

Council Calls Election Officials in Error Quiz

By TEX DEWESE

The presiding judge and four clerks in the Ward 3 voting place in Tuesday's city election were ordered late yesterday to appear before the city commission at 5 p.m. Friday when commissioners will delve further into an apparent 5-vote error that could change the result of the Ward 4 councilmanic contest in Tuesday's city election.

When results of the election were announced Tuesday night, a tie vote was reported between incumbent Clyde Carruth and Elmer Radcliff. The election return sheets from all four wards showed each had received a total of 867 votes.

When the city commission met shortly after 5 p.m. yesterday and canvassed the votes, Commissioner Roy Kay, checking the Ward 3 tally sheet, discovered what had been learned by The News earlier in the day — that the votes marked down actually totaled 60 for Carruth, but the total carried out at the end of the line showed up as "65."

Commissioner Kay reported his find of the 5-vote error to Commissioners Hugh Burdette, M. McDaniel and Carruth. It was the first Carruth knew of the discrepancy.

The error, if the commission decides it was an error, would break the tie between Radcliff and Carruth and Radcliff would emerge the winner in Ward 4.

In that event, according to law, Carruth could file a petition for a recount of votes — not only in Ward 3 where the error was discovered, but a recount of all votes cast city-wide in the Ward 4 contest.

Carruth said last night he would not make any decision until after the interrogation of the Ward 3 presiding judge and four election clerks set for tomorrow.

After discussing the matter for more than an hour, it was decided to continue the canvass of the election returns until 5 p.m. tomorrow. This, Mayor Nation explained, would give time to summon the Ward 3 election officials and determine if there was any more information available.

The five election officials in the Ward 3 voting place, the Langley and Gray cabinet shop, called to appear for questioning tomorrow, are:

Mrs. Bill Watson, presiding judge; Mrs. J. H. Trotter, alternate judge, and three clerks, Mrs. Troy L. Bennett, Mrs. Roy L. Jones and Mrs. R. R. Hawkins.

The continuance of the vote canvass also delayed setting of a date for the runoff election between Leon Holmes and Joe Taylor to decide the Ward 3.

Millionaire's Son Is Released for Ransom

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — The son of a multimillionaire financier, kidnapped Monday, was released unharmed today after a $250,000 ransom was paid. His head shaved and dressed with sleeping pills, the youngster was dropped off on a residential street.

"Dad, I'm all right, please come and get me," Kenneth Young, 11, told his distraught father from an apartment house telephone.

The youngster was kidnapped early Monday from the second floor bedroom of the Herbert Young mansion in the center of this exclusive community. The parents, two brothers, a sister and a maid slept in nearby rooms.

The French-Norman house formerly was the home of actress Deanna Durbin.

A typewritten ransom note addressed "to the master" warned the family not to call police or "you will lose the merchandise." But Young notified police immediately and FBI agents joined the officers in moving into the mansion.

The telephone rang several times Monday and Tuesday but each time Young answered it the caller hung up.

Young said he received a letter of instructions Wednesday.

"At 6 p.m. last night I went to Westwood Boulevard and Olive Streets in Westwood as the letter said. A man met me there and asked, 'are you Herbert Young?' He was soft-spoken and well-dressed. He seemed very intelligent and was a Caucasian."

"He told me to go to Sunset and Morgan, and go to a phone booth next to a telephone pole in a Standard station. I waited 45 minutes when a car came by and a man in it waved to me. There was only one occupant in the car."

"He told me to get in my car and follow him. We drove north to Sunset Boulevard and about a mile beyond there the man drove off into a flat gravel area."

"He got out of the car and walked toward me and said, 'Do you have the bag?' I gave it to him and returned home about 7:20."

Young said he and his family waited with police and FBI agents until about 4 a.m. when the telephone rang.

"It was Kenny. He said, 'Dad I'm all right. Will you please come and get me.'"

"Then a man, who had nothing to do with the kidnapping, came on the phone and gave me the address in Santa Monica. Apparently the men in the crime just dropped Kenny off in front of the apartment and he rapped on the door and asked to use the telephone."

"He said he was very tired. By the time my wife Arlene and I got to the apartment with police there were FBI men all over the area."

"We noticed they shaved Kenny's head and his eyes seemed to have been blindfolded. Kenny told me they gave him sleeping pills, maybe three."

The youngster told his father he was treated well enough by one man who apparently was in charge of taking care of him, "but he was a lousy cook."

"Young, tired and red-eyed himself from lack of sleep, said the family doctor examined Kenneth and found him in good physical and mental condition, "there had been no molestation."

Auto Safety Inspections Are Lagging

For one dollar you can find out if your car is in safe working condition, but if you wait until after April 15, as most Pampans are, you may have to pay a fine which would be "up to the judge."

Officials here who officially inspect cars and trucks for safety, report "business is slow for this time of year, considering the 'adline is nine days away'."

Checks with five inspection stations here yesterday, revealed that about 3,000 vehicles have been inspected at the five stations.

Some are averaging about a week, others 12 and others are rushed with about 225 a week, since the deadline is nearing.

Cost for the sticker is $1 unless the inspector finds you need to make an adjustment in lights or other devices or need new parts.

Inspection on cars include checks of the horns, brakes, lights, both interior and exterior, windshield wiper blades, reflectors, high beam indicator and dimmer switch.

The most common defect is a license plate light burned out, an inspector said.

All city vehicles, including the eight pieces of equipment for the three fire substations, police cars and sheriff's officers' vehicles, and state law enforcement officers' cars have been inspected.

Pampa Farmer Honored for 'Faith in Panhandle'

E. G. Frasier, 84, a Pampa area farmer since he came to Texas from Oklahoma in 1911, was honored here yesterday for his "optimism and faith in the future of agriculture in the Texas Panhandle."

Mr. and Mrs. Frasier, who own a 160-acre irrigated farm two miles east of town, were honored yesterday during the annual meeting of the board of directors of the National Farm Loan Association in the courthouse annex agricultural meeting room here.

The National Farm Loan Association started out as the Federal Land Bank. This year is the 50th anniversary of the bank's establishment at Houston, Foster, Whaley, county agent, said.

During the meeting, association officials presented Mr. and Mrs. Frasier with a certificate for their 32 years of service to agriculture.

Frasier used his first federal land bank loan, in 1922, to buy land for his first farm, located near White Deer.

Last year, at the age of 83, he took out a 35-year loan with the bank to finance his first irrigation well which averages about nine gallons of water per minute.

"If there is such a thing as belief in the future of this area, we think Frasier exemplifies it," Whaley said.

Berlin Bomb Threat Ignored by Humphrey

Vice President Is Cheered on Arrival

BERLIN (UPI) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey today ignored what police called a bomb plot against his life and carried out his scheduled program under a strong security guard.

There were no major incidents but five student organizations called a major demonstration for 8 p.m. (1 p.m. CST) against American policy in Vietnam and against Humphrey.

They scheduled the demonstration outside Charlottenburg Castle where Humphrey was invited to a city reception.

Humphrey was cheered by thousands of Berliners as he drove from the airport to city hall. At city hall he defended U.S. policies in Vietnam and likened the strong stand there with the strong stand that saved West Berlin.

Hubert Humphrey

He said of all people Berliners should realize the value of friends and allies standing by their commitments.

About 3,000 persons cheered Humphrey as he arrived at city hall on John F. Kennedy Platz, but there were a few whistles — a sign of hostility in Germany.

Humphrey, traveling with his wife Muriel, looked at ease as he stepped out of their plane at Tempelhof airport. He appeared unworried by a police announcement they had uncovered a plot against his "life or health" and had arrested 11 persons, mostly left-wing students.

West Berlin police Thursday night arrested eight young men and three women after raids on their homes uncovered bombs and plastic bags filled with chemicals. The three women were released today but police still held the five men caught as they mixed chemicals in a garret.

Police said the mixture was dangerous but the youths' lawyer said the youths' lawyer said the bombs were only smoke bombs, not high explosives.

Teamster Strike Looms as Talks Hit Deadlock

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nationwide Teamsters strike was imminent today though negotiators worked to break the deadlock between the powerful union and major U.S. truckers.

The Teamsters' leadership was apparently ready to call members off their jobs sometime today barring an unforeseen break in the contract dispute.

The government made it clear it would move immediately to halt any strike under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Negotiations broke up late Wednesday night after an apparently fruitless session.

William E. Simkin, director of the Federal Mediation Service, asked both sides to return to the bargaining table today.

But there was increasing concern that having secured overwhelming rank and file authorization to strike, the Teamsters' leadership may have trouble keeping their 500,000 members on the job while negotiations continue.

Simkin sent telegrams to both union and management leaders late Wednesday warning against any trucking industry shutdown while talks are continuing.

But Trucking Employers Inc. (TEI), an association representing 1,500 of the country's largest trucking firms including all coast-to-coast carriers, warned that any selective strike would be met with a shutdown of all TEI operations — a move that would almost certainly bring federal intervention.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., proposed legislation today which would broaden the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act pertaining to federal seizure of certain essential industries hit by a strike.

The legislation would extend the emergency labor disputes provision of the act to disputes which affect interstate commerce or imperil the health and safety of a substantial part of the nation.

Viet Cong Shell Artillery Unit

SAIGON (UPI) — The Viet Cong today unleashed one of their heaviest mortar barrages of the Vietnam war in a desperate third attempt to smash American troops sweeping through their Cambodian border sanctuary, U.S. spokesmen said.

The daylight shelling wounded 38 men in a U.S. Army artillery unit before American helicopters silenced the Communists with screaming rockets and chattering machine guns in War Zone C Guerrilla casualties in the daylight fight were not yet known.

The combat came in the same jungle area where outnumbered U.S. troops killed 62 to 900 attacking guerrillas in one fight last month and 581 in another last week, the two biggest American victories of the war in terms of Communist killed.

Casualties from the second fight figured in loss reports by American spokesmen today. They said 194 Americans were killed and 1,679 wounded in combat last week. At the same time 2,373 Communists died.

Allied spokesmen said 211 South Vietnamese troops and 18 free world troops were killed in combat last week. In all, they said, it meant 5.6 Communists were killed in battle for every allied soldier slain.

At the same time, Communist troop strength in South Vietnam remained steady at about 287,000, U.S. spokesmen said. Communist casualties apparently balanced off new recruits and North Vietnamese infiltrators.

In the air, bad weather continued to dog American planes striking North Vietnam. U.S. spokesmen said a relatively few 67 missions roared into the Communist country Wednesday, smashing a power plant 20 miles east of Hanoi and other military targets up and down the country.

Arrests Intensify Conspiracy Probe

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — with the late David W. Ferrie, was indicted Wednesday for perjury by the New Orleans Grand Jury.

The true bill against Martens followed by one week his first appearance before the 12-man jury, which is conducting its own special investigation of events leading up to the Nov. 22, 1963, assassination in Dallas.

Also Wednesday, authorities in Terrebonne Parish ordered the arrests of material witness Gordon Novel in Columbus, Ohio, and Cuban exile leader Sergio Arcacha Smith in Dallas.

Dist. Atty. Wilmore J. Brodeur Jr. filed charges of simple burglary against Novel and Smith in connection with the theft of several cases of blasting caps and explosive charges from a bunker in Houma, La., in 1961.

The FBI later recovered part of the loot in wooden cases on the New Orleans docks marked "photo supplies for Cuba."

"Up until this time we knew that the crime had been committed involving the bunker, but we did not know who did it," said Brodeur.

"Obviously this recent exposure has helped us in our own case, but I have not talked with Mr. Garrison and I do not know if this munitions theft has anything to do with the assassination investigation he has underway."

15 Theatrical Unions Vote To Sympathize With AFTRA Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fifteen broadcasting industry unions today joined the striking American Federation of Television and Radio Artists in a sympathy move to pressure the nation's three major networks into a settlement.

Effects of the concerted action were not immediately apparent, but an AFTRA spokesman said members of the 15 unions—including such varied employees as musicians, stagehands, electricians, cameramen, scenic designers and technicians—would respect AFTRA's picket lines here.

Presumably, this could further reduce the skimpy amount of live and newly taped programming now being broadcast by ABC, CBS and NBC, and force the networks to rely more and more on old films and re-runs.

Although the sympathy move was originally scheduled to begin today, several members of two unions—technicians and electricians—jumped the gun and walked off their jobs at NBC and ABC Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The Huntley-Brinkley show on NBC-TV Wednesday was plagued by mishaps, such as picture blackouts during commercials, lack of synchronization between sound and picture, and no sound at all.

Huntley was one of the few network newsmen who chose to ignore his union's picket lines. He has been appearing on the program ever since. His partner, David Brinkley, has supported the strike.

The only major personality permanently affected by the strike was Johnny Carson, host of the NBC-TV "Tonight" show, who announced his rescission of a $780,000-a-year contract. Reported seeking a raise, Carson said he decided to quit the show because NBC has been showing re-runs of old "Tonight" programs.

Negotiations in the nine-day-old strike broke off indefinitely last Sunday and federal mediators have been unable to revive them thus far.

Indians to Receive Books From Drive

Pampa's response to the Southwestern Indian Organization's book drive for Cherokee Indians brought in a truck load of books for the drive which started Wednesday and continues until April 22.

Several books are needed, including histories, biographies, reference, children's and fiction books, and if possible, a copy of "Hiawatha."

"We are trying to help build the Cherokee Indians' library because they feel they are not welcome in the 'white man's' library in Clinton, Okla.," Maryland Hays, president of the Pampa group, said.

Athen Wade, missionary to the Indians at Clinton, told Hays and other members of the Pampa Southwestern Indian Organization, that "these Indians have so little money to buy clothing, and shoes and feel out of place in the library in Clinton. They do want to learn, to read and better themselves, but don't feel at ease among the white race yet."

Wade is building a library at his mission for the books.

Anyone who has books to donate should contact Hays after 5 p.m. at MO 9-9692; Mrs. Bennie Williams, TE 4-2559; Mrs. Geanne Dykes, MO 5-4403 or 4-8938; or Mrs. Lorene Wilkinson, MO 5-5311.

The Pampa group will collect books and take them in a truck and car convoy to Clinton, Okla., April 22.

Last year they collected 5,000 books for Pueblo Indians of New Mexico. All Pampa organization

Dear Abby... Mom Should Heed Her Son's Request

DEAR ABBY: Will you please answer this quickly? My only son will soon be returning from Vietnam. He has requested that I let his wife meet his train alone. He says he wants just two days and nights with his wife for "the honeymoon" they never had.

He wants me to keep their two young children, without telling them that their Daddy is in town. I am just supposed to say that "Mama went to get Daddy, and will bring him to Grandma's house. After this disgusting two-day sex orgy, the children and I will be allowed to greet him."

I may not like your answer, Abby, but I will abide by it. I think this request is highly unfair to me. Just sign me—

ONLY HIS MOTHER
DEAR ONLY: It is your son's request, Mother. Forget everything other than fulfilling it.

DEAR ABBY: To get right to the point, I do not care for dogs in my house. This goes for big dogs, little dogs, and even the hairless kind that are not supposed to smell, but do. They are all dogs to me. We reared our children and had dogs for them, but they were never allowed in the house. They slept in doghouses or out in the garage.

My problem: We have relatives who are dog-crazy. They love their dogs more than some people love their children. . . . These relatives have visited us, and brought their dogs along—knowing how I feel about them, and have even taken them into their beds! Abby, we have just redecorated our home, installed new carpet, and recovered our furniture, and I do not want dogs on it.

These relatives are coming again. How can I let them know they are welcome but not their dogs, without having them think I am an old crab?

NO DOG LOVER
DEAR NO DOG LOVER: You can TELL them before they arrive that they are welcome, but their dogs are not. But don't be surprised if you get the "love-me-love my dog" bit. They WILL think you are an old crab, but you'll have kept the dogs out of your home, and that's the object, isn't it?

DEAR ABBY: The other day I was jolted by a flaw in an otherwise stunning 21-year-old blonde. On my first approach to her, I noticed that her teeth badly needed brushing. I realize that this could happen to anyone occasionally, but with this girl, it is a habit.

The idea of kissing a girl with noticeable food particles between her teeth is utterly revolting. Someone should tell her, but I am not the one. How about you?

STUNNED
DEAR STUNNED: Since I consider it a kindness to offer constructive criticism, I'll do it. Girls, look at your teeth after you've eaten, and, if necessary, slip away and privately use a bit of dental floss. P.S. You, too, fellas.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PLAYS CUPID, BUT FLOPS": Do not arrange "BLIND DATES" between two people unless you honestly feel that you are doing them both a favor.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Well-Stacked Miss Scales Stacks

By GAY PAULEY

UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Smokestacks are the business of a well-stacked young woman named Caroline F. Phillips.

So are any other conduits of pollution that industry generates.

Miss Phillips, a 27-year-old New Yorker, is an engineer with the Industrial Hygiene Division of the New York State Labor Department.

On occasion, she has scaled 60-foot smokestacks with equipment to measure the amount and type of pollution pouring forth. The work is "more dirty than dangerous," she said, although men workers often tell her, "lady, you wouldn't catch me up there."

Actually, on her high climbing assignments, for which she wears dungarees and sturdy shoes, she uses ladders enclosed in cages. And not all of her field work is so up in the air. Many times, it is checking pollution that pours from more prosaic vents closer ground.

"Our department is charged with the in-plant health of workers," she said in an interview. "But because in-plant waste is vented out, we become involved with outside pollution."

A New York State law enacted in 1962 requires that any new plant clear with the Industrial Hygiene Division its plans for exhausting waste. Those built earlier and found fouling the air sometimes just aren't aware that control machinery is improperly operated, out of date, or that the pollution level is so high, Miss Phillips said.

In cases where pollution occurs, it is the job of Miss Phillips and other engineers to use some gentle persuasion on management, and to establish standards for older plants.

"Pollution is everybody's business," said Miss Phillips. "We've got to educate all phases of the public . . . the legislators, industry, landlords . . . get the people fully behind the move for cleaner air."

Miss Phillips, tall, reserved,

When re-varnishing furniture, beware of dust, lint, and cold or humid air. These four culprits can sabotage a finishing job. Choose a warm, dry, well-ventilated work area. Sand the furniture surface before each coat of varnish, removing all dust with clean, lint-free cloths.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: I want to thank you for the column about that teen-aged boy whose family (except his sister) was so shocked by the discovery of his collection of girls' magazines.

I am now 23. But, in my teens, I also collected these magazines. It was the most uncomfortable and lonely period of my life to date. Had my Parents ever given me any sex instruction, had they allowed me to ever discuss sex with them, I know now that I should not have bought these magazines nor felt I had to hide them. But my parents' belief that sexuality is shameful made me feel myself to be so disgusting that I had no alternative but to keep my interest in it secret.

Later, when I got professional sex instruction on my own, I realized how I had been neglected.

I say that parents who raise children to some understanding of sexuality in themselves, in members of the opposite sex and its general meaning in life will remain close to their teenagers. But parents who make it a forbidden and disgusting subject will not be trusted. The major reason for my years of teenage rebellion against everything my parents stood for was their refusal to accept my interest in sex, a development that was a natural for me as the change of my voice from a child's voice to the voice of a physically mature man.

I have promised myself that my children-to-be will never have to grow up in the shame of sexuality that I grew up in.

Thank you again,
A NEW READER

ANSWER: My New Reader seems to have made it, doesn't he?

Goah, I'm glad that he had the courage to go and get that professional sex instruction!

Lots of kids don't find the courage. So there they are, you see, living with people, dependent on people who are so ashamed of their own sexuality that they convey their self-disgust to their teenagers. It's really rough on the kids. For our children love us and, moving as they must through that confusing but deeply sensitive period called "adolescence," they just can't bear that look of cringe, of apprehension that our faces take on when they mention sex to us. Loving us, they just can't stand that look. And so they shut up.

At which point, of course, they will refer their sexual impulses to girls' magazines or the smoldering comfort of equally self-disgusted friends.

RUTH MILLETT

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"I've looked and looked and I simply can't find anything becoming to wear," the middle-aged woman said sadly to the sales girl.

She didn't find anything at that shop, either, though she confessed she needed some new clothes badly and was willing to splurge if she could only find a few things she didn't look or feel absurd in.

There must be millions of women from age 30 on who are in the same maddening situation — needing clothes and having the money to pay for them — who are roaming from store to store trying to find something that doesn't call rude attention to their years.

In today's fashion picture they are the "left-outs," the ignored, the forgotten age group.

Children's clothes have never been more attractive. Teen-agers are offered so many "fun fashions" they would wreck the family budget if allowed to have all the clothes they covet.

Women young enough to look good even in outlandish, high-style, essentially ugly tent dresses made of op art prints in clashing colors can console themselves that even though today's fashions don't make them look pretty they don't need much help for that.

But for the woman who is no longer young — there's almost nothing. If she wants a skirt to nearly cover her knees she is told that length is "dowdy." If she wants colors that are muted and subtle enough to soften an aging face she can't find them. If she has the good taste and the good sense to realize that she has reached an age where she can't do much for her clothes, but needs clothes to home from shopping trip after shopping trip empty-handed.

Why have designers decided that any woman 30 or over isn't worth designing clothes for?

BAKED EGGS nestle on spinach.

Springtime Comes To Family Table With Baked Eggs In Spinach Nests

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Eggs are plentiful, lower in price and of good quality right now. So enjoy them. Use them in main course luncheon or dinner dishes, such as omelets and source of protein, can serve as an alternate to meat, poultry and fish or seafood.

You'll welcome this recipe for baked eggs in fresh spinach nests. Serve it with Hollandaise sauce for extra richness.

BAKED EGGS IN SPINACH NESTS

2 pounds fresh spinach
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
6 eggs
Hollandaise sauce, optional...

Wash spinach and drain. Place in saucepan, without water; cover and cook 10 minutes or until spinach is wilted and tender. Add sugar, salt and pepper and mix well. Run a knife through spinach 2 or 3 times. Divide equally between 6 buttered individual casseroles. Break an egg over top of each and sprinkle with salt and pepper to taste. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 minutes or until eggs are set. Serve with Hollandaise sauce, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Add Lemon Butter To New Potatoes

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
New potatoes, one of the joys of spring, need nothing more than a touch of salt and a little butter. But now and then, just for a change, serve them with butter sauces for an extra fillip.

BOILED NEW POTATOES

with BUTTER SAUCE
1 1/2 pounds new potatoes
1 teaspoon salt
Butter sauce...

Wash potatoes, scrape or pare or, if desired, cook in jackets. place in saucepan with an inch of boiling water and salt. Cover and bring to boiling point. Boil until tender, 25 to 40 minutes, depending on size. Drain until dry and serve plain with butter and black pepper to taste or with one of the following sauces. Makes 6 servings.

FRESH LEMON BUTTER: Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice, 1/4-teaspoon salt and 1/4-teaspoon ground black pepper.

HERBED BUTTER: Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and add 1/4-teaspoon crumbled basil leaves, caraway seed, powdered mustard or onion powder.

NEW POTATOES SAUTÉED: Wash and scrape 2 pounds small new potatoes. Heat 2 tablespoons salad oil in heavy skillet. Add potatoes, shake pan to coat all sides with oil. Cover and cook slowly over low heat, 30 to 40 minutes or until tender, shaking pan occasionally to cook uniformly. Sprinkle with salt and ground black pepper to taste and chopped fresh parsley or chives. Serve very hot. Makes 6 servings.

Lower-Calorie Nuts Appear On Market

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—Is it true that there are low-calorie peanuts in the market? I hope so; I love peanuts and I'm fat.

A—"Low-calorie," by Food and Drug Administration requirements, means fewer than 15 calories per serving. The new partially defatted peanuts therefore cannot be called "low-calorie." But this new product, pound per pound, has only about two-thirds the number of total calories of regularly roasted peanuts.

About a year ago U.S. Agricultural Research Service announced that a process had been developed that can remove up to 80 per cent of the oil—with a substantial reduction in calories and leave the original good flavor and aroma of regular roasted peanuts. The oil in the new product is removed by mechanical pressing, not solvents that usually alter flavor and texture. The pressed nuts are boiled in water to restore shape. Roasting, seasoning and packaging follow.

Q—Is there really any difference between apple juice and apple cider?

A—Yes. Apple juice is prepared from the first pressings of apples, usually from a blend of different varieties of apples. It is a pasteurized product, made in a commercial plant, and packed in vacuum-sealed cans and bottles.

Chocolate Chip Cookies For Calorie Counters

Just about everybody loves chocolate chip cookies. The ones pictured here are golden brown and crisp, deliciously sweet, and lavishly studded with morsels of chocolate. But these cookies have one important difference, one you can't see or taste. They're far lower in calories than the ones you usually bake. That's because the cookies are sweetened with the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than with sugar. Just by eliminating sugar's calories, you save 16 calories in every cookie. Fill your cookie jar with these calorie-trimmed goodies... and don't be surprised at how quickly they disappear.

Chocolate Chip Cookies (Low-Calorie)

1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter
4 teaspoons liquid Sucaryl
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels (3 ounces)

Sift together the dry ingredients. Cream butter; add Sucaryl, vanilla and egg, blending well. Add flour mixture and beat well. Stir in the chocolate morsels. Drop by level teaspoons onto a lightly greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 10 minutes.

Makes 36 cookies, each 46 calories; 0.5 gram protein; 3.5 grams fat; 3.5 grams carbohydrate. (With sugar 64 calories.)

Open A Box, Spin Top Off Jar...And Cook

Can you flip a lid... snip a bag... rap a package... push a button?

Then you can cook anything from a meal-in-a-dish casserole to a creamy dessert with out even touching a measuring spoon. All you need: lots of cans, some frozen specialties, boxed foods such as cereal and raisins, milk or cream—and a trusty can opener.

For example, mix frozen shrimp and crabmeat, toast some bread, heat cheese soup—sauce—and you have a rich seafood Newburgh. Five cans—two macaroni and cheese and one each of luncheon meat, pimientos and onion rings—add up to a Macaroni and Cheese Casserole. For liquid refreshment, two cans of frozen juice, a quart of apple juice, one can of pineapple chunks and a jar of maraschino cherries make refreshing Apple Blossom Punch with floating frozen fruit cubes.

Every teen-age party calls for sweets—like Crunchy Chocolate Chewies made with one box each of cereal and raisins, a jar of peanut butter and three bags of chocolate pieces. Take some popcorn, nuts, marshmallows, corn syrup and sugar, and mix them all together for Popcorn Caramel Crunch chunks.

If you'd like to make a perfect party mousse without even trying—start with marshmallow cream, use some frozen raspberries, unflavored gelatin, heavy cream, a jelly roll and pressure-packed whipped cream, and create a glamorous Raspberry Swirl Mousse.

Here are recipes for these dishes, designed to turn any teen girl into a top-notch cook: MACARONI AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

2 cans (1 lb. each) macaroni and cheese
1 can (12 oz.) luncheon meat
1 can pimientos
1 can (3 1/2 oz.) French-fried onion rings

Empty macaroni and cheese into a large saucepan. Begin heating over moderate heat. Cut luncheon meat into one-half inch cubes. Dice pimientos. Add both to macaroni and cheese and toss. When thoroughly heated, pour into a two-quart shallow casserole. Arrange French fried onion rings on top. Bake at 350 degrees (moderate) for 10 minutes or until French-fried onion rings are golden brown. Serves four to six.

APPLE BLOSSOM PUNCH

2 cans (6 oz. each) frozen pineapple-orange juice concentrate

1 quart apple juice
1 can (1 lb., 41 oz.) pineapple chunks
1 jar (8 oz.) maraschino cherries

Juice of 1 lemon.
Prepare pineapple-orange concentrate as directed on can. Add apple juice and juice from pineapple, maraschino cherries and lemon juice. Stir to blend.

Pour enough of juice mixture into two ice cube trays to fill trays two-thirds full. Put a pineapple chunk and maraschino no cherry into each cube section. Freeze. Chill remaining punch mixture. When ready to serve, put cold punch and frozen fruit cubes into punch bowl. Enough punch for 16 four-ounce punch cups.

CRUNCHY CHOCOLATE CHEWIES

3 packages (8 oz. each) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 jar (12 oz.) crunchy peanut butter

1 box (7 oz.) crisp rice cereal
1 box (15 oz.) seedless raisins
Place chocolate pieces in top of double boiler. Melt over hot but not boiling water. Stir in peanut butter. Toss together cereal and raisins in a large bowl. Pour chocolate-peanut butter mixture over cereal and stir until well combined. Drop by spoonfuls onto waxed paper or into small foil cups. If you like, press half a maraschino cherry into each cluster. Makes eight to nine dozen crunchy cookies.

RASPBERRY SWIRL MOUSSE

2 packages (10 oz. each) frozen raspberries

3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 jars (7 1/2 oz. each) marshmallow cream

1 pint heavy cream
1 jelly roll (about 1 lb.)
1 pressure-packed whipped cream

Thaw raspberries. Strain syrup into top of double boiler. Set aside raspberries. Sprinkle gelatin over raspberry syrup and let stand for five minutes to soften. Place mixture over hot water and heat until gelatin is completely dissolved. Remove from heat, stir in lemon juice. Place marshmallow cream in large bowl. Gradually stir in gelatin mixture, blending well. Fold in reserved raspberries (using a rubber scrape, cut down, though and up with a circular motion). Whip cream until soft peaks form, gently fold into raspberry mixture. Slice jelly roll into 12 even slices. Line sides of nine-inch spring-form pan with enough slices to fit; line bottom of pan with remaining slices. Carefully pour raspberry cream mixture into cake-lined pan. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. Remove sides from pans. Transfer onto a plate. Just before serving decorate with rosettes of whipped cream. Serves 12.

Try using a teaspoonful of baby oil in bath water for a smoothing effect on the skin.

Henderson Will Attend Credit Meet in Houston

CANADIAN (Spl) — Director C. B. Henderson will represent the Canadian Production Credit Association, as a voting delegate at the 11th annual meeting of stockholders, patrons, and friends of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, April 9-11, in Houston.

"The Canadian Production Credit Association is a stockholder in the Bank. It is one of thirty-five production credit associations in Texas which submit agricultural loans to the Bank for discount," said General Manager Erbin Crowell.

One of the highlights of the Houston meeting will be an address by the Honorable W. R. "Bob" Poage, Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, House of Representatives, Washington, D.C.

Directors and others who will attend from the Canadian Production Credit Association include directors Dale Nix and Hugh F. Parsell of Canadian, Lawrence Elzey of Perryton and Wallace Hamker of Booke; H. H. Keasbey of White Deer; General Manager Crowell, Assistant Manager Larry Albin and Perryton Field Office Manager John Burson.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

United Press International. WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American people, already sharply divided by the Vietnam controversy, may now be pulled further apart by a new national issue.

The question before us is: Should the United States withdraw from the Post Office Department?

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien raised the point this week by proposing that his department be abolished and its functions transferred to a nonprofit federal corporation.

Already two conflicting schools of opinion have developed, members of which are being characterized, for want of better description, as "ostriches" and "albatrosses."

The albatrosses, who are not at all angry to chaos, contend that abolishing the Post Office Department in the face of rising costs, increasing volume and mounting complaints of slow delivery would be taking the coward's way out.

They argue that the department was committed to mail delivery by Benjamin Franklin and must now honor that commitment whatever the consequence.

"We believe the 'falling domain' theory would prevail in this situation," a leading albatross told me.

"If the Post Office department is allowed to disappear because its problems are a 'crisis' stage, a 'laboring' department, such as health, education and welfare or housing and urban development or even state might also crumble under pressure."

Business Summary

By ROGER BABSON STAFF
Economic conditions evidenced further deterioration in March. The Babson Composite Business Curve declined to a reading of 150.4, dipping a full point below February's level. And the crestover in business has caused the first year-to-year decline since mid-1961.

The primary braking influences continue to lodge in automobiles and steel. Neither of these two key industries were able to muster up any degree of vitality during March, and in both instances operations trailed their respective output rate of a year ago. With the lower level of auto production, activity in the automotive equipment and metals fabrication lines have also turned downward.

Reflecting the erosion in demand for business capital equipment, output of nonelectrical machinery has been hardly more than steady since last fall, while production of electrical machinery has moved off since midwinter.

Much of the current hesitation in business, of course, results from the static pace of consumer spending. In addition to its adverse impact upon the automobile industry, the tightened grip on consumer purse strings has forced a cutback in output of appliances, television sets, furniture, and even apparel.

The few sectors retaining any degree of vigor include the aircraft field, instruments and related products, paper, chemicals, commercial business equipment, and armaments.

The economy is now at an extremely crucial crossroads. Thus far, public sentiment has been buoyed by the series of confidence-boistering moves by the monetary authorities and the Administration. But, if consumer durable goods demand, new building plans, and capital equipment needs fail to respond this spring, the economy may be in for a tougher siege than is now apparent. At this juncture, at least some further erosion seems unavoidable, although business can still hold in a high range.

SOFT TOUCH
LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Harold J. Rathbott, after nine years of fighting snow as chief maintenance engineer for the Michigan Highway Department, is heading for a new job.

Rolf Mickler, assistant Florida highway engineer, said Tuesday Rathbott, retiring to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., will become Florida's chief consultant on snow removal, a job where "the work will not be heavy and the paper work will be light."

Viets Plan Civilian Rule

A civilian government emphasizing the balancing power between executive and legislative leadership appears to be shaping up for South Vietnam, long used to virtual dictatorships and military rule. Elections this fall on a one-man, one-vote basis would result in a government with a president and vice president, and a parliament consisting of a lower house and upper house. Members of the lower house would include 100-200 members, each elected by a different constituency, and an upper house or senate of 30-60 members, to be chosen on a nationwide basis. The president would select a premier, who in turn picks his cabinet. The assemblies could oust a cabinet member by two-thirds vote, or the premier by the same majority if the president agrees. If he doesn't agree, a three-fourths vote would be required.

Two Agriculture Import Bills Up For House Action

WASHINGTON (SpI)—Congressman Bob Price introduced two agriculture import restrictive bills in the house Monday.

One, Price said, would roll back quotas on dairy products and close the loopholes in present dairy regulations under which the flow of foreign milk and dairy products into this country last year hit 2.7 billion pounds and is running at an even higher rate this year.

The other bill would amend a section of the Agricultural Adjustment Act under which the U.S. Tariff Commission may impose quotas. "Section 22 of this act has been ineffective," Price said, "because of the time involved in tariff commission hearings and the reluctance of the Secretary of Agriculture to request presidential action in triggering a hearing."

"The bill I and others have introduced would apply to all agricultural imports including beef," Price stated, "and would give Congress the authority to initiate the action upon resolution hearings and the reluctance of the Secretary of Agriculture to request presidential action in triggering a hearing."

tion hearings and the reluctance of the Secretary of Agriculture to request presidential action in triggering a hearing."

Coed On Honor Roll At Texas Women's U.

Miss Gienna Mae Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Brown, has about 200 residents listed on the dean's honor roll at Texas Women's University for the fall semester.

Miss Brown is a freshman Spanish major.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—William R. White of Hambro & Weeks, Hemphill, Noyes says considering the extent of the stock market advance during the first three months of the year, the subsequent consolidation phase has been relatively modest.

The analyst says fear of possible adverse psychological effects of lower first quarter earnings has apparently put a damper on investors' spirits despite administration efforts to revive confidence in business prospects.

Goodbody & Co. says a spring rally probably will be delayed until investors raise enough cash to pay for income taxes due April 15. The company feels profit taking by traders who bought stocks at their August lows and unfavorable earnings for the first quarter probably will act as a drag. It does feel, however, that the underlying trend seems to be firm.

Edward A. Viner & Co. says many investors consider the current flow of mixed earnings as history since they were reflected in the price levels of last year. The company thinks traders are observing prospects of business improvement later this year and that these expectations are fueling the current market.

National Window

By LYLE WILSON
United Press International

In a distinguished career in law and public service, Nicholas DeBelleville Katzenbach has learned to distrust the instincts of the faceless working stiffs as he grubs the grubby side streets and pay the taxes. Katzenbach recently was chairman of the President's National Crime Commission. In that capacity he was lead-off speaker last week before a conference on crime summoned by the Justice Department to consider the commission's 352 page report.

The conference steersmen strove to avoid the more controversial aspects of the crime explosion in the United States. Delegates grumbled after the first round of discussion that conference leaders were so rigidly avoiding controversy that little of importance was being discussed.

Katzenbach, however, got in a couple of words which surely were loaded for argument. They were loaded, as well, with ridicule and distrust of the instincts of the ordinary citizen who may not know much law but who is acutely aware of the fact that U.S. courts in recent years have been lenient beyond bounds in dealing with rapists, murderers and assorted hoods. Katzenbach told the conference it was emotional nonsense to assert the court decisions cause crime. This cynical judgment by Katzenbach should be measured against a March 1 statement by J. Edgar Hoover. The FBI director said:

"Coddling of criminals and soft justice increase crime." Could Hoover's statement be what Katzenbach meant by "emotional nonsense?" Katzenbach is out of touch with the common man, as well as with Hoover.

The common man is emotionally involved in the crime wave. There is no nonsense involved. The common man's life is at stake. His emotions are fear, frustration, disgust. There is an emotional welter of doubt of the courts and of the laws which permit easy parole, handicap enforcement officers and impose shocking delays and technicalities between obvious guilt and punishment if any.

Worried citizens may be mistaken or misinformed. But the working stiff knows when a neighborhood rapist or murderer is sprung from jail by easy parole or protected altogether from fair trial by reason of conclusive but rejected evidence of a crime committed.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has for years been preaching that the certainty of speedy, adequate punishment is the best of all crime deterrents. Law enforcement agencies have been dismayed by the tendency of the Supreme Court and lower courts to favor the individual rights of criminals over the protection of the community. This is emotional nonsense.

Emotional nonsense is not the phrase for the state of the public mind, Katzenbach to the contrary. Katzenbach is one of the physicians-in-ordinary attached to the Great Society. Chief surgeon and chief of internal medicine is LBJ. The President and his aides have discovered that all social ills flow from poverty, segregation, ignorance and such. Their money. The more money the bigger and better the cure.

Soft-sotheaded-courts and the coddling of criminals are no money problems. They are problems of law and of the judges who determine what the law shall be.

You, Your Child and School

By DAVID NYDICK

UPI Education Specialist
Children must be taught the proper ways to use fire and to protect themselves from its dangers.

Children should know that when fire is carefully handled it provides heat for cooking and warming our homes. It is used in industry for making steel, glass, and many other important products.

On the other hand, fire can destroy homes and forests. Carelessness can cause loss of property and life. We should all be aware of ways to protect ourselves from the dangers of fire.

Schools hold regular fire drills so that in case of a fire everyone will quickly and calmly evacuate the building. Your child should know at least two exit routes from the building. He should listen carefully to the directions given by the teacher.

Teaching Safety

The same safety measures should be taken at home. Children should be taught not to play with matches or electricity. They should be careful not to touch stoves, radiators, or other similarly heated objects.

It would be valuable to hold fire drills in your home. Have your children hold hands and walk outside to a spot which is a safe distance from the house. One technique is to have the children hold hands around a pole or tree. It has been found that children have on occasion run back to their room for a favorite toy. They should be warned against this and you should watch them carefully in an emergency.

There are several general rules which may be helpful. Sleep with the bedroom door closed. Closed doors tend to retard the spread of fire. If necessary leave the room through a window. It is safer to wait for help on a porch or roof. Stay Near Floor.

If you must travel through smoke, stay near the floor and cover your nose and mouth with a handkerchief. Make sure that the fire is reported. Don't depend on someone else. Don't call from the burning building.

Keep out of the way of the firemen. They need room to work. Don't ever return to the building.

If your clothes catch fire, don't run. Fall to the floor and roll over in order to smother the flames. A blanket wrapped around the individual is also good.

Parents should practice good safety habits. Don't leave matches, heated objects, etc. where children can get to them. Don't ever leave a small child alone even for a few minutes. This has been the cause of many unnecessary deaths.

Fire can be most useful but it can also be destructive. Take the proper safety measures and avoid serious results.

Safety Director Issues Warning Of Spring Tornadoes in State

AUSTIN — Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, recently urged Texans to review tornado safety precautions.

"While tornadoes can occur any time of the year," Garrison said, "April, May, and June are the peak months."

U.S. Weather Bureau records indicate that Texas leads the nation in total number of tornadoes per year. The annual average of 80.7 is based on a record of 1,210 confirmed tornadoes from 1951 through 1965.

"It is especially important for every school, church, hospital, hotel, business house, and industry to establish an emergency plan," Garrison said. "To know what to do when a tornado is approaching may mean the difference between life and death."

A circular on tornado safety is available from most local Civil Defense offices.

APPROVE ITS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Interior Committee Wednesday approved a Senate-passed bill to establish the John Fitzgerald Kennedy national historic site at the modest frame house in Brookline, Mass., where the late President was born.

The bill is expected to be approved quickly in the House so the family can transfer the property to the government in time for the 50th anniversary of Kennedy's birth May 29.

"Milk is the children's wine and wine is the old man's milk," said Sir William Osler, 19th century physician.

76ers Lead By Three in Series With Boston

By United Press International
The Philadelphia 76ers are three days and 48 minutes away from ending the longest reign in U.S. professional sports history.

At stake is the Boston Celtics' eight-year rule over the National Basketball Association—a rule which all but came to an end Wednesday night when the 76ers scored a 115-104 victory that gave them a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven-game Eastern Division finals.

"We'll make it in four and on Boston's floor," the 76ers chanted after the game, referring to the fact that they can eliminate the Celtics by winning the fourth game of the series in Boston on Sunday.

Philadelphia coach Alex Hannum had praise for all his players but Boston player-coach Bill Russell singled out Wilt Chamberlain as the key man in the series.

"The key to the game, as he has been throughout the series, was Chamberlain," said Russell. "His great defense and his rebounding, especially off the defensive board, did it. It wasn't often that we missed and got a second chance. He seemed to gobble up everything."

The 7-foot, 1-inch Chamberlain pulled down a playoff-record total of 41 rebounds, scored 20 points, had nine assists and blocked five shots. Russell, also playing in peak form, had 29 rebounds, scored 10 points, had nine assists and blocked four shots.

The St. Louis Hawks, meanwhile, scored their first victory in the third game of the Western playoffs when they defeated the San Francisco Warriors 115-109 at St. Louis. The Hawks and Warriors play the fourth game of the series in St. Louis on Saturday.

San Francisco ace rebounder Nate Thurmond developed foul trouble early in the game and Rick Barry was held to 31 points by an aggressive St. Louis defense. Bill Bridges pulled down 32 rebounds for the Hawks and rookie Lou Hudson and Joe Caldwell scored key points in the victory.

Williams Paces City Pistol Club in Match

Kenneth Williams was top shooter in the weekly meeting of the Pampa Pistol Club. Williams fired 281 to win the rim fire shoot while Jess Goad was second with 263. Ralph Day was third at 258, then came David Holt, 247; D. L. Smith, 232 and John Goss, 158.

In center fire Williams scored 279, Fred Carothers, 262 and D. L. Smith, 253.

Bufs Spring Tilt on Tap

Always in past years Coach Joe Kerbel's West Texas State Buffaloes have had to rely on the pass as the ultimate weapon. This isn't true anymore.

So here is fair warning, don't blink your eyes at a West Texas football scrimmage, you might miss a touchdown.

Pampa fans can expect some high type excitement when the Buffs invade Harvester Stadium at 7:30 p.m. Saturday for their final out of town scrimmage of the season.

In their past two scrimmages West Texas' thunderclap offense

EUGENE MORRIS
scat back

sive units have sprayed up 155 points, rushed for 613 yards and passed for an additional 67½ in bringing space-age football to the Great Plains cities of Dallas and Plainview.

At Dumas the Big Red offense rolled to a crushing 11-9 victory and at Plainview calmed down a bit, winning "only" 44-3.

The most exciting phase of Kerbel's 1937 pro split-T attack is the rushing game.

Duane Thomas, streamlined 6-2, 215-pound sophomore that Kerbel's already dubbed as a future all-American, heads a backfield corps that is both powerful and elusive.

In the past two scrimmages, Thomas rushed for 374 yards and a whopping 15.5 yards per carry. He has the size and power to bowl over tacklers and the speed (9.9) to go all the way each time he touches the ball. Thomas is ticketed for fullback duty Saturday night.

Eugene (Mercury) Morris is expected to complement Thomas in the starting backfield. As a sophomore last season, Morris led the Buffs in both rushing and scoring. In two scrimmages Morris has zipped for 343 yards, caught six passes for 64 yards and scored five touchdowns.

Eugene Harper, a jarring 6-0, 215-pound transfer from Cameron J. C. will spell Thomas at fullback. Breadaway threats Curley (Bear) Wattlers, the nation's 11th ranked punt returner last season, Aaron Banks, and Jimmy Leonard will run behind Morris.

Paul Waite, 6-3, 215-pound transfer from Taff J. C. of California, is expected to draw the starting quarterback assignment. Waite was a J.C. all-American at Taff and Kerbel is well pleased with his progress in learning the Buff offense. In the past intra-squad scrimmage Waite has connected on 15 of 25 pass attempts for 225 yards.

Waite's favorite targets will be all-American end candidate Dave Skymakowski, who is enjoying a great spring, flanker Charles (Hodoot) Charley Henderson, and tight end Dan Andrews.

Backing up Waite will be Roy Winters, one of the most improved players on the Buff team.

Defensively, the Buffs return five starters from last year's rugged "Unfriendly Society."

The number one defensive unit will be spearheaded by All-American tackle Jimmy Campbell, linebacker Jesse Powell and safety Ricky Barrett.

The Buffs will conclude Spring drills here April 13 when the annual Varsity-Alumni game is staged in Buffalo Bowl. Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Pampa Plays Borger Today, Palo Duro Friday

The only difference was Pampa and Borger play baseball at 4 p.m. today than the other four games the two schools have played this season is that this is the important one.

Pampa and Borger met in the first of two district contests with the Harvesters gunning for a 3-1 conference record and 15-1 season standing.

The Bulldogs went into the fray with a 1-2 league, reading an 8-3 season mark.

In four non-conference games the Harvesters prevailed, 5-0, 13-4, 8-7 and 3-1.

Bob Connally was expected to start for Borger with Jim Lang the choice for Pampa. Connally is 2-1 while Lang is 4-0.

Friday Palo Duro visits Pampa for a 4 p.m. district contest at Optimist Club Park with Al Gomez or Gary Molberg expected to take the hill for Pampa.

Pat McKean will likely start for the Dons who are 2-1 in league play and 6-6 for the season. McKean is 3-5 while Gomez is 1-0 and Molberg 1-0.

Tasocosa is the "top leader" with a perfect 3-0 mark while Monterey, Pampa, Palo Duro are all tied for second at 2-1 and Amarillo, Borger, Coronado, Plainview, Caprock and Lubbock, all stand 1-2.

Pampa's B baseballers, 4-2, journey to Quail Friday and meet Liberal in a double-header Saturday.

Coach Bill Jones crew has beaten Quail once and split with Liberal in the Kansas city last week.

Maye Having Good Spring

By United Press International
It's easy to confuse Lee May with Lee Maye—but May has his hot bat but will make it even easier to tell them apart.

He's been having a good spring and he continued to look like a hitter Wednesday as he singled home Vada Pinson in the 12th inning to give the Reds a 1-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tries For First
In the other games Wednesday, Washington beat Boston 5-1, Detroit nipped Kansas City 7-6, Atlanta edged Minnesota 4-3, San Francisco topped Cleveland 6-5 in 10 innings, Houston ripped Los Angeles 10-3; St. Louis edged Philadelphia 5-4, Baltimore topped the Yankees 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs and California Angels battled to a 10-10 tie in a game that was called in the ninth inning because the brilliant setting sunlight at the Las Vegas Park prevented the pitchers from seeing the plate.

Ken Henderson's double with one out in the 10th scored Dick Ditz to give San Francisco its victory over Cleveland.

Nicklaus Has Four Goals in Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, whose "mumps" could turn out to be just a pain in the neck to his rivals, went out after four prestige goals today in the opening round of the 31st Masters Golf Tournament.

Nicklaus, ranking with Arnie Palmer as co-favorite at 6 to 1 among the 83 starters who made up the smallest Masters field in more than a decade, was shooting for a triumph that would make him:

—The first man in history to win the Masters three straight years.

—The only man except

Palmer to win the Masters four times.

—A member of the U.S. Ryder Cup team.

—And owner of the first leg on golfing's Holy Grail, the "grand slam" of U.S. and British Opens, PGA, and Masters titles in the same year.

Nicklaus won the Bing Crosby National but after a high finish at Doral ran into a siege of trouble. He blamed his putting but decided this week that his iron play might be responsible.

"I came here early to work out the chinks," he said. "I still am not playing as well as I'd like but I think I've solved some of my more serious problems."

Nevada Clears Next Clay Fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Cassius Clay has the approval of the Nevada State athletic commission to defend his heavyweight title at the Las Vegas Convention Center April 25 against Floyd Patterson, but the boxers might have to furnish their own police protection.

The commission voted 4-1 Wednesday to allow what will be Clay's last fight before his scheduled induction into the Army to be held in this gambling oasis.

But Sheriff Ralph Lamb warned "he promoters of the fighters they will not receive any police protection from my department this time."

Lamb said he was forced to take this position as a result of the near riot conditions which arose when the two heavyweights fought here in 1963.

CAUGHT IN DRAFT

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI)—The Buffalo Bills announced that they had signed their ninth and 10th draft choices to 1967 contracts.

Tight end Jerry Seither of Kent State, Buffalo's ninth round pick, and cornerback Tom Croft of Louisiana Tech, the Bills' 10th round choice, agreed to terms which were not disclosed.

Pampa, Borger and Plainview are the only 3-4 schools entered and Borger is expected to win the track title.

SOCCER WINNERS

BERLIN (UPI)—East Germany overcame a two goal deficit in the second half to beat Holland 4-3 Wednesday in the first leg of the European National Cup Soccer matches at Leipzig.

BACKS IN FOLD

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The champion Green Bay Packers announced Wednesday that they had signed three more 1967 college draft choices.

Inked to contracts were Claudia James, an offensive halfback from Jackson State, Fred Cassidy, a running back from Miami (Fla.) and Keith Browne, a flanker from Central Missouri. Browne was also the NCAA javelin champion last spring.

Job Dodgin' Gibson Is Cage Banquet's Feature

By RON CROSS
Bill Holmes, Sports Publicity Director at Texas Tech, picked up the phone, said a quick hello and when told we'd like some information on basketball coach Gene Gibson, quickly replied, "Why, are you all trying to hire him, too?"

Holmes was referring to the fact that some college and professional folk have been trying to lure Gibson away from the Red Raiders where he has been a very successful coach.

Gibson will be in Pampa tonight where he will be guest speaker, featured speaker, etc. at the Pampa Harvester basketball banquet, that will get underway at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

You'd better hurry, you've just got time to make it.

Besides Gibson, who is the featured attraction a Harvester senior will be presented the Hustling Harvester award, the most coveted cage award will be given to a Pampa basketball player.

And who wants to bet Steve Williams doesn't win it.

Gibson's career has been mostly success. He started his coach at Leverett's Chapel in East Texas and had a winner the two years he was there. He then moved to Snyder where his team tied for the district title in 1953-54.

Then it was to Texas Tech as Polk Robinson's assistant and six years ago he took over the head coaching job.

The father of three graduated from Lakeview High School, near Lubbock, spent some time in the South Pacific and then enrolled at Tech.

In his senior year at Tech, 1949-50, Robinson moved the 6'4" Gibson to center and challenged when Robinson moved up to athletic director after guiding the Raiders to their first Southwest Conference title.

When Tech shared the crown with Southern Methodist in 1963 it was the first time for a first-year coach to win even part of a SWC crown. Tech beat SMU in a special playoff and defeated Air Force Academy in the first round of the NCAA playoffs.

Most of that team graduated and the Raiders tied for fifth in 1961. In 1964 though Texas Tech rose to second place, handing that a player used in six of the wins had been scholastically ineligible.

In 1965 the Raiders broke even with both foes ahead of them in the standings while finishing third.

Last season Gibson guided the Raiders to a 9-5 season record and 7-7 SWC mark while finishing tied for fifth place.

Despite unprecedented injuries and illness that hampered the Raiders, they were the hottest team in the SWC in the last half of the season.

The Raiders had only one returning starter but in the second half won six of their last seven league games, including, in successive contests, among their victims were the No. 2 SWC team, TCU and No. 1 SMU. They also won two of three from NCAA representatives, splitting with SMU, beating New Mexico State and had the unique distinction of being undoubtedly the only cellar (at that time) team to be stalled on by a team that had beaten it earlier.

In other words A&M stalled on Tech at Lubbock throughout the game, taking six first half shots, but lost to the Raiders, 41-36.

Regulations Can Curb Jobs

Let's talk about jobs and why we're at it, take a look at how and why they are created. Most of the material things that come to a man and his family are purchased with money earned on a job of some kind. So it follows that jobs are mighty important to most of us.

The schooling of the children, the rug on the living room floor, the television set, the hamburger, the occasional recreational trips, the contributions to charity and the church are made possible by the fact that we have a job.

Without a job, life can be very depressing indeed. True, the children continue to play, but even as they do play, they sense a tension in the household. The period when the breadwinner of the family is looking for a job is a time of shaken confidence and of foreboding.

Let us think then of two things. First, let us ask, what causes the jobs to be? Second, what causes the jobs not to be? As to the first question, it is easy to see that one man employs another because he expects to make a profit on the second man's production. The other side of this picture is that the second man agrees to work for the first man because he also expects to benefit. Thus the profit goes two ways. True, in some cases, the employed person needs a job so badly that he goes to work for less than he would like to earn (who of us would not like to earn more?) but even in such cases he is buying the opportunity to come by something better later on. So the time element must be weighed into the transaction also.

The profit motive, therefore, is the cause of jobs. And the more people who have the vision to see where they may be able to make a profit, the more job makers we have and likewise the more jobs we have. What encourages the profit motive, therefore, has the effect of increasing the job supply.

The answer to the second question (what causes jobs not to be?) may be defined from the answer to the first. That is, when the profit motive is discouraged, the urge to create jobs is lessened. Thus, when job maker finds that he will be taxed out of his profit if he so much as commences, when regulation is piled on regulation to sap the businessmen's time and mental energy, you can readily see how all this tends to squelch the natural desire to invest or to create jobs.

Regulations and taxes are the work of politicians. Regulations and taxes discourage the creation of jobs. If this is the case is the smooth-talking politician your friend? Or to put the question in a more pertinent form, which politicians will do you the greater damages—one who advocates a cutback in the size of the ruling bureaucracy or the one who extols taxes as a mark of growth and regulation as a gauge of his own humanitarian zeal?

Cult of Big Think

One of the mottos by which go-go America tries to live is "THINK BIG!" While bigness, in itself, is not to be disparaged—and loftiness of thought is certainly to be encouraged—too often, the "big thinkers" convert their thoughts to action using coercively obtained funds.

No one does this better than the U.S. Department of Defense.

By thinking big, Defense has managed to outgrow the Pentagon, which is merely the biggest office building in all this big, big world.

By thinking big, Defense is now spawning four new "little Pentagons"—not so little however, that together they won't be as big as the Pentagon.

By thinking big, the Defense Department's headquarters and administrative staffs currently total 73,100 military and civilian employees in the Washington area alone—the numerical size of five combat divisions. By thinking big, Defense now needs 86 acres of office space to house this booming desk-bound army.

By thinking big, Defense has doubled its administrative costs in the past two years to $3.1 billion—more than the total budget of most foreign governments.

This, students, is big thinking at its biggest.

Well, not quite the biggest. The biggest would be for the Defense Department, with the thoughtful help of all the rest of us to big—think our way to one little word—PEACE.

Things being what they are, however, it appears that that big chore is going to have to be performed by individuals... without the assistance of the big-thinking Defense Department.

'Big, Fat, Bureaucratic Nose'

Rep. Donald J. Irwin, a Connecticut Democrat says the government "should keep its big, fat, bureaucratic nose out of the nation's vitamin bottles and cigarette packs."

"The government," he added should draw the line and stop trying to protect the American people from their own folly.

"If people want to smoke, that's their business. If they want to take vitamins, that's their business, too. The government needn't hold their hand and tell them how to spend their money."

He said he was becoming "just a bit fed up" with what he called a flood of regulations and efforts to regulate "emanating from the Food and Drug administration in particular." It sounds a little like some of us "extremists" have been saying for a long time. But Rep. Irwin is generally listed among the "liberals" who seem to vote for everything the administration wants. Perhaps he is beginning to see some of the fallacy of turning all human affairs over to the bureaucrats. We hope so.

We have a suggestion for Mr. Irwin. If he wants to do something worthwhile, he'll suggest eliminating the Food and Drug Administration; or even better the whole bureaucratic Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which one was has dubbed the Healthy, Wealthy and Wise Department.

Salvation Army Asks for Your Help

A stark black and white picture folder was recently sent out to friends of The Salvation Army showing children receiving shoes on a cold day this winter. Some of the little ones came with no shoes at all. Others wore shodded keds with the toes out. And nearly all wore the kind of rags most of us would have thrown away long before.

The first reaction of most people to the folder is shock. Then surprise. They didn't know children in Texas could exist on such a destitute level of survival.

But the scene was very familiar to the officers of The Salvation Army who work quietly from day to day with the unseen poor, the hidden population of our cities.

In Pampa, The Salvation Army has served these unfortunate for 40 years. Never during these years has it asked for funds for building purposes. The money it receives through the United Fund can only be used for operating expenses.

If the Army is to continue effective operation in Pampa it must have adequate building facilities. Its headquarters now in

Pull Up A Chair

By FRANK JAY MARKEY

The practice of matching marriage with money is disappearing in most Western societies, but the old custom still prevails in primitive lands. For example, a young swan on the Island of Yap who has a fel burning a hole in his pocket can buy himself 10,000 coconuts, an 18 foot canoe or wife. He better have big pockets though since a fel is a stone disk about 30 inches in diameter and weighs over 100 pounds. The price of a bride depends on the wealth of the suitor. A rich man in north-eastern Uganda may give as many as 200 head of cattle to the family of his desired mate. In the Santa Cruz Islands of the British Solomons the price for a wife may be no less than ten 30-foot coils, each made from the feathers of at least 300 birds. A long string of diwarra coral shell money can buy a wife in the Santo Islands. On the Gilbert Islands, New Britain and the southern Solomons, porpoise teeth are used as currency. Five hundred of the evenly matched incisors can get the purchaser a wife.

THE STRANGE FRUIT OF 'ACADEMIC FREEDOM' (Southern States Industrial Bulletin)

A minor incident of recent vintage was the forced cancellation of a guest appearance Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hays had planned to make at Howard University in Washington, D.C.

The only significant fact in the cancellation was the reason for it—militant pickets thrusting anti-draft signs in his face; rowdy demonstrations, even mass antagonism not unlike mob action. Of late, other institutions of higher learning have been the stage setting for similar acts of crass boorishness.

Since the federal government has injected itself into the field of education—starting with the pre-school age group, we'd like to suggest that its curriculum include a course in basic good manners.

The fetish now being made by intellectual freedom has brought forth some strange fruit. Faculty members and students, by prearrangement, make a great show of leaving the hall when the Vice-President of the United States—a guest speaker—approaches the lectern. Rowdism almost silences the voice of the Secretary of Defense, a guest speaker at another revered ivy-covered university.

The appearance of some invited speakers whose words of wisdom are not likely to inspire the under-graduate (or graduate student) to heights of greatness is of questionable propriety. For example, we don't know just what an Alger Hiss, Stokely Carmichael, or Martin Luther King can contribute to the knowledge being garnered by the campus mind. But, if they are invited and if they accept, they are entitled to the same courtesy a guest speaker would receive at a civic club luncheon. Oddly enough, this type of character gets better treatment than the Vice-President.

There are those who will argue that fundamental courtesy should be learned at home. Ah, true—but that used to be so, but not any longer. The youngster is learning that "nice guys do not win." He sees demonstrations, often launched by kooks and beatniks, wring major concessions from society. He sees his teacher picketing his own school. At athletic contests, he joins the student-body in booing the game officials when a penalty is imposed on his team.

On television, he sees the mass rage of spectators at baseball or football games litter a field with debris as tangible evidence of their displeasure. He even sees policemen trying to protect game officials or the visiting team from the ire of adults to whom the price of admission includes the right to be reprehensible.

There was a time when a speaker, no matter how controversial, would be listened to, courteously, if not respectfully. There was a time when an athletic contest subjected the participants to the hazards of the game alone—not to a physical beating from disgruntled spectators.

And, perhaps most important of all, there was a time when our institutions of higher learning did not regard shouted insults to guest speakers, threat-

Sponge Baths Effective

Relief of Itchy, Dry Skin

Q—What would cause my legs to itch when they are exposed to the cold?

A—The most likely cause is winter itch which is especially common in persons with dry skin. It usually helps to take sponge baths with cold or lukewarm water using little or no soap. If you use soap, stick to plain unscented brands and rinse the soap off thoroughly. Rub a thin layer of lanolin cream on your skin and use a humidifier during the months when you must heat your home.

Q—How long after contact with a person who has infectious mononucleosis before you catch the disease? What are the symptoms? How long does it last? What is the treatment?

A—The incubation period in this disease is two to seven weeks. The victim may have fever, sore throat and enlarged lymph nodes in the neck. Although complete recovery usually occurs in seven to 10 days, the disease may persist for several weeks.

Cortisone and related drugs, if given at the onset of the disease, may shorten its course. Aside from this treatment is aimed at the relief of symptoms.

Q—My son 15, had infectious mononucleosis five months ago. The lymph nodes in his neck are still enlarged. What would cause this?

A—This has been observed in a small proportion of the victims of infectious mononucleosis. These nodes should gradually decrease in size but your son will probably be able to feel small hard kernels in his neck for the rest of his life.

Q—My doctor says I have lichen planus. Is it serious? What causes it? How long does it last? What can be done for it? Will it come back?

A—The cause of lichen planus, a skin disease characterized by flat red or purple spots that itch severely, is unknown but in some persons it may be precipitated by bruising or scratching the skin, nervous exhaustion or a vitamin deficiency. It is annoying rather than serious. It may last several months and often comes back.

Although there is no specific cure for it, X-ray treatments or injections of bismuth subcitrate have helped some victims. Calamine lotion with phenol, and other lotions will give some relief but will not clear up the lesions.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

If you're thinking of mailing a live, day-old duck, chick or turkey to a friend, it's O.K. with the Post Office Department. If you no longer like your friend, you might prefer to send him a live bloodworm, earthworm, mealworm, frog, toad, salamander, leech or snail, says The World Almanac. The Post Office will accept these creatures as well. But there are a few mailing instructions—over 1 1/2 pages of them—defining the time of shipping, kinds of crates, types of animals and other formalities that must be fulfilled in order to ship live animals.

Billboard Attack Part Of Larger War on Advertising

By OSCAR W. COOLEY
Assoc. Prof. of Economics,
Ohio Northern Univ.

Driving down any main road, one sees many billboards. They advertise beer and bread, cigarettes and gasoline, autos and stereos. Smaller signs tell us that the Cozy Rest Motel and the Sweet Alice Tearoom are just down the road.

Some folks sneer and snort at these outdoor advertisements, regarding them as blots on the landscape, ugly to the eye and a waste to the pocket. In fact, there is a movement to get billboards legislated out of sight. Washington is forcing the states to ban billboards from the interstate highways.

The attack on billboards is a SKIRMISH OF A LARGER WAR ON ADVERTISING in general. Vance Packard sold many copies of his books leading Madison Avenue for leading people by the nose presumably, into the stores and making them buy. If they had their way, the Packards, Galbraiths, etc., would sweep advertising off the TV screens and out of the magazines and newspapers.

There are many things in this world which one is hard put to defend on aesthetic grounds. A fat woman, for example. Or an oil tank farm. But it does not follow that we should straightway legislate these objects off the landscape.

For one thing, often they are handy to have around. A fat woman is bound to be jolly and a good cook, even if not a Miss America, and oil tanks, though not modeled on the lines of the Parthenon, hold the fuel that warms buildings and moves cars and trucks.

Then, too, what things ARE beautiful, what ones ugly? Long ago it was agreed that "de gustibus, non disputandum est" (concerning tastes, there is no use arguing). Beauty is subjective, which is to say, every person has his own idea of what is beautiful. Regarding some wives, one wonders "what in the world Joe Whosols could have seen in that woman," but rest assured Joe found beauty there or he would not have led her to the altar.

The American Way

By HARRY BROWNE

"We must hold to the principle that the worst of ends do not justify bad means."

When you take this statement apart and examine its component elements, you find that there is a grain of truth in it but, by and large, it is very misleading idea.

For years, some people have been berating the Communists because they supposedly believe that "the ends justify the means." As the story goes, the Communists want peace, brotherhood, prosperity, etc., but the anti-communist dogmatically asserts that the Communists are murdering and looting in order to bring about those ends. And "the ends do not justify the use of immoral means."

But there can be nothing sacrosanct about means. Means are simply being the ends sought. Life is nothing more than the search to attain certain desired ends. The means are totally unimportant when divorced from the ends sought; by themselves, the means are neither good nor bad, right nor wrong, moral nor immoral.

It is only when the desired ends are brought into the picture that the means take on importance. Then, one must examine the means to determine if they are appropriate to the end sought—meaning: Will these means really bring about the end I seek? If the answer is no, then the means are bad, wrong, immoral. If the answer is yes, the means are right, good and moral—they are worthy because they will accomplish the purpose.

Where has the argument over communism and ends and means gone wrong? Simply in assuming that the Communists really could bring about peace, prosperity, and brotherhood through the means they are using. It is not that the means violate some moral code (because the people in question do not recognize that moral code anyway). Rather, it is that you will never have a world of freedom using coercion as its instrument.

You may very well attain a world of slavery through coercion—at least temporarily. And if that is the goal, then the means are appropriate—at least for the slavemaster. But the means are totally inappropriate to bring about freedom. It would be like saying I intend to go from Los Angeles to New York by driving my car into the Pacific Ocean. And when someone says that I'm going about it wrong, I declare "But the ends justify the means." Yes they do; but that doesn't turn insanity into rationality.

The reason I do not steal is because I cannot really obtain the things I want through stealing. Yes, I would like to have more money than I have now. But that isn't the whole statement of my desires. I also want the freedom to do what I choose with the money, the respect of the people I intend to deal with, the security of knowing that no one is seeking revenge upon me. And stealing is inappropriate to those goals because it will produce the exact opposite.

A great mistake in decision-making comes from assuming that certain means automatically bring about certain ends—when, in fact, the opposite may be true. So check your assumptions to be sure that you have not adopted someone else's clichés.

The same, of course, applies to other advertisements. My mother abhors the whiskey ads, and so when a magazine comes her first act is to tear out the booze blurb and consign them to the trash can. She is quite within her rights; Mr. Seagram can't touch her.

TV viewers, impatient with the commercials, sometimes switch off their sets to escape. There is a gadget with which you can shut off both sight and sound without even going near the set.

Advertisement has a purpose: to inform. It tells what can be bought, and where, and how to use it to increase life's satisfactions. What encyclopedias of practical information are the mail-order catalogs! My wife consults them prior to every shopping trip.

Not every advertisement interests every person, but because I don't like to listen to that ungrammatical couplet about Winston cigarettes does not mean it should be ruled off the air. I am free not to listen to it. Apparently many people want to listen to such ads, for they cost money, and the advertisers are not engaged in philanthropy.

Indeed, cannot the self-interest of the advertiser be depended on to provide the kind and quantity of advertising that people want? His bread, after all, is buttered to the extent that he pleases, not displeases.
