Senate Links Narcotics Mobster With Hoffa's Labor Appointment

By HERBERT FOSTER

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee planned to ask mobster Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo today what "interest" he and labor racketeer Johnny Dio had in seeing Midwest Teamster boss James R.

James Hoffa Unacceptable To Council

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO (UP)—Midwest Teamsters Boss Jimmy Hoffa will not be acceptable to the AFL-CIO Executive Council as president of the huge trucking union informed sources said today.

The council's attitude toward Hoffa stiffened as a result of backstage discussions by National labor leaders at the four-day council meeting ending today.

Hoffa has no significant opposition in his bid for the Teamsters top job and is considered a cinch to be installed in the $50,000 a year post.

AFL-CIO officials thus far have not developed an air-tight case against the 44-year-old Teamster tough guy but believe that his as-

US-Syrian Relations Near Breaking Point

WASHINGTON (UP)—Diplomatic relations between the United States and Syria were near the breaking point today.

But American officials said any such move is up to Syria. They said the U.S. government does not intend to cut off all relations with the Middle Eastern country, now at the lowest point in recent history.

The crisis in American-Syrian relations has been developing for more than a year because of the Syrian government's policy of cooperation with the Soviet Union. Some U.S. diplomats believe Syria under its present regime has virtually a Soviet satellite status.

The explosion was reached this week when Syria suddenly accused the United States of plotting to overthrow the Syrian government. Two American diplomats and the U.S. Military attaché were told to get out of Syria.

The State Department retaliated Wednesday by ousting Dr. Farid Zein-Eddine, Syrian ambassador to the United States, and Dr. Yassin Zakaria, second secretary of the Syrian embassy here.

The State Department simultaneously announced that James S. Moose Jr., U.S. ambassador to Syria now in the United States for home leave and reassignment, "is not returning to Syria."

It said the ambassadorial post will remain vacant for the foreseeable future. The U.S. embassy in Syria will be kept open, however, with Robert C. Strong in charge.

Hoffa installed as the power-behind the Teamster throne in New York.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy told reporters Corallo, described by the committee as a narcotics racket figure, is secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 239 in New York.

Also called to testify was Samuel Goldstein, who was convicted last month with Dio in a labor racket case. Goldstein formerly headed Local 239.

Kennedy said the committee would show that Corallo, who controls half a dozen various union locals in New York, and Dio were "interested" in the election of John O'Rourke to head Joint Council 16, controlling body of the Teamsters in the New York area.

The committee has charged that Hoffa, unopposed candidate to succeed Dave Beck in a few weeks as head of the nation's largest union, rigged the 1956 election for O'Rourke, a loyal supporter. The committee said Hoffa set up seven phony "paper" locals of the union and staffed them with hoodlums from Dio's locals of the old AFL United Auto Workers.

The phony locals—though many had no members—cast seven votes apiece for O'Rourke against incumbent Martin Lacey. Lacey went to court, got all votes impounded and won the election.

But he retired soon afterward and O'Rourke got the job.

Kennedy said Corallo has a record of six or seven arrests and one conviction on narcotics charges. He described Corallo as "more important in New York" than Dio at a recent hearing at which the committee played a wiretap recording showing him giving orders to Dio and taking a hand in top Teamster Union politics.

Seamen's clothing was seen floating on the surface of the harbor after the crash and it was believed some of the passengers were Russian seamen.

There was some speculation at first—but no evidence—the passengers may have included Americans returning from the Moscow Youth Festival. A number of American youths have left Moscow recently by plane.

The plane sank in about 24 feet of water with only its tail sticking up above the surface. All available harbor craft converged on the area to seek possible survivors and look for bodies. Other craft searched a wider area of the harbor.

Blackwell, father of four children, was arraigned before commissioner James F. Spain on a homicide charge. The case was continued until Aug. 29.

Soviet Plane Crashes

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UP)—A Soviet passenger plane clipped the chimney of a power station while coming in for a landing today and spun into Copenhagen harbor, killing 18 passengers and 5 crewmen aboard.

The plane, a twin-engine Ilyushin-14, was flying in from Riga, the former Latvian capital on the Baltic coast, for a landing at Kastrup Airport outside Copenhagen when the crash occurred.

A United Press reporter who saw the passports taken off three of the bodies laid out on the quayside said they were Russian diplomatic passports. The three were Alex Rosine, 37, Maria Bouchova, 21, and Nina Silina, 27. Silina was attached to the Soviet Embassy at Oslo.

Seamen's clothing was seen floating on the surface of the harbor after the crash and it was believed some of the passengers were Russian seamen.

Special Session This Fall Is Threatened

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower, certainly angered by a House appropriations subcommittee's open defiance, was reported prepared today to fight to the bitter end for the foreign aid funds he considers vital to bolster the free world's defense.

If he loses the fight now, he has threatened to call Congress back into special session this fall to try again.

Eisenhower touched off what may become the hottest political fight of his administration Wednesday with his special session warning.

Less than four hours later the appropriations subcommittee, informed of his action, slashed $42 million dollars from the program Eisenhower protested already has been hobbled by too-steep cuts.

The measure was to go before the full 50-man appropriations committee today. Speaker Sam Rayburn announced the House itself would take up the appropriations bill immediately and pass it before nightfall.

Makes Big Out
The subcommittee recommended a total foreign aid appropriation this year of $2,525,000,000—a whopping $1,339,000,000 below the President's "bare-bone" request for $3,864,000,000, and $42 million dollars below the $3,367,000,000 he agreed reluctantly to accept.

The stinging rebuff was administered not long after Eisenhower called an almost unprecedented special news conference to announce he is ready to call a special session of Congress if necessary to get what he considers adequate aid funds.

Calling the aid program the "cheapest money we spend" for the nation's security, the President told newsmen he does not think the country "is going to see it crumble through any false economy, or because it just has no local political impact."

He disclosed he had just signed the compromise $3,367,000,000 "authorization" bill, which puts a ceiling on funds for the 12 months that began July 1 with the "prayerful hope" it would be enough to "sustain the essential interests of the United States in the free world."

Says Impact Serious
But he said the impact of that reduced figure itself would be "serious" and he would have "no recourse" in event of any sizeable further reduction in the follow-up appropriation bill to recall Congress.

Independence Day Of India Celebrated

NEW DELHI (UP)—India celebrated its 10th independence day by erasing away statutes reminiscent of British rule and releasing some 15,000 convicts from civil and military prisons.

For most Indians, the observance also marked the 100th anniversary of the Indian mutiny, which is now regarded here as this country's "first war of independence."

The Mahatma Party an orthodox Hindu group, angrily boycotted the centennial celebration. Mahatma leaders say it should have been held May 10, date of the massacre at Meerut that touched off the mutiny.

Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, ignoring technicalities, told a crowd of 200,000 at a flag-raising ceremony outside Delhi's historic Red Fort that today is a day of "special significance" in Indian history.

Nehru declared that India "wants friendship with all countries"—even Pakistan, with which this country has been continuously at odds during its 10 years of independence.

The questionnaire states that the survey is being made at the request of the Attorney General.

Each operator of a lease must report the number of barrels of salt water produced on each lease per day and the method of disposal of the produced salt water. One question asks if the water is allowed to spill into water courses.

Operators of the lease have until Oct. 1, 1957, to make the report, according to the questionnaire. If the report is not filed in and received by the Railroad Commission by that date the questionnaire informs the lease operators that a pipeline severance will be issued.

The questionnaire is to be filed at the district office of the Railroad Commission in Pampa by all operators in this district.

Congress May Strike 'Gag' From Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Albert Thomas (D-Tex.) came up today with a device by which he said Congress can strike from a pending civil rights bill a provision which has been termed a "newspaper gag."

The provision, approved with little controversy by both House and Senate, carries fines and prison sentences for persons who "release" or "use in public" information obtained by a proposed new civil rights commission while meeting in executive session.

It was approved by both houses in identical form as part of the pending civil rights bill. Most members have taken the view it can not now be altered, even though House and Senate versions of the civil rights bill differ in other respects and final action has not yet been taken on a compromise.

However, Thomas said he has drafted and will introduce at the proper time a "concurrent resolution" which if passed by House and Senate would strike the provision from the bill prior to its signature by the President.

Many members on second thought have expressed concern at the provision. House GOP Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass.) called it a "newspaper gag" and said he hoped it could be removed if the bill were sent to a House-Senate conference.

The provision was added to the original administration civil rights bill by the House Judiciary Committee. Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (N.Y.), ranking Republican on the committee, said it wasn't intended as a "gag" upon newspapermen.

Keating has said he plans to offer a new bill to eliminate "the minute" a civil rights bill is signed into law.

The controversial provision provides for executive sessions of the new civil rights commission when the commission determines that anticipated testimony may tend to degrade or incriminate persons to be mentioned. It then continues:

"No evidence or testimony taken in executive session may be released or used in public sessions without the consent of the commission. Whoever releases or uses in public without the consent of the commission evidence or testimony taken in executive session shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year."

Reports On Salt Water Being Made

Oil and gas operators throughout the Top o' Texas, as well as all of the operators of the 50,000 leases throughout the state, are making reports to the Railroad Commission of Texas on salt water produced on each lease.

The questionnaire states that the survey is being made at the request of the Attorney General.

Wrong Brand?

DALLAS (UP)—District Judge Sarah T. Hughes granted a divorce to Ira Thomas Thaxton, 35, because his 63-year-old bride not only refused to sleep with him, but wouldn't let him chew tobacco.

Thaxton's wife of two and a half months, Annie, did not contest the divorce.

Motorists To Get Summons From Marshal

DALLAS (UP)—Dallas county Fire Marshal Hal Hood said today he would issue summonses to more than 40 motorists who blocked traffic Wednesday night near the scene of a jet plane crash at Grand Prairie.

Hood said the throng of sightseers forced him to park his own car more than a mile from the location of the crash, and that ambulances carrying Fred H. Kroger, 74, and his 67-year-old wife were delayed 15 minutes in leaving for a hospital because of the traffic bottleneck.

Hood said he obtained the license numbers of the 40 cars whose owners would be cited for obstructing the right-of-way of emergency vehicles.

Tarrant County Fire Marshal Mason Lankford described the rush of the curious to the scene of the crash as "terrible, a disgrace."

Lankford said his office also planned to issue summonses to the motorists who obstructed traffic.

He said four ambulances went to the crash site and were so hampered by traffic that "for a while it looked like they'd never get here."

He said even his own car, with its siren blowing and red light flashing, was forced off the road by two eager motorists.

Police Chief Buster Adams of Grand Prairie said two other motorists who were racing to the crash got out and started a fist-swinging battle over a parking place.

Hereford Breeders Set Barbecue

The annual Top o' Texas Hereford Breeders Association barbecue and "get-together" has been scheduled for Aug. 29 at the Ruben Thompson Park, Clyde L. Caruth, vice president, announced.

Ruben Thompson Park is located four miles east of Miami on highway 40.

Bert Lewler, commercial feed lot operator from Lubbock, will be guest speaker for the occasion.

Members and guests will be treated to a Frank Carter barbecue. The program will also feature a pie and cake contest with prizes to the women submitting the best pastries.

Registration time for the event is 5 p.m. Aug. 29.

New Swim Pool Here Is Dedicated

"A dream come true." Those were the words of Ed Myatt, mayor pro tem, yesterday afternoon at the opening ceremony of the $27,000 Marcus Sanders Memorial swimming pool for Negro residents of Pampa.

Myatt, speaking for Mayor Lynn Boyd, who was out of town, told an eager crowd which packed the inside of the pool that this was "the finest pool in Pampa."

Bob Olson then formally dedicated the pool as the "Marcus Sanders Memorial Pool" in honor of a Negro boy who drowned recently when he dived into a shallow dirt pool and struck the bottom.

Proceeding the opening ceremony, a Negro beauty contest was held with Miss Claudette Cash taking the crown. Miss Cash, who stands a bare five feet and weighs 110 pounds, took the honor with measurements of 32-22-32.

In second place was Miss Willie Pearl Oliver, 14, who stands five feet and four inches, weighs 109 pounds and has 32-22-33 measurements. Third went to 15-year-old Miss Ethel Kay Simmons.

George Dukes, who responded to the pool dedication by Olson and Myatt, said that the Negro people "highly, highly appreciate" the pool.

Roy Donald Watts served as emcee for the event. A dedication prayer was led by the Rev. W. B. Moore, and J. C. Randall, principal of the Carver School, spoke briefly of his appreciation for the pool.

Myatt and Bruce Brooks took part in the double ribbon cutting ceremony after which Brooks dived in to officially start the swimming.

In the ceremony Mrs. Libby Shottwell announced that junior life saving courses would be offered free there beginning at 9:30 this morning. Yorel Harris is to be in charge of instruction. It will be open to those 12 years old and up.

Myatt said that the city planned to put in a wading pool for children in the future.

Graham, Former Teen Gang Member Share Pulpit

NEW YORK (UP)—Billy Graham shared his pulpit Wednesday night with a former teen gang member who has joined a new gang and says "Christ is the guy who runs this outfit."

Stanley Rachmaciej, 16 of Manhattan, told a Madison Square Garden audience of 17,000 that in New York he has "seen guys in the gang get together to make their own weapons and prepare for battles with other gangs."

"I've seen broken heads, stabbing, black eyes and broken bones guys got in gang fights. But you guys, you teen-agers who think you're tough, you don't really know how tough it can get 'til you start witnessing for Christ," Rachmaciej said.

The youngster with the crew-cut said he is now a member of the Centurion Christian Cadet Corps, sponsored by the Protestant Council of New York.

He and 32 other boys from Camp Centurion, a Protestant Council camp at Wharton, N. J., were special guests at Graham's third "accident on youth" revival meeting. Most of the boys at Camp Centurion have run afoul of the law once, a council spokesman said.

Graham, who has undertaken the series of meetings slanted at young people because of the recent outbreak of teen violence in New York, agreed with Rachmaciej that the Christian's is a tough row to hoe.

"Once you take your stand for God," he told his predominantly teen-age audience, "the gang will call you a sissy, a holy Joe, a coward, a religious fanatic. You must look them in the face and say 'Yes, it's true, I am a Christian.'"

He advised his listeners to follow the example of Sadrach, Meshach and Abednego, "the three young people who went to Babylon on King Nebuchadnezzar's orders but refused to bow down to his golden image."

"Satan is the God of this modern world," Graham said. "He is saying to New York and American youth, 'Bow down and worship me and my golden images.'"

"There are many golden images the devil is trying to get you young people who went to Babylon to bow down to, is one of them."

"The devil wants to get you to feeding on lust, daydreaming and imagining sex situations. He does this sometimes by putting filthy literature in your hands and after awhile you've gotten habits you can't break."

"The devil wants you to worship the image of mischief, fighting on the streets, forming gangs, performing acts of vandalism, all so you won't be called 'chicken.'"

Special guests at the opening of Graham's 14th week in the Garden were Brooklyn Dodgers pitcher Carl Erskine, former heavyweight fighter Lou Nova, and Anglican Bishop Adalberto Howells of Lagos, Nigeria.

An estimated 80 per cent of the 636 "decisions for Christ" recorded at the end of the service were those of young people. Of the 1,529,800 persons who have attended the 81 meetings so far, 46,509 have recorded "decisions,"

Big, New Ideal Store Sets Grand Opening

The recently-opened Ideal No. 1 grocery will stage a huge grand opening Friday and Saturday featuring hundreds of free samples and gifts.

The opening will be held during regular store hours, according to Hugh Peoples, manager, Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

Peoples, who has been with the company in Pampa for 17 years, will be on hand to greet the visitors and to give each woman a free orchid. Peoples managed the former Ideal No. 1, on Cuyler, before moving into the new store.

Two 11-cubic feet General Electric home freezers will be given away as well as a remote control Motorola Console television set. Hundreds of other prizes will be awarded to the people who place first in the many contests and games which will be staged throughout the two days, and as for prizes.

Free samples of Royal Crown Cola and coffee will be featured, plus free suckers, balloons and merry-go-round rides for the children.

Knifing Case Dropped Here

The case of the man who used a knife on a woman resident of the Alamo Hotel has been dropped without establishing the identity of the man.

Jim Conner, chief of police, stated the case was dropped because the woman refused to sign a complaint against the man.

The woman reported that the person in question threatened to use the knife, Conner stated, and that she was injured when she grabbed for it.

One Collision Reported Here

The only collision reported within the city limits yesterday occurred on Hobart, 15 of a mile south of Kentucky, at 6:03 p.m.

A 1952 Mercury, driven by Lon Allen Penton, 908½ Alcock, was in collision with a 1950 Nash, driven by Mrs. Billie Poteet Barrett, Pampa, the investigating officer reported.

Damages to the Mercury were estimated at $140 and the Nash met with damages estimated at $170.

Polio Board To Meet Tomorrow

Gray County Chapter of the Polio Board will meet tomorrow at 5 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office.

The announcement came from Arthur Smalley, president. It is the board's monthly meeting.

At least one case of polio has recently been reported of a young boy living near Pampa. He had not been vaccinated with the Salk vaccine.

Local doctors report that an ample supply of the vaccine is available.

WILL JUDGE

hear arguments on the defense motion to eliminate the charges of criminal libel and proceed only on a charge of conspiracy to print obscenities. If the judge rules in favor of the motion, the movieland personalities would be spared the possible embarrassment of testifying—thus turning the sensational trial into a third rate production.

Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley was confident that the motion would be granted. He said, "I wouldn't be making it if I didn't think that."

However, Asst. Atty. Gen. Clarence Linn, chief counsel for the prosecution, said he was equally positive that the judge would deny the motion.

The prosecution also has a motion pending before Walker. The motion if approved would bar scores of stars not involved in the alleged libelous articles cited from testifying.

The store features over 18,000 square feet of floor space, a parking area with a capacity of over 200 cars, 92 feet of continuous meat space, 90 feet of frozen food space, six mechanical checking stands, one express checking stand, and many other shopping conveniences.

"The store has all of the latest designs and facilities to give the people the easiest and quickest shopping possible," Glen Battin, vice president of Blackmore Brothers Grocery Co., in charge of retail operations, who is in Pampa for the opening stated. He is from Liberal, Kans., and is one of the many supervisors who will be here.

Verl Hagaman of Amarillo, who is supervisor of all Texas Panhandle stores, will also be at the store. He was the company's first manager in Pampa and lived here for 12 years.

Desmond Dean of Liberal, Kans., and Durwood Dean of Amarillo, former Pampans connected with the company, will be at the store's opening. Desmond is in charge of all meat operations for the chain, and Durwood is superintendent for all Panhandle stores in the meat department.

Supervisor of produce in the Panhandle, F. Bequet, will greet the people, as well as all the company supervisors of the Kansas and Oklahoma stores.

The new store's department heads will be available to help people with their shopping. They are Claude Jenkins, assistant grocery manager; Hansford Ousley, market manager, who has been in Pampa in the meat business for 20 years and with the company for 17 years; and Tommy Clark, manager of produce, and former produce manager at the Ideal No. 3 store.

The new Ideal No. 1 store, at 401 N. Ballard, replaces the old No. 1 on Cuyler. The No. 2 store is located at 306 S. Cuyler and the No. 3, at 801 W. Francis.

US Firm Drilling In Bolivia

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—A United States oil group is reportedly pouring resources into the former one-million-acre concession of Texas oilman Glenn McCarthy in the Pilcomayo oil basin of Bolivia.

Marshall Jeffers, production manager of foreign operations for Tennessee Gas Transmission Corp., said 500 to 1,000 tons of equipment, machinery and materials are on the way from the U. S., although the transfer from McCarthy was concluded only on July 16.

Jeffers said drilling for the first well will begin before the Oct. 28 deadline.

In the four-year period under McCarthy four wells were drilled, all producing oil or gas, Jeffers said. Tennessee Gas was joined in the venture by Union Oil, Lion Oil and Murphy Oil Companies.

The group paid the Bolivian government two million dollars after McCarthy's rights expired when he failed to comply with his contract.

Damage Suit Is Filed Here

A $45,000 damage suit was filed in District Court yesterday against Carl Stanley Newlen of New Mexico and the Aetna Insurance Company.

Plaintiff in the suit is Joyce D. Schmelsis of Potter County. Damages are being asked for head injuries allegedly received by Schmelsis as a result of a collision on July 31, 1956 between a car driven by Newlen and an auto mobile in which the plaintiff was riding.

The accident occurred 11 miles west of Alameda, Newlen is charged with negligence in the suit.

Battle To Curb 'Murder City' Begun

HOUSTON (UP)—Houston Jaycees launched an all-out battle today against their city being called the "murder capital of the world."

Marvin Zindler, chairman of a special "murdertown committee" set up by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, said, "We're going to rid Houston of that stigma, once and for all."

The announcement came as police inspector W. N. Daut issued a report showing major crimes in Houston for the first seven months of this year have increased 23.1 per cent over the same period of 1956.

There were 85 murders in Houston in the seven-month period. All other types of crime showed increases of from 11.3 per cent to 58.3 per cent over the same period of 1956.

"We don't believe Houston has to be like that," Zindler said. "We can get it stopped if we let the politicians know we want it stopped."

Zindler said his committee already has had one special meeting with ranking police officials. "We found everybody agreed on what needs doing," he said. "Now what remains is to find a way to do it."

Girls Riding Club Meets Tonight

A meeting of the Top o' Texas Girls Riding Club will be held at 7:30 tonight in the home of Buck Hines, 1919 N. Russell, to elect officers for the coming year.

The affair will begin with a hamburger fry. Twelve members and eight prospective riders are expected.

Sponsored by the Top o' Texas Rodeo Association and the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, the club was very active this summer, performing at the recent rodeo. The members put on a mounted square dance for two of the performances.

sociations and activities should bar him from a top leadership position, the sources said.

The Teamsters Union faces a showdown with the AFL-CIO next month on charges that the union is dominated by corrupt influences, but Hoffa has not been included in the AFL-CIO indictment made public.

Unless accused President Dave Beck and two other top officials are removed, the Teamsters might be ousted from the united labor movement.

Some council members are frankly worried that ouster of the large trucking union would deprive other unions of a tremendous weapon in waging strikes.

Other council members say the AFL-CIO will have to live with that problem and suspend the union if Hoffa becomes Teamster chief, informed sources said.

Hollywood Is Competing With New York For TV Business

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13 (UP)—In addition to winning the major TV shows away from New York, movietown is luring the multi-million-dollar TV commercial business to the West Coast.

Last year more than $37 million was spent on filmed commercials, which makes celluloid plugs something of a major industry, and worth fighting for.

Adrian Woolery, president of Playhouse Pictures, turns out scores of minute-long pitches for dozens of products — from beer to automobiles.

"Five years ago, when I started my company, 82 per cent of filmed commercials were made in Chicago, Detroit and New York," he said. "Today it's 50-50 between Hollywood and the rest of the cities."

"In another five years almost all animated and filmed product announcements will be shot out here."

"Woolery, a former Walt Disney employee — as are most movie animators — says advertisers are turning to film in a rush."

"There's too much danger in live commercials," he grinned.

"Bad shots, fluffs and miscues are inevitable. The best example is Betty Furness' embarrassing attempt to close a refrigerator door. I remember seeing a commercial with a girl pouring coffee into a cup, only to have it shatter all over the stage."

Other sponsor nightmares include beer pitchers who overfill glasses. On one network show a smooth-talking announcer gave the price of his sponsor's car as $37,000 instead of $3,700.

"All this may be amusing to the public, but not very funny to sponsors," says Woolery.

Asked why commercials are moving West, he pointed out that the bulk of creative talent is either in Hollywood or heading this way.

"There must be 50 organizations in town filming commercials," Woolery went on, "including the major studios."

"The majority of TV commercials are made with live actors, but we specialize in animated characters. It is easier to catch the imagination of viewers with a cartoon than it is with real actors."

"That's why I think animation is the most effective means of selling a product."

"Actually, TV audiences are not obligated to listen to anyone in return for getting a free show."

Use of water for all purposes in the United States doubled in the past half century and is expected to double again in the next quarter century.

Thomas Gage is famous in American history because his orders to take the military stores at Concord started the Revolution.

The only way advertisers can expect people to watch commercials is to make them interesting and informative.

"It's a growing industry," Woolery concluded, "and an increasingly important one."

Possibility Us Will Have Asiatic Influenza Epidemic Is Increasing

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Public health officials think it is increasingly probable that this country will have an epidemic of Asiatic influenza.

On the wall of Dr. William H. Stewart's office is a big map of the United States. It is already liberally sprinkled with red dots which indicate localized outbreaks in 13 states from Rhode Island to California.

Dr. Stewart is assistant to the surgeon general, U.S. Public Health Service. His main job these days is preparing for the expected epidemic.

His map depicts with long red arrows how the disease has been "seeded" all over the country—by

Boy Scouts returning from their annual jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa.; by college girls who attended a national conference at Grinnell, Iowa; by participants in a youth meeting at Davis, Calif.; by sailors from ships which came from the Far East to San Diego, Calif., Newport, R. I., and Norfolk, Va.; and by many individual travelers.

The Question: When?

The big question is when these localized outbreaks — still rather widely scattered — will flare into an epidemic.

Historically, most flu epidemics in this country flare up in late October or November. But the deadly one of 1918 began in Boston at the end of August and swept across the nation like a great tidal wave within four weeks.

The best guess of public health experts at the moment is that the national epidemic is not likely to start before Sept. 15. After that, the probability will grow greater with each passing day.

Drug manufacturers are working shifts around the clock to produce a new vaccine which is expected to give about 70 per cent protection against Asiatic flu. But at best, only about five million shots will be available to civilians by Sept. 15. After that, vaccine will be pouring into civilian medical channels at a rate of about five million doses a week.

It takes 10 to 14 days for the vaccine to take effect. So it is obvious that an early epidemic would find comparatively few civilians inoculated.

Priority System Set

Although no formal system of rationing or priorities is planned, the Public Health Service is urging that doctors, nurses and hospital workers get their shots at the first opportunity. It is imperative that they stay on their feet during an epidemic, to take care of the minority of patients who will develop serious complications.

Other groups who perform essential community services—such as firemen, police, transportation workers—also are being asked to get vaccinated early.

Elderly people who have chronic ailments, such as heart disease or tuberculosis, are particularly vulnerable to influenza. It is desirable that as many of these as possible be protected by vaccine.

Babies under 18 months of age also are susceptible to pneumonia resulting from flu, but they sometimes have an adverse reaction to the vaccine. The health service has asked the American Academy of Pediatrics to recommend whether infants should be vaccinated, and if so, whether a reduced dose is indicated.

What about the average healthy child or adult? Is it desirable for him to be vaccinated? The Public Health Service says yes, if supplies are available. If not, don't fret about it.

Remember that you aren't likely to die of Asiatic flu. The death rate was only two per 1,000 cases in Asia, where medical facilities are notoriously inadequate. So far in this country it has been much lower — three deaths recorded among about 20,000 cases.

'I Made A Fool Of Myself Over John Foster Dulles'

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—The latest communique from the Washington chit-chat front says there is a new bounce in the step of the secretary of state since an auburn-haired nightclub singer began burdening the airwaves with a song titled "I Made a Fool of Myself Over John Foster Dulles."

The song was written by Ken Welch for Carol Burnett's comedienne stint at the Blue Angel nightclub with the idea of spoofing the teen-age worshiping of rock "n' roll" singers. The pair decided it would be a humorous twist to parody a girl worshipping someone distinguished.

Miss Burnett has had the song in her act for more than a month and has sung it twice on the NBC Tonight show and once on the CBS Ed Sullivan show. After her first broadcast last week, the NBC people got a call from a Dulles aide saying the secretary wanted a recording.

They rushed one, and also did a kinescope of her next TV-cast to send to him. This deathless opus just been copyrighted by the Ben Bloom Music Corp., and by their special leave, here it is.

From here on, the floor is Miss Burnett's.

It's so nice of you all to come visit me here in prison. I look forward to Friday. Friday is visiting day. Would you like to know just why I'm here in prison? I'm here because I'm classified as a threat to the national security. . . top secret. . . first class. . . 4-0 . . . double-A. . . and it happened this way:

(Sings)

I made a fool of myself over John Foster Dulles.

Oh, I made a chump of myself over John Foster Dulles.

The first time I saw him, 'twas at the UN.

I never had been one to swoon over men.

But I swooned and the drums started pounding and then,

I made a fool of myself over John Foster Dulles.

I knew it was futile to dream for we never could marry.

Still my heart ripped apart at the seam for our state secretary.

The next time I saw him he was flying to Spain.

He waved to someone as he boarded the plane:

"Was it me?" cried my heart, and then I went insane.

And I made a fool of myself over John Foster Dulles.

"Get ahold of yourself," I told myself.

"To my heart I said, 'Behave.' 'Who are you to John Foster Dulles?' I asked my heart, and it replied, 'His slave.'"

Then in somebody's newspaper column, I think Robert Ruark, I read that John Foster was due at the airport in Newark.

To Jersey by taxi I made a mad race:

I pushed through the crowd 'til we stood face to face.

I grabbed for his sleeve but I got his briefcase—

At least it was something belonging to John Foster Dulles.

(Talks:) It's so nice of you all to visit me here in prison. With good behavior I should be out, oh, in about seven years. But I'm not un-American and I'm not a spy. But how can I convince the FBI that I'm simply on fire with desire for John Foster Dulles.

Toll Television Is Divided Into 3 Parts

(Pay TV)

(Second of a series of dispatches.)

Today—The three

By WILLIAM EWALD

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Toll television, like Gaul, is divided into three parts.

They are called phonevision, subscriber - vision and telemeter.

All three systems can be delivered by wire (like your telephone) or by air (like the telecasts you receive now). Wire is the more expensive method, but one of its virtues is that presumably, the show would not have to be scrambled to thwart free-loaders.

The innards of each over-the-air system are almost as complicated as a folding beach chair. But the outer mechanisms that would be struck onto your TV set are as simple to work as a telephone or parking meter. All you need are a set of fingers and a willingness to pay.

How They Work

Here is the breakdown on the scrambled systems:

Phonevision is the system of the

Zenith Radio Corp., a Chicago firm that has been tinkering with pay TV since the mid-1930's.

Phonevision gets its name from Zenith's early experiments with

TV by telephone wire, a plan it has since junked.

Under the phonevision system,

a gadget about the size of a kitchen radio would be attached to your TV set. The gadget contains five dials and is used to un-scramble the electronic omelet put into one of your channels by phonevision. One expert in the toll TV field, Dr. Millard Faught, believes the gadget would cost less than $25.

Each month, the phonevision

customer would receive a program card in the mail. It would tell him what numbers to dial for the shows he wanted to see. For example, if the subscriber wanted to watch a pay-TV movie on Tuesday night, his card might tell him to dial "65432" on his decoder. If he wanted to watch a fight on Thursday, he might have to dial

"45321."

Each subscriber would have a different set of numbers to dial—so that it would be impossible for neighbors to cheat the system by sharing code numbers.

Mails Monthly Card

The program cards are so constructed that every time a subscriber wishes to see what numbers to dial for a show, he has to rip through a series of perforations for each event. At the end of the month, he mails the card back to phonevision where the number of perforations are toted up and his bill calculated.

Subscriber - vision is a development of the Skiatron Electronics and Television Corp., a public corporation. However, a private firm, Skiatron TV, is the outfit which is out hustling subscriber-vision. Skiatron TV is the firm that has sweet-talked the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants into its camp. Five per cent of Skiatron TV's annual gross goes to Skiatron electronics.

Its pay TV system, fortunately,

is less complicated than its financial set-up. Under subscriber-vision, the customer would have a decoder unit hooked on his set.

It's figured under mass production, the units would cost less than $20. The subscriber - vision consumer gets a special IBM card

each month which contains information about the shows to be cast.

If a subscriber wants to see a toll show, he inserts the IBM card into a slot in his de-coder when the show is about to go on.

He then pushes a button on his de-coder which punches a hole in the card. That completes an electronic circuit which un-jumbles the show. The card is mailed back each month for billing.

Uses Coin Box

Telemeter is a subsidiary of Paramount Pictures, which owns

90 per cent of it. Telemeter attaches a coin box to the set and

Louis Novins, vice - president of telemeter, thinks it should cost around $7.50 to install.

The telemeter box gobbles up any kind of loot from a nickel to a 50 cent piece. It's geared to charge as much as $2.00 for a show. If you don't have the right change for a show, you can over-pay and the box will credit you for the next program.

Periodically, a man with a satchel will knock on the customer's door to empty his coin box.

There is no doubt that all three of these "on the air" systems will work. They all have been tested. The only question is whether the Federal Communications

Commission, now deliberating on the issue of toll TV, will give the

go-ahead for either tests or full-fledged business excursions.

Takes Many Things To Be A Capable 'Girl Friday'

By GAY PAULEY

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—It takes

plenty more than taking dictation to be a capable girl Friday.

A secretary may be required to laugh at her boss's jokes, funny or not; lend him cigarettes or money; see that he gets a mid-afternoon snack; dose him with aspirin if all doesn't go well; even do his shopping.

These duties above and beyond typing and telephoning came to light at a lunch - time gathering

the other day, with 35 secretaries for 35 prominent men and women doing the talking.

Originally the girls gathered to honor Sadie Perlin, executive secretary to Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California, Miss Perlin, who has been with Knight ever since his lieutenant governor days, is the 1957 "secretary of the year"

selected by Underwood in a poll of 5,000 executives.

Contestants were judged on tact, personality, appearance, poise and on letters from their employers telling why they should be selected. Miss Perlin's reward: A week in New York. "First time I've been east of the Rockies," she said.

The talk got down to bosses when a thoughtful soul from the typewriter company asked the secretaries to answer a few questions. Included were, "What do you like about your boss?" and

"What do you do to keep your boss happy?"

If any secretary loathed the man she worked for, she didn't get a chance to say so. The man from Underwood didn't ask about dislikes, apparently on the assumption a good secretary

knows when to keep her mouth shut.

chell will knock on the customer's

There is no doubt that all three

the Federal Communications

Commission, now deliberating on

the issue of toll TV, will give the

go-ahead for either tests or full-

"I like my boss because he's single," said one girl Friday.

Personal Preferences

Others liked their employers' sense of humor, fairness and understanding. "The fact that he lets me do the filing," answered

Catherine Parsons, secretary to

Julius Rudel of the New York

City Opera Co.

To the "What do you do to keep your boss happy" question, one secretary quipped: "I don't try to keep him happy—just guessing."

"Do all, tell nothing and be on time," said Lillian De Gore, who works for comedian Ernie Kovacs.

"Laugh at his jokes," replied

Dolores Nycz, whose boss is Jack

Barry, quiz show M.C.

"Always have cigarets handy," said Rita Quinn, secretary to Mike Wallace. "He never is supplied."

And, one secretary said she kept the boss on keel "with a double scoop of chocolate ice cream with chocolate syrup every afternoon."

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Aug. 31

White said extensions will apply only to "hardship cases" in counties. He said farmers needing extra time should seek an ex-

WORLD'S LARGEST—The largest nonrigid airship ever built nears completion in the world's largest hangar at Akron, Ohio. The huge envelope (or gas bag) of the U.S. Navy's ZPG-3W airship is undergoing finishing touches in Goodyear Aircraft Corporation's huge hangar. Project details have not been released, but it is believed to be at least one and a half times the size of the largest airships currently in Naval service for airborne "early warning" missions.

No, Says Walter Rogers

Were 'Civil Rights' Backers Really Interested In Rights?

CIVIL RIGHTS

A civil rights (?) bill has passed the House and Senate. Although each House passed a different version of the original bill, the fact remains this is the first time since war between the states that a bill reconstructing days following the war between the states that a bill bearing such title has passed both Houses. Whether or not the title, "Civil Rights," is a rank misnomer, has been the subject of heated debate in many quarters, both inside and outside the halls of Congress.

The simple truth is that many of the most vociferous proponents of this bill are more interested in passing the title of the bill than they are interested in the contents of the bill. As originally drawn, the bill was intended to create in the federal government, acting by and through the Attorney General, a plenipotentiary force capable of reconstructing the post Civil War reconstruction days — the power to enforce federal edicts by bayonet.

As a political device, it was designed specifically as bait to woo minority blocs. How successful it will be politically can only be determined in the future. However, no one should be misled by the many maneuvers which are going on in Washington at the present time. I refer to the threats and counter-threats between the parties and officials thereof, including the President. Much has been said about a presidential veto. The President has not, to my knowledge, indicated he would veto the bill. He did say formerly that he did not intend to yield concerning his views against a jury trial amendment. It is the consensus of opinion here that the President did not mean he would veto the legislation if it contained a jury trial amendment, but that he would continue to oppose the right of trial by jury in contempt proceedings. It is entirely possible he would veto a bill including the right of trial by jury in such cases, but the feeling seems to be, as I said before, that the contents of the bill is not the primary objective.

The primary objective is to obtain the passage of a law at federal level entitled, "Civil Rights Law." Such accomplishment would provide two important results. First, it will provide the opening that the advocates of centralized government have so long sought in our political philosophy; the entry of the federal government into a phase of our political philosophy that could result in the pre-emption by the federal government of all the individuals' political rights. Secondly, it would create a political platform from which politicians could take credit for helping to pass such a bill and assure their listeners they would work for amendments to the law which would do away with the right of trial by jury and other matters unacceptable to advocates of centralized government.

For these reasons, you can understand why the proponents are more interested in immediate passage of the title of the bill than its contents.

ALIEN PROPERTY

The pressure is on to force the Congress to adopt legislation authorizing the return of German and Japanese assets seized during World War II under the "Trading With the Enemy Act" of 1917. This is known as alien property.

There is a tremendous amount of money involved in this issue. Present estimates are well above 300 million dollars. Mail is coming into the offices of those of us on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee asking for yearly action in returning this property to its former owners. Some of this mail comes from individuals, some from societies, and many of us get buttonholed daily by registered and unregistered lobbyists.

Some of the arguments are most amusing. For instance, those who desire that these assets be returned argue long and loud about the sanctity of the private ownership of property as a basic U.S. policy. They forget about the basic American policy of fairness to the effect that for each wrong there should be a remedy. They play down the fact that many of the assets of these countries should be used as reparations for the damage they did by starting the war. They argue that even so, the property involved is property that belonged to individuals and, therefore, should be returned to them. They say that even though these individuals were enemies of the United States and contributed measurably toward trying to destroy the very way of life in which they now seek refuge, their only mistake was in permitting their property to fall into the hands of the conqueror and that they should now have it back.

For some reason there seems to be considerable diversity of opinion on the subject between the Department of Justice, the Department of State, and the Department of the Treasury. The Com-

How Japanese People Told Of Defeat

EDITORS NOTE: The author of the following dispatch is one of the outstanding journalists in Japan.

By KIMPEI SHEBA
Written For United Press

TOKYO (UP)—In the world-wide jubilation and uproar signaled by the surrender of Japan 12 years ago Aug. 14, scant notice was given to how news of their country's abject defeat was broken to the Japanese people.

It is a part of history now, of course, but it might be worth exhuming because their never was anything like it.

From early in the morning the radio was silent except at intervals of half an hour when a brief announcement was made that every man, woman and child was expected to listen to an important broadcast at exactly noon. Trains were ordered to stop at the nearest railway station shortly before this hour and unload their passengers, who were to assemble on the platform to listen to the loud-speaker.

At 12 o'clock sharp the announcer declared that the emperor would come on the air. It was the first time that any ruler of Japan had ever talked on the radio.

Hushed Silence
There was a hushed silence as Japanese from all walks of life huddled around radios in their homes, in schools, and in their offices.

"After deeply pondering the general trends of the world and the actual conditions in our empire today," the emperor began, "we have decided to effect a settlement of the present situation by resorting to an extraordinary measure."

He continued on in like vein for two paragraphs, and then in the understatement of the century, he declared, "The war situation has developed not necessarily to Japan's advantage."

He proceeded: "It is according to the dictate of time and fate that we have resolved to pave the way for a grand peace for all the generations."

Papers Buried Atom Bombings
He was standing in a railway station with hundreds of others. The dead silence, except for the emperor's voice, was broken at the point as someone whispered hopefully, "Did we win the war?" The emperor continued his oration.

Paraphrasing, it should be mentioned that although the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki were banner headlines in news all over the world, papers in Japan, which were controlled by the military, buried the item. Also, since spring, the people had been told of the new military strategy of drawing the enemy near the homeland where it would be easier to deliver the coup de grace. Many gullible Japanese believed this propaganda.

The emperor concluded by urging his subjects to "unite your total strength to be devoted to the construction of the future."

When he had finished, no one said anything. Some believed that the war had ended in a stalemate, but the vast majority of the people sensed the truth.

That was the first time a nation was told that it lost a war without having the words "defeat" or "surrender" mentioned once.

mittie undertook to obtain testimony from all three departments, but the only person who showed up to testify was an underling in the State Department whose great accomplishment on that particular day was in locating the House Office Building and the Committee room in which the hearings were being held. He was not an unwilling witness but was of little help to the Committee because of the vast amount of knowledge he did not have on the subject.

Watch for more developments on this particular subject.

Lot Of Toe-Wetting In Talk About Returning Powers To The States

By RAYMOND LAHR

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has a committee consulting with governors about ways for the federal government to turn back some of its functions and tax levies to the states.

And Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) is proposing that Congress consult governors before it launches any new programs of federal aid to the states or expands old ones.

These two efforts point up an old issue about which there has been much talk but little action. Eisenhower's committee and a committee representing the governors stuck a toe in the water at a meeting last weekend at Hershey, Pa.

Ike Proposes Meeting

The meeting was an outgrowth of a proposal made by the President when he addressed the annual governors' conference at Williamsburg, Va., two months ago. In effect he asked the governors to put up or shut up if they believe the federal government should have fewer functions and the states more.

Goldwater cited the joint move to resign government functions in a Senate speech Tuesday night. He also introduced a resolution to require Senate committees to police the governors when ever they consider bills that would put another tap on the federal treasury for aid to states.

He felt it would be a tough job to halt the trend toward more federal aid which he said had doubled in the past four years. He said pressure from special interest groups and federal bureaus would make it tough.

Some of the governors have thought of other problems, particularly on the sensitive issue of raising state taxes to pay for some of the functions they would take over. Economic competition between states in an effort to attract and retain industry is a factor in framing their tax laws.

Suggested Tax Proposals

At the Hershey meeting a tentative agreement was reached on taxes which would not have much effect on the location of industry. It was proposed that states take over such taxes as are now levied by the federal government on local telephone service and entertainment, and that states take a bigger share of gift and inheritance taxes.

The two committees also agreed the states ought to take over part or all of the work now done by the federal government in handling the school lunch program, vocational education, disaster relief and payments to the needy aged.

The federal budget for the current year estimates federal spending for aid to state and local governments at more than $3,500,000,000, a little more than 8 per cent of the budget. This does not include $1,600,000,000 in federal aid for highway construction which is now disbursed from a trust fund outside the regular budget.

POSTAL UNION MEETS

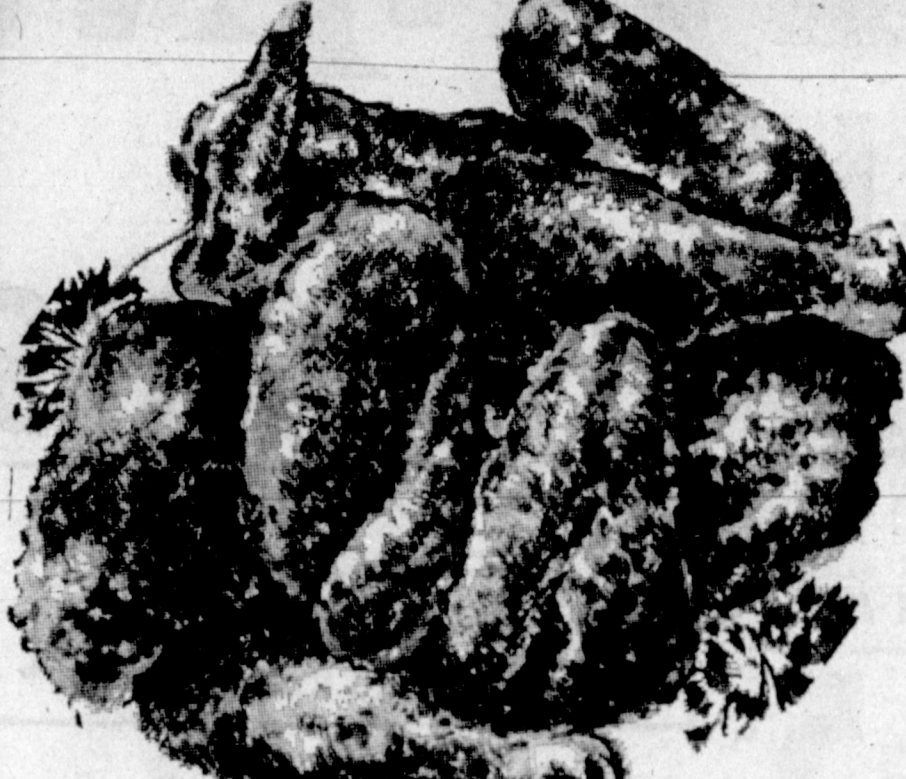

OTTAWA (UP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker opened the 14th congress of the Universal Postal Union here, the first ever held in Canada. Some 300 delegates from 91 countries packed the Senate chamber of the Parliament building to hear Diefenbaker open the eight-week conference. The delegates, mostly high-ranking postal officials, will meet twice daily.

Asiatic Flu Is Hard To Tell From The Ordinary Kind

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—If you come down with Asiatic flu this fall, you'll feel just like you do when you catch the ordinary kind of flu.

The first warning probably will be a slight chill. Then your temperature will shoot up to 102 or perhaps as high as 104. You'll have a sore throat, cough and headache; your muscles and joints will ache all over.

You'll feel miserable for four or five days until the fever subsides; weak and rundown for several days after that.

Like the usual flu, it is rarely fatal. There have been only three deaths in 20,000 cases in this country so far.

No Peculiar Symptoms

If an epidemic of Asiatic flu is sweeping through your community when you get the symptoms, you can be reasonably sure that's what you've got. But you needn't look for peculiar symptoms—there aren't any. Even a doctor can't tell Asiatic flu from the ordinary kind without a laboratory test.

Except for the first few cases in each community (in which positive diagnosis is desirable to alert public health authorities to the presence of the epidemic) there's no particular point in confirming by laboratory test that you do have Asiatic flu.

The new variety of flu, which has already swept through Asia and South America, and which seems very likely to spread over the United States like a prairie fire this fall, has so far proved no more severe than ordinary flu. And the treatment is identical.

Rest Important

It consists of going to bed immediately and staying there until 24 hours after your temperature goes down to normal. Drink lots of liquids and eat a bland diet. Take aspirin or some other analgesic for your aches and pains, some cough syrup for your cough.

Call the doctor right away and tell him your symptoms. But don't badger him to dose you up with wonder drugs to ward off complications.

If you do develop pneumonia or some other serious complication—and chances are you won't—antibiotics like penicillin will be a highly effective treatment. But antibiotics are no good whatever against the flu itself. In fact, they may do positive harm if taken prematurely.

Authority for these statements is Dr. William H. Stewart, assistant to the surgeon general, U.S. Public Health Service.

MISS HAWAII—Lovely Sandra Lei Luahiwa Forsythe is this year's choice as Miss Hawaii in the Miss America contest in September after making a tour of the United States. Of Hawaiian-English-German descent, Miss Forsythe is an airline stewardess.

SPEEDS TO JAIL

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (UP)—Motorist Wayne Flickenger learned the hard way that haste makes waste. After being given a ticket for speeding, Flickenger sped away again. This time, he was jailed.

South's rebid to three spades was questionable. He had only 13 points in high cards and his trump suit, six cards in length, but rather weak.

There was nothing questionable about North's four spade bid. He had an exceptionally strong single raise to start with.

West opened the seven of diamonds. East won with the ten and cashed the jack. West dropped the deuce so that East knew for sure that declarer held the one remaining diamond. East also noted that he would have a sure trump trick if his partner could trump a third diamond lead with any trump higher than the three spot. Hence, West led his three of diamonds. South played the nine and West ruffed with his six of trumps. Dummy had to overruff with the jack and now East had his trump trick.

South still had one shot left in his locker. He cashed his ace of spades and went after the heart suit. If East held three hearts South would have been able to shed both his clubs. Unfortunately East held only two hearts and ruffed the third heart lead with his king of trumps.

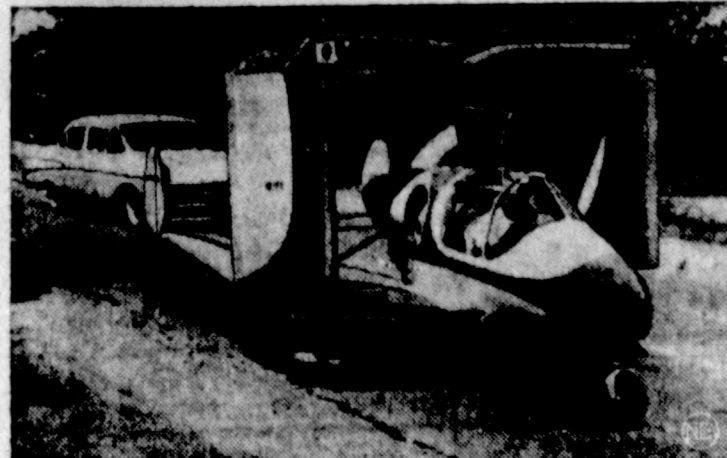

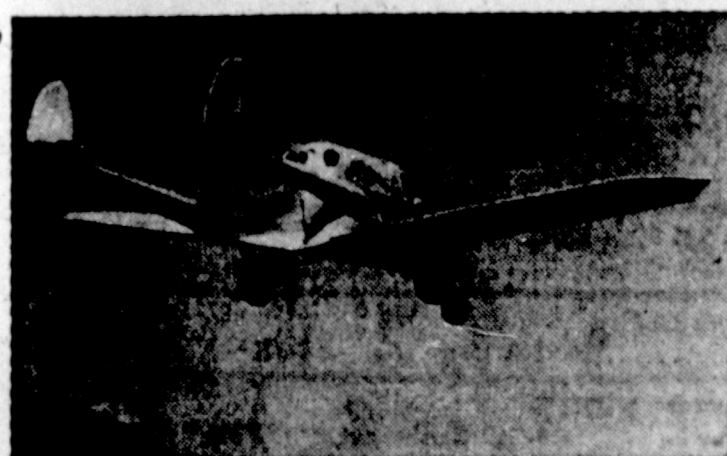

Then he had a club to his partner's ace and set the contract. The most interesting feature of the play is East's lead of the three of diamonds. If he had led one of his high diamonds his partner might have forgotten to ruff in. In that case dummy could have ruffed with the three of trumps and declarer would have romped off with the rest of the tricks.

Spotting Spot

Exact spot where Captain James Cook, reputed discoverer of the Hawaiian Islands, was speared to death is on the island of Hawaii, "the Orchid Capital."

British Hawaii

The tiny plot of land on which a monument to British explorer Captain James Cook stands on the island of Hawaii, in the Hawaiian Islands, still belongs to England.

SOLVES TRAFFIC PROBLEM—When Leland Bryan of Highland, Mich., gets tired of bucking highway traffic he takes off—literally. Bryan invented the "autoplane," seen at top. Old Settlers Reunion And Picnic Slated In Mobeetie

(Special to The News)

MOBETIE—At a called meeting of the Mobeetie Lions Club last week, the following committees were named to begin laying plans for the annual Old Settlers Picnic and Reunion, held in Old Mobeetie, Sept. 2, at the site of the oldest jail house in the Panhandle.

On the "beef" committee are S. W. Williams, J. H. Scribner, J. T. Johnston, Henry Johnston, E. E. Johnston and Rick Wright. On the entertainment committee, Frank Totty, H. L. Trimble, L. R. Reaves, Frank Lee, and W. H. Atkins were named while hostesses will be Misses H. L. Trimble, Frank Totty, E. E. Johnston, Ernest Lee, Arlie Jeffus, John Dunn, J. H. Scribner, G. W. Harris, Henry Shelton, S. W. Williams and R. L. Galtner.

Mrs. L. R. Reaves will be in charge of registration and Mrs. J. H. Rommes is chairman of the table and food committee.

Men responsible for wood to barbecue the beef will be, E. H. Patton, Jack Teague, Jerry Swartz, Truman Scott, Murel J. Trout, Albert Trout, G. W. Harris, C. W. Stribling and Walter Coward.

This, the fifth annual reunion and picnic, is again to be financed through the donation of individual and business firms and is considered not a club project but a project of the Mobeetie Community.

The attendance has increased each year until a record crowd is expected this year. Tuesday, August 27 has been set aside as cleanup day in preparation for this reunion and picnic.

It's A Wise Bride

A kitchen shower is always fun. But often the gifts are clever and pretty, rather than useful. So, for the bride-to-be, here's a list of "must" items compiled by Crisco Kitchens. They assume you receive an electric mixer, can opener, a rolling pin, a flour sifter, nested mixing bowls, a toaster, pans, skillet, an egg beater, and kitchen knives and forks as gifts.

If you didn't get yourself to the nearest housewares counter and stock up. While you're there, be sure to get unit measuring cups and a set of unit measuring spoons. You'll need them constantly. All modern recipes call for level measurements, and unit measures are accurate. Also, get one or two rubber spatulas. They're indispensable for scraping the last bits of food from dishes and pans, for scooping Crisco from the can for frying and baking, and for keeping the sides of your electric mixing bowl clean as you make a cake. A cookie sheet is useful for many things besides baking cookies, so it goes on the "must" list. Add a couple of 9-inch layer cake pans, a cake rack, a 9-inch pie plate, a pastry blender, and muffin tins and you're in business.

Honeymoon Cake

2 cups flour
1-1/3 cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
Blend thoroughly by hand or mixer (medium speed) for two minutes.
Then add:
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Blend by hand or mixer (medium speed) for two minutes. Pour into 9-inch square pan which has been Criscoed and lined with heavy waxed paper. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 40 minutes, until cake tests done. Place mint patties on top and return to oven for two minutes or until patties have melted.

1/2 cup Crisco
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup milk
2 dozen chocolate covered mint
patties (about 1 1/2" diameter)

Blend by hand or mixer (medium speed) for two minutes. Pour into 9-inch square pan which has been Criscoed and lined with heavy waxed paper. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 40 minutes, until cake tests done. Place mint patties on top and return to oven for two minutes or until patties have melted.

Meat Gains Flavor Over Outdoor Fire

New worlds of delicious foods are opening every day for cooks who prepare their menus on an outdoor grill. Although they have nothing against the traditional steak fry, they have found delicious flavor is available at bargain rates when they properly prepare dozens of other dishes.

One of the best of these is pot roast. Arvin Industries home economists suggest getting an economy cut such as a blade bone. It should be browned nicely, then placed on a large square of foil and covered with barbecue sauce and chopped onions. Seal the foil package and cook on the grill top. It's excellent with foil - grilled green beans and roasted ears of sweet corn.

Another economy dish is mock filet of beef, which is an eye-round steak mounted on the rotisserie spit and then daubed with barbecue sauce while it cooks. Be cause this is a "less tender" cut of beef, it should be sprinkled with meat tenderizer and let stand about half an hour before cooking. An outdoor fish bake also is popular. One of the flavoring tricks here is to place paper - thin lemon slices on the bottom of a shallow baking dish and put salmon, halibut, or haddock fillets on top. The fish is done when it flakes easily with tines of a fork.

Nearly any type of fish can be prepared over a charcoal fire in much the same manner as on the kitchen stove, according to Arvin home economists. However, when tinged with a charcoal or hickory flavor, it tastes better than ever before.

Use Sugar Corn Pops For Delicious Bars

2 cups (12 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces.
6 marshmallows, quartered
2 cups Kellogg's Sugar Corn Pops
Melt chocolate over hot but not boiling water. Spread half of the chocolate in waxed paper - lined

Strawberries Are Good In Desserts

Strawberries are, says Mr. Webster, "the small, red, coneshaped, fleshy fruit of a vinelike plant of the rose family." But even to Mr. Webster, strawberry probably brings visions of such lovely things as strawberry shortcakes, bavarians, chiffon pies and other equally delightful gastronomic concoctions.

Here are two recipes, featuring frozen California strawberries that will lead your list of favorite strawberry desserts.

STRAWBERRY - COCONUT DESSERT

Strawberry - Coconut Dessert is most pleasing to the eye layered in parfait glasses, but it's equally pleasing to the taste in your everyday dessert dishes.

To make four to six servings, thaw one ten - ounce package frozen sliced California strawberries. Prepare one three and one - quarter - ounce package coconut cream pudding and pie filling mix according to package directions. Cool.

Arrange pudding mixture, strawberries and one-quarter cup toasted flaked coconut in layers in dessert glasses. Chill until serving time.

STRAWBERRY HONEY BISCUITS

Here's a quick dessert trick to display your culinary talents when unexpected guests drop in. To make four servings, thaw one ten ounce package frozen sliced California strawberries.

Arrange four shredded wheat biscuits in buttered pie plate. Top with one - quarter cup honey. Bake in moderate oven (three seventy-five degrees) 15 minutes. Top with strawberries and one cup heavy cream, whipped.

Summertime living is casual, summertime eatings is casual. Yet homemakers can still plan highly nutritious and tasty meals with very little additional effort.

Dress-Up For Family Stew For Company

CEREAL CHEESE TOPPING
(For Your Favorite Stew)

1 cup corn flakes, milled whole wheat flakes or 40 per cent bran flakes, whole or crushed
1 teaspoon melted butter or margarine
1/4 cup grated American cheese
Heat cereal flakes in saucepan, shaking pan back and forth over heat. Pour butter over hot cereal flakes and toss lightly to distribute butter evenly. Put into bowl; add grated cheese and mix lightly. Sprinkle as topping over your favorite stew served in casserole. This makes enough topping for small casserole serving 3 or 4. If used as topping for large casserole, double recipe.

Note: If desired, a small amount of finely chopped onion may be added. Sauté in the melted butter before combining with cereal flakes. Or a small amount of finely chopped cooked bacon or ham may be added.

Pineapple Cookies Are 'Good Eating'

2 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon vanilla flavoring
1/2 cup drained crushed pineapple
3 1/2 cups Kellogg's Sugar Frosted Flakes
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt. Blend butter and sugar. Add eggs and vanilla; beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with pineapple, mixing well after each addition. Crush Sugar Frosted Flakes slightly; combine with nuts. Roll tablespoonfuls of dough in cereal mixture; place a little apart on greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 12 minutes.

Yield: Approximately 4 dozen cookies, 2 1/2 inches in diameter.

A tall vase on top of tall shelves or bookcases may look like a totem pole. Extremely tall objects look better in a room when they are on or below eye level.

been enjoying salads and during the summer months, meat salads are especially popular.

The crisp greens with crunchy texture, flavorful meat and pesky dressing combine to form a salad hearty enough to be classified as a main-dish. Just add a soup, muffins, sherbet, cookies and salad to the menu and your salad supper with accompaniments is ready.

One salad especially designed to broaden the family's culinary tastes is the Ham and Sweetbread Salad.

But why is this salad so special? Not only is it fresh, cool and inviting in appearance but its ingredients, ham, sweetbreads and fresh vegetables come fully equipped with protein and precious vitamins and minerals, so essential for a good diet.

Sweetbreads and ham produce a wonderful flavor combination that's just about unbeatable especially when the meat is mixed with the crisp greens and seasoned with a perky French dressing.

If it's your pleasure, a sour cream sauce topping can be substituted for the French dressing. This Ham and Sweetbread Salad can actually be the final performance for any cooked ham. The ham is cut into julienne-strips and combined with the sweetbreads are always pre-cooked when used in salads or creamed dishes.

To precook, simmer the sweetbreads about 20 minutes in water to which 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon of vinegar or lemon juice and any additional seasonings have been added, for each quart of water used. The acid helps to keep the sweetbreads firm and white.

HAM AND SWEETBREAD SALAD

1 pound sweetbreads
Water to cover
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup julienne-style cooked ham
1 cup thinly sliced cucumber
1/2 cup sliced ripe olives
1/2 cup sliced celery
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup French dressing
4 lettuce cups

Simmer sweetbreads, covered, 20 minutes in water to which vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt have been added. Drain, remove membrane. Break into small pieces. Cool.

Combine sweetbreads, ham, cucumber, olives and celery. Chill. Mix salt, mayonnaise and French dressing and add to chilled sweetbread mixture. Serve in lettuce cups, 4 servings.

Long, complete electrical power failures are rare in most communities. But if you are a freer family, here are a few points to ease your worries: frozen meat takes longer to warm up than baked goods and a full freezer takes longer to warm up than a partly-filled one.

South Sea Delight Is In Reality Just An American Glamorized 'Burger'

BUSY-DAY PICNIC MENU

South Seas Delight
Potato Salad
Relishes
(celery-pickles-olives)
Cottage Cheese
Assorted Fruit
Chocolate Chip Cookies
Iced Tea Lemonade

The enchantment of visiting the South Sea Isles is probably a far away dream for many of us. Yet, books, travelogues and maps plus a vivid imagination can take us to any place in the world.

Experimenting with foreign recipes is another way of theoretically visiting far off places. South Seas Delight is just such a recipe... one that can be eaten in Anytown, U.S.A., with the thought of sitting under a balmy sky on some Pacific island.

In the broadest meaning, the South Seas Delight might be actually classified as a burger! It's a combination of ground luncheon meat, chopped green pepper, chopped cucumber, sliced almonds and seasonings. This filling with a typical Oriental flavor is surprisingly enough served in the all-American frankfurter bun.

What a surprise and treat this sandwich idea will really be. It's the type of sandwich that can pack up and travel at a moment's notice.

Yes, it can be served warm! The sandwich is wrapped in aluminum foil. If the picnic or quick lunch is held at home, the sandwiches can easily be heated in the oven. If out - of - doors, these South Seas Delights may be heated over glowing coals. The simplicity of this sandwich idea is that each frankfurter bun and filling is wrapped individually, heated and ready to be served immediately.

As sandwiches are often the mainstay of the quick summer lunch or picnic, the filling should be quite substantial.

Canned luncheon meat is such that it can provide you with a multitude of quick summer meals. It's conveniently packaged and easily stored. As a sandwich filling, heated, glazed and sliced, cubed for kabob cookery or perhaps diced and served with scrambled eggs, canned luncheon meat is ready to serve any time of the year.

Imagination... in travel or meal preparation can provide you and your family with varied menus and memories all year 'round.

A Patio Party Is Way To Entertain

The easiest and most fashionable way to entertain this summer is with a patio party. Informality has become the key note of all entertaining during hot weather. Congeniality just naturally blossoms at a backyard barbecue.

A patio party can be as simple or as spectacular as you desire. If it's just a simple get - together of close friends, home economists at Arvin Industries suggest letting the guests take care of their own menus.

All the hostess must do is get a fire started in the outdoor grill ahead of time, have frankfurters, hamburger patties, or other items to be cooked handy to the grill, and prepare a salad or other dish and a beverage before guests arrive. Once the party starts, they will entertain themselves with their cooking.

More elaborate parties can follow the same pattern as a formal dinner gathering, except that they are served out of doors and the main course is prepared over a charcoal fire. Standing lb roasts, pork roasts, or fowl prepared on the rotisserie are excellent in such instances.

Don't overlook opportunities to cook other foods beside meat on the outdoor grill. Potatoes wrapped in foil and placed next to the coals are especially tasty. Arvin home economists recommend turning them often and also unwrapping them quickly after they are baked. Roasting ears of sweet corn laid

Cooking In Camp Is Easier With Grill

Campers who like to cook out of doors over an open fire have a good friend in the popular outdoor barbecue grill.

Lightweight and compact grills that fold for easy transportation make it more convenient for the camper to indulge in his favorite method of cooking. They also make it safer.

Arvin Industries engineers point out that charcoal briquets used in the grills don't give off sparks and the metal bowls keep the fires closely confined so you don't have to worry about dormant embers.

Dishwashers clean your dishes. Occasionally you need to clean the dishwasher. At least once a month wipe out the interior with a damp cloth. Also leave it open occasionally for complete drying and airing.

on top of the grill or wrapped in foil and placed next to the coals also gain added flavor.

You'll find everyone will enjoy the informality of a patio, and for the host and hostess it will be especially satisfying as a convenient and economical way to entertain.

An "Early Bird" breakfast was held Monday morning by the Rho Eta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi to start off the new club year. The meeting place was Johnson's Cafe.

Miss Smith Feted At Bridge Party

(Special to The News) PERRYTON — Miss Martha Kay Smith of Stillwater, Okla., who is a guest in the C. R. Butler home was honored with a dessert-bridge last Wednesday in the home of Mrs. T. E. Nichols. Miss Smith is the bride-elect of John B. Butler.

The bridge tables were decorated with arrangements of miniature pink asters on styrofoam hearts.

Those present were Mmes. Bob Larabee, Lewis Belanger, Jimmy Palmer, Ernest Maulden, Jack Pitzer, B. D. Walker, Chris Vines, Earl Fulton, Winchell Gee, C. R. Butler, the honoree, the hostess, and Mrs. E. B. Underwood of Amarillo.

Miss Smith received the guest prize and Mrs. Larabee held high score for the afternoon.

Women's Circle Is Farewell Tea Host

(Special to The News) PERRYTON — The Business Women's Circle of the Baptist Women's Missionary Union held their regular missionary program in the church parlor Monday night.

Mrs. Paul Bowen presented the program, and Mrs. Jimmy Johnson gave the devotional which was taken from Acts 16: 6-15.

Miss Joy Clark, accompanied by Miss LuNette Castele, sang "God Has the Whole World in His Hand," and Miss Sue Williams spoke on "Baptist Missionary Work in Europe."

At the close of the meeting the circle was hostess for a tea and church fellowship honoring Mrs. Esther Kelley and Pat who are leaving Perryton to make their home in Prosser, Wash.

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIL LAWRENCE

Under a maple tree in the backyard, Sharon and a friend were having a dolls' party. The table was a barrel lid; the cloth an old pillow case; the tea was water. But the cookies and the china were real. Suddenly a big lump of dirt landed right in the middle of the table.

"Stupid — stupid — stupid!" yelled her little brother from where he'd thrown it — and ran. Sharon caught him and was sitting on top of him the better to beat him when her mother came running from the house. She slapped Sharon, told her friend to go home. Then, hearing the roaring Billy into the house, she cried, "I don't care what he did! I don't care what he did! I don't care what he did!"

This kind of treatment can only foment quarreling between Sharon and Billy.

According to a study made of 6,000 families by psychologists Norma E. Cutts and Nicholas Moseley, our most effective treatment of quarreling children is to remove them both from our presence.

It's effective because the equal penalty denies our moral endorsement to either child.

It's giving our moral endorsement to one of our two quarreling children that is always our mistake.

We simply cannot know the rights or wrongs of quarrels between Sharon and Billy. Their mutual jealousy expresses itself in a thousand ways we never register.

For example, you may imagine that their quarrel today was caused by Billy's aggression. Actually, it was provoked by Sharon who exaggerated the fun she was having as the insider on the dolls' party to stress Billy's lack of fun as an outsider on the party.

This kind of unnoticed attack and counterattack goes on much of the time between Sharon and Billy. When we condemn either one of these children as the cause of a single explosion of jealous feeling, we can be sure of only one thing — we are misjudging.

Our inevitable misjudgment simply increases their jealousy.

For their quarrels are just skirmishes in their basic battle for our preference. Each believes himself less favored than the other. When we give either quarrelor our moral endorsement, we add to this envious belief.

Perryton Rebekah Lodge Has Meeting

(Special to The News) PERRYTON — The regular meeting of the Perryton Rebekah Lodge was held Monday evening at Odd Fellow Hall.

Mrs. Opal Symons and Mrs. Ellen Hathcock were hostesses for the evening.

Mrs. Opal Symons, noble grand, presided for the business meeting, during which the semi-annual and annual pass word was given the members for the current term.

Mrs. Hazel Allen won the gift box.

Those present were Mmes. Jewell Symons, Thelma Scott, Roberta Moulton, Opal Symons, Hazel Allen, Clara Stubblefield, Alma Pittman, Mable Gatewood, Joyce Doffer, Gladys Organ, Ruby Tillman, Ellen Hathcock, Nell Dierbold, Fanny Jackson, Eva Fisher, Bertha McNally and May Shaul.

RUTH MILLETT

Does your daughter-in-law think you're wonderful?

You might try checking yourself against a list of reasons one young wife gives for feeling lucky to have the right kind of mother-in-law:

"She never tells any of her married children what they ought to do. When asked advice she gives it, but she makes it clear that what she would do under the circumstances isn't necessarily the one and only right answer. So you are free to take the advice or not — with no hard feelings if you don't."

"She doesn't criticize any of her children or her in-laws behind their backs. So her sons-in-law and daughters-in-law as well as her children have the comfortable feeling that she isn't going to discuss their shortcomings with anyone when she leaves their homes."

"She is a friend. If you need her, she comes. If she needs your help, she accepts it with thanks. So her in-laws never feel she is imposing on them or they are imposing on her."

"She has a smile for everyone and never seems to get upset over little things. She doesn't wear a long face or enjoy talking about depressing subjects. That makes her seem young, even to her grandchildren."

"She is very casual about the gifts she gives and never checks up to see why you aren't using them. Some mothers-in-law get hurt if a lamp intended for a living room is used in a bedroom, or if a gift is eventually replaced by something else."

"She doesn't resent what her sons are able to give their wives or act as though it's a crime that her daughters have to work hard."

Lefors Church Of Christ Minister And Family Given Farewell Party

(Special to The News) LEFORS — Minister and Mrs. Bob Beatty and son, Mark, were honored guests at a farewell party given by members of the Church of Christ Friday night in the Civic Center. Bob has preached for the Church of Christ in Lefors for the past two years and recently accepted a similar position in Groom where he will move with his family in the near future.

Also honored on the same occasion were Jimmy and Jerry Hartless of Tipton Orphan Home, Tipton, Okla., who have spent the past two weeks vacationing with the members of the Church of Christ in Lefors. The boys were seated behind a table laden with gifts for them which they opened assisted by Mrs. J. B. Martin and Mrs. Charles Roberts.

Bob Fish gave the farewell address to the Minister and his family at the end of which he led the group in the hymn, "Blest Be The Tie." Gifts were also presented to the Beattys.

Refreshments of home made ice cream, home made cake, and coffee were served. Those in charge of the refreshments and buying of gifts were Mmes. Luke Glover, Walter Hughes, and Charles Roberts.

Guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Henry Koehler, L. J. Glover, Burl Davis, Daniel Rose, Charles Roberts, Walter Hughes, Bob Fish, Tom Waters, Orvil Henry, Roy Nobles, Tom Gee, Lonnie Ables, also present.

Mrs. Stanley D. Key Is Elected President Of Missionary Union

(Special to The News) PERRYTON — The Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church met last Thursday afternoon in the church auditorium for their regular monthly business meeting and missionary program.

Mrs. Stanley D. Key, president, gave the devotional and had charge of the business meeting. Mrs. O. C. Rickard, secretary, read the minutes.

Reports were given by Mrs. C. H. Williams, treasurer; Mrs. Marvin Montgomery, program chairman; Mrs. Phagan, stewardship; Aubrey Kelso, Bible study; Jimmy Johnson, prayer; Ivan Day, enlistment; R. H. Holland, social; and Douglas Friskin, education.

Mrs. Marvin Montgomery, program chairman, was in charge of the program entitled "Baptist Work in Europe." Charlotte Flowers, Ann Portwood, Dixie Conley and Ruth Ann Smith were on the program. Joy Clark sang the special accompanied by Dixie Conley.

Refreshments were served to Mmes. Jerry Slaughter, Clyde Cofer, Ray Phagan, J. D. Cope, land, Vernon Harris, J. D. Wade, C. C. Carter, Bob Johnson, Aubrey Kelso, L. C. Case, C. H. Williams, Fred Furnish, Retta Smith, D. E. Timmons, Bob Lewis, O. C. Rickard, Ollie Morris, Carl Carter, Marvin Montgomery, Lilly Palm, A. G. Daniel, A. S. Brillhart, Kenneth Harrison, Kenneth Wilkerson, G. M. Grisby, Bob Kile, Jimmy Johnson and one guest.

International Arms Dealer At 30

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Arms dealers throughout the world plus thousands of American weapons collectors daily train their sights on a 30-year-old Virginia salesman.

Youthful Samuel Cummings is in no danger. Their aim is strictly business. He just happens to have more of what they want than anybody else in the United States. And that's guns.

Cummings is president of The International Armament Corp. of Alexandria, Va. Since he was 24, the young gun merchant has been equipping armies from South America to Western Europe. His sharp business sense has shot what was once just a gun collecting hobby into a two million dollar a year business.

From his five warehouses on the banks of the Potomac River, Cummings supplies governments friendly to the United States with modern firearms ranging from pistols to machine guns. That's just part of the business, though.

He also scoops up entire arsenals of antique, obsolete weapons from these countries. Then he sells these to gun cranks all over the United States.

Cummings' success secret is his ability to smell out surplus weapons stores. Government rules prevent him from buying up surplus in the United States.

But there's nothing to stop him from obtaining excess stocks of modern guns in other countries. And in many of these foreign warehouses he's found quantities of American-made weapons.

After cleaning out one of these stores, Cummings is ready to start selling. There's always a buyer, Cummings says some armies are still using guns that were new in the last century.

It's in these gun-poor countries that the young weapons merchant makes some of his most fabulous deals. First he sells them a few guns. At the same time he offers to take the ancient arsenals off their hands. If they say yes, he mak knock several hundred dollars off the cost of the new guns.

Although it sounds like shotgun business management, actually the deal brings down profits with the accuracy of a high-powered rifle. Cummings estimates that 40 per cent of his annual two million gross business is made by selling the old weapons to American collectors. Fifty thousand letters a pour into his office each year from gun cranks, Cummings says about 90 per cent of these letter writers end up buying.

His biggest competitor in the new gun market is the United States government. However, Cummings says that by buying foreign surplus he can beat the government's price. Also he reminds buyers they have to go through less red tape when they deal with him.

His deals are popular enough to keep him out of the country for about eight months every year. Buying, selling and demonstrating weapons sends him to Europe, Africa, the Far and Middle East and South America.

The job is not without its headaches. For one thing the bodyguards of some South American presidents have doubts about Cummings. He complains that when he's demonstrating a gun for a Latin American leader, a bodyguard's weapon is usually trained on him.

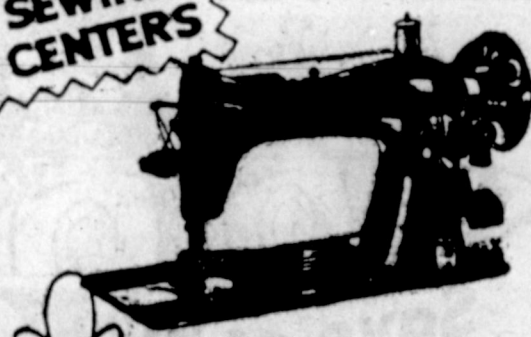

Then there was the time when a boat load of old guns being shipped to Cummings stopped off at a Cuban port. The only trouble was the port was near rebel territory. A lot of people got excited before Cummings finally convinced them the guns were for American collectors and not the rebels.

A business like this arouses the interest of a lot of very particular people. But the young salesman has grown used to the constant

MGM Making Commercials For Television Sponsors

By ALINE MOSBY

United Press Hollywood Writer HOLLYWOOD (UP) — MGM turns out super - colossal, slick movies in the Leo the Lion tradition, but some of them these days are one - minute television commercials.

The biggest studio of them all is one of three major movie factories that have hustled the filmed TV commercial business away from New York.

MGM sound stages where famous epics from "Rainbow Valley" back to "Dinner at Eight" and "Grand Hotel" were shot now feature such "scenes" as ladies putting on lipstick or opening refrigerator doors.

Though these movies are shorter than the three-hour epics, they're tougher to make, according to Virgil Ellsworth, production chief of the minute spectacles.

"They're worse than feature films," sighed Ellsworth on a tour of MGM's busy new television unit.

"The timing is so difficult — 58 seconds exactly. And the scenes are much more critically viewed than a feature film. The sponsor studies everything so closely.

Some days the electricians spend as much as five hours just to properly light the close-up of a product so it will be shown to its best advantage.

Food scenes are big headaches. Soup has to be steaming beautifully, but if the shot isn't successful a new pot of soup has to be brewed.

"And often toast has to be sprayed a color to make it look like toast," Ellsworth added. The talents that go into MGM feature movies, from the make-up wizards who powder Ava Gardner's nose to the designers of lavish sets, now also work on TV commercials.

Dancer Marc Platt and actors Billie Burke and Edward Everett Horton are among the performers in feature films who now emote over bowls of pancake flour.

"Just for one scene we had to fly a girl 70 feet through the air," enthused Ellsworth. "That took three days to shoot. They never could make commercials like that in New York. But we have all the MGM facilities for our use."

An outdoor MGM set of Fifth Avenue was used in a cosmetic commercial; the set of a New England waterfront was the location for a cake mix spiel.

"Making commercials is a part of the motion picture industry here now. We compete with Warner's and Universal in bidding for

Braves Mangle Redlegs; Push Lead To 7½ Games

White Sox Cut Yank Lead With 8-3 Win Over Indians

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Braves have turned the National League race into a cakewalk but those stubborn Chicago White Sox are still convinced they can make the New York Yankees walk the plank in the American League.

The amazing Braves made it nine straight victories and ballooned their lead to 7½ games when they crushed the Cincinnati Redlegs, 13-3, Wednesday night. They've now won 15 of their last 16 games and 23 of their last 28 in an "all-out" drive that's left their rivals all out in the cold.

The White Sox were supposed to be about ready for a knockout blow by now, but they're acting very much like a contender. They whipped the Cleveland Indians, 8-3, Wednesday night to give them six wins in their last eight games and cut the Yankees' first-place lead to 4½ games.

Both the Braves and White Sox are combining the unbeatable elements — solid pitching backed by devastating hitting. The Braves have averaged 9.2 runs a game in their nine winning streak while the White Sox have averaged seven runs a game in their last 10.

Buhl Wins 16th
A pair of "hot pitchers" did their share, Bob Buhl gaining his seventh straight victory and 16th of the season for the Braves and Dick Donovan chalking up his fifth in a row and 13th of the year for the White Sox. It was the Braves' 13th victory in 15 games with the Redlegs and the White Sox' eighth in a row over the collapsing Indians.

The Braves wrapped up the triumph with an eight-run ninth-inning rally marked by Wes Covington's grand slam homer and relief pitcher Don McMahon's three-run double. Johnny Logan had homered earlier for the Braves while solo homers by Joe Taylor, Gus Bell and George Crowe accounted for all three Cincinnati runs. Brooks Lawrence, winless since July 21, suffered his fifth defeat in succession and 10th of the campaign.

Donovan, who scattered nine hits, contributed a homer to the White Sox' 14 - hit attack which also included round-trippers by Minnie Minoso and Jim Rivera. Larry Doby had three hits for the Sox and Luis Aparicio, Minoso and Earl Torgeson two each to help hand Early Wynn his 13th setback.

Boston Beats Yankees
The Chicago Cubs handed the St. Louis Cardinals their eighth consecutive loss, 3-1, the Brooklyn Dodgers shaded the New York Giants, 7-6, and the Pittsburgh Pirates dumped the Philadelphia Phillies, 10-3, in other NL action. The Boston Red Sox beat the Yankees, 6-4, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Washington Senators, 4-2, and the Detroit Tigers walloped the Kansas City Athletics, 7-4, in other AL games.

Dick Drott hurled a six-hit, 11-inning game for the Cardinals, who made it two in a row over the Cardinals. Walt Moryn and Ernie Banks hit back-to-back homers in the sixth inning for Chicago.

Tulsa Gains Tie For 3rd

By UNITED PRESS

Tulsa has part ownership of third place in the Texas League today.

The Oilers lost to Houston 2-0 Wednesday night, but Austin lost twice to Dallas, 3-0 and 6-3, dropping into a percentage deadlock with Tulsa for third. Fort Worth took a pair from San Antonio, 5-2 and 3-1, and Oklahoma City swamped Shreveport 10-1.

The same schedule holds tonight, with Dallas at Austin, Tulsa at Houston, Fort Worth at San Antonio and Oklahoma City at Shreveport.

Phil Clark and Tom Hughes combined to give Houston its shutout win over Tulsa.

Ernie Broglio took his 16th victory, with a three-hitter for Dallas in the opener, and Don Tausig poled a grand slam homer to dump Austin in the nightcap.

Ted Bowsfield worked a three-hitter for Oklahoma City as Hal Grote and Ed Irons drove home four runs apiece to sink Shreveport.

Jake Crawford hit two homers and Eddie Haas one to give Fort Worth its first victory over San Antonio. The Cats used three pitchers in the nightcap. Ed Mierkowsky homered for the Oilers.

CALGARY RELEASES THREE
CALGARY, Alta. (UP) — Halfback Jim Harryman of the University of Washington, tackle and Vince Vildas of Drexel Institute and fullback Jerry Baker of the University of Mississippi were released by the Calgary Stampede Wednesday.

Elmer Valo and Don Zimmer enabled the Dodgers to break a three-game losing streak. Roebuck entered the game after the Giants routed Danny McDevitt with a five-run, seventh-inning uprising. Willie Mays' hitting streak ended at 19 games.

Pirates Bombard Phils
Vern Law breezed to his ninth win as the Pirates took advantage of four Philadelphia errors to score seven unearned runs. Gene Freese had four hits and Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski three each to spark the Pirates' 17-hit attack. Curt Simmons lost his eighth defeat for the Philadelphia Phillies.

Ted Williams knocked in three runs with his 31st homer and a single and raised his average to .390 to help Tom Brewer win his 14th game. Whitey Ford, kayoed in the second inning, lost his fourth game and Mickey Mantle had only one hit for New York and saw his average drop to .382.

George Zuverink, making his 45th relief appearance, halted a Washington rally in the eighth inning and preserved Hal Brown's fifth win. Gus Triandos and Brooks Robinson homered for the Orioles who dealt the Senators their fifth loss in succession.

Al Kaline smacked his 13th homer and two singles to lead a 15-hit Tiger attack that brought Frank Lary his first win since June 15th and his fifth of the year. Ralph Terry, the ex-Yankee, was kayoed in 5 2-3 innings and dropped his seventh decision.

The Indians announced Score will accompany the team to Kansas City for its next series, and presumably will be put into a game soon.

To make room for Score on the roster, the Indians sent infielder Ken Kuhn to Mobile, to report on Monday.

Reese Says Dodgers Can Catch Up With The Braves

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — PeeWee Reese feels "Milwaukee can be caught" but he adds it will take a spectacular catch by Brooklyn to do it.

"We can still beat the Braves but it will require the toughest uphill climb since I've been with the club," admitted the popular Dodger shortstop as he peeled off his uniform in front of his locker.

"The big thing we have going for us is experience," he added. "And I've always felt we had the best pitching in the league. So how come we're so far behind?"

Injuries for one, "We're not hitting for another. That includes me. I'm having a lousy year."

Things have reached such a pass with the Dodgers that they're even using a pinch hitter for Reese in the late innings. The practice has caused increasing whispers that this might be PeeWee's last year.

"I hope not," he said, replying to the direct question. "I'd certainly like to play another year and make up for this bad one. I'll play if they'll have me."

Reese's belief that the Dodgers can overtake the first-place Braves is shared by Brooklyn Manager Walt Alston.

"We're not giving up by a long shot," he said. "They can be caught. There's still enough time. We'll simply have to play better than we have been up to now."

In essence, Alston told the slumping Dodgers the same thing before Wednesday's game with the Giants and the Braves then went out and snapped a three-game losing streak with a 7-6 victory that included homers by Gil Hodges, Elmer Valo and Don Zimmer.

Like Reese and Alston, Duke Snider also feels the Dodgers can catch the Braves although he concedes there isn't too much time.

"We've been through situations like this before," the Duke said. "No one has to tell us we have a tough road ahead of us. Every one on the club knows it. And deep down, I think they all are confident we can do it. I know I am."

Kippy Williams is scheduled to go on the mound for Pampa tonight in the opener, with Clovis Shipp catching. The News has a season record of 12 victories against two losses.

The regular weekly partnership putting tournament will be held tonight at the Pampa Country Club at 7:30.

Entries to the tournament should register prior to 7:30, however, so names can be drawn before play begins.

The tournaments, held each Thursday night, are sponsored by the Ladies Golf Association. In last week's contest C. F. McGinnis and Jerry Boston were champions.

Due to the lateness of the hour, it is requested that persons under 18 not register for the tourney. Hart Warren, club pro, announced.

Donor Of "Athlete Of The Year" Award Relates His Life Of Sports

"Athlete-of-the-Year" Award
Written for the United Press
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP) — The story of America is built around heroes. In our democracy, from the very beginning, a man or a boy has had the choice of picking his own idol. Most of these idols have come from the field of sports, and as far back as I can remember, I was a sports fan.

Liking sports came rather easy. My father, S. Rae Hickok, was a sportsman who fished and hunted and liked the outdoor life. My brother, Alan, and I grew up taught to relax through sports. My sports in prep school and college were football, wrestling and crew. I was lucky and ended up as stroke and captain of our crew at Rollins College in Florida.

I love hunting and fishing of all types, although my time is very limited. I was most fortunate in being able to enjoy a big game safari in Africa this past January.

As ardent a fisherman as I have been with rod and reel, I have in the last few years been astounded when you look at the eyes under water with nothing but come a real spear-fishing enthusiast about the same sensation as seeing a wounded lion on charge or three tons of rhino coming out of the bush straight for you.

My brother, Alan, is also an expert hunter and fisherman, and only last year was credited with catching the second largest fish ever to have been captured on rod and reel, which is a 1,340-pound black marlin at Cabo Blanco, Peru.

The American youngster is fundamentally good. Give them an idol whose path they can follow, and they should be able to avoid serious pitfalls that lead to delinquency. The kids who love baseball and other sports don't get into the trouble that those with time on their hands do. We are sincere, advocates of the theory and practice of fighting juvenile delinquency through heroes in sports.

Most of the major awards or trophies seemed to aim at the amateur athlete, and yet the professional athlete seemed to have a far greater effect over the youth of America. We feel that rewarding the sports heroes is a way of not only helping the athlete but also the younger generation.

Until dad passed away, relaxing through sports was a family affair. We hunted everything from upland game to bear and mountain lion together. When our father left us, and we suddenly found ourselves at a very young age running a multi-million dollar business, time for sports became very limited. Our father, as most dads, was our great hero, and we wanted to do everything within our power to pay tribute to the man who had taught us our love for sports, brought us up and built a great business.

We are sincere, advocates of the theory and practice of fighting juvenile delinquency through heroes in sports.

Until dad passed away, relaxing through sports was a family affair. We hunted everything from upland game to bear and mountain lion together. When our father left us, and we suddenly found ourselves at a very young age running a multi-million dollar business, time for sports became very limited. Our father, as most dads, was our great hero, and we wanted to do everything within our power to pay tribute to the man who had taught us our love for sports, brought us up and built a great business.

Most of the major awards or trophies seemed to aim at the amateur athlete, and yet the professional athlete seemed to have a far greater effect over the youth of America. We feel that rewarding the sports heroes is a way of not only helping the athlete but also the younger generation.

The American youngster is fundamentally good. Give them an idol whose path they can follow, and they should be able to avoid serious pitfalls that lead to delinquency. The kids who love baseball and other sports don't get into the trouble that those with time on their hands do. We are sincere, advocates of the theory and practice of fighting juvenile delinquency through heroes in sports.

Harvesters Open 1957 Season At Home With Austin, El Paso

The Pampa Harvesters will open the 1957 grid season on September 28 at 8 p.m. with Austin of El Paso, in the first of three successive home games to be played in Harvesters Park.

Team practice will begin Friday, August 30, with two workouts daily until school begins September 2. Jack Lockett, head football coach announced.

The Harvesters will go into the season with nearly an entire untried team, having only four returning lettermen, with two of these being among last year's regulars. As to outlook, however, Lockett stated that with hustle and real effort Pampa should turn out a good team.

In district 3-AAAA the Amarillo Sandies have been given the definite nod to walk away with the crown, and to pose a strong threat for the state title. Amarillo has more returning strength, depth and experience than any other team in the conference.

Behind the Sandies, however, it should be a close race, with Palo Duro and Borger considered as strong contenders, but with the Harvesters as likely to upset the top team as other district contenders.

New Coaches

Joining the Harvesters staff in September as assistant coach will be Eural Ramsey, who comes to Pampa from Texas Tech. Ramsey will assist Lockett in coaching the high school team. Also joining the staff will be Gene Chance of Midwestern University, who will assist Norman Phillips in coaching junior high.

Deck Woldt will move to the high school staff in September to join Dwayne Lyon, Weldon Trice and Ramsey. Staff for the junior high teams will consist of Frank Craig, Phillips and Chance.

1957 Schedule

The 1957 Harvesters football schedule, listed by date, opponent, place and time, with conference games marked, is as follows:

September 20, Arlington Hts. (Ft. Worth), here, 8 p.m.
September 27, Midland, here, 8 p.m.
October 4, Wichita Falls, there, 8 p.m.
October 11, Palo Duro, there, 8 p.m. (conf.)
October 18, Amarillo, here, 8 p.m. (conf.)
October 25, open
November 1, Monterey, here, 8 p.m. (conf.)
November 8, Plainview, there, 8 p.m. (conf.)
November 16, Lubbock, there, 8 p.m. (conf.)
November 23, Borger, here, 2 p.m. (conf.)

PICTURE PUZZLE—Pete Rademacher studies pictures taken as Floyd Patterson stopped Hurricane Tommy Jackson in the 10th round. Giving Rademacher pointers is Trainer George Chermes. The Olympic titleholder realizes that he has quite a job on hand bidding for Patterson's crown in Seattle, Aug. 22.

Rademacher May Not Make A Cent In Bout With Patterson

(First of four dispatches)
By RAY ANDREWS
United Press Staff Correspondent
SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Pete Rademacher is quite a salesman.

He has arranged a prize fight guaranteed to go down in ring history whatever the outcome.

Pete also must be somewhat of a Walter Mitty. He has never been in the professional ring in his life (he has only seen two pro fights), but a week from Thursday he will square off with the heavyweight champion of the world.

Something of the philanthropist is in Rademacher, too. For while champ Floyd Patterson is guaranteed $25,000 just to put on the gloves, the chances are good Rademacher won't make a penny—unless he wins and becomes champion.

That is not likely. So perplexed are bookmakers at the spectacle of this 28-year-old amateur taking on the world's best that "any of them won't lay any odds." They cannot recall a precedent unless it be the fourth of July 34 years ago when Jack Dempsey almost made a ghost town of Shelby, Mont.

Will Survive Fight

Seattle will probably survive the fight Aug. 22, but a group of Columbus, Ga., businessmen almost certainly will drop a quarter million dollars. How they were persuaded to put it up is a story in itself.

Rademacher is not a pro but he did win the Olympic title at Melbourne last year. And he feels that he is good enough to get in the ring with the champ, notwithstanding warnings from as far away as London where a boxing writer foresaw the end of the fight game.

Rademacher laughs at the ridicule.

"Everybody in camp seems to be trying to protect me from the wisecracks being made about the fight," he says. "They edit the paper for me. All I get is the front page and the funnies. Then even out Joe Palooka. They don't want me to read anything about boxing. But I know what people are saying and it rolls off me."

"I go into every fight, I don't care how big he is or how rough he is, with the idea of being relaxed."

Conservative and Quiet

Rademacher is a conservative, quiet person. He wears a gray flannel suit nicely and speaks with intelligence on most subjects. What's left of his balding hair is closely cropped and he could be taken for a junior executive or a professor. He weighs 212 pounds, stands six feet, two and one-half inches.

He is married and the father of a two-year-old daughter. He dreamed of becoming a baseball player and did play college football before going into amateur boxing.

Rademacher was born in Tieton, Wash. A few miles west of Yakima. For nine years he attended grade school in Tieton, then his rancher father sent him to Castle Heights Military Academy in Tennessee. After his first year there he contracted rheumatic fever.

"I thought I never would recover from that," he says. "I spent four months in bed and rested for a whole year. But finally I whipped it and went on to participate fully in athletics. I've been perfectly healthy ever since."

His Washington upbringing may be a sentimental reason for choosing Seattle for his first pro fight, but probably more important is the fact that the Washington State

Snead, Souchak Lead Field Into $24,000 St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UP)—Another battle between the "old guard" and golf's "youngsters" shaped up today as a star-studded field started play in the $24,000 St. Paul Open.

Sam Snead heads the veterans into the 72-hole battle, while defending champion Mike Souchak tops the impressive list of younger players.

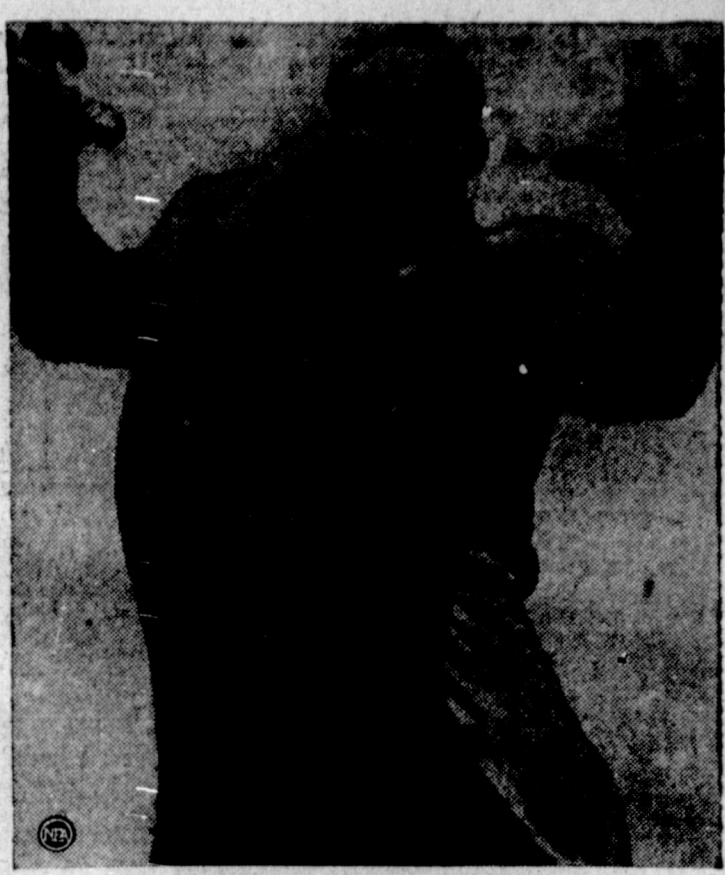

Tournament officials think the 26-year-old tournament record of 266, 22 under par, may be a thing of the past when the firing is over Sunday. They point out that Keller Golf Course is in top shape and par should take an all-time battering from the pros.

Snead, usually considered professional golf's wealthiest player, is given the best chance to break the record and take top money of $2,800. He won the tourney in 1937 and finished in a first-place tie with Jim Ferrier in 1950. Snead has taken more money from the St. Paul purse than any other player.

Miss Stone, Oklahoma junior champ, ousted Barbara Bueckman of Belleville, Ill., 1 up on the 19th hole in the second round and then whipped Julie Hull of Anderson, Ill., 5 and 4, to reach today's "select" round.

But he will have keen competition in his title bid.

Doug Ford, the Masters champion, and Lionel Hebert, PGA titlist, along with Souchak, Gene Littler, Ken Venturi, Dow Finsterwald, Peter Thomson and long-hitter George Bayer are expected to be in the thick of the battle for the money.

CLEATED COLOSSUS—Gil Mains appears ready to walk all over opponents of the Lions. The defensive end stands six-foot-three, weighs 235 pounds and knows his way around, but still has to fight to hold his job. The Detroit professionals are training at Cranbrook School in Birmingham, Mich.

Operator Of Florida Race Track Reinstated By Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UP)—Tropical Park president "bet a million" Saul Silberman, who admits he's a consistent loser at his track's betting windows, won the biggest stakes of his life Wednesday—the right to operate his multi-million dollar racing plant.

The Florida Supreme Court, by a 4-2 decision, reinstated Silberman's operating license for the beautiful palm-lined track.

This upset an order Aug. 6 by the state Racing Commission revoking Silberman's license on the grounds that he illegally bet thousands of dollars on credit at his own track and permitted 106 telephone calls to be made from his private office phone to a known Cleveland bookie.

The high court said that while the credit betting was "illegal," the commission dealt too harshly with the balding, plump Silberman by revoking his license.

The dapper Silberman, former track owner in Cleveland, got his nickname "bet a million" from his wild betting habits. He told the commission he bet more than one million dollars at Florida's three racing plants last season. He was such a heavy bettor that Hialeah and Gulfstream officials installed a private $100 betting window to accommodate Silberman.

New Rules For Fowl Hunting

WASHINGTON (UP)—Undersecretary of Interior Hatfield Chilton today announced new hunting regulation proposals for waterfowl.

Hunters of wild ducks and geese can expect the flight of migratory birds this fall to be about the same as last year," Chilton said. "Shooting seasons and bag and possession limits which will be in effect during the 1957-58 hunting period will be substantially the same as last year in all flyways except the Pacific."

The new federal proposals specify by flyways the length of the shooting season, bag and possession limits, and shooting hours, but do not include the specific season dates for the various states. These will be announced later by the states.

The specific dates will be selected by state game administrators within a general framework of Oct. 1 to Jan. 15.

For the third successive year, the Atlantic and Mississippi flyways will have a 70-day season for waterfowl and coot.

Split seasons have been offered as options to the states, subject to the usual 10 per cent penalty. Split season again may be divided into unequal lengths.

AMERICAN YAWL WINS

PLYMOUTH, England (UP)—The American yawl Carina, owned and skippered by Richard Nye of Greenwich, Conn., won the 80-mile ocean yacht race Wednesday, crossing the finish line near the Fastnet Lighthouse at 3:22 p.m. e.d.t. The Swedish yawl Kay and the British-cutter Jacasta, chased the Carina up the English Channel but neither was expected to arrive in time to overcome the handicap they had to allow Carina.

COLTS TRIM ROSTER

WESTMINSTER, Md. (UP)—Halfback Jack Harmon from East Oregon State and end Harwood Hoelt from South Dakota State were cut from the Baltimore Colts roster Wednesday. Harmon was the Colts' eighth draft choice, while Hoelt was chosen on the 24th round.

Louis Says Floyd Should Be Ashamed

KENT, Wash. (UP)—Former world heavyweight champion Joe Louis was "told to say" that present title holder Floyd Patterson has done an unchampionlike thing by accepting a bout with Pete Rademacher who has never fought professionally, Patterson's manager said Wednesday night.

Cue D'Amato, watching Patterson spar at Kent Memorial Park, said Louis "is entitled to his opinion—but I don't think that's his opinion."

The Brown Bomber had been quoted from Milwaukee, Wis., as saying he "would never have done a thing like that," and "neither would any other champion in boxing."

D'Amato said he thought Louis was speaking "as an official of the International Boxing Club."

"They've done everything they can to pan this fight. But I don't think Joe would say anything like that on his own," D'Amato added.

Rademacher, meanwhile, did some shadow boxing, sparred two rounds, and worked up a sweat with callisthenics in preparation for the 15-round heavyweight title bout Aug. 22 at Sick's Stadium, Seattle.

Richmond Gains In International

By UNITED PRESS

Jim Coates, who specializes in shutouts, is coming through with something extra in Richmond's battle for first place in the International League.

Coates, voted the league's all-star right handed pitcher, led his Richmond mates to a 7-0 victory over Buffalo Wednesday night.

The 25-year-old strike-out ace held the first place Bisons to one hit while compiling his sixth white-wash of the season. The Veas, in third place, now trail Buffalo by 2½ games.

Rene Valdes, flashy Montreal right hander, also pitched a one-hitter as the Royals downed Miami, 7-0. Satchel Paige started for the Marlins and took the loss. Paige is now 7-6 while Valdes holds a 9-8 mark.

Toronto kept to within a game of first place by edging Havana, 4-3. The Leafs scored twice in the ninth inning to gain the decision for Ed Blake.

Columbus outlasted Rochester, 9-7, for its fifth straight win. Eddie O'Brien, who usually makes his living playing the infield, picked up his first pitching victory in relief of Cholly Naranjo.

Ballinger, Hobbs Battle For Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Ballinger and Hobbs will meet twice for the Southwestern League lead tonight, weather permitting.

The two were scheduled to tangle for the lead now owned by Ballinger Wednesday night but rain postponed the game. Lamesa and Carlsbad traded wins in the first 7-0 and Carlsbad the second, 8-1, which didn't change a thing. Lamesa is still at Carlsbad tonight.

Where Shall Little Annie School?

LONDON (UP)—Princess Anne celebrated her 7th birthday today in the middle of a new where-will-she-go-to-school controversy.

The Queen already has decided to send Anne's big brother Charles to Cheam, the old school where Prince Philip began his formal education in 1930.

"But," said Lord Altrincham, who has recently gained fame as a critic of royal activities, "I am very sorry to hear it."

The outspoken young lord also suggested that Anne be given a more "democratic" schooling and go to state classes with children from all walks of life.

There appeared no chance that the critics would have their way, but some British papers suggested today that Anne might leave her palace lessons for classes in a private school.

The mischievous princess with her bouncing blonde curls celebrated today's birthday with a touch of sadness not brought on by the controversy over her schooling.

Charles leaves for his upper class boarding school next month and there will be no more giggling games of hide and seek through the red carpeted halls of the palace. Anne and Charles call home.

There also will be no more regular family gatherings of the two children with the Queen and Prince.

The birthday gathering around the family tea table at Balmoral Castle this afternoon and the remainder of their time together during this late summer holiday in Scotland will be the last long hours Anne and 8-year-old Charles will have together until Christmas.

Nikolai Bulganin Is Still Premier

LONDON (UP)—Moscow Radio made it plain today that Nikolai Bulganin is still premier and member of the Presidium of the Communist Party.

Moscow broadcast a Soviet Tass news agency report disclosing that Bulganin, President Kliment Voroshilov and Communist Party leader Nikita Khrushchev sent messages of congratulations to North Korea today on the anniversary of its "liberation" from Japan.

Reports have been current in diplomatic circles for weeks that Bulganin was on his way out because he was reported to have sided with Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shaglov in the recent Kremlin Crisis.

Pay-In-The-Parlor TV Is Big Fling In Bartlesville, Okla.

Third Of Five Dispatches
By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—The number to call in Bartlesville, Okla., is 5618.

A simple order on the telephone will transport the screen of the downtown lyric theatre into any citizen's living room.

Bartlesville, a prosperous town in the heart of the Osage Hills, is the center of the first big fling into pay-in-the-parlor TV. Subscribers will be able to view a number of uninterrupted movies on their TV sets for $9.50 a month starting in early autumn. They'll be brought in by shielded cable, an avenue over which the Federal Communications Commission has no control.

Bartlesville is not the scene of a test. It is the scene of a full-fledged business venture.

There have been at least two large tests with pay TV—one in Palm Springs, Calif., with wire and the other in Chicago by air.

Three Movies A Day
Zenith ran the Chicago test in 1951. It installed decoders in 300 sample homes for nothing and gave subscribers the chance to watch 90 movies over 90 days at $1 per movie. The movies were shown three times a day. There were good movies, medium movies and some dogs.

The average family spent $3.72 a week on its TV movies. Families watched movies about three times as often as they usually did in theatres. The experiment proved so successful that early in the game outside families tried to cheat by listening to the unscrubbed sound alone. They gave up when Zenith began scrambling the audio, too.

Paramount ran the Palm Springs test in 1953 in 300 picked homes. It was conducted via open wire, a cheap highway for TV programs, but a fairly inefficient one. Open wire goes when it runs into obstacles. And it sometimes radiates its signal to such an extent that a program can be picked up free.

What Test Showed
Nevertheless, Lou Novins, vice-president of Paramount's television firm points out that valuable conclusions were drawn from the test:

—The greatest market for pay TV shows is the low income group. —People will pay to watch any kind of uninterrupted movie even if it's a dog.

In Bartlesville, 38 miles of wire are being strung right now on telephone poles by a firm called Vumore Inc. Vumore is a subsidiary of Video Independent Theatres, a chain that operates some 150 movie houses in the Southwest.

Bartlesville, headquarters of Phillips Oil, was chosen because Video Independent owns all four theatres in the town—two conventional, two drive-ins. Its citizens get good TV reception and all three networks—two from nearby Tulsa and one from Muskogee, Okla.

It's a jumping town. Back in 1950, its population was 19,228. Now, its estimated more than 30,000 citizens live in Bartlesville. Its median income back in 1950 was $3,573, exceptionally high for the state. The educational level is high and unemployment is low.

The 38 miles of cable that Vumore is laying will cost about $104,000. Vumore will sell the cable to Southwestern Bell which, in turn, will rent it back to Vumore for $329 a month. As a studio for beaming its movies, Vumore will use the re-modelled Lyric Theatre (seating capacity: 700). The Lyric has been converted at a cost of $35,000.

There are 8000 TV homes in Bartlesville and Vumore hopes to sell to 4000 of them. Actually, the project can operate with 1500-2000 customers.

Originally, Vumore planned to give its customers 13 telemovies a month for $9.50. It has now upped the number of films to 30. It won't charge anything for installation. Some of the movies will be shown currently with the other conventional house in town, some before and some after.

Video Independent has permits from 35 other cities in the Southwest, including Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Lubbock, Pampa, Tex., said C. O. Fulgham, vice president of the theatre chain. He sees pay TV as a coming, but he doesn't think it means an end to the conventional movie house.

Plane Hits Home; One Man Killed

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex. (UP)—A pilot stayed with his flaming jet until it cleared an industrial district Wednesday night and then ejected himself before the plane dived into a home, killing one person and seriously injuring another.

Fred H. Kreger, 74, and his 67-year-old semi-invalid wife, Retta, were caught in the house. Kreger was burned over 90 per cent of his body and died in a Dallas hospital this morning. Mrs. Kreger was burned on the upper half of her body and suffered chest injuries. She was in serious condition.

The pilot, who was on a two-week training period, was Marine reserve First Lt. R. P. Stuart, 24, of Arlington, Tex. He suffered minor injuries when he parachuted to Grand Prairie airport about four miles from the crash.

The F-9F Grumann Cougar jet, one of the Navy's most efficient, struck ground about 200 feet east of the house, dug a crater and plummeted into the home.

Nun Fights Against Reds For Nation

SAN MARINO (UP)—Sister Veronica Serri, an 80-year-old nun, stood firmly today against plans to turn this smallest Communist nation in the world into a full-fledged Marxist state.

The aged but tough abbess of the 300-year-old Santa Chiara convent school is fighting the Communist-controlled Grand and General Council of the Republic of San Marino which announced it would turn the republic into a Marxist state.

Its aims included "democratization" of the government, nationalization of private property through a state lease system, eventual state ownership of industry and "closer diplomatic relations with the peoples democracies."

But then it attacked religious education. Secretary of State for Internal Affairs Domenico Morganti ordered the nuns to close their school and send their pupils to the state-run schools which teach the principles of Marxism.

She told Morganti from the hill-top abbey where she has taught since 1898 that she will carry the fight to the council itself and, if necessary, to the 15,000 inhabitants of the 30-square-mile republic.

Her school has been in operation since 1609 and it boasts that Sister Veronica's girls consistently outshine the girls of the state school in state exams to enter higher schools. Many of the wives of the top party bosses were taught by Sister Veronica.

Oak Cliff Stays Dry By 3 To 2

DALLAS (UP)—Voters in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas turned out in greater strength than they did for last year's general election and voted Wednesday to keep the area dry.

An unofficial total of 41,275 votes were cast. Of these, 24,306 were against the sale of beer by any means and 16,969 wanted it sold for off-premises consumption.

The area, comprising about one third of Dallas, saw its second beer election since last Dec. 15, when dry forces won a slim victory, hailed as their biggest win in the state.

Wet leaders charge dries are using Oak Cliff as a springboard to dry up all of Dallas, which would kill a 20 million dollars per year convention business.

Australia leads the world in wool production. Its annual clip from 131,000,000 sheep sells for about $900,000,000.

News In Brief

DYING TOO EXPENSIVE
BUENOS AIRES (UP)—City authorities launched a drive today against the high cost of dying. Mayor Eduardo Bergalli named a special commission to study the possibility of establishing an economical municipal funeral service. The cheapest funeral in Buenos Aires costs about $100. Bergalli blamed the situation on "profiteers in these activities."

SULTAN TO KING
RABAT, Morocco (UP)—Morocco's ruler Mohammed V today made official the change of his title from "Sultan of Morocco" to "King of Morocco." In a note addressed to embassies here, the Moroccan Foreign Ministry announced the change and said the state now will be known formally as the kingdom of Morocco instead of the sultanate of Morocco.

BUILD NUCLEAR STATION
LONDON (UP)—Britain's fourth—and the world's largest—nuclear power station will be built at Trawsfynydd, North Wales. It was announced today. The station will have a capacity of 400,000 to 500,000 kilowatts and is scheduled for operation in 1962.

STUCK WITH DIAMONDS
WASHINGTON (UP)—Industry diamond importers have complained to Congress they are stuck with 25 million dollars worth of surplus industrial diamonds. They said the government halted buying the stones for its reserve stockpile without warning them.

FAILS TO LAY EGG
NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UP)—Meg O'Day, a Leghorn, failed to lay an egg Wednesday for the first day since last Oct. 1. But Prof. Clarence Platt of the Rutgers University Agricultural College thinks Meg's consecutive day streak of 284 is a national and possibly a world record, he said.

GREAT LAKES ROUTE
JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Israel's major shippers, the Zim Company, inaugurated a regular route between Haifa and the North American Great Lakes today. The Zim-chartered 2,500-ton Norwegian freighter Askholm left Haifa for Chicago. It will call at Quebec, Montreal, Oswego, Buffalo, Cleveland and Detroit along the way.

DROWNS IN SAKE
TOKYO (UP)—Kiyoteru Maki, 47, drowned Wednesday in a 1,566-gallon barrel of sake (rice wine) at the Sanraku Sake Company plant in suburban Tokyo. Police said Maki fell into the barrel while trying to keep cool during Tokyo's current heat wave.

'Peace Can Be Kept'—Radford

WASHINGTON (UP)—The peace can be kept—if America keeps up its strength.

That was the assurance today from the nation's senior military men, the outgoing chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and his new replacement.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford put his views on record as he prepared to turn over the top military office to Gen. Nathan F. Twining at a White House ceremony today.

"If we keep our strength we won't have a big war," Radford told a news conference late Wednesday. Nor, he said, would there "necessarily" be small wars involving the United States.

The chance of either big or little war has "decidedly" diminished in the past four years, he said, as America built up its air-mosaic power and Allied nations increased their strength.

"I don't think the Russians are going to start a war," Radford said.

Twining, a stocky four star general under whom the Air Force became top dog in the military establishment, expressed a similar view in an interview with Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

As he moved from the office of Air Force chief of staff to the chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs, Twining said "the possibility of a major war is out" because the Russians know they cannot win as long as the United States maintains its military might.

Ample Supply Of Asiatic Flu Vaccine

WASHINGTON (UP)—Industry sources said today there is likely to be "quite a lot" of vaccine available to protect the public against Asiatic flu by Oct. 15.

These sources told the United Press it would be a "pretty good guess" as many as 25 million shots would be produced by mid-October. After that they said drug makers will be geared to turn out five million shots a week—if the public is using the vaccine.

But they pointed out the six major drug firms making the vaccine are taking what amounts to a huge gamble by investing 10 million dollars in full-scale production without assurance the public will take the shots.

They noted the government is not subsidizing production and the risk is strictly the industry's own, taken at the government's urging.

They said if the public does not start widespread use of the vaccine by October or November at the latest, the industry will have to start tapering off production.

That possibility is a major reason why the government and drug

Dallas Schools To Defy Court

DALLAS (UP)—The Dallas school board, ordered by a New Orleans federal court to integrate its schools with all due haste, voted unanimously Wednesday night to continue segregation for the coming school year.

School Board President Dr. Edwin Rippey said the decision was a result of the board's failure to see how the Supreme Court ruling against segregation and a recently-passed state law could be reconciled.

The Texas Legislature last session passed a law providing no public school can integrate unless such a move is first approved in a local election. Failure to comply would mean loss of state funds and accreditation.

"We made our decision after much difficult meditation," he said. "We found we could not reconcile the Supreme Court ruling and the Texas law in time to integrate this fall."

BAN SNAKE—Charming SYDNEY, Australia (UP)—Six students from Sydney University thought they would be right in style for the opening night performance of the musical, "The Pajama Game." The students—four boys and two girls—showed up dressed in pajamas.

Smith Resigns Airline Job

DALLAS (UP)—Gen. Robert J. Smith resigned Wednesday as president of Slick Airways and was succeeded by Delos W. Rentzel, chairman of the board of directors.

Gen. Smith was chairman of the board of the Eleven Federal Reserve Bank, president of Pioneer Aeronautical Services and Pioneer Airlines and brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve before becoming president of Slick in 1956.

Rentzel, of Oklahoma City, will also be general manager of Slick. He joined the company in 1954 as chairman of the board and served as president until the appointment of Gen. Smith.
