

On The BEAM
By J. W. King, Sr.

The editor of this weekly paper and I am sure the editor of every weekly does too gets a lot of mail from organizations and business firms all over the United States offering the paper free of charge what they consider news and information the people ought to have. Most of it finds its way to our wastebasket right away. Some of it we keep for a while and study for our benefit.

The latest offer we have had is a column written by some Washington columnist and sponsored by the Republican Party. This offer did not come by mail. It was presented to us by a lady from Abilene who tried to impress us with the importance of getting the information the column contains to the people. The column, she said, would be furnished to the Mitchell County News without charge every week. All we would have to do would be to furnish the space for it (without charge to the Republican party of course).

Being a Democrat this editor told the lady we are not interested in furthering the interests of the Republican party or candidates Barry Goldwater. The lady and I had quite an argument about the REA and other things. I told the lady the Mitchell County News will take no part in helping the Republican party destroy the REA. To do away with the REA seems to be the aim of the Republicans especially Barry Goldwater, and turn the system over to private enterprise. Now I believe in private enterprise as strong as anyone but I can't see the justice or necessity of turning the REA over to private power companies. They'll tell you that the REA is trying to grab the power business in the cities as well as the rural areas. I don't believe it. The lady told me she knew that the REA and the private power company are fussing over which is to furnish power to new subdivisions of a city. I told the lady I had no way of knowing positively about the situation she referred to but my opinion is that the area in dispute is really in REA territory for it is outside the city limits and in all probability the REA is already serving part of it or has its lines there ready for service. So instead of the REA trying to get into the city the private company is trying to get into the rural area.

The point we are trying to make is that The Mitchell County News reserves all of the space in the paper for local items and articles that are helpful to our readers. We could give our space away if we wanted to, it would take a lot less effort to get out a paper every week but I doubt if you would like the paper.

Of recent weeks we have received folders full of pictures and material of all kinds from most of the automobile manufacturers. They surely didn't expect us to run it but they hoped we would. Had we used all the material they sent we would have given them hundreds of dollars worth of space. We do not have any to give away except for local activities.

Friday and Saturday of this week are the days the Loraine Community Fair will be held. Get those exhibits in and let's have the best fair ever.

Texas Electric Service Company Improving Service To Loraine

Citizens of Loraine probably have been wondering why so many Texas Electric Service Company vehicles have been coming to Loraine each day for the past three weeks.

Don W. Benson, manager of the Texas Electric Service Company at Colorado City, gave a little "light" on the subject this week. Loraine, he said, has been receiving 2400 volts of electricity through the system. Since the advent of television and many other electric appliances in general use coupled with the electricity used by the gins during the ginning season, the voltage was not sufficient. Voltage has been stepped up to 4160 volts, Benson said, and in order to make the change transformers throughout town had to be changed and the entire substation just North of town had to have larger transformers too.

While the changes were being made it was necessary for the electricity to be off for a short time in various parts of town. Mr. Benson said he was sorry for that but he believes everyone will be happy with the new voltage when it is finally completed this week.

A question and answer period on space was given by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Coffee. Mrs. Coffee presented an illustrated talk on the Telstar Satellite and its uses. She stated that five years ago the United States entered the space race. Rapid advances have been made and her talk was full of information.

HINTS OFFERED ON COTTON FIRE PREVENTION

College Station, Sept. 30- Careful planning and preparation now can reduce losses from gin fires this fall, believes B. C. Reeves, extension cotton mechanization and ginning specialist.

Reeves offers the following suggestions for reducing losses from gin fires. Keep fire extinguishers available in all parts of the gin house, and, he points out, be sure they are ready for use—properly filled and tagged with a dated refill card.

At least three covered barrels should be placed in the gin house and kept filled with water. They should be placed in strategic points in the gin along with several buckets. The buckets should be labeled for fire use only so they will be available in case they are needed.

He suggests checking to see that water lines are large enough to furnish adequate pressure. A two-inch line with two-inch riser is preferable. A half or three-quarter inch line is of little help against a hot cotton fire, he warns. Sufficient hose, preferably one and a half inches in size, to reach any part of any building on the gin lot, plus an extra 25 feet should be available. The hose should be hung on racks and used for fire purposes.

Gin owners and managers should find it very profitable to train their gin crews in fire fighting methods and familiarize them with the equipment available for fire fighting. A properly equipped and trained gin crew can play a major role, not only in holding gin fires losses to a minimum, but their alertness can also prevent fires.

Each piece of gin machinery should be checked before this year's season hits to make sure it is properly grounded as a prevention measure. Good house-keeping in and around the gin during the ginning season can also be a big help in fire prevention, the specialist concludes.

Veterans News

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Q. Must a $10,000 GI term insurance policy be converted to permanent plan type insurance all at once?

A. A veteran may convert as little as $1,000 (or more, of course) to a permanent plan while retaining the remainder as term insurance. In this way, he can stretch the conversion over several years in keeping with his own financial condition.

Q. How many veterans have thus far taken advantage of the VA home, farm or business loan program?

A. More than 6 million veterans had made such loans up to December 31, 1962.

Q. Are any survivors of the Mexican War still alive?

A. No, since this war ended in 1848, more than 110 years ago. However, there are still two widows of Mexican War veterans alive in the United States.

Q. Does the VA set standards for prosthetic devices in this country?

A. The VA has a leading role in supporting and conducting research and development of prosthetic and sensory aids, in cooperation with other Government agencies, universities, industrial organizations, and private agencies. Also, the VA is the largest single purchaser of prosthetic devices in the United States. Thus the VA exercises considerable influence on the quality of appliances and services furnished by the prosthetics industry not only to veterans but to all disabled persons. Primarily as a result of this influence, prosthetic devices have been greatly improved in the past 16 years.

VIEWS

GROWING

This may seem to be the wrong season of the year to think on the theme of growing. We talk about different seasons with different concepts. We call winter the dormant season, spring is the awakening season, summer is the season of development and fall is the harvest or the result of the rest, growing and developing of the other three.

However, unless the other three seasons work, there will be no real satisfactory harvest. All the seasons "work together". Roots are put down in the winter, buds in the spring are the good result of the rest growth. The summer development comes as combining of winter and spring activity and "then comes the harvest".

Unless we see evidence of growing, in any area of life, we should become alarmed. We have a sub-normal situation. You see, people talk of "growing up" and in later life talk of "growing old". Some one said an adult is one who has ceased "growing up" and begins "growing out".

This is true. Unless we continue a developing process when we reach adulthood, we become static and thus begin the process of failure.

We can continue to grow if we will place ourselves in the proper category of the seasons. We must cooperate with the forces which give incentive to development. In our town, we have such forces.

We have our Churches, Schools, Clubs, and even the old "Spit and Whistle" benches are not complete. They gone. All these give opportunity for self expression and service. To express one's self and to serve will make giants of us all. It will enable our community to grow with us.

VACATION TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Owens and son Gerald recently made a trip to Colorado and New Mexico on vacation. Verla Mae wrote the story of the trip as they traveled so we'll let her tell it in her own words:

We left home September 5 not really knowing where we wanted to go. With dentist appointments, cotton poisoning and time for Gerald to be getting in school it had to be a quick short trip we thought. We thought we'd go to Duluth, Minnesota, Michigan and go over to the Black Hills in South Dakota, but spent the night at Gerald's brother's home in Plainview, got up and started out still not satisfied and decided to go to Yellowstone National Park so off we went in that direction. So at the last town in Texas, Texline, we got butane for the pickup. Sure saw beautiful ranch country around Clayton, New Mexico, and between there and Raton. In the Capulin Mountains before we got to Raton sure got cool and rained like everything. Raton Pass is real pretty place to me. Well we've just entered Colorado. Colorado. Clouds are so heavy and Gerald wanted to ride through the clouds at Skyline Drive in those deals on cables. Cold now. Temperature change was so sudden. Raton into small hill too.

Trinidad, Colorado sure has odd old buildings. The court house was Gothic architecture, another old building on left was Renaissance architecture. Went through more mountains and came to Walenburg. Pretty nice town. Just 90 miles now to Colorado Springs and winter clothes would have felt good, too. Funny how the temperature can change so suddenly. It was comfortable after 15 or 20 miles out. When we little I wanted to turn off and go to Royal Gorge and wanted to see Pikes Peak. We went on as it was late. Pueblo seems to be a mining town, coal, steel, iron ore. Lots of old old buildings here too with Chinese domes and Roman arches. It was too late to go up on Pikes Peak so we started on toward Denver and Gerald was so disappointed he said: "Daddy, if you'll come back here in the morning we'll go and see Helen and Hercul Williams at Placerville instead of going to Yellowstone. So we went to a beautiful place around and around and backtracked toward Colorado Springs and spent the night at Castle Rock. Went on to Colorado Springs, went up on Pikes Peak Sept. 7 and saw Santa's Workshop at North Pole, Colorado, at the foot of the peak. We went to a beautiful place as we could had it been not rainy and cloudy. We were in clouds after we got up 14,110 feet it started sleeting up a storm-it tickled me because I had a sweater and they laughed at me for taking it. We were on top over 30 minutes getting coffee and looking around. Came out and there was 2 or 3 inches of sleet and snow and clouds were so dense you couldn't see. I wish we were at the bottom then, and surely not bottom side up. After we got down to 11,000 ft. elevation we ran out of the sleet and snow but the heater still felt good. Gerald said, "it's winter in these mountains, feels like 40 below."

I knocked on wood (my head) but our old Chevy pickup on butane made it like a Cadillac. Nearly all the cars they take tourists up in are Cadillacs, old model. Left Colorado Springs going on to find the Williams at Placerville. It's unbelievable the temperature could change so quick it's nice and warm and sun is shining, getting late though. On Highway 50 going toward Canon City passed some pretty valley and ranch land. In the valley there was fresh corn. It just accidentally happened that Royal Gorge is 4 miles off road so we went by and saw it. It is a sight but is a miracle how they can build things. The world's highest suspension bridge, the world's steepest railway. Saw the old auto museum there closely. Traveled through lots of mountains, the Arkansas River was really rolling. Salida, Colorado, is a pretty place, saw mills west of town and fertile valleys on each side of road. Have been in mountains all day, they now have tall, tall pines and quaking aspen. It is late now and road past Gunnison is crooked as snake and lots of construction. Got to Placerville where we were supposed to visit the Williams and they had moved close to Alamosa, so we backtracked again, finally found where they lived and they were over in high mountains at Durango or Dolores. We arrived at Dolores at 3 in the morning after driving over 30 or 40 miles of crooked rough narrow mountain roads to find they were in Durango. So we got a room and slept till 10 ate and left for Albuquerque. We passed through the reservation, Navajo country coming into Farmington, N. M. Aztec territory around Blomfield on our way to Cuba, N. M. in Navajo country. Most of the Navajo houses are adobe huts, round, no windows, no water to be seen close by. Entering Apache reservation which is much prettier than the others to me. Haven't seen any huts or houses, must live in a village. Finally saw a few houses (not so huts) seen here and there. Well we reached Cuba, N. M., stopped for a good meal and found pure in rest room, got all nervous afraid someone would think I swiped it but I took it and mine into a cafe and looked and found personalized check book, looked around and out front gassing up their car was some people with a small trailer with the name on it, a preacher from Albuquerque. His daughter was happy when I took it to her. We ate and took off, passed Lavanta and entered Jemez reservation, on toward Bernalillo, N. M., passed the Zia reservation 27 miles to Albuquerque, passed Bernalillo an old town and crossed the Sandia Indian village. Got into Albuquerque Sunday night Sept. 8 at 8 o'clock. The Hubert Ingram, old friends of about 19 years, had moved out 38 miles East and bought their old place from the Stuckeys, so we took off and surprised them to death. They begged us to stay. We stayed Sunday night and Monday night and left Tuesday.

We visited the Longhorn Rangeland Museum which was as interesting as any of the trip to me. It's about 12 miles East of Blackie's place. There was 200,000 things to see at Longhorn museum so we didn't begin to see it all. The ranch consists of 70,000 acres. We decided to high-tail it the closest way home but had a sudden change of mind and are going out of our way by Hobbs, N. M. to Harlie's sister's, Guss. 150 more miles out of the way won't hurt when we went about 300 or more out of our way to see the Williams and they were gone. We came through Ft. Stanton so we took pictures of Billy the Kid grave, looked around the museum and took a few more pictures. Leaving Ft. Stanton and Billy Kid territory came through Melrose on our way to Portales. Lots of broom corn and castor bean fields, also cotton and peanuts, alfalfa and sweet potatoes. To make this long story short we ate lunch and tore out as hard as we could go, got to Hobbs and had time for a nap before we went to the Seitzers. Headed home Wednesday morning and anxious to get started. Passed lots of beautiful pastures and pretty cattle between Hobbs and Seminole. Got home about 3 o'clock Wednesday evening Sept. 11. Loraine never looked better. Had a good time but am glad to be home with our friends. Harlie and Rookie were as glad as I was too. Verla Caver.

Farm Facts

The proportion of potatoes used for processed foods increased from 2% of the 1940 crop to nearly 25% of the 1960 crop; and by 1970 it is estimated that over 50% of the crop will be processed.

Prediction of this bright future for processed potato products comes from Harry H. Harp, a staff member of the Market Potentials Branch, Economic Research Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Harp notes that utilization of potatoes for processing into frozen French fries and dehydrated mashed potatoes nearly doubled from 1955 to 1960.

According to a USDA study, the retail market offers the largest potential for dehydrated mashed potatoes and French fries since four-fifths of the food supply moves through retail channels. At the time of the study, however, only three-fifths of the dehydrated mashed potatoes and two-fifths of the frozen French fries were sold through retail stores.

Processed potato products may take 1/2 the crop by 1970.

Acceptance of these new products by consumers, both household and institutional, is evidenced by a leveling off in the long-term decline in potato consumption.

It is a well-known fact among farmers in this area that farmer owned gins are doing a better job for the farmer. We'd like to gin your cotton this fall and every fall.

OFFICIAL MEMORANDUM
By John Connally,
Governor of Texas

The need for health insurance coverage for all citizens of Texas is vitally important to the continued growth, welfare and economy of the State.

The 58th Legislature fulfilled one of the greatest needs in this area by authorizing organization of the Texas 65 Health Insurance Association to help care for a large segment of our people.

Texas 65 seeks to offer health insurance coverage, on a voluntary basis, to all people over the age of 65 regardless of their present health conditions.

This voluntary program will supplement other health care programs for those over 65, and together they provide Texas with a model plan for meeting this responsibility. The insurance industry deserves commendation for this contribution to the people of Texas.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the month of October, 1963, as:

TEXAS 65 MONTH

in this State.

In official recognition whereof, I hereby affix my signature this 26th day of September, 1963.

(Signed) John Connally,
Governor of Texas

TAX MAN SAM SEZ:

It's been some time since we talked about self-employment taxes. Self-employment tax is real popular with the fellow who is about a hup, skip and a jump away from a social security retirement check. There are quite a few other people who either don't know that they are liable for self-employment tax-like other taxes throughout history-is not optional for those who would like to pay the tax. If you make more than $400 a year of self-employment income and haven't already paid social security taxes up to the maximum of $4800 income you just don't have any option-you owe self-employment tax. Qualifying for social security benefits is pretty important, in addition to staying out of trouble with Internal Revenue.

The Internal Revenue Service has issued a ruling that says that both husband and wife should get an identification number for tax filing purposes in Texas. This is an outgrowth of the community property law which says that both husband and wife have income. If you don't have a identification number you should drop by the post office and get an SS-5 form to send along to the Social Security folks.

Max Leach, minister of the Lightfoot Street Church of Christ whose home is in Abilene, visited in the J. E. Reddin home Sunday afternoon.

Read 1 Thessalonians 5:15-25

Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In everything give thanks. (1 Thessalonians 5:16-18.)

One cold December day, a little curlyheaded boy grumbled to his older brother: "Father told us to ask him for whatever we wanted. I asked him yesterday for a kite, and he has not got it for me."

"Yes, and I asked him for a gold watch, and he has never given me one!" said the older brother. "I don't see the good of asking him for things."

One day in May, the father gave a beautiful kite to his little boy. Nine years later he called the other boy and said, "I suppose you have forgotten that you asked for a gold watch when you were a little boy?"

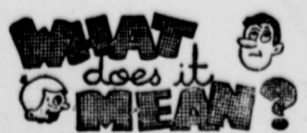

"Yes," answered the tall youth. "But I haven't," said the father. "Here is the watch; value it and take care of it."

Although God seems to be indifferent, we know He is working out His purposes. We know when we want the answer, but God knows when it is best for us to have it. His delays are due to His perfect timing. At the right time God answers all Spirit-inspired requests.

Prayer: Our Father, we thank Thee for all the benefits we receive from Thee. Thou knowest the best time for us to receive them. Grant us patience that we may wait Thy time. In Christ's name. Amen.

Thought For The Day: God's delays are not denials.

GOOD FRIDAY

Since Christ was crucified on the day we know as "Good Friday," it hardly makes it a "good" day. Most authorities agree the day was first called "God's Friday," implying that God's plan for Christ's martyrdom was being followed.

DON'T YOU READ BEFORE YOU BUY?

Where but in print can you get so close to the advertising messages that interest you? Where else can a woman clip the coupons and recipes that intrigue her? Or tear out tips to try on leftovers? Or mark, for future marketing, any of the colorful food ideas which strike her fancy?

And where else can she circle and compare the colors and styles of clothing and furnishings that appeal to her?

Where else, in fact, can any message be re-run at will by an interested audience?

So make sure a good part of your advertising message gets into print. Let somebody's eyes linger over it as long as they like. Let somebody's scissors clip it free of competition. And then watch someone's pocket or purse carry it to the place of purchase. Print makes sense because print makes sales.
