VOL. 3, NO. 42. WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1921. FIVE CENTS EVERYWHERE

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

"This annual fair suggestion gets me" said the Hon. J. D. Parnell to H. N. F. Mr. Parnell is home from Mexia where he has made investments and where he hopes to reap fair profit before the Mexia field boom is over. "Wichita Falls is a large city," he said. "It has a population of more than 40,000. It has all the geographical advantages. It is in the very heart of the richest agricultural sections of state. No place under Texas sky has more productive farms or more enterprising farmers than the territory in a radius of one hundred miles of Wichita Falls. Wichita Falls is a railway center. Wichita Falls has north and south and east and west lines. Southern Oklahoma with its prosperous people is our neighbor to the north and all around us is a country teeming with trade possibility." This is a cotton producing section, a corn producing section, and the great wheat producing section of the southwest. This is a livestock country, a meat producing country and all the cereals and vegetables grown in the temperate zone are produced in profusion here. This is a poultry country, a dairy country and fortunes await the men who invest in butter and cheese making. Really the fairest and most productive lands of Texas are to be found in Wichita Falls and a whole host of neighbor counties. Those who get trade are those who go after it. There should be a great fair created and fostered and perpetuated here. Why not call it the Texas-Oklahoma Fair. Call Field would make an ideal fair park, one of the finest in the south or west. Think of it. The buildings are already there. It would be easy to turn the hangars and office buildings into exhibition halls and other buildings necessary for the giving of agricultural and livestock show. Fairs are city builders. If you don't believe it, look at Dallas where as high as a million people pass through the turnstiles in a single year. There is no telling how much the state fair of Texas has done to make the city of Dallas what it is today. This fair is given in the fall. Fort Worth has a livestock show and a rodeo in the spring time and thousands go there from this section of the country and swell the daily throng. Fairs are trade getters. Livestock shows are trade getters. Rodeos are trade getters. People flock to a city where there is something doing in the amusement and the recreation line. These are the offerings of the State Fair of Texas. They are the offerings at the Fat Stock Show given by the people of Fort Worth. They are the offerings on a smaller scale of all county fairs the Southwest over. Wichita Falls has an enviable opportunity for expansion and progress. Wichita Falls is the largest city of Texas in the Northwest, in the Panhandle and in the Plains country. El Paso alone has greater population and wealth but El Paso has not been blest with the natural advantages that Wichita Falls has today. There is no finer farming country in the world than our country and agriculture and livestock are counted the mainstays of society and civilization as well as of commerce and manufacture. Irrigation is coming to this section of Texas and an irrigated acre produces six-fold greater than an un-irrigated acre. Twenty acres of irrigated land will produce larger crops than one hundred and twenty acres of land that is not touched by the magical flow of stored flood waters. In all my travels, I have never found a country with more natural advantages and opportunities than those we possess but the gifts of the gods does not fall into the laps of men unless they shake the tree. Man must do himself or natural advantages are of but little use to him. He must think, he must plan, he must toil, he must move, he must execute and then he is a winner. A city is a collection of men. If a man stands still all his life he does not get very far away from or out of the ruts of his boyhood. If a collection of men stand still then the dry rot comes to them and they are like the man in the play who never moved, never advanced, never builded, never saw beyond his nose and was astonished when all the world moved away from him. We should give a rodeo in the springtime at Call Field that would outclass the Cheyenne rodeo and that would draw thousands from all the nearby towns and country. Next fall we should give a fair and rodeo that would place Wichita Falls on the map as a fair city and make the start at least of a fair that will in time rival the State Fair of Texas. Dallas is 160 miles from Wichita Falls and in coming years all this vast territory in Northwest Texas, Southern Oklahoma, the Panhandle and the plains, all tributary to this city would be patronizing the Wichita Falls annual events and adding to the wealth, the growth and the fame of our city and its people. There is nothing visionary about the proposition. What others have done we can do here. No one city has a monopoly of builders and our builders stand second to none the country over. Their achievements are before the people and country. Their building enterprises are monuments to the builders. All men should be builders. All men should do their part. Wichita Falls is the city that faith built. Faith and work will build a great state fair; faith and work will make the irrigation enterprise a blessing to thousands of tillers of the soil and create a spirit of development that will add millions

LEADER'S COUNSEL MAY PREVENT STRIKE ASSERT UNION HEADS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Leaders of the Big Four Brotherhoods and affiliated railroad unions tonight declared that they had little doubt that the railroad employes had voted for a general strike rather than accept a wage reduction, but announced that the conservative counsel of the leaders might prevail against a walkout.

General chairmen of the brotherhood of railway trainmen began counting the 186,000 strike ballots of their men, but admitted before the first envelope was opened that judging from the known temper of the men, the result will be overwhelmingly in favor of a strike. Pressed for an estimate as to what that majority might be, Vice-President James Murdock said:

"Our past experience has been that 98 per cent of the men will always vote to strike."

Next Monday officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and Switchmen's Union of America will meet here to count the strike votes of their 259,000 members. Railroad union leaders here expect all the brotherhoods and the switchmen's union to cast substantial majorities for a strike.

The affiliated shop crafts have already voted by a majority of approximately 325,000 to 48,000 to walk out and are only waiting to see what action the other unions will take and for the United States railroad labor board to dispose of the pending working rules agreements.

Reports of the general chairmen of the trainmen when they assembled today were plainly disappointing to the union leaders. The trainmen had voted on a separate ballot because their leaders did not approve of the joint ballot prepared by the other unions.

On September 12, President W. G. Lee, who has been ill at his home in Cleveland, addressed a circular letter to the men, who were then in the midst of the balloting, in which he pointetd out five reasons why he thought the strike would be unwise at this time and why the men might expect to accept some wage reduction.

"The executive of a labor oragnization that fears to tell the truth or point out dangerous places ahead to the membership of his organization is not worthy of the title of leader," Mr. Lee said.

He then asked the men to consider the fact that wages and working conditions of all classes established since 1918 were "the result of a world war such as never before known; that 5,000 men are now unemployed; that nearly all classes of labor have been forced by mediation, arbitration, strikes or lockouts to accept reduced rates of pay during the past; that the increased wages granted railroad men last year were based on increased cost of living; and that government reports indicate a 16 per cent cut in living costs since July 1, 1920."

Mr. Lee's letter, however, apparently has failed to influence the voting, the general chairman reported today.

GERMAN PEACE TREATY AGAIN BEFORE SENATE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Senate consideration of the German peace treaty was renewed today while democratic senators arranged to meet in conference tomorrow for discussion of a minority action.

The treaty was taken up again when debate on the tax bill lapsed. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, republican leader, made a brief statement in support of the treaties.

Senator Underwood of Alabama, democratic leader, issued the call for the conference after consultation with Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking democratic member of the foreign relations committee.

Senator Hitchcock, who returned here today and who was not present when the treaties were reported by the committee last week, expressed himself as favoring ratification. Sen. Underwood also was said to be a supporter of the treaties. Preliminary surveys were reported as showing only a comparatively small number of democratic senators opposed to the treaties and tomorrow's conference is expected to reveal almost the exact number. Republican leaders said they expected to lose only two or three republican votes.

All democratic senators were called today to meet in conference tomorrow to consider minority action with respect to the peace treaty with Germany, Austria and Hungary.

ANNIVERSARY OF ILLNESS FINDS WILSON ACTIVE

Former President Follows Eight Hour Day Program; Closely Follows World Affairs.

Mrs. Wilson Constant Companion; Often Entertains in Evening When Dining "En Famille."

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Woodrow Wilson fell a sick man two years ago today. Since then he has passed under the shadow of death and out of the White House.

Thousands of Americans of whatever political faith recalled the anniversary of the beginning of the former presidents illness and wondered what he was doing. Although he no longer figures in the daily headlines, Mr. Wilson is still 'news." Therefore it seems appropriate on this occasion to tell the latest news about him. Mr. Wilson, besides following the ways of a retired gentleman, with a lively interest in the world's affairs, lives by the eight hour day, which he once told congress was "adjudged by the thought and experience of recent years a thing upon which society is justified in insisting, as in interest of health, efficiency and contentment."

Seven a. m. is about his rising time. He shaves and bathes and then takes some calesthenic exercises as prescribed by his physician. He has breakfast in Mrs. Wilson's boudoir. The morning papers never are neglected whatever else may demand attention. Half a dozen of them are delivered early and Mr. Wilson reads them thoroughly.

Then comes the morning's work. About that time, the mail carrier, six days a week delivers quite a packet of letters. Mrs. Wilson invariably goes over the morning's mail with her husband; some letters are turned over to a secretary for a reply, but most of them he answers personally, dictating to a stenographer.

He and his inseparable companion always have their luncheon served in the dining room. Then comes a nap of an hour and then, unless weather

SOVIET RUSSIA DENIES CURZON ALLEGATIONS

M. Berzin Declares That He Was Imprisoned During Time Accused of Certain Acts.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 26—An outline of the reply of the Russian soviet government to the note of Lord Curzon, the foreign minister, calling the attention of the soviet government to alleged serious breaches of faith in the pursuance of a campaign of intrigue against Great Britain in Central Asia and Afghanistan by the soviets, has been delivered to Lord Curzon.

M. Berzin of the Russian trade delegation here, declares that while the soviets are fully convinced the accusations are without foundation,

"Similarly," M. Berzin, adds, "other fresh inquiries in order to be able to refute the charges in detail. Meanwhile, M. Berzin says, no time must be lost in pointing out that many of Lord Curzon's statements will not bear the most superficial examination.

Cites Instance

As an instance, he cites Lord Curzon's allegation that Santeri Nuorteva issued a statement as director of the department of propaganda under the third internationale of Moscow on June 20.

"In fact," M. Berzin asserts, "he has been in prison since March and never held any position under the third internationale."

"Similarly," M. Berzi adds, "other reports attributed to Eliavia Karakhan (soviet representative in Warsaw,) and others have never existed. Rothstein, ambassador of the Russian socialist federal soviet republic to Teheran, never has been engaged in forming revolutionary committees in Persia.

Dr. Hafiz has been sent neither to Moscow or any other place by the Soviet government.

CLAIMING FEAR OF K. K. K. TULSA NEGRO SUES IN CHICAGO

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Because he says he fears members of the Ku Klux Klan may be placed on a jury in Tulsa, Okla., and award an adverse verdict, J. B. Stratford, wealthy Tulsa negro has filed suit here against the American Central Insurance Company of St. Louis.

He claims he carried a $65,000 policy on his property in Tulsa which he valued at $150,000 and which he asserts the insurance company held it was not liable for race riot damage and refused to settle. Subsequent suits are planned against the mayor and other Tulsa officials, his attorneys here state.

Building Friendship Is Asset of Trade Trips—Langford

"The little visits which towns pay to each other, sometimes caleld trade trips, are the best way that I know of to let people know Wichita Falls is made up of people who appreciate the value of friendship, and pleasant business relations," says Captain W. S. Langford, owner of the Motor Supply company, local Ford dealers.

"There has been so much said in favor of these trips in the 'Record News' and their value is so apparent that about the only thing I can add to what has been said is that I believe we should concentrate on making a good showing when we go on these trips.

"County fairs are good but I do not believe they bear trips, by automobile at frequent intervals to the towns in this section. It shows a more personal interest in these people, our neighbors, than a county fair would. When we get to a town on one of these trips we should make lots of noise, the loudest brass band will not be too boisterous, and we should all have on some distinctive uniform, so everyone would know we are from Wichita Falls. There should be system about the party. Then after we have let them know we are in town I believe the most good can be accomplished by each individual visiting in all of the stores.

"It is not a good idea to talk too much business while we are on these trips. Let them know we are just neighbors making a call and that their good will is desired above the mercenary motives we may have in coming. I know this has been proven the best method of enlarging trade."

"To say that business is 'cold blooded' may be correct in excessively large places. But in a town like Wichita Falls it is a mistake to be too cold blooded. We miss the best part of business relations if we confine our business to trade talk."

"Let's tell them of Wichita Falls as good neighbors should and not as if their business is all we think about."

RAIL MEN REFUSE TO MEET U. S. BOARD

RIGHT OF RAILWAY LABOR BOARD TO ENTER REALM OF MAN'G'M'T DENIED.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Representatives of the Pennsylvania railroad system appeared before the United States railroad labor board this morning, presented a letter in which the carrier denied the right of the board "to enter the realm of management" and stated that in view of the fact that it could not discuss certain points the board permitted it to discuss, it would not present any oral argument. The board accepted the letter, presented copies of it to representatives of labor organizations, and announced it would consider the contents.

MEXICAN OIL DECISION IS HANDED DOWN

Supreme Court of Mexico in Important Decision Holds Article 27 to Be Not Retroactive.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26.—The supreme court's decision in the Texas Company-Amparo case was officially handed down tonight. It establishes definitely the non-retroactivity of Article 27 of the constitution so far as concerns property acquired for the purpose of oil exploration or exploitation prior to going into effect of the present constitution.

In specific terms the court defines Article 27 as non-retroactive, asserting that "paragraph four of Article 27 cannot be regarded as retroactive either according to the letter or the spirit."

In part the text reads:

"It is shown that in conformity with rules universally accepted for the interpretation of laws and with those of sound logic, it must be admitted today paragraph four of Article 27 (referring to oil) of our present constitution is not retroactive and does not affect pre-existing rights legally acquired.

This precept establishes the nationalization of petroleum and its by-products, as well as that of other substances to which it refers, amplifying the enumeration that existed in our former laws."

Chief Justice Enrique Moreno, in giving out the decision said to the correspondent:

"Today's decision is as specific and far reaching in matters relating to oil as a judicial tribunal can render and should establish the principle of law upon which the other Amparo cases pending should be adjudicated."

The other cases will be taken up next month, he judge added.

TELEGRAPHERS ASK PHONOGRAPH MUSIC IN REST ROOMS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Pointing out that farmers use music to induce hens to lay more eggs and stimulate the flow of milk in cofs, five hundred telegraphers have petitioned the Western Union Telegraph company here for a phonograph for their rest room.

"A stirring two-step or a rythmical march may mean two messages disposed of instead of one from a better humored force," the petition says. Officials indicated the request would be granted.

SENATE AGAIN BATTLES OVER GERMAN PEACE

Veteran Democrat Joins Ranks of Opposition While Senator Lodge Urges Ratification.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Senate warfare over the German peace treaty was resumed today and informal canvasses of Republican and Democratic leaders were said to show about a dozen senators in opposition—three of them Republicans.

A notable accession today to the opposition ranks was Senator Williams of Mississippi, veteran Democratic member of the foreign relations committee. Although he had declared himself previously in favor of ratification, Senator Williams announced to the senate that he had decided finally to vote against, because "desertion of the allies was involved."

Democratic senators will meet tomorrow to discuss their positions. Senator Underwood of Alabama, Democratic leader, issued the conference call after consulting Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking member of the foreign relations committee, said there was no intention to caucus or bind senators.

The treaty was given top place as some of the senators were not ready to debate the tax revision bill, and as soon as the senate recessed tonight, it will come up first again tomorrow.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, republican leader, urged prompt ratification, while Senator Borah of Idaho, republican "irreconcilable," spoke two hours in opposition. Senator Brandegee of Conneticut was another opposition speaker.

ARBUCKLE TRIAL IS RESULT BLACK MAIL ATTEMPT, CHARGED

By The Associated Press:

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Sept. 26.—An assertion in court today by Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle's chief counsel, Frank Domingues, that he believed black mail had been contemplated against the film comedian and that this motive figured in the defendants arrest on a murder charge, was ordered put before the grand jury tonight by District Attorney Matthew A. Brady. Brady issued subpoenaes for Domingues and his associate counsel, Charles H. Brennan of San Francisco and Milton Cohen of Los Angeles, to appear at tonight's grand jury session and repeat their charges.

The action was taken, Brady said, on the request of Alfred Semnacher, who was accused by Domingues today of having conspired with Mrs. Bambina, M. Delmont, the complaining witness against Arbuckle, to take torn parts of the clothing of Miss Virginia Rappe to Los Angeles for the purpose of extorting money from the defendant, who is charged with the murder of Miss Rappe.

Domingues made his assertion after long questioning of Semnacher regarding his previous testimony in the case. Domingues declared that previous conduct of Mrs. Delmont in Los Angeles, where, he said, she made claims against a man named Earl Lynn, lent color to his accusation.

Police Judge Lazarus, before whom the hearing is being held, refused, however, to allow Domingues to question Semnacher along this line, saying it had no part in present proceedings.

Semnacher's testimony took up most of the afternoon session. In the morning Dr. Arthur Beardslee, house physician at the Hotel St. Francis, who treated Miss Rappe after the revel in Arbuckle's suite, out of which the murder charge grew, testified he discovered evidence of a ruptured bladder early the morning after the party and that he advised her removal to a hospital.

Writhes in Agony.

The defense was unable to make him admit that she could have been suffering from anything else. Dr. Beardslee stuck to his diagnosis and said he found her writhing in pain when he was called in after the party, the pain being so great he had to administer sedatives three times during the night.

Replying to a hypothetical question regarding the cause of a torn bladder, he said an injury such as that described by the prosecution probably would have been caused by an external force such as a fall or blow, although contortions incident to violent vomiting might have produced that effect.

Evidences of alcoholism were overshadowed by Miss Rappe's suffering from the rupture, Dr. Beardslee said. He testified that Mrs. Delmont, who attended the injured girl, showed no signs of being under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

The defense pursued its questioning of Semnacher with great vigor, causing him to announce almost immediately that he must have been misquoted if he had said he was Miss Rappe's manager. His acquaintance with both her and Mrs. Delmont was more or less casual until shortly before their trip to San Francisco, where they attended Arbuckle's party, he said.

Domingues questioned the witness closely about a purse he produced from his pocket, saying it was Miss Rappe's, and asking what connection he had with it. Semnacher replied that after the party Miss Rappe had asked him to look for it and money and asking Arbuckle about it next day, Arbuckle produced it from a desk. Semnacher said he then took it to Miss Rappe in the nearby room where she lay ill.

"Get Up" Witness Says

Asked about Mrs. Delmont's condition at the party, Semnacher testified that she was dressed in yellow pajamas and appeared "lit up" or "about half drunk' when he first entered the Arbuckle suite. He denied hearing any screams from the room where Miss Rappe afterwards was found in distress.

The defense drew from Semnacher the admission that he might have misunderstood Arbuckles exact language regarding the ice incident he said Arbuckle had described to him and others, but later told the prosecution that he did not mistake Arbuckle's meaning.

AGITATION OF GAS QUESTION FEATURES MEET

City Council Members Hear Protests Over Gas Bills for Summer Months; Winter Shortage Predicted.

With additional property owners making complaints regarding gas bills for the summer months and a general impression among city officials that the gas supply for the winter months will be inadequate, a discussion of possible means to remedy existing and probable future conditions with regard to the gas service furnished by the North Texas Gas company, featured the regular meeting of the council Monday night.

The suggestion of Commissioner J. B. Fitts that a city meter reader be appointed to keep a check on the readers made by employees of the North Texas Gas company failed to receive the support of other members of the council. Commissioner Curles suggested that gas users be given definite instructions through the newspapers and other sources as to how to read their meters and let them keep the check on the meter readings made by the company.

Specific Complaint Made

The discussion arose when J. W. Barsock, 502 Lamar street, presented gas bills to the council showing that he paid $1 for gas service during the month of July with charges of $8.25 for two weeks service in August. Mr. Barsock said that he had used the same amount of gas daily during the two months.

Drastic action will be taken by the council if the gas company fails to supply sufficient gas for the coming winter months according to members of the council. It was predicted that due to the difficulties now existing between the Lone Star Gas company and the North Texas Gas company the gas pressure would be low when

Delivery In Patrol Is Higher

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Evidence that whiskey had been delivered from bootleggers to their customers in the police patrol of the Grand Crossing percinct, is in the hands of federal authorities, the district attorney's office announced today.

An extra charge of $5 a case was assessed for use of the patrol and a uniformed escort of patrolmen, Assistant District Attorney Merensky said.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Dismissal of Chicago policemen in wholesale lots was presaged in official circles today in connection with the federal investigation of violations of the prohibition laws.

Following announcement Saturday by Chief of Police Fitzmorris that he believed half the police force of 5,000 men may be involved in liquor law violations, Charles F. Cline, United States District Attorney, promised his co-operation to Fitzmorris and today was to furnish a list of all officers who have fallen under federal investigation in connection with whiskey running and bootlegging.

Chief Fitzmorris has announced his intention of dismissing every man implicated in liquor deals and claims he has a list of men that can replace hundreds of policemen if it becomes necessary to dismiss that many.

In a statement issued last night the chief termed prohibition a failure until the liquor was cut off at its source of supply.

CRIPPLES ROB AUTOIST AT PISTOL POINT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The police today are looking for three highwaymen, cripples, two on crutches and the other hobbling on a cane, who last night held up Thomas Payne of this city and robbed him of $20, according to Payne's complaint to the police.

Payne told the police he was sitting in his automobile, accompanied by a young woman on a road about 100 yards from the Walter Reed army hospital, when at pistol point, he was commanded to leave the machine by three men who hobbled across the road, two on crutches and the other on a cane, appropriated the $20 and then, ordering him back to the car, threatened to shoot unless he drove away slowly. He described all three as hatless and coatless.

SHOULD HAVE WORK FOR ALL SAYS HARDING

Sober Contemplation and Hard Work Recommended by President as Only Sure Solution.

Financial and Economic Depression Described as War Inheritance Throughout the World.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The national conference of unemployment called by President Harding, organized here today and adjourned until October 5, at which time the ten subcommittees will present suggestions for emergency relief.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The national unemployment conference, which the administration hopes will evolve means of putting the nation's involuntary idle back to work, was formally opened here today by President Harding.

Addressing the half hundred industrial, economic and labor leaders comprising the conference, the president described the present industrial depression as a "war inheritance throughout the world," for which, as applied to the United States, he "would have little enthusiasm for any proposed relief which seeks either palliation or tonic from the public treasury."

Belief was expressed by the president that the results of the conference would be beyond the borders of the United States and that the delegates in their deliberations would be performing "a service to the world".

Nation is Strong

"Fundamentally sound, financially strong, individually unimpaired, commercially consistent, and politically unafraid," the president asserted, "there ought to be work for everybody in the United States who chooses to work, and our condition at home and our place in the world depends on everybody going to work and pursuing it with that patriotism and devotion which make for a fortunate and happy people."

The president declared that "the open, sure and onward way to rid the nation of the war's aftermath of depression involved liquidation, reorganization, readjustment, re-establishment, taking account of things done and sober contemplation of things to be done. Any other way, he added, was only hugging a delusion.

The delegates were told by President Harding that they had not been invited into the conference "to solve the long controverted problems of our social system," and that Secretary Hoover, whom he had designated as chairman of the conference, would lay before them the program of discussions.

In telling the conference members that they were destined to perform

They said that Mouritzen had received three letters recently threatening his life if he did not quit the police department.

Damage amounting to $500 was done to the patrolman's home while he and his family were away. Police said that they found evidence that a glass demijohn containing kerosene had been broken in the house.

MOVIE INDUSTRY PERSONNEL "ROTTEN", DECLARES NEW YORK DIVINE

The Rev. John Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, New York City, has created a big stir in church circles by a vitriolic attack in a recent sermon on the personnel of the moving picture industry. The pastor emeritus of the church has issued a statement strongly condemning Dr. Straton for the sentiments expressed in the sermon. Here are the paragraphs which have caused the pastor most trouble.

DR. STRATON

"As we stand here in the shadow of this awful tragedy that makes the cheek flame with hot anger, which makes one almost ashamed of the human race, I dare charge home, as a minister of Jesus Christ, the indictment that the moving picture business of today is rotten in its personnel. I do not mean to say that every individual actor and actress is vile, but I do mean to say, and I deliberately charge, that the outstanding figures in the movie world today are before us in a light that is shocking and disgraceful, and this applies both to a large section of the management and to the actors and actresses.

"Here is Charlie Chaplin, with his sordid divorce story. Here are Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, with their even worse divorce record—practically fugitives from the state where they secured the divorce, so flimsy were its grounds—and, capping the climax, here is the great comedy hero, surrounded by a group of moving picture managers, actors and actresses who happened to be caught in the white light of publicity.

"Think of such men and women as these being the entertainers for American youth! Think of them being applauded from one end of this nation to the other by thoughtless boys and girls in the formative period of their lives! Think of the wreck and ruin of maidenly modesty which must of necessity flow from these things, and the lowering of the whole standard of human decency and right living."

the demand increased this winter. No final action was taken on any of the proposed remedies. Commissioner Pitts suggesting that nothing be done until a full council was present.

Building Code Advocated

The need of a building code for the city and a building inspector was urged before the council by Fire Chief McClure after Commissioner R. E. Shepherd had told of complaints that had been made to him by several residents concerning the safety of a three-story building in the down town district. Chief McClure said that at the present time there was practically no check on the method of constructing new buildings in the city as to safety.

After a discussion as to the condition of the building in question the council appointed C. H. Reid, C. C. Willard and Harry Naylor to inspect the building and report back to the council.

A. M. Reynolds, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council asked that the city cooperate with the labor organizations of the city city in a monster parade in favor of disarmament on November 11. Mr. Reynolds explained that the American Federation of Labor was sponsoring the idea of a nation-wide demonstration in favor of disarmament on Armistice Day. Action was postponed until a full council was present.

No More Sidewalk Permits

No more permits will be granted for curb gasoline stations in the down town district according to a motion passed by the council. The action was taken after the Mears Gasoline company was granted permission to move a filling station from 613 to 622 Ohio street, subject to the usual provisions. The fire hazard and the heavy traffic in the down town section were the reasons given for the passage of the ordinance prohibiting further permits for stations.

M. D. Walker asked that he and associates be refunded by the city for the cost of the paving of the Brook and Collins street intersection. He said that when built there was an agreement with J. B. Marlow, then mayor, that the city would refund the cost later. The matter will be investigated before action is taken.

A report of Dr. A. H. Douglass, city health officer, to Commissioner J. F. Reed was read to the council. The report estimated that Ford cars could be operated by city employees at a minimum cost of $425 yearly including depreciation but not including cost of gasoline and oil. The report was compiled by Dr. Douglass at the request of the council. The matter of city employes buying the machines now owned by sanitary department was left to Commissioner Reed, head of department. If purchased they will be allowed a monthly upkeep in line with the report of Dr. Douglass.

The tax roll of the city for the current year was approved by the council. The rolls showed a total city tax valuation of $34,758.90 with a levy of $758,590.

GOTHAM KIDDIES LEARN GARDENING IN BACK YARD

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Country life and gardening have no mysteries for juvenile New Yorkers. They are confident that no country boy or girl could fool them much about gardens and the things that grow in them.

Under the supervision of Father Knickerbocker, thousands of them have labored this summer cultivating little gardens in city parks. Some of the gardens have more than 1,000 individual garden plots. Each with a little farmer or farmerette in charge.

There are row after row of beets, carrots and sweet corn and tangles of tomatoes with red fruit peeping out from the surrounding greenery. The farmerettes usually have a fancy for a patch of gay colored flowers in one corner of the plot. The farmers run more to raising more substantial things, something that can be eaten.

Those who have had previous experience in gardening are allowed to devote their entire plot to raising their favorite vegetables. But the beginners have to go in for diversified crops.

SHOULD HAVE WORK FOR ALL SAYS HARDING

a world service, the president quoted a "distinguished foreigner" as having recently declared:

"'Mr. President, our people are deeply interested in the American conference on unemployment because our problem is akin to your own and your relief in the United States will be an added signal of hope from America to us and other peoples who are much depressed.'

"The industrial depression which we are feeling is a war inheritance throughout the world. We saw humanity stressed in that production, which is impelled by nations desperate in self-preservation * * * From such a test there is inevitable reaction * * *. With the world involved there is no escape for any of the world from the valleys of depression. Though we suffered less than many of those with whom we were associated and less than any of those against whom we contended, it was inevitable that we experience the fever's aftermath and come to known depression before we could become normal again.

"You have been summoned to counsel all America, to apply your knowledge and your experience in relieving a condition which concerns all America," the president further told the conference.

"Specifically you are to deal with unemployment, to suggest a way to repairing the arterial circulation which is the very life blood of the republic.

"There is always unemployment. Under most favorable conditions, I am told, there are a million and a half in the United States who are not at work. But there is excessive unemployment today and we are concerned not alone about its dimunition, but we are frankly anxious, under the involved conditions, lest it grow worse with hardships of the winter season to be met. The problem of unemployment is the most difficult with which we are confronted.

"But there are no problems affecting our national life and the welfare of the American people which we cannot and will not solve. If we fail today, we will try again tomorrow. * * *

Must Learn Volume

Secretary Hoover, speaking immediately after the president had concluded his address, declared the convolume distribution and character of volum, distribution and character of the nation's unemployment, and second, evolve a series of emergency methods to meet the present situation.

The commerce secretary expressed the belief, as did President Harding, that the conference also should consider measures which could be utilized in event of recurrence of unemployment tides.

Remedies for the unemployment situation, Mr. Hoover declared, must not include any legislative program and there must be no drain upon the public treasury. The United States, he said, had so far escaped the doles and charity methods of foreign nations and should seek mobilization of the co-operative action of manufacturers, employers and public authorities to meet the situation.

To Form Committees

Mr. Hoover suggested that the conference in order to facilitate its work at once dissolve into committees which would report the various recommendations to the conference and that a committee on organization and program be appointed.

A motion that a commitee on organization be named by Mr. Hoover was adopted and a committee of ten, to be added to later, was named by Mr. Hoover as follows:

Henry S. Robinson, Los Angeles; Charles M. Schwab, New York; Julius Barnes, Duluth; Mayor James Cousens, Detroit; C. H. Markham, Chicago; Commissioner T. V. O'Connor, shipping board; Ida M. Tarbell, New York; Samuel M. Lindsay, New York; Clarence Woolley, Detroit, and Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor.

The conference then adjourned to meet again this afternoon to consider the preliminary report of the committee which immediately went into session.

AMERICAN LEGION PLANS AID FOR UNEMPLOYED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 26.—John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, has called an unemployment conference to meet at national headquarters here Friday.

The conference is to take what steps the legion can take to obviate the suffering growing out of unemployment and will have before it figures obtained through more than ten thousand questionnaires.

SOVIET RUSSIA DENIES CURZON ALLEGATIONS

Soviets with trying to induce the "Indian anarchist Fiaz," who the note said had been studying the manufacture of bombs in Vienna, to proceed to Afghanistan and supervise a bomb depot on the border to facilitate the importation of bombs into India.)

"Those examples should serve, pending receipts of the full reply from the Russian government to convince the British government that the charges made are based on inaccurate information."

Blames White Guards

M. Berzin says there is no doubt Lord Curzon and the British foreign office have fallen victims to false rumors, spread by Russian white guards of French origin, and he recalls that the French newspapers recently were filled with similar statements and insinuations. He concluded: "M. Bugain wishes to impress upon the foreign office that the Russian governments wishes more than ever to promote friendly and sincere relations with the British government and it has given the best proof of its good intentions by taking steps immediately after signing the trade agreement to cease all activity and dissolve any organization in the east which might be construed as likely to give offense to the British government. * * * constitute a breach of the agreement."

LEWIS WOULD HAVE MINERS BREAK STRIKE

By Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 26.—Effort of supporters of Alexander Howat, president of the Kansas miners, to force a vote in the convention of the United Mine Workers of America on President John L. Lewis' recomendation that Howat be required to order strikers back to work, were blocked today by Vice President Murray, who as presiding officer, declared he would not permit the convention to be stampeded into making its decision.

The move came early in the afternoon session and was renewed at intervals as Lewis' supporters continued to address the delegates, seeking to impress that the issue was whether the union required its own men to fulfill their contracts.

Complaints also was made from the floor that delegates were being "gagged" and William Green, international secretary, was delayed for fifteen minutes by the disorder when he sought to speak.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 26.—Both factions among delegates to the convention of the United Mine Workers of America lined up today for the final test of strength in the two Kansas strike cases, the vote being to decide whether Alexander Howat, president of the Kansas district, would be directed to order strikers back to work at the Dean and Reliance mines.

Bitter debate was in prospect when the convention resumed consideration of the cases, the anti-administration element contending Howat's opposition to ordering the men back to work was justified because the operators sought to change working conditions. Administration delegates supporting President John L. Lewis denied this contention, asserting that the issue was whether the union required its own men to fulfill their contracts.

While both sides were preparing today for the show-down, it was doubtful whether the vote could be completed until late Tuesday. Howat's followers were planning to demand a roll call vote and almost a day would be required to poll the delegates individually.

is most inclement, a motor drive. The party is always home before dark.

Dinner is an informal affair; sometimes there are guests, always old friends or associates. Mr. Wilson no longer dresses for the occasion as he alway did while president; it is en famille, but no meal in the Wilson household proceeds until grace has been said by Mr. Wilson.

After dinner, he goes in for reading or amusement. Once a week Mr. Wilson has a motion picture show of his own and frequently sees the feature film at the same time it is being shown at the theaters downtown. Occasionally he goes to a vaudeville show.

Evenings at home, however, are spent in the family circle. The former president and Mrs. Wilson read a book together, or perhaps Mrs. Wilson reads aloud. Sometimes it is one of the detective stores of which Mr. Wilson was said to have been so fond. They do not now form as large a part of his reading as may have been the case years ago.

He goes to bed early, not to sleep, however, but to relax, to read and write. Like Mark Twain, he does much reading and writing in bed. Propped up by pillows and with a little writing board across his knees he reads and makes notes, some of them voluminous and in shorthand. Nobody knows what they are about. He puts them carefully away.

They are not notes for a book which many expect. Unless Mr. Wilson changes his mind decidedly he will write no reply to Robert Lansing or anyone else who has criticised his policies.

A writer who has been given access to Mr. Wilson's papers, of which there are almost a ton, is writing a book, but it will be his own, not Mr. Wilson's.

Not Wilson's Book

"I'll give you any material I have for your book," Mr. Wilson told him. "I'll answer any questions you may ask; but it's your book. I don't even want to see what you write."

However, the evening may be spent, however, tired he may be, there is one thing the former president never neglects. It is the reading of a few verses of the Bible. When he says good-night, he invariably reads aloud some short passage from the book which always rests on the reading table at his bedside.

Friends and admirers ask what is Woodrow Wilson's real condition now?

He will be sixty-five years old next December and has passed through an ordeal which few men survive. The measure of his progress toward health must be measured with those facts in mind. His normal weight in health, while he was president, was 180 pounds. He shows little departure from that figure now. His eyesight is as good, although he has discarded his favorite nose glasses for spectacles. His hair has turned snow white, but it has not thinned. His appetite is too robust to please his physicians.

Condition Shows Improvement

Motor nerves and muscles of his left side have given more response to treatment than was hoped. Of course, they are not fully active now. He still walks with a cane most of the time, but frequently hangs the crook over his arm and goes it alone without "my third leg" as he puts it. Mr. Wilson is far from a well man today; he was far from a well man when he entered the White House over eight years ago, but during the last two years there have been times when his voice was inaudible and when he could not support himself alone. His condition today shows more improvement than his family and friends dared expect.

There are many angles to Mr. Wilson's present day psychology. Living in Washington, and in easy access to party friends at the capitol, he might give consultation on party policies, but he does not. Whatever a visitor may say in criticism of the republican administration, Mr. Wilson never makes a reply. He never permits any one in his presence to speak what he regards as disrespectfully of the president of the United States.

How Ex-President Lives

Somebody once raised the question, "How do our ex-presidents live?"

Colonel Roosevelt had a comfortable fortune of his own, augmented by income from writings. Mr. Taft, until he became chief justice, had from time to time profitable sources of income.

Mr. Wilson brought with him to the White House the small savings of a life time, which he preserved. During his terms in the presidency his royalties from books previously written mounted into rather handsome sums. Singularly enough, they have shown a marked slump since he left the White House. While he was president circumstances helped him save money.

The war and the suspension of social functions and entertainment were quite an item. It has been estimated that the former president's pocketbook was at least $25,000 richer because he was not called upon to wine and dine numerous dignitaries and official persons.

Upon his modest fortune now he lives simply with an establishment of only servants and a "used" car.

KEROSENE FATAL TO BURK CHILD

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, Sept. 26.—Drinking a quantity of kerosene while his mother was out of the room, the 15-ommths-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McConnell, died here this afternoon, after about an hour's illness.

The stomach pump, and all other possible means of relief were used without success. The child drank the oil about 12 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. McConnell are members of Wichita Falls familicx.

ELDORADO CRUDE IS ADVANCED 10 CENTS

NEW YORK, Sept 26—The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, a subsidiary of the Standard of New Jersey, has advanced the price of Eldorado crude oil 10 cents a barrel. The new quotations are 90 cents a barrel for oil of 34 degrees and above, and 80 cents for that below 34 degrees. The advance is said to have been made to meet local conditions.

Advices received in oil trade circles here are that refiners in some parts of the Middle West and Southwest are continuing to quote premiums on crude oil above the posted prices. This also is said to be attributed strictly to local conditions. In some places where development work has been greatly curtailed because of overproduction, refiners have found it difficult to obtain a sufficient quantity of crude to keep their refineries in operation, wherefore they are forced to offer premiums to obtain the product.

RHEUMATISM CAN BE CURED!

But You Must Clear Your Blood of Waste Products

Lack of exercise and improper diet causes waste products to accumulate in the blood. You will at once realize that unless the blood is pure, some part of the body will become diseased.

Rheumatism, with its pain and agony, is one of the most serious diseases caused by waste products in the blood. You know, of course, the blood is not confined alone to the arteries and veins. It passes out of these channels to all parts of the body. This is how sediments or waste products are deposited in the muscles and joints. Genuine relief can be had only by correcting the basic trouble—waste products.

Thousands and thousands of men and women during the past 50 years have cleared their blood of waste products with S. S. S. It is the ideal remedy for rheumatism, because it removes the poisonous waste matter which is causing the trouble. There are no bad after effects and the result is wonderful. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for 56 page illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free.

WICHITA FALLS GUEST HONORED AT ABILENE

Mrs. Harry Self, visiting friends in Abilene, has been the inspiration of several pleasant hosptalties, according to the Abilene Reporter. The following is from the Sunday Reporter:

A very bright affair of the week bringing friends together in a delightful gathering was the one of Thursday morning with Mrs. Billy Hughes, hostess and Mrs. Harry Self of Wichita Falls, the honoree.

The assemblage was made at one o'clock in the home of the hostess on Veda street, and adding to the enjoyment of guests was the lovely home decoration, ferns and cut flowers in pleasant profusion graced the game rooms.

The daintiest of hand painted score cards marked places for the players at several tables where forty-two was the morning's diversionment. At the close of the games, the honoree was beautifully favored. The hostess assisted by Mrs. Tillett and Miss Ruth Bogar served a very delectable refreshment plate of sandwiches, cheese balls, olives and iced tea, and a slender little sheaf of marigold and fern preserved the daintiness of the party throughout the refreshment course.

HOUSTON MAN WAS ON VERGE OF BREAKDOWN

"I eat anything I want now, cabbage, onions, fat meat, or just anything, as my stomach is in perfect condition," said Luke J. Schuler, 3510 Canal St., Houston, Texas.

"Before I took Tanlac my health was simply going to pieces and I was right on the verge of a breakdown. My appetite was so poor I could hardly eat anything and my stomach would sour after eating and burn like fire. I got so weak and worn out I often had to lay off from work. Rheumatism got me in its clutches and I ached all over. I went to Marlin Springs and took all kinds of medicines at different times, but nothing did me any good.

"I'm like a new man now, have a corking appetite, everything agrees with me and I have gained 20 pounds in weight. I feel fine all the time now and never miss a day from work."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store; in Electra by Tarlton Drug Store; in Burkburnett by West End Drug Store; and by all leading drug stores.—Adv.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

CHERRY FIGHTS ALONE.

For once Cherry did not go to her friend Laura King with her troubles. The girl instinctively felt that this was an issue she alone could settle. There were times when even the beloved Miss Laura could do nothing.

How she ever managed to sit on in that room full of chattering women after the blow had descended she never knew, but sit on she did. With her head held high, too. The small talk had gotten on her nerves, and it was with a sigh of relief that she watched her friends walk down the path at last, after a long hour of agony.

Late that night found Cherry burning the midnight oil in the peaceful solitude of her room. Seated before a table, with Ned's letters strewn upon it, mutely reminiscent of his love for her, she read over and over his avowals of devotion until the tears made her put them aside.

Bravely and fairly then she faced the situation. Those letters of Ned's had been written but a bare eight months before. Surely he could not have stopped loving her yet. She refused to believe it. The trouble must lie within herself. Sternly she went over the many wrangles they had had the last few weeks. She remembered where she had refused to see any side but her own, and how she had deliberately turned the cold shoulder to him on several occasions when it had been evident that what he most needed was her love and sympathy.

There was one fact that stood out large in Cherry's mind through all her analysis of their married life, namely, that she and Ned had made a false start. Conditions and circumstances had been dead against them and their mutual love and faith from the beginning. It was this fact that must be dealt with and destroyed.

Had they had their own home there would have been fewer misunderstandings. Of this she was certain. Too many trouble and worse to their glorious romance. Alone, they would have had their little grievances, of course, as all young couples do, but these could have been so easily adjusted. A kiss at the right time, a heart to heart chat on their own porch by moonlight could be magical in their effects.

As it was there had rarely been times when someone had not been about at the moment when a kiss could have mended a heart ache on either side. And moonlight nights had been too frequently monopolized by a fretful mother.

By midnight Cherry had weighed all the pros and cons in the case and decided on a drastic line of action. Though she was going to bide her time and go about the cure in her own way, of the results the brave little wife was sure in her own heart. She was infinitely glad, too, that she had not consulted with anyone, but had fought the thing out for herself in her own way. It seemed fairer to herself and Ned, somehow.

MISSIONARY GIVES INTERESTING DETAILS OF THE LIVES OF THE KOREAN WOMEN

By FRANK S. REID.

Dr. and Mrs. M. O. Robertson, who are working in the mission fields of Korea, gave an interesting talk at the evening service of the First Presbyterian church. Dr. Robertson is not an ordained missionary, but doing medical work for the Southern Presbyterian Board of the United States. They have been in the field for the past six years and relate many interesting things.

Dr. Robertson confined his talk to personal medical experiences among the Koreans, showing their practices and ignorance of medical affairs.

Dr. Robertson and his wife were dressed in the native costumes of Korea. Mrs. Robertson, in a very interesting way, described the costumes of the Koreans and other things, strange to us, to be sure. Her talk is here quoted:

The Korean Woman

In making my talk on the Korean woman I have given myself a limited field in which to speak because although the Korean woman is considered a necessary evil to her country, she teaches everything as does any woman who loves, because God made it so. I know I look weird and strange to you in this costume, but in my six years' residence in Korea, my every day dress looked just as queer and strange to them as I do to you. This dress is made by the same pattern and in the same way that it has been made for 3,000 years. If I was a little girl my skirt would be bright red; my waist would be like Joseph's coat, of many colors. At forty years of age I can wear pink or blue and past forty I can change it to purple, and then when I am past fifty, my dress must be white. Whether I be a rich man's wife or a poor man's wife, the dress is the same. If my husband had lots of money my dress would be of richer material, but I stand before you as she does in and out every day.

When this dress is to be washed it will be ripped to pieces and taken down to the closest running stream of water and put on a flat rock and beaten with a stick. It will take about two or three hours to clean it. There are no clothes pins for hanging it up to dry. It will be hung on a fence, or it will be stretched along a fence with stones to hold it down until it dries. When it comes to ironing they have a long stone that looks like a small tombstone. The cloth is put into rice water where it stays for two days, and then taken out and dried and the cloth laid over a flat stone and rubbed with the tombstone. It will take a woman ten days to iron such a coat as my husband has on.

The dress is only sewed in the seams where the strain is. Rice glue is used to stick it together where there is no strain on it.

According to Korean custom it is very bad form not to take off one's shoes. I should have left these shoes at the door as I came in, but being in a place such as this I will take them off and put them over here in a careput place. In fact it would have been better had I brought a newspaper with me and wrapped them up and put them in a safe place because I might not have found them when I get ready to go.

The Korean woman is considered nothing in her country. She has not a name until she is a mother. Not having a name, they will refer to the lady with the wart, or her nose, or some other peculiar, noticeable mark.

The life of the Korean woman is one of drudgery. She does all the washing and the clothing must be carried to the nearest stream regardless of distance. She must do all the cooking for her husband and family. If there is any food left it is hers, but members of the family come first.

The Korean woman has very little for her own pleasure. She has little pleasure in her own home, so there is hardly a day passes that some Korean woman does not call at our door. As our doors are made of paper, they can't knock, but call out 'I come for a sight see.' I bring them in. They want to see me first. They think I am awfully sickly looking, my nose is flat, my feet are big, my hands are big, curly hair and a bloud. They say she is just old—100 years old. If I am not married, I am a big baby. They then go through my house. They look at the stove and say 'where do you put in the fire?' My thimble; the thread on a wooden spool, curtains, looking glass. They look into the glass and see four or five people and they look like Koreans and they go out and say there are Korean women shut up in that house.

The Koreans are very generous. I have often given a Korean child a stick of American candy and she will break it up into as many pieces as there are children with her and divide same. A Korean will borrow money from you to give costly presents to somebody else.

In closing her remarks, Mrs. Robertson said workers were needed in Korea to do as never before.

Wichita Falls Children Stack Up Pretty Well With Others, Health Conference Develops

Seventy children, approximately, were registered and examined during the opening day Monday, of the Child Health Conference, conducted by the Extension Department of the University of Texas and the Wichita County Red Cross, in the basement of the First Presbyterian church. Miss Jeanne Pinckney, of the University Extension department, assisted by members of the county nursing service, local physicians and specialists and volunteer workers, conducted the conference, which will continue through two more days.

Wichita Falls children stack up pretty well in accordance with the University gradations, if the seventy children examined Monday are to be considered representative, the charts show. Practically the only general evidence of the extreme summer heat was a tendency to a slight underweight, among the older children. The babies from six months to about two years as a rule showed much nearer perfect than did the older children, showing the children from three to seven were not always accorded the meticulous care of diet that was given the babies.

Most of the charts made out showed the small subjects to be in good condition, there were a number of "fair," while only at very infrequent intervals was there such a discouraging summing up at the end as "poor" for the general condition.

Where defects were found the examiner gave suggestions as to the necessary correction of these defects. Consultation and advice was given where children were underweight, and every other condition which was undesirable had its solution offered.

Each mother who registered her child, or children, was urged to bring them back to the conference next year, with the original of the chart, for a second examination, and comparison. They were also urged to attend the weekly baby clinics held by the Red Cross nursing service, at the court house.

The charts were made out in triplicate, the original being given the mother, one copy to the state, and the third to the county.

The children were examined by a general practitioner for the general condition, by an eye-ear-nose and throat specialist, and by a dentist, so that every phase of their physical condition was carefully covered.

Physicians, specialists and dentists who gave their services in the conference Monday, were: Drs. A. W. West, Curtis Atkison, O. W. Wilson, E. T. Parker, W. L. Rhodes, G. H. Hampshire, J. H. Fletcher, A. P. Terrell, F. F. Brown, J. E. Stevens, W. P. Bolding, A. R. Prothro and C. R. Hartsook.

Miss Pinkney, the university expert, was assisted by Misses Quinn and Dorpat and Mrs. R. E. Thompson, the two former in the Red Cross home nursing service, the latter a graduate nurse who has been giving valuable assistance when called upon. Mrs. M. H. Glover, chairman of the nursing service for the county, also had part in the direction, and T. B. Smock, and I. H. Roberts, members of the Red Cross board gave valuable assistance with their automobiles.

Assisting in the registration and copying of the reports were: Mesdames J. A. Gardner, O. R. Haynie, R. L. Eckerty, T. R. Brunson, C. C. Cabiness, Bland Omohundro, Dudley Golding, Joe D. Harris and Misses Gretchen Avis and Twilla Reighner.

An urgent invitation is extended to all mothers of children between the ages of six months and seven years to bring them to this conference, during the two days remaining. The conference opens at 9 o'clock, each morning, in the basement of the First Presbyterian church.

IN BED EIGHT MONTHS

Cause—Change of Life. How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Got Me Up

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did and in a short time felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good." —Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tennessee.

Women from forty-five to fifty years of age should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, palpitation of the heart, smothering or fainting spells, or spots before the eyes, and prepare their system for this perfectly natural change by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has helped many, many women through this trying period, just as it did Mrs. Keller.

Memphis Finally Awakens From Long Sleep

ZEKE LOHMAN HOLDS CATS DOWN, CHICKS TAKING FIFTH GAME

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 26.—Zeke Lohman, veteran right-hander, and one of the oldest men in years and period of service in the Southern Association, pitched the Memphis club, Southern Association champions to a six to two victory today over the Fort Worth Panthers, Texas League pennant winners, in the fifth game of the inter-league series for the baseball championship after they had taken three games in a row from the Chickasaws and in need of only one more victory to gain the title.

Lohman allowed only seven hits while his teammates found Paul Wachtel and Gus Johns,—Wachtel, a righthander who started the game for Fort Worth and Johns, a lefthander who relieved him in the fifth—for ten. Each of the pitchers were given errorless support.

As a result of today's Memphis victory, the series will shift back to Fort Worth for the sixth game of the series Wednesday with the count for the first five games, Fort Worth 3; Memphis 2.

Game Nip and Tuck.

Today's game was nip and tuck for four innings. Fort Worth started the scoring when Sears, the second man up in the first inning, doubled and raced home on Stellbauer's single. Kraft flied out and Hoffman, next at bat, singled but Haley sent a line drive to McLarry for the third out.

Memphis tied the score in the same inning. High started off with a single, advancing to third on a perfect hit-and-run play when McMillan sent the ball through second, and Williams singled, putting High across the plate. Neither team got a man beyond second until the fourth when Fort Worth put over another run. Haley, who had walked, going to third on Rigney's single and scored when Haworth forced Rigney at second. Memphis tied the score again in that inning when Brown scored on a wild pitch.

The fifth gave Memphis the lead that decided the game and marked the passing of Watchel from the fray. High, first up, doubled, McMillan sent a grounder to Watchel, who caught High in a chase between second and third, McMillan took second as High was tagged and advanced on Williams' out to Kraft. McLarry contributed a single and McMillan scored. A steal by McLarry, the first stolen base of the series, landed McLarry on second and he scored on Brown's double to deep center. Johns relieved Watchel at this stage and Camp, the first man to face him, singled, scoring Brown. Yockey went out, Hoffman to Kraft, ending the inning.

One more run for Memphis in the seventh on a double steal, McMillan scoring and McLarry going to second ended the scoring.

*Oscar Tuero, who defeated the Panthers in the opening game, but was driven from the mound Saturday, was announced as the probable Memphis pitching selection for Wednesday's game in Fort Worth, with "Buzzer" Bill Whittaker, who opposed Tuero in the initial game of the series as his likely opponent. DOAK SURE WANTS SOMEONE TO PLAY THE CLAWIN' CATS

MEMPHIS, Sept. 26.—Doak Roberts, president of the Texas League, stated today that in the event Fort Worth defeats Memphis, Southern Association pennant winners, in the series for the Southern baseball championship Fort Worth would challenge the Wichita, Kan., Western League, club for a series to determine the championship of the Southwest.

WICHITA, Kans., Sept. 26.—Wichita is willing to meet Fort Worth in a post-season baseball series, according to Frank Isbell, owner of the local Western League club, but a series of games with an all-star Western League club stands in the way. That series has been contracted for three weeks ago. Players have signed to play in the series and several games have been booked to be played in Kansas towns. Isbell said tonight that it would be impossible to cancel the series. However, if the Fort Worth club would like to play after October 8, the date on which the series closes, Wichita would be willing, Isbell said.

DIVIDEND OF 10 PER CENT VOTED BY SPUD DIRECTORS

The Wichita Falls Baseball association at a meeting of the directors yesterday voted to pay a 10 per cent dividend immediately. It is said this is the first time a minor league baseball club has paid a dividend only two years after the franchise purchase.

The directors also fixed October 10th as the date for the annual stockholders' meeting, which will elect officers and name a manager for the 1922 Spudders. Walter Saim's contract expired this season, and one of the important duties of the stockholders will be either to re-elect Walter or name his successor for next season.

YANKS TIGHTEN GRIP ON FIRST PLACE, BAMBINO'S MIGHTY BAT BEATING SPEAKER'S CLAN 8-7

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—New York took a firm grip on first place in the American League pennant race and went a long way toward clinching the first championship by defeating Cleveland in a tense, thrilling struggle today 8 to 7. The victory gave New York 3 out of 4 victories of the present series with the world's champions and a lead of two full games with Cleveland having only four more games to play and New York five.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Babe Ruth made his 57th and 58th home runs in the first and fifth innings of the game with Cleveland today, creating a new world's record. There was no one on in the first, but Peckinpaugh scored ahead of Ruth when the Bambino hit his 58th.

George "Babe" Ruth, the famous Yankee slugger, was the hero of the New York victory as he had one of his greatest batting days since coming into the American League. He hit two home runs, a two bagger, and walked in four times up, either scoring or driving in five of the eight New York runs. Ruth's first homer was made off Coveleskie in the first with no one on base and the second was prodded out of Uhle in the fifth after Peckinpaugh had opened the inning with a single.

Both were terrific drives, the first clearing the upper corner of the right field stand and landing in a runway back of the bleachers, while the second cleared the roof of the right field grand-stand.

Each manager called on three pitchers in an effort to win the crucial struggle. Quinn started for the Yankees, but was knocked out in the first inning. Hoyt relieved him and did well until he injured his hand while stopping a hot drive by Speaker in the seventh. Mays, who pitched yesterday, relieved Hoyt in the eighth and weathered a stormy ninth, as Sewell and Burns were on base, when O'Neill fanned for the last out.

Coveleskie, who lost the opening game of the series was knocked out in the third inning and replaced by Uhle who shut out New York in last Saturday's game.

Only four hits were made off Uhle but in each case a home run followed a single. It was Schang's home run in the sixth with McNally on base, which gave New York its last two runs and a victory. The hitting of George Burns who made a triple and three singles featured Cleveland's play. Burns drove in four runs and scored a fifth himself.

The defensive play of Elmer Miller saved the game for New York. His diving catch of Speaker's short fly in the eighth with runners on second and third prevented Cleveland from taking the lead in that inning. In the seventh a splendid throw by Miller to McNally caught Sewell at third, for the third out following a hit by Burns who had sent in two runs. Score:

"BLACKIE" MILLER NOW MAKING GOOD

"Blackie" Miller, the diminitive Porta Rican, who caused local police so much trouble during the boom by his mischief and who was sentenced from here to the reform school at Gatesville, two years ago, has been paroled and given a job running the engine room at a salary of $75 a month and board, according to word received here.

It appears that "Blackie", who was a bright lad even with all of his meanness, applied himself industriously at the school won the confidence of the officials there.

COAST LOOP UNABLE TO PLAY WINNER OF DIXIE CROWN

San Francisco, Sept. 26.—No post-season series between the winning club of the Pacific Coast League and the winner of the Dixie championship can be held this year, W. H. McCarty, San Francisco, president of the coast organization, said today.

"Such a series is out of the question because the coast league closes October 2 and the California winter league, in which many league players will appear, opens October 8," Mr. McCarthy said. "The coast league teams will disband for the year after next Sunday."

TOM CONNOLLY, OF ST. JOE, TO PLAY SHORT FOR MILLERS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 26.—Tom Connolly, formerly of the St. Joseph club of the Western league, will play shortstop position for the Minneapolis American Association team for the remainder of the season, in place of Morley Jennings, who left to take up his coaching duties in a southern college.

Connolly is rated as a good hitter, hitting at a .400 clip the past month or so, being out of the game at the beginning of the season because of illness. He is said to be fast on the paths, being among the leaders in stolen bases last year.

EASTERN GRID SEASON OPENS TRUE TO DOPE

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The curtain having been raised on college gridirons east, west and south, the squads resumed their practice today in preparation for next Saturday's battles. While the results of the first game ran close to predictions, football coaches were busy drilling their charges to bolster up weak spots discovered in the opening struggles.

The majority of the stronger Eastern elevens rolled up good scores against their opponents. Of the so-called "big three," Yale and Harvard had their usual first game successes, the latter eleven winning a double-header from Boston University and Middlebury. Yale defeated Bates, 28 to 0.

Princeton will get into first action next Saturday against Swarthmore. Cornell also will open its season at Ithaca, opposing St. Bonaventure College.

In the middle west, Notre Dame made a good start toward a successful season with a one-sided victory over Kalamazoo, Indiana, later to meet Harvard at Cambridge, walloped Franklin, 47 to 0.

The army squad is hard at work at West Point for a double bill next Saturday with New Hampshire and Springfield against them. The other service team, the Navy, will meet North Carolina.

BROTHERS TO FACE EACH OTHER IN BIG TEN GRID BATTLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—When the University of Chicago and Northwestern University meet on the gridiron here on October 1 in their annual battle two brothers will oppose each other. Eddie Palmer, former Englewood high school star, plays fullback for Chicago, and his younger brother Chuck is the Northwestern quarterback.

This occurrence was duplicated twice in the east last year, when the two Callahan brothers, captains of Yale and Princeton, and the two Robertson brothers, captains of Dartmouth and Syracuse, faced each other.

It has been estimated that a single pair of sparrows and a nest of young ones consumes about 3,000 insects a week.

Raw Rio Coffee.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The market for coffee futures lost part of last week's advance as a result of scattering liquidation, although local brokers reported no change in the general character of the news. The opening was three points higher to four points lower and after selling 7.86 early, December contracts eased off to 7.78 under scattered realizing which appeared to come chiefly through houses with Wall Street connections. Otherwise there was no special trading feature and last prices were about the lowest of the day, with prices one point higher on the two near months, but generally two to ten points net lower.

Sales were estimated at about 41,000 bags. Closing quotations follow: September and October 7.55; December 7.78; January 7.84; March 7.94; May 8.08; July 8.19.

A continued fair demand was reported in the spot market with prices firm at 8 1-8 to 8 1-4 for No. Rio 7's.

Livestock

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26.—More than 100,000 head of cattle were distributed among the leading market centers of the country today and the general trend of prices was toward lower levels, but with moderate receipts booked here the trade was not only steady, but active. Only 2,500 head of cattle and 4,500 calves were yarded. Steers sold around $4.50 to $5.00, canner cows brought $2 to $2.15, yearlings ranged up to $6.65 and seven carloads of light calves notched $5.75. Good heavy cables sold at $5. Stocker steers brought $2.50 to $4.25.

Active trading also developed in the hog division, where receipts were limited to 1,800 head. Shippers and packers paid $7.50 for good hogs and most sales ranged from $7 to $7.50. The market was steady. Due to outside demand pigs gained strength, most of the run going at $6.75 with some reaching $6.85.

Sheep receipts amounted to 500 head. The market was steady. Quotations:

Cattle—Beeves $3.00 to $5.75; stockers $3.00 to $4.50; cows $2.25 to $4.25; canners $1.50 to $2.15; heifers $3.00 to $6.50; yearlings $3.50 to 7.00; bulls $1.50 to $2.75; calves $2.00 to 5.75.

Hogs—Light $7.40 to 7.50; medium $7.00@7.40; mixed $6.00 to 7.00; common $5.00 to 6.00; heavy $6.75 to 7.00; rough heavy $5.50@6.00; pigs $5.50 to $6.85.

Kansas City Livestock

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26.—Cattle $3,000; beef steers uneven, mostly steady; undertone weak; early top $8.75; other fed lots $7.50@8.60; grassers $5.50@7.00; calves steady to weak; few vealers $10.00; bulk heavies $5.00@5.50; stockers and feeders mostly steady; stockers $4.00@6.25; feeders $5.25@6.85; canners and cutters steady to strong; bulk canners $2.50@2.75; cows bulk $4.00@4.50; grass heifers $4.00@6.50; several loads Texas stock heifers $4.75.

Hogs 5,500; open slow, mostly 10c lower; closing active and fully steady, bulk of sales $7.00@7.75; packing sows mostly $6.00@6.25; stock pigs steady to strong, few at $8.25.

Sheep 9,000; killing classes steady to strong; ewes $3.75; western lambs $8.50.

Grain

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Accumulating stocks of wheat together with absence of export business had much to do today with down-turns in the price of wheat. The market closed unsettled, 1 to 2 1-4 cents net ower with December 1.24 1-2 to 1.24 3-4 and May 1.28 1-2 to 1.28 3-4. Corn lost 1-4@3-8 to 1 1-4 and oats 1-2 to 5-8@3-4. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 27 cents down.

It was evident from the start that the United States visible supply total to be posted just before the close would show a decided increase. The actual enlargement for the week proved to be more than 5,000,000 bushels and with an even greater increase shown for Canada, the effect was naturally depressing to the bulls. Meanwhile exporters asserted that cable offers to sell wheat to Europe were met with counter proposals to resell.

Corn and oats declined with wheat.

Down-turns in hogs weakened provisions.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The cotton market was nervous today, but trading was comparatively quiet and the price movement irregular within a range of 25 to 26 points. After selling at 20.24 early, December contracts eased off to 19.98 but rallied later and closed at 20.10, compared with 19.98 at the close of last week. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 10 to 25 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 14 to 23 points in response to bullish Liverpool advices and reports of rains or showers in central and western sections of the belt. Liverpool was a good buyer here and there was scattered trade buying on the initial upturn which carried October up to 19.85 and January to 20.23 or about 25 to 26 points net higher on the active months. This bulge met considerable scattered selling for southern account and realizing for over the approaching government report, however, and after the close of Liverpool prices turned easier. October sold off to 19.62 and January to 19.98 or back to just about the closing figures of Saturday, but people who sold early in the expectation of increasing hedge pressure before the close, turned for cover later in the afternoon and last prices showed rallies of 10 to 15 points from lowest. Reports that a prominent Memphis authority placed the condition of the crop at 48.1 and the indicated yield at 6,650,000 bales compared rather bearishly with the private reports of last week, and probably contributed to a feeling that the approaching government report had been pretty well discounted.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26.—Prices were moderately higher in the cotton market today in face of large tenders against October contracts, notices for about 21,000 bales of tenders appearing. Marked firmness was displayed on opening and for sometime after prices rising 28 to 34 points which carried October to 19.63 and December to 20.01. After the first bulge realising worked against values to some extent and in the afternoon when it looked as if the upward trend would again be resumed, there was selling. At one time prices were only 10 to 12 points higher than the close of Saturday. The close showed net gains on the day 10 to 25 points with October at 19.60.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Cottonseed oil was easier under scattered selling and heaviness in hog products and grain. Covering on better showing in cotton checked the decline. October closed 11 ponts lower and later months 1 to 5 net lower. Sales 15,200 barrels; tenders 100 barrels. Prime crude 800 sales; prime summer yellow spot 9.50@9.60; October 9.882; December 9.45; March 9.69, all bid.

Stocks

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Recent uncertain tendencies in the stock market became more pronounced today, notwithstanding the hopeful feeling voiced by the trading element. Selected issues of the speculative varieties were steady to strong at intervals, but leaders of the oil, industrial and railroad groups reflected renewed pressure. Reports from industrial centers were distinctly encouraging.

These were neutralized in a measure by a slight let down in tonnage movements from leading terminals, due chiefly to reduced coal shipments. High grade rails added nothing to recent gains, being overshadowed by junior issues, but steels, equipments and papers, together with motors and the cheaper miscellaneous stocks were better by 1 to 2 points. The entire list turned heavy towards the close. Sales amounted to 475,000 shares.

Ignoring a 4 1-2 per cent rate for private loans, all call money on the exchange was placed at 5 per cent. Time rates, mercantile paper and bank acceptances were unchanged.

The fall of German marks to practically 0.86 to four points under any previous minimum, was accompanied by weakness in Austrian, Polish and other central European remittances.

Liberties led an active and broad market to irregularly higher prices and numerous convertible and debenture rails enhanced recent gains. Speedy sale of $31,000,000 of Pennsylvania railroad equipment certificates testified to the strength of the local investment situation. Total sales, par value, aggregated $18,375,000.

More than 21,000 employes of Swift & Company own or are paying for shares in the business. These men and women have attested their faith in the integrity and good will of the company by investing their savings in the business.

Their holdings represent a total of nearly 250,000 shares, the par value ($100 a share) of which is more than $24,500,000.

These 21,000 represent more than one-third of our average number of employes!

One man out of every three, in plant, office, and branch house, from the handworker on the floor to the brain worker at the desk; working with us as well as for us, devoting himself to his own business while devoting himself to ours; promoting his own interests in every motion or moment saved, in every product improved or maintained at perfection, in every service rendered through prompt, thorough, effective distribution of products.

This interested, eager group of fellow partners working with us for the good of Swift & Company and the public which we serve, constitutes one-half of the ownership of Swift & Company in point of numbers, and nearly one-sixth in point of shares outstanding.

It represents practical and successful progress toward the end at which enlightened modern industry is aiming for the solution of industrial problems—toward cooperation, mutuality, brotherhood in business, for the good of all.

REVIEW OF BUSINESS SITUATION

According to the Nation's Business Magazine, a nation-wide survey of crop and business conditions gives us definite knowledge upon which to base our conclusions as to the probable trend of things in the immediate future.

The story is much the same everywhere: A partial and unequal harvest; plentiful returns in close juxta-position with parched and burnt-up fields; both prices and demand for farm products that are far from satisfactory to the producers. Yet these same products are seeking a market wherever they can find it that the obligations of the farmers may be discharged. There is an abundance of foodstuff in the country despite small yields in some grains.

An enormous inflow of wheat to market indicates that there is nothing to that old stuff about farmers holding back supplies artificially to force up the price. Likewise that there is more wheat in the country than official figures declare.

One matter is most apparent in the horoscope of the future. The measure of the volume of business and of our commercial welfare hangs upon the demand for farm products and their consequent prices for the year. All other "barometrics" are as nothing by comparison, and can be relegated to the scrapheap. Fortunately at this writing, Europe is importing largely of our grains and the exports of cotton from July 1st to date are more than double those for the same period of last year.

In a chapter devoted to our mechanical farms the survey shows that the American farm is adding to its agricultural machinery other means of increasing efficiency and convenience. In eight states more than half the farms have automobiles, 75 per cent having them in Nebraska and 73 per cent in Iowa. The States from Missouri and Kansas to the northern border, on their 1,096,000 farms, have 631,000 automobiles.

Tractors seem to be more popular with farmers than motor trucks. Two hundred and twenty-nine thousand farms have tractors and 139,000 possess trucks. Trucks are apparently most popular in connection with farms marketing vegetables and fruit, for 10 per cent of the New Jersey farms have them. Tractors are proportionately most numerous in South Dakota, where they are on 16 per cent of the farms. The percentage is almost as large in North Dakota, and is over 10 per cent in Montana and California as well.

The farmer's wife is getting some advantages. On 644,000 farms—that means 10 per cent—water has been piped into the house, and on 452,000 there is gas or electric light.

The telephone is the most universal of modern facilities used on the farms. Almost 40 per cent of all farms now have telephones, and in Iowa the figure runs up to 56 per cent. In the states beginning with Missouri and Kansas, and extending northward, where automobiles are most numerous, 70 per cent of the farms are equipped with telephones.

That Added Inch to the Chinaman's shirt tail which should make white the cotton fields of Texas has so far moved more editorial pens than it has spindles in North Carolina. And now comes an eminent authority and shows us another side of the picture. This time it is H. Foster Bain, of the Bureau of Mines, who sets us wondering what will happen if the backward races—backward, that is, in bathtubs and vacuum cleaners—ever catch up.

China uses each year 100 pounds of coal per capita. We in the United States use six tons. If China's four hundred millions ever want six tons each, China will need twice the coal the world produced in 1920. What then becomes of our coal reserves?

Or copper? Even highly develo: France uses but four ounces of copper to the individual to our six pounds. When the day comes that a telephone graces every Chinese home and each Chinaman clamors for his six pounds of copper a year, well, the world's production of copper for 1920 would just about supply China.

The world doesn't produce in a year enough pig iron to give India alone her share if India set out to use automobiles and cookstoves as they are used in North America.

Perhaps we'd better not go ahead too fast. It may be wiser to let the Chinaman wear his shirt tail as it is a few more years.

Texas sheep men say the emergency tariff raised the price of wool from 12 to 20 cents a pound. Congressman Claude Hudspeth is of the opinion that the law has been a great benefit to the producers of mutton and wool; that Texas has but one wool competitor in the world, Australia and that when the emergency law became effective, Boston buyers came to Texas and were active buyers. Congressman Hudspeth is a democrat but he is not a free trade democrat.

STEEL PRODUCTION ON LARGE SCALE IS COMING.

The steel and iron industry within a short period will be plunged into the biggest production period in history, a leading official of the Harding administration predicted Saturday, refusing, however, to permit the use of his name.

The official, who, before entering the Harding administration, was closely connected with the industry and lived in a big Pennsylvania steel center, is in a position to appreciate the trend.

With the revival of business now gradually working out in the United States and to a certain extent abroad, steel and iron production, it was said, will soar to a tonnage greater than the record set up during the war period.

The boom in steel will result, it was stated from every extraordinary demand made necessary by curtailed production all over the world for more than three years. The world is short millions of tons of steel and iron needed for replacement of factories, bridges, ships, railroads, automobiles and a thousand other industries.

Railroads, it is predicted, soon will be buying at a rate three times greater than normal because of the unusual need for replacements.

Enormous extensions in plants and equipments, developed during 1916-17-18 to meet the war demand, but now idle, will be called in to play to meet the coming needs of the United States and of the entire world, according to the prediction.

Nearly 500,000 wage-earners and salaried officials and employes will be needed by the industry with the resumption of full-time production. Persons employed in the industry now probably do not exceed 250,000.

Millions would be added to the purchasing power of the American consumer by a revival of steel production on a large scale. Thousands of coal miners would be called into the mines to get out fuel for the furnaces.

Wage-earners of more than thirty states have a vital interest in steel production. Of these, Pennsylvania ranks first, with steel workers numbering more than 100,000 in normal times. Next comes Ohio, followed by Indiana, Illinois, New York and New Jersey in the order named.

Among other states in which steel and steel products are produced in large quantities are Delaware, North Carolina, Maryland, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin and West Virginia.

More than $2,000,000,000 now is invested in the industry, according to Census Bureau valuations, of which a large percentage is earning nothing or next to nothing. Nearly 1000 concerns are ready to take advantage of the boom when it comes, or, rather, if it does come, in the proportions predicted. Between 600 and 700 plants are ready to run out castings, pig and steel products.

PLACE FOR THE COTTON MILL.

The North Carolina mills take all the cotton grown in that state and go outside for more.

Each section should address itself to the conversion of the raw material at hand.

The cotton mill industry will eventually be located hard by the cotton field.

Where the apple grows, there the cider should be made.

Where the grape grows, there the wine should be made, being careful, of course, to conform to the law.

Where the timber grows, there the furniture should be made.

Texas grows the cotton; Texas is the place for the cotton mill.—Waco Times-Herald.

Not many years ago North Carolina was an impoverished commonwealth. Now North Carolina is one of the leading manufacturing states of the union and is advancing by leaps and bounds.

Manufacturing "did it."

North Carolina spinners consume all the cotton grown in that state and then buy cotton from other Southern states. The editor of the Waco Times-Herald is a man of vision when Texas mills consume the cotton and the wool produced on Texas farms and ranches, Texas will be one of the richest, if not the richest, of all American commonwealth.

Honorable D. F. Goss of Seymour, had an interesting interview in the Sunday number of the Record News. He is a native Texan and has been prominent in affairs of state, is a close observer and a deep student. It is his firm conviction that when the day comes that Texas cotton and Texas wool and Texas hides shall be turned into the finished product in Texas mills and tanneries prosperity of the stable sort as well as large wealth per capita will come to the people of the commonwealth.

SUCH IS FAME.

The death of Miles Crowley at Galveston a few days ago, brought nothing more than a machine headline in the daily papers. Such is fame. Just a few years ago and Miles Crowley was a power, politically, not alone in Galveston but in Southern Texas. From a stevedore on the wharfs, he rose to prestige and to power which landed him a seat in the lower house of congress for a term. Of late years he has confided his activities to local politics and even in that domain has been more or less obscure. He was not an educated man, but in his palmy days possessed all the elements of leadership and with it all he bore the reputation of an honest man—attributes seldom found in men these days.—Denison Daily Herald.

Editor Ellis should not overlook the Record News of Sunday. If he will glance over the first page he will discover that ample justice was done Miles Crowley, erstwhile a noted political boss of Galveston, who came to Texas without money or friends and was never headed off until he won a seat in the lower house of the American Congress. He was not headed off then. He read of rich gold discoveries in Alaska and he believed that he could win a fortune in Alaska as easily as he won political power and political officers in Texas.

He was mistaken. He did not find the fortune under Alaskan skies.

He did return to Texas and he was a county judge when he died. Crowley was a remarkable man. He began life a newsboy on the Boston docks; he finished life a wearer of the ermine "away down here in Texas."

And now the imperial kleagle of the Klu Klux Klan, Colonel E. Y. Clarke has resigned his kleagleship and Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, his assistant, goes out with him. He gave as a reason for his resignation "newspaper criticism." Now just why should a man run when under fire?

Still, this coo clucks organization has a harmless, barn-yard sound.

If you can't lick him, flatter him. It amounts to the same thing in the end.

The tired business man probably gets that way reading advice about how to get back to normal.

A congressman informs us that every great business man has his hobby. Doesn't he mean lobby?

"Tariff tinkerers are not satisfied with their work." That, apparently, makes it unanimous.

The book salesman can get almost every man's signature on the dotted line if he will say that he is offering the work to intellectuals only.

A man may forgive you if you ridicule his children, but not if you ridicule his home-brew formula.

To the lay mind, about the only difference between golf and old-fashioned "shinny" is plaid stockings.

Leather continues steady and prices are firm says R. G. Dun & Company in its trade review for the week ending September 20. Shoe dealers' sales are in large amounts and there is a greater demand for standard styles of boots; oxfords are selling for immediate delivery.

No reductions in the prices of woolen goods for the spring of 1922 can be hoped for, according to Thomas L. Foulkes, of New York, representing the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers, who addressed the annual convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers. Mr. Foulkes was sent to Rochester, N. Y. to explain the merits of American-made fabrics in conjunction with the educational exhibit in which thirty mills are participating. Fabric prices for the spring of 1922 are based on as low if not lower wool prices than those of 1914," said Mr. Foulkes, "and you know that wool in 1914 was prostrated in the depression of business generally. Labor has been reduced 22 1-2 per cent since the war and cannot go further. These facts are beyond contradiction as establishing the stability of present prices.

Rippling Rhymes
By WALT MASON

MY BUSY DAY.

My motor purs and quickens, the tank with gas is filled; the road is strewn with chickens and cats that I have killed; still faster, faster going! And cattle that were lowing, and roosters that were crowing, are now forever stilled. I have no earthly reason for hitting such a clip; I have the whole blamed season in which to make the trip; but my old boat's a dinger, a dust and gravel slinger, and so I do not linger—just watch the old girl skip! But, say, what ails my vision? I seem to be in bed! "You had a bad collision," just now the doctor said; "at high speed you were racing, all motordom disgracing, and now you see me placing this poultice on your head. Your car, that was a daisy, is wrecked beyond repair; the coroner is crazy, so many dead are there; when two fools get to driving, to break speed records striving, it's strange that one's surviving, as you are, I declare. The sad truth must be spoken, though it may seem a frost; your collarbone is broken, and both your ears are lost; with blood your dome is crusted, your diaphragm is busted, your works must be adjusted, and that at frightful cost." And from my couch of sickness I watch the autos pass, and mark their pep and quickness when drivers give them gas; I may not drive such sprinters for many, many winters, for I am all in splinters, oh, waly and alas!—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

ON MEETING A FRIEND.

So we've met once more. How wonderful
Is your voice; and it seems
To ring in my ears; like a man who dreams
Of a wonderland in a distant sea
Bounded by naught save Purity,
And waking, still dreams; and before his eyes
There always appears this paradise.
So your voice brings back the memory
Of days gone by, when you and I
Lived in the land of ministrelsy.

So the tender past comes back once more,
Rushing from out the farthermost shore
Of Oblivion; and brings with it
Friendship and Love and joyous Wit.
It brings back the hope that I thought was dead,
The joy of Life I thought had fled,
Ne'er to return, though I could not forget,
And are now ever present—once more we have met.
—Joseph G. Tannenbaum.

OUR OWN AGONY COLUMN.

"The last time I saw you, Edith," remarked a Topeka woman to an old friend the other day, "you were looking for a husband." "Well, that was four years ago," replied the old friend, "and things haven't changed a bit, only now I spend a good share of each day looking for the one I acquired along about that time."—Topeka Journal.

Breakfast Stories

(Scene: Loby of theater. A little tailor of the Chosen Race leading a boy about six years old by the hand, gives the doorman one ticket).

Doorman: "Here! You've gotta have a ticket for that boy."

Tailor: "For dis boy? Oh, don't be foolish, mister. He's only a small little feller. He won't do nothing."

Doorman: "I don't care. You can't get in unless you have a ticket for the boy."

Tailor: "It's all right, mister. I promise you I won't let him look."

Eight-year-old Josephine was studying the life of Abraham Lincoln at school and was impressed by what she had learned.

One evening she was engrossed in a story of his boyhood days, which she had found at home, when suddenly she exclaimed in a pitying voice: "O mamma! Just think! Poor Abraham Lincoln had to wear wooden clothes." Her mother said, "Oh, no! that can not be true," but Josephine pointed to the sentence: "Abraham Lincoln split rails for clothing."

A teacher was hearing the class in civics and asked this question:

"If the president, vice president and all the members of the cabinet died who would officiate?"

The class thought for some time, trying in vain to recall who came next in succession.

James at last had a happy inspiration and he answered:

"The undertaker."

to the population of Texas; faith and work will make Wichita Falls a great trading center; faith and work will make Wichita Falls a great manufacturing center; faith and work will make Wichita Falls a great jobbing center; faith and work will make Wichita Falls a distributing center equal in importance to Dallas or Kansas City or St. Louis. Men who plan and work for big things win big things. Wichita Falls has a magnificent future if the people of Wichita Falls take advantage of the gifts that the god of opportunity offers and goes after the rich prizes that must fall into the lap of those who are the first to get there. Read the stories of the county fairs in the columns of the Record News or the other daily newspapers of Texas. They tell of the people pouring in from the country side. They tell of the agricultural exhibits, the live stock exhibits, the poultry shows, the educational exhibits, the art and needle work exhibits, the amusement programs, the racing programs, the programs of athletic sports, the coming together and getting together of the people for miles around. These stories should convey their message to our people and tell them what they should do to draw the crowds to this beautiful city in order that it shall be placed at the head of the procession and some day first on the map of Texas.

J. L. McMahon and other sons of Celts who are readers of the Record News may be interested in the preliminary figures from the census of agriculture for San Patricio county. San Patricio is Spanish for St. Patrick and Texas boast of the only St. Patrick county in the United States. These figures show that on January 1, 1920 St. Patrick county has 757 farms operated by 755 white farmers and two negro farmers. Land in farms 204,295 acres; improved acres 90,007. Value of land and buildings, $13,618,227 as against $3,833,413 in 1910 a gain of $9,784,814 or a percentage increase in ten years of 255.3. This is a remarkable showing. St. Patrick is said to have banished the snakes from Ireland. Some patron say saint of the people of St. Patricio must have banished the Snake of Laziness from San Patricio county. Animals reported: horses 2,422; mules, 3,980; cattle, 16,484; sheep, 87; swine, 3,662; goats, 701. Staples of San Patricio are corn, kafir milo, hay and cotton. These farmers are diversifiers. In 1910 they produced 9,565 bushels of corn; in 1919 they produced 139,584 bushels of corn and large feed crops. Regardless of this, cotton is the money crop and in 1919 the total production of the fleecy staple was 11,639 bales. Hon. Pat Dunne, the Duke of Padre Island, knows all about San Patricio county and its early history. His forebearers came to Texas in 1836 and the grandsons and great grandsons of these Celtic colonists are found everywhere the Nueces river flows

ARTIST MAKES APPEARANCE IN CHINESE GARB

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Dress reformers and style revokers found themselves blinking in the sunlight of reality, and Miss Doris Bothwell, talented artist and a member of San Francisco's Greenwich Village younger set certainly started something when she appeared on the streets in a costume entirely new and novel to Americans in the line of women's wearing apparel.

Miss Bothwell's garb is nothing more than the costume of an Oriental woman of the better middle class and solves the enigma for her as to the high price of clothing. She wears coat and trousers just as the women of San Francisco's Oriental section do.

"My change from the American style was the result of necessity," said the coy little miss, in explaining why she took up the new clothing idea. "Paints, canvas and other necessities of an amateur artist are so expensive, and I had to economize some way so I decided I should be in the line of dress. And the difference in cost, as compared to American clothes, is astonishing."

The difference in cost compared to street clothes is about half, and for evening dress the margin runs even higher, she explained.

"I bought a street suit of wool and silk for $10 and a work suit for $5," she said, exhibiting the garments, "and they look rather natty, too," she added.

"For an evening dress, American style, one would have to pay at least $100, while I got a corded silk suit, Oriental style, for $20. For the $100 you could secure about the best materials made in China and Japan," she said.

Underclothing Unnecessary

Miss Bothwell's costume consists of trousers, coat and top-jacket of silk, without sleeves, and usually of some pleasing color. For an Oriental wardrobe is very compact, and several changes in clothes can be carried in the same space as can a fewer number of changes of American clothes.

The wardrobe of Miss Bothwell consists of about four suits and will answer for every occasion, she says.

"Another feature is that no underclothes—in the way of skirts—are needed, and they are very comfortable, more son than anything I've ever worn before," she said. "And the thing that tickles me is that I do not have to wear hat or gloves."

So far Miss Bothwell has not taken to the Oriental shoes, but announces she is having shoes—or rather, sandals made to order, which will cost only $1.75 per pair.

POLISH PREMIER NARROWLY ESCAPES ASSASSIN'S BULLET

LEMBERG, Sept. 26.—General Joseph Pilsudski, president of the Polish republic, narrowly escaped death by assassination here last night. He was entering an automobile in City Hall Square on his way to a theater after attending a banquet in his honor when three shots were fired at him. General Pilsudski was not injured, but Count Grabowski, who was accompanying him, was wounded in the leg.

The president directed his chauffeur to drive to a hospital and after being assured that Count Grabowski's wound was not serious, insisted on going to the theater as he had intended. He was enthusiastically cheered by the audience when he entered.

The would-be assassin attempted to commit suicide, but was arrested before he could end his own life.

SUICIDE THEORY IN HANAN-LAWS CASE IS SUBJECTED TO DOUBT

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Doubt that Mrs. Grace Laws killed herself after fatally wounding Mildred Hanan last week, was created today by a report which District Attorney Lewis of Brooklyn said had moved him to continue his investigation of the case.

The report reaching him, he said, was that Mrs. Laws might not have died by her own hand and that another man besides John S. Borland was nearby when she shot Miss Hanan.

District Attorney Lewis said he would have a careful examination made of the body of Mrs. Laws, which remains unclaimed at the morgue.

TAX REVISION MAY FOLLOW PEACE CAUCUS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The tax revision bill was read today in the senate but formal consideration of it was deferred until tomorrow. Whether the measure will be pressed from that time may depend upon action of the Democratic caucus tomorrow on the peace treaties with Germany, Austria and Hungary.

Chairman Penrose, of the finance committee, in charge of the measure, said that should it develop that the treaties could be ratified with only a few days consideration, the tax measure probably would be laid aside temporarily. That, in the end would expedite final action on the tax legislation, he said, adding that Senators apparently were not favorable to the suggestion of alternate consideration of the tax bill and the treaties with the senate holding night sessions.

The senate was informed today by both Senator Underwood of Alabama, the Democratic leader and Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking minority member of the finance committee, that there was no disposition on the part of the Democrats to delay tax legislation. Senator Penrose wanted to take up the revenue bill, for amendment today but Senator Simmons objected, insisting that procedure be limited to reading of the bill. He said Senators should have more time to consider the measure before being asked to pass on amendments proposed to the present law.

A striking evidence of the invasion of western ideas in China is found in the fact that many Chinese women now consent to be photographed, something which has been practically unknown among the women of that country heretofore.

ARE YOUR FEET EXPENSIVE?

—Keeping the feet properly shod is expensive or inexpensive, according to the way you manage.

—Personally, I know several people who never remember to have their shoes resoled. They throw away otherwise perfectly good shoes and oxfords, simply because they have worn out the soles or heels. Those same shoes would give them months more service if they were brought to the cobbler.

—You must remember that a good cobbler does his work so neatly that no one can detect but what the shoes are just out of the store.

COMMANDER TELLS AIMS OF LEGION

Luther Hoffman, commander Pat Carrigan Post of the American Legion gave some of the aims of the local organization, what it intended to accomplish and urged support and co-operation of members of the Kiwanis club in every way it could at the regular weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club Monday noon at the Kemp hotel.

At his suggestion, W. S. Curlee moved that a committee be appointed to work with the legion executive committee to further plans which they might have in mind which could be shared with the Kiwanis club and which the Kiwanis club might support. The motion was adopted and the president was instructed to appoint such a committee.

Beside the purpose of affording ex-service men association which would result in mutual good, and providing jobs and medical attention to worthy cases, Mr. Hoffman said he hoped the American Legion would develop to be a real power for civic advancement in Wichita Falls and would take its place along with other clubs and organizations with these ends in view. What the legion has done in the past in Wichita Falls, even though handicapped by lack of funds and small membership, he said, consisted of finding jobs for 3,000 ex-service men and giving medical aid and hospital treatment to 200 worthy cases.

As soon as the necessary funds can be raised to outfit the legion with adequate quarters, he said he believed the social side of the legion would make more of an appeal to former soldiers. It has been estimated that there are 1,000 men in Wichita Falls eligible to membership in the legion, and he said he hoped that the present membership of 350 will be greatly augmented in the near future.

Monday's meeting was announced as an open forum in order to give members a chance to "get something off their chest.' Very few took advantage, those of spoke being Bill Viner, who told of the possibility of the Kiwanis club sponsoring a city auditorium for Wichita Falls and Al Ellis, who extended the greetings of Ernest Cutts, imperial potentate of the A. A. O. N. M. S. of North America, who was president of the Savannah, Georgia Kiwanis club for three terms, and who recently presented Maskat temple with here permanent charter.

Introduction of members and guests served as an excuse for a number of Kiwanians, to get off a little free advertising, Dave Paul (adv.) as usual being on hand, as well as some alleged wit. This feature proved enjoyable, however, and everyone seemed to get quite a good deal of kick out of it.

Entertainment for the day consisted of two solos by C. H. Angle, accompanied by Miss Leona Lorimer, which were well received.

R. B. Parker won the attendance prise, an accident policy for $5,000 donated by B. B. Greever. Silent boosts were "Red" Thames own brand of pencils, but he neglected to add a pencial sharpener with the boosts. W. H. Caldwell acted as chairman for the day.

Announcement of the wedding of Dr. M. H. Hoover, president of the club, was made and Ben Neal told of sending the condolences of the club to the bride, which everyone exclaimed was appropriate.

FUNERAL FLOWERS PROVE COSTLY TO OFFICE BOY FAN

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Like other office boys, Jimmy, employed by the Guaranty Trust Company, has a grandmother who dies frequently and conveniently whenever Jimmy wants a few days off.

But the last "death" nearly cost him his job and now is costing him all his spare pennies.

The bank's employes club felt so sorry for Jimmy that they sent a bouquet to grandma's funeral. Came this telephone call from Jimmy's house:

"We have just received some flowers from the bank. Can you tell me what they are for"?

When Jimmy returned from the "funeral," it was decreed that he should refund the price of the flowers.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT VOTES TO REGRAVEL CHARLIE ROAD; AFTER DELINQUENT TAXES

After a delegation of property owners living along the road had again asked that immediate action be taken on the improvement of the Charlie road out of this city the county commissioner's court Monday voted to regravel the road a distance of six and one half miles.

The action was taken following County Engineer Isbell's report showing the cost of either regraveling the road, or placing an asphalt surface over the present gravel base or macadamizing the road.

Mr. Isbell did not recommend the asphalt surface stating in his report that it was dangerous to place asphalt on a base of local gravel. The cost of other improvements suggested outside of placing more gravel on the road was prohibitive in the opinion of the court. The cost of the improvement will be approximately $18,000.

In making his report concerning the road Mr. Isbell recommended that a maintenance patrol be placed on the road when it is again resurfaced. He pointed out that the gravel was first put on the road fifteen months ago and that since that time no attempt had been made to keep it in repair. He said that its present condition could have been avoided had the proper maintenance been kept up after the road was completed. Commissioner J. P. Jackson of Precinct 1, under whose supervision the work will be done announced that work would start at once as both the gravel and trucks needed are available. The gravel will be four inches thick and sixteen feet wide.

After Delinquent Taxes

In executive session the court voted to recommend to E. L. Fulton, county attorney, that he place Mrs. Effie Halland in charge of the delinquent tax collections. It is understood that the recommendation was made after the members of the court had discussed the actions of certain county officials with regard to the delinquent tax collections. Mrs. Holland is at present in the employ of District Clerk Kerr, having charge of the filing of the delinquent tax suits. The action of the court in recommending Mrs. Halland was unanimous.

The court set October 24th as the date when bids will be received on an additional sub-contract for the paving of 1,580 feet in Iowa Park as part of the Jonesdale-Clara road project. The street which will be paved extends on Yosemite street from Almeda street to the railroad intersection. Mayor W. R. Arnold of Iowa Park appeared before the court in behalf of the improvement. The work will not be started until the present sub-contracts at Iowa Park and Electra are completed the county not having sufficient funds available for additional work at this time.

Recommends Change of Route

John Wagner, owner of a large amount of land southwest of Iowa Park appeared before the court regarding the route to be taken in the opening of the new road north of Beaver creek. Part of the road southwest of Iowa Park has been opened. He recommended that the road cross the creek near the Rock Point schoolhouse. The route as previously agreed upon is entirely north of the creek. The court postponed action while property owners concerned had added time to come to some agreement as to the route that is the most desirable.

The court discussed several matters in regard to county roads but no final action was taken on the questions that arose. The discussion indicated that the court will act favorable on the recommendation of Commissioner Lee Prescott that the two miles of paving from Burkburnett to the Red river bridge be made a sub-contract and let as soon as possible. Means whereby materials for the concrete roads now under construction can be secured cheaper were discussed.

YOUTH TELLS OF ORIGIN OF GARAGE FIRE

An investigation into the cause of the fire Sunday night at the Valentine auto painting shop, at 406 Lee street, by Commissioner Fitts resulted Monday in a written statement by Tom Stilwall, aged 18, an employee, that the fire was caused by unintentionally dropping a lighted match in a gas tank.

The boy was drawing gasoline out of one of the cars in the paint shop to secure fuel for a car which he intended to use that night, when according to the statement, he struck a match to find how much he had put in the tank. The fire reached the gasoline on his hand, burning him, the pain from the burn causing him to drop the lighted match into a gas tank, he said in the statement.

When he saw the place was on fire, the statement sets out, he realizing the futility of any efforts to put it out ran away. He later returned, he said, when the firemen had arrived.

Commissioner Fitts was called upon by the owner of the shop to determine the origin of the fire. When confronted by Fitts the boy first denied knowing anything about the fire, later telling the whole story.

There was no charge placed against the boy as he was an employe of the shop, had the keys and the fire was accidental.

COURT FINDS BURK WOMAN SHOT SELF

Following an all afternoon session of a court of inquiry called to investigate the death of Mrs. J. L. Bell, who was found dead on September 18, at her home in Burkburnett, Justice of the Peace Gwinn announced late Monday that in his opinion, Mrs. Bell's death occurred from self-inflicted gun shot wounds.

A large number of Burkburnett residents testified at the inquiry which was secret. The finding of Justice of Peace Gwinn is the same as that of Justice of the Peace Thorne of Burkburnett, who conducted an inquiry immediately after the death. The second inquiry it is understood, was brought about at the request of relatives and friends of the deceased.

Mrs. Bell was found dead in a room of her home Sunday afternoon September 18, soon after neighbors had heard a pistol shot in the house. Her death was caused by a pistol bullet, which lodged near the heart. A pistol was found near the body.

BOND ISSUE IS VOID, KEELING LETTER SAYS

Assistant Attorney General W. A. Keeling agrees with W. P. Dumas, also an assistant in the attorney general's office, that the $100,000 bond issue for the erection of branch hospitals at Burkburnett, Iowa Park and Electra cannot be approved according to a letter received by County Attorney E. L. Fulton and read Monday before the county commissioner's court.

Mr. Dumas who made the first unfavorable ruling on the bond issue said in the letter that final action awaited the return of Attorney General Cureton adding that Mr. Keeling had agreed with him as to the validity of the bond issue.

The legal objection to the bond issue is based on the fact that the election in which the issue was voted was held within a year after the county first voted an issue of $75,000 for the erection of an addition to the county hospital in this city. The assistants in the attorney general's department to whom the matter has been submitted have held that the election was contrary to state law in spite of the fact that the first $75,000 bond issue election was held void and another election ordered on which date the $100,000 was also voted. The $75,000 bond issue has been approved by the attorney general's department.

It is known that County Attorney E. L. Fulton is still hopeful that Attorney General Cureton's attitude in the matter will be favorable. If not the issue will probably come up for vote at the end of the one year period.

YOUNG COUNTY MEN RETURNED TO TRIAL

SHERIFF WILL NOT RESIGN, SAYS MONDAY

"I am not going to resign now or any other time and you may add for those who apparently want to know, that I will be in the race for re-election next year,' declared Fred K. Smith, sheriff, when asked Monday concerning the rumors that he was going to resign his office.

The rumor regarding the sheriff's resignation was prevalent at the courthouse Monday morning reports being to the effect that he was going to hand in his resignation to the county commissioner's court then in session.

When asked concerning the report Sheriff Smith said that he had heard the same rumor with numerous inquiries being made at the office regarding his attitude in the matter. He has held the office less than a year.

ASKS $50,000 OF BURK-TEX CO. IN SUIT

Alleging failure to carry out an agreement for the sale of three-fifths of the stock of the Burk-Tex Production company, W. T. Seeger and J. B. Warren, brought suit Monday in the 50th District court against J. D. Smith, trustee of the company for $50,000 and for the appointment of a receiver for the company pending the settlement of the suit.

According to petition the defendant entered into an agreement with the plaintiff to sell them the controlling interest in the company for a consideration of $75,000 of which $25,000 was to be cash.

The plaintiffs allege that they have always been willing to carry out the agreement as made but that the defendant has refused to abide by the contract.

The Burk-Tex Production company operates a refinery south of Burkburnett on the Wichita Falls and Northwestern railroad. The company has an authorized capitalization of $5,000,000 according to the petition also has some production in the Burkburnett field.
