Toone selected as Moore Board's executive director

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Danette Toone was selected as the new executive director of Moore Development at the Nov. 20 meeting of Moore's board of directors.

Board President Scott McLaughlin said the board members were impressed with Toone's performance at the strategic planning session held in Midland a few weeks ago.

Toone helped the board define its overall set of goals at its fall retreat in Midland and was the obvious choice to be executive director, McLaughlin said.

"When we lost Carole, we had a real void. We didn't have a leader and no organization can run for very long without a leader. The board is responsible for setting guidelines and the direction the organization needs to go," he said.

"Danette has the expertise and know-how and we asked ourselves why go outside to hire someone when we have the expertise right here.

"We went about selecting a leader who could help us achieve the goals we had set. Danette helped us set those goals and the more we talked about it, the more we felt she was the right person to help us facilitate our goals," McLaughlin said.

Toone said the transition from Business Development Center director to Moore Development executive director should be a smooth one.

Toone won't be replaced at the center, but Delia Barraza will pick up the slack now that Toone has the added responsibility of being Moore Board executive director.

"With the reorganization of the Moore Development staff and upgrading of computers and data bases and addition of new equipment, Moore Development's ability to promote industry retention and expansion and to bring new industry to Big Spring has been enhanced," Toone said.

Toone said one of the first goals of Moore Development, now that leadership is in place, is to increase employment and the tax base by 1 percent. That means about 120-140 new jobs.

"This is a stretch and we'll have to work hard, but it's attainable," Toone said.

As part of attaining this goal, Moore Development will announce the specifics of a new business startup program in February.

Moore Development is also working on a new marketing strategy to involve the community more with what's happening at the agency. More details will be released in January.

Much of what Moore Development will attempt in the coming months will be directly related to the city's master plan.

McLaughlin said, "It would be a great advantage to Big Spring if each organization would read through the master plan. Our job has always been to get the most bang for our buck and that's usually measured in jobs."

Toone and Moore Development board members should know in a few days if the $30 million, 50-employee Lubbock salad oil plant has put Big Spring on its list of possible new homes.

Afghan provides warmth, memories

By STEVE REAGAN
Sports Editor

The poets like to say that love will keep you warm on cold winter nights.

Me? I prefer my mother's afghan.

When I was asked (read: told) to relate my favorite Christmas gift of all time, my first thoughts went to some of the great toys my parents gave me when I was young.

After all, I'm a guy, and if there's one thing guys like, it's the latest gadget or doo-dad or remote-control anything.

I never received a Nintendo machine or computer or other such high-tech nonsense, but I still have fond memories of the Mouse Trap game I received when I was eight, or the toy Texaco tank truck my grandparents gave me some 30 years ago. And don't even get me started on my Civil War soldiers' set.

Great stuff, dude.

I will always cherish the memories of my James Bond spy kit, or my first bicycle, but my favorite Christmas gift ever didn't blink or squawk or kill any damn Yankees.

All it did was keep me warm. About 15 years ago, I was smack in the middle of my aimless phase. For those who don't know what I'm talking about, I'm referring to a stage in my life when I had absolutely no idea what I was going to do when I grew up. Since I was already in my mid-20s, this was starting to become a concern to me and my loved ones.

As Christmas of that year (I forget the exact date) approached, I was without a job, which was not an uncommon

Martin County commissioners approve retirement program

STANTON - Martin County Commissioners have approved the county's participation in the National Association of Counties' Deferred Compensation Program.

The program supplements the county and state retirement program under which approximately 7 percent of the employee's wages are withheld for retirement, and matched by the employer. The new program will allow employees to designate additional funds to be withheld. The additional funds will not be matched.

In other matters, the commissioners' court:

- Authorized advertising for bids for a new pickup for the County Extension Agent. Bids will be opened and awarded Dec. 18.

- Agreed to contract with Perdue, Brandon, Field, Collins and Mott, L.L.P., of Lubbock, to collect delinquent taxes.

- Authorized the county agent to make repairs at the 4-H building.

- Authorized an agreement with Tim Stroud for the County Records Management Program, at a cost of $900. The cost will be paid from the county records management fund.

Local CrimeStoppers gets state approval

By KELLIE JONES
Staff Writer

The local CrimeStoppers organization now has a stamp of approval from the state.

CrimeStoppers board member Mark Sheedy said they recently received word the crime prevention group is certified by the Texas CrimeStoppers Advisory Council.

This certification means they are now eligible to apply for grants to help with funding and establishes them as a non-profit organization. People who donate to CrimeStoppers can write off the contribution on their income tax returns.

Sheedy added District Judge Robert Moore can now fine people $25 if they are put on probation with the money going to CrimeStoppers. If a reward is given to someone for tipping off law enforcement officials about a crime and it leads to the arrest and conviction of the suspect, then the criminal has to pay the award money back to CrimeStoppers.

"Another advantage of being certified is the local hotline number will be answered 24 hours a day. In the past it was manned during the day. Now when someone calls the local number and no one is here to answer, the call will be forwarded to Austin. They, in turn, will call a detective the next morning with the information," Sheedy said.

Sheedy approached the city council and county commissioners last year for some help to keep the program going. The officials agreed to do so once CrimeStoppers became certified. Sheedy said they now have $2,000 from each entity.

The other board members include Johnny Hooper, Carl Wyrick, Stanley Bogart, Marvin Wise, Robert Wheeler and Melinda Hernandez.

CrimeStoppers was established in Howard County in 1981. They pay people up to $1,000 reward if the information residents give leads to the arrest and conviction of someone involved in a crime.

Howell declares candidacy

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Candidates running for Howard County Sheriff have wasted no time in declaring their intentions for the position currently occupied by A.N. Standard.

Standard has not decided if he will seek re-election to the office he has held for almost 32 years.

Sunday was the first day candidates could file their candidacy and four Howard County residents have already decided they want the office.

One of those candidates is former Howard County Sheriff's Deputy Woodie Howell.

Howell is employed as an assistant education director and is in charge of substance abuse counseling for the Big Spring Correctional Center. He is also a criminal justice instructor at Howard College.

Howell has a Master Texas Peace Officer certificate, a bachelor's degree in criminal justice, an advanced jailer's license, has served as a paratrooper with the 82nd Airborne Division and is a sergeant with the local National Guard unit.

He is running on the platform of providing protection and safety for the citizens of Howard County by cooperating with all law enforcement agencies, providing a modern, updated written policy for the Sheriff's Office and by having a good effective training program for all deputies, jailers and dispatchers.

Gift

Christmas for single, unattached adults can be fairly useless, but when you're single, unattached and jobless, the holiday season can get downright depressing.

My mom, using that special telepathic power that only moms seem to have, sensed that I was in the middle of a gigantic pity party and made it a point that I spend Christmas at her place.

I don't remember many details of that holiday visit. What I do recall is sensations - the cold wind blowing, the gray, threatening skies, and the crackle and pop of the fireplace. In short, this Norman Rockwell vision was just what I needed to snap out of the doldrums.

Our family tradition mandated that we open our wrapped presents Christmas Eve, instead of Christmas morning, when "Santa" left all his goodies for the young ones.

I received the usual complement of shirts, slacks, socks and everything else a guy usually gets on Christmas, but I saved the biggest for last.

It was a rather large gift, wrapped in a box about two feet square, and I wondered just what the heck my mom had got me.

It was an afghan - a large, multi-colored afghan that I could easily wrap twice around my somewhat skinny frame.

I loved it.

In the years that have passed since that Christmas, my mom's afghan has been one of the few constants in my life. It has survived numerous moves, career changes, a failed marriage - even my mom.

Now, when the weather turns cold and I start to feel a little sorry about my lot in life, all I have to do is wrap myself in that afghan and it's like getting a hug from Mom.

And that's something no gadget could ever do.

City prepares to take over recycling

By CARLTON JOHNSON
Staff Writer

Big Spring city government is scheduled to take over recycling duties citywide Dec. 15.

The city is still in the process of implementing its recycling program with area schools as a result of a $15,000 grant from the Texas Natural Resources Conservation Commission and the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

The city will place containers at area schools for recycling and all proceeds derived from collections will be used to renovate and purchase new playground equipment in Big Spring's city parks.

Big Spring's other recycling program is continuing and allowing residents to avoid possible fines by having a place to dispose of their used motor oil.

With the first TNRC grant the city has been able to set up two large tanks at the landfill.

Once the oil is taken to the landfill it is stored in the special made tanks at the facility and picked up for proper disposal by Pro Cycle Oil Company out of Spring, Texas.

It is illegal to dump oil anywhere in the city and county and could result in a fine for anyone caught dumping.

Landfill Supervisor Howard Shivers said the city is also in the process of applying for two more grants to get more containers to set up in different districts throughout the city.

"These grants through the TNRC and PBRPC are pending, but hopefully we'll know something by June 1996," Shivers said.

The city will continue working with the Proud Citizens Committee and will also continue the once-a-month recycling collections in the Herald parking lot.

For people who do not want to utilize the first Saturday pickup, Shivers said the city has a recycling center at the landfill.

"Someone will always man the once-a-month recycling program because there are always people wanting to recycle," Shivers added.

So far recycling has already made an impact at the city landfill by saving space and prolonging the time Big Spring will be able to use the landfill.

Tire mountains could turn into steel-belted infernos

By KEVIN O'HANLON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — As mountains of shredded tires continued to smolder south of Dallas today, state environmental officials say the possibility of similar steel-belted infernos looms in Texas.

Recyclers can't find a sufficient market to sell an estimated 61 million shredded tires piled up across Texas.

Risks of potential fires, water contamination and an astronomical tab for cleanups increase if the market does not pick up and the recyclers go out of business.

The state's tire recycling program has paid out nearly $80 million to help recyclers pay for shredding old tires since it started three years ago.

The Legislature created the program in 1991 to reduce the number of tires thrown in landfills.

Texas levied a $2 tax on new tires to help pay for the program, and pays 85 cents a tire to companies that would shred old ones and set a deadline of July 1995 to start disposing of them.

However, the market for the shredded tires has lagged behind expectations and the tires continue to pile up.

Of 91 million tires shredded since the program began in April 1992, 63 percent are stored in piles across the state, according to the Texas Journal of the Wall Street Journal.

Nearly all of the 37 percent the state says have been used went for fuel — which could have been done without shredding.

Estimates show that it could cost the state as much as $50 million to get rid of those piles if the tire shredders go out of business.

"The market...for the tire chips has not developed as quickly as we had hoped," said Patrick Crimmins, a spokesman for the Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission.

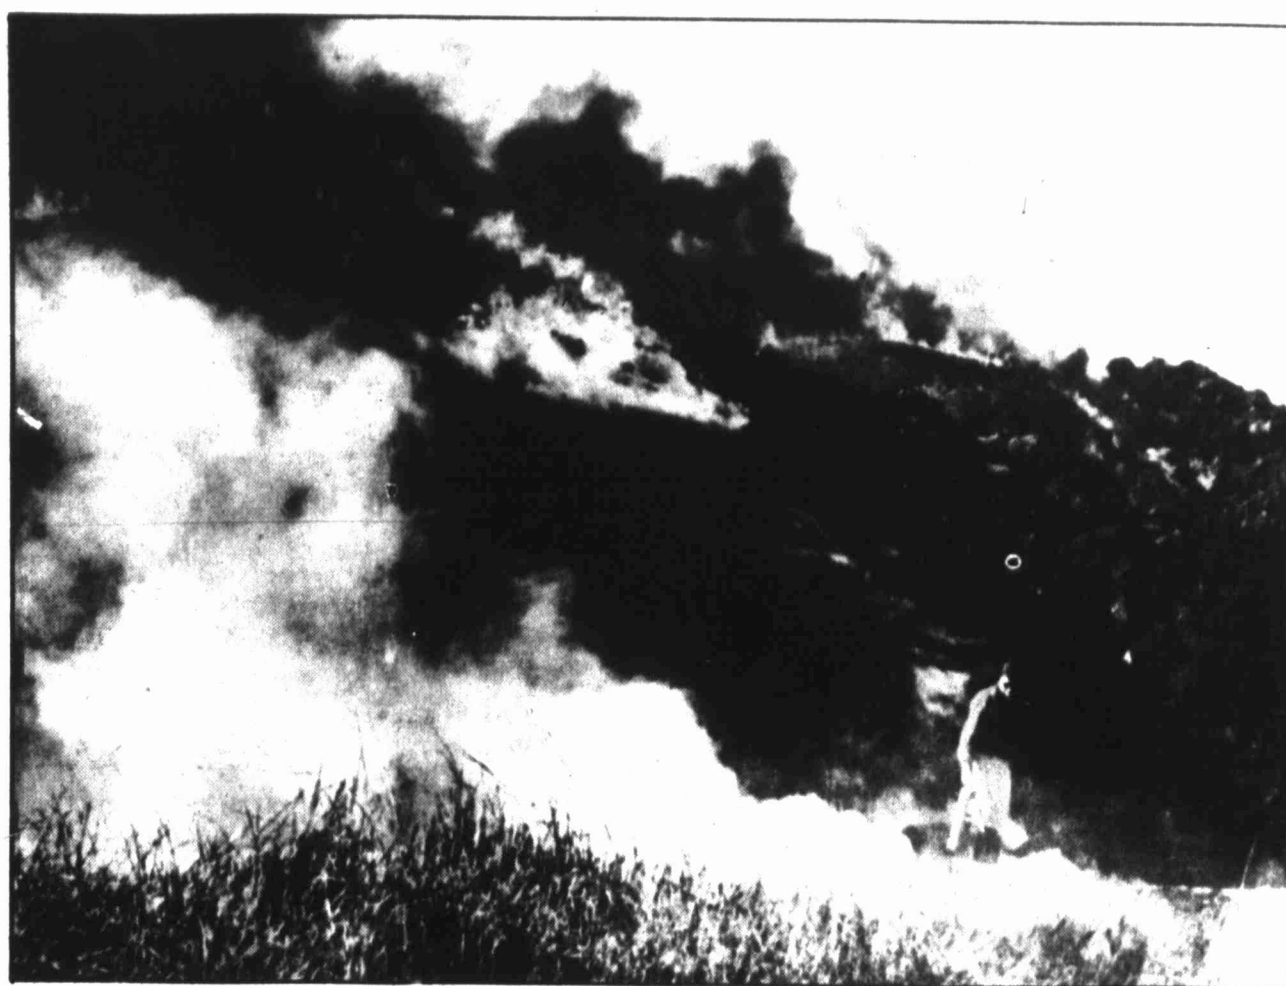

Firefighters continued to battle the smoldering blaze at the Safe Tire Disposal Co. in Midlothian, 23 miles southwest of Dallas. The fire was reportedly touched off Friday by a spark from a dump truck being loaded with tires for recycling.

The blaze sent up thick, boiling plume of black smoke visible 20 miles away.

The Midlothian facility stored about eight million shredded tires in 42 piles, each measuring about 15 feet high and encompassing about 8,000 square feet.

"It has been of some concern to us — the building up of the piles out there as we have seen that grow," Osborn said.

Twenty of the piles caught fire.

A worker uses a fire extinguisher on hot spots around a large tire fire at the Safe Tire Disposal in Midlothian on Sunday. The tire-mound fire, which began Friday, is expected to burn for days. At present it has spread to a dozen 15-foot-tall, 8,000-square-foot piles of shredded tires.

Railroad whistle bans to end next year

FORT WORTH (AP) — That lonesome train whistle that has inspired singers and songwriters for more than 150 years has been vanishing from a lot of areas, but it'll be back almost everywhere late next year.

Many communities around the country have banned trains from whistling before they reach railroad crossings. But federal rules are going to do away with those bans.

In Texas, 65 rail crossings are subject to whistle bans.

Railroad safety experts say they welcome the new rule that will preempt the whistle bans. The only crossings where the bans may remain in effect will be crossings with extraordinary protection.

"I always say, 'Would you rather hear the whistle, or the sound of the ambulance siren?'" said Charles Airhart, a Union Pacific Railroad engineer who leads the company's Operation Lifesaver rail-crossing safety program in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

No city in that area has a whistle ban in practice, according to the Texas Railroad Commission.

Texas already leads the nation in railroad-crossing accidents and fatalities — 560 crashes and 58 fatalities last year.

"What we don't need is something else hampering our abilities to save lives at grade crossings," said Bebe Allen, statewide director of Operation Lifesaver for the Texas Safety Association in Austin.

Congress voted last year to outlaw whistle bans, partly in response to a Florida law that allowed communities to curb the use of train horns at crossings from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. along the route of the Florida East Coast Railway.

Man kills one, wounds four, then kills himself

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two men were killed and four were wounded when a man who claimed a teen-age girl had given him AIDS burst into a home where she was and opened fire with a semiautomatic pistol, police said.

The man reloaded his pistol and went back into the house to shoot several times as children and other fled through windows and back doors, witnesses told police Sunday.

The assailant apparently shot himself to death at the end of the shooting spree, police said.

One man was dead in the driveway of the home and the four wounded included three men and one woman, officers said.

Another man, identified as Timothy Davis, 27, died later

Sunday at University of Hospital.

Police said the victims all were shot while eating, watching TV and enjoying a quiet family night at home.

The wounded victims were in a front bedroom, living room and garage.

The gunman was found dead inside the attached garage of the one-story house.

One victim identified as Kevin McCaskey was in fair condition at University Hospital.

A man identified as Larry Tate and a woman identified as Brenda Crawford were in serious condition early today at Wilford Hall Medical Center, authorities say.

All the victims ranged in age from 22 to 34, police Sgt. Mike Self said.

Manatee accepts food

HOUSTON (AP) — How do you turn a wastewater treatment plant into a bustling tourist attraction? Add one manatee.

Hundreds of fans have flocked to view a wayward sea cow that has chosen to make the warm water near a plant on Buffalo Bayou its temporary home. U.S. Fish and Wildlife workers fed the mammal throughout the weekend.

A biologist, veterinarian and the national manatee coordinator were expected to arrive from Florida today to discuss capturing the mammal. Fish and Wildlife field supervisor Dave Hankla said.

Lab workers at a nearby wastewater treatment plant have posted a sign that reads, "Macario the Manatee is here."

The animal's popularity has baffled plant worker Tim Jones.

"This is abnormal 110 percent. It's been a steady stream. It's been over 200 people," said Jones, who calls the manatee Hou, short for Houston. "People want to see him, and we're not a zoo, so they don't have to pay."

Lenell Harris, who traveled from nearby Missouri City, said she had only seen manatees on television wildlife programs. What she saw up close surprised her.

"It looks different from on TV. It reminds me of a beaver and a platypus. It was great for me. I wonder how it's surviving in this water," she said.

By Saturday afternoon, the manatee was staying in the spot around the makeshift salad bowl constructed of plastic pipe. The bowl contains heaping helpings of lettuce, carrots and water hyacinths.

The 8-foot-long endangered mammal was first seen Tuesday swimming in the warm water flow near the treatment plant.

Many school volunteers don't object to background checks

FORT WORTH (AP) — Jeanne Ecklund, a PTA president who donates time at her children's school, is like many volunteers when she says she doesn't mind undergoing a criminal history background check.

Most volunteers who work at Tarrant County schools do not object to the examination, school officials say.

The state Legislature provided explicit permission for volunteer background checks, the same kind as those that school employees have undergone for years.

That goes all the way down to parents who volunteer to work at school Christmas parties.

Highly publicized crimes against children and the growing number of volunteers have prompted more school districts to look at their volunteers' pasts.

"All you have to do is turn on the television or read the newspaper to see why we're doing it," said Susan Caldwell, volunteer coordinator for the Arlington school district, which instituted background checks in August. "It's sad, but it has become a safety issue."

Ms. Ecklund, president of the PTA at South Birdville Elementary School in suburban Haltom City, said she hasn't run into any objections.

In the same school district about 2,600 other parents have had to have the same background check. A check of several area school districts revealed that only a few parents have balked at having background checks, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Sunday.

Most have done so gladly, and volunteerism is at an all-time high. In the four Tarrant County districts that have started demanding checks, only a handful of volunteer applicants have been barred.

"We don't want to dissuade people from volunteering," said Sherry Dunn, Volunteer Partnership coordinator for Birdville. "We just want to make sure that parents have a chance to be involved with their children and that their children are protected from people who might do them harm."

Volunteer applicants provide their date of birth and Social Security number on a written application. The form is forwarded to the district personnel office, which sends the applications in batches to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

When the completed report is returned, school officials can clear the applicants or call them for more information.

Quote of the Day

"Public opinion's always in advance of the law."

John Galsworthy, British novelist, 1922

Little ingenuity goes a long way to get crooks

A little ingenuity, elbow grease and voila - two crooks are nabbed.

That's what a Dallas couple used to capture the rats borrowing their van at night.

The couple believed someone had found their extra key, borrowed the van and returned it. Yes, it was returned, but who wants a van reeking of marijuana smoked by the people who stole the vehicle?

The owners rigged a long piece of string to the bumper of their van, strung it through the window of their house where it attached to a box full of keys and chains.

It worked. The joy riders took off in the van, the string pulled taut and the box of keys and chains clanked to the floor, waking the couple.

Within 15 minutes, two 14-year-old boys were arrested - trapped by something Dallas police are calling "the most ingenious and cheapest device against auto theft they had heard of."

What this tells us is we can take steps to stop crime from affecting us. And it doesn't have to cost an arm and a leg.

By using their brains, this couple managed to accomplish what they set out to - stop joy riders using their van.

Think what you can do by engaging the "little gray cells."

MEANWHILE, AT THE BOSNIA-HERZEGOVINA PEACE PARADE.....

Survey of whose opinion?

President Clinton addressed the nation Nov. 27, seeking to convince us that we must send American troops to Bosnia. Immediately following the broadcast, CNN and U.S.A.

Bill Clinton

Paul Harvey
Columnist

Today financed a quickie Gallup Poll and reported that "most Americans now agree with the president."

Specifically, the pollsters found 46 percent agree and only 40 percent don't.

I challenged the validity of that survey and its findings - I was convinced that the survey was skewed by the phone book they used and the names they chose.

I immediately asked radio stations around our nation to poll their listeners.

KSFO in San Francisco reported 96 percent of its listeners were opposed to sending American troops to Bosnia.

When CBS in Fort Wayne asked the opinion of its Indiana audience, they were 90 percent opposed.

Channel 3 in Wichita asked for listeners' reactions, and not one respondent was in favor of sending troops.

Listeners of KBOZ in Bozeman, Mont., are 6-to-1 against Clinton's decision. KOOV in Copperas Cove, Texas, reported that listeners were 100 percent against it. And WACO listeners in Waco, Texas, were 100 percent opposed to sending American troops to Bosnia.

Perhaps it's time for Americans to ignore those quickie surveys until those who conduct them learn to broaden their base.

In Owatonna, Minn., KOWZ listeners were polled, and 71 percent said: "Do not send American troops."

WGST Atlanta listeners were 100 percent opposed.

KOB in Albuquerque conducted a three-and-a-half-hour phone survey. The results: 97 percent said, "Do not send American troops!"

In Shreveport, La., KLKL reports its 95 percent of its listeners vote: "No, do not send troops."

It is now obvious that the networks and some newspapers have been leading us around by the ear with surveys that are at least inadequate and at worst purposely distorted.

These members of the media appear to have the same attitude as was expressed by Indiana Rep. Dan Burton. He said, "The president is hell-bent to do it, so we are going to have to support him."

That makes Congress sound superfluous.

For perspective, the United States already has 3,185 ground troops on "peacekeeping" missions in Haiti and Croatia, on the Kuwait border, and in Jerusalem, Macedonia and the Western Sahara. There are even some in what used to be Soviet Georgia - as though that were any of our business!

But we get so soon old and so late smart - including our presidents.

Former-President George Bush, who used to enjoy chasing around and playing "President of the World," was remembering on the night of Nov. 28 his presidential priorities with regret. He said his "biggest failure as president" was his "failure to convince Americans of their most urgent need - to strengthen their own family values."

First NATO troops leave from Germany

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — The vanguard of a 60,000-member NATO force made final preparations to enter Yugoslavia today as protectors of a delicate peace brokered by diplomats and Balkan leaders half a world away.

But the mission was threatened even before it began by promises of resistance from disgruntled rebel Bosnian Serbs.

The first of the 2,600 soldiers assigned to lay the groundwork for the whole force were to begin fanning out today. About 20,000 members of the force will come from the United States, which has had no ground troops in Bosnia before.

President Clinton gave the official go-ahead Sunday for the first small groups of U.S. soldiers to leave, but their travel plans were not clear. Some Americans were expected to arrive early this week in Kaposvar, Hungary, to set up a transit point.

Fifty-six members of Britain's 7th Signal Regiment had orders to fly today from the Royal Air Force base at Brueggen, Germany, to the former Yugoslavia to start dealing with communications, logistics and supplies.

A convoy of 15 to 20 trucks was set to leave a NATO base in Naples, Italy, on Tuesday for Zagreb, Croatia, carrying equipment for the operation's headquarters, said NATO spokesman Franco Veltri.

Clinton, speaking Sunday in Madrid at the end of a five-day European trip, brushed aside a defiant statement by the Bosnian Serb military leader, Gen. Ratko Mladic.

On Saturday, Mladic demanded a reconsideration of the peace accord's transfer of control over Serb areas around Sarajevo to a new Muslim-Croat federation.

Speaking to his troops, Mladic said Serbs will never permit themselves to be ruled by "butchers" - his description of the Muslims and Croats they have fought for more than 3 1/2 years.

Rabin's assassin implies bodyguard helped him

By DAN PERRY
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — An army sergeant today became the first person indicted in Yitzhak Rabin's assassination — a day after the confessed gunman fed conspiracy rumors by implying he got help from a Rabin bodyguard.

First Sgt. Eric Schwartz was charged with smuggling weapons from his military base and giving them to gunman Yigal Amir and Amir's brother, Hagai, during the past year, Israel army radio said. The radio report said Schwartz knew the two planned to attack Palestinians.

On Sunday, Yigal Amir said he carries secrets that "will destroy everything."

"Everything until now was a mask," the 25-year-old student said. The truth about the slaying, he said, would "turn the country upside down."

Amir said authorities killed a bodyguard who helped him by creating confusion during the Nov. 4 shooting at a Tel Aviv peace rally.

"Why don't you publicize that they killed one of Rabin's bodyguards? The one who shouted 'The bullets are dummies,'" Amir yelled to reporters as he was brought into a Tel Aviv courtroom to have his detention extended.

Amir has until now insisted that he acted alone, and previous reports indicated he shouted himself that the bullets were fake. No evidence has surfaced to support his claim that a Rabin bodyguard was killed.

"I did not think they would start killing people," he muttered in court. "You are killing people," retorted Judge Dan Arbel. "If I tell the truth, it would turn the country upside down," Amir said.

Serviceman says rape confession was coerced

By MARI YAMAGUCHI
Associated Press Writer

NAHA, Japan (AP) — One of three American servicemen accused of abducting and raping a 12-year-old Japanese schoolgirl testified today that U.S. military investigators coerced him into confessing to a rape he did not commit.

Marine Pfc. Rodrico Harp, 21, of Griffin, Ga., has acknowledged he helped to plot the Sept. 4 rape and abduct the girl but has denied participating in the actual rape.

In testimony at Naha District Court today, Harp said Naval Criminal Investigative Services police, who originally took custody of the three, woke him up at 4 a.m. on Sept. 6 and began taking his statement.

"When I told them what did happen, they pressured me to go in another direction," he said.

Harp said investigators told him to say what the "Japanese would like to hear" — namely, that he raped the girl. He said they refused to believe his assertions that he did not.

The attack has caused a furor in Japan, touching off huge protests against the heavy U.S. military presence on the small southern Japan island and damaging support for the U.S.-Japan security alliance.

At the trial's opening session on Nov. 7, Navy Seaman Marcus Gill, 22, of Woodville, Texas, pleaded guilty to raping the girl. Harp and Marine Pfc. Kendrick Ledet, 20, of Waycross, Ga., acknowledged they helped plan and carry out the attack.

According to the charges, the three forced the girl into a rented car after she stepped out of a stationery store where she had bought a school notebook, drove her to a remote sugar-cane field, raped her and dumped her from the car.

Record inmate growth requires 1,725 new prison beds weekly

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A record wave of new inmates flowed into state and federal prisons during the 12 months that ended last June, enough to require 1,725 new beds each week.

The United States also set another record for its rate of incarceration. It locks up a greater share of its residents than any other nation.

During the 12 months, the inmate population grew by 89,707. The previous record annual increase was in calendar 1989, when 84,764 inmates were added, according to the Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics, which released its midyear report Sunday. As of June 30, there were 1,004,608 state prison inmates, up 9.1 percent, and 99,466 federal inmates, up 6.1 percent.

The record increase "was a little higher than most years. But the annual average since 1980 has been 8.7 percent, so there's been steady growth," said Allen Beck, the bureau's chief of corrections statistics.

Despite some popular misconceptions, Beck said, "There's been no change in the level of overcrowding. Since 1990, new prison capacity has been keeping pace with inmate growth." Average time served has declined slightly, he said.

The report shows the largest prison inmate growth, up 27 percent to 127,092, was in Texas, where Beck said sizeable prison construction is under way.

The bureau said the overall incarceration rate as of Dec. 31, 1994, reached 565 inmates per 100,000 U.S. residents. That counts prison inmates, mostly sentenced to more than one year, and jail inmates, mostly sentenced to less than one year. There were 483,717 adults in jails at last count in 1994.

The U.S. rate tops the latest figures from Russia of 558 per 100,000 and is eight to 10 times higher than other industrialized nations in Western Europe, said Marc Mauer, assistant director of The Sentencing Project, a private group lobbying for alternatives to imprisonment.

By June 30 of this year, the felony incarceration rate reached 403 per 100,000, the bureau said. Mauer said that would push the overall rate to about 600 per 100,000.

The last year the nation's prison population dropped was 1968, when it dipped to 187,000 from 199,000 in 1967, according to Beck, a co-author of the report. The population has climbed steadily since 1973.

Mandatory sentences for drug and violent crimes and an increased likelihood of being imprisoned once arrested have caused the increase, Beck said.

Between 1980 and 1993, drug offenders increased from 25 percent to 60 percent of all federal inmates.

During the same period in state prisons, violent criminals, most convicted of aggravated assault, accounted for 40 percent and drug criminals for nearly 31 percent of inmate growth, Beck said.

The chance of going to jail for drug offenses rose more than fivefold between 1980 and 1992. It went from 19 imprisoned out of every 1,000 people arrested in 1980 to 104 out of every 1,000 in 1992. Similar increases were seen in incarceration rates for aggravated assault, robbery and sex offenses, Beck said.

The report said the number of black inmates has grown at a faster pace than the number of white inmates. As a result, 6.8 percent of all black male adults were in prison or jail compared with less than 1 percent of white male adults.

The difference results from the high concentration of blacks among drug and aggravated assault defendants, said bureau statistician Darrell K. Gilliard, co-author of the report.

Black leaders and inmates recently have protested federal sentencing rules that set penalties five times higher for crack cocaine, used mostly by blacks, than for powder cocaine, used mostly by whites.

An effort by the U.S. Sentencing Commission to equalize the penalties was opposed by the Clinton administration and defeated in Congress recently.

Election of first black mayor jostles genteel Southern city

By JOAN KIRCHNER
Associated Press Writer

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Three days after this regal coastal city elected its first black mayor, the campaign manager warned the staff: Beware of all packages delivered to the office.

No one had threatened violence but "we can't take any chances," he said.

In a majority black city that has thrived on all-white social clubs, segregated neighborhoods and separate debutante balls for each race, residents are adjusting to the latest shattered racial barrier.

"It was long, long overdue, but changes are happening in Savannah," said W.W. Law, a black historian who led the local NAACP chapter for 26 years. "Now, as the world's eyes look to Savannah, there will be an African-American at the helm and that's as it should be."

Before black newspaper publisher Floyd Adams Jr. narrowly beat white incumbent Susan Weiner last week, Savannah already had witnessed the admission of the first black to an elite all-white yachting club, the birth of a civil rights museum financed by local tax dollars and the lifting of a longstanding federal court order to desegregate the schools, all within the last two years.

The rotund, bespectacled Adams, an alderman for 13 years, knows he owes his 256-vote victory margin to a small white crossover vote.

"They have faith in me that I will work hard and I won't cause them any harm or damage," he said.

While millions of tourists flock each year to its cobblestone riverfront and stately squares dripping with Spanish moss, Savannah's black neighborhoods suffer the same blight as many inner cities: poverty and ramshackle housing. And blacks are typically missing from top corporate boards and social clubs.

"The black community is justifiably proud. The white community is holding its breath," said architect Eric Johnson, a white Republican state senator. "If Floyd immediately reaches out and shows that he's pro-business, then there will be a big sigh of relief."

Mayor-elect Floyd Adams, center, is surrounded by supporters after winning the Savannah, Ga., mayoral election Nov. 28. In a majority city with segregated neighborhoods and separate debutante balls for each race, residents are adjusting to the latest shattered racial barrier.

Union calls off 17-month walkout

By CHRISTOPHER WILLS
Associated Press Writer

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — After a 17-month strike that ended with the union relenting and nothing gained, Caterpillar workers will be going back to work under a contract proposal they rejected in a last symbolic swipe.

"Save your dignity," one worker shouted during weekend voting. "It's about all you've got left."

The 8,700 remaining Caterpillar strikers in four states turned thumbs down on the proposal after being told by United Auto Workers leadership Sunday to go back to work no matter what the outcome.

Union officials offered no explanation for their decision to call off the strike, but it has been clear the world's largest manufacturer of heavy equipment has been able to set record profits with a combination of strikers who crossed picket lines, temporary workers and new hires.

"I think the company's in complete control," striker Jim Schmidt said. "We have to accept defeat."

Members of United Auto Workers Local 2096 emerge from Pontiac Township High School in Pontiac, Ill., after casting votes on ratification of a contract between the union and Caterpillar Inc. The UAW has not had a contract with CAT since 1991 and has been on strike since June 1994.

For its part, Caterpillar said all striking employees will be allowed to return to work, just not right away. The company said it may take days or weeks to sort out who will go where and what will happen to replacement workers.

Union members at nine plants in Illinois, Colorado, Pennsylvania and Tennessee voted Saturday and Sunday on the contract, which resembled offers made — and rejected — before the strike began. And many strikers said they consider it insulting.

The six-year contract would limit job security, create lower wage scales, limit union activity and give the company more power to schedule odd working hours without paying overtime.

Survey: New grad hiring will increase

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — College seniors take heart: the real world is looking just a little bit brighter.

A hiring survey released today by Michigan State University projects a 4.7 percent increase in the number of new college graduates who can expect to find jobs next spring, the third straight annual improvement.

But starting salaries that employers will offer will inch up only about half a percent compared to last year.

"It remains a very competitive job market out there so the graduates by no means will find it easy hunting," said Patrick Scheetz, the survey author. "It is a modest improvement."

Scheetz, director of the Collegate Employment Research Institute at the school, said the best job prospects are for engineers, computer scientists, business majors, health professionals and science majors.

Chemical engineers will draw the biggest pay — $41,183 — while journalists will be offered the lowest starting salaries — $20,154.

Scheetz said despite the projected increase, hiring still will be below the levels of 1988-89. Prospects are brightest in the nation's Southeast and North Central regions.

"There has been so much downsizing and re-engineering going on that many of the opportunities that once existed have disappeared. ... There are many jobs that have been lost in recent years and those probably will not return for many, many years," he said.

Federal agencies expecting tighter budgets are cutting staffing levels substantially while private employers are cautious about expanding too much, he said.

The survey of 527 businesses, industries and governmental agencies showed that chances of landing a job improved if the candidate had career-related experience, such as an internship.

They also want applicants who know their way around a computer keyboard, work well as part of a group, have strong organizational skills and are respectful of other cultures.

Gift to university borne of bitterness

NEW YORK (AP) — Anne Scheiber retired as a government auditor at the height of World War II, bitter about never having been promoted and never earning more than $4,000 a year.

Living frugally and investing wisely, she built her $5,000 savings into a stock portfolio valued at her death this year at $22 million. Her last act was to bequeath the fortune to Yeshiva University to help women overcome discrimination.

"Elation would be an understatement," Yeshiva's president, Dr. Norman Lamm, said Sunday. "At first I didn't believe it."

In fact, administrators at the Manhattan college had never even heard of the mysterious benefactor, who lived as a recluse until her death in January at age 101.

Scheiber's gift was borne of bitterness, her attorney said, because she felt that despite having a law degree she was held back for 23 years at the Internal Revenue Service simply because she was a woman. She retired in 1944.

"This grew on her year after year," attorney Benjamin Clark said. "She was very much embittered while employed at the IRS."

Clark, who met Scheiber in the mid-1950s, said she led a solitary, reclusive existence after retiring, living alone in her apartment on Manhattan's West Side for decades, never even changing the furniture. "She was the loneliest person. I never saw her smile," Clark said. "She was very distrustful of anybody. She didn't want anybody to know what she had, how much she had."

One of the few who did know was longtime stockbroker, Bill Fay, who said Scheiber reinvested virtually all her earnings, rarely selling stock. At her death, her portfolio included more than 100 stocks, including such blue chips as Coca-Cola, Paramount and Schering-Plough.

"She was a product of the Depression years. This helped formulate her goals and her inner-felt need for accumulating assets," said Fay, who retired several years ago.

Clark said Scheiber also had considered Brandeis University in Massachusetts, but chose Yeshiva because it had a women's college. The Anne Scheiber Scholarship and Loan Awards will go solely to aid students at Stern College, Yeshiva's women's college, or female students at the university's Albert Einstein College of Medicine.

BRIEFCoahoma JV
wins tourney

McCAMEY — The Coahoma junior varsity boys' basketball team won its division at last weekend's McCamey Invitational Basketball Tournament.

After Coahoma opened the tournament with a 59-8 pounding of Sonora, The Bulldogs followed with a 47-32 win over Reagan County. Reggie Roberts led Coahoma with 18 points, while Jason Gwyn added 15.

In the championship game, Coahoma defeated Iran 45-39. Roberts scored 17 points and Stephen Lopez added 14 for the JV Bulldogs, who improved to 5-0.

In the freshman division, Coahoma finished third.

The freshmen Bulldogs opened play in the tournament with a 41-39 win over Greenwood in which Josue Requejo led all scorers with 12 points.

Coahoma dropped a close 53-50 decision to Colorado City in the semifinals before defeating McCamey 51-38 in the third-place game. T.J. Green led Coahoma with 11 points.

Coahoma's freshman are now 5-1 for the season.

Coahoma tourney

Players selected to Coahoma's all tournament teams were:

Girls
April Coleman and Mary Cavazos of Crosbyton; Kirsy Crawford and Jini Sparkman of Colorado City; Robin Wise, Molly Smith and Heather Anderson of Big Spring; and Tera Sterling, Danna Coleman, and Audra Bingham of Coahoma.

The boys' all tournament team consisted of: Clay McSpadden of Colorado City; Dean Beasley of Hawley; Brandon Hunnicutt of Greenwood; Curtis Erickson of Tahoka; Brad Taff, Brent Fisher, and Rhett Buntin of Merkel; and Brandon Shifflett, Brian Ruiz, and Josh Colom of Coahoma.

YMCA offering swim classes

The Big Spring YMCA will have evening adult and youth swim lessons Nov. 27-Dec. 22.

The classes are scheduled for Monday and Wednesday, or Tuesday and Thursday. Times are 6:30 p.m., 6:30-7 p.m. and 7-7:30 p.m.

Also, the YMCA is offering Swim and Gym for preschool and homeschool children ages 6-10.

A half-hour of gymnastics followed by a half-hour of swimming lessons will be held on Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday.

These classes begin Nov. 27.

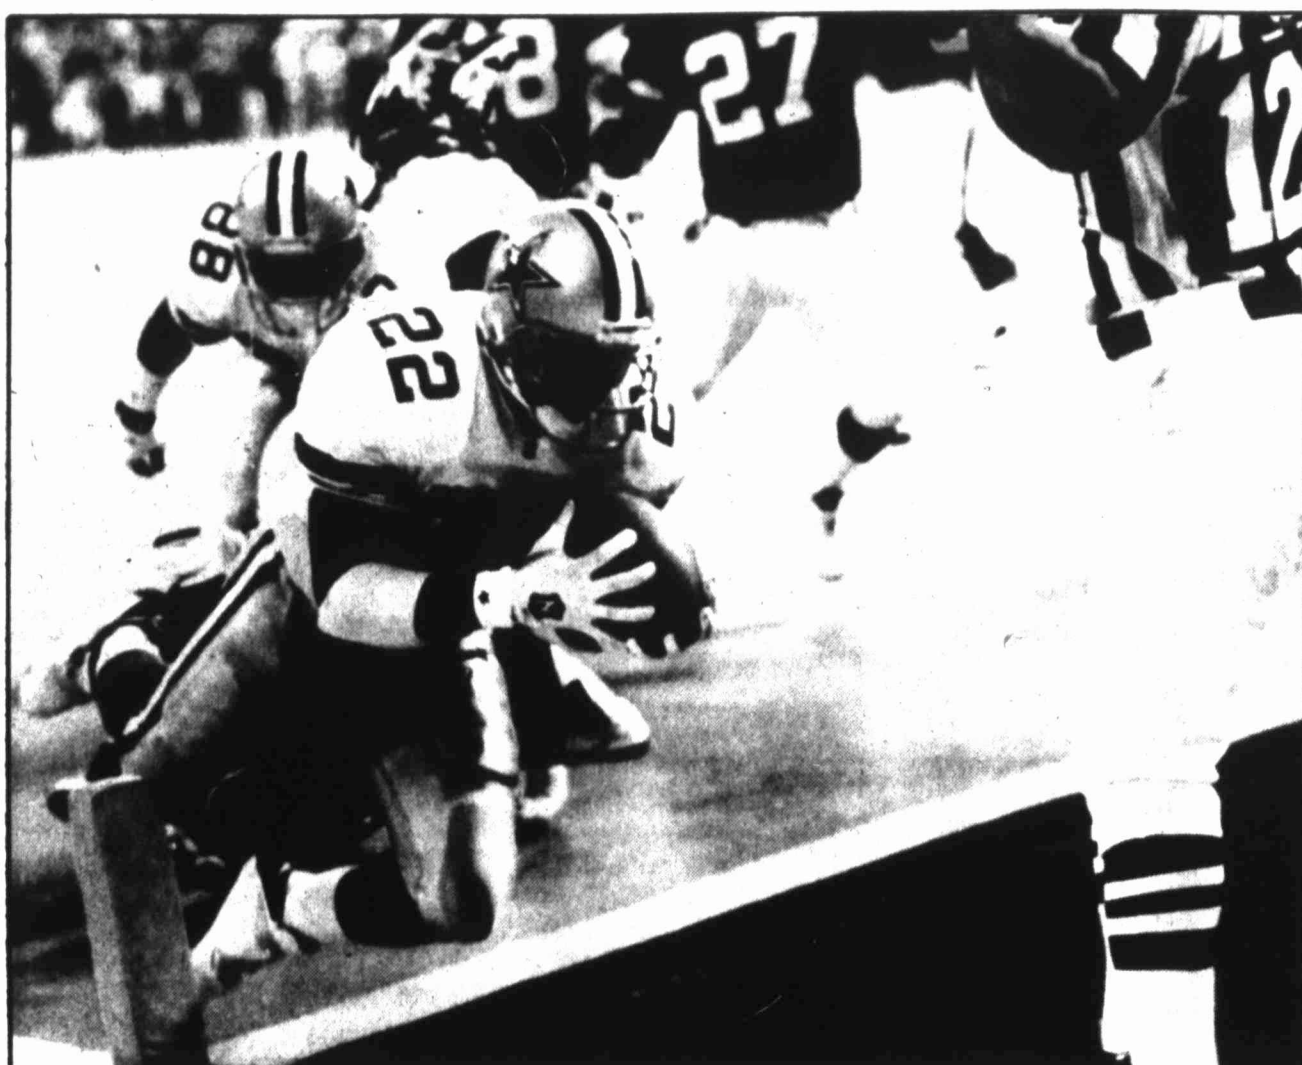

Also, the YMCA offers the use of its indoor swimming pool, gymnasium, racquetball courts and recreation room for private parties.

For more information on any of these services, contact the YMCA at 267-8234.

Coahoma seeks basketball opponents

COAHOMA — Coahoma High School needs opponents on the following dates: Tuesday, Dec. 19 (varsity boys and girls); and Wednesday, Dec. 27 (varsity boys and girls).

For more information, contact boys' basketball coach Kim Nichols at 394-4535 or 394-4624.

Streaking Steelers smash Oilers, 21-7

PITTSBURGH (AP) — When they had a 3-4 record, the Pittsburgh Steelers kept hearing they weren't the team of last season.

Apparently not. They could be even better.

Better? That possibility didn't seem fathomable before the Steelers began the six-game winning streak they extended Sunday by packing the Houston Oilers off to Nashville with a 21-7 loss.

Quietly, without the national hoopla that enveloped them last season, the Steelers (9-4) have won their third AFC Central title in four years. They still draw only cursory mention when Super Bowl contenders are considered, yet neither the 49ers nor the Cowboys can match their ongoing winning streak.

"We told ourselves when we were 3-4 that it was a new season, and that we were starting all over again," linebacker Levon Kirkland said. "We're 6-0, and, as far as I'm concerned our record isn't 9-4 but 6-0."

With one more victory, the Steelers will match their seven-game winning streak of last season — with one difference. Last season, they kept hearing they couldn't lose; this season, they kept hearing they couldn't win.

"I think we might be better," defensive end Ray Seals said. "I think we're more focused, we're more concerned with playing one game at a time. We're enjoying it, and everybody is real competitive, but nobody is getting the big head."

Maybe it is because the players earning the headlines change as regularly as the opponent. One week, Bam Morris is buried on the bench, unable to supplant Erric Pegram in the lineup; the next week, he is rushing for 102 yards and a touchdown, as he did Sunday. Last year, Yancey Thigpen wasn't a full-time starter; this season, he's the Steelers' first 1,000-yard receiver since Louis Lipps in 1985.

It is this versatility that Houston receiver Chris Sanders (81) catches a pass from quarterback Chris Chandler and scores a second-quarter touchdown against the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday in Pittsburgh.

Allen's record-setting day helps Kansas City defeat Oakland

At Oakland, Calif., Marcus Allen had 124 yards and a TD as Kansas City beat Oakland 29-23 for the fifth straight time and 12th in the last 13 meetings. Allen became the NFL's first player to run for more than 10,000 yards and catch 5,000 yards in passes. The Raiders dropped their third in a row.

49ers 27, Bills 17

At San Francisco, Lee Woodall turned the game around in the third quarter when he scooped up a fumble and ran 96 yards for a TD as

San Francisco (9-4) won its fourth in a row.

With the score tied 10-10 and the Bills (8-5) with a first-and-goal at the 1, linebacker Gary Plummer forced a fumble by Darick Holmes with a devastating hit and Woodall did the rest.

San Francisco's top-ranked defense forced five Buffalo turnovers, with Woodall leading the way with 10 tackles, a sack and two fumble recoveries.

Dolphins 21, Falcons 20

At Miami, Dan Marino broke

another record — most 300-yard games — but the Dolphins won this time on his 21-yard TD pass to Irving Fryar with 11 seconds left. In ending a three-game losing streak, the Dolphins needed two TDs in the last eight minutes. Marino now has 52 300-plus yard games. Atlanta (7-6) fell two games behind the 49ers in the NFC West.

"This past week has been the toughest I've spent in my coaching career," said Miami coach Don Shula, who spent the week listening to why he should quit. "Everything has been so negative, it's been hard to stay focused."

Packers 24, Bengals 10

At Green Bay, Wis., Brett Favre was 31 of 43 for 339 yards and three TDs — his fifth 300-yard game this year and 10th of his career. The Packers (9-4) are alone atop the NFC Central in December for the first time since 1972.

Seahawks 26, Eagles 14

At Seattle, Todd Peterson had a career-best four field goals as Philadelphia lost for the second time in nine games. Seattle (6-7) won its fourth game in the last five. Rick Mirer was 17 of 130 for 169 yards and ran for 40 yards, including a 12-yard score.

Broncos 31, Jaguars 23

John Elway was 22 of 34 for 286 yards and four TDs as Denver overcame several special teams' mistakes. Jacksonville (3-10) got a 94-yard kickoff return for a TD when Desmond Howard ran 9 yards and then threw across the field to Jimmy Smith, who went the remaining 85 yards. Denver (7-6) is tied with Indianapolis and Miami for the final two AFC wild-card slots.

Chargers 31, Browns 13

At San Diego, rookie Aaron Hayden, replacing the injured Natrone Means, rushed 32 times for 127 yards and his first two NFL TDs as San Diego (6-7) won for the second time in six days.

Panthers 13, Colts 10

At Clemson, S.C., Carolina (6-7) won its fourth straight at home, using a face mask penal-

Stars outscore Avalanche

DENVER (AP) — It wasn't the kind of game Dallas Stars coach Bob Gainey wants to see on a regular basis. The defensive-minded coach would prefer a tight-checking affair.

"I'll take the win anyway, and it was a good win for us even though it was a total abortion to the way we are used to playing," Gainey said after the Stars' 7-6 victory over Colorado on Sunday night.

"The game came apart for both teams with no consistency on the ice, a lot of scoring opportunities and a race to score the last goal."

Dallas extended its unbeaten streak to five games, while Colorado lost for the third straight time and fell to 8-1-2 at McNichols Arena.

Fortunately for the Stars, Kevin Hatcher provided the final goal with 3:52 to play to give Dallas only its second victory in nine road games.

Jordan tops Forbes list

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Jordan was the top earner among athletes for the fourth consecutive year, increasing his annual income to $43.9 million from $30.01 million.

Jordan earned $3.9 million in salary and $40 million in outside income, Forbes estimated in its Dec. 19 issue. The magazine said he earned $36 million in 1993.

Jordan has made $170 million since 1990, the magazine said, and could become the first athlete ever listed in the Forbes 400 of wealthiest people.

Mike Tyson, out of prison and back in boxing, was second on the list at $40 million — all from winnings. He made $25 million from his one fight and $15 million in signing bonuses.

might make these 1995 Steelers superior to their 1994 version, even if they can match that team's record only by sweeping their final three games.

Defensively, the Steelers haven't changed that much, even if they moved Pro Bowl safety Carnell Lake to cornerback to replace the injured Rod Woodson. The NFL's No. 2-ranked defense sacked Chris Chandler and Will Furrer six times, shut out the Oilers (5-8) in the second half and forced as many Rich Camarillo punts (11) as they allowed first downs.

"We've been dominating the last few weeks," Seals said. "It's a new era around here."

Definitely. The 1994 Steelers ran to win, and they didn't win if they didn't run; this Steelers offense is virtually unrecognizable. They use three receivers, even on third-and-1, and Neil O'Donnell's passing clearly has supplanted the run as the weapon of choice.

Every week, they show off yet another new look or scheme; if it isn't Kordell Stewart lining up at receiver on one play and quarterback on the next, it's wide receiver Andre Hastings rushing for a first down.

At times, opposing defenses often don't know whether they're coming or going, even if the Steelers definitely know where they're going — to the playoffs for the fourth consecutive season.

"To get to the big show — and that's where we want to go — you've got to be able to run and pass," Morris said. "Teams don't know now if we're going to run it or pass it, and there's some confusion."

There certainly was on the game's decisive drive late in the second quarter. O'Donnell, otherwise inconsistent in his worst game in two months, exploited breakdowns in the Oilers' secondary to hit Ernie Mills for 13 yards and 34 yards, setting up his 7-yard touchdown pass to rookie Mark Bruener and a 14-7 lead.

The Oilers had five defensive backs on the field for Mills' catches, but starters Darryll Lewis and Blaine Bishop, who had left with injuries, weren't among them.

"We had seven healthy defensive backs coming into the game, and we lost two," Oilers coach Jeff Fisher said. "We had some guys playing positions they don't normally play, and we had a breakdown, some miscommunication."

And, one half later, the Oilers had their 20th loss in their 27th and possibly last visit to Three Rivers Stadium. Next year, the Oilers will acquire a new home (Tennessee) and a new nickname (still undecided).

"It's the same old cliches for the last eight years I've been here: Next year," cornerback Cris Dishman said.

Wait 'til next year is the identical mantra the Steelers began reciting after the AFC championship game. That talk seemed as empty as the Astrodome is for Oilers' home games when the Steelers were 3-4, but this team insists it is more than talk.

Don't look for a Super Bowl rap video from this bunch.

"We're not ready to celebrate," Lake said. "We've been here before, and guys are expecting better. If this was our first division championship, maybe it would be different. But we know we have a long way to go before we get to where we want to go: the Super Bowl."

Dallas

state who thought we would win they were all in our locker room and I'm not sure about all of them," Turner said. "This win reinforced our program."

The Redskins beat Dallas 27-23 in the fifth game of the season when Allen scored twice and gained 123 yards.

"We get up to play Dallas," Allen said. "I guess it's because they always overlook us."

Shuler hit Henry Ellard with a 10-yard TD pass and Allen scored on two short runs.

Dallas got to the Redskins 12 with 5:37 to play but Smith fumbled. Smith picked up the ball at the goal but officials ruled he was out-of-bounds and the Redskins were given a touchback.

"I know I had the ball in my hands when I went across the line, but I didn't get the call," Smith said. "There was nothing positive that came out of this day."

Aikman hit Michael Irvin with a 3-yard touchdown pass with 1:48 left but an onside kick failed and Washington ran out the clock.

Allen got 98 yards on 25 carries this time and Shuler completed 11 of 24 passes for 154 yards.

"We didn't deserve to win right from the beginning," Dallas coach Barry Switzer said. "They ran the ball on us through huge caverns. Why wouldn't we be focused? This was a very important game. Now we have to win the next three games. Maybe winning three out of three will be more of a challenge."

Former Cowboy, safety James Washington, said, "We were more determined than they were. I don't understand that."

Smith rushed 21 times for 91 yards and Irvin caught 10 passes for 101 yards. Irvin set an NFL record with his 11th 100-yard receiving game. Smith scored his 22nd touchdown on a 7-yard run.

Aikman tried a career-high 48 passes and completed 29 for 285 yards.

"People didn't give us a chance coming into this game," Ellard said. "We silenced some critics. We just seem to play well against Dallas. Maybe that's because they run the same offense as we do."

Dallas cornerback Deion Sanders was every more blunt: "This team had no business beating us. I'm upset."

sprained knee.

Vikings 31, Buccaneers 17
At Minneapolis, Warren Moon and Cris Carter hooked up for two TDs, Amp Lee ran 66 yards for another score and the Vikings (7-6) had eight sacks. Trent Dilfer, sacked six times, was ejected for fighting with tackle John Randle in the third quarter. The Bucs (6-7) lost for the fifth time in their last six games.

Rams 23, Jets 20
At East Rutherford, N.J., Isaac Bruce finally broke free and caught two second-half TD passes from backup Mark Rypien, who replaced the injured Chris Miller (mild concussion). The Jets are 3-10, the Rams 7-6.

Saints 31, Patriots 17
At Foxboro, Mass., Jim Everett had TD passes of 50 yards to Quinn Early and 69 yards to Lorenzo Neal and Mario Bates chipped in with a 66-yard TD run for New Orleans (6-7). The Patriots are 5-8.

Kansas inherits No. 1 spot

There are new faces at the top and bottom of the college basketball poll.

Kansas is a No. 1 team for the fourth season in a row. Santa Clara is in the rankings for the first time in 23 years.

The Jayhawks moved up one spot to the top of the Top 25 today, replacing Kentucky, which was beaten by Massachusetts. Kansas has to hope its stay lasts longer than those of the last three seasons, which totaled four weeks.

The last two seasons, Kansas lost the night it reached No. 1. The Jayhawks don't play this week until Thursday against Rice.

"It depends on how you look at it. Some people around here would call being No. 1 a curse," sophomore forward Raef LaFrentz said. "We got it in the morning and we lost it in the afternoon. But it's a compliment. It's flattering."

The nationwide media panel really flattered the Jayhawks (3-0), with 55 first-place votes and 1,613 points, well ahead of runner-up Villanova (5-0), which had four No. 1 votes and 1,519 points.

Massachusetts (3-0), which beat Kentucky and Maryland this week, jumped from fifth to third. The Minutemen, who have beaten a top-ranked team each of the last three seasons, had four first-place votes and 1,476 points, 88 more than Arizona (5-0), which had two first-place votes and remained fourth.

Kentucky (2-1) dropped to fifth and the rest of the Top Ten remained the same: Georgetown, Memphis, Mississippi State, Connecticut and Wake Forest.

Missouri led the Second Ten and was followed by Iowa, North Carolina, Utah, Virginia and Georgia Tech.

Pavin pockets cool million, bests Price by five strokes

SUN CITY, South Africa (AP) — American Corey Pavin felt like, well, a million dollars after winning golf's richest top prize by five strokes over Zimbabwe's Nick Price.

The U.S. Open winner shot to the top of the money table with his victory Sunday at the Million Dollar Challenge, the $1 million paycheck bringing his earnings this year to $2,773,000.

"I feel — can I say it — I feel like a million dollars ... before taxes," Pavin joked afterwards.

Starting even with Price after a third-day 210, Pavin carded six birdies for a 6-under par 66 and a four-day, 12-under 276 in a textbook performance of consistent, flawless golf.

The disappointed Price, who won in 1993 and appeared headed for a second victory until Pavin overcame a three-stroke deficit Saturday, finished Sunday at 281 to reap a relatively paltry $250,000.

Germany's two-time winner, Bernhard Langer, closed at 283 for a prize of $200,000. Sam Torrance of Scotland ended a stroke back to bring him $175,000.

Love, Daniel
win Penney Classic
TARPON SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — Davis Love III and Beth Daniel continued their mastery of the JCPenney Mixed Team Classic on Sunday, and Robert Gamez and Helen Alfredsson continued their frustration.

While Love and Daniel became the first two-time winner in the event's history — a feat that goes well with a second and two thirds in their other appearances — Gamez-Alfredsson were finishing second for the third straight year.

Love-Daniel shot a final-round 7-under-par 63 in the modified alternate stroke format to finish with a tournament-record 27-under-par 257.

Gamez-Alfredsson, who lost a four-hole playoff to Brad Bryant and Marta Figueras-Dotti last year and shared a five-way tie for second two years ago, shot a final-round 64 to finish two strokes back at 25 under.

Jasper Parnevik-Annika Sorenstam shot 63 to finish third at 24 under.

Sampras propels U.S. team past Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Pete Sampras sent a message to the tennis world in winning the Davis Cup final for the United States almost all by himself: He's no pigeon on clay.

The serve-and-volley king mixed power with patience in mastering the red clay installed in Olympic Stadium to thwart him, capturing three weekend matches in the Americans' 3-2 victory over Russia.

The best came last: a brilliant 6-2, 6-4, 7-6 (7-4) victory over top Russian Yevgeny Kafelnikov to give the United States an insurmountable 3-1 lead Sunday to clinch the cup. It capped a year for Sampras that included titles at Wimbledon and the U.S. Open and nearly $5 million in prize money.

"Certainly to come here to Moscow to play on my worst surface against tough opponents and a very tough crowd ... Today was probably the best clay-court match I've played," the world's top-ranked player said.

The weekend began with drama — Sampras carried off with painful leg cramps after surviving a five-set duel with Andrei Chesnokov — and ended as much with relief as elation when the Americans won their first Davis Cup title since 1992.

There were hugs but no wild celebrations after Sampras smoked an ace at match point. He admitted that while it was "a great win for the team," the thrill of winning America's 31st cup didn't compare with a Grand Slam title.

But emotions welled up later when both Sampras and U.S. captain Tom Gullikson reflected on the victory's significance at a time when Tim Gullikson, Sampras' coach and Tom's brother, is stricken with brain cancer.

"I'm extremely happy for the team and for Tom. I thought about Tom, and about Tim, during the match," Sampras said, his voice catching.

Tears filled Gullikson's eyes when he discussed his brother, and he was unable to speak for several seconds.

HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR DEC. 5
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Follow your instincts involving communications — you'll feel great if you follow through and make what you need happen. Listen to a higher-up or a boss who has the best of intentions. Communications and energy mix to make you a human dynamo. Tonight: You call the shots.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Expenses can be moderated. You have strong choices to make about your financial future. You are right on target about what you want. Evaluate, consider and get more input. Make decisions that are solid for your well-being. Tonight: Be a money wizard.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are personality plus. Go for what you want. Know what you want to do. A positive, upbeat attitude goes far. Trust your judgment. A big smile goes a long way as you deal with someone. Let your charisma do the hard work for you. Tonight: Be out and about.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep secrets today, and don't feel that you have to share everything. Keep matters to yourself until you are more sure of yourself. Be more in touch with your inner needs before you make a decision. You are on top of a problem, if you slow down and think. Tonight: Vanish fast.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are in a responsible position. Handle what is asked of you. You see events clearly and provide necessary leadership at work. Be willing to go the whole way as you handle a personal matter. Honor your ideas and integrity, and you'll be a winner. Tonight: Have a party.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are out of sorts because of what you hear. Overcome a liability, and you'll feel better. Follow your instincts as you deal with new information. You are more clear than you know. Accept responsibilities, and you'll be in the limelight. Tonight: Gaze at the night sky.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Let your imagination and spirit soar. You have strong, fundamental roots and see events in a new way. Open up and consider what is needed. You come up with unusual solutions for these changing times. Tonight: Let your mind lead you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Closeness is the outcome of today's events. Make the most of innovative thinking. Break free of present restrictions, especially financial. You handle a change well. Awareness and ideas merge, making you quite popular. Tonight: Enjoy dinner for two.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) You triumph despite an immediate liability because of your ability to think fast about money matters. Follow your instincts when opening a new door. Your enthusiasm draws others in an unusual way. Let your smile break the ice. Tonight: Accept an invitation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Accomplishment marks your day. Go with an unusual idea. Follow your instincts with a child. You view matters in a more positive manner. Evaluate long-term ramifications. No one else can get a job done the way you can. Tonight: Work late.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Foundations are important for you to make the correct decision about a loved one, a flirtation and a change involving a child. Give yourself permission to go with your wilder side. Question and develop ideas on a new level. Your charisma is high. Tonight: The wilder, the better.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Reach out to others, and make what you need happen. Evaluations bring a new light to a difficult story. Pull back before you make a decision. Your evaluations are right on. Understanding opens a new door. Tonight: Take a night off.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY FOR TUESDAY, DEC. 5, 1995: This is a very exciting year for you. Some of what started to happen with your social life during the past year is now opening you up to changes. Evaluations are important as you deal with others. You are more anchored than you know, despite your high level of popularity. Your self-confidence increases by leaps and bounds. Finances are enhanced this year, and you gain materially and emotionally. If you are single, you'll have romance, but the question is, Are you ready to commit? If attached, the two of you are building a stronger bond. GEMINI makes you giggle.

THE STARS SHOW THE KIND OF DAY YOU'LL HAVE: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult.

Black scientists' creations enrich us

DEAR ABBY: The column you published with the article by the late Sam Levenson about the contributions to medical science made by Jewish people set me to thinking. Perhaps it's time to remind your readers about the predicament this world would be in without the contributions made by African-American scientists.

It is, indeed, a free world. You don't have to like black Americans, but if you don't, I suggest you boycott blood plasma because the ways of preserving it were discovered by Dr. Charles Drew. You should also boycott the portable X-ray machine, truck refrigerator systems and the self-starting gasoline motor, invented by Frederick Jones; the control unit used in the pacemaker, chemical air filters, and many electronic devices used in radios, TVs and other electronic equipment, invented by Otis Boykin; the electric incubator, the automatic air brake and the telephone receiver, invented by Granville T. Woods; linoleum, fuel briquettes, peanut butter, synthetic rubber and synthetic marble, to name only a few of the discoveries and inventions of George Washington Carver; and practical incandescent lightbulb filaments, invented by Lewis Latimer. These are only the beginning.

Yes, go on and boycott your air-conditioned cars, your long-distance and cellular phone calls, the subway and trolley cars. Refuse the gift of life by declining to accept blood transfusions — and don't dare wear a gas mask because it, too, was invented by an African-American!

Remain in the Dark Ages. Bury your head under that sheet. And — good riddance, — ANNA WELDON, VAN NUYS, CALIF.

DEAR ANNA: Thanks for a thought-provoking letter. Many can learn from it. I did.

To order "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

Saturday's Cryptoquip: WHY DON'T LEOPARDS LIKE TO PLAY HIDE-AND-SEEK? THEY'RE ALWAYS SPOTTED.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: I equals F

CRYPTOQUIP BOOK 2! Send $4.50 (check/m.o.) to CryptoClassics Book 2, PO Box 6411, Riverton NJ 08077.

The Cryptoquip is a substitution cipher in which one letter stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words and words using an apostrophe give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is by trial and error.
