MYSTERY FARM NO. 37

This is another in the series of mystery farms that the Wellington Leader is offering to its readers with a chance for fun and entertainment. Do you know the farm this week? It could be rather difficult to identify because of the angle which the photographer took it; however, if you look close enough you can see the many distinguishable figures that it has. The sloped roof, the barn in the background, the garage, and the foliage-covered trees should be able to give the reader a good idea where the farm is and to whom it belongs. The first person that correctly identifies the farm will receive two show passes and the owner will get a beautiful 5 x 8 picture of the farm as it is in the Leader. No calls for identification can be received at the Leader office before 8:00 p. m. Thursday, July 1.

Miss Rose Shadid, Miss Marie Shadid and George Shadid of the Fair Store attended fall market show in Amarillo Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Wilson and sons, Don and Lynn of Pasadena visited Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Wilson and LaJuan last week. They returned home Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Boyett of Amarillo visited over the week end with Mrs. Lucille Baird and Mr. and Mrs. Sam McGill.

Mrs. Annie Ogle returned home to Chico after visiting last week with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Pink Sullivan.

Logan Cummings and his two daughters, Carol and Janie, of Falls spent the week end here with his father, W. E. Cummings and sister, Mrs. W. W. Neeley. Mrs. Cummings who accompanied them here, went on to Oklahoma City.

Be on Alert for Screw Worms

College Station—Texas stockmen are advised to lookout for screw-worms and to treat all live-stock wounds to prevent worm infestation.

Mild winters, similar to the one just past, induce an early worm build up, says Neal M. Randolph, extension entomologist.

To prevent and curb infection Randolph recommends EQ-335 smear. It contains lindane which gives a lasting killing effect. One application a week, except in severe cases, will do the job.

Screw-worms increase rapidly once present. If headed off from the start, a lot of trouble can be avoided, the entomologist says.

New Improvements Made
At Quail High School

When the students at the Quail schools start registration for the new term on Monday, August 16, they will be greeted by a new re-modeled school building and many new features. Two new 1954 Chevrolet buses have been purchased and they will be placed on the system's routes when school begins.

This information was released by the superintendent of school, Her-men Moseley.

The reconditioning project will last through-out the entire summer. The work program was approved by the school board on the recommendation of Supt. Moseley. The reintegration program is a cash and carry program, or pay as you go plan, the school head declared.

Included in the multi-project work plan is the painting of the walls and ceilings of the buildings, sealing of the floors, new shades for the high school, the addition to the business department of three typewriters and one adding machine, new furniture in the first and second grades, a new piano for the music department, a new stage curtain, and many other improvements, Moseley stated.

He went on to say, we have shown that our school is a growing concern and that is exactly what the faculty, and the members of the community want it to be, and next year, we are looking forward to a great school year for the students, faculty and the parents, he said.

Mrs. L. E. Rehbein has returned to her home at Chillicothe, Illinois, after a month's visit with her father, A. R. Pepper and brother, Fred Pepper. Her daughter, Miranda, is visiting with relatives in Oklahoma this summer. Mrs. Rehbein will be remembered here as Miss Florence Pepper. She and her family have lived at Chillicothe for the last four years, where Mr. Rehbein is with the Santa Fe Railway.

Average U. S. Citizen Has A Lot To Be Thankful For

Every now and then it pays to look at the kind of life we are living in the United States. A lot of things can be found in the current statistics.

In deed, we could afford to be a carefree people if they were the measure of how things are going for this world. The magazine U. S. News has done another of its competent surveys on our living standards, and it finds the picture astonishingly bright. It parallels throughout the survey between 1940 and now.

In 1940 America had somewhat less than 40 million families, while today the total exceeds 38 million.

Then, when the nation was just emerging from a long depression into the prosperity of the prewar "defense era," only 15,200,000 families—well below half—owned their own homes. Today 28,500,000, considerably more than half the country's families, possess their homes.

The automobile long has been a symbol of U. S. living standards and in 1940 a bit more than half our families had one. Yet in 1954 the figure has soared far beyond the 1940 total of 21,200,000 to a present 37,000,000 families—three-fourths—who own cars.

Take a look at such indexes of material well-being as home electricity, running water, inside toilets, tub or shower baths, the telephone.

In 1940, 79 per cent of U. S. homes had electricity, in 1954, 98 per cent; the comparable figures on running water are 65 per cent and 88 per cent; on toilets, 65 percent and 80 per cent; on tubs or showers, 61 per cent and 78 cent; on telephones, a mere 36 per cent and 69 per cent.

For all the jokes of our European friends about our "bathtub culture," these are not trivial figures. They are the kind the sociologist pays close heed to in measuring the quality of our housing. When the experts talk of "sub-standard" housing, they mean, among other things, houses deficient in some of the items noted above.

Americans, of course, have not been content with these minimum essentials of good housing. They have gone to outfitting their households with all manner of devices and appliances, some of which are obviously labor-saving and others of which fall into the "luxury" category.

Some 42 per cent of U. S. homes had washing machines in 1940, and today the percentage is 72. Use of vacuum cleaners is up from 34 per cent to 56. On electric irons, the increase is from 67 per cent to 83 per cent of all families; on toasters, from 39 per cent to 66.

Radio was well established in 1940, with 83 per cent of all families owning one or more. In the years since—and the period covers the great impact of TV—usage of radio has gone up to 98 per cent.

Meantime, TV, starting from scratch in 1940, has zoomed to a point where already 61 per cent of all U. S. families own a set.

Figures like these don't say anything about our spiritual condition, or our moral standards, or our troubled relations with friends and potential enemies beyond our shores.

But they do make it strikingly plain that in the business of gaining the hard necessities and many of the shiny appurtenances of material life, we are well ahead of where we used to be. That's something to be thankful for.

Burglary Season

Vacation time put a lot of people doing extra jobs, such as helping to man service stations, roadside eating places, playgrounds, resorts, and numerous other aces people patronize when vacation time. Unfortunately, it also is the busy season for burglaries.

During the two or three minutes it takes to run through these few paragraphs, depending on your reading rate, a like number of homes in this country will be entered and ransacked for articles which may be quickly sold. The FBI says a home in this country is burglarized, on the average, almost every minute. The actual rate is 55 per cent per hour, an increase of five per hour last year over 1952.

These robberies do not occur in the plush homes of the wealthy. According to the G-men these homes are too well guarded, and usually the transportable valuables are removed and stored when the family is away. The vast bulk of the loot carried away by prowlers is from middle class homes, the homes of those who have to work for the things they need.

Burglars get most of their help in the business of stealing from their victims. Folks rush off without notifying the milk man, the newsboy, the mail man—or arranging with neighbors to take care of deliveries. After a few days piled-up milk bottles, newspapers and mail tells the prowler in quite plain language that the family is away, which takes as an invitation to move in and help himself.

You can help keep your home safe while away by taking the few precautions mentioned above, and by notifying the police that you are leaving for so many days or weeks and ask them to keep an eye on things. But be sure to visit the desk sergeant when you return or you might have some explaining to do. And, thank them for the vice.

Water Conservation Vital

Water conservation is an acre-by-acre, in-by-farm proposition.

To half-way measures are going to solve the water problem which now plagues Texas. The recent scourge of drought has been a nuisance over the eastern half of our state, but it speaks badly to our soil in West Texas.

These storms are just the beginning. We are yet to come unless we get water and soil immediately.

Plans will be useful in this program but they alone are not the final answer. Although we waste 85 per cent of our annual water supply by downstream floods and fields runoffs, we need more thadams to hold back the tide.

The practice of every known water and soil conservation measure on the farm level is the first step. Then we need some practical laws which would help control underground and surface supplies in the critical areas of the state. This would help assure a fair distribution of what we have.

In building dams, three types may be necessary—small check dams in the upper tributaries, larger storage dams to furnish municipal water and irrigation, and huge dualpurpose storage and power dams in the major rivers.

All these steps should be considered in seeing a solution. But it would be futile to consider the steps separately. If only the large dams were built, they would soon be clogged with upstream silt due to the lack of other conservation methods.

Our future water supply will determine whether we continue our industrial development in Texas or succumb to economic stagnation.

We must take action on our water problem!

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note. The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek seems a little riled up this week. He'll get over it.

Dear Editor:

I was fiddlin with my radio the other night tryin to get a weather report, you can't always depend on a weather report, but when a man needs a rain forecast is better than nothing, when I accidentally tuned in a speech somebody was making, I never did catch his name, but I was interested in what he said.

Accordin to him, "the average man is the key to peace in the world."

Now first off I'd like to say I have never met an average man, but I think I know what a speaker means by the phases, it's people like you and me, especially me, and for that reason I would like to disagree violently with anybody who says I'm the key to peace in the world. I don't have a thing to do with it.

All the wars I can remember, I didn't even know was happening till I read about it in the papers, and all the armistices I can remember, I didn't know was signed till I read about that too. They can't pin it on me.

You take the present trouble in Indo-China. Why, in the last fifteen or twenty years I don't guess I've spent fifteen seconds thinking about that country, don't even know which direction it is from here, and anybody who is dependin on me to bring about peace over there has sure got his head in the clouds and his foot in his mouth at the same time. If I ever had the key to peace in Indo-China, I blamed sure have misplaced it. I've gone through my brain and my pants' pockets too, and it ain't here.

Maybe in the Revolutionary War the average man had something to do with it, maybe in the Civil War, when a man with a single-shot rifle was as well armed as anybody else, but nowadays it's the men who control the bombs and the airplanes that have the key, and I ain't got a bomb or an airplane to my name.

I am afraid that big shots cause wars, not little shots, and I decline the honor of the responsibility.

I'm sure in favor of peace, I've got more than I can do fightin insects, not to mention somebody on the other side of the world I don't even know their last names, and if the world is looking to me to solve its problems, it had better lay in some more headache powder.

Yours faithfully,

J. A.

Bible Comment For July 4

Jesus Appears to Us In Two Aspects

Jesus in the Gospel narrative appears in two characters, or aspects, that to the undiscerning eye might seem different.

Nevertheless, both express His teaching concerning honesty and justice, sincerity and love.

We see Him as the compassionate Savior and friend—dealing gently with sinful men and women, commending a good Samaritan, weeping with those who wept, blessing little children—a Savior looking upon the multitude as sheep without a shepherd.

Then in another aspect, we see Him as the implacable, indignant Christ, driving the money-changers from the Temple.

And when we turn to Matthew, we read in His words the most terrible indictment of evil men ever spoken even against those who considered themselves the officially religious of their day.

Surely sterner words have never been spoken than in that succession of "Woes!"

It is easy to reconcile these words with the gentleness and compassion that the Master showed toward other sinners, for these Temple sinners sinned against the humanity and compassion of the Master's gospel of love. They sinned against their fellow men, as well as against God.

It might be said that Jesus was compassionate toward sins of the flesh, but completely denunciatory of willful sins of the spirit.

But in His compassion there was no soft sentimentalism, no excuse or blurring of values. To sinners, whom His very love drew to repentance, He said: "Your sins are forgiven; go, and sin no more." He taught them true values and the way to a better life.

The only way we can expect to get better legislation is to elect better legislators — which places the responsibility squarely in the hands of the nation's voters.

Nobody has ever made a law that will prevent a man from making a fool of himself—if he has a wife, though, he can't do it without knowing about it.

Chronic complainers who suffer agonies because they feel they are misunderstood probably would suffer a great deal more if they were understood.

Many a small boy is the kind of a kid his mother wouldn't want him to play with.

Statistics prove that the majority of traffic accidents are caused by human carelessness. War casualties are inevitable—traffic casualties need not be.

Twelve Die, 74 Injured in May Traffic Accidents

Twelve persons were killed in rural accidents investigated by the Texas Highway Patrol in the Amarillo district during May, J. W. Blackwell, captain of the Texas Highway Patrol announced this week.

In addition to this loss of life, 74 persons were injured and property damage was estimated at $57,714.

The 29 patrolmen on duty investigated 92 accidents. Seventy-four of these were on state and county highways, 7 on farm to town roads, 5 on county roads and 5 in towns under 2,500 population. Larger towns do not come under the highway patrol jurisdiction.

The principal violations as causes of the accidents were speeding, following too close, failure to yield right of way, driving while drinking and driving on the wrong side of the road.

In April the principal violations causing accidents were speeding, driving while drinking, failure to grant right of way, driving on the wrong side of the road (not in passing) and following too close.

By way of comparison, in April of this year, only three were killed, 41 injured, and property damage amounted to $57,485. A year ago, in May 1953, 6 were killed, 54 injured and there was $63,000 property damage.

During May of this year, there were 454 traffic arrests, including 162 speeding arrests and 32 DWI arrests, and a total of 1102 warnings for hazardous violations.

Benson Prediction

Asia Will Not Start World War 1954 But Danger Spots Remain

Worcester, Mass., June 24. — The columnists and editors last December expressed for 1954, I predicted that 1954 would be a "business year." This year my forecast which appeared in this paper.

AL BUSINESS

My general optimism regarding prospects during the last half of 1954 will be many cross-improvement over months will be no set. Some industries fall behind. Others or betterment. Build-up well, and was the business in the first. The momentum generated carry through the year.

Serving of attention continued high improvement, are industries: Electric aircraft production, storing, household electrical equipment, natural gas, shoes, and the sick coal industry some pickup from the levels experienced first six months of airplanes have been out in favor of items for atomic warfare and guided missiles. Best authorities agree that we will get more protection and fighting strength from this change with less cost. As a promise "to get our boys out of Korea" was a great factor in electing Dwight Eisenhower as President, he naturally will hesitate to send U. S. foot soldiers into Indo-China, at least before the coming November elections.

WAR AND PEACE

(9) There will be no World War in 1954 started by Russia or the U.S.A. In the last half of 1954, however, the United States will move closer and closer to the position occupied by Great Britain the 19th Century. The United States will prepare to engage in small wars anywhere in order to prevent outbreak of a world conflagration.

(10) I predict that the United States in the last six months of 1954 may by-pass the United Nations and try to form a "defensive" league of nations interested in Southeast Asia. The purpose: To keep the rice, tin, and rubber of that area from falling into Communist hands. Most of the arms and military know-how needed by such alliance of anti-Communist nations in the Far East will be furnished by Uncle Sam. This means hat cuts in arms expenditures, already scheduled for the last half of 1954 by the Administration, may not be put into effect.

The Korean situation will remain about as is—"much talkie, no shootie"; but Indo-China will constantly become a greater threat.

(11) Do not forget Europe and the Middle East. France is torn by internal dissension and a blow-off could come there any time. West Germany is growing more impatient with French bickering over the Saar and over the formation of a Western European army including German participation. Russia will strive mightily to widen the split between France and Western Germany by holding out the "bait" of reunion between East and West Germany.

(12) Friction between the Jews and the Arabs in the Middle East is being encouraged by Communist agents. The smoldering fires there could break into flame at any time, requiring a hurry-up call for Uncle Sam's fire department.

STOCK MARKET OUTLOOK

(13) Of course, some day the market (especially the Dow-Jones Industrials) will get a bad wallop with very much lower prices. On the other hand, this may not come during the next few months. Up to this time the high yields of stocks have not appealed so much to investors, owing to the personal tax on both dividends and on income in general. Although stock yields compared with those of twenty years ago are higher if personal taxes are not considered, yet when their personal taxes are deducted, today's yields have not been attractive.

(14) The new Tax Bill and the increase buying for pension funds and investment trusts have, however, increased the demand for common stocks and could hold the market up for some months to come.

I forecast that it will be very important to make careful selections of stocks. Don't buy stocks just because they have gone off heavily in price and appear cheap.

(15) Unfortunately, many small concerns will find it more and more difficult to compete with their big competitors. Not only can these big corporations make goods cheaper and have better means of distribution, but they can spend huge sums on advertising, which a smaller concern cannot do. This will be especially evident during the next six months. The companies which will prosper most are those which have inaugurated effective labor-saving programs. Manufacturers will win only as they purchase new labor-saving machinery, spend more money on research and on well-directed advertising.

(16) Automobiles will continue to be hard to sell and easier to buy during the last half of the year. Both the automobile stocks and the cars will be in less demand. There will be more bargains in used cars, discounts on new cars of the "independent" manufacturers.

(17) Canada will continue to boom during the second half of 1954, but this may be a good time to take profits on Canadian investments.

MONEY, INFLATION, AND INTEREST RATES

(18) When Mr. Eisenhower assumed the Presidency with his Cabinet of "9 millionaires," they proclaimed a new monetary policy which would increase the value of the dollar and raise interest rates. Either fortunately or unfortunately, the economic situation caused a reversal of this policy. The value of the dollar shows no increase over January 1st and this has been hailed by Wall Street as a sign of further inflation. Wall Street has boomed certain common stocks accordingly. Interest rates during the second six months of 1954 should average about as at present.

(19) The fear of involvement in Indo-China is strengthening the commodity markets. This takes some of the pressure off of Secretary Benson and those who have been resisting increased tariffs. I forecast an upward movement in many commodity prices—other than farm prices—during the balance of 1954.

SNACKTIME—This modest (?) display of chicken, lamb, rice, and uncounted side dishes recently was served in the home of the Emir of Hofuf, in Arabia. The mammoth table of delicacies was set in honor of visiting Saudi Arabian newsmen, who journeyed to Hofuf with Finance Minister Sheikh Abdulla Suleiman, and the meal was considered in no way extravagant by princely standards.

(20) Money supplies are on the rise again. They will continue to expand during the last half. Inflationary effects on the price level will be limited as our capacity to produce is now large. Remember, the surest way to squelch an inflationary fire is with a flood of goods. Inflationary effects of the expanded money supply could also be nullified by the change in the Government's method of collecting the corporate income tax. The new tax law may put the large corporations on a pay-as-you-go basis, squeezing their cash holdings.

(21) Any psychological inflationary flare-ups that may take place as a result of war scares, big or little, will not be long-lived. They will definitely be dangerous to follow up. A word of warning: Don't get drawn into any speculative moves in commodities or stocks based on the outbreak of a small war. If the need arises, our Government will move with lightning swiftness to put controls into effect. They are already "triggered." The only real danger of any federal tax increases will come with the outbreak of another war.

LABOR, BUILDING, AND REAL ESTATE

(22) As to unemployment, I will say that this has increased some over last year, but if considered on a per-capita basis, it is even less than that of five years ago. Look for moderate reduction in the ranks of the unemployed during the last six months of 1954.

(23) The improvement which I expect in employment should not, however, be sufficient to make union leaders careless. Jobs will still be very much in demand. This should mean that the last half will see no prolonged strikes.

(24) Most union-management settlements will be made with a moderate amount of give and take. Any wage advances will be limited to the neighborhood of a reasonable hourly figure, plus some additional fringe benefits. The Administration and the Labor Leaders will not try to revamp the Taft-Hartley Bill during the last six months of 1954.

(25) My forecast as to the various classes of real estate is as follows:

(a) Large commercial farms will experience a further sag in their land values during the last half as farmers' gross income dips lower.

(b) Small farms on the fringes of big city suburbs should hold or rise in price as people get further away from city centers. This move could become an avalanche in the event of really serious war scares.

(c) I look for vacant land in the suburbs to hold its value well. In the big cities it may be another story, unless the land is suitable for parking purposes.

(d) Business properties in the big cities may ease somewhat in price during the last six months of this year. Suburban business properties can be expected to hold up. Demand for more shopping centers will be noticeable during the months to come.

(e) Home property (especially the older houses, particularly in the cities) will continue sagging in price. In the suburbs, the bigger houses, even of recent vintage, will be harder to sell. Most salable home properties will be the newer houses in the middle and lower-price brackets with emphasis on the "ranch-houses" so-called.

(f) In the last half-year, construction will still be a powerful support to our economy as it has been for so long. Seasonally, building will hold well, strengthened by continued liberal credit terms. Some boost to building could come in the second half if civilian destruction is held up by many factories to move operations into areas far from bomb-vulnerable cities.

CONCLUSION: I cannot end this Forecast without reminding readers we are living in a truly New Era, comparable only with the year I A. D., 1954 years ago, or the invention of printing 500 years ago. The H-Bomb, in the hands of any ambitious dictator, could bring about unparalleled conditions. These changes could make things, about which I have written above, of little value or consequence. Only a great spiritual awakening can save us.

conquers corrosive wear... because this exclusive new discovery gives Conoco Super up to twice the cleansing power of other premium oils!

Automotive engineers have long known that friction and corrosion are the two major causes of engine wear. Now, from the laboratories of Continental Oil, comes America's first Double-Duty motor oil. It combines two exclusive discoveries (Oil-Plating and Acid-Proofing)* to conquer both major causes of engine wear.

The unique Oil-Plating additive conquers friction wear by actually fastening a thin film of protective oil to engine parts. Unlike ordinary motor oil, this film won't drain down even when your engine has been stopped overnight. Thus you get full-time protection against damaging wear due to friction.

Exclusive Acid-Proofing additive conquers corrosive wear three ways—it neutralizes acids, prevents rust, and gobbles up tiny particles of dust, dirt, and water and seals them safely in spheres of oil until the oil is drained. ACID-PROOFING actually gives new Conoco Super twice the cleansing power of other premium oils!

Experiences While At Boy's State

"Boy's State is one of the greatest adventures that a boy can have, was the point that Virgil Wrigley, local delegate to the annual American Legion sponsored event, made to the members of the Wellington Kiwanis Club at their regular meeting, Friday, June 25.

"It would benefit every boy if he could get to go and participate in the meet. It gives a person an outlook on the views and looks of life of his state government and it makes him more interested in its workings, Wrigley said.

"We were divided into two parties—Longhorn and Pioneer parties. I was a Pioneer. We held political rallies and it was rather noisy, he mused, but we had many interesting moments in the caucus rooms and on our convention floor.

Wrigley was made Chief of the Education Division of the Texas Department of Public Safety while he was there. This was his part of the interesting work that he was assigned to do.

In order to provide entertainment for the boys, they were in a city which had its own mayor, councilmen and other officials. About 12 cities composed this element of Boy's State and the local representative was in Duning city. His office was similar to commission. The cities were set-up to primarily give the boys a team to play on during the sporting contests.

The entire group of 505 boys toured the University of Texas campus and they were fed in the campus cafeteria.

"I hope that next year some 600 boys will be able to enroll in Boy's State. I hope, also, that our local club can help sponsor, with the American Legion, another boy to go to the week-long stay, which I feel has done much toward making me a more informed citizen," Wrigley concluded.

Wrigley was sponsored by the Bank King Post as their representative to the annual Legion's State endeavor.

He spoke to the Legion on Tuesday, June 22, and to the Kiwanis on Friday, June 23, and the Rotary on Saturday, June 24.

In the middle of the floor, the attending physician said that had been dead about four hours and his death was attributed to heart attack. It is supposed that had gotten up a few minutes before he was stricken with the fatal attack to get something to ward off the pain. A wash cloth was found in his hand and the investigation officers surmised that he was using the damp cloth to get relief from the pain.

At the time of his death he was 46 years and 9 days old. He was on June 11, 1908. He is survived by his bride of four months, three sisters, who reside in a. had served with the army World War II and he was a member of the V.F.W. in Oklahoma City.

Funeral services under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home held at the West Wellington cemetery with Rev. Chester O'Brien officiating. Members of the V.F.W. also took part in the services.

HOW MANY (Independence Days) HAVE YOU LEFT

"We hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal: They are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights: That among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

These words are the stones upon which man's history's greatest work, the United States of America, was built. Remember them Well!

On this anniversary renew your faith and allegiance to the immortal truths in the Declaration of Independence. Make them an active part of your thinking, your actions, and your voting.

Pray for help in maintaining man's closeness to his God-given right and responsibility against those who would make you dependants upon an all-powerful government.
