Military Information 'Leaks' Are Criticized By Eisenhower

MISERY LOVES COMPANY—An auto accident and a football game have added two broken limbs to the R. W. Williamson family of Dallas, Texas. Sammy, the family's boxer pup, was the victim of a motorist while crossing the street. His right front leg is broken and in a cast. Then his 13-year-old master, Richard Williamson Jr., was strong-arming a boy at football and broke his right arm. So the boy and his dog console each other now, with their matching fractures and matching casts.

PEARL HARBOR REMEMBERED

Couple Adopts Japanese Child

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — John Burke is 6 and has just started school. For him there never was a Pearl Harbor.

But the memory still is clear for his father. News of the attack caught George J. Burke, then 33, at his Peoria, Ill., home that Sunday.

Like most Americans, George Burke's reaction was disbelief, shock, anger.

He enlisted in the Army Air Corps. His wife Myrtle, to whom he had been married eight years, began the long wait.

Sgt. Burke received the news of the dropping of the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima with the mixed emotions of most Americans. It was wartime, and a bomb was a bomb. The Japanese had merely been repaid.

Then he got a chance to know the people who dealt the deadly opening blow. Burke stayed in the service. In 1947 he was sent to Japan on his first overseas tour of duty.

In 1952, he sent for his wife.

He was stationed at Tachikawa air base near Tokyo when he first heard about an orphanage close by. It was run by a Catholic nun, Sister Odelia. There were several hundred children there. Sister Odelia needed help to feed and clothe them.

Burke began helping support the orphanage and spent more and more time with the children.

Sgt. and Mrs. Burke had no children of their own, and it wasn't long before Burke brought up the subject of adoption to his wife.

"I just didn't know," Mrs. Burke said. "It was such a new idea. We were both sort of old for children, and, well, I just didn't know."

Today M. Sgt. and Mrs. George J. Burke are stationed at Kirtland Air Force Base in Albuquerque. With them is their son John.

"He was 2 years old when we got him," Sgt. Burke recalled. "It was pretty rough for a while. He couldn't speak a word of English and we couldn't speak any Japanese. He finally began to pick up a few words, and about a year later he suddenly said his first sentence in his new language.

"Pearl Harbor?" Mrs. Burke said. "I suppose if it happened again we might feel the same way, but you forget as time goes on.

"And after all, it isn't the childrens' fault that wars begin."

BUSY SANTA—His stocking cap tossed on a desk temporally, Santa Claus, in the person of Lucky S. Squire, takes time out in New York to check on the stock market. Lucky explains that his job as Santa is purely seasonal employment and that he uses the stock market to supplement his income in the long "off season." Lucky, before growing his foot-long white beard, was a lay preacher, a physical therapist and a children's camp counselor.

Ike And Wilson Hold Conference

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower complained to Secretary of Defense Wilson today that "leakage" of military budget figures and manpower plans to the public "is something that's got to stop."

The President remarked about the matter as he and Wilson were about to start a conference on Pentagon plans reportedly calling for 38 billion dollars in defense expenditure during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The informal discussion about "leakage" of Pentagon data in advance of any official release for publication was in the presence of two pool reporters representing newsmen assigned to cover the President.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said the conference quarters at the Augusta National Golf Club were too small to permit all newsmen to be on hand for the start of the budget parley. So the rest were represented by Charles Roberts of Newsweek magazine and John Edwards of the American Broadcasting Co.

They later reported that Wilson first brought the matter of "leakage" of budget data and manpower plans, talking in general terms. He obviously was referring to information obtained by newsmen and later published.

Alluding to budget and manpower planning, Wilson said:

"We got started last June, and then things began to leak."

It was at that point the President said—and both Roberts and Edwards reported he showed irritation — that "this leakage is something that has got to stop."

Wilson then talked specifically about "leakage" regarding possibility of a reduction in armed services manpower. He provided no detail but said:

"Look at the trouble it gave us."

Wilson said that when he started work on the military spending budget he did not know there was going to be trouble in the Middle East or that there would be the steel strike which occurred last summer.

"That certainly complicated things for me," the Cabinet officer remarked without elaboration.

During the informal discussion photographers had been getting pictures of the conferees with the two reporters looking on. The newsmen were not permitted to stay on beyond the preliminaries.

Eisenhower and Wilson met in a small sitting room at the Augusta National Club. With them were Budget Director Percival Brundage; Assistant Secretary of Defense Wilfred J. McNeil, Pentagon fiscal expert; Sherman Adams, chief aide to the President; and Wilton B. Persons, chief of White House liaison with Congress.

Before the talk turned to "leakage" of Pentagon data, Wilson informed Eisenhower that he and his aides completed work only late last night on the Pentagon budget, which today was put before the President for study.

The military appropriation for the current year is $34,656,727,000 but spending is generally estimated around 36 billion. The figures never come out even. Some of any year's outlays come out of old money set up for projects running past year-end.

Hungary Threatened With General Strike

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—A new general strike and bloodshed in Hungary was threatened today.

The Central Workers Council issued a proclamation warning the Soviet - imposed government of Premier Janos Kadar that continuation of its tactics against elected worker representatives would result in "a general strike, bloodshed and a new national tragedy."

The Central Workers Council has gradually emerged as the leadership of Hungarian anti-Kadar, anti-Soviet feeling. Kadar so far has turned down ever demand of the council on behalf of the people and workers, but his own popular support has been so shaky that he has not dared openly to withdraw his recognition of the body as the negotiating agency for Budapest workers.

The Hungarian people appeared to have recovered from the first shock of the smashing onslaught by Russian tanks of Nov. 4, and to be coming back strongly.

The council's warning was voiced as a result of the arrest of many members of factory worker councils. Several more members were arrested last night.

Yesterday, after about 50 members had been arrested, workers at several plants went on spontaneous strike. At one factory, 600 workers successfully defied Soviet tanks and Hungarian militia and police and prevented the arrest of three more council members.

The central council yesterday advised against sporadic strikes in the plants. It said such strikes would serve the interest of the government because they would indicate the council was not the master of the situation in the factories.

Today it sent a three-member delegation to Kadar "to protest against the violation of the law and to warn that if such arrests continue the anger of the world would be roused against it (the government.)."

Two of the delegates were nationally known writers, Peter Veres and Aron Tammassy.

Later, the central council said in a proclamation:

Col. Pearson Dies

ROSWELL, N.M. (AP)—Col. D. C. Pearson, 75, superintendent of the New Mexico Military Institute from 1926 to 1947, died yesterday.

Cold Fronts Strike State

By The Associated Press

Two cold fronts joined over North Texas Friday and started a southward push, sending temperatures down and starting thundershowers.

The Weather Bureau said one cold air mass extended from Sherman in North Texas along the northern border of the state to New Mexico. The other front was along a line from Sherman southwestward to the El Paso area before the two cold air masses joined together.

Temperatures fell below freezing throughout the Texas Panhandle and along the Red River Valley. The lowest overnight minimum was 14 degrees at Dalhart. Amarillo had 20 degrees early Friday. It was a balmy 73 degrees at Alice in South Texas.

Fog reduced visibility to a half mile at Mineral Wells and ½ of a mile at San Angelo.

The Weather Bureau said the combined cold air mass was moving southward and would push the warmer air out of its way, stirring up rain in the process.

Light rain fell at Lufkin and Childress and at Ardmore, Okla., near the Texas border.

Skies were clear over most of West Texas and cloudy elsewhere.

The front is expected to kick off showers in East Texas Friday and in South Central Texas Saturday. Rain and colder weather is forecast for North Central Texas Friday and Saturday and freezing drizzle is expected in West Texas Friday.

Vandals Shoot Signal Lights

One of the most dangerous forms of vandalism known is being practiced in this area, according to E. A. Nelson, special agent for Santa Fe Railway, Slaton division.

Nelson said that two signal lights used for moving of trains on the railway were shot out near Hermleigh this week, and the same had happened in the same area a week previous.

The signals are centralized switch control lights, used by the railway to signal trains for traffic control purposes. Trains move on certain signals and get onto switches on other signals to let other trains by.

"One of these lights out of commission could result in a serious accident, possibly the loss of lives," Nelson said.

Working with Bill Love, chief sheriff's deputy, Nelson found that the signal lights were shot out with .22 caliber high-speed bullets.

Nelson said investigations will continue. He asked that any person having any knowledge of the incident contact the sheriff's office here.

Woman Is Hurt Here In Accident

A Negro woman was taken to Battenfield-Jones Hospital Clinic early this morning for treatment of slight injuries she received in a two-car accident at the intersection of Avenue J and Thirtieth Street.

She was a passenger in a 1956 Chevrolet driven by William Thomas Edwards, 27, of 126 Twentieth Place. He was taking her to his house to do some housework.

The second car involved was a 1956 Nash Rambler driven by Mrs. Jack Dean. Both cars were heavily damaged, Leamon Land, city police officer who investigated, said.

Police said this was the first accident inside the city limits of Snyder in December.

The accident occurred at an blind corner which has no traffic controls.

Travis L. Steele, police chief, said that the police department is happy with the decrease in number of accidents shown so far this month, but urged everyone to continue being extremely careful.

A slogan of the National Traffic Safety Council for December is "Back the Attack" on automobile accidents.

Steele urges everyone to back the attack so far as they are personally concerned.

The injured woman was taken to the hospital in a private car.

Her injuries were believed to be slight.

Dr. Otis Shelton, manager and director of professional services at Outwood, was transferred to the hospital at Kerrville, Tex., as manager. The Kerrville job had been vacant since the death of Dr. Judd Kirkham last September.

Philippines Win In UN Council Voting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Philippines won a first ballot victory today over Czechoslovakia for a one-year term on the U.N. Security Council.

The vote in the 79-nation General Assembly was 51 for the Philippines, 20 for Czechoslovakia Afghanistan 1, Spain 1 and Yugoslavia 1.

The Philippines had just one vote more than the two-thirds required since only 74 affirmative votes were cast.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov immediately protested that the election discriminated against Eastern Europe. The seat which the Philippines will occupy previously had been held by Eastern European countries.

Yugoslavia will vacate the seat Dec. 31 after serving the first half of a normal two-year term under a private agreement reached last year to break a deadlock between Yugoslavia and the Philippines.

Kuznetsov earlier had warned that, unless the Assembly elected Czechoslovakia, he would veto any proposal to enlarge the 11-nation Council to take into account the admission of 19 new U.N. members in the past year.

Supported by both the United States and Britain, Filipino Delegate Felixberto Serrano expressed confidence his government would get the Yugoslav seat.

"What is at issue," he told newsmen, "is whether the gentlemen's agreement between Yugoslavia and the Philippines is to be honored."

But many delegates expressed concern that the prospective line-up promised another deadlock, with East and West throwing their prestige behind their candidates.

Yugoslav informants said that their delegation expected to vote for the Philippines on the first few ballots but that their agreement did not bind them to back Manila indefinitely.

Under last year's agreement, made when 35 ballots failed to break the deadlock, the Philippines and Yugoslavia agreed to split the two-year term. They drew lots and Yugoslavia won the first year.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily V. Kuznetsov held one of his rare news conferences yesterday to spell out Russia's support for Czechoslovakia. He termed the lottery arrangement illegal and recalled that Russia had refused to agree to it at the time.

A U.S. spokesman declared support of Czechoslovakia was "clear contravention" of the agreement.

In addition to the Yugoslav vacancy, there are three two-year terms to be filled on the council. Colombia is unopposed to take over from Peru. Iraq is slated to succeed Iran. Spain and Sweden are contesting the place to be vacated by Belgium. Election for these seats is slated to take place next week.

Train Fire Kills One, Injures 40

CHICAGO (AP)—A flash fire on a moving four-car wooden coach elevated train today killed the motorman and injured an estimated 40 passengers.

The Chicago Transit Authority train was bound from suburban Evanston to downtown Chicago. The fire burst forth as the crowded rush-hour train neared the Howard Street station, just inside the north city limits.

Russell Lane, Associated Press reporter who was riding in the second car, said the sudden blaze, confined to the first two cars threw passengers into a panic.

Lane said the first car, where the blaze started, "went up like a torch." He said some passengers in the forward car fought their way to other cars while many riders leaped through closed windows to the elevated right of way.

Most of the injured, taken to a half dozen hospitals on the North Side, were reported suffering from burns, smoke inhalation and cuts. One rider was reported suffering from a fractured arm.

Lane said the fire apparently broke out in the motorman's cab as the train neared the Howard Street station. He said the train, scheduled to stop there, continued on without slowing down.

A CTA spokesman said the dead motorman, whose body was badly burned, was Daniel Cullen, 47, whose home is less than half a mile from the scene of the accident.

Lane said many passengers in the second car excitedly opened windows and dropped to the ground. Others, including himself, walked to the rear of the train and jumped to the ground.

He said passengers in the head car fought to get out of the blazing coach, smashing windows and leaping to the elevated right-of-way. He said many fought their way through a narrow passage into the second car, before the fire spread to ahat coach.

Lane said he saw several with faces blackened by fire and smoke.

Most of the injured, he said, appeared to have been caught in the jam as passengers fought to reach cars to the rear of the burning coach.

Passengers in the second coach and those behind opened windows and dropped to the ground.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Nixon Urges Aid To Britain

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Nixon urges financial aid to Britain as a result of the Suez crisis.

Nixon, speaking last night at the 42nd annual National Automobile Show Dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, also said Russia's savagery in Hungary means a major defeat for world communism, while the United States' stand in the Middle East has saved the United Nations.

Refering to the monetary plight of "our friends in Britain," Nixon said:

"I believe it is in our interest as well as theirs to assist them in this hour of difficulty, and I am conficent that there will be strong bipartisan support in the Congress for granting such assistance."

At Augusta, Ga., President Eisenhower's vacation headquarters, White House press secretary James Hagerty said the President did not see or hear Nixon's address in advance but "we knew he was going to make a speech."

Concerning the President's approval or disapproval of Nixon's stand regarding financial aid for Britain, Hagerty said:

"If there were anything in the speech the President disapproves of, I don't believe the vice president would make it. The vice president knows the policies of the President."

Hagerty also said that Secretary of State Dulles was "conversant" with the Nixon speech in advance.

Nixon's address, made before 1,500 leaders of the automobile industry, was his first major one since the election.

The vice president made no direct reference in his talk to Britain's request last Tuesday that the United States forget about an 82-million-dollar interest payment due later this month in lend-lease settlement.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

Garza Venture Shows In Strawn

Neville G. Penrose, Inc., of Fort Worth and R. S. Anderson of Midland No. 1-S Nance, west offset to the opener of the Rocker "A" South (Strawn) pool of South Garza County found gas, oil and water at 7,743-83 feet in the Strawn.

That zone was drillstem tested 1½ hours. Gas surfaced in five minutes. Recovery was 540 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud, 30 barrels of oil and water, which was reversed out to tanks, and 360 feet of salt water below the circulating sub.

Flowing pressure was between 45 and 1,545 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure in 15 minutes was 3,470 pounds. A core hole was being reamed. The project is to drill deeper.

This operation showed possibilities of discovery production in the Wolfcamp at 5,425-5,539 feet when it recovered 1,620 feet of gas, 2,160 feet of oil and 90 feet of drilling water during a one hour drillstem test.

It is three miles southwest of Justiceburg and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 42, block 6, H&GN survey.

Hole was being made below 6,350 feet Thursday in Shell Oil Co. No. 1 Collan, prospective Des Moines sand discovery in West Fisher County.

Drillstem test from 6,273 to 6,312 feet, in the Des Moines, recovered 390 feet of gas and 150 feet of very slightly oil and gas-cut mud. Earlier, the project flowed oil heavily on drillstem test of the Des Moines.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 4, block 3, H&TC survey, eight miles southwest of Rotan.

Continental Oil Co. was preparing to set casing in No. 1 Schumacker, ½-mile northwest of Glasco (Devonian) field production in Southeast Gaines County.

Bottomed at 12,690 feet, the project ran a four-hour drillstem test from 12,660 to 12,690 feet. Recovery was 10 feet of oil, 180 feet of heavily gas-cut mud and 737 feet of salty, sulphur water.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of Lnar 25, league 295, Reagan County school Land survey.

Air Command Scheduled To Be Dissolved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The present Northeast Air Command, being dissolved after Jan. 1, will operate thereafter under the Air Defense Command and the Strategic Air Command.

The big command covers eastern and northeastern Canada and Greenland. The Defense Department announced last July that it was to be abolished, and disclosed today details of future operations of its facilities.

The department said that "this change is a part of the Defense Department's effort to simplify and strengthen its entire defense structure by orderly and economical realignment of assigned defense tasks." Shifts in command include bringing the Far East Air Force headquarters back to Hawaii.

The new plan for the Northeast Command, the department said, "will make air defense and supporting forces more responsive to the needs of continental air defense and also will provide SAC with more efficient control of the facilities which it uses."

Bit fields such as Goose Bay in Canada, Harmon in Newfoundland and Thule in Greenland are staging bases for SAC bombers.

The Air Defense Command will be responsible for planning and supply support in the eastern region of the Distant Early Warning Line (Dewline), as well as other warning systems which go into operation later.

Liquor Chain Hits At Spies

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Berbiglia, Inc., a Kansas City, Mo. liquor chain, asked the Jackson County Circuit Court to issue an injunction today prohibiting Kansas revenue agents from spying on its customers.

Kansas recently announced plans to stem the heavy flow of liquor across the line from Missouri during the holiday season.

It assigned revenue agents to watch Missouri liquor stores for customers who emerged with large packages and got into cars with Kansas license plates. Officers on the Kansas side, tipped off by radio, try to intercept the buyers.

In its petition for an injunction, Berbiglia contended Kansas officers have no police powers in Missouri where liquor is cheaper.

White Says Drought Aid Is A 'Must'

ABILENE (AP)—Agriculture Commissioner John White said today a long-range drought relief plan by federal and state governments is an "absolute must."

Before the farmers union convention, White rapped state legislators for what he called either "carelessness or extreme lack of foresight" in not planning drought legislation.

White suggested a five million dollar "revolving fund" in the state to aid areas hit by natural disasters, including drought.

He said he hoped President Eisenhower would make some changes in the present drought program after the proposed presidential trip to Texas next month.

"The present federal drought program expires this month but thousands of Texas farmers and ranchers are still in a critical situation," said White. "A long range plan of aid by both federal and state governments is an absolute must if these stricken people are to stay on their land."

"Even if the drought ended today, it will be nearly a year before many of the farmers could produce a cash crop. They have to be able to live until that time—and the drought is still with us."

White recommended:

That the government set up a low interest loan fund for bonafide farmers and ranchers.

Provide price stabilization measures for drought relief necessities, such as hay or roughage and other feed," to prevent further gouging of purchasers."

Use full all government owned food and fiber to maintain health standards and living conditions in drought areas.

Allow qualified livestockmen to purchase government feeds direct, eliminating middleman profits.

"Recognize that drought is a human tragedy—not a beaucratic function that can afford to be smothered by miles of red tape."

Men Testify On Records

TYLER (AP)—Two Department of Public Safety officials, Charles Gilleand and John Strother, testified today that photocopying machines they used in copying instruments from NAACP offices over the state cannot falsify an instrument.

Gilleand said he copied instruments in NAACP offices at Dallas. Strother said he worked in Houston.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Arthur LeCroix testified he went to several West Texas towns and photographed instruments from NAACP offices in five places. He said he knew the copies to be true and correct because markings he made on the instruments before they were photographed showed up in the copies.

Dist. Judge Otis Dunagan ruled yesterday that original records submitted by the NAACP could be substituted for photo copies of these records submitted by the state Wednesday.

The ruling conceded to the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People in Texas a point of dispute in its fight to have a permanent injunction hearing against the organization transferred to Austin or Dallas.

NAACP lawyers had questioned certain copies introduced by the state.

The attorney general's inquiry resulted in the original hearing at which Dunagan issued a temporary injunction against the organization—in effect—putting the NAACP out of business in Texas.

Report On Evaporation Study Will Be Made

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Results of a year's research on the use of chemical films to cut down evaporation of water from reservoirs will be disclosed tomorrow to the Southwest Research Institute.

Scientists have worked with government agencies in evaluating chemical agents. They reported an Australian experiment indicated that as much as 45 per cent evaporation reduction can be obtained by the use of hexadecanol, a fatty substance used in cosmetics.

GI Rate Hike Is Expected

HOUSTON (AP)—Ralph H. Stone, chief benefits director of the Veterans Administration in Washington, said yesterday he believes a GI housing interest rate hike is inevitable.

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) recently raised the maximum interest rate on FHA-insured mortgages from 4½ to 5 per cent. Since there is an insurance charge of ½ per cent, this raised the effective interest rate on such loans to 5½ per cent.

Officials have said the Eisenhower administration will ask Congress to approve a ½ per cent increase on the maximum interest on GI home loans, available to qualified veterans of World War II and the Korean War.

Congress authorized several years ago a [illegible] standing it would [illegible] partially in rural areas where commercial financing was hard to come by. It has been voting 150 million dollars annually for this program.

Missile May Have Landed In Jungles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said today a runaway guided missile is presumed to have landed somewhere in the Brazilian jungle, possibly in the area of the Amazon River.

The missile, understood to have been a Snark, was launched from Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., Wednesday and was set for a total flight distance of about 3,000 miles.

The course was supposed to have been a closed circuit over the Atlantic but the missile failed to go into the intended turn.

The missile was under radar surveillance as far as the coast of South America.

An Air Force spokesman said that because no reports of the missile's landing had been received, it is probable that it came to earth in some remote, uninhabited jungle area.

If this is the case, the wreckage of the missile probably will never be found. The jungle is so dense that even airplanes have disappeared and never been located.

The Snark is rated as an "intercontinental" missile.

The usual pattern is to send the missile out over the ocean, then put it into a closed circuit, square-shaped course, keeping it under radar observation throughout its flight.

The Snark is a "star-tracker" missile, guiding itself automatically by celestial navigation to keep it on course.

The Snark, manufactured by Northrop Aircraft Inc., is a winged pilotless bomber powered by an Allison J71 jet engine. Thus it is an air-breathing missile of subsonic speed. It weighs about seven or eight tons.

Galveston Is Taking Warrants To Houston

HOUSTON (AP)—D. A. Strain, an auditor for the City of Galveston, and Police Patrolman D. K. Lack arrived in Houston yesterday with 1,500 warrants for Houston vehicle drivers.

The men said it would take about two weeks to complete the job of trying to locate Houston residents who have ignored paying Galveston traffic fines. They estimated the warrants involve fines totaling $36,000.

½ cup water, (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for day)
½ cup shortening
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup quick cooking rolled oats

YOU AND YOUR TEEN-AGER

By BEVERLY BRANDOW

There is a phase between childhood and adulthood known as adolescence. The chief sympton is infatuation and the most perplexed people involved are called parents.

When your moonstruck offspring announces plans for an engagement, in a weak moment you may almost sigh with relief knowing you're not losing a son or daughter, but gaining a telephone.

Is it possible, you may wonder, to avoid those dying calf expressions, hour long phone conversations, homework time wasted on adding new chapters to an overfull diary, and bread winding up in the refrigerator after you have asked help in clearing the dinner table?

Infatuation cannot be any stretch of the imagination be called abnormal or unusual during the high school years, but in most cases both the intensity and the frequency of it can be lessened by wise parents.

Active teeners with active interests just do not sit still long enough for Cupid to take close aim. Busy teens don't have time to write painful poetry or mope around reliving past dates in minute detail.

While the opposite sex is and should be considered important a parent can introduce his teen to other occupations aside from dating which can also be engrossing.

We often hear girls complain of boy friends who would rather spend time tinkering with their jalopies than sipping sodas with them.

We hear of girls who cut short phone conversations because of urgent club work.

Find your teen-agers a hobby and insist that they mix with many teens rather than a select few. The busy teen is a well adjusted teen whose high school love affairs are never too deep or last too long.

(Have you a question you would like to see discussed in this column? If so write it to Miss Brandow in care of this newspaper.)

EDITORIALS

Danger Is Imminent

As she starts withdrawing her troops from Egypt along with her fellow-adventurer there, France, Great Britain faces some monumental problems whose solution will require quick and decisive action.

First off, she asks this country in effect to share the cost of the Anglo-French invasion in two particulars: 1. That the U. S. forget the $82 million in interest on her debt to us, due this month; 2. That the United Nations pay the cost of cleaning out the Suez Canal, which means the U. S. would put up most of the estimated $40 million required for that enterprise.

On Britain's home front problems pile up. The price of gasoline has been raised from 60c a gallon to 90c a gallon, as a first step in Britain's and Western Europe's belt-tightening brought about by closing of the canal and the blasting of pipelines in Syria.

The easy way for Uncle Sam to do would be to back away and take no part in solving Western Europe's economic problems, but there are two very good reasons why we can't. In the first place, the collapse of Western Europe would leave us confronting a triumphant Communist world almost alone. In the second place our government virtually underwrote the partial solution of the Suez problem by insisting that Britain and France give up their initial advantage and get out of there, at the cost of much face and heavy economic responsibilities.

The involuntary and reluctant withdrawal of Anglo-French forces from the area solves little or nothing of the basic problems involved. These basic problems are: How to keep the canal open to the commerce of all nations in a way not subject to Nasser's whims; how to keep the well-advanced Communist infiltrations in the Middle East from becoming total and permanent.

Both of these Western goals have been compromised, perhaps fatally, as a result of U. N. action, led by the United States. For while U. N. was able to effect withdrawal of Anglo - French forces, as well as that of the Israeli, the U. N. does not itself possess the military means or the unanimy of action essential to blocking Nasser out of absolute control of the canal or Russia out of Middle East domination.

Barring a miracle — the miracle of Nasser's conversion from a dictorial role to a responsible statesmanlike behavior, and the miracle of a Russian aboutface in its intent to possess the Middle East — Western interests are imperilled by the temporary, jerry-built partial "solution" symbolized by Anglo-French withdrawal.

The fundamental problems remain — aggravated by further weakening of British and French influence and strength — and the free world at the moment stands in deadly danger of imminent disaster.

Adlai's Valedictory

As befits a man who perhaps talked more than he should during the campaign, Adlai Stevenson made the statement this week that deserves to rank alongside Calvin Coolidge's famous "I do not choose to run" of 28 years ago.

What Adlai said was: "I will not run again for the presidency."

Undoubtedly he means it, thus he stops short of the record compiled by two other Democratic aspirants in history. William Jennings Bryan bore the banner three times, unsuccessfully; Grover Cleveland bore it three times, of which the first and last were successful. The alltime, permanent record, of course, belongs to Franklin D. Roosevelt, with four nominations and elections.

It can be said of Stevenson that he lived and ran at the wrong time. It was his personal misfortune to run twice against a man whose popularity transcended all party lines, and he shared the fate of Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie and Thos. E. Dewey (twice).

Already the political soothsayers are busily speculating on the presidential timber available in 1958, and Lyndon Johnson's name currently leads all the rest. There is talk, however, that the Texan has lost strength among the Northern liberals over civil rights matters and with Southern conservatives over his failure to put the blast on Ike.

But four years is a long time, and whatever may be his standing at the moment among minority groups to right and left of him, Johnson's role as Senate majority leader is not in danger, and since he plays that role superbly well he can repair a lot of fences in four years.

Democratic Party Is Planning To Give New Collective Leadership Idea A Trial

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The leaderless Democratic party is going to try a kind of collective leadership. The idea sounds reasonable. The question is: Will it work?

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler has invited 20 prominent party members — including Adlai Stevenson and former President Truman—to be advisers to the national committee's 11-man executive committee.

This is the intent: for the advisers to work with the committee in coordinating and advancing party programs and principles based on the 1956 Democratic platform—in short, a program for Democrats to put through Congress.

The result may be party splits and open arguments. The new arrangement may sap some of the congressional power of those two influential Texans: Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson and Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn.

For all practical purposes Johnson, Democratic leader in the Senate, and Rayburn, party leader in the House, will be the day-by-day active captains in Congress where any record the Democrats make must be established.

But already there is disagreement on what the Democrats in Congress should do when it opens up next month. At the moment the Democrats have no agreed plan of action.

Johnson has taken the position that the Democrats should wait to see what legislative recommendations Eisenhower offers before taking a position. As a starter, that doesn't sound very vigorous.

Two members of the national committee—Paul Ziffren of California and Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh—have openly disagreed with Johnson's let's-wait-and-see attitude.

They say the Democrats, instead of waiting for Eisenhower to show the way, should produce a program of their own. And Butler says that program should be basked on the 1956 Democratic platform.

For the past two years, when the Democrats controlled Congress, Johnson was given credit for running the Senate smoothly. But he also was criticized for not having steered the Democrats toward more active challenge to Eisenhower.

Johnson is also in disagreement with six Northern Democratic senators who have said they will move on Congress' opening day, Jan. 3, for a change in Senate rules to make it easier to stop filibusters.

Johnson's fellow Southerners — so long as the present rule on debate exists—can smash with a filibuster or the threat of one any attempt by Northern Democrats or Republicans to put through civil rights legislation.

Perhaps 'Elvis Era' Means Loss Of An Entire Century

By ED CREAGH
Associated Press Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maybe this will become known as the Elvis Presley Century.

It's whiny, sneering, trembly in the legs and it makes a lot of money.

Its voice is discordant to everybody except teen-agers.

It reeks of sex instead of romance, but it runs like a hare from serious commitments.

Maybe, like the groaning post-adolescent from Tennessee, the 20th Century is more a fad than a reality. Maybe we'll get over it by the year 2000, which is no encouragement to those of us who don't expect to be around that long.

We don't have, as the post World War I days had, a lost generation.

We've lost a whole century.

We split the atom and opened the door to power and riches undreamed of. Instead we used this new tool to blast two cities level with the earth and raced on, idiot fashion, finding bigger and better ways to blow ourselves to pieces.

We built a standard of living that put two cars in many a garage — four, for that matter, in a certain male canary's entourage — but we begrudged the money to build the schools to educate our kids.

Yep. An Elvis Presley Century. Brash and Childish. Rich and whimpering.

"Love Me Tender . . ." that's a key word: Tender. Not too hard or it might hurt. Love is dangerous, anyway; people might take advantage of you.

Besides, get too intense and you wind up on a psychiatrist's couch. It's simpler to hate. Or at least to sneer.

"Don't be cruel. . . ."

That's another Presley tune. No, don't be cruel. Why are people so mean to us when we're so nice to everybody? Nobody understands us. Everybody hates us.

"Heartbreak Hotel. . . ."

Presley Again. And that's us. Sitting in our lonely rooms, biting our fingernails, waiting for the bomb to go off, lamenting the warm comfort (or so it says here) of centuries past.

History may say that this sideburned youth who wiggles his hips while singing popular songs was a symbol of this time — that this century does a lot of wiggling and squirming without ever getting anywhere.

Try to imagine a Presley in the 1800's, when tougher people than we were forging the world we seem to be dithering away.

But let's not be too hard on Mr. Presley. Doubtless he does the best he can, and nobody should interfer with his right to do it.

But when the American people shell out over a million dollars a year to watch him do it —

Well, leave it at that. Maybe this is an Elvis Presley Century.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW: MAN OF THE CENTURY, by Archibald Henderson. Appleton-Century-Crofts.

This is the third, and presumably ultimate, tome about the bard of Ayot which has been compiled by his "official" biographer over a 45-year span.

It is certainly an ultimate in encyclopedic study. The principal additions it makes to public information during its half million word course are a selection of Shaw's letters to Sidney and Beatrice Webb, and a compendium of Shavian productions around the world.

Briefly, it is a book for the ages rather than the night table.

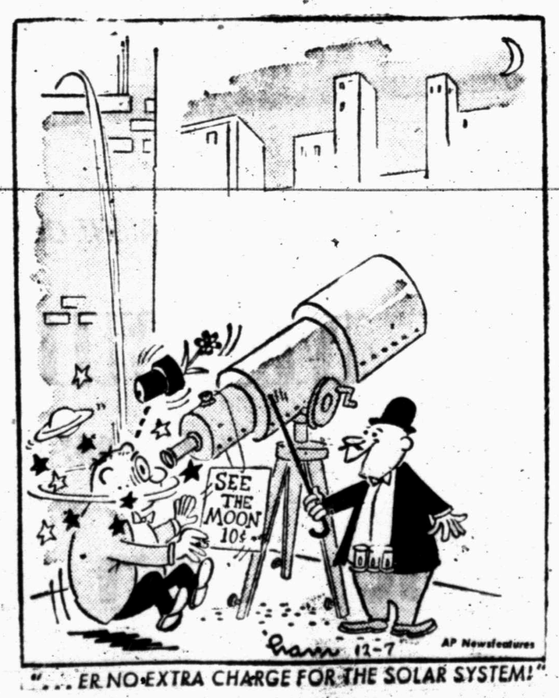

Henderson has arranged his material in thesis, rather than chronological form, which makes for not only some flash - back confusions, but certain redundancies.

Another recent biography of Shaw by St. John Ervine was also brought out to celebrate the playwright's centennial. It was not perhaps as laboriously final in archival exactitude but it did succeed in injecting more flesh-and-blood into the grand picture.

"Man of the Century" is enhanced with some three score photographs and sketches from the Shaw saga.

Warfare Has Changed Considerably Since U.S. Fleet Was Caught In Pearl Harbor

By JIM BECKER

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — Where once the battleships were moored row on row—inviting targets for the Japanese planes which smashed them 15 years ago today — a trim little motor launch ties up every morning.

Some 100 tourists walk slowly aboard, subdued, chatting in whispers, awestruck by the scene where history was made and the United States plunged into World War II, on the day that "will live in infamy."

They wear bright aloha shirts and cotton print dresses. Many have cameras slung around their necks. The children are along, almost unnaturally silent and reserved.

The day is brilliant. The trade winds rustle quietly, much as on Sunday, Dec. 7, 191.

The launch passes a well-scrubbed Navy transport, one of only half a dozen or so ships in the giant harbor.

The transport's radar scope whirls steadily, scanning the skies. (Only a handful of ships in Pearl had radar in 1941, and a radar warning from an Army outpost never reached the fleet.)

"There were 94 ships in Pearl Harbor on Sunday, Dec. 7," the sailor on the launch says, rattling through his prepared patter.

The launch makes a wide swing and stops at the beginning of the now-deserted one-mile stretch of docks and buoys known as "Battleship Row."

There, in the space of about a mile, seven American battleships were moored when the Japanese struck. Four were sunk. Those afloat were damaged.

Some 2,000 men died, torn to bits in the explosions of bombs, burned to death in the flaming waters of the harbor as oil spilled from stricken ships and caught fire from incendiary bombs, trapped below decks of ships on their way to the bottom.

Huge columns of black smoke poured up and the harbor burned throughout the night of America's first hectic 24 hours at war.

Some of the battleships were refloated to fight on during the Pacific war, but the Japanese attack, with one blow, made obsolete the battleship concept of warfare.

Never again will Pearl present such a juicy target.

The Pacific commander, Adm. Felix B. Stump, whose headquarters are atop a hill overlooking the sprawling harbor, says: "There have been so many changes in warfare in the 15 years since the attack.

"The aircraft carrier has taken over from the battleship. The guided missile vessel may some day take the role of the aircraft carrier.

"Also, we don't concentrate our ships in the harbor like we did then. We keep better dispersed, out to sea. You never see anything like it (Dec. 7) any more."

The launch pulls alongside the sunken battleship Utah. Some six feet of the ship's deck sticks from the water at a crazy angle. The deck is concrete covered. The Utah was taken out of service in 1937 and used by the navy as a bombing target.

"You may take photographs here," the sailor says, "but keep the cameras pointed at the part of the Utah you see out of the water."

The cameras click steadily. One man asks another: "How about F11 at 1000?" The other says, "That should do it."

"I have color and I don't want to be overexposed," the first man says.

The picture-taking completed, the launch chugs up Battleship Row.

To the right, where the channel narrows, the carrier Philippine Sea—named for an American victory—rides at anchor, her deck massed with planes, their folded wings pointed toward the sky.

To the left, near the end of Battleship Row, an American flag flies from a platform some 30 feet from shore. It marks the sunken battleship Arizona, where 1,102 men from apprentice seamen to a rear admiral—are still entombed.

A white post sticks up from the water. It bears the sign: "Bow." Six hundred feet away is another: "Stern."

Between them, only a couple of rusted mushroom shapes and the tip of the Arizona's bridges rides above water. Its main deck is 12 feet under. Oil still oozes slow from the bowls of the ship.

It is because of the oil the sailor explains, that the Arizona was never raised to the surface. Divers who attempted the job were killed when their torches set fire to oil pockets.

The Navy still lists the Arizona as an active ship. Every morning an honor guard raises her flag. At dusk, it comes down, along with those of the other ships at Pearl.

The band of the Arizona was playing for the raising of the colors at 8 a.m. when the Japanese planes swept in from the north.

A bomb plunged down her main smokestack—a "one in a million" hit—and eight minutes later she was on the bottom.

Many of the men below never knew what hit them.

The visitors watch the oil-darkened water lap quietly against the Arizona. The chatter of a rivet gun in the shipyard comes clearly across the water.

"Daddy," asks a little girl, "why did they bomb Pearl Harbor?"

"I don't know, honey," the father says, "but it was a terrible mistake."

There Are Still Plenty Of Inventors In U.S.A.

By INEZ ROBB

Well, sir, the Russians aren't the only people who can produce great inventors and great inventions. (That's a joke, son!)

Maybe they did invent radar, the automobile, the steam engine, the airplane, the jeep, the telephone, radio, television and jet-propulsion. But, by golly, we've got inventors on our side working their hearts out to make life glorious for the common man, American Plan.

Why, I can hardly wait to get my cotton pickin' hands on a new, foolproof banjo that all but plays itself. If you can count to 10, son, you can play this new, improved musical instrument, with or without blue suede shoes. (And if you can't count to 10, look for another inventor or school.)

Instead of fingering the frets in the old-fashioned way, the modern banjo player just presses a numbered button that corresponds with the chord he craves to produce. And, presto! He's digging Bethoven's Fifth before he can say Bix Biedeker. This does away with playing by note, by rote, or by ear. This way, an artist plays the numbers and it's legal. It's real cool, man.

But perhaps spaghetti, not music, is your problem. Have you always been afraid to eat spaghetti in public, lest you wind up with more loose ends than a May pole? Has a bowl of the stuff always reminded you of a can of worms out of control?

Those days are gone forever. Your problem has been solved by a genius who has taken out a patent on a spaghetti bowl that takes all the fight out of the stuff.

On the side of the spaghetti bowl is a depression shaped like the bowl of a spoon. The spaghetti addict stabs a fork into the stuff, decoys it over to this depression, twirls the fork around until his spaghetti is neat as a ball of twine. Then he pops it in his mouth.

Look, ma, no spots! The vest is at rest.

But in this life, we must take the bitter with the better. I must report an invention about which I still have reservations. The government has just issued a patent on a steam-proof envelope. Tamper-proof, really.

When I think of all the innocent, girlish hours I have spent steaming open envelopes, the passing of the old days makes me sad. Ah, well, maybe the doctor next door will let me use his X-ray machine.

Nor is this all the goodies our inventors have come up with recently. Two scientists have found a legal use for ground glass. If ground real fine (like for you know what), it is just dandy as a fertilizer for plants that need a plow and prolonged dose of potassium.

And another genius has invented a boxing glove with a built-in adding machine that keeps track of the number of times the wearer of the glove makes contact with his opponent.

And there is a new antibiotic on the market for whale fishermen which will enable any angler to inject his Moby Dick with a mess of the stuff to keep him (Old Moby) from decaying before he can be delivered to the taxidermist.

Necessity is surely the mother of invention. But sometimes the old lady must experience difficulty in recognizing her own offspring.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Argentine Women Expect To Play Election Roles

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Women in the Argentine are eager to work for good government and expect to play a large part in their country's general elections next year, according to Mrs. Alberto Bengas Lynch, wife of the counselor of the Argentine embassy.

Since coming here a year ago with her husband and three teenage children, Mrs. Lynch says she's had a "wonderful lesson in democracy," having avidly followed our political campaigns from pre-convention days right through the elections. Most of all, she is impressed with "the many activities and interests American women have, and they're all so feminine, too."

Mrs. Lynch refers to the late Peron regime in her country as "the tyranny." The women in the Argentine have long had the right to vote, but during "the tyranny" they had no chance to exercise this privilege. Her husband, an economist, is a first cousin of the wife of Argentine Ambassador Dr. Don Alfalfo Vicchi. He worked for 25 years in the Vicchi family's winery at Mendoza and was its general manager and vice president when he was called into his country's diplomat service just after the ouster of the Peron government.

Lynch is of Irish descent. "His grandmother Lynch had 50 first cousins of the same name, "Mrs. Lynch told me. "There are many families of Irish descent in Argentina. Many of our great polo players and big ranchers had Irish ancestors. There are also many French, Italian and Swiss in our population.

Like their parents, the Lynch youngsters, Albert, Jr., 16, Sophia, 14, and Martin, 13, speak fluent English.

This is Mrs. Lynch's third visit to the United States. She was 18 when she first came here with her father, Dr. Cupertino del Campo, a noted landscape painter who helped found the Argentine-American Cultural Institute and was formerly director of the Fine Arts Museum of Buenos Aires.

"I loved that trip," Mrs. Lynch confided, "we traveled from coast to coast and spent most of our time in museums and art galleries."

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The turkey had scarcely been removed from the Thanksgiving table when television trotted out its Christmas commercials.

And, the television people might ask, why not? Newspapers and magazines are urging shoppers to hurry, hurry, hurry and get it over with early. In cities and towns across the country merchants have run up the tinsel and green. It's all part of a plot to start the Christmas season in late August.

Personally, I can't get very excited — either pro or con — about rushing the season. Except when it comes to television. Then it brings out the Scrooge in me.

Am I unfair to television on this matter? Probably. Why should I be mildly interested in early Christmas advertising in newspapers and magazines, yet annoyed when television does the same thing?

The answer is that there's an immediacy to television. If you're watching a program, you're trapped by its commercial. There on the living room home screen is a Christmas on Christmas morning and out parade Daddy and Mummy and Junior and Betsy, all wearing bathrobes, all with hair neatly brushed and faces scrubbed. "Oooh!" cries Betsy. "A whatchamacallit! I've always wanted a whatchamacallit!"

After this and similar Christmas morning scenes have been repeated 30 or 40 times in the living room, you begin to feel that there's little point to celebrating your own family Christmas in this same living room. It would be repetitious. Furthermore, your own tree couldn't possibly be as big or gaudy as the tree of the commercial and none of your family would bother to comb his hair or scrub his face — or maybe even pull on a bathrobe.

Clothes Wear Men Down More Than Their Woes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That the average man may be worn down more by his clothes than his woes. His winter clothing —counting contents of pockets weighs about nine pounds, that of the average woman only 2½ pounds.

That jaywalking moose are a railroad problem in Alaska. About 300 a year are killed by trains.

That President William Henry Harrison was the only occupant of the White House who kept his own milk cow.

That cats have been known to eat socks out of a sheer boredom, which also may explain a lot of odd human eating habits.

That after childbirth in some South American Indian tribes it's the father who goes to bed and, feigning exhaustion, lies there while his wife arises and waits on him and the baby hand and foot. This custom may sound primitive—but they rarely lose a father!

That 6 of every 100 babies born in this country are now delivered by caesarean operation.

That an Australian physician says one of every five men who dies has some cancer of the prostate gland, although this is seldom the actual cause of death.

Iraq Strong Man Weakening Under Strong Pressure

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq's aged strong man is weakening under mounting pressure.

Nuri Said, 68-year-old premier of the nation which is an important key to the future of the whole Middle East, appears today to have his back to the wall.

Like a man preparing for an impending storm, Nuri has arrested and confined a number of opposition leaders. He has kept all secondary schools and colleges closed since the outbreak of fighting in Egypt to prevent student rioting.

He has clamped down a rigid martial law, transforming Iraq into what the literate population considers a total and often harsh police state.

He has imposed the strictest of military and civilian censorship on the local press and on foreign correspondents.

This writer has just returned from Baghdad.

He has talked to dozens of Iraqis, all the way from government leaders to Arab nationalist extremists. He has talked to diplomats, journalists, businessmen and members of Iraq's small class of professional people.

The conclusion is inescapable.

At least 90 per cent of the literate population of Iraq—perhaps more—oppose Nuri.

Seasoned observers of the Middle East say this:

It may not be tomorrow. It may not even be next month. But it is inevitable that Nuri will fall.

When that comes, just anything can happen — because only the strength of Iraq's strong man has kept the country from hurtling toward chaos.

The Iraqi army is on the alert —against Iraqis. It is obviously prepared to move into any trouble spot at a moment's notice.

Iraqi Foreign Minister Burhan Eddin Bashayan told this correspondent a few days ago he considers the crisis in Iraq passed with the decision of Britain and France to withdraw from Egypt.

But even the foreign minister admitted that it would be weeks before the schools would be reopened. And other observers in Baghdad express the belief that Iraq's crisis is only beginning.

The crisis could be a reflection of rising public pressure on the government, stemming from Egyptian events and the vague Arab dream of a united empire under a hero leader. This has been fanned by all sorts of agents — Syrian, Egyptian, Communist and home-grown nationalist extremists. All oppose Nuri's determination to keep Iraq in the Baghdad Pact, the only Arab member of that pro-Western, anti-Soviet alliance.

There have been a number of outbreaks of violence in Iraqi cities, notably Mosul, the oil center, and Najaf, the holy Moslem shrine city. As I left Iraq, both cities were quiet but visitors reported a tense atmosphere.

Young Iraqis are restless and frustrated, demanding that Nuri and his Baghdad Pact government must go. There have even been cries of "Down with the King."

It is difficult to separate rumor from fact in such a situation, but here is as close a picture as can be gleaned from innumerable sources of information:

Arrested and confined under army guard on a government farm at Abu Krabe, 30 miles from Baghdad, are the following leaders:

Mohammed Jaafar al Shibibi, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Kamil al Chacheri, leader of the leftist front; Hussein Jamil, general secretary of the National Democratic party; Faikal Samari, former vice president of the Istiqlal (Independence) party, an extreme nationalist group; Sadik Shanshal, general secretary of the Istiqlal party; and Abdul Rhaman Bazas, dean of the law college.

There are reliable reports that about 22 members of Parliament also have been arrested. The Parliament was handpicked two years ago by Nuri himself. It was suspended immediately after its formal opening for the current session Dec. 1.

School Action Is Approved

DALLAS (AP)—All distinctions in membership between Negro and white colleges and universities in the Southern Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be abolished by 1961.

This action was voted yesterday. Dr. Elford Morgan, secretary of the commission on colleges and universities for the association, made the motion passed by the 1,500 Southern educators in convention.

He said "unusual progress" has been made by the Negro colleges in meeting academic standards.

T. P. Baker, director of instruction in the Austin school, was elected president for 1957.

Texas schools newly accredited were Wayland Baptist College at Plainview, Pan American College at Edinburg, and Weatherford Junior College.

White and seven Negro junior and senior high schools approved included Big Spring Junior High; College Station A&M Consolidated Junior High; Greggton Pine Tree Junior High; Waco Connally High and Bryan E. A. Kemp.

Flower Drop Slated At Ft. Sam Houston

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Two San Antonio Civil Air Patrol planes will drop flowers over Ft. Sam Houston National Cemetery today in observance of the 15th anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

Capt. Carrol Basham, CAP squadron commander, said the planes will fly over about 11:56 a.m., the approximate San Antonio time of the actual bombing of Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

TURNCOATS ENROUTE HOME—Two Korean war turncoats who chose to remain in Communist China rather than return to their homes in the U.S., Arley Pate, left, of Carbondale, Ill., and Aaron Wilson of Urania, La., wait at the airport in Milwaukee, Wis., for a bus to take them to Chicago. They arrived by plane from Seattle on a flight that was rerouted to Milwaukee because the airport at Chicago was fogbound.

JET PLANE HITS HOUSES IN CRASH LANDING—Firemen fight the burning wreckage of a jet training plane and two houses after the plane crash landed while approaching International Airport in Los Angeles, Calif. The plane hit a power pole and smasked the roof from a garage before coming to rest between the two houses. Capt. James Glessner of the Air Force, the pilot, was only slightly hurt and no one in the homes was hurt.

NEW CURE FOR ARTHRITIS:

Lady Lawford Acts On TV

By DIAL TORGERSON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Lady Mary Lawford, widow of Sir Sidney Lawford and mother of actor Peter Lawford, says she has found a cure for her arthritis: acting on television.

She appeared on the CBS TV production of Climax last night before millions of televiewers — and her cat.

"The cat and I watched the show," she said. "But I don't think she recognized me."

Lady Lawford said she took to acting when her doctor told her that her arthritis "was more in my head than anywhere else." She said he told her:

"Do something you like doing, and maybe it will get better. You need to do something besides just stay home and stroke the cat."

The stately Englishwoman, who had small parts in two films some years ago but has never acted for a living, said she called the casting director of the Climax program and asked for a job.

She got it—as an extra with a walk-on part. It took two days, one for rehearsal and one for the show.

"And I feel like a million," she said.

Lady Lawford didn't know last night whether her son saw the show, which is seen live by Eastern viewers and shown later on the West Coast on film.

"He never knew a thing about it," she said.

Lawford was in the same studio at the time—doing a preview for next week's Playhouse 90, program.

"I'm quite surprised," he said later. "Why, she must've been right across the hall from us. It's a wonder I didn't see her."

Lawford lives in Santa Monica with his wife and two children. His mother, whose husband died three years ago at 88, lives alone in an apartment in nearby Westwood.

Lady Lawford, describing herself as "over 50," says she hopes to get more character parts.

Elizabeth was killed.

County Atty. Hez Bussey said the girl's mother Mrs. Carl L. Larison told him Elvin and Elizabeth planned a divorce and Elizabeth was picking up her belongings yesterday at Elvin's home near Moore, Okla.

Bussey said Elvin, his father C. E. Thornton, 69, and the girl's 32-year-old step.- father grappled for the shotgun. It fired. Elizabeth was hit in the stomach.

The elder Thornton and Larison were held for questioning.

Police Looking For City Hall Intruder

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP)—Police are looking for a would-be burglar who tried hard to break into the city hall.

Officers found a hinge pin removed from one city hall door, three hinge pins out of another and a window with most of the moulding torn away from its edges.

Apparently the aspiring burglar got disgusted and walked away.

Senate Probe Of Commies Comes To End

HONOLULU (AP)—Senate probes ended their hearings on communism in Hawaii yesterday with at least one subcommittee member concluding at a "communist conspiracy exists in the islands."

"The over-all picture here has convinced me there is still a continuing Communist conspiracy in the islands," said Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah).

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee heard 30 witnesses in six days. Twenty witnesses pleaded the Fifth Amendment when asked about Communist activity.

Among those refusing to answer on grounds of possible self-incrimination were officials of Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

Atty. William Stephenson, chairman of the Territorial Subversive Activities Commission, was the last witness. He said ILWU leaders "are still following a continuous course of action against the government."

A secret witness told the subcommittee that some men he knew as Communists "are running" the ILWU.

Sen. James O. Eastland (H-Miss) headed the hearings.

Forgetful Secretary Saves Firm's Money

CLINTON, Ill. (AP)—Carl Barding, an automobile dealer, was happy his secretary was forgetful about putting the company's money in the safe Wednesday night.

Burglars broke into Barding's office and took everything in the safe—including, Barding told police, more than $3,500 in currency.

But when Barding's secretary Mrs. Mary Lane arrived at work yesterday she discovered she had left $3,500 in her desk drawer—not in the safe where she normally kept the company's money. Barding reported the later developments to police, and told them the cash loot from the safe was about $80.

Coal Mine Strike Plaguing Hungary

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Communist Budapest radio admitted today that strikes in coal mines still are plaguing Hungary and called them a "blow against the nation."

The radio broadcast a protest by the government trade union organ Nepakarat against "daily strikes and stoppages" in key coal mining areas. It said most of the walkouts had taken place in the Borsod, Tatabanya and Pecs areas, which are Hungary's main sources of coal.

Previous reports have said Hungary's coal mines have been producing only about 30 per cent of their prerevolution output.

The union paper hit especially at the Tatabanya miners, charging their "irresponsible" behavior was endangering the "vital interests of the Hungarian people."

Up to midday there were no reports of new anti-Communist demonstrations in Budapest like those that have erupted over the last three days.

An earlier Budapest radio broadcast said, however, a meeting of Communists supporting Premier Janos Kadar had demanded quick action by the government against "terrorist onslaughts by counterrevolutionary elements," the term the Red regime customarily applies to the opponents of Kadar's Russian-controlled regime.

At least two persons were killed and several wounded yesterday in the Hungarian capital when rebellious residents clashed with a band of Kadar supporters. Radio Budapest said 50 persons were arrested and blamed the slayings on "provocateurs."

Radio Budapest also estimated that the revolt so far had cost the Hungarian economy 16 billion forints (about $1,360,000,000).

But while relief supplies built up for Hungary's needy, the Communist regime began exporting livestock. Sixteen railway freight cars carrying 465 pigs arrived in Austria for the Christmas market. More shipments were expected.

Just Too Foxy

LANCASTER, Va. (AP)—Lancaster County will try to come to agreement with neighboring Richmond and Northumberland counties over fox anatomy. Lancaster pays a $3 bounty for a fox tail, Richmond pays 75 cents for the nose and Northumberland pays $1.50 for the two ears. Lancaster officials wonder if some foxy hunters aren't collecting three times for the same fox.

Closing Arguments Started In George Parr Mail Fraud Trial

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Closing arguments in the George Parr mail fraud trial began yesterday as Asst. U.S. Atty. Edgar O. Bottler charged that Parr and his associates used Benavides Independent School District money as "a fund for their own use."

Bottler spoke for 1 hour and 46 minutes before Federal Judge Allen B. Hannay recessed the trial until this morning. Each side has been allotted six hours for final arguments. The case is not expected to go to the jury until Monday unless the judge orders a session for tomorrow.

Parr and eight of his Duval County associates and two banks now being liquidated and formerly headed by Parr, were indicted for diverting Benavides Independent School District funds to personal use through use of a mail fraud scheme. The banks are the Texas State Bank of Alice and the San Diego State Bank of San Diego.

Bottler told the all-male jury that the defendants entered into a scheme "to take over the management of the school district and did this by assuming control of the school board and the bank (Texas State Bank of Alice) which was the district's depository."

Bottler said Parr was the man behind the scheme and prepared lists of fictitious names and work for which more than $200,000 in fraudulent checks were prepared.

Speaking of D. C. Chapa, former tax assessor-collector for the school district, Bottler said, "He is the man who together with Mr. Parr showed domination and control over this school district."

The attorney told the jury that Oscar Carrillo Sr., a son of Chapa and a former secretary of the school board, used a school district credit card in obtaining gasoline for privately owned cars.

Bottler said a number of school district checks were deposited to a bank account in Hebbronville in the name of Octavio Saenz, former school board president.

Bottler said that Jesus Oliviera participated in the scheme by accepting checks as nightwatchman at the school although never performing such services.

Bottler said daughters of two former school board members, Santiago Garcia and Jesus G. Garz, got checks from the school district although they attended schools in Denton, San Antonio and Austin.

Bottler referred to B. F. (Tom) Donald Jr., cashier of the Texas State Bank as "the man on the inside of the bank." He said Donald cashed numerous fraudulent school district checks.

Bottler said O. P. Carillo, another son of Chapa and a former attorney for the school board, participated in the scheme in that furniture and other materials for his law office were paid for by the school district.

Bottler said lists of checks recorded in the annual school district report were "full of misrepresentations and false pretenses as to what the checks were issued for."

"They were issued for the benefit of the defendants," he said.

The defense objected to the state's use of a large placard with strips of brown paper covering certain words. The state said it intended to use the placard to help sum up its case in front of the jury.

Judge Hannay sustained the defense objection and the placard was not used by the state.

New System Of Forecast Is Developed

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Irving P. Krick, meteorologist of Denver, Colo., yesterday told city officials of what he called a radical new weather forecasting system which he said will soon permit accurate daily weather forecasts "for several years in advance."

The city of Dallas recently canceled a weather modification contract with Dr. Krick. He met with city officials to discuss the new system.

He said his visit with city officials was purely informative and that he made no definite proposal or price offer.

City officials would not comment on the plan.

"By spring," Dr. Krick said, "we will be able to tell you when and where it will rain in Texas next year, and about how much."

"We are on the threshold of a dependable method of projecting the weather day by day for several years in advance," he said.

He said the forecasting would be done with the aid of electronic computers now being set up in his Denver laboratories.

"The atmosphere has a system of pressure waves," he said. "It was humanly impossible to know what these would do until we had computers."

"We do know," he said, "that the rhythms are persistent and real. Our hypothesis is that nature is ordered."

"We are now getting solutions to the year 2064," he said.

He said it would be impossible to predict "isolated local thundershowers."

San Angelo Billed For Meter Money

SAN ANGELO (AP)—A San Angelo merchant, M. E. Bolding, has billed San Angelo for nine years of supplying change for parking meters.

His bill totals $123.75. He figured it at 5 cents a day for 275 days a year for nine years.

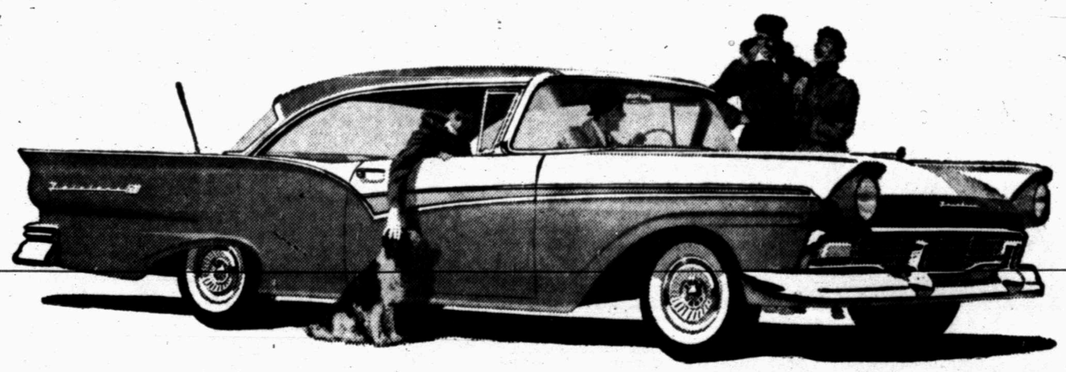

Bolding, owner of Bolding Jewelers, says he has been forced to keep change not otherwise required to satisfy people seeking nickels and to listen to their complaints about the meters.

Lutherans Schedule Dedication Service

Members of the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church will conduct an organizational service at 3 p. m. Sunday at the West Elementary School.

Dr. Royal E. Lesher, president of the Texas-Louisiana District of the United Lutheran Church, will be main speaker for the event. Special music will be under direction of Mrs. DWane Collins.

Last Sunday, a church council of nine members was elected to replace the present steering committee. The council, to be installed at the special Sunday service, is composed of Dr. DWane Collins, A. A. Graumann, George Blalock, C. O. Lange, Robert Eime, Victor Dieke, Jesse Johnson, Victor Freytag, and Jack Zeck.

The steering committee, elected last January, was made up of Collins, Lange, Graumann, with other members elected in April, Johnson, Dieke, Eime, and Leroy Weber.

The church has been in the organizational stages since June, 1955, when Mrs. James Vorkiper and Charles Vorkoper conducted a survey here authorized by the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Texas and Louisiana, for the board of American missions of the United Lutheran Church in America. Various Lutheran groups had explored the possiblity of establishing a Lutheran Church previously here, but efforts had been abandoned.

A meeting was held with about 200 persons attending in November 1955, and at that time 23 persons expressed specific interest in petitioning the mission board for aid in establishing a mission here. A request was filed in January, 1956, and permission was granted. The Trinity Lutheran Church of Miles shared its pastor, Rev. Vorkiper, and he presided at the first informal meeting of the church, with 17 adults and 12 children attending.

Services began Jan. 15 with 52 attending. In April, the Rev. Paul Janson of Tekemah, Nebr., was called by the board of American missions to serve the mission as developer. He has been here since that time.

Charter membership has grown to 70 in the church. The church is making tentative plans for a building in the southwest part of Snyder. The congregation presently holds Sunday services at the West Elementary School.

Meeting Held By Catholic Women Here

Auxiliary Bishop John Markovsky of Amarillo Tuesday attended the fall meeting of the Big Spring district of the Amarillo Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, held in Snyder.

Theme of the meeting was "The Influence of the Ideal Catholic Woman in Her Community." The meeting was held at the Veterans clubhouse.

After the invocation by the Rev. Edward Chrisman, pastor of St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church here, Mrs. Ralph Geisler of Midland opened the meeting. The welcome was given by Mrs. William Mapes, president of St. Elizabeth's Altar Society here.

Reports were given by various district chairmen, including Mrs. J. E. Healey of Odessa on organization and development; Mrs. Sam Wilkinson of Stanton on imigration; Miss Annie Brom of Hermleigh on cooperating with Catholic charties and foreign relief; Mrs. J. E. Bedingfield of Sweetwater on youth; Miss Claire Dyar of Sweetwater on CCD; Mrs C. M. Hatfield of Midland on home, school, and parent education; Mrs. E. O. Kemper of Odessa on libraries and literature; Mrs. J. E. Beakey of Midland on legislation; Mrs. E. C. Long of Midland on spiritual development; and Mrs. Fredric S. McLaren of Midland on public relations.

During the afternoon meeting, the invocation was given by the Rev. Jerome Powers, OMI, of Sweetwater. Parish presidents made reports. They were Mrs. J. E. Flynn of Big Spring, Mrs. Alvin Kuss of Hermleigh, Mrs. Frank Rutledge of McCamey, Mrs. Hugh Munn of Midland; Mrs. Leon Fischer of Midland; Mrs. Tom McCurdy of Odessa, Mrs William Mapes of Snyder, and Mrs. H. D. Reeves of Sweetwater.

A talk was given by the Rev. Thomas J. Kennedy, OMI moderator of the Big Spring district. Guest speaker was the Rev. Peter Rogers, OMI, of San Antonio. Auxiliary Bishop Markovski made closing remarks.

Cold Spell Hovers Over Rockies Today

DENVER (AP)—Anchored by its own moisture, a wall of cold moved sluggishly along the Rocky Mountains and over the plains early today.

Temperatures shrank to 25 below zero at some mountain points. Up to 15 inches of snow was reported in spots, none in others.

Two members of a Hartville, Wyo., family were killed and two others injured critically when their car struck a skidding snowplow north of Cheyenne. At Cut Bank, Mont., near the Canadian border, a motorist was rescued after being snowbound in his car for 40 hours. Despite temperatures of 30 below, he suffered only frostbitten fingers.

The weatherman promised little in the way of a warming trend today.

Although heavy at Rawlins and Laramie, Wyo., and in some mountain passes, the snow was not expected to bring much relief in the prolonged drought for the mountain states.

Hardest hit by the massive cold front was Montana. At midnight only two points in the state reported above - zero readings. Havre and Cut Bank had 25-below readings. The state capital, Helena, logged 19 below.

Abilene Base Will Honor Great Flier

ABILENE (AP)—West Texas honors one of the nation's great fliers of World War II tomorrow when Abilene Air Force Base is renamed in honor of the late Lt. Col. William Dyess, a native of Albany.

Dyess flew with the 21st Pursuit Squadron in the Philippines early in the war but escaped aboard a submarine to Australia before the U.S. troops surrendered to the Japanese.

Maj. Gen. Jacob Smart, assistant vice chief of staff of the Air Force will dedicate the field at 10 a.m.

A caravan of Dyess' townsmen from Albany and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dyess, will attend the formal review and dedication.

Dyess won the Distinguished Service Cross with one oak leaf cluster for heroism. He won the Silver Star with two clusters, the Legion of Merit and the Soldier's Medal, the highest military decoration for non-combat heroism.

Dyess was awarded the Soldier's Medal posthumously for crashing with his P38 fighter plane near Burbank, Calif., in December, 1943 rather than bail out and risk having the pilotless craft crash into a populated area. He was 27 when he died.

Abilene Man Tells Of Trip To Russia

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stewart of Abilene were visitors yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Snyder Rotary Club, where Stewart made a talk on the couple's 10-day visit in Russia several months ago.

In his talk, Stewart said he and his wife were lucky to get a visa to visit Soviet Russia. At that time, however anti-Stalinists Krushchev and Bulganin were in power and leaning to the right. Getting such a visa now would be almost impossible for an anti-Communist.

Stewart said no one becomes and expert on Russia after a 10-day visit and that his comments were only on the couple's observances while at Leningrad and Moscow.

While the couple was there, large groups of persons from Russian sattelites and those favorable to the Communists from other countries were there on tour as guest of the Soviets. Russia was doing a good job of propagandizing those people, as well as the Stewarts.

Even though Russia is not the ideal place Communists would have the world believe, it does have a better economy than Americans have been told, Stewart said. The country has more raw materials than does any other country in the world. Together, Russia and its sattellites has 1,500 million people.

Stewart described places the couple visited at Leningrad and Moscow, including a Baptist church in Leningrad, which was the first church their woman guide had ever visited, the Kremlin, and the tomb of Lenin and Stalin.

They also visited a collective farm of 12,000 acres where 1,700 persons worked. Although the farming program was poor, the farm had a very good livestock program, as do all farms in Russia.

The couple visited a new university in Moscow with 25,000 students enrolled. Russia, stressing education, is turning out three times as many scientists, engineers, and doctors as is the U.S. The Russian youth program starts when the child is two years old, and from that time he is developed into an athlete, scientist, or whatever he can best make.

"The void on the faces of the Russian people is from not having the principles of Christianity," Stewart said, adding "We are not going to be able to get together with them by shot, shell, or atomic bomb—the only way is through the teachings of Jesus Christ."

No Shortage Of Oil Seen For Nation

CHICAGO (AP)—The plan to send large shipments of gasoline and oil to Western Europe because of the blockade of the Suez Canal will cause no shortages in the United States, says the director of the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM).

No rationing is in sight, Arthur Flemming said last night, and, he added, that prior to the Middle East crisis a ban on oil imports had been considered.

Flemming told the General Assembly of the States last night presidential advisers last year decided any significant rise in oil imports would lessen incentive for seeking new sources of oil supplies in this country.

"If the crisis had not developed in the Middle East, and if some companies had not altered their plans for 1957," Flemming said, "I was prepared on Dec. 1 to certify to the President that oil imports did constitute a threat to our national security."

Flemming said the plan to ship some 500,000 barrels of oil to Europe daily "can be put into effect without creating any shortages in this nation. It can be done without our contemplating the possibility of rationing of oil in this country."

The ODM director also told the conference of legislators and state office holders that the United States must be prepared for a general mobilization.

Pilot Parachutes To Safety Last Night

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A Clovis, N.M., Air Force Base jet fighter pilot parachuted to safety last night less than two miles from where his F86H crashed near Eola, Tex.

Highway patrolmen identified the pilot as Lt. Larry Johnson.

The plane crashed near a fence between two farms about one half mile from Eola.

Plane Crew Is Stranded

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—Engine trouble stranded the 10-man crew of a U.S. Navy plane at the South Pole today.

The crew had flown to the two-mile-high polar plateau with supplies for a 23-member Seabee task force building a base there for International Geophysical Year observation.

The fliers took their polar delay philosophically. Before starting their repair job, they broke out sleeping bags from their survival kits and turned in at one of the three shelter huts the Seabees have built in the last two weeks.

Crew members include Sgt. David Sullivan of San Benito, Tex., navigator; and Minor McDaniel of Pharr, Tex., aviation electrician.

Scout Safety Meeting Held

Boy Scout Troop 109 was host last night to a safety meeting held at the First Christian Church, the troop's sponsoring institution.

J. Ross Kemp of Abilene, district safety officer for the Texas Highway Patrol, made a safety talk and showed film strips on safety to those attending. Frank Bean, highway patrolman here, was also present at the meeting.

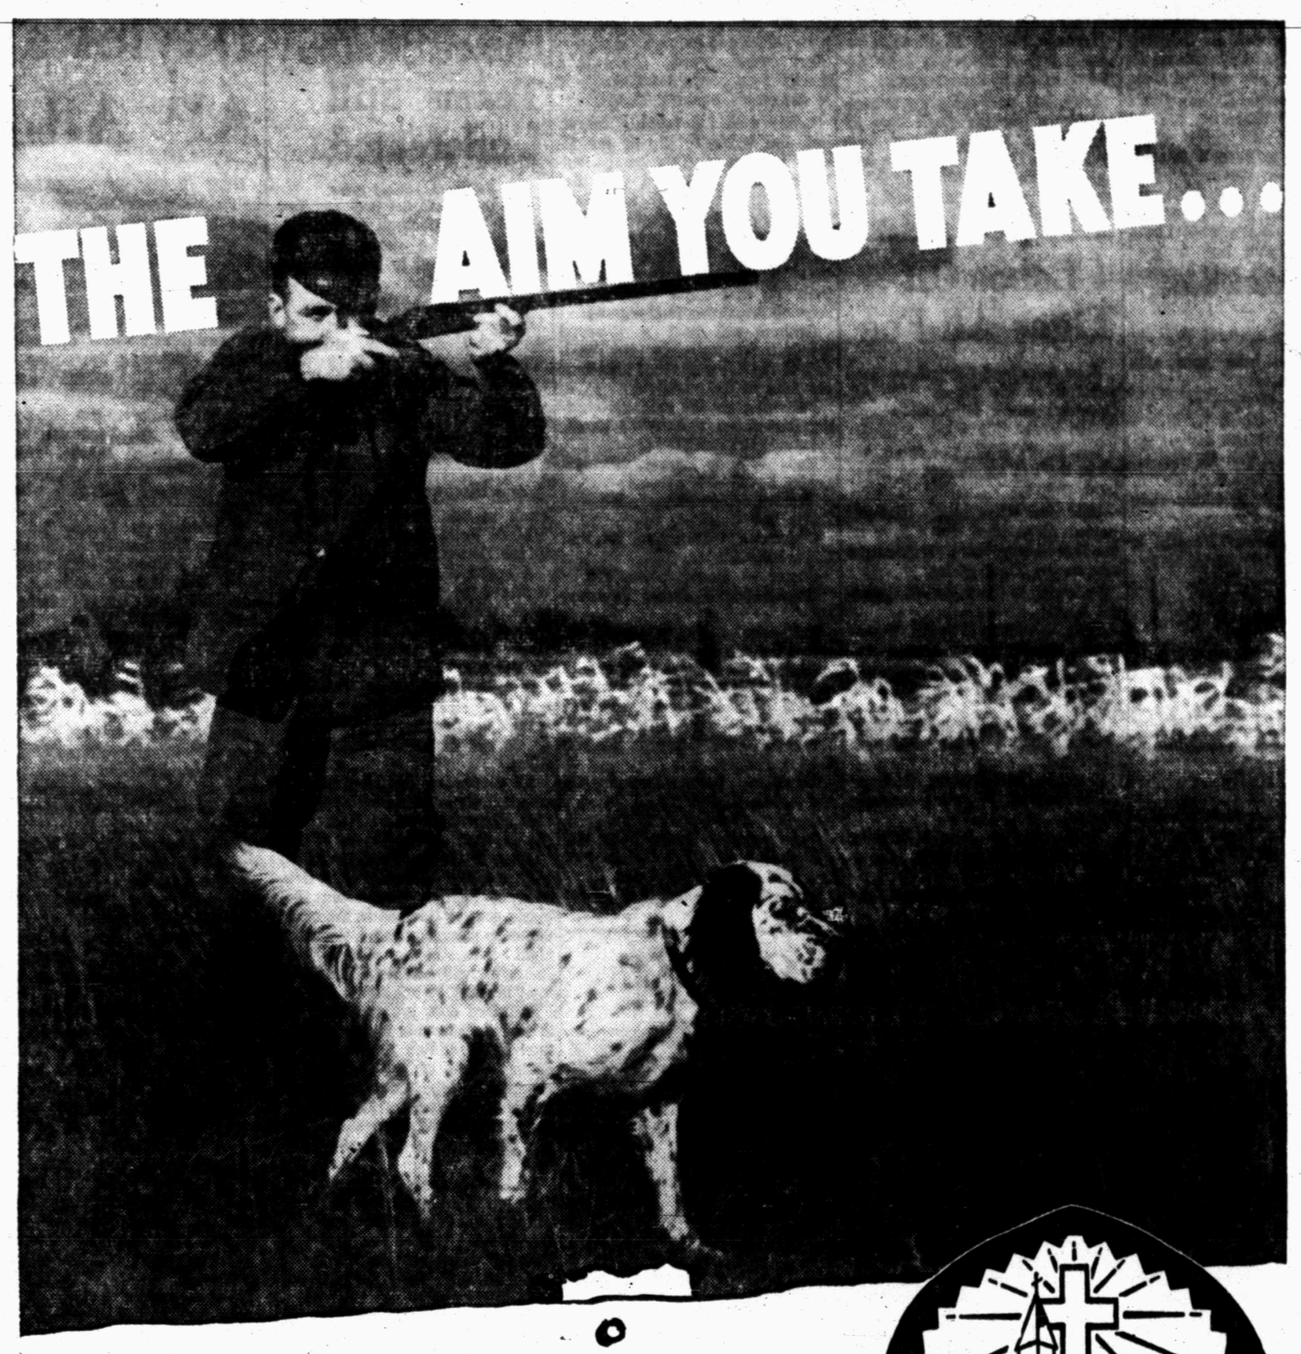

Wilson Bright, scoutmaster of the host troop, and Bob Clifford, assistant, headed the meeting. Visitors included Howard Van Hook of Troop 38, Harold Tittle of Troop 108, Burny Dunnam of Troop 100, Floyd Allman of Troop 181, the Rev. John Reaves, George Holder, Sr., and Skinny Diggs.

After the meeting the adults and 32 boys were served refreshments by Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. Reaves, Mrs. Ann Laroux, and Patsy LaRoux.

More Disaster Areas Designated In State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cameron and Willacy counties and part of Kleburg County were designated yesterday by the Agriculture Department as drought disaster areas.

This means eligible stockmen can take part in the feed grain and hay and roughage programs designed to aid in maintaining livestock herds.

In life or in death a man reaps the result of 'his Aim.' We counsel 'raise your sight' or, 'lengthen your horizon', or, 'set your self a goal.' So much depends on 'the aim you take.' Your family, your community, your school and your church will benefit or suffer from 'The aim You Take.'

This is the day of decision, of action. Many have dallied too long. You may choose light, or darkness; honor or shame; pleasure, or pain; life, or death! You cannot travel the wrong road and reach the right end! Jesus said, "I am the way!" Attend church regularly . . . take the 'Right Aim.'

You In The Church... The Church In You

Form a combination for good. We should attend church regularly. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the CHURCH. Be faithful Be a Churchman!

Littlefield, Graham Set For Playoff Tilt Here

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

TOMORROW'S QUARTERFINAL football game will be well covered by newspapers from around the state.

The spacious press box at Tiger Stadium, though, will take care of the visiting press. There aren't many high school stadiums that have press facilities such as is available here.

For one thing, sports writers and scouts do not have to "fight" for spots in the press box here. As you well know, Tiger Stadium has two press boxes, one for the use of the scouts and the other for press and radio.

The scouts use the East side press box and the press and radio the one on the West.

At Graham last week, there was hardly room for the press and radio alone, much less the scouts. At least one scribe had to roam the sidelines as there was no room available in the press box.

Press Box Situation Under Study

The Texas Sportswriters Association have appointed a committee to study the press box situation. This committee is to recommend to the Texas Interscholastic League certain requirements for press boxes for each classification.

Newspapers that are due to be represented here Saturday are the Amarillo Globe-News, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; the Wichita Falls Record-News, the San Angelo Standard-Times, the Breckenridge American, the Graham Leader, the County-wide News of Littlefield and the Snyder News.

Littlefield has requested that no public address system be used for tomorrow's game.

Littlefield, apparently, doesn't want a repeat performance of what happened at Graham last week. A "play by play" description of a game over the PA system is for the birds. The fans are there and they can see what's going on without someone telling 'em.

The Graham PA announcer probably gave a more detailed description of the game than did the radio announcers. This only irritates the fans, both home and visitors alike.

Something, perhaps, may be worked out for operating the PA here tomorrow. It's pretty much of a necessity to have a PA system in operation. We know that there's a limit of how far a PA announcer should go in describing the game. And that's what Littlefield officials would like to get ironed out and not have a repeat of last week's deal at Graham.

Down Crystal Ball Lane

The football season is gradually drawing to a close but we're still trying to get our moneys worth out of the new Crystal Ball we ordered earlier this season.

It has done well for us the past two weeks but before that it almost drove us into the "nut" house.

Well, anyway, here goes with this week's scores:

Littlefield 20, Graham 14.
Garland 14, Cleburne 7.
Edison 21, Robstown 7.
Nederland 27, Bryan 14.
Abilene 34, Paschal 7.
Wichita Falls 19, Highland Park 14.
Baytown 14, Lamar Houston 6.
Corpus Christi Ray 20, Alice 7.
Stamford 34, Crane 14.
Terrell 21, Gilmer 13.
Brady 7, Giddings 0.
Deer Park 20, Sinton 6.
Stinnett 21, Merkel 20.
Linden 18, Eastland 13.
Humble 13, Mart 7.
Halletsville 14, Hondo 13.
Miami 14, Pitt 7.

TCU Stars To Play In Hula Bowl

HONOLULU (AP)—Texas Christian's Jim Swink and Norman Hamilton and Dick Miller, former University of Texas quarterback, will play with the College All-Stars who meet the Hawaii All-Stars in the eleventh annual Hula Bowl game Jan. 6.

Miller, of Cleburne, Tex., lettered at Texas before transferring to the University of Hawaii. He threw four touchdown passes for the latter this season. Swink and Hamilton are All-Southwest Conference halfback and guard, respectively at TCU and play in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 1.

Sun Bowl Drills

EL PASO (AP)—Full-scale practice begins Dec. 17 for Texas Western, host team in the Sun Bowl football game January 1. George Washington University, Texas Western's foe, is already back at practice.

Littlefield Fans Riding Special

A crowd of 6,000 fans is due to pack Tiger Stadium tomorrow for the state Triple-A quarterfinal football game between the Graham Steers and Littlefield Wildcats.

Between 4,000-5,000 are expected from Littlefield and Graham. A special train is bringing about 1,000 Littlefield fans to the game. The special is due in at about 12:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Kickoff time tomorrow is 2 p.m.

Tiger Stadium was selected as the "neutral" site last week only minutes after Graham had upset the Snyder Tigers, 7-6, at Graham. Littlefield school officials were on hand for the Tiger-Graham game and arrangements were made immediately following the game.

This is the second playoff game Snyder has hosted this season. The first was a bi-district game between Hermleigh and Van Horn which was won by Hermleigh, 12-7.

Saturday will mark the second time in three years for Littlefield to appear in a playoff game at Tiger Stadium in 1954 Littlefield nipped Commanche, 35-33, in a bi-district clash played at Tiger Stadium.

Littlefield builds its offensive around with a 20-13 win over Andrews in its bi-district game.

Littlefield will bring an unbeaten record into the game here although the Wildcats have been twice tied. The Wildcats were held to deadlocks by Phillips and Olton. The Cats have won nine games.

Graham is sporting a 10-1 record with its only loss being a 7-6 decision to Commanche.

Littlefield builds is offensive attack around the power running of Max Morris and the breakaway running of Mike Greer. Both Morris and Greer are among the scoring leaders of the West Texas-South Plains and Panhandle area.

Sonny Gibbs, tall 6-6 quarterback for the Steers, and James Littlepage, 170-pound fullback, spark the Steer offense attack. Gibbs is a deadly passer while Littlepage is a dangerous running threat.

Gibbs used his favorite target, end Jim Willis, to slip by the Tigers last week. This combo collaborated for a 57-yard gain that set up Graham's only touchdown but which was enough to nip the Tigers, 7-6. The long pass play moved the ball to the Tiger nine and the Steers moved on from there to their TD that came with only 23 seconds remaining in the game.

Graham will hold a 15-pound weight advantage over the Wildcats in the line and about 20-pounds per man in the backfield.

Following are the probable starting lineups for tomorrow's game:

LITTLEFIELD

Dozen Skulboy Teams Still Undefeated

By The Associated Press

The drive into the four-way Texas schoolboy football race begins Friday with a dozen unbeaten teams preparing to put their records on the line.

While most of the action in AAAA and AAA comes Saturday, there still are some attractive games as Stamford and Deer Park seek further conquests on the way to a finals clash in AA and Stinnett tries to ward off high-riding Merkel.

Abilene, twice champion of AAAA, meets Fort Worth Paschal at Fort Worth Saturday. The big clash in this division is between Wichita Falls and Highland Park in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

A crowd of upwards of 20,000 is expected to watch these powers meet, with the winner to furnish Abilene opposition in the semi-finals, provided Abilene isn't upset by Paschal.

In other AAAA games, unbeaten but twice-tied Houston Lamar travels to Baytown and undefeated Corpus Christi Ray will be at Alice.

All games are Saturday in AAA where there is no defending champion. Unbeaten, united Nederland, the favorite, plays Bryan at Nederland in the feature. Undefeated but twice-tied Littlefield gets Graham at Snyder. Undefeated Cleburne goes to Garland in the other Saturday afternoon game. Saturday night San Antonio Edison and Robstown will complete the semi-final bracket at Robstown.

Stamford does not appear to be in for much trouble in its quarterfinal game at San Angelo Friday against Crane while Deer Park is expected to take Sinton at Sinton. In other AA games Terrell will meet Gilmer at Tyler while Brady and Giddings get together at Killeen.

In A, all games also are Friday night with Stinnett meeting Merkel at Childress, Eastland and Linden clashing at Denton, Mart and Humble scrapping at Huntsville and Hondo meeting Hallettsville at Hallettsville.

Baylor's Glass On AP All-America

NEW YORK (AP) — Oklahoma halfback Tommy McDonald is the lone holdover on the 1956 Associated Press All America football team announced today.

Center Jerry Tubbs of the national champion Sooners is also included on the squad chosen on the recommendations of regional boards blanketing the nation and based on all college games through Dec. 1.

Johnny Majors, the 162-pound tailback who led Tennessee to an unbeaten, untied season, rugged Jimmy Brown of Syracuse and Don Bosseler, Miami's wonder man, complete the backfield.

In addition to Tubbs, the line includes Ron Kramer of Michigan and Joe Walton of Pittsburgh at ends, Alex Karras of Iowa and John Witte of Oregon State at tackles with Bill Glass of Baylor and Jim Parker of Ohio State at guards.

Certificates will be presented to all members of the first three teams.

Great performers like Michigan State's Clarence Peaks and Southern California's Jon Arnett were withheld from consideration because of their limited half-season service.

Six of the players — Kramer, Brown, Parker, Bosseler, Tubbs and Glass — were picked in the first round of the recent professional football draft.

Notre Dame's Paul Hornung, the bonus choice in the National Football League, is in the second backfield.

For the second successive year, McDonald has been the chief executioner of Oklahoma's "bread and butter" play — the split-T option pitchout with Tommy capitalizing on the defense to either sweep the end or call on his pinpoint passing ability.

In helping the Sooners run their victory string to 40, McDonald rushed 853 yards in 119 carries, scored 102 points, completed 8 of 12 passes for 183 yards, caught 4 scoring passes and was strong on defense.

Majors completed 36 of 59 passes for 552 yards, rushed 549, averaged 43 yards punting and called signals.

Brown, the light-footed 212 pounder who could run over or sidestep opponents with equal ease, rushed 986 yards, scored 106 points, was a top pass receiver and could throw as well. His 43 points against Colgate was a modern record against major opposition.

Bosseler is rated the equal of Doc Blanchard by Coach Andy Gustafson, who has worked with both and believes big Don is the best defensive back he's ever seen.

With a game yet to play, Bosseler has ground out 677 yards through the middle of defensive lines packed to stop him and has yet to be stopped short of the line of scrimmage.

Kramer is called the "best end in Michigan history," by Coach Bennie Oosterbaan. He caught 18 passes for 353 yards and 2 touchdowns, scored 35 points including 17 extra points in 20 tries and 2 field goals — one of which handed Iowa its only loss. On defense he was even greater.

Walton, son of former Pitt tackle Frank (Tiger) Walton, hauled in six touchdown passes, including the ones which beat Syracuse, Oregon and Huke.

Witte had the stamina for 55-56 minutes a game and the skill to block and tackle Oregon State to its first Pacific Coast Conference championship since 1941. He will be opposed in the Rose Bowl by Karras who is the tower of strength for the Hawkeyes as the middle man in the defensive line.

Glass averaged 16 tackles per game and blocked Baylor backs to an average gain of four yards throughout a rugged Southwest Conference campaign. Parker, at 262 pounds, had speed and agility, played 485¼ of a possible 540 minutes.

Tubbs was consistently outstanding as a linebacker, pass defender and blocker. Against Iowa State he raced 78 yards to score on an interception.

Rice Shows Power In Gopher Win

By The Associated Press

Rice won its third straight game by defeating Minnesota 79-74, and Arkansas beat Tulsa 77-70 in overtime in Southwest Conference basketball games. Rice is undefeated this season.

The Razorbacks gathered 13 points in an overtime period in Tulsa to defeat a team that was behind most of the game. The Golden Hurricane came from behind in the final minute of the regulation game to tie the score 64-64.

Junior Born, who was held to five points by Arkansas' Terry Day, tied the game with a free throw with one second left.

The Rice-Minnesota game was almost as frantic as the one at Tulsa.

Rice put the game on ice when Gerry Thomas fired in six points in the last five minutes to help give his team the five-point victory at Houston.

The Owls broke a 69-69 tie on Tom Robitaille's tip-in, then Thomas got his five points.

Early in the second half Rice led 50-44 but the Gophers piled in 11 points in the next four minutes to jump ahead 55-51. In the next six minutes the score was tied six times, with Rice never leading.

Temple Tucker, Rice's All-America candidate, hit 22 points.

The Razorbacks got started in their overtime period with the help of Joe Dickson.

Administration Is Beginning To Make Major Policy Review

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration is beginning a major policy review from which it is possible there may emerge recommendations for a new program of dollar aid to U.S. allies in Western Europe.

Top officials are deeply worried both by the split with Britain and France following the Egyptian crisis and by the impact on their economies of the closing of the Suez Canal and the loss of Middle Eastern oil.

Some authorities believe this country may be confronted with a need to develop a new program in the pattern of the Marshall Plan to restore the unity and strengthen the economic base of the North Atlantic Alliance. None contemplates now any such spending for European aid as the four billion dollars a year which the Marshall Plan cost.

Vice President Nixon may have had the possibility of some new program in mind when, in a New York speech last night, he referred to Great Britain's financial troubles and declared:

"I believe it is in our interest as well as theirs to assist them in this hour of difficulty, and I am confident that there will be strong bipartisan support in the Congress for granting such assistance."

While Nixon did not say so, a recommendation for such aid also would be certain to encounter strong opposition in Congress, which has been increasingly reluctant to vote purely economic aid to Europe.

At Augusta, Ga., where President Eisenhower is vacationing, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen Eisenhower had not seen Nixon's speech in advance, but he added: "The vice president knows the policies of the President."

The current policy review, however, covers a wider field than possible new economic aid. It embraces the possibilities of bearing a greater share of the cost of free world defenses and of liberalized trade with such countries as Britain and France. It includes also the concept of a more sympathetic U.S. attitude toward Allied actions not in line with American desires, as in the case of the French-British attack on Egypt.

Secretary of State Dulles may give Allied foreign ministers some indication of the trend of U.S. policy thinking in Paris next week. He leaves Saturday for the regular session of the North Atlantic Treaty Council.

Presumably the whole problem was discussed by Dulles and Eisenhower when they met at Augusta last Sunday.

Initial guesses suggest that no new taxes would be required to meet any additional foreign aid outlay but that tax reductions would not be possible in the immediate future. There have been official indications that defense spending will increase next year.

If the administration asks Congress for a new aid program its central argument may be that Allied unity and strength are needed now as never before because of pressures for disintegration within the Soviet satellite.

Some authorities feel the Soviets may turn to external adventures to relieve the internal pressure.

The financial impact of the Middle East crisis on Western Europe, including higher costs for oil, is illustrated by the problem of Britain. She is said to need urgently more than a billion dollars to bolster her sagging financial position and stabilize the pound sterling.

Britain is expected to get 561 million dollars in a few days from the International Monetary Fund and probably also a loan of several hundred million dollars from the U. S. Export-Import Bank.

Also, the administration next month will ask Congress to excuse Britain from making a payment due Dec. 31 on money owed to the United States. The interest payment alone would save Britain $81,60,000.

The effect of the new policy review on next year's total foreign aid request is not precisely predictable. If officials decide a European aid program is essential, the request to Congress might be around five billion dollars rather than the four billions tentatively agreed upon about two weeks ago.

The United States does not now give economic aid to the countries of Western Europe. Such funds go only to underdeveloped lands, chiefly in Asia and the Middle East. Aid to Europe for several years has been designed to build or maintain military power.

Thief Wants Money But Not Any Fight

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—According to Joseph J. James, might doesn't always make right.

James, a 52-year-old truckdriver who weighs 128 pounds, told police he offered 36-year-old Ira Amp Early a lift.

James said as he stopped, the 200-pound Early reached across and mauled him while lifting $28 from his pocket.

James chased Early to a nearby service station, and when police arrived, he was challenging Early to "come out and fight." Early, locked in a restroom, declined the challenge. Police jailed Early on suspicion of strongarm robbery.

Marriage Planned

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mortimer Hall says that he and actress Diana Lynn, 30, will be married today in Tijuana, Mexico. Hall, 32, owns a Los Angles radio station. He divorced actress Ruth Roman last October.

TILL GETS HIGH BOND — W. H. Till, chairman of Clinton, Tennessee's, White Citizens Council, left, is led from the Federal Court room in Knoxville, Tenn., by U.S. Marshal Frank Quarles. Till, along with others, was hauled into court on a contempt charge growing out of integration disturbances at Clinton High School. Till's bond was set at $12,000.

Foot Jammed In Saxophone

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two-year-old Randy Koral, watching a television program, got so excited that he jammed his foot in his father's alto saxophone.

His mother tried melted butter and warm salad oil, but Randy's foot was really wedged. She called firemen. They removed some of the keys and, with pressure from the other end, worked the boy's foot out of the bell of the instrument.

One of the firemen then asked Randy what he'd like for Christmas.

"A saxophone," he replied brightly.

His father would like a new one too.

Ships Mothballed

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The California and Tennessee, two of eight battleships attacked at Pearl Harbor 15 years ago, were mothballed today at the Philadelphia naval base.

Fate Of Anthony Eden Still Remains In Doubt After Vote

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Conservative party took a new hold on the reins of government today after weathering a parliamentary squall over the Suez invasion. But whether Sir Anthony Eden would remain in the driver's seat was still in doubt.

In quick succession in the House of Commons last night the government beat down a Socialist motion censuring the Suez military intervention 327-260, then won a vote of confidence in its Middle East policy 312-260.

Defeat on either motion would have forced Eden and his Cabinet to resign and make way for new national elections which might have put the opposition Labor party in power.

The first 67-vote majority proved that the Conservatives, despite internal dissension over the abortive British-French strike into Egypt, still could close their ranks against any Socialist bid for national power. Actually the Conservatives have only 60 more members than all other parties in the House.

The government's majority was reduced on the second vote by 15 Conservatives who abstained. This was a direct slap at Eden by Conservative backers of a tougher line in the Middle East, who think withdrawal now constitutes a humiliating reverse leaving Britain and France without any gains from the invasion.

But the small number of abstentions in itself was a Conservative victory, since more than 100 members of the party a week ago had signed a petition deploring the U.N. and U.S. demands for withdrawal to which the government bowed.

The votes came after a two-day foreign policy debate during which the Conservative party's determination to ride out the storm and hang on to government control was set forth by Acting Prime Minister R. A. Butler, heading the government while Eden is resting in Jamaica and regarded by many as Eden's heir apparent.

"This government," said Butler "has a long life before it."

Many political observers insisted Eden would resign soon and let the government form again around another leader not burdened with the blame for the consequences of the Suez fiasco. Others claiming to know Eden's way of thinking said he is a stubborn man who is convinced he was right in ordering the action in Egypt and that he will not bow out

It was officially announced that the Prime Minister would return from Jamaica on schedule, next Friday. He flew to the Atlantic island Nov. 24, at the height of the Suez crisis, after his doctors had benched him because of "acute overstrain."

If Eden does not resign soon after returning, his future — and his party's — probably will be decided by the government's handling of the acute economic and financial crisis facing it as a result of the reduction in Middle East oil supplies which power much of British and West European industry.

One question widely asked was whether Eden had sealed his political fate by leaving the country at a time of crisis. The Spectator, a Conservative magazine of political opinion, expressed a common view: "Unquestionably, Jamaica has done more damage than Suez to Sir Anthony Eden."

Mrs. Wemple Dies

MIDLAND (AP)—Funeral services will be held tomorrow at Blossom for Mrs. F. A. Wemple, 85, mother of Fred Wemple, Midland businessman and former state highway commissioner. She died at her home yesterday.

All Because Of Mud Spot

BALTIMORE (AP)—A spot of mud grew into a peck of trouble for James N. Palmer of Baltimore.

Police stopped the 32-year-old Negro motorist because his license plate was obscured by mud.

Police said they checked further and found:

He was driving on a license issued in Washington, and was wanted for reckless driving, failure to give right-of-way, going through a stop sign and making an improper left turn.

They added charges of driving on a revoked license and operating under a foreign license.

Educational Aid Is Discussed At Baylor

WACO (AP)—More than 100 Texans attended a meeting at Baylor University yesterday to discuss means of helping educational institutions in other countries.

The conference is an outgrowth of a plea made by President Eisenhower when he spoke at Baylor graduation exercises May 25, Baylor officials said.

Eisenhower said that colleges of other countries are "hungry for knowledge . . . but their efforts are not successful because education facilities are often not equal to meet the demand."

Dr. Paul Green, Baylor executive vice president, was chairman of the conference.

News Media Challenged By Folsom

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Folsom challenged the nation's news media today to urge use of abundant polio vaccine with the same emphasis they used in covering the story of vaccine scarcity.

Folsom said in a speech prepared for a National Press Club audience:

"Children are just as susceptible to polio as they ever were—unless they are inoculated with vaccine.

"Today, supplies of the vaccine are plentiful for both children and young adults.

"But we have a new danger—the danger of public apathy.

"It is ironic that, in the face of such a dread disease, large quantities of antipolio vaccine are not being used. They are piled up in warehouses and sitting on drugstore shelves.

'Unless vaccine is promptly used, many persons will suffer paralysis or even death—next year — who could have been spared.

"When the vaccine was scarce and the government and manufacturers were desperately trying to increase the supply, the vaccine then was the subject of massive news and editorial attention.

"Is it not in the nature of news—and the traditional role of public service by the press—to put today's situation with equal force before the American public?"

IN BUDAPEST TRIP

Good One-Hand Driver Needed

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BUDAPEST (AP) — A Westerner motoring from Vienna to Budapest through multiple Russian checkpoints must be a good one-hand driver.

He has to keep the other hand free to wave back at the thousands of Hungarians, children and adults, who rush to the highway to hail any foreign car that comes along.

At each of the many checkpoints, the children come out along with the armed Soviet soldiers when a Westerner's auto halts.

The soldier with his tommygun on the shoulder asks for the passport. The children ask for cigarettes.

When the motorist says, "You kids are too young to smoke cigarettes," the kids come back fast with, "This is for pappi."

The Soviet soldiers let the kids have the cigarettes.

Then the kids wave the traveler on with a typical Austrian greeting "Danke schoen," "Kuess die hand" (Thank you — kiss the hand).

The Russian soldiers, many of them in very dirty uniforms, are correct and polite.

Only when one approaches Budapest does one find Russian tanks running up the narrow roads without lights in the night, endangering traffic.

Budapest at night is a totally dead city. You can walk up and down the streets and the only sound you hear is your own heels on the pavement.

It is a ghostly sound. You see some lights in apartment buildings. You know people are sleeping beyond the other dark windows. But nobody is on the streets long before the Russian-imposed 9 p.m. curfew because they fear for their lives once darkness falls.

Russian tanks are all around the town. They are especially concentrated around the Danube bridges and around the Parliament building which protects the seat of premier Janos Kadar and his government.

2 Men Electrocuted In Erecting Antenna

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (AP)—Two men were electrocuted when a television antenna they attempted to erect on the roof of a house was blown onto nearby electric wires.

State police identified the men as Joseph W. Laurence, 37, and James L. Morris, 38.

State police said Laurence was on the roof of his two-story house and Morris was on the ground, apparently holding a guy wire leading to the antenna, when a bust of wind blew the metal antenna onto wires running near the house.

WHY?

WHY OBSERVE SOME DAYS AS HOLY? True, the sabbath was holy to the Jews (Ex.20:8) but it has no significance to Christians because they were never in bondage to Egypt (Deut. 5:12-15). Should Christians observe holy days and weeks? The Holy Spirit condemns it, "Ye observe days, and months, and times, and years. I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labor in vain (Gal.4:10,11). "Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of a holyday, or of the new moon, or of the sabbath days: which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ." (Col.2:16,17.)

"WHY NOT CELEBRATE CHRISTMAS as the birthday of Christ? No one knows what time of the year Jesus was born. Christmas was " . . . not celebrated in the first centuries of the Christian Church . . . In the 5th century the Western Church ordered it to be celebrated forever on the day of the old Roman feast of the birth of Sol, as no certain knowledge of the day of Christ's birth existed . . . The holly, the mistletoe, the Yule log, and the wassail bowl are relics of the pre-Christian times." (Encyclopedia Americana, 1953, Vol.6, p. 623). "Christmas was not among the earliest festivals of the Church, and before the 5th century there was no general consensus of opinion as to where it should come in the calendar, whether on January 6, March 25, or December 25th." (Encyclopedia Britannica, Vol.6, p.641). One Catholic priest has eliminated Santa Claus and "Jingle Bells" from his parish school's Christmas celebration. His explanation is, "They have nothing to do with the birth of Christ." (Kansas City Times, Dec. 12, 1953). It might be commented that neither does Christmas have anything to do with the birth of Christ if the Bible is respected.

WHAT ATTITUDE SHALL CHRISTIANS HAVE TOWARD CHRISTMAS? They cannot celebrate it as a religious "holy day." Certainly they are grateful for the coming of the Saviour into the world but no one knows on what day He was born. They can respect Christmas as a national holiday. Since one can respect Sunday without worshipping the Sun, and do the same with Saturday without worshipping Saturn, Christians can respect Christmas as a purely secular holiday.

WHY CELEBRATE THE FIRST DAY OF THE WEEK? There is Biblical information about it. This is the day Jesus arose from the dead (Mk.16:9). The disciples met on this day to break bread (Acts 20:7). The Lords supper is a communion with Christ (1Cor.10:16,17). This is one way every Christian preaches the gospel on the first day of the week, "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show (proclaim, ASV) the Lords death till he come." (1Cor.11:26). Notice: The Lord's supper which is in memory of His death, is observed on the first day of the week which is in memory of His resurrection (1Cor. 11:23-26). On the first day of the week Christians worship differently than they do on other days, but this in no sense makes the first day of the week a sabbath for Christians. The Christian's sabbath is heaven (Heb.4:1,9-11).
