Federal Agent ALFREDO GARCIA searches railway cars for illegal aliens.

North of the border

Big Spring agents search West Texas for illegal aliens

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Staff Writer

Big Spring is a long way from the Rio Grande. But in Texas, every city is border land.

Federal Agent Alfredo Garcia heads a three-man Border Patrol unit based here, which scours West Texas looking for illegal immigrants from Mexico.

Although the unit is removed from intense border line patrol duty, its primary responsibilities of policing areas in the United States for illegal aliens and assisting other law enforcement agencies remain the same.

"We maintain a low profile and are out-of-town quite a bit," said Garcia. His unit supervises 10 neighboring counties. The Midland Police Force has most often asked for his assistance.

Garcia, formerly of Del Rio, said the Border Patrol combs Howard County industries to find illegal aliens.

"I think there a lot more aliens in oil and construction than there used to be," he said. "Some who worked for $5 to $6 a day are now earning that as hourly wage. Many employers now follow the system (U.S. labor laws), and some employers are taking deductions off."

The Border Patrol handles its own legal casework.

"We file misdemeanors and felony complaints," Garcia said. "Under the Western District which we operate in, we have different areas to file complaints."

Illegal aliens picked up in Howard County are booked in county jail. Last November, Howard County Commissioners approved the Border Patrol's request to house prisoners in the county jail.

Since then, the Border Patrol has housed 457 prisoners for a total of $15,222. The Border Patrol pays the county $22 per person for a 24-hour period of jail time, according to statistics from County Treasurer Bonnie Franklin's office.

Garcia said a Border Patrol detention bus runs through Big Spring three times a week on its Amarillo to Odessa route. Suspected aliens are then taken to sector headquarters in Marfa. From Marfa, they are bused to Presidio and released at the international crossing.

Aliens who wish to remain in the U.S. "are ordered to show cause" in a request for a hearing, Garcia said. U.S. citizens who aid in harboring or smuggling aliens can be charged with a felony.

Former JP aide indicted

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

Staff Writer

Howard County grand jurors have indicted a former justice of the peace employee for theft following a Texas Ranger investigation of misappropriation of funds.

The indictment was one of 30 cases that jurors true-billed during their two-day session that ended Thursday afternoon. They passed on three other cases.

Lee Winchester, 43, of 538 Westover was indicted for theft over $750 and under $20,000. She was a secretary in Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin's office from May 11, 1981, to Sept. 14, 1984.

District Attorney Rick Hamby said the case has been turned over to Assistant District Attorney Jeanine Walker.

"There are still some loose ends," Hamby said.

Howard County auditor Jackie Olson had requested last October that Texas Ranger Charles Brune conduct an investigation of funds that allegedly had been misappropriated from Heflin's office.

Heflin said he noticed an irregularity in the processing of funds in his office after he had returned from Lubbock, where he had a pacemaker implanted in his heart.

Heflin said he noticed irregularities in the way the books were handled in his office and asked Olson to "check it out."

Walker said "there is still more information we are gathering to make the case."

Winchester's arraignment date has not been set.

In other cases, grand jurors indicted:

• Jack Acuff, 31, of 120 Airbase Apartment 5B25 for a forgery charge March 15.

• Troy Yules Barrett, 18, of 1703 B Lancaster for a burglary charge Jan. 20.

• Bobby Boyd, 58, of 1000 E. 20th for a theft by check charge Nov. 20.

• Jesus Bustamante, 43, of 610 S. Nolan and Anita Bustamante, 43, of 610 S. Nolan for tampering with governmental records Aug. 15, 1983.

• Steven T. Christian, 21, of 1107 S. Goliad for a theft by appropriation charge April 9.

• Wilford Eugene England, 39, of Gail Route Box FM 12 for a burglary charge April 6.

• Longino Flores, 39, of 1404 W. 2nd for an aggravated assault with a deadly weapon charge Feb. 21.

• Gary Lee Jewell, 24, of Highland Cove No. 4 for an aggravated robbery charge March 23.

• Dora Juarez, 41, of 1003 N.W. 2nd and Ismael 45, of 1003 N.W. 2nd for welfare fraud Oct. 22.

• Clarence Knowlton, 29, of Colorado City for a driving while intoxicated charge March 17.

• John Marvin Lister, 57, of Westwind Motel for a DWI charge March 7.

• Marie Davis Marquez, 25, of 1317 Mesquite for a forgery charge March 29 and burglary of a habitation charge March 22.

• D'Wayne T. McVae, 24, of 908 N.W. 2nd for a burglary of a habitation charge March 22.

Skeeters invade city

But pests are not spreading pestilence

By KEELY COGHLAN

Staff Writer

Skeeters — those blood-sucking pests — have invaded Big Spring again.

Mostly absent from Big Spring during the last two arid years, mosquitoes have returned in full force to plague pool dwellers and to feast at barbecues.

The city's utilities department is fighting those vampire insects, not with wooden stakes and cloves of garlic, but with controlled pesticide spraying.

Currently crews are fogging in the Jones Valley section of town, the area by One Mile Lake, according to area residents.

For the most part, mosquitoes are an annoyance at dusk, at pools, at summer parties. Nothing a good slap doesn't cure. But mosquitoes sometimes can be more troublesome, transmitting diseases to your blood.

The city-county health department has not received "any reports of any significant results from mosquitoes," said director James Luck.

According to Luck, the city's monthly spraying program is fighting the city's mosquito population effectively.

"There are health hazards associated with mosquitoes," Luck said. "But there have not been any in this part of the country recently."

Later in the summer, in the hotter months, his office might catch a few mosquitoes to send to the state epidemiologists to determine what diseases, if any, the mosquitoes here have, Luck said.

The most prominent disease associated with mosquitoes in West Texas is encephalitis, sometimes called a "sleeping sickness," Luck said.

"There haven't been any instances of encephalitis in the area lately. And by lately, I mean the last three to four years," he said.

Encephalitis, which Luck called "the most tragic" of diseases transmitted by mosquitoes in this area, is characterized by fever, and listlessness.

"Everybody's got a certain amount of laziness," he said. "This is more than what's normal."

In the most severe cases of encephalitis, the disease can cause people to go into a coma and stay in a coma for some time, Luck said.

Mosquitoes can transmit several different strains of encephalitis, including Western Equine and Missouri Equine strains.

"The public should not become overly concerned about diseases associated with mosquitoes," he said.

Standing water, like this pool off Mulberry Street in the southeast section of town, are natural breeding places for mosquitoes.

Jobless rate tumbles in city, county

By CAROL BALDWIN

Staff Writer

A drop in the labor force across the state and in Big Spring is the reason behind a significant drop in the unemployment rate for April, according to state labor officials.

Joe Wallis of the Texas Employment Commission office in Big Spring said unemployment in Howard County for April stood at 5.1 percent, down by 1 percent from 6.1 percent logged in March.

Diaphe Dobie of the Austin TEC office said the jobless rate for Big Spring during April was 5.9 percent, down from a March reading of 7.1.

The total civilian labor force in Howard County for April was 16,325. Total employed was 15,494, and total unemployed was 831.

Figures in March show the labor force in the county stood at 16,727. Total employed during March in the county was 15,704, and unemployed was 895.

Wallis said the April unemployment percentage is probably a better indication of the unemployment trend in the county.

Wallis said "everything is down. (Officials) say it is caused by a levelling off from the first quarter which was a huge gain over last year.

"The 5.1 percent is a lot closer to accurate than 6.1 percent. We are in pretty good shape in Big Spring," he said.

Total labor force in the city was 12,295. Of that number, 11,568 people were employed and 727 were unemployed.

In March the city's labor force was 12,620. Of that number, 11,725 were employed and 895 were unemployed.

"Big Spring is following a statewide trend," Dobie said. "The state labor force is down. It shrank by 300 people in Big Spring."

Battle with nature

Chinese scientist studies wind erosion during U.S. visit

By CAROL BALDWIN
Staff Writer

Li Guang-Yi, a professor at China's Northwestern College of Forestry, has a photograph which drives home the horrors of wind erosion.

The snapshot is of the Great Wall of China, but the section features only a decaying wall of dirt and a dirty, barren landscape.

The section of the ancient wall, located near the college in north Shaanxi, has a lack of vegetation and an abundance of dry, blowing dust. It is a grim picture of one of the desert sections of China.

Li shared the photograph with Bill Fryrear, manager of the U.S.-Big Spring Field Station. The Chinese professor was at the experiment station this week to study methods of battling wind erosion.

Because the climate in Shaanxi closely resembles dry West Texas, Fryrear said the photograph "is a good illustration of why we are concerned here" with the battle against wind erosion.

Li, 47, is in the United States to study wind erosion research and to exchange ideas with scientists across the southwest. He arrived in the states in July, 1983, and will return home later this summer. He has not seen his wife or two children since arriving in the United States.

Separation from family is not new to the Chinese scientist. Li's father was an official with the Chinese government until a revolution drove him from his country. The family fled China but had to leave two-month-old Li behind with grandparents.

It would be more than 40 years before Li would be put in touch with a brother who returned to China in 1980 to lecture. His brother, a professor at the University of Wisconsin, managed to find Li during his visit in China.

Since that time, Li has been corresponding with his siblings, including a sister who is a professor at the University of Illinois, another sister in Los Angeles, and another brother who is a professor at Texas A&M University.

While visiting in the United States, Li managed to visit each of his siblings. He has personal photographs for himself and research for his university from each visit he has made around the country.

Fryrear said he regularly receives publications from China regarding wind erosion studies. The only problem is that the publications are in Chinese.

Thumbing through the Journal of Desert Research, Fryrear said, "I look at the tables and figures and normally I can tell what they've found out." He and Li share a laugh about the language barriers which do not inhibit the common tie of their research.

Li said Fryrear was "a big help" during his stay in Texas. "I stay at his home," Li said. "His wife and grandchildren were very friendly to me. I take a picture with him."

Li said Big Spring was very much like his home in China. "Northwest China is very dry, same as this area. Maybe I learn water-control" techniques, he said.

Li and Fryrear visited several area farmers this week, including Larry Shaw, a farmer in Knott.

Li said the average farmer in China earns about $175 a year. When he met Shaw, "I thought he was a very rich farmer," Li said with a smile.

In China, 80 percent of the people are farmers. Because of their dependence on the land, the study is wind erosion is very important, Li said.

The methods he has studied here "are new methods for me...I have information from research papers and lots of slides and pictures. It is good for me to teach students in China."

Weather

Local

Today's forecast calls for a 20 percent chance of isolated afternoon thunderstorms with the highs in the low 90s. Tonight lows will drop into the low 60s. Tomorrow's skies will be partly cloudy. Highs will be in the 90s and lows in the 60s.

State

Torrents of rain drenched parts of the winter garden area of South Texas early today, flooding low-water road crossings and low-lying areas and causing undetermined crop damage.

Growers were faced with the likelihood of having to replant spring crops in some areas.

The system that unleashed the storms was nearly stationary over a small area.

Other heavy thunderstorms were scattered across the Rio Grande plains extending southward into Mexico. Some very heavy thunderstorms were also being detected offshore along the upper Texas coast.

Skies were mostly clear over the High Plains, North Texas and East Texas overnight as high pressure continued to build southward across the state.

Forecast

WEST TEXAS — Highs Saturday mid 80s Panhandle to lower 90s Concho Valley and near 100 Big Bend valleys. Lows tonight mid 50s Panhandle to upper 60s Big Bend.

CRIMESTOPPERS

Crimestoppers is offering a $1,000 reward for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of persons who committed a burglary of a residence Thursday.

According to a sheriff's report, the burglary occurred between 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Route 2, north of Big Spring on Highway 350 at Box 92.

Items that were reported to have been stolen include: a G.E. 19-inch color television valued at $350; a Sanyo microwave oven valued at $200; 12 white dinner plates with blue flower designs on them; 12 matching coffee cups; one sugar bowl; one cream pitcher and one salt and pepper shaker set that match the above dishes.

Total value of the missing dishes is approximately $100.

Persons with information about the burglary should contact Crimestoppers or the Howard County Sheriff's Department.

Firefighters douse 2 car fires

Firemen Thursday extinguished two car fires that caused a total of $1,150, according to fire department reports.

When firemen arrived at 10:34 p.m. at the parking lot of Thurman's Fina Truck Stop on Interstate 20, they found a 1970 Oldsmobile Delta 88 "engulfed in flames from the dash back to the inside of the trunk area," the report stated.

The driver of the car, T.J. Barfield of Midland, told firemen he had ruptured the gasoline tank going through construction on Interstate 20.

Firemen, however, said they did not know what caused the fire, unless a spark had set off the gasoline tank.

The two firefighters called to the scene doused the fire with 400 gallons of water, the report stated. Firemen returned to the station at 11:27 p.m.

Damage to the car, owned by Cheapy Car Lease of Midland, was estimated at $1,000, according to the report.

Firemen Thursday afternoon also extinguished a fire in a 1975 Ford Mustang at the intersection of Third and Main streets.

Firefighters arrived at the fire at 1:23 p.m. to find smoke coming out from under the hood of the car, the report stated.

Firemen used 25 gallons of water to douse the fire and moved the car out of the street. Damage to the car, owned by Eileen Clanton of Coahoma and driven by Stella Franco, was estimated at $150, the report stated.

Firemen returned to the station at 1:47 p.m., according to the report.

Cars burglarized at hotel

Three cars were burglarized Wednesday night while in the Mid-Continental Inn parking lot, according to police reports.

Items valued at $1,760 were taken between 2 and 9 a.m. Thursday from a white 1981 Audi 5000 owned by Mike West-of-Lubbock, according to the report.

Taken were: three pinstripe suits; blue, grey, and brown, valued at $750; a pair of light beige lizard boots, valued at $300; a light beige lizard belt, valued at $60; a radar detector, valued at $300; and an AM-FM stereo and cassette deck, valued at $350.

Charles Searles of Jebco Drilling told police someone stole a pair of sunglasses, valued at $100; and four gasoline credit cards from his car at the hotel. The burglary occurred between 9 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday.

Gordon Wallace of 3510 Copperas Cove told police someone stole a black briefcase, a note pad and folder of unknown value from his car between 7:15 p.m. Wednesday and 7:50 a.m. Thursday.

Vernon Wilson of 108 Cottonwood told police someone stole a black and silver barbecue grill between 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. from his house. The two-burner grill was valued at $189.

Vandals broke a plate glass window at ERA Reeder Realtors office at 506 E. Fourth, Silvia Arispe told police. The window was broken between 5:30 and 8 a.m. Thursday. Damage was estimated at $250.

Crisis hotline for farmers

WALTHILL, Neb. — Judy Dye, whose family was forced to sell its own farm, now tries to help others avoid the same fate by answering the Farm Crisis Hotline five days a week.

The telephone service provides financial, legal and emotional counseling and is the foundation of a statewide network developed to help farmers surmount the depressed agricultural economy.

"The hotline has been a healing process for me, to be able to talk to folks like you," Mrs. Dye told one caller. "It's kind of like a family."

Fourteen other states, mostly in the Midwest, have crisis hotlines. Nebraska's is unique because of the broad range of counseling it offers, Mrs. Dye said.

Car sales skyrocket

DETROIT — The domestic auto industry's latest 10-day sales report, showing an 18.2 percent gain, reflects a continuing demand for larger cars and the effectiveness of sales incentives, market analysts say.

The showroom surge, reported Thursday by the seven major domestic carmakers, made the May 11-20 period the best in seven years.

General Motors Corp. regained its traditional market share for the first time this year with 61 percent of the domestic market, based largely on an unusual 40 percent gain by the Chevrolet division, which was offering the biggest promotions at GM.

2nd of septuplets dies

ORANGE, Calif. — The tiniest of the six surviving Frustaci septuplets, a one-pound boy nicknamed "Peanut," died of complications from his premature birth, hospital officials announced today.

The baby died at 12:30 a.m., hospital spokesman Doug Wood said.

"It was just general prematurity. The baby was extremely small," he said.

Wood was with the father, Sam Frustaci, just after the death, "and he was obviously distressed, but always knew it was a possibility," Wood said.

Doonesbury on abortion

FAIRWAY, Kan. — Six "Doonesbury" comic strips centering on abortion were not distributed to newspapers because they might have been considered controversial and may not have been used, a Universal Press Syndicate official said today.

It was the first time since "Doonesbury" went into national syndication 15 years ago that the often-controversial comic has not been distributed.

The decision was reached mutually by officials of Universal Press and Doonesbury creator Garry Trudeau, said Lee Salem, editorial director at Universal Press.

MX bombs

Senate votes to cut funding for program in half

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rebellious Senate majority that forced President Reagan to slash his MX missile fleet hopes to force the White House to find ways to shield the vulnerable weapon from Soviet nuclear attack.

Lacking the votes to change the outcome, the President on Thursday accepted a clearly unwelcome compromise that adds up to the most serious setback any component of his military modernization plan has ever suffered.

The Senate ratified the compromise, which calls for a 50 percent reduction in MX deployment, on an overwhelming 78-20 roll call vote after three days of intense negotiations between the White House and Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga.

Thirty-five Republicans and 43 Democrats voted for the amendment, with liberal MX opponents joining die-hard conservative MX supporters in the final balloting.

The White House scrambled to portray the development in the best possible light.

Reagan called the vote on Nunn's amendment to the pending $302 billion defense authorization bill "a bipartisan expression of continuing support for our strategic modernization program." He said it proves senators have accepted MX as an important component of that program even though they are unhappy with its vulnerable basing mode.

Some senators scoffed at that. And there were a host of varying interpretations of the ultimate significance of Nunn's success.

"Some will say it's a gap, some will say it's a pause, some will say it's the death of MX," said Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas. "You can interpret it any way you want to."

The compromise Reagan accepted provides that only 50 MX weapons can be deployed in existing Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole and Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd talk over the MX vote late Thursday night.

Minuteman silos in Wyoming and Nebraska. Any MXs over 50 would have to use a different basing method.

The compromise also scaled back MX production to no more than 12 missiles during fiscal 1986 instead of the 48 Reagan had sought and the 21 the Senate Armed Services Committee had approved.

Proposal calls for ceasefire

Lebanese death toll tops 226

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria proposed three-point cease-fire plan today as Shiite Moslem militiamen pressed their bloody assault on Palestinian guerrillas in Beirut's refugee camps.

Police said 25 people were killed and 198 wounded overnight, raising the five-day toll to 226 dead and 1,363 wounded.

Dozens of bodies littered the streets of the camps and rumors of massacres filtered from the camps.

Five shells from the fighting exploded at Beirut airport, about two miles south of the camps. One hit as passengers left a Middle East Airlines flight from Paris. Witnesses said two airport employees were wounded and two Boeing 707s were damaged by shrapnel. Officials closed the facility.

Palestinian gunners in the hills unleashed another barrage of long-range artillery and Soviet-made Grad and Katyusha rockets on Shiite residential districts ringing the camp.

The area's fire chief, Kamel Mokahal, said the barrage set 15 houses on fire, killing about 30 civilians in one apartment building. Police were not immediately available for comment on that report.

Lebanon's state radio reported that Syrian Vice President Abdul-Halim Khaddam had negotiated terms of a cease-fire between representatives.

Selling grain to Russia

MOSCOW — U.S. agriculture officials left Moscow after two days of talks with Soviet negotiators about grain purchases throughout the rest of 1985, but no agreements were reached during the semi-annual session, a U.S. Embassy official said today.

The American delegation, led by the deputy undersecretary of agriculture, Tom Kay, departed Moscow Thursday night without gaining a clear understanding of how much grain the Soviets will need to buy this year, said one official, who commented on condition he not be identified.

Discussions between Kay's delegation and the Soviet group, led by the deputy foreign trade minister, Viktor M. Ivanov, focused on an estimate of the U.S. grain crop this year, technical questions concerning pesticide and fertilizer use and grain delivery conditions. There was limited discussion of Soviet grain output, officials said.

On becoming a cardinal

ROME — Archbishops John J. O'Connor of New York and Bernard F. Law of Boston were named titular heads of Roman churches today, a last step before Pope John Paul II elevates them to cardinals.

The ceremony of taking the title of a church in Rome makes Law and O'Connor members of the Roman clergy and thus eligible to elect the bishop of Rome, or the pope.

O'Connor was assigned the Basilica of Saints John and Paul, while Law was assigned Santa Susanna. Both churches traditionally are assigned to the archbishops of New York and Boston.

The delegation of Americans to Saturday's event, known as the consistory, multiplied Friday with the arrival of 320 people from Boston and Springfield, Mo.

Law, who served as bishop of Springfield before he was transferred to Boston, greeted the Missourians and Bostonians who arrived at Rome's Ciampino military airport.

Sellers' widow wins suit

LONDON — Actress Lynne Frederick, was awarded $1 million in damages today on her claim that the movie, "Trail of the Pink Panther," insulted the memory of her late husband, actor Peter Sellers.

But the High Court refused to grant Miss Frederick's request for an injunction against further showing of the film.

The film used discarded clips from the five previous Pink Panther films, in which Sellers starred as the bumbling, self-important Inspector Clouseau. It was released in October 1982, two years after Sellers died.

High Court Judge Sir John S. Hobhouse ruled that the filmmakers, for commercial gain, had "interfered with Sellers' contractual rights." The movie was made by United Artists, director Blake Edwards and Lakeline Productions, owned by Edwards' wife, singer Julie Andrews.

Mount St. Helens may blow its top

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Earthquake activity at Mount St. Helens is increasing, and the giant lava dome in the volcano's crater is swelling, U.S. Geological Survey scientists said.

"These two observations indicate that the slow buildup that began last week ... is continuing," said Steve Brantley, a USGS spokesman.

On Monday, the USGS advised that a possibly explosive dome-building eruption was likely within two weeks at the southwest Washington mountain.

The eruption probably will add a new lava flow to the dome in the crater, Brantley said. Because the mountain had been quiet for eight months until a week ago, scientists believe the new eruption could begin with an explosion.

But any danger would be confined to the crater area, said Chris Jonientz-Trisler, a seismic analyst at the University of Washington.

Earthquakes monitored Thursday at the university indicated the seismic energy being released at the volcano had advanced from a "moderate" to "high" level, she said. Most of the quakes registered 1 or lower on the Richter scale of ground motion.

The lava dome has been swelling by inches each day, another indication of molten material moving beneath the surface, Brantley said.

4th Amendment goes on the road

Recognizing that domesticity does not supersede mobility, the U.S. Supreme Court recently granted police the power to search motor homes without warrants.

We concur with the justices. The case originated in San Diego in 1979 when a man named Gerald Carney was convicted of possessing marijuana for sale after law-enforcement officials saw the drug inside his motor home and stepped inside to seize it. Further searches uncovered more marijuana in the vehicle.

In 1983 the California Supreme Court overturned Mr. Carney's conviction on the grounds that motor homes were exempt from the 60-year-old "automobile exception" to the Fourth Amendment. This rule allows for the immediate search of vehicles that might leave the scene of a suspected illegal activity. The California court believed that motor homes, notwithstanding their mobility, were "generally ... used as residences."

That dubious conclusion was overturned when the U.S. justices ruled 6 to 3 that motor homes do fall under the "automobile exception." The court affirmed that motor homes are indeed, mobile, and furthermore, deserve "a reduced expectation of privacy stemming from (their) use as a licensed motor vehicle."

Correctly, the justices steered clear of applying the ruling to homes placed on blocks, or on foundations, or connected to utilities. Known as "mobile homes," these dwellings, paradoxically, cannot be moved easily.

In championing the motorhome case, California authorities called motor homes "mobile criminal operational centers." While this language is hyperbolic, there is substance to the claim that motor homes are useful in some illegal activities, including the transportation of illegal aliens and narcotics.

In dissent from his colleagues, Justice John Paul Stevens remarked that a motor home is the "functional equivalent" of a home. Exactly. That definitional equivocation illustrates why police should need no warrant to search a motor home. The automobile exception should be applicable until a motor home ceases to be mobile.

Art Buchwald

We'll get back to you

One of the serious charges made against White House aide Pat Buchanan is that he doesn't return people's calls.

Buchanan isn't the only one. The telephone is the main form of communication in Washington (except for sending a message to Moscow by putting a trade embargo on Nicaragua), and media people are particularly sensitive about when (and if) their calls will be acknowledged.

The no-return call in the nation's capital is the cruelest call of all.

This is how the system works. You place the call, but you have no illusions that you'll get through to your quarry the first time around. Government officials worry that if they are that easily available you'll assume they don't have enough to do. So secretaries are trained to automatically inform the caller that the boss is "in conference."

What constitutes a conference in Washington has never been defined. It could be a gathering of 20 people or just two. It could be taking place in the office or on another floor — and for really top-flight executives, it could be held "up on the Hill."

You know you're talking to power when a secretary informs the caller that her boss is "out of town traveling with the President."

Those of us who have been around for a while deal with brush-offs in different ways. I have a friend, Barry Sussman, who, when informed that the person he is telephoning is in conference, always asks the secretary, "Who with?"

When the secretary says she doesn't understand Sussman tells her, "They are probably discussing what I'm writing about. You better break it up and tell Michelle Wilson I'm on deadline and I would prefer to get her side of it before I go to press."

Bruce Henderson, on the other hand, never makes the call himself. He has the pool secretary do it because he has a horrible fear that the person on the other end of the line will make him spell his name.

One person I work with likes to keep track of how his personal stock is doing in Washington. So every once in a while Joe Gradisher calls someone in the administration. When he is given the standard "conference" alibi, Gradisher leaves his name and phone number with the secretary.

Then Joe sets the clock with the hours, days and months on his desk and proceeds to time how long it takes for the official to get back to him.

If the call is returned Joe will just say he was testing the system. If it isn't returned he will put out the word that the appointee is not long for this world.

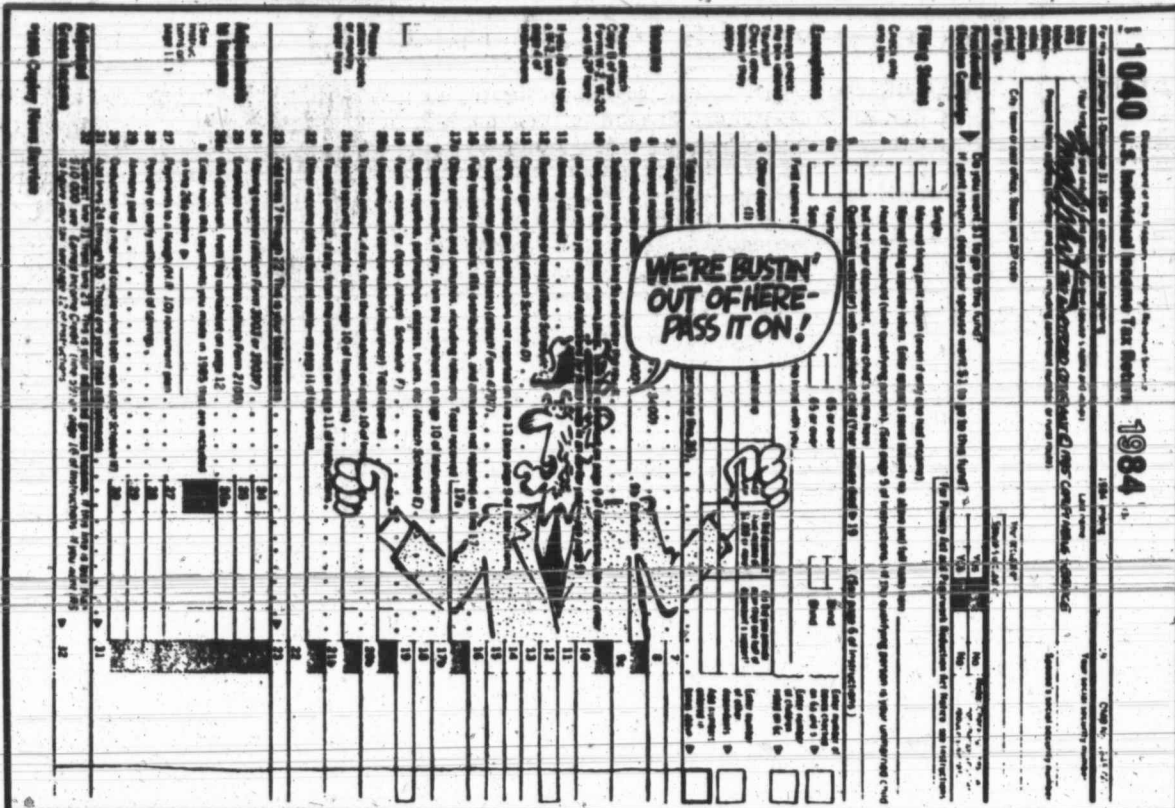

More and more administration officials and bureaucrats are refusing media calls on the assumption that if they don't talk to the press they can't be misquoted. While this is not a bad strategy it does have its drawbacks. It leaves the journalist free to write whatever he pleases, adding this line to cover himself, "Godzilla did not answer this writer's calls."

Which brings me back to Pat Buchanan, whom I can write about objectively since I've never called him, and therefore hold no grudge because he failed to call me back.

It has been said Buchanan is second to Don Regan in influence in the White House. He is also the President's communications director. If you phone Pat and he doesn't respond within a reasonable period of time, it can be a terrible blow to your reputation. This is particularly true of the opinion makers who do not agree with the administration's policies, but put great store in how fast the President's men answer their calls.

In fairness to Pat, he is quite busy just feeding the journalists who support the administration line and should not be faulted for putting so many unfriendly reporters on "hold." White House sources have told me that after returning one Evans and Novak call Buchanan is wiped out for the rest of the day.

The death of Dr. Mengele

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA
WASHINGTON — Newly discovered documents explain why Dr. Josef Mengele, the notorious "Angel of Death" at the Auschwitz extermination camp, was never brought to justice at the Nuremberg trials after World War II: U.S. authorities thought he was dead.

The documents uncovered so far do not explain what led them to believe that Mengele was dead, but Justice Department investigators are sifting through the enormous volume of historical material to find out.

Mengele is known to have emigrated to South America several years after the war. He became a Paraguayan citizen and is believed to be still living there, probably hiding in a jungle border community. He is 74.

Letters and memos found by researchers recently date back to 1947 and 1948, when preparations were underway to try Nazi concentration-camp doctors before the Nuremberg war-crimes tribunal.

A Jewish doctor from Transylvania, Gizella Perl, had been forced to assist Mengele in his hideous pseudo-scientific experiments on twins and other Auschwitz inmates. She had learned that Nazi doctors were about to be tried, and volunteered to testify against Mengele, whom she assumed would be in the dock at Nuremberg.

"I would be very pleased to go there as a witness," Dr. Perl wrote to the Pentagon's civil-affairs division in Washington on Oct. 7, 1947. "I, who was the gynecologist of Dr. Mengele, have many important things to tell there to awaken the conscience of the world, and to help the trial."

Dr. Perl misspelled Mengele's name not only in the letter, but throughout a book she had written on her experience at Auschwitz. The American authorities also repeatedly misspelled "Mengele," though whether this did anything to create the erroneous impression that he was dead is not yet clear.

On Jan. 19, 1948, responding to a "request for information regarding Dr. Mengele" from Washington, Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief counsel for war crimes at Nuremberg, wrote a memo stating: "We wish to advise our records show Dr. Mengele is dead as of October 1946."

Taylor, now 77, did not remember the memo. He told our associate Lucette Lagnado: "I have no recollection about Mengele at Nuremberg...It is quite clear that if Mengele and his activities at Auschwitz had come to our attention, we would have wanted to put him in the dock."

The new evidence adds to the confusion over Mengele's whereabouts in the chaotic years immediately following the defeat of Nazi Germany. Several weeks ago, it was widely reported that other Army documents of the era indicated that Mengele had been arrested by American occupation forces and apparently released.

There were other reports over the years that Mengele lived openly under his own name in or near his hometown in Gunzburg, Bavaria, in U.S.-occupied Germany, until 1949. Then, as now, his family owned a large farm-equipment business based there.

In fact, the files list Karl Mengele, the doctor's father, among "individuals of CI (counter-intelligence) interest" arrested by the U.S. Army between June 14 and June 20, 1945. Like the reports of Josef Mengele's death, details of the father's arrest are missing.

Justice Department investigators are painstakingly digging through the files to find answers to the tantalizing questions raised by the newly discovered documents. They particularly want to find out if the erroneous report of Mengele's death was the result of a deliberate attempt by American personnel to protect him. Although the quack doctor of Auschwitz had no technical or intelligence expertise to make him worth protecting, his family was (and is) enormously wealthy.

Was somebody bribed to prepare a false death certificate — and accept it as authentic?

PRIVATIZING SECURITY CLEARANCE: The federal government's suddenly increased need for employees with proper security credentials in the last couple of years has swamped the Office of Personnel Management with requests for background checks. In desperation, OPM has farmed out some of its security checks to private firms in hopes of eliminating the growing backlog.

This has made civil libertarians uneasy. They fear that the sensitive personal background information required for government employees could be subject to misuse in private hands, and that the practice will further erode individuals' privacy.

Former personnel chief Donald Devine told us his agency is getting farther behind on its clearance checks every year.

U.S.-Soviet arms talks begin to fizzle

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON — Round 2 in the uphill search for a U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms agreement is about to begin, but on this important front as well as others the superpower relationship may be too sour to expect any serious progress.

The only exception: agreements produced by Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige on a trip to Moscow to improve trade between the two countries.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko gave no indication of a change in the Kremlin's negotiating position in the arms talks when he met in Vienna last week with Secretary of State George Shultz.

So U.S. officials, who have already dismissed a raft of Easter Sunday proposals by Mikhail Gorbachev, the Soviet leader, for freezes and cutbacks as old hat, are not expecting any breakthrough in Geneva when the negotiations resume next Thursday.

On the U.S. side, Ambassador Max Kampelman will reiterate American readiness to give serious consideration to any new Soviet ideas. But Kampelman is not planning to offer new U.S. proposals. So the outlook is for more shadow-boxing at the table without any slowing of the arms race.

The last U.S.-Soviet agreement to curb nuclear weapons was signed in Vienna six years ago by President Carter and the late Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev. Negotiations began again in November 1981, were suspended for 15 months after a Soviet walkout, in December 1983, and resumed last March.

The talks are snagged over President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative. The Soviets want to stop the "Star Wars" research, claiming it would push the weapons competition to a dangerous and new frontier, outer space.

The Reagan administration has given assurances there would be negotiations with the Soviets before any futuristic anti-missile devices were deployed. Otherwise, the United States is determined to proceed with the research program.

While U.S.-Soviet summit meetings generally serve to finalize agreements already worked out, they also can be a useful mechanism for ending impasses.

The Soviet Embassy, in a Novosti press agency commentary released here Wednesday, said that when the Geneva talks resume "it will become clear whether or not the U.S. side is ready to modify its position and honor the earlier commitments to negotiate the space weapons issue."

The commentary accused the United States of trying to "renew" on an agreement reached by Shultz and Gromyko in Geneva in January to negotiate space weapons issues in their "interrelationship" with offensive arms.

"There is constant talk in Washington of supposed U.S. flexibility, of a desire to meet the other side halfway," it said. "But as the first round has shown, there is still no evidence of a willingness to proceed from words to deeds to demonstrate this."

Even before Star Wars was put on the agenda the two sides were deadlocked over where to make cuts in their offensive nuclear weapons. The United States wants to focus on heavy Soviet ground missiles while resisting attempts to stop the deployment of new American rockets in Western Europe.

While U.S.-Soviet summit meetings generally serve to finalize agreements already worked out, they also can be a useful mechanism for ending impasses. For a while, it seemed Reagan and Gorbachev might try, at least, to nudge the negotiations forward by holding the first summit since 1979.

Shultz said in March that "chit-chat or just getting to know you" was not a useful basis for a summit meeting. On the other hand, he said, it might be a good idea for Reagan and Gorbachev to "review the bidding" on "all of the various substantive issues which are deep and difficult."

Now, however, the Soviets appear to be cooling to the idea of a meeting later this year in New York, and the administration is not trying to revive Moscow's interest.

The U.S. stance is that Reagan's invitation is on the table, and it's up to the Soviets to reply. Shultz did not raise the subject with Gromyko in Vienna, and by all accounts, Gromyko also avoided the issue.

Viktor G. Afanasyev, the chief editor of the Communist Party newspaper Pravda, had told officials of the Reuters news agency in February that Gorbachev definitely would visit the United Nations in the fall. But this was never confirmed by the Soviet government.

A Soviet official here continued to leave the possibility open, telling The Associated Press on Wednesday that Gorbachev had noted "a positive attitude" on a summit on both sides. "So we have a position," the official said. "So far as details, such as time and place, it will be the subject of subsequent arrangements through diplomatic channels."

Judging by the Shultz-Gromyko meeting, however, those channels are not getting a lot of use.

Barry Schweid, who writes about diplomacy and arms control for The Associated Press, covered the last three U.S.-Soviet summit meetings.

A sergeant's success story

By SCOTT FITZGERALD

And then what I couldn't get into the story...

Sgt. Frank Woodall of the Texas Department of Public Safety Highway Patrol Office in Big Spring said last Wednesday that between 20 and 36 DPS people came to Big Spring this week to participate in the driving obstacle course.

The course offers training to DPS troopers that will enable them to know more about the particular vehicle they drive.

This week was the second of a five week offering. Last week, Woodall told me, about 36 troopers came to town.

Woodall said that DPS sergeants around the state were asked to make recommendations to central headquarters about whether their particular district had an ample site to conduct driving obstacle courses.

"I made my recommendation of Big Spring to the major. Besides an excellent site, we (Big Spring) had ample lodging and restaurants to accommodate visiting troopers," Woodall said.

The sergeant also was aware of the fact that the Big Spring Police Department had conducted some of its driver training at the same site.

Woodall met with the police department and Airpark manager Hal Boyd to discuss the possibilities of using the abandoned taxiway to conduct driver training.

"No one had any objections. The city said it would be fine to let us use it. We said we would set it up," Woodall said.

He made his Big Spring recommendation to the DPS major.

"The Major decided on this site because the facilities available would more fit our needs," Woodall said.

Let's see — about 30 visitors to Big Spring per week for a one night's stay. A little extra commerce helps. It could remain steady.

"Rather than sending everyone to Austin, several DPS troopers will receive their training here (Big Spring)," Woodall said.

It was a modest display of common sense. Kind of a low profile guy that Woodall is. Maybe the accomplishment doesn't warrant a ribbon cutting event or a flashy news release, but I liked it.

And I think Howard County and Big Spring is lucky to have him as its DPS sergeant.

Opinions expressed in this column are those of the staff writer and do not necessarily reflect the views of the newspaper's management.

Home landscapes topic of horticultural tour

The Spring Horticultural Home Tour sponsored by the County Extension Horticultural Program Area Committee will begin at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Dora Roberts Community Center in Comanche Trail Park.

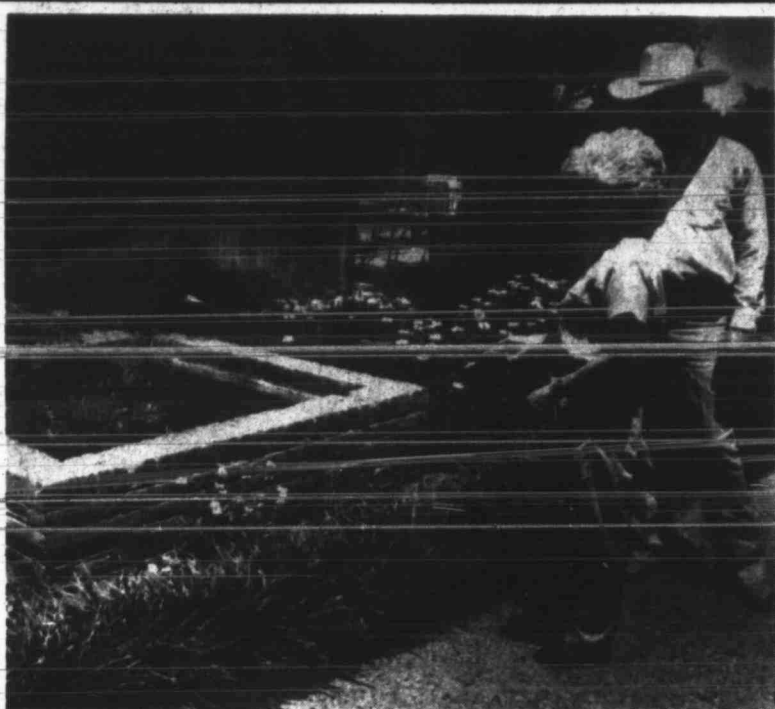

Home landscapes with the theme "Outdoor Living" were selected for the tour. Outdoor entertainment areas, efficient utilization of outdoor areas and an emphasis on the use of native plants in home landscapes will be featured.

The tour will stop at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lanny Hamby, 2800 Melrose; the Native Plant Trail at the Big Spring State Park on Scenic Mountain; the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Morehead, 704 Highland; and the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tompkins off the San Angelo Highway.

A landscape design and maintenance clinic will follow the tour at 5:30 p.m. at the Dora Roberts Center. Conducting the clinic will be Dr. Austin Stockton, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and the Howard County Extension agents. The clinic will emphasize using native plants in home landscapes.

People may participate in the tour, the clinic, or both. Members of the planning committee were: Suncha Christensen, Edna Womack, Doris Mason and Mrs. Sherman Smith.

More information may be obtained by calling the County Extension Office at 267-6671 or coming by the office in the basement of the Howard County Courthouse.

OUTDOOR LIVING — Don Richardson, Howard County extension agent, talks with Mrs. Lanny Hamby about her landscape. The Hamby home is one stop on the Spring Horticultural Home Tour to be given Tuesday.

Poppies to be sold Saturday

As a result of the death of a soldier on the battlefield in World War I, the poppy became the symbol of Americans who lost their lives in war.

A poem, "On Flanders Field the Poppies Blow," was found on the soldier's body, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars decided to make the flower their symbol.

The VFW sponsors the Buddy poppy sale each year to raise money for needy and disabled veterans. On Saturday, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will help the VFW sell the poppies at various locations.

People selling poppies will be served breakfast at 7 a.m. Saturday at the VFW home on Driver Road.

Disorder causes swallowing problem

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I am writing because of my daughter, who is 36 and has trouble swallowing liquids. She's had this problem for the past two years. Sometime ago there was an article in the paper regarding the same situation, where the doctor inserted a disk to stretch the esophagus, and it helped that person. I also have read that scleroderma can affect swallowing. Will you please tell me what kind of help we can get for my daughter? — T.D.

Let me touch first on the scleroderma matter. That can cause difficulty in swallowing. But scleroderma is relatively rare, and rarer still would be its occurrence with only one organ (esophagus in this case) involved. And most likely there would be other signs, like thickening and tightening of the skin, especially noticeable on the hands and fingers. There would be inflammation of blood vessels, and often internal organs are involved.

So your daughter really has to be seen so that other causes can be investigated. There are different categories of swallowing difficulties.

Does she have trouble swallowing solids as well as liquids? If so, the doctor would consider an illness that affected normal muscle action of the esophagus wall — achalasia, for example. In many other esophagus disorders liquid, at least, can be swallowed, and that fact can rule out muscular problems. If the trouble is mostly with solids, then doctors look to conditions that actually block food passage, like esophageal growths or formation of tissue webs.

About all I can suggest is that your daughter see her family doctor or, if she wishes, a gastroenterologist. The Department of Internal Medicine at the nearest hospital can recommend one.

Dear Abby

Grandparents uneasy about child's 'daddy'

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, "Ella," a single parent, has a 3½-year-old daughter. Ella and our granddaughter had been living with us until a few months ago when they moved in with Ella's boyfriend.

Last weekend my husband and I went to pick up our granddaughter for the weekend. As we were leaving, Ella said to the child, "Kiss Daddy goodbye" (referring to her live-in lover).

Our mouths fell open. Needless to say, since they aren't married, we don't think it's right for Ella to tell her child to call this man "Daddy."

I believe Ella has told her neighbors that she and this man are married, and in order to make it appear so, she wants the child to call him "Daddy."

I haven't said anything to Ella yet, and I won't until I hear from you.

UNEASY: Apparently your daughter is trying to provide her child with at least the trappings of a normal family life, which is to her credit.

Don't judge her. Perhaps it was the child's idea to call him "Daddy." Be kind. And be quiet.

Robertson packing up and moving out

By LISA MUSSER
Staff Writer

A box of crayons, a file cabinet with a Big Spring bumper sticker on the side, a shelf lined with theological books, a couple of framed diplomas, and a colored picture of a pumpkin that reads "To Dixie, You are my friend. From Chap," are all in, but soon to leave the office of Dixie Robertson.

Robertson, associate pastor of the First United Methodist Church, has been the first woman pastor at the church for 4 years. Recently, Bishop Lewis Schowengerdt appointed her as associate council director for the United Methodist North West Texas Conference. She will begin her new position June 12 in Lubbock.

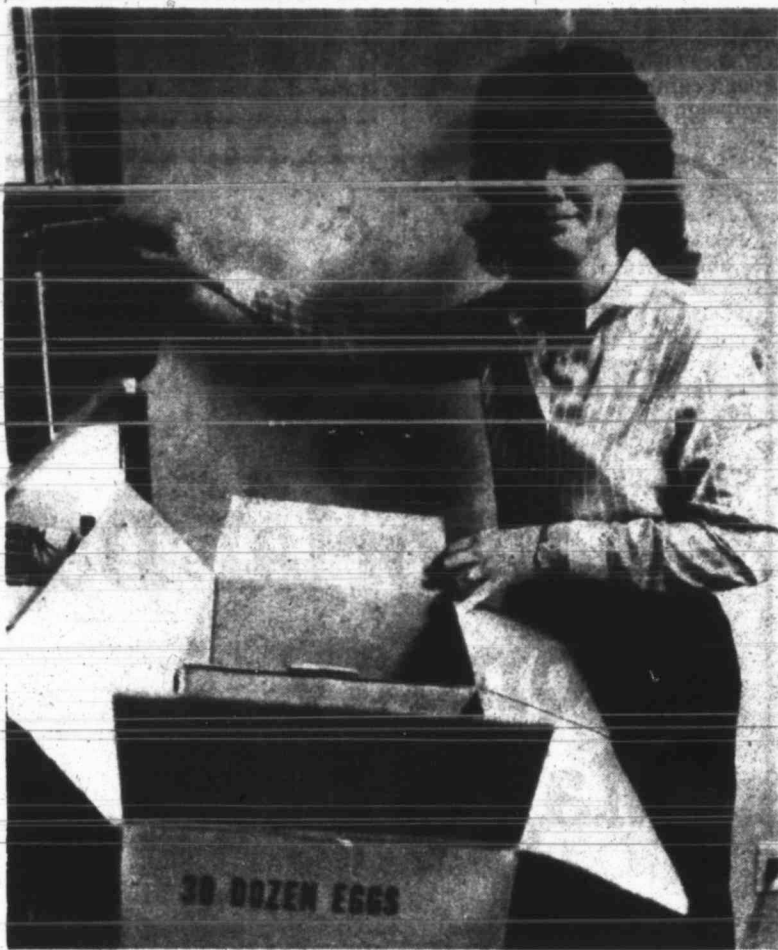

Robertson, 30, said it was time for her to either set new objectives or move. "I had accomplished many of the goals I had set here."

Her responsibilities included: working with the youth in the church, directing children's church and education programs, performing hospital and member visits, teaching a Sunday School class and preaching in the absence of Senior Pastor Keith Wiseman.

When she began the job, her goals were to get to know the youth as individuals, to focus on building the youth group, to increase her teaching abilities, to improve the education program of the church, and to personally become more organized.

The youth group has not only grown in numbers, but in "stature and wisdom," she said. "I'm going to miss working with them."

Her teaching abilities increased with the challenges her Sunday School class of young couples and her confirmation class of fifth and sixth graders gave her. She said it was exciting that even the children were asking serious questions on theological issues such as evil.

"The work of the church is never done," she said. But Robertson achieved all her goals except organization.

She said she asks herself, "Do I have a clean office, or do I go and visit somebody instead?" Her office and organization always come in second.

Robertson said she had mixed feelings about leaving Big Spring. "Anybody that comes to Big Spring and doesn't feel accepted and doesn't enjoy living here, probably wouldn't enjoy living anywhere else."

Robertson said she was accepted and respected. "I have received a great deal of support, as a woman, from this church."

Looking forward to the job with the North West Texas Conference makes leaving the church and its staff easier, she said.

Her new responsibilities will involve the same type of work but will be coordinated in a much larger area. Her region will include churches in the Panhandle to Texline, in the east to Abilene and in the south beyond the Midland-Odessa area. Her primary concern will be with youth and mission projects.

Robertson earned a bachelor's degree in home economics education from Texas Tech University and a master's degree in theology from Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. She became an ordained minister after encouragement from ministers while working at the Methodist Student Center in college. She said she had already felt called into church work but had decided to try teaching first.

She said she still is teaching but the only difference is a change of subject.

Robertson is one of four children born to a Plainview farmer and homemaker. Her older brother is a surgeon in Houston, her older sister is an extension agent in Lamesa, and her younger brother races bicycles and works at a bicycle shop in Lubbock.

She said her family is very supportive and one experience she had enjoyed was officiating at her younger brother's wedding.

Robertson enjoys backpacking, gardening, cooking and reading. She also loves warm weather and the sports that accompany it. Her home in Lubbock will be located close to a small lake and she plans to buy a sailboat.

Religion roundup

Southern Baptists overcome embargo

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Southern Baptists have managed to send a shipload of 1,100 tons of rice seed to hungry and war-ravaged Cambodia, overcoming a U.S. trade embargo against that country, missionaries report.

The missionaries say the Thai government also broke a five-year export ban in authorizing Southern Baptists to buy the seed from Thai farmers and ship it to Cambodia, now ruled by the Vietnamese-backed Heng Samrin regime.

The seed should produce a harvest in September if Cambodians can get it planted before the spring rains set in, says missionary physician Marvin Raley, who becomes the first Southern Baptist working in Cambodia.

First woman Mormon to be ordained

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — The first woman is scheduled to be ordained in November into the priesthood of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

The 230,000-member church, based in Independence, is an offshoot of the larger Latter-day Saints church of 4 million Mormons. It bars ordination of women.

The step by the reorganized branch, authorized by its world conference, will bring its practice into line with most mainline Protestant bodies which ordain women.

Christians fight for students' rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organizations embracing 120 million Christians have asked the U.S. Supreme Court to uphold the right of public high school students to meet for religious purposes in extracurricular periods on an equal basis with other student groups.

Friend-of-court briefs backing that position were filed by the U.S. Catholic Conference, including about 50 million Catholics, and by major Protestant bodies, totalling about 70 million.

They contend that a Williamsport, Pa., high school, in prohibiting a group of students from holding religious meeting before class hours, violated the students' rights of free speech "solely because of its religious content."

The Catholic Conference argued that the ban goes beyond separation of church and state and "erects instead a barrier of hostility to religion." The school allows various groups, such as a band, language club, homemakers and ecology club to meet, but refused to allow student meetings for prayer and Bible study.

A federal appeals court upheld the ban, and the Supreme Court is scheduled to hear the case next October.

The National Council of Churches, National Association of Evangelicals and Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) were among Protestant bodies joining in a brief prepared mainly by the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs.

Congress last August passed legislation requiring "equal access" by public school groups, including religious ones.

Grant boosts Salvation Army project

The Salvation Army took a giant step toward the realization of its building campaign goal this week with a $100,000 grant from the Meadows Foundation of Dallas. Dave Spilman and Capt. Carroll Braun of the Salvation Army announced the award Thursday. With the gift, the campaign moves closer to the goal it must raise to assure receipt of the $250,000 Mabey Foundation Challenge Grant. The Mabey family is from Midland.

Johnnie Lou Avery, chairman of the drive, said, "We are delighted to receive this gift at such a crucial time. We hope many will come forward during the campaign's closing days to help us get over the top." The Meadows Foundation was created in 1948 from the fortune of oilman Algor H. Meadows. The foundation has given to more than 700 different organizations throughout Texas.

Dr. Sally Lancaster, vice president of the foundation, said the decision to donate to the local project was made in part because of the renovation and construction of the emergency shelter. The shelter is being expanded to house additional families and will feature a separate facility for women. Campaign pledges may be made over a three-year payout with donors paying monthly, quarterly or annually. Pledge cards are available through campaign volunteers or by calling the campaign office at 267-1635.

Nest fire is fowl play

Where there's smoke, there's...a bird's nest?

Firemen who responded early Thursday to a report of a street light sending out smoke signals found evidence of "fowl" play, according to reports.

According to firemen who arrived at 12:03 a.m. at the corner of 11th and Austin, the birds had left more than a smoking gun behind in the light.

Birds had built a nest in the broken light, and heat from the bulb was smoking up the nest, the report stated. The birds had flown the coop.

"It couldn't have been there very long," said Fire Chief Carl Dorton. "They must have just started building the nest."

Sunday Memorial Day ceremonies to honor Howard County's fallen

The Howard County Memorial Day Ceremony will be Sunday at 2 p.m. at Trinity Memorial Park.

The Veterans Administration Medical Center will not be having a Memorial Day observance. The center's administrator, John Stewart, will participate in the countywide ceremony at Trinity Memorial Park. Patients from the center will attend the ceremony.

The service will be conducted by the All Veterans Council of Big Spring and sponsored by Trinity of Memorial Park. The ceremony will mark inaugural dedication of the Avenue of the Flags Memorial.

The memorial consists of a large bronze plaque with the names of 47 veterans being honored and an American flag for each. The flags line the roads around the center of Trinity Memorial Park. The Avenue of Flags Memorial is dedicated to all Howard County men and women who served in the armed forces. The Buffalo Trail Council, Lone Star District, Boy Scouts of America will act as honor guard at each flag in the avenue for the ceremony.

A miniature flag will be placed at each veteran's grave in the cemetery.

Activities planned for the ceremony include placing a wreath at the flag pole by the All Veterans Council, raising and lowering of the flag, taps and the 21-gun salute by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4372 of Odessa.

The guest speaker will be Harvey Holcomb, American Legion National Executive Committeeman. The minister of the day will be Keith Wiseman, pastor of the First United Methodist Church.

5A playoffs back on the field

ORANGE, Texas (AP) — The state Class 5A baseball playoffs can resume, according to one state district judge, but the court fight over the state's controversial "no-pass, no-play" rule headed for the state Supreme Court today.

State District Judge David Dunn of Orange on Thursday ordered the University Interscholastic League to resume the playoffs, delayed by a court order since May 15, and further ordered that the playoffs must include West Orange Stark.

Dunn said the rule that prohibits a student from participation in extracurricular activities if he or she is failing any subjects, is constitutional and ordered the UIL to enforce the law.

Dunn's ruling on the constitutionality of the state statute conflicts with a ruling in Houston by State District Judge Marsha Anthony, who ordered seven Houston area school districts, including Aldine, not to enforce the statute.

Last Friday, Ms. Anthony said the "no-pass, no-play" rule, part of last summer's educational reform package that was made effective earlier this year by the State Board of Education, was unconstitutional but did not sign her order until late Thursday.

After obtaining Dunn's order Thursday resuming the playoffs, Assistant State Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon said he would take Judge Anthony's order directly to the state Supreme Court today to seek a resolution to the conflict.

Ms. Anthony had ordered the Aldine school district not to enforce the "no-pass, no-play" rule, allowing them to use two ineligible players in their series against West Orange Stark.

But Mrs. Bennie Dallas, the mother of a West Orange Stark player, obtained a temporary restraining order from Dunn, halting all Class 5A action until the matter was settled.

Mrs. Dallas was angered because her son Johnny, had been ineligible for a six-week period but abided by the law. She went to court after seeing Aldine use the ineligible players in defeating West Orange Stark.

"They (Aldine) were almost flaunting it, I thought," Mrs. Dallas said. "It was like they were determined to use those players. I just felt somebody had to do something."

Jerry Pennington, representing Mrs. Dallas, told Judge Dunn "Johnny Dallas brought his grades up and that's to his benefit. But what I think should be on the court's mind is what will the other Johnny Dallas' do in the future if the law is not upheld?"

Connie Ode, attorney for the UIL, said the UIL had ordered Aldine to forfeit its playoff game against West Orange Stark prior to being served with a temporary restraining order telling the league not to enforce "no-pass, no-play."

Ode said since the UIL had already forfeited Aldine, the restraining order could not be applied retroactively.

UIL Director Bailey Marshall said he would begin notifying the 31 teams still participating in the Class 5A playoffs to complete their second round series by Saturday.

Marshall said he'd then try to get the 16 remaining teams to hold regional tournaments and get at least one game in by next Wednesday.

Marshall said he hoped to have the four regional finalists determined in time for the state tournament June 6-7.

Ms. Anthony said Thursday after signing her seven-page order that she was unaware of the ruling made about one hour earlier by Dunn.

"I wasn't aware of anything that Judge Dunn had done. I think that what Judge Dunn does is Judge Dunn's business," said Ms. Anthony, a former teacher.

Patrick Wiseman, chief of state and county affairs for Attorney General Jim Mattox, said he hoped the state Supreme Court would rule on an appeal of Ms. Anthony's order by this afternoon.

Wiseman said the contradiction of the two judges' rulings is "somewhat unusual."

"But they are courts of equal jurisdiction and there is nothing to preclude two courts from giving conflicting orders," Wiseman said.

According to Ms. Anthony's order, "extracurricular activities are valuable educational activities" and the no-pass, no-play rule deprives the plaintiff students of "their participation of the varied extracurricular activities, the freedom of association with their peers, personal and family privacy and the right of private family discipline."

Edmonton Oilers goalie GRANT FUHR blocks a shot during first period action against the Philadelphia Flyers in the second game of the Stanley Cup championship series. The Oilers won the game 3-1. The series is now tied at 1-1.

Edmonton wins, 3-1; tie Stanley playoffs

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Glen Sather took all of one second to ponder the question about the main strength of the Philadelphia Flyers.

"Coaching," he said. "Mike Keenan is an outstanding coach."

High praise from the man who coached the Edmonton Oilers to the Stanley Cup last year and took Team Canada to the Canada Cup title after that.

As a first-year coach in the National Hockey League, Keenan has made a sizeable impression with his counterparts as well as his players.

A tight-lipped, even calculating sort, Keenan and his bosses — General Manager Bob Clarke and his sidekick, Gary Darling — plus assistant coach Ted Sator have turned the Flyers from an also-ran which couldn't get past the first round of the playoffs to a Stanley Cup contender. They did so in a matter of months.

"We are not ahead of schedule," the 35-year-old Keenan insisted. "I didn't put a time limit on winning the Stanley Cup. It's a process that took place beginning with Day 1 in training camp and has been built upon. It caught people's attention when we beat the Washington Capitals back-to-back (March 7 and 8). But we saw growth along the way through a number of tests."

They stormed through the final month of the season to pass Sather's Oilers for the overall points title. Their blend of young forwards, including five rookies, veteran defensemen and goalie Pelle Lindbergh — the league's best this year — carried them to the top in the regular season.

But could they hold up under the intense pressure of the playoffs, where they had failed so miserably in recent years?

Absolutely.

Much of the credit is given to Keenan, who led junior, collegiate and minor-league teams to championships prior to joining the Flyers.

"I'm very impressed with him," said defenseman Mark Howe, a veteran of 12 seasons, six in the World Hockey Association. "Everything runs like clockwork. He is a good speaker, a good motivator. Everyone feels he has run the team properly."

"You have to earn your spot and nothing is given. If you play well for two weeks, then have two bad games, you are benched. Mike makes everybody want to play. He almost scares you into wanting to play."

Keenan's most impressive work has been with the kids. Some of the Flyers' best performers in the chase for the championship have been second-year regulars Ron Sutter, Murray Craven and captain Dave Poulin and rookies Rick Tocchet, Peter Zezel and Derrick Smith.

"I never would have thought last year that we would be in the finals this year," said Sutter, who has been cast in the role of shadowing the opposition's best center and has stymied the likes of Mark Pavelich, Bryan Trottier and Peter Stastny this spring. Now he is dealing with Wayne Gretzky, hockey's most dangerous scorer. "The coaching staff has made a big difference. I expected a long, hard season and thought we were a few years away."

Keenan believed otherwise.

plate "was close," Ellis said.

"I questioned the umpire, but he said he was on top of it. We don't like to get into controversies with umpires. We thought he was out, but the umpire said he was safe. We are true champions. We won't quit, we'll be back tomorrow."

Tieuel said, "I thought I tagged him (Hodo) somewhere on the shoulder. I thought about throwing to first base, but I saw the runner coming from third and I thought I had a chance."

Texas coach Cliff Gustafson offered, "I think he missed the tag from where I was. Hodo went around him. It wasn't a squeeze bunt situation. He (Cook) was on his own to drag bunt for a base hit."

Sixth-seeded Grambling, 36-15-1, earned the respect of Texas Coach Cliff Gustafson, who was forced to bring in his ace Greg Swindell with one out in the seventh. Swindell, 16-1, replaced starter Mike Poehl and held the Tigers to two hits while striking out six in 5-23 innings of relief.

"We really didn't want to us Greg tonight. I thought Mike Poehl pitched well, but he got a blister on his hand in the seventh inning and had to come out. Greg will pitch Saturday, and Bruce Ruffin will pitch tomorrow against Houston."

The Texas coach said Eave "pitched a fine ball game."

Texas got on the board in the second inning as David Wrzesinski brought Dodd Johnson in with a two-run homer over the left field fence. Wrzesinski's shot, his fifth of the year, came after Texas had runners on first and second in the top of the first but couldn't capitalize.

Grambling scored in the bottom of the third as Darryl Blanks singled in Orlando Watkins. Watkins scored the Tigers' second run when he tripled in the fifth and came home on Kelvin Crandell's single. Eric Taylor singled Crandell home for a 3-2 Tiger lead.

Texas tied the game in the seventh when David Denny tripled off the right centerfield wall and scored on Bobby Behnsch's sacrifice fly.

Simons, Hinkle tied at Memorial

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — Jim Simons, a Memorial Tournament co-leader after the first round, had a request for host Jack Nicklaus.

"I'd like to have three days to work on my game before the second round. This is the most inconsistent I've been this year," said Simons, whose 5-under-par 67 earned him a share of the opening-round lead Thursday with Lon Hinkle.

Simons had two one-putt bogeys, a chip-in for a par and one shot left in a bunker — a round uncharacteristic of a PGA Tour leader.

"I don't have an abundance of confidence," Simons said. The 1978 Memorial champion divides his career these days between the tour and a North Palm Beach, Fla., brokerage firm.

Nevertheless, Simons ranks 29th in 1985 winnings with almost $98,000 in 13 starts.

"I felt like a yo-yo out there today. I holed three shots from off the green. How often do you do that? Every four or five years," said the 35-year-old from Pittsburgh.

He holed his ball from a bunker for a par at the fourth hole, sank it from 50 feet for a birdie at the second and chipped in for an eagle 3 at the 15th hole.

"I would prefer to play a round where I was putting from 15 to 20 feet rather than like today. That's why I need the practice," Simons said.

Chippers set to defend title

By STEVEN BELVIN
Staff Writer

All around Texas fast pitch softball circles, Cotton Mize and his Cotton Chippers are well known.

Year in and year out the Chippers have been one of the top teams in the state. Big Spring will get its first look at the Chippers in action this weekend at the ninth annual Cotton Mize Fast Pitch Invitational this Saturday and Sunday at Johnny Stone Memorial Park.

The action will be fast and furious in this sport which bears a close resemblance to baseball. Just about all of the rules are the same but the dimensions of the field are different.

The pitcher in baseball pitches from 60-feet away while softball hurlers pitch from 45-feet away. This explains why some softball pitchers get the ball to the plate at over 100 miles an hour. Mize has been pitching for 46 years, now only pitching in batting practice. He can get the ball to the plate around 85 miles an hour. "I've lost some of my speed, but I can still get it up there pretty quick, he said."

The distances between bases in baseball is 90-feet, compared to 60-feet in softball. Softball fields also have shorter fences than baseball. They usually range from 275-300 feet while some baseball diamonds have fences as far as 400 feet.

Coach Cotton Mize's crew, as always, will be one of the top drawing cards in the six-team round robin tournament. It's no wonder, Mize's coaching record of 2,600 wins and 667 losses comes to a hefty winning percentage .800. But the featured team will be McGregor Produce from Wichita Falls, currently ranked No. 1 in the state.

Other teams entered will be the Coahoma Dusters, managed by Ronnie Dodson, Freeman Marines from Shepard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls, Sterling City and Whiteface.

This is the first year that the Big Spring Rotary Club will sponsor the tournament and coach Mize sees the tourney turning into a big event. "I've already had some real good teams say that they will play next year," said the Chippers coach. "Maybe we can get the top 10 teams in Texas and some good teams from New Mexico."

Mize's team will be back to defend the championship they won last year, but Mize is the first to admit it won't be easy. "McGregor is definitely the team to beat. Freeman Marines rank with us. McGregor has beaten us 5-0 once this season."

McGregor, managed by Dan McGregor, brings a 13-0 slate into the tournament. They recently won a 35-team tournament in San Antonio. Coach McGregor says his team's strong point is hitting. "I found out a long time ago that it takes hitting to win in this game," said McGregor. "There's just not as many good pitchers as there use to be."

McGregor has outscored its opponents 99-8 this season. Center fielder Sam Wellborn leads the way with four homers this season. Other top players are first baseman Frank Fulkerson, left fielder Timmy Denson and catcher Frank Stone.

Charles "Pee Wee" Gore is their top hurler, sporting a 9-0 record while allowing three runs. Lost for the season due to injury is Clem Perini of Vancouver, Canada, who was regarded as the top pitcher in the southwestern United States.

"We are looking forward to coming to Big Spring," said McGregor. "This will be our first time but probably not our last. I understand this will be a big thing in years to come."

The Coahoma squad also has a solid squad. This season it has defeated Denton, a team that has beaten the Chippers twice. Coahoma is led by catcher Tommy New and shortstop Kenny McMurtrey.

Although the Cotton Chippers are the defending state champs as they sported a 73-19 record last season, they got off to a slow start this season, owning a 9-9 mark. But Mize refuses to push the panic button because he knows he has some "TNT" coming back.

Last year at the state tournament, the Chippers placed seven players on the all-state team, a feat Chippers page 2-B never accomplished before. Even though they are scattered throughout the state, all the all-stars are returning. Pitchers Johnny Mize (Cotton's son) and Joe Green head the list. Green had the best earned run average at the state tournament last season with .051. Mize allowed only 1.72 in the state tourney.

Other all-stars include a pair of brothers from Coahoma, Phillip Ritchey at first base and Mike at second base. Mike is the second leading hitter on the team with a .431 batting average. Local player Kenny Fowler was All-State at third and Brent Miller was All-State shortstop.

Other all-stars include leading hitter (.486) and left fielder Gary Martin and right fielder Tommy Vaughn. Other team members include David Altom, Paul Spence, Oscar Herrera and Kevin Smith.

"This will be a good practice tournament for us," said Mize. "These players live everywhere from Amarillo to Corpus Christi so you can see why it's so hard for them to get together and practice. This will be good work to get our timing down and work back into shape." The Chippers are compensated for some travel expenses, usually $30 per player. But they have not followed the examples of most of the state's top fast pitch teams who recruit players from all over the nation with lucrative bonuses and liberal travel pay.

A good example is McGregor. "We pay for our players and their families travel and lodging," said manager McGregor. "Everytime we travel we take a party of about 90 people with us."

As for the Chippers, when Wise Potato Chips decided to sponsor the team, it marked the first time the Chippers had a backer. Until then, Mize paid the expenses out of his pocket. "These guys (Chippers) don't really care about the money, they play because they like playing together and they love the game," explained the Chippers mentor.

Action in the round robin tournament gets underway Saturday morning at 9. McGregor and Whiteface will square off on the south field while Coahoma and Carswell A.F.B. play on the north field. At 10:30 the Chippers take on Freeman Marines.

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 25, 1985

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime finds you with many clever ideas for bringing your special talents to the attention of those who can help to put them across. Evening brings unusual ways to enjoy yourself.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can be very creative today so make your plans wisely, and follow through with them. Listen to the ideas of your mate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Think of home and family today, and make your abode a heavenly and restful place. Do some entertaining.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You know the right way to gain more cooperation from regular allies and thereby become more successful. Get your desk work handled.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) Concentrate on making the most wise plan possible so that you add considerably to your present assets. Take it easy.

LEO (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You are dynamic today and should contact those persons from whom you desire favors, and you can easily gain them with a smile.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your overall ambitions now since you are too overwhelmed with details and could lose sight of what is truly important.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get into social affairs that truly intrigue you, and the evening can be a memorable one. Be more sure of yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can accomplish much in the outside business world so get an early start. Shop wisely and handle civic matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You like to think big and this is the right day for that because you can accomplish something worthwhile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may get so involved with specifics that you could forget the motives behind your undertakings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Early find out what your associates expect of you, and then get busy and try to please them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be more enthused about whatever you may be doing and gain the cooperation of fellow workers. Avoid one who is jealous of you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she can readily understand how to improve conditions of every kind. Be sure to praise for any exceptional work accomplished early in life. Raise the incentive here and your progeny can reach the very heights and even acquire fame.

THE ERA BUYER PROTECTION PLAN CAN MAKE THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN
"FOR SALE" AND "SOLD."

One of the biggest worries a home buyer has is unexpected repair bills hitting an already overstretched budget.

The ERA Buyer Protection Plan protects your buyer against repair or replacement costs on working components in your home. Including the water heater and softener, furnace, built-in appliances, electrical wiring, central air conditioning, exposed duct work... even swimming pool components.

Plus, our Buyer Protection Plan protects you from repair bills while your home is still on the market.

Come to ERA Real Estate to make your home a better buy. There really is a difference in real estate companies.

Rangers walk past Boston

ARLINGTON (AP) — The Texas
Rangers won a game Thursday night with a run in the bottom of the ninth without the benefit of a base hit to take a 7-6 win over the Boston Red Sox.

With the score tied at 6, the Rangers used four walks, two of them intentional, to win the game.
Curtis Wilkerson's two-out bases-loaded walk forced in the winning run.

After Cliff Johnson started the inning by popping out, Boston reliever Mark Clear, 1-1, walked Gary Ward, who had already hit a grand slam in the first inning and thrown out the potential go-ahead run at the plate in the top of the ninth.

Ward stole second and the Red Sox intentionally walked Larry Parrish. Bob Ojeda relieved Clear and got Pete O'Brien on a long fly ball to right, but Ward and Parrish tagged and moved up. Ojeda then intentionally walked Glenn Brummer, bringing up Wilkerson.

Wilkerson walked on four straight pitches to pick up his first game-winning RBI of the season.

The Red Sox scored twice in the first. Wade Boggs singled and took third on Dwight Evans' double.
Boggs scored on Brummer's passed ball, and Bill Buckner's sacrifice fly brought Evans home.
Ward's grand slam made it 4-2.
With one out, Toby Harrah and Buddy Bell singled and Cliff
Johnson walked to load the bases.
On a full count, Ward struck his fourth homer this year and second grand slam of his career. The other also came against the Red Sox.

Boston made it 4-3 in the third on a single by Jackie Gutierrez and Evans' double.

Texas answered with a run in the bottom of the inning on a walk to Johnson and singles by Ward and O'Brien. Bell's double scored Toby Harrah, who had walked, to make it 6-3 in the fourth.

The Red Sox tied the game with three runs in the seventh.
