City, McLean Sites Will Remain Open

REYNOSA, Mexico (UPI) — Another American Industry — lured by a Mexican wage rate of 42 cents (U.S.) an hour — has gone south of the border, and its operation, slated to get under way in June will mark the first "twin-plant" arrangement under Mexico's border industrialization program for the neighboring cities of McAllen, Tex., and Reynosa, Mexico.

The company, Marie Foundations, of Pampa, already has begun construction of a 17,000 square foot plant on the Matamoros highway, five miles from downtown Reynosa, and officials of the firm said today a companion plant will be constructed in McAllen just as soon as production is established south of the Rio Grande.

Establishment of the new Marie Foundations plant in Mexico will not in any way affect the Pampa installation or the one at McLean, according to Dale Greenhouse, local manager.

Tom Greenwood, plant manager, is currently working at Reynosa where the new plant is being set up.

"Our business in Pampa is very good indeed and we expect to continue," Greenhouse said this morning. "But we need more applications for work."

Greenhouse, asked about the local wage rate, said that women here work on a piece rate system, thus "setting their own wage rate."

He repeated that "business is good but we need more help."

Marie Foundations, which manufactures women's foundation garments, will operate in Mexico under the name of "Rey-Mex Bra, S. A." and the current production forecasts calls for 25,000 dozen brassieres before the Christmas season.

Under terms or the border industrialization agreement between the U. S. and Mexico, brassieres manufactured by the firm will be cut in McAllen, assembled in Reynosa, then shipped back into the United States for exclusive distribution through a major American retail chain store.

The Reynosa operation will employ 125 women initially, and company officials said they hope to expand to 300 after the first four months of operation. The plant itself will be enlarged later, either by 24,000 or 30,000 square feet.

Frank Birkhead, staff manager of the McAllen Industrial Board, said negotiations for the McAllen - Reynosa plant have been underway for more than a year, and that company officials and engineers made about 15 trips to the area before the decision was made.

Resistance to the border program has been voiced by American labor unions which charge the system promotes what they call "runaway industries," but officials of Marie Foundations said had they not decided to build in Mexico, they would have gone to other foreign sites where wages are even lower.

City Department Heads Urged To Hold Down Costs

By TEX DeWEESE

City department heads were called into a meeting at City Hall yesterday and asked to take a second look at their budget requests for fiscal 1969-70.

City Manager Charles Hill said the meeting was set up to give department heads a better picture of Pampa's overall financial condition and ask them to trim and hold down budget requests wherever possible.

Heads of various departments currently are working on those budget estimates.

"We are trying to find ways to reduce our old costs enough to keep new increased costs from piling up," Hill said.

The city manager added that department heads were requested to cut corners and reduce expenses wherever possible.

"However," he added, "I don't see how we can possibly cut enough to offset our first payment of $167,000 due next Sept. 1 as Pampa's share of the Canadian River Dam costs. This would include operation, maintenance and bond retirement.

Pampa will make these annual payments for the next 50 years.

The city manager said the payments will increase about $5,000 a year for the first 20 years until they reach $250,000 annually and then level off for the next 30 years.

Pampa also has taken the preliminary steps, it was learned for the first time today, to seek a federal grant matching the $750,00 voted in bond money for construction of the Canadian River water filtration plant.

City Manager Hill said a request for the grant had been made about a year and a half

Rules Tighten On Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Bolstered by a tough Federal Trade Commission (FTC) proposed regulation, Senate smoking foes raised the possibility today cigorette advertising may vanish from the American scene by year's end.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the Senate commerce subcommittee that must consider any cigarette legislation, promised to block any bill helpful to the cigarette industry.

Other Senate sources said antismoking sentiment was so strong the tobacco industry has not even started to lobby for legislation to extend the present ban on government restrictions of cigarette advertising.

The FTC proposed Tuesday every cigarette advertisement and package be required to include this warning:

"Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer, coronary heart disease, chronic bronchitis, pulmonary emphysema and other diseases."

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) notified Congress earlier this year it plans to ban all cigarette advertising from radio and television.

Under a four-year law passed in 1965, cigarette packs must carry the words, "Caution: Cigarette Smoking May Be Hazardous to your Health." But the law prohibited further governmental regulation of advertising. Thus, the FTC and FCC would be free after June 20—when the law expires—to enact far harsher restrictions on advertising. The warning requirement, however, would remain in effect until specifically changed by Congress.

Tobacco industry leaders testified before the House Commerce Committee last month they would stop advertising rather than carry a health warning—even one not nearly as harsh as the FTC proposal.

Unless Congress votes to stop them, the FTC and FCC will be free to implement their rules July 1.

Talks With Thieu By Nixon States U. S. Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon will travel 6,000 miles to assure President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam the new flexibility in the U.S. position on ending the war is not a prelude to a disguised defeat.

Administration officials described as unfounded the speculation Thieu was surprised by the length to which Nixon went in describing the new American flexibility and that as a result a deep division between Wasnington and Saigon had developed.

Diplomatic sources indicated Thieu was somewhat concerned over passages in the May 14 White House address that hint at the creation of a coalition government in Saigon, neutrality for South Vietnam, and possible reunification with Communist North Vietnam.

By accepting a coalition goverment Thieu perhaps could be accepting the eventual downfall of his own government.

There was sure to be discussion on widespread reports in the United States that some U.S. troops may be brought home soon.

Paratroopers Take Full Command of Bloody Hill

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. paratroopers today snuffed out the last pocket of North Vietnamese resistance atop Hamburger Hill, killing 12 guerrilla snipers left behind from the Communist regiment that surrendered the peak Tuesday.

The snipers apparently were assigned to keep the troopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division occupied as the Communist survivors of the 10-day battle headed for Laos where they would be immune from ground pursuit.

The paratroopers captured the peak on their 11th assault Tuesday. The entire battle cost 55 Americans dead and about 300 wounded. Communist losses, according to spokesmen, were 400 dead. As the paratroopers clashed with the snipers, U.S headquarters in Saigon reported fighting Tuesday on two familiar fronts—along the border Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) and on Saigon's outer defense ring. It said 63 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed against American losses of three dead and 15 wounded.

The Communists shelled 21 towns and Allied camps overnight, sending a 12-round rocket salvo into the town of Tam Ky on the northern coast in the costliest attack. Saigon government spokesmen listed four civilians dead and eight wounded.

Paratroopers searching the abandoned Communist bunkers atop the hill found three-inch communications wires leading through it from Taos Laos to Communist positions in South Vietnam, indicating it was indeed a major North Vietnamese headquarters.

The fights along the DMZ and near Saigon were the only other actions reported.

North Vietnamese troops launched two ground probes against U.S. Marine camps within a mile of the DMZ before dawn Tuesday but withdrew under air and artillery attack, leaving behind 21 dead.

Military spokesmen said three Marines died and 13 were wounded in the fighting, considered a "probing" action by the Communists to feel out the American defenses.

Sirhan Goes Before Judge

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sirhan B. Sirhan, who assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy nearly one year ago, was to appear in court today to be formally sentenced.

Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker was expected to follow a jury recommendation Sirhan be condemned to die in the gas chamber for killing Kennedy.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy asked the court today to spare the life of Sirhan B. Sirhan for the murder of his brother, Robert F. Kennedy.

Almost a full year was consumed by the trial and defense maneuvering which failed to achieve its goal of saving the 25-year-old Palestinian Arab from death.

It was on June 5, 1968—a Wednesday—that Kennedy was gunned down in a crowded pantry of the Ambassador Hotel while his supporters still cheered his victory speech in the California Democratic presidential primary.

The last stage of Sirhan's trial began at 11 a.m. CST today in the same fortress courtroom where he was convicted of first-degree murder April 17. A jury recommended the death sentence April 23.

Firemen's Efforts Slowed By Crowd After Explosion

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UPI) An explosion and fire at a chemical storage warehouse which made it appear "the whole city was on fire" burned nearly five hours Tuesday before firemen controlled it.

No injuries were reported in the blaze at Oscar Perez Forwarding Co., but a fireman said fumes and smoke from the burning chemicals and insecticides hampered fire fighters.

Brownsville patrolman Albert Medrano said hundreds of spectators also prevented firemen from getting to the fire and they "got watered down because they were in the way."

Medrano said the warehouse explosion occurred around 7:30 p.m. and the resulting fire lit the Brownsville skyline almost until midnight. The patrolman said flames leaped 60-70 feet into the air and balls of black smoke pouring from the flames "could be seen for miles."

"It looked like the whole city was on fire," Medrano said.

Teacher Pay Raise, Budget Near Finish

AUSTIN (UPI)— The Texas Legislature today moved closer to wrapping up two of its biggest issues of the session—a teacher pay raise and a state budget for fiscal 1970.

The House unanimously approved and advanced to the Senate Tuesday a bill guaranteeing teachers an annual pay hike for the next ten years, but rejected recommendations of former Gov. John Connally's committee on public education to revise the system for distributing state aid to school districts.

Legislative budget writers, meanwhile, say they are putting the finishing touches on a one-year spending bill for fiscal 1970 that will avoid the ned for new taxes this year.

Due Soon

The proposal, backed by Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes and Speaker Gus F. Mutscher but opposed by Gov. Preston Smith, is due out of conference committee either today or Thursday.

The House wrestled with the teacher pay hike bill by Rep. George Hinson, D-Mineola, for about four hours Tuesday before approving it 147-0.

The measure would give teachers an average pay boost of $1,800 over the next two years, and 5 per cent yearly increases for the next 10 years.

Hinson told House members it would avoid the necessity of teachers asking for further salary boosts for "at least eight or 10 years."

House Rejects Change

Average salary boost in the bill for the 1969-70 school year is $775, but the wages for teachers would jump another $1,050 In 1970-71 when teachers go on a 10-month contract.

Th House firmly rejected attempts to change the formula for distributing state aid. Reps. Joe Shannon Jr., D-Fort Worth, and DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, tried to amend the bill to require that locale education costs be calculated on the basis of full market value of property in the district.

But rural representatives, whose districts now benefit most from the "economic index" formula, soundly turned back those amendments.

Not Obligated

Reps. James Nugent, D-Kerrville, and A. C. Atwood, D-Edinburg, also made efforts to knock off provisions guaranteeing teachers further raises past 1972.

They contended the legislature should not obligate future sessions to pay boosts, but Hinson turned back those efforts.

"Extended debate" by Sen. William T. Moore, D-Bryan, Tuesday apparently delayed Senate action on a bill creating an upper level university in Corpus Christi until at least Friday.

Moore said lawmakers are "fixing to wreck the higher education structure of this state" by creating new colleges.

TURNS THE TABLES

Onassis Rival Wins Away $500 Million Prize

ATHENS (UPI)—Over the years, shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis has chalked up some notable financial and social victories over his archrival and former brother-in-law, Stavros Niarchos.

Niarchos turned the tables Tuesday.

Unless Onassis comes up with a surprise, it looks like Niarchos will score the biggest victory of his life over the an they call the Golden Greek

The prize is worth 0 million and consists of a il refinery, aluminum co x and other industrial and t t facilities.

It seemed six months ago nothing could prevent Onassis from winning the approval of the military regime to build and operate the scheme, described as the largest in Greek history.

Reaped Publicity

The 62-year-old ship owner had just reaped worldwide publicity and the goodwill of the Greek regime by marrying the former Mrs. John F. Kennedy on his private island of Skorpios.

His bid of $400 million was accepted by the government, which pronounced the bidding closed.

A tentavive contract was signed in Athens in March. Onassis played host at a news conference punctuated by the sound of popping champagne corks.

Then Niarchos broke his months of silence—with a bid topping Onassis' by $100 million. Still, the government refused to reconsider.

Niarchos had a couple of aces up his sleeve. He said he would give the dollars-hungry regime a low-interest, long-term $150 million loan.

More important, he posted $20 million in a Swiss bank as a deposit to show he meant business. Onassis never put up any cash.

Still the government refused to reconsider.

Niarchos then said he would undercut Onassis' transport costs on crude oil to be shipped for use in the proposed new, seven million-ton capacity refinery. He challenged the government to call for more bids, using his offer as a minimum.

The government asked Onassis to raise his bid to meet Niarchos. Government sources said Onassis did nothing.

Then Coordination Minister Nickolas Makerezos summoned newsmen.

"Having the interest of the country in mind," he said, "the government has no other course but to invite again those interested to make new and better proposals."

New bids would be accepted until July 5, he said, and Niarchos' bid is the starting point. Onassis made no comment.

A spokesman for Niarchos hailed the government decision and said Niarchos was preparing to make a bid even better." He did not elaborate. There were indications Niarchos would win by default.

Informed sources said Onassis did not plan to raise his bid.

It would be the first time in more than 20 years of intense, often acrimonious, battle that Onassis or Niarchos has beaten the other without a fight to the bitter end.

Nixon Advisors Warn Against Inflation Boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's top economic advisers told Congress today that if it refuses to keep the income tax surcharge in efec, chances of increased inflation will be significantly boosted.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, Budget Director Robert P. Mayo and Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee.

They appealed with renewed urgency for Nixon's request to extend the income tax surcharge for a year beyond its 30 expiration and to eliminate a major tax benefit for business.

Kennedy stressed that the income tax surcharge—which Nixon proposes to run a full 10 per cent for all this calendar year and cut to 5 per cent in 1970—could not be reduced without eliminating the 7 per cent investment tax credit next year.

"This subsidy to business investment ranks below other pressing national needs," Kennedy said.

Disssing the proposal for a cutback in the surtax to 5 per cent on Jan. 1, Kennedy said: "Such a reduction in the surtax, bringing some measure of relief to all income taxpayers, would be possible only because of the proposed elimination of the 7 per cent investment tax credit.

"The revenue lost from the reduction of the surcharge would almost exactly offset the revenue gained from repeal of the credit."

He also argued in favor of administration proposals to continue for another year the 7 per cent excise tax on automobiles and the 10 per cent tax on telephone calls. Both taxes were slated to fall to 5 per cent next Jan. 1.

McCracken warned the congressmen that failure to extend the surcharge would "significantly boost" chances that inflation will continue to grow in the months ahead.

Today To Be Busy Day for American Astronauts in Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Flying in an airplane at 45,000 feet, you can pick out more detail of earth than scientists studying the moon with advanced equipment have been able to detect.

Today three American astronauts begin a series of maneuvers to put them into moon orbit and send two of them almost that close to the satellite's surface.

Three of their fellow astronauts in December, orbiting 69 miles above the moon, found it a barren place, much different to what Apollo 8 commander Frank Borman called lovingly "the good earth."

But now astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young have been assigned the task of flying a close range scouting mission of the moon, leading the way to the first manned landing and finding perhaps clues that will help scientists begin to solve some of the mysteries of earth's nearest planetary neighbor.

Monday and Tuesday were days for the astronauts and they spent some of their space time studying what they will do in lunar orbit.

Today is a different story. Apollo 10 will become the second American spaceship to orbit the moon and the astronauts are prepared to simulate the entire landing mission with only the actual landing deleted.

It will be the last close look before the United States attempts to land a man in July.

"We have determined from the previous mission, lunar orbital mission, that there are lots of questions that still aren't answered," said Stafford, a 38-year-old Navy commander, prior to the flight.

He and the other crewmembers were speaking in Houston and had just flown in from Cape Kennedy.

"We were just thinking coming back from the Cape last night, we were flying a T38 at about 45,000 feet, and we could look down and were picking up points that were 25 and 30 feet in diameter," he said.

"Occasionally, you could see a truck on the road, so we think from 50,000 feet we will be able to see craters that could get the lunar module in trouble."

The landing site Apollo 10 will scout in detail, as it flies the same descent path the landing mission will take, is in the dark looking blob in the east central part of the moon, called the Sea of Tranquility. It lacks some of the awesome topographic features lunar geologists would like to study.

The moon has been and still is a mystery to earthbound scientists and is likely to remain so until spacemen have perfected their techniques enough to allow wide exploration.

But the low level passes made by Cernan and Stafford in the lunar lander, and the rock the actual landing mission plans to bring back may at least start scientists along the path to answering some of their questions.

In 1954, in a unanimous decision, the Supreme Court ruled racial segregation in public schools unconstitutional.

Riddle of the Trunk

Writing her own will, an elderly widow made the following bequest to a neighbor:

"My clothing and the trunk in which it is stored."

But after the widow's death, her trunk was found to contain not only clothing but some valuable jewels as well. Should the jewels go to the neighbor, along with the trunk? After a legal battle, the court finally decided they should not — awarding them instead to the widow's survivinf relatives.

The case illustrates how much uncertainty can be wrapped up in words that, at first glance, seem perfectly clear. Literally hundreds of homemade wills have led to lawsuits because of phrases like "the papers in my bottom desk drawer," "the contents of the large pink envelope," or "all the furniture in the basement."

Suppose the language of the will is plain enough in identifying both the container and the contents. Nevertheless, a matter of timing may still raise formidable problems.

Does "everything in my wall safe" mean what was in the safe when the person wrote the will— or what was in the safe when he died, perhaps years later? It would not be unusual for him to put in additional items during the intervening period.

Most courts have decided, in such circumstances, to include everything actually within the container when the person died. As one judge put it:

"A will speaks from the day of death."

But that doesn't apply when there are clues, in the language used, that the person meant it the other way around. For example:

ago to the Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington.

If the $750,000 grant should come through, making the total $1,500,000, it would also provide money for needed improvements in Pampa's water distribution system, Hill stated.

The city's long-range plans for capital improvements also include a storm sewer system for downtown Pampa.

The city manager said another alternative to help in getting funds for payment of Pampa's share of the Canadian Dam and other operating costs would be afforded if city voters approved a one-cent city sales tax.

The city commission now is studying a recommendation of a citizens finance committee that an election be called on the sales tax issue, possibly in September.

Band Award Goes To Buzzy Green

Buzzy Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.N. Green Jr., was named outstanding bandsman of the year Tuesday night and was presented the John Philip Sousa Award during the annual Harvester Band Awards Banquet at the Coronado Inn.

Before the awards ceremony, new officers were elected for Pampa High School Band Booster Club. With Cletus Mitchell, outgoing club president, presiding, new officers elected were Bill Workman, president; Clinton Forbes, Mrs. John Spearman, and Bill Sims, first, second and third vice presidents; Mrs. Carol Jones, secretary and Mrs. K.L. Elsheimer, treasurer.

Band directors recognized were Harris Brinson, PHS director; Joe DiCosimo, Robert E. Lee Junior High School director; Darrell Garrison, Pampa Junior High School director, and Charles Meech, elementary schools' director.

Mrs. Dewey Wheat, mother of a senior band student, presented the traditional uniformed band mascots to the 35 senior band students. The mascots, a symbol of the students' years as band performers, were dressed in green and gold uniforms identical to those worn by band students.

Brinson awarded the engraved desk sets to each senior band student and presented the Sousa award to Green for "his leadership, musicianship and esprit de corps in promoting the Harvester band." Green, who led the band this year as drum major, was also given a $100 college scholarship check from Band Boosters Club.

Doug Laramore, Harvester band president, assisted Brinson in awarding the engraved desk sets. Laramore, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Laramore, was recognized by Brinson as the PHS bandsman who has "made the all-state band, not only once, but twice."

Others on the program were Jack Skelly, invocation, and Mrs. Sue Higdon, who played dinner music for the two-hour banquet.

In appreciation for his direction and coordinating their two coast-to-coast trips in December, 1968 to Los Angeles, Calif., and New York, band students presented Brinson with a stereo tape player for his car.

City Has 2 Customers for Lake Water

Pampa now has about $46,000 yearly income from Canadian River water it is selling to two customers.

The City of Lubbock pays $40,000 for 1.29 billion gallons of water it will receive in the current calendar year.

Lubbock pays 3.266 cents per 1,000 gallons for the untreated water which comes out of Pampa's 6,000,000 gallons daily allotment under the Canadian River Municipal Water contract.

Another $6,000 yearly is being paid for water purchased by the Dorchester Gas Producing Co. for its Skellytown plant.

ELECTRICAL SYSTEMS

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Air Force says it will have to spend from $50 million to $55 million during the next four years to replace electrical material and connections in its F4 Phantom jets. It said hot and humid conditions in South Vietnam, where the planes have been bearing a heavy fighting load, caused the damage.

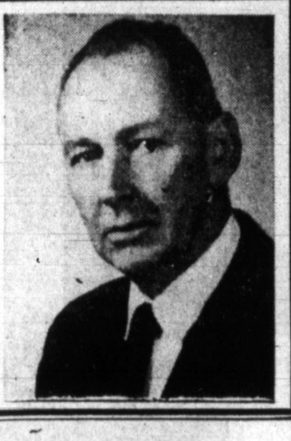

County Court Awaits New Baby, Warner

Jury cases set for this morning in county court were being held in abeyance for an unusual reason:

Personal Income Increase in '68

By The Babson Staff

During 1968 personal income posted a striking 9 per cent increase over that for 1967. The average monthly figure was at an annual rate of $685.8 billion last year. This compared with $628.8 billion for the year 1967. However, the 1968 average was exceeded in each month of the second half of last year and the year closed at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $713.5 billion, up nearly 9.4 percent over the December 1967 level.

The uptrend continued in the first quarter of 1969 although the 8.9 percent increment over the first three months of 1968 did not quite match 1968's overall progress. The monthly average for the first 1969 quarter was at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $721.4 billion, versus $662.7 billion for the first three months of 1968.

By the time this column is published, results for April may well be available, and another good-sized year-to-year gain is expected.

The substantial advance in personal income last year reflected a combination of increased employment, the higher level of the minimum wage, the wave of wage-rate boosts, increased Social Security payments, and advances in incomes from interest and dividends.

This year not all of these factors will be as forceful in their influence upon personal income. For example, the uptrend in employment already shows signs of leveling off, and may well recede a trifle later in the year if business slackens in reaction to the anti-inflation measures now in force. Moreover, even though the upward spiral in wage rates will continue — partly due to guaranteed hikes under multi-year labor pacts — the uplift is not likely to match 1968 gains.

Nevertheless, the trend of gross personal income for 1969 should be upward. The lofty year-to-year increments of 1968 and the first quarter of 1969 will in all likelihood, however, give way to progressively slower advances. Sustained record rates of earned incomes should help bolster public sentiment and hold consumer spending at a high level.

New Team Takes Lead in Chamber Member Campaign

Flaunting its first place standing in the current Chamber of Commerce membership campaign, the Water Boys team with 240 points, hopes to continue its leading position, according to Floyd Watson, team captain.

In second place are The Barkers, with 205 points, whose captain Jim Morris has cracked his whip to good effect so far.

David Fatheree has directed The Clowns who now have an even 200 poits to their credit.

"Eight or ten teams are jockeying for fourth place," said E. O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager, this morning. "We expect some quick changer tomorrow and at the final check-in Friday at 10 a.m."

Goal of the campaign is $41,000. Amount pledged, roughly, now stands at $33,500.

The contest closes offficially at 10 a.m. Friday. Final figures will be disclosed at the general membership luncheon. The meeting will be at Coronado Inn's Starlight Room.

Highlights and Sidelights From the State Capitol

OMNIBUS COURTS BILL — Rep. Renal Rosson, chairman of the House Judicial Districts Committee, says Sen. Murray Watson's bill which combines all requests for new courts and court reorganization will get get to the floor of the House before adjournment. Says Rosson, "a subcommittee needs to work on the bill, but it will probably be out of committee next week."

Senator Watson's bill will reorganize the 71st, 124th, 33rd, 35th, 38th, Second 38th, 63rd, 119th, 49th and the 79th Judicial Districts and create the 229th, 236th, 232nd, 159th, 158th, 240th, 244th, 243rd, 242nd, 241st, 239th, 237th, 238th, 149th, 168th, 230th, 228th, 227th, 226th, 225th, 194th, 181st and the 192nd Judicial Districts. It also creates or reorganizes the 168th District Court, the 237th District Court and the Court of Domestic Relations for Midland County.

HORSES RUN SLOWLY — Rep. Glenn Kothmann of San Antonio did not even come close in his effort to submit to the voters a proposal for local-option horse race betting.

And the funeral oration of the Kothmann resolution was preached by Rep. David Allred of Wichita Falls. Thirty-three years ago his father, Gov. James V. Allred, kept calling the Legislature into special sessions until horse race betting was repealed. So this week's fight by Representative Allred was a rerun of history.

COURTS SPEAK — Finding no reversible error in the Court of Civil Appeals, State Supreme Court upheld the annexation by Pasadena of 576 acres on the Houston ship channel. Annexed farm land of Houston Endowment Inc. is surrounded by unannexed oil company holdings and the foundation contended unequal taxation would result.

High court stuck with its decision upholding forfeiture of 5,00 0acres of sulphur leases by Cobra Oil and Gas Corporation in Culberson, Pecos and Reeves counties.

A Lubbock prosecutor argued for Supreme Cort reversal of the decision that juveniles charged with offenses have the same right as adults to be proven guilty "beyond a reasonable doubt."

OIL ALLOWABLE JUMPED — June oil allowable was boosted by Texas Railroad Commission to 63.5 per cent of potential, highest since 1948 when an all-out effort was made to replenish war-depleted stocks.

Allotment tops periods when foreign imports were shut off due to international crises.

Estimated top allowable is 4,187,252, slightly more than the record 4,186,004 of August, 1967, when the Arab-Israeli war flared. But actual production next month probably will be less than that of August, 1967, when a 54 per cent factor was in effect. Production figure for June is estimated at 3,258,184, compared with 3,314,000 during the Arab-Israeli crisis.

Maximum allowable for May, under 53.8 percent formula, is 3,710,926. Actual production will be about 3,089,660.

Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said crude stocks are 6.3 million barrels less than a year ago.

LEASES BRING $3.5 MILLION— Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler reports bids of more than $3.5 million were received from mineral leases on far West Texas lands of University of Texas. Total brought the University fund to $528,049,139.

Lease sale covered 78,000 acres. Actual acreage leased during the auction totalled 66,123, with an average bonus of $53 per acre. Total of 251 tracts were offered and all but 44 were leased. Tracts were in 11 counties — Gaines, Andrews, Ward, Winkler, Loving, Pecos, Terrell, Reagan, Upton, Crockett and Hudspeth.

Following University lands lease sale, an additional tract of 30,972 acres in Cotton Estate land in Hudspeth and Culberson counties was offered at auction but no bids were received on it.

SHORT SNORTS

Parks and Wildlife Department has set hearing June 9 to establish price on sand, marl Houston and antoher in an unmaned city, approved a broadened tuition aid plan for needy students, and proposed submission of a constitutional amendment to abolish the welfare spending ceiling in 1970 (in event the August 5 vote fails).

Both houses completed action on bills to expand the program of special education for exceptional children between the ages of 3 and 21, make universities out of Stephen F. Austin (Nacogdoches), Southwest Texas (San Marcos), Angelo State (San Angelo), and Sul Ross (Alpine) State Colleges, permit use of Spanish in teaching in the first six grades of public schools by repealing the prohibition against use of a foreign language in public classrooms, create a board to license private detectives, set legislative salaries at $6,800 a year (if the voters approve a constitutional amendment at the special election Aug. 5 to permit the increase from the present $4,800 a year), allow courts to issue driver licenses to persons who drive for a living but have lost their licenses for traffic law infractions (to be used on-the-job only and not for private driving), create the University of Texas Clinical Nursing School at San Antonio, make public agencies liable to persons injured by mistakes of public employees while driving motor vehicles or operating motor-driven equipment, and regulate practice of optometry.

Mother Wonders What Happened to Soldier Son

HARLINGEN (UPI)— Samuel Enriques let his memory drift back across 24 years to a black night in the Philippine jungles whem Army Pfc. Vicente Torres walked out of a village cantina and into oblivion.

"He was a good soldier," Enriques, 43, said Monday. "I don't believe he ever was in any serious trouble in the Army, and always he talked about coming home. I don't know what happened to him, but I have wondered many times."

Torres never made it home from the Philippine battlefield. On Aug. 7, 1945, the Army notified Torres' mother, Drijida Ochoa, her son was considered a deserter.

Mrs. Ochoa—widowed and remarried since her son's mysterious disappearance—never has accepted that verdict.

Enriques, one of the last persons to see Torres alive, would like to knwo the answer also.

He and Torres had fought a bitter campaign together—all the way from Manila, across the beachheads of Leyte, to the main island of Luzon, where they were engaged in a mopping-up operation against the last of the retreating Japanese forces.

In August they learned Germany had fallen at last. It was something for homesick soldiers to celebrate, and Torres, Enriques and four other soldiers decided to do just that—over jungle beer in a village tavern.

"We were celebrating, when Torres suddenly got up and walked out," said Enriques. "He didn't come back, and the next day we searched the area, but we never found a trace of him."

Enriques, who left the Philippines after VJ Day, spent nine months with the Army of occupation in Japan and returned to the United States in December 1946.

He said he doubts if Torres is alive.

"It's beena l ong time," he said. "Had he been alive, he at least would have dropped a post card to his mother, wouldn't he?"

Enriques said he occasionally speculates with Torres' brother about the soldier's fate, but the question mark remains.

"I'm pretty sure we had guards in that area," he said. "Maybe he just wandered off—we had been drinking. But someone should have seen him. He just disappeared."

Indiana Attorney General Calls For Investigation

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Indiana's attorney general has called for federal investigations of his charge the staff of the mayor of Gary encouraged a raid by demonstrators on a weekend state banquet.

Atty Gen. Theodore Sendak charged that members of Gary Mayor Richard G. Hatcher's "own staff helped organize and direct the vandals who committed violence in broad view of citizens and officials alike."

Sendak said he has asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Justice Department and congressional committee to investigate the raid which he said was a "graphic example of officially encouraged hoodlumism in the city of Gary."

Gary officials denied the charges and accused Sendak of playing politics. Hatcher, one of the first Negroes elected mayor of a major U.S. city, is a Democrat. Sendal amd Gov. Edgar Whitcomb are Republican.

About 50 librarians from 26 Panhandle counties will attend the all day session, which will be co-sponsored by Amarillo Public Library, and Texas State Library representatives.

101 Underwriters Host Students

Special Education students of Pampa schools had a gala weekend at Boys Ranch, Amarillo, under sponsorship of Top O' Texas Life Underwriters.

Driving to the Ranch in two school buses, the 57 children and their hosts toured the five fishing lakes, Boot Hill cemetery, rodeo and stock pens, housing for the boys, and a new house still under construction by the boys themselves. Two Ranchers acted as guides.

After touring the Ranch the visitors were transported to Thompson Park, Amarillo, where soft drinks and food were served by Darrel Hogsett, Floyd Hatcher, Clyde Carruth and Myron Marx.

After the picnic lunch Garland Davis and Bob Anderson escorted the group to the Amusement Park.

Mrs. Doris Friend, special education teacher for Pampa schools, Miss Eva Whiteley and Miss Frances Palmer accompanied the group on the trip.

The two bus loads of children and sponsors returned to Coronado Center at 4:30 p.m.

HERE'S WHERE YOU GET CLIPPED.

Right in the newspaper. Or magazine.
Men will clip you. Women will clip you. Kids, too. And if your dollar volume begins to swell, swell.
But first, you've got to set yourself up for it. Putting coupons in print media is the best way. Print lets people clip and save your message. Or file it. Or compare it. Or pass it to a friend. Or mail it back to you.
And that's not all. Print shows your product off to its very best advantage. It flashes its color. Struts its style. Displays its beauty. Shouts its uses.
Print can do lots of things for you. Even get you clipped.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —More d news, gang. The Internal venue Service (IRS) is about simplify the income tax form ain.

The new simplification was nounced this week by IRS mmissioner Randolph W. rower, who is known far and de as "big-hearted Randy."

This is what comes of having patronage system. Every ne the administration chan- s hands, we get a new IRS mmissioner, and every time get a new IRS commission- , he is seized by an controllable urge to simplify e tax form.

Rather Anonymous Job

An IRS commissioner has a ther anonymous job and that about the only way he can get his name in the papers.

Fortunately, the tax form usually undergoes only one simplification per commissioner. By the time a commissioner has been in office a year or so, he learns to let bad enough alone.

This helps preserve what is left of the mental health of the nation. If the form were simplified every year, we would all be driven up the wall.

One thing you can count on tax form simplification is perfect timing. The change invariably takes place at the time when, after two or three years total bewilderment, we are finally beginning to get the old form figured out.

The process is predictable. Simplification means the IRS removes five lines from last year's form and adds 10 pages to the instruction booklet.

Rule of Thumb

The rule of thumb is: The more simplified the tax form, the more complicated the instruction booklet. —

If Thrower really wants to perform a public service, they should leave the tax form as is and publish a pamphlet that explains the instructions.

There is, of course, a bit of psychology involved in the simplification movement. It has to do with keeping the taxpayers in the proper frame of mind.

Experience has shown that the best way to minimize squawking about the amount of taxes being paid is to provide the taxpaye with a simplified tax form.

Haiti Army Grooming Three Candidates In Case of Possible Government Junta

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — The army groomed three officers to form a governing junta in case President Francois Duvalier, 62, dies, well-informed Haitian sources said.

Any such junta would probably be challenged immediately by Duvalier's secret police, the Ton Tons Macoutes, and the national militia, the sources said. The militia has 2,000 more men than the army.

Duvalier seems certain to have suffered some sort of heart disorder last week, if not more serious trouble from diabetes from which he has long suffered, diplomatic sources said.

(In Washington Monday, Haitian Ambassador Authur Bonhomme arranged for newsmen to talk by telephone with a man Bonhomme said was Duvalier.

(UPI correspondent Arthur Golden said the voice on the other end told him, "I am in good health, in full control and I am the master of the Republic of Haiti.")

Duvalier did not show up tions for the first time since he became president in 1957.

Haitian sources mentioned the names of the officers the army has chosen for a junta to guide the black republic toward free elections in case of Duvalier's death. But they said the names were provided in confidence and personal safety of the men precluded dicslosure of their names.

The leading member of the proposed junta was a colone, they said.

The government has denied reports that Duvalier is ill. His spokesman would say only that he is in good health and merely resting up from the effects of too much work.

Diplomatic sources said Duvalier was in bed although he was known to have talked on the telephone several times in the past few days. They said he was running Haiti through his daughter, Marise Denise Dominique.

No Change

Once a member of Congress casts his vote and it is recorded and announced in committee, he may not change it except by unanimous consent.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Although it seems possible that the market could drift lower in coming weeks in response to poor business news and the absence of meaningful peace developments, Sherason, Hammill & Co. says investors should be confident about the long term and not afraid to buy individual stocks when they become attractive. Many issues should be capable of moving higher under their own steam in the weeks ahead, the firm points out.

Abraham & Co. suggests "extreme care" in making new commitments at this point and recommends that "buoyant market days be utilized to lighten trading positions." Because this is the time of year when seasonally adverse factors have their greatest impact, the market at best can be expected to remain close to current levels, but is "more likely" to decline over the next six weeks.

Further upside action can be expected, Scheinman Timing Forecasts believes, despite "genuinely bad news" on the economic front and "substantial evidence" the market's advance from the February low will ultimately end in a dramatic break and "deep deline." Eventually, the firm says, restrictive monetary policy will "kill" the market.

A relatively small trader can profit from big block trading if he keeps a hawk's eye on the tape and steps nimbly in and out of the market.

New-Born Baby Gets Dads Advice

It is not every baby who can receive a letter from her father, written the day after she is born—and with the father stationed with the Army in Germany, at that.

But Melanie Kim Fritsche is lucky. She was born May 13 and already has such a letter written by Rickie Lynn Fritsche, the father, and dated May 14. The Red Cross was prompt in notifying the new parent.

Both child's parents were born at Vernon and are the offsprin, incidently, of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Fritsche, who resides east of Pampa, and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Nail, 1917 N. Banks. Mrs. Fritsche and her very young daughter are now residing with the Nails. Her husband's father is associated with Moddy Farms. Her own father is an oil driller.

Melanie Kim was born at Highland General Hospital. She weighed 8 pounds, 2 ounces and has long hair that reaches far down on the back of her neck. She is beautiful.

Mrs. Fritsche, the babys mother, is a graduate of Pampa High School and of Pampa Beauty School. She and Fritsche were married April 25, 1968.

Her husband spent a year in Viet Nam before being assigned to Germany. He will complete his military duty July 1 and expects to enter West Texas State College. His ultimate goal is to be a teacher. He is now 21 and his wife 19.

Whatever Melanie's future may be, it is likely she will forever treasure this first letter which her mother is carefully guarding even now.

A thought for the day—Jonathan Swift said: "Laws are like cobwebs, which may catch small flies, but let wasps and hornets break through."

Actors' Equity Sets Down New Nude Guidelines

NEW YORK (UPI)d—Actors Equity Association, reviewing such oldies as the casting couch in the light of such modern theater as "Hair" and "Che!," has set down a list of do's and don'ts for producers and actors.

Most of its guidelines were don'ts. They include:

Sexual acts during rehearsals or performances will not be required for a performer.

No peformer may be required to disrobe until after he or she has been auditioned as an actor, singer or dancer.

No sex acts will be required of any performer at any audition. Nudity at auditions are permitted only when an Equity stage manager or an official Equity observer is present, and only professional persons can be present at such auditions.

When nudity or acts of a sexual nature are required of a performer in the course of a stage presentation, the performer must be so advised in writing in advance of his signing the contract and the script will be submitted to the performer for prior preview if he so requests.

However, Equity said it was permissible to appear in the nude and carry out simulated sex acts on the stage, although the performers must be made well aware—in writing—of the possibility of legal consequences.

At a press conference Monday, Equity Executive Secretary Angus Duncan said "Hard sex acts, actual sex acts, are out altogether, but even in the area of simulated sex there is the possibility of arrest. . .by our rules he (the performer) is protected to some extent—the producer must indemnify him in the case of arrest, must furnish bail, fines and legal counsel at no expense to the actor.

"What he cannot do is erase an arrest or conviction record."

Group Studies Credit, Employment

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Credit and pre-employment information bureaus can—and sometimes do—destroy a person's reputation by spreading malicious gossip or faulty information, a Columbia University professor told a Senate subcommittee today.

Alan F. Westin told the committee about an unidentified salesman who was turned down for job afetr job for six years because a typographical error and the unconfirmed gossip of an angry neighbor appeared in the dossier a private information-gathering firm compiled on him.

Westin said personnel managers refused to give the salesman a chance to answer the charges against him because the preemployment report was confidential and could not be shown to the "subject."

The professor, author of a book on invasions of privacy, supported legislation by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to give individuals a chance to correct inaccurate credit bureau reports.

You, Your Child and School

By FREDERICK H. TREESH
United Press International

is student activism, now seeping down from the universities to the high schools, only a negative force bent on chaos and anarchy?

An affirmative answer is a popular one among some political figures and large segments of the American population. But prestigious voices are being raised to the contrary.

After a detailed study of student activism and a series statewide meetings with school administrators, teachers and students, the New York State Department of Education prepared a report stating:

"Educational leaders must take the initiative in convincing their profession and their community that student activism is potentially a constructive force compatible with democratic principles.

"Damaging Measures"

"By word and deed," the report said, "educational institutions need to show that responsible citizenship can best be taught by making students responsible for their own conduct and by extending their range of responsibility."

The absence of such leadership by the schools may result in the enactment of "repressive and damaging measures. . .which may well cause intensification of the problem."

On the West Coast, the respected Bureau of Educational Research and Service at the University of Oregon College of Education reached the same basic conclusions.

The bureau said:

"The perceptive principal. . .will realize that activism in the high school can be valuable. It can make students aware of a world greater than themselves by involving them in profound social issues. It can provide a forum for curriculum improvement and re-evaluation of student government.

"Most important, it can become a working exercise in the relationship between freedom and responsibility and add real vitality to the educational program in the secondary schools if a design exists to channel the force."

The Oregon report said that when activism is ignored or "put down" it can result in disruptive activity.

In what appears to be a significant observation, the Oregon study says that all students, not just the overt activists, are questioning values generally and authority specifically.

The point is that the adult "establishment" is heading for trouble if it writes off the youth revolt and student activism as phenomena involving a tiny minority of long-haired white radicals and a few militant blacks.

NAMES CHAIRMAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has named John N. Nassikas, Manchester, N.H., as chairman of the Federal Power Commission. Nassikas, 52, previously was counsel to the Republican minority of the Senate Commerce Committee. His new job pays $40,000 a year.

SMALL POTATOES

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Agriculture Department has relaxed import standards for round white potatoes, allowing smaller potatoes to be imported into the United States. Under the new standards, the minimum diameter for grade 2 potatoes will be 1½ inches, compared with the present 1⅞ inches.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A major three-part study of the gap between the generations begins tonight on CBS-TV, and the vividness of its approach is worth the viewer's attention.

Entitled "Generations Apart," the series' next two broadcasts will be shown May 27 and June 3. Each program is an hour in length.

There is an undeniable fascination that television offers in tonight's opener—the simple fact of being able to watch people express their opinions, rather than merely reading about them from the distance of print.

Lack Of Humor

The one thing that bothers me about tonight's broadcast—and almost all attempts to deal with the generation gap—is the near-complete lack of humor of those who approach it.

The generation gap, serious as it may be, is worth no more reverence than any subject on earth—and I mean any. Humor stems from adult perspective and detachment. And there are times—many times—when a certain amount of detachment is every bit as essential as involvement.

I was hoping to find this attitude more in the remarks of the program's reporter, John Laurence, 29, an altogether brilliant and up-and-coming newsman whose work has marked him as a man to watch. And there were times when he verged on this approach, but basically the hour wound up in dead earnest. 1st add 030 xxx earnest.

A point of view, I think, is what is needed as much as humor in tonight's program. But here again, we have that deadly earnest network pro-and-con approach, where everyone has his say, and hardly anyone goes home offended.

We all know what the 19-year-olds thinks nowadays. And we all know what the 49-year-olds think. But what about the people who are really on the spot—those who have spent a number of years putting down the over-30 generation, and now find themselves entering it?

How About That Beatle?

And what about the incomparable irony of that Beatle—hero of the under-30 generation—who suddenly ups and marries a Japanese lady well into her 30s. I mean, some of us knew about over-30 women all along, but he's just learning. Which shows that you're never too young to learn.

Studies of the generation gap are pretty much like sociology: A confirmation of the obvious. But why, for instance, wasn't there an exploration of the disturbing new puritanism of the young?—the thread of arrogance that suggests that anyone who thinks differently is merely to be tolerated. I thought that's what we've been fighting 200 years to get rid of.

There is a strange love-hate relationship there: A sharp disappointment that parents are not as perfect as their offspring want them to be, and a curious attitude that only the parental generation is imperfect.

Watching "generations Apart," I kept thinking of the British journalist who suggested once that America loses its innocence at its own peril. And I couldn't help feeling that in a life-or-death showdown struggle, we had better hope that a lot of the Lawrence Welk people are still around.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We have a woman in our office who is raising her kids on company time over the telephone. At least six times a day we can hear her yelling, "Get those kids out of the house! Your high boots are in the back closet behind the sleeping bags! Tell Stevie I want to talk to him." Then she screams, "Steven, you go right over to Jimmy's house and get your bicycle. You know I told you nobody is to ride that bike but you!"

Twenty minutes later she calls home and wants to know if Judy came home from school yet, and did she bring the boyfriend in the house?

Just now I heard her holler, "That dog would never bite if you didn't tease him. Did he break the skin? Is it bleeding? If it's not bleeding, don't bother me." Bang!

I have nothing against working mothers, Abby, but what do you think of women who work and leave their kids to raise themselves?

CO-WORKER

DEAR CO-WORKER: Same as you.

DEAR ABBY: As you can see, this letter is signed "Miss Barbara." However, I am not a "female" in the true sense of the word. In fact, I am a woman "imprisoned" in a man's body. I have inquired about a sex change operation, but there is a long waiting list.

I hold down a man's job, but after work I don feminine attire and my whole life changes. I am now considering seeking employment as a female. I know I could easily pass for a woman as I am small and feminine looking and have had total electrolysis on my face, and my voice is more like a woman's than a man's.

My question: In filling out an application for employment, am I within my rights to write "CONFIDENTIAL" where it asks, "SEX?" A lawyer friend of mine says I am. Will you advise, please?

"MISS BARBARA"

DEAR "MISS BARBARA": Better check with another lawyer. And consider this. Even though you may be "within your rights" legally, whether you'd be hired with that kind of an answer is another question.

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand my boyfriend. We have gone steady for four years, and I've known him nearly all my life.

He is a doctor and in a good position to marry, but he has never proposed to me. Every time I talk about marriage he changes the subject. He doesn't date anyone else and neither do I. I am really not even engaged.

I have tried everything. (Making him think there could be somebody else interested in me, which there isn't and taking a job in another city, which I also wouldn't consider.) I am 25 and anxious to marry. He is 31. What should I do?

UP A CREEK

DEAR UP: Face it, your doctor's prescription for happiness doesn't include you. You propose to him, but be prepared to hear the awful truth.

DEAR ABBY: You were right in advising that mother not to dwell on the fact that her 13-year-old daughter refused to lend her mother her "good white kid gloves" for a special evening out.

I was about that age when I refused to let my mother wear my "good" jacket. I will never forget the hurt look on her face when I told her no. She didn't say a word. She just turned around and left without it. When I saw her through the window wearing her shabby old coat, I could have bitten my tongue off.

She never mentioned it, nor did she ever "punish" me, but it has been 10 years, and my own conscience has punished me plenty.

STILL SORRY

Students to Play Recital Program

Piano pupils of Mrs. Carrol Goad will be presented in a recital at 8 p.m. Friday at Tarpley's Recital Hall, 115 N. Cuyler.

A variety of musical numbers will be performed, including piano solos and duets.

Performing on the program will be Teresa Fisher, Cheryl Fisher, Sharon Lockhart, Cheryl Williamson, Leslie Williams, Nancy Kelley, Marvin Goad, Billy Watson, Zindi Epperson, Mary Miller, Linda Laycock, Rhonda Chance, Jo Karen Adair, Timmy McDaniel, Jill Atchley, Cindy Trollinger, Susan Lockhart, Ramona Dickinson, and Norman Goad.

The public is invited to attend.

Broom for Patio

When it is time to scrub the patio or garage, it is a good investment to get a supersized, commercial-type broom. It is necessary to buy this from a janitorial supply house but it is worth the trouble because it is wide enough to cover a considerable surface with each stroke. Like all brushes it should be swished through hot soap suds to keep the bristles clean.

Even in these days of "do your own thing" the total, co-ordinated look is important down to the last detail —even to compacts, combs and lighters. A wardrobe of these frequently used items is the answer for formal, semiformal and casual occasions. Plaid Riviera lighter (left), for example, engraved in silver can complement cocktail ensembles for dressy, yet not formal, evenings. Handsomely designed black lighter (right) is ideal for a formal event and will fit into the smallest evening purse.

THURSDAY, MAY 22

YOUR BIRTHDAY Thursday: The coming months promise improvements, simplications of family relations. This time is the turning point when you must analyze and review. ARIES (March 21-April 19); Put your thoughts into writing Thursday. Literary works are highly favored. If what you want is located elsewhere, make the effort to go get it. Attend the guidance of children.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20); You still have much to do to confirm and consolidate recent progress. Futher improvement in living conditions is available soon. Consider adding new clothing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20); You can do something about your home to make life happier. Use definite, logical reasoning as to the way things are now, reflect on your conclusions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22); Seek better information now. You can find another place to sell your advice and services. Correspondence also is productive and interesting.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22); Your mood lifts, and you are more at ease at home and in your personal world. Present yourself and your wares serenely and with dignity. Put in a full day.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22); The key word for Thursday is "find out." There are so many old matters which yield good results with just a little investigative work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22); Everybody you know has something helpful to offer. Listen carefully, while you make the rounds quickly. Put in a busy day, and assemble results in the evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21); You have the chance to include odd variety in your work. Changing conditions may bring exotic people and strange ideas, directly into your study. The evening is best for study of the possibilities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21); With your friends and associates involved, you can sell anything Thursday; it is up to you to stir up the business. You cannot expect a windfall, but the possibility of getting one improves with your effort and exposure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19); Legal documents relating to money are favored today. Settle all outstanding claims now— you are not apt to find any more favorable terms.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18); Close co-operation is fluently available. Reach out to bridge the gaps that have plagued you the last few weeks. Make amends, apologize where appropriate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20); You'll be glad later if you hold your temper, and your tongue, Thursday. There is a change of pace in midday. Your spirits rise and your home is suddenly a happier place.

And Another Thing

By RUTH LEWIS

Ever since May 11 I have been going home to listen to Claude Debussy, Engelbert Humperdinck and others of their musical stature. These artists play their own compositions for me, so it's good fun to go home.

It is interesting to note how differently Humperdinck, for example, plays his own Dream Scene from Hansel and Gretel, from the way his successor performers have been playing it now for years.

To tell the truth I rather favor the professional pianists who give the all-time favorite of children's operas a slow, almost mystic, gentle reading to the master's livelier tempo. Humperdinck plays the children's opera as if only lively children were listening, rather than as if interpreting the mood of the piece, which is really a slumber song.

Debussy — 1862 to 1918 — is different too from those who play his works. In point of fact, he was not so great a piano artist as some of his fellow students at the Conservatoire. It bored him to place so much emphasis upon the purely muscular, as the records' publishers note. He soon gave up trying to be a virtuoso, to follow his own creative composer bent.

Where do these records, made between 1905 and 1913, come from? Germany. It was there, back in the early days of the century, that the first "player piano" was put into use. It was a Steinway, we are told, especially created to record sound by punching a tape. (The first computer, in fact.) Composers were invited to record their own music and the fact was a great marvel in its day. But it came into disuse gradually, as did the honky-tonk type player in America.

Now we can buy not only Debussy but Ravel, Faure, Gustav Mahler, Max Reger each doing his own thing in his own way.

My son, who has a memory like a whole herd of elephants, obviously stored up in his mind my reaction to some of these records which he played for me at Christmas. Hence the Mother's Day gift. He also remembered I was interested in a certain poet —Campion— and sent a first edition of the collected works.

An invoice left in the package (of records) shows that they came from McGraw-Hill, if anyone is interested.

A man convicted of driving while intoxicated came into the county offices to pay his fine.

"That's the first time this ever happened to me!" he said emphatically.

"You mean the first time you ever drove while intoxicated?" the clerk asked.

"No, the first time I got caught!"

Presbyterians to Raise $50 Million for Poverty

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)— The 181st Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church U.S.A. voted to develop a fund campaign to raise at least $50 million for use in depresed areas and among the poverty stricken.

The action came just after midnight when the general assembly endorsed a recommendation from its Committee on Church and Race calling on the Presbyterians' Council on Church Support to develop a fund raising plan to be presented at the 1970 general assembly in Chicago.

The recommendation called for funds "equal to or surpassing" the Presbyterians' $50 Million Campaign, a development fund initiated about two years ago designed to expand the denomination and build new churches.

A stipulation attached to the recommendation directed specific goals be set and the funds be administered by a church board or agency or a group such as the Interreligious Foundation (IFCO).

The general assembly tackled a number of social problems in its debate on the Committee on Church and Race's report.

Among the resolutions endorsed was a recommendation to direct the Board of National Missions and the Commission on Ecumenical Missions and Relations to appropriate $50,000 each to IFCO, an interdenominational organization which includes James Forman's National Black Economical Development Conference.

IFCO will be charged, under provisions of the recommendation, with approving the manner in which the fund will be distributed.

Following a lengthy debate, the commissioners struck the section of the motion to send money to the United Black Appeal, a part of Forman's Development Conference.

They approved a recommendation directing the Board of Christian Education to appropriate $50,000 "in cooperation with Spanish speaking people."

Forman, and his black manifesto which he presented to the assembly last week, were the key issues in the debate. His name was mentioned repeatedly by commissioners who, for the most part, did not want the Presbyterians to be on record in support of Forman.

The assembly voted to direct its Board of National Missions to "find ways" for the poverty stricken to own land and "to utilize possibilities for development of land presently owned by the board that are not essential to operating programs of the church."

The Board of Missions also was directed to "procure funds" to make non reimbursible grants available to the poverty stricken.

The assembly adopted recommendations aimed at releasing land to Spanish speaking persons, assisting them in efforts to acquire border rights for that land and helping the Spanish speaking to place "any legitimate claims regarding land grant areas" before the U. S. Congress.

They also approved a recommendation which directs church owned seminaries to become involved in community problems and to put church institutions aimed at helping the Spanish speaking and Indian in control of the persons they serve.

Still scheduled to come before the assembly were directives supporting the farm workers strike in California and entire sections condeming racism in South Africa and racial policies in that country, supporting Project Equality and calling for "a productive equal employment opportunities program" among offices in the denomination itself.

Fuentes Begins Action on Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Albert Fuentes, special assistant to the Small Business Administration, made his first moves toward preparing a defense against charges by Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex.

Fuentes began a leave of absence without pay saying "i will return to the SBA when this is cleared up."

Lubbock, Corpus Due New Colleges Soon

AUSTIN (UPI)—The House in connection with the medical school.

Monday gave legislative alprovval to a new medical school for Lubbock and a tentative approval for an upper level state university in Corpus Christi but balked at a proposal to set enrollment limits in schools belonging to the Unimersity of Texas system.

The House also heard legislation introduced which would campus security guards the same rights as policemen in regards to carrying weapons and making arrests.

Senate amendments to the bill creating the medical school at Texas Tech were approved by the House in a 134-7 vote.

The bill needs only Gov. Preston Smith's signature to become law but since Smith is from Lubbock and he recommended the creation of the school as part of his legislative package, his signature is practically assured.

The Senate amended the bill to prohibit using state funds for a teaching hospital to be built

The House approved the bill, sponsored by Rep. DeWitt Hale, D-Corpus Christi, for the upper level school in Hale's hometown by an 80-58 margin.

The vote came shortly after the House barely batted down an amendment by Rep. A. C. Atwood, D-Edinburg, that would have made the school a part of Texas A&I University in Kingsville.

Atwood and Rep. Menton Murray, D-Harlingen, argued the money used to establish the school in Corpus Christi would be better allocated if it went to expanding A&I.

Would Expand Facilities

"We could expand the facilities at A&I to take care of 5,000 more students at one-third the cost it will take to build a new school in Corpus Christi," Murray said.

"If I thought this bill would do any permanent harm to A&I I wouldn't be up here asking you to approve it," replied Hale.

Boxer DePaula One of Five Arrested by FBI

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Boxer Frankie DePaula, one of five men arrested by the FBI on charges of stealing copper from interstate shipments, faced an uncertain ring future today in addition to the criminal charges lodged against him.

DePaula, a popular light heavyweight from Jersey City, was scheduled to face Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, Monday night in Madison Square Garden.

The New York State Athletic Commission met today and was expected to issue a ruling after studying the charges against DePaula. If DePaula is suspended by the commission pending disposition of the charges, he will be replaced on the card by Brazilian Juarez de Lima.

Fullmer and DePaula were scheduled for the 10-round semifinal bout on the Nino Benvenuti-Dick Tiger Card.

National League Roundup

Holtzman Joins 'Pitchers' League

By United Press Intrenational

Ken Holtzman missed out on the "year of the pitcher" celebration last season. Now he's throwing his own party.

Last season, in a year in which Detroit's Dennis McLain won 31 games and six other major league pitchers won more than 20 games, Holtzman couldn't even break even, posting an 11-14 mark.

He's determined to change things this season. Holtzman pitched a five-hitter Tuesday night and ran his record to 7-1 as the Chicago Cubs, the National League's Eastern Division leaders, blanked the Los Angeles Dodgers, 7-0.

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis blanked San Francisco, 3-0, Pittsburgh downed San Diego, 6-3, Houston shut out Montreal, 5-0 and Cincinnati topped Philadelphia, 4-0. Atlanta and New York were not scheduled.

In American League play, Detroit nipped Chicago, 7-6, Cleveland edged Kansas City, 4-1, Minnesota nipped Baltimore, 3-2 in 13 innings, Washington squeezed past Seattle, 6-5, and New York beat Oakland, 2-1. The California-Boston game was rained out.

Billy Williams drove in two runs with a seventh-inning double and Ernie Banks and Randy Hundley hit back-to-back homers in the ninth inning as the Cubs beat Don Sutton for the 21st consecutive time without a defeat.

Bob Gibson pitched his fourth straight complete game and held San Francisco to four hits as St. Louis beat the Giants. Gibson allowed only four singles in recording his fifth victory against two losses. Singles by Mike Shannon, Jim Hicks and Dal Maxvill in the second accounted for one run and Curt Flood drove in the other two with a third inning homer and a sacrifice fly in the fifth.

Four-Run Rally

Manny Sanguillen and Fred Patek tripled to highlight a four-run rally with two out in the fourth inning as the Pirates snapped a five-game losing streak with their victory over the Padres.

Horton Returns: Tigers Whip Chisox

By United Press International

The prodigal son returned and the Detroit Tigers gathered momentum for a crack at the richest World Series payoff in baseball history.

Willie Horton, who drew a heavy fine for bolting the team last Thursday and missing four games, was welcomed by his teammates with open arms Tuesday night. He responded with three RBI's as the world champion Tigers edged the Chicago White Sox, 7-6, for their fourth consecutive triumph.

If Detroit can repeat as world series champs each regular should earn a total of $15,000, including division playoff money.

Willie drove in two runs with a double during a five-run Detroit uprising in the first inning. He sent in another with a sixth inning single.

13 Innings.

In other American League games, Minnesota edged Baltimore, 3-2 in 13 innings, Washington shaved Seattle, 6-5, New York topped Oakland, 2-1 and Cleveland defeated Kansas City, 4-1. The California at Boston game was postponed by rain.

In the National League, Cincinnati shut out Philadelphia, 4-0, Houston whitewashed Montreal 5-0, St. Louis defeated San Francisco, 3-0, Pittsburgh beat Sand Diego, 6-3, Chicago whipped Los Angeles, 7-0.

Jim Northrup also drove in two Detroit runs with a first-inning single and the Tigers went on to a 7-1 lead before Chicago rallied for five runs in the eighth inning. Earl Wilson, with help from three relievers, won his second game in six decisions. Tommy John took his first loss after three victories. Woodie Held homered for Chicago.

Sacrifice Fly

Jim Kaat drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the 13th inning and Ron Perranoski saved the Minnesota southpaw's third victory when Baltimore rallied in the bottom half of the frame. Harmon Killebrew's ninth homer helped end the Twins' four game losing streak and stop Baltimore's five-game winning skein. Marcelino Lopez took the loss after giving up the two 13th-inning runs.

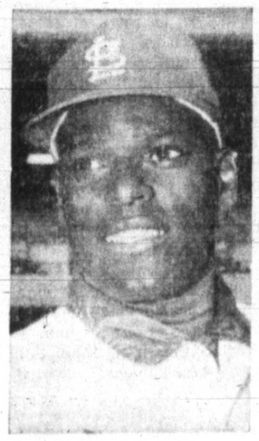

Mike Epstein made up for three consecutive strikeouts by hitting a two-run homer for Washington in the eighth inning. It was Epstein's ninth homer of the year and overcame a 5-4 Pilots' lead. Bernie Allen also crashed a two-run homer for the Senators as reliever Dennis Higgins evened his record at 3-3. Marty Pattin lost his second game against five victories.

Frank Fernandez's two-run homer in the second inning was the margin Fritz Peterson needed for his sixth victory. The New York southpaw limited Oakland to five hits, including Dick Green's fifth inning homer as the Yanks won their sixth straight. Jim Nash was tagged with his second loss.

Sam McDowell threw a two-hitter at Kansas City and struck out seven en route to his third win of the year.

Lively Sets Hot Pace

ATLANTA (UPI)—John H. Lively Jr., a little Texan from Canton and a PGA tourist for three years, led all non-exempt qualifiers Tuesday for a spot in the $115,000 Atlanta Classic that gets under way Thursday.

Lively fired a four-under 68 at the Atlanta Country Club to lead 20 others seeking a spot in the classic.

Things did not go so well for one of the established names in the classic. Billy Casper, golfer of the year in 1966 and 1968, played nine holes over the classic course and then told tournament officials he would be unable to participate.

Casper's trouble was a chronic allergy which began to act up.

"Obviously I wouldn't have flown all the way from San Diego just to withdraw," Casper explained. "But I called my doctor and he told me to get out, in a hurry."

Awards Given Spring Athletes

John Jenkins, who's future in both football and baseball is as shiny as silver, was named the outstanding Harvester baseball player Tuesday night.

Harry Aureli won the award as the outstanding golfer, Mark Shackelford won the tennis award and Paul Anderson was named the top track athlete.

Jenkins led the last place Harvesters in hitting, total hits, total bases and runs batted in. He hit .376 in conference play.

The awards were presented at a meeting of the Pampa Harvester Club and new officers for 1969-70 were elected.

Howard Weatherly was elected the new president, Maynard Johnson will serve as vice-president and Mrs. Billie Don Watkins as secretary-treasurer.

Harbord Cox, outgoing president, was praised by club members for the outstanding job he did the past year.

Harvester Athletic Director Swede Lee announced that the Green and Gold game will start at 7 p.m.

Lee also said that Varsity and Shocker players will be divided and only one game will be played.

Varsity players will play the 12 minutes of each quarter and Shockers the final five or six minutes.

A Powder Puff football game will be played at halftime between the Tru-Teens and Peppers. There will be an admission charge of 50 cents to the game and all proceeds will go to the Tru-Teens scholarship fund.

Clendenon Gets Bronx Cheers From Astro Fans

HOUSTON (UPI) — Donn Clendenon, of the Montreal Expos, who was booed louder when he pinchhit Tuesday night than any other player in Astrodome history, said he was amused and hoped a capacity crowd turned out tonight when he is scheduled to start at first base.

The 12,686 Houston Astro fans booed Clendenon lustily when he came to bat for pitcher Steve Shea in the eighth inning. When he struck out, they cheered just as loud.

They were unhappy with Clendenon because he retired after he was traded to the Astros for Rusty Staub. Then after the Astros got two pitchers to replace Clendenon, he came out of retirement and returned to the Expos.

"I expected the booing but I had to laugh," Clendenon said after the game. "I wish they'd fill it up for me tomorrow night so they can give me an ovation when I pop a couple out."

The big first baseman has had trouble timing his swing because he missed loads of spring training. He is 0 for 17 his last few games, but manager Gene Mauch said Clendenon will play tonight.

"He'll start and he'll finish," Mauch said.

Staub, swang for the first time in the dome in an enemy uniform, with a mixture of cheers and boos with the cheers having the edge.

He said it was about what he expected.

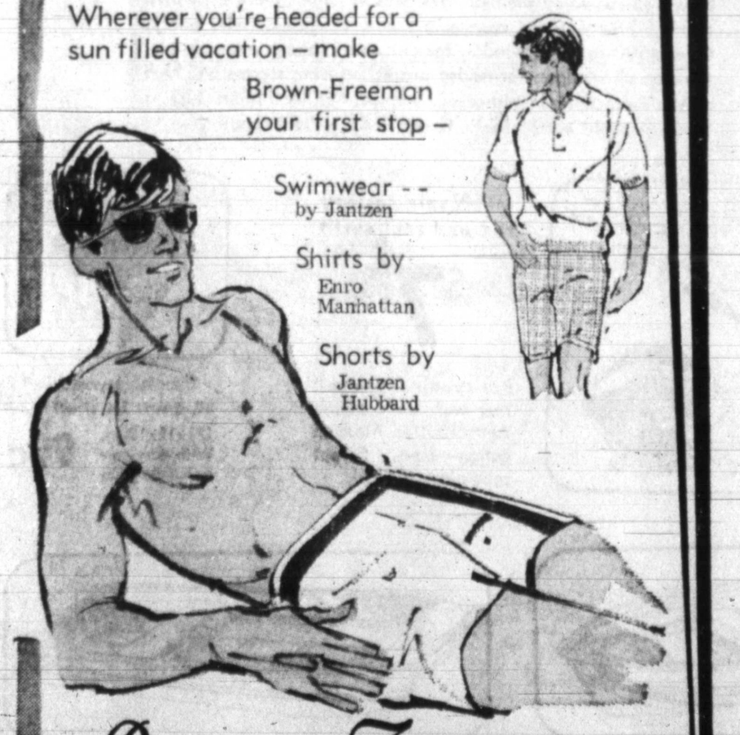

"After all I'm out there trying to beat their team," Staub said. "My close friends were pulling for me. Some of them told me they hoped I had a good night and the Astros won.

"This was a Tuesday night and it brought out all the real Astro fans," Staub said. "If it had been a weeekend and a lot of people were here from Louisiana, it might have sounded different."

Nostalgia Is Yankee Stadium

By LEE MUELLER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Manny's Baseball Land has been operated for the past 18 years at 838 River Ave. here, across the street from that storied, white sandstone institution called Yankee Stadium.

A side from autographed baseballs, caps, pennants and yellow foghorns, Manny Koenigberg's livelihood depends largely on the sale of pictures, large and small, of major league players, past and present.

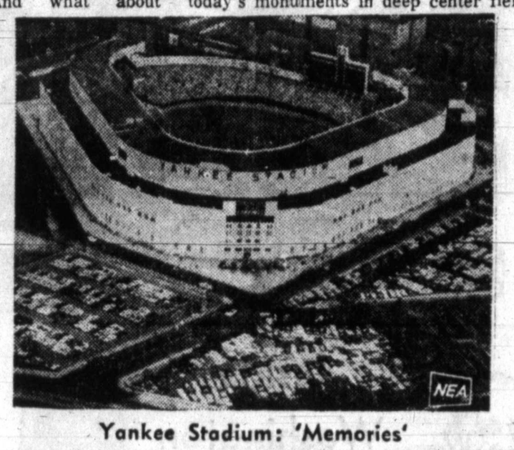

Know whose picture Mr. Koenigberg sells most frequently? Babe Ruth's. Know who's second? Lou Gehrig's. And third? Ty Cobb's.

And what about today's Yankees? Know who is the best-selling New York player this season? Mickey Mantle.

"He's the most popular player, even if he's out now," Manny says. "There's no one to take his place."

Everywhere, the ashes of nostalgia are scattered to cover the unseemly present. Like an aging woman in heavy velvet, Yankee Stadium wears yesterday's glory all too obviously.

Inside, the never-changing, pin-striped New York uniform is practically the same model Ruth wore. The old Yanks were an ideal, perfected. How could you improve on the Yankees? And yet, the tombstone-shaped monuments in deep center field here give the stadium a proper atmosphere these days—the atmoshpere of a graveyard.

Yankee Stadium: 'Memories'

The ghostly shadows of Ruth, Gehrig, DiMaggio and others leap in all directions.

One looks at the infield grass on the right side of the pitcher's mound and thinks not of second baseman Horace Clark. One looks and thinks of Billy Martin, diving to save a World Series or, perhaps, Yogi Berra hugging Don Larsen like a child after a perfect game.

Out in field, the spectators stand and reach up to catch a home run ball by Joe Pepitone. Yet, it is pigeontoed Ruth we see waddling around the bases.

Today's Yankees live in a world of yesterdays and sometimes, it must be said, they play like it. With Mantle went the last of New York's super humans. The Bronx Bombers are now a low-caliber shell.

Nowadays, when they talk about breaking up the Yankees they mean by 10-0.

The change, of course, has been hard. It has been hard for the players and management, especially men like Elston Howard, Tom Tresh and Steve Hamilton — men who remember.

"We had this feeling," said a club official. "If we lost a few games, we didn't get excited. We figured we had the best team in baseball. We knew it was only a matter of time."

That feeling, however, has long since drained away. Now Yankee players speak in awe of Baltimore's pitching. Nobody, but nobody, speaks in awe of the Yanks.

"My son, he's a real Yankee nut, you know," said a First Avenue barber recently. "He's got pictures of Mantle on one wall and pictures of Stottlemyre on the other, you know.

"The other day he say, 'Yankees, you stink.' He say they have no one who can hit long ball any more. No doubles or triples, either."

Time has caught up with the Yankees and their stadium. Now there is talk of abandoning the House That Ruth Built for a more modern plant with better parking facilities.

If it was hard to imagine the Dodgers without Ebbets Field, try the Yankees without Yankee Stadium. Then again, maybe it's not so inconceivable.

After all, a World Series without the Yanks seemed strange a few years ago.

PETERS SIGNS CONTRACT

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Floyd Peters, co-captain of the 1968 Philadelphia Eagles team, has signed his 1969 contract. Peters, a defensive tackle, missed the last nine games last season because of a knee injury.

Our Capsule Policy

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Some Reasons For Revolt

Students, may we have a word with you? We want to talk about the cold, hard world that you are preparing yourselves for.

We wish to explain some of the pitfalls.

We learned the hard way.

In the newspaper business, over a period of time, we interview thousands of people. A great number of times, you can take what you hear at face value. There are times, however, when you've got to be suspicious. How do you separate one situation from the other? We'll cover a few observations that may prove helpful in your present situation and future field of work.

The art of persuasion comprises not merely the subject matter that the persuader is trying to get you to accept, but the manner by which the subject matter is presented. This is entirely legitimate. You wouldn't expect someone to undertake to persuade and deliberately not use persuasive techniques.

The artful persuader, therefore, tries to say agreeable things in the hope that you will come to think of him as an agreeable person.

The artful persuader will try to say things, at the outset, that are observably true. The aim is to say things that you can see for yourself to be true. The purpose is to win your confidence in yourself. When that has been won, you normally will tend to relax your vigilance. Rule No. 1, therefore, Never relax vigilance.

Sometimes, the artful persuader will use good-sounding words to describe vague situations. Such phrases as "peer group approval" and "social or community awareness" are dead giveaways that the persuader is hiding something from you. No. 2, Don't put any stock in meaningless words or phrases. Always ask yourself what the words or phrase refers to. If you can't answer that question for yourself, there's a good possibility the word or phrase refers to nothing at all, or to something that is adverse.

Sometimes, the artful persuader will try to confuse you. His (or her) theory is that if you can be tangled in a mass of detail, you will lose confidence in yourself. When that happens, you will tend to look to him for guidance. Then he leads you where he wants you to go.

That brings us to Rule No. 3. If you are confused by a lot of detail, the chances are a lot of other people are confused also. You may be confused because the information is confusing. Just because the artful persuader can successfully confuse you doesn't make him an expert or a superior being. The ability to confuse takes only practice, not brains.

Of course, we desire to keep our minds open to beneficial persuasion. To rightly divide what's beneficial from what is not, we need at all times to be certain of what our own convictions are. That would constitute Rule No. 4: Be sure of your own convictions. The Golden Rule and an objective definition of theft are not bad points of departure.

On occasions, you will find that the powers-that-be will try to impress you in advance by telling your how many degrees the artful persuader has. The supposition is, that because so-and-so occupied a chair for many months at State U, he is therefore a superior individual. Well, that scholary experience may have something to do with the shine on the seat of his pants, but it doesn't necessarily indicate any beneficial influence on his brain. The fact is, it is just as possible to learn wrong things as it it to learn right things. Rule No. 5: A piece of paper framed on a wall is no sure evidence of what a man has in his head.

In conclusion, we would say that you can follow all the foregoing rules and still end up in the hoodwinked category. When that happens, apply for your membership in The Club. We've all been hoodwinked plenty of times.

The Money You Can't Spend

If you are a productively employed tax payer, or a member of the family of one, this should interest you.

The next time someone begins telling you about the wonders of "free" schools, "free" libraries, "free" parks and other recreational facilities, "free" roads and highways, "free" welfare handouts and all the other "free" goodies your beneficent government provides, hand them this:

"Total taxes estimated to be collected in fiscal 1969 by all levels of government, federal, state and local," says Monthly Tax Features (published by Tax Foundation, Inc., 50, Rockefeller Plaza, New York City), "will be equivalent to about $3,927 per American family, UP $370 from fiscal 1968."

And, to show the extent to which the various governmental appetites and costs of all those "free" delights have grown, the foundation's tax bulletin added: "Thirteen years ago, taxes collected by all governments were equivalent to $1,897 per family."

The private research organization estimates that total government tax receipts of $247 billion in fiscal 1969, ending June 30, will be $147 billion higher than in 1956.

Tax receipts of $700 billion i fiscal 1969, for the federal government alone, the bulletin continued, will exceed those of fiscal 1968 by $24 billion and will have more than doubled since 1956.

"Meanwhile," Tax Features concluded, "at $77 billion in 1969, state and local government collections will have increased about $5 billion over the previous fiscal year, and will be about $13 billion greater than in fiscal 1967. State-local government tax receipts in fiscal 1969 will come close to tripling those of 1956."

And there's no end of the looting process in sight!

"In general," noted Voltaire, that witty Frenchman, "the art of government consists of taking as much money as possible from one part of the citizens to give it to another. It's difficult to free fools from the chains they revere."

Grim Question For Man

A special exhibit to mark the 100th anniversary of the American Museum of Natural History in New York is entitled "Can Man Survive?"

As the name suggests, the exhibit focuses on the problem caused by "man's heedless exploitation of his environment, coupled with an accelerating technology and exploding human population."

The directors of the museum can't be entirely pessimistic about the answer to the question, at least in the short run. The centennial exhibit is scheduled to remain open to the public for two years.

28 years after the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor, oil still seeps to the surface from the sunken battleship USS Arizona. The remains of more than 1,000 of her crewmen are entombed in the rusted hulk.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION:—Democracies fail when citizens learn they can vote themselves funds from the public purse. Why, then, is the Liberty Amendment meeting such apathy? It does have a monetary "carrot" even though its main purpose is to eradicate government monopoly business.

Answer: Possibly the apathy is because a great many persons seem to have lost faith in themselves. They have accepted the theme of the politicians that the people are helpless and can not take care of their own welfare and must rely on those in government to provide for them.

The politician says in effect, "I will build dams for you and provide you with power and water and flood control. I will insure you against old age and insure your banks. You are not smart enough to do it for yourselves. And we will do it without making a profit." They do not tell the public that government costs usually are higher, and that the government projects not only compete with tax paying businesses, but they are themselves exempt from taxes. They do not say that part of the cost is financed by inflating the money supply, so that dollars returned by the government will not buy as much as the dollars originally taken in taxes.

The politicians who oppose the Liberty Amendment say the people will be denied all of the "free" services being dispensed, but they refuse to admit that the services are not free, but are quite costly.

Until the people see that nothing from the government is free and that their taxes are being taken from them to provide these services, while the politicians and bureaucrats are taking out their cut we suspect the people will continue apathetic.

The people can see the weekly or monthly checks coming from government can see the dams, and water and power lines; apparently they cannot see that they could spend their own money and obtain more of what they want for the money if they eliminated the bureaucratic middleman.

Clearing House

Articles for this column are preferred to be 200 words or less in length. However, longer articles may be printed. All letters must be signed with name and address.

Editor:

Now that you have listened to the side of the shopper concerning the use of the stores' restrooms, please listen to the working people responsible for the "clean up" job in these restrooms.

First, I am in sympathy with the shopper because of the "no use" of the restrooms. But I wonder if the shopper has had to go to the lounge to eat lunch, to find the condition the shopper left so bad you couldn't possibly eat, (as most of the lounges provided for the working people are next to the restroom) or to enter the restroom to find it so bad you had to get the broom, the mop and use deodorant of any kind from turpentine to a floral bath spray and disenfectant.

After many trips like this surely the shopper can understand who knocked who out of the privilege of the use of the bathroom. Or to clean up after some child a mother didn't have time to take to the restroom, so made use of the floor. I know no one is any better than the other fellow when it comes to cleaning the mess. I happen to have had to clean just such messes. I have also been eating my lunch and had the shopper come in and use the restroom, knowing I was eating.

We have one hour off for lunch, then have to go back, and smile at that same customer.

As for not shopping the stores that refused the use of their rest room, is like cutting off one's nose to spite his face. Our Court House has a public restroom, and it is just a very little way to go to it, and if one has a problem, no one will gripe at their going there. Not even a gripey filling station agent, who has to clean up messes just as others do.

JOHN GOLDSMITH

No 'Fade Away,' Says New 3rd Party Chariman

WASHINGTON, — Former Alabama Governor George C. Wallace is reported "very well pleased" with the quiet drive to convert his presidential hopes into an effective, permanent third political party for the United States.

That is the word from Richmond, Va., businessman T. Coleman Andrews Jr. In case it has all escaped you, Andrews is the new national chairman of what is now to be known as the American Party.

Andrews, long a conservative Democrat in the Virginia camp of the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd, took on his new political job early this month. He was elected by 160 delegates, from 38 states, who gathered in Cincinnati to give a new direction to the Wallace-for President dream.

And lest you forget, Wallace, running mostly on the ticket of the American Independent Party, got nearly 10 million of more than 72 million votes cast last Nov. 5. That was good for the 45 electoral votes of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Lousisiana and Mississippi.

Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia were not represented in Cincinnati, but Andrews says there is no division and that Wallace forces in those states support the new party. Indeed, Andrews warned the Cincinnati gathering that fragmentation has been the bane of conservative movements in the past.

"I have never seen such unanimity in a conservative group," Andrews said, in telling us about the founding sessions for the new party.

However, Andrews, a former member of the John Birch society who differed sharply with founder-president Robert Welch's appraisal of Dwight D. Eisenhower, does not believe a unified conservative party has room for what he calls the "lunatic fringe."

He reports that such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan and the Minute Men were not represented in Cincinnati. He says that racist, militantly segregationist views were not expressed there.

VOID FILLER—Until the ballots were finally counted in November, the Wallace-for-President campaign was widely publicized. Strategists in both of the regular parties were afraid that it might result in throwing the presidential election into the House of Representatives. That did not happen, of course, and the campaign follow-up, including the Cincinnati meeting, has been little mentioned.

Andrews wants to see to it that conservatives, who supported Wallace with their money and their votes, do not drop out of sight until the presidential election in 1972.

"The history of third-party movements is that people get all steamed up at election time and then fade away. We want to fill that void with something of a permanent nature," says Andrews.

Andrews has a special insight on third party movements. His father is the certified public accountant and "Democrat-for-Eisenhower" who became the Eisenhower Administration's first commissioner of internal revenue and then ran as a third-party candidate for president in 1956.

T. Coleman Jr., who had been a veteran Byrd-Democrat member of the Virginia General Assembly, slid into the third party orbit last time around. He was Wallace chairman for Virginia in 1968 and became a top member of the Wallace strategy board.

PRINCIPLE, NOT PERSONALITY — For the present, Andrews is working with tape recordings, made at the Cincinnati meetings, to analyze the views and suggestions made there. Not until they have been studied carefully does he intend to draw up an organizational blueprint.

He is well aware, in that regard, that third party organizations in the past have urgently needed better work in the grassroots to know where the voters are and how they can be counted.

Despite his own firm support of the 1968 Wallace campaign, Andrews is making it clear that the future of the American Party must not in his view, be tied entirely to the hopes and ambitions of the former Alabama governor.

"We all know how uncertain a business politics is," he says reflectively, adding that a new party should be built on a foundation of common views and beliefs and not keyed to support for one individual, no matter how appealing he may be a a potential candidate.

Andrews, who reported to Wallace on the Cincinnati gathering, thinks candidate Wallace would concur.

"I think he is very well pleased with what we have done," says Andrews.

"I think he would agree that we want something based on principle rather than on personality."

Wit and Whimsy

Mr. Jones (the bank teller politely) — What is your name, sir?

Mr. Jackson (snapped) — Don't you see my signature?

Mr. Jones (the teller) — Yes! sir. That's what aroused my curiosity.

None so little enjoy themselves, and are such burdens to themselves, as those who have nothing to do.

H. L. Hunt Writes

The hit of Broadway's theatrical season is "1776," a musical tracing the events leading to the U. S. Declaration of Independence. The producer explained that he was enthusiastic about the script from the first because "it had to do with the time we're living in and I felt people had a desire for identification with something more important than continued murders in our country." The success of "1776" proves how right he was.

Most Americans do love their country and are proud of the way the United States was brought into existence as a nation every time they think about it. But too many of us fail to activate our patriotic sentiments, which does much to explain why the enemies of freedom have made such gains.

The success of "1776" is one more indication that America is in the process of making a turn to the right. Turns to the right seldom occur and nearly everyone would like to do something for our beloved country It is up to Patriots to supply the spark to get fine sentiment under way. Millions love our country and many of them should generate turns to the right. There is a vast quantity of bad news which keeps our populace sick and tired. Those who love our country must find and arrange good news to be given as much publicity as possible. Failing to find good news, let us contrive to start some. The freedom side has not been winning many victories recently. People who want to change our laws by demonstrations or riots or to interpret the law in a way that will permit them to do whatever they please are on the opposite side from those who cherish freedom.

Many ask, "Is there real danger that we will lose our liberty or that the nation will surrender its sovereignty?" If the answer is affirmative, surely everyone must begin doing all that he can to safeguard our future, which is the constructive course.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Stealing, hunting and knickers were baseball innovations of the 1860s, The World Almanac says. In 1865, Eddie Cuthbert of the Philadelphia Keystones was the first to steal a base and the next year Dickey Pearce of the Brooklyn Atlantics first deliberately bunted. The Cincinnati Red Stockings of 1868 were laughing-stocks when they introduced knickerbocker pants.

Marrying Boss' Daughter Is An Unreliable Way Up

By PAUL HARVEY

It happened in Sheboygan, Wis. .

Clarence, the apprentice leather cutter in the shoe factory, married the boss' daughter and became successful.

That's what happened, but that's not at all the way it happened. Let me share with you the rest of the story.

Young Clarence went to work in the shoe factory in Sheboygan as a very young lad. He applied himself energetically as a leather cutter apprentice and became a shoe cutter. With continued diligence, determination and hard work he became a supervisor.

Then he met and married the boss' daughter.

Three weeks later he was fired for insubordination.

Biographies of those men the world calls successful have one common denominator: they get up when they fall down.

Clarence picked himself up, dusted himself off, walked a few blocks down the street and opened his own shoe factory — on April Fool Day 50 years ago.

Clarence Laverenz' shoe company now operates four factories, sells nationwide. The company is now carried on the shoulders of many aggressive young managers. Yet today, at 74, Clarence still occupies the big front desk.

I expect that one man being president of one company for half a century is unusual, if not unparalleled.

Clarence Laverenz also makes time to participate actively in his church, his community — giving these the same enthusiasm and talent which has built his business.

Though Clarence did not get along very well with his father in-law, his track record indicates either that he learned something from that experience or that the incompatibility was his fault.

For Clarence has had the same wife for 50 years and the same business partner, Carl Esch, for 49.

Where such success stories might inspire some residual Horatio Algerism in younger Americans, most Americans past 50 consider their chances of success limited.

They're unlikely to marry the boss's daughter. Further, industry and government have conspired to emphasize early retirement until a man of 50 is likely to consider himself useless.

They forget that Mr. J. C. Penney was sick, broke and in debt — a "failure" — at that age.

And they forget Winston Churchill was "nobody" at 50.

And once upon a time there was a career military officer virtually unknown outside the military.

At the age of 50, when nowadays many are thinking of retirement, that colonel got going.

Despite that late start he went on to become a general, to win a world war and to stop another, He became a university president. He became President of the United States and launched the Space Age.

And he shot a hole in one.

All these accomplishments came after the age of 50 for Dwight David Eisenhower.

So there is more than one way up—and there is no age limit —but there is no substitute for the energy, the willingness and the enthusiasm necessary for the climb.

Fainting Spells Common in Infants

Q — What is the cause of osteogenesis imperfecta? Can anything be done for it?

A — In this hereditary disease the bones are fragile and many of them may be broken during birth. There is no treatment for this condition and the infant usually dies. When it occurs several years after birth it is less severe and usually disappears after the child reaches puberty. In this form of the disease a child may break his leg just getting out of bed.

When the disease is recognized, an orthopedist will not only treat the fractures but also help to prevent further breaks.

Q — Our granddaughter, 10, has osteomyelitis in both her knees. Is this a crippling disease? What causes it and what is the best treatment?

A — Osteomyelitis is an infection of the bone marrow, usually caused by satphlococci following a skin infection, infected burn, chicken pox or an open fracture. The infected bone area must be opened, scraped and irrigated with an antibiotic and detergent. Before modern treatment with antibiotics became available the disease was often chronic and crippling.

Q — My son, 3, is a very poor eater. He jumps a lot in his sleep. Do you think he has worms?

A — He may or may not have worms but they would not account for his symptoms in any case. Variations in appetite are not unusual at this age and should be ignored unless your son is losing weight. Restless sleep is also normal, especially if a child has been subjected to an exciting romp just before bedtime.

Q — Our 18-month-old granddaughter has fainting spells which last only one or two seconds. She faints whenever she has the slightest injury or when she is scolded. What could cause them? How can we discipline her without precipitating a spell?

A — Fainting as a reflex following pain or fright is relatively common in infants. It is caused by a defect in the brain's reflex - regulating mechanism. If the fainting lasts longer than few seconds the child should be placed head downward to allow more blood to flow to the brain.

As long as the spells are only momentary they should cause no alarm and the child should be disciplined just as you would any other child. The spells will not affect her heart or mind but lack of discipline will be detrimental to her personality.

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The great Cavett experiment will begin on ABC-TV Monday.

On that day, the network will turn over to humorist Dick Cavett a series of three one-hour programs each week in prime time.

These programs will be of the talk-and-variety format that NBC-TV established with the "Tonight" show, that ABC-TV imitated with the Joey Bishop series, and that CBS-TV will copy when the late-night Merv Griffin entry debuts Aug. 18.

However—to repeat—the difference with the Cavett series is that it will be broadcast in the prime viewing hours.

His show will be seen each Monday, Tuesday and Friday, at 10 p.m. EDT. It is not on ABC-TV's new fall schedule, however, which means the network is counting on it mainly as a vacation-time conversation piece.

Nevertheless, if the series should somehow shake things up in prime time, and—by some fluke—get good ratings, it might obviously give ABC-TV a few ideas.

The odds against the Cavett series are, however, heavy—that is, from a ratings standpoint.

At any rate, Cavett now is about to make his big move. His premiere guests Monday are scheduled to be Liza Minnelli, the celebrated daughter of Judy Garland; Candice Bergen, the celebrated daughter of Edgar Bergen; Truman Capote, the celebrated writer, and James Coburn, the celebrated actor.

Next Tuesday the guests are expected to be Jane Fonda, the celebrated daughter of Henry Fonda; Joe Namath, who celebrates a lot, and Tom Jones, the ABC television singing star who has been described as a great radio personality.

A week from Friday, Cavett's guests will be Dick Benjamin and his wife Paula Prentiss; Stirling Moss, the auto racing driver, and the cast of the off-Broadway musical "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown," based on the "Peanuts" comic strip.

Houston Educator Says State Needs To Help Schools

AUSTIN (UPI) — John Cooper, a Houston educator, said unless private education gets state aid it will disappear from Texas.

"Good, nonpublic schools are beginning to die," he told the House Appropriations Committee.

Cooper supported a proposal by Rep.s David Evans, D—San Antonio and Joe Salem, D—Corpus Christi. The bill would provide $148 a year in state aid for each child attending private school.

A crowd of more than 300 cheered as Salem said children in private schools must be given an equal opportunity for education.

Evans said there are 130,000 Texas children in private schools. He said it would cost the state $78 million a year to educate them publicly.

When a dog finishes Champ in a field of 1220 competitors, it is something for the owner and — or handler to get pretty derstandable that Mrs. Lena Robinson, 620 N. Wells, is happy over the recent performance of her Bedlington Terrier, Champion Celin's Lucinda Lou — called simply "Lucy".

Lucy finished Championship May 11 at Albuquerque, N.M. under Judge Phil Marsh, Fort Wayne, Ind. Marsh is known as one of the 30 All-Breed judges in the United States.

This means, Mrs. Robinson is careful to point out, that there are only 30 show judges in the nation who are capable of judging all 115 breeds recognized by the American Kennel Club.

It takes 15 points with two majors to make to make an American Champion, the dog's owner notes, and Lucy finished first with three majors.

"Major means heavy competition and going winners over the others for points," Mrs. Robinson points out.

Lucy holds the record of 16 first place, four reserve, 13 winners, two best of winners, seven Best of Opposite Sex, six Best of Breed, plus one Second and one Fourth Terrier Group.

Lucy is quite a dog.

Last year Lucy's owner bred her to a Champion Son of the top-ranking Bedlington in the United States. When her puppies were eight monthsold one of these Melody, beat out her mother for points in the show ring at Amarillo. But the next day Lucy came back to go Best of Breed for points, and place fourth in Terrier group over six Champions, at Lubbock.

When Lucy won Reserve at Santa Fe, N.M. she scored against a field of 1061. She has won majors at Oklahoma City and Norman and finished first at Albuquerque. She also has been shown at Enid and Lawton, Okla., Salina, Hutchinson and Wichita, Kan., Grand Island, Neb., Amarillo, Odessa and Wichita Falls, Texas.

Lucy is the great granddaughter of Champion Rock Ridge Night Rocket, an immortal in dogdom. He was one of just two dogs ever to win Best in Show at both Westminster and Morris and Essex, This record has never been matched by any breed, Mrs. Robinson notes. Night Rocket sired a grand total of 38 champions, American, Mexican and Canadian. One of his sons held the record at two years 36 Best of Breed championships.

The Bedlington is the most outstanding of all terriers, Mrs. Robinson comments. It is unsurpassed in intelligence, is easy to train, gentle with children famous as a house pet and equally happy in city or country. It never sheds hair and has no body odor. Between trims, the dog needs only a good combing a few times each week.

"In other words" the owner points out "no more care than any other precious possession you own."

When you acquire a Bedlington, she adds, "you have a true, aristocrat, an enchanting companion, with a loyal heart and lovable nature."

The first dog to be called a Bedlington was born in 1825 and lived to the age of 15. When toothless and almost blind this dog drew a badger from its hold that other dogs had been unable to dislodge. It took a tough and hardy dog to win the esteem of miners at Bedlingtonshire England, For these men wanted a scrapper who would go to the earth after fox and badger, have a natural proclivity for icy waters ,and be able to tackle anything.

Fla. Her owner is a member of the Panhandle Kennel Club and serves on its board of directors. Mrs. Robinson acts as her own handler in the show ring. It costs $25 for a professional handler just to escort a dog into the ing, the Pampan says. "I can do as well with my on dog."

Mrs. Robinson agrees however, that the professional "can make a dog do things he'd never even tried before."

Young Bedlingtons are born coal black in color, gradually turning to the familiar ice blue. A puppy costs about $200, says the Pampa woman, who owns six. It takes from $500 to $1500 to finish a champion.

Mrs. Robinson also has two rare long-coat Chihauahua females named Heatherly Silver Mist and Ewecherami's Unique Angelique, both of whom won points at Santa Fe and Albuquerque.

HOLDING HER champion stance, Celin's Lucinda Lou, Bedlington Terrier, awaits the awarding of the blue Ribbon at Albuquerque, N. M., where she won championship honors in a field of 1220 competitors. The dog's owner, Mrs. Lena Robinson, Pampa who is also the handler, holds a loose rein on the winning Bedlington. Judge was Phil Marsh, one of only 30 All-Breed judges in the United States.

ELIMINATES CARD

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Internal Revenue Service has decided to eliminate "Form 1040A," the computer-sized punch card used by 20 million persons to file their tax returns this year. It will be replaced by a single sheet of paper to be used both by the people who used the old card form and by those who use the standard deductions. The agency said half of the 75 million individual tax returns made this year could be filed on a single sheet

Pentagon Halts Production of Costly 'Copter'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Pentagon has halted production of its $875 million Cheyenne helicopter project in a new "get tough" policy with defense contractors. Other such cancellations may be in the wind.

Nixon administration sources said the aim is to crack down on the price spiral which has sent the cost of planes, ships and other weapons soaring above original estimates.

In the Cheyenne case, the Army hired Lockheed Aircraft Corp. to develop, produce and supply parts for five years for 375 helicopter "gun ships" designed to be faster and better armed than types now used in Vietnam.

Lockheed had trouble designing a rotor system that would be stable. One of 10 test models crashed, killing the pilot. The Army notified Lockheed it was not meeting specifications. Lockheed proposed further developments and a delay in production, which was then scheduled to start in September.

Monday the Army rejected the Lockheed plan, halting its production contract for "default of the contractor." It said Lockheed could keep its development contract for the Cheyenne but threatened to terminate this also unless the firm comes up with a "satisfactory program" to over come difficulties.

The Amry asked Lockheed to return $54 million the firm has already received in production progress payments. It did not ask return of $90 million which the firm has been paid for development.

At Eurbank, Calif., Lockheed Board Chairman Daniel J. Haughton said the order was not justified by the development problems the firm encountered. He said Lockheed would vigorously contest through legal action "to protect oour financial position in this contract."

Accused Slayer Said Sane Enough

FORT WORTH (UPI) — A jury after a 15-minute hearing decided Monday that J. Loyd Parker Jr. was legally sane and Criminal Dist. Judge Byron Matthews ordered him held without bond for June 9 trial on a charge of murdering his father.

Parker is charged in an indictment with murdering his wealthy father May 2, 1963, in the family home near Rivercrest Country Club. Parker was described as having a "long-standing and bitter hate" of his father.

He was found insane shortly after the gun killing and sent to the Rusk State Hospital. Recently hospital psychiatrists advised Matthews that Parker was sane. A jury trial was necessary to legally restore Parker's sanity.

Because in private practice he once represented Parker, Dist. Atty. Frank Coffey disqualified himself and his staff from prosecuting Parker.

Assistant Dist. Attys. Doug Mulder and John Vance of Dallas, appointed special prosecutors, said they will try to get a long prison term for Parker.

Defense lawyers William F. "Bill" Alexander of Dallas and Fred Fick of Fort Worth will try to get a jury to declare Parker innocent.
