Registration For Ration Book No. 2 Will Be Between Feb. 22-28 At Schools

Dawson County residents will register for War Ration Book No. 2, during the week of February 22, according to Charles Hatchett, chairman of the Food Panel of the Dawson County War Price and Rationing Board. The exact days of registration will be announced in Thursday's paper, Mr. Hatchett said.

Registration will be carried on at one of the school in Lamesa and at the various county schools, with the teachers assisting as in former registrations.

A meeting will be held on Tuesday night, February 9 in the County Court room for school officials, at which time definite plans for the registration will be made. The meeting will begin at 7:30.

The week beginning February 21 and ending February 28, all rationed canned, frozen fruits and vegetables and dried fruits sales will be "frozen", this period will give merchants time to arrange stocks and get ready for the point rationing of these articles. Actual rationing will start March 1.

Each person will be allowed to have on hand five cans of rationed foods at the time of registration, for all cans over five, point coupons will be removed from your ration book at the time of registration.

After March 1, rationed goods will include canned fruits, vegetables and soups; all frozen fruits and vegetables. Each person will be allowed only forty-eight points a month, under the new point system, if you want to buy forty-eight points of one article in one day, that is your privilege, but when the forty eight points are gone, you can buy no more until the new month.

Shoe Rationing Begins Tues; Limit Is Three Pair a Year

GLIDER NEWS

By M. I. HALL

It looks like writing this column is going to be fun, the boys are willing to tell "all" on each other, so here we go.

In the year 1930 the American Business Men's Club of Detroit, Michigan, passed the hat around to raise funds to sponsor a glider club for the promising youth of the city.

And as a result of this hat passing the imagination of John Nowak was attracted to the art of motorless pursuit. "He took wings." This featherless bird is now with us in Lamesa in charge of Field Operations.

Nowak's complexion will hold its own with any West Texas cow puncher, his nose looks like he has taken part in a few manly arguments, five feet 6 inches, one hundred and ninety-five pounds, and don't need any help when it comes to making nose in his corner.

On his Saturday nights out, his barber shop bass in the late-hour quartet, sounds like the bass-horn section of a convention brass band. When in action as superintendent of field operations he has a monopoly of shouting in all directions up to 100 yards, his expressions roaring with action.

In a glider Nowak knows his way around the clouds, on a 30 second tow, pulling him only 600 feet he soared for seven hours and twenty minutes, reaching the altitude of eight thousand and eight hundred feet.

This is a little confusing to us West Texans how without a motor you can keep on going up. With a glider that descends at the rate of 250 feet a minute, flying in a thermal that is ascending 1000 feet a minute you can see that the up current of air will take you up faster than you can descend.

This is the thrilling part of the business of flying gliders for sport, looking for thermals to gain altitude to fly. Nowak tells that it is not unusual for a glider pilot to be circulating round and round with two or three hawks in the same up current of air to gain altitude.

He is also co-designer of the A B C & Midwest Glider, and president of the Dunker Club. The high order of the brotherhood should be explained to you at once. In Frankfort, Michigan, along the shores of Lake Michigan the cliff towering into the skies cause the air to blow in from the lake to ascend upward.

Along the cliffs the gliders flew back and forth on this up current of air, when a glider got a little too far out over the lake where the up currents of air were not felt, in the lake you went, glider and all. Nowak has been dunked in the lake three times.

As an entertainer his friends say you have never seen anyone like him, has has a character act of Wimpy Smith comic strip, he can whistle and hold his own with any kind of song bird, as a master of ceremony, "Hold Every Thing."

The American Business Mens Club purchased with the money a Frankland Glider, No. 9, this same glider is now on display in Hanger No. 1, at Lamesa Field. For 13 years this glider has been training young men

A sudden government order Sunday put shoes under rationing. Sales are prohibited Monday, with rationing to get underway Tuesday morning. Stamp No. 17 in your sugar and coffee ration book will be used to purchase one pair of shoes.

The ration is three pairs a year for every man, woman and child. Stamp No. 17 can be used any time between now and June 15, when a new stamp will be designated.

The kinds of shoes rationed are all unused shoes, including all types of boots and shoes made in whole or in part of leather, and all rubber-soled shoes. All ordinary types, and such types as special work shoes, hard sole moccasins and casual and play shoes fall with this definition and are rationed.

These are not rationed; soft and hard-soled house slippers and infants' soft-soled shoes; ballet slippers; ordinary waterproof footwear, including arctics, gaiters, work, dress, clog and tow rubber and lumbermens overs.

Members of a family may pool their coupons so that some may buy more if others buy less, it was revealed in the rationing order released from Washington and reported by the Associated Press.

"Rationing is necessary now to conserve existing supplies, officials say. The public is assured that there will be plenty of shoes available under rationing, and the only mistake the public can make is a frenzy of buying."

"If every person decides to use his stamp for a pair of shoes Tuesday, it will cause confusion and discomfort for both customer and retailer." Every person should try to make his present shoes last as long as possible before purchasing new ones.

to fly without motors, who today are doing their part in training the Army to fly gliders. He is not a short snorter.

The members of the Lamesa Field are organizing a dancing club, it looks like they like to glide over the hardwood to the rhythm of a nickle-juke-organ.

THESPIANS TO PRESENT PLAY
THURSDAY EVENING

Thespians will present their annual three act play, "She's a Soldiers Sweetheart," Thursday evening, Feb. 11th in the High School Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

"She's a Soldiers Sweetheart" is a new play, yet one that has been tried out by a number of city high schools and acclaimed a very suitable play for teen age students. It is a sparkling, fast moving comedy that holds your interest through every act.

Fred Reese is seen in the clever roll of the young man who is entering the army and Billy Sue White, Patsey Rountree and Marilyn Frazier are the young ladies who supply the romantic interest in his departure. Others in the cast are Martha Alice Rape, Jack Reese, Lotta Bess Baldwin, Bill Carpenter, Billy Jo Norris, Tucker Phinizy, Jimmie Little, Dale McIlroy, Billy Jean Meyers, Marjorie Greene, Lynette Carroll and Douglas Jarrell.

The play cast has been working for weeks and promises a creditable performance Thursday evening.

Between acts an orchestra will be added attraction for the evenings entertainment.

Influenza Highly Infectious Warns
Dr. Geo. W. Cox

With the incident of influenza in Texas reaching new highs as winter advances, Dr. George W. Cox, State Health Officer, today issued a warning to the public to guard against exposure to this disease.

"Influenza patient should be isolated as nearly as possible to avoid spreading the disease," Dr. Cox said. "The germ is believed to be spread from person to person through discharges from the nose and throat."

To protect yourself and others from this disease, here are some things to be remembered:

Influenza is highly infectious. Practically everybody is susceptible to it. No matter how many times you have had the disease you may contract it again. Therefore, keep away from people who are sneezing, coughing, or sniffing or who are actively ill with colds, influenza, or pneumonia. Keep away from crowded places. Have your own towel and always wash your hands before eating, and sneeze or cough into your handkerchief.

Keep fit by drinking plenty of water, by eating simple nourishing food, by some exercise out of doors every day, by dressing according to the weather, by having plenty of sleep in a well ventilated room, and by keeping the bowels regulated.

Don't neglect your "cold." If you have the slightest suspicion of fever, go home, go to bed immediately and call your physician. Stay in bed until he tells you that you can get up, and follow his advice implicitly.

VICTORY LEADERS GO TO WAR ON THE HOME FRONT

Mrs. John McGarr, community Victory leader of Hale County, who has a son in the armed forces, helps B. M. Harris sign a War Bond pledge, while Billy Jack Harris shows his pledge, already signed.

Patriotic farm and ranch men and women of the South Plains devoted 9,136 days of volunteer service in 1942 to delivering war-time information to their neighbors by means of an organized human "grapevine."

Reports on work of County Agricultural Victory Councils in the 20 counties of A. and M. College Extension Service District 2 reveal that 2,161 community and neighborhood leaders of the human chain kept rural families of the area informed about war-time programs such as sugar rationing, scrap metal and rubber salvage, the danger of inflation, war bond sales, and Share-the-Meat.

County agricultural and home demonstration agents point out that tractor and equipment surveys made by the Councils in most of the counties helped families obtain the necessary equipment to produce one of the biggest crops in the history of the South Plains.

New home demonstration clubs have been organized in Hale, Bailey and Parmer counties as a result of the influence of neighborhood leaders who received war-time news and advice through the county Extension offices.

District Extension Agents K. J. Edwards and Kate Adele Hill believe efficiency of rural people in the war program has been increased greatly through the saving of time, gasoline, and rubber by the neighborhood leader system. In addition, many families have learned about improved farm and home practices through the human chain.

Counties in the district and chairmen of their Agricultural Victory Councils include: Bailey, H. E. Schuster; Borden, Nolan C. Von Roeder; Briscoe, J. W. Monroe; Castro, W. W. Branscum; Cochran, Richard Campbell; Crosby, S. P. Starrett; Dawson, J. L. Chiles; Floyd, L. A. Williams; Gaines; S. W. Bryan; Garza, Z. D. Kemp; Hale, Mrs. W. H. Tilson; Hockley, L. Sherrod; Lamb, John I. Bowling; Lubbock, W. O. Perkins; Lynn, R. M. Stewart; Parmer, Fred Barker; Scurry, Frank A. Wilson; Swisher, Francis Burgess; Terry, Wood E. Johnson; Yoakum, F. M. Ellington.

'WAR RATION BOOK NO. 3' TO AFFECT MORE COMMODITIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP) -- Preparations for rationing more commodities, after canned goods and meats, have reached the stage of readying another ration book, authoritative sources disclosed Sunday.

This book will be called "War Ration Book No. 3" and has been kept secret because the No. 2 book — the one to be used for canned goods and meats — has not been distributed yet and may not reach the public until the end of February.

Officials of the Office of Price Administration said they did not know yet what may be rationed on book No. 3. They know various items are getting scarce, however, and want to be prepared. The new book is designed for adaptability to any of a number of possible programs.

The best guess that can be made about Book No. 3 is that it will be for other kinds of foods, perhaps butter and canned milk, if these foods are not rationed by the No. 2 book, which is mechanically possible.

Clothing is a more remote possibility for Book No. 3 but officials believed its rationing is unlikely for a long time to come.

Liquor and cigarets could be on the list, but OPA officials would prefer not to ration such products on the ground that they are non-essential.

Book No. 3 will be geared to "point rationing," similar to Book No. 2. Under the point system, consumers get a block of points to spend on a group of items each of which requires a differing number of points.

Appearance of the two books will be similar with one exception. No. 2 book contains only stamps which carry both letters and numbers, as for instance A-1, B-6, or C-3.

No. 3 book will contain a few pages of similar stamps, but also will contain a larger number of stamps identified by pictures of tanks, airplanes, artillery and aircraft carriers instead of letters of the alphabet. These symbols have no particular meaning and will be used only to identify whatever special purposes may be found for them later on. For instance, stamps with tank pictures could be for canned milk and airplane stamps for butter.

As with the first two ration books, 150,000,000 copies of Book No. 3 will be printed. This will utilize the facilities of every printing plant in the country equipped to handle the distinctive type of printing involved, and even then will make a press run taking about six weeks. This is the principal reason for starting so early on Book No. 3, officials said.

BEHIND THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1943

Subsiding rains in Tunisia make possible that late February will see the first crucial fight for that meager Nazi hold on the south shore of the Mediterranean but the theater of action is not yet clearly defined.

Its locale depends on many factors. Among them is the real purpose of Marshal Erwin Rommel's flight from Egypt, Libya and Tripolitania.

He has fled more than 1,200 miles, abandoning without a stand one strong defensible position after another to gain the shelter of the French-built Mareth defense line in southern Tunisia. What is left of his veteran corps of desert fighters now appears huddling there but whether he intends to stand there is questionable.

There is no very authoritative information as to the numerical strength of battle equipment still available to Rommel. Most military observers seem agreed that, even allowing for the reinforcements poured across the Mediterranean, the aggregate Axis strength in all Tunisia probably is less than 200,000 fighting men.

Taking On Tough Task

If that is true, and if Rommel is, in fact, preparing to make his first stand since El Alamein on the Mareth Line, he and his colleague Axis commander in the north, Col. Gen. Jurgen van Arnim, are taking on a seemingly impossible task.

Faced by vastly superior Allied strength, they are proposing to attempt defense of a Tunisian coastal strip roughly 250 miles long and averaging fifty miles wide.

The advantages of defensive terrain, of short interior communications, of less than overnight sea passage between the Italian coast and Tunisia as well as air routes covered in minutes rather than hours is all with the Axis.

Nevertheless, the problem of holding so large a sector of Tunisia, certainly vulnerable at many points on its inshore flank, with far inferior numbers is obviously extreme.

It justifies expectation that Rommel may not stand long to fight on the Mareth Line and risk being cut off, but lunge on northward to join van Arnim in a concentrated last-ditch defense of the Tunis-Bizerte-Cape Ban triangle.

Essential Area

That is the essential area for the Allies and the Axis alike. Without possession of the strategically critical Tunisian hump, Allied use of the Mediterranean to shorten global sea routes would still be denied.

Even cut down to the size of the Bizerte-Tunis-Cape Ban triangle, the Axis grip would still impose a deadly veto on Allied middle sea communications. There seems no point in attempting to hold all of the Tunisian east coast.

The so-called little Maginot Line in southern Tunisia was built to face southeastward. It probably is open to attack from the north and west despite improvised Nazi moves to strengthen it for rear and flank as well as frontal defense.

The desperate Nazi fight to hold open or even enlarge the escape corridor northward menaced by probing French and American as well as British jabs points more toward a further Rommel retreat than to stage setting for a decisive battle on the Mareth positions. He has more to gain by retreat than by a stand. Weeks, even days, should serve to disclose his intentions.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1943

Before somber echoes of Nazi attempts to turn the Stalingrad disaster into a moral victory died from the air, another Russian trap was clamped down in the northwestern Caucasus below Rostov on a once powerful Axis army.

How many German or other troops are caught in that fast developing pocket is far from clear. Moscow and London estimates range between 80,000 and 200,000.

The Russians are virtually on the Azov sea below the mouths of the Don and by Berlin admission also have a commando footing on the Black sea coast north of Novorossisk. It threatens the Kerch straight escape road to the Crimea as the Red advance father north astride Yeisk estuary severed the last Nazi rail communications with Rostov.

Crimea Value Dubious

Even should the trapped remnant of the army of the Caucasus escape to the Crimea or to the mainland it will probably be in no better case than the British army which a miracle save from death or capture at Dunkirk.

Had this winter in southern Russia equalled last in severity, Nazi forces might hope to carry off much of their fighting gear in the final retreat from the Caucasus. Deep ice in Kerch strait or even bridging much the Azov sea would have given them footing.

Impending Nazi loss of any foothold in the Caucasus, however, makes the value of the Crimea to the Hitlerites dubious in the light of dwindling manpower. The conquest of the Crimea undoubtedly figured in Nazi war plans as essential because it would afford a backdoor springboard for the now collapsed invasion of the Caucasus.

That Soviet forces would promptly exploit reconquest of the Caucasus to strike anew for recapture of the Crimea seems certain. If the Nazis can use Kerch strait to escape, the Ruisians can use it likewise to attack and to avenge Sevastopol.

Assuming as many informed military observers do that the Hitlerites are falling back in south and south central Russia on a wide front with their new defense line to be hinged in the south along the Dnieper river bend, retention in the Crimea of forces sufficient to hold the peninsula would be an added manpower strain. It seems likely Moscow has already shaped plans for recapturing of the Crimea as well as the Caucasus.

If the objective is ever achieved, now or months from now, it would effective air attacks on Hitler's prime war reserve, Rumanian oil. The plains of the Caucasus offer many good airfield sites within 400 miles of the Ploesti nerve center of the Rumanian oil industry. A day when bombs like British blockbusters could be dropped on the oil jugular vein of the Nazi war effort in sustained attack would be at hand.

It grows clearer day by day that

Temporary Ration Date Extended For Transport

The deadline date for obtaining temporary transport rations has been stepped up to April 1, the Texas USDA War Board was advised by the Office of Defense Transportation this week.

Previous closing date already had been set for January 31 by ODT.

The extended date will benefit many Texas farmers who have not applied for Certificates of War Necessity or who have been unable to operate with gasoline obtained under present Certificates, the War

Turkey is watching developments of the Russian offensive with rising hope that it will forever crush Nazi striking power, and possible permit Turkish entry into the struggle to help give the Axis in Europe its death blow. Russian recovery of the Crimea, and with its complete control of the Black sea, could go far toward influencing ultimate Turkish action.

Board said.

Temporary transport rations in no way relieve farmers of appealing for corrected Certificates or applying for Certificates immediately, B. F. Vance, chairman of the board, said in pointing out that all temporary rations would be discontinued March 31.

He added that farmers who do not have final Certificates by the closing date will be unable to operate their trucks.

Vance said the ODT order affects farm truck operators as follows:

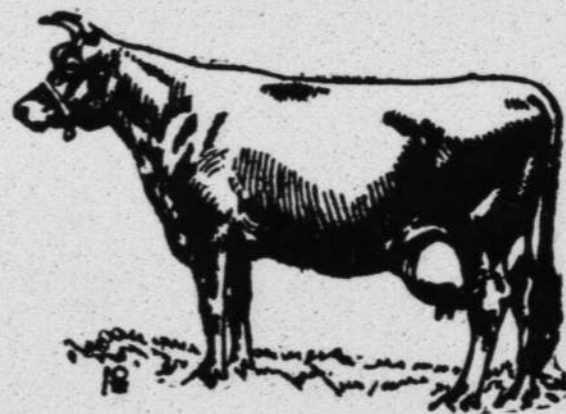

- (1) If no appeals have been filed, farmers must apply to local county farm transportation committee and secure a permit to obtain gasoline for a period of one month or until April 1, whichever period is shorter;
- (2) Applicants who filed appeals after January automatically will be sent forms which allow them to obtain gasoline until final Certificates are issued; and
- (3) Final Certificates will be prepared and issued by ODT for all appeals from farm truck operators on hand January 15 which are recommended by county farm transportation committee.

Price Support On 4 Major Canning
Crops Announced

Floor prices on four major canning crops, tomatoes, green peas, sweet corn and beans, were announced this week by the Texas USDA War Board.
Leading the list were green peas at $90 per ton and snap beans at $80 per ton. The price support on tomatoes has been set at $22 per ton while the price of sweet corn showed $17 per ton.
The new prices represent $17.50 per ton more for green peas and $5 more per ton on tomatoes than the 1942 average. Price supports were not in effect on sweet corn and snap beans under the 1942 program.
Other price supports will be worked out on beets, carrots, pumpkin and squash for processing and cabbage for kraut.
The board pointed out that the Department of Agriculture does not guarantee specific prices to growers for the raw products but that their only assurance of obtaining the specified minimum prices is through

Texas Foods Are Purchased For Lend-Lease

Substantial purchase of Texas farm products for Lend-Lease and other purposes were made by the Food Distribution Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, during December, E. L. Upshaw, acting FDA member of the state USDA War Board, said today.
Largest purchases during the month were 4,500 bundles of hog casings and 1,210,000 pounds of other meat products; 8,250,000 pounds of milled rice; and 2,400,000 pounds of colored oleomargarine.
Coarse cracked corn in the amount of 1,000,000 pounds; 800,000 pounds of milled rice screenings; 603,000 pounds of vegetable salad oil; 400,000 pounds of citrus pulp; 120,000 pounds of dried whole eggs; 23,400 barrels of wheat flour and 22,100 barrels of yellow corn meal were bought within the state.
Many Texas products which are shipped to terminal markets outside the state are purchased at these concentration points by the Food Distribution Administration, Upshaw said.

FSA To Extend Financial Credit

Weighing all applications for loans mainly in the light of whether they will boost food production, the Farm Security Administration is ready to extend financial credit to help thousands of U. S. farmers attain their 1943 crop goals.
FSA has streamlined its procedure and made available loans to meet almost every conceivable farm need.
Still retained in the set-up are the standard loans to new applicants up to $2500 for purchase of livestock, machinery, feed and other items and services needed for 1943 production. Also supplemental loans limited in any one year to $2000 may be obtained by present borrowers capable of further increasing production of essential commodities.
Under the new liberalized program, part-time farmers and those residing on small tracts of land also are eligible to borrow from FSA, they have the "productive land, a healthy family and the desire to produce food." This particular type of loan also makes available up to $150 to 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America members for purchase of calves, pigs, lambs, chickens and other items.
When banks or other lending agencies have gone the limit in financing a farmer and the need exists for additional long-term financing, FSA will make a split-credit arrangement with him.
Cooperative loans to individuals for purchasing membership in existing co-ops to establish new co-ops or partnerships will be made especially to purchase purebred sires, drills, planters, etc. This type has been very popular in recent months.
Farm ownership loans, permitting tenants to purchase or owners to enlarge or develop farms will be made as in the past.
Farmers interested in doing their part to feed American fighting forces and civilians and the allies of the United States are invited to go to the FSA county supervisor for details as to eligibility, security, repayment requirements and related matters.
The first U. S. yachts were built and sailed in New York harbor early in the 19th century.
Before the war, Antwerp and the Flemish provinces led the world in the number of diamond cutters.
Belgium is the most densely populated country in Europe, averaging 712 people to the square mile.

a contract with a processor.
Approximately 46 Texas canners participated in the program during 1942, which assured growers the minimum price. A similar certification program will get underway in a few days, the board said.

Boy Scout Week, February 6 to 12 Is 33rd Birthday

The Boy Scouts of America has reached its 33rd Birthday, and is celebrating the occasion by devoting its annual Boy Scout Week—February 6 to 12—to the beginning of a year's hard work to help win the war. "Toughen Up! Buckle Down! And Carry on to Victory" is the theme adopted for the year. The toughening referred to involves the hardening of muscles and the strengthening of mental and moral fibre to meet today's wartime emergencies. The buckling down is to tasks and projects in which Boy Scouts are serving national and community needs. The program includes emphasis upon a periodic health examination for every Scout and adoption by each of a plan for personal improvement.

Millions of former Boy Scouts already are serving in the armed forces. Twenty-five per cent of the selectees and two-thirds of the professional military leaders have been Scouts.—as have many of the heroes of the present conflict, including Colin Kelly, John James Powers, John Bulkeley, "Butch" O'Hara and many others.

Without departing from its traditional non-military status, and still placing supreme emphasis upon the building of character and citizenship, the Boy Scout organization plans throughout Boy Scout Week and the duration of the war to redouble those activities which acquaint boys with outdoor life and engender self-reliance, mental alertness, cooperation and consideration for others. Meetings and exhibits throughout the country will introduce these activities to adults and non-Scouts, and preparations are being made for a large increase in membership. A special appeal is addressed to potential leaders to replace the thousands of Scoutmasters and other adult leaders who have joined the armed forces.

Samuel McIntosh At Kearns, Utah

KEARNS, Utah. — Samuel G. McIntosh of Lamesa, is now stationed at this Army Air Forces Basic Training Center, it is announced by Col. Converse R. Lewis, Commander.

Private McIntosh, husband of Mrs. Mary L. McIntosh, entered the army air forces at Lubbock.

Men at this post are trained under the rigorous program of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command. They learn how to march, use of small arms and machine guns, chemical warfare and other kindred subjects while undergoing their basic training. Upon completion of the training the men are sent to one of the 32 types of schools in the Air Forces Technical Training Command for further training. Upon graduation they become the men who really "Keep 'em Flying."

ONE EDITOR'S 'BEST STORY OF YEAR'

FREMONT (AP) — A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Walker, publishers of the Fremont Guide and Tribune. The newspaper published a story about it in the front page under an eight column wide headline that called it "the biggest Nebraska story of the year" and chided The Associated Press editors for having ignored it when the greatest stories of the year were selected.

GAS WASTER GETS TOO CONFIDENTIAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Austin, Tex., taxicab driver told his passenger he'd have to drive around the block to arrive at the proper entrance of the state capitol building. When the passenger protested, according to a report to the Office of War Information, the driver said: "We've got to use up lots of gas or our allowance will be cut next time."

Unfortunately for the driver, the fare was the State Director of the Office of Price Administration.

HERE'S A NEW WAY TO CATCH A FISH

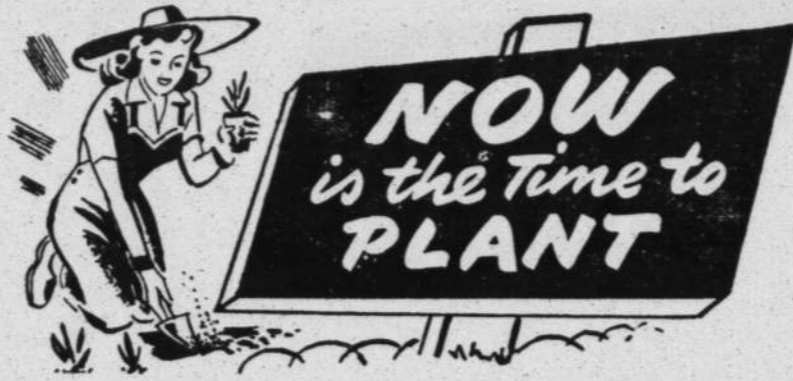

SAYRE, Okla. (AP) — Claude Beeson, game ranger, shot a duck that fell so far out in the lake he couldn't retrieve it. Going to his car he got his casting rod, attached a large hook and began casting for the duck. He pulled in not only the bird but a five pound bass!
