Armed Men Take $250 In Terry Holdup

(Special To The Avalanche)

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 14,— South Plains officers at 2 a.m. this morning were patrolling highways in the area after three men held up and robbed A. B. Ellison of Aspermont of $250 in cash at gunpoint near Wellman, about 12 miles southwest of Brownfield.

The holdup was the second in the area in three days, a service station having been robbed in Lubbock early Sunday morning by a lone gunman.

The police radio at Lubbock was broadcasting an alert for the three suspects this morning to all state, county and city officers on the South Plains and surrounding area in an effort to apprehend the men in the latest robbery.

Car Shoved Off Highway

Ellison told police authorities at Brownfield that he was traveling toward Brownfield about 1 a.m. this morning when a car suddenly pulled up behind him and forced him off the highway. He said he thought it "might be the highway patrol," as he had a faulty tail light.

When he stopped, Ellison said, two of the men got out of a 1946 or 1947 black Ford coach and one of them shoved a .38 or .44 caliber blue steel revolver against his left front door window, breaking it.

They then demanded his money, and after taking twelve $20 bills and one $10 bill, drove off in the direction of Brownfield and Lubbock.

Description Is Given

A. C. Harbin, of the Brownfield police department, said that Ellison said he was unable to obtain a good look at the men or their car as they had removed the light fuse from his car. For that reason he could not obtain their license plate number when they hurriedly sped away.

However, Ellison had an extra fuse on his person, he said and after installing it drove to Brownfield where the robbery was reported shortly after 1 a.m. The area wide alert then was sounded over all South Plains law enforcement facilities.

Description of the holdup suspects was sketchy, Harbin told The Lubbock Morning Avalanche. One of them was reported to be heavy set, the other slender. No description was available of the third man who remained in the holdup car as driver.

No Clues Found In Holdup Here

No new developments had been announced last night in the search for a man who reportedly took $100 in an armed robbery of a local service station Sunday, police said.

In addition to the robbery, law enforcement officials reported a busy weekend, with a serious stabbing, a lesser stabbing and a variety of other investigations under way, including numerous thefts.

S. M. Cunningham, night attendant at McClain Oil company, at 301 Ave. H, said he was robbed at point of a pistol about 5 a. m. Sunday, by a lone hijacker who cut the telephone wires to the station and forced the attendant into a washroom and locked him in.

Ordered Gas For Car

Cunningham said the man, about 40, 5 feet 10 to 11 inches tall and weighing approximately 160 pounds, drove up and ordered gasoline pumped into his car.

After the car was serviced Cunningham said he went into the station, where the gunman

County Commissioners Okay Proposal

City-County Health Plan Gets Backing

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

A DECISION to join with the City of Lubbock in a City-County Department of Public Health and to pay its pro-rata share of expenses resulting was made Monday afternoon by Lubbock County Commissioners.

The annual overall budget was estimated at $96,440, of which the city would pay $81,450.

The action was taken after recent assurance of medical men and health authorities that the needs of public health "have outgrown our facilities, even though we have one of the leading departments in the state."

The proposed program has been under study by both the City commission and County commissioners court for several months. It now has to go back to the city commission for approval or disapproval by that group.

Facts Are Studied

A study of health programs and facilities of other leading cities of the state and nation was undertaken a half-dozen years ago. Information obtained by personal visits and by questionnaires was screened.

Facts that were kept constantly before those who made the study were: To study the needs of the community and build an adequate yet economical program to meet those needs; to build and organize this program so that it may be expanded to meet future needs without radical revisions and needless expenditures; to provide adequate personnel and facilities to carry on the duties involved in such a health program; and to provide such new ordinances as are needed and also make such revisions of existing ordinances to give proper coverage of present and anticipated needs.

Advantages Given

The organization of a City-County Department of Public Health offers many advantages, especially from standpoint of efficiency and economy, its proponents claim. It avoids establishment of two administrative units in a single area and "is in conformity with the estab-

Everything has been ordered to insure a visit by Santa Claus to the needy children of Lubbock Christmas morning, members of the Goodfellows' buying committee reported late Monday.

Now they need the money to pay for what they bought—enough to provide a package containing new toys and generous quantities of candy, fruits and nuts for each of the upwards of 4,000 children on the list.

Contributions to the Christmas fund picked up over the weekend. Acknowledgments today total $1,436.29, including $240.50 in new contributions. But the total is still less than half the $3,000 budget which allows only 75 cents per child. And the drive ends next Sunday.

Little time remains to take a part in this method of sharing the joys of Christmas with children who, for the most part, must depend wholly upon the Goodfellows for the gifts they receive. Without the Goodfellows, they would be forgotten.

Donations of any amount should be sent to the Chief Goodfellow in care of The Avalanche-Journal, 1211-13 Texas avenue.

Welfare Fund For Musicians Okayed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (AP)—The government tonight gave James C. Petrillo legal OK on his musicians union welfare fund, opening the way for immediate resumption of record making by AFL musicians.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark, and Labor department solicitor William S. Tyson said the welfare arrangement between the recording companies and the AFL Federation of Musicians is legal. Both sides had agreed on the selection of Samuel R. Rosenbaum, director of the Philadelphia Orchestra association, as the sole trustee of the $2,000,000 a year welfare fund.

The fund would be financed from a royalty of one cent to two and one-half cents on each record, depending on the sales cost. The money is to be spent on free concerts to be staged by unemployed musicians, who would be paid for their services.

EXTENDED RENT CONTROLS FOR NATION TO BE REQUESTED

Municipal Officials Ask Congress To Appropriate Billion Dollars For Low-Cost Housing Program

By DARRELL GARWOOD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Municipal officials from 500 cities approved a resolution today asking Congress for at least one billion dollars to build low-cost public dwellings and encourage private construction.

They acted as Housing Expediter Tighe Woods warned that rent controls must be continued "for many years" unless the housing shortage is solved. Woods said he will ask Congress to strengthen controls and extend them to April, 1, 1950.

The mayors and other city officials gathered for a three-day convention of the American Municipal association. They agreed to approve the principles of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill as their first item of business.

Their resolution stated that the expenditure should be "at least one billion dollars," and should include "research into low-cost production techniques."

Woods held forth the possibility that the housing shortage can be licked and rent controls ended in a year and a half if Congress takes prompt action to:

1. Strengthen rent ceilings by restoring the government's power to sue violators for treble damages and impose criminal penalties.

2. Provide for the building of low-cost housing on a mass scale. Consideration is being given to reviving the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill and increasing its public housing provision from 500,000 to 800,000 units.

The housing expediter met with a conference of consumer groups, including representatives of the AFL and CIO, and veterans, church and civic organizations. He said:

"Congress has got to realize that housing is the No. 1 domestic

Suspects May Get Lie Tests

By J. W. DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. — House spy hunters, confronted by conflicting stories in the Hiss-Chambers case, revived today the idea of using lie detector tests.

Rep. Mundt (R-SD), acting chairman of the House Un-American Activities committee, said it may decide within the next day or so whether to ask three principals to take such tests.

The three are Whittaker Chambers, admitted one-time Communist courier, and the Hiss brothers, Alger and Donald. Chambers had testified that Alger Hiss, a former State department official, slipped out secret U. S. documents for him to send to Moscow; he has said Donald Hiss was also helpful. The Hisses dispute him flatly.

More Questioning Planned

Last summer, Mundt recalled, the committee toyed with the idea of using lie detector tests. He said Chambers agreed to it but that Alger Hiss decided against it. Hiss said scientists did not regard the lie detector as fully accurate.

If they go through with it this time, Mundt said, it would be with "the best lie detector apparatus and authorities the country can afford."

The committee also arranged today to get further testimony on how secret documents got out of the State department and into Chambers' hands. Mund said that only four persons had access to them in the department.

Typewriter Sought

Of the four he named, Alger Hiss and Eunice Lincoln have testified; Miss Lincoln's testimony has not been made public. The other two are Francis Sayre, who was Hiss' superior as assistant secretary of state, and Anna Belle Newcomb. Miss Lincoln and Miss Newcomb were secretaries in the office occupied by Sayre and Hiss.

Sayre now is the U. S. representative on trusteeship matters in the United Nations and Miss Newcomb is on his staff. They will be questioned on their return from the UN meeting in Paris, about Dec. 20, Mundt said.

Mundt also said that the committee has "some very interest-

Court Acts To Protect Rights

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP) — The Supreme court raised strong bulwarks today to protect the rights of persons accused of crime.

The rulings:

1. Regardless of whether there is any "third degree," a confession in invalid if it is obtained while a prisoner is being held illegally through failure to carry him promptly before a committing magistrate. The court decision was divided, 5 to 4.

2. An actual emergency must exist to justify search and seizure without a warrant. A 6 to 3 decision.

Illegal Detention Hit

3. A person accused of serious crime has the unqualified right to counsel when he needs that help for adequate defense. Another 6 to 3 decision.

Justice Black, writing the majority opinion in the illegal detention case, argued that it merely affirmed an established rule.

He said the main finding in an earlier case which set the precedent was that prisoners must be taken promptly before a magistrate, He added that the "plain purpose" was to "check resort by officers to secret interrogation of persons accused of crime."

Black also cited police testimony in today's case that "peti-

Texas Convict Is Decapitated

(By The Associated Press)

ANGLETON, Dec. 13.—Clarence William Redwine, described as one of the most notorious inmates in the Texas prison system, was decapitated tonight in the mess hall at Retrieve prison farm near here.

O. B. Ellis, prison system general manager, said details of the slaying are not immediately available.

He said Redwine was decapitated while inmates of the farm were leaving the mess hall after the evening meal.

"He was one of our most notorious inmates," Ellis said. "His record for making trouble is among the top half dozen for the entire system."

Type Of Weapon Unknown

Redwine, who entered the prison June 18, 1941, from Harris county, was serving five terms ranging from five to 15 years for robbery by assault.

Ellis said there was so much confusion in the mess hall that it was impossible to learn full details of the slaying immediately.

"All we know is that his head was cut off by an unknown inmate and that the type of weapon used also is unknown," he said.

The general manager said that with good behavior Redwine could have been discharged in 1953 but "at the rate he was going it would have been 1968."

Head Found On Table

He said Redwine had cut his heel tendons twice, had escaped once, attempted to escape four times, and had spent most of his time in prison in solitary confinement.

Ellis said he was released from

Change In Rule Of West Berlin Urged

BERLIN, Dec. 13 (AP) — Western Berlin's new mayor, Ernst Reuter, proposed today that the Western Allies reorganize the Allied Kommandatura without the Russians and abolish boundaries between the American, British and French sectors of the city.

He received a favorable response to the proposal to revive the Kommandatura. The old four-power body set up to rule Berlin disintergrated last summer when the Russians walked out.

Since then the three western military governors have met occasionally but they have avoided the Kommandatura building. They will meet again tomorrow afternoon, and a spokesman said this time they may hold their session in the building.

A U. S. military government source said it was "highly possible" tomorrow's conference will be devoted to organizing three-power rule.

Truman Loses One Vote To Gov. Thurmond

State Electors Cast Votes For President

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — The electors of 48 states cast their votes for president today, the net result being that President Truman lost one electoral vote in Tennessee to the States' Righters.

The count, after this step in the electoral college process, was: Democrat Truman 303, Republican Thomas E. Dewey 189, States Righter J. Strom Thurmond 39.

A majority is required to elect. Tennessee has 12 electoral votes and ordinarily all would have gone to Mr. Truman since he carried the state with a plurality of 67,488 popular votes.

Sticks To Stand

However, Elector Preston Parks of Somerville cast his vote for Thurmond as he had said in advance he would. He and another Democratic elector in Tennessee were pledged to Thurmond but the other man changed his mind and voted for Truman.

Parks stuck to his stand that he would not vote for Mr. Truman under any circumstances. He was exercising his constitutional right to vote for whomever he pleased. This right has not been exercised often, however, as a party's slate of electors traditionally goes in full for the party's nominees.

There have been four previous occasions since 1900 when a state's electoral vote was split: in 1904 and 1908 in Maryland, in 1912 in California and in 1916 in West Virginia.

Changes To Be Sought

New agitation is expected in the new Congress for changes in the presidential voting system. Some propose direct election by popular vote (people now vote for electors) and some want a division of a state's electoral votes between candidates in proportion to their popular vote (now the top man in a state gets all its electoral votes, as a usual thing.)

There are 531 men and women in the electoral college. They met in state capitals today to cast their votes, part of the procedure set up under a system 150 years old. Each state has the same number of electors as it has members of the House and Senate. It was originally intended that the electors would use their own judgment in casting their state's votes.

The next step in officially making Mr. Truman president for four more years will come January 6. The Senate's presiding officer at that time will open the returns from the electoral college, an-

Rites Set Today For M. B. Hanks

ABILENE, Dec. 13 (AP) — Last services are planned tomorrow for Marshall Bernard Hanks, publisher of the Abilene Reporter-News, who died late Sunday night.

Services will be held at 3 p. m. for Hanks, whose knowledge of newspaper finances boosted him to ownership or part ownership of a dozen Texas newspapers and radio stations.

He was 64 and in failing health, but his interest in the operation of his news properties had never lessened and death came suddenly.

Calls Wife To Bedside

A friendly, jovial, companionable person, he was in a cheerful mood Sunday and he drove to his Bear Cove ranch, 10 miles from Abilene. On the way, he stopped at the Reporter-News office, though he had been to the office the night before.

Returning from the ranch, Hanks went to bed at 9 p. m.

Shortly before 11 p. m., he called his wife to his bedside and told her, calmly, that he was having a heart attack. A physician came immediately. Hanks died at 11:05 p. m., conscious to the last.

It was the termination of an outstanding career in Texas journalism. Hanks had climbed the ladder all the way—from carrier-

Front To Move In About Noon

RAIN and snow, accompanied by much colder temperatures is forecast for the South Plains and Panhandle today and Wednesday, but the total precipitation is not expected to approach the proportions of a "drouth breaker."

A flow of warm air from the Gulf coast area last night brought a trace of moisture to Lubbock, the Weather bureau station north of town reported Monday night, and this light fall is expected to continue through most of today.

A cold front sweeping out of the Arctic across Canada and the upper Midwest is expected to arrive over the South Plains early this afternoon and drop temperatures rapidly until a low of 16 or 18 degrees, the coldest readings of the season, is reached Wednesday afternoon, the weatherman predicted.

Moving In From Canada

With the arrival of the cold front, expected about noon, the light rains probably will turn to snow, the weatherman said. These snow flurries are expected to continue through Tuesday night an Wednesday morning, he said, but skies probably will begin to clear Wednesday afternoon.

"Just how much snow this area may receive is difficult to predict," the weatherman said, "for it will depend upon whether the warm Gulf air continues to move in after this new cold front arrives. If the Gulf air continues to come in over the Arctic front it is possible that the South Plains will receive considerable snow, otherwise, it may not amount to much so far as precipitation goes."

Monday Reading High

The cold front is coming on the heels of one of the South Plains warmest December days, the weatherman pointed out. Monday the mercury climbed to 76 degrees, the warmest day for this month on the weather station books. The Monday morning minimum was 32 degrees, and the mereury is not expected to fall below 40 degrees this morning. The high before the cold front arrives probably will be 52 degrees, the weatherman said.

Weather station records show that a 75 degree reading was taken for Dec. 5, 1946, the previous official high for this month.

Late last night the weather map showed Big Spring, Wink, Mid-

A Red column hammered the Nationalist defense point of Chiangyen, 80 miles northeast of the capital and only 20 miles above the Yangtze river.

Other Communist forces launched new attacks on the government's Hwai river defense line, the last well fortified position occupied by Nationalist troops on the approach plains 100 miles above Nanking.

The government struggled at the same time with new Premier Sun Fo's inability to form a war cabinet. His downfall was reported imminent.

The government reported one bright spot in the picture. Spokesmen said that Nationalist troops had killed at least 40,000 Reds in one of the sectors where the Communists have trapped two government forces numbering about 200,000 men.

COUNCIL FIGHT ON KOREA SEEN

World Tension Believed Eased During UN Assembly Session

By EDWARD CURTIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Dec. 13.—Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, president of the United Nations Assembly, said tonight international tension has eased as a result of the assembly session which ended yesterday.

"The temperature is not yet normal," the Australian foreign minister told newsmen, "but the fever has abated."

Evatt gave his views as delegates dispersed for their home countries after the 12-weeks meeting. Only representatives of the 11 security council members remained here for further meetings.

The Security Council was handed a red-hot issue today when the American-sponsored Republic of Korea applied for UN membership.

The assembly voted its approval of the new government of southern Korea just before it adjourned. The vote was 48 to 6, with the Russian bloc alone opposing it.

Russia is expected to oppose—and probably veto—the republic's membership application.

The council meets Wednesday to discuss membership applications of

Second German Surrender Ceremony Was Held In Berlin To Symbolize Western Allies, Soviet Unity

UNDER the terms of the surrender document the heads of the German armed services were required to appear in Berlin on May 9 to sign a ratification in the Russian headquarters. The second ceremony was, as we understood it, to symbolize the unity of the Western Allies and the Soviets, to give notice to the Germans and to the world that the surrender was made to all, not merely to the Western Allies. For this reason we were directed to withhold news of the first signing until the second could be accomplished.

In order that American and British newsmen could have the full story of the Reims surrender, we invited a number to be present at the ceremony. In accepting the invitation they agreed to withhold publication until the story could be officially given out under the agreements among the Allies.

One American reporter published the story before the release hour, which infuriated other newsmen who kept faith. The incident created a considerable furor, but in the outcome no real harm was done, except to other publications.

Did Not Go To Berlin

The Western Allies were invited and expected to participate in the signing at Berlin, but I felt it inappropriate for me personally to go. The Germans had already appeared in the Allied Headquarters to accomplish their unconditional surrender and I thought the ratification in Berlin should be a So-

Rent Control Setup Discussed By Official; Suggestions Given

With most of the voluntary leases under the 1947 Housing & Rent act expiring at the end of this month, the area rent director, Roy B. Carnes, of the Lubbock Defense Rental Area, Monday explained what happens to dwelling units covered by such leases and what their maximum rent ceilings will be. He also gave a few tips on rent increases.

"With the termination date of most of the leases under the 1947 act only a few weeks off, this office has received many inquiries as to what will happen to units covered by these leases," Carnes said. "The holders of such leases want especially to know what the rent ceilings on such leases will be.

Maximums To Be Same

"First, as to what will happen to units covered by such leases under the provisions of the act, such units will automatically go back under rent control, with the tenant and the landlord having the same rights and protections as apply to controlled units that were not under lease. As to the maximum rents for such units, the maximum rent will be the same as that provided in the expiring leases, provided the leases were valid."

Carnes also pointed out that persons who have no leases may execute leases under the 1948 act during the remainder of this month. Such leases must be voluntary on the part of both tenant and landlord, must be in writing, must run through December 31, 1949, must be executed by December 31, and filed with the area rent office within 15 days after execution. Persons who have leases under the 1947 act may execute new leases, but the new leases do not permit a second 15 per cent increase.

May Omit Taxes

In regard to increases in rent on the grounds of substantial hardship, Carnes announced that landlords owning four or less rental units may omit taxes as an expense item in seeking a rent increase covering higher operating costs. The new ruling applies only to the short form which the Office of Housing Expediter developed to help the small landlord obtain rent adjustments. Under previous rules, taxes had to be shown on all petitions, but small landlords now have the option of basing their claim for a hardship adjustment on any one or more of four expense items—taxes, insurance, fuel or utilities.

This change further simplifies the landlord's task of qualifying for a needed adjustment, the rent director pointed out. The only records the landlord needs to supply are receipts for the items on which he is claiming an increase. If he has lost his receipts, he can get duplicates from his tax collector, insurance agent, fuel dealer or utility companies. The petition must state, however, that there has been no reduction in the unlisted expense items.

14 Persons Are Accused Of $12,100,000 Argentine Fraud

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 13. (AP)—Federal police today charged 14 persons, including some of President Juan D. Peron's closest advisers, with defrauding the Argentine government of at least 11,000,000 pesos ($2,100,000).

Federal Judge Oscar Palma Baltram, who conducted a preliminary investigation, said the fraud involved obtaining a loan of Argentine funds for transfer of a non-existent aluminum plant from Italy to Argentina.

He said three Italians who originated the deal set aside 3,200,000 pesos ($640,000) of the 11,000,000 for bribes to Argentine officials charged with helping the deal along.

The judge said President Peron himself ordered the initial investigation after suspicion directed itself at the chief presidential bodyguard and the presidential coordinator of the national five-year plan.

Officials said the Argentine government would demand the extradition of two of the Italians who returned to Italy before their connection with the plot was discovered.

Persons high in Peron's official family already have been detained.

15-Year-Old Denison Girl Is Held After Father Is Slain

DENISON, Dec. 13. (AP)—Martha Jane Miller, 15, was held in a Sherman jail today after her father, Oliver Miller, 42, was fatally shot yesterday.

She will be turned over to juvenile authorities.

Miller was shot with a .22 caliber rifle yesterday about noon and died last night. The shooting occurred at their home in West Denison.

Miller, in an oral statement to Deputy Sheriff Woody Blanton and assistant County Attorney Hal Rawlins, said the shooting followed a scuffle after he had corrected the girl for staying out late at night.

The girl and her mother, questioned by the officers, said the shooting occurred after Miller had scuffled with both the girl and his wife.

U. S. Farm Bureau Facing Bitter Fight Over Extending Controls

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 13 — The American Farm Bureau federation convention faced a bitter fight today on the question of extending government controls to the production and sales of all farm products.

Authority for such controls is limited now to the so-called basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts and rice.

Delegates from areas producing fruits, vegetables, tree nuts and many other minor crops are supporting a proposal advocating legislation which would extend acreage allotments, marketing quotas and marketing agreements to all farm commodities.

Bureau Head Opposes Spread

The convention also was confronted with a sharp battle over the issue of whether government price supports should be kept at high wartime levels or be allowed to go down next year in keeping with a long range farm law passed by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress.

Both issues are not likely to be settled until Thursday, the last day of the bureau's 30th annual convention.

President Allan B. Kline has indicated that he would resign if the convention voted to advocate broadening of government controls.

The fight for extending controls to all products was being led by President Herbert W. Voorhees, Trenton, of the New Jersey Farm Bureau.

Favors High Supports

Likewise, President H. L. Wingate, Macon, of the Georgia Farm Bureau, spearheaded a southwide drive to get the convention to go on record for high price supports. He had active aid from delegates from Alabama, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma.

Kline said extension of production and marketing controls to all crops would require the creation of a "vast army" of government officials. Furthermore, he said, it would lead to "complete regimentation" of all agriculture.

Convention support of Wingate on high price supports would involve a reversal in previous farm bureau policy.

Jerk Of Head Ends Moment Of Sight For Oregon Blind Man

By DAVID C. WHITNEY
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—For an instant there was sunlight on the ceiling of his room and blind Clarence Peddicord could see again.

Then a pair of scissors came at his eye. He jerked his head. Darkness closed in and once more he was blind.

That was the result of the operation for which the 31-year-old Peddicord hitch-hiked 2,500 miles from Portland, Ore., to New York in the hope he could regain his sight after 12 years of blindness.

"It was wonderful for a minute," he said. "The doctor took the bandages off. I opened my eyes. The miracle I had spent 12 long years waiting for had happened. I could see! Sunlight was streaming across the ceiling.

"But before I could adjust myself, I suddenly saw the points of scissors coming right at my eye. the doctor was only going to cut the stitches, but I didn't know that. I jerked my head back. That jarred my eye. It began bleeding inside and I was blind again."

The noted physician, who performed the operation free and asked that his name not be used told Peddicord that he regretted the outcome. But he said as soon as the eyes have healed from the operation he will perform another and that he is sure it will be successful.

"Come back in June, Clarence," the doctor said, "and I'll give you sight."

Blinded By Fumes

Peddicord was blinded in 1936 by the sulphur fumes from a refrigerator. He and his wife, Dorothy, who can see, struggled along from year to year. But early last summer they were nearly broke.

"We have sold most of our furniture to buy food," Peddicord said. "I couldn't compete against men who weren't handicapped. I had to support my family, and I needed eyes to do it."

The New York eye specialist offered Peddicord the possibility of restoring his eyesight by transplanting new corneas into his eyes.

So he scraped together $7 and set off carrying his cane and a bag of cheese sandwiches. He spent most of his money buying gasoline for the motorists who gave him rides. He was broke by the time he reached Chicago, but he kept going. A radio show, "We The People," contacted him through the United Press and paid his transportation the rest of the way to New York.

The operations took a long time. The first one on the left eye seemed promising, but there was no reaction. Then came the one on the right eye, and the brief moment of sunlight.

"But I had to be the jerk that jerked his head," Peddicord mourned today.

On Tuesday Peddicord will appear on a television broadcast, and then he will fly back to Portland to his family at the expense of the radio show to wait out the six months until he can try again for sight.

Cotton Ginnings In County Surpasses Past Estimates

Well in excess of late-season estimates that had placed the probable cotton production in Lubbock county at 95,000 to 100,000 bales, a total of 113,517 bales had been ginned in this county to Dec. 1, according to Andy L. King, government crop statistician here.

The total was in running bales, and compared with 135,155 bales to the same date from the 1947 crop. Estimates on Dec. 3, by County Agent D. W. Sherrill placed the probable cotton remaining in the field at that time at 10 per cent.

On that basis this county will gin from this year's crop a total of 125,000 to 127,000 bales an amount "surprising" to Sherrill and other close observers, in a year that has been called one of the driest on record.

Six Children Die In Arkansas Farm Fire

MARIANNA Ark., Dec. 13 (U.P.) — Christmas will be a sad one for Mr. and Mrs. Gilberto Garcia, itinerant cotton pickers of Victoria, Texas.

They will have no use for the presents and the candy they bought here Saturday night for their six children.

The presents lost their meaning when the couple was met on their way home by a Lee county deputy sheriff. All of their children—three boys and three girls—were dead. They had died in a blaze which destroyed their tenant home on the Howard Spivey plantation, ten miles west of Marianna.

F. C. Flowers, proprietor of a Marianna funeral home, said the children were left alone—watched only by 13-year-old Juanita—while the parents went to town to make final purchases of Christmas presents and candy. Neighbors saw the fire but too late to rescue any of the children.

Flowers identified the dead as Juanita, Gilberto, jr., 9; Ramona, 6; Daniel 4; Tommie 2 and Joangel, 9 months. The bodies were burned beyond recognition.

DON'T despair if you've gone through last year's tree ornaments and found the tops broken on some of them. They may be mended and fastened on to the branches of the tree with strips of scotch tape.

Incidentally, if you wrap the cut ends of pine branches used for holiday decorations with the same tape, they won't get everything sticky.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

THE money spent for Christmas seals is one of the best investments in personal and public health it is possible to make. Lubbockites who are following an annual custom in buying seals should experience great satisfaction in the prediction that the death rate from tuberculosis will establish an all-time low in 1948.

Important reductions in the death rate from tuberculosis have been registered in each age group during recent years, but the greatest declines are shown at the younger ages. The statisticians forsee that this trend will be accentuated in the future as the proportion of older people in our population continues to rise.

Special efforts to bring older persons into the operation of mass X-ray campaigns is recommended as a means of revealing the existence of many unrecognized spreaders of the disease, and to protect their families and coworkers.

WHERE IS IT?

ILLUSTRATING a western story by Frank Bonham that appears in the current issue of "Esquire" are brands of many shapes and meanings. Puzzling to us is a statement, "the famous brand down Lubbock, Texas way is the Lazy Y."

Dr. W. C. Holden, who is an expert on Texas cattle brands, both historic and current, says he has never heard of a brand around here by that name.

It's possible the artist was thinking of the U Lazy S brand at the Slaughter ranch; but that's near Post and an S is hardly similar to a Y.

Where is this hot-iron brand located? Anybody know?

OBSERVATION

AMONG the new books is one with the catchy title: "How To Live Within Your Income." Observation by the author:

"Most families in the United States, whether they gather $1,500 or $25,000 a year, feel their financial worries would be over if they could but increase their income ten per cent.

"But financial worries come not from what you have to spend, but how you spend what you have."

That is a platitude, but what a true one!

Cranberry Cookery
by Carol Reed

Remember the old tradition of stringing cranberries for the Christmas tree? To me, an old-fashioned tree beats all the tinsel and glitter of this streamlined age. Let the children string the berries. It's something they'll remember for years to come as THEIR part in the Christmas fun. Cranberry chains are easy on the budget too. One lb. of Ocean Spray Fresh Cranberries will make about 7 yards of chain!

For a pre-Christmas Party, make these

Party Sandwich Loaves

20 slices bread — 1 loaf
Softened Butter
Chicken Salad — 2 cups (well-seasoned)
2 cans Ocean Spray Jellied Cranberry Sauce
Cream Cheese (about 1 pound)

Trim bread crusts. Butter the first slice of bread. Spread with cranberry sauce. (Butter prevents Cranberry Sauce from soaking into bread.) Top with second slice of bread buttered on both sides. Cover with a layer of chicken salad. Top with third slice of bread, buttered on both sides. Spread with cranberry sauce. Cover with fourth slice of bread, buttered side down.

With a sharp knife cut each stack in half.

Cover sides and top with cream cheese moistened with milk to spreading consistency. Makes 10 individual Cranberry Chicken Sandwich Loaves.

RULES COMMITTEE SCORED

Pennsylvania Solon To Fight Move To Block HST Program

By ALLAN J. FUNCH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Rep. Eberharter (D-Pa) said today he will act at the opening of the 81st Congress Jan. 3 to prevent the House Rules committee from blocking President Truman's legislative program.

Eberharter, a member of the powerful House Ways and Means committee, said he will offer an amendment to the parliamentary rules of the House.

The 12-man Rules committee is composed of six northern Democrats and six Republicans and southern States' Rights Democrats.

Could Block Senate

On controversial matters a coalition of Republicans and States' Rights members could line up 6-6 to prevent debate and floor action on important legislation. A tie vote defeats a motion to send a bill to the floor.

Eberharter said the effect of his amendment would be to give the House membership a chance to "call out" bills from the Rules committee by majority votes on the House floor.

The Pittsburgh Democrat said he would introduce his amendment directly after the House convenes, when it is still operating under general parliamentary procedure.

This move, he said, will give the "proposed amendment a unique opportunity to reach the floor without benefit of the approval of the very Rules committee whose powers it seeks to curtail."

Would Boost Committee

Congressional sources do not believe, however, that the House will pass the Eberharter proposal since an overwhelming majority of House members are Republicans and southern States' Rights Democrats opposed to parts of the Truman legislative program.

Rep. Sabath (D-Ill), chairman-to-be of the Rules committee, has proposed that the membership of the group be increased from 12 to 13 in order to give administration democrats a 7-6 majority on controversial bills.

Eberharter said he disagreed with this proposal because "the problem is not so much the composition of the committee as the function it has exercised in reviewing and vetoing the substance of bills reported by other committees."

Changes Are Made

Eberharter charged that the Rules committee has "usurped the functions of the regular legislative committees" by:

1. Withholding from the House floor, and thus from debate, bills which have had the approval of other committees but which some members of the Rules committee oppose.

2. Holding hearings and reviewing the merits of bills that have already been studied by other proper legislative committees.

The Pennsylvanian contended that his proposal would prevent bills from becoming blocked in the Rules committee.

He explained that his "non-partisan" plan calls for chairmen of House committees to introduce House resolutions for debate of a bill at the same time that the measure is favorably reported out of committee.

This resolution, or "rule," would call for debate of whatever length and kind the reporting legislative committee thinks desirable.

The House resolution would then be referred to the Rules committee, which would continue to schedule the priority and length of debate.

If, however, the Rules committee fails to act within a reasonable time—two or three weeks—then a privileged motion would be in order.

In this way, a majority of the House would have a chance to decide whether or not to schedule for debate a bill favorably reported by a legislative committee.

Salvation Army Fund For Yule Baskets Passes $1,000 Mark

The Salvation Army's Christmas basket fund crossed the $1,000 mark Monday, and Capt. W. T. Gregory, Salvation Army commander, expressed the belief that the necessary $3,000 will be on hand before Christmas eve.

"Although this only amounts to about one-third of the total needed to supply the baskets, we are confident that the "kettle-house" and donations being received by mail will supply the rest by Christmas eve," Capt. Gregory said. The kettle-house will be open in the 1,000 block on Broadway beginning at 9 o'clock this morning. The house was built by Carpenter's Local union No. 1884, and will be operated by the various service clubs of Lubbock. The rotary club will be in charge of the booth today, and the Exchange club tomorrow. Exact days for other organizations to operate the booth have not yet been set, but all clubs are participating.

Also Taking Names

Those wishing to make donations by mail should send them to Salvation Army headquarters at 1112 Seventeenth street, Capt. Gregory said.

The army began taking names of needy families Monday, and 65 registered the first day. All those who wish to submit a name for a basket have been asked to do so before Dec. 23, but this date is not the absolute deadline, and names will be taken up to Christmas eve.

Both high school and grammar school students in Lubbock will begin bringing in canned goods and toys for the baskets Friday morning, and they will be turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

The Salvation Army is a community chest agency which the chest supports all year, but Christmas is a special time, and the chest cannot be expected to supply the needed funds for the baskets, Capt. Gregory said.

Tientsin, China, has shipped 104,345 weasel skins for fur to America in seven months.

Nations' Interests Take Lead Over Friendship In Alignments

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

A European statesman once observed, with some sadness, that "nations have no permanent friends; they have only permanent interests."

In other words, nations are "friends" when the demands of their separate national interests happen to coincide at a given point. They are no longer friendly, and they may become shooting enemies, when their separate interests diverge.

At first glance, that seems cynical, calculating and marble-cold. But it is also realistic. In ten words, the European statesman distilled the history of ten centuries. To test it, you need only to recall the eternally changing pattern of alliances and coalitions in Europe, the shifting combinations that found the "friendly" countries of one generation fighting alongside their erstwhile "enemies" in the next generation.

Attitude Is Blamed

Or, for that matter, you need only to remember that we were "friends" of the Russians in the days of the hot war, and before that, the Russians were "friends" with the Nazis.

Hence, the gloomy theorem of international politics—permanent interests always, permanent friends never.

It seems to be working in a curious way in the Far East.

The immediate national interest of the United States demands a strong bulwark, in the Orient, against the thrust of Communism. And so today, the needle of American policy seems to be swinging away from China, an old friend," and toward Japan, an erstwhile "enemy."

The Communists are rolling toward control of China. This manifests itself in the form of great military victories. But some very high-ranking American soldiers, who know China, claim that the victories are merely an evidence of the apathy and indifference of the great mass of Chinese people.

Communist victories, they said, are not the result of superior arms or equipment or bigger armies. The difference, in their view, lies in morale and attitude. The Chinese Communists are fighting for a cause. Theirs is a crusade. Government troops have no such morale, nor does the population as a whole, according to these reports.

They tell a story of listlessness and disinterest, contrasting vividly with the attitude of the Chinese masses when they were fighting Japan.

If this is true, if the great majority of the 460,000,000 Chinese prefer a Communist government to the one they have—or if they are unwilling to fight to prevent this—then the United States will have lost an old-time friend. And so will China. However much the American people may like and admire the Chinese people, the national interests of the two countries will have changed to a point where China may be a quasi-enemy in our book.

Allen Todd Named 'Man-Of-Month'

Jaycees Make Plans To Push Holiday Safety Campaign

Allen Todd was named Jaycee "Man-of-the-Month for November" at the club's weekly luncheon in the Hilton hotel Monday.

Todd, who is employed in the advertising display department of The Avalanche-Journal, was honored particularly for his work as chairman of the Jaycee Inter-Club Relations committee in connection with the recent Community Chest drive. He was also cited for other inter-club work, and for his activities with the public relations committee.

The award was given Todd by Charles Maedgen, jr., chairman of the Lubbock Community Chest board of directors, who had been introduced by Jimmie Williamson, recipient of the award last month.

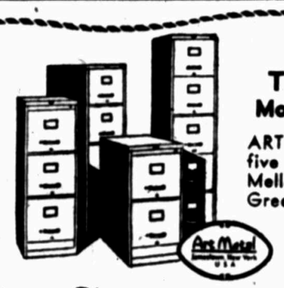

Clifton Haynie reported that gross receipts for Saturday's Monahans-Phillips football game, played here under sponsorship of the Jaycees, would probably total about $8,500 when all ticket sale reports are submitted. Nearly $8,000 had already been collected, he said.

Gene Quest, chairman of the safety committee, told of plans to distribute 5,000 paper stickers as part of a holiday safety campaign. Slogan for the campaign is, "Think! Don't let death take your holiday." Boy Scouts of Lubbock will cooperate in distribution of the stickers, Quest said, and safety posters will also be displayed in the city.

Approximately 80 club members present at the luncheon heard reports from a number of committee chairmen. A meeting of all chairman was announced for 7:30 p. m. tonight at the City hall.

Tech Opens BC Season Tonight

Raiders Favored Over Lumberjacks

Texas Tech's strong basketball team will open the Border conference cage season here tonight at 8 in Tech gym, playing host to the Arizona State of Flagstaff basketball quintet.

The game will be closed to the public, with only students allowed for the game. But Morley Jennings, Tech athletic director, said that Lubbock residents and fans would have a chance to see the Red Raiders in action later.

Jennings said that with only 2,000 seats available, students had to be given first choice. But the game Dec. 22 against Marshall college of Huntington, W. Va., which will be played after college has recessed for the Christmas holidays, will be thrown open to the public.

Techsans Favored

Tech will be favored against the Lumberjacks on the basis of the Raiders' performance so far this season. Coach Polk Robison's cagers have won three of four games, including defeats of Rice and SMU away from home. Their other victory was at the expense of McMurry, while the only defeat was by SMU.

The Raiders this year boast a fast-breaking quintet that has height to go along with speed on the floor. Center Don Grove of Monument, N. M., an accomplished pivot man, is the main cog in the Raider machine, although his scoring has not been in the high totals so far this year. But Grove has been setting up plays and directing the scoring proclivities of other players.

Whistle Banks and Chet Jackson, a pair of guards, have been the leading scorers on the Raider quint, breaking fast and going in for layups, along with pot shots from outside the defensive circle.

Gibson Hard To Stop

They have been getting plenty of help from such rangy forwards as Gene Gibson and Wayne Bowles, who have been hard to stop. Ardis Barton is a driving guard again this year who has been an important factor in the Raider record. Barton is a team player and a driving force.

Other players who have been showing up well include Wimpy Hill, George Belchef, Bill Edins and Charley Pinnell, guards, along with C. W. Dukes, a forward, and Derwood Patterson, a center.

Seminole Gridders Hear Tech's Junnell

SEMINOLE, Dec. 13. (Special)—Frank Junnell, admnistrative assistant to the president of Texas Tech, tonight told members of the Seminole High school football team that they should ignore security in preference to adventure.

Junnell, speaking at the second annual football squad banquet in Community Hall, said that there was too much of a tendency to seek security these days. He advised the football squad to look ahead and around at the world, seeking to find new goals and new adventures.

Coach Gordon Wood and Mrs. Wood were presented with a console radio and record player, as were Assistant Coach Morris Southall and Mrs. Southall. Earle Brashfield, Junior High school coach, was presented with an automatic shotgun. All gifts were presented by the Booster club, which also gave the banquet and which has aided the football squad throughout the season.

Roger Harrold served as toastmaster at the banquet and introduced various persons present. "Gop" Fitzgerald introduced the main speaker.

W. E. Cox, Jr., president of the Booster club, paid tribute to the efforts of Harrold, Orman Gregory, secretary-treasurer, and J. A. "Ox" Jameson, reporter. Jameson also read statistics on this year's football squad.

Rev. Collis McKinney offered the invocation.

The Seminole football team this year won six games, lost three and tied one in District 5-A.

Mangrum Is Top Money-Winner

PGA Lists Country's Best, Worst Golfers

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 13. (AP)—Nineteen golf superlatives for 1948—the best and worst in play all across the country — were announced tonight by the Professional Golfers Association.

George Schneiter, manager of PGA's tournament bureau, listed the year's achievements after the Miami Open officially closed the 1948 tournament circuit.

He said 42 tournaments offering more than $550,000 were played. Highest single purses $30,000 were the PGA championship at St. Louis and the Tam O'Shanter at Chicago, he said.

Superlatives—

Most improved golfers—Skip Alexander, Mid-Pines, N. C., and Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn., fifth and sixth among money winners.

Unluckiest pro—Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., runner-up seven times including the U. S. Open at Los Angeles.

Most spectacular win—Claude Harmon, Palm Beach, Fla., and Mamaroneck, N. Y., who won the Masters' Tournament, Augusta, Ga., after being inactive during the 1947-48 winter and summer tour.

Greatest match—Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., and Johnny Plamer, Badin, N. C., in the St. Louis PGA tournament. Hogan, two down with four to play, shot four under par to win.

Oliver Top Finisher

Most spectacular finish — Ed Oliver, Kenmore, Wash.; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, Tenn.; Chuck Congdon, Tacoma, Wash.; Fred Haas, Jr., New Orleans, La.; and Vic Ghezzi, Englewood, N. J., all tied for first place in the Tacoma Open. Oliver won play off.

Longest match—Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich., and Eddie Burke, Conn., played eight extra holes during PGA championship. Harbert won.

Most spectacular shot—Hogan made two successive 110-yard pitch shots for eagle 2's at the 18 hole of Meadowbrook, C. C. during the 1st and 2nd round of the Motor City Open.

Best father and son performance—Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Los Angeles, Calif., and Joe Kirkwood, Sr., Philadelphia, Pa., finished ninth and 12th respectively in the U. S. Open.

Turnesa's Lead Families

Best family performance—Jim, Mike and Willie Turnesa all of New York. Jim broke the scoring record in the U. S. Open with a 280; Mike was runner-up in the PGA championship and Willie won the U. S. Amateur title at Memphis, Tenn.

Toughest break—Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., whose five-foot putt for a win on the 37th hole during the PGA championship was stymied by Claude Harmon's ball.

Severest penalty — George Schoux, San Francisco, Calif., called a stroke on himself when his ball moved during an address while playing in the Columbus, Onio Open. The penalty cost him a first place tie with Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, Ill.

Longest drive—Snead, with a 320-yard wallop during PGA championship driving contest at St. Louis.

Mangrum Tops Hogan

Lowest 72-hole score — Skip Alexander, Mid Pines, N. C., scored a 264 at the El Rio golf club, Tucson, Ariz.

Lowest 18-hole score—Alexander and Johnny Palmer both carded 62's over the El Rio course, and Chick Harbert scored a 62 over the Miami Springs, C. C., Miami, Fla.

Lowest nine-hole score—Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, Ill., shot a 29 during the first nine holes of the Tam O'Shanter at Chicago, Ill.

Longest putt—Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C., sunk a 90-foot putt at the Colonial Invitational, Fort Worth, Texas.

Most tournaments won—Ben Hogan, won nine including U. S. Open, PGA championship and Western Open.

Most money won—Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, Ill., won $45,898 to top Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who won $36,812.

Largest galleries—PGA championship where more than 40,000 persons witnessed the matches.

Aggies' Glenn Lippman Compared With Hank Sauer--Both 'Homer' In Every Park

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 13. (AP)—Glenn Lippman, Texas A. & M.'s scat freshman back from El Campo, has something in common with Hank Sauer.

Sauer, the Cincinnati Reds' new all-time home run champion, homered in every National league park he played in last season.

And Lippman "homered" in every park he played in last season.

That's right, Lippman broke away from enemy tacklers and ran more than 33 yards for a touchdown in every stadium he played in as an Aggie freshman.

It all started when the Aggies were tied with John Tarleton at Stephenville. The count was 6-6. Two minutes remained in the fourth quarter and the Plowboys made the mistake of kicking off to Lippman. Lippman fielded the leather and sprinted 90 yards to the game-winning touchdown.

Against Texas Christian's frosh on Kyle field, Lippman "homered" again, speeding 63 yards to a TD the second time he touched the ball. Next time they called Glenn's number, he "homered" again, running 89 yards to another touchdown, but an eager teammate had jumped off-side and this one was called back.

In Waco two weeks later, Lippman fled 54 yards from scrimmage to another touchdown. And in Houston, he hot-footed it 34 yards for a tally that counted and 91 yards on a punt return for a TD that was called back against the Rice freshmen.

Injuries prevented "The gallopin' ghost from the Gulf Coast" from belting one of his frequent "homers" against the Texas frosh, but the game was played on Kyle field, where he had delivered earlier against TCU.

Lubbock Cagers Travel To Sudan For Two Tussles

Lubbock High's surging Westerner cagers, who surprised Panhandle and South Plains basketball fans by taking the runner-up spot in the Borger tournament last weekend, will invade Sudan tonight for two battles with the Class A Hornet quintets. An "A" game is slated at 8 o'clock, with a "B" team contest at 6:30.

The Westerners are far from top shape for their meeting with the Hornets, as a result of injuries and illness of two stellar players. Guard Charles Galey, one of the top ball-handlers and marksmen in West Texas, is still slowed by a foot injury and big Center Jim Wilson has not entirely recovered from a light case of influenza. Galey played in the Westerners' three tournament games at Borger, but the effort delayed healing of a week-old foot injury.

Westerners Won Four

Lubbock has won four games in the new season, while losing one contest. The Westerners have dropped Lamesa, Sundown, Spearman and Amarillo, but lost a decision to Stratford in the Borger meet finals.

Sudan reportedly boasts a strong quintet, although the Hornets have lost most of the stars of their great teams of the last two seasons. Monday night Sudan trounced the Tahoka Bulldogs, 28-19, in a non-conference setto.

Team Polishes Attack

Coach Roy Morris sent the Westerners through a lengthy practice session on play patterns and ball-handling Monday afternoon at the Senior High gymnasium, in an effort to smooth out the rough spots in the Lubbock High offense. The Westerner defense has been very satisfactory most of the season, but the offense—built around a fast break and tricky ball-handling — has been slightly erratic. The cagers have missed many easy shots, although the chief difficulty has been lack of practice. Approximately half of the top Westerner cage candidates have been on the basketball squad only two weeks.

Coach Morris is expected to start the regular Westerner lineup against Sudan tonight, with Jim Wilson at center; Charles Galey and Bob Rooker at guards; and Blair Hankins and Jesse Fullerton at forward slots.

Three Games Played In Idalou Tourney

IDALOU, Dec. 13. (Special)—Three games were unreeled in first round competition in the Idalou Independent basketball tournament here tonight, with Texas Lumber Bin, Blue Flame Gassers and the Layco-Brown quints chalking up victories.

The Lumber Bin five trounced Crawford Electric, 49-25, as V. F. Bowley tallied 11 points. Barkowsky hit the loop for eight for Crawford.

In the second tussle, the Blue Flame Gassers nosed out Littrell Service, 36-27. Thomas George connected for 13 points for the Gassers, while Doral Sandlin chalked up 12 points for Littrell.

Tim Hatch tallied nine points to pace Layco-Brown to a 41-12 triumph over Lorenzo. Williams swished the net for five points for Lorenzo.

Three more first round contests are scheduled Tuesday night. Hilton hotel meets Derrick Service at 7 o'clock, Brownfield tangles with the Plains Gas five at 8, then the powerful Levelland quint battles the Thomas Tinkers at 9.

UCLA Coach Bert La Brucherie Resigns With Entire Staff

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13. (AP)—Head football coach Bert La Brucherie of the University of California at Los Angeles resigned today with his entire coaching staff.

Acceptance of the resignations of La Brucherie, W. P. Fehring, line coach; Shelby Calhoun, end coach, and Ned Mathews, backfield coach, was announced tonight by Bill Keene, chairman of the Board of Control of the Associated Students of UCLA.

Brooklyn Site Of '49 Star Game

Majors Ban Minor Telecast Proposal

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (AP)—Brooklyn was selected the site of the 1949 All-Star baseball game, to be held July 12, as the major leagues today opened their schedules to more night action.

It will be the first time the Dodgers ever have been hosts to the annual All-Star classic, although the game was to have been played in Ebbetts field in 1942. Larry MacPhail, then head of the Brooklyn club, permitted the game to be shifted to the Polo Grounds in New York as part of a war fund drive.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (INS)—The New York Yankees today gave three players and $100,000 to the St. Louis Browns in exchange for pitcher Fred Sanford and catcher Roy Partee, the latter of whom, the Yankees promised will be sent to one of their farm clubs.

Pitchers "Red" Embree and Dick Starr and catcher Sherman Lollar were the Yankee players turned over to St. Louis in this, the biggest baseball deal of the off season so far.

Although a plea for unlimited night ball was defeated, both majors liberalized their rules for more after dark action. The National league will permit five night games with each team in each city without permission of the visiting club.

American Follows Suit

The American league followed suit but set the number at four.

Both leagues agreed to prohibit night games on the day before a regularly scheduled doubleheader. The National ruled that no games will be played on Sunday nights and both frowned on night games at the end of series when clubs have to leave for other cities.

The major leagues also turned thumbs down on minor league proposal to ban television and radio network broiadcasts of baseball games.

Taking up the amendment to the major-minor agreement passed last week at the minor league convention in Minneapolis, the National league voted outright rejection. The American leaguers merely tabled the matter until some obscure future date.

Majors Wouldn't Permit It

It had been a foregone conclusion that the majors would not permit the minors to set up rules by which their broadcasts and telecasts would be regulated.

According to the minor league idea, no broadcasts or telecasts would have been permitted by any station outside a club's "home territory." That "home territory" was to mean that the radio or television transmitter must be located within a 50-mile circle having its center at the park.

It was reported that George Trauman, president of the National Association of minor leagues, would appear at Wednesday's

FIVE MILLION 'COULD' BUY CLUB

Officials Deny Reports That St. Louis Browns To Be Sold

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (INS)—Published reports that the St. Louis Browns' franchise will be sold "withing 48 hours" met with absolute denials from Browns' officials in Chicago for the major league meetings today.

Richard Muckerman, president of the Browns, declared:

"I know nothing about this. I have received no bids."

The Browns were variously reported being sold to Ed Pauley, Pacific coast oil man, and "a midwestern syndicate."

But Muckerman, along with Browns' general manager William DeWitt and traveling secretary Charles DeWitt, flatly denied the reports.

Picture Could Change

Asked if the picture might change, one of the DeWitts said:

"Sure, the picture can change. Somebody comes along and offers five million dollars for the franchise, we'll probably sell."

The inference was that nobody is going to come along and offer five million dollars for the franchise.

In the midst of a rash of fabulous stories about the Browns asking $135,000 for pitcher Fred Sanford and up to $250,000 for thirdbaseman Bob Dillinger, Charles DeWitt said:

"We have not put any of our players up for sale. We have not approached any other team at any time. Several teams have approached us, and we have told them we will deal with them only on a trade basis."

$135,000 For Sanford

As an example, DeWitt stated that the Detroit Tigers had approached the Browns in quest of Sanford. Subsequent reports of that meeting declared the Browns had put the $135,000 price tag on their pitcher.

"Not a word of truth to that," Dewitt said. "All we asked in exchange for Sanford was that Detroit pitcher Art Houtteman be involved in the trade. The deal died right there."

Transactions consummated at the meetings today saw Jimmy Dykes, the former White Sox manager, signed to act as first base coach for the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's also signed Wally Moses as a pinchhitter and rehired coaches Al Simmsons and Earle Brucker.

The New York Giants sold catcher Jimmy Gladd, who spent most of the past season with Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league, to Portland of the same circuit.

The New York Yankees and Chicago White Sox, meanwhile, were supposed to be on the verge of announcing a trade.

LOUIS WANTS $250,000

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13 (AP)—Joe Louis said today he will demand $250,000 from television and radio rights when he defends his heavyweight title next June in New York. "I sold myself too cheap in my last fight with Jersey Joe Walcott," the champion told a reporter. "My end from the television and radio was $40,000. But it's going to be a lot more the next time."

Levelland Opens District Season

LEVELLAND, Dec. 13 (Special)—Coach Raymond Cook's Levelland Lobos will open basketball competition in District 4-A Tuesday night when they tangle with the Littlefield Wildcats at Littlefield.

J. T. Pugh, forward, and Larry Roberts and Pete Morris are the only returning lettermen on the squad of the defending district champions. Other top candidates for the first five include Forward Billy Rainey and Center Harlan Guinn.

Forwards Bobby Garrison and Paul Humphries, Center Raymond Harrell and Guard Gerald Watson complete the nine-man "A" squad.

The Lobo schedule has been announced as follows:

Dec. 16-18—Levelland tournament; Jan. 11—Levelland at Sundown; Jan. 21—Sundown at Levelland; Feb. 1—Levelland at Morton; Feb. 4—Littlefield at Levelland; Feb. 8—Levelland at Muleshoe; Feb. 11—Levelland at Sundown.

The Lobos will also probably compete in the Sundown tournament Jan. 5-7 and the Muleshoe tournament on Jan. 27-29.

HILTON BEATS HENLEY'S

Hilton hotel's speedy quintet nosed out the Henley's five, 38-32, in an independent cage tilt Monday night at the Frenship school.

WTSTC Defeats Arizona State Quintet, 56-43

CANYON, Dec. 13. (AP) — West Texas State came from behind and then successfully froze the ball in the waning minutes of the game to defeat Arizona State of Flagstaff, 56-43, here tonight.

The game was the first of the Border Conference basketball season for each team.

Arizona State jumped into a 7-0 lead in the first few minutes of the game. It was five minutes before the West Texas quint could net a point.

Bill Allen paced the Buffs from behind, however, and at the half Arizona State trailed, 25-30.

Allen led Buff scorers with 13 points. Vince Cisterna paced Arizona State with 14 points.

Cisterna fouled out late in the game and West Texas State lost a regular, Kenneth Simpson, via the foul route.

SMU Starts Grid Practice For New Year's Cotton Bowl Tilt

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—Southern Methodist university's Mustangs start practice today for their New Year's Day date in the Cotton Bowl against Oregon.

Coach Matty Bell said he would spend this week conditioning the football squad after its two weeks rest and start heavy drills next week.

All of the players are expected to be in top shape by Cotton Bowl time, including back Frank Payne, sidelined with a back injury, and Doak Walker, who has been slowed by a leg injury.

Sports Study

By Earl Scudday

The many Lubbock football fans who know Harry C. Burrus, former Hardin-Simmons grid star who is now a top professional, will be interested in Burrus' performance in the closing regular tilt of the season when his Brooklyn Dodgers tangled with the Cleveland Browns. Burris, who plays defensive halfback, intercepted three passes by the Brown's great quarterback—Otto Graham—and returned the tosses for a total of 100 yards. Prior to that game, no individual in the All-America conference had ever intercepted more than one of Graham's passes in a single game, and no team in the conference had ever intercepted more than three of his throws. The Dodger management rewarded Burrus with a $75 bonus for his brilliant play in the tussle, although the Browns finally chalked up a 31-21 decision.

A week earlier, against Baltimore, Burris caught a total of seven passes, including one which went 90 yards—40 in the air and 50 on the ground—for a touchdown. Until the last two games, Burris was used chiefly as a defensive end. But in the final encounters, he was moved to a halfback slot.

We're glad to hear that boosters of the Hale Center Owls are busy planning for a new stadium and "turtle-back" field at Hale Center. A five-man committee was selected last week to study plans and costs of the project, and later other persons will be added to the group to push the construction plans. The drive for a new athletic plant is sparked by the Hale Center Lions club and Lion Bill Shook, one of the most loyal Owl boosters, started the project rolling when he recommended that the club undertake the job of raising funds to build the stadium. All Hale Center fans hope that plant will be ready for the 1949 season.

In behalf of all the sports writers who covered the Monahans-Phillips quarter-final Class A game Saturday at Jones stadium, we'd like to thank the Lubbock Jaycees for their efforts to make press box conditions ideal. We were down at Odessa for the Amarillo-Broncho tussle at the time, but a dozen of the sport scribes who saw the tilt here reported that "everything was perfect" in the press box at Jones stadium. Hot coffee, ham sandwiches and cake were served by the Jaycees at halftime, and the civic club also furnished competent statisticians. All the sports writers agreed that the Jaycees produced "bowl game" conditions for the working press.

On the subject of Class A football, we think the Monahans Lobos may be in for a tough game this weekend when they battle the New London Wildcats. The Wildcats won 10 straight regular season games, then chalked up three playoff victories to move into the semi-final bracket. The Wildcats had their toughest game in the first tilt of the season, when they were held to a 14-13 margin by Carlisle. Their easiest win was a 53-12 triumph over Overton. Last week New London trounced Bowie in a quarter-final game.

New London's powerful eleven is sparked by Connie MacGouirk, a 185-pound line-blasting fullback. MacGouirk is hailed as one of the top power runners in the state, as well as a good punter and signal-caller. Jimmy Van Haverbeke, 180-pound center, paces the giant New London forward wall. The Wildcats, like the Lobos, operate from a "T" formation. New London, for the information of many fans, is south of Kilgore in East Texas.

Western Conference Officials Complete 1950 Grid Schedules

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (INS)—Western Conference football coaches and athletic directors today completed their league slates for the 1950 season, and worked into the night to perfect schedules for 1951 and 1952.

Because of Michigan State's not-yet-official entry into Conference circles, and because of other existing problems, Conference magnates agreed to waive, temporarily, the rule that each team must play at least six Conference games a year.

Purdue and Indiana, in 1950, will play five Conference games each. Ohio State and Wisconsin will each have seven conference games while the remainder of the present nine Conference teams will each play six Conference contests.

The problem of Michigan State's games, currently a dilemma since State, in the midst of the scheduling process, is not yet an official Conference member, also was to be discussed later tonight.

Notable non-Conference games which have already been scheduled for 1950 will include Illinois at U.C.L.A., Oct. 14 and Washington Oct. 21; Dartmouth at Michigan Oct. 7 and Michigan at Army Oct. 14; Northwestern at Navy Oct. 7; Southern Methodist at Ohio State Sept. 30; and Wisconsin at Pennsylvania Nov. 11.

joint session to ask further major league study on the television problem.

While the majors were going through such routine motions as re-electing vice presidents and naming boards of directors, chief lobby speculation centered on the Leo Durocher-Freddy Fitzsimmons hearing scheduled before Commissioner A. B. Chandler tomorrow.

Leo Can Answer Questions

Durocher said today that he would be able to answer only two questions at the investigation of the Giants' signing of Fitzsimmons as a coach while he still was on the Boston Braves' reserve list.

"The first time I talked to Fitzsimmons about the subject was our last trop to Boston," said Durocher, New York Giants manager. "Fitz said to me 'are you going to make any coaching changes' I said 'yes'.

"Then Fitz said 'will you consider me?' Again I told him 'yes'. That was all there was to it."

"Then sometime after the World Series I got a call in California from Fitz and he asked me how things were about the coaching job.

"I asked him how much he got in Boston. When he told me I said 'okay' on the same for New York. That is all I know about it. They can ask me a thousand questions but those are the only answers I can give.

Levelland Quintet Drubs Gasser Team

Levelland's sharp-shooting independent cagers chalked up another City basketball league triumph Monday night at the Senior High gym by drubbing the Plains Gassers, 47-33. Morris McClendon tallied 13 points for Levelland, while Bill Woods notched 12 for the Gassers.

In another City loop tussle, Hoyt Furniture nosed out Spade by a 43-42 count. Dave Lawson topped the Hoyt scorers with nine points and J. R. Chamberlain swished the net for 11 for Spade.

Two Industrial league tilts were played Monday night at the O. L. Slaton Junior High gymnasium, with Furr Food dropping Rigney Auto, 35-30. Bob Steele topped the Furr five with 14 points, while Jimmy Smyth hit the loop for 11 points for the Automen.

Sanders, paced by Bob Clodfelter's eight points, edged by Trammell service, 39-34. Jim Wells hit for 13 points for Trammell.

Cooper Invitational Cage Tourney Slated

Sixteen teams in two divisions will open the race for first-place honors in the Cooper Invitational basketball tournament, which will get underway at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Cooper school gymnasium.

In the boys' division Ropesville is rated as the favorite, but quintets from O'Donnell, Meadow, Wilson, Frenship, Idalou, Southland and Cooper will bid for the tourney championship.

The New Home girls are the top-ranking team in the other bracket, with Meadow, Wilson, Frenship, Southland, Idalou, Cooper and Ropesville as other challengers.

Trophies will be awarded to first and second place teams, and an all-tournament team will be selected.

Brownfield Quintet Invades Andrews For Non-Title Tilt

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 13 (Special) — Coach Farris Nowell's Brownfield Cubs, who have brok en even in their only two games thus far this season, play at Andrews Tuesday night in a non-conference game. The "B" team, which has also split two games, will meet the Andrews reserves in a preliminary tussle.

The Tahoka Bulldogs, defeated by the Cubs, 37 to 29 in the local's first game, play here Thursday night. In their only other game, the Cubs lost to Lamesa, 33 to 20.

Coach Nowell has indicated that he will start Jim Billings and John Thompson at forwards against Andrews; Glen Gorby at center, and Jodie Line and Jimmy Ritchie at guards.

Demon Five Defeats Basketeer Quintet

The Junior circuit Dirty Demons battled to a 26 to 24 victory over the Basketeers in a double overtime basketball game at Lubbock Boys club Monday afternoon. Donney Washington scored a field goal in each of the overtime periods to ice the game for the Demons. Ira Owens racked up 10 points for the winners while Allen Rosen made 11 for the losers.

In the Pee Wee tilt, the Wildcats edged by the Black Panthers, 20 to 14, behind Jack Lewelling's 12 points. Jackie Branch got six tallies for the Panther five.

Jerry Martin's 14 baskets paced the Midget loop Fighting Irish to a 14 to 5 win over the Eagles. Wray Clark led the losers with five baskets.

The Senior league Bombers scored a 64 to 24 victory over the Sharpshooters. Johnny Lawson made 24 points for the Bombers and Roger Van Cleave scored 11 for the Shooters.

Tuesday afternoon the Black Demons will meet the Blue Jays in the Pee Wee game. The Mustangs tangle with the Five Little Devils in the Midget encounter. The Roughies and Dirty Five get together in the Junior affair and the Hardwood Five and Roughnecks battle in the Senior loop.

Primm Drug To Meet United Geophysical Five Tonight

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 13 (Special) — The question of which of Brownfield's two independent cage teams is the stronger will be answered here Tuesday night when the Primm Drug and United Geophysical fives meet in the high school gymnasium. The game will be the first of the season for both teams.

The Primm Drug five represented District 2 in the State TAAF tournament two seasons ago and also fielded a strong quintet last season. The squad is practically intact, according to Darrell P. (Stuffy) Moorhead, manager.

The Geophysical quintet is of an unknown quantity, but has a number of former high school and college stars on its roster. It is managed by Clyde Bond, Jr., and Lester Warlick.

PRO LOOP SEASON LOOSEST

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13 (AP)—Statisticians reported today that the National football league season, which ended yesterday, was the roughest and loosest of all time. New team records were established in permitting the most points and most total yards. The old standard for the most penalties also was wiped out.

McClure, Lilliard Win Bowling Match

A late rally by Ben Brown and A. E. Christensen of Lubbock fell short here Sunday, as Don McClure and Bill Lilliard of Dallas won their two-day bowling match with the Hub city keglers.

Lilliard and McClure piled up a lead of 174 pins Saturday, then Sunday walked off with a 13-pin margin for a 10-game decision of 187 pins.

Brown, who staged a brilliant comeback Sunday, captured high series honors with 1,099 pins, but Lilliard had the high game total of 237.

McClure and Lilliard tallied a 10-game point total of 4,176 pins, as compared with 3,989 for Brown and Christensen. Lilliard, with a two-day total of 2,099 pins, nosed out Brown for individual honors.

The two-day total was as follows:

McClure	1,060—1,017	2,077
Lilliard	1,018—1,081	2,099
Brown	987—1,099	2,086
Christensen	917— 986	1,903

Poll Shows Foes, Friends Of Substitution Rule About Even

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (U.P) — In a great battle of offensive and defensive units, friends and foes of college football's unlimited substitution rule fought to a lusty but bloodless draw today.

Thus might be summarized the year-end poll of coaches and sports writers by the Associated Press on the most controversial gridiron topic since—well, the Army-Navy and Notre Dame-Southern California games.

The statistical edge, if any, lay with the proponents, but the bulge was microscopic. Both sides sprung loose with long runs deep into enemy territory, but heroic goal line stands prevented any clear-cut decisions.

Joe Fan climbed out of the stands to lead the attack for the opponents of the unlimited substitution rule. Gus Player accounted for the bulk of the yardage for the proponents.

Here are the main arguments against the unlimited substitution rule:

1. Unfair to the spectators. "A fan never has a chance to get accustomed to who is wearing what number before the player is leaving the game and somebody else is taking his place," wrote one scribe. He admitted, rather candidly, too, that the shuttle system hardly adds to the peace of mind of sports writers.
2. It favors the big schools over the small schools.
3. It creates specialists instead of all-around football players.
4. It takes the play-calling away from the players and gives it to the coaches, thus retarding initiative.
5. It doesn't give players enough time to warm up before they're derricked.

And here are the main arguments in favor of the rule.

1. It gives more boys a chance to play.
2. Coaches are more inclined to take out an injured player to see how badly he is hurt.
3. Keeps the game moving at a faster pace and keeps the players fresh.
4. Results in fewer injuries.

Eisenhower Found Soviets Easy To Deal With Shortly After War

viet affair. Consequently I designated my deputy, Air Chief Marshal Tedder, to represent me at that ceremony.

Some months later I saw in Moscow a movie film portraying the highlights of the Berlin ceremony. No mention was made in the film of the prior surrender at Reims.

We had no local victory celebrations of any kind, then or later. When Jodl signed we merely went to bed for some much-needed rest, to get up the next day and tackle the multitude of tasks that followed upon the cessation of hostilities.

THEREAFTER, however, all our work was done in the satisfying knowledge that the carnage in Europe had ended. Our problems were difficult but we were spared casualty lists.

The most intricate and pressing of our immediate problems was redeployment. On the day of the surrender there were, in the great Allied Force, more than 3,000,000 Americans under my command. This force included sixty-one United States divisions, all except one of which had participated in actual battle.

Men with the longest battle service were to be assigned to occupation duty or sent home; others were to go on to the Pacific. Many of our divisions were veterans of eleven months' continuous fighting, while some, among them the 1st, 3d, 36th and 45th Infantry Divisions and the 82d Airborne, and 2d Armored Divisions, had entered the war in the Mediterranean campaign. The older ones had fought with only brief interruptions for two and a half years. The 34th Infantry and 1st Armored Divisions, still in the Mediterranean theater, had done likewise.

Faced Big Task

To make necessary adjustments required wholesale transfers from many of the veteran divisions and the filling up of vacancies by men with shorter battle service. At the same time we had to be extremely careful to preserve the efficiency of units; to have sent to the Pacific whole divisions of near recruits would have been senseless.

Our administrative machine in Europe had to be thrown into reverse. Bases, fields, depots, ports, roads, and railways were geared up to push men and supply forward into the heart of Germany. They had, figuratively, to face about and begin operating in the other direction.

Supplies and munitions were scattered throughout western Europe and through much of Italy and northern Africa. These had to be collected, inventoried, packaged and shipped. Speed was the primary consideration.

SO VAST and urgent was this single undertaking that we set up a special headquarters with no other responsibility than to guide, supervise and expedite the movement. That headquarters was formally established on April 9, a full month before the German surrender.

With the end of hostilities the Western Allies had to begin making arrangements for breaking up the great combat force into its national elements. The gov-

Politics Was Involved

The question was, however, clearly a political one, and our governmental leaders believed that my plan would be subject to unfortunate misinterpretation by the Soviet Union.

Military government had quickly to be installed over the recently overrun sections of Germany. Add to this the never-ending volume of administrative detail incident to the control of the vast Allied Force in the west and it is easy to understand the remark of an overworked staff officer who said: "I always thought that when the Germans finally surrendered I would celebrate by going on a big binge. Now I'm taking aspirin every day—without the fun of looking back on the binge!"

We received word from Washington that, because circumstances prevented American units in Europe from returning to the United States to appear in the traditional parades of victorious troops, General Marshall wanted me to pick representative officers and enlisted men for return in groups of some fifty each, for a short tour of our country. He felt that through these representative celebrations America would have a chance to pay triernments had rejected my repeated recommendation that the Western Allies occupy their portion of Germany on a unified basis.

My plan was considered politically inexpedient, although I urged that, since occupation would be a residual task of the war and would require armies of the Western Allies for its accomplishment, there could be no reasonable objection to the maintenance, in western Germany, of the same Allied organization that had attained victory.
bute to her fighting men in Europe.

FOR every man the experience was inspiring and heartwarming. The generosity, cordiality, and hospitality poured out upon those groups by the people of the United States were overpowering.

During the months succeeding V-E Day I went to various European capitals for similar celebrations, among them London, Paris, Brussels, The Hague, and Prague; other invitations I found impossible to accept. My later visits to Moscow and Warsaw did not involve "victory celebrations."

By agreement on the political level, SHAEF went out of existence on July 14. To mark the occasion I sent a final message of thanks and good-by to the entire command.

For the first time in three years I ceased to be an Allied commander. Thenceforth my responsibilities were American only.

Preliminary agreements for an initial meeting of the Allied Council in Berlin were accomplished with difficulty. Complications included differences in language and laborious methods of communication, the lack of intimate contacts between senior commanders, and the destruction in the city of Berlin which so stringently restricted accommodations. It was not until June 5 that we progressed far enough with all these tortuous negotiations to hold the first formal meeting of the Allied commanders in Berlin.

Zhukov Presented Medal

The purpose was merely to sign our basic proclamation, a document announcing the formation of the Council and assumption of joint responsibility for the administration of Germany. We thought that the papers in the case had been completely agreed upon before we went to Berlin, but when we reached there we discovered that there were questions which the Russians still considered unsettled.

The middle of the afternoon and before it began I seized the opportunity to call at Marshal Zhukov's headquarters to present him with the Chief Commander grade of the Legion of Merit, awarded him by the American Government. I thought Marshal Zhukov an affable and soldierly-appearing individual.

WHEN I got back to my own temporary quarters in Berlin I found that there was an unexpected delay in convening the meeting, at which Marshal Zhukov was to act as host. This was annoying, as I had to return to Frankfurt that evening. Through the long afternoon hours we waited, but the English-speaking liaison officer from Zhukov's headquarters could give us no explanation for the delay. Finally, late in the afternoon, I determined to force the issue.

I asked the liaison officer to inform Marshal Zhukov that, much to my regret, I should be forced to return to Frankfurt unless the meeting began within thirty minutes. However, just as the messenger was ready to depart word came that we were expected at the conference room, to which we all instantly repaired.

Banquet Was Arranged

The marshal tendered an explanation for the delay, saying that he had been awaiting final Moscow instructions on an important point. The rest of us accepted the statement in good part and the Berlin Council got off to a start in an atmosphere of friendly cordiality.

It then developed that Marshal Zhukov had arranged an elaborate banquet for his guests, but I was not prepared to spend the night in Berlin. I therefore told Zhukov that I would have to go back to Frankfurt that evening, sufficiently early to land before dark.

He asked me to compromise by coming to the banquet hall for a toast and to hear the Red Army choir sing two songs. He promised me a speedy trip through the city to the airfield, saying he would go along himself to see that there was no delay.

BECAUSE of the marshal's hospitable gesture toward his allies I regretted my inability to stay. The singing of the Red Army chorus was remarkable, and the table was piled with Russian delicacies. Before I left Marshal Zhukov announced that he had just received a message from Moscow instructing him, with the approval of Generalissimo Stalin, to confer upon Field Marshal Montgomery and me the Russian Order of Victory, a Soviet decoration that had never previously been given to a foreigner. The marshal asked me when I should like to have the decoration presented and I invited him to visit my headquarters at Frankfurt for the ceremony.

I invited Zhukov to bring to the ceremony at Frankfurt a number of staff assistants and to stay as long as he pleased, with the assurance of a warm welcome. He replied that he would come on June 10 and would be accompained by no more than ten staff officers, but could stay for the day only. Consequently I planned a state luncheon for him and his party.

Meeting Was Success

Just a few hours before his arrival I received a telegram saying that in addition to the ten staff officers he was bringing five officer bodyguards. An officer bodyguard was a functionary of whom I had never heard, and I was somewhat puzzled as to what to do with five at a luncheon.

We met Zhukov at the airport with a guard of honor and the United States Army Band, and we then, with an interpreter, got into my car for the trip back to headquarters. I promptly brought up the question of the proper place for officer bodyguards at a luncheon.

I told him that he could have them seated immediately around him, standing behind him, or at the far end of the table. When all this was interpreted to him he blurted out: "Please tell the general he can put them wherever he pleases. I brought them along because I was told to do so."

The luncheon at Frankfurt was a great success. It was a beautiful summer day and we first took our guests to a large gallery, open to the sky, where wines and preluncheon refreshments were served. For this interval we had arranged a parade of a large segment of our Air Force, on the assumption that Marshal Zhukov would consider it a compliment. From nearby fields we brought over hundreds of fighter planes, followed by bombers ranging in size from the lighter types on up to the heaviest equipment we possessed. In the bright sunlight it was a tremendous show and Zhukov seemed much impressed.

THE decorations presented to Montgomery and me were among the few I have seen that have great intrinsic rather than exclusively sentimental and symbolic value. Designed in the form of a star, each contains some eighty or ninety diamonds surrounding a group of synthetic rubies, in the center of which is a small enameled representation of the Kremlin.

On the part of Zhukov and his assistants there was discernible only an intense desire to be friendly and co-operative. Looking back on it, that day still seems to have held nothing but bright promise for the establishment of cordial and close relations with the Russians.

That promise, eventually lost in suspicion and recrimination, was never to be fulfilled. But so far as the friendly association between Marshal Zhukov and myself was concerned, it continued to grow until the moment I left Europe in November 1945. That friendship was a personal and individual thing and unfortunately was not representative of a general attitude.

In tomorrow's installment of "Crusade in Europe" he describes this episode, which has an important bearing on recent political developments. Rain, Snow Forecast land, Roswell, Salt Flat, Guadalupe Pass and other towns to the south and west had received a trace of rain.

Midwest Is Blanketed

The cold front at 10:30 p. m. last night had spread across the Midwest from Colorado to the Great Lakes region through Kansas. All areas in the path of the cold front were warned of low temperatures, accompanied by snow. The rain is expected to reach as far north as Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle. North of Amarillo snow from the outset is forecast.

The Arctic cold is moving at a relatively low rate of speed, the weather station said, and has no appearance of being a cold wave or blizzard at this time. Winds of 18 to 25 miles for an hour are forecast for the South Plains when the front moves in, but this velocity is expected to drop shortly after the cold air moved further southward.

The last measurable rainfall at the weather station was recorded Nov. 4 when .03 was placed in the books. A trace of rain was recorded on Dec. 1.

Heat Records Are Set

The rainfall for this area from July 1 was set down at 4.52 inches, 5.44 inches below normal. Rainfall for 1948 up until today was measured at 11.73 inches, or 7.03 inches below normal, the weather station reported.

Wichita Falls had its hottest December day on record yesterday when the temperature rose to 84 degrees, the Associated Press weather report stated. Dallas' 81 degrees tied with the high for a December day set in 1922. San Angelo experienced its hottest Dec. 13 on record with an 82 maximum.

But other cities were hotter. The highest was 86 at Laredo. Alice had 85. Mineral Wells, as well as Wichita Falls had 84. Brownsville came next with. 83. Abilene, Corpus Christi, Fort Worth, Childress, Tyler and San Angelo had 82.

The coolest maximums were 60 at Guadalupe Pass and 61 at El Paso. Lots of clouds and very light rain cooled them Monday afternoon.

Resignation Tabled

Hiss today offered his resignation as head of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The Carnegie trustees, in New York, tabled the resignation and instead voted Hiss a three-months leave of absence with pay. The job pays $20,000 a year.

Hiss, who was repeatedly denied Chambers' accusations and sued him for libel, told the trustees he will be busy for weeks with investigations and legal proceedings and also that he wished to "eliminate any possible embarrassment to the endowment."

Chambers himself quit another well-paid post last week, that of a senior editor on Time magazine. Unofficial reports were that his salary was around $30,000 a year.

Films Taken To Jury

Rep. Nixon (R-Calif) of the House committee traveled to New York today to let a federal grand jury take a look at microfilms of documents taken from a pumpkin on Chambers' Maryland farm Dec. 2. The committee agreed Saturday to his procedure, after accusing the Justice department of mishandling the case.

Before leaving Washington Nixon threw back President Truman's charge that the committee has been inspired by politics. Nixon told a reporter:

"After the new Congress comes into power, without question there will be an all out attempt by the administration to suppress any further public airing of this case."

MAN IS INJURED

D. W. Staggs, of 515 Ave. Q was released about 2 p. m. Sunday from West Texas hospital where he had undergone treatment for bruises of the right hip and left shoulder and slight cuts on the head, all suffered in a construction mishap Saturday on the new highway north of the city, his wife reported last night.

had preceded him, to take $2.90 the man owed for gasoline.

"Get 'em up," Cunningham said he was warned. He added that he was forced to open the cash register and the man drove away north in a gray 1941 Ford coach or sedan.

The robber was described as dressed neatly in a dark suit. His hair was described as dark and graying slightly at the temples.

He carried a blue steel automatic pistol or a revolver, the attendant told police.

Jesse Wright, 29, of 501 Ave. E, was "badly cut" with a knife, and a 23-year-old man who gave his address as Lubbock and Borger was charged with assault with intent to murder in connection with the case, District Attorney Lloyd Croslin said.

Bond of $2,500 had not been posted by the defendant, Preston Hagger, it was said by D. W. Robertson, justice of peace, and the sheriff's department.

Statements Are Taken

Statements taken from witnesses said, in substance, that Wright, Emery Smith of 2400-block Sixth and a cafe waitress who lives at a small hotel here went to a dine and dance club outside the city and danced. There they picked up a girl living in 300-block Ave. H and her escort, the man who was charged.

They left the club and went to 300-block Ave. H to ask whether the girl they had picked up could accompany them further.

Her mother denied the request, but the girl got into the car anyway. The girl's mother and brother attempted to drag her out, and Wright, driver of the car, got out and went behind the car.

In a moment he was back, badly slashed and announcing that he had been cut and was in need of hospital attention.

The fight, officials said, was in front of 316½ Ave. H, shortly after midnight.

Leonard Hereford, a negro of 2602 East Ave. F, was stabbed behind the left shoulder and was taken to a hospital. He told officials he did not know the name of his assailant, and requested that no charges be filed.

Negro Is Charged

Freddie M. Russell, 22, a negro charged Saturday in four cases of forgery, was named Monday in a fifth forgery complaint, officials said. It was charged in an accusation filed with Robertson that Russell forged a $40 check and passed it to Joe V. Turner. The black already is under five-year suspended sentence for swindling.

A negro was arrested in connection with informal charges of a negro woman, Ethader Tolliver, that he had forced her to go with him to his room and there struck her on the head with a stick, with intent to induce her into submission to a morals offense. The man, Johnnie Collins, was later charged formally with aggravated assault.

Two Suspects Held

Two young men, 21 and 24, who gave their addresses respectively as Altoona, Pa., and Waverly, N. Y., were held here last night after their arrest earlier on suspicion.

The car, found near a local dine and dance spot, was filled with luggage, clothing, jewelry, cameras, watches, flashlights, and other property.

Captain of Detectives Pat Davidson said he was informed by radiogram that the two had broken jail in Blair county, Pa. During questioning, the suspects revealed that the car had been stolen and that they had committed a string of burglaries from Pennsylvania to Texas. Listed as spots where the burglaries had been committed were Altoona, Pa., a city in Kentucky, St. Louis and Kansas City, Mo., Topeka, Kan., Tulsa, Okla., and Wichita Falls.

Officials indicated that the youths would be turned over to federal authorities for prosecution under Dyer act violation—transportation of a stolen motor vehicle across state lines.

Property Is Recovered

Police and the sheriff's department said $250 worth of expensive jackets, basketball trunks, warmup suits and other property stolen Friday night from the car of Lofton Burnette, salesman for Powers Sporting Goods store, had been recovered. Seven Mexican youths were in custody in connection. They were being questioned, but they claimed to be juveniles.

Officials said the property was recovered in weeds on the Plainview highway after Roy Dorman of 226 Paris Ave. and C. A. Britt of 804 Ave. B had reported seeing two youths, 18 to 20, stopping a car and "looking at something hidden in the weeds." The informants took down the license number and a description of the youth's car before tipping officers, early Sunday afternoon.

Officials said that the arrest of the seven had cleared up several other recent thefts from automobiles in this vicinity, at least four of them occurring last Wednesday night near the wrestling arena on Texas avenue.

Other Thefts Reported

Property valued at $15, including a Lubbock-to-Dallas bus ticket, was reported stolen from the car of Mrs. T. T. Morris of 311 Seventh.

Mrs. J. C. Sanders of 1614 Ave. O said a vacuum cleaner valued at $80 was stolen from her residence.

They said Esteban Sotello of 1412 First had reported his watch stolen from him in 100-block College Ave.

Connie Baker of Abernathy informed the sheriff's department that a 1939 Chrysler New Yorker four-door sedan was stolen there Friday morning by negroes who asked to 'try the car out" before deciding whether to buy it.

Other thefts reported: A $27 rubber-tired wheelbarrow from A. R. Aldridge of Lubbock route 6; an $11 jacket from the car of R. E. Fielding of Lubbock route 3; a back-up light from John G. Clark of 3017 Twenty-second; a $20 bike from Mrs. Billy Slaver of 2506 Ave. P; and a blue 1942 Nash sedan, license AP376, from O. C. Todd of 2323-A Fourteenth street.

Robert Lee Powell, 24-year-old Lubbock negro, was charged Monday with burglary of the residence of Jessie Duke. The offense, sworn to by Deputy Sheriff F. R. Land before District Attorney Lloyd Croslin, allegedly occurred Dec. 11. Bond of $1,000 was set in the case by Justice of the Peace C. E. Lynn.

County records showed that A. B. Lenox, charged with liquor law violation, had posted $500 bond in the case.

Late theft reports included a wheel, tire and tube valued at $15 from the car of John Kearney of 801 Ave. H, and a pair of cowboy boots valued at $40 from the car of Donald Blackman of route 1, Ropesville.

TEXAS' ELECTORAL VOTES OFFICIALLY CAST FOR HST

AUSTIN, Dec. 13 (AP)—Texas' 23 electoral votes went in the bag for President Harry S. Truman today.

It took the Democrat electors exactly one hour and 45 minutes to talk about it and each sign twice on the dotted line for Truman and Alben W. Barkley. Each had to sign six separate certificates of election. Six certificates will be mailed—and not sent by messenger as they were a hundred years ago when the first meeting of Texas electors was held—to the national capital and elsewhere.

Two copies go to the secretary of state at Washington. Two remain with Texas' secretary of state. One goes to the president of the United States Senate. One goes to the presiding judge of the United States district court, western district of Texas.

National Democratic committeeman Wright Morrow of Houston, under fire since he was named last May, took the occasion to say he was "devoted to the ideals of this party and this country." He told the electors in an informal talk that he was willing to be judged on his record, that he has done and proposes to do the best he can in representing Texas Democrats in national party affairs.

Electrical Engineers Attend Dinner, Film Showing Here

A film on installation of aerial cable was shown in the Texas Tech Engineering auditorium last night at a meeting of the Panhandle-Plains section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

The showing, attended by approximately 75 persons followed a dinner meeting in the Texas Tech cafeteria. An open forum on oil field electrification, led by Bill Lyford of Amarillo, followed the picture.

Chairman of the section, R. F. McClure, presided. R. P. Miller is secretary of the organization.

Ray McNally, KFYO Sports Announcer, Hurt In Wreck

Ray McNally, 26, sportcaster for Radio Station KFYO here, who Monday morning suffered a concussion and cuts of the head when his automobile overturned about four miles north of Plainview on the Plainview-Amarillo highway, was reported by an attendant at Plainview hospital Monday night to be resting well and in fairly good condition.

The accident occurred at about 1 a. m. when McNally, en route to Lubbock from Amarillo, swerved his late-model Studebaker automobile to avoid hitting a herd of horses on the highway. The vehicle turned over four times and was demolished.

Abilene Publisher

boy to publisher.

Son of a Baptist preacher, the late Dr. R. T. Hanks, Bernard Hanks was born in Dallas, Sept. 19, 1884. When he was only 8, he first became associated with the Abilene paper, then "The Reporter," delivering the paper from door to door.

He attended Simmons college, now Hardin-Simmons university, Abilene and Baylor university, Waco. Then he went back to Abilene, back to the newspaper business.

For more than 35 years, Hanks was publisher of the Reporter-News, directing its growth from a six-day evening daily of 1,000 circulation to a morning, afternoon and Sunday newspaper of more than 34,000 circulation.

Stayed On Sidelines

With Houston Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times, he was associated in the ownership of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times; Big Spring Daily Herald; Paris Evening News; Marshall News-Messenger and the Denison Herald. And Harte and Hanks owned partly or wholly, radio stations in Paris, Abilene, Big Spring, Corpus Christi and Wichita Falls.

Hanks was vitally interested in the life of his community, Abilene, but like many another small city publisher he chose to stay on the sidelines. The only prominence he allowed himself outside the realm of newspapering was an election to school trustee. He was a Mason.

Services Set At Home

He enjoyed life always—taking the problems of newspapering as they came. He held this calmness to the moment of his death.

The services tomorrow will be at the Hanks family home. Dr. Jesse C. Northcutt, pastor of the First Baptist church of Abilene, will officiate. He will be assisted by Dr. Millard A. Jenkens. Burial will be in the Odd Fellow cemetery.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Andrew B. Shelton; a brother, Manly Hanks of Breckenridge; a niece, Mrs. Dean Austin of Abilene, and two granddaughters, Sharon and Cindy Shelton.

Rail Link Imperiled

Reinforcements have been rushed from the garrisons at Pukow and Pengpu to prevent flanking Red spearheads, lashing out of the east, from cutting the vital government rail line between those two defense points.

The Hwai defense line is anchored on Pengpu about 100 miles above the north bank city of Pukow on the Yangtze. Pukow is the southern terminus of the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

On the northern front, a twin-pronged Communist push on Tientsin and Peiping has forced government troops to abandon Tangshen, only 60 miles northeast of Tientsin, the river port for Peiping.

Peiping Threatened

On the east wing of this Communist drive which threatens Tientsin, the Reds have massed four to eight armies, well-seasoned by their conquest of Manchuria.

Communist columns in a western pincer have clawed their way to within 22 miles northeast and 20 miles southwest of Peiping.

The situation was so serious that U. S. Marines were reported to have been ordered to standby in Shanghai to protect the American colony there.

U. S. TO CONTINUE AID TO CHINESE, HOFFMAN SAYS

SHANGHAI, Dec. 13 (INS) — America's Marshall plan chief Paul G. Hoffman declared in Shanghai today that, present U. S economic aid will be continued to China even if a Democratic coalition of various Chinese parties replaces the present Nationalist government.

Should the Nationalist government be supplanted by a coalition government, Hoffman said he certainly would recommend continuance of American aid to China during the political transition on the same scale as presently.

The chief of the Economic Cooperation administration said that ECA's primary purpose was to help people of impoverished countries. He declared that if a government of a foreign country enslaved its peoples then the reason for ECA help would be nullified and aid would be discontinued.

First Casualties Reported As Costa Rican Units Meet Rebels

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Dec. 13 (AP) — Government forces established contact with members of an invading rebel group today in a minor skirmish near the Nicaraguan border.

The military command in San Jose received a report that four rebels were killed and an undetermined number captured. These were the first casualty figures announced since the invading band entered Costa Rica Friday night near Salinas bay in the north.

Health Program

lished fact that the health of the city affects the entire population of the county and, in turn, the health of the city depends upon health of the rural areas nearby."

Proponents of the plan say the county would be expected to appropriate only such funds as may be necessary to care for the increase in expenditures which will result from expanding a city health program to a city-county program. This expenditure may be expected to increase as the needs increase but can be absorbed jointly by the city and county or by the agency receiving the major benefits. It is claimed that the newer system will allow each organization to expend money in accordance with the benefits received.

Expansion Possible

"There is also a possibility that at a later date such organizations as the City-County Welfare association, the Tuberculosis association, Crippled Children's association, and nurses of the city and county schools could combine their facilities with those of the city-county health program to the mutual benefit of all concerned," the court was informed.

It was represented that "the only changes in our existing organization will be the addition to our staff of three registered nurses and one office clerk. This is based, of course, on the assumption that the existing facilities of the county health department will be utilized."

County's Share Increases

In studying the proposed budget, it was noted that the county share is approximately twice its present annual expenditure based on the current year. However, the county's present expenditure does not afford a full-time health program, but only two employes engaged in public health work and participation in the city's DDT spraying program. With the proposed increased expenditures the county would receive the benefits of all existing facilities of the city health department in addition to nursing service over the county. The city, too, would receive additional benefits, such as nursing service and others that would result from operation of a well organized program. And the city's expenditure will be approximately $15,000 less than that of the current year.

"However, it should be pointed out that the expenditures for the current year were necessarily high due to purchase of an X-ray unit and provision for reorganizational salaries preparatory to entering into such a program as that proposed."

Total salaries and wages, it is estimated, will cost $79,010, of which the city would pay $68,420 and the county $10,590. The city would furnish supplies, maintenance of buildings and grounds and equipment, as well as supply $5,050 worth of miscellaneous services. The county would pay $2,400 for car allowances and laboratory and miscellaneous expenses.

That, together with a city capital outlay of $3,000, would mean $6,440 proposed for a city-county expenditure. Of that amount, the city would expend $81,450, the county $14,990, it was proposed.

Prior to entering the Texas prison, Ellis said, Redwine had been in a reformatory, in a military prison, a deserter from the Navy, and had served time in two other prisons.

Z. E. Harrelson, assistant warden at Retrieve, said Redwine's head was found lying on a table about two feet from his body.

The warden said he believes a large knife was used although no weapon was found on any of the inmates.

The only prison guards present at the time were a steward in the kitchen and a picket guard at the door, Harrelson said.

"It all happened so quickly and quietly it was over before anyone realized what had happened," he added.

Redwine was 38 years old. His Houston police record dated back to 1934.

problem. It has got to licked.

"I think it can be licked, if not in a year then certainly in a year and a half when the country realizes what is going on in its cities."

Woods declared that a survey of 12 U. S. cities showed that 840,000 housing units were needed, that only 120,000 were completed this year, and that almost none of the latter met the need for low-cost homes. He continued:

"Unless the country is made aware of the problem, we are going to have rent control for many years. I don't think that would be healthy.

"We have to have rent control now because there is no substitute for shelter, but we have a plan to get rid of it."

Woods will ask the 81st Congress to extend controls to April 1, 1950. If action is taken to end the shortage meanwhile, he said, that would be the last extension.

Justice Reed wrote a voluminous dissent in which Chief Justice Vinson and Justices Jackson and Burton joined.

Reed's contention was that today's decision broadly extended the old rule. By his interpretation that rule was that psychological pressure, or at least something more than mere illegal detention must be present to invalidate a confession.

"Today's decision puts another weapon into the hand of the criminal world," Reed said.

Lewis Strategy Watched As U. S. Gets 40-Day Supply Of Soft Coal

By HAROLD W. WARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. — A soft coal stockpile big enough to last the country 40-odd days has led to speculation over how John L. Lewis may be viewing this potential threat to his bargaining position.

Some operators are wondering whether Lewis will call some kind of mine shutdown to trim the above-ground reserves.

Any big supply of coal such as the 70,000,000 tons already mined and ready for use is bad for the miners when they are negotiating a new contract. The operators can drive a better bargain when they are not under pressure from industry and home owners to get a contract at any cost. Such pressures have helped Lewis in his last two contract battles with the operators.

Supply May Shrink

But the present wage agreement does not expire until next June 30, so the stockpile may shrink naturally long before then.

When Lewis called the miners out last March in his pension dispute with the operators, there was an above-normal 30-day supply of about 49,000,000 tons on hand. That strike lasted from March 15 to April 19.

Industry officials say the present stockpile is the result of two factors: (A) a mild autumn, which led householders to hold off filling their bins and (B) a 20,000,000-ton drop in coal exports.

One industry leader said, however, that 60 days of cold weather would bring the stocks down to normal—about 30,000,000 tons.

He added that so far only the marginal or poor quality mines have been hit hard by the slow demand for coal. Good quality soft coal is still in brisk demand and most mines are running four and five days a week, with a few even operating six days, another top official of the industry said.

While a recent one-day check by the Herrin (Ill.) Daily Journal showed what appeared to be a high percentage of "no bill" freight cars in that area — cars loaded with unsold coal—this industry spokesman said the number was not unusual. He added that operators would "break their necks to sell that coal" in order to save the charges imposed by the railroads on tied up freight cars.

The industry is counting on two factors to restrain Lewis from any possible move to curb production and thereby reduce the extra-ordinary large stockpile.

One is that any interruption of work would mean a loss of the 20 cent a ton royalty which goes to the United Mine Workers' welfare fund. That is Lewis' special interest at the moment. He'll get about $100,000,000 for it in the current contract year.

The whole applecart could be upset, however, by a ruling that the welfare fund can be taxed. There have been several conferences since election day with internal revenue officials — talks which have given some industry officials a bad case of jitters. But union representatives insist the meetings have been held solely to discuss the form to be followed in making returns—on the assumption that the 20 cent payment and the fund itself are both tax free.

The second factor is that a strike of any sort would certainly affect congressional reaction to President Truman's pledge to seek repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

Lewis will scarcely be able to ignore the role he plays in the success or failure of labor union demands that the act be repealed.

Naval Official Expects Fewer Sunspots For Several Years

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (AP)—The naval observatory says things are going to quiet down on the sun for the next few years.

The peak of the current 11-year cycle of sunspots was passed last year, said Capt. Guy W. Clark, superintendent of the observatory, in a statement today. "We can expect to see fewer spots during the next few years."

The largest group of spots occurred in February, 1946, with accompanying serious disruption of radio and telegraph communication. Another outbreak came in July of the same year.

Sunspots are turbulent areas which develop in the sun's atmosphere and in which the temperature drops several hundred degrees. (The average surface temperature of the sun has been estimated at about 10,000 degrees, fahrenheit.)

The Navy said meteorologists debate the question of sunspot influence on the earth's weather. Some contend that increased ultra violet rays occurring during sunspot period result in pressure changes in the earth's atmosphere, which in turn is reflected in weather changes.

SWSTC Students Send Half Ton Of Gifts To German College

SAN MARCOS, Dec. 13 (AP) — Students at Southwest Texas State Teachers college here sent half a ton of Christmas cheer to a college in Germany.

Miss Inge Lueg, former student at Weilburg college, Germany, is now enrolled at the college here, and SWSTC students have mailed 1,000 pounds of Christmas gifts to Weilburg.

Woolens, suits, sweaters, dresses, coats, blankets, shoes, and 100 bars of bath soap are included in the 28 packages sent.

"Most of the girls at Weilburg have only one change of clothes," Miss Lueg said. "Nearly all of the men have no stockings. Such presents as these will restore Germany's faith in the spirit of St. Nick."

More Oil Fields Given Warning

Oil Shutdown Threat Boosted

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 13—Twenty-six more Texas oil fields, including the big East Texas pool, today came under the Railroad Commission's gas waste crackdown.

The commission ordered operators in the fields to show cause Jan. 25 why they should not cease flaring 177 million cubic feet of natural gas daily.

The same procedure foreran recent commission directives closing in 15 fields for alleged wasteful flaring of gas produced incidentally with oil. The first shut-in orders brought 19 court contests. One is now in the Supreme Court. Temporary injunctions in the other contests have blocked enforcement of the shut-in orders.

Fields Are Named

The commission first permits operators to show cause why the alleged gas waste should not be stopped. If cause is not shown to the commission's satisfaction, shut-in orders may follow.

Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson estimated daily oil production at 28,000 barrels in the fields put under the show-cause order today.

Besides the big East Texas field with its 22,444 wells, others were Imogene, Jourdanton, Lotita, Porter, Slick Wilcox, Francitas, Amelia, North Katy, Oyster Bayou, Red Fish Reef, Thompson, North Thompson, South Thompson, Conoco Driscoll, Odom, Richard King, Sun, Sun North, Chapel Hill, Navarro Crossing, Todd Deep, Todd Deep Crinoidal, Block 31 division, Cowden South and Fuhrman-Marcho.

Thompson said in a statement accompanying the order that present above-ground storage of oil and products precludes any danger of an oil shortage this winter.

"This position of over supply," he said, "offers a splendid opportunity to stop wasteful flaring of oil well gas without jeopardizing oil supply in the least—oil now being in ample supply for all immediate needs except military emergency needs."

Andrews Test Proven As Discovery; Others Continue Drilling

Area Oil Tests Make Showings

News of recent oil developments in a number of counties on the South Plains and surrounding area was announced Monday.

Lario Oil and Gas Co., has proven for a discovery from the Glorieta, middle Permian lime at its No. 1-B Hayden Miles, in Central Andrews county, four miles west of the town of Andrews.

That prospector, located 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 12, block A-46, psl survey, is adjacent to the Deeprock field, which produces from the San Andres-Permian above 4,700 feet.

The Lario venture was baren in that formation and drilled on to a total depth of 7,520 feet to test the lower Permian. The bottom section was dry, but the Glorieta showed signs of production.

Operator ran casing through that section and perforated at 5,730-50 feet. That horizon was treated with 2,000 gallons of acid, and after the well had swabbed enough to show that it would make some sort of well, but would not flow regularly, a pump was installed.

The discovery is pumping approximately 15 barrels of fluid per hour, 75 per cent new oil and about 25 per cent drilling mud and drilling water.

The formation did not show any formation water when drilled through, and interested observers think that continued pumping will exhaust the water, and allow the new pay opener to be completed for between 200 barrels and 250 barrels per day pumping oil production.

The water was decreasing and the gas was increasing as the pumping continued.

Scurry Well To Continue

Placid Oil Co., No. 1 Davis, North-Central Scurry county possible discovery from the Strawn lime of the Pennsylvanian, has established the water table for that zone, after penetrating 132 feet of water-free pay section. The prospector is to drill ahead from 7,200 feet to test through the Mississippian and the Ellenburger.

It is expected that the oil yielding ability of the Ellenburger will be determined by the time the wildcat drills to 7,700 feet.

The indications of a discovery were developed in a drillstem test at 7,020-7,175 feet. The tool was open for 45 minutes.

There was a good blow of air throughout the period. When operator had pulled 4,500 feet of dry pipe, after the tool had been closed, it started unloading oil. The total recovery was 2,518 feet of oil, with a small amount of salt water in the bottom section of the oil.

Terry Test Watched

An analysis showed that the bottom section of the oil recovered from that test was eight per cent water with a chloride content of 140,000 parts per million. A Schlumberger survey was then run to total depth at 7,175 feet. It showed that the top of the formation water was at 7,150 feet.

Top of the Strawn and of the pay was at 7,018 feet. That gives the 132 feet of oil pay above the water.

The project then drilled ahead to 7,200 feet and took a one hour and 45 minute drillstem test.

Recovery was 180 feet of drilling mud, 180 feet of slightly gas cut salty mud, and 420 feet of salt water. There were no signs of oil.

If the lower zones fail to produce, operator is slated to plug back to about 7,150 feet and com-

Potash From Soviet Zone Sent To Japan

TOKYO, Dec. 13. (INS) — Ten thousand tons of potash arrived in Tokyo today marking the first time that private business has been able to penetrate the Soviet iron curtain.

The potash was delivered in Japan by the World Commerce corporation. It came from Soviet occupied Germany and an additional 90,000 tons was reported enroute.

The Japanese government will allocate the potash to Japanese fertilizer producers.

The deal, first made by a private middleman, was particularly welcome in Japan because of the inability of the American occupation to obtain sufficient quantities through government channels.

The World Commerce corporation paid "about $3,000,000" to the Moscow bank and resold the potash to the U. S. government for use in Japan to complete the deal.

Good Year Seen For Area Cotton Farmers If Weather Favorable

Answering the question "what's ahead in the crop situation for next year?" C. H. Bates, extension service farm management specialist, advises through the service's news releases that "there's a caution sign out for wheat and feed grain producers," but that based on average weather conditions, cotton farmers should have a good year.

Bates sees a drop of about one-third during the winter and early spring in prices for wheat and feed grain, so that next year they will bring the farmer about two-thirds of the 1948 income from that source.

It is probable, the specialist said, that exports may be about the same as this year, but he sees a possibility of this being trimmed in places by heavy demands from abroad for durable goods and armament.

Weather Seen As Factor

The cotton picture is brighter, and weather conditions, particularly in the plains portion of the belt, may be a big factor.

Agricultural economists figure that twice as much cotton will be exported next year as this, indicating economic recovery in parts of the world, but at the same time, domestic use is indicated to be not quite as much.

Cotton support prices will hold at 90 per cent of parity for 1949, which means that the government loan price will be around 27 cents for middling seven-eighths inch staple in Texas markets.

There are indications, however, that due to price outlook, there may be a heavy acreage increase, and Bates fears this may bring production control problems into the cotton picture for 1950.

Controls Are Studied

Texas this year had nearly 9,000,000 acres in cotton, harvesting a crop of three and a quarter million bales, and probability of acreage increases are seen for 1949, especially in irrigated areas around El Paso, Pecos, Fort Stockton, the lower Rio Grande valley, and on the high plains.

On a national basis, records show a carryover on Aug. 1 this year, of three million bales. Add-

School Bonds Are Purchased By Board

AUSTIN, Dec. 13. (AP)—The State Board of Education today purchased $823,000 worth of school bonds in ten counties for permanent school fund investments.

A $2,863,665 cash balance remained in the fund after purchases.

The board, holding its monthly meeting, decided not to set quotas on the number of new textbooks to be purchased for the next school year. It also withdrew its instructions for gradual introduction of new books, leaving the matter up to State Supt. L. A. Woods.

C. C. Chessher, Junction, was elected vice president for the remainder of the year to fill a vacancy left by the death of H. C. Custard, Cleburne. A memorial resolution was adopted in tribute to the late board member.

Abdullah Named To Rule Arab Palestine; Other States Defied

AMMAN, Trans-Jodran, Dec. 13 (INS)—King Abdullah's parliament unanimously approved today a cabinet decision to proclaim him king of Arab Palestine "at the proper time" in open defiance of practically the rest of the Arab world.

The cabinet decision, based on the plan formulated by the recent conference of Arabs at Jericho, Palestine, foresees the merger of Arab Palestine with Trans-Jordan under Abdullah's sovereignty.

It was understood that Trans-Jordan may give other Arab states a chance to state their positions at the next meeting of the Arab league's political committee before the actual proclamation of Abdullah as king of Arab Palestine under the merger.

Both houses of parliament endorsed the plan after government spokesmen explained Trans-Jordan's policy on unification.

Premier Tawfic Pasha Abu Rhuda said the cabinet had decided unification should be executed at the proper time by constitutional methods, in accordance with the principle of self-determination.

The move may be a prelude to an open break with the rest of the Arab league, of which Trans-Jordan is a member.

One deputy in the lower house of parliament charged on the floor today that the league was "responsible for the Palestine situation." This was an apparent reference to the failure of invading Arab armies to prevent creation of the state of Israel.

Others Warn Abdullah

Reports were current aboard that Trans-Jordan may be given part of Arab Palestine when a final peace settlement is worked out between Israel and the Arab states.

Before Trans-Jordan's parliament took today's spet, Syria joined King Farouk of Egypt in an open warning to Abdullah to abandon his merger plan because of its threat to Arab unity in the face of the struggle against Israel.

(The Cario radio said that King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, a political foe of Abdullah, also protested against Abdullah's plan in a letter to the Trans-Jordan ruler.

Plan Called Invalid

(Ibn Saud declared the Jericho resolution was invalid. He called on Abdullah to observe the "unity of purpose irrevocably declared" at a meeting between the two Arab rulers in Ibn Saud's Riad palace last summer.

(The Saudi Arabian king also sent a message to Egypt's King Faroux supporting the latter's denunciation of the Jericho conference.)

The professors of El Azhar university in Egypt, who constitute the highest Mohammedan authority, also have warned Abdullah against going ahead with the plan.

They pointed out that Abdullah, who claims to be a direct descendant of Mohammed, founder of the Moslem religion, would be violating his commitment to the Arab league.

13-Year-Old Spur Boy Loses Eye In Fireworks Accident

The first casualty on the South Plains from Christmas fireworks occurred at Spur late Saturday when Lawrence Cook, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Cook of that city suffered the loss of his left eye in the explosion of a firecracker.

He was brought to West Texas hospital where he underwent an operation for the removal of the injured eyeball and fixation for the base of a plastic eyeball to be attached later.

Dr. Mina Watkins, member of the hospital staff, performed an operation similar to the one pictured in the past week's issue of Life Magazine.

Young Cook was reported "doing just fine" by hospital attendants Monday night. His father is superintendent of the Spur schools.

Lewis Nordyke Of Amarillo Speaks To Journalism Class

To become a success in the field of Journalism, you must avoid dullness in every case possible, Lewis Nordyke, of The Amarillo News Globe Staff, told approximately 100 sophomore Journalism students Saturday morning at Texas Technological college.

As Nordyke put it, "To be a success, a writer must have readers, and none will read dull stuff." It was from this practical side of the business that he approached his entire address, telling those who wanted to write fiction that "the only way to start is to begin."

At the close of the speech, many students asked questions about various problems, and all received sound advice. Nordyke believes that the average person gets out of bed in the morning with a little sentimentality and a little humor, and only these two things are a sure-fire hit with readers.

Plans Made To Continue Area Crippled Children's Clinic

BROWNFIELD, Dec. 13 (Special) — The success of Brownfield's first crippled children's clinic, at which 52 persons were examined, has brought an announcement from Dr. Frank P. Miller, director of the South Plains Health Unit, that such clinics will be held every six months.

Dr. Frank Hodges of Abilene and Dr. W. Compere Basom of El Paso were examining physicians for the clinic, which was sponsored by the crippled children's division of the State Health Department. Two nurses from the State Health Department were also here for the clinic, and a number of Brownfield women and South Plains Health Unit personnel volunteered their assistance.

While most of these examinees live within the South Plains Health Unit area—Terry, Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum and Hockley counties—a number were from outside the district, according to Dr. Miller.

Changes In Greece's Military Situation Seen In Few Months

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (INS)—Ambassador to Greece Henry F. Grady said today that a new Greek army high command, plus a change in military tactics, would probably improve the situation in Greece by mid-summer.

The ambassador, in Washington for consultation and report, told a news conference that the military, economic and political situation in Greece "on the whole is better."

Grady said that the Greek defense council, at instigation of the prime minister, is about to name a new chief of staff to direct the continuing fight against Communist-supplied guerrillas.

New Forces On Way

In addition, the ambassador said, a new general and new troops are being flown into the Peloponessus, where some 3,000 guerrillas are reported to be causing much trouble.

He said it was anticipated that the new offensive to be lodged by these troops, trained in commando tactics, will enable the government to clean the guerrillas out of that sector within two or three months.

This, he explained, would enable the Greek forces to concentrate their offensive against the Communists on the northern borders.

Although the ambassador declined to say that the Greek army is actually winning the struggle against the guerrillas, he did declare that he believes the "hard core" of the Communist resistance is being whittled down despite backing of Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Many Claimed Slain

He said there are about 23,000 guerrillas now operating, but that in the past two years some 35,000 have been killed and the bulk of those now serving in the rebel forces are forced recruits.

The Greek economy, Grady said, is still affected by a lack of security.

There are some 650,000 refugees —one tenth of the population— away from their farms and homes.

Nevertheless, he added, there has been an impressive construction program of roads, harbors and canal improvement and a hydro-electric program is in the making.

Tax, banking and currency reforms are progressing, although slowly. The danger of inflation still exists, but on the whole Greece has "held the line" from a year ago, the ambassador said.

Grady described the current government as "fairly stable," he pointed out there have been no elections in Greece since 1946. He thought there might be another sometime in 1949.

FARM OVERPRODUCTION FEARED

Administration Hinted To Oppose Sharp Drop In Support Prices

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 13.—An Agriculture department official hinted today that the Truman administration may oppose a sharp drop in future farm price supports.

Frank K. Woolley, deputy administrator of the department's production and marketing administration, told an American Farm Bureau federation convention that low supports could well lead to wasteful overproduction.

"The department's thinking," he said, "is that dropping price supports sharply is not a desirable way to adjust excess production. In fact, the use of this device by itself could operate to discourage the conservation side of the farm program."

Support Plan Debated

Woolley gave this cue to administration thinking as a convention resolutions committee struggled to reach agreement on the question of the level of future supports.

The whole issue of price supports and other farm-aid programs is expected to come up for debate in the next session of Congress.

Woolley's statement was interpreted by Farm Bureau leaders as a slap at the so-called Aiken-Hope long-range farm law passed by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress.

That law would permit a sharp drop in price supports after 1949.

The Farm Bureau endorsed the support provisions of this act. But many delegates, especially from the South, want the organization to come out for supports at about present wartime levels.

Earlier, President Hassil E. Schenck of the Indiana Farm Bureau declared that the nation's economic future is endangered by the consumer's "apparent" demand for pork chops, eggs and other things at pre-war prices. He said a pre-war price structure would bankrupt the federal government.

Development Of New Self-Starter For Jet Planes Is Announced

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13 (U.P.) — The Navy announced today the development of a successful self-starter for jet planes which will eliminate the immobility of jets forced down from home bases on long flights.

The device, described as "relatively simple" enables pilots of jet and turboprop aircraft to start their engines with a push-button operation.

Navy men who termed the new starter as of "utmost importance" said it was a greater advancement for jet craft than the button-starter which eliminated the hand crank was to the auto industry.

It consists of a small specially developed gas turbine weighing only 88 pounds, and 20-pound high-speed turbine starter. They combine to produce the tremendous air pressure needed for terrific velocities involved in sparking a jet engine.

The two units will replace ground power units presently necessary. These now consist of special batteries weighing up to several hundred pounds and the present 60-pound or heavier starting devices attached to each jet engine.

Present self-starter devices are inadequate after one or two starts and fail to operate under wide temperature ranges. Consequently special ground crews with cumbersome equipment are needed for operation.

The system, developed by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics and the Airesearch Manufacturing Co., Los Angeles, was designed in a $2,000,000 starter development program of the past two years.

Levelland C Of C Approves Plans For 50-Room Hotel

LEVELLAND, Dec. 13 (Special)—A $445,000 50-room hotel for Levelland is the goal of the Levelland Chamber of Commerce, which has decided to go ahead with a drive to finance the project through sale of stock to Levelland residents.

The decision was made after a report was completed by Myron D. Hockenbury of the Hockenbury System, Inc., who recently succeeded in obtaining a similar hotel for Hereford.

Hockenbury's report showed that Levelland needs a 75-to-80-room hotel, but recommended a 50-room hotel to be financially feasible. It was suggested that shares of stock be sold to raise 60 per cent of the total, $267,000, and that the 40 per cent balance be covered by a mortgage against the property.

President John Morton expects to announce members of the hotel steering committee shortly.

Fort Worth Safe Burglars Work Almost Under Noses Of Police

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13 (U.P.) — Safe burglars who worked nearly under the nose of Fort Worth police last night just missed making a $239 haul.

They entered the S&T bowling center, across the street from the police station, and nearly succeeded in opening a safe containing the money.

They presumably were frightened off by two pin boys who passed the bowling center and noticed a rear door ajar.

GERMAN-SOVIET TALKS REPORTED

Communists Claimed Planning Republic Of Eastern Germany

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—A British-licensed newspaper said today German Communists are dickering with Soviet authorities for creation of a republic of eastern Germany next spring.

The Socialist newspaper Telegraf said the republic apparently would be set up after the Communists complete a purge of their party ranks.

Communist Max Sydewitz, minister-president of the Soviet-occupied state of Saxony, was said to be the choice for president of the future republic.

Telegraf said talks between the Communists and the Russian military command had taken place at Karlshorst, a Berlin suburb.

Reports House Cleaning

Both the Communist and anti-Communist press have been carrying reports for months of a house cleaning in the Socialist Unity party, which the Communists created by forcing the Socialists in their zone to merge with them in 1946.

Telegraf said "weak" former Socialists were being dropped from the rolls of the party, which is dominant in the Soviet zone.

Asked for comment on Telegraf's report, a spokesman for the Socialist Unity party said:

"No statement will be given. The whole article is a fabrication and not worth denial."

April Is Target Date

Informed sources say the target date for formation of the eastern German republic is next April.

These informants say the Soviet command has indicated Russia is ready to sign a peace treaty with the future republic and withdraw occupation troops soon afterward.

Britain and the United States are pressing for creation of a government of western Germany, with next May as the target date. French objections to centralization of German governmental powers, however, have blocked three-power issuance of an occupation statute for western Germany, which could be the basis of the new west state's constitution.

"Can't Dispute Right"

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor, commenting on the Telegraf report, said:

"We can't dispute the right of the Soviets if they so desire to set up a government for eastern Germany."

"But the significant thing," he added, "is whether that government would claim to be the government for all of Germany. We surpect the Soviet motive is to make such a claim. But it would not have much influence in western Germany.

"I think the federal government, being prepared for western Germany, will claim only to govern western Germany."

Clay said American authorities have not confirmed the reports of plans for an east German republic of "which we have been hearing for some time."

Will Fly To Frankfurt

Clay expects to fly tonight to Frankfurt, where he will confer this week with British and French military governors on the draft of the occupation statue for western Germany.

"We will either resolve our few remaining differences at that time or refer them to our national governments," he said.

The Russians have divided eastern Germany into five provinces, all dominated politically by the Communist-led Socialist Unity party. There is no central government, however.

If the east German republic materializes, western authorities predict it will follow the same pattern as the "peoples' democracies" in other Soviet satellites.

TOUCHDOWN STORY

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP)—Through 15 seasons of Southeastern Conference grid combat, the University of Mississippi leads in furnishing scoring leaders with Ray Hapes (74 points), 1935; Parker Hall (72), 1938; Merle Hapes (72), 1940, and Charley Conerly (54), last year's top hand, setting the pace.

ing this year's 15 million bale crop, the total would be 18 million bales.

Indications are for a spinning consumption during 1949, of nine million bales, and four million for export, a total of 13 million bales. This would build up the carryover to five million bales, a net gain of two million over this year.

Whether that is sufficient carryover in the face of unsettled world conditions is a question on which authorities in different segments of industry differ. The textile industry suggests the carryover should be seven to eight million bales, but this view might be influenced by the possible effect on prices.

From the standpoint of military needs, in event of war, the 5,000,000 bale carryover would be far inadequate, based on experiences of the last war when a cotton surplus of 13,000,000 bales was quickly liquidated.

But the farmer will be his own boss in 1949, so far as acreage to cotton is concerned. There are no acreage or quota controls. Only limitations will be his judgment and weather conditions, and on these will depend the question of controls and price supports for the 1950 cotton crop.

Other things cited by Bates as "big things that will affect crop outlooks" for next year, includes government spending, both for European relief and for military preparedness.

Jury To Return For Further Study In Civil Action Today

A 72nd district court jury at 6:30 p. m. Monday had failed to reach agreement on special issues in the civil action of Jessie Davis and others against Service Finance company, and was ordered to report at 9 o'clock this morning to Judge Dan Blair for further deliberation.

The action was described as a suit for conversion of an automobile. Plaintiffs are represented by James Denton, and the firm of Carr and Carr is counsel for the finance company.

Judge Blair has three other civil actions to try this week, attorneys having announced ready when the cases were called Monday morning.

STREET LIGHTING

A Big Job Is Ahead

THE PURCHASE of fixtures for 300 residential street lights, as authorized by the City commission a few days ago, will barely scratch the surface of this need in Lubbock.

A survey about two years ago indicated minimum requirements to be approximately 800 lights. The City has grown considerably since then and has annexed extensive suburban additions. It seems conservative to say that 1,500 to 2,000 new residence street lights would not provide an excess of illumination.

It is true that a program of such magnitude would be costly. Fixtures bought in large quantities average close to $50 per light. Installation costs, lines and other items add substantially to the expense.

But the city's present municipal electrical rates include a provision for the installation and operating expenses of street lights. Users of city electricity in areas without adequate lighting are paying for something they are not getting. Adequate lighting represents a legitimate charge against electric plant revenues which could be used for that purpose and still leave a large operating profit.

Officials say fixtures still are difficult to obtain in the quantities needed. But the placing and acceptance of orders for 300 sets of fixtures indicates this condition is improving. It would suggest that the time is at hand for the proper officials to do more concentrating on the provision of sufficient street lights to free large residential areas of the hazards and inconveniences which attend inadequate lighting.

Bernard Hanks

INTO the good, rich West Texas soil he loved so well, friends today will commit all that is mortal of Bernard Hanks, of Abilene. But although Mr. Hanks henceforth shall be missing from scenes so long familiar to him, his spirit and his years of good citizenship will continue to be mirrored, daily and for a long time, by the columns of the Abilene Reporter-News.

The story of Bernard Hanks and the Abilene Reporter-News is typical of the stories of other West Texans in many lines of endeavor. He started at the very bottom of the business as a carrier and solicitor of classified advertising, then worked his way to the top as principal owner and head of his newspapers. The old Abilene Reporter, on which he began his career, was pretty much of a one-horse affair in the early days. But the keen intellect and indefatigable energy of Bernard Hanks, down through the years, made it into a fine, modern newspaper with a healthy influence extending over a broad area.

As good a husband and citizen as he was a newspaper executive, Bernard Hanks poured his talents and his efforts into his home city and its institutions; into the better things of West Texas. So when death called him Sunday night, he left both Abilene and its surrounding area better places because of his having been there.

West Texas newspaper and civic circles will not be the same now that Bernard Hanks has gone from our midst. But the fine examples he set shall not be forgotten. His years among us were productive of such good that they will long serve as beacon lights for those who seek, as he sought, to build a finer place in which to live.

Waltz Into Darkness

By WILLIAM IRISH

Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: Well-to-do Louis Durand carries on a correspondence courtship with a Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. She comes from St. Louis to New Orleans by boat to marry him. She is young, ravishing, blond. Within a month of their marriage, she withdraws $50,000 from his bank account and disappears. Investigation proves her an impostor. Durand retains Walter Downs, detective, to prove that a crime was committed against the real Julia Russell, who vanished on the boat trip to New Orleans. A year later, Durand is alone in Biloxi. He makes the acquaintance of a Colonel Worth in a hotel bar, arranges to meet the colonel and his fiancee, Miss Castle for dinner. At the restaurant, Durand catches a glimpse of Miss Castle before he is seen himself. She is the woman he knew as Julia. He quickly leaves. A ruse gets him into her hotel room to await her return. At last she approaches.)

HE jumped up quickly and looked around. Strangely enough, for all the length of time he'd been in the room, he'd made no plans for concealment, he had to improvise them now. He saw the screen there, and chose that. It was the quickest and most obvious method of effacing himself.

He could see through the perforated, lacelike, scrolled woodwork at the top.

The door opened, and she had arrived.

Two figures came, in not one; and advancing only a step or two beyond the doorway, almost instantly blended into one, stood there locked in ravenous embrace in the semishadow of the little foyer. A gossamer piquancy of breath-borne champagne or brandy reached him, admixed with a little perfume. His heart drowned in it.

There was no motion, just the rustle of pressed garments

He recognized the colonel's voice, in a thick whisper, "I've been waiting for this all evening. My li'l girl, you are, my li'l girl."

The rustling strengthened to active resistance.

"Harry, that's enough now. I must wear this dress again. Leave me at least a shred of it."

She broke away at last, and entered the room itself. She went to the night light, and it flared from a spark to a sunburst at her touch. And as the light bathed her, washing away all indistinctness of outline and of feature, she glowed there before him in full life once more, after a year and a month and a day.

And an old wound in Durand's heart opened and began to bleed all over again.

SHE threw down her fan, she threw down her shoulder scarf; she drew off the one glove she had retained and added that to the one she had carried loose, and threw them both down.

"Wasn't it too bad about poor Florrie?" she said, off-handedly, over one shoulder to the colonel. "What do you suppose became of the young man you arranged to have her meet?"

"Oh, blast him!" Worth said truculently. "Forgot, maybe. He's no gentleman. If I run into him again, I'll cut him dead."

She was seeing to her hair now, Touching it a bit, without disturbing it too much. Gratefully crouching a trifle so that the top of the mirror frame could encompass it comfortably. "What was he like?" she asked idly. "Did he seem well-to-do? Would we—would Florrie, I mean—have liked him, do you think?"

"I hardly know him. Name was Randall or something. I've never seen him spend more than fifty cents at a time for a whiskey punch."

"Oh," she said on a dropping inflection, and stopped with her hair, as if losing interest in it.

She turned and moved toward him suddenly, hand extended in parting gesture. "Well, thank you for a congenial evening, Harry. Like all your evenings it was most delectable."

Worth made a sudden convulsive move, and they blended into one again, this time in full light of mid-room. But for a moment only. Then Durand could see her head avert itself; smiling benevolently, yet avert itself. She twisted to face the door, and in turning, managed to get Worth to turn likewise; then somehow succeeded in leading him toward it.

SHE was standing within the gap of the door now, alone at last, her arm extended to the outside. Worth must have been kissing it repeatedly, the length of time she maintained it that way.

All he could hear was a subdued murmur of reluctant parting.

She withdrew her arm with effort, pressed the door closed.

He saw her face clearly as she came back into the full light. All the playfulness, coquetry, were wiped off it as with a sponge. It was shrewd and calculating, and a trifle pinched, as if with the long wearing of a mask.

She moved over to the desk, took down its lid and seated herself at it. She drew out a sheet of notepaper from the rack. Took up a pen and dipped it, and squaring her other arm above the surface to be written on, began to write.

Durand moved out from behind the screen and slowly walked across the carpet toward her. It gave his tread no sound, though he wasn't trying for silence. He advanced undetected, until he was standing behind her, and could look down over her shoulder.

"Dear Billy," the paper said, "I—"

The pen had stopped, and she was nibbling for a moment at its end.

He put out his hand and let it come lightly to rest on her shoulder. Left it there, but lightly, lightly, as she had once put her hand to his shoulder, lightly, on the quayside at New Orleans; lightly, but crushing his life.

Fight On Filibusters Looms

By PETER EDSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Senators and representatives blown back into office by the recent elections have been homing on Washington early, in order to sound off on what big things they are going to do next year.

The result is that they have now outlined for the 81st Congress a program that is every bit as definite as whatever may be proposed by President Truman in his State of the Union, Budget and Economic Report messages. Congressional forecasts also give some idea of how the President's proposals will be received.

Biggest issues are probably labor, farm prices, housing, congressional reorganization, inflation, civil rights and taxes.

EDSON

Rep. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, co-author of the La-Follette-Monroney Congressional Reorganization Act of 1946, wants to revise this measure further. He would curb the power of the House Rules Committee and have the Senate ban filibusters by requiring all speakers to confine their remarks to the question under consideration, instead of being allowed to ramble on endlessly.

Senators who dote on their sacred rights won't like that. Sen. Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania has an idea for putting all bills on a timetable, to be revised every 30 days. He thinks this would prevent legislative log jams at the end of the session.

Revision of Senate rules to do away with filibusters will have bipartisan support. If the Republicans had retained control of the Senate, a Republican committee under Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio had intended to force limitation of debate by simple majority, instead of the two-thirds vote now required.

The only reason the LaFollette-Monroney bill was permitted to pass in 1946 was that the reorganizers agreed to make no change in House rules. Rep. Aime Forand of Rhode Island has an idea of enlarging House Rules Committee membership from 12 to 15. This would break up the six-to-six tie that snarled up so many measures in the last Congress. It would permit the Democrats to name three more members to the committee, to provide a safe working majority favorable to President Truman's program.

THE President himself will probably consider these matters as problems for Congress to decide, and will keep his hands off. Both questions will probably have to be settled, however, before any action can be taken on the President's civil rights bills.

No one has yet stepped forward to say he will be the hero in pushing civil rights legislation. Republicans are for it, and the Democratic platform promised it. The votes are there to pass it. But a number of Southern statesmen have announced they intend to modify the original proposals.

CIO PURGE UNDERWAY

Murray Blasts Reds

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The American people's bitterness toward Russia and Henry A. Wallace's wretched performance in the presidential campaign are chiefly responsible for CIO President Philip Murray's current, all-out attack on "Commies" in his organization, according to his close friends and advisers.

TUCKER

"Uncle Joe" and "Uncle Henry" have been their own worst enemies insofar as wooing and winning over the American workingmen are concerned. They have muffed whatever chance they ever had of infiltrating their supporters into positions of power and influence in the labor movement.

As a conservative and deeply religious man, Mr. Murray has always hated Communism and its American affiliates. But he has tolerated them—too patiently, some of his intimates think—because an aggressive campaign against them earlier might have cost him his throne and smashed the CIO.

EFFECTIVE: The mass union was officered and manned with many leftists and believers in direct action when Mr. Murray succeeded John L. Lewis as president in 1940, after the latter kept his promise to resign if Wendell Willkie were defeated by President Roosevelt.

Although no radical himself, Mr. Lewis used fellow-travelers in his belligerent and bruising drive to unionize great industries. They were extremely effective organizers in those pioneer days.

His defense always was that, if there were Communists in the plants he sought to take under his win, it was the fault of the employers, not his.

"They hired them in the first place, didn't they?," was his standard reply to these accusations.

SIGNIFICANT: Thus, Mr. Murray had a tough housekeeping job on his hands when he assumed command. There were several admirers of Moscow on his headquarters staff, and they did not leave until the Wallace entrance into the race, when they cast their lot with his.

For almost eight years Mr. Murray took no action against the radicals, and it is his seeming indifference which makes his present attitude so significant. Quite as important for its sidelight on labor's policy is the fact that CIO leftists were steam-rollered at the recent Portland convention when they tried to thwart his cleanup program.

He admits, however, that he might not have been able to command convention support if it had not been for Stalin's postwar obnoxiousness and Mr. Wallace's campaign role as an apologist for the Kremlin.

IMPORTANCE: This anti-Communist move is expected to have great and continuing political importance, as well as a definite effect on Truman policies during his four years in the White House. It will probably make him even more responsive to labor's legislative demands.

For one thing, Mr. Murray's new prestige should spell the doom of any Wallace attempt to organize a permanen third party. The same resolution which authorized a purge of CIO "Reds" opposed formation of an offshoot, political organization, and provided for strengthening the Political Action Committee, which rang doorbells and canvassed factories for Mr. Truman. This proposal was fought bitterly by the Iowan's CIO friends.

REWARD: Similarly, the American Federation of Labor approved a special one dollar levy on its 7,000,000 membership for renewed political and legislative activity, which will provide a campaign chest of many millions.

Both these groups have now hitched all their hopes to the Democratic Party, and especially to President Truman. They expect him to reciprocate, and they look for their reward in a January demand from him for outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. They think it will be difficult for him to refuse.

HEARTENED: The Wallace rebuff has heartened President Truman and National Chairman J. Howard McGrath in their planning for the party. In their opinion, it removes him and his faction as guerilla threats in the 1950 Congressional contests and in future presidential campaigns.

They realize that it was his presence in last month's race which gave New York's forty-seven electoral votes to Governor Dewey. Had Wallace been able to qualify in Illinois, he might have shoved that state into the Republican column, for Mr. Truman carried it by only 31,196 votes, according to unofficial figures.

PROTAGONISTS: House Democratic leaders are engaged in a backstage row which may break into the open when they organize the Eighty-first Congress next month.

Principal protagonists are two friendly but strong-minded veterans — Sam Rayburn of Texas and the octogenarian from North Carolina, Robert L. ("Muley Bob") Doughton. The first will be Speaker of the next House, while Mr. Doughton will return to his old post as Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

The dispute involves selection of six Democrats to fill Ways and Means vacancies. Although the committee usually makes its own choices, and normally follows Mr. Doughton's advice, Mr. Rayburn will wield great influence.

He has indicated that he favors six fairly "liberal" members—men who would be favorable to any White House proposal for an excess profits or higher corporate levies. Mr. Doughton, on the other hand, is inclined to oppose such suggestions unless January budget requirements show them to be absolutely necessary.

Incidentally, there is no expectation that the Democrats will increase personal income taxes. It would be too dangerous, politically, in the leaders' opinion.

Frequently the man who hasn't room to complain will look around and secure bigger quarters.

You can always tell when a man thinks he is sick. He carries out the doctor's orders to the exact letter.

Some men don't care so much about what you stand for as they do how long you will stand for it.

Some men like to think they are of a generous spirit. They are the ones who contribute more advice than money.

Too many pressing duties flatten out a man.

There should be a dirt-remover for dirty cracks.

Believe It Or Not -- By Robert Ripley

NAN MACAUL SET OUT TO FIND A MULE STOLEN FROM HER IN BALLINAGH, EIRE SHE WALKED ACROSS THE BREADTH AND LENGTH OF IRELAND - THEN REDOUBLED HER TRACKS - CROSSED OVER TO SCOTLAND - THEN DOWN TO THE TIP OF ENGLAND - AND RETURNED AND WALKED BACK TO HER HOME IN EIRE - ONLY TO FIND THAT THE MULE HAD BEEN RETURNED 8 YEARS BEFORE!

DEFINITE PROGRAM IS NEEDED

Changes In GOP Setup Studied

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—As the returns come in from Republican ranks, high and low, old and young, as to where their party should go from here and how it should set about it, there begins to emerge a broad pattern of method on which, at least, there can be fairly general agreement.

The party has its divisions and schisms. This was apparent in last Congress, in its national convention, in the campaign, but more dramatically so since the election. The defeat opened sores and loosed tongues that had kept politely, discreetly and politically still during the battle. While the differences are less sharp than those in the Democratic party, they are nonetheless real and formidable.

STOKES

The first essential, then, would seem to be a spirit of compromise among the conflicting party elements.

Congressional Record Blamed

The second is a realization of the bare and basic fact that the party "can no longer afford to have Congressional policies of one variety and presidential candidates of another," as it most aptly put in one of the most discerning blueprints for the party's future course, the joint statement issued by the young Republican clubs of Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Radcliffe and Wellesley.

This outstanding obstacle was clearly revealed in the campaign when the party's candidates, Governors Dewey and Warren, found the load of the record of the 80th Congress too heavy a burden. That record was contrary in so many respects to their own views and the party platforms of both 1944 and 1948 that they could not defend it and so had to skitter nervously all around it. Meanwhile President Truman had a field day with their dilemma and discomfiture. He never let the voters forget about Congress. It was his major issue and, as it turned out, a winning one.

This fundamental incompatibility, which has been embarrassing before to other Republican candidates, points directly to another essential of party reorganization, which is the need of a coordinated party policy. It now seems generally agreed among all elements except the "moss-backs" that the policy must be one in keeping with the times and one in which there is a recognition of the part the federal government has come to play in the lives of the people. The party must take account of "the facts of life," as the young Republican men and women of the four New England colleges express it, in formulating a policy that will "rekindle our party's traditional fires of humanitarianism."

As to methods of attaining this there are various proposals, out of which, however, a sound approach can be developed.

The young Republicans, in their manifesto, recommend that a group of party leaders be delegated as spokesmen of the party and so recognized and authorized; that a national meeting of party leaders be held here early in January to adopt a body of principles and plan strategy for the next four years; that the party decide now just what sort of candidate they want in 1952, that is, what he should stand for, and develop a program in Congress on which he could run and on which congressional leaders can support him, and that for this there must be closer co-operation and co-ordination between House and Senate party leaders.

Committee Role Confusing

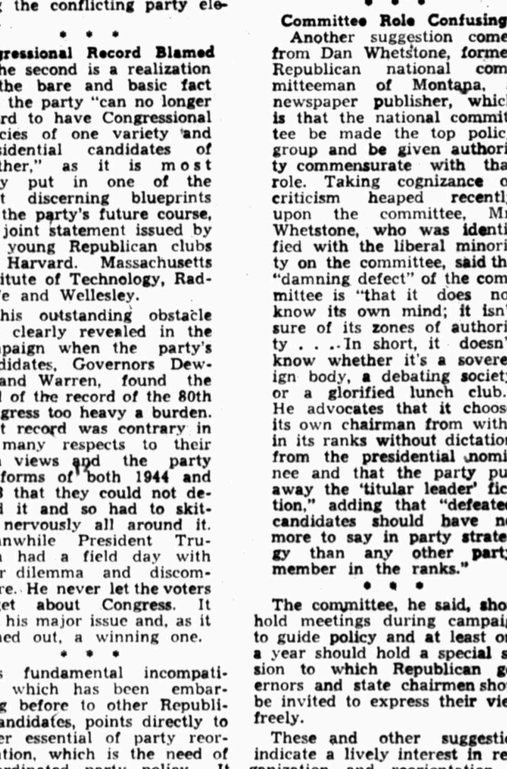

Another suggestion comes from Dan Whetstone, former Republican national committeeman of Montana, a newspaper publisher, which is that the national committee be made the top policy group and be given authority commensurate with that role. Taking cognizance of criticism heaped recently upon the committee, Mr. Whetstone, who was identified with the liberal minority on the committee, said the "damning defect" of the committee is "that it does not know its own mind; it isn't sure of its zones of authority . . . In short, it doesn't know whether it's a sovereign body, a debating society or a glorified lunch club." He advocates that it choose its own chairman from within its ranks without dictation from the presidential nominee and that the party put away the 'titular leader' fiction," adding that "defeated candidates should have no more to say in party strategy than any other party member in the ranks."

The committee, he said, should hold meetings during campaigns to guide policy and at least once a year should hold a special session to which Republican governors and state chairmen should be invited to express their views freely.

These and other suggestions indicate a lively interest in reorganization and reorientation of the party which, it is hoped, will bear fruit, for a strong and intelligent opposition is absolutely essential in a healthy Democracy.

STOCKS LOSE SLIGHTLY

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (AP)—Moderate selling pressure late in the session was enough to push the stock market down today for small fractional losses.

Early gains were held in fairly active trading until the final hour when prices started slipping. One brief rally near the close was not enough to stem the slow moving tide but it kept leaders above their lowest points of the day.

Radio issues enjoyed sharp popularity early in the day, and they held a good part of their gains to close unchanged to slightly higher.

Steels and motors gained the most attention among the major groups. Leaders closed narrowly mixed.

Rubbers and airlines were mostly higher while aircraft, distillers and mail order and retail issues were lower. Rails were mixed with the net result at the close about a stand off.

Moderate sized blocks of stock were traded at the opening including Magnavox, Radio Corp., Studebaker, Westinghouse, Pan American Airways, and electrical and musical industries. Just before the close 10,000 shares of industrial rayon sold at 41, up ½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .3 of a point to 64.6. The industrial and utility components of the average were off .2 of a point, and the rail average was unchanged.

Volume of trading was 1,180,000 shares.

Sorghums No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lbs. 2.68-73.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 13 (AP) — After a bad stumble at the start, grains got to their feet and ended with minor price changes on the board of trade today. Corn set the pace on the advance, gaining more than a cent at times in comparison with Saturday's close.

A decline in receipts of cash corn and a good demand from processing interests helped yellow cereal futures. Traders also pointed out these deliveries were selling well be low the government loan.

Wheat closed ½-1⅛ higher, December $2.37⅛, corn was ⅛-⅝ higher, December $1.42⅝-½, oats were 1 cent lower to ¼ higher, December 81¼.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP) — Cotton futures turned irregular today. Nervous liquidation and active hedge selling depressed prices as much as $1 a bale in early dealings, but the market recovered on mill buying and short covering. Uncertainty over the farm legislative program next year, the slow demand for cotton goods, and the recent reaction in the futures market caused a good deal of hedging by holders who have been carrying their cotton on an unprotected basis.

Although the government beginning January 1 will be able to sell its commodity holdings in the open market at less than parity, dealers saw no immediate threat to cotton. The government is sheltered to have sold all its old crop holdings and will be unable to touch the cotton moving into the loan from the current crop until after July 31 next year which is the maturity date on the 1948 crops loan.

Futures closed 55 cents a bale higher to 55 lower than the previous close.
