Wallace Is In His Schoolhouse Door

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Defiant Gov. George C. Wallace, ignoring a last-minute order from President Kennedy to "cease and desist" refused today to admit two Negroes to the all-white University of Alabama.

Wallace, after a last-minute conference with a Justice Department attorney who delivered a message from the President, strode into the bright sunshine and announced he would not admit the two Negroes.

Wallace stood outside Foster Auditorium near a white line that had been drawn on the pavement and read in a firm voice his proclamation.

Then, in an apparent last minute change of strategy, one of the Negro students, Vivian Malone, was escorted to her dormitory.

Moments later, the second Negro student, James A. Hood, was taken to his dormitory, assigned earlier by the university.

A Justice Department spokesman at the scene said the Negroes would be formally registered later today.

Both Negro students were taken to their dormitories prior to being registered and U.S. Deputy Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach told Wallace they would be registered today.

No Opposition

There was no opposition whatsoever to the admission of Hood and Miss Malone to their respective dormitories.

Edwin Guthman, a Justice Department spokesman, said "They will be registered today and will start attending classes tomorrow."

Wallace made no immediate effort to block the admission of the students to the dormitories but protested to Katzenbach against what he called "this illegal act."

President Kennedy today federalized the Alabama National Guard and authorized Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara to use any Army troops he may need to enforce admission of two Negroes to the University of Alabama.

The President issued his executive order shortly after Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace blocked entry of the Negroes in defiance of a proclamation by Kennedy and a federal court injunction.

Kennedy said he acted because the commands in his proclamation "have not been obeyed, and the unlawful obstructions of justice and combinations referred to therein continue."

"The secretary of defense is authorized and directed to take all appropriate steps to remove obstructions of justice in the state of Alabama," the order said.

Armed Force Permitted

It further authorized the defense secretary "to use such of the armed forces of the United States as he may deem necessary."

Kennedy specifically directed McNamara "to call into the active military service of the United States . . .any or all of the units of the Army National Guard and of the Air National Guard of the state of Alabama."

Army units trained in riot control have been stationed at Ft. McClellan, Ala., on a stand-by basis since Kennedy sent them there for possible use in the Birmingham race riots. But this was the first authorization for their actual use in an Alabama racial trouble spot.

Kennedy's order called on McNamara "to enforce the laws of the United States" within Alabama, including the U.S. district court injunction forbidding Wallace to interfere with admission of the Negroes to the university.

It further directed the secretary "to suppress unlawful assemblies, combinations, conspiracies and domestic violence which oppose or obstruct the execution of the laws of the United States or impede the course of justice under those laws."

At McNamara's Disposal

The President's order, in effect, would place the Alabama National Guard at the disposal of McNamara if he chose to use its members in Tuscaloosa.

McNamara, it was understood, merely would have to go through a formality of notifying the guard's commanding officer if he wanted to federalize the unit.

Kennedy previously had ordered Wallace "to cease and desist" from any unlawful obstruction of justice in connection with the admission of the Negro students.

The order was contained in a proclamation signed at 11 a.m. EDT and was the final technical requirement before ordering use of troops, if necessary.

The President signed the proclamation shortly before the governor showed up on the campus despite Kennedy's plea to stay away and "leave these matters in the courts of law where they belong."

Kennedy's proclamation was a final technical step required before the President could use federal troops, if necessary, to enforce the court order for desegregation of the university.

Fifty-two minutes later Wallace showed up on the campus to make his defiant stand and carry out his pledge to "stand in the school-house door" to thwart integration in Alabama public schools.

Mrs. Doelp discussed and explained the method to about 30 persons last night at a meeting sponsored by the St. Matthew's Episcopal Day School. She is a teacher in the Episcopal School in Big Spring and has taught both the McKee and the Carden series.

According to the teacher, the child trained under the Carden system is at a distinct advantage over those taught by other methods, in that he is trained to develop an ability for concentration and for independent thinking not developed in other methods.

She said that at the end of the first grade, her students had tested out on a third grade, second month level using achievement tests from the public schools.

The system is based strongly on phonetics and reading is taught by training the child to group words and ideas together in order to increase his comprehension of the material.

The child is given the tools with which to work and with these tools he is able to work independently without needing the teacher to explain each new problem Mrs. Doelp said. If the child has been given the "control" covering a certain problem, he can work it out for himself on the basis of that knowledge.

The Carden System of education was developed by Miss Mae Carden during the past 25 years. The system has gained much public attention and has been written about in many leading magazines. A study of the system has been undertaken in various "pilot" schools connected with the Los Angeles Public Schools. At present more than 400 schools throughout the United States are using Miss Carden's methods.

Graves Desecrated, Decorations Stolen, Destroyed at Fairview

Vandals within the last week have molested more than 100 graves and caused approximately $2,000 damage in Fairview Cemetery, according to Ed Foran, cemetery superintendent.

Foran said the marauders apparently had gone into the cemetery after dark, torn up grave decorations and had strewn them over the ground.

"In some instances, expensive urns and vases had been smashed to bits," Foran said. "In others, receptacles had been stolen and completely removed from the cemetery."

"Most of the desecration was done to graves nearest the street," said Paul Carmichael of the Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home. "The graves in the center, where the vandals would have to come out in the open were not damaged as much as the others."

The destruction started late Wednesday evening and continued nightly until Saturday.

"It was a sickening sight," Foran said.

One woman reported that more than $40 worth of decorations and memorials on her husband's grave had been taken away or destroyed.

Cemetery employes today had cleared away most of the debris left by the vandals.

"Most of the destruction could be stopped," Foran said, "if we could get a six-foot cyclone fence around the cemetery, a fence that could be locked, during the night. I've had this idea for a fence for several years, but since Fairview Cemetery Association is a non-profit organization, it would have to be purchased by voluntary donors."

Robinson was reported as the only one severely hurt, with stab wounds in the lower part of the stomach, the right side and right arm.

Labor Secretary Averts Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Railroad union officials agreed today to hold off the threat of a nationwide rail strike until at least next week.

The proposal, advanced by Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, was accepted by the railroad companies Monday.

Union officials considered the proposal this morning and then sent out telegrams announcing their agreements to the plan. They then resumed bargaining talks on the thorny work rules issue and the threat it poses to thousands of rail jobs.

Under Wirtz's plan, both sides agreed "to maintain the status quo" until 12:01 a.m. EDT next Tuesday. A 30-day cooling off period under the Railway Labor Act had been scheduled to expire at midnight Wednesday.

At that time the railroads could have put into effect work rule changes which the unions said would trigger a walkout against 195 carriers.

Randy Matson Signs With Texas A&M

By JEFF COHANE
Pampa News Sports Editor

Randy Matson has announced his intention of accepting an athletic scholarship to Texas A&M.

Matson told the Daily News this morning that at 3 p.m. he was to sign a letter of intent and accept a scholarship from A&M track coach Charlie Thomas.

The coach will sign Randy at the Matson home, 520 W. Browning, or at the Coronado Inn, where Thomas is staying.

Matson finally narrowed his choice down to the Aggies, after offers from more than 100 colleges throughout the United States. Final choice lay between A&M, the University of Texas, University of Southern California and Kansas State.

Matson stated he picked A&M because he wanted to stay in his home state. "I intend to make my living here after my athletic career," he said. "I very much wanted to compete in the Southwest Conference."

Matson, an All-State basketball player and an All-District football player, as well as a two-time All-State track champion, said that A&M had given him permission to compete in other sports as well as track.

The 6'6½", 225-pound state shotput and discus record holder said that he would concentrate on track, with his immediate goal the 1964 Olympic Games, and that he would decide about basketball later on. Football was not in his plans, said Matson, as he felt he could not do full justice to three sports while in college.

Matson, who led the state in rebounding last year, is slated to compete in the North-South All-Star basketball game later this summer. The Pampa Track Club is also seeking to enter him in the forthcoming AAU tryouts for the international games against Russia. If Matson qualifies, he will be the first high school boy in history to be eligible for international competition.

Wheat Harvest Starts Again After Rains, Hail

Wheat harvest is again under way in the Pampa and Top O' Texas area after the week end rains.

The Wheat Harvest Control Office reported today that the harvest is again moving with dryland acreage averaging five to ten bushels an acre. Average yields are expected from irrigated acreage when the combines get under way in earnest by this week end.

Continued rains, wind and scattered hail during the last week caused considerable damage to wheat crops in some Panhandle communites.

An adequate supply of men and machines is available to bring in the harvest as soon as fields are dry enough to hold up harvesting equipment.

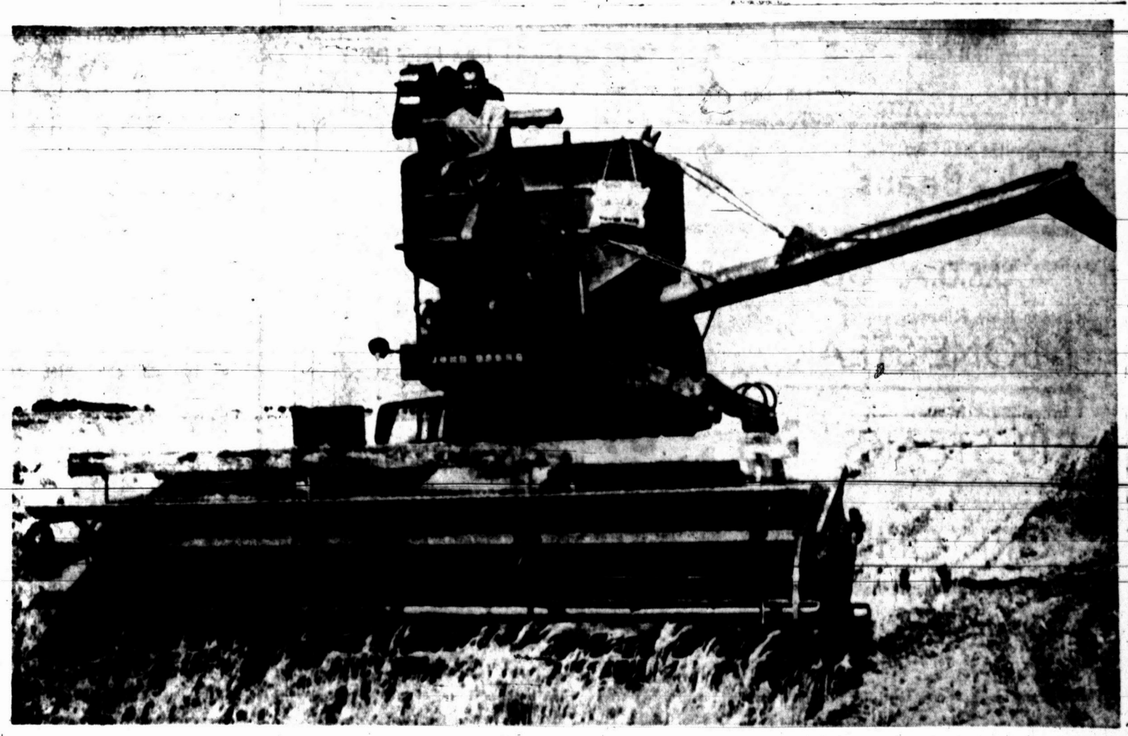

The Wheat Control Office said in the Borger, Spearman, Dalhart, Perryton, Stratford and Dumas areas the small remaining dryland acreage is expected to yield about seven bushels to the acre with the irrigated acreage yielding 20 to 25 bushels per acre.

A temporary wheat control office has been opened in Perryton with Jesse D. Young in charge.

Matson told the Daily News this morning that at 3 p.m. he was to sign a letter of intent and accept a scholarship from A&M track coach Charlie Thomas.

The coach will sign Randy at the Statson home, 520 W. Browning, or at the Coronado Inn, where Thomas is staying.

Matson finally narrowed his choice down to the Aggies, after offers from more than 100 colleges throughout the United States. Final choice lay between A&M, the University of Texas, University of Southern California and Kansas State.

Matson stated he picked A&M because he wanted to stay in his home state. "I intend to make my living here after my athletic career," he said. "I very much wanted to compete in the Southwest Conference."

Matson, an All-State basketball player and an All-District football player, as well as a two-time All-State track champion, said that A&M had given him permission to compete in other sports as well as track.

The 6'4½", 225-pound state shot-put and discus record holder said that he would concentrate on track, with his immediate goal the 1964 Olympic Games, and that he would decide about basketball later on. Football was out in his plans, said Matson, as he felt he could not do full justice to three sports while in college.

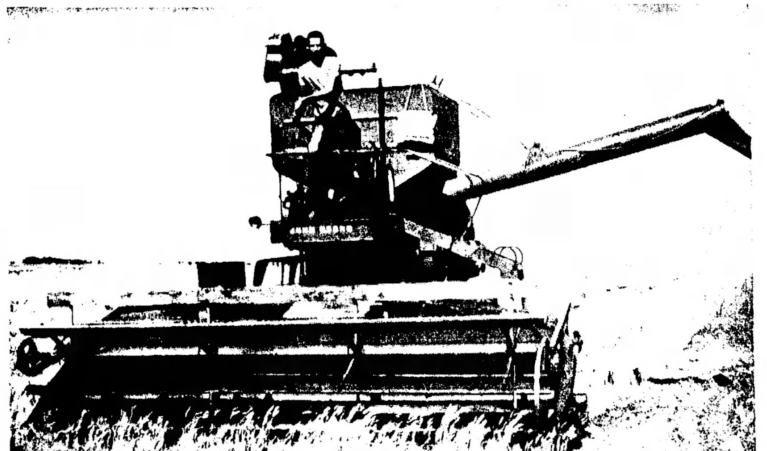

Matson, who led the state in resounding last year, is slated to compete in the South-South All-Star basketball game later this summer. The Pampa track club is also seeking to enter him in the forthcoming AAU trials for the international games against Russia. If Matson qualifies, he will be the first high school boy in history to be eligible for international competition.

SIGN TRADE PACT

TOKYO (UPI) — Russia and India have signed a long-term trade agreement doubling the present trade volume, Radio Moscow said Monday night in a broadcast monitored here.

HARVEST UNDERWAY — Gray County 4-H President Bill Skaggs is shown combining some of the irrigated wheat farmed three and one-half miles east of town by his father, J. D. Skaggs. The wheat young Skaggs is cutting is averaging about 25 bushels to the acre. Skaggs farms 500 acres of wheat in Gray County, 140 of which is irrigated. He has abandoned all of dry-land wheat. The harvest has been resumed after interruption by recent rain and hail. (Daily News Photo)

Rodeo Directors Approve Plans

Directors of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association met last night in the Chamber of Commerce office and approved plans for the sponsorship of an American Quarter Horse show to be held with the Top O' Texas Rodeo Aug. 21-24.

"This is a one day show, which will be held either Aug. 22 or 23, but the exact date has not been set," E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said today. "Details will be worked out by the Horse Show committee under the chairmanship of Elmer Fisher."

The association also planned its annual banquet which will be held Aug. 8 in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn. The Southwestern Division Championship Barbershop Quartet, the Pioneers of Amarillo, will be featured entertainment.

Directors of the association, will distribute advertising, including 1,000 placards, over the Top O' Texas area on Aug. 9.

Wedgeworth reported that committees for the show are assigned and "work is underway."

Hearing Slated On Game, Fish Regulations

Sources said the negotiators still were a long way from reaching an agreement despite a stepped-up pace forced by Wirtz, who entered the talks a week ago.

The dispute began nearly four years ago but was brought to a head after the Supreme Court ruled that the railroads had the right to change work rules which the carriers said were costing them $600 million a year in unnecessary operating costs.

RE-ELECT PRESIDENT

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Sid Caesar offered up the finale of the nine monthly specials of his comeback season on ABC-TV Monday night and it is to be presumed that he immediately sneaked out of town.

A few years back, writer Elaine Dundy recorded an incident in which an actor supposedly greeted a hipster-type lady by saying "How do you do?" and the got the smoldering reply: "I thought you'd be cleverer than that." It is a reply that is applicable to Caesar's routine greetings to viewers all season in his half-hours of generally dismal quality.

Caesar's comedy has been billed as satire, which shows you how press agents and publicists have assassinated the English language so that terms are frequently meaningless; for hardly any of the pungency related to this type of laugh-getting has been revealed in his video outings. For just as television likes safe problems in its dramas and safe controversies in its documentaries, it likes safe satire in its comedy. With rare exception, it bespeaks thinness of intellect, courage and freedom.

The power of satire comes in the immediate identification of the audience with the subject being barbed; and at its best, when that which is being barbed is of importance enough to really be spoofed with meaning. Well, Monday night we got a ringside couple at a hockey game suffering various discomforts from passing players; a society musicale being disrupted by a clumsy oaf; and another awkward young man committing various foulups while visiting the parents of his intended bride in the 1890s.

How strongly do you identify with these situations? Do they really move you? Aside from the fact that they were all humorless, slapdash in presentation, totally predictable and utterly painful, do they even rate being satirized in earnest? One of the situations might have been worked up properly—if someone had thought of setting the musicale in the White House and letting go with a riproaring spoof of a cultural gathering there, no holds barred, and no worrying about sacred cows.

No one will ever convince me that Mel Brooks, Caesar's head writer and himself one of the funniest men in the world—more so than his boss—has consented willingly to much of the tripe that has come about; the series has simply been mishandled from the top all season, despite a few good moments, usually the work of Brooks. If Caesar really had the freedom he claimed he had, then he is to blame more than anyone.

Wall Street

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jerome H. Goldberg of Ira Haupt & Co. feels that based on the quality of buying in the past two or three days, it should be soon before record highs are reached.

However, Goldberg notes, despite the level of the Dow-Jones industrial average, the disparity of individual price action again points to the necessity for continued selectivity.

J. W. Sparks & Co. suggests that investors hold onto everything, at least into mid-summer or fall, and wait until the market becomes considerably more speculative on increased volume before taking profits.

Harvey Deutsch and Edward Gillard of Purcell, Graham & Co. say that indications now point to the industrial average scoring an all time high very shortly. The analysts feel that recent profit taking has been readily absorbed and the base for a summer rally is firmly laid. They point out that secondary issues are attracting more attention and the market seems to be moving into a more speculative phase.

Thousands are peppy at 70! So, if you feel weak, low in energy, "old" at 40, 50 or 60, quit blaming it on age. If you want to feel younger, try Ostrex Tonic Tablets at once. Also for debility due just to rundown body's lack of iron, the "below-par" feelings you may call "being old". Puts pep in both sexes. Try Ostrex to feel peppy, years younger. 8-day "get-acquainted" size costs little. At all druggists.

U-2, COMRADE?—Russia's version of the famed U.S. reconnaissance plane, the Lockheed U-2, is now operational with the Soviet air force. Its size and performance are almost identical to the U-2, which is compared with the Russian plane in sketch above. The Red jet has a wingspread of 82 feet, is powered by two engines under the wings and is capable of flights up to 3,000 miles at altitudes of 80,000 feet. The U-2 has only one jet engine, inside the fuselage. Both planes carry a single pilot. No sightings of the Russian plane have been reported over U.S. territory.

Dear Abby....

Title Of Mother With Capital 'M'

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: On Mother's Day my brother and his wife came to visit us. Maxine was telling us how much she liked the china set her husband had given her. Then she asked what Bill had given me. He broke into the conversation with, "She's no mother, what do I have to give her a present for?" Abby, I have four children. But they are all adopted because I can't have children. This made me feel terrible. Have you any advice?

NO MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In my opinion, any woman who is unable to bear children, but wants so desperately to be a mother that she will adopt them, deserves the title of mother with a capital "M". She is more Mother than the female who accidentally conceives and then resigns herself to her fate. You, madame, exemplify motherhood in its highest form. Quadruple congratulations!

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Wet Pillow," who cried because her husband gave her $20 and told her to go out and buy herself a Mother's Day gift, she doesn't know how lucky she is. Mother's Day happened to fall on my birthday this year. I've been married eleven years and we have three lovely children. My husband didn't even wish me a Happy Mother's Day or a Happy Birthday. Instead he gave me a big lecture on how "commercial" Mother's Day and all the other holidays have become.

"CRIED ME A RIVER"

DEAR ABBY: We recently had a discussion about whether or not to bury pets with a little ceremony and mark their graves. Someone said that you had written that it was "childish" and grown people should "put away childish things." How can anyone who has the compassion for people that you appear to have be so insensitive to animals?

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: I could not have expressed the above sentiments. May I quote one of my favorite poems?:

"Oh, shame on the mothers of mortals
Who did not stop to teach
The sorrow that lies in dear dumb eyes
The sorrow that has no speech.
The same force formed the sparrow
That fashioned man and king—
And the God of the whole
Gave a spark of soul
To each furred and feathered thing."

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

DEAR ABBY: How long is a high school senior obligated to a young lady after he has invited her to the senior prom? Or perhaps I should put it this way: How long should a young lady keep a young man waiting for her answer to his invitation? At this writing, our son has been kept dangling for 72 hours.

"PINKEY"

DEAR PINKEY: After dangling for 24 hours, a young man can consider himself "cut down."

OES Officers' Impressive Rites

"Love and Loyalty" was the theme for the installation of new officers for Top O' Texas Chapter No. 1064, Order of the Eastern Star, conducted on June 7 in the Masonic Hall, 420 W. Kingsmill.

Mrs. Bill Monroe was installed as worthy matron and Owen Long as worthy patron.

Other officers installed were: associate matron, Mrs. Howard Price; associate patron, Melvin Stephens; secretary Mrs. Coy Palmer; treasurer, Mrs. G. K. Reading; conductress, Mrs. M. Q. Wilson; associate conductress, Mrs J. A. Thurmond; chaplain, Mrs. Mayo McKnight; marshal, Mrs. Herman Crocker; organist, Coy Palmer; Adah, Mrs. Melvin Stephens; Ruth, Mrs. A. P. Coombes; Esther, Mrs. Owen Long; Martha, Mrs. Lloyd Stephens; Electa, Mrs. E. L. Tigrett; Warder, Mrs. Sam Williams and sentinel, Miss Alice Coombes.

Preceeding the installation, a musical prelude was given by Mrs. Clyde McNaughton, as Mike Price entered the Chapter room and lighted the tapers on the altar. Miss Renee Jennings presented the Holy Bible, escorted by Miss Majana Price carrying the Square and Compasses on a white satin pillow.

Mrs. Coy Palmer, retiring worthy matron, gave the welcome address and introduced the installing officer, Mrs. Guy Andis, past matron Groom Chapter No. 861, who in turn introduced her assistants who were: installing marshal, Mrs. Ewing Cobb; installing chaplain, Mrs. M. H. Hutchinson; installing organist, Mrs. Clyde McNaughton and installing secretary, Mrs. Earl Casey.

The hall was decorated with a large star in the East with the appropriate colors and arrangements of garden flowers were placed at various points of the room. White satin altar and pedestal cloths were used and the registration table was covered with a lace cloth over blue satin.

Corsages of white carnations were presented to the installing officers and blue corsages to the officers and all that participated with the exception of the men who received boutonnieres.

Mrs. Bob McCabe, past matron Pampa Chapter No. 65 as master of ceremonies, stated the worthy matron's year of service was dedicated to the installing officers and to her family. She gave the theme "Love and Loyalty."

"The word Love — whose star we follow did not refer to the affection among sexes but to the broad comprehensive emotion which we are pleased to call Brotherly Love — which love inspires us to love our neighbors. Love one another," she said.

"Loyalty is associated with the colors blue and white. True loyalty is composed not only of periods of staunch adherence to persons or causes in times of adversity, but it is also composed of the small acts of sympathetic devotion which express one's allegiance through the minutes of daily living," Mrs. McCabe stated.

"Her emblem, the Star. . .colors, blue, white and silver. Motto, Loyalty to the principles of the order"

In acceptance speech Mrs. Monroe expressed gratitude for being selected to serve as worthy matron for the ensuing year. She stated that "with honor comes responsibility and that leadership comes through the confidence of friends." She gave special tribute to many that had assisted her along the "Starry Trail."

Mr. Long thanked the chapter for the honor bestowed on him.

A gavel was presented to the worthy matron by her husband, Bill Monroe.

The junior past matron, Mrs. Coy Palmer, was escorted to the East by the conductresses. She was commended for a year of service to the chapter and was presented Past Matron's Jewel by her son, Brice Palmer, which was a gift from her mother, Mrs. Louie Sampson. Charms, representing all the stations she has filled during her Eastern Star work, was the gift from the chapter.

Charis Monroe in a tribute gave the Worthy Matron (her Mother) a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Earl Casey, on behalf of the installing officers, gave the worthy matron a gift of crystal and expressed appreciation for being selected to serve in this capacity.

Soloists for the evening were Coy Palmer who sang "How Great Thou Art," and Charis Monroe sang especially for her Mother, "One God" accompanied by Coy Palmer.

The Benediction was given by Mrs. Palmer.

A reception was held in the dining hall immediately following the officers' retiring march. The table was covered with a lace cloth over blue satin and centered with an arrangement in a nine-branched candelabrum of white stocks, white and blue daisies.

All other appointments for the table service were in silver and crystal. Miss Alice Coombes presided at the crystal punch bowl and Miss Charis Monroe served the cake. Presiding at the guest register were Mrs. Ed Railsback and Mrs. Carl Anderson.

THE WIZARDS OF SPACE (2)

By Don Oakley and John Lane

Humanity was poised on the verge of flight at the turn of the 20th century. Indeed, some men had already flown: Le Bris in France, Montgomery in California, Chanute's students in Indiana. Some had died in crashes: Lilienthal in Germany, Pilcher in England.

But these were all short hops in crude gliders. Sustained, controlled, powered flight was yet to come. Yet when it did come, on Dec. 17, 1903, at Kitty Hawk, N.C., men hardly took note, least of all in America.

Born in America, the air age began growing up in Europe. Before men realized it, Bleriot had flown across the English Channel. Other adventurers were staying up for hours and reaching heights of many thousands of feet.

Then, less than 11 years after its invention, the airplane began to undergo forced development in the deadly skies above France, achieving new speeds, maneuverability, endurance, strength. In 1915, it was not a "missile gap" but an "airplane gap" that alarmed sleepy, isolationist America.

It was in that year that Congress established a National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics and President Wilson appointed the original 12-man nonsalaried committee. NACA was given a budget of $5,000 for the first year and had no paid employes for months.

But within a few years, NACA's "scientific laboratory research in aeronautics" began to pay off. Among its notable accomplishments:

• The NACA engine cowling, which increased speeds by 15 per cent. • Over 100 different airfoils, many still used today. • The laminar flow wing, used on the famed P-51 Mustang.

After World War II (where victory in the air was made possible because of NACA's great backlog of basic knowledge built over the years), NACA turned to work on jets and nose cones for missiles. An NACA engineer designed the pinched-waist fuselage that enabled jets to slip through the erstwhile barrier of sound.

Still, the emphasis was on aeronautics, not astronautics. Space was far away—until Oct. 4, 1957.

Quotes In The News

By United Press International

LEXINGTON, Va.—Army Secretary Cyrus R. Vance, telling graduates at Virginia Military Institute of the need for a knowledge of public affairs:

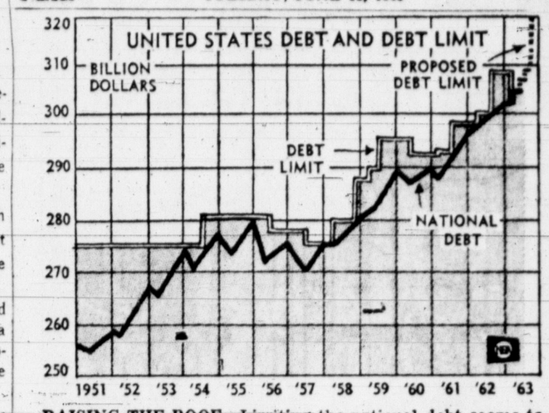

"In this day, in this land which leads the free peoples, we cannot afford citizens who are insensitive to public affairs."

NEWARK, Del. — NASA head James Webb, predicting that a cutback in the U.S. space program would cost America its free world leadership:

"Were we, as the symbol of democratic government, to surrender this opportunity to the leading advocate of the Communist ideology, we could no longer stand large in our own image, or in the image that other nations have of us and the free society we represent."

NEW YORK—Visiting West Berlin Mayor Willie Brandt, on President Kennedy's visit to Berlin later this month:

"Everybody will be happy to see the President of the United States. We would be happy if he could even stay only one hour."

RAISING THE ROOF—Limiting the national debt seems to be as practical as limiting the height of a growing boy. As Newschart shows, the congressionally imposed debt "limit" has obligingly been raised every time the national debt approached it. Most recently, Congress was asked to raise the limit to $309 billion. It may be lifted to $320 billion by the end of the year. One advantage of a debt limit: It forces the administration to justify its spending before Congress and attracts national attention.

Elevator Conversation May Indicate New Congressman

EL PASO (UPI)— State Sen. Charles Herring of Austin may become Texas' 10th District's next Congressman as result of a political pow-wow between Vice President Lyndon Johnson and Gov. John Connally in an overloaded elevator.

Johnson and Connally used only first names but Johnson let the governor know he thought "Charlie" was the man for the political job they were talking about.

The conversation apparently was a resumption of an earlier talk.

Names Interpreted

Political observers interpreted "Charlie" to mean the Austin member of the Senate, a longtime political buddy of Johnson.

Herring is regarded as a leading candidate for the congressional seat to be vacated by Rep. Homer Thornberry of Austin when he becomes a federal judge for the western district of Texas.

Johnson and Connally were talking in an elevator which went on the blink in the Cortez Hotel during President Kennedy's visit.

Johnson boarded the elevator on the sixth floor. At the next floor, so many Secret Service men crowded into the car that it sank slowly into the basement. A secret service man forced open the door and the passengers climbed up three feet to the floor level. No one was hurt.

A United Press International reporter was aboard the elevator. The political conversation lasted about three minutes.

Brother's Name Mentioned

The names of "Merle" and "Jake" also came up. Connally has a brother named Merle. Texas Employment Commissioner Jake Pickle has long been a prominent figure in Democratic politics in Texas.

The conversation indicated that "Merle" figured in the political situation and Johnson did not favor this. The vice president said so in salty terms.

Navy Secretary Fred Korth, who replaced Connally in the President's cabinet, was also aboard the car but did not take part in the conversation.

Johnson almost monopolized the conversation. Connally is a close political friend of the vice president and put his name in nomination for the presidency during the 1960 Democratic Convention in Los Angeles.

Boros, Snead, Bayer Seeking Open Berths

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julius (Moose) Boros winner of the Buick Open last weekend, old Sammy Snead and long-hitting George Bayer were among "name" golfers shooting today for the remaining 99 berths in the National Open championship.

They joined Jay and Lionel Hebert, Bill Collins, Cary Middlecoff, Johnny Pott, Don January and Joe Campbell and 104 others at the Century and Old Oaks Country clubs in suburban Purchase N.Y., for 45 berths from the New York area.

Twenty more berths were up for grabs at Detroit, 10 at Pittsburgh, 7 each at Atlanta and Winchester, Mass., 6 at Bakersfield Calif., and 4 at Fort Worth Tex. to complete a qualifying list of 129 out of an original non-exempt field of 2,403.

The 30 other qualifying berths were filled Monday with second round play at six sites — Washington, D.C., Cincinnati, Chicago, Denver Kansas City and Portland Ore. Dow Finsterwald, a former PGA champion who ended a long victory drought by winning the recent "Festival 500" at Indianapolis, had the best round among this group — a 69-64—133 at the Clovernook Country Club in Cincinnati.

A total of 150 players will tee off in the Open at Brookline, Mass., June 20-22, and only 21 of that field will have earned berths automatically.

They include the last five individuals to win the Open, headed by defending champion Jack Nicklaus and including Gene Littler, Arnold Palmer, Bill Casper Jr. and Tommy Bolt.

Veteran tourney pro Fred Wampler of St. Louis carded a 69-66—135 at the Indian Hills Country Club in Kansas City for Monday's second best score to qualify along with former Open winner Jack Fleck, who shot a 70-76—146 at Chicago, and Dean Beman, a one-time British and U.S. Amateur champion, who had a 70-76—146 at Washington.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Mets may not be going anywhere but to old "K.C." and to the "Dook" it's an almost unbelievable joyride toward baseball oblivion.

Neither of them, Casey Stengel nor Edwin (Duke) Snider, has ever seen anything like baseball as it is played by the Mets in the Polo Grounds. This could be the windup year for both, or maybe they'll wring out another one.

The "new breed," as the Met fans are known, are enough to possibly make both of them go for one more shot.

Bobby Bragan, manager of the Milwaukee Braves, calls the Polo Grounds "the chamber of horrors."

"There are none like those fans anywhere," he explains with almost a shudder. "They holler and chant from the first pitch to the last until you can't hear yourself think, no matter whether the Mets are ahead or 10 runs behind."

When the Mets are at home, visiting players grimage. It is a cross between playing in an amusement park funhouse and a jet plane wind tunnel. And, at times, a garbage dump in a hurricane. For the Met devotee is not adverse to showering down on any interesting target.

But Stengel and the "Dook" are their boys and it leaves Snider slightly pop-eyed.

The Duke has plenty of snow on the roof now and for several seasons, has been fighting a losing battle of the middle-aged bulge. He is a man operating from memory, his 36 years having frayed the talents after 20 years in organized baseball.

He was one of the front line heroes when the Dodgers romped and rattled around Ebbets Field from 1947 through 1957. Then when the club went west to Los Angeles, Snider was thoughtless to say that he admired the move.

Snider had good reasons. A Californian, he had an avocado farm in his native state. And, as the years piled up, it was felt that he probably would hang up his spikes if he was dealt away. He probably would have, if he had been peeled off to Washington or Kansas City. Yet, because of his admiration for Stengel, he stayed on despite his shift to the lowly Mets.

And, coming down the farside of the hill, he has found it to be an amazing experience. One, he will tell you, which transcends anything that ever happened in Flatbush.

The Mets, still in their infancy, have very little real punch. Give the Duke his pitch, however, and he still can wallop it out of the park. Like Friday night, when with the Mets trailing 2-0 and two men on base, they began to stomp and scream:

"We want the Dook!"

So Stengel sent him up and the "Dook" obliged. He banged one out, his 10th of the year and 399th of his career, and the Mets won it 3-2. Stengel did a jig all the way to the clubhouse and the fans almost rocked the old Polo Grounds into the river.

"I've never seen anything like it in my career," Snider shakes his head, almost in awe. "How can you help but knock yourself out when people cheer for you like that."

Relief Pitching Carries White Sox To Lead

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Sturdy relief pitching has carried the Chicago White Sox to the top of the American League.

At least that's the opinion of manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cleveland Indians.

"The White Sox have the best bullpen in the league," said Tebbetts. "They've got four guys who are professional relief pitchers—and I mean real pros.

"They have a good left-hander in Frank Baumann and they have those three good right-handers — Hoyt Wilhelm, Eddie Fisher and Jim Brosnan—to call on whenever they're in trouble."

Tebbetts believes the White Sox will be "tough to beat" all season.

"When you've got good relief pitchers like they have you don't even need a stopper," he said. "They're the stoppers—all four of 'em."

Regarding his own Indians, who are currently in seventh place, Tebbetts said:

"If we can win five or six in a row, we'll be right up in the thick of the pennant race. It's a tight race and just a little spurt can get us up there."

Missouri, UT Clash Tonight

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Missouri, which proved Monday the advance word on its pitching staff was no joke, planned to send unbeaten Jack Stroud against Texas tonight in the second round of the NCAA national baseball tournament.

Sophomore Keith Weber, another of the Missouri's hurling heroes, turned in the standout performance of Monday's marathon program with a six-hit, 3-0 triumph over Holy Cross.

Weber's gem vaulted the favored Tigers into the winners' bracket for an engagement with Texas tonight. Charley Hartenstein (6-2) is scheduled to throw for the Longhorns. Texas rode over Southern California, 8-3, Monday.

Tonight's other winners' bracket contest sends Arizona, an 8-1 first round winner over Penn State, against Florida State. The Seminoles pulled a 5-2 victory over Western Michigan out of the fire with three runs in the ninth.

Jim Nichols (9-3) of Arizona has been nominated to face Florida State's Al Thomas (9-2).

Borger Defeats Pampa In Tri-State Loop Tilt

By JEFF COHANE
Pampa News Sports Editor

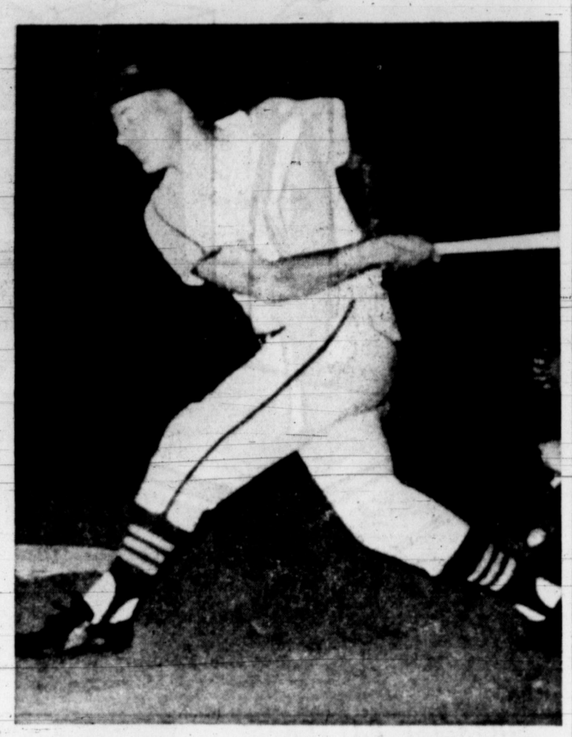

The Pampa Colts opened their home stand last night with an unsuccessful debut, dropping a 10-4 decision to the Borger Braves at Optimist Park. The loss makes the Colts 0-2 in Tri-State League play and gives Borger their second win in as many loop outings.

Borger exploded for six runs in the fourth inning off Royce Harnsberger to wrap up the game. Jerry Glover came on in the fifth and gave up only one run the rest of the way, but the Colts got to starter Roy Hornbeek for only one run scoring outburst, a four - run rally in the bottom of the fourth, and got only one hit the rest of the way, with OU teammate Terry Morton relieving Hornbeek after six, and pitching no-hit ball the rest of the way.

Pampa's fielding was spotty, and hurt Harnsberger in several key situations. Standout in the field was second sacker Butch Crossland, who was the key man in converting an attempted double steal in the second inning to a double play, pulling Harny out of one jam.

The play occurred after Bob Fink had opened the frame with a single, moved to second on an error and scored on Dick Wakerman's single. Al George beat out a bunt and Wackerman moved to third. On the next pitch, George broke for second, and when catcher Terry Haralson threw to the base, Wackerman dashed home. Crossland snared the peg, laid it on the sliding George, and then fired home in time for Haralson to put the tag on Wackerman for the twin killing.

Pampa threatened with one out in the bottom of the frame when Larry Stroud lashed a solid double following a walk to Bob Nutt. The pair died on base as Hornbeek struck out the next two batters.

GONE FISHIN' — DeWayne Glover bites on a dipsy-doodle ball that dips under his swinging bat in the eighth inning of last night's Tri-State League game with Borger. The Pampa Colts got seven hits, but could manage none off the slants of OU hurler Terry Morton, who went the last three innings for the Braves. (Daily News Photo)

Borger broke the game open in the fourth on an error, two walks, singles by Bob Taylor, Bill Rogers, George and Bob Forrest and a double by Wackerman.

Pampa rallied in their half on a walk, three straight hits by Stroud, Marvin Smith and Harnsberger, and after two were out, another base hit blow by Gary Hill.

A walk, error, wild pitch and hit batter gave the Braves another run in the fifth and brought Glover to the mound. Big Jerry walked the first man and then got the next two outs to retire the side, giving up one run the rest of the way. Borger got their last tally in the eighth on a double by Bennie Hill and a pair of errors.

Pampa got only three baserunners on in the last three innings, all with two out, as Morton displayed beautiful pitching to stifle their hopes.

The Colts travel to Amarillo Wednesday night to play Graham, with Roy Perrin the probable starter. Graham beat Stinnett, 11-8, Sunday.

Critical '500' Driver Let Off With Probation

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Race driver Eddie Sachs of Detroit was back in the good graces of the United States Auto Club today after apologizing for his criticism of officiating at the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race.

Sachs could have been fined or suspended for his conduct, but the USAC executive committee at a closed meeting with him Monday let him off with one year's probation.

USAC said its ruling meant Sachs could still race during the probationary period but could make no remarks which might reflect on the integrity of USAC officials.

"I knew I was wrong even before they called me in," Sachs said after the session. "I used poorly chosen words. I did not want to question the integrity of USAC officials."

Sachs was ordered last week to appear before the committee to explain statements attributed to him that "politics" enabled Parnelli Jones to win the Memorial Day classic.

Sachs' criticism came minutes after the finish of the 500-mile race when he charged that J.C. Agajanian, owner of Jones' car, had talked USAC officials out of blackflagging Jones. Sachs claimed Jones should have been taken out of the race because his car was losing oil in the final laps and was a danger to other drivers.

Levelland Boxer Remains In Coma

AMARILLO (UPI)—Boxer Luther Ray Hubble, the light heavyweight who has been in a coma since he was knocked out in a fight Friday, remained in critical condition today.

A spokesman at Northwest Hospital said Hubble, 24, is still in a coma and his wife is at his bedside.

Willie Franklin, 27, knocked the Levelland, Tex., fighter into the ropes during their four-round bout. Doctors said Hubble did not suffer brain damage.

The injury resulted when Hubble struck his head on the ropes when he fell.

The injury is similar to the one that caused the death of featherweight champion Davey Moore in Los Angeles March 25 after his fight with Sugar Ramos.

Al Kaline Leading American League In Hits, Slugging, Seeks Triple Crown

Al Kaline may at last have the last laugh on those critics who've said he'll never be a better ball player than he was at 20 years of age.

It's been seven full seasons since Kaline won the American League batting title with a .340 average in 1955 and became the youngest batting champion in major league history. He's had many fine seasons since 1955 but he's never topped that year for all-around effectiveness.

This very well could be the year — in fact, it could be a year in which he silences his critics once and for all by becoming the sixth American Leaguer to win the triple batting crown. Mickey Mantle was the last to do it, in 1956, and the only other AL sluggers who've accomplished the feat were Ted Williams, Ty Cobb, Jimmy Foxx and Lou Gehrig.

Tops In RBI's

Kaline is currently leading the AL with 45 runs batted in, ranks second in batting with a .337 mark and his 13 homers place him two behind leader Bob Allison of the Minnesota Twins.

Kaline reached a career milestone Monday night when he hit the 200th and 201st homers of his career in pacing the Tigers to a 6-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox. He is the sixth active AL player to reach the 200-homer mark, joining Mantle, Yogi Berra, Joe Adcock, Rocky Colavito and Roger Maris.

Kaline's 200th homer followed a single by Jake Wood and a walk to Billy Bruton and sent the Tigers off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning. He hit No. 201 in the fifth inning to restore Detroit to a three-run lead. Rookie Bill Faul yielded only three singles — all by Carl Yastrzemski — to win his third game against one defeat.

The Cleveland Indians beat the Baltimore Orioles, 3-2, the Los Angeles Angels walloped the Kansas City Athletics, 13-3, and the Washington Senators scored a 1-0 victory after a 7-0 loss to the New York Yankees in other American League games.

Barry Latman pitched seven-hit ball for 8 2-3 innings and produced his own winning run with a seventh-inning homer as the Indians gained their seventh win in their last eight games. Latman's homer came on the first pitch by Mike McCormick after the teams waited 77 minutes for a rainstorm to end. Joe Adcock also homered for the Indians, who dealt the Orioles their ninth defeat in 11 games.

Leon Wagner, Charlie Dees and Ed Sadowski homered to lead an 18-hit Angel attack that also included three hits each by Albie Pearson and Lee Thomas. Dan Osinski pitched a seven-hitter behind the assault to raise his record to 5-2. Orlando Pena suffered his seventh loss against five wins.

Newcomer Al Downing pitched a two-hitter for his first major league victory but Claude Ostee earned the Senators a split of their tw-night doubleheader with the Yankees by pitching a six-hitter in the nightcap. Clete Boyer had a homer and two singles and Elston Howard a homer and a double to lead the Yankees' 12-hit attack in the first game while Chuck Hinton's fifth-inning triple with Ed Brinkman aboard provided the Senators with the only run of the nightcap.

Cincinnati Unable To Get Pitcher

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Cincinnati Reds are getting no place in their attempts to acquire a seasoned relief pitcher, according to general manager Bill Dewitt and manager Fred Hutchinson.

"We're trying," they said Monday night, "but there's nothing doing yet."

The Reds are believed to have made several offers to the New York Mets for pitcher Roger Craig.

Cepeda, Bailey Lead Giants Past Dodgers

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers had better get a new book on Orlando Cepeda and Ed Bailey or they'll have to read about the World Series again next October.

The Dodgers have one of the best pitching staffs in baseball but Cepeda and Bailey greet 'em like they were batting practice hurlers. Just take a look at how Orlando and Ed have treated Dodger pitching and you have the explanation for the fact the San Francisco Giants have beaten Los Angeles in three of their last four meetings.

The Giants topped the Dodgers again Monday night, 7-3, with Cepeda crashing a tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning and Bailey belting a two-run homer in the ninth.

Cepeda hit a three-run double and Bailey drove in two runs with a homer and two singles when the Giants beat the Dodgers for the first time this season on May 24. And the same pair hit homers on May 25 when the Giants scored their second win of the season over their arch-rivals.

Cepeda and Bailey have thus knocked in 10 of the 20 runs the Giants have scored in their three victories over the Dodgers.

Draw Big Crowd

A crowd of 52,993 at Los Angeles Monday night saw Cepeda's 12th homer of the season snap a 3-3 tie in the eighth. Bailey's two-run homer featured a three-run clinching outburst in the ninth as Don Larsen picked up his first win and Ron Perranoski suffered his second defeat.

Willie McCovey also homered and Willie Mays had three hits in the Giants' 12-hit attack while Maury Wills, John Roseboro and Dick Tracewski had two hits each for the Dodgers, whose National League lead over the idle St. Louis Cardinals was cut to two percentage points.

The victory moved the Giants to within one game of the top rung.

Cubs Beat Colts

The Chicago Cubs edged out the Houston Colts, 3-2, the Philadelphia Phillies downed the Milwaukee Braves, 6-2, and the New York Mets nipped the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2, in other NL games. St. Louis at Pittsburgh was rained out.

Ken Hubbs' ninth-inning single scored pinch runner Jim Schaffer with the winning run for the Cubs as Lindy McDaniel picked up his fourth win in relief. The victim was Hal Woodeshick, who had not yielded a run in his previous 21 consecutive innings. Billy Williams homered for the Cubs and Howie Goss connected for Houston.

Wins Eighth Game

Ray Culp, a rookie right-hander who didn't impress the Phillies much in the spring, raised his record to 8-3 with a four-hitter in a 5½-inning game ended by rain. Tony Gonzalez' double and two blows by Don Demeter were the big hits of the Phillies' eight-hit attack. Ed Mathews homered for the Braves.

Tracy Stallard scored his first big league victory since Sept. 3, 1961, and also pitched his first complete game in the majors with a seven-hitter that handed Cincinnati's Joey Jay his ninth defeat in 12 decisions. Tim Harkness' seventh-inning homer was the decisive blow for the Mets.

Woodeshick Top Reliever In Baseball

HOUSTON (UPI) — Last year Houston Colts pitcher Hal Woodeshick couldn't keep runners off base with a machine gun.

Now, he's probably the best left-handed relief pitcher in the majors.

At least that's what Colt manager Harry Craft thinks, and he's got the statistics to back him up.

Woodeshick had allowed only five earned runs in 48 innings through Monday night's game. The Cubs scored a run on him Monday night and it was the first in the past 21 innings. The lefty boasts a 0.95 earned run average —tops in both leagues.

Last year Woodeshick wound up with a 5-16 record. He already has five victories this year as opposed to two defeats.

Woodeshick was strictly a fast ball pitcher who had wandered around the American League and the minors for several years. General manager Paul Richards decided to teach him a slip pitch and a curve.

In addition to adding several pitches between seasons, Woodeshick shed 25 pounds. From a hefty 220, he dropped to a svelte 195.

When the Colts put him on their Oklahoma City farm club roster at the end of last season, any of the 19 other major league clubs could have had him for $25,000.

Protection From Theft

In theory, governments were organized to protect the rights of honest men and women in the property they have earned. This is the popular belief. Would that it were true.

It is well known that there are people in any land who would like to obtain the good things of life without commensurate effort. Thus, in theory, government is supposed to intervene against these persons, the greedy, and protect the rights of those persons who were willing to assume their own responsibility, to earn their own way, and to keep what they earned.

But an analysis of the positive actions of government reveal shockingly that the theory has never been the reality. Government has never really protected the property owner, instead, it has consistently attacked the property owner, taking from him a portion of what he owns.

Because property owners have feared the thief, they have looked to government to protect them from the thief. But what has happened, in fact, is that the government has invariably sought to obtain a monopoly in the field of theft. It has passed laws against private theft but has taken up arms against the property owners assessing them in advance for the elimination of private stealing, which it has never eliminated.

Instead, government's first action is to take some of the property of the property owner. This taking is done under the guise of protection. Yet government has never really protected. From the most ancient times up to the present, governmental laws have always assumed that stealing will occur. Its laws and its enforcement powers are geared, not to PREVENTING theft, but to tracking down the thief AFTER the theft has occurred.

Meanwhile, government legalizes and sanctifies its own actions of theft on the supposition that the possible arrest and conviction of the private thief will reduce the total amount of theft.

Look at the record of any government anywhere in the world at any time. The sum total of money, goods and wealth taken by the government in its avowed purpose of arresting and punishing thieves, so far overshadows all of the private stealing that the two figures are not even comparable.

We are told, for instance, that in the United States, something close to $2 billion is lost annually thru theft. . .proof positive that the government has not outlawed private stealing. Indeed, the evidence furnished by the government itself, reveals that private stealing is on the increase, a public confession of its own inadequacy when it comes to rooting out the private practice of theft.

But what has government taken? Actually, governmental legalized theft is nearly fifty times greater than all the private stealing.

It would appear that private persons, seeking to protect their property from the greed of the unworthy, have permitted the growth of a monopolistic device of public theft which is many times more damaging in its total effect than all the private theft there is.

Of course, there are those who will immediately cry that private stealing would be vastly increased were public theft to be eliminated. But there is no evidence on which to base this argument. Even assuming that the contention could be right, is it conceivable that property owners would stand by supinely and permit private thieves to take away as much of their earnings as government takes annually with legal sanction?

When we realize that government does not even propose to PREVENT private theft, but only to punish the thief AFTER THE FACT, assuming he can be identified, caught and FOUND guilty, we begin to see that PROTECTION from theft is something we have always had to do privately anyway.

Public And Private Theft

It appears we have to deal with two kinds of theft: public and private.

It further appears that public theft, while it occurs with the avowed intention of wiping out private theft, is in fact impotent to do so.

But there are a number of other observations which could be made.

In today's world, the hand of everyone is turned against the private thief. But, when it comes to legalized, sanctified theft, the people themselves not only cooperate, they vie with one another in seeking to create a situation where everyone will be robbed equally.

How many times we hear of a pressure group, organized for apparently constructive reasons, clamoring for a law which will compel some other person or some other economic group to pay their "just share" of the general burden.

When it comes to public theft, the public itself aids and abets the process; and behold the growth of it.

Now, it well may be that the actual elimination of private theft is impossible. We are inclined to this view. We cannot conceive of a utopia in which theft simply does not occur.

It is true, of course, that among savage peoples theft is frequently unknown. But it is a corollary that we may anticipate in such a culture nothing that is worth stealing. For a highly productive culture to flourish entirely devoid of theft is, we fancy, not within the realm of attainment.

But might we not diminish the extent of theft were we to eliminate one kind of theft, namely, public theft? Even assuming an increase of theft in the private sector, it is inconceivable that the extent and amount of such theft could begin to total the enormous incursions made annually by the state, backed, as these incursions are, by popular clamor.

Note, too, this phenomenon. The laws enacted by the state by means of which it is assumed that the thief can ultimately be brought to punishment, have every possible loop-hole favorable to the thief. The government is most diligent here in protecting the rights of the private thief and in imposing most difficult and arduous tasks upon the prosecution.

Nor would we really want it any other way, for rights are sacred and guilt must be found to exist beyond a reasonable doubt before punishment occurs.

But what happens when someone fails to surrender this treasure to the public thief, the state? Not only is the hand of every citizen against this man, the state, in such an instance, assumes the guilt of the reluctant taxpayer. In tax matters, the Internal Revenue Service assumes that the private citizen is guilty. For him to escape punishment, he must prove his innocence.

In short, the state aligns itself on the side of the thief when private theft is alleged; and it aligns itself again on the side of the public thief when the taxpayers seeks only to protect that which is his. Here is a curious standard of values arising in an agency supposedly designed to prevent stealing.

What would happen in a land where the hand of every right-thinking citizen were raised against both the private thief and the public thief? We do not know, of course. But certainly if the people of this country took a position which was positively hostile to theft, whether the thief was in or out of government, then surely the incidence of theft would tend to decline.

Our trouble now is that we assume that public theft is for good causes just as we assume that private theft is for a bad cause. Yet, in all fairness, let us ask this question:

If a private thief steals because he is destitute, is he somehow more guilty than the state which steals the same sum from the same person in order to bestow it upon the same destitute individual?

American taxpayers are being "soaked" in taxes because United States gold reserve dollars are raining upon foreign lands, which has brought about a deficit in the balance of international payments. Many plans have been offered to stop this golden rain of our currency on all parts of the world, and one of the best is a proposal from the American steamship lines. They point out that if American exporters and importers would divert 30 per cent of their shipments from foreign bottoms to U.S. ships, it would mean hundreds of millions of dollars annually would stay in the United States. American ships are only carrying 30 per cent of our freight, and since 1949 our gold reserves have dropped from over 24 billion dollars to about half of that amount.

The Weigh-In

SOCIALIST PATTERNS

Equality Means Equal Mediocrity

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph. D.

As you study the behavior patterns of the socialist conglomerate, you discover many amusing attitudes: A passion for conformity stares at you constantly, while the socialist urges you to believe his thinking is "liberal." When you add conformism to phony liberality and mix these ingredients with an urge to play God, the sum total of your addition provides you with a bunch of oddly mixed-up, less-than-mature psuedo intellectuals, who are not even that.

Talk to any socialist and eventually he will ask you what you plan to do with this group of human beings or another group. What are you going to do with the older folks? What are you going to do with the tiny babies? What are you going to do with the unemployed, the employed and the people who may or may not have a little leisure time on their hands? Only a man or woman with an urge to play God thinks in these terms. Since he or she wants to play God, the passion for conformity tells the socialist that everybody wants to play God. Say to a socialist you have no desire to control the lives of others and he is unable to understand you. He is unable to comprehend anything beyond his own urges and complexes. If you insist that you do not want to control the lives of others, the socialist begins to call you names, prefacing his name calling by accusing you of being a name caller.

Addicts to the socialist confidence game are divided into two primary classifications — those who exert influence and those who have been influenced. The receivers, those who accept doles and expect to remain as recipients thruout their life span, have little or no respect for those who obtain doles for them. They know the main weakness of the con game; without suckers, the con man falls flat on his face. The receivers of the stolen goods have nothing to do but sit, hands outstretched, and wait, until the next election, a which time they do what they are told to do before sitting back, again—waiting.

I knew a man who had a single goal in life—to be a bum. He did not aspire to the rank of hobo. His favorite musical composition was "The Big Rock Candy Mountain." He wanted government, or you or me, to provide him with shelter and food, a radio or phonograph, enough alcohol to keep his senses dulled and a woman to keep his bed warm. To any person or group of persons providing him with his simple wants, he would give his loyalty, unless he received a better offer. He did not want more pay; just less work. He achieved his goal of being a bum but had to settle for single blessedness since he was too lazy to find his own woman.

The leading members of the socialist conglomerate preach with fanatical fervor for equality but expect a great deal more than an equal share of the plunder for themselves. They also plan on a higher status for themselves. They seek more and more power over all who are equal to one another but never equal to the leaders.

Equality, as socialist bosses see it, means equal mediocrity, the reducing of the intellectual and creative level to a sub normal norm. Leadership, in the socialist sense of the word, reduces competition to nothing so that the inefficient, inadequate and stupid may appear intelligent, adequate and efficient, by comparison. Find me a socialist leader who intends to give up his leadership and become equal with his pack and I will show you a socialist leader who doesn't even recognize his own intentions.

Basically, a socialist leader strives to rationalize his own penchant for thievery. He sets up a problem, then shows that he can solve the problem by stealing from one person for the benefit of another, grabbing a slice of the plunder for himself, in the process. In this manner, he makes the earnings of one provide a living for three, since he leaves the earner a little for himself, also. Obviously this seems like a good deal for two of the people but what about YOU?

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

Question: "If taxation is theft, who are the thieves? The voters for a political candidate? The elected officials? The revenue agents carrying out orders? The civil servants (teachers, librarians, etc.) receiving salaries? The recipient of Social Security benefits? The partakers of a government service like education or garbage collection? Can you chart the responsibility for immoral action in this process?" Edward C. Facey, 80 W. 14th St., New York 2, N.Y.

Answer: To us the question of intent is important, as it is in law. Therefore those who violate the commandment against coveting another's property are the thieves. An individual, who does not know he is stealing in our view is not guilty of theft, although he may be guilty of receiving stolen property. There again, if he has been brainwashed into believing it is not theft, he would not be guilty of knowingly receiving stolen property.

While under man - made law, it is contended that intention is indicated by the acts of an individual, we doubt if morally one could be considered a thief by receiving property he does not consider stolen. Under common law if an individual knowingly receives stolen goods he may be punished; but the penalty for innocently receiving stolen goods is loss of the stolen property.

It is not our desire that such persons be punished. It is our desire that individuals learn that moral codes apply to a collective group just as they do to the individual. We seek to encourage individuals to adopt these great moral codes to guide their individual lives and not to expect some governmental agency to have rights not held in individuals.

The American Way

SUGAR PRICES

By Willis E. Stone

Chairman, National Committee for Economic Freedom

Inquiries have been launched to find out why the price of sugar at the grocery has suddenly skyrocketed. It is likely the inquiry will be held to the question of pennies in the price tag, while little will be said of the political causes which created the problem.

Government Scheme

Back in 1955, the Hoover Commission exposed those causes. Analysis showed that when Henry Agard Wallace was Secretary of Agriculture, with a staff including Henry Abt, Lee Pressman, Rexford Guy Tugwell and Harry Dexter White, an amazing scheme was contrived. Called the Sugar Act, it effectively exploited both farmer profit to the exploiters.

Under the terms of the Sugar Act, which still endures, the sugar farmers (beet and cane) were restricted to producing only 54 per cent of the domestic consumption of sugar.

Thus the Sugar Act makes it necessary to import 46 per cent of our domestic consumption every year. An international sugar cartel handles the importing.

As always, politicians arranged for the imports and the American consumers arranged to foot the bill.

According to the Hoover Report, sugar was bought on the world market for $64 per ton and sold by the sugar cartel on the New York market for $128 per ton. The arrangements thus netted the cartel a profit a $250,000,000 per year.

But then, during Castro's anti-American tirades, it was revealed that our State Department had been paying the tyrants of Cuba $150,000,000 every year as a bribe to sell Cuban sugar to the international cartel.

This didn't end the costs, however. Obviously, it would be necessary to keep American farmers from growing sugar for our domestic consumption.

We Pay

These dollars were collected through taxes, and so do not show up on the grocery store price tag, but they were there just the same. It appears that every person in the United States is paying $3 or more every year for the political control of the sugar consumed

Now something has happened to upset the politically-controlled production and the price is going up. So sugar is now a political issue, but we can not expect political inquiries to solve the problem. It can be resolved only by restoring to American farmers the right to employ their land to produce crops for American tables without political strangulation.

Let's Correct it!

This is something we, the people must do for ourselves — and we can, if we compel action on the LIBERTY AMENDMENT. It is designed to outlaw such practices in sugar production as well as in other fields of private enterprise. The LIBERTY AMENDMENT, pending in Congress as H. J. Res. 23 and already approved by Wyoming, Texas, Nevada, Louisiana, Georgia and South Carolina, provides that:

"Sec. 1. The Government of the United States shall not engage in any business, professional, commercial, financial or industrial enterprise except as specified in the Constitution.

"Sec. 4. . . .Congress shall not levy taxes on personal incomes, estates, and - or gifts."

Allen-Scott Report

Did Harriman Confer with Castro in Russia?—Senate Subcommittee Is Probing Sensational Report

ROBERT ALLEN — PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee is investigating a sensational report that Undersecretary of State Averell Harriman and Cuban Dictator Castro conferred secretly in Russia.

Both were there in late April, although this extraordinary allegation is the first hint of a meeting between them.

According to detailed information from important Cuban refugee sources, the reputed parley between Harriman and Castro took place around April 28, in either Moscow or Murmansk.

Harriman was in Moscow April 25-28, to talk to Premier Khrushchev on the deteriorating situation in Red-threatened Laos. On the basis of a Soviet announcement, Castro was in Moscow on the 28th. From a news photograph released by the Russians, Castro was in Murmansk on April 27. Harriman stopped off in that city on the 28th, on his way out of the Soviet.

Inquiries by these writers at his State Department office, brought a blank reply. Assistants stated Harriman was in Australia, and claimed they knew nothing about a meeting between him and Castro. They didn't deny it, but asserted it was news to them.

The Cuban informants told the Preparedness Subcommittee, headed by Senator John Stennis, D-Miss., that Harriman and Castro discussed re-establishing diplomatic relations in exchange for a further reduction of Soviet troops in Cuba.

Also that Castro brought up the question of resuming trade between the U.S. and Cuba — which he makes no secret of ardently seeking.

Such a move by the U.S. would automatically destroy the extensive trade barriers built up against Castro's Communist regime by members of the Organization of American States. The whole diplomatic and trade battle against Castroism would collapse.

RED COMBAT FORCES — The reputed meeting between Harriman and Castro is taken with utmost seriousness by the Senate committee. The report is being very carefully looked into.

State Department and other administration officials are slated to be closely questioned. Meanwhile, the committee is making a thorough study of certain confidential details conveyed to it.

Reason for the committee's concern is the impressive source of its admittedly sensational information. One of the informants is a refugee who gave up an important government job in Havana. Other information obtained from these sources has proven valid.

From these refugee sources, the senators also have learned that Soviet troops have been secretly moved from their encampments to areas that cannot be easily spotted by high-level (U-2) reconnaissance flights. These significant changes have taken place very recently.

They are particularly important as the Soviet embassy has been assuring the State Department that Moscow is slowly withdrawing combat elements from Cuba.

Intelligence reports do not bear this out.

On the basis of intelligence data, Russia actually is rotating its forces and not withdrawing them. For every shipload that ostentatiously leaves the island, another ship surreptitiously disembarks as many or more troops.

Intelligence estimates Russian troop strength in Cuba at 17,500. President Kennedy has stated the number is 12,500. Cuban refugees claim at least 22,000.

A major reason for this lack of accurate data is that there have been no low-level reconnaissance flights over Cuba since early February. They were suspended on direct orders of President Kennedy.

High-level U-2 reconnaissance flights are limited and infrequent.

This has never been publicly disclosed either by the White House or the Pentagon.

On April 20, 1961, several months after taking office, President Kennedy stated, "Communism is not negotiable in this Hemisphere."

ANOTHER BACKSTAGE DEAL? —The Senate Investigating Committee, headed by Senator John McClellan, D-Ark., is digging into the sale of two jet airliners by General Dynamics to Indonesia to determine whether there is any connection between this transaction and a $17 million U.S. loan. What has aroused the suspicions of these Senate probers is that the sale of the huge airliners for $15 million and the negotiating of the $17 million occurred within a week of each other. Foreign aid officials flatly deny any relationship, but the McClellan committee, which is investigating the multi-billion dollar TFX plane contract, isn't satisfied with these official disclaimers. . .Representative Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the Banking Committee, is sending a special agent to Switzerland to uncover possible new information on the mysterious disappearance of $7.5 million in negotiable government bonds from the Federal Reserve Bank in San Francisco. Patman launched a three - member subcommittee investigation of this baffling loss, and proposes to see what can be learned in Switzerland. The subcommittee reported it doubted the bonds had been "accidentally" burned" as claimed by bank officials. Two of the probers left no doubt they are convinced the bonds were stolen. Patman agrees with them, particularly as he has received information that several of the $1 million bonds were deposited in a "numbered" bank account in Switzerland around the time of the Cuban missile crisis last fall.

matter of fact

Our word "tantalize" derives from the Greek legend of Tantalus who stole fruit and nectar from the gods. As a punishment in Hades he was made to stand up to his neck in water which flowed from him when he tried to drink, while over his head hung fruits which the wind blew out of reach when he tried to grasp them.

WRAP-AROUND BOOTH—Sampling the latest fashions in both summer suits and telephone booths, pretty Marion Coleman places a call from a new outdoor pay telephone at a suburban shopping center in Toronto, Canada. The curved plastic enclosure affords protection and quiet while blending into the airy walkway where it is located. It is made from a single sheet of plastic shaped somewhat like an open figure "9" which begins at the caller's knees and is topped with a bright red canopy.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Notes from the foreign news cables:

Incurable:

Japan's Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda has suffered long from an ailment known as "foot-in-mouth" disease. It is an ailment which leads him to say things which may be true but also are not popular. There is a cabinet shift coming up in July, and Ikeda would like to do it on a basis of strengthening his government and not just satisfying the various factions of his conservative party. But trouble may be ahead, from a source that has been one of his main strengths—the people. Prices have been going up six per cent a year, which is bad enough. What is worse is that one of Ikeda's ministers admonished housewives to cut living costs by living less luxuriously. The 40,000-member Kansai Housewives' Association has written Ikeda, "We heard you said at a recent cabinet meeting that the people should eat more cheap fish. This reminds us of your infamous remark that the poor should eat barley instead of rice." That reference was to an Ikeda statement in 1949. Three years later Ikeda did it again, saying the government couldn't help it if small business went bankrupt. That one brought about his resignation as finance minister. Ikeda's most recent relapse into "foot-in-mouth" disease is not expected to prove that serious. But it will not help him with his party problems.

Guest Book.

With Fidel Castro a just-departed Guest, Soviet Premier Khrushchev has two others to fill his busy social calendar. Mohammed Zafrullah Kahn, president of the United Nations General Assembly is in the Soviet Union on a get-acquainted visit which might clarify the latest Soviet views on the U.S.S.R.'s arrearages to financial support of the United Nations. British Labor Leader Harold Wilson's visit will be a natural for talks on nuclear testing. Khrushchev also will be working on the June 18 meeting of the central committee which is expectel to concentrate on ideology, particularly on ways to rekindle early revolutionary enthusiasm for communism.

The Lighter Side

Build a Better Screw Hole

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In covering astronaut Gordon Cooper's space flight last month, the radio networks were at times hard pressed for material to keep the airwaves busy when nothing much was happening.

It seemed to me they interviewed every person who had any remote connection with the space program, and then they interviewed his brother-in-law.

On occasions, when there was a delay in the countdown or some other uneventful interlude, I got the impression they were going out and dragging people in off the streets.

Even so, there was one angle that the broadcasters apparently missed and, in order to make the record complete, I shall attempt to fill in the gap.

I have just been interviewing the man who manufactured the screw holes for Cooper's capsule.

Unaware Of Importance

To the average layman, who has only a limited acquaintance with nuts and bolts, screw holes may not seem very important. I was unaware of how vital they are, and some of my best friends are nuts.

But after talking with Eduard Baruch, president of the Heli-Coil Corp. of Danbury, Conn., who was here this week on business, I will never take screw holes lightly again.

It would perhaps be going too far to say that Cooper couldn't have orbited at all without Baruch's screw holes. However, there is no gainsaying that they represent a major contribution to the space program.

They have made possible advances in the use of so-called light materials—aluminum, magnesium, plastics, fiberglass, etc.—that would not otherwise have been possible.

"These materials had one common limitation," Baruch explained. "The strength of the threads in the material was less than the strength of the screw or bolt used to assemble it to something.

"Under heavy stress, the threads would strip or pull out and the thing that the screws or bolts held together would begin to shake, rattle or come apart."

Hocked Wife's Rings

In 1949, Baruch formed a company to work on the problem, raising capital, among other methods, by hocking his wife's rings. Two years later they had it licked.

Although more than 50 patents cover the process, and others are being obtained all the time, the principle of the Baruch screw hole is so simple that even I can understand it.

It merely involves putting a lining into a threaded hole to reinforce the threads. This doubles the strength of the threads, so that only half as many bolts or screws are needed. Or you can use the same number but make them twice as small.

In rocketry and other fields where weight is vital, the Baruch screw hole is a blessing indeed. His company now does an $11 million annual business and has plants in six countries.

If there is a moral to this story, I think it can be expressed as follows: Don't waste time trying to build a better mousetrap, build a better screw hole instead.
