TRAIN HOLD-UP SPENCER'S WORK OFFICERS CLAIM

Wild Osage Hill Country Shields Bandits From Posse

LOOT BELIEVED SMALL

Fireman Hit Over Head By Robber, Not Seriously Injured

By The Associated Press.

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Aug. 21.—After an all day search Osage county officers returned here early tonight without having found a trace of the bandit gang which looted the mail and express cars of Missouri, Kansas and Texas passenger train No. 123 early today near Ikesa.

Once again the wild Osage hill country had given secure refuge to its outlaw denizens, it appeared.

"Important Discoveries"

Sheriff C. A. Cook, with a score deputies, and Lick Dunham, a federal officer, scoured the country around the scene fo the holdup during the day. "Important discoveries" had been made, they declared. The officers left again on the hunt after remaining here several hours.

George Hill and Pat Malone, postal inspectors, arrived here during the day to conduct an investigation of the robbery. The inspectors express the belief that the loss will be small.

Byron G. Towners, fireman of the train, who was struck over the head by one swashbuckling bandit, was found today to be suffering only from scalp wounds. His skull is not fractured, as was at first believed.

From descriptions given by the train crew of the cool, pleasant master bandit who directed the holdup, officers here read the work of Al Spencer, the most fearless and daring outlaw of recent years in Oklahoma.

Coolidge Opposed To Tariff Board

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Recent conversations with tariff commissioners and other students of the tariff question have failed thus far to convince President Coolidge of the practicability of a tariff adjustment board.

Indications were given at the White House today that while Coolidge had not given mature consideration to the subject, he felt at this time that the powers accorded the commission were sufficiently broad to encompass such work as proponents of the separate adjustment board would have that agency perform.

The president was represented as having seen many objections to the proposal and only a few advantages. The general question of a tariff policy was said to remain as it was under the administration of President Harding.

PRINTERS' COST SYSTEM RAPPED

Federal Commission Tells Typothetae to Cease Cost Finding

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, August 21.—The United Typothetae of America, with headquarters at Chicago, was ordered today by the federal trade commission to discontinue certain practices which the commission declared would enable employing printers to maintain standard prices for commercial printing. The Typothetae, composed of branch and affiliated organizations throughout the country, was said by the commission to control more than 50 per cent of the commercial printing in the United States.

Uniform Price Claimed.

An investigation by the commission, according to its announcement of a "cease and desist" order against the Typothetae, developed that the organization installed in offices employing printers a standard cost finding system and also distributed to its members and others a loose leaf "standard guide" compiled in accordance with the average cost of a composite statement furnished monthly by its members.

The commission found further, that if all printers using this system adopted the price "unmistakably set forth" in the loose leaf sheets furnished by the Typothetae all would arrive at the same price for the same character of printing.

BRITAIN PREPARED TO RECOGNIZE GREECE

Special to The Record News.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—Great Britain is prepared to recognize King George of Greece and resume normal diplomatic relations whenever a stable constitutional government is established and Greece gives certain pledges concerning fulfillment of her obligations. This statement was made in authoritative quarters today following receipt of dispatches intimating that France was on the verge of recognizing the new regime in Athens.

In official circles it was explained that however much the British government might desire to recognize the young monarch and his royal consort, who is the daughter of Queen Marie of Roumania and niece of King George of England, it could scarcely be expected to put these aside against the revolutionary government in Athens which is charged with responsibility for the execution of five members of the former regime against the protests of the British government.

Discussion Will Carry Out Plans Made By President Harding Before Making Trip

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—A conference of state governors, called by President Coolidge to consider plans for district enforcement of the prohibition laws, was forecast today at the White House.

President Harding had made plans to confer with the state executives on that subject last spring, but the late sessions of the state legislatures made it inadvisable to request the governors to come to Washington. When he departed on his Alaskan trip he announced that the conference would be called soon after his return and White House officials today said there had been no change in that plan.

Arrangements for the conference probably will be worked out as soon as Prohibition Commissioner Haynes returns to Washington.

Davidson Address In Wichita Indicated By Telegram To Friend

Wants to Speak Here Saturday Following Address Scheduled At Nocona Friday.

That Lieutenant Gov. T. W. Davidson will be in Wichita Falls next Saturday and make a public address after his activities against floggers during Governor's Neff's recent absence from the state, is indicated by a telegram received early Tuesday afternoon from Davidson by W. J. Townsend, local attorney and former assistant attorney general.

Townsend to Confer.

In the telegram to Townsend Davidson said he had a speaking engagement at Nocona Friday night. Davidson added he was very anxious to come from Nocona to Wichita Falls and make an address here and asked Townsend to make proper arrangements. Townsend said Tuesday night he would confer with other personal and political friends of Davidson in the city and if possible arrange a time and place Wednesday for Davidson to speak here Saturday.

The fact that Davidson ordered an immediate probe into the flogging of Lonnie Davis near Iowa Park and instituted ranger investigations in other Texas cities where floggings have occurred recently, makes his friends here believe that psychologically a public speech from Davidson would net him a large crowd.

Davidson Rumored Here.

Some believe Davidson will make addresses at Amarillo, Port Arthur and other places where he has been instrumental in bringing about flogging investigations.

Throughout Tuesday a rumor was current that Davidson had conferred with Lonnie Davis at the general hospital. W. Z. Davis, brother of Lonnie, told District Attorney Martin and Ranger Sergeant McCormick that Davidson had been at the General hospital and conferred with his brother.

Last night Ranger McCormick and Deputy Sheriff Warren Belcher made a special trip to the General hospital and called on Lonnie Davis to find about the truth of the rumor. On their return from the hospital the officers said Lonnie told them that Davidson talked to him at the hospital Monday afternoon. Lonnie told the officers, they said, that Dr. Joe Clark was present when the lieutenant governor called on him.

Davidson Report Denied.

Last night Davis laconically said, "I refuse and oppose," when asked about the Davidson report.

In a telephone conversation with Dr. Joe Clark at Iowa Park, Davis' physician, last night he said that he knew positively that Davidson had not talked to Lonnie. Clark said some man he did not know but who represented himself as a personal representative of Davidson talked to Davis Monday.

Judge Townsend who received the telegram from Davidson Tuesday regarding the Saturday speaking engagements, said he was positive that Davidson had not been in Wichita Falls.

COOLIDGE HOLDS TALK ON SOVIET

Russian Recognition Now Studied Alongside of Mexican Problem

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Hardly waiting until the ink was dry on the agreements which are to form the basis for recognition of the Mexican government by the United States, President Coolidge has undertaken a personal study of the Russian situation, it was learned today.

An outline of the policy of the Harding administration toward Moscow was given to Coolidge several days ago by Secretary of State Hughes and endorsed by the president in principle, but he has decided to go into the question more fully.

Talks With Fall.

Without ignoring the official record of the Russian situation, as assembled by the state department, the president plans a series of personal conferences with senators and prominent citizens who have investigated conditions in Russia recently.

The first conference was held last night with former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, who has just returned from Russia and other European countries.

Fall told the president he did not think any government in Europe was as sound financially as the soviet, but he still doubted the ability or willingness of soviet leaders to give adequate guarantees for protection of foreign property rights.

Other American investigators of conditions in Russia are to be received by the president this week.

Confers With Coolidge.

The president conferred this morning with R. B. Creager of Brownville, Texas, who has been prominently mentioned for appointment as the new American ambassador to Mexico City. Creager formerly lived in Marion, Ohio, and was offered the Mexican post two years ago by President Harding when it appeared the Obregon government soon was to be recognized.

Trail of Beacon Lights at 3-Mile intervals Guide Planes

MEET IN NEBRASKA

Flights From New York and San Francisco Without Accident

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Guided by powerful beacon lights, two government mail planes rushed toward each other through the night over the states of the middle west tonight. Somewhere over Nebraska they are scheduled to pass.

One of them carried mail that left the Golden Gate this morning, the other sped westward with mail that left New York a few hours later, and the flight marked the inauguration of trials in the proposed 30-hour trans-continental air mail service.

Reach Destinations Today.

If all goes well, the eastward plane will reach New York tomorrow afternoon, while the westbound ship will drop with its burden of mail at San Francisco.

The westbound plane entered the area of night travel between Chicago and Cheyenne when it hopped off here at 6:55 p. m., central standard time, piloted by Dean Smith. Its companion, winging its way eastward, flew up to meet the night from Laramie, where he had turned back after running short of gasoline.

The path of the planes is marked by a series of remarkable lights ranging in intensity from 5,000 to 500,000,000 candlepower and visible from three to 150 miles. Small beacon lights are only three miles apart and at distances of 25 miles are great searchlights while the landing fields along the pathway of the speeding planes are also brilliantly lighted and the ships themselves are equipped with emergency searchlights for use in case of forced landings.

Pilot Temporarily Ill.

The day trips of the hurrying planes was marked with only on untoward incident. Pilot C. Eugene Johnson, being ill when he reached Cleveland from New York on the first leg of the east-to-west flight. Ahead of Schedule.

Pilot Winstow hurrying east was relieved at Reno, Nevada, by Pilot Blanch Field, who left there at 7:50 a. m., 25 minutes ahead of schedule. Pilot Scott took the eastbound ship from Elko, Nev., to Salt Lake city, 630 miles from San Francisco, arriving there at 1:18 p. m. mountain time, and nine minutes later Pilot Robert Ellis hopped off for Rock Springs, which was reached at 3 o'clock.

RIP WHEELER WINS BOX DUEL WHILE LAST GAME FEATURED BY SLUGGING AND BAG THEFTS

Buddy Tanner Injures Leg in First Contest; Spudders Steal Everything in Dallas Ball Ground; Hal Carlson Rescues Meine; Denver Grigsby Gets Homer.

DALLAS, Aug. 21.—Wichita Falls took both games of a double header from Dallas here today, the first being a battle between Wheeler and Conley, while the last was a ragged hitting and fielding affair, the scores being 4 to 3 and 15 to 8. These two games wound up the season schedule between the Spudders and the Steers.

In the opener Rip Wheeler outpitched Snipe Conley. Both twirlers were hit rather freely, but in the pinches Wheeler was almost invincible. Conley kept his hits well scattered also, but had the misfortune of letting three of them come in the second inning.

In the second game the Spudders knocked Robertson, a pitching recruit from Greenville of the East Texas league, all over the Steer pasture. Morris who succeeded Robertson fared little better. Dallas knocked Meine out of the box in the second inning after scoring two runs, and kept up the bombardment on Carlson for five additional markers during that stanza. After the second inning Carlson settled down and held the Dallasites scoreless the rest of the way.

Scrap Iron Hurt.

In the fourth inning of the first game Buddy Tanner injured his leg on a play at third and had to retire from the game. Grigsby finished out the first game at third and also played the bag in the second game. Dyer went to right field in Grigsby's place. Tanner has had a unique record with the Spudders all season having played a part of every game till today. He is the only member of the team with a record this good.

Take It Or Leave It

By BILLIE SMITH.

Spudders and Bears in the first of a three game series at San Antonio.

Josephus Berger has so far got by in fine fashion, in his new job as manager of the Spudders. Even the loudest of the howling wolves around Wichita can't find anything wrong with what Joe has done so far. He beat the Steers twice yesterday, and lost the first game by a narrow margin.

A good percentage on wins on the road trip would go a long ways toward insuring Berger a job as chief boss of the Spudders next year. Berger has had a good bit of experience in handling the reins of a ball club in the Western league. He knows baseball, and if he can show any ability in handling players, success is assured for him.

President Harvey reports by the time the Spudders return home, he will have a flock of youngsters on hand to get the once over. He has had Cecil Coombs out in the Panhandle-Pecos league looking over several good prospects.

The Associated Press box lead to the Galveston-Beaumont game yesterday carried the brief that Pat Newman, Sand Crab pilot, denied the report that Cecil Coombs would become a member of the Galveston club. It had been previously reported in Wichita Falls that Coombs would go to Galveston as a loan for the remainder of the season. Word from the local baseball headquarters has it that Coombs will remain with the Spudders for a while longer anyway.

The Spudders stole eight bases yesterday off Catcher Jack Adams. They stole every time they got a chance, which was often. Adams has the reputation of being the hardest catcher to steal on in the league. The Bergerites surely gave his "rep" a black eye in the second game. Eddie Dyer stole two bases in the last game and two in the first. His performance was repeated by Bob Barrett.

Bob Barrett scored four runs and secured two hits in three times at bat in the nightcap, while Denver Grigsby and Eddie Dyer scored three runs on two and one hit respectvely in three trials at bat. One of Grigsby's blows went for four bases.

Catches by Art Weiss and Red Williams featured the two games, if games like those can have any features.

The two rookies, Walter Morris produced for the afterpiece, made a showing about like some of the rookies the Spudders have been using lately. Robertson and Craig, Texas league, bothe made poor showings.

The Galveston Sand Crabs have signed "Nemo" Herrera, a ball player of Spanish blood, who was formerly a star athlete at Southwestern university of Georgetown. Herrera is a second baseman and a left handed hitter. He is a small fellow in stature but covers a lot of ground around second base. At Southwestern he was a star baseball and basketball player. He played along side of Red Ostergard while in college. For the past two seasons he has played semi-pro baseball with Monroe, La.

Vic Keen let the Brooklyn Dodgers down with one run and four hits yesterday for the Cubs. However, Keen was ably assisted by another former Spudder player, Earl Adams who scored two runs and rapped out three hits in five times at bat.

Wichitan Loses Trapshot Crown To Dallas Man

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Phil R. Miller, Dallas, Texas, trapshooter, broke 181 out of 200 targets to win the amateur doubles championship of North America here today at the Southshore Country club in the second day of grand American handicap shooting. Jimmy Bonner, New York city youth, smashed 88 out of 100 to win the amateur junior title of North America. In the amateur doubles, R. A. King of Wichita Falls, who has taken the title for the past two years got 173.

Coombs Does Not Go To Sand Crabs

A report was circulated around Wichita Falls yesterday that Cecil Coombs would leave the Spudders and join the Galveston Sand Crabs. The Spudders sending him to Galveston as a loan for the remainder of the season.

The Associated Press lead of the Galveston box score last night stated that Manager Nemnam of the Sand Crabs denied the report that Coombs would join Galveston.

Officials of the local club stated last night Coombs had changed his mind about going to Galveston, and that he preferred to remain with the local club. So, far a while at least, Coombs will continue to draw his pay check from the Spudder business office.

LEGION LISTS FEATURE SCRAPS

Two Ten-Round Bouts Friday Night

Red Byrd will attempt to regain the laurels he lost a month ago when he was knocked out by Battling Simmons by staging another 10-round bout with the Behometh of Henrietta for one of the main attractions at the new legion stadium Friday night.

The last time Byrd fought Simmons he was given a severe beating in four rounds of a scheduled 10-round fight. Simmons closed Byrd's eye in the third round, leaving the red-headed scrapper in a bad way, so Byrd threw in the sponge at the end of the fourth round.

For Friday night the legion authorities have listed two main attractions. Besides the 10-round go between Byrd and Simmons another match of 10 rounds between the clever Harry Ryan and Battling Williamson. Ryan won the esteeem of fans last Friday night by handing "Country Boy" Lance a beating in one of the prettiest fights seen on any legion cards this year. Ryan works the ring like a veteran. He knows all the fine points of the fighting game and fans find it a pleasure to watch him handle himself in the ring.

There will be other interesting preliminaries, one of them being a six-round scrap between the "Rattle Snake Kid" of Wichita Falls and the "Panther Kid" from Fort Worth. Both are well known negro fighters and to see them perform is a real treat in itself.

Don Wofford, the legion athletic secretary, fell victim to appendicitis yesterday and was forced to undergo an operation in a local hospital. He will probably be missed in his duties as athletic chairman and secretary for three weeks or more. Reports from the hospital last night stated that he was resting nicely.

"Battling" Jennings, the Henrietta lightweight has returned from the army training camp at Austin and is now working out with other legion fighters. He will be carded for a bout a week from next Friday night. Lee Morrisey, a well known fighter around Wichita Falls and probably better known throughout Oklahoma, has been signed for a fight on the Labor day attractions here. Morrisey has been fighting in Utah lately.

The legion stadium has enlarged its seating capacity and officials say that there will be plenty of room for every one Friday night.

ACTRESSES MUST HAVE BRAINS!

Good Looking Ribs Merely Not Enough

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—The thing of a girl changing over night from a railroad station waitress to prima donna of a Broadway show just because she has good looking ribs is a thing of the past.

The Drama League of Chicago decided it today. That sort of business can't go on, said Mrs. A. Starr Best, the president, in announcing the opening of a school to teach all phases of dramatic work.

"It isn't fair," she said.

"Now all an actress needs is a pretty face, a good figure and 'ambition' and lo! she's hailed as the century's discovery. Acting is a high art. One must study human emotions before trying to intrepret them. Architects don't suddenly decide to design magnificent houses—and just design them."

The stage is just coming out of its infancy, the league contends. (Rather early this season). The league's school is going to see to it that votaries of the stage study and study hard. The good effect is bound to be felt all through stagedom.

When one sees a trained seal bark for his fish in a two-a-day, one will know from now on that that seal studied years before he was let into even the pop houses.

"Gold Star" Mothers to Convene in Kansas City

By The Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 21.—Governors of every state in the union have been asked by the Kansas City chapter of the War Mothers to seek in each state the "Gold Star" mother who made the greatest sacrifice in the world war, with a view to sending her at her state's expense to the national convention of War Mothers in Kansas City, Sept. 29 to Oct. 5 according to Mrs. Howard Boone, head of the local chapter.

"Twenty-three governors have already replied," Mrs. Boone stated. "Most have promised aid, although some of them declare selection to be a delicate task."

Mrs. Boone said the war mothers have decided that the extent of a mother's sacrifice, by virtue of which she should be selected, would be gauged by the number of sons or daughters who died in the service of their country in the world war.

"This might not prove a strictly accurate basis for judgement," Mrs. Boone declared, "but it is the best we could devise." Mrs. Boone lost a son in the war.

The delegates sent by the states, Mrs. Boone asserted, will be the guests of the Kansas City chapter of war mothers.

Among the military men of prominence who have been invited to attend the convention are General John Pershing and Admiral R. E. Coontz, chief of operations of the United States navy.

Mrs. R. E. Bigney, of White Plains, N. Y., national war mother will address the convention.

Among other incidents in the program now in process of formation will be the dedication to Jackson county, Missouri, men who died in the war, of a huge granite boulder, which will be set down amid the trees of Missouri's first "memory mile, near Kansas City.

Famed Doctor Promises Everlasting Girlhood

LONDON.—The rejuvenation of women as well as men, and without the aid of the beauty doctor and the dressmaker, has been promised by Dr. Vornoff, the famous monkey gland expert. Dr. Voronoff explained during the recent International Surgical congress that he was making experiments at the present time, and expected to be able to announce the secet of everlasting girlhood about November.

The announcement that he expected to make grandmothers into debutantes caused a sensation among the delegates, and many of them were frank in saying that they believed it utterly impossible. In fact, some of them said he ought not to do it, one prominent social worker of London declaring:

"What the doctors should do is to find some means of preserving the strength of women of 70, so that they could give the benefit of their ripe experience to those in need of it.

"Women who have grown old naturally prefer nature to take its own course. There are women who would give anything to have their lost beauty and youth restored, but they are of the selfish type."

Dr. Voronoff refuses to discuss the subject further other than to say he has progressed to the extent that he is certain of success.

Nearly 100,000,000 American workers are buying shares in companies where employed.

ZONAGALE

In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On

THE MUTED LLIAD

They say that the men who were in France are forgetting the horror of their days over there. That when they are together, there is no mention of what they saw and heard and were forced to do. That the humors and oddities and extravagances of that time, the reversals, the jests are all that they recall.

That gradually the terror of those days and nights is being forgotten. That the look in their eyes with which they came home is changed and lighted. That war seems not so bad.

Of course one simply does not believe this—yet. It is incredibable that five years after horror, horror should not still be alive. These men at their routine of desks and counters and street—there is nothing in their look to indicate what they have been through, only the thousands in hospitals and asylums, or incapacitated and at home, the cripples, the shell-shocked, the poverty-stricken, only these give any sign of their memories.

But the others who came back home, whole, to sell goods and try cases, drive cars and provide for homes, can their memories be dimming away?

One hopes not? For if they forget the horror and remember only the fellowship, if they forget the death and recall only the jest, the nation will lose one of its strongest assets in its struggle to get rid of war.

This struggle to supplant and outlaw war is one of the great patriotic movements of today. The nation needs men who remember. It needs the men who can say to others: "It's all true, only they don't paint it as black as it is!" They can't. No one can. We who know bear our witness to you that its shame and anguish are unutterable. We who know—and are the only ones who do know—want to offer ourselves to the nation again to help it find some other way."

Five years after the armistice it must be true that something like this is in the minds of thousands of soldiers. Five years after the armistice it cannot be true that they are remembering only the adventure. There are experiences which one never forgets.

Assuredly war is like that. The fact that they do not talk about it, that they get behind the jokes and the ironies of the time, may prove merely how deep a scar they try to cover.

And yet—there are depths in life which time does efface. In time it must be that the poignancy of certain horror is softened. If this were not so for sorrow, people could not go on living. It is a medicine of nature. And suppose this kindly medicine does administer itself to the soldiers, so that they forget what they must remember—if the nations offensive against war is to be served by them?

Five years after the armistice is not long. Ten years after a victory over war, or will they be swapping old tales?

Heart and Home Problems Solved

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I met a young man a few months ago and went out with him several times to dances and riding. I could tell he liked me because he planned more dates to go out riding when we would have warm weather and said he wished I didn't work during the day so that he could see me oftener. He promised he would call me up when he had time. He is quite busy taking some special work and so I was not surprised when he did not telephone me.

Now I have learned that he is going out with another girl and I cannot understand why he is going with her instead of me. Do you suppose some one told him something which was not true about me?

DOUBTFUL.

It is probable that the young man met the other girl and because she was some one new enjoyed going out with her more than with you. Some people are very fickle and you cannot count on them as friends for any length of time. I hardly believe your friend heard anything to prejudice him against you.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl of 19 and have been going with a young man for a year and a half. I think very much of him. I suppose I do show it at times, but if he cares for me he is not the kind to show it. We have spoken of marriage, but he says his mother can't spare him, although he is not the only one at home. He is not what you might call tight, but he says he would never spend his money on a diamond ring. He says he doesn't expect to marry for five years.

What would you advise me to do, keep on going with him or not?

JUST A FRIEND.

I would not advise you to keep on going with the young man unless you can regard him merely as a friend. It is evident that he does not intend to marry you and he is trying to discourage you in that respect. A man with his characteristics does not make a woman happy.

SOMEONE IN DOUBT: In order for me to solve a problem it is necessary to tell me the particulars. You have so successfully veiled your affair that I cannot answer all of your questions.

You have hinted that the man may not take you places because of something wrong with your family, but you have not mentioned what you consider the blot, and therefore I cannot judge whether or not he is influenced by it.

Perhaps he is merely blind to your desire to go places with him, and therefore it seems to me advisable to say that you are hurt because he keeps coming to your home, but never takes you anywhere. It is not fair for a man to accept a girl's hospitality all the time. He should do his share by inviting her to go places. It need not injure your pride to say that you do not think he is doing the right thing; someone ought to awaken him to the fact.

The difference in your ages is a serious matter, and I think you ought to have younger friends even if they do seem silly to you. The day is coming when the silly boys will grow up and they will be just as interesting and manly as the older man. By the time you are old enough to marry, the young men of your age will be more desirable than a man who is reaching an age when he will no longer enjoy the pleasures of youth. It seems to me he has a god start in that direction already since he is so willing to stay at home all the time and never take you to amusements.

Today's Poem

REWARD

All day I did the little things.
The little things that do not show;
I brought the kindling for the fire,
I set the candles in a row,
I filled the bowl with marigolds—
The shallow bowl you love the best,
And made the house a pleasant place
Where weariness might take its rest.

The hours sped on. My eager feet
Could not keep pace with my desire.
So much to do, so little time!
I would not let my body tire.
Yet, when the coming of the night
Blotted the garden from my sight,
And on the narrow gravel walks
Between the guarding flower stalks
I heard your step; I was not through
With services I meant for you!

You came into the quiet room
That glowed enchanted with the bloom
Of yellow flame. I saw your face
Illuminated by the fire-lit space
Slowly grown still and comforted.
"It's good to be home," you said.

Sub Rosa

By MIMI.

"And the night shall be filled with music
And the cares that infest the day
Shall fold their tents like the Arabs,
And as silently steal away."

Every husband and wife should remember those lines of Longfellow after the supper dishes have been washed and the children put to bed. In the quiet of their few hours alone together, after the cares and worries of the day, their love and understanding should be like music to each other, and all their cares should steal away in the presence of their mutual concern.

Happily they should plan their future, and joyously talk over the interest of the family.

Where two souls are congenninally mated, where two hearts beat as one, care and sorrow should flee when they are in the presence of each other.

They need to be lovers more at this supper dishes are washed," sounds time than any other. "After the supper dishes are washed," sounds plebian, but it is a mighty important time in married life.

MOVIE STUFF

By JOSEPHINE FISK

Calendar.

Olympic — Thomas Meighan in "Homeward Bound."

Strand—Florence Vidor and Monte Blue in "Main Street."

Empress—"Money, Money, Money" with Kathleen McDonald.

Gem—Herbert Rawlinson in "The Victor."

WHAT COULD BE SWEETER THAN THIS?

Tommy Meighan and Lila Lee are playing another breezy sea story at the Olympic today, written by Peter B. Kyne. And when a sea story is written by Peter B. Kyne, it's good; and when Tommy is the leading man it's keen, and when black eyed Lila plays the sweetest girl in the world, it's altogether ripping!

KATHERINE McDONALD PLAYS PART OF WANTING MONEY

Katherine McDonald is one of the loveliest women on the screen—you notice I said "women"—she is in sense the kid type that some of our stars play so deliciously. Miss McDonald plays the sweet charming, attractive, well poised girl who is remarkably capable of handling her affairs and those of people about her. In her pictire at the Empress today she is a girl who wants money—money above everything else in the world. What does she do with it when she gets it?

FLORENCE VIDOR PLAYS "MAIN STREET" ROLE HERE

"Main Street" with all its flavor and rural charm, the peculiarities, humors, poignancies, high and low spots, is recorded with uncanny skill and genius in "Main Street," which opens today at the Strand theater with Florence Vidor and Monte Blue in the featured roles.

"Main Street," in the novel form by Sinclair Lewis, was the most widely discussed book ever published in America, not excepting even "Uncle Tom's Cabin;" it dealt with the life of the small town and aroused more comment pro and con than anything of its kind.

It is a long time since the screen has seen anything like the ensemble of actors assembled in "Main Street"—a distinguished cast that gives dash and life to the action. Think of these players all being in one picture: Florence Vidor, Monte Blue, Harry Myers, Noah Beery, Louise Fazenda, Robert Gordon, Josephine Crowell, Gordon Griffith, Otis Harlan and Alan Hale.

MARILYNN AND JACK CELEBRATES WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Jack Pickford and Marilyn Miller celebrated their first wedding anniversary at the Pickford-Fairbanks studio, Hollwood, on July 31st. Mrs. Pickford and Jack quietly honored their anniversary at the studio where the latter is working on his new photoplay feature, "Valley of the Wolf." They received many brilliant presents, including those from Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin and Mrs. Charlotte Pickford. A few hours after the celebration Jack had again plunged into work on "Valley of the Wolf" which he plans to have ready for early fall release through Allied Producers and Distributors corporation. Lucille Rickson plays opposite him, and George Hill is directing.

How He Did It

Monte Blue telling Rod La Rocque just how he did it in that scene in "Main Street."

SNEED TRIAL AT BENJAMIN

Paducah Man Charged With Attempt to Kill Berry On Trial Sept. 3

MUNDAY, Texas, Aug. 21.—One of the best known cases ever tried in Knox county, will be at Benjamin in district court on Sept. 3, when J. Beal Sneed of Paducah will go on trial for the attempt to kill C. B. Berry at Paducah in Cottle county on March 7, last. On Nov. 10, 1922, Wood Barton, son-in-law of Sneed, was killed on the streets of Paducah. Berry was charged and tried and acquitted at Seymour last month. Berry is also charged in Cottle county with intent to kill Sneed on July 2, 1923. Sneed is reported to be yet confined to his home in Cottle county as a result of the shooting.

It is believed that more than 100 witnesses will be in attendance upon the trial at Benjamin when the case is called. The state will be represented in the trial by District Attorney J. Ross Bell, and County Attorney T. W. Templeton, the defense by McLean, Scott and McLean, of Fort Worth, and Jas. S. Stephens of Benjamin.

GRAND JURY STARTS WORK IN WILBARGER

VERNON, Aug. 21.—District court is in full swing here with Judge James V. Leak presiding. The grand jury has been organized and is now at work. There are more cases to go before that body this term than ever before in the history of the county, it is said. Most of the cases involve violations of the liquor laws or automobile thefts.

ON BEING SATISFIED

Every now and then you hear someone say that he is going away. That he is going to leave his home town for "greener fields." He may have a business reason—a perfectly good reason.

Or he may belong to that large class who are troubled with itching feet and a desire to "just go somewhere." If they go, "somewhere" becomes an old story, and they are soon "tired" of their surroundings and want to move again.

Contentment is largely a state of mind. There is danger in too much contentment; being too well satisfied with what we have, but it is a good rule to follow, that, if you haven't something "to go to" it often is better to stay put.

If, on the other hand, restlessness in the human race had not existed, there would have been no America, and the great and glorious western section of these United States would yet be a rolling waste. But it should be remembered that the men who have built this country had the vision, the nerve and the determination to stay put until their pioneer work was done. They were satisfied with sucessful achievement, and they did not move on until they had another goal farther ahead.

COMFORT IN MEN'S CLOTHES

The tailor and cutter in a recent issue discussed sleeveless coats for men. The suggestion is said to have met with cold disapproval. It should. Our friend John Knott of Dallas cartoonist, recently produced a very laughable cartoon which showed men in various walks of life going around with the sleeves cut out of their coats.

With the women it is different. A woman's bare arm is far more pleasing to the eye than the scrawny or lumpy arm of a man. It is just that women were intended to be beautiful and men modeled in varying degrees of homeliness.

If the men in the larger cities of the country dressed as they do in Wichita Falls and the southwest, they wouldn't be demanding dress reforms for men's clothes. The men down this way do not need to cut the sleeves out of their coats; they shed the coat instead. And regardless of weather the tailor and cutter agrees with us, we venture the opinion that a man in an extremely light weight coat or wearing none at all, is more pleasing to the folks with whom he associates than a man who swelters in a hot coat, with the trickles of perspiration oozing from him like water from a lawn sprinkler.

SCIENCE OF THE GAME

Senator George Weller of Maryland is a republican. He slipped in when Cox went down in 1920. Senator Weller is for Calvin Coolidge for republican standard bearer next year. Senator Weller says the president is a conservative. He coyly admits that the senator from Maryland is a conservative and he sees no reason why all the conservatives should not support the president in the event he is a candidate for the republican nomination next year.

This man of destiny who was born on a Vermont farm and began his political career in Massachusetts appears to have won for himself a magnificent running start in the race for the nomination.

When opportunity knocked at the door the president pushed Senator Moses of New Hampshire to the door and let him answer the knocker.

There is a scientific way to play the game and the son of the Vermont farmer appears to be playing the scientific side of it.

COST OF THE WEEVIL

And now cometh the president of the New York Cotton Exchange with the prophesy that unless the boll weevil is conquered and destroyed American supremacy as a cotton producer is threatened by the activity of the parasite. Edward E. Bartlett Jr., is the prophet, he is a New Yorker, he grows his cotton in Wall Street and he declared that the damage done to the crop this year by the boll weevil and drought represents a loss of about seven hundred and fifty million dollars to southern planters.

There is another side to it. If the boll weevil had not been in evidence and the drought had not come there would have been a crop of fifteen million bales this year and a crop of fifteen million bales would have caused a drop in the price of cotton to 10 cents a pound and perhaps lower.

If the rust or the grain parasites had invaded the wheat fields of the farmers of the middle west and the northwest last year and again this year there would have been no surplus supply of American wheat and wheat would not have tumbled from $1.25 to 98 cents in the grain pits known as the Chicago market.

According to the government experts the wheat growers have decided to decrease their acreage the coming year more than 15 per cent, some say 20 per cent. Should this take place there will be no surplus of American wheat next year.

Now what caused the bottom to drop out of the petroleum market and the slump in the price of oil stocks? Why, the new reservoirs of oil that most unexpectedly came in last spring in Lower California, in spots where oil indications had never been discovered before and where the flush supply of the new wells staggered the world.

These are facts and it is well for the people to face the facts regardless of the rantings of political demagogues or the racous cries of office seekers. These new fields in California added a half million barrels of crude to the yearly supply.

Over production of wheat hit the wheat farmers between the eyes. Astonishing happenings in the petroleum fields of California hit the independent producer between the eyes.

Petroleum hunting is a gamble. Wheat is a gamble. Cotton growing is a gamble. Life is a gamble. Gains and Losses come as regularly as the change of seasons

WHY NOT A LITTLE SELECTIVE SUPERVISION AT THE SOURCE?

The Letter Of The Contract

But even the horror of that moment passed, as something too unreal to be other than a dream, and, except that she and the children were staying with Aunt Emily instead of their own home, all was as before. All was as before to a disappointing degree—to a degree that maddened her.

It maddened her because it brought no appeasement to that which for more than a year had been her dominating motive—to do something to Chip that would bring home to him a realizing sense of what he had done to her.

It was not that she wanted revenge. She was positive as to that. She wanted only to make him understand. Hitherto he hadn't understood.

If he had said but once: "Edith, I know I've sinned against you; I know I've made you suffer; I've broken the contract between us; I'm repentant; forgive me," it might have been different.

But he had said nothing of the kind. His letters, beseeching though they were, only aggravated her complaint against him. "What else could I do? . . . The poor thing clung to me. . . . As far as it affected my devotion to you it might have happened in another phase of creation." That was the amazing part of it, that he should expect her to be content with such an explanation, that he should try to deprive her of a wife's last poor pitiful privilege, a sense of indignity. She was not only to condone what he had done, but as nearly as possible she was to give it her approval.

As to this aspect of the case she might not have been so clear if it hadn't been for Aunt Emily. According to Aunt Emily, the man didn't live who was worthy of a really good woman's love. It was foolish for a really good woman to put herself at the disadvantage of casting her pearls before—well, Aunt Emily was too much of a lady to say what: it was all the more foolish considering the quantity of feminine tag-rag and bobtail quite good enough to be wives.

Chapter X.
Two of a Kind.

In the following autumn Edith went abroad. She didn't know what else to do. Aunt Emily was rich and kind; but there were limits to hospitality. Besides it was easy to travel while the children were so young. The lawyer conveyed to Chip her intention of taking them, and returned with the father's consent.

She was not bound to ask for this, but she considered it courteous to do so. If while she did it he chose to take the opportunity to recognise her continued existence by an inquiry or a word—well, then, she said to herself with a sob, it was there for him to make use of.

But he didn't take it. He maintained the silence on which he had fallen back ever since a final peremptory letter from her requesting him not to write to her—she wondered if she had made it more peremptory than she had intended!—and so she sailed away without so much as a gift from him to the children.

When the cold weather came she established herself at Cap d'Ail, where the lofty perch of the hotel above Monaco and the Mediterranean seemed to lift her into a region of friendly, flowery peace. She enjoyed this as much as she could enjoy anything.

With a book she hardly looked at in her hand she could sit at her window or on the terrace, soothed incomprehensibly by the blue-green sweep of the immemorial sea beside which so many other sad hearts had watched before her own. She felt herself caught into a fellowship that included not only Hagar and Hecuba, but myriads of unremembered women whose tears alone might have filled this vast inland ocean—drawing a comfort that was not wholly morbid from the reflection that there was an end even to the breaking of hearts.

She would gladly have spent the winter alone with her children and their governess had there not arrived at the hotel a woman who was known for many years and who was in a position oddly similar to her own. At school she had been Gertie Cottle. In New York she was Mrs. Harry Scadding.

She was now Mrs. G. Cottle Scadding for purposes of exact identification. She also had "freed herself;" she also traveled with two children.

It was impossible for Edith not to meet her and engage in amicable conversations, during which the lady talked freely of her "case," discussing the merits and demerits of her "co," as though the person had been a kind of partner!

Gertie was a lively young woman, frank and amusing. Moreover, she knew the people who made up Edith's small world. While the two sets of children played together the two mothers sat on the terrace and talked.

It was talk in which Edith was chiefly a listener, but a listener who couldn't deny that she was entertained. She was uncomfortable only when discerning compatriots appeared and with visible nods and smiles rated them as "two of a kind." She began to be sorry for the "kind." Instead of shrinking from Gertie in the presence of the discerning compatriots, she made it a point to be seen with her, championing the sisterhood of loneliness.

Chapter XI.
The Frenchman.

Sometimes Edith grew fanciful with regard to the other Americans in the hotel. She imagined they slighted her, or disapproved of her, or watched her course with misgiving. With a certain family of good, simple people, she would have been glad to establish relations; but she never got beyond an occasional bow or smile, generally over some incident connected with the children.

Of one man she was afraid. She was afraid of him without knowing why, except that he seemed to watch her rather pityingly. She resented the pity; she resented his watching her at all. And yet. . . .

If he hadn't been a grave man, evidently occupied with grave affairs, her resentment might have become annoyance. In the circumstances it was resentment modified by a little gratitude. She hardly understood her gratitude unless it was for a hint of solicitude, in a world where no one seemed to bother about her any more. He did bother about her. She grew sure of that.

She had no idea who he was. All she could affirm from distant and somewhat superficial observation was that he was somebody—somebody of distinction, position experience, and judgement.

He roused her curiosity even while the kind of interest in herself which she attributed to him—with what she imitted were the most shadowy of illusions—hurt her pride. It hurt it in a manner to make her the more resolute in going her own way.

Not that it was a really reprehensible way. The worst that could be said of it was that it brought her into contacts and promiscuities from which she should have been kept free. Even so no great harm had been done, especially in the case of a woman with her knowledge of the world.

None had been so much as threatened until the arrival on the scene of a young Frenchman, a friend of Mrs. Scadding's. Edith then found it necessary to submit to an introduction with daily, almost hourly, hazards of encounter.

He was a young Frenchman like many hundreds of his kind, who might have been a finished sketch in sepia. Gertie flirted with him outrageously—there was no other phrase for it. It was the kind of flirting one was obliged to consider innocent, since the alternative would have been too appalling. Edith opted for the innocent construction, lending an abashed countenance to the situation out of loyalty to the sisterhood of loneliness.

It was a countenance that grew more abashed whenever, in the process of lending it, her eye met that of the man who had constituted, himself, she was convinced, her silent guardian.

Fortunately, Mrs. G. Cottle Scadding took herself off to Italy, the young Frenchman disappearing at the same time. It was a new proof to Edith of the depth of need to which she had come down that she missed them. She missed their frivolity and inconsequentiality because they were the only interests she had. She was thrown back, therefore, on her own desolation and on her memories of Chip.

She made the discovery with some alarm that Chip was becoming to her more and more the center of a group of memories.

She was losing him. That is, she was losing him as an actuality; she was losing him as the pivot round which her life had swung, even since her knowledge of his great treason. She was no more appalled by the loss than by the perception of her own volatility.

Chapter XII.
Sir Noel Ordway.

It was a perception that deepened when, some fortnight after Gertie's departure, the young Frenchman reappeared.

"He's come back on my account," was Edith's instant reflection. She was indignant; and yet something else stirred in her that was not indignation, and to which she was afraid to give a name.

Perhaps there was no name to give it. As far as she could analyze its elements, they lay in the twin facts that she was still young enough to be attractive to men and to find pleasure in her attractiveness.

The young Frenchman reached the point of inviting her to dine with him at Monte Carlo and look in at the gaming afterward. She declined this invitation gently and without rancor toward him; but it made her think.

So Goes It

By B. H.

With wheat at the present low price, the Back-to-the-Farm movement appears to have lost its flavor.

Hez Lazee says one reason a first class liar tells so many lies is because he wants to be sure to put one across that someone will believe.

Which reminds us that, in the early days of Oklahoma, we knew the champion of all liars. He lied fluently, copiously and as the sparks fly upward. He once told a yarn about being pursued by Indians. It was a blood curdling thing, and he was an artist as well as a liar.

He told of how he was chased over the plains by the yelling red men; how he sought refuge in a canyon, only to learn to his dismay after traveling some distance in the bed of the canyon, that it was a "blind" canyon. He was trapped. Walls of rock on either side and in front of him, and the bloodthirsty redskins close behind. It was quite thrilling.

Having reached the climax of the story he paused. Open-mouthed, his listeners waited for something to happen. The story teller's lips remained closed. Finally, unable to stand it any longer one of his auditors ventured a question. "Wha-a-at happened?" he asked. The champion liar looked about him. He seemed lost for a minute. Indians close behind—no chance for escape. The champ licked his dry lips and slowly replied: "Well—they—they—killed me."

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Regarding Property.

One Mother Says:

My child is naturally very destructive and after trying to break her of the habit I finally got her a bank into which she takes pride in putting money she has earned. I am the custodian, and whenever she deliberately destroys anything I take out some of her money and make her pay for it. Of course it never covers the loss, but it makes her see that she has some responsibility for the property of others.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

VIRGO

The mixture of aspects makes this a very doubtful and uncertain day. Things may appear to be very good, and yet prove to have a flaw. The wise person will move cautiously, in spite of temptation and assured success. Although the evening is favorable for pleasure and amusement, love affairs will be decidedly handicapped.

A child born today will be observant and critical of his parents and elders.

Persons born during the period of August 22 to September 21 are born under the zodical sign of Virgo, and their natures partake of the duality of that sign. The sun in Virgo gives discriminating cleverness, the ability to make a living and a keen intellect that results rather from experience than from education.

Fully aware of their own ability, these people do not hesitate to use it in dominating weaker characters. Extremely critical of others, they do not, however, spare their own weaknesses, but judge themselves with unerring introspection. Interest in the affairs of others frequently leads them to unwarranted interference.

If today is your birthday, possibly the gravest fault in your character is that you do not rely on our own judgment of men and events as much as the real clarity of your intuition would warrant. Your impulses are usually good, but you lack the supreme courage to follow them.

You have a good mind and an excellent but tricky memory, and one that is often more of a distraction than an aid.

Your will power is not all that it should be, but might easily be developed to the training and suggestion of others. If only you realized that you have the power to do so, there is almost nothing you could not make of yourself.

You have the art for business success and a little bit of it will encourage you to heroic efforts—just as a little failure will cause you to throw up your hands in despair.

Emotionally, you are warm and affectionate, but just as fickle as you are magnetic. You should at all costs avoid marriage at an early age.

Successful people born on your birthday are:

Melville E. Stone, journalist.

Samuel P. Langley, scientist.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

CHERCHEZ LA FLAMME

A theif perhaps there may have been
Who owned he was not lured to sin
To buy the ladies—guileful things—
Pearl necklaces and diamond rings.
It isn't wholly past belief,
But I as yet
Have never met
A self-accusing theif.

Defaulters, I presume there are,
Who did not steal to buy a car
Because their silly wives were bound
To spend their Sundays riding 'round.
Such men undoubtedly exist
But if they do
I say to you
The species I have missed.

There may be crooks who do not lay
Their baseness to their wedding day,
Who do not say that for a dame
They played the easy money game.
Such criminals there well may be,
But I declare,
Nay, more, I swear,
That they're unknown to me.

There may be men who've looted banks
Who did not blame the deed on hanks
Of hair and rags and also bones
And say so in complaining tones.
Belike there's dozens of such men.
But if there are,
Not one, thus far,
Has swum into my ken.

GROWING RAISIN GRAPES

The European grape has been improved for many centuries. It is the commercially profitable grape to grow.

Varieties of European grapes give the raisins of commerce.

It is still other varieties of the same type that yield the table grapes which one sees in the fruit store packed in chopped cork.

It is the European type of grapes that yield the finest of grape juice and world renown wines.

The growing of European grapes demands among other things a long warm growing season. We have that here. They also require certain soil conditions. We do not know about soil conditions yet. However it would seem that we had a good chance to grow these grapes especially if the grapes are grafted on American grape root stocks.

California, New York, and Michigan are the great grape growing states. Texas in 1919, produced something over two million pounds of grapes. Wichita county in the same year produced a little over 1,000 pounds.

Grape growing from a commercial standpoint is not important enough at present to be taken into account in determining the size of the farm unit.

However, if it should be found that such grapes will grow here they would rapidly assume commercial importance because there are but few places in the United States that produce these grapes and the demand is great.

CONGRESSMEN FEEL PINCH OF MONEY SHORTAGE IN BERLIN

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—The American embassy had the appearance of a special session of congress during the last week. Senators Ashurst of Arizona, Robinson of Arkansas, McKellar of Tennessee, Swanson of Virginia former Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, congressman Raker of California, Roland Morris, former ambassador to Japan, and other prominent Americans, many of whom were enroute to Copenhagen to attend the meeting of the Interparliamentary union, called on Ambassador Houghton whom they all knew when he was a congressman.

These distinguished visitors shared with less known Americans the general confusion caused by the money shortage and joined the lines trying to get cash at the various banks.

Bank notes for fifty million marks is practically the only currency available, and as nobody could change these many tourists had to open bank accounts and issue their personal checks to pay hotel bills and buy railway tickets. Many are stranded in the resorts from the Baltic sea to the Bavarian highlands, being unable to travel because they can't raise money on their letters of credit.

The situation is similar to that existing when war was declared and many Americans caught in the swirl were unable to realize on their travellers checks or letters of credit. Gold alone was good then but now gold isn't in demand and it is impossible to exchange the large denomination American or English bills for marks, or even to get them changed into smaller dollar or pound notes.

TEXAS U. ARCHIVE DEPARTMENT IS OF SERVICE TO STATE

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 20.—In many different ways the archive department of the University of Texas library serves the students of the university and the people of the state. This department is a splendid depository for papers of value as historical documents; it is the research field for students working out the history of any social or economic movement, and it is an information bureau for scholars, and sometimes for business men from all over the United States. Exhibits are constantly given by the archivist in order to introduce to the student body and the general public the vast stores of material to which new collections of maps, letters, deeds, diaries, old accounts and printed matter are always being added.

Among the groups most highly prized, both from a romantic and a historical point of view, is the Maverick collection. In it is contained an interesting story of Texas frontier life, a story which really begins with the Huguenot movement from France, is carried to Scotland and thence to Virginia, after which, in 1837, it is localized in San Antonio, where Samuel Augustus Maverick settled with his bride, Mary Adams Maverick. Mrs. Maverick's diary depicts scenes of Indian raids, Mexican troubles, and the general conditions of life in a new territory with a human interest, a personal touch, that results in delightful reading matter. There are also portraits of these early Texas citizens in the collection, as well as some printed material.

One printed circular is a bit of propaganda issued in the form of a statement by General Sam Houston with regard to the question which brought on the so-called "archive war" over the location of the capitol. In this circular the city of Austin, then a village, is described as being on the edge of the frontier and it is further recommended that all articles and documents of value be removed to the safer town of Washington, located not very far from the present site of Houston.

A second collection of family letters which gives interesting data on the Civil war period, and the previous slavery period in Texas is the private collection of papers of S. Sneed who, during the era mentioned was located near Austin. Among the records are bills of sale for slaves, and lists of plantation supplies with the current prices of staples.

It was remarked by the archivist, Mrs. M. A. Hatcher, and also the professor of the American history department, that many of the rarest papers now in their charge have but narrowly escaped the flames, either in a spring housecleaning or in a general holocaust of family rubbish on occasion of removal from one point to another by the owners. An instance cited was the loss of a very rare newspaper which was already promised Mrs. Hatcher, when it was unfortunately washed away in a flood.

COTTON FAILS TO STAND RISE

Rains Reported From 16 Weather Stations Over Texas

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—An early advance of about half a cent on increasing confidence on low end month condition and crop figures was followed by reaction in the cotton market today as a result of realizing and reports of better weather in the southwest. December sold off from 24.01, the early high level, to 24.30 and closed at 24.35, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 15 to 27 points.

Market Opens Firm.

The market opened firm at an advance of 32 to 35 points on relatively steady cables and the failure of the weather map to show any rain in the southwest. Houses with Liverpool connections were good buyers. Continued reports of an improving tone in the cotton goods market contributed to the advance on the ground that it might result in a broadening of trade demand sufficient to offset the increasing new crop movement. Active months sold up to 39 points net higher before the demand was satisfied, with October advancing to 24.71 and January to 24.25, or within a few points of the recent high level.

More realizing appeared at these levels and selling became a little more active during the afternoon on the detailed weather reports showing showers at 16 stations in Texas ranging up to nearly three inches at one station in the northeast part of the state and the outlook for lower temperatures in western belt sections generally.

Texas Spots Easier.

There were also reports of a slightly easier spot basis in the Texas markets which probably increased the disposition to take profits on long contracts and prices reacted about 30 points from the best, selling back to 24.40 for October and 23.97 for January. The close was a few points up from the lowest on renewed covering.

Exports today 4,123 bales, making 122,683 so far this season. Port receipts 11,484. U. S. port stocks 170,701.

STOCK SELLING ATTACKS OIL

Upward Movement Continues Despite Attacks Made On Oil Shares

Features.

Day's total stock sales 569,000 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 98.18 net gain .47. High 1923, 105.38; low 86.91.

Twenty railroads averaged 79.31; net loss .22. High 1923, 90.62; low 76.78.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The upward movement of prices was resumed in today's stock market despite the intermittent selling of the oil shares and occasional short attacks against other parts of the list. Pool operations were again in evidence, apparently in the hope of attracting an outside interest which has not been very extensive in recent months.

Buying was most effective in the independent steels and American can Gulf States Steel, was pushed up four points; Crucible 4 1-2. Republic 1 3-4, and Bethlehem 2. American can ranged from 95 3-8 to 99 1-4; closing at 98 3-4 for a net gain of 2 1-2 points.

Baldwin, Studebaker and United States steel common, which were heavy in the early dealings, all closed at slight fractional gains.

Fear For Oil Dividends.

Selling of the oil shares was based on unconfirmed reports of new financing by the Pan-American company and speculative fears for the safety of the dividends of some of the smaller companies. The Pan-American issues each lost about 1 1-2 points on the day, as did Producers and Refiners.

The first of the July railroad earnings made their appearance today. Kansas City Southern reported an increase in both gross and net earnings thus far this year, indicating an annual return of 4 1-2 per cent, or better, on the common stock.

Call money held firm at 5 per cent. Withdrawal of funds from this center by interior banks in order to finance crop movements resulted in a slightly higher asking rate for time money, which was offered at 5 1-2 per cent, with 5 1-4 bid. Most of the prime commercial paper moved at 5 1-4 per cent.

Allied exchange rates were slightly firmer. Demand sterling, which touched a new low yesterday, snapped back to $4.55 and French francs rallied 6 1-2 points to $5.63 1-2 cents. Spanish pesetas touched a new low at 13.27 cents and then rallied to 13.31.

Fort Worth Livestock

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 21.—Cattle prices today were fully steady and calves were marked up to the extent of 25c, the gain on calves for the two days amounting to 50c to 75c. Receipts amounted to 5,500 head.

Buyers were in need of steers and the seasonable supply cleared to a good call at prices that were not subjected to any quotable change. Two cars of good sort went at $7.65, and another load brought $7.50. Medium to good heifers went at a spread of $5.50 to $6.50.

Good fat cows went at $4.00@4.35, fair to good cows sold at $3.00 to $3.75, cutters made $2.25 to $2.75, and canners brought $1.75 to $2.10. Bulls went at a range of $2.50 to $3.75. No good lights arrived, but some desirable heavy calves sold at $6.75.

Packers got busy and the hog market was active at prices that looked steady to 10c better than Monday's shipper basis. Two cars of choice hogs sold to a packer at $8.60, and most of the run of a good sort went at a spread of $8.25 to $8.50. Receipts were estimated at $1,000 head. Pigs remained steady, most of the run going at a range of $5.00 to $5.50.

Steady prices were paid for sheep and lambs. Receipts were limited to about 5,000 head. A few genuine lambs brought $12, and some mixed feeder sheep and lambs went at $7.

Cottonseed Oil.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Although there was extensive profit taking in December and January early on report of rains in Texas, cottonseed oil ruled firm all day on accumulation by local bulls and buying by commission houses on the firmness of lard and cotton and diminishing stocks. Near months closed 13 to 21 points higher, and late positions generally six to eight net higher. Sales 17,300 barrels. Tenders 500 barrels. Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow spot 10.80 @11.25; September 10.55; December 9.31; March 9.53; all bid.

WHEAT FINISH GOES NEAR TOP

Canadian Frost Forecast and Strength of Corn Uphold Values

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Wheat finished near the top today. A forecast of frost in parts of the Canadian wheat belt and the considerable strength in September corn were the chief factors in upholding values. The finish was unchanged to 5-8 cent up with December 1.04½ to 1.0½@1.04 5-8 and May 1.09 7-8. Corn advanced ½@3-8 to 2 3-8 cents. Oats gained 1-8 to 5-8@3-4 and provisions were 7½ to 17½ higher.

Covering by previous sellers was largely responsible for the sharp upturn in September corn, this delivery touching 80½ or a gain of 3 3-4 over the previous finish. Other deliveries readily responded in sympathy and the finish was near the best levels of the day.

Buyers were firm throughout the day, reflecting the strength in corn. Provisions were quiet and firm, packers supporting lard to a small way.

AN ERROR

In yesterday morning's Record News a typographical error in a Piggly Wiggly advertisement quoted potatoes to sell at their stores as priced at five and one-half cents per pound. The price should have been three and one-half cents per pound as everyone who bought potatoes at the Piggly Wiggly stores yesterday knows. While the error was unintentional, The Record News takes pleasure in calling attention to this mistake, in order that no question may arise as to the price established by the Piggly Wiggly stores.

WILSON OVERRULES CARTER NEW TRIAL

The verdict of the jury that sentenced M. S. Carter to five years in the penitentiary on a charge of robbery a few weeks ago was upheld by Judge H. R. Wilson of the 30th district court Tuesday, motion for a new trial overruled and defendant's bond placed at $5,000, which was made.

Carter's counsel was contending that the jury found trouble on rendering a verdict in the case because Carter was not placed on the stand when he was tried. The jurors Tuesday morning said they were not delayed in their decision for that reason but because of a part of the court's charge they were discussing.

What $30 a Month Invested In Building and Loan Will Do

Assuming Re-Investment of Earnings

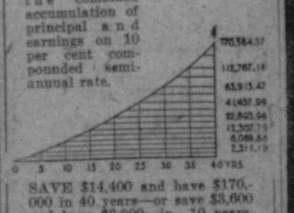

Chart shows the combined accumulation of principal and earnings on 10 per cent compounded semi-annual rate.

SAVE $14,400 and have $170,000 in 40 years—or save $3,600 and have $6,000 in 10 years. That's what $30 per month invested in North Texas Building & Loan shares will do if the principal and dividends are kept invested at 10 per cent compounded semi-annually. The results will be proportionate if the basis were more or less than $30 a month.

The above graph illustrates what is accomplished by a steady, systematic program on a 10 per cent basis. Earnings up to a certain fixed annual income to any one individual exempt from U. S. income tax.

Money so invested, with all earnings credited, may be had without discount upon 30 days' notice. Thus offering in addition to high earning rate the practical availability of a bank account.

These shares may be purchased in installments as low as $5 each month. FIX AN OBJECTIVE — DECIDE TO ATTAIN IT. Make your dollars work as hard for you as you work for your dollars.

THREE o'CLOCK IN THE MORNING

May Hears Latest Version of Song

Woman's revenge comes in many different forms, Dave May, chief of detectives, will tell you.

According to May, a Scott street woman has been calling him up daily and asking for relief from an Austin street woman.

"She calls me up at 3 o'clock in the morning and bawls me out and calls me names. About the time I get to sleep again she calls me again and says I'm a cat, and a hussy and everything she can think of," the Scott street woman complained to the chief of detectives.

"Now how am I going to make those women or any other women quit talking? I have told them both I was going to put them in jail if they couldn't keep from cussing one another on the telephone, but it doesn't do any good," May said Tuesday.

May said he had about decided to put the women in adjoining cells and let them bark-bite at one another til they got tired.
