Group decries council fund allocations

James Fuller

A special session of the Midland City Council Monday night became heated as several members of Midland's African-American community voiced disagreements with the council's allocation of city economic development funds and city development block grant funds.

"I have a serious problem with how the council disperses these funds since there are no state and federal guidelines," said local educator Alma Marshall.

James Fuller, of the Midland Black Chamber of Entreprenuers, believes the minority community, particularly those residing on the city's southeast side, are not receiving their fair share of the taxpayer's money.

"It is apparent relative to the expenditure of generated tax money that we are being treated unfair," he said. "I'm not just talking about this year. I'm talking about the last 10, 20 and 30 years. The question is why? Why are we being treated as such?"

Councilman J.D. Faircloth countered that Fuller was being unfair.

"The council has always placed a high priority on minority funding. We selectively try to fund as many projects as possible to benefit as many as possible," he said. "We're trying now. We can't do anything about what happened 50 years ago."

The city has allocated $270,000 of federal grant money to pave five streets on the southeast side, but residents aren't satisfied and questioned the council about the condition of southeast alleys.

Faircloth said that there are many alleys on the northwest side of town in

U.N. condemnation

UNITED NATIONS — On the eve of Mideast peace talks in Washington, the United States joined the U.N. Security Council on Monday in strongly condemning Israel's planned deportation of 12 Palestinians from the occupied territories. The 15-member council voted unanimously to condemn the expulsion orders, calling them a violation of international law and asking Israel to halt all deportations and allow the deported people to return./3A

Garrett wins stay

HUNTSVILLE — Gov. Ann Richards, who said she received a personal appeal from Pope John Paul II, granted a 30-day reprieve late Monday to a man convicted of raping and killing a 76-year-old nun at a convent more than 10 years ago. The stay came about 10 p.m., only hours before Johnny Frank Garrett, 28, was scheduled to be executed. It was the first time since Texas resumed carrying out the death penalty in 1982 that a governor had intervened to stop an execution. /2B

Six found dead

ROSWELL, N.M. — A man apparently killed his wife and four of their children at their mobile home, then shot himself to death at shooting range, police said Monday. "We're treating this as a homicide-suicide," said Deputy Police Chief Ray Mounts. Police gave no motive for the slayings. Officers had gone to the trailer before and had been there as recently as Friday, but Mounts would not say why. A relative Monday found the bodies of Rita Lasiter, 35, and four children Kristen, 2; James, 4; Ernie, 8; and Leslie, 11, in a bed at the home.

Filmmaker reacts

LOS ANGELES — Filmmaker Oliver Stone took on a former Warren Commission staffer who wrote that the "JFK" movie director distorted history for profit. Stunned by commission staffer Richard M. Mosk's criticism of the film, Stone wrote in a Los Angeles Times "Counterpunch" column that "Mosk is not interested in serious inquiry, he is looking only to whitewash the Warren Commission. It is a tragedy for this country that its 'respectable' and 'honorable' men, its jurists, government officials, media Establishment, continue to participate in the greatest lie ever put across on the American people," Stone wrote.

High-stakes trade talks' stage is set

■ President arrives in Japan, hopes to win concessions that will prop up the U.S. economy.

Associated Press

OSAKA, Japan — President Bush, headed for a trade showdown in Japan today after saying that political foes were trying to trip him up with unrealistic expectations. Automakers back home reported big sales declines, underlining a major sore point Bush is sure to address in Japan.

With pressure building in both Tokyo and Washington, there were fresh signs that Japan was readying trade concessions to try to make Bush's trip a success. He has billed his visit as a bid to find jobs for Americans by tearing down Japanese trade barriers.

Japanese Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa said Monday that his country must be a "friend in need" to an economically struggling United States and that he would do everything he could to help U.S. automakers improve their sales in Japan.

In Detroit, the Big Three automakers were confirming their worst sales year since 1983. Ford Motor Co. said its 1991 sales dropped 13.6 percent from the year before and Chrysler Corp. reported a 14.7 percent drop. General Motors Corp., the world's largest automaker, was still to report its figures.

Autos account for about three-fourths of the $41 billion trade gap between Japan and the United States.

Bush arrived in Osaka from Seoul today on the final leg of his four-nation Pacific tour. The business portion of his trip will begin Wednesday following a visit to the Imperial Palace in Kyoto, an address to students, and a visit to a newly opened Toys R Us store in nearby Nara. He was met at the airport by former Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu.

In South Korea, the administration revealed it had privately approached North Korea about holding talks within a week or two on the issue of Pyongyang's nuclear-weapons potential.

North Korea replied that it was inter-

2-hour blackout paralyzes D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A two-hour blackout paralyzed much of the nation's capital Monday evening, trapping people in elevators and snarling rush hour traffic.

The outage hit at about 5:10 p.m. and lights began popping back on about an hour and 40 minutes later. All power was restored by 7:45 p.m., said Debra Leak, a spokeswoman for the Potomac Electric Power Co.

"What are you going to do? That's life in the city," Tim Sheehy said of being stranded by the tangled traffic and having his commute home delayed.

Fire Department officials responded to some 80 cases of people stranded in elevators, officials said. At the U.S. Trade Representative's office, workers were trapped behind electronic security doors

FDA calls for moratorium on silicone breast implants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration asked surgeons on Monday to quit giving women breast implants made of silicone gel, saying it "cannot assure the safety of these devices" pending an evaluation of new information about them.

The action fell short of the outright ban sought by some critics of the devices that are implanted in about 150,000 women a year and have been on the market for more than 30 years. But it would stop their use until the FDA and an advisory panel, to be convened within 45 days, can assess the latest data.

Never before has the agency called for a halt, even temporarily, to use of a medical device employed so widely. The action was based, in part, on new reports regarding ruptures and "anecdotal" evidence that recipients may be at

Khrushchev saw crisis as Soviet victory, letters show

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contrary to the popular view of the time, Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev considered the outcome of the 1962 Cuban missile crisis a significant Soviet victory because he elicited a pledge from President Kennedy not to invade Cuba.

Khrushchev's thoughts were outlined in an extraordinary exchange of post-crisis letters with Kennedy that the State Department made public on Monday after keeping them secret for more than 29 years.

The letters highlight the hopes, fears and deep mistrust of the two leaders as they sought to come to grips with the aftermath of the most dangerous nuclear crisis the world has confronted.

The disclosure of the letters ended a four-year campaign for their release by the National Security Archives, a private foreign policy research group based in Washington. All told, 15 letters between Oct. 30 and Dec. 19, 1962, were released.

Two days after the crisis ended, Khrushchev wrote Kennedy, "We received your assurances that you would not invade Cuba and would not permit others to do it and on this condition we withdraw the weapons which you called offensive."

"As a result, there has been practically achieved the purpose which had been intended to be achieved through the shipments of means of defense."

At the time, the outcome of the crisis was widely viewed as an American triumph because Kennedy had been able to induce Khrushchev to dismantle the missiles the Soviets had secretly sent to the island but which were detected by U.S. reconnaissance planes.

There is little new information contained in the letters, but they underscored once again the difficulties the two sides experienced in working out the final details of the tentative agreement that defused the threat of a nuclear holocaust.

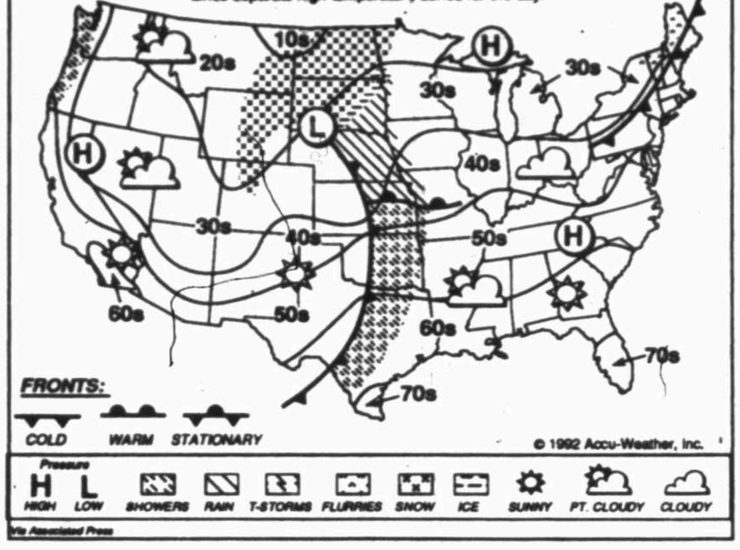

The exchanges indicated the concern of the two leaders that the agreement could have fallen apart, reviving the crisis all over again.

For his part, Kennedy expressed grave

Sunny skies forecast

Staff Report

Today's forecast calls for mostly sunny skies with a high near 60 with southwest to west winds at 15 to 25 mph and gusty by noon. Tonight should be fair and colder with a low in the upper 20s, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Wednesday should be mostly sunny with a high in the mid-50s.

After an overnight low of 34, Monday's high reached 65 compared to the record high for that date of 75 set in 1935. The record low for that date is 11 set in 1970.

STATE

Spotty light fog and haze hung Monday over parts of the state, as a low pressure system over the southern Rockies continued pushing toward West Texas.

Temperatures Monday varied from 53 in Temple to 73 in Del Rio.

High cloudss remained over much of North Texas. A few small patches of fog lingered in the central part.

Across South Texas, it was mostly clear, although the Coastal Plains and Southeast remained cloudy and foggy.

A few showers dotted the South Plains and the Panhandle from south of Midland to north of Amarillo.

The National Weather Service said skies should be cloudy in North Texas through Wednesday with a chance of thunderstorms. Highs today will be in the mid-60s. Lows will be from 38 to 50 degrees.

Forecasters say South Texans also can expect cloud cover today and possible thunderstorms. Storms will be more numerous in the east and central portions of the region. Temperatures will be from the 50s to the 70s.

West Texas, meanwhile, will see decreasing clouds, with fair to partly cloudy skies. Highs today will be in the 50s and 60s. Lows will dip into the 20s.

NATION

A storm spread locally heavy snow over parts of the West on Monday, and snow was scattered from the northern Plains to the Appalachians.

At midday, snow showers extended over the mountains of California, Nevada, northern Arizona, southwestern Oregon and the Rockies.

In central Nevada, the storm dumped 22 inches of snow at Austin, and a foot of snow fell on Mount Charleston, near Las Vegas, the National Weather Service said.

By midday, Flagstaff, Ariz., had 13 inches of new snow. About a foot of new snow fell halfway between Flagstaff and Williams, about 30 miles to the west, and about 6 inches of snow fell at Williams.

Utah snowfall by mid-morning included nearly 10 inches at higher elevations near Richfield, 7 inches at Bryce Canyon, 4 inches at Monticello and 3 inches at Hanksville. Wind gusted to 55 mph at Springville.

Rain was scattered over eastern New Mexico, and at lower elevations in central California. Showers and occasional thunderstorms were scattered over south-central Arizona.

For today, a snow advisory was posted across western Colorado, with a winter storm watch in effect over the state's northern and central mountains.

Snow advisories were in effect for today over south-central Montana, with a winter storm watch posted over southeastern Montana.

Snow showers also extended over northern North Dakota, northern Minnesota, the upper Ohio Valley and the northern half of the Appalachians.

A winter storm watch was in effect through today for all of North Dakota.

Freezing rain fell over central and west-central Iowa.

Elsewhere, a blizzard watch was in effect through today near Barrow, Alaska, along the Arctic Coast, with wind chills near 70 below zero.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

TALKS: President flies to Japan for showdown

(From 1A)

ested but wanted a delay, officials said.

South Korea also announced it was canceling this spring's annual joint U.S.-Korean military exercises called "Team Spirit" in a gesture aimed at easing tensions with the communist North. The announcement followed reports that North Korea had agreed to sign a nuclear safeguards agreements.

On Monday Bush joined Korean President Roh Tae-woo in offering to cancel the exercises — which North Korea views as an act of aggression — in exchange for Pyongyang's willingness to follow through on a commitment to Seoul to permit nuclear inspectors.

Bush told South Korean lawmakers that North Korea's "pursuit of nuclear arms stands as the single greatest source of danger to peace in all of Northeast Asia."

The emphasis on security issues overshadowed disputes with South Korea on economic barriers. However, the trade issue will take center stage when Bush arrives in Tokyo today, the last stop on a 26,000-mile tour through Australia and Asia.

A group of 18 business leaders — including chiefs of the Big Three automakers — will be part of Bush's delegation, helping him try to pry open Japanese markets.

In addition, Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady flew to Tokyo on Monday to join Bush in his trade talks with the Japanese. Brady decided to make the trip over the weekend, according to Deputy Secretary Claire Buchan, who said she was unaware of any unexpected development that contributed to the decision.

The stakes are high for Bush and Miyazawa.

Both face crucial election tests this year, and each man is suffering sagging popularity ratings. Both sides seem determined to find a formula allowing Bush to declare a victory from his visit.

"I can guarantee you, political opponents — no matter what is achieved — will be saying, 'Hey, you didn't jump quite high enough; you need to get over the bar. We've just raised it another foot.' But that's politics," the president said.

At every stop on his Asian trip, Bush has hammered Japan for what the administration considers protectionist trade policies. In Australia last week, Bush fairly skipped over issues between those two countries and demanded "fair play" from the government in Tokyo.

"I want to see us get more jobs created in the United States, eventually, by concessions made or by positions taken in Japan," Bush said.

By his methodical rhetorical buildup ahead of the Japan visit, Bush has raised the political stakes. Democrats have pounced on the opening, saying his trip will be a failure unless he comes home with a commitment from Tokyo to eliminate its trade surplus within five years.

In Tokyo, Miyazawa said he would do all he could "to see to it that more American cars can come free of encumbrances."

He also said he is trying to persuade the Japanese auto industry to do more to expand imports of American cars and car parts.

Tokyo has a $41 billion trade surplus with the United States.

IMPLANTS: Action falls short of outright ban greater risk of immunity system disorders.

The moratorium does not affect saline filled breast implants, which will continue to be available. Saline implants are encased in silicone, but are not believed to pose the same risk as silicone-gel implants since rupture or leakage releases salt water, rather than silicone gel, into the body.

According to FDA figures, about 1 million women have received silicone gel breast implants, and more than 10,000 receive implants monthly. About 80 percent are for cosmetic purposes, with the rest used to reconstruct breasts removed as the result of disease or injury.

The FDA had previously estimated that 2 million women were affected based on the number of reported implants but it halved that estimate Monday because most women receive two implants instead of one, agency spokeswoman Betsy Adams said.

The FDA has received about 3,400 reports of problems with silicone gel breast implants and 3,000 reports on saline implants.

"Until the panel meets and we have had an opportunity to review its recommendations, I am asking that physicians cease using silicone gel implants," FDA Commissioner David Kessler told a news conference. "As physicians, our first obligation is to do no harm."

Kessler set no time limit on the moratorium, but said the agency would move as quickly as possible to resolve the issue.

The American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons said its members would comply, but its president, Dr. Norman Cole, called on Kessler to release the new information that triggered the moratorium.

"If the commissioner has new information it is essential that it become available to physicians and their patients," Cole said.

Kessler also asked manufacturers to stop distributing the implants, and companies said they were complying though they disagreed with the FDA's action.

"We are still totally convinced that we have established both the safety and the efficacy of these . . . devices," said Robert T. Rylee, chairman of Dow Corning Corp.'s Health Care Businesses.

Another Dow Corning official, Barbara Carmichael, said, "We believe the process up until this point has been compromised by politics and not a fair and equitable review of the science. And all that has done is provide a huge amount of concern on the part of women in this country."

Jan Varner, president of McGahn Medical Co., a leading manufacturer of silicone gel implants, said the FDA's action is "panicking a lot of people" when "we don't have any scientific reason to concern them." He called the FDA's action "unfortunate" and said "we're going to explore all recourse, and hopefully it won't take 45 days."

Dr. Sidney M. Wolfe, director of the Public Citizen Health Research Group, said the FDA's action is inadequate.

"I think it's irresponsible for the FDA to do anything other than recall" silicone gel implants, he said.

BLACKOUT: Power outage hits parts of D.C.

(From 1A)

that quit working when the power went out.

"We're using candlelight and matches over here," said Victoria Clark, who was using the only working phone in the building.

Pepco officials said a 230,000-volt line failed somewhere between the company's Potomac River generating station in Alexandria, Va., and the District of Columbia. A 480-megawatt generating station also failed and the cause was not known, the utility said.

About 18,000 customers were out of service, Pepco said, although one customer could be an entire office building. Traffic signals failed and, in some places, smoke rose from the manholes.

John Kwitkoski, a businessman who works in a downtown office building, stood in the middle of a heavily traveled downtown artery, K Street, directing traffic.

"Someone had to do it," said Kwitkoski, dressed in a suit and waving a flashlight he had bought at the Radio Shack on the corner. "It's a mess."

J.L. O'Neil, a battalion fire chief, said that the outage caused a fire in electric cables under the streets near the Chinatown section of Washington.

He said the tunnels under 6th street were "clogged with smoke," forcing firefighters to go several blocks away to fight the blaze and prevent it from spreading.

Kenny Tung stood calmly outside his Chinese restaurant which had an alarm bell ringing. Tung said he didn't mind that patrons cleared out, but he was worried about refrigeration.

"We have meat. We'll have to throw it away," he said. "I'm worried."

The city's subway system said it had several people trapped in elevators at its Archives station and two at the Smithsonian subway stop. They were released within a half an hour.

Three downtown subway stations were blacked out, allowing people free rides as turnstiles stopped but trains continued to run, subway officials said.

George Washington University Hospital was blacked out, said a hospital operator who said emergency generators had kicked on.

The outage was spotty. The Supreme Court and Securities and Exchange Commission were darkened but the White House, the Capitol building and the Pentagon were unaffected.

FUND: Council's special session becomes heated comparable deteriorating condition.

Robbyne (Hocker) Fuller, outgoing president of the Midland Black Chamber of Entreprenuers, asked about the $28,000 set aside for the African-American community to develop jobs.

The City Council previously awarded the money to the Southeast Coalition instead of the black chamber. The coalition operates from the Northeast YMCA.

"The council made the decision to grant the funds to an untried entity," Ms. Fuller said. "But we have the computers and the facilities for job training now."

The black chamber had requested $104,000 to be used for job development but it was denied several months ago.

"That money ($28,000) is salary money. You need at least $40,000 for a survey to find out what jobs are needed alone. That other group just picked up the crumbs and we're going to hold them (the Southeast Coalition) accountable at the end of the year," Ms. Fuller said. "But we (the black chamber) will be all right. They can't kill us."

The City Council claims the money was denied the black chamber because of a question regarding whether they were a legal tax-exempt entity.

"First, we determined that they accepted donations from companies who thought (the black chamber) was tax exempt, which they are not," Faircloth said. "And second, we did not feel they were creating enough jobs."

Faircloth's comments prompted a reaction from James Fuller.

"Don't tell me that you (minorities) are going to sit and listen to this . . . that is intended to discredit the black community," he said. "The City Council doesn't understand that minorities are a part of this community. This is purely a 'plantation mentality.'"

Ms. Fuller accused the council of attempting to "divide and conquer" the minority community.

"But I've got news for them — there is no division within the black community," she said.

The session was held at Casa de Amigos, 1101 E. Garden Lane.

LETTERS: Khrushchev considered crisis a victory

(From 1A)

concern about the opposition of President Fidel Castro to outside verification that the missiles had indeed been withdrawn and to initial refusal to go along with the U.S. demand that several high-performance Soviet bombers be removed as part of the bargain.

While Khrushchev sought to minimize the significance of the bombers, Kennedy said their presence in Cuba was a matter of "great importance" to the United States.

"These bombers could carry nuclear weapons for long distances, and they are clearly not needed, any more than missiles, for purely defensive purposes on the island of Cuba," Kennedy wrote in reply to the Soviet leader

"Thus in the present context their continued presence would sustain the grave tension that has been created, and their removal, in my view, is necessary to a good start on ending the recent crisis."

After weeks of sparring, the flap over the bombers ended during the third week of November with an agreement to return them to the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev, in turn, questioned the good faith of the American side and wrote to Kennedy more than a week after the crisis supposedly was settled that the danger was not yet over because of American actions.

Criticizing the continued American blockade of Cuba and alleged U.S. violation of Cuban territorial waters and airspace, Khrushchev wrote:

"If this continues, confidence in your obligations will thus be undermined, which can only . . . throw us back to the positions to which we must not return after the liquidation of such a dangerous situation."

CASTRO: Councilman hopes to stay

(From 1A)

"We don't really want to leave Midland. We have lived here for nine years and have a lot of good friends, and this is a great place to raise a family."

Before packing his wife — a teacher at Travis Elementary School — and his two sons (ages 9 and 13) off to El Paso, Castro said he is going to make an effort to find another job in Midland.

"I have sent out resumes to local businesses and I know it may take time to find another job," he said.

The councilman said he will continue working for Southwestern Bell in the meantime, and will commute from Midland to El Paso. "I will definitely attend the two council meetings in January," he said.

"I will probably know by the end of January, or even February if anything looks promising. If I can't find something in Midland, then I will resign from the City Council," he said.

He said he worked in El Paso for about 15 months while employed with the telephone company. "I really prefer Midland," he said. "I'm going to give it a shot and try to find something here in order to stay here. And if not . . . well, then I will do what I've got to do."

U.N. condemns Israel's planned deportations

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — On the eve of Mideast peace talks in Washington, the United States joined the U.N. Security Council on Monday in strongly condemning Israel's planned deportation of 12 Palestinians from the occupied territories.

The 15-member council voted unanimously to condemn the expulsion orders, calling them a violation of international law and asking Israel to halt all deportations and allow the deported people to return.

Nasser al-Kidwa, Palestine's U.N. observer, told the council before the vote that a strong rebuke of Israel could encourage the Palestinian delegation to attend the talks in Washington this week.

French Ambassador Jean-Bernard Merimee said that was, indeed, the intention of the vote.

■ Related story/7A

"We hope that a resolution condemning the deportations will bring the Palestinians back to the negotiating table and have a positive effect on the peace process," the French envoy said.

Israeli Ambassador Yoram Aridor said the wording of the resolution was the harshest ever directed at the Jewish state over deportations. He said Israel would continue to use deportations to defend itself against terrorism.

In Jerusalem, a military appeals board Monday rejected a request to postpone a hearing on the appeals of the 12 Palestinians, the army said. Lawyers for the 12 had said they needed more time to prepare their cases.

The United States, which has used its veto to shield its Israeli ally in the past, has pointedly joined in council criticism of expulsions of Palestinians several times in the past year. The last council criticism over expulsions was in May.

The group of 12 was the largest number of Palestinians Israel has ever ordered deported.

Arab and Western diplomats had said the expulsion orders were undermining the peace process and tainting the atmosphere of the talks, scheduled to resume today.

Israeli delegates arrived in Washington on Monday.

All the Arab delegates to the talks postponed their travels to Washington to protest the deportation order.

Nasser Al-Kidwa, Palestine's U.N. observer, told the Security Council in a letter that Israel had "intensified its aggression and human rights violations against the Plaestinian people living under the illegal military occupation."

Rebels oust Soviet Georgia's president

TBILISI, Georgia (AP) — Rebel soldiers fired jubilantly into the air and toasted their victory over ousted President Zviad Gamsakhurdia on Monday, but many Georgians returned to their shattered capital with little to celebrate.

After 16 days of fighting, the city's main street was littered with broken glass, wrecked cars and trucks. Most buildings in central Tbilisi were damaged or destroyed, and tree limbs were sheared off by bullets and cannon shells

"I don't think I can justify either side, or that either side has scored a victory," said Alexander Ugrelidze, a construction worker. "Everything that has been destroyed will be a burden upon the people. They could have removed the president some other way."

Black smoke hung over the city as Gamsakhurdia's abandoned headquarters — the yellow marble Parliament building of this former Soviet republic — burned into the night.

Gamsakhurdia and his supporters shot their way out of the building and sped away before dawn Monday unhindered by opposition fighters. His motorcade drove to neighboring Azerbaijan, but he later was reported in Idjevan, an Armenian border community.

Gamsakhurdia, a former dissident poet overwhelmingly elected in a popular election in May, was accused by the opposition of becoming a dictator. He had jailed many critics, closed critical newspapers and provoked the clash that toppled him by demanding that the opposition disarm.

The men who overthrew the 52-year-old president announced they would try to form a civilian coalition government and hoped to call elections as early as April. They also demanded Gamsakhurdia's extradition for a possible trial, even though they let him go.

"We said we were leaving them an exit on purpose, so that they could leave without bloodshed," said one of the leaders of the new ruling military council, playwright Dzhaba Ioseliani.

The fighting left at least 73 people dead and 400 wounded.

Ioseliani, a paramilitary leader, dismissed fears by some that Gamsakhurdia or his supporters might continue the fight from outside the capital.

■ Yugoslavs, Croats establish hotline

MIRKOVCI, Yugoslavia — Federal and Croat soldiers unreeled a thin white wire through the mud of this battle-scarred village Monday, creating a tenuous line of communication for the latest truce in Yugoslavia's civil war.

The 15th cease-fire in the six-month civil war entered its fourth day with only minor violations.

The key mechanism of the truce — to get both sides to talk rather than fire back when gunfire rings out along the front — was being bolstered at sites of heavy fighting with telephone hot lines linking opposing commanders.

With signs the truce was beginning to halt the fighting, U.N. Secretary-General Butros Ghali said Monday that 50 advance military observers would be dispatched immediately to Yugoslavia.

■ Police discover dead Bulgarian general

SOFIA, Bulgaria — A former deputy interior minister accused of destroying files on the 1978 assassination of dissident Georgi Markov was found dead Monday, police said, two days before he was to go on trial.

Gen. Stojan Savov apparently committed suicide, said a Interior Ministry spokesman in Sofia.

Maj. Spas Marinkov, duty officer in Pazardzhik, 60 miles east of Sofia, said the body of Savov, 68, was found in the nearby village of Lesichevo, his birthplace.

Savov was found shot in the right temple, with a revolver near his body, according to the Interior Ministry spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity. The spokesman said a letter found beside the body was addressed to the general's wife.

Markov, a writer and journalist who left Bulgaria in the early 1970s, was killed in London in September 1978. Investigators say Markov was jabbed with the poisoned tip of an umbrella.

■ Quebec judge allows woman to die

TORONTO — A Quebec judge on Monday approved a request by a 25-year-old woman that her doctor be authorized to switch off the respirator that has kept her alive for the last two and a half years, setting what legal experts described as a new precedent for such cases in Canada. Jacques Dufour, a judge of Quebec's Superior Court, issued the ruling five weeks after the woman put her request directly to a court hearing that convened in her hospital room in Quebec City.

■ Russia refuses shipment of British beef

LONDON — There may be no meat in most Russian food stores, and prices for what little there is may be shooting skyward, but agricultural inspectors in Moscow turned up their noses at a shipment of 120 tons of British beef on Sunday, fearing that it was infected by "mad cow disease."

Instead, after hours of wrangling and telephone calls between Moscow, Brussels (headquarters of the European Community, which is providing the beef as part of an emergency food aid program for Moscow and Leningrad), and London, the Russians sent the Russian cargo plane carrying the shipment off to the Arctic Circle.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A cautious, step-by-step approach helps you chart the best path to success. Changes in the economy could put extra cash in your pocket by spring. Travel leads to an employment offer in the summer. Take a chance on love next October and you could find lasting happiness! Do not lose track of old friends while climbing the ladder of success.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: TV host Katie Couric, actor Nicholas Cage, cartoonist Charles Addams, singer Kenny Loggins.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Postpone buying anything expensive for your home until all family members are in agreement. Reopen the lines of communication with relatives or pen pals at a distance.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Friends who get in touch with you now have interesting news to relate. Avoid making a firm financial commitment. This is not a good day to sign papers. A dream proves prophetic.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It could be late in the day before wisdom overcomes confusion. Avoid jumping to conclusions. Take the lead in a fund-raising effort for the poor. Your actions will influence others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Focus on creative endeavors this morning, then go shopping for the unusual and beautiful. Avoid buying too many things on credit. Spice up your love life by dining someplace special this evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A full day's work awaits you. Do what needs to be done with a minimum of fanfare. A complete change of scene is advised for after work. Pursue an artistic hobby at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Make "share and share alike" your motto the whole day through. A research project gets off to a good start. Set aside time for fun and complete relaxation tonight. Mate shows tenderness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Face a personal dilemma squarely. You can no longer afford to sit on the fence. Cheerful companions are the best antidote for pessimism this afternoon. Consider taking a class on weekends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stop taking yourself so seriously. Lighten up around your business associates. Romance holds some interesting twists and turns. Remember your New Year's resolutions!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Look before you leap where business matters are concerned. A promise should not be made until you have had more time to reflect. A couple of days' wait will not be detrimental.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Wait until you have all available information at your fingertips before making a decision. Recreational pursuits can set you back if you try to keep up with the Joneses.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You need to be more conservative in your spending. Find out exactly what you are getting into before putting your money down. Dinner for two at your favorite restaurant is a special treat.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Failure to guard precious possessions could lead to their loss or damage. Leave your best jewelry home when going to public places. An important relationship reaches a turning point.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are frugal when they have to be, generous when they have extra funds in hand. Good money managers, these Capricorns are experts at stretching a dollar. Unafraid of hard work, they willingly tackle the tough classes that their peers try to avoid. They are impressed by power and tend to choose a spouse who has influence or wealth. Affectionate and protective, they make excellent, nurturing parents.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♡

The theme of avoidance—keeping the danger hand off lead—was first broached by two great British writers, Terence Reese and Albert Dormer. It was the pivotal technique on this hand.

North had a close decision between a response of one no trump and a spade raise. Over one no trump South would have shown the diamonds, then bid the diamonds again after partner's spade preference as a game try. With an ace, a key queen and three spades, North would have had just enough to jump to four spades. On the actual sequence, South was willing to take a shot at game once spades were raised.

West led a heart to East's ace, and declarer ruffed the heart return. Obviously, trumps would have to break 3-2—there was no way for declarer to keep control if they were 4-1. Even then there was a problem. If West gained the lead early, a club through dummy's A Q would be fatal should East hold the king.

West had to be kept off lead if at all possible. That presented no problem if East held both missing spade honors. However, it was far more likely that the honors were split, in which case West could be denied the lead only if East held a doubleton honor.

As is almost always the case, recognizing the problem makes the solution relatively easy to find. Declarer crossed to the queen of diamonds and led a trump from the table. Had East produced an honor, declarer would have ducked and let the hand that posed no threat to the contract retain the lead. When East followed low, declarer rose with the ace and returned a spade.

In with the queen of trumps, East reverted to hearts. Declarer ruffed and started to run diamonds. West could ruff at any time, but declarer would discard two of dummy's clubs on good diamonds and end up losing only two trump tricks and a heart.

Former Charlotte, N.C., mayor collapses during 10K foot race

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Former Mayor Harvey Gantt collapsed from dehydration about halfway through a 10-kilometer foot race.

Gantt, who will turn 49 on Jan. 14, was held overnight Saturday at Presbyterian Hospital for observation, nursing supervisor Patti Ireland said.

"He's fine, he just got dehydrated," said Gantt's daughter, Erika. "He was just probably running too hard."

Gantt also was treated for dehydration during the 1989 running of The Charlotte Observer Open 10K race.

Democrat Gantt's last bid for office was an unsuccessful attempt in 1990 to oust Republican U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms.

LONDON — Film director Alan Parker, who made "Mississippi Burning" and "Bugsy Malone," was divorced Monday from his wife of 25 years.

Parker

The London Divorce Court granted Annie Parker, 49, an uncontested divorce on grounds of her husband's adultery. They married in 1966.

Mrs. Parker lives in England and Parker's home is in California. He is a British citizen.

"Bugsy Malone," which starred Scott Baio and Jodie Foster, was a 1976 gangster movie spoof in which all the actors were children and the guns shot ice cream. Critics called it extremely eccentric.

The 47-year-old Parker's string of hit films also includes "Fame," "Midnight Express" and "The Commitments."

NEW YORK — Wayne Newton is lonely.

The perennial Las Vegas showman says he finds it difficult to hold a conversation with most people and that it just becomes "small talk."

Newton

"It's just that you're not on the same wavelength," Newton says in February's Spy magazine. "People are careful not to irritate you or anger you. They treat you like you're an eggshell, when, in fact, I guess in some ways you are."

According to Spy, Newton is surrounded by a staff of workers: a bodyguard, an executive secretary, a horse trainer, his sister (who is a governess to his daughter), and his band conductor.

"If I miss anything — I'll tell you what I really miss. I miss buddies," he said. "I don't make a lot of friends, but I'm aware of those people that I could be friends with."

Newton, 49, is also missing his mustache. He appears on the magazine's cover without his trademark pencil-thin mustache.

NEW ORLEANS — Chicken king Al Copeland was recovering Monday in a hospital following surgery for injuries sustained in a snowmobile accident near Lake Tahoe.

Copeland, 46, owner of Popeyes Famous Fried Chicken and Church's Fried Chicken, underwent surgery Sunday at Washoe Medical Center in Reno, Nev. His public relations agency said he was expected to return home to New Orleans later this week.

Copeland's sons, Chris and Al Jr., said their father hit a bump, was thrown off the trail and hit some trees. The impact broke two bones in Copeland's left arm and one in his left thigh.

Al Copeland Jr. said his father was covered with snow, and it took about 10 minutes to find him and dig him out.

LOS ANGELES — Steve Allen, creator and first host of "The Tonight Show," says Jay Leno should do just fine as long as he doesn't let too much talent get in the way.

"You don't have to have any talent at all to be successful as a talk show host," Allen said Monday. "It's not the toughest job in the world."

Allen, host of "The Tonight Show" from 1953 to 1956, said a talk show host merely needs to be attentive, dress well and get a good time slot.

Leno is scheduled to replace Johnny Carson as host in May.

Allen, 70, who is recovering from pneumonia, was named Monday as recipient of the first Lifetime International Humor Award by the International Humor Institute.

The institute, founded in 1986 as a community outreach program, cited him for his "extraordinary contribution to humor throughout his highly successful career." Allen sits on the institute's board.

Public housing proposals good

The nation faces a rising rate of homelessness yet an increasing number of vacancies in public housing. That contradiction makes no sense. The homeless should be moved into vacant housing units but federal policy and its multi-billion-dollar subsidies tend to block that solution.

Public housing authorities obtain funding in proportion to their total number of housing units. They receive money for empty units. Therefore, citing one critical problem, there is no incentive to repair units for occupancy. Residents of these projects have little voice in how they are operated. Public housing authorities — landlords — simply play out a bureaucratic numbers game that keeps them in funds and jobs.

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp is now proposing that tenants receive the power to evict their federal landlords and replace them with new management organizations.

This is a good, hands-on approach to cleaning up the bureaucratic mess at two dozen HUD-designated "troubled public housing authorities." It would allow residents to choose their managers and act in the common good rather than let the bureaucrats play musical chairs with their homes and lives. The Kemp plan would slash federal funding for vacant units and allow private groups to take control of these units from troubled authorities. It is a logical and needed move.

HUD has had a scandalous history of poor management of public housing. In fact, the deterioration of such projects continues.

Private organizations have offered better management by creating not only more viable units but a more peaceful local atmosphere.

The real aim is the efficient use of housing resources and funds, not more welfare failure. The Bush administration and Congress should support Kemp and these changes. They would be good for everyone.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 7, the seventh day of 1992. There are 359 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 7, 1789, the first U.S. presidential election was held. Americans voted for electors who, a month later, chose George Washington to be the nation's first president.

On this date:

In 1610, the astronomer Galileo Galilei sighted four of Jupiter's moons.

In 1782, the first commercial bank in the United States, the Bank of North America, opened in Philadelphia.

In 1800, the 13th president of the United States, Millard Fillmore, was born in Summerhill, N.Y.

In 1927, commercial transatlantic telephone service was inaugurated between New York and London.

In 1942, 50 years ago, the World War II siege of Bataan began.

In 1953, President Truman announced in his State of the Union address that the United States had developed a hydrogen bomb.

In 1955, singer Marian Anderson made her debut with the Metropolitan Opera in New York, performing the role of Ulrica in Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera."

In 1955, the opening of the Canadian Parliament in Ottawa was televised for the first time.

In 1959, the United States recognized Fidel Castro's new government in Cuba.

In 1972, 20 years ago, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist were sworn in as the 99th and 100th justices of the U.S. Supreme Court.

In 1979, Vietnamese forces that had invaded Cambodia on Christmas Day captured the capital of Phnom Penh, overthrowing the Khmer Rouge government.

In 1989, Emperor Hirohito of Japan died in Tokyo at age 87; he was succeeded by his son, Crown Prince Akihito.

Illegal dumping cases bury government

WASHINGTON — America's public lands are being turned into trash heaps by people who bounce off the road through an isolated spot of desert or forest and disgorge their garbage. The "landlord," the Bureau of Land Management in the Interior Department, seems powerless to do anything about it.

Anderson

This isn't simply a matter of old pizza boxes and milk cartons piling up on federal property. In some cases, the dumps are home to rotting animal carcasses and barrels of mysterious chemicals.

BLM has two kinds of dumps to worry about — the ones it rents out to authorized trash haulers and the ones that spring up on their own in places that the BLM never intended to use for dumping. In both cases, the BLM does a lousy job of policing them.

The BLM's own inspector general visited just 18 of the 359 authorized landfills on federal land and found 85 violations of anti-pollution rules set by the BLM itself and the Environmental Protection Agency. The inspectors said the mess amounted to unhealthy and degraded environmental conditions, and that the BLM wasn't doing its job to monitor the land under its stewardship, either at the legal dumps or the illegal ones.

No one expects the BLM to keep enough people on its staff to eyeball every square inch of the 688 million acres of federal land in the United States just to make sure that no one throws an empty beer can on the ground. The taxpayers couldn't afford that kind of vigilance. The taxpayers ask for much less — BLM supervision of the dumps that it authorizes and the illegal ones that it knows about.

The inspector general found that BLM has allowed more than 1,000 unauthorized dump sites to exist in 11 states with virtually no control. The agency was aware of those illegal dumps and even kept an inventory of them, but did nothing to close them, or to clean them up and lease them to authorized dump operators.

At one of the illegal dumps on the BLM list, the inspectors found commercial wastes that may be toxic and had been lying around the dump for nearly 10 years. And there were 55-gallon drums containing unidentified liquids buried at the same dump.

At one of the legal dumps in Utah, the inspectors found about 100 dead animals in various stages of decomposition littering the landscape. Most of them had died from diseases and were thrown there by ranchers in violation of the BLM rules for legal dumps.

The inspector general has a simple suggestion. The BLM should immediately require the operators of the legal dumps who lease the federal land and make money off the trash business to immediately comply with the rules of the EPA and the BLM.

The current report on the condition of the dumps is the second verse of an old song. In 1987, the House Committee on Government Operations issued a report that said the majority of the landfills on BLM land did not meet basic EPA standards. Although the Interior Department said then that corrective action would be taken, only a few landfills in New Mexico showed improvement, according to the latest inspector general survey.

The BLM threw big money into New Mexico, spending $4.6 million to clean up hazardous waste sites. Another $3 million was spent to study more than 300 other sites for possible contamination of the land and water by hazardous wastes. But study alone doesn't remove the hazard. The actual cost of cleaning up the mess may not be known for years.

WILLIAM MURCHISON

Yeltsin's gamble is in reality 'sure-thing'

Economic freedom doesn't cure warts or mend broken romances, but at its depressed or inflated worst, it beats the pants off government control.

Let us keep this idea firmly in mind as Russia, Belarus and Ukraine undertake a crash course in novelties like the right of a buyer and seller to negotiate and act on a fair price.

Murchison

The media's nail-biting mood distracts us. We're supposed to worry about riots breaking out as price controls end in most of the old U.S.S.R. and living costs increase sharply.

This is not to say that Americans worry profoundly about what goes on in foreign countries, or across town for that matter, but we're invited to visualize sharp setbacks in the former Soviet Union's march toward freedom. It has been suggested that if privation spreads in the economically liberated Commonwealth of Independent States, the army might step in. And do what, once it has stepped in? One isn't sure.

It has to be acknowledged, particularly since Americans won't be the ones suffering directly, that life in the C.I.S. won't be any picnic for a while. This begs the question of whether life in the ex-Soviet Union was a picnic.

The old union's woes and sufferings were traceable entirely to the penchant of the regime for controlling everything — factories, schools, churches, homes, jobs, the arts — in excruciating detail. Economically, prices for everything were specified, as were salaries, production quotas, raw material allocations. Nothing was left to chance, which is why, in the end, nothing worked.

State control became a great cancer, to borrow Alexandr Solzhenitsyn's image. The cancer now is being cut out, with vodka for anesthetic and only a rag to bite down on. Is this to say the surgery isn't better than the long, painful dying to which the regime had committed the world's largest nation?

Prices have to find their own marketplace level, free of central control, because otherwise no one knows what a given item is worth. Without free prices, no one can gauge demand; no one knows how much of something to make, or what materials to use in it, or where to sell it, or how much to pay the work force. Shortages and misallocations are inevitable under centralized control. It's like ping-pong in a root cellar at midnight.

Yeltsin's "gamble," as the media call it, is in reality a sure thing. It is going to work, economically. The only question is how quickly. Probably real, real quickly.

Precedents are encouraging. West Germany's economic "miracle" began when Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, abetted by his free-market economics minister, Ludwig Erhart, lifted all rationing and economic controls in one exhilarating swoop. "After two years," as Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp writes in Policy Review, "aggregate gross national product passed its 1938 peak. Total industrial production surged by a staggering 83 percent in 22 months ... Three years later, housing construction had doubled."

Not that price decontrol solves all economic problems. The ex-Soviet Union needs banks; needs a sound currency; needs the sell-off, or just the plain distribution, of government properties, including homes; needs — here is the bottom line — as near-complete an economic freedom as can be effected in a radically imperfect world. If this happens, the rest of the planet should watch out; a new economic superpower will have been born.

Comparisons are, as the saying goes, invidious; but the C.I.S., over time, could outclass the U.S. economy.

The ex-Soviet states are on a descending arc of dependence on government; America's arc of dependence rises scarily in the post-Reagan era as Congress and the White House pile on more and more regulations, higher and higher taxes. Nor does the horseshoe set now living at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue seem worried about this state of affairs, far less eager to correct it.

We need to watch events in Russia all right; not with trepidation, though. With excitement. With intellectual interest. With a certain, I don't know — envy, perhaps?

CHARLEY REESE

Average American will never win argument

I've noticed a peculiarity in American political dialogue. Summed up: you, an ordinary American, ain't ever going to win an argument.

Let's suppose you complain about the high cost of health care. What response do you get from the health-care industry?

Reese

Well, they start with the assumption that costs are immutable from the present level down, but that their rise is inevitable. Then they start blaming you for wanting to stay alive.

The health-care provider argument goes something like this: So health-care costs are too high? Well, what life-saving procedure would you like to eliminate? Would you like your sick baby to die or would you rather let your grandparents die? Want to disconnect the kidney dialysis machines? Want to discontinue cancer treatments? After all, these high costs are your fault: if you didn't live such an imperfect life, you wouldn't get sick. All you have to do is eat a perfect diet, follow a perfect regimen of exercise, learn to handle stress like a Tibetan monk, and then you wouldn't run up the high cost of health care so much.

Oh, yeah? You forgot to mention perfect genes. Where do we shop for those? And what about infections including infections we pick up in the hospital or the doctor's office? Or injuries caused to our health by the drugs you health-care providers prescribe?

Another fallacy in their argument, of course, is that they overlook the fact all of their patients do die despite the high cost of their treatment regime and despite their lifestyle. Sometimes it's a two-for-one deal: the patient dies and the survivor dies of shock when they get the bill for the unsuccessful treatment.

Actually, we ordinary Americans aren't that unreasonable. We expect to pay a lot for extraordinary procedures. What we're after is a way to get ordinary procedures at a less than prohibitive cost.

And what we want is a little honest dialogue instead rationalizations and diatribes.

The health-care field isn't the only one. Complain about insurance costs and they threaten to curtail or eliminate your coverage. Complain about high taxes and they tell you, your children can't get educated. Somehow, it's never give up the politician's excessive staff or other perks.

Complain about being victimized by criminals who already have 15 felony convictions on their record and you'll be told it's your fault because you won't spend enough money to build prisons. Sometimes you're told it's your fault because society is so bad it made the little cuss do it and he couldn't help himself.

So, you are not only responsible for the criminal, the criminal justice system, but also for society in general so shut up and quit complaining.

I can't speak for you, but I'm getting tired of this (expletive). It's bad enough that my taxes are wasted and I don't get (or want) the services I pay for. It's bad enough that it's hard to make any kind of purchase these days without getting ripped off. It's bad enough that the bankers and the lawyers ply the financial piracy trade and destroy jobs by the thousands.

But then they all turn around and blame the victim. It's not the $11 million chief executive officer who is making American business uncompetitive; it's the $7 an hour worker. It was not the select few pirates who went crazy in the 1980s; it was everybody.

It's not the politicians who have made a mess of government. Oh, no, it's the ordinary citizenas if it were we folks back home who pocket the bribes, take the trips, and eat the free lobster.

Okay, hot shots, just keep it up. One of these days you'll join the select company of Marie Antoinette and others who made the mistake of pushing people one quarter inch too far.

Arabs wage peace talks protest over Israeli expulsions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli negotiators arrived Monday for a new round of Mideast peace talks, but the Arabs delayed coming to protest the planned expulsion of 12 Palestinian Arabs from Israeli-held territories.

At the United Nations, the United States joined the other 14 Security Council members on Monday in strongly condemning Israel's planned deportation of the Palestinians. France's U.N. ambassador, Jean-Bernard Merimee, said the 15-0 vote may encourage the Palestinians to return to the negotiating table.

Arab and Western diplomats had said the expulsion orders were undermining the peace process and tainting the atmosphere of the talks, which are scheduled to resume today in Washington.

Eliakim Rubinstein, a senior Israeli negotiator, expressed hope that the Arab negotiators would arrive on time for talks today.

"Agreements have to be honored," Rubinstein said.

Before the negotiations recessed three weeks ago Israeli, Palestinian and Jordanian negotiators informally agreed to resume today.

They are discussing an Israeli proposal to give limited self-government to Palestinians who live on the West Bank and in the Gaza Strip.

Israeli is holding separate negotiations with Syria and Lebanon. In a show of solidarity, the two Arab governments also delayed sending their negotiators here.

Israel said last Thursday it would expel the 12 Palestinians, who are accused of inciting terrorism on the West Bank and in Gaza. Four Israelis have been killed in the territories in the last 10 weeks.

On Monday, an Israeli military appeals board hearing the appeals of the 12 Palestinians rejected a request to postpone deliberations, the army said. No reason was given.

The State Department said last week that it strongly condemned the expulsions as in violation of the Geneva Convention's provisions on treatment of inhabitants of occupied territories.

The State Department said any charges of wrongdoing should be brought to a court for a fair trial based on evidence.

Meanwhile, Richard Boucher, a State Department spokesman, confirmed that an adviser to PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat may be permitted to enter the United States.

The adviser, Nabil Shaat, is ineligible for a visa under a law barring admission of members of groups that promote terrorism.

But the law also provides for waivers, and Boucher said Shaat had requested one. He is scheduled to speak to an Arab group. Boucher said waivers sometimes are granted for speeches.

James J. Zogby, executive director of the Arab American Institute, said Shaat was invited to the group's policy conference, to be held here Jan. 16-19, some three months ago.

"It had nothing to do with the bilaterals," Zogby said.

In the last round of talks two other Palestinians with close ties to the PLO were granted waivers by the Bush administration and joined the delegation as advisers. It was not clear if Shaat will play a similar role.

Assistant Secretary of State Edward P. Djerejian scheduled separate meetings with Israeli negotiators and with Haidar Abdul Shafi, the senior Palestinian delegate.

There was no sign of urgency, however, to get the talks going again.

Rocky Flats plutonium lab ready to open, but problems remain

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Operations at a Rocky Flats plutonium laboratory may resume by the end of the month despite unresolved safety and training problems, officials of the nuclear weapons plant said Monday.

Plutonium operations at the plant have been shut down since December 1989 because of safety and environmental concerns.

James Knight of the U.S. Department of Energy said he thinks plutonium operations in the lab "can be handled safely, but there are a few things ... that we felt ought to be improved before actual operations start."

The lab is used to study plutonium grain size for use in nuclear weapons and radioactive waste produced by the plant.

Knight, director of the department's office of engineering and operations support, headed a team of 30 specialists that reviewed the lab last month.

Rocky Flats, 15 miles northwest of Denver, is the only U.S. plant that makes atomic detonators for nuclear warheads. It's operated for the government by contractor EG&G Inc.

The plant failed a readiness review in July when inspectors couldn't complete some of the required safety checks. An inspector for the Energy Department's Office of Nuclear Safety said the uncompleted review was flawed because inspectors weren't strict enough. A congressional oversight committee criticized plant officials, saying they weren't ready for an inspection.

The two inspections cost taxpayers $1.5 million.

An Energy Department report said some of the unresolved problems mentioned in last month's review include:

■ EG&G management was ineffective in ensuring that adequate corrections were made following the first review in areas such as emergency preparedness, completing personnel training and calibration of safety instruments.

■ Changes in on-the-job training made since the July review are insufficient.

Knight acknowledged that plant officials had to get at least 36 temporary waivers of federal requirements for nuclear installations to resume operations.

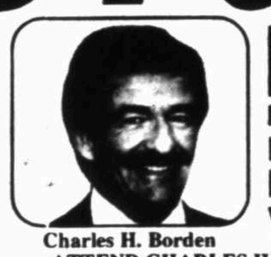

The Associated Press obtained copies of the waivers. One involves radiation safety. The waiver means that until requirements are met, workers could be subject to airborne radiation several times higher than federally accepted guidelines, possibly resulting in "unnecessary worker exposure."

In the interim, plant officials will monitor workers for increased contamination.

■ Number of U.S. murders hits new high

WASHINGTON — The number of murders nationwide last year topped 24,000 for the first time, an increase of 580 over 1990, according to an estimate Monday from the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"A year which saw the rest of the world become safer for Americans saw this nation become less safe for its own citiens," said the committee chairman, Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del.

Biden blamed drug addiction, the "ready availability of deadly high-powered weapons on many American streets," and "rising numbers of violent youths joining gangs and engaging in other criminal activities."

The committee's majority staff estimated that the number of murders rose from 23,440 to 24,020. If the estimate is correct, the total reflects an increase not only in the number of slayings but in the chance of becoming a homicide victim.

■ Officials clear guard, continue Barry probe

WASHINGTON — Federal officials on Monday cleared a prison guard of wrongdoing in an ongoing investigation of allegations that a woman performed oral sex on former Mayor Marion Barry in a public visiting room.

Barry has denied the allegations, calling his accuser a "professional liar."

The Bureau of Prisons, which also investigated claims that the woman was a prostitute, said a criminal check of her done before the visit turned up negative. The bureau said Barry had put the woman's name on the visitors' list six weeks beforehand.

Floyd Archer Robertson, a former inmate at the minimum-security prison in Petersburg, Va., and source of the claims, contended that Barry and a guard had arranged to have the woman visit on Dec. 29 without the normal security checks.

■ Attorney: 'Suicide doctor' won't cooperate

DETROIT — Dr. Jack Kevorkian won't cooperate with a grand jury investigating the deaths of two women who killed themselves using suicide machines he invented, his attorney said.

Kevorkian had been expected to appear before the grand jury Monday.

Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Thompson convened the panel after witnesses refused to testify about the Oct. 29 deaths of the two Michigan women. A medical examiner has declared the deaths homicides, not suicides.

■ Study: Many teens ignore sun dangers

CHICAGO — Teen-agers who most need sunscreens often neglect to use them, especially if their parents failed to insist they do so as children, a study suggests.

Eighty-one percent of 220 teen-agers surveyed said they spend most weekends in the sun, but only 9 percent always used sunscreen, and 33 percent never did, the researchers reported in the January issue of the journal Pediatrics.

New mayor: Philadelphia on brink of disaster

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former prosecutor Edward G. Rendell was sworn in Monday as mayor of the nation's fifth-largest city, which faces many old problems, including tenacious unions, a combative city council and no money.

And in Boston, Mayor Raymond L. Flynn, who heads the U.S. Conference of Mayors, was sworn in for a third term amid controversy over city schools, the police force and the economy.

Rendell, a Democrat, bluntly told a crowd of 7,500 that the city was teetering on the edge of bankruptcy.

"Our situation is worse than we thought it could ever be," he said. "It needs dramatic change from top to bottom. We must begin to face this challenge immediately.

"We simply have no choice because Philadelphia is flat out of time."

Rendell, 48, is a former district attorney who unsuccessfully ran for governor and lost once to Mayor W. Wilson Goode before winning election in November.

Goode has defended his handling of city finances in an era of sharply falling federal and state aid, but declined to comment Monday on Rendell's assessment. Goode, who in 1984 became the city's first black mayor, was barred by law from seeking a third-consecutive term.

Rendell must deal with a cash shortage, start work on a budget and develop a five-year financial plan that is acceptable to the Pennsylvania Intergovernmental Cooperation Authority, an agency set up to oversee city finances.

According to Rendell's own financial adviser, F. John White, the city had $20 million to $30 million in the bank Monday. The city budget is more than $2 billion.

Still, Rendell called his inaugural address a "message of hope."

"While it is true that Philadelphia stands on the brink of total disaster, it is also true that it stands on the brink of tremendous opportunities and challenges," he said.

If Philadelphia turns around, Rendell said, "this city not only can survive, it can come alive again with a thriving economy, strong neighborhoods, and a dynamic downtown that can serve as a magnet to conventions, tourists and suburbanites alike."

He offered no specific changes.

He asked voters "to accept short-run sacrifices and pain that will allow us to get through the near future." He appealed to the 17-member Council, sworn in with him, "to put aside politics, partisanship and personal gain to forge a working relationship with me."

Rendell faces negotiations this winter and spring with all four city unions. The city is expected to at least seek concessions on benefits and holidays. In some cases, Rendell has said he will try to replace city workers with private employees to save money.

Rendell and new council president John Street met informally with reporters after the inauguration and pledged to work together — starting with the five-year financial plan, which is required before the city can borrow more than $200 million with the help of the state authority.

"People are more apt to cooperate with new leadership," said Street.

Gramm seeks tax cut financed by Pentagon rollback

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Republican campaign committee called Monday for a tax cut financed by a reduction in Pentagon spending.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said he would oppose diverting any military spending toward domestic programs, as leading Democrats proposed last week. He also rejected any move to increase the federal deficit as a way to boost the economy.

Instead, he said, Pentagon spending should be cut 5 percent, from $291 billion this year to $275 billion by fiscal 1995, to provide a $416 increase in the personal exemption from federal income taxes. A family of four with income of just over $35,000 would benefit by $466 a year, he said.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, proposed last month a somewhat different mix of tax cuts financed by defense cuts. President Bush has suggested he could support such a plan.

Gramm said his idea was similar, but he was absolutely opposed to moving any money into jobs programs or other domestic accounts.

"If we don't give the money back" to the taxpayers, "the government will squander it," he said.

Senate Budget Committee Chairman James Sasser, D-Tenn., and Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., proposed last week that the federal government increase spending this year by roughly $55 billion as a fiscal stimulus.

The government already is running a projected $350 billion deficit, and boosting if further would do no good, Gramm argued. The government has run deficits for so long that the technique "has lost all curative powers," he said.

Gramm's plan is the latest in a string of suggestions by lawmakers to deal with the recession and the changing world scene. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., planned to release his proposals today in Boston.

OSHA director to step down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerard Scannell announced his resignation as director of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration Monday after two years in which he won praise from some of those normally critical of the agency.

Scannell is stepping down to become a vice president at Johnson & Johnson, the New Brunswick, N.J., company where he had worked for 10 years before taking over OSHA.

Before Scannell, OSHA had come under fire for being either pro-business or pro-labor, depending on which political party held the White House.

"He has tried to serve all the people. His performance has been extremely responsive," said Joseph Kinney, a longtime OSHA critic who runs the National Safe Workplace Institute in Chicago.

Scannell's departure had been rumored for weeks, and critics such as Kinney had complained they felt he was being pushed out by the new team at the Labor Department. Lynn Martin took over as secretary last February.

Martin's spokesman, Steve Hofman, called such speculation "just blatantly untrue."

Magistrate sentences illegal radio operators

■ Because of a prior record, one man received jail time while the other two received three years probation.

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

Two Odessa men involved in the operation of an illegal radio station last year in Odessa were sentenced by a U.S. magistrate Monday on federal misdemeanor charges.

Thomas Eugene Barnes, 28, was sentenced to six months incarceration and one year supervised release.

"It was a waste of my time and I'm truly sorry for it," Barnes told U.S. Magistrate Robert Sykes.

Barnes was escorted to the jail a few minutes later.

In light of a criminal record that included burglary and theft convictions in the early 1980s, Barnes' sentence was more severe than his two counterparts.

Richard Lane, 39, received three years supervised probation that includes 100 hours of community service.

"I realize I was involved in something I shouldn't have been involved in," Lane said at his sentencing.

A third man, Mark Anthony Chanez, 26, also received three years probation and 100 hours community service. Chanez was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton last week.

Operating a radio station without a license is punishable by up to one year imprisonment and a fine not to exceed $100,000.

The three men surrendered to federal officials in September after authorities shut down two pirate radio stations operating out of two trailer homes in West Odessa.

An investigation began on Aug. 19 when an informant notified a Federal Communication Commission employee in Dallas about the two unlicensed FM stations.

Investigators determined through sophisticated radio frequency monitoring that broadcasts were coming from 12358 Cowden St. at 107.7 MHz and 3550 N. Alturas Ave. at 95.5 MHz.

Music broadcasts were documented and the stations were identified by the call letters KROX and KFRE, and the name "Pirate Radio Network."

The call letters KROX are assigned to a station in Crookston, Minn., and the letters KFRE to a station in Fresno, Calif.

In addition, disc jockeys who identified themselves as "Bud Roach" and "Harry Butts," were airing the broadcasts.

Monitoring of the broadcasts and observations of the properties convinced Sykes to issue a search warrant.

Numerous items were seized at the time the warrant was executed, including, transmitters, tape recorders and players, turntables, records and tapes, and various electronic items.

Federal officials said there have been some inquiries by prospective buyers about the seized equipment, which may be sold at public auction.

Council meets today

Staff Report

The Midland City Council will meet in special session at 8 a.m. today to interview candidates for city attorney and to appoint an interim attorney for the duration of the search process.

The meeting will be held in the council chambers at City Hall and will include an executive session to conduct interviews.

David Reagan, city attorney, has announced he will resign effective Friday to take a position in Austin. Candidates for his post were sought with newspaper advertisements and through established connections, according to city officials.

A new city attorney is not expected to be on staff until at least March 1, so city officials plan to appoint a staff member to fill the position for the next few months. Meanwhile, they are expected to continue interviews throughout the month with persons seeking appointment to the job.

Speaker to lecture on Israel

Staff Report

Bernie Resnikoff of Jerusalem is the scheduled guest speaker at an upcoming meeting sponsored by a local Jewish men's organization and a Christian organization.

Resnikoff

Resnikoff, the emeritus director and consultant to the American Jewish Committee, will speak on Israeli issues at 7 p.m. Thursday in the fellowship hall of St. Paul's Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Drive.

The guest speaker is also an advisor and ombudsman to Bridges for Peace, the Jersaleum-based, Christian nonprofit organization dedicated to building relationships between Christians and Jews, while encouraging greater concern for the land of Israel.

Resnikoff has taught courses in Israel at the Hebrew University and at the Holy Land Institute on Mount Zion. He has also researched training leaders in combating anti-Semitism.

The meeting is being sponsored by B'nai B'rith and the local Bridges for Peace organization. Local representatives are Jack and Judy Stone.

The public is invited to attend.

The local Bridges for Peace representatives are also organizing a Study Tour of the Land of the Bible which will tour Israel beginning March 11 for 13 to 17 days. For more information on the meeting or the study tour call 694-3090 or 683-6442.

Goulet announces candidacy

Staff Report

With his goals firmly set, 70-year-old Midlander Henry Goulet has announced his bid for the Republican nomination for Midland County Commissioner, Precinct 1.

Goulet

Goulet owns a furniture refinishing business, a profession he calls "hard, back-breaking work; there are no short cuts." He believes that philosophy should also apply to the work ethic needed in county government.

"We need people who have fought the everyday business problems of Midland, not people who have been sheltered in political posts for over two decades," Goulet said.

Goulet opposes political intervention regarding drug and crime prevention. He believes the sheriff should be free to conduct out-of-county operations when deemed necessary.

He believes commissioners should get more feedback from Midland County workers and should concentrate on their Commissioners Court duties more than the duties of other elected officials.

Some of his plans if elected include:

■ Meeting with supervisors and department managers as well as Midland County employees to determine what the problems are.

■ Working to see that Precinct 1 residents are provided with better road maintenance and more paved roads.

■ Working to stop the continued tax increases and concentrate on spending the taxpayer's money efficiently.

■ Staying out of the business of other elected officials.

■ Working toward a fair and equitable merit pay system for Midland County employees.

"There is no reason why people who have served in the jobs for many years shouldn't receive occasional merit raises," he said.

Livestock show overflows with entries

■ 4-H Club, FFA teach youth valuable lessons, sponsors say.

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Midland County youth who are learning how to take care of farm animals, how to outlast their wariness, and how to cope with their quirks are bringing their calves, pigs, lambs, rabbits, chickens and goats to the outskirts of town this week for the 40th annual Midland County Livestock Show.

It's a big show.

Fact is, it is getting so big that directors of the Midland County Livestock Association brought in a big tent to house the steers that are overflowing at the Midland County Exhibit Building east of Midland off U.S. Highway 80.

4-H Club youngsters and members of the Future Farmers of America (FFA) clubs at Midland and Greenwood high schools will be hauling in more than 400 animals for the show that begins Wednesday afternoon and reaches its pinnacle in the premium auction of 117 head of livestock on Saturday afternoon.

The show's increased draw in youthful exhibitors can be linked to 4-H and FFA alumni, parents now, who "went through the (livestock-feeding) program and knew what it did for them," said Charlie Green, president of the Midland County Livestock Association, sponsor of the show.

"Now, their kids are getting up there, old enough to join (4-H and FFA)," Green said. "It's just pyramiding. There's so many of them out there."

Green, who has worked with Midland County youth in livestock projects for more than 40 years, noted the value of the livestock-feeding program for youth.

"The challenges of the 4-H and FFA programs help them to set goals and objectives and develop such character traits as good work habits, self-discipline and a competitive spirit to seek gain and advancement under the American free-enterprise system."

Earnest Kiker, Texas Agriculture Extension Service (TAEX) agent for Midland County and a leader of youth, cited the benefits of the 4-H and FFA projects: learning responsibility and leadership and experiencing fellowship with others.

"It's just a good, whole program to have your children involved," Kiker said.

"We like to look at our 4-H program as not just a youth program but a family program" in which "families can work together on projects and become involved" with each other, Kiker said.

"You know, too many times today in our families, mother works and the dad works," Kiker said. And often "there's not anything that pulls the family back together. And the livestock-feeding program is a tool for pulling family members together and for helping them in effectively "communicating with each other."

"The program is very important and is very worthwhile," Kiker said. "We like to see young people win with animals and do good with animals, but we had (rather) make good citizens out of them. And we'd like to pull those families together."

■ Why do bacon and eggs taste better at 1 a.m. than at the normal breakfast time?

■ While it is easy to get irritated with senior citizens on fixed incomes for sending what little money they have to TV preachers, it also makes you painfully aware of just how desperate those elderly people are to have some "meaning" in their lives.

■ I just wish they would be more careful who they give their money to.

■ Knock on wood, but I haven't had car trouble in almost a year.

■ I feel sorry for people who can't enjoy being alone from time to time.

■ Someone who was dead serious — no pun intended — told me the other day I needed to have a will made out.

■ I don't want to have a will made out.

■ It is still difficult for me to comprehend that there is no longer a Soviet Union.

■ Although the idea of a country setting — complete with the peaceful solitude that goes with it — sounds nice, every time I find myself in that environment I want to climb the walls because there's nothing to do.

■ Something to remember: "Wit is the only wall between us and the dark."

■ From Hemingway: "All good books are alike in that they are truer than if they had really happened and after you are finished reading one you will feel that all that happened to you and afterwards it all belongs to you; the good and the bad, the ecstasy, the remorse and sorrow, the people and the places and how the weather was. If you can get so that you can give that to people, then you are a writer."

■ And from Kurt Vonnegut: "High school is closer to the core of the American experience than anything else I can think of."

■ An airport is still the best place to watch strange people doing strange things.

■ There's nothing wrong with being a little strange, but there is a fine line you don't want to cross.

■ People who keep up with current events but aren't overly obsessed with them are a lot of fun to be around.

■ Single-issue fanatics are no fun at all.

■ People my age are serving in Congress, heading up giant corporations and writing best-selling novels.

■ Suddenly, I feel terribly depressed.

SHOW: Judging starts Thursday

(From 1B)

sponsibility ... teaches you some things about life," Kiker said.

The 1992 livestock show "should be an exciting show," said Kiker, who, in the early 1980s, succeeded Green as the TAEX agent for Midland County.

"The quality has really improved," Kiker said. "The young people have really got some exceptional lambs. We've got some real good pigs. And it's going to be a real good steer show."

The livestock show opens at 4 p.m. Wednesday with the weighing, measuring and sifting of lambs, steers and swine.

Preston Farris of Mertzon, TAEX county agent for Irion County, will begin judging steers 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

He will be judging lambs at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Following that, Farris will be judging goats, exhibited by 6-, 7- and 8-year-old boys and girls. Afterward, Rosalee Ausbern of Hobbs, N.M., will judge rabbits, and Brent Drennan of Big Lake, TAEX agent for Reagan County, will judge swine.

Chickens also will be exhibited and judged at the show.

Tommy Marricle, a Snyder auctioneer and a former Midland County commissioner, will conduct the auction of the 117 head of premium livestock, including the grand-champion and reserve grand-champion calves, lambs and swine. The auction is scheduled for 1:20 p.m. Saturday at the county exhibit building.

Events scheduled before the auction are a barbecue dinner, the judging of baby goats — kids — exhibited by pre-school children and the presentation of awards.

The barbecue is set for 11:30 a.m. Plates are $7.50 each.

The 1992 show is being dedicated to the memory of Charlie Welch and Jo Stewart, who were long-time directors of the Midland County Livestock Association and supporters of youth. Both died this year due to illnesses.

Welch and Mrs. Stewart were dedicated to the livestock program and in helping youth.

"There's no way to value the service he (Welch) has rendered to the young people of this county, to the 4-H and FFA boys and girls, and encouraging these kids to achieve their very best level," Green said. "He has been dedicated to keeping this program going."

Welch, who for many years had been a ring-man at the auction, will be succeeded by his son, Scott Welch.

Mrs. Stewart, who was the association's secretary, worked closely with Eileen Welch, Charles Welch's widow, in maintaining the show's books and attending to other details. Mrs. Welch is the association's treasurer.

"It's just a pretty big chore," Green said of the detailed paperwork which Mrs. Stewart maintained. "There's just a lot of detail that has to be taken care of."

Police seek robbery culprits

Staff Report

Police are searching for three black males in connection with the Sunday night robbery of a 7-Eleven store at 4601 N. A St., police said.

According to the clerk, the men entered the store and went to the beer cooler. The clerk believed the men were minors and refused to sell them the beer. The men became angry and attacked the clerk with their fists and feet, police reports said.

The men then ran from the store with the beer, reports said.

Pantex plant's future secure, energy secretary says

AMARILLO (AP) — Energy Secretary James D. Watkins told employees at the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant Monday that the Panhandle facility's future is secure, despite proposals to shut down several nuclear compounds as the nation downsizes its massive arsenal of warheads.

"What we find here at Pantex, is that the workload and the dollar investment continue to rise. And this will be the case over the next five to seven years as a minimum," Watkins told a gathering of about 100 employees after touring the plant.

"I think Amarillo and the Pantex plant and the employees here are probably among the more stable in a very unstable complex today."

Watkins, who was making his first trip to Pantex since taking office in 1989, congratulated the employees for helping the United States "win the Cold War" and bring about the "collapse of the Evil Empire."

"You should receive great credit from the nation ... for the work you have done over all these years," Watkins said.

Pantex, the nation's only final assembly plant for nuclear bombs and missile warheads, is one of five sites under consideration to take over the plutonium-processing duties of the Department of Energy's Rocky Flats plant near Denver.

If DOE moves Rocky Flats' operations to Pantex as part of its reorganization of the nation's atomic weapons plants, the Amarillo area could gain between 2,500 and 10,000 new jobs. The reorganization of the nation's atomic weapons plants will not be announced until 1993.

"Under the reconfiguration of the complex, going through this very complicated, several-year problematic impact statement, Pantex is key," Watkins said. "I don't see that changing. I only see it being augmented if anything.

"We are not sure where we are going to end up in terms of numbers, but we do know we are going to need a facility like this," Watkins said.

Pantex workers are currently dismantling nuclear warheads from President Bush's unilateral move to slash as many as 9,000 warheads from the U.S. arsenal.

The disassembly work should be completed in 1997, Watkins said.

The proposal to bring plutonium processing to Pantex has drawn sharp opposition from farmers and local residents who fear soil contamination.

Last spring, Texas Attorney General Dan Morales asked the DOE to make its plutonium plans public and to have Pantex placed under the oversight of the independent Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board.

Congress passed legislation placing Pantex under the scrutiny of the DNFSB last month.

"I know there has been some apprehension on the part of the leadership here in Texas," Watkins said. "The attorney general has raised questions about the long-term storage plan, 'Because we are not interested in having plutonium as a permanent item in the Panhandle.'

"We know that and we are looking at all of the options associated with that and will have that decision in another 18 months. It will take that long because this is a major issue."

Watkins said Pantex will be receiving about 285 new jobs during several years.

Richards grants 30-day reprieve to nun's killer

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards, who said she received a personal appeal from Pope John Paul II, granted a 30-day reprieve late Monday to a man convicted of raping and killing a 76-year-old nun at a convent more than 10 years ago.

The stay came about 10 p.m., only hours before Johnny Frank Garrett, 28, was scheduled to be executed.

It was the first time since Texas resumed carrying out the death penalty in 1982 that a governor had intervened to stop an execution. It was believed to be the first stay by a Texas governor since Gov. John Connally halted an electrocution in the 1960s.

Garrett was 17 when he was arrested for the slaying in Amarillo of Swiss-born Sister Tadea Benz on Halloween night in 1981.

Richards said she was granting the reprieve as a result of pleas she received by letter from the pope on Friday and earlier from the bishop of the Catholic diocese of Amarillo.

Bill Cryer, the governor's press secretary, said there have been five previous executions during Richards' tenure. It's the first time she's heard from the pope, he said.

Cryer said Pope John Paul II, in asking that Garrett's life be spared, said he was motivated "by a profound respect for the God-given dignity and value of each human life."

"The Holy Father prays that the sentence will be commuted through your magnanimity and mercy. Your gesture of clemency would obviously be of special significance in promoting nonviolence and in fostering the need for mutual respect and love in society," the plea continued.

The pope asked for clemency in a Missouri case last year and at that time a Vatican spokesman said the pope had acted similarly in other death cases in the United States.

Although Richards granted a 30-day reprieve, it may be longer than that period before Garrett is given a new execution date. The Texas attorney general's office has not dealt with this scenario and officials were uncertain how to proceed with a new date.

Although the letter from the pope, as well as letters from other Catholic officials, asked that Garrett's death sentence be commuted, the governor does not have that power at this stage. She can commute a death sentence to life only on the recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles.

U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson of Amarillo issued a stay Sunday, but Texas Attorney General Dan Morales appealed to the federal appeals court in New Orleans. About 8 p.m. Monday, a three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals vacated the stay.

Garrett's lawyers immediately asked the U.S. Supreme Court to reverse the appeals court's decision and block the execution.

Amarillo attorney Warren Clark said psychiatrists insist Garrett believes the spirit of a deceased aunt will protect him from the fluid in the lethal injection.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that a person who is insane and cannot comprehend an execution or the reasons behind an execution cannot be put to death.

Senate gives tentative OK to redistricting plan despite opposition

By John Powers
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Senate, after four hours of acrimonious partisan debate, tentatively approved a redistricting plan Monday that Republicans threaten to filibuster when it is brought up for a final vote today.

Senators approved the plan 18-12, with all nine Republicans and three Democrats voting against it.

Sen. Bill Sims, San Angelo, was one of the Democrats who voted against it. The settlement plan would make Sims' district primarily Republican.

At stake is whether Texas residents will vote in the March 10 primary based on district lines agreed to in a settlement by Senate Democrats and black and Hispanic minority groups or on districts imposed by a panel of three Republican federal judges.

Minority groups filed a lawsuit in state district court against the redistricting plans the Legislature approved in May, while Republicans filed lawsuit in federal court.

Attorney General Dan Morales, a majority of House and Senate Democrats and the minority group plaintiffs agreed to a settlement before a South Texas state district judge.

But on Dec. 24, the three-judge federal district panel threw out those plans and substituted its own.

Because the court-imposed plan made only minor changes for the House, representatives voted Saturday to use the court plan for this year's election and to return to the settlement plan for elections in 1994 and beyond.

But the court plan is dramatically different from the Senate's settlement plan and could result in the election of from four to seven additional Republicans this year.

Once the Senate approves a plan, the three-judge panel could agree to substitute that plan for the one it imposed, reject the Senate plan or delay a decision until after the March 10 primary.

If the court rejects the Legislature's plan, the state can appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. But that probably would take longer than Jan. 17, the date legislators believe a plan must be in place in order to hold the primary on March 10.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, doesn't think the court "would . . . do anything that partisan" by imposing a court plan instead of one approved by the Legislature.

Parker said National Republican Party committee member Ernest Angelo of Midland called President Bush to complain that the Justice Department cleared the settlement plan, as required by law.

After that call the department stopped cooperating with the Texas attorney general's staff and minority plaintiffs and would not return phone calls, Parker said.

Angelo told the Dallas Morning News he had "talked to people in the White House about redisticting," but later denied having specific conversations about the Senate plan.

Judge extends House filing deadline

EDINBURG (AP) — A state district judge Monday extended the filing deadline for state House elections to Jan. 15.

Judge Mario E. Ramirez, ruling on a motion by attorneys for minority interests, said he couldn't "see the harm" in moving the deadline to one day after he again hears arguments in a minority voting rights lawsuit.

The original deadline was Jan. 10. The trial on the lawsuit, scheduled so it would come after the Legislature finishes its special session to draw new plans, will begin Jan. 14.

However, Ramirez declined taking action on a request to extend state Senate filing deadlines. He said he couldn't make a ruling on that matter because two senators intervening in the suit must have time to come before the court.

Ramirez has already struck down one version of the Legislative redistricting plans. He also approved compromise plans that have since undergone various legal challenges. A three-judge federal panel has delayed implementation of the House plan until 1994.

Teens lead lawmen on two-county chase

BAIRD (AP) — Three Fort Worth-area teen-agers bound for California led West Texas lawmen on a high-speed chase Monday through two counties.

The driver, Michael Starrett Colbaugh, 17, of Watauga, was charged with attempted capital murder, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, attempting to elude authorities and theft. Colbaugh was released from Callahan County Jail on $54,200 bond.

Passengers Johnny Snodgrass, 17, of North Richland Hills and David Owens, 18, of Haltom City were charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, attempting to elude authorities and theft. They were released on $4,200 bond each.

The chase — at times as fast as 100 mph — ended when the car ran off the road near Tye, about 10 miles west of Abilene. The three teens began running across a pasture, but were quickly arrested.

Callahan Sheriff Bill Skinner said the teens told him they were headed to California.

DEAR ABBY

From one hand to another, a ticket can take a ride

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with "A Touchy Ticket Taker" who was forced to accept a wet and unsanitary portion of a ticket. And who can blame her?

Van Buren

I suggest that she have in her hand an ordinary wooden clothespin, and when the ticket is presented to her, she should grasp the ticket between the prongs of the clothespin and deposit it where she wishes. In this way, she will accomplish two things:

1. She will not be forced to handle a wet and unsanitary ticket, and . . .

2. The patrons will see the gross position in which they have placed the ticket taker, and possibly mend their ways without her needing to voice an objection.

I would appreciate your thoughts on my suggestion. — STEPHEN LUDOVICH, BROOKLYN, N.Y.

DEAR MR. LUDOVICH: A very innovative suggestion. Many wrote to suggest that the ticket taker wear white gloves. Please read on:

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "A Touchy Ticket Taker" prompted me to write about my experience as a ticket taker.

In my job as an elementary school secretary, I punched the lunch tickets of approximately 300 students a day. In order not to drop their lunch tickets when they picked up their plates, some students would put their tickets in their pockets. Unfortunately, not all children's clothing had pockets, so they would have to find another place to keep their tickets.

I have been handed lunch tickets pulled out of sleeves, from under belts, out of shoes, smelly socks, out of hairdos, and even from the student's underwear!

Sometimes the tickets didn't make it to a safe place, and I'd have to fish them out of the applesauce, baked beans or vegetable soup. On one occasion, I was handed a soggy ticket. The student apologized, sheepishly explaining that it had fallen into the drinking fountain. I just smiled, hoping it was true. — TEXAS LUNCH PUNCHER IN KILLEEN

DEAR ABBY: I worked at Hollywood Park Racetrack for nearly 30 years. I was the guy who paid off in cash when the lucky winners came to my window with their winning tickets.

I think I topped them all when it came to seeing tickets retrieved from some pretty weird places. One elderly gentleman said, "Excuse me . . . I always keep my tickets in my jockstrap." Then he retrieved them and slid them over to me. His tickets were very warm. My face was warmer. — JOHNNY J., INGLEWOOD, CALIF.

It Figures offers money-saving, inch-reducing toning special

By Laura K. Morgan

Let this be the year that you keep your resolutions to take off those extra inches. And do it an easy way that works. It Figures Toning/Tanning Salon is just the place to do it.

For shaping up, losing those unwanted inches or getting a head start on the tan for summer (just in case swimsuit weather comes early this year), It Figures can help.

In an easy, comfortable, climate-controlled atmosphere exercise is fun. Call It Figures for a free demonstration and information about the "Start the Year Off Right Special." It includes 12 sessions for just $30 plus tax. Best of all, there are no contracts to sign and no membership fees.

It Figures' boutique area has fashion active-wear, ever-popular denim and and several somethings for that special occasion. Also fun and fashion jewelry, button covers and the hottest thing around — tuxedo shirts.

When it's cold, windy or wet, it's no fun to exercise out of doors and soon the dust will begin to blow. Exercise in comfort at It Figures.

At It Figures, you you can lose inches with minimum effort. Follow the many Midlanders who have found an easy, successful way to lose those extra inches.

You don't suffer through high-impact aerobics that might wreak havoc on your joints, you don't sign intimidating contracts or pay an extra membership fee. All you do is lose inches the easy way with passive resistance exercise on seven different fitness machines. Workouts last just under an hour and you should not feel fatigued or sore after a session.

On the program, your center of gravity is spread out as you lie down. The machine does the work for you. There is a table for slenderizing and toning legs, a sit-up table for toning the abdomen and hips, a stomach and hip-toning table, a circulating overall body massage table and several others to tone, firm and refresh.

It Figures works hard to make things convenient for its clients. Senior citizens receive a 15 percent discount (not applicable to specials). Husbands and wives also receive a discount when they sign up together (not applicable to specials), and toning customers receive a discount on tanning sessions.

It Figures hours are conveninet. Drop-ins are welcome for 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays. From 3 p.m. to closing, Monday through Friday, and Saturday mornings sessions are by appointment.

For effective inch loss, three sessions a week are recommended. If you have arthritis, and you need to exercise, this is the way to ease the pain of exercise. Call It Figures, 697-5996 for any additional information. Laura, Billee and Maedell will be gald to help you.

Imperial Flag & Banner offers savings to customers who clip this article and bring it to the store. Receive $5 off on any purchase from $50 to $99. And $10 off any purchase of $100 or over. Pictured is 3 x 5-foot Texas Tech flag available for $43.85.

To get the new year off to a good start, Imperial Flag & Banner is offering savings on all merchandise. By clipping this article and taking it to the store, customers can save $5 on a purchase of $50 to $99. Save $10 on any purchase of $100 or over.

Imperial Flag & Banner has long been know for its superior selection of quality-made flags and flag accessories. Including Halyard rope in a variety of sizes, tassels, all sizes of poles. Also brackets, bases, snaps, balls and eagles (for outdoor poles). Then there are stars, crosses and other religious symbols for indoor poles.

History buffs will enjoy United States flags from the past, Texas flags, Confederate flags (up to 5-feet by 8-feet in stock) and others. And Imperial Flag & Banner has still more patriotic United States flag items — license plate covers, patches, decals, stickers, lapel pins, balloons, belt buckles and buttons.

Football fans will love the large selection of NFL flags and banners.

Those with large indoor flags for church or school auditoriums can look to Imperial Flag & Banner for a custom base. Impressive wooden bases are also available to display a complete set of miniature United Nations flags, a United States flag set or a set of flags representing the Organization of American States.

Besides flags from around the world and patriotic items, Imperial Flag & Banner has earned a reputation for carrying a large selection of 3-foot by 5-foot and 3-foot by 10-foot pre-manufactured message banners for stores and businesses. They range in price from $29 to $48.

To promote special events such as garage sales and grand openings, Imperial Flag & Banner has attention-getting pennants in a variety of colors, including metallic and safety-glo. These come in lengths of 100, 60 and 30 feet. Sports teams and apartment complexes often find themselves in need of a flag. Imperial Flag & Banner stocks sturdy nylon 3-foot by 5-foot blank flags in just about any color imaginable.

Imperial Flag & Banner can manufacture custom flags and banners with company logos and elementary school names. Custom embroidery and applique is done on the premises. Professional-quality kites and windsocks are also in stock.

Imperial Flag & Banner also announced they are currently doing custom embroidery and applique for clubs, organizations, businesses and individuals. And they produce quickly, too. For example, collared and un-collared T-shirts can be delivered, complete with embroidery, within 3 weeks of ordering.

This service isn't just limited to T-shirts, though. Caps, towels and anything embroiderable is done right on the premises at Imperial Flag & Banner. Prices are excellent, call for an estimate.

Quality and service are Imperial Flag & Banner trademarks. Permian Basin residents know to turn to owner George Leach for dependable service after the sale. After all, considering the severe wind conditions in West Texas, most any flag will eventually become torn or frayed. Imperial Flag & Banner can repair holes and tears, replace grommets and even flag poles and ropes.

Imperial Flag & Banner is located at 1613 S. Main St. in Midland. Hours are 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Call 682-3562 for more information.

Flores to coach

KIRKLAND, Wash. (AP) — Tom Flores, whose nine-year coaching reign at the Oakland and Los Angeles Raiders included a pair of Super Bowl championships, rejoined the coaching fraternity Monday by taking over the Seattle Seahawks.

"It's a challenge," Flores said. "I've always said I missed the battle on the field. That's the thing you miss the most. I feel refreshed and I have energy."

Flores, 54, said he received a guaranteed five-year contract to replace Chuck Knox, who coached the Seahawks for nine seasons. He has been president and general manager for the past three seasons.

"He is probably as competitive as any person I've ever met in all my life," Seahawks owner Ken Behring said. "That's one of the reasons I admire him so much."

The announcement was expected since Friday, when Flores said that University of Miami coach Dennis Erickson told him he was not interested in moving to the NFL now. Flores had listed Erickson as a strong candidate to succeed Knox.

Pirates can GM

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates fired general manager Larry Doughty on Monday despite winning consecutive National League East titles.

Doughty said he was told he was ousted "because my gross errors far outweighed my success."

Doughty, whose Pirates led the majors with 98 victories last season, became the second successful Pirates general manager to be fired in four years. Syd Thrift was dismissed in October 1988, less than a year after being named as Pittsburgh's man of the year for rebuilding the franchise.

Cam Bonifay, promoted from scouting director to assistant general manager a year ago, will serve as interim general manager. Pirates president Mark Sauer said Bonifay is a strong candidate to succeed Doughty.

The Pirates became the first team since Philadelphia in 1977-78 to win consecutive NL East titles, but Doughty's three-year tenure was marked by several unusual player moves and the trading of prospects for high-priced talent.

Midland teams clash

Girls' 4-5A collision on twin-bill's front burner

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

It has been duly noted in the history books that Elise Kail once swallowed a raw egg after her Midland Lee girls volleyball team defeated crosstown rival Midland High.

Over a year later, Kail has moved on to become the girls head basketball coach. There will be no eggs swallowed this year to motivate her team. But still, the stunt is remembered to this day.

MHS-Lee Schedules

Times and sites for today's Midland High-Midland Lee basketball games:

4:15 p.m. — Junior varsity boys, at Midland High gym

4:15 p.m. — Junior varsity girls, at Chaparral Center

6:15 p.m. — Varsity girls, at Chap Center

8 p.m. — Varsity boys, Chap Center.

Saturday

10 a.m. — Sophomore boys, at Midland High gym

11:30 a.m. — Sophomore girls, at Midland High gym

"Sonja (Pittman, Midland High's volleyball coach) called me the other day and asked me what I was going to eat after the game," Kail said.

Kail said she will motivate her team before tonight's game with Midland High (6:15 p.m. tipoff at Chaparral Center) rather than make any inspirational promises for after the game.

Midland High head coach Jim Raughton will not be moved to such tactics, either.

"Nope, no raw eggs or biting the heads off live chickens or anything," Raughton said.

With that out of the way, there is a game to be played. And to be sure, both teams and both coaches involved have put tonight's contest on the front burner.

"This one breeds more contempt, I guess," Kail said. "Our seniors are excited about everything."

Midland High enters the game on a high note, having won 15-of-19 games this season. The Lady 'Dawgs no longer wear the underdog label, as they did as briefly as two seasons ago. Or even last year.

Raughton, in his second year as the MHS girls coach, said he knows everyone involved in tonight's game will mentally pre-

Rebels meet Bulldogs in boys' loop opener

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

With the traditional District 4-5A-opening boys basketball game between Midland High and Midland Lee comes something more important to both teams than meeting a cross-town rival.

As tonight's 8 p.m. game gets under way at the Chaparral Center, the Bulldogs and Rebels both have the opportunity to begin league play with a 1-0 record. The question is, how the teams' will respond to the challenge?

MHS (11-7) must fight complacency in the wake of an 82-46 thrashing of the Rebs in the Tall City Tournament, while Lee tries to find its continuity with deadeye junior Martin Lattibeaudiere hobbled by a sore groin.

Will the urge to recall how handily Lee lost last time be a hindrance to MHS? Not according to Bulldog head coach Jack Stephenson.

"I don't thin so. Any time we play one another it's a tough game. We've played each other so many times and basketball is such a crazy game, I just don't think one game makes a season," he said.

According to Lee head coach Jon House, the resurgence of the 12-9 Rebels lies in part with Lattibeaudiere and Wayne Wilson, both starters a year ago. Wilson, a 6-3 senior post, is averaging nearly 20 points a game (19.8) while Lattibeaudiere brings in just over 15 a game.

"They've both turned loose and played a little more. Of course, it helped that they played a lot last year," House said.

David Wilson rounds out Lee's top three scorers with an 11-point average as district play begins.

For the Bulldogs, what started out as a rebuilding year from last season's playoff-qualifying team has turned into a possible second straight postseason appearance.

Though 4-5A play just begins tonight, MHS has the second best winning percentage among 4-5A teams with a .611 mark. San Angelo Central has the league's best record so far at 13-8

Turnabouts at MHS, Lee seen in wins

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

One need look only as far as the numbers for proof that the Midland High girls and Midland Lee boys basketball programs are in the midst of turnabouts.

Both programs are under the direction of second-year coaches. Jon House guides the Rebels; Jim Raughton, the Lady Bulldogs.

The about-face proof?

First, at Lee:

- The Rebels won their 12th game of the season over the weekend, going one better in total victories than all of last season, when they finished 11-19.
- A four game win streak last month was the longest put together by a Rebel team since House took the job as head coach.

And, at Midland High:

- The Lady Bulldogs' 15-4 record surpasses last season's victory total of 14.

Duke returns to unanimity

■ Blue Devils still top AP college basketball poll as first 11 teams stay intact.

Associated Press

As Duke returned to being a unanimous choice atop the AP college basketball poll on Monday, Tulane and Massachusetts entered the rankings, one for the first time in a while, the other for the first time ever.

The Blue Devils (7-0) were No. 1 on all 65 ballots from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters, a feat they accomplished four weeks ago for just one week. The first 11 teams remained intact while the bottom of the poll had names rarely seen.

Tulane (9-0) had been the only unranked unbeaten team and the Green

Wave caught everyone's eye last weekend with their first win ever at Freedom Hall, an 87-83 overtime victory over then-No. 24 Louisville.

The last time the Green Wave were ranked was the final poll of the 1948-49 season, the first one in which the AP conducted voting. They were ninth that poll and the 24-4 season ended with a loss to No. 1 Kentucky in the Southeastern Conference championship game.

Four of the 43 years Tulane was absent from the rankings were seasons the Green Wave did not have basketball, 1985-89, following a point-shaving scandal at the school.

"It's a great accomplishment for our players," said Perry Clark, the coach since the program returned for the 1989-90 season. "This group as freshmen took a lot of lumps and all that did was toughen them up. I'm happy for the Tulane family. This gives them something to feel good about. For the school to be able to get this type of national recognition means a lot to me."

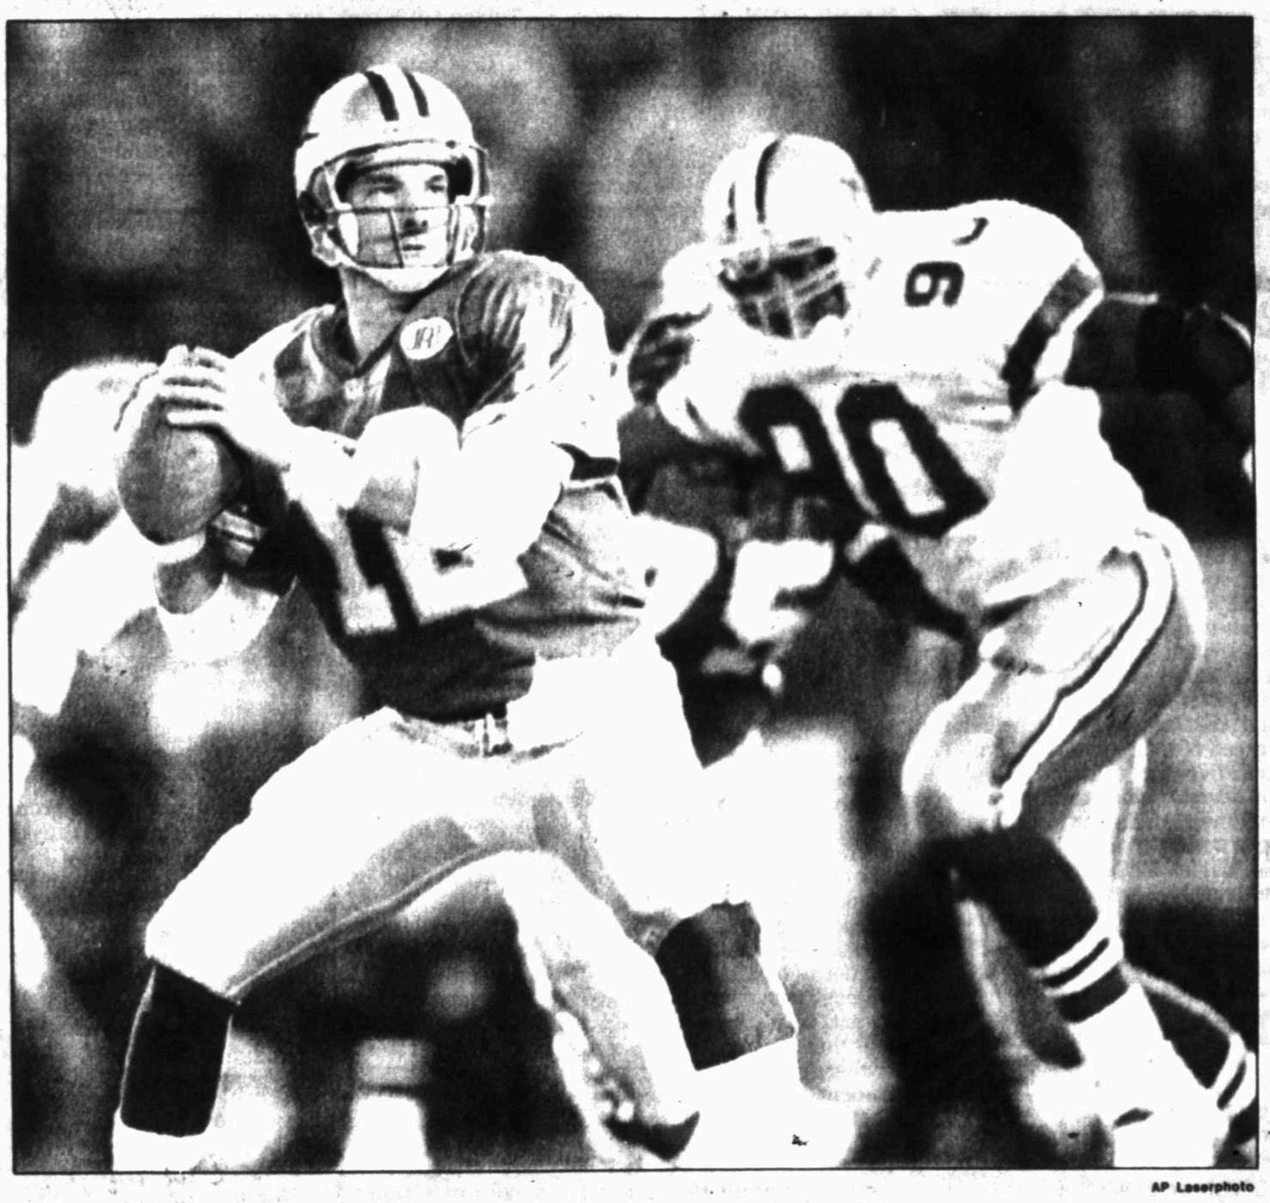

Massachusetts (11-2) also grabbed the nation's attention this weekend with an impressive 86-73 victory over then-No. 14 Oklahoma at Springfield, Mass. The Minutemen won the Great Alaska Shootout and their only losses were on the road to Kentucky and George Washington.

"This makes a statement that we're getting better," Massachusetts coach John Calipari said. "For the good of our program and our players it would be better to be ranked the last two weeks of the year. Now with the tough teams we have coming up this is extra incentive for them and it could relax us a little bit. This is something new for us."

Calipari said the success of the basketball program as helped the school, which in tight financial times has dropped three varsity sports.

"Our fans are very, very excited," he said. "It has been a struggle here with budget cuts and layoffs and this is something a lot of people have rallied behind on campus."

Tulane and Massachusetts replaced Georgetown (7-2), which fell from 22nd after a 75-73 home loss to Villanova, and Louisvile (7-2), which was beaten by the Green Wave.

Erik Kramer exploited the Dallas defense for 341 yards and three touchdowns.

Dallas deficiencies exposed

By Denne H. Freeman
AP Sports Writer

IRVING — Thanks to a stunning Silverdome execution by Detroit's Erik Kramer, the Dallas Cowboys were reminded again they'll have to spend most of their high draft choices on defensive backs and pass rushing defensive linemen.

The Cowboys' weakness to run-and-shoot teams was exposed like a naked light bulb in the Lions' 38-6 victory Sunday in the second round of the NFC playoffs.

Kramer decimated Dallas with a career-high 29 of 38 passes for 341 yards and three touchdowns.

Dallas also lost 34-10 to the Lions earlier in the season and was beaten 26-23 by run-and-shoot Houston when Warren Moon hit 41 of 56 passes for 432 yards.

The Cowboys couldn't stop Atlanta's "Red Gun" offense, allowing 325 passing yards and three touchdowns to Chris Miller, but outlasted the Falcons 31-27 in the final game of the regular season.

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson plans on doing something about it after taking a short vacation. But he said before leaving that the Falcons had "exposed" the Cowboys weaknesses which Detroit exploited.

"Detroit was able to isolate us and get us into a lot of one-on-one coverages and our strength is stopping the run," Johnson said. "Detroit studied the Atlanta and Houston films. They saw what the run-and-shoot could do to us."

Johnson gave his coaches a week off and took a few days himself Monday while the players cleaned out their lockers.

Owner Jerry Jones said the Cowboys will make good use of their first-, second- and third-round picks. Dallas has two selections in each round.

"We have a lot of flexibility with our picks and we might trade up," Jones said. "We know we need help on defense. (Defensive coordinator) Dave Wannstedt did a good job of hiding our weaknesses all year. But we had to try to 'finesse' a team once too often. We could use some help on defense."

Wannstedt might not be around to reap the benefits of the rich Dallas draft harvest.

He was expected to be interviewed by the Pittsburgh Steelers this week for their head coaching vacancy.

Dallas, which was 1-15 in 1989 and 7-9 in 1990, had an 11-5 regular season record and reached the playoffs for the first time in six years. The Cowboys defeated the Chicago Bears in the first round, their first playoff victory in 10 seasons.

"It was a wonderful feeling being in the playoffs," Jones said. "It makes us want to work that much harder. This organization has a lot of room to improve, a lot of growth potential."

The Dallas players were philosophical about the loss.

"Now we have a taste of the playoffs," said running back Emmitt Smith, the NFL rushing champion. "We know what it takes to get there."

"We were on a fine ride, a long ride," safety Bill Bates said. "We got hopes up in Dallas, got the fans fired up and the players had fun."

Blue Devils bounce FSU

Associated Press

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Grant Hill and Brian Davis led Duke's explosive transition game Monday night and the top-ranked Blue Devils cruised by Florida State 86-70.

Top 25

The Seminoles (7-4, 1-2) had upset North Carolina in Chapel Hill last month in their first-ever Atlantic Coast Conference game, but Duke (8-0, 2-0) saw to it early there wouldn't be another one along Tobacco Road, taking an 18-point halftime lead.

Hill scored 26 points and Davis had 19 — both career-highs — for Duke, which led 13-4 3½ minutes into the game. Coming into the game, Duke had trailed only eight of 285 minutes.

Hill, who was 10-for-12 from the field and grabbed 10 rebounds, sparked two key runs late in the first half as the Blue Devils pulled away.

Florida State had closed to 15-13 at the 13:47 mark, but a 5-minute scoreless stretch late in the period buried the Seminoles.

During that time, Hill started to rev up Duke's running game. He scored on a steal and dunk that gave Duke a 31-19 lead about five minutes before halftime.

The sophomore forward then led another 6-0 run with a 3-point play and a steal and dunk.

STILLWATER, Okla. — Third-ranked Oklahoma State held Kansas State to 11 first-half points and went on to beat the Wildcats in a bruising Big Eight Conference opener.

Sean Sutton scored 16 points and Randy Davis had 13 as the Cowboys (13-0) won their 23rd straight home game. Kansas State, held to 29 percent shooting, dropped to 6-4 in losing its fifth straight to the Cowboys.

It was Kansas State's lowest point total since a 50-30 loss to Oklahoma in 1947. The 34 points were the fewest given up by the Cowboys since a 78-30 victory over Regis College in 1964.

The Wildcats had Oklahoma State's top three big men — Byron Houston, Davis and Bryant Reeves — on the bench with three fouls by halftime. But they made only four of 20 shots from the field and trailed by 21 at intermission.

No. 19 Wake Forest 74
Samford 45

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Rodney Rogers scored 15 points to lead Wake Forest to a victory over Samford.

The Demon Deacons (8-1) led 44-19 two minutes into the second half and then led by as much as 34 several times. The last time was with 8:12 to play when a free throw by Trelonnie Owens made it 69-35.

Rogers was 6-for-8 from the field and grabbed four rebounds in just 21 minutes. Owens and Chris King scored 12 points each and Anthony Tucker added 11 for Wake Forest, which shot 46 percent.

No. 22 N.C. Charlotte 99
N.C.-Wilmington 89 OT

WILMINGTON, N.C. — Delano Johnson beat the buzzer with a 3-pointer to force overtime and North Carolina Charlotte went on to beat North Carolina-Wilmington.

N.C.-Wilmington (6-5) was within a second of its first-ever victory over a ranked team when Johnson connected from about 22 feet as time expired to tie it 87-87.

Malru Dottin got the first points of the extra period, a pair of free throws with 3:07 left, to give N.C. Charlotte an 89-87 lead and the 49ers (9-1) then pulled away from the Seahawks.

James Terrell led the 49ers with 24 points, Henry Williams scored 19 before fouling out, Rodney Odom had 16 and Johnson 14.

Keith Adkins led NC-Wilmington with 24 points and Matt Fish had 23. Reggie Veney added 14 and Tim Shaw 12.

No. 24 Tulane 88, Penn 74

NEW ORLEANS — Kim Lewis scored 17 points and had seven steals as Tulane won on the day it joined the Top 25.

Tulane (10-0) took the lead for good at 16-15 with 12:18 to go in the first half after coach Perry Clark sent what he calls "The Posse" into the game.

"The Posse," Tulane's second string, goes into the game as a unit charged with pressing hard on defense and running a fast-break offense when it's available. Over the next 6:03, Tulane opened a 26-17 advantage, with Matt Greene and Carlin Hartman each getting four points in the 14-5 run.

Jerome Allen led Penn (2-5) with 22 points, 12 on 3-pointers, while Barry Pierce had 19.

NBA Roundup

Spurs 100, Pistons 90

SAN ANTONIO — Willie Anderson had 18 points and 11 rebounds, both far over his average, and the San Antonio Spurs set a franchise record with just five turnovers in a 100-90 defeat of the Detroit Pistons on Monday night.

David Robinson scored 20 points and Rod Strickland a season-high 19 for the Spurs. Anderson went into the game averaging 13.3 points and 5.0 rebounds.

The Pistons' Dennis Rodman had 24 rebounds, one under his career high, and moved ahead of Kevin Willis of Atlanta for the NBA rebounding lead. Rodman is averaging 16.9 and Willis 16.8.

Hawks 109, Rockets 97

ATLANTA — Dominique Wilkins scored 27 points and Kevin Willis had 20 points and 15 rebounds, leading the Atlanta Hawks to their fourth consecutive victory.

Duane Ferrell added 15 points, including 11 in a 24-13 second-half run that gave the Hawks a 15-point lead with 4:50 to play.

Nets 105, Clippers 90

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Mookie Blaylock scored 20 points and Terry Mills, starting in place of Derrick Coleman, had 17 points and 12 rebounds in the New Jersey Nets' victory over the Clippers.

Leading 56-52 early in the third period, the Nets outscored the Clippers 13-2 for a 69-54 advantage. Chris Morris keyed the spurt with six points.

Los Angeles responded with seven consecutive points, pulling within eight, but New Jersey then scored 11 of the next 15.

Jazz 124, Pacers 108

SALT LAKE CITY — Karl Malone had 34 points and 14 rebounds, leading the Utah Jazz to their fifth consecutive victory.

Blue Edwards scored 23 points, John Stockton 22 and Jeff Malone 20 as the Jazz ended a four-game losing streak to the Pacers dating back to the 1990-91 season. Reggie Miller led the Pacers with 20 points, while Vern Fleming had 16.

Celtics 110, Kings 108

BOSTON — Kevin Gamble scored a career-high 34 points as the Boston Celtics capped an uphill battle without injured Larry Bird and Kevin McHale by rallying in the fourth period for a two-point victory over Sacramento.

Reggie Lewis, who scored 21 points, put the Celtics ahead 107-106.

Tartabull inks with Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — In their first major player move in more than a year, the New York Yankees made a surprise late offer to Danny Tartabull and the free agent outfielder agreed Monday to a $25.5 million, five-year contract.

The deal, which makes Tartabull the fifth-highest paid player in baseball, came six days after Daniel McCarthy replaced Robert Nederlander as the team's managing general partner. Tartabull became the first major addition to the Yankees' roster since pitcher Mike Witt signed as a free agent on Jan. 2, 1991.

"It's exciting to me, a challenge," Tartabull said. "I'm tickled about the way things worked out. I want to be part of the leadership of the club and bring a championship back to New York."

California, Texas and the Chicago White Sox had been bidding for Tartabull, who hit .316 last season with 31 homers and 100 RBIs. The Yankees, who finished fifth last season at 71-91, first expressed interest on Thursday and New York general manager Gene Michael spent the weekend in Los Angeles negotiating with Tartabull's agent, Dennis Gilbert.

"After I got the call, I contacted Danny and we talked a little about the Yankees and whether he wanted to play in New York," Gilbert said. "The idea excited him."

The move give the Yankees a surplus of outfielders and means that Jesse Barfield or Mel Hall probably will be traded. New York still is searching for a third baseman.

"We have some more things we're working on," Michael said. "We've anchored an outfield spot. We have more versatility, more flexibility."

Tartabull, who made $2,225,000 in 1991, gets a $1.5 million signing bonus, $5 million in 1992, $4.75 million in 1993, $4.25 million in 1994 and $5 million in each of the 1995 and 1996 seasons.

Division I-A could lose power at NCAA convention

By Doug Tucker
AP Sports Writer

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Academic standards will grab most of the attention at this week's NCAA convention. It may be a couple of measures designed to reduce the power of major athletic powers that will be remembered, though.

"If they get passed, then you can bet there will be some very, very unhappy people in Division I-A," said Chuck Neinas, executive director of the College Football Association. "I would predict a lot of provocative quotes."

Said another observer, who asked not to be identified, "The I-A schools bring in the money. They are what makes the NCAA tick. If these proposals get passed, then there's bound to be a lot of talk about the I-A schools just going out and forming their own association. This is a dangerous trend."

The two proposals to reduce Division I-A representation on the policy-making NCAA Council and Presidents Commission are expected to come to a vote on Wednesday, about midway through the four-day meeting that begins on Tuesday. More than 2,300 delegates will deal with more than 140 items, including a package of proposals by the Presidents Commission which would greatly strengthen academic requirements for freshmen and upperclass athletes.

The 106 Division I-A schools are the major football schools. But they also make up the bulk of the nationally competitive Division I basketball programs. Under a proposal introduced by the Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference, the Council and Presidents Commission would include a representative of every men's basketball conference.

Another proposal, sponsored by the Northeast Conference, would apportion Division I representation on the two policy-making bodies according to geographic region.

Both would necessarily reduce Division I-A representation, which is currently set at 12 members on the 44-member Council and Presidents Commission.

NCAA president Judy Sweet and executive director Dick Schultz have been working behind the scenes against the proposals.

"I think the Council operates very effectively in the current structure," said Sweet, who is from Division III California-San Diego. "I think there will be some healthy debate on the proposal," Sweet added. "I don't sense that there's a lot of strong support."

If either measure wins passage, Sweet said, "I think there would be some strong uneasiness."

Sweet, named as the first woman president of the NCAA last year, will be presiding over her first convention as the organization's chief elected officer. Because of the highly charged academic issues, it could be one of the most heated meetings in years. Proposed by the Presidents Commmission, the measures would greatly toughen the academic requirements for prospective and enrolled athletes.

Under the present freshman eligibility rule known as Proposition 48, freshman to be eligible their first year must have a 2.000 — or C average — in 11 high school "core" or college prepatory courses. They must also make a minimum score on the ACT or SAT college entrance exams.

The new rule would raise the number of core courses to 13 and hike the minimum grade point in the core from 2.00 to 2.500. There would also be a sliding index where a higher grade point in the core offsets a lower test score.

In addition, the Presidents Commission is seeking to toughen the continuing eligbibility requirements, forcing an athlete to complete a progressive percentage of courses in a specific degree program. In their third, fourth and fifth years, athletes would need to have completed 25, 50 and 75 percent of the requirements for graduation.

Another proposal by the Presidents Commission would require athletes in their third year of enrollment to have a cumulative grade point equaling at least 95 percent of the minimum grade point required for graduation at their school. In their fourth and fifth year of enrollment, athletes would have to have 100 percent of the required grade point.

The proposals are expected to pass, but not without a fight. A recent poll of college presidents indicated support for each one. But there will be a floor fight. And the most bitterly contested measure could be the one requiring a 2.500 in the core.

"A lot of people are saying that's too big a jump — from 2.00 to 2.500," said B.J. Skelton, NCAA secretary-treasurer. "They're saying 2.25 or 2.35, OK. But not all the way to 2.500. I expect some real opposition to that one."

Houston pounds Centenary

Associated Press

SHREVEPORT, La. — Sean Mack scored 22 points and Charles Outlaw had 21 points and 11 rebounds as Houston warmed up for its Southwest Conference opener with a 105-81 victory Monday night over Centenary.

SWC

Houston will carry a 10-2 record into its conference opener Thursday night at Texas. The loss dropped Centenary to 4-6.

Centenary played Houston tigh in the first half, but the Cougars used a 25-6 surge midway through the second half to put the game away.

Mack was 7-for-11 on his field goal attempts, 4-for-6 from 3-point range and was 4-for-4 from the foul line and Outlaw went 10-for-13 from the field to lead five Houston players in double figures.

Jessie Drain and Craig Upchurch each scored 16 points for Houston, and David Diaz added 12 points.

Rice 74, Fordham 57

HOUSTON — Torrey Andrews sparked a 10-0 second-half scoring run, leading the Rice Owls to a victory over the Fordham Rams.

Brent Scott led the Owls (10-4) with 25 points and 12 rebounds, and Adam Peakes, 12 points and seven rebounds. Fordham (3-8) was led by Fred Herzog, who scored 24. Jean Prioleau added 16 points.

Rice now has won 12 straight games at Autry Court.

Texas 93, Murray State 75

AUSTIN — B.J. Tyler scored a game-high 28 points and Albert Burditt added 19, powering Texas over Murray State.

Burditt also pulled down 16 rebounds for Texas, 7-6. Michael Richardson provided 17 points off the bench for the Longhorns, while Benford Williams had 14 and Tony Watson 13.

Darren Hill's 20 points led Murray State. Popeye Jones scored 13 points and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Charges against Clemens dropped

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge has dismissed a charge against Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens, who was found innocent last month of another charge stemming from an alleged barroom brawl with an off-duty police officer.

The Class B misdemeanor charge of interfering with a public servant was dropped Friday by Harris County-Court-at-Law James Barkley, said George Tyson, a lawyer for Clemens.

Prosecutors had filed the motion to dismiss the charge, which stemmed from the same incident, Tyson said Monday.

Johnny Most loses legs

BOSTON (AP) — Jonny Most, the gravelly voiced Boston Celtics radio announcer, had both his legs amputated Monday because of a blood circulation problem.

Most went into surgery at 8 a.m. at New England Baptist Hospital and the operation was completed "a couple of hours later," hospital spokesman Jim Rattray said.

Doctors Frank Pomposelli and Arnold Scheller amputated both of Most's legs above the knee because of severe peripheral vascular disease and infection, Rattray said. Scheller is the Celtics team physician.

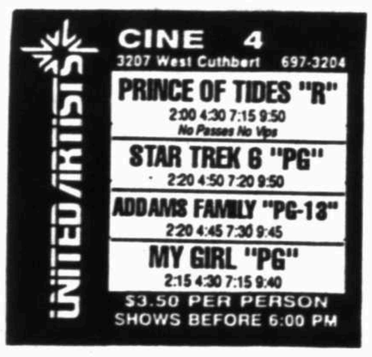

Celtics Spokesman Jeff Twiss said Most, 68, was resting comfortably.

"We do not list conditions, but after surgery his doctors said he is doing well" Rattray said. "So that gives us no reason to be concerned."

Rattray said the surgery apparently was not an emergency operation but had been scheduled. He said doctors did not know how long Most would remain in the hospital.

Most was admitted to New England Baptist on Dec. 16. Previously, he had been admitted to the hospital "a number of times for a number of different ailments," Rattray said.

Most began play-by-play coverage of the Celtics in 1952. He won the hearts of Celtics fans with his shameless partisan calling of each game.

Confused By Misinformation?

Here Are The Facts About The 1/4¢ Sales Tax For Economic Development

On January 18, Midlanders will finally have the opportunity to do something about our economy - attracting new industry and helping existing businesses expand. Don't allow misinformation to confuse the issue. Here are some important facts you need to know.

Why do we need a sales tax for economic development?

- To diversify Midland's economy - by providing financial help and incentives to new and existing industries.
- To broaden Midland's tax base - by increasing the number of businesses and employed Midlanders who in turn will become new taxpayers.
- To have every available tool to compete (and win!) against major West Texas cities who are serious about attracting new businesses at Midland's expense.
- To create jobs - every 100 jobs we help create adds approximately $6 million each year to our local economy!
- To create new customers for every retail business in Midland.

How much will it cost?

- The Texas Comptroller's office estimates that a Midland family with an annual income of $25,000 will pay $20 per year.
- Groceries, medicine and medical care, gas, automobiles and other necessities are not subject to this tax
- The cost if we don't invest in our economy will be loss of jobs, decreasing property values and higher taxes paid by fewer employed and fixed-income Midlanders!
- The cost of a $10 item including tax will increase by 2½ pennies!

How will the funds be used and managed?

- Our City Council will appoint a five member unpaid board of directors with proven business qualifications to run a new economic development corporation.
- The capital raised will be used to assist new and existing employers involved in manufacturing, processing or distribution.
- Use of funds is limited by state law to the encouragement of economic development and creation of jobs.
- Retail businesses are not eligible for assistance.
- Examples of assistance:
  - loans for acquisition or construction of industrial facilities.
  - build for lease-back of industrial buildings and equipment.
  - investments in land, utilities, roads and transportation to sites.
  - investments facilities and equipment for education/training.

Who will benefit and how?

- Every Midlander...a strong, diverse Midland economy will create many opportunities:
  - managerial, administrative and technical jobs
  - increased retail sales
  - increased real estate sales and property values
  - diversification and new industry
  - an expanded tax base and economic prosperity

If we're going to keep Midland great, we've got to work together and create our own future.

If you have questions about the vital issues related to economic development or if you would like to offer your support, call 688-8500 or write Midlanders for Economic Opportunity at P.O. Box 1890, Midland, Texas 79702.

Prices steady

NEW YORK — Oil prices finished with little change Monday amid an uncertain outlook for the resumption of Iraqi production.

West Texas Intermediate for delivery in February settled at $19.21 per barrel, down 2 cents, at the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Many traders believed prices are headed down, as they have been for weeks. But some were staying on the sidelines pending the outcome of talks between Iraq and the United Nations on the possible resumption of Iraqi crude sales.

Some traders believe prices could rise if Iraqi oil does not soon return to the market.

Natural gas prices were mixed, with contracts for delivery in February settling at $1.278 per 1,000 cubic feet, down 2.1 cents.

Dollar falls

NEW YORK — The dollar fell sharply against other major currencies Monday as traders theorized that American and Japanese officials would push the greenback lower to reduce the U.S. trade deficit.

The dollar fell to 123.40 yen in New York from 124.65 late Friday.

The British pound surged nearly 3½ cents higher to $1.8830 in New York trading from $1.8485 on Friday.

Other late dollar rates in New York, compared with late Friday's prices, included: 1.51575 German marks, down from 1.5435.

Rates fall

WASHINGTON — Interest rates on short-term Treasury securities resumed their fall in Monday's auction after a brief advance a week earlier.

The Treasury Department sold $10.3 billion in three-month bills at an average discount rate of 3.85 percent, down from 3.91 percent last week. Another $10.3 billion was sold in six-month bills at an average discount rate of 3.86 percent, also down from 3.91 percent last week.

The three-month bill rate was the lowest since they sold for 3.75 percent on Dec. 23. The six-month bill rate was the lowest since they averaged 3.85 percent, also on Dec. 23.

Market dips

NEW YORK — The stock market ended an 11-session winning streak Monday by settling mixed, but optimism continued to reign despite sporadic bouts of profit-taking.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials gave up 1.35 points to close at 3,200.13, the first time the key index has posted a decline since Dec. 17.

1991 Ford sales drop 13.6 percent

■ Midland auto sales defy national trend, local dealers say.

Associated Press

DETROIT — Ford Motor Co. said Monday its 1991 sales dropped 13.6 percent from the year before and Chrysler Corp. reported a 11.2 percent drop, leading the way to the industry's worst sales year since 1983.

General Motors Corp., the world's largest automaker, had not reported its 1991 sales by mid-afternoon Monday.

Sales in Midland, however, apparently bucked the national trend, according to a survey of some local dealers.

Doss Rogers of Rogers Ford said sales were up slightly over 1990, putting the figure at about 2 to 3 percent.

Bill Stella of Village Lincoln Mercury Dodge said sales were very good in 1990, with sales of new cars up 5 percent and sales of used cars up 15 percent. "We're ahead of last year, and December was ahead of last year. We're very satisfied," he said.

Jack Sherman said sales at his Jack Sherman Chevrolet Kodiak Geo were off slightly, "but not to any great extent. I felt there was a little conservatism among our customers. They were pretty cost-conscious ... they want full value for their dollar."

Rogers said he believed that national auto sales were impacted largely by declines on both the east and west coasts. In the Permian Basin, he said, "we didn't have the big booms they did in the 1980s. We didn't have the upswings they had, so we're not going to have the sharp downswings either."

For his part, Sherman expressed confidence that 1992 is "going to be a lot better year."

Ford, the world's No. 2 automaker, said its sales totaled 2,867,371 in 1991 compared with 3,317,096 the year before, with car sales down 15.8 percent and truck sales down 10.4 percent.

Chrysler's car and truck sales amounted to 1,448,671 compared with 1,698,068 in 1990. Chrysler's car sales were down 25.2 percent and truck sales, including its popular minivan, were off just 3.8 percent.

The Japanese automakers didn't escape the drop in sales last year, though the fall was less steep than Ford's.

Honda Motor Co. Ltd., the third-largest Japanese automaker, said today its U.S. sales of imported and North American-made cars fell 6 percent last year compared with 1990.

Toyota Motor Corp., Japan's largest automaker, said its sales last year ran 4.4 percent behind last year, with car sales declining 4.8 percent and truck sales off 3.3 percent.

But Honda laid claim for the third-straight year to making the best-selling car in the United States. The Honda Accord, made in Japan and Marysville, Ohio, took the honors with 399,297 in sales.

In second place was the Ford Taurus at 299,659 last year. The Taurus also placed second to the Accord in 1990.

Revco creditors' voting results not conclusive

TWINSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Four of seven classes of creditors approved a management-backed plan to reorganize Revco D.S. Inc.

But competing plans filed by two other drugstore chains remain under consideration.

Revco filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy court protection in July 1988 when it failed to make an interest payment on $800 million of high-yield junk bonds.

Management is supporting a reorganization plan devised by creditors, but plans have also been submitted by Rite-Aid Corp. and Jack Eckerd Corp., two competing chains.

Of the seven different types of creditors who voted on the plans, banks, trade and two groups of subordinated debt holders favored the creditors' plan. Rite-Aid's plan was favored by two types of bondholders, while the Eckerd plan was favored by one class of noteholders.

NYSE celebrates 200th anniversary

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Stock Exchange on Monday kicked off a yearlong commemoration of its 200th anniversary, dating its birth to a pact signed by 24 brokers under a buttonwood tree.

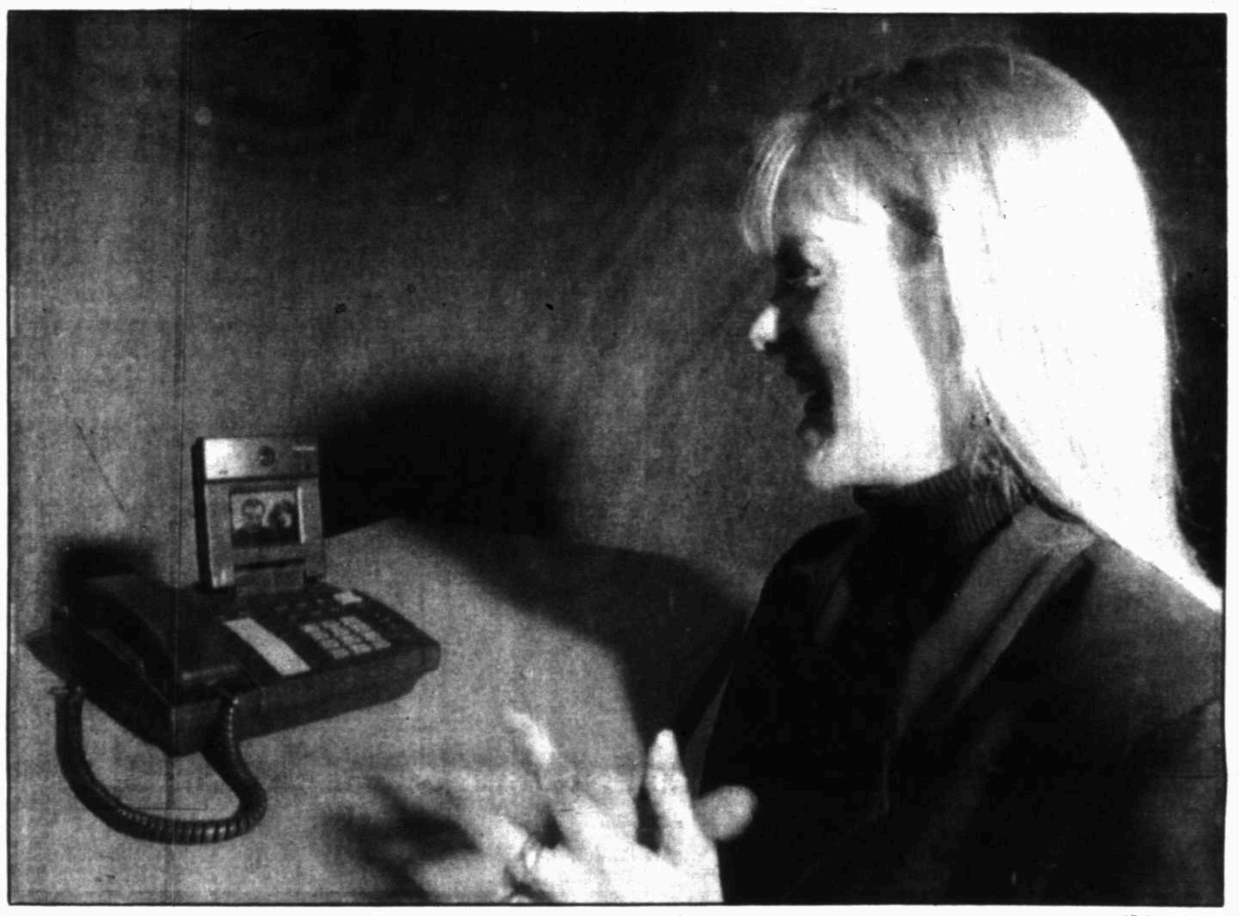

The world's second-biggest stock exchange (behind Tokyo's) plans to celebrate its bicentennial with a 29-cent U.S. Postal Service stamp, a coffeetable book, a shiny medallion and a possible visit by President Bush.

The start of the festivities comes during a market rally that has sent the Dow Jones industrial average soaring above 3,200 for the first time.

But facing increasing competition, the NYSE hopes to use 1992 to boost its image. It also will push plans for attracting more foreign stock listings and defend its floor trading system, which some critics call outdated.

"We want to make sure this is not just a chest-thumping thing but an educational opportunity for us," NYSE Chairman William H. Donaldson said in an interview.

An onslaught of fully computerized marketplaces, such as the Nasdaq over-the-counter market, are challenging the NYSE's dominance. So the exchange wants to stress the breadth and safety of a system combining humans and computers.

AT&T unveils VideoPhone

By Bart, Ziegler
Associated Press writer

NEW YORK — AT&T on Monday announced a $1,500 color video phone for consumers and said it would install a version of the device in airports and hotel lobbies later this year.

The video picture was somewhat jerky in the phone unveiled at a news conference, but AT&T said it was convinced the market for the device has ripened, nearly three decades after the technology was introduced.

The AT&T VideoPhone 2500 arrives 28 years after the company first displayed a PicturePhone prototype at the New York World's Fair. AT&T never made a version of that black-and-white device. Instead, it built expensive videoconferencing rooms for businesses.

The VideoPhone 2500 sends and receives video and voice calls over existing phone lines for the same price as voice-only calls. The 6-pound phone contains a built-in camera and tiny video screen and is about the size of a phone-answering machine unit.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said it is the first company to offer picture phones that operate on household phone lines. Other systems, which start at about $20,000, require special digital phone lines and are aimed at business users.

AT&T said it believed picture phones would become as common as VCRs and camcorders, and that the price should drop as demand picks up. It said it would license its technology so other companies can make the machines. The machine will not work with other video phones on the market.

The picture quality on the AT&T phone is far from perfect. The movement of a caller's face, for example, may look more like a series of snapshots than the full-motion video of television.

That's because the phone can only send up to 10 frames per second to show motion. TV is transmitted at 30 frames a second. The phone's transmission rate can drop to as low as two frames per second when the caller is moving quickly.

"The technology is very fascinating," said Roger Redmond, an analyst at the Minneapolis investment firm Piper, Jaffray & Hopwood. "But is the consumer market ready for video communications? I suspect not yet."

Difference between T-bill discount, return

By Bill Doyle

Q. Newspaper reports of the U.S. Treasury Department's sales of three-month, six-month and one-year U.S. Treasury bills always give the percentage "discount" at which the bills were sold and also say the discount "understates the return (in interest) to investors" — a somewhat higher percentage.

Doyle

Why isn't the discount the same as the return?

A. Because the discount is a percentage of the bill's face value and the return — also called "yield" — is arrived at by dividing the dollar amount of the discount by the purchase price.

Remember that a T-bill is a discount security. You buy one at a price less than face value and receive face value when the T-bill reaches maturity.

This is best explained by a somewhat inexact example. It's inexact by necessity, because T-bills are not issued for precisely three-months, six months and one year. Instead, they come in 13-week, 26-week and 52-week maturities.

Let's say, at a regular Treasury auction, you buy a $10,000 face value, one-year T-bill at a 5 percent discount. Your purchase price is $9,500. When that bill matures, you get $10,000. The $500 difference between the two prices was your discount at the time you bought and it's counted as your interest when the bill matures.

You had $9,500 invested for a year on which you received $500 interest. Voila! Your return or yield was 5.26 percent — $500 divided by $9,500.

Q. Being a stickler for accuracy, I would like to double-check the yields on 13-week and 26-week T-bills when I buy them at Treasury auctions. Can you provide the mathematics for doing that?

A. OK. Get your calculator warmed up. Here's the formula, right out of Federal Reserve Bank literature.

Step one: Subtract the price you paid for the T-bill from the bill's face value and divide that number by your purchase price.

Step two: Divide 365 (366 in a leap year) by the number of days to the bill's maturity — 91 for a 13-week bill or 182 for a 26-week bill.

Step three: Multiply the result of step one by the result of step two. That's your yield or return, sometimes called "coupon equivalent rate."

The Fed's literature adds, "Similar but more complex formulas are used to make these calculations for 52-week bills." Rather than go through these calculations my suggestion is to believe the results announced by the U.S. Treasury Department, which isn't out to cheat you.

Q. Is the idea in Treasury bills, notes and bonds like stocks — buy low and sell high?

A. That's a great idea, when it works. The trouble is it does not work for most people. Those who try it usually lose their shirts. The vast majority of individual investors who purchase Treasury securities do so for the purpose of collecting the interest those the bills, notes and bonds pay and with the intention of holding until those securities mature.

You can speculate in Treasury securities, just as you can by in-and-out trading in the stock market. Even with stocks, most individual buyers are in for the long haul. One Wall Street adage that has rung true over the years goes: "Traders die broke."

Q. Is the government calling U.S. Treasury notes?

A. No! Treasury notes are issued with maturities ranging from two to 10 years. The government does not have the right to call in any of those notes and redeem them before maturity.

U.S. Treasury bonds, on the other hand, come with maturities of from more than 10 to as long as 30 years. Some long-term Treasuries are callable five years before their maturity dates. You can spot them easily in newspaper Treasury securities tables. In the "Maturity" column, they have two numbers, such as "Aug95-00" — meaning the government must pay them off in the August of the year 2000 but has the right to do so beginning in August 1995.

AT WIT'S END

Experience is the hands-down winner

By Erma Bombeck

I attended a depressing luncheon last week with a few of my friends. Things were going well until Phyllis observed that we were all holding the menus with our mothers' hands.

Bombeck

As liver spots danced before our eyes and purple veins rose and fell like a starlet's chest, she also pointed out that no matter what we do cosmetically, our hands will continue their march toward old age.

"You can smooth out your neck, adjust your nose, remove the bags from your eyes, suck the fat out of your thighs and raise your tush to your shoulder blades," she said, "but those hands are going to give you away."

We were all struck silent by the truth of what she was saying.

"It happened to Scarlett," said Pat.

"Scarlett who?" I asked.

"Scarlett O'Hara in 'Gone With the Wind.' You remember when she went to see Rhett Butler in prison after the war. It wasn't the homemade draperies she was wearing that gave her away ... it was her hands. Rhett didn't need a burning barn to fall on him to realize that with those lobster claws, she had been working in the turnip patch."

Jill pounded on the table. "If they can pump 15 pounds of pressure into Cher's lips, why can't they figure out a procedure for women's hands?"

"It's because most of our doctors are men," said Joyce. "What do they care? Do you know what my gynecologist told me last week? He said, 'Did you know you have the dense glands of a woman in her 20s?' "

"What are dense glands?"

"That's my point," she said quickly. "If it doesn't show, who cares? Is someone going to come up to me at a party and say, 'I couldn't take my eyes off your dense glands. How do you keep them so young?' "

There was another moment of silence before Phyllis said: "In a way, our hands are our history. They've withstood bleach, mud, snowballs and meat loaf. They've rocked cradles, soothed fevers and hung clothes on a line in freezing temperatures. They've typed a million term papers, sewn on a thousand buttons, clutched steering wheels and applauded school pageants. They've been punctured, chafed, scratched and folded in prayer. They represent who we are."

Sometimes Phyllis gets on your nerves.

Finns broadcast news in Latin to world

By Matti Huuhtanen
Associated Press writer

HELSINKI, Finland — Quick, what is Latin for the new Commonwealth of Independent States, and why are Finns even asking?

Because Radio Finland wants to know, keeping what is generally considered to be a dying language alive on international airwaves.

Every week, Radio Finland transmits "Nuntii Latini," a five-minute new bulletin, to all corners of the world.

"It's a gimmick, but a good gimmick. It's brought us a lot of fame and many interesting people listen to us," said Juhani Niinisto, head of external services at the Finnish Broadcasting Co.

Radio Finland receives letters each week from students, teachers, priests, nuns and other Latin buffs, from China to Harvard University.

Pope John Paul II praised the program and wished it success after he heard a cassette of "Nuntii Latini" last year. The Vatican broadcasts Latin programs, but no news.

The Finnish Broadcasting Co. was the first to begin regular radio news bulletins in Latin, said producer Hannu Taanila, who started the programs in September 1989. Last year, Austrian national radio followed suit.

Taanila had asked Reijo Pitkaranta, a Latin lecturer at the University of Helsinki, to translate a speech for a joke.

But Taanila said he was told "Latin is very much alive, contrary to what I had believed."

Taanila proposed a Latin news bulletin on the domestic radio service, but was turned down because few Finns study Latin.

"So, I just inserted it into my weekly arts review program on a regular basis," said Taanila. "It was a cultural deed and I have not regretted it."

Two months later, Niinisto started broadcasting the program on the international service, which uses short, medium and long waves.

When Finland Broadcasting managers learned how popular it was, they gave Latin news its own slot on the domestic service in autumn 1990.

Tuomo Pekkanen, a University of Jyvaskyla professor, helps Pitkaranta compile the program.

"It forces us to find Latin expressions for new concepts," Pekkanen said. A recent challenge was the Commonwealth of Independent States, which replaced the Soviet Union.

"We came up with 'Communitas rerum publicarum independentium,' which I think is pretty good. It's a bit long, but then it's long in any language," said Pekkanen, who has taught Latin for 35 years.

The show's frequencies and time to South and North America are: 9560, 11755, 15400, 21550 kHz on Saturdays at 8:55 a.m. and 8:45 p.m. CST as well as Sundays at 8:55 a.m. CST.

WHAT! NEWSPAPER ROUTES?

That's right...one of the best part-time income supplements around. Doesn't conflict with your 'day job.' Doesn't require day care. And it's dependable income.

Fact: 90% of our Distributors NOW are ADULTS supplementing their income with Route Distributorships!

Fact: Our Distributors make from $300-$800 monthly AFTER expenses, some even more!

The catch? You've gotta be able to handle early mornings and weekends! And when you take a few days off, you'll need to find a substitute for yourself.

So...are you serious about MOONLIGHTING, or what? If you are, and you have dependabletransportation and can put up a $100 deposit...

Call 688-2700 and start making that extra car payment today!
