Passage of Farm Bill Is Delayed

Dairy-Livestock Amendment Fuss Pushed by Solon

WASHINGTON. Feb. 11 (AP). — Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo). today charged in the senate conferees on the farm bill "never intended" to retain the controversial dairy-livestock amendment in the measure.

The Wyoming senator urged Vice-President Garner to rule in favor of a point of order which was raised by Senator Schwellenback (D-Wash.) which would send the legislation back to conference.

Schwellenback demanded the amendment be put back in the bill in original form, preventing the use of land taken from production of major crops for the production of livestock and dairy products for commercial purposes.

The conferees, declaring the amendment was unworkable, changed it, they said, to permit "normal increases" in herbs and crops.

Schwellenbach argued that since both Senate and House voted for the original dairy amendment the conferees had no right to modify it.

He won ready support from Minority Leader McNary (R-Ore.) and Senator O'Mahoney.

Senate consideration of the complicated measure got off to a dull start when Senator Johnson (R-Calif.) forced reading of the entire bill. This took some three hours.

Large Audience Sees Junior Play At High School

Described by some as "the best play ever produced by the high school," the junior class play, "Growing Pains," was presented before an appreciative audience at the high school auditorium Thursday night.

Directed by Miss Agatha Bruner, the play lived up to its promise of providing an evening of hilarity by drawing an actual count of approximately 175 real laughs from the audience.

Portraying the ups and downs of modern adolescents as well as the trials of their perplexed parents, the unusually large cast of the play performed with smoothness and polish.

Repletes with truisms of life in 1938, the play proved well chosen, well cast, and intelligently coached.

Outstanding in the cast, all of whom performed their parts creditably, were Fredda Fae Turner, whose poised portrayal of Mrs. McIntyre, mother of the play's chief characters, showed an attractive individual style; Lynn Stephens, whose able characterization of Prof. McIntyre followed the role's development to the climax of the third act; John Dublin who was "George McIntyre" in quite natural style; Jessa Lynn Tuttle who proved her ability in the role of Terry McIntyre; and Jack Nobles, who almost stole the show in his bit as the stammering boy of the gang.

An audience estimated at 600 people saw the play on which the curtain went up at 7:30 o'clock.

Top Hereford Price At Amarillo Auction Paid By George Glass

AMARILLO, Feb. 11 (AP). — George Glass of Midland bought the top priced animal at the auction sale of D. L. McDonald Hereford bulls here Thursday afternoon, when 38 young bulls were sold for $6,940, an average of $182.63.

Next high price paid was $500, the bid made by Mrs. Bill McSpadden of Amarillo over her husband's bid of $475. Mrs. McSpadden was buying for Toney Chisum, who operates a ranch at Fort Sumner, N .M.

Wanted Money, Not Love, Wedding Off

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 10 (AP).—Sweet petals of a May-December romance withered and died Thursday when Miss Henrietta Pieper, who had waited 70 years for love to park on her doorstep, canceled her engagement to John Lorencik, 22-year-old bucolic swain. Miss Pieper told all: "I noticed he never seemed to want to come near me the way a fiance would. He only put his arms around me when the newsreels were grinding and the flashlights going off." Attempts to reach the youthful cavalier of the haystacks, who had fervently defended his intention not to wed a girl of his own age, "who would keep me out all night," were unsuccessful. But Miss Pieper said a-plenty: "My relatives and friends and even my banker told me he was after me for my money. I think they're right. Only (wistfully) I don't blame John."

Shell Pays $225,000 For Proven Acreage In The McClintic Pool

BY FRANK GARDNER.

Announcement was made today of the recent purchase by Shell Petroleum Corporation from Am-Tex Petroleum Corporation of two producing leases of 160-acres each, in the McClintic pool of Crane-Upton, for reported consideration of $225,000. It is said that the major portion of the consideration was in cash, with the balance to be paid out of oil.

Tracts changing hands were the McClintic "A" and "B" leases, with eight producing wells, with total daily potential of 1,925 barrels and total allowable of 190 barrels. The "A" lease is the south half of the north half of section 206, block F, C. C. S. D. & R. G. N. G. survey, and the "B" lease is the north half of the south half of the section.

There are five producers on the "A" lease, whose daily potential totals 1,361 barrels and allowable totals 122 barrels. The "B" lease has three producers, with combined daily potential of 564 barrels and allowable of 68.

Hole Caving.

Caving hole having retarded drilling progress, Magnolia No. 1-A J. H. McKee, Ordovician discovery in the Imperial area of northern Pecos, this morning had reached 5,326 feet in sand, shale and lime. It is carrying 2,200 feet of oil in the hole. No definite increases in pay have been logged since the well began deepening with standard tools from 5,294 feet, where it had bailed 1.6 barrels of 43-gravity sweet oil hourly on test. It is making its oil from the Simpson, middle Ordovician, which was topped at 4,775 feet. Only deep pay thus far encountered has been an oil sand from 5,271-80. The strike is located in section 24, block 9, H. & G. N. survey.

Gulf No. 3 McKnight, Ordovician test in western Crane, is preparing to plug back to 5,700 feet from 6,175, where it tested an average of 22 gallons of water hourly, with only a scum of oil. The well originally went to 6,278, 114 feet in the Ellenburger, lower Ordovician, but failed to show more than sulphur water.

Stanley A. Thompson No. 1 Elsinore Cattle Company, Pecos wildcat seeking deep production, is rigging up cable tools to drill ahead from 7,128 feet, where it tested dry. It is 19 miles south of Fort Stockton.

In western Tom Green, Humble's Ordovician wildcat, the No. 1 Lewis &Wardlaw, is drilling at 5,602 feet in white sand and streaks of shale.

Denver East Extension.

More saturated cores pulled today from Shell No. 1-C Baumgart southern Yoakum wildcat, strengthened indications that it will extend the Denver area a mile and a half farther east. Sixteen feet of lime recovered of section cored from 4,-881-99 showed varying degrees of saturation, with only slight porosity. Fifteen feet were recovered from 4,899-4,917. From 4,899 to 4,-905 showed no porosity, with 25 per cent saturation, while from 4,-905-17 was 100 per cent saturated, with good porosity. The prospect is in section 866, block D, John H. Gibson survey.

Driller called top of anhydrite at 2,175, datum of plus 1,460, in Gulf No. 1 J. C. Futch, west outpost to the Denver area. It is running slightly lower than the discovery, Denver No. 1 Whittenburg, a mile and 1,650 feet to the east, which had datum of plus 1,476 on the anhydrite. No. 1 Futch is 990 feet from the south and east lines of section 796, block D. It is drilling ahead below 2,400.

In the Denver pool, Ohio No. 1 Fairman, west offset to the discovery, is drilling at 4,823 in lime, and Wynne No. 1 Fairman is coring below 4,998 in lime.

Carter, Plymouth and Conoco No. 1 Giesecke, southeast Gaines test, had drilled to 5,650 feet in lime. It showed first sulphur water in samples at 5,485 feet, with a trace of oil.

Liquor control board authorities explain revenue figures tended to show dealers purchased holiday stocks in November, thereby suggesting low consumption in December.

By these statistics, per capita liquor consumption in December was .084 of a gallon compared with .088 in November.

1 In Hospital, One Is Jailed After Affray

Quarrel Ends With Throat of Painter Being Slashed Here

Warner S. Dean, painter, is in the county jail and Carl Twaddell, also a painter, is in a local hospital as the result of an alleged fight yesterday afternoon in northeast Midland.

Dean surrendered to officers immediately after Twaddell was taken to the hospital suffering from wounds reported to have been inflicted by a pocket knife on his face, throat and in his back. An attending physician reported Twaddell was resting well this morning and it is believed he will recover.

Dean was reported to have told County Attorney Merritt F. Hines this morning that the fight resulted when Twaddell appeared at his (Dean's) house and "cursed" both him and his wife regarding wages Dean alleged was due him. Dean further declared it was the second visit made by Twaddell during the day and that he conducted himself the same way both times. However, Dean declared, he was not at home when Twaddell made his first trip.

Dean waived examining trial this morning and was bound over on $500 bond pending action by the grand jury. He had not made the bond at noon.

Cleaner and More Healthful Midland Adopted as Slogan

"A Cleaner and More Healthful Midland" was adopted as the slogan for Midland's spring clean-up campaign at a meeting of the general clean-up committee in the chamber of commerce office last night, the city-wide clean-up drive being scheduled to get underway here tomorrow morning and continuing thru the following Saturday, February 19. The project is being sponsored by the City-County Federation and the chamber of commerce in co-operation with the Lions club, Rotary club, Midland county public health board, Midland county Red Cross chapter, the Fine Arts club and the city. Mrs. W. H. Sloan is general chairman.

Clean-up trucks furnished by the city will work in specially designated districts of the city each day during the week, citizens being urged to have all trash and rubbish gathered and in the back alleys when the trucks are working in their respective parts of town. The trucks will make only one round, residents being urged to have their trash ready.

Following is the schedule to which clean-up trucks will conform: Monday, February 14—North of the T. & P. Railroad and East of Main St. Tuesday—North of the T. & P. Railroad between Main and A streets. Wednesday—North of the T. & P. Railroad and west of A street. Thursday—South of the T. & P. Railroad and east of Main street. Friday—South of the T. & P. Railroad and west of Main street.

It is requested that all trash and rubbish be placed in sacks or other containers and in the alleys. No recalls will be made.

The full co-operation of every citizen of Midland is urgently requested in this, the most thorough clean-up campaign ever staged in Midland. Citizens are not only urged to clean up their own property, but they are requested to clean up or have cleaned up adjoining vacant lots so that their own property and the general appearance of the city will be made more sightly.

Blame Six Deaths on California Storms

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11 (AP). — Rivers swollen by 15 consecutive days of rain and snow reached or neared the danger level in the Sacramento Valley last night while central California counted six dead and surveyed widespread property damage resulting from wind of hurricane force.

Highway officials closed the flood gates at North Sacramento to protect the town from the American River.

The Sacramento River rose 1.85 feet above flood level at Red Bluff, 130 miles north of Sacramento, but settled back to slightly below flood level of 23 feet after pouring excess water over the adjacent lowlands.

The rain continued intermittently over most of the Pacific Coast because of another meterological disturbance from the north Pacific.

Weather forecasts predicted occasional rain today, which would establish a new storm record for California. The present rain and snow siege equaled the record of 15-day storm in February, 1936.

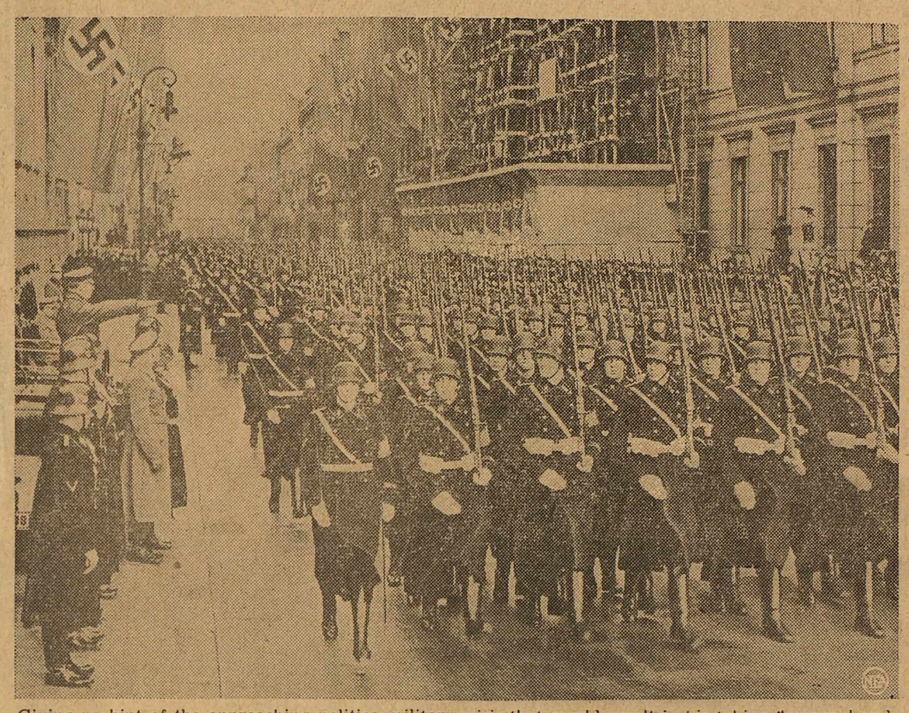

Falling trees and collapsing buildings accounted for the six deaths in the terrific winds which struck 300 miles of the central California coast and swept inland 200 miles.

Alliance Unknown to Hull May Have Been Made, Johnson Says

WASHINGTON. Feb. 11 (AP). — A suggestion that there may be a secret alliance between the United States and Great Britain about which even Secretary Hull does not know, came Thursday from Senator Johnson (R-Calif.)

In the midst of bitter senate debate over foreign policy and the $800,000,000 naval expansion proposed by President Roosevelt, the Californian declared:

"I fear that the secretary of state and I were taken for a ride the other day, and that, with neither of us knowing exactly what was in the offing or what had been agreed upon, perhaps something was in the wind which he did not know and I do not know.

"Events occurring since my resolution was presented lead me to that belief."

Johnson, one of the senators who prevented American entry into the League of Nations after the world war, proposed recently that the senate ask Secretary Hull whether there was any understanding between the United States and any other power for concerted action in event of war. He also had suggested that the secretary of state be asked whether there was any agreement for naval co-operation.

Hull replied, before the senate had acted upon Johnson's request, that there was no such understanding.

Johnson made plain he was in favor of the big navy bill now pending, but didn't want the navy to be used in concert with "any nation on earth."

Earlier in th day, the house naval committee heard a leading peace advocate suggest that the proposed naval expansion was part of a "policy of threat and bluff" upon which President Roosevelt embarked in his Chicago "quarantine" speech.

Barstow Remains Ward County Seat

PECOS, Feb. 11 (AP).—The cities of Monahans and Barstow, which have been wrangling for months over the location of the Ward county seat, must start from scratch again.

Judge J. A. Drane Thursday voided the November election, upon the agreement of opposing counsel, in which the county voted 1,149 to 467 for removing the courthouse to Monahans.

The election was challenged on the grounds it violated a statute requiring that 10 years elapse between county seat elections, and that there had been misconduct at the polls.

Barstow attempted to disqualify sufficient votes to give it a victory.

The judgment left the courthouse at Barstow and gave Monahans the privilege of calling another election if it desires.

Results of Shake-Up Watched

German Situation Closely Studied By 'Big' Nations

By Associated Press.

Europe was gravely concerned today by the reshuffle of power in Rumania which raised a question of Bucharest's future European friendships, and still watched anxiously for results of another drastic reshuffle, that of a week ago in Germany.

The liberal Central government in Rumania replaced an anti-Semitic regime which in the six weeks it lasted had been looked upon as a swing to Fascism or Nazism.

In Berlin, Nazi spokesmen tried to squelch the biggest crop of rumors since the Nazi "blood purge" of 1934.

Meanwhile, the war in Spain and China rolled on without decisive result.

Dr. Miron Cristea, patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox church, became premier and virtual dictator of Rumania after the anti-Semitic cabinet of Premier Octavian Goga resigned.

The 68-year-old church head, who at first refused King Carol's plea to take over the government, formed a cabinet of centre and liberal orientation which will rule without parliament.

Special parliamentary elections, scheduled for March 2, were cancelled and all party activities were suspended temporarily. The constitution was placed in abeyance.

Pending the formulation of a new constitution the government will be ruled by decree.

The new cabinet of Dr. Cristea, which included seven former premiers, took its oath of allegiance before the king early this morning.

Goga was reported to have declined offer of a post, saying he wanted to travel abroad.

16 Million More For Army Asked By the President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP). — President Roosevelt has asked congress for a supplementary appropriation of $16,880,000 to strengthen the army, the house appropriations committee announced today.

The money was reported to meet recommendations made in his national defense message January 28.

Major-General Johnson Haygood, whose retirement followed his temporary suspension by the President for criticism of some of the administration policies, told the house naval committee that national defense and security of this country are "being made a football of politics."

Agriculture Dept. Declares Seed Is The "Big Factor"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP).—Agriculture department cotton specialists reported today experiments showed seed—not weather and soil, as commonly supposed—was the "big factor" in determining cotton quality.

The findings were based on experiments of 16 varieties of cotton in experiment stations over the south during three years.

Specialists said planting better varieties would help growers who had been producing cotton untenderable because of short staple lengths.

CRANIUM CRACKERS

Agents of the federal secret service had been on the track of a gang of counterfeiters for months.

During the course of their investigation they learned the names and aliases of all members of the band; that one member of the gang was designated each week to act as "distributor" of the spurious currency, and that the weekly "appointment" to the distributing post was issued in coded notes. Each member of the gang received his note every Monday.

The secret service men knew, of course, that their next step was to intercept and read one of these notes before it reached the man fom whom it was intended.

Weeks later one of the agents managed to intercept one of these notices. The member of the gang who was named in the code message as distributor for the week was trailed and arrested as he contacted a buyer of the counterfeit currency. The note read:

"Find a crime in clergymen."

WHAT WAS THE NAME OF THE COUNTERFEITER THE AGENTS ARRESTED?

What Do You Read in the Newspaper?

When you pick up your Reporter-Telegram each evening, or your favorite state or territorial paper in the morning, what do you turn to first? Some consult the number one banner story on page one, some turn to the society pages, some make a rush for the comic pages to see what Wash Tubbs is into now, some look for bargains in the classified ads, some (few) read the Town Quack, and some even read the editorials.

Dr. George Gallup of New York, vice president of Young and Rubicam, Inc., one of our leading advertising agencies, and director of the Institute of Public Opinion, knows more about daily newspaper reading habits of today than anybody else. He has just compiled figures from 40 American cities, representing the results of 100,000 interviews by trained researchers, on reading habits.

Mr. Gallup reached some interesting conclusions, chief among which was that newspapers give much more space to certain features, such as markets, movie columns, puzzles, bed-time stories, and horoscopes, than interest in them warrants.

Mr. Gallup gave figures for both men and women readers—and there is a great difference in the reading habits of the sexes.

Testifying to our growing laziness in the matter of reading, the picture page led everything else—even the weather—in interest. More men and women pointed to the picture page than to any other one feature when asked: "Show me what you read in today's paper." Ninety per cent of the women, and 85 per cent of the men, read the picture page.

Among the women, the next mostly widely-read feature was the "best store ad," that is, the outstanding ad representing, presumably, a department store.

Then came the paper's leading comic strip, which was next in popularity for both men and women; and, believe it or not, 5 per cent more women than men read the comics. Even the average comic and the poorest comic had a larger reader interest than most features. Society and women's features proved fairly widely read among the women, and hardly at all among the men. Sports, on the other hand, had about the same percentage of readers among the men, that society and women's features had among the women.

Oddity, editorial and comic cartoons were among the leaders in features, the men being more interested in the oddity and editorial cartoon, and the women in the comic cartoon.

Twenty per cent of the men readers looked at the stock market report, and 10 per cent of the women followed them. Other market news was not so widely read.

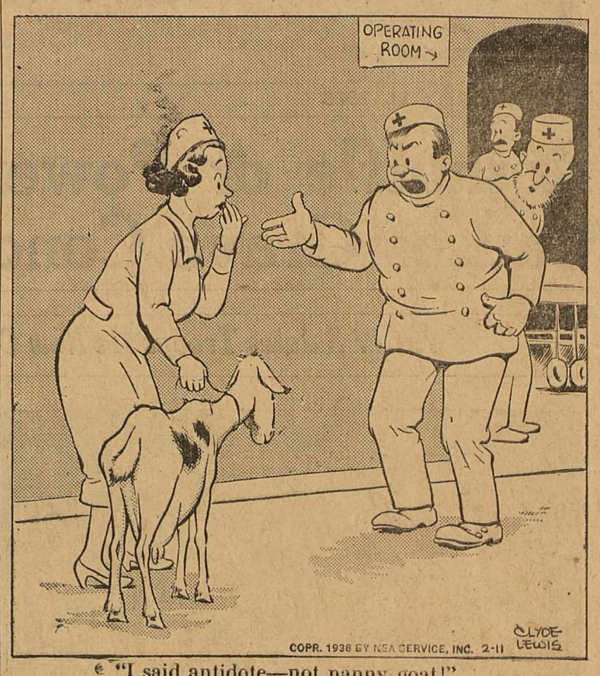

Obituary news was read by about 10 per cent of the men, but 40 per cent of the women were interested.

The weather led all other front page news in interest, with men and women about equally divided. Fifty per cent of those questioned read the weather news. The lead news story was read by 50 per cent of the men and slightly less than 40 per cent of the women. The lead editorial was read by nearly 25 per cent of the men and about 12 per cent of the women.

The Washington correspondence column, surprisingly, was read by only about 15 per cent of the men and 10 per cent of the women. The New York column was read by slightly over 30 per cent of the women and about 20 per cent of the men.

What do you read daily? How would you answer the request: "Show me what you read in yesterday's paper."

Hold Everything!

"I said antidote—not nanny goat!"

The Town Quack

Roger W. Babson's weekly article, to appear Sunday on this page, will be of interest to those who are concerned about what the government wants business to do. One often hears the charge that business has never offered any constructive program to the government. You hear many reports that big business has shut down in a lot of ways, just to put pressure on the administration. Watch for Babson's article Sunday in which he answers the president's plea for co-operation from business.

An oil man told this story:

Here is an old, old story the oil men are tetlling:

A lease hound was sent away, away back into the hills of New Mexico, and he was told to tie up all the land in a certain area. And when the lease hound reported back to his head office he told of one of his experiences as follows:

"I got the farthest away from civilization I've ever been in my life, but I finally came to a little shack. There wasn't anyone at home, but I saw two people out in a field and I walked over to where they were. And can you imagine what I saw? There was an old woman and an old man, and the old woman had the old man hitched to a play. They were trying to put in a garden or a little feed or something.

"I tried to talk to the old woman and all she did was just look at me. She wouldn't say a word. Then I walked around to the old man who was hitched to the plow and I talked and argued with him. I explained and explained that I'd give him $1 and acre and a 25-cent rental for 10 years and would lease all the land they had.

"But the old man just stood there with his head down. I couldn't get a word or a move out of him. Finally I thought I'd try the old trick of showing him a lot of money. I had about $200 in bills in my pocket and I brought them out.

"'Look, look!' I said to him. 'Look at all this money I'll give you for your lease'."

"And as I did this I shook the roll of bills right under his nose. And do you know what the old fool did. So help me Gawd, he ran away and broke that plow all to pieces."

Deduction for Business Expenses

Deductions for business expenses form a large item in the return of many taxpayers and must have certain qualities to be allowed. Such deduction must be for an expenditure in connection with the maintenance and operation of the taxpayer's business or business properties; it must be an ordinary expense and it must be a necessary expense. In insisting upon the latter qualifications, the Bureau of Internal Revenue is upheld by the Board of Tax Appeals and the courts. Ordinary and necessary expenses are only those which are usual and essential in the case of similar taxpayers, "and do not include extraordinary and nonessential expenses."

Typical business expenses of a mercantile establishment are amounts paid for advertising, hire of clerks and other employes, rent, light, heat, water, stationery, stamps, telephone, property insurance, and delivery expense.

The expenses of a manufacturing business include labor, supplies, repairs, light and heat, power, selling cost, administration, and other similar charges.

The farmer may deduct all necessary expenses incurred in the production, harvesting, and marketing of crops, including labor, cost of seed and fertilizer used, cost of minor repairs to farm buildings (other than his dwelling), and small tools used up in the course of a year or two. A taxpayer may conduct more than one business and claim the business deductions of each.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed in this article are those of Mr. Dutcher, NEA-Reporter-Telegram Washington correspondent, and are not to be construed as expressing the editorial policy of The Reporter-Telegram.

WASHINGTON. Feb. 11 — Although Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo's health has improved in the last few days it's still a toss-up whether he will resign from the Court.

Cardozo is still in a weakened condidtion and he will be unable to resume his place on the bench before next fall, if then.

His colleagues on the Court are using their influence to keep him from resigning. They want to keep this great jurist on the job—and most of them, it can be said, fear that he might be replaced by a man who would be too much like Justice Hugo Black.

* * *

One-Man Dissenter.

Personal relations between Black and his liberal colleagues are excellent.

But the Alabaman's self-assurance has surprised and even disconcerted them. Black neither asks nor takes advice from his more experienced brethren. He has embarked on a series of one-man dissenting opinions which delight many liberal laymen, but scandalize the conservative justices and cause even the cautious liberal justices to say privately that one Black on the Court is enough.

In the Indianapolis Water Works rate case, which the majority sent back to a lower court on technical grounds, Black insisted the issue should have been decided promptly. He made what resembled a senatorial speech against absurdities of the cost of reproduction-new valuation theory and in favor of the prudent investment theory.

Are Corporations Persons?

In another case Black denounced the famous old Supreme Court decision that a corporation was a "person," with a human being's rights under the Fourteenth Amendment. Apparently Black intends to slam whenever possible at the Supreme Court's "usurpations" of power in the last century.

"He is shooting in the right direction, but with blank cartridges," said one liberal justice of Black's corporation-person dissent, explaining that, although he felt Black had delivered an able opinion on the subject, it had little practical application to affairs before the court.

As to the Indianapolis dissent, liberal justices wondered whether Black realized that the public utilities themselves might, under changed future conditions, sometime espouse the prudent investment theory as the best way to hold up watered financial structures.

The liberal justices pray that the next appointee may be a liberal of the Felix Frankfurter type who has a thorough grounding in the history of the law. They are pleased with appointment of Solicitor General Stanley Reed, whom they describe as an "excellent workman" on the Court.

Persistent reports that Brain Truster Tom Corcoran, Roosevelt's fast-moving all-round handy man, has been whost-writing Black's dissenting opinions are fantastic and absurd. Black writes the opinions himself and is darned proud of them.

The yarn appears to have grown from a casual and facetious remark made by Mrs. Virginia Durr, the Justice's sister-in-law, at a dinner party. Mrs. Durr knows Corcoran and his prodigious reputation as a speech writer for the President and others.

"Hugo is so swamped with work these days that he may have to get Tom Corcoran to help him," said Mrs. Durr.

She laughed when she said it—but in Washington stories have a way of growing out of nothing very much.

The Federal Communications Commission blast at Mae West and the broadcasting company which carried her celebrated lines was more of a grandstand publicity stunt than a sincere attempt to keep the ether pure. The F. C. C. was far from shocked.

"I never yet have seen a Mae West movie," said Commissioner Norman S. Case after hearing the transcription of the broadcast. "It's about time I did."

So off he went to Mae's latest picture and enjoyed himself immensely.

Attention to the new taxi service, the Service Cab company, was called today by the owner, Charlie Robertson. Day and night service with reliable drivers was promised by Robertson in inviting the public to use his cars.

Paris Says Late Winter Fashions Are Useful Through Early Spring

As the sun that glistens on the stark, denuded trees in the Bois de Boulogne becomes a little warmer, a little brighter, Madame steps forth in a costume suit. It fills her needs of the moment, is sure to be just as useful during balmy spring weeks when the giant trees are covered with new green leaves and the air is filled with the odor of creamy white narcissus. This model, created by Molyneux, is of lightweight black lainage. It includes a slim dress, trimmed at neckline and waist with steel nailhead embroidery on chiffon, a seven-eighths coat, finished with bands of shiny black astrakhan to match dress pockets and muff.

After-School Snack No Longer Frowned Upon for Child

"The worm has turned", so to speak, in the matter of after school snacks, and nutritional experts and doctors have now put their seal of approval on a practice which formerly was looked upon with askance. Confinement in a class-room, school room activities and hard play at recess time, stimulate normal hunger in a child that needs to be satisfied when he comes trooping in after school demanding something to eat. Making the child wait until dinner time is really an injustice to his well being, specialists say, and his cry for food at three or four o'clock in the afternoon is not a mere whim but a genuine expression of hunger.

A light, nutritious lunch after school will not spoil the child's appetite for dinner. Heavy sweets are to be avoided, of course, and foods that are too filling are taboo. But an active child really needs a sandwich and a glass of milk or a cooky and a piece of fruit to supply energy for backyard football and outdoor games.

Open-face sandwiches spread with light cheese, potted meats, or even just plain butter, accompanied by a glass of milk or a piece of fruit makes an ideal energy-giving lunch that satisfies the child's hunger and allows the mother to quit worrying about her child having no appetite for dinner.

Another good "munching lunch" to serve home-from-school guests is Shredded Ralston, buttered, salted, and toasted. The bits of this new whole wheat cereal are not so filling and rich as nuts, but are energizing and nutritious, and a sure favorite with children.

The War Department recently ordered 95 basic combat planes and spares having a total value of $1,490,972.

Trio of Women's Clubs Honors Girl Scouts With Valentine Party Thursday

Forty-two girls were present for the Valentine party honoring Girl Scouts of the town for which the City-County Federation, the Fine Arts club and the Woman's Wednesday club were hostesses at the Country Club Thursday afternoon.

The Scouts met at the scout hall at the usual time and were driven to the clubhouse in cars.

Introducing the fun-schedule for the afternoon was a heart hunt. As soon as the girls arrived they were instructed to find as many hearts as possible of the number which had been hidden. The girl finding the largest number was awarded a prize.

Each guest then received gum which she was instructed to chew during the bingo games which were next on program. Prizes were awarded the bingo winners.

An unique sculpture contest in which each girl was bidden to mold an animal out of her chewing gum followed, the result being a whole menagerie of strange, clever creatures. The winner of this contest was also presented with a prize.

Refreshments were served with Valentine heart candies following the holiday motif.

Serving as hostesses for the afternoon were: Mrs. J. Howard Hodge, who was general chairman of arrangements for the party, Mmes. L. Peters, A. P. Shirey, M. R. Hill, Andrew Fasken, Gilmore, T. D. Kimbrough, W. G. Whitehouse, and Miss Helen Fasken.

"The Great Emancipator"

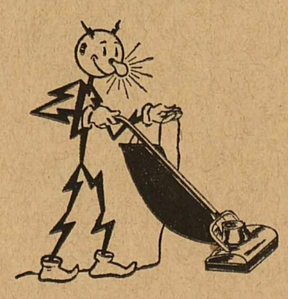

"Cheap Electricity has freed us from household drudgery"

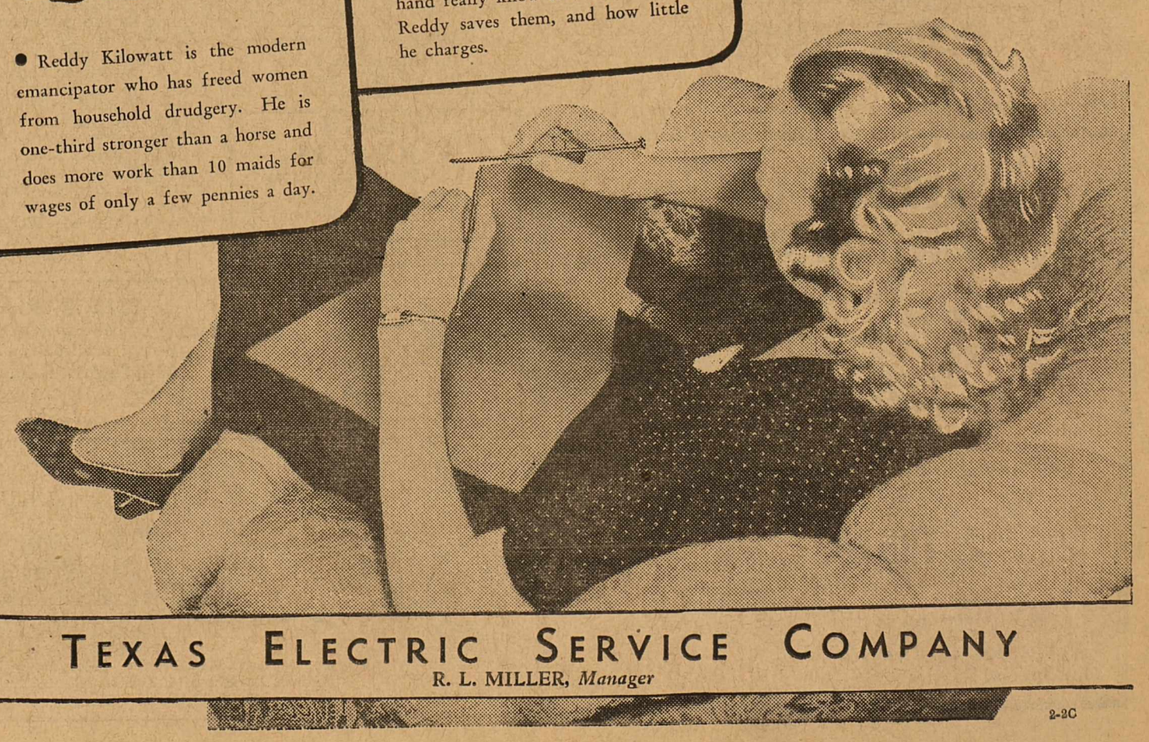

• Of all the back-breaking work around the home, Reddy likes best to do the washing. Only those housewives who have washed by hand really know how much work Reddy saves them, and how little he charges.

• Ironing isn't an easy task, but with modern electric iron or an electric ironer, Reddy does a better job, and faster than was possible before he began to free women from hard work and to save them money.

• Reddy Kilowatt is the modern emancipator who has freed women from household drudgery. He is one-third stronger than a horse and does more work than 10 maids for wages of only a few pennies a day.

Work Starts Soon on $3,000,000 Federal Exhibit at New York World's Fair 1939

NEW YORK—Bids will be asked within a few weeks and ground will be broken in April for the $3,000,000 Federal Area at the New York World's Fair 1939, shown above in model form. Here, in hundreds of exhibits, murals and sculptures the history of our government and an explanation of its operations will be furnished Fair visitors. The large structure on the left is the Federal Building and the eight others form the Hall of Nations which will house many exhibits of foreign governments, 62 of which have already agreed to participate. Uniformed pomp and pageantry will mark the ceremonies in the area and a large parade ground will be constructed in the center of the section for the purpose. The background and functions of Congress and the courts will be interpreted in the two Federal Building towers.

Quints Get Thrills on Their Own Toboggan Slide in Dionneville

(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

Here's action for you, and proof that what goes up must come down! The Dionne quints, like little polar teddy-bears, are showing you their toboggan-chute. That's Dr. Dafoe putting his hands on Emilie's head as she completes a slide, and that's Marie who's starting up the wrong chute. She'd better watch out, or Annette will be running her down. Yvonne and Cecile are going up the right way, using the cleated incline. Six or seven feet may not look high to grownups, but it's a squeal-provoking thrill when you're "going-on-four."

'Hunch and Guess' System of Planning Roads Declared Out

AUSTIN, Texas. — Abandonment of the old 'hunch and guess' system of planning highway transportation needs in favor of rational planning based on facts marks a major step forward in the highway construction field, according to an article by Charles E. Simons, editor, in the February issue of Texas Parade.

"In a rather obscure office in Austin is a group of technicians who are up to their ears in maps, files and data," writes Mr. Simons. "They are going through these data and material with a fine-toothed comb searching for only one thing—facts. And on those facts will be planned the highway of tomorrow. This group of engineers and experts has been at work approximately two years gathering information from many sources and now are piecing together their voluminous data so that the highway planners of tomorrow will be able to draft a construction program that will be economical and meet road transportation needs.

"The work is a joint project between the Texas Highway Department and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and was started in April, 1936. It is under the direction of G. G. Edwards. The gigantic task of making a highway inventory was undertaken after engineers came to the conclusion that in many instances they were working blindly and haphazardly in their efforts to plan and construct a first class highway system. Too many times in this highly technical and practical field, engineers realized too late the error of certain practices; saw where they had built insufficiently or had overbuilt. They recognized that the current system of highways had developed without regard for a wide viewpoint of the highway transportation field and, like Topsy, "had just grown up."

"The Highway Planning Survey is making maps of every county in Texas showing all existing cardinal and secondary roads. Along each route every farm, school, church, community center, industry was charted and shown on the basic map. It includes the rivers that must be bridged, rural mail and school bus routes, the routets followed by railroads and airlines and the traffic over each highway. In short, the maps, when finished, will show the highway planners of tomorrow the need for roads through a certain area. They will have a picture of the existing transportation facilities. They will be able to determine on the basis of facts whether public conveniences and necessity demands a road through a specified area and, from the information gathered to decide the type of construction most feasible.

"Although the Texas survey still is far from complete and has not reached the stage where accurate conclusions may be drawn, the information gathered already has found a multiplicity of uses. A central Texas dairymen applied for a copy of one of the basic county transportation maps to assist him in lyaout of milk routes. An engineering firm retained to plan a rural electrification program through several counties resorted to the Planning Survey's basic maps to determine where the lines should be located. Many chambers of commerce have requested copies of maps for their territories; the Railroad Commission is using them extensively in connection with applications for truck permts; during the extensive maneuvers undertaken last summer by the Eight Corps Area, Planning Survey maps found wide useage; the Texas Adjutant General's Department has requested eight complete files of the maps for use in recruiting and mobilization. As the maps are completed and the information correlated, the maps will find other extensive military uses.

"When the survey is completed, Texas engineers will have a complete and comprehensive picture of this state's transportation system; The Federal Bureau of Public Roads will have a broad picture of the nation's road layout. The state has profited in many ways already from the survey, but the full fruits will be realized when engineers have sifted through the maze of information and begin to apply the facts to planning the highway of tomorrow.

Smiles Made Mandatory As Dentist Drill Hums

BERKELEY, Cal. (U.P.) — Three students who played parts in the college's new educational film entitled "Procedures in Operative Dentistry" are credited here with outdoing the most dare devil deeds of the stunt actors at Hollywood.

To play their part in the film they had to sit-in on a six reel film and undergo all of the actual operations of what is known to the dental profession as "preparation of a cavity" and that without novocaine and the necessity of maintaining pleasant faces in order not to discourage prospective patients when the film is shown. No faking of any kind either by the dentists or by the three students was permitted.

Head G-Man, as Author Classifies 'Rats' and Gives Their Case History

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Parental overindulgence is singled out as one of the greatest contributors to present day crime by J. Edgar Hoover in a full length book, "Persons in Hiding" (Little Brown), just published.

The director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, as an author, carries on his battle to rip the last shred of glorification from "big shot" gangsters. He debunks some soft-voiced excuses for crime such as the "embittered man" theory; "never had a chance" argument; "didn't know any better" apology, and the "too much temptation" explanation.

Hoover calls particular attention to the fact that nearly 20 per cent of the major criminals are under 21. He goes into his FBI files to present the case of "Ma" Barker who reared four criminal sons and was killed with one of them in the battle with G-Men at Oklawaha, Fla. Hoover calls her "The mother lode of crime." She typifies parental overindulgence in a most vicious way.

The parade of the infamous in Hoover's lineup includes many others who are either dead or in prison. now — Alvin Karpis, John Hamilton, John Dillinger, "Baby Face" Nelson, "Machine Gun" Kelly and Kathryn Kelly, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, Gaston Means and a horde of smaller fry. The chapter on "The Amazing Mr. Means" is a true-life fiction-like thriller. Hoover was a subordinate in the department when Means was a special agent and he gives first hand information.

Another criminal type, as unusual as Means, is described by Hoover. This man, once almost a legendary figure in the criminal world, is Edward Wilhiem Bentz, in Federal prison now for robbing a national bank. He was the type who regarded "Pretty Boy" Floyd as a cheap thug and Dillinger as an upstart. Bentz operated for more than 25 years, and was known to police officers as the shrewdest, most resourceful, intelligent and dangerous bank robber in existence. Eventually, however, Hoover points out, he made a mistake by running afoul the "Federals."

In the tracking down and slaying of Dillinger, Hoover reveals that the names of the three agents who killed the outlaw never have been made public. He pays a tribute to their marksmanship in describing how Dillinger attempted to throw a woman in front of him as he drew a revolver to shoot down the G-men closing in on him.

Hoover closes his book with a denouncement of "venal politics" in law enforcement. He believes the time will come when an overwhelming public demand will result in all law enforcement branches being placed on a career basis, completely divorced from "pull" and "drag" influence.

Fullback Nominated By Bible as "Key" Man of Longhorns

AUSTIN, Feb. .. — Wallace Lawson, hard-driving 180-pound fullback from Cleburne, will be Dana Bible's "key man" next fall, it appears as the Texas Longhorns swing through their second week of winter training.

Bible has Lawson tagged for the important fullback slot, the position he occupied the latter part of the '37 season.

In addition the Longhorn coach plans to hand Lawson the signal-calling assignmet.

Many of Bible's '37 troubles centered around the absence of a first-class quarterback. Lawson has had little experience at that chore, but he is willing and, Bible thinks, capable.

It would not be surprising to see Bullet Grey move up into the blocking position usually occupied by the signal-calling. Grey divided time with Lawson last season.

The comeback Lawson made in '37 deserves highest commendation. After breaking his leg in midsummer, he refused to give up the idea of playing football and finally Bible sent him hobbling into the Arkansas game. On the first play Lawson ...ured a bone in his hand. Despite ... everything, Lawson was the ...ar fullback before the season ...over.

Conservation Task In State Declared One-Third Finished

COLLEGE STATION. — Texas' fight for soil and water conservation, started some 25 years ago, has accomplished one-third of its objective, according to the annual report of M. R. Bentley, agricultural engineer of the Texas A. & M. College Extension Service.

The figures are based on a survey made by county agricultural agents in November, 1937, Bentley said. The survey reveals that 20,389,492 acres of crop land are in need of protection against soil and water loss, while protection measures have been taken on 10,587,744 acres.

The work went forward at a steady rate in 1937, the report reveals. During the past year, 890,781 acres of crop land were terraced, 2,166,898 acres of crop land contoured but not terraced, and 232,632 acres of pasture land were terraced, contour listed, or protected in a similar manner.

Thus more than three million acres of crop land were added to the area previously terraced and contoured, while the 232,632 acres of pasture land protected against loss of soil and water compared very favorably with the 100,000 acres so treated in 1936.

A major development during 1937 was the increased use of county road machinery in the construction of terraces, Bentley pointed out. Of the total acreage terraced in 1937, terraces were built on 373,009 acres by county machinery. The arrangement applied to 170 counties in '36, while commissioners' courts in 189 counties made county equipment available for use in '37. The usual arrangement is to furnish the equipment at cost of operation.

County agricultural agents continued training schools throughout the year, and there are now 9,261 men and 6,266 boys who are qualified to run terrace lines, the report shows.

Demonstration of Tire Stability Is Given by Seiberling

One of the most unique demonstrations to be held in Midland lately was conducted in the private dining room of Hotel Scharbauer last night by C. M. Bacon, engineer of the Seiberling Rubber company, and Tom H. White, state distributor for the same concern. The affair was sponsored by the Shook Tire company of this city.

More than 100 nails and spikes were driven into a Seiberling tire and Seiberling "self seal" tube during the demonstration to prove the merits of the tube. It was not necessary to "patch" the tube after the nails were pulled out. The tire and tube used in the demonstration last night were mounted on one of the wheels of White's car this morning and driven to Amarillo.

Bacon has been associated with the tire tube industry for the last 18 years and is reputed to be one of the outstanding engineers in that industry.

Courthouse Clock Is Now in 48th Year

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP).—The clock in the court house tower here, which has told the hour to generations of citizens of the capital of Hill county for 47 years, recently inspired a clockmaker to higher mathematics.

After an inspection, the clockman computed the old timepiece had ticked off 41,720 hours, 20,703,200 minutes and 1,482,192,000 (billion) seconds.

The revolutions made by the bell governor controlling the striking of the hour was 26,785,300. The escapement roller on the control regulating the strike of the clock, originally a half inch in diameter, has worn down to about the size of a ten-penny nail.

This record was made working 24 hours daily, amid storm and calm, high temperature and low, blue northers and balmy southers to accommodate the wayfarer and sojourner for two score and seven years.

Rooster Makes Eyes At Duck and Keeper Says Spring Is Near

HOUSTON (AP).—Hans Nagel, keeper of the Houston zoo, claims no skill in prophecy, yet predicts an early spring.

The basis of his forecast, Nagel says, is that the Hawaiian game rooster is making eyes at the Falfurrias tree duck in the zoo.

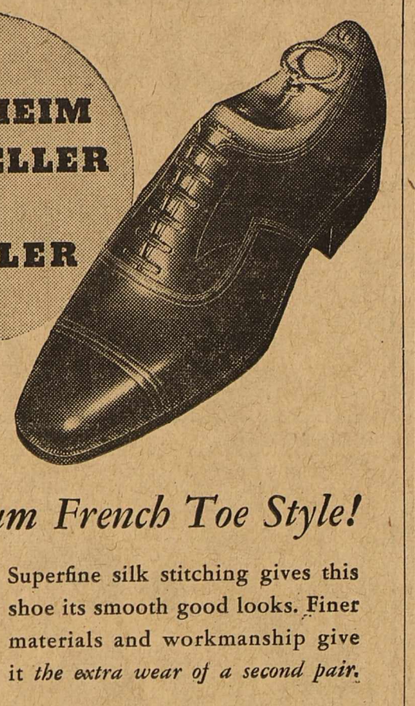

"It never fails," he says, "when that game rooster begins to show interest in that old duck, spring is not far away."

New Hotels Being Built in Mexico

LAREDO (AP).—Manuel Alonzo Florida, manager of an insurance company at Mexico City, announced here recently his company was building two modern tourist hotels at Morelia and Lake Patzcuaro, two of the most ancient towns in southern Mexico. Known as "towns of eternal spring," the inhabitants of Morelia and Lake Patzcuaro adhere to the customs prevailing 400 years ago when the Spaniards came.

Florida said the buildings, costing 500,000 pesos each, would be inaugurated by President Lazaro Cardenas upon completion of paved highways to the towns this spring.
