Stimson Charges 'Leak' State Department Secret Files

SECRETARY MAKES STATEMENT EXECUTIVE SESSION OF PROBE FLOTATION OF FOREIGN BONDS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—An assertion by Secretary Stimson that secret state department information had "leaked" brought a sharp clash with Senator Johnson, Republican, California, today in an executive session of the senate finance committee.

The flareup resulted from a remark by Stimson that questions asked by Senator Johnson in the committee's investigation of the flotation of foreign bonds indicated information "from the department's files."

It ended with a statement by Mr. Stimson that he intended no insult to Senator Johnson and did not insinuate that Johnson had obtained his knowledge first hand from department clerks. The senator, in turn, dropped the subject and would not comment on it afterwards.

Called Before Committee

Stimson was called before the committee to explain the department's refusal to furnish correspondence from the department's files on the Barco oil concession and loans to Colombia which the group has been investigating.

He reiterated his belief it would be bad policy to make the correspondence public, but finally offered to go through it and give the committee any that could be published without harm.

Stimson also told the committee Jefferson Caffery, American minister to Colombia, should not be called to the stand.

Senator Johnson had indicated he would call Caffery in connection with the loan and concession investigation, but dropped the subject after Stimson's statement.

Johnson said later the department was in "a strange and anomalous situation."

He charged that "dispatches in which our people are vitally interested are read by a department of our government to international bankers and denied to the rest of our people."

Bills Ready for Session of Legislature to Convene Monday

PROVIDE DEATH OR LIFE FOR CRIMINAL ATTACKERS

Also Plan Reorganization of Police Department of Honolulu

HONOLULU, Jan. 16. (AP)—A special legislative program designed to purge Hawaii's "paradise" of high crime was rushed toward completion today by Gov. Lawrence M. Judd.

Confronted by another Washington repercussion—consideration by the navy of plans to cut short the forthcoming maneuvers of the Pacific fleet in order to meet the request of naval men for an opportunity to protect their families—the territorial administration made ready for the special session of the legislature Monday.

Bills providing death or life imprisonment for criminal attackers of women and for reorganization of Honolulu's severely criticized police department, were being drawn with all possible speed.

FARMERS HOLD COUNTY MEET; FAVOR HUNTER

Full Representation of Precincts Attend General Rally

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED TAXATION DISCUSSED

Reports to Effect Farmers Solidly Behind Candidate

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 16.—Resolutions endorsing Tom F. Hunter as the farmers' candidate for governor and putting the agricultural interests of Wichita county on record as favoring a reduction of the land tax burden were adopted at an enthusiastic meeting of farmer representatives from all precincts of the county at Iowa Park Saturday afternoon.

The meeting was a gathering to hear reports from a general precinct movement that friends of Mr. Hunter had inaugurated to make the county 100 per cent for him, and reports were to the effect that the effort had been successful, that precinct workers had found the sentiment unanimous and that Wichita county farmers were to be loyal to the man they consider their friend and faithful supporter.

Hunter Speaks

Mr. Hunter, pioneer Wichitan prominent in legal and oil circles, addressed the farmers briefly, urging them to help bring about legislation for their own protection. He said, in part:

"You of the farms realize that you can no longer survive unless your unbearable and unjust ad valorem taxes are materially reduced and unless the markets for the products of our soil are protected. The city real estate owner has the same tax burdens that you have and they must have relief. To get your relief you must be willing to grant relief justly due all classes of the masses. The great majority of the people must band together on fundamental principles for one common cause. When you seek to retrench in government expenses you must join with those affected as you are affected. When you seek to tax the two-thirds of our wealth now escaping taxation you must pool with all classes distressed. When you seek to tax prod-

Three Planes and Five Men Held On Border in Investigation Huge International Air Smuggling Ring

LAREDO, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—Three airplanes and five men were held by Mexican and American authorities today in an investigation of what appeared to be an international aerial smuggling ring.

The Mexican customs officers yesterday swooped down upon a monoplane south of Colombia, Mexico, 24 miles up the Rio Grande from Neuvo Laredo, and took into custody two men, who said they were from San Antonio. Officers said the plane was filled with cans of alcohol.

Earlier in the day other Mexican authorities captured a biplane and its three occupants near Neuvo Laredo, but refused to give any information about the latter, other than that they had contraband goods in the plane.

American customs officers seized a biplane in a pasture near Eagle Pass, in the same general border country, last Monday, but failed to capture two men known to have been the pilots. Arrests were expected at any time.

All the men were placed in jail at Neuvo Laredo, across the river from Laredo, and closely questioned by the Mexican officers. They were given permission to see attorneys, but were not allowed to talk to newspapermen.

Old Tomb Rivaling King Tut's in Value Uncovered in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 16. (US)—Painstakingly picking and shoveling away the enveloping earth of centuries, Mexican archeologists today uncovered a tomb in the ruins of which they have stumbled upon treasures equalled only by those found in the sepulchre of the Egyptian Pharaoh Tutankh-Amen.

The tomb, described as "the most important in America," lies amid the tumbled remains of an ancient city discovered at Monte Alban, 20 miles from Oaxaca, in the state of Oaxaca, in Southwest Mexico.

The story of its being brought to light was telegraphed to the department of archeology by Alfonso Caso, chief of the expedition delving in its ruins.

He declared the tomb approximately 100 feet long and 150 feet wide. He said it contains countless gold objects, solid gold statutes, ornaments of jade and alabaster, pearls, and precious stones. Caso said the tomb, carved out of solid stone, is covered with snake head ornamentation. It presents many variations from the Aztec remains uncovered in other sections of Mexico, he said. His message stated in part:

"We have discovered the most important tomb in America. Its material value will probably equal that of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb. Its archeological value is inestimable. It will be the pride of Mexico."

Caso added that the ruins of the city cover several blocks, in many places protruding through the surface soil that sifted over them through the centuries. He said at one point he had come upon an elevation which he believes to be a buried pyramid.

FLOOD WATERS SPREAD OVER SIX COUNTIES

Levees Crash After Month Of Strain Driving Many From Homes

HUNDREDS MAROONED IN MISSISSIPPI AREA

Fighters Give Up Task of Saving Levees Along Tallahatchie

GLENDORA, Miss., Jan. 16. (AP)—Water from the swirling Tallahatchie, Coldwater, Yalobusha and Yazoo rivers spread out today in six Mississippi counties, marooning hundreds of persons.

Levees crashed after a month of severe strain and residents took to high ground to await rescue.

Reaching out into Louisiana, rains kept the Ouachita river in the Monroe section pushing upward, and levee crews continued to raise the dykes to prevent deeper inundation of West Monroe.

Shreveport, in northwest Louisiana on the upper Red river, reported the flood spreading below there. At least 20,000 acres of lowlands between Gilliam and Shreveport are under water and 200 families, most of them negroes, have fled their homes.

A repetition of the disastrous floods of 1930 in the Caddo parish area were anticipated because of a new deluge of rains.

Ruth Judd Trial Phoenix Set For Tuesday Morning

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 16. (US)—Maricopa county is all set to give Ruth Judd justice—with neatness and dispatch.

Both sides in what undoubtedly will prove to be Arizona's most sensational murder trial are agreed on this point, but their definitions of justice differ.

And justice for Ruth—the winsome, blue-eyed woman who murdered her two best friends and packed them into trunks—may be a hangman's noose, a padded cell, or freedom . . .

Tuesday morning, three months from the date the bodies of Agnes Ann Lerol, laboratory technician, and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, tubercular patient, were discovered in the baggage room at Los Angeles, Superior Judge Howard C. Speakman will call Winnie Ruth Judd for trial.

The state, the defense and Ruth are ready.

BLAINE DELAYS FINAL PASSAGE OF RELIEF BILL

Prevents Measure From Going to Conference As Expected

PAUSE IN INVESTIGATION OF FOREIGN SECURITIES

Honolulu Probe Is Sidetracked by Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The end of a congressional week which saw substantial progress on President Hoover's economic program found the senate trying to get the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction measure to conference.

Temporarily up with its work, the house was in recess.

An objection by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, kept the reconstruction measure from going to the parley which will mean final congressional approval.

Leaders in both houses, however, are certain it will get to the White House by the middle of next week.

In the midst of the maneuvering Senator Sheppard, Texas Democrat, praised prohibition and Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, attacked it.

Foreign Securities Probe

The senate finance committee paused in its investigation of the sale of foreign securities in the country to ask Secretary Stimson why he would not give it state department correspondence concerning an American loan to Colombia.

The answer of the secretary was the publication of such correspondence would make it impossible for his department to handle the delicate subject of foreign relations efficiently.

Another senate investigation was

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Jan. 16. (AP)—C. E. Carlson, a guard at the federal penitentiary here, was under arrest today charged with smuggling contraband into the prison.

Acting Warden Fred Zerbst said the guard's arrest had no connection with the recent sensational break of seven prisoners which ended in the death of three, recapture of four and the wounding of Warden T. B. White.

Carlson was arrested last night on a warrant sworn to by Zerbst. Specifically, the guard was charged with carrying letters out of the penitentiary and returning money to convicts.

Carlson was arraigned before United States Commissioner J. K. Codding and held in the county jail in default of $7,500 bail.

FOUR DEAD AFTER GUN FIGHT AT KENTUCKY CHURCH SERVICE ALLEGED THAT GIRL WRONGED

LONDON, Ky., Jan. 16. (AP)—The death tonight of Earl Johnson, 25, brought to four the death toll of a quarrel between two mountain families at church services at New Salem this afternoon. The other dead are his brother, "Big Henry" Johnson, 35, and Homer Crook, 32, and Forrest Crook, 30, brothers.

The man who died tonight was said by witnesses to have taken no part in the shooting, which followed an accusation by the Crooks that one of the Johnsons had wronged a 17-year-old sister of the Crooks.

"Little Henry" Johnson, 21, a cousin of the slain Johnsons, is in a critical condition at a hospital here, and Willie Johnson, 21, a brother, was wounded in the hand. The father of the slain Johnsons, William Johnson, was present at the shooting but took no part in it, witnesses said.

The Crooks would not give the name of the daughter they said was wronged. The shooting disrupted church services in the little village, and 300 worshippers leaving the building scattered when the firing began.

Worshippers said the Crooks accosted the Johnsons, who attempted to make peace, but the Crooks refused their overtures and the shooting began.

JURY ACQUITS AGED PASTOR

Found Not Guilty of Murder of Successor

LAMAR, Mo., Jan. 16. (AP)—The Rev. J. A. Brown, 68, was acquitted tonight by a circuit court jury of a charge of murdering the Rev. George Rider, his successor in the pulpit of the Halley's Bluff community church. He admitted the shooting but pleaded self-defense.

The jury deliberated less than two hours in reaching a verdict. The trial was the second one held, a previous one last September being ruled a mistrial because of the continued illness of a juror.

Mr. Brown resigned as pastor of the church after he had been accused by members of his congregation of earning additional money by preaching at other churches.

The shooting occurred when Mr. Rider went to ask Mr. Brown to preach the Easter sermon from the pulpit of the Halley's Bluff community church to permit the evangelist to attend a relative's funeral in Kansas City.

Wichita County Is Still Far Behind Records of Past Years in Sale Auto Licenses and Receipts for Poll Tax

Wichita county citizens are still far behind past year's records in the purchase of automobile license tags and poll tax receipts, according to figures announced Saturday by Tax Collector Arthur C. Howard.

There had been approximately 3,500 of each issued when the office closed Saturday night. According to figures in past years this leaves about 7,000 poll tax receipts and more than 8,000 automobile license tags to be sold in the next two weeks.

Poll tax receipts issued after Jan. 31 will not permit the holder to vote and motorists who do not have new license tags on their cars after that date will be subject to arrest.

Mr. Howard said that during the last week of the month he would have poll tax booths in the lobbies of each of the local banks.

JAPANESE ARMY MARCHING WEST FROM CHINCHOW

Brigade Has Orders to Clear Area of 15,000 Chinese

SHANGHAI BANKERS TO FINANCE NEW REGIME

Chinese Leaders Urge Severance of Relations With Japanese

(By The Associated Press)

A brigade of Japanese infantrymen marched westward from Chinchow, Manchuria, yesterday to avenge the slaying of 20 of their countrymen last week by Chinese irregulars.

The brigade had orders to clear 15,000 Chinese soldiers from the area between Chinchow and the border of Jehol province—and perhaps to press on into Jehol, Chinese sources said, although this was denied by Japanese authorities.

Mukden army headquarters of the Japanese relayed reports that rewards totaling $100,000 had been ordered to Chinese guerrilla bands for harassing the Tokyo army.

Meanwhile observers in Harbin expected Gen. Mah Chan-Shan enemy of the Japanese in the Nonni-Tsitsihar campaign last November to emerge as the leader of a new army that will cooperate with the Japanese-supported regime in the province of Heilungkiang.

In Nanking the new government succeeded in bridging temporarily its financial crisis. Under threat of a moratorium on the interest of domestic loans, Shanghai bankers agreed to provide the government with $2,500,000 a month. This sum was expected to enable the government to get along providing expenditures were cut in half.

It was learned that Sun Fo, who holds the post corresponding to premier in the Chinese government, and foreign Minister Eugene Chen had strongly urged that severance of diplomatic relations with Japan and possibly a declaration of war. This news carried a threat against the life of the 16-day-old government.

Averring that conditions in China have changed since the nine-power treaty was signed, Japan's answer to Secretary Stimson's recent note was forwarded to Washington.

U. S. Receives Replies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The American government today received without formal comment replies from China and Japan to its invocation of treaty rights in their Manchurian dispute.

In tone each was conciliatory toward America's insistence on its citizens' rights under the nine-power treaty and the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty. Each not in setting forth the position of its government was critical, however, of the other. State department officials expressed a general opinion the notes were satisfactory.

China in replying referred to "the lawless acts of the Japanese" while Japan pointed to "the present unsettled and distracted state of China."

Japanese Accused

The Nanking government accused the Japanese of having openly invaded" Chinese territory and with violations of the League of Nations covenant, the nine-power treaty, and the anti-war pact. It promised China would conclude not treaties or agreements contrary to the provisions of the nine-power treaty or the anti-war treaty.

It also expressed the "sincere hope of the Chinese government" that the United States would continue to promote the effectivenss of the international treaties.

"The Japanese government must bear full responsibility for all the events involved," the note said.

A reply had been expected from China but not from Japan since the Tokyo government did not answer a similar invocation of American rights in 1915.

BLAINE PREVENTS PASSAGE OF BILL

sidetracked by the territories committee. It decided it would let the justice department inquire into crime conditions in Hawaii. Secretaries Adams, Hurley, Wilbur and Attorney General Mitchell said, in effect, the department could do the job about as well as any governmental agency.

A prospective investigation arose to replace it however. Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, charged the existence of a cement monopoly and urged an inquiry.

Approve Utilities Inquiry

Over on the house side, the rules committee approved a suggestion by Representative Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, that a thorough scrutiny be made of all public utility holding companies. The house must pass it on, however, before it begins.

The house ways and means committee continued hearing on proposals for increased taxes as Speaker Garner returned from the White House with the affirmation that the house intended to cut something from every appropriation measure if it could.

Enactment of the home loan discount bank system was urged before the senate banking committee by Morton Bodfish, executive manager of the United States League of Building and Loan associations. It is one of the proposals of President Hoover's economic program.

The Harris bill extending the quota restrictions on immigration to Mexico was approved by the senate immigration committee but the measure has a long road ahead of it before it becomes law.

A senate elections subcommittee had before it charges filed by George M. Pritchard, Republican, against Senator Josiah W. Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina, who defeated him.

Bailey said the charges were not made in good faith and Pritchard replied they were.

FARMERS MEETING ENDORSES HUNTER

ucts of our farms you must be willing to grant like protection to all of the masses similarly affected. You are entitled to these protections and you may have them if you band together over the state and in concert demand them.

"Our fight is of man power and not money power. It is as the immortal Jim Hogg said, 'You must saddle old Beck and carry the message to the neighbors.' Align with us, the farmers of every nook and corner of Texas; align with us all other groups of the common people that we may not lay our burdens upon the brow of our posterity but that we in faith may press on to liberty's portals and give to them the same individual freedom that our fathers gave to us. I again say, 'The people will take charge'."

Large Representation

Communities represented at the meeting included Valley View, Friberg, Cashion, City View, K. M. A., Fairview, Weeth, Pleasant Valley, Clara, Barwise, Rule, Beaver Creek, Burkburnett, Electra, Iowa Park, Wichita Falls and Mount Carmel. All of these towns had precinct representatives instructed by the communities to endorse Mr. Hunter.

Addresses were made by J. R. Toland, Burkburnett; L. L. Kuntz, Iowa Park; W. L. Vaughan, Valley View; J. A. Nelson, Electra; Mike Emmert, Wichita Falls; Judge John C. Kay, Wichita Falls; C. C. Hudson, Iowa Park.

The Wichita County Taxpayers club, organized at the meeting, decided to meet in the courthouse at Wichita Falls on the first Thursday night in February. They also voted to send four delegates to a state taxpayers league meeting in Fort Worth Jan. 27. The delegates will be named by Charles O. Quarnstrom, who was chairman of the meeting.

P. G. Kildow of Iowa Park served as secretary of the meeting. Music was provided by the Carl Goetze's Triangle band. At the opening of the meeting Chairman Quarnstrom explained that the purpose of the meeting was twofold, to organize a Tom Hunter-for-Governor club and to form a Wichita county taxpayers' club.

The following resolutions were read by Joe Marlow and adopted by the meeting:

Hunter Endorsed

The farmers of Wichita county, in mass meeting assembled, herewith voice our earnest and enthusiastic support of the candidacy of Tom F. Hunter for the Democratic nomination for governor, without dissention, assuring 100 per cent loyalty to his campaign and urging other counties to join us in this wholehearted effort to restore the government of the state to the people, where it rightfully belongs.

Tom Hunter has lived in Wichita county, practiced law, engaged in farming and in the oil business as an independent operator for 19 years. We know him. We respect his judgment. We admire his devotion to the principles of right. We take pride in the successful battles he has waged for the people and especially the farmer. We commend him for his courage in fighting that which oppresses. We appreciate the high character of citizenship that has characterized his every act, civic, political and otherwise. He is truly one of the masses and is an able champion of the cause of agricultural interests.

Tom Hunter has done more than any other one man to recondition the county and to deliver it from the plight of depression. He is a courageous fighter and has never been known to quit a task once begun.

That his ability, judgment and foresight have impressed leaders of the state and nation is attested by the recognition of his leadership, demonstrated in his being designated by the "Fourteen Governors' committee" to close their case before the United States senate committee for protection of the oil industry, and again when they made him their spokesman to present an appeal to the president.

Mr. Hunter's platform points out the ills of the state and suggests plausible remedies therefor. We wholeheartedly endorse the principles of that platform. Many needless offices, commissions, bureaus and departments of our government should be eliminated, or consolidated in the name of economy. The average tax of $4.28 of the $100 valuation, levied upon real estate is unjust and unbearable.

The two-thirds of our wealth escaping taxation must share its portion of the state burden.

Utilities and trusts must be regulated and controlled.

The products of our soil must be protected.

There must be a general retrenchment in government expenses, as well as a re-distribution of the tax burden.

Texas money must be kept in Texas. Those who do not share our responsibilities must not profiteer upon our resources.

Whereas, Tom F. Hunter throughout the 19 years of his residence in Wichita county, has stood for the principles for which we contend, and has freely and without hope of reward, fought battles of the farmer and other laboring men, therefore be it

Resolved, that this meeting, held at Iowa Park, Texas, on Saturday, Jan. 16, and representing the agricultural interests of Wichita county, 100 per cent, herewith pledge Mr. Hunter our undivided, loyal and enthusiastic support and call upon the farmers, and the masses in general to join us in an effort to return the government to the people. Let our motto be: "The people take charge."

Taxation

Whereas the tax burdens in Texas have become so heavy on the farmers and land owners with the consequent unequal distribution of the cost of maintaining the government of the state it is evident that some relief should be obtained, therefore be it

Resolved that the farmers of Wichita county assembled in meeting in Iowa Park, Texas, on Jan. 16, 1932, appoint delegates to attend the state meeting at Fort Worth, Texas, on Jan. 27, 1932, to take part in said meeting and render all assistance they possibly can in assisting the tax organization for the reduction of taxes, believing there is a great possibility of obtaining relief through this channel we heartily endorse the work and efforts of the Texas Tax association and promise them our hearty support and cooperation.

FINNISH CABINET PUBLISHES DRAFT NEW LIQUOR BILL

Diet to Receive Measure Providing Government Control Tuesday

PART OF REVENUE TO FURTHER TEMPERANCE

Controlling Interest of Company to Be Held By Government

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 16. (AP)—The cabinet's prohibition repeal bill, which would set up a government controlled source of liquor supply without private profit, was made public today. It will be presented at a special session of the diet Tuesday.

The measure, drawn up in compliance with the wishes of the voters as expressed in the recent referendum, would set up an intermediate company for the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating beverages in which the controlling interest would be held by the government.

The affairs of the company would be supervised by a governing board of seven members appointed by the cabinet for three-year terms.

It would permit the sale of wine, spirits and malt drinks to residents of hotels between the hours of noon and 1 a. m. and on trains and Finnish ships. Otherwise it would be necessary for the purchaser to obtain what he wanted in a licensed store between 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. for home consumption only.

Sales to persons under 18 years of age is forbidden.

After providing for a reserve sinking fund and for a 7 per cent dividend to stockholders, the measure stipulated that the profits of the government-controlled company be divided thus:

Fifteen per cent to an old age and unemployment fund; 15 per cent for the furtherance of temperance work; 20 per cent to be divided among cultural, temperance and benevolent activities in all communities; and the balance to be applied to expenses in the campaign against the illegal liquor trade.

MORE THAN 500 TO ASSIST IN RAISING W. T. C. C. BUDGET

AMARILLO, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—More than 500 business men of West Texas will take part in a drive beginning Monday to raise the budget of their regional chamber of commerce.

All of the 101 cities affiliated with the West Texas chamber will be represented. The goal will be $45,000, or three-fourths of the total budget. Prospective members in the various cities have been advised of the chamber's program for the year, and committee members will devote their efforts only to raising funds and completing the membership rolls.

Post was the first affiliated city to report its quota raised, its drive having been completed Friday.

Wilbur C. Hawk, first vice president and chairman of the drive, said the 500 committeemen would be the largest number ever working on a single chamber of commerce project in West Texas. He expressed the belief that the fund would be raised during the week.

ler, former cashier of the People's bank here, under sentence of 13 years imprisonment, from the Frankfort reformatory to testify at the trial of his brother, R. M. Miller, assistant cashier.

Sheriff Tipton had called Bailey P. Wootton, state attorney general and told him Burchell was staying at the Miller home and permitting the prisoner to do almost as he pleased while here. This morning Bruchell went to the sheriff's office and complained, he said, and the sheriff drew a pistol. Burchell left the office.

Tonight Sheriff Tipton was standing on a street corner talking with J. B. Griffin, former sheriff, when Burchell walked up and remarked, "so you pulled a gun on me this morning." He then shot Tipton five times, Griffin said. Burchell was placed in jail, where he made no statement.

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE ESCAPES PAYING $51,000 FOR DUTY AND FINES

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (US)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce has escaped paying $51,000 to the federal government for duty and fines on a $10,000 diamond plaque she allegedly smuggled into the country 10 years ago, but she must also forfeit the jewelry.

This compromise was effected today when Solicitor General Thacher in Washington notified Federal Attorney Medalie he approved of the settlement.

Miss Joyce received the plaque from her then husband, Stanley Joyce, in 1920, less than two years before they were divorced. She kept it in a vault in Paris and when it was found in her luggage on her arrival here May 12, 1922, she explained her maid must have packed it without her knowledge.

Indicted for Murder

DALLAS, Jan. 16. (AP)—Dick Bordener, 28, was indicted by the grand jury today on a charge of murder for the fatal injury of Charley Amick, 38, in a fight at Seagoville Christmas day. Amick was struck on the head with a piece of pipe. He died two days later.

be helpful if the European nations could obtain some idea as to the eventual American attitude toward intergovernmental debts in event the moratorium was extended.

France was inclined to believe, he told Ambassador Edge, that it might be best to postpone the reparations conference, as more time was needed to bring the views of the European nations into harmony.

The premier also was believed to have said France was ready to help Germany in the spirit of the joint statement issued after his talks with President Hoover at Washington. That statement recognized that prior to the expiration of the Hoover year of postponement some agreement regarding intergovernmental debts "may be necessary covering the period of business depression."

Premier Laval previously had talked with the German and British ambassadors, presumably on the reparations problem.

backwaters of Caddo lake and Black Bayou. Additional rains, said relief agencies, would cause the setting up of refugee camps to dot the hills south of Shreveport.

Flood waters are reaching toward Bossier City, La., in adjoining Bossier parish and Docheat bayou, near Minden, is in the raging stage.

Highways were flooded near Alexandria, La., in the central part of the state and Red river at that city is above flood stage, overflowing many acres of agricultural lands.

Abandon Fight

Main levees on the east bank of the Tallahatchie river in Mississippi began bursting with such requency and force today that sturdy fighters gave up the task of trying to save the water-logged walls and directed their attention to rescuing hundreds marooned in Tippo basin.

Residents clung to house roofs until boats arrived. Others, warned that the entire levee system would give way, left home or went to high ground.

E. P. Krick, Red Cross national disaster relief chairman, estimated that 325,000 acres were flooded by the Tallahatchie and other rivers in the counties of Tallahatchie, Leflore, Quitman, Ranola, Yazoo and Grenada.

Greenwood faced a grave situation today. The city is surrounded by backwaters from the Yazoo, Tallahatchie and Yalobusha rivers and the overflow is in suburban sections of the town.

Widespread property damage and continued loss of livestock furnished what planters declared was a national calamity. They called for hurried emergency relief funds from congress.

Sharon Lynn Of Film Fame Weds Benjamin Glazer

YUMA, Ariz., Jan. 16. (US)—So many interested spectators wanted to see Sharon Lynn, film actress, and Benjamin Glazer, Paramount associate producer, married here today, that the ceremony was held in the superior courtroom instead of the chambers of Judge Earl A. Freeman.

Flying to Yuma, Miss Lynn, Glazer and their wedding party headed an impromptu procession from the airport to the courthouse, and the wedding instead of being surrounded with the secrecy that has veiled some film ceremonies, was virtually a public affair.

Miss Lynn wore a gray suit and carried a bouquet of orchids. She and Glazer smilingly consented to "let everybody come to the wedding."

After the ceremony, the wedding party, including Mr. and Mrs. Glazer, Dolores Del Rio and her husband, Cedric Gibbons; Marshall Neilan, Carmelite Geraghty, John Gilbert, Carey Wilson and Rex Cole, motored to Algodoneson just across the border, for luncheon.

John Gilbert saw to it that the bridal couple was properly showered with rice. He brought half a dozen bags all the way from Los Angeles.

MRS. KAHN SUGGESTS BUYING GOVERNMENT SUPPLIES IN U. S. A.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (US)—Chairs in the house of representatives dining room bear the stamp "made in Czecho-Slovakia," Representative Florence Kahn, Republican, California, discovered today.

Mrs. Kahn is author of a bill providing all government supplies shall be products of American labor. She said:

"If I also had examined the China I probably would have found 'made in England' stamped on it. Millions and millions of dollars will be gained for America if national goods are bought by the government.

"Don't you think we can make a chair as good in Grand Rapids as is made in Czecho-Slovakia?"

Canada has an area of 2,000,000 square miles.

OLD DOCTOR ESCAPES GALL BLADDER OPERATION

An old German physician, Dr. H. E. Hildebrand, many years ago, was severely suffering from what appeared to be a Gall Stone Trouble. He was frequently subject to colic attacks, gas pains, indigestion, pain in sides, back and around the liver. Rather than to submit to an operation, he decided to treat his own case. So successful was he in his efforts he prescribed the same treatment to other sufferers. The amazing results they reported is convicing evidence of the merit of this preparation. Through the Dr. Hildebrand's Laboratories, Dept. 81-H, 155 N. Union Ave., Chicago, Ill., sufferers from Gall Stone, Gall Bladder and allied Liver and Stomach ailments everywhere may obtain a test of this splendid treatment free by writing to the above address at once.—Adv.

BRITISH OFFICERS ARREST FOLLOWERS GANDHI IN INDIA

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 16. (AP)—One person was killed and two were injured when police fired into a mob that had stoned them at Berhampore, Bengal, today.

England also continued her onslaught of ordinances against Mahatma Gandhi's legion of non-violent nationalists throughout India.

His feminine army of picketeers, who previously had been relatively free from arrest, were being gathered in for urging the Indian public to boycott British products. Their organizer-director, Dr. N. S. Hardikar, was arrested for his membership in Gandhi's Nationalist congress, which has been outlawed.

Jamnala Bajaj, wealthy merchant philanthropist, acting treasurer of the congress funds and a member of Gandhi's cabinet likewise was arrested on a similar charge.

Thousands of other Nationalists throughout India, including a large numbes of students at Calcutta, also have been arrested.

TEXAS RANGERS RAID ELABORATE GAMBLING RESORT IN LONGVIEW

LONGVIEW, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—An elaborate gambling hall in a down-town Longview hotel was raided by Texas rangers last night, 22 players and five alleged game operators being arrested.

Capt. Tom Hickman, W. H. Kirby and Stewart Stanley, Fort Worth rangers, smashed gaming equipment and then summoned Justice of the Peace E. B. Penick.

Penick held court in the hall for the players, fining them a total of $341. Sam McFarland, one of the alleged operators of the hall, paid most of the fines for his patrons.

McFarland, G. J. Joplin, Joe Griffin, Percy Lewis and J. E. Stanley were charged with operating the gambling establishment. Their bonds were set at $750 each.

special attorney to prosecute the murder case and also the retrial of the four remaining men accused of attacking Mrs. Massie, said he was not ready to proceed but that the grand jury would hear the case of Mrs. Fortescue and the three navy men some time next week.

With one federal investigation of the crime situation already under way and another one threatened, many persons here expressed the belief that it would be necessary to bring about a quick betterment of law enforcement conditions in order to forestall congressional action which might change the status of the territorial government.

The assignment of Seth W. Richardson, assistant United States attorney general, to conduct the investigation ordered by the United States senate, met expressions of satisfaction among most officials excepting Gilliland, who asserted it was a move to get him out of office.

Richardson, noted for the vigor with which he conducts investigations, advised Sanford B. D. Wood, United States attorney for Hawaii, he would arrive here Feb. 4 with seven or eight assistants.

Tentative plans before the legislature were to provide Honolulu's police department with an appointive instead of an elected head. The chief of police would work under a commission. This commission would be named by Governor Judd and vacancies thereafter would be filed by appointments of the city and county supervisors.

Another bill under consideration would create the office of public prosecutor to handle the duties now performed by Gilliland's office.

State Commission's Plan for Civilian Fire Prevention Boards in Each City Inaugurated in Wichita 10 Years Ago

In commenting on a letter from J. W. DeWeese, fire insurance commissioner, urging the formation of a citizens' fire prevention board in Wichita Falls, city and fire department officials Saturday explained that Wichita Falls was one of the ploneer cities in Texas in this movement and has had a fire chief's cabinet for the last 10 years.

During the last 12 months the state fire insurance commission has been active in seeking to have all cities in the state adopt a similar plan as a means of helping reduce growing fire losses.

The fire chief's cabinet of Wichita Falls was inaugurated in 1922, following a talk at the Rotary club by Charles Wentworth, representative of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in which he told of similar cabinets in eastern cities.

Each year the five members of the cabinet are named by the new chamber of commerce president. Usually most of the names are reappointments.

The five members of the cabinet for 1931 were Lester Jones, chairman; J. C. Ward, J. W. Lyle, Leon Deaton and Overton Abernathy.

Duties of the cabinet are to help reduce fire losses, cut down insurance rates, prevent incendiary fires and serve as an advisory body to the fire chief in any case in which he calls upon them.

There are 3,743,344 square miles in the United States.

Murray Demands Voice in Writing Party Platform

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (AP)—Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma demanded a voice today in the writing of the next Democratic presidential platform, especially regarding "free speech."

Pausing here on his way to Washington, Governor Murray refused to commit himself regarding his own possible candidacy for the nomination next June but was frank enough about being "after something to say in that platform."

"I bet there'll be a minority report made," he said, "and I don't think the convention will dare to turn down some suggestions I will make.

"We deplore the practice of inferior federal courts by which they nullify that palladium of liberty guaranteed by the constitution—free speech. We pledge our members in congress to impeach any federal judge who in future makes any such breach in power.

"That's one way to stop government by injunction."

The governor admitted he "wasn't strong with the politicians, but he was with the grass roots," and he "knew why."

He is to appear before the house committee of banking and currency in Washington.

Russian Woman Given Alimony After 34 Years

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16. (AP)—Simon Gliner, 58, after 34 years, is paying alimony—by proxy.

His former wife, Mrs. Leah Gliner, 60, told domestic relations court yesterday he deserted her in Russia in 1897, that she trailed him to America, and all over the country to finally find him here, remarried, with six children and three grandchildren.

"And," she said, "That was seven years ago. He has made no arrangement to pay me. I want support."

Gliner objected. He said a divorce decree obtained in Russia 33 years ago relieved him of responsibility for the support of his first wife. the court virtually ruled he was a a bigamist.

"Where's your divorce papers?" the judge asked.

"Her brothers visited me in 1914 and stole them," Gliner declared.

The court interpreter was appointed to accept a "voluntary contribution" of $3 a week from Gliner and turn it over to Mrs. Gliner.

"This will prevent the woman from becoming a county ward," Judge Lewis said. "And it will minimize the complex situation surrounding this second marriage."

VICKI BAUM WILL GIVE AIR LECTURE OVER BERLIN MIKE

Vicki Baum, author of "Grand Hotel," which enjoyed exceptional success in the United States both as a book and on the stage, will be broadcast "My Impressions of America" through the WABC-Columbia network from Berlin, at 11:30 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Jan. 17, in the regular international broadcast period.

When she came to America in the fall of 1931 to supervise the production of "Grand Hotel" in a screen version, Miss Baum studied conditions here very closely, and before sailing she declared her intention to come back this year and become an American citizen. If she returns, she probably will be accompanied by her husband, who is one of the conductors at the Berlin State opera.

Originally a Berlin journalist, Miss Baum accompanied her rise to fame as a novelist with equally outstanding success in the magazine field, and she now edits Dame, Germany's leading fashion periodical and Uhu.

In the United States she is known principally for "Grand Hotel," published in Germany as "Menschen im Hotel," and the more recent work, "Martin's Summer."

HEAD GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY TO BE ON RADIO CHURCH

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Protestant Episcopal bishop of Chicago, and the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown university, the oldest Roman Catholic college in the United States, will conduct the periods of the "Church of the Air" on Sunday, Jan. 17. Both periods will be broadcast by a nation-wide hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Bishop Stewart will preach in the morning period of the air church, at 9 a. m., central standard time, on the subject, "Hold Fast." Music will be supplied by a mixed choir from St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston, Ill. The broadcast will originate in the studio of one of Columbia's Chicago stations, WBBM.

The service will be an abbreviation of the regular Episcopal ritual, opening with an organ background followed by the anthem, "Bless the Lord, O My Soul." In order will follow the Scripture lesson, recitation of the Nicene creed, prayers, the hymn, "Brightest and Best," the bishop's sermon, prayers and benediction and the sevenfold amen.

Dr. Nevils will direct the Roman Catholic period to be broadcast beginning at 1:30 p. m., central standard time. His topic will be "The Essentials of Jesuit Education." The period will be transmitted into the Columbia network from its Washington member station, WMAL.

The liturgical music of the period will be sung by the Georgetown university chorus under the direction of Prof. Edward Donovan.

TRIAL OF BELL COUNTY SHERIFF IS POSTPONED

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (AP)—Trial of Sheriff John Bigham of Bell county on a charge of extortion in the collection of witness fees from the state in criminal cases may be postponed, Henry Brooks, district attorney, said today. Bigham was to go to trial Monday.

Bigham recently underwent an operation and will not be able to attend, Brooks said he had been informed. The case probably will be set for the February term, Brooks said.

Cases against Sheriff N. P. Speer of Walker county, two indictments alleging extortion and one theft, were set for February in 126th Travis county district court. A case alleging extortion against Sheriff A. J. Remmert of Austin county was continued until the March term of court on application of the defendant.

Sanity Hearing To Be Held for 'Mercy Slayer'

MILLERSBURG, Ohio, Jan. 16. (INS)—On the recommendation of the grand jury which failed to return an indictment, Holmes county officials today prepared to hold a sanity hearing for James Stenhouse, who has allegedly confessed that he killed his 2-year-old son because the baby suffered from an incurable brain disorder.

Indicating in its report that it doubted the mental condition of the father, the grand jury of 15 men returned the recommendation and no-bill after a thorough investigation into the purported confession.

A sanity board will probably be appointed by the court Monday and if Stenhouse is found to be mentally unbalanced, it was said, he will be incarcerated in a hospital for the insane.

Without arousing the suspicions of the family physician or any one in the village of Killbuck, where Stenhouse resided with his wife and four children, the man was said to have revealed in his confession to Sheriff James A. Stevens that he chloroformed the baby, David Oscar, "to end his suffering and save his mother's life."

The man said that his wife was ill at the time he committed the deed in September, 1928, and that he feared his son's brain weakness would cause his wife's death.

WIFE OF OKLAHOMA HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER INJURED IN ACCIDENT

CLINTON, Okla., Jan. 16. (UP)—Mrs. Sam Hawks of Clinton, wife of the state highway commission chairman, was recovering today from injuries received in an automobile accident.

Her arm was broken when the car driven by her husband struck a machine that entered the highway from a side road. The Hawks' car overturned. Hawks was not injured.

The accident occurred late yesterday on U. S. highway 66 five miles east of here.

FIVE OFFICERS ACQUITTED OF CHARGES OF ASSAULT

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—A county court jury deliberated only ten minutes before acquitting five officers charged with an aggravated assault on Eliseo Cantu, goat herder.

The men freed were C. L. Austin, Roy Mansfield and O. V. Moreland, border patrolmen, and Ramon Longoria and E. M. Yznaga, deputy sheriffs. They had been accused of using third degree methods on Cantu Nov. 28.

DR. BRINKLEY HAS EYES ON MANSION IN KANSAS AGAIN

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 16. (AP)—Dr. John R. Brinkley, radio medicine man, again has his eyes on the governor's mansion of the state from which he was ousted as a physician and surgeon.

The bearded goat gland specialist who obtained 188,339 votes as a "write-in" candidate for governor of Kansas two years ago announced in a letter written in Del Rio, Texas, that he is entering the 1932 campaign. He will run as an independent.

"It's a fight to the finish," he wrote in the letter, which was issued through Publicity, a Wichita weekly newspaper. "We will ask and give no quarter."

Attacking the Kansas City Star, Brinkley asserted his mission was to "clean up the grand old Sunflower state and give it back to the people of Kansas who own it."

Brinkley has sued the Star for $5,000,000. He charged libel. The suit is based on statements concerning investigations which caused the federal radio commission to refuse to renew the permit of his Milford, Kan., station, KFKB, and the state medical board to revoke his license.

Brinkly trailed Harry Woodring, Democrat and the victor, by 28,862 votes in the 1930 gubernatorial campaign.

He moved to Texas, establishing himself under a license the legality of which is questioned in court by the Texas Medical board.

He sold his Milford radio station and built another, XER, in Villa Acuna, Mexico, from which he now broadcasts.

Bruno Walter to Be Conductor of New York Philharmonic-Symphony in First Concert of New Series Sunday

Bruno Walter, one of the foremost symphonic and operatic conductors in the world, will be heard in the first broadcast concert of a seven weeks' season with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony from 2 to 4 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Jan. 17, through the WABC-Columbia network.

Born in Berlin in 1876, Walter began his professional career at the age of 17 when he accepted a position as coach at the State theater in Cologne, where he later conducted opera. After serving as conductor at several German opera houses, he was invited by Gustav Mahler, famous as composer and conductor of the New York Philharmonic, to become first conductor of the Vienna Royal opera.

For two successive seasons, beginning in 1923, Walter appeared as guest conductor of the New York Symphony, and he returned to the United States five years later to direct the San Francisco Summer Symphony and at the Hollywood bowl. His reputation in England is as high as it is on the continent, and he regularly directs the German opera season at Covent Garden, London.

Opening the program with the concerto grosso in G minor by Handel—an early work, which in its outward form adheres closely to the conventions of the time, though it contains much that is characteristic of its composer—Bruno Walter will continue with one of Haydn's London symphonies.

PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN BANKERS TO BROADCAST

Harry J. Haas, president of the American Bankers association and vice president of the First National bank of Philadelphia, will talk over the WABC-Columbia network from 3:45 to 4 p. m., central standard time, Saturday, Jan. 23, in one of a series of broadcasts arranged in connection with the observance of National Thrift week.

The talk by Haas, which will be relayed to the Columbia network through WCAU, Philadelphia, was arranged by the Young Men's Christian association and the National Thrift week committee.

PIANO BROADCAST BY HUTCHESON TO BE ON AIR SUNDAY

Ernest Hutcheson, world-famous concert pianist, will point out the imaginative beauty in the short form of piano composition employed in dance-like works replete with thematic dexterity and free modulation during his recital with the Columbia Concert orchestra to be broadcast over the WABC-Columbia network on Sunday, Jan. 17, from 9:30 to 10 p. m., central standard time.

Hutcheson, accompanied by the full orchestra, will open the program, playing the second movement Romance, from Mozart's Concerto in D Minor. This work, with full and intricate passages for the piano is a direct reflection of Mozart's great genius as a pianist as well as one of the greatest composers for that instrument, and will employ Hutcheson's full talent.

The middle portion of the program will be carried by Hutcheson in solo, playing transcriptions by Tausig of two short works, "Pastorale" and "Capriccio" by Scarlatti, eminent Italian composer of the late 17th century and the "Capriccio in B Minor" by Brahms.

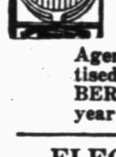

The program will conclude with the rendition by Hutcheson and the orchestra of the Third Movement, or Finale, of Tschaikowsky's Concerto in B flat Minor, a work which also contains much profound piano study.

At present Mr. Wilson is a director of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. He plans to tell of the benefits of the U. S. chamber to the chamber of commerce here.

All members of the 1931 business council of the senior chamber have been extended a direct invitation to attend the luncheon. The invitation was given to J. S. Hargett, chairman of the council. All other members of the chamber are also invited to attend.

YOUTH GETS $250 FOR BURK RODEO INJURIES IN COURT ACTION HERE

An agreed judgment of $250 was entered by Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Saturday afternoon on behalf of Harrison Gwinn, a minor, and R. L. Gwinn against J. F. Ashton.

The suit was filed Saturday and asked $1,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been suffered by Harrison Gwinn at a rodeo in Burkburnett last Nov. 7. It was set out in the petition that while riding a bucking steer Harrison Gwinn was roped off by Ashton and suffered a seriously injured shoulder. E. W. Napier represented the plaintiffs.

MEMBERS WICHITA DAIRY ASSOCIATION WILL ELECT OFFICERS NEXT SATURDAY

More than 60 members of the Wichita Dairy association met in the courthouse Saturday morning and were in session for two hours, discussing common problems and prospects for 1932.

Officers will be elected at another meeting to be held next Saturday morning. B. F. Greer, president, was in charge of Saturday's meeting. Other officers are E. F. Riley, treasurer, and G. C. McGown, secretary.

HONOR REQUISITION FOR MAN INDICTED HERE FOR SWINDLING AUG. 6, 1924

Acting Governor Burns of Oklahoma has granted a requisition from Wichita county for the custody of L. C. Wheaton, who is being held in jail at Pawnee, Okla.

Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, said that Wheaton was wanted here on an old indictment charging him with swindling in connection with the purchase of an automobile in Electra Aug. 6, 1924, with an $1,100 "hot" check.

He explained that the defendant recently completed serving a prison term in Oklahoma.

Wife Was Fat

No Longer Attractive

Lost Husband's Love

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper of April 4 in connection with a divorce trial that has attracted wide attention.

"She was a beautiful woman," one witness testified, "but she got fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health?

And gain in energy and activity?

Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting down on pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 mineral salts most helpful to body health. Best of all, a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Ask Allison Drug Store or any druggist for a bottle and start to lose fat today.

Tis the safe way to reduce but be sure you get Kruschen—your health comes first and remember this if you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.—Adv.

Field Secretary of National Retail Credit Association to Address Local Merchants at Wichita Club Thursday

Frank T. Caldwell, field secretary of the National Retail Credit association, will address members of the Wichita Falls association and representatives from Iowa Park, Electra, Henrietta, Vernon and Olney at a meeting to be held in the Wichita club at 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

Mr. Caldwell will discuss business conditions and problems, particularly as they relate to the retail merchant, and will be available to local business men for credit information and advice, according to John W. Thomas, manager of the local association.

Mr. Caldwell was the first field secretary of the National Retail Credit association and had as his territory the entire United States. The far-reaching results of his work were so pronounced that the national organization recognized the need of a special department embracing this type of credit work. The United States was divided into districts. At his own request Mr. Caldwell's territory embraced all of the southern states. The choice was made, he said, because his home is in the South and for this reason he has been able to make a comprehensive study of problems peculiar to southern business men.

Mr. Caldwell left college in January, 1917, and sailed immediately for France, where he served with distinction with the French Foreign Legion during the world war. He was cited several times for valor and resigned at the termination of hostilities with the rank of lieutenant.

Joins National City

On his return to the United States he entered the credit department of the National City bank in New York, where he remained for four years.

He resigned the National City position to enter the agents' department of the Federal Reserve bank at Philadelphia, where he specialized in statistics and research.

In 1925 Mr. Caldwell went to Florida and while there organized the Lee County Credit association at Fort Myers. The conduct of the unit was so outstanding it attracted the attention of the national association and a short time later was incorporated in the parent group. Mr. Caldwell continued to direct the destinies of the Florida bureau until 1929, when he was induced to leave it and become national representative.

His work now is directed largely toward the standardization of retail credit systems. This is made possible, through the dissemination of information through the National Retail Credit association which represents 180,000 merchants through 1,200 affiliated credit bureaus. Through the national organization, merchant members have access to accurate reports on approximately 60,000,000 persons who use credit for the purchase of merchandise or for obtaining professional services.

Under present conditions there is no reason why the most isolated merchant should not have immediately available the most modern credit methods used by successful business houses in the busiest trade centers.

Bandits Relieve Rex Bell of $800 Clara's Winnings

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 16. (UP)—Rex Bell, cowboy film actor and husband of Clara Bow, surrendered $800 to two armed bandits today as he left a gambling hall.

Bell had won the money at the gaming tables, and was followed to the street by the two men. He was told to come along by one of the pair who stuck a gun in his ribs.

"I though they were kidding," Bell told police, "but they pushed on the rod so hard I went along."

After taking Bell's money, the pair gave him back a few personal trinkets, but missed a $3,000 diamond ring.

Bell had gone to the exclusive Boulder club, where Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy once held revival services from a crap table, in company with Miss Bow and his ranch foreman.

Clara was winning heavily with the dice, witnesses said, holding them for 20 minutes straight at one time. Bell and his foreman were betting on Clara.

Within an hour, they won more than $1,000, witnesses reported, but lost a bit before the evening was over.

ANNIVERSARY WEEK TO BE CELEBRATED HERE BY KIWANIANS MONDAY

The entertainment program will be presented by the club committee on Kiwanis education. History, ideals and problems of the club will be brought before the meeting.

DANDRUFF A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

White Elephant Sale to Start Monday at Six

On another page of this issue of The Times W. B. McClurkan & Co. announce the opening of their famous annual White Elephant Sale which is to open Monday morning promptly at 6 o'clock and continue through Monday and Tuesday. This annual event is probably one of the most talked-of merchandising occasions in this section of the country, and one of the largest crowds in McClurkan's history is expected to fill the store on these two days.

In recalling the early days of 1907, when McClurkan's was just in its infancy, the executives of the store are reminded of the fact that 6 o'clock was the customary time to open the store each morning. With this in mind it was decided to re-enact the days of old by again Monday opening the store at the regular 6 o'clock hour. The entire sales force will be on hand at that time and business will begin immediately.

In connection with the store's silver anniversary the store will give away a limited number of "good luck" silver elephants to those customers who make cash purchases of $5 or more on the opening day of the white elephant sale.

Breakfast at Five

The store management is arranging an early morning breakfast at Anderson's cafe, just to the rear of the store, where the entire personnel will gather together at 5 o'clock for an hour of fun and frolic. McClurkan's signature song, "Among Our Souvenirs," will be led by W. E. Young of the First Baptist church.

Immediately after the breakfast the McClurkan personnel will go in a body to the store just in time to open the doors promptly at 6 o'clock. It is believed certain that a good crowd will be on hand at the opening hour in order to take advantage of the values offered in this big sale and to also avail themselves of the opportunity of getting absolutely free a "good luck" silver elephant.

LARGEST MIDYEAR HIGH SCHOOL CLASS TO BE GRADUATED

Wichita Falls High Commencement Exercises Friday Night to Close Week of Senior Group Activities

The largest mid-year senior class in the history of the Wichita Falls High school will be graduated at appropriate commencement exercises at the Junior college auditorium Friday night, Jan. 22.

Graduation week officially opens Sunday morning at 10:45 o'clock when bacculaureate services will be held at the First Christian church.

Commencement exercises will bring 62 boys and girls to their final activity in high school here. The class, 26 girls and 36 boys, is the largest ever graduated from the school in a midyear group.

Students of the graduating class are to participate in the commencement exercises, three offering brief addresses on various phases of school life. Officials of the school are following this custom of permitting the graduates to offer the commencement addresses rather than having a visiting speaker in an endeavor to educate the public in the work of the schools.

Miss Virginia Wiest will speak on "City Schools," Lloyd Smith will talk concerning "The Graduating Class," and Bill Joe Nabors will offer an address on "The City High School."

Senior Week Programs

There will also be selections by the school orchestra, the school glee club and a school quartet. Other features of the exercises have not been completed as yet, according to A. K. Presson, school registrar.

The senior week program, unofficially begun Saturday morning, has been announced by Miss Lona Belle Spruiell, class sponsor. Caps and gowns, to be used at the graduation day exercises, were distributed to the 62 seniors Saturday morning.

Bacculaureate services will be held at 10:45 o'clock at the First Christian church with Dr. H. T. Wood delivering the sermon.

An assembly program at the college auditorium will feature the senior week activities Tuesday. Wednesday will be final class day for the group.

Thursday the senior class will visit at the Jim Keith farm. As yet no program has been announced.

Final practice for the graduation exercises will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the college auditorium, and the commencement exercises will take place at 8 o'clock Friday night.

A banquet at 11 o'clock Friday night followed by a commencement dance at 12 o'clock will bring to a close the activities of senior week.

Anderson, Thomas Batson, Ona Bell Britain, Hortense Cabiness, Anna Lee Cherry, Alberta Coburn, Goldie Coomba, Gordon Crumpler, Guy Culver, Kathleen Dennis, Aline Eiter, Stella Evans, Leroy Farabee, Levita Finley, Cleo Flowers, Juanita Garner, Franklin Goen, Royce Elywn Harris, Katherine Hawley, Malendia Haynes, Alta Herd, Evelyn Holden, J. WALTER FRIBERG IS CANDIDATE FOR CO. COURT-AT-LAW

Walter Friberg, native of Wichita county and practicing attorney here for several years, will be a candidate for judge of the county court at law of Wichita county at the Democratic primary in July. Mr. Friberg is a member of one of the pioneer families of Wichita county and has lived most of his life in Wichita Falls. He attended grade and high school here and studied law at Texas and Baylor universities, and was graduated from the latter school with the degree of bachelor of law. Shortly after receiving his degree and admission to the bar, Mr. Friberg opened his offices in the City National building at Wichita Falls, and has been actively engaged in criminal and civil practice since that time.

In making his announcement, Mr. Friberg said:

"The office of judge of the county court at law of Wichita county is one of great importance in the administration of justice in Wichita county, and is second only to the district judgeships. Justice requires in this office a fair and impartial legal mind, judicial ability and demands earnest attention and industrious application to the matters before the court. The incumbent of this office should not only possess these judicial qualifications, but he should also be in regular and daily attendance upon the duties of the office so that litigation may be properly disposed of, and so that justice may be administered without delay.

"I am fully aware of the qualifications that a candidate should have in offering himself for this office, and I believe that my education, training and my experience before the courts of this county make me qualified to properly discharge the important duties involved. If the voters of Wichita county see fit to elect me to this position, it will be my purpose to serve them in an efficient manner, keeping in mind the fact that a court exists for the purpose of settling differences, in civil cases, between individuals; and, in criminal cases, between the people and individuals; and that it is the duty of the judge who presides over the court to see that justice is done fairly and impartially in every case."

GAIETY OF FAMILY PARTY TURNED INTO TRAGEDY AS CRASH TAKES TOLL FIVE

CORNING, N. Y., Jan. 16. (AP)—The gaiety of a family party returning from a barn dance was turned into tragedy early today when their crowded automobile crashed into a fast Erie passenger train at Addison. Five persons were killed and seven injured.

Arthur Woodbeck, 30, was killed instantly, two of his children, Elthea, 4, and Floyd, 3, and his wife, Ruth, 24, died later in the Corning hospital. Harold Stamford, 27, of Tuscarora, died in an ambulance.

Frank Weldon of Corning, the watchman at the Main street crossing, said the overcrowded machine came down the incline and crashed through the gates just as the westbound passenger train number 5 reached the crossing. The wreckage, in which were imprisoned several of the injured, was carried down the track and burst into flames.

RAY BLAND ENTERS POLITICAL DERBY CO. COURT AT LAW

Ray Bland, native Wichitan and representative of a pioneer family here, announced Saturday as a candidate for the county court at law. His announcement follows:

"Without being drafted, and without any undue pressure from friends, I have decided of my own free will and accord to seek the Democratic nomination for judge of the Wichita county court at law, subject to the Democratic primary in July, personally assuming full responsibility for this announcement.

"Each voter is vitally interested in the qualifications of those who seek public office, and every voter has the right to know as much as he can learn of the candidate for public office, particularly of candidates for judicial office. During the campaign I shall undertake to see in person as many of the voters as is humanly possible. In the meantime, for the benefit of those who are interested and with whom I have not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance, I give the following bits of personal history.

"I was born and raised in Wichita Falls. My elementary education was obtained in its public schools. After graduating from the high school here, I attended the University of Texas, graduating in the law department of that university in June, 1930. Since that time I have been engaged in the practice of law.

"As a candidate for judicial office, it would be unbecoming to lay down an elaborate platform on which to run. By reason of the very nature of his duties every judge should be free from political entanglements and from the influence of partisan groups. The duties of a judge are plain. It is for him to interpret and apply the laws to controversies submitted to him, without bias or prejudice, and to the best of his ability. It is incumbent upon him to keep himself as free from bias and prejudice as it is humanly possible to do, to the end that he will yield to no personal whim in dispensing justice to those who appear before him. He owes it to himself and to his office diligently to apply himself to increasing his ability to interpret and apply the law to controversies, in strict accord with the dictates of a conscience which brooks no compromise with those influences which induce inefficiency and injustice. It is for him to regulate and discipline court procedure to the end that time and money will be conserved, that litigation may be swiftly and efficiently disposed of and that the costs of court be reduced to the limit commensurate with equal justice.

"If elected I pledge the people of Wichita county to devote myself diligently to the performance of these duties."

NEW HEARING WLL BE ASKED TEDFORD CASE

Original Judgment for $13,000 Set Aside by Judge W. W. Cook

APPEALS COURT REVERSES ITSELF IN JETER CASE

Higher Court Changes Ruling on Ambulance-Street Car Collision Suit

A motion for a rehearing in the Pearl Tedford case will be filed before Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court Monday, following action of the court of civil appeals at Fort Worth Saturday in reversing itself on the Jeter case, growing out of the same accident.

Joe Jeter was a passenger on a street car which collided with an ambulance at the corner of Thirteenth and Holliday streets in July, 1930. He was awarded damages for injuries alleged to have been received in the crash. The appeals court several months ago reversed the trial court's findings and handed down a ruling in which it set out that ambulances could drive at a speed faster than that necessary to insure the safety of other traffic.

A rehearing was granted and Saturday the appeals court announced a decision setting aside its original opinion and affirming the judgment for damages given by the trial court.

A companion case, that of Mrs. Pearl Tedford, who was a passenger in the ambulance, will now come before the courts again. At the third trial of the case in 1931 Mrs. Tedford was awarded $13,000 damages against the Wichita Falls Traction company. Following the first decision of the appeals court in the Jeter case Judge W. W. Cook set aside the judgment for damages and found for the defendant.

Acting on the new opinion of the appeals court, Judge E. W. Napier, attorney for Mrs. Tedford, Saturday announced that he would file a motion for a rehearing before Judge Cook Monday, asking the court to set aside his ruling and render for Mrs. Tedford the judgment given her by the jury in the case.

ARMED BANDITS LOOT NEW YORK APARTMENT OF $200,000 JEWELS

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—The home of Robert Le Roy, lawyer, occupying the entire eighth floor of 160 East Seventy-second street, was looted this afternoon by a band of five armed robbers who escaped with jewelry valued at more than $200,000 leaving three maid servants and an elevator operator tied up with picture wire.

Le Roy is a member of the law firm of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, 40 Wall street, a social registerite and a vice president and director of the corporation that owns the building in which his apartment is located.

Spring Weather Inspires Buying On Fifth Avenue

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (INS)—Spring fever has come to Fifth avenue in a rush.

The unseasonably warm weather of the last three days has turned young women's fancy—and old ones', too—to thoughts of clothes. With fur coats thrown open the ladies have been indulging in a spast of buying.

Warm sunshine, balmy breezes, the gay windows of stores optimistically prepared for the southern resort trade—all have been too much for the economical city maid and matron. Saleswomen in the larger department stores and specialty shops declare the weather has melted purse locks.

"It is so easy to imagine we are going to have this kind of weather for the rest of the winter," said one. "We all know better, but we begin to wonder what kind of suits we will want this spring. We think if we only had a white scarf to wear with the old brown tweed it would look fresher, or a new pair of gloves.

"The urge to look your best in good weather is irresistible. Therefore women have been doing their spring shopping early."

Investigation further revealed that three of the larger stores have been completely cleaned out of navy blue skirts, suits and coats. This is a sure sign of seasonal mixup, for navy blue is the spring color.

SIX EARTH TREMORS TERRORIZE RESIDENTS AROUND MANCHESTER

MANCHESTER, England, Jan. 16. (INS)—Residents of Manchester and vicinity were terrorized today by a series of six strong earth tremors, which toppled chimneys and knocked pictures off the walls of hundreds of houses.

Seismographic experts insisted the disturbances were not earthquake shocks, but merely earth subsistence in mines north of Manchester due to high winds. The disturbances were not recorded on seismographs either in Manchester or Birmingham.

The quakes were accompanied by loud rumbling noises. The shocks continued over a period of half an hour, causing atmospheric disturbances which cut off radio programs.

Dr. J. J. Shaw, famous Birmingham seismologist, told International News Service the tremors were doubtlessly due to earth faults.

DESTROYER DISABLED IN COLLISION REACHES PORT

NEW LONDON, Conn., Jan. 16. (AP)—The coast guard destroyer Herndon, disabled in a collision with the Collier Lemuel Burrows, arrived at New London harbor today.

She was in tow of the coast guard tug Acushnet which had taken her over from the Burrows five miles inside of Montauk point. The helpless destroyer which collided with the Burrows yesterday in a heavy fog between Montauk point and Block island was escorted by the destroyers Wainwright and Wilkes, the coast guard patrol boat Marion and the cutter Champlain.

Coast guard officials said the Herndon, carrying a crew of 92 men, would be towed to New York for repairs if she were found to be extensively damaged.

RAIL EXECUTIVES PRESENT CASE TO EMPLOYES GROUP

President of B. & O. Says Ten Per Cent Wage Cut Essential

HEAD OF BROTHERHOOD ASKS RELIEF PROGRAM

Negotiations to Continue at Two Sessions on Sunday

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (AP)—Railroad presidents presented their case to the employes today and the negotiations on wage reductions and unemployment will narrow down tomorrow to the weighing of proposal for proposal.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio and leader of the group representing every major railroad in the country, told brotherhood and union delegates why the managements considered it essential that the men accept voluntary 10 per cent wage cuts for one year.

David R. Robertson, head of the firemen's brotherhood and leader of the union delegation, had previously offered a program under which average rail forces would be assured employment for a year and relief would be extended to those out of work.

With the two viewpoints explained, the conference which is fully authorized to reach an agreement on the two matters, adjourned this noon to give each side an opportunity to caucus its membership regarding the suggestions.

To men who had worked most of their lives on railroads, Sunday offered no obstacle to continuous work, and two sessions were planned for tomorrow. Then will begin a general free-for-all discussion of the problems. Most of it is expected to center on the labor program with the outcome hinged on the questions of how much will the managements concede to get immediate 10 per cent cuts and how little will the men accept without forcing the lengthy legal process necessary to bring about a wage reduction.

The legal steps toward reductions have already been started and today they brought about a request on the part of the unions that the presidents make sure of a few roads that had been unclear on the subjects.

Guard Watches Show to Prevent Further Raids

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16. (UP)—A guard of deputy sheriffs watched over the 2,100-year-old Greek farce Lysistrata today to prevent their brother officers of the city vice squad from raiding it.

The deputies had orders to arrest any mere policeman who tried to interfere with the performance on charges of contempt of court.

The guards were placed after the city vice squad raided the ancient play a second time in defiance of a court restraining order.

FARMER NEAR QUANAH TO IRRIGATE TRACT

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 16.—County Commissioner W. F. Caldwell, living eight miles southeast of Quanah, is preparing to irrigate a seven-acre tract on his farm, which will be planted to vegetables and truck.

A few months ago Mr. Caldwell built a dam, and the lake thus formed is now covering 35 acres. It is full of water and irrigation will be done without pumping, as the water will flow by gravity to the tract.

The piano was invented in 1711 in Italy.

A LOOK AT THE FIELD

During the next six months the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination will be under way. Just now there is, in racetrack parlance, much jockeying for position, with Governor Roosevelt on the inside track but facing much stronger competition than was in prospect for his fellow New Yorker, Al Smith, at this stage four years ago. The field is a large one, and there are several able entries.

Just how many entries there are is still doubtful. However, the recent poll of Democratic editors, conducted by Publishers' Service Magazine, provides a list that can be considered a fairly comprehensive one. There were 16 men who were indicated as the preferences of the editors. To this 16, one or two names may be tentatively added. It may be of value, at this time, to look the field over and consider each of the potential entries in turn.

The two-thirds rule under which Democratic national conventions operate makes any aspirant for the nomination more of a possibility than he would be if a bare majority sufficed. The candidate who develops the most early strength, as Clark did in 1912 and as McAdoo did in 1924, may find that his showing merely serves to stiffen the opposition to him. In such a case, a deadlock is more likely. And out of a deadlocked convention there may emerge a nominee who went into the convention with little apparent strength. Therefore, some of the individuals discussed below must be considered more potent, as possibilities, than their present strength would seem to make them. The 1924 convention illustrated that. John W. Davis eventually was nominated, though he was a rank outsider when the convention met.

In the list here discussed, there are two names not shown in the editors' poll. J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois and Cordell Hull of Tennessee must be included in the array of remote possibilities, bearing in mind that apparent remoteness at this stage means little. Here is the list, with some essential facts about each, in alphabetical order of names:

Baker, Newton Diehl, 60, of Ohio, wet. Outstanding student of government, schooled by Tom Johnson and Woodrow Wilson, and exponent of their political ideas. Probably better equipped for the presidency than any other possibility, which is not saying that he would be the best candidate. Would be handicapped somewhat by his advocacy of the League of Nations. An earnest disciple of Woodrow Wilson and considered somewhat similar to him. Less objectionable to the drys than probably any other wet.

Byrd, Harry Flood, 44, of Virginia, dry. Episcopalian. Farmer, newspaper publisher. The youngest entry. Made remarkable record as governor of Virginia. His ability is conceded, but he has been poorly press-agented as a national political figure. Young enough to wait a while, particularly in view of the fact that a Democratic president would be bound to consider him as cabinet material.

Cox, James Middleton, 62, of Ohio, wet. Episcopalian. Has grown in stature and popularity since 1920. A man who has been much underrated, for some reason. A possibility only if there is a deadlock.

Davis, John William, 59, of New York, wet. Has one of the most notable records of public service of any Democrat now living, but his corporate connections are a heavy handicap. Has not gained materially in public esteem since his 1924 race.

Garner, John Nance, 62, of Texas, wet. His long service in congress has given him much political wisdom and a profound knowledge of statecraft. Probably is too astute as a politician to consider himself much of a possibility, but things may happen to tempt him too much. Comparatively little known in his own state, but probably can have the Texas delegation if he wishes.

Hull, Cordell, 60, of Tennessee, dry. One of the senate's ablest men. His presence in the race would simply serve to further divide the dry strength.

Lewis, James Hamilton, probably about 70, of Illinois, wet. A seasoned politician, a scholar and an interesting figure, who has little prospect of strength outside his own state and who is by no means certain of that state's support.

McAdoo, William Gibbs, 68, of California, dry. Episcopalian. A man of much ability, well-proven in the administration of his father-in-law, Woodrow Wilson, and in business activities. The principal hope of the dry Democrats. A man whose supporters do not seem to love him as ardently as his enemies hate him, but a force to be reckoned with, and one whose strength his opponents had better not under estimate.

Murray, William Henry, of Oklahoma, dry. The strength of the Murray candidacy is due to the fact that in a time when leadership seemed lacking he has tried to lead, and to his appeal to the agricultural vote. Has a devoted following in his own state and enough supporters in Kansas, Nebraska and elsewhere to make him something of a factor. Has more real ability than some of his actions indicate, and has a profound knowledge of politics, acquired in a hard school. The novelty and color that he could bring into the contest might be assets.

Reed, James A., 70, of Missouri, wet. A very able lawyer, a shrewd politician, and a master in debate. Has largely regained the ground he lost by fighting Wilson, but Wilson Democrats have not forgotten, and will not.

Ritchie, Albert Cabell, 56, of Maryland, wet. Episcopalian. Protagonist of Jeffersonial democracy, and exponent of it during his long service as governor of Maryland. Known in 1928 chiefly as an extreme wet, has been trying since then to convince the party of his availability along other lines. A polished speaker and a profound thinker. Least acceptable to the drys of all the wet possibilities, but a deadlock might cause a swing to him.

Robinson, Joseph Taylor, 60, of Arkansas, dry. Methodist. Available in every sense save geographically. One of the party's most valuable men, one of the most competent men in public life. Democratic drys can't be enthusiastic for him because he was Smith's running mate, but would prefer him to a wet, and that is his hope, such as it is.

Roosevelt, Franklin Delano, 50, of New York, wet. Episcopalian. His candidacy has sagged somewhat in the past month or two, due to the stiffening of the opposition, and the question marks represented by Al Smith and by Tammany's attitude. May not be able to overcome the handicap of being too wet for the drys and not wet enough for the extreme wets. Has alienated some of his New York support by his insistence on higher tax rates. Is still the most formidable aspirant, but the going gets rougher all the time.

Smith, Alfred Emanuel, 58, of New York, wet. Catholic. Has not gained in stature or popularity since 1928. The fact that he polled much the largest vote ever given a Democratic nominee is significant, but so is the fact that he lost his home state while Roosevelt was able to carry it for governor. Principal strength is in New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey. His chances rest on the outcome of the extreme wets' effort to dominate the convention.

Thompson, Huston, 56, of Colorado, dry. Presbyterian. Now governor of Colorado. Belongs in the lower bracket of favorite sons.

Traylor, Melvin Alvah, 53, of Illinois. In each pre-convention campaign, somebody of no particular availability appears and develops ardent but limited support without any apparent good reason for it. In 1928 it was Evan Woollen of Indiana. This year it is Traylor.

White, George, 60, of Ohio, dry. Now governor of Ohio. The fact that dry Democratic possibilities are few and that Ohio is a pivotal state, would give him an outside chance if the drys should dominate the convention.

Young, Owen D., 57, of New York, wet. If a situation should arise in which it was possible for a utility magnate and "big business" representative to be nominated, he would be in favored position. A man who has had many tasks of a public nature and performed them all with conspicuous ability. A year ago he seemed to have an active organization but apparently it has bogged down.

Such is the lineup as it appears now.

A Decalog of Management

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Depression is management's opportunity!

No one wants to pass through a phase of depression but, once such a phase is on, it can be turned into a golden opportunity for clarifying and activating anew our organizations.

Col. M. G. Rorty, vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph company, recently drafted for the American Management association the following decalog of management, which deserves careful study at a time when maximum efficiency of organization is of supreme importance.

(1) Definite and clean-cut responsibilities should be assigned to each executive.

(2) Responsibility should be coupled with corresponding authority.

(3) No change should be made in the scope of responsibilities of a position without a definite understanding to that effect on the part of all concerned.

(4) No officer or employe, occupying a single position in the organization, should be subject to definite orders from more than one source.

(5) Orders should never be given to subordinates over the head of a responsible officer. Rather than do this the officer in question should be supplanted.

(6) Criticisms of subordinates, whenever possible, should be made privately, and never should a subordinate be criticized in the presence of officers or employes of equal or lower rank.

(7) No dispute or difference between officers or employes as to authority or responsibilities should be considered too trivial for prompt and careful adjudication.

(8) Promotions, wage changes, and disciplinary action should always be approved by the officer immediately superior to the one directly responsible.

(9) No officer or employe should ever be required, or expected, to be at the same time an assistant to, and critic of another.

(10) Any officer whose work is subject to regular inspection should be given the assistance of facilities necessary to enable him to check the quality of his work.

Out of seven years of rather heavy executive responsibilities in a large and complex organization, I can testify to the soundness of these principles as the foundation for smooth-working effectiveness.

Ashamed

The price of milk has dropped again,
So low it's a plumb disgrace,
I don't see how the dairymen
Can look their cows in the face.

As we understand one angle of the international debt situation, there are a lot of promising young republics in the world.

Now that the announcement that Mr. Hoover will accept renomination has burst like a bombshell on an unsuspecting nation, let's all brace ourselves for the shock that's coming when Roosevelt says he's running.

Domestic Target Practice

One of our large and well-trained staff of attention-callers has called our attention to a paragraph in a piece that a lady named Gretta Palmer wrote in the New York World-Telegram. It was as follows:

"If women would let their tempers fly once in a reasonably blue moon they might let off a great deal of accumulated marital spleen. Pulling your husband's hair and throwing the radio at him may not be lady-like. But it is apt to shake him out of his complacency and make him see that he married a woman and not a dor-mat."

Well, it sounds downright reasonable. Any one with a wife who makes a practice of throwing radios at him ought to understand, eventually, that she is not a door-mat. It is not easy, off-hand, to thing of any more convincing way of bringing him to such an understanding. It ought to work. Oh, of course, there are exceptions. The husband might be an individual of very dull perceptions, the obtuse sort on whom new ideas are slow to take effect. But in the great majority of instances the husband would come to the conclusion, fairly readily, that such a woman was not a dor-mat. Most of the husbands we know would come to that view of it not later than the third time that the Atwater Kent whizzed past their heads.

"Sweetheart," we can imagine one of them saying, "just what is the big idea, the central purpose, the raison d'etre, if I may express it that way, of your indulging in target practice with me as the target and the radio as the projectile? Or, as Caesar might have put it, cui bono?"

"Because," she would reply, "I don't want you to think I'm a door-mat."

And then, of course, they would effect an understanding. He would agree that she wasn't a door-mat and she would agree to discontinue throwing radios at him.

Well, a man ought not to call his wife a door-mat, even if she is one of the restrained, patient kind that does not express resentment by radio-throwing. He ought not to call her anything that might be misunderstood. In Mr. Shaw's play that was here the other night the king spoke of his wife as a cabbage. He explained just what he meant by it, and it wasn't as uncomplimentary as it sounded at first. But that isn't anything to call a wife, either. Not even if her figure suggests it.

Some Rules

The question of when, why, and under what circumstances a wife should strike a husband is not an easy one to discuss. It has many ramifications and concomitant factors. There are those, we do not doubt, who will say that she should not strike him at all. But that is an extreme and unreasonable view, and we shall not discuss it at length. It assumes too much. It takes too little account of the inherent nature of husbands.

Perhaps there are, here and there, happy and contented households where no blows are ever struck. But the average home is much better off, as the World-Telegram writer suggests, if the wife occasionally indulges in a little genteel and ladylike brutality.

There are two general rules that we will undertake to lay down. They may not fit all cases, but they apply fairly generally.

The first is, never strike a husband except for purposes of discipline. The second, never strike a father when he has a child in his arms; unless, of course, the child needs a little striking on its own account.

These two rules, observed in a common sense and discriminating way, will make the average home brighter, sweeter and more livable. And they will put an end to this door-mat business.

Missiles

It may be conducive to a cheerful and congenial domestic atmosphere if there is a clear understanding of the situations in which missiles may be employed. Such offenses as wiping one's hands on the embroidered guest towel—we mean, an embroidered towel that is reserved for guests and not a towel kept for embroidered guests; telling company how she pursued him before they were married, and talking about her relatives, are, of course, offenses such as merit and demand vigorous treatment. They are habits into which an ill-trained husband is too prone to drift unless dealt with firmly at the start.

The matter of discussing relatives-in-law, for example. One cannot adopt too stern an attitude toward it. None of us, as has several times been explained in this column, is without relatives that have their little failings. It is something that one cannot help, like a cowlick; one may regret it but there is nothing to be done about it. And when one's helpmeet makes invidious comments upon a brother or an uncle, there are only two ways to deal with the situation. One is to call attention to some of the more conspicuous faults of some kinsman of his, provided he has any kinsman with faults, which is very nearly a cinch. The other is to let fly with some hard and heavy object. The latter, we believe, is by far the best method. To talk, in retaliation, about an uncle of his who eats with his knife merely prolongs the discussion. But a well-hurled electric iron, for example, operates as a period. It brings the conversation to a full stop. It punctuates in the right way.

Roughly speaking, we heartily agree with what the Palmer woman wrote. And if radio-throwing cuts short one of these crooning baritones, it has more to commend it than the inculcation of discipline.

The state of Texas has won its bridge suit. But it was Governor Murray of Oklahoma who taught it the approach-forcing system.

The Golden Fleece!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—In 1920, when wheat sold for $3 a bushel, 1,000 bushels of the grain would retire a $3,000 mortgage on a farm. At the bottom of the wheat price depression last October, when wheat hit the lowest prices in modern history, it would have taken 12,000 bushels to retire the same mortgage, and even today conditions are not very much better.

But this isn't the complete picture, for the federal farm board insists that practically all the reduction in retail food prices that have occurred recently have been taken out of the farmer's hide.

"Farmers are receiving much less for live hogs than is justified by prices consumers are paying for pork products," says C. B. Denman, a member of the board, as he quotes prices on a certain day of last month.

These show that prices at New York retail markets for good grade pork chops averaged 26 cents a pound, a reduction of 7 cents or 21 per cent from the price of the same day one year before; ham, 22 cents a pound, a reduction of 7½ cents or 25 per cent; sliced bacon, 32 cents a pound, a reduction of 9 cents or 22 per cent; lard, 13½ cents a pound, a reduction of 3 cents or 18 per cent.

In the same week, prices of live hogs in Chicago averaged $4.18 per 100 pounds, compared to $7.92 for the corresponding week in 1930, a reduction of $3.74 or 47 per cent.

"With agencies between the farmer and the consumer making little or no reductions in their margins, practically all the burden of supplying the consumer with low-priced pork products is being carried by the farmers," says Denman. "The percentage farmers receive of retail prices of pork products is the smallest on record. Current retail prices warrant considerably higher prices for hogs than farmers are receiving."

Addressing the Institute of American Meat Packers in New York recently, Denman called upon them to narrow the gap between producer and consumer.

"The livestock industry," said Denman, "is entitled to a reduction in the cost of meat distribution. Livestock producers have had to bear the burden of high merchandising costs since the pre-war period. During the past two years, when all prices have declined, the farmers have received a decreasing proportion of the price the consumers pay for meat. The cost of processing and merchandising a unit of meat has declined very little from the relatively high levels prevailing before the depression. An undue proportion of the burden resulting from reduced consumer purchasing power is being passed on to the farmer."

A classic instance was cited by John Simpson of Oklahoma City, president of the National Farmers' union, in his testimony before the senate agriculture committee recently.

Submitting canceled checks and sales records as evidence, Simpson developed this: W. B. Estes, a sheep raiser residing near Littleton, Colo., shipped seven sheep to A. Blakely, a Denver commission merchant. Blakely's company sold two the sheep to the Hurlburt Packing company of Denver for $1.25 and the other five to Swift & Co. for $2.05 or a total of $3.30. From this there was deducted $2.55 for insurance, inspection and commission. Sheep Raiser Estes, for his seven sheep, got a check for the balance, 75 cents, which he gave to Simpson and which Simpson waved before the senate committee.

Estimates by the department of agriculture representative at the packing plant, Simpson went on, showed that the consumer would pay for these seven sheep, when butchered, $83.70.

On a dining car near Chicago, Simpson ordered two lamb chops for his lunch. His bill was 85 cents—or 10 cents more than Sheep Raiser Estes got for all his seven sheep.

"Now something is the matter," Simpson told the senators.

Health and Diet Advice

SOME CARROT RECIPES

By persistent cultivation the carrot, which is a vegetable of the parsley family, has been transformed from a bitter acrid, fibrous root into the succulent vegetable flavor so familiar to us. The most palatable carrots are those which are still young, since, as they become older, they contain some starch and are tough and not as tasteful.

Carrots are very rich in all of the alkaline elements, especially potassium, sodium, calcium, magnesium and iron. For this reason they are a valuable addition to the diet. When they are finely grated, the juice can be extracted and in this form it is easily digested by even the most delicate digestions, and is especially suitable to babies suffering from digestive disturbances or malnutrition. Children should be encouraged to eat raw carrots.

When larger, the carrot must be considered as a starchy vegetable and should be combined only according to food combination rule. Carrots have a large vitamin content and are especially good for furnishing bone elements. The large coarse varieties make excellent cattle feed, causing the production of large amounts of rich, creamy milk.

Carrots may be kept in cold storage throughout the winter or, if the frost is not severe, they may remain in the ground. Here are a few carrot recipes.

Baked Vegetables

To one bunch of carrots, washed and diced, add two turnips, sliced, two medium sized potatoes cut into eights, one chopped head of cauliflower, and a few of the chopped cauliflower leaves. Place this in a baking dish with a cauliflower leaf lying flat across the top. Bake in a moderate oven for about an hour add butter and salt just before serving.

Baked Carrots

By selecting the largest carrots one can bake them in the oven just like potatoes, and prepared in this manner they have a much richer flavor than when boiled.

Carrot Soup

Boil a bunch of medium sized carrots in a close-fitting pot with enough water to cover them. When cooked thoroughly, mash the carrots in the water in which they have been cooked, add one-half cup of milk and allow them to simmer very slowly. In a dry frying pan, place one tablespoon of wholewheat flour and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Place over a moderate fire and stir constantly until the flour has browned thoroughly, do not permit it to burn. To this browned flour, add three tablespoons of cream and one tablespoon of butter. Mix with the carrots, while stirring rapidly to prevent lumps from forming. If desired, celery may be added too and boiled with the carrots.

Carrot Pudding

Grate a sufficient quantity of small, tender, carrots and to each cupful add one-fourth of a cupful of dates cut into small pieces. Mix together thoroughly and bake in custard cups or pudding dish for 10 or 15 minutes. Remove from the oven and cover with a meringue which has been slightly sweetened with a little honey and place in the oven until the egg white becomes a light golden brown. Serve warm or cold with plain or unsweetened whipped cream.

Tomatoes Stuffed With Carrots

Scoop out the contents of some medium-sized tomatoes and fill them with a mixture of finely grated small carrots and fresh cottage cheese. Sprinkle with parsley, place an olive on top and serve on lettuce leaves.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Rubbing Oil on Body

Question—P. N. writes: "Twice a week I have been rubbing pure olive oil on my body. The reason is merely that it is restful and I have an idea that it would keep my skin healthy. Is there any possibility of injury to the skin or of growing hair?"

Answer—There can be no danger in your rubbing the olive oil on your body providing you also take a daily sponge or shower bath to remove any oil residue which would become rancid if not removed soon enough. Rub the oil on after you have taken your bath.

Ventilated Cooking

Question—Mrs. Ina W. writes: "I was taught that vegetables should be ventilated while cooking so I never use a tight cover but allow any gases that may be generated to escape. Has the ventilation theory been entirely superceded? I find that vegetables cooked with a lid produce more gas."

Answer—Most foods should be cooked in almost air tight vessels, but such foods as cabbage, brussels sprouts and cauliflower will be less gas-forming if no lid covers the vessel, for then the sulphur fumes escape more readily. If this sulphur gas is retained, it will cause more flatulence.

X-Ray Burn

Question—C. O. asks: "What is the best treatment that could be effected for healing an x-ray burn? Is there any cure to it?"

Answer—These burns must be treated very carefully, according to their severity, and it would be unwise for me to attempt to advise you through this column. In some cases the ultra-violet light is helpful.

NEW YORK.—From Tin Pan Alley—or what is left of it—have been issuing strangely discordant and sour notes of late.

The boys and girls who turn out a nation's tunes have been "hitting the ceiling" over a number of things and an open feud with publishers is expected by many.

Just before the first blasts of winter arrived, the tales went about concerning certain radio stars of national note, who were reported "snitching" songs right out from under the composers. A hard-working piano thumper would turn out a national hit only to discover that Gus Glumpf, the radio crooner, or Sadie Blotz, the air songstress, was taking credit for it; that the name of the radio performer was mentioned as the composer and that credit was being traded right and left.

Then there's quite a rumpus on between writers and publishers. Not long ago, the Song Writers Protective association was formed, and on its list of chieftains were such prominent names as Berlin and Romberg. The matter of royalties, it seems, will be fought to a bitter end.

If a hit song brings the writer $1,000 or $2,000 in these days, it's supposed to be a lucky break. Once, a neat little fortune often came with a single hit. Now it is said to amount to little more than "grub money." For few songs are hits, and when a mere thousand or so results from a success, things are a bit tough.

The song writers appointed a sort of Will Hays of the music industry—Mons. M. Koenigsburg, who formerly was connected with newspaper syndication.

On a committee, representing the Tin Paners, are such famed writers as Sigmund Romberg, Jack Yellen, Bert Kalmer and Ray Henderson. Arthur Garfield Hays look after their legal involvements.

Listening to the chatter around the "alley," one hears that a million copies frequently followed a hit. Today this has shrunk to 200,000. There still is, however, an income from sources never before possible: radio, talking pictures and other mechanical devices. These are known as "small rights" in the trade.

One of the bases of the present fight is the demand of composers to hold their own copyrights. The publishers come back that so revolutionary a move would put them out of business.

In the midst of the back-and-forth debate came rumors that a composers' strike might result, but this is denied.

Which reminds me that the best music sellers in the land today are the London importation, "Good Night, Sweetheart," "Faded Summer Love," "Guilty of Loving You" and "Sleepy Time Down South."

A dozen New York stores are using protective measures against the most brazen shoplifting racket to date. Many expensive articles, it seems, were lifted during the holiday rush. Not content with the mere theft, the sneak thief now returns it, says it was an undesired gift and demands the money back. And what can the average store do? Several places now are demanding names and addresses of each purchaser, so a future check can be made.

RCA ENGINEER HERE TO TEST RADIO TUBES AT ELECTRIC COMPANY

Poor radio reception is mostly due to worn-out tubes, according to Z. V. Thompson, radio engineer of the R. C. A. radiotron factory, to be here this week under the auspices of the Texas Electric Service company.

"Investigation has disclosed that four out of five sets have one or more worn-out tubes, which are impairing the quality of reception," Mr. Thompson declared. "Radio tubes, like everything else, wear out with use. While it is often true that they will continue to work after hundreds of hours of use, their performance has been greatly impaired.

"As a tube is used, the electrons are given off from the filament or cathode, and after many hours of use, the supply is so diminished that the tube is no longer able to function properly. This causes the tube's characteristics to change, so that they no longer meet the requirements of the circuits in which the tube is working, resulting in loss of sensitivity, volume and tone quality in the radio set."

Mr. Thompson will be here this week at the Texas Electric Service company store with special testing equipment to test tubes for radio users of this city.

EXPRESS AGENCY WILL HAVE MAIN OFFICES IN UNION STATION HERE

According to an annoucement made Friday by T. L. Davis, agent of the Railway Express Agency, Inc., here, the main offices of the agency will be the union station at the lunchroom site recently vacated. The offices are to be on the north side of the station, while a depot will be maintained at 500 Tenth street as in the past. The present main offices are at 910 Ohio.

The large room formerly occupied by a lunch room is being remodeled to suit the needs of the express agency under the supervision of M. A. Stainer, Fort Worth and Denver system engineer, by the C. H. Reed Construction company. The site will be ready for occupancy Feb. 1.

Explorer Plans Long Trek

PARIS.—Prince Sixte de Bourbon, French explorer, soon is to start on a trek of 1,750 miles across the eastern portion of the Sahara desert in the Lake Chad region, according to announcements. Three specially-equipped automobiles will be employed on the trip. The object of the journey is to map air transport lines for the trans-African system planned by the French government.

Piano, Voice and Violin Numbers Will Feature January Program In Musicians Club Musicale

Standards of musical excellence and unusual public appeal already established in the current year's programs of the Musicians club promise to be maintained in the concert to be given Tuesday night, Jan. 19, at 8:15 o'clock in the auditorium of the Woman's Forum.

Seven groups of numbers have been arranged by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., program chairman for the January musicale, the presentation of which will require about 90 minutes. Members of the Musicians club have been extended guest privileges for the affair, and members of the Woman's Forum will be admitted upon presentation of their cards.

Three piano groups, three vocal numbers, and one group of violin compositions comprise the program arranged for the evening. The first movement of Schumann's "Concerto in A Minor" will be interpreted by Mrs. A. H. Britain, pianist, with Charles Kiker playing the orchestral score at the second piano. Mrs. Britain has contributed many performances of increasing brilliance to programs of the past three years in two-piano work. Mr. Kiker's outstanding appearances during the 1931-32 season have been his portrayal of Chopin in "16 Rue Pigalle" at the forum last fall, and his two-piano selections played on Jan. 7 with Miss Maurice Mount in a morning musicale. The finished artistry of these two pianists assure a brilliant presentation of the Schumann concerto.

Mrs. James Daugherty of Nocona, a pupil of Mrs. Annette Walsh of this city, will contribute the second piano group. Her numbers will be "Valcik" by Makrejas, and "Fan Waltz" by Poldini. Closing the program will be two piano numbers by Ernest Katz, prominent in Wichita Falls for a score of years as soloist and instructor. Mr. Katz will play Brahms' "Rhapsodie in B Minor" and Friedman's "Valse."

Mrs. Hermione S. Vaughan, soprano, and director of music in the high school and Junior college, will present the first group of voice numbers, following Mrs. Britain's concerto. Using an atmospheric background, including a number of figures in native Indian costume, Mrs. Vaughan will sing Cadman's "Song of the Robin Woman," from the opera "Shanewis." Utilizing authentic Indian melodies in both voice and accompaniment, and an appealing text taken directly from tribal lore, the "Song of the Robin Woman" is a fascinating, colorful number of instant appeal. Mrs. Vaughan's second song will be "Her Blanket," by Lieurance. Mrs. F. R. Collard will play piano accompaniments.

Excellently chosen for the rich lyric soprano of Miss Grace Williams are the two songs which she will sing in the second voice group. Both numbers will be sung in the French, enhancing the rhythmic and melodic charm in which both compositions abound. Miss Williams' first number will be "Charmant Oiseau," from "La Perle du Bresil" by David; and her second Chaminade's "L'Ete Cecile." Accompaniments will be played by Mrs. Akin.

Something of an innovation to programs thus far presented by the Musicians club is provided in the numbers to be sung by Willard L. Underwood, tenor. Instead of single numbers chosen from various composers, his group will be a short song-cycle, "Elliland," by Von Fielitz. The cycle presents in several brief melodies the story of a beautiful love affair between a monk and a young nun which soon reaches a tragic end after becoming known to the abbot. An English translation of the German text will be used. Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey will be the accompanist.

Stanley M. Raub, favorably established here for many years as a solo violinist, will contribute the violin group included in Tuesday night's concert. Three short numbers, sharply contrasted in feeling and style, comprise the group. Mr. Raub first will play the andante movement from "Symphonie espagnole" by Lalo. "Minuet and Trio" by Mozart will be the second number, while Fritz Kreisler's fanciful but highly musical conception of "Tambourine Chinois" will conclude Mr. Raub's group. His accompanist will be Mrs. Akin.

In lieu of printed programs, announcements of the various numbers to be given Tuesday night will be made by Miss Marguerite Fisher. Hostesses for the night are Mesdames Stanley M. Raub, Walter Robbins, C. E. Beavers, Jasper Ferguson and Miss Lucy Hudgins.

Reagan Junior High Meets for Thrift Program

An enthusiastic meeting of the Reagan Junior High P.-T. A. was held in the school auditorium Thursday afternoon when three excellent speakers presented the topic of "Thrift" from three viewpoints.

Bert King, attorney, told about "Thrift" from the angle of the business man and said that Americans were probably the most unthrifty people in the world. He cited an instance where a Bohemian farmer had his storm cellar full of canned goods and his smokehouse full of meat while right across the road was an American farmer literally on the community for support. He urged the parents and teachers to instill into the youth of this day the habit of thrift. "For thrift is the cable which ties the child to a happy life in after years and thrift makes for a safe margin which is often the step between safety and tragedy," he said.

Miss Alice Small, a teacher in the Zundelowitz school, told about the thrift bank operated in her school for the children in order to teach them to save. She quoted Theodore Roosevelt in conclusion by saying "If you would be sure that you are beginning right, begin to save."

Mrs. J. L. Jackson Jr., taking Mrs. Ralph Hines' place on the program, gave a most interesting and enlightening talk on thrift in the home. "Thrift is care and wisdom in management of one's resources," she stated, "and means not only saving of money but the wise spending of money." She included in her suggestive budget an allotment for food, shelter, clothing, personal advancement, charity, church and recreation and she urged the giving of an allowance to each child so to create the feeling of partnership in the home.

Mrs. Jessie Souther gave the devotional taken from Samuel i, 24-27, and Samuel ii, 18-19, in which she showed that Hannah could teach mothers a great lesson on thrift in mother love.

Miss Rachel Davis, director of music, presented Herbert Fain in a trombone solo, accompanied by Frances Burus, and for a second musical number a two-piano arrangement of the "Melody in F" by Rubenstein, played by Nettie Maxine Baber and Frances Burus. Both numbers were well received. After a brief business session with Mrs. Monte Staniforth, presiding, all patrons were asked to buy tickets to the benefit bridge to be given at the home of Mrs. Staniforth on Thursday, Jan. 21, both afternoon and evening. Miss Margaret Morgan's room had the most mothers present.

LAMAR ALATHEAN CLASS HAS MONTHLY MEETING

Mrs. J. W. Givens was hostess at her home at the monthly meeting of the Lamar Avenue Baptist Alathean Sunday school class Thursday when in the business meeting, reports were made by officers and chairmen. Each member of the class resolved publicly to be 100 per cent and make the class a standard one by the March meeting.

Mrs. J. O. Vinson had charge of the social hour when games were played and a playlet, "Visiting Prospects," showed the right and wrong way to visit prospective members.

A refreshment plate was served to Mesdames A. A. Frichte, W. N. Balch, R. W. McAda, Charles Massey, R. E. Campbell, M. D. Wilkinson, L. E. Hanoway, J. O. Vinson, V. M. Tillerson, J. H. Cowart, J. W. PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

WITH the parent-teacher lunch fund well over the top, and all the hungry kiddies provided for, it is interesting to see how much can be accomplished by a band of working women, when they set their hearts, minds, and strength to a worthwhile task. So in my letter today, Kitty, I think I shall talk mainly about some of these women who are doing things. The other's don't count much anyway. The group of pictures I am sending you today, bear out this thought, they are all women who are zealous workers, thinkers—women of vision.

NOW there is Mrs. W. W. Cook, who has recently been elected the new district secretary of Methodist Missionary societies in the Wichita Falls district. Not a woman in this section has done more for the moral, spiritual and material uplift of the community than she has. For years and years, she has been an officer of some kind in the Federated Missionary society, which she says she considers the greatest work that Wichita Falls women have to do. For this society composed of leading women in church work of all denominations in the city, sponsors the day nursery, where small children are cared for while their mothers have an opportunity to work for a livelihood. The fellowship brought by the federated society is also well worthwhile giving women of the various denominations an opportunity to get better acquainted.

AND then, Mrs. Austin F. Leach, one of the city's younger matrons. Using a well known slang phrase, she is "stepping right on the gas." Mrs. Leach was recently unanimously elected superintendent of children's work in the North Texas Methodist Missionary conference. She has been president of the Floral Heights Methodist Missionary society the past two years and prior to this activity, was superintendent of mission study for two years. Through her efforts, the Floral Heights society sends an offering annually to a leper colony in Africa. She is actively interested in all phases of church and parent-teacher work, and is vice president of the Crockett P.-T. A.

AND now I will introduce you to a new resident in our midst, Vera McNew Bickerstaff, located with her husband for the present at the Polhemus apartments. Many pioneer Wichitans (you know if you have lived here as long as 20 years, you are entitled to that distinction) will remember her as Vera McNew, and her father, E. O. McNew, was superintendent of schools here 20 years ago when she was a child.

VERA M'NEW BICKERSTAFF, attractive young woman, has had quite a career since her childhood days in Wichita Falls. She was educated in the University of Texas and the University of Chicago, and attended several music schools in New York. She has toured the United States in concert work, followed by two years as a headliner for Keith-Orpheum through the United States and Canada. She presented one of the first hour programs on WFAA in Dallas, and was a featured soloist at the Palace theater in Dallas under the personal direction of Don Albert. After retiring from the stage, this talented artist accepted a position in the fine arts department and as director of publicity at John Tarleton college in Stephenville.

SHE has been a special writer on the Fort Worth Star Telegram, and for the past year a feature writer of the Dallas News. Resigned at Tarleton to accept similar work at Texas Technological college in Lubbock and resigned before taking up the work there to become Mrs. Bickerstaff.

For four years, Mrs. Bickerstaff resided in Eastland, during which time she served as society editor of the Eastland Telegram, and filled a district office in the music section of the federated clubs of the sixth district. She served as music director for Judge J. E. Hickman's famous class for men in Eastland, and taught in the Eastland High school as head of the music department.

MRS. BICKERSTAFF has moved here with her husband, B. B. B. Bickerstaff, who is well known through this section of the oil fields, having been with the Gulf Production company in this district several years ago, and is now with the state railroad commission in the oil and gas division.

ANOTHER attractive woman in this group is La Vonta Roblin, one of the honor graduates in the January class of the local high school, who will enroll in the school of expression at Oklahoma university in Oklahoma City. Miss Roblin is preparing herself rapidly for her career and no doubt will take her rightful place in the world work when she is through with her preparation.

A BIT psychology about work is given by Olive Roberts Barton, popular NEA Service writer, who says that everyone works. "It is work to take a bath, to get dressed, to walk, to eat, to put on your hat and coat or fold your napkin, if you are minded that way. Almost every thing we do is work. The only thing is that some things we enjoy, some we are indifferent about, and others we dislike, heartily. The difference between work

L. Proctor gave a report from the membership committee and presented three names for active membership, and two for associate.

SMALL SCULPTURES ON EXHIBIT AT FORUM

Texans from several different towns are represented in the selection of 100 pieces chosen from the 5,500 carvings entered in the seventh annual competition of small sculpture in white soap for the Proctor & Gamble prizes which were shown in June, 1931 in the American-Anderson galleries, New York.

This 100-piece showing, some remarkable in detail and indicating real talent in outline and likeness, is still exhibited in a cabinet in the Woman's Forum foyer, under the auspices of the art department.

Children of the public schools have been extended a special invitation by the chairman of the department, Mrs. Walter Campbell, to visit it. It will be removed early in the week. Art teachers in schools are extended an invitation to bring their classes to see the interesting small sculptures.

Entries may be made by sculptors of different ages in classifications announced by Proctor & Gamble for prizes offered in the eighth annual competition.

Roosevelt-Donner Wedding Solemnized

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16. (US)—The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Browning Doner of Villanova, Pa., and Elliott Roosevelt, son of Governor Roosevelt of New York, at Bryn Mawr today attracted national interest.

The wedding was solemnized in the Church of the Redeemer at noon.

The bride is the daughter of William H. Donner, a widely known steel manufacturer and founder of the towns of Monessen and Donora, Pa. He built the National Tinplate Works, now a part of the American Tinplate company, and the Union Steel company, later purchased by the United States Steel corporation. He is a former president of the Cambria Steel company, chairman of the board of the Pennsylvania Steel company, and founder and president of the Donner Steel company, now absorbed by the Eaton interests.

The former Miss Donner was a bud last season and made her debut at a Bellevue Stratford dinner-dance. She is a graduate of a fashionable private school in Simsbury, Conn., and of a finishing school in France.

Young Roosevelt is a namesake of the late Elliott Roosevelt, only brother of the late President Theodore Roosevelt. He is a great-grandson of Warren Delano, and is related to the Astor family. His ancestor, Franklin Delano married the granddaughter of the first John Jacob Astor.

The ceremony attended by social celebrities was one of the highlights of the social season here.

Crowded With Notables

The flower filled chapel was crowded with notables of society and fashion as strains of music preceded the bride and her father down the aisle. The bride wore flesh lace in empire style with long sleeves puffed at top.

A flesh pearl coronet confined old lace that swept down back of her.

The bride was attended by Miss Katherine Rodgers, a sister, as maid of honor, Mrs. Curtis Dall, sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor, and six bridesmaids, Miss Marthu Hare, Dora Browning Donner, sister of the bride, Marion Winsor, Ellengowen Hood, Frances Shober, all of Philadelphia, and Elizabeth Marston, of New York.

The bridesmaids wore pale flesh velvet made in the empire mode even to small puff sleeves. Blue velvet hats matched the high-waisted blue velvet girdles and blue slippers. They wore long cream suede gloves.

Silver sherezade in empire style for the maid and matron of honor made a pleasing contrast. They wore blue vievet hats, blue pumps and silver girdles lined with blue.

Mother of Bride

Mrs. Donner, the former Dora Browning, of New Jersey, mother of the bride, wore a soft dark mauve velvet gown with a simple bodice and graceful flowing skirt, a little shoulder cape relieving the simplicity of her gown.

Two little flower girls, Dora Browning Stewart, a niece of the bride, and Anna Eleanor Dall, niece of the groom, wore eggshell taffeta cut in the empire mode.

Mrs. Roosevelt, mother of the bridegroom, wore blue topped by a blue coat, and a hat of brown and blue.

James Roosevelt, brother of Elliott, was best man, and the ushers were Curtis B. Dall; Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., and John A. Roosevelt, brothers of the groom; James R. P. Nason, David Rawle, James R. Leonard, John A. Bross, Robert Donner, and Ralph Hitchcock, all of New York; and E. Wallace Mathews, Lloyd M. Coates, and John Stewart, brother-in-law of the bride, of Philadelphia.

After a honeymoon trip, the young couple will live at 399 Park avenue, New York City.

Young Roosevelt is now a partner in the advertising firm of Kelly, Nason and Roosevelt, a vice president at the age of 21. He was active in athletics as a student at Trenton and Hun.

hard. That was work. Today, there is my column. Every so often I strike a day when I am depressed, when ideas meanly stay away, when confusion of events interpose themselves between me and my desk.

"ON THOSE days I say, 'Oh, if I could grab a bucket and scrub all day and go back to old times—and have someone else to take up my pen!' In those days I used to think 'If only I could sit down and write or do something to get away from this drudgery, how heavenly it would be!'

"WORK then would be play now and my work now seemed like play then. Not that I don't seize a broom often as an antidote for mental doldrums. I do. But it just goes to show that 'work' in the psychological sense means something we've got to do, something we dedicate ourselves to, or something that society expects of us. And when it 'must' be done we get a complex about it.

"I BEGAN to think about all this today. Is there any way that people can learn to look upon responsibility with more mental ease? Women with houses and families, men in business with tremendous worries? Every one with his particular niche to fill. Phobias against responsibility lead to nervous breakdowns. One of our oldest friends, a judge in another city, died recently of nervous collapse and he was only 50. He was a fine judge and a splendid man but felt his responsibility keenly. It wore him out.

"CAN it be that in childhood we could teach boys and girls to associate work and responsibility with more mental happiness? By teaching them to associate duty with joy could we eliminate the brooding and worry that fastens itself to so many of us later? The work habit should be started early in life but cannot it be made into a less ominous thing? Cannot we teach the children to be efficient and at the same time not to be too serious?"

One who has had all these experiences as told by Miss Barton, and who believes in her work psychology and is passing it on to you, is your friend—

Of All Things!

CHARLESTON, S. C.—W. W. Leitch, genial clerk in the police chief's office, is seriously considering taking a memory course. Leitch appeared at his office as usual one day recently and went to work. He noticed few people were at work during the morning—but is wasn't until noon that he realized he wasn't supposed to be at work either. It turned out to be a legal holiday. He promptly fled the office.

Art Exhibit and Famous Lecturer Forum Features

No weekly calendar at the Forum clubhouse has offered members such excellent varied entertainment as that running from Sunday, Jan. 17, through Sunday, Jan. 24. The marvelous program to be given by the Musicians club at their concert Tuesday evening; the lecture by one of the most prominent writers and speakers of the day that will be open to the public Thursday evening and the junior forum luncheon and program that will specially honor the fine arts department Saturday—all these will be presented while the one-man show of portraits sponsored by the drama department is on exhibit. This show will open this afternoon with a studio tea for the general public at the Forum clubhouse from 3 to 6 o'clock when members of the art department, Mrs. Walter Campbell, chairman, will be present with Mrs. Mary Lou Thomas Sanford of Taos, N. M., the artist whose work is hung for the next two weeks. The public is cordially invited.

Mrs. Sanford, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Thomas of Wichita Falls, is a painter of portraits who is becoming nationally known, working under her maiden name. She makes her home in the artist's colony in Taos and many of her favorite studies are of attractive Spanish types in that locality. She is exhibiting the studies at the forum while in Wichita Falls to execute some commissions.

Portrait Exhibit

Among the portraits attracting wide-spread interest "The Wagon Master," is alive and outstanding. With a background of a rough board wall, only a maroon handkerchief tied round the collar gives color to the study in subdued tones that pictures a spirit of geniality. Mrs. Sanford has caught and held a glimpse of a generous and jolly soul. The exemplification of the art of framing is at its highest in each of her portraits, the frame of "The Wagon Master," is particularly attractive.

"Jeanette," with a head running over with curls is a sweet faced child whom the artist has pictured at that moment when, as children often do, she is pondering unfathomed mystery.

Not only beautiful technique and a coloring that is exquisite in its lights and lustrous shadows, but a lovely interpretation of character makes two portraits of the daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rogers, which are hung in this show, of unusual interest. There's an unconsciously independent tilt to the head of the girl, a resolutely sweet mouth and waving hair and dreaming eyes that only a real artist could catch. Cleancut features, a steadfast gaze and a magnificent forehead show the boy's spirit.

A portrait of a former dean of S. M. U. is an unusual study; "Don Jose," brightened by his serape is typical study of the Spanish type; "The Tough Guy," who is really putting on his toughness for the artist who probably laughed as she painted it, will appeal to lovers of young male animals. Then there's "Little Texas Bluebonnet," who is shown again in "Betsy," and who will win an unwitting smile from everyone who looks at her merry face. "Little Brother" and "Mother" are beautiful portrait studies and "Quanita," hanging in the foyer over the stair, is another of the peculiarly outstanding bits of work. The portrait of "David Crockett" loaned by Crockett school, catches all eyes and the beautiful portrait of two Spanish-American children given by Mrs. Sanford to the forum, holds a place of honor in the dining room where the studio tea will be held.

Lewis Brown Speaks

Lewis Browne, an author who has dealt mostly with religious topics and whose books have millions of readers, will speak here Jan. 21 at 8 p. m. under the auspices of the Woman's Forum. It is said that his addresses in all parts of America have attracted large audiences largely because he discusses religion and why the human family needs it, evidently a subject with a universal appeal.

The book that brought Dr. Browne his first fame is "The Believing World," which has gone into many editions and been translated into many languages, hundreds of thousands of copies having been sold. His book, "Stranger Than Fiction," is a short history of the Jews that has become a classic in its field and is said to be the most widely read book on the subject in the English language. "That man Heine" was a selection of the Literary Giuld of America and brought Dr. Browne much added fame. So popular did his "The Graphic Bible" become that it was syndicated throughout the world among leading newspapers. His latest book, "Since Calvary," is the story of Christianity and is now receiving much praise and is being widely read.

At a recent meeting of the American Library association, it was announced that present interest in religious literature is in religious problems rather than in devotional books, and that the book that heads the entire list for popularity during recent years is Lewis Browne's "This Believing World."

These books have been read literally by millions of people in all parts of the world. It is said by his publishers that some of them are in use as texts or as collateral reading in institutions of higher learning both here and abroad.

A Ready Speaker

Dr. Browne is said to be one of those rare men of literary distinction who are also gifted with eloquence. He likes to speak to audiences, having been educated to be a rabbi, and has spoken to thousands of audiences in this country as well as abroad.

It is claimed for him that he has the power to present the profounder concerns of life in language at once clear, incisive and brilliant with epigram. He has engaged in numerous debates on social and ethical, as well as religious questions. When here, he will speak on "This Believing World." The lecture will be open to forum members on their new membership cards. The forum board of directors have for the first time this season, opened this attraction to the general public at the regular minimum charge made for out of town guests and husbands of forum members. Tickets may be secured at the forum, the evening of the lecture.

No Need To Stay FAT

There are millions of people, slender and active, who can testify that excess fat and sluggish vigor need no longer be endured. You can see for yourself if you look about. Abnormal figures are nowhere near so common as they were.

Medical science has made a great discovery. It is the fact that excess fat is largely due to a scanty gland secretion. Food that should supply fuel and energy goes to piled-up fat. The remedy is not starvation, but correction of that fault.

Now doctors, the world over, feed this lacking factor. They combat this cause. And excess weight, by millions of pounds, has been wiped out in this way.

Marmola prescription tablets are based on this modern factor. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory to present you this right treatment at small cost. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Multitudes of users have told others the amazing and delightful results. Thus Marmola holds the pinnacle place in this field of reduction helps.

Don't wait longer. Don't cling to methods hard or futile. Do the right thing now. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. A book in each box gives the formula, and explains why the fat disappears. Start today on reduction by Marmola. You will always be glad.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Ruth nodded when Sue asked if she wanted to go to Nancy Becker's.

"Anywhere." Her lips framed the words.

The girls took a taxicab at the hotel door. Sue had left word for Jack that he would find her at Nancy's.

The Becker mansion, gay with flowers, fire-bright and luxurious, was very quiet.

"Mrs. Becker is upstairs," a maid explained. "This way, please."

She pushed a button in the oak paneling of the wall, and a door slowly slid back, revealing an elevator with a deep upholstered bench along three sides.

There were marks of wealth everywhere. Sue always sensed them when she entered the house. Some day all of this would be Harray's. And Corrinne's. But she didn't care. She didn't want any of it. Jack and the small house with the winding path, through the swinging gate, down to the brook, were enough.

Nancy was resting on a cushioned couch that was a lavish gold and red and black affair. Her eyes looked longer than usual and her skin was whiter. She was still bandaged carefully. Her bones were far from knitted but she smiled and held out her uninjured hand.

"I'm lonesome. I'm so glad you came. Start to talk and don't stop until you've told me everything. You've both got worries. I've heard rumors."

Sue was glad with a swift sense of relief that Nancy wanted them to talk. Nancy was worldly-wise. She knew which rules worked and which didn't. And why they didn't. Maybe she could help. Yet Sue hated to mention Corrinne's treachery.

She looked at Ruth and noticed that Ruth looked relieved, too.

"Are you sure you wouldn't be bored if I asked you a question?" Ruth was saying. "I'm trying to throw away Cinderella's rags—and turn into a princess. I even lost a slipper on the road at midnight . . but so far the prince hasn't brought it back."

Nancy's eyes grew brighter with interest. "Grand! Start at the beginning.

Ruth told the story, prompted by Sue, of the manner in which she had suddenly entered the social life of the community, put on an impromptu dance, promised to do it at the local theater if she could do it masked, lost her slipper one night—on and on. Her voice was gay and laughed at itself. Nancy listened enthusiastically.

"Splendid! I'm so glad you came! I've even been so bored and restless. Just to have to stay here! But now I've got something to do. You like this young doctor, don't you? Don't be afraid to speak up. Girls always do now. Cinderella wouldn't before she went to the ball, but when she came back I bet she told every housemaid about him over the fence next morning."

"He's—nice," Ruth said.

"Humph! He isn't at all. He's dumb to let Sally pull anything over on him, but since you like him—will you open the wardrobe door there, and take down an armful of dresses?"

"Of course but—"

"Never mind. And you take down some, too, Sue. I've heard about Corrinne's outburst. I'm not good much but giving directions just at present. Throw the rainbow on that chair and . . ."

She had reached for a dress. The loose golden negligee opened. A crumpled handkerchief fell to the floor. And a rose petal or two with a dim exotic jungle fragrance, slipped out.

Monday: Nancy's plan.

CARLSBAD CAVERN HIGHWAY BODY TO MEET IN QUANAH

Fourth Annual Convention To Be Held on Monday January 25

PLANS COMPLETED TO ENTERTAIN 200 GUESTS

Original Association Formed in Quanah Before Federal Designation

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 16.—The fourth annual meeting of Carlsbad Cavern U. S. 62 Highway association will be held at Quanah Monday, Jan. 25. Plans are being made by the Quanah Chamber of Commerce to entertain the two hundred or more delegates who are expected to attend.

"It is our most important meeting," states J. H. Hankins of Lubbock, president of the association. "Every town on the route, interested in tourist travel should certainly be represented. We are particularly interested in having representatives from each of our original Carlsbad Cavern U. S. 62 Highway association members."

Efforts will be made at this meeting to amalgamate the resources, co-ordinate the energies and unite all the organizations interested in the development of this highway, President Hankins stated.

The highway now extends from Niagara Falls, N. Y., to El Paso, Texas, a distance of 2,355 miles; is 80 per cent paved and with additional paving projects under way for 1932.

This road "has a drink at both ends," running from Juarez, Mexico, to Canada, has the Niagara Falls at one end, the famous Carlsbad caverns near the other end, with the Ozark mountains, Mammoth cave, and other scenic points in between.

Numerous Connections

The highway is the longest federal designated highway in America today. It crosses virtually every important east and west federal highway in the United States, and a number of the important north and south federal highways, each furnishing a great deal of transfer tourist traffic.

A connection road runs from El Paso to Chihuahua, Mexico, and efforts are being made to extend the road to Mexico City, and from Niagara Falls on into Canada.

Plans for advertising and encouraging more tourist travel over the route, and to encourage the paving of unpaved links, will be worked out at the meeting, together with a complete plan of organization of an association to represent the entire route.

The link on this highway across Hardeman county through Quanah is state highway No. 51, paving of which was completed in December, 1931. This connects with Oklahoma state highway across the recently completed $85,000 free bridge over Red river. This bridge was built jointly by the states of Oklahoma and Texas, and the counties of Jackson in Oklahoma and Hardeman in Texas.

The original Carlsbad Highway association was formed in Quanah four years ago, since which time federal designation for connecting links on the entire route has been secured; and hundreds of miles have been paved or are in process of being paved.

It is expected delegates from pivotal cities along the entire route will be in attendance at the Quanah meeting. Among the cities who have indicated delegates will attend are Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Farren, Pa.; Columbus, Ohio; Maysville, Ky.; Sikeston, Mo.; Eureka Springs, Ark.; Okmulgee, Okla.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Lubbock, Texas; Carlsbad, N. M.; and El Paso. It is expected one or two Mexico cities will also be represented.

RETAIL PRICE OF FOOD DROPS DURING PAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—Investigations by the bureau of labor statistics showed today that retail food prices dropped 16 2-3 per cent last year.

Reports from 51 cities showed costs to be two per cent lower on Dec. 15 than on the same date in November and 16 2-3 per cent less than on Dec. 15, 1930.

The retail price studies take 1913 as the 100 per cent year. The index was 137.2 per cent on Dec. 15, 1930, and 114.3 per cent on Dec. 15, last. The average for 1931 was 121.3 per cent.

The drops in food costs ranged over the period of a year from 10 per cent in Portland, Ore., to 23 per cent at Springfield, Ill.

The figures included the following declines:

New York, 21 per cent; Dallas, 19 per cent; Houston, 18 per cent; Kansas City, 16 per cent, and Chicago, 15 per cent.

RECORD-NEWS PATTERNS

Looking at spring fashions from an angle of beauty alone, we really believe that never before have feminine styles been lovelier. There is a grace of line that will improve the appearance of every figure and an individuality that will mean becoming styles for every personality. Colors have been created with a view to harmony with other colors, and fabrics have been designed with a genuine desire to give the fashion world something really different and beautiful.

Pattern 1148

The light top and dark bottom dress has become so popular in the very short time it has been the vogue, that the loveliest of spring frocks are using flat and sheer crepes in dual tones. Also, many prints are constructed to be used together as twin prints. This model is a delightful example of color combination boasting the very newest of skirts, the flared gored skirt. The crushed girdle, too, is new and most becoming. Pattern 1148 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards dark and 1¾ yards light fabric, 39 inches wide.

Pattern 1134

For bridge, luncheon and the theater, charming little short sleeved frocks are most in demand. This model has the bodice yoke and flared sleeves cut in one piece. The pointed seamings on bodice and skirt are very attractive for sheer fabrics. Select one of the new melon shades with darker print and wear with it a ribbon belt in the darker color. You'll like it in crepe Roma, georgette, Elizabeth or flat crepe. Pattern 1134 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39-inch fabric.

VARSITY NEWS

By BETTY LOVE RUGELEY

More than 5,000 students had returned to the university campus by Monday morning, but their return was not as vividly marked as their departure had been some few weeks before.

It has been suggested that parents and friends of Texas students write as many pleasant letters to them for the remainder of the month as is possible.

It was an amusing experience to hear from a few students who returned to Austin early, for I saw Betsy Lee thrilled over a "walk in a dumb subject," Helen Cline smiling her greeting across a zoology class, Bill Hood, Chi Pi, telling of his fine time in Monterrey, Dell Hatchitt waiting patiently for a book in a library, and W. A. Johnson, who told me, over a hot cup of coffee, that he had been to Abilene.

We are indeed sorry to hear that Vernon Black was unable to return to school. Many of his friends have sent their best wishes for his speedy recovery from this sudden illness.

James Moore, Chi Pi, visited with his brother W. Lee Moore in San Antonio after the holidays.

Dorothy Bennett and Jane Cameron were happy over being together again after their long separation at Christmas time. Miss Cameron, formerly of Wichita Falls has been with her family in Austin, while Miss Bennett visited in Dallas and Wichita Falls.

George Bays has been entertaining his friends with the aid of a new radio which found its way to his Christmas tree.

Virginia Bell voiced her greeting and report of a happy time in Graham, over the phone of the Alpha Delta Pi house.

As far as weddings go, the University of Texas exes and students find the Christmas season better than the month of June. Many Texas exes from Wichita Falls will be interested to hear of the marriages which took place this season.

Mary Catherine Myers of Austin was married to Jack Ryan Davis of Luling on New Years day.

Logan Wilson, Alpha Tau Omega, of Huntsville, was married the day after Christmas to Miss Myra Marshall, Kappa Alpha Theta, of Commerce. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are both Texas exes.

Mr. A. C. Dorsett, of Dallas, who is in the B. B. A. school, and who is advertising manager for the Daily Texan, was married to Miss Norma Wall, of Abilene on Dec. 23. They returned on New Year's day to make their home in Austin.

Some Wichita Falls people who have been seen in Austin the past week are: Mrs. P. A. Welty, Mrs. C. E. Eikelberger, Judge Akin, Maurice Cheek, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Litchfield.

After a week of adjustment and recuperation from the holidays, the students are beginning to think seriously about oncoming exams. All written work and quizzes must be given this wee, and according to university rules must be turned in before next Monday, the first day of dead week. There will be no affairs placed on the social calendar during the week preceding or the week of exams, and students will have the time clear for themselves.

About 2 o'clock Saturday morning the palenthology laboratory in the main building caught on fire and burned some very valuable material besides damaging the building, amounting to about $700.

As term exams come on, the law school will be the only school in the university operating under the honor system.

It is an encouraging report to the people interested in university athletics, to hear that they have made a good start in the basket ball season by defeating Arkansas Saturday night.

The all-university German was well attended Saturday night at the gymnasium. The music was unusually good, and the girls unusually attractive in their new holiday frocks. Wichita Falls boys who were at the dance were Emmett Bauknight, Fred Couper, James Moore, Bill Hood, James Harvey and Hamlin Rugeley.

The fundamentals of football will be taught to any boy who wishes to come out for spring training, according to Clyde Littlefield.

An interesting contest, in the form of a sorority bowling tournament is to take place this week. All campus sororities are taking part, and it promises to be entertaining.

On Tuesday, 17 students returned to the university after spending the holidays at the Students Volunteer Movement convention at Buffalo, N. Y. These students represented the various campus churches, Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. They have returned to their groups with definite plans for encouraging better understanding between the nations of the world, for stimulating interest in the work of foreign missions and for carrying out a program for wearid peace and disarmament.

After 15 Years

LUBBOCK, Texas.—Back in 1916 Herman Kee, then a 10-year-old boy, was hammering on a piece of steel when a small sliver flew into his eye. The sliver caused him no pain until recently, when it became so discomforting that it had to be removed by cutting an incision into the eye and inserting a magnet into it. The sliver was twice the size of a pin head.

DRY LEADERS AT CONVENTION LAUD PROHIBITION LAW

Twelfth Anniversary Of Prohibition Observed At Meeting

CRUSADERS ANNOUNCE 1932 PROHIBITION MAP

Statement Says 200,000,000 Have Changed Minds On Liquor Question

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The results of prohibition were lauded tonight by speakers before the biennial convention of the Anti-Saloon League.

Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit, retiring president, reviewed activities of the past and future plans and a sermon on "America's dry crusade" was given by Rev. H. H. Russell, Westerville, Ohio, founder of the organization in observance of the 12th anniversary of prohibition.

Simultaneously, in a formal statement making public a "1932 world prohibition map," the crusaders, anti-prohibition organization, said it was "happy to furnish for the information of the Anti-Saloon League now holding its convention here, on the 12th anniversary of prohibition, a graphic portrayal of the world prohibition movement which was going so strong a dozen years ago."

The map contrasted five countries that had prohibition in 1920 with the United States and Prince Edward island, which the organization said "are the only ones that after 12 years of trial stand by the noble experiment."

"Almost 200,000,000 people have changed their minds about prohibition since 1920," the statement said, listing Norway, Sweden, Finland, Canada and Soviet Russia.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, told the Anti-Saloon League delegates tonight that "jobs, not beer, are what men need and want," and that "bread, not beer," is what the women want.

RULES COMMITTEE APPROVES PLAN TO 'PROBE' UTILITIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The house will decide next week whether it wants to spend $100,000 to find out who owns the public utilities of the country.

The rules committee today approved the Rayburn resolution for a study of the utilities, particularly holding companies. As a result, the measure will be presented to the house for action soon after the agriculture department appropriation bill is passed.

If the resolution is adopted, Chairman Rayburn of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee told the rules group it will permit a thorough study of all public utility concerns, including oil and gas pipe lines, telegraph and telephone, light and power and bus lines.

He estimated the investigation would require 11 months and cost $100,000 or less.

It is not the purpose of his committee, Rayburn, Texas Democrat, said, "to punish anybody or to hold anybody up to scorn.

"We are simply hopeful of obtaining facts that will enable us to deal intelligently and honestly with legislation," he continued.

PLEA TO DISMISS ATTACK ON AUTO TAX LAW DENIED

HOUSTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—A defense motion to dismiss the court attack on validity of the state automobile tax law was denied this afternoon by Judge Charles E. Ashe, and one witness was offered by that side before adjournment for the day.

Tax Collector J. W. Hall and the state highway department are defendants in the suit, brought by the Harris county commissioners, on the claim the law is unconstitutional in its apportionment of fees collected in the various counties as between the counties and the state. The commissioners contend the provisions of the law discriminate against the larger counties. The statute permits a county retain all automobile license fees up to $50,000 and half of all collected until the county's share reaches $175,000, but requires counties to remit to the state all over that amount.

Specifically, the suit asks injunction against Hall to restrain him from remitting any license collections to the state.

The initial witness for the defendants was County Judge W. M. Wheeler of Waller county.

Many Employes Of Ford Factory Recalled to Jobs

DETROIT, Jan. 16. (AP)—Improvement in employment conditions in the automobile industry is reported in today's issue of the Michigan manufacturer and financial record which says the Ford Motor company has begun production of its 1932 four cylinder models and stepped its employment rolls up to more than 50,000 workers.

The publication says the Ford company is recalling many former employes.

Volume production of new models, it says, may not get fully under way until late in February or early in March "with the prospect that some 75,000 will be on the pay rolls by the time the reported new V-eight is in production."

Good News for Workers

BOSTON, Jan. 16. (INS)—Good news came from two mill cities today. The Lawrence Dye Works will reopen in Lawrence and the East Webster Cotton Print Works of S. Slater & Sons, Inc., at Webster has received sufficient orders to assure full time to the day force of 500 employes for at least five months.

FORMER SHERIFF OF SHELBY COUNTY FACES FEE CASE INDICTMENT

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (AP)—A Travis county deputy sheriff left tonight to serve a warrant on H. H. Burns, formerly sheriff of Shelby county, indicted yesterday by a grand jury that investigated alleged violations of laws governing the fee system of remunerating officers for services performed.

Six sheriffs had been indicted since an inquiry into operation of the fee system was launched by a Texas senate committee several months ago. Two, Woody Townsend of Bastrop county and Clint D. Lewis of Burleson county, have been convicted and have appealed from the verdicts to the court of criminals appeals. Townsend was given two years imprisonment and Lewis three years.

The charge against Burns alleged that he collected $18.20 from the state for services in serving witnesses that he did not perform.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Guardian Meeting

The Camp Fire guardians will meet at Freear Furniture store on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Exhibit rooms will be assigned to the various groups who will participate in the 1932 birthday project of setting up a room, planning color scheme, arrangement, and choice of furniture, in keeping with a set budget. Other details of the birthday activities will be planned.

On Saturday afternoon, the guardians met at Freear's and formulated plans for the birthday project. Miss McIlheran explained the requirements which include both group and individual projects. Members present voted to accept the offer of the Freear Furniture company in the use of the exhibit rooms for the various groups to set up rooms as a part of the birthday plans. Details were left to the meeting this week. Judging from the interest already manifested in the project, this will be the most interesting and far-reaching birthday project yet.

Ivan Murchison will give a three-period course for the Wichita Falls girls, meeting on Saturdays, Feb. 13, 20, and 27. A certificate will be offered to girls who attend the course and complete requirements which will be definitely outlined.

A concentrated course touching briefly on the various points will be planned for the out-of-town groups who will not be able to come in for the longer course planned for the Wichita girls. Their meeting will be Feb. 6. Some of the groups are planning to set up rooms in their own towns, while some will use the exhibit space at Freear's, as there is no suitable place in the smaller towns.

Executive Meeting

The executive board members will meet in the private dining room at the Wichita club on Wednesday at 12 o'clock. Every member is urged to come as a number of important matters will come up for discussion.

Doughnuts! Doughnuts!

Plans are under way for a big, city-wide doughnut sale. There will be no extra charge for the hole in these doughnuts. Plans will be announced this week for time, and further details. Just get ready to eat doughnuts!

Nowetompatimmin

The Nowetompatimmin group is continuing its policy of making every meeting count under the leadership of Mrs. O. M. Pierce, former assistant guardian and now guardian, since Mrs. W. E. Polk and her daughter, Earleen, moved back to their old home in Fort Worth. On Tuesday of last week, the members met at the home of Dorothy Lee Reeder, 1720 Pearl, and began the earning of handcraft honor No. 701, for knowing the prices, uses, and widths of 12 common materials including silk, cotton, woolen and linen. The articles for their Needlework guild honors were also started, each girl almost completing one article. Their gifts will be to the colored day nursery.

The members discussed the birthday plans, and decided to plan the room as their group project toward the birthday honor.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Margaret and Mrs. Pierce, Evelyn Jane Hawkins, Janet Tate, and the following visitors: Marjorie and Mrs O. A. Owen and Shirley Jean Martin. The next meeting will be with Janet Tate, 1807 Lucile, on Wednesday afternoon, instead of Tuesday.

Tanokiwin Group

An enthusiastic meeting of the members of the Tanokiwin group was held at Austin school on Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. S. L. Conn, guardian. Plans were made to meet with Mrs. Conn at her home, 1826 Elizabeth, this week, with the president, Ruth Thomas, in charge of the program. A great deal of enthusiasm was expressed over the decorating of the room as part of the birthday plans.

Ahsonzong Group

Members of the Ahsonzong group met with their guardian, Mrs. W. J. Willis at junior high on Thursday afternon. Plans were discussed for birthday, including setting up of room. The members decided to hold one social meting a month, the last meeting of the month being chosen for social meeting. The next meeting will be at the home of Dorothy Gothard, 1004 Austin. Those attending were Lucile Murchison, Lois Gibbons, Pauline West, Dorothy Gothard, Loucille and Mrs. Willis.

Oawakiya Group

The Oawayika group met with Ethel Ranbarger, 2408 Roberts, on Wednesday afternoon. After a short business meeting when plans for birthday were discussed, the meeting was devoted to study of symbolism. Small cut-outs of Indian symbols in various colors and sizes were exhibited, until each girl was familiar with at least ten of them. Each member was then given her choice of choosing a number of these cut-outs and arranging them in various combinations until they had a satisfactory grouping making a pleasing symbol to express some idea, in the same way they work out their individual Camp Fire names. Members who had already chosen their names began thinking of designs for the covers of the birthday count books.

Delightful refreshments were served by Mrs. Rangarger to Annette Adair, Willie Mae and Maurine Bralley, Leonida James, Lorita Tanner, Mildred Fisher, Ruth Van Wormer, Dorthea Whitehead, Patsy Ruth Dale, Evelyn Howard, Margaret Hutchinson, Lois and Mrs. Frank Schram, guardian, Miss Mary McIlheran, and a visitor from El Paso, Mary Coggeshall. The next meeting will be at the home of Dorthea Whitehead, 2012 Pearl.

Acancan Group

A number of the members of the Acancan group of Reagan Junior High got together on Wednesday afternoon and work on individual names, in spite of the somewhat disorganization due to mid-term activities. They will continue this work on Wednesday afternoon of this week.

Mankilo Group

The following officers were elected; Ann Tarry, president; Lola Sue Winfrey, vice president; Norene Eason, secretary and scribe; Mary Katherine Tarry, treasurer; Lulu Sue Davis, song leader; Elaine Steinkoenig, group artist. Elsie Ruth Ross was made chairman of the decoration of club room committee; Hazel Kent, chairman of social service committee. Ann Tarry, Lola Sue and Helen Benninger were made captains of phoning committees.

A discussion of birthday plans and symbols for headbands followed the election. Plans were also made to conduct the nursery for children of parents on meeting days of P.-T. A. at school. Enthusiasm is growing for the decoration of the club room. Mrs. T. C. Lynch, sponsor from P.-T. A., met with the girls to plan for earning of money for materials to begin work on room.

Baering Down on News With 'Baer'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—It is exactly 12 years to the pint since America reformed.

That is, we thought we reformed.

All we did was turn over a new leak.

Yessir, folks, we've watched the old blind tiger grow from a starry-eyed pup.

You can't make the drys believe that prohibition ain't a success. And the wets are just as pleased.

The 18th amendment leaves personal liberty still at large and running loose as ashes on a windy day. Nothing has changed since 1920. If you don't want it you don't have to take it.

The booze may be worse now than it was then. But you have more brands to choose from.

The Wickersham report might have changed things. But it never got to its correct destination. Come to think of it no official document has reached the right man since the message was delivered to Carcia.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR W. C. MUNN COMPANY

HOUSTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The W. C. Munn company, one of Houston's large department stores, was placed in the hands of a federal receiver today.

A. D. Foreman, real estate man, was appointed receiver by Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly, who directed him to continue the firm's business. Bond was set at $25,000.

Application for the receivership was filed by the Richmond Hosiery mills of Rossville, Ga., but doing business in Tennessee as the Wunder Hose mills and the Chattanooga Knitting mills, for itself and all other creditors "similarly situated." It contended that the Munn company owed it a balance of $6,145.89, which it could not pay.

NO CAKE WITH CANDLES FOR CAPONE BIRTHDAY

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (US)—There will be no cake with candles tomorrow when Al Capone observes his 39th birthday in prison here.

But the wife and other relatives of the racketeer were expected to visit him.

Capone is in jail awaiting the outcome of his appeal of a long-term sentence for violating the income tax laws.

WICHITAN ESCAPES ARCHER CITY JAIL AS PLUMBERS WORK

Making their getaway while plumbers were repairing cell fixtures, Leo D. Wright of Wichita Falls and Ernest Sughrue escaped from the Archer City jail Saturday afternoon and still were at large late Saturday night.

A posse, headed by Sheriff Fred McDaniels of Archer county, began a search for the two immediately after the jail break was discovered.

A police squad, sent out by Dick Morris, police chief here, searched freight trains from Archer City, but failed to locate either of the two.

Wright and Sughrue were the only two prisoners in the jail cell when the escape occurred. Plumbers were at work in the cell and the wanted men were gone about 30 minutes before the break was noted.

Sughrue was held on car theft charges and Wright was held pending appeal of a five-year sentence for liquor law violation. He had been released on bond pending the appeal, but was booked for investigation, along with another man and a woman, in corporation court here Jan. 2. He was returned to Archer county Jan. 5.

Pamphlet Omits Part Washington's Farewell Address

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (US)—Senator Borah of Idaho, was shocked today to find that an official pamphlet issued by the George Washington bi-centennial commission failed to include the famous "farewell address" warning against "entangling alliances" with Europe.

This developed while Senator Fess of Ohio, was explaining the program for the opening of the bi-centennial on Feb. 22. Fess said that a 24-volume set of the complete works of Washington was being offered at a "special price" to libraries.

"I find the farewell address has been overlooked in this pamphlet," said Borah.

"We plan to get out another pamphlet for general distribution containing the farewell address," said Fess. "I hope the senator will help me to get an appropriation for it."

"I certainly will," replied Borah.

SERVICES FOR C. C. SHELTON TO BE SUNDAY

Funeral services for C. C. Shelton, 71, of Fort Worth, former resident of Wichita Falls, who died suddenly in Fort Worth Friday, will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Robertson-Mueller-Harper Funeral temple there.

Mr. Shelton, an employe of the Texas & Pacific railway system in Fort Worth since leaving here 12 years ago, dropped dead while at work in the T. & P. mail room.

He was a resident of Wichita Falls a number of years and at one time served as county juvenile officer here. The Sheltons moved to Fort Worth in 1920, and Mr. Shelton immediately became associated with the T. & P. He has been employed by that system intermittantly for 35 years.

Survivors are two sons, C. C. Shelton Jr., and F. B. Shelton, both of Fort Worth; and two daughters, Mrs. R. E. Koon and Mrs. H. M. Berry, of Austin.

Mrs. Eva Shelton and son, Robert, of here, left Saturday morning for Fort Worth to attend the funeral.

TEST OF COTTON ACREAGE LAW SET FOR JANUARY 20

FRANKLIN, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—Constitutionality of the state's cotton acreage reduction law will be tested in district court at Franklin Jan. 20 when an injunction suit filed by County Attorney T. L. Tyson against Fred L. Smith, farmer, comes up for hearing.

The suit alleged Smith was making arrangements to plant more cotton this year than the statute permitted, the law forbidding the planting in 1932 of more than 30 per cent of the acreage in which cotton was grown in 1931.

It was alleged that Smith had shown his intention of violating the law by breaking and plowing his land and had made arrangements with the Calvert State bank at Calvert to finance his farming operations in 1932 by executing a crop lien, showing he expected to plant 900 acres in cotton.

A later date for the hearing had been asked by J. Felton Lane of Hearne, defense counsel. Judge W. C. Davis said he favored the earliest possible date because of the interest involved.

Pinchot Confers With Roosevelt On Relief Work

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16. (AP)—The Democratic governor of New York and the Republican governor of Pennsylvania, both possibilities as presidential candidates, met here today and agreed on one thing—their unemployment relief problems are similar.

Governor Roosevelt, here for the wedding of his son, Elliott, to Miss Elizabeth Browning Donner at Bryn Mawr today, and Governor Pinchot, talked in the New York governor's hotel suite.

While they were together on the seventh floor, the lobby of the hotel, filled with New York political leaders with a sprinkling from Pennsylvania, buzzed with speculation as to what it was all about.

"We merely swapped views on unemployment relief legislation," said Governor Roosevelt after the meeting.

"That's right," said Governor Pinchot.

All efforts to draw out the New York governor on the question of his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination were futile.

He asserted he was not talking politics and said he was on a three days' vacation. After attending the wedding and the reception at the home of the bride's parents Governor Roosevelt returned by automobile to New York.

X-Ray Shows Girl Cracked Vertebra In 11-Story Jump

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—X-ray photographs taken in Robert B. Green Memorial hospital today revealed that Miss Katherine McGlothing, 17, of Buda, suffered a fracture of the second neck vertebra in her plunge from an 11th story balcony of the Plaza hotel into the San Antonio river last night.

A. V. McGlothing of Buda, father of the girl, was at his daughter's bedside. He is vocational instructor in the Buda public school. The daughter attended the College of Industrial Arts in Denton during the 1930-31 term, following her graduation from high school in Nixon. The past school term she had been a student in San Marcos Teachers college.

She was pulled from the river by Rev. P. B. Hill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; City Detective L. W. Jackson and City Fireman C. H. Sparr.

Physicians at the hospital were amazed that the girl had survived the 11-story plunge. The girl had made no statement concerning her plunge. Attendants expressed the belief that she was the victim of a temporary nervous breakdown, caused from overstudy.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES AS TEXANS SEE THEM

burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writings around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

When Conrad Aiken brought out his new book last year we gave a long and weary groan, for it seemed that the thin ranks of distinguished southern poets were to be depleted and he, our most authentic talent, was to become another of the groping modern experimentalists, too interested in method to keep his mind on what he would say. The book in question, "The Coming Forth by Day of Osiris Jones" was an almost unintelligible opus with only occasional traces of that rich and musical utterance we had come to expect of Aiken. His next work was awaited with sorry quakings. It soon followed—"Prelude for Memnon" (Scribner's, $2.50) and now we find we have taken his laboratory experiments too seriously. The true artist is here, as formerly, to be admired. His thought is as deep, his symphonic skill as sure, his moods as climactic as in his earlier work.

In explaining the title, the publishers remind us that Memnon typified the sun, opposing the forces of darkness. "These poems are the preludes to the advent of this figurative Memnon. Hence they depict the night thoughts of the human spirit." Whether Aiken will lead his questing spirit into a philosophical dawning we cannot say. Certain it is that up to now his thoughts have been those of a dark and gloomy night, the point of departure for all his musings being a deep and bitter despair at man's own enchanting littleness:

"You are all things and nothing. Ah poor being,
Sad ghost of wind, dead leaf of autumnal God,
Bright seed of brief disaster, changing shape—"

From this beginning, from this conclusion, he states:

——"Despair, delight,
That we should be thus trapped in our own minds!"

and wins in intellectual paradox:

"Must we renew man's venture round the Poles—
Seek, through the brain, some colder Northwest Passage—
Reason our way by inches to the frost
And frozen die in triumph? This were death
Noble indeed, enjoined of God, for those Who think it noble and enjoined of God."

But Aiken finds no refuge even in this asceticism. He goes on to a defiant cry:

"But let us die as gladly for such reasons
As have no reason; let us die as fools.
If so we will; explore the rash heart's folly—
—Let us venture still and die,
Alternately, of madness and of truth."

This spirit of revolt has been voiced by other poets of the modern school, but most of them seize upon some particular fault of the world-scheme. They cry out against science, against the herd instinct, against the machine or against man's inhumanity to man. Conrad Aiken's emotion is at once more intellectual and more relentless, proceeding logically to a resigned and solemn melancholy:

"These things are as time weaves them on his loom,
Forgot, forgetting, we survive not mortal bloom
Let us give thanks, to space, for a little room
Space is our face and time our death, two poles of doom
Comic dance around the compass pointing north
Before, face downward, frozen we go forth."

A poet of great strength and originality has recently published his first volume of verse. We confess that his work is new to us, although it has appeared in a few of the literary magazines. He was one of the young writers associated in the publication at New Orleans of the "Double Dealer," and because of this affiliation his first book commands a careful examination. "Death of the God in Mexico" by James Feibleman (Liveright, $2.00) proves to be work of fiber and intellectual edge, firm and bold in technique. If lines are sometimes so close-packed as to be difficult reading, we should remember the liquid sweet nothings of so much southern verse and be thankful for the mental stimulus of Mr. Feibleman's poetry. Perhaps the best idea of his style and purpose can be gained by quoting his sonnet, "Defense of Intellectual Verse":

"I do affirm that dryness has its juice,
Articulate the gravy of the brain!
We look to pistons lacking human stain
To find inanimateness most obtuse.
The clicking of the cogs of long abuse
Left by the war, brought poets to complain;
And though it seems we cannot sing again,
Queer sounds have lifted up and broken loose.

Symphonically sweet, the young magicians
Make heart-beats out of steel. They suit themselves
As admirably to the new conditions
As one renouncing people, capers with elves,
Or one renouncing life, lives when he delves
Into the German of the metaphysicians."

After Mr. Feibleman's hard-etched lyrics, DuBose Heyward's work seems somewhat blurred and uncertain. At times one wishes for less delicate sweetness and more substance and suspects that a less sincere poet might be accused of sentimentality. But this South Carolina writer possesses a passionate feeling which enables him to identify himself, imaginatively, with his subjects. Particularly is this true when he writes of the Carolina low country or of the negroes. The title poem of his new collection, "Jasbo Brown and Selected Poems," (Farrar & Rinehart, $3), pictures that queer and tragic negro wanderer who is credited with originating the blues and from whom our modern "jazz" derived its name. Heyward has made of this legendary figure a type of hungry, questing and confused humanity. The story of Jasbo's rovings is simply related, with here and there a break in the conventional rhythm to introduce a fragment of blues—a suggestion of the negro's wistful, barbaric song.

"Jasbo Brown" and a number of other poems in this volume, appeared in magazines, but are here first collected into a book. A selection of the best of the poet's earlier work is also included.

Witter Bynner is identified with the Southwest, where he now lives, and writes often of the Indians and the New Mexico scene. His new book, "Eden Tree" (Knopf, $2.50), is a long narrative poem elaborating the philosophical ideas which he first embodied 20 years ago in "The New World." "Eden Tree" expresses in a symbolic tale the poet's development from a youthful idealism to a mature and calm acceptance of man's loneliness, a conclusion similar to Conrad Aiken's, though devoid of the latter's mournful nostalgia. To the "Eden Tree" the end comes like a fulfillment:

"Then let me sheer
And alone in my dying, let me rest
Upon the cold and careless breast
Of dawn and, with my limbs eased and no fear,
Return my brow
To nothingness."

We resent the preservation in book form of what is clearly immature apprentice work. Therefore we record rather sadly the publication of two books of minor verse, "Horizon Frames" by Tom Sweeney of West Virginia (Poetry Publishers, $2.00) and "The Posthumous Poems of Louis Archibald Douglass" (Henry Harrison, $1.50), of Alabama. There is nothing here that has not been said, with the same rhymes, a thousand times before. Perhaps for those with a personal interest in the writers there is something worth preserving. For the general reader there is nothing.

"Florida Poets" (Henry Harrison, $2), is the first of a projected series of state anthologies from this publisher. There are in this volume some graceful effusions on the Florida scene, love, death and such favorite themes, but in the main this volume only adds to our deep gloom. When we contemplate a whole series, contributed to by the minor poetesses of each state—well, we shiver.

Thomas Moult makes his selection of "The Best Poems of 1931" (Harcourt, Brace, $2.50). The editor is conservative in his judgments and those who favor the more modern and experimental schools will find no representatives included here. But one gains from this yearly volume, a general idea of what the magazines are publishing in America and England and nobody but an editor could be expected to read all. The poems by southerners for this volume bear the names of Ernest Hartsock, Anderson M. Scruggs, Conrad Aiken, Mary Brent Whiteside, Lizette Woodworth Reese, John Gould Fletcher.

Propaganda poetry seldom goes very deep but it may have a vehemence approaching eloquence. Anyhow, we find some moving poems in "Unrest 1931," edited by Jack Conroy and Ralph Cheyney (Henry Harrison, $1.75), and we find it much better than the two preceding "unrest" volumes. Southerners represented are Sherwood Anderson, Witter Bynner, Bryllion Fagin, Walter Halusic, Langston Hughes, Fania Kruger, Seymour G. Link, Lilith Lorraine, Grace Lumpkin, Norman MacLeod, Rosa Z. Marinoni, Minnie H. Moody, Etta J. Murfey, Benjamin Musser, John C. Rogers, E. Merrill Root, Clement Wood—not a bad showing, numerically, for the conservative South.

Local Writer Honored

The January issue of Kaleidoscope, a national magazine of poetry published in Dallas, announces annual prizes. Dr. Anderson Scruggs won the $100 prize for 1931 for his poem "To a Bankrupt Contemplating Suicide."

Ann Pence Davis, (Mrs. Dick Davis) Wichita Falls, who appeared in the Kaleidoscope during the year, won honorable mention with her poem "Marked Drone." This poem, which appeared in the December Kaleidoscope, has been widely copied, most notably in "Letters That Live," column in the Atlanta Georgia Chronicle, the oldest newspaper in the South.

Mrs. Davis is contributing editor of Contemporary Vision and Poetry World. Her work has appeared in The Harp, Bozart, American Poetry Magazine, Unity, Contemporary Vision, Kaleidoscope, Westward, and in New York magazines. During the past week, she sold a poem to the Houston Gargoyle.

Park Vawter, a Kansas artist nationally famous for his opaque water color silhouettes, with his mother Sarah Vawter, another artist of renown, has offered paintings as prizes through several of the better national poetry magazines. Mr. Vawter was so impressed with Mrs. Davis' poem that he wrote her a letter translating "Marked Drone" into an artist's dream and is painting the picture as a gift for Mrs. Davis. The exquisite verses are re-printed below:

Marked Drone

You are the mate the queen bee chose,
Kissed and stung in a shattering rose;

Branding deep her cloven crest
On your face, on your breast,
Leaving you forlorn and white
Clutching shadows, dodging light;
Lesser loves are cheap and mean
. . . Not for one who knew a queen!

Fold your wings amid the clover,
Let life end now love is over.

The BOOK SURVEY

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

The brightest days of Woodrow Wilson's career are covered in volumes three and four of Ray Stannard Baker's "Woodrow Wilson: Life and Letters," which have just been issued by Doubleday, Doran & Co.

Volume three takes up the years from 1910 to 1913, and volume four carries the story through the days just before the world war broke out. In the two books we see the development of a great liberal; the rise of a bookish college professor to the greatest place in the nation; the emergence of the beliefs and traits that were to play so stupendous a part in world history in the next few years.

Mr. Baker presents a wealth of letters and other intimate documents to fill in his story. They are of peculiar value. They show us Woodrow Wilson growing, changing, taking on greatness; and the events of the years discussed—especially of the first year and a half of his presidency—show the man at his best, and lead one to speculate fruitlessly on the great day that might have dawned in America if the war had not come.

It is as a friendly biographer that Mr. Baker writes, and while he does not inject his own viewpoint into the text very often he makes his attitude quite clear. But it is as a source book that his biography is most valuable. Here is the record, complete and objective. The books will be a mine of material for Wilson biographers for many years, and the succeeding volumes will be awaited eagerly.

The two volumes, boxed, sell together for $10.

Florida Boom Finds Historian

The book on the Florida boom that a lot of us have been waiting for for a long time has at last been written. It is "Boom in Paradise," by T. H. Weigall, and it is just the book that was needed. By turns it is derisive, satirical and ironic; but through it all there shines the color, the movement, the dazzling gleam as from El Dorado, that made the Florida boom the amazing and significant affair that it really was.

A British newspaper man, Mr.

Ray Stannard Baker . . . his third and fourth volumes of "Woodrow Wilson: Life and Letters" delineate development of a great personage.

Weigall landed in Miami, broke, just when the speedometer was beginning to touch its highest point. He became a publicity agent on the Coral Gables staff and saw all there was to be seen. He tells about it very admirably.

For it does not do to describe this boom simply in terms of dollars and cents. The whole thing was a spectacular romantic interlude in the life of a spectacular and romantic nation. Mr. Weigall writes as one might who had gone to California in 1849, or to Alaska in 1898; but he debunks, he praises, he laughs, but for the most part he simply describes what was a great human experience. The Florida boom does not need another historian. Mr. Weigall has caught and preserved its essence.

"Boom in Paradise" is published by Alfred H. King, Inc., and sells at $2.50.

A Sad Disappointment

I trust nobody will mind if I report that Margaret Ayer Barnes' "Westward Passage" falls far below the standard set by her Pulitzer winner, "Years of Grace."

It tells about a woman who, voyaging across the Atlantic, meets her ex-husband—the arratic genius she divorced a decade ago. Now and again Mrs. Barnes sets her teeth into it and produces a passage of real insight and warmth; but for the most part the book is disappointingly thin and flat.

One cannot help feeling that the heroine—who runs away with her ex-husband and then, at the last minute, runs back again—is a much bigger nitwit than the author ever intended her to be; and the elfin charm of her first husband is constantly described but never quite made clear.

"Westward Passage" is published by the Houghton, Mifflin Co. at $2.50.

Two Funny Books

The two funniest books of recent months are "Broccoli and Old Lace," by Frank Sullivan, and "How to Tell Your Friends From the Apes," by Willy Cuppy.

Both authors seem to be utter lunatics. Mr. Sullivan writes a number of nonsensical essays on such subjects as the girls who have danced with the Prince of Wales, and the multiplicity of Vanderbilts; Mr. Cuppy presents a series of short articles on natural history in which fact and fancy are beautifully scrambled. Neither book can be read without much loud laughter. If you haven't seen them yet, I advise you to get busy.

It happens that both books are published by Liveright. The Sullivan book is priced at $2, and the Cuppy book at $1.75.

With the Magazines

By L. N. C.

"The Banker's Bankrupt World," by J. M. Daiger in January Harpers, is a backward glance and a new year's re-appraisal. We learn that in the United States we have more than 20,000 banks and 10 times that many officers and directors. The international banking drama is pointedly described. Mr. Daiger quotes mammoth figures.

"Our American Upper Class," is the title of an article in the same magazine by Albert Jay Nock (and he proceeds to knock.) There seems no use saying we have no classes. Mr. Nock bids us test them by their immunities and exemptions and quotes the saying, "You can't convict a million dollars. (We wondered if Al Capone had that much.) "You can't even convict it of colossal stupidity," Mr. Nock continues. Then he drifts from money into other "upper class" features. "Has the whole bench of Bishops," he asks, "on half the actual authority over the life of Great Britain's population that the Methodist-Baptist junto at Washington has over ours?"

"The Biographer and His Victims" is an interesting article in the January Atlantic Monthly, by Claude M. Fuess. (Phew, haven't these writers peculiar names?)

Mr. Fuess reminds readers that subjects of most biography are as helpless as a criminal being led to execution—really more so for a condemned murderer may kick and shout and most heroes of biography are dead.

George Washington, known to most of us as to Mr. Fuess, by the cherry tree incident, has been made into a figure on a pedestal and children as well as grown ups think of him as always the dignified "Father of his country." Mr. Fuess tells an anecdote that makes one realize George Washington was altogether human. A few lines said by Washington one night when he was cold, restless and probably hungry with his troops, almost smoke with heat.

One cannot help but like Mr. Fuess' definition of biography, which he stresses an an interpretative, selective and analytic art.

Frances Hackett, who will always be identified with "Henry the Eighth" in our memory, writes in the January Harpers, "Why Travel?" "You must have a home to enjoy travel," he remarks, "and then you must leave it as rapidly as possible." The curse of travel to him is that group who goes about seeking culture, self improvement or from idle curiosity. "The essential to happy travel," he said, "is the proper frame of mind." Travel is the lamp that makes one recover the sentiment for home and his ultimatum is that the traveler who knows his art, "goes out to go home."

An article on Virginia Woolf in the December Bookman, written by Edwin Muir, is illuminating to us.

The January 16 Pathfinder has some nice Shavian information that we would have liked to know before we failed to be one of the intelligentsia who appreciated "The Apple Cart."

"George Bernard Shaw's whiskers did not sprout until he was 24 years old," it reads. "In his extreme youth he was called "Sonny" by his parents and all who knew him. He was very sensitive—then. At the age of 15 he started work in a Dublin land office for $4.50 per week. His first appearance in print was a letter he wrote to the editor of Public Opinion. His early novels ware written as a daily routine. The first went unpublished for 50 years. "G. B. S." is the only known person who took to Socialism and made capital out of it. He once took boxing lessons but his favorite sport is swimming. He is another man who married his secretary. "We married," he explained, "because we had become indispensable to one another." They have no children. Shaw has said that he would not be fit company for them, anyway. And —sshh!—he has a mole on his chin under those whiskers!"

And speaking of those who write plays, we would quote Heywood Broun in the February issue of McCalls.

"The foremost of American playwright has undergone a change—a sea change, one might appropriately remark. In the early days he was hailed as a young man who was bringing to the American stage a new dedication to realism. It was held that the sailors of the early and salty plays captured the actual tang of our native tongue. It was O'Neill who was to deliver the death blow to the romantic and sentimental conception of life and to hold the mirror close enough to nature for us all to see the very mist of human breath upon the glass. . . .

"In our own day melodrama has fallen under reproach. It is held to be fare for the unthinking. But at last it has returned to its own. I have always felt that the theater was by no means the best medium for the propagation of new ideas. It is my notion that it must always deal with emotion rather than with argumentation. Certainly O'Neill has returned to this concept; and very possibly he can and does take pride in the fact that he has become a box-office sensation and that over the marquee of any theater where one of his plays is performed there can truthfully be emblazoned the slogan, "This is a good show!"

"I feel that the added running time is a sort of swank. Anybody who attends a play at five in the afternoon and remains until 11 at night is under a certain obligation to like it. He does not want to feel that he has wasted an entire week-end. Even the most journeyman playwright could slash and cut into Mourning Becomes Electra and keep it within the conventional time limit. It is not all effective. Not every word is precious."

Return I Dare Not

"Return I Dare Not," by Margaret Kennedy, (Doubleday Doran, $2.50), bears little likeness to the stories of the Sanger family who intrigued many readers.

The group who gathers at a week-end party are sub-consciously putting their best forward and Miss Kennedy's appraisal of the publisher and his wife, the young playwright who had been making capital of his charm, the literary man who qualified as a man about town and the woman who still held to the remnants of her beauty and is able to win lovers, is pointed. All these are nicely weighed in the balance and found wanting.

The two lovely girls brought into the story are its salvation; they are also a picture of girls of this age. One saves things for Hugo Pott, who had drifted far from his earlier ideals.

The story is most readable and in the last few chapters, Miss Kennedy becomes once more her witty self, writing in a beautiful style.

A Study in Selfishness

One is somewhat disappointed in the Book league's choice of Grace Zaring Stone's "The Almond Tree." (Bobbs-Merrill, $2.50). The title suggests the Chinese theme of "The Bitter Tea of General Yen," but though the book is prettily written and quite readable, it leaves emotions flat.

Mrs. Stone has laid her story in Washington, where three middle-aged sisters are reunited after their former life in a quite different environment. The youngest of these sisters is a recently bereaved widow with a 16-year-old daughter, Marise.

The real theme of the story is selfishness. The marriage of the middle-aged mother with a young man whom her daughter loved, is the final failure in her daily life in which she failed to understand that her daughter is a person.

Books that leave a bad taste in the soul seem to this reviewer unworthy of the time. Mrs. Stone has done excellent work but the latest volume from her pen, "The Almond Tree," is quite different from any previous stories.—L. C.

Beauty Seen In Travel

PAINTED MAPS, by Elizabeth Shaw, Lincoln Mac Veagh, the Dial Press, Inc., $3.00.

Strung like jewels are the beautiful descriptions of the cities and islands visited by Elizabeth Shaw and gathered into her volume, "Painted Maps," the Dial Press, Inc. Several of the brilliant stories were printed first in such magazines as "The Nomad," "The World Traveler," "The Spur" and "Country Life." Even the reader who saw them there would gladly read them again. For Miss Shaw has given travelers new corners to find and has made the face of the globe a garden of adventure for those who do their adventuring by lamplight and easy chair.

With her, the reader finds moments of ecstacy on the left bank of the Seine; looks from her little balcony when he hears the mournful flute tune of the old goat man; feels the allure of the Luxembourg garden, at night "moon-drenched, silver washed." One almost sees the ghosts of Balzac, of the irascible old Voltaire and the foppish de Mussett and of those gallant characters who people Paris in books, d'Artagnan, Les Trois Mousquetaires and Jean Valjean.

But Paris is only the beginning; there is Brittany where the bay-windows almost meet over the streets in small villages; where wedding parties dance along the cobblestones. And there is Marseilles, the city with a dual personality, where all things from brutal depravity to virginal innocence may be found. A city older than Christianity and more modern than the radio, where the writer dared traverse such streets as rue de la Bouterie, where skeleton women with painted faces are vampires for the red-cheeked men.

Miss Shaw tells of the secret charm of Africa; its filth, disease, savage insolence and clamor, and its places, slim mosques and singing fountains; a land quiescent under a mysterious power—an omniscient presence even in modern times.

Unknown Isles

Strangers to the majority of personally conducted parties are the Happy Islands, the Balearic isles, where white houses dot the coast and mountains from back drops of gray-green velvet. Marjorca, Minorca, Iviza and Formentera are a group of islands where after the great war, people seeking peace and economical living settled; where the rich care for the poor and there are no beggars; where the chocolate is ambrosial and the delicious coffee is one cent a glass.

Then Delmatia, where even the old women wear gowns brighter than summer flowers and where the old towns are full of charm and color.

Iceland is no strange land. But Iceland had just celebrated the 1000th birthday before Miss Shaw's visit, and she visited the spot where the vikings met and framed their constitution. She gives a picture of the island of Gotland, a night's sail southeast of Stockholm, where there were inhabitants six centuries before Christ.

Italy with her madness and religious fervor, her passion and apathy, her ribaldry and asceticism made such an impression on her that she says she will return there, and as to Soviet Russia—well Miss Shaw does not care for Soviet Russia but her story of that country is vivid with life. One picture, we will give. She told of the old milk women who came into the city each morning with four cans of milk in each of the canvas bags strung across their shoulders. They wore high rubber boots, shawls on their heads and cotton dresses. One came into the third class train by which the writer was traveling, sat down across from her, put her milk cans on the floor, pulled out a handful of sunflower seeds, cracked them with her teeth and spat out the shells, "then resting her forehead against the window pane, she wept quiet silently until, mercifully, soon, she fell asleep."

Because of her criticism of conditions in Soviet Russia, Miss Shaw says she will probably not be allowed to return—though Soviet Russia still has some of her money.

The beautifully bound book is filled with beautiful illustrations. The excerpts we have given and the framework of an outline, does not begin to tell the story. "Painted Maps," is not only a book to read, but one to put on the library shelves for future reference. Dial press production is a library treasure.

Deft Handiwork

"Friends and Relations," by Elizabeth Bowen, (Dail Press, $2), is a novel that bears a second reading and must be read by many readers a second time before they understand it.

A mystery story, mysterious rather in motives than action, it may be understood at once by a clever reader; it was too mysterious for this reviewer to fathom without assistance.

It would be unfair to tell the plot, but the book is one of real human beings, real life and real wit. Miss Bowen shows something more than talent in her characterizations.

WILL ROGERS — A COWBOY LOOKS AT THE JAPANESE

(Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I see as I prowl among the Hethern, (so called). Say these Heathern are pretty foxy Guys. Us Methodist, and Babtist, and Holy Rollers, and Sister Aimees Four Square, have got to go some to put over anything on these babies.

Now you take Japan for instance. Thats where we first hit the dirt, after being on Mr. Balboas Ocean for about eleven days. Nothing to see. Of course there was the Allutian Islands off to our North. There is nothing on em, they are barren. Being in that state, of course we own em. If they had anything on em why some other Nation would have taken them over and at least held the Mandate over em.

You know what a mandate is? Its a thing you take over a Country, when you havent quite got the Gaul to take over the Country. Its a kind of a fashionable way of glomming it, and still have a speck of pride left. Well the Captain kept telling us that we were "off the Allutians." This kept on for days. "We are off the Allutians," till I thought he was off his Allutian. But he was right, we were. They string out and they go pretty near over to Japan (not too close or they would cop em) but they sure do look like they were headed for the other side of the ocean. They are the ones that the Aviators try to follow on their way from Japan over here. But its always so rough and foggy that you just as well try to follow a Dry Republican into a Speakeasy.

It got so rough once we turned south to keep from bumping into these possessions of ours. I was just wondering if Mellon knows we got em, and has he figured out any way to put an additional tax on em for being there during these times of a missplaced Budget. I am going to escape to one of em some day and if I see a Revenue man coming I will flee to the other one, and I will keep him following me till after March the fifteenth. Thats the date you got to look out for is March the fifteenth, that is if you have made anything during the past year. Of course if you havent you got to look out for every day. And you know that the trouble over here among these dusky friends of ours, we dont get any news.

Since I crossed into Canada from Bellingham Washington, to catch the Boat at Vancouver, I dont know a thing thats happened. Canada was so tickled that England payed her some attention that she was still writing about them, and they wasent paying any attention to their little innocent Sister to the south. It kinder feels good not to know what is happening at home. In fact it does feel good, for none of it is any good, so its better to stay in ignorance. Whether congress ever met or not I dont know. I hope they dident, but it would be just about like em to do it, they got no more regard for the peoples welfare than to.

At the Old Salt Licks

Politics, I guess its pretty cold for the Boys now, and we wont hear much till they thaw out in the spring, and what an odor that will be after 2 years hibernation! Newt Baker was kinder smelling around the old Salt Lick when I left. I dont know if some of the big Bucks horned him out or not. Newt did some good work during the war. Now as to whether we can remember that far or not is the problem.

This Japan has been kicking up a mess politically since I got here, (not of course all on account of that) but they had a Budget that wouldent balance, and they had nothing to use for money, just like we did, so they changed Cabinets. Mellon has never thought of that idea. Now as to whether these new ones can find any more money laying around is doubtful. A Cock-eyed Budget is the downfall of more Prime Ministers nowadays than war used to be.

Japan has got two Parties too. I dont remember their names any more than they could remember ours. But they keep things in a turmoil just like ours. You see if we dident have two Parties we would all settle on the best men in the country, and things would run fine. But as it is now we settle on the worst ones and then fight over em.

Kimonas and Bicycles

But outside of Politics and Tea, this is a great little Country. Everybody is mighty nice to you. It looks just like America outside of the Kimonas. Course under the Kimonas in either place I am not an authority. Subways, elevated trains, Electric trains, Street cars, and Bycicles, did I say Bycicles? Well I underestimated. It wasent just Bycicles. It is millions of em. Did you ever see a kimona on a Bycicle? Say thats standard equipment here, and they are all carrying something on the Bycicles, generally an automobile, or a Piano, or some little trifle, a tray of dishes is the most common cargo. They will lope off on their wheel from one end of Tokio to the other with a pot of tea for a friend, and then spend more time bowing before drinking it than it would have taken them to cook up some real Coffee.

But they are mighty polite and nice, and they want you to see and like their Country, which you cant help doing. They got everything we got, and if they havent you show it to em and they will make it. They are a great race.

AMUSEMENTS

Billie Hill, one of the bewitching blossoms in Billy Rose's bouquet of feminine loveliness, "Crazy Quilt," which will appear at the Memorial auditorium, Wichita Falls, Friday, Jan. 29.

Contract Signed for Appearance Of 'Crazy Quilt' at Auditorium Featuring Three Stars of Stage

Fannie Brice, Phil Baker and Ted Healy in Billy Rose's "Crazy Quilt" will appear at Memorial auditorium for one night, Friday, Jan. 29. The engagement was assured yesterday when Manager H. C. Cheshire acceded to the steep guarantee demands of the New York producer.

"After the public announcement that I was out to secure "Crazy Quilt" for a night, I was swamped with orders from those who want to see Fannie Brice, Phil Baker and Ted Healy," said Cheshire Saturday. "The response was such I no longer hesitated about meeting Rose's guarantee terms. My worry now is how to make the seating capacity of Memorial auditorium accommodate all those who apparently are bent on seeing this extraordinary attraction."

The universal language of cold cash evidently sounded melodious to the ears of Entrepreneur Rose, for it was the cash guaranteed proposition made by Manager Cheshire that cinched the deal and brings to Wichita Falls the biggest stage attraction that has ever visited this section of the country.

Long Run in Chicago

On the tour booked following the Chicago run at the Apollo theater, the Rose show will cover over 30,000 miles of travel before terminating its run at Atlantic City in June.

At a time when the more or less legitimate show business is admittedly in a state of doldrums, "Crazy Quilt" descended on the Randolph street Rialto in Chicago with the definite announcement that the Windy City engagement would be restricted to four weeks. The original stay was more than doubled and the Brice-Baker-Healy aggregation bears the distinction of having rolled up an attendance record unprecedented in theatrical history.

Newspaper reviewers, show wiseacres and the public in general seem to be of one accord in pronouncing "Crazy Quilt" the fastest, funniest and noisiest revue that has ever been presented outside of a madhouse, nor are the spectacularly feminine elements lacking to make of it an optical fiesta.

Not the least of "Crazy Quilt's" ventures—if such a noun can be used in connection with a raffish harlequinade—is the musical score. Among the outstanding hits are several of Billy Rose's own compositions, that will be sung by the artists for whom they were originally written and include "I Found a Million Dollar Baby in a 5 and 10c Store," "Cheerful Little Earful," "Overnight" and "Would Ya Like to Take a Walk?"

Ticket reservations may be made now by addressing H. C. Cheshire, care Renfro Drug store, or by phoning 9047.

R. Thurman; "Old-Fashioned Lady," George Taylor. Bill Hardy and Darrel Payne will sing "Dinah," and the high school quartet, "Roll 'Em Bones." Farrell-Gaynor Picture Coming To Gem Sunday

While "director" is the customary term applied to the man who guides the destinies of a motion picture in the making, Henry King, whose production "Merely Mary Ann," starring Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, coming Sunday to the Gem theater, believes that "conductor" would be an even better title.

"A director," King says, "has exactly the same relation to the picture that an orchestra leader has to his concert offering. The screen director creates a complete whole, tells his story fully and vividly, by 'composing' as he goes along, using his characters as instruments and interweaving their personalities and their action and dialog to achieve the exact result he wants.

Working on this "conducting" concept, King has become a prominent figure in screen circles since he directed the memorable "Tol'able David" some 10 years ago and such later hits as "Stella Dallas," "The White Sister," "She Goes to War" and Will Rogers' recent "Lightnin'."

King's was a queer profession before becoming a director. He used to drive a chariot. This refers to his early days when he left home to join a small stock company and later, when the company disbanded, joined a circus. Subsequently, he returned to the stage, became a noted leading man, then went into pictures as an actor and eventually became the famous director he is today.

Beryl Mercer and J. M. Kerrigan head the supporting cast of this Gaynor-Farrell starring drama.

'Two Kinds of Women' at Majestic 'Ladies of the Big House' Tuesday 'False Madonna' Showing at State

"Two Kinds of Women" now playing at the Majestic theater, is based on a play, "This Is New York."

Phillip Holmes and Miriam Hopkins, the glamorous romantic team—never seen together before on the screen, Stuart Erwin, the happy-go-lucky (but mostly happy) young comedian; Irving Pichel, the prosecuting attorney of "An American Tragedy," doing another stern and unrelenting characterization, and Wynne Gibson, make up the principals in the cast for this splendid screen entertainment.

"Two Kinds of Women" presents the "yes" kind and the "no" kind; the kind men like and the kind they wish they could get; the kind who learn about men from books and the kind who learn about men from men; the kind who can hold a man and the kind who can only hold their breath.

In addition you will see "Footlight," an act; "Bars and Stripes," a Krazy Kat cartoon and Fox news in sound.

"Ladies of the Big House"

As the title implies "Ladies of the Big House," coming to the Majestic Tuesday, is a grim, exciting, highly dramatic story. It is the drama of a young girl whose courage, love and loyalty shine forth even though she is shut off from the rest of the world, a victim of another's cunning. It is the story of an innocent man who helplessly awaits death while the girl he loves, his bride of one day, matches brains and beauty against those who would destroy her and the man to whom she has pledged everlasting love.

The cast of "Ladies of the Big House" is headed by the talented Sylvia Sidney. As the girl who, with her youthful husband, is sent to prison for a crime neither of them committed, Miss Sidney is seen in a role transcending anything she has heretofore attempted. Playing opposite Miss Sidney in the role of her devoted husband is Gene Raymond, handsome young actor who won Nancy Carroll's love in "Personal Maid." Others included in the cast are Wynne Gibson, Fritzo Ridgeway, Louise Beavers, Frank Seridan, Earl Foxe, Rockcliffe Fellows and Purnell Pratt.

To add to your enjoyment you will see, "Oh My Operation," a comedy; "Roaming Mermaid," an act and Paramount news in sound.

"Frankenstein"

For weeks and weeks, the theater patrons have been eagerly awaiting "Frankenstein." It is going to play the Majestic starting Thursday, Jan. 21, at midnight, and also a regular engagement of four days starting Friday. "Frankenstein" is without doubt the most thrilling, the most exciting, the most dramatic picture of the year.

In addition you will see, "Souvenirs," a screen remembrance; "Trader Hound," a dog comedy; "Micky's Orphans," a cartoon, and Fox news in sound.

"FALSE MADONNA" AT STATE SUNDAY FOR THREE DAYS

Kay Francis, William (Stage) Boyd and Conway Tearle head the all-star cast that appears in "False Madonna" at the State Sunday for three days. Kay Francis is seen as the femanine brain of an international "confidence" gang, with Tearle as a lawyer representative of a large estate and Boyd as the leader of the gang, retaining his title as "Doctor," although he has been barred from the profession because of criminal practice.

Boyd as the head of the "confidence" gang, learns of a 17-year-old youth, John Breeden, who is about to come into a large fortune. One of the contingencies of the golden wind-fall is that his mother make her appearance, having deserted him during his childhood. Since there were only two or three people who really knew what Breeden's mother looked like, Boyd's scheme is to have Kay Francis make her appearance at the lad's home. Thus she becomes the "False Madonna." The picture is brought to a climax with a series of exciting events in which each of the characters play an outstanding part.

"The Cheat"

Wednesday the long awaited Tallulah Bankhead picture, "The Cheat," comes to the State, in which she appears opposite Irving Pichel who came into prominence through his outstanding role as the attorney in "An American Tragedy."

Those having seen Tallulah Bankhead in previous attractions need not be told of the intense dramatic ability of this star.

Another feature of this three-day program will be the sixth chapter of the serial picture, "The Galloping Ghost," starring "Red" Grange.

On Saturday for one day only the feature attraction will be "Branded," featuring Buck Jones.

COYOTES DOWN CHILDRESS IN FIRST 'BIG FIVE' CONTEST

For the outdoorsman who can't get sufficient wallop from chasing the elusive crappie, another season is just about at an end. It's all over for the hunters and not much is left of the fishing season, so far as the irrigation lakes are concerned—and that covers about 99.9 per cent of the fishing hereabouts. The quail season passed out of the picture Saturday and the bobwhites are due for a prolonged rest and an undisturbed chance to raise new flocks for another season. The duck and goose season long since has ended, and even the squirrel season is closed in most counties during January, February and March. Unless Molly Cottontail will satisfy your pangs, you can lay away the old blunderbuss until next September, when another dove season rolls around.

As for fishing, the angler has remaining almost half of January and then he must take an enforced vacation of three months. This time of the year usually is the prize period for the crappie fishermen, and though bass often are taken on minnows while searching for crappie, this is not exactly a ripe season for the big, black and green fellows of the big lakes. Incidentally, our operatives report that the crappie pickings for some strange reason have been extremely poor this month, as well as last. December and January usually produce the finest crappie fishing to be had during the year, but for some reason the boys haven't been able to find 'em at Lake Kemp, Diversion lake or Lake Wichita as in past Decembers and Januarys.

Some observers believe that the one reason the crappie haven't been located in their usual numbers this winter is because the weather has been too mild to send them into big schools in deep water. Personally, we've never been able to arrive at any definite conclusions concerning the crappie. We couldn't guarantee that cold makes 'em school up or seek the deep water, though the latter is true of nearly all fish. The only thing we know for sure about the crappie is that nothing concerning him is sure. If you find him in the mood, he might take your bare hook, or jump into your boat or down your throat. If he is in the other mood, he can't be tempted with the choicest of minnows, thumbs his nose at you and goes about his business—whatever that business might be.

And if you think the crappie is not difficult to fathom, consult almost anybody in the hatchery department of the Texas game, fish and oyster commission. While this fish thrives to a greater extent than any other species in the big lakes hereabouts, the hatchery at Diversion lake, like all others in Texas, has found it extremely difficult to produce crappie in anything like satisfactory numbers. Curtis Harper, superintendent of the Diversion hatchery, is doing some experimenting with crappie this spring and hopes to land on something that will solve the problem, but so far little progress has been made with this splendid fish. Raising bass, bream and catfish in this part of the world has been a simple matter, but not crappie.

Getting back to the quail, we learned something about that famous West Texas hospitality the other day. In our quest for one last fling at Mr. and Mrs. Bobwhite, the noblest of southern game birds, we came uninvited into the company of and on the premises of a farmer and merchant less than a million miles from Wichita Falls, and before the day was over he showed us that West Texas hospitality at best. We partook of everything he had during the day, including his quail, and when we parted at dusk we knew we had met with West Texas hospitality at its height. Hunt by the side of a man through a day and you will feel you have known him all your life, if he is that sort. We certainly hope we have not seen the last of this old boy.

The cause of game and fish conservation and of sportsmanship in general lost a true apostle in the death at Dallas last week of E. G. Hill, for many years a leader in Wichita Falls' affairs of the outdoors. E. G. mixed prominently into nearly everything that had to do with sports, but we are quite sure that rod and gun topped his list. As the first president and one of the organizers of the North Texas Game and Fish association, he was a pioneer in conservation practices in this section. He headed for several years the sportsmen's group that since has become Wichita Falls chapter No. 100, Izaak Walton League of America and today is an active agent in one of the finest of all movements. We know of no individual who played a bigger part in getting this splendid work started in this section. The death of E. G. is a real loss.

CROWELL WILDCATS WIN FROM QUANAH 30 TO 10

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 16.—The Crowell High school quintet downed the Quanah Indians by a score of 30 to 10, on the court here Friday night. Captain Faircloth was high point man for the Indians, with six points, while Middleton rolled up a total of eight for the visitors.

The Indians play Eldorado, Okla., on the home court Saturday night.

The 1931 county champions, Williams high, were beaten by the Indians Thursday night, the score being 16 to 15. An extra three-minute period was required to break the tie. Captain Faircloth, Smith and Gossett for the Indians starred with offensive play after the first quarter which ended 8 to 1 favor of Williams high.

Ski Champs Arrive

CHICAGO, Jan. 26. (INS)—Sigmund and Birger Ruud, world champion ski jumpers, arrived here Saturday to compete in the annual tournament at Carey Hill Sunday. Eight carloads of snow, shipped from Escanaba, Mich., was being transplanted to the ski jump Saturday.

Long Early Lead Carries Team to Victory by 43-27

Strong Scoring of Brandon And Reeves Means Undoing of Bearcats

Scoring 15 points before the Childress Bobcats could find the hoop, the Coyotes did a bit of coasting Saturday night but emerged with a 43 to 27 basket ball victory in the first game of the "Big Five" race with Childress, Vernon, Electra and Quanah. It was an off-and-on Wichita Falls team from start to finish, but its brilliant spurts brought it through with a wide margin in points to spare, thanks to the strong scoring powers of Bob Brandon at forward and Harold Reeves at center.

The first period was almost over before Davis dropped in a free throw for Childress' first point, and the splendid passing and shooting of the Coytes had given them a 15-point lead. Estes and Reeves counted twice each in the first few minutes, Brandon followed up with three in a row and Reeves slapped in a short shot to bring the count to 15 to 0. Davis' free throw then ended the quarter with the score 15 to 1.

The Pack rested on its oars in the second quarter and the Bobcats took full advantage of their chance. While they were holding the home team without a point, Davis, Newberry and Loter dropped in five goals to bring the half score to 15 to 11. Brandon and Estes, who had been removed at the end of the first quarter, were rushed back into action shortly before the end of the half and remained in the game the rest of the way.

Scoring Combination

Brandon and Reeves really went to work in the third period to pull the game out of danger and at the end of the period the Coytes were out in front, 33 to 17. Play was much closer in the final period, Wichita Falls outscoring Childress by a margin of only 10 to 8.

During their flashes of power, the Coyotes were as impressive as any Maroon and Black team of recent years, but their letdowns might have been fatal against a stronger foe. The Bobcats could not match their fast floorwork with accurate shoting and watched to many of their short shots bounce out of the hoop to vercome the Pack's early advantage. Newberry, Davis and Loter were particularly smooth handlers of the ball, and the latter turned in a husky collection of 14 points.

Cleanly Played

Few games as clean have ever been played on the Coyotes' floor. The home club had exactly two free throws chanches, while Childress had six. The six, however, represented only four personal fouls against the Coyotes.

While the game here inaugurated play in the "Big Five" race, it was learned Saturday that pre-season plans to stage a double round robin basket ball schedule among the five schools of class A district No. 2 would not be carried out. Electra, Quanah and Childress all have found it impossible to carry out such a schedule along with their interscholastic league programs, and the football district is not likely to formally recognize the basket ball competition.

The Pack takes on Electra here Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in its next "Big Five" contest.

Two Set Pace

Only two games in the grade school football league were played to a decision the past week, one tie and a flock of postponements because of weather conditions leaving only two teams, one in each district, with two consecutive victories. San Jacinto in district No. 1 is living up to its high rating thus far and has clicked off two shutouts to set the pace in that section. Ben Franklin has accomplished a similar feat in district No. 2, while Barwise in No. 1 and Sam Houston and Carrigan in No. 2 are other unbeaten teams, each with only one game played.

The San Jacinto youngsters continued their march Friday by defeating Travis, 14 to 0, and kept up the smooth play that characterized their opening performance.

Play 7-7 Draw

Austin and Fannin in district No. 1 also played their scheduled game, but failed to reach a decision, the game ending in a 7 to 7 deadlock. Plaismed accounted for the Fannin touchdown with a plunge through the line and Robinson tallied the extra point by the same means. A 20-yard run by Estes, Austin fullback, produced his team's touchdown, Cohantz registered the extra point with a line plunge.

The third district No. 1 game, that between Bowie and Barwise was postponed.

Ben Franklin's 14 to 0 victory over Huey was the only contest in the second district. The winners' ability to skirt the Huey ends at critical moments was largely responsible for the victory. Ben Franklin scored in the first period and in the last few minutes of the final.

Crockett vs. Alamo and Carrigan vs. Houston were postponed.

Definite dates for the playoff of the postponed games had not been set Saturday, according to Charles Lindsey, assistant high school coach who is directing the grade school play.

Morrison Jumps Into Lead in Agua Caliente Tournament

Five Exhibition Tilts Booked for Spudders

Five exhibition games have been scheduled for the Spudders' home lot after they begin their training grind early next March, and Secretary Guy Airey is bending every effort toward doubling that number before Hank Severeid assembles his band of athletes for the season's preliminary work.

The games definitely scheduled are with Columbus of the American association on March 30 and 31 and April 1, and with St. Paul of the same league on April 2 and 3. The Spudders, as well, will play at least two games, possibly three, with the Saints at their training base at Mineral Wells, but these games are not likely to be booked until both teams have started their training and convenient dates for both can be arranged.

Spudder clubs of the past have suffered materially from inability to obtain a sufficient number of practice games, and Airey is encountering the same difficulty in lining up spring opposition this year.

Train schedules work a hardship on teams coming into Wichita Falls in that the city is off the beaten path and it is necessary in all instances for visiting teams to double back to Fort Worth or Dallas before continuing on their way northward. This all but precludes the possibility of obtaining big league clubs for games here, and except for the Yankees' visit two years ago, Spudder fans have not had an opportunity in recent years to view their hopefuls in action against big league competition. Several major league teams are returning north through Texas and playing series at Dallas or Fort Worth or both, but none of these could be interested in playing in Wichita Falls.

At least two Western league teams continue as possibilities on the Spudders' spring program. Des Moines is training in Texas and will return via Fort Worth and Dallas, and Airey believes he may yet succeed in getting the Demons here for a series. Oklahoma City is a possibility, whether the Indians train at home or abroad, but if a series is booked with this club, it may be played at Oklahoma City.

Rochester Possible

Another club that may be brought in late in March or early in April is Rochester of the International league. This is one of the St. Louis Cardinals' subsidiaries and is training at Houston, along with the Columbus club and the Buffs. Efforts to schedule a series with the International league champions, however, have thus far been unsuccessful.

Intra-league exhibition games do not meet with the absolute approval of Secretary Airey, and he is withholding definite arrangements for a series with either Fort Worth or Dallas in the hope that he can book a sufficient number of games with outsiders. Playing early games with the rivals of the regular season dulls the interest of the fans when the real thing starts, Airey believes, and he expects to play the Steers or the Panthers only in the event that the games become extremely necessary.

Need Actual Games

All of the Spudder moguls, including President L. C. McEvoy and Manager Hank Severeid are in accord with the belief that the Spudders ought to have more preseason competition than in the past and no bets for spring games will be overlooked.

Present training plans, as announced by Airey, call for the first flock of athletes to report to Athletic park on Tuesday, March 8, the early birds including only the pitchers and the catchers, with the remainder of the squad arriving on the scene just a week later.

Severeid informed Airey in a recent letter that he planned to report a few days in advance of the first detachment of pitchers and catchers and to bring his family to Wichita Falls before the start of the league campaign.

President McEvoy is expected to make a brief visit to Wichita Falls immediately after the Texas league meeting late this month at Houston.

DAZZY VANCE RETURNS FIRST DODGER OFFER CALLING FOR BIG CUT

CRYSTAL RIVER, Fla., Jan. 16. (INS)—Emerging from the wilds of the Florida west coast jungle country where he is spending the winter hunting and fishing, Dazzy Vance, star Brooklyn twirler, Saturday discharged a double-barreled reply to his contract calling for a substantial salary slash.

Neither accepting nor rejecting the contract, Dazzy dazzled the boys up in Brooklyn with as tricky a statement as any of the balls he ever has thrown to confound opposing batters.

"The depression is sure on," Dazzy said with his million-dollar smile. "Few people are ever satisfied with a lower wage but I hope we'll get together before the training season opens."

And he added:

"Carey has already put me in light training."

Dazzy drew $23,000 last season. He did not reveal the amount specified in his new contract but indicated it was in line with the reduced contracts being offered all major league players.

ALEXANDER TO REMAIN WITH HOUSE OF DAVID

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Jan. 16. (AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander will play semi-pro baseball with the House of David team again next summer.

GREENS FEES REDUCED AT BOTH GOLF CLUBS; MUNY LINKS IMPROVED

The cost of golfing in 1932 will be less and the game will be better, if plans for both Wichita Falls courses are continued through the year.

The Wichita Falls Golf and Country club has announced a reduction in greens fees for non-members, and a 50-cent charge is to be made for all days, including Sundays and holidays.

Daily greens fees at the municipal course in Weeks park remain at 50 cents, but yearly memberships, entitling holders to 12 months of play from the time of joining, have been reduced to $15 each.

Improvement programs are being carried out at both courses. Bill Strachan, professional at Weeks park, is directing the smoothing of the No. 15 fairway for a distance of approximately 50 yards in front of the green. Similar improvement is being made on the No. 17 hole.

Two Leading Cage Teams Face Tests In Week's Games

First Christians Play F. H. Methodists in Tuesday's Feature Contest

The third week of play in the Sunday School Basket Ball league will find the two leading Christian teams booked against strong defensive fives in their efforts to hold their lead. The first of the three games Tuesday night is scheduled to start at 7 o'clock on the Floral Heights Presbyterian church court. In the first game the Temple Israel five take on the Highland Heights Christians. Floral Heights Methodist battle the fast stepping First Christians in the second. The nightcap will bring together East Side Presbyterian and Floral Heights Presbyterian.

The big question in the minds of the fans with this week's games is whether Temple Israel and Floral Heights Methodist can stop the two Christian teams. Floral Heights Methodist offers one of the strongest defensive teams in the loop, and may prove a tough hurdle for the First Christians.

Scoring Ace

Jim Janeway, First Christian scoring ace, continued his sensational pace in the scoring records and piled up a comfortable lead in this department. Running up a total of 49 points in two games, Janeway has put in a strong bid for first half scoring honors. Monty Griffin, a teammate, still hangs on to second rung, but now holds only a two-point margin over Creighton, Highland Heights Christian scoring ace. Griffin is far behind his teammate who holds down first place.

The sensational 18 points looped by Noel Brashear, First Christian skipper, gives him a fourth place rating, but he is closely pressed by several others which include Haley of Highland Heights, Baumgardner and Dorsey of East Side, Donnell of Floral Heights Presbyterian, and Goldstucker of Temple Israel.

Christians Lead Teams

Janeway has more than doubled his nearest rival in field goals with 23 to his credit. Creighton, Highland Heights, is second in this department with 10. While Olin Harvey was wrestling the lead in free throws from Griffin, who led the first week, Baumgardner also tied Griffin. Harvey leads with five. Baumgardner and Griffin have four each.

First Christian holds a long lead in scoring with 102 points. Highland Heights in second place has 55 while East Side Presbyterian has 53. Floral Heights Methodist presents the best defensive front of any other club with only 32 points scored against them, but the First Christians' impressive record of 102 points is balanced off with only 35 being scored against them. Temple Israel has scored the least number of points with 27, but Floral Heights Methodist is only one point better off.

CLARA TOSSERS PLAY IOWA PARK THIS WEEK

CLARA, Texas, Jan. 16.—Clara High school's Greyhounds play their fourth Wichita county conference basket ball game Tuesday night against the Iowa Park Hawks. In three previous games the Greyhounds have defeated Burkburnett, Valley View and Electra.

The girls' volley ball teams of the two schools also will clash Tuesday night.

Frogs Show True Strength in Win Over Rice Quint

Dietzel and Sumner Lead Attack as Champions Win by 47 to 22

FORT WORTH, Jan. 16. (AP)—The Texas Christian Horned Frogs revealed the championship form expected of them here Saturday night to defeat the Rice Owls, 47 to 22, in the first Southwest conference basket ball game in Fort Worth this season.

Adolp Dietzel led the attack by scoring 24 points for the champions.

Although severely handicapped by an injured hand Captain Doc Sumner aided the big center materially and counted 16 points.

The overwhelming victory over the Owls, who last week defeated A. & M., 40 to 29, was surprising inasmuch as T. C. U. looked none too good last week when the Purple dropped its first game to Baylor at Waco, 32 to 24.

The Christians took an early lead, slumped and at one time trailed, 9 to 10, but came back and led, 19 to 13 at the half. In the last 20 minutes they began to click in earnest and soon had the score doubled.

Jake Hess and Virgil Dixon played brilliantly for the Owls.

Gents Whip Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—The Centenary college cagers beat the Texas Aggies Saturday night, 43 to 26, to split a two-game series.

Centenary stepped out ahead in the opening minutes. The Aggies tied the score four times and once had a two-point advantage but the Shreveport team was back in the lead at the half, 19-14.

Captain Charley Beard, Farmer guard and Johnson, Centenary forward, tied for scoring honors with 17 points each.

Razorbacks Win

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 16. (AP)—The University of Arkansas quintet defeated the Drury college of Springfield, Mo., five, 35 to 14 in a non-conference game here Saturday night.

The playing of Kendall, Arkansas forward, was a bright spot in an otherwise drab contest.

MEMPHIS HIGH TRACK TEAM IN EARLY START

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 16.—Initial training for all those who will come out for the track team will begin the first Monday after midterm exams are taken, according to Coach Nolan Walter of Memphis High school. Training will be held each day for approximately an hour after school is dismissed.

Prospects for the team are looking bright at the present time, Coach Walter states. Most of the men who were on the 1931 team will be back and are eligible to play this year. George May will captain the team and promises to be one of the best men in this section. Last year he won first place at the district meet in the 220-yard low hurdles and went to the state meet at Austin.

Several new students have entered school and promise some good material. Most of the men who placed in the district meet are back this year. They are Tug Sanders, Charles Flannery, J. W. West and Gerald Mabry. Others who are expected to report are Laurel Davis, Roy Childress, Weldon Owens, Jiggs McMurry, A. R. Evans, Gordon Walker and Blanton Bagwell.

"I am confident that the track team will be one of the best in the history of the school," Coach Walter states. "We have good material and all the fellows are showing good spirit. It is our aim to win the district meet and send several men to Austin."

IMPORTANT GAMES IN CONFERENCE THIS WEEK

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (AP)—Invasion of Central Texas by two western teams of the Texas conference Monday and Tuesday is expected to provide an insight on the possible winner of the conference basket ball championship.

Simmons university, 1931 champion, will play Southwestern at Georgetown Monday and come to Austin the next night for a game with St. Edward's. Howard Payne will play St. Edward's here Monday night and then go to Georgetown Tuesday.

Austin college of Sherman will not start its conference season until Jan. 25.

Hamas Brings College Color to Boxing Game

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—The faithful reluctantly gave up hope for an old favorite Saturday and turned to hail the new, burly Steve Hamas, most promising of all the young heavyweights.

Only Tommy Loughran, and the staunchest of his pals, could insist Saturday that the end of the veteran's fistic road was not in sight, brought suddenly into focus by the crushing two-round technical knockout inflicted on him by Hamas in Madison Square garden Friday night.

Apparently Loughran's speed, that once dazzled the light heavyweight division and kept him out of harm's way when he graduated to the heavyweight ranks, has disappeared suddenly, almost over night.

It was Hamas Saturday who had changed the fight aspect and offered promise of a unique career. The former Penn State football star is the first college graduate ever to reach the ring prominence that such a decisive victory over Loughran brings.

A calm, quiet young man outside the ring, Hamas has all the physical requisites to carry him to the top of the heavyweight list. He is a terrific puncher with either hand, specializing on short left hooks to the head and body that have paved the way or brought about abruptly the 24 knockouts he has scored in 27 professional victories. But he will not be rushed into matches where he is outclassed.

"That was a nice victory," said his manager, Charlie Harvey. "But there's no hurry. He needs a few more semifinals before he's ready for the topnotchers."

VERNON RALLIES LATE TO DEFEAT ELECTRA'S TIGERS BY 45 TO 35

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 16.—The Vernon High school Lions maintained their perfect basket ball record by defeating the Electra dribblers, 45 to 35, here Saturday inght. The Tigers made a much better showing than in the earlier meeting of the two teams and managed to lead the invaders through half the game. After half had ended with the Tigers in front, 29 to 25, the Vernon scoring machine started functioning and gradually rolled up a substantial lead.

Four men, Jones, Lockard, Galloway and Blanton figured heavily in the Lion scoring game, while McDannald, Parr and Foy set the scoring pace for the home club.

MEL OTT FIRST GIANT HOLDOUT TO FALL INTO LINE WITH SIGNATURE

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Mel Ott, the former "boy wonder" of the New York Giants outfield, is the first of the 1932 holdouts to bounce back into line.

Ott's signed contract was received Saturday by Secretary Jim Tierney of the Giants, along with that of Carl Hubbell, one of the club's star southpaw pitchers. Ott's was mailed from his winter home at Gretna, La., Hubbell's from Meeker, Okla.

Either Ott changed his mind suddenly or had some fast successful negotiating with his owners the last few days. No later than Tuesday he was quoted as in thorough disagreement with the contract offered him and was listed with his teammates, Bill Terry and Fred Fitzsimmons, as holdouts.

While announcing the signing of Ott and Hubbell, the Giants spiked the report they were trying to trade the rebellious Terry to Chicago for Pat Malone. They still insist they will neither trade nor sell the slugging first baseman.

"What President Stoneham said about Terry still stands," said Secretary Tierney. "Either he signs at our terms or not at all. We positively will not use him in a player deal."

Play opens Monday night with two matches and extends over 21 playing days and nights, 66 games at 50 points each will be played.

C. E. PIMLOTT TURNS IN WICHITA FALLS' FIRST 300 PIN GAME

C. E. Pimlott became Wichita Falls' first "perfect bowler" Saturday afternoon when he rolled off 12 consecutive strikes for a 300 score at the Spudder bowling alleys. The feat was performed on three alleys, Nos. 1, 2 and 3, with William E. Huff acting as scorekeeper.

Three times within the past year Wichita Falls bowlers have failed in attaining a perfect game by only one strike. Malcolm Strother held the alleys records until Pimlott's performance Saturday when he followed 11 consecutive strikes with a count of nine pins in a game last spring. A few weeks ago C. E. Dietrich registered an eight-count after 11 strikes and more recently Harry Davis' effort for his 12th consecutive strike netted seven pins.

Diegel Blows Up And Chunks Away Long Early Lead

Harry Cooper Second and Gene Sarazen Third at End 54 Holes

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 16. (AP)— Big, good natured Fred Morrison, Culver City, Calif., proved Saturday he was even better in good weather than in the rain by touring the long course here in 68 to take a two stroke lead with 211 after 54 holes in the Agua Caliente $15,000 open.

Fred was dubbed "the great mudder" after he took the lead at the end of the first 18 Wednesday, playing the course in 69, three under the 72 par, in the rain. And Thursday when the weather was clear, he took a 74, to fall back into a tie for fourth place, five strokes behind Leo Diegel, the home pro who led at the halfway mark with a 138.

Cooper Second

Jumping into second place, after being tied at the halfway mark with Morrison at 143, Harry Cooper, Chicago, played the third round in 70, for a 54-hole total of 213. On his heels came Gene Sarazen, New York, who won the first Agua Caliente tournament in 1930 when it was worth $25,000.

Sarazen, who tied for second place with a 70 after the first 18 holes, and was in third spot after 36 holes with a 142, took an even par 72 Saturday for a total of 214.

The collapse of "Larrupin Leo" as a threat was a feature of the third round. After playing a marvelous 70 on the muddy first day, and a finer 68 on the sunny second, Diegel hooked and miss-putted his way to a 78 stroke blow-up, to fall into a tie with Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Calif., in fourth place, five strokes behind Morrison.

Goggin Coming Strong

One stroke behind Olin and Leo, was Charley Guest, a good second to Diegel at the halfway mark, Paul Runyon, the young professional from White Plains, N. Y., who cracked out a 68 on the second day, and Willie Goggin, Lake Tahoe, Calif., who is getting better as the tournament goes on, each with a 217 stroke 54-hole total.

Of the young Texans in the tournament, Ben Hogan, Fort Worth, Dick Metz, San Angelo, and Ray Mangrum, now Los Angeles, but late of Waco, Texas, Hogan led with a 221, Metz was second with 224 and Mangrum last with 227.

Professionals with 238 or better for the total holes played qualified for the final round of 18 holes Sunday along with all remaining amateurs.

Dick Metz, San Anegelo, Texas, 151-73—224.

Tony Butler, Corpus Christi, Texas, 154-78—232.

FRED HARLOW PACES NATION'S TRAPS ACES

VANDALIA, Ohio, Jan. 16. (AP)—High average trapshooting honors for the United States, Canada and the Canal Zone go to Fred Harlow, of Newark, Ohio, according to official averages for 1931.

Here at the permanent home of trapshooting, a score or more of statisticians have been pondering over figures since the first of the year. They computed something like 10,000,000 rounds fired at registered clay targets during last year. They completed their work Saturday.

Harlow had a mark of .9916 on 600 single targets.

E. F. Woodward, Houston, Texas, the high average winner in 1930, led the 2,000 to 3,000 target division with .9881 on 2,200 targets.

The women have a new leader this year in Mrs. N. V. Pillot, Houston, Texas, who had .9316 on 600 targets. She also led in the 500 to 1,000 division.

Miss Leonie Boutall of Houston, Texas, was second with .9091 in the 2,000 to 3,000 division.

NOCONA INDIANS WIN OVER BOWIE PASSERS

NOCONA, Texas, Jan. 16.—The Nocona High school Indians defeated the Bowie Jackrabbits here Friday night, 23 to 17, in the first game of a series of three for the class A championship of Montague county. The next game will be played at Bowie Jan. 29. Wall for Nocona was high point scorer, with 12. Willett for Bowie scored six.

The lineups: Nocona, Howard and Fenoglio, forwards; Wall, center; Williams and Haralson, guards. Bowie, Overstreet, Knightstep and Riley, forwards; Willett, center; Latham and Murphy, guards.

KNOX TEST IN SOUTH YOUNG COUNTY MAKES GOOD SHOWING

Test Seven Miles Northeast Graham Tops Rich Sand Depth of 2749 Feet And Indicates Satisfactory Producer

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Progress in the development of the different pools of the Wichita Falls district in the past week was marked by several interesting happenings. New locations were made, some good wells were completed and a number of tests, both in proven and wildcat areas, began drilling.

One of the notable happenings in the week's activities was the showing for a good well in the Dewey Knox and others No. 1 A. Manning test, seven miles northeast of the city of Graham in south Young county. This well, located in block 7, section 3412, T. E. & L. survey, for some time an inactive area of the county, topped a rich sand at 2749 feet. This was penetrated eight feet when the well flowed for a period of 15 minutes before being shut in. Storage tanks are being erected and until a connection has been effected no estimate of the well can be made, but from its performance it is estimated anywhere from 150 to 700 barrels.

In the shallow pools around Orth and Newcastle in the north portion of the county considerable new development is under way. This area furnished two fine producers during the week, both on the Larimore land in section 2246, T. E. L. survey, north of Newcastle. United Producers No. 4 well came in flowing from the 668-foot pay at the rate of 380 barrels. This well was offset by King Royalty company's No. 35 Larimore, which came in a few days later flowing 403 barrels from the same sand depths.

In Archer county development to the northwest of Archer City received a setback for awhile on account of the failure of Jack Storey and associates to complete a producer. This test, located in block 134, Langford land in the J. W. Harris survey, was important due to the fact of its picking up the lime at a depth of 2181 feet, about the same elevation as that at which it was found over the oil sand in the producers at Chalk Hill. This formation was cored at various depths, but failed to produce any trace of oil or gas and at a depth of 2320 feet the hole was abandoned.

Three New Deep Tests

Offsetting this failure to some extent were the staking out and spudding in of three additional deep tests on the tracts east of Archer City and in the vicinity of the Chalk hill production. Bradley and others on the Maxwell land east of town and the United Producers and the Gohlke-Petroleum Producers on the Wilson lands.

Interest in the outcome of the Brown-Lickey deep test in block 79, A. T. N. C. L. survey, four miles east of Chalk hill, is at present absorbing the interest of the fraternity in this section. The test is now drilling in a hard lime at about 1180 feet. Its location is also 400 feet south of the old Paul Traham No. 1 Coleman, which had two good sands and made shows of oil. These pays were picked up at 1400 and at 2290 feet, but, due to easing trouble the well was abandoned.

South of Archer City about eight miles in the various blocks located in the Falls county school lands several fine producers have been completed during the past few weeks. Formation in this area consists of a heavy saturated lime, which is encountered anywhere from 1100 to 1150 feet and usually a shot of nitre is given to get a response. Wells here average from 25 to 150 barrels daily.

Operations in Wichita county during the week came to an abrupt standstill, and, with the exception of a couple of shallow wells going down, and the usual cleaning out of the older wells around the Electra leases, the county was devoid of drilling. Reports from the pools of Wilbarger county show the same conditions as in the Wichita area.

Pipe line runs from the pools of the district average 47,767 barrels per day, a loss of approximately 62 barrels under the previous week's figures. These figures show the fourth successive week that losses have been reported in the district's runs, voluntary shut down of leases on Sundays and curtailment by the pipe line companies having had their effect on the output.

ONE PRODUCER REPORTED NEW DUNCAN FIELD

Several Tests Nearing Completion in Area S. W. Of City

ONE NEW LOCATION MADE DURING WEEK JUST PAST

Work Started on Two New Tests in Tatums Area Carter County

DUNCAN, Okla., Jan. 16.—The completion of a nice producer and the failure of a second promising test to make paying production marked the past week's developments in the new center of oil activity seven miles southwest of Duncan. One new location was made in the area and work was started on two new tests in the Tatums area of Carter county.

M. C. Brown and associates were drilling ahead at 1689 feet in their No. 1 Thompson, in the NE SE SW of 35-1s-8w, five miles south and two west of Duncan, after getting a showing estimated at eight barrels a day in sand from 1676 to 1679 feet.

P. L. Gilbert and associates are rigging up rotary tools for their No. 1 Green, in the SW SE NE of 2-2s-8w, after completing their No. 1 Dare, in the SW NW SE of 2-2s-8w, in sand from 1368 to 1374 feet. The well is flowing better than 100 barrels a day.

The Continental Oil company has casing cemented to test the 1360-foot sand in its No. 1 Dare, in the NE SW SE of 2-2s-8w, and completion is due this week-end. This is a south offset to the J. C. Chambers et al, No. 1 Dare, a 100-barrel producer, and an east offset to the Gilbert well.

The Chambers, Linson, Ferrel & Sullinger No. 1 Dare, in the NW SE SE of 2-2s-8w, still is a location.

The Mid-Kansas & Ramsey No. 6 Preston-Culp, in the NW NW NE of 6-5n-9w, deep test in the Cement field of Caddo county, may be nearing completion. The hole was plugged back and the casing ripped to test sand between 6085 to 6089 feet. The first test showed only a little gas and some fresh water. The second test showed 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas. The well was opened Wednesday and tested 10,000,000 cubic feet with around 1,500 pounds of rock pressure. It was permitted to blow into the air for sometime and the pressure dropped off sharply. The well continued to make fresh water. At first it was believed the water was drilling water, but there was a chance it was coming from the hole.

Deepest Hole in U. S.

The No. 6 Preston-Culp was drilled to 10,080 feet in an unsuccessful search for the Wilcox sand and was the deepest hole ever drilled in the United States.

Sturm & Gant of Ardmore are rigging up rotary tools for their No. 1 Hooks, in the southwest corner of 18-1s-2w, north offset to the Carter Oil company's No. 2 Taylor, completed two weeks ago for 1,000 barrels.

The Carter is rigging up rotary for its No. 1 Laura Lynn, in the SW SE NE of 31-1s-2w, east offset to the Frank Gouin and associates No. 1 Burton, which was completed a year ago for 103 barrels at 1970 feet to make a long southeast extension to the Tatums field. Due to the flooded condition of the oil market, the well caused but little play and resulted in the drilling of but two tests. The Carter location promises to open up the territory.

B. F. Lundy and associates still are rigging up tools for their No. 1 Morris-Luster, in the NE NW SW of 8-1s-2w, a wildcat a mile and a half northeast of the field.

The Tatums Oil company's No. 1 Carter-Hooks, in the SW SW NW of 13-1s-3w, just north of the field, still is a completed derrick and shut down.

George Pace was drilling in hard lime at 1147 feet in his No. 1 Mullins, in the center of the SW SW of 35-2s-5w, wildcat a mile northwest of Loco, in Stephens county.

H. J. Brown and associates were milling on iron, attempting to complete a fishing job on their No. 2 Hightower, in the SW SW SE SE of 15-3s-5w, in the shallow field southwest of Loco. The No. 2 Hightower has broken sand from 900 to 950 feet.

Branch & Dameron cemented 8-inch casing at 230 feet to shut off a cave in their No. 1 Dameron, in the SE SW NE of 11-3s-6w, a test of shallow levels being made in wildcat territory east and south of Comanche.

Cohen & Reece cemented 20 feet of 12-inch surface casing in their No. 1 Green, in the SE SW SW of 35-2s-9w, a test for gas six miles north and nine west of Duncan.

Joe Anderson was rigged up and shut down at his No. 2 Wild, in the NE SE SE of 28-3n-5w, in the Carter-Knox field of southern Grady county.

UPTON WELL IS BROUGHT IN AT DEPTH OF 2898

Gulf Well Flows 362 Barrels in 24 Hours After Shot of 300 Quarts

WARD WELL MAKES OIL AGAIN AFTER DEEPENING

Deep Well Will Go Down Farther in Effort to Restore Flow

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Jan. 16.—The drilling in of Gulf's No. 8 Crier-McElroy in Upton county for an estimated 300 barrels daily at 2893 feet, the recompletion of E. E. (Buck) Sturm's No. 1 Jones in Ward county for increased yield by deepening and the restoration to production of one of the world's nine deepest oil wells, in Reagan county, were among this week's oil developments in the West Texas Permian basin.

L. L. Evans, Walter Gant and Eastland Oil company's No. 2 Jeff Love in southwestern Kerr county, offering greater possibilities of production than any test yet drilled on the Edwards plateau, had filled with fluid, most of it believed to be oil, to a depth of 5,100 feet when 5 3-16-inch casing was started Wednesday afternoon. The pipe was expected to shut off six bailers of water daily which was being carried from 3265-85 feet when the oil was struck Jan. 7 from 5835-37 feet. The oil tested 32.7 gravity and was accompanied by little gas. Samples of the formation in which the oil was struck had not been obtained due to cavings but was thought likely to be the Ellenberger of Ordovician age. It is from the Ordovician from which flow the world's deepest wells, in Reagan county, at depths ranging from 8525 to 8970 feet.

Stanolind Oil and Gas company's No. 1 W. H. Williams, in section 1196, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, in southeastern Irion county, which will seek the Ordovician, resumed drilling late in the week with a rotary at 6795 feet in sand and shale. The Combination rotary and cable tool rig installed since the wildcat shut down the last week in November is said to be the heaviest and most modern and complete ever used in West Texas.

Weekley Oil corporation and Casteel & McCurdy's No. 1 E. F. Cowden, Ector county wildcat gasser in section 33, block 43, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, had succeeded in recovering most of a string of fishing tools in mid-week, using a rotary. Below them are the drilling tools which were blown up the hole Dec. 13 by an increase in gas from 3795-97 feet to an estimated several million cubic feet daily. Little gas was showing while fishing was in progress. No. 1 Cowden is credited in some quarters with running high structurally. It is about eight miles northeast of the Penn pool and approximately 15 miles south of Stanolind's (formerly Southern Crude's) two producers on the Dick Cowden ranch.

Flows 362 Daily

Gulf Production company's No. 8 Crier-McElroy in Upton county flowed 362 barrels of oil the first 24 hours after it was shot with 300 quarts from 2745 to 2885 feet. Total depth was 2898 feet. The well is 2310 feet from the north and west lines of section 196, block F, C. C. S. D. & R. G. N. G. Ry. Co. survey.

Production by John F. Shipley and Byrd & Harmon's No. 1 Monroe, northwestern Ward county discovery producer, declined instead of increased after 2¼-inch upset tubing was run. During the first 24 hours the well made only 70 barrels, 85 barrels on Saturday, no oil Sunday and 80 barrels Monday. After 4½-inch casing was run recently to 4555 feet the well headed 150 to 175 barrels every three to four days behind the pipe. The casing was reset and the well began flowing through it 100 barrels every other day. No. 1 Monroe yields 32.5 gravity, sweet oil from 4666 feet, three feet in the Delaware sand. It is in section 3, block 1, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey.

It's production having dropped to 20 barrels daily, E. E. (Buck) Sturm's No. 1 Jones in section 25, block B-29, public school land, in southeastern Ward county, deepened from 2473 to 2494 feet, was shot with 40 quarts and flowed 135 barrels of oil the first 24 hours. It was to be tubed. Gulf No. 9 Hutchins, in section 5, block F, G. & M., M. B. & A. survey, was flowing 65 barrels daily before encountering a heavy gas increase in drilling to 2660 feet in lime.

Big Lake Oil company's No. 1-C university, the first of the world's deepest producers, in Reagan county, to show water, was swabbed for several days before its production was revived Tuesday. It flowed 410 barrels the first 18 hours. The well was killed Dec. 21 and plugged back from 8909 to 8715 feet, shutting off the water. Big Lake No. 2-C University, deepening from 8809 feet, had reached 8707 feet in lime. Big Lake No. 6-C University cemented at 2520 feet to sidetrack drill pipe that could not be recovered after several weeks' fishing. Its old total depth was 4810 feet in shale.

Texon No. 1-B University, the discovery deep well, drilled to 8596 feet in lime and prepared to test. After killing its flow at 8525 feet in made new hole below 8090 feet, where a whipstock was cemented, sidetracking casing that could not be recovered. Texon No. 3-B University, which began testing Jan. 5 at a record depth of 8970 feet, was averaging 2325 barrels of oil daily. Texon No. 2-B was scheduled to begin deepening from 8667 feet by the end of the week. Five of the deep wells, two of them flowing irregularly due to deepening, produced a total of 99,282 barrels during the week ending Jan. 9, a decline of 3846 barrels for the week while the other lost only 31 barrels.

Shut Down at 1347

Straughn and Adkins Bros. No. 1 Lee in section 782, C. Kaiser survey, in Irion county shut down at 1347 feet in lime with the hole full of water. In Schleicher county J. D. Wesner's No. 1 Nicks in section 77, block LL, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, had deepened from 5400 to 5470 feet in sandy shale. Eastland Oil company and others' No. 1 Tisdale, in section 29, block M, G. H. & S. A. Ry. Co. survey, was bailing at 4520 feet in shale to test a water shutoff by 6¼-inch pipe at 4511 feet.

Mintex Oil company's No. 1 Waring in Concho county resumed drilling Monday after being shut down for almost 11 months at 267 feet and had drilled to 370 feet in shale. It is in section 163, T. & N. O. Ry. Co. survey, six miles south of Eden.

B. C. Mann and Steve Currie's test on their nine-section ranch in Glasscock county, in section 27, block 34, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, was scheduled to spud late in the week. Parish & Hagerty of San Angelo will drill the wildcat for a half interest in it and the 80-acre tract on which it is located.

Orders were issued for the plugging of Penn Oil company's No. 1 Dick slaughter, central Cochran county wildcat, at 5002 feet in lime. The test struck less than a bailer of sulphur water hourly from 4917-19 feet on Dec. 19 and obtained an increase from 4982-62 feet. It had an estimated 50,000 to 100,000 cubic feet of gas daily at 4707 feet but no oil shows of consequence.

Fuhrman Petroleum corporation had completed the cellar and was digging the slush pit for No. 1 F. Boner and others in section 24, block A-43, public school land, in Andrews county. The rig at Fuhrman No. 1 Ford was being dismantled for its use. No. 1 Ford, the largest producer and highest test structurally yet drilled in Andrews county, is about one-half mile northwest of the new location.

Immediate results of the rising of oil in Evans, Gant and Eastland's No. 2 Love in southwestern Kerr county were reports that two other tests in the county, shut down for some time at shallow depths, will be deepened. Eastland Oil company will deepen the test which A. S. Mims and associates started and which Chester A. Martin drilled to 1175 feet on the J. E. Young tract, 150 feet out of the northwest corner of section 28, A. E. Burge survey, several miles north of No. 2 Love. Herbert & Halbert prepared to resume operations at their No. 1 J. D. Witt five miles south of Center Point, which spudded May 22, last year, and shut down a few days later. It is 1320 feet from the north line and 1220 feet from the west line of W. H. Hamilton survey No. 1923.

Exploration of natural resources in Coke county have turned from oil to mixing, at least temporarily, with a 200-foot test being drilled by J. C. and Rice Lynn on the H. B. Wallace place a mile and a half south of Robert Lee to determine whether gold or platinum, or both, exist in sufficient quantities to justify a shaft. These minerals were evident in samples from a test drilled in the vicinity some time ago.

Demand Increasing For Oil Products, Refiners Declare

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 16. (UP)—Demand for petroleum products is increasing, mid-continent refiners reported today.

Study of sales charts and price trends for the week revealed that the refined market has gained one of the strongest positions in several weeks. Steady reduction of production and curtailment of gasoline production by refiners were considered the moves contributing to the strengthened position.

Not only has the demand for gasoline kept up to a high level during the normally dull winter months, but orders for kerosene and distillates have increased sharply.

Field work in Oklahoma was slow this week. Only 12 new locations for wells were reported and 14 completions. Creek county had five first reports and Lincoln, Muskogee, Okmulgee, Pottawatomie, Seminole, Stephens and Tulsa counties had one each.

A ripple was caused in the production curtailment program when the Plains Petroleum company late yesterday charged that the Oklahoma proration orders were causing discrimination between the Seminole and Oklahoma City pools. The company asked that the orders be revised to permit more flow in the Oklahoma City field. Hearing was set for Jan. 26.

APPEAL ISSUED FOR PAYMENT OF SCHOOL TAXES IN WILBARGER

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 16.—In response to an appeal from City Superintendent W. T. Lofland an appeal has been issued by the Vernon Chamber of Commerce for prompt payment of taxes in order to avoid embarrassment of the public school system. An itemized statement published here reveals that only 17.3 per cent of the 1931 taxes for common schools of Wilbarger county were paid to Jan. 1, leaving 82.7 per cent unpaid.

These figures represent a drop of but 62 barrels as compared with the previous week's run. This is the fourth successive week in which losses have been registered since the voluntary Sunday closing down of leases was inaugurated. Below are the runs by pools:

TEXAS NOT GUILTY JANUARY INCREASE IN OIL PRODUCTION

Texas is not to blame for the increase in production of oil in the United States since Jan. 1, according to figures compiled and released by the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas Saturday.

During the first three weeks of the year California added to storage 323,600 barrels; Kansas added 70,350 barrels; Oklahoma added 83,150 barrels and miscellaneous fields added 38,050, making a total of 515,150 barrels.

During the same period there was withdrawn from storage in Texas 104,950 barrels; in Louisiana 66,850 barrels, and in Arkansas 77,850 barrels, making a total of 249,650.

Had other states reduced their storage during these three weeks in the same proportion as Texas, the net reduction for the United States would have been 286,000 barrels, instead of the 265,500-barrel increase, according to the figures released.

TEST GOES DOWN TO 700 FEET IN ARDMORE SECTION

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 16.—The Schermerhorn-Ardmore company was testing a showing of oil in sand topped at 615 feet and drilled through at 700 feet in No. 1 Bourland-Howard, in the northeast of the northwest of the southwest of 1-6s-1e, shallow test on the north edge of Love county and about two miles southeast of the old Brock field in south Carter county. Total depth is 750 feet in sandy shale. Operators set 6⅝-inch casing on top of the sand.

The Carter Oil company was building derrick for No. 1 Laura Lynn, in the center of the southwest of the southeast of the northeast of 31-1s-2w, about two miles southeast of the Tatum field in northwestern Carter county. This is a direct east offset to the Frank Gouin et al No. 1 Burtin, completed early last year for around 100 barrels.

TETRAZZINA WHOSE DEBUT AS LUCIA DAZZLED OPERA LOVERS TAKES TURN WITH ACROBATS

BOSTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—Luisa Tetrazzini, whose debut as Lucia in Hammerstein's Manhattan opera house dazzled a nation, whose farewell operatic appearance with Caruso, Louise Homer, and Renand moved admirers to tears, made her debut here last night as an "added attraction" in a "four-a-day" talkie house.

Mme Tetrazzini

The songbird of Florence, who once wrote that her voice had earned her $5,000,000 as a contemporary of Melba and Sembrich, took her turn with the acrobats, wisecrackers and "ho-de-ho" singers playing for the applause of the galleries that once threw grape fruit at Rudy Vallee.

Madame Tetrazzini, now 60, short, fat, jolly and lovable as ever, stood in the wings as the management announced it took "pride and pleasure in announcing the engagement extraordinary."

Th "grand orchestra" played Garibaldi's rousing hymn, swung into the rousing march from Aida and started the opening strains of "Cara Nome," coloratura favorite from Rigoletto.

The black curtains parted. The spotlight framed the figure of the singer on a little white raised step beside an inconspicuous piano.

Tetrazzini's girl-like soprano that once could take altissimo F, the F above high C, thrilled with the first strains of the old favorite she had sung hundreds of times.

Generous Applause

Last night she, whose memory has been her pride, kept her eyes downcast as she stared at a trembling bit of paper on which the familiar song was written. There was abundant applause as she finished the first song.

The orchestra played "The Last Rose of Summer" and Tetrazzini's voice gave proof of her returning confidence. She sang the words: "All her lovely companions have faded and gone."

Her hearers noted the catch in the famous star's voice. And some revived the memories of her quarter century on the stage.

They recalled her debut in "T-Africaine" in Florence when she was 16 years old. A few years later critics were calling her the successor to Patti. She came to America in 1917.

She was "discovered" then by William H. Leahy in the old Tivoli opera house in San Francisco. She went to New York.

Caruso, Madame Tterazzini said a few weeks ago when she returned to this country, once asked her to marry—she who later tried a marriage with a man 20 years her junior.

"See," she said, "here are his cuff links, his watch and chain, his scarf pin that I wear in his memory."

Maybe she wore Caruso mementos last night. But the crowd drawn by the mixed appeal of an acrobat act, a talkie, a comedian and a singer who offered them literally a "voice from the past," saw only the myriad of brilliant sequins that sparkled in the limelight on the gown of an opera star turned trouper

TEST WELLS OF SOONER STATE IN OLD AREAS

Twelve First Reports Give Promising Aspect in Eight Counties

FIVE OF FIRST ARE FROM CREEK COUNTY

33,480 Barrels Initial in Seven of Nine New Producers

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 16.—Twelve first reports came from eight Oklahoma oil counties during the fiscal week just ended and most of the new test wells are to be in old, or replay areas of the Sooner state, and which has been given a promising aspect because of the intensive geophysical geological study mid-continent oil firms have made the last year.

Five of the new first reports were from Creek county, one of the most active of Oklahoma counties, and where from five to seven sands may be tested for both gas and oil, and near pipe lines and refineries. Three are semiwildcats, supposedly on seismograph highs.

There were 14 completions in the state, nine producers, seven making 33,480 barrels initial and two gas wells adding 13,000,000 cubic feet to the total gas supply of the state. Failures totaled five.

The first reports follow:

Creek County—Tul sa Oil company's No. 2 Flinchum, in the southwest of the southeast of the southwest of 11-19-9e; J. R. Allen and others No. 1 Folsom, in the southwest of 32-17-11e; Bryan Petroleum company and others' No. 1 Fulsom, in the northwest of the northeast of the southeast of 32-17-11e; Willrough Oil company's No. 1 Stewart (OWD), in the southwest corner of the northwest of the northeast of 32-17-12e, and E. Shamblin and others' No. 1 Wilson, in the southeast corner of the northeast of the northeast of 21-15-6e.

Lincoln County—Atlantic Oil Producing company's No. 1 Beebe, in the northeast of the southwest of the southwest of 8-13-6e.

Muskogee County—Taylor & Geiger No. 1 Tucker, in the southeast corner of the northeast of the northwest of 15-15-15e.

Okmulgee County—W. B. Pine's No. 1 Bradford (OWD), in the northeast corner of the northwest of the southeast of the northeast of 1-12-13e.

Pottawatomie County—Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation's No. 3 Archer, in the southwest of the southeast of the southeast of 14-6-3e.

Seminole County—Tulsa Oil company's No. 1 Samele, in the northeast of the southwest of the northeast of 30-7-8e.

Stephens County—Centenial Oil company's No. 1 Dare, in the northeast of the southwest of the southeast of 2-2s-8w.

Tulsa County—A. D. MacDonald and others' No. 2 Wolfe, in the center of the west line of the southwest of the northeast of 24-16-13e.

New Oil Wells

"A PENNY saved as a penny got," which is probably the most widely known observation ever made upon the subject of thrift.

A modern substitute for this maxim would be simply this:

"Watch the Bargains in the Classified Columns of THIS newspaper, The Daily Times-Record News Classified Section DAILY."

That means—instead of a penny—many dollars saved in buying the things that you and your family need. Many people are offering January clearance bargains NOW! They have cut the prices on whatever they are offering, in fact they have cut them to the core—you'll find the month's BEST THRIFT OFFERS of these advertisers listed under—

TIMES' MARKET REPORT

PROFIT-TAKING AND SHORT SELLING PUT PRICE STOCKS DOWN

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—A combination of profit taking and short selling, based on the theory that the market was entitled to a rest after its exertions of the last 10 days, gave stock prices a setback today.

Reactions of 1 to 2 points were numerous in principal issues, but the trading was dull. Bonds eased, U. S. governments working lower, although their decline flattened out. The boost in wheat and corn quotations came too late to find reflection in the security markets.

With the reconstruction finance corporation measure on the way to conference after its passage by both houses of congress, speculative quarters doubtless thought much of the good news on the current budget was out of the way and that realizing on recent gains was in order. This view received support from the prospects that the railroad wage and employment negotiations might be prolonged for some little time and that therefore the prospects of an immediate stimulus were rather dull. There also may have been some nervousness over the strength of foreign exchanges, especially the franc, in terms of the American dollar.

Whatever the prospects for a mild inflation in this country may be, some bankers believe the rise on continental currencies reflects anxiety abroad in that connection, for Europe, remembering her own experiences, clearly associates inflation with currency depreciation. Gold shipments are being rushed to France, which has balances well over half a billion dollars here, but it has been repeatedly pointed out in high banking circles here that all of this sum could be repatriated without seriously affecting the position of the United States. It is not expected any outward movement will approximate the "run" experienced last fall when about three quarters of a billion in gold was exported in six weeks.

Wall street heard reports of a new bull pool in wheat which, it was said, might prove stimulating to other grains, thus laying the foundation for stronger commodity quotations generally. It is well recognized that no recovery which does not embrace the staples can hope to go very far, although the dangers in artificial stimulation were manifest.

Stocks were lower throughout the session. Rails appeared to be disappointed by the prospective length of the Chicago conversations, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific losing a couple of points. American Telephone, maintenance of whose $9 dividend rate is still being questioned by the sceptical, dropped 2 but reduced the lost to a fraction. U. S. Steel, American Can, General Electric, Allied Chemical, General Motors and Du Point were down in the neighborhood of a point. American Tobacco "B" and Woolworth lost slightly more. Case was firm. American Sugar declined 3 to a record low. Transfers totaled 731,615 shares.

ABRUPT ADVANCES IN GRAIN FOLLOW REPORTS OF POOL

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (AP)—Abrupt advances of more than 3 cents in wheat and 2 cents in corn today accompanied reports of a big pool formed to buy commodities. Houses with eastern connections purchased wheat future delivery contracts on a large scale and hoisted values to the topmost point since the middle of December. The basis given for these operations was belief that adoption of credit relief and other constructive measures at Washington would stimulate general buying of commodities as well as of securities.

Wheat closed bouyant at the highest level reached, 1⅞@2⅜c above yesterday's finish, corn 1⅝@2⅜c advanced, and provisions showing 5@10 cents gain.

Corn showed almost as much strength as wheat. Numerous stop-loss orders for previous speculative sellers of corn were forced into execution. Oats followed wheat and corn.

Provisions responded to grain price advances and to a decrease in stocks of lard here.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May 57⅞@57⅝c, 61⅛c; July 56⅝c, 59⅝c; Sept. 57⅝c, bids. Corn—March 41⅛c, offers; May 41⅛c, 43½@43⅝c; July 42½c, 45c.

PRICES LOSE PART OF GAINS ON CURB SATURDAY TRADING

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Week-end profit-taking whittled down some of the week's gains on the curb market today but generally the tone was steady. Net changes in active issues ruled small. Trading was dull and the two business hours witnessed the transfer of only about 130,000 shares.

Utilities, which had been in the van of the rise, gave up a little ground on realizing sales. Electric Bond & Share, United Light "A," American Gas, Middle West and St. Regis Paper lost minor fractions on the day. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore strengthened more than a point and inactive and New England Telephone was up 8.

Specialties were generally firm. Deere backed up a little until the last few minutes when it met new support and gained half a point net. Glen Alden and Mead Johnson also firmed. Celanese preferred jumped 14 points, but New York Steam was off about 3.

Oils traded quietly and were somewhat irregular. Gulf's loss of a point was exceeded by Nebraska Standard, while Standard of Ohio rallied 4. Indiana, Kentucky and International Petroleum were steady.

There was little activity among the investment trusts.

RALLIES FOLLOW IRREGULAR PRICES IN COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—An irregular opening in cotton today was followed by rallies on a renewal of trade buying and covering, promoted by reports of a firm basis in the South and a rally in wheat.

March contracts, after selling off from 6.71 to 6.66 during the early trading advanced to 6.74 and closed at 6.73. The general market closed very steady at a net decline of 3 points on October but generally 1 to 6 points higher on active positions.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 1 point. Orders seemed to be pretty evenly divided, but there was some trade price fixing in the near months, while the relatively easy showing of the later deliveries was attributed to some southern selling and liquidation.

The trade demand seemed less active than recently and prices worked off during the middle of the morning under moderate offerings which probably included some realizing or liquidation and local selling on the easier tone of the stock market.

May sold off to 6.81 while July declined from 7.04 to 6.98, making net losses of about 2 to 8 points on the active positions, but the offerings were not heavy, and prices rallied in the late trading on covering or rebuying by some of the early sellers. There was some further demand from the trade. May rallied to 6.89 and July to 7.05 and closing prices were within a point or two of the best.

The rally late in the morning was accompanied by reports of a firm spot basis in some of the eastern belt markets, and may have been encouraged by the rally in the grain market, there was comment on reports of large sales in the cotton goods market, particularly of print cloth constructions during the week, but the day's fluctuations seemed to be largely a result of technical readjustments for the week-end, except for the moderate southern selling trade demand.

Liverpool cables said that trade calling in that market had been supplied by hedge selling and liquidation but reported improved cloth and yarn sales to the British home trade. Cotton on shipboard at U. S. ports awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 216,000 bales against 108,000 last year.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16. (AP)—The cotton market after a quiet start and an early decline of 5 to 7 points due to unfavorable cables and easier opening of the stock market became fairly active in the last part of the short Saturday session and prices rallied 10 to 12 points from the lows owing to shorts covering for over the week-end and a rally in stocks in the closing hour. The close was firm and at the top showing net gains for the day of 3 to 10 points.

The market opened steady although Liverpool cables came in lower than due on steadier sterling. Private cables stated that there was hedge selling and liquidation. Manchester cabled that there were improved sales of cloth to the local trade.

The market continued firm to the end and closed practically at the top and March and May showed net gains of 5 points for the day and July net gain of 3 points.

FRACTIONAL LOSS BOND QUOTATIONS IN BRIEF SESSION

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—The bond market relaxed today in a short session that was marked principally by its dullness.

For the first time in about two weeks the average for 60 corporate securities registered a net fractional loss. The total sales were $6,757,000, around $3,000,000 below last Saturday's aggregate.

United States government obligations closed only slightly slower than on the preceding day. Treasury 4s and 3½s even registered slight gains.

Activity in the rail loans slackened perceptibly and the average for 20 of the principal carrier lines sagged 2-10 of a point. In the majority of these mortgages, however, offerings dwindled at lower levels and most of the losses were extremely small.

Erratic tendencies of bonds sold "at the market" were shown by Chicago & Northwestern Debenture 5s, which advanced 18 points on a single trade, and Illinois Central 3½s, St. Louis division, which dropped 22 points on the sale of one bond.

Industrial issues held their own and were a shade higher, but the utilities softened along with the rails. Price changes, however, were unimportant.

Foreign loans were generally higher. British 5½s gained a point, German government 7s were up 1¼ and the 5s were unchanged. Japanese government and corporate issues advanced from ¼ to 5 points. South Americans were firm, loans of Chile and Uruguay gaining substantially.

GRAHAM MAN HELD ON MURDER CHARGE BRIDGEPORT, CONN.

Frank Crutchfield Bound Over to Face Trial For Slaying

VICTIM FOUND FATALLY BEATEN IN ROAD CAMP

Accused Admits Trouble But Denies Violence In Argument

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 16.—Alleged to have fatally beaten James Shea, 47, of Waterbury in a New Year's eve brawl, Frank Crutchfield, 26, of Graham, Texas, was bound over to the superior court today on a murder charge—Crutchfield has been head boss at a railroad camp here since coming from Texas two months ago and Shea was an occasional worker.

Shea was found unconscious in an unused section of the camp and according to the ambulance surgeon had been attacked two days previously. His skull was fractured but he regained consciousness and identified Crutchfield as his assailant. He died Jan. 6. Crutchfield admits trouble with Shea but denies there was any violence. The coroner found him criminally responsible.

Born in Graham

GRAHAM, Texas, Jan. 16.—Frank Crutchfield, reported held in Bridgeport, Conn., on a charge of murder, was born in Graham, attended public schools here and was a resident of this section until about two years ago.

His mother, Mrs. John Crutchfield is still a resident of this city.

TWO HUNDRED HELD FOR ASSASSINATION PLOT IN PORTUGAL

LISBON, Portugal, Jan. 16. (AP)—Two hundred persons, including a number of low ranking army officers, were arrested today in connection with what was described as a plot to assassinate President Carmona and his minister of finance.

A former priest named Fusrec was said to be the leader of the plot. He was one of those arrested.

Police said they had found him in the home of a high government official talking about plans to kill the president and Antonio Oliveiva Salazar, the finance minister.

Last summer there was a brief rebellion in Lisbon and loyal troops had to turn their guns on a band of rebels in the village of Caneze, where they had fled after their movement had failed in the capital.

About 40 persons were killed and 200 or more were wounded in the bombardment. Subsequently there were numerous arrests.

Two weeks ago there were 200 arrests in Oporto and police seized large quantities of arms and ammunition which was to have been used, they said, in a revolutionary movement.

FIVE NATIONAL GUARD UNITS SPEND $4,000 TO ESTABLISH ARMY POST ON SCOTT AVENUE

An army post is being established here by five local national guard units which have leased for three years the square block of ground owned by the Axtell company on Scott avenue, one block north of the bridge over the Wichita river.

More than $4,000 is being spent to put the buildings and property in shape for occupancy by the militia units.

The post has not yet been named but will probably be commanded by Lieut. Col. H. J. Weiler of the 131st field artillery, who is the ranking national guard officer in this city.

The large warehouse building of the Axtell company will be used as an indoor drill ground. On the second floor storerooms have been built for the various units and downstairs there are locker rooms for each outfit. Orderly rooms have also been constructed.

The brick store building facing Scott avenue is to be converted into an officers' clubroom. Stables have already been constructed for the 45 mounts of the field artillery.

There is a half block of open ground included in the property for outdoor drill grounds and this will be illuminated by floodlights for use as a night drill ground.

The five units here and their commanding officers are as follows: Company L, 142nd infantry, Capt. Joe Steinkoenig; company M, 142nd infantry, Capt. W. V. Harber; headquarters company, 3rd battalion, 142nd infantry, First Lieut. J. R. Julluson; battery D, 131st field artillery, Capt. Otis E. Nelson; headquarters battery, 131st field artillery, Capt. Winthrop H. Rogers.

Every room has been repapered in a cheerful style, and the new finishings add much to the spirit of the quarters. Additional light is provided by the improvement.

NORTH TEXAS BUILDING and LOAN ASSOCIATION

An International Institution

Concentrating the Savings and Investments of Members at Home and Abroad for the Development of

Northwest Texas

IN THE LAST 10 YEARS, NORTHWEST TEXAS HAS HAD THE GREATEST GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT OF ANY AREA IN THE UNITED STATES OF COMPARABLE SIZE

North Texas Building & Loan Investment Shares have the widest possible distribution. Only approximately one-third of its investment stockholders reside in Wichita Falls trade territory. Every state in the union and thirty-six foreign countries are represented on our books.

Loans were made only on choice residence property in substantial, growing Northwest Texas "key" cities, where property values were established on a sound basis and the future well assured. In selecting these cities for our loan field, a careful surevy was made with especial attention given as to location, trade territory, natural resources and future possibilities.

We point with pride to the quality of our loans and to the splendid repayment record of our hundreds of borrowers who have financed their homes through this institution. In a single section of Northwest Texas, where we have approximately $750,000.00 loaned, representing over one-fourth of the association's real estate loans, the association does not own one piece of foreclosed real estate.

IN THE 17 CITIES REPRESENTING OUR LOAN FIELD, WE HAVE 1,447 LOANS IN FORCE, AVERAGING $1,998.76 WHICH IS 46.3 PER CENT OF THE APPRAISED VALUE OF OUR SECURITY

Aggregate Population of Above 17 Cities

1920 Census	108,326
1930 Census	242,818

Property Value of Above 17 Cities

1920	$149,254,795.00
1930	$344,441,246.00

North Texas Building and Loan Association Assets

1923	$19,439.38
1932	$3,374,950.64

Reserves (for Possible Losses)

1923	$97.19
1932	$144,750.02
Increased During the Year 1931	$126,803.70

1931 Borrowed Money	$310,000.00
1932 Borrowed Money	None

The thousands of shareholders of this institution and its steady advancement is evidence of the confidence reposed in the integrity and sound business judgment of the men who direct its affairs. Without waiting until necessity required such action, the officers and board of directors of this association enforced the strictest economy in its operation.

The administrative expenses for the year 1930 were reduced 29.5 per cent over the year 1929 and further reduced in 1931 over the year 1930, 18.5 per cent, showing a total reduction in administrative expense of 42.5 per cent over a period of two years; 35.28 per cent reduction being shown in salaries. Stockholders of this association will observe that the greatest reduction in administrative expenses were made in the early part of this present business decline. Further reductions were made later, although the margin for decreases was somewhat smaller, and requirements upon the personnel of the organization greater.

Foreclosed real estate in the amount of $393,365.69 on December 31, 1931 (representing 166 pieces of improved property at an average investment of $2,370.28 and being the amount due the Association at the time of foreclosure) was handled at a net expense of 1.79 per cent.

The above taken from secretary's annual report to the stockholders of the North Texas Building and Loan Association.
