Bush orders shutdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House sent out government-shutdown orders Friday, saying President Bush would not sign emergency legislation passed by Congress to continue normal federal operations in the deepened budget standoff.

"The hour of reckoning is at hand," Bush said in a statement read by White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, confirming late Friday that the president would refuse to sign the legislation restoring the government's power to spend money.

"The president simply feels we ought to quit fooling around," Fitzwater said.

Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell criticized Bush for his decision.

"I believe it is inflicting needless pain and anguish on thousands of American families and I do not believe it is creating the kind of atmosphere that enhances the chances for an agreement," said Mitchell, D-Maine.

The Senate sent the measure to Bush on a voice vote Friday night, shortly after Democrats rammed it through the House by a tally of 300-113. The measure, fully financing the government through next Friday, even got some Republican support in the House.

The president has 10 days to sign or veto the bill, but Fitzwater said Bush hoped to have a budget solution in hand "before that."

"I don't know what the answer is right now," said Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass. "But I do know one thing. Chaos is not the answer."

Congress planned a Saturday session — and possible sessions throughout the three-day Columbus Day weekend — because of the fiscal standoff.

The specter of federal agencies having no funds to operate arose after the House early Friday resoundingly defeated a budget agreement worked out by Bush and congressional leaders.

As lawmakers began trying to put together new packages, they revived talk

Area officials hoping budget solution can be worked out

As far as federal air traffic, weather service and national parks officials are concerned, today was to be just another work day — until further notice.

As the U.S. government fell on its fiscal face Friday, federal officials locally said they still hoped an affable solution could materialize and normal federal operations could continue.

The White House ordered a government shutdown as of midnight today. Only necessary federal services would continue operating until a budget is approved.

The shutdown does not affect National Weather Service or Midland International Airport operations in Midland, but it could result in the weekend closing of Big Bend and Guadalupe national parks.

Marcy Blauvelt, airport administrative services supervisor, said late Friday that Federal Aviation Administration air traffic controllers would still work their shifts and airport travel would not be hindered.

New records

LONDON (AP) — The Guinness Book of Records, first published to settle pub disputes and other friendly debates, issued its 1991 edition Friday with 3,000 new records, revealing the lengths people will go to get their names in print.

Englishman Dale Lyons ran 29.9 miles in four hours and 18 minutes — balancing a fresh egg in a dessert spoon.

Students and staff at Lawrence University in Appleton, Wis., froze out the competition in the Largest Popsicle category — constructing one in February that weighed 7,080 pounds.

Proving that silliness knows no frontiers, a crew of cooks at a Pizza Hut in Singapore achieved its record by baking a pie measuring 111 feet, 3 inches in diameter.

Mrs. Bush

LOS ANGELES (AP) — First lady Barbara Bush will appear as herself in the Oct. 18 installment of ABC's daytime soap opera "All My Children."

Mrs. Bush will not be shown with other inhabitants of the show's fictional Pine Valley, but rather appears at the program's end in a public service announcement benefiting the National Bone Marrow Registry.

The first lady's brief spot complements a current story line in which the survival of a child stricken with leukemia depends on receiving a bone marrow transplant.

Jackson urges Mideast negotiations

Reverend stops at Brooks

By David Morris
Staff Writer

After downing a plate of barbecue at a Midland restaurant, the Rev. Jesse Jackson called on world leaders Friday to seek a negotiated solution to the ongoing Middle East crisis.

"The mobilization of military forces, multilateral, to stop the Iraqi expansion beyond Kuwait, was sound," he said. "Now we must use our diplomatic leverage to arrive at some political solution."

Jackson, who in September escorted a group of former American hostages home from Baghdad, praised the use of economic sanctions to take the profit out of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

"If in fact the hot war is fought, oil fields will burn...the poorest will die for the wealthiest," he said.

Although he voiced support for the American military presence in Saudi Arabia, Jackson said U.S. foreign policy has been inconsistent.

Iraqi minister accuses U.S., allies of pushing world to 'brink of war'

Associated Press

Saddam Hussein carried on talks with a top Soviet official Friday while his foreign minister accused the United States and its allies of pushing the world "to the brink of a devastating war."

U.S. Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering called Iraq's address to the General Assembly "an insult to the Iraqi people, who deserve to be told no more lies."

The United Nations speech, prepared by Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz, was uncompromising, accusing the Security Council of hypocrisy for criticizing Iraq's invasion of Kuwait while allowing Israel to continue occupying Arab lands seized in the 1967 and 1973 wars.

The speech came in response to President Bush's demand for Iraq to end its 9-week-old occupation of neighboring Kuwait.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Petrovsky later rebuked Iraq, saying, "We cannot but feel some satisfaction at the unprecedented unity in the Security Council. ... That, we think, is the promise that the United Nations can deal with this highly dangerous international crisis."

In Washington, the State Department said about 300 Americans and foreign-born family members have signed up for an evacuation flight due to leave Kuwait on Wednesday. U.S. officials estimate at least 900 Americans remain trapped in Kuwait and Iraq following Saddam's in-

Dynagen ruled to be in contempt of court

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Dynagen Inc., the Odessa subsidiary of multi-billion-dollar General Tire, on Friday was found in contempt of court and was fined $5,000 for polluting the air with "foul emissions" from its solar ponds even though the company is committed to cleaning up the ponds.

The contempt finding by Judge Tryon Lewis was a dual victory: for the Texas Air Control Board (TACB), which investigated the plant, and for south-side Odessa residents who had complained, in and out of court, that the odors had infringed on their quality of life.

"It (the penalty) is not as steep as I thought it would be," said 61-year-old Emma Robinson who, in court last week, said the odors held the stench of a "hog pen."

"We're serious about it," Mrs. Robinson said of her community concern about the ponds. "We love our community just like they (other people) love theirs. Now, maybe, we can breath."

Last Jan. 17, Lewis, who presides over the 161st Texas Judicial District Court, had ordered that Dynagen stop "permitting the emission of any air contaminant" that would be "injurious to or to adversely affeet human health or welfare."

In his findings, based on two days of testimony, Lewis found 10 instances of violations in August and September of 1990 and accessed the maximum fine: $500 per day.

Lewis found that the odors had infringed on the comfort and enjoyment of home life, which is "sacred to all of us."

Further, in noting that Dynagen had contracted with Exxon Chemical Compa-

BUSH: Lack of budget solution forces government to shut down of perhaps cutting the capital gains tax rate and raising income tax rates for the rich.

To boost pressure on budget writers to forge a spending plan for the five-day-old fiscal year, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Bush would not sign any such temporary financing bill.

"We would close down the government at midnight" Friday unless Congress completes a broad budget outline by then, Fitzwater said.

Only those services needed to "protect life and property" will be permitted in the absence of a budget, White House budget director Richard Darman wrote in a memo to agency chiefs.

With the long weekend about to start, it seemed likely that the full brunt of the shutdown would not be felt until Tuesday. But the Park Service was preparing to close the Statue of Liberty, the Washington Monument and other tourist favorites, at least for the weekend.

Most of the nation's 2.4 million federal workers were told to report on Tuesday — after Monday's federal holiday — even if only to be sent home after they arrived.

Congressional leaders of both parties met with administration officials to grope for a deficit-cutting plan that would be acceptable to lawmakers just a month shy of Election Day.

Democrats sought support for a new plan with fewer cuts for the elderly and the poor, but there were no signs that Republicans were willing to accept it.

Democrats also said they would be willing to consider cuts in the capital gains tax rate, a Republican proposal, in exchange for higher taxes for the rich. Budget negotiators had rejected the tradeoff last week.

Earlier, in a Thursday night session that stretched into Friday morning, a rebellious House overwhelmingly defeated the $500-billion compromise package of tax boosts and spending slashes that Bush and congressional leaders preferred.

Democrats hoped that by sending the emergency spending bill to Bush, the president — and not Congress — would be blamed for the closure.

But lawmakers of both parties agreed that all sides looked bad in light of the seemingly endless budget battle.

The House's 254-179 rejection of the budget was driven by unhappiness among members of all stripes. Conservatives disliked its $134 billion in taxes and as well as its spending cuts they considered overly gentle.

Liberals thought the $60 billion in Medicare reductions, including cuts in benefits, were too steep. They said the plan's higher levies on gasoline, heating oil, tobacco and alcohol would hit the poor too hard.

And members of both parties said they resented the process by which the package was written — four months of closed-door summit talks involving only congressional leaders and administration officials.

House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., said he believed that as a result, lawmakers should try to write a budget themselves, perhaps.

"We will, of course, keep in touch with the White House, but I do not anticipate ... the resumption of anything that would be called summit talks," he said.

BUDGET: State officials hoping solution found

(From 1A)

"We had heard that everybody was going to come to work tomorrow," Ms. Blauvelt said. "At this point it's going to be all systems go until we have further word."

Under Gramm-Rudman cuts which would automatically go into effect should emergency legislation fail, air traffic controllers and weather service officials would go on so-called furloughs, or shortened work weeks.

"We've always felt it could be worked out, especially when it comes to transportation," Ms. Blauvelt said of finding a way to thwart the furloughs, which could result in reduced air traffic.

A National Weather Service employee in Midland, who asked to not be identified, said operations would remain normal over the weekend.

"The weather service is in operation for the duration, no matter what else goes on," he said.

However, things were not so certain in Big Bend National Park, where parks spokesman Robert Rothe said the shutdown could mean temporarily closing the park.

"We would keep the essential services until we can clear the park," Rothe said.

Rothe said, though, that he wasn't jumping to any conclusions.

"We haven't received any instructions from higher headquarters," he said. "Until we do, I have no authority to act.

"We're all concerned. If you were turned out of a job you would be too. It's the typical human reaction to uncertainty."

Guadalupe National Park officials could not be reached for comment.

DYNAGEN: Odessa company fined $5,000 for polluting air ny to treat the offending ponds, Lewis said that Dynagen's "good faith" in trying to clean up the ponds wasn't sufficient. The ponds still put off offending odors, he said in alluding to testimony.

(From 1A)

Lewis declined an offer to tour the petrochemical plant, which is the sole supplier of synthetic rubber for the German-owned General Tire.

The judge credited lawyers on both sides, Steve Tipps and Jim Smith for Dynagen and David Preister for the Texas Attorney General's Environmental Protection Division, for doing "one of the best jobs of lawyering" and diligently and quickly presented their cases "without hammering on points."

The contempt-of-court hearing stemmed out an of air-pollution civil case which late last year was filed by Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox against Dynagen and backed up by TACB investigations.

That air-pollution case is still on docket.

Pending, too, is a class-action lawsuit lodged by about 1,000 residents in the south Odessa neighborhood across from the Dynagen plant.

Elizabeth Norman said she was "very, very proud" of the outcome of the contempt case. "After 20 years of smelling that (Dynagen pond emissions), I am happy we can breath fresh air."

But T.J. "Tim" Gorman, Dynagen plant manager, said he was "very disappointed in the decision, but we accept it.

"We are going to continue with the (pond) treatments in spite of the ruling, which we definitely accept," said Gorman, who became plant manager in mid-1990.

But, he added, "I am going to make some changes" in Dynagen's operations to preclude any other fouling of the air by decaying organic matter in the ponds, he said.

Dynagen has seven ponds, covering 163 acres, which were developed in 1968 and 1976, according to court records. The plant was opened in south Odessa in the mid-1950s.

Before Dynagen was inundated with the TACB and south-side Odessa air-pollution complaints and with lawsuits in 1989, the company had tried to control the odor with hydrogen peroxide, but that proved unsuccessful.

Later in 1989, the company hired ENSR, a Houston environmental consulting firm, to study the ponds. Subsequently, Dynagen hired Exxon Chemical, which employed chlorine dioxide to treat the ponds.

In its cleanup, Dynagen has spent more than $700,000 and is "committed" to spending at least an additional $1 million right away.

Prior to building the ponds, Dynagen was discharging its wastewater into Monahans Draw. The ponds, testimony indicated, contain 18 million gallons of sludge or "biomass" and 200 million gallons of water.

The plant, which employs 250 people, uses about 500,000 gallons of water per day in its 24-hour operation.

"This (Dynagen) management and this community," Gorman said, "must learn to work together and live together. We are all in the same community. I don't want to have to settle all our differences in the courtroom."

Dr. Neil J. Carman, TACB investigator who has been monitoring Dynagen's air pollution, said the pollution "has been happening since the '70s.

"For some reason, it's got worse year by year," he said.

But Friday's contempt ruling is a "major victory for the citizens of Odessa and for clear air in Texas," he said.

Carman faulted the Texas Water Commission for "allowing" Dynagen to accumulate 18 million gallons of "sludge on the bottom of those ponds."

Dynagen, Gorman said earlier, is exploring the feasibility of eliminating the ponds. He did not elaborate.

GULF: Saddam meets with Soviet official vasion of the oil-rich emirate.

Aziz accused America and its allies of "seeking to gain control over the oil reserves in the gulf so as to have a free hand in manipulating the needs of the world, and especially the needs of the peoples of the Third World, for this important commodity."

The speech, delivered Friday afternoon by Iraq's second-ranked U.N. representative, Sabah Talat Kadrat because Aziz was not in New York, reiterated Saddam's view that all Middle East problems — "Palestine, Lebanon, the gulf and others" be considered on the same basis and "on an equal footing."

Kadrat stalked out of the hall later with the entire Iraqi delegation when a Kuwaiti delegate, D. Razzooqi, replied that "there are no falsifications of facts similar to what we have heard from the representative of dictator Saddam Hussein."

"We are going to return to Kuwait, God willing, we will return," Razzooqi declared.

Saudi Arabia's Ambassador Samir Shihabi accused Iraq of "an unforgivable crime, a crime to shine in the history of crimes" by "swallowing up other countries through looting, through pillage, through invasion.

Noting that Kuwait had helped finance Iraq during its war with Iran in the 1980s, Shihabi said, "It seems that Kuwait was feeding a snake, a snake which would swallow up its neighbors."

Bush demanded an unconditional Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait but suggested before the world body Monday that there could be "opportunities" later to promote negotiations on Israel's occupation of the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Britain and France have made similar suggestions, which could allow Saddam a face-saving exit from the oil-rich emirate.

In Baghdad, Saddam met with an aide to Mikhail S. Gorbachev and accepted a message from the Soviet president. The official Iraqi News Agency did not disclose the contents of the message.

The news agency said Saddam and the Soviet envoy, Yevgeny Primakov, discussed the gulf crisis and stressed "the desire for peace." Soviet diplomatic sources reported that Primakov urged Saddam to cooperate with U.N. resolutions demanding the Iraqi pullout.

It was not clear if they discussed the plight of 5,000 Soviets unable to leave Iraq. About 4,500 of the Soviets in Iraq are key oil industry workers. Most are employed in new oil fields being developed by Iraq.

"The Iraqis are now dependent on these oil people," a source in Baghdad said on condition of anonymity. "If they go, no one else will come in to operate these fields."

Other Soviets in Iraq are military advisers who had been training Iraqi soldiers in the use of Soviet-made weaponry and other equipment. Moscow was Iraq's largest weapons supplier before Aug. 2, but cut trade after the invasion.

JACKSON: Reverend calls for negotiated solution

(From 1A)

He accused President Bush of citing international law in his condemnation of Iraqi aggression, but of ignoring that law in ordering the invasion of Panama.

"A new world order demands that we play the game by one set of rules," said Jackson, who made unsuccessful bids for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1984 and 1988.

On his way to Midland International Airport Friday afternoon, Jackson stopped at Brooks Barbecue, 501 E. Texas Ave., to eat dinner after spending the day visiting the federal prison in Big Spring.

He was there to interview Charles Thompson, the former Oklahoma University quarterback arrested on drug charges in 1989, for an upcoming episode of his syndicated television talk show.

Jackson said Thompson's story is a classic example of what can happen when a naive youngster is exposed to the "corruptive influence" of collegiate athletics.

Jackson accused colleges of exploiting athletes, "using cars and money and sex as a lure to attract them," and then not taking responsibility for their academic success.

Education is the country's chief weapon against crime and poverty, Jackson said, and he decried the lack of support for student financial aid programs in the new federal budget. The U.S. House of Representatives rejected that budget, a compromise between White House and congressional negotiators, early Friday morning.

Jackson said cuts in financial aid would force small schools to close for lack of students.

"It's penny smart and dollar dumb to close down schools," he said, predicting that prisons would have to be built in their place.

The middle class would have suffered under the failed budget, Jackson said, adding that Bush's political career could come unraveled along with the budget compromise.

Voters will blame Bush for the budget crisis and the savings and loan industry fiasco, Jackson predicted.

Jackson, whose latest political activities include lobbying for statehood for the District of Columbia, said it was too early for him to set his sights on Bush's job.

"Right now, my sights are set on this major barbecue."

Julius Brooks, 50, owner of the restaurant where Jackson ate, said the meal was on the house.

"That was the thrill of a lifetime," Brooks said of Jackson's unannounced visit, which lasted about an hour. "I've always heard about him and seen him on TV. I think he's a role model, he's cared about the young people, and we need more of that today."

The Rev. B.R. Ashley of Bethel Missionary Baptist Church was Jackson's local host Friday. He said he drove Jackson to Big Spring from Midland International and suggested that they stop at Mr. Brooks on the way back.

Jackson seemed pleased with the choice of restaurants.

"It's the best coconu[illegible]e between here and Green[illegible] his hometown, he said.

Restaurateur's alleged racist remarks protested

Staff Report

ODESSA — Leaders of minority organizations here staged a protest Friday in front of a restaurant whose owner is accused of making racist statements in H.G. Bissinger's book "Friday Night Lights."

Picketer Gene Collins, president of the Odessa chapter of the NAACP, urged people to boycott the Permian Basin Hamburger Co. until owner Dwaine Cox apologized for remarks quoted in the book.

"We approached him several weeks ago to give him a chance to explain the statements," Collins said, "He refused to meet with us, and I hope it's not because he feels comfortable with his statements."

Cox could not be reached for comment.

Collins said other NAACP members and League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) representatives also joined the protest. There were about 30 people at the event, held from about 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

He said he plans to ask other Odessa leaders to join the boycott.

Rebellion fails; Renegade surrenders

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A renegade colonel who led a revolt on the Philippines' second-largest island surrendered Saturday after trying to sneak out of the military garrison he seized two days earlier.

It was the seventh military rebellion smashed during President Corazon Aquino's 4½-year-old government. Mrs. Aquino had refused to negotiate with the rebels and promised to crush them.

Col. Alexander Noble surrendered unconditionally at 3 a.m. to Sen. Aquilino Pimentel on Mindanao island, said Pimentel and military Chief of Staff Gen. Renato de Villa.

Pimentel said he would bring Noble, 42, to Manila later Saturday and turn him over to the military. Government troops were rounding up Noble's followers "group by group," de Villa said.

"The small disruption in northern Mindanao is over," he said. "We have recovered the camps that they seized. We are normalizing the conditions in these two cities."

There was no immediate comment from Mrs. Aquino. Officials said she was notified shortly after Noble gave up.

Noble and his forces launched their rebellion early Thursday, seizing military camps in Butuan and Cagayan de Oro and proclaiming independence for Mindanao. Cagayan de Oro is 500 miles south of Manila.

Noble and another renegade officer, Lt. Col. Victor Erfe, tried to slip out of Camp Evangelista, headquarters of the 4th Infantry Division, before dawn Saturday but changed their minds and gave themselves up to Pimentel, de Villa said.

De Villa said Noble's followers in Butuan, 70 miles east of Cagayan de Oro, had surrendered. The report could not be immediately confirmed.

It was unclear how many of Noble's troops were already in custody. De Villa said in a radio interview that the rebels "may surrender to priests, the church or any civilian they trust."

"I am warning Noble's other forces: do not fight back because the situation is over," de Villa said. "Nothing will happen if they fight back."

He was apparently referring to mutineers in Iligan and elsewhere who declared their allegiance to Noble.

De Villa said he had also been contacted by the division commander, Brig. Gen. Miguel Sol. Sol disappeared soon after the takeover and was "temporarily" relieved.

De Villa quoted Sol as saying he had "escaped" Noble's troops and wanted to return to government control.

Pimentel, a former mayor of Cagayan de Oro, flew to the city on Friday to offer himself as a negotiator to end the crisis.

During a radio interview, Pimentel said he would accompany Noble to Manila later Saturday and said the colonel would be handed over to military authorities.

"They want me to continue their cause for Mindanao, which is for the national government to give enough attention," Pimentel said. "I don't see anything wrong with that."

De Villa said the whereabouts of one of Noble's civilian allies, Reuben Canoy, was unknown but that troops were searching for him. Canoy, a former mayor of Cagayan de Oro, is the leader of a self-styled Mindanao Independence Movement.

Canoy was seen with Noble last Thursday but then disappeared the following day. Canoy was arrested after a coup attempt last December but was released on bail.

During the December rebellion, the government claims Canoy and others proclaimed independence for Mindanao.

Military officials here suspected that Noble's goal was not independence for Mindanao but to create a diversion. They suspected that Noble wanted to force the government to deploy troops from Manila.

Robstown cobbler has outlasted his five competitors

ROBSTOWN, Texas (AP) — Ramon Maldonado's work ethic touches the soles of a good many Robstown residents.

At 8 a.m. every weekday and Saturdays, Maldonado usually arrives at the Main Shoe Shop to find people already waiting with shoes in hand that they want repaired. This omen of a long, busy day does not perturb Robstown's only shoe repairman.

"I don't believe in just being lazy around the house," said the 62-year-old, as he slipped on his denim work apron. "As long as my health is good, I'm going to keep working."

When Maldonado opened his first Main Street shop in 1956, he was the sixth repairman cobbler to try his fortune in the then-bustling town, he recalled while counting and naming the others. Customers were plentiful, as many knew the former gas-station attendant and Robstown native. And with the extra attention he had been taught to give to each pair of shoes or boots brought into his shop, Maldonado earned more patrons.

"Every extra bit you do is appreciated," Maldonado said, showing how he had polished high-heel pumps brought in by a Corpus Christi woman. "Others (shoe repairmen), they want to charge" for the polishing or cleaning that Maldonado includes with every repair. "I guess it's a good idea," he said. "I've never been without shoes to repair."

Today, having outlasted his five competitors, Maldonado's store is a block away from and larger than the previous one, which he operated until 1974.

Antique-looking stitcher and patcher machines take up much of the space in his work area, but most of the whirring noises in the shop come from the finisher, the machine that whittles new rubber taps down to the size of the shoe.

A dye machine still full of black tint from coloring a pair of white satin pumps is perched on a counter. Pointing to it, Maldonado says the device is almost obsolete.

Although the sturdy grandfather does not seem too fearful of finding himself obsolete, shoe manufacturers are not helping any, he said.

> 'Every extra bit you do is appreciated.'
> Ramon Maldonado, Robstown cobbler

When Maldonado first learned the cobbler's craft, three-inch spikes were attached to taps in pumps and required a shoe repairman to replace them. Pumps are now made with a metal tube in the heel into which taps with a 3/4-inch spike are easily inserted or pulled out, Maldonado said, demonstrating with a pair of modern shoes. To add insult to injury, the pumps also come with spare taps.

"Little by little, (shoe manufacturers) are taking away my business, but some people don't know you can remove them so they bring them to me," Maldonado said with a chuckle.

The shoe-repair trade was not Maldonado's first career choice, however. While a teen-ager, Maldonado he began working in what he expected would be his livelihood as a gas-station attendant.

Mexico cuts back on Central American immigrants

TAPACHULA, Mexico (AP) — As Mexico draws closer to its powerful northern neighbor, it is cracking down on Central Americans migrating through its territory to trade poverty, war and repression for jobs in the United States.

The number of Central Americans deported from Mexico has skyrocketed from 14,000 in 1988 to 80,000 in the first six months of 1990.

The tough new policy has delighted U.S. immigration officials but in Mexico it has provoked criticism and fears that Mexico might turn next on its own citizens sneaking into the United States.

It has made the long, dangerous journey northward even worse for people fleeing countries like El Salvador and Guatemala, together Latin America's largest source of refugees.

"Mexico is not the easy springboard it once was into the United States," said Duke Austin, a spokesman for the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Washington.

Central Americans are preyed upon by smugglers and thieves in Mexico. They are extorted by crooked immigration officials and deported by honest ones.

But still they come — by the thousands.

"They know there is a risk. But it's nothing compared to the risks they run in their own countries," said Jose Luis Perez Canchola of the Center for Migrant Investigations and Studies in Tijuana.

"They don't leave (Central America) because Mexico has good police or bad police. They leave because they are driven to it."

Between 300,000 and 400,000 Central Americans are estimated to be in Mexico at any one time — often working at menial jobs to earn money for the final leg of the journey to the United States.

The departure point for many is Tecun Uman, Guatemala, just across the border from Tapachula in Chiapas, Mexico's southernmost state.

The town square is the place where the migrants meet "polleros" or "coyotes," smugglers of human beings. It is a place to change your money, change your identity, maybe change your life.

Sabino Gonzalez is a part-time preacher and full-time money-changer who haunts the square, calculator in one hand, a fistful of cash in the other. He also acts as a go-between.

"This guy is good, one of the best," he says, introducing a pollero who says his name is Jose Manuel Sanchez.

Sanchez names his price: $1,000 U.S. from Tecun Uman to Tijuana, a journey of nearly 2,000 miles bracketed by the Rio Suchiate on Mexico's southern border and the Rio Grande on the north.

The journey begins at dawn on the river bank.

Former Lincoln Savings & Loan chief Charles Keating talks Friday with his attorney just before entering his plea to a 42-count fraud indictment.

To charges, Keating says he's 'absolutely' innocent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Keating and three co-defendants pleaded innocent Friday to charges of bilking investors in American Continental Corp. bonds sold through Lincoln Savings & Loan.

Keating answered, "Absolutely not guilty," when a prosecutor asked for his plea.

Superior Court Judge Lance Ito was assigned to the case and a hearing was scheduled for Oct. 15 to discuss motions.

Lawyers indicated they would ask for a preliminary hearing to determine if there is sufficient evidence to hold the defendants for trial.

Keating, 66, was chairman of Phoenix-based American Continental, which owned the failed Lincoln, based in Irvine. Experts estimate the bailout cost will reach $2 billion.

Keating has been in jail on $5 million bail since he surrendered to face the 42-count indictment on Sept. 18. His attorneys say he is broke and have argued unsuccessfully twice for bail reduction to $500,000.

Co-defendants Ray C. Fidel, Robin S. Symes and Judy Wischer, officers of Lincoln and American Continental, are free on bail.

Prosecutors say nearly 17,500 bondholders lost a total of $250 million on American Continental Corp. junk bonds, most of which were sold at Lincoln branches in California.

Mapplethorpe trial ends in acquittal

NATION

CINCINNATI (AP) — An art gallery and its director were acquitted Friday of obscenity charges by a jury that rejected prosecution claims that sexually graphic photos by Robert Mapplethorpe lacked artistic value.

The two-week obscenity trial was the nation's first of an art gallery.

"What a great day!" gallery director Dennis Barrie told reporters.

The jury of four men and four women returned the verdicts after slightly more than two hours.

Barrie smiled slightly as a clerk read the verdict. When the clerk finished, Barrie smiled broadly, said "All right!" turned in his chair and hugged his attorney, H. Louis Sirkin.

Spectators in the Hamilton County Municipal Court room shouted and applauded. The jurors were ushered out of the courtroom.

Judge David Albanese expelled gallery board Chairman Roger Ach and Robert Allen, whose video production company sponsored the exhibit, when they jumped out of their seats to hug Barrie.

The jury cleared the Contemporary Art Center and Barrie of misdemeanor charges of pandering obscenity and using children in nudity-related material. Barrie could have been sentenced to one year in jail and fined $2,000, and the gallery fined $10,000, if convicted on both counts.

"Obviously, this is a very emotional moment. It's been a very hard time for me," Barrie said. "We did something very important for this city. We stood up for the First Amendment.

"This is a major battle fought here today. It's a major battle for the arts and for freedom of expression in America."

However, the Rev. Donald E. Wildmon, whose American Family Association in Tupelo, Miss., has fought National Endowment for the Arts funding for exhibits such as Mapplethorpe's, said: "This is not a landmark, Pearl Harbor decision. This was just another obscenity trial. ...

"I think this really puts the NEA issue right back in the political arena where it belongs."

In closing arguments, defense attorneys contended there was no basis for the charges of using children in nudity-related material since the mothers of the children gave their consent. The prosecution contended that consent was not in writing when the exhibit opened.

The defense also noted the U.S. Supreme Court's three-pronged test of obscenity: Material must appeal to a prurient interest in sex, be patently offensive according to contemporary community standards and must lack redeeming artistic, scientific or political value.

"The jury has made its decision. We accept it," said Frank Prouty, assistant city prosecutor.

During closing arguments, Prouty told jury members it was up to them to decide the artistic merit of the photographs.

"Are these Van Goghs, these five pictures?," he asked.

He told the jury to judge what they considered to be art using contemporary community standards, not the standards of art experts who testified for the defense.

Prouty recited the fable of the vain emperor who, although naked, believed he was fully clothed because his subjects praised his imaginary clothing.

"The art world wants to tell you these are art. And the townspeople sat there and watched the emperor walk down the street without any clothes on, but yet all his advisers told him 'You have a beautiful coat,' because nobody wanted to come out and tell them that it's not art.

"You are the townspeople. Don't let somebody from outside come in and say it is art. You say whether these five pictures are like the emperor without any clothes on."

Sirkin, Barrie's attorney, said the five photos no doubt offended some people but had serious artistic merit.

He quoted from a speech by John Kennedy:

"Society must set the artist free to follow his vision, wherever it takes him. We must never forget that art is not a form of propaganda. It is a form of truth. The highest duty of the writer, the composer, the artist, is to remain true to himself."

"That's exactly what Dennis Barrie did," Sirkin said. "He wanted to share with this community a beauty that he felt was shown by an artist, Mr. Mapplethorpe."

The exhibit drew 81,000 people during its seven-week run last spring, an attendance record for an art exhibit in Cincinnati. It closed Friday in Boston.

BBQ industry issued ultimatum

Michael Fleeman

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP) — Air quality officials Friday ordered makers of charcoal lighter fluid to cook up a cleaner-burning product by 1992 or face a ban on barbecuers' favorite fuel.

The Air Quality Management District (AQMD), trying to clean up the skies over the Los Angeles area, took on a summer way of life for 2 million Californians by voting 10-1 to impose strict standards on lighter fluid and self-starting charcoal briquettes.

Experts say lighter fluids contribute more harmful emissions than many people would think — an estimated 2 tons per day of smog-forming hydrocarbon emissions. That's a little more than the average oil refinery belches into the air each day.

On a hot summer day, fluids can emit up to 4 tons of emissions.

Board member Mike Antonovich, the only one to oppose the plan, called it a waste of time and said it placed an unfair burden on store owners. He said backyard chefs could get around the plan by buying lighter fluid at stores outside of the air quality district, which covers four counties around Los Angeles.

The rule doesn't set any penalties for using the lighter fluid, just for selling it, he said.

"Instead of aiming our big guns at the automobiles ... we're nuking the barbecue," Antonovich said.

The barbecue industry opposed the plan and asked for more time to reformulate its products. Lighter fluid sales amount to more than $5 million in Southern California every year.

"Industry is willing, able and ready to reformulate," said Pat Meehan of the Barbecue Industry Association. "We're concerned about air quality, too."

Most members of the Naperville, Ill.-based association make charcoal briquettes and fluid rather than electric or other lighters.

While the board considered the plan inside, the AQMD staff cooked hot dogs and stuffed bell peppers outside. The charcoal was lighted by wood chips, newspapers and electric prods — methods officials say are cleaner than lighter fluids.

Inside the hearing room industry representatives illustrated their presentation with slides showing cans of lighter fluid, different sizes of barbecues and clumps of charcoal briquettes.

Speakers included a condominium owner who said his complex had banned lighter fluids because elderly residents were getting ill and a campground operator who urged the board to continue selling lighter fluids because other methods, he said, were dangerous.

The strict lighter fluid rules are the latest in a series of tough measures the AQMD has taken to clean Southern California skies.

So far this year the district's four-county area has recorded 35 first-stage smog alerts — the least serious of three levels of alert, when children, the elderly and those with respiratory diseases are warned to avoid strenuous activity. The district covers Los Angeles, Riverside, Orange and western San Bernardino counties.

President's men ambushed Bush

N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — By the day of the budget vote, it was already glaringly apparent to some White House officials and Republican strategists that the bad-cop, bad-cop routine of John H. Sununu and Richard G. Darman was not working.

"The people in the White House did not serve the president well on this," said Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., who crossed swords with Darman on Monday and voted against the president's budget deal with Congress on Thursday. "They antagonized so many Republicans, it was awful."

The chief of staff and budget director pride themselves on their reputation around the White House as "raging bulls" who snort and paw the earth to get their way on domestic policy and budget matters. But the routine that allows them to dominate the White House backfired this week on Capitol Hill, contributing to the humiliation that George Bush suffered at the hands of his own party early Friday morning.

By Friday, there was a loud chorus of complaints in Washington that the two men, who both glory in a haughty intellectualism and an open disdain for Congress, had badly miscalculated the temper of House Republicans, the threshold for bully-lobbying and the willingness of members of Congress to play follow the leader.

Capitol Hill denizens said that they had not seen so much fury aimed at the White House in many years.

"They're being referred to up here as Haldeman and Ehrlichman," said Shuster, alluding to President Richard Nixon's vengeful and high-handed aides, Bob Haldeman and John Ehrlichman. "In the beginning, I felt badly about the way I voted. In the end, it didn't bother me a bit because of those guys."

When Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., made a scathing speech on the House floor late Thursday night about unnamed "unelected officials" who were ruining the budget process, he got a standing ovation on both sides of the aisle.

Publicly, White House officials were supportive of Sununu and Darman, noting that they were simply trying to complete months of difficult and delicate negotiations. But privately, some Bush officials, watching the White House desperately regrouping to win back Republicans, agreed that the mood between the White House and House Republicans had been strained by Sununu and Darman's "anti-Dale Carnegie approach."

As Sununu and Darman rushed back over to Congress Friday to court the House Republicans they had tried to coerce just the day before — accompanied by the more popular defense secretary and former Republican Whip, Richard Cheney — jokes circulated about the failure of the president's men to push their deal through.

Some members were referring to Sununu, Darman and Nicholas Brady, the treasury secretary who helped lobby, as "The Three Stooges," for their mistaken assumption that the House members would simply fall into line with the leaders' deal, after being excluded until the last-minute.

Others members were trading a joke that was illustrative of their bitterness over the White House's failure to include them or listen to their concerns: "What's the difference between Mousketeers and Summiteers? Mousketeers have ears."

One Democratic consultant, Robert Squier, said: "Sununu believes he's at the top of a chain of command that starts at the White House and goes to Congress, that the White House gives the orders and Congress will follow. He's never gotten used to the fact that this is not the New Hampshire Legislature and that he's not the governor any more."

At an unusually animated and tense Cabinet Meeting Friday, several Cabinet members were clearly irritated with Sununu and Darman, fretting that the two men were too eager for revenge against Rep. Newt Gingrich, the Republican who led the revolt away from the bipartisan deal, and too committed to the cloistered bipartisan budget process.

Federal government closed 3 times in past decade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government was forced to shut down temporarily three times in the past decade due to squabbles between the administration and Congress over the budget.

—The government closed briefly in November 1981 when an estimated 400,000 employees were dismissed at midday after President Reagan vetoed an emergency money bill.

—On October 4, 1984, about 500,000 government workers were sent home by Congress' failure to approve an appropriations bill.

But they were told to be back at their desks the next day after the Senate late in the day adopted an emergency spending measure.

—On October 16, 1986, the government sent 500,000 non-essential employees home at midday, but Congress later in the day passed an appropriations bill acceptable to Reagan and workers were ordered to report on their next shift.

Congress, as it had done in 1981 and 1984, passed a resolution ordering that employees furloughed get their regular salaries anyway.

Midland High's preparations for Abilene High middle linebacker Anwar Abor worked like a charm, as the Bulldog offensive line paved the way for a 214-yard night from tailback James Lee and MHS dominated its 1990 homecoming game Friday night at Memorial Stadium, 37-14.

The win makes MHS 4-1 overall and 1-1 in District 4-5A play, while AHS fell to 1-4 and 1-1.

"We were worried about the way they stacked their linebacker over the guards, so we worked all week on getting the center to take the lineman over the guard, and the play-side guard taking the linebacker," said Joe Phillips, MHS' 225-pound senior guard.

The strategy worked to perfection as Abor, touted as a major college prospect with his 221-pound frame, was conspicuously absent from most plays. Bulldog guard Mark Monroe put it more succinctly though. When asked about Abor, he simply said "who?"

But Abor was not the only Eagle to make his presence in Lee's path short-lived, as the 170-pounder ran around and through tackles on 27 carries for his double century yardage and two touchdowns behind Phillips, Monroe, center Marcus Heredia, and tackles Mike Farris and Brian Booker.

"There's nothing better when you're getting down in your stance than knowing the James is going to be carrying the ball. That's one of the best feelings in the world, because you know if you make your block he could score," Phillips said.

The low-key Lee, however, didn't even know how many yards he had until after the game.

"It feels pretty good," he said of his first-ever 200-yard game that gave him 731 yards for the season. "The offensive line did a fantastic job. I figured I had a pretty high yardage total, but I wasn't even sure until after the game."

But if Lee would not blow his own

Greenwood perfect 5-0 in non-district play

GREENWOOD — The Greenwood Rangers are getting into a rut. But nobody in eastern Midland County is complaining.

Not only did Coach Bob Purser's team score 28 points for the second straight week, but they knocked off a previously undefeated team again with a 28-14 win over Lamesa in non-district football action Friday.

This year marks the first time that Greenwood, 5-0, has been undefeated going into district play since moving into Class 3A five years ago. The Rangers open District 6-3A action next Friday at Reagan County.

Lamesa outgained the hosts, 265-241, but the Golden Tornadoes also lost three fumbles in their own territory, all of which set up Ranger touchdowns.

Fullback-linebacker Joe Kilgore was a two-way standout for Greenwood, leading all rushers with 118 yards on 15 carries, catching a 28-yard touchdown pass from Cody Mebane in the final minutes to finish off the Tors once and for all — and coming up with a big tackle for a loss late in the Rebels' infantry marches to 42-0 win over Cooper

■ Midland Lee rushed for 458 yards en route to a blowout over Abilene Cooper that makes the Rebs 2-0 in District 4-5A.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

ABILENE — When Midland Lee's infantry attack returns to form, the scoreboard has a tendency to explode like a Fourth of July celebration. Abilene Cooper felt the sting of that truth here Friday night at Shotwell Stadium as Lee rolled to a 42-0 District 4-5A victory.

Some will say it couldn't have come at a better time since Odessa Permian and a sellout throng at Memorial Stadium awaits next week.

Up until now, Lee's offense has sputtered and been less than impressive, leaving Lee offensive coordinator Van Tom Whatley saying before the Cooper game, "I just hope we look good this week. I'm tired of the sloppy play."

Well, he got his wish even if he had to wait a while for it to happen. In the end, the Rebels had 458 yards rushing and another 39 passing. Lee also got four touchdowns from Reggie Webb, who crashed the 100-yard barrier for the second week in a row.

"We sure got started slowly, but I think we have turned the corner with the offense," said Webb. "I'm glad I got another 100 yards, but I should be because I'm running behind the big guys. We're getting into the swing."

Cooper dominated the first quarter behind the passing arm of 6-4 senior quarterback Mike Schriever, who had 109 passing yards in the first half.

In fact, Schriever had the Cougars moving goalward in the first period as Cooper set up its lair at the Lee 14-yard line. But Lee's Henry Stewart intercepted a Schriever pass at the goal line to thwart the bid and it was at that point the game turned to the Rebels.

Lee marched 94 yards in one minute and 35 seconds as Reggie Webb gave Lee a 7-0 lead on the first play of the second period with an 11-yard run. Jovan Tellez had two runs of 25 yards in the quick drive and Webb had another run of 29 yards.

The Rebels came back with a 98-yard drive in seven plays for a 14-0 lead as Derrick Turner capped the drive with a 29-yard run up the Cooper gut. Reserve quarterback Kyle Sullivan completed his first pass of the season during the drive, a 37-yard strike to Kyle Sullivan and Brett Sullivan had a 27-yard run in the drive of Sullivans.

Lee then scored on its third consecutive possession, marching 47 yards in four plays with Webb striking for the final three. Turner set up the score with a 35-yard run on the first play of the drive. Lee went for two points as Turner hit Kyle Sullivan for the conversion and a 22-0 half time lead.

For the first time this year, it looked like the old Rebel Wishbone attack, moving at will against what was the No. 2 ranked defense in the district going into the game. Lee had five backs with 27 or more yards rushing in the first half alone, amassing 268 ground yards.

Webb got another TD of 27 yards in the third period and one of 18 in the fourth. Rene Cuellar roamed for a 44-yard score, his second in two weeks, to cap the scoring.

But it was the shutout that had Lee head coach Earl Miller jumping.

"Guys, I didn't think it was ever going to see this happen this year, but I enjoyed the heck out of it," said Miller. "I enjoyed the shutout and the five interceptions."

Lee gave up over 200 yards passing for the second week in a row, but Cooper's Air Force threw 41 times. Defensive stalwarts Mike Lambert and Enrico Columbus each had two interceptions while Stewart had the other. Stewart's interception seemed to be the one that ignited the motor to the Lee offense.

"It's about time we had a shutout," said Columbus, who was still thinking a bit about last week. "I wanted that interception last week against Midland High that went for a touchdown. These two didn't quite make up for the one that got away."

Lee has now evened it series with Cooper at 14-14-2 and has Permian on the mind next. The Rebels are now 2-0 in district play and 4-1 on the season, winning four in a row.

Reds draw even, thanks to Bucs' miscues

Associated Press

CINCINNATI — Because the Pittsburgh Pirates and Barry Bonds drew even in outfield mistakes, the Cincinnati Reds and Paul O'Neill evened the National League playoffs on Friday.

NLCS

Bonds and Cincinnati's Eric Davis are the only major leaguers ever to hit 30 homers and steal 50 bases in a season. Now they also share the ignominy of blowing fly balls in the National League playoffs.

This time, Bonds lost Paul O'Neill's fly ball to left and the Cincinnati Reds beat the Pirates 2-1 to even the playoffs 1-1.

"I thought I hit it real well," O'Neill said. "It was tough out there. Eric came in and said to run everything out because it was tough to see."

Bonds turned O'Neill's fifth-inning fly ball into a tie-breaking double. O'Neill had two RBIs and also made a great throw to kill a rally.

"The sun was tough out there," Bonds said. "I never saw it. I lost it as soon as it went off the bat.

"You can't turn your back on the ball or your lost. These 3 o'clock games are going to be tough for Eric and me."

On Thursday night, Davis turned Andy Van Slyke's high fly into an RBI double in the seventh inning for a 4-3 Pirates victory.

Davis, a Gold Glove winner in center field, moved to left because of sore knees.

Cincinnati's Chris Sabo makes a stab at a Gary Redus line drive in the first inning of the National League Championship Series second game Friday.

"It was very tough to see fly balls today," Davis said. "But all the fans see is you missing the ball."

The NL playoffs take a two-day break before resuming Monday at Pittsburgh. Danny Jackson (6-6) is scheduled to start for the Reds against Zane Smith (12-9).

Game 2 starters Doug Drabek and Tom Browning struggled early, but managed to get the job done. Browning gave up one run and six hits in six innings before Rob Dibble relieved to start the seventh. Randy Myers got the last five outs for the save. He has allowed but one hit in 6 1-3 innings against the Pirates this season.

"Tom pitched a great game today," Manager Lou Piniella said. "He has struggled of late but he's a professional."

Drabek surrendered five hits in eight innings.

"Doug was a little wild in the first inning," Manager Jim Leyland said. "But he recovered and did what we wanted. He kept us in the game."

The Reds were 0-6 against the Pirates during the regular season in games in which Dibble, Myers and Norm Charlton didn't appear.

"They come in aggressive," Leyland said. "You want to get the lead and stay away from the Nasty Boys."

Barry Larkin singled with one out in the fifth and was forced at second by Herm Winningham. Winningham stole second and scored when Bonds couldn't make a play on O'Neill's high fly into the sun in left field.

Bonds initially froze, broke to his right and then back to his left. But the ball hit the base of the wall and Winningham scored easily from second.

"This is how baseball is supposed to be played," Winningham said. "We were all on the edge of our seats in the dugout the entire game."

The victory snapped the Pirates' five-game winning streak at Riverfront Stadium. During the regular season, the Reds were 0-6 against Pittsburgh when scoring three runs or less.

The Pirates threatened in the sixth when Van Slyke and Bobby Bonilla led off with singles. Bonds hit a medium fly ball to right and O'Neill's strike to third base nailed Van Slyke, who was attempting to tag up. Browning then fanned R.J. Reynolds.

"A play like that is just as important as an RBI," O'Neill said. "Something like that can change a game."

Browning gave up 18 homers at Riverfront Stadium this season and only six on the road.

Gary Redus and Jay Bell led off the game with singles but Browning came back to get Van Slyke, Bonilla and Bonds. Browning, 15-9 overall, was only 8-8 at home this season with a 4.64 earned-run average.

Drabek, a 22-game winner, couldn't find the plate in the bottom of the first and was fortunate to escape with the Reds scoring only one run.

Larkin led off with a walk, stole second and moved to third when Winningham followed with a single. O'Neill's bloop single just past Lind's glove at second scored Larkin and moved Winningham to second with none out. But Drabek struck out Davis and, after an intentional walk to Hal Morris, got Chris Sabo to hit into a force play at the plate and then fanned Joe Oliver.

Clemens-Stewart: The classic matchup

Associated Press

ALCS

BOSTON — Koufax vs. Marichal. Palmer vs. Hunter. Gibson vs. Drysdale.

There was a time when great games were defined by great pitchers. So what ever happened to those days of duels?

They're gone, lost in the era of more relievers, more injuries and more money. All except for one. Stewart vs. Clemens.

Saturday night, they meet again in Game 1 of the American League playoffs.

Dave Stewart, the soul of the Oakland Athletics. Roger Clemens, the blood of the Boston Red Sox. They may not hang out together during the off-season, but there's a reason they respect each other — they are baseball's top two winners in the past five years.

"There is a tension," Stewart said Friday as the A's worked out at Fenway Park. "If we're on the field at the same time, I don't look at him and he doesn't look at me. If we're close enough to talk, we'll speak. But I don't think either one of us goes out of our way to have a conversation."

Ah, an edge. Even better to spice it up.

Here's why: since joining Oakland in mid-1986, Stewart is 6-0 in head-to-head meetings with Clemens, including three victories this year. Plus, Stewart has won 20 games for four straight seasons.

But Clemens has shut out Stewart in the race for recognition. He's won two Cy Young Awards and could make it three when the voting is announced next month; Stewart has none, and griped in 1987 after losing it to his nemesis.

"To me, Dave Stewart is the best pitcher in baseball and has been," A's pitching coach Dave Duncan said. "That's because I've seen every game he's pitched. I don't think it's fair for me to evaluate Roger Clemens, seeing him only three or four times.

"I do know one thing, though, I'd like to see how Dave Stewart would be perceived by the public if he pitched for Boston or the Yankees and was in a position to be appreciated the way Roger Clemens is."

Clemens did not comment about Stewart on Friday, sticking to his policy of not talking on the day before he starts. The rest of the Red Sox already know enough about the Oakland ace.

"We've had our chances against Stewart, especially early," Boston manager Joe Morgan said. "We've had men on base countless times and he keeps getting out of it."

No matter, it will again be interesting, like the old days.

"You don't see those great pitching matchups you used to," A's general manager Sandy Alderson said, sitting in the Oakland dugout dressed in a sweatshirt, jeans and sneakers.

"You might have Gooden versus Hershiser these days and the quality is there, but the history isn't," he said. "This should be fun."

MC's men netters sweep singles play at Rolex tourney

Staff Report

Rolex Tennis

Midland College is assured of bringing home a men's championship in the 1990 Rolex ITCA Southwest Junior College Tennis Championships Saturday when play continues at the MC Courts.

In Friday's early rounds, MC's Greg Muller, David Draper, Toby Curtis and Jerod White all swept past their competition. Muller, Draper and Curtis are seeded Nos. 1, 2 and 4; White is unseeded in the tournament.

Two MC men's doubles teams — Muller-White and Draper-Curtis will compete in semifinal action today as well.

The MC men not only won, but dominated their competition. Muller, Curtis and Draper all won both of their matches in straight sets with only the unseeded White having to go three sets — against OC's Will Green in quarterfinal action — to advance to the semis.

The MC women have only one hope in singles action: Top seeded Miriam Berthe defeated Odessa College's Kelly Marshall and Tricia Holloway in the first two rounds to advance to semifinal action. Berthe will meet OC's Laura Worley Saturday at 8:30 a.m. for the right to advance to the championship.

In the women's lower bracket, Cooke County's Saiko Matsuda meets teammate Jenny del Valle in the other semifinal.

MC's Toni Yates and Caroline Reynolds lost in the early rounds.

MC's Janneke Garos, the tournament's No. 2 singles seed, withdrew before play began Friday for unspecified reasons.

Garos, however, will team with Berthe in semifinal doubles action Saturday at 2 p.m. after a love-love skunking of Cooke County's Maria Garcia-Linda Hellstrom Friday.

Garos-Berthe meet Cooke County's Cora Biurra and Saiko Matsuda in the semi match.

MC's women's doubles team of Reynolds-Yates, despite losing out in the singles division, defeated OC's Jennifer Winters and Kathryn Norton 7-6, 6-2, and will face Cooke County's del Valle-Fernandez in semifinal action today at 2 p.m.

Singles champions advance to the Rolex Small College Singles Championships in Corpus Christi Oct. 17. Winners from the junior college, NCAA Division II, Division III and NAIA will play for the small college championship in Corpus Christi with the winner advancing to the Rolex National Indoor Collegiate championship at Minneapolis in February.

DOGS: MHS evens district slate to 1-1 with win horn, AHS head coach Larry Pullin was more than ready to step up to the mouthpiece.

"James Lee is a good running back and they're pretty big up front. They controlled us and Lee killed us," Pullin said.

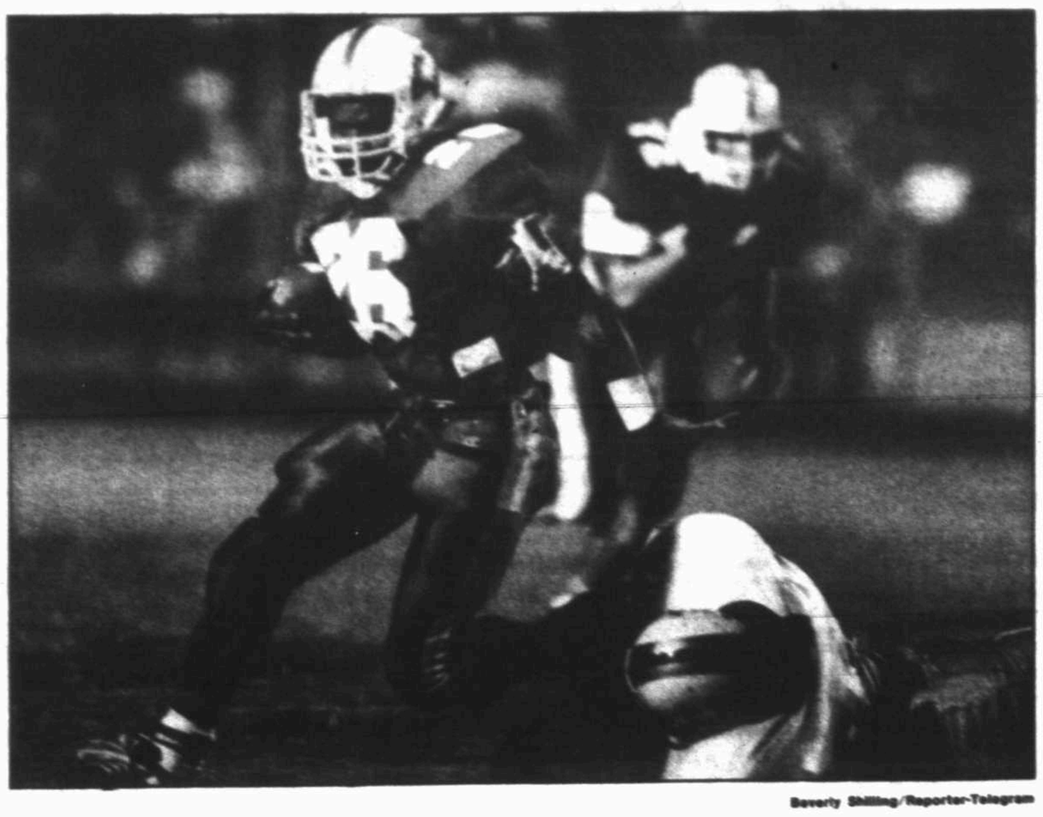
Actually, the game began with the Eagles looking to the depths of the playbook for the first touchdown of the game. Pullin called the "fumble-rooskie," the play of Bum Phillips fame where the quarterback lays the ball on the ground and another offensive player picks it up.

AHS running back Doug Sims scooped the ball up on the Eagles' second play from scrimmage in the first quarter, and used his regional-qualifying track speed to dash 76 yards to the end zone. But that was about all the glory AHS had on the Memorial Stadium turf Friday.

MHS came right back with an 11-play, 80-yard drive that featured Lee on nine of the plays, and scored when junior Thomas Acrey went around the left side for a nine-yard touchdown. The Bulldog PAT kick from David Worley failed, though, leaving AHS with a 7-6 lead with 4:30 left in the first period.

It did not take MHS long to alleviate that situation, however. After the Bulldog defense stopped AHS at its own 40 on the following possession, the snap from center sailed over the head of Eagle punter Barry Reese and he went down at his own 11, where MHS took over.

Two plays later, the Bulldogs took the lead for good on Brent Noisette's two-yard TD run with :54 left in the quarter that made the score 12-7 after a second errant point-after kick.



Beverly Shilling/Reporter-Telegram

Midland High's hot property, tailback James Lee, rushed for 214 yards Friday night.

AHS came back, though, and drove from its own 46 to the MHS two-yard line. But the 'Dog defense stiffened and Worley made amends for himself by hauling Eric Gilmore down for a 13 yard loss on a fake field goal.

Then the 'Dogs made the game take on the appearance of a blow-out, as MHS drove 84 yards and scored on a 13-yard pass from Jesse Arenivas to Matt Jones. Arenivas, who was 9-of-6 passing for 129 yards, connected with Noisette for the two point conversion to make the tally 20-7. Worley added a 46-yard field goal with one second left in the second period to make the half time score 23-7.

Even though AHS got another TD in the second half, it was sandwiched between a pair of Lee scores to make any talk of an Eagle comeback moot.

Permian turns away Alamogordo, 35-12

Staff Report

ODESSA — The Odessa Permian Panthers again shrugged their shoulders in the face of adversity Friday, downing New Mexico's top-rated Class 5A team, Alamogordo, 35-12.

The Panthers had five touchdown runs from five different backs and picked up 410 total offensive yards en route to the victory.

The Permian controversy off the field continues to take bizarre turns with law suits being filed and citizens picketing an Odessa business over comments made by the proprietor in the book "Friday Night Lights."

But back on the field, Mojo moved its record to 4-1 with the overwhelming offensive display. Alamogordo, though, was not to be taken lightly as the Tigers amassed 306 ground yardage and 95 more through the air.

Permian's Malcolm Hamilton and Josh Sumner had five and seven yard scoring runs in the first to take a 14-6 win after the first 12 minutes.

Alamogordo got its first score on a two yard amble by Eric Brooks.

Permian led 21-6 at the half after Joby Teegarden scored on a 38 yard run.

The Panthers added their final two scores in the second half on one yard runs by quarterback Clint Stewart and running back Lonnie Hill.

As for offensive fireworks, that was left to Alamogordo as quarterback Trini Gonzales flung a 53 yard scoring strike to Don Harrell.

Sumner led all rushers with 155 yards on 15 carries; Permian's Timmy Ross, who, despite not scoring, finished with nine trots for 114 yards.

The Panthers travel to Memorial Stadium for the annual Permian-Midland Lee matchup next Friday.

Morenz's aerial heroics overshadowed by OHS win

Staff Report

SAN ANGELO — Odessa High scored with less than two minutes remaining to squeak out a 24-22 vital victory over the San Angelo Central Bobcats Friday night — a win that negated an awe inspiring night of passing by Bobcat quarterback Shea Morenz.

Morenz completed 18-of-34 for an almost unheard of 331 yards and two touchdowns in the losing effort. San Angelo had a chance to win but missed a long field goal attempt with under a minute left on the clock.

The win puts OHS at the .500 mark District 4-5A play with another important contest coming up Friday night against Midland High. San Angelo falls to 0-1 in after their first district game.

In addition to the 331 yards in the air, the 'Cats rushed for 114 for a total of 445.

OHS had 352 rushing yards and 32 passing for 383 total.

Fred Givens scored twice for the Bronchos on runs of seven and one yard; brother Brad had another TD run of seven yards for the Bronchs.

Bron Smith capped the scoring for OHS with an eight yard trot in the first quarter.

Morenz, who ran for an 11 yard score, also had touchdown passes of 18 and 24 yards to Damon Carroll.

Mustangs hang on for win over Stockton

By Tom Ruiz

MRT Correspondent

ANDREWS — The District 3-4A opener between Andrews and Ft. Stockton was a story of two halves. The Mustangs owned the first 24 minutes and as a result the game, 15-2, in the District 3-4A opener for both teams here Friday.

Mustang tailbacks Chris Garrett and Zach Miller rushed for 62 and 51 yards respectively in the first half, but the Panther defense corraled them in the second half, by holding the duo to 34 combined yards.

It was the Andrews ground attack that gave the Mustangs their first score. However, a spectacular 34-yard punt return gave Andrews field position at the Stockton 44.

On the drive it was Garrett and Miller that grinded out most of the 44 yards. Twelve plays and 5:04 later, quarterback Kevin Nichols sneaked in from two yards out and a 7-0 lead.

Early in the second period, Fort Stockton came up with its best defensive series of the game, which was set up by a 35 yard punt that pinned Andrews at its 32.

Two huge defensive plays led by defensive end Francisco Ramirez had Andrews at its 9.

The Panthers' hard work paid off because on fourth and long, the snap to Andrews punter Josh Lujan was low. Instead of risking a blocked punt, Lujan retreated to the endzone for the Panthers' lone score.

But it was the Andrews defense that kept Stockton on their side of the 50 yard line.

The Panthers' five possessions of the half went like this, punt, punt, punt, fumble and a failed fourth down play. Andrews held the ball for more than two-thirds of the first half.

Andrews also scored once before before the end of the half going 59 yards on 11 plays in an carbon copy of the first period drive. Garrett finally skipped in from two yards out for a 15-2 lead at intermission.

That was the first half.

Ft. Stockton coach Mel Gierhart commented that he was proud of the way his team played in the second half. "Our kids refused to give up. The defense shut them down, and our offense were two plays away from pulling it out."

The Panthers were indeed a different bunch in the latter 24 minutes. Garrett and Miller were shut down and FS pitched camp four of five times on Mustang turf.

Early in the third period, the Panthers began at the Andrews 48. Quarterback Shawn Beeles quickly connected with tight end Ron Williams for 18 yards to the Andrews 30.

Three plays later, they were at the 26. On fourth and 6, Beeles kept it to the 20. But he came up two inches short to end the drive.

"I think if we had gotten the first down, we probably would've scored," Gierhart said.

But the game was still in the balance heading into the fourth period. The Panthers went on a 47-yard march that came to screeching halt when Beeles misfired a pass to Williams and into the hands of Andrews defender Brandon Wilson.

The interception thwarted any hopes the Panthers had of overtaking the Mustangs.

Though Andrews saddled the Panthers with the loss, FS suffered a greater setback when Ramirez left the game with a knee injury in the second period.

Ramirez was the Panthers' leader on defense and was also selected to the All-West Texas team last season.

"We'll look at his knee tomorrow, but I'am afraid that he's lost for the season," Gierhart said.

Next week, Andrews, 3-2 and 1-0, visits Sweetwater, while Fort Stockton, 2-3 and 0-1 hosts Monahans.

McCamey shuts out winless Stanton, 20-0

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

McCAMEY — The Badgers shrugged off four first-half interceptions and a pair of second-half fumbles to celebrate homecoming here Friday night with a 20-0 District 6-2A victory over the visiting Stanton Buffaloes.

McCamey converted two Stanton fumbles into first-half touchdowns, then kept the shutout intact by stopping the Buffs cold on a first-and-goal from the Badger three-yard line as the first half ended.

Stanton, which dropped to 0-2 in district play, is 0-5 for the campaign. The Buffs lost four fumbles in the frav.

McCamey upped its mark to 3-2, and is a very comfortable 2-0 in 6-2A play despite committing seven turnovers in all. Defense paved the way.

"Last year they (Buffs) scored right before the half, and it seemed like that changed the whole momentum of the game," McCamey head coach Randy Adair said of Stanton's 23-6 win over his Badgers a year ago.

"We talked to our kids about not giving up anything that they would get excited about, and I was real pleased with the way the defense came through." Tackle Sid Lundy was the Badger who smelled out the Stanton reverse and dropped Jim Bob Kelly for a five-yard loss as the first-half clock expired.

It was a play that protected McCamey's 13-0 lead and ended a five-play drive that started when Selestino Hernandez picked off a deflected pass from McCamey quarterback Jimmy Salinas and returned it 33 yards to the Badger 11-yard line.

Salinas, picked off four times — twice by Kenny McCalister — guided an offense that Stanton held to a mere 159 yards. But the Buffs mustered even less offense of their own

The Badgers held Stanton to just 37 yards rushing and 55 passing yards in the game.

"The kids got down a little bit after we didn't score at the end of the first half," said Stanton coach Dale Ruth. "I was pleased with the way we drove down the field at times, but not scoring when we had that chance got us down."

McCamey had no such trouble getting into the end zone. Fullback Manuel Martinez, who led the Badgers' 138-yard rushing attack with 67 yards on 13 carries, scored on runs of 11 and 8 yards in the first half. The first score came on McCamey's first offensive play of the game, a play set up when a bad punt snap gave the Badgers a first down at the Stanton 11.

Martinez took the handoff and started right, but he had to reverse his field to find daylight in the left corner of the end zone.

"I just followed the blocking," was all Martinez would concede. "If it wasn't for the offensive line, then I wouldn't be talking right now."

Martinez followed the blocking of tailback Billy Lynch for his eight-yard score. That one came with 3:58 to play in the second quarter and followed John Babb's fumble recovery by just two plays.

Babb, who collected two Stanton fumbles, got this one when Buffalo quarterback John Paul Barry was hit 20 yards behind his line of scrimmage on a third and long. It set the Badgers up at the Stanton 20-yard line, and Martinez burst for a 12-yard gain and followed it with his TD run behind his right-side blockers.

Defense and turnovers marked the third period, during which neither team managed a first down.

But after a partially blocked punt set the Badgers up at the Stanton 45-yard line midway through the fourth quarter, Salinas capped a nine-play drive with a seven-yard scoring strike to split end Bart Tschacher to finalize the scoring.

Garry Don Thompson led the Buffs with 85 rushing yards on 13 carries, but he was the only one of six Stanton ballcarriers that gained over positive, double-digit yardage.

third quarter that derailed a budding drive for Lamesa.

It was Kilgore's 60-yard burst up the middle with 5:38 left in the third quarter that helped grease the skids for a Ranger win. The junior advanced to the Lamesa 22 before being dragged down from behind. Four plays later, fellow fullback Shan Cumba scored from five yards out — and Greenwood had the lead for good.

Coach Earl Overton's Tors started out like the proverbial house on fire. The Tors whirled through the Ranger defense like a South Plains twister on their first possession of the game.

Sophomore halfback Tony Brown capped a 52-yard drive by dashing up the middle for 33 yards less than four minutes into the game.

The Tors got down to the Ranger 18 on their next possession before losing the ball on downs. But the Greenwood offense took longer to get going.

Ranger punter Jason Swopes punted on the hosts' first four possessions before quarterback Cody Mebane capped the fifth with a one-yard scoring run late in the half. The post-game consensus among the Rangers was that the hosts just weren't ready to play.

"I think sometimes you have to find out what it's going to take (to win)," Purser said.

Two-way line standout Mike Bradford was a little more matter-of-fact.

"We were a little intimidated by them because they had more size and speed," Bradford said. "But after a while, we knew we could play with them."

And play they did — enough to impress Overton.

"They played hard, executed really well, and deserved to win the football game," Overton said.

Greenwood outgained the visitors 216-191 after the shaky first quarter, and took the lead for good on a 15-yard option run by Mebane on the fourth play of the second half.

Lamesa tied the game on a last-ditch pitchout by Tor QB Jamie Seago that culminated in a 61-yard run by halfback Keene Hunter with 9:38 left in the third quarter. The Tors had a chance to take the lead on their next possession, but Albert Garcia was inches short on a 31-yard field goal attempt.

Kilgore went to the races on the next play, and Lamesa could never regain momentum.

TCU the 'underfrog' in game against Arkansas

Associated Press

There are a lot of old scores to settle this weekend in Southwest Conference football action.

Texas Christian hasn't defeated the Arkansas Razorbacks in War Memorial Stadium since 1951.

Rice hasn't defeated Texas in 24 years.

Houston scored 66 points on Baylor last year and was piling up the score until the final gun sounded.

But now TCU tries its fourth quarter magic on Arkansas in Little Rock. The Horned Frogs have rallied in the fourth quarter to defeat Missouri, Oklahoma State and Southern Methodist.

"This is nuts," said TCU coach Jim Wacker. "Who knows what we'll do if we ever start playing in the first period."

TCU scored four touchdowns in the fourth quarter to defeat SMU 42-21 last weekend.

"The Frogs believe in themselves, they believe in miracles," Wacker said. "Leon Clay continues to amaze me in the fourth quarter with his quarterbacking, but we have to play a lot better in the first half to be in the ball game. I do know this team has amazed me."

The oddsmakers believe it will take one. They installed the Hogs as 16-point favorites over TCU in the 7 p.m. game.

"We're the underfrogs in this game," Wacker said. "We've got to beat Arkansas to give some creditability to our season."

In other SWC action this week, Houston's Cougars come off a big scare against the Rice Owls (24-22) to meet the Baylor Bears in a noon Raycom TV game in Waco; Texas Tech is at Texas A&M in a 2 p.m. clash, Texas is at Rice at 6 p.m., and SMU goes outside the conference to play at North Texas in a 7 p.m. game.

Houston was a 13-point favorite over Baylor, Texas was a seven-point choice over Rice, Texas A&M was listed an 18-point favorite over Tech, and no line was quoted on SMU-UNT.

Houston needed a field goal with less than a minute to play to beat Rice, while Baylor stunned Texas Tech 20-15 in Lubbock as J.J. Joe, a redshirt freshman, came off the bench to quarterback the Bears to victory. Senior quarterback Brad Goebel will miss the rest of the season with a broken hand.

"We had five turnovers last week," Dykes said. "We lost a game that we felt like we had a chance to win. A&M is one of the better teams in the nation. They have a great team, and it's always hard for us to play in College Station."

Dykes said quarterback Jamie Gill will probably play against the Aggies. Gill missed last week's game with a knee injury.

Dykes said Gill could start and "he'll sure play." Redshirt freshman Robert Hall started last week for the Raiders.

The Aggies lost 17-8 last week to Louisiana State. Running back Darren Lewis was ejected from the game and it hurt the A&M offense.

"It doesn't matter which quarterback Tech plays because they are both gifted players," said A&M coach R.C. Slocum.

Texas has won 24 straight games from the Owls, but coach Fred Goldsmith said "that streak doesn't mean a thing. That's an alumni thing."

Texas coach David McWilliams was worried about his club's open date.

"You always wonder what the team is going to do," McWilliams said. "We almost beat Colorado, and the team was anxious to get back out there. When our players heard the Rice-Houston score last week it got their attention."

Wyche's action costs him $30,000

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Cincinnati's Sam Wyche was given the largest fine ever for an NFL coach Friday when Commissioner Paul Tagliabue assessed him nearly $30,000 for excluding a woman reporter from the Bengals' locker room.

The league refused to disclose the amount of the fine, describing it only as one-seventeenth of Wyche's annual pay. Wyche, who reportedly makes $500,000 per year, was not suspended and will be on the sidelines for the Bengals' game against the Los Angeles Rams Sunday at Anaheim.

Wyche, who kept the Bengals on the west coast following a 31-16 loss at Seattle Monday night, held practice Friday at Renton High School and then talked with reporters outside the women's locker room at the school's stadium.

"I'll end up, I guess, paying the fine," he said. "No amount of fine will force me to change my conviction on this matter. We need to find a way for women to have a decent and open access to all these athletes.

"The commissioner feels like it's more important to fine me than to seek another solution."

Mike Brown, assistant general manager of the Bengals, said, "I don't know there's anything much wrong with Sam saying his piece and now he's said it and we'll put it behind us."

"We'll abide by the rule. Our locker room will be open to male or female.'

Brown said the team will take up the matter again with the NFL after the season is over. "It will be discussed further."

"On Sunday, It's (the locker room) going to be open from start to finish just like the commissioner said. But the issue isn't closed."

"There is a signifcant portion of the players who are bothered by this. Their rights, their privacy is invaded. We've got to listen to that point. That's something that should not be ignored."

Wyche had been scheduled to meet in New York with Tagliabue on Thursday, but decided to stay with the team, talking instead by phone with the commissioner for about an hour. There is no appeal process available to the coach.

Mowatt's a 'jerk', NBA's Robinson says

Associated Press

SAN ANTONIO — San Antonio Spurs center David Robinson joined the women-in-the-locker-room debate Friday, saying all reporters deserve the same opportunity to pursue interviews.

"Obviously everybody has got to have the chance to get the same story," Robinson said of a recent controversial incident involving a women reporter in a pro football locker room.

Robinson, speaking with reporters after the first workout of Spurs fall training camp, commented on an incident that occurred two weeks ago after a New England Patriots game in Boston.

Zeke Mowatt and other naked Patriots players approached Boston Herald sports reporter Lisa Olson, and Mowatt reportedly made remarks with sexual overtones.

Robinson criticized the player's actions, and said that isolated incident has been overblown.

"I think that whole incident was just blown out of proportion," he said. "That one guy was a jerk. There are jerks everywhere. He did something real stupid, and he shouldn't have done it."

Robinson, a 7-1 center from Navy entering his second year in the NBA, said as long as reporters are allowed in locker rooms for post-game interviews, all reporters deserve equal access.

Haiti's poverty drives children to the streets

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Relentless poverty in Haiti has driven an estimated 7,000 to 8,000 children into the streets of this capital city. They survive as beggars, thieves and prostitutes.

"The heads of families can't provide for themselves, much less their children, so the children are on the street," says Jean Robert Chery, a social psychologist.

Chery runs a training center for 150 boys for the Montreal-based Canadian Center for Research and International Studies. The boys range in age from 6 to 20 and nearly all are homeless.

Chery and his four co-workers feed the boys, give them medical care and try to prepare them for school and jobs. The boys learn to read, and they play dice and board games to improve their math.

But first, Chery says, they must learn the most basic of skills: "How to wash up in the morning, how to sit up straight, how to talk to somebody."

Fifteen of the boys are practicing homosexuals, and three-fourths have had homosexual relations, some for money and some because of sexual confusion, Chery says.

"It's precocious sexuality," the psychologist says. "They live in promiscuous conditions. They have no mother or father. They have no one to identify with sexually."

The younger boys suffer from malnutrition. "Their hair turns yellow and they're very, very skinny," Chery says. Many of the older boys are infected with venereal diseases, although so far there have been no detected cases of AIDS.

"They come here and tell their life stories and I find out they're criminals," Chery says. "They should be in probation centers. But if they're turned over to the police they'll be beaten."

Nearly all street children are boys, the reseacher says. "Little girls are channeled into domestic service or prostitution. They're not on the streets."

One of the regulars at the center is 14-year-old Etan. Prompted by Chery, the youth lifts his T-shirt to expose a jagged scar across his belly. He says that's where he was shot by robbers who broke into his home in the Cite Soleil slum and killed his father.

Unlike most of the other boys, Etan goes to school. Chery proudly points out that he is first in his class.

"I want to work with electronics," Etan says.

The center is a cramped four rooms in downtown Port-au-Prince. On this particular day, Chery tries to give a visitor a tour of the facilities, but a citywide electricity outage makes it difficult.

In one room, a half-dozen boys sit around a table in the semi-dark eating oatmeal from tin plates.

"We live under miserable conditions, but it's all we have," Chery says.

The researcher says the center has enough money for rent but with hardly anything left over. The government provides no funds.

"You have to have a state that is assuming its responsibilities," Chery says. "That's not the case."

ONE MAN'S FAITH...

The year was 1492. Most of Europe's population believed the world to be flat. Dangerous monsters and hideous creatures were said to lie in wait in unexplored seas and foreign lands.

Yet one brave man, Christopher Columbus, had faith that he could conquer those fearful challenges and reach the West Indies. After six years of waiting, he convinced Queen Isabella of Spain to finance his expedition, and following two difficult months of seas, although he did not reach the Indies, he discovered the land which would later be known as America.

It must have taken tremendous courage and faith for Columbus to remain true to his dream in spite of fear and discouragement. As in Columbus' time, we may find it difficult to remain true to our convictions in the face of disappointment and temptations. Yet, let us remember, as we celebrate Columbus Day, the importance of the impact of one man's faith.

As we worship this week, may we pray for strength and guidance as we encounter unforeseen challenges in our lives.

RELIGION

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Word of Life plans seminar

A seminar designed to educate the public regarding Satanism and occult-related ritualistic crimes will be conducted at Word of Life Church, 8700 Highway 192, Tuesday beginning at 7 p.m.

The two-hour slide presentation is conducted by Paul W. Carlin, a partner in Michael-Paul and Associates, Crockett. Carlin holds a doctor of philosophy in contemporary religion degree.

"Since what happened in Metamoros with Mark Kilroy, the public has the right to know about the dangers of these deadly cults, occults and Satanists," Carlin said in a news release. "The rise in apparent ritualistic crimes has caused many law enforcement agencies to take a hard look into new avenues of investigations. Satanism and occult activities are appearing in every part of the country. And the target is our kids."

Reports of unusual or bazaar evidence at crime scenes have caused law enforcement to seek avenues of awareness both for their officers and the public.

Carlin explains to his audiences that satanism is not an isolated problem, "but is active all over America especially in small town, rural America.

"What is upsetting to me are the kids and teenagers who are deceived with the promise of power, drugs, sex and liberation by these groups. We call them the 'fringers and dabblers.'"

The seminar is a grass-roots effort by Michael-Paul and associates to make the public aware of satanic/occult deviant behavior. Information provided will answer the basic questions about these groups — who they are, what they do, how they do it, where they do it, when they do it and why they do it.

The company emphasizes that though the seminar slides are graphic and authentic, they are not intended to panic anyone. The presentors recommend that children under the seventh grade do not attend.

For more information call Word of Life.

Documentary to show

ODESSA — The religious camp meeting as it was then and has survived today is the subject of a new half-hour documentary, "Come Hungry, Come Thirsty," airing at 10 p.m. Friday, Oct. 26, on Channel 36, Odessa's Public Broadcasting System television network.

The camp meeting is among America's colorful, folk traditions. The practice sprang up on the frontier at the turn of the 19th century. Originally fostered by Methodists and Presbyterians, it quickly spread to other denominations.

The title "Come Hungry, Come Thirsty," alludes to the beautitudes — "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled" — and is taken directly from an anonymous verse from the American frontier — "Come hungry, come thirsty. Come ragged, come bare. Come filthy, come lousy. Come just as you are."

The documentary focuses on present day Texas, showing how camp meeting and camp meeting grounds still exist as traditional denominational or interdenominational activity. The program begins with a historical look at the frontier event and continues with vignettes of four present day campgrounds, ranging from the lush East Texas forests to the rugged West Texas mountains.

Addiction meet set

DALLAS — "Addiction in the Religious Congregation" is the topic of a regional, interfaith conference featuring author J. Keith Miller and award-winning vocalist Cynthia Clawson Oct. 30-31 at Spring Valley United Methodist Church, Dallas.

More than 10 percent of all church members are affected directly by substance abuse problems, and more than one-fourth have addicted loved ones, according to the conference organizers.

"A great deal has been done to address the medical and psychological aspects of this problem," says a release from the public relations department of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. "The spiritual bankruptcy of the chemically dependent person is not aggressively addressed. The religious community can play a critical role in filling that spiritual void."

The conference is designed to equip religious leaders to deal with substance abuse problems in their faith communities, to provide a forum of educational strategies to intergrate into existing programs and to enhance the congregations' effectiveness in ministering to family members impacted by chemical dependency.

Workshop topics include "Chemical Dependency and Family Needs," "Chemical dependency: Sin vs Disease," "Bridging the Higher Power Concept" and "Dealing with Shame and Guilt in Addiction."

Miller, author of "The Taste of New Wine" and "Facing Codependency," will present "insights" from his new book, "A Hunger for Healing: The Twelve Steps as a Classic Model for Christian Spiritual Growth," scheduled for release next January.

Registration cost is $65 per conference participant, plus a $10 fee for the Tuesday evening meal. Cost includes all workshop materials, continental breakfast and lunch for both days. Deadline for registration is Oct. 20. To register contact Rebirth, Inc., Attention: Lester Wigley, 11325 Pegasus, Suite W102, Dallas, Texas, 75238.

Conference sponsors include Rebirth, Inc., the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission, Catholic Alcoholism Ministries and the Texas Conference of Churches.

Richards-Williams debates not likely

By James Cullen
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Prospects for a debate between the candidates for governor appeared more remote Friday evening as Republican Clayton Williams refused to commit to a face-off because Democrat Ann Richards would not rule out negative advertising.

The passing of a 5 p.m. Friday deadline for the candidates to confirm participation in a debate proposed by the League of Women Voters of Texas apparently killed hopes for an Oct. 30 debate in Dallas.

"We couldn't do a debate," said Barbara Weinstein, vice chair of the nonpartisan league. "Maybe somebody else can pull it off."

Ms. Richards agreed to the league-sponsored debate, as well as a debate sponsored by a Houston TV station sometime in October, but Williams said he would participate in one debate, on Nov. 2, if Ms. Richards would sign a pledge to refrain from negative advertising — including any TV ads that mention her opponent — for the rest of the campaign.

The Williams campaign Friday morning announced Williams signed a pledge promising to air only "positive" TV ads outlining his own positions on issues as a condition for the Nov. 2 debate the candidates mutually would sponsor in Waco, Ms. Richards' hometown.

Zack Dawes, campaign manager for Williams, said Ms. Richards' refusal to sign the pledge "is another indication that our liberal opponent needs negative TV ads as a crutch to compensate for her lack of substance and vision for Texas."

Bill Cryer, spokesman for Ms. Richards, said the question was: "Whether or not Clayton Williams has the guts to stand up and debate Ann Richards. Apparently the answer is no."

'What we're doing is factual ads and what's irritating (the Democrats) is it points out the difference between Ann Richards and the rest of their liberal candidates and our Republican slate.'

Fred Meyer,
State GOP Chairman

Texas Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle, in a news release, said Williams should ask state GOP Chairman Fred Meyer to sign the pledge.

"The Texas Republican Party is running the only negative campaign ad currently on the air in the governor's race, so I'd advise Mr. Williams to send his hypocritical positive campaign pledge to his own state party chairman," Slagle said.

Meyer defended the GOP ads, but he said if Ms. Richards signs the pledge he would pull his ads off the air and abide with the terms of the pledge.

"What we're doing is factual ads and what's irritating (the Democrats) is it points out the difference between Ann Richards and the rest of their liberal candidates and our Republican slate," Meyer said.

Meyer said Slagle is welcome to run a radio ad the Democrats unveiled in August that accused the Republicans of mudslinging and touted Ms. Richards' record as state treasurer.

Nader says insurance firms fleecing Texans

By James Cullen
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader on Friday credited Ann Richards with calling for insurance reform while he said Clayton Williams has no plan to reform insurance regulation in Texas.

Nader, in Austin to address an environmental conference Saturday, said insurance companies "are fleecing, cheating and excluding consumers here in Texas" in auto, health and homeowners' coverage, and state regulators seem unwilling or unable to do anything about it.

The candidates for governor should address the problem, he said.

In a news conference in front of the State Board of Insurance building, Nader said he was pleased that Ms. Richards has established an insurance reform agenda, although he stopped short of an endorsement of the Democrat.

Nader said he was waiting for Williams, the Republican candidate, to present his agenda for insurance reform.

"It is understandable that he is presently preoccupied with the issue of coercive credit insurance, but he should rise above his own business dealings and square with the people of Texas," Nader said.

Three state agencies reportedly are looking into ClayDesta National Bank's alleged requirement that car buyers in Dallas and Houston buy insurance through the Midland bank as a condition of their loans.

Williams is the major stockholder in the bank, but he has disavowed involvement in its management and he said the investigations of the loan transactions are politically motivated. Bank officials have denied wrongdoing.

While a Williams spokesmen, Bill Kenyon, dismissed Nader as "an old, tired, left-wing windbag," a spokesman for Ms. Richards said the call for insurance reform is striking a chord with voters.

"I think it's an issue that has resonance to anybody who writes checks for insurance premiums," said Bill Cryer of Ms. Richards' campaign.

Texas Citizen Action and the Texas Consumer Assocation previously endorsed Ms. Richards, mainly on the basis of her insurance reform plan, which calls for repeal of the insurance industry exemption from anti-trust laws, appointment of consumer advocates to the State Board of Insurance, the use of independent data to help the board set rates and bringing health insurance under state regulation.

Williams has said he favors encouraging competition to reduce insurance rates. He also supports tort reforms, which would limit the role of lawyers in lawsuits against insurance companies.

Williams has agreed to name a consumer advocate to the three-member board and would look into other complaints about the structure of the board, Kenyon said.

But Rebecca Lightsey, spokesman for the Texas Consumer Association, said the $66 million Williams received in loans from two major insurance companies to bail out his business debts in 1988, as well as his bank's role in the credit insurance sales, raise her concern about his commitment to protect consumers.

Ceremonies in Midland will honor outstanding Texans

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M University President William H. Mobley will be one of five recipients of the "Outstanding Texas Leaders" award during ceremonies Saturday in Midland.

Presented annually by the John Ben Shepperd Public Leadership Forum, the award honors officials for their career achievements and public affairs involvement.

The forum, named for the late Texas secretary of state and attorney general, seeks to bring together young, emerging leaders with the experience of established leaders.

Also scheduled to receive the award this year are U.S. Rep. Jack Fields, former state Rep. Neal T. "Buddy" Jones and Baylor University economics professor M. Ray Perryman. Ronya Kozmetsky, Austin's RGK Foundation president and treasurer, and Tieman H. "Skipper" Dippel, Brenham Bancshares Inc. chairman of the board, also will be honored.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Refuse to get bogged down by details. Good news will send your spirits soaring. Travel is a real possibility. A close relationship needs patching up; take the initiative.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are charming, alert and diplomatic. Born planners, they usually have several alternatives mapped out. Count on them to come through for you in an emergency! These Libras also possess keen imaginations. They should be encouraged to express themselves through painting or writing. These children have a strong desire to be liked by their peers and may even try to buy their friendship. Wise parents will gently point out the pitfalls involved.

Store clerk fired for singing anthem to Sinead O'Connor

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A health food store clerk who sang the national anthem to Sinead O'Connor from behind the meat counter got the ax after the Irish pop singer complained.

O'Connor

Ms. O'Connor refused to perform at a New Jersey concert this summer if "The Star-Spangled Banner" was played. She has let it be known that she objects to any national anthems being played at her concerts, even the Irish anthem.

The singer is also known for her nearly shaved head and her hit "Nothing Compares 2 U."

Former meat clerk Mike Rechtien said that on Tuesday, Ms. O'Connor entered Mrs. Gooch's Natural Food Market.

When she approached the counter, he said he told her, "I have a song for you."

With that, Rechtien, a struggling musician, launched into "Oh say, can you see ... "

According to her publicist, Ms. O'Connor asked the store not to punish Rechtien.

But store officials said Rechtien was fired from his job because "the store maintains a strict policy on harassment of any kind including verbal, physical or visual." He worked there six weeks.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Author Norman Cousins will be awarded the 1990 Albert Schweitzer Prize for Humanitarianism for his work on behalf of innovative approaches to physical and emotional healing.

The Schweitzer Prize, which carries a $10,000 award, is given annually by the Alexander von Humbolt Foundation in New York and is administered by Johns Hopkins University. The prize was established in 1986.

Cousins, 75, is presently adjunct professor in the School of Medicine at the University of California-Los Angeles.

Cousins, who edited The Saturday Review for 35 years, has written 25 books, including "Anatomy of an Illness," a candid account of his successful battle against cancer.

Cousins will receive the prize at a ceremony at Johns Hopkins on Oct. 18.

LONDON (AP) — Writing made Russian novelist Leo Tolstoy famous but the family talent has proved costly for one of his descendants, historian Count Nikolai Tolstoy.

Last year, the High Court in London ordered Tolstoy, 55, to pay a record $2.8 million in damages for writing a pamphlet in which he called Count Aldington, a 76-year-old World War II veteran, a war criminal.

Now that libel judgment has forced Tolstoy into bankruptcy, he said.

The pamphlet said that in May 1945, when he was army Brig. Toby Low, Aldington handed over 70,000 anti-Soviet Russian Cossacks and anti-Communist Yugoslays to the Soviet Army and Marshal Josip Broz Tito, knowing they would be tortured and killed.

Aldington testified at the libel trial that he believed assurances from the Soviets and Tito that the prisoners would be lawfully tried. He said the jury's ruling vindicated his reputation.

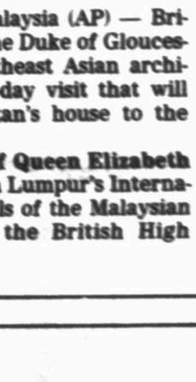
NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Jaclyn Smith says television has treated her better than the silver screen.



Smith

"I've been offered Hollywood parts, but they were as an 'armpiece' or decoration. Or there was nudity," the ex-Charlie's Angel says in this Sunday's Parade magazine.

"And they were just not as good as the parts I get in television."

Smith, 42, admits she's happy working in TV, although Broadway could lure her from the tube.

"Broadway ... now that would be something else. I'd love to do a stage musical," she said.

Smith, who has appeared in several television movies and miniseries, stars in the NBC movie, "Danielle Steel's Kaleidoscope," later this month.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Garth Brooks has been named one of the regular performers on the Grand Ole Opry country music show.

Brooks, 28, will be the youngest of the more than 60-member cast when he debuts Saturday night.

Brooks also is a finalist for five Country Music Association awards that will be presented Monday night during a nationally televised broadcast.

He has been nominated for male vocalist of the year, music video of the year for "The Dance," the Horizon Award for a promising performer and single and song of the year, both for "If Tomorrow Never Comes."

WORLD IN BRIEF

83 police hurt in Osaka riot

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — More than 1,000 people angered by police corruption took to the streets Friday night, burning barricades and pelting riot troopers with firebombs and rocks in a crime-ridden neighborhood.

At least 106 people, including 83 police, have been injured in the violence that began Tuesday in the Nishinari district of Osaka, Japan's No. 2 city. More than 40 people have been arrested.

The scope of the violence is extremely unusual for Japan, where public issues rarely inflame passions to such a degree.

A man who refused to identify himself said he had come from Kyoto, 30 miles away, because "I thought this may be a once in a lifetime chance for me throw stones at police and get away with it."

Costa Ricans strike

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — More than 70,000 service workers struck for 24 hours Friday to protest government austerity measures that have increased the cost of living.

Employees stayed off the job at six of the main hospitals, schools, city governments, the health ministry, National Bank and some other institutions.

"So far, the strike is a big success," said Jose Joaquin Melendez, coordinator of the Permanent Workers' Council. The council, with about 110,000 government and private sector workers, called the strike.

Presidents of government institutions earn $2,500 a month. Legislators recently got $900 a month raises to the same level. A government employee earns an average $200 a month and a farm worker $75.

Sovereignty granted

BONN, Germany (AP) — Germany's new Parliament on Friday ratified an international treaty that grants full sovereignty to the nation, formally ending 45 years of special rights by the World War II Allies.

Parliament also rescued plans for nationwide elections Dec. 2 by approving a new balloting law — the first time former East German lawmakers cast parliamentary votes alongside colleagues from the West.

The 144 eastern lawmakers, joining 519 representatives from the west, crowded into the Bundestag, a humble structure that once housed part of Bonn's water system.

"I warmly welcome you to the waterworks," parliamentary president Rita Suessmuth joked to the new lawmakers.

On Thursday, the first all-German Parliament since 1933 held a symbolic session in Berlin, capital of the new nation. Bonn is Germany's seat of Parliament.

The new 663-member Parliament's approval formally ends special rights conferred on the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain after the Allies defeated and divided Nazi Germany in World War II.

Hijacker surrenders

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — An unarmed Soviet man forced an Aeroflot airliner on a domestic flight with 26 people aboard to land in Finland on Friday and then asked for political asylum.

The Soviet Embassy requested the extradition of the 40-year-old hijacker, identified by police as Nikolai Ivanovich Selivanov, the Foreign Ministry said.

The hijacker surrendered soon after the 28-seat Yak-40 aircraft touched down, police said. None of the 21 other passengers or four crew members was hurt, and the plane flew to Leningrad later Friday evening.

The hijacker walked out of the plane to meet Finnish police, who took him to central Helsinki for interrogation.

Red Baron

A 1918 log book of the Baron Manfred von Richthofen, WW I German flying ace known as the "Red Baron," seen here in an undated picture, was sold this week at Christie's in London for $5,821.

Fighting dies down

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — More than 100 Belgian paratroopers on Friday flew into Belgium's former colony of Rwanda in a bid with French forces to quash a rebel uprising, authorities said.

Diplomats from Kigali, Rwanda's capital, said small-arms and artillery fire that broke out Thursday night and early Friday in the city outskirts had died down later Friday.

Caribbean braces for Hurricane Klaus

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Residents of the northeastern Caribbean resort islands boarded up their homes and stocked emergency supplies Friday as Hurricane Klaus strengthened off Antigua.

At the same time, the storm dumped more rain on the French island of Martinique to the south, where flooding has left at least six people dead, two missing and 1,500 temporarily homeless.

Klaus, the 11th named storm and sixth hurricane of the Atlantic hurricane season, was upgraded from a tropical storm Friday when its winds increased from 60 to 80 mph. Tropical storms become hurricanes when winds reach a sustained speed of 74 mph.

It was unclear whether the storm would reach the United States.

"Possible. Certainly people ought to pay attention to it, but it's a long way away," Bob Sheets, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said of Klaus' chances of striking the U.S. coast.

At midday, Antigua was being buffeted by high winds and intermittent rain.
