Two Jap Ships Lashed And Others Scattered

Large Merchant Vessel Included

Other Areas Feel Lash Of Bombers

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Saturday, April 3.—Two Japanese ships have been bombed by Allied planes off Kavieng, New Ireland, the high command announced today.

Four-motored bombers, raiding at dusk, found a number of enemy ships in the vicinity of Kavieng, which is approximately 550 miles northeast of the Allied base of Port Moresby, New Guinea. The ships were scattered in the area south of Steffen Strait.

Area Of Recent Sinkings

This was the same area from which the Japanese recently sent four destroyers bent on carrying badly needed supplies to troops in New Guinea. only to have one sunk off Finschhafen, New Guinea, and the other three were forced to flee.

"Two large explosions indicated probable hits on a 10,000 ton merchant vessel and a 6,000 ton cargo ship was observed settling by the bow after having been straddled by bombs," the communique reported concerning the Kavieng raid.

"Near misses were obtained on other vessels but darkness prevented an adequate assessment of damage. Simultaneously with this attack the airdrome at Kavieng was bombed.

"No interception was attempted and all our planes returned."

On New Guinea, where Allied ground troops for many weeks have been facing the Japanese in something of a stalemate in the approaches to Lae and Salamaua, Allied planes bombed the main coastal road above Madang over which the Japanese might try to bring supplies down to the Huon gulf.

New Fires Are Set

At Finschhafen, near where the four Japanese destroyers were turned back, four-motored bombers set new fires along the waterfront. Fires there have been almost continuous for the week as day after day Allied planes dropped bombs along the coastal side of the Huon peninsula town.

Repeating visits of other days this week, Allied attack planes strafed enemy positions in the vicinity of Mubo which is 15 miles south of Salamaua.

The communique continued to emphasize that no Japanese planes in the Lae Salamaua area rose to oppose the raiders. The Japanese have airdromes in that sector.

Farm Bloc Plans Hard Fight To Override FDR's Veto Of Bankhead Higher Price Bill

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—With the assertion that present checks on wages and prices must be firmly maintained, President Roosevelt today vetoed the Bankhead bill and set the stage for a critical battle between administration supporters in Congress and legislators demanding higher farm prices.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala), author of the measure, which would increase ceiling prices on some farm commodities, said a determined effort would be made to override the veto when the question is brought up next Tuesday. Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) was none too optimistic that the Senate would sustain the President, but said the House might. He remarked that the' 'City" vote is much larger in the House.

No Group Advantage

In returning the bill to the Senate unsigned, Mr. Roosevelt vigorously declared that no economic group could hope to gain advantage in war time.

"The time has come," he said, "when all of us—farmers, workers, managers and investors—must realize that we cannot improve our living standards in a period of total war. On the contrary, we must all cut our standards of living for the duration."

For that matter, he said, enactment of the Bankhead bill would not aid farmers in the long run, but instead would set off an inflationary upward spiral of both wages and prices which would add to the burdens of all and make "the winning of the war more difficult and gravely imperil our chances of winning the peace."

The Bankhead measure would forbid the inclusion of government benefit payments in calculations of parity prices for farm products. (Parity prices are figured by the agriculture department to mean a "fair return" to farmers.)

Original Vote

The bill was approved originally by votes of 78 to 2 in the Senate and 149 to 40 in the House, far larger margins than the two-thirds vote required to override a presidential veto.

Mr. Roosevelt's message was a 2,500-word major pronouncement on the whole question of economic stabilization, and in effect served notice on union labor leaders that they must not expect general wage increases exceeding the War Labor board's "little steel" formula.

Three Slain In Tulsa Shooting

TULSA, April 2. (AP) — Two women employes of a downtown oil company were shot to death today, officers said, by the former husband of one, who then fatally wounded himself.

The dead were:

Mrs. Ghadys Echols Branscum, and Miss Neal Cone, roommates and fellow workers in the legal department of Mid-Continent Petroleum Co., and Austin Branscum, who was found lying beside the bodies of the women.

Charles Klein, company treasurer, said he was the first to reach the scene after the shots rang out, found a spot of blood at Mrs. Branscum's desk and ran to an adjoining room where he found her body.

In Army Uniform

In this room also was Miss Cone, and nearby lay Branscum, blood covering the Army uniform he was wearing. He died a short time later in a hospital.

Officers could assign no motive for the shooting immediately, but Sheriff Garland Marrs said that twice before Branscum had tried to shoot the two women.

Branscum was a former deputy sheriff here who had been stationed at an Army camp somewhere in the north until recently.

House Probe Of OPA Is Ordered

WASHINGTON, April 2. (AP)—An immediate investigation of the Office of Price Administration, to determine whether the agency has exceeded powers granted by Congress, was ordered tonight.

Chairman Patman (D-Texas) of the House committee on small business, asserting OPA regulations unduly handicap the nation's retailers, announced:

"I have ordered an investigation into all phases of the issuance of orders and regulations by the OPA. Our committee is convinced that the emergency price control act has not been complied with.

"Conditions are forced upon retailers and wholesalers which do not follow the provisions of this act. Thas has caused no end of trouble to retailers."

Doubleheader Probe

Patman's action made the congressional probe of OPA a doubleheader, as various operations of the agency have been designated for study by a House special committee investigating actions of federal agencies to determine whether they exceed authority granted by Congress.

The small business committee inquiry was ordered on the petition of 19 national retail distribution organizations representing some 500,000 retail merchants engaged in various merchandising lines, Patman said, adding:

"Being shorthanded for help to operate their business, these merchants do not understand why they should be subjected to so much paper work, figuring mark-ups or dollar and cents ceilings, especially when such percentages are contrary to their usual policy in pricing their merchandise.

"There have been numerous instances when they have been asked to accept a reduction in their mark-up despite higher operating costs and higher taxes."

She is 5 feet 4 1-2 inches tall, has dark brown hair and is a member of several literary societies. She is an English major.

Tomorrow she will reign as queen of the 16th Texas relays, will be crowned by President Homer Rainey and will receive the president's traditional kiss for the sweetheart.

Reds Say 850,000 Of Axis Slain In Winter Offensive

343,525 Reported Captured, With 5,090 Planes And 9,190 Tanks Lost By Germans

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Saturday, April 3—The Red Army in its winter offensive killed 850,000 Axis troops and captured 343,525, the Soviet information bureau announced early today in a special communique.

In addition to these losses between last Nov. 10, and March 31, the Germans lost 5,090 planes, 9,190 tanks, and 20,360 guns, said the communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

The regular midnight communique disclosed that a Czecho-Slovak military unit formed in Russia under the command of Colonel Svoboda now is in action against the Germans on the northern Donets river front in the Ukraine and during yesterday's operations the Czechs destroyed 22 Nazi tanks and killed more than 400 Germans.

On Westward Sweep

The special communique in telling of the German equipment losses said 3,600 planes, 4,520 tanks and 4,500 guns were destroyed and the remainder were captured as the Russians swept westward from Stalingrad to liberate the Volga and Don river valleys, and most of the Caucasus.

Vast stores of other Nazi military equipment fell into Russian hands, it added.

"The Red Army at Stalingrad inflicted on the German fascist troops the biggest defeat in the history of wars," said the special bulletin.

The four months and 20 days of the Red Army offensive also topped the Rzhev-Gzhatsk-Vyazma triangle on the central front, and raised the sieze of Leningrad.

In some sectors the advance to the west was as far as 373 to 435 miles, the communique said.

Much Territory Retaken

A total of 185,328 square miles of territory "of great economic and military strategic value" has been freed of the invaders along with thousands of villages and dozens of big cities, the Russians said.

Important waterways and railway lines have again been recaptured by the Red armies, it was pointed out. Among these is the vital Volga artery connecting southern and central Russia. The Germans in their assault which reached Stalingrad had hoped to break the back of the Russian military by controlling that waterway.

The Czechs fighting with the Russians presumably are those referred to last August by Lieut. Gen. Serge Ingr, commander in chief of the Czech Army in Britain.

General Ingr, who at that time had just reutrned from Russia and an inspection of the Czech units in the Middle East, said a Czech unit, wearing British battle dress, would go into action on the Russian front.

Czech Unit Praised

The midnight war bulletin praised the Czech unit for "successful operations" and declared that its members commanded by Colonel Svoboda and fighting during a whole day and night with "self-sacrifice," repelled attacks launched by 60 enemy tanks and a force of automatic riflemen.

"As a result of the engagement," the communique said, "19 German tanks were disabled or burned out and about 400 German automatic riflemen were killed."

Another detachment of the Czecho-Slovak military unit, it was announced, destroyed three German tanks and inflicted losses on the enemy, "completing the military assignment given them by their command."

Murder Charge Filed On Woman

Hearing Is Set In Slaying Of Babies

DENVER, April 2. (AP)—A murder charge and an unusual accusation of "concealing the death of" an illegitimate child were filed in district court today against Bernice Williams, 23, who, Police Detective Captain James E. Childers declares, has confessed she slew her three unwanted children and hid them in an improvised crypt.

Miss Williams was summoned to appear before Judge Joseph E. Cook Monday morning for a hearing in the bizarre case. She is held without bail.

Arrested Thursday

The attractive, buxom brunet, buyer of infants' clothing for a Denver department store, was arrested yesterday after the badly-decomposed bodies of three babies were found in a box in the basement of an apartment house in which she lived.

Childers said she, without emotion, related how she kept secret the births of the children, brought them into the world without help and drowned them in bathtubs in April, 1940, February, 1942 and February, 1943.

The mother declared, Childers reported, that she killed the newborn babies because they were "children of sin" and she was "afraid she couldn't bring them up and didn't want anybody else to have them."

The murder charge, filed by Deputy District Attorney David Rosner, accuses Miss Williams of slaying the third child, a girl born in the home of the defendant's mother, who, the defendant declared, did not know of the birth.

"Concealment" Charge

The little-used "concealment" charge is a misdemeanor and was filed, Rosner said, because the murder count may prove to be weak unless the state can uncover evidence that the child was born alive, in addition to the three-page statement signed by Miss Williams.

One year in prison is the maximum penalty for the misdemeanor.

Childers and Rosner said the woman named two married men as the fathers of the two girls and boy.

Deputy District Attorney Rosner said a psychiatrist studied the woman while she responded to police questions today and that the psychiatrist expressed the belief she is sane.

Black Market Cafes Draw Musso's Fire

BERN, SWITZERLAND, April 2. (AP)—Thriving black market restaurants in Italy, where, it was said, people who can afford $10 or $15 for a meal are "eating better than before the war," were under violent attack today by Premier Mussolini's newspaper Popolo D'Italia.

Declaring that "this insolent racket must end," the newspaper said the food consumed in the luxury restaurants "amount to shiploads. Lump together the restaurants of Italy, from the luxury establishments to the smaller eating places, and we would have mountains of food."

British Push On East In Northern Tunisia

INVASION JITTERS—Roundabout reports tell of Allied parachute troops establishing a Norwegian base from which to raid Nazi-held factories (1), adding to German invasion jitters. Britain has established a forbidden zone along portions of her shores (black outlines on England) from which an invasion might spring (2). Italians have announced Sicily had become a "fortified outpost" (3), and confess fears of attack. A Nazi-formed "Army of the Balkans" for defense against invasion (4) was reported, and to the east lies the lair of the Russian Bear (5). Meanwhile, Turkish military men are conversing with the Allies in North Africa.

Eighth Clearing Enemy Pockets

Junction Of Yanks And British Denied

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 2.—British First Army troops in the north fought their way toward the Axis strongholds of Tunis and Bizerte today while General Montgomery's Eighth Army gathered force in the south for more smashing blows coupled with the continuing massive air assaults on Marshal Rommel's divisions retreating up the Tunisian east coast.

(The Algiers radio said British and French forces in the north had "left Sedjenane well behind" and were slashing at the retreating Germans "in the vicinity of Mateur," which is only about 18 miles south of Bizerte. They thus would have regained almost all the ground lost when Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim's Axis forces sprang an offensive a month ago.)

Sfax Airfield Plastered

An Allied communique described the Tunisian fighting as "generally quieter yesterday," but told of terrific punishment being dealt the Axis from the air. In one raid on El Maou air field at Sfax on the coast 105 light and medium Allied bombers plastered the strategic base with a shower of bombs that must have destroyed or damaged virtually everything within the target area.

As in the Wednesday raid by nearly 100 American Flying Fortresses on the Sardinian port of Gagliari, not a single Allied bomber or escort was lost in the damaging assault. The Axis was unable even to get a fighter plane in the air to defend the Sfax airbase.

An authoritative source here denied today that British and American forces in southern Tunisia had made a junction and were in joint purguit of Marshal Erwin Rommel's troops.

Trying For Contact

(Algiers radio, which had broadcast the report of the junction, later said that "American elements advancing 25 kilometers southeast of El Guetar are trying to contact General Montgomery's left wing," adding that "the road is not very practicable and the advance is slow.")

Montgomery's forces were believed ready to resume their battering of Rommel's rear guard in the new positions taken up by the Germans and Italians about 24 miles north of Gabes. A report from the Eighth Army said "winkling out" was proceedings, which was translated here freely to indicate that remaining enemy

Nazis Build Up Coast Defenses

LONDON, April 2 (AP)—Keeping one eye on the progress of the Allied armies in Tunisia, the Germans and Italians are reported continually strengthening the coastal defenses of Europe, particularly those of the "underbelly" in Italy and southern France, in preparation to meet invasion.

Dispatches to London newspapers this afternoon reported that persons living along the coasts have been warned to move inland. The fashionable Riviera resorts have been converted into fortresses or razed to clear the way for guns.

The Germans have put thousands of French workers to the job of constructing blockhouses and gun emplacements with commandeered French maerials.

Barked Wire Strung

Swiss correspondents have cabled reports that barbed wire has been strung hastily along Mediterranean beaches.

Other information reaching London from Toulon and Marseille by way of Switzerland confirmed previous reports that German inspectors are making a survey of boats, including even motor launches, all of which are being made seaworthy—apparently for the use of Marshal Erwin Rommel should he attempt a "Dunkerque" from Tunisia.

An Italian national councillor, Umberto Guglielmotto, in a Rome broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, said that Italian measures for the "militarization" of every citizen "are necessary at this moment which is decisive for the history of Italy."

Anti-Sabotage Bill Passed By House Provides Death In Commission Of Hostile Act

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—A wartime anti-sabotage bill providing the death penalty for commission of hostile acts was passed today by the House after the chamber heard charges and denials that it is a potential weapon for destroying free speech and freedom of the press.

Ending three days' debate, proponents of the measure argued the the fears of its critics are ungrounded and said the Justice department requested the legislation because it deemed existing laws against sedition and treason inadequate for wartime purposes.

A voice vote sent the legislation to the senate.

Amendment Approved

To meet partly some members' objections, the House stipulated by amendment that nothing in the measure shall be construed "to prevent any citizen or citizens, or any newspaper or other publications, at any time from freely discussing or openly criticizing the domestic or foreign policies of the administration or the federal government, or of any public official, or from discussing or criticizing any existing or proposed law, regulation, directive or executive order."

That amendment was offered by Rep. Fish (R-NY) and was adopted by a standing vote of 129 to 95. Fish said many members feared the Justice department could use the bill to "terrorize the American people."

"Club Of Persecution"

Earlier a standing vote of 112 to 82 kept in the bill a section which Rep. Sauthoff (Prog-Wis) called a "club of persecution" which could be held by the Justice department over the head of newspaper reporters and radio commentators.

Sauthoff sought to eliminate a section describing the following as "a hostile act."

"Acquiring, compiling, obtaining access to, or transmitting any data calculated to inform the enemy with respect to the war effort of the United States or the war effort or defense of any nation whose defense shall have been publicly declared by the President of the United States pursuant to law to be vital to the defense of the United States, with intent to aid a country with which the United States is at war."

Solons Approve Loan Shark Bill

AUSTIN, April 2 (AP) — Senator Weaver Moore's anti-loan shark bill skipped through the Senate today to final passage by a 14 to 4 vote with three pairs while the House rejected a proposal that Texas break relations with the federal government in financing vocational education.

The loan shark measure authorizes county and district attorneys and the attorney general to file injunction suits against collection of interest in excess of 10 per cent.

A bill appropriating $1,186,555 in state funds each year for the next biennium for vocational education prompted Rep. T. R. Bond of Terrell to criticise a provision that state appropriations must be expended in accordance with federal laws and regulations.

The bill was sent to the Senate with the appropriation increased to $1,211,555.

Federal To Match Funds

The money is to be matched by federal funds.

Sent to the Senate was a bill giving legal status to the state's civilian defense organization and appropriating $83,000 to finance it in the next two years.

The House revived by re-referring to committee a Senate bill requiring the public welfare board to appoint the director of public welfare every two years, subject to Senate confirmation.

Without discussion the Senate concurred in a resolution passed by the House ordering a joint session Tuesday for an address by U. S. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel.

No Decision Reached On Sugar For Canning

WASHINGTON, April 2. (AP)—Final decision on sugar for home canning has not yet been reached, Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown said today.

Appearing before the Senate Banking committee considering legislation to establish an independent office of civilian supply, Brown said rationing of sugar used for home canning would be unnecessary if an additional 600,000 tons were brought from Cuba. But this move, he added, would necessitate diverting ships from other runs.

Brown told the committee he favors the general objectives of the measure under study but said it would not be appropriate for him to express an opinion where the authority should lie.

Ruling Set Today In Tulsa Slaying Case

TULSA, April 2 (AP)—The state described Mrs. Ella B. Howard late today as the "rootin', tootin', shootin'" slayer of Mrs. T. Karl Simmons, but the defense asserted the wealthy Tulsa socialite "came up to Mrs. Howard's room with no good in her heart."

County Attorney Dixie Gilmer, concluding the prosecution's argument that Mrs. Howard, a Fort Worth divorcee, be held on a murder charge in the slaying one week ago, declared the defendant came out of the hotel death room with "a smoking pistol in her hand, ran to another room and there, what did she do? She called her lawyer."

Defense Attorney Walter M. Scott in his final argument on the domestic tragedy declared Mrs. Simmons' "acts showed she was there for trouble."

He added no proof had been offered by the state that the gun used in the shooting belonged to his client.

Common Pleas Judge Grady S. Cornett announced he would rule tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock whether Mrs. Howard would be freed, the charge reduced to manslaughter, or whether she would be held for trial as asked by the prosecution.

Housewives Now "Hoarding" Ration Points As Fresh Meat Begins To Pile Up In Some Portions Of Nation

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Meat supplies are again fair to adequate in most sections of the United States, a survey indicated tonight, but prospects for the first week-end of point-ration buying were clouded by housewives' reluctance to part with points until they found just how many they needed to purchase Sunday dinner.

"People are hoarding their red coupons just like they hoarded meat up to last Saturday," an Omaha dealer commented, summing up the reaction in many other parts of the country as disclosed in a canvass by the Associated Press.

The situation was something like this:

A typical housewife had 48 points to spend this week. Monday, perhaps, she spent eight for butter, 10 for porkchops and three for canned fish—total 21. Not knowing exactly what she could get for the weekend, nor how much it would weigh, she put off buying any more meat until Saturday, feeding her family in midweek with such unrationed goods as poultry, eggs and fresh oysters —or beans, which are rationed, but on blue coupons. Tomorrow, if she finds Sunday dinner takes only 20 points, she'll have seven left for a pound of bacon, or for carrying over into next week.

OPA officials expressed belief that cases like this would smooth themselves out in due course. They said they had considered, before rationing began, whether to start the ration week on Thursday or Friday so that housewives would get their weeknd buying out of the way at the start of the ration week, but had discarded the idea.

In this connection, it was understood reliably that the weekly rationing is preliminary, and that officials plans to put the rationing on a monthly basis eventually. Current OPA announcements on weekly point values cover the five weeks ending May 1, but whether OPA plans to make rationing a monthly matter starting May 2 has not been announced.

BUTCHERS SLASH PRICES AS SALES SLOW DOWN

LOS ANGELES, April 2. (AP)—Butchers slashed their prices on porterhouse, sirloin and other luxury cuts of meat today, but still sales were slow. The reason: housewives' economy in using their red ration stamps.

One large chain reported price reductions as large as 30 cents per pound below OPA maximums on quality cuts. Porterhouse, sold the day before at 67 cents a pound, was cut to 45 cents.

MAKES SENSE

THE Eighth Army's artillery barrage had been unusually heavy and had been interspersed by visits of zooming planes, which machine-gunned the battered Axis lines mercilessly.

In the lull that followed, an Italian infantryman sat dejectedly on an empty gasoline can, his eyes fixed darkly upon the baked desert earth, his dust-smeared chin cupped in begrimed hands.

"What's the matter?" an officer asked. "Homesick?"

"No, sir," came the prompt reply, "Not homesick. I'm heresick."

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Miss Turner: Here is the poem someone requested in your column; also the name of the author. It is in a little book I have entitled, "Poems With a Soul."

(And there follows nine pages of well-written lines.)

Yours sincerely,
Mrs. Hugh F. Ash,
Ralls.

• • •

DEAR Mrs. Ash: Thank you for taking the time to copy this poem which we shall pass along. Write us again, won't you?

• • •

DEAR Miss Turner: Your request in last Sunday's paper filled me with a sort of nostalgia which has urged me on in my search until "Eureka!" and with no attempt at redundancy, "I have found it!"

In a copy of "American Star Speaker, Educator and Entertainer," by D. Z. Howell (in the Office of the Librarian of Congress in Washington, D. C., U. S. A.-1901) is to be found that delightful "Face on the Bar-Room Floor," only out of deference to the Women's Christian Temperance Union, D. Z. calls the poem: "Face on the Floor." It was written by an interesting person who signs himself—H. Antoine D'Arcy. Whether H. Antoine is a "he" or a "she" is never made clear, but the old boy (or gal) had something in those lines.

Best wishes,
John N. Watson, Sgt.
Special Training Unit of Special Service,
Lubbock Army Flying school.

• • •

DEAR Sgt. Watson: Thanks for going to the trouble to dig up the author and for the other information. We have a hunch that H. Antoine was a "he." Come to think about it, this poem has more of a masculine twang and smoker atmosphere than the sort of a thing that would be read at the Old Ladies Sewing circle, don't you think?

• • •

DEAR Margaret: I sent you the poem of "The Face on the Bar-Room Floor" nearly five years ago, right from it's origin, "The Teller House," Central City, Colo. I wrote you at length and in detail regarding same.

My daughter, Mrs. John McInerney of New York City, and I drove up to Central City to attend the yearly revival of opera productions in the lovely Old Opera House of the famed 1800s. I told you of the streets paved with scrapings of gold from the mines and of the face on the barroom floor which was framed on the floor and lighted as if on a wall. I sent you the poem and imagine you will find it if you look in the files around July 1938.

Sincersly yours,
Mrs. Sam Jones,
1906 Fifteenth street.

• • •

DEAR Mrs. Jones: Thanks for your reminder. To tell you the truth it had slipped our mind that you had written that note five years ago, so many things have happened since then. We thought the information you gave most interesting.

HOME CANNING

AGRICULTURAL department at this point can't tell you whether there will be enough glass jars to take care of the enthusiastic Victory gardeners who will want to can this summer. But officials say they are doing everything they can to get the glass industry to step up production in order to take care of the increased numbers of home canners.

In the meantime, Agriculture points out that the new 63-mm. tops for commercial glass jars are now being made so that housewives would do well to keep every glass container. These will be reusable with these new lids and may prove a great boon if you're unable to buy the usual home-canning type of jar.

"Ghost Ship" Sails To Allied Port After It Was Given Up As Lost

WASHINGTON, April 2. (AP)—Given up as lost after a torpedo attack, a "ghost ship" manned by a skeleton crew sailed 700 miles to an Allied port, the Navy reported today.

Three survivors of the medium-sized Dutch merchantman reached Boston recently and told of leaving their vessel obviously sinking—its bow deep in the sea, its stern, with propellors showing, flung high.

She was listed as lost.

But, "The vessel herself had decided to refute their pudgement," said the Navy.

It told of the captain and 12 men remaining near the sinking ship in a lifeboat. Hours later the vessel began to right herself. The captain and his men boarded her again and found two officers who never had left. That tiny crew managed to sail the vessel to port.

Flying at 250 miles per hour, a four-motored bomber consumes 350 gallons of gasoline every hour.

Russian Policy In Orient Paramount

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press War Analyst

Premier General Tojo is making a state visit to the puppet empire of Manchukuo, obviously looking over Japan's military and political fences in the outpost facing the Soviet Union. A year ago this would have released a flood of speculation about an early Japanese invasion of Siberia. Against the background of today's Oriental situation, however, it excites little interest.

GLENN BABB

It seems to be merely part of a farcial program the Japanese government is carrying through in an apparent attempt to convince somebody — the Japanese people or their Asiatic subject races — that the "great East Asia co-prosperity sphere" is one big brotherhood leagued to keep the wicked white man out of Asia.

Japan's relations with Russia have never seemed more firmly based on their neutrality pact of two years ago For both, peace along their common frontiers seems eminently desirable as long as each is fighting for survival against a mighty adversary elsewhere. For Japan this condition will persist until the end of the war except in the improbable event that she destroys the United States Navy and invades the American continent.

Change Possible For Russia

For Russia, however, a change is possible in say, 1944 or 1945, to take Mr. Churchill's conservative guess at the date of Hitler's defeat.

These premises lead to the conclusion that instead of it being for Tokyo to choose whether and when the gap in the global war shall be closed by conflict between Japan and Russia the choice is more likely to lie with Moscow. Any such decision, quite understandably, would be dictated primarily by the interests of the Soviet Union as they are understood by the strong, single-purposed man in the Kremlin.

It is hardly to be expected that Russia as a great Asiatic power, perhaps the strongest of all when this war is over, will be content to leave the redrawing of the frontiers of northeastern Asia to other nations when Japan is stripped of her continental conquests. The surest way of reserving a seat at the table where this is done is to participate actively in the liquidation of the Japanese war machine. It is not illogical to assume, therefore, that this may be done in Russia's own good time.

Problems In East

It may develop that Russia's eastern frontiers will confront the United Nations with problems just as knotty as those already apparent in the west. Russia has historic ambitions and undeniable interests in eastern Asia which may not be easy to reconcile with the purposes of some of her allies, notably China, with whom after this war she may have a common boundary of some 5,000 miles.

It is not intended here to ascribe to the Soviet Union predatory designs or a desire to make friction. But a speculative look into the future of eastern Asia suggests strongly that the western powers may have to decide their attitudes toward the following possible Russian actions:

She probably will demand the return of southern Sakhalin, lost to Japan in 1905.

She may ask for restoration of her old paramount interests in northern, perhaps even southern, Manchuria, in disagreement with China's purpose to regain full soveriegnty there. Manchuria was the scene of the last surge of Russian expansion toward warm water under the czars.

Korea And Mongolia

She may want a major voice in the destiny of Korea.

She may ask recognition of her position of protector of Outer Mongolia.

She may call for recognition of Sinkiang (Chinese Tukestan), already within the Soviet economic sphere.

She may call for some form of autonomy for China's northwestern provinces now largely dominated by the Chinese communists, Shensi, Kansu, Ningsia.

Soviet desires, it is recognized, do not always follow the same channels as did czarist ambitions. Moscow long ago renounced many of the imperial regime's claims on China and it is not to be assumed that these necessarily will be revived. But it is highly probable that in this list are questions that will confront the victorious alliance about 1945 or 1946.

Montgomery Hoping To Meet Rommel—As Prisoner Of War

Limit On Ration Accounts Asked

In two actions this week, the OPA has taken steps to limit the number of retail merchants, butcher shops, restaurants and other establishments eligible to open ration bank accounts, the district OPA office announced Friday afternoon.

The moves are designed to relieve banks from handling excessive number of ration bank accounts.

An amendment issued to the meats and fats rationing order provides that independent meat and fats retailers whose food sales totaled less than $2,500 in December or subsequent months are not permitted to open rank bank accounts.

Ration Order Amended

As a temporary measure, the OPA asked local boards to encourage small restaurants, hotels and other institutional users of rationed foods to shop with ration certificates rather than ration checks. General ration order 5, covering rationing of restaurants and other institutional users, was amended to permit local boards to issue up to six certificates to an institutional user for use in buying each rationed food during an allotment period.

It was announced further that the OPA plans to issue a special type of war ration book for use of small restaurants and other institutional users, as a permanent measure designed to reduce the demand for ration bank accounts.

The Victory fund committee under chairmanship of Rayford B. Hills and the war savings committee of Chairman E. J. Parsons will be combined under the general direction of Wright for this drive.

Quota for Lubbock county will be approximately $4,000,000 instead o the $5,000,000 previously announced. Wright stated that he is perfecting the county organization and will announce complete details, probably today.

All purchases of government securities, including income tax bonds, made in April and through May 1 will be applied on the county's quota in the Drive.

Record Membership Sold In Exchange

NEW YORK, April 2. (AP)—A membership in the New York exchange sold today for $44,000, the highest price since May 14, 1940, when one brought $50,000. The last membership sold at $38,000 on March 12.

The current price contrasted with a low of $17,000 in the spring of 1942, which was the smallest a membership had commanded since 1897.

RATION BOARD AGREES

DOUGLAS, Wyo., April 2. (AP)—The Converse county rationing board, which caused a flurry by setting up its own maximum of food points allowed sheepherders monthly for canned goods, has agreed to operate under maximum allotments provided by a new instruction the state OPA expects to receive from Washington.

Nine Nations Accept Invitations To Meet

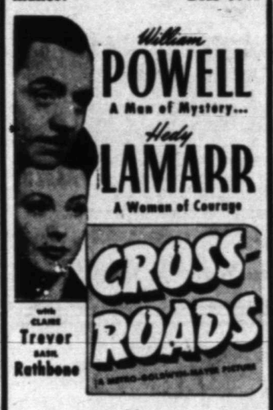

WASHINGTON, April 2. (AP) — Nine countries, including Soviet Russia, already have accepted the United States invitation to a United Nations food conference scheduled for April 27, Secretary of State Hull said today.

Invitations were sent last week to 30 members of the United Nations and eight other countries associated with them in the war.

Others from which acceptances have been received, he said, are Australia, China, the Dominican republic, New Zealand, Panama, Paraguay, Uruguay and the United Kingdom.

No decision had been reached, Hull said, as to the site of the conference.

The earth's weight is computed at six sextillion, six hundred and sixty quintillion tons.

Beau Jack Given Unpopular Decision Over Armstrong

AP Score Card Favors Henry

Verdict Of Judge Booed By Crowd

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 2 — Beau Jack ran away to a ten-round decision over Henry Armstrong tonight before a crowd that jammed Madison Square Garden to the rafters and booed the verdict at the end. Armstrong scaled 138; Jack, 135 3-4.

For ten rounds Armstrong, returning to New York for the first time since he started his booming comeback last fall, chased the younger man all around the ring. And for ten rounds the ex-shine boy from Georgia kept on the run, desperate to stay out of harm's way and landing only at long range.

Decision Unanimous

That was the pattern of the fight, and at the end the Associated Press score card gave Armstrong five rounds, voted four for Jack and called one even.

Though the decision was unanimous on the part of Referee Billy Cavanaugh and Judges Bill Healy and George Le Cron, it didn't sit at all well with the crowd of 19,286. They went wild with cheers as Hammerin' Hank climbed through the ropes at the end; they booed as Jack headed for his dressing room.

Texas Nine Wins Over Rice In SWC Opener

HOUSTON, April 2 (AP) — Jim Collins set the Rice Owls down with three scattered singles here this afternoon and the Texas Longhorns registered a 10-2 victory in the opening Southwest conference baseball game of the season.

Meanwhile, every Longhorn except Catcher Rex Travis hit safely as Texas scored in five innings during the lengthy tussle marred by a dozen errors, six by each club.

Shortstop Grady Hatton of the Longhorns socked a seventh inning double for the game's only extra base hit, and also added a single. The Texas captain also turned in the finest fielding play of the game when he went far to his right in the sixth to handle John Plumbley's grounder and throw the Rice pitcher out.

Plumbley pitched the first seven innings for Rice with Briton Ryan finishing.

The teams conclude the two game series Saturday. Luke Kent will pitch for Texas against Rice's John Fox

Dykes Says Kalin May Fill Left Field Gap

FRENCH LICK, Ind., April 2 (AP) — "Mom said I would have days like this," laughed big, blond Frank Kalin after smashing two long drives into the walnut trees which fringe the outer garden of the Chicago White Sox practice diamond.

"I'll never forget back in 1936 when I was only 19," he recalled, "Mom came to me with a wad of dough she had saved up and told me to go to some baseball school because she knew I was crazy about the game. I went to Charley Dressen's school at Crosley field, Cincinnati. Now you know why I'm so anxious to make good with the Sox."

Kalin is one of the first players out on the field and usually leads in the pack after daily hikes over the hills.

"The kid has a fine chance of sticking," appraised Manager Jimmy Dykes. "He may be just what I need for left field, a spot that's got me plenty worried."

Kalin really found himself last year, pounding the ball for .304 in the Pacific coast league and driving in 80 runs on timely blows which included 13 homers.

ATTENDANCE UP

NEW YORK, April 2. (AP)—More than a half-million fans broke all basketball attendance records for Madison Square Garden during the 1942-43 season, which closed last night with Wyoming, NCAA titleholder, defeating St. John's, winner of the National Invitation tournament.

Cowboys Use Different Kind Of Altitude—

Wyoming Hits Psychological Heights To Take Cage Title

By JACK CUDD
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 2.—Basketball, which seems to have become a contest of altitude because of the inroads of glandular goons, mezzanine peepers and other performers approaching the seven-foot mark, attained the ultimate in height last night when the University of Wyoming team won the mythical national championship at Madison Square Garden.

This quintet operates from a campus at Laramie that has an altitude of 7,200 feet—on altitude which gives many visitors a nose bleed.

But the New York price makers, blinded by their own skyscrapers, such as 'Big Boy" Harry Boykoff of St. John's, made the St. John's team an overwhelming favorite in last night's Red Cross final for the national title before more than 18,000 fans in the Garden.

Spirt "Sixth Man"

Wyoming unquestionably the better team, proved its superiority over St. John's by winning, 52-47, in an overtime game.

Afterwards, the Wyoming coach —bespectacled Everett Shelton — admitted that the Wyoming triumph was due largely to altitude, not to the heights that could be measured by engineers, but rather to the heights attained psychologically by a team that was determined to win in its war-caused last performance and season.

Coach Shelton, a machine-gun sergeant in the last war at Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood, said: "I have been coaching basketball for 20 years. I have handled other teams that apparently were the equal of my current squad physically, but never have I had a band of boys whose team spirit was such that you could almost see it and feel it. In every game, I felt that that spirit gave us a sixth man on the floor."

Ken Sailors Praised

This team, sparked by Capt. Ken Sailors—most brilliant performer to hit the Garden boards in years—knew it was making its last performance, because the entire varsity squad, and even the freshman squad is going into service. It wanted to add a new and brilliant chapter to the tradition of Wyoming basketball—a tradition that long has been respected wherever the rearing Rockies cast their shadows.

These lads from the cloudlands were unimpressed when they came to the city of skyscrapers and were faced with Harry Boykoff of St. John's, who measures six feet nine. They had a man who could take care of Boykoff. He was Milo Komenich, who boasts six feet seven. Coach Shelton explained after the game that Komenich packs power with his height, but Boykoff has only altitude without power.

Lost Only To Duquesne

Shelton said: "Although Boykoff probably is the most publicized basketball player of this season, there is a big fellow at Brigham Young named Gerald Walker who is far superior. Walker stands six foot seven, but he has everything —the best player we've seen all season."

Coach Shelton said it was a pleasure to coach his champions as they won 23 of their 24 regular season games, losing only to Duquesne on their first trip East and on a small, cramping court. Too, because his meagre squad won the NCAA play-offs at Kansas City, and came on to New York to beat Georgetown in the NCAA final, before meeting St. John's—the national invitation winner—for the title last night.

DOYLE CARAWAY

Caraway Will Assist Davis In LHS Drills

One of the most recent editions off Texas Tech's gridiron press, Doyle Caraway, will be assisting Lubbock High Coach J. "Mule" Davis as the former Texas Aggie star puts his Westerners through their spring football drills.

Caraway, stellar guard on Tech's elevens of the past few seasons, was named earlier this week to the temporary coaching post, which will be filled next fall by Howard Price, present coach at Crane High school.

Caraway won second team honors on the "Little All-America" selections by the Associated Press with his work on the 1942 Raider team, although he was handicapped in late season by a broken hand.

Now a senior commerce student, the chunky guard earned three varsity football letters at Tech, after starring in high school with Sherman.

Ortiz-Cordova Tussle Slated For Ft. Worth

FORT WORTH, April 2. (U.P.)—The proposed bantam weight title bout between manuel Artiz, the champion, and Lupe Cordoza was all sealed and delivered for Fort Worth today with receipt of the signed contracts of the two fighters.

The bout, scheduled April 28, will be staged at Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum and is expected to gross in the neighborhood of $30,000. Half of the proceeds, minus bare expenses, will go to the Lighthouse for the Blind, while the champion will drag down 27 1-2 per cent and Cordoza 12 1-2 per cent.

Texas Relays To Be Staged Today

Indications Point To Five New Records

AUSTIN, April 2 (AP)—The war's toll will be 50 per cent tomorrow when 544 athletes gather at Memorial stadium for the sixteenth annual Texas Relays.

The program has not been curtailed and indications are that at least five new records will be written into the books, but the field lacks in usual ability as well as in numbers, with only four champions returning and 69 schools represented.

Seven states are sending contestants for the Relays, the longest trip being by Dave Clutterham of Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Iowa, who will run in the 3,000 meters special event.

As the track and field boys awaited the starter's whistle, two records in the university class and two in the high school division appeared in great danger.

Drake Star Entered

The only new mark set last year was a vault of 14 feet 3-8 inch by Harold Hunt of Nebraska. This record may be in for a drubbing tomorrow before the onslaught of Billy Moore, Drake university freshman who has already hit 14 feet this season.

The high jump record of the university division also is likely to tumble with Pete Watkins of Texas A. and M. doing the honors. The mark is 6 feet 7 7-8 inches, set by Don Boydston of Oklahoma A. and M. and Dub Walters of Baylor in 1941. Watkins already has gone 6 feet 7 this year. Last season he reached 6 feet 8.

Most certain of being broken, however, are three records in the high school class. DeWitt Coulter, Masonic Home (Fort Worth) giant, battered the national scholastic shot put record the other day with a pitch of 60 feet 5 inches.

Parker Ready

The 100-yard dash record is due to go by the boards when Charlie Parker of Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) starts churning the cinders.

Parker is due to figure in still another new record—the 440 yard relay. The mark is 44.5 seconds, set last year by Goose Creek, but Jefferson's team, anchored by Parker, has been doing it under that time consistently.

The breakdown of entries shows 11 service teams competing. These men will run in the college, university or junior college divisions, according to their choice.

There are eight universities, eight colleges, three junior colleges and 39 high schools entered.

Duquesne Abandons Intercollegiate Sports

PITTSBURGH, April 2. (AP)—Duquesne university, a little school with a big football and basketball reputation, became a "war casualty" today, scrapping its entire intercollegiate sports program for the duration.

John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics, said the action was necessary because of "the uncertainty of athletics and opponents for next fall and winter." He said the school would concentrate on intramural sports and a physical fitness program.

While numerous schools have dropped either football or basketball—or both—Duquesne is one of the few major schools to sever all its collegiate sports ties.

JOE CRONIN
". . . just some pinchhitting"

★ ★ ★

Joe Cronin Discounts 'Comeback' Rumors

MEDFOR, Mass., April 2 (AP) — This may be an old-timers' year in baseball, but it isn't going to entice old Joseph Edward Cronin out of his rocking chair.

Some of the fans hereabouts have been wondering whether the 36-year-old manager of the Boston Red Sox would undertake to return to a regular role as the result of Shortstop Johnny Pesky's entry into the Navy.

The question never quite reached the proportions in Boston that Leo Durocher's plans for playing stirred up in Brooklyn, but the answer is the same. Like Durocher, Cronin may play a little, but not any more than he has to.

"I'll do just about like I did last year," Cronin said today. "I'll help out here and there and do some pinchhitting. However, our infield looks pretty good with Eddie Lake at short and we've got Skeeter Newsome in reserve, so we ought to get along all right."

If Cronin does as he did last year he will appear in about 45 games, mostly as a pinchhitter and never for nine innings at a time.

Frisch Will Start Gustine At Short

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 2 (AP) Billy Herman and Roberto Ortiz hit home runs today as the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league defeated the cadet baseball team of the U. S. Military academy, 12 to 8.

Cadet hurlers pitched for Brooklyn while Manager Leo Durocher loaned the collegians two of his rookie moundsmen, Sanner and Chipman. The two were touched for 16 hits by the National leaguers.

SENS BEST SAILORS

NORFOLK, Va., April 2 (AP) — The Washington Senators of the American league evened the count with the Norfolk Naval Air station here today when Johnny Sullivan, Senator shorstop, hit a two-run homer in the eighth to break a 6-6 deadlock and the Senators went on to win, 9 to 6.

GUSTINE TO SHORT

MUNCIE, Ind., April 2 (AP) — Frankie Frisch, a famous second baseman in his playing days, likes to see any infielder get along.

So, as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Frisch felt Frankie Gustine was a natural for the shortstop job, and that's where the 23-year-old Chicago boy will be stationed this year.

"Gustine fields the ball better and throws best from short," Frisch said today. "And I wanted to see how Pete Coscarart would work out at second base. So that's how our infield will be this season. I don't think there's now a better first baseman than Elbie Fletcher, and Bob Elliott is a good aggressive man who lives to play third.

"We've got a great bunch of boys on this team, and in particular we've got a fine bunch of infielders."

DISCARD BRACES

WILMINGTON, Del., April 2 (AP)—Dick Siebert has discarded the mechanical knees that supported him through five seasons of major league baseball, and he appeared to be covering more ground around first base for the Philadelphia Athletics without the metal braces.

WALKER SIGNS

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 2 (AP)—Cincinnati's Reds disposed of a shortstop and picked up a holdout outfielder today.

Garton Del Salvio, who once played the short field for Birmingham, went to the Philadelphia Phils on waivers—and may have a chance to replace Bobby Bragan.

Soon after the deal was announced, Gerald "Gee" Walker, lone holdout, announced in Orlando, Fla., that he had signed his contract and would leave immediately for this training center. The Reds' management "met me half way," he said.

'Little Woman' Gets Assist In Heinz Becker's Climb

FRENCH LICK, Ind., April 2. (AP)—Mrs. Heinz Becker knows a good ball player when she sees one. Her favorite is her hubby.

"You've got to give the little woman an assist in keping me in baseball," related the Chicago Cubs' rookie first baseman. "a year ago I was thinking of quitting after Milwaukee picked me up from Dallas. I hated to leave Texas.

"But the wife hopped all over me and insisted I spend a year with the Brewers to see if I couldn't change my mind. She said it would be hard living with me if I didn't reach my goal of breaking into the majors.

Switched By Grimm

"First thing that happened at Milwaukee was Charley Grimm pulling me out of the outfield and sticking me on first base. Don't know why, but the change affected my hitting and I notched .340 and was second to teammate Eddie Stanky, whose .342 led the American association. It was the best batting mark I ever made."

When the 26-year-old rookie, father of two children, reported in the Cubs spring camp, Manager Jimmy Wilson thought he was a little awkward and was inclined to favor veteran Phil Cavarretta for first base.

"He will come around," Wilson was told by Grimm, one of the game's greatest first baseman. "He will start looking like a gazle out there."

Born In Berlin

Born in Berlin, Becker moved with his family at the age of 7 to Venezuela, S. A., where his father, who had made a small fortune as a German brewer, dropped most of his money in a cattle ranch venture. The family then went to Dallas, where 10-year-old Heinz saw his first baseball game.

Becker, a switch hitter, entered professional baseball five years ago with Rayne, La., a Chicago White Sox farm club, and clipped a .302 his first season. Due to an oversight, his contract lapsed and he became a free agent.

The Labrador duck was slaughtered for its feathers so swiftly after its discovery that scientists learned little about it.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 10 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.

WHAT IS PARALYSIS? Paralysis is a disease which affects muscular tissue, which is the only form of tissue, which, by shortening itself (contracting) is capable of producing movement. For example: an arm or leg moves because muscular tissue contracts. Paralysis is the inability to move . . . therefore, it is the inability of muscular tissue to contract.

Here's a curious fact. If you were to examine microscopically a piece of affected muscle and also a piece of normal muscle, you would find the structure of both to be identical. In other words, in the condition of paralysis, the paralysed tissue itself reveals no cause of dis-ease. We must look for the cause of paralysis in the mechanism upon which the muscles are dependent for their contraction.

WHY MUSCLES WORK. The Chiropractor knows beyond all doubt that contraction of all muscles in the body is dependent upon one thing only—and that is, upon the "messages" or "commands" which are "telegraphed" to the muscles by the brain. For example, we decide to move our hand, and immediatelyl the brain telegraphs this "command" to the muscles, and they contract. This is true of the muscles of the legs, the arms, the neck, and even though we may be unconscious of the fact, every muscle, even those of the heart, stomach and intestines, must receive "commands" before they can produce movement.

It is the nervous system over which these "commands" from the brain are carried to the muscles. If for some reason, these commands" are unable to travel over the nervous system, the muscles do not contract. For example: if, through some interference with the nervous system, "commands" from the brain are not reaching the muscles of the leg, then the leg will be paralysed.

LOCATING THE CAUSE. The first object of the Chiropractor is to locate that point in the nervous system where there is interference in the flow of "commands" from the brain to the paralysed part. He knows that there is only one point at which this interference can and does occur—and that is, in the spine.

The spine is composed of many movable bony segments. Nerves leading from the brain to each and all parts of the body pass between these segments. When one or more of these bony segments are jolted, pulled or pushed out of their normal position, the adjacent nerve fibres are "pinched" and rendered useless as part of the human "telegraph system," thus curtailing the flow of vital forces between brain and one or more parts of the body.

For example, if the nerves leading to the muscles of the heart are "pinched," the function of the heart will be affected. Similarly, if the nerves which supply leg muscles are "pinched," paralysis of the leg results, and will remain so as long as there continues to be a point of interference between the brain and the leg muscles.

OUR PLEDGE

We pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Charting The Wind's Flow

EXCESSIVE optimism is, by general agreement, one of the serious dangers with which the United Nations are faced today. In such optimism lies the danger of the kind of over-confidence that could lose the war.

However, it is difficult to take a pessimistic view of the long range outlook after one examines the significant little hints of trends that appear in almost any newspaper. In just one issue of The Avalanche the other day were these:

Marshal Rommel, in accordance with usual Nazi policies everywhere, is sacrificing Italian divisions in North Africa in his efforts to save his Germans. Certainly Italians can's be happy about this—and the news will reach Italy sooner or later, if it hasn't already penetrated there.

The Finns are facing starvation, chiefly because the Germans have not delivered promised foods. Surely this won't add to enthusiasm in Finland for a war that a great many Finns did not want.

The Japs have softened their treatment of the Chinese in conquered areas. No stretch of the imagination can attribute the change to motives of humanitarianism. Could it be that the Japs are confessing that they now recognize that the day may come when they must appeal to the mercy of Chinese judges?

Then there were the recent hysterical threats of Hitler and Goebbels that the Nazis will destroy that which they cannot rule. Is it logical that they would be talking about what they will attempt to do before they fall if they did not actually see the approach of doom?

True, none of these mean that the war has been won. None means that the terrifying job ahead will be any easier. But, in the face of such things, pessimism as to the eventual victory could not be justified and would be impossible. There simply are too many straws in sight to permit any doubt as to the direction of the wind.

A Common-Sense Suggestion

RECOMMENDATION by the Inter-Governmental Fiscal Relations committee the other day that the federal government abandon the motor vehicle tax field to the states likely will appeal strongly and most persuasively to a great many people in this country.

It is a recommendation which, if acted upon, might mark a start toward curbs upon the growing evils of dual taxation.

On the whole, motor vehicles have not suffered too greatly from this evil as yet. Federal taxes have been relatively moderate. Perhaps this has ben due, in some degree, to recognition of the fact that motor vehicle taxes of various kinds in most of the states have been just about as high as the traffic would bear.

But the trend toward federal taxation has been growing. Unless it is checked, the time cannot be far away when many people can't own automobiles because they won't be able to pay the various federal, state and other taxes that are levied upon them.

The chief evil of dual taxation has been the common faulf that one taxing agency seldom considers the taxes that are levied by the other agencies. None will admit that its own taxes are excessive, but all usually will admit that the aggregate of all taxes levied upon given pieces of property might approach the point of confiscation. This is a danger with which the automobile owner is confronted now if further burdens of federal taxation are added to those of the states.

If the federal government could be persuaded to abandon the motor vehicle field, then a source of revenue would be guaranteed to the states. It would be a convenience to the motor vehicle owner. It would protect him against the dangers of numerous taxes which might add up to confiscation. The recommendation has, in short, the appeal of practical common sense.

"In a power dive from a great height, two Army flyers attained a speed of 725 miles an hour."—News item. Considering the shape the world is in today, it is wondered why they were in such a hurry to return to it.

Chapter 25

Chandler grinned like a wolf. "Now that tory could have been bad for me. I could have walked on my hands. I had to dispose of it, and I did. All I ask is that you don't harass your guardian angel with too many questions."

Hugh interrupted him.

"Those are rather important questions, though."

Chandler hesitated.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," he decided. "I'll tell you just what I told Hadley, no more and no less. But, since I regard you as allies of mine—" He stopped. His red-rimmed eyes narrowed. "By the way, I understand it wasn't you who concocted that story about me walking on my hands."

"No. That was a gentleman named Dr. Young."

Again Chandler's eyes narrowed. "Young? That's the old geezer who owns the house? Sort of guradian to Dorrance? So it was his brilliant idea, was it?"

"It was; but he wasn't trying to put a rope around your neck. He had other game at the time."

Chandler seemed convulsed with inner amusement. "Sort of internal politics, I take it? Bless you, m, children. Well, since I regard you as allies of mine, I will do a little better than that. I will quote you the statements I gave Hadley. And after each one I will add the word, 'true' or 'false.'

"I said I had heard at Dorrance's flat on Saturday afternoon that he had gone on to Highgate to play tennis. (True.) I said I had followed, and inquired my way of a policeman for details of Dr. Young's place. (True.) I said I arrived in the grounds at about twenty minutes to six. (True.) I said I had found the tennis-court, and left the newspaper conspicuously in the pavilion to give Dorrance something to think about. (True.) I said I intended to kill Dorrance. (False, oddly enough.)

"I said I had heard people coming to the court, so I withdrew behind a tree and watched. (True.) I watched a game of tennis until the storm broke. (True.) Then, not being a duck, I took shelter in the garage until the rain stopped. (Very true.) I heard the mixed doubles separate, and heard of Dorrance's intention to go to Mrs. Bancroft's and cut back in a hurry by the same path. (True.) I then waited patiently in the garage until a few minutes later I heard Dorrance coming back—alone. (True.)

"I said I saw him, through the window in the garage, stop outside. (True.) I said I saw him go into the enclosure. (True.) I said I saw him go in there alone. (False.)"

The scene had become diabolically vivid.

"But if you saw him go in there," Brenda said, "you must have seen who killed him."

"You're forgetting. I killed him."

"The murderer is Arthur Chandler"—True or false?"

"Ah, that's another of the things you mustn't ask yet. But, you see, it's what worries the police. It's what keeps me sfae. I admitted all this to Hadley. I said I must have killed the fellow; on careful thought, I rather supposed I had. The big snag in their way was that they couldn't tell how I had done it."

There was play-acting in this. Hugh felt convinced of it. Its core was shoddy; it smelt of the scarlet cloak.

"But what happened then?" he prompted. "After Dorrance went in to the court—not alone?"

"Sorry. The story stops there."

"To us, or to the police?"

"To us, or to the police?"

"To everybody."

Hugh's wits were working furiously; or, at least, he was trying to make them work. "There are," he said, "several dozen puzzles. But the biggest of them is why you are so infernally keen about getting yourself arrested."

As he said this, he was not looking at Chandler. He was looking past Chandler, down a few rows of seats to where the lights from the stage shone on the edges of Madge Sturgess's hair. All he could see of Madge Sturgess was that she was a thin girl in a print dress; but gaain he turned round to look at them.

"Ever since I was so high," said Chandler, putting his hand near the floor, "I've been dreaming about what I would do. None of it ever worked. I've told Madge I would fill a top-hat with five-pound notes, one day, and toss it in her lap. Have I? No. Give me a chance to shine in the dock, at least."

Practical certainty smote Hugh.

"It's your own affair," he said. "And the same thing has been done before, of course. I remember the case of a man who deliberately confessed to a murder (which he didn't commit), and then went into court and produced evidence to show conclusively he wasn't guilty. He explained that a whispering-campaign had accused him of the murder for so long that he was going both mad and broke; and the only way to clear himself was to clear himself before the eyes of the world in open court.

Hugh paused.

"If you're confessing to this because you want the notoriety of a trial," he went on, "maybe that's all right. They can't do anything to you for lying, unless you lie in court. But you've got to be certain you can prove your innocence. I want to warn you, as a lawyer, that it's full of deadly risks. Be sure of your bluff before you start, or they'll think it's the other kind of bluff; and they'll hang you."

Chandler looked at the floor. "Maybe you're right. I wish I knew. It's been worrying me silly all day."

Chandler seemed to come to a decision. After glancing quickly round the auditorium, and seeming to make sure that Madge Sturgess was out of earshot, he bent over them impressively.

"Listen!" he said . . .

"Flying Mephistos!" bawled a voice from the stage. "Places! Number four there! Hoy! You!"

Chandler, while Hugh and Brenda sat with their hearts in their throats, stopped speaking, moistened his lips, and turned round.

"Half a tick!" he yelled. "I only——"

"Wow!" said the voice from the stage. The squat acrobat, who seemed to be the leader of the turn, was not content with ordinary speech. He ran to a microphone at the side of the stage; and the amplified voice blattered at them.

"I've stood enough," the voice said. "Nobody can stand any more. If you're not in place, in three seconds, while I count, out you go. You hear me?"

"You'd better go," advised Hugh. "If you're not going through with that scheme, you'd better keep your job."

With the whirl of a scarlet cloak, Chandler swept up over the seat in a one-handed vault, landed lightly in the aisle, and ran towards the stage.

A plunk of tuning fiddles issued from the orchestra-pit.

"Hugh, he knows," muttered Brenda. "There's no doubt at all about that. He knows who the murderer is, and how it was done. We shouldn't have let him go. If he has time to think about it, he may change his mind again."

"Yes, and if we don't let him go, that bloke will sack him and he'll be desperate enough to stick to his old story. Let it be. He won't have time for much personal thinking while he's doing his act."

"That," said Brenda, turning round so that her narrowed eyes met his, "is what worries me too. Hugh—that work is dangerous. He's in no state of mind to do it. I say: it would be rather horrible if his hand slipped, or something, wouldn't it? They're fifty feet over the auditorium, and no net."

It was a new danger, but they had no time to think about it. Someone walked quietly down the red-carpeted aisle and touched Hugh's shoulder from behind. It was Superintendent Hadley.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE United States will not be able to swing its Sunday punch against the Japs or the Germans for many weeks. Thus the grand Allied push, whether a European offensive or an attack on the "soft underbelly" from Nort Africa, may be delayed longer than laymen expect. Aircraft and boat shortages account for the prospective postponement.

Uncle Sam turned out 48,000 planes last year, according to official War Production board totals. "That's a lot of air ships," write boys from the front, who are surfeited with OWI releases, "but where are they?" These wistful queries come from the British, the Tunisian and the Solomon sectors. American factory statistics mean nothing to the flyers and infantrymen who do not see commensurate results on the battle line.

The understandable answer is that the "arsenal of democracy" must be spread more thinly than the people, the politicians and the doughboys realize. Of those 48,000 machines perhaps 15,000 were trainers that were retained here for use of student candidates.

The balance consists of big and little bombers, pursuits, observation that 48,000 units do not represent the striking power which Washington figures indicate.

The quota for the current year is 125,000. If we attain that objective, and if we can conquer the submarine menace, it may be a different story.

* * *

COMPLAINTS: A problem which deserves, and will receive, congressional attention concerns the failure of food to reach our fighting men. Without meaning to cavil over this vital question, confidential advices disclose that it is time for this subject to be exploited.

American mothers and fathers have shown themselves willing to make all necessary sacrifices, provided their soldier sons are properly fed. But they are not. Letters of complaint from the armed forces and from parents lie behind the decision of certain senatorial investigators to go abroad for a personal inspection.

In North Africa the boys still subsist on bully beef, Vienna sausages and Spam? They get almost no milk, coffee, eggs, canned goods. On Guadalcanal their best meals consisted of captured Japanese rations. Regardless of contrary public statements designed to comfort the home folks, in off-the-record conversations high officers of that island's gallent men grumbled bitterly.

"If anybody ever gives me a piece of canned meat again," said Maj. Gen. A. A. Vandergrift when he was in Washington, "I'll throw it in his face!"

The fact is that overseas troops are growing tired of boastful reports about our industrial and agricultural performances. They do not see them in action and, of all persons, they know that wars cannot be won with statistics.

* * *

RESIGN: President Roosevelt has served notice on such topnotchers as Vice President Wallace, E. R. Stettinius, jr., and Jesse Jones that absolute authority on rehabilitation of foreign lands and peoples has been vested in former Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York. Which means, of course, that FDR himself will handle this problem so vital to any program of postwar reconstruction.

As previously related, Lehman has no funds of his own. His office was organized originally with money which Congress gave to the President for unspecified purposes, but now that he is expanding his activities he has had to call on Stettinius's lend-lease account. He has also trespassed on the V. P.'s Board of Economic Warfare in several important matters and the Iowan is jealause of these prerogatives. In fact, he has been prodded into protest by BEW's boss, Milo F. Perkins.

Without fanfare, the President settled this dispute with his "good right arm" as the winner. FDR could have issued an executive order setting forth that the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation superseded L-L and BEW. Instead, he gave Lehman a private letter having the same force as a formal proclamation but which does not have to be marked in the Official Register.

Able Perkins is so resentful that he has threatened to resign. But he will soon be mollified by promotion to a more important post.

* * *

WORRIED: Approximately four million soldiers are buying war securities out of their pay. This represents an increase of 2½ times the number of purchasers since last September. As their average investment amounts to nearly $10 a month, the fighters are contributing almost half a billion dollars a year to Secretary Morgenthau's kitty.

Business has boomed so far that the War department is almost six months behind in its accounts. So, if your son writes that he has been buying a bond a month since last fall and you have received only one, don't be worried. You will get them eventually.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

CONFIDENTIAL surveys by medical associations show a disturbing increase in tuberculosis. The rate has not yet reached alarming proportions but the trend is being anxiously watched by physicians. Most cases are discovered among young people, especially women in victory plants toiling under great stress and in unhygienic surroundings.

Neurologists and psychiatrists report that industrial executives are suffering from nrevous disorders and breakdowns. A new form of absenteeism is developing among foremen owing to long sustained high pressure and overwork. At the start of the conflict extraordinary personal effort and hours were necessary to switch factories from peacetime production. But the strain is beginning to tell on conscientious managers.

Investigators have located bosses who never take Sundays off, who gulp coffee and sandwiches without stopping their tasks, carry home bulging brief cases and wrestle with office problems far into the night. They fret about Washington red tape, taxes, labor troubles and manufacturing schedules until they are in such a mental state that everyone who comes in contact with them also gets the jitters.

Doctors warn that the struggle is likely to last a number of years. Unless business leaders learn to conserve their energy and care for their health, they will become victims of war neuroses.

* * *

BOOSTERS: Many shrewd political managers believe that no Republican candidate can succeed against Mr. Roosevelt in 1944 unless he is a soldier of either this or the last conflict. They think the tempo of the times, and the men on the battle fronts, will demand a figure with a military background. Landon and Willkie were in uniform in the first World war, but when they ran for President a bronze button was not so important as now.

The Public Administration Clearing house today released some biographical facts on this subject. It announces that two-thirds of the states' chief executives from both parties served in the armed forces in past combats. Among GOP governors, Vivian of Colorado, who had a recent scrap with the draft board about farmers, was a U. S. Marine. Bricker of Ohio, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Warren of California, Green of Illinois and Martin of Pennsylvania—all frequently mentioned as White House timber—were in the 1917 Army. II fact, Martin compaigned in the Spanish-American war, the first World war and, until 1942 was a National Guard general in the current struggle.

Green of Illinois and Sewall of Maine were Army flyers and Schoeppel of Kansas wore a Navy aviator's wings. Baldwin of Connecticut was a sailor. Stassen of Minnesota is lieutenant commander, USNR, and will soon resign to take up active duty. Kelly of Michigan, Griswold of Nebraska, Blood of New Hampshire and Snell of Oregon are also veterans of our last affair with the Germans. Sharpe of South Dakota was a doughboy, but in 1907-11 he served in the Navy on the Presidential yacht Mayflower—a portent not overlooked by his boosters.

Here And There In Texas

By GORDON SHEARER

AUSTIN, Apr. 2 (U.P.) — Banter plays a big part in sessions of the Texas legislature. Sometimes it appears rather undignified, but members have learned that a little joking goes a long way to ease tension and keep things moving smoothly.

In the Senate there is almost a feud between Senators Weaver Moore of Houston and Penrose of San Angelo over parliamentary procedure.

Metcalfe frequently presents points of order affecting proposals by Moore. The San Angelo senator keeps on his desk a little black-covered book with parliamentary rulings and the Houston senator always refers to it when Metcalfe objects.

"There he goes for that black book again," Moore will tell the Senate. "He wants to operate by that instead of the rules of the Senate." Metcalfe replies that the rules of the Senate provide that accepted parliamentary procedure shall be followed in matters where the Senate rules are silent.

Recently Metcalfe switched to a different book, and turned the laugh on Moore but Moore won the point.

Moffett A "Specialist"

Sen. George Moffett of Chillicothe, former student at A. and M. college, where he did much laboratory work in chemicals, is generally chosen to present bills affecting chemicals, narcotics and such things.

Sen. Clay Cotten of Palestine always prods Moffett with fooling with drug legislation and says Moffett once confessed he didn't know anything about a bill he presented. "You don't know any more about drugs than I do," said Cotten, and admitted that was not a great deal.

DURING debate on a Senate bill to allow keeping indefinitely deer, carcasses in cold storage lockers, Rep. Sam Hanna of Dallas nearly found himself in the fix of a trapper who got caught in his own trap.

* * *

Said Hanna: "If anyone wants to keep deer after June 5 (deadline for storage under existing law), he should cut it up and pass it around. Some say this bill is an emergency because of meat rationing. But it's for a bunch of senators who want to keep some deer meat. A fellow told me recently that one senator had six carcasses."

Rep. Richard Craig of Miami wanted to know if Hanna didn't believe the bill was for the benefit of some "big shots in Dallas or Houston who want to keep deer to throw a party for some friends later on."

Replying to Rep. Leonard Carlton of Commerce, who asked what effect passage of the bill would have on a "little piece of deer I have in storage," Hanna said: "If you have some, you should praise the Lord and pass the meat."

It remained for Rep. Ben Sharpe of Paris to reveal that Hanna had at the side of his desk a box containing a ham and some "side meat."

Thumbing the edge of a knife someone brought in quickly, Speaker Price Daniel instructed the sergeant-at-arms to bring Hanna's ham to the stand for slicing and distribution—this in accord with Hanna's admonition to others.

Hanna objected on a point of order that it was not June 5.

* * *

Keeps Own Order

Rep. George Parkhouse of Dallas preserves order for himself when he speaks over the house miprophone, instead of waiting for the speaker to instruct the sergeant-at-arms to quiet members.

When Parkhouse was talking about a bill he was sponsoring, he noticed that a group of members was assembled around one desk and talking loudly among themselves. Parkhouse noticed that others were disturbed and could not hear him, so he shouted: "All right, you boys, break up the huddle."

He continued speaking to an orderly assembly.

* * *

REP. ROBERT AVANT of Martin shall is now certain that he can pass the Army physical examination. He recently went before doctors at Fort Sam Houston to be checked and they advised him he was "fit" to become a soldier. No exempted from service is a member of the legislature, Avant expests to join the armed forces as soon as the session is over.

Solon Now Soldier

A seasoned soldier now is Sgt. Odis A. Weldon of Canton, who was a member of the 45th and 46th legislature and recently was a visitor to the 48th House floor. Sgt. Weldon is stationed at Brooks Field, an Army air base. Some members recalled Weldon's campaign for the House when he walked all over Van Zandt making speeches for votes. They commented that Weldon rightfully belongs in the infantry instead of the air corps. Weldon was honored with a dinner at a local hotel while here.

The diameter of the earth from pole to pole is about 27 miles less than that at the equator.

Kaiser Claims New Launching Record—17 Ships In Month

PORTLAND, Ore., April 2. (AP)—Henry Kaiser's shipbuilders claimed a new launching record today—17 ships in one month.

The Liberty freighter George Llavel slid down the ways of Oregon Shipbuilding corporation shortly lafter noon Wednesday to become hte 17th.

Yard officials said this was four ships more than in any previous month and gave the yards a monthly output of 1.54 ships per way, an American shipbuilding record.

It was a two-ship day for Kaiser yards hereabouts. The Kaiser Swan island yard launched its ninth 16,500-ton tanker, the Northfield.

STOCKS TREND DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—The long expected technical correction came to the stock market today but it was relatively mild and scattered rails, industrials and utilities managed to contest profit selling with a fair amount of success.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .3 of a point at 49. It was another broad market, 953 individual issues being traded. Of these 475 were lower, 268 higher and 210 unchanged. Transfers totaled 1,659,140 shares against 1,741,960 Thursday.

Prominent losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, J. I. Case, Oliver Farm, Westinghouse, American Can, Du Pont, Boeing, United Aircraft, Kennecott, American Smelting, Consolidated Edison and Sears Roebuck.

Rails cut early losses substantially and Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central were well ahead at peaks for 1943 or longer. On the upside also were National Power, North American, American Water Works, U. S. Gypsum, Sperry and Western Union.

Commodities slipped without developing particular weakness when the President vetoed the Bankhead bill.

Among moderate curb casualties were Gulf Oil, Humble Oil, American Gas, Brewster Aero and Pennroad. Niagara Hudson Power was a lively gainer, along with Electric Bond and Share and American Light. The aggregate here was 345,310 shares versus 318,390 yesterday.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—Cotton futures rallied from extreme losses of as much as 85 cents a bale coincident with presidential veto of the Bankhead bill to close 10 to 20 cent a bale lower today.

Traders had anticipated vetoing of the bill which would have raised farm prices by excluding benefit payments in computation of parity. Extreme lows came with extensive commission house liquidation but values rallied on trade price-fixing and covering.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, April 2 (AP) — Presidential veto of the unsettled grain trading today, but the market showed no tendency to break on the action. The veto was expected during early trading and when the news confirmed previous rumors prices tended to move higher.

Wheat was down about a cent in the first hour on selling by local traders. When the news of the veto failed to bring in much selling, however, traders joined with commission houses on the buying side and the bread cereal rallied from the day's lows. Other grain followed wheat.

At the close wheat was ⅛-½ lower, May $1.45⅝-½, July $1.45⅜-⅝, corn remained unchanged at ceilings, May $1.01, oats dropped ⅜-⅛ and rye was off ½-⅝.

More Farmers Leave For 'Promised Land'

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 2. (UP)—On their way to the "promised land"—$80 a month, a house, a cow, chickens and a garden plot—today were 119 Oklahoma families making up the second train load of farm workers being shifted to the west coast's critical labor shortage areas.

In the group were 470 men, women and children, all of whom had promises of an opportunity to work from the Farm Security administration.

Reportedly among the group boarding at Vinita were several miners and a few others who said they had held defense jobs but had become dissatisfied with them and wished to return to the farm.

The initial pilgrimage started last Sunday and comprised 122 families.

The group will be taken to Wenatchee, Wis., to be distributed in localities which have been drained of farmworkers.

Stevenson To Delay Action On Labor Bill

AUSTIN, April 2. (AP)—Govenor Coke R. Stevenson said today he would delay action on signing or vetoing the manford labor union registration bill pending a study of validity of some of its provisions by the attorney general's department.

At a press conference the governor declared he would not announce a decision before Monday.

He said the measure, requiring the registration of unions and controlling to some extent their financial activities, was in the hands of Assistant Attorney General Richard Fairchild.

The governor estimated he had received between 1,000 and 2,000 telegrams with a ratio of approximately 10 to one favoring veto. It was his impression that most of the telegrams came from union officials and members.

New Books Planned For Small Cafes

WASHINGTON, April 2. (AP) — OPA said today it plans to issue a special type of ration book for use by small food-serving establishments.

The new book will be similar to the meat-canned goods book now in use by householders, and will eliminate a complicated certificate system of ration points for the small eating establishments, although larger places will continue to use the certificates.

Merchant Refutes Charge Of Arson

HOUSTON, April 2. (UP)—Held in jail on a charge of arson, George W. Robertson, 49, manager of the Phoenix Furniture Co. here, asserted today that he is "completely innocent" of blame in the costly fire that destroyed the four-story Phoenix store and building Jan. 14.

Preliminary hearing was set for April 15 before Justice of the Peace W. C. Raan.

Robertson was arrested at 5 p. m. yesterday in the office of Oswald H. Theriot, city arson investigator. Theriot, who filed the complaint, said the charge resulted from investigation which began immediately after the spectacular blaze which he said involved $150,000 insurance on contents of the store and $70,000 on the building.

February Allowable Of Oil Is Underproduced

AUSTIN, April 2. (AP)—Texas underproduced its February crude oil allowable by 6.32 per cent or 2,532,154 barrels, the Railroad commission reported today.

Indicated production for the month was 37,522,431 barrels.

By districts, the percentage of underproduction: 1—10.47; 2—11.92; 3—4.78; 4—11.21; 5—5.20; 6—2.33; 7-B—1915; 7-C—8.38; 8—5.39; 9—12.70; 10—7,08.

Additional Charges Faced By Soldiers

SAN ANTONIO, April 2 (AP) — Back in the guard house at Randolph Field, two army prisoners who yesterday escaped by overpowering their guard, will face one or more additional charges as result of their break, according to announcement from the Randolph field public relations office.

Army officials are studying the case to determine what charges to file. These charges may include one or more of the offenses of escaping from the guard, assault and kidnaping, the announcement stated.

The prisoners, listed as Pvt. William A. Yarbrough, 25, of Waco and Pvt. Frank Udovich, 25, of Cleveland, Ohio, were awaiting trial on charges of desertion and robbery.

Indiana Congressman Proposes Subsidies For Small Papers

WASHINGTON, April 2 (UP)—Sen. Raymond E. Willis, R., Ind., said today he was seeking some means by which the government could pay newspapers — especially small dailies and weeklies —"to channel information to the people without compromising the editorial policy of the newspapers or establishing the embarrassing inference of a subsidy."

Willis, a weekly newspaper publisher himself, disclosed his efforts shortly after it was learned that Sen. John H. Bankhead, D., Ala., is secretly drafting legislation which would authorize the Treasury to spend from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 in advertising its bond sale drives in newspapers.

Bankhead has discussed his proposal with Willis but they have reached no agreement on the best method to be employed.

Willis said he had discussed his idea with representatives of the National Editorial association but that no program had been worked out that was acceptable to a majority of newspaper editors.

"I do think, however," Willis said, "that there ought to be some way of the government reaching the public with explanations of the needs for rationing programs and that sort of thing at less cost and more efficiently than at present."

Willis said he believed 90 per cent of government material now reaching editorial desks is thrown in the waste basket because there is so much of it that it cannot be properly evaluated by a busy small-town editor.

If the volume were reduced and the newspaper paid, possibly at a low advertising rate, it would reach the readers with greater success, Willis said.

Willis admitted such a program might be resented by many editors who have editorially attacked the fact that farmers receive government subsidies.

He said that whether such a program would be used to disseminate political propaganda "would be a matter between the administration and the people to whom such messages would be addressed—the voting public."

Citizens Do War Job After Regular Work

BURLINGTON, Ia., April 2. (AP)—Teachers lay aside their books and shoulder heavy ordnance articles, a newspaper reporter writes the final story of the day and goes out to help push box-cars, students give up football and baseball to load carts.

That is the situation in this city of 27,000 today as white collar workers try to relieve the shortage of manual labor in the Iowa ordnance plant.

Fifty students and men who hold white collar jobs during the day now work from 6 to 10 at night in the storage warehouses of the plant. They work one to six nights a week; the average is four.

The short-shifters are called "dudes" by their fellow employes, but the plant management avers they are a far cry from the usual conception of a "dude." They work hard, don't complain and take the rough work like veterans.

One foreman declared "the greenhorns do more work in their four-hour shift than the same number of regular laborers in that time."

The short-shifters answered the call for laborers because, they said, they wanted to help the war effort. Except for the students, all of them hold daytime jobs which pay $1 or more an hour. They get 62 1-2 cents an hour for the night work.

Wider Use Of Texas Rock Asphalt Seen

DALLAS, April 2. (AP)—The use of Texas rock asphalt for construction of flight strips along highways loomed as Senator W. Lee O'Daniel announced receipt of a telegram from the public roads administration lifting the ban against the use of this material for such purposes.

The senator had sent telegraphic protest against the ban to Thomas H. McDonald, PRA head.

"Mr. McDonald's office wired me this morning that instructions were being sent to state highway departments instructing them to prepare alternate plans for the use of Texas rock asphalt," he said.

Shipstead Seeks Probe Of ICC

WASHINGTON, April 2. (AP)—Charging that a "gigantic conspiracy" exists to fix transportation rates in violation of the law, Senator Shipstead (R-Minn) introduced a resolution today calling for a full investigation by the Interstate Commerce committee.

It asked a three-way inquiry into:

"1. The methods by which transportation rates, fares and charges are made, in violation of the law, through agreement among competing carriers by rail, highway, water and air.

Would Determine Extent

"2. The extent to which such illegal rate-making has brought about and perpetuated freight rate discriminations against the Southern and Western states.

"3. The effort of the chairman of the War Production board to legalize, by administrative fiat under public law 603, seventy-Seventh Congress, such illegal rate-making practices and freight rates discriminations."

Shipstead, chairing that Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, had issued a certificate "designed to legalize all of the present illegal methods of rate-making," added:

"I charge that the men responsible for this certificate of the War Production board, which is designed to protect the greatest price fixing conspiracy this or any other country has ever known, and that is the private rate-making bureaus and conference of the railroads and other forms of transportation, are themselves guilty of gigantic conspiracy against the people of the United States.

"They should be called to account by this body, and dealt with as fearlessly as other conspirators against the nation's welfare."

Cards Offer Houston Use Of Buff Stadium

HOUSTON, April 2. (AP)—Eddie Dyer, representing Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, owners of the Houston Buff baseball franchise as well as its real estate, today offered Buff stadium to the city for the duration without cost.

The offer was made to C. C. Fleming, city director of parks and recreation.

The stadium could be used, Dyer said, for junior baseball, semi-pro ball, softball or any other activities the city saw fit to permit there.

A condition of the offer was that if the city, through concessions or otherwise, made a profit out of the park, half the profit would be given to the Cardinals with the remainder used for city recreational work.

Air Accident Toll Estimated At 1,750

WASHINGTON, April 2. (U.P.)—Approximately 1,750 army airmen were killed in flying accidents in the continental United States during the first nine months of 1942.

This figure was obtainable by calculations from safety records.

The deaths largely represented casualties incurred in training the rapidly expanding U. S. Army Air forces, now approaching 1,500,000 personnel.

During the nine months army fliers flew almost 1,500,000,000 miles within continental United States, eqnivalent to 57,000 trips around the world. More miles were flown during that period than in the 10 years, 1930 to 1939, and the accident rate decreased almost 10 per cent per 1,000 flying hours.

This accident toll is not considered high. For comparison total automobile fatalities in the United States in 1940 were 32,245.

At the county jail last night, it was said that the date of his trial had not ben set. The alleged victim was badly cut, and spent considerable time in the Slaton hospital.

Negro Soldier Held In Near-Riot Here

The negro soldier whose actions led to a near-riot in the negro section of the city Thursday night was still in custody Friday at the Lubbock Flying school, and army authorities stated that "appropriate action will be taken."

Shortly after 9 p. m., Thursday, city police struck and knocked down an unruly negro soldier, they said, and numerous other negroes, soldiers and civilians, resented the action. A police patrol car called for military police. Meanwhile profane language filled the air, some of it directed locally, some at the Army and at the United States government.

Four cars filled with military police were rushed to Eighteenth street and Avenue A, the center of the disturbance; and a smoke bomb was thrown. Soldiers deployed preparing to fire if necessary; and then Capt. George W. Shackelford, LAFS provost marshal, threatened to order all soldiers present to form ranks and march all the way back to LAFS if the crowd did not disperse. It began to disperse.

Tunisian Front

pockets of resistance north and west of Oudref, itself 12 miles north of Gabes, were being wiped out and the British were preparing to continue their hounding of Rommel's stubbornly withdrawing troops.

Americans Push On

Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton, jr.'s, American forces were known to be continuing their push toward the Gulf of Gabes from El Guetar pass, but no details were available here on their progress and there was no direct word that they yet had made a junction with the British Eighth Army. (However, the Algiers radio reported that Patton's troops had completed a junction with the British and had joined them in the pursuit of Axis forces along the coast.)

Strong patrol activity by Americans and French in the Ousseltia valley region in north central Tunisia was reported to have forced the enemy to fall back gradually to the hills to the east.

As Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's First Army moved on Bizerte, the Allied air force continued to pound the great fortified naval base in an effort to destroy its usefulness as a potential escape port for the estimated 200,000 Axis troops being squeezed into northern Tunisia.

British four-motored Wellington bombers shook the base with two-ton explosives and showers of incendiaries last night.

Other Bases Bombed

Other Allied bombers escorted by Spitfires bombed La Fauconnerie air field, 35 miles northwest of Sfax, and the air base of El Djem, midway between Sfax and Sousse, leaving many fires burning. Five Messerschmitts were just taking off when the bombers roared over La Fauconnerie. Two were hit and damaged on the ground and two others were damaged in a subsequent dogfight with Spitfires. Nine enemy aircraft were reported shot down during the day, against an Allied loss of four.

As reports from the ground fighting said the Americans had launched a new attack in the area of Maknassy, 34 miles from the coast at a point well above where Rommel's men now are making a stand, observers here stressed the aid being given the Eighth Army by General Patton's columns. They pointed out that the Americans constituted a constant menace to Rommel's flanks and forced him to divert important quantities of armor to hold them in check while Montgomery rolls him up from the rear.

Those familiar with the terrain along the eastern Tunisian coast said Rommel would strike no good defensive positions in his retreat until he reached a series of ridges some 60 miles north of Gabes.

"Buy A WAR Bond TODAY"

Bond Sales High At Shallowater

Shallowater bought $4,569.81 worth of war savings stamps and bonds at a meeting in the schoolhouse last night, the opening meeting of the Lubbock country rural committee's April bond drive. Between 500 and 600 people attended the meeting which was featured by exhibition drills of the boys' and girls' Victory corps.

Roy Boyd, county school superintendent, who addressed the meeting, said that in his judgment these Victory corps are the best developed in the South Plains, and highly praised B. T. Rucker, Shallowater superintendent of schools, and N. J. Williams, vocational agricultural teacher, for their work in promoting the corps.

Norman Leftwich drilled the boys' Victory corps and Weynell Lensey, a high school student drilled the girls' Victory Corps, putting the girls through the same maneuvers as the boys.

Henry Mahoney, chairman of the Shallowater bond committee, spoke on "the bond drive in a local community." Appointed to the committee with Mahoney to conduct further stamp and bond sales were Mrs. A. C. Wright, Mrs. Comby Robinson, Volney Farris, Earl Merrill, and B. T. Rucker.

L. C. Ellis, of the Lubbock National bank, assisted bond buyers in filling out their applications for bonds.

Wendell Roads and M. Price drilled the students in an exhibition of calisthentics.

The teacher of the negro school sang two songs, and four boys in the negro school sang a patriotic song.

16 ZEROS DOWNED AND FIVE DESTROYERS ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—A violent upsurge of aerial warfare in the Solomons, with American bombers attacking five Japanese destroyers and United States fighter planes shooting down 16 enemy Zeros, was reported today by the Navy.

Both actions occurred within a few hours on Thursday and spread over a wide area from Guadalcanal to Kolombangara island, 190 miles to the northwest.

It was southwest of Kolombangara that a lone Catalina bomber sighted and attacked an enemy force of five destroyers and a cargo ship. A flight of Army Liberator bombers winged into the same attack. They flew at low altitude, dumping bomb after bomb on the enemy surface force but were unable to observe results of their assault.

Only a few hours later, 30 to 40 Zero fighters roared into the vicinity of Guadalcanal. Six United States planes were shot down but two of the pilots were saved.

The American fliers were snatched from under the very noses of the Japanese, who have one of their main shipping and aerial bases at Rabaul, on the same coast where the rescue was affected.

The fliers were reported missing on May 24, 1942, and were brought back to civilization from their hard jungle fight for survival on March 26, 1943.

Their rescue after 10 months was believed to have set a record. It was regarded as a demonstration that there is always a very slim hope for the return of fliers forced down in this part of the world.

U. S. Post-War Policy Said Puzzling Allies

NEW YORK, April 2. (AP)—Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, said today that "one of the gravest doubts that exists in the minds of the partners of the United Nations today is the doubt as to what the policy of the United States will be when the victory is won."

Welles, in an address prepared for delivery to the chamber of commerce of the state of New York and broadcast by the National Broadcasting company, declared that our Allies remember that after the victory of 1918 the United State "withdrew from almost every form of practical cooperation" with friendly nations in the reconstruction tasks, and "made no effort to win the peace."

Welles said that whether the congress renews the trade agreements act, which will expire in June, "is the first concrete test of whether we really intend to cooperate with the rest of the world in a matter that is essential, not only to the full solution of our domesic problems, but the construction of a durable peace."

He explained the functioning of the act, which authorized the president to enter into agreements reducing tariffs, within specific limits in return for corresponding reductions in barriers erected against our trade in foreign countries.

P-40 Pilots Run Their String Of Victories To 34 Since March 25

AT AN ADVANCED U. S. AIR BASE in Southern Tunisia, April 1—(Delayed) (AP) — Led by the blazing guns of their 28-year-old commander, Col. William W. Momyer, of Seattle, Wash., who knocked down four German Stukas, a group of P-40 pilots bagged 13 Nazis planes in fighter sweeps yesterday and today, raising their victory string to 34 since March 25.

Col. Momyer increased his record to eight.

Americans flying P-40's, P-38's and Spitfires in their sector of the Tunisian battlefront have smashed down 55 Nazi aircraft since March 21 in an unrelenting campaign to destroy Axis airports and wipe all enemy planes from the skies.

Tied with Col. Momyer for first honors in the race for supremacy in the Southern Tunisia "Nazi Clay Pigeon league" is major Levi R. Chase, 25, of Cortland, N. Y., one of his squadron commanders, who destroyed two Messerschmitt 109's in today's fighting. Chase had shot six planes in previous encounters.

Momyer had his private field day when he intercepted eight German dive bombers while his outfit was returning from a sweep.

The figure of 384, the department added, also omitted the Japanese planes which probably were shot down by some of the 54 aircraft lost by the airforces, since these were unable to report on their activities.
