system, it is only necessary to grasp the head of the unit (which contains the interrupter mechanism) and rotate it against the cam. When it is rotated to the point which gives the smoothest firing of the engine, you tighten the screw in the clamp, and the timig is completed. No amount of vibration can develop loostness of the head or throw the unit out of timing.

Another new feature of the improved "type 600" system is a small key on the distributor cap, and a keyway on the interrupter housing. These insure correct location of the cap. Similarly, correct location of the rotor is insured by a flat on the top of the governor shaft, and a corresponding flat sided hole in the shank of the rotor. A tight fit of the rotor is assured by a spring slot in the top of the governor shaft.

Good ground between the interrupter cup and its housing is assured by two springs on the side of the cup. This insures a tight fit at all times.

The interrupter mechanism used with this system is exactly the same as that supplied with the standard Bosh systems when supplied to the leadings car manufacturers. The same is true of the distributing cap, which has unusually high towers to prevent current leakage.

Appearance Changed.

Even the appearance of the system has been changed, the head of the new type 600 being finished in a bright red, while the rest of the unit has a black satin finish. This makes the whole system unusually attractive and it is especially helpful in making displays in show windows, show cases and on the dealer's counter.

Three modifications of the new system are available, each having a separate type designation. Type 600-D is for use with one Ford coil, with the vibrator screwed down. This system uses the battery as a source of ignition current. Its list price is $12.75.

Type 600-C is the same as type 600-D, except that it includes the Bosch waterproof ignition coil, and eliminates tht Ford coils altogether. Its price, including the Bosh coil, is $17.80.

Type 600-M is for use with the Ford flywheel "magneto" and one Ford vibrating coil. It sells for $12.75.

The announcement of this new system has been received with a good deal of enthusiasm everywhere, and the American Bosch Magneto corporation has had to speed up production materially to enable it to take care of all the orders received. Daily shipments of this new system have already grown to large proportions.

Overlands Used By Korean Missionaries

Recent interesting visitors at the Willys-Overland factory in Toledo Rev. Walter C Erdman and Rev. H. A. Rhodes, missionaries to Korea for the Presbyterian board of foreign missions. At the Toledo plant each took delivery of an Overland four-cylinder touring car, which will be used during the demainder of their stay in the United States and will then be shipped to Korea for use in that country, after they have returned to their respective stations.

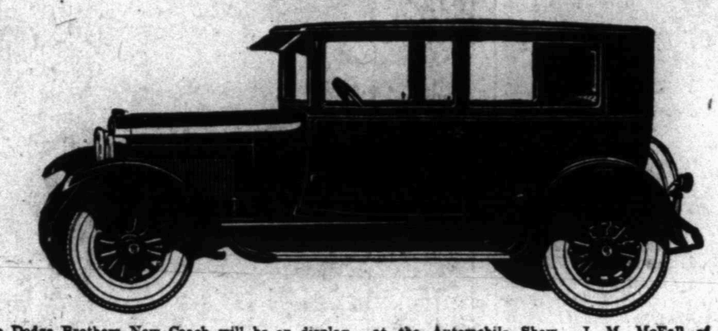

Rev. Erdman is located at Taiku, Korea, where he has made his headquarters for the past 18 years. Rev. Rhodes is stationed at the Chosen Christian college at Seoul, where he has served for 17 years.

In discussing the devlopment of automomile transportation in Korea Rev. Erdman stated when he first arrived in that country the natives of South Korea transported all goods on the backs of coolies or pack animals. They apparently had no knowledge of even the first principles of vehicular traffic. There were practically no roads in Korea.

Since the Japanese occupation of have been constructed and there are that country, however, good roads now several hundred motor cars in the country, including a large number of Overland cars, which have been placed in service through J. H. Morris, energetic pioneer Willys-Overland distributor in Seoul.

Both missionaries report the rapid spread of Christianity throughout the country. Missionary work began forty years ago; today there are 300,000 native Christians in Korea. The progress of the gospel in this land is said to have been more rapid than in any country since the early years of the Apostollic church. Originally the Koreans were Animists—worshipping the spirits of nature and of their ancestors.

The Swan Carburetor was developed by a fuel expert on the Pacific Coast where greatest carburetion difficulties are encountered. The Swan system gives better fuel distribution and allows the motor to throttle down.

There is no fixed adjustment—the control on the dash makes it possible to set the carburetor lean—thereby saving gasoline.

Peggy Piedmont's Letter

DEAR KITTY

SOMEONE has said that spring is a traffic officer, standing out in the middle of the busy throng and saying stop—go, it directs the hurrying hundreds to and from many luncheons, teas, receptions, lectures and other social affairs that are filling the days and evenings now until the heat of summer will hold sway and everything and everybody heeds the "red" light signal. It also starts vacations when the sweet girl graduate, and the college set come to life and hold the center of the social stage.

* * * *

THE club women are now stepping on the accelerator in order to pass the green lights before June flashes her stop signal, and this week finds their activities almost at an end. Three of the largest affairs of the week centered around club activities when the Women's Forum concluded its affairs for the season with a breakfast at the Country club Thursday morning and on the same date, the Athenian club closed its study course with a luncheon at the Wichita club. And then Saturday, the Travel club, which is one of the largest and most prominent in the city, concluded its activities with an annual luncheon at the Wichita club when the 1923 Study club of Iowa Park and the Tuesday Evening College Women's club and the Junior Travel club, all of which are daughters of the mother club, were guests.

* * * *

AND while the clubs are having a final "fling" business is also picking up at the schools, and the sub-debs are all a flutter with preperation for the last days of school. Friday proved an exceptionally busy date for them for on this date, the Junior-College Gymists, composed of both boys and girls, presented a circus. More than 600 pupils took part and creditable acrobatic stunts, besides a lovely pageant of the nations when dances and stunts of the various nationalities all represented with colorful costumes, entertained a large audience. And then on the same evening, the Parent-Teachers of the Austin school held an open meeting for the patrons of the school when a delightful program included the invocation by the Rev. W. J. Johnson, pastor of the First Methodist church; songs oy a chorus, pupils of Miss Madelyn Wilson; a declamation by Charlotte Joiner; a declamation by James Thornton; a piano solo by Dorothy Goodner; a declamation by Grace Sims; a physical culture drill by the pupils of the third and fourth grades; a declamation by Woodrow Williamson; a violin number by Nancy Haggard; a playlet by pupils of the fifth and sixth grades; songs by chorus formed of the pupils of Miss Frances Smith; the awarding of merit badges by Walter Cline and a report of the Mothers' Congress, held recently at Canadian, by Mrs. Fred Barron. After the program a social hour was enjoyed when the mothers and fathers of the pupils, and the teachers became better acquainted

* * * *

ALSO on Friday evening, the school music department of the Junior high presented a charming operetta at the Wichita theatre which was well attended.

This week school activities will begin with renewed impetus with the Junior College Dramatic club, which is a recent organization in the college, presenting a comedy, "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose." The performances will be given at the Junior college auditorium on Monday and Tuesday evenings under the direction of the college public speaking teacher, Miss Juanita Kinsey, who promises that it will be up to the standard set in "Am I Intruding," which made a decided hit when presented as the club's initial performance this winter. Marjorie Woolsey, favorite in school dramatics, will appear in the leading role, that of Rose O'May, a mountain girl, and she will be supported by Edward Kadane, Conan Cantwell, Vaughn Buchanan, and others who won for themselves laurels in "Am I Intruding." Jerry Vincent and Junie McCalister will also appear in important parts. And then on Tuesday evening, music lovers will be entertained by two of Ernest Katz' star piano pupils at the First Baptist church when he will present jointly, Misses Elizabeth Cole and Eunice Davis.

* * * *

FROM May 3 to 11 has been designated as annual Music week and it is only fitting that music should play no small part on the social schedule for the week. Thousands will be reached with special music between these dates through the combined efforts of the churches, schools, colleges and social clubs. Music week, as a national institution, has received the indorsement of men of national prominence. The celebrations planned this year throughout the country will be on a larger scale, if possible, in order to reach the people.

On Thursday evening, carrying out this plan, Mrs. Mary B. Adams will present her piano pupils in recital at her studio, and those who will take part will include her advanced class. On the same evening, Miss Winifred Alvis, director of music at the Junior college, will present the music department of the college in a pretentious recital when four glee clubs and the school orchestra will give numbers on the program.

* * * *

FRIDAY evening Ernest Katz will present another promising artist, Miss Katherine Kilander at the Junior college and on the same evening at the Junior high school, Mrs. H. S. Vaughn, director of music, will present her private voice pupils in recital. They will be assisted by Miss Marguerite Fisher, a favorite reader. Rounding out the week of music will be a concert given by the Wichita Falls Choral club composed of 40 voices, under the direction of Mrs. Luella B. Thompson at the First Baptist church on May 11. The choral club will be assisted by Eithel Allen Nelson's string symphony orchestra.

I am sure, friend of mine, that after you read and ponder over these lines of mine, you will understand why I say that spring is a traffic officer, who is watching mostly the green light at present.

Springtime is also convention time. One of recent interest was the Daughters of the American Revolution who just closed their annual Continental Congress at Washington. Close upon its heels was the convening of the League of American Penwomen and next will come the gigantic quinquennial convention of the International Council of Women. It is plain that the women will have things pretty much their own way in Washington for a while.

* * * *

IT was stated quite solemnly in the beginning of the D. A. R. congress that the business of the session had to do with the revising of the by-laws with the vital question of putting up a great new auditorium in connection with Memorial Continental hall, long ago outgrown, coming up for consideration. And this being an off-year for elections, they managed to stick pretty well to their knitting, dwelling lovingly on the great work that is being accomplished by the organization in Americanization, patriotic education, the preservaton of historic spots and along a score of similar lines.

Delegates for the "quinquennial" which everybody dubs the meeting of the International Council of Women meeting in Washington this month, are already arriving from the four quarters of the earth. One has already drifted in from far-off New Zealand—and the president of the International Council, the Marchioness of Aberdeen and Temair, has arrived in New York, accompanied by the Marquis of Aberdeen, and will come to Washington after a trip to Canada, of which Lord Aberdeen was once governor general. Mrs. Phillip North Moore of St. Louis, president of the National Council of Women, is in Washington and is immersed to the eyes in preparation for the great convention. Mrs. Glen Levin Swiggett is locally in charge of arrangements, according to information sent out from convention headquarters.

* * * *

AND so with all these musicals, theatricals, parties, luncheons and conventions looming up before me, I'll have to hie me hence and press out my printed crepe so that I may be among "those present," and so with no more time for a mere mortal like you, I bid you goodbye 'til next week.

PEGGY PIEDMONT.

COTERIE CLUB TO HAVE LAST MEETING THURSDAY.

The Coterie club will have their last meeting of the season in the form of a musicale Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Massie, 1501 Tilden. The club will have as their guests members of the Unity club and other friends.

MISS KILANDER TO BE PRESENTED.

Music lovers of Wichita Falls are looking forward with eager anticipation to Friday evening when Ernest Katz will present Miss Katherine Kilander, 17-year-old promising young artist in a piano recital at the Junior college.

Miss Kilander who has been studying for three years under Mr. Katz is well known for her exceptional ability as a piano player. She has appeared in several recitals of Mr. Katz, on small programs of the Musician's club, being an active member of the organization, and on the second grand concert of the club which was given last week.

Her program will include the following numbers:

Others working with the school are, W. B. Chauncey, chairman; Miss Marguerite Haynie, secretary; Cecil Porter, publicity chairman; Raybon Porter, entertaining and enrollment committee chairman; Milton Johnson, finance chairman, and Rev. S. A. Barnes, chairman of the program committee.

According to announcement received the school will precede exactly as scheduled. The ringing of the bell will indicate the beginning and the closing of classes. Those enrolling for class work are asked to enroll for one thing and to stick to it. The course includes twelve lessons and the attendance period is necessary for the credit received.

Anyone over the age of 16 may inter and receive credit for the work done. The admission is free and every one interested is cordially invited to attend.

METHODIST YOUNG PEOPLE WILL PRESENT PAGEANT.

The young people of the First Methodist church will demonstrate their ability for putting things over, Sunday evening, at the church when they will present their impressive pageant, "Life's Golden Time."

For two weeks a group of twenty-five young people of the church, under the direction of Miss Marguerite Fisher and Raybon Porter, have been working with untiring zeal.

The pageant opens in the "court of the angels." They are worrying about the world. The world is hungry for the living bread and know it not. They decide that it will take hearts of love to break the bread. So pity, service, duty, endurance, wisdom, the social worker, missionary, minister and others seek to save the nation, who are perishing in the highways of life. With their love they finally conquer the pleasure loving people.

The cast will include prominent young people of the church and will be as follows:

Angel of Service, Miss Ora Lee Smith.
Angel of Pity, Miss Lorein Russell.
Angel of Love, Miss Alva Ruth Walker.
Angel of Wisdom, Harold Dhite.
Angel of Endurance, Gerald Downing.
Angel of the Highest, Miss Vallie Fern Lowrey.
Spirit of Ease, Edmund Cook.
Spirit of Indifference, Miss Maxine Pope.
The Minister, J. W. Thorne.
The Missionary, Miss Marguerite Gerhardt.
The Teacher, Miss Zona Bachman.
The Christian Man in Business, Claude Donelson.
The Social Worker, Miss Lucille Ballard.
A Youth, Miss Nell Warman.
A Young Minister, James Williams.
First Maiden, Miss Alta Saye.
Second Maiden, Miss Vera Cain.
A Young Christian Business Man, Charles Warman.
A Young Missionary, Miss Juanita Bachman.

The public have a cordial invitation to be present Sunday evening and see the pageant.

MRS. GOODNER ELECTED PRESIDENT COLLEGE PTA.

Mrs. E. S. Goodner will head the Junior college and high school Parent-Teachers associations next year following the election of officers held at the Junior college Thursday afternoon. Other new officers for the association will be Mrs. W. N. Maer, first vice president; Mrs. C. E. Bailey, second vice president; Mrs. Ed Peterson, third vice president; Miss Hilda Masters, recording secretary; Mrs. G. T. Drinkard, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Bernard Martin, treasurer.

During a brief business meeting which followed election of officers, plans were made for a rummage sale to be held for the benefit of the association on May 8 and 9, the place to be announced later.

Their Queen To Be Named In S. S. Vote

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS QUEEN H——of the house of——will reign supreme over the first annual circus of the Methodist young people on Friday May 29. Just who the queen will be has to be decided in the course of the next four weeks by popular ballot among the church members and their friends.

According to the announcement of Harold White, director of the circus, any young lady of fourteen or more years wo attends the Methodist Sunday school or church is eligible to become the queen of the circus. A number of young ladies have been nominated and the contest promises to be interesting and warmly contested.

Voting boxes are to be placed at prominent places in the church and will be open each Sunday until contest closes. The money made through the popular girls contest will be used to send a number of Methodist young people to a specialization training school for Sunday school workers at Mount Sequoya, Arkansas, during the summer. Votes sell for one cent each.

The circus is a part of young peoples week of activity sponsored by the Methodist young people May 24th to 30th.

LARGE AUDIENCE ATTENDS ALAMO CLOSING PROGRAM.

An audience composed of members of the Alamo Mothers club and their friends which completely filled the large auditorium at the Junior college Friday afternoon enjoyed the excellent program given by the pupils under the general direction of Miss Erma Nala Vose, head of the music department of the school and assisted by other teachers of the faculty including Misses Kate Haynes, Davis, Ozier, Collins, Walker, Holmes, Margaret and Beatrice Morgan, Fields, Nannie May Scott, Ila Cook, Barrier and Stayton and by Mrs. T. A. Hicks and T. O. Brownell, expression and voice teachers and Mrs. Leslie Humphrey, chairman of the program committee.

Opening with three beautiful folk dances "Blue Bonnet Dance," "Kinderpolka" and "Shoemaker's Dance" by pupils of the primary grades the second number was a group of class songs sung by 100 voices which proved exceptionally lovely. This chorus was directed by Miss Nanie May Scotland. The group included "Baby Seed Song," "Good Night and Good Morning," "In the Tree," "The Running Brook," "Dreams" and "The Fairy Crew."

Wm. L. Donnell and Homer Donohoo gave a violin duet which received hearty applause as did a vocal number by little Miss Pauline Jane Art. Pupils of the fifth and sixth grades presented a clever playlet entitled "Persephone," which was interspersed with songs directed by Miss Cook.

Following the program Miss Fields' room was given the picture for having the largest per cent of mothers present at the meeting while Miss Kate Haynes' room was second. Mrs. T. M. Conroy, retiring president, was presented with a lovely gift in appreciation of her untiring work done the past year, the presentation being made by Mrs. Leslie Humphrey in behalf of the club.

BIBLE WORKERS HOLD REGULAR CONFERENCE.

The Bible school Workers' conference of the First Baptist church met for its regular monthly session in the church parlors at seven o'clock Friday evening, May 1, with an attendance of eighty-five workers.

Reports from the various departments showed an enrollment in the main Sunday school of 2319, with an average wekely attendance of 1237. Of this number there were 501 one hundred per cent (honor roll) pupils and five one hundred per cent classes. The cradle roll enrollment of 443 and the home department enrollment of 183 makes the total enrollment of the Sunday school 2845.

On account of the illness of Mr. W. E. George, Mr. LeRoy Moore, educational director, presided at the meeting, announcing that the daily vacation Bible school will begin its sessions on Monday, June 1, in the church basement; that the organized Bible class convention will meet in Dallas, May 16 to 18, inclusive; and that during the coming week various departments of the Sunday school will hold mother-teacher-pupil get-together meetings. May 10 is designated as "Home-Coming Day," at which time the school expects to have an attendance of at least two thousand.

Two Candidates for State Head of Women's Clubs To Address Canyon Convention

CANYON CITY, May 1.—Two candidates for state president of Texas Federation of Women's clubs will be on the program of the seventh district federation meeting here May 4, 5, 6.

Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie is scheduled for an address on "The Club and the Home", while Mrs. J. U. Field of Haskell will speak on "The Joys of Citizenship". Both have announced for the state presidency.

The departments of citizenship and the American Home will furnish the principal features of the convention.

Mrs. Reese Tatum of Amarillo, president of the district federation, has chosen for the subject of her annual address "Doctrine of Happiness", to be delivered on president's evening, when Mrs. R. A. Underwood of Plainview, second vice-president of the district, will preside.

On the music department program, the principal address noted is by Wallace R. Clark, head of the music department, West Texas State Teachers college of Canyon with the subject, "literature, the basis of song". An outdoor luncheon in Palo Duro canyon near here Wednesday afternon is one of the the entertainment features of the meeting.

Methodists To Present "The Rock"

"THE ROCK," a Biblical play depicting the life of Simon Peter, will be presented on Tuesday, May 26, by a cast of young people as a part of the young people's week sponsored by the Methodist association of the city.

The cast has been announced as Deborah, Mrs. J. S. Pitman; Adnia, her daughter, Miss Thelma Cain; Mary of Magdala, Miss Marguerite Fisher; Simon Peter, R. W. Porter; Ucal of Jerusalem, Harold White; Pandira, the Greek, Baldwin Montgomery; Titus, the Roman officer, mmett Bauchknight, and Agur, the physician, Gordon Harris.

All of the members of the cast have appeared in a number of amateur productions in the city and are well known to followers of the drama locally. The play was selected by the Federated Council of the Churches of America as the most representative play of religious drama ever produced, according to the announcement.

It calls for elaborate staging consisting of five scenes in three acts, and will be produced at one of the local theatres.

BUSINESS GIRLS CLASS BANQUET

The tables were prettily decorated in the spring flowers. A cash prize was offered to the group who had the prettiest decorations for their table. Group number 10 won the prize. They used as a center piece for the table a fish pond, with a border of pretty flowers.

Mrs. C. H. Hartsook, teacher of the class presided over the dinner. After the guests were all introduced Raybon Porter sang several numbers; Miss Marguerite Fisher gave readings and Misses Ottie Keeling and Hill sang.

About sixty-five guests and members were present.

The Bride-to-Be Assembles Her Trousseau

THE TROUSSEAU whose every component part contributes to a perfect whole is achieved by the Bride who chooses her shopping place with fastidious and discriminating care.

Such a Bride, with such a Trousseau, will know the pleasure of starting her new life with only the finer possessions. Each of which—from the ribbon in her lingerie, to the becoming hat upon her head—reflects the taste of its owner and the quality of its source.

Her Lingerie

—Each article will be selected with infinite care for its quality, its coloring, its dainty finishing touches and finally its personal appeal to the bride. Quite wisely she chooses a white bridal set of trousseau silk trimmed in hand made val fillet lace and embroidered and tucked combination, with satin orange blossoms and ribbons. The slip is a fitted bodice effect tucked with squares and scalloped bottom. The teds have lace insets and yoke and scalloped bottom, and the gown is fashioned the same. Baby blue is the color of the negligee of trousseau silk. It has medallion insets, lace patch pockets and net and lace medallions on the bottom. The boudoir cap is of sheered satin and silk lace with basque ribbon woven top adorned with French hand made orange blossoms and French bow. Completing the intimate trousseau is a pair of black satin boudoir slippers with quilted vamp and Baby Louis heels.

Her Ensemble

For a going-away costume she chooses the Ensemble because of its versatility, it makes a particularly happy choice for traveling and convenience. The Coat is of Natural Kasha with gray caracule collar. It is simply trimmed with black embroidery and buttons. The dress is a printed Crepe affair with a blending of ocean green, black, medaline rose, and natural colors.

The Hat

Adorning her pretty head will be a Harrison model of French Hair Braid with felt brim. It is in cocoa shade and is trimmed in velvet ribbon and flowers blending from cocoa to Madaline Rose.

The Shoes

Are of Blonde Kid Satin with black patent quarter and a thing banding of patent around the vamp. The one-strap is also of patent; fastening on the side with two buttons. Spike heels and medium round toes make them dressy and give a tailored effect also.

The Hose

The Bag

Is a "Passport" style of black and leopard tucked moire with natural lining, completely in accord with her costume.

The Gloves

Afternoon Frock

The Bride who is married in the spring needs many frocks and for the afternoon she chooses a bright creation of Printed Taffeta and Handpainted Chiffon. It is beaded and braided and colorful indeed in its hues of white, black, navy and rose, and a corsage of Cosmos Flowers at the side and shoulders. Making the design more attractive is the Chiffon Yoke and Basket effect Skirt of White Taffeta Silk.

The Hat

The Shoes

Which attracted her are White Kidskin Pumps with a gore hidden under a dainty bow of self material. They have 2 1-4 inch spike heels and round toes.

The Hose

She chooses to harmonize with her afternoon frock Kaiser all-Silk Chiffon Hose of the new maize color. They have a handpainted design of a woman done in Venetian Blue which enhances her trim ankle.

The Bag

Which she proudly carries is an imported beaded model with cut steel and rhinestone combination forming dainty square designs of blue. On her arm are ivory bracelets of onyx and amber with rhinestone settings.

The Coat

Dinner Gown

In her trousseau one will find a beautiful dinner gown. It is of snowy white Georgette. Simple of design, it is of the silhouette type made vivacious and colorful by tiers of diagonal Babbs beading of rainbow hues around the skirt. Underneath is a slip of white satin and gold lace, to give the costume a soft and subtle effect.

The Hat

The Shoes

Carrying out the motif of simplicity, White Satin Slippers adorn her feet. A beautiful one-strap model, chaste in its whiteness has modified toes and 2 1-4 spike heels. They may be tinted to harmonize with the multi-colored trimming of her gown if she so desires.

The Hose

The Hose, of course, are white. They are Kaiser all-Silk Chiffon of spider web sheerness and are full fashioned.

The Handkerchief

In her hand she will carry a dainty Georgette Handkerchief in the corner of which is a handpainted orange blossom design giving the bridal effect.

For Her Beauty

Lubin, Rosine, and others send to P. B. M. Company cunning portions and liquids to preserve the bride's first bloom and loveliness. She chooses from Amaryllis extract and toilet water, Nuit deChine extract and toilet water, Talc Bath Salts, Face Powdre, and Rouge Lip Stick. Also another article that attracts her fancy is a Gold and Rose combination Perfumizer.

Her Luggage

It is quite natural that she should choose her luggage with discriminating care, and wisely she chooses a Wheary Cushion Top Wardrobe Trunk with specially designed hardware and reinforced drawers, laundry bag, dust curtain, removable shoe box, convertable hat compartment, and removable ironing board and iron holder. It is lined with the finest plush and best washable linings.
There is a ladies' case with hat box to match. They are of brown deer skin with heavy shirred linings and polished hardware.

Schumann-Heink Warned At Fifteen She Would Never Become a Singer of Note

FOUND IN CONVENT

From Early Life She Had Struggled to Be a Great Singer

Mme. Schumann-Heink today, and (inset) as she looked when she was 50

NEW YORK, May 2.—A half century ago an eager young girl stood before a famous grand opera conductor in Vienna.

He spoke to her with brutal frankness, and his words wilted her youthful soul:

"You have neither the face nor the figure," he told her. "You'd better give up the idea of singing. Buy a sewing machine and go to work. It's certain you'll never be a singer."

But she DID become a singer. The little girl, then 15, was the woman of 65 we know today as Mme. Schumann-Heink, world famous contralto.

The most interesting news of the season among music lovers is that at 65 Schumann-Heink is coming back to the Metropolitan opera house to sing Wagnerian roles!

The famous contralto is the oldest star of her magnitude to return to the operatic stage after singing her formal farewell. Eames and Sembrich retired at the age of 42, Calve at 47, Gadski at 44, Tetrazzini at 40, and de Reszke at 53, each one giving up an operatic career forever, either to teach music or sing occasionally in concert.

Discovered in Convent

The story of Mme. Schumann-Heink's career covers a period of 50 years full of early heartbreaking struggles for recognition and later brilliant triumphs.

She had cherished a dream of fame as a singer ever since she was a child. Her father, although living on the small pay of an Austrian army officer, had inflated ideas of his aristocratic position and refused to hear of a stage career for his girl. She was sent to the Ursuline convent in Prague to keep her out of any such mischief. Her extraordinary voice was discovered there by a nun who assigned her to sing at mass.

Young Ernestine Roessler did not know she had a contralto voice—nor even what a contralto voice was, until a former French prima donna visited the convent and became so struck with the girl that she undertook to cultivate her voice. Local fame led to the trial before the conductor at Vienna who nearly broke the eager young girl's heart with his rude verdict.

His stinging words so shattered her illusions and self-confidence that she had returned home to help her little Italian mother with the housework when through the diva who had heard her sing in the convent, came an invitation to sing in the Royal opera at Dresden. She left home on the pretext of a visiting a girl in the country. To her parent's amazement she appeared again in a few days with a contract to sing in the Dresden opera at $900 a year. In her fourth year there she married, and the contract was broken.

After several years of married life, during which four children were born, th husband abandoned his family. In this dark period the singer ran into debt for the most meagre food and clothing for the children, and in the end had to surrender all her cherished personal possessions to the sheriff in payment.

Success at Last

As a last desperate struggle for elusive fame she accepted a place in the Stadt theatre in Hamburg. Then came the great chance which is the hope of every aspiring young actress or singer. The first contralto refused one night to sing "Carmen." With practically no preparation, Mme. Heink stepped into the role and achieved an astonishing success. She "arrived" at last.

Divorced in 1893, the diva married Paul Schumann, actor-manager of the Thalia theatre, Hamburg. They had four children, making eight in all born to Schumann-Heink. Her children, aside from her operatic career, have always been her main concern and joy in life. She sang the night her first child was born, making her adieus to the audience at 10 o'clock, and at 11 was under the care of a nurse—she had no doctor. In three days she was up and about, and in a fortnight resumed her work, which meant 30 appearances a month. For a few days after the childbirth she temporarily lost her voice, but recovered it shortly afterward with a note added. It has been her boast that for each of her eight experiences in motherhood she has been rewarded with an extra note.

In 1905 Mme. Schumann-Heink was married to William Rapp, Jr., a Chicago lawyer, 12 years younger than herself. The marriage terminated unhappily with a divorce in 1914. She explained it was a case of husband of children, and she could not give up the latter.

She has always been careful, however, not to permit her beloved domestic affairs to intrude on her on her public life. It was while on a concert tour of the country during the war that she first heard the news of the death of her son, sunk with a German submarine. Great-hearted as ever, she realized her manager's predicament if she did not appear, and sang with a face like death to an audience of 10,000 people. The audience had not been told of her tragic loss, but very little intuition was needed to sense an acute and fearful situation.

The prima donna's first appearance in America was in Chicago as Ortr[illegible] in the year 1898. Her success was artistic hold over her audiences has strengthened every year she has sung. In 1909 she became a naturalized veitizen of the United States because, she said, Germany praised her but America paid her. At the height of her career, concert work alone yielded her an income of $135,000 a year, in addition to a yearly royalty of $47,000 for phonograph records of her voice. She is an excellent business woman and has cannily invested her earnings in real estate.

RESCUE ABANDONED.

Water Pressure Balks Divers' Rescue Efforts in Baltimore Harbor.

BALTIMORE, May 2.—Hope for the rescue of George Schirmer, 53, a machinist, who is believed to have been imprisoned in the cabin of the tug Kentucky when the craft sank in the harbor here today, was abandoned tonight after efforts of divers to enter the cabin were thwarted by the heavy water pressure.

An attempt to raise the Kentucky will be made tomorrow, but it is believed that Schirmer, if in the virtually airtight chamber, will have exhausted the air supply by that time and have perished.

Three other men on the tug and seven shipyard workers leaped into the harbor as the tug toppled from the marine railway of the shipbuilding company while being raised for repairs and were saved.

GOLF NO DIVORCE GROUND.

Judge Refuses to Set Precedent Being a Player Himself.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Golf "widowhood" was unsuccessfully pleaded today as ground for divorce. The petitioner said her husband, though a hopeless "duffer" with a wretched drive, spent most of his time on the links.

"Golf is not yet grounds for divorce," ruled Judge Joseph J. Sabath in denying the petition. "It would be a dangerous precedent—I play golf myself."

Fund Is Growing For LaGrange Monument

LAGRANGE, May 2.—The Valeria Zapalac memorial fund being collected here by B. F. Harigel, local editor, for erection of a monument to the girl who was killed while resisting attacks of William Langhorn, Jr., on her and her sister, is growing steadily. School children of the entire county are taking interest in the solicitation and varied sums are being contributed regularly.

FAY BAINTER TESTIFIES.

Stage Star Admits Liquor Was Served at Party in Toronto.

TORONTO, May 2.—Fay Bainter, musical comedy star, admitted to Coroner G. W. Graham today that whisky and beer had been served at a masquerade party at a local hotel which preceded the death of Carl A. Lynn, a member of the cast of the musical comedy, "The Dream Girl." Lynn died from injuries received in a fall down a stairway. Miss Bainter, star of the production, denied in her testimony yesterday that intoxicants were served.

Noble Sissle and Eubie Blake, negroes appearing in "The Chocolate Dandies," were arrested for having liquor in their possession following the party. Sissle was fined $50 and Blake was discharged.

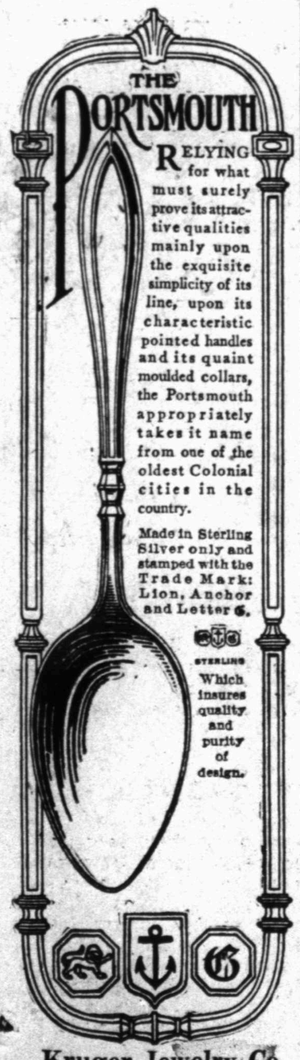

CONVICT GASSED IN CELL.

BRESLAU, May 2.—Barricaded in his cell, Fritz Heinze, a condemned convict, held off the city police force with a pistol today until they threw mattresses against his window, poked the end of a gaspipe beneath the door and turned on the gas. Heinze shot himself as the fumes began to choke him.

The desperado had been sentenced to death for killing the warden's wife and daughter in the same jail last autumn.

TEXAS COTTON CO-OPERATIVE.

There are thousands of cotton growers in Texas who are co-operatives. Aaron Sapiro is their legal advisor. He has been connected prominently for many years with co-operative marketing organizations of farmers and fruit growers throughout the country. He organized the orange growers of California. He organized the tobacco growers of Kentucky and Tennessee. He organized cotton growers throughout the south.

Henry Ford's newspaper accused Sapiro of being in a conspiracy to get control of the wheat, cotton, potato, hop, hay, tobacco, raisin and bean markets of America.

Aaron Sapiro has a defense. He asserts that he has been active for fifteen years in building up marketing associations for agricultural product and that he has not served in any way except as his services were requested. His services have been in demand. Those who were familiar with the history of co-operative marketing say that Sapiro has represented, in a legal way, more than 80 organizations of farmer and fruit growers.

His principal backer and advisor is Barney Baruch. Barney Baruch is not foreign born. He is a native of South Carolina. His father was a distinguished surgeon in the army of Lee.

He invaded Wall street in his youth. He cleared up a large fortune. He was close to Woodrow Wilson. He is one of the right hand men of William Gibbs McAdoo. For a number of years he has interested himself in the cause of the farmer and the co-operative theory found in him a powerful champion.

Having accumulated millions in Wall street Barney retired from the game. His excuse was that he had all the money that any one man needed, that he would like to do something for his fellows.

Aaron Sapiro is a native of the Buckeye state. There is a tradition that his family was ambitious for him to become a rabbi. He couldn't see it that way. He preferred the law. He has been a winner. Baruch was his advisor. Now he is the plaintiff in a million dollar suit and Henry Ford is the defendant.

Henry Ford loves publicity at the right time. Sapiro loves publicity. The flivver man and the legal advisor of the co-operatives are going to get millions of dollars worth of advertising before a jury shall return a verdict in the Sapiro case.

Sapiro will get his ideas of co-operation before the people. And an adverse verdict will do no damage to the Michigan billionaire. On with the battle.

WHY NOT TEXAS.

Why shouldn't Texas be the home of the textile industry? The recent survey made by Burt C. Blanton shows the operating cost of Texas cotton mills is about 20 per cent lower than the average for mills in the New England states.

He says the labor cost in textile mills is representative of 45 per cent of the total cost of mill operation and that today the cost of labor in Texas mills is 40 per cent lower than that of mills in the New England states.

He says Texas has an unlimited supply of textile mill workers and no difficulty has been experienced in securing such workers for the new cotton mills which have been completed and placed for operation in this state during the last year.

Furthermore, he says Texas labor is available at all times, easily trained and highly efficient. If Texas has all these advantages over the manufacturing states of New England, it will a difficult job for the champions of tax exemptions of the factories to win to their cause the lawmakers of the commonwealth.

It will be necessary for the lawmakers in the near future to provide additional revenue for the cause of education and the maintenance of all the institutions of the state. This is one of the reasons why lawmakers are saying that an extra session of the thirty-ninth legislature will be held before the close of the year 1925 or in the month of January, 1926.

Then the recommendations will go in again from the office of the chief executive that a tax shall be levied on manufactured cigars and cigarettes which will produce a revenue of $5,000,000 a year to be used as a building fund for the institutions of higher education and the tax on gasoline will be advanced to 3c the gallon, the additional revenue to be placed to the credit of the state highway construction and maintenance fund.

Seven American commonwealths have advanced the tax to 3c per gallon and others are on the way. It is the contention of the lawmakers of the seven states which have advanced the tax to 3c and their fellow lawmakers in other states who are ready to walk in the beaten path that those who make use of the public highways the most should contribute the largest share of the tax money to provide for their construction and maintenance. Should the gasoline proposal be resubmitted there is going to be an interesting battle.

FOREIGNERS STOCKING UP.

New Orleans cotton exporters say that the total exports for the season will exceed 8,000,000 bales. This is a staggering record. They say that stocks of cotton in the routh and at ports are diminishing rapidly, holding out the prospects that there will hardly be more cotton left in the United States at the end of the season then there was last year.

These foreigners are wise. They are filling their warehouses. They fear a famine crop this year. American millers are not stocking up. Japanese, millers are stocking up. If cotton goes to 30c this year the American and not the foreign buyer will be the one who will be pinched.

Advices from the coast country indicates that there has been a large acreage planted with cotton, and despite the drouth the condition of the growing crop is regarded as very favorable.

All through West Texas the drouth has been broken. It has been broken in North and North Central Texas. There is going to be plenty of cotton this year to meet the demands of the home as well as the foreign market.

Texas growers are going to be in evidence as they have been in evidence in bygone years.

TRACING WEATHER TO THE SUN.

In the efforts of scientists to trace weather conditions to variations of solar heat, several different theories must be reconciled before complete success is attained. There are at present at least three methods of determining variations of solar heat. The first and most general is to measure the cycles of sun spot activity, which correspond to the increase and decrease of solar heat. The second, which has hardly been attempted although it has been glanced at, is to estimate the influence of the absorption of heat by the earth's atmosphere. The third, which is the most practical and thorough, is to determine the daily variations of solar heat in cloudless and warm places on the earth.

This last method has been carried to a high point of perfection under the direction of Charles Greely Abbot, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institute. After considerable investigation, two stations for observation purposes were established in high cloudless altitudes, one in Chile and the other in Arizona. Results have been so satisfactory that many other stations are planned. The two stations now in operation have agreed within one-half of one per cent in measuring solar variations. They have established the fact that even a difference of only one per cent is enough to have a decided effect upon the weather. The average is about three per cent, although at times variations exceed five per cent.

Differences such as these are sufficient to shift for a hundred miles the centers for low and high pressure. So great an alteration in the direction of the winds which blow to and from these centers produces decided weather changes. But, of course, the effect would be enormously increased with the accumulation of heat through long periods of solar variations. And here is where some reconciliation must be effected with the sun spot cycles. It is known that each of these cycles generally covers about ten and a half years, and that they continue through a period of increasing activity of about fifty years. Their results have been noted in floods and drouths, in vegetable growth and animal propagation, the cycles of which closely correspond with them.

The difficulty in working out a theory in regard to the sun spots has been due to the observation that when the greatest period of sun spot activity occurs we have our coolest weather. It has been impossible so far to account for this dissimilarity. But a probable explanation is that the greater heat extracts more moisture from the rocks of the earth, and that the increased amount of moisture in the atmosphere serves to keep the earth cool. More moisture means greater atmospheric changes so that activity in the sun and on the earth correspond after all.

THE TASK OF PHILOSOPHERS.

What is the task which philosophers set themselves to perform; and why do they philosophize at all?

William James suggested that the reply is: They desire to attain a conception of the frame of things which shall on the whole be more rational than that somewhat chaotic view which every one by nature carries under his hat.

The facts of the world in their sensible diversity are always before us, but our theoretic need is that they should be conceived in a way that reduces their manifoldness to simplicity.

Our pleasure at finding that a chaos of facts is the expression of a single underlying fact is like the relief of a musician at resolving a confused mass of sound into melodic or harmonic order. The simplified result is handled with far less mental effort than the original data. The philosopher has done our thinking work for us.

In view of this, it is interesting to examine some observations of a philosopher on thinking. Emerson wrote:

"The growth of the intellect is spontaneous in every step. The mind that grows could not predict the times, the means, the mode of that spontaneity. God enters by a private door into each individual. Long prior to the age of reflection is the thinking of the mind. Out of darkness it came insensibly into the light of to-day. In the period of infancy it accepted and disposed of all impressions from the surrounding creation after its own way.

"Whatever any mind doeth or saith is after a law. It has no random act or word. And this native law remains over it after it has come to reflection or conscious thought. Over it always reigned a firm law.

"In the most worn, pedantic introverted self-tormentor's life, the greatest part is incalculable by him, unforseen, unimaginable, and must be, until he can take himself up by his own ears. What am I? What has my will done to make me what I am? Nothing. I have been floated into this thought, this hour, this connection of events, by might and mind sublime, and my ingenuity and wilfulness have not been thwarted."

"You cannot with your best deliberation and heed come so close to the question as your spontaneous glance shall bring you.

"Always our thinking is a pious reception. Our truth of thought is therefore vitiated as much by too violent direction given by our will, as by too great negligence.

"We do not determine what we will think. We only open our senses, clear away as we can all obstruction from the fact, and suffer the intellect to see.

"We have little control over our thoughts.

WHERE INDIANS ARE PROSPEROUS.

Canada has a total number of Indians, according to a late count, of 106,000. They own 5,000,000 acres of land, and the amount of bank funds held in trust for them is almost $12,000,000. They own livestock worth $5,000,000, and personal property worth $65,000,000.

There are about 326 schools provided by the government for their education, and the average attendance at these is 13,000 pupils out of a possible 16,000 of school age. About 10,000 Canadian Indians still cling to their ancient belief and of the remainder are half Protestants and half Roman Catholics.

Among their number are many of the most successful farmers in Canada. They are self sustaining, self reliance and are marching with the procession. This is the way the Canadians handle their Indians. This isn't the way the rulers of Mexico have handled the Indian Peons of that country.

ENGLISH CRADLES ARE EMPTY.

A doleful tale comes from London. Just as many marriages have been performed in the years since the war, but last year the birth rate dropped to 18 a thousand, the lowest level ever reached in England exceptin gthe abnormal years in the closing half of the great war. There is a reason for it. There are 2,000,000 men and women wage workers who are idle and the population is 2,000,000 greater than it was when the war closed.

The GILDED ROSE

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY

Rosilyn Page, the hard-worked daughter of a Long Island inn keeper, finds herself on his death, heiress of a huge fortuue. She is deeply in love with

Landis Ridgeway, a charming young fellow in financial difficulties, who visits the inn regularly for 10 years, and was always kind to the lonely girl. His heart has been broken by the faithlessness of

Lydia Harbrook, beautiful and utterly heartless woman of the world who is planning to marry

Mrs. Florence Ridgeway, Landis' mother fearing poverty invites Rosilyn to visit her and her son, and induces Landis to marry Rosilyn, although he loathes himself for taking her advice. Immediately after the ceremony, Rosilyn overhears gossip in which she learns that Landis has married her for her money—she hears herself spoken of as a Gilded Rose. Heartbroken, she prepares to leave on her wedding journey.

How useless were these writhings! He was hers, hers—and always would be hers—no matter if she married the Van Vorst millions tomorrow!

She smiled to herself at the memory of the desperate interview the two of them had had, down at the lonely marshland inn. It had added piquancy to the occasion, and the necessary spice of danger, that Van Vorst himself—unknowing of her nearness—had been sleeping in the inn that night! What would he say if he had known? Had he any idea of the feeling that she had for Landis? Lydia's histrionic sense was highly developed, and even here in Paris she could visualize the scene.

There would be many more such scenes in her young life, she told herself. They fed her vanity. They gave her such a sense of power.

But never, never would she let Ladis Ridgeway stray from his allegiance to her. Married to old Van Vorst, Landis would be doubly hers, because millions of money would be backing her. She would tangle Landis ever more and more securely in these millions, so that extraction—(here she gave a complacent smile at the very thought the he might wish to escape! how too absurd it was!—so that extraction would be quite impossible.

At the pace he was going, no chance that Van Vorst would linger long on earth. His constitution was already undermined by gourmandizing and excesses. To doctors' warnings he paid little heed.

The obvious thing to do was to marry him while the sun shone, see that the settlements were all in order, keep out of his orbit as much as possible, enjoy herself with Landis and other fascinating swains, and patiently await a rich young widowhood!

Such power as would be hers, then! Riches and power and homage!

Lydia's Adorers

"Beautiful lady, I am desolated by your silence," gallantly murmured the Vicomte at Lydia's side as they rode together in the Bois. "Of what, pray, are you thinking so intently??"

Lydia flashed her enchanting smile at the infatuated boy. Once married to Van Vorst, the Vicomte still would be her cavalier, she knew. Really the French were much more sensible in these matters than the English-speaking peoples!

"I was thinking that if I'd lived a century or two ago, I'd have been a du Barry or a Pompadour! The role of King's favourite would have fitted me exactly. Money, power, position, homage, I could want nothing more of life!"

The Vicomte moved his chestnut mare nearer the speaker. A blue flame glinted in his eyes.

"No dead-and-gone King's mistress was ever lovelier than you are, enchantress! If it were only in my power—"

"But it isn't." Lydia cut him short. "Your mother will choose for you a really eligible 'partie,' with—I hope—oodles of money—all the money that an extravagant boy like you requires. You're like me, my friend, a real artist when it comes to spending. So both of us must marry money. That's a fact."

"You are as cruelly practical as you are beautiful." He gazed at her. "If I can't have you, then I desire no other wife."

Lydia flung him a truly killing ogle. Artificial as he was, the flattery pleased her.

"Nonsense, Rene. You will be a good boy, and marry a monument of all the virtues, which I certainly am not."

She gave her horse a sharp cut with her riding crop, and they trotted rapidly up the lovely thoroughfare, turning to the left just by the Arc de Triomphe, and entering the famous avenue, which was gay with exquisite women in the latest fashion, and luxurious motor cars, and horsemen.

Admiring looks were flung at them. This was Lydia's milieu, and she expanded to it as a sunflower does towards the sun.

The tender green of grass and tree and shrub, the gorgeous "apartments" and buildings, white as wedding cakes made a delightful background for the kaleidoscope of colour that is Paris on a Sunday morning.

They reached the Bois, which looked like fairyland, so exquisite it was, with winding paths, and here and there a glimpse of water, like fairy pools amid the tracery of green. Birds carolled happily among the branches, and the air was soft and gentle, like a benediction.

"A blessing that he isn't here," she told herself philosophically, "or who knows what madness I'd commit! I might even throw Van Vorst over, and live to regret it all my days!"

Later, they drew their horses to a halt outside that famous Sunday morning rendezvous for riders in the Bois, the little hotel smothered in shrubbery and foliage, where the waiters rush about the lawns with trays of cocktails and "brioches" for the innumerable guests.

There was a whole line of other thirsty riders, refreshing themselves in the saddle, and here and there a horse would curvet restlessly, with a jangle of bridle and a champing of the bit.

Assisted by Toinette, Lydia soon made a lightning change into the gorgeous Premet model, and was whirled off to the Ritz in Steve Van Vorst's Delaunay-Belleville.

The gay and ultra-fashionable throng collected there intrigued her mightily. Surely never were such frocks!

"How the old glutton gobbles!" Lydia thought. Aloud she said, very sweetly:—

"What a marvellous connoisseur you are in choosing a meal! You make a poem of it!"

He was flattered.

"Such gallantry! I'm honored!"

She was thinking:

"He's like an over-stuffed bufffroz with those bulgy eyes of his! And how he croaks!"

The big car took them to the races Longchamps on this sunny day of spring was exquisite, with its snow-white stands ablaze with early flowers, its perfect lawns and its enchanting vistas of young green, and swaying trees.

They headed for the paddock, to inspect the horses.

Then came a visit to the betting kiosks.

Aloud she said, ever so sweetly:—

"How awfully kind and generous you are! But please don't put it on each way—I'm all out to win!"

"Hardup, are you?"

"Chronically!" She gave a little laugh as thrilling as a bird.

"Then I'll make it five hundred francs. The odds are three to one."

Luck attended her the whole of that delightful afternoon. When the Delaunay-Belleville bore them off from Longchamps into the cool depths of the forest, eight thousand francs were tucked away in her ivory-and-satin bag.

CHAPTER XVI.

That Page Girl's Wedding

You're a winner, Lyddy, in more ways than one!" croaked old Van Vorst squeezing her hand under the fur rug that wrapped their knees, for the car was open and the spring winds treacherous.

She gave a tiny shiver at the touch of him. The "Lyddy" grated, also. But she must not show it.

"Cold?" He moved still nearer.

"I'm all right."

"Lucky at racing—what's the proverb?"

She laughed gaily, drawing a little away from him. She could not bear that pudgy hand another moment.

"D'you mean cards and love? If you're lucky in one, you're unlucky in the other."

Lydia stiffened, and her heart almost missed a beat.

"I don't quite understand you. D'you mean I'd be unlucky if I scared for Landis Ridgeway, because he's poor? Or what?"

"You wouldn't be such a damn fool as to marry him, my dear. You know which side your bread is buttered. But maybe I meant that the high-and-mighty Mr. Ridgeway has other irons in the fire?"

Lydia forced another careless laugh, good actress as she was.

"If you mean the plain Page chit who's been visiting his mother, you can put that idea out of your head. His aesthetic sense would never let him—"

"She's a gilded Rose, my dear!" With fine scorn Lydia substituted:

"A sugared pill, you mean! And to a lover of beauty and breeding, such as Landis, not even the sugar could make her palatable!"

Van Vorst's bulbous eyes narrowed in a crafty way.

"Maybe, now that she's got the means to dress up like the rest of you, she's not so homely as you'd think. Ugly ducklings have been known to change, you know. I saw the pair of them at the opera back home in New York, only four or five weeks ago, and between acts their box was crowded with admiring swains. She looked quite pretty and quite animated."

Lydia tossed her head.

"Rose colored spectacles, my friend! Or rather, golden ones!"

"Well, what's the difference? You're not the girl to belittle money, are you?"

She caught the querulous note and hesitated to smooth the matter over.

"Landis can marry fifty heiresses, for all I care." She got the words out somehow.

"Oh, it isn't as bad as that." Van Vorst's good humor was restored again. "I only meant to say that he'd been attentive to the child, and no doubt his mother wishes something would come of it, for the Ridgeway family's up to the neck in debt."

Lydia said nothing, but was thinking:

"I've been away six weeks, and that's quite a long enough. It's time we made up our little engagement."

Plans formed quickly in her mind, and when the car drew up at the Pre-Catalan—that lovely restaurant set amid the forest—her brow was clear again.

She forced herself to dance with Van Vorst, but—luckily for her—that bulky, gentleman soon got out of breath. They returned to their table, where tea and "petit fours" and a whole variety of pastries awaited them.

Her escort had a weakness for "patisserie", and did full justice to the fare.

A willowy "professional" approached them, asking Lydia to dance. He was a chocolate-eyed young man, lean to emaciation.

Lydia performed the Blues with an exotic grace not usually to be seen in that peculiar dance. Van Vorst's bulbous eyes followed her with approval.

Later that evening, at the Cafe de Paris, they saw the same young man again. He gave an exhibition dance, his partner an extraordinarily slender, olive-skinned girl whose appearance somehow seemed vaguely familiar to Miss Harbrook.

He chuckled.

"Don't you remember Marietta, a pal of Ridgeway's?"

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

"Here, take out one of those pillows!" grumbled Warren. "And fix that curtain—shines right in my eyes. Where's my handkerchief?"

"Why, you just had it," Helen drew the heavy damask curtain. "There—under your pillow."

"Jove, I feel rocky! Think I've got a fever?"

"No, dear," feeling his forehead. "But all that rich food last night—with your cold—to burden your stomach with steak and kidney pie and that stewed cheese!"

"Huh, that never hurt me. You want to stuff a cold. Got a handglass? Let's have a look at my throat. Turn on that light! Hold it here!"

"Thought so — inflamed! All red—and sore as blazes! This rotten London weather! Here's where I have a doctor."

"Open wider!" peering over his shoulder. "Why, dear, it doesn't look inflamed to me."

"Doesn't, eh?" belligerently. "My throat—guess I know how it feels. Got a temperature, too. Now you get a doctor! Call down to the office."

"Here's Higgins with the lemons. We'll ask him."

"I brought some sugar, too, ma'am," the valet placed a tray on the table. "Higgins, Mr. Curtis thinks he ought to have a doctor. Is there any here in the house?"

"Put in a lot!" hunching up the covers. "Good for a cold."

In the huge, dreary English bathroom, Helen heated the water on the alcohol tea-stand, an appointment of their "service" flat.

What if they could not sail Saturday? Only two more days!

But Warren was always an alarmist. His slightest pain or ache always serious.

Leaving the water to heat, she ran back to his impatient summons.

"Why I thought you were all through? Isn't he to deliver them tomorrow?"

"Only the two suits. Wants another try-on for the overcoat. But tell him to go ahead and finish it up."

"Wadley & Brooks, isn't it? What's the number?"

"Look in my pocket. Other side!" as she fumbled in his coat on the chair. "And while you're at it, call up the Army & Navy 'bout those shirts."

"Dear, here comes Judkins! Now I'll ask her about that hot-water bag."

"I'll ask the 'ousekeeper, m'am. But we mostly use the jugs here."

"Now, dear, take a little of this," urged Helen, when she brought in the lemonade. "Too hot?" at his muttered invective. "You want it hot."

"Don't want to scald my innards. Ugh, sour! No sherry in that!"

"Yes. I put in a lot. Drink it! There, doesn't that warm you? Now if you could take a little nap?" hopefully, straightening the covers.

"Well, I can't! Feel too rotten to sleep."

"Shall I read to you?" taking up the "Telegraph." "Stormy Scene in House of Commons.' No? Here's an editorial on 'Labor Unrest in America'."

"Oh, these personals! Dear, they're too funny for words! Listen to this:

"'F. W. No letter. All is forgiven. H. L.'

"'Have you forgotten? I must see you. Marie'."

"Here, pass up that slush! Do somethin' for this headache!"

"Dear, if you'd try not to think of it——"

"Huh, that not-thinking-of-it may work with you — but I'm SICK! Don't that feel hot?" pressing her hand to his forehead.

"Why, you just had that hot lemonade—and that jug to your feet."

Only a delivery boy with a package.

"Your shirts. Now I won't have to phone. Do you want to see them?"

"No! And don't want to be read to, either!" as she took up the paper.

"Then try to take a nap — and I'll pack. If I must go to the bank and to Suckling's tomorrow — I ought to get some of the packing done today."

"Ought to pack in an hour! You make hard work of everything," he flopped over.

In London two weeks, Helen had displayed in the sitting room her bought-on-the - Continent treasures. Needlework pictures, snuff boxes, bits of old crystal and ivory. These she now collected to pack first.

"Why don't you do your packin' in here?" bellowed Warren, resenting being left alone.

"I had to get these," entering, her arms full. "Oh, she threw out that tissue paper," opening the wardrobe "Now I'll have to wrap them in newspaper."

"Worryin' a darn sight more 'bout that packin' than you are 'bout me! Here give me another pillow! Heat this thing! Where's that hot-water bag she was to dig up? And where's Higgins? What 'bout that doctor?"

"If he doesn't come soon, I'll call down. There, that more comfy?" patiently, putting back the pillow he had ordered removed. "Now I'll heat this."

In the bathroom the water only lukewarm, she again resorted to the alcohol tea-kettle.

"How long's it take you?" rumbled Warren. "What're you doin' in there?"

"What happened? Burn yourself? Bring any of that pain-cure?"

"No, I haven't a thing," tremulously.

"Well don't think 'bout it — that's what you tell me. See who that is! Maybe it's the doctor."

Helen ushered him into the bedroom. But intent on her smarting hand, she was oblivious to the introductory questions and brief examination.

"No temperature?" bristled Warren. "Felt feverish all day!"

"Nothing but a heavy cold," cassing his thermometer. "Our fogs don't always agree with you Americans."

"What 'bout this sore throat? What're you goin' to do for that?"

"Just a slight irritation. Keep warm and don't overload your stomach. Mostly slops for a day or two."

"But, see here, doctor, we're booked to sail Saturday. Think I can risk it?"

"Best thing you could do. The sea air will cure that cold."

"If you're sailing Saturday, perhaps you'll pay me my fee now."

"Certainly. What do I owe you?" brusqued Warren.

"Give me my wallet!" ordered Warren. "There, in my coat."

The five crisp pound-notes counted out lacked five shillings to make the five guineas.

"Look in my trouser pocket. Any change there?"

Instead of waiving the change, Sir Harvey waited with British impassivity, while Helen made up the five shillings with sixpenses and coppers.

A formal, "Thank you," an austere bow, and he strode out.

"Twenty-five dollars!" gasped Helen, "and he waited for the last farthing! Why did you pay it? Why didn't you say it was too much?"

"Soaked us, all right!" giving the pillow an irate punch. "Sir Harvey Dring!". with a snort. "Guess we paid for the handle. No more British doctors for me! Twenty-five bucks to be told to eat slops!"

"Slops I suppose he meant broths. Dear, that was an OUTRAGEOUS fee! He wasn't here five minutes, and he didn't even — — Oh!" flinching with pain as she replaced his wallet.

"Why didn't you show him that burn? Might've got somethin' for our twenty-five."

"It couldn't have happened at a worse time," ruefully, bandaging a handkerchief about her blistered wrist. "With all this packing—and waiting on you — — "

"Let the maid do the packin'—that's what she's for. And you don't have to wait on me—I'll wait on myself. Feel better now. Did me good to get stirred-up at the fleece-artist. Soakin' you may be part of that high-hatter's treatment. Cured my headache, all right."

Sitting up, impatiently he elbowed the pillows back of him.

"Here fix these right! No not high enough. Get another pillow. Then roll up my bathrobe. There, that'll do. Now my brief case! I'll check up some of those papers. See if my pen's there—vest pocket. No? Then give me yours. Wonder you wouldn't ever fill it? Get a pencil!"

"Can't see here — pull back that curtain! Now a pad to figure on. Yes, anything'll do. That infernal handkerchief! What the Sam Hill'd I do with it? Well, get another. Where'll I put all these? Push up that chair. There, that's better. Now here's where I tear off some work! What's the matter? Hand still hurt? Well, go lie down. Eh? Why can't you? Haven't a darn thing to do!"

This will be the climax of a Sunday school day program, in which all the departments of the Sunday school will participate. Special musical numbers and other features appropriate to the occasion have been arranged for this service.

A religious pageant, "Life's Golden Time," will be presented by the young people's council of the church at night beginning at 8 o'clock. Special music and lighting effects will help bring out the deeply religious theme of the pageant as shown in the three scenes: "The Call," "The Conflict," "The Consecration."

The Sunday school begins promptly at 9:30 a. m. Interest grows in the Kay Bible class, which meets at the Strand theatre, as well as the W. B. Hamilton class for young men at the Olympic theatre.

The Standard training school for the Wichita Falls district will open at Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday at 2:30 p. m. Especially trained teachers will offer courses in the work of the beginner, primary, junior, intermediate-senior departments of the Sunday school. A course of general interest, "Training in Worship" will be taught by Rev. O. W. Moerner. Any one who is interested in the work of the Sunday school is invited to share in this school.

The monthly all-day meeting of the Woman's Missionary society will be held at the church Monday. Circle Four will serve the luncheon.

CHILD'S BEST LAXATIVE—CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

MOTHER! Even constipated, bilious, feverish, or sick, colic Babies and Children love to take genuine "California Fig Syrup." No other laxative regulates the tender little bowels so nicely. It sweetens the stomach and starts the liver and bowels without griping. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs. Say "California" to your druggist and avoid counterfeits. Insist upon genuine "California Fig Syrup" which contains directions.—Adv.

Police Court Has Biggest Period

The biggest month in the history of the police department was reported for April, according to C. B. McConnell, police sergeant and clerk of the corporation court whose report fro last month was completed Saturday.

Company Makes Great Record In Settling Claims

A record for prompt settlement of claims, probably unsurpassed in life insurance annals, has been established by the Wichita Home Insurance Company of this city, which is now getting a splendid start on its third year in business.

During its more than two years it has paid 55 death claims and more than 100 accident claims in Wichita county alone. All of the claims were settled with remarkable promptness; the death claims, in nearly every instance, were settled by check before the funeral of the insured. In no case was there any delay, red tape, or technicality to go through with.

The most recent claim to be paid was that arising from the death of John R. Rose, city marshal at Burkburnett. Check on this policy was handed the beneficiary before the funeral.

The company's accident insurance business, conducted through its accident-health division, the Great American Mutual Insurance company, offers protection for a great diversity of mishaps and illnesses, and is steadily increasing in popularity.

A concert will be given by the music department of the Junior college and high school Thursday evening, beginning at eight o'clock at the college auditorium, according to Miss Winifred Avis, music instructor.

The numbers to be sung are those that have been practiced by the students the entire year, Miss Avis says, both are beautiful and some are difficult. The program will be opened with an overture by the high school orchestra after which the high school Glee club, which is said to be the best glee club ever organized in the school, will give a number.

Carlton Bowman, well known local favorite, will sing and another feature will be a selection by the Faculty Male quartette composed of Messrs. J. C. Mathis, C. P. Mosely, Edwards and A. K. Preston.

The Junior College Choral club will sing the Spinning chorus from the Flying Dutchman and the closing number will be an arrangement of the Sextette from Lucia by the entire chorus.

The program is expected to be an hour and twenty minutes length and the public and all music lovers are invited to attend. It will be entirely free.

Quarrel With Man Over Woman Opens Way for Slaying

ST. LOUIS, Maay 2.—Dr. William A. Dillon, who was found dead from bullet wounds on the Washington university campus yesterday, quarreled with a man about a woman over the telephone Wednesday evening, police were told today.

Miss Eleanor Lynn, telephone switchboard operator at the hotel where Dr. Dillon resided said she called a certain number at the physician's request and heard this conversation:

"Dr. Dillon: "If you come between Mary and me, I'll kill you."

The other man: "If you go near her again I'll get you."

"Well, you'll never keep it."

Emmett McCarthy, a bell boy, corroborated part of the conversation which he said he heard when called to Dr. Dillon's room.

Miss Lynn at the behest of reporters identified the man with whom she said Dr. Dillon had argued, but this man denied even knowing the physician. This man, who lives about five blocks from Francis Field, had called at the hotel the telephone operator said.

MISSIPPI LOSES SUIT FOR BACK TAXES

JACKSON, Miss., May 2.—In a decision handed down here yesterday the state lost a $500,000 suit for alleged back taxes. Holding that the legislative enactment of the law imposing a $50 privilege tax on "each oil depot" and later the enactment with the definition "each building or tank where oil is stored for delivery shall be deemed a depot," should not be construed to mean that each separate and individual oil tank must require a $50 privilege tax, Judge W. H. Potter in Hinds county circuit court dismissed the long pending suit for alleged back taxes which was filed by former Attorney General Frank Robertson.

The litigation was brought against the larger oil companies, including the Standard Oil company, Gulf Refining company, the Texas company and the National Refining company, and involved approximately $500,000. The taxes sought dated back to about 1919.

To Whiten Skin with Lemon

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

Staff of College Annual Offers Big Prizes for Tickets

Announcement has been made by the business staff of the college annual of prizes offered for best ticket sales on "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose," college play to be given Monday and Tuesday, May 4 and 5. Awards include a box of candy for the one to report the highest sale by four o'clock Monday afternoon and another box of candy to the highest sale by Tuesday afternoon, cash prizes for the six reporting the highest sales by the end of the campaign, and tickets to each individual to sell over five dollars worth of tickets.

All proceeds are to go to the financing of the first college annual, The Wai-kun, which will come off the press in two weeks. The business managers, Charles Weeth and W. D. Nelson, have announced it their intention to attempt to complete the financing of the book without soliciting book advertisements or donations from the public as is the custom in most places where school annuals are published. It has been the policy throughout the year in financing of the college annual not to solicit any free gifts but to give value received in return for all outside help as far as possible.

This policy has found splendid cooperation from the business men of the city. For the advertising on "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose," the business managers wan to express their appreciation especially to Mr. Ira L. Cain, who bought the entire advertising space for the programs, to Keim Motor company for the 1 cards, to Gaines Motor Company for the tickets and to general advertisers for their support.

Roses To Have Their Day In Junior College Play "Mammy's Lil Wild Rose"

Roses will have their days Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Junior college when the play "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose," is presented by the college dramatic club.

First there will be the roses on the stage, thousands of them, special scenery having been purchased for the two evenings, and the mountain scenes, set in the hills of Virginia, will represent to be the best of an artist's ability a veritable garden of roses.

Prettiest Rose of All.

The prettiest rose of all though is Rose herself, belle of the backwoods, an orphan living with her aunt, and jealously guarded over by two black servants, Mammy Celie and Uncle Joe.

The plot is divided into two parts, first the drama, and secondly, the comedy. The acting is furnished by the best actors in the college, all of whom have carefully studied their parts, each character having been chosen on merits of ability alone. The play is directed by Miss Juanita Kinsey, public speaking director at the school.

The first act is set in the Virginia mountains and starts with the arrival of Daniel, a young writer, who accompanied by his sister, Peggy, has come to the mountains to get material for a book on which he is working. With them are Lester Van, a city boy in love with Peggy; Letty, Van his sister in love with Daniel; Drue and Arch Wilson, two other friends of Peggy's also are with them.

Hardly has the party arrived in the mountain village than Daniel meets Rose. Immediately he falls in love with her to the distress of Peggy who sees her own love doomed to disappointment. Always in the background are the figures of Mammy and Uncle watching over their ward. Hester O'May with whom Rose has lived for years also watches carefully over the girl for fear of something happening to Rose.

Through Mammy, Lester Van learns that Rose has a grandmother living in Washington who is wealthy but does not know she has an heir, due to Rose's father having died prior to her birth. Knowing that Rose will inherit a fortune on her relative's death, Lester decides that he too is in love with her, and seeks to marry her before the romance between the girl and the writer advances too far.

Wade Carver, a mountaineer in love with Rose, also attempts to thwart the love of the couple. Through a miscalculation on the part of Lester the story of Rose's grandmother comes out and Daniel refuses to ask her to marry him for fear that she would think he was seeking her money.

Before the arrival of Daniel in the mountains, Wade Carver had sought Rose's hand and in an effort to force the wedding on the girl he had secured a mortgage on the home of her aunt. Rose offers to run him an auto race in the coming valley fair, on the condition that should she win he would remove the mortgage, but should she lose she would marry him.

The rest of the story is worked out as only a good play can be. Who Rose marries, how it all comes about and why, is told in the last act of the play. The drama comes to a fitting climax in the last scene, all the acts being set in the mountain village.

Good Comedy.

The comedy is furnished by Orpheus an illiterate mountaineer who is ardently admired by the somewhat corpulent Babe Jones, who in spite of the frenzied efforts of Orpheus to free himself slowly gains control over him and at length takes him to be her wedded own.

Tickets for the play are now on sale by Junior college students and cost 85 cents apiece.

Rose, mountaineer orphan.....Marjorie Woolsey
Mammy Celia, protector of Rose.....Louise Scott
Uncle Joe, Mammy's husband.....Conan Cantwell
Mrs. Courtran, mother of Rose.....Vaughn Buchanan
Daniel, a writer.....Edward Kadane

Marjorie Wollsey Is Offered Contract On Stage in 'Rose' Part

Marjorie Woolsey, who plays the leading role in "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose," presented by the students of the Wichita Falls Junior college, at the college auditorium, Monday and Tuesday, May 4 and 5, has recently received the signal distinction of an offer from the stage. Ben Scovell, noted for his dramatic readings and for his work as a member of the famous companies of Shakespearean performers under the direction of Harry Irving and Richard Mansfield, in his recent visit to Wichita Falls, observed the preparation for presenting "Mammy's Lil' Wild Rose," and immediately offered Miss Woolsey a contract to go on the progessional stage. His comments on her work, her ability, and her beauty as a type were highly favorable.

Miss Woolsey is a senior in Junior college and is to be graduated with the class in May. Recently she was voted the honor of being one of the most beautiful girls in the college. She also stands as an 'A' student in all her work, ranking among the highest group on the honor roll all the year. In her last year in high school, with Stella Winters, she won the state championship in debate.

WICHITA BOY A WINNER

AUSTIN, Texas, May 2.—R. W. McDonald, of Austin, and Bascom Nelson, of Wichita Falls, recently won prizes of $15 and $20 respectively, for the best speeches made before the Athenaeum Literary society of the University of Texas. Three prizes are awarded annually by R. B. Creager, of Dallas.

GIVES AWAY HER $1,000 PRIZE.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Miss Edna Ferber, author of "So Big," which was yesterday awarded the $1,000 Pulitzer prize for the best American novel in 1924, donated the check today to the Authers' league fund for the care of needy writers and artists, the league announced tonight.

In a letter Miss Ferber wrote that her gift was the "partial discharge" of a craft obligation. She has been a member of the fund's board of directors since its inception.

For First Time In Boys Debate Wichita Will Be Represented At Austin

For the first time in the history of boys' debate, Wichita Falls high school is sending her first boys' team to the State Interscholastic league meet at Austin, held annually the first week in May.

Whatever the record of the school in other of her many achievements, boys debate has not been listed near the top. Girls' team have repeatedly left the school, preceded to Austin and walked away with the state title twice and second place once, but the boys each year have miserably failed in their efforts.

Six years ago, in 1920, before boys and girls debeate was separated and a team could be composed of either boys or girls, the high school did send a boys' team to the meet at Austin. Frank Patton and Temple Shell advanced to the third round before they were defeated. The next year the debate wdas divided into two divisions, and since that time boys have failed to show.

The boys' team this year composed of Price McCullough and Emmett Bauknight not only won their district debate but also took first place in the bi-district contest held Friday at Vernon, against Childress. This was a new ruling in the league and offered double competition in the league.

In 1921 Joe Bashara and Mortimer Clopton represented the school at the district contests. They were defeated in their first contest. The girls' team composed of Gwendolyn Walters and Etta Maddrey won the district title and then walked off with the state title a Austin, winning the first state girls' championship.

In 1922 the story was little better. The same team of boys again tried their luck at the district and this time lost in the finals to Jacksboro by a two to one decision. The girls' team represented by Stella Winters and Gwendolyn Walters again won the district title and lost in the finals at the state meet.

State Title Again.

In 1923 the Jacksboro boys again proved a nemesis for the boys' team in the final contest, Joe Bashara, debating his third year for the high school, lost for the third time in the district meet. The girls' team, Marjorie Woolsey and Stella Winters defeated Iowa Park in the finals of the district and then won the second state title in three years for the school.

Last year the story was worse. Edward Smith and Lemuel Peters went to the district meet and lost. The girls' team, Dorothy Reed and Kathryn Martin also failed to place in the meet, making the first time in the history of the girls debate that Wichita Falls did not win either first or second at the state meet.

This year the boys won the district as did the girls' team, composed of Vera Cain and Eleanor Flemming. The girls did not fare as well as the boys' team in the bi-district contests and lost to Childress at Vernon Friday.

Accompanying Miss Kinsey, instructor at the high school, to Austin this week for the state meet will be William Atkinson, winner at the district in extempore speaking, and Dorothy Reed, winner in girls' declamation. Owing to a new ruling this year abolishing junior declamation except in the rural contests, Grace Simms, winner in junior girls' declamation at the district will not go to Austin.

Library Displaying Music Books During National Music Week

Public libraries in all parts of the National Music Weeks committee to distUnited States have been requested by the play during National Music week, May 3 to 9th their books on music. The Kemp public library has prepared a special shelf for this display.

Listed below are some of the books that the users of the library have found most worth while:

"American Composers," by Rupert Hughes.

A study of the music of this country and of its future, with biographies of the leading composers of the present day.

"Heart of Music," by A. R. Chapin.

This is the story of the violin. The author states that the violin has no history, she says "when Stradivari made the perfect fiddle its history was begun and ended in one breath." Her effort has been to give a rude genealogy of the violin. A brief and simple resume of the history of the stringed instruments which led up to the perfect fiddle.

"History of American Music," by L. C. Elson.

The author tells of the beginnings of foreign influences, the changes in the methods and the personal endeavors that have gone to the making of our present music. Chapters on "The religious beginnings of American music"; "Early musical organizations"; "Folk music of America" "American women in music," etc.

"Master Musicians," by J. C. Haddey.

Stories of romantic lives written for the amateur rather than the professional. The book does not pretend to be critical and avoids technicalities, the stories are about the men themselves and their hobbies and diversions rather than their music.

"National Music of America," by L. C. Elson.

In no department of musical history has there been more of careless and unverified statement than in the chronicles of our national music. The author has not cleared up the mists which hang over some parts of the subject but he has given us an introduction to the beginning of American music.

"New Encyclopedia of Music and Musicians," by W. S. Pratt.

This reference volume in three parts contains: Part one, articles defining and describing musical terms and general subjects; part two, biographies, frequently including lists of works of musicians and part three has facts about institutions and organizations in the musical world. An amazing amount of information in one volume.

A series of biographical studies of great musicians. Intimate glimpses into the life of the artist show that while some were born artists, some—as the author puts it—arrived through their own determination against all odds.

"Story of Music and Musicians," by L. C. Lillie.

The work is designed to interest young students in music in the technique of their art, and in the associations, amid which great masters have worked. The chapter on the history of the piano-forte goes back to the 16th century and the clavichord and the virginal, the instruments from which our piano is descended. The chapter on the opera tells of the beginning of what we know as the opera today. How the musical students gathered together in Florence and worked on the musical drama until they produced "Eurydice" in 1600, which is called the first true Italian opera on which all of ours have been founded.

"Woman's Work in Music," by Arthur Elson.

Being an account of woman's influence on the art of music in ancient as well as modern times; a summary of the musical compositions by women of the different countries of the civilized world and an estimate of their rank in comparison with those of men.

Curlee Re-Elected Head of Realtors; Board Has Grown

W. S. Curlee, for the past year president of the Wichita Falls realty board, was re-elected to that post Saturday at the regular weekly meeting of the organization. Other officers elected were; J. M. Baber, first vice-president; Roscoe Staton, second vice-president; P. S. Richardson, re-elected secretary-treasurer. J. M. Bland and J. N. Prothro were selected as members of the board of directors.

A substantial and healthy growth was noted in the board's activities during the year just closed, a report showed. When organized the association had nine active and one associate member. Now it has 16 active and six associate members.

A report on the work of the multiple listing system, a real estate feature coming into general use, was made and its results as attained in Dallas laid before the local board.

In a report on real estate activities in Wichita Falls and Wichita county for the week just closed, R. E. Schoolfield told the realty club members that in Wichita Falls alone, deals amounting to $265,584 were consummated. In Wichita county, exclusive of the three towns of Burkburnett, Iowa Park and Electra and also exclusive of all oild eals, sales amounted only to $20,748.

SOOTHSAYER ERRS; JAIL.

Fails to Read the Marriage Line of Magistrate's Palm Correctly.

NEW YORK, May 2.—James Paul, 63, "scientific astrologer," claiming to be widely known as the "Great Delphi," lost a bout with the fates today and went to jail for five days in default of a $50 fine on a charge of telling fortunes.

Paul, arrested by two policewomen, told Magistrate Simpson he could read the future and the past from palms. The magistrate proffered his own and Paul, white haired and bent, began:

"Aha! you are married."

The magistrate agreed.

"You married when 24 or 25," added Paul.

"No," interrupted his honor, "I married late in life." The fine was imposed.

EVICTED, ASKS $1,000,000.

Woman Occupant of Shacks Says Madman Put Her Out.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A suit for $1,000,000 damages against Orange county, N. Y., was filed today in the Brooklyn supreme court by Mrs. Anna Lauer, who lives in a one-room shack at Long Island City and who alleges that the county protected persons who evicted her from her Orange county farm in 1920.

The complaint alleges commission of "anarchy, felony, grand larceny, abduction, wholesale burglary and assault." The eviction, it is alleged, was carried out by state troopers assisted by "a madman and two women."

SOVIET GASSING WOLV[illegible]

PETROGRAD, May 2.—Poison gas is the latest weapon against wolves. The animals have become so numerous along the Finnish border that the Soviet gogernment has engaged several companies equipped with poison gas apparatus for wolf killing duty.

According to a report of the department of agriculture, wolves destroyed 52,000 horses and more than 50,000 head of cattle in 1924.

CHOSE STUDENT WORKER

Miss Mattie Mae Swisher of Hereford, has been chosen by the Women's Missionary societies of the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist church to work among the students of the West Texas State Teachers college during he 1925-26 session.

Miss Swisher succeeds Mrs. Tom C. Delaney who has worked with the Methodist young people for the past two years and who has recently resigned. So successful has the work of Mrs. Delaney been that the women of the Methodist church would not consent to be without a student-secretary to look after the interests of the 500 Methodist students of the teachers college.

Known Names of Sudents

The duties of the Methodist student secretary are many; she is assistant to the pastor of the Canyon Methodist church. She looks after the social life of the young people of her denomination. She supervises the work of the Epworth League and the Young Women's Missionary society. She helps the students who are away from home to keep in close contact with their home communities so that they will not find themselves strangers when they return.

Teaches Social Service

This year many groups of students have gone out to churches of neighboring towns and communities and have conducted services. These groups are teachers-in-training and are learning through practical experience to do the things which they will be called upon to do when they become teachers in the public schools of Texas.

Mrs. Delaney was a pioneer in this work in Canyon, but under her leadership it has become well established and her services of inestimable value to the church and college.

Miss Swisher, in succeeding Mrs. Delaney, comes to the post well prepared to carry on and develop the work which has been started; she has for several years been teacher of Bible in the public schools at Hereford, Texas, and has taught music in the same school system. She is also well known to Methodist congregations in the Panhandle, having assisted in conducting many revival meetings. She will assume her new duties with the opening of the summer session of the college, June 8.

TO MINERAL WELLS

The Panhandle-Plains Historical society which has its headquarters at Canyon, will be represented at the meeting of the West Texas chamber of commerce at Mineral Wells by Evetts Haley, who is to serve as field man for the society this summer.

While at this meeting Haley will meet hundreds of people from the region in which his organization works and will seek sources of material which will later be collected to be used in writing a history of the Panhandle.

COLD AT CANYON

Canyon is experiencing very cold weather for this season of the year, the thermometer registering 35 last night. Cloudy weather and wind saved this county from frost.

An inch of rain has fallen within the past week and indications are favorable for more.

Wheat which was well cultivated last fall is in splendid condition.

PLANS HARDWARE MEET

C. L. Thompson, secretary-treasurer of the Panhandle Hardware association, has recently completed the program for the association's annual meeting which takes place in Amarillo May 4, 5 and 6.

J. T. Cradford of Pampa, Texas, is president of this organization. O. C. Watson, of Clarendon, is first vice-president.

The theme for the meeting this year is "Profitable Hardware Retailing With Service." Hardware dealers who appear upon the program include J. T. Crawford of Pampa, F. A. Heitman, president of the Heitman Hardware company, Houston; Rivers Peterson, editor of the "Hardware Retailer," Indianapolis, Ind.; Dan Scoates, secretary of Texas Hardware and Implements' association, College Station, Tex.; Frank A. Bare, president Tritch Hardware company, Denver, and prominent dealers of the Panhandle section.

A feature of the program is a question-box conducted by a member of the association at each session. The Hardware association is one of the oldest trade organizations in this section of Texas, having held annual meetings every year for the past 16 years.

At Quanah

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS.

Members of the Bridge club were entertained at the home of Mrs. George Browne, Jr., Friday afternoon. Three tables were at play. A beautiful gift for high score was presented. Dainty refreshments were served to Mesdames Harper Spear, J. B. Goodlett, Melvin McAdams, J. L. Dossett, Frank Hendrix Jr., D. T. Haden, Marjorie Cook, Early Greathouse, Harry Koch, H. F. Barnard, Jack Stevens and Miss Mary Ledbetter.

DINNER PARTY FOR SONS.

Mrs. J. H. McDonald entertained at a small dinner party Friday evening at 6 o'clock in honor of her sons, Charlie Bell and J. H. McDonald Jr. The attractively appointed table was centered with a basket bouquet of cut flowers.

DANCING PARTY POSTPONED.

Because of the death of Will Alverson, father of Hattie Alverson, one of this year's seniors, the dancing party with which the juniors of the high school were to entertain at the Country club, was postponed from Thursday evening to next Thursday evening.

FORTY-TWO CLUM POSTPONED

The Thursday Forty-two club did not meet with Mrs. Newt Lassiter, scheduled this week. However, Mrs. Lassiter and Mrs. Lawrence Walker will entertain the Thursday Forty-two club and the 1922 club, jointly, May 14th., at the Country club.

COUNTRY CLUB AFFAIR.

Mrs. J. A. Thompson and Mrs. J. L. Haas charmingly entertained the Forty-two Thursday morning at the Country club. Eight tables were arranged in the spacious club room. The beautifully tinted walls made an attractive back ground for the pretty wicker baskets of roses. The refreshments were served in dainty May baskets. Members and guests present were: Mesdames A. J. Norton, C. E. Davis, T. W. Cogdell, F. A. Clements, C. A. Reynold, C. P. Pierce, J. H. Wilson, Frank McKee, W. F. Jones, N. W. Galbraith, Vestal Daugherty, W. J. Owens, Frank Hook, E. E. Wade, Elvin Watkins, C. T. Watkins, Arthur Evans, Newt Lassiter, J. Robert Jones, J. H. McDonald, Early Greathouse, W. H. Crawford, S. N. Mitchell, J. S. Huffhines, Corbitt Howard, L. L. Wyker, J.M. George, Sam Jones, Clarence Miller, R. W. Curnutt, and Miss Cora Martin.

B. AND P. W. CLUB MEETING.

The business and professional women's club met in their club room Thursday evening at 7:30, the regular meeting having been postponed from Monday evening. After the reading of the minutes by the secretary, the business session opened with Miss Myrtle Jorterfield presiding. A vote was carried to screen the band stand, and to sell ice cream cones and popcorn at the concerts, the proceeds to go toward the purchase of a bass horn for the band. The meeting adjourned to meet again the second Monday in May.

COMMENCEMENT

Quanah is to have another kind of commencement this year, and something that bids fair to establish a new annual event when the Quanah sanitarium will graduate a class in nursing. The commencement has been set at June 10 at the First Baptist church.

Miss Rose Ella Chambers of Quanah, and Miss Lillian Deaton of Paducah, are the members of the class, which, while small, is considered a good start for the sanitarium. The work has been taught the nurses by Drs. J. J. Hanna, R. R. McDonald, and J. W. Conley. Several other nurses are in line for graduation next year.

LAKE PAULINE FULL

Lake Pauline, located between Quanah and Chillicothe on the Colorado-to-Gulf highway [illegible] result of the recent heavy rains. The lake was [illegible] about two feet of overflowing according to J. L. Elbert, real estate man and pioneer citizen. The lake is one of the largest in this section of the state, covering about 1,200 acres when full.

"THAWING OUT"

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Bert Thompson left Saturday noon for Fort Worth. Her mother, Mrs. Jeff Rodgers, who has been visiting relatives for several days in Corsicana and Dallas, will join her there.

L. C. Smith will go to Vernon Sunday for an extended visit with his daughter, Mrs. F. T. Johnson and Mr. Johnson.

S. J. Bailey and E. B. Caskey will leave Sunday to attend the West Texas chamber of commerce meeting at Mineral Wells.

Mrs. Ross Magee, Mrs. J. H. Wilson and Mrs. S. J. Bailey will attend the seventh district meeting of the Federation of Women's clubs, to be held at Canyon May the 4, 5, and 6. They are the representatives of the 1904 club and will leave Monday.

Mrs. J. W. Newson returned Thursday afternoon from a month's visit with her son at Dallas.

Mrs. Neil Farrell has received word that her aged mother-in-law, affectionately known as Grandmother Farrell, has fallen and broken her hip.

Harry Wright of Paducah spent Wednesday and Thursday in Quanah on business.

Miss Clara Stevens of Paducah spent Wednesday with Mrs. Lula Williams and Miss Dana Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Moore motored to Wichita Falls Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Chenault arrived home yesterday from a two weeks visit in Shreveport and Dallas.

H. H. Van Hagen, operating manager of the Cement Mills at Agatite and F. Fischlie, an official of the Checker Board corporation of Chicago, are guests at the home of the H. F. Barnetts at Agatite.

Mrs. John Burnes and small son, Donald, returned home Friday from a fortnight's visit with Mrs. Burnes' parents, the L. B. Slys at Bonham.

Chicago to Keep Cotton Market As Permanent Board

CHICAGO—Frank L. Carey, president of the Chicago board oof trade stated today that the Chicago cotton market has proven a commercial success during the last five months of its pioneering period and that the market will be continued permanently.

"Steady growth of the Chicago cotton futures market since its creation last December 1," said Mr. Carey, 'has been ample proof of its importance in the world of commerce. All the obstacles of a new market have been met and surmounted.

"Future contracts provide for delivery of cotton at Houston and Galveston the largest exporting point in the world. Delivery on these contracts in each of the active trading months has been of good volume. The fact has been clearly established that Chicago futures are readily convertible into the physical cotton.

Volume of trading has shown a slow but steady increase. From the southwest, which has supported the market from the start and which was instrumental in its creation, there is an increasing among the hedging business. Incidentally, no single development in recent years has so closely allied the southwest and the Chicago district."

Mr. Carey's statement further said that early apprehension that the new market would work a hardship on the two older markets at New York and New Orleans proved unfounded. He said the old markets have probably benefitted by the competition and have supported and assisted the new market.

No CHANGE ON S. A. P.

S. P. to Make Few Changes When It Takes Over Line

HOUSTON, May 2.—Practically no changes were made in the operation of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass Railway Company when that line was taken over by Southern Pacific Friday, according to an announcement. Only one change here was made public and others of a similar nature may follow after officials of the Southern Pacific have had ample time in which to thoroughly go over the operation facilities and ascertain what steps to take in the conversion of the road, is was said.

JUMPING CHILDREN SNAP BRIDGE; 40 FALL IN RIVER

BALTIMORE, May 2.—One boy was killed and seven other persons were injured today when a cable snapped on a suspension bridge at Orange Grove, 12 miles from here.

According to witnesses, 42 persons were crossing the span, which is 400 feet long. When a number of children in the center were jumping to mac the bridge vibrate a large cable snapped and most of the pedestrians were thrown into the river, a drop of 25 feet. The water is about five feet deep and jagged with rocks.

Sherman Hunt, 13 years old, was killed when hit by the falling cable, while others suffered broken arms and legs.

Henrietta C. of C. Wins Long Fight For a State Road From Jack County

HENRIETTA, May 2.—More than a year of active, consistent work on the part of the Henrietta chamber of commerce and the Clay county commissioners' court was rewarded last week when the state highway commission designated a new state highway to extend north and south through the entire length of Clay county from the northern boundary at Red river through Henrietta to Antelope in the northwest part of Jack county, connecting with the new road now being constructed from Jacksboro north to Antelope.

This will give Clay county a state highway mileage of more than 100 miles and make Henrietta a center with state highways coming into the city from five directions.

Most Important Road

State highway No. 5, the most important road in North Texas, extending from Texarkana to Texline, crosses the county east and west, and state highway No. 50 extends from Henrietta through Bellevue to Bowie to the southeast. Improvement of all of this mileage previously designated has been financed, with the exception of about six miles, and plans for financing construction of a new road on this strip, between Henrietta and Ringgold, have already been made.

Much of the road included in the new designation has already been improved entirely with local funds, and it is probable that immediate steps will be taken to improve the road from Henrietta south to the Jack county line.

Application for designation of the new highway north and south through the county was presented to the state highway commission at the March meeting by County Judge J. P. Williams, County Engineer D. M. Puckett, Wainwright Bridges, manager of the Henrietta chamber of commerce. Judge Ruben Loftin, state representative, later pressed the application with the commissioner, and final approval was given when the commission convened this month.

Increase Travel

Designation, improvement and maintenance of this new north and south road as a part of the state highway system will greatly increase inter-county and inter-state travel through Henrietta and Clay county, it is believed, as the road follows closely the route of the old government or military trail from Fort Sill, near Lawton, Okla., to Fort Jack, and will be the most direct and practicable route for travel from western Oklahoma to central and South Texas.

Practically all of the road from Henrietta to Red river is already improved or under construction, and it is believed that plans now being formed for improvement from Henrietta south to Antelope can be carried out without difficulty.

From a local trade standpoint, the road to the south end of the county will be of inestimable benefit to Henrietta.

Better Utilization Of Timber Lands Urged by Hoover

already adopted for better utilization of timber in the United States were introduced here at conferences between trade leaders and Secretary Hoover. The meeting was the third annual assembly at the commerce department of a committee representing the principal lumber associations of the country to discuss the advisability of altering specifications already in effect to control dimensions and quality of lumber already in effect.

The meeting was held for organization of a national committee on wood utilization, just appointed by Secretary Hoover, in accordance with plans laid down at a preliminary gathering last fall.

Secretary Hoover pointed out to both meeting that the country's timber resources are being cut over four times as fast as they are being replaced by new growth. Savings already effected by the adoption of standard specifications, under the commerce department's general program for simplified practice in industry are estimated to reach the total of $200,000,000 a year.

The wood utilization committee will consider how these savings may be extended.

RUM RUNNER IS CAUGHT

Is Spirited Away From Hospital and Found in Mother's Home.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 20.—Floyd Washburn, alias Havertick, alleged rum runner in the St. Louis-Indiana trade who was spirited away from a Paris, Ill., hospital was captured by St. Louis detectives at the home of his mother here.

Washburn, weakened by his wounds and confinement in the Illinois hospital, was almost exhausted when he was found and was taken to the prison ward of the city hospital where he was placed under guard.

KIPLING VOTED BEST AUTHOR

LONDON, May 2.—The twelve authors best liked in England, in the order of their popularity, are Rudyard Kipling, Thomas Hardy, Sir Hall Caine, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, H. G. Wells, Rider Haggard, Arnold Bennett, Ethel M. Dell, Joseph Conrad, W. J. Locke, G. K. Chesterton and Ian Hay.

This list was selected as the result of a competition in which there were tens of thousands of contestants from all over the British Isles.

English Return To Gold Basis Swells Entire World Trade

WASHINGTON, May 2.—With the return of the English pound to a gold basis, Secretary Hoover said today between 80 and 90 per cent of the entire international trade of the world will be calculated in terms of gold prices. A general condition of stability as to prices will be brought about, he predicted, that should rebound to the benefit of commerce and industry throughout the world.

"German mark prices will now be absolutely on a gold basis", Mr. Hoover said. "The Dawes reparations plan having linked up the German coinage to a degree with sterling. The most certain effect of the English move will be to reduce the volume of speculative hazard and international trade because of the elimination of risks that must be taken with currency of fluctuating value.

"There probably will be a smaller swing of prices in Great Britain as the adjustment is made, but that is likely to be of small consequence.

DIRECT EUROPEAN SHIPS

Regular Service Is Promised From Galveston to Rotterdam

GALVESTON, May 2.—With the beginning of the 1925 season a direct service from Galveston and Houston to Rotterdam, will be instituted by the United States shipping board on the Southern States Line, operated by Lykes Brothers-Ripley Steamship company. This was decided upon following a conference between W. B. Keene, vice-president of the Emergency Fleet corporation in charge of traffic and shipping board operators here.

Mr. Keene in discussing the new service pointed out that it would be in addition to service already maintained between Galveston and Houston and Rotterdam and Bremen.

SECRET DOCUMENT EXPOSED.

Financial Expedients Employed by Francois-Marsal Bared in Paper.

PARIS, May 2.—The exposure of an important confidential document in which M. Francois-Marsal, while minister of finance last year, set forth the difficulties of the treasury and the borrowing expedients resorted to by the government, has caused a great stir in political circles and much speculation regarding who allowed it to fall into the hands of the press.

Mr. Francois-Marsal explained that the document could not have been communicated by a member of the senate because each copy given out was earmarked by dropping one word from the text—a different word in each copy—so that he would be able to trace the document published to the senator into whose hands he gave it.

Opinion Divided On Advisability of England Reverting To Gold Basis

LONDON, May 2.—(A. P.)—Reflection seems to have induced certain doubts in the minds of the financial and stock exchange community concerning the effect likely to flow returning to the gold standard. The fact that exchange failed to respond as expected, by jumping to parity, immediately on Chancellor Winston Churchill's announcement , created fears that it way become necessary to raise the bank rate to prevent exports of gold, which it is considered in the present state of the British gold reserves, cannot be afforded. Such raising of the bank rate, it is contended, would be bad for business and prove a setback to trade.

Opinions are by no means unanimous in approval of the government decision. Some exporters argue that the government acted hastily.

The second reading of the measures for giving legislative effect to the government's proposals will be taken up next week. Philip Snowden, former chancellor of the exchequer will move the labor party's official amendment inviting the house to declare that it declines at present to assent to a second reading of the bill re-establishing the gold standard with undue precipitancy, and which may aggravate the present serious condition of unemployment and trade depression. In the house of commons tonight the budget debate was continued.

Walter Runieman, liberal, expressed approval of the government's gold policy, but pointed out that the chancellor of the exchequer by restoring the McKenna duties and placing a duty on silk was heavily taxing three chief exports of France, naming motors, wines and silk, whereby almost alone France would be able to rehabilitate her exchange.

Sir Frederick Wise, unionist, noted financial expert, strongly criticised Mr. Churchill's precipitancy in restoring gold. He was disposed to think that it was a gamble. He had heard enormous figures mentioned as to the amount of recent speculation in the exchange market. Nobody could prevent speculators from taking their profits, he continued, and that would mean that gold standard would have to be found from Britain's small reserve.

GLEE CLUB TO BROADCAST

Waco State Champion Singers to Give Radio Program

WACO, May 2.—The Waco high school girls' glee club, directed by Miss Cobby De Stivers, which won state championship in the annual interscholastic music contest at Baylor College, Belton, last week, broadcasted radio program from Waco, station "W. J. A. D." Friday.

The club has won first honors three successive years and last week was permanently awarded the silver loving cup offered by Baylor College, which sponsors the music contests.

MAN WALKS LIKE HORSE.

BALTIMORE, May 2.—Experiments at the Anatomical laboratory, Johns Hopkins medical school, on the leg action of an opossum less than two inches long, showed man goes through the same rhythmic motions to walk as are performed by a trotting horse, it was learned today. Scientists say all four-legged creatures, among which they include man, walk and run the same way, the only exception being a pacing horse, whose step is the result of training and not of natural impulse.

MOUNTAINS DRAW VICTIM.

Guide of Fatal Winter Ascent, Who Lost All Fingers, Goes Back.

DENVER, May 2.—Minus every finger and additionally handicapped by the loss of half of his toes, Walter E. Kiener, Swiss mountain climber, plans to return to the mountains that left him scarred for life.

Kiener lost the fingers and toes as a result of a midwinter ascent of Long's Peak, which ended fatally for his companion, Miss Agnes M. Vaille, Denver business woman.

On his release from the hospital today Kiener announced he had accepted a position as fire lookout in Estes Park, the scene of his fatal mountain ascent.

Moore County Shows Big Gains in Farm Values, Census Says

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Moore county, Texas, shows substantial increases in farm acreage and farm values in the last five years, according to the 1925 agricultural census of the department of commerce released today.

Farms have increased from 92 in 1920 to 152 in 1924; while in the same period the value of farms and buildings has almost doubled. The value of lands and buildings in 1920, was $2,375,710; in 1924 it was $4,090,545. The data collected last January is for the condition at the end of 1924.

There has been a notable increase in tenant farmers, this class having gone from 26 to 78 in the five years. The largest crop is barley of which the county harvested 1,729 bushels in 1919 against 54,776 in 1924. Next is wheat which shows an increase from 42,833 to 48,191 bushels in the period. No cotton was recorded for the county five years ago, while 724 bales were harvested in 1924. Cattle, hogs and horses also show increases.

BOOKMAKERS ARE JAILED

122 Men Arrested in Surprise Attack By St. Louis Police.

ST. LOUIS, May 2—After 122 men and youths were arrested here this afternoon in a surprise drive against horse race bookmakers, the question of whether they can be prosecuted was left to be decided tomorrow. Fifty downtown establishments were raided.

Owing to the exacting requirements of the statutes regulating book-making and the difficulty of obtaining convictions, it was not likely that warrants charging book-making would be filed.

CAN DRESS ON $2.17 A WEEK.

Wellesley Girls, in Tests, Find Sum Enough for Presentable Clothes.

BOSTON, May 2.—A couple of Wellesley seniors, doing special research work in economics under the guidance of a member of one of the minimum wage boards, have demonstrated, by actually doing it, that Wellesley college girls can clothe themselves, both comfortably and presentably, on $2.17 a week.

Their idea, it was learned today, was to find out how a girl receiving $13 or $14 a week was to dress. They said a girl could dress for even less if she were willing to make some of her clothes.

A Wife and Cats Too Much for Spirit Of Friend, He Says

NEW YORK, May 2.—Jack Hamberger, whose spirit of hospitality led him to grant the freedom of his apartment to the Hungarian violinist Reigo, once noted for his playing before the crowned heads of Europe, told Magistrate Levine today that his generosity reached the breaking point when his guest installed a wife, several cats, parrots and canaries, as well as trunks and twenty-five umbrellas.

Hamberger was summoned to court by Mrs. Katheryn Reigo, who said that she and her husband had been ordered from the apartment by their host at 2 a. m.

GOLF SHOT COSTS $6,000.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—Walter Biskup, 15 years old, was awarded $6,000 damages by Circuit Judge Landwehr here today for impaired sight in his right eye, sustained when struck by a ball on a suburban golf links July 4, 1922.

The judgment was returned against George Bluemeyer, club member, and Homer Hoffman, its guest, for whom the boy was caddying.

Shrine Circus Will Start Monday And Continue One Week

Coming to this city for an entire week's engagement and opening Monday night on the grounds adjoining the baseball park is the Bob Morton circus which Maskat Temple Shriners are bringing here for a big circus week. The committee in charge is desirous of presenting the very best attractions and the very best talent possible, hence the bringing of the Bob Morton circus for the gala event.

Local circus fans are assured of the best high class feature acts, the greatest all star acrobats, flying ladies, gymnasts, wire walkers and dancers, society contortionists, tumblers, trapeze artists and in fact the whole works that goes with the usual circus. Of course there will be hosts of funny clowns to make the kiddies laugh. Bob will have his best and biggest show here for the uniformed bodies of Maskat Temple and it will be a program long to be remembered.

Boy Scouts Invited.

Boy Scouts will be invited guests Monday night and will occupy special reservations. Each troop will appear in uniform and will be accompanied by their scout masters and officials. The scouts have been very active in assisting the Shriners with their advance work and it is desired that they shall be recompensed by way of a big circus party.

Master Joe Brachard, a full fledged scout and a member of the San Francisco council, will regiate the boys with talks on circus travel and with tales of interest in general. Joe is a member of the Brachard troupe of headspinners and makes many Scout friends in each city visited by the show.

Chris Manegan is another youthful member of the circus and nothing pleases him better than to perform to an audience of boys. He feels they can realize the ability of his offering and his athletic stunts are well appreciated. Chris is a star of the Mangean Troupe and his salary runs well into three figures. He is probably the best acrobat of his age in the country today. His picture will appear in the Sunday edition of the Record News.

Einstein, a Master Scientist, Also Has Musical Talents

The master violin makers of the past imparted some of their souls to the matchless instruments, something that scientists cannot analyze nor mass production duplicate, in the belief of Prof. Albert Einstein of relativity fame.

Prof. Einstein, in addition to being a famous scientist and mathematician, is himself an accomplished violinist. He is now visiting South America and before starting upon that trip he was interviewed by German violin manufacturers and asked about the recent claims of instrument makers that they had discovered the secret of making violins comparable to the Cremonas and other celebrated instruments.

Einstein said that in his opinion the great violins had been produced by highly sensitive artists who had an understanding of their craft that defies scientific analysis and that cannot be duplicated in mass production. He said it is not any especial wood or varnish which gives the rare quality to some violins and that neither does size nor shape explain their quality. Famous makers, according to his belief, have imparted their individual souls to their instruments in a manner which defies scientists who rely upon mathematics, physics and chemistry for explanations of the excellent quality of those instruments.

Wichitans Included In T. U. Honor List

AUSTIN, May 2.—Honoring those students whose scholastic records at the University of Texas during the winter term were exceptional, Dean H. Y. Benedict of the college of arts and sciences, has made public a list of 392 students worthy of distinction for excellent work in their studies. This lis is divided into four groups, the leading group being disignated as Samma Cum Laude, and including the best 67 students out of the 3,450; Cum Laude Ampla et Magna includes the best 155 students among the 3,450; the third group, Magna Cum Laude, includes the best 218; the fourth group, Ampla Cum Laude, includes the best 308 students; and the fifth, Cum Laude, includes the best 392.

Ampla Cum Laude, Margaret Duncan, Arvin E. Trollinger and Sarah Louise Wick.

Cum Laude, Joe Bashara.

U. S. FLAG DRIVE STARTED.

Object Is to Bring American Ideals Into Greater Regard.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A nation-widecampaign to develop patriotism by bringing the American flag and the ideals for which it stands into greater regard was announced today by the United States Flag association through its New York board.

A drive for at least 100,000 members has been undertaken in this state, to be followed by efforts throughout the country for a total membership of 1,000,000.

Elihu Root is active president and President Coolidge honorary head of the association. Governors of the 48 states comprise the national council and citizenship is the only requirement for membership.

ONE BULLET KILLS TWO BOYS.

Night Watchman Fires to Halt Speeding Autoists.

HUMBOLDT, Tenn., May 2.—Two high school students, Carl Ladd, 19, and Gaston Crook, 18, were killed by a pistol bullet fired by Will Cox, night watchman, when they failed to halt their speeding automobile here today.

The bullet passed through the body of Ladd, the driver, and struck the heart of Croom, seated by his side. Etheridge Avery, another youth in the rear of the car, was uninjured. Cox, who surrendered to police, said he was trying to apprehend auto thieves.

How Are The Roads?

Motorists Advised To Take Chairs While Traveling in Texas

AUSTIN, May 2.—Rains in Texas to wet the top surfacing of roads is now a realization and tourists are advised that mud chains be carried, according to the weekly road condition report issued by the state highway department. The suggestion as to chains may be withdrawn, it is added, on short notice as the roads dry rapidly.

Rains of the week have been general over the state, and while there is an intensive and general building campaign in effect, there are as yet gaps in the highways, of natural dirt roads which are heavy when it rains, and these may mar the pleasure somewhat of the motorist during the rainy season.

In making the trip from Austin to Houston, there is a bad stretch of road near Hempstead and the river where the crossing must be made by ferry, has steep banks which are slippery as the result of rains.

Dallas to San Antonio.

The overland traveler may make the trip from Dallas to San Antonio with absolute safety. The road has been opened this week at Georgetown where formerly a detour has been maintained.

One may travel by auto from Denison to Laredo, encountering only few stretches of dirt roadway. Through La Salle county there is a dirt road but this is passable. From San Antonio to Kerrville, the motorist is offered a delightful trip without fear of being stuck in the mud.

From Fort Worth to El Paso there is an all year around highway.

Austin to Collgee Station: Take highway No. 2—Hard surfaced highway to Round Rock, then dirt road for short distance under construction, but graveled and hard surface highway in good condition to Williams - Milam county line. From this point take highway No. 43. Through Milam county dirt road which is rough to Rockdale will be found. From Rockdale dirt road under construction. A detour is necessary for several miles due to this work. From Hearne take highway No. 6, graveled highway in good condition.

Santone-Breckenridge

San Antonio to Breckenridge—Take highway No. 9, a hard surfaced highway in excellent condition to Bexar Kendall county line. Through Kendall county gravel highway to Comfort; dirt road on to county line in good condition. Through Gillespie and Mason counties gravel highway in good condition. A short detour is necessary at the Mason-McCulloch county line due to construction Gravel highway to Brady. From Brady dirt road to McCulloch-Brown county line. From this point take highway No. 10, dirt road the entire distance through Brown county with the exception of a few miles at the county line which is gravel. Highway in good condition through Comanche county. Take highway No. 67 at DeLeon. Hard surfaced highway in excellent condition through Eastland county. Hard surfaced highway to Breckenridge.

Fort Worth to El Paso: Take highway No. 1—Hard surface highway in excellent condition through Tarrant county and Parker counties. Through Palo Pinto county detours will be necessary as the highway is under construction. Hard surface highway in good condition through Eastland county. From Eastland-Callahan county line to Baird, highway is under construction and a detour is necessary for several miles. From Baird to county line dirt road is in good condition. Through Taylor county gravel highway is rough. From Taylor-Nolan county line dirt road for some distance then gravel highway in good condition to Sweetwater; remainder of the distance to county line under construction. Through Mitchell county gravel highway the entire distance with the exception of a few miles near the county line which is dirt road in good condition. Gravel highway through Howard, Martin, Midland, Ector and Winkler counties. Gravel highway through Ward county for some distance then a dirt road for several miles before reaching Barstow, which is rough.

From Barstow to the county line, highway is under construction. It is necessary to detour for several miles through Reeves county due to construction work. From Toyah to the county line gravel highway in good condition. Through Culberson county, gravel highway. From Culberson-Hudspeth county line dirt road for few miles, then gravel highway remainder of distance across county. Rough stretches will be found between Sierra Blanca and Ft. Hancock. From Hudspeth-El Paso county line to Fabens, hard surface highway in good condition. It is necessary to detour from Fabens to Ysleta due to construction work. From Ysleta to El Paso hard surface highway in good condition.

Locked Trunk Warns Wichitans to Hide Their Jewels Away

To those who entered the doors of the City National bank on Friday a very unique display in the lobby, consisting of trunks, handbags and suitcases, was the subject of many inquiries and cause for conservation. Placards reading "pack your valuables in trunks and store them," "store your valuables in our storage vault," etc., gives vent to the old adage, "better be safe than sorry."

Vacation time is fast approaching and many will depart to cooler climes. The summer is nearing and many doors and windows will be left open in the home and offices thereby making it easier for the burglar and sneak-thief to commit his crimes.

The City National bank is putting on a special campaign this month to induce the public to use their vaults for storage purposes. They have just recently added a large vault in which can be placed trunks, boxes, handbags, suit cases, etc., for any length of time desired. This vault is in addition to the regular safety deposit vault, in which boxes of most any size to suit one's fancy can be found.

CRIME AND COURTEY MIX.

Bandits Help Fainting Cashier and Return Personal Funds.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Five armed holdup men mixed courtesy with crime in stealing $12,000 from the offices of the Sheffield Farms company, Astoria, today.

The men entered the offices and robbed drivers of the dairy who were turning in their collections to the cashier. To one they returned $5, which he said was his own, and to another they tossed 52 cents for carfare.

'COUNTESS' GETS JAIL TERM

Received $50,000 by Selling Fake Stock To Immigrants, Say Police

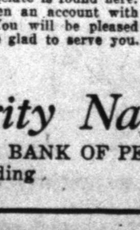

NEW YORK, May 2.—Mrs. Martha Fitzgerald, who is said by the police to have used such high-sounding aliases as Baroness Duerer, Countess Mierse and Princess Gussow, was sentenced today to the penitentiary for an indefinite term by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions for grand larceny.

Police charge that Mrs. Fitzgerald in the last ten years has received $50,000 by swindling immigrant women. It is alleged Mrs. Fitzgerald said she owned a large chemical factory in New Jersey and sold thousands of shares of worthless stock.

Wilbur Considers Ruling Concerning Official Titles

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Wilbur has taken under advisement an opinion by the judge advocate General Francisco Romero, retired, a are not entitled by law to the titles of rank borne by officers of the line in the same grade.

Should the secretary issue an order in line with the opinion it would have the effect of abolishing the regulation issued by Secretary Daniels in 1918 which did away with the distinctions previously existing between line and staff and caused a commotion which has not ceased to re-echo in navy circles.

Mr. Wilbur is expected to hear arguments from both line and staff officers before determining his course of action in respect to the judge advocate's opinion, and it is possible he may defer final action until congress meets and then ask legislation to settle the question definitely.

Should the navy revert to the system obtaining prior to 1918 there would be pay directors instead of admirals and captains in the pay corps, chaplains instead of captains in the chaplains' corps, surgeon general would replace the title of rear admiral for the officer in charge of the bureau of medicine and surgery and officers in the construction corps would be naval constructors.

12 Percent Cut Is Possible in Income Taxes, Experts Say

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Unofficial estimates by treasury officials indicate that a 12 per cent reduction in income taxes may be possible as the next step in lifting the federal tax burden.

This figure, while calculated without intention to commit Secretary Mellon to any policy, was suggested today on the basis of an incomplete analysis of returns on income taxes, under present law as shown in the March or first quarterly installment. It would bear out previous estimates that another $200,000,000 total reduction could be made, effective on taxes paid in 1926.

Present indications are that the treasury will avoid making any definite proposal to the next congress when it is expected the tax question again will live. While Mr. Mellon has made no direct statement on the subject most of his advisers favor keeping the treasury out of the fight; they are urging that the treasury inform congress of the state of the finances and point out what is possible, thus leaving the whole question of rates for the congressional leaders to decide.

The first indication that another cut in income taxes was possible was given when the March installment exceeded the treasury's estimate, made last summr, by about $8,000,000. Further evidence that total revenue receipts will be larger than originally calculated is given also in receipts from import tariffs which just now are about $5,000,000 above the amount collected to the same date in 1924.

LAUGH IS TURNED ON MULE

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, May 2.—A local mule that used to laugh at the farmer's whip now has something else to think about. But let Logan A. H. Beebe, the farmer, tell about it:

"This mule was lazy. I teamed him with three horses to my disc harrow and every time I tried to whip him I agitated the horses and only amused the mule.

"So I rigged up a battery on my disc seat, connected with wires on the mule's harness. When I close the circuit the mule gets lots of energy, while the horses know nothing about it."

Bliss and Rodgers in Radio Debate Over Preparedness Need

WASHINGTON, May 2. — Arguments for and against military preparedness as the principal reliance for peace were presented in a radio debate tonight by former chiefs of the navy and army general staffs. Admiral William L. Rodgers represented the proponents of peace by armed might and Major General Tasker H. Bliss, those endorsing "peace by cooperation."

Both have been retired after service careers of unusual length and scope.

Reviewing what he termed the basic differences between the national viewpoint in the United States and that in her potential enemies, Admiral Rodgers insisted that "the present heedless attitude toward preparation and particularly naval invites foreign contempt and at any moment may bring disaster."

General Bliss contended that the world peace problem was "identical with the problem between France and Germany—security.

Three Small Children Awaited Him Along Tracks.

VAN BUREN, N. Y., May 2.—While three small children looked on Joseph Sajski, 41, a farmer, was instantly killed today by a New York Central passenger train on a grade crossing. The speeding train carried the dead man 500 feet along the tracks in the wrecked auto.

The children, who had been on a visit, were waiting for their father by the roadside. They saw him driving beyond the tracks and waved to him. A west bound freight train made Sajski stop. Just as the freight passed and he started his car the passenger train struck the machine in the middle.

Delco Light Plant Has Changed Farm Life, Claim Makers

"Before the days of the motor car," says Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, "five or ten miles distance from a town meant real isolation for the farmer. Today the good roads movement is bringing turnpikes past his gate; the ruts and mudholes are fast disappearing. He gets his daily paper, his morning mail, the city's best talent in radio concerts and dance music. The motor car has brought his crops nearer to market because it has reduced miles to minutes. The farmer's family enjoys the social and educational advantages of the city. His car is as indispensable as his telephone.

"Until recently, however, there has been one serious handicap for the farmer, and particularly the farmer's wife—lack of electric power and electric light. General Motors, through its subsidiary, the Delco-Light company, of Dayton, Ohio, has been a pioneer in overcoming this handicap."

Only as Auto Co.

Most people have looked upon General Motors purely as an automobile producer. As a matter of fact, this corporation has extended its activities until today its various divisions contribute to almost every phase of industrial and home life. And not the least important of its contributions to progress has been the developing and marketing of Delco-Light electricity power plants, which have practically revolutionized farm life, transforming dark houses into bright, cheerful homes, freeing the hand that carried the lantern, turning the cream separator, churning the butter, washing the clothes and lifting a thousand and one burdens from human shoulders, performing them in half the time.

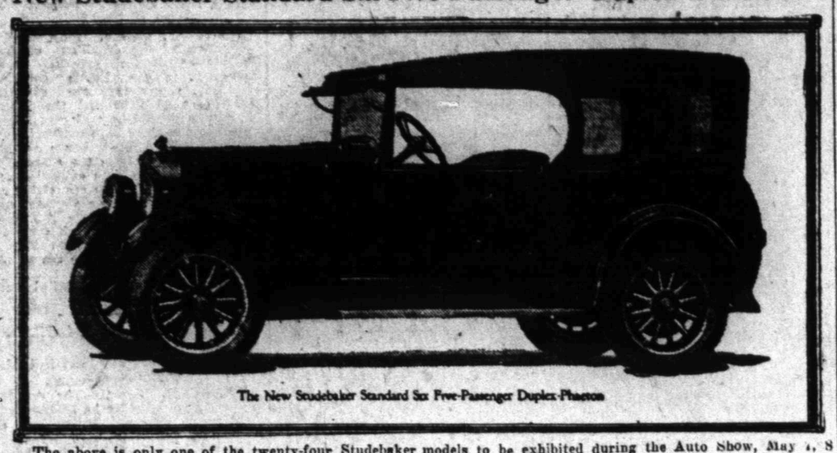

Complete Electric Plant.

Delco-Light products include a complete, self-contained electric plant, made in a variety of sizes. More than a quarter of a million of these plants have been installed since production started. Consisting of a ... one-cylinder engine, using gasoline or kerosene, air-cooled, it is connected directly to an electric generator which charges a storage battery, operating automatically and keeping sufficient stored-up electric energy at all times to offset the drains made upon it.

Its development made possible the introduction to the farm of the electric water pump, the electric clothes washer, the electric refrigerator—all Delco-Light products. Conservatively estimated, based upon testimonials, the motor-driven Delco-Light plants in operation are saving at least an hour a day in 250,000 places where they are installed, or over 91,000,000 work hours yearly—equivalent to the time of 50,000 men working 10 hours a day for 182 days.

Distribution of Delco-Light electric power plants in the United States and Canada is accomplished through 23 branches and 49 distributors in principal cities. This organization directs more than 4,000 sales and service men. There are 53 distributors in overseas countries.

Past Winter Will Go Down as Next to The Driest Ever in Texas

HOUSTON, May 2.—The winter of 1924-25 in Texas will go down in weather records as the driest in 31 years with one exception. The exception is the winter of 1917-18 when the rainfall was about an inch and a half less than the season just passed, according to the United States agricultural bureau here.

From October 1, 1924, to February 28, 1925, the rainfall in the cotton belt of this state was 4.92 inches. For a similar five months period in 1917-18 it was 3.40 inches. The March precipitation this year, however, was far below that of the dry season eight years ago, being .63 of an inch this March against 1.35 inches in March 1918. This is the lowest March rainfall since 1899 which recorded .42 of an inch. In that year 2,925,000 bales of cotton were produced from 6,642,000 acres, with a rainfall for the season of 8.42 inches.

The bumper crop of 1924 with 4,852,000 bales from 16,198,000 acres had a rainfall of 17.84 from October 1, to February 28, and 2.26 in March.

The next largest crop was in 1912 when 4,645,000 bales were harvested from 11,338,000 acres with fall and winter rainfall of 11.16 inches, and March rainfall of 2.75 inches.

Mrs. Broushard, under 20-year sentence, for killing her husband, wept as she kissed her mother good bye at the jail. She was well dressed.

PLEASED WITH GULF PORTS

Washington Ship Head Returns From Galveston Inspection Trip.

WASHINGTON, May 2—President Palmer of the fleet corporation has returned from an inspection trip of port facilities at Galveston, Houston, New Orleans and Mobile and expressed himself pleased with conditions at the gulf ports.

Mr. Palmer said he had opportunity not only to look over shipping conditions but to establish valuable contacts with shippers, business men and organizations and was impressed with the progressiveness of that section. Everything there pointed, he said, to a continued development.

Dodge Truck Sales Show Marked Rise

Official figures from Detroit for the first quarter of 1925 show that Graham Brothers rank first in the world in the production and sale of 1 1-2 ton trucks.

In the 1 ton and 1 1-2 ton truck fields combined they were surpassed in volume only by Ford. "The information may be surprising to the general public," said Julian McFall, local Dodge Brothers dealer, "but not to us, nor to those who are familiar with the performance of Graham Brothers Trucks and with their rapid ascendancy in the industry during the last three years.

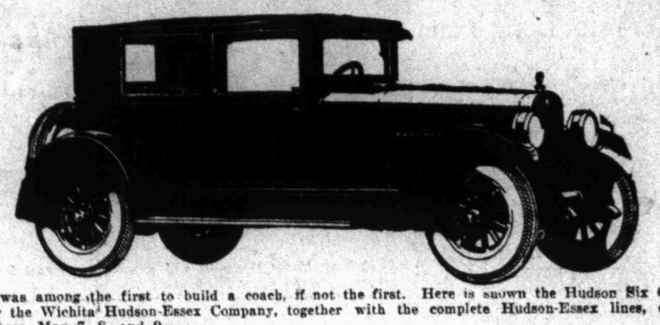

"Their advance has been without ostentation. There has been no blare of trumpets, no exaggerated claims. It has been a steady, wholesome growth, based entirely upon the truck's performance."

Less than three years ago Graham Brothers were in twentieth position. Now they are manufacturing trucks at the rate of over 100 a day, marketing their entire output through Dodge Brothers dealers. This sales and service advantage of a strong dealer organization, combined with the exceptional merit of the truck itself, is regarded as one of the chief reasons for the rapid advance to leadership. Dodge Brothers dealers everywhere are highly regarded and their service facilities are uniformly above the average. Service is an exceedingly important factor in the operation of a truck and business men are not slow to appreciate the advantage of having genuine parts instantly available when needed. Graham Brothers attribute their rapid advance to the following four reasons:

1. Distinct price advantage.
2. Pronounced quality advantage.
3. Dodge Brothers engine.
4. Substantial character of Dodge Brothers dealer organization.

"Publication of this information regarding Graham Brothers first place in the industry," said Mr. McFall, "is prompted wholly by the belief that truck buyers are entitled to know the trend of the times. With the facts before them, few would consider buying other equipment without first determining the reason for Graham Brothers rapid advance."

Overland Auto Was Carefully Built To Wear for Long Time

Recent statements by motor car authorities and research experts attribute an average life of eight years to the modern automobile. Willys-Overland engineers who have designed and built the new Overland six, are unanimous in their belief that their new product will average even greater longevity than this period.

Months of earching and severe tests, they feel, have given Willys-Overland a car in this new model that will survive roughest treatment. Each minute detail has been designed with stamina in mind, from the selection of the raw material to the final assembly

Material Carefully Chosen.

In choosing the material which is to be used in a given part, the work which is called upon to do determines the selection. Chrome molybdenum steel, better able to withstand the shocks and strains to which a rear axle is submitted than any other known alloy, is used in the rear axle shafts. Differential gears and pinions are made of nickel steel — an alloy especially adapted to a use of this kind, as it lends itself readily to heat treatment which toughens it. To secure maximum wear the gears are still further hardened.

Transmission gears are also subjected to heavy strains, and in order that they may properly stand up in service, they are made of chrome carbon steel, heat treated for greater strength and wear.

Overland six springs are of chrome-vanadium steel properly heat treated by highly developed processes which assure uniformity, at the same time that they render the springs most flexible and strong, enabling them to absorb all road shocks which would otherwise rack the car to pieces.

Choice of materials for engine parts is made with equal care. The cylinder block is of finest grey iron because this material is best suited for the varying heat conditions to which the engine is subjected. To insure maximum strength and rigidity the cylinder block and upper half of the crankcase are cast in one piece, giving better alignment of bearings, which in turn means less wear and strain on the parts.

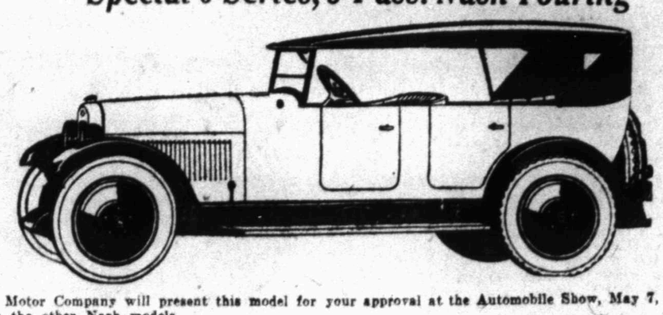

Pistons Are Treated.

Pistons are made of special heat treated permanent mold cast aluminum alloy, and are of split skirt type. Connecting rods are channel section forgings of carbon steel, with the babbit in the big end integrally cast into them. Main bearings are of Chadwick type, which is ranked among the very best motor car manufacture.

Similar attention is given to the selection of the materials used in the body, fenders and radiator. Roller and ball bearings are generously used in the wheels, axels, transmission and differential wherever necessary, to insure minimum wear and adjustment.

Another feature that insures further stamina is the provision for thorough lubrcation and cooling of the engine. Provision is also made for proper lubrication of chassis and steering mechanism, at points where lubrication is required to permit the parts to work with perfect freedom.

INVESTIGATE EXPRESS WRECK

Believe Fatal Polish Derailment Was Work of Foul Play.

WARSAW, Poland, May 2.—Investigation of the derailing of the Eydtkuhnen-Berlin express near Starogard, in the Polish corridor, yesterday, shows that the disaster, which cost 28 lives and the injury of 18, was caused by foul play. Bolts were found to have been removed from the rails and a crow bar was discovered 50 yards from the scene.

Belief is expressed in official quarters that it was the work either of communist terrorists or German nationalists seeking to prove it impossible to maintain the Polish corridor, the strip of land by which Poland was given an outlet to the sea in the after-war settlement.

The opening session will be held in the senate chamber at the capitol at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Arranged in Sections.

The meeting has been arranged into sections, for the convenience of the delegates. Divisions include the following subjects: Medicine and diseases of children, state medicine and public hygiene, surgery, opthalmolgy, othology, rhinology and laryngology, radiology and physiotheraphy; gynecology and obstetrics.

The Texas railway surgical and hygenical association and the state pathological society of Texas will also meet in conjunction with the general convention.

Bledsoe to Speak.

Dr. M. F. Bledsoe, Port Arthur, president of the state association will make an address at the First Baptist church at the morning service tomorrow. Other physicians who will occupy pulpits and the subjects upon which they will speak are: Dr. W. B. Russ, San Antonio, "How the Usefulness of the Medical Profession to the Public Can Be Increased"; Dr. C. M. Rosser, Dallas, "The Human Highway"; Dr. S. E. Thompson, Kerrville, "My People Are Destroyed for Lack of Knowledge"; Dr. John O. McReynolds, Dallas, subject not announced.

Besides a comprehensive technical program on scientific and educational subjects a program of entertainment has been arranged, with special attention that to be provided for a large number of visiting women who are expected to attend. Receptions in their honor will be given at the governor's mansion, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Sevier and at the Austin Country club.

DALLAS PAYMASTER ROBBED

DALLAS, May 2.—Five automobile bandits, driving a touring car, robbed Milton R. Vorhies, paymaster for the Chilton Cement company, of $1,000 after blinging him with red pepper here this afternoon. The robbers escaped. He told police he was driving through a park when the robbers overtook him, four of them grabbed a sack of money in the bottom of his car, tossing the pepper into his eyes as they did so.

Marmon Sets New Uniform Part Rates

Establishment of flat and uniform rates for motor car parts manufactured by the Nordyke & Marmon company effective April 1, was announced by H. H. Brooks, sales manager of the Nordyke & Marmon company in a letter sent to Marmon distributors and dealers. The new policy is of distinct advantage to purchasers of Marmon car parts as the price for each part is the same in all parts of the United States with the exception of the territory west of the Rocky Mountains, where the prices will be 10 per cent greater.

The uniform rate policy was adopted after an exhaustive survey of the parts problem by the statistical department of the Nordyke & Marmon company. Under the new system with a few exceptions the Nordyke & Marmon company will pay the transportation charges and excise tax on all freight shipments of parts listed in the Marmon regular parts catalogue. The list prices of parts will prevail in all distributor and dealer establishments, removing the confusion attendant to the old system, where the prices varied in different distributor and dealer establishments.

"The interest of the purchaser of Marmon parts were paramount at all times in the study of the parts problem which preceded the adoption of the flat rate system," said Mr. Brooks. "Tourists traveling from one part of the country to the other now will find the prices for parts the same wherever they go, an obvious advantage. List prices of parts also are being changed to conform with the new system and the new prices may be learned upon application to any Marmon dealer or distributor."

CLEANING OF GAS BENEFITS CUSTOMER

Cleaning of natural gas, as practiced by this company, is of great benefit to the gas consumer. The process removes gasoline and water vapor from the gas, leaving it pure and dry.

Some people think that this process deprives the gas of some of its heat, but they are mistaken in that. The gasoline removed would never reach the consumer, as it would condense rapidly in the pipe lines and have to be withdrawn through traps. Not only that, but it would also rot out the gaskets in pipe lines, thereby causing serious leaks.

Removal of the other impurities prevents gumming of burner outlets and clogging of small pipes as well, so that the process is of even more benefit to the consumer than to the gas companies.

Cadillac Co. Names New President And A General Manager

The selection of Lawrence P. Fisher as the new president and general manager of the Cadillac Motor company is regarded by Hugh Bassett of the Munger Automobile company, as the most important development in that organization since the introduction of its original Eight in 1914.

"Those of us who represent the Cadillac company are perhaps the only ones fully to sense the importance of Mr. Fisher's appointment," said Mr. Bassett yesterday.

"First, the public demand for eights forced Cadillac into a notable plant extension. Next, the completion of the finest motor car factory in America called for more intensive market development. Then came the notable engineering advances and consequently manufacturing improvements evidenced in the present splendid Cadillac models."

"So that today, with the whole industry subscribing to the correctness of Cadillac pudgment in turning exclusively to the eight-cylinder principle more than ten years ago, the Cadillac company gains doubly from the strength of such leadership as Mr. Fisher can give."

"Cadillac has won a position of pre-eminence in public regard through its engineering and mechanical leadership. To develop this world-wide good-will and place the Cadillac organization in a position best to serve its ever-widening public calls for the vision, the aggression and the enthusiasm which Mr. Fisher brings us."

"While compartively unknown to the car-driving public, Lawrence Fisher is no new figure either to us or to the automotive industry. We in the Cadillac organization know him as a leading factor in the creation of Fisher bodies, which have played so important a role in public appreciation of Cadillac."

"Though an unusually young man to occupy so important a position, Mr. Fisher is only 36-years-old—he has demonstrated tremendous executive ability. As vice-president of the Fisher Body corporation, he has been for years one of the heads of the largest organization of its kind in the world. As vice-president and member of the executive board of General Motors, he has been an initiator of some of that corporation's most vital policies."

Knows Nothing, But Understands All, Said of Briand

PARIS, May 2.—The difference in the working methods of the present minister of foreign affairs and his immediate predecessors is illustrated by M. Briand's first resumption of contact with former collaborators in the Quai D'Orsay. Without waiting for the heads of the services of the ministry to set forth the situation of different problems for solution, Briand started it with "If I am not mistaken, the situation ought to be just about this."

Then the minister went on to describe the state of affairs quite as accurately as could those who had been in daily contact with the questions. Noting the astonishment of his collaborators M. Briand remarked "why it couldn't be otherwise."

The distance between B. Briand and both his predecessors was summed up by a man on the Quai d'Orsay staff thus: "M. Poincare and M. Herriot both worked. M. Briand never has to work," justifying the oft quoted saying of former Premier Clemenceau, "Briand knows nothing but understands everything."

M. Briand, who is at the Quai d'Orsay for the fifth time, long has had the reputation of being at outs with all forms of work. His friends declare this a misleading reputation. They admit he has a method of arriving at results that involve less labor than seems required of other statesmen, that is to say, it is unfair to deduce that he lacks energy and industry.

CAL HOPEFUL OF LULL

He Thinks Country Will Profit When Congress Stops Business.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The lull in governmental activities during the congressional recess in the opinion of President Coolidge, should be profitable to the country.

With little transpiring in the national capital to engage its attention, as the president sees it, the public has an opportunity to give undivided thought to the conduct of private business.

Mr Coolidge believes that the country at large will appreciate being relieved of the necessity of looking to Washington every day to see what is going to be done and that business men particularly will be able to carry on their affairs without fear that a change of law or a neg regulation might jeopardize their committments or alter the basis of their investments.

Working Girls Take Over Secluded Path

LONDON, May 2.—Working girls and clerks astride of prancing horses have invaded fashionable Rotten Row in Hyde Park in such numbers that it no longer seems the exclusive bridal path for those with either aristocratic blood or plutocratic purse. These days, the Sunday morning dress parades in the park may think they are looking at the smart set galloping by but the riders are just as likely to be bar maids or book makers.

Park officials say that some of the best riders in the row are country bumpkins who acquired the art of looking well in the saddle as boys and girls and have since come to the city and done well in business. One of the best riders of the lot was brought upon a Devonshire farm and is now a bar maid in a well known West End pub. A young man who is also frequently seen, learned how to sit the saddle during the war. He is a shoe clerk now.

Mounts are hired for a few shillings per hour, the price having been recently reduced, making the pastime safe for democracy.

King George's Sister Suffers Sever Hemorrhage.

LONDON, May 2.—The Princess Royal Louise, sister of King George, yesterday suffered a severe shock of gastric hemorrhage which was followed by considerable weakness.

A medical bulletin this morning says that after a restful night her highness regained some strength and there has been no recurrence of the incident.

The Princess Royal, who was born February 20, 1867, is the widow of the Duke of Fife, who died in January, 1912.

Berlin Prisoners Twin Ostriches

BERLIN, May 2.—Prisons in Berlin jails have become human ostriches. The habit of swallowing knives, forks and spoons in order to be removed from a cell to a hospital for an operation has become so general among prisoners that x-Ray machines have been installed and all prisoners' stomachs are photographed to see whether they contain any stray cutlery before an operation is permitted.

The expanation of the sword swallowing emulations is that it is much easier to escape from a hospital than from a jail and Berlin prisoners have shown a disposition to prefer the risk of an operation and the enhanced opportunity it gives for escape rather than serving out their sentences in a normal manner.

Before swallowing knives and forks the prisoners bend back the prongs and edges so they will not penetrate the walls of the stomach.

San Antonio Carpenter Is Hurled to Pavement by Collision.

SAN ANTONIO, May 2.—Hurled to the pavement in a motor crash, J. E. Morris was instantly killed about 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Howe—About Altruistic Singers—Universal Dishonesty—Female Card Players

By ED. W. HOWE

The ancients had a notion that the three elemental thrills were Wine, Women and Song. Women are the first thrill for men, and men for women, but Money and Gossip beat Wine and Song for both sexes.

I often think the world, poor as it is, suits the men better than it does women. Of complaints, probably more come from women than from men. And this is reasonable: women have the worst of it.

It is not surprising that a woman hates the men. From the time she is a little girl, the subject is discussed before her: not only by women, but men themselves are always issuing warnings against each other. Likewise she bears nothing but compliments for women: how they are imposed on by men; how they are patient, and have ideals the men never fulfill: how men eat like pigs, smoke too much, run around too much, sleep too late, idle too much, and are stingy with their money. The wonder is that a girl, after reaching 17 or 18, will associate with men. If she ever learns that women, too, have faults, she must learn it for herself: from the meanness of other women—the men never say anything about it.

Everyone thinks a good deal; all of us probably devote half our time to it—it is important that when you think, you think correctly, and think mainly of things of importance. You can't always, or half the time, be sensible, but one should work toward correct thinking so far as he is able. Half the American thinking is villainy of one sort or another; and villainy is always doomed to failure.

Abuse is not a bad thing for men, although it is ruinous to women. I know two men who were rather cocky, and who became the subjects of very venomous newspaper abuse, much of it untrue. It actually did both men good; they became more modest, more effective. If a man abuses a woman, he is knocked down, but cheered, if he abuses a man.

I was talking lately with a young woman who has an ambition to become a concert singer. She said that in her dreary practicing, she was encouraged by the hope of finally giving the people pleasure. What an old flim flam that giving the people pleasure is! Her real ambition is, of course, to charge the people three dollars for tickets.

In a certain business institution there are two divorce cases, and seven enthusiastic members of clubs of various kinds. The institution is going to pieces so certainly that other business men in the town are preparing to charge it off as a total loss.

If you cannot interest people, at least do not bore them; you can accomplish that. Probably people generally suffer most from being more bored.

I have observed the people make charges of corruption on slight evidence. In a certain town seven horse races have been run every day for two months, and it is generally charged that everyone was "fixed". I doubt that one of them was.

All use the word Heaven a good deal. The dictionary says it means a condition of bliss. Usually we think of heaven as a mythical place somewhere beyond the skies: the dictionary says there is but one such place. But human nature knows a thousand, and, after centuries of longing and seeking, has never found one of them. I have an occasional suggestion of heaven, and so have you, but the devils soon chase us away. Probably a man should give most of his energy and talent to managing his devils, as the best way to get an occasional glimpse of heaven.

I have no candidates in mind, but we should be extremely careful in selecting our representatives abroad. They always have a lot of clever rogues to deal with. No American with the usual big heart should be sent abroad to represent us; the meaner and smarter our ambassadors, the better: the contests have gone so steadily against us so many years that we are beginning to note the punishment. All over Europe there is sneering at Cute Yankees who have been outsmarted.

My contention about dishonesty is that it is universal, and that all who engage in it make a mistake. Such credit as there is must fairly go to those who are least dishonest.

How we exaggerate our ills! Except the flood, nothing was ever as bad as at first reported.

When I lose my temper around home, and violently charge that something I have put away carefully has been moved, I not only suffer the penalty of impatience; in nine cases out of ten, Hannah, the colored woman, or Adelaide, my niece, come in quietly, and point out that what I have lost is exactly where I put it. So I suffer from humiliation also.

I know a woman who is a lady in everything save a card game. It is foolish to spoil a nice woman for a foolish game of cards so I shall play no more with her, and make up.

It is easy to be good to babies a year or two old, they are so innocent. But babies seventy or eighty years old are a great trial, they are so sophisticated and insulting.

I do not advise you how to think; only to think honestly. If you will think honestly and fairly, you are on the right road, to such reform as is within your reach.

Everyone of fair intelligence knows the importance of modesty; bragging will not do, if one hopes to get along; people themselves are braggarts, and quickly condemn the habit in others. I have often observed the studied attempts of people to be modest, and that it comes hard with them when they want to brag, but know it is not advistable to do so and so refrain as much as they can.

Modesty is a civilized, a cultivated habit; a man's natural instinct is to advertise impudently, and claim more than he is entitled to.

But he has somehow learned the value of modesty, and tamely tries to practice it.

It is an old saying that if you remain quiet, and permit a man to talk freely, he will give himself away; tell his secrets, lay bare his motives, display his weaknesses. Same way with a writer; you can tell what sort of man he is by looking over his complaints and notions. I can always tell—or think I can—whether I would like to personally know a writer. I was reading a woman lately, and decided she is the sort of woman everyone runs from.

Few of us are willing to steal openly, but we are all willing to be openly unfair and untruthful.

Riches usually sober men, and cause them to realize their responsibility; but riches spoil women.

I know a man who is a great talker; but his stories are so long he is never able to tell more than two or three a day.

Ft. Worth Man Dies Of Throat Cancer

FORT WORTH, May 2.—Thomas A. Hickey, 57, nationally known character, died early Saturday morning at St. Joseph's Infirmary after a protracted illness due to cancer of the throat.

Hickey was born in Dublin, Ireland, and was well educated. He became a newspaper writer early in life and worked in New York with some of the famous writers of more than a quarter of a century ago. He later became identified with the socialist party and was well known as a "soap box orator." He ran for lieutenant governor of Texas some years ago.

Performance

Overlooking that obvious fact, and that accidents seldom occur when going up a steep mountain grade but 90 per cent of them when coming down—buyers have been satisfied with cars that would show good hill climbing qualities. Little thought has been given to the vital quality of ability to descend just as steep a grade with absolute safety and always under control.

Power alone will take the car up—but on the return you have just as much power forcing you down the steep incline—though the motor be "dead".

The best 4-wheel brakes in the world make this Rickenbacker capable of descending, in safety, any grade its wheels can hold—just as it will ascend anything that any car on earth can climb.

And this is the crux of the matter—these brakes are always "there". No oil or other liquid to leak out in hot weather or to congeal in cold—for these are purely mechanical brakes.

These Rickenbacker 4-wheel brakes show an average of more than 10,000 miles without adjustment—so slight is the heat generated, so low the pressure on each of the four.

No matter how steep or how long the hill — your Rickenbacker brakes will not overheat, grab nor jerk.

In a word, you have in this car de-celeration equal in smoothness and power to its amazing acceleration.

Drive this Rickenbacker yourself—it will be a revelation to you.

Ring Hears of a Guy That Can Do Anything—Mr. Tobin Escorts Lonely Wives, and Ferrets Out Odd Perfumes—Hard Man to Baffle—By Lardner

To the editor:

A glance at the help wanted columns of our big dailies will convince anybody that they's plenty of queer professions and out of the way jobs in this world. Once in a wile the attention of the public is attracted to same by a special article about a man that don't do nothing day in and day out but stand up and let people shoot at him to test whether his bullet proof vest is really bullet proof or not.

A article of this kind generally always makes interesting reading and for that reason I will say a few wds. today in regards to Wm. N. Tobin who you don't need to read this if you have heard of him before, but if not why he may be just the man that you or your friends has been looking for to help them out of their dilemma.

Toby On the Scent.

Mr. Tobin is located on west 44th. st., in N. Y. city and his slogan is "whatever you want, tell or telegraph Tobin." Mr. Tobin "specializes in human service." They ain't nothing you can ask him to do but what he won't at least try and do it and so far as we been able to learn his batting average is pretty close to 1,000. A few samples of commissions he has carried out recently will convince the reader that he ain't easy to baffle.

1. They was a business man living in a good size town that wanted 5,000 brand new U. S. pennies to use in a advertising campaign. The banks in his town couldn't supply him so he telegraphed Tobin and the next A. M. he had the pennies.

2. They was a U. S. army officer that got married in Europe during the war, but his wife didn't come back with him. He was now stationed at a western post in the U. S. and sent for her to cross the old pond and join him. At the last minute, wile she was on the way across, he found out he couldn't get leave to go to N. Y. and meet her. So he telegraphed Tobin and Tobin met her and showed her the city and put her on the right train west.

3. They was a big business concern holding a convention in N. Y. and the president of it decided all of a sudden to give a New Years party for the other officials and their wives, but they was one young vice-president from out of town that didn't have no wife or a female acquaintance of any kind in N. Y. He telephoned Tobin and in a few minutes he was on his way to the party with a dame that made the rest of them look like general housework.

4. They was a lady down south that was crazy about a certain perfume which she had got a whiff of it somewheres, but she couldn't remember the name of it. She described to her husband what it smelled like and he looked for it in pretty near every perfume joint in the country, but without no luck. He was about to give up when he heard of Tobin and told him his problem. Tobin was soon on the scent and the wife got the perfume.

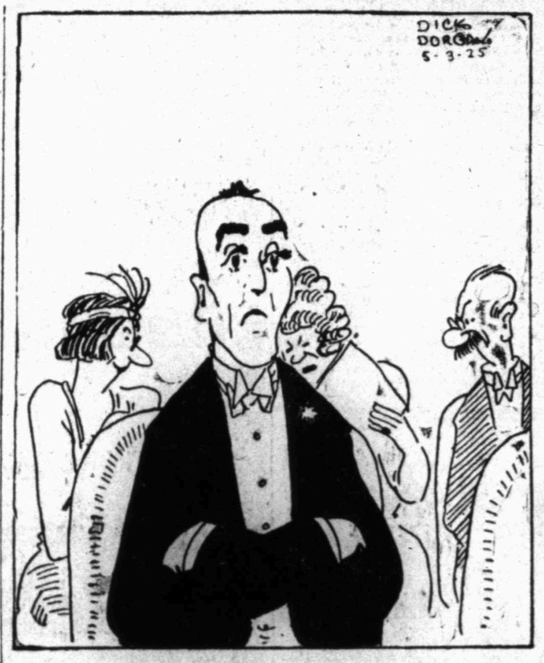

Now I ain't nobody's press agent outside of my own family, but it seems to me like it would be nothing short of criminal to keep Tobin a secret. Personly they's been many a occasion when I could of used him to advantage and I have no doubt the big majority of my friends often finds themselves in the same kind of jams.

Like for example I was standing on the corner of 41st st. and 7th ave. one day and I had about 12 minutes to catch a train at the Pennsylvania station. My dogs was fretting me so bad that I didn't want to walk, but the subway would get me there too soon and I didn't feel like risking my life and climb in a taxi. A 7th ave. surface car would of suited me fine, but I couldn't coax none of them to stop and leave me get aboard. Finely I give it up and took a taxi, but it was then too late to catch the train. Had I of knew about Tobin how simple it would of been to commission him to come over and stop one of them surface cars.

Another time I was sitting in the Metropolitan opera house trying to listen to a performance of Lohengrin and they was a couple sitting in back of me that kept talking out loud all the wile about how much better it was the last time they heard it and I didn't have the nerve to ask them to shut their mouth and just had to set there and be made at them. If I had communicated with Tobin how simple for him to of dropped in on them like it was by accident and pretended their house was on fire and they must hurry right home.

What a blessing oit would of been on different occassions for Joie Ray and Willie Ritola and etc. if they could of got a hold of Tobin and had him stop Nurmi in the middle of a race and ask him how was everybody back in Helsingfors. And what a boon to Tiger Flowers to have Tobin on hand to keep tickling Delaney or annoying him some way another so as he would forget what he had came for.

I don't suppose they's a one of us but what can recall the time when Tobin would of been a godsend and a specially the ladies. How silly, girlies, for you to endure the painful embarrassments of wall flowerdom when a phone call to Tobin will bring you a partner before the first encore is ½ over. And when you feel like it was time you was getting married, go ahead and make your plans and if no groom happens to show up, tell Tobin. Maybe he'll come himself.

They was a Couple Setting In Back That Kept Talking About How Much Better It Was The Last Time They Heard It.

If No Groom Happens To Show Up, Tell Tobin, Maybe He'll come Himself.

Potash and Perlmutter Discuss the Faithful Taximeter — By M. Glass

"I see where a traffic expert says in the papers that in the big cities of the country, Mawrus, there is too many taxicabs for the size of the population," Abe Potash announced the other morning, "and that there would be still more taxicabs and less population if the police don't do something on account taxidrivers not only couldn't drive but also couldn't figure, y'understand, and the consequences is they are cutting down their business by running over prospective customers at every street corner."

"Well, ever since people have been considering fifty cents to be chicken feed, taxicabs have become a big public necessity," Morris Perlmutter declared. "Which, when you reckon that salesmen whose time is worth a dollar an hour are sometimes compelled to wait thirty seconds on a street corner for a trolly car, Abe, you can easily see what a misfortune it would be for people like this, if the number of taxicabs were reduced?"

"What do such people do with all the time the save by not waiting for trolley cars?" Abe asked.

Agents for Popularity.

"They spend it in taxicabs which get blocked on account of the streets being filled with so many other taxicabs carrying people who are too busy to wait for trolley cars," said Morris, "but what really and truly chokes the streets of a big city with taxicabs so that there ain't a wheel stirring for half an hour, Abe, is the number of taxicabs which are filled by people who are so lazy, shiftless and selfish that they never think of leaving their house or office to keep an appointment until at least a quarter of an hour after the time they should ought to have started if they didn't want to be more than ten minutes late.

"They then use the etxicab not only as cab, y'understand, but also as an alibi, and having already wasted three-quarters of an hour of somebody's time, they go ahead and waste another quarter of an hour by talking about how terrible traffic conditions have become nowadays."

"But from what I read in the papers, Mawruss," Abe observed, "the streets would become choked by taxicabs which are used for holdups and pay roll robberies alone, especially in New York and Chicago."

"A certain amount of street space is taken up by such taxicabs," Morris admitted, "but on the other hand, Abe, the people who are responsible for the streets being filled from curb to curb with taxicabs, ain't so much the taxi drivers as the people who design fashions for women in the way of short skirts, particularly when used in combination with sheer stockings and the kind of shoes women has been wearing lately.

"The average women's shoes, nowadays, with the ankle straps and the same cut down at the instep ain't suited for no longer a walk than from a street door, across the sidewalk to a taxicab waiting at the curb. Furthermore, Abe, skirts, coats and even furs are so designed this spring, that a fashionably dressed woman ain't got nothing below the knees between her and the weather except about one-fiftieth of an inch of silk webbing, and for the sake of decency if not health, big improvement on the old-fashioned hack"; Abe said, "which I can remember in the old days when you arrived at a railroad station or a steamboat landing with baggage and had to take a hack, it practically cost you the equivalent of two days' board and lodging to reach the hotel, whereas nowadays, Mawruss, the taximeter on the cab shows you exactly what you've got to pay and there are no arguments."

"Not for the passenger there ain't," Morris said, "but for my part, Abe, if I get into a scrap with a cab driver about his fare, y'understand, I'd just as leave fight the thing out on its merits and not be handicapped by a taximeter, because if there's anything which can lie worse about the legal fare than a hack driver, it's a taximeter.

"In fact, Abe, the taximeter has made it practically unnecessary for a hack driver to lie about his fare, y'understand, she ought to be hidden with anyhow a taxicab."

"Still, Mawruss, the taxicab is a in particuar as nowadays, most people are very superstitious and believe everything the read on a taximeter."

"But I thought the police was supposed to inspect taximeters," Abe said.

"They're supposed to inspect taxi driver too," Morris continued "and all I can say is, Abe, that if the police are as chaitable towards machinecy as they are towards human beings, y'understand' the most you could say about a taximeter which has been inspected and passed by the police is that anybody is liable to make a mistake and it's a whole lot better to boost than to knock.

"Furtherbore, Abe, nothing can get more quickly corrupted by bad copany than a taximeter, y'understand, and even if a taximeter is honest and reliable when inspected and passed by the police, understand me, ten minutes after it becomes acquainted with a crooked taxi driver, it will be just as fast as he is, and a little faster even."

"The night air also seems to have a bad effect on taximeters," Morris went on to say. "If you take a taxicab from 42nd. Street to Columbus Circle in the daytime, Abe, the fare will be all the way from thirty-five cents to sixty cents, depending on how much the taxi driver has monkeyed with the taximeter, y'understand, but any time after midnight, the fare for the same distance will be at least a dollar on any taximeter, and in the colder hours, just before daylight, it's apt to cost you as much as five dollars if you don't dispute it, and a fractured skull if you do."

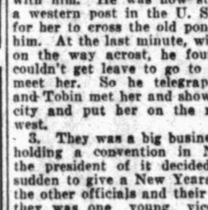

"Well, the mistake that most people make who ride home in taxicabs just before daybreak, Mawruss, is in believing that the driver ain't as big a loafer as the passenger," Abe remarked. "People come out of a night club at half past four in the morning after paying two dollars apiece for half a dozen highballs made out of re-distilled industrial alcohol mixed with ether and flavored with creosote, y'understand, and they expect that the first taxicab they fell into, is going to be driven by somebody who is as reliable as a paying teller in a first national bank.

"Which if I would be running a taxicab license bureau, Mawruss, I would make it a rule that after two in the morning, taxi passengers should be treated the same as taxi meters and should be inspected by the police, and if it was found that they had been tampered with and wasn't running hight, they should be immediately taken off the cab and confiscated."

"But even in broad daylight, Abe," Morris said, "the most reliable taximeter ain't such good judges of distance. I have traveled up and down town in taxicabs so often, Abe, that the scenery don't interest me no more. I therefore keep my eyes on the taximeter, Abe, and it's my opinion that the most liberal taximeter ever manufactured gives a shortage in delivery of from four to five hundred yards in every mile."

"In fact, Abe," Morris concluded, "this here Nurmi should ought to try a mile according to taximeter guaranteed, inspected and passed by the New York Taxicab License Bureau. He would make a paper record equal to any twenty-hour Chicago Limited, running in his street clothes with rubbers on."

Shrine All Set For Wichita Falls Exhibition Monday

The Luckey Sisters

"The Human Butterflies" with their aerial ballet, termed the act beautiful. The sisters make three ascensions to the dome of the big top on a revolving apparatus, while hanging by their teeth, and with their father, Charles Luckey, superintending the raising and lowering of the pondrous rigging. The Luckey Sisters are late features of the Sells-Floto Circus, now one of the principal attractions of the Bob Morton Company.

Robert H. Morton

"Bob" Morton as he is well a favorably known in the amusement world and in the realms of Shrinedom has the faculty of making and keeping friends and his friends are legion from coast to coast. He is beloved by the staff and performers alike from the humblest employe to the highest paid executive. The circus world knows him as a "square shooter" and his word is gold. Mr. Morton is a member of the Maskat Temple of Wichita Falls and is a frequent visitor to the city.

The Mangean Troup

Seven clever arcrobats comprise the Mangean troup, which is the only act of its kind in all the world. The act represents three generations of performers. Jack Mangean the originator and his company have for many years been feature attractions on the leading circuits and with circuses both in this country and Europe. The act's recent hit at the New York Hippodrome will positively appear at each and every performance of the Shrine Circus.

"Allie" Johnson

Famous Animal Impersonator Here With Circus

Known as the piece lion of a hundred movie plays, as the cow in "Babes in Toyland" as the rooster in "Chanticleer" and in many productions of Drury Lane theatre Xmas patomines in London and as the delineator of a hundred types of animals in leading theatrical and circus productions, "Allie" will be seen here circus week as "Tarzen of the Circus" which is his best and latest creation.

Chris Mangean

The New Fable of Stationary Touring—By George Ade

Once there was a well-to-do and well-mated couple, known as Mr. and Mrs. Sangwin, living in a nifty Residence Street and always planning to hie to the faraway Show-Places. These two did a lot of Summer Traveling early every Spring. They never had been to Europe or the White Mountains or Yellowstone Park except by listening to Burton Holmes and reading Folders, yet they had a Knowledge of Geoagraphy which was a great Help when they tackled a cross-eyed Puzzle.

Probably no one in the World knew more about Beauty Spots which they had failed to visit. If they were well informed regarding Switzerland and the Golden Gate and the Piney Woods, it was because they had dreamed about them with so much Regularity. They had been all over the Map without putting a Nick in the Letter of Credit.

Next to picking out a Pearl Necklace in a Show Window and then walking rapidly up the Street, this Chautauqua Method of visiting Africa by Proxy and going to the Mediterranean by reading the Ads in the Sunday Paper, is probably the least expensive of all Dissipations.

It just seemed as if the Dandelions and the Puss-Willows and the hopping Robbins, all of them Harbingers of Springs and gay Advance Agents for glorious Summer, seemed to work on the Sangwins and produce a Form of emotional Squiffles.

You could bank on it that every Vernal Equinox, about the Time for changing from Heavy to Light, Mr. Sangwin would look out on a new Crop of tender Leaflets, basking in the Sunshine and remark, with an Air of Finality, "No two Ways about it, I'm going to arrange my Affairs so we can go Somewhere this Summer."

Everything Sitting Pretty

"Attaboy!" the Good Wife would exclaim. She was glad to know that at last they would cut out the Stalling and take a long, dandy Trip. She had everything doped for the Getaway. Clarice could be sent to visit her Aunt Loretta in Springfield. Robert was old enough to be placed at a Summer Camp for Boys, and she had the Address of one recommended by the Higginses. The Gentleman who mowed the Lawns and manicured the Porches could be installed in the Room above the Garage as a Caretaker, and the oldest Clancy Girl could come over and give the House a good Airing every few Days.

Not to be outdone in the Matter of painful Preparations, the other Half of the Sketch would then explain how he had been organizing Things down at the Office until the Business was practically running itself. He said that He, Himself, that is to say, Mr. Sangwin, was the only One connected with the Shebang who was worth a Hoot when it came to dealing with an Emergency or facing an important Crisis, but he would have the Routine laid out so that even his Associates, with their ossified Turrets and Secondary Intelligence, could worry along or else consult him by Cable.

Everything seemed to be Sitting Pretty. Stimulated by the Coffee, and with the Ham and Eggs between them, they would build Castles in the Air which made the Equitable Building look like a Woodman's Hut. Before Mr. Sangwin left the House they would have their Tickets bought and be walking up the Gangway, bound for Europe, Romance and Adventure.

Busy and many a crowded Hour did Mrs. Sangwin devote to the blissful Task of picking out the Liner on which they would plough across the Atlantic. Without ever seeing the Ocean, she came to know more about Vessels than any one on the Shipping Board ever knew. She wrote to every Company and got Bales of Printed Matter including Diagrams, indicating all of the Staterooms, Social Hall, Life Boats, Dining Saloon, Funnels, Drink Parlors, etc., etc. These had to be spread out on the Floor and she would devote happy Days to fussing over the Lay-Out and trying to decide where they would have their Steamer Chairs placed. She and Friend Husband had quite a Run-In over the Eating Arrangements. He wanted to take the Regular Meal and she wanted to go to the Ritz Carlton Restaurant because she had read in the Papers that Pola Negri and the Prince and Charley Schwab always had small Tables in the Cafe instead of patronizing the main Gorge.

A Couple of Obstacles.

When the Time came, they were eating Cold Snacks in their own Dining Room. You see, when they made all of their elaborate Plans for going over and turning the Eastern Hemisphere inside out, Mrs. Sangwin had overlooked the Fact that she was Corresponding Secretary of a Local Club which generated Culture and peddled the late News. It seemed that this Club was to have the Honor of entertaining the State Federation during the third week in June. The Sangwins had laid out an Itinerary and were booked for Venice June 18th. What could the poor Woman do? She had forgotten all about the impending World's Event in her own Tome Town. She knew that the State Convention would be a Flop unless she was on hand to lend Grace and Dignity and Social Eclat to the Proceedings. So she up and told Hiram that she guessed Europe would have to wait because she didn't want to chase away and turn all the Arrangements over to a Bunch of Female Nit-Wits who would get everything balled up.

Hiram heaved a couple of sizable Sighs and said it was all for the Best because he felt it his Duty to stick around for the Annual Tournament out at the Country Club. He had gone to the Finals in the Third Flight the Year before and then had been robbed of the Cup because he was buried in the Sand, got a Cuppy Lie, looked up on all of his Pitch Shots, suffered from Heart-Burn because the Steward should have had it analyzed, and an Angle Worm stopped his Putt. The Third Flight Championship had gone to old Mr. Dibbits, who had been a Slacker during the Civil War and had become venerable without achieving Respectability. Venice or no Venice, Mr. Sangwin wanted to be on Hand in July to trim the everlasting Daylights out of the doddering Wreck. It seemed that Mr. Dibbits had been suffering from Inflammatory Rheumatism all Winter and looked to be about Twenty minutes from a Rosewood Casket. Mr. Sangwin didn't want him to get well but he did want him to live until July and have Strength enough to get to the First Tee. He said it would be a Crime to traipse off to Europe on a mere Pleasure Jaunt when he had a Chance to keep working on his Approach, lengthen the Drive and cop the terrible $8 Piece of Silverware.

That was one Year. No Longer ago than 1922 they departed from their usual Habit of taking a Mid-Summer Journey through Europe in April and May. That Year they were all set for a Motor Tour which was to include all the Best Hotels and the Scenic Splendors of the North American Continent. Mrs. Sangwin had the Blue Book practically memorized, and Mr. Sangwin had bought his Goggles and tested the Thermos Bottles and everything seemed ipskalorious when suddenly remembered that if she rode too far in a Car she would get the darndest Case of Nervous Headache, so in 1922 the inveterate Travelers compromised by attending a Street Carnival pulled off by the B. P. O. E.

For several Years the War was the Alibi. They would tell all to take in the Sigths on the Other Side, but they were waiting for Conditions to get back to Normalcy. Not once did they ever Confess, even to Thelmselves, that they were scared to Death when they saw a Storm at Sea in a News Reel, and they had no real Longing to be among Foreign Barbarians who spoke strange Languages, and they were secretly in Love with the Corned Beef Hash, the Griddle Cakes and the Double Mattresses of their own comfortable Shack.

Off on a Wild Excursion.

This Year they are at it again. They are just as het up as they ever were. For several Weeks they have been standing in awed Silence in Westminster. They have supped at a famous Night Joint in Paris, where all of the Ladies were not what they might have been but, evidently, were what they seemed to be. They hav looked down from dizzy Alpine Heights at the smiling Valleys. They have learned how to pronounce Salle a Manger! They have lolled back in Gondolas, looking at the Moon, and stood in the Coliseum, trying to visualize the spectacular Immensity of a Roman Holiday. They have visited Battle-Fields and purchased Souvenirs and Mrs. Sangwin has seen the big-eyed Mannikins parade in their hoop-la Fineries.

Gosh, but they have been going at some Clip since about April 15th. What's more, they really and truly believe that they are going to sail on the Mastodonic just as soon as Clarice graduates from High School. If they were not so wrought up they would pause in their Pipe-Dreaming and recall that Mrs. S. has a lot of Fruit to put up this Summer and that the Chamber of Commerce has made Hiram Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements for the Celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Organization of the Fire Department, the dates being July 9th, 10th and 11th. So the big Vacation will go blooey.

However, the Sangwins will not be depriyed of their usual Outing. Some Day next month she will fry two Chickens and stuff some Eggs and harpoon them with Tooth-Picks and wrap them In Tissue Paper, and the whole Tribe will motor up the River as far as the old Peters Mill, where Hiram will do some Still Fishing while Mother takes a good Nap, with the Back Cushion under her Head and a Handkerchief over her Face.

MORAL: There is only one Long Trip which cannot be side-tracked.

Fame Breaks Up a Good Golf Game

He Was Good At Blind Shots.

The child actor's press agent brought him out to our golf club the day I was due to play a grudge match with a man who thinks he can beat me. The offspring of fame was practicing blind brassie shots on the first tee when I got my caddy. A blind brassie shot is one in which you swat at an imaginary ball.

The child actor was good at blind shots. His native talent enabled him to imitate the pro who was doing a little practicing on his own account near by. He did it so well that the pro thought he was being guyed, and went off to another part of the golf course to finish his morning's work out. But it is not of the child actor, nor the pro that I am going to write. My purpose is to tell how and why I lost the match.

When I offered my caddy my golf bag he looked at me reproachfully and said: "Aw, you ain't goin' to try to play, are you?"

I took this to be a covert sneer at my ability to play. I didn't like the word "try." So I handed the caddy the bag in stern silence. He took it reluctantly.

"I thought I was goin' to get a chance to watch the little guy tee off," he said. "They say he gets a million dollars a year. Is that right?"

I teed up my ball. The child actor moved off the tee and watched me attentively. I suppose immediately after, he carcicatured my somewhat twisty manner of addressing the ball. But I couldn't worry about him. My opponent had driven off, and I had to go.

Just as I was about to drive, the caddy, who stood close behind me said:

"That little feller does it just like the pro. You'd pick up some pointers if we was to stay and watch him. They say he gets a million and a half dollars a year. Think of all that dough."

I missed my shot, sliced at right angles, and went into a bad rough. The caddy said:

"I'll bet if I was as small as him I could get a job in the movies. You won't never get two million dollars a year lugging golf bags around. If you found a hundred balls a day you wouldn't get that much coin. Is it so that he gest all that cash?"

By this time I was aiming a niblick at the place in the grass where I supposed my ball to lie. I aimed three strokes at it before I bot it out. My opponent was waiting for me on ahead smiling a derisive smile.

"I ought to have played this with the infant star," he said as I came up. "I told you you were a rotten golfer."

Here my caddy unexpectedly came to my rescue.

"You can't expect him to play like the little bird can," he said. "I told him he could get pointers off him if he would stay there and watch him." I teed up for the next shot—we were playing winter rules, and managed to get a fairly good one off.

"That's just the way the kid done it," he said. "I ast the caddy master if he'd fire me off the course for the Summer if I said I wouldn't go out with you and he said he would, so I didn't dast not to. But you could get another caddy couldn't you?"

"Come along," I said, "and try to keep still."

My ball lay within easy putting distance of the green. My opponent had been in the lake and a couple of traps, so we were all even on strokes. He was talking harshly to his caddy. I judged that my helper was not the only youth who had been mentioning the distinguished visitor.

I had good luck and got the ball pretty close to the pin. I was setting myself for the putt, when the caddy said:

"I seen a pitcher where he was in, and was chased by a tramp, but the tramp didn't catch him, a dog he had bit the tr—"

I looked at him. He stopped. I missed the putt. The hole was my opponent's.

For the next four or five holes there was no conversation. Then just as I was getting ready to left the ball over a brook to a green, the caddy said:

"Three million dollars a year is a lot of money for a kid like that to get, ain't it? That's more than pros make. That's more than my old man ever made in his life I'll bet, but he says he never had no chance. How do you get a job as a movie actor?"

The ball was by this time in the brook, and the caddy deferred further questions till he got it out. As he was teeing it up for me he said.

"Lick who?" I inquired.

"That there movie kid. I could lick the spots off of him."

The ball was again in the brook. The caddy patiently fished it out again and teed it up. This time he let me make the shot. My opponent had lost his ball in the same brook. So I won the hole.

We were all even at the eighteenth. I had been doing pretty well, having at last managed by kind persuasive language to persuade my assistant that it would be better to talk about the movie star after the game. For many holes he had been thoughtfully silent, now and then looking back over his shoulder to see if the celebrity had started out on his round.

Just as my club was half way down on a snappy swing a shout rang out behind me. "There he is. Gee, he's rotton. I could give him two strokes a hole and beat him."

I looked around. There was no use looking for the ball. It had popped over a fence.

The small star was clouting at the ball on a fairway that ran parallel to the one we were on. He wasn't doing so well.

"I wouldn't give that little guy no four million dollars a year if I was runnin' a pitcher show," said the caddy. "He's terrible, that's what he is, terrible. Why I could beat him with my left hand."

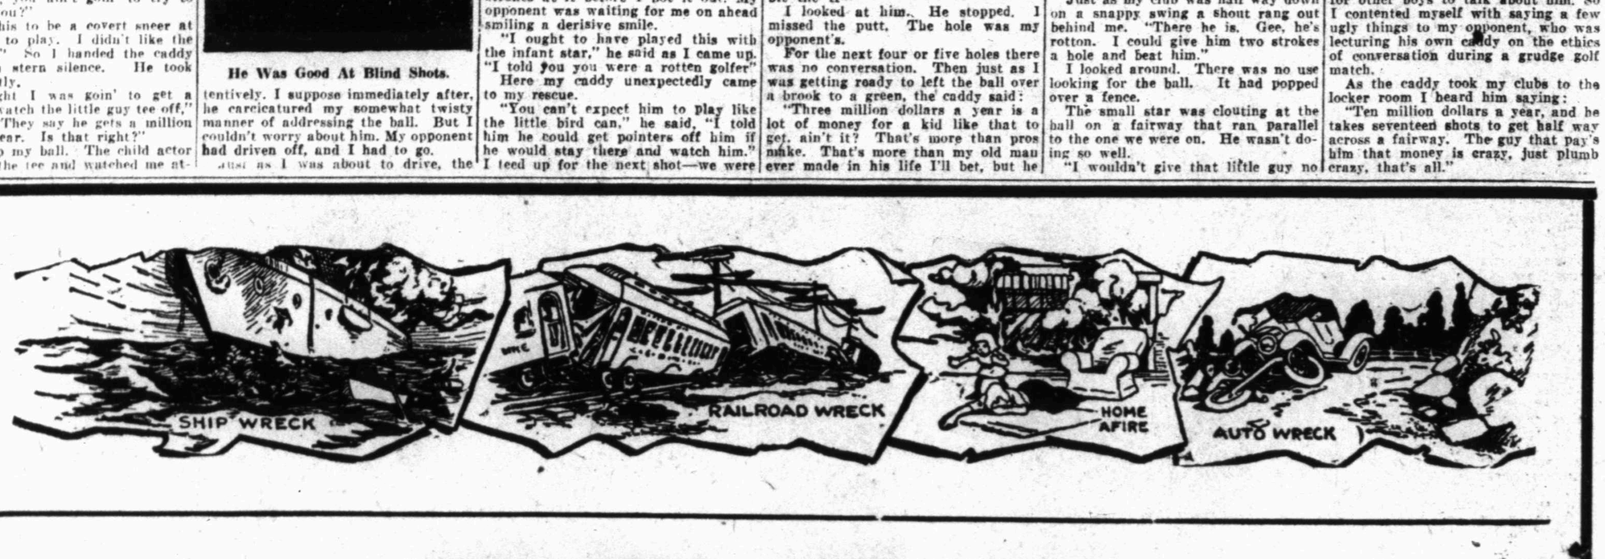

I watched my opponent get off a long screamer. I watched him win the hole. I was through for the day.

"He don't play much betterin't you do," the caddy continued, as we walked off the green. "And to think of givin' him all that dough. I bet if I was as good at actin' as he is rotten at golf I could get ten million dollars a year. Do you think I could?"

I wanted to go over and do some serious injury to the infant prodigy, but I reflected that in the event of a damage suit being instituted I would have to sell all I had to pay the first installment on the award. Then I was minded to kill the caddy, but I remembered that after all it was not every day that a great celebrity comes to the course, and there are excuses for other boys to talk about him. So I contented myself with saying a few ugly things to my opponent, who was lecturing his own caddy on the ethics of conversation during a grudge golf match.

As the caddy took my clubs to the locker room I heard him saying:

"Ten million dollars a year, and he takes seventeen shots to get half way across a fairway. The guy that pay's him that money is crazy, just plumb crazy, that's all."

The Manicure Who Was More Than That ----By Rupert Hughes

A manicure, in drama, movie, comic anrt and literature, is a pretty pink thing who polishes off finger-nails as a side-line but is really a dangerous adventuress, a siren in a barber shop, luring stupid millionaires to destruction, a menance to the home and a temptress to all stray males.

Most of the manicures I have seen have been pretty and pink or some other attractive color, and their delicate art was reflected in some general grace of manner. But I have never had one of them attempt to take any unfair advantage of me, and I should think that they would find the profession a rather dreary one, since so much of their time is spent in snipping away at the horny excrescences of supine strangers whose faces are covered with lather or lost to view under a ghastly and steaming hot towel.

It must be dismal, too, to have to keep their expensive slippers from being ruined by the explorative brogans of crude persons from out of town.

But whatever may be the opinion of persons of larger experience I must confess that one the most earnest and forceful women I have ever encountered was a manicure—or had been. I never met a business man more grimly determined upon success or more willing to wait until it came honestly and on a solid foundation with a maximum future.

This manicure made a revolutionary discovery and refused to sell out to capitalists or stock-manipulators; refused even to let the business grow faster than she could handle it herself.

Her future is in the lap of the fates, but it promises to be enormous. Her present attainments would turn the head of many a square-jawed male. And the squarest-jawed males are her patrons. They display a more feminie vanity than she and throw themselves on her mercy. For she promises them a cure for—baldness!

The hunt for the fountain of eternal youth was given up about the time they sank De Soto in the Mississippi. But the hunt for a fountain of hair-restorer is still going on.

If any woman was ever more vain of anything than every man is of a full of hair, she must have been Miss Vanity of Vanities herself. If any woman ever suffered more from a lack of any grace than the average man does from baldness, she must have been the champion long distance sufferer in the school of martyrs.

Why, even the noble prophet Elisha on his way to Bethel was so infuriated at certain children who sang after his shiny pate, "Go up, thou baldhead! go up, thou baldhead," that he cursed them and his very rage created two she-bears that came out of the wood and 'tare forty and two children of them." It is to be noted that the sensitive prophet choise the hairiest animals there are chose the hairiest animal. But the lesson has long been forgotten and there are no she-bears to tear the cartoonists or such irreverent men as Pete Dailey, who once said to Charles Bigelow: "For heaven's sake put on your hat! You're half naked."

Julius Caesar was a brave, bold man but he took such shame for his furiese skull that he had a special act of legislature passed permitting him to wear his laurel wreath all the time without waiting for Sundays and Fourths of July.

A manicure in drama, movies, etc., is a pretty pink thing who polishes finger nails as a sideline. But is really a dangerous siren in a barber shop—luring millionaires to destruction.

With these two eminent examples for support, I am not unwilling to confess a solicitude for my own thinning tresses. There are few forms of hair-saver or hair restorer that I have not sprinkled on my scalp and rubbed in. I don't know which were the more horrible, the ones that gave out the native odor of the Spanish fly or the ones that disguised it with a pretty fragrance. Why the poor Spanish fly should have been selected to perish in a vain sacrifice to human hair I have never understood. But I must have used up a million.

Also, I have brushed and pulled and tried everything I ever heard of, with no success in stopping the outward march of the leaves. went on falling, falling.

The only thing I have ever done is to ask for my money back when an absolutely guaranteed or-your-money-back concoction failed to live up to its gorgeous literature and its thrilling illustration showing a human billiard ball suddenly turned into a Russian moujak upside down.

But latterly I have joined an increasing army of disciples for a system that seems to be actually growing hair—slowly but surely. The men hereabouts are in a stampede to offer their prodigal locks a chance to return to the old home and be forgiven and no questions asked.

But this is not a hair-ologue and I must decline in advance to answer any of the forty million letters I shall receive from the thatchless men of the nation, asking me the address of the miracle worker.

I refer to my unmportant hair only because it brought me the privilege of meeting the most promising redeemer of man's crowning glory. A woman has come to our rescue. One day she visited the branch shop where my scalp is regularly reasoned with and persuaded to discharge its concealed wealth of brown beauty. Brushing aside one of her lieutenants, she decided to honor my poll with a treatment in her own autograph.

The vigor of her attack was only equaled by the vigor of character she disclosed when she answered my question as to how she came to discover her golden secret. She talked with the incisiveness, the far-seeing strategy and determination of a great business man, an inventor and a future magnate.

"I was a manicure," she began. "I was a widow with a young boy to support and I took up finger-nailing.

"I determined to be the best manicure that ever was. I purposely put my price low—fifty cents for a pair of hands. And I depended solely on word-of-mouth advertising.

"Gradually my custom increased till I had a double row of rocking chairs full of people waiting their turn. Some of them would motor for an hour to get to my shop—rich people, too, who knew I would give them the best job.

finger nails and uneven growths and reforestation. I marveled more at the high spirits of this brisk little woman who has made herself a worker of miracles by the laying on of hands. She has a sacred calling and is consecrated to it. She went on:

"Instead of trying to put another potent lotion on the market, I opened a school; for the secret is in the handling of the heads. I wanted to make sure that my system would have a fair chance.

"I taught my pupils all I know, then set them up in branches under a license and furnished them my preparations on a royalty basis. If a girl hasn't her heart in her work I won't keep her; for my only hope is in the success of my method and the advertisement that goes by word of mouth.

"I won't let my work get out of the range of my inspection. That is why I have never licensed a shop in New York or any of the big eastern cities.

"I won't let my customers impose on me, either. I figured out once how much of my time was wasted by the women who sit and tell me about their terrible operations or the men who want to flirt or to talk about their wonderful businesses. If they wan't take a hint, I tell 'em flatly to make room for the next customer.

"The business is growing faster than I want it to, for the hair is growing. It comes in slow but sure. The baldest head soon shows a fuzz.

"So a lot of men who are grateful and who realize that nothing on earth could sell better than a cure for baldness have tried to get me to sell out to them; to capitalize me; to issue stock; to open shops all over the world; to double or treble my price.

"But I dont want to make money for its own sake. I want my discovery to succeed and I'm not going to risk it by being in too big a hurry or by being greedy for cash.

"All we have in this world is what we have in our finger tips and in our heads. And I'm going to make the best of mine. There you are, sir. Come again next week. Thanks. Good bye!"

As I staggered out, my scalp aglow with hope and the almost audible stir of life in the idle roots, I realized that I had been in the presence of one of those captains of industry we read so much about.

We have been pretty well dosed with legends about "From canal-boy to president," "from coal heaver to capitalist," "from office boy to office holder" and the like.

From now on we shall hear about "from cash girl to plutocrat," "from the school house to the White House," "from manicure to millionairess."

The next time you slip your fat hand and your disgraceful finger nails into the curved scissors of some dreamy gazelle, be careful not to interrupt with silly chatter the meditations of one who may be pondering some glorious destiny.

Felony Charges Filed Against Dallas Man

DALLAS, May 2.—Two felony charges were filed here today against Marvin McLeod of Terrell, who was fired on last night by Deputy Seriff R. S. Little after McLeod was said to ave struck Albert Clark, 7, with his automobile.

Little reported he fired into McLeod's car when the latter refused to stop after striking the Clark boy. Jack Smith, another occupant of the car, received a scalp wound. Both were in a Dallas hospital, but later were taken to jail, as their wounds were not serious. McLeod was released on bond and Smith was released outright, as there was no charge against him.

McLeod said the striking of the boy was accidental and unavoidable. He said he drove only a few feet as he did not want to stop his car directly over the boy. The lad suffered cuts and bruises.

Young America On Parade in New York

NEW YORK, May 2. — Young America had its day on Fifth Avenue today when 80,000 boys paraded through intermittent showers, down the historic thoroughfare to the acclaim of many thousands of onlookers. It was loyalty day, one of the features of the Boy's Week observance.

There were boys of every description in the vibrant procession. Some were well trained Boy Scouts, and semi-military organizations; others were newsies from the Brace Memorial Newsboys' home. Nearly every boy carried an American flag.

There were scores of boy's bands. The band that led the parade was composed of 500 youngsters.

Mayor Hylan and Governor Smith marched with the boys to the reviewing stand where they were joined by James Doonan, Jr., the boy governor, and Joel Walker the boy mayor.

SNOW IN CUMBERLANDS

Believe Promising Fruit Crop Is Killed.

WHITESBURG, Ky., May 2. — Snow in the Cumberland mountains near here can be seen for miles and fruit men believe one of the most promising fruit crops in years has been killed. Weather forecasts were for continued cold. Last week the weather was the hottest known in recent years in the mountains at this time of year.

CONTEST ST. LOUIS ELECTION.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—William L. Igoe, defeated democratic mayoralty nominee, today filed notice in circuit court that he would contest the election of Mayor Victor Miller, republican. Igoe alleged a recount would establish his election by a plurality of votes. The official count gave Miller a plurality of 3,129

Foreign Press Calls Fleet Provocative

ROME, May 2.—The Pacific maneuvers of the United States navy are used by the Messagero as the subject for a two-column front page editorial on American-Japanese relations. The newspaper expesses the opinion that the maneuvers are provocative, and while seeing no immedite danger of trouble between the United States and Japan, believes that activities of occidentals in the orient will ultimately force Japan to a sort of Monroe doctrine of Asia for the Asiatics.

The Messaggero says the fact that the fleet is visiting Australia causes it to believe that there is a close allegiance between Australia, Canada and America for Asiatic purposes. The paper expresses the opinion that Japan will never become the aggressor against an occidental country so long as peace reigns in Europe, but speculates regarding the outcome if there is another European war and if Japan, China and Russia should form an effective alliance.

FIND BABY IN TRASH

Garbage Wagon Collects Can With Body in It.

DALLAS, May 2.—The body of a baby girl was found in a load of trash collected by a municipal garbage wagon here today just as the package in which it was wrapped was about to be consigned to the incinerator. No marks of violence were found on the body. The case was reported to the police.

Americans to Invade Berlin Concert Stage

BERLIN, May 2.—The Berlin concert stage will have a real American invasion in May and June.

Four American-born singers, Anna Case, Sophie Braslau, Dussolina Gianinni and Richard Crooks have already announced Berlin concerts, in which each will be heard here for the first time.

Miss Case will appear May 4 at Beethoven Hall with the assistance as accompanist of Michael Raucheisen, who toured the United States two years ago with Fritz Kreisler.

Dussolina Gianuini who was born in Philadelphia of Italian parents, is a pupil of Marcella Sembrich. Her father was a tenor with Adeline Patri for many seasons.

Sophie Braslau, a contralto, was born in New York and received practically all her training there and won success at the Metropolitan opera house.

"JIBBY FIRST" - By FANNIE HURST

Copyright, 1925, by
The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

That was what the GREAT MAN said about Uncle Dan, doorman at the Grand Hotel.

You see, there was Jibby. Jibby was a cat. Uncle Dan's cat. And that night when the Great Man wanted Uncle Dan to sit beside him at the banquet—that night JIBBY WAS SICK.

So there was only one thing to do. And no time to explain to the Great Man.

But he found out. So he wrote—"LOYAL FRIEND first, and a hero worshipper second."

The Grand Hotel occupied a square city block and rushed up, in a great ornate flare of stone lace work, twenty-eight stories into the smoky ether of the City.

It stood like a great mountain entirely surrounded by an angry, swirling river of fierce currents. And the fierce currents were city streets and the swirl was humanity.

The policemen on the beat knew him and the taxi drivers and hundreds of the guests and several generations of bell-hops had come and gone under Dan's faded old eyes.

"Uncle Dan" had opened and closed carriage and, later, motor doors for three Presidents, countless senators, governors, prima donnas, an English prince, a Japanese minister, two world-famous explorers, a South Sea potentate and world famous men and women of every description and sort.

The Governor of his state never greeted him without clasping his hand affectionately, and every year when the Great Man came—the Greatest of them all—he insisted, traffic jam to the contrary notwithstanding, upon drawing up at the Broadway entrance of the Grand Hotel, because there was where his motor door was sure to be opened by Uncle Dan.

The Great Man took a personal, an affectionate interest in Uncle Dan. Craning his dynamic head with the blur of big white teeth shining out in a smile above the heads of reporters and the crowd that invariably collected to see him arrive and depart, the Great Man's first jovial welcome was always for Uncle Dan.

"How's the little home in Weehawken?"

"How's the cat?"

The old man lived alone in a little frame house in Weehawken. A one-story affair upon which the last instalment had been met years before. The old bachelor of a door-opener LOVED THAT LITTE HOUSE. He had no self-consciousness before the Great. He would describe it in detail to whosoever of the big and busy ones with whom he came in daily contact would take the time to listen.

The Great Man listened. He was great enough to have the time to listen to almost everybody.

There was a framed hotel menu in Uncle Dan's little front parlor. Signed with the Great Man's name. One night after a banquet, as Uncle Dan was holding open the motor door for him he had held out the bit of pasteboard which one of the departing guests had dropped on the sidewalk and the Great Man had written across it in his big jovial free hand:

Dan didn't quite know what that meant, but he liked it. He liked to sit on Sunday mornings with Jibby, HIS TORTOISE-SHELL OLD CAT, climbing over him, in his curious old carpet rocker before that framed menu and gaze at it until he became dozy and slept, with Jibby on his shoulder purring noisily into his deaf left ear.

Once the Great Man had pushed his way through the secret service men and the jam around the lobby and personally escorted Uncle Dan up to his suite for a good long warming swig of raspberry cordial, because all of that afternoon Uncle Dan had been swinging open motor doors in the rain and the Great Man REMEMBERED on which side THE RHEUMATIC TWINGE was most apt to catch Uncle Dan.

Precious few the newspaper clippings about him and his comings and goings in his private cars and his travels into foreign parts and his conferences with kings that escaped Uncle Dan. He had no less than a dozen huge scrapbooks bulging with newspaper articles that he had cut out. Once, when the news was flashed ahead that the Great Man was coming, Uncle Dan indulged in the OUTRAGEOUS EXTRAVAGANCE of a taxicab and arrived at his work with the bulky stack of his clipping-library, for the purpose of showing them to the Great Man himself.

For twenty minutes, while committees awaited him in ante rooms, he soaked unending delight into Uncle Dan's soul by comments of appreciation at his achievement of the scrapbooks.

It took a truly Great Man to succeed in warming old Uncle Dan so that for weeks, indeed months, the glow of the actual interview of twenty-two minutes by the clock was with him.

I tell you there was something special about Jibby's purr when Uncle Dan came bustling into the house with the two spots of color out on his face. Call it the "Great Man purr," because that is what it was. Up went Jibby's back on these occasions and out came the special purrs. BIG, ROUND, SEPARATE ONES.

One day, even, when Jibby was sick and Uncle Dan was desperate with worry about her, she lifted up her head just the same and let out the separate purrs when he broke the news to her.

"The Great Man is coming today, Jibby. That oughtta make you well, old Jibby. Please, old Jibby. Just lay here patient until I get home tonight and I'll tell you all about it. I'll be home just as soon as ever I can, old Jibby, and heat up your milk and tell you all about it. Here, lay over on your left side, Jib. It looks to me like you got a touch of the bronchitis. I won't forget you, Jibby—no matter how much excitement the Great Man throws us into—so long, old Jib. Just you try to rest comfortable, old Jib."

That was the day the Great Man arrived to attend the banquet of the Pioneers' Association of America.

It was dusk when the Great Man arrived, and for an hour the congestion before the hotel had been thickening and pressing.

It was exciting ALMOST TO SUFFOCATION!

The Great Man considered Uncle Dan a pioneer. A great pioneer. He wanted him to come in and sit along side of him at the banquet table!

And Uncle Dan couldn't! And in sending back word that he couldn't the heart of the old man dropped like a lump of lead into his shoes.

Uncle Dan couldn't, because he had barely enough time to make the last Weehawken ferry, and Uncle Dan had promised Jibby, who was ailing, that her hot milk would be given her on the dot.

Uncle Dan had to get home to Jibby. There was NO QUESTIONING THAT OBLIGATION. It was just one of the things that one did.

Uncle Dan scarcely slept that night. With worry. With anxiety. With misery. And the next day the Great Man had gone, and there had been no time to even explain.

But the next time—think of the capacity for being human that the Great Man had—was the time that he wrote on the quavering menu held out to him by Uncle Dan:

"To Uncle Dan, who is a LOYAL FRIEND first and a hero-worshipper second—affectionately your friend ———"

Somehow the Great Man had heard. And remembered.

And out of that there ripened between him and Uncle Dan a friendship that the one was as proud of as the other.
